U.S. committed to barricade of Iraqi trade

By JOAN MOWER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The United States, committed to "stop the oil from coming out of there,' mounted a naval barricade of Iraqi shipping today and vowed to make that country "pay a price" if it attacks Saudi Arabia or its allies.

An Iraqi tanker tried to dock at a Saudi terminal to take on oil, but was turned away by Saudi officials, diplomatic sources in the region reported.

President Bush and his top aides avoided using the word "blockade" Sunday to describe a U.S. decision to use whatever means necessary to choke off Iraq's oil trade and imports of other goods, including food. But their intention was clear.

"I consider interdiction of shipping to be in accord" with United Nations economic sanctions, Bush told reporters Sunday. "No point getting into all these semantics. The main thing is to stop the oil from coming out of there and that is what we're going to do.

Diplomatic sources at the oil terminal near Yanbu, Saudi Arabia, said the Iraqi tanker al-Qadissiyah, which could carry up to 900,000 barrels of oil, failed in its attempt to moor Sunday night because three tug boats that normally would help have been taken out of the water.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the tanker sailed away today, after its apparent attempt to defy a U.S. declaration that its warships would enforce a U.N. embargo aimed at forcing Iraq's Saddam Hussein to give up his forced annexation of Kuwait.

Ameri al-Anbari, Iraq's ambassador to the United Nations, said today on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" that the U.N. Security Council should act on Saddam's proposals to end the • INVASION page 8-A

Suspects may face additional charges

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Charges may be filed against two more people suspected of being involved in a Crossroads Country burglary ring, the county sheriff

Two men arrested by the Howard County Sheriff's Department in Big Spring Aug. 7 have already been charged in a dozen burglaries in Howard County and at least four additional charges are pending in surrounding counties. They are being held on bonds totalling more than $100,000 each.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said they are seeking an opinion from the 118th District Attorney's office on whether they should file charges on some other suspects.

'We have two more suspects in the wings that we're waiting to give the DA," he said. Charges will be filed "if it is advisable." Sheriff's Department officials planned to meet with officials from the district attorney's office sometime this afternoon, said Deputy George Quintero.

Meanwhile, Ben Garza, 36, 1017 Johnson St., is being held on bonds totalling $122,500 and Billy Lee Green. 45, of Howard County, remains jailed on bonds of $100,000 in connection with five burglaries and at least two thefts that they were arraigned on last week. Four of those burglaries and one theft were in Howard County.

Since Friday, additional charges have been filed and the men are now accused of being involved in 12 Howard County burglaries, Quintero said. "We're probably looking at 12 local so far," he said this morning.

Ship channel copes with another spill

By The Associated Press

HOUSTON - Crews began emptying a barge that buckled and spewed at least 21,000 gallons of heavy fuel oil into the Houston Ship Channel, U.S. Coast Guard officials

The third significant spill of the summer occurred while the barg was being loaded at an Arco Petrochemical dock Sunday

No. 6 fuel oil spilled from two center tanks as a crease cut across the barge, owned by Ingram Barge Co. of Nashville, Tenn., at the dock in southeast Houston. The cause wasn't immediately determined.

By this morning, Coast Guard officials were saying the spill was under control.

'The flow of the barge has been slowed down," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Richard Fleming, "It looks like we have the situation under control. Crews began lightering, the process of loading the oil from the crippled barge onto another vessel, about 11 p.m. Sunday, said Coast Guard Senior Chief Dale Eichmann.

"They're going to lighter all the product off, and get the barge sitting high and dry, where nothing's leaking out of it anymore and without any weight on it," Eichmann said

Fleming said this morning he did not know if the lightering had been completed

The barge had been loaded with 630,000 gallons of oil, Eichmann said. It had a capacity of 840,000 gallons

He said he doubted the spill would grow larger than 500 barrels, or about 21,000 gallons.

'Our diver reports show no fractures along the sides or bottom of the barge, only the fractures on top and about three feet down the sides, where it buckled,' Eichmann said. "That's good news, it means the rest of the barge

Crews put temporary patches over a two-foot fracture on the barge's starboard side and a threeinch split on its port side Sunday evening, Eichmann said.

But he said the patches were expected to give way and the fractures to expand slightly as the lightering continued and the barge straightened.

Eichmann said the barge's fore and aft ends had buckled upward, causing a crack on the top of the vessel and rupturing a tank.

"It's unusual in the way that it happened," Eichmann said. "It was just sitting there at the dock and apparently, it just started buckling in half. The metal deck folded down on top of it and cracked it down the middle."

Cleanup crews from Arco and Lyondell Petrochemical Co. were able to string three containment booms around the area after the 10 a.m. accident, Eichmann said, and a cleanup company later joined the effort. Lyondell is a former division of Atlantic Richfield Co.

David Harpole of the Lyondell salvage crew said another barge was located adjacent to the ruptured one, helping to cut down the spread of the oil.

Council to select EDC board members

By MICHAEL DUFFY Staff Writer

Following its completion of regular agenda items, the Big Spring City Council will meet Tuesday night in executive session to select the five members who will comprise the Economic Development Corporation board of directors.

The meeting will begin at 5:30 p.m. at the McMahonWrinkle The council is also expected to formally name the EDC board when it reconvenes in open session. The council will discuss a lengthy list of agenda items, including a presentation on the Capehart water system by Public Works Director

Tom Decell. The first reading of a resolution authorizing the waiver of water rates for Capehart Addition residents is also expected.

Council members are also expected to approve a resolution calling for a public hearing on the 1990-90 fiscal year budget and hold the first reading of a resolution that opposes establishment of fees to fund the operations of the Texas Water Commission and Texas

Water Development Board. The council and city officials have been notified the water commission is proposing draft regulations that would require cities to annually raise an amount equal to ● COUNCIL page 8-A

Carrie succumbs to illness

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

Leukemia victim Carrie Carnahan, described by family friends as "a fighter," died early today in a Dallas hospital. It was just 11 days before the Coahoma resident's 1 6 t birthday.

Carrie was with acute CARRIE CARNAHAN lymphatic leukemia when she was 7 years old. From that time, she had to make numerous trips to hospitals and clinics, receive radiation and chemotherapy treatments and finally, two years ago, begin the search for a bone marrow donor

After an eight-year battle with the blood disease, no donor had been found for the bone marrow transplant Carrie needed to live. Her last trip to Granville-Morton Hospital came after several remissions had made friends and family hold onto hope.

"Two years ago she had a good remission," said family friend Linda Hall. "There was the fund raising drive and publicity for Carrie. There was a lot of hope. But she just couldn't find a (bone marrow) donor.

Hall, a co-worker of Carrie's father Patrick Carnahan at the Texas Employment Commission, worked with several fund-raising activities in Coahoma over the past two years. She and other TEC employees, Coahoma High School students and many other area residents got together to lend the family financial and moral support.

Hall said throughout Carrie's ordeal, the entire family fought the disease bravely, and most of all the young victim.

'She was always a fighter." Hall said. "She was a very strong girl. My husband and I were just there to visit her and even though she was at that time starting to drift into a coma, she was still cheerful. She could still be a • CARRIE page 8-A

"I was put in uncomfortable positions several times as Miss Texas and before," Ms. Fitzgerald said. "I shut my eyes to so many things.

