Coahoma ISD sets tax rate

The Coahoma Independent School District set its tax rate at $1.39 per $100 of valuation at a recent meeting.

Revenues of $2,786,000 from the rate will aid the district in meeting a $5.5 million total budget, said superintendent Gary Rotan.

The tax rate is down from $1.44 last year.

'We had some increase in state funding this year," Rotan said. "And last year, we had a 103 percent tax collection Those are two factors that allowed us to set a lower rate.

Though much of Howard County experienced the opposite trend, property values in the district were down $1.2 million. Rotan said.

The district also hired three teachers at the meeting.

 Marva Pruitt, who has a bachelor's degree from Angelo State University will teach high school computer science.

 Kay Goswick, who has a bachelor's degree from the College of the Southwest, will

A National Aeronautics and Space Administration weather balloon, initially mistaken by some as a UFO, veered off course Wednesday, adding a little excitement to a hot summer night for many southeast Big Spring residents.

The weather balloon, launched about 11 a.m. at Palestine in East Texas, landed on a TU Electric main feeder line shortly after 8:45 p.m., causing 2,400 customers to be without electricty for about 20 minutes, officials said.

A sheriff's dispatcher received several calls about possible UFO sightings and police department lines were busy for an extended period due to inquisitive callers.

Big Spring District Manager Hooper Sanders said the power line, which he called a "main artery," did not sustain any damage and when TU Electric employees removed the large parachute, power was quickly

Bob Howie, a pilot who charts the course of weather balloons launched by the National Scientific Balloon Facility (in Palestine), said the helium-filled balloon, weighted by a large roll cage, carried a weather-related experiment from scientists in Belgium.

'The balloon reached heights of 132,000 feet and it basically just got blown off course," he explained.

NSBF officials in Palestine have been launching weather-balloon experiments since 1963 and Howie stressed that it is not unusual for the balloons to stray from chartered courses.

Inmates can receive Klan publications

HOUSTON(AP) - TheTexas Department of Criminal Justice has granted a Texas Ku Klux Klan group permission to mail such publications as "Negro Watch," "Jew Watch" and "Knightly News" to prison inmates.

The decision will allow mailings of Klan literature to subscribers among the prison systems more than 13,500 white inmates and will help the organization recruit members, Klan officials said Wednesday.

Civil rights groups, who said the publications would only fuel prison violence, immediately criticized the decision.

Loren Finkelstein, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith's southwest regional office in Houston, said he was "concerned and disturbed" by the prison approval to mail Texas KKK materials to inmates.

Reservists continue missions in wake of crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - As families mourned loved ones killed in a military plane crash, officials promised reservists at Kelly Air Force Base would press on with their volunteer missions to the Middle East.

"This is a terrible, stunning tragedy for all of us," Maj. Meade Warthen, spokesman for the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, said Wednesday. "We are in a state of shock, although not to the point where we're not functioning. We're carrying on the operation.

Nine reservists with the 433rd were among 13 killed when a C-5 cargo plane crashed Tuesday at Ramstein Air Base in West Germany. Ten of the 17 people aboard were from the 433rd, which is based at Kelly.

Leaders praise resigning commissioner

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders praised Texas Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby, who announced plans to retire after overseeing major public school reforms over the last six years.

"I think he's brought real leadership to the Texas Education Agency at a time of real turmoil in public schools in this state," said Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, head of the House Public Education Committee.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Kirby made sweeping education reforms approved in 1984 "workable and understandable." Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby praised his "wisdom and dedication.' Added Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port

Arthur, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, "He has had as much or more to deal with as any chief executive officer in charge of education in any state in

"He has made a contribution to the betterment of education in this country," he said.

Kirby, 50, said he has no immediate plans for a new job. although he might teach part-time: "Come the end of January, I'm looking forward to some opportunity for relaxation, maybe a little additional scuba diving, and probably a whole lot more fishing.

He has been commissioner for six years, a job he described as satisfying but stressful.

Suspended chief faces charges

DALLAS (AP) — A grand jury will consider perjury charges next month against suspended Police Chief Mack Vines, who faces renewed pressure to resign and doubts about his leadership capability.

City Manager Jan Hart named a new acting chief Wednesday and said Vines would remain on indefinite suspension. But the Dallas Police Association again urged Vines' ouster.

"We have stated previously that we would like his resignation immediately," said Monica Smith, the union's president.

Vines, 51, in the past has said he did nothing wrong and refused to resign, but a City Council member said the perjury charges filed Wednesday hampered Vines' leadership ability in the job he has held since 1988.

"It certainly makes it more difficult for Chief Vines to stay on as chief," said councilman Glenn

Ms. Hart placed Vines on leave earlier this month because of an investigation into his testimony to a special panel looking into a police shooting.

"Today, as a result of (the) investigation, seven perjury cases have been filed and referred to a Dallas County grand jury against" Vines, said District Attorney John

"It's sufficient to note that we found in that investigation ... seven separate counts of aggravated perjury," he said. "I think the chief made two appearances (before the panel), but we can't go into what is alleged in each of those because that is still pending before the

Chemical weapons disposal lags

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is behind schedule and over budget in its destruction of old chemical weapons, but Congress shares blame for some of the problems, the General Accounting Office says.

In a report released Wednesday, the congressional investigative agency said the Army's prototype disposal facility, now in operation, is 32 months behind schedule and will cost at least $190 million more than 1985 estimates. Delays also will boost costs of storing chemical weapons by $33 million.

The GAO said two laws passed by Congress were largely responsible for delays and cost overruns, although technical problems and poor contractor performance also caused problems at the prototype facility on a Pacific

In addition, a 1987 law ordered tests to make sure the weapon destruction did not harm the "Most of the increased estimated cost can be attributed to the two statutory requirements and the technical and contractor problems," the report said.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich. chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, said Congress had given the Defense Department "more than enough additional time to complete the task" despite the program expansion and testing program ordered by lawmakers.

Census figures in doubt

Democrats are mobilizing local officials to protest preliminary census figures and pressure the government to take another look at the count for the nation's cities and rural areas

"I don't believe it," New York Gov. Mario Cuomo said Wednesday when the Census Bureau estimated that his state's population grew by fewer than 70,000 during the past decade.

'Way out of line,'' Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson said of the estimate for his city. An analysis done for Democratic state legislators said the preliminary figures for rural areas, particularly in the South, were consistently below the population estimates issued by the Census Bureau in February. With the release of numbers for

New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Texas, the Census Bureau completed its estimate of the population for all 50 states.

