Suspect charged in connection with fire

A 31-year-old Big Spring man arrested early Wednesday for public intoxication is being held in city jail on an arson charge filed by Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles in connection with a house fire in the 500 block of Washington Street, authorities said.

Jody Kyle Rogers, 31, 2800 West Highway 80, has been charged with arson, a first-degree felony, following an investigation by the fire marshal.

Settles said the Big Spring Fire Department responded to a fire at a small house located behind a residence at 503 Washington St. shortly after midnight and quickly extinguished a minor blaze that apparently started in the bathroom.

The fire marshal said that four children, aged 10 months to 14 years, were inside the home at the time the fire was discovered. All escaped unharmed.

The mother of the children, Faye McGee, 30, apparently left the residence about 10 p.m. Tuesday, learning of the fire when she returned two hours later, according to Settles.

McGee became hysterical at the scene and about 30 minutes later was driven to Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"She just wouldn't stop screaming so we took her to the hospital to possibly be sedated," Settles explained.

She was later arrested by the police for public intoxication.

Settles said witnesses identified Rogers as the man seen loitering near the house at the time of the fire.

Settles estimated damages to the home were about $2,000.

Houston police need applicants

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Police Department is running so short of applicants that Chief Elizabeth Watson has decided to delay the October cadet class for another month to allow recruiters more time to fill the class.

The class, originally scheduled to start Oct. 15, was reset to Nov. 12 after recruiters noticed that applications were about 40 percent lower than those for the last class, which began in August, Capt. Joe L. Breshears Jr., head of the police recruiting division, said Tuesday.

"We need the additional time to make sure we have an optimum number of people in that class," he said. "We'd like to get 50 or 60 people."

So far, only 18 applicants have been accepted for the class, which has a capacity of 70. About 40 other applicants are undergoing background investigations, and about half of those might be expected to be approved to enroll, he said.

Officials say reasons for the recruiting problems are complex, ranging from the department's relatively low pay scale to an apparent nationwide trend away from careers in law enforcement.

President vows to stand up to Iraqi aggression

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush reaffirmed America's resolve to stand up to Iraqi aggression and challenged Congress to match the sacrifice of U.S. military forces abroad with a greater commitment to solve the nation's budget crisis at home.

"Let no one doubt our staying power. We will stand by our friends," Bush told a joint session of Congress Tuesday night in a speech that at times seemed aimed as much at Iraqi President Saddam Hussein as at the president's domestic audience.

Republicans and Democrats alike praised the address, saying it was an important reminder to Americans of the high stakes in the U.S. deployment of troops in the Persian Gulf region, and of the need for constancy in resisting Iraq's 6-week-old occupation of Kuwait.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., sounded an even more hawkish tone, warning Saddam that if he starts a war, "we will finish it."

Bush also used the speech, his third such formal address in 20 months in office, to warn Congress against deep defense cuts that could hamper U.S. latitude in responding to future crises. The House began work Tuesday on a $283 billion defense budget for 1991 that the administration has threatened to veto as too small.

"The world is still dangerous," the president said. While acknowledging that improvements

OSHA cites local company

Cline Construction Co. Inc., of Big Spring was cited in nine safety violations at a Midland work site where a Big Spring man died from a ditch cave-in July 18.

An investigation by the area Occupational Safety and Health Administration office in Lubbock determined that workers at the site where Solomon Zepeda, 57, died, were not adequately protected from cave-ins.

"Employees working in a trench approximately 8 1/2 feet deep x 2 feet wide x 85 feet long were not protected from cave-ins by an adequate protective system," one citation states. "No system of protection of any kind was provided. This condition exposed employees to the hazard of cave-in."

The construction site was located 1/2 mile north of Wadley Avenue in Midland.

A OSHA compliance officer in Austin said ditches, usually deeper than five feet, should be either shored, supported with plywood and jacks, cut back or sloped.

The citations also cited inadequacies in inspections and instructions to employees of possible dangers. Each violation carries a fine of $810. The total is $7,290.

A company official and a lawyer representing the construction company said they have not decided yet if they will contest the findings or not.

"We don't know," said Vice President John Cline. "It's still all being settled."

"We haven't made a decision

Thirsty, culture-starved military troops in Saudi Arabia will get a "taste of America" in a new project sponsored by 7-Eleven convenience stores, Big Spring radio station KBST and Southwest Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

Project Oasis, which officially began with a press conference today, promises to deliver a 12-pack of the soft drink and a personal note to anyone serving overseas. The Coke is sold at cost, $2.50, and comes with a yellow ribbon sticker for the note.

"The idea," said 7-Eleven field manager Ray Lara, "is to be able to send our GI's in Saudi Arabia something tangible they can relate to. We thought a note with a Coke was a good idea."

Radio station KBST has agreed to support the effort by broadcasting regular updates on the number of 12-packs collected.

Lara said the convenience store chain is acting as a catalyst for the project, which, although limited to Big Spring and Lubbock now, may become a nationwide effort.

"We contacted the Department of Defense and got a go-ahead, and they offered their help," he said. Once the Cokes have been bought and the note attached, the Army will truck them to Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock, to be flown to the troops.

"Nobody's making a profit on this thing," Lara said.

County fair directors busy with last minute details

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

The 18th Annual Howard County Fair, which is set to begin Monday, was discussed when the Directors of the Fair held their final meeting Tuesday night to coordinate last-minute details.

The areas of security, last minute booth rentals, decorations and clean-up were among the topics considered.

"It's coming along pretty well, but it sure did get here fast," Bob Nichols, president of the directors said.

One problem the directors have had to face is the cancellation of this year's carnival. Due to the conflict in the Middle East, the carnival has been trapped in Saudi Arabia and is unable to make it to Big Spring for the event. The directors are still searching for a replacement for at least part of the Fair.

Chairman of the Board Arnold Marshall said he's still "got some irons in the fire," indicating that a carnival might still be retained. "But," he added, "there is no carnival as of today."

The tents are scheduled to go up Wednesday, clean-up begins on Thursday and decorating will begin on Saturday. Public address systems will be installed, along with stages, bleachers and sawdust in the entertainment tent. Handicapped parking is available and the $25 tickets for the Friends of the Fair have been mailed or may be picked up at the Fair.

Several annual events at the Fair have changed their deadlines for entries or are requesting participants to submit their products at a different time.

The Howard County Fair Queen's Contest will receive applications until Monday, Sept. 17, at 9 a.m. Each club, social, fraternal or religious group, business, civic or school organization in Howard or surrounding counties may sponsor one contestant. There is a $25 entry fee. Each contestant must be enrolled in an area school, have never been married nor have any children, must wear an evening gown and be available to serve as Queen during the week of the Fair. Entry forms are available at the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, Joy's Hallmark, and Gale's Bakery and Cookies in the Big Spring Mall.

The Art Exhibit is requesting all teachers to bring the art work from their classes on Sunday, Sept. 16, instead of Monday, from 2 to 4 p.m. All paintings must be ready for hanging. The Fair reserves the right to reject any art work that is unsuitable for the Art Department. Rules for the contest are available at the County Extension Office in the Courthouse.

Rules for the Photo Contest, which is also part of the Art Exhibit, indicate that only two photographs measuring 8 x 10 to 16 x 20 may be submitted by an individual. There are two divisions, professional and non-professional, with four classes in each; scenic landscape, figure study, still life and miscellaneous.

The Country Kids Contest will be held on Saturday, Sept. 22, at 1 p.m. Entry fee is $10, rules and entry forms are available at the County Extension Office in the Courthouse. The deadline for applications is Thursday, Sept. 22.

The Creative Arts Division will have the baking goods contests each day of the Fair, except Saturday. All entries must be submitted by 1:30 p.m. each day for judging at that time. Monday features Cake Day, Tuesday is Pie Day, Wednesday is Bread Day, Thursday is the day for cookies and Friday is Decorated Cakes and Candies Day. Participants are asked to remove their entries before the next contest. All entries must be accompanied by a typewritten recipe.

All other entries in the Creative Arts Division are to be submitted by 1 p.m. Monday, Sept. 17. All entries will be judged at 1:30 p.m. and ready for viewing at 4 p.m. that same day, and must remain until the end of the Fair on Saturday, Sept. 22. An official rules and regulations list is available at the County Extension Office.

The Creative Arts Division subdivisions are: Over Sixty, Hobbies and Crafts, Needlework and Handiwork, Baked Goods, Canned Goods and Sewing and Clothing.

Inside Texas

Shooting could have been worse

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A gang-related shooting that wounded three teen-agers at a high school during lunch break had the potential to be much worse, police say.

Three young men were arrested and charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in the Tuesday shooting at Sam Houston High School on the city's east side, officials said.

"I was diving out of the way," said student Ursula Hall "I almost got shot. I was scared, I was terrified."

More security guards were to be on duty at the high school when students reported for classes today.

Police spokesman Sgt. Paul Buske said the shooting broke out at 11:55 a.m., just as students were having lunch break. He said the incident could have been worse, but the large-caliber weapon used in the shooting jammed.

Larry Lewis, 16, was in serious condition late Tuesday at Wilford Hall Medical Center where he was treated for a gunshot wound to the chest.

Victim tortured, prosecutors say

AUSTIN (AP) — Steven Fefferman was slowly tortured with "extravagant brutality" before he was killed in the bedroom of his Fort Worth townhome in late 1986, a prosecuting attorney told jurors in the capital murder trial of Ricky Lee Green.

Assistant Tarrant County District Attorney Alan Levy on Tuesday described the scene in the bedroom where Fort Worth police found Fefferman's body. The body was wrapped in blue bedcovers, bound with neckties, and covered with torture marks, prosecutors said.

When police "pulled those covers back, they saw a scene of extravagant brutality. Mr. Fefferman was slaughtered," Levy said.

Green, 29, of Azle, is standing trial in an Austin court because of extensive North Texas news coverage of the castration and stabbing of Fefferman, a 28-year-old advertising executive of KXAS-TV. Fefferman's home was also ransacked and his car was missing.

Employee charged in sex abuse case

HALTOM CITY (AP) — A former employee of the Texas Attorney General's office has been charged with aggravated sexual assault of a child and sexual performance of a child and is accused of videotaping a nude 12-year-old boy at a Haltom City home.

Officers said Tuesday the arrest of Gordon Clive Blevins at his home in Round Rock came two weeks after Blevins' nephew was arrested in connection with similar activities at a home in Haltom City.

Blevins, 45, was asked to resign as an administrative technician the same day his nephew was arrested.

Shalit admires Dallas skyline

DALLAS (AP) — NBC's "Today" co-host Gene Shalit expressed his admiration — after a fashion — for the Dallas skyline during a segment Tuesday on the Neiman Marcus Christmas catalog.

"What a beautiful gown," Shalit remarked as the camera panned to a $1,700 black silk and sequin gown offered by the upscale Dallas retailer.

"This is the Dallas skyline, on the neckline here," Neiman Marcus President Terry Lundgren explained.

"Oh, I hadn't noticed. Aha. All those buildings," said Shalit. "Are any of them for rent?"

Lundgren: "All six of them." Shalit: "That's a pretty nice place to have an office."

Retirees help fill gaps on merchant shipping

HOUSTON (AP) — Merchant seamen who have guided vessels around the world are coming out of retirement to man the helms and engine rooms of military supply ships bound for the Middle East.

"I want to go out as a champ. I'm a damn good sailor. I can cut the mustard," said Donald Covert, a reactivated retiree who admitted only to being "over 65."

"Oh, yeah, they can cut the mustard," agreed Wade "K.O." Hughes, agent of the National Maritime Union hall in Houston. "They're able-bodied men. They're tough seamen."

Jessica Smith, a spokeswoman for the Camp Springs, Md.-based Seafarers International Union, said union officials issued a manpower alert to physically fit retirees and other inactive members last month.

"We've taken a number of steps to meet the increased crewing requirements because of the conflict in the Middle East," Ms. Smith said.

"In addition to asking the guys on the commercial fleet to stay on there, we've also asked our inactive members and pensioners to get ready to ship out."

The SIU, one of several maritime unions for unlicensed crew members on oceangoing vessels and inland waterways, told members their country needed their skills.

In the August issue of the Seafarers' Log, SIU reported "privately operated ships under contract to the Military Sealift Command and vessels in the Ready Reserve Force were deployed to take part in Operation Desert Shield" in response to the Middle East crisis.

As demand for supply ships and other support vessels continued, SIU President Michael Sacco ordered the manpower alert.

And the response has been overwhelming.

Clarence Holloway, a 35-year sea veteran in Houston, served on cargo ships in World War II, Korea and Vietnam. "Why should I stay here?" Holloway said. "It's just as dangerous here. You can get shot here."

"My country needs me," said Charles A. Mills, 69, with 52 years' sea experience. "There aren't enough trained seamen to man all the ships hauling military cargo into the Persian Gulf."

The unions have given retirees dispensations to continue receiving pension checks in addition to their salaries for shipboard work for up to six months.

"We have had several from our pensioners and older members volunteer to help us with this crisis," Hughes said. "These are guys with key ratings, specialist-type ratings that just aren't available anywhere else."

Hughes said because many of the retirees have served on vessels since World War II, they are more familiar with the reactivated Navy vessels and older ships.

"They're taking jobs that we cannot fill with our current personnel because our current personnel either don't have those specialty ratings or are already at sea."

"There are more jobs now," he said. "They've taken a lot of ships out of mothballs now and there are more jobs on older vessels."

Ms. Smith said SIU sent out the call to deckhands, storage workers and engine room workers. In the past month, she said the union suspended onboard working limits for certain seamen classifications.

Evacuee tells of occupation

EMBERSON, Texas (AP) — A Texan evacuated from Kuwait who gave birth to her fourth child during the Iraqi invasion has returned home to tell of her harrowing hospital stay and a month spent in hiding.

LaTrishia Hamdan, a Paris native, gave birth to Ibrahim, the fourth son born to her and her Jordanian husband, Tayseer. The family had lived in Kuwait for four years.

Mrs. Hamdan said in her hospital room Aug. 2, the day of the invasion, "I heard this big blast. We thought something in the hospital had blown up ... but what it was was a car."

"We couldn't tell what was going on ... we didn't know 'til the next day," she told The Paris News at her mother's home.

"A lot of the Kuwaitis didn't leave their houses — they were afraid of being hassled — so a lot of nurses didn't come in the next day," she said. "It got worse and worse all the time."

As Iraqi soldiers brought their casualties into the emergency room, a portion of the hospital was sealed off so that regular patients could not view their comings and goings, Mrs. Hamdan said.

"They never bothered us," she said. "They came in, brought their wounded and that was it. They never went past the emergency room."

Mrs. Hamdan cut short her hospital stay by several days.

"They said it wasn't any safer in the hospital than it was outside," she said. "Food was getting low and medical supplies were getting low."

About the time Mrs. Hamdan returned home, Iraqi president Saddam Hussein issued the order for all Americans to report to designated hotels to ensure their safety.

"My husband refused to take us there because he couldn't stay with us; he has a Jordanian passport," she said. "My husband wouldn't take me out ... everything we needed he went and got."

The family remained inside their apartment in Khitain for the month of August.

Mrs. Hamdan said the children — Michael, 12; Layla, 5; and Rania, 2 — followed their usual routine during the restriction, except "they kept asking to go to the beach."

Hamdan, a computer specialist, lost his job almost immediately after the invasion. To make money, Hamdan sold a television, a VCR and other appliances belonging to the couple.

With that money, he bought goods from people who were moving, then took them to Iraq and sold them, Mrs. Hamdan said. "He would stay gone for four days at a time, but that's about all you can do now," she said.

Finally, on Friday, Mrs. Hamdan and the children were allowed to depart. But she said she is worried about leaving her husband and his family behind.

"They're not young, his brother is diabetic and his dad has heart problems," she said. "That was the really sad part, having to leave them."

Mrs. Hamdan said her husband will stay in Kuwait until it becomes apparent what the future of the country will be.

"They (the Iraqis) did burn down a lot of things," she said. "I won't go back until they build it up and it's a decent place to live in like before."

Mrs. Hamdan was critical of President Bush's actions so far in the Persian Gulf crisis. "The Saudis asked for protection, and that's fine. But the economic embargo doesn't hurt soldiers, it hurt people like us, the children," she said. "I think by him (Bush) coming in he put our lives in jeopardy."

