Monday's high was record for date

Monday's high temperature of 107 degrees in Big Spring broke the records for that date in previous years.

U.S. Agricultural Extension Agency reports showed the record high for June 25 was 106 degrees, set in 1953. The high-heat trend is expected to continue, agency officials said.

Engineering Technician Charles Yates said the highest temperature on record for Big Spring is 113 degrees, a temperature that has been reached on several occasions.

Gray continues to elude authorities

Authorities continue to search for Snyder prison escapee Travis Dale Gray with no reported developments in the investigation.

"We're checking out every possible lead until the door closes on it," said Assistant Warden Charlie Streetman of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice facility.

He said he was not aware of any specific plan of action in the search.

"All I can say is that we're still searching for him," Streetman said. "We still want to get public input."

Last week Streetman reported the authorities would focus on Big Spring where Gray's wife resides. He said today there have been no calls from private citizens in the Big Spring area reporting to have sighted Gray.

Gray, a resident of Big Spring, had begun serving a 40-year sentence for the 1988 murder of his wife. He was convicted of strangling and forcibly drowning her in Lake Colordo City.

He escaped June 20 by hiding in the back of a delivery truck as it left the prison furniture factory where he was employed.

Some area people still not counted

As the national census enters its final phase locally, officials say they still haven't received all the census forms from area residents.

"We have had reports that there are still some forms out," said Crew Leader Jane H. Moore. "It's important that we get them all back in so we can get everybody counted."

Moore said people who haven't had their forms collected by enumerators should contact her or other members of the Census Bureau at 263-2715, 267-7566 or 267-6251.

Moore added that enumerators are required to show identification when distributing or collecting the census forms. If someone suspects the enumerator may be an impostor, Moore said he or she should contact the sheriff's department, which has files on all local census employees.

WASHINGTON — President Bush shakes hands with South African leader Nelson Mandela at the White House Monday. Mandela said the support that South African blacks have received from the U.S. has been crucial to promoting changes in his country.

Mandela refuses to renounce use of violence by ANC

WASHINGTON — Nelson Mandela is delivering an historic speech to a joint meeting of Congress today amid some lawmakers' uneasiness about his support for radical governments and his refusal to renounce armed struggle.

Mandela came away from three hours of talks with President Bush on Monday satisfied that U.S. economic sanctions against the white-ruled South African government will continue.

The deputy president of the African National Congress was making his case to lawmakers today in a series of speeches and closed-door discussions.

Mandela is the fourth black man and only the third private citizen to address Congress. The others were Polish Solidarity leader Lech Walesa in 1989 and the Marquis de Lafayette in 1824.

But some in Congress said they were unhappy with Mandela's public support for Cuban President Fidel Castro, Libyan leader Muammar Gadhafi and Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat.

"I wish he (Mandela) had not said those things, very frankly. They were not helpful," said Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa and a leading advocate of the 1986 legislation that imposed tough economic sanctions on South Africa.

Mandela closes his three-day visit to the capital with a sold-out speech tonight to 19,000 people at the Washington Convention Center after a noontime rally at a downtown plaza. The rest of his stay has focused on talks with U.S. officials on issues such as economic sanctions.

Mandela, 71, was honored at a dinner Monday night hosted by Sens. David Boren, D-Okla., chair-

Big Spring rodeo to buck out tomorrow

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — It's that time of the year: Time to go steam that crease in your Stetson and shine your cowboy boots because the 57th Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo is coming to town.

Scheduled for nightly performances Wednesday through Sunday, at 8:30 at the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl, this year's rodeo is expected to have all the roping, riding, eating, dancing, pretty ladies and tough hombres you can handle. Admission is $6 for adults and $4 for children.

The rodeo gets an early start tonight when the first round of "slack" competition begins at 8. The highlight could be county-singing star George Strait, as he has entered the team roping with eight-time world champion calf roper Roy Cooper. Admission to the slack is $2.

This rodeo is the second oldest in Texas, second only to the West of the Pecos Rodeo, which will be next week. The Big Spring Rodeo Association, along with sponsors Coors and Coca-Cola will be putting up the prize money for all the winners.

Mack Altizer and Bad Company Rodeo from Sonora will provide the livestock, and Randy Corley of North Platte, Neb., will be the announcer.

The clowns will be Coahoma's Quail Dobbs, Mike (Smurf) Horton of Zolfo Springs, Fla., Roach Hedeman of El Paso and Chuck Kinney of Sulphur, La.

John Farris will serve as arena announcer and Mildred Farris will be rodeo secretary.

The festivities kick off with a rodeo parade, headed by parade chairman and rodeo association member Harry Middleton.

The parade will move through Big Spring Wednesday beginning at 4 p.m. The parade will start at 10th and Main, go over to Scurry Street, and back to 10th and Main.

Anyone who wants to participate in the festivities should be there at 3:30. Marchers, horseback riders, cars, trucks and floats are welcome. A special prize will be awarded to the best riding group. One of the featured riding groups will be the Howard County Sheriff's Posse. Middleton can be contacted at 267-5964.

Following the parade, the Sheriff's Posse will provide a barbecue at the Howard County Fair Barn. Price is $5.25 per plate.

After each nightly rodeo performance, a dance will be held at the Fair Barn. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, the music will be provided by locals Jody Nix

A spirit of adventure brought Mitchel to Texas

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

It took a job offer to lure Ruth Mitchel from New York to Texas City in 1952. But it was youth and adventure, in a true western spirit, that made her stay on the train and continue with a girlfriend on to San Antonio, a place she had never been before.

She never did see Texas City — never even interviewed for the job, she said. She just nestled into an apartment not far from the San Antonio River and got a different job.

Getting her to go further west to the old frontier town of Big Spring a year later was just as smooth. This time it was romance — a marriage to her husband William, a Big Spring native.

The New York state native finally found her home when she arrived here. The only move she has made since then was to nearby Coahoma.

"I'm just not a big city person at all," said Mitchel, 62, who is retiring Thursday from the Howard County Consolidated Tax Appraisal District after 26 years of keeping books for the office.

Life in Big Spring was more simple then, she says. It offered insulation from what she saw as an intense money-grabbing environment in New York. "I just never cared for the money-grabbing situation," she said.

Her cares were more simple then, too. The 24-year-old woman, who had just graduated from Syracuse University with a liberal arts degree, and her friend on that train 38 years ago in January had no idea what to expect when they arrived in San Antonio.

"It was just sort of an adventure," Mitchel said. "I guess because it was the next stop on the train. I don't know."

"I had no earthly idea what was coming up. I didn't even know where my next meal was coming from."

Offering an explanation, she said, "We were young, ignorant and just having a good time." They had no problems once they got there though, renting an apartment soon after arriving and then getting jobs.

Before the year was over, she would be on her way to Big Spring — this time with a more definite purpose. "I came out to Big Spring to get married," Mitchel said. "It

Inside TexasCentral Texas city limits water use

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Mandatory water conservation, including limitations on lawn watering and car washing, will go into effect Tuesday for the first time in this city of 37,000, according to Melissa Millecam, public information officer.

Under the order signed by City Manager Larry Gilley, lawn watering would be allowed from 7 p.m. to 10 a.m., only by hand-held hoses with a trigger that automatically shuts off when it is not pressed, Ms. Millecam said.

The use of automatic sprinkler systems also will be restricted.

Non-commercial car washing will be allowed only if residents use a hand-held hose or bucket. Wasting water is prohibited except to alleviate fire hazards or protect public health. Waste includes washing down sidewalks, driveways, parking areas, tennis courts, patios or other paved areas.

San Marcos relies on the Edwards Aquifer for its water, and that aquifer currently is 40 feet below normal level, Ms. Millecam said.

Man's burned body finally identified

CHILDRASS (AP) — A body found earlier this month in the debris of an unoccupied home destroyed by fire has been identified as the common-law husband of the homeowner's niece.

Philip Gonzales, 19, was reported missing shortly after fire destroyed the three-bedroom dwelling on April 7. But Gonzales did not live in the house, and all of the known residents had been accounted for, investigators said.

And police received reports Gonzales had been seen in Altus, Okla., and was all right.

Then on June 15, as workers sifted through debris of the destroyed house, a body was found under a foot of rubble.

An autopsy determined that the man died of smoke inhalation, and foul play was not believed involved. Amarillo forensic pathologist Dr. Ralph Erdmann identified the body as Gonzales after comparing the remains with an X-ray taken two years ago at a Childress hospital.

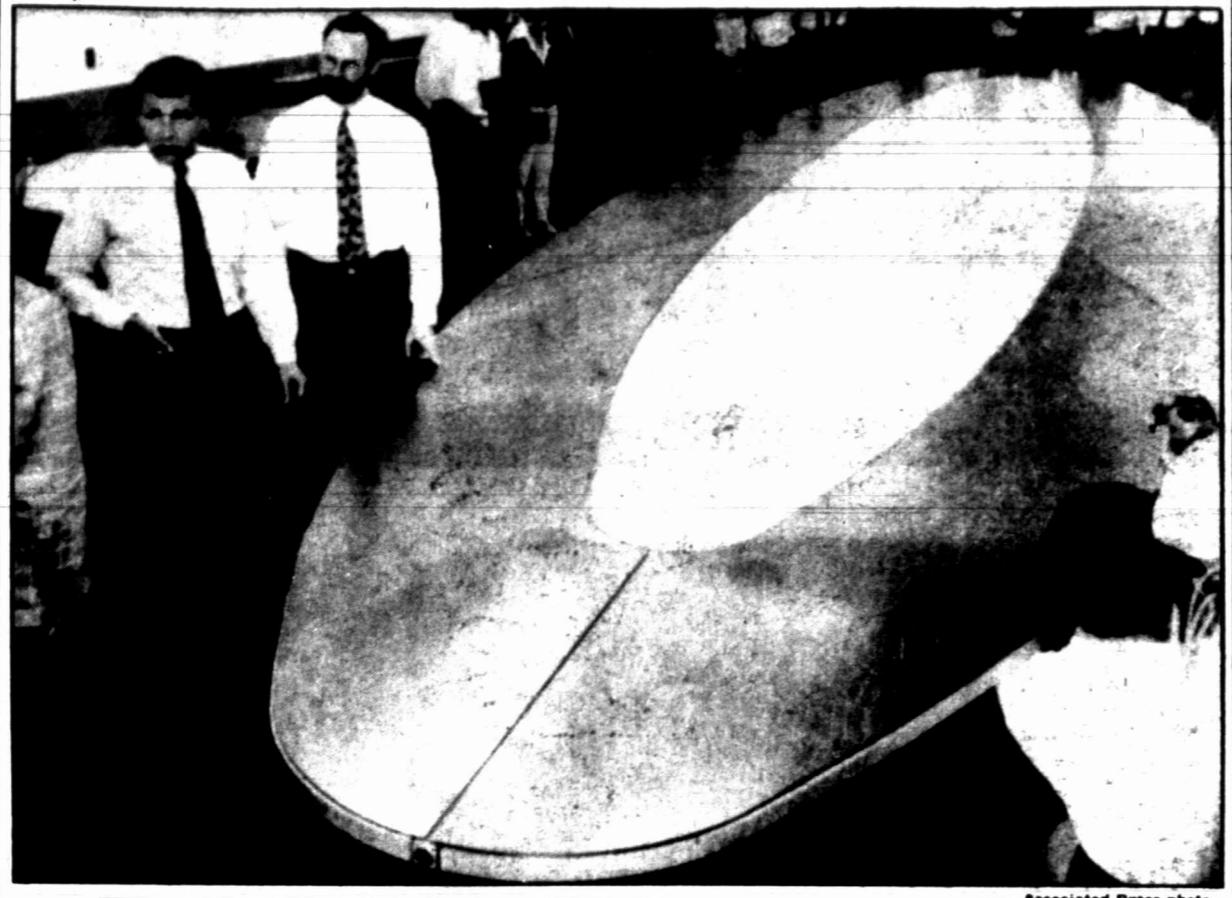

Pro-Lifers pressure GOPs

AUSTIN (AP) — Abortion opponents want the Texas Republican Party to hold fast to the party's national platform that would make all abortions illegal except when the mother's life was in danger.

