No arrests in Vega shooting

Police are continuing their investigation into a weekend shooting, although no arrests have been made, Det. Sgt. John Luebner said today.

Tony Vega, 24, 405. Burton St., has been moved from the intensive care unit of Scenic Mountain Medical Center and is listed in good condition, a nursing supervisor said this morning.

Vega suffered a gunshot wound to the abdomen about. 1:30 a.m. Sunday in the 600 block of East 5th St., police

The victim's brother, Mike Vega, said this morning that Tony was apparently shot with a hollow point bullet that created seven wounds in his stomach.

Mike Vega — who said his family was "extremely upset" about the shooting — said he believes his brother knew the assailants

Spill threatens marshlands in Galveston Bay

SUSAN FAHLGREN

Associated Press Writer GALVESTON - More than one-half million gallons of oil spread today toward environmentally sensitive marshlands in Galveston Bay while crews continued to salvage oil from a nearly sunken barge

Salvage crews worked around the clock to remove remaining oil from the vessel in the Houston Ship Channel. A patchy slick up to 15 miles long extended from the ship, with streamers reaching into the Gulf of Mexico.

Another barge involved in the weekend collision was safely grounded, and neither was leaking any more oil, the U.S. Coast Guard

"The vast majority of oil is in Galveston Bay, which is about the Guard Chief Petty Officer Todd Nelson. "Any way that spill heads, it is going toward wetlands and estuaries, with unique species of herons, egrets, wading birds and nesting birds. And it is very probable that we are going to have impact on them soon.

The Coast Guard late Monday revised its estimate of oil spilled into the bay since the barges' collision Saturday with an oil tanker to 10 times the initial 50,000-gallon estimate.

Officials said the spill has extended northeast of the collision site and surrounded Redfish Island, where it killed an undetermined number of fish.

"We haven't gotten any reports of oiled birds yet," Nelson said "But it's only a matter of time until

A man was critically injured Monday morning while working on a tractor at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf. Frank Vasquez of Big Spring remains hospitalized today after his body was crushed under a small, but heavy tractor. Apparently he had started the machine without knowing that it was in gear, said Terry Hansen, vice president of fiscal affairs at Howard College. "We really can't tell a lot about how exactly the accident happened," Hansen said. "I guess he believed it was in neutral (gear).'

Vasquez had been installed earlier this month as a full-time employee of the Howard County Junior College District. When the accident occurred, he and another maintenance employee were working inside a storage shed located directly behind the main campus building.

"It appears that he was standing on the ground and started a tractor," Hansen said. "It was a small yard tractor, of the type we use to pull mowers around. He may have been testing it or servicing the equipment, we aren't sure.

It does not appear that Vasquez was preparing to move the tractor outside, Hansen said, because another piece of machinery was parked between the tractor and the Patrolman Michael Dawson. "I'm pretty sure he did, yes said Dawson of the Highway Patrol office in Big Spring. "If he ever is found he'll be charged with felony failure to stop and render aid."

Dawson said the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department was notified and a deputy was searching Interstate 20 "just minutes" after the accident, which occured about 1:55 p.m. in the eastbound lane of the freeway 5.9 miles east of Coahoma. But the truck, with a bright yellow long-nose (engine in front) cab and silver-gray van trailer, could not be found. "He got off the interstate," Dawson said.

Mitchell County Sheriff Wendall Bryant said the search continued into the night with help from the Texas Highway Patrol in Colorado

"Everybody was looking that night," Bryant said. "Nothing turned up.

Though there were several witnesses at the scene of the accident, nobody got a license number or was able to identify a company name on the truck, Dawson said. They were too busy assisting a couple in a red 1989 Escort which had rolled on its top after veering of the highway.

The truck had reportedly changed from the outside lane to the inside lane just as the Escort, being driven by Ronald David Minner, 26, of Dallas was passing on the inside lane. The car was struck by Janine Goodman, 20, of Dallas, was reported in stable condition this morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center where she and Minner, who are engaged, were taken. She is expected to be released Thursday. Minner, whose earlobe was sewed back on, was released Sunday. Both were wearing seatbelts at the time of the accident.

However, if the accident had occured a few minutes earlier than it did, Goodman, in an interview from her bed on the hospital's surgical floor, said she may be dead right now.

Just minutes before the accident she was sleeping with her head on the car seat and her body on the floor board, she said. But "something" urged her to sit up.

'Something said get in your car seat," she said. After overcoming urges to remain on the floor, she finally crawled under the chest seat belt and into the seat. "It was just something I did," she said, although she neglected to put the bottom belt on.

'They said I would have been decapitated if I didn't have my seatbelt on," Goodman said. "It kept me in basically. As much as one seatbelt can.'

Otherwise, Goodman, who with Minner was returning to Dallas following a vacation in California, does not remember much about the accident.

"I was sleeping in the passenger side when it happened," she said. "I remember something hitting the car and at the same time David hitting his brakes.'

Protesters block release

HOUSTON (AP) — A man serving a prison term for a burglary charge related to a fire that killed four people last year was "at the door" and about to be freed from prison when protests and petitions blocked his release, officials

Mario Gallegos of the Denver Harbor neighborhood said that Lionel Segundo was about to be released on parole when officials learned of the protest and decided against releasing

"He was literally at the door," said State Rep.-elect Gallegos.

Gallegos was instrumental in presenting the protests to the proper authorities in time to stall Segundo's release.

It was the second time public outrage has thwarted the early release of a suspect jailed on charges related to the May 11, 1989, fire at the home of Mario and Elizabeth Gonzales.

