Warning system scheduled for test

City officials have planned a test of the emergency warning system for Monday afternoon. Sirens in various parts of the city will sound at noon for a test. The system is used as a warning in case of severe storm conditions or tornado sightings.

Board members to update skills

There will be tougher educational requirements for trustees beginning next year. Howard College President Bob Riley said at a special meeting Thursday in Riley's home. Trustees must understand details about issues such as budgeting and board operations under new state mandates, Riley said. Board members and their wives discussed plans to attend a conference Oct. 10-13 in Baltimore which focuses on trustee education. Other business included Riley's report of the college's first summer session registration. There are 928 students registered, a record-breaking number, Riley said. More than 200 of those are signed up for the fitness center program, he added.

Riley said he expects about 2,600 students to register in the fall.

With the student population growth, he said, there is a need for more faculty members. He said there would be 11 new positions on the Big Spring and San Angelo campuses.

"In budgeting this year, we're going to put our money into people and programs," he said.

He announced plans to hire two former Concho Career Institute employees on a trial basis if they can recruit students.

The two would work with programs in auto body repair and diesel engine repair. He said the two instructors left Concho when it filed Chapter 11 and closed temporarily early in the week.

Riley noted that the new residence halls are at 100 percent occupancy for the fall semester, and on-campus housing overall is at 90 percent occupancy.

About 50 attend repeat meeting

About 50 people attended the repeat session of an informational meeting Thursday night to discuss the city's planned economic development corporation.

Wayne Moore, executive director of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, said both the morning and the evening session of the meeting at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum ran smoothly. About 65 people, including several City Council members, listened to presentations by two economic development experts at the morning session, and another 48 attended the presentation in the evening, Moore said.

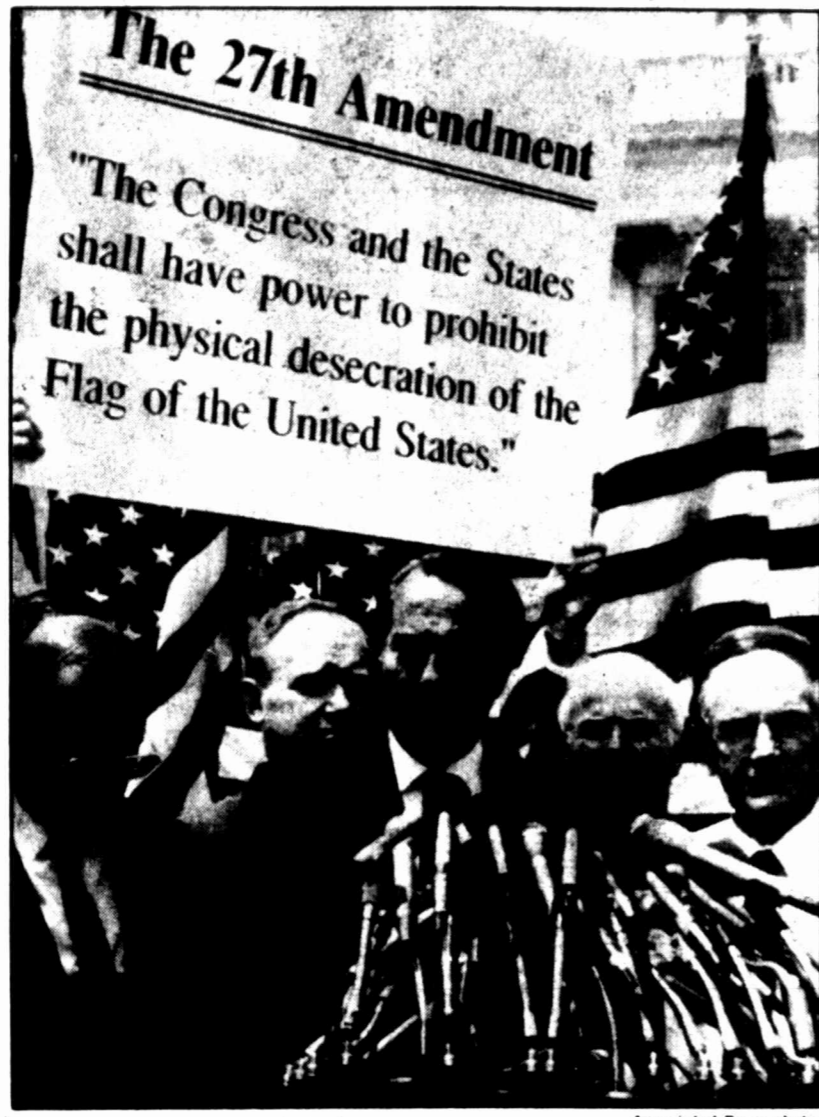

"I think they all went well, Moore said. "The material presented... I think that was good discussion."

The chamber has planned a second informational meeting for June 21 that will focus on the needs and priorities of the corporation. Moore said the meeting should give residents a good idea of what kinds of industry will best fit Big Spring. The meeting will be presented in a morning session, he said, then repeated in the evening.

Drinks to be sold at Sea World

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements on Thursday signed into law a bill that would legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages at Sea World of Texas in San Antonio.

The new measure exempts the 255-acre marine park from a state law that prohibits breweries from retailing alcoholic beverages.

Legislators quarrel over pace of flag amendment

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Critics of a proposed constitutional amendment against burning the American flag claim it is being rushed through as ammunition for fall campaigns, but sponsors say it should move faster.

"Everybody seems to understand that we have to get this done before the elections in November," Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said Thursday. "You don't have to be a rocket scientist to see what's driving this thing."

The comment came as part of an outpouring of Flag Day rhetoric in Congress that focused on the amendment to allow the federal government and the states to ban burning or otherwise defacing the American flag.

Beyond Washington, the flag marked its birthday by being raised, praised, frozen and burned as the debate over the national symbol rolled across America.

"Make Our Day — Try And Burn These Flags, Pinkos," read the sign in a Chicago parade. Elsewhere in the city, that's just what some of them did. Members of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade burned flags outside the Art Institute, where an exhibit was shut down last year because of its controversial depiction of the flag.

In Vermont, the state archivist suggested another amendment to protect the flag. Gregory Sanford said the very federal law that says how many stars and stripes must be on the flag should be amended to require that the flag be made out of fireproof material. That way if a flag catches fire, it's not a real one and doesn't count, he said.

"Everybody seems to understand that we have to get this done before the elections in November. You don't have to be a rocket scientist to see what's driving this thing." — Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.

A California peace activist froze a flag in a cake tin and displayed it to reporters as he called for a freeze in nuclear weapons. "I'm really burned up about this flag amendment," said Jerry Rubin, who is not related to the more famous activist of the same name.

In Pittsburgh, the observance was traditional as Boy Scouts sang "America The Beautiful," raised a flag and rang a replica of the Liberty Bell.

A 5-4 Supreme Court decision Monday scrapped last year's statutory ban on flag burning, setting the stage for the drive to amend the Constitution.

The proposed amendment could be on the House floor as early as next week.

The Senate Judiciary Committee plans hearings next week and sponsors say a floor vote could come before the Fourth of July, although that is not certain.

To become part of the Constitution, the measure would have to get two-thirds support in both the House and Senate and win ratification by 38 state legislatures.

Flag Day furnished lawmakers with an occasion to give full vent to their views on the highly charged issue.

Far from rushing the measure, the Senate is moving too slowly, said Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

"We've already had hearings, we've been down that route, we don't need any more hearings, we ought to bring the bill to the floor... let's have a vote," Dole said.

He served as master of ceremonies for a rally at which veterans in American Legion caps along with tourists wearing cameras on straps swarmed over

Computer problems increase budget

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District board of directors submitted a 1991 budget Wednesday that totaled $398,270.

The new budget is a $28,605 or a 7.7 percent increase over last year. Almost two-thirds of it is related to problems with the district's computer system.

The budget will now be submitted to the eight taxing districts for approval by Sept. 15.

Board members agreed to set aside $20,000 for a glitch in the computer system which could force the district to purchase a new computer program.

That money was going to be used to contract with an Austin firm to appraise personal property values, but Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire said they now will handle appraisal of those values. The firm charged $12,000 this year.

Woodall announces pending retirement

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Staff Writer

Dr. Jack Woodall, acting director of the Big Spring and Howard County Health Department, and local pediatrician since 1940, has said he will retire effective September 1.

For the past 10 years, Woodall has held the department post. He has had the responsibility for supervision of all department's services and required reporting to the state, as well as seeing patients.

Woodall said he is pleased to have seen growth in the type and number of services the department can offer.

"The public health system is gradually expanding," Woodall said. "I think we're going to see a continuation of that growth."

New programs like WIC (Women Infants and Children), widely used by the area's needy, operate in conjunction with the public health services, as does the Texas Department of Rehabilitation.

A dental clinic utilizes local doctors who donate their time to see indigent patients. A pre-natal clinic, held in conjunction with Scenic Mountain Medical Center, advises young mothers who cannot afford regular doctor visits.

Besides a number of services for the poor, the public health department functions in an advisory capacity in many situations, Woodall said. It responds in emergencies such as the recent measles epidemic, he said.

A native of Dallas, Woodall got his medical degree at Baylor Medical School of Dallas in 1936. After several years of residency, he began a private pediatric practice in Big Spring in 1940.

Accepting the part-time work with the health department in 1980 was a form of retirement, Woodall said.

"I wanted something to do that was not full time, but was good

BSISD to buy video equipment

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Staff Writer

The ordering of video equipment for the athletic department became the subject of lengthy discussion by the Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees in their regular meeting Thursday.

Assistant Superintendent Ronald D. Plumlee discussed the recommended bid for the equipment, received from Sports-Tech International. A video analysis system, handheld remotes, a color projector, a camera and VHS tapes would cost $13,847, he said.

Superintendent Bill McQueary said this morning the proposal resulted from discussion at a meeting of Athletic District 3-4A, which includes Big Spring and several other area cities. The suggestion was made to change from 16 millimeter film to video tape for recording athletic events to be analyzed by coaches and players.

The video system is considered to be a more sophisticated way to look at individual and team performance, McQueary said.

"The proposal was widely debated at the time," McQueary said. "The total vote as a district was four for to three against, including us. We wanted to wait, look into it more. We wanted not to impact the budget."

At the board meeting, trustee Ford Farris said he felt as though the board was not given a choice in the matter of whether or not to approve the proposal. He said he disapproved of the way the situation was handled.

McQueary said the board had the option to reject the proposal in favor of continuing to use the current system. Farris, Viola Barraza and Don Baker voted against the proposal, which passed in a 4-to-3 vote.

McQueary said this morning that the system would be useful in other departments within the school district such as girls athletics and the marching band, where analysis is helpful.

Other agenda items considered by the board:

Death ruled homicide

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

An autopsy has determined that Richard Lauderdale was stabbed to death, and police say they are investigating the incident as a homicide.

Justice of the Peace China Long said she received results from an autopsy performed Thursday in Dallas, and has issued a ruling on the cause of death.

"I received a preliminary report and what it involved was just the comment that Mr. Lauderdale died of a stab wound, a stab wound to the chest," Long said. "Based on that, my ruling is that this is a homicide."

Long said the preliminary report did not indicate when Lauderdale died. The Big Spring man's family reported him missing on Tuesday night. Civilian and police searches found Lauderdale's body near the southeast shore of Comanche Trail Lake just before noon Wednesday.

Police Lt. Terry Channess confirmed the results of the preliminary autopsy showing a

'Enforcer' wins jury award

HOUSTON (AP) — A jury has awarded $420,000 to a former New Jersey mob "enforcer" in the death of the man's wife who died in a traffic accident while being sent to prison.

Raymond Conti, 57, currently serving a life sentence as a habitual criminal following a 1980 conviction for attempted arson, won the award Thursday from Harris County.

Dolores Conti, 41 at the time of her death, pleaded guilty in 1984 to aggravated promotion of prostitution in Bryan and was sentenced to three years in prison.

Testimony at her trial indicated that she was the bookkeeper for a prostitution ring her husband ran from his prison cell.

Mrs. Conti was riding in a van owned by Harris County in July 1985 along with several other female inmates who were being taken to a state prison facility in Gates when the van blew a tire and ran off the road.

Tar heads to shore

GALVESTON (AP) — Tar balls from the wrecked supertanker Mega Borg were expected to wash ashore today as the Norwegian ship continued to burn and spew oil in the Gulf of Mexico, officials said.

Crews battled the ship's flames for the seventh day and attacked a 30-mile oil slick as state officials prepared to dump oil-eating bacteria on the rusty brown sheen that was spotted 25 miles from the shore.

Firefighters planned to pump oil from a leaking cargo tank later today into another tank to try and cut off the fuel source from the stubborn fire, Coast Guard Petty Officer Gene Maestas said. Previously, firefighting efforts have consisted mostly of showering water on the vessel.

"They will drop portable pumps in there (the tank) and pump the oil over the top of the vessel into the other tank through hoses," Maestas said.

The leaking tank, which has a capacity of 5.5 million gallons, contains oil and some water that is from the many fireboats trying to fight the blaze.

Water also partially filled another empty tank on the left side, and crews today also will try to pump it out today to help stabilize the Mega Borg, Maestas said. The rear section has been listing, with the left side closest to the water line.

As of this morning, the leading edge of the oil slick, which Maestas described as a "light sheen" was about 28 miles from the coast. He said there were no reports of tar balls reaching shore yet.

In another development, the worker with the Galveston Parks Board throws a blob of oil into a bucket after oil began washing ashore on the west end of the island Thursday afternoon.

Mega Borg's chief engineer told a Norwegian investigative board that one of the vessel's pumps had been leaking fuel about six hours before an explosion rocked the 886-foot ship last Friday.

In other testimony at the inquiry, which was scheduled to continue today, a Norwegian shipping inspector said some other pumps were overdue for an inspection.

"We can say the west end of Galveston is more likely to receive tar balls than other areas," Coast Guard Capt. Thomas Greene said Thursday.

Greene, the federal on-scene coordinator, added, "It's very difficult to predict where it's going to come. The currents are so variable out here. It's harder to predict than where a hurricane will hit."

Galveston City Manager Doug

Matthews blasted the Coast Guard, which earlier had said little oil would reach the coast and that it would probably wash up farther south.

"I'm totally disappointed that the Coast Guard told us not to worry on Monday," Matthews said.

Richards, Williams duel over 'missing' papers

AUSTIN (AP) — Clayton Williams' campaign is calling some "missing" Ann Richards papers Boxgate. Ms. Richards' aides call it much ado about nothing.

The first volley in this latest political skirmish was fired by the Republican's campaign, when Williams aides sought to see 23 boxes of papers Ms. Richards donated to a University of Texas library in 1983, The Dallas Morning

"Ann Richards says her life is an open book. If that's so, we don't understand why she's trying to hide 23 chapters." — Zack Dawes.

News reported Thursday.

The papers reportedly include old campaign strategies, and documentation of Ms. Richards' first year as state treasurer.

The library notified a Richards political supporter, who rushed to get the papers before anyone could see them, the Morning News said.

But the papers weren't there.

It turned out that the papers had been moved to Ms. Richards' basement in March.

Zack Dawes, Williams' campaign manager, complained Thursday that there was a "quagmire of conflicting stories" about the missing papers and demanded to see them.

"Ann Richards says her life is an open book. If that's so, we don't understand why she's trying to hide 23 chapters," Dawes said.

Ms. Richards' campaign manager, Mary Beth Rogers, said it was no big deal. She said the papers are largely inconsequential memorabilia and never were donated to the library, just stored there.

Dawes said Williams' staff believes the papers have been "sanitized" and they are now of little use in determining Ann Richards' early writings and thoughts that she's afraid may have made their way into the public domain. Everyone knows about Watergate; now we're faced with Boxgate.

Three failed banks reopen today

DALLAS (AP) — Two Austin area banks and one in North Texas which failed in the wake of loan troubles reopen today as branches of other institutions, federal regulators say.

The U.S. Office of the Comptroller of the Currency said Thursday's closures of Alliance Bank, National Association, of Austin, The Wimberley Bank, Wimberley, and Willow Bend National Bank, Plano bring Texas bank failures this year to 58, with 88 nationwide.

Alliance Bank's two offices reopen as branches of Hibernia National Bank in Texas, Pflugerville, and the sole office of Wimberley Bank becomes a branch of Ozona National Bank, Ozona, said the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which was appointed receiver for the failed institutions.

