Iraq expels envoys, vows fight to victory

By JEFF DONN

Iraq vowed today to fight to the finish against those opposing its occupation of Kuwait, and ordered the expulsions of military attaches and other envoys from the Baghdad embassies of the European Community nations.

Western diplomats said the expulsions were apparently in retaliation for similar moves by the 12-nation European Community earlier this week, which in turn were in response to raids last week by Iraqi troops on Western embassies in occupied Kuwait.

The total number of European diplomats being expelled by Iraq was not yet clear, but diplomats said it appeared at least two or three envoys from each of 11 of the 12 European Community nations would be sent packing.

Portugal is the only member of the EC without a military attaché at its Baghdad embassy, and in Lisbon, Portuguese officials said today they had received no word that any of their diplomats would be expelled.

The movements of remaining diplomats at the European missions in Baghdad would be restricted to within 25 miles of the capital, the Western diplomats said. They said the European ambassadors were informed of the expulsions and restrictions on Thursday night.

Daniel Bernard, the French Foreign Ministry spokesman, described the expulsions as a new escalation by Iraq, and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher called them unjustified.

Today also brought a new outburst of fighting words from Baghdad.

Iraqi television interrupted a comedy film to announce that Baghdad would fight to a "final victory" rather than retreat from Kuwait, which it overran seven weeks ago.

"With deep faith, we think that there will be no wavering or change in our objective on our march toward victory," the statement said.

Iraq bitterly attacked nations that have enforced the United Nations-approved economic embargo against Iraq.

"They have reached in their meanness to a degree where they cut off from the great people its supply of food and medicine, and from the children their milk," the statement said. "Oh, what dwarfs and small people they are."

In Brussels, the European Community Commission today proposed extending the embargo to include services such as transportation, construction work, engineering, and consulting. A Commission official said the plan was submitted to EC governments, which could approve it within a week.

Meanwhile, the Iraqis today said two unidentified warplanes flying from Saudi Arabia penetrated up to six miles into Iraqi airspace Thursday before turning back.

A U.S. military spokesman in the Gulf region, Navy Capt. Michael Sherman, said no U.S. aircraft had violated Iraqi airspace. There was

Team roping postponed

The team-roping portion of the County Fair roping competition was postponed due to rain.

The event has been rescheduled at 6 p.m. on Saturday, weather permitting.

Rainfall above average for month

Although the continuing rain has caused problems for the Howard County Fair, the moisture is a welcome relief to most of the people in the Big Spring area.

Nearly an inch of rain was reported after Thursday night's storm, and total rainfall is above the average measurements for this date by almost two inches.

The Agricultural Research Service reports .96 inch of rain, just shy of the one inch mark, for Thursday night.

That office also reported that the average rainfall for this time of year is 14.37, but this year's rainfall has been 16.27 inches.

Tommy Hart of Big Spring reported that seven-tenths of an inch of rain fell at his home during the night, bringing his year-to-date total to 16.54. For the month of September, Hart measures 3.61 inches of rain.

Larry Shaw, who lives two miles north of West Knott, said that he thinks the cotton farmers need some sunshine now.

Shaw reported nine-tenths of an inch of rain overnight and said for the year he's received 21.4 inches.

Harold Hale on the Sterling City Highway said that while he measures 1.8 inches of rain, he thinks the garden at his home must have about two inches of water.

"If it keeps raining, I can get the boat out," Hale joked.

Former POWs to be honored

In recognition of POWMIA Day, the VA Medical Center, Big Spring, will host a dinner tonight at 6 p.m. for 40 area POWs and their families.

John Webb, POW coordinator, said tonight's event will be highlighted by the reading of a proclamation by Mayor Max Green designating Sept. 21 as POWMIA Day in Big Spring.

Special guest at the dinner will be Brigadier General Richard Ingram, Director of Joint Development for American Air Power Heritage Foundation and the Confederate Air Force. A native of Borger, he served eight years as an enlisted man before entering Officers Candidate School. He is a veteran of both the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam War.

The dinner will be held at the La Posada Restaurant.

Those who braved the rains to visit the Howard County Fair Thursday night were treated to an event traditionally associated with West Texas fairs — a livestock show.

Despite the rain, fair attendance Thursday was up, although exact figures were unknown, fair officials said.

Coming up at the Fair

Coming up at the Howard County Fair tonight will be the Junior Lamb Showmanship contest at 7:30 p.m. in the Show Arena.

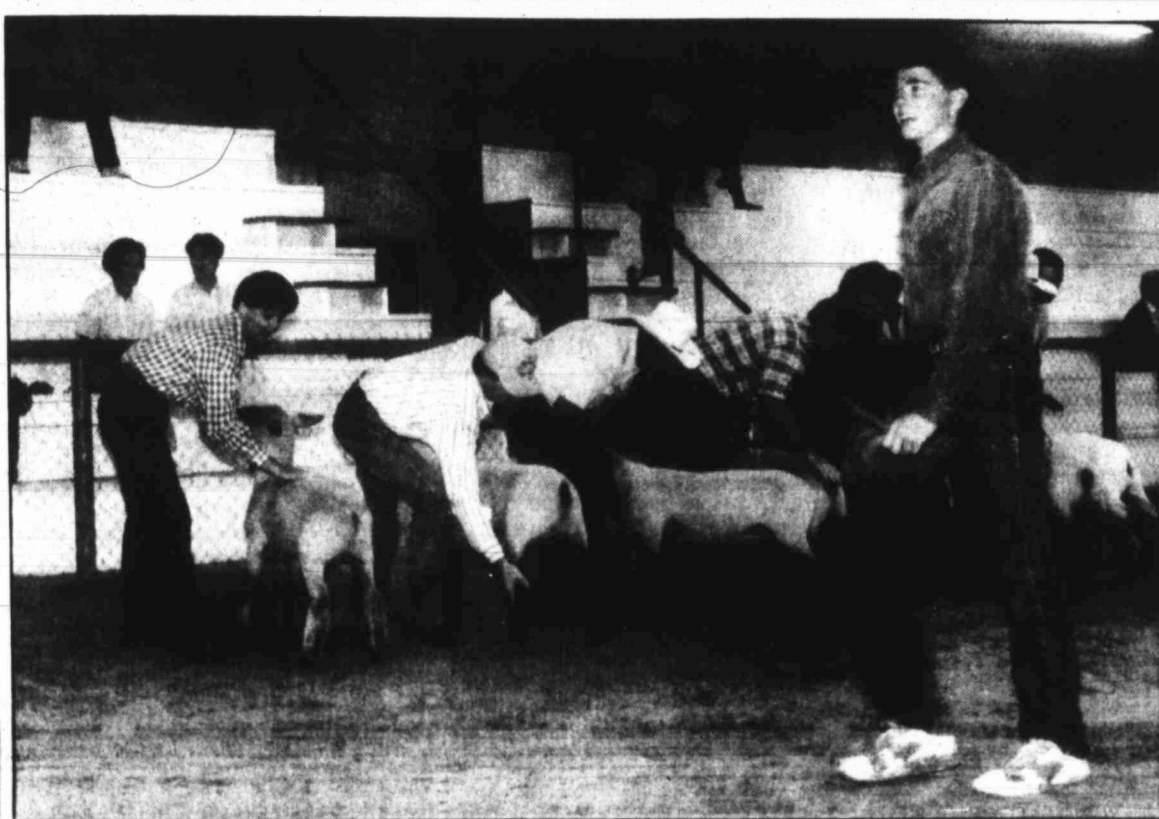

Around 5 p.m., preparations will begin for the barbecue cook-off at Lonesome Tree.

The Clyde Foley Cummins Show will be 7 and 9 p.m. There will be a square dance demonstration at the activity barn at 8 p.m. and an educational activity will be presented at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Activity Barn.

Judging of the Junior Lambs will begin at 8 a.m. on Saturday, followed by steer & heifer judging. The Children's Pet Show, Cutting Horse Contest, barbecue cook-off and Country Kids Contest are among the events scheduled for the final day of the Fair.

If those attendees wandered over to the livestock arena, they might have thought something was amiss, because instead of anxious youths displaying their lambs and steers before stern-eyed adult judges, it was the other way around.

Under the watchful eye of area 4-H students, parents — and in some cases grandparents — paraded their lambs and steers around the arena as part of the inaugural Old Timers Livestock Showmanship Contest.

The competition may have followed along the lines of a normal livestock show, and may have been intense in spots, but in no way was anyone taking this very seriously.

"Not this show," Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson said with a laugh. "We didn't have anything going on tonight, so we thought this might be some fun."

Richardson said the Old

Timers were all former 4-Hers who agreed to try their hand at showing their livestock. The show followed regular 4-H show guidelines — with a few exceptions.

WESTBROOK — Texas Department of Agriculture District Director Jo Anne Noble issued a challenge last night to the company proposing a hazardous waste facility near Westbrook.

"I challenge them to say their brand of economic development, with no track record, can stand up against ours," she said at a landowners meeting attended by about 100 people at the Westbrook High School auditorium.

"We have worked with farmers and ranchers to help them diversify," Noble said. "Let us take natural products and produce them into natural products, not hazardous waste products."

Agricultural Commissioner Jim Hightower said Tuesday that he has made his staff available to citizens who want to oppose hazardous waste facility operations, currently under consideration in eight West Texas communities. The proposals are from three out-of-state companies who would possibly process waste produced out of the state.

National Waste and Energy Development Inc., Pittsburgh, the firm proposing a hazardous waste incinerator and landfill about eight miles west of Westbrook, has never owned or operated such a facility before, as confirmed by company Vice President Jim Cronin. Officials with NWED and the parent company, Russell, Ray and Zapala Inc., Pittsburgh, could not be reached this morning for further information.

Local developer Jimmy Moody, Colorado City, who is on the board of directors of Southwest Waste Management Inc., a company working with NWED, owns stock in companies that operate landfills in several states, including a municipal waste site in Albuquerque. He could not be reached for comment this morning.

According to information from Noble's office in Odessa, the TDA has helped launch 77 food and fiber processing businesses and agricultural diversification operations, creating 2,300 new jobs and nearly $120 million in annual sales during the past eight years. They also assist farmers and ranchers in marketing their products.

Martin County may face months with no landfill

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

STANTON — Martin County and the city of Stanton may be forced to haul trash to an out-of-county landfill at an estimated cost of at least $13,000 a month for as long as half a year.

The city-county landfill has about two to three more months of use left, said City Manager Paul Lively. If permission is granted to use part of a 50-foot buffer zone around the dump, usually reserved for monitor wells and other uses, the landfill could be used for an additional two or three months.

However, getting a permit for a new landfill adjacent to the old one is expected to take at least another four to eight months, confirmed Wayne Lee, chief of the permits and processing branch of the Bureau of Solid Wastes at the Texas Department of Health in Austin.

"I'm afraid we're going to get caught and we're going to have to wind up hauling trash for a while," said Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport after a joint city-county meeting Monday.

At that meeting, the city-county engineer, Gary Harris of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc., Midland, said he was scheduled to meet with TDH officials today in Austin to find out if they can use the buffer zone as part of the old landfill and not have it included as part of the new landfill.

While the old landfill is being closed under current regulations, the new landfill will be operated under new regulations expected to go into effect next year. The new rules will increase post-closure monitoring from five to 30 years.

Being monitored is underground water, methane gas, surface drainage and erosion.

"It's going to be a great expense," Lee said of the increased monitoring. He said the new rules may be passed in January, according to information he has heard.

Lee said it will take two weeks to two months for Stanton and Martin County officials to finish the application for a new landfill permit. Thirty days will then be allowed for other agencies to review it. A notice would then be published in a newspaper and another thirty days allowed for public comment.

If citizens desire a hearing, then it would take 120 days for a final decision, he said. If no hearing is held, a decision could be made in only 60 days. Lee added that there is now a two to three month backlog in scheduling hearing examiners.

According to estimates compiled by Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc. in October, it would cost about $9,057 a month to collect and haul trash to the landfill in Midland, the closest city accepting trash, in addition to landfill fees.

Dumping charges at Midland are $11 per ton. Using the TDH estimate of one ton of trash per person per year and preliminary 1990 Census figures of 4,946 population in Martin County, the cost of hauling trash would be $54,408 a year, or $4,534 monthly.

Lively said he is working on compiling a current estimate of hauling costs. "We're going to try to have something worked out for the next Council meeting," he said. The next meeting is Oct. 9.

So far the county has paid about $191,000 and the city $170,000 in engineering and construction fees to close the landfill and open a new one. Harris said $141,000 has been spent in construction to close the landfill, which is 95 percent closed. Another $49,000 was used to build a fence for the new landfill.

On Monday, commissioners and councilmen also agreed to authorize a $2,884 bid by American Fence to repair a section of fence, including replacing two posts. They also discussed seeding the old landfill to create a grass cover. That could run about $2,000, Harris said.

But Precinct 4 Commissioner E.D. Holcomb said he would check to see if the county could do the seeding at a cheaper rate. "I'd rather go out there with a hand seeder and see what Mother Nature can do rather than spend money," he said.

Dress code may face legal test

LUBBOCK (AP) — Kathy Buckberry does not see how the rat-tail hairdo her 11-year-old son has been wearing for three years is suddenly in violation of the Lubbock Independent School District's dress code.

Michael has withdrawn from fifth grade because his hairstyle doesn't fit the school district's new policy.

The LISD's dress code is drawing fire not only from students and parents, but also from the local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

LISD officials are enforcing a policy which prohibits boys from having longer than shoulder-length hair, pony tails, rat tails, patterns shaved into their hair and braids.

Boys cannot wear earrings and nobody can wear a nose stud.

Hundreds mourn slain trooper

WEBSTER, Texas (AP) — Hundreds of law officers, some from as far away as Dallas and Louisiana, gathered with family and friends of Department of Public Safety officer Mark Phebus to pay final respects to the slain trooper.

Phebus, 23, was buried Thursday — three days after he was gunned down in Montgomery County.

The rookie trooper was off duty when he was fatally shot after he stopped at what he believed was a traffic accident but really was a domestic disturbance.

Richard Leland Jordan, a 43-year-old man from Spring, is charged with capital murder and remained at large early this morning.

Nearly 1,000 people filled the NASA Church of the Nazarene in suburban Houston for services Thursday. The mourners included several hundred Texas troopers as well as other officers.

Production stays at 100 percent

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission has continued the Texas oil production rate for October at 100 percent.

The commission continued the top production allowable Thursday after reviewing oil companies' nominations to buy a total of 1,802,548 barrels of Texas oil per day.

That's an increase of 571 barrels daily compared to this month.

The commission went to the ceiling level for oil production in April 1972.

It applies to all fields in the state except those that are assigned lower legal rates of production so that reservoir pressures will not be depleted before the maximum amount of oil has been recovered.

Nominations by major Texas crude oil purchasers for October, in barrels per day, with changes from September:

- Amoco 148,000
- Citgo 35,755 (up 4,465)
- Exxon 143,500 (down 6,500)
- Texaco 120,250 (4,850)

The commission's next statewide oil allowable hearing is scheduled for Austin on Oct. 16.

Jury probing Williams' bank

HOUSTON (AP) — A Travis County grand jury is attempting to determine if ClayDesta National Bank and an Austin insurance company illegally lobbied state regulators to shut down a competing insurance firm, the Houston Chronicle reported today.

In a copyright story, the newspaper reported that the investigation is also focusing on allegations that ClayDesta, owned by Republican gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams, forced buyers of new cars to purchase bank-provided credit life and disability insurance as a condition of getting auto loans.