Gonzales, his wife and sons Mario Jr., 10, and Michael, 7, died in the fire May 11. The only survivor was son Joe, 9, tossed out of a front window of the one-story home by his father.

Investigators said the fire was started by drug addicts seeking revenge for the legal trouble they encountered because of the family. Segundo, 27, was sentenced to 12 years for his part in burglarizing the home.

Comanche Peak 'unusual event'

GLEN ROSE — Comanche Peak experienced its third "unusual event" in a 4-month period when non-radioactive steam was released into the atmosphere late Monday, a TU Electric spokesman said.

The incident occurred at 10:05 p.m. and was classified as the lowest of four emergency categories, said Mark Manroe, TU Electric's on-site spokesman. The event was end ed at 11:53 p.m.

One of the systems available to add water to a reactor activated after a main steam isolation valve opened, causing low steam pressure, Manroe

The safety system pumped about 3,000 gallons of water into the reactor, said U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission spokesman Joe Gilliland.

There never was a threat to the public, Manroe said.

The plant had not been in operation since last Thursday, when it underwent the final test of the initial startup testing program, Manroe said. The plant had been scheduled to resume full power Friday, but Monday's event may alter that timetable, Manroe said.

"We're not going to be in a hurry to (start up) now until we understand what happened this time," he said.

Both Manroe and Gilliland said the three "unusual events" within a 4-month period was not out of the ordinary

"The number we have is still not out of line for new nuclear power plants," Manroe said. 'On the other hand, I don't think we will ever sit back and take these things lightly.

AUSTIN — Southwestern Bell's derailment of Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Hugh Parmer's telephone fund-raising efforts will be considered this week by the Public Utility Commission.

The telephone company says it won't bill customers for calls to a 900 number being used by Parmer to try to raise money for his campaign against incumbent Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

"We're not going to stand for it," Parmer said Monday. "This is just pure politics and an effort on the part of this big monopoly to back their boy.' Parmer, a state senator, refer-

He said he thinks he will prevail, and customers eventually will be billed $10 each for calls in the fundraising effort. Of the money, $7 goes to his campaign.

Gramm and Hance both have used 900 numbers to raise funds, Parmer said.

Richard Dietz, Southwestern Bell assistant vice president for rates, said his company contracts to do billing for long-distance companies that offer the 900 service. But Dietz said Bell's policy is to not bill for political fund-raisers. Long-distance companies can find alternative ways of billing, such as credit-card charges, Dietz said. 'We have a policy that we do not

He said Southwestern Bell talked to MCI Communications, which provided Gramm's 900 number, and that MCI found a different way to do billing and collection.

Hance's number was discontinued by the time Bell found out about it. Dietz said. He said Bell billed and collected for Hance.

House will authorize clearinghouse

WASHINGTON (AP) - You say your fax machine is filled with pages of unsolicited mail and your telephone answering machine is beeping with automatic dialing messages?

The House hopes it has found a way to limit the electronic equivalent of "junk mail."

By voice vote, the House approved legislation Monday that would authorize the Federal Communications Commission to set up a national clearinghouse for listing telephone subscribers who object to the endless faxes and unsolicited messages.

"This legislation empowers consumers and businesses with the ability to 'just say no' to unsolicited telephone advertisements," said Rep. Edward J.

Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on telecommunications and finance.

Under the bill, the FCC also would establish penalties for advertisers who fail to abide by the clearinghouse list.

Solicitations by charitable and political organizations would be exempt from the ban. Consumers, either private individuals or businesses, could specify that they do not wish to receive advertising by fax machines or automatically dialed, prerecorded telephone solicitations.

The legislation was crafted in conjunction with the FCC, the telephone industry and the direct marketing industry, Markey

While abortion rights activists are demanding that the Senate fully investigate Souter's abortion views, anti-abortion groups say such an inquiry would be inappropriate.

Souter was to pay courtesy calls to two anti-abortion members of the Senate Judiciary Committee today — Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz.

The committee is to begin confirmation hearings Sept. 13, and senators on both sides of the politically explosive issue say a discussion of abortion will be on the agenda.

One group that backs abortion rights, the liberal People for the American Way, released copies Monday of a 1976 brief in which the New Hampshire attorney general's office headed by Souter referred to abortion as "the killing of unborn children.

Indians without caste are rejected

Associated Press Writer NEW DELHI, India (AP) Mohan Lal fled his village 13 years ago to escape the insults that were part of life as a Hindu without a

When he returned home last month, Lal found that his family and other casteless people still were pariahs of the village in Rajasthan state.

Caste Hindus do not allow "outcastes," as they are called, to wear shoes, ride bicycles, use umbrellas, drink from the main village well or hold their heads up while walking in the street.

Dozens of other rules ostracize the 100 million people in this nation of 880 million who are Harijans, untouchables who do not belong to any of the four castes recognized by the Hindu religion.

'We are treated worse than dogs," said Lal, 28, now a construction supervisor in New Delhi.

Harijans have suffered for centuries under the rigid Hindu caste system, and the oppression is compounded by poverty and illiteracy. Most Harijans are agricultural laborers who are lucky to earn enough for two meals a day.

"There is a lack of awareness and coordination among the Harijans," said T.K. Oomen, a sociologist. "There is no mass consciousness. Harijans are a group by itself, but they are not a group for itself.

Sociologists and social activists say the subjugation of Harijans is perpetuated by politicians because the untouchables provide useful 'vote banks' during elections.

Harijans means "children of God," in Hindi. Mohandas K. Gandhi gave untouchables the name in hopes it would provide them some respectability.

The practice of untouchability was declared illegal after independence from Britain in 1947, but continued unchecked. Politicians rarely talk about the problems of untouchables. Welfare Minister Ram Vilas Paswan, a Harijan himself, acknowledged in Parliament in May that he did not know how many Harijans who were victims of violence had been aided by the government.

