Youth released from custody

The 16-year-old boy accused of stabbing to death a Big Spring man apparently has been released from the custody of juvenile authorities.

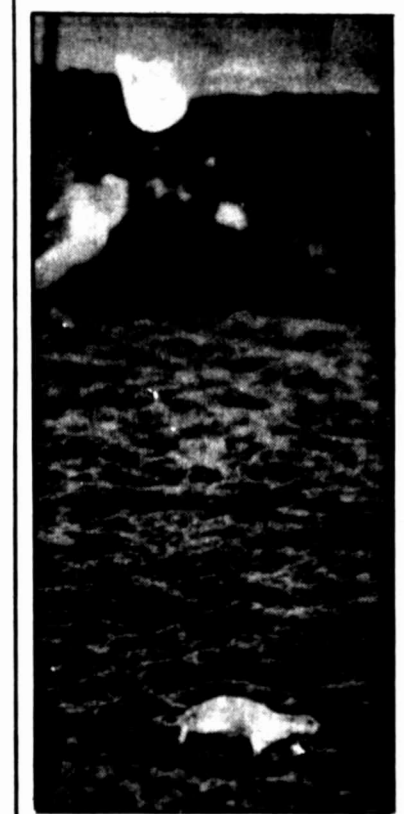

County Attorney Hardy Wilkerson said the youth's first 10-day detention period ended on Thursday.

"My understanding is the child doesn't meet the criteria for containment at this point and that the court did not schedule another detention hearing for him," Wilkerson said.

The boy was taken into custody June 16 and charged by police with murder in connection with the June 12 death of Richard Lauderdale. At a hearing two days later, County Judge John Coffee ordered that the boy be held in custody for 10 days pending a psychological evaluation.

Wilkerson said he probably will bring formal charges against the youth next week after he reviews the police report of the case. Wilkerson also said he probably will determine next week whether to charge the youth as a juvenile or a juvenile-enhanced, or whether to seek certification to try the boy as an adult.

"I will have to evaluate the report," he said. "I've got the actual facts to base my decision on. Any option that I use has to start the same: a petition alleging delinquent conduct."

No time

A prairie dog interrupted the action at the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Thursday evening when it scurried across the floor of the Rodeo Bowl. Despite efforts to capture the critter, it was eventually herded out of the arena, away from the danger of horse and calf hooves.

City now selling fuel for airplanes

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

The city began selling fuel today to aviators at the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark. City Manager Hal Boyd, said he arranged for fuel to be available at terminal building 1161, which is the center hangar. The move ensures that fuel is available for local pilots; C-Bar Flying Service stopped selling fuel last week and will close its doors June 30.

"Fuel will be provided for local customers, or anyone, by Basin Aviation of Midland Airpark," Boyd announced on Thursday. "They'll be furnishing fuel through the weekend and we'll evaluate the situation Monday."

Boyd also announced that the airpark has purchased most of C-Bar's inventory, including fuel tanks, pumps, fuel trucks, office equipment and radios. He said the equipment, purchased on Thursday, cost the airpark about $29,000.

While pilots now will be able to "gas up," other services still are not available. Boyd said he is continuing negotiations with prospective fixed-base operators to take C-Bar's place.

"I've had nine valied inquiries at this point," he said, and proposals are being accepted. "We will take the most prudent and probably the most expedient offer. If we get a good proposal, we're going to go ahead and recommend it to the council."

"Otherwise the airpark will run it."

The city began searching for a

Bush defends his decision to drop no-new-tax stand

By TERENCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Bush said today he jettisoned his no-new-taxes campaign pledge in hopes of reaching an accord with the Democrat-controlled Congress on a plan to reduce the deficit and reinvestigate a sluggish economy.

GEORGE BUSH

"I knew I'd catch some flak on this decision," said Bush, who has been sharply criticized by many lawmakers in his own Republican Party. "But I've got to do what I think is right."

Speaking at a White House news conference, Bush said budget talks with congressional leaders are "a make or break effort at responsible government." He said the negotiations are going well and expressed hope there could be an agreement within a few weeks.

Bush won the White House in 1988 by campaigning as an ardent foe of new taxes. "Read my lips, no new taxes," was the most memorable line of his successful drive for the presidency.

But the president today likened himself to Abraham Lincoln. "I'll think anew," he said, when faced with a deficit he said was worse than "any of us visualized" when he made his pledge.

Many Republican congressmen have made it clear they feel betrayed by the president's reversal on a winning campaign issue.

"Arrows have been flying, back, front, sideways, but that's what I get paid for," he said. "I can totally empathize with what they're going through."

Bush's declaration earlier this week that "tax revenue increases" were an essential element of any deficit-reduction package jump-started budget negotiations with Congress.

The president spoke shortly before leaving for a brief vacation at Kennebunkport, Maine. Next week, he travels to London for a meeting with NATO leaders, then on to Houston for the annual economic summit of industrialized nations.

"If I had control of this Congress, both houses, we might not even be talking about this today," he said.

Without a deficit-reduction agreement, Bush said, automatic spending cuts totaling $100 billion could take effect Oct. 1, with "draconian" reductions in defense and domestic programs such as student loans.

The deficit for next year could total $150 billion, not counting the cost of cleaning up failed S&Ls.

In accepting the Republican president nomination in 1988, Bush said:

"And I'm the one who will not raise taxes. My opponent won't rule out raising taxes. But I will."

"And the Congress will push me to raise taxes, and I'll say no, and they'll push, and I'll say no, and they'll push again. And I'll say to them: Read my lips. No new taxes."

Bush was asked how he could have made his no-tax pledge in 1988 when the deficit was already at record levels. "The budget deficit is bigger, far bigger. I thought I

Residents offered a variety of events on July 4th

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

Fourth of July activities will include more than just fireworks this year. Events planned around Crossroads Country and beyond include picnics, music, art and sports.

Big Spring's annual fireworks display is expected to be the biggest in West Texas again this year. It will be sponsored for the second year by J.B. Elmore of Elmore Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep Inc. and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce.

Fireworks will be set up and fired from South Mountain. Linda Roger of the Chamber said people who want to watch are encouraged to get to Comanche Trail Park early. The show starts about 9:30 p.m. A "play-by-play" narration and patriotic music will be broadcast over radio station KBST.

The Dixie Land Band will play in the amphitheater from 8 p.m. until the fireworks start. Concessions will be available at the park, though seating space will be limited.

Other good spots for watching include the Highland Mall parking lot and the VA Medical Center lawn.

Colorado City Chamber of Commerce plans a "beach" volleyball tournament, fishing tournament, games, food and arts and crafts booths, all at Ruddleick park. A fireworks display will be sponsored by the volunteer firefighters. Sign up to have a booth by calling 728-8416.

The Stanton Care Center will host the Razzle-Dazzle Clown Show at 10 p.m. July 4. The show features music, magic and general "clowning around." Everyone is invited.

Lamesa plans a variety of celebratory events, including: food booths, entertainment, basketball games, a volleyball tournament and fireworks. Swimming at the city pool is free from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Food and game booth space can be reserved until Monday by calling the Chamber of Commerce at (806) 872-2181.

Scurry County artists will exhibit their work July 3 and 4 at the Scurry County Barn in Towle Park, Snyder. Photography and paintings will be exhibited and judged.

Showings begin at 5 p.m. Tuesday, until 9 p.m. and 9 a.m. Wednesday, ending at 7 p.m. Interested artists should contact Nena Mitchell at 573-6120 or LaVern Lee at 573-2754 for information.

If you don't mind the drive, you might want to head for San Antonio. Willie Nelson's annual picnic happens there on July 3 this year.

Featured entertainers include Nelson, Little Joe and La Familia, and Johnny Bush. Gates to the Bluebonnet Sports Arena open at 5 p.m. and music begins at 6 p.m. Tickets are $10, general admission. Call (512) 651-6702.

The home of the Alamo plans a number of other activities as well, including "Freedom Fest" July 4 featuring many nationally recognized musical groups, magic acts, food and craft booths. There is no admission charge for the event, which is set to take place at the Retama Polo Center.

Deaf to get easier access to telephone

By KIM LABBE
Staff Writer

People with hearing and speech impairments will soon be able to use the telephone with less difficulty thanks to a new state-wide telephone relay service.

Relay Texas will allow telephone communication between hearing and non-hearing and speaking and non-speaking people with the help of a translator, which is reached by calling an 800 number.

"... what this does is allow deaf or speech impaired persons to pick up the phone anytime and talk as long as they want. They have the same opportunity to use the phone without any restrictions."

Relay Texas was established as a result of an act introduced in the last legislative session.

"The act went into effect Sept. 1, 1989. On Sept. 15, 1989, the Public Utilities Commission appointed an advisory committee to assist in administering of the statewide relay service," said Mark Seegar, account manager at Sprint Services, which is the company providing the service.

"By law, it must begin by Sept. 1, 1990. The Public Utilities Commission is responsible for making sure the service complies with state law," Seegar said.

Callers will dial 1-800-Relay-TX, to reach an operator, or relay agent. Using a telecommunication device for the deaf, which sends typed messages over the telephone wire, agents will act as intermediaries, vocalizing for the hearing and typing the conversation for the deaf or speech impaired.

"The agent acts as a translator," Seegar said. "The operator acts like a telephone pole. They are not there to judge the call. They are as transparent as possible."

"The service is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, throughout the year."

"We guarantee we will answer 85 percent of the calls with a live

ACU student falls to death in Africa

ABILENE (AP) — An Abilene Christian University student apparently fell to his death in a mountain waterfall while participating in a summer mission program in southern Africa.

Ryan C. King, 18, is missing and presumed dead after the accident Tuesday, the Abilene Reporter-News reported Friday. King was a freshman biology major at ACU last year.

Other members of the volunteer mission group told family members by telephone that King was taking photographs near the edge of Mantenga Falls, near Manzini, Swaziland, when he either slipped or the ledge beneath him gave way and he plunged over the steep side.

Witnesses said a 19-year-old Swazi man standing closest to King attempted to grab him, but could not reach him. Ten other ACU students were too far away to help.

They estimated King fell about 60 feet and was last seen floating face down in the rushing water.

U.S. Embassy officials informed King's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ron King of San Antonio, that the turbulence of the water and the presence of many underground caves may prevent recovery of the body.

Divers were searching in areas where it could be done safely, they were told.

Gunman vowed revenge

HOUSTON (AP) — A man charged in the shooting death of a Houston police officer had vowed 19 years earlier to get revenge on police for killing his twin brother in a shootout, police said.

Carl Wayne Buntion, 46, was charged Thursday with capital murder for the Wednesday slaying of motorcycle officer Jim Irby following a routine traffic stop in north Houston.

In addition to vowing revenge for his brother's death years ago, police said that Buntion told a companion moments before the attack that he would "shoot it out" with police.

Police said the companion had told them that as he was pulled over by Irby, Buntion — the passenger — remarked he would rather have a shootout with police than return to jail. The Houston Post reported today.

Buntion, on parole since May 15 after serving only 13 months of a 15-year sentence for the sexual assault of a child, was being held without bond today, according to police spokesman Dan Turner.

Buntion's twin brother, Kenneth, was killed in an April 1971 shootout after he wounded two officers trying to arrest him for forgery.

Carl Buntion was in prison when his twin brother, suspected of operating a forgery ring, was shot eight times and killed in a gunfight with police at an apartment complex in northwest Houston.

HOUSTON — Police inspect the intersection where Houston police officer Jim Irby was gunned down Wednesday evening. Irby was shot once in the head while making a routine traffic stop. Several citizens chased the gunman to a nearby warehouse where he was arrested.

Carl Buntion has had previous prison terms for theft, parole violation, burglary, narcotics possession, burglary of a motor vehicle, unauthorized use of a motor vehicle and most recently sexual assault of a child, records show.

Witnesses said Irby, 37, was talking to the driver when Buntion got out, pulled a large-caliber revolver and shot the officer in the head.

Rap album flap to get AG opinion

AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas legislator says he'll ask for an attorney general's opinion on whether record stores can sue counties for damages for restricting the sale of an album by the rap group 2 Live Crew.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, wouldn't name any record stores that have reported the loss of sales. But he added, "If you don't sell the album, you suffer damages."

San Antonio police earlier this month told record store owners they could face possible obscenity charges for selling the album, "As Nasty As They Wanna Be," but there have been no arrests.

In Austin, Travis County Attorney Ken Oden said the album will not be banned. But he notified record stores that they could be prosecuted for selling the album to anyone under 17, under a state law prohibiting sales of sexually explicit material to children.

Wilson said Thursday that other albums could be deemed obscene, and brought several to a news conference. He suggested racism as a motive for singling out 2 Live Crew, and asked, "The problem is: Where does this kind of censorship stop?"

Oden said it was "ludicrous" to suggest racism was involved in stopping the sale of an album to children.

Mandela's Detroit reception warm

DETROIT (AP) — Nelson Mandela received a tumultuous welcome in the nation's industrial heartland, revitalizing the South African anti-apartheid leader's U.S. tour after political leaders in Miami rebuffed him.

In Florida on Thursday, Cuban-American mayors snubbed Mandela because of his support for Cuban leader Fidel Castro. But later in the day, Detroit showered Mandela with affection and at least $1.5 million to support his dream of a racially united South Africa.

"We appreciate your efforts, especially in this time of industrial retrenchment. In the face of your problems and difficulties, you have not forgotten us. We will never forget you," Mandela told a crowd of 49,000 at Tiger Stadium.

Shortly after dawn today, Mandela left his downtown hotel for a half-hour stroll along the Detroit River, which marks the border between Detroit and Windsor, Ontario.

Flanked by police and State Department security agents, he shook hands with well-wishers and signed autographs. He wore a Detroit Pistons jacket and cap that members of the championship pro basketball team gave him Thursday night.

Detroit was the sixth stop on Mandela's eight-city U.S. tour and the only Midwestern city. He was scheduled to speak at a news conference this morning before heading for Los Angeles later today.

Wary from the rigors of his tour, Mandela, 71, seemed energized by the wildly cheering crowds that greeted him in Detroit, which he called "Motor Town."

"Thank you for giving us your support when we need you most," Mandela said at Tiger Stadium.

"Right now, I wish I could climb down from the stage and join you in the stands and embrace you, one and all."

Course opens early tees to women

HERMITAGE, Pa. (AP) — Fearing pickets on the links, a Veterans of Foreign Wars post lifted a policy banning women from its golf course before 11 a.m. on weekends and holidays.

The Hickory VFW Golf Course adopted the policy after its nine-man governing board claimed women play too slowly during the prime hours for duffers.

At least one woman who plays the course frequently protested the policy, spawning publicity that drew television crews, telephone calls and letters.

Course manager Don Wilson defended the policy but decided to change it Thursday when some players threatened to picket.