"I believe in the USA, this is my country," she said. But, she continued, "Iraq is just doing the same thing that America did a long time ago (in Vietnam) — protecting their interests."

Board to continue dog-training exercise

AUSTIN (AP) — State prison inmates will still be used as prey in dog training exercises, the Texas Board of Criminal Justice decided.

And board vice chairman Jerry Hodge, whose participation in the practice sparked a controversy, was made acting chairman of the board Tuesday.

Hodge temporarily replaces Charles Terrell, who resigned from the Texas Board of Criminal Justice effective Tuesday. Gov. Bill Clements has yet to appoint a new chairman.

Clements said he would make an appointment in the "near future."

Clements' press secretary Rossanna Salazar said Hodge is one of several candidates being considered as chairman of the board that oversees the state prison system. Hodge refused to say whether he would take the job permanently if it were offered.

Clements reportedly was ready to select Hodge before it was disclosed that Hodge took two companions on an inmate hunting exercise.

Hodge later had jackets made that dubbed the trip "The Ultimate Hunt." He has since apologized for the jackets but has defended the practice of using inmates as bait.

News of the inmate hunting practice drew protest from civil liberty organizations and one state lawmaker who said he would try to impeach Hodge from the board.

Prison officials defended the practice, saying inmates were needed to train the dogs.

AUSTIN — Texas Board of Criminal Justice Vice Chairman Jerry Hodge, right, listens as board member Allan Polunsky reads the recommendations of a board subcommittee to continue dog training using prison inmates, but allowing no contact until the prisoners get more protective gear.

On Tuesday, board members unanimously voted to continue using inmates.

The prison system uses 115 inmates at 22 units to help train more than 900 dogs, prison officials said.

The board temporarily suspended the part of the practice where inmates wrestle with the dogs once they are found. But the so-called "contact" aspect of the exercise will re-start once more protective headgear is purchased for the inmates.

Hodge, who voted to continue the hunting exercise, refused to comment.

Teens receive maximum sentence

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge called three remorseless teenagers "mindless marauders" as he sentenced them to five to 10 years in prison for raping and beating nearly to death a woman jogging in Central Park.

One of the three had challenged State Supreme Court Justice Thomas Galligan on Tuesday to "Give me the max" — and the judge did. The sentences were the maximum allowed for juveniles.

Galligan said the three were "mindless marauders seeking a thrill" who turned the park into a "torture chamber" in a "wilding" spree on the night of April 19, 1989.

"The intensity of the violence that occurred that night is something no rational mind can explain," he said. "The defendants showed no remorse, only defiance."

The case created a sensation because of race — the jogger is white; the six youths charged with attacking her are black or Hispanic — the randomness and brutality of the attack and the woman's remarkable recovery.

Yusef Salaam and Antron McCray, both 16, and Raymond Santana, 15, were convicted Aug. 18 of attacking her and assaulting two men the same night. They were acquitted of attempted murder. They could become eligible for parole in five years.

Each defendant addressed the judge before sentencing Tuesday.

McCray told the judge, "I'm not going to let this stop me."

Souter's views being questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The relative quiet surrounding Judge David Souter's Supreme Court nomination is being broken by a pre-hearing skirmish over how far the Senate Judiciary Committee can go in questioning his positions on major issues like abortion.

"There are more blank spaces than answers in Judge Souter's record," Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-De., said Tuesday in announcing that his panel would quiz Souter on civil rights, constitutional freedoms and — perhaps most critically — abortion rights.

"Even if Judge Souter should decline to answer questions ... regarding specific cases, I believe he must expect to be asked questions concerning quite specific aspects of his judicial philosophy," Biden said.

"And we have a right to expect answers," he added.

Biden's remarks were praised by liberal groups who fear, but can't prove, that Souter's will be the vote that swings the court majority firmly to the right.

But conservatives and a former Supreme Court chief justice denounced Biden's statement.

Thomas Jipping, a conservative who studies the court at the Free Congress Foundation, said he found it bizarre to hear Biden openly suggest that Souter must give politically satisfying answers.

"Disgusting," he said.

"He's trying to duplicate his role in the Bork hearings," said Rebecca Hagelin of Concerned Women for America, a conservative group supporting Souter.

The hearings are scheduled to begin Thursday.

Reagans visit historic Berlin wall

REAGAN TAKES A SWING

WEST BERLIN (AP) — Former President Ronald Reagan used a hammer and chisel on the defunct Berlin Wall today, like thousands before him taking symbolic swings at the old Cold War barrier.

"We cannot be happy until the whole world knows freedom as we know it," Reagan told a crowd of well-wishers.

Three years ago he called on the Soviets to tear down the wall, and few thought it was likely to happen soon.

The 79-year-old former president was greeted by applause and shouts of "Bravo, Ronnie" as he headed to the wall area from the nearby Reichstag building.

Several thousand Germans and foreign tourists applauded and cheered the Reagans during their visit to the wall area.

Allies sign treaty in favor of unification

MOSCOW (AP) — The four World War II powers that defeated and carved up Nazi Germany signed a treaty today with the two Germans sanctioning their unification and heralding the return of full sovereignty to a people.

Foreign ministers from the United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain signed the historic document along with representatives from the two German states in the Soviet Communist Party's plush Oktyabrskaya Hotel.

The so-called two-plus-four agreement is the last major document needed to clear the way for unification and eventually will end the World War II Allies' special rights on German soil.

It marks the crowning of months of sometimes worried talks over Germany's future strategic role. Other nations, voicing reservations because of Germany's Nazi past, had expressed concern over what some perceived as the potential threat of a nation of 80 million Germans in the heart of Europe.

The treaty incorporates built-in limits — demanded by the Soviets — on the Germans' military might. It also contains the Germans' acknowledgment that they cannot regain lands forfeited to Poland.

The end of the special powers for the World War II Allies above all concerns Berlin, which is now technically under the administration of the four nations and not part of West Germany. After unification, Berlin becomes one city within a united Germany.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev watched West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher affixed the first signature, followed by East German Prime Minister Lothar Damaiziere.

The four Allies were next: French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, Secretary of State James A. Baker III and British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd.

After the signing, Shevardnadze shook hands with Genscher and de Maiziere. The six ministers, plus Gorbachev, drank a champagne toast.

"This treaty marks the end of the Cold War era," de Maiziere said in a speech. "It is part of the most important body of European treaties of the postwar period."

The United States and its two Western partners were quick in giving their approval to German unity, but the Soviets were harder to move.

Flood leaves death and destruction

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The capital's main river broke through an embankment today after 15 inches of rain fell in 24 hours, causing flooding and landslides that left 124 people dead or missing and a quarter million homeless.

Scores of villages west of Seoul disappeared under a wall of Han River water unleashed when a 100-yard section of river embankment collapsed. Thousands of people awakened by the thundering water raced to rooftops and higher ground.

Thousands were ferried to safety in a massive rescue effort involving 4,000 soldiers, dozens of helicopters and hundreds of boats. American troops joined the Koreans in picking up stranded victims.

"It happened so suddenly, I couldn't get anything from my house," said a woman eight months pregnant. "I'm in a shelter and I cannot find my family."

President Roh Tae-woo said the relief efforts in this city of nearly 10 million were like "fighting a war."

Soviets consider civilian pullout

MOSCOW (AP) — A Russian parliamentary committee called today for the immediate withdrawal of Soviet military specialists from Iraq, even though it could endanger 5,800 Soviet citizens still in that country.

The international affairs committee of the republic's parliament also called for suspension of the Soviet treaty of friendship and cooperation with Iraq, the official news agency Tass reported.

"Under the present circumstances, the committee believes it unacceptable and immoral to maintain any contacts in the military sphere with the aggressor," Tass said.

On Tuesday, Foreign Minister

Eduard Shevardnadze told the Soviet parliament that the military men would leave as their contracts end. He said the government was worried about what might happen to the 5,800 Soviet citizens if the advisers are pulled out right away.

"If the contracts are not fulfilled by our side, that will concern not only our military specialists, but also a very large group of civilian specialists," he said.

"As soon as their contracts are finished, they will leave," he added. He did not say exactly when that would be.

But about 190 military specialists remain, training Iraqi soldiers to use and repair their Soviet gear.

Fighting still rages in townships

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Forty-nine blacks and a white policeman were killed in some of the most vicious factional fighting since violence erupted in townships around Johannesburg a month ago, police said today.

A pre-dawn bombing damaged the offices of the governing National Party, but caused no injuries, police said.

The deaths occurred Tuesday and early today in the townships ringing Johannesburg, where battles between rival black groups have claimed some 700 lives in the past month.

The fighting in Tokoza has been mostly between Zulus in the hostels and other blacks in the squatter camps, but on Tuesday night the violence spread to nearby middle-class homes.

Opinion

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Herald opinion Events that shook the world

The wonder is that the system lasted so long. It was supported by inflexible ideology on both sides. The Reds refused to admit mistakes. Now they are almost overeager to confess historical error. Anti-Communists believed nothing but military force could bring the Communist system down. Now they have fallen silent. Both sides were wrong.

The theory of Marx was disproved by events, in practice, according to the method of trial and error. It was tried and, simply, it failed.

Marxism was based on a valid critique of 19th century capitalism, which tended to be heedless of harm to the working class. But when Marx and Lenin came to proposing an alternative, socialism and the dictatorship of the proletariat, i.e. totalitarian socialism, the alternative didn't work as well as capitalism, either for the elite or for the workers.

Meanwhile, the process of development made it possible for capitalism to cure itself of many if not most of its ills. And the totalitarian system in practice sank deeper and deeper into economic despondency. When it began to go, it went fast, in about 12 months. In Eastern Europe, the Communist regimes collapsed one by one and shook the world. Even the Germans, who could make the Communist system work if anyone could, gave up.

East Germany will merge into West Germany and disappear on Oct. 3. And in the very Rome of the Communist world, in Moscow itself, in Red Square, in the Kremlin, plans are being made to dismantle the socialist economic system entirely in 500 days, starting Oct. 1, and convert to capitalism and a free market.

Of course, Russia has never gone through the capitalist phase. It is going back in time to the period before the Revolution, when the country's long-delayed capitalist development was just getting under way. It has a great way to go to catch up with the West, but it is surely good that it is starting now in the right direction.

Perestroika makes possible a more enlightened foreign policy, witness the snap summit meeting held on short notice in Helsinki over the weekend. There is still some danger of reaction in Moscow. We hope the capitalist revolution succeeds. We should help it where we can.

Dictionary provides classy entertainment

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Perhaps it was because the poor man had spent about 80 hours here over the weekend, but my boss Saturday found himself temporarily sidelined by the word "peril."

"Is that spelled right?" he asked me. After receiving my reassurance that, yes, the word was correctly spelled, he said, "That's a weird-looking word." Remember, now, that he had spent most of Friday and Saturday staring at a video display terminal. Do that for a while and a lot of things definitely start looking weird — including otherwise-normal appearing co-workers.

Still, hasn't just about everyone stumbled across a word at one time or another that just looked down-right strange? One of my personal favorites is "goober." For years, I thought it was a slang word referring to someone with terminal red-neckness. Imagine my surprise when I discovered that it's actually a word, describing a sort of peanut.

Goober. Roll that around your tongue a few times. Feels like your mouth is full of Jell-o, right? Goober, goober, goober, goober, goober... go around saying that over and over and you'll definitely attract some white coats.

That's one of the most fascinating things about looking through a dictionary; there's no telling what kind of goober-looking words you'll come across.

Some of these words are, like goober, friendly sounding. You want to pick them up, dust them off, and send them on their merry way.

An example of this is larrikin. Now, there's a friendly sounding name, don't you think? It almost sounds like a nickname: "Well, what do you know, here comes old Larrikin."

Beyond the realm

Unfortunately, its meaning is not so comfy. It's an Australian word that describes a hoodlum. Oh, well, what would you rather be — a goober or a larrikin?

For every nice-sounding word like goober or larrikin, however, there are other words that take on a more sinister appearance.

Two words that fit this category are kreplach and mycetozean. Aside from being more difficult to pronounce as goober or peril, they definitely have an intimidating appearance, wouldn't you agree?

Why, one look at those words and one would be tempted to put the dictionary down and search the TV channels for "Gilligan's Island" re-runs.

Anyway, mycetozean is defined as a slime mold, while kreplach is a square or triangular dumpling filled with ground meat or cheese.

See, I told you they were weird words.

Some of you might wonder about the point of this column. That, dear readers, is that an expanded vocabulary can greatly expand your vistas.

So, next time you want to insult a red-neck, don't call him a goober, call him a mycetozean with kreplach in his brains. Grammatically, you'll probably be more correct — and the cretin will have no idea what you said.

The drug war: Are we winning?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — How goes the war on illicit drugs? The question brought conflicting answers last week. Bill Bennett called a press conference to pass along some good news. Sen. Joe Biden scheduled a meeting of his judiciary committee to emphasize the bad news.

Bennett, a staunch Republican, is director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. Biden, a staunch Democrat, is a senator from Delaware. The war upon illicit drugs is much too serious to be left to politics, but in this town almost everything is politics. Two months before election day, the president's strategy is either working or it is not working. You pay your money and you take your choice.

My money goes to Bennett. He has statistics. Biden has impressions. To be sure, Bennett's figures have their limitations, as he emphasized in last week's report, but they are the best figures we have. Says Bennett: "They describe a drug problem that has been getting better, not worse."

As the field commander in the drug war, Bennett relies chiefly upon three sources of intelligence. These are the National Household Survey on Drug Abuse, the Drug Abuse Warning Network (DAWN), and the annual National High School Senior Drug Abuse Survey. Findings from all three sources provide reasons to be encouraged.

The household survey, begun in 1972, is based upon a sample of 4,000 to 9,000 randomly selected households. Professional pollsters do face-to-face interviews. Respondents are assured that their answers will be kept in strict confidence and will be used for statistical purposes only. Questions then focus on the use of specific illicit drugs: What kind of drug? How often? How much?

The most recent household survey (1988) found that 37 percent of those interviewed had used an illicit drug one or more times in their life. An estimated 14.5 million people qualified as "current users." They had used a drug at least once in the preceding month. The figure is disturbing — appalling is perhaps a better word — but it compares with 23 million current users in 1985. In this three-year period, the number of current users of cocaine has dropped by half.

Confirming evidence comes from the DAWN data bank. This program also began in 1972. It is based upon reports from more than 700 hospital emergency rooms in 21 metropolitan areas, supplemented by reports from chief medical examiners in 17 cities. Doctors on emergency duty see the worst victims of drug abuse. Most of their patients are hard-core addicts on the edge of death by overdose. Others are inexperienced novices who have not developed a tolerance to the forbidden substance.

The picture improves. The fourth quarter of 1988 saw 11,247 emergency room cases involving cocaine. In the fourth quarter of 1989 physicians reported only 8,627. One ought not to speak of "only" so many cases, for each case carries a tale of human tragedy, but year-by-year comparisons are useful.

Through the high school senior survey, begun in 1975, Bennett's office gets a perspective on what may lie ahead. The survey is based upon a sample of 17,000 students in 130 public and private high schools. Respondents anonymously fill out a questionnaire that reflects not only their actual use of drugs but also their attitude toward substance abuse.

Here the news is good. High school seniors were asked: Have you used a drug within the past year? In 1979 more than half of them (54.2 percent) said yes. Last year that percentage dropped to 35.4. A growing percentage of the students disapprove of both marijuana and cocaine.

In his statement last week, Bennett candidly acknowledged the shortcomings of his three sources. In face-to-face interviews, even with abundant assurances of confidence, people will lie. Emergency room data tell us nothing about drug use in rural areas. The annual survey of high school students misses those who have dropped out. Even so, because the same data are gathered at the same intervals, a firm base has been created. The picture slowly brightens.

Yet Joe Biden's pessimism has a sound basis also. Drug treatment centers are overflowing with patients. In many cities the bloody turf war between drug dealers grows more homicidal. The number of hard-core addicts is increasing. In the past four years the number of deaths attributed to cocaine overdose has more than tripled.

No one ever thought the president's declared war upon drugs would be a quick campaign. Winning the war will require persistent support for years to come. For now, there is more good news than bad news, but we have a long way to go before any significant victory may be claimed.

Barbecue was big success

To the editor:
The Big Spring Evening Lions 1990 Football BBQ was the most successful program anyone can remember, thanks to the supporters who purchased tickets or attended the BBQ Friday evening, Sept. 7th. Thank you to the Big Spring Herald staff for promoting our program with page one photographs of the food preparation, and to KBST and KBYG radio for the ad spots and interviews about our service.