Paswan said authoritied had been "asked to take appropriate action both to punish the perpetrators or crimes and to provide appropriate relief and rehabilitation to the victims.

A reminder from Hussein

Thanks, Saddam. We needed that.

We needed to be reminded that our thirst for Arab oil puts us increasingly in thrall to a man who has threatened to "burn up half of Israel," who has used poison gas on Kurdish residents of his own country and who is trying to bully his neighbors into forgiving war debts that total between $30 billion and $60 billion.

"We have known all along that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein - a man who may soon possess a nuclear bomb is bellicose and unpredictable. Now that he has assumed the role of OPEC enforcer, apparently willing to do What needs to be done to prevent violation of OPEC production quotas, he becomes even more disturbing. The United States, which helped save Iraq during its gight-year-long war with Iran, must take prudent action to counter Hussein's belligerence.

to Hussein contends that neighboring Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates have deprived his nation of some $14 billion in revenue by depressing the international price of crude oil. He also wants Kuwait to compensate Iraq for $2.4 billion worth of oil he claims was stolen since 1980 from an oil field along the countries' disputed border. With his million-man army and his troops arrayed along the border, he probably will get his way.

Hussein also wants to raise oil prices to at least $25 a barrel. The current target price is $18, although it has slipped about $5 below that recently, due to a world oil glut. OPEC ministers meeting in Geneva this week are completing work on a new accord that would restrain oil production and lift crude prices

The OPEC countries seem willing to allow Hussein to play the tough guy; the United States should use Hussein as motivation to reduce dependence on imported oil. We now import about half our oil.

Hussein-enforced higher prices offer a good reason to esume thinking about energy conservation and energy alternative, objectives pretty much ignored since the rab oil embargo of the early 1970s.

Hussein also needs to be reminded that his belligerence omes with a price. On Friday, the Senate voted 83-12 to bar government credits, arms sales or sensitive technology to Iraq, accusing it of human-rights abuses and past use of chemical weapons. The House also voted uo cut off agriculture credits to Iraq, which now gets $500 million in loan guarantees from this country, to be used to buy U.S. farm goods.

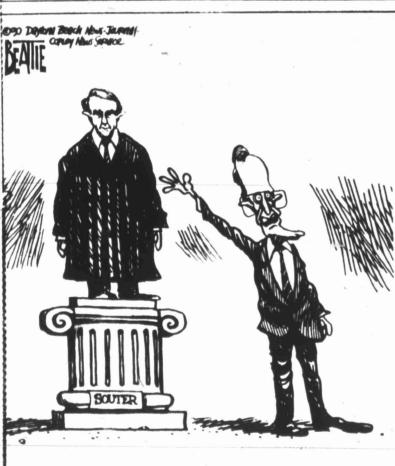

The Bush administration, while willing to reassess its policy toward Iraq, opposes the sanctions. The administration argues that they are not an effective way to force changes in Iraqi behavior.

Sanctions do send a message, however — a vital message, we believe. They would be in effect until the White House certified that Iraq has met its obligations under a number of international accords.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, argued against sanctions on grounds that they would harm American farmers. His Senate colleague, Kansas Republican Nancy Kassenbaum, reminded him of priorities.

"I can't believe any farmer in the nation would want to send his products, subsidized sales, to a country that has used chemical weapons and tortured children," she said. Neither can we:

And I'll raise you $1 million

By PETER ROPER Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON- When House lawmakers recently voted down a proposed constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget, House Speaker Tom Foley argued that Congress already has the authority and only needs the willpower to do the job.

One after another, critics lined up at the House microphone to say the amendment was unnecessary if lawmakers were ready to make the "tough choices" needed to cut the $168 billion deficit expected next year.

But while House members were talking tough about "tough choices," the House Appropriations Committee was actually going about the business of setting next year's budget. To all appearances, it seemed to be business as usual as lawmakers padded the budget with porkbarrel projects for their own Here's one example of how it happens: the House Appropriations Subcommittee on the Interior met on July 24 to "mark up" the 1991 budget for the Interior Department.

As usual, the nine-member committee gathered in a small base ment hearing room with an overflow crowd of reporters and lobbyists vying for the few seats available. "Mark ups" are shell games of sorts, because only the lawmakers actually have a copy of the proposed budget in front of them. That means the public only finds out how their money would be spent after the panel makes its decision.

The chairman, Illinois Rep. Sid Yates, reminded his colleagues around the small table that the deficit is a growing problem and they should be reluctant to add projects to the bill. Those words of warning seemed to have little

Rep. Les AuCoin, D-Ore., then asked for and got an extra $4 million in timber-cutting receipts for Indian tribes in his district. Dicks, noting that the committee was on the subject of timber receipts, added $1.5 million in spending to pay for timber studies by Washington State University. So it went, $1 million here, $500,000 there. Yates finally spoke up after about an hour "Let me remind the committee to show some restraint. We are still uncertain where we will get the money to pay for all this," he

After about three hours work, the subcommittee was done and had agreed to spend $12.8 billion next year on Interior Department and related agency programs. The "tough choices" added up to a $600 million increase over last year's appropriation.

Keep in mind the interior committee was working on only one of the 13 appropriation bills that make up the federal budget each year Repeat the scene another 12 times and it becomes easily apparent how Congress - with the up a $3 trillion national debt.

Lawyers and scholars can argue amendment would actually cure the problem. Many congressional leaders, perhaps being more candid than they realized, argued that lawmakers would simply find another way to jury-rig the process and keep the money flowing back to their districts.