Fire engulfs homes and businesses

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A fire that engulfed 567 homes and businesses in Santa Barbara County still raged out of control today. But cooler temperatures and milder winds helped firefighters contain other Southern California blazes that burned more than 90 homes.

Wildfires, most set by arsonists, charred more than 14,000 acres by Thursday in a six-county area north, east and south of Los Angeles. Arson was blamed for the Santa Barbara fire.

Losses could surpass $500 million, a Santa Barbara County supervisor said.

Elsewhere, firefighters controlled blazes in Utah and at Yellowstone National Park in Montana.

Salvaging the Troubled Telescope

Hubble's in Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — An error in the grinding and polishing of the main mirrors aboard the Hubble Space Telescope has been pinpointed as the cause of a focus flaw that crippled the $1.5 billion orbiting observatory.

An official of Hughes Danbury Optical Co., which manufactured the mirrors, said Thursday night that experiments with signals from the Hubble have confirmed that a mistake was made in the tedious three-year process of making the primary and secondary Hubble mirrors.

"With fairly high certainty, we have concluded that... the shape of one of the mirrors is not correct," said Terence Facey, a Hughes Danbury engineer who helped NASA isolate the source of the Hubble focusing problem.

He said it was not known which mirror is flawed, but that may be discovered by searching the Connecticut company's records of tests conducted during the months of grinding and polishing required to turn foot-thick, spherical glass blanks into the telescope mirrors.

Two senators who oversee the space program, meanwhile, reacted angrily to news of the Hubble focusing flaw and ordered hearings on the mistake.

"I'm very outraged at what has happened to Hubble," said Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md. "They have had 10 years to put this together and spent $2.8 billion to be able to get it right."

"Now we find that the Hubble telescope has a cataract," she said.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has said the telescope cost $1.5 billion, plus $600 million for operations and maintenance.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate subcommittee on science, technology and space, called a hearing on the Hubble problem for today, with NASA's chief scientist, Lennard Fisk, as the lead witness.

Lithuanian debates freedom freeze

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Lithuania's president today endorsed a compromise plan to freeze the republic's declaration of independence for 100 days in return for Moscow lifting its economic embargo and opening negotiations.

The move by Vytautas Landsbergis could end the breakaway Baltic republic's 3 1/2-month-old standoff with the Kremlin over its drive toward independence.

"Two years ago, we chose the peaceful route to independence, the route of negotiations," Landsbergis told the republic's lawmakers. "Now the condition for negotiations is a moratorium."

Up until now, the Lithuanian leader had balked at tampering with the March 11 declaration of independence. Landsbergis' change of heart was likely to influence lawmakers, said Algis Cekuolis, a Lithuanian newspaper editor.

A vote on the measure could come soon.

There was no comment from Soviet officials about the compromise measure, and it was not certain it would be acceptable to President Mikhail S. Gorbachev. Landsbergis' proposal calls for the 100-day freeze to take effect only when negotiations with Moscow begin.

China deals with flag desecration

BEIJING (AP) — Chinese who desecrate the national flag can be imprisoned for up to three years under a law passed by legislators today.

The nation's first flag law, adopted by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress, also forbids the use of the standard in advertisements or as a trademark, the official Xinhua News Agency said.

Xinhua said willful damage to a flag is punishable by up to three years of imprisonment, detention, surveillance or deprivation of political rights.

Before the law was passed, China often harshly punished those who defaced any of its national symbols. Last year a Chinese court gave a life sentence to a man who during the pro-democracy demonstrations threw paint on the large portrait of Mao hanging from Tiananmen Gate.

In the United States this week, Congress rejected a proposed amendment to the Constitution permitting the enactment of laws making it illegal to desecrate the flag.

The Chinese law says every citizen and organization must respect and take good care of the national flag, which shows four small and one large yellow star against a red field.

Iranian president praises quake aid

IRANIAN RUBBLE

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — President Hashemi Rafsanjani said today that Iran should be thankful for foreign aid for earthquake victims, defending the help against hard-liners who oppose it.

Rafsanjani, speaking at weekly prayers at Tehran University, cited an editorial in a radical newspaper last week that denounced assistance from countries like the United States and said people chanted "Death to America" even from under the rubble.

"I don't think we see the people who are under the debris saying, 'No we don't want foreign aid,'" the president said.

The anti-Western faction in the Iranian government, led by lawmaker Ali Akbar Mohtashemi, opposes any form of foreign assistance.

No truce found for this cold war

LONDON (AP) — Another cold war has ended — not with a bang but a snuffle.

The Common Cold Research Center is closing Saturday, having conceded defeat after 44 years in which thousands of noses were bombarded with viruses in the quest for a cure for the common cold.

Administrator Arthur Amos insists that the 18,000 volunteers who passed through the hospital near Salisbury, 80 miles west of London, did not suffer in vain.

"Going back in time, we used to think there was only one cold virus. Now we know there are nearly 200, so there is no chance of finding a vaccine," Amos said. "We've been trying to find a compound that acts on a family of viruses, but we've had no luck."

Some of the center's discoveries cannot be explained, Amos said. Why, for example, did one-third of volunteers never show any signs of a cold while the others, exposed to the same virus, coughed, sneezed and felt miserable.

"Blood tests at the beginning of the trial and at the end often show changes in antibody levels, which means even if it didn't seem like they have a cold, they have a subclinical cold," Amos said.

The volunteers received no medication, Amos said, unless they were in extreme discomfort, in which case they got aspirin.

The research center was housed in the Harvard Hospital, so named because it was sent to Britain by the Harvard Medical School in 1940.

During World War II, it was an American military field hospital, and in 1946 it was turned over to the common cold project.

The volunteers ranged in age from 18 to 50, and some were repeat participants. One couple met there and returned the following year for their honeymoon. One man went through the 10-day quarantined program 26 times, but Amos said he was "a rather odd sort of person."

Many participants came to vacation at the center, nestled in rolling countryside in the shadow of the 404-foot spire atop Salisbury Cathedral, England's highest spire.

Two or three volunteers shared each of the center's 12 apartments.

"We usually have a flat empty in reserve in case they're incompatible... but in the main they usually get along," Amos said.

The volunteers were barred from Salisbury and neighboring villages and had to keep at least 30 feet away from anyone but their roommates or the gowned, masked medical staff.

Most volunteers came out of curiosity, Amos said.

Bush yields to a taxing reality

To Republican candidates whining about their president's no-new-tax betrayal, may we offer a few figures, beginning with $160 billion? That's the estimated federal deficit for this fiscal year. Perhaps the candidates haven't noticed, but that amount slightly exceeds the $64 billion target mandated by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction act.

The president could have ignored the debilitating deficit, just for the candidates' benefit. He could have kept his campaign promise and let Gramm-Rudman do its deficit-slashing work.

Of course, the war on drugs would have to be called off and national parks would have to be closed. State and local services that depend on federal funds would be slashed. Air-traffic controllers and food inspectors and scientists working on a cure for cancer would have to find other lines of work. The stock market would take a dive and the economy would reel into a recession, but at least the complaining Republican candidates would still have their defining difference with the Democrats.

Other figures come to mind: $550 billion needed to bail out the already failed S&Ls; $300 billion to clean up the nation's nuclear waste dumps; $240.9 billion a year in interest on the national debt.

What the candidates are loath to admit is that Bush had no choice but to consider "tax revenue increases," as well as cuts in both domestic and military spending. He had no choice, that is, if he intends to be a responsible national leader. We're confident that he will be able to explain to the American public what has to be done; we're also confident that the public will understand.

The president's concession on the need for new taxes still leaves us a long way from a bipartisan agreement on deficit reduction. Who gets taxed and what gets cut are questions no easier to answer these days than they have ever been. Fairness, however, must be a guiding aim.

Budget negotiators could decide, for example, to suspend Social Security cost-of-living increases for one year, which would hurt the poor as well as Social Security recipients who could afford the freeze. A fairer approach is to subject a larger share of Social Security benefits to the income tax. The poor would be protected.

Another fair proposal is to break the so-called bubble that allows wealthy taxpayers to pay at a 28 percent rate while the upper middle class ($78,000 to $162,000 for joint filers) pay at a 33 percent rate. Correcting that anomaly would raise several billion dollars, fairly.

It was Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., who observed several weeks ago that leaders must lead, even if their followers are unprepared to follow. By acknowledging the need for tax increases, the president is doing just that.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed. Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes. They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered. Letters exceeding the 350-word limit will be cut. They must be signed, free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign; candidates are allowed a single letter during a campaign. Letters listing numerous donors to projects are not published. Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

How the Berlin Wall is now beginning to save lives

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

EAST BERLIN — More than 1,000 doctors have left East Germany for West Germany since the opening of the Berlin Wall last November. They were lured by the possibility of earning up to $5,000 a month.

Now, ironically, pieces of the wall are helping the dedicated doctors who remain behind to keep their struggling hospitals running.

That is why, when we toured a children's hospital in East Berlin recently, the doctors were full of gratitude for rich American souvenir hunters, including Nancy Reagan.

In an unusual venture, a state-run export company has teamed up with a West Berlin business to sell prime pieces of the wall to the former first lady, among others, and give the money to hospitals. Everybody and his brother has a chip or chunk from the wall, but this new venture is selling the last of the large sections with the coveted graffiti.

Not long after the wall came down, the new government declared that "official" pieces would be sold and the proceeds used for urgently needed modernization of public health services.

While the communists ran East Germany for 40 years, they never pumped enough money into hospitals to keep up with Western standards.

The six-floor "Kinderclinic" we visited was considered the finest in the country, a showcase for the communist system. But it is at least 10 years behind Western hospitals. The only relatively modern equipment we saw was donated by an Ohio hospital or bought with the Berlin Wall proceeds.

The wall pieces are being marketed by a state-owned trade enterprise called Limex and a new private company called LeLe Berlin Wall. Co-owners Judith LaCroix and Christian Herms have already given $625,000 in wall money to hospitals.

Limex and LeLe could have had all the pieces they wanted. But, they decided to treat the wall like fine art, reckoning that a limited edition print is worth more than a mass produced copy. They chose 360 sections of the wall with the best graffiti, including the work of some well-known graffiti artists. The rest of the wall, which has not yet been picked over and chipped off by do-it-yourself collectors, will become road base.

These are not pieces for casual souvenir hunters. The pieces sell for tens of thousands of dollars. Word quickly spread among art collectors, and they gathered last week in Monte Carlo for an auction of 81 pieces by Limex and LeLe Berlin Wall.

Before the auction, LaCroix confided to us, discriminating buyers had already spoken for some of the best pieces. Actor Gene Hackman spent several days in Berlin making his selection.

First Lady Nancy Reagan showed her famous penchant for pickiness. She wanted a section in soft colors, with graffiti (but no obscenities) and preferably with a message about freedom. She ended up with a section spray painted in blues and greens with part of a butterfly winging its way to the top and the German word for freedom sprayed on the piece. It will go in the Reagan presidential library where presumably Ronald Reagan will take some credit for the downfall of communism.

The writer's art

A few words about verb usage

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

In the whole of the English language, no verbs give writers more trouble than those two troublesome critters, lay and lie. Let me cite a few Horrid Examples:

From the Portland Oregonian: "A dead bird lays entwined in seaweed." From the Miami Herald: "True Hero Has Laid Down His Life for His Country." From the Savannah (Ga.) Morning News: "Pepper Will Lay in State at Capitol." From a columnist criticizing George Bush: "He is talking bland platitudes and laying low."

From the New York Times: "Many Tough Tasks Lay Ahead." And from United Press International, in a feature about a test of mattresses: "The subjects (four college-age men and women) were laying in a supine position probably five or 10 minutes at the most." The comparisons showed that subjects laying face up on a firm innerspring mattress felt less strain.

This is the basic rule: Lay takes an object; lie never does. Thus we lay bets, we lay bricks, we lay a table, we lay pipelines. Navigators lay a course. Hens and comedians lay eggs. The verb has a ribald sense that was lost on dear old UPI in the last Horrid Example.

The past tense of lay is laid. One punch laid him on the floor. The horse laid its ears back. We laid in a supply of gin. The past participle is also laid; the present participle is laying. All clear? The slain hero has laid down his life for his country.

Now, the parts of "to lie" (in the sense of to recline) are lie, lay, lain. The present participle is lying. The present tenses were lying on the beds; they lay in a supine position. The president was lying low. A dead bird lies entwined in seaweed. Rep. Pepper will lie in state.

Things would be simpler for writers if all verbs were as clearly delineated as lie and lay. Unfortunately they are not. Consider the verb "to shine." The past tense is either shone or shined. The Wall Street Journal said of a day in Seattle, "It rained while the sun shined." The Omaha (Neb.) World-Herald remarked of a quarterback that "Ware truly shined at the position."

There is no quarrel over the use of shine in the sense of to polish: "He shined his shoes this morning." "The butler shined the silver; he shined it until it shone." In the sense of to cast light, shining also seems better: "She shined her flashlight into the cave." The truth is that either "shined" or "shone" is equally acceptable in most circumstances. The choice may depend upon whether a writer feels the need for a long "i" or a long "o."

The next one is easier. In the Peninsula (Wash.) Daily News, a pitcher named Herb Tennell bared down and struck out Jeff Weible." In the Rocky Mountain News in Denver, "Rafael Pureco, 18, says he didn't think of his own safety first before plucking a girl off the railroad tracks as a train bared down on her." The simple past of "bear" is "bore." The pitcher and the locomotive bore down.

cataract." — Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., commenting on a focusing flaw that crippled the $1.5 billion orbiting observatory.

"Many here have found that baseball is particularly compatible with intelligence. Both could be called 'the sport of the long

In passing, "bear" has two past participles, born and borne. The former is used only in the sense of physical birth: Diamond Lil wasn't born yesterday. In all other senses, the spelling is borne: "The regiment has borne the heat of battle."

What about "shrink"? In the movie, the unlucky inventor shrank the kids. The Atlanta Constitution commented that a three-month suspension imposed upon curmudgeon Andy Rooney "shrank like cheap jeans in a dryer to a three-week suspension."

My feeling — it is no more than a feeling — is that the use of "shrank" is shrinking, though my ear finds a true ring in, "He shrank from her scornful gaze." Headline in The Advertiser in Lafayette, La.: "Inmates said to have drank booze before fight at Jeff Davis bar." In an ad for Gilbey's gin, we find that a martini "is still drank the same way it was 60 years ago." No way. The simple past of drink is drank; the past participle is drunk.

The San Antonio (Texas) Express-News carried an item about high school basketball: "Among the many outstanding players trodding the hardwoods will be..." The Seattle Times noted last year that "in the wake of contradictory studies, scientists are trodding more carefully."