Missouri police nab fake cowboy

DANVILLE, Ind. (AP) - Aman accused of stealing horses, saddles and even a man's name is now facing charges.

The cowboy, who calls himself William Robert Stanley, was being held Sunday on $300,000 bond in a Springfield, Mo., jail on theft and other charges filed in Greene and Dallas counties in Missouri.

"Horse stealing and saddle theft are crimes that most people think died with the Old West. But it is still really big business," said Hendricks County sheriff's Lt. Stephen G. Golden, who had been tailing the mystery cowboy for months.

Theft charges also are pending in Hendricks County. Stanley, who has been known to sport red boots and a black hat, is accused of stealing horses and high-priced saddles from New York to Texas and assuming the identity of a Texas man.

Drought and the threat of more lightning in California worried fire officials after more than 200,000 acres burned statewide in the past week

'More lightning means more fires," said Forestry Department spokesman Chris Parker. "What we're seeing is the culmination of four years' drought.'

Yosemite was declared off limits to tourists Friday. Two fires about 10 miles from landmarks like El Capitan, Half Dome and Yosemite Falls have burned 15,650 acres of timber.

Germans pay tribute to victims

WEST BERLIN (AP) — At a cross ringed with barbed wire, Germans from East and West paid solemn tribute today to the victims of the Berlin Wall on the 29th anniversary of its construction.

Eighty East Germans died trying to escape across the nowcrumbling barrier that began separating the city on Aug. 13,

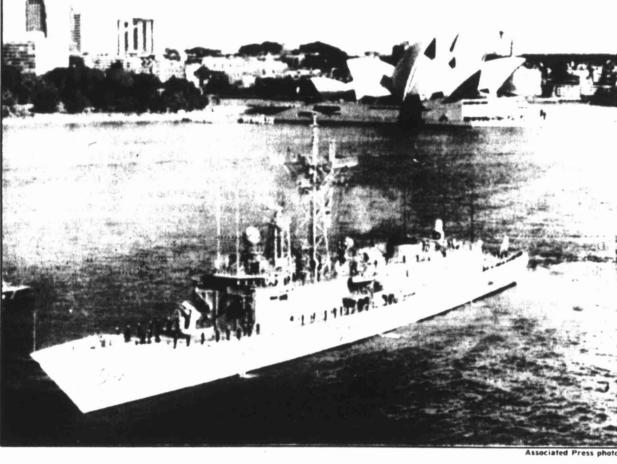

The best-known of them is Peter Fechter, an 18-year-old East Berlin worker cut down by Communist border guards bullets in 1962. Fechter lay bleeding to death for nearly an hour before he was hauled away.

"Here where Peter Fechter died, we can feel how much suffering the wall caused," said East Berlin Mayor Tino Schwierzina during the ceremony this morning.

Schwierzina stood beside the cross erected as a memorial to Fechter in West Berlin

Redirecting resources

Sen. Sam Nunn, the Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee, has long been recognized as the pre-eminent national security expert in Congress. Recently, he showed that he understands "national security" in a broader sense.

Nunn proposed shifting sizable amounts of defense and intelligence resources to the battle against environmental destruction. The end of the Cold War doesn't mean that all traditional security concerns have disappeared, he

The senator acknowledged that his motives are mixed. He wants to maintain the military's research and technological capacities at a time when the Pentagon budget is shrinking.

Although there may be problems with Nunn's proposal, it's significant that a policy-maker has suggested including environmental threats in the nations's security planning. It's an approach worth considering.

Bring Hussein to justice

It's time to act like a superpower.

The United States needs to use its military force to dislodge Iraq from its occupation of Kuwait and to cripple the million-man, renegade Iraqi army.

The reason is simple: other methods of retaliation are too risky. From all accounts, Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein is the Hitler of the 1990s, the Butcher of Baghdad, a madman who wants to rule the Middle East.

If we put an international economic knife to Hussein's throat, he might lash out in defense. Remember, this is a man who has built a Third World country into a first-rate military power, liberally used chemical weapons in his war with Iran and, some analysts fear, may have a nuclear surprise up his sleeve.

Why sweat an outlaw like this?

The United States has spent $300 billion per year to build up its military; let's put it to use. . . As Iraqi troops sit just miles from the Saudi Arabia border, the time for the U.S. to draw the line has passed. Hussein obliterated the line as soon as his army crossed the border of Kuwait

The world community has unanimously condemned Iraq for its lightning takeover of Kuwait. We encourage the United States to lead the world and bring this outlaw country to justice.

Sure the Republicans did it. But the Democrats aren't doing anything to fix it. Neither party seems to want to take a chance on actually governing, on actually doing the right thing.

In an administration in which disliking broccoli and Roseanne Barr's singing is about the sum of domestic policy, perhaps that's understandable. It is also contemptible and cowardly.

This country can no longer afford to pretend it's rich. If the Democrats are to be an actual opposition party, one with a program and a philosophy, now is the time (to act). Come to think of it, now is the time for the Republican Party to stand for something other than the right of the rich to get richer.

Subsidies too expensive

How can anyone take Congress' deficit-cutting talk seriously when it conducts business as usual on farm legislation?

Bills working their way through the House and Senate contain agricultural programs estimated to cost American taxpayers $54 billion over the next five years. If past performance is a guide, the price could be expected to top that figure by many more billions.

It's pathetic that in a time of severe federal financial problems, Congress has made no effort to reduce the cost of farm subsidies, most of which have outlived whatever usefulness they may have had. .

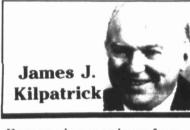

Picking up the direct tab for farm legislation is not the only burden that federal agricultural policy places on Americans. The programs increase the price of food at the grocery stores by an estimated $10 billion a year.

How can Senate and House leaders have the gall to insist that taxes be raised on citizens in order to reduce the budget deficit when they make so little effort to cut unnecessary spending?

San Antonio Express-News

Nobody here but us stipendiaries

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK WASHINGTON — Let me get back to the unsavory business of David Durenberger and Barney Frank. The Senate has "denounced" Durenberger and the House has "reprimanded" Frank.

Everyone has gone home from Capitol Hill. The matter has dropped out of the news, but I am still

The vote to reprimand Frank, D-Mass., was 408-18; he got off easy. The tally on Durenberger, R-Minn., was 96-0, but if you had been in the Senate gallery at the time, you might have had trouble swallowing the unanimous vote. Fulsome praise is hard to digest.

Durenberger digested it easily Dole of Kansas termed him "a winner." Mitchell of Maine praised his work in health care. Pryor of Arkansas said he was proud to call his friend "the distinguished senator from Minnesota." Simpson of Wyoming praised his great intellectual capacity. Nickles of Oklahoma thought him "outstanding." Levin of Michigan, bringing up the rear, was left to laud Durenberger as one "who has always been of good cheer.'

Things were not quite so gummy in the House. One member praised Barney Frank as a "voice for a better world." Another term ed him "one of our brightest members." but Bill Dannemever of California documented Frank's record of sordid misconduct with a sleazeball prostitute. Julian Dix on, chairman of the ethics committee, hotly described such evidence as "garbage." Very well, the record smelled. It qualified as garbage Getting back to Durenberger:

They say that "denunciation" was a severe punishment for the fellow, but consider a recent precedent. Durenberger connived to pull off the same sort of scam that former Speaker Jim Wright pulled off. Both of them sought to benefit from the bogus sales of a bogus book, but at least Wright had the grace to resign. Durenberger is hanging on. He should have been expelled Under the rules, no senator may earn more than a certain amount from "honoraria" for outside speeches. No senator may be reimbursed for renting his own home. This senator knew the rules. Willfully he broke them.