The construction manager of the Howard College dormitory project told the Howard County Junior College Board of Trustees Monday that his company will have the rooms ready for students to live in four weeks from now. The buildings, however, may not be Cliff Holden, vice president of D.S.A., Inc., told trustees his workers were completing the rooms first and working their way to the lobby-lounge areas.

"If we get to a critical stage at least the rooms will be accessible and complete," Holden said. He said the company anticipates completing both the men's and women's residence halls before students arrive, but planned to take steps to continue working if that was not possible.

A report on the success of delinquent tax collections revealed that this year's collections were up $9,000 from last year. The total in delinquent taxes collected this year was $67,000.

The board approved the sale of a lot in the Northside Addition. Because the property is to be sold at less than fair market value, all four taxing entities — the school district, the college, the county and the city — must approve the sale.

Gray appeal dismissed by court

By MICHAEL DUFFY

Staff Writer

The 11th District (Eastland) Court of Appeals has dismissed an appeal filed by the lawyer of convicted murderer Travis Dale Gray, who escaped from a minimum security prison June 20. The appeals court granted

a motion, filed b y 3 2 n d Judicial District (Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties) Attorney Frank W. Conard II, that Gray's appeal be dismissed because of his escape from the Price Daniel Unit at Snyder.

Conard served as prosecutor in Gray's murder trial.

The motion was accompanied by a sworn affadavit from Warden L.W. Woods explaining the details of Gray's escape.

In granting Conard's motion, the court cited Rule 60B of the Texas Rules of Appellate Procedures which states that an inmate who escapes and fails to voluntarily surrender within 10 days loses all rights to future appeals.

Conard said Monday he filed the appeal because Gray has continued doubt. to elude authorities well over the 10 days cited in the rules.

He called the appeals court ruling "appropriate

"I'm convinced he is guilty and so was the jury beyond a reasonable doubt," Conard said. "I think his own testimony was incriminating ... it showed he was lying.

Odessa defense attorney Michael McLeaish said this morning it was unfortunate that Gray didn't wait until the appeal process was completed.

"I wish my man would have stuck around, but it doesn't make any difference now," he said.

Although McLeaish had not yet filed a brief with the appeals court, he maintains there were two errors that occurred during the trial. McLeaish said Gray was originally indicted for capital murder, but he was tried on a firstdegree murder charge. "He was tried for something he was never indicted for," the attorney said, although he admitted it was to Gray's benefit that the death penalty was not an option for the jury to consider. McLeaish also contends that the prosecution failed to show conclusively to the jury that Gray was guilty "beyond a reasonable

Conard said he believed Grav was still entitled to file an appeal for his habeus corpus rights, however, by failing to surrender he has forfeited any direct appeal

Charlie Streetman, assistant warden at Price Daniel, has said that Gray was a model prisoner, but added in conversations he had with the inmate, Gray still maintained his innocence and told him he didn't believe he should be in prison for a crime he didn't commit

There are 985 inmates incarcerated at the minimum security facilty which opened last August. Gray is the only inmate who has remained at large for any length of time.

Gray, 31, was convicted of firstdegree murder by a Mitchell County jury in connection with the June 1988, death of (then) wife, Tammy Lynn Gray, 27. He began serving a 40-year sentence April 20.

Gray escaped from the facility by hiding in the back of a truck. Apparently using tools he obtained from prison, he reportedly was able to cut his way out of the truck's roof and fled when it stopped in Abilene.

NEW YORK - George Steinbrenner, known for firing his employees, was himself fired

Baseball commissioner Fay Vincent forced the New York Yankees owner to give up control of the team Monday night for paying a known gambler to dig up dirt on former Yankee Dave Winfield.

"For all purposes, Mr. Steinbrenner agrees that he is to be treated as if he had been placed on the permanent ineligible list," the commissioner said, "I hope this sad episode is now over."

While Vincent made the announcement in midtown Manhattan, the Yankees were playing the Detroit Tigers at Yankee Stadium in the Bronx. As word swept through the ballpark, the fans rose for a 90-second ovation.

"No more George!" they chanted.

Steinbrenner must resign as general partner by Aug. 20. His 31-year-old son Hank will become the new general partner, according to Steinbrenner's lawyer, Stephen E. Kaufman

The details of the restrictions on Steinbrenner and his son are to be released today by the commissioner's office.

"I will not comment on the decision," Steinbrenner said as he left the commissioner's office, sur-crews. "I'm very happy it was resolved. I'm very satisfied with the resolution, and that's all I'm going to say.

The 60-year-old Steinbrenner, who headed a group that purchased the club from CBS Inc. on Jan. 3, 1973, is permitted to retain partial ownership as a limited partner. Steinbrenner was given six months to reduce his interest to below 50 percent.

He will be allowed to consult on major business decisions, but he cannot participate in player deals rounded by a pack of camera or signings. He must ask Vincent's permission, in writing, to attend major league games if he intends to do anything but be an ordinary fan. He cannot, for example, sit in the owner's box or visit the clubhouse.

"It's sad," said pitcher Dave Righetti, the longest-tenured Yankee, "He really loved the idea of owning the Yankees, and now it's been taken away from him."

This was the second straight summer baseball penalized one of its more famous characters. Last August, Pete Rose was kicked out of baseball for betting on his own team.

In a scathing 11-page decision, Vincent chastised Steinbrenner for starting a relationship with Howard Spira, a 31-year-old gambler from The Bronx, N.Y., and then for giving Spira $40,000 in January. He found both the involvement with Spira and the payment violated Major League Rule 21 (f), otherwise known as the 'best interests of baseball' clause. "I sat through the two days of /Mr. Steinbrenner's testimony and I am able to judge the degree of candor and contrition present in this case," Vincent said. "I am able to discern an attempt to force explanations in hindsight onto discomforting facts. And I am able to evaluate a pattern of behavior that borders on the bizarre.