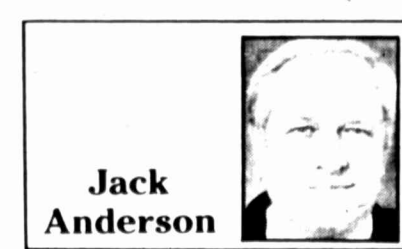

It had not occurred to this observer that "trod" is anything more than the past tense of "tread," but Webster's Dictionary of English Usage says that "trod" became an independent verb about 1909. We learn something new every day. Your moderator just learned that "to tread," in the matter of a male bird, means to copulate. Try to work that into a dinner table conversation sometime.

season.' Both demand the long view, a need for teamwork, a demand for individual performance." — CIA Director William Webster, who invited Baltimore Orioles owner Eli Jacobs to talk to CIA employees about "The Art, Science and Philosophy of Baseball."

Mandela has told intimates that he is impressed with De Klerk's sincerity and sensitivity and that De Klerk is a man of integrity who means what he says. MINI-EDITORIAL — James Madison once warned that the more people obey the unwritten moral laws of their society, the less they will need written laws that restrict their freedoms. Madison's advice should be stamped on every government building in Washington. We have housing scandals, ethics scandals, spending scandals and savings-and-loan scandals. All resulted because people took advantage of the lack of supervision and violated the basic moral laws of society. The result will be a backlash — more supervision and less wiggle room, more laws and less freedoms.

No stigma to being in debt today

By LEWIS GRIZZARD
Donald Trump owes 30 billion dollars. I read that in the papers.

Thirty billion big ones. The only other place you might find that many zeros is at a professional wrestling match.

But Trump, in an incredibly excessive way, is merely an example of how my generation looks at money in comparison to the way our parents did.

If my mother had been put in charge of the nation's budget, there never would have been a deficit.

She had some basic rules when it came to money:

1. Spend the least possible amount of what you have and save the rest.
2. If you have to borrow to pay for it, you can get by without it.

3. The secret to having piece of mind is not owing a single penny.

Our parents took a lot of pride in being debtless. To owe was a sign of weakness of character to them.

A friend my age said, "My father was proudest of the fact everything he owned was paid for. I used to tell him, 'But you don't have very much.'"

"He would always say, 'But what little I have nobody can take away. Can you say that?' I couldn't."

As an adult I never mentioned my finances around my mother. She would have been astounded at what baby boomers have been able to earn.

But she would have been deeply distressed by the debt I have incurred.

I once spent nearly 6 times what it cost my mother and stepfather to build a new house in 1956 for an automobile, which I financed, of course.

I borrowed more money from the bank to pay for my house than my mother made in her career as a schoolteacher.

But that is how my generation found the good life.

We borrow, and it doesn't bother us to owe up the wazoo.

I worked with a guy in the '70s who was telling me about a letter he got from one of his creditors.

"They're mad about the fact I missed a payment," he said. "The way I pay my bills is I put them all in a hat. Then, I reach into the hat without looking and pull out a bill."

"I keep doing that until I'm out of money. There are always a few bills left in the hat, but at least everybody I owe has the same chance of being pulled out of the hat."

"I wrote the people back and told them if they sent me another nasty letter I wouldn't even put them in the hat, anymore."

Why is my generation so willing to go into the Black Hole of Indebtedness when our parents were so afraid of it?

We never lived through a Depression for one thing. We grew up with television for another. Would I really have wanted a Cadillac someday if I hadn't seen them being given away on "The 64,000 Question"?

Our parents sent us to college in droves. The more education we got, the more earning power we got and the more money we made, the more we developed the attitude, "It's only money. I'll make some more tomorrow."

If Donald Trump can go down, how about the rest of us? Haven't we all been guilty of our own little episodes of extravagance and greed?

How safe are we from the wolf at the door?
Our frugal, save-for-a-rainy-day parents said things like, "Never borrow from Peter to pay Paul."
The Debt Generation sports bumper stickers that say, "He who dies with the most toys wins."
That's sad.

Lawyer: Interview arranged by deputy

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A defense lawyer for one of two brothers accused of killing a police officer says a Bexar County deputy arranged for a television reporter to interview his client while other deputies were attempting to arrest the reporter on a contempt of court warrant stemming from an earlier jail house interview.

Defense lawyer Mark Stevens said Thursday that the interview of Henry David Hernandez by KMOL-TV reporter Brian Karem was a blatant violation of Hernandez' civil rights and an aberration of jail policy. He said he will seek a court order to prevent Karem from doing another interview.

Bexar County Sheriff Harlon Copeland told the San Antonio Express-News that he knows nothing about the call.

Karem surrendered to Copeland Wednesday to begin serving a six-month jail term for contempt for failing to turn over his notes to defense and prosecution lawyers involved in the capital murder trial of Hernandez and his brother, Julian.

The brothers are accused in the March 1989 shooting death of officer Gary Williams.

In the first interview, Henry Hernandez told Karem he shot Williams in self-defense. Defense lawyers contend that the first interview was set up by county deputies or officials, the confession could not be used against him.

An autopsy revealed that the officer was under the influence of heroin and cocaine at the time of his death.

Karem lost his latest attempt for immediate freedom from jail Thursday when the U.S. Supreme Court denied his request for a stay of the contempt order while the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals considers his appeal.

GALVESTON (AP) — The crippled supertanker Mega Borg that exploded in the Gulf of Mexico earlier this month is for sale, an attorney for the vessel's owner said.

"No agreement has been reached to sell the vessel yet, although it is on the market," said Robert Klawetter, an attorney for the Norwegian tanker's owners.

The Mega Borg could end up as scrap material or it could be salvaged and used as a sort of barge or storage facility, Klawetter said.

A helicopter carries water to a forest fire in the Guadalupe Mountains National Park near the Texas-New Mexico state line Wednesday afternoon. The fire, sparked by lightning on Monday, had burned more than 1,800 acres by Wednesday and was not under control. About 700 people are battling the fire.

Fires blaze in three states

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lightning and fireworks triggered several fires in the Santa Fe and Cibola national forests of New Mexico, while firefighters from the state focused on a 21,000-acre blaze in Arizona and one expected to burn 5,000 acres in Texas.

Investigators found fireworks and other evidence near the point of origin of a 100-acre blaze that erupted Thursday in the Sandia Mountains east of Albuquerque, a U.S. Forest Service official said.

"The initial investigation indicates that it was caused by fireworks. They (investigators) found pyrotechnic devices near the point of origin," Cibola National Forest spokesman Lee Singer said.

No lightning struck in the area Thursday, he said, and "there's other evidence at the site that we might be able to tie back to the people that started the fire."

But lightning was blamed for a 100-acre fire 15 miles west of Las Vegas, N.M., in the Sangre de Cristo Mountains, Santa Fe National Forest spokesman Fred Coe said. The Commissary Fire near Barillas Peak was reported around 1 p.m., Coe said.

He also said there were several fires ranging up to 1 1/2 acres on the Santa Fe National Forest, most of them lightning-caused, but one that was human-caused about a mile north of Los Alamos.

All but the Commissary Fire were quickly contained, and there was no immediate estimate of when that one might be surrounded, he said.

The Cooper Fire, named for the Cooper-Ellis Ranch north of it, burned in the upper reaches of Las Huertas canyon about a mile from some homes east of Albuquerque in the Sandias, Singer said.

But he said the blaze had been burning uphill, away from the residences, and was no longer growing Thursday night.

"The weather's really cooperating with us now," he said. "It's cooling off."

And, he said, there was no wind. "The fire retardant has stopped the forward spread of the fire," Singer said. "If we have a good evening of fire line construction, by morning we might have a projection on containment."

Japanese auto manufacturer offended by Pickens' charges

By DAVID GROSS
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese auto parts manufacturer has angrily accused its largest stockholder, Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens, of "slandering and false charges" that "deeply offended" company officials.

The Koito Manufacturing Co. withdrew an invitation to Pickens to visit a company plant today, a day after a messy confrontation with Pickens over his efforts to win seats on the company's board of directors.

The debate between Pickens and Koito has come to symbolize for many Americans the difficulties faced by U.S. investors in Japan at a time when many Japanese companies are buying up American companies and real estate.

The debate points up the fundamental differences between the way Japanese and U.S. businessmen operate and how they accumulate wealth.

Pickens, accompanied by 32 other American investors, had come to Japan for the Japanese auto parts company's annual stockholders meeting.

He again raised his demand for four seats on the 20-member board of directors, and presented proposals for changes in company policy.

Pickens and the other Americans stormed out before voting on his proposals was finished, claiming that Koito was taking his suggestions lightly and discriminating against foreigners.

Angry Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens speaks to reporters after attending a shareholders meeting of Koito Manufacturing Company, a Japanese auto parts maker, on Thursday.

"It was a sham, an absolute farce," he told reporters. "Here today, Koito completely showed the world what it's all about in corporate Japan."

Koito President Takao Matsuura, in a statement sent Thursday night to Pickens' hotel, said the charges were "completely baseless and untrue," adding: "Koito is deeply offended by your public remarks."

Pickens declared that he would take his case against corporate Japan's "closed system" to Washington and to the upcoming Houston summit of advanced industrial democracies.

"We're going to tell it just like it is," he said.

Pickens, who now owns 26 percent of Koito's shares, has insisted that as its largest stockholder, he has a right to influence its policy.

Koito officials say they doubt Pickens is a long-term investor with a genuine interest in helping manage the company.

In the weeks before the shareholders meeting, Pickens had undertaken a publicity campaign to convince individual Japanese shareholders of his sincerity in advocating shareholders' rights.

Today's teens: Healthy, definitely wealthy consumers

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jay Leno tells a joke about how a parent punished her teen-ager by sending him to his room.

Big mistake. The kid should have been sent to the parent's room, a place devoid of the accouterments of youth, like CD boom boxes or high-tech sneakers.

Leno delivers the punchline in a TV commercial for tortilla chips, but as an increasing number of businesses are discovering, today's teens are in a position to buy far more than snack foods. Controlling more cash than the thirtysomething set can imagine, many adolescents are downright affluent, and they're playing a part in big-ticket purchases like never before.

"They're not buying just fast food, soft drinks and dime-store makeup anymore," said Peter Zollo, who heads Teenage Research Unlimited in suburban Chicago. They are "significantly more confident in their ability to buy big-ticket items than they were just one year ago," he said.

Indeed, teen car ownership is up nearly 13 percent for new vehicles and 9 percent for used cars when compared with 1989 levels, according to Zollo's survey of more than 2,000 people between the ages of 12 and 19.

Nearly half of all teens own their own television sets, compared with just 29 percent a decade ago, and about 20 percent own video cassette recorders, the New York market research firm Rand Youth Poll found.

Gone are the days of $5-a-week allowances. Teens spent $55.9 billion last year just on their day-to-day needs, like food, entertainment and clothing, up from $25.3 billion in 1975, Rand studies said.

Michelle Moiger, a 16-year-old from New York's Long Island, said most of her allowance and babysitting money goes toward "makeup and hairspray."

But teens also are buying some of the family groceries — $31.7 billion worth last year alone, according to Rand — all while making critical brand decisions.

That hasn't gone unnoticed by corporate America. Weight Watchers and Lean Cuisine, for instance, have begun advertising their frozen entrees in youth magazines in the hopes that teenagers will pick up a box or two while shopping for the family.

"We know teen spending is becoming incredibly more important," said Jane Fitzgibbon, senior vice president at the advertising agency Ogilvy & Mather's Trend-Sights division.

Some experts speculate that two-earner parents suffering guilt pangs over long hours at work tend to be more generous when it comes to giving their teens money. Others say that because couples are having fewer children, there's simply more money to go around.

But when it comes to earning power, demographics and economics have combined quite favorably for today's teens. For one thing, there are fewer teens out there, which means more jobs available.

The number of Americans between the ages of 13 and 19 has fallen 15.5 percent since 1980, to 22.7 million, according to Rand Youth Poll. Although the teen population is expected to be beginning to increase in 1992, no substantial upturn will take hold until the year 2000.

"The changeover from a manufacturing to a service economy requires just the type of employee the teen-ager is," said Rand President Lester Rand. "And some (teens) do get premium pay because in many suburban areas there is a shortage of this type of personnel."

McDonald's Corp., for one, boasts that it is not a "minimum-wage employer."

It is not unheard of for a high school student to bring in anywhere from $100 to $300 a week for part-time work, Rand said.

Beyond their own spending, teens have an incalculable ability to influence the purchases of their parents.

"They are used as advisors to adults in the family to buy high-tech audio equipment, where they know a hell of a lot more than grownups, as well as vacations, automobiles and where (the family) goes to dinner tonight," Fitzgibbon said.

Zollo's survey said 57 percent of teens influenced the purchase of a personal computer this year, 69 percent had input when it came to making family vacation plans, 49 percent had a say in which car their families bought, and 43 percent helped parents pick out a TV.

"We're always very interested in the presence of children in the home," said Daniel Infanti, a spokesman for Sharp Electronics Corp.

Not only do young people influence family purchases, but they embrace the latest technological advances.

"There are many adults out there who don't know how to program a VCR, but they ask their 13-year-old son and he can," Infanti said.

To reach the younger set, Sharp tends to focus on promotions at sporting events — like giving away Sharp hats at baseball games — rather than traditional print and television ads.

Apple Computer Corp. prefers hands-on experience to advertising directly to kids. The company is the leading provider of computers to schools, from kindergarten to high school.

This year, a national promotion had students from 30,000 schools saving grocery store receipts from 40 major supermarket chains to be swapped for Apple computers. More than 20,000 computers and 6,000 printers were awarded to the schools, said spokeswoman Mary Fallon.

Wet-dry weather patterns cracking Texas foundations

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texans need to realize that they are sitting on top of a "slow moving earthquake" compounded by extreme weather cycles that can crack house foundations, engineers say.

Most Texas homes are built on slabs resting on soil. And the slabs are moving more than they should as extreme wet-dry weather cycles cause the state's clay soils to get soaked and then dry out.

Because the slabs rest on soil, the foundation must either flex with the soil or be strong enough to withstand changes brought on by wet and dry conditions, said Jim Marsh, a Texas A&M construction science engineer.

"Due to the volatile weather we've experienced the last two years, I think the significance of substandard foundations has finally hit home," says Charles Graham, associate director for housing research at Texas A&M.

"We find a potential for up to 3 inches of vertical movement. Most slab-on-grade foundations are not built to withstand more than 1 inch," said Carol Claycamp, a Texas A&M architectural engineer. "But the construction industry refuses to face the fact that we're sitting on top of a slow-moving earthquake."

Experts say there are few easy answers to the problem.

"We are dealing with a rather imperfect area of construction science," said Graham. "Architects, engineers, soil scientists and contractors all view the problem from a different perspective."

Spending more money on a foundation may not be the answer. "Investing in a quality foundation is no different from purchasing an insurance policy," Marsh said. "The consumer must determine whether it is better to spend money up front or risk being saddled with mounting repair costs."