"We are at the point where we want the Republican Party to put its action where its mouth is," David Rucker, of the Texas Republicans for Life, said Monday.

The state GOP Convention begins Thursday in Fort Worth. Rucker said the convention is in danger of falling prey to the "liberal wing" of the party led by Chairman Fred Meyer.

Meyer has endorsed a "legislative action plan" for Republican candidates that would allow abortions in some instances other than if the mother's life is in danger.

Feds consider East Texas prison sites

BEAUMONT (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of Prisons is looking at three proposed sites in Jefferson County for a new $150 million federal prison that will create 1,500 construction jobs, about 550 permanent jobs and an annual operating budget of about $25 million.

A team from the U.S. Bureau of Prisons arrived in the county Monday to tour the area and study three proposed sites.

"We're not in competition with anybody," County Judge Richard LeBlanc said. "If we pass the test, we'll get the prison. If we don't pass the test, we won't get the prison."

"The U.S. Bureau of Prisons advises me the prospects look good that a large, new federal prison will be built in the Beaumont area," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-

MHMR acknowledges patient-care problem

AUSTIN (AP) — The state Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation says it is working to improve the treatment of mentally ill Texans living in Medina County boarding homes.

"We know there are some problems there. We're trying to address them ... and we believe they are being addressed," said Shari Massingill, MHMR spokeswoman.

Court monitor David Pharis, who is overseeing treatment of the mentally ill in the state, on Monday criticized a lack of rehabilitation services in the boarding homes.

But he said the state's corrective plan could improve matters.

Pharis is court monitor in the long-running lawsuit challenging conditions in state mental hospitals and community programs.

In his second report on Medina

County to U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, David Pharis reiterated concerns about the handling of patients discharged from mental hospitals to boarding homes.

Pharis said he inspected Medina County boarding homes because a large concentration of state hospital patients — about 274 — were discharged in the area.

Most of the patients are from San Antonio State Hospital, he said.

Medina County is southwest of San Antonio.

In his first Medina County report, filed in January, Pharis found inadequate care being provided to boarding home patients.

He cited a "total lack of psychosocial and rehabilitative programs available to these clients."

Chief: Protesters were out of line

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan says AIDS activists who drowned out his speech at a conference over the weekend "stepped over the line" of legitimate protest.

"I've been heckled before, but I've never had the intensity that I heard there, where the clear intent was not for the protesters to simply make a point, but . . . to prevent me from making a point," he said.

"And that is un-American, that is clearly antithetical to the basic principle we have in this country of free speech," the secretary said in an interview Monday evening.

Vandals kill four flamingos at zoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vandals have brutally attacked and killed four prized Chilean flamingos at San Francisco Zoo, authorities said.

"We're just stunned here," the zoo's director, David Anderson, said Monday. "We never thought we'd have to build a zoo to keep people out of its exhibits — just to keep the animals in."

RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secret Service agents acting on a tip seized more than $500,000 in counterfeit $10 bills at a warehouse and arrested an art gallery owner, the federal agency said.

Stephen Eric Johnston of West Palm Beach was arrested Friday as he left the warehouse with two full boxes of counterfeit cash, Secret Service spokesman Dave Noznesky said.

Sullivan dodged wads of paper and other objects thrown by several hundred protesters who shouted and blew whistles and air horns as he made the closing speech Sunday to the Sixth International Conference on AIDS in San Francisco.

Their demonstration created a deafening roar that prevented about 6,000 people attending the conference from hearing the secretary's nearly 20-minute speech, which he delivered in full.

"They stepped over the line between what is appropriate or legitimate protest and what is inappropriate infringement upon my right or the right of anyone else to speak and be heard," Sullivan said.

In Texas, James Smith, 37-year-old former taxi driver and tarot-card reader who killed a Houston businessman in 1983, was executed by injection at 12:31 a.m. today. He, too, had refused all appeals.

"I go to my death without begging for my life," he said in a statement.

The two executions brought to 132 the number of people put to death since the U.S. Supreme Court in 1976 allowed states to resume use of capital punishment.

Interior Minister Abdullah Nouri said 99 percent of the bodies of quake victims have been recovered, but said there was still no definitive casualty count.

Christian Brauner, a relief worker with the West German Red Cross, said the death toll could reach as high as 60,000 to 70,000.

Nouri, who is in charge of relief operations, thanked the hundreds of foreign relief workers, saying their presence was "useful." Some Iranian hard-liners have opposed the presence of Western rescuers.

RUDBAR, Iran — Looking up in the sky, an Iranian girl cries out "Oh my God, what happened?" in Kalishom, near the northern town of Rudbar. The girl lost her family when a powerful earthquake ruined her village.

Iran Says '99 percent' of bodies are counted

MANJIL, Iran (AP) — The interior minister said today that "99 percent" of the victims from a devastating earthquake have been counted, but a Red Cross official said the death toll could reach 70,000.

Officials say at least 50,000 people have been killed, 200,000 injured and half a million rendered homeless from Thursday's quake in northern Iran.

Bone-weary rescuers are losing hope of finding more survivors in the rubble of nearly 350 earthquake-flattened cities and towns. But some took heart when a 1-year-old girl was found alive in her bedroom four days after the quake.

Foreign aid continued to pour into the capital, Tehran. More than 130 planes carrying relief supplies, medical volunteers and financial contributions have arrived since Sunday.

Much of the help comes from countries including the United States that Iran considers sworn enemies.

Interior Minister Abdullah Nouri said 99 percent of the bodies of quake victims have been recovered, but said there was still no definitive casualty count.

Christian Brauner, a relief worker with the West German Red Cross, said the death toll could reach as high as 60,000 to 70,000.

Nouri, who is in charge of relief operations, thanked the hundreds of foreign relief workers, saying their presence was "useful." Some Iranian hard-liners have opposed the presence of Western rescuers.

French and Iranian rescue teams said an Iranian team from the Red Crescent — the Islamic version of the Red Cross — found the 1-year-old girl alive in the family's wrecked home in the mountain village of Kelishom, 30 miles east of Manjil. They had believed she was dead, and were digging into the rubble of what had been a bedroom believing they would find her body.

Manjil, on the border between the stricken provinces of Zanjan and Gilan, was virtually destroyed. It lies in the heart of the quake zone, about 125 miles northwest of Tehran.

Col. Gholamreza Gohari, head of police in Gilan province, said as many as 7,000 people had died in Rudbar, a nearby town of 100,000.

Brauner said that since large extended families live together, the wreckage of even a small home can yield a horrifying number of dead.

He said in one village he visited, he was told two-thirds of the 3,000 residents were dead.

Brauner said residents soon would need a new water system, and insulated trailers instead of tents. "They will have a hard and cold winter," he said.

The quake region has been jolted by about 350 aftershocks since Thursday's jolt, some measuring up to 6 on the Richter scale. Tehran University's geophysics center said the main quake measured between 7.3 and 7.7.

For survivors, the aftershocks are a constant terrifying reminder of the quake. For rescuers, they have foiled desperate efforts to pluck life from the devastation.

Soviet army deserter killed

EAST BERLIN (AP) — A Soviet army deserter took a family of four hostage at a camping area and was killed in a shootout with East German police after driving through a roadblock, authorities said today.

The hostages were in the car with the deserter during the shootout and escaped injury but a police officer was wounded in the exchange late Monday. East Germany's Interior Ministry said.

The man was armed with a machine pistol and 800 rounds of ammunition, the ministry said in a report released through the government news agency, ADN.

The man fled a Soviet garrison and went to a camping area outside the city of Burg, where he abducted the married couple and their two children at gunpoint and fled by car, officials said.

Authorities launched a manhunt in the area about 50 miles west of Berlin, site of a large Soviet military installation.

Later, the car drove through a police roadblock, the ADN report said, and a police anti-terrorist unit got into a gunfight with the deserter.

The Interior Ministry said the wounded officer was hospitalized and the family was being treated for shock.

Officials gave no possible motive for the incident.

Peace Corps staffers told to leave

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The U.S. Embassy ordered all Peace Corps staffers to Manila because of intelligence reports that Communist rebels planned to kill volunteers, American officials said today.

Ambassador Nicholas Platt issued the order last weekend but delayed the public announcement for security reasons, said embassy spokesman Stanley Schrager.

He said no decision had been made on when the 261 volunteers would be allowed to return to their posts, many of which are in remote, poorly protected areas.

Schrager said the embassy had received a report that Peace Corps volunteers had been added to the target list of the New People's Army, which has been waging a 21-year insurgency to establish a Marxist state.

"This became an issue because recently we received information suggesting that Peace Corps volunteers may be targets of political violence by the NPA," Schrager said.

Theologians told to follow teachings

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican said today that open dissent cannot be tolerated and ordered theologians to refrain from publicly challenging church teaching.

A major document issued by the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith replied in strong terms to Western theologians who have questioned the Roman Catholic church ban on artificial birth control, papal authority and other issues.

To succumb to the temptation of dissent . . . is to allow the document defended punitive action taken against dissidents and said theologians must adhere to doctrine whether it is infallible or not. It rejected the notion that the church should leave moral and sexual matters to personal choice or conscience.

It warned dissenters against making their complaints in the media or trying to influence public opinion.

Liberians pull out of peace talks

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — Liberian rebel forces have broken off peace talks with the government and are threatening to attack the capital of Monrovia, a top rebel spokesman says.

The National Patriotic Front withdrew Monday from peace talks in Freetown, Sierra Leone, after Liberian President Samuel Doe failed to meet rebel demands, said Thomas Woewiyu, chief negotiator for the rebels.

President Doe has provided no satisfactory response to our demands and we see no reason to go to Freetown," Woewiyu said in a telephone interview.

The rebel forces, led by a former Doe official, Charles Taylor, will continue their offensive against Monrovia, Woewiyu said.

Rebel soldiers have moved to within 15 miles of the capital, and Taylor has said he could capture this capital city of 400,000 residents in 12 hours.

In Monrovia, Doe was to have made a televised speech to the nation Monday evening announcing further concessions to the rebels.

Gilbreath promises increase in land funds

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Republican Wes Gilbreath, candidate for state land commissioner, said he will increase the revenue earning potential of state owned land if elected. The 61 year-old Houston investor, on a campaign swing through West Texas last week, also said he would immediately conduct an audit upon taking office and would balance the budget. He would scrutinize every staff position and possibly reduce the 600 member staff by half, which would put it where it was before the incumbent took office, he said.

He is running against Democratic two-term incumbent Gary Mauro for commissioner of the general land office. The job involves managing 22 million acres of state land worth about $10 billion. Mineral interests from the land generates revenue for the Permanent School Fund which is dispersed to school districts.

"We want to see if we can do something in a conservative, constructive manner for the betterment of the schools and the state of Texas," he said while in Big Spring.