We regret we ran out of ice, you had to stand in line, or any other inconvenience you may have encountered because of the extra large turn out this year. Thank you, Big Spring, for supporting the Evening Lions in our fund-raising. ### Why not say buy American?

To the editor:
I read with interest your editorial on Sept. 4 in which you severely castigated the domestic automobile industry for raising prices of their automobiles by almost 5 percent for the 1991 models.

While I agree totally with your opinion in this instance, I'm having a hard time trying to figure out why you didn't jump on their band-wagon and cajole the American people to pay the higher prices for the American built cars so the excessive profits will stay in America.

On a local level, you do this almost daily when you exhort the citizens of Big Spring to shop at home instead of going to the surrounding towns to shop.

"Will the real Big Spring Herald please stand up."

How come Don Rickles can do it?

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

You know their names. Jimmy "the Greek" Snyder. Al Campanis. Andy Rooney. Jimmy Breslin. Did I leave anybody out?

All of them got into trouble making statements others thought were racist.

Two of them lost their jobs. Two others were suspended from their jobs temporarily.

Each incident made a national news story.

You know the drill. We're on constant bigot patrol. Find them. Punish them. Condemn them.

We are a sensitive society now. We are a super sensitive society.

So how does Don Rickles continue to get away with it? Don Rickles is a comedian. He does the Carson show, he does Vegas. His schtick is making fun of people. All sorts of people.

It doesn't matter to Don Rickles — or whoever it is who writes his material — that his entire show is one stereotypical racist line after the other.

Rickles opened for Frank Sinatra on his summer tour. I heard him in Atlanta. He referred to "a colored guy" in the audience. He had a watermelon punch line.

He made fun of Japanese people's teeth. He had a line that included the word "queer."

He made fun of Polish people. He made fun of Italian people.

Lewis Grizzard

German people, Hispanics and Jewish people.

Don Rickles is Jewish. So, does that make Jewish people an OK target for him? I don't know what the rules are anymore.

When he talked about Italians, he grabbed himself in the groin. I didn't know Roseanne Barr was Italian.

And the crowd, mostly white, laughed. I couldn't see if "the colored guy" he talked about got up and left.

At the end of the performance the comedian said actually he loved everybody and was just teasing.

Perhaps he was. But I've still got to ask — why hasn't the bigot patrol gotten hold of this guy?

Is it because we're used to Don Rickles making fun of other people? He did it all those years before we became so sensitive, so do we just let him continue for old times' sake?

Jimmy the Greek Snyder made a remark about black "breeding." He got canned by CBS.

Al Campanis was explaining why blacks couldn't be major league baseball managers. He also mentioned they couldn't swim. The Los Angeles Dodgers canned him.

Andy Rooney talked about black people on welfare, begetting more black people on welfare. CBS suspended him.

Jimmy Breslin called a female employee at the newspaper where he works a "yellow cur." She is Asian. Newsday suspended Jimmy Breslin.

All four are (were) entertainers in a sense.

But Don Rickles was just kidding. Is that his outfit? If I put a racist joke in this column and said I was just teasing, would that keep me from getting the same treatment as the others mentioned here?

The question is hypothetical anyway, since editors would not allow such a thing to appear.

Don Rickles' act got old with me years ago. At the Sinatra concert I found myself actually feeling sorry for him.

OK, I admit I did chuckle a time or two, but it had been so long since I heard such in a public gathering, I found myself mostly stunned.

This is 1990, isn't it? Isn't it?

Chocolate lover's delight

Snacks made with cocoa and spice and everything nice

With brisk fall weather just around the corner, wholesome, homemade chocolate treats made from all-natural Hershey's cocoa and a blend of spices can help keep family and friends warm and cozy during chilly autumn afternoons.

Compliment the tempting flavors of these easy-to-prepare snacks by serving them with a mug of homemade hot cocoa.

Cocoa Zucchini Cake, a delightfully simple after-school snack of dessert, is a delicious combination of chocolate, spices, zucchini and walnuts. This cake can be prepared with short cooking time in about one hour, conveniently baking it in and serving it from the same pan. For a rich finish, drizzle sweet Cream Cheese Glaze over the top.

A new twist on traditional banana bread, Crumb-Topped Cocoa Banana Bread will be a family breakfast hit and a favorite at tailgate parties or weekend brunches. A sweet crunchy topping makes this recipe a favorite crowd-pleaser. Prepare this bread as much as a week in advance, store it in the refrigerator, slice and serve as desired.

Date-filled Chocolate Cookies are another flavorful treat, combining cardamom, a warm and hearty spice, with unsweetened cocoa. These delicious gems feature a spicy date filling, sandwiched within a cocoa and almond-based cookie. Chocolate lovers will crave their deep chocolate flavor and chewy centers throughout the season.

Friends and family won't wait for a special occasion to enjoy Cocoa Applesauce Raisin Muffins, a delicious blend of cocoa, applesauce, raisins and spices. These muffins are perfect for breakfast, brunch or all-day snacking, and they are simple to prepare. In less than 30 minutes, they can be baked and served warm from the oven with sweet Cinnamon Butter.

Serve any of these easy-to-prepare snacks with a mug of steaming Hot Cocoa with Cinnamon, garnished with a cinnamon stick for an old-fashioned touch. Together these delicious chocolate and spice snacks will help take the chill out of the season.

- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
- 3/4 cup chopped walnuts
- Cream Cheese Glaze*

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease and flour 13x9x2-inch baking pan. Place zucchini in sieve; press zucchini to remove moisture (discard liquid). In large mixer bowl, beat eggs, sugar, oil and vanilla until thick. Stir together flour, cocoa, baking soda, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and cloves; add to egg mixture, beating just until well blended. Stir in zucchini and walnuts. Spoon batter into prepared pan. Bake 35 to 40 minutes or until cake begins to pull away from sides. Cool in pan on wire rack. Drizzle Cream Cheese Glaze over top. Cut into squares. Makes about 15 servings.

*CREAM CHEESE GLAZE
1 1/2 ounces cream cheese (1/2 of 3-ounce package), softened
1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 tablespoon hot water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

In small mixer bowl, beat cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually add powdered sugar, beating until well blended. Beat in vanilla and water. Add butter; beat until smooth.

CRUMB-TOPPED COCOA BANANA BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 1/3 cups sugar
- 6 tablespoons cocoa
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Dash ground ginger
- Dash ground mace
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1 cup mashed banana (about 2 extra-ripe, medium-size bananas)
- Crumb Topping*

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Grease bottom only of 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. In large bowl, stir together flour, sugar, cocoa, baking soda, salt, baking powder, ginger and mace. Add eggs, oil and banana; stir with spoon just until all ingredients are well blended. Spoon batter into prepared pan. Sprinkle topping evenly over top. Bake 55 to 60 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Loosen sides of loaf from pan; remove from pan to wire rack. Cool completely. Loaf may be stored in refrigerator, well wrapped, for up to one week. Makes one loaf.

Warm up brisk fall days with delicious chocolate and spice snacks made with all-natural cocoa and a blend of aromatic spices.

*CRUMB TOPPING
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/8 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon
In small bowl, blend all ingredients until fine crumbs form.

DATE-FILLED CHOCOLATE COOKIES
3/4 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 can (14 ounces) sweetened condensed milk
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups chopped dates
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
In small saucepan, combine dates, sugar, water, cardamom and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until very thick. Remove from heat. Add butter; stir until melted. Cool. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
- 2/3 cup cocoa
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 cup ground almonds
- Spicy Date Filling*
- Powdered sugar

In large mixer bowl, beat butter, sweetened condensed milk, eggs and vanilla until well blended. Combine flour, cocoa, baking powder and baking soda; gradually add to butter mixture, beating until well blended. Stir in almonds. Divide dough into fourths; wrap each in plastic wrap. Refrigerate about 3 hours. Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Working with one portion at a time (keeping remaining portions in refrigerator), on floured surface roll out to 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into an equal number of 2 1/2-inch rounds. Place half the rounds on greased cookie sheet; spread slightly heaping teaspoonful filling on each round to within 1/4-inch from edge. Place remaining rounds on top. Press edges together with tines of fork or fingertips. Bake 6 minutes. Remove from cookie sheet to wire rack; cool completely. Sprinkle powdered sugar over top. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen filled cookies.

- 1/4 cup cocoa
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 cup chunky applesauce
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 3/4 cup raisins
- Cinnamon Butter*

Heat oven to 400 degrees F. Grease bottoms or paper-line muffin cups. In large bowl, stir together flours, sugar, cocoa, baking powder, baking soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. In small bowl, stir together butter, applesauce, milk and egg; blend well. Add applesauce mixture to dry ingredients, blending just until dry ingredients are moistened. Stir in raisins. Fill muffin cups about 3/4 full. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from pan; serve warm with Cinnamon Butter. Makes about 15 minutes.

CINNAMON BUTTER***
1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
2 tablespoons powdered sugar
1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
In small bowl, beat all ingredients until well blended.

HOT COCOA WITH CINNAMON
3 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup water
3-inch piece stick cinnamon
3 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
In medium saucepan, combine cocoa and sugar; stir in water and cinnamon. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils; boil and stir one minute. Add milk; heat, stirring occasionally, to serving temperature. Do not boil. Remove from heat; remove cinnamon stick. Add vanilla. Beat with rotary beater until foamy. Makes about 4-7-ounce servings.

*SPICY DATE FILLING
1 1/2 cups chopped dates
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/4 teaspoon ground cardamom
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
In small saucepan, combine dates, sugar, water, cardamom and salt. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until very thick. Remove from heat. Add butter; stir until melted. Cool. Makes about 1 1/4 cups.

COCOA APPLESAUCE RAISIN MUFFINS

By RAEMI FRYAR
Knott-Ackerly Correspondent

Homecoming is here. On Friday, the Sands Mustangs will play their homecoming game against Lorraine. In preparation for this night, Sands will also have Round-up Week.

Monday everyone dressed in either "preppie" or "kiddie" attire. Tuesday was Western or Sweats Day. Today was Occupation or Future Day. Thursday is Spook Day, and Friday is the traditional Brown and White Day.

Also, in support of the football teams, the high school cheerleaders and drill team decorated the insides of the guys' lockers.

reserve grand champion heifer. Brianne Fryar placed second in the herford heifer class. Courtney Fryar placed fourth in the Class 4 steer division, while Clayton Fryar placed sixth in the Class 3 steer division. Brandon Riddle, Marcus Carr, and Heath Gillespie participated in the Abilene livestock show.

Booster Club, you will be. Both High School and Junior High football teams were introduced to the members along with their respective cheerleaders. The cheerleaders and their sponsors, Ms. Moffat and Mrs. Barton, are selling stuffed mustangs and attachable tokens to raise money for a trip to an upcoming competition.

Members compete at stock shows

This past weekend many of the Sands FFA and Junior FFA members competed in area stock shows. Participating in the Dawson County Fair showing lambs were Justin Hambrick, Delynn and Marla Reed, Eric Herm, Michelle and Jody Howard, and Charles Rhoades. Delynn Reed won reserve grand champion with his finewool lamb. In the cattle show, Raemi Fryar won the herford heifer class and went on to win

Life Appreciation Training® Seminar

For Grief Recovery, Separation & Loss

GRIEF KILLS

Do you sometimes feel like everything is happening in a bad dream? Have you secretly feared for your sanity? Do your feelings occasionally swing from anger and helplessness to anxiety and panic? Have sadness and loneliness become familiar companions? Are you frustrated by disorganization and confusion... or are you simply not feeling at all... just numb?

The painful realities of death, divorce, separation and loss of any nature can be devastating. Unresolved grief can be serious and is always life limiting. The suicide rate among the grieving is alarmingly high. Hospitalization, illness and death resulting from unresolved grief is no longer theory but a fact.

THE SOLUTION

Life Appreciation Training and principles of grief recovery have been available only to professionals for the last eleven years. Now by request, the Training is being made available to all. The Training is not grief or group therapy, it's not counseling in the traditional sense, it's not sensitivity or empathy training. It's a unique and spectacular experience in grief recovery. The processes (i.e., educational exercises) are powerful, life transforming experiences that produce a positive shift in the participant's bereavement process and the attitude through which he experiences all relationships and life. The attitudinal change or transformation, empowers grievers to complete their relationship with the one mourned.

WHO IS IT FOR?

For you, if you are experiencing the pain of loss due to changes in any relationship... separation... divorce... illness... death.

For you, if you find yourself in the role of care giver and wish to support others in the emotional aftermath of loss.

Bill Bates is the President and Director of Training for Life Appreciation Training Seminars. Over the past twenty years he has developed, tested and implemented the Life Appreciation Death, Education and Grief Recovery Concepts in the United States and other countries. He guides the Life Appreciation effort today.

To insure that Life Appreciation principles can be made available to as many as possible, Bill speaks at conventions, hospitals, clinics, and before interested groups. Bill resides in Los Angeles, California with his daughter Allyssa.

Do you know your blood type?

DEAR ABBY: Your recent article on knowing your own blood type has prompted me to write.

When I was pregnant for the first time at age 36, my obstetrician performed a routine blood test, including blood typing. I was informed that my blood type was "O Negative" - whereupon I told the nurse that there must have been some sort of lab error because I already knew that my blood type was "O Positive." The test was repeated, and to my surprise, my blood type was in fact "O Negative!"

I had always carried a card, given to me by my mother, that stated my blood type was "O Positive." My pediatrician had tested my blood when I was a child back in the early '50s, and that card was part of my medical file along with my immunization records.

Dear Abby

DEAR PATRICIA: I am informed that when it comes to blood typing, nobody takes anybody else's word for anything; the blood is tested again just to be on the safe side, whether a person is giving or receiving blood for a transfusion.

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

I discussed this discrepancy with my doctor, who informed me that, although accurate for blood type, tests performed during the '40s and '50s were often incorrect for the Rh factor. In fact, an error rate of 10 percent or more in the Rh factor was typical of the old blood-typing tests!

So, Abby, your readers should rely on only the relatively recent blood-typing tests to determine their blood types. — PATRICIA WEEKS, LONG BEACH, CALIF.

Readers can write to Abby at P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Citations

yet, to tell you the truth," said Tim Yeats, a Big Spring attorney representing the company.

According to the citations, issued Aug. 28, the company must correct them in writing within 15 days of receiving them. Yeats said they still have at least another week to do so.

Family members of Zepeda could not be reached Tuesday afternoon or this morning.

The other eight citations include:

- Soil excavated from the trench had not been placed at least two feet from the edge of the trench and no other retaining devices were used to prevent material from falling into the ditch.
- No stairway, ladder, ramp or other safe means of escape were provided.
- A person certified in first-aid was not available to render help following the injury at the work-site.
- Cline Construction had not initiated a safety program addressing the hazards of unsupported ground. Employees were unaware of the dangers, the citation says. "This condition did result in the death of one employee at this site."
- Employees were also not instructed in the recognition and avoidance of unsafe conditions and the applicable regulations.
- Inspections of the excavation and adjacent areas were not conducted daily by a competent person.
- The soil at the site was not classified based on results of at least one visual and at least one manual analysis in order to determine sloping requirements.

On the afternoon of the accident, Zepeda was cleaning dirt out of the ditch when it collapsed on him, witnesses told police. He was buried for more than 45 minutes before rescuers could get to him, said Midland County Justice of the Peace Keith Jobe. The cause of death was suffocation. Massive head injuries caused by a backhoe in a rescue attempt occurred after he was already dead, Jobe said.

Council approves budget after lengthy discussion

By MICHAEL DUFFY
 Staff Writer

Last-minute funding requests by Councilwoman Gail Earls in the $16 million 1990-91 fiscal year budget sparked lengthy discussions among council members Tuesday night. Final approval of the budget was given after three hours.

Councilman Tim Blackshear was absent and Mayor Max Green voted against approving the budget. Following 20 minutes of discussions and explanations between Big Spring Main Street, Inc. officials and council members, Gail Earls' motion to increase by $5,000 the city's contribution to the downtown improvement organization passed.

Main Street organizers are holding Bingo games three nights per week in an effort they hope will make the agency self-supporting, chairman Richard Atkins told the council.

He advised the council that the $5,000 requested by Main Street will probably be its last.