Ryan to try again for win No. 300

By RICK GANO AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE - Gary Sheffield wasn't even born when Nolan Ryan won his first major league game in April 1968.

Rangers-Brewers Channel 3 7:30 p.m.

But Sheffield, the Milwaukee Brewers' 21-year-old third baseman, could be part of baseball history tonight when the 43-yearold Ryan tries to become the 20th major league pitcher to win 300'

"He's great," said Sheffield, who walked four times in one game last season against Ryan.

"All I know is I'm scared. Last time he knocked me down four times. I didn't even want to go back up there. I'm a little shaky right now," Sheffield said Monday.

"I know he's going to come in on you, way in. One time he almost hit me in the face. I'll always remember that.

homers, seven runs and 10 hits to the New York Yankees. Texas won the game 9-7 in 11 innings, but Ryan didn't get a decision.

Now he gets another chance at County Stadium, and he doesn't want to prolong the quest.

"I'd like to get it over with as soon as possible. I don't want to disabboint people armave a let of people coming to this game. It's an inconvenience for them, but they want to be a part of it. They've shared in my career," Ryan said Monday.

'The only one I had to blame was myself. I made bad pitches. I hope that doesn't happen again. Because of that you probably do put more pressure on yourself.

"But you have to put it in perspective and take the approach that you go out and pitch the same. Prior to warming up, you are feeling pressure. But once you get into the game, you're concentrating on what you have to do.'

Ryan will be opposed by Milwaukee right-hander Chris Bosio, who hasn't won since May

"Someone mentioned to me that I'm going after No. 38. That sort of puts it in perspective," Bosio laughed.

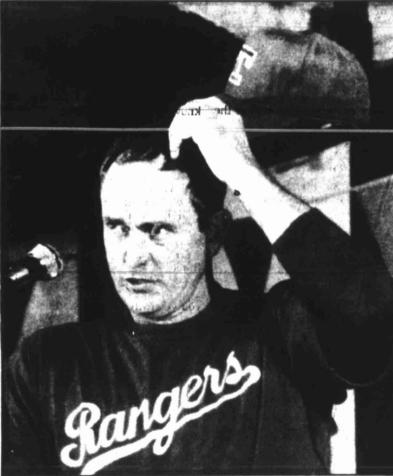

"I'm really excited, especially for a game of this magnitude. It should be a good time, a playofftype atmosphere.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. Arkansas is set to switch from the Southwest Conference to the Southeastern Conference, a move the school's board chairman says makes sense for several reasons

"Presidents of the institutions run the SEC," chairman Jim Blair of Fayetteville said Monday. "I think it's a big difference. I think it will have a great impact in keeping athletics under control. It hasn't been kept under control in the Southwest Conference.'

Arkansas, a charter member of the 76-year-old SWC, appeared set on Monday to make the jump to the SEC, with scheduling to switch over in as little as two years.

A meeting of the 10-member board is scheduled for Wednesday at Fayetteville, at which the president of the university and the chancellor of the Fayetteville campus say they'll strongly recommend the switch.

and Dan Ferritor, Fayetteville campus chancellor, met in Little Rock on Monday to discuss the proposed move. According to Sugg, SEC commissioner Rov Kramer has told Ferritor to expect a formal invitation to join the SEC by Wednesday. Ferritor said in a telephone interview that he had given Sugg 'a strong, positive recommendation that the University of Arkansas enter the Southeastern Conference. Jack Crowe, Arkansas' first-year football coach, said Monday that he expects the board to approve the switch, and that he anticipates the Razorbacks will be playing an SEC schedule in "We know who our opponents are in 1991. We know who our opponents are in 1990. After that, I don't know what's going to happen." Crowe said in an interview with Houston television station KRIV. "I think we're locked in for a couple of years."

Kramer wouldn't confirm that Arkansas is to get a bid to join the 10-school conference. "They have the prerogative to make those statements. We'll have no comment," he said in a telephone interview from his Birmingham, Ala., office.

None of five UA board members reached by telephone on Monday indicated any inclination to reject the proposed switch. Three of the five, including Blair, said they were leaning toward approval.

Namesnik sets U.S. record

AUSTIN (AP) — Eric Namesnik set an American record in the 400-meter individual medley during preliminaries at the U.S. Swimming Long Course National Championships.

Namesnik, of the University of Michigan, was timed in 4 minutes, 15.78 seconds, breaking David Wharton's mark of 4:15.93, set in 1989. Wharton, swimming in a separate heat, qualified second-fastest at 4:22.84 and will square off against Namesnik in the final. Janet Evans, who lost backto-back races in the 400-meter individual medley, rebounded by winning the 200-meter freestyle in the world's best time this year.

Evans, who lost at the Goodwill Games in the 400 medley to Summer Sanders and again Sunday to Erika Hansen, was clocked in 2:00.27 in an event she normally does not swim. She outstretched defending champion Nicole Haislett at the wall, winning by just sixhundredths of a second.

Mary Ellen Blanchard defended her title in the 200-meter breaststroke with a time of 2:32.18. Jill Johnson was second in 2:32.45.

Mark Henderson won the final event of the evening, the men's 100-meter butterfly, with a time of 53.92. Bart Pippenger was second in 54.36.