Willow Bend National's two offices will reopen as branches of Compass Bank — Plano, the FDIC said. The agency said depositors' accounts at all the failed banks automatically move to the assuming institutions.

With total assets of about $84 million, Alliance Bank was declared insolvent by the comptroller's office. The Wimberley Bank, with deposits of about $24 million, was closed by Texas Banking Commissioner Kenneth W. Littlefield.

Business

He said an examination of The Wimberley Bank late last year found losses on loans had been rising since 1987 and the shortfalls exceeded its capital accounts.

"Asset quality problems and resulting losses are attributable to unsafe and unsound lending practices of prior management, board negligence in providing adequate supervision of management and adverse economic conditions," said Littlefield.

The recent examination report also disclosed questionable loan transactions involving former management and insiders and their associates, he said.

Native Alaskans endorse sobriety

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A temperance movement is making gains in Alaska's Native communities. More than 100 villages with large Eskimo, Indian or Aleut populations have approved alcohol restrictions since 1980, when the Legislature began enacting laws letting communities ban the sale, importation or possession of alcohol. "Sobriety is not a dirty word any longer. There is a real spirit in the community that supports change," said Carla Bonney, health director for 800 Athabaskan Indians living in or near the village of Tanana, 130 miles west of Fairbanks. The state is third, behind New Hampshire and Nevada, in per-capita alcohol consumption, says the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. The institute says Alaskans drink the equivalent of 4 gallons of pure alcohol per person each year, compared with the national average of 2.88 gallons.

Noriega may get assets back

MIAMI (AP) — The government must return millions of dollars of Manuel Noriega's assets unless it can prove he obtained them illegally, a federal judge has ruled. U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler on Thursday rejected prosecutors' claims that the U.S.-ordered seizure of at least $20 million in Noriega's assets was not subject to normal legal review because it involved treaties with third countries. "The power of the executive to deal with foreign governments is unquestionably great, but it does not extend so far as to impinge on a criminal defendant's right to due process," the judge said. Hoeweler warned that if the U.S. attorney's office balks at having to prove the money was illegally obtained, he will order it released. The judge set a hearing for Wednesday. The judge said the failure of the government to justify the seizures effectively deprives Noriega of his constitutional right to counsel and protections against illegal search and seizure.

Taylor released from hospital

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Doctors at St. John's Hospital have sent Elizabeth Taylor home to recuperate after a two-month battle with illness that nearly claimed her life. The violet-eyed actress, with hair coiffed and makeup on, waved and smiled to reporters Thursday night as she drove from the hospital in a red, compact car toward her Beverly Hills home. Miss Taylor had been in St. John's since April 16. She had been in the hospital's intensive care unit for treatment of viral pneumonia. At one point in late April, her breathing was assisted by a ventilator. She first entered Daniel Freeman Marina Hospital on April 9 with a persistent fever and a sinus infection, doctors said. When her condition worsened, she was transferred to St. John's. On May 11, her doctor announce-

ELIZABETH TAYLOR said that she had developed a yeast infection of the blood and would undergo intravenous therapy.

Bush expected to veto family leave legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush will keep his pledge to veto legislation requiring employers to give workers up to three months' unpaid leave for family emergencies, his spokesman said today. The Senate gave final approval to the family leave bill in a voice vote Thursday night after brief debate. Passage, the culmination of a four-year effort by supporters, was a bit anticlimactic. Republican opponents conceded they could not defeat the House-passed bill and did not seek a recorded vote. At the White House, Bush was asked this morning during a photo session whether he would veto the legislation as the White House had threatened. Bush did not reply, but his press secretary, Marlin Fitzwater, said, "Yes," when asked the same question as reporters filed out of the photo session with Paraguay's President Andres Rodriguez. The president contends that forcing employers to provide parental leave amounts to excessive government intervention in the workplace. However, Bush says he supports the concept of voluntary parental leave. Democrats, confident that the measure is popular with voters, immediately sought to turn up the political pressure on Bush to sign the bill. Opponents said they were counting on a presidential veto and were confident they had the votes to sustain a veto in the House. The bill requires business and government employers to provide workers with up to 12 weeks of unpaid medical leave or leave for the care of a newly born or adopted child or an ill child, parent or spouse. It exempts businesses with fewer than 50 workers, and workers who are the highest-paid 10 percent within a company. Employers would have to continue health insurance benefits for those on leave and restore a returning employee to his or her previous job or an equivalent position.

Oil spill spreads to major port

BEIJING (AP) — A huge oil slick caused by the collision of two freighters has floated near the mouth of a leading northeastern port, officials said today. The 40-square-mile slick is near the Dalian port and is continuing to move east in the direction of North Korea. Zhu Li of the Dalian Marine Safety Supervision Bureau said in a telephone interview. The State Oceanography Bureau in Beijing said it was

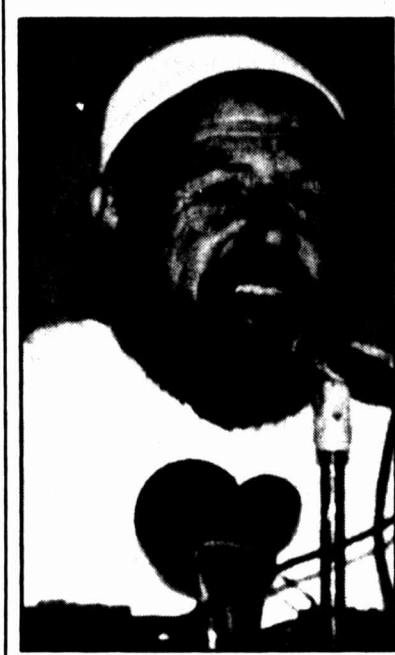

China's largest oil spill ever from an ocean vessel, but it could not assess the seriousness of the environmental damage. The spill has received little attention in the official media and there has been no outcry over responsibility. The spill was caused by the June 8 collision of two Japanese-owned freighters in the Bohai Gulf, east of Tianjin. One vessel, the Maya 8, sank and began leaking its fuel oil. It was not carrying any cargo.

Leaders ask for peacekeepers

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — Thousands of protesters chanting "Stop the Killings!" marched through the Liberian capital, and church leaders urged the United States to send a peacekeeping force to help end the 5½-month tribal war. There were no reports of major fighting between government troops and rebels, and peace talks resumed today in Freetown, Sierra Leone. The talks, which began Tuesday, are being mediated by the Liberian Council of Churches. The church leaders have been pushing both sides to agree to a cease-fire. On Wednesday, the two sides agreed to a joint statement calling for an end to indiscriminate violence. "We are appealing to the Congress, to the government and to the people of the United States of America to come to our aid," said Pentecostal Bishop W. Nah Dixon. "This is an SOS call. Save our souls." But the U.S. charge d'affaires, Dennis Jett, told the protesters that the United States was not prepared to send a peacekeeping force.

Fundamentalists score victory

SHEIKH ABASSI MADANI

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — Islamic fundamentalists who scored a surprise victory in local elections told bar owners today to curtail alcohol sales, and many Algerians abandoned Western garb for traditional dress. Hundreds of fundamentalists staged all-night celebrations in the capital, parading through the streets with banners reading "God is great" and "Islamic Republic." "The army and people are with you, Madani!" youths shouted, referring to Sheikh Abassi Madani, leader of the Islamic Salvation Front, which decisively won Tuesday's elections. It was the first free vote in Algeria since independence from France in 1962. Many men who normally wear Western clothing appeared on the streets today in the traditional floor-length shirt, or khamiss.

Your opportunity to have an impact

The citizens of this area are being given a rare opportunity to participate in planning strategy that will have a direct effect on the economic future of this area. Very few are taking advantage of this opportunity. In May, a one-half cent sales tax was approved by 1,111 voters to establish an economic development corporation to encourage the growth of new business in Howard County.

City Council members are considering questions, ideas and opinions from their constituents about the formation of this new corporation, its by-laws and its board of directors.

The Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a series of three meetings to discuss the issues, has brought in speakers to answer questions, and has made sure the meetings were accessible to all by scheduling duplicate sessions in the morning and in the evening.

About 68 people attended Thursday's morning meeting and another 48 attended the evening session. A few, perhaps 20, were present at both. The total represents a very small percentage of the number who voted for the issue's passage and an even smaller percentage of the city's population.

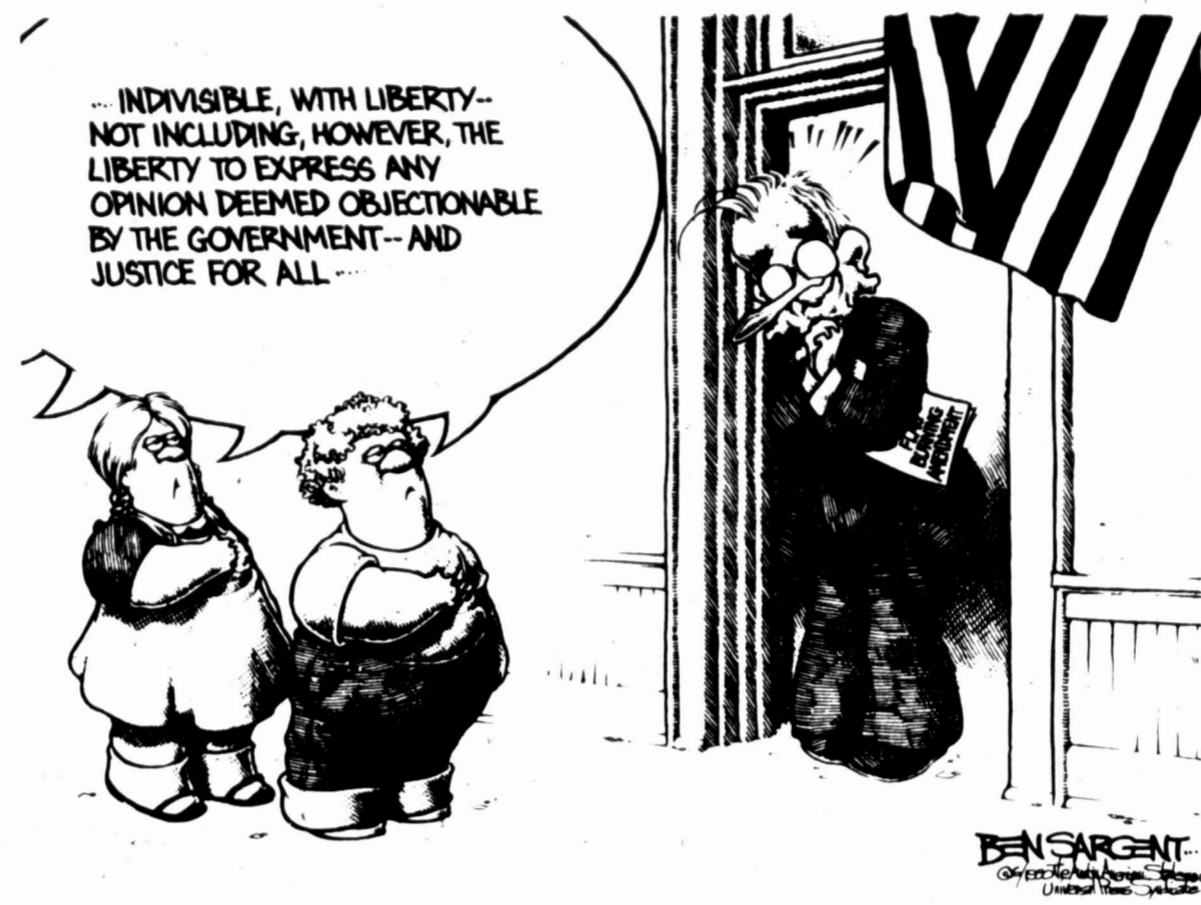

The new corporation must be fully established and functional by Oct. 1, when the new tax goes into effect. That means a great deal must be accomplished in a very short period of time.

The corporation will have approximately $700,000 per year in tax money at its disposal. Rules governing how this money will be spent are still to be formulated. Members of the corporation's board, who will have major input in economic decisions affecting the area's future for many years to come, are still to be chosen. By-laws outlining what the board can and cannot do are still to be written.

These decisions are important to everyone who lives in Howard County, not just the corps of dedicated attendees who make it a point to attend virtually all city/county meetings.

The next meeting is scheduled for June 21, again at 7-9 a.m. and 7-9 p.m. The topic for discussion is community development: what we have, what we need and what we want.

If you want a say in the economic future of your community, there is not a better time to get involved.

Nobody holds trumps forever

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Donald Trump's chief accountant, Fillmore, sat down in The Donald's plush office. "What is it this time, Filbert?" asked The Donald. "It's Fillmore," said the accountant. "Details. What do you need to see me about?" "I have some bad news for you, sir." "What is it, Philpot?" "We're out of cash, sir." "What do you mean, 'We're out of cash, sir?'" "I mean just what I said — we don't have any money." "Well, you idiot, call the bank and arrange for them to send some over." "I've already tried that, Mr. Trump. The bank won't loan us any more money until we've paid back what we already owe them." "Pay them back, Fennimore?" "Yes, sir. That's how banks make their money. They loan money to you and then you pay it back with interest." "I always wondered how that worked. Well, there's another solution. Sell off some real estate." "I'm afraid that's impossible, sir. The real estate market is very soft, and there's the matter of your pending divorce. The court would likely stop us from selling off anything until your settlement with Mrs. Trump is completed." "What else could we do?" "May I be perfectly frank, sir?" "You can be anything you want to be as long as you know the art of the deal." "What I mean, sir, is, can I be completely truthful?" "Certainly, Frank." "There's nothing you can do. You're finished. You're tapped out. It's Negative Cash Flow City." "But how could this happen?" "It was your extravagance and greed, sir." "Extravagance and greed?" "Like the time you spent — and I have the exact figures here with me — $17,478.66 to fly to Rio with Miss Maples for dinner." "That much? But we didn't even have dessert. OK, so that's a little extravagant but I've never been greedy." "I beg to differ, Mr. Trump. Remember when you tried to buy New Hampshire?" "But I've always wanted my own New England state since I was a little boy." "Yes, and if the deal had come through you were going to make everybody in New Hampshire move to Iowa so you would have some privacy." "I forgot why that deal didn't come through." "You decided to spend the money on your hotel and casino in Atlantic City." "How's that doing, Fennimore?" "Snake eyes." "No matter, Finkelstein, I've still got a good woman to stand by my side during the hard times." "Not anymore, sir." "You mean Marla has..." "Her exact words were, 'I don't do ex-billionaires.' But there is some good news, sir." "What is it, Phinezy?" "There is a concerted effort in this country to do something about the homeless. I'm certain they'll have shelter for you within the month." "I'm a street person?" "You start in the morning at 8. Goodbye, Mr. Frump." Copyright 1990 by Cowles Syndicate, Inc.

The decline of orthography

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

To judge from the flood of Horrid Examples that come from you readers, spelling is a losing art. It's not yet a lost art. A few good spellers are still around, but too many errors constantly crop up in too many newspapers.

Various theories attempt to explain the manifest decline in orthography. Some critics blame the situation on the look-and-guess method of teaching reading. Others blame television, which tends to make us a nation of viewers instead of readers. Accurate spelling is a product of memorization — of rote learning, if you please — and rote learning is out of fashion.

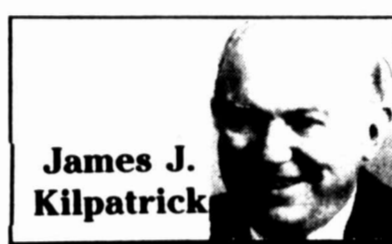

Wherever the blame may lie, it's a sorry situation. For purposes of this column, I generally discard Horrid Examples in which only a single letter is out of place. The apparent error may be only a typographical error. That charitable rule does not apply to headlines. Correct spellings for the following specimens appear in the penultimate paragraph.

A garden writer in The Chicago Tribune turned out a piece on composts. One reason for a compost pile, said the reporter, is "to help elviate the rapid buildup of waste materials at landfills."

In the Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Sun-Sentinel, a sportswriter discussed the Cubs' prospects for this season. The Cubs' manager is hoping that last year's pitching performance by Mike Bielecki "was not an apparition."