Investigators differ on diary's validity

HOUSTON (AP) — A former CIA officer says a diary describing a plot by the agency to assassinate President John F. Kennedy "looks like a clumsy fabrication."

Private investigator Joe West told reporters Thursday he had obtained and copied a diary describing the Central Intelligence Agency plot.

The diary was found by Geneva White Galle, the widow of Roscoe White, a Dallas police officer at the time of Kennedy's assassination, West said.

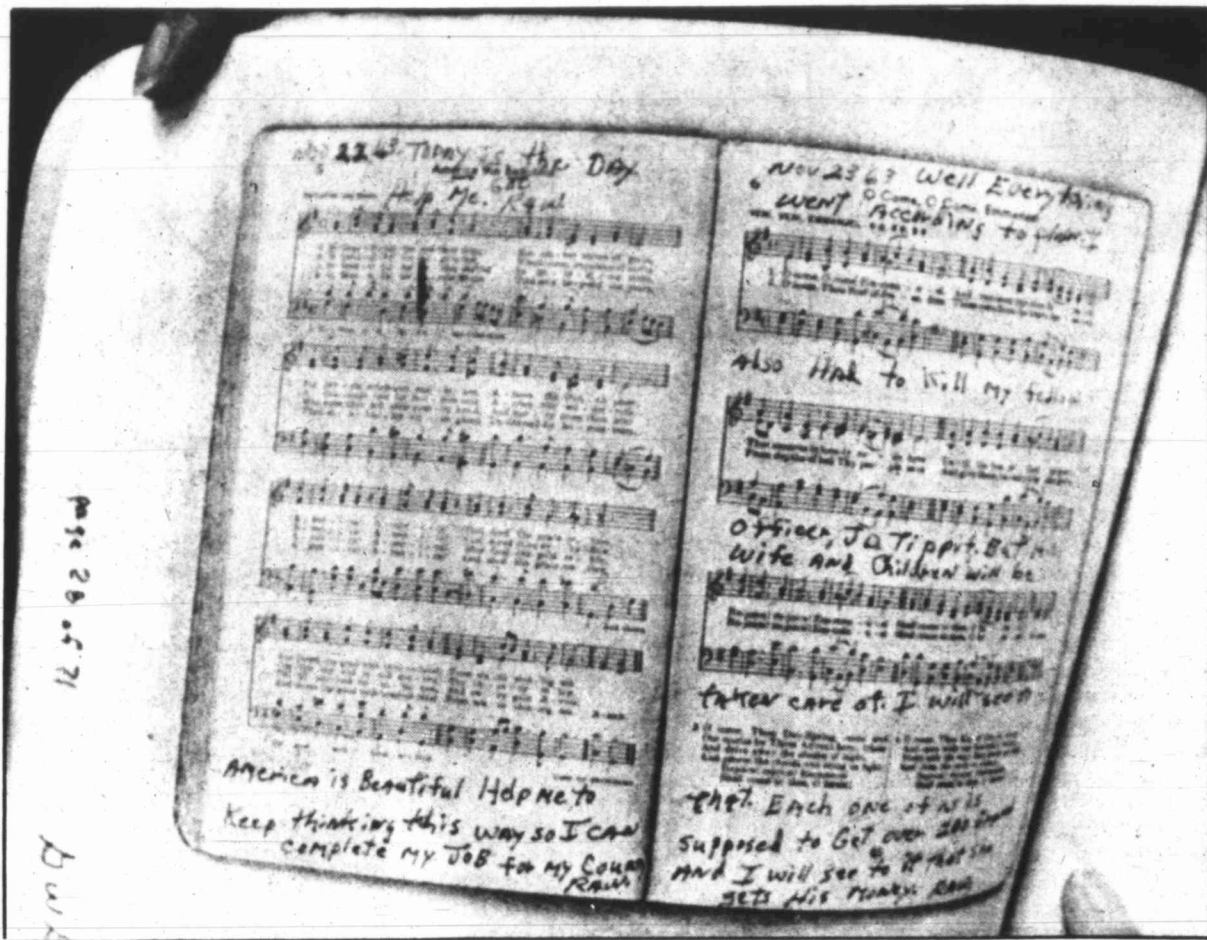

White's son, Ricky Don White, claimed on Aug. 7 that his father had shot Kennedy, acting on CIA orders. Roscoe White died in an industrial accident his son said was a deliberate attempt to silence his father.

A myriad of conspiracy theories have emerged since The Warren Commission concluded that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing Kennedy. None have been proven.

When asked what makes the White family's claims any more credible than other assassination theories, West said: "It would take me a month to answer that, and I'm just not going to."

White's original claims brought immediate denial from both the CIA and FBI. However, state Attorney General Jim Mattox has said he'll investigate White's story.

West said Thursday he does not now have the original diary, and refused to divulge who does. He said he believes it is being sent to a certified document analyst and it may turn out to be a hoax.

Even so, "I think this is a historical document and if it is a hoax, the public needs to know about it," West said.

But John Stockwell, a former CIA officer who had been working with West, said he urged the private investigator to call off Thursday's news conference because the diary "looks like a clumsy fabrication to me."

West said Mrs. Galle discovered the diary in a book about U.S. presidents, stuck within the chapter on the Kennedy years.

She called West, who said he is not being paid by the White family, and allowed him to make photocopies of the diary.

An outline of the diary provided to reporters purportedly describes two assassinations the CIA ordered White to commit in 1960 and 1961, plus contacts "by old friend from the Marines, Lee Oswald."

An entry dated June 1963 says: "They want me to kill the president. God help me. They say he's a threat to the United States."

Stockwell noted that the ink in 1957 diary entries appears to be as fresh and identical to 1971 entries, and that the 1971 entries refer to "Watergate," a term not in widespread use until after the break-in at Democratic National headquarters in 1972.

Year after bus tragedy, no laws to stop others

AUSTIN (AP) — One year and five legislative sessions after 21 students died in the state's worst school bus accident, there have been no changes in the laws that regulate either the buses or the open caliche pits like the one the teen-agers died in.

And a panel appointed by Gov. William Clements to study the problems has made no formal report.

The accident happened Sept. 21, 1989 in Alton in South Texas. A soft drink truck ran a stop sign, striking the loaded school bus and sending it into a nearby caliche pit, an open, water-filled hole where highway material is mined. Thousands of the pits line Texas highways.

Nineteen junior and senior high school students died that day and two more died later from injuries in the crash; 60 survived.

There were immediate calls for strengthened safety standards on school buses and tighter regulation of the pits.

But the supporters were unable to get the issues included in the five special sessions which have been held since the wreck. The sessions were held to discuss workers compensation and school finance reform.

"I was a little disappointed, because of the kind of problems the session got into, we were never able to take up my bill" on school bus safety, said Rep. Alejandro Moreno, D-Edinburg.

He said his measure would have provided additional money to upgrade bus-driver training. It also would have created a committee to examine ways to make it easier to exit buses — such as pop-out windows or roof hatches.

"With the crush on money, it was very difficult to talk about spending money for these items," Moreno said.

Moreno, who lost a Senate bid, won't be back when lawmakers convene in regular session in January.

But he said the Legislature should require that school buses be easier to exit in an emergency. School buses now are required to have only one emergency exit, in the rear of the bus.

"I know if those procedures had been in place before the accident, we would have had much fewer of those young people lost," he said.

Most of the victims drowned when they were trapped in the mostly submerged bus, which had landed on its side.

Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, and Sen. Gene Green, D-Houston, have sponsored school bus seat belt legislation without success for several years. They'll be back in January, when they say their legislation will include a variety of safety proposals.

"We don't want to wait until the next accident," Cavazos said.

Rep. Kim Brimer's bill to regulate caliche pits was killed in the 1989 regular legislative session, months before the crash.

He said he couldn't get the measure added to the special session agenda, controlled by Gov. Bill Clements.

"It was just a matter of a limited agenda," said Brimer, R-Fort Worth. "I fully expect to pick up the pieces when we start back and get it done this time" in the regular session.

"We still have some major problems in my district and all around the state with these open pits."

GOP leaders reject compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are squabbling among themselves over a proposal to prod stalled budget talks by saving the capital gains tax cut and other controversial items for a separate package.

The compromise, offered by Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, came as deficit-reduction negotiators from the Bush administration and Congress reported no major progress Thursday after yet another day of talks.

Officials speaking on condition of anonymity said Dole's idea angered aides to Bush, who has been trying for years to lower the capital gains tax rate. White House Chief of Staff John Sununu was so upset by the proposal that he "blasted out of the room in a heat" and refused to attend a meeting Thursday.

Under Dole's idea, only tax increases and spending cuts would remain in the $500 billion, five-year deficit-reduction plan under negotiation.

Incumbents have unfair advantage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Taxpayers' Union estimates that the average U.S. House member spent 31 cents per household in taxpayer money last year to mail postage-free newsletters.

The taxpayers' union, which advocates lower government taxes and spending, released its study of House use of the frank, or free mail privilege.

Though its survey reflected only a small portion of total congressional mail costs, it said the findings were evidence that members of Congress are using their mail privileges for political self-promotion.

"The frank is used as a sort of stealth campaigning," said David Keating, executive vice president of the group.

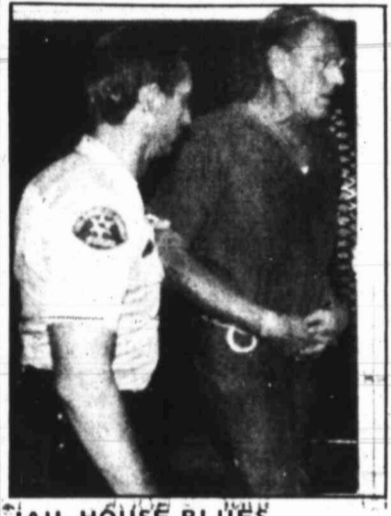

"Congressional mass mailings help make incumbents almost invulnerable," he said at a news conference Thursday.

A Congressional Research Service study released earlier this year estimated House postage costs will top $136 million for 1989 and 1990.

The taxpayers' group said it was able to find public records accounting for an estimated 215 million newsletter mailings in 1989, at an estimated cost of $30 million. It said no records were available to account for many other types of congressional mail, including any letters sent to specific constituent addresses.

It estimated the average representative spent 31 cents per household on postal patron newsletters.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Keating Jr., a high-profile symbol of the nation's S&L crisis, can't fight criminal and civil charges against him unless his $5 million bail is reduced and he is freed, his lawyer told a judge.

"He is suffering a severe deprivation in his ability to prepare for the proceedings here and a myriad of other proceedings," lawyer Stephen Neal said Thursday during a bail-reduction hearing.

Neal and character witnesses, including a nun, said Keating and his co-defendants wouldn't flee from prosecution. They said Keating is a pauper.

Waterfront property

NEW YORK — A 25 percent equity interest in the World Financial Center, the three buildings at left, is for sale by owners Olympia and York, according to a report in Thursday's New York Times. The Toronto based company is reportedly trying to raise cash for a huge real estate development in England.

World Bank accused of financing destruction

WASHINGTON (AP) — One project would encourage logging of huge tracts of virgin African forest. Another has sparked protests in India, where a dam would submerge 248 villages. In Indonesia, hundreds of families are resisting forced resettlement, months after their homes went under water.

Money for all these projects came from the World Bank, an international agency that lends more than $20 billion each year in an effort to improve conditions in poor countries.

But the bank is being blamed for financing some of the planet's worst environmental and social destruction, while ignoring the views of the people it should be helping.

"What people on the ground are saying is, 'Take your money back home,'" says Vandana Shiva of the Research Institute for Natural Resource Policy in India. "We have totally sacrificed peoples' sovereignty. We haven't come close to putting nature's sovereignty at the center."

Ms. Shiva spoke at Thursday's opening of a four-day conference of about 150 of the bank's harshest critics from international environmental and development organizations.

Their aim is to influence government representatives from the bank's 152 member countries, who have begun arriving in Washington for next week's annual meetings of the World Bank and its sister organization, the International Monetary Fund.

Funding for the World Bank's loans comes from the rich industrialized countries according to a complicated formula that allocates contributions and voting power.

Bank officials acknowledge some past sins, but say they are making a serious effort to do better.

Environmentalists complain that it's hard to find out much about what the World Bank is doing. Nearly all project documents are kept secret unless the borrowing country agrees to make them public. It rarely does.

The bank is proposing to increase its environmental activities, asking the rich countries to contribute to a Global Environmental Facility or "Green Fund."

Ms. Shiva said the bank seemed to be bidding for a formal role as "planetary manager of natural resources."

"Some people say we should put the World Bank on a diet," said Jim Barnes, senior attorney for the Friends of the Earth. "They have too much money and are not doing much good. If they had less money, they could do less harm, and maybe we could get their attention."

Palestinians stone Israeli soldier

JERUSALEM (AP) — Palestinians stoned to death an Israeli soldier, whose car slammed into a donkey cart and injured two brothers in a Gaza Strip refugee camp, the army command said today.

The violence, which occurred Thursday on the first day of the Jewish new year, follows a period of relative quiet in the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip. The lull has been attributed to Defense Minister Moshe Arens' policy of pulling soldiers out of heavily populated areas and tightening firing regulations.

Israeli's Gaza commander, Brig. Gen. Shmuel Zucker, said the soldier was on his way to join his unit in the strip when he "apparently accidentally entered Burej refugee camp."

Zucker told Israel's army radio that the soldier's car was stoned and added: "As he continued to drive he collided with a donkey cart, apparently because of the stoning, wounding the two youths on the cart."

The commander said the car then got stuck. "The stoning continued, and during the stoning the soldier was killed," Zucker said.

Ceausescu convicted, sentenced

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Nicu Ceausescu, the youngest son of the former Romanian dictator, was found guilty by a military tribunal today of "inducing serious crimes" and sentenced to 20 years in prison.

In its unanimous sentence, the five-man panel of judges dropped the original charge of complicity in genocide and instead found the ailing 39-year-old Ceausescu guilty of the other charge.

Nicu, who was Communist Party leader in the southern Transylvanian town of Sibiu, was accused of causing 89 deaths there during the December revolution that toppled his father, Nicolae Ceausescu.

He had pleaded innocent to the genocide charge but guilty to a charge of illegally possessing firearms. The military tribunal found him guilty of the firearms charge and sentenced him to five years in prison, to be served concurrently with the 20-year sentence.

Ceausescu said he will appeal the conviction. His attorney, Paula Iacob, told reporters she was confident she could prove him innocent.

"He is an innocent man," she said. "His misfortune was having the name Ceausescu."

The court agreed to a third medical examination of Nicu, who is suffering from cirrhosis of the liver. Two earlier examinations reached contradictory conclusions on whether he could tolerate jail conditions.

ANTI-U.S. COEDS

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — U.S. and Philippine officials today adjourned talks on the future of U.S. military bases, with the Americans offering to cut their forces but no agreement on the scale or timetable.

On the eve of the talks President Corazon Aquino said the time had come for an orderly withdrawal from the bases, which some Filipinos feel infringe on national sovereignty.

Spokesmen for both sides told reporters today that they would resume talks in about a month in Manila.

Philippine officials said they want complete control "as soon as possible" of Clark Air Base.

Keating bail restores faith

A Superior Court judge in Los Angeles restored public faith that wealth can't buy justice and that maybe a few of those responsible for the savings-and-loan calamity will pay for their greed.

