Corral schedules fundraising sale

The Corral, a community support program, will hold an inside sale Friday and Saturday at their facility, 611 E. Third Street in Big Spring.

Among its services are pre-occupational training and living workshops for persons who have been treated for mental illness in the past, program director Joanne Forrest said.

The sale will feature baby and adult clothes, household goods, curtains, dishes and other items donated from people in the community, she said.

Money raised at the sale will go to help finance a trip for members of the organization to an October conference in El Paso. Staff members of the Corral will attend as well, she said.

"Primarily the conference will show them (members) ways other people are achieving independence in their lives," Forrest said.

Sale hours are 2 to 6 p.m. Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Rainfall varies throughout area

Rainfall amounts varied throughout Howard County on Wednesday, officials said.

Anita Vaughn, with the Agricultural Research Station, reported .51-inch, however, Tommy Hart, 1750 Purdue Ave., recorded 1.75 inches of rain.

Hart recorded .75-inch Wednesday morning and an additional .8-inch during afternoon thunderstorms, bringing this year's total to 11.06 inches.

Wendell Shive, Coahoma, reported 7-inch of rain, but Mrs. John Couch, said rain was virtually non-existent in Luther.

"It rained all around us, but we didn't get enough rain to wet the sidewalk," she said.

WIC applicants urged to reapply

State and local health officials are urging women who were declared ineligible for the Texas WIC nutrition program earlier this year to consult with local health departments about whether their eligibility has been renewed.

Legislation passed this week by Congress and signed by President George Bush allows the Texas WIC program to restore services to 15,000 of the 27,000 participants who were determined to be ineligible.

"This is a godsend for the women, infants and children who will get back on the program," said Charlene Smith, director of the Howard County WIC program.

The new legislation will allow many women to retain their eligibility by enabling the Texas WIC program to borrow up to 3 percent of the funds earmarked for next year's food costs, Smith said.

The rising cost of WIC-authorized foods forced a number of women to be dropped from the eligibility rolls.

Iraq invades Kuwait; U.S. imposes sanctions

SADDAM HUSSEIN

By STEPHANIE MCGEEHEE
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT — Iraq's powerful army invaded this small oil-rich kingdom early today. Tank-led troops quickly seized the ruler's palace and government buildings, and the emir fled to Saudi Arabia, Kuwaiti officials said.

"The Iraqis have occupied all of Kuwait!" one government official shouted down the telephone. Urgent appeals for blood indicated a significant casualty count, but no numbers could be confirmed.

The Revolutionary Command Council led by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein claimed it invaded at the request of revolutionaries who had already overthrown the government and established "The Interim Government of Free Kuwait." Kuwait and U.N. diplomats labeled the coup reports a farce.

The assault followed two weeks of tension between Kuwait and Iraq, caused by Iraqi accusations that Kuwait stole oil from its territory. Saddam also accused Kuwait of exceeding OPEC production quotas, thus driving down the price of oil, a major Iraqi revenue source.

In recent days, diplomats said Iraq had massed more than 100,000 troops at the Kuwait-Iraq border. Kuwait's entire armed forces has 20,300 soldiers.

Kuwait's U.S. ambassador, Sheikh Saud Nasir al-Sabah, appealed for help from the United States. "We are asking for military assistance in order to survive," he said in Washington.

The U.N. Security Council voted 14-0 to denounce the invasion and

Kuwait invasion at a glance

THE INVASION: Iraq's troops, led by about 350 tanks, crossed the border at dawn today, and seized the Kuwaiti palace and government buildings 40 miles away, diplomats and Kuwaiti officials said. Casualty figures were not available. Kuwait's Sheikh Saad al-Abdullah al-Sabah fled to safety in Saudi Arabia.

THE FORCES: Iraq, a country of more than 16 million, has the Arab world's most battle-trained army, and had massed more than 100,000 soldiers on the Kuwaiti border. Kuwait, an oil-rich city-state, has 1.8 million residents — 60 percent foreigners — and an army of 20,300 soldiers.

CAUSE OF CONFLICT: President Saddam Hussein of Iraq accused Kuwait of stealing oil from its territory and forcing down oil prices through overproduction. Kuwait and U.N. diplomats dismissed Iraq's claim that it invaded at the request of Kuwaiti revolutionaries.

REACTION: The U.N. Security Council voted 14-0 to condemn the invasion. President Bush denounced it as "paked aggression." He froze Iraq's assets in the United States and blocked almost all Iraqi imports, including oil.

The order also froze Kuwait property under U.S. jurisdiction — a move intended to keep Iraq from seizing it. Bush urged other nations to take similar measures of rebuke and the United States called on Moscow to suspend arms shipments to Baghdad.

Kuwait's U.S. ambassador said the nation had asked for American military intervention.

A Pentagon source said a U.S. naval group was diverted toward the Persian Gulf.

Oil prices soared in frenzied trading amid fears the invasion would reduce the supply of oil.

New administrator touring hospital

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

Scenic Mountain Medical Center's strongest point, like that of any hospital, is the people who work there, the new administrator said today.

Ed Cunningham, offered the post last week by corporate owners National Healthcare, Inc., formally accepted the job early this week. He visited the facility Wednesday and today to meet staff and patients.

"People are what makes anything go," Cunningham said. "The staff here is 90 percent of this hospital. My goal is to get to know every employee on a first-name basis.

"You won't find me in my office much. I'll be making the rounds, meeting people and trying to find out how they feel about things."

Cunningham, formerly of Mt. Vernon, Ill., has worked for the corporation since February of 1988. He was most recently group director for five hospitals, holding the top administrative post at Mt. Vernon.

In a similar situation, he will work as "group director" for that facility and the company's Hillsboro hospital while keeping Scenic Mountain as his "flagship." He said he doesn't anticipate problems managing the three at once.

"That's what I was doing in Mt. Vernon," Cunningham said. "The only difference here is that I'll have fewer hospitals. I will be a full-time resident of Big Spring. I will only travel at most three or four days a month."

The main job of an administrator is three-fold, he said.

Priorities are "maintaining a cohesive staff, because patient care must be the number one priority; getting involved in the community; and keeping strong doctor relations, though not in any order," Cunningham said.

He said he is not ready to discuss the hospital's financial situation yet, although he plans to discuss that with department leaders today.

His background is largely financial, Cunningham said. It includes a job as comptroller for a Houston hospital district for several years.

His opinion is that National Healthcare has supported the hospital well, though he knows not everyone agrees, Cunningham said.

"We have problems just like everyone else does," he said. "The fact that they have placed me here, (shows that) they felt this place needed some help. I

Parolee may have committed suicide

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A 27-year-old Glasscock County man on parole for a 1985 shooting death of a man in Midland County may have shot himself Saturday within hours after being released on a bond for drug charges.

Miles Kark Berry, released on a personal recognizance bond by the Howard County Sheriff's Department at 10:30 Saturday morning, was pronounced dead shortly after noon the same day by Glasscock County Judge Wilburn Bednar. A shotgun was found at the residence where he died about 10 miles south of Stanton in Glasscock County, Bednar said.

Though an official ruling in the death has not been made, Glasscock County Sheriff Royce Fruit said it is probably suicide. "We feel like it was, but we'd like to make sure," he said this morning. A ruling may be made today.

Berry and his brother John Kent Berry, 29, were arrested by a Howard County sheriff's deputy at approximately 3 a.m. Saturday

SWCID employee dies of injuries sustained in accident

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

Frank Vasquez, injured Monday while working at SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf, died Wednesday at Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Vasquez, an employee of the Howard County Junior College District, was hospitalized after his body was crushed under a heavy tractor. He had remained in critical condition in the intensive care unit since the accident.

Raymond Hall, director of maintenance at SWCID, said he and other employees were saddened by the news.

"We're all out here very upset about the tragedy," he said. "I just wish we understood more about what happened. I guess we'll never know."

At the time of the accident, Vasquez and another employee had been working in a maintenance building at the college.

It was unclear exactly how the accident occurred because Vasquez was reportedly standing on the ground when he started the machine. He may have thought the tractor was in neutral gear, Hall said.

Both Hall and Terry Hansen, vice president for fiscal affairs, checked the tractor Monday and reported that it was working correctly, including a safety device which prevented the motor from starting unless the clutch was depressed.

Vasquez, a resident of the community since 1953, had recently become a full-time maintenance employee of the district.

Memorial services will be held Friday at 10 a.m. in the Myers & Smith Funeral Home chapel. Burial will be at Trinity Memorial Park.

Hall-Bennett orders a 'feasibility study'

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

A study being conducted now will determine if a fund raising campaign to reopen Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital has a good chance of success, the administrator said Wednesday.

Joe Bowman, newly installed administrator of the clinic, said the board of directors has hired David King of Pittsburgh's Ketchum, Inc. to conduct a "feasibility study."

Though the hospital officially shut down as an acute-care facility in November, two doctors' offices now operate in the building. Bowman took over the top post July 9.

"We hired the professional company to organize the study," Bowman said. "They will gather data which should help us determine if reopening the hospital is a feasible idea."

"We know we need to raise a certain amount of money. We don't know how much it will take yet, but we would like to renovate and reopen."

King, a fund-raising counselor, said the company was conducting more of a "planning study" than an actual "feasibility study."

"It's not a go, no-go situation," he said. "We are trying to see if there is a place for a non-profit locally run hospital or health care facility in some capacity."

Necessary elements for the success of a renovation campaign include support from community leaders, a strong economy and good public perception of the project, King said.

"People have to feel good about the organization and the board of directors," he said. "I interviewed a number of people over several weeks there who could be potential supporters of the project, trying to find out in what range they might be willing to contribute."

Board member Jerry Worthy said the non-profit status of Hall-

Mexican official studies auto theft

CIUDAD JUAREZ, Mexico (AP) — A Mexican federal official is looking into statements made by three men who claim they sold to authorities cars that were stolen in El Paso and Ciudad Juarez.

Mexican Federal District Attorney Daniel Cueto said he's looking into charges that alleged auto thieves procured stolen vehicles for two Mexican customs service officers.

The allegations also include charges that the customs service officers then sold the stolen cars to Federal Judicial Police and Chihuahua State Judicial Police agents in Ciudad Juarez and in Chihuahua City.

But Cueto said Tuesday the inquiry is not a result of public accusations made in June by El Paso police. On June 7, El Paso police accused Mexican authorities of running auto theft rings in El Paso.

So far this year, 3,946 cars have been stolen from El Paso, with 117 stolen last week. Police say most of the stolen cars are driven across the border within minutes and never recovered.

Bertha is dying, Cesar is growing

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Bertha clipped the coast of Newfoundland today and continued to lose strength as Tropical Storm Cesar formed off the coast of Africa and moved westward across the Atlantic Ocean.

Heavy rainfall warnings for Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and eastern New Brunswick were discontinued by the Canadian government as Bertha, once a hurricane, continued to lose its tropical qualities, forecasters said.

"They're really not that concerned up there," said hurricane specialist Max Mayfield at the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables. "They have so many winter storms anyway, they're used to it."

At 6 a.m. EDT, Bertha was centered near latitude 47.8 north, longitude 59.6 west, or very near Port Aux Basques on the southwest tip of Newfoundland, with tropical storm-force winds of at least 39 mph extending outward up to 300 miles, according to the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables.

Bertha, which dropped below hurricane strength late Wednesday, had top winds of about 70 mph and was moving north-northeast at about 23 mph, Mayfield said.

Meanwhile, the Atlantic hurricane season's fourth tropical depression became its third name storm, Cesar. It developed from a tropical wave that formed Wednesday afternoon, Mayfield said.

At 9 a.m. EDT, Cesar was centered near latitude 16.7 north, longitude 35.1 west, or about 625 miles west of the westernmost Cape Verde islands.

Bay fishing ban begins, cleanup continues

By LAURA TOLLEY
Associated Press Writer

GALVESTON — A ban on commercial and private fishing began today in Galveston Bay because state health officials fear a patchy 17-mile oil slick may have harmed marine life.

"It's as much a precautionary measure as anything else," said Neil Travis, chief of the Texas Health Department's consumer health protection bureau in Austin.

Travis said state health officials implemented the ban, which began after midnight, because shrimpers were spotted fishing in oil-tainted areas and because oil was found on some shrimp caught in the bay.

The 500,000-gallon oil spill occurred Saturday when a tanker collided with two barges in the Houston Ship Channel.

"Now, apparently, a vast majority of the bay is impacted (by the oil). It appears that the oil is moving into more areas," Travis said Wednesday. "We felt we had no other choice but to close it."

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is charged with enforcing the ban, which prohibits the taking of any aquatic organisms, including fish, crabs, oysters and shrimp.

Cleanup crews using skimmers and vacuum trucks continued efforts to scoop up the heavy crude, while state officials hoped to dump some 800 pounds of oil-eating microbes on parts of the spill later

GALVESTON — The first fatalities of the three-vessel-collision oil spill in Galveston Bay were found on Pelican Island Tuesday; the two birds pictured are laughing gulls. In the center photo workers try to

today. Texas Gov. Bill Clements also planned to fly over the oil-stricken area today.

Federal officials approved the use of the microbes on some sensitive marshlands and shallow areas that cannot be easily cleaned up by skimmer vessels, said Blanton Moore, a representative of the Texas General Land Office.

Moore said he hoped boats loaded with the microbes would head into the bay this afternoon. "It has no negative effects and can only help the bay," Moore said of the process, called bioremediation.

The naturally occurring microbes reduce the oil to a fatty emulsion that sinks and is eaten by marine life. When the oil is gone, the microbes die.

Earlier this summer, the oil-eaters were used on a small section of the 3.9-million-gallon Mega Borg oil spill. State officials said the microbes gobbled up the oil and caused no harm to the environment.

In addition to the cleanup, Coast Guard Capt. Thomas Greene said salvage crews hoped to partially raise the sunken barge sometime today in an effort to begin moving it out of the channel.

More than 50,000 gallons of oil has been skimmed off the water, but Coast Guard officials were unsure how much remained on the surface. Although the Coast Guard was sticking to the 500,000-gallon spill figure, Greene said Wednesday afternoon that there "was significantly less oil out there right now."

Coast Guard Rear Adm. Jim Loy said that during an aerial flyover of the area Tuesday, he saw about 25,000 gallons of oil on the water. He said he saw about a quarter of that amount.

Oil spill inspires Richards, Williams debate on plans

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

While cleanup workers battle the oil spill in Galveston Bay, the Texas gubernatorial candidates are battling over spill response plans.

Republican Clayton Williams proposed an emergency response program he said would allow quick action when spills threaten the Texas coast and put the governor's office in charge.

"If you can move rapidly, you can make a minimum incident out of a major spill — but you've got to get at it. This is one place that 48 hours makes all the difference in the world," Williams said Wednesday in a phone interview from Channelview. Democrat Ann Richards' campaign said it was about time Williams offered a plan. Her aides noted that Ms. Richards made public her oil spill blueprint last November, calling then for a rapid response team and gubernatorial authority over spill-fighting.

"After the horse has left the barn, he's nailing the door shut. But frankly, we're quite pleased he's copying our proposals. We probably could have Xeroxed them and sent them over to him," said Bill Cryer, Ms. Richards' press secretary.

Ms. Richards on Tuesday had criticized Williams for being tardy in offering a spill plan. She also rapped Republican Gov. Bill Clements for what she called his failure to act in advance of this summer's Mega Borg and Galveston Bay spills.

"Bill Clements has had ample time to put in place a preparedness plan for the coast. He has not done that, and the working people of the Texas Gulf Coast will suffer," she said.

"Clayton Williams has said he is proud to be cut from the same cloth as Bill Clements. Right now, that cloth is soaked with oil and is wearing very thin," she said.

A spokeswoman for Clements, Sheila Allee, said the governor had sought to strengthen the state's spill-fighting capabilities.

After the disastrous Exxon Valdez accident in Alaska in March 1989, Clements appointed an oil spill advisory committee that issued several recommendations last November, she said.

"The state's response plan that we're using at this time is being updated and revised based on these recommendations," Ms. Allee said.

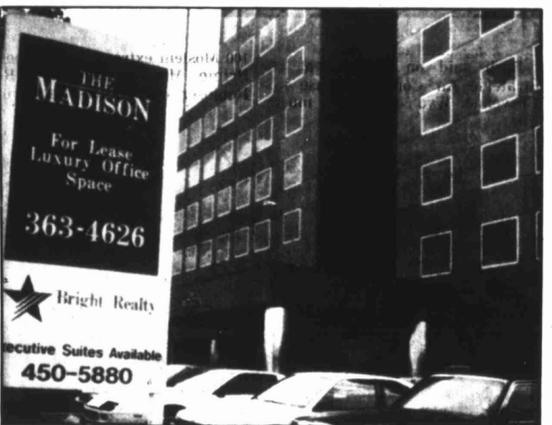

In the plan she offered last fall, Ms. Richards called for a statewide coastal management resource plan to guard against oil spills and the ecological damage they cause.

She also proposed creation of a rapid response team to fight spills; putting additional oil spill containment equipment in Texas; and placing accountability in the governor's office.