The Associated Press reviewed a study of television viewing. The 13-year survey found that the tube is addictive. Said the co-author of the study: "A viscous cycle can develop wherein viewing begets more viewing." TV watching thus appears to be not only addictive but possibly adhesive.

In Portland, Ore., basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar ducked out of an autographing session for his new book. The Oregonian reported that his premature departure left a number of fans sputtering on the sidewalk. As Abdul-Jabbar waved goodbye, the fans responded "with those colorful explicatives more appropriate to a crowd of Boston Celtic fans."

Another sports note appeared in the Bloomington, Ind., Herald-Times in April. The Indiana Pacers' Dyron Nix had been placed on the injured list in order to have "a planter's wart removed from his right foot."

In McKeesport, Pa., The Daily News provided a helpful item on how to draw a water sample for a bacterial test. One step in the process is to "flame off" the faucet with a lighter in order to kill germs "at the end of the spicket."

This was a headline some months ago in the Las Vegas Review-Journal: "Spaded and neutered beavers relocated from Denver river."

In Washington, the Vashon-Maury Island Beachcomber covered a meeting devoted to techniques for resisting illicit drugs. "Refusal skills are an integral part of the program."

The Tucson (Ariz.) Citizen qualified for this week's lousy speller award with an article on a festival at which cars were prohibited. Visitors rode to the evening's entertainment on bikes, horses, trolleys, wagons "and wheelbarrels."

In Indianapolis, according to the Star, a plaintiff won a judgment

"for tortuous interference with a contract."

Not all of my Horrid Examples come from the news columns. People who prepare advertising are notoriously poor spellers. A classified ad appeared in Editor & Publisher, of all places, in which a Florida Gulf Coast newspaper advertised for a reporter. A test of "grammar and spelling" would be required.

In Niles, Mich., a greenhouse advertised a Mother's Day sale. A thoughtful child could send Mom an "Impatient Basket" for $5 or "Creeping Flocks" at $2.50.

In its winter newsletter 18 months ago, the Alabama Farmers Federation told members how to avoid one source of household fires: "When using a kerosene heater, open a winder an inch or two to provide ventilation."

Ready for the answers? A compost pile will alleviate a problem. The pitching performance was not a ghostly apparition; neither was it a passing aberration. Except in a refinery or its equivalent, cycles are not viscous, they're vicious. The wart is a plantar wart, appearing on the sole. It's a spiget, not a spicket. Beavers are spayed, not spaded. Refusal skills play an integral part. The word is wheelbarrows, for mercy's sake! The legal offense is tortious conduct. A reporter must demonstrate a command of grammar. Mom's plants are impatient and phlox (though I'm bound to say that an impatient basket has its charms). On the open winders of rural Alabama, I yield.

How do we avoid misspellings? Let me say it once more: We must cultivate a sense of uncertainty, a feeling that a given word in our copy just doesn't look right. With that instinct and a good dictionary, writers are on their way to glory.

Desperate emigres bilked by con game

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Many would-be emigrants will do almost anything to get out of oppressive countries, and those who have money will pay almost anything. The combination of desperation and cash is like a beacon to con artists.

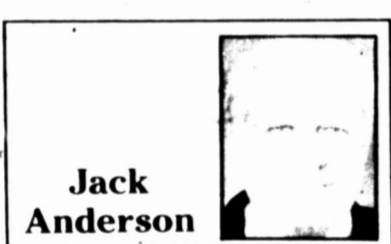

Some residents of Hong Kong were hoodwinked into buying bogus visas to non-existent islands in the Pacific. They were in a hurry to get out of Hong Kong before the Chinese government takes it over in 1997, but the only place they were taken was to the cleaners.

Some Hong Kong residents thought they had bought their way into Venezuela. But in February, Venezuela's top immigration official, Felix Arroyo, was fired after Chinese immigrants began appearing in his country carrying fake visas with his signature on them. According to local police, more than 1,000 people had bought fraudulent visas for nearly $10,000 each through the Venezuelan consul in Hong Kong.

The immigrants are now being detained in Venezuela as the investigation into the multimillion-dollar racket continues. Sources tell us that Arroyo was the second Venezuelan immigration chief fired for falsifying documents.

Venezuela isn't the only place with a visa problem. Last year, authorities in Paraguay issued arrest warrants for four former Cabinet members known as the "golden quartet." Among their many crimes under the rule of former dictator Alfredo Stroessner was the sale of Paraguayan immigration papers to high-bidding foreigners.

For years, Asians have paid top dollar for bogus Paraguayan documents. International terrorists have also bought papers through the racket. Although at least two of the former Paraguayan Cabinet members have been arrested, sources told our associate Dean Boyd that officials in the new government are up to the same old tricks.

High ranking government ministers have been fingered, but the local authorities lack the stomach to investigate the charges.

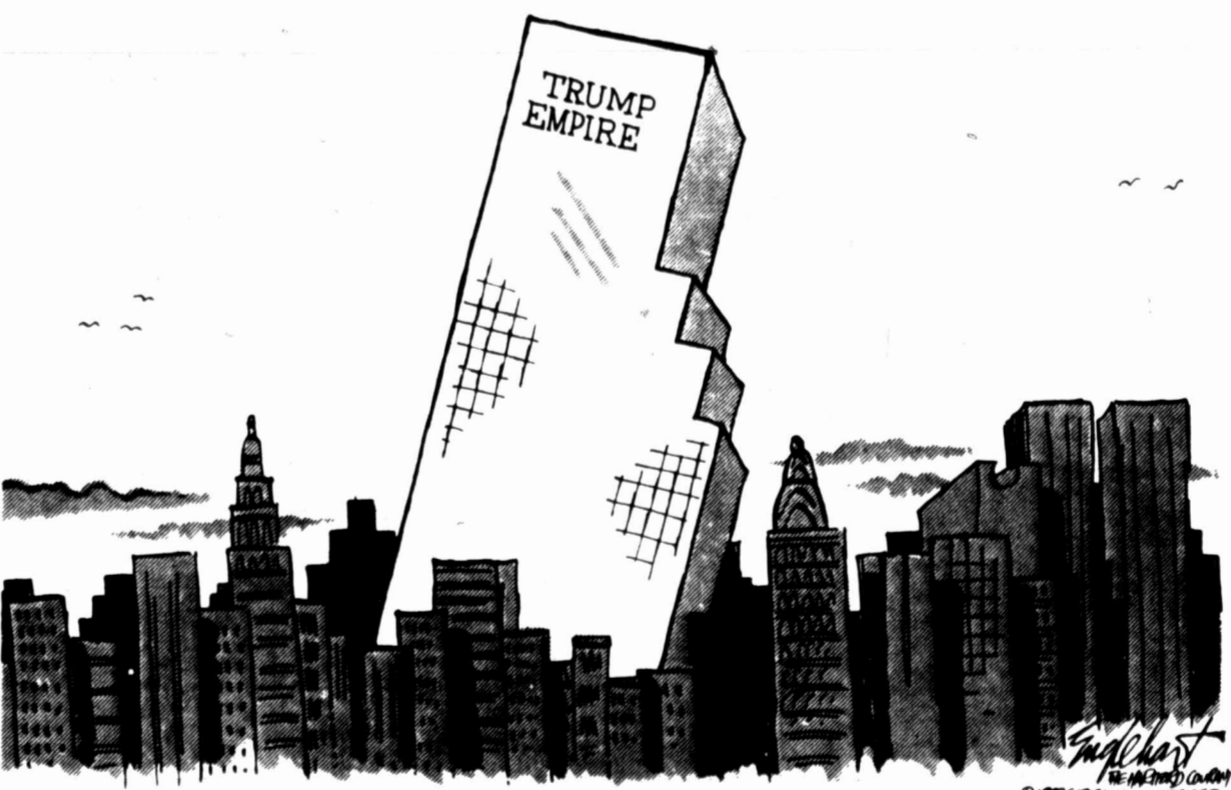

Ciro Noriega, the consulate general of Panama under his uncle Manuel Noriega, has also been accused of running an illegal passport ring in Hong Kong. Panamanian immigration officials estimate that since 1985 people in China and Hong Kong paid between $10,000 and $15,000 each for papers to enter Panama.

The profit from a single document sale amounted to more than the annual salary of many of the Panamanian bureaucrats involved in the scam. Panama has allowed many of the unfortunate immigrants to stay, but some 1,200 have been sent back home.

Cubans trying to get away from Fidel Castro have met a similar fate at the hands of Manuel Noriega and his minions.

Noriega's people would routinely seize the Cubans' passports when they arrived and then charge the Cubans $300 to get their own documents back. Other Panamanians specialized in preying on the Cubans by selling them fake documents.

Presidents to attend opening

YORBA LINDA, Calif. — The Richard M. Nixon Presidential Library is viewed from a bedroom window of Nixon's boyhood home in Yorba Linda, Calif. President Bush and former presidents Gerald R. Ford and Ronald Reagan will join Nixon and his wife, Pat, for the July 19 opening.

League of Women Voters still strong after 70 years

WASHINGTON — At age 70, the League of Women Voters has a message for the nation: think of it as America's oldest — and most respected — feminist lobby.

The League celebrated its seventh decade with a five-day convention here last week that backed abortion rights, gun control and campaign reform.

Since its inception as a "suffragette" group advocating the right of women to vote in 1920, the League has often been depicted as a group of dour and serious women working to ensure fair elections and widespread voter participation.

But League leaders say their organization is much more than that. Voter-candidate forums, debates on the local and presidential level, and nuts-and-bolts electoral issues are still its concern.

League stands "are political stands... most Americans don't understand how you can be political and nonpartisan but it's possible."

But so are the kind of controversial women's rights and political issues that drove its creation in the suffragette era.

"I think the League has always brought a feminist and women's perspective to the issues regardless of what they are," said Nancy Neuman, the League's outgoing president.

"I think the League has always been a sort of anomaly," she said, "in that it has been a feminist group, but people say, 'well, you're interested in a number of issues.'"

"It's nonpartisan," spokeswoman Beverly McFarland said, "but it's political. Everything you do to improve government is going to be political."

The League's political history is long — and sometimes forgotten. It claims as its first congressional victory the Shepherd-Towner Act, which provided federal aid for maternal and child care programs — in 1921.

While the League's concerns often lead it into the middle of a political fray — as with its new votes backing gun control and abortion rights — it makes decisions in a process that is "issue based," without any endorsement of political parties or their candidates for office.

League stands "are political stands," Neuman said, "but most Americans don't understand how you can be political and nonpartisan — but it's possible." An example, McFarland said, was the League's endorsement of the National Voter Registration Act, legislation now pending in the Senate that would make voter registration quick and simple in all states.

"At first it appeared most attractive in many ways to Democrats," McFarland said. "Some figured if more people voted they would be Democrats. Then they looked at the demographics and found that was not true at all. Most young people are registering as Republicans, and they are one of the major voting groups targeted by the legislation. As far as the League was concerned, that all was irrelevant."

The League's efforts, while "non-partisan," can be sophisticated.

For example, Deborah Wolfe, president of the League in Grand Haven, Mich., recorded a message broadcast on radio stations in Rep. Fred Upton's southwest Michigan district, urging listeners to contact the conservative Republican and ask that he back the voter registration bill. "He broke from the party line to vote for it," the League's "National Voter" magazine reported.

Neuman said the League's political sophistication paid off in two ways during her tenure: lawmakers already knew its position when she arrived to lobby them, and because the group is nonpartisan, they were willing to talk with the League "because they understood that, even if they disagreed with you, you weren't going to campaign against them in the next election."

Neuman said that with its broad

"I think the League has always brought a feminist and women's perspective to the issues regardless of what they are."

base — nonpartisan but political, political but not beholden to political parties — the League is prepared for long and productive future.

"I believe there's still a place for such a group — in a diverse society, you have to come to common ground."

By bleeding hot issues of their political color, Neuman said the League hopes to make decision-making simpler, if not easier.

"I think a lot of Americans think politics is 'either or,'" she said. "It's not. It's in the middle."

United Nations scientists warn global warming trend has begun

LONDON (AP) — United Nations scientists warned that global warming has begun, temperatures will rise in the next century faster than in the last 10,000 years and that urgent measures are needed to curb "greenhouse" gases.

In addition, a separate report warns that warming poses serious threats to the planet, including rising sea levels, the spread of disease and mass starvation in poor countries.

The world temperature is likely to increase about 1.8 degrees in the next 35 years and 5.4 degrees before the end of the next century, said a report released by a working group of the U.N.'s Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change.

Sea levels were predicted to rise by 2.3 inches each decade, or 8 inches by 2030, and 25.5 inches by the end of the next century.

These conclusions represent something of an international consensus on the scientific certainty of global warming.

"It's the biggest international research drive into global warming ever conducted. It's authoritative and objective, it was set up by the United Nations General Assembly and staffed by first-rank scientists from around the world," said Greenpeace spokesman Steve Elsworth.

Dan Lashoff, an observer at the meeting from the Natural Resources Defense Council in Washington, said the report will bring increased pressure on the United States to take action.

"The White House must take this report seriously... The White House will no longer be able to pick its favorite scientific skeptics as an excuse for not reducing U.S. emissions," Lashoff said.

President Bush has called for more study on global warming.

The United Nations established three working groups which together called on the expertise of about 1,000 scientists around the world.

Global warming is the process by which greenhouse gases, such as carbon dioxide and chlorofluorocarbons, collect on the outer edges of the Earth's atmosphere and trap heat within.

The release of the report by the respected U.N. panel of scientists could move the international agenda from discussions of whether global warming exists to plans for how to deal with it.

A preliminary report by a Soviet-led panel on the impact of climate change warned that global warming poses a serious threat to the planet. Parts of the report were published in Britain this week.

Melting at the poles will cause seas to rise, coastlines to flood and vast migrations from coastal and drought-hit agricultural regions, the report predicted.

Agricultural regions, such as the corn belt in North America, could shift toward the poles by 125 to 185 miles for every degree of warming.

AARP meets

The American Association of Retired Persons held its monthly meeting June 5 at Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Lennis Couch read the devotional from Psalms 18:1-6.

The thought for the day was: "Anger is like water in your gasoline tank — you can't perform right until you get rid of it."

The group repeated the Pledge to the Flag, followed by the group singing America.

Members sang Happy Birthday to John Couch.

Nadine Hodnett read the minutes of the last meeting. They were approved as read.

John Couch gave the treasurer's report. Two members paid their dues for the year. Treasurer report was approved as read.

Vaurine Smith gave the legislature report. She noted that the school bill has passed the legislature in Austin. And is awaiting the governor's signature.

Also on the local news, school lunches will be served as Goliad, Marcy and Bauer school for children between one through 18. So far, more than 200 children were served from 11:30 to 1 p.m. in time for the lunch.

Richard Shields played the violin as Frankie Marstrand accompanied him on the piano.

Games of 42, bridge, dominoes, followed the meeting.

The next meeting will be July 3 at Kentwood Older Adult Center.

Visitors are all welcome.

Bride-elect honored

Dee Ellen Earhart, bride-elect of Mark Thomi, was honored June 9 at a bridal shower at 2201 Carl St. A ceramic basket of peach, mauve, pioneer blue flowers served as the centerpiece.

The table was set with a peach cloth overlaid with lace. Cake and punch were served on Colony milk glass and gold flatware.

A cut glass water pitcher was presented to the bride-elect by hostesses: Cynthia Boodle, Helen Clanton, Pauline Hanson, Marie Hughes, Emma Lee Spivey and Edwina Reagan.

The couple will wed June 30 at Lake Highland's United Methodist Church, Dallas, with the Rev. Jim Brown officiating.

Doctor completes residency at VA

Dr. Charles Avera, a third-year ophthalmology resident at Texas Tech University, Lubbock, recently completed his residency at the Veterans Administration Medical Center, Big Spring, according to Conrad Alexander, hospital director.

On April 25, Avera was presented with his certificate of completion by Alexander, Dr. Robert Jones, chief of staff, and John W. McFadden, associate director.

Ophthalmology residents from Texas Tech rotate through the VA Medical Center about five weeks each quarter of their second and third residency years.

Upon graduation in July, Avera will go into private practice.

Newton is the son of Lindell and Leola Newton of Rural Route 3.

Colorado City women ready to play softball

Church League Softball has begun once again, but this year if you attend the games you will be in for a special treat. Every Tuesday night at 8 two new teams, comprised of women, will face each other. This is the first year that women's teams have formed to play in the league. There are only two female teams but they are fun to watch and will play each other throughout the season.