Durenberger had his staff put together two "books" bearing his name. These were not truly books; they were pseudo-books, published by a pseudo-publisher. One was a collection of white papers on defense; the other was an engrossing anthology of 44 of the senator's speeches on health.

The senator arranged to have these masterworks published by the Piranha Press. By whom? Under an earlier name, this industrious printer had published a photographic book of wrestling holds, but if Piranha had little experience in publishing books it developed a knack for cooking

As his speaking fees approached the cutoff limit, the budding author worked a nifty deal. His fees were no longer honoraria from his hosts. They had become promotional "stipends" from his publisher. The hosts mailed his fees to the Piranha laundry. There the money was dry-cleaned and pressed. Then Piranha sent checks to the senator

It was a lovely arrangement. The lousy books sold, as you might expect, lousily. Apparently they were offered to an eager public only through B. Dalton book stores in Minnesota, though the report of the Senate Ethics Committee on this point is not clear. In any event, between 1985 and 1987 our illustrious stipendiary pulled in $248,300 from his publisher, while Piranha sold only $15,000 worth of books.

The deal was a wet pane of windowglass: It was slick, and it was transparent. It was transparent fraud. So was the senator's condominium scam. In 1979 he bought a one-bedroom pad at 1225 LaSalle Ave. in Minneapolis. In 1983 he formed a partnership with an upstairs neighbor. Each put his condo into the venture. Then the senator rented his own apartment from himself and took the taxpayers for $40,000 in reimbursement for 615 nights in Minnesota at $65 a night.

Durenberger's colleagues got all choked up when they voted to denounce him. We all make mistakes, they appeared to be saying, but not all of us get caught. In the House, Frank's accusers looked at sodomy and all they saw was parking tickets. Barney had fixed 33 of them for his lover. What a guy!

On Sept. 5, when Congress returns from its recess, both Durenberger and Frank will have their committee positions waiting. Same assignments, same seniority. Frank confidently expects easy re-election in November. Durenberger won't be up again until 1994. Even he might make a comeback. After all, his fellow senators think he's wonderful. Advocates: Bills won't slow special interest money

By PETER ROPER

Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Senators and congressmen are back home this August telling voters in this election year just how much they've done to end reprehensible campaign finance practices.

Yet campaign reform advocates say the two reform bills passed by Congress, especially the House version, would do little to halt the special-interest money flowing into congressional campaigns.

For example, the House bill proclaims that lawmakers should voluntarily agree not to spend more than $550,000 getting reelected and not to accept more than half of that from political action committees, or PACs. In the 1988 House elections, however, the vast majority of lawmakers did not spend that much or get anywhere tempts to shrink the contributions from wealthy corporate PACs while leaving labor groups, or "small donor" PACs untouched, reform advocates said the $275,000 limit is mostly cosmetic.

"We remain very critical of the House bill," said Common Cause spokesman Kathleen Sheekey. 'We looked at our campaign records and they show that 332 of the House members elected in 1988 would have been unaffected by the 50 percent PAC restriction in the Common Cause, a public-interest lobbying group, has been hammering Congress for years to curb the climbing cost of campaigns and to stop taking money from specialinterest groups. Both factors have helped make incumbents in- said. vulnerable to challengers, according to Sheekev.

Common Cause spokesman Kathleen Sheekey said that despite the obvious loopholes in the House bill, Common Cause wanted Congress to approve a campaign bill. "There are good sections in both bills and we hope that when the House and Senate conferees meet, we can persuade them to keep the real reforms and cut the rest," she said.

stitution, agreed that lawmakers were anxious to get some reform legislation adopted before facing the voters during August campaigning.

"It seemed very clear that the parties were positioning themselves for the recess," he

Under examination, the House and Senate bills appear to be either self-destructing or weak. While the Senate bill would set a voluntary spending limit and do away with PAC contributions entirely, Democrats tacked on a provision that could provide challengers with up to $100,000 in public financing.

President Bush, closing ranks with most Republicans, has promised to veto any bill that calls for either public financing of congressional elections or that sets spending limits.

And if that is not crippling enough, the Senate bill also calls on enators, many of whom are millionaires, to limit their outside earnings each year to only 15 percent of their income. Texas Sen Lloyd Bentsen, a Democrat and wealthy oilman, said that amendment would drive him from the

One Republican lawmaker said that amendment was clearly adopted on the belief the campaign reform bill was doomed for veto.

But it is the House bill that seems to promise much while contributing little. Hammered together by Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., the legislation was unveiled by House Speaker Tom Foley during the last week of July and approved over the bitter objections of House Republicans.

The House bill says PACs that depend on "small" donations of $240 or less — such as pro-Democratic labor groups — could give a maximum of $5,000 per election while "big donor" PACS, such as pro-Republican corporations, would be limited to $1,000.

House Minority Leader Robert Michel called the legislation unconstitutional and a "sham" to keep Democrats in power, noting that the legislation would tilt the system heavily in favor of labor Common Cause's Sheekey agreed. ''There's no doubt about it. The bill would absolutely give the advantage to labor organizations,' Sheekey said that despite the obvious loopholes in the House bill, Common Cause wanted Congress to approve a campaign bill.

"There are good sections in both bills and we hope that when the House and Senate conferees meet, we can persuade them to keep the real reforms and cut the rest," she

Medical need is denied: AIDS pair guilty for pot

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — An AIDS-stricken couple who say they smoked marijuana to relieve painful side-effects from their AIDS treatments were found guilty by a judge who rejected their medical necessity defense.

But justice was tempered with mercy as Circuit Judge Clinton Foster on Thursday sentenced Kenneth and Barbara Jenks to a year's probation and 500 hours of community service — to be completed by caring for each other.

"The events of this case are horrifying, and evoke sympathy and compassion for the defendants by all persons acquainted with the facts," Foster said after a non-jury trial. "There is no cure for this disease.

The husband and wife were convicted of cultivating and possess ing marijuana.

Jenks, 28, is a hemophiliac who contracted AIDS through a tainted blood transfusion. He passed the disease to his 24-yearold wife before he was aware he was infected.

"I've never had that sweet a sentence in my 20 years of practicing law," said attorney John Daniel, who represented the couple for free. Nevertheless, he filed notice of appeal, an effort he hopes will reverse Foster's rejection of the medical necessity

The couple said they smoked marijuana especially to relieve intense nausea and vomiting caused by the anti-AIDS drug

"When I started taking AZT, I lost all reason to eat," Jenks has said. He and his wife declined to say whether they will continue smoking marijuana.

Foster noted the medical necessity defense has been approved by some courts around the nation, including a judge in Fort Lauderdale who authorized it for another disease

But he concluded it should not be recognized across the board unless the state Legislature gives "statutory authorization addressing the scope and parameters of that defense.

Marijuana has been used to treat the nausea that accompanies cancer chemotherapy, as: well as to treat glaucoma and multiple sclerosis.