Charles Keating Jr. went to jail. Judge Gary Klausner surprised even the prosecutor when he set bail for Keating at $5 million. Keating and three associates face charges of misrepresenting the sale of $250 million in junk bonds and lying to regulators. The judge's decision reflects public anger over the S&L bailout, which will cost Americans $500 billion during the next 30 years. The collapse of Keating's Lincoln Savings & Loan will account for $2 billion.

Keating is a symbol of the greed that resulted in the S&L looting, but he can't take all the blame. Keating took advantage of misguided legislation and lax regulations that turned S&L's from honest sources of middle-class home loans into money machines for corporate sharks. The responsibility for that spreads through Congress, the executive branch and federal and state banking agencies.

But it was Keating and other S&L chiefs who seized the opportunity to use publicly insured deposits to invest in an array of bad deals. The principle underlying those risky investments was that if private money loses, public money pays.

Keating is behind bars. But he and others charged in the S&L scandal will be out of jail long before we finish paying the bill for them.

Political tapes cure for chronic insomnia

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Random notes while waiting for my weeds to die:

Here's an item for the "sure cure for insomnia" file:

Voter apathy, especially during non-presidential years, is a major problem, and experts have been driving themselves toward the bottle for years, trying to devise a solution.

Well, I don't know if the following is a cure for voter apathy, but it sure shows that some people are truly thinking about the problem.

The state of California recently released a six-hour cassette tape of the 143-page November ballot pamphlet in hopes of increasing issue awareness among the electorate.

The thinking behind this seems to be that the cassette offers an easy way for people to understand exactly what and who they'll be voting for come election time.

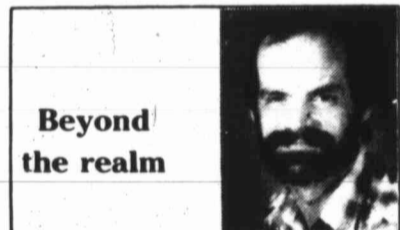

And, of course, if you're as lazy as a certain newspaper columnist we all know and barely tolerate, anything that makes anything else easier is bound to have its merits.

A word of warning, though: the material on the tape is not exactly Bon Jovi or Heavy D.

"On the way home from work you could listen to one whole ballot proposition," a spokeswoman for the California secretary of state's office said.

Oh, goody! If there's a traffic jam, the air-conditioning's on the fritz and the guy in front of you is making obscene hand gestures, the ideal thing to take your mind off the situation is a discussion on Proposition 43, right?

Jack Burke, who narrated the tape, warns people to take it a bit at a time. "If you were to sit down in one sitting and listen to all six hours of it, they'd probably get you ready for a rubber room."

Beyond the realm

he said.

Ge, maybe heavy metal music isn't that bad, after all.

From the "you're not getting older — then again, maybe you are" department:

Woody Woodpecker, that screeching, bufoonish cartoon character that never, ever made me laugh — not even when I was too young to know better — turned 50 years old the other day and was honored with a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame to mark the achievement.

There is no justice in the world, it seems.

I don't know exactly what it is about Woody I don't like. Maybe it's that local-yokel voice he had. Even to my pre-adolescent ears, he sounded like a dumb redneck.

Anyway, he's now 50, and joins other notable pentagenarians like Bugs Bunny and Donald Duck. I guess that there's some consolation in the fact that these characters have endured so many years.

Even the dumb ones like Woody.

And finally, here's a reason to keep living if I ever heard one: If you ever wondered what happened to the material in the middle of Life Savers candy, you can now rest easy. The company announced that it will, starting in November, package Life Savers Holes.

Everybody, now — "Ge, what a great idea!"

City shouldn't be paid for boat races

To the editor:

I would like to respond to the article that appeared in Tuesday, August 28, 1990, edition of the newspaper. It concerns statements made by the Parks Board and Mr. Tom Decell about lake improvements.

Faye Reed stated, "I've had nothing but good reports," Reed said. "The motels were full and all three major restaurants noticed an improvement in their business because of the boat races."

Councilwoman Gail Earls, who attended one day of the boat races said she was "overwhelmed" by the turnout of the people.

Mr. Decell stated that the city was "ONLY" paid $500.00 by the promoter for this year's races, a statement that prompted one board member to suggest the city receive $1.00 on every admission in the future.

The way I personally look at this whole situation is that Moss Lake has been idle the last fifty years at least. Then someone comes in with an idea to not only provide entertainment for the people of Big Spring, but all the surrounding towns, and then they get this kind of response from the Parks Board and City Hall.

Moss Lake would not have made $500.00 that weekend or any other weekend.

I have heard the promoter had lost $691.00 promoting this race. And the Parks Board has the gall to ask for more money for future races? Will the Parks Board help with any of the expenses in the future?

I feel that Robbie and Debra should be commended for a lot of hard work and for bringing out of town money to Big Spring.

New way to save hijinks

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Occasionally a brilliant notion hits me. I was watching "America's Funniest Home Videos" on television.

That is where people make videos of funny things that go on at home and send them in so the rest of the country can enjoy their hijinks, too.

A member of a farm family holds onto a pig's tail and the pig runs and the person on the other end skis through the mud and slop in the pig pen. Great television.

Or, you can send in a video of the family dog, Harold, playing a kazoo while balancing a jar of mayonnaise on its head. I never miss "America's Funniest Home Videos."

But it occurred to me, why couldn't this column have "America's Funniest Home Paragraphs"?

People do funny things at home and send in descriptive paragraphs and I run the best ones. If it works on television, why couldn't it work in the newspaper?

It would go something like this: From Waldo Pickleman in Six-Pack, Ark.:

"The other day my wife, Senora, was vacuuming the house and the vacuum cleaner got clogged up. She was looking down into the hose to see what was the matter, and, suddenly, it got unclogged and sucked her whole face right down into the hose. It was the funniest thing since the hogs ate my little brother.

Thanks, Waldo. Now, Pansy Posey from Dead Dawg, Ala.:

"The other day, during the Annual Dead Dawg Doodle Bug Festival, Mayor Arlo Finch was making a speech on the courthouse square and his suspenders broke and his pants fell down in front of everybody in town, and you ought to have heard 'em howl when they seen he was wearing pantyhose."

Next we hear from Dr. Grover Gonzales of Spinal Tap, Ariz.: "I'm the local chiropractor and a patient came in complaining of lower back pain. I put him into traction, and just to see what would happen, I put him in upside down. He doesn't have any lower back pain anymore, but now he has to walk on all fours and I charged him $400. Hey, I was the class clown at Bilbo's School of Chiropractic and Embalming."

You crack us all up, Doc.

Now, Minerva Rodderman, Oil Creek, N.J.:

"My cat eats worms." Thanks, Minerva.

What about you, Slim Whitman, Nashville, Tenn.:

"I sit on my porch naked at night and yodel rap music."

Amazing. Gilbert Farnsworth, Popcorn, Neb.:

"I make a real funny sound by cupping my hand underneath my armpits."

Finally, on "America's Funnies Home Paragraphs," we hear this from Barney Naselmeyer, Marlboro-Lucky Strike, N.C.:

"When Grandpa goes to bed, he always takes out his false teeth and puts them in a glass in the bathroom. I snuck in there and glued them things shut with Krazy Glue.

"Enclosed is a photograph of Grandpa trying to gum a pickle a couple of weeks before he sort of died up and the Lord called him home."

That's funny, Barney.

Next on "America's Funnies Home Paragraphs" we'll hear from a man who ate his La-z-Boy recliner.

I think I have a hit on my hands.

Words swarm like gnats

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Sometimes it seems that everything conspires against a writer. We must master lie and lay and who and whom. Rules of grammar have a hundred pitfalls. Why should the proprietor of an American beary be a restaurateur?

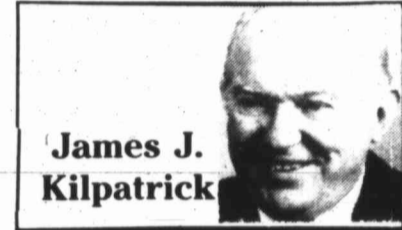

In addition to these hazards, writers must fight their way through a gnat swarm of words that fall just enough off the mark to give unexpected trouble. The words I have in mind are not exactly homophones, such as reign and rein or peek and peak. They are closer to malapropisms, in the fashion of statutory rape and a reputation for truth and velocity.

Some months ago The Associated Press in Boston reported a survey of medical procedures and physicians' fees. The idea was to learn if doctors are padding their bills with unnecessary tests. A critic of the study said "several shortcomings could have skewed the results."

Skewed? How about "skewed"? The AP in Washington, D.C., reported that the Department of Transportation had issued a rule requiring automobile manufacturers to provide new owners with the government's hot-line number for reporting defects. "The rule proscribes three paragraphs that will have to be included in manuals." The rule doesn't prescribe; it prescribes. Big difference.

The Northshore Citizen of Bothell, Wash., had a similar problem with a story in May about college courses that would be offered locally. The headline read, "Campus puts out call to prospective students." These would be desirable students indeed, but the call probably was for prospective students.

The Indianapolis Star had a story about the amenities one finds in a Nordstrom store, such as "full-time pianists hired to tinkle the ivories." The infinitive just misses. In the cliché, pianists don't tinkle; they tinkle.

In Cleveland a monthly publication, The Singles Connection, carries classified ads from the lovelorn. A redheaded DWF, honest, outgoing and spiritual, listed her interests: boating, dancing, concerts, plays, movies "and quiet coffee clutches." Maybe so, but more likely the young lady has in mind a coffee klatch or klatsch, out of the Greek word for gossip, but a friendly coffee clutch might also be pleasant.

A gnat that bites many writers took a chunk out of the North Carolina Christian Advocate last summer. Bishops returning from Mozambique brought "a heart-rendering account of 3 million displaced persons." Good friends, that's heart-rending.

What's an "ingenuous cook"? The Mau News let readers know in May that many foods have been so doctored and preserved that they have lost their flavor, but "ingenuous cooks have found ways around this." An ingenuous cook would be a childlike, innocent, guileless kind of cook. An ingenious cook, by contrast, could go to the spice rack and do wonders.

The Leaf-Chronicle of Clarksville, Tenn., carried a feature story on a mysterious tunnel that had been discovered at the site of an old foundry. Some observers speculated that the tunnel was part of a water collection system, but a past president of the foundry disagreed. "You really don't want any water around molting iron." Or around molten iron either.

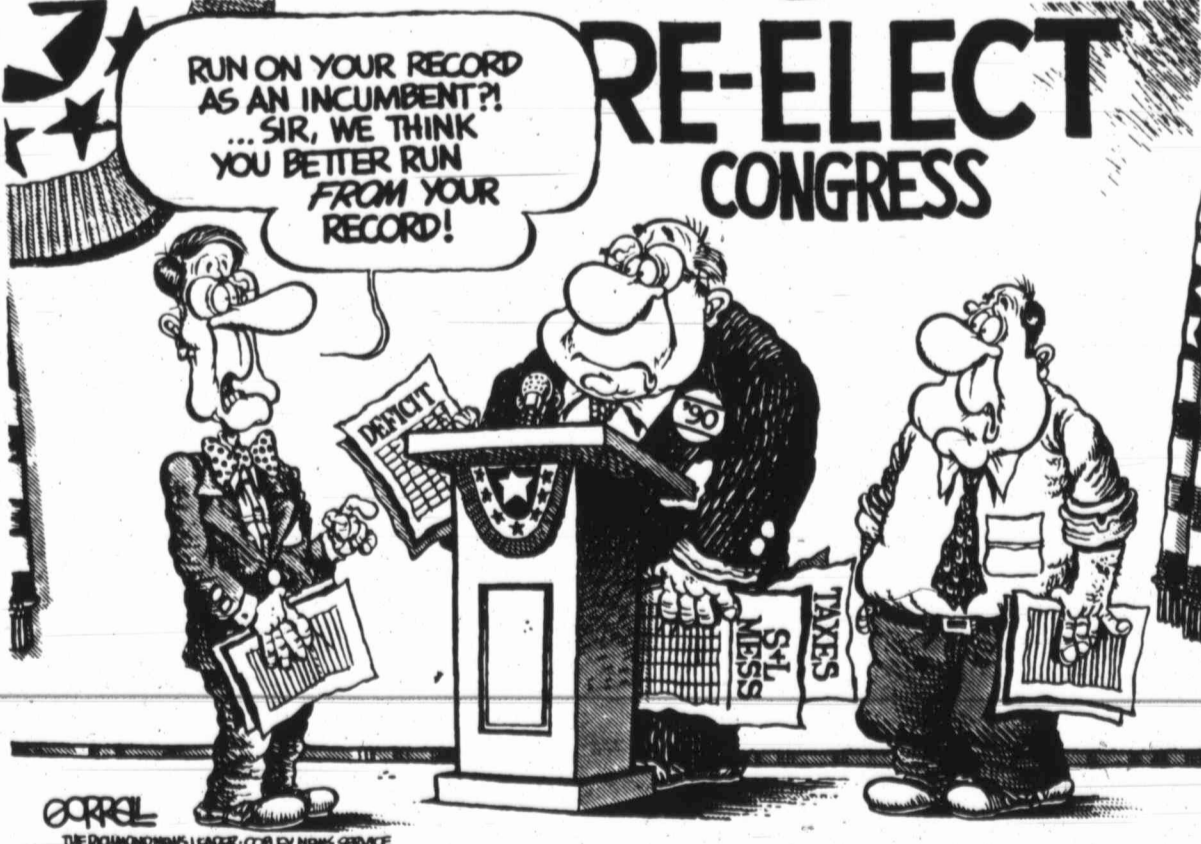

These two headlines appeared in May a continent apart. From the sports pages of the Portland Oregonian: "Tarkanian takes cautious tact." From the Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville: "Revived Baltic front called new tact." I have a notion that the metaphor of a seagoing tack is often misapplied. Sailors tell me that in common parlance, a tack can mean simply a ship's course, but ordinarily it implies a sharply divergent new course. And watch the boom!

The San Francisco Examiner provided a sober story about Dave Dravecky, who formerly pitched for both the San Francisco Giants and the San Diego Padres. It appeared in July that his left arm might have to be amputated. He had recently undergone surgery to cover an open wound "where his humerus is the long bone in one's upper arm, running from the shoulder to the elbow. The funny bone is the point at the back of the elbow where the humerus connects.

In Tampa, the Tribune carried a feature on a Spanish-language talk-show host who drew a line against sexually oriented material she thought would be unsuitable for a Latin audience. Her producer wanted her to talk about "penal implants," and he didn't mean jailhouse informants.

How do we avoid these confusions? The answer is to pay close attention to what we right. OK?

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Some bars at San Quentin aren't made of steel. They're sung by a group of inmates who are finding solace — and appreciative audiences — by singing gospel tunes.

The choir boys at California's oldest prison are so good, in fact, that the musical convicts have made the finals of a San Francisco Bay area amateur gospel choir competition, McDonald's Gospel Fest '90.

"They weren't chosen because they were a different sort of group," contest spokeswoman Liz Lacey said Thursday. "They were chosen because they were very good. They have a nice sound and they have a couple of really good soloists."

Nathaniel Lane, a soloist who is in prison for attempted murder, said: "Just because you're doing time, it don't stop you from serving God."

The conductor of the choir, inmate Pone "Zero" Uperesa, said the goal of the singers is to set a good example so others don't end up in prison.

"If we can stop one individual from entering these gates, we won," said Uperesa, who like many of the choir members wouldn't say why he was in prison.

The group is one of eight choirs that won finalist spots in July. It had 22 inmate-singers but now has only 17; the others have been released or transferred to other prisons.