Graham says a typical home foundation repair costs anywhere from $8,000 to $12,000. The economic impact merits more research into foundation design and construction and soil moisture management, he said.

And the damage is not a one-time thing.

"Because of the foundation's trauma, their property's appraised value usually drops — sometimes dramatically. This may affect the values of adjoining properties as well," Graham said.

Marsh says to dig a 2-foot trench around the home and allow water to permeate the clay soil below the slab. Filling the trench with gravel and water will help minimize the evaporation, he said.

Foundation damage claims from Texas account for $16 million of the approximately $13 million in such claims filed with the Home Owners Warranty Council of Metropolitan Dallas. The insurer covers 49 states.

Governor: No pardon for Billy the Kid

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Gov. Garrey Carruthers has rejected a writer's request that Billy the Kid be pardoned for his role in the 1878 shooting death of Lincoln County Sheriff William Brady.

Hundreds of living people have clemency cases pending with just six months left in the Carruthers administration, said B.J. Wagner-Adam, the governor's administrator of pardons and extraditions.

She said a full investigation of all facts surrounding the case, normal procedure in executive clemency decisions, would be impossible because it all happened so long ago.

"There's such a volume of information out there and so much we don't know," she said.

A letter is being prepared advising Las Cruces author Opal Lee Priestley of the governor's decision, Ms. Wagner-Adam said Thursday.

Ms. Priestley is the author of "Billy the Kid: The Good Side of a Bad Man."

The writer contended that the Kid was denied a fair trial in Mesilla, near Las Cruces, on charges of murdering Brady.

"It was generally considered by those who attended the trial that he got token representation, and it was a foregone conclusion he would be found guilty," she said. "There was not much doubt the cards were stacked against him."

He escaped after the trial, killing two deputies in Lincoln. She said perhaps hundreds of people knew where he was after that but would not betray him for a $500 reward.

"And $500 in those days was a fortune," she said.

The Kid, whose real name was said to be William Bonney or Henry McCarty, was shot to death in Fort Sumner, N.M., by Lincoln Sheriff Pat Garrett in 1881.

Girls, women attend Baptist encampment

By BARBIE LELEK

"Rainbows and Promises" was this year's theme of the annual GA and Acteen Camp held at the Circle 6 Baptist Encampment in Stanton. Colorado City was well represented by three churches attending the event: First Baptist, Calvary Baptist, and Oak Street Baptist each brought a group of eager young girls and young women. The camp was held June 18-21. Each day the girls were involved in a Bible study about God's promises, a mission study, choir, crafts and swimming.

Those in attendance were also privileged to learn from and about missionaries to Japan. Reiji and Alice Hoshizaki, a retired missionary to Japan spoke daily to the girls. He is an American born Japanese man. His wife is Hawaiian. The Acteens, "Camp-tivities," included making earrings, a talk on self-esteem, and Backyard Bible Club.

Each evening was packed with different activities for all ages to enjoy. Monday evening, a recognition service was held to congratulate the girls who had completed the different steps in order to receive the "Mission Adventure Badges." Laurie Kay McElvaney of the First Baptist Church was recognized as queen with a scepter, which means she is only two steps away from completing Acteens. Afterwards the Acteens took part in an actual Japanese tea party.

Parents night was held Tuesday. Parents and their daughters had a fun time at the "Missions Carnival." Each GA group from the different churches and towns was responsible to create a booth having to do with missions. The leaders occupied the booths while the children and their parents enjoyed this time together. The Acteens enjoyed an ice cream Sunday party and swimming while the younger girls were busy with the carnival.

Wednesday evening, several girls from each group participated in an "Around the World" style show. The girls dressed in costumes of different countries, paraded on stage while their leaders spoke about the coordinating countries. The older girls were not left out, as they had fun on the Hay Ride that had been prepared for them.

Thursday morning several leaders from Colorado City acted out a play for the girls before breakfast. Those involved in the play were, Kelli Landcaster, Kleta Smith, Tonya McMillian, Sondra Williams, Mary Petty and Diane Flippo. Everyone returned home after dinner Thursday.

Birthday party

I attended my great-grandmother's birthday party Sunday 24 at the First Baptist Church in Snyder. Clemmy Smith was born June 26, 1900 in Comanche County. She met M.L. Andress and they were married in 1916 and resided in Snyder. Clemmy has always been very active in the local clubs such as the B&PWS, LLL (FBC), Martha Ann Woman's Club and Eastern Star. She was also an active member of the First Baptist Church in Snyder. She now makes her home near one of her daughters, Helen Chambers, Ruidoso, N.M. She continues being active in church and has attended the Eastern Star Club there. The 90th birthday celebration was hosted by her grandchildren, Richard and Linda Chambers, Randy and Connie Chambers, and Allen and Brenda Smith, all of Colorado City. Joann Jameson, Ruidoso; Elynn and Andy Crenshaw, Dallas; and David and Anne Chambers of Jal, N.M., were unable to attend. Refreshments were served by some of the great-grandchildren.

Clemmy was delighted to visit with old friends and family members that haven't been seen for a while. There were 75-80 people in attendance. She has three children, seven grandchildren, 21 great-grandchildren, and 14 great-great-grandchildren.

Blood drive

The Tumbleweed Lioness Club of Colorado City sponsors a blood drive every four months. I think a lot of times those words and the image formed in one's mind of a needle sticking out of your arm, keeps people from giving blood. I entertained those thoughts up until last week. A drive was held, and knowing the person I would be helping, I made up my mind to do it. Taking my good friend and husband to act as moral support and example, we did it. Me, being one of Texas' biggest chickens, I can honestly say that it wasn't bad at all. You have a chance to sit and relax in a reclining chair and afterwards they give you punch and cookies! Our blood will be typed and checked for abnormalities and in a few weeks, we'll receive a card in the mail telling the results. The blood units received are taken to a given hospital where they will "replace" what an ill person would use. The units given will help defray the cost of expensive transfusions. Besides, leaving with the exhilarating feeling like you have helped someone less fortunate than yourself, you are also eligible to win one of many prizes donated by local merchants. Everyone also usually receives several freebees even if you don't win a prize. The next drive will be Sept. 19 at the Civic Center.

Wedding prank doesn't rate a toast

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was recently married in a lovely church wedding with all the trimmings. All went well until the time drew near for the bridal couple to leave the reception for their honeymoon. Their car had been decorated inside and out, when a friend tipped us off that a man was hiding in the backseat of the car — well-covered with balloons and planning to jump up and surprise the newlyweds when they were well on their way!

My husband and I thought this was in bad taste so we decided to ask the man to get out of the car. (He was not a close friend of the newlyweds.) The word spread rapidly among the guests, and my husband and I were criticized for having ruined what some people perceived as a hilarious, harmless prank. Needless to say, it spoiled the rest of the evening for us.

Please tell us if you think we did the right thing. We need an outsider's point of view. — PARENTS OF THE BRIDE

DEAR PARENTS: I think you acted wisely. The so-called hilarious, harmless prank could have had a tragic ending. Had a man jumped up and surprised the couple as they were driving along, the driver could easily have lost control of the car and hit another car or a pedestrian, or missed a turn. Have no regrets. Exposing the prankster rates a thumbs-up from me.

DEAR ABBY: I retired recently. My wife and I had hoped to enjoy our retirement years by taking some senior citizen tours and traveling to some foreign countries. Now the problem: Our daughter's marriage went sour, so she got a divorce. She has a child to raise, so she came to live with us, saying it would only be until she got on her feet.

Well, it's been five years, and she and our grandchild are still here. My wife doesn't go anywhere. She says, "Who will take care of our granddaughter?" (Abby, there's excellent day-care available.) My wife and I used to go places and do things, but now we don't go anywhere. Our daughter has it made with this setup and she refuses to move. She has a good job and makes good money, so it's not as if she would be out on the street. I feel that we are being taken advantage of. How do we get out of this trap? — TRAPPED

DEAR TRAPPED: Tell your daughter that she must absolutely find another place to live because you and your wife want to be free to travel and enjoy whatever time you have left. Plan a trip. Sign up for one of those tours you've been wanting to take, then tell your daughter she has to be out of your house by a designated date — and no ifs, ands or buts!

Officials reveal convention plans

Big Spring Officials of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society have revealed completion of plans for a series of 142 district conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States during the summer of 1990.

Spokesman Pat Shropshire said in Big Spring that 59 separate facilities would be used to accommodate 1,412,000 delegates expected for the four-day district convention meetings.

Shropshire said the convention program would be presented in nine languages. In addition to English they include: Spanish, Chinese, French, Greek, Italian, Japanese, Korean, and Portuguese.

Shropshire said 70 delegates would represent the congregations from Big Spring at the convention scheduled Thursday through Sunday at the Civic Center in Amarillo.

Speaking of language, Shropshire said language has been a divisive factor in human relations for centuries.

"Language is only one of the reasons for divisions among men, however," he said. "Others are nationality, race, education, and social status. But Jehovah's Witnesses are working internationally to overcome all these divisive factors and become truly united."

The convention theme for 1990 is "Pure Language." The program will stress that the "pure language" is one of truth and will endeavor to show the practicality of making God's Word, the Bible, the dominant force in uniting people worldwide.

Last summer we saw a more striking display of this unity in the cities of Chorzow, Poznan, and Warsaw in Poland. Witnesses, speaking at least 20 different languages, were present from 37 lands. Yet, a striking oneness was manifest by all of the over 160,000 that attended.

Patriotic service

Trinity Baptist Church, 810 11th Place, will have a patriotic service Sunday at 11 a.m. The public is invited to come and worship with us.

In these days of flag burnings and no guts on a great part of our elected officials in Washington, there are still a lot of Americans who believe in patriotism, who love our beloved country. Many fought and many died to preserve the wonderful freedom and blessings we enjoy in this our beloved America. We at Trinity Baptist dedicate this Sunday to God and country. We will pledge allegiance to both the Stars & Stripes and the Christian Flag. All the songs will be patriotic. We will recognize all veterans present in our service. The message by the pastor will be "Raising the Banner." There will be given to each family present a copy of "The Declaration of Independence" and "The Bill of Rights."

If you cannot be present with us, we invite you to listen to this special service on KBYG Sunday.

Summer Festival set for July 6-7

Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church will host its annual Summer Festival July 6 on the church grounds, 1009 Hearn Street, from 5 p.m. to midnight, and July 7, from 11 a.m. to midnight. This year marks a change in when the festival is held. In previous years, it was held in October.

The main fundraising activity for the church this year's festival will feature traditional activities as well as a novel approach to its fundraising. A "first ever" garage sale will be held in conjunction with the festival, with items donated by parishioners.

A repeat of the ever popular tamale sale will take place. Sale times will be extended so that tamales are available Wednesday and Thursday prior to the festival as well as on the festival days themselves. They can be reserved by the dozen by calling 267-1187 or the church office 267-4124. This is the fourth consecutive year the same cooks have prepared this popular item.

Additionally, a barbeque supper will be served Friday evening from 5 to 7 p.m. and a Mexican dinner will be served during the same hours on Saturday. Both will be held in the school cafeteria. Friday night there will be a dance following dinner. No admission will be charged for the dance. Saturday night super bingo will be featured in the church hall. Outside on the church grounds there will be music and dancing by a local Mexican band from 7 to 11 p.m. Other items available will be hamburgers cooked by the Knights of Columbus, snow cones, hot dogs, bake sale, various arts and crafts items and game booth of all kinds.

A mini 7-Eleven mart will be set up, with same selection as is available from regular 7-Eleven stores with all proceeds going to Immaculate Heart of Mary Church.

The public is invited to all activities on both days.

Houses of God Project captures churches images

By MARTHA W. RAY
Denton Record-Chronicle
DENTON — About 20 years ago, Dallas photographer Charles DeBus took a wrong turn coming back from Houston.

He ended up on a road in the tiny town of Addicks, next to a small white church. There was something special about the way the light was hitting the lovely little church, DeBus remembers, so he pulled out his camera and shot it. He didn't really think much about the Addicks church again until he went back to shoot it once more a few years ago. This time he found it enveloped by skyscrapers.

The drastic change in the surroundings of the country church started DeBus on what he now calls "the most extensive and consistent" project of his professional career — photographing houses of worship in Texas.

The end result is "Houses of God," an exhibit of 120 black-and-white photographs of churches and synagogues throughout the state, now being shown in its entirety for the first time at the Meadows Gallery at the Center for the Visual Arts through July 13.

"There was something about it I had to do it," DeBus said recently. "I knew I had better do it now because I was starting to lose material."

The Unity Church in Dallas is included in Charles Debus's "Houses of God" exhibit of 120 black-and-white photographs of churches and synagogues throughout Texas.

Over two years, DeBus covered 30,000 miles and looked at more than 4,000 churches in search of ecclesiastical architecture. While his motivations were to preserve an important spiritual part of Texas heritage, DeBus used his own aesthetic yardstick as the final criteria for a church's inclusion in the exhibit.

Comfort or conflict?

By RON DUNCAN
Special to the Herald

When the news appeared in many papers around the middle of June, you could have knocked me over with a handful of cornflakes. But there it was in bold print: "Turner Apologizes to Christians." It seems that Cable TV magnate Ted Turner uttered some derogatory remarks about Christianity being "a religion for losers." Now here's the punch line: He spoke these words last month at a convention of the American Humanist Association, where he was named "Humanist of the Year."

The question continues running through my mind, "Why am I so surprised?" In fact, why do many believers in the Lordship of Christ just assume that everyone believes the same, even though this region occupies part of the so-called "Bible Belt?" About the only thing one could assume from the incident is that Mr. Turner does not claim to be a Christian.

The Bible, the Christian's guidebook, has long been read, appreciated and considered as a great source of comfort. And that, undoubtedly, it is. However, perhaps the time has finally arrived when Bible believers must consider God's book from another point of view; that is, as a book of conflict or controversy. For example, the beautiful picture of fellowship and harmony between God, man and woman is interrupted by the arrival of Satan in Genesis 3. In verse 15, the ugly word "enmity" is added to the Biblical vocabulary.

From that day forward, the Bible relates a constant battle between the forces of God and the forces of Satan. And whatever Christianity may be, it is certainly not a religion of losers.

"However, the war in which we are engaged must be viewed in the spiritual sense rather than carnal. The Apostle Paul wrote, "For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this age, against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places" (Ephesians 6:12). He then goes on to describe the weapons of our warfare.

Time after time, Satan attempted to cut off the lineage that would eventually lead to Jesus Christ. Think about that conflict! If Satan could keep Jesus from being born and, subsequently, from going to the cross where he would shed his rich, red, ruby, royal blood for the sins of mankind, then the forces of evil would win.

This is the reason that the final hours of Jesus are so intense. In Gethsemane, Jesus and Satan are locked in moral combat, with Satan trying to get Jesus to give up, while Jesus prayed to the Father, "...not My will, but Yours, be done." And those hours on the cross, with Jesus suspended between heaven and earth, was the battle of all the ages, fought in behalf of our very souls.