McALLEN (AP) — Like faithful dogs or horses, Chula, Macho, Tombi and Toto rush to the fence to take a tasty treat.

It's not your average fence, this one of heavy, steel drilling pipe. But then, few fences are rushed by four black rhinoceroses. These getting snacks from Calvin Bentsen at his Hidalgo County ranch are among six black rhinoceroses in Texas. There are just 77 of them in United States and Mexico zoos, which are becoming the last refuge of the endangered species.

Poachers seeking the black rhinos' horns are driving them close to extinction in their native Africa, where 100,000 ran wild just 20 years ago. Now only an estimated 3,500 remain in the wild, and scientists say there may be none left by the end of the decade. But at Bentsen's ranch, at least, all seems well for the rhinos.

Toto, the baby born there 112 years ago, mixed rhino sighs of delight with rhino drool as Bentsen fed her an apple quarter.

She and her mother, Chula, spotted the bag of apples and rushed to the fence as soon as Bentsen jumped out of his Suburban and started slicing the fruit.

"There, you like that, don't you?" Bentsen asked Toto, whose coarse hide already is etched with rhino wrinkles Bentsen is a director of the organization. In 1960, he shot a black rhino in Kenya, but sees no irony in the fact he's now involved in an expensive, last-ditch effort to save the species from oblivion.

No guilt either, he said. "In fact, I think I was damn good for the rhino," said Bentsen, a cousin of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. "The hunters were supporting the (Kenya) game department and that in turn kept the poachers in check.

He calls Kenya's ban on rhino hunting in 1973 the beginning of the end for the animal. Poachers, he said, moved in with machine guns and started mowing down rhinos after the government scaled back the game department that foreign hunters previously helped fund.

The days of rhino hunting have ended, probably forever, he said, because so few are left. Poachers go after nothing but the horn, often worth thousands of dollars. It is carved into dagger handles in the Middle East, particularly North

A different explanation for the rhinos' rapid decline comes from of huisache at Bentsen's La Coma Don Farst, coordinator for the Ranch north of McAllen, thorns southern African black rhino and all subspecies program for the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums. Farst also is director of the Gladys Porter Zoo in Brownsville.

He said the black rhinos were indirectly endangered by the sudden abundance of oil wealth in the Middle East since the 1970s, which enabled more people to afford the expensive horn daggers

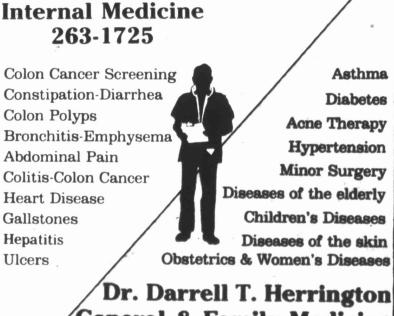

Ranches, he said, can help the black rhino's survival because most zoos have run out of space for expanding the captive breeding

'At least the species will be saved, even if the specimens that remain in their native countries are poached out," Farst said

Conservationists want to keep a strong genetic pool of the species, with the hope that one day the animals can return to roam their native Africa

For now, they're safer in semiarid, subtropical South Texas. The region's thorny native huisache trees are closely related to the Yemen, or sold as a folk medicine African acacia trees that make up good part of the rhinos' natural diet. They each eat 35 pounds a day

Human rights interns target U.S. immigration practices

HARLINGEN (AP) — Eleven students from around the United States have spent this summer near the Mexican border listening to horror stories. They're not studying fiction.

Amnesty International USA sent them to South Texas to train as human rights activists. Their assignment: to work with organizations that help Central Americans and other seekers of political asylum.

The 10-week pilot program, "Asylum Summer," moves Amnesty International further into an area of activism that makes even some Amnesty supporters uncomfortable.

The students, ranging in age from 18 to 23 years, mainly help prepare legal cases for asylumseekers fighting deportation. That involves studying their oftenhorrifying reasons for leaving their countries.

"It's an incredible opportunity to get experience in human rights work," said Noel Ohly, 18, from Milwaukee, Wis., a beginning freshman at Antioch College at Yellow Springs, Ohio. She was assigned to ProBAR, a legal aid office in Harlingen.

South Texas is a popular crossing area for Central Americans because it is the closest U.S. land point to that region.

teach me," said Amy Voege, a 23-year-old junior at Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, Mich.

Her assignment with Methodist Legal Ministries at a shelter for Central American family groups at San Benito, "has changed my whole world view.

"Everything is really interconnected," she said. "The people who are fleeing their countries are fleeing because of human rights abuses there, or fleeing because of war there. But those human rights abuses and those wars are really supported by the United States government.

She and the other Amnesty interns generally share the beliefs that the United States helped create the conditions forcing people to flee Central America; is biased because people from unfriendly countries are most likely to win asylum in this country; and deports people to places where they face persecution or death.

While Amnesty International and its nearly 1 million members worldwide are known best for letter-writing campaigns against torture and executions and to free prisoners of conscience, it describes its refugee work in the United States as "preventive medicine.

1990 PROPERTY TAX RATES IN BIG SPRING INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT

This notice concerns 1990 property tax rates for Big Spring Independent School District. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

"I don't believe it's up to the United States to enforce sanctions against Iraq," al-Anbari said. "We are putting the ball right in the Security Council's court.

The Iraqi president said Sunday that the withdrawal from Kuwait should be tied to Israeli withdrawal from territories it seized in 1967.

Prince Bandar Bin Sultan, the Saudi ambassador to Washington, said on "Good Morning America" that Saddam should not try to make the Israeli territories a part of the Kuwait crisis.

'He is mixing the issues," the ambassador said. "That is not an excuse for an Arab country to go an invade another Arab country.

The United States intensified its military fortification of Saudi Arabia and the surrounding seas over the weekend, sending in Marine and Army air assault troops and shipping Patriot surface-to-air missiles and other sophisticated air-deployed weapons to the region. Sources who disclosed the movements said Pentagon planners assumed that, in the event of an Iraqi attack, an initial air battle could be decisive.

The commander of the U.S. military action, Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, briefed reporters at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida on the logistical difficulties of equipment 7,000 miles by air and 12,000 miles by sea. Schwarzkopf said the Iraqis are "dug in right Arabs envisage establishing an independent Palestinian state in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. The West Bank is 2,270 square miles and is home to 1 million Palestinians. The Gaza Strip is 140 square miles, and houses 750,000 Palestinians. Some 70,000 Israelis live in these territories.

The Arabs have rejected the 1981 annexation of the Golan Heights, which cover some 454 square miles of land and house 24,000 people, including 10,000

It has since maintained some 40,000 troops in Moslem regions in the north and east as well as west Beirut. Some 2.5 million people live in Syrian-controlled regions.

In southern Lebanon, Israel holds a self-designated security zone of about 400 square miles. Israel established the security zone in 1985, after withdrawing the bulk of its army from Lebanon, three years after it invaded. The purpose of the zone, the Israelis claim, is to guard against cross-border guerrilla IRAN-IRAQ: Iran says Iraq still holds 772 square miles of its territories, occupied in the closing weeks of the 1980-88 gulf war. But the United Nations says the area is half that size.

Iran controls the easter bank of the Shatt-al-Arab waterway, a vital fragi outlet to the gulf. Iraq wants full control on the channel, a confluence of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers. Saddam would trade Iranian territories for full sovreignty over the waterway.