The gospel competition is scheduled for Sept. 29 in Oakland, but the prison choir won't get time off for good singing to attend the contest. Instead, the singers at the 138-year-old prison will tape their eight-minute entry on Tuesday and send in their effort.

Report levels charges against child-care laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Children's Defense Fund says lax day-care laws in too many states amount to an inexcusable failure to protect the health and safety of the nation's youngsters.

A report issued Monday by the private organization urged support for legislation pending in Congress that would provide $1.75 billion in federal funds for child care, require states to develop minimum requirements, expand tax credits for low-income working families, and guarantee parents the right to make unannounced visits.

The fund said its national survey of child-care centers and day-care homes found that 13 states fail to require that children in day care be immunized against childhood diseases and 22 states do not require periodic fire drills.

Thirty states do not insist that children 18 months and older in licensed child-care centers receive vaccine to protect them from meningitis, and 24 states fail to require such centers to have energy-absorbing surfaces as a safety feature beneath swings, slides and structures on which children climb.

The report said four states — Connecticut, Idaho, Indiana and South Carolina — failed to require even one of those standards be met.

It said 19 states allow child-care centers to operate with five or more infants per adult, although experts cited by the fund say one person should care for no more than three or four.

Thirteen states, it said, allow one person to care for five or more infants or toddlers in family day care.

Georgia and North Carolina permit one person in a child-care center to care for up to seven infants, while South Carolina allows eight and Idaho sets the limit at 12, the report said.

Thirty-three states allow one person to care for more than 10 4-year-olds. The limit is 18 in Georgia and 20 in Alabama, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas, the fund said.

The report said more than 6 million children, including more than 2 million who are younger than 3, spend part or all of their day in out-of-home child care.

About half of those children are cared for by people providing family day care in their own homes.

Most of those children are cared for in homes serving less than six youngsters, the report said. However, it said 22 states exempt family day-care homes from regulation, including inspections, if they care for five or fewer unrelated youngsters.

Twenty-nine states fully or partially exempt child-care programs operated by public schools from regulation. Although about one-third of child-care centers are operated by religious institutions, 13 states fully or partially exempt such programs from licensing.

In 29 states, parents do not have the unqualified right to visit their child's family day-care home unannounced, the report said.

That denies parents "the most meaningful opportunity to detect potential threats to their child's health and safety, or to monitor the quality of care their child receives," the fund said.

Thirty-five states do not require any type of training for staff in family day-care homes, and 32 do not require specific levels of formal training for teachers in child-care centers, the fund said.

It said only three states — Kentucky, Minnesota and Wisconsin — require specific levels of pre-service and in-service training for child-care teachers and family day home providers and specify the level of training that providers must receive in each area.

Tree borer damage symptoms vary

Herald Staff Report

Terri Johansen, of Johansen Nursery and Landscape Company, reports an unusual number of area residents concerned about tree borers. Several people have called or brought plant samples into the nursery as a result of a pair of roving tree diagnosticians, who have inspected their plants, then rung their doorbell to tell them they had a borer infestation, she said.

One of the inquirers was Jim Campbell, who has fruit and mulberry trees at his home on Pennsylvania Street. Campbell said the men seemed to be coming door to door, telling people they had problems with their trees. Pointing out some marks on the bark, they told him they would spray his trees for borers for $22.95 per tree. When Campbell said he would call Johansen's for help, the men told him that Johansen's treated with only a 20 percent solution, which was inadequate.

In response to Campbell's request, Carl Johansen went to his house to inspect his trees. He found bagworms, a bacterial root problem, spider mite damage, freeze damage, and lack of fertilizer, but no evidence of borers, he said.

Linda Phillippe, an employee of Green Acres Nursery, said that business has received no calls as a result of the roving tree doctors.

Wanda Petty, an employee of Johansen's, said a lot of trees are showing freeze damage, which leaves cracks in the wood, but should not be confused with borer holes.

Johansen said that a borer in a tree leaves a hole in which you can't see the bottom, or else you will be able to see the borer worm itself. Also, sawdust may be visible around the hole or around the tree, he said.

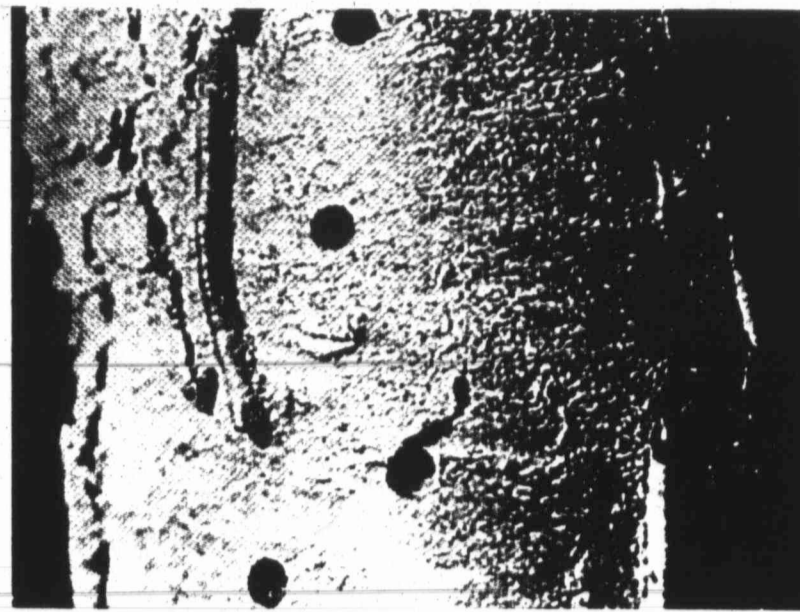

Tree borers are actually larvae of beetles or moths, according to The Ortho Problem Solver, an answer book from Ortho Chemical Company. The adult insect lays its eggs on the tree, then the larvae tunnel into the tree after they hatch. Healthy trees are usually able to drown the worms with sap, but weak or damaged trees have decreased sap flow and may be sickened or killed by borer insects, the book explains.

Prevention of borers is advised by the Ortho book and is best accomplished by pruning out dead or unhealthy branches, removal of dying plants and keeping trees vigorous by fertilizing and watering regularly. Another helpful tip is to wrap the trunks of newly planted trees.

Spraying is best done before an infestation occurs. Johansen recommended spraying in May or June when adult insects are flying, and added that it is advisable to spray for borers anytime a tree is weakened for any reason. Lindane and Dursban are commonly used treatments.

James Blackwell, an area landscape architect, warned against exorbitant claims that a borer treatment can last for years or even forever. With the current environmental protection policies in force, only pesticides which are biodegradable are allowed on the market and with each new crop of eggs the problem recurs, he said.

Clean air legislation price tag may be sky high

WASHINGTON — The clean air legislation being negotiated by the House and Senate is going to cost U.S. industry at least $35 billion a year, but is still the best deal available, Michigan Rep. John Dingell said Wednesday.

As chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, Dingell has had a key role in putting together the massive House bill that would attempt to control acid rain, automobile emissions and toxic air pollution.

Dingell, a Democrat, has been a staunch protector of the automobile industry in the fight over tougher pollution standards, but he told the National Association of Manufacturers the current legislation is probably the best deal industry can get from Congress.

"Despite all the problems, I'm not sure we can get a better bill and that's why I'm supporting it this year, even though the legislation will have widespread economic effects," Dingell said.

Earlier this year, the clean air legislation was one of the most-watched issues in Congress. The House and Senate put together significantly different versions a bill that is expected to effect dramatically how U.S. industries operate. Negotiators from both houses have been meeting for weeks to work out a compromise on the 700-page bill.

Dingell said that regardless of what is finally settled upon, the final legislation will be much more costly than the $19 billion estimated by the Bush administration. Elements of the White House plan are in both the House and Senate bills, but in general, the two legislative packages call for much stronger pollution controls.

"Even the administration has conceded that it will cost at least $35 billion a year to meet the proposed standards and I personally think that figure is too low," he said.

The clean air bill will require coal-burning industries to reduce emissions, set tougher pollution standards for all vehicles, require all industries to control how they use toxic chemicals, and force states to clean up smog problems.

Major industry groups, such as coal producers, have lobbied hard against the strictest measures in the legislation, claiming they will lead to widespread job losses.

Dingell agreed that job losses will be unavoidable as U.S. industry spends more on pollution controls.

"This legislation is going to affect everyone's lifestyle, from the car you drive, to the bakery that bakes your bread, to the dryer cleaner that cleans your clothes," he said.

Ladies Fellowship

Women work together to help others

By LYNN HAYES
Lifestyle Editor

The Ladies Fellowship of Birdwell Lane Baptist Church is following the word of Jesus by helping others.

The women are busy gathering commodities for their yearly food basket project. Baskets filled with hams, vegetables, coffee, bread, fruits and dessert are delivered to the needy during the holiday season.

"We're supposed to take care of our brothers. . . It's just part of what Jesus wants us to do," said President Thelma Colegrove.

After learning who is in need, the women offer help to the needy families.

"I just knock on their door," said Cheryl Beeson. "Most everyone is just elated."

In another worthwhile project titled, "Christmas in July," the women sent boxes of toiletries to missionaries who are stationed in England, Mexico, Africa and India.

"We sent items they can't get over there," said Barbara Cole.

Although the women aren't sure if the missionaries will receive their gifts, they took a chance and sent them anyway.

"There's a chance, especially in India or Africa, that they might never get them. But we wanted to make the effort," Thelma noted.

After much research, the women recently presented a program on Africa and India Dressed in African and Indian clothing, they depicted life in the two countries.

"It makes the missionaries and their wives more real to us. It helps us identify with the wives and what they have to go through," Thelma explained. "It helps us know how to pray for them specifically."

"It makes you appreciate being here," Barbara added.

During their meetings, the women discuss future projects and begin the strategy of obtaining needed items.

"We take up special offerings for needy families and buy groceries," Cheryl explained.

Although they don't exclude any race or color, they offer their services first to Christians.

"We start with the Christians," Thelma explained.

By helping a person with his or her spiritual needs, the women say their physical needs will be taken care of.

"They go hand in hand, but their spiritual need is more important," Thelma said.

"If you trust in Jesus, he'll supply your needs," Cheryl explained. "We just may be the instruments Jesus is using to help them."

Police officer's puppy becomes an ordained minister

By COLLEEN DISKIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — While his owner isn't expecting a flood of requests for his 6-month-old puppy to conduct marriages, baptisms and funerals, Fluffy is a full-fledged minister — and it's all perfectly legal.

For a mere three bucks, the half-Pekingese, half-poodle recently was ordained a minister of the mail-order American Fellowship Church in Rolling Bay, Wash.

And his owner, Franklin Park Detective Bruce Walstad, has the paperwork to prove it.

"They can ordain anybody they like," said 39-year-old Walstad, who teaches classes to other police officers on ways to unravel elaborate cons. "But you'd think the guy when he typed it on the I.D. card, he would have said, 'Come on.'"

Walstad, who's written two books on the subject of scams, decided to try and get Fluffy ordained to illustrate a point to his students.

The official papers arrived Aug. 12, and now Walstad is waiting for Fluffy to start forgiving the mailman his sins and blessing all the trees and fire hydrants in his suburban neighborhood.

"I sent them in the money, and a few weeks later they sent an identification card for the Reverend Fluffy Walstad," he said. "I just wouldn't believe they didn't check it out."

The church could not be reached for comment because it has no telephone listing.

"It was a gag with a purpose," he said. "Both my partner and I have already been ordained, so I thought why not see if they'll take Fluffy."

And how has the family pet's new-found divinity affected the Walstads and their 9-year-old son John?

"Fluffy's loving this," the elder Walstad said, chuckling.

Courtroom deputy also is known as 'reverend'

By TERENCE POPPA
El Paso Herald-Post

EL PASO — Delia Anderson, courtroom deputy for U.S. Magistrate Janet Ruesch, has acquired a new title: reverend.

Or make that "first" reverend.

When she was ordained in Austin in June, she became the first woman in the Texas Latin American Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church to become an ordained minister.

"Five or more years ago it would have been a lot harder for a woman to be ordained, because of tradition," said Anderson, 50, a native El Pasoan who has worked at the federal courthouse since 1972.

"Nothing in the church rules forbids ordaining women. It was just never done. We could do all the church work, back up the male minister, preach in his position, but you just didn't ask to become minister."

All that changed three years ago when the minister of the El Calvario Pentecostal Church in Northeast El Paso was assigned to another church in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Because of a shortage of ministers, Anderson became the de facto minister, conducting the services, preaching

Sunday night, counseling members, visiting the sick, and other duties that go with a ministry.

Late last year, she decided it was time to buck tradition and for-years of service as minister of youth/education at Jan Lee Heights Baptist Church in Burkburnett. While there he was head of the youth youth leadership. He sought to educate youth through dynamic and exciting discipleship and Bible study programs. Banks was effective in training and involving the laity of the church by equipping volunteers with the necessary tools for leadership.

He also directed and coordinated parent meetings to discuss the joys, needs and difficulties of today's youth.

Mission involvement is a priority concern of Bank's. He has previously planned numerous mission trips to New Mexico, Oklahoma and various parts of Texas. He said in a recent interview, "We feel God will one day open the door for our family to be appointed as foreign missionaries in the area of youth work."

Banks received his bachelor of science degree from West Texas State University where he majored in recreational administration and psychology. He received a master's degree in religious education from Southwestern Theological Seminary, where his studies focused on youth and recreation.

"He seems to hold his head higher, and there's a certain aura about him," Walstad added in a telephone interview last week.

Walstad even tried to find a clerical collar to fit Fluffy but had no luck, so he's thinking about making one.

Walstad's wife, Patricia, 34, said the ordination has definitely added a twist to the family's religious roots.

"I'm Catholic, and my husband's Lutheran," she said Monday night. "But I don't know what he (Fluffy) is now."

Walstad had Fluffy's picture taken with his ministry identification certificates to show to his future classes. But he's not contacted the American Fellowship Church to inform them about their canine ordination.

"I don't want to blow my cover," he explained. "I might want to ordain my bird some day."

malize the position.

"By God, if I was going to lead the congregation, I thought I might as well apply to be minister."

To her surprise, her application was quickly accepted. Following interviews and a review of her work for the church, she was brought to Austin to be ordained with two men.

She wore a simple print dress for the ceremony, which included the laying of hands on her head by the bishop and two other church elders.

"It was a beautiful moment that I will never forget. I didn't think my feet were on the ground when they laid their hands on my head."

Her husband of nearly 30 years is a member of the Presbyterian church, but accepts her choice of religion and supports her in her new role, she said.

When she retires from government service in four years, she plans to devote all of her time to her congregation.

"I'm looking forward to working fulltime for the church."

"I don't consider myself a feminist," she added. "I wouldn't burn my bra, if that's what you mean by feminist. I just think that women should be recognized for what they have been doing all along. If women are capable and qualified, why shouldn't they do all the things that men do?"

Cheerleaders set to raise money

By BARBIE LELEK
The upcoming Christmas season has a special meaning for two Colorado High School cheerleaders.

Bridgett Bridgford and Tammie Blair were chosen by the Universal Cheerleading Association, along with 600 other cheerleaders in the U.S.A., to represent the United States in the Royal New Year's Day Parade in London. The girls will have the opportunity to visit such historic sites as Windsor Castle, Oxford and Stratford. The girls will receive no funding from the UCA for the trip, which will cost $1,800 each. They must meet two deadlines with a specified amount of money to be able to make this one in a lifetime trip.