Gilbreath, chairman of Wes Gilbreath Co., a Houston-based investment firm he formed in 1964, feels that he has the fiscal and management experience to do the job.

"The more we looked at this the more we realized it fit my area of expertise," he said of his decision to run for the office.

"We're talking about management of a big business," he said. "This is the only statewide office that has never cost the taxpayers but generated revenue."

Before forming an investment firm, he did auditing and accounting for various oil companies over a 10 year period. During that time he earned a business degree while taking night classes at the University of Houston. From 1952-54, he was an enlisted man in the Army.

Gilbreath said he is concerned that oil and gas income from school fund lands has dropped from $494 million in 1982, the year before Mauro took office, to $238 million in 1986. He said the income earned for education for each dollar spent dropped from $93 in 1982 to $19 in 1986.

He said changes need to be made in oil and gas exploration efforts, he said. "I don't think it's working at all," he said of the present system.

He said more remediation and cooperation with surface owners and a better working partnership with exploration companies is needed. "This would have to be done on a one-to-one basis," of course, he said.

Equitable fees for timber and grazing rights should also be worked out, he added.

Gilbreath also said that he may trim up to 300 staff jobs, the number hired by Mauro since he took office. "I would examine every job," he said.

He said he would conduct a complete audit upon taking office. "I think this should tell us which positions we need and which ones are political pawns," he said.

He also criticized Mauro for being over budget by $1.9 million in 1987 and said he would balance it. The last balanced budget, he said, was in 1982.

This is the second race for public office for Gilbreath. In 1988 he lost a Republican nomination bid for the U.S. Senate to Beau Boulter in the April runoff.

He won the Republican nomination for land commissioner in a runoff against Grady Yarbrough.

House recognizes underground railroad

By BOB MITCHELL
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — It provided the way to freedom for thousands of black slaves in the 19th century and has become part of American folklore.

Its "stations" included stables, barns, attics and basements in small towns throughout the Northeast and Midwest. Its "conductors" included white abolitionists and people like Harriet Tubman, who escaped from slavery to return to the South 19 times on secret missions to free slaves.

It is the underground railroad and Congress moved toward recognizing its place in U.S. history Monday when the House approved legislation authorizing a study of how best to commemorate it.

By voice vote, lawmakers passed the legislation introduced by Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., sending the bill to the Senate for action. The measure would require the secretary of the interior to study ways of commemorating sites along the underground railroad with the help of a nine-member advisory committee.

The underground railroad flourished in border states in the Midwest and Northeast in the decades before the Civil War as slavery became an increasingly controversial issue dividing North and South.

While estimates vary, between 40,000 to 100,000 slaves made their way to freedom along diverse routes from the South until the outbreak of the Civil War — with many making use of hiding places along the underground railroad made available by sympathetic abolitionists and freed slaves.

When Congress passed the Fugitive Slave Act of 1850, which required the return of escaped slaves to their masters, activity along the underground railroad increased.

The underground railroad existed throughout the country, Kostmayer said, including Maryland, Delaware, New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas and Nebraska. It even extended as far south as Georgia and Florida, the lawmaker said.

One area where the railroad flourished was around Columbia, Pa., a community on the Susquehanna River south of Harrisburg about 20 miles north of the Maryland border.

Brent Glass, executive director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, said freed slaves living in the area made their community a stopping point for those who had escaped from bondage.

Slaveholders who came looking for their fugitives were so frequently confounded by the disappearance of slaves in this area that they decided "there must be an underground railroad out here," Glass said.

"Stories like that are part of the history of dozens of Pennsylvania communities. The local pride is evident when I am led to an old fashioned house or former tavern and taken to a secret room in the basement or attic where runaway slaves found shelter and food," he said.

"In these 'stations' on the underground railroad, there is a conspiratorial atmosphere as if although removed by more than 150 years, we are a part of that time and place when men and women, black and white, risked everything they had for the cause of freedom," Glass said.

But in the intervening years many of the sites associated with the underground railroad have disappeared, said Charles Blockson, a historian of the period at Temple University in Philadelphia.

Blockson, who has written extensively on the underground railroad, traveled throughout the United States and Canada for an article for National Geographic, and learned many sites associated with the antislavery effort have disappeared.

"I was shocked to discover that many homes, churches, barns, schools, cemeteries and other hiding places were destroyed or removed through urban renewal," he said.

Under the legislation, The Interior Department and the advisory commission would have two years to conduct the study of the underground railroad.

But the clandestine nature of the underground railroad makes it a difficult historical chapter to document, Glass said. "I certainly do not expect that we will ever learn the whole truth about the underground railroad," he said.

Stop cowering

Nine years ago, John Hinckley walked into a Dallas pawn shop, gave a false address on a federal identification form and purchased a cheap Saturday night special. He then used it to shoot Ronald Reagan and his press secretary, James Brady. Brady's wounds have left him brain damaged, partially paralyzed and permanently confined to a wheelchair.

Had Texas law required a seven-day waiting period for the purchase of a handgun, Hinckley's bogus address could have been detected and he might have been prevented from acquiring the weapon. If Congress approves the so-called Brady bill, law enforcement agencies in all 50 states will have at least a week to run background checks on prospective gun buyers.

A national waiting period is endorsed by virtually every major law enforcement organization. Other backers include the American Medical Association, the American Bar Association, the National League of Cities and the U.S. Conference of Mayors. It is also supported by the National League of Women Voters, which has never before taken a stand on gun control.

Nonetheless, this common-sense bill is stalled on Capitol Hill because of fierce opposition by the National Rifle Association, one of Washington's most potent lobbies.

As usual, the gun lobby views the measure as an attack on the constitutional right to bear arms, and whines that it would inconvenience law-abiding citizens. Never mind that a national waiting period could save lives by making it harder for criminals and psychopaths to get their hands on lethal weapons. Or that 22 states that already have waiting periods are sold on the concept. The NRA is spending millions to defeat the Brady bill.

Apart from falsely portraying gun control as a precursor to a police state, the NRA contends the measure would cost billions of dollars in added background checks and that it would not prevent criminals from getting guns.

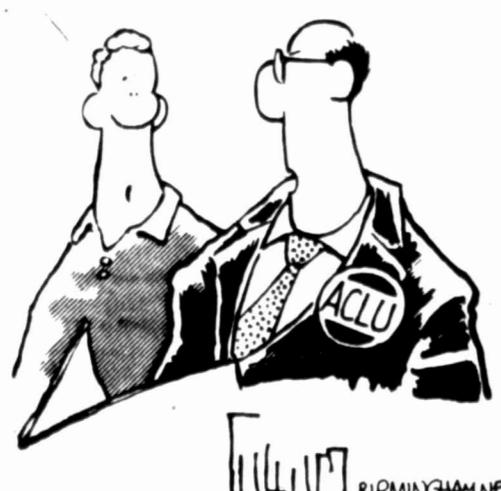

The aggregate cost of such checks would not exceed $10 million nationwide. As to weapon availability, a recent study by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms found that the percentage of out-of-state handgun purchases "is directly proportional to the strength of local firearm regulations." That's why only 8 percent of all handguns used in crimes in Detroit were purchased in Michigan, but 87 percent of all handguns used to commit crimes in Dallas were purchased in Texas.

All 50 states should require at least a week-long waiting period to purchase a handgun. And they will if Congress stops cowering before the NRA and passes the Brady bill.

WHEN YOU GET RIGHT DOWN TO IT, THE PROBLEM IS THE CONSTITUTION ITSELF.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH IT?

No party is blameless in S&L mess

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Since politicians in both parties aided and abetted the savings and loan scandal, it takes some rewriting of history to make the mess into a 1990 congressional campaign issue for either Republicans or Democrats.

Both sides are trying, in a dispute that has them shouting about blame but saying little about solutions to the problems behind the biggest bailout in American history.

After his spokesman waded into the S&L dispute, President Bush endorsed the counterattack, but claimed the high road. "I think more important than continuing to pour fuel on that spark is continuing to work with the Congress in trying to get that mess solved," he said Wednesday.

The White House already had provided a text for Republican revisionists by claiming that in the dead of night a decade ago, Democrats pushed through legislation to sharply increase the ceiling on deposit insurance and ease restrictions on savings and loan lending practices.

In fact, Republicans collaborated on the measure, which had a GOP coauthor and overwhelming support in both parties. It passed the House 380 to 13, with only five Republicans voting no. The Senate approved it without a roll call vote.

When President Jimmy Carter signed it on March 31, 1980, he called it a bipartisan, landmark reform, an important move toward deregulation and a boon to small savers.

Democrats prefer to start the crisis clock running a bit later, after Ronald Reagan took office, putting the blame on his administration and his vice president, George Bush, for lax regulation of savings and loans.

When Reagan signed a bill in 1982 permitting S&Ls to make commercial loans and increase consumer lending — leeway that licensed riskier ventures with federally insured deposits — he said it was a long-term solution to industry problems.

"All in all, I think we hit the jackpot," he said. Some jackpot.

That bill, it should be noted, had Democratic sponsorship and support.

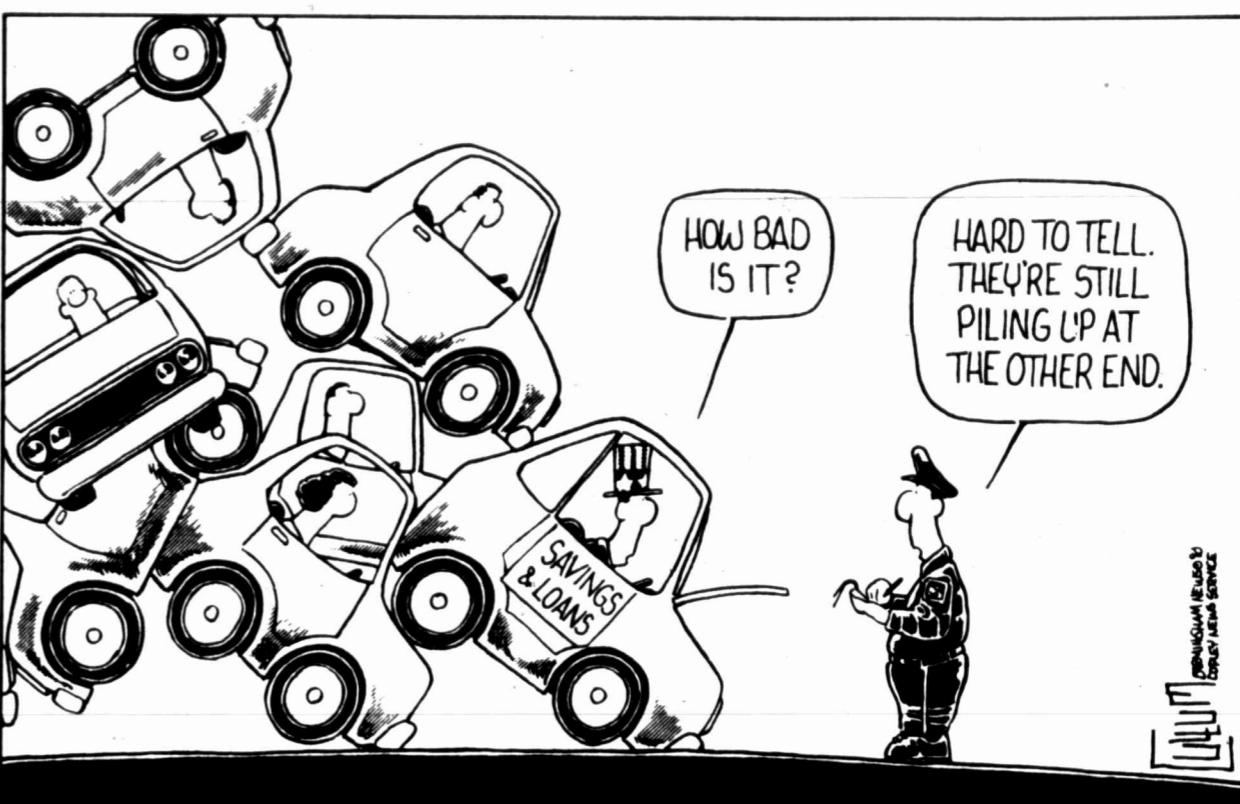

Mailbag

C-Bar performs valuable services

To the editor:

I was just informed of the Big Spring airport closing as of June 30, 1990. This is an awful thing to happen to the city of Big Spring. The closing, as I understand, is due to the high fixed cost placed on the airport by the city.