KUWAIT: The small gulf sheikdom comprises 6,880 square miles. More than half of its population of 1.8 million is composed of foreigners, mainly Arabs, including some 400,000 Palestinians. Kuwait gained independence from Britain in 1961 and has since been confronted with traqi claims that it is part of that country.

The threat turned into a reality Aug. 2, when tens of thousands of Iraqi troops rumbled in from the north, occupying Kuwait within hours and touching off the latest crisis in the volatile, oil-rich region.

White House pressed torward with its economic isolation of Iraq.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III said the United States would begin "almost instantly" to "take measures that are necessary and proportionate in order to enforce the (United Nations) sanctions.

Asked if the United States was mounting a naval blockade, Baker - appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley," said: "Let's simply say that we now have the ability, the legal basis for interdicting those kinds of shipments." He declined to use the word blockade.

Bush, vacationing in Kennebunkport, Maine, said the U.N.-approved embargo "gave us broad authority, working in conjunction with others, to do whatever is necessary to see no oil goes out."

The Washington Post today quoted a senior administration official as saying, "We will fire on a ship if it won't stop. We'll do the usual things - warn them off, fire a shot across the bow. But if it comes to that, there is no question what we will do.'

As the Bush administration vowed to quarantine Iraq, Saddam, in a statement read by a spokesman on television in Baghdad, urged his people to prepare for hardships that may result from the international economic sanctions.

He also linked any Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait to ap Israeli withdrawal from the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip and a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon. Israel seized the occupied territories from Egypt and Jordan in 1967

The White House "categorically" rejected Saddam's proposals, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, calling them "another attempt at distracting from Iraq's isolation and at imposing a new status quo." Only the unconditional withdrawal of Iraqi forces from Kuwait will satisfy the United States, he said.

Grady holds on for Shoal win

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) -Wayne Grady wasn't going to let anything detract from the first major golf championship of his career.

"I'm not going to remember it like that," he said of the racial controversy that hit the PGA national championship six weeks before it began.

"There are a lot of great

players' names on that trophy,' Grady said. "It doesn't matter how hard you scratch it, my name's going to be there.

He got his name on the trophy by avoiding the thick Shoal Creek rough that caused other challengers to fall away on a bright, sunny Sunday.

Grady used a 71 to complete a 6-under-par 282 for a three-shot victory over Fred Couples, who shot 72 He lost the lead he had held since the second round when Couples birdied the 12th hole to go one shot in front.

'It was too early for me to say 'Here we go again,''' Grady said, alluding to the 1989 British Open he led from the second round until losing a playoff to Mark Calcavecchia

After he took the lead, however, Couples bogeyed the next four holes and was no longer a factor. over the game.

Gil Morgan was only one shot back with six holes to play. He took a double bogey-5 on 13 and never seriously threatened again.

Payne Stewart, the defending champion and the only winner of a major title among the last-day leaders, never got anything going on the front side. Stewart then collapsed, falling nine shots behind with a double bogey-7 on the 11th hole.

"It shows me that I can play under very tough circumstances on a difficult course," Grady said.

"I was very disappointed with the British Open last year," he said. "I'm just very, very fortunate to have won.

Many will remember Grady's first major crown for the controversy that erupted when it was learned that Shoal Creek had no black members. The victory, worth $225,000, helped dim the stigma of being a second-place finisher for Grady, who has been runnerup 29 times around the world.

It was his fifth career victory, his second since joining the PGA Tour six years ago. "It was such a grind," he said. "It's the longest day of my life.

"I had a funny feeling at the start of the week that I might have a good week," he said. "Never did I think I'd win the tournament, at least not until Friday night.

He won with four birdies on Sunday, including a 60-foot putt on the first hole, and six consecutive par putts down the stretch after Couples played himself out of contention.

Couples had taken a one-shot lead when he sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the 12th hole. Then came Grady's four birdies in succession, the first three when Couples missed three par putts from 3-4 feet

'Somebody's got to win,' the dejected Couples said. "Maybe someday I'll get so far ahead I can bogey every hole.'

her previous best of almost $108,000 in 1986 and a complete turnaround from last year's

'If I hadn't come out this year and had a good year, that would have been it," she said after beating Caroline Keggi on the first playoff hole following a rousing birdie duel.

"Then the fun started," said Keggi, 25, of Middlebury, Conn., in only her second year on the tour and without a victory.

Keggi birdied 13, 14 and 15 while Gerring birdied 14 and 15, almost chipping in for an eagle on 15. They both birdied 17, with Gerring again missing an eagle by inches. Then Keggi birdied the 18th with a 20-foot putt to put them both at 7-under 181 and into a playoff.

On the first playoff hole, Gerring, one of the longer hitters on the tour who reached every green in regulation, drove a 4-iron out of the rough 168 yards to within three feet of the pin.

U.S. hoopsters get stern test tonight

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Alonzo Mourning has had to play at Syracuse's Carrier Dome, where 30,000 orange-clad fans let him know their opinion of Georgetown.

Georgia Tech's Kenny Anderson has tried to run an offense at Cameron Indoor Stadium where Duke fans revel in their creativity for unsettling even the best of collegiate players Mark Randall has had to face the Welcome to Luna Park, a 6,500-seat arena with a history as rich and colorful as the Argentine fans who will congregate there tonight as the United States faces the host country in the first of three quarterfinal games.

"It's much different than that," U.S. coach Mike Krzyzewski said Sunday in comparing what his team will face here with what college teams encounter on the road. "For Argentina, this is a thing for the whole country, not just a university, and they are a very emotional, very proud people. Since then, Luna Park has been the city's top indoor arena with world championship boxing matches featuring Argentine heroes Luis "The Wild Bull of the Pampas" Firpo and Carlos Monzon as well as tennis tournaments and concerts featuring performers ranging from Frank Sinatra and Rudolph Nureyev to the Moscow Circus and Disney on Parade.

In "Evita," Luna Park was where the Perons first met, and it was the only building suitable to host the wedding of soccer superstar Maradona last year.

It will be the Americans' first glimpse of the arena. First-round games in the tournament were played at four sites outside Buenos Aires. The atmosphere they'll find will be more on the order of fight night than wedding day.

Argentine fans are famous for choreographed cheers and constant singing and dancing. President Carlos Menem is expected to attend and ticket sales are brisk despite costs ranging from $25 to $70, extremely steep in a country which has had severe economic problems in recent years.

Bulls forward gets new pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran forward Horace Grant has signed a $6 million, 3-year contract extension with the Chicago Bulls, according to published reports.

The agreement will make Grant the second highest-paid Bulls player behind Michael Jordan and one of the highest-paid forwards inthe NBA, the Chicago Tribune reported.

The contract, signed Saturday, brought to a close eight months of talks between Bulls vice president Jerry Krause, Bulls owner Jerry Reinsdorf and Grant's representatives, Kyle Rote Jr. and Jimmy Sexton.

"I can say that we're happy to have Horace, and he's obviously happy to be with us," Krause said. Grant, 25, started all but two games for the Bulls' last season, averaging 13.4 points on 52.3 percent shooting and 7.9 rebounds. In the playoffs he was even better, grabbing 9.9 rebounds per game.