The girls need to raise $500 each by the first deadline of Oct. 1. The second deadline is Nov. 1, and $800 needs to be ready.

Several Colorado City businesses have supported the girls by giving donations or letting them earn money. Sonic Drive-In will be allowing the cheerleading squad to car hop for them. Kitten Arthur, sponsor of the CHS cheerleaders, is planning a dance to be held soon. She is asking that anyone who would like to be a part of making this dance possible by monetary donations or suggestions as to how to plan it. She also is accepting donations for the girls at: CHS Cheerleaders, c/o Kitten Arthur, P.O. Box 823, Colorado City, Texas 79512.

The Colorado City Sonic has always been a Big Wolves supporter but their support doesn't stop there. They have also done a great deal to help in Project Celebration. Now, owners Tommy and Janette Meeks are going all out to help the cheerleaders. A bake sale will be held Saturday at the Sonic from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mrs. Meeks stated that most of those donating baked goods are Sonic customers, which they have met over the years. The entire cheerleading squad will be carhopping from 5-12 p.m. The girls will be accepting tips to for their trip. They encourage everyone to take part Saturday, hamburgers will be on sale for 99 cents.

Calvary Baptist Church. Participants gathered in the Family Life Center to enjoy the party, which emphasized the New Church Year for Sunday School and Training Union. The Family Life Center was decorated with nine tables, and brain-teasers about the number nine were placed at each setting. Sarah Lawson began the evening by singing "He's Counting On You" and Sonja Girvin sang "We Are In His Hands." Children were entertained at a puppet show about Sunday School. Nine people showed their skills by participating in a sword drill, looking up nine scriptures.

Elderly receive carnations

Several CHS Wolverines took time out Sept. 8 to travel to the nursing homes. These girls presented carnations to the elderly as a Grandparent's Day gift.

Meet the team

Wolf Booster Club members and parents met Sept. 11 to introduce the varsity football. Each week a drawing is held to win a football signed by the team. This week's winner was Larry Blasingame. After conducting the business and hearing the coach's report on the different Colorado City teams, everyone enjoyed viewing the Colorado City vs. Ballinger game film. Picture buttons of Wolf players the freshman through varsity are available at $3 each. Call 728-8051 for further details. Also, if you would like to become a member, contact a Booster member or president Phil Anderson at 728-5973.

Church hosts convention

Christian Temple Church hosted its annual convention Sept. 12-14. Visiting evangelists and preachers traveled from all over Texas and Iowa to attend the convention. They were Tracy and Donna Walker, president of Revivaltime Ministries USA from Franklin; John and Mary Squires of Conroe; and Joann Arndt of Edinburg; C.B. and Gayle Walters of Odessa; and Jim and Charlene Ammerman of Dallas.

Morning and evening services were held daily with lunch available.

Pigskin Preview

The Middle School football players were introduced Sept. 18 to parents and fans at the Pigskin Preview. The boys pictures were taken to be made into buttons, which have proven to be a popular Thursday night addition to everyone's red and black outfit. The buttons are sold for $3 each and may be purchased at any home game at the front gate or ordered by calling 728-8051. Freshman, junior varsity and varsity buttons as well as cheerleaders, flags and twirler buttons are also on sale.

Football Friday

This past Friday night proved to be a night to remember for the Colorado City Wolves and their fans. The Stanton Buffalos provided an interesting game. Even though the Buffalos lost the game, they have nothing to hang their head about. The final score was Wolves 18, Buffalos 14, with the Wolves scoring the winning touchdown with about 20 seconds remaining in the contest. The game proved to be one of defense and big plays on offense as each team had one long run for a touchdown and also the Wolves blocked a punt and caused a fumble on another punt, and the Buffalos blocked a field goal attempt. The Wolves travel to Slaton tonight to face the Tigers at 8 p.m.

Pet owner thanks kind stranger

DEAR ABBY: Recently we moved into a new home. Somehow, Pookie, our little dog, got out of the yard. He never goes out, even when the door is open. I didn't realize he was gone until 3 a.m., when I was awakened by his yelping.

I looked through the house and yard and couldn't find him. At daybreak, I got into my car and went looking for him. No luck. When I returned home, I found a message on our answering machine saying a man had found our Pookie, miles away, dead on the highway! He told us where to find him. We searched but found nothing. I telephoned everyone I could think of: police, Animal Control, SPCA, etc. Finally, I asked a city crew who were cutting weeds if they had seen him. Yes, they had! They found Pookie and another dog dead on the highway, so they buried both dogs by the mountains, where they bury all domestic animals they find dead.

Dear Abby

So — to end this story, I just wanted to let people know that if that caring, concerned man hadn't taken the time to stop and check Pookie's rabies tag number and track us down, we never would have known what happened to our dog. I know I never would have stopped looking for him.

How caring it was for the street crew to have buried Pookie instead of throwing him in the dump. I was able to thank the city crew, but not the man who found him. I hope he knows how we appreciated his kindness. Thank you, stranger! — JEFFERSON COUNTY.

COLORADO — DEAR JEFFERSON: Losing a treasured pet is painful, but the pain of not knowing what happened to the pet compounds the agony. Pet owners should always have current ID tags on their pets, even those that are "never" out of doors. It can save a lot of heartache.

Custody battle entwines snake

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Linda Mae Walker wasn't interested in the car, the house or the china during her divorce. She wanted her snake, and she got it after a judge threatened to jail her ex-husband.
 Walker, 42, was awarded Samson, a 14-foot Indian python, in a property settlement from her July 18 divorce. But her former husband, Terry D. Warren, wouldn't turn over the snake.
 On Wednesday, Circuit Judge Gene Schnelz told Warren to give Walker the snake or go to jail. Warren initially picked jail, but reconsidered when Schnelz told him he'd stay there until the snake was returned to Walker.
 Walker picked up Samson later Wednesday.

High temperatures in hot tubs harmful

BOSTON (AP) — Pregnant women who enjoy relaxing in the hot tub shouldn't stay in more than 10 minutes, says a study published Thursday.
 The study, appearing as a letter in the New England Journal of Medicine, said too much tub time can raise a woman's body temperature enough to cause malformations in the fetus.
 According to the latest research, pregnant women should not spend any more than 10 minutes in a tub when the water is 104 degrees.
 To reach this conclusion, the researchers conducted an experiment on 24 young, non-pregnant women to see how long it takes for their inner-body temperature to reach 102, the point that can be hazardous to the fetus.
 They found that some people heat up twice as fast as others. In a 104-degree tub, some women's bodies reached 102 in as little as 12 minutes, while others took 23 minutes.
 They also found that half of the women did not feel uncomfortably hot when their temperatures hit 102.
 "We conclude that at least in non-pregnant women, subjective discomfort is not wholly reliable as a safeguard against overheating, and that time limits should also be used," the researchers wrote.
 The study was conducted in Australia by Barry R. Ridge of the University of Western Sydney-Macarthur and Dr. Grahame M. Budd of the National Institute of Occupational Health and Safety in Sydney.

Tyrannosaurus rex to roam once again in Montana

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — When trucker Bill McKamey heard that Montana's Museum of the Rockies had found a Tyrannosaurus rex skeleton, he offered to make his vehicle and services available any time, anywhere.
 "How many times in your life do you haul a dinosaur?" he asked.
 The fossil, found in the badlands of eastern Montana, is the largest and most complete skeleton of a Tyrannosaurus ever discovered. It is the first of four T-rex skeletons discovered in Montana to stay.
 That has become a source of pride for people in Montana.
 McKamey was one of scores of volunteers who helped bring the fossil of the meat-eating beast from its 65 million-year-old bed in the dry, rugged territory around the Missouri River to the display room in Bozeman.
 Although the Tyrannosaurus is the best known dinosaur, only eight have been found — four in Montana, two in Canada and one each in South Dakota and Wyoming.
 While Montana may be the most fertile hunting ground for the T-rex, none of the fossils has stayed in the state.
 "Until this, I didn't realize how many people were upset about fossils going out of state," said Pat Leiggi, chief preparator of paleontology for the museum. "A lot of people told me they had a ranch here and there, and certain people would come and take fossils out and they never heard about them again."

 He said that until the Museum of the Rockies opened its paleontology department eight years ago, the state had no fossil research facility. Now the museum has one of the largest paleontology departments in the country.
 "Now, we know who's doing what," he said. "Montana is in this network of paleontology departments."
 The Tyrannosaurus rex was the largest carnivore ever to walk the Earth. It grew to 35 to 40 feet long and up to 12 feet high, with teeth 6 inches long.
 Museum staffers dug up the 90 percent complete skeleton over four weeks this summer on federal land near the small farming town of Circle.

 Army Corps of Engineer engineers built a dirt road into the remote site and helped load the seven tons of fossils onto trucks. McKamey was waiting nearby with a flatbed truck to haul the bones nearly 400 miles to the museum at Montana State University.
 The fossils, packed in plaster and caked with rock and hardened mud, had to be unloaded, weighed and set up for display. Museum officials were worried that the floor wouldn't be able to support the 3½-ton pelvic section.
 "We had a reporter in here and he wrote about it, and the next morning, we got a whole bunch of calls, saying, 'What do you need?'"

It sure made my life easier," Leiggi said.
 "We read a little blurb in the newspaper that they needed to turn (the pelvis) over and that the largest forklift couldn't do it," said Steve Anderson of Bozeman, who operated the crane. "So I called them and talked to them. ... It was a chance to see something really rare."
 Eventually, the floor was reinforced.
 The skeleton was discovered almost two years ago by two amateur fossil collectors, Tom and Kathy Wankel of Bozeman. Leiggi said a call came from the front desk of the museum that someone had some fossils they wanted identified.

"It's very extemporaneous," he added. "They're kind of making up the rules as they go along."

Lloyd Robinson won the grand champion award in beef cattle competition, with Wanda Driver taking the reserve championship. In lambs, Jim Purcell was grand champion and John Middleton was reserve champion.

Rex Cox won the overall grand champion award, while Delores Anderson was named reserve champion.

Richardson was pleased with the response to the first-ever show and said preliminary plans call for the show to be repeated at next year's fair.

"We had very many more participants than we had expected," he said. "Some of them were kind of intimidated... but we had a lot bigger response than we had anticipated."

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- A theft was reported by a business in the 1600 block of West 11th. A black leather suitcase and simulated narcotics used for drug education were reported taken. They were valued at $100.
- A theft was reported by a business in the 600 block of North Lamesa Highway. Five cartons of Marlboro cigarettes reported taken were valued at $79.95. The subject injured two employees while making an escape with the merchandise, a store employee reported.
- Terry Louis Murphy, 19, 900 South Runnels, was arrested and charged with failure to appear before a court of law.
- Danny Ray Crosby, 38, 508 North San Antonio, was arrested and charged with robbery.

Students in Ruth Nanny's kindergarten classes, who had been saving their coins for Project Oasis, walked to a nearby 7-11 store Thursday to buy the 12-packs of Coke to send overseas. The children watch the clerk count change as they make their purchase. The gesture by the children prompted one customer in the store to match the purchase of the six 12-packs by buying an additional six.

Project Oasis building up steam

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

Project Oasis, the local program to send a "note with a Coke" to military personnel in the Persian Gulf, is gaining momentum, a sponsor said today.

Sponsored by 7-Eleven, KBST and Coca-Cola, the project allows Big Springers to buy 12-packs of the soft drink for $2.50 each and send them, with a personal note, to soldiers serving with Operation Desert Shield.

"It has really picked up," said 7-Eleven field manager Ray Lara. "I have to say I didn't think it would really take off, but it's ended up being the exact opposite."

Lara announced Oasis' kickoff Sept. 12, setting a goal of 10,000 cases to be bought locally. Latest tabulations show more than 1,200 cases ready to go, he said.

The city of Lubbock, also participating, had issued a challenge to Big Spring to collect more cases of Coke for Oasis.

"Lubbock only has 300 (cases) so far," Lara said. "They're pretty embarrassed about that, I think."

Big Spring's total does not include individuals and groups still collecting who have not yet turned in numbers, Lara said.

"Businesses and organizations are calling me every day, wanting to do something," he said, adding that a complete list of participants is being compiled now.

"This has been a community-wide effort," Lara said. "There's been tremendous support."

Linda Roger of the Chamber of Commerce said the project could attract national attention to the city.

"We are already getting a lot of media coverage," she said. "If we end up getting the 10,000 cases, I think we'll get nationwide coverage."

"I want to hit 'Good Morning, America,'" Lara said. "I want everybody in the nation to know about Big Spring, Texas."

Publicity for the city is only one reason for encouraging support for Oasis, Roger said.

"It's for a very good cause," she said. "Ray Lara is doing an excellent job with this. The Chamber board of directors is backing it all the way."

She said the Chamber plans to set up a phone bank to contact more local businesses and organizations about getting involved.

Lara said he continues to get calls and letters from other cities, including Pecos, San Angelo, Andrews, Midland and Odessa, asking about the project.

The Veteran's Administration Medical Center, a supporter of the project, sold 173 cases (346 12-packs) during a hospital-wide drive Monday.

Administrator Conrad Alexander said the hospital was a good setting to show support for the project.

"Most of the people here are very patriotic," he said. "Many have served this country themselves and want to show support for those doing the same now."

Assisting with the VA drive were volunteer Marvin Holland, and Disabled American Veterans members Bob Madigan, Rocky Vieira, Omar Cashion and Gilbert Senter.

"The point is not publicity," Lara reminded participants. "It's about getting behind our military. We haven't had support for our military since before Vietnam. You can see things on the TV, and read about what's going on over there, but this is more of a 'relief valve.' It's a chance to do something."

Although originally a time limit of two weeks was set on the project, Lara said that can easily be extended until 10,000 or more cases are bought.

"Everybody's asking me to extend it. I say, let's go until we do it. We can't drag it out forever, but I don't think it's going to take long."

A local military retiree, C.G. Urban of Big Spring, announced his support for Oasis with a recent purchase of five cases of Coke to be sent overseas.

Urban said he knows "how it feels to get a Coke after being dry for so long." He urges other former GI's to participate as well.

When the collection ends, Cokes and notes will be shipped overseas by the Department of Defense.

no immediate comment from Saudi Arabian authorities.

It was the third violation of Iraqi airspace reported by Baghdad since the United States began its military buildup in Saudi Arabia.

In New Delhi, officials said Iraq will allow Indian air force planes to land in its territory to some of the tens of thousands of Indians still stranded in Iraq and Kuwait.

About a third of the 190,000 Indians trapped by the invasion have been repatriated, officials said. Speaking on condition of anonymity, the officials said India hopes to operate four flights daily between New Delhi and the Iraqi town of Basra.

In another development, U.S. officials said Iraq has asked Iran if the two countries can join their oil pipelines, a move that would allow Iraq's Saddam Hussein to partly bypass the U.N.-ordered international embargo against his country.

Iraq has not yet responded to the Iraqi request, which would let Iraq export 500,000 barrels of oil a day in return for badly needed cash, food and medicine, said the officials, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Intelligence experts estimate a link between the two pipeline systems could be completed within a month across the countries' common border.

The reported Iraqi request is the latest overture by Saddam toward Iran, with which he fought an eight-year war that ended in 1988.

Despite signs that Iraq is feeling the international pressure, Saddam was quoted Thursday as saying Iraq could hold out for "five or six" years against the trade embargo.

The Turkish newspaper Milliyet also quoted him as saying Iraq "knows that America is the No. 1 superpower in the world. But we also are confident that we can hurt America."

Iraq has mobilized an estimated 360,000 soldiers.