The two female teams are "The Untouchables," so called because most of those playing are married or spoken for. And, Migma is the unique name of the other. This team is comprised of players from at least four different churches: Why Migma? In Greek, this is the word for "mixture." Come out and enjoy some good, clean fun and watch the women in their inaugural year. All of the action takes place at Hertenberger Field on the south side of town.

Spring luncheon

The Baptist Young Women's Spring Luncheon was hosted May 28. Everyone brought a salad or dessert and enjoyed a light meal while hosting the Women's Missionary Union.

Those present had a good time visiting with their former pastor's wife, Billie Roenfeldt, who accompanied the speaker of the afternoon from San Angelo.

The speaker was Fern Harrington Miles, an author and missionary to China and the Philippines. She left Northeast Missouri in 1940 to go to China, which was then occupied by the Japanese. Her intent was to be a Southern Baptist missionary in China. After only six months, she was sent to the Philippines for her safety but was captured by the Japanese in December of 1941. The armed forces of the United States came to her rescue in 1945 and she came back to the states, where she finished studying the Chinese language at Yale University. Fern went back to China in 1947 but the communists made her leave a year later. She returned to the Philippines and from 1954 to 1975 she used her talent to train the Chinese people in Philippine and Taiwan seminaries to preach the gospel.

Fern married writer Herbert J. Miles and together they have written four books, including: Husband-Wife Equality; Singles, Sex & Marriage; The Evangelical Dilemma; and Captive Community in which she tells of her life in a Japanese internment camp from 1941-1945.

Fern proved to be an exciting speaker and plans to return to China this time as a tourist. She was told that she would not be able to witness for the Lord unless she was approached by someone wanting to know about Jesus.

White Bible Ceremony

For any bride-to-be who is a member of First Baptist Church a special White Bible Ceremony is held. One such event took place Sunday, May 27 for Belinda Clayton, bride-elect of Heath Blasingame. It's a ceremony hosted by the Baptist Young Women, where several parts are read aloud about a home and family, while lighting candles that represent things as well. Those involved in the readings were Mona Crockett, Laurie Lowrance, Ann Feaster, Stephanie Spear, and Susan Lokey. Making the presentation of the White Bible and Ten Commandments For A Good Marriage, was Betty Shawn. Special music was sung by Laurie Lowrance.

Heath and Belinda were united in marriage June 2 and honeymooned in Ruidoso, N.M. They are back home in Colorado City now.

Firemen speak to children

The Colorado City Volunteer Fire Department took time from their busy schedules May 24 to talk to the children at the Mother's Day Out Program. The firemen spoke to the children about fire safety. They also allowed the children to try on a real fire helmet. All of the children were given fire helmets and coloring books as a gift from the Fire Department.

Girl who cried rape really cried wolf

DEAR ABBY: I did a terrible thing. I got mad at a friend and accused him of raping me. I didn't mean for it to go as far as it did, but my father got into the act and there was no backing down.

My friend is now serving time because he was too stubborn to plead guilty. If he had, he could have gotten out of it with a suspended sentence, but he refused.

Now I can't sleep at night. I know I should have admitted that I lied, but I didn't have the guts. Is there a solution to my problem? — SICK OF LYING

DEAR SICK: You bet there is! Tell your father — and the lawyer who represented you — that you lied and be prepared to take your lumps. Unfortunately, you didn't sign your name or address, or I could be of more help to you and the innocent person on whom you perpetrated this terrible injustice. Please write again and let me know how I can contact you — even indirectly.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: After six years of marriage, my husband (I'll call him Joe) and I adopted a beautiful baby boy — born on April 24. I was thrilled at the prospect of giving Joe my father's diamond stickpin for Father's Day in June.

In May, Mother's Day came and went, and Joe didn't even give me a card. At the end of the evening, he said, "I hope you don't feel hurt because I didn't give you anything for Mother's Day, but after all, you're really not a mother." Abby, he might as well have slapped me! From that moment on, I took a closer look at him and saw a stingy, selfish man who gave little to anyone — physically, emotionally or financially.

I went ahead and gave him my father's diamond stickpin for Father's Day in June, but through the next 10 years of our marriage, he never wore it.

Soon after, he was stricken with cancer. I stuck by him, supporting the family and nursing him back to health. When he was back on his feet, I left him.

I took the "stickpin from his jewelry box and left a note that said: "I am taking my father's stickpin and my son because you're really not a father." Today, my loving son makes sure I'm not forgotten on Mother's Day. Sign me — WHAT GOES AROUND COMES AROUND

Reunion 'a howling success'

By MACK UNDERWOOD
Special to the Herald

If it became necessary to use one word to describe the howling success of the 13th Cannibal Draw Reunion, that word would be "wow!"

The 13th gathering of old-time friends who were born or grew up together in old eastside Big Spring met Saturday evening at La Posada restaurant.

More than three hours were spent indulging in old-fashioned fellowship and enjoying the music and singing of "Golden Oldies" of the 1920s, '30s and '40s.

Playing the music were Tom Angel, Stanton, at the piano, and "Chuck" Patrick and Ricky Scott on guitars. These fine musicians had never performed together until one week before the reunion, and yet, they did a beautiful job. (Many thanks fellows!) The songs included: "Old Shanty Town," "Red River Valley," "Amazing Grace" and "Till We Meet Again."

Hayes Stripling Jr. presented this year's awards.

Joy Stripling, 88, Ft. Worth, was the winner of the "Senior Vice President" award (eldest male member). Lillian Patton 92, walked away with the "Nice" president award (eldest lady member present). Earnestine (Gulley) Styber easily won the "Roadrunner" prize for having traveled the longest distance to attend. She resides in Santee, Calif. O.V. "Buster" Bray, Ft. Worth, received the "Faithful Swan" award for having been married for the longest number of years.

The "Diligence" award went to Dr. Clyde E. Thomas Jr. for having missed only one reunion.

Out-of-town guests included: Earnestine (Gulley) Styber, Santee, Calif. Attending from Ft. Worth, were: Darrell and Emma Ruth (Stripling) Webb; Joy, Richard and Betty Stripling;

John and Margie Stripling; Buster and Lillie Mae Bray and Irene Mixon.

From Dallas came Allen and Adelle Stripling; Bob and Karen Stripling; G.E. (Pappy) and "Tish" Malone and Louise (Flowers) Underwood drove down from Lubbock.

Lavaughn ("Doc") and Melba Malone as well as Loreta (Angel) McReynolds, Midland; Jesse and Marie Andrews and James (Jim) C. and May Tom Rippes, Irving; Hudson and Thelma Henley, Garland; Cecil and Jewell Neel, Horseshoe Bay.

Also, Tom, Jess and Obara Angel and Dwayne and Tince Ory, Stanton, and Finis and Mayme Bugg, Odessa.

The 135 members and guests who attended this year shattered the old record of 115 set in 1985.

The question being asked all around is: What do we do for an encore next year?

Debt-free Baptist Temple to celebrate Sunday

By LYNN HAYES
Lifestyle Editor

In keeping with tradition of the Southern Baptist Church, a local congregation will celebrate its debt-free status with a note-burning ceremony Sunday.

Because of recent special offerings, Baptist Temple Church, 400 11th Place, recently paid off a loan of $89,500 for debts incurred in 1976. The debt was paid more than a year before it was due.

A check for the balance was sent to Commodore Financial Service Corporation, Dallas. Church officials recently received the canceled note, which was dated May 29 and marked "paid in full."

The note will be ceremoniously burned during the 11 a.m. worship service.

The money was used to renovate the sanctuary, including new stained-glass windows, carpet, pews, a pulpit, paint and a new ceiling, said Ross Callihan, who is one of the five trustees who signed the note.

Also signing the note were: Garland Sanders, J.B. Harrison, Benny Porter and Stanley Harbin.

This is the first time in the church's 38-year history it has not been obligated to pay a monthly loan. "I believe it's the first time we've ever been debt-free," Callihan said.

A member since the early 1950s, Callihan said he and other committee members presented their idea for renovation to the congregation. The congregation then voted to undergo renovations, he said.

When Callihan signed his name to the dotted line 14 years ago he said he never worried that it wouldn't be paid. "I didn't give it a second thought. I had faith in God that it would be paid off," he said.

The Rev. Syl Moore said he believes the note "would've been paid off sooner if a there hadn't been a decline in church membership." "We've had a decline in membership. A lot of people have moved or just quit coming to church," he said.

However, Moore said, the remaining 200 members have been generous with their tithes and offerings. "The members care... they were anxious to pay off the debt," he said. "God blessed them and what they gave."

Members of Baptist Temple Church look on as the Rev. Syl Moore, left, and Ross Callihan, hold the note that was recently paid off. The note will be burned Sunday during the morning worship service.

with the church's recent blessing. "God takes care of his business — if it's his will," Moore said.

Moore said the closing of Webb Air Force Base also had ill effects on the church's financial status. "With the base closing we're fortunate we didn't have to extend the note," he said.

Now that the church won't have the $921 per month payment, Moore said he's not sure what the church will do with some of the funds. However, he noted, the church gives more than 10 percent of tithes and offerings to the Cooperative Program of the Southern Baptist Convention; they support local missions; give money for benevolent needs; and give gas, food and lodging to those in need.

"We may do some more renovating... The committee will decide," Moore said.

Although the celebration is a symbol that the church has paid its loan, it's not likely they'll stay debt-free. "I don't think it's possible to remain debt-free," Ross said. However, he said, he wouldn't mind representing the church for another loan. "I'd sign another one," he said.

Accident leads man to ministry

By LAURA LUDEWELL-DENNIS
The Odessa American

ODESSA — When the Rev. Emmett Barnard was a junior at Texas Tech University in 1967, he was the typical college type. He kept busy with his grades, social life and an after-school job delivering flowers.

But during a routine delivery, his life was drastically altered. At an intersection, a car ran a light and struck the vehicle carrying Barnard. His body was thrown through the windshield and onto the pavement.

A fractured skull and an injured back led to surgery at Methodist Hospital in Lubbock, where he suffered kidney failure. Waking from his unconscious state, Barnard found himself looking around an intensive care unit and wondering how he had survived.

"Hey, I'm alive. I thought," he said. "I knew that my life had been spared for a reason."

After 18 days in the hospital, Barnard began searching for that reason. Attending campus events, Barnard met a Texas A&M University football player who introduced him to religion.

"God to me had always been in the wide, blue yonder. But in that football player's living room I made a commitment to change my way of life and to get to know God."

Barnard graduated from Tech and began teaching mentally retarded and learning disabled children. After teaching for eight years, he decided that the direction of his life should turn to the ministry.

Now, Barnard is the volunteer chaplain for Women's and Children's Hospital and is minister of Friendship Baptist Church.

"I committed my life to the ministry. There is a need out there. We all have physical needs, but people are spiritual, too. And we need for that spirituality."

Barnard enjoys his volunteer role at the hospital because of what he perceives as a great need for a minister at medical facilities.

Although few physical scars remain of the 1967 car accident, Barnard is still touched by the joy of life.

"To me every day is a wonderful day. By the laws of nature I should have been dead at 21. I always sing and whistle and look forward to life. I enjoy living more than the average person."

Religion roundup

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Christian monitoring organization says network television reduced the amount of sex, violence, profanity and anti-Christian stereotyping last year by 32 percent.

The Rev. Billy Melvin, chairman of Christian Leaders for Responsible Television (CLEAR-TV), says some companies apparently were responding to the organization's activity in the shows they sponsor.

CLEAR-TV is a coalition of about 1,600 Christian leaders from nearly every denomination, including top leaders of about 70 denominations.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Back from conferring with church leaders in the Philippines, the president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod said basic elements remain of links to the Lutheran Church in the Philippines.

The board of directors of that church voted in March to sever partner relationship with the the 2.6 million-member denomination based in Missouri.

The Rev. Ralph A. Bohmann, president of LCMS, said the talks convinced him that the "basic component of our fellowship is intact."

Given time to heal, this relationship can be salvaged and restored.

However, he said, only the Philippine church can resolve problems at the root of the interchurch difficulty.

New president

NEW ORLEANS — The Southern Baptists elected the Rev. Morris Chapman, Wichita Falls, as the new president. Jodi Chapman stands with her husband before entering a news conference at the New Orleans Superdome. Chapman was elected to the office of president by 57.68 percent of the 38,241 voting members.

Christian population at 1.75 billion

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) The world's Christian population grew by about 326 million during the past decade to an estimated 1.75 billion, says a noted expert on religious statistics.

The Rev. David Barrett, an Anglican priest, editor of the World Christian Encyclopedia and now a consultant to the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, cited the figures in the International Bulletin of Missionary Research.

The new total amounts to about 33 percent of the world's 5.3 billion people, including 963 million Roman Catholics, 324 million Protestants, 180 million Eastern Orthodox and 54 million Anglicans, the ecumenical fortnightly, Christianity Today, reports.

Another 232 million apparently were unclassified in those groupings.

Baptist officers

Church briefs

Five attend annual meeting

Five members of Wesley United Methodist Church recently from Midland where they attended the annual meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church June 4-6.

During the three-day meeting many important issues were voted upon. The most important being the issue of restructuring of the Conference, as well as going from a seven-district conference to a six-district conference. Both issues were approved.

The Seymour District will be absorbed by the remaining Abilene, Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock, Pampa and Plainview districts in June 1991.

Those attending were Ben A. Boodle, delegate; Victor Sharp, alternate; Madeline Boodle, and the Rev. and Mrs. James Willborn.

Church to host

Vacation Bible School

The 14th & Main Church of Christ is hosting a one-day Vacation Bible School Saturday. The theme is "Great Bible Examples." All teachers will dress in authentic Bible costumes as they become famous biblical personalities such as Abraham, Moses, Joseph, David and Jesus.

VBS participants will go on a wilderness journey with Abraham, part the Red Sea with Moses, fight Goliath with David, as well as see portions of the life of Joseph and Jesus. A lunch featuring Bible times food will be served. All children, ages 2 years old through sixth grade are invited to attend the free Vacation Bible School from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Director Doug Morris said, "This is the most ambitious and innovative Vacation Bible School we have ever attempted. Children of all ages will have a great time."

Youth car wash

The youth of Iglesia Bautista Central, 22nd and Lancaster, will have a car wash Saturday at the church's parking lot from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. There will be no charge, however, donations will be accepted. All the monies raised will be to help our youth go to the Youth Evangelism Conference, which will be held at Reunion Arena in Dallas, June 22-23. The youths will greatly appreciate your help.

100th anniversary

First Baptist Church of Westbrook will celebrate its 100th anniversary at a Centennial Homecoming and Community Worship service Sunday at 10 a.m.

Wilma Jean (Berry) McKenney will present the church's history. Presenting special music will be Opal (Wilson) Powell, Sue Pierce and Steve Manning. The church choir, under the direction of Wayne Pierce, also will present special music.

Accompanists will be Clola Whitesides, organist; and Frances Ranne, pianist. Also presenting selections will be Wayne Pierce, The Clawson Family and Eddie Ranne.

The Rev. Bob Manning, pastor, will deliver the sermon. Following the services, a catered meal will be served at the Westbrook school.

Members, former members and friends are invited to attend.

Girl to interpret for the deaf

Beth Yancey, daughter of Calvin Yancey and Glenda Yancey Tomes, Odessa, has been chosen by Outreach for Christ International to accompany the tour as an interpreter for the deaf.

She was chosen from thousands of applicants nationwide to tour with the ministry of the Reach Out Singers, according to a news release.

Each tour group consists of 12-20 vocalists and instrumentalists selected on the basis of their musical excellence and spiritual commitment.

Beth will join the Reach Out Singers for nine weeks this summer to tour the southeastern United States. They also will present concerts in Finland, Sweden and the USSR.

Members of the group are responsible for raising missionary support for their involvement. Anyone interested in help Beth through prayer or financial support, may contact her or her father, Calvin Yancey, P.O. Box 5666, Odessa, Texas 79764.

Old cabooses getting new lives

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP) — On a siding near an interstate highway, the old cabooses sit out of service, but they're far from the end of their line.

Already, many of these railroad relics have been cleaned, painted and moved across the country to serve as quilt shops, ice cream parlors, storage buildings and motel rooms.