Alberta (AP) - Kim Do-Wan and Chung Min-Tae combined to strike out 17 American batters as South Korea shocked the United States 5-3 at the world baseball championship Sunday, putting the U.S. team's medal hopes in jeopardy. American starter Aaron Sele was working on a no-hitter when Park Jung-Tae connected for a three-run homer in the sixth inning. Pinch-hitter Kong Eui-Sik added a two-run double for South Korea in the eighth.

With the loss, the U.S. team must hope the powerful Cubans lose to either South Korea or Taiwan, leaving the United States with a shot if it can beat Cuba on Wednesday

Washington team wins softball crown

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — The Sting of Puyallup, Wash., took its first title Sunday in the American Softball Association's National U-18 Girls Softball Tournament.

The Washington team beat second-place Unique of Fort Worth, Texas, 11-5 to claim the crown at Memorial Field.

Big first inning leads Reds

By The Associated Press Now that the San Francisco Giants have gotten back into the National League West race, the Cincinnati Reds are trying to push them out of it again.

The Reds batted around in the first inning Sunday and scored four runs as they ran off to a 6-4 victory over the Giants. Cincinnati leads the four-game series 2-1 and has increased its lead back to 512 games.

Hal Morris had an RBI single in the first inning and added a solo homer in the third.

Tom Browning (12-6) won for the 10th time in 11 decisions, giving up eight hits and three walks in 6 1-3 innings. Randy Myers got four outs for his 23rd save in 27 opportunities.

Scott Garrelts (9-9) made his first start in nine days for the Giants. Garrelts, who came within one out of no-hitting the Reds at Candlestick Park on July 29, had missed his last scheduled start because of a sore elbow Padres 9, Astros 0 Derek Lilliquist pitched a fourhitter and San Diego completed its best road trip in history by routing Houston.

The Padres went 9-2 on the trip and bested the 8-5 of a swing in April 1989. San Diego went 9-7 on a trip in August 1972. Overall, the single. Harkey is the first Cubs Padres have won four straight games and 16 of their last 21.

Whitaker undisputed champ

LAKE TAHOE, Nev. (AP) First there was Hector Camacho's shocking purple-feathered mask. Then there was Pernell Whitaker's shocking left to the jaw

"I'm shocked that I hit so hard, Whitaker said.

So was Juan Nazario of Puerto Rico, who needed more than 10 seconds to get over the shock of the punch, which meant he lost the World Boxing Association lightweight title on a knockout at 2:59 of the first round Saturday

Whitaker, who already held the World Boxing Council and International Boxing Federation 135-pound titles, said he expects to fight once more as a lightweight, then move up to the 140-pound junior welterweight division.

There he could fight Julio Cesar Chavez, the IBF and WBC chamwho was talking about a March fight against Chavez after his victory over Tony "The Tiger" Baltazar.

"I don't have to fight Chavez,"

Camacho said. "I'm popular as it is. I make money as it is, but he's a great fighter, and with him I'll be like (Sugar Ray) Leonard wasting Marvin Hagler. Camacho's ring entrance seemed to be more popular with the crowd of about 5,500 at Caesars Tahoe than was his successful 12-round World Boxing Organization junior welterweight title defense, which was onesided to the point of tedium.

Besides the mask, Camacho wore black trunks designed to look like a loincloth, with badges on the front and back on which were printed the letter "M" for Macho. Camacho, who grew up in New pion, or maybe Hector Camacho, York's Spanish Harlem, lives on an Ramos hit Taylor low with a right Florida Baltazar contributed to the wrestling atmosphere by entering the ring accompanied by someone wearing a tiger suit.

Camacho's speed of hand and foot and the accuracy of his punches made the fight a mismatch. Meldrick Taylor, who also would like to fight Chavez, but this time as a welterweight, opened the HBO telecast with a 10-round decision over Primo Ramos, who he had outpointed over 10 rounds in 1987.

A wild seventh round marked Taylor's first fight since he lost the IBF 140-pound title on March 17. In that fight, Taylor was stopped by Chavez with two seconds left in the fight and with Taylor far ahead in the official scoring

Edberg wins easily

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Stefan Edberg missed his flight Sunday evening after the ATP Championship. It wasn't because he didn't hurry.

Edberg needed just 51 minutes to beat Brad Gilbert 6-1, 6-1 in the most lopsided singles final in the 21 years since the tournament has taken place in the Cincinnati area. Australians Darren Cahill and Mark Kratzmann teamed to defeat South Africans Neil Broad and Gary Muller 7-6 (10-8), 6-2 for the doubles title. The quick victory capped a week in which Edberg overtook Ivan Lendl to become the No. 1 men's player in the world in the computer ratings. "This is one to remember with all the things that have happened this week," said Edberg, who has won 17 straight matches and his last three tournaments, including Wimbledon. "This will always be special to me. I'm always going to remember this week

The final was a rematch of the championship a year ago at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center when Gilbert won 6-4, 2-6, 7-6 (7-5)The difference was dramatic.

"The guy thoroughly beat on me. That's the bottom line. He just beat on me today," said Gilbert, who held service in just two of his seven service games in the final.

Edberg said he planned to take a few days off before playing in the Hamlet Challenge Cup on Long Island

Graf wins; now it's vacation time

Graf's first priority after winning her 50th singles title was to get away from it all.

"It's vacation!" Graf said Sunday after achieving the milestone by defeating Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere 6-3, 6-2 in the Great American tennis tournament final.

"I won't be playing any tennis for the next few days," said Graf, who headed for her U.S. home in Boca Raton, Fla., confident she's ready for the upcoming U.S. Open. 'Definitely,' she said

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Robyn Astaire, Fred Astaire's widow, says in a lawsuit that CBS Records owes her more than $50,000 in royalties on her husband's recordings.

The lawsuit filed Friday says CBS Records underreports and underpays royalties to entertainers. The lawsuit demands return of an estimated 50 to 100 master recordings, including the soundtracks to such Astaire films as "Easter Parade," said Thomas White, an industry consultant who manages the Astaire music assets.

Norma Perkins, Jimmy Shaeffer and Nathanael Sprinkle were among the 96 prospective college students attending freshman orientation sessions at Sul Ross State University July 18-20 to prepare for the fall semester.

The students were accompanied by about 50 parents and family members.

Orientation sessions were designed to acquaint students with the university and to give them a preview of college life and an opportunity to meet other incoming freshmen.

Parents, including Harry and Juanita Shaeffer, learned about university programs and financial obligations and met university

The next orientation of new students will be Aug. 27.

Three named to honor roll

Three Big Spring residents are listed on the President's Honor Roll for the Spring quarter at Texas State Technical Institute in Waco. They are: Blain R. Callison, aircraft pilot training technology; Henry E. Currie, aviation maintenance technology; and Richard B. Torina, biomedical equipment technology.

The President's Honor Roll recognizes the achievement of students with a grade point average of 4.0.

Parker graduates nursing school

Tena Parker, Oklahoma City, formerly of Big Spring, graduated from Francis Tuttle School of Nursing July 27.

She attended Big Spring High School and Howard County Junior Honors classes College where she obtained a paramedic certification.

Graduation ceremony set

The 1990 commencement exercises for Texas State Technical Institute-Sweetwater will be Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Sweetwater High School.