"It's tough pitching to those guys with the bases loaded," said Jackson, who struck out Mark McGwire for the second out before walking Henderson. "I went right at McGwire, but maybe I tried too much to make the pitches on Henderson. Once I got behind 2-0, he didn't swing at anything. I guess he had in his mind he wasn't going to swing at anything.' That was pretty much the view from Henderson's perspective, too. 'He was at my mercy, and he missed with a fastball at 2-0," Henderson said of Jackson. "I

George Steinbrenner, cast as a villain by a generation of New York Yankee fans, is hardly remembered as such by baseball men who worked for, with and against him. 'It's a sad day for baseball and also for George," Hall of Fame pitcher Bob Feller said Monday night after learning that Steinbrenner was forced out as principal owner of the Yankees by Commissioner Fay Vincent "I have a lot of respect for George," said Feller, an executive with the Cleveland Indians. "He's a very charitable guy . . . But he got himself involved with a possible felon, and evidently he couldn't get himself disengaged." The Yankee owner was ousted for his association with gambler Howie Spira. The latter is awaiting trial on a charge he tried to extort

$150,000 from Steinbrenner and threatened both the owner and former Yankee outfielder Dave Winfield. Vincent found that Steinbrenner used Spira to try to dig up dirt on Winfield, whom the owner traded to California earlier this season. Despite all of that, Winfield did not fire an all-out salvo at Steinbrenner. "I felt quite a bit vindicated because so much had been said about me, I had so many battles, so much turmoil," Winfield said. "I'm glad to get a lot of this out of "The Yankee fans deserve a new chapter," he said. "This one has come to an end. That sentiment was echoed by the way

many Yankee fans, among them Trevor Beckford of Westbury, N.Y. "That's what should happen to any owner that constantly makes decisions to hurt the club," Beckford said. "He traded away my favorite player, Dave Winfield, and changed managers it seemed like every month.' Ironically, Spira, who regularly called news organizations about Steinbrenner, would only say, "I have nothing to say.'

Former Yankee players were generally fond on Steinbrenner. "He might been tough on his secretaries and people who worked for him, but he still did a lot of good . . . and a lot of good for baseball," former Hall-of Fame pitcher Catfish Hunter said. Rickey Henderson, traded last brenner's driving desire for "When I played there, he was a season to Oakland, recalled Stein-good man. He wanted to win so hard for New York. He did everything in his power to win, so I respect him for that." Henderson said. "I feel sorry for him. He had put some tremendous teams together. He was not hard at all to play for San Francisco Giants owner Bob Lurie called it "a sad day for baseball," but applaued both Vin-professionals," Lurie said. "It is very unfortunate when any owner is penalized by the commissioner of baseball," Philadelphia Phillies president Bill Giles said. 'I was surprised by the severity of Commissioner's Vincent's decision, but I had no knowledge of the case other than what I had learned through the news media.'

Fans at Monday night's game in Yankee Stadium stood and cheered for about about 90 seconds when they learned that Vincent had barred Steinbrenner from participating in the day-to-day operation of the team. Inside the Yankee dugout, however, the mood was less celebratory. "That's a terrible bunch of fans to react that way," Yankees pitcher Dave LaPoint said. "It's a shame that the fans who were out there erupted and made a joke out of it. It upset a lot of us. People were actually mean about the situation and I guess venting their own frustrations. "The fans may have been cheering, but I wasn't," agreed Dave Righetti, who has pitched for New York through much of the controversy of the Steinbrenner era. Righetti, who has been with the team since 1979, has the longest tenure of any current Yankee having him around here," Righetti said. But some of the fans won't mind. Ruben Del Valle of Jersey City, N.J., has been holding a grudge since 1985, when Steinbrenner sent him. It'll certainly be different not

NEW YORK (AP) Bernstein, who canceled six appearances in Japan this month due to exhaustion and lingering illness, is planning to conduct a concert next month at the Tanglewood Music Center, a spokesman said Tuesday. Bernstein has suffered from severe influenza, pleurisy, and pneumonia since the beginning of the year. He flew back from Japan July 16.

"He's resting up. It was just too ex-treme for him," said Bob Gallo, a spokesman for the 70-year-old Bernstein.

Gallo said the conductor is preparing for an Aug. 19 concert in honor of the late Boston Symphony Orchestra director Serge Koussevitzky, who Massachusetts

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) -Residents around here are not taking too kindly to the barbs of "Pretty founded the Tanglewood center in Woman" actress Julia Roberts, who described life in northwestern South Carolina as boring and the people as "The people were horribly racist and I had a really hard time," Ms. Roberts was quoted as saying in the Aug. 9 issue of Rolling Stone magazine. She stayed in Spartanburg and Abbeville during the filming of her new movie, "Sleeping With the Enemy," in May.

Some residents have gone on the counter-attack. They are collecting money for a quarter-page advertisement in Variety magazine, and plan to put up a billboard in the middle of her hometown of Smyrna, Ga.

"We want this Julia Roberts character to know what we think of her," said talk-show host Mike Gallagher of WFBC-AM Radio, who is helping to organize the response.

Oil spill threatens wildlife

Salvage operation continues

SUSAN FAHLGREN Associated Press Writer

GALVESTON - More than onehalf million gallons of oil — more than 10 times the amount originally estimated — spread today toward environmentally sensitive marshlands in Galveston Bay. Meanwhile, crews continued to salvage oil from a nearly sunken barge.