Williams' plan Wednesday called for having the state fine polluters twice the cost of cleanup efforts; deploying three to five spill response professionals in each of nine major Texas ports; training a force of volunteers who would be paid when helping clean up spills, and investing $25 million to purchase and maintain oil-fighting equipment in each port.

He also said, "I want the governor to be personally involved and personally accountable. You can't have this passed around between (government) agencies."

ADDISON — The Madison, an Addison office building, will be among the 38 Texas properties the Resolution Trust Corporation plans to auction off in November to raise money for the S&L bailout. None of the properties are located in West Texas.

Feds selling S&L assets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal savings and loan bailout agency wants America to know it's ready to deal.

Under mounting political pressure to speed the pace of the thrift cleanup, the Resolution Trust Corp. announced a "clearance sale" Wednesday, aimed at unloading $50 billion in assets from failed S&Ls.

L. William Seidman, chairman of the agency, called it an ambitious goal that, if met, would "move the process along in a really expeditious way."

But Rep. Bruce Vento, D-Minn., chairman of a House Banking task force on the bailout, said he wasn't impressed by the sales push, given the huge task ahead.

"If you set low expectations, maybe you'll achieve them," Vento said. "It seems to me they're drowning in the job."

However, Seidman said, "The RTC operation is a complicated and difficult job. It has taken us a little time to get organized. We are organized now and we are under way."

In another S&L development, the General Accounting Office, Congress' auditing and investigative agency, told the Senate Banking Committee that it sees "strong indications" the Justice Department is gearing up to go after S&L criminals. However, it said it is too early to determine if the effort will be enough.

What Seidman dubbed "the great fall inventory clearance sale" marks the second phase of his agency's cleanup effort. In the first phase, called "Operation Clean Sweep," the RTC concentrated on selling the failed institutions and their deposits.

Four indicted for hiding defects

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A defense contractor is standing in support of four former employees accused of covering up manufacturing problems.

"We feel that these four people are innocent," said John Kumpf, a spokesman at Dallas-based E-Systems Inc.

The workers, including the plant manager, at E-Systems division in Bushnell were indicted Wednesday on federal charges of falsifying records to hide defects in field radios sold to the U.S. Army.

The four, who had worked at the now-closed Memcor Division, were charged with one count of conspiracy to defraud the United States and five counts of making false claims against the government in the manufacture and supply of the communication radios, according to the indictment from Tampa.

The employees of the defense and electronics manufacturing firm allegedly disregarded requirements that repairs and test failures be reported, switched test records to conceal failures and created documents for untested radios, according to the indictment.

If convicted, each faces up to 30 years in prison and a $3.75 million fine.

Parmer vowing phone cutoff fight

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Hugh Parmer said he'll take Southwestern Bell to court over the company's refusal to collect 900-number phone contributions to his campaign.

Parmer said he would file his legal case this week, after the Public Utility Commission voted along party lines Wednesday not to take immediate action on the issue.

He said his First Amendment rights are being violated. "Ma Bell is attempting to interfere with my ability to communicate with the voters, and more importantly, the voters' ability to use this common carrier to express their political support by making small contributions," he said.

Parmer campaign supporters were supposed to be billed $10 for every call to the 900-number. The money would be used to raise money for Parmer's campaign against incumbent Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

Bell officials said collecting contributions for political campaigns is against their policy.

Bell did bill customers in a fund-raising effort by unsuccessful GOP gubernatorial candidate Kent Hance. But that was inadvertent, said company spokesman Bob Digneo.

Gramm also has used a 900-number for fund-raising, but Bell officials said his long-distance company used a different method to collect.

'Mercy killer' released from prison

LAKE BUTLER, Fla. (AP) — Roswell Gilbert walked out of a Florida prison a free man today after serving 5½ years for the 1985 "mercy killing" of his ailing wife.

The 81-year-old Gilbert, granted clemency by Gov. Bob Martinez and the Florida Cabinet because he suffers from heart and lung disease, was freed from the North Florida Reception Center at Lake Butler shortly after 9 a.m.

Gilbert, who had breakfast earlier at the prison with his daughter, Martha Moran of Baltimore, smiled broadly as he left the jail, but he expressed remorse over the killing of his wife, who suffered from Alzheimer's disease.

"I shouldn't have killed my wife, now I know that," he said. "I know the public at least understood what I did if they didn't approve of it."

He called the slaying an "act of desperation."

Radiation victims to be compensated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Victims of radiation exposure in the nation's western states will be compensated from a $100 million trust fund under legislation approved by the Senate today.

"Those victims, whether a 'downwinder' receiving radiation fallout from nuclear devices detonated in Nevada, or miners digging uranium, will now be eligible for compensation," Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, sponsor of the bill, said today.

In the early morning hours today, the Senate approved the bill by voice vote. The measure now goes to the House where Hatch predicted quick passage.

At a news conference praising passage of the bill, Hatch and Sens. Alan Simpson, D-Wyo., Harry Reid, D-Nev., and Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said the White House has dropped its opposition to the measure.

Simpson, the Republican Whip, also pointed out that it would be difficult for President Bush to veto this type of legislation.

"This is a bill that gallops through the place," Simpson said

President Bush backs orderly force reduction

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, proposing an orderly, long-term reduction in the nation's military arsenal, is backing a 25 percent cut in the armed forces by the mid-1990s, administration and Pentagon sources say.

Bush was slated to make the proposal in a speech today in Aspen, Colo., as his $307 billion defense budget for fiscal 1991 has come under severe attack in Capitol Hill.

"The president will lay out the broad outlines of his new strategy for the nation's defenses and how our military must respond, based on the changes in the world that have occurred," said a senior administration official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

In a speech to the Aspen Institute, Bush planned to offer support for two hotly debated weapons programs — the B-2 stealth bomber and the Strategic Defense Initiative — and support a 25 percent cut in the armed forces by the end of 1995, the source said.

A similar cut in the nation's arsenal of troops and weapons was laid out by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney as an option for budget negotiators in June, but it was derided as "overly cautious" by critics seeking additional budget savings.

Bush planned to make the address after conferring with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in Aspen. It will be the fourth time Bush and Mrs. Thatcher have met in as many months.

Bush's speech comes two days after the House Armed Services Committee cut $24 billion from the $307 billion the president had requested for defense spending in the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The panel voted to halt production of the B-2 bomber and slashed almost $2 billion from Bush's request of $4.7 billion from the anti-missile Strategic Defense Initiative, commonly known as Star Wars. It also cut military personnel by 129,500 and scaled back on two nuclear missile programs.

In June, Cheney said a 25 percent force reduction could save $8.6 billion over five years as the Pentagon retired six active duty Army divisions, 111 Navy ships and 11 Air Force tactical fighter wings, and removed 442,000 men and women from the military's 2.1-million-member active duty ranks.

Appearing Wednesday evening on public television's "MacNeil-Lehrer NewsHour," the defense secretary hinted that even more changes could be in store. He said he had "new base closings" to announce, possibly as early as next week.

But Cheney also complained that while the House wanted him to cut personnel, members were balking at closing unneeded bases.

Bush said on July 20 at a Strategic Air Command base in Cheyenne, Wyo., that, "We must have an orderly build-down, not some kind of a fire sale" in defense.

He indicated then that he could live with the $18 billion that the Senate Armed Services Committee voted to cut from his defense budget, but he implored Congress to "hold the line at (that) already painful reduction."

The senior American official said the president's remarks would follow along the lines of those made by Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Veterans groups sue government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two veterans groups asked a federal court today to force the government to conduct a study mandated by Congress in 1979 on the health effects of Agent Orange on Vietnam veterans and their children.

In a lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court, the American Legion and the Vietnam Veterans of America, along with several veterans and their surviving spouses, say federal scientists canceled the study in 1987 because of White House pressure.

The lawsuit says that without the study, it is impossible to convince the Veterans Affairs

Department to award disability and death payments to thousands of veterans who were exposed to the dioxin-contaminated defoliant.

The herbicide, used to destroy ground cover and crops, has been blamed by veterans groups for a variety of cancers and other ailments, including birth defects in the veterans' offspring.

The Veterans Affairs Department this year decided to award compensation for two of the listed cancers — non-Hodgkin's lymphoma and soft-tissue sarcoma — without acknowledging a direct connection to Agent Orange exposure.

Jurors consider Coe's sentence

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — A man convicted of murder after plunging his 2-year-old stepson into a toilet should be spared the death penalty because he's had a pitiful life, his parents told the jury that's considering his sentence today.

Thomas Coe, 23, was born with painful kidney and hip defects, wore a catheter until he was 5, was hospitalized more than 30 times and walked with a limp, jurors learned Wednesday.

Coe's mother, Mary Coe Anders, said she had to pay other children to play with him.

His father, Don, told jurors he ignored the boy he claimed was the result of an affair the mother had.

The jury, which found Coe guilty of first-degree murder and aggravated child abuse on Monday, can recommend that Circuit Judge Randall McDonald give him death or life in prison without parole for 25 years.

Even in prison, Coe could face an uncertain future.

Lt. Mike Pol, a shift commander at the Polk County Jail, said inmates have threatened to kill Coe ever since his arrest on July 29, 1989. Word of Coe's offense reached the jail as soon as he was booked, and inmates hung upside-down pictures of Coe on the wall, with a toilet underneath.

Coe has been held in an isolation cell for protection and several times has been placed on suicide watch.

Even in isolation, inmates at the jail have managed to put glass and steel wool in Coe's food, Pol said. Once, when Coe was going to see the doctor, inmates threw lye, urine and feces on him. Coe had used urine and feces to punish his stepson, according to trial testimony.

'Twin Peaks' leads Emmy nominations

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — ABC's quirky drama "Twin Peaks," which astounded critics and confounded television viewers, captured a leading 14 nominations today for the 42nd Annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

NBC's legal drama "L.A. Law" earned 13 nominations, and NBC's "Cheers" and CBS's "Murphy Brown" each received 12 nominations.

"The Simpsons," the irreverent animated program from cartoonist Matt Groening, had five nominations. The series got three nominations, including best animated program, and "The Simpsons Christmas Special" received two.

ABC, which finished last among the three networks in nominations last year, tied for first with NBC with 95 nominations. CBS drew 73 selections and the Fox Broadcasting Co. earned 23, up from 12 a year ago.

The selections were announced in a pre-dawn ceremony at the Beverly Hilton Hotel by Dana Delany of ABC's "China Beach" and Louis Gossett Jr., both Emmy winners themselves.

Director David Lynch's "Twin Peaks" was nominated for outstanding drama series and its star Kyle MacLachlan was nominated for best actor in a drama series for his performance as enigmatic, pie-loving FBI agent Dale Cooper.

The series also collected a nomination for lead actress Piper Laurie, two nominations for writing, and one to Lynch for directing the acclaimed pilot episode.

Other nominees for best drama series were ABC's "China Beach," NBC's "L.A. Law" and "Quantum Leap," and ABC's "thirtysomething."

"Cheers," the Boston bar comedy, was nominated again for best comedy series, which it won last year. Also nominated were CBS' "Designing Women," and "Murphy Brown," NBC's "The Golden Girls" and ABC's "The Wonder Years."

ABC's "The Kennedys of Massachusetts," with eight nominations, headed the list of nominees for best miniseries. Other nominees were NBC's "Blind Faith," NBC's "Drug Wars: The Camarena Story," CBS' "Family of Spies" and ABC's "Small Sacrifices."

The CBS movie "Caroline?" drew six nominations, including best drama-comedy special. It will face ABC's "The Final Days," CBS' "The Incident" and "A Killing in a Small Town," and NBC's "Murder in Mississippi."

Despite actress Tracey Ullman's decision to end her inventive Fox variety series, it won a total of 13 nominations. "The Tracey Ullman Show" received nine nominations, and "The Best of the Tracey Ullman Show" was recognized four times.

Other multiple nominees included "thirtysomething" with 11, the syndicated "Star Trek: The Next Generation" with nine and "The Golden Girls" with eight.

"Roseanne," the top-rated but increasingly controversial comedy series, earned just two nominations, including a best comedy actor selection for series co-star John Goodman.

Series star Roseanne Barr was not nominated, but her exclusion had nothing to do with her shrilly mangled rendition of the national anthem at a San Diego Padres baseball game. Emmy balloting closed before her infamous performance.

Bertha downgraded to tropical storm

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — Bertha, downgraded from a hurricane to a tropical storm, continued to lose strength today, a day after its winds and rain broke apart a freighter off the U.S. coast.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said at 6 a.m. EDT today that Bertha was centered near Port Aux Basques on the southwest tip of Newfoundland, with tropical storm-force winds of at least 39 mph.

Bertha dropped below hurricane strength late Wednesday.

The crew of the cargo ship Cor azon, broken by 30-foot waves spawned by Hurricane Bertha abandoned ship in churning, chilly seas, the Coast Guard said today. Six crew members of the freighter drowned after the ship's keel snapped about 350 miles off Cape Cod. Twenty-one others were rescued by commercial ships providing lifeboats and rafts, the Coast Guard said.

Heavy rainfall warnings for Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and eastern New Brunswick were discontinued by the Canadian government.

Israel will respond to Iraqi threats

JERUSALEM (AP) — The defense minister said today that Israel is ready to respond to any armed threat from Iraq, and that Iraq's invasion of Kuwait shows that its president, Saddam Hussein, poses a threat to the entire world.

The minister, Moshe Arens, told NBC television that Saddam's action was reminiscent of Nazi Germany's aggression in the 1930s. Iraq's forces overran its small oil-rich neighbor in a lightning strike before dawn today.

"Iraq will be looking around for other targets," Arens said, adding that Saddam "represents a threat to the entire world, not just Israel."

He told ABC television in a separate interview that Israel would step in "only if Iraq takes aggressive action against Israel."

But an Israeli government official who briefed reporters on the basis of anonymity said Iraq was aware there were "red lines" that could not be crossed without bringing an Israeli response.

Asked if that included Iraqi entry into Jordan or Syria, the official said such a move would require "very strong consideration" by Israel.

Peace Corps volunteer released

BAOLOD, Philippines (AP) — Communist rebels released an American Peace Corps volunteer today after holding him for 50 days on the central Philippine island of Negros, a provincial governor said.

Earlier in the day, the New People's Army freed a Japanese aid worker who had been held since May 29.

Timothy Swanson, 26, of Cheyenne, Wyo., was handed over to a Red Cross team in a rural area more than 25 miles east of Bacolod, said Daniel Lacson, governor of Negros Occidental province.

The Red Cross was to turn Swanson over to a "freedom committee" of local lawyers, officials and clerics who negotiated his release.

Lacson said he had been notified of Swanson's release by radio. A large group of journalists accompanied the committee to the release point, but were unable to report back because of primitive communications.

In Manila, the U.S. Ambassador Nicholas Platt said he welcomed Swanson's release and thanked efforts of Lacson and others who helped negotiate the volunteer's release. "The Embassy is relieved that he is safe, unharmed, and apparently in good health," the embassy said in a statement.

Trinidad officials to press charges

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Officials say they will press charges against more than 100 Moslem extremists who took Prime Minister Arthur N.R. Robinson and 54 others hostage in a failed attempt to topple the government.

Abu Bakr and his rebels surrendered and freed their remaining 46 hostages on Wednesday, ending a crisis that began five days earlier with the armed seizure of Parliament and the government's television station.

The capital was quiet this morning. Security forces searched for explosives that might have been left behind by the rebels. People remained indoors, under a 6 p.m. to noon curfew that remained in effect.

Will Castro's regime be next?

Will Fidel Castro be the next communist leader to be swamped by the global tide of democracy and free-market economic policies?

Once the model of communist revolutionaries worldwide, Castro now finds himself a man without an ideological constituency. He is regarded as an irritant by many long-suffering Cubans, as an anachronism by the reform governments of Eastern Europe, as a financial liability by the Kremlin and as an embarrassment by his one-time defenders in Capitol Hill. Earlier Castro lost his last friend in the Senate when Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., denounced the tyrant and called for tighter U.S. economic sanctions against Cuba.

Within the next few months, Mikhail Gorbachev is expected to slash Soviet economic aid to Cuba by one-half. Such a steep cut would have a devastating effect on Cuba's economy, which is anemic even by communist standards.

At present, the Soviet Union is pouring $5.5 billion a year — $15 million a day — into Cuba. Yet there still are chronic shortages of consumer goods, stirring increasing dissent among an already restive population.

Rationing is commonplace. For instance, Cubans are limited to one pound of chicken every nine days; 10 ounces of beans, a Cuban staple, are available once a month. Bread, flour, fish, razor blades and televisions are in short supply as well. And three decades of communist economic mismanagement have made Cuba one of the few tropical countries in the world where fruits and vegetables are difficult to find. Sugar, Cuba's only significant cash crop, continues to be a loser in international markets.

Desperately lacking in hard currency, Havana has suspended payments on its $7 billion foreign debt; its foreign reserves have dwindled to $40 million. This has discouraged most noncommunist countries from trading with Cuba.

And with the advent of market economies in Eastern Europe, Castro's reactionary Marxist government is finding it difficult to unload products on this traditional market or to get credits there. Moscow now is demanding hard currency for the oil and machinery that Havana has been getting at cut rates. This is critical because Cuba currently relies on the East bloc for approximately 90 percent of its heavily subsidized imports.