Overall, the preliminary census figures show the United States with a population of 245,837,683. Ten years ago, the census set the nation's population at 226,545,805. To no one's surprise, the numbers showed Americans continued to move South and West during the past 10 years. Nineteen U.S. House seats will growth. But a similar trend in the 1980 Census, when 17 House seats shifted South and West, failed to yield expected GOP gains because most of the state legislators who drew the new district lines were Democrats.

The big winner when the shift takes place in time for the 1992 election will be California, which is expected to gain seven new House seats for a total of 52. With a population expected to push close to 30 million, California would have 21 more House seats than the second-largest state, New York.

Based on the preliminary population figures, Florida would gain four House seats and Texas three. Picking up one each would be Arizona, Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia and Washington.

New York would lose three House seats and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Illinois two each. Losing one seat each would be Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Montana, New Jersey and West Virginia.

Officials who think the Census Bureau missed a lot of people in their areas have 15 working days to submit information to support claims they were undercounted. Kimball Brace, president of

Election Data Services, a consulting firm that and the census data for Democratic state legislators, told a news conference that the figures were subject to That trend was good news for considerable adjustment before the government comes out with MOHAWK WARRIOR

Armenian army asked to disarm

MOSCOW(AP) - A renegade paramilitary group agreed to disband after the Armenian Parliament outlawed it and declared a state of emergency, the republic's president announced today.

Leaders of the Armenian National Army were to make a television appeal for several hundred members to turn in their weapons, Levon Ter-Petrosyan told Parliament, according to the official Tass news agency.

Acceptance of the appeal would defuse tensions in one of the Soviet Union's most volatile republics, where fighting with neighboring Azerbaijan has claimed hundreds of lives in the last two years.

The Armenian National Army claims to protect Armenians from armed groups from the neighboring republic of Azerbaijan. But its members have also attacked police stations and gasoline depots in Armenia to steal weapons and fuel they need to fight Azerbaijanis.

Parliament declared the emergency Wednesday, following shootings in the republic's capital, Yerevan. Members of the Armenian National Army with automatic weapons had attacked the headquarters of the Armenian National Movement, a group loyal to the local government.

Separately, a lawmaker and a member of the Armenian National Movement were shot and killed early Wednesday as they approached the Armenian National Army headquarters to investigate an earlier attack.

Jewish arms cache discovered

JERUSALEM (AP) — Police today announced the discovery of an arms cache including shoulder-held missiles that reportedly was meant to blow up the Dome of the Rock, one of the holiest shrines of Islam.

Police found the cache belonging to a radical Jewish activist, convicted in a 1984 attempt to attack the gold-domed mosque, in the ultra-Orthodox neighborhood of Mea Shearim, National Police spokesman Roni Yishaya said. The Israeli daily Haaretz reported the arms were stolen from the army by Shimon Barda, leader of a cave-dwelling mystical Jewish sect, for a se cond attempt on the mosque. The daily Hadashot said several more arrests were expected in the alleged plot. Yishaya refused to comment on the reports. He confirmed two LAW missiles were found but would not reveal what else was in the arms cache.

Child neglect

In campaigning for the presidency, George Bush promised to "invest in our children." Nowhere could that investment yield a higher return than in combating this nation's abysmally high rate of infant mortality. Yet an interagency recommendation to make reducing infant mortality a top national priority has apparently landed on the White House shelf where Bush domestic initiatives and campaign promises go to gather dust.

The recommendation comes from a White House task force, representing nine Cabinet departments, set up last year to study infant health. Noting that the United States is not meeting the national infant mortality goals that the government established a decade ago, the task force reports proposes spending $480 million on 18 measures to expand access to prenatal care and improve the health of expectant mothers.

Task force members say their report has been put aside because it conflicts with budget priorities. White House officials reply that the report still requires work.

But after years of studies and reports, no further work is required to know what needs to be done to reduce infant mortality in the United States, which now ranks 20th among nations on this measure. Studies by the National Academy of Sciences, medical groups and the National Commission to Prevent Infant Motality have shown repeatedly that expanded prenatal care, using existing techniques, could save tens of thousands of infants who are now dying, surviving crippled or requiring expensive medical intervention at birth.

Taking this initiative could also save money. Babies born with low birth weights require $2 billion worth of hospital care each year; each of those born with complications has lifetime medical costs typically running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The modest investment the task force recommends in expanded Medicaid coverage for prenatal and infant care, nutrition and prevention of substance abuse would quickly repay itself in lower medical costs and give the nation the long-term benefit of healthier and more productive

"This country cannot afford its current infant morality rate in economic or in human terms," the task force report correctly concludes. But White House neglect of its recommendations suggests that the president takes another, more shortsighted view — that the United States cannot afford to keep up with the rest of the civilized world in ensuring the health of its youngest and most vulnerable citizens.

Bolstering the lines of defense against fraud

By BILL STERNBERG Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON - For fiveyears, Rep. Ron Wyden has been preaching about a subject that makes most of his colleagues yawn: the need to reform the nation's financial reporting systems.

'Let's face it: most members (of Congress) don't get up in the morning and say 'let's talk about generally accepted accounting principles," concedes Wyden, a Democrat from Oregon.

In the wake of the savings and loan debacle, however, financial fraud is suddenly a hotter topic on Capitol Hill than flag burning. Investors want reassurance that when they buy stock, or put money in a bank, they aren't turning their savings over to a bunch of crooks. Lawmakers are struggling to understand how the thrift fiasco occurred and how to prevent it from spreading to other industries

Wyden, a balding 41-year-old who has made a career of attacking unnoticed evils, says part of the blame rests on the highlypaid, well-educated Certified Public Accountants who often failed to detect rampant misconduct at thrifts whose books they were auditing.

"Accountants were supposed to have been the nation's first line of defense against fraud and illegality at S&Ls," he says. "Clearly, these defenses failed. Accountants did not cause the S&L mess, but the breakdown of these so-called accounting safeguards will cost taxpayers billions in the years ahead.

The Resolution Trust Corp. attributes 40 percent of thrift failures to insider fraud kickbacks, worthless loans, phony appraisals, sweetheart deals and the like. Somehow, this seems to have escaped the attention of the CPAs combing the books of these outfits. Wyden points out that 29 of 31 insolvent California S&Ls had "clean" audits shortly before they were taken over by the government.

The government, looking for deep pockets in an effort to recoup federally-insured money looted from the thrifts, has filed 21 legal actions against public accounting firms seeking more than $1.5 billion in damages for alleged

On Capitol Hill, Wyden's two previous efforts to legislate changes in financial reporting have been stymied, largely by opposition from corporate interests (which would face higher audit fees) and the powerful lobbying organization representing accountants.