Challenge

cotton insulation, as an alternative to fiberglass, is expected to create 140 new jobs in the Lubbock area, according to information released. Insulation is a $20 billion a year industry.

A hazardous waste facility would create about 100 jobs, Moody said. Mitchell County could collect up to $1 million in fees annually, according to Moody and a host agreement signed by the County Commissioners Court and NWED in March. The facility would be located on 1,200 to 5,000 acres and would handle 2,000 to 5,000 tons of municipal and hazardous waste daily.

People at last night's meeting, which was organized by Mitchell County Texans Against Pollution, decided to form the Farmers and Ranchers Association of Mitchell County, Westbrook Group, to oppose the facility. J.W. Slay, an agricultural teacher at Westbrook High School and a member of TAP, was elected chairman.

Slay said he will try to get the group scheduled to address an Oct. 2 county commissioners meeting to voice their opinions. "I believe in this country," Slay told the crowd. "In order for it to sustain itself for the next 100, 200 years, it's got to stop somewhere."

Hontas Hines, a Westbrook High School government and business teacher and also a TAP member, said after the meeting, "I think they're ready to do something. I believe they know they have a problem and they're ready to solve it."

Meanwhile, the Ira Independent School District board of trustees in Scurry County joined other area government entities in passing a resolution Monday opposing the hazardous waste facility. Westbrook ISD trustees and Scurry County commissioners passed similar resolutions last month.

"We oppose it wholeheartedly," said Ira ISD board member Wylie Oliver. "Our predominant winds are southwest and it would bring it right over our school."

Ranching Heritage weekend scheduled

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Jerry Worthy, past chairman of the board of overseers of the Ranching Heritage Association in Lubbock, is encouraging local residents to attend the 13th Golden Spur Award Weekend at the RHA's site on the Texas Tech campus this weekend.

"I'd sure like to invite people from our area to go up and see the work that's been done in restoring structures," said Worthy, the owner of a ranch in Freestone County in East Texas and the Big Spring RV Park. "This is the leading attraction in this part of the nation." Worthy is still on the RHA board of overseers.

Livestock Day will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the campus, where 30 historic ranching structures are located on 17 acres. Admission is free, but luncheon tickets will cost $7.50 and $6.50. It will be served at noon at the Livestock Arena. Annual meetings will also be held that day.

"We normally have several thousand people come through," said RHA Secretary Alvin Davis. "That's our biggest day of the year."

Tonight at 8 p.m. a $25-a-plate banquet will be held at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center to present the annual Golden Spur Award for a lifetime of achievement. This year's recipient is U.S. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Jo Ann Smith. She is the second woman to receive the award and the youngest, Davis said.

"There might be a few spaces left," he said of banquet reservations. About 500 people are expected to attend. It will be preceded by a 6:30 p.m. reception.

Worthy, who was the first president of the Heritage Museum in Big Spring, said a typical exhibit at RHA would consist of saddles, guns, wagons, branding irons and western art. "All the different things that ranchers used in the past," he said.

"We've been set up for 15 years and it's continuing," Worthy said. "It's one thing that people in this part of the world shouldn't miss."

Polygraph tests used to eliminate suspects

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Six more polygraph tests were administered Tuesday in continuing efforts to eliminate suspects and bogus information in connection with the murders of Jeane Davidson, 60, and her husband Lloyd, 79. Both were discovered with multiple stab wounds April 19 at their home in the I-20 Trailer Park.

Sheriff A.N. Standard said they have eliminated several possibilities, despite only minimal information following the doubling of reward money two weeks ago. The reward is currently $10,000 for confidential information leading to convictions in the murder case, but will revert to $5,000 Oct. 1.

"It is taking shape and we're encouraged," Standard said of leads they are still following. He did not want to elaborate.

At least 15 polygraph tests have been administered so far, he said. Some people have taken two tests, including the six Tuesday. "We could foresee a couple more," Standard said of additional tests.

Also, he said they are considering asking the Federal Bureau of Investigation to put together a psychological profile of the type of person who would commit such a crime.

"It's a tool for the investigator to have," Standard said. But, he added, "It's not something you can go into court with by any means."

A profile was put together from evidence at the crime by the Texas Department of Public Safety, but a written report will not be made and information will not be released to the public, said a DPS official in Austin. However, he did say that similar crimes are committed by people living similar lifestyles.

One possible suspect in the case, who has not been apprehended, is Gabriel Armand Barraza, 25, also known as Bernardo Ramirez, who escaped April 15 from the Lynn County Jail. Authorities suspect he fled to Big Spring and was later en route towards Odessa.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Department officials are seeking information on two long-haired men seen at the mobile home park around the time of the murders. They were in an orange Dodge pickup with a white camper top and camping equipment.

They also want to know the movements of a 1982 white Cadillac that disappeared from the Davidson's home between April 17-19. The vehicle was found in the parking lot of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

Lubbock High (1-1) at Big Spring (1-1)

Both the Lubbock High Westerners and Big Spring Steers are coming off losses.

If there's anything such as looking good in a loss, the Steers did in losing to No. 2 Lubbock Estacado. As far as the Westerners, they stunk up the place in their loss to Lovington, N.M.

Both coaches say their teams aren't consistent. The Steers either play good defense or good offense, never both. One week the Westerners come to play, and one week they don't.

This week the Westerners will come to play, and when they do, their intricate offense moves the ball. The Steer defense will be in for another tough game, but this time, the Steer offense will take up the slack.

Big Spring in a thriller.
BIG SPRING 35, LUBBOCK HIGH 21

Tahoka (1-1) at Coahoma (1-1)

The battle of the Bulldogs in this one, and both teams are coming off wins.

Tahoka will give Coahoma all its wants for the first half of play. But the red and white will turn on the after-burners in the second half. It won't be as bad as last year's 49-0 slaughter, but the end results will be the same.

COAHOMA 28, TAHOKA 14

Roscoe (0-2) at Forsan (0-2)

This should be one of the better games in the area. Both of these teams used to be football powers, but the Forsan Buffaloes are suffering from lack of numbers, and the Roscoe Plowboys are suffering from lack of experienced players.

This one will be a defensive struggle. But a Stephen East touchdown late in the game will prove to be the difference.

A happy homecoming for Forsan.
FORSAN 14, ROSCOE 8

Stanton (0-2) at Greenwood (2-0)

This may be the pivotal game for the Stanton Buffalos. Over the past two years they've lost their first two games, and went on to win district championships.

The Buffs have a strong foe to get on the winning track in the Greenwood Rangers.

The Buffalos will play their best game of the season, but the Rangers will survive.

GREENWOOD 20, STANTON 12

Rankin (1-1) at Garden City (2-0)

This is the 11-man game of the week in this area. These two teams are accustomed to battling it out for the district crown, now they're in different districts.

The Bearkats got a scare last week from Grandfalls. It brought them back to reality. Also, they want to pay Rankin back for the last two years they've lost to the Red Devils.

Garden City takes control in the fourth quarter.
GARDEN CITY 27, RANKIN 16

Colorado City (1-1) at Slaton (1-1)

This has always been a good rivalry. This year both teams are in rebuilding stages, but it will be just as intense.

The Wolves are howling after a last-minute win over Stanton last week. But that was at home. Winning at Slaton is no easy matter. The Tigers will take this one.

SLATON 20, COLORADO CITY 7

Sands (2-0) at Christoval (2-0)

This is the six-man game of the week in the state. What many people don't realize is that Sands took Christoval to the wire in the state playoffs last year.

This year both teams have most of their players back. Last year the game was relatively high-scoring. This year it will be a defensive war — and the Sands Mustangs thrive on defense.

They can't keep Sands out of the Top 10 any longer; the No. 1 team in the state falls in the Upset Special of the Week.

SANDS 24, CHRISTOVAL 20

Klondike (2-0) at New Home (0-2)

The New Home Leopards are supposed to be a playoff team — they haven't played like it.

The Klondike Cougars aren't supposed to be a playoff team — but they certainly look like one.

It all spells win number three for the Coogs.
KLONDIKE 48, NEW HOME 24

Borden County (1-1) at Wellman (1-1)

The Coyotes will be without star running back Jimmy Rios. Wellman is a rebuilding stage.

Even without Rios, the Coyotes will play better than they did last week.

BORDEN COUNTY 34, WELLMAN 28

Ira (0-2) at Grady (1-1)

Homecoming night for the Grady Wildcats, who are coming off a sterling defensive performance last week.

This week it will be more of the same, except there will be more Grady offense. The Ira Bulldogs are taken to the pound.

UIL puts Mojo on Permian

ODESSA (AP) — For the second straight year the defending Class 5A Texas football champion won't be able to defend its title.

Odessa Permian, the top-rated schoolboy team in the country last year, was banned from the 1990 playoffs for violating rules that prohibit supervised football practice before Aug. 20. A cross-town coach and longtime critic of the state's most successful program brought the charges.

Last year, Dallas Carter was prohibited from defending its title in the state's highest classification after grading violations rendered the school ineligible for the playoffs.

Permian is among the most storied high school programs in the country. It is the subject of a just-released book that details the city's obsession with the team, chartered flights for road games and a multi-million-dollar stadium that rivals college complexes.

The Panthers, widely known as

"Mojo," have won five state titles and finished second four times.

Permian was turned in by crosstown rival Odessa High School coach Jerry Taylor, who told a state panel that he witnessed Mojo coaches and players going through summer drills in violation of schoolboy rules.

The University Interscholastic League state executive committee agreed with a Sept. 10 decision by the District 4-5A executive committee that Permian had broken the rules. Coaches were found to have conducted supervised workouts between Aug. 6-10 and Aug. 13-17.

"This is one of the most severe punishments this body has ever given," said UIL Director Bailey Marshall. "I would imagine this decision will send a shock wave through the state."

The panel also suspended first-year Permian coach Tam Hollingshead for two games, including a Sept. 28 meeting with Odessa

Steers JV remains unbeaten

HERALD STAFF REPORT

ANDREWS — The Big Spring junior varsity Steers recorded their second shutout of the season as they drummed the Andrews Mustangs 31-0 here Thursday night.

Big Spring struck quickly in the game. After running the opening kickoff to the Steer 45-yard line, Big Spring scored on the first play from scrimmage. Clay Klatt threw a 55-yard scoring pass to fullback Darius Hill. Oscar Cervantes kicked the extra point, and the Steers led 7-0.

Also in the first quarter, Hill scored on a 30-yard run. Cervantes' PAT made the score 14-0.

In the second quarter the margin was increased to 17-0 on a 29-yard field goal by Cervantes. Hill scored from three yards out and Big Spring led 23-0 at the half.

The final Big Spring TD came on a 20-yard pass from Klatt to tight end Neil Childs. Klatt passed to wingback Pat Martinez for the two-point conversion.

Big Spring coach Tim Tannehill said "the defense played really well, we had a lot of kids running to the ball, it was a total team thing."

Linebacker Richard Hain intercepted a pass and had a good game at center, said Tannehill.

The Steers, 3-0 for the season, will play in Snyder Thursday at 6 p.m.

STEER FRESHMEN B 6, ANDREWS 0

The Big Spring freshmen B team ran its record to 1-1 by whitewashing the Andrews Mustangs here at Memorial Stadium Thursday night.

The only score of the game came in the third quarter. Toby McQueary passed 10 yards to wingback Noe Trevino. Coaches said offensive standouts for Big Spring were McQueary, Trevino, and wingback Louis Bustmante. Defensive standouts were safety Cody Purcell and cornerback Thomas Eason.

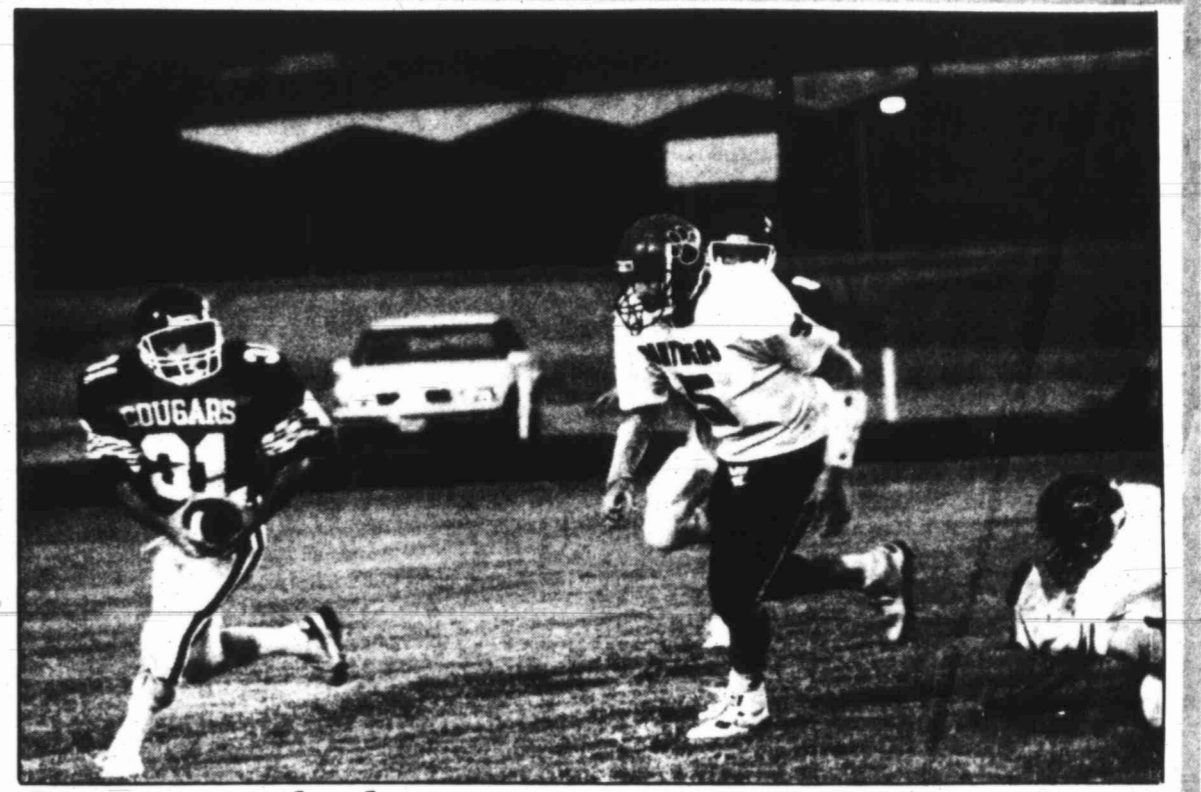

ANDREWS 13, STEER FRESHMEN A 0

The freshman A team lost its first game of the season, falling to Andrews at Memorial Stadium.

Big Spring coach Mike Ritchey said, "We had several opportunities, but we made mistakes at inopportune times. The kids played hard, we just came up short."

Playing well defensively for Big Spring were end Steve Gallagher, cornerback David Akin and linebacker Edgar Guerrero. Top offensive players were tailback

NCAA gives Florida probation

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The NCAA says the penalty could have been tougher. The University of Florida believes it could have been fairer.

The Gators were placed on two years probation Thursday for rules violations in football and basketball, and university officials don't think the punishment fits the crime.

This year's football team won't be allowed to participate in a bowl game because of infractions that occurred in the 1980s under former coach Galen Hall.

And the basketball program will lose three scholarships over a two-year period and must return at least $287,000 it earned from his job.

"We are not entirely comfortable with a set of penalties that appear to us to penalize the innocent for the sins of a prior generation," school president John Lombardi said.