"The railroads don't make them anymore," says Don Flynn, a Danville businessman who has just five of his original 26-caboose fleet left at the siding visible from Interstate 74.

Flynn, who operates Prairie States Warehouse, has the cabooses lined up outside his business with a telephone number and "For Sale" sign displayed for passing motorists.

The collection caught the eye of James Friedlander of Freeport, Maine.

"Last year, in the dead of winter, we were driving by Prairie States and saw four or five cabooses parked on the tracks along the interstate," Friedlander said. "They gave us the keys and said to pick the one we wanted."

Friedlander selected his favorite, paid Flynn $3,500 for it, and shipped it to Freeport for an additional $2,000. A crane lifted the caboose from the track and took it to Friedlander's 15-room bed-and-breakfast home.

He and his wife planned to use the caboose for another sleeping room.

"Instead, we use it for an office and for storage," said Friedlander.

Flynn acquired the 26 cabooses in 1982 after the death of the Danville businessman who owned them.

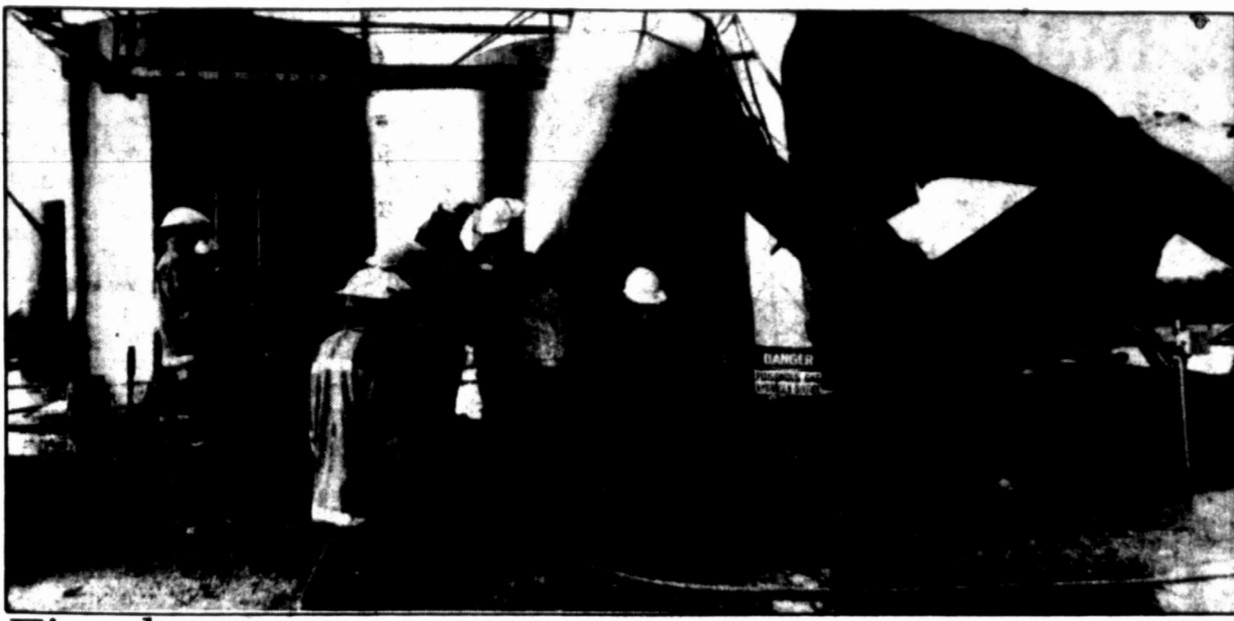

"We had the tracks out here and so we just brought the cabooses he owned out here and tried to sell them," said Flynn.

The first 14 went for $2,500 each. The price has risen to $4,500.

Each caboose is 40 feet long, 13 feet wide and 16 feet high, and weighs 30 tons. They have toilets and heating stoves that were used by the railroad crewmen who once rode in them.

Railroads have been phasing out cabooses, which once were the last cars on freight trains.

Flynn said that when the last five cabooses are gone he probably will have no more to sell.

Fire damage

The Howard County Volunteer Fire Department responded to a tank battery fire Wednesday evening at the Union of California Chalk B oil lease on the Cole Ranch, east of Forsan. Trucks from Sand Springs, Silver Heels, Tubbs, Forsan and Big Spring were also called to assist.

Too much exertion can cause heat exhaustion

With the summer months approaching, the mercury will rise along with the number of people enjoying outdoor activities. It is important for individuals to realize that over exertion in high temperature weather can often be the cause of heat exhaustion.

"Heat exhaustion results when the body fails to lose heat through radiation, convection or conduction. Factors such as drugs or high humidity can affect the body's ability to control heat," said Marlene Whitehead, R.N., Lubbock's Methodist Hospital employee health manager.

According to Whitehead, the first signs of heat exhaustion are:

- Elevation of body temperature
- Headache
- Chills

- Nausea and/or vomiting
- Unsteadiness
- Pale skin color
- Fatigue

Heat stroke can be treated by sprinkling water over the victim and fanning to enhance evaporation, or by applying ice packs to the neck, abdomen, groin or armpit area. Heat exhaustion often results in death, so it is important to seek medical assistance immediately.

Whitehead suggests prevention as the best medicine. "Individuals taking part in strenuous activity should drink more frequently than thirst dictates. Water is the best bet. The added sugar in glucose solutions, like Gatorade, slows gastric emptying which delays absorption of water into the body."

He said he will "retire completely" this fall.

"But I'll have plenty to do. There's always something to do," he said.

He and wife, Jeanne, plan to travel to visit a daughter, grand children and great grandchildren in Little Rock, Ark., Woodall said. They will begin their travels with a four-week trip to London this fall.

City Manager Hal Boyd said the search for a new director for the health department will utilize input from Woodall, the City Council and County Commissioner's court. An attempt will be made to fill the position by September 1, he said.

Health care, management skills head task force list

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Nothing can be done about the most important economic issue facing Howard County — the lack of rain — Howard County Extension Service economic task force members concurred at a luncheon meeting Wednesday.

However, they said, they can do things about the pride and image of Big Spring, various health care issues and needed management skills to create markets and jobs.

Community leaders and county extension officials met at the Days Inn to prioritize economic issues for a four-year educational program plan by the Howard County Extension Program Council.

A task force addressing social issues met June 7 and decided that lack of family structure, youth related issues and Big Springs' image were some of the most important social issues. A third task force will meet Friday at noon at the Days Inn to list the most important environmental issues.

Then on June 22 the extension program executive board will meet to prioritize all the issues. A plan will be printed in handbook form to be given to community leaders as the program is implemented.

The drought is probably the most pressing economic situation right now, said Lynn Simmons of State National Bank. "I'd say this little community is heavily dependent on agriculture," he said.

"It's going to be determined by if we get this million-dollar rain in the next two weeks," he said. "If we are looking down the barrel of another disaster, then we need to get the county listed as a disaster area."

Concerning possible involvement in future irrigation projects, Bob Goodwin, a manager with Texas Utilities Electric, said they have been trying to become more involved in agricultural issues ever since they helped with an irrigation project in Lamesa recently.

"Where does the electric company fit into the agricultural community?" he asked. "We're trying desperately to find out what we can get involved in."

But turning to problems they felt they could deal with more directly, the task force rated health issues as one of the most important. County Extension Agent Naomi Hunt outlined some of them as: lack of use of seatbelts and child carseats, latch-key children, nutrition education programs, diabetes management education and insurance costs.

County Extension Agent Don Richardson brought up the need for leadership in agricultural marketing, an issue that is sometimes ignored with the past emphasis on production. "Now we are much more concerned with marketing," he said.

Another issue to be addressed, he said, are animal rights movements. "This could have a big effect in terms of livestock production and wildlife," he said.

Besides Simmons and Goodwin, task force members outlining activities and concerns included: Wayne Moore, vice president of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce; Bill Crooker, a county commissioner; and R.G. Click, of the Howard County Fair Association.

Moore brought up several projects that the chamber is involved in, including assisting the city's Industrial Foundation Board with attracting and maintaining industry, looking into the feasibility of locating a textile mill here and sending a delegation to a hearing in Austin on June 20 to compete for the extension of Interstate-27 through Big Spring.

Crooker mentioned Commissioners Court projects such as a proposal to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice to get one of four new 1,250-bed state prisons opening up and the creation of an overall development economic plan which would allow the county to apply for funds of up to $5,000 for each new job created.

Click mentioned upgrades of the rodeo bowl and efforts to clean up after vandals, which has included welding steel doors on facilities.

Also at the meeting and providing input was Extension Program Council Chairwoman Pat Porter and County Extension Agent Ricky Spencer.

Homicide

single stab wound, and said the investigation has been changed from a questionable death to a homicide.

"Yes, there was a stab wound to the chest," Chamness said. "It went all the way through his heart."

Chamness said that because of the nature of the investigation, he could not provide more details. He declined comment on whether there are any suspects in the murder.

"There are a lot of questions we have that we have to get answers on," he said.

According to police, Lauderdale was last seen Tuesday afternoon. His family reported him missing at 11:30 that night, and a patrolman found Lauderdale's car in Comanche Trail Park at the historic spring early Wednesday morning.

Chamness said the car's four tires had been slashed.

Because family members had told police that medical problems had impaired Lauderdale's mobility and forced him into medical retirement, police began a search of the immediate area. Members of Lauderdale's church helped comb the brush and ravines in the area, and the 52-year-old man's body was found at about 11:45 a.m. about 200 yards from the spring.

Although Chamness declined to comment on whether there were signs of a struggle, Long said on Wednesday that there were signs of injury to the body.

"There were some marks on the body," Long said, "but without being a trained pathologist it's hard to say whether they might be linked to something more than an accidental death."

Appraisal

A problem with the district computer not completely accepting new information is tying up that money. It was noticed a few months ago when an update was run to see who would be mailed appraisal notices, Toomire said. Incorrect information is fed out in a random unpredictable pattern.

"The update we got was exactly backwards to what it should have been," he said. "The thing that's really bad is we bought this computer 18 months ago."

The company servicing the program, Thompson Data Service of Brownwood, is having trouble because they are not sure how many programs are in it, Toomire said. It has been sold three times in the last eight years and there could be as many as 13 different programs — each for an appraisal district — that a previous owner had used it for, he said.

It would cost up to $47,000 to purchase different computer hardware, he told appraisal board members. However, first they will try interfacing their records with Thompson Data Service's library system to see if that will give them control of the program.

"If we don't do something I don't know how we can reappraise for next year," Toomire said.

They will interface the programs after they run their appraisal rolls in July, he said.

"We can get an appraisal roll out now," he said. "That's the most important thing. Hopefully that will work. If it doesn't then we're going to have to go searching for something else, another system, something."

Toomire also reported that another significant increase in the budget is due to postage cost increases. The total postage cost for next year is expected to be about $13,870, up from $9,930 this year.

"If they want to set their britches on fire, fine," Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, declared. "Just don't set the symbol of the freedom they claim allows them to protest on fire."

Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., broke with conservative colleagues to oppose the amendment. He told the Senate that whether the flag should be honored is not the issue.

Deaths

Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

Elizabeth Whatley

BIG SPRING — Elizabeth S. Whatley, 70, Big Spring, died Monday, June 11, 1990, at her home.

Services will be 11 a.m. Saturday in Nalley-Pickle & Welch Rosewood Chapel, with the Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

She was born May 22, 1920, in Mineral Wells. She married Everett Whatley July 19, 1941, in Mineral Wells. She was a member of First United Methodist Church. She and her husband came to Big Spring in 1948. She worked for the Big Spring Independent School District in food services as a secretary from 1961 to 1982, when she retired.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Ron (Suzanne) Anderson, Tyler; and two grandsons, Tyler; and two granddaughters, Helen Wheeler, Levelland; and one brother, Harb Whatley, Mineral Wells.

Pallbearers will be Ray Lawlis, Jud Lloyd, Kenneth Stephens, John Annen, Bobby McDonald, and Dave Dorchester.

The family suggests memorials to the National Kidney Foundation, 116 E. 27th Street, New York, N.Y. 10016, or to the Presbyterian Children's Home, 3400 Bowie, Amarillo, TX, 79102.

prehension as a new test, the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) is ordered by the state.

"This test will include a larger range of questions, will require a higher level of thinking and will be much more difficult," Murphy said. "But I think it's probably a good thing, as it seems to be the direction we're going in."

He said he expects a drop in scores across the district for the next few years as students adjust to the new requirements.

The board approved two amendments to the Flexible Benefits Plan available for all school employees. The plan allows participants to shield a certain amount of their earnings from taxes to be used for paying expenses such as child care and medical costs.

The board approved a limit of $1,800 for the yearly total a participant may receive in medical reimbursements. Also approved was a plan to charge administrative fees on unreimbursed medical expenses.

Fees are to be $2 for monthly deductions up to $50; $3 for amounts of $51-$100; and $5 for $101-$150 in deductions.

Budget amendments approved at the meeting included an additional $15,390 to be added to the cost of resurfacing the Blankenship Track. Business Manager Ron Logback said the money was needed to change the surface slope to prevent standing water.

Also among the amendments was notification that the $15,000 donation from the Dora Roberts Foundation will be used to upgrade and replace the air conditioners at Bauer Elementary School.

Bids for the yearly supply order, now required by state law to be made in bulk if total cost exceeds $10,000, were approved by the board. There were 383 items included in the bulk order at a total cost of $93,519.

Director of Curriculum

Helen Gladden reported on changes in the district's gifted and talented student program. The program identifies students with talents and interests which fit certain state-ordered categories. There are about 12 students chosen per grade level, Gladden said.

The program includes special curriculum and courses designed to encourage those students and develop their talents.

State guidelines require that students in kindergarten through twelfth grade have such a program available. She outlined the program changes to be implemented during the next school year.

Also required are five development days for all teachers who would have gifted and talented students, Gladden said. She explained that four would be held before the opening of school and one day, April 1, would be designated as an in-service.

Graveside services will be 4:30 p.m. Saturday in Gaines County Memorial Park in Seminole, under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He was born July 27, 1937, in Shumake. He was married to Dorothy Roberson June 5, 1959, in Carlsbad, N.M. He was a member of Gospel Lighthouse Church. He attended school in Ackerly and Carlsbad, N.M. #### Three HC riders going into finals

BOZEMAN, Mont. — Three Howard College athletes will be competing in Saturday night's final-go at the National College Finals Rodeo here.

All three Howard pokes are second after the first two rounds. Jody Heath is second in the barrel race with combined times of 27.57. The leader is Nicky Wogman of Colorado State (27.54). Kim Stamps of Southwest Oklahoma St. (27.65).

Howard's Jana Pierce was timed in 6.9 in the breakaway roping. Kelli Edwards of Walla Walla Community College leads the competition at 5.8. Two others are tied for third at 7.2.

In the bull riding, HC's Randall Thornton has a score of 144. The leader is Casey Gates of Fort Scott Community College with 158. Third is Darrin Cook of West Texas State with a 137.

BCI teams need funds

ODESSA — The Basketball Congress International teams in the Permian Basin are asking for donations to fund trips to tournaments.

Odesa College women's coach Ken Hefner, who is coaching the BCI teams, said the trips are an effort to get national exposure of area hoopsters. Hefner said he has about 50 girls from West Texas participating, including players from Big Spring, Coahoma, Stanton, Grady and Andrews.

Hefner said he plans to take a team of 14 and under all-stars to the BCI tournament in Lubbock Aug. 10. He also plans to take a team of 14-18 players to the Whataburger Shootout in Waco July 8-11 and the BCI tournament in Lubbock July 16.

Hefner said the tournaments draw teams from across the nation and bring national exposure to the players. "The main thing is they really get a chance to see some of the best teams and the best talent in the nation," he said.

The Permian Basin teams need some extra funding, he said, to make the trips. Hefner said he is planning some car washes and other fund raisers. In the meantime, anyone wanting to make a donation to the teams can contact Hefner at (915) 335-6574. Donations are tax deductible.

Late Thursday afternoon, Big Spring Larry Smith aced the ninth hole at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Smith used a driver to launch his hole-in-one on the par 4, 328-yard hole. Witness was Tony Stuteville. It was Smith's first hole-in-one.

Akeem will stay in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have a new coach, but Houston Rockets owner Charlie Thomas says they won't have a new center.