The airport has been in opera-

Nor do Democrats talk much about the way House Democratic leaders stalled and sliced measures to start dealing with industry problems sooner, at costs that now look like a bargain. Resigned House Speaker Jim Wright had a hand in that; his involvement with savings and loan interests and his intervention with regulators were factors in his roll call vote.

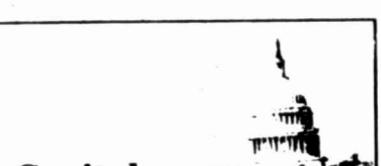

When President Jimmy Carter signed it on March 31, 1980, he called it a bipartisan, landmark reform, an important move toward deregulation and a boon to small savers.

Democrats prefer to start the crisis clock running a bit later, after Ronald Reagan took office, putting the blame on his administration and his vice president, George Bush, for lax regulation of savings and loans.

When Reagan signed a bill in 1982 permitting S&Ls to make commercial loans and increase consumer lending — leeway that licensed riskier ventures with federally insured deposits — he said it was a long-term solution to industry problems.

"All in all, I think we hit the jackpot," he said. Some jackpot.

That bill, it should be noted, had Democratic sponsorship and support.

But almost across the board, both parties have their problems.

"There's plenty of blame to go around," said Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the Republican leader. "In the final analysis, it lies everywhere."

That's because of the attributes that have made savings and loan interests so powerful politically and in lobbying for their aims. There's a branch in almost every town, a bloc in every congressional district, all with money to spend on campaign contributions.

That has led members of both parties to say, write and do things they may now regret. The standard explanation is that the letter, or phone call, or visit was in behalf of a constituent.

"There's enough — a lot of responsibility for every place, but I see some disturbing signs of Democrats wanting to make this political to Republicans, and I just want to put them on notice that this plays both ways and we're ready to play," White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said in his surprise attack on Tuesday.

"A big part of the problem here is that in the dead of night a few years ago, the Democrats pushed through raising the limits to $100,000 per person," he said.

"I am sure the president is concerned about this becoming a campaign issue in 1992," said Sen. Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., a critic of the way the bailout is being managed, and a target of the Fitzwater attack.

New York Gov. Mario Cuomo says the S&L crisis will be a heavyweight issue for Democrats in the 1992 presidential campaign. Cuomo, who could be the Democratic challenger next time, is making it one of his issues now, saying that because of lax regulators, the bankers "stole everything in sight. They fouled up everything in sight and now you are paying."

Sen. Christopher S. Bond, R-Mo., who wants Bush set up an independent commission to investigate the S&L situation, said "The real danger with this terrible crisis is that it will deteriorate into partisan warfare."

It is.

Free trade with Mexico: Who will gain?

By PETER ROPER

Washington Bureau

A drive through the teeming Mexican border city of Acuna makes it immediately apparent what Mexico stands to gain by a free trade agreement with the United States.

The bright paint on the tourist shops barely hides the poverty in the city of 160,000. A rickety taxi-van jammed with people rattles past ramshackle huts until it reaches the open highway where the American-owned maquiladora factories are located — new buildings humming with activity under the hot desert sun.

Inside, workers assemble products for less than $2 an hour instead of the $4.50 or more an hour that American workers would be paid.

"Those are good wages down here. Those workers are the lucky ones," explained an American businessman as he drove past plants owned by General Electric Co. and other big American firms.

The businessman knows what he's talking about because he was born and raised near Acuna until his father brought his family to the United States in the 1960s.

"Our house was something like that," he explained, pointing to a little adobe hut with open windows and dirt floors. "Sometimes I bring my daughter over here to visit relatives and she can't believe my family lived like that. But we did."

What brought G.E., Ford Motor Co., and so many other American firms across the river is the same thing that frightens U.S. labor organizations about the new push for a free trade agreement between the United States and Mexico: the dirt cheap cost of Mexican labor.

Rep. Don Pease, D-Ohio, grimly told a House committee this month that his blue-collar district is all too aware of maquiladoras and his constituents have watched as thousands of steel and auto industry jobs have disappeared or gone across the border.

"I think that a trade agreement has to have a leveling effect, raising the standard of living for Mexican workers and lowering the standard of living for American workers," he said. "It's inevitable that well-paid industrial workers in this country will be made to suffer."

Pease's complaint was one of the few critical voices here recently when Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari came to ask for an open trade policy with the United States. President Bush embraced the concept but acknowledged there are many details to be negotiated.

"I expect there will be some organized labor opposition to some aspects of (an agreement)," he told reporters, but said the benefits in opening Mexico's markets to more U.S. exports would outweigh any job losses.

Mexico, with a fast growing population of between 80 million and 90 million people, is the United States' third largest trading partner. Struggling to pay off a massive international debt and build its economy, Mexico tried to protect its industries with stiff import tariffs and other barriers until the Salinas regime reversed course. In a dramatic turnaround, Mexico began privatizing its economy and slashing many of its import tariffs.

To the delight of free traders, Salinas said the only way Mexico could stop double-digit inflation and modernize its industries was to "join the 21st Century" and open itself to international trade and expertise.

But if Bush is feeling the prodding of organized labor in his back as he begins talks with Mexico, Salinas is taking his own gamble by encouraging U.S. investment in Mexico. That nation has a longstanding distrust of American intentions dating back to the Mexican War.

The two raw points in U.S.-Mexico relations right now are illegal drug trafficking and illegal immigration. Most recently, Mexican passions were inflamed when U.S. officials apparently encouraged the kidnapping of a

Guest column

Mexican doctor suspected of participating in the murder of a Drug Enforcement Administration agent.

"Everybody in Mexico is interested in that case," explained the American businessman as he drove through the crowded streets of Acuna. "They see it as just another example of the Anglos pushing them around."

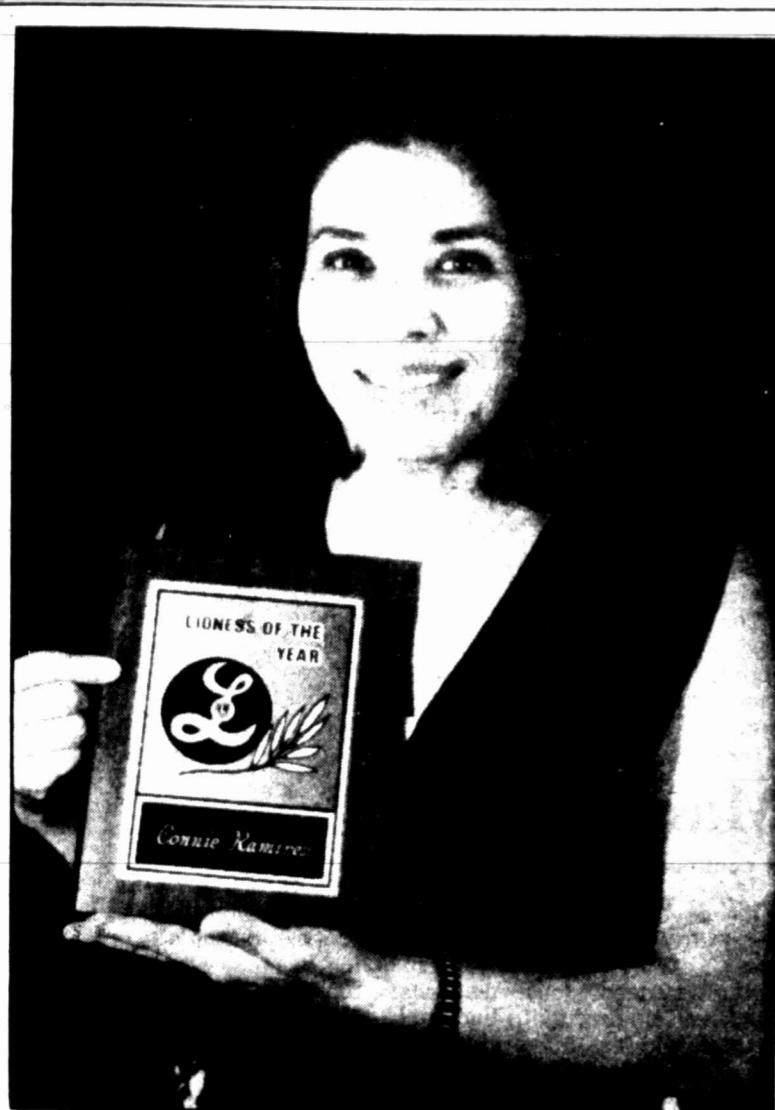

Salinas tried to reassure American skeptics during his visit by pledging that Mexico wants more exports and that a stronger Mexican economy will mean fewer illegal immigrants.

"I am convinced that greater access for Mexican goods to the United States market and major investment in Mexico will produce better job opportunities in my country, together with a lesser and more orderly flow of workers, in line with the numbers that the American market actually needs," he said.

During our drive through Acuna, the American businessman was doubtful about that. Some maquiladora plants actually provide housing in an effort to keep workers, but for many Mexicans, the American-owned factories are just a stop-over on the route north.

"You're talking about many people who have come a long way just to get these jobs here at the border," the businessman explained, nodding toward Texas. "Do you think they're going to stay here if they think they can do better over there? No way, man."

Lioness of the Year

Connie Ramirez was named Lioness of the Year for 1989-90 at the recent Howard County Lioness meeting. Ramirez has served as secretary of the organization since its inception three years ago. "She has just been the greatest assistant to our three presidents. . . . She's just an outstanding Lioness," said Lloyd Ola Bearden, public relations coordinator.

Security officer is tired of complaints

DEAR ABBY: I am a pre-board screener at the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, but I'm writing this for screeners everywhere. May I air a few typical complaints we screeners have, since the public seems to have a lot of complaints about us screeners?

First, please don't blame us because you're late. Your ticket clearly states that you should be at the airport an hour before your flight is scheduled to leave in order to clear security.

Second, if you are late, don't get angry if we have to make a more thorough inspection because you've crammed two bags worth of stuff into one bag, and our X-ray can't identify everything in it.

Third, we screeners do not make the rules, we only enforce them: the FAA, airport board and the airlines make the rules, so if you have a complaint, don't yell at us — take it up with them.

Please do not blow your stack if we ask you to unwrap packages that are elaborately gift-wrapped. How else can we see what you are bringing on board?

Please do not try to bring toy guns, knives, darts or bows and arrows on the plane in your carry-on luggage.

Please leave the film out of your cameras until you get to your destination. Have your film in a separate bag, so you can take it out and pass it around — then you can safely have your camera X-rayed.