Now Wyden and several colleagues have drafted a new bill designed to strengthen internal controls at publicly held companies, make sure that regulators find out about fraud not corrected by a company's management, and give legal protection to auditors who go to regulators.

The issues are still rather arcane, but the eyes of Wyden's colleagues no longer glaze over when the subject is raised.

Wyden says he is "very hopeful" that outrage over the savings and loan scandal will propel the measure through Congress.

'We're going to pull out all the stops," he says. "I think the public is really looking at this."

The legislation got an important boost at a recent hearing when the nation's highly regarded chief accountant, Comptroller General Charles A. Bowsher, endorsed some of the key provisions.

Bowsher pointed out that accountants have traditionally shied away from searching for corporate fraud, and if they happen to stumble on it, they are reluctant to upset the "auditor-client relationship" by telling anyone outside the company about it.

A representative of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants said the 300,000-member association still opposes direct reporting of fraud to authorities, but the industry could live with provisions pertaining to internal controls and tougher audit standards.

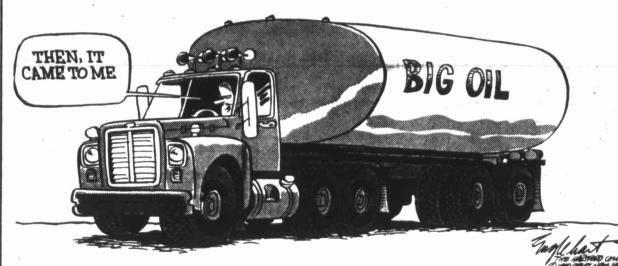

So it looks like Congress, regulators and industry are finally getting around to repairing the nation's broken system of corporate accounting. It's too bad they didn't listen sooner to Ron Wyden. The S&L crooks might be a few billion dollars poorer, and the taxpayers a few billion less in

Peace movement is quiet for now

By MIKE FEINSILBER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The people who tormented Lyndon B. Johnson with chants of "Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids did you kill today?" are old enough now to have a son or daughter in the Marines

And some of them are ready to take to the streets again. When President Bush deployed the troops, he mobilized the peace movement.

The peaceniks of Vietnam and the next few generations of antiwar activists are forming coalitions, planning vigils, keeping the fax machines humming.

Human rights lawyer Ramsey Clark called together a "Coalition to Stop U.S. Intervention in the Middle East" to demand an American withdrawal from the Persian Gulf and to denounce the attempt "to take the people of this Someone even remembered the "teach-ins" of the 1960s at which speakers tried to talk the Vietnam War to death. A Persian Gulf teach-in was quickly scheduled in New York City.

But things are different. Bush disarmed the peace advocates by going multinational and going to the United Nations.

And the peace movement cannot bring itself to ally itself with Saddam Hussein, who used chemical weapons in the Iran-Iraq war, who gassed his own country's Kurdish minority and who invaded Kuwait, a country that helped finance his eight-year war with Iran

Not even so dedicated an antiwar advocate as Dave McReynolds of the War Resisters League — which hasn't supported

DEAR ABBY: For five years now, I have been a therapist in a rehabilitation clinic. In my work I see drug addicts, alcoholics, and all kinds of men who can't work due to problems they've brought on themselves. I'm amazed to find that most of them have loyal wives and girlfriends to back them up.

I am a hardworking man of good character with no bad habits, and I'm still alone and single.

Abby, why would a woman ig-

Isn't there a place in the social marketplace for a good, hardworking man with no bad habits? -

DEAR DILEMMA: Most women who stick by the kind of men you treat do not see an alcoholic or drug addict; they see a man they love with a drug or alcohol problem. Obviously, those men must have done something to earn such loyalty and devotion.

And yes, there is a place in the social marketplace for a good workingman with no bad habits. Keep looking, but don't compete with your patients.

'Medal of Honor' special to air

NEW YORK (AP) - This Labor Day weekend, as the Persian Gulf crisis and the U.S. military buildup in Saudi Arabia continue, a special called "Medal of Honor" will air on TV stations around the country.

It is possible that the debut date - the show is the first of six one-hour specials about the men who earned the nation's highest military honor for bravery may strike some cynics as just too coincidental

Yes, "I'm a little worried that people will take it the wrong way, that we're trying to cash in on" on public support of U.S. forces, says Pat Duncan, coauthor and director of the specials.

But its premiere date is a coincidence, nothing more. The show was announced well before the Gulf crisis began, "and we've been working on these specials for 18 months," he said.

The "Medal of Honor" specials — all are narrated by Cliff Robertson — are produced by U.S. News & World Report. The first will be shown on at least 124 stations on Labor Day weekend, the producers said.

Each special is to air on a patriotic holiday, with the final one on July 4th.

'Three Men, a Baby and a Ghost'? Disney claims scared viewers are seeing cardboard

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Stories of a ghost lurking in a scene in the movie "Three Men and a Baby' are scaring up business for video stores nationwide.

"I was never a firm believer in ghosts or anything, but I'll tell you the truth, it made the hair stand up on my arms," said Jon Roup, who works at Network Video in Pittsburgh, which was besieged by requests for the movie.

Staff and customers of Music Plus in Marina del Rey, Calif., looked for the eerie figure Friday before all copies of the comedy were rented.

But Disney spokesman Steve Feldstein said viewers actually are looking at a cardboard cutout or standee of a man in top hat and tails. The 1987 movie was filmed on a Toronto sound stage, not a private home, he said.

Feldstein said the cutout was part of the set; a promotional device for Danson's character in Despite Disney's explanation, many customers cling to their ghostly beliefs. After all, "Three Men" was directed by Leonard Nimoy, the former host of "In Search Of," a television show tracking strange phenomena.

"I believe it's just some kind of freak of nature or something," said Tony Hostler, an employee at the Best Video Rentals store in Pittsburgh.

Mel Gibson had few complaints about three months of filming on location in the jungles of Thailand for the making of his latest movie "Air America," now showing in Big Spring. "It's a neat place, you know. The food is great; it's hard to get a bad feed there," Gibson said. He plays a pilot in the action-adventure about CIA operations during the Vietnam War.

Columbia to lift off early Saturday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - The countdown started today for this weekend's launch of Columbia, NASA's first attempt to send up a shuttle since the fleet was grounded by hydrogen leaks.

The newly repaired shuttle is scheduled to blast off on an astronomy mission at 1:17 a.m. EDT Saturday. Columbia's sevenman crew arrives at Kennedy Space Center tonight.