Meanwhile, Castro's isolation continues in this hemisphere. His efforts to elicit an invitation to rejoin the Organization of American States have been greeted with a resounding silence by most Latin governments. Costa Rican President Oscar Arias has aptly labeled Castro "a Caribbean Kim Il-Sung," a reference to North Korea's aging communist dictator.

In addition, Nicaragua is no longer a friendly base of support in the region. The democratically elected government of Violeta Chamorro has expelled Castro's military advisers and intelligence agents. And now that former Panamanian strongman Gen. Manuel Noriega is in U.S. custody, Castro has lost his last supporter in Central America.

Castro's irrelevance as the dictator of a decaying island becomes more apparent with every passing month. If the Soviet Union cuts off his allowance, it may be only a matter of time before Castro's growing problems catch up with him.

Governors oppose GOP tax plan

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — It used to be an article of Republican faith: the more taxing and spending that can be shifted out of Washington to local and state governments, the better.

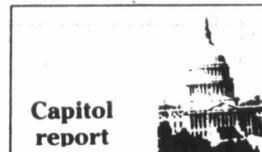

That tenet now seems subject to revision to fit the federal deficit crunch. As governors and local officials see it, the new version shifts spending all right, but then proposes tax changes that would undercut their ability to raise their own revenues.

At the long, lagging negotiations on an elusive deal to trim the $169 projected budget deficit, Republicans produced a plan that included a new ceiling on federal tax deductions for state and local income taxes. It also would sharply increase the federal tax on beer and wine, as part of a package of $54 billion in spending cuts and revenue increases.

The federal tax deduction for state income taxes would be limited to $10,000 a year, and most of the estimated $3 billion it would produce would come from taxpayers making $100,000 a year or more.

So some congressional Republicans said the plan the administration floated — but never really disclosed — should satisfy Democrats who insist that upper income Americans pay most of the tax cost of deficit control.

It didn't. And it ran head-on into the opposition of governors of both political parties, in Mobile, Ala., for their annual conference, which ended Tuesday after raising the volume of their usually scattered protests.

The governors already are facing tax woes of their own; 36 states are electing governors this year and where incumbents are in jeopardy, it's usually over increased taxes.

State taxes generally have increased during the past decade, under a conservative Republican administration that has trimmed federal aid. That worked in boom times, but it is a worsening problem in a slowing economy.

Democratic governors circulated a letter demanding that President Bush drop the tax idea. They said it would impose a double tax in the states that have done the most to deal with their own financial problems, and would make it tougher for the states to increase their own revenues.

There are income taxes in 44 states, and local income taxes are levied in 11 of them.

Along with the impact, governors feared the precedent.

Gov. Carroll A. Campbell Jr. of South Carolina, a Republican usually allied with the administration, said the idea of a deduction limit was ominous.

Once that ceiling was in place, lowering it would be a tempting way to come up with future federal tax increases. About one-third of all the itemized deductions on federal tax returns are for state and local income taxes.

Deductions for state sales taxes were phased out as part of the 1986 tax overhaul.

Bush has not acknowledged administration authorship of the tax plan; the refrain at the White House is that everything is still on the table. That's what John H. Sununu, the chief of staff, told the governors on Sunday. He also said the proposal wasn't what the president would prefer.

But it was put together by Bush's budget director, and it appears that the president would prefer it to a straight increase in the federal income tax rate for the wealthiest taxpayers. Under current law, middle and upper income taxpayers pay 33 percent; on family incomes over about $186,000, the rate dips back to 28 percent.

Despite that White House wariness, Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole, said, "We've laid out a specific plan and we're still waiting to hear from the Democrats."

But the Democrats were in no hurry to talk taxes. They always wanted the Republicans to go first.

And congressional Republicans, looking toward the Nov. 6 elections, complained they were taking a beating.

Love is grand — at least sometimes

By TIM APPEL
Staff Writer

It was on a warm March weekend that I wed my beautiful bride. After a couple years of courtship, it had all boiled down to this day. I in my suit and she in her flowing white wedding dress finally stood to exchange our matrimonial vows.

And when it was time to kiss the bride, I slowly lifted the veil from her face and looked into her eyes. Yes, this was the woman I had proposed to, and not Christie Brinkley.

Bummer.

There is a long-standing tradition that the groom is not supposed to see the bride on the day of the wedding until the ceremony, else bad luck will befall the couple. I know of two chaps that just blew that theory out of the water with a 12-gauge shotgun.

This is for the "Believe It, Or Ram A 10-Penny Nail Into Your Skull" Department.

From the Times of India in New Delhi comes a bizarre story of two Hindu brides, with their veils obstructed by their long veils, marrying the wrong men.

Somehow, the mixup occurred when both wedding parties, arriving at the same time at the same place, rushed through the ceremonies. And with their veils in place, the brides were not able to pick out their true fiancés and visa versa.

But, the real kicker of the story is yet to come. As part of the ceremony, the brides sealed the marriage by completing "the seven steps." Afterwards, the brides lifted their veils to discover they had married the wrong men.

Couldn't they just annul and start over again, hopefully with the right grooms?

Village elders said that once "the seven perambulations around the sacred fire" were done, there could be no exchange of spouses. Unfortunately, this small story lacked several details, therefore many questions arise.

Such as, what were the initial reactions to those involved? What do the couples do next to regain their true loves?

Were they happier with their new spouses than with their old fiancés?

And what of the honeymoon plans?

A scenario for all you hotel managers out there. Say you manage the local Holiday Inn of Jamkhandi in the Karnataka province. In the two honeymoon suites, there are reservations for a John and Jane Smith and a Bill and Betty Doe. On the day they arrive, it is now John and Betty Smith and Bill and Jane Doe.

Do you still honor their reservations? Food for thought.

Since the beginning of this century, the time period from courtship to marriage has steadily decreased. The dating period often lasted years before walking down the aisle.

But with the world moving at an ever-faster pace, so has our time in getting to know our prospective spouses. It is not uncommon nowadays for couples to date only a few weeks before tying the knot.

And by the beginning of the next century — I can see it all now.

Modern marriages will be much like our fast-food restaurants. Quick, assembly line-like and you're never quite sure of what you're going to get.

On any given day in Anytown, U.S.A., someone will wake up and decide that they wish to get married that day. And after putting on their best clothes, they march down to the county courthouse where the process will take place.

At one end of the courthouse, all the men will line up, and at the other end of the courthouse, the women get in line. Slowly, one by one, a man and woman are brought together, each blindfolded so as not to see what the other looks like.

After the vows are exchanged, it is time to remove the blindfolds, with the newspaper photographer there to capture that priceless moment on film.

For some of the grooms, they uncover their eyes to reveal a Madonna; for others, it is a Roseanne Barr. But for you Roseanne Barrs out there, don't think you'll always get the captain of the football team; more often than not, it will be some short nerd who could never get a date and hung around the physics lab in high school.

And with the high divorce rate in today's society, could it be any worse?

Yes, here was the woman that I had pledged my life to. That was over six years ago, and she is still as lovely as the day that I first met her. I think I'll keep her for awhile.

Besides, Christie Brinkley probably has big feet.

Teaching Soviets about free elections

By ART BUCHWALD

It isn't easy being a Soviet politician anymore. In the old days you worked your way up through the Communist Party, got elected to office, and before you knew it you were in fat city in Lenin Square.

But now that a multiparty system seems to be replacing communism, those who devoted themselves to the hammer and sickle are faced with opposition from the likes of Boris Yeltsin and his left-wing counter-revolutionary friends.

To prepare for the future, the Communist Party has hired an American political consultant to advise them on how to win a democratic election in the Soviet Union.

The party die-hards gathered at the dacha of First Communist Secretary Vladimir Bulksky for a weekend retreat. The U.S. consultant, Richard Thompson, addressed the group. "I've taken a survey of Soviet voters, and 85 percent say they do not understand the difference between the radicals, the progressives and the conservatives. Your job is to help them stay confused."

"Which ones are we?" Chicken Kiev wanted to know.

"You are the party of the Supreme little guy," replied Thompson. "You have to get your story over to the voter that the opposition are a bunch of nerds without any respect for God and Gorbachev."

"God and Gorbachev?" Rude Shlepper said. "The Communist Party doesn't believe in God."

Thompson explained, "Not until now. You have to steal God as a symbol before one of the other parties in the Soviet Union does. Now, among the most important things a political party does is perform dirty tricks. This is where you can learn from American politics. You must accuse the other side of things they wouldn't dream of doing. Who is your most famous prisoner?"

"Kalangin the Degenerate. He was arrested for opening his own discount shopping mall in Yalta last year and putting the Steel Workers Cooperative Bazaar out of business."

"Good. Now your Communist Party candidate must announce that the opposition candidate gave Kalangin the Degenerate a weekend furlough at which time he raped three women and opened two more malls and a five-star Laundromat."

"Will it be true?" Chicken Kiev asked.

Thompson admitted, "It doesn't matter if it's true or not. In America, political parties deny everything, at least until the election is over."

Boris Borscht said, "With the help of the KGB, our politics used to be so much cleaner."

"The reason for that," Thompson explained, "is that you only had one party. Now that you have several, you can no longer be Mr. Good Comrade."

"It's true," agreed Ivan. "We were the good guys. That's the main advantage of having only one party — you don't have to resort to dirty tricks to win. People voted for you either because they believed in what you stood for or they were afraid of being sent to Siberia. Now we have to get our hands dirty and cheat and lie and steal, which no Communist likes to do."

Thompson went on, "This is the part you're not going to like. In a multiparty system of government, you must raise money. If you don't have a war chest, you're dead Reds."

"How do we raise money?" Boris asked.

"You tell everyone that if they donate to the PAC Communist Party campaign they will receive favors that no other government official will give them, including complete deregulation of the savings and loan industry."

"That's bribery," protested Chicken Kiev.

Thompson replied, "No, it isn't. In a democratic society we have many private special interest groups, and if they couldn't give money to their political parties, all the crooks would take over."

Coahoma Correspondent

Thirteen members of the Coahoma High School band recently attended band camp at Angelo State University.

Band members attending were: Drum majors — Stephanie Mauch and Cody Wells; flag corps — Jennifer Cooper, Gloria Moron, Crystela Armendarez, Melissa Rodriguez and Joni Rodriguez; twirlers — Sherri Cox, Jamie Wright and Denise Bennett; and concert band — Belinda Kelley, Missy Burden and Michael Lopez.

While at camp, all groups entered competition and the members of the flag corps won second place. There were approximately 20 groups in flag corps competition from class 1A to class 5A schools. Gloria Moron received two ribbons and a plaque for outstanding beginner; Jennifer Cooper received a ribbon for outstanding intermediate.

Band camp for freshmen only will be conducted today and Friday from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. at the high school band hall. Full band rehearsal will begin Monday at 5 p.m. All students are urged to attend. Mike Porras, band director, suggests students wear comfortable clothing. For additional information, please call 394-4367 or 394-4762.

Classes reunite

The first reunion of the Coahoma classes of 1950 and '51 had begun early Wednesday night when Ed and Mamie Robertson, former coach and music teacher arrived from Fontana, Calif. Several members of the reunion committee and one former classmate, Doris Morrison Smolko, met the Robertsons at Denny's for dinner and an evening of reminiscing. The group met at The Days Inn the next day to finalize plans for the weekend reunion and Ed and Mamie Robertson, Patsy Harris Self, Earlene Bond Jones, Lee York Milliken, Wanda Brannon Wolf, Roselle Appleton Coates, Wendell Shive, and Doris Smolko met for a luncheon at Days Inn. Several out-of-town guests had reservations at the Days Inn, and the marquee proclaimed "Welcome Coahoma Exes, 1950, '51. The motel honored former teachers staying at the Inn with bouquets of flowers in the rooms."

Thursday night the group met at the Spanish Inn for dinner and they were joined by former band director Pat Hogan and his wife Mildred from Fort Worth, former school secretary, Gene Rowe and A.W. Rowe from Colorado City, former high school principal and 1950 class sponsor, W.A. Wilson, and former home economics teacher, Nancy Annens and her husband, John, from Big Spring, and former class members Bob and Ruth Cathey, and Clovis and Janie Phinney from Coahoma.

Friday night the two classes and former faculty members met the Golden Corral for dinner and visiting. Attending the dinner were, Ed and Mamie Robertson, Wendell and Helen Shive, Bill and Lee Milliken, J.C. and Patsy Self, Roselle Coates, Doris Smolko, W.A. Wilson, John and Nancy Annens, Earlene Jones, Bob and Ruth Coates, Clovis and Janie Phinney, Wanda Wolf, Travis and Mildred Jenkins, Joyce Bell Hancock and Max Hancock, Dale and Cullene Parmer, Cullen Cranfill, Max and Verna Thomas, Ruth Beckman Nanny, Margaret Stamps Ogden, Markay Brooks Brashears, Nellie Moorehead Kerby, Rodney Cramer, Johnson B. and Martha Denton Hall, Tommy and Mary Vick, Maurice and Elna Duncan, Jean Duncan Fields, Richard and Frances Bartlett, Paul and Charlotte Sheedy, Jane Barbee, Dan and Faye Bennett Tarbet, Edgar and Margaret Ray, Fred and Wanda Shive Willis, and Bonnie Lindley. After dinner, the group met at the Days Inn Patio Room to visit, look at old annuals and pictures. Master of Ceremonies Wendell Shive presented a program on Saturday morning during the community coffee and presented certificates of appreciation to the reunion committee and former faculty members Wann Cramer and Eleanor Garrett. Rozelle Coates read a memorial tribute honoring deceased classmates Thomas White, Billy Jack Johnston, Randall Thomason, Jackie Wolf and Jo Nell Tindol.

Prizes were awarded to Max Thomas, Saudia Arabia, traveling the greatest distance, Bob and Ruth Cathy, married the longest, Margaret Odgen, the oldest child, Freddy Tankersley, the most children, Ivan Conner, the baldest, Mitchell Millburn Hoover, changing the most, Edwin Dickson, changing the least, Mitchell Hoover, youngest child, and Freddy Tankersley, most grandchildren.

Parents who attended the Saturday coffee included Buster Bond, Juanita Walker, Aurelia Sheedy, Almada Shive, Zella Lindley, and Swann Cramer. Other guests included Zina Wood, Nita Thomason, Jackie and Dean Wolf and Weylin and Lorin Wolf.

Residents attend training school

Volunteer Fire Department members from the area who attended the Texas Firemen Training School held July 23-27 at Texas A&M in College Station included Robert and Wanda Turner, Coahoma; and C. Roy and Jon Todd Wright, Sand Springs. C. Roy, Howard County fire chief, was an instructor in nozzle operations. Wanda attended fire prevention courses, and Robert attended rescue courses. Approximately 3,000 firefighters attended the classes held daily from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. All the instructors were volunteers who taught courses in all phases of firefighting, including hazardous material containment and cleanup.

Bride-elect feted at shower

A bridal shower honoring Larenda O'Brien, bride-elect of Dewayne Woodall, was hosted Tuesday at Highland Lanes.

Larenda was presented with a white and black corsage. The table, decorated in black and white, featured cake, punch, sandwiches and a vegetable tray.

Guests of honor were Durinda O'Brien, mother of the bride-elect, and Marilyn Woodall, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

The couple will wed Sept. 23 at New Life Chapel.

Don't leave children alone

DEAR ABBY: I have read your column faithfully for years and have learned a lot from it. After reading today's paper, I just had to write. I have attached an article from this morning's newspaper telling about parents who left their 2-month-old baby asleep in the backseat of their unlocked car at 8 p.m. while they shopped at a mall. They returned half an hour later to find their baby missing. The parents are offering $500 and the local radio station a $10,000 reward for information leading to the safe return of the baby.

Abby, I have stood beside cars watching unattended children until their parents returned. I would never forgive myself if I had left and something happened to those children.

Please print this message for parents: You have an obligation to protect your children from harm — and you have no right to leave them alone for 10 minutes or 10 seconds! If you have shopping to do, take the child with you — or one day you may not have that option. — TARA MATTHEWS, SOUTH ORANGE, N.J.

DEAR LOVES CHILDREN: Thanks for caring enough to write. Your message might remind some parents to think twice before leaving their child unattended in a parked car for "only a few minutes."

DEAR ABBY: I can top Mrs. M.M. Kelly, whose husband was born in 1910 at the St. Francis de Sales Hospital in Smith Falls, Ontario, Canada. The total bill was $16.75. (They gave her a 75-cent discount for cash.)

Well, I was born Dec. 6, 1968 at the U.S. Naval Hospital in Quantico, Va. (My father was in the U.S. Marine Corps at the time.)

My mother's bill was $7! I'm told that this was to cover the cost of meals while she was in the hospital — a total of five days. I am enclosing a copy of the receipt. — TARA MATTHEWS, SOUTH ORANGE, N.J.

DEAR TARA: Thus far, you're the winner. If anyone out there can top you, I'm sure we'll hear.

Readers can write to Abby at P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Big fruit

Carroll Brown poses with his 19 1/2 pound cantelope. Brown grows the fruit in eight 150-foot long rows at his home just off the Snyder Highway. He said he gives away an average of 10 cantelopes every day, all of them over-sized. Although grasshoppers destroyed his other crops, Brown surmised that the little pests arrived too late to eat his giant melons.