"We are working toward being self-sufficient, however we are still struggling with administrative costs," said Atkins, who stressed that supporters have invested five years of work improving the downtown area.

The council meticulously questioned Fire Chief Frank Anderson and Police Chief Joe Cook about specifications for 15 police cars and a $200,000 fire truck before authorizing the solicitation of bids on the emergency vehicles.

Earls' motion to increase a proposed 3 percent across-the-board pay raise for city employees to 5 percent was soundly defeated. Only Earls and Councilwoman Pat Deanda voted for the increase.

The council quickly vetoed Earls' suggestion that a portion of the $50,000 allotted for construction of a new roof at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center be used to pay part-time personnel to man a visitor's bureau booth at Rip Griffin Truck Stop.

Councilman Chuck Condray was adamant in his opposition.

"I've waited for 3 years to get that roof put on," her told Earls. "You have even complained that the building is unusable."

Public Works Director Tom Decell said the city has employed an architect who will come to Big Spring next week to evaluate the roof.

Accident

Jack Taylor, right, owner of Jack and Mattie's Restaurant, and friend Charlie Vieregge look at a 1990 Ford Festiva lodged in the side of Taylor's restaurant Tuesday afternoon. The car, driven by Big Spring resident Diane Zant Gover, 2519 Chanute, was forced into the side of the building in an accident that occurred shortly after 3 p.m. at the corner of Third and San Antonio streets.

The driver of the other vehicle, Ethel Granitbaur, 37, of Snyder, was charged with making an improper left turn. Gover was taken by ambulance to Scenic Mountain Medical Center where she was treated and released. Taylor, saying he was glad the restaurant was already closed for the day when the accident happened, quipped, "We've got a drive-in cafe now."

Coke

An official goal has been set — 10,000 cases bought in two weeks by the citizens of Big Spring.

"Picture five semitrucks full of Coke," Lara said. "One out of every two citizens should buy a 12-pack."

At the press conference, it was announced that Lubbock mayor B.C. McMinn had issued a challenge: collect more cases of the soft drink for project Oasis. Mayor pro-tem Sidney Clark responded by saying, "On behalf of the citizens of Big Spring... you'd better have already started. We'll accept the challenge, you bet."

Evening Lions Club members started the project by presenting 7-Eleven store manager with a check for $500, enough to buy 200 cases of Coke.

Capt. Ramiro Perez of the National Guard said he was "doubly proud" of the effort overseas. Sending the "note with a Coke" would be a morale booster, he said.

Lara agreed.

"On TV you see all these Arabs burning American flags," he said. "We want to be sure our (soldiers) know we support them. And they have to drink a lot of liquids over there. I know the military has provided water for them, but we want to add something a little extra."

When 7-11 approached soft drink vendors, Coca-cola was the only one who agreed to provide the product at cost, he said.

Coca-cola representative David White said the project was a "great effort."

He explained that Diet Coke can be sent as well, adding that the soft drinks have a 3-month shelf life in extreme conditions like those found in the desert.

The Department of Veterans Affairs plans to get involved as well. Associate director John McFadden said the hospital will set up its own display of Coke 12-packs in the lobby Monday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The idea is to make buying it easier for patients, employees and visitors, he said.

"We think it's a unique idea," McFadden said. "It's something personal each one of us can reach out and do."

"What's happening over there is touching everybody's lives. It seems like there's somebody over there we all know, and for many of us it's a family member. This is something we can do to show support."

A 7-Eleven official said radio personality Paul Harvey was expected to announce the project on his commentary-talk show today.

Big Spring federal prison inmate and former Oklahoma football player Charles Thompson may be facing disciplinary action for public contact he receives through a taped message broadcast over a "900" telephone number, a prison official said today.

The pay-per-call number plays a taped message advertising Thompson's book, "Down and Dirty: the Life and Crimes of Oklahoma Football," co-written by Penthouse magazine writer Ilan Sonneschein. It is excerpted in this month's issue of the magazine.

Joe Aguirre, executive assistant to the warden at the Big Spring Federal Correctional Institute, said the administration is still waiting for an official decision on the issue.

"We haven't gotten a word yet on how to deal with this," Aguirre said. "We are considering whether disciplinary action is necessary."

Aguirre said "hundreds" of regulations govern a federal inmate's actions while he is incarcerated. Even though the message in question is taped, its contact with the reported 100 average callers per day may be considered "unauthorized contact with the public," Aguirre said.

A magazine official said this morning that Thompson does not receive money directly from the $1.49-per-call line.

"The money goes to the magazine," said public relations executive Catherine Jarrat Koatz of Penthouse magazine. "And payment (for the excerpt) will be handled just like every other book excerpt, through the publisher. I'm sure he'll get royalties from the book sales, though."

Although the magazine hit the stands early this month, Jarrat said no figures are available on the sales so far.

Thompson's message can be heard by calling 1-900-568-SPORT.

Bush

in U.S.-Soviet relations might warrant some savings in the Pentagon budget, he added: "This is no time to risk America's capacity to protect her vital interests."

And he underscored his stand against letting U.S. policy be swayed by the predicament of the 1,800 Americans believed to remain trapped in Kuwait and Iraq. "America and the world will not be blackmailed," he said.

In a move that angered some congressional Democrats, Bush also prodded lawmakers to achieve $500 billion in real debt reduction over five years. The remark came after House and Senate negotiators had been sequestered for five days with administration officials in painfully slow budget talks.

"The gulf situation helps us realize we are more economically vulnerable than we ever should be," Bush said, challenging lawmakers to agree on a deficit-reduction plan before the fiscal year ends in less than three weeks.

"America is tired of phony deficit reduction, or promise-now, save-later plans," he said. "Enough is enough. It is time now for a program that is credible and real."

Those comments prompted some grumbling from congressional Democrats, who pointed to a section in Bush's speech that advocated a series of tax breaks, including a cut in the tax rate for gains on investments such as stocks.

"George Bush has clearly made the decision that he wants to junk the current tax code," said Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan. "He mentioned the tax incentives, but he didn't mention the taxes to pay for the incentives," added Rep. Michael Andrews, D-Texas.

Bush did not mention his promise to support increases in tax revenues, but Gephardt reminded Americans of it in his official Democratic response to the presidential speech.

Bush's challenge to Congress included the development of a new national energy strategy that would reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil, including opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska to oil exploration.

Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, wore a lapel button that said, "Iraq — No. ANWR — Yes." But the prospect of drilling in the environmentally sensitive area was sure to draw objections.

Bush repeated his oft-stated goals for the deployment of U.S. troops and the international economic embargo against Iraq, which include restoration of Kuwait's former government and stability for the gulf region.

But he added a new goal: "A new world order" dominated by commonly held values and enforced by "a new partnership of nations" that includes the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Vital issues of principle are at stake. Saddam Hussein is literally trying to wipe a country off the face of the Earth," Bush said. "We do not exaggerate. Nor do we exaggerate when we say, Saddam Hussein will fail."

More than 100,000 U.S. combat troops have moved into the Middle East since Iraq's invasion on Aug. 2, at a cost now estimated at more than $1 billion a month. Bush said allies were moving well to help foot the bill, but lawmakers complained that he was too easily satisfied.

Water

the Watermaster operations of the Colorado-Lavaca River Basin for the fiscal year that began Sept. 1. It will be the taxpayers of West Texas who eventually pay, Ivie said.

Jennifer Mitchell, spokeswoman for the Texas Water Commission, said Monday that approval of the monies will initiate the Colorado-Lavaca Watermaster operation "at a level that will provide effective regulation on the use of state water."

Mitchell said implementation of the Watermaster operations will make water rights holders responsible for the costs of the measuring device.

"Although prices vary, the cost for a 4- to 6-inch pump is approximately $300 to $600," she said.

In 1967, the state legislature passed a bill that requires every owner of water rights throughout Texas to be issued a permit for this amount of water they use.

The legislation called for all owners of water rights to undergo a process of adjudication, Ivie said.

"Owners who had not used their water for the preceding 10 years lost their water rights," he explained.

As part of the same legislation, the river basins owners will be required to monitor — and be assessed a levy — on the amount of water they use.

Ivie said he has a number of reasons for opposing the plan, foremost of which is "the program is not necessary at this time."

He also believes that western residents are being taxed unfairly.

"We believe it is unconstitutional to levy a fee on one segment of the citizens of the state while others are not assessed," Ivie explained.

The CRMWD general manager also maintains that reservoir owners in West Texas are paying a higher portion of the Watermaster fees than those in the eastern part of the state.

"What the Watermaster operations would be doing is already being done by the Colorado River district," said Ivie. "It would unnecessarily duplicate efforts already being performed."

Implementation of Watermaster operations for 1991 would cost the CRMWD over $32,500, Ivie said.

"What that basically means is that we would be passing on our increase in expenses to the taxpayers," he said.

Fraser said he believes the Watermaster plan for West Texas will be postponed until the state legislature convenes in January.

"At that time we will be able to hear testimony from opponents," he said. "And I believe we will find a better and more equitable way to monitor the water."

Deaths

Rose Stringfellow

Rose M. Stringfellow, 85, Big Spring, died Tuesday, Sept. 11, 1990, in a local hospital after a brief illness.

Services will be 2:30 p.m. Thursday with the Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Mount Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

She was born Nov. 2, 1904, in Mitchell County. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Nutt, who were pioneer West Texas ranchers. She graduated from Odessa High School as valedictorian and received several scholarships. She married Russell E. Stringfellow April 18, 1925, in Big Spring. He preceded her in death May 8, 1984. She started to work with the Texas and Pacific Railway Company as a stenographer in 1925 and worked for 30 years before retiring. During the Depression she was furloughed, since she was married, and she worked for West Texas Oil Company or Ted Groehl while continuing to work at the Railroad when needed. She continued to work for Ted Groehl after retiring from Texas and Pacific, until 1968, when she retired from there. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church. She was a member of Big Spring Chapter #67 Order of the Eastern Star, for over 60 years, and had served as Past Matron. She was a member of the Desk and Derrick Club, and a member of the National Secretaries Association.

Survivors include two nieces: Annabel Barker, Big Spring; and Vonna Negro, Colorado Springs, Colo.; one nephew, J.E. Nutt, Casper, Wyoming; four great-nieces including Delynda Reed, Big Spring; two great-nephews, and four great-great-nieces. She was preceded in death by her parents, one sister, and two brothers.

Honorary pallbearers are all railroad employees.

The family suggests memorials to the Shriner's Crippled Children's Hospital, 610 Texas Ave., Galveston, TX, 77550.

The family will be at the J.O. Barker home at 605 West 15th.

James Morales

James Rodney Morales, 28, San Antonio, formerly of Big Spring, died Sept. 6, 1990, in a San Antonio hospital.

Services were Sept. 8 in San Antonio.

He was born March 1, 1962, in San Antonio. He grew up in Big Spring and attended Big Spring schools. He moved to San Antonio in 1986.

Survivors include his father, James Morales, San Antonio; one sister, Debra Morales, San Antonio; and several aunts, uncles, and cousins in Big Spring and San Antonio. He was preceded in death by his mother.

Joe Kloesel Jr.

Joe A. Kloesel Jr., 60, Midland, died Sunday, Sept. 9, 1990, at his home.

Services were 11 a.m. Wednesday at St. Stephen's Catholic Church, with the Rev. Robert Kelly, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

He was born July 5, 1930, in Schulenburg and married Leslie Faye Brewer Feb. 28, 1954. They made their home in Midland in 1962. He received a degree in Mechanical Engineering from the University of Texas at Austin. He had also completed advanced studies at the American Institute of Management, and was a registered professional engineer.

He was a prominent Midland business, civic and industrial leader for more than a quarter of a century. He was a past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Small Business Industrial Development Commission, Midland Industrial Development Corporation, and Junior Achievement of Midland. He also served as vice chairman of the Texas Economic Development Commission, and as vice president of Texas State Chamber of Commerce, Midland Industrial Foundation, and the Garden City SSC Commission. He also was a member of the Board of Executors of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame, and the Permian Basin Petroleum Pioneers. He was named "Volunteer Industrial Developer of the Year" for 1981 to 1982. He was president of J.A. Kloesel & Associates, Engineers and Business Consultants at the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, Faye Kloesel, Midland; one daughter, Sandra Kay Sausley, League City; and two sons: Ronald Keith Kloesel, and David Wayne Kloesel, both of Midland.

The family suggests memorials to the Hospice of Midland, or to the donor's favorite charity.

SWC won't be pushover

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

After the first two weeks of the college football season, I think the Southwest Conference is trying to make a statement to the rest of the country.

In a year rife with discussions of the SWC breaking up, the boys from the Lone Star State have come out with both guns blasting.

Steve's stuff

The Baylor Bears gave a good indication in the opening week that the SWC would be feisty this year. They went down to Lincoln, Neb. and gave the No. 8 Nebraska Cornhuskers fits before falling 13-0.

One can't say the Bears are taking the easy way out. The following week they traveled west to take on tough Arizona State. They took a hard blow this time, losing 34-13. After two road games like that, host Sam Houston State University in their home-opener in two weeks should be a breeze.

How about those Texas Tech Raiders. They sure made the Lone Star proud, giving those big bad Buckeyes from Ohio State all they wanted. Thanks to a 50-yard punt return in the third quarter, the No. 17 Buckeyes managed a 17-10 win in front of 85,000 worried fans in Columbus.

Texas Coach David McWilliams didn't pull any punches. He said he's tired of losing, plain and simple. His Texas Longhorns played like it, too, knocking off Eastern power Penn State at home. The then No. 21 Nittany Lions came tumbling down 17-13.

Texas will get a chance to see if it was a fluke when it hosts No. 9 Colorado Sept. 22.

Then the Horned Frogs from TCU went on the road and pulled off an upset last Saturday, nipping Missouri 20-19. It was an extremely big win for Jim Wacker and crew because it was Frogs' first road win in 12 games.

The Rice Owls looked impressive in the season-opening 33-17 domination of Wake Forest two weeks ago. But Saturday they turned around and lost to Tulane 21-10, a team they should have beaten. With this week off, Rice should go to 2-1 when they host Northwestern Sept. 22.

But the jury is still out on Rice, since their first three games are at home against not-so-tough opponents.

They were rocking at Ownby Field last Saturday. That's because the SMU Mustangs were sticking it to the Vanderbilt Commodores 44-7 in the season-opener for Forrest Gregg's Mustangs.

The Houston Cougars began the post-Ware era in style, destroying UNLV. The Running Rebs were really running as they tried to keep up with David Klingler's passing. Klingler took up right where Ware left off, hitting 30 of 54 passes for 426 yards and five TDs.

The Coogs will be tested, however, Thursday night when they travel to the South Plains to tangle with Texas Tech. The nationally-televised game will be shown on ESPN.

League front-runner Arkansas, who's headed to the SEC, opens the season against Tulsa. It should be a rout. Texas A&M was impressive in its season-opener two weeks ago. The Aggies beat a good Hawaii team 28-13 in Honolulu, where the Rainbows are tough to beat. The Aggies should have an easy time with Southwest Louisiana Saturday.

I don't think the SWC will be considered a weak sister this season.

After one week of play the Big Spring Steers are right up there with the tops in state in the 4A statistical leaders.

Big Spring's 521 yards ranks second in total offense. Athens leads the category with 549 yards.

Quarterback Gerald Cobos' 5 of 7 performance for 247 yards ranks third. Wingback Neal Mayfield leads all receivers with five catches for 247 yards. He's also tied for first in scoring with 30 points.

Lady Steers come up a little short

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

SWEETWATER — The Sweetwater Lady Mustangs proved to be just a little bit better than the Big Spring Lady Steers.

The emphasis can be put on little as the Lady Mustangs came away with a hard-fought 16-14, 17-15 match win in district opening volleyball play here Tuesday night.

The Lady Mustangs' two narrow game victories came in different ways. The first game they jumped out to a big lead, and managed to hold off the fast-charging Lady Steers. In the second game they fought back from a large deficit, much to the delight of a nosy Sweetwater crowd.

The temperature in the Sweetwater gym was scorching, matching the intensity in each game. The Lady Mustangs jumped out to a 5-1 lead behind the service of Stacy Little and Cassandra Mendez.

Big Spring's Kayla Roberts served two points thanks to a Sweetwater mis-hit and a kill by Marta Mathews. But Sweetwater's Amie Parsons served the next four points before Mathews put an end to the rally with a hard spike.