There's an extra sense of anticipation, that we're anxious to begin flying again," said NASA spokesman Bruce Buckingham. 'It's been a dry summer.

Discovery must be launched with the sun-probing Ulysses satellite between Oct. 5 and Oct. 23 because of the alignment of Earth, the sun and Jupiter, whose gravitational field will slingshot Ulysses back to the sun. Otherwise, the $750 million mission must be delayed 13 months.

Columbia was supposed to have gone up May 30, but the launch was called off because of leaks detected during fueling. A month later," hydrogen also was found to be escaping from Atlantis, prompting

NASA to ground all three shuttles. NASA replaced Columbia's leaky plumbing. Atlantis' secret Pentagon mission has been reschedul

When Newton arrived in Saudi Arabia at midnight on Sunday, Aug. 12, the temperature was 105 degrees, according to his letter.

This excerpt describes the brutal desert conditions U.S. military personnel are enduring:

The sun comes up at 4:30 (a.m.) here and by 9:00 (a.m.) the sun will bake your brain. It got up to 121 (degrees) the first day and weak a lot of unloading to do and se up equipment. We stayed in tents.

'Gary's unit sets up pumps to supply petroleum to the other vehicles," Mrs. Newton explained. Newton wrote in his letter that his unit has been working at such a sleeping two hours each night. In his letter, Newton expresses his observations of where he is stationed: We were in a camp, a few miles outside of Bahrain, a city of one million. There were a lot of Arabs working and walking around the compound. It's close to the main highway in the country that runs from the Kuwaiti border to south Saudi. There have been people pouring from Kuwait to Saudi and they just start heading down the highway south. There's no way of knowing who everybody is and there has been the threat of terrorist activity here. We convoyed up the road today to the Arabian Ministry of Defense compound.

Newton graduated from Coahoma High School in 1982 and entered the Army shortly after graduating from Texas Tech in "One thing I am grateful for is that Gary chose his career," Mrs. Newton said. "He knew the situation he is in now was always a possibility.

Newton explains in his letter that he is staying in a compound with about 1,000 other GIs, a short distance from the Saudi border.

He explains that he will "know what we will do as far as missions, if certain situations arise," but his orders prevent him from talking about it. Mrs. Newton said she and her husband visited their son la month and toured Fort Bragg.

'We were shown what the 82nd Airborne does, so we are a little familiar with what Gary is doing," she said.

'We could have a family reunion.' "Oh, I don't know how I would handle that," Mrs. Matteson said. She said she has "no regrets" about the family tradition of military service.

"It's been good for them," she said. "But this situation is just not all that easy to take."

He feels "concerned pride" about his sons' deployment, Mr. Matteson said.

might not be everything, but it gets more precious with age.

"When you are 17 or 18, you figure you have 20 more U.S. Opens to go," Martina Navratilova said. "I don't have that many to go. Every one could be my last one, so it is precious.'

The 33-year-old Navratilova, who captured a record ninth Wimbledon crown earlier this year, took another step toward her fifth U.S. Open singles title Wednesday when she breezed past Britain's Clare Wood.

Also thriving on the hard courts of the National Tennis Center is Ivan Lendl, who at the age of 30 is going after his fourth U.S. Open championship. Lendl advanced to the third round by downing West Germany's Michael Stich.

Today, the pretenders to the throne are much younger. Then there's the defending men's champion, Boris Becker, who battled Yannick Noah in his bid to keep pace with Lendl.

Michael Chang, who at 18 has one Grand Slam title, the 1989 French Open, played Jimmy Arias. In women's singles, 16-year-old Monica Seles, the No. 3 seed, took on Ros Fairbank-Nideffer in a match that was postponed by rain from Wednesday night, and No. 13 Jennifer Capriati, who at 14 is the youngest competitor in this year's Open, met Canada's Patricia Hy.

"I play my own game," Lendl said after downing Stich 6-4, 5-7,

NEW YORK (AP) — Winning 6-3, 6-3

And he's done that very well.

Lendl has won eight Grand Slam titles, including the Australian Open for the second time earlier this year. And he has reached the U.S. Open final eight consecutive years. He has lost at the Flushing Meadow only eight times in his career and has won 61 matches.

John McEnroe, who has won four times, also was victorious on Wednesday, defeating David Engel 6-2, 6-3, 7-5. But, unlike Lendl and Navratilova, McEnroe doesn't give himself much chance to win this

"It's a real long shot for this particular tournament," McEnroe said. "It's very difficult to win majors.

Two men's seeds weren't as fortunate. Luiz Mattar of Brazil eliminated fifth-seeded Andres Gomez, the French Open champion 6-3, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, and Paul Annacone ousted No. 16 Martin Jaite of Argentina 7-6 (7-5), 6-2, 6-2. Also falling was Natalia Zvereva, the women's 15th seed, to fellow Soviet Lelia Meskhi 6-4, 6-0.

"I wasn't really prepared for it at all," Gomez said of the Open. "You might come to the match poorly prepared as I was or have a great preparation like (Stefan) Edberg had. Edberg, the reigning Wimbledon champion and No. 1 seed at the Open, also was upset in a firstround match.

Wednesday's loss by Gomez marks his second consecutive Grand Slam first-round loss. And the first-round losses by Gomez and Edberg marked the first time since the open era began in 1968 that more than one reigning Grand Slam champion has lost in the first round of the U.S. Open.

In men's play, seeded players who won Wednesday included No. 6 Thomas Muster, No. 7 Emilio Sanchez, No. 10 Andrei Chesnokov. No. 12 Pete Sampras and No. 15 Goran Ivanisevic

Women seeds who were victorious were No. 5 Gabriela Sabatini, No. 7 Katerina Maleeva, No. 8 Mary Joe Fernandez, No. 9 Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, No. 11 Helena Sukova and No. 15 Judith Wiesner

Lendl was not the sharpest he has been, but he was sharp enough, especially when it counted. Ranked third in the world, Lendl appeared to be outplayed by Stich, if you look only at the numbers. Stich had 26 service winners, including aces, to 21 for Lendl. The West German hit 44 winners in the four sets, compared to 32 for Lendl.

But Lendl won the key points, and Stich made 21 more unforced

Douglas is now in training for his first title defense Oct. 25 against No.1 contender Evander Holyfield in Las Vegas. Douglas said he has more than enough motivation.

He said he wants to provide for his family: His wife is expecting a child in January. His 12-year-old son Lamar just returned to school. And there were the years he was overlooked.