This may be too long for your column, but I had to tell somebody, because we really do care about your safety — why else would we take abuse from the public day

DEAR ABBY: I'm a hairdresser. I own my shop and work in it, and I'm sick and tired of people always putting us down.

I love my work and bust my buns trying to satisfy my clients, but let me tell you what really gripes me:

People who bring in pictures of movie and TV stars and get upset if I can't make them look like the pictures.

People who bring their kids along and let them run wild and never say a word to them. (You can bet that if one of those kids got burned on a hot iron, or got cut with a scissor or razor blade, they'd sue the pants off me.)

I hate it when clients complain about the price of a child's haircut. As hard as it is to cut a child's hair, it should be double.

But what I hate the most is when a person comes in, brings the whole family, and they all stand around my chair while I'm trying to work.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby. I'm sure there are a lot of barbers and beauticians who feel the same way. — FED UP IN FLORIDA

Casino Night is a big success in Forsan

By KATHRYN HOLLINGSHEAD

The atmosphere is intense, but smokeless, with kids laughing and music playing in the background. Some are munching on pizza and Dr. Pepper, watching others "shoot craps", deal Blackjack or play 21. Las Vegas? No, it was the Forsan High School cafeteria, where the Jr. Sr. After Prom Party is in full swing.

Some of the participants are just having a good time while others are using calculators, intent on amassing enough "Buffalo Bucks" to purchase a worthwhile gift at the auction at the close of the party.

Concerned Forsan parents began the tradition of a Casino night after the prom to keep their kids off the streets of Big Spring and out of trouble. The parents canvassed Big Spring merchants and organizations for donations of cash and prizes to be auctioned after a night of gambling for play money "Buffalo Bucks."

"I am so impressed with the merchants of Big Spring," ex-claims Joan Rock, coordinator of this year's Casino night. "They donated so much!" Included in the prizes auctioned were three $400 book scholarships from Howard College; a 70-character, memory dictionary typewriter; a set of golf clubs; more than 140 gifts in all were auctioned off by acting auctioneer Coach Kurt White at 5 a.m. to close Casino Night.

"I want to thank the Big Spring merchants and organizations that gave so generously," said parent Donna Parker.

50th anniversary

Hershel and Oleta Johnson,

Sugar maple is rock hard

(AP) — Acer, part of the maple family's Latin, scientific name, means hard or sharp. And to the Romans, the wood was just that. From it, they made lance and pike shafts for battle. It was furniture, though, that bestowed the term "rock-hard" on this traditional stock.

According to WOOD magazine, a colonial American cabinetmaker by the name of Rock promoted his work as "Rock's Hard Maple Furniture." That's why to this day many people refer to sugar maple as rock or rock-hard maple.

Sugar maple, although tough as its reputation, has a sweeter side. The other half of its scientific name, saccharum, refers to its sap, a source of syrup and sugar.

Practically all states east of the Great Plains boast sugar maple (Acer saccharum) that, in forest setting, grows 70-130 feet tall with a diameter of 2 to 3 feet. Open-grown trees have shorter trunks with a rounded crown of many branches. All sugar maples when young have a smooth silvery bark that with age turns ash-gray and breaks into unevenly layered flakes or scales.

Sugar maple has palm-sized leaves with five pointed lobes that in the fall put forth brilliant shades of red and orange. In early summer, double-winged keys, the tree's inedible fruit, emerge.

Straight-grained, fine-textured, hard, strong, and at 44 pounds per cubic foot, as heavy as red oak, the wood of sugar maple has high commercial value. Its sapwood, frequently 3 to 5 inches thick, appears much lighter in color than the slightly pinkish-tan heartwood.

Some trees produce spectacularly figured wood in curly, fiddleback, quilt and bird's-eye patterns.

Known for its toughness and durability, sugar maple takes a pounding as bowling-lane surfaces, bowling pins, school desks, tool handles and ladder rungs. On a gentler side, it's sugar maple that becomes much of the furniture we call "Early American." The wood also shows up as cabinets, countertops, cutting boards, butcher block and flooring.

intimidation, suspicion, fear, punitive, adversarial, lack of trust, loss of credibility, low morale," it states.

The report further states that faculty members have attempted to bring their complaints to the attention of Howard College President Bob Riley and Vice President for Vocational/Technical Instruction Andy Hicks on many occasions without success and so voted to appear before the board. It was reportedly the first time faculty had done so.

"We hope the board will consider seriously the specific concerns ... about the teaching load policy and our broader concerns regarding the climate existing within our organization," it states.

The senate report asked that the board defer its final decision on the policy until members could review a counter proposal the faculty had prepared.

"I knew this (policy) was going to make X-number of faculty angry," Howard College President Bob Riley said, addressing the group. "I think this has been healthy for all of us. But I don't think our faculty would want this college to go on with a policy that discriminates."

Riley said the change in policy was first considered after a request from faculty. He said they had been concerned about inequality among faculty loads.

Changes in the new policy will be considered as problems occur and are brought before the board, he said.

"A policy's a dynamic thing," he said. "We need a policy that is progressive, not a hold-over from the 60s."

Riley said he believed the new policy would "hold up" under scrutiny from anyone. He added that he had approached each division within the college with the policy during the last week and found few barriers to complete implementation.

Board members P.W. Malone and Harold Davis spoke in support of Riley and the proposed policy. It was approved swiftly along with several proposed changes to the college handbook.

In answer to the charges of instability and negative feelings in faculty-administration relations, a survey is being conducted among all faculty members to determine if those feelings do exist. Riley said he expected the survey to be completed within the next week.

Riley said he was not surprised by the number of faculty in attendance at the meeting.

Texas WIC to get additional funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas will receive an additional $814,000 from a special supplemental food program for women, infants and children as unspent and carryover program funds are reallocated, officials said Monday.

The reallocation money equates to about 8,480 food packages each month for Texas clients, said Betty Jo Nelsen, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service.

The funds will be available to Texas on Sunday. The funds will supplement the state's allocation of more than $114 million under the 1990 Special Supplemental Program for Women, Infants and Children.

About 343,000 people participate in Texas' WIC program, Ms. Nelsen said.

Nationally, the Food and Nutrition Service has made available almost $9 million to help state programs continue serving as many clients as possible, officials said.

Montford to head finance committee

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby appointed state Sen. John Montford to head the Senate Finance Committee and Sen. Bob Glasgow to head the State Affairs Committee.

The appointments were made Monday to fill committee gaps left by Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, who has decided not to seek reelection to his Senate seat.

Montford, D-Lubbock, will replace Caperton as finance committee chair. Glasgow, D-Stephenville, in turn will replace Montford as chairman of the State Affairs Committee.

State Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, replaces Caperton on the Legislative Budget Board. Montford, Glasgow and Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, are the other Senate members to the budget board.

Neighbor to Neighbor benefit

The local chapter of the American Heart Association will sponsor its 2nd Annual Neighbor to Neighbor Walk Thursday, June 28, from 6:30 p.m.

The volunteer walkers will distribute literature on the AHA throughout their neighborhood and collect free will donations from neighbors, said Gloria Bain, the event's chairwoman.

"We're not asking for a large contribution — just for some change or a dollar or whatever people can give," Bain said.

The money will benefit the local AHA chapter, she said.

Walkers will meet in the parish hall of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, 1001 Goliad, at 6 to watch a short video tape on the AHA. Food and beverages have been donated by local merchants, Bain said.

The participants will return to their own neighborhoods about 6:30 to hand out the AHA information packets until 8 p.m.

About 80 walkers participated in last year's Neighbor to Neighbor Walk.

which brought in some $1800 for the local AHA chapter, Bain said.

She said she estimates at least 60 people will walk in this year's event.

Firefighters called out to two fires

Big Spring Fire Department fire fighters responded to two calls Monday evening.

A structure fire was reported at 5:22 p.m. at 1203 Barnes Ave. Fire fighters found the blaze had been extinguished before their arrival, and they reported no damage.

In a separate incident, a 1986 four-door pickup truck caught fire shortly after 6 p.m. at the corner of 12th and Benton streets. Units responding were able to extinguish the blaze with 100 gallons of water in about 20 minutes. Damage to the wiring and engine was estimated at $7,000.

was sort of a honeymoon trip.

That summer in San Antonio she met her husband-to-be, an army soldier being discharged after returning from Korea. They got engaged and in December traveled to Big Spring where they would marry and he would job hunt.

On the way they stopped in Sterling City to attend the funeral of his sister's baby. The whole family was there. It was her birthday. They got married.

Life has been a little bit more steady for her since then.

She worked for about a year with Elliot & Waldren Abstract Co., quit to have two children, then joined the county tax office and later the appraisal office. Through the years she has rendered services which included bookkeeping, bill paying, doing the payroll, handling insurance, doing property title changes and researching wills, estates and deeds.

The biggest change she has experienced during her tenure at the appraisal office has been the switch to computers in 1983, she said.

Before computers, property plots had to be hand drawn on three appraisal cards, one each for the school, city and county taxing districts.

"We would have as many as 400-500 cards at a time like that to do," she said. "Each one of those drawings had to be done three times, with a ruler, by hand."

"Now with this computer situation we don't do it one time," she said.

Interestingly enough, she noted, the appraisal office was staffed by about four people before the advent of computerization. Now it is staffed by about nine people.

"And people stay pretty busy," she added.

Mitchel's husband, who worked for Texas Utilities Electric when he first arrived in Big Spring, retired from Cossen Oil & Chemical Co. in 1984.

They have two children: Jeffrey Stewart Mitchel, 36, a narcotics supervisor with the Department of Public Safety in El Paso; and Neva Dale Wainscott, 33, a teacher at the Knox City-O'Brien Independent School District.

Jeffrey has two boys and two girls and Neva has one son.

Rozier after Garvey's record

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers running back Mike Rozier has been named in a paternity suit for the second time in a month by women who each claim he is the father of their unborn child.

The latest suit was filed Monday by Rita Baldwin, 25, who claimed Rozier is the father of her baby, according to lawyer Glenn Lilly, who also represents Pamela Gobert, 23, who filed a paternity suit against Rozier earlier this month.

Ms. Baldwin, an unemployed student in Dickinson, claims in the suit filed in Harris County Family District Court that she is expecting a baby in September.

Ms. Gobert is four months pregnant, Lilly said.

Both women are seeking medical costs and child support for their children, he said.

"These women need the financial help that he can provide," Lilly said. "It's not legally required in Texas that he pay for pre-natal care, but it's the morally correct thing to do."

Rozier has 21 days to respond to Baldwin's suit and until July 16 to respond to Gobert's petition. If he contests fatherhood of either child, Lilly will ask the court to order medical tests to determine paternity.

Rozier so far has paid for the initial doctor's visits for both the women, Lilly said.

Ms. Baldwin was apparently unaware of Rozier's relationship with Ms. Gobert, Lilly said. He described the Baldwin-Rozier relationship as "girlfriend on and off for some time."

"Rita (Baldwin) obviously feels lied to and deceived by Mike Rozier," the lawyer said.

Italian hoop team takes Celts to court

BOSTON (AP) — The Italian basketball team Il Messaggero has taken the Boston Celtics to court.

Il Messaggero filed a federal lawsuit in Boston, claiming the Celtics intentionally interfered with guard Brian Shaw's contract.

Gruppo Ferruzzi, the owner of Il Messaggero, filed the suit against the Celtics Monday in U.S. District Court, according to a statement released by the team's attorney, John J. McGovern Jr.