No, Christians are not losers. "Yet in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us" (Romans 8:37).

Mr. Turner stated that he has problems with organized religion because of its inflexibility. To this particular accusation I personally must plead guilty. After all, it was my leader who said, "...if you do not believe that I am He, you will die in your sins" (John 8:24).

Decision is 'a victory'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops said the U.S. Supreme Court decision this week on parental notification when minors seek abortion is "a victory for family unity."

Archbishop Daniel E. Pilarczyk said the court supported the "legitimate interest of parents of a pregnant adolescent to be involved in the decision whether to end the life of her unborn child."

"Parents have an obligation to give their children guidance and hope."

The court upheld Ohio and Minnesota laws requiring parents to be notified when minors seek abortion, establishing brief waiting periods before a final decision and providing a judicial bypass when parental notification

Council's plans are reality

NEW YORK (AP) — The recently approved reorganization plan of the National Council of Churches has been put into action.

Day-to-day work of the ecumenically cooperative organization now is being carried on by four new units, instead of the previous 11 units.

The four, planned by a council transition team over the past nine months, are: Church World Service and Witness, Prophetic Justice, Unity and Relationships, and Education, Communication and Discipleship.

Churches

"I wanted to include a church from every section of the state. But the main reasons I picked churches were not architectural or historical. It was aesthetic reasons. If I didn't like it, I didn't take it," he said. "It was the structure and how I reacted to the structure."

The perfect cloud formation above a church or a pickup truck in its driveway were often the deciding factors that made the structure appeal to DeBus.

"I guess there are as many different reasons as there are prints in the show, but the light was primary. The way the light was hitting the building," he said.

DeBus, an adjunct professor of photography at Southern Methodist University, isn't quite sure why he acquired an obsession for Texas churches, but he is pretty sure it has to do with his years as an altar boy at Sacred Heart Cathedral, now Cathedral Guadalupe Church, downtown Dallas.

"I grew up very engrossed in the Catholic church. I was the bishop's altar boy. I went to Sacred Heart School in Dallas. I was very immersed in church ritual," he said. Oddly, DeBus' home church is one of the churches NOT included in the exhibit. The memories he had of the church didn't fit with the church's current look, according to DeBus. "That church holds tremendous memories for me. It's so different now that I couldn't make it work," he said. "I had a certain image of it and it's not there any more."

The churches and synagogues that are included range from a traditional white country church in Copperfield to an ultramodern synagogue in El Paso, from mission style churches in South Texas to an ornate European reproduction in Orange. Each one has its own distinct presence and character.

"The feeling of churches is special. The church was the center of a community, and it was often the best and first building built. It preserved all the history of a town. The idea of its history appealed to me," he said. "The church reflects the community."

Getting to meet people in each community as he photographed their town's churches is one of the things DeBus says he will miss most now that the project is over. But, when he stops to think about it, he isn't sure if the life-consuming project will ever be over.

"The project officially is over, but I can't seem to stop. There are still some I want to go back and photograph," he said. "It's been a very special project. It's something I don't think will ever end."

Board appoints Villarreal to Marcy Elementary post

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

Big Spring School board members approved the hiring of Rey Villarreal as Marcy Elementary School principal during a special meeting Thursday.

Villarreal has served two years as a counselor at Big Spring High School. He has ten years teaching and coaching experience.

A 1977 graduate of Angelo State University, Villarreal has a master's degree from Sul Ross University. He is currently studying in mid-management and superintendency at Sul Ross.

Villarreal will take the new post effective Aug. 1.

The board accepted two resignations from elementary school teachers: Rhonda Gibbs, Washington Elementary third grade, to take a post in Coahoma; and Gloria Arroyo, Bauer Magnet School second grade, leaving for personal reasons.

New teachers hired by the board were:

- Angela Gaddis, Runnels Junior High earth science, two years teaching experience.
- Misty Gartman, Bauer Magnet School second grade, one year of teaching experience.
- Susan Palmer, College

Heights Elementary special education resource, no prior teaching experience.

Park Dwayne Wheat, special education at Big Spring State Hospital, nine years of teaching experience.

All new teachers will begin work August 20.

Assistant Superintendent Murray Murphy said the district still lacks two educational staff members: a high school band director; and a replacement for Villarreal's former counselor position.

In other business, the board approved a plan to purchase fan-coil and unit ventilators for the high school and Kentwood Elementary School. The total of $51,737 includes 27 units, 14 of which will go to the high school.

The ventilators are part of the school district's 3-year maintenance plan, Business Manager Ron Logback said.

Logback said the new ventilators, ordered from Abilene Sheet Metal Company, make up about one-fifth of the units which need to be replaced.

As a follow-up to the last regular meeting of June 14, the board approved changes in the district's gifted and talented student program. Director of Curriculum Helen Gladden had presented the board with the state-required adjustments at the last meeting.

Gifted and talented students are defined as excelling or having the potential to excel in areas such as intellectual ability, creative thinking and leadership. They are chosen from kindergarten through grade 12 each year, through the use of a many-faceted identification process.

The board also approved the ordering of food and supplies proposed by Director of Cafeterias Ray Lawlis.

Firefighters respond to six calls Thursday

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Big Spring firefighters were busy Thursday afternoon responding to two grass fires, two structure fires and two false alarms. Fire Captain Rodney Phillips said the recent weather has increased the risk of fires.

At shortly after 1 p.m. the department was called to a vacant lot at 1800 Hamilton in the Wasson Road addition. The fire was extinguished quickly with only minimal damage, Phillips said.

A false alarm at Scenic Mountain Medical Center about 11 p.m. brought out one unit, followed closely by another false call at 11:48 p.m. in the 800 block of West Eighth Street.

A grass fire at 1400 Mesquite shortly after 1 a.m. caused little damage and was quickly contained.

At 1:22 a.m. one unit was called to a storage shed fire in Forsan. Damage caused by the small fire was estimated at $200.

Six minutes later, four units responded to a house fire at Fifth and Union Streets. This was the second fire for that structure in only a few months, Phillips said.

Though firefighters got the blaze under control in about ten minutes, there was almost nothing left of the house, he said.

"That one was completely engulfed in flame," Phillips said. "We protected the house across the street and kept the fire under control, but it burned to the ground."

He said the cause of the house fire is under investigation.

"We'd really like any help we can get from the citizens of Big Spring and the county," Phillips said. "The extremely dry conditions are making this a very dangerous season for fires."

He said parents should warn their children of the dangers, and be especially careful during the upcoming Fourth of July holiday.

"We need everybody's help in trying to prevent fires," Phillips said.

operator within 10 seconds. The majority of calls will be answered within three seconds.

Seegar feels this is a big improvement over the patch-work help available now. He said many non-profit organizations have provided the service but were limited because of funding. Calls were often limited to a few hours a day, and for a limited amount of time.

Individuals can now call without any restriction in length, or number of calls.

"And what this does is allow deaf or speech impaired persons to pick up the phone anytime and talk as long as they want," Seegar said. "They have the same opportunity to use the phone without any restrictions."

All the telephone companies in the state of Texas help pay for the calls. Fifty-five percent is billed to local telephone companies, like Southwestern Bell. Forty-five percent is billed to long distance companies, like AT&T and Sprint.

"Those companies recover cost through their rate base or by a surcharge approved by the Public Utilities Commission," Seegar said. "The price tag is estimated to be about five million (dollars) for the first year. The volume of calls is expected to be about 75 thousand per month."

Seegar said they expect for it to rapidly increase within a year, "to well over 150,000 calls per month."

Persons using the relay service will find it takes about twice as long as a normal call because the operator is having to type out the conversation. For this reason, callers are billed on a reduced rate, at 50 percent the regular toll. This reduction is for calls made in the state of Texas. Calls made out of state will be at regular price Seegar said.

could do a better job of getting spending down," he said.

Bush refused repeatedly to discuss specific tax increases.

"I'm not saying what's on or off," he replied when asked whether he would consider an income tax rate increase.

"I have got strongly held preferences that people are familiar with," he said. "More important than my posturing or protecting from arrows coming from one direction or another is getting a deal that is fair and good for the American people."

Bush's decision earlier this week was embraced by congressional Democrats, but sharply criticized by many Republican members of Congress.

Democrats have proposed cuts in the 1991 defense budget five times greater than Bush's original proposal. The two sides also have discussed cuts in politically popular benefit programs such as Medicare and Social Security, according to officials.

new fixed-base operator after C-Bar announced last week that it would close by the end of the month. A spokeswoman for C-Bar has said the company can no longer afford to stay in business because of high rent and insurance costs.

Manager Vicky Fryar said a rent reduction made by the city, from $1,395 per month to $1,000, was not enough to bail out the company. She has said other fixed-base operators will not be profitable if they face the same rent and insurance requirements.

In a report to the City Council on Tuesday, Boyd said the airport's rents are competitive with those in the area. And, he said, insurance costs, which are required by an FAA-approved city ordinance, are calculated by the number of services provided. Fewer services offered would mean lower insurance costs, while more services would mean higher insurance costs.

C-Bar, which Boyd said owns the city $8,000 in delinquent rent, has said it will vacate its space at the airport by Aug. 1.

Cathey takes over lead

By RUTH COCHRAN

For the second year in a row, home-town hero Wacey Cathey had the crowd fairly dancing in the aisles with another wild ride in the bull riding competition.

Cathey won Thursday night's competition in the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion Rodeo with an 83 score on "Ambush", one of Bad Company Rodeo's premier bucking bulls. The score also put the 12-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier ahead of overall leader Mike Collier, who scored an 81 Wednesday night.

The crowd was ready for something special: Cathey was the last performer of the evening and he didn't disappoint them.

Neither did "Ambush". The dirty brown bull had the crowd biting its collective nails when he began trying to climb out of the chute. When Cathey was finally settled on Ambush's back, the two exploded out of the open gate.

"Ambush" dropped his nose to the dirt and sent his tail sky-high in an effort to rid himself of Cathey, but the Coahoma cowboy was in complete control. The bull went into a hard left spin, still bucking hard, but Cathey was in complete mastery, spurring hard with his outside leg.

When the buzzer went off, the crowd knew Cathey had stolen the lead and they screamed their approval. Kerrville cowboy Lance Harrel took second in the performance with a score of 74.

Cathey's performance capped an evening of strong performances in all the events. Almost home-town hero Ty Murray, who rode for Odessa College, showed why he was the 1989 world champion all-around cowboy. The Stephenville cowboy, who is returning to competition after a back injury, scored an 81 in the saddle bronc riding to win the night's performance and take the lead from Monty "Hawkeye" Henson, who scored a 78 Wednesday night.

Murray drew a horse called "Nickels and Dimes", and the dusty bay took him straight to the pay window with a hard-bucking performance. Murray, who is a smallish cowboy, fit hand-and-glove with "Nickels and Dimes", a rather smallish saddle bronc. The score topped the 70 posted by Steve Dollarhide of Wikeup, Ariz.

Big Spring roper Tracy

Glover teamed with Pecos cowboy Ed Fernandes to win the night's team roping round with a run of 7.8 seconds. The two edged a couple of other Pecos cowboys, Jimmy and Joe Martinez, who teamed up for a time of 8.1 seconds.

David Motes and Dennis Watkins, both of California, kept the overall lead with times on two runs totaling 11.6.

In the steer wrestling competition, the 4.1 run turned in by Big Spring cowboy Steve Fryar during Tuesday night's slack looked unbeatable. Three contestants turned in times of 4.8 seconds Thursday night to split the round, including Colorado City cowboy Stetson Lewis. He shared the winning time with Jeff Lewis of Stephenville and Todd Jarrett of Weatherford.

Janet Myers' experience and smooth run in the barrel race gave her the best time in the rodeo so far with a 17.71 mark. Myers just edged Beth Braudrick of Terrell, who posted a time of 17.72.

Lance Crump of Cumby won the bareback riding performance with a 75 on a horse called Powerful Stuff. Crump's stuff was just good enough to get him by Larry Godwin of Buda and Greeley, Colo., cowboy Bob Logue, who both scored a 73. His performance also gave Crump the overall lead.

Rusty Sewalt's time of 8.5 in the calf roping remained untouched, as Canyon cowboy John Martinez won the round with an 11.3. Bubba Flores of Iraan took second in the performance with a 12.0 run.

Rodeo performances are scheduled today and Saturday, both nights starting at 8:30.

Capriati survives tough third round

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jennifer Capriati survived perhaps the toughest test of her young career today to advance to the fourth round at Wimbledon.

Capriati, the 14-year-old who seems to set records for youthful triumph whenever she steps on a court, blew five match points but rebounded from a third-set marathon to win the final six games and beat Robin White 7-5, 6-7, 6-3.

It left the 12th seeded Floridian 4-1 in three-set matches since she turned pro in March, but also with some doubts mixed with homesickness.

Next for Capriati comes top-ranked Steffi Graf, who was playing Claudia Kohde-Kilsch later in the day.

Third-seeded Monica Seles won more easily, beating Anne Minter of Australia 6-3, 6-3 on Centre Court. Fifth-seeded Zina Garrison also won in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3 over Andrea Leand of the United States.

Other early winners on the fifth day included women's 10th seed Helena Sukova and 13th seed Jana Novotna of Czechoslovakia. Eliminated was Derrick Rostagno, the American who knocked John McEnroe out in the first round.

White, a 26-year-old Californian ranked 59th in the world, gave it everything she had but Capriati had more. She continually displayed the ability to come back when it seemed as if the older American with the Statue of Liberty on her shirt would end the Grand Slam hopes of the latest tennis whiz kid.

She held for 5-3 on a backhand winner and — after White won the first two points — went up 30-40 on three errors. There was then a mini-replay of Game 3, with Capriati three times netting service returns that would have wrapped up the match. Finally, after a forehand into the corner gave her a sixth chance, Capriati won on a backhand service return that the diving White barely touched as she rushed the net.

"I'm getting a little homesick but I want to finish this first," Capriati said. "I want to see my house and see my puppy."

Sukova beat Alexia Dechaume of France 6-4, 6-3, and Novotna defeated Jo-Anne Faull of Australia 6-2, 6-1. Rostagno lost to Goran Ivanisevic of Yugoslavia 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

On Thursday, Ivan Lendl needed just 78 minutes to defeat Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland 6-1, 6-3, 6-0 to reach the third round. Both winner and loser said Lendl had improved on grass — and Lendl said he could get even better.

Unsuccessful in 10 previous trips to Wimbledon, Lendl has devoted his spring to winning this year, skipping the French Open to get

Rockets pick may go to Spain

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets may find themselves without one of their draft acquisitions if Carl Herrera decides to honor a contract he already signed to play in Spain.