'There are things I think about now when I'm running or training," Douglas said. "Like how long it took me to get (the title). Or what room. it'll take to stay there and maintain it. I've seen it from both sides.'

game with some of the most unconventional promotions in the stodgy history of college football.

The only thing we really take seriously is the team and the game," said Steve "The Dream" Weaver, the Vikings' director of marketing and promotions. "But with everything else, we try to promote what we really stand for, which is silliness."

But the Vikings never made the national playoffs until Pokey Allen, a former star quarterback at Utah and Canadian Football League player, became head coach in 1986.

At the time, the athletic program was deeply in debt and there was talk of dropping football. Home attendance averaged 4,891 in Allen's first season.

Sands voted one of top six-man teams

LUBBOCK (AP) — Perennial playoff contender Christoval is the unanimous choice as the No. 1 team in the season's first six-man high school football poll, which is conducted by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Christoval, which has never won a state title, returns 19 lettermen from a team that went 12-1 last season and reached the state semifinals.

Running backs Randy Robertson and Bobby Estrada lead the Cougars. Both gained more than 1,500 yards rushing last season.

All seven sports writers participating in the poll voted the Cougars No. 1.

Although Fort Hancock has only one starter back from the 1989 state championship team, the Mustangs edged Guthrie for the No. 2 spot in the poll. Fort Hancock has won the past two state crowns and three of the last four.

The Mustangs collected 57 points in the voting, one ahead of Guthrie's Jaguars, who return five starters each way from a 12-1 state semifinal squad.

Jayton, a 58-24 loser to Fort Hancock in last year's championship game, is the No. 4

Thompson tells all in new book

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) University of Oklahoma coaches rarely checked rooms or supervised athletes living at the Bud Wilkinson dormitory, former Sooner quarterback Charles Thompson says.

"If the school administration was leaving the policing of Bud Hall up to the coaches, they might as well have left it up to the athletes," Thompson writes in "Down and Dirty: The Life and Crimes of Oklahoma Football."

Thompson pleaded guilty in April 1989 to conspiracy to distribute cocaine and is serving a two-year federal prison Federal Correctional Institution here in Big Spring.

Excerpts of the book are published in the October issue of Penthouse magazine. The book, co-authored by Allan Son nenschein and published by Carroll Graf, has not been released.

Thompson also writes in the book that guns and drugs were commonplace in the athletic

"If you had toured the players' rooms in Bud Hall, you might well have thought yourself in an armory,' Thompson writes. "There were handguns, hunting rifles and shotguns all over the place.

He says crimes that plagued the football program in January and February of 1989, including one player shooting his teammate, were accidents waiting to happen.

Switzer, who released his own book last week, has said he puts no stock in anything Thompson says. He said Thompson's book was written solely to make money

Athletic Director Donnie Duncan, in a recent radio interview, said Thompson's book would likely be "trash," and said he would not read it. He said no merit could be found in a book written by a convicted drug dealer. Duncan, however, said he would probably read Switzer's book, "Bootlegger's Boy."

Giants' Taylor still a holdout

By The Associated Press After a flurry of signings earlier in the week, some remaining NFL holdouts could be digging in for a

At Pontiac, Mich., Lions nose tackle Jerry Ball blasted the team's management for its unwillingness to renegotiate his contract.

Rypien is seeking a two-year contract with an annual salary of about $1.5 million with incentives, about the average this season for starting quarterbacks.

The Redskins want to sign Rypien, who took over the starting job last season, for three years with a base salary of $700,000 this season and increases of $100,000 in each of the next two

It was the second deal in two days for Phoenix, which on Tuesday dealt guard Mike Zandofsky, last year's No. 3 pick, to San Diego for next year's ninth-rounder.

The 6-foot-5, 248-pound Awalt had missed all three preseason games with a hyperextended right knee. He was the Cardinals' third-round draft pick in 1987 and made several all-rookie teams after catching 42 passes for 526 yards and six touchdowns.

He became Phoenix's starting tight end in 1988. Last season, he caught 33 passes for 360 yards.

Thompson tells all in new book

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma coaches rarely checked rooms or supervised athletes living at the Bud Wilkinson dormitory, former Sooner quarterback Charles Thompson says.

"If the school administration was leaving the policing of Bud Hall up to the coaches, they might as well have left it up to the athletes," Thompson writes in "Down and Dirty: The Life and Crimes of Oklahoma Football.'

Thompson pleaded guilty in April 1989 to conspiracy to distribute cocaine and is serving a two-year federal prison Federal Correctional Institution here in Big Spring.

Excerpts of the book are published in the October issue of Penthouse magazine. The book, co-authored by Allan Son nenschein and published by Carroll Graf, has not been

Thompson also writes in the book that guns and drugs were commonplace in the athletic

He says crimes that plagued the football program in January and February of 1989, including one player shooting his teammate, were accidents waiting to happen.

Switzer, who released his own book last week, has said he puts no stock in anything Thompson says. He said Thompson's book was written solely to make money.

Athletic Director Donnie Duncan, in a recent radio interview, said Thompson's book would likely be "trash," and said he would not read it. He said no merit could be found in a book written by a convicted drug dealer. Duncan, however, said he would probably read Switzer's book, "Bootlegger's Boy."

Giants' Taylor still a holdout

Hopes that the most prominent holdout, New York Giants linebacker Lawrence Taylor, would be joining the team soon were dashed Wednesday. General Manager George Young again had discussions with Joe Courrege, Taylor's agent, but the two sides failed to reach a contract agreement.

Young said the parties would meet again today. Taylor is seeking to renegotiate his contract and wants to earn $2 million this year. Also holding out for the Giants is of New England, No. 17 Emmitt Smith of Dallas and No. 21 Eric Green of Pittsburgh. Smith has reenrolled as a student at the University of Florida.

Elsewhere on the holdout front, Los Angeles Rams linebacker Kevin Greene said his agent, Marvin Demhoff, met with the team Tuesday and Wednesday. It was not known how much progress was

At Pontiac, Mich., Lions nose tackle Jerry Ball blasted the team's management for its unwillingness to renegotiate his contract.

Redskins Still on the field for Washington is Mark Rypien, but his agent said the quarterback plans to play out his option because of a breakdown in contract talks.

Rypien is seeking a two-year contract with an annual salary of about $1.5 million with incentives, about the average this season for starting quarterbacks.