Shaw was the Celtics' top draft pick in 1988. He played one season with Boston before signing a two-year contract with Il Messaggero on Aug. 9, 1989.

On Jan. 23 of this year, only halfway through his obligation with the Italian team, Shaw signed a five-year contract with the Celtics, starting with the 1990-91 season.

The three-count lawsuit filed Monday asks the court to declare Il Messaggero's contract with Shaw valid, and seeks that the Celtics be enjoined from interfering with the guard's contract in the future.

Three way trade spices draft

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — You can excuse NBA fans if they are confused about who picks when in Wednesday's NBA draft following a three-team, four-pick, five-player trade.

The Washington Bullets traded guard Jeff Malone and a draft pick to Sacramento for center Pervis Ellison, last year's No. 1 draft pick. The Kings then turned around and traded Malone and a draft pick to Utah for Bobby Hansen, Eric Leckner and two draft picks.

"Going into the draft, we felt we needed to improve our perimeter shooting, and I think we've been able to do that," said Scott Layden, Utah's director of player personnel.

"We are pleased to have a player like Jeff Malone join our organization," Layden said. "We are adding a terrific player; a two-time All-Star and a guy who is a great shooter and can score."

The Kings made the deal with roster numbers in mind.

"What we have accomplished with this trade is keeping with our expressed purpose of improving our overall talent base," said director of personnel Jerry Reynolds. "By acquiring Eric Leckner, Bobby Hansen and an additional first-round pick, we are providing an opportunity to add three productive players to the Kings roster."

The Kings received a second-round pick in 1991 from the Bullets and the two choices from the Jazz are in Wednesday's draft — the 23rd, a first-rounder, and 49th. The Jazz will now have Sacramento's second-round choice this week, the 33rd overall.

"Utah has a force. We have a building block," Bullets general manager John Nash said at a press conference in Landover. "This might indicate a new direction and a new beginning. We've obtained quality youth in Pervis."

The trade was the first for Nash since taking over as general manager last week following the resignation of Bob Ferry.

Malone, 28, was the Bullets' leading scorer last season, averaging 24.3 points per game. The 6-foot-4 guard played seven seasons with the Bullets after being drafted in the first round in 1983 out of Mississippi State.

"In Bullets' recent history, I don't think anybody has contributed as much to this franchise as Jeff Malone," Coach Wes Unseld said. "He has proven he is an all-star player."

"I'm definitely happy to get a player the quality of Pervis Ellison," Unseld said. "But I'm also sad in that I'm going to miss Jeff."

The 6-11, 225-pound Ellison averaged 8.0 points and 5.8 rebounds in 34 games. He had bone spurs removed on his right foot and right ankle and was sidelined with tendinitis in the big toe of his right foot last season.

Unseld said the Bullets scouted Ellison Saturday night in an alumni game at Louisville between the national champion teams of 1980 and 1986. Ellison, the MVP of the Final Four as a freshman, had 28 points and 14 rebounds in the alumnae game.

The trade is contingent on Malone and Ellison passing physicals. Ellison was scheduled to be in Landover today for his.

The Jazz finished second in the Midwest Division and were ousted in the first round of the playoffs by Phoenix. They had made it known they were looking for a shooting guard to augment the play of All-Star playmaker John Stockton.

Hansen, a third-round draft choice from Iowa in 1983, averaged 7.6 points per game last season while making 54 of 154 3-point attempts. The 6-11 Leckner, a first-round pick from Wyoming in 1988, averaged 4.3 points per game while seeing less than 10 minutes per game.

Crowd favorite pulls off major upset

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)

— British teen-ager Sarah Loosmore knows that if she fails as a professional tennis player, she can take up the place she has already accepted at Oxford University.

Atter her performance on Wimbledon opening day Monday, though, she may never go back to her studies.

Loosmore caused one of the tournament's first upsets when she eliminated 16th seed Barbara Paulus of Austria 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 on the first day of this year's grass-court Grand Slam tournament.

Frenchman Yannick Noah, the No. 16 seed, was not as lucky, losing in three quick sets to qualifier Wayne Ferreira. Noah, who has always had trouble on grass, said he was not able to move well on the slippery surface.

Several other men's seeds had easier afternoons. Ninth-seeded American Jim Courier, No. 10 Jonas B. Svensson of Sweden and two Frenchmen, No. 11 Guy Forget and No. 15 Henri Leconte, all won in straight sets.

Only two seeded woman played Monday, and one was a loser. Seventh seed Katarina Maleeva defeated Italy's Barbara Romano 6-2, 6-4, but 16th seed Barbara Paulus of Austria was eliminated 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 by crowd favorite Sarah Loosmore of Wales.

Hana Mandlikova, a four-time Grand Slam tournament winner who announced last week that she would retire from singles play following Wimbledon, came within a whisker of retirement on Monday. She fought off three match points before defeating Italy's Laura Lapi 6-3, 3-6, 11-9.

This Bo knows about one-on-one

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Bo Kimble's victory in the One-On-One Challenge tournament won't make him No. 1 in the NBA draft.

What his $100,000 paycheck in the inaugural event may have proved to scouts is that he won't back away from anyone.

"There's a lot of one-on-one in the NBA, and whatever scouts were here now know I can play against anybody, any size," the 6-foot-5 Kimble said.

Kimble defeated 6-2 Travis Mays of Texas and two All-Americans, 6-7 Lionel Simmons of La Salle and 6-4 Gary Payton of Oregon State to win the One-On-One Challenge.

Combined, Kimble's three opponents were 26-for-62 from the field and 10-for-38 from 3-point range.

"The big doubt about my game was defense, and I hope I showed that Bo knows defense," Kimble said. "I want people to know I like to compete and play defense."

Kimble outshot and outmuscled Payton to win 30-23 in the final of the single-elimination tournament, which had seven eight-minute games.

Payton had an advantage with an extra few minutes of rest while Kimble was beating Simmons 34-30 in the semifinals.

But Kimble showed no signs of fatigue, making four 3-pointers

Oilers sign LB to three year pact

HOUSTON (AP) - Linebacker Eric Fairs signed a three-year contract with the Houston Oilers, a team spokesman said Monday.

Terms of the contract were not released.

Fairs is in his fifth year with the Oilers after originally signing with the team as a free agent from Memphis State, spokesman Bill Wainwright said.

Last season, Fairs played in all 16 games and had three starts. He finished with 33 tackles plus an additional 12 tackles on special teams. Fairs also had two fumble recoveries.

Tarpley's hearing has been postponed

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley's on-again, off-again court appearance on a DWI charge is off again.

A hearing had been scheduled Monday on the DWI and resisting arrest charges, after several previous postponements.

Tarpley's attorney, Jay Ethington, said the pre-trial hearing was rescheduled for Sept. 7. The trial is scheduled for Sept. 10 and should take about a week, he said.

The Mavericks standout was arrested Nov. 15 on a north Dallas freeway after officers spotted him driving his car too close to another vehicle.

The arrest resulted in his suspension for 33 games. He was reinstated Jan. 22.

Tarpley has twice been treated for drug and alcohol abuse.

Red Sox stop Blue Jays jinx

By The Associated Press

Finally, the Boston Red Sox had some fun at Fenway Park with Toronto in town.

The Blue Jays won 15 straight games in Boston until Monday night, when the Red Sox held on 10-8. Toronto came within three games of the major league record for most consecutive victories at an opponent's field, accomplished three times.

"We tried not to make a big deal out of it," winning pitcher Dennis Lamp said.

Neither did the Blue Jays.

"We didn't even talk about it," manager Cito Gaston said.

Anyway, Boston moved back into first place in the American League East, one-half game ahead of the Blue Jays.

Elsewhere, Oakland defeated Detroit 4-3, Chicago stopped California 2-0, Cleveland clubbed Milwaukee 10-5 and Minnesota topped Texas 9-1.

Toronto seemed ready to roll again in Boston, scoring three times in the first inning. But the Red Sox bounced back, shelling Dave Stieb for six runs in their half.

Stieb threw 36 pitches and did not retire a batter. He gave up three hits and walked four, and reliever Willie Blair allowed Wade Boggs' two-run single.

John Olerud hit a two-run homer in the third that pulled Toronto even at 7. Jody Reed broke the tie in the sixth with a two-out, solo home run off Blair (0-5).

Reed also doubled and singled. Mike Greenwell doubled twice and got four of Boston's 13 hits.

The Red Sox scored two more runs in the seventh. Kelly Gruber hit a solo home run, his 19th, off Jeff Reardon in the ninth. Reardon pitched for the first time in 10 days because of back spasms and got his 11th save.

Lamp (1-2) got the victory as Boston won at home against the Blue Jays for the first time since Aug. 10, 1987. That was before Reed joined the Red Sox.

"Breaking the losing streak is nice," Reed said.

Athletics 4, Tigers 3
Bob Welch won his career-high ninth straight decision and Rickey Henderson homered, tripled and stole two bases as Oakland ended a three-game losing streak. Detroit has lost five of six.

Welch (12-2) is the top winner in the major leagues. He gave up five hits in eight innings and improved to 28-8 lifetime at the Coliseum.

Dennis Eckersley pitched the ninth for his 23rd save. Dan Petry (5-5) lost to Welch for the second time in six days.

Henderson tripled to lead off the first inning and hit his 12th home run in the second. Carney Lansford homered one out later.

White Sox 2, Angels 0
In California, Greg Hibbard pitched 8 1-3 innings and Bobby Thigpen got his 24th save in 28 tries as Chicago stretched its winning streak to five games.

Hibbard (6-4) gave up eight hits, walked none and struck out four. Mark Langston (4-8) retired the first 15 batters but wound up losing his third straight decision.

Robin Ventura hit an RBI single in the sixth and Carlton Fisk hit his sixth home run in the seventh.

Indians 10, Brewers 5
Brook Jacoby homered and drove in a career-high five runs as Cleveland split the four-game series in Milwaukee.

Twins 9, Rangers 1
Scott Erickson pitched six impressive innings in his major league debut as Minnesota beat visiting Texas.

John Candelaria pitched three innings for his third save. Mike Jeffcoat (1-3) was the loser.

Braves can't handle Martinez — again

By The Associated Press

Ramon Martinez did only half as well as the last time he pitched against the Atlanta Braves. But he was a tough act to follow.

Martinez, the Los Angeles Dodgers' 22-year-old right-hander, struck out nine Braves in a 5-2 victory Monday night. The last time he faced Atlanta, on June 4, Martinez fanned 18 to tie Sandy ing decision for Martinez (9-3) and his league-leading sixth complete game.

Martinez, who walked none, has allowed only two earned runs in 46 career innings against the Braves while posting a 4-1 record. After giving up two hits in the first, including Gant's 15th homer, Martinez retired 16 of the next 17 batters.

The Dodgers reached Charlie Leibrandt (2-1) for three runs in the first. Mike Scioscia had one of his two RBIs during the inning.

Reds 5, Giants 2

Jack Armstrong allowed four hits in eight innings against slumping San Francisco and Todd Benzinger hit a three-run homer to lead surging Cincinnati.

Armstrong (10-3) lowered his National League-leading earned run average to 2.12. Armstrong, unbeaten in six starts this season at home, gave way in the ninth to Randy Myers, who got his 14th save.

Armstrong struck out six and walked one, giving up Kevin Mitchell's 18th homer in the fourth and an RBI single to Brett Butler in the eighth. It was the seventh time in 15 starts that Armstrong has given up no more than one earned run.

Benzinger homered in the first off John Burkett (7-2), and Chris Sabo had three hits as the Reds won for the 10th time in 13 games.