Mathews was the driving force in the Lady Steers' net play throughout the match. The 5-foot-7 senior was easily the best hitter on the court this night, downing 12 of 22 kill attempts.

Sweetwater built its lead to 11-4 before the Lady Steers mounted a comeback. Cassie Underwood served a point when Teveyan Russell got a kill; after a Sweetwater sideout, Russell served an ace. Amber Fannin then served a point thanks to Mathews' kill, cutting the lead to 11-7.

SWEETWATER — Big Spring Lady Steers' Cassie Underwood (14) gets ready to set the ball to a teammate during first game action Tuesday night against Sweetwater. In background is Marta Mathews (14) and Kayla Roberts (26).

Sweetwater reeled off the next two points giving the Lady Mustangs a 13-7 lead. With Roberts at the service line, Mathews got two straight kills and Roberts lined an ace, cutting the lead to 13-10.

The Lady Steers gained more momentum when Russell prevented a Sweetwater point by blocking Nikki Heath's spike attempt. With Kerry Burdette at the line, Big Spring tied the game at 13-all on a kill by Russell and two Sweetwater spike attempts that sailed into the net.

Sweetwater served and Underwood put one away, giving Big Spring back the serve. Big Spring took the lead for the first time when Underwood served a point via a Sweetwater mis-hit.

Sweetwater took a 15-14 lead when Heath served an ace and Parsons nailed a kill. After a Big Spring sideout Medez ended the game when she served one Amber Fannin couldn't handle.

In game two the two teams battled long and hard, but never seemed to get their offensive game untracked. That was one of the reasons for the loss said Big Spring Coach Lois Ann McKenzie.

"We didn't hit the ball like we could've," said McKenzie. "Our game is to relay, set, kill, not relay, hit, dink. We quit hitting. Our team isn't going to outdink and outpitch anybody. We've got to hit the ball to win. When we did hit the ball hard, they couldn't handle it."

Another reason for the loss was poor serving, McKenzie said. "The heat might have been part of it, but we work out in Steer Gym," she said. "We missed something like 11 serves. When you have that many missed serves you're not going to win."

Sweetwater coach Sylvia Wallace said she was just glad the match didn't go the duration. "I told them (team) I didn't want to play three games. The third game would've had told who was in better shape. It was really hot. We missed a lot of serves; they missed a lot of serves."

The Lady Steers grabbed a 4-2 lead in the second game. With Roberts serving, they upped the lead to 7-2 as Burdette and Mathews got kills, and Sweetwater mishandled a ball. The lead grew to 9-2 at Mathews served two points. Parsons and Burdette exchanged points; the lead was 10-3.

That's when the Lady Mustangs made their move as Parsons and Heath patrolled the net, turning back numerous Big Spring kill shots. Heath ended one long volley stuffing Russell's spike attempt, cutting the Big Spring lead to 10-7.

"I'd have to say that was the key," Wallace said. "When Nikki blocked Teveyan, Teveyan began hitting a lot of dinks. I was really impressed with Mathews, she hit them in the right spots tonight."

Sweetwater gamely battled back, tying the game at 12-12. The Lady Steers came back with two Underwood service points. Sweetwater committed a mis-hit, and Russell nailed a kill through a double-block attempt by the defense.

Sweetwater took a 15-14 lead by reeling off the next three points. Heath nailed a kill, Russell's dink attempt sailed out-of-bounds and Heath served an ace.

The Lady Steers tied the game at 15-all with Fannin serving. Jennifer Cranford set Mathews, who downed her final kill of the match. • Lady Steers page 2-B

Mayfield, Scott head area Honor Roll

By STEVE BELVIN

The first week of Crossroads Country football had some outstanding performances, but it was a wingback from Big Spring and a strong safety from Garden City that rose to the top.

Big Spring's Neal Mayfield had a remarkable game in the Steers' 42-13 win over Amarillo Caprock. Mayfield totaled 345 yards rushing and receiving. He carried 13 times for 104 yards, scoring on runs of 9 and 15 yards. The 6-foot-2, 220-pound senior also had five receptions for 241 yards, including TD's of 66 and 66 yards — not to mention six of six extra points and an average of 43 yards on two punts. For his effort he is the Crossroads Country Offensive Player of the Week.

Garden City's Shae Scott, a 6-foot-1, 165-pound sophomore, played an important role in Garden City's defense, limiting Forsan to 109 total yards in the Bearkats 51-8 win.

Scott was in on seven tackles and picked off two passes. For his effort he's the Defensive Player of the Week.

Some of the other top defensive performances around the area were:

• In Garden City's romp: Middle Linebacker Eric Seidenberger made 14 tackles, one fumble recovery and caused one fumble; Tackle Pete Talamantes: 11 tackles, one behind the line and one quarterback sack; End Michael

• In Stanton's 16-8 loss to Seagraves, John Paul Barry made 10 tackles, including seven solos, and fellow LBs Allen Prough and Gary Don Thompson each made 12 tackles.

• In Sands' 54-6 win over Hermleigh, the Sands defense limited the Cardinals to 112 total yards. The leading defenders were linebacker Eric Herm and ends Clay Parker, Brandon Riddle and John Young.

• In Coahoma's 28-12 loss to Greenwood; linebacker Mike Hernandez made 10 tackles; LBs Matt Coates and Shane Walker made eight tackles each, as did safety Rusty Ginnett.

• In Forsan's loss to Garden City, safety Lex Christie made seven tackles, caused one fumble and recovered a fumble.

• In Colorado City's 26-12 loss to Ballinger, outside linebacker Mark Smith made 12 stops.

• In Grady's 34-24 loss to Midland Christian, end Danny Valle made 23 tackles and middle linebacker Baldomar Cortez made 15 tackles.

Top offensive performances were:

• In Garden City's win, Allen Hoelscher put on a sparkling performance. At quarterback, he completed 4 of 7 passes for 42 yards; and carried three times for 33 more. At wide receiver he caught two passes for 84 yards and, last but not least, punted three times

All jerks aside coach apologizes

HOUSTON (AP) — Atlanta Falcons coach Jerry Glanville says he was a "jerk" for calling Houston Oilers coach Jack Pardee a "jerk" and said he is No. 1 in making mistakes. The Houston Post reported today.

The newspaper reported in a copyright story today that Glanville, who coached the Oilers last season, apologized for his remarks about Pardee and said he was not referring to the state of Texas last Sunday when he said "Texas can kiss my butt."

The initial remarks from Glanville came in a news conference following Atlanta's 47-27 victory over the Oilers.

"I'm a jerk for calling him (Pardee) a jerk," Pardee told the newspaper Tuesday in a telephone conversation from his Suwanee, Ga., office. "I apologize to Jack. I lead America in making mistakes. I'm No. 1 in making mistakes. And I'm not sure anybody is a close second."

Pardee had no comment when told of the apology, the newspaper reported.

Glanville said he was referring to a few Houston sports writers who didn't treat him fairly when he said "Texas" could kiss his butt.

"As I left the locker room, someone in the crowd of reporters asked me if I'd talk with all the media from Texas. And I said, 'Tell the people from Texas to kiss my butt.' I meant those guys (primarily in Houston) who've written all that stuff about me," Glanville said. "That wasn't right, because there are some people in the Houston media who have been great to me. And you know how much I love Texas."

"I just was so caught up in the emotion of the moment. That doesn't make it right what I did, and I'm sorry. I really am," he added. "I shouldn't have said anything. If I had told you guys what was in my heart at the time, I'd probably have embarrassed myself more than I already have."

"If I had told you everything I wanted to tell you, I'd still be there (dressing room) talking, with an audience of three dead rats," he said.

The uproar began when Glanville told reporters that he was sending the game ball to the 1989 Southern Methodist University football team that was defeated 95-21 by the University of Houston, which was coached by Pardee.

Glanville called Pardee a "real jerk" for allegedly running up the score against an SMU team mostly made up of freshmen in the Mustangs' first year back from the NCAA's death penalty, which forced SMU to drop football for a year because of numerous rules infractions.

"I shouldn't have called Jack a jerk and I didn't realize until later that the word 'jerk' came out of my mouth," Glanville said Tuesday.

Glanville, whose Oilers were in the playoffs the past three seasons, said he knows Pardee "is a good man."

"My problem is I'm too emotional and volatile," Glanville added.

Raiders will stay in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Raiders, after flirting with offers from at least three other cities, signed a long-term contract to continue to play at the Memorial Coliseum.

The 20-year deal between the Raiders and the Coliseum's private managers, Spectacor, was signed after negotiations that went into Monday night.

In conjunction, the Coliseum Commission dropped its $58 million breach of contract suit against the Raiders. Superior Court Judge William Huss accepted the dismissal of the lawsuit.

The Coliseum will be renovated with private funds reportedly totaling $145 million. The Raiders finally will get the skyboxes they claimed they were promised when they moved from Oakland in 1982.

The Raiders had been unhappy with the deteriorating Coliseum since 1987. While they negotiated for improvements there, they also negotiated recently with Oakland, where the team played through the 1982 season.

The team earlier appeared headed to suburban Irwindale or Sacramento, and an offer from Fontana, in San Bernardino County, was made in August.

NCAA investigating Illini hoops

CHAMPAIGN, ILL. (AP) — The NCAA, considering charges of basketball recruiting violations by Illinois, has requested information about car loans and game tickets, according to a published report.

The Champaign-Urbana News-Gazette reported that the NCAA wants more details about car loans by former players Kendall Gill and Stephen Bardo and about complimentary tickets allocated to players.

Former CSU coach avoids prison term

CLEVELAND (AP) — Fired Cleveland State coach Kevin Mackey avoided a prison sentence when a judge ordered him confined for 60 days in a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center.

Mackey, 45, pleaded no contest to charges of cocaine abuse and driving under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested July 13 after leaving an alleged crack house and was fired after a urinalysis tested positive for cocaine.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge James Kilbane suspended an 18-month prison sentence and $2,500 fine on the felony cocaine charge and six months in jail and $1,000 fine for drunken driving on condition Mackey spend a minimum of 60 days at the Turning Point Residential Program in suburban Brecksville.

Reds squeak past Astros by 5-3 count

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Deshaies couldn't get the ball over the plate. Neither could Randy Myers.

But Myers made good on his one throw that counted — the one that got the ball to first base to end the game, giving the Cincinnati Reds a 5-3 victory Tuesday night over the Houston Astros.

"I was lucky and fortunate," said Myers, who got his 29th save by pitching out of a bases-loaded threat in the ninth.

Myers came on in the eighth and bailed reliever Rob Dibble out of trouble. Dibble had come on to hold a 4-3 lead for Norm Charlton (12-7), who allowed five hits over seven innings.

Bill Doran, making his first appearance in a Reds uniform in his hometown, singled home another run in the bottom of the eighth, and Myers fanned Dave Rohde to open the ninth.

He then walked Gerald Young on a 3-1 pitch, gave up a soft single to Rafael Ramirez, and fanned Craig Biggio. A walk to Glenn Davis loaded the bases.

Mariano Duncan had a sacrifice fly for a 2-1 lead, and Chris Sabo singled home two more runs to make Deshaies pay for his lack of control.

Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer in the fifth off Charlton, his 21st.

Witt's streak ends

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Witt sat in front of his locker with the look of a pitcher who had lost his 12th straight game, not his first since June 17.

His club-record 12-game winning streak was over, ending with a 5-4 loss Tuesday night to the New York Yankees. The termination of the streak didn't mean as much to Witt as the loss, which ended Texas' six-game winning streak.

Texas led 2-1 after trailing 1-0 and led 4-3 after falling behind 3-2. It was a great game, the type that would have been thrilling if the teams were in a pennant race. Witt (15-9) was overpowering for the first six innings. He didn't walk anyone, and this is a pitcher who hasn't thrown a walk-free complete game in his major-league career.

Witt took a 2-1 lead into the seventh but fell behind on Jim Leyritz's two-run double, only his 10th hit in 59 at-bats with runners in scoring position.

Texas rallied in the eighth, scoring two runs as Yankees manager Stump Merrill used five pitchers. Pinch-hitter Kevin Reimer hit an RBI triple off Jeff Habyan and scored on Rafael Palmeiro's single off Lee Guetterman (10-6).

But Sweetwater iced the game with Stefanie Soto serving. Fannin committed a mis-hit, and Big Spring couldn't get the last ball back over in three hits.

For the game Big Spring downed 27 of 52 kill attempts for 52 percent. Russell was 12 of 23. Sweetwater was 19 of 40 for 48 percent, Heath downed 8 of 16 and Parson downed 6 of eight. They combined for eight blocks.

"We didn't play well tonight," said McKenzie. "We didn't scramble like we have been. We just to forget about it and go on."

The Lady Steers fall to 3-5 for the season while Sweetwater goes to 9-4.

In sub-varsity action, the freshmen team lost its match and the junior varsity won in three games. The frosh are 2-2 and the JV is 7-3.

The Lady Steers host Monahans Saturday at Steer Gym. The junior varsity plays at 11 a.m.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sammy Hagar, lead singer of the rock group Van Halen, is hyperactive, and he has the clothes to prove it.

Hagar is introducing his own fashion line of more than 50 pieces called Red Rocker Hyper-Active Wear. It will be introduced next week at a convention in San Diego.

"I have been designing my own stage clothes for years," he said. "I have always referred to my clothes as hyperactive wear. It is very important to me that my hyperactive wear has integrity. I will only make clothes that I wear myself."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don't look for the video to go with George Michael's new album. He won't be making one.

SAMMY HAGAR

GEORGE MICHAEL

"Very little in this album is right for video," Michael said in an interview last week. "When you are trying to express things with metaphors and much more subtlety, that's when you are doing yourself a disservice by making a video."

The stubble-faced heartthrob is forgoing another promotional mainstay — a concert tour for "Listen Without Prejudice Vol. 1."

Michael said he wants a breather from public exposure. "I think that is the ultimate tragedy of fame. People who are simply out of control, who are lost," he said. "I've seen so many of them, and I don't want to be another cliché."

His record label is taking the decision in stride.

"I think you'll have a lot of disappointed fans because there is no video, but when they get to understand his point of view and hear the record, I don't think there will be any problem," said CBS Records president Tommy Mottola.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Your persistence and patience will be richly rewarded in the coming months. Hard work helps you overcome many obstacles. Luck is on your side. Plan a romantic winter vacation. The job picture will be brighter in early 1991. Numerous trips may be necessary to promote a special project next March. A legacy or windfall will help solidify your financial position. Take loved one into your confidence.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Resolve any work conflicts that come to a head now. New harmony in the office will boost productivity. A domestic issue should be settled by early afternoon. A great evening for romance!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The ways of fate and happenstance are inscrutable but favorable. Although a new development at work is controversial, the change seems positive. Letters from family members bring

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1990

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Joint financial matters deserve close scrutiny now. Higher profits are possible. Build a nest egg. Romance is serious business. Someone from your past reappears. Go slow.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Differences of opinion could spark arguments at work. Envy may play a role. Do not expect others to instantly accept new ideas. At home, everyone is willing to pitch in and help.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your optimism and eagerness return. Those who are good with their hands can reap big profits today. Hidden motives come to light, leading you to question someone's reliability. Play a waiting game.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Financial papers and discussions can add to your peace of mind. Beef up your bank account with regular deposits. Evening could find you in an excitable mood. Curb a tendency to be overly dramatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Domestic happiness and financial progress are closely linked. People outside the family circle continue to play a positive role in your life. Quiet talks reduce parent-child conflicts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Discussions with an agent or partner could lead to new financial negotiations. Travel plans could be in the making. It pays to communicate your hopes to others. Offer constructive suggestions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Writing, publishing and contract negotiations enjoy highly favorable influences. And so do speculative ventures. However, exercise caution when using tools and machines.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Impulsive promises may not be kept. See things as they really are. A creative disagreement could lead to better understanding. Remain polite. Curb a tendency to overindulge in food or drink.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Concentrate on your work and any chores you have been postponing. Do not buy what you do not need. A sudden, compelling attraction could be a bit dramatic.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Speculative enterprises gather steam. It will take two — or more — to make a business venture a success. Become a comparison shopper and save big bucks. Romance should sparkle this evening.

Bush vows strong stand against Iraq

Texans applaud Bush Persian Gulf tactics

By EVAN RAMSTAD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush's address to a joint session of Congress was his best speech ever, several Texas Republicans said afterward.