"This is particularly difficult when you recognize that these (football) players and these coaches are now in the middle of their season, and these penalties at this time in their season appear to us to be a particularly difficult blow to accept."

Florida felt its cooperation during a lengthy investigation should be rewarded with a lenient sentence. And, according to the NCAA's letter of finding, it did.

The NCAA chose to impose less than the minimum proscribed penalties in a case involving major violations because, among other things, it forced Hall and Sloan to resign last October.

The bowl ban for this season was the only punishment of the football program, and there was no ban on television appearances for either sport.

The basketball program's scholarships will be restricted during the 1991-92 (13 total, two below the NCAA limit of 15) and 1992-93 seasons (14 total). Florida must repay revenue from the 1988 NCAA tournament because Vernon Maxwell, the school's all-time leading scorer, played for the Gators after receiving money from an agent.

First-year football coach Steve Spurrier said the bowl ban was a more severe penalty than Florida deserved.

In 1984, the Gators were placed on two years probation for widespread NCAA violations occurring while Charley Pell was coach. Spurrier thinks the program is still paying for those mistakes.

"But in America if you pay your sentence for one crime, then I don't believe you're supposed to pay it again six years later," he added.

"It's hard for me to look our players in the eyes and say that a coach paid a child-support payment four years ago and the NCAA is saying that you can't play for the conference championship or go to a major bowl this year."

The decision to prohibit the football team from going to a bowl game essentially knocks the Gators out of the Southeastern Conference title picture. SEC rules bar members that are ineligible for postseason play to win the crown.

As part of the ruling, the NCAA cited Hall and Sloan for unethical conduct. Both resigned under pressure last October, and if either takes a new coaching job in the next five years, his hiring must be approved by the NCAA Committee on Infractions.

Chuck Smrt, director of enforcement for the NCAA, said the case was unique because the school took significant corrective steps after the investigation was disclosed. For that reason, Smrt said, the five-member Committee on Infractions did not impose the minimum proscribed penalties.

The minimum penalties could have also included restrictions on postseason basketball.

Pride is flying on Gregg Street

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Neither rain pouring down nor busy Gregg Street traffic stopped the Downtown Lion's Club from supporting the Big Spring Steers by hanging the new Steer banners Friday morning.

And although five of the newly purchased, expensive banners were stolen last weekend, the Steer support is still visible with the remaining banners in their place on Gregg Street for Friday night's game against Lubbock High School.

Gary Wollenzien, a Downtown Lion's Club member and the director of the Big Spring YMCA, said that an anonymous Steers fan walked into his office in early August with the idea, and Wollenzien worked to get the banners project accomplished.

"What this amounted to was presenting a proposal to the Club's Board of Directors for $1,795 for 50 banners, including poles. Then I worked with Cathy Bowerman to get (a design) we really liked. We had to run down the emblem and measured the poles," Wollenzien said.

He added that once the electrical conduit poles were purchased, he and Val Fulesday used a rotary metal saw and cut the 10 foot poles in half.

Wollenzien said that he was surprised when the Club agreed to finance this project.

"I was amazed at the support. This is a pretty sizeable contribution. They're spending their fundraising money on this," Wollenzien said.

Dick Helms, another Lion's Club member said that he and several other club members decided to show how the Big Spring community supports the Steers.

Detroit player banned for life

DETROIT (AP) — Cornerback Terry Taylor of the Detroit Lions became the seventh NFL player banned for life under the league's drug policy.
The Lions said they won't appeal the league action, based on Taylor's third positive test for substance abuse. Taylor can reapply for admission to the league in a year.
Taylor has been dogged by trouble for most of his seven-year career, which began when Seattle selected him in the first round of the 1984 draft.

"A couple of us Lions got together and decided to do this to support our kids," Helms said, in explanation.
Helms added that there are plans to purchase more flags until all available flagpoles are filled with Steers banners.

"We have 110 places to put flags, thanks to the Rotary Club. We hope to have that many Steer flags, but if they're stolen we'll not be able to gain on them next year," he said.
Both Wollenzien and Helms have requested that the flags stolen last weekend be returned, with no questions asked. They may be taken to either the YMCA or the high school.

Big Spring High School principal Kent Bowerman said that he's proud of the support for the Steers.
"I think this is fabulous and I'm totally amazed. Gregg Street changed its appearance with these flags. Every community has its own way of showing support. The Lion's Club has taken on an outstanding way of showing its support.

"My hope is that more community groups get involved. I hope this makes the whole community feel better and show a little pride," Bowerman said.

Expos put double whammy on Mets

By The Associated Press
Where do the New York Mets go from here?

NL

While New York plays 10 of its remaining 13 games on the road, Pittsburgh has nine of 12 at home, capped by a three-game visit from the Mets on Oct. 1-2-3.
The Mets' skid became downright embarrassing when rookie Chris Nabholz completed the sweep with a one-hitter for his first major league complete game. The only hit was Tommy Herr's clean single with two out in the sixth.

Montreal scored both its runs in the fourth inning off Sid Fernandez (9-14) on Tim Wallach's broken-bat RBI single and Marquis Grissom's sacrifice fly. Fernandez gave up only two hits in six innings, both in the fourth, when he also issued his only two walks.

In the opener, the Expos rallied for four runs in the eighth inning off Frank Viola (19-10) and Mets relief ace John Franco. The rally consisted of Spike Owen's one-out triple, singles by pinch-hitter Mike Fitzgerald, Tim Raines and Otis Nixon, Andres Galarraga's sacrifice fly, a stolen base, passed ball and Wallach's infield hit.
Pirates 11, Cubs 2

Andy Van Slyke drove in three runs with his two homers and Barry Bonds added a two-run homer. Van Slyke homered in the first inning off Randy Kramer (0-3) and hit a two-run shot off Mitch Williams in a three-run sixth. Bonds hit his 32nd homer in the eighth after Van Slyke walked.
Astros 3, Reds 2
Pinch-hitter Carl Nichols singled home the tying and winning runs with two out in the ninth inning.

Glenn Davis led off with a single off Reds relief ace Randy Myers (3-5), who relieved starter Norm Charlton in the eighth. Gerald Young ran for Davis.

Dodgers 7, Padres 2
Los Angeles climbed within 3½ games of Cincinnati in the NL West as Ramon Martinez pitched a six-inning and Mike Scioscia's two-run double highlighted a five-run sixth inning.

Mariners get the best of White Sox, 7-3

SEATTLE (AP) — A few Chicago White Sox fans may be upset that Comiskey Park will be

why. We swept one series at Minnesota, but haven't done well since.

AL

torndown after this season, but they can be thankful a dome is not going up in its place.

"We don't play well at all inside," Chicago manager Jeff Torborg said Thursday after the Seattle Mariners beat the White Sox 7-3 at the Kingdome. "I don't know why. The White Sox record indoors fell to 7-10 and they are hitting just .231 in domes.

Seattle's Henry Cotto, who had just nine hits in his previous 70 at-bats, tied a career high with four RBIs with a two-run triple and two-run home run.

"I needed a game like this," Cotto said. "I was kind of struggling, and when you don't get the job done, you don't play."

Cotto would have not been in the lineup had starting center fielder Ken Griffey Jr. been healthy. Griffey is nursing a sore left ankle and is listed as day-to-day.

"He (Cotto) is a very valuable man because he can do it all for you," Lefebvre said. "When you rest Griffey and put Cotto out there in center, it really hasn't hurt you at all."

Hanson pitched his second straight complete game and ranks among the league leaders in wins, earned run average and strikeouts.

Hanson allowed eight hits, walked two and struck out three. He has not lost since Aug. 7 and has not allowed more than three earned runs in his last 11 starts.

Indians 12, Yankees 7
Carlos Baerga hit a triple and three doubles as Cleveland won at Yankee Stadium. Baerga, playing for the first time in three days since the birth of his first daughter, drove in three runs.

The Indians got 16 hits and matched their season-high with nine doubles. Brook Jacoby had three hits, including two doubles. Cleveland won its fourth straight game. The Yankees have lost six in a row.

Baerga hit an RBI triple in the first before New York came back for a 6-1 lead. Baerga doubled to start a four-run fourth inning, doubled home a run in a four-run fifth and hit a two-run double during a three-run sixth that made it 12-7.

Mike Walker (2-6) got the victory. He relieved Greg Swindell, who gave up six runs.

The Yearlings added a safety with six seconds left in the game to put the icing on the cake.

Runnels coaches said the entire defense played well. Runnels B is 2-0 for the season.

SWEETWATER 18, RUNNELS A 0

Sweetwater scored three touchdowns in the first quarter on long runs, handing the Yearlings their first loss of the season. Runnels is 1-1 for the season.

Coaches said the following

The Yearlings will play in Snyder Thursday. The B game starts at 5 p.m., followed by the A game at 6:30.

COAHOMA JV 20, TAHOKA 15

TAHOKA — The Coahoma junior varsity Bulldogs scored 20 first half points and held on for a 20-15 win over the Tahoka Bulldogs here Thursday night.

Coahoma scored in the first quarter when Juan Moran dashed 24 yards for a score. The point after touchdown failed, giving the Bulldogs a 6-0 lead.

Coahoma made the score 12-0 when Brian Moore passed 22 yards to tight end Chad Wright. Later in the second quarter, Moore and Wright hooked-up again from 31 yards out. Moore passed to Cadet Bryant for the two-point conversion, ending the scoring for Coahoma.

In the second half Tahoka had scoring drives of 70 and 55 yards, but it was not enough to overtake Coahoma, which improved its record to 3-0.

Offensive standouts for Coahoma were guard Eric Gang, tackle Dave Park, and center Terry Martinez. Defensive standouts for the Bulldogs were linebacker Chris Gonzales, end Kraig Walker, cornerback Greg Atkinson and end Steve Garcia.

Coahoma will play Iraan there at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

COAHOMA 7th 14, TAHOKA 0

COAHOMA — The Coahoma seventh grade improved its record to 1-1 by whitewashing Tahoka here Thursday.
Tailback Chris Arguello scored on runs of 62 and 53 yards for Coahoma. Coahoma coaches credited the offensive line with doing a good job, as well as the whole defense. Linebacker Rocky Coates made 11 tackles.

Coahoma will host Iraan Thursday at 5:30 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

COAHOMA 8th 22, TAHOKA 0

COAHOMA — The Coahoma eighth grade also pitched a shutout, improving its record to 2-0.

Wingback John White scored TDs of 16 and 3 yards for Coahoma. Tailback Jeff Pernetton scored on a 14-yard run. Pernetton led all rushers with 102 yards.

Coahoma coaches credited the offensive line for doing a good job. Defensively, cornerback Henry De LaRosa and safety Jamison Ward intercepted passes.

Coahoma will host Iraan at 7 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

High, which hasn't beaten Permian since 1964.

Hollingshead, who was slapped with a private reprimand in April for exceeding practice time limits, denied the allegations about illegal summer practices and said he would fight the ruling. He said the rules governing practices were a matter of interpretation.

None of the practices conducted this past summer were different from those that had occurred in the last 10 years, when Permian won three state titles, Hollingshead said.

Junior varsity coach Myron Schneider also received a two-game suspension. Hollingshead, Schneider and nine assistants were placed on a year's probation and Permian players were ruled ineligible for All-District football honors.

Taylor said he was surprised at the punishment.

"I thought it was severe," he said. "I'm sure I am going to be perceived as the bad guy in this situation because I forced the issue, but I am not the one who started this."

At one point during his testimony to the panel Thursday, Taylor was asked when his contract expires. "Probably this afternoon," he joked.

Taylor has long been a critic of the Permian program, which was 16-0 last year. Among his complaints are allegations that Panthers coaches tried to recruit his players and even players from across the state.

Hollingshead said Taylor had done "what he felt was right. He has a different interpretation of the rules than we do. He has been raising these issues for a long time. I feel that (in) my way of thinking, we followed UIL rules."

"We are aboveboard and first-class," Hollingshead said. "We still believe that we haven't done anything wrong. We contend in the present and in the past we were not in violation of any UIL rules."

Permian publishes a 212-page football program and has spent $70,000 on chartered jets to fly to games.

Pulitzer Prize winning author H.G. Bissinger wrote a recently released book about Mojo football, "Friday Night Lights: A Town, A Team and a Dream." He spent the entire 1988 season with the team. In the book, he criticized Permian for its "win at all costs" attitude.

Taylor told The Midland Reporter-Telegram that "there's going to be some strained relations" in Odessa.

Two tied in MBS Classic

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Janet Anderson was accurate with her drivers and irons — as she demonstrated with her third career hole-in-one — while Cathy Morse had a hot putter.

As a result, they were tied at 4-under-par 68 going into today's second round of the MBS LPGA Classic at the 6,351-yard Los Coyotes Country Club.

Defending champion Nancy Lopez, Nancy Brown and Sarah McGuire were tied for second, one stroke back.

Anderson aced the 149-yard 16th hole with a 6-iron. Her ball landed a few feet short of the hole and rolled in.

"When I got to the 16th hole, I was between hitting a full 7-iron or easing off on a 6-iron."

LPGA

Anderson said, "But on the tee the wind came up in my face so I went ahead and hit a full 6-iron. Boy, was I happy."

"I have been hitting the ball so well all year, getting to within 15 feet or so, but today I got it closer. I had a lot of misses that ended up in the right places. My farthest birdie putt was three feet."

Morse, playing in the same threesome with Anderson, was putting for birdie on every hole.

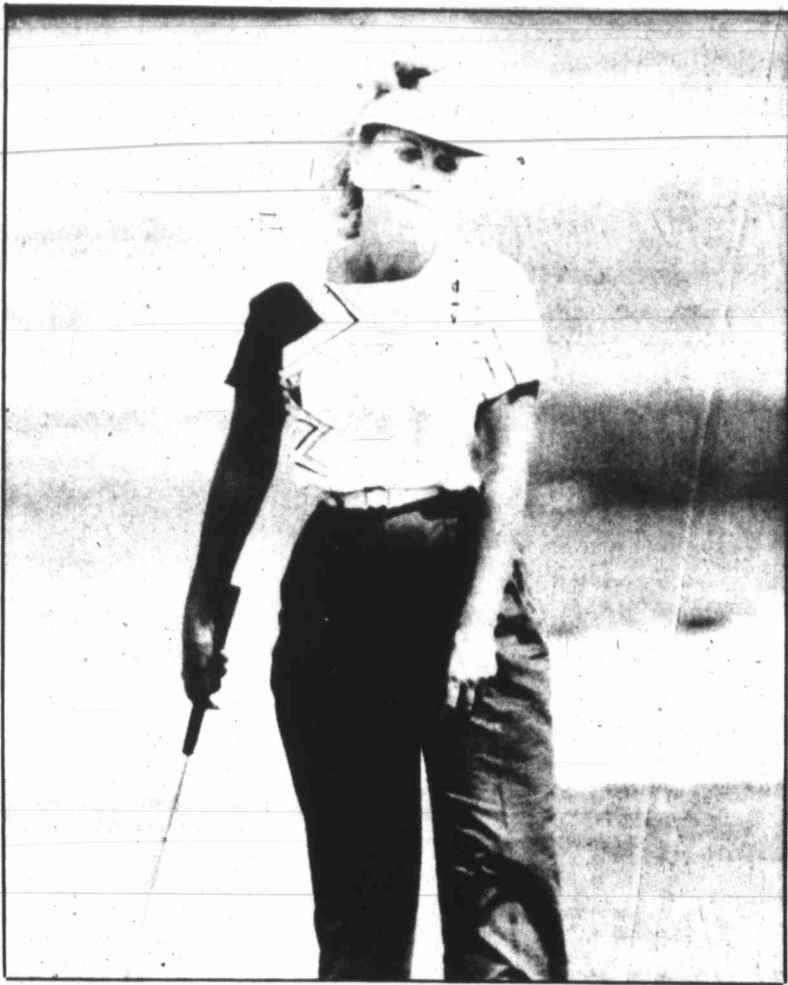

"I three-putted twice. I have never considered myself a good putter, but 32 putts today sounds good to me. If my putting was good, I could be a top 10 player."