"I'm going to tell you something," Herrera told KRIV-TV in a telephone interview Thursday from his home in Guanara, Venezuela. "I think right now for me it's positive to go to Spain because I think I will have more improvement as a player and I will learn more things because I will play a lot of minutes."

The 6-9 forward who played at the University of Houston and Jacksonville Junior College said he already has signed a two-year contract to play for Real Madrid next season.

Herrera said he might prefer playing in Spain because his wife, who only speaks Spanish, didn't adjust to living in the United States.

However, Herrera, who made himself available for the draft after his junior year, said he would like to see the Rockets buy out his Spanish contract because he'd like to play in Houston.

Houston Coach Don Chaney said Wednesday he is confident Herrera will play in Houston instead of Spain.

The Rockets used the No. 12 selection overall to take forward Alec Kessler of Georgia, but turned around and sent Kessler to Miami for two of the Heats' picks: guard Dave Jamerson and Herrera, who was chosen in the second round as the No. 30 pick in the draft overall.

Herrera, a consensus All-Southwest Conference player, averaged 16.7 points, 9.2 rebounds and two blocked shots while shooting 56 percent from the field for the Cougars.

CIA takes time out for baseball talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 500 people employed by America's top spy agency gathered at CIA headquarters this week for some high-powered talks.

The subject? Baseball. "Many here have found that baseball is particularly compatible with intelligence," CIA director William Webster, a die-hard St. Louis Cardinals fan, told the group.

"Both could be called 'the sport of the long season,'" Webster said. "Both demand the long view, a need for teamwork, a demand for individual performance. Both require excellence and precision."

Webster had invited Eli Jacobs, owner of the Baltimore Orioles, intelligence expert and well-known figure in some Capitol Hill circles, to talk to CIA employees about "The Art, Science and Philosophy of Baseball."

Jacobs was joined at the Langley, Va., headquarters by Orioles manager Frank Robinson and columnist George Will, an Orioles director and a Chicago Cubs booster.

Addressing men and women whose lives often are filled with the international intrigue that make thriller novels, Webster said of Jacobs:

"It is as owner of the Baltimore Orioles that he has come closest to living out our dreams. To have your own baseball team — now that's something to aspire to."

Webster, who was a federal judge in St. Louis before he came to Washington, also made some lighthearted remarks about his team — they're last in the National League East these days.

As a lawyer, the CIA chief handled the estate of legendary general manager Branch Rickey, best known for integrating baseball by hiring Jackie Robinson for the Brooklyn Dodgers. According to CIA spokesman Mark Mansfield, Webster also did some work for the old St. Louis Browns, who later moved to Baltimore and became the Orioles.

While many of the nation's spies — Webster included — are mesmerized by baseball, Jacobs has spent a lot of his time recently on intelligence matters.

The Senate Select Committee on Intelligence named Jacobs head of an unpaid blue-ribbon panel to study future counterintelligence needs. The group has recommended ways to crack down on spying.

And the revolving door doesn't stop there.

Veteran marathoner going for record 10th New York win

NEW YORK (AP) — There is one thing still missing in Grete Waitz' remarkable track career — a record 10th victory in the New York City Marathon.

Waitz will get a chance to reach that goal Nov. 4 when she competes in the 21st New York City Marathon.

"There's nothing that Grete hasn't achieved that she didn't want — except a 10th New York," Jack Waitz, her husband and coach, said Thursday.

Waitz has dominated the race since 1978, when she made a stunning marathon debut by winning in the fastest time ever by a woman. Since then, she has won every New York City Marathon in which she has finished.

But winning this year won't be easy.

"Age is catching up with me and the competition is catching up with me," Waitz said after her entry was announced for the race. "It's getting harder and harder."

Waitz will be 37 on Oct. 1, and her career, injury-free during the late 1970s and early 1980s, has been riddled with injuries in recent years.

The most recent came last month, shortly before Waitz was to run a half-marathon in Norway against 1984 Olympic marathon gold medalist Joan Benoit Samuelson. The injury — pain in the right side of the lower back — occurred during training and forced Waitz to withdraw.

"I couldn't put weight on my right leg," she said.

A chiropractor helped relieve the pain, and the anxious Waitz resumed training early this month.

"We have tried to do things differently this year," her husband said. "We're trying to do things more slowly. She can't do the same things she did when she was 10 years younger."

"We have to focus more on long-term goals."

The No. 1 goal is winning the New York City Marathon again.

Another victory would make Waitz the all-time winner of a single marathon. At present, she is tied with Demetrio Cabanillas of Mexico, who won the Deseret News Marathon in Salt Lake City nine times (1976-82, 1984, 1987).

John J. Kelley won the Yonkers Marathon eight times (1956-63) and Clarence DeMar won the Boston Marathon seven times (1911, 1922-24, 1927-28, 1930).

With another victory at New York, Waitz would join DeMar as a three-decade winner of a major marathon.

After winning in 1978, Waitz also won in 1979 and 1980, breaking her world best both times, and won again from 1982-86 and in 1988. She also won the London Marathon in 1983, breaking the world best again, and in 1986. She won the 1983 world championship.

Before becoming the world's premier women's marathoner, Waitz was an outstanding track and cross country runner. She was the 1977 World Cup champion at 3,000 meters, a 1972 and 1976 Olympian at 1,500 meters, set world records for the 3,000 in 1975 and 1976, and was unbeaten in cross country races for 12 years, winning a record five world titles (1978-81 and 1983).

"The accumulation of running for so many years is taking its toll now," Waitz said. "We have to slow things down."

A year ago, she sustained a stress fracture of the pelvis bone and couldn't even train for four months.

"That was the longest layoff I've ever had," she said.

When she resumed training in November, she was rusty.

"I was like a car with a flat tire," Waitz said.

Even though she felt in good shape, "my legs were in poor condition," because of the long layoff, she said.

February that I was going nowhere. I was pushing too hard."

"When you feel you can run again, there is the tendency to say, 'I'm back.' And you try to put in too much mileage. I can't do that anymore."

Nevertheless, prior to the scheduled half-marathon in Norway, "I had never had so many good 20-mile training runs," she said. "I was very encouraged."

Now, she plans to use July for training and race in August, leading up to the New York City Marathon, in which she probably will have to face Portugal's Rosa Mota, the 1988 Olympic gold medalist and 1987 world champion.

"Ten would be a nice, round number," she said. "But I don't put pressure on myself. I don't feel I have anything to prove."

Red Sox complete sweep over Blue Jays

By The Associated Press
The Toronto Blue Jays still have a streak going at Fenway Park, but they have suddenly shifted into reverse.

AL

The Blue Jays invaded Boston on Monday with a half-game lead in the American League East and a 15-game Fenway winning streak dating back to 1987. They left Thursday night with a four-game losing streak and trail the Red Sox by 3 1/2 games.

"Their streak is over and now we've got one going," said left fielder Mike Greenwell, who drove in two runs with a fifth-inning single and then preserved a one-run lead by throwing a runner out at the plate. "Who knows, maybe we can beat them 15 in a row here."

In other AL games Thursday, it was Cleveland 7, Baltimore 4; New York 3, Milwaukee 2; Seattle 6, Kansas City 4; and Texas 8, Minnesota 6.

Boston's Roger Clemens posted his 12th victory despite a pair of homers by Fred McGriff and tied Oakland's Bob Welch for the most victories in the majors. Clemens (12-3) gave up eight hits but struck out nine and walked just one in eight innings.

Jeff Reardon pitched a hitless ninth for his 13th save as the Red Sox equaled their season high with a seventh consecutive victory.

Home runs by Boston's Wade Boggs and McGriff produced a 1-1 tie until the fifth, when the Red Sox scored three times off Todd Stottlemyre (8-7). Ellis Burks doubled and scored the tie-breaking run on Tony Pena's double. Pena went to third on a single by Luis Rivera, who took second on the throw to the plate. Boggs was walked intentionally, filling the bases, and Jody Reed popped out. But Greenwell singled to score Pena and Rivera.

After McGriff's second homer made it 4-3 in the sixth, John Olerud walked, Greg Myers forced him but took second when Nelson Liriano was hit by a pitch. Mookie Wilson singled to left, but Greenwell fired a strike to catcher Pena to get Myers.

"It (the sweep) means something any time of the year, but we're lucky it's the first part of the year instead of September," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "If it were September, it would be a lot tougher. It's tough enough now, though."

"The Red Sox are just playing good baseball. You've got to give them credit for that. There are 162 games a year, though. You can't get down. You have to keep going."

Indians 7, Orioles 4

Al Nipper got his first victory since 1988 and Carlos Baerga and Cory Snyder homered. The Indians have won four of five and Baltimore has lost 12 of 15.

Nipper (1-1) began the game with a 12.79 ERA but gave up only two runs on five hits in seven innings. Nipper was cut by the Chicago Cubs in March 1989 and missed the season after undergoing knee surgery. He had not won since Aug. 6, 1988.

Jeff Ballard (1-9) is 0-4 in his last five starts. After going 18-8 last season, he already given up as many homers (16) as he did all last year. Randy Milligan and Mike Devereaux homered for Baltimore.

Yankees 3, Brewers 2

Milwaukee's Gary Sheffield tied the game in the top of the ninth with a home run off Dave Righetti (1-0), but Bob Geren singled home the winning run with two out in the bottom of the inning.

Steve Balboni batted for Matt Nokes to open the inning and reliever Bob Sebra (1-2) replaced Dan Plesac. Balboni singled and pinch runner Deion Sanders advanced on Jesse Barfield's sacrifice. Sanders took third on a groundout and scored when Geren sliced a drive into the right-field corner.

Starter Tim Leary, who has lost six straight decisions, held Milwaukee to one run on four hits in seven innings. Milwaukee's Mark Knudson held the Yankees to six hits and two runs in 7 1-3 innings.

Mariners 6, Royals 4

Scott Bradley hit a three-run homer in the eighth inning and Seattle overcame two home runs by Bo Jackson. Bradley, who entered the game as a pinch hitter in the seventh, homered off Jeff Montgomery with two out. Pete O'Brien was hit by a pitch and Edgar Martinez drew a walk from Mark Davis (1-5) before Bradley hit his first home run of the season.

Mike Schooler, the fourth Seattle pitcher, pitched the ninth for his 19th save. Keith Comstock (3-2) got three outs in the eighth. Jackson has six home runs in his last 11 games.

Rangers 8, Twins 6

Jack Daugherty tripled and hit two of Texas' team record-tying seven doubles. Daugherty got four of the Rangers' 15 hits. Bobby Witt (4-8) gave up one run on eight hits in seven innings.

Texas chased David West (3-6) with five runs on six hits in the second inning. West went only 1 1-3 innings in his previous start against the Rangers, a 7-1 loss.

Mets edging closer to first place Pirates

By The Associated Press

Both the New York Mets and Cincinnati Reds think their four-game weekend series could be a preview of the National League playoffs.

"I think the Reds will be there in October, and if we play like we're capable of, we will, too," said Darryl Strawberry, who extended his hitting streak to 17 games with his 16th home run in the Mets' 5-4 victory.

"The Mets are hot right now (a 10-game winning streak and 19 of 22)," Reds manager Lou Piniella said. "But I think we showed we can battle them."

The Reds have a 9 1/2-game lead over San Francisco in the NL West while the Mets seem about the catch the Pittsburgh Pirates in the NL East. The victory, coupled with Pittsburgh's 5-1 loss to St. Louis, lifted the Mets into second place, one game out and a half-game ahead of Montreal, which lost to Chicago 3-2. In the only other game, it was Houston 2, San Diego 1 in 10 innings.

The Mets set a club record with their 20th victory in June, and their winning streak is one short of the club record set in 1969 and equaled in 1986.

"Darryl said this could be a preview of the playoffs," Manager Bud Harrelson said. "We need to show we can beat them."

Kevin Elster's two-run double and Howard Johnson's RBI double off Jose Rijo (5-3) gave the Mets a 3-0 lead in the second inning. Eric Davis hit a two-run homer off Dwight Gooden (7-5) in the fifth and Strawberry homered leading off the sixth. Gooden singled home what proved to be the winning run later in the sixth for a 5-2 lead.

Gooden yielded four runs and 10 hits in 7 1-3 innings. Former Red John Franco worked 1 2-3 innings for his 14th save in 16 chances.

Rijo (5-3), who missed his scheduled start on Wednesday with a tender right shoulder, gave up five runs and six hits in 5 1-3 innings.

"We deserve this," Gooden said. "After all the things we went through at the start of the season, there were times it wasn't fun to come to the park."

Cardinals 5, Pirates 1

Bob Tewksbury held the best-hitting team in the majors to five hits and an unearned run in 8 2-3 innings and Willie McGee had three hits and two RBIs as St. Louis ended a four-game losing streak and snapped Pittsburgh's four-game winning streak.

Tewksbury (3-0) retired the first 11 batters before Andy Van Slyke tripled. The Pirates began the game with a major league-leading .274 average. Tewksbury had a shutout until the ninth, when he needed last-out help from Lee Smith. Tewksbury went 2-for-4 with an RBI infield hit in the seventh.

McGee had a two-run triple in the fourth inning off Doug Drabek (8-4) to put the Cardinals ahead 3-0. Tim Jones had an RBI single in a bizarre second during which the Cardinals had two runners thrown out at the plate, and Jose Oquendo had a run-scoring single in the fifth.

"This came at a good time," Tewksbury said. "Whatever we need to do to get going, that's what we need to do. Maybe this will get us started."

Cubs 3, Expos 2

Pinch-hitter Marvell Wynne's bloop single scored the winning run with one out in the ninth inning. Luis Salazar, who homered earlier, led off with a single against Bill Sampen (6-1) and pitcher Les Lancaster, sent up to sacrifice, walked on five pitches.

Shawon Dunston hit a long fly to center that moved pinch runner Gary Varsho to third base and Wynne, batting for Domingo Ramos, singled over Montreal's drawn-in infield.

Lancaster (6-4) escaped a jam in the ninth, getting Junior Noboa to ground out with two runners on base.

Astros 2, Padres 1

Eric Anthony doubled home Craig Biggio from first base with one out in the 10th inning. Biggio singled with one out off Mark Grant (1-1) and Anthony pulled a double into the right-field corner.

Winner Larry Andersen (4-1) pitched two innings and gave up one hit. Starter Mark Portugal held San Diego to a run and four hits in 7 1-3 innings.

WIMBLEDON, England — Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, reaches for a shot from Switzerland's Jacob Hlasek during their second round match at Wimbledon Thursday afternoon. Lendl, ranked number one in the world, won the match in straight sets, 6-1, 6-3, 6-0.

more practice on grass courts.

Lendl lost just four games, the fewest he has given up in a match in his 11 years at Wimbledon.

"He made me look bad because he played so good," Hlasek said. "I really felt helpless on my serve. The returns came very short and very fast and I was always taken by the speed. I missed a lot because I was just too late."