As people vary, so does an individual's weight loss.

For the first time in my life I was able to maintain my weight loss. I couldn't have done it without Nutri/System. In fact, without them I couldn't have lost weight at all. They showed me why I had trouble in the past. Social situations always upset me — as soon as I was under pressure, I binged. Once I understood the problem, I was able to lose weight easily. And I've kept it off for 6 months now. Now I'm confident and comfortable around people. I go out all the time. I'm a regular social butterfly!

Swayze stars in ghostly tear-jerker

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Patrick Swayze won the Elvis Presley memorial prize in 1987 for his hip-grating performance in "Dirty Dancing." The movie was a huge box-office success and turned Swayze into a sex toy for teen film fans, but his career skidded downhill with a string of third-rate movies.

Now comes a surprisingly tender murder mystery-love story from Jerry Zucker, a member of "ZAZ" (David Zucker-Jim Abrahams-Jerry Zucker), the team that launched the comedies "Airplane!," "Ruthless People" and "The Naked Gun: From the Files of Police Squad!"

Both Swayze and Paramount Pictures hope to lure away summer audiences from the non-stop thrills and violence of "Die Hard 2," "Total Recall" and "Robocop II" for the romance and supernatural bite of "Ghost." It's a double-hanky tearjerker, with the Righteous Brothers crooning "Unchained Melody" just to make sure those eyes stay wet. To relieve the heartache, there's comic relief from Whoopi Goldberg, who plays a charlatan psychic, special effects from Industrial Light & Magic and some heavy-duty violence.

Sam Wheat (Swayze) has it all: a beautiful and loving fiancée, Molly (Demi Moore), a great job as a corporate banker and a new loft in one of Manhattan's hottest areas, Tribeca. Then he's killed by a mugger. Or, was it murder?

His spirit leaves his body and stays earthbound. He sees his corpse in the hospital, attends his own funeral, shares Molly's grief and soon learns that his best friend, Carl (Tony Goldwyn), has betrayed him and is responsible for his death. He also learns that Molly's life is in danger, and he must find a way to warn her.

While following Willie Lopez (Rick Aviles), the punk who killed him, he stumbles upon Oda Mae Brown (Goldberg), whose spirit world is as phony as a $3 bill. As it turns out, Oda Mae really does have "the gift" and is the only person who can hear Sam.

She's properly spooked by the discovery and wants no part of his story or problem, but he persuades her to deliver a message to Molly that Lopez has the keys to their loft and might try to harm her.

Molly refuses to believe Oda Mae until the psychic reveals intimate details of her life with Sam, things only Sam would truly know. Molly listens, goes to the police (who don't listen) and also tells Carl (who does listen).

Swayze is adorable in the light moments — and there are many in his ghostly guise, but tries too hard otherwise. His face contorts into awkward and pained expressions when he emotes the intensity of love and fear.

Moore has little to do except cry. However, she is convincing and sweet as the lover who loses the most important person in her life. There is one quasi-erotic moment between the two over a potter's wheel and a phallic-shaped vase, but the real chemistry is in their deep friendship.

The be-wigged Goldberg does her slick and funny usual but without an overabundance of foul language. Her ghostly repartee with Swayze is delicious.

"Ghost" is a Howard W. Koch production, produced by Lisa Weinstein with Steven-Charles Jaffe as executive producer. It is rated PG-13 for some adult situations, violence and language.

Actor Patrick Swayze, shown on the balcony of a New York hotel, stars as the spirit hero of "Ghost." He comes back after death to tell his wife, played by Demi Moore, that his death was not an accident. Reviews call the movie "interesting," "a tear-jerker" and "entertaining." It is currently showing in Big Spring.

Real 'spider man' knows his bugs

NEW YORK (AP) — Steven Kutcher has had a bug-eyed fascination with creepy, crawly critters ever since he captured his first firefly when he was 4.

Since then, he has mixed his serious study of bugs with Hollywood make-believe, cashing in on science to become a behind-the-scenes star in fright movies such as the spidery "Arachnophobia."

"I know there will be people who can't sleep at night and there will be more calls to exterminators because of this movie," Kutcher said in a recent interview. "My hope is that people will be more educated about spiders than they were before."

In the real world, Kutcher is an entomologist. In the entertainment world, he is a bug wrangler and Hollywood's best known insect expert. His ultimate goal is to lecture school kids and write books about bug behavior. But he allowed: "You don't get the money you do when you frighten the wits out of people."

Hollywood hyped the anxiety by giving unreal powers to spiders in "Arachnophobia," such as a poisonous bite that kills in seconds. The eight-legged creatures that did all the killing are harmless delena spiders from New Zealand, and Kutcher had one crawl on his face to show how benign it is.

"A spider projects an image of being very dangerous," he said. "But is something that small going to eat you? If you educate yourself, you can overcome this fear."

Spiders have their good points. They eat roaches and other household bugs.

They are relatively safe, even the doubled-fanged, gargantuan tarantulas that were used in Entomologist Steven Kutcher poses with one of his beloved eight-legged creatures. He is reportedly the behind-the-scenes star of "Arachnophobia" after handling the spiders needed for filming. The movie is now showing in Big Spring.

"Arachnophobia." The zebra-striped tarantulas are as large as an extended hand. They can barely be felt when their hairy legs crawl on your skin, and they throw off little hairs that feel like fiberglass.

Kutcher has been making movies with bugs for 14 years. He directed 6,000 beetles in "Prince of Darkness," placed 3,000 grasshoppers on the faces of Richard Burton and Linda Blair in "The Exorcist II: The Heretic" and put a disarmed wasp on Farah Fawcett's thigh in "Extremities."

He even gets into the act himself. Last year he sat in a bathtub with 100,000 meal worms for David Letterman.

How does one train a spider? Very carefully, said Kutcher.

"What a life," Kutcher said, marveling at his career. "Look at all the things that have happened to me because I like spiders."

Old Settlers Reunion scheduled for Friday

By R.E. ARCHIBALD
For the Herald

The 67th annual Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion will begin at 9 a.m. Friday in the Howard County Fair Barn. The celebration, which will honor the area's first settlers, will include games, a barbecue, awards, a fiddlers contest, a special display by the Heritage Museum, and a dance.

Registration for the day-long event will begin at 9 a.m. with a brief introduction and explanation of scheduled activities at 10 a.m. Following the opening remarks, participants will be able to choose between bingo and domino games. Prizes will be awarded to bingo winners, in addition to the door prizes that will be given away throughout the day.

Angie Way, curator of the Heritage Museum, will be unveiling an exhibit commemorating Howard County's early settlers and transportation during the reunion. The panels will highlight special moments in the local history.

Pat Porter, local interpreter and story-teller, will serve as master of ceremonies beginning at 11:50 a.m. Dr. Kenneth G. Patrick of the First Baptist Church will follow with an invocation at noon.

A barbecue will be served beginning at noon. The menu includes brisket, cabrito, sausage, all the trimmings, refreshments and ice cream. Cost for the meal is $4 per person, with those over 65 being served free of charge. Special tables will be set aside for the older participants, with their meals being delivered. Music during the lunch hour will be provided by several local talents and tickets will be available at the door.

At 1:15 p.m. special recognition will be provided for couple married the longest to the same spouse, individual coming the farthest to the reunion, eldest lady and man, attendee with the most children, as well as the most authentically dressed lady and gentleman.

Max Green, mayor of Big Spring, will host and emcee the Old Fiddlers contest set to begin at 1:30 p.m. In order to compete for the $300 in cash prizes, contestants must be 45 and older. A special $35 cash prize will be presented to the oldest fiddler.

A recess will follow the fiddlers contest at approximately 3 p.m. Festivities will resume at 8 p.m.

with a dance in the Fair Barn. Music will be provided by Ben Nix and the Boys. Admission to the dance is free, with donations being accepted by the host committee. During the four hours of entertainment, awards will be presented to the top three Sweetest Dance Couples.

The day-long event will wind down at midnight with closing remarks. Individuals and merchants wishing to donate to this special tribute to the founding fathers are asked to mail their donations to: Old Settlers Reunion Committee, 1205 11th Place, Big Spring, TX 79720.

CrimeStoppers

Sometime since July 23, a farm located south of Big Spring was broken into and five saddles and some copper wire was taken, according to the Howard County Sheriff's Department.

Anyone having knowledge of this burglary should contact Crime Stoppers at 264-8477 or the sheriff's office at 263-7654. Callers may remain anonymous.

Information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of the person or persons responsible for the burglary could be worth up to $1,000 in reward money.

Police beat

A 32-year-old Big Spring man is listed in stable condition this morning at Scenic Mountain Medical Center after being shot late Wednesday, according to a nursing supervisor.

Lara Ramiro was shot in the left forearm sometime between 11 p.m. and midnight in the 300 block of Owens Street, Sgt. John Luebner said.

Details are sketchy because police were unable to interview Ramiro last night, however, the investigation is continuing, Luebner said.

Police interviewed another shooting victim, Tony Vega, 24, at the hospital Wednesday, but Luebner said he could not comment about developments in that investigation.

Vega, 405 S. Burton St., suffered a gunshot wound to the abdomen early Sunday in the 600 block of East Fifth St. He is listed in stable condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center, the nursing supervisor said.

Big Spring police also investigated the following incidents:

- Isabel G. Lomas, 33, 806 N. Goliad, was arrested on charges of no drivers license, resisting arrest; driving while intoxicated; no insurance; and fleeing to elude.
- A man who resides in the 1100 block of North Goliad reported a person he knows assaulted him.

demanding immediate withdrawal of Iraqi troops.

A Pentagon source said a naval battle group was diverted toward the region.

President Bush signed an order freezing control of Iraqi assets in the United States and blocking most Iraqi imports, including oil. Oil accounts for 97 percent of Iraqi imports into the United States.

Bush said the United States, which has six warships in the Persian Gulf, would "take whatever steps necessary" to defend interests there. Asked if this included military force, Bush said: "We're not discussing intervention." But he said he would not discuss military options publicly.

It was the first time in modern history an Arab nation had invaded another and taken over its government.

Kuwait's army was no match for Iraq, battle-hardened after eight years of war with Iran. Iraq has emerged as the Arab world's strongest and most militant military power, and Saddam has a vast arsenal of chemical and conventional weapons.

The other Persian Gulf states are politically conservative and have long opposed the use of military force to settle disputes among Arab states.

Diplomats said about 350 Iraqi tanks wheeled into the capital a few hours after crossing the border 40 miles away at dawn. Witnesses said the bombardment of ports and military airports by artillery and the air force was vicious.

Study

Bennett should contribute to its success if it were able to reopen.

"Certainly a non-profit facility can make it (succeed financially) easier than one whose surplus is siphoned off as profit," Worthy said. "Especially to an out-of-town owner."

The board has considered several different plans and remains flexible, he said. The facility could be used in a number of ways, depending on what is most needed in the community, Worthy said.

"A slow build-up is a possibility," he said. "This is still a popular hospital. It's been here since 1929 and I believe many people would support it."

There are many people going out of town (for medical treatment) and the town is losing money as a result, I believe there's a basic need for a second medical service facility. Also, nobody wants another vacant building. There's a very clear chance we will return to being an active medical facility."

Worthy is one of a new board of directors appointed Friday, March 9, the eve of a final closing date designated by the previous board.

Worthy said he could not yet predict the amount of community support the proposed renovation would have.

"Well, about 3500 people signed the petition (to keep the hospital operating)," he said. The petition he referred to was circulated by former administrative assistant Cheryl New. She no longer works at the clinic.

Bowman said "her work was very instrumental" in starting the campaign to renovate the facility.

Results of the study should be available within two weeks.

"Hopefully by that time we'll have some good information to report," Bowman said.

The study is not guaranteed to draw positive recommendations, and Worthy said the board will be willing to accept that.

"Of course we don't plan a 'big, fine medical center,'" he said. "We just want to continue a caring tradition that was started by this hospital a long time ago."

and charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia, according to a sheriff's report. Arresting Deputy Woodie Howell seized an unknown amount of a white powdery substance in a clear plastic bag and a hyperdermic syringe.

Miles was additionally charged with resisting arrest and criminal mischief for damaging a television set in a jail cell he was held in, the report said. The 1989 Ford pickup they were in was originally stopped at the 2900 block of west Highway 80 because of an expired license plate.

Berry was paroled from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice on March 29, 1988, after serving 16 months on a four year sentence for voluntary manslaughter, said a spokesperson with the parole division in Huntsville. His sentence would have expired Dec. 3 of this year.

Berry was originally charged with murder but convicted on voluntary manslaughter in the November, 1985, death of Robert Ray Kittle, 53, said Midland County Sheriff's Lieutenant Tim Rogers. "What it amounted to is, he killed a drifter. He shot him about three times I believe," said Rogers, the principal investigator in the case.

Witnesses last saw the two men riding in Berry's 1983 Datsun in northwest Midland County on the night before Kittle's body was found Nov. 19 in the same area, Rogers said. A guitar belonging to Kittle and a .22 rifle which killed him were found at Berry's residences on Nov. 21. "He had a guitar that he played in bars for drinks," Rogers said.

Berry claimed the shooting was in self defense, Rogers said. "I was able to prove it wasn't self defense based on ballistics and a number of things."

The invaders surrounded the palace of Kuwait's ruler, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, the government official and area residents said. Residents said the palace was seized after about two hours of heavy artillery barrages.

There were about 50 tanks around the emir's palace and the neighboring American Embassy, they said.

The Al-Sabah family family has ruled the city-state for almost 250 years. Diplomatic sources in neighboring Saudi Arabia said the emir and the crown prince and prime minister, Sheik Saad al-Abdullah al-Sabah, flew there today.

The Iraqi forces were led by the elite Republican Guard, which did the brunt of fighting in the Iran-Iraq war. Troops set up roadblocks at major intersections and shot at cars that did not stop.

Baghdad television issued communiques it said were from an interim government. One communique said the new government was in "full control of Kuwait City." Others said Kuwait's land and sea borders were closed. They also asked Iraq to maintain security.

The air space over Kuwait was closed.

The television statement said Iraq would withdraw its forces within days or weeks depending on how fast the situation stabilized.

Gulf-based Western diplomats said the invasion was too swift to arrange for the evacuation of nationals, and foreigners were asked to keep a low profile.

There are about 4,000 Americans among the large expatriate community in Kuwait, where more than 60 percent of the 1.8 million residents are foreigners. Half the population was estimated to be outside the country for summer holidays.

U.S. officials monitoring the situation had no reports of harm to U.S. citizens in Iraq, White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said.

The British Embassy was hit by shell-fire and the Sheraton and Hilton hotels evacuated their clientele, the diplomats said.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, traveling in Mongolia, said he asked Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze to immediately halt Soviet arms deliveries to Iraq. The Soviet Union denounced the invasion, but did not immediately respond to Baker's request.

The invasion came hours after Iraq broke off talks intended to mend its differences with Kuwait.

Iraqi first threatened military action against its former ally Kuwait two weeks ago. Washington declared its support for Kuwait from the start, and U.S. warships began conducting exercises 600 miles to the southeast July 24.

A Pentagon source said the aircraft carrier USS Independence, escorted by a six-ship battle group, was moving toward the Persian Gulf to beef up the U.S. presence. The source, who spoke in Washington on condition of anonymity, said the Independence would not enter the gulf.

had my hospitals running smoothly when they asked me to come here. Second to my family, hospitals are my life. I'll do everything I can to make this work."

The hospital needs to "show people what we have to offer, what we can do," he said. "A hospital is basically a Hilton (hotel) for sick people. We need to prove that we can offer that little bit extra."

He said he plans to move his family to Big Spring by the end of the month. His wife, Jill, is expecting a baby about Aug. 20. The "third and last child" will join son Nick, 7, and daughter Heather, 4. Cunningham said he plans to get involved in some organizations in the community. In Mt.

Vernon, where he lived for more than two years, he worked with the YMCA, Rotary International, the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations.

"That (community involvement) is high on my list of priorities," he said. "If you're not willing to put something into the community, you can't get anything back."

Deaths

Doug Orme

Doug L. Orme, 83, Big Spring, died Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1990, in a local nursing home.

Graveside services will be 10 a.m. Saturday in Trinity Memorial Park with the Rev. Steve Comstock, pastor of First Christian Church, officiating, and under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He was born Oct. 17, 1906, in Strawn. He married Mildred Frazer July 11, 1933, in Fort Worth. She preceded him in death Feb. 28, 1974. He moved from Fort Worth to Big Spring in 1939, when Cosden moved its headquarters. He was named Vice President of Traffic for Cosden in 1947. His planning resulted in moving as much as 1,000,000 gallons of fuels a day from Cosden's refinery to the east coast during World War II. Cosden later named him its "Mr. Texas." He helped found the American Society for Traffic and Transportation and was a member and head of several traffic groups, including the Transportation Club of Petroleum Industries.

As a resident of Big Spring he was the Chamber of Commerce president during the "Spring Centennial" of 1949, raising $26,000. He also headed the American Business Club, was a district governor, and oversaw numerous campaigns including United Way. He was active in area and regional affairs, serving several terms on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce board, and was a regent at Texas Tech from 1955 to 1961.