Democrats praised Bush's assertiveness in the Persian Gulf crisis during the speech Tuesday night, but disputed some of his suggestions to resolve the budget problem.

"Iraq must withdraw from Kuwait completely, immediately and without conditions," Bush said. "Saddam Hussein will fail." He spent half of his speech urging Congress to settle the budget question by Oct. 1, the start of the next fiscal year.

If the United States and the Soviet Union can work together in the Persian Gulf, the Congress and the administration "can come together to fulfill our responsibilities here," said Bush.

"I've heard President Bush speak hundreds of times, I've never heard him stronger," Sen. Phil Gramm, a Republican, said.

"The president has done the right thing, continuing to inform the American people, remind them of what our goals are," said Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso.

"In terms of its impact on current events and being real, I would say it's his best," said Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis. "Because it's not just rhetorical. It's now."

"Six weeks ago, the president drew a line in the sand with Hus-

WASHINGTON — President Bush speaks to a joint meeting of Congress on Capitol Hill Tuesday night to discuss the crisis in the Persian Gulf and to urge Congress to match the sacrifice of U.S. forces abroad with a greater commitment to solving the budget crisis.

sein," Rep. Lamar Smith, R-San Antonio said. "Tonight he drew a line in the sand with Congress."

"He wants the Congress to get on with the job of bringing the deficit under control," Gramm said.

Gramm and other participants in the budget summit moved closer Tuesday to a package that would trim the deficit by $50 billion next year.

But the senator said he was unsure whether an agreement would be reached Wednesday, as some participants have predicted.

Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land, noted that Bush did not call for any in the speech. He strongly opposes any tax increases.

"The White House has been listening to those of us calling for a pro-growth budget all summer," said DeLay.

But Bush's call to cut the capital gains tax irked some Texas Democrats.

"When he says the executive branch is going to cooperate with the Congress in reaching a budget agreement, then hopefully that's one of the things he'll be willing to drop," said Coleman.

President says U.S. 'will stand by friends'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush reaffirmed America's resolve to stand up to Iraqi aggression and challenged Congress to match the sacrifice of U.S. military forces abroad with a greater commitment to solve the nation's budget crisis at home.

"Let no one doubt our staying power. We will stand by our friends," Bush told a joint session of Congress Tuesday night in a speech that at times seemed aimed as much at Iraqi President Saddam Hussein as at the president's domestic audience.

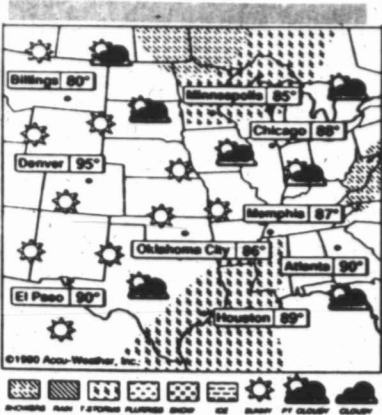

Republicans and Democrats alike praised the address, saying it was an important reminder to Americans of the high stakes in the U.S. deployment of troops to the Persian Gulf region, and of the need for constancy in resisting Iraq's 6-week-old occupation of Kuwait.

House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., sounded an even more hawkish tone, warning Saddam that if he starts a war, "we will finish it."

Bush also used the speech, his third such formal address in 20 months in office, to warn Congress against deep defense cuts that could hamper U.S. latitude in responding to future crises. The House began work Tuesday on a $283 billion defense budget for 1991 that the administration has threatened to veto as too small.

"The world is still dangerous," the president said. While acknowledging that improvements

GHS juniors to sponsor meal

LENORAH — The Grady junior class will be serving a "Mexican Food Stack It" meal in the cafeteria prior to and after the Borden County High School football game Friday evening.

Serving time is 5 p.m., with a cost of $3.50 for a large plate, $2.50 for a small plate and 50 cents for dessert.

For more information contact any GHS junior class member or call 459-2445.

Grady JV to meet Midland Baptist

LENORAH — The Grady junior varsity will meet the Midland Baptist Temple JV at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Tunnell Field.

On Friday night, the Grady Wildcats varsity team will meet the Borden County Coyotes in six-man action at 7:30 p.m., also at Tunnell Field.

SHS Buff Band parents meeting

Parental participation in support of the Buffalo Band is requested. The band members are working hard every day to be successful, entertaining musicians, according to band director Kirke McKenzie.

"We parents especially understand how much sacrifice is made to have one of the top AA bands in Texas. The Buff Band is hailed as the 'Best Band Herd,' and really proved that last spring as it claimed the title of 1990 State Wind Ensemble Champions. Now we have our sights set on the UIL State Marching Contest in Austin on Nov. 12. We need your help to get there," McKenzie said.

According to McKenzie, exciting plans are being made and sponsors for fall and winter projects are needed.

"Please support your child by being an active participant in our successful band program. Two meetings are planned. The first is to be held Monday, Sept. 17, at 6:30 p.m., in the high school band hall, and the next will be Monday, Sept. 25 from 6:30-7:30 p.m. Other meetings will be called if needed in the future. Please make one of the meetings if at all possible," McKenzie said.

Noon Lions meet Stanton coaches

The Stanton Noon Lions met in regular session Tuesday to discuss Pee Wee football, set to start Sept. 22, and a highway clean-up north of Interstate 20, scheduled for 8 a.m. Saturday.

Boss Lion Kirke McKenzie introduced guests David Adkins and Steve Stallings to the club. On the program was Stanton Head Coach Dale Ruth, who stressed his team's accomplishments.

Cap Rock holds 51st meeting

HERALD STAFF REPORT

MIDLAND — Cap Rock Electric, Inc. held its 51st annual meeting and report Saturday at Midland's Chaparral Center and discussed its first 50 years and began work on its second 50.

Caprock entertain its members with barbecue served up by Midlands' Johnnys' Barbeque. A clown also was on hand to keep the children busy while the parents went through the annual meeting report.

According to Chairman of the Board, Rusty Jones, "this year marks the beginning of our second 50 years of business. We have an illustrious past and a very bright future. We are proud of the progress we have made in the past — progress in ensuring better service for you, while controlling the wholesale cost of electric power — the bottom line for any service company."

Jones also indicated that the quality of service has improved from 1986 figures of 3.46 hours per consumer in outages to 1.39 in the first six months of 1990. The Co-Op's goal, he added, is zero.

He said that the member-owned company has added $23 million in plant facilities, equipment and materials without having to charge higher rates for the electric power being provided. Its last rate increase was during 1983.

"In May of 1990, the membership of Lone Wolf Electric Co-Op, headquartered in Colorado City, voted overwhelmingly in favor of combining with Cap Rock Electric," Jones said. "To further this combination, we only need amendments to the articles of incorporation from Cap Rock members."

"It was not necessary for you, as Cap Rock members, to vote on the combining because there was no exchange or sale of Cap Rock assets, nor did we pay any money for Lone Wolf Electric. We take new Cap Rock members every month," he added.

"This combination simply made it possible for us to gain 3,000 new members at one time. Lone Wolf is very sound. The combining will add $2.6 million to your equity in Cap Rock Elec-

Project to send a 'note with a Coke'

By DEBBIE LINCCEUM
Staff Writer

Thirsty, culture-starved military troops in Saudi Arabia will get a "taste of America" in a new project sponsored by 7-Eleven convenience stores, Big Spring radio station KBST and Southwest Coca-Cola Bottling Company.

Project Oasis, which officially began with a press conference today, promises to deliver a 12-pack of the soft drink and a personal note to anyone serving overseas. The Coke is sold at cost, $2.50, and comes with a yellow ribbon sticker for the note.

"The idea," said 7-Eleven field manager Ray Lara, "is to be able to send our GI's in Saudi Arabia something tangible they can relate to. We thought a note with a Coke was a good idea."

Radio station KBST has agreed to support the effort by broadcasting regular updates on the number of 12-packs collected.

Lara said the convenience store chain is acting as a catalyst for the project, which, although limited to Big Spring and Lubbock now, may become a nationwide effort.

"We contacted the Department of Defense and got a go-ahead, and they offered their help," he said. Once the Cokes have been bought and the note attached, the Army will truck them to Reese Air Force Base in Lubbock, to be flown to the troops.

"Nobody's making a profit on this thing," Lara said.

An official goal has been set — 10,000 cases bought in two weeks by the citizens of Big Spring.

"Picture five semitrucks full of Coke," Lara said. "One out of every two citizens should buy a 12-pack."

At the press conference, it was announced that Lubbock Mayor B.C. McMinn had issued a challenge: collect more cases of the soft drink for Project Oasis. Mayor pro-tem Sidney Clark responded by saying, "On behalf of the citizens of Big Spring... you'd better have already started. We'll accept the challenge, you bet."

Evening Lions Club members started the project by presenting 7-Eleven store manager with a check for $500, enough to buy 200 cases of Coke.

Capt. Ramiro Perez of the National Guard said he was "doubly proud" of the effort overseas. Sending the "note with a Coke" would be a morale booster, he said.

Lara agreed. "On TV you see all these Arabs burning American flags," he said. "We want to be sure our (soldiers) know we support them. And they have to drink a lot of liquids over there. I know the military has provided water for them, but we want to add something a little extra."

Controversial tank gets support at Fort Hood

By ROBERT CADWALLADER
Waco Tribune-Herald

FORT HOOD (AP) — When Fort Hood troops join the military standoff in the Persian Gulf, they will take with them a tank that has weathered a firestorm of criticism and emerged, they contend, still the best tank in the world.

The turbine-powered M1 Abrams tank, which can fire accurately while racing at more than 40 mph, has overcome filtering problems that made it vulnerable to choking on desert dust, say experts, including some former critics.

In Saudi Arabia, where troops from the United States and other nations are massing to discourage an invasion from Iraqi troops in occupied Kuwait, dust reigns.

But some critics still throw their complaints at the origin of the tank, and the Pentagon's decision to back an armored vehicle that drinks much more fuel than counterparts they contend are just as fast and powerful.

"They can say anything they want, but the thing is, we have increased our mobility and firepower with the M1," said Ken Sierra, a Fort Hood spokesman who has operated M1s and the tank it will replace, the M60. "From where we were with the M60, it's a step in the right direction."

The M1 name represents a family of variations and upgrades that have changed the tank since it rolled off the Chrysler assembly lines beginning in 1980.

It overpowered the diesel-fueled

M60 tank. In addition to its speed and quicker acceleration, the M1 has a Nuclear, Biological and tric," Jones said. "Lone Wolf will retain its local management and employees. It will, however, become the Lone Wolf Electric Division of Cap Rock Electric, Inc."

Below are some of the highlights from the past year for Cap Rock:

- October 1989 - Mark Sullivan joined the co-op staff as Projects Manager to oversee planning and construction of the new substations.
- November 1989 - Customer Service Department was formed at Cap Rock with the goal of providing maximum assistance to customers. This department offers billing information, energy audits, service information, and alternate payment agreements.
- February 1990 - Cap Rock requested the Texas Public Utility Commission to dismiss TU Electric's request for a $442 million rate increase on the basis that Cap Rock customers would pay an unfair share of the increase.
- March 1990 - A group of employees formed the Zero Outage Team to search for ways to help the co-op reach its priority goal of zero outages.
- April 1990 - Cap Rock set up a Standards Committee with the goal of determining the best and most cost-efficient equipment, materials, tools, and methods for the co-op's operations.
- May 1990 - To lessen problems senior citizens may have when their utility bills become due before arrival of their Social Security or retirement checks, Cap Rock offered rescheduling of payment-due dates for those customers.

Also in May, the regular monthly meeting of the co-op board of directors was held in Lenorah so customer-members of that area could gain a better understanding of how the board directs policy-making and the staff handles day-to-day operations.

drink vendors, Coca-Cola was the only one that agreed to provide the product at cost, he said.

Coca-Cola representative David White said the project was a "great effort."

He explained that Diet Coke can be sent as well, adding that the soft drinks have a 3-month shelf life in extreme conditions like those found in the desert.

The Department of Veterans Affairs hospital in Big Spring plans to get involved as well. Associate director John McFadden said the hospital will set up its own display of Coke 12-packs in the lobby Monday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The idea is to make buying it easier for patients, employees and visitors, he said.

"We think it's a unique idea," McFadden said. "It's something personal each one of us can reach out and do.

"What's happening over there is touching everybody's lives. It seems like there's somebody over there we all know, and for many of us it's a family member. This is something we can do to show support."

A 7-Eleven official said radio personality Paul Harvey was expected to announce the project on his commentary-talk show today.

Investigators blame company for explosion

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Transportation Safety Board said a natural gas company failed to make sure a 16-inch pipeline was securely buried, causing a fiery accident that killed 11 Texas fishing boat crew members in the Gulf of Mexico last year.

The board said the fishing boat Northumberland was either very close to or penetrating the sea bottom in shallow waters a half-mile off Sabine Pass at the time of the Oct. 3, 1989, accident, but the ship was not responsible because it was operating in its normal area and at a reasonable speed.

The accident, the board said, "would not have occurred" had the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America "maintained the pipeline at the depth required by the permit issued by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers."

"We cannot do it just simply on the backs of working Americans while the very wealthy of the nation once again enjoy the luxury of that type of legislation," Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio, said.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, said Bush should have taken a stronger stand to get Japan and European countries to contribute to the cost of the Persian Gulf military buildup.

"I think that was a noteworthy omission and one that I hope does not indicate he intends for the American people to pay the whole cost of this," Bryant said.

Rep. Jack Fields, R-Humble, noted Bush twice said the nation needs new initiatives to boost U.S. oil exploration and production.

"That would be of tremendous economic benefit to Texas, and it would allow us to move forward faster to help the rest of the country ease our dependence on foreign oil," said Fields.

"I'm hopeful that the president will continue to show leadership on this subject, and that we can get policies in place that help us get our oil and gas industry back on its feet, strong, growing and vibrant."

Chemical (NBC) protection system that the M60 did not have.

It has a fire direction control system for firing on the run, a laser rangefinder and thermal imaging to lock in on targets at night.

Supporters call it the "best shoot-on-the-move tank in the world."

The latest version, the M1A1, also has a larger main gun - 120 millimeters in diameter compared with 105 millimeters.

The M1 began populating Army posts in 1982 and 1983 and currently number 7,000, with another 1,000 on the way, officials say.

But as the XM-1, the first of the M1 series, tankers and other testers quickly found problems that might have left the tanks little more than lifeless lumps on a desert.

The high-powered turbine engine frequently sucked in too much dust and choked down.

"We ran them like heck," said Wayne Hair of the Test and Experimentation Command (TEX-COM) at Fort Hood, which conducted the first tests of the XM-1.

"We wanted to see what they could do under real conditions. That's when we started finding out a lot of these things."

The problem traced back to incorrectly manufactured seals.

Bush

in U.S.-Soviet relations might warrant some savings in the Pentagon budget, he added: "This is no time to risk America's capacity to protect her vital interests."

And he underscored his stand against letting U.S. policy be swayed by the predicament of the 1,800 Americans believed to remain trapped in Kuwait and Iraq. "America and the world will not be blackmailed," he said.

In a move that angered some congressional Democrats, Bush also prodded lawmakers to achieve $500 billion in real debt reduction over five years. The remark came after House and Senate negotiators had been sequestered for five days with administration officials in painfully slow budget talks.

"The gulf situation helps us realize we are more economically vulnerable than we ever should be," Bush said, challenging lawmakers to agree on a deficit-reduction plan before the fiscal year ends in less than three weeks.

"America is tired of phony deficit reduction, or promise-now, save-later plans," he said. "Enough is enough. It is time now for a program that is credible and real."

Those comments prompted some grumbling from congressional Democrats, who pointed to a section in Bush's speech that advocated a series of tax breaks, including a cut in the tax rate for gains on investments such as stocks.

"George Bush has clearly made the decision that he wants to junk the current tax code," said Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan. "He mentioned the tax incentives, but he didn't mention the taxes to pay for the incentives," added Rep. Michael Andrews, D-Texas.

Bush did not mention his promise to support increases in tax revenues, but Gephardt reminded Americans of it in his official Democratic response to the presidential speech.

Bush's challenge to Congress included the development of a new national energy strategy that would reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil, including opening the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska to oil exploration.

Sen. Frank Murkowski, R-Alaska, wore a lapel button that said, "Iraq - No. ANWR - Yes." But the prospect of drilling in the environmentally sensitive area was sure to draw objections.