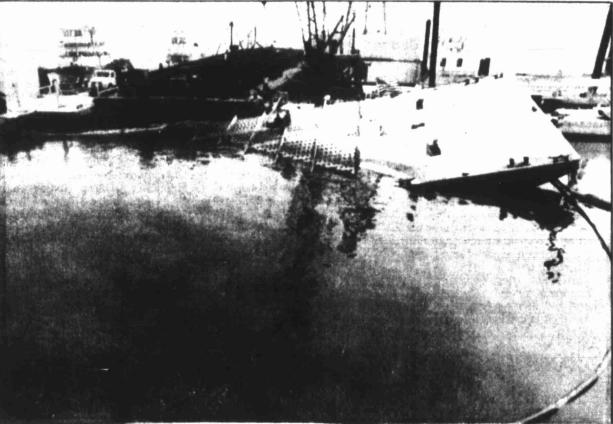

Salvage crews worked around the clock to remove remaining oil from the vessel in the Houston Ship Channel. A patchy slick up to 15 miles long extended from the ship, with streamers reaching into the Gulf of Mexico.

Another barge involved in the weekend collision was safely grounded, and neither was leaking any more oil, the U.S. Coast Guard

"The vast majority of oil is in Galveston Bay, which is about the worst place to have it," said Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Todd Nelson. "Any way that spill heads, it is going toward wetlands and estuaries, with unique species of herons, egrets, wading birds and nesting birds. And it is very probable that we are going to have impact on them soon

The Coast Guard late Monday revised its estimate of oil spilled into the bay since the barges' collision Saturday with an oil tanker to 10 times the initial 50,000-gallon estimate.

Officials said the spill has extended northeast of the collision site and surrounded Redfish Island, where it killed an undetermined number of fish

GALVESTON - Workers sit on the halfsubmerged barge Monday while booms try to contain the oil. A Liberian-registered tanker collided with two barges on Saturday, which caused 500,000 gallons of oil/to spill into Galveston Bay.

"But it's only a matter of time until we get those.

Crews transferred all the oil from a listing barge and pushed it aground near Eagle Point, said Nelson. The second barge quit leaking oil about 5 p.m. Monday, he said. Thousands of feet of collection booms surrounded the nearly sunken barge

"It is holding up traffic and will that channel traffic will be opened of oiled birds yet," Nelson said. says that throwing waves at it its latest extent and placement of might cause it to slide to the channel bottom. It could then take weeks to raise it.'

Tugs were holding the barge in place to prevent it from slipping into the channel, he said

Almost 60 ships were idled in the Gulf or at Houston docks Monday by the ship channel's closure.

Five oil skimmers and a vacuum truck, also used by the salvage continue to do that. It is unlikely crews, were to resume work at daybreak and a 7 a.m. flyover of up Tuesday," he said. "The salvor the spill was planned to determine • OIL MESS page 6-A booms, said Nelson,

We have reports of thin streamers of oil heading out into the Gulf," he said, adding that they were not as significant as oil in the

The spill is considered major since it involves more than 100,000 gallons, said Coast Guard Petty Officer Gene Maestas

Divers examining the hull of the sunken barge Monday afternoon determined that "there was quite a

Area history course offered

ODESSA - Area residents are encouraged to enroll in Odessa College's Sept. 16-22 Elderhostel and join with older adults from all over the United States in three courses about the Permian Basin, according to Carla Wells, OC's director of community service.

OC's one-week session features "Black Gold; Texas Tea: The Story of the Permian Basin Oilfields," "The Making of the Presidency," and 'Shakespeare, His Globe and the World."

These academic courses have been specially designed for the Elderhostel program and are not offered as a part OC's regular curriculum, Wells said.

The world-wide Elderhostel program offers low-cost, shortterm, residental academic courses to adults, age 60 years and older, and their spouses or campanions who are at least 50 years old.

"Most of the Elderhostelers are retired professionals, many from the field of education,' Wells said. "They are still going, doing, seeing, learning, and contributing. We have benefit-ted as much from having them here as they did by coming here,'' she said.

By enrolling in the OC program are, Permian Basin residents will have an opportunity to meet people from all

Judge OKs art proposal

DALLAS (AP) - A federal judge has approved a plan to store medieval art treasures in a Dallas museum while a Texas family and a German church haggle over ownership.

The art works, taken from the German church in the final days of World War II, will be moved at an unspecified time this week to the Dallas Museum of Art, according to documents filed Monday in U.S. District Court in Dallas

A company that specializes in transporting fine art will move the objects from safe-deposit boxes at banks in Dallas and Whitewright.

The Lutheran church of Quedlinburg, East Germany, is suing the heirs of the late Army Lt. Joe T. Meador of Whitewright. The church contends Meador stole the items from a mine shaft where they were hidden during the war.

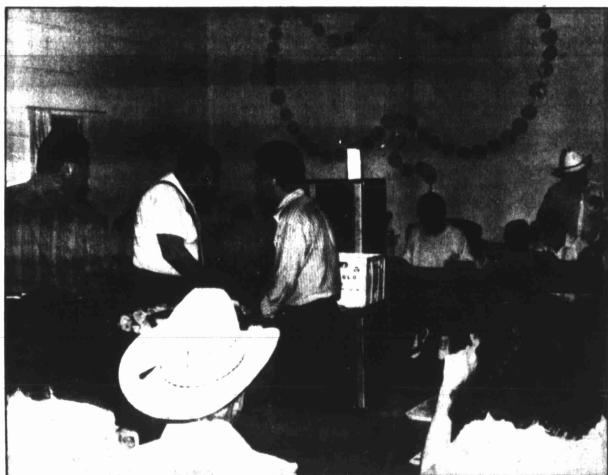

"They are religious items," said Pat Longan, a Dallas attorney representing the church. "The church wants to retrieve them and return them to where they belong.

U.S. District Judge Sidney Fitzwater approved the agreement announced last week between Meador's siblings, Jack Meador of Whitewright and Jane Meador Cook of Mesquite, the art museum and a bank where some of the items were stored.