He moved to Dallas in 1963, when American Petrofina acquired Cosden. When he retired eight years later, on Oct. 31, 1971, he and his wife returned to their home in Big Spring.

Survivors include one sister, Jennie Lou Wright, Flower Mound; and one sister-in-law, Mrs. Thelma Orme, Wichita Falls; and two nieces. He was also preceded in death by one brother, and one half-sister.

Honorary pallbearers will be all former business associates and friends.

The family suggests memorials to the Memorial Fund of First Christian Church, or the donor's favorite charity.

Frank Vasquez, Sr.

Frank (Pancho) Vasquez Sr., 52, Big Spring, died Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1990, at a local hospital.

Services will be 10 a.m. Friday at Myers & Smith Chapel with the Rev. Rick Parker, pastor of the Living Waters Church, officiating.

He was born May 11, 1938, in LaPryor. He married Teresa Flores May 2, 1959, in Big Spring. He had lived in the community since 1953, when he moved from LaPryor. He was employed by Gene Peter's Steel Company for 15 years. He later worked for the Big Spring Independent School District. He had worked for SWCID for the past month.

Survivors include his wife, Teresa Vasquez, Big Spring; two sons: Frank Vasquez Jr., Dallas; and Luis Vasquez, Big Spring; three daughters: Cindy Talamantez; Sylvia Yanez; and Lisa Vasquez, all of Big Spring; his mother, Dora Hernandez, Big Spring; five brothers: Jose Hernandez, Las Vegas, Nev.; Ismael Hernandez, Odessa; Fernando Hernandez, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mike Aguilar, and Pete Aguilar, both of Big Spring; four sisters: Patsy Cavazos, Big Spring; Gloria Preston, San Antonio; Hermelinda B. Avila, San Antonio; and Ruby Medelhin, Lubbock; and six grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his father and one brother.

Pallbearers will be Paul Talamantez Jr., Ismael Hernandez, Mike Aguilar, Pete Aguilar, Joe Yanez, Jesse Talamantez, Henry Vasquez, and Johnny Talamantez.

He was born May 30, 1956, in Bensheim, Germany. He graduated from the Academy of Commerce in Baden-Baden, Germany, and was employed by Lufhansa Airlines.

Survivors include his parents, Ralf and Christa Punga; one sister, Manuela Wertsteiger; and one brother, Rudolf Punga. He was preceded in death by one brother and his grandparents.

Angelika Punga

Angelika Margarita Punga, 32, Darmstadt, Germany, daughter of a Big Spring woman, died Wednesday, Aug. 1, 1990, from injuries sustained in an auto accident in Munich, Germany.

She was born Sept. 8, 1957, in Heidelberg, Germany. She attended the University and Academy of Philosophy in Heidelberg, Germany. Before her marriage she was an airline stewardess for Lufhansa Airlines.

Survivors include her mother, Marianne Brown Esquelin, Big Spring; her step-father, Julio Esquelin; one brother, Freddy Brown; one sister, Margarita Lotie Brown; one step-sister, Maria Langhorn; two step-brothers: Carl and Raymond Esquelin; and her grandfather, Frederick Keller. She was preceded in death by her son, her husband, her father, one sister, and her grandmother.

Boat races Saturday

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Moss Creek Lake will be the site of the inaugural edition of the West Texas Drag Boat Races this Saturday and Sunday.

Drag boat racers in 17 professional categories will compete for a total purse of $6,000, according to event organizer Robbie Sanders, himself a professional drag boat racer.

There will also be an amateur division open to "just about anybody who has a lake boat," Sanders said.

The event, sanctioned by the Southern Drag Boat Association, will feature boats that can reach speeds in excess of 200 mph, Sanders said.

Time trials begin Saturday at 10:30 a.m., with elimination heats beginning at 1 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $6 on Saturday and $8 on Sunday.

In addition to the racing, there will also be exhibitions in parachute jumping and barefoot waterskiing, as well as displays by antique car clubs and model airplane clubs.

Fina Oilers win state

Coach Cotton Mize and his Fina Oilers won their eighth state Class A fast-pitch softball tournament by breezing through the field in Lubbock.

The Oilers defeated Brenham 3-1; Whiteface 3-2; Lubbock 3-0 and Odessa 12-5. Bobby Doe and Johnny Mize won two games each. Doe pitched a no-hitter, and came within two errors of pitching a perfect game.

Oilers making All-State were shortstop Abel Gomez of Austin; center fielder Gary Martin of Corpus Christi; Doe from Big Spring and second baseman Mike Ritchey of Big Spring. Golden Glove went to Randy Ledbetter of Lubbock and Most Valuable Player went to third baseman Riley Pinkerton of Lubbock.

Gomez and Martin batted .500 in the tournament; Doe and Ledbetter hit .455 and Ritchey batted .444.

The Oilers will play in the regional tournament in Grand Prairie in a couple of weeks. If they get first or second, they'll advance to the national tournament in North Dakota.

Competition hot in CLGA play

In Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association scramble play Monday on the back nine, two teams tied for first with 38s. One team was Mary Ruth Robertson, Dana Cannon and Ruby Honea. The other team was Peggy Marshall, Dee Jenkins and Bobbie Patterson.

In couples select shot play Thursday, Max and Betty Ray Coffee, and Marc and Dana Wilkinson tied for first place with Jerry and Ruth Roach, and Sherrill Farmer and Martha Saunders. Both teams shot 34s.

Two teams tied for second with 35s. One team was Jim and Georgie Newsom and Paul Jenkins and Dana Cannon. The other team was Jim and Annie Ward and Tommy Ward and Tammy Newsom.

In a couples tournament in Post last weekend, Paul and Dee Jenkins tied for second place in the third flight. They finished third via scorecard playoff.

Best of Rest tourney coming

The Best of the Rest Part VI golf tournament will be Aug. 17-20 at Comanche Trail Golf Course.

Entry fee is the two-man scramble is $130 per team, with a limit of 112 teams. Comanche Trail Golf Pro Al Patterson said that 40 teams are already entered. There will be six

Porkers make the big switch

DALLAS (AP) — The Southwest Conference and the Cotton Bowl might go independent, and the SWC could make an alliance with the Big Eight Conference.

SWC Commissioner Fred Jacoby said he was told verbally that Arkansas will sever its ties on June 30th, 1991, meaning the Hogs will play this next season as usual in football and basketball.

"They will participate in a full schedule next year," Jacoby said. "They will be full members."

Jacoby said the SWC is not going to "panic" over Arkansas leaving.

"We plan a meeting of conference presidents in 10 days to two weeks," Jacoby said. "We will have some interesting things to report. We could turn this Arkansas negative into a big positive."

Jacoby said he is involved in a discussion with another conference "that is too sensitive" to comment about. The SWC would dearly love to have Oklahoma, a charter member of the league, back in the fold.

"Obviously, Oklahoma is a very attractive school as far as we're concerned," Jacoby said. "We could strengthen ourselves by what has happened."

Oklahoma officials say they have not been contacted "formally or informally" by the SWC.

Dr. James Vick, SWC president, said there could be a meeting early this month between officials from both leagues, including Jacoby and Carl James, Big Eight commissioner.

"I honestly don't know what the conference will look like in three years because there is such a wide range of options to explore," Vick said.

Texas and Texas A&M, should they decide to leave, could have trouble with the Texas Legislature. Several lawmakers have said they would fight any abandonment of the SWC by the Longhorns and Aggies.

"I'm not a politician but I believe there would be a lot of people in the state very concerned," Vick said. "But this is not a panic situation."

American women rally past Soviets

SEATTLE (AP) — Good will aside, it's time for America to put its muscle where the medals remain.

The United States trails the Soviet Union by 15 medals going into the final four days of Goodwill Games competition, but will have plenty of chances to narrow the gap before Sunday's closing ceremonies.

American boxers face Soviet opponents in nine of the 12 bouts on tonight's card and the U.S. hockey team has clinched a spot in the medal round despite a 10-1 loss to the heavily favored Soviets earlier in the week.

And the world champion U.S. women's basketball team is the best bet yet.

Led by former University of Georgia standouts Katrina McClain and Teresa Edwards, the two-time Olympic champion Americans rallied from a 14-point deficit Wednesday to overpower a young Soviet Union squad 86-78.

McClain hit nine of 14 shots, scored 23 points and had 16 rebounds. Edwards scored 14 of her 16 points in the final 20 minutes as the Americans erased a 50-42 Soviet halftime lead.

American boxers won three of five fights against Soviet opponents Wednesday, but were an overall 3-4. Two of the losses were close, and predictably, the losers weren't happy.

"Bank robbery," Tony Gonzales said after dropping a 3-2 decision to Serafim Todorov of Bulgaria at 119 pounds.

American Tim Austin left nothing to chance as he stopped Soviet Yesbolat Nurmanov in the third round of their 112-pound bout to advance to the finals.

Sergio Reyes, a 119-pound Marine, took a 3-2 win over Vladislav Antonov of the Soviet Union.

Two Cuban world champions also advanced to the finals with wins over Soviet opponents. Heavyweight Felix Savon defeated Viktor Akshonov and Julio Gonzales took a 4-1 win over Mikhail Kazaryan at 132 pounds.

Soviet fighters, who were a combined 19-4 going into the semifinals, had a bad night, losing six of nine fights.

Hockey

The United States kept its bid for a medal alive with a 9-3 win over West Germany. Sweden, Canada and the Soviet Union — which beat Switzerland 4-2 in an afternoon game — already had qualified for the semifinals, on Saturday at Tacoma.

Tony Amonte and Tim Sweeney each scored twice as the United States improved its record to 2-1.

The U.S. took control of the game with three goals in the second period against West German goalie Josef Heiss, who had been dubbed "The Berlin Wall."

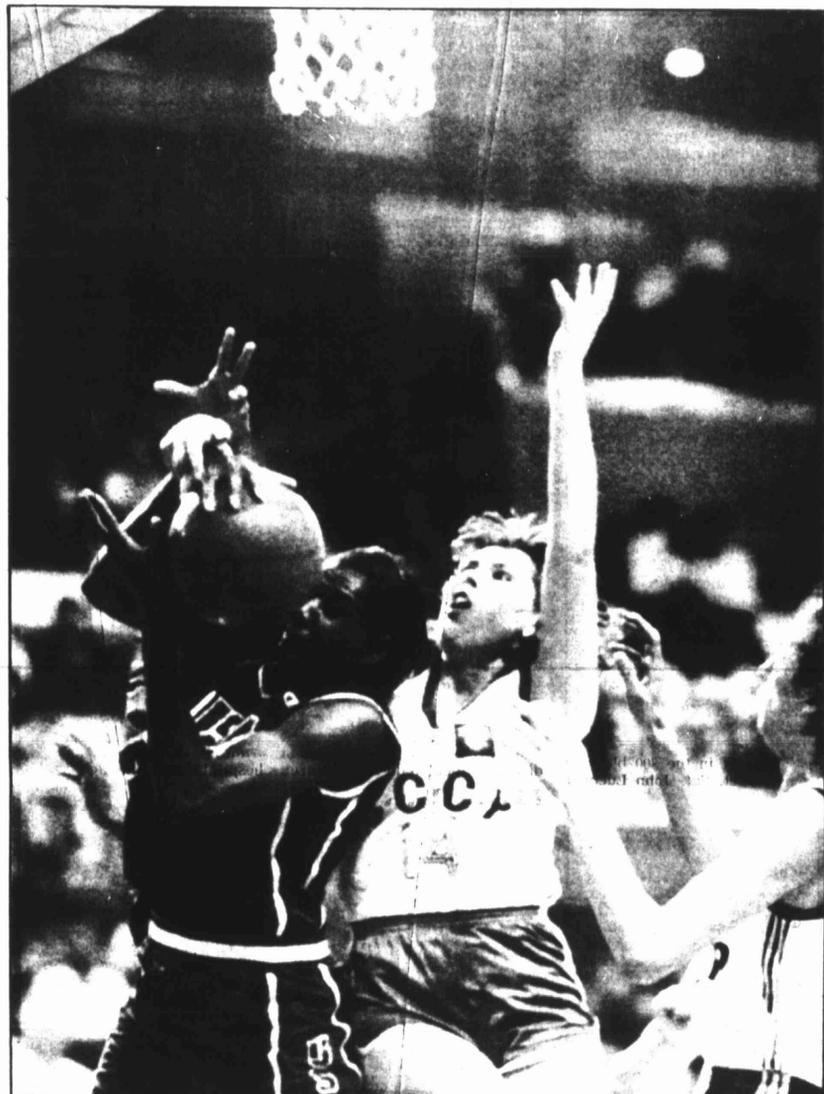

Diving

Two-time Olympic silver medalist Tan Liande of China won the 3-meter springboard by nearly 14 points. Tan has moved to the forefront of the event since Greg Louganis, the four-time Olympic gold medalist, retired.

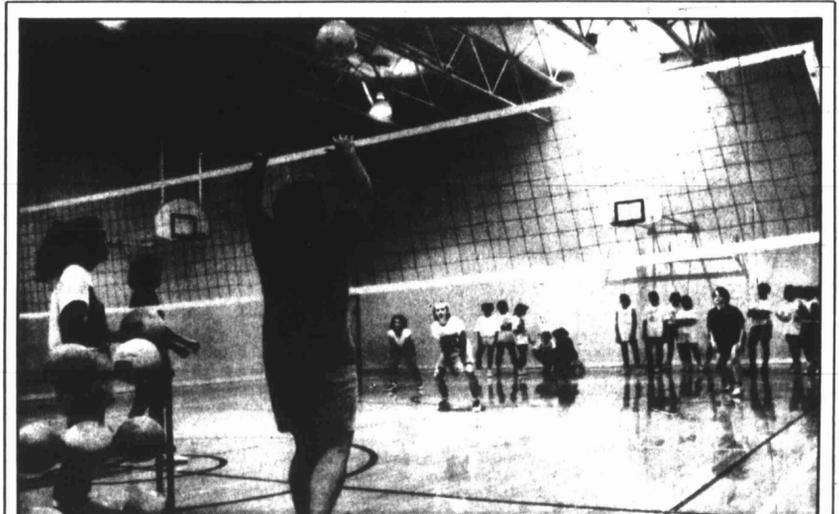

Tan had no trouble with this field as he compiled 650.01 points. American Kent Ferguson, the 1989 World Cup silver medalist, repeated as Goodwill Games runner-up at 636.96. Mark Bradshaw, the current U.S. champion in 1 and 3-meter springboard, took the bronze medal at 611.76.

The victory made the Chinese 2-0 in diving.

"We're at the point right now in the cycle, if history repeats itself, where we should get stronger and stronger toward 1992," U.S. coach Ron O'Brien said.

SEATTLE — Vickie Orr (9) of Decatur, Ala., gets a ball in the face as she fights for a rebound with Natalia Zassoulskaia of the Soviet Union during the Goodwill games women's basketball action Wednesday night.

Coach Lois Cunningham hits the ball over the net to an awaiting camper during a drill at the Big Spring Volleyball Camp going on at the Big Spring High School physical education gym. The camp will conclude Saturday.

Spurs trade forward for Milwaukee guard

By The Associated Press

The NBA's salary cap went up — and so did the overall height of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Sixers acquired 7-foot-7 Manute Bol from the Golden State Warriors for a 1991 first-round draft pick. Bol was one of three veteran centers who changed teams Wednesday as the salary cap increased from $9,802,000 to $11,871,000 for the 1990-91 season.

"Manute Bol is the premier shot-blocker in the NBA today," 76ers owner Harold Katz said. "Our biggest need last year was clogging the middle. We feel there is nobody in the game today that can do it better."

Bol was the fourth-leading shot-blocker in the league last season with 238, or 3.17 per game. He averaged only 1.9 points per game. Bol has blocked 300 or more shots three times, including a career-high 397 in his rookie year and 345 in 1988-89. He led the league both times.

Meanwhile, Milwaukee sent first-round draft pick Terry Mills to Denver for 6-11 Danny Schayes and traded Paul Pressey to San Antonio for 6-10 Frank Brickowski.

Sacramento dealt veteran guard Danny Ainge to Portland for Byron Irvin and two draft picks. While the salary cap was being increased, so was the minimum salary that teams are required to spend — from $7,935,000 to $9,610,000. The maximum and minimum team salaries are determined each July 31 on the basis of formulas set forth in the contract between the league and the Players Association.

The new cap and minimum applies to all teams except Minnesota and Orlando, which joined the NBA last season. For those teams, the cap will be $8,903,000 and the minimum $7,208,000, three-quarters the amount of the other teams.

The Bucks had announced their

Strained ligament forces Sunday Silence to retire

CHICAGO (AP) — Sunday Silence, who earned 1989 Horse of the Year honors after three stirring victories over Easy Goer, was retired today because of a strained ligament in his left front foot.

"He's the best horse I've had in my lifetime, and I've had a lot of good ones," Charlie Whittingham, Sunday Silence's trainer and co-owner with Arthur Hancock, said. "It's not a very bad problem, but with a horse of his caliber, you don't want to take a chance. He's done everything he can and we're going to let him retire in a dignified way."