After starting June by winning 16 of 17 games, the Giants have dropped five of their last six to fall 10 games behind Cincinnati in the NL West.

Pirates 5, Phillies 0

Rick Reed allowed four hits, retiring 20 of the last 21 Philadelphia batters in his first 1990 start, and Jose Lind had a two-run triple for Pittsburgh.

Barry Bonds extended his career-high hitting streak to 12 games. Bonds was 1-for-2 with a walk, giving him 23 hits in 46 at-bats during his streak.

Mets 3, Cardinals 2

An error by right fielder Milt Thompson allowed the go-ahead run to score in the ninth inning as New York extended its winning streak to seven games by beating faltering St. Louis.

With two out and a runner on first, Dave Magadan doubled off Lee Smith (1-2) and Thompson booted the ball into the corner as Mackey Sasser scored without a play.

David Cone (4-4) gave up five hits in eight innings to beat the Cardinals for the second time in a week. John Franco worked the ninth for his 13th save.

Mark Carreon hit his eighth home run in only 102 at-bats and Darryl Strawberry extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a third-inning double for the Mets, winners in 14 of their last 16 games.

Astros 5, Padres 3

Mike Scott continued to baffle San Diego in the Astrodome, improving his career record at home against the Padres to 14-1 while pitching Houston to victory.

Scott (5-7) worked 5 2-3 innings, giving up two runs on five hits while walking two and striking out three. Dave Smith, the fourth Houston pitcher, worked the ninth for his 15th save, allowing Fred Lynn's fifth homer.

Loser Andy Benes (6-5) gave up five runs on seven hits in five innings. He struck out six and walked four.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the second after Eric Anthony walked and scored on a double by Ken Caminiti. The Astros made it 4-0 in the third. Yelding scored on an error by second baseman Bip Roberts before Anthony and Glenn Wilson hit sacrifice flies.

Expos 7, Cubs 3
Nelson Santovenia hit a two-run homer in the fourth inning and added an RBI single in a decisive five-run seventh, leading Montreal over slumping Chicago.

Tim Wallach singled in two runs in the big inning that included a run-scoring single by Larry Walker and an RBI double by Mike Aldrete.

Mark Gardner (4-3) was the winner, allowing five hits in six innings, including homers by Dwight Smith and Marcell Wynne. Shawn Bokkie (2-4) took the loss. Bill Sampen pitched the last three innings for his first career save, sending the Cubs to their 11th loss in 14 games.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — At 53, Warren Beatty still leaves women breathless, but he drools a lot while smooching, a former girlfriend says.

Actress Mamie Van Doren, who dated Beatty in the early 1960s, makes that claim in the July 2 issue of People magazine. "He drools a lot. He has such active glands," she said. Beatty directed and stars in the summer blockbuster "Dick Tracy." His latest flame reportedly is his co-star, Madonna.

"Warren and Madonna are still an item, but nobody believes it," said Madonna's publicist, Liz Rosenberg. "It's Warren and Warren only."

BEAUFORT, S.C. (AP) — Writer Pat Conroy does a mean Carolina shag, and he's ready to "die in peace" after teaching the step to Barbra Streisand.

Streisand, who directs and stars in a film based on Conroy's novel "The Prince of Tides," saw the dance in the book and asked the writer to explain.

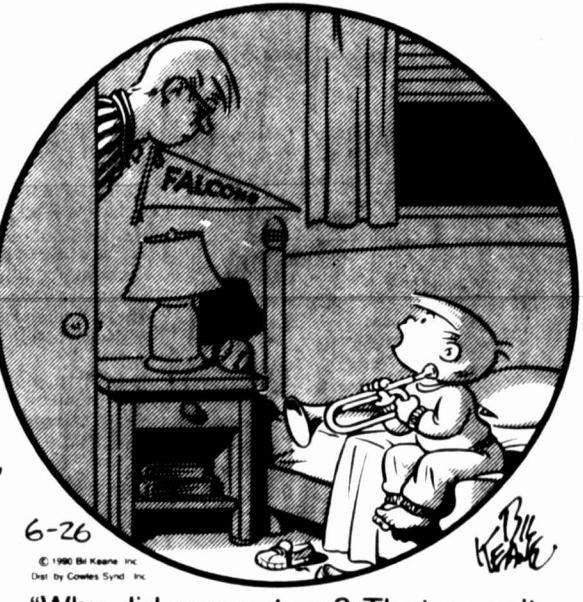

Conroy, 45, went one better. He showed her.

DALLAS (AP) — You better know Bo to avoid getting stuck with worthless collectibles.

Counterfeit Bo Jackson baseball and football cards are in circulation, said George Martin, a spokesman for Score, the company that puts out the real thing.

The authentic cards sell for about $15, said Dallas cards dealer Dick Wickline. The fakes are fuzzy and have black and white borders. The originals have purple and green borders.

"DID YOU LEARN ANYTHING?"

"THE WATER IN THE DRINKING FOUNTAIN WAS ALWAYS WARM"

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 27, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Spontaneous decisions will bring the best results now. Financial loose ends can be tied up and forgotten in September. In November, charitable efforts will benefit you as well as others.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Helen Keller, "Captain Kangaroo" Bob Keeshan, philanthropist H. Ross Perot, baseball's Rico Petrocelli.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Tackle minor repair jobs before they grow larger. Joint finances could be a sensitive subject. Resist the temptation to gamble. Romance will be uppermost in your thoughts this evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A wonderful day for real estate ventures. Limit your tax liability. Luxury purchases are best postponed. The financial decisions you make now are sound. Resist the temptation to say, "I told you so."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Use a conventional approach when dealing with someone conservative. A luncheon meeting could lead to new business. A piece of good luck reinforces your romantic hopes. Put your best foot forward.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Timely correspondence can advance your career. Your ability to write succinctly is a tremendous asset.

Resist a fast-talker who advocates a get-rich-quick scheme. Romance becomes more complicated.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You will be pleased with what you are able to accomplish at work today. Let your artistic side show through. Travel produces wonderful results now. Handle your money with greater care.

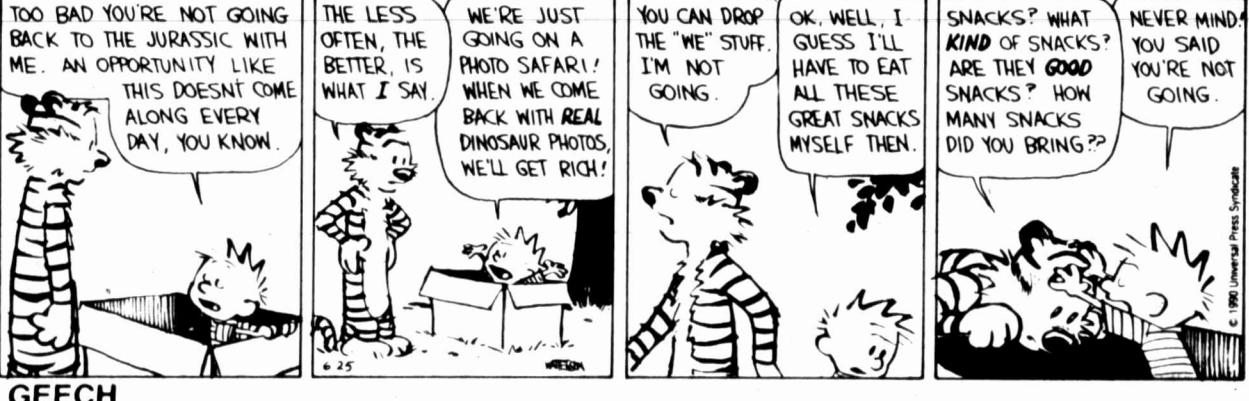

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Progress at work will be slow but sure. Be thankful for, not envious of, a friend's good fortune. Sentiment plays a major role in a business decision you make today. Confide in a close pal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Romantic happiness should be yours if you exercise patience. Have more confidence in yourself. Discuss a financial situation openly with mate or partner. A close friend repays a favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Put the finishing touches on an important project. An old friend will bring you good news. Romance enters a brighter phase. Group efforts pay off handsomely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Loved ones will go out of their way to help you. Show your appreciation in a meaningful way. Let romance develop slowly. You may be more comfortable socializing with people your own age.

Search for Gray yields no clues

SNYDER — Authorities continue to search for state-prison escapee Travis Dale Gray with no reported developments in the investigation.

"We're checking out every possible lead until the door closes on it," said Assistant Warden Charlie Streetman of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice facility.

He said he was not aware of any specific plan of action in the search.

Last week Streetman reported that authorities would focus on Big Spring where Gray's wife lives. He said today there have been no calls from citizens in the Big Spring area reporting sightings of Gray.

Gray, a resident of Big Spring, had begun serving a 40-year sentence for the 1988 murder of his first wife, Tammy Gray. He was convicted of strangling and forcibly drowning her in Lake Colorado City. He escaped June 20 by hiding in the back of a delivery truck as it left the prison furniture factory where he was employed, according to TDCJ officials.

Montford appointed to head committee

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby appointed state Sen. John Montford to head the Senate Finance Committee and Sen. Bob Glasgow to head the State Affairs Committee.

The appointments were made Monday to fill committee gaps left by Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, who has decided not to seek reelection to his Senate seat.

Montford, D-Lubbock, will replace Caperton as finance committee chair. Glasgow, D-Stephenville, in turn will replace Montford as chairman of the State Affairs Committee.

Additional WIC funds promised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas will receive an additional $814,000 from a special supplemental food program for women, infants and children as unspent and carryover program funds are reallocated, officials said Monday.

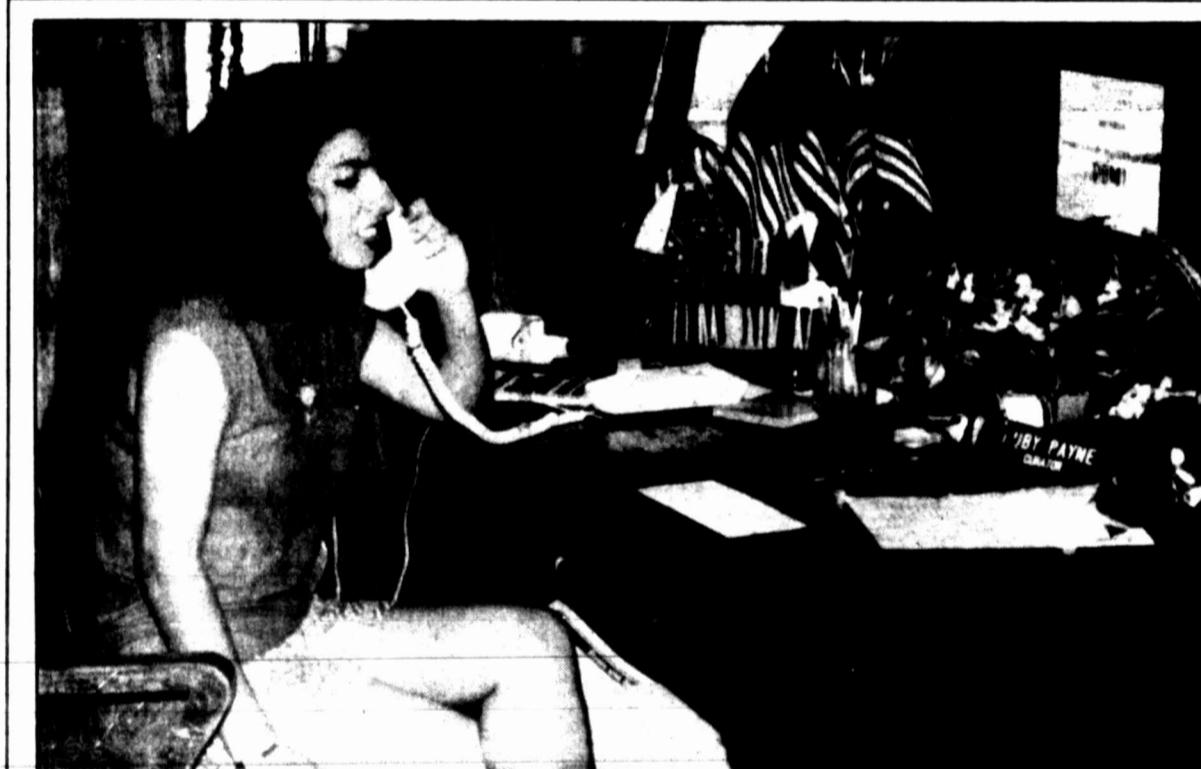

The reallocation money equates to about 8,480 food packages each month for Texas clients, said Betty Jo Nelsen, administrator.