The Redskins want to sign Rypien, who took over the starting job last season, for three years with a base salary of $700,000 this season and increases of $100,000 in each of suspended the running back for four weeks of that period and fined him an additional week's pay. The fines come to nearly $600,000 seven weeks' pay based on his $1.45 million salary

Irsay said the penalties were for conduct detrimental to the team, which would include again refusing to take the team's required physical exam.

Coach Ron Meyer said the Colts are "prepared to go ahead and play the entire season, if we have to, without Eric Dickerson.'

Cardinals Phoenix traded tight end Rob Awalt, expected to be a starter, to the Dallas Cowboys for an undisclosed draft pick

It was the second deal in two days for Phoenix, which on Tuesday dealt guard Mike Zandofsky, last year's No. 3 pick, to San Diego for next year's ninth-rounder.

The 6-foot-5, 248-pound Awalt had missed all three preseason games with a hyperextended right knee. He was the Cardinals' third-round draft pick in 1987 and made several all-rookie teams after catching 42 passes for 526 yards and six touchdowns

He became Phoenix's starting tight end in 1988. Last season, he caught 33 passes for 360 yards.

Tony Eason will start at quarterback Thursday night against Tampa Bay, but coach Bruce Coslet says that the decision on whether Eason or Ken O'Brien will start the season is still a question mark.

"It's Tony's turn to start," Coslet The coach said he will name his starter sometime after the Tampa Bay game and says he views this game as one more piece in the puzzle, not a do-or-die situation. Vikings EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. AP) - Talk to the Syracuse defensive players about Todd Marinovich and they will add a second name — Ricky Ervins to the Southern Cal offensive equation.

And if things really go well. the words All-American and Heisman could be synonymous with Ervins.

Don't bother telling that to Ervins. Two days before Friday's Kickoff Classic at Giants Stadium, all Ervins cared about was getting some final details down and being ready for Syracuse.

'We're getting a good chance to get all the mistakes out of system by the time the con"This is a real good opportunity. Ervins is familar with opportunities. He had to wait almost two full seasons to get his chance to play fulltime for Southern Cal and he took full advantage of it after taking over at tailback for Aaron Emanuel in the second game of the 1989 season.

Ervins rushed for 1,395 yards on 269 carries (5.2 yards per carry) and scored 14 touchdowns

Southern Cal guard Mark Tucker said Ervins compliments the Trojans' offensive line exceptionally well

Although somewhat small at 5-feet-8 and 190 pounds, Ervins is powerful. His nickname is 'The Pinball Wizard.

"Ricky has the ability to bounce off tackles," Tucker said. "He'll get hit and spin and all of a sudden people are holding air.'

HOLMDEL, N.J. (AP) - Frank Sinatra says he's no fan of Irish singer Sinead O'Connor, who refused to perform at a New Jersey concert if the national anthem was played.

'She should leave the country. Her behavior is unforgivable. For her sake, we'd better never meet," Sinatra told his audience Saturday night at the Garden State Arts

The Hoboken native's remarks drew thunderous applause.

O'Connor, best known for her hit "Nothing Compares 2 U" and her nearly shaved head, threatened on Friday to walk out on an audience of 9,000 if "The Star Spangled Banner" was played at the center, as it is before every show. Fearing trouble if the concert didn't go on, the center's DENNIS THE MENACE

FRANK SINATRA staff relented.

But O'Connor won't be allowed back, said center official George Zilocchi

'No performer who does not agree to have the national anthem played will be allowed to perform," he said. UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — cover the cost delivered meals.

Doug Williams: Racism is alive and well in the league

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Super Bowl hero Doug Williams, the first black quarterback ever selected in the first round of an NFL draft, says racism is alive and well in the

In his soon-to-be-released autobiography "Quarterblack," Williams says that he learned quickly about discrimination in the NFL when he had to hold out to get a $50,000 salary for his rookie season at Tampa Bay and a fiveyear package worth $565,000 after establishing himself.

Two years later, the losingest franchise in NFL history won the division championship, a playoff game and then lost to the Los Angeles Rams in the NFC championship game.

"I mean, we were on the verge of going from the worst team in pro sports to the Super Bowl in a matter of two years," he said.

In 1982, he says he was paid

That was the 54th-highest salary for NFL quarterbacks," said Williams, who five seasons later led the Washington Redskins to a Super Bowl victory. "Everybody's backup was making more than me.'

He says when his contract came up for negotiation, he asked for five years at $600,000 a year, but was offered $400,000 a year. Bucs owner Hugh Culverhouse, he said, tried to get him to sign a $250,000 note and go into a real estate deal with him.

"He paid me like a slave, but I wasn't enough of a slave to go along with that deal," Williams

Williams said he is perplexed that no NFL team expressed interest in him after the Redskins left him unprotected in Plan B last season. When no team claimed him, he said the Redskins should have signed him and let him compete for a job.

"I can't say the Redskins didn't Williams, but I can say that Doug Williams deserved a better farewell from the Redskins," he

"The fact is, NFL teams are not going to pay a black quarterback unless he is definitely going to play," Williams says. "I really thought the Redskins were above that. But even they weren't willing to pay a black quarterback to go be a backup. That's not an opinion, it's a sad fact."

And few are willing to put a black at quarterback even as a starter, he says. "It boils down to the fact that managers and owners are scared of black quarterbacks or they just don't want a black man running their team, period," he says. "They're afraid if they play a black quarterback and he doesn't pan out, they're going to be ridiculed by their peers."

Williams has cautioned Philadelphia quarterback Randall Cunningham to be patient, be careful of what he says and to just let some things that irritate him of grace, if he can't do the things

"And Randall is going to learn," Williams says. "If he ever falls out most NFL coaches, general he's capable of doing, he's going to be a black quarterback.

'Now, he's Randall Cunningham. He can do some great things. But a lot of people in the league would like to see him be a black quarterback again."

Williams had thrown ofor 3,396 yards and 20 touchdowns in 1980, the best statistics of his five seasons in the NFL, and had the Bucs in the playoffs three of those

'Twenty-eight NFL teams went to training camp in 1986. Not one offered to give me a tryout, much less a contract," Williams says.

Now NFL wants games to be longer

By The Associated Press NEW YORK (AP) — The NFL expected its new rules that keep the clock running to make games a little shorter. Now it turns out they may be too short.

With the average exhibition game this season 15 minutes shorter than last year's games, commissioner Paul Tagliabue said Wednesday that the league is considering revising its speedup rules for the regular season to get three or four plays back into the game.

Tagliabue acknowledged that he was suprised that the new procedures, adopted last March, had speeded up games by 15 minutes — from 3 hours, 7 minutes during last year's exhibition season to 2:52 this season.