The retirement of Sunday Silence follows that of Easy Goer, who retired July 18 because of bone chip to the right front sesamoid. The two were to meet for the first time as 4-year-olds in Saturday's Arlington Cup Challenge.

Sunday Silence had been training at Arlington Park when the injury occurred. The injury was diagnosed by Dr. Alex Harthill, who today detected "heat" in the foot of the 4-year-old.

Sunday Silence will best be remembered for his thrilling battles with Easy Goer in the 1989 Triple Crown races. Sunday Silence won the Kentucky Derby and Preakness before Easy Goer took the Belmont to spoil Sunday Silence's Triple Crown hopes. But Sunday Silence avenged that defeat in the Breeders' Cup Classic at Gulfstream in November.

Whittingham said there was no swelling in the leg and that the horse is not lame. Sunday Silence will stand stud at Stone Farm in Paris, Ky., across the street from where rival Easy Goer is standing stud.

"They'll be able to shoot the bull for the rest of their lives," Whittingham said. "We'll get him to Kentucky in a few days."

Sunday Silence won nine of 14 career starts and finished second in the other five races. This year, Sunday Silence raced twice, winning The Californian Stakes on June 3 at Hollywood Park and finishing second to Criminal Type in the Hollywood Gold Cup on June 24. He retires as the third-leading money-winner of all-time, with $4,968,554, behind Alysheba and John Henry.

The Challenge Cup has now lost all of its top horses. In addition to losing Easy Goer and Sunday Silence, Criminal Type pulled out and so did Opening Verse, leaving a field of four.

Torre named new Cardinal manager

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Joe Torre was named manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, returning to a city where he was all star and to a role he's held previously with the Atlanta Braves and New York Mets.

Torre, 50, has been broadcaster for the California Angels for the past five years. During his 18-year big league career, he played with the Cardinals for six seasons, winning the Most Valuable Player Award in 1971 after batting .363 and knocking in 137 runs.

In five seasons as manager of the New York Mets and three as the skipper of the Atlanta Braves, Torre's teams compiled and 543-649 record (.456) and guided the Braves to a division title in 1982.

Brett AL's Player of Month

NEW YORK (AP) — George Brett of the Kansas City Royals was named the American League's Player of the Month for July and Chuck Finley of California and Bobby Witt of Texas shared Pitcher of the Month honors.

Brett hit .388 (45-for-116) with six homers and 24 RBIs in July, pushing his average for the season to .300. He also had 18 doubles and scored 27 runs.

Witt was 5-0 with a 1.99 earned run average in July, and Finley was 4-0 with a 1.69 earned-run average.

Top seeds to third round

MONTREAL (AP) — Top-seeded Steffi Graf led the way as the top 10 seeds all advanced to the third round of the Player's Challenge tournament. Graf, the world's No. 1 player, routed Britain's Monique Javer 6-1, 6-2 in just 49 minutes.

Of the 1-10 seeds, only No. 7 Nathalie Tauziat of France and No. 8 Barbara Paulus of Austria needed more than two sets to close out their opponents. Tauziat beat Beverly Bowes 6-4, 4-6, 7-6 (7-5) and Paulus beat Terry Phelps 6-7 (7-5), 6-4, 6-4.

Former Rams LB killed in accident

RIDGECREST, Calif. (AP) — Former Los Angeles Rams linebacker Carl Ekern was killed in a single-car accident in the Mojave Desert, the California Highway Patrol reported.

A passerby found Ekern's vehicle overturned alongside U.S. 395, CHP Officer Chris Geiger said. Ekern, 36, had been thrown from the car and died from apparent head injuries, Geiger said.

Ekern played with the Rams for 13 years starting in 1976 and was a Pro Bowl selection in 1986.

Former coach indicted twice

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Cleveland State basketball coach Kevin Mackey, who is undergoing treatment at a Houston drug and alcohol center, was indicted on county charges of cocaine use and driving under the influence.

Mackey was arrested July 13 as he and a woman companion drove away from a suspected drug house on Cleveland's east side. He has already pleaded no contest to a city charge for having blood-alcohol content above the legal limit.

Ex-hockey player pleads guilty

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Former Detroit Red Wing Petr Klima pleaded guilty to four misdemeanor charges connected to his 1989 drunken driving arrest, two weeks before his scheduled trial.

Klima, now with the Edmonton Oilers, pleaded guilty to one count each of driving while his license was suspended; operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol; second offense; escape from lawful custody; and resisting and obstructing a police officer.

Thomas Plunkett, Klima's attorney, declined to say why the player pleaded guilty instead of going to trial in Oakland County Circuit Court. Klima is scheduled to be sentenced Aug. 23.

Mets regain first place lead

By The Associated Press
New York Mets manager Bud Harrelson wasn't around to make the key move in the ninth inning — but he didn't have to be.

Pinch-hitter Tim Teufel, the last reserve available, tied the game with a two-out home run and Gregg Jefferies and Kevin McReynolds hit RBI singles in the 12th as the Mets beat the Montreal Expos 6-4 Wednesday night.

Meanwhile, Chicago blanked Pittsburgh 5-0, Cincinnati defeated San Diego 6-3, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 2-1 and Philadelphia held off St. Louis 11-10.

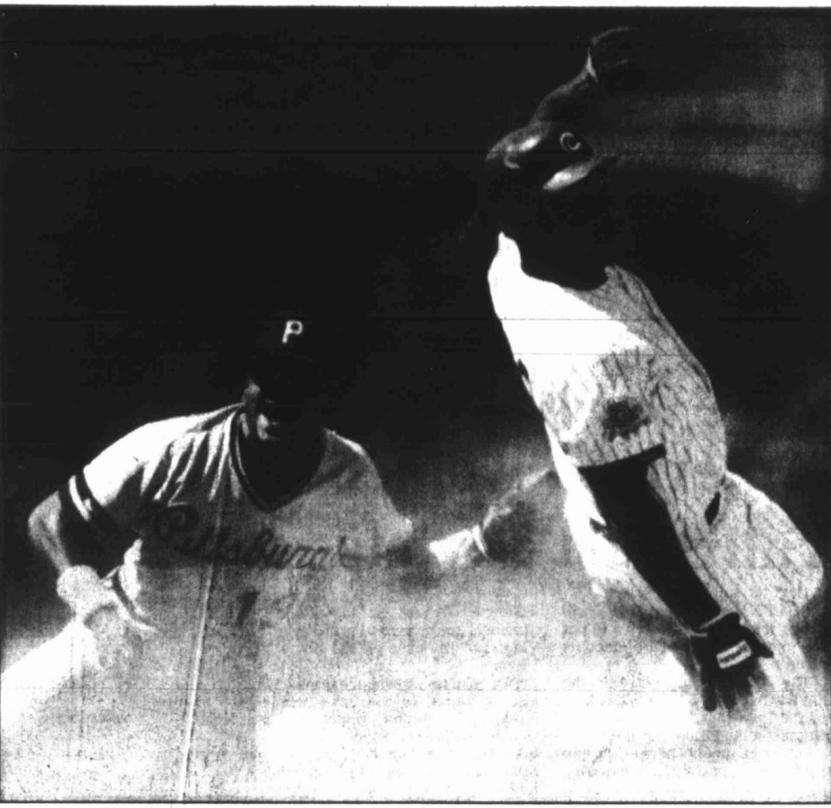

The chain of events that led to Teufel's heroics began in the bottom of the seventh. Leading 4-1, the Expos lost a run when Tim Raines singled with runners at first and second and two out. But Dave Martinez was thrown out at third before Zane Smith crossed the plate.

The Mets then chased Smith with two runs in the eighth and thought they should have had one more. But first base umpire Bob Davidson ruled that Andres Galarraga kept his foot on the bag while digging out a low throw to complete an inning-ending double play.

During the ensuing argument, Harrelson and right fielder Darryl Strawberry were ejected. That meant Daryl Boston had to go to the outfield. The only reason Teufel was available was because Harrelson used pitcher David Cone as a pinch-hitter in the top of the seventh.

Tim Burke retired the first two batters in the ninth before Teufel hit his third home run of the season.

Keith Miller opened the 12th with a single off Bill Sampen (8-4) and stole second. After Howard Johnson struck out, Jefferies celebrated his 23rd birthday with his third hit for a 5-4 lead. Jefferies stole second and scored on

Toronto pitcher finally wins in Baltimore

By The Associated Press
Dave Stieb knew he would eventually win a game in Baltimore. He just didn't know when.

"It was just a matter of time," he said Wednesday night after pitching the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-4 victory over the Orioles. "And 11 years is a long time."

AL

Eleven years and 14 starts to be exact, Stieb, who made his major-league debut in Baltimore in 1979, was 0-5 in Memorial Stadium with a 4.07 earned-run average.

"I've had a couple of opportunities, but it didn't work out," Stieb said. He threw 107 pitches in six innings and left the game. Kelly Gruber broke a 4-4 tie with a two-run double in the seventh.

"To finally get a win here, and the way it happened, was sweet," said Stieb, who gave up four runs in the first inning. "What a way to win in light of what's happened here."

Toronto manager Cito Gaston said he never came close to giving Stieb an early hook.

"You don't rush to take out a starter who was having control problems, especially someone who's been so good over the years," Gaston said.

Stieb made 40 pitches in the first inning, walking three and allowing three hits. He held the Orioles to two hits over the next five innings.

"I was pleased that Cito allowed me to get out of it," Stieb said. "That gave me confidence."

Cal Ripken singled in two runs off Stieb in the first inning and Joe Orsulak and Craig Worthington hit run-scoring singles for a 4-0 lead.

Manny Lee hit an RBI single in the second and Fred McGriff's 24th home run pulled the Blue Jays to 4-3 in the fourth. Glenallen Hill's 10th homer tied the game in the fifth.

Toronto remained tied with Boston in the AL East. Jeff Ballard (1-10) was the loser.

Athletics 1, Mariners 0
Dave Stewart (14-8) pitched an 11-inning five-hitter for his AL-leading third shutout and pinch-hitter Doug Jennings hit a game-winning single.

Terry Steinbach singled, Walt Weiss singled pinch-runner Lance Blankenship to third and Jennings singled to right off Mike Schooler (1-2).

Erik Hanson allowed two hits in 10 innings for the visiting Mariners. He walked none and matched his career high with 11 strikeouts.

Rangers 8, Brewers 2
Charlie Hough allowed one run in eight innings for his first victory since June 18 and visiting Texas completed a three-game sweep.

Hough (8-7) gave up four hits, struck out four and walked four. Milwaukee starter Ron Robinson (4-3) gave up five runs and seven hits in 4 2-3 innings.

Angels 11, Twins 5
Mark Langston won for the first time in 11 starts since June 5 and Bill Schroeder drove in four runs with a double and a home run at the Metrodome.

Langston (5-13) pitched six innings and ended his eight-game losing streak. Bryan Harvey got five outs for his 13th save.

Schroeder, playing in only his ninth game this season, hit a two-run double in the second and a two-run homer in the third.

Roy Smith (5-9) was knocked out after 2 2-3 innings.

two on Galarraga's 13th homer.
Cubs 5, Pirates 0

Greg Maddux pitched a five-hitter for his fourth consecutive victory and had three hits of his own. Luis Salazar hit a two-run homer and a double as the Cubs beat the Pirates for only the third time in 11 meetings.

Reds 6, Padres 3

All's well that ends well. Cincinnati finished its 3-8 West Coast trip with a victory as Chris Sabo hit a two-run homer. The Reds left for California with a 10-game lead in the NL West but had it reduced to 5½ over San Francisco.

Scott Scudder (3-4) pitched seven-plus innings, allowing two runs and six hits. Rob Dibble finished, giving up a run and two hits.

Giants 2, Dodgers 1

Gary Carter homered off Jay Howell (3-5) leading off the ninth inning and Don Robinson (8-1) recorded his 100th career victory with a four-hitter and became the 31st major-league pitcher with 100 victories and 50 saves.

Phillies 11, Cardinals 10

Len Dykstra's leadoff homer touched off a five-run first inning, which included Dickie Thon's two-run single and four walks by St. Louis starter Ken Hill (1-1). Darren Daulton also homered for Philadelphia, which got what proved to be the decisive run off Tom Niedenfuer in the bottom of the eighth on Dykstra's double, Daulton's single and Tom Herr's sacrifice fly.

Terry Mulholland (6-4) gave up five runs and nine hits in six-plus innings for his first victory at home this season. Vince Coleman drove in three runs for the Cardinals, who got within a run in the ninth on Rex Hudler's two-run homer before Roger McDowell, the sixth Philadelphia pitcher, retired the last two batters for his 16th save.

Tom Bolton (5-1) gave up five hits in eight innings to win for the fifth time in six decisions and Wade Boggs had his second straight three-hit game.

Jack McDowell (6-6) gave up eight hits and six runs in 2 1-3 innings for the visiting White Sox, who lost their fourth straight.

Boston's Tom Brunansky, who ended an 0-for-34 slump Tuesday, hit his first home run since June 1 and only his second in 51 games.

Indians 4, Royals 1

Rookie Alex Cole set a Cleveland record with five stolen bases and Greg Swindell won for the fifth time in six decisions.

Tigers 15, Yankees 4

intention to trade the 6-10 Mills after taking him with the No. 16 pick in the June draft. But they had to wait for the cap to expand before they were able to fit Schayes onto the roster.

"Danny's rugged style of play will aid us tremendously in the physical Eastern Conference," Milwaukee coach Del Harris said. "Our staff identified our number one need to be the acquisition of another center to relieve Jack Sikma of excessive minutes."

Brickowski, who averaged 6.6

points and 4.2 rebounds last season, gives the Bucks added muscle and a replacement for power forward Larry Krystkowiak, who is recovering from a knee injury. Krystkowiak, injured during the 1989 playoffs, will undergo surgery Aug. 14.

Harris said the Bucks were out-matched at power forward and center last season because of injuries.

"We knew during this offseason we had to shore up that deficiency," he said.

Pressey, Milwaukee's all-time assist leader, was disenchanted with his backup role last season when he averaged 11 points and four assists per game. The Bucks also relinquished the rights to veteran free agents Ben Coleman and Tony Brown because of salary cap considerations.

Mills averaged 18.1 points and 8.0 rebounds per game last season at Michigan. Schayes, who has spent the past 7½ seasons with the Nuggets, averaged 10.4 points and 6.5 rebounds last season.

"When they (the Bucks) drafted Terry, they told him not to get excited about Milwaukee," agent Bob Wolff said. "They told him they already had made an agreement to trade. That's when the rumors started surfacing about Denver and Danny. It's ironic, since I represent both."

"This is another big step in our rebuilding," Denver general manager Bernie Bickerstaff said. "Terry Mills is a great young player who will fit well in (Coach) Doug Moe's system. We have been very pleased with the young people we have been able to acquire."

The Nuggets drafted guard Chris

Jackson of LSU with the No. 3 pick overall and took Illinois forward Marcus Liberty in the second round.

The Blazers will give the Kings their 1991 first-round draft pick and their 1992 second-round choice that they will acquire from Chicago.

Ainge, 31, starred on championship teams with the Boston Celtics in 1984 and 1986. He was traded to the Kings in February 1989.

Irvin, 24, was obtained by Portland in the first round of the 1989 draft with a draft pick acquired from New York in exchange for Kiki Vandeweghe.

There are a lot of options."

Texas A&M president William Mobley said, "We want to stay a part of the league as long as it is a viable conference. We're traditionalists and we're members of the Southwest Conference."

Texas has "game planned" Arkansas being gone. Athletic director DeLoss Dodds said whatever happens the Aggies and Longhorns, arch rivals on the field, "will be together" whether they remain in the SWC or move on.

The Cotton Bowl executive committee held a meeting to discuss options. The Cotton Bowl traditionally has reserved an automatic bid for the SWC champion.

Jim Brock, executive vice-president of the Cotton Bowl, acknowledged that Arkansas' leaving "could have a big impact on us."

CBS-TV is looking into its options after Arkansas ended its 76-year affiliation with the SWC beginning in the 1991 season.

"We could go one of three ways," Brock said. "We could realign with another conference, stay where we are or go independent."

Should the Cotton Bowl follow an independent course, it would be in the same position as the Fiesta

Bowl, which has no conference ties. "There are certain advantages being independent," Brock said.

"We hate to see Arkansas go but we've enjoyed our association with the SWC. Maybe things will get better. We'll just have to see. We don't want to rush into anything."

The Cotton Bowl has been affiliated with the SWC for 50 years. "As long as Texas and A&M stay in the league it will be a strong conference," said Cotton Bowl president John Stuart. "The addition of another strong member would also help the situation."

CBS Sports and the SWC have a six-year agreement. However, CBS has said it could lower rights fees with Arkansas gone from the conference.

Brock said there is no big hurry. "A lot of dust has to settle on this thing," Brock said. "Nobody is going to panic or anything. We just have to study all the options and make some good decisions. We're not going to be doing that overnight."

There was a "good riddance" attitude from some SWC officials and coaches about Arkansas leaving.

"Who cares?" asked Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes. "Good luck to 'em but we don't want anyone in this conference who doesn't want to be here. Don't let the door hit 'em on the way out."

Houston athletic director Rudy Davales said, "I'm glad the game playing is over. We'll survive."