According to Thomas, Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon, the focal point of recent trade rumors, will not be traded to the Lakers.

"I'm not looking at any trade concerning Akeem and the Lakers," Thomas told The Houston Post on Wednesday. "If he ever did get traded, he's going East, not West."

"Akeem and I are very close friends, and the value I would put on the guy is something I don't think anybody could meet. I can assure you there's no trade working."

One Los Angeles radio station recently reported that the All-Star center would be going to the Lakers in a blockbuster deal. James Worthy, Byron Scott and A.C. Green have been mentioned as part of a compensation package.

Thomas and Olajuwon reportedly met recently, with the player requesting a trade to the Lakers.

Thomas, asked in Portland, Ore., whether such a meeting took place, said, "I couldn't say it did or didn't happen."

Olajuwon has an unlisted telephone number and could not be contacted by The Associated Press on Thursday.

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Nine straight points and a last-second jumper by Vinnie Johnson were what the Detroit Pistons needed to repeat as NBA champions and complete an improbable three-game sweep in Portland.

Johnson, held to one point for three periods, scored 15 in the fourth quarter, including a 15-footer with seven-tenths of a second left that gave the Pistons a 92-90 win and a 4-1 victory in the NBA Finals.

Johnson scored seven of the nine consecutive Pistons points in the last 1:50. The other two were by Isiah Thomas, the unanimous finals MVP, who scored 29 points in the final game and averaged 27.6 in the championship series.

The Pistons, only the third franchise to repeat as champions, trailed 90-83 with 2:07 left. Johnson had seven of those nine. Thomas scored the other two, a jumper with 36 seconds left that tied the score at 90-90.

"My shot couldn't have come at a better time," Johnson said. "Bill Laimbeer told me, 'I don't care if you miss 500 in a row, I'm still with you.' The shot felt good when it left my hand and it fell. I got real lucky."

The Pistons had lost 20 straight games in Portland since 1974, then won three straight on the Trail Blazers' court.

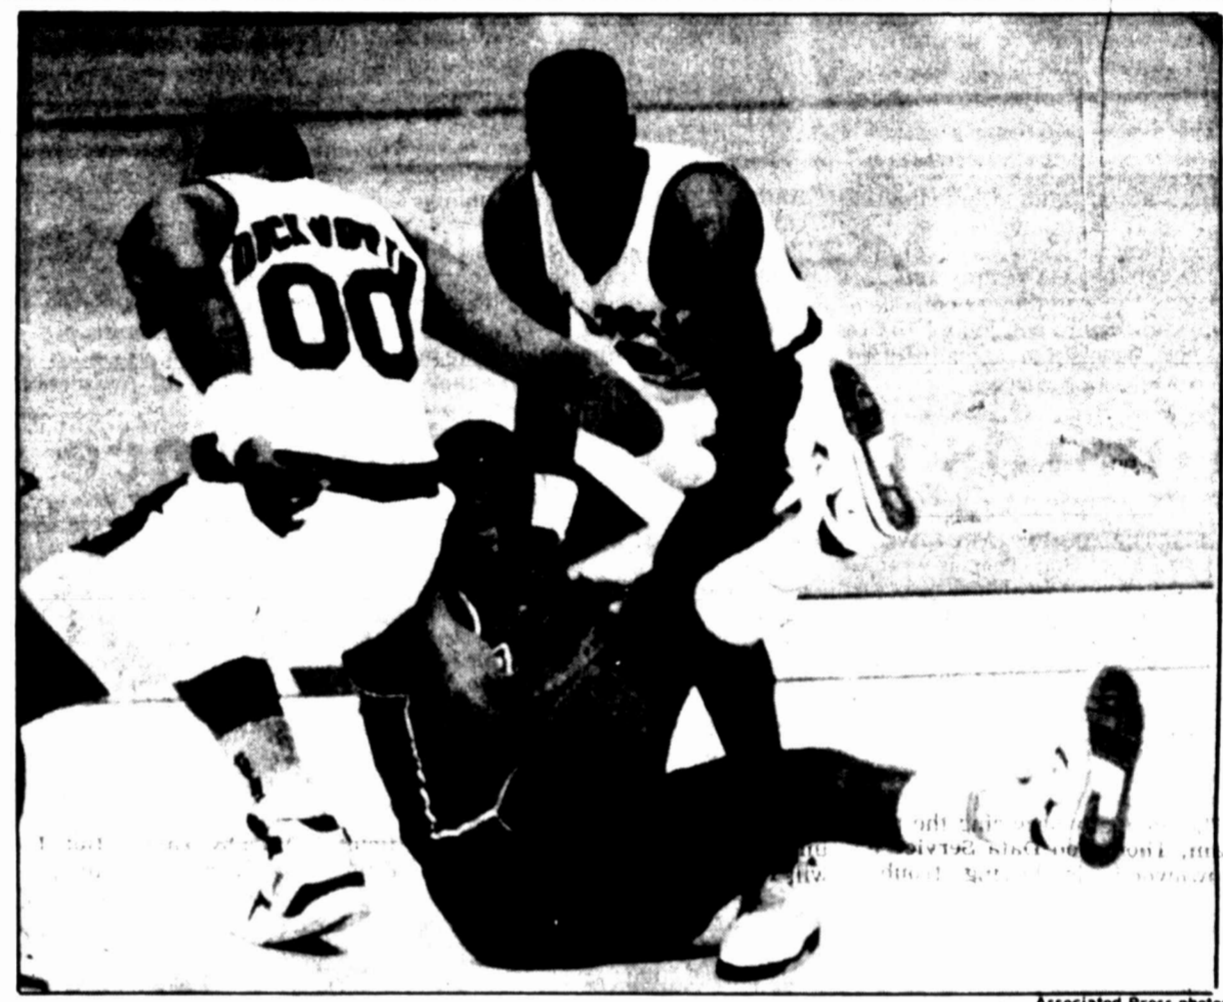

Thus, they became the first team ever to win five consecutive road games in the NBA Finals. In addition to winning the three at Portland, they completed a four-game sweep against the Los Angeles Lakers last season by capturing the final two games at the Forum.

Detroit is now 30-7 in its playoff runs to consecutive championships. Five of the losses were to Chicago in the 1989 and 1990 Eastern Conference finals. They lost once each to New York and Portland this year.

The only franchises besides Detroit to win consecutive titles are the Boston Celtics and Minneapolis-Los Angeles Lakers. Minneapolis did it in 1949-50 and 1953-54, the Celtics from 1959-1966 and 1968-69 and Los Angeles in 1987-88.

Thomas, Johnson and Joe Dumars combined for 153 points in the previous two games — an average of 25.5 apiece — but only Thomas was effective on Thursday until Johnson brought the Pistons back in the fourth quarter.

"This was much sweeter," than last year, Thomas said. "This is a special team."

Dumars, whose father died Sunday, was 2-for-13 from the field and scored eight points. Johnson was 0-for-3 and scored one point in the first three quarters, before going 6-for-8 in the final period.

"I want to go home and get this over with. I didn't want to play anymore," said Dumars, whose father will be buried in Louisiana on Saturday.

A dunk by Buck Williams by 2:07 left put Portland ahead 90-83, and it appeared the series would go back to Michigan. But Johnson converted a three-point play 17 seconds later, starting the decisive 9-0 run. The foul was the sixth on Clyde Drexler, who finished with 20 points.

His jumper with 1:21 to go made it 90-88 before Thomas, 13-for-20 from the field, tied it at the 36-second mark.

Kevin Duckworth, who tied Terry Porter to lead Portland with 21 points in the final game, then missed two shots, allowing Detroit to take possession with 20 seconds left.

Thomas dribbled out most of the remaining time before Johnson took the clutch winning shot from 15 feet.

"We had control of the game until the final two minutes and you have to give Detroit credit, they made every shot when they had to," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "They're the champs and they deserve it."

Johnson scored eight consecutive points in a two-minute span, giving Detroit a 77-76 lead with 6:34 left after it trailed 76-69 at the 8:59 mark.

The game was tied three more times, including a drive by Williams that made it 81-81 with 5:27 to go and started an 11-2 run that gave Portland its short-lived 90-83 lead.

Thomas made nine of his first 12 shots, including two 3-pointers, and scored 20 points in the first 15:18 of the game, helping Detroit lead by as many as eight.

Portland came back to tie the score and then trailed by only four at halftime.

Duckworth had a three-point play and a jumper early in the second half, sparking an 8-2 run that Portland ahead 50-48. The lead changed four more times in the next three minutes — there were 18 in the game — before Porter made the second of his three 3-pointers in the third period giving the Trail

Simpsons, Sluman tied for Open lead

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — The ground got wet, the golfers got well, and nearly every Simpson but Bart shared the U.S. Open lead.

Tough old Medinah turned a gentle face to the rain Thursday as a record 39 golfers, or one-quarter of the field, broke par in the first round of the Open.

"Medinah was there to take advantage of today," said Curtis Strange, but it wasn't there for him, not even as he began his campaign for a third straight U.S. Open victory.

Strange shot 1-over-par 73 and was seven shots off the lead. Tim and Scott Simpson, who are no more related to each other than they are to the irreverent TV cartoon character Bart Simpson, were tied with Jeff Sluman for the lead at 6-under 66, a course record.

The most subpar scores in any previous Open round was 24 on the second day in 1985 at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, Mich. The record for the first round had been 21 last year at Oak Hill in Rochester, N.Y.

Hitting onto its greens usually is about like dropping a golf ball into a frying pan. On Thursday, Strange described it as more like throwing darts at a cork board.

While the forecast called for occasional showers through Saturday, no one doubted that if the wind blows, or the greens dry up, or a few more wild tee shots get tangled in the thick woods, Medinah will rise in anger.

"I still haven't lost," Strange said. "Medinah isn't through with us yet."

Sluman and Tim Simpson had very similar bogey-free sides of 33-33. Scott Simpson, who won the Open in 1987, had 34-32.

All three bettered the course record of 67 set last year in the U.S. Senior Open by Chi Chi Rodriguez and Gary Player. And those scores came over a course that played at 6,800 yards, or about one hole shorter.

Tim Simpson birdied the 17th, a 168-yard par-3, to go 6-under when he hit a 7-iron to 25 feet from the hole and sank the putt. Sluman's telling birdie came on the 15th, a 384-yard par-4, when he knocked in a 4-footer.

"I don't think Medinah could ever be classified as easy. But when you look at the scores, if there ever was a day you could get at Medinah, it was today," said Sluman, whose only previous tour victory was in a major, the 1988 PGA. "The greens were holding and there was no wind."

Scott Simpson had just one bogey, on the first hole. On the back nine, he birdied the 9th, 10th, 14th and 15th holes. He sank a pair of 30-foot birdie putts on the front side and got to 6-under when he hit a wedge within six inches of the hole on No. 13.

Rebels win in overtime

Just call Rogelio Cervantes "Johnny-on-the-spot."

The 11-year-old catcher drove in three runs on three ground balls, leading the International League Rebels to a 7-6 extra-inning win over the National League Lions in a battle of unbeaten in the city Little League tournament.

Cervantes' last RBI, a ground ball to the shortstop, scored Joe Montez with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

The run capped off a nice comeback by the Rebels, who trailed 4-0 in the third inning. The winning run was manufactured by Rebel shortstop Montez.

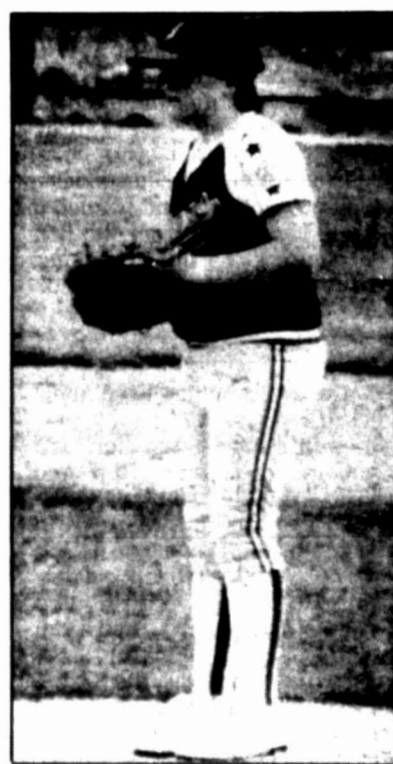

Montez led off the bottom of the seventh with his second double of the game; this one into the right center field gap. Then Rebel pitcher Manuel Cervantez, Rogelio's older brother, lined a hard shot that was gloved by Lions shortstop Wes Mouton.

The daring Montez, who had stole home in the fifth inning, took a big lead off second base. Lions pitcher Dallas Hopper tried a pickoff attempt, but the throw got past the second baseman, sending Montez to third.

Next cleanup hitter Jesse Hernandez was intentionally walked. Hernandez quickly stole second with Rogelio Cervantes at the plate.

Rogelio grounded the ball to Mouton, who made a fine throw home, but the speedy Montez slid in just under catcher's Oscar Canales' tag with the game winner.

The contest featured good pitching performances from both team's aces. Both Hopper and Manuel Cervantes went the distance, with Cervantes getting his ninth win in as many sions. Hopper fell to 5-2 for to the season. Cervantes allowed six hits, fanned eight and walked seven. Hopper pitched a five-hitter, struck out nine and walked five.

The first inning was scoreless, thanks to some nifty plays by the left fielders. Rebels' Maurice Martinez made a one-handed stab of a Canales fly deep in the gap; and Lions' Richard White snared a line drive by Hernandez.

The Lions exploded for three runs on three hits in the top of the second. Center fielder Polo Morin lined a hard shot past the shortstop. He went to third on wild pitches and scored on a passed ball. Next Gilbert Yanez walked, Brandon Kemper singled and White was hit by a pitch, loading the bases for Brant

In other tournament action, the National League Rangers eliminated two-time defending champs American League Colts. Also it was the International League Indians 13, International League Royals 2; American League Astros 12, Coahoma Oilers 4; National League Ponys 12, Coahoma Reds 8.

The victory allows the Lions, now 17-0 for the season, to advance to the winners' bracket finals against the IL Rebels, a 7-6 winner over the National League Lions. The Lions-Rebels tilt will be at 8 p.m. tonight at the International Field.

Pistons fans get out of hand

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Pistons fans celebrating the team's second consecutive NBA championship turned violent today as at least seven died and several more were critically injured.

The scene in the packed downtown streets was reminiscent of 1984 when the Detroit Tigers won the World Series and the celebration got out of hand.

Four of the deaths today were caused when a car plowed into pedestrians on the east side about 1:15 a.m., Detroit police Lt. Phil Foster said.

After that crash, a 9-year-old boy was pronounced dead at Children's Hospital, a 10-year-old boy and a 15-year-old girl died at St. John's Hospital, and a 21-year-old man died late this morning at Detroit Receiving Hospital, Detroit police Sgt. Christopher Buck said.

Another man with broken legs was being treated at Detroit Receiving Hospital. The driver of the car remained at large.

A parking-lot shooting killed a 19-year-old man and critically injured a 25-year-old man at 2:15 a.m., Foster said.

A 4-year-old suburban Detroit child was struck and killed by a car during a street celebration in River Rouge, said Lt. David Israel of the southern suburb's police department.

"The child was excited and ran into the street," said Israel, who withheld the name pending notification of relatives.

A 21-year-old man fell from the roof of an apartment building during a celebration party and died later at Detroit Receiving hospital, hospital spokeswoman Diane Cooper said.

Vandalism, scattered looting and other violence were reported around the Detroit area. River Rouge police arrested 28 revelers, most on disorderly conduct charges, Israel said. Detroit police had no overall arrest count.

Looters caused an estimated $15,000 in damage at Monte Carlo Market on Detroit's west side, WDIV-TV reported.

White Sox move closer to A's

By The Associated Press It was just another game, according to Manager Jeff Torborg. And if the Chicago White Sox play another one just like it, they will be in first place in the American League West.

The surprising White Sox climbed within a game of first-place Oakland by defeating the Athletics and ace Dave Stewart 3-2 Thursday night in the opener of a four-game series in Chicago.

It was the first meeting of the season between the teams with the best records in the AL. The A's are 39-20, the White Sox 37-20.

While more than 30,000 fans celebrated at ancient, lame-duck Comiskey Park, Torborg played it cool.

"A lot of people have made a lot of this series," Torborg said. "We have been trying to keep the focus on what it is; it is just another series in June against an outstanding club."