Cecil Groves, chancellor of the TSTI-System, will be the ceremony's keynote speaker. The graduation ceremonies will mark TSTI-Sweetwater's 20 anniversary.

Taylor earns master's degree

Rebbecca P. Taylor, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Taylor, 1107 Ridgeroad, graduated Saturday from North Texas State University, Denton, with a master's degree in library science. A life-long resident of Big Spring, Rebbecca graduated from Big Spring High School, where she was president of the Young Democrats Club. She attended Howard County Junior College. While there she was on the Dean's List Ampla Cum Laude for two years and was selected for Who's Who in American Colleges. She obtained an associate of arts degree at Howard College in May 1967.

She graduated with honors from San Angelo State University with a bachelor of arts degree in 1973, where she majored in government and history.

offered at OC

Honors classes, a concept new to community colleges, will be available at Odessa College in the fall, according to Sue Blair, honors program coordinator.

Fall semester honors classes include English 2300, team-taught by Lee Buice and Ned Pilcher; government/history 2310, teamtaught by Tom Heiting and Brian Dille; Chemistry 1301, taught by Don Taylor; and management 1300, taught by Larry Berthelsen.

Applications for the honors classes are available in the counseling center. For more information about the program, call Blair at 335-6538.

Round-Up scheduled at Hardin-Simmons

Hardin-Simmons University is inviting potential students to a 'Round-Up'' on Sept. 28-29. Events will include a tour, a pool party, a pep rally, and a football game (HSU will play Sul Ross

Child enjoys Texas Lions Camp

By MICHAEL DUFFY Staff Writer

Sandra McQuitty admits she was somewhat worried that it would be the first time her 7-yearold son was away from home for an extended period of time.

Charles McQuitty was born deaf, but that handicap didn't prevent him from thoroughly enjoying himself for 13 days at the Texas Lions Camp in Kerrville.

The annual summer camp sponsored by the Lions Club is designed specifically for children who are handicapped with everything from cerebral palsy to diabetes. What makes the camp even more unique is that many counselors are afflicted with the same handicap as the children

One-third of the counselors at Texas Lions Camp are also handicapped.

'Charles really had a good time," McQuitty said. "He was driven up there by a member of the Lions Club (Lonnie Legg) that he only met briefly one time before, but they got along fine."

She added that most of the time children at the camp had several counselors supervising their activities.

"They really got involved with the children and worked with them," McQuitty said.

The boy went horseback riding and swimming, basically just participating in all the activities, his mother said. Charles - who "speaks" through sign language — has never experienced problems communicating with his two brothers and sister and didn't experience any trouble at camp. "One of the most important things he learned at the camp is to respect other children who are handicapped," McQuitty advised. Charles apparently earned the affection of the counselors especially those of the female gender — who selected him

'Most Loved' by women. Big Spring resident Bill Birrell, who spent last weekend at the camp, said it was founded 40 years ago when polio was crippling a large number of children.

Birrell said he was surprised when he observed young children with handicaps walking across a bridge made of rope.

"Those kids weren't letting anything stop them," he said.

He added that children who attend the summer camp learn selfreliance and understand they are not the only one in the world who has a disability like they do. Children who contract diabetes at an early age are treated with extra care at the Texas Lions Camp because often their lives are cut short by the disease.

"They (diabetics) are taught how to give themselves insulin injections," Birrell said.

While attending the camp, Birrell said he was informed that three diabetic children who attended last summer recently died from the disease and her husband, Dan, worried because they didn't know how Charles would react to a completely new environment.

While he was away, McQuitty

"After a week my husband said I should call and see how he was doing," she said. "The counselors were great and they told me he was doing fine.

Charles will be a second grade student in the fall and attend a school for the hearing impaired in Midland, McQuitty explained.

She believes the camp was very beneficial for Charles, who apparently didn't want to leave his friends when it was time to begin the trek back to Big Spring.

"He was crying and hugging all the counselors," McQuitty recalled. "He didn't want to leave his new friends.

diplomatic sources in the region President Bush and his top aides avoided using the word "blockade" Sunday to describe a U.S. decision to use whatever means necessary to choke off Iraq's oil trade and imports of other goods, including food. But their intention was clear. "I consider interdiction of shipping to be in accord" with United Nations economic sanctions, Bush told reporters Sunday. "No point getting into all these semantics. The main thing is to stop the oil from coming out of there and that

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the tanker sailed away today; after its apparent attempt to defy a U.S. declaration that its warships would enforce a U.N. embargo aimed at forcing Iraq's Saddam Hussein to give up his forced annexation of Kuwait.

Channel suffers 3rd spill crews today transferred oil off a leaky barge to stem the flow of petroleum from two ruptured tanks that already had spewed at least 21,000 gallons of heavy fuel oil into the Houston Ship Channel, U.S. Coast Guard officials said.

'They finished the lightering this morning and now they're just trying to clean up the remaining oil, said Coast Guard Seaman Karl Christensen. "They're using booms and vacuum trucks, small boats and absorbent pads. There were some skimmers and pumps supposed to be arriving later today to help with that effort.

The third significant spill of the summer occurred while the barge was being loaded at an Arco-Lyondell Petrochemical dock Sunday.

No. 6 fuel oil spilled from two center tanks as a crease cut across the barge, owned by Ingram Barge Co. of Nashville, Tenn., at the dock in southeast Houston. The cause wasn't immediately determined.

Crews began lightering, the process of loading the oil from the crippled barge onto another vessel, about 11 p.m. Sunday, said Coast. Guard Senior Chief Dale: Eichmann. That was complete: before 9 a.m. today.

The barge had been loaded with, 630,000 gallons of oil, Eichmann said. It had a capacity of 840,000

He said he doubted the spillwould grow larger than 500 barrels, or about 21,000 gallons.

"Our diver reports show no fractures along the sides or bottom of the barge, only the fractures on top and about three feet down the sides, where it buckled," Eichmann said. "That's good news, it means the rest of the barge is in good shape.

Crews put temporary patches over a two-foot fracture on the barge's starboard side and a threeinch split on its port side Sunday evening, Eichmann said.

But he said the patches were expected to give way and the fractures to expand slightly as the lightering continued and the barge straightened.

Eichmann said the barge's fore and aft ends had buckled upward; causing a crack on the top of the vessel and rupturing a tank

"It's unusual in the way that it happened," Eichmann said. "It was just sitting there at the dock and apparently, it just started buckling in half. The metal deck folded down on top of it and cracked it down the middle.

Cleanup crews from Arco and Lyondell Petrochemical Co. ere able to string three contain booms around the area after the 10 a.m. accident.

Water sniffer a connoisseur of potability

By DEBBIE HIOTT Austin American-Statesman

AUSTIN - David Houston doesn't dare slap on cologne in the morning, and he couldn't smoke on the job even if he wanted. It would be in bad taste - for the city's water. Houston is a chemist at the city's Davis Water Treatment Facility.

Every day, he and two co-workers smell samples of the city's water to make sure every sniff is up to snuff The job has turned Houston into a self-described water connoisseur. "You'd be surprised at how you pick up on smells you normally wouldn't pick up," said Houston, swishing a glass and taking a whiff of the water.

It is not something just anyone can do. And to be able to do it effectively, the odor testers have to follow certain guidelines, such as the ban on perfumes, colognes and smoking.