"If we can make regular-season games 9-10 minutes shorter than last year, I think we'd have accomplished our purpose," - Paul Tagliabue, NFL Commissioner.

Last year, regular-season games averaged 3:11 and Tagliabue had hoped to get them around the three-hour mark this year. Under the revisions, the clock keeps running on out-of-bounds plays and after kickoffs except in the last two minutes of the first half and last five minutes of the game.

But that has eliminated an average of 10 plays a game in the exhibition season rather than the half-dozen the league anticipated when it made the change. As a result, Tagliabue is considering recommending restoring a clock stoppage after after kickoffs, a move he said could restore 1:20 or three to four plays.

However, he said during a conference call with football writers that the league will not change the shortened halftime - from 15 minutes last season to 12 this year - despite complaints from coaches who say they have too little time to get in and out of the locker room.

He did say, however, that in certain stadiums, where logistics are poor, adjustments of around 30 seconds will be made

As for other issues, Tagliabue

- He hopes that Al Davis, managing general partner of the Raiders, will decide as quickly as possible whether he will play in Oakland, Los Angeles or elsewhere this season but said "my role is at the margin" of the issue.

He did add, however, that "the league has been of the view for 10 years that the city of the Oakland and the Raiders have a great realationship and the Oakland Raiders were a great plus for the league. - He has met within the last month with Gene Upshaw, executive director of the dormant NFL Players Association and still is hopeful that a collective bargaining agreement can be reached by the end of the year. However, he didn't seem as hopeful as he's been in the past, noting that the various lawsuits involved would have to be settled first.

- That the elimination of the reserve squads, done because of a suit filed by the union, would stand.

Texas gains 18 percent in '90 census

Iraq delays evacuation of westerners

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS Associated Press Writer

Iraq is delaying the evacuation of Western women and children and will allow planes to pick them up only if the aircraft fly food and medicine into the embargosqueezed country, diplomats in Baghdad said today.

If flights can't be arranged, the Western evacuees will have to travel overland, most likely to Turkey, 370 miles north of the capital, said the diplomats, who spoke on condition of anonymity. Iraq's airspace is closed to all foreign carriers. Red tape will prevent any release before Saturday, a senior diplomat said

Iraq promised Tuesday that the thousands of Western women and children would be able to begin leaving the next day. But President Saddam Hussein has yet to fulfill the promise.

Of the 21,000 Western hostages in Iraq and Kuwait, 3,000 are Americans, including about 1,000 women and children.

The British Broadcasting Corp. said a group of captive foreigners was paraded before the international press in Baghdad today

"It was for some of them a rather distressing experience — children cried a great deal and some of the women cried," correspondent John Simpson reported. The nationalities of the foreigners involved was not known. On Wednesday, Saddam denied seeking a deal for an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait despite mounting international military and economic pressure. Iraqi seized the oil-rich emirate on Aug. 2 and later annexed it.

Vigil planned for guitarist

DALLAS (AP) — A candlelight service has been planned tonight in the hometown of blues guitarist Stevie Ray Vaughan, who was killed in a Wisconsin helicopter crash along with four others

Investigators have yet to determine what caused the helicopter to crash early Monday.

Vaughan performed Sunday night at the Alpine Valley Music Theatre near East Troy with fellow guitarists Eric Clapton and Robert Cray before boarding the helicopter early Monday.

The chopper slammed into the ski hill shortly after takeoff as three other helicopters, carrying Clapton and other members of the concert entourage, flew safely to Midway Airport in Chicago.

Vaughan, a two-time Grammy winner, grew up in Dallas and gained much notoriety with his guitardriven rocking blues after playing before crowds in Austin.

British rocker Clapton, who issued a statement after the crash mourning those who were killed, made no mention of Vaughan or the others when he performed Tuesday night at Bonner Springs, Kan. He refused all interviews and closed the backstage area to reporters and camera crews.

Air reserve unit activated

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The 68th Military Airlift Squadron, a U.S. Air Force Reserve unit, has been activated to provide continuing support for "Operation Desert Shield," a unit spokesman says.

Maj. Meade Warthen said the unit was activated by order of President Bush about 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The unit is comprised of about 230 members and provides air crews who fly the C5A Galaxies assigned to the 433rd Military Airlift Wing.

Prices drive up farm costs

LUBBOCK (AP) — Some Texas farmers will be forced to abandon their harvest and cut back planting for next year due to increasing oil prices spawned by Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, agriculture officials

"It does not look good," said Al Croix, a farmer and agriculture extension agent in Denton. "The farmers who suffered through heavy flooding or severe drought and are borderline whether to harvest will likely abandoned their crops because of the rise in oil prices.

"It simply would not be economical to harvest.'

Croix said a preliminary study he conducted on wheat planting reveals farmers will lose significant profit growing wheat for next year. Winter wheat planting begins in North Texas in about a month, Croix

"A person in North Texas averaging 40 bushels of wheat an acre will lose $23 dollars an acre largely because of oil costs," Croix said. "If new policies permit farmers to plant less wheat I think that is what you will see.

Reservists continue missions in wake of crash

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - As families mourned loved ones killed in a military plane crash, officials promised reservists at Kelly Air Force Base would press on with their volunteer missions to the Middle East.

'This is a terrible, stunning tragedy for all of us," Maj. Meade Warthen, spokesman for the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, said Wednesday. "We are in a state of shock, although not to the point where we're not functioning. We're carrying on the operation.

Nine reservists with the 433rd were among 13 killed when a C-5 cargo plane crashed Tuesday at Ramstein Air Base in West Germany. Ten of the 17 people aboard were from the 433rd, which is based at Kelly.

The huge aircraft was transporting food rations, medical supplies and other cargo as part of Operation Desert Shield.

"I just had a bad feeling," said Veronica Sheffield, 27, recalling hearing about the accident Tuesday night on television news. She later learned her husband, Staff Sgt. Edward E. Sheffield, 28, perished in the fiery crash.

"He was an easy-going, good y," Mrs. Sheffield said. "I'm sorry he had to go like this. I was hoping we would have a long time together, but...

Leaders praise resigning commissioner

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders praised Texas Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby, who announced plans to retire after overseeing major public school reforms over the last six years.

"I think he's brought real leadership to the Texas Education Agency at a time of real turmoil in public schools in this state," said Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, head of the House Public Education Committee.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Kirby made sweeping education reforms approved in 1984 "workable and understandable." Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby praised his "wisdom and dedication.' Added Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port

Arthur, chairman of the Senate Education Committee, "He has had as much or more to deal with as any chief executive officer in charge of education in any state in the union.'