Martina Navratilova, the women's second seed, made her first appearance of the year on Centre Court, where she has captured a record-tying eight singles crowns.

She swept past Anne Smith 6-2, 6-3.

Seven other seeded players advanced Thursday with Lendl and Navratilova to the third round.

Fourth women's seed Gabriela Sabatini needed a tiebreaker to finish off Anke Huber 6-2, 7-6, while seventh seed Katerina Maleeva lost only five games to Japan's Kimiko Date. Other successful women's seeds were No. 11 Natalia Zvereva and No. 14 Judith Wiesner.

Rosalyn Fairbank of San Diego was the only losing women's seed, falling 6-4, 6-3 to Amy Frazier.

Dorsett attempting a comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — Tony Dorsett, the NFL's second-leading career rusher who retired from the Denver Broncos last season after injuring his knee in training camp, is attempting a comeback, according to a published report.

Dorsett, 36, is working out at the Dallas Cowboys' facilities and has instructed his agent, Witt Stewart, to contact other NFL teams. The National reported in today's editions.

"I've still got the speed and the desire to play," Dorsett told the paper. "All I need now is a call — and the ball."

Dorsett rushed for 12,739 yards in 12 seasons. He had 703 yards for Denver in 1988, his first season with the Broncos after 11 with the Cowboys.

He won the Heisman Trophy and led Pittsburgh to a national championship in 1976.

Johnston du Maurier leader after one

KITCHENER, Ontario (AP) — Cathy Johnston shot an 8-under-par 65 to tie Ray Floyd's course record and take a two-stroke lead over Patti Rizzo after the first round of the LPGA's $600,000 du Maurier Classic on the 6,415-yard Westmount Golf and Country Club course.

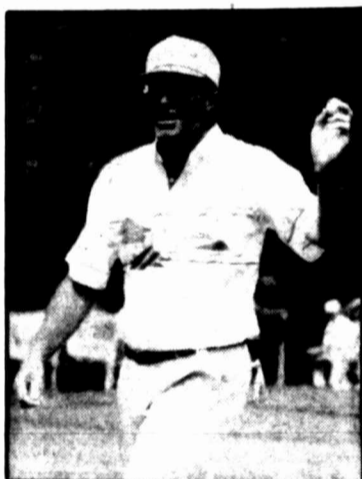

Floyd set the mark in the 1981 Canadian PGA championship.

Liselotte Neumann is third at 68. Patty Sheehan, Kate Rogerson, Vicki Ferguson, Lauri Merten, Pamela Wright, Terri Lyn Carter and Deb Richard are tied for fourth at 69.

Rangers, Bruins trade right wings

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Rangers traded right wing Chris Nilan to the Boston Bruins for right wing Greg Johnston and future considerations, then sent Johnston to the Toronto Maple Leafs for right wing Tie Domi and goaltender Mark LaForest.

Nilan missed 60 games last season with arm and knee injuries. In 11 NHL seasons, the Boston native has accumulated 2,506 penalty minutes, tops among active players and third on the all-time list behind Dave Williams (3,966) and Willi Plett (2,572).

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Gilberto Roman, a former superflyweight world champion, died Wednesday night in a car accident, according to a World Boxing Council spokesman Jaime Perez. Roman was 29.

Ramon earned his first superflyweight championship in March 1986 in a 12-round decision with Japan's Hiro Watanabe. He lost the title in 1987 in a technical knockout to Argentinian Santos Laciari in Reims, France, but regained it in April 1988, beating Colombian Jesus Rojas in 12 rounds. Last December, he lost the title by decision to Ghanaian Nana Konadu.

In 61 amateur and professional matches, Roman was 54-6-1.

NEW YORK (AP) — Don Zimmer of the Chicago Cubs and Jim Leyland of the Pittsburgh Pirates were named National League coaches for the 1990 All-Star Game to be played July 10 at Wrigley Field.

Jim Lefebvre of the Seattle Mariners and Frank Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles were named American League coaches.

Unknown leading Hartford Open

CROMWELL, Conn. (AP) — Chris Perry, winless in five years on the tour and a non-contender for months, said leading the Greater Hartford Open even after only one round feels good.

"It's nice to be in this spot for once," he said Thursday after posting a personal-best 7-under-par 63 to take a one-stroke lead. "It's been a while since I've been anywhere near the lead." Steve Jones was in second, followed by five golfers tied for third at 65.

Perry, 28, the son of former Major League pitcher Jim Perry, had seven birdies on the 6,331-yard Tournament Players Club of Connecticut course but credits a par-saving chip and putt with giving him the opening-round lead.

Perry, who started off the 10th tee, missed the green on the downhill 194-yard, par-3 11th hole. He said he hit a "nearly impossible shot" to within 12 feet of the hole, then putted for par.

"Those are the kind of putts you have to make, and I rolled it right in the center," he said.

The hole was the key because five golfers were in the clubhouse at 5-under or better and he couldn't afford to fall a stroke back so early. He followed that with three straight birdies, and said he continued to push throughout the day.

"I have a tendency to want to not be as aggressive, but today I said, 'No, I'm going to keep going for it."

Perry said he's been hitting the ball well lately, but his usually consistent putting has failed him.

"I really haven't made enough birdies to do that well," he said. "Today I made a few putts, and that was the difference."

Perry made two 18-foot putts and one from 15 feet, all for birdies.

Perry's best finish this season was a tie for 20th at the Tucson Open in January.

Jones, still mindful that he blew the Kemper Open earlier this month, wasn't impressed by his first-round performance.

"It's very seldom that first-round leaders win tournaments," Jones said after taking an early one-stroke lead. "I know how fleeting the lead can be."

Jones led by three strokes over four other players heading into the final round at the Kemper Open four weeks ago, but shot a final-round 78 to finish tied for seventh. Since then, he has worked on changing his attitude.

Trevino takes early lead

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — Lee Trevino has the lead and, he insists, absolutely no interest in what old rival Jack Nicklaus is or is not doing.

For the record, Nicklaus trailed Trevino by four strokes, 67-71, after the opening round Thursday in the 11th U.S. Senior Open, the national championship for the over-50 set that was billed as a Nicklaus-Trevino confrontation.

Not so, said Lee. "I'm just playing the golf course," he said. "I'm not worried about Jack Nicklaus. I'm just concerned with Lee Trevino."

"I figure if I can get around in about 70 three more times, that'll do it. If it isn't good enough and Jack beats me, that's fine. I won't worry about it," he said, then grinned and added:

"I never have before." And his own play on the 18th hole at the Ridgewood Country Club was more than enough to keep Trevino's attention centered on himself and not on Nicklaus.

Trevino, winner of five titles and the dominant figure on the senior circuit this season, took a two-shot lead to the 18th tee. And he very nearly blew it.

Trevino, who usually plays a fade off the tee, double-crossed himself with a hook into the trees on the left. He played out, then hit an overhanging tree limb with his first shot and ran his fourth some 15 feet behind the cup.

He was looking at double bogey and a place in a six-man tie for the top spot.

But he rolled in a downhill, left-to-right putt for one of the most welcome bogeys of his life, a bogey that saved him sole control of the lead.

"I had eight birdies for the day, but making that last-hole bogey was more fun than all the birdies put together," Trevino chortled after a 5-under-par effort that he called "kind of up and down."

"I might not have thought as good as I can, using some drivers when I should have used 3-woods," he said.

But it was good enough to leave Charles Coody, Jim Dent, Walt

Zembriski, Ken Still and John Paul Cain one stroke back and tied for second at 68.

Chick Evans and Babe Hiskey were at 69.

Nicklaus, winner of two of three previous starts among the seniors, said he "really wasn't very good" in shooting 1-under par. "I just hit too many shots I didn't like," he said.

Some other big-name players also had reason for concern. Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander who led the seniors in money-winnings the past two seasons, was at 73.

Arnold Palmer, 60, who won this title nine years ago, shot 74.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Country music star Willie Nelson can get the IRS off his mind after agreeing to pay $6.5 million in personal and business taxes and penalties under a settlement approved by a U.S. Tax Court judge.

Nelson was penalized under sections of the tax code regarding negligence, failure to file a tax return and failure to pay taxes, documents made available Thursday show. Judge Mary Ann Cohen approved the settlement June 6.

Nelson, 57, is best known for his songs "On the Road Again," "My Heroes Have Always Been Cowboys" and "You Were Always On My Mind."

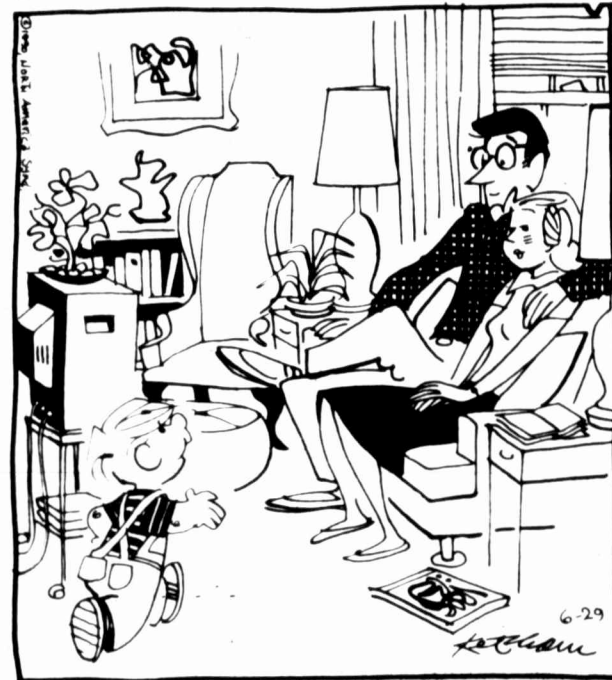

HELEN HAYES WILLIE NELSON

IRS assessed hundreds of thousands of dollars in penalties both times.

NYACK, N.Y. (AP) — Helen Hayes, the grande dame of American actresses, is leading efforts to renovate a turn-of-the-century silent movie house into a $5 million arts center in her name.

Hayes, 89, welcomed more than 100 friends, including actors Douglas Fairbanks Jr., Colleen Dewhurst and Jose Ferrer, to a fund-raising fete Wednesday at her Victorian river mansion in this Hudson River town about 30 miles north of New York City.

SATURDAY, JUNE 30, 1990
HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Give free rein to your innovative side and this will be a year of tremendous success. Prominent people pay generously for clever ideas. Short trips could play an important role in a September business triumph.
CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: slugger Ron Swoboda, boxer Mike Tyson, actor Martin Landau, actress Susan Hayward.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Enlist your mate or business partner's help with a pet project. Talking shop at social events could label you a bore. Postpone asking influential people for favors. Wait until Monday.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tend to household chores early in the day. Family members will be happy to help out. Jot down your ideas for future reference; some thoughts come only once and then are lost forever.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Follow through on a hunch. A close relationship is starting to heat up. A young person figures prominently in your weekend plans. You attract allies among those who share your ideals and aspirations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can profit enormously by perfecting a technique. Age is not a deterrent to learning. Member of opposite sex is attracted to you but is too shy to let you know.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You will earn new respect if you laugh at your own mistakes while trying hard to correct them. A physical condition continues to show improvement. Let others take the first step socially.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Physical exercise is an excellent outlet for pent-up feelings. Your financial arrangements need more thought. Consult an expert before investing in real estate. You need to learn more about what is involved.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You complete an onerous task and can pursue other activities. A member of the opposite sex senses your mood and surprises you with a welcome gift. Make changes on the home front.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Child-related problems prove easy to solve. Keep spending down. A friend or neighbor helps you with home repairs. Look for a special way to repay the favor. Be more outgoing at social affairs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Put your intuition to good use in business and real estate dealings. Showing tenderness toward your loved ones is essential now. Someone who has your best interests at heart gives you moral support.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone who once taught you may reappear. You feel great joy at your reunion. Compliments from a member of the opposite sex send your spirits soaring. Welcome new social contacts with open arms.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Keep a close eye on spending during morning hours. Become a comparison shopper and buy clothes that are attuned to your personality. In family matters, you deal from a position of strength and confidence.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Home life should become more harmonious now. Visits, letters and phone calls are woven into a favorable pattern. A short trip may be part of this weekend's plan. Get in touch with old friends.

Richards insists GOP support ethics

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards on Thursday insisted that Republicans support tough new ethics laws and she called for bipartisan tolerance for alternative lifestyles.

Ms. Richards called on her Republican opponent, Clayton Williams, to support "tough new ethics laws, including complete financial disclosure by statewide candidates and elected officials."

She also responded to a proposal seeking to support the state's sodomy law by calling for bipartisan tolerance of gays and lesbians. A San Antonio homemaker, Rita Davis, said she will introduce a resolution at the state Republican Convention under way in Fort Worth in support of the sodomy statute.

Ms. Richards said her position on gay and lesbian issues is similar to that of First Lady Barbara Bush, who called for tolerance toward all groups in a May 10 letter to Paulette Goodman, director of the Federation of Parents & Friends of Lesbians and Gays.

Full slate set for Old Settlers Day

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

On Saturday, July 14, Martin County residents will commemorate the 57th annual Old Settlers Day.

A full slate of activities have been planned to celebrate the city's main event of the year.

The traditional downtown parade will begin the festivities at 10 a.m.

The reunion theme is "Wheels, Then and Now", featuring several antique cars from the Antique Car Club.

The honored pioneer family will be the Penny Stroud lineage. John and Maurice Connell will serve as grand marshalls for the parade. They are the sons of Martin County Old Settlers Mr. and Mrs. D.J. Connell.

The Connell home, one of the oldest homes in the county, will be holding tours sponsored by the Martin County Historical Museum. The home was built 1882 by the Carmelite Priest and contains most of the Connell family furnishings and memorabilia. Some of the furniture were handmade by Mr. Connell and his sons.

The parade also features the Buffalo Soldiers from Old Fort Concho, a mystery rider, the Stanton High School Band, several floats, walking and riding units and horse-drawn vehicles.

Immediately following the parade, the downtown games, sponsored by the Martin County Chamber of Commerce, will begin. Contests will include:

An "Old Clothes" race; a gelatine eating contest; a water balloon toss for kids 12 and under; an egg toss; a bubble gum blowing; tobacco spitting; and cow chip throwing.

There will be several exhibits held around town following the parade. The Fort Concho Buffalo Soldiers will have an exhibit on the

Home life affects area drop-out rate

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

The home environment has a great influence on whether or not a high school student decides to stay in school, say local school administrators.

"Some of these kids (who drop out) have lost interest in school," said Forsan Superintendent J.F. Poyner. "Some never took an interest. A lot of the problem is that they come from a home which places no value on education."

Poyner and Big Spring Superintendent Bill McQueary agreed that the instability of many families only adds to problems such as peer pressure and failure.

"A big factor in the (drop-out) problem is the lack of a positive home environment," McQueary said. "Though pregnancy, drugs and alcohol and failure in school are factors, we find that a home in which education is stressed will encourage our students to stay in school."