They also have to avoid all food and drinks near testing time. "We don't want someone to drink a cup of coffee, then come over and try to smell something," Houston said. "It wouldn't work Houston and his colleagues check water drawn directly from Lake Austin and water processed by the city's purification facilities. Both types of samples are checked against a control vial of virtually odorless water. After the three chemists sniff the water in different concentrations, they vote to determine if it is before it is released into the city system. Houston said the city works hard to avoid foul-smelling water and that odors are a rarity. But they happen occasionally, especially in the city's tap water.

"It's kind of fishy or muddy," he said. "Not really pleasant." Microbiologist Rosie Barrios,

USDA cancels public calendar

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Johnson's yard, located at 700

N. St. Paul St., was selected recently by the Mar-

WASHINGTON — Bureaucratic ooze has engulfed a popular daily calendar that for many years has informed the public where senior officials at the Agriculture Department spend their time and with whom.

The daily schedules of Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter and his top aides were last published on July 19. Efforts by news organizations that regularly cover USDA to have them reinstated have been denied. "There's no requirement for us to produce a calendar such as that," said Kelly Shipp, director of the department's Office of Public Affairs. "If you want to know who is meeting with whom, you're more than welcome" to file under the Freedom of Information Act. Long before the FOIA, the creaky old department was something of a model of openness. Glasnost, which made its mark in the Kremlin, was old hat in USDA, Of course there were and are secrets. You are in peril of life and limb if an attempt is made to crack the Mockup foom' where crop reports are prepared. And television monitors keep track of visitors hanging around the secretary's office. Speaking of which, the USDA secretary's glass-walled outer office once was shrouded from the inside by heavy drapes so passersby couldn't identify visitors by sight.

The drapes came down during

the Nixon years so reporters and anyone else could see inside. Sometimes you could even go into the "bird cage" outer office and read a magazine or two while keeping an eye out for agricultural celebrities.

But gradually there was a tightening of the rules. The old USDA, referred to as "peculiarly the people's department" by creator Abraham Lincoln, became perceptibly stuffier and harder to penetrate because of the security. Tourists once were freely able to traipse in from the rounds of the nearby museums and art galleries and get free USDA brochures and booklets on virtually every subject. Fees are charged now, and the booklets have to be ordered from some place out West. So the elimination of the daily postings of schedules is only a small part of the changes that have occurred.

The public versions of the daily schedules of USDA officials underwent editing to delete certain sensitive appointments from the calendars, a practice that went two years of decline, the depart back through at least several administrations.

Shipp, who was Yeutter's press secretary before taking over the top public affairs post recently, is slightly next year.

still his chief spokeswoman. In an interview with The Associated Press and United Press International, Shipp said the canceling of the daily appointments calendar was an internal matter and "you're just making too much out of it." She said Yeutter did not make the decision to cancel

"It was a decision made at a lower level," she said. "I'm not even sure he's aware of the decision. It was not a press (office) decision. It was not Kelly Shipp.'

The daily calendar was canceled for three basic reasons, Shipp said. It was not accurate, she said, and there are difficulties switching to a new computer system. Another reason is security. Daily schedules were floated all over Washington, allowing lobbyists, market speculators, foreign interests and intelligence gatherers of all sorts to note the comings and goings at USDA. WASHINGTON - The nation's total 1991 meat output is expected to increase about 3 percent from this year's level, according to Agriculture Department projections. Red meat, mostly beef and pork, is forecast to increase in 1991 after ment's Economic Research Service said in last week's monthly

The United States intensified its military fortification of Saudi Arabia and the surrounding seas over the weekend, sending in Marine and Army air assault troops and shipping Patriot surface-to-air missiles and other sophisticated air-deployed weapons to the region. Sources who disclosed the movements said Pentagon planners assumed that, in the event of an Iraqi attack, an initial air battle could be decisive. The commander of the U.S. military action, Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, briefed reporters at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida on the logistical difficulties of transporting troops and backup equipment 7,000 miles by air and 12,000 miles by sea. Schwarzkopf said the Iraqis are "dug in right now for a strong defense.

"We have built up a great deal of force over there now ... and if they do make an attack they are going to pay a price for it," he said. Schwarzkopf said troops would be on guard against terrorists as well as Iraqi guns and gas. An estimated 50,000 troops are committed to Saudi Arabia in the initial deployment, with contingency plans for a force up to 250,000. "I would never tell you that the American forces that are there are 100 percent out of harm's way," the general said.

Indeed, the Pentagon reported the first casualty of the military action on Sunday. Air Force Staff Sgt. John Campisi, a 30-year-old aircraft mechanic from Covina. Calif., was killed when he was his by a truck on a darkened runway. While soldiers took up their stations in the Saudi deserts, the White House pressed forward with its economic isolation of Iraq.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III said the United States would begin "almost instantly" to "take measures that are necessary and proportionate in order to enforce the (United Nations) sanctions

Asked if the United States was mounting a naval blockade, Baker appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley," said: "Let's simply say that we now have the ability, the legal basis for interdicting those kinds of shipments." He declined to use the word blockade.

Bush, vacationing in Kennebunkport, Maine, said the U.N.-approved embargo "gave us broad authority, working in conjunction with others, to do whatever is necessary to see no oil goes out.

Asked if the United States would block shipments of food as well as oil, the president said, "Just watch. Everything.

The Washington Post today quoted a senior administration official as saying, "We will fire on a ship if it won't stop. We'll do the usual things — warn them off, fire a shot across the bow. But if it comes to that, there is no question what we will do.

The U.S. pledge to stop the flow of goods in and out of Iraq came after Kuwait's exiled leader, Sheik Jaber Alahmed Al-Saba, asked that the United States take steps to ensure the U.N. economic sanctions take hold.

As the Bush administration vowed to quarantine Iraq, Saddam, in a statement read by a spokesman on television in Baghdad, urged his people to prepare for hardships that may result from the international economic sanctions

He also linked any Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait to an Israeli withdrawal from the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip and a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon. Israel seized the occupied territories from Egypt and Jordan in 1967.

The White House "categorically" rejected Saddam's proposals, press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said, calling them "another attempt at distracting from Iraq's isolation and at imposing a new status quo." Only the unconditional withdrawal of Iragi forces from Kuwait will satisfy the United States, he said.

The United States, France and Britain have sent ships to the Persian Gulf, and Egypt and Morocco have dispatched ground troops to Saudi Arabia to join the U.S. and Saudi forces

Syria, long at odds with the United States which has accused it of supporting terrorism, also joined the Arab League vote to send troops to Saudi Arabia

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX INCREASE

The (Martin County Hospital District) will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in (1989) by (22%) percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or less rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on (August 21, 1990) at (Martin County Hospital).

FOR the proposal: Eddie Odom, Lloyd Mims, James Jenkins and Gwen Sawyer.

AGAINST the proposal: None PRESENT and not voting: None ABSENT: David Zant and Pete Morrison.

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the (effective) tax rate that the unit published on (July 1990). The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

Average home value	Last Year 28,420	This Year 28,327
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	6,554	6,569
Average taxable value	21,866	21,758
Tax rate	.174	.174 (proposed)
Tax	38.04	37.85 (proposed)

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would (decrease) by $(.19) or (decrease .005%) percent compared with last year's taxes.

Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would stay the same by $(0) per $100 of taxable value or (0) percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.