Chicago made it 3-0 in the second after loading the bases with one out on a walk to Carlton Fisk and singles by Sammy Sosa and Scott Fletcher. Fisk scored on Ozzie Guillen's grounder and Johnson's single scored Sosa.

Winner Eric King (6-1) gave up 10 hits but only one run in 5 2-3 innings. Bobby Thigpen pitched the ninth for his 21st save, breaking a tie with Oakland's Dennis Eckersley and Cleveland's Doug Jones for the major league lead.

Oakland scored in the third on Doug Jennings' triple and Carney Lansford's single. The A's got their other run off Wayne Edwards in the seventh on doubles by Dave Henderson and Felix Jose.

The A's wasted a chance in the fourth after loading the bases with none out on two singles and an error. King escaped by getting Rickey Henderson on a liner to third, striking out Jennings and retiring Lansford on a grounder.

Mariners 5, Rangers 4 Jeffrey Leonard's two-out single capped a three-run ninth inning.

Henry Cotto, whose seventh-inning homer tied the score 2-2, opened the ninth with a single off Texas reliever Kenny Rogers (2-2). Brian Giles also singled and Matt Sinatro sacrificed. Harold Reynolds drove in Cotto with a sacrifice fly and, after Edgar Martinez walked, pinch-hitter Darnell Coles singled Giles home with the tying run. Leonard greeted Craig McMurtry with a single to score Martinez. Keith Comstock (2-2), the third Seattle pitcher, worked the ninth inning for the victory. The Rangers had taken a 4-2 lead in the eighth when Pete Incaviglia and Jack Daugherty hit RBI doubles after Seattle starter Russ Swan yielded two runs and six hits in 7 1-3 innings. Texas starter Mike Jeffcoat (2-2) gave up two runs and eight hits in seven innings.

Blue Jays 7, Twins 1 Pat Borders hit a tie-breaking three-run homer in the sixth inning and Dave Stieb won his fourth straight game as Toronto handed Minnesota its seventh straight loss. Stieb (9-2) allowed five hits in seven innings, including a first-inning homer by Gene Larkin. Loser Allan Anderson (2-9) yielded five runs and 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings and suffered his fifth straight loss.

Yankees 3, Red Sox 1 Chuck Cary (3-2), knocked out in the first inning of his last start, held Boston to four hits and a run in seven innings. With the score tied 1-1, Jesse Barfield opened the seventh with a double, only the fifth hit off rookie Dana Kiecker (1-3). Barfield took third on Mel Hall's groundout against Rob Murphy.

Montreal rallies by struggling Cardinals

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Montreal Expos believe in kicking their opponents while they're down.

"You try to take advantage of teams when they're hurt or down and haven't been playing well,"

NL

Spike Owen said after Montreal rallied Thursday night to beat the struggling St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

"When they get healthy and start playing the way they're capable of playing, they're not going to let up on you. We need to take advantage of it while we're here."

A major part of St. Louis' problem, its bullpen, aided a two-run Expos comeback in the ninth inning.

Tom Niedenfuer (0-2) gave Larry Walker's single and a two-out walk to Owen. That brought on Ken Dayley, who yielded Mike Fitzgerald's tying single before walking both Dave Martinez and Tim Raines to force home the winning run.

It was the eighth time the Cardinals, who lost their fourth straight, have bowed after leading through eight innings.

By winning for the eighth time in their last 11 games, the Expos moved three games back of the National League East-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Martinez, who had three hits, gave Montreal a 1-0 lead when he, Raines and Tim Wallach each singled in the first. The Cardinals tied it in the second on Jose Oquendo's sacrifice fly and moved ahead 2-1 in the fifth when Oquendo walked, Smith singled and Ozzie Smith hit an RBI grounder.

Herzog said Bryn Smith's 119-pitch total while working on an eight-hitter was his reason for lifting him to start the ninth.

Giants 6, Padres 2 Kevin Mitchell hit two doubles and drove in three runs as San Francisco swept a three-game series in San Diego. The Padres also lost All-Star catcher Benito Santiago, who sustained a fractured left forearm when he was hit by a pitch and will miss six weeks.

The Giants went 6-1 on their road trip and have won 14 of 16.

Ed Vosberg (1-1) pitched a hitless sixth inning. The Padres loaded the bases against Steve Bedrosian in the ninth, but Roberto Alomar grounded into a game-ending double play.

Bruce Hurst (3-6) remained winless since May 18. Mike Kingery's sacrifice fly capped a three-run seventh inning that put the Giants ahead 3-2.

Reds 4, Braves 3 In Cincinnati, Barry Larkin singled home the winning run with two outs in the ninth inning in a game twice delayed by rain.

Paul O'Neill drew a two-out walk from Joe Boveer (1-3), took third when Billy Hatcher singled for his fourth hit and scored on Larkin's single to center.

Atlanta made it 3-3 in the ninth on Dale Murphy's RBI single with two outs. Rob Dibble (4-1) got the victory despite his fifth blown save in 11 tries.

Guards the major difference for world champions

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — When it was all over, Isiah Thomas wrapped his arm around Joe Dumars and led him into a private room for a private celebration.

Just the two of them — the NBA finals' most valuable player and the Detroit Pistons' most valuable player.

Thomas played brilliantly for his unanimous MVP honors, capping an exceptional series with 29 points Thursday night as the Pistons beat the Portland Trail Blazers 92-90 to capture their second straight championship.

"A lot of people want to judge by statistics," Thomas said. "I would rather be thought of as a player who knows how to win. I know how to win."

That Dumars just played was enough for his teammates. His father died Sunday just before Game 3, yet he didn't miss a game — and there was still a funeral ahead in Louisiana. "I knew my papa would want me to stay," Dumars said. "I put myself in his situation. He's gone through adversity for 2½ years and he toughed it out."

Said teammate Bill Laimbeer: "He knows what to do in every situation, both from a basketball standpoint and a life standpoint."

In their special way, Thomas and Dumars was exceptional in this series.

Thomas made 13 of 20 shots in the final and averaged 27.6 points, 5.2 rebounds and seven assists per game.

"That he won the MVP is insignificant," Laimbeer said. "He is our MVP. The team has his personality, the determination, the desire, the heart revolves around him."

Dumars, however, struggled in the final game, missing 11 of 13 shots and scoring just eight points. But it's not unusual for the Pistons to win despite off games from key players.

Thomas had 15 points in the first quarter and 20 in the first half Thursday night as the Pistons took a 46-42 halftime lead. He hit all three of his 3 pointers.

The Pistons called a timeout with 2:02 left and Portland ahead 90-83. Venio Johnson scored the next five points and Thomas tied the game with an 18-foot jumper.

Johnson won it with a 15-foot jumper with seven-tenths of a second remaining.

Rebels

Farris. The Lions second baseman responded with a hit over the third baseman's head, down the line, scoring Yanez and Kemper and giving the Lions a 3-0 lead.

In the top of the third, Morin, batting in the cleanup spot, got ahold of Manuel Cervantes' first offering and blasted a rocket that hit halfway up on the light pole in left field. His solo shot gave the visitors a 4-0 advantage.

The Rebels answered with three runs off two hits in the bottom of the inning. With one out, Joe Pesina walked, and scored on Montez's double. Next Manuel Cervantes tripled down the right field line, scoring Montez. The Rebels third run occurred when Rogelio Cervantes grounded out to second, scoring brother Manuel from third.

After a scoreless fourth inning, the Lions made the Rebels pay dearly for two throwing errors in the top of the fifth. With one out, Yanez hit a little dribbler to the right of the pitcher's mound. Manuel Cervantes' throw got past the first baseman, the alert Yanez never stopped churning and headed to third. The throw from the first baseman was wild, and Yanez sprinted on home with an inside-the-parker that never left the infield.

The Lions led 5-3.

Just like they did in the third inning, the Rebels responded with three runs of their own in the fifth, taking the lead for the first time in the contest.

Montez led off with a walk, which was followed by an infield hit by Manuel Cervantes. Montez and Manuel Cervantes advanced on passed balls. Then Montez, caught the pitcher napping as he was walking back to the mound after receiving the throw from the catcher. Montez broke for home, and by the time

Hopper had recovered, Montez slid under the catcher's tag.

Hernandez then reached first on a catcher's interference call, and he promptly stole second. The Cervantes brothers clicked again, as Rogelio drove in Manuel with a ground ball to second.

Hernandez went to third and a wild throw to third, allowed him to score the go-ahead run.

The Lions managed a run in the top of the sixth however. White reached base on a fielding error by the third baseman. Farris came through with a base hit past the third baseman, and Canales walked, loading the bases for Kaegan Welch. Welch bunted, but Manuel Cervantes was prepared, fielding the ball and stepping on home plate to force White out.

This brought up the heavy-hitting Morin. Throwing nothing but fastballs, Manuel Cervantes caught Morin looking at a third strike on the outside corner. But Yanez on four pitches, bringing in Farris with the tying run. Manuel Cervantes then fanned Mouton for the third time, getting out of the bases loaded jam.

Hopper put the Rebels down in order in the bottom of the sixth, and Manuel Cervantes held the Lions scoreless in the top of the seventh, despite surrendering a single to Hopper.

This set the stage for Rogelio Cervantes' "Johnny-on-the-spot" routine, giving the Rebels the win.

Ruiz

walked one in his five-inning stint.

"(Brian's) come through for us all year long," Coahoma coach Bill Gressett said after the game. "He relies on his curve ball and he had them off-balance all night."

While Ruiz provided most of the defense, the Lions took advantage of eight hits and seven Panthers' errors to keep their record spotless.

Leading the way for the Coahoma crew were Ruiz and Chris Arguello, who both collected two hits in three trips to the plate. Ruiz had two RBIs, while Arguello, Rodney Gressett, Adam Tindol and Freddy Olivas each batted a run home.

Heridia, who was the losing pitcher for the Panthers, kept the Lions off-balance for the first two innings, but the roof fell in after that, as the Coahomans drilled him for seven runs on four hits.

Leadoff hitter Steven Prater reached on an error and quickly scored on Gressett's double down the left field line. Gressett didn't have long to wait on base, as Arguello brought him home with a sharp single to left center.

Tindol's grounder was mishandled by shortstop Adam Cruz, and Arguello scored in the ensuing confusion while Tindol wound up on second. Freddy Olivas then brought Tindol home with single to left field.

The Lions ended the inning's scoring when Jeremy Meek and Ruiz scored on another error by Cruz.

They added three more runs in the fourth on a single by Tindol that scored Arguello and a two-run single by Ruiz.

After the game, coach Gressett said his team needed a little bit of time to get going.

"By the second time around for our batters, we just pounded him," Gressett said. "That's the first pitcher they've faced this year that threw that slow. The first time at bat, they were just ahead of him."

Pistons

Blazers a 58-55 lead with 6:07 left.

Porter, who had 10 points in the quarter, hit his third 3-pointer with 3.8 seconds left giving the Trail Blazers a 69-65 advantage.

Thomas made seven of nine shots and scored 15 points in the first period, carrying the Pistons to a 26-22 lead. Four of Thomas' seven baskets in the quarter put Detroit ahead, accounting for four of the nine lead changes in the first 12 minutes.

A 3-pointer by Danny Young and a tip-in by Kersey gave Portland a 27-26 edge early in the second quarter, but Thomas' second 3-pointer of the game keyed an 11-2 run that put Detroit ahead 37-29 with 7:34 left in the half.

Thomas then left the game for four minutes and Detroit scored only two points in that span.

Duckworth, meanwhile, made five baskets in 6:39, helping the Pistons tie the score 41-41 with 1:37 left in the period.

Dumars, who missed his first five shots, then made his only basket of the first half and converted a three-point play, helping Detroit take a 46-42 halftime lead.

The Pistons won the series opener 105-99, extending their playoff winning streak at home to 10 games, after trailing 90-80 with seven minutes left. Thomas scored 16 of his 33 points the rest of the way, including 14 in a five-minute span, to bring Detroit back.

A 30-15 run gave Portland a 53-45 halftime lead in the second game, but the Pistons came back again behind consecutive 3-pointers by Laimbeer to take an 89-86 lead with three minutes left.

The Trail Blazers forced overtime, but three more 3-pointers by Laimbeer, giving him six in the game, helped the Pistons lead 105-104 with 4.1 seconds to go. Two free throws with 2.1 seconds left by Drexler, who scored 33 points, put Portland in front for a 106-105 victory.

Americans smiling after defeat

ROME (AP) — This was supposed to be a Roman slaughter, the way they used to do it in the old days at the Colosseum across town. But this time, the victim not only survived, but laughed and smiled, too.

"It's not easy to come into the lion's den and play," U.S. forward Bruce Murray said Thursday night after the United States lost to Italy by only 1-0 in the World Cup.

The experts predicted a blowout, maybe a record setter. Uh, uh. Not this time. On this night, the little guys hung tough.

"A loss can never be a victory," forward Chris Sullivan said. "But the big thing is that we're putting American soccer on the map. People are going to have a little bit of respect for Americans, especially in our own country."

Giuseppe Giannini gave Italy the lead in the 11th minute and, for the next hour, the Americans played as if they were content with only a one-goal loss, drawing strength after the Italians missed a penalty kick late in the first half.

Then, in the 70th minute, the United States suddenly came to life, forcing Italy's Walter Zenga to make two diving saves, first on Bruce Murray off a free kick, then on Peter Vermes' rebound.

"They played as a cohesive unit," U.S. coach Bob Gansler said. "They were tactically sound. They were prudent in their decisions. I think we showed ourselves — which is the most important thing as far as I'm concerned — that we belong."

At the end of the game, the Italian fans booed and whistled their team, which qualified for the second round with the victory. The result was astonishing, given the Americans' 5-1 loss to Czechoslovakia on Sunday.

"They said we were 50-1 underdogs for this game," U.S. midfielder Tab Ramos said. "The last 15 minutes, it didn't look that way."

On a warm spring night in the Eternal City, 73,423 screaming fans came to Olympic Stadium, rebuilt for the World Cup. At the monument to Benito Mussolini, which still stands at the entrance, scalpers were selling tickets to the sold-out match eight hours before kickoff.

Inside, the scene was a spectacle rivaling any in sport. Thousands of fans began chanting and waving Italian flags an hour before the start, creating a sea of red, white and green in the steeply banked oval.

The Italians took control from the start. Gansler said he knew that would happen and planned for it.

"We couldn't make it a 120-yard game," he said. "We were going to lose the horse race if we did."

ROME — Italy's Giuseppe Giannini (left) and John Harkes from the United States, jumps over United States' Michael Windischmann (on ground) as Giannini is heading towards the U.S. goal, to score the only goal of the game.

Then the Italians went ahead with a dazzling combination of one-touch passing. Andrea Carnavale gave the ball to Nicola Berti, who sent it on to Roberto Donadoni, who dished off to Giannini after GianLuca Vialli let the ball roll by. Giannini, who had gotten away from defender Desmond Armstrong, jumped over Michael Windischmann and put a 15-yard, left-footed shot past goalkeeper Tony Meola before

Armstrong could catch up. "He pushed the ball in and then lifted it over me," Windischmann said. Italy continued to dominate, but couldn't add to the lead, despite getting a penalty kick in the 32nd minute. Berti ran past Paul Caligiuri at the top of the penalty area and went down after he collided softly with Caligiuri's leg. Referee Edgardo Codesal of Mexico awarded the penalty kick, but Vialli — Italy's star striker — missed the shot, putting the ball off the lower left post even as Meola was diving the other way.

"I said, 'Come on, guys, let's hold hands on the sideline together,'" Sullivan remembered. "And we were all squeezing tight and saying, 'Come on, keep the faith.' And it was great. It hit the post."

Armstrong said that turned things around.

"That said to us, 'These guys aren't bigger than life. We can play with them. Let's go out there and do it.'"

The best U.S. chance came with 20 minutes left, when Murray took a free kick from about 25 yards. Zenga dived to his right to save it, got up and dived forward to stop Vermes on the rebound, slowing the ball down as it hit his thighs and bounced through his legs. Defender Riccardo Ferri then cleared the ball off the goal line.

"We did put U.S. soccer somewhere on the world map," Murray said. "Four days ago, no one — even in our own country — would give us the credit we earned."