The artifacts will not be displayed publicly at the museum while the lawsuit remains unsettled. They may be displayed afterwards.

According to an inventory filed with the agreement, the items include six jeweled holy boxes, one of which belonged to the German King Henry I; a crystal flask shaped like a bird; two boxes made of semiprecious stones and metals; three polished stones; a French medallion; a silver cross; a wooden crucifix with a silver figure of Christ; cuff links; and a silverplated book.

The treasures include about 50 coins and several papers with old German notations.

Emilio Villa Sr., Frank Salazado and George Ramirez take the bingo inside after late evening rains Sunday forced the St. Joseph Summer Festival to head for shelter - but did not damapen spirits of the participants.

Festival: It was an inside job

The annual St. Joseph summer festival was held Saturday despite weather conditions that moved the festivities inside the fellowship hall.

Most of the games and booths were postponed because of the rainy day, but the games that could be inside flourished taking advantage of the shelter.

Games including cake walk, bingo, pot-of-gold and needle-inthe-stack were moved inside to accommodate the crowd. The crowd also went inside to take advantage of the Mexican food that was provided by church organizers

Mexican plates consisted of Enchiladas, Asado, Tacos and Tamales were the main dish at the summerfest

On Sunday the skies were threaten all day, but there was just enough sunshine to keep the festivities on the bright side. A larger crowd was welcomed by church organizers of the festival with other added programs were added to the festive mood.

Shooters planning for August meet

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ Staff Writer

Martin County Super Shooters will be headed to state competition Aug. 3-4, in District Six in the Trap & Skeet and Sporting Clays shoot. MC shooters, led by Senior Division members Chris Carder, Robbie Wilson, Shane Louder, Kenny Stewart and David White have dominated the age group by placing in the top three spots in the last four meets.

'This group has really shot well in the meets, but we also have some young talent that's coming up," said Lou Smith. She and her husband Charlie have been involved in trap and skeet shooting since their two boys were youngsters. "I guess when the boys (John and Jim) were around 12 and 13 years old, we began holding practices and shoots around here. Everybody that shoots come around to practice and we started having shoots here," said Mrs.

White, Wilson and Carder have been practicing since their ninth birthday at the Smiths' residence and have won guns, trophies and meets enough to fill a garage. "We have fun and the Smiths have really helped us. They take time to help if we need it, and Mr. Smith is always there sometimes late in the evening just to see what we are doing wrong," said White modestly. The trio have been shooting up the country side with wins in the Lubbock and the Howard County bit more damage than had previously been expected," Maestas said.

Both barges contained a total of 1,680,000 gallons of catfeed oil, a heavy refinery oil similar to a No. 5 fuel oil, Maestas said.

Nelson said the oil was not as toxic to wildlife as that spilled in the Gulf by the Norwegian tanker Mega Borg earlier this summer. But it is thicker and more "environmentally persistent" in its ability to stick to shorelines, he said.

Coast Guard officials estimated 48,000° gallons of oil were missing from the grounded barge, which means the bulk of the oil spilled from the sunken barge.

Nelson said that the Coast Guard would work with B.J. "Buck" Wynne, chairman of the Texas Water Commission, today to find the best conditions to deploy oileating microbes in a process known as bioremediation.

The state conducted a demonstration of the oil-eating microbes during the 3.9-million gallon Mega Borg spill, declaring

This notice concerns 1990 property tax rates for Martin County Hospital. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

that they had sufficiently reduced the amount of oil in the test area.

Wynne said the current spill could show the true effectiveness of the microbes and Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro has also urged the technique's use.

We will use it on a test basis. But the big guns in the latest battle will have to be booms and skimmers," said Nelson Maestas said a "medium-sized" sheen moving through Bolivar Pass Monday and headed toward the Gulf threatened to complicate cleanup efforts even further. A skimmer in the Bolivar Pass tried to intercept the oil, he said.

Reports of oil washing ashore near Bermuda Beach on Galveston Island were being investigated, the Coast Guard said. Nelson said oil taken from Stewart Beach was being analyzed today to determine if it came from the spill.

The ship channel, where it passes through Galveston Bay, was the site of the spill at 3 p.m. Saturday when the tanker Shinoussa collided with two of three barges under tow by the tugboat, Chandy N.

Grady trustees plan classroom additions

Grady School Board called a meeting Monday night at Grady Board Room to evaluate bids on portable classrooms and a chlorinated water system to be added before 1990-91 school year. Also on the agenda was the hiring of two faculty members and accepting the resignation of the ag teacher.

Board members were given bids from Morgan Building Systems of petroleum industry, during the Midland and Industrial Laminates late 1800s, kerosene ranked as Corp. of Austin. The classroom consists of two rooms and a turnkey electrical job added to the construction. ILC of Austin bid was $34,995 as compared to $50,713 from Morgan. Jody Yates made a motion to accept the bid from ILC and Roy Madison second the motion. The vote was unanimous by the board to carry the motion. The classrooms will be located in the patio area between the gymnasium and and the south classroom wing.

Board members accepted the hiring of two faculty members: Don E. Kuenstler and Ruth Darby for this school year. Darby, a Crosbyton librarian, will be teaching the gifted and talented class, while Kuenstler will be Members accepted the resignation of Scott Robinson as Grady's ag teacher because he will venture into business for himself, according to the letter of resignation Robinson submitted to the Board.

"We will begin to look for Scott's replacement as soon as possible,"

Other bids were accepted on a water system, which is to regulate to state standards, from Kenneth Holcomb of Martin County and Choate Well Service of Big Spring. Both bids will be resubmitted. because Choate and Holcomb turned in bids on different systems than the board needed.