Mandela delivers speech to Congress

By JOAN MOWER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Nelson Mandela is delivering an historic speech to a joint meeting of Congress today amid some lawmakers' uneasiness about his support for radical governments and his refusal to renounce armed struggle.

Mandela came away from three hours of talks with President Bush on Monday satisfied that U.S. economic sanctions against the white-ruled South African government will continue.

The deputy president of the African National Congress was making his case to lawmakers today in a series of speeches and closed-door discussions.

Mandela is the fourth black man and only the third private citizen to address Congress. The others were Polish Solidarity leader Lech Walesa in 1989 and the Marquis de Lafayette in 1824.

But some in Congress said they were unhappy with Mandela's public support for Cuban President Fidel Castro, Libyan leader Muammar Gadhafi and Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat.

"I wish he (Mandela) had not said those things, very frankly. They were not helpful," said Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa and a leading advocate of the 1986 legislation that imposed tough economic sanctions on South Africa.

Mandela closes his three-day visit to the capital with a sold-out speech tonight to 19,000 people at the Washington Convention Center after a noon rally at a downtown plaza. The rest of his stay has focused on talks with U.S. officials on issues such as economic sanctions.

Mandela, 71, was honored at a dinner Monday night hosted by Sens. David Boren, D-Okl., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, and Terry Sanford, D-N.C.

"I am so deeply touched by what has been said here that I find it difficult to express my gratitude to the senators," Mandela told the group, which included about three dozen senators from both parties, their spouses, plus Jesse Jackson and other prominent blacks.

Mandela discussed the future economic model for the country. While seeking equality for all

Farm Bureau crowns queens

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The field may have been small, but the talent was big at the Martin County Farm Bureau Queen and Talent Find contest.

The bureau crowned Staci Long and Robbie Phillips at the Saturday evening event.

Martin Lefevere, master of ceremonies, opened the event with the presentation of the contestants for the queen title. Sherry McMorris and Long were the participants in the race for the crown.

Both contestants were interviewed, with Lefevere asking questions ranging from the girls' future plans to the reason behind the Farm Bureau's existence.

The bureau also awarded door prizes to persons in the audience with a drawing for houseplants that surrounded the stage setting. Susan's Flowers designed the setting for the gala.

In the talent competition, Robbie Phillips was given the nod by a panel of three judges for her rendition of a country and western song. McMorris came in second place.

Howard trustees override faculty

By DEBBIE LINCEUM
Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — Despite opposition by faculty members, trustees voted unanimously to approve a new faculty load policy during the Howard County Junior College District board of trustees meeting Monday.

A prepared report compiled by the faculty senate had requested a deferral of the decision. An exceptionally large audience at the meeting included about 40 Howard College and SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf faculty members.

Danny Campbell, a representative of the senate which encompasses both colleges, read from a report which listed issues the group wanted to see addressed before the policy was changed.

The report focused on the three major aspects of the policy the faculty found unacceptable. The targeted changes in the policy, the report states, contribute to an already negative climate at

"If you were to ask the HCJCD faculty to describe the current climate of our organization, you would hear the words repressive, intimidation, suspicion, fear, punitive, adversarial, lack of trust, loss of credibility, low morale," it states.

The report states that faculty members have attempted to bring their complaints to the attention of Howard College President Bob Riley and Vice President for Vocational/Technical Instruction Andy Hicks on many occasions without success and so voted to appear before the board. It was reportedly the first time faculty had done so.

"We hope the board will consider seriously the specific concerns... about the teaching load policy and our broader concerns regarding the climate existing within our organization," it states.

The senate report asked that the board defer its final decision on the policy until members could review

Vice cop released

AUSTIN (AP) — Byron "Bubba" Cates, head of the Austin Police Department's vice unit before his firing last month, has been released from jail after a hearing that left members of the officer's family in tears.

Cates had been jailed without bail since he turned himself in on federal racketeering charges Thursday. He was freed on a personal recognition bond.

Monday's ruling by U.S. Magistrate Steve Capelle came after two police officers testified for federal prosecutors and after seven police officers and several relatives took the stand on Cates' behalf.

"I'm real happy," Cates said as he left federal courthouse. "I feel great." He described the charges against him as ludicrous.

Big Spring Reunion Rodeo

slack bucks out tomorrow

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — It's that time of the year: Time to go steam that crease in your Stetson and shine your cowboy boots because the 57th Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo is coming to town.

Scheduled for nightly performances Wednesday through Sunday, at 8:30 at the Big Spring Rodeo Bowl, this year's rodeo is expected to have all the roping, riding, eating, dancing, pretty ladies and tough hornbeasts you can handle. Admission is $6 for adults and $4 for children.

The rodeo gets an early start tonight when the first round of "slack" competition begins at 8. The highlight could be country-singing star George Strait, as he has entered the team roping with eight-time world champion calf roper Roy Cooper. Admission to the slack is $2.

This rodeo is the second oldest in Texas, second only to the West of the Pecos Rodeo, which will be next week. The Big Spring Rodeo Association, along with sponsors Coors and Coca Cola will be putting up the prize money for all the winners.

Mack Altizer and Bad Company Rodeo from Sonora will provide the livestock, and Randy Corley of North Platte, Neb., will be the announcer.

New policy

The new faculty load policy, stated in part, is as follows:

A. Number of students: The basic load for Howard College is 80 equated students and 20 equated students at SWCID. An increment (or decrement) of $10 per student will be assessed for each student above (or below) 80 students.

B. Number of Hours: Fifteen equated credit hours is considered a basic load. Equations in part are as follows: One hour lecture equals one credit hour; two hours structured laboratory class, one credit hour; three hours supervised lab, one credit hour. Monitored or open lab classes are not considered to be part of faculty load. Five practicum/internship students is one credit hour.

C. Number of Preparations: An instructor will be given one credit for each lecture preparation. An increment (or decrement) of $100 will be assessed for each preparation above (or below) three.

Objections

The faculty senate report states opposition to aspects of the policy for the following

The clowns will be Coahoma's Quail Dobbs, Mike (Smurf) Horton of Zolfo Springs, Fla., Roach Hedeman of El Paso and Chuck Kinney of Sulphur, La.

John Farris will serve as arena announcer and Mildred Farris will be rodeo secretary.

The festivities kick off with a rodeo parade, headed by parade chairman and rodeo association member Harry Middleton.

The parade will move through Big Spring Wednesday beginning at 4 p.m. The parade will start at 10th and Main, go over to Scurry Street, and back to 10th and Main.

Anyone who wants to participate in the festivities should be there at 3:30. Marchers, horseback riders, cars, trucks and floats are welcome. A special prize will be awarded to the best riding group. One of the featured riding groups will be the Howard County Sheriff's Posse. Middleton can be contacted at 267-5964.

Following the parade, the Sheriff's Posse will provide a barbecue at the Howard County Fair Barn. Price is $5.25 per plate.

After each nightly rodeo performance, a dance will be held at the Fair Barn. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights, the music will be provided by locals Jody Nix and The Texas Cowboys. Saturday night, the music will be provided by West Texas group Prairie Fire. Admission is $5 per person.

Opening night Wednesday will have a special treat for Little League baseball players. All players wearing their uniforms will be admitted free. Each player must be accompanied by an adult.

Thursday night is Dairy Queen Night. Discount coupons are available at Dairy Queens in Big Spring, Coahoma and Colorado City, and they are good for Thursday night's performance only. The coupons will allow adults to get in for $4 and children for $3.

races, Mandela said the ANC also wants cooperation of businessmen in this country."

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, told Mandela: "We will heed your call for sanctions to continue until the evil system of apartheid is abolished."

But others said they were disappointed by Mandela's public support for radical governments. Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla., a backer of economic sanctions who is active in foreign policy issues, said he would boycott Mandela's speech.

"He comes here and espouses support — not just casual, offhand support, but significant support — for people whose methods and backgrounds are terrorists, outlaws or communist dictators," Smith said. These are people "who practice every day what Nelson Mandela has fought his whole life against," he said.

C. Number of Preparations: "The state does not reimburse the college based upon the number of different courses an instructor must prepare to teach; the college does not offer students a discount in tuition if the instructor happens to be teaching another section of the course."

D. Faculty Administration Relations: A survey will be conducted among all faculty members to determine if those feelings do exist. Riley said he expected the survey to be completed within the next week.

Riley said he was not surprised by the number of faculty in attendance at the meeting.

"This is something which impacts the way they go about doing their jobs," Riley said after the meeting. "This demonstrates that our faculty are concerned and that they know they're willing and able to voice opposition without retribution."

Several faculty members, when asked, said they would not speak for the record about the issues.

Chair of the senate, Mel Griffin, a professor at Howard College, said the group will meet in the next week or so. She said she does not know exactly what the content of those meetings will be.

Other business conducted at the meeting included several administrative changes.

Mary Dudley, assistant to the president, has resigned, to return to the psychology faculty full time. It was announced that Cheri Sparks will take over that position as well as vice president for institutional advancement.

Dusty Johnston will be named associate vice president for student services. Ron Brasel will become executive director and associate vice president for SWCID.

Conservative Rep. William Dannemeyer, R-Calif., said the invitation to address Congress was a "national disgrace."

"Nelson Mandela is no Martin Luther King," Dannemeyer said. "He is more like H. Rap Brown or Willie Horton."

Bush invoked King's name on Monday in urging Mandela and the ANC to reject revolutionary armed struggle as a tactic to end racial segregation in South Africa, a country where 5 million whites dominate 28 million blacks economically and politically.

"In the words of the great Martin Luther King Jr., 'Let us not seek to satisfy our thirst for freedom by drinking from the cup of bitterness and hatred,'" the president said.

Mandela, imprisoned for 27 until his release in February, defended the use of violence as a tactic in the black struggle for freedom. But he told Bush the ANC would remain peaceful as long as the white government continues to negotiate in good faith.

"If we are forced to resort to violence," Mandela said, "it is because we had no other alternative whatsoever."

Mandela, at a news conference, said he told Bush the ANC had sealed down its military operations in 1986 to promote negotiations.

"We made it clear that once the government removed all the obstacles to negotiation, we would consider the cessation of hostilities," Mandela said.

He said the South African government must release 1,000 political prisoners, return 20,000 political exiles, repeal "repressive" legislation and lift the state of emergency in the Natal province.