Bush repeated his oft-stated goals for the deployment of U.S. troops and the international economic embargo against Iraq, which include restoration of Kuwait's former government and stability for the gulf region.

But he added a new goal: "A new world order" dominated by commonly held values and enforced by "a new partnership of nations" that includes the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Vital issues of principle are at stake. Saddam Hussein is literally trying to wipe a country off the face of the Earth," Bush said. "We do not exaggerate. Nor do we exaggerate when we say, Saddam Hussein will fail."

More than 100,000 U.S. combat troops have moved into the Middle East since Iraq's invasion on Aug. 2, at a cost now estimated at more than $1 billion a month. Bush said allies were moving well to help foot the bill, but lawmakers complained that he was too easily satisfied.

As the president spoke in the House chamber at the Capitol, Iraqi Ambassador Mohamed Sadiq Al-Mashat sat quietly taking notes, just five seats from Kuwait's ambassador, Sheik Saud Nasir Al-Sabah.

Bush today was taping a message for Iraqi television explaining why most of the world stands united against Iraq's conquest of Kuwait. The remarks were being accompanied with Arabic subtitles and voice dubbing.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater expressed doubt that Iraq would actually show an unedited tape of Bush, although its ambassador has said it would. He said the tape would be made available to other Arab countries if Baghdad does not broadcast it.

THE TASTE OF THE TROPICS

the distinctive Caribbean culture, as reflected in its native cuisine, has long been regarded as enticing, mysterious and somewhat magical. As bewitching as a warm ocean breeze, Caribbean fare combines a distinctive blend of the islands' abundant natural resources—refreshing fruits and exotic seasonings.

Yet, bringing the tastes of the Caribbean islands home for your next party or casual backyard dinner can be simple. Just combine modern preparation methods with the key elements of island cuisine.

A new warm-weather cooking technique, "micro-grilling," provides an ideal way to quickly prepare authentic Caribbean fare. The meal is partially cooked in the microwave to seal in natural juices, then finished on the grill to provide a distinctive smoky taste. To prepare your "micro-grill" meal, take advantage of a variety of time-saving ingredients that lend themselves perfectly to Caribbean cuisine.

Chicken, perfect for the microwave and grill, is a popular Caribbean cooking staple. To make preparation quick and easy, use convenient varieties such as Holly Farms' boneless, skinless Time Trimmers and Fully Cooked Roasted Chicken.

The succulent fruits used in Caribbean cooking are as close as your kitchen pantry—fruits such as Dole pineapple. Pineapple is a traditional ingredient used in tropical and Caribbean cooking. Its tangy, sweet character blends perfectly with the traditional island seasonings of thyme, red pepper, garlic and chutney, and its bright flavor and juicy texture enliven any dessert. Dole pineapple is a good source of fiber with only 70 calories per half-cup serving.

While a simple and convenient cooking technique, "micro-grilling" requires special cookware. Corning's Visions and Pyrex cookware make the transition from microwave to table easily. Attractive wicker basket accessories for Pyrex bakeware enhance the beauty of your presentation. When serving your Caribbean menu, be sure to have festive Corelle dinnerware on hand, so that meals can be popped into the microwave or heated in a conventional oven for latecomers.

Recreating the warmth and charm of the Caribbean cultures is simple when old world traditions are combined with modern convenience. These quick, easy recipes use time-saving ingredients and contemporary cooking methods to make it easy to introduce your family and friends to the exotic tastes of the islands.

- 1 Holly Farms Whole Chicken Cut Up*
- 1 can (20 oz.) Dole Pineapple Slices
- 2 medium green bell peppers, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 2 medium red bell peppers, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 1 medium onion, quartered
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1 teaspoon ground allspice
- ½ teaspoon crushed red pepper

Heat grill or broiler. Place chicken in single layer in Pyrex Originals 3-quart oblong baking dish (13"x9"x2"). Drain pineapple, reserve juice. In food processor place pineapple juice, half of the peppers (set aside remaining), onion and seasonings. Cover; process until finely chopped. Pour over chicken in baking dish. Cover loosely with waxed paper. Microwave on High 15 to 20 minutes (approximately 5 minutes per pound). Place chicken on grill or on rack of broiler pan 4 inches from source of heat. Grill or broil 10 to 15 minutes or until chicken is tender and browned, turning frequently. Meanwhile add reserved pineapple slices and peppers to baking dish. Cover loosely with waxed paper. Microwave on High 10 minutes or until sauce boils. Return chicken to baking dish. Spoon some sauce on top.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.

*Remove skin from chicken if desired.

calypso pineapple chicken

- 1 can (20 oz.) Dole Pineapple Slices
- 2 pkgs. (about 1 lb. each) Holly Farms Time Trimmers, Boneless Skinless Breasts
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup orange juice
- ¼ cup soy sauce
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 6 thin slices peeled ginger root
- 2 teaspoons minced serrano chilies, seeded (optional)
- ¼ teaspoon crushed red pepper
- ¼ teaspoon black pepper
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped cilantro

Drain pineapple, reserve ½ cup pineapple juice. In Pyrex Originals 2-quart oblong baking dish combine pineapple juice, honey, orange juice, soy sauce, cornstarch, garlic, ginger root, chilies and peppers until smooth. Microwave on High 3 minutes or until thickened, stirring once. Arrange 5 pineapple slices in same baking dish. Place chicken on top. Generously spoon sauce over chicken. Cover loosely with plastic wrap. Microwave on High 4 minutes. Turn dish. Place remaining pineapple slices on top of chicken. Re-cover, microwave on High 6 minutes. Sprinkle with cilantro. Microwave on High 2 minutes longer or until chicken is tender.

Makes 6 servings.

- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 pkg. (about 1 lb.) Holly Farms Time Trimmers Boneless, Skinless Breasts, cut into thin strips
- 6 green onions, cut into 1-inch pieces
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup chicken broth
- ½ cup Dole Pine-Orange Guava Juice*
- ¼ cup sherry
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch
- 3 cups assorted sliced or cut-up fruit such as papaya, kiwi, oranges, star fruit or strawberries
- ¼ cup flaked coconut, toasted (optional)

In 10-inch non-stick Visions skillet heat oil over medium heat. Add chicken and green onions, cook 10 minutes or until chicken is browned. Add curry and pepper, cook 1 minute longer. Stir in chicken broth and fruit juice. Cook over low heat 10 minutes or until chicken is tender. Stir together sherry and cornstarch until smooth. Add to skillet. Bring to boil, stirring constantly over medium heat; boil 1 minute. Add fruit and cook until heated through. Sprinkle with coconut.

Makes 4 servings.

* Or use ½ cup orange juice.

- 1 can (8 oz.) Dole Pineapple Slices
- 1 pkg. (2 pieces) Holly Farms Fully Cooked Roasted Chicken Boneless Breast
- Crisp salad greens
- Assorted sliced or cut up fruit such as papaya, kiwi, grapes and melon
- ½ lb. asparagus or green beans, steamed
- ½ cup vanilla yogurt
- 2 to 3 tablespoons chopped chutney
- 3 tablespoons pineapple juice
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- Garnish: edible flower (optional)

Drain pineapple, reserve juice for dressing. Slice each chicken breast diagonally into ½-inch slices. Arrange sliced chicken and 2 pineapple slices on each of 2 salad plates lined with crisp salad greens. Arrange fruit and asparagus on same plates. For dressing, combine remaining ingredients, except garnish. Serve with dressing. Garnish, if desired.

Makes 2 servings.

- 1 can (20 oz.) Dole Crushed Pineapple
- 1 pkg. (.3 oz.) sugar-free lime gelatin
- 1 carton (8 oz.) whipped topping, thawed
- 3 tablespoons rum or 1 teaspoon rum extract
- 1 teaspoon grated lime peel
- ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon coconut extract (optional)
- Garnish: lime slices, mint sprig

Drain pineapple well, set aside; reserve all juice (about 1 cup). Add ½ cup water to the reserved juice; heat until boiling. Remove from heat. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Add one-half of the pineapple, reserve remaining for garnish. Chill until slightly thickened. Stir in whipped topping, rum, lime peel, ginger and coconut extract. Turn into 1-quart bowl or 8 individual serving bowls. Chill 4 hours or until firm. Garnish with remaining pineapple, lime slices and mint.

Makes 8 servings.

- 1 can (20 oz.) Dole Pineapple Chunks
- ¼ cup honey
- ¼ cup catsup
- ¼ cup cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped ginger root or ½ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 pkg. Holly Farms Time Trimmers Boneless, Skinless Chicken Thighs
- 1 can (17 oz.) whole yams, drained and cut into 12 pieces
- 1 large onion, cut into 6 wedges

Drain pineapple, reserve ½ cup juice. In large shallow pan combine pineapple juice, honey, catsup, vinegar, soy sauce, mustard, garlic and ginger. Add chicken, yams and onion. Cover; refrigerate 4 hours or overnight. Heat grill or broiler. On skewers thread chicken, pineapple chunks, yams and onion. Place chicken on grill or on rack of broiler pan 6 inches from source of heat. Grill or broil 15 to 20 minutes or until chicken is completely cooked and tender, turning and basting frequently with marinade. Discard any remaining marinade.

Makes 6 servings.

Join Nutri/System and lose all the weight you want for only a $1.00 Lb.

"I feel I'm a much happier, healthier, more caring person — my husband agrees and I'm going to stay this way forever. I couldn't have done it without Nutri/System. They helped me discover my problem — when I was bored, I would eat. Once I learned that, it wasn't a problem anymore. I was able to lose weight and keep it off for 6 months. Now the romance is back in my marriage. My husband and I just renewed our vows. It's like being a newlywed again."

Your estate may well make someone rich. But will that "someone" be your heir?

Merrill Lynch presents a free seminar on Estate Planning.

A well-crafted estate plan helps you to leave your estate to the people you choose in the manner you choose and minimizes your estate's erosion by federal and state taxes. At this important Merrill Lynch seminar, we'll discuss how to:

- Avoid double taxation;
- Pay estate taxes with discounted dollars;
- Help maximize estate-tax benefits;
- Maximize the lifetime value of your assets;
- Transfer personal capital.

A Merrill Lynch Financial Consultant can provide a free estate planning analysis that will offer both an excellent starting point and an overview of the substantial savings possible through careful planning. The seminar is free, but seating is limited. To reserve your seat, call one of the numbers or mail the coupon below.

The way to a man's heart is through his palate

In the movie Sabrina, Audrey Hepburn plays the daughter of a kindly chauffeur for a wealthy Long Island family. She is in unrequited love with the youngest son, a ne'er-do-well, errant playboy who takes no notice of her, even when she tries to gas herself to death with carbon monoxide.

To mend her broken heart, her father sends her to culinary school in Paris. It's cruel, and difficult at first—egg cracking is especially hard—but Sabrina slowly grows accustomed to French life, and when she returns...Lo! She has metamorphized into a chic, stunning Parisienne and proceeds to win Humphrey Bogart's heart by making a gourmet meal out of tomato juice, crackers and sardines.

See what happens when you learn to cook? For those of us who can't run off to Paris, there is a second best. It's the Larousse Traditional French Cooking, by Curnonsky (Doubleday, $45.00), and it will teach you practically everything you wanted to know on the subject.

And, since it is a French book, it gives you its opinion a lot, and is heavily sauced in philosophy. Or is that philosophically saucy? No matter; it lends a bit of the atmosphere Audrey Hepburn had at the institut, thanks to her mustachioed instructor and her dreamy view of the Eiffel Tower.

The author of Traditional French Cooking might have resembled the benevolent baron who befriends Sabrina in Paris and tells her how to do her hair.

Maurice Edmond Sailland, known as Curnonsky, was not a baron, but he was given the oxymoronic title, "Elected Prince of Gastronomes." A writer, journalist, and contemporary of Collette and Debussy, Curnonsky called himself a gastronomade (gastro + nomad) or "wandering gourmet," and travelled throughout France cataloging provincial and regional dishes. In his work La Table et l'Amour, he focused on aphrodisiacal recipes, though whether this knowledge was di-

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH SARDINES

TOMATES FARCIES AUX FILETS DE SARDINES

Préparation 30 minutes • Cooking 10 minutes

- 8 tomatoes
- Salt and pepper
- 16 sardines
- 2 cups (500ml/18 fl oz) oil
- 1/2 cup (100g/4 oz) Maitre d'Hôtel Butter
- 8 croutons

Cut a slice from the top of each tomato, remove the flesh and seeds, push back the flesh, season the inside and cook the tomatoes in a low oven. Take the tomatoes out and drain off the liquid inside. Brush the sardines with the oil and grill (broil) them. Move the fillets, reserving the heads.

Divide each fillet into 2-3 pieces and mash with the maitre d'hôtel butter. Fill the tomatoes with the mixture and heat through in the oven. Place the sardine heads on top of the tomatoes and serve with croutons fried in butter.

MAÎTRE D'HÔTEL BUTTER

BEURRE À LA MAÎTRE D'HÔTEL

Préparation 5 minutes

Using a spoon, mix together 200g/7oz (14 tbsp) softened butter, 15ml/1 tbsp chopped fresh parsley, 5ml/1 tsp salt, a pinch of freshly ground pepper and a drop of lemon juice until a paste is formed.

This butter may either be served melted as a separate sauce, or put on hot food in small pieces just before serving.

rectly connected to his wandering is unknown.

First published in 1953, the Larousse Traditional French Cooking has finally been translated into English following the latest (1987) French edition. As its name implies, the recipes are for classic cuisine française. There is little that is "nouvelle" or experimental about it. The weighty work contains recipes for practically any classic French dish you could think to make, from the basic roux and béchamel or the humble croque monsieur to bouillabaisse and "Seven hour Leg of Lamb." There is a chapter for every course, including cheese, which comes between salad and dessert in French meals.

The section devoted to sauces is especially good. With absolutely fresh produce, sauces are the elements de base of French cooking. A professional cook may spend years in the honored position of saucier before he earns the title of chef de cuisine (or he might never earn it at all).

Although Traditional French Cooking offers opportunities to prepare fancy and elaborate dishes, those unfamiliar with French cuisine may be surprised at the great simplicity of its most delicious foods. It is care and attention to time and other details—"soin"—rather than gymnastics in the kitchen, that make a chef successful. Moreover, an amorous feeling for the guest is an irreplaceable ingredient.

Reproduced here is the recipe for what Sabrina probably cooked before living happily ever after. P1904757

Try a "flippant" summertime cake

Spring has sprung. June is bustin' out all over. Summer's upon us. It's the middle of the calendar year...an appropriate time to digress from the pattern of probing Corning's archives for recipes from the past and go—just this once—with something new, yet seasonally appropriate.

"Seasonally appropriate" because it's made with rhubarb—the garden variety—which is readily available. (The appropriateness of the baseball diamond variety depends on which side of the rhubarb you're on.)

Speaking of "sides," this month's recipe is done upside-down. And even though it's a cake, bake it in a nine and one-half inch "Flavor Saver" deep-dish Pyrex pie plate...like the Pyrex 75th anniversary commemoratives being made this year.

RHUBARB UPSIDE-DOWN CAKE

- 4 cups raw rhubarb stems cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1/4 cup grated orange rind
- Butter to cover the bottom of the dish
- 1/2 cup cinnamon-sugar (1/2 tsp. cinnamon to 1/2 cup sugar)
- 3/4 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 Tablespoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 6 Tablespoons butter, melted
- 1/2 cup orange juice
- 1 Tablespoon orange liqueur (for garnish)

Combine first four ingredients, place in a nine and one-half inch Pyrex deep-dish pie plate, cover with an inverted large Pyrex bowl or 12-inch round Pyrex pizza plate and microwave on HIGH 5 minutes, rotating after two and one-half minutes to soften the rhubarb and extract the juices. You should get about a cup of juice.

Using oven mitts or pot holders, carefully remove the cover far-side-first so the steam escapes away from you. Drain the rhubarb mixture, reserving juice for the glaze. Set the drained rhubarb aside. Hold the still-hot dish with pot holder and wipe it out thoroughly with a dry paper towel—do not use a damp towel for this. Generously butter the bottom of the still-warm dish and sprinkle the cinnamon-sugar over the butter. Arrange the drained rhubarb over the sugar.

Mix together the remaining ingredients, except the liqueur and reserved juices, and spoon this mixture over the rhubarb, press in with a spatula and bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees.