Stanton High School principal Bill Young said his school is fortunate — it has kept its drop-out rate very low. He said probably one or two students dropped out this year. Being sure of the number, however, is hard to tell, he said.

"Once a student turns 17, he may come in and say they are moving," Young said. "Then we will never get a request for the records. Did they drop out? We just can't be sure."

The school system often takes the blame for dropouts, he said.

"We (schools) have been getting the blame for everything that is wrong with education for the past few years," Young said. "It pretty much comes down to parental involvement. High achievers come from encouraging homes."

Bush defends dumping no-new-taxes promise

By TERENCE HUNT
AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON — President Bush said today he jettisoned his no-new-taxes campaign pledge in hopes of reaching an accord with the Democrat-controlled Congress on a plan to reduce the deficit and reinvigorate a sluggish economy.

"I knew I'd catch some flak on this decision," said Bush, who has been sharply criticized by many lawmakers in his own Republican Party. "But I've got to do what I think is right."

Speaking at a White House news conference, Bush said budget talks with congressional leaders are "a make or break effort at responsible government." He said the negotiations are going well and expressed hope there could be an agreement within a few weeks.

Bush won the White House in 1988 by campaigning as an ardent foe of new taxes. "Read my lips, no new taxes," was the most memorable line of his successful drive for the presidency.

But the president today likened himself to Abraham Lincoln. "I'll think anew," he said, when faced with a deficit he said was worse than "any of us visualized" when he made his pledge.

Many Republican congressmen have made it clear they feel betrayed by the president's reversal on a winning campaign issue.

"Arrows have been flying, back, front, sideways, but that's what I get paid for," he said. "I can totally empathize with what they're going through."

Bush's declaration earlier this week that "tax revenue increases" were an essential element of any deficit-reduction package jump-started budget negotiations with Congress.

The president spoke shortly before leaving for a brief vacation at Kennebunkport, Maine. Next week, he travels to London for a meeting with NATO leaders, then on to Houston for the annual economic summit of industrialized nations.

"If I had control of this Congress, both houses, we might not even be talking about this today," he said.

Hobbs, Clovis ban sales of fireworks

HOBBS (AP) — Hobbs and Clovis have joined the list of cities in New Mexico that are defusing fireworks sales in the state this Fourth of July holiday.

A fireworks distributor, F&S Co. Inc. of Albuquerque, withdrew motions it had filed in Clovis and Hobbs for temporary restraining orders against the banning of fireworks.

Those orders would have stopped enforcement of the sales bans until the lawsuits could be decided.

Meanwhile, F&S filed a lawsuit Thursday in state District Court in Alamogordo seeking to overturn the city's total ban on fireworks.

Hobbs City Attorney Bill McBee said Thursday the withdrawal of the motions means the city's total ban on fireworks remains in place.

F&S President Ken Delfeld said Thursday the company decided not to proceed with the request for a temporary restraining order in Clovis after setbacks in its attempts to get temporary restrain-ing orders against other local governments around the state.

"We're still convinced the city is incorrect, and we're going to proceed with the lawsuit," Delfeld said. "But we decided last night (Wednesday) to drop the temporary restraining order request."

The company had sought temporary restraining orders in Gallup and in San Juan County, but judges there rejected those motions earlier this week. The lawsuits were pending but no trial dates were set.

Under state law, fireworks can be sold starting last week and lasting until just after the Fourth of July holiday.

A new state law grants cities the right to regulate or ban sales of firecrackers and aerial fireworks such as bottle rockets. F&S, supported by a state attorney general's opinion, contends the law precludes total bans on the sale of all fireworks.

Bush

agreement, Bush said, automatic spending cuts totaling $100 billion could take effect Oct. 1, with "draconian" reductions in defense and domestic programs such as student loans.

The deficit for next year could total $150 billion, not counting the cost of cleaning up failed S&Ls.

In accepting the Republican president nomination in 1988, Bush said:

"And I'm the one who will not raise taxes. My opponent won't rule out raising taxes. But I will. And the Congress will push me to raise taxes, and I'll say no, and they'll push, and I'll say no, and they'll push again. And I'll say to them: Read my lips. No new taxes."

Bush was asked how he could have made his no-tax pledge in 1988 when the deficit was already at record levels. "The budget deficit is bigger, far bigger. I thought I could do a better job of getting spending down," he said.

Bush refused repeatedly to discuss specific tax increases.

"I'm not saying what's on or off," he replied when asked whether he would consider an income tax rate increase.

Dropouts

Richard Gibson said he had only seen one student drop out during the past school year.

"I know it's a major problem at some schools," he said. "I think it's that kids don't have enough to do at home. Their parents give them too much money, not enough love. That's also the reason kids turn to drugs in my opinion."

Many area schools have a plan to keep kids in school. Garden City principal Charles Zachary said though the school does not have a real problem — less than 5 percent drop out each year — it does try to deal with the issue.

"We try to see that they have an opportunity to be involved in school," Zachary said. "We've found that kids like to be a part of something."

Big Spring sells fuel to aviators

By RUTH COCHRAN
City Editor

BIG SPRING — The city began selling fuel today to aviators at the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark.

City Manager Hal Boyd, said he arranged for fuel to be available at terminal building 1161, which is the center hangar. The move ensures that fuel is available for local pilots and aviators making pitstops at the airpark; C-Bar Flying Service stopped selling fuel last week and will close its doors June 30.

"Fuel will be provided for local customers, or anyone, by Basin Aviation of Midland Airpark," Boyd announced on Thursday. "They'll be furnishing fuel through the weekend and we'll evaluate the situation Monday."

Boyd also announced that the airpark has purchased most of C-Bar's inventory, including fuel tanks, pumps, fuel trucks, office equipment and radios. He said the equipment, purchased on Thursday, cost the airpark about $29,000.

While pilots now will be able to "gas up," other services still are not available. Boyd said he is continuing negotiations with prospective fixed-base operators to take C-Bar's place.

"I've had nine valid inquiries at this point," he said, and proposals are being accepted. "We will take the most prudent and probably the most expedient offer. If we get a good proposal, we're going to go ahead and recommend it to the council.

"Otherwise the airpark will run it."

The city began searching for a new fixed-base operator after C-Bar announced last week that it would close by the end of the month. A spokeswoman for C-Bar has said the company can no longer afford to stay in business because of high rent and insurance costs.

Manager Vicky Fryar said a rent reduction made by the city from $1,395 per month to $1,000 was not enough to bail out the company. She has said other fixed-base operators will not be profitable if they face the same rent and insurance requirements.

In a report to the City Council on Tuesday, Boyd said the airpark's rents are competitive with those in the area. And, he said, insurance costs, which are required by an FAA-approved city ordinance, are calculated by the number of services provided. Fewer services offered would mean lower insurance costs, while more services would mean higher insurance costs.

C-Bar, which Boyd said owes the city $8,000 in delinquent rent, has said it will vacate its space at the airpark by Aug. 1.

had one student quit school this year, said Principal Mickey McMeans. Borden tries to encourage its students by offering flexibility.

"We try to fix their schedules so they have something they can succeed in," McMeans said. "That's an encouragement. But anytime something like this (the drop-out rate) goes your way, you have to say you're very lucky."

Coahoma High School Principal Dennis Ward said the school tries to aid at-risk students before they drop out. Steps often taken there include referral to counseling programs and alternatives such as Big Spring's homebound teaching program, often used by pregnant girls.

Big Spring plans to begin using a computer next year to telephone parents when their children have an unexcused absence from school. McQueary said the device may aid in combatting the drop-out problem.

"Parents will know when their child has missed school," McQueary said. "That may be one step toward cutting the drop-out rate."

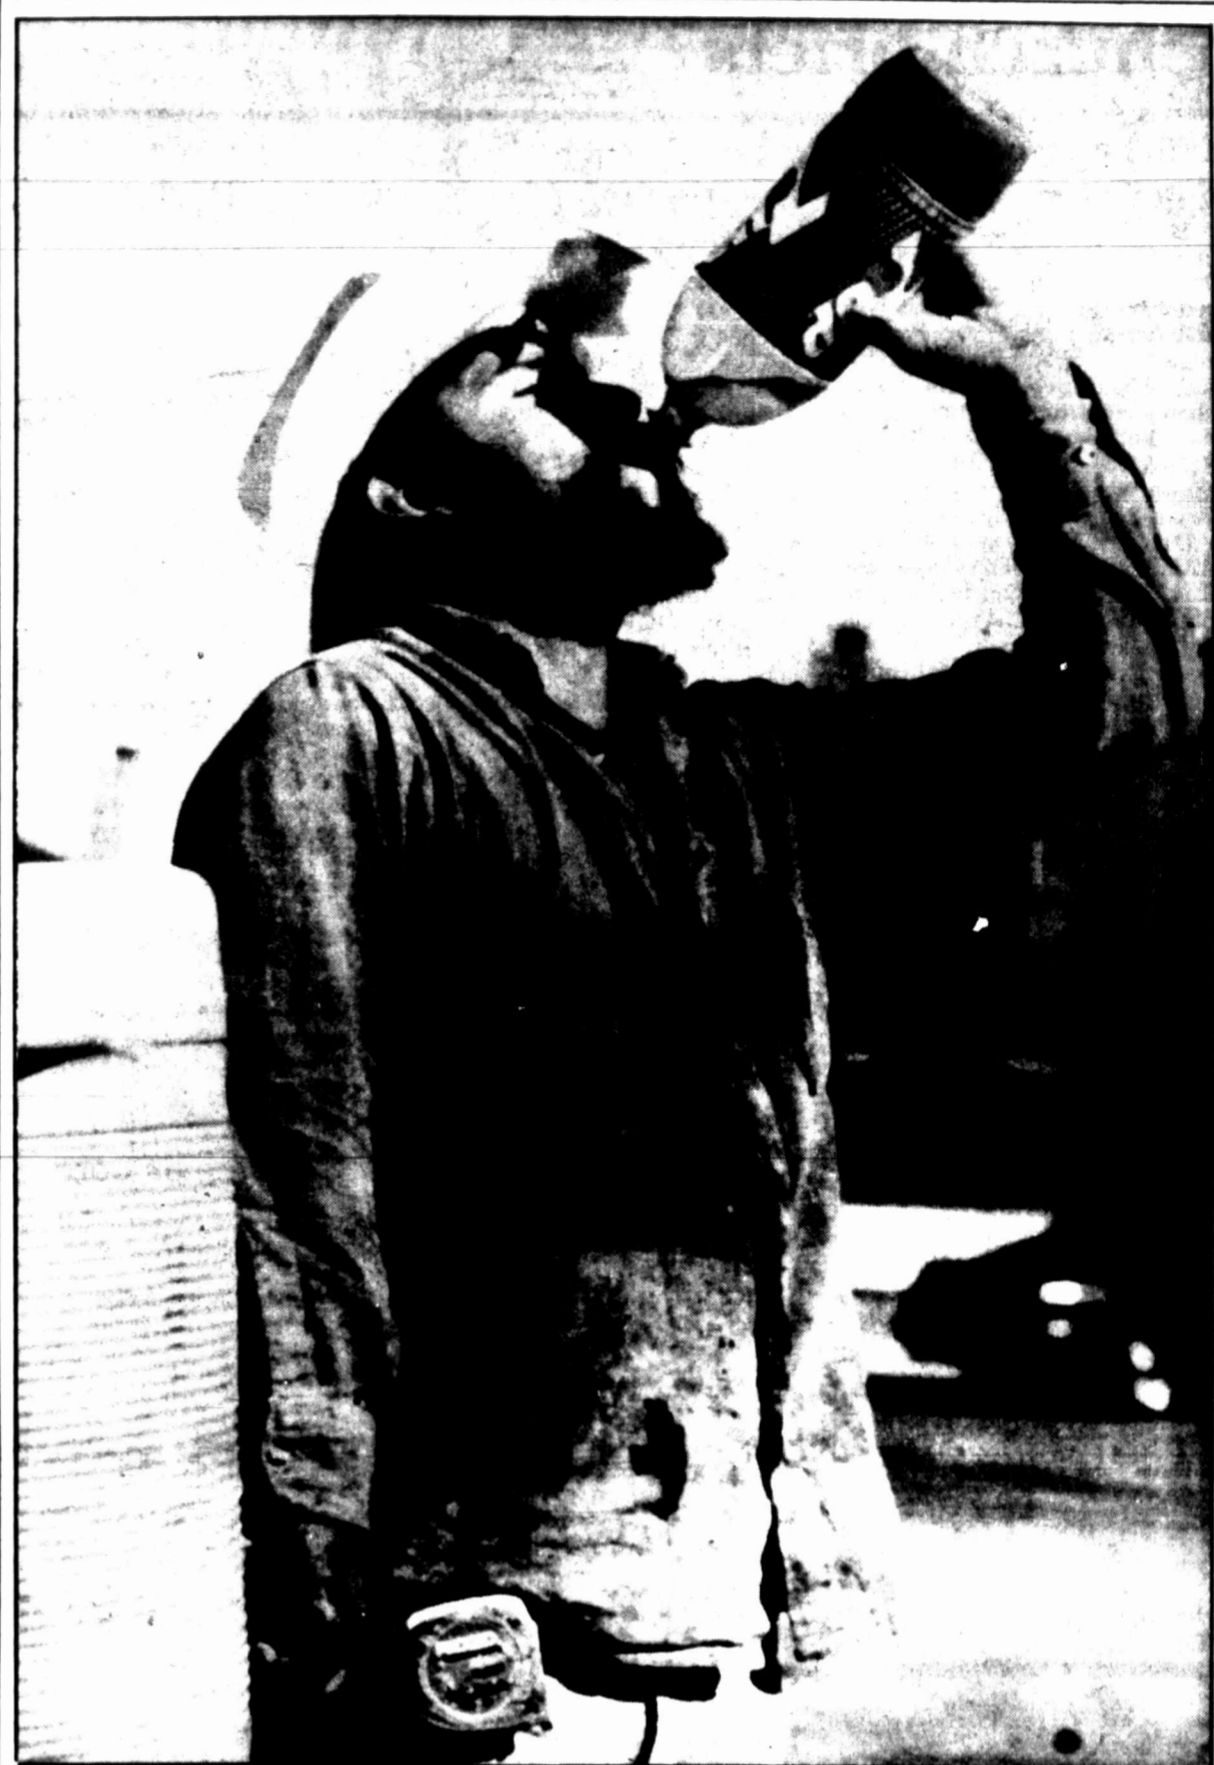

The Big Spring drop-out rate reportedly decreased by 2 percent between 1987-88 and 1988-89, after the inception of the Personalized Achievement Center, an alternative school program.

If one were to follow a class from kindergarten through high school, Poyner said, the percentage of students who do not finish may be as high as 40 percent.