"He has made a contribution to the betterment of education in this country ne said

Kirby, 50, said he has no immediate plans for a new job, although he might teach part-time: "Come the end of January, I'm looking forward to some opportunity for relaxation, maybe a little additional scuba diving, and probably a whole lot more fishing.

He has been commissioner for six years, a job he described as satisfying but stressful.

Suspended chief faces charges

DALLAS (AP) - A grand jury will consider perjury charges next month against suspended Police Chief Mack Vines, who faces renewed pressure to resign and doubts about his leadership capability.

City Manager Jan Hart named a new acting chief Wednesday and said Vines would remain on indefinite suspension. But the Dallas Police Association again urged Vines' ouster.

"We have stated previously that we would like his resignation im-mediately," said Monica Smith, the union's president.

Vines, 51, in the past has said he did nothing wrong and refused to resign, but a City Council member said the perjury charges filed Wednesday hampered Vines' leadership ability in the job he has held since 1988.

"It certainly makes it more difficult for Chief Vines to stay on as chief," said councilman Glenn

Ms. Hart placed Vines on leave earlier this month because of an investigation into his testimony to a special panel looking into a police shooting.

"Today, as a result of (the) investigation, seven perjury cases have been filed and referred to a Dallas County grand jury against" Vines, said District Attorney John Vance "It's sufficient to note that we found in that investigation ... seven separate counts of aggravated perjury," he said. "I think the chief made two appearances (before the panel), but we can't go into what is alleged in each of those because that is still pending before the grand jury.

A third-degree felony carries a maximum 10-year prison term and fines of up to $10,000. The charges will be presented to the grand jury on Sept. 10, Vance said.

The newly repaired shuttle is scheduled to blast off on an astronomy mission at 1:17 a.m. EDT Saturday. Columbia's sevenman crew arrives at Kennedy Space Center tonight.

'There's an extra sense of anticipation, that we're anxious to begin flying again," said NASA spokesman Bruce Buckingham. 'It's been a dry summer.'

Leaking hydrogen kept Columbia from lifting off with the $150 million Astro observatory in May, then grounded Atlantis. The leaks are believed to be in different spots

NASA also has been haunted this summer by Hubble's defective mirror and the malfunctioning Magellan spacecraft. The space agency on Tuesday delayed Magellan's mapping of Venus until late September to find out why the spacecraft keeps losing touch with NASA plans to roll Discovery out to another launch pad after Columbia lifts off.

Discovery must be launched with the sun-probing Ulysses satellite between Oct. 5 and Oct. 23 because of the alignment of Earth, the sun and Jupiter, whose gravitational field will slingshot Ulysses back to the sun. Otherwise, the $750 million mission must be delayed 13

Columbia was supposed to have gone up May 30, but the launch was called off because of leaks detected during fueling. A month later, hydrogen also was found to be escaping from Atlantis, prompting

He and two others said they did not believe Western governments would agree to Iraq's request flights containing food and medicine.

Iraq has been feeling the effects of the militarily enforced U.N. embargo. Bread lines have been reported in the country, and Saddam has urged Iraqi women to cut meat and bread consumption in Saddam gave his first interviews to Western reporters - with Dan Rather of CBS and a French network - since his forces seized Kuwait.

The Iraqi leader told Rather on Wednesday that "Kuwait is part of Iraq" and denied seeking any deals that could lead to an Iraqi pullout.

"Iraq will come out victorious," Saddam said. "God is on our side and Satan is on the side of the United States.

A White House official confirmed Wednesday that the Bush administration had received a secret Iraqi offer to free all captives and withdraw from Kuwait if certain conditions were met. The conditions were that the U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Iraq be lifted and that Baghdad be granted access to the Persian Gulf and sole control of an oil field that dips into Kuwait, according to a report Wednesday by the New York newspaper Newsday

The White House official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the offer was rejected.

The U.N. trade embargo, aimed at forcing Iraq into pulling out of Kuwait, got an important boost from OPEC and Japan on Wednesday.

OPEC oil ministers approved a plan allowing Saudi Arabia, Venezuela and other members of the cartel to pump more oil and help hold down crude prices. One OPEC minister predicted the agreement could replace 3 million of the 4 million barrels of oil the day that disappeared from the world market because of the embargos on Iraqi and Kuwaiti oil.

That shortfall caused oil prices to

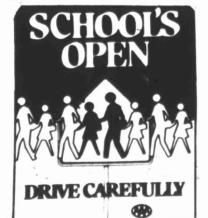

A U.S. diplomatic source confirmed in general terms news reports that the CIA and Army Special Forces troops were helping the Kuwaiti resistance in hit-and run attacks on Iraqi occupiers.

Two television networks, NBC and CNN, said no U.$. troops were directly involved in fighting but that Kuwaiti fighters based on the Saudi-Kuwait border were getting U.S. intelligence, weapons, radios, advice and instruction.

The source, speaking on condition of anonymity, said: "We're aware of their action and we're supporting them," but claimed to be unaware of details.

White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said, "We don't comment on intelligence matters."

Catfish business going swimmingly

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON - Catfish farmers are cashing in on a growing American appetite for something besides red meat and

The latest Agriculture Department figures show, however, that other livestock producers are in no imminent danger of being routed by legions of catfish trucks headed for city markets.

According to a report by the department's Economic Research Service, the U.S. farm-raised catfish industry "has matured and now is a major supplier to the national seafood market.'

By last year, for example, sales of processed catfish had grown to $372 million from $36 million just a decade earlier.

"Catfish ranked only behind pollock, salmon and cod in domestic landings of finfish species during 1989," the agency said in the September issue of Agricultural Outlook magazine. "Today, farmraised catfish are found in retail outlets across the country.'

The surge in catfish production and sales is expected to continue this year and in 1991. Sales to pro-

According to another USDA report, per capita consumption of fish and shellfish rose 5 percent in 1989 to an annual average of 15.7 pounds. That was up 4.2 pounds from 1971

By comparison, Americans ate an average of 134.7 pounds of red meat last year, a retail weight equivalent. The total included 68.9 pounds of beef, 63.2 pounds of pork, .2 pounds of veal and 1.5 pounds of lamb and mutton.

As used by the research agency, net cash income "measures the value of commodities sold in a calendar year plus government payments, less out-of-pocket costs." Some commodities sold actually may have been produced in earlier years and stored until marketed.

In another method of accounting, the report said net farm income may be in the range of $47 billion to $52 billion, compared with the previous forecast of $47 billion to