When done, turn the cake out on the Pyrex pizza dish or on a Corolle dinner plate. Make a glaze by mixing one-half cup of the reserved rhubarb juice with the liqueur, spoon it over the warm cake and serve. P8901202

Making authentic French food at home

"How come?" we Americans ask. "How come French food tastes better in France?" We use the same ingredients, buy all of those strangely shaped utensils, follow the recipes and yet, our raclettes and fondues bear little resemblance to those we devoured after skiing; our salades niçoises and our tarte aux fraises don't quite match up to the ones we savored in a seaside town. Is it just the atmosphere of a Paris cafe that makes croissants dipped in a café crème taste so delicious?

Although the setting of a meal can be as enjoyable as the food, even a crepe eaten on the run or a baguette in a crowded train are fine things. There are real differences in the available produce as we travel from one country to another. Some are negotiable; others are just tough luck.

You can simulate French dairy products by making your own crème fraîche and fromage frais. The recipes reproduced below are taken from French Country Kitchen by Geraldine Holt (Fireside Books, $9.95). However, if the taste doesn't come out identical to French products, don't blame yourself. The water, feed, and type of cows all can affect the outcome.

CRÈME FRAICHE

Mix 150 ml (1/2 pt) of soured cream (or for slightly different flavour and lower fat content, buttermilk or plain yoghurt) with 275 ml (1 1/2 pt) of double cream in a bowl over simmering water until the cream reaches the yoghurt-making temperature of 45°C (120°F). Remove from the heat, cover the bowl and leave at room temperature for 8 hours until thickened. Transfer the bowl to the refrigerator where the cream will store well for 1-2 weeks. If a small amount of watery liquid forms on top simply stir it back into the cream.

FROMAGE FRAIS

Carefully warm 570 ml (1 pt) of fresh milk to just above blood heat (45°C, 120°F). Remove from the heat and stir in 2 tablespoons of fresh plain yoghurt. Set aside, covered, in a warm place for about eight hours until the mixture has thickened. If you have time, chill the yoghurt for 24 hours to firm up the curd.

Next day line a bowl with scalded butter muslin or very fine net and put the yoghurt into it. Pull up the corners of the muslin, tie with a string and suspend from a hook or the upturned legs of a chair so that the yoghurt drips into the bowl placed directly underneath. When the whey has completely drained from the curds, which usually takes about 6 hours, take the muslin and tip the cheese into a bowl.

The cheese is now ready for use. Use the whey when making scones or soda bread—it can be frozen for later use.

If you prefer a softer cheese, mix a little of the whey into the cheese. Or for a richer cheese add milk or some cream. Alternatively, to lighten the cheese, fold in a little stiffly whisked egg white.

For a delightful pudding sweeten the home-made fromage frais with a little vanilla sugar and, if you wish, fold in some whipped cream or serve plain with a few halved strawberries or a powdering of finely ground coffee. Fromage frais mixed with cream and drained overnight in heart-shaped moulds makes the charming and traditional coeurs à la crème.

Cheese is so prominent in French gastronomy that it is served with bread as its own course before dessert—never as an appetizer with crackers as we do in the States. The host or hostess must serve a minimum of three kinds, typically a chèvre (goat cheese), a camembert, and a Pont-l'Évêque. When in France, at least one of the cheeses is usually a specialty of the region.

In restaurants, the cheese tray is more elaborate, boasting perhaps three types of chèvre of different ages, and five or six other sorts. The diner makes a selection and the waiter then cuts small slices of each to be taken onto the customer's plate. The cheeses are then eaten in order from fresh to aged, in other words, from mild to pungent.

There is a wonderful chapter on cheese in Madeleine Kamman's Savvie (Atheneum, $24.95) and a recipe for making tomme, which she rightly warns is for strong cheese lovers only.

The extra steps taken when using homemade ingredients may at first seem time-consuming to the speedy American cook. But the difference in taste is worth it. So, bon courage and bon appetit... PA902801

Consult Your Pharmacist A Friend For Life.

Take care when taking prescription medication

At one time or another, most of us will face some ailment that will require a doctor's treatment and prescription medication. That prescription is only the beginning of your treatment.

October is "Talk About Prescriptions Month," designated by the National Council on Patient Information and Education (NCPPIE), and Revco Drug Stores joins NCPPIE in urging everyone to make proper use of medication a health priority.

According to NCPPIE, over 125,000 deaths and several thousand hospitalizations occur each year from improper use of prescription medication. Patients who don't follow instructions for drug use account for more hospital admissions, clinic visits, dosage modifications, and health care costs than those who do follow their doctor's orders.

Over 90 percent of patients ask no questions about their medicines. Speaking up about your prescription medicine could not only save you time and money; it could save your life.

The pharmacists at Revco recommend asking your doctor or pharmacist a number of questions about any new prescription. These include:

- What is the exact name of the medication I am taking?
- Why is it being prescribed for me?
- What is it supposed to do?
- What is the dosage, frequency and length of time I will need to take this medication?
- Will I need to get refills?
- Will the medication cause any side effects?

• Are there any foods or drinks I should avoid while taking it?
• How should I take it—with meals, water, milk?

The last two questions are often overlooked by patients, but are important because some foods and beverages can stop or decrease the action of a drug before it gets to the bloodstream. For example, some pills taken with coffee and fruit juices are often destroyed in the stomach from the chemicals in the drinks, and drugs taken with milk may be held in the stomach and never move out into the bloodstream. By consulting your doctor or pharmacist, you can ensure that your medicine is working effectively.

Once you're completely informed as to why, when and how you're supposed to take your medication, make sure that you take it for exactly the length of time you're supposed to. Unless your doctor tells you otherwise, never discontinue your medication before the appropriate time, even if you are feeling fine. This is especially true in cases of high blood pressure—where there are often no physical symptoms, or bacterial infections—such as strep throat, where symptoms may clear up but can recur and even worsen if the medication is not taken for the duration as ordered.

Taking care with your medicine also means never playing doctor on someone else by using medication prescribed for you. You may feel you are helping someone by giving him or her your medication to treat similar symptoms. But that can be very dangerous because prescription medications take into consideration many different factors, including size and physical makeup. What works for you may be hazardous for someone else.

Revco pharmacists also remind you to keep your medications up to date. It's always a good practice to discard prescriptions that are more than a year old, as they can lose their effectiveness or even become toxic. If a prescription bottle has a missing or unclear label, don't use the medication. Throw it away. Always flush medicines down the toilet and rinse the containers before discarding them. Store your medicines in child-proof bottles, in a dark, cool, dry place (medicine cabinets aren't always best because they're usually located in warm, steamy bathrooms).

During "Talk About Prescriptions Month," remember that taking care with prescription medicines is a year-round responsibility. Being sick is never easy, but if you are responsible with your medication, your recovery may be easier than you thought.

See your local Revco pharmacist for answers to your questions about prescription drug safety. If you'd like to arrange a community presentation on this topic by your Revco pharmacist, write to: Public Relations Dept., Revco Drug Stores, 1925 Enterprise Parkway, Twinsburg, Ohio 44087.

Revco, D.S., Inc., one of America's leading retail drugstore chains, fills over 66 million prescriptions yearly. TA902711

In a bind? Call on City Finance

"For those sudden, unexpected cash shortages, we fill a real community need," says Debbie Walling, manager of City Finance, 206 1/2 Main Street.

Money to pay bills, take a vacation, pay for car repairs, buy new school clothes—even to pay for college books and tuition—are among the reasons people turn to City Finance, she says.

"We've had record months recently," Debbie says. "We've been sending out mailings and doing a lot of phoning to let people know we want their business."

The business is state regulated, with the state setting the interest rate and payment schedule, and the state specifies that the borrower must have the means to pay back the loan. State auditors check the firm's books annually.

Another important use of a small loan is to establish credit. For example, a customer will bring in a son or daughter or friend. The borrower then makes regular payments and thus establishes a credit rating.

Debbie and her associate, Pat Cybert, try to provide a friendly, comfortable atmosphere that puts customers at their ease. To improve services to customers, City

The Greens Scene

New resource book can help you choose nutritious foods

The effects of nutrition upon human health have never been so well understood as they are today. Nutrition research, however, is still a relatively young science, and different studies sometimes seem to point in contradictory directions. Most Americans today are concerned about nutrition and want to eat right, but are confused about how to go about improving their diets.

Many of us grew up believing that sugar was an enemy to health—and we had never heard of cholesterol. Today, sugar is thought of as relatively benign, while fat is the new dietary "bad guy." Meanwhile, the debate about cholesterol goes on—most of us know only enough about it to confuse us.

Trying to lose weight? Counting calories is "out." Now we are advised to figure out the percentage of our calories that come from fat—not an easy task while reading the menu in an unfamiliar restaurant, or even glancing at the contents of the refrigerator.

Faced with "facts" that seem to change daily, it's tempting to give up the struggle to eat right, and just eat whatever is easiest or tastiest. After all, there's no point in reading the label on a product if you don't even know what you're supposed to be looking for.

In short, Americans are suffering from "Nutritional Data Indigestion."

writes Victor W. Sidel, M.D. in the foreword to The Catalogue of Healthy Food (Bantam), by John Tepper Marlin, PhD.

According to Marlin, one of the biggest problems with the American diet is that "unhealthy food is all around us," while healthy food is harder to find. Among the many topics covered in The Catalogue of Healthy Food are: the relationship between diet and disease; the latest recommendations for a healthy diet; common food hazards, including pesticides and preservatives; organic farming; the food distribution system; explanations of nutritional terms, including "lite" and "all-natural"; and how to start your own food buying co-op.

In addition, the book includes hundreds of tables, listings, definitions and addresses. It lists hundreds of natural food stores, farm markets and restaurants throughout the United States and Canada, as well as mail-order sources (for those who don't have access to healthy food in their hometowns or are looking for specialized items).

The Catalogue of Healthy Food is a valuable resource for anyone who wants to know what to eat and where to find it.

Food for thought: the benefits of organic agriculture

In what many are calling an unprecedented move in changing the way Americans think about the peas and carrots on their dinner plate, organically grown foods are edging their way into the grocery mainstream. With revenues in excess of $1.25 billion in 1989, and growth of 40 percent, organics is now one of the fastest growing segments of the U.S. food industry. Maybe just in time.

In 1989 alone, more than 45 billion pounds of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers were used in growing fruits and vegetables on American farms. This fact, in turn, leads many to believe that the old adage, "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," may no longer ring true for today's health-conscious consumer.

Climaxing with the Alar apple scare, new research findings from government and private studies suggest that the habitual use of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers over the last 40 years needs to be re-examined, as they may cause negative long-term effects for both public health and the environment.

The organic alternative

Organic agriculture provides a healthy, economically-sensible solution to farming that avoids the use of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers, while still providing enough apples, oranges and tomatoes to satisfy the hearty American appetite.

Healthy soil, healthy environment

Organic growing practices are considered by many experts to be beneficial to the environment, as they have been expressly developed to prevent the need for synthetic chemicals used in more-traditional growing methods. Organic farmers develop rich, well-mineralized soils through the use of natural fertilizers and compost, and use a variety of good farming practices, like crop rotation, that replenish the natural goodness of the soil, instead of polluting it (and the water supply around it) with man-made chemicals.

Kevin Martin, national director, Organically Grown Week, an annual project of the Committee for Sustainable Agriculture, comments on the benefits of organic agriculture to the environment: "Organic farming is a proven and sustainable method of producing high-quality food in harmony with the environment. The goal of organic agriculture is to build a healthy, fertile soil because organic growers believe a rich soil is the nutritional foundation for growing healthy plants. By regenerating the soil, organic farmers conserve natural resources, produce quality food, protect the integrity of the environment and use energy efficiently."

The new image of organics

Throughout the 1970s and 1980s, the public palate for more information about the quality of food became more sophisticated. Awareness focused on the pros and cons of what was in the food consumed at the dinner table, like sugars, salt, fats, cholesterol and much more. The 1990s consumer takes this concern a step further by venturing beyond what's in the food we eat toward an awareness of how that food is grown. This concern is leading to a heightened appreciation for the purity of organics, and fueling a grassroots movement across the U.S. to make organics as American as apple pie.

Certified organically grown

Certified organic foods are grown under strict standards, with independent verification by more than 25 public and private certification agencies. These third-party organizations conduct soil and water testing and regular inspections of fields, crops, and production records, to ensure that food labeled "certified organically grown" meets the highest standards.

Quality vs. quantity

American farms have succeeded in yielding an abundance of food, utilizing growing methods that allow the use of synthetic pesticides and fertilizers. But the hidden costs of that success are becoming more evident every day. Government subsidies to farmers have cost taxpayers more than $100 billion. Meanwhile, the depletion of natural resources, as a result of industrial methods, continues at a rate of three billion tons of topsoil per year.

Although organic farms are not yet equipped to supply the entire country with fruits and vegetables, demand for organic products continues to grow. In fact, approximately one to three percent of the $37 billion U.S. produce market is currently organically grown. When available, organic produce is rapidly becoming the preferred choice of many of the nation's finest restaurants.

The price question

The downside to this growing demand is seen in the cost of organic food, which tends to be 20-30 percent higher than conventionally grown fruits and produce. But that situation will change as supply from organic growers continues to increase to meet growing consumer demand for the organic alternative. As with any burgeoning industry—from soft drinks to VCRs—economies of scale are passed on to the consumer in the form of lower prices.

What the public wants

According to the second annual Louis Harris "Organic Index" poll, "Eighty-four percent (84%) of Americans would prefer organically grown fruits and vegetables if they were available to them; forty-four percent (44%) said they would pay more; sixty-five percent (65%) said that long-term health benefits are the single most important reason for eating organic produce."

John Eldredge, vice president/marketing, Earth's Best Baby Food, the leading manufacturer of organically grown baby food, comments on this expanding industry: "Today's consumers are more aware and concerned about the environment. They demand quality from the food products they purchase and no longer assume that produce found on supermarket shelves is necessarily what's best for them. In fact, consumers are learning that not all produce is created equal and they are beginning to understand the benefits associated with organics."

Harvest time cooking with glass

Autumn, the harvest season of good eating. Whether from garden or orchard, nothing beats fresh fruits and vegetables for flavor and nutrition.

To maintain that flavor and nutrition during cooking, you can't beat glass. That's what made Pyrex glass cookware an almost instant success when it was introduced 75 years ago...and why it's still popular today. It won't react with foods to alter either taste or color. It cleans out thoroughly, so flavors and odors won't carry over from one meal to the next.

Leftovers? Leave them in the glass dish they were cooked in, cover and refrigerate. To reheat, just pop them back in the oven. Today's microwave oven just expands glass cookware's versatility.

To help recall those "good ol' days," here are two cooked-in-glass recipes from Corning's archives. They're sure to be as tasty today as they were then. To help you taste the veggies quicker, we've modified the recipe to take advantage of today's microwave oven.

CARROTS AND CAULIFLOWER WITH CHEESE SAUCE

- 6 medium carrots, peeled and quartered lengthwise
- 1 medium cauliflower, broken into florets
- 1 Tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 Tablespoon flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- 1 cup milk
- 6 ounces sharp cheese, grated
- Fresh parsley (for garnish)

Arrange carrots (cut in half if necessary) and cauliflower in layers in a 9 1/2-inch Pyrex Flavor-Saver pie plate; add a tablespoon of water. Cover with a Correlle dish and microwave on HIGH for 8 minutes; rotate dish a quarter turn every two minutes. Let stand, covered.

In a one-quart Pyrex measure, combine remaining ingredients except cheese and parsley. Stir to mix, then heat on HIGH two minutes, stirring after one minute. Add grated cheese, stir, and heat on HIGH until mixture begins to bubble.

Thoroughly blend the mixture, pour it over the carrots and cauliflower and pop in preheated 350° oven for about 10 minutes. Serves 4.

APPLE CRISP

- 5 cups apples, peeled, cored and sliced
- 2 Tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 cup uncooked oatmeal
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/4 cup shortening
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped (for topping)

Place apples and lemon juice in a large glass mixing bowl. Stir to coat apples well with lemon juice. Pour coated apples into a well-greased Pyrex 9 1/2-inch Flavor-Saver pie plate.

In the mixing bowl, combine remaining ingredients except cream, mix thoroughly and spread over the top of the apples. Press down with a spatula.

Bake about 50 minutes at 350°. Serve hot or cold, topped with whipped cream.