Baylor's Grant Teaff, the dean of SWC coaches beginning his 19th season, said, "Who is the SEC anyway? I just know we've got a unique situation, it's special and good. We've paid the price for it, and we've had enough abuse. We're not going to take it. We'll come out slugging if we get any more."

SMU head football coach and athletic director Forrest Gregg said Arkansas' leaving "isn't like losing oxygen or water. We'll live."

SMU has been contemplating moving some of its games back to Texas Stadium for bigger gates. Ownby Stadium only seats 25,000.

A&M coach R.C. Slocum said, "It might make it harder for A&M to leave than Arkansas because what would happen to the rest of the conference because of our decision may be crucial."

Slocum added, "It's not the end of the world and it's not a panic situation for the rest of us."

Texas coach David McWilliams said he thought it was sad to see the Hogs go.

"I'm a tradition man," he said. "It's tradition moving on. I'd still love to play Arkansas because Arkansas-Texas is a great rivalry. But the problem is our schedules are going to change."

Dykes concluded, "We shouldn't go out and slit our wrists because Arkansas is leaving. It's really not that big a deal."

Retired Texas coach Darrell Royal said the Longhorns and Aggies are brothers now in their next move.

"I'd think those two schools will act in concert," Royal said. "They're closely tied through politics and years of competition. There's considerable mutual respect contrary to what a lot of people believe."

Of the possibility of playing Arkansas in the future, he said, "It's been a great relationship on the competitive side in both men's and women's sports. I wouldn't out of hand say that we would never do that."

Dodds said recruiting is probably more important than finances in Arkansas' switch.

Hawks sign more pitchers

The Howard College Hawks have signed three more pitchers to go along with the four pitchers they signed earlier. The closest to home is Jesse Armendariz from Andrews. Armendariz helped the Mustangs to the state baseball tournament this past year. The left-hander was a two-year all-district pick, pitched a no-hitter last year, and had an earned run average under 2.00. "He's an excellent prospect," said HC coach Bill Griffin.

Darnell Smith is a right-handed pitcher-outfielder from Cincinnati. "He's an excellent prospect as a pitcher and outfielder," said Griffin. "He got drafted by the pros. He's active now on a Connie Mack team that won the World Series last year."

Rodriguez, who also plays in the infield, was the 25th player selected in the draft. He was chosen by the Boston Red Sox in the second round.

"He's a legitimate 92 on the ray-gun," said Griffin. "He's currently competing in Coonie Mack in New York."

Notes

Continued from page 1-B flights, with awards for the top five finishers in each flight. An added attraction is anyone making a hole-in-one on the fourth hole will receive a new Cadillac or a Lincoln Town Car.

Friday, Aug. 17 will be a practice round, cocktail party and dance. Each contestant will receive Best of the Rest cap, cool can and bag tag.

The first round will be Saturday, and Saturday night there will be a steak dinner and team evaluation. The final round will be played Sunday.

Black golfers not satisfied with conditions at club

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Lee Elder says the fight to gain membership for blacks at Shoal Creek Country Club shouldn't have ended with the announcement of an honorary membership for a black businessman.

"I just feel that something had to happen to make them satisfied to call off the boycott," Elder said in reference to protesters who backed off their plans after officials at the previously all-white club extended an honorary membership to Louis Willie, an insurance company executive.

"Personally, I would have gone a little bit farther," Elder said. Charlie Owens, another black member of the PGA Senior Tour, agreed the decision fell short.

Elder, who in 1975 became the first black to play in the Masters, also said now that the issue of black memberships at country clubs has been raised, "there's no turning back."

"You need a tub of water and you get a teardrop and you're satisfied. No, it didn't go far enough. Either these clubs are going to have to be integrated or we do not play them. It's going to be as simple as that." — Charlie Owens, Black golfer on the Professional Golfers Association Seniors Tour.

However, Southern Christian Leadership Conference president Joseph Lowery said Shoal Creek's acceptance of a black member is "an excellent beginning."

"We didn't get everything we would like, but compromise is a part of negotiations," Lowery said. Elder didn't consider it as compromise, however.

"I think it was just to save face and to get the tournament off the ground and to get the sponsors back," he said.

Willie also acknowledged his decision to accept the honorary membership at the request of Birmingham mayor Richard Arrington was to help ease racial tensions in the city.

"My personal preference was not to be an honorary member. But the quickest way was to be an honorary member," Willie said.

Plans to protest the PGA Championship next week at Shoal Creek were called off Tuesday after the all-white country club's board accepted Willie as an honorary member. The NAACP also said it would urge its members to call off their activities.

After Shoal Creek's founder, Hall Thompson, defended the club's exclusion of blacks, six major corporations said they would pull their television advertising from the tournament. As of Wednesday, IBM, Toyota, American Honda and Lincoln-Mercury had not changed their decision to pull ads from the telecasts.

Spokesmen for Spalding Sports Worldwide and Anheuser-Busch said they weren't sure what their companies would do.

Anheuser-Busch was only scheduled to show a public service announcement on drinking during the ESPN telecast of the first two rounds, next Thursday and Friday.

Out of the incident came a greater awareness by the PGA and the U.S. Golf Association as to where they hold tournaments and what policies apply at tournament sites, Elder said.

The PGA announced last week that it would establish additional criteria by which co-sponsors of tour events satisfy the requirement that host clubs have non-exclusionary membership policies. "We've made so much progress. I'd just like to see it keep going forward rather than taking a step backward," Elder said.

Elsewhere, Augusta National, the all-white club which hosts the Masters, said it expects to invite its first black member by mid-October.

"I'm sure we will invite a black fellow in the next month or so," Masters chairman Hoyt Hardin said. "We would like to express ourselves as wanting to have minority members."

Hardin also acknowledged that the threatened picketing and advertising-sponsor pullouts that have preceded the PGA Championship pose a new set of problems for all-white clubs.

"Certainly, the climate has changed," Hardin said.

Drew Pearson volunteers help to Dallas Cowboys

AUSTIN (AP) — All-time Dallas Cowboys receptions leader Drew Pearson never thought he'd admit that he missed training camp, not after putting in 11 seasons of summer sweat.

But Pearson, now a Dallas businessman, broke free from the office grind and ran a deep pattern to St. Edward's University and Cowboys training camp.

Pearson will put in two stints as a volunteer assistant coach, helping with the Cowboys receivers. He has no desire to get into full-time coaching, but training camp never felt so good.

"This time of year, I get the juices flowing even though I'm going into my seventh year of retirement," Pearson said. "I wanted to be around football. It satisfies something within me and I think it will help the Cowboys."

Pearson was reading a newspaper article a few weeks before camp that detailed rookie wide receiver Alex Wright's off-season progress. The story pointed out that Wright had caught only 56 passes during his four years at Auburn. Wright's world-class speed is intriguing but he lacks polish.

Pearson called Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson, offering his services. Johnson was quick to accept.

Wright isn't in camp as he continues his contract holdout, but Pearson said he'll be glad to provide a crash course once Wright signs.

Johnson welcomes Pearson's presence as a link to the Cowboys' glorious past.

"I think it's good for the players," Johnson said. "They know what a good player Drew was for the Cowboys. It lifts them when he can give them some words of wisdom."

Pearson leaves the technical side to receivers coach Hubbard Alexander. Pearson is here to dispense tricks of the trade gathered over 11 seasons as one of the smartest receivers ever in the NFL, secrets a rookie like Wright could use.

"I teach them different techniques to help them carry out their assignments," Pearson said. "It's too bad Alex Wright isn't in camp. He's got to get it (money) right now, I know that, or you won't get it down the road. But he's a guy without much football background, who needs to be in camp."

Pearson had to take time from a busy schedule to perform this volunteer work. He has what seems like a dozen irons in the fire.

There is his Dallas-based cap company, Drew Pearson Hardware. He'll deliver a weekly sports commentary this year for Channel 5 in Fort Worth. He's also negotiating with TNT, the cable TV channel that will be televising NFL games starting this fall, to do pregame features.

"Life after football is a tough grind," Pearson said. "People don't understand why athletes want to keep playing as long as they can. But it's a good living and it's hard to walk away. Business is a headache. If it was easy, everybody would be doing it."

Pearson can't get football out of his system, however. Last year's 1-15 Cowboys season was an embarrassment.

"It hurts me to see Buddy Ryan come into Texas Stadium, predict things and they actually happen," Pearson said. "I'm always going to be a Cowboy. You can't take away the 11 years of blood, sweat and tears I put into the organization. That's why I wanted to lend any help I can."

It also hurts Pearson that he is still excluded from the Cowboys Ring of Honor. Pearson also awaits a call from the Pro Football Hall of Fame, but first things first.

"When people ask me, I say, 'How can I get into the Hall of Fame when I can't even get in the Ring of Honor?'" Pearson said.

"For what I contributed to the team and the strides I made from a free agent to the all-time leading Cowboy receiver, I should be up there. I know it'll come. I just hope I'm not dead and gone when I get there."

Cyclist winners paid; tour may get sponsor

AUSTIN (AP) — All the winners from the 1990 Tour of Texas bicycle race have been paid their prize money and the financially troubled event might have a new sponsor within the next two weeks.

Richard DeGarmo, the United States Cycling Federation president, said Wednesday that four corporate sponsors have expressed interest.

"We've been having some premature talks with some people, and I'll tell you that I feel a lot better about the future of the race than I did a couple of weeks ago," DeGarmo told the Austin American-Statesman.

"I'm hoping to have an answer within 10 days to two weeks. That's the timetable I'm on," he said.

Last month, DeGarmo said the 1990 race ran about $60,000 over budget. DeGarmo used $40,000 of his own money, but that left about $20,000 of unpaid bills. Three teams had not received their prize money at that time.

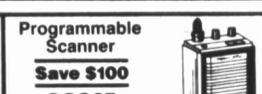

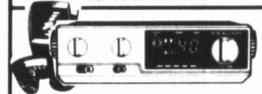

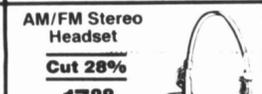

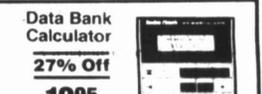

Branders Jeans also decided not to continue as sponsor.

"We've had two huge garage sales, and every one of the cyclists who won prize money has been paid," DeGarmo said. "We still have about $2,000 worth of bills left, but that should be resolved in just a little while."

SEYMOUR, Ind. (AP) — Rock 'n' roller John Cougar Mellencamp plays a country singer in his first movie, being filmed in his native Indiana.

"Souvenirs," which also stars Mariel Hemingway, Claude Akins and Kay Lenz, is based on a story by Mellencamp. Larry McMurtry, whose credits include "The Last Picture Show" and "Terms of Endearment," wrote the screenplay.

MELLENCCAMP
Mellencamp manager Harry Sandler and publicist Kathy Schenker said.

ROCKLIN, Calif. (AP) — Roger Craig, the San Francisco 49ers running back who posed in his underwear and then only a towel for Macy's ads, says the strip show is over.

"My wife says no more. It's time to concentrate on football," the football player said Monday at training camp.

But Craig will remain in the public eye. The 205-pound athlete has made a workout video, "Turn it Up a Notch," that will be released this month. He also will appear in the movie "Dark Obsession," which comes out this fall.

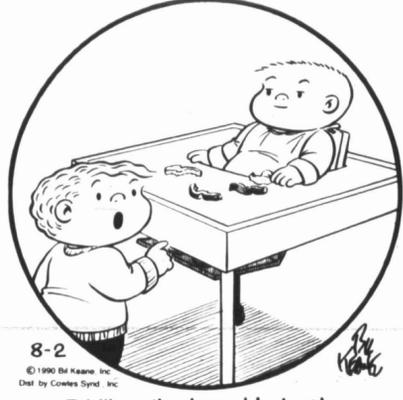

Craig has modeled for six years but didn't draw much attention until this summer when he posed in Calvin Klein underwear. Macy's made a poster of the ad at the request of fans. In another ad, he wore only a towel.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 3, 1990

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Tony Bennett, actress Dolores Del Rio, actor Martin Sheen, novelist Leon Uris.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New techniques can be introduced to lighten the workload. Computers will work for you, not replace you. Loved one gives you unexpected support. Make better use of your artistic talents.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Other people are drawn to you for unexpected reasons. Do your homework before making important presentations. A friend may supply inaccurate information. Form your own opinion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Begin to rebuild your contacts by accepting a social invitation. New business could result. A member of the opposite sex seeks your attention. This person's intentions should be obvious!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Rely on your own instincts. A business situation requires both patience and clear thinking. To win a legal dispute, settle outside of court. Share your plans with loved one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A conflict at your workplace may be unsettling. Family concerns could interfere with a business venture. A stroke of good luck will improve your personal finances. Plunge into creative projects.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Anything done secretly may cause trouble. Be discreet. Read all agreements carefully before approving them. Patience is your strongest ally. A real estate venture provides financial gains.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Postpone issuing a decision until more facts are known. Keep firm control of your temper and money. A business trip is best postponed. Romance holds a delightful surprise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your strong faith will help you face a major challenge. Your finest qualities rise to the surface. Be receptive to new ideas. Romance looks promising.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your employment situation may be changing. Stand back and watch; then make your move. Postpone travel. Be discreet, but act prepared to answer difficult questions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Postpone making an important financial decision. Investigate stocks that offer greater returns. A younger person should not be scolded for an accident. Plan a special evening out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The financial picture brightens. Your business enters a recovery period. Have faith in your ability to turn things around. A surge of energy will help you meet increased demands on your time.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Self-improvement projects could boost your earning power. The advice of a professional proves especially helpful now. Weigh your choices carefully. Give a loved one a second chance.

Longhorns should be a tad smarter

AUSTIN (AP) — The 1990 Texas Longhorns will be older, and should be wiser, says football coach David McWilliams, who is trying to break a losing slump that has some fans grumbling about his performance. McWilliams, a former Longhorn football captain, has a 16-18 record at Texas since replacing Fred Akers. Akers was fired in 1986 after compiling a much better record of 86-31-2. If he said it once, McWilliams said it eight times: He's tired of losing.

SWC Preview

Texas was 5-6 in 1989 and 4-7 in 1988, the first back-to-back losing seasons for the Longhorns since 1937-38. With 18 seniors listed on Texas' two-deep lineup, McWilliams said, "That's a big change in senior leadership... and with that senior leadership, I think we're going to win some of those games we've been losing. We're not going to make some of the mistakes we made last year, because we're a little bit older." To win, Texas must survive a tough schedule. It opens at Penn State on Sept. 8, plays Colorado at home on Sept. 22 and Oklahoma in Dallas on Oct. 13, in addition to its Southwest Conference schedule.

Texas has finished among the top 10 teams in college football 19

"It's burning in my gut. I'm just tired of getting beat. It's embarrassing to lose, and especially to give games away," — David McWilliams, University of Texas football coach.

times since 1941, but the last time was in 1983. "I want to get this football team back on track," McWilliams said. "I want to get this school back up there where they need to be."

On offense, McWilliams said, Texas must find a place-kicker and improve protection for quarterback Peter Gardere, who completed 57.5 percent of his passes as a freshman, 107 of 186, for 1,511 yards. A leaky offensive line and shoulder injury limited Gardere in the final four games last season.

Junior Michael Pollak, who has never appeared in a college game, and freshman recruit Jason Ziegler are candidates for the place-kicking job, which McWilliams said may be the No. 1 problem.

Phil Brown, who redshirted as a freshman, was a surprise in spring training and will join Adrian Walker at running back. Walker led the team in rushing as a freshman last year with 814 yards on 193 carries, a 4.3-yard average.

All-SWC Johnny Walker, who signed a professional baseball contract, has said he will play his senior year at split end, after setting a school record last season with 55 pass receptions.

On defense, Texas welcomes back cornerback Willie Mack Garza and 287-pound tackle Roger Frichter, who missed last season with knee injuries.

Linebacking was bolstered by the move of Winfred Tubbs, 248, and Jason Burleson, 246, from fullback to defense, where they will join veterans Brian Jones, Boone Powell, Anthony Curl, Mical Padgett and newcomer Kevin Watler.

Shane Dronett, 252, and Oscar Giles, 244, are rated as solid defensive ends, and Stanley Richards, who has had eight interceptions in the past two seasons, is a possible all-star in the secondary.

McWilliams said his team needs to develop a winning attitude. "I've got to get over to them we can be a winning football team, because I think we can."

World champs get the evening off

By The Associated Press
Just when training camps should be heating up, a couple of coaches are closing them down — at least for a few hours. San Francisco coach George Seifert gave his team the evening off Wednesday for the first time since camp opened, but put them through a grueling two-hour, 45-minute workout during the day.

NFL Camps

"I remember I worked at a little kids' camp," Seifert said. "That was the idea — you would wear the kids out. You'd say, 'Get to the end of the line and do it again.'" New York Jets coach Bruce Coslet has had to slow down the pace of his first training camp with the team because of injuries. There are 15 Jets with bumps and bruises serious enough to miss a day of workouts, including Pro-Bowl wideout Al Toon, who has a strained groin.