Names in the news

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Actor Martin Sheen urged a supermarket chain to boycott Folgers coffee to persuade Procter & Gamble to stop buying beans from war-torn El Salvador.

Sheen joined a demonstration Tuesday by about three dozen people outside a shareholders meeting of the Arden supermarket chain.

The boycott was started in November by peace organizations to protest the slayings in El Salvador of six Jesuit priests. Salvadoran military officers have been implicated in the killings.

"My country should not be funding the killers of the Jesuit priests with our tax dollars or our consumer dollars," Sheen said.

An Arden spokesman, Ernest Klinger, said the company would continue to stock Folgers to give consumers a full selection.

Don Tassone of P&G, which makes Folgers, called the boycott "preposterous." He said P&G buys coffee from at least 30 countries, and the Salvadoran product amounts to less than 2 percent of the coffee in Folgers.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Cajun fiddler-singer Doug Kershaw spent a few hours in jail before posting $132,000 bail to cover alimony he allegedly owes his ailing ex-wife.

Kershaw, the 53-year-old "ragin' Cajun" best known for his 1961 song "Louisiana Man," was jailed Friday after performing at the Tennessee State Fairgrounds. A contempt hearing was set for July 18.

Kershaw's former wife, Elsie Griffin Kershaw, 72, is destitute and in ill health, said her attorney, Jack Norman Jr.

According to a petition filed by Norman, Kershaw had avoided payment of $750 a month in alimony when the couple divorced in 1977, after seven years of marriage.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Erich Segal, actress Joan Van Ark, boxer Roberto Duran, comedian Stan Laurel.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can gain a lot — money, romance and new business — from traveling now. Stay alert to fresh opportunities. An outsider opens the door to success. A novel scheme deserves further investigation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You may have to ask for more time to do a project right. A careful explanation will get you what you want. Constant travel takes its toll. Reserve more time for rest, relaxation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are overly sensitive about something you did and now regret. Stop making a mountain out of a molehill. Put your mistakes behind you and move forward with confidence. An old flame returns.

CANCER (June 21-July 22):

Projects begun now will turn out great! Be bold and try something new. Let higher-ups know in advance if you will need extra time to complete an assignment. Your honesty pays dividends.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Romance reaches a turning point. Do not hide your vulnerability from mate. If you do, your good intentions could be misread. A new friendship may leave you with some doubts about yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You should do quite well in any competition you enter today. Preparation pays off. Regular exercise will increase your stamina. Just avoid going to extremes! Romance enjoys favorable influences tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A second honeymoon will restore your zest for life. Keep your discussions with a competitor friendly. A move you have been contemplating should be made without further delay.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Attention to detail can spell the difference between profit and loss on a job. Others will show you more respect when you treat yourself better. Begin negotiations about a money issue.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Shop for bargains, but only buy things you really like. A reconciliation ushers in a wonderful period for romance. Do not disappoint someone who trusts you. Keep any promises you make to mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A busy and productive day lies ahead. A money source appears to be drying up. Be sure a project is a sound investment. An inventive approach will open new doors. Enjoy a night out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you feel uncomfortable, follow your instincts. Luck favors those involved in athletic competitions. A young person takes a shine to you. Help a child find the answer to an academic problem.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An old friend introduces you to new pleasures. This is not an opportune time for negotiating business deals or signing legal contracts. Keep romance alive by reaching out. Partner will surprise you!

Rockin' mom

LIBERTYVILLE, Ill. — Mary Morello, leader of "Parents for Rock and Rap," rests on a stack of compact disks here Thursday. The 66-year-old retired school teacher is defending the right of people to listen to rock and rap music that some others would rather have muzzled.

Argument ends in shooting

ALTO (AP) — A dispute over the use of a pay telephone has left an East Texas man in serious condition after he was shot three times and attacked by seven people, police say. Mark Hudson, 21, of Alto, was in Tyler Medical Center Hospital today where he is being treated for three gunshot wounds and other injuries when he was attacked while walking away from a pay telephone at a convenience store Wednesday.

Hudson told Alto Police Chief Larry Glidden that one of his assailants was a man he had argued with earlier about the use of a pay telephone.

Seven people, including two juveniles, were arrested on attempted murder charges. Glidden said.

They were Betty Jean Jones, 25; Willie Deon Woods, 18; Derrick Lamont Dorsey, 17; David N. Ballard, 21; Nathan Earl Blackshear, 18, and the two juveniles.

Lovers suffer painful kiss

EL PASO (AP) — Two lovers necking on a rock wall lost their balance in midkiss and fell 20 feet, police said.

David de la Rosa, 19, suffered head and spinal injuries in the tumble behind his apartment complex. He was in good condition at Beaumont Army Medical Center.

Elvira Ortiz, 22, of Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, suffered head and shoulder injuries. She was in stable condition at R.E. Thomason General Hospital.

6 indicted in insurance case

AUSTIN (AP) — Six people have been indicted on charges of organized criminal activity in the alleged embezzlement of more than $1.6 million from the Austin office of the American Insurance Group, the Travis County district attorney says.

The six, all from the Dallas area, are accused of using a computer terminal in the Austin office to generate false payments for workers' compensation care from the company's New York office, District Attorney Ronald Earle said Thursday.

Earle said checks were mailed from the company's New York office to various private mailboxes in Houston and Dallas. The payments totaled $1.6 million, he said.

The investigation into the payments began last summer and resulted in the seizure of more than $600,000 in a Dallas bank.

Organized criminal activity in this case is a first-degree felony.

Congressmen divided on flag quarrel

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Critics of a proposed constitutional amendment against burning the American flag claim it is being rushed through as ammunition for fall campaigns, but sponsors say it should move faster.

"Everybody seems to understand that we have to get this done before the elections in November," Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., said Thursday. "You don't have to be a rocket scientist to see what's driving this thing."

The comment came as part of an outpouring of Flag Day rhetoric in Congress that focused on the amendment to allow the federal government and the states to ban burning or otherwise defacing the American flag.

Beyond Washington, the flag marked its birthday by being raised, debated, frozen and burned as the debate over the national symbol rolled across America.

"Make Our Day — Try And Burn These Flags, Pinkos," read the sign in a Chicago parade. Elsewhere in the city, that's just what some of them did. Members of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade burned flags outside the Art Institute, where an exhibit was shut down last year because of its controversial depiction of the flag.

In Vermont, the state archivist suggested another amendment to protect the flag. Gregory Sanford said the very federal law that says how many stars and stripes must be on the flag should be amended to require that the flag be made out of fireproof material. That way if a flag catches fire, it's not a real one and doesn't count, he said.

A California peace activist froze a flag in a cake tin and displayed it to reporters as he called for a freeze in nuclear weapons. "I'm really burned up about this flag amendment," said Jerry Rubin, who is not related to the more famous activist of the same name.

In Pittsburgh, the observance was traditional as Boy Scouts sang "America The Beautiful," raised a flag and rang a replica of the Liberty Bell.

A 5-4 Supreme Court decision Monday scrapped last year's statutory ban on flag burning, setting the stage for the drive to amend the Constitution.

The proposed amendment could be on the House floor as early as next week.

The Senate Judiciary Committee plans hearings next week and sponsors say a floor vote could come before the Fourth of July, although that is not certain.

To become part of the Constitution, the measure would have to get two-thirds support in both the House and Senate and win ratification by 38 state legislatures.

Texas beaches used to tar

By JOEL WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer

A day at the beach in Texas wouldn't be complete without gooey, black tar decorating the sand. It's a souvenir many take home on their car carpeting or beach towels.

And now a fresh supply of beach tar is on the way, thanks to a leak from the damaged super tanker Mega Borg. The tanker has leaked at least 3 million gallons of oil into the Gulf of Mexico since an explosion and fire last Friday night.

Most of it evaporated or burned, but about 12,000 gallons remained in the water in a slick that extended for 30 miles, the Coast Guard said Thursday. Tar balls are forming from the oil that hasn't gone away.

But tar has been a fact of life at Texas beaches for a long time.

Scientists still debate whether the beach tar comes mainly from natural seepage from the ocean floor or from drilling rigs and oil tankers, said Tony Amos, an oceanographer who has surveyed conditions at Mustang Island for the past 12 years.

Early historical reports show the coastal Karankawa Indians in the early 16th Century used tar for a variety of purposes, and that early Spanish explorers patched their boats with it.

But tar accumulations on the shoreline increase dramatically after such major oil spills as the Burmah Agate tanker spill and the Ixtoc I blowout, both in 1979. Amos found 90 percent of shore birds at Mustang Island had oil on them.

Tale of stolen art shocks Whitewright residents

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

WHITEWRIGHT, Texas — People who knew Joe T. Meador say they can't believe the quiet man who loved art and orchids kept a cache of stolen medieval artifacts worth millions in this tiny North Texas community.

"I just don't believe he was that kind of a man," said 73-year-old Mary Bryant, who says he visited Meador's home but didn't remember seeing sumptuous works of art.

"He didn't seem the type of guy to me that would do something like that," said Troyce Spencer, a resident of Whitewright, population 1,760 about 60 miles north of Dallas.

Odell Caraway, adjutant of American Legion Post 225, to which Meador once belonged, said, "He was the type of fellow that didn't mix with people much. He just got what he wanted and went on. As far as I know, he's never been involved in any kind of crooked stuff."

The New York Times reported Thursday that Meador, who was stationed in Germany during the final days of World War II, took priceless works of art and manuscripts from Quedlinburg, an ancient castle town in what is now East Germany.

The Times said Meador brought back to Texas a small silver reliquary inlaid with enamels and precious stones, with side panels of carved ivory; a liturgical ivory comb; a manuscript dated 1513; several rock crystal flasks and gold and silver crucifixes, and other treasures.

One German expert said the Quedlinburg treasures, dating from the 9th and 10th centuries, could be worth more than a Van Gogh painting — one of which recently fetched a record $82.5 million.

The Times reported today that a church in Quedlinburg has retained top lawyers to seek the return of the priceless artworks.

Willi A. Korte, a West German Government official who specializes in the repatriation of cultural property, and Thomas R. Kline, of the law firm Andrews & Kurth of Washington and Dallas, said they would fly to Dallas Friday to negotiate with the family of Meador, The Times said.

Neither those lawyers nor John S. Torigan, an attorney for Meador's brother, Jack, in Dallas, could be reached for comment Thursday by The Associated Press.

Richards, Clayton debate insider, outsider benefits

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Among their many other differences, the gubernatorial candidates are debating which background is better — being a government insider or an Austin outsider.

Democrat Ann Richards said Thursday it's time for Texas voters to elect a governor who can run government.

"Nobody's been governor who tried to manage state government... They've just tried to hold the lid on" during crisis after crisis, Ms. Richards told a convention of elementary school principals.

"We've played games all these years (by) electing someone who is not a part of government. And you've seen the results of that. They cannot make the system work," said Ms. Richards.

Her opponent, Republican Clayton Williams, told the same group that his career in business makes him the better choice.

Calling for some dramatic changes in public education, Williams said, "I am here today to say that as an outsider — and not part of the Austin establishment — a Williams administration will challenge the status quo," he said.

In his brief speech, Williams suggested revamping public schools to allow students and parents the freedom to choose any state-accredited school they wish.

Saying it was time to abandon the "centralized bureaucracy" in public education and expanding local options, Williams insisted that the proposal — which parallels a Brookings Institution report — could increase competition among schools and said such pressure would bring improvements.

But Ms. Richards, a former public school teacher and two-term state treasurer, said Williams would be a rerun of Republican Gov. Bill Clements, who like Meador died in 1980 at the age of 64. He had co-owned a family hardware and farm tool business and grew orchids in a greenhouse behind the two-story Victorian home he shared with his mother, Mabel.

A local antiques connoisseur said he had been in Meador's home, but could not recall seeing anything noteworthy.

A former employee of Meador, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Meador reportedly showed his employees richly bound gold and silver manuscripts.

But three longtime Meador employees, said Thursday, they'd never known their boss to show off any art works.

An unidentified source told The Times that the treasures are in the vault of the First National Bank of Whitewright, reportedly as collateral for a loan.

But, Harrell Stowers, bank executive vice president, refused to confirm the information Thursday when asked by The Associated Press.

Williams

 Williams was in the oil business before being elected governor.

Ms. Richards criticized Clements for taking four special legislative sessions before agreeing to a sales tax increase to meet a court order to provide more money for poor school districts.

"Not only did our current governor fail to offer leadership, he obstructed progress every step of the way," she said.

"He (Williams) said, 'Bill Clements and I (Williams) are cut from the same cloth' And that cloth is wearing mighty thin," she said.

Ms. Richards said her goal as governor would be to listen to teachers and school administrators in reforming the school system.

"I think that I'm the only hope that public education has," she said.

Ms. Richards said she favored "a professional wage" for teachers, improved health care benefits and a Teacher Retirement System "that is secure and is not treated as a source of available funds when the state runs low."

Ms. Richards spoke for 50 minutes, frequently interrupted by applause.

Williams spoke for only about 10 minutes, then quickly left for another speaking engagement.

The Republican said he knew his ideas would be controversial with the principals.

Farm scene

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Eastern Europe could be an important new market for agricultural products in a few years, but an Agriculture Department analyst predicts the competition will be fierce.

"These countries are already aiming to join in world trade as full partners and extend liberalized access to their market," said Miles Lambert of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Competition for Eastern European market shares is already gearing up, with the European Economic Community having an advantage because of its proximity. Also, he said, some EEC members "are resuming traditional special relationships" with some of the eastern countries.

Notably, these include West Germany with Czechoslovakia and Hungary, and France with Romania.

Lambert, writing in the July issue of AgExporter magazine, said Eastern Europe will be attractive to the EEC "as a region in which to market surplus farm output."

"However," he added, the relatively high costs of (EEC) farming and low near-term purchasing power of East Europeans means the EEC will probably need to resort to export subsidies to undercut the competition."

The United States is pushing for a reduction or elimination of trade-distorting national policies, including export subsidies, during the current Uruguay Round of negotiations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Export subsidies, particularly by the EEC, have been a sore point for many years in the United States, which has been using a subsidy program of its own — the Export Enhancement Program — to counter price-cutting competition. Lambert said that for most of the past 40 years, food consumption in Eastern Europe was "strictly subordinated" to other state priorities, meaning that consumers had to make do with what was available.

"Hence, the long lines and empty shelves that characterized communist rule," he said.

The shift to competitive market economies, however, means East European farm and food enterprises will have to be responsive to consumer demands.

"At the same time, democratization is bringing consumerism to the forefront of economic policy," Lambert said. "It is even possible that national food policies aimed at upgrading food quality and nutrition will be set out and become as much a cornerstone of agricultural policy as mercantile considerations have been."

Leaders in Eastern Europe no longer talk about self-sufficiency in terms of domestic production supplying food requirements.

"Rather, they speak of importing food to add to domestic supplies while exporting agricultural goods as an offset," he said. "For example, a Romanian official has said that his country eventually should export surpluses of wheat and wine while importing enough animal feedstuffs to cover domestic demand for livestock products."

But in the near term, Lambert said, it is unlikely agriculture in Eastern Europe will make great strides.

"Poland and Romania, which are two of the most populous East European countries (38 million and 23 million people, respectively), could face several years of serious shortages," he said.

Consequently, U.S. food-aid programs may be used to make agricultural commodities available to those countries, Lambert said.

Flag

 Flag Day furnished lawmakers with an occasion to give full vent to their views on the highly charged issue.

Far from rushing the measure, the Senate is moving too slowly, said Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

"We've already had hearings, we've been down that route, we don't need any more hearings, we ought to bring the bill to the floor ... let's have a vote," Dole said.

He served as master of ceremonies for a rally at which veterans in American Legion caps along with tourists wearing cameras on straps swarmed over the Capitol lawn to hear partisans of the amendment call for action.

WASHINGTON — Dams and other projects built since the mid-1950s under the federal small watershed program have helped ease the damage from floods this spring in south-central areas, the National Association of Conservation Districts reports.

In Oklahoma, where nearly one-third of the small watershed structures are located, Soil Conservation Service officials estimated that more than $6 million in damages was avoided.

More than 600 small watershed dams were built in the southeastern and south-central parts of Oklahoma, the association said in its latest newsletter.

The dams were designed to catch flood water and slowly release it over 10 to 20 days. More than 16 billion gallons of water were held by the dams during the heavy rains of April and May.