On Tuesday, offensive and defensive linemen worked without pads in the morning and all players worked padless in the afternoon. "The injury list was long. We've got a lot of nagging things," said Coslet, who will give his players Sunday off. "It was time to reduce the load. It doesn't mean we reduced the learning load. In fact, we've turned that up a notch."

Eagles
Philadelphia is without holdout running backs Keith Byars and Anthony Toney as the club finished its "voluntary" minicamp.

Byars made $475,000 last season and said he is looking for a deal "in the neighborhood" of $1 million. Byars is expected to play tailback, fullback, tight end and wide receiver at different times in new offensive coordinator Rich Kotite's plans.

Cardinals
Terms were reached with two of Phoenix's most important holdouts, Pro Bowlers Ron Wolfley and Rich Camarillo. Wolfley, a running back, signed a two-year contract, while punter Camarillo's signing was delayed by an early-evening rainstorm which grounded his flight.

Rams
Rookie safety Pat Terrell, Los Angeles' last unsigned draft choice, returned to camp, and ended a 20-day holdout just in time to visit Germany.

"All our draft choices are now in and they all have sufficient time to make a contribution to our team this year," Coach John Robinson said.

Terrell, a two-year starter at Notre Dame, will now make the trip to West Berlin for a preseason game with Kansas City on Aug. 11.

Falcons
Former outfielder, current cornerback Deion Sanders remains missing from the Falcons' camp, a condition that has left Andre Rison with a room to himself.

"The 'Invisible Man' is going to make an appearance and pretty soon I won't have to be returning punts anymore," Rison said.

Steelers
Pittsburgh running back Tim Worley will undergo surgery on partially torn cartilage in his left knee.

Worley, the team's leading rusher as a rookie last year, is expected to miss only three weeks.

Redskins
Running back Gerald Riggs, Washington's leading rusher last season, agreed to terms and arrived at the Redskins training camp.

Riggs, who rushed for 834 yards and four touchdowns despite missing four games with injuries, was the most prominent of four veteran holdouts for Washington. Linemen Darryl Grant and Markus Koch and linebacker Ravin Caldwell remain unsigned.

Lions
Rookie defensive end Marc Spindler injured his right knee during line drills. A diagnosis could not be made immediately because team physician David Colon was unavailable. Coach Wayne Fontes said arthroscopic surgery is a possibility.

Spindler had knee problems while playing at Pitt. He left after his junior year to turn pro and was selected by Detroit in the third round of the draft.

Iraq invades Kuwait; U.S. sets sanctions

By STEPHANIE McGEHEE
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT — Iraq's powerful army invaded this small oil-rich kingdom early today. Tank-led troops quickly seized the ruler's palace and government buildings, and the emir fled to Saudi Arabia, Kuwaiti officials said.

"The Iraqis have occupied all of Kuwait!" one government official shouted down the telephone. Urgent appeals for blood indicated a significant casualty count, but no numbers could be confirmed.

The Revolutionary Command Council led by Iraqi President Saddam Hussein claimed it invaded at the request of revolutionaries who had already overthrown the government and established "The Interim Government of Free Kuwait." Kuwait and U.N. diplomats labeled the coup reports a farce.

The assault followed two weeks of tension between Kuwait and Iraq, caused by Iraqi accusations that Kuwait stole oil from its territory. Saddam also accused Kuwait of exceeding OPEC production quotas, thus driving down the price of oil, a major Iraqi revenue source.

In recent days, diplomats said Iraq had massed more than 100,000 troops at the Kuwait-Iraq border. Kuwait's entire armed forces has 20,300 soldiers.

Kuwait's U.S. ambassador, Sheikh Saud Nasir al-Sabah, appealed for help from the United States. "We are asking for military assistance in order to survive," he said in Washington.

The U.N. Security Council voted 14-0 to denounce the invasion and demanded immediate withdrawal of Iraqi troops.

A Pentagon source said a naval battle group was diverted toward the region.

President Bush signed an order freezing control of Iraqi assets in the United States and blocking most Iraqi imports, including oil. Oil accounts for 97 percent of Iraqi imports into the United States.

Bush said the United States, which has six warships in the Persian Gulf, would "take whatever steps necessary" to defend interests there. Asked if this included military force, Bush said: "We're not discussing intervention." But he said he would not discuss military options publicly.

It was the first time in modern history an Arab nation had invaded another and taken over its government.

Kuwait's army was no match for Iraq, battle-hardened after eight years of war with Iran. Iraq has emerged as the Arab world's strongest and most militant military power, and Saddam has a vast arsenal of chemical and conventional weapons.

The other Persian Gulf states are politically conservative and have long opposed the use of military force to settle disputes among Arab states.

Diplomats said about 350 Iraqi tanks wheeled into the capital a few hours after crossing the border 40 miles away at dawn. Witnesses said the bombardment of ports and military airports by artillery and the air force was vicious.

The invaders surrounded the palace of Kuwait's ruler, Sheikh Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, the government official and area residents said. Residents said the palace was seized after about two

Community Center Pushing it close for Fair Days

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

Final plans are in full swing for the 15th annual Martin County Fair to be held Aug. 17-18 at Martin County Fairgrounds, located on the corner of Broadway and St Theresa Streets.

This year's fair will have a variety of new events, including a 42-domino tournament, a cheerleading contest and a brisket cookoff, along with the old favorites such as the arts and craft show, ice cream freeze-off, buggy ride tours of the convent, agricultural exhibits, Lil' Miss pageant and the annual dance.

This year Mike Payne will provide the music on Friday night, while Elton Williams will provide the entertainment on Saturday. Dance entertainment will be free of charge.

The Miss Martin County Pageant starts the fair activities on Aug. 11. The pageant takes place at Stanton High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Organizers say this year's pageant promises to be one of the best ever and will showcase the young beauties of Martin County.

Fair Chairman Lester Baker emphasized that final plans are well underway. Anyone interested in having an inside booth needs to call 756-3381 (day) or 756-2474 (night). He encourages everyone to attend this year's fair.

U.S. Senate approves Supercollider funding

By EVAN RAMSTAD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Senate today voted to spend $318 million for the superconducting super collider in 1991, virtually ending the giant science machine's funding fight on Capitol Hill for another year.

The voice vote followed similar action in the House in June on a $20.9 billion energy and water spending measure.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, called the action "another landmark in the building of the most important science project that will be constructed anywhere in the world in the last quarter of the 20th century."

"Land acquisition, on-site construction and basic research can now proceed on schedule," Sen.

Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said in a speech entered into the record of debate on the bill.

A House-Senate conference committee will have to iron out differences in their versions of the bill. But the super collider won't likely be touched since it is receiving the same amount of money in both bills.

The collider measure also must survive the so-called budget summit between administration and congressional leaders. Both Bentsen and Gramm are participants in the budget talks.

"Barring some budgetary collapse that affects every program, we are in good shape on the SSC," Gramm said.

President Bush asked for $318 million in his 1991 funding request for the super collider. Of that, $169 million is for construction near Ennis and Waxahachie, south of Dallas.

Much of the rest is to complete tests on superconducting magnets, the collider's main component.

'89 cotton yield half of year before

By Plains Cotton Growers

Official figures just received by Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. show the 25 PCG counties surrounding Lubbock in 1989 produced 1,608,200 480-pound net weight bales, less than one-half the 3.234 million grown the previous year and only 72 percent of the area's ten-year 2.226 million average.

Acres and production totals for all counties in Texas are published each year by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service (TASS), an agency of the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

The figures in the past have been released in late May or early June, but according to a Tass official were delayed this year by a re-ordering of "due dates" for final reports on the various crops.

Last year's High Plains production still accounted for a normal 56 percent of all Texas Upland cotton, but only 13.2 percent of U.S. production, compared to the 20.6 percent of national production in 1988. Planted acres in the 25 counties in 1989 totaled 2.813 million, of which only 2.12 million remained for harvest, an abandonment of 24.6 percent.

Area wide per-acre yield came to 364.1 pounds compared to a ten-year average of 353.4 pounds.

PCG's analysis of separate irrigated and non-irrigated figures in the Tass report indicated that about 402,000 of the 692,000 abandoned acres were classified as irrigated, primarily cotton lost to hailstorms. The remaining 290,000 abandoned acres, in the report's dryland section, for the most part failed for lack of rainfall.

An additional indication of drought conditions in the 237-pound per harvested acre yield from dryland versus the 497-pound irrigated yield. Also, dryland planted acreage made up a little less than 53 percent of the area's total in 1989, a surprising departure from the 60 percent of acreage planted on non-irrigated acres in both 1987 and 1988.

Of Texas' top ten cotton producing counties in 1989, only Hidalgo County, in tenth place, is found outside the High Plains area. Ranking from one through nine, in order, are Gaines, Lubbock, Lynn, Hockley, Terry, Crosby, Lamb, Dawson and Floyd.

The following information lists 1989 planted and harvested acres, yields per harvested acre and total production in 480-pound net weight bales for each of surrounding area counties.

Martin: 99,500, 40,000, 360, 30,000;

Parolee's death may be ruled suicide

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A 27-year-old Glasscock County man on parole for a 1985 shooting death of a man in Midland County may have shot himself Saturday within hours after being released on a bond for drug charges.

Miles Kark Berry, released on a personal recognizance bond by the Howard County Sheriff's Department at 10:30 Saturday morning, was pronounced dead shortly after noon the same day by Glasscock County Judge Wilburn Bednar. A shotgun was found at the residence where he died about 10 miles south of Stanton in Glasscock County, Bednar said.

Though an official ruling in the death has not been made, Glasscock County Sheriff Royce Pruitt said it is probably suicide. "We feel like it was, but we'd like to make sure," he said this morning. A ruling may be made today.

Berry and his brother John Kent Berry, 29, were arrested by a Howard County sheriff's deputy at approximately 3 a.m. Saturday and charged with possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia, according to a sheriff's report. Arresting Deputy Woodie Howell seized an unknown amount of a white powdery substance in a clear plastic bag and a hyperdermic syringe.

Miles was additionally charged with resisting arrest and criminal mischief for damaging a television set in a jail cell he was held in, the report said. The 1989 Ford pickup they were in was originally stopped at the 2900 block of west Highway 80 because of an expired license plate.

Berry was paroled from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice on March 29, 1988, after serving 16 months on a four year sentence for voluntary manslaughter, said a spokesperson with the parole division in Huntsville. His sentence would have expired Dec. 3 of this year.

Berry was originally charged with murder but convicted on voluntary manslaughter in the November, 1985, death of Robert Ray Kittle, 53, said Midland County Sheriff's Lieutenant Tim Rogers. "What it amounted to is, he killed a drifter. He shot him about three times I believe," said Rogers, the principal investigator in the case.

Witnesses last saw the two men riding in Berry's 1983 Datsun in northwest Midland County on the night before Kittle's body was found Nov. 19 in the same area, Rogers said. A guitar belonging to Kittle and a .22 rifle which killed him were found at Berry's residence on Nov. 21. "He had a guitar that he played in bars for drinks," Rogers said.

Berry claimed the shooting was in self defense, Rogers said. "I was able to prove it wasn't self defense based on ballistics and a number of things."

Youth of migrant workers plan for college

By JIM STRADER
Associated Press Writer

MEADVILLE, Pa. — High school student Marilyn Agosto, a veteran of 14 moves in 16 years, says college would be impossible without a state education program for children of migrant farm workers.

"You get in a school and stay there a couple months and then you move to another school," she said Wednesday. "You get behind and your grades drop. It's hard to get caught up."

Marilyn, who has lived for the last four years in the Chester County town of Toughkenamon, was one of 32 students from across Pennsylvania who attended college preparation workshops this week at Allegheny College.

During the sessions, which began Monday and end today, the teen discussed career goals and brushed up on writing, computer skills, study habits and time management.

State education officials implemented the Migrant Education Program to keep children who are moved frequently from dropping out of school. Twenty-five years ago, more than 95 percent of migrant students dropped out, but the rate has decreased to about 60 percent, said program director Manuel Recio.

"That's still very high, but we never would have thought so many of them would get near to college," he said.

The program reaches about 6,000 migrant students in about 800 schools across the state, Recio said. It provides services to children who move from other states or within Pennsylvania because their parents work in farming, fishing or food canning.

"We saw some of these kids that are talented, they have the desire, but college for them is another planet," said Paula Stoup, a research specialist with the state program. The children get help speaking new languages and overcoming cultural differences and receive tutoring to help them catch up with classwork missed when they switch schools.

Marilyn, a native of Puerto Rico, testified Wednesday before the state House Education Committee, which held a hearing at Allegheny College. The migrant program's officials are seeking more funding.

"The best thing about migrant education is that it gives you a chance to succeed in life and make a decision to go to college," she said.

"In my school, there are so many students that have dropped out because they don't have the help and they think that nobody cares or is there to help them," she said. "If the migrant program wasn't there for me, I would have dropped out years ago."

Another student testified the migrant program made her see she can have a better life than her parents.

"When my father was growing up, he had no hope in life. He was on his own and there was no one to push him on to do anything," said Sandra Ramos, also 16 and from Toughkenamon. "When I started four months ago to talk about college it shocked my family."

hours of heavy artillery barrages. There were about 50 tanks around the emir's palace and the neighboring American Embassy, they said.

The Al-Sabah family family has ruled the city-state for almost 250 years. Diplomatic sources in neighboring Saudi Arabia said the emir and the crown prince and prime minister, Sheik Saad al-Abdullah al-Sabah, flew there today.

The Iraqi forces were led by the elite Republican Guard, which did the brunt of fighting in the Iran-Iraq war. Troops set up roadblocks at major intersections and shot at cars that did not stop.

Baghdad television issued communiques it said were from an interim government. One communique said the new government was in "full control of Kuwait City." Others said Kuwait's land and sea borders were closed. They also asked Iraq to maintain security. The air space over Kuwait was closed.

The television statement said Iraq would withdraw its forces within days or weeks depending on how fast the situation stabilized.

Gulf-based Western diplomats said the invasion was too swift to arrange for the evacuation of nationals, and foreigners were asked to keep a low profile.

There are about 4,000 Americans among the large expatriate community in Kuwait, where more than 60 percent of the 1.8 million residents are foreigners. Half the population was estimated to be outside the country for summer holidays.

U.S. officials monitoring the situation had no reports of harm to U.S. citizens in Iraq, White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said.

The British Embassy was hit by shell-fire and the Sheraton and Hilton hotels evacuated their clientele, the diplomats said.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, traveling in Mongolia, said he asked Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze to immediately halt Soviet arms deliveries to Iraq. The Soviet Union denounced the invasion, but did not immediately respond to Baker's request.

The invasion came hours after Iraq broke off talks intended to mend its differences with Kuwait. Iraqi first threatened military action against its former ally Kuwait two weeks ago. Washington declared its support for Kuwait from the start, and U.S. warships began conducting exercises 600 miles to the southeast July 24.

A Pentagon source said the aircraft carrier USS Independence, escorted by a six-ship battle group, was moving toward the Persian Gulf to beef up the U.S. presence. The source, who spoke in Washington on condition of anonymity, said the Independence would not enter the gulf.

around a 54-mile underground oval. Scientists make the atoms collide, hoping they break apart and yield more clues to the fundamentals of matter.

The Department of Energy, which is leading the project, is expected to release a final cost estimate Aug. 17. Previously, they estimate the project would cost about $8 billion and be finished by 1998.

Last week, a group of physicists estimated the project would cost $8.6 billion by the time it is done in 1999 or later.

The House and Senate disagree slightly on the level of foreign participation in the collider.

A House-passed bill limits the role of foreign companies and investors to one-third of any component or system in the collider.

The Senate appropriations bill, likely to be the only piece of legislation where senators address the super collider, puts no conditions on foreign participation. It says the project is worthwhile with or without foreign help.

The spirit of the Senate's measure calls for a majority of U.S. participation in any component or system, said Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., chairman of the subcommittee that wrote the spending bill.

DOUG ORME

Graveside services will be 10 a.m. Saturday in Trinity Memorial Park with the Rev. Steve Comstock, pastor of First Christian Church, officiating, and under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He was born Oct. 17, 1906, in Strawn. He married Mildred Frazer July 11, 1933, in Fort Worth. She preceded him in death Feb. 28, 1974. He moved from Fort Worth to Big Spring in 1939, when Cosden moved its headquarters. He was named Vice President of Traffic for Cosden in 1947. His planning resulted in moving as much as 1,000,000 gallons of fuels a day from Cosden's refinery to the east coast during World War II.

As a resident of Big Spring he was the Chamber of Commerce president during the "Spring Centennial" of 1949, raising $26,000. He also headed the American Business Club, was a district governor, and oversaw numerous campaigns including United Way. He was active in area and regional affairs, serving several terms on the West Texas Chamber of Commerce board, and was a regent at Texas Tech from 1955 to 1961.

He moved to Dallas in 1963, when American Petrofina acquired Cosden. When he retired eight years later, on Oct. 31, 1971, he and his wife returned to their home in Big Spring.

Survivors include one sister, Jennie Lou Wright, Flower Mound; and one sister-in-law, Mrs. Thelma Orme, Wichita Falls; and two nieces. He was also preceded in death by one brother, and one half-sister.

Honorary pallbearers will be all former business associates and friends.

The family suggests memorials to the Memorial Fund of First Christian Church, or the donor's favorite charity.