"I thought my 6-iron at 16 was going to go in the hole, too," Morse said. "I hit about three feet past the hole, but it rolled back from the hole about eight feet. But I made the putt for a birdie."

Lopez is coming off a four-week hiatus.

"I probably needed the month off," Lopez said. "I was tired and needed a rest. I feel good and I feel strong."

Lopez hasn't won this year

BUENA PARK, Calif. — Jan Stephenson of Fort Worth, misses a birdie putt on the first hole of the first round of the MBS LPGA Classic golf tournament at Los Coyotes Country Club.

and has indicated that she intends to cut her tour appearances to about 16 tournaments next year.

"I hit the ball really well," she said. "I changed putters since the last time I played. And I made a lot of putts I haven't made in a while. I've missed a lot of putts this year, but I have been playing well, so I blamed the putter."

"Usually when I miss a short putt like that 3-footer at the sixth hole, it would really annoy me. But I feel so rested and strong that I just shook it off. You can't let the game control you. You have to control it."

McGuire started the round with birdies on four of the first seven holes.

"I had a lot of fun on the front nine today," she said. "But we were timed by tournament officials on the back nine. It throws your timing out of whack trying to keep up."

McGuire managed just one more birdie while picking up two bogeys on the final 11 holes. The purse for the four-day tournament is $325,000.

Gusting winds don't bother Hallet, Henke

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — The wind can blow all it wants, says golfer Jim Hallet, who rode a stiff breeze into a share of the opening-round lead at the B.C. Open.

Hallet and tour sophomore Nolan Henke finished the first 18 holes at the par-71 En-Joie Golf Course at turning in his best outing — a tie for 15th — since he finished sixth at the Hawaiian Open in February.

"The wind didn't really help on the par-5s. The long par-4s is where you could ride it," said Hallet, who made three of his five birdies on par-4 holes, including No. 18, which gave him a share of the lead.

Henke was first into the clubhouse at 66 after sinking medium-range birdies on the 16th and 17th holes. Henke, who finished eighth here last year, wasn't sure he could have done anything to improve on his day.

"I wasn't hitting good or solid," Henke said. "I'm just hitting them in the right direction right now."

"I was hitting on the fairway, but not real long. I was on the greens, but never really too close. I missed a couple putts that I could have made, but I made a couple that I shouldn't have. It could have been a lot worse; it couldn't have been a whole lot better."

Henke birdied two of the three par-5 holes on the frontside, including a 10-footer on No. 3.

PGA

5-under-par 66 Thursday for a one-stroke lead over Clark Burroughs, Emlyn Aubrey and Johnny Miller Jr.

Hallet teed off in the afternoon, when a strong wind made long-distance hitting an adventure on En-Joie's narrow fairways. But Hallet knows what it takes to play in the wind.

"I'm a good wind player. I was born and raised on the cape (Cape Cod), and there's a lot of wind there. You learn to use it to your advantage," said Hallet, of Yarmouth, Mass.

A "serious" breeze at the Canadian Open didn't stop Hallet from

Club opens doors to Blacks

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Blacks have been invited to join the exclusive Oak Hills Country Club, the site of next month's Texas Open. But so far there have been no takers.

Leaders of the club revealed Thursday they recently voted to add a non-discrimination statement to club bylaws. The announcement was made the same day it was reported the club has reached an out-of-court settlement to end a discrimination lawsuit brought for former NBA player Larry Kenon.

Club president John Yantis said officials began considering adding a non-discrimination clause after membership controversy shrouded the PGA Championship at Shoal Creek Country Club in Birmingham, Ala.

"For a number of months, we have been considering a change in our bylaws that would make an affirmative statement about the recruitment of minorities," Yantis said. The statement declares that the club "shall not discriminate against any person or entity on the basis of race, color, sex or national origin."

Andy Isoue, president of the San Antonio Golf Association, which organizes the Texas Open, said the PGA Tour is satisfied with Oak Hills' policies concerning minorities.

"There is no problem — there is no threat," he said. "The PGA has never said that you must have a black (member)."

Oak Hill officials said their membership does include Hispanics, Jews and women and that some blacks have played golf at the club with members. Blacks have been invited to join the club, Yantis said, but so far none has done so. He speculated that finances and a reluctance to be the first black member of a club have contributed to the lack of black members.

Names in the news

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The National Enquirer may let Lisa Bonet's lawyers look over a photographic negative of her baby daughter to prove her claim against a drugstore chain.

LISA BONET

Bonet contends the negative was sold to the tabloid by a Reseda, Calif., drugstore clerk from a roll of the actress' film brought in for developing.

The Enquirer initially refused to let lawyers see the negative, but they may now allow a peek, said William Weston, a lawyer for the American Drug Stores Inc. chain.

Bonet's attorneys said the negative will prove the clerk stole it to sell to the newspaper.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Ricky Skaggs' children get around. The country singer said Tuesday he picked up the nickname "Mr. Mom" by taking his brood of four with him on the road over the summer.

"They rode one of the top 10 roller coasters in the country at Worlds of Fun in Kansas City, saw the rodeo in Cheyenne (Wyoming) and have hit the midways at the Montana and South Dakota state fairs," Skaggs said.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Hollywood producer wants to base a TV drama on the life and times of Lamar Alexander, ex-governor turned university president.

"It would be a one-hour (weekly) story with multiple characters," producer Bernard Schwartz said Tuesday. "The center would be president of the university."

Schwartz, producer of such films as "Coal Miner's Daughter" and "Sweet Dreams," said he is trying to sell the networks on the series.

City, county face possible extra expense

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

STANTON — Martin County and the city of Stanton may be forced to haul trash to an out-of-county landfill at an estimated cost of at least $13,000 a month for as long as half a year.

At that meeting, the city-county engineer, Gary Harris of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc., Midland, said he was scheduled to meet with TDH officials today in Austin to find out if they can use the buffer zone as part of the old landfill and not have it included as part of the new landfill.

While the old landfill is being closed under current regulations, the new landfill will be operated under new regulations expected to go into effect next year. The new rules will increase post-closure monitoring from five to 30 years. Being monitored is underground

Too much of a good thing?

"We sure do like the rains, but now we don't need anymore. What we need now is for the sun to come out and dry us out," said local farmer Mike Payne.

Payne was referring to the last few days of rainfall that Martin County has been experiencing.

Paula Dryden, who resides north of Stanton, received two inches of rainfall Thursday, while Frances Biggs, west of Tarzan, and Grover Springer said they received only a small sprinkle, enough to wet the ground in some places.

Chalmer Wren, south of Stanton, managed to accumulate only half an inch and Anita Rogers of the Greenwood area received three-quarters of an inch.

Iraq expels envoys, vows to fight for victory

By JEFF DONN
Associated Press Writer

Iraq vowed today to fight to the finish against those opposing its occupation of Kuwait, and ordered the expulsions of military attaches and other envoys from the Baghdad embassies of the European Community nations.

Western diplomats said the expulsions were apparently in retaliation for similar moves by the 12-nation European Community earlier this week, which in turn were in response to raids last week by Iraqi troops on Western embassies in occupied Kuwait.

The total number of European diplomats being expelled by Iraq was not yet clear, but diplomats said it appeared at least two or three envoys from each of 11 of the 12 European Community nations would be sent packing.

Portugal is the only member of the EC without a military attache at its Baghdad embassy, and in Lisbon, Portuguese officials said today they had received no word that any of their diplomats would be expelled.

The movements of remaining diplomats at the European missions in Baghdad would be restricted to within 25 miles of the capital, the Western diplomats said. They said the European ambassadors were informed of the expulsions and restrictions on Thursday night.

Daniel Bernard, the French Foreign Ministry spokesman, described the expulsions as a new escalation by Iraq, and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher called them unjustified.

Today also brought a new outburst of fighting words from Baghdad.

Texas clean-up a success in area

The recent Great Texas Clean-up was a sweeping success, in spite of cloudy skies and pouring rain in some West Texas counties.

The headquarters for area highway department districts is in Odessa and includes 12 West Texas counties. A total of 69 volunteer groups picked up litter in Andrews, Crane, Ector, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler counties, according to the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation spokesperson Evelyn Hughes.

Any group or organization who might be interested in adopting a section of highway should contact the local office of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation at 332-0501.

More than 190 bags of trash were collected in Martin County were 195 with 8 groups participating. This was second only to Ector County, with 449 and 19 groups participating. The third highest was Midland County with 181 and 10 groups.

JVs drop defensive struggle, 6-2

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

With 4:17 left in the game, Greenwood quarterback Jeff Dunn went over tackle from one yard out to score, giving the Greenwood JVs a 6-2 victory over Stanton in Buffalo Stadium.

The Buffs got on the scoreboard first when a snap to the Greenwood punter went over his head. The punter fell on the ball in the endzone, giving the Buffalos a safety and a 2-0 lead in the first quarter.

Stanton received the free-kick from the visitors, but could not manage to move the football and kicked the ball back to Greenwood. The Rangers began to move the football on the ground and, mixing in a couple of passes, moved the ball to the Buffs' 25-yard line. The drive stopped, however, when Stanton recovered a Greenwood fumble on the next play.

The Buffalos tried to move the ball again, but the host team was forced to punt again. The Rangers got the football on their own 40-yard line and began to mount another drive. With 3:07 left in the first half, the Buffalo defense hit the Greenwood running back, causing yet another turnover. After four plays the Buffs punted the ball back to the visitors.

Dunn found his split end on the Buffalos' 30-yard line and the Rangers were back in business with less than a minute to play in the first half. With 11 seconds left, Robin Barnes snagged a Greenwood pass to stop the Rangers' threat.

The Buffs received the second half kickoff but, because of penalties, were forced to punt the ball back to the visiting team.

"We are a ball-control-type of offense. We have to keep the ball and drive it down as long as it takes us. We usually take three or four plays to get a first down. But, as long as we make these

Grady celebrates homecoming '90 tonight

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Grady High School celebrated its 1990 Homecoming this week with extracurricular activities for the students.

On Monday, GHS kicked off the week with a Freshman Slave Day as the upperclassmen bided for ninth graders and dressed up their bid. The outstanding freshmen for that day were David Gonzales and Sharon Britton.

On Tuesday Role Reversal day went off as the boys were dressed as girls and the girls were dressed up as boys. The "prettiest girl" award was won by Mike McKaskle and the "handsomest boy" was Mary Lupe Bustamante.

On Wednesday, "Jammin with the Cats" was celebrated with all students wearing jams. This contest was won by Johnny Britton and Melissa Romine.

On Thursday, the GHS students were "bummed out" with Hobo Day to celebrate. The best hobos were Cade Robertson and Crystal Adkisson.

On Friday, the freshman had their day to get even with the seniors as they had the chance to bid on the upperclassmen. The seniors with the best costume were Joel Garza and Laurie Romine.

On Thursday, the Grady public held a community pep-rally at the old gym. The students also participated in a Little Red Wagon parade, with the junior class winning with a skit of "Bury the Bulldogs." Other entries were the

Experts predict bumper crop for winter wheat

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON — Wheat farmers could be headed for another bumper wheat crop in 1991 despite a sharp increase in idled acreage, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

The land-idling requirement for 1991 was set by Congress at 15 percent of the wheat base acreage, an attempt to shrink the supply and bolster sagging market prices. For the 1990 crop, the idling requirement was 5 percent.

Producers must participate in the land-idling program to qualify for government price supports and deficiency payments.

Figures supplied Thursday by the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service showed that if yields hold to their recent trend, total U.S. wheat production in 1991 could be around 2.4 billion bushels.

That would be down from this year's near-record of nearly 2.76 billion bushels, the biggest output since the early 1980s.

But at the reduced level of 2.4 billion bushels, the 1991 crop would still be at a six-year high, except for the 1990 harvest.

Agreement on a 15 percent wheat set-aside came during a conference on Wednesday between House and Senate negotiators trying to settle differences on respective farm bills passed this summer.

Some pressure had developed for an even higher 1991 idling requirement, and Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter earlier had tentatively announced it would be in the range of 10 percent to 20 percent.

However, Yeutter had indicated a final decision would have to wait on final passage of the farm bill.

On Thursday morning, Yeutter followed up on the House and Senate conferees' action by announcing he intended to put a 15 percent reduction into effect. The information was needed, he said, so winter wheat farmers know how much to plant this fall.

Gilley's meets wrecking ball

PASADENA (AP) — Gilley's, once the center of the urban cowboy craze but closed after a courtroom battle and then devastated by arson, is being razed.

Bulldozers on Thursday began grinding through the twisted remains of the 70,000-square-foot warehouse-like building. But the rodeo arena and recording studio will be spared from demolition.

"It's sad to see, it hurts to see it," said Audrey Ricio, one of several people who gathered near the club for one last look.

A fire ravaged the legendary honky-tonk in July. A juvenile was arrested a few days after the blaze and is scheduled to go on trial this month on an arson charge, according to the Pasadena fire marshal's office.

Iraqi television interrupted a comedy film to announce that Baghdad would fight to a "final victory" rather than retreat from Kuwait, which it overran seven weeks ago.

"With deep faith, we think that there will be no wavering or change in our objective on our march toward victory," the statement said.

Iraq bitterly attacked nations that have enforced the United Nations-approved economic embargo against Iraq.

"They have reached in their meanness to a degree where they cut off from the great people its supply of food and medicine, and from the children their milk," the statement said. "Oh, what dwarfs and small people they are."

In Brussels, the European Community Commission today proposed extending the embargo to include services such as transportation, construction work, engineering, and consulting. A Commission official said the plan was submitted to EC governments, which could approve it within a week.

Meanwhile, the Iraqis today said two unidentified warplanes flying from Saudi Arabia penetrated up to six miles into Iraqi airspace Thursday before turning back.

A U.S. military spokesman in the gulf region, Navy Capt. Michael Sherman, said no U.S. aircraft had violated Iraqi airspace. There was no immediate comment from Saudi Arabian authorities.

It was the third violation of Iraqi airspace reported by Baghdad since the United States began its military buildup in Saudi Arabia.

In New Delhi, officials said Iraq will allow Indian air force planes to land in its territory to some of the tens of thousands of Indians still stranded in Iraq and Kuwait.

About a third of the 190,000 Indians trapped by the invasion have been repatriated, officials said. Speaking on condition of anonymity, the officials said India hopes to operate four flights daily between New Delhi and the Iraqi town of Basra.

In another development, U.S. officials said Iraq has asked Iran if the two countries can join their oil pipelines, a move that would allow Iraq's Saddam Hussein to partly bypass the U.N.-ordered international embargo against his country.

Iran has not yet responded to the Iraqi request, which would let Iraq export 500,000 barrels of oil a day in return for badly needed cash, food and medicine, said the officials, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Intelligence experts estimate a link between the two pipeline systems could be completed within a month across the countries' common border.

The reported Iraqi request is the latest overture by Saddam toward Iran.

Despite signs that Iraq is feeling the international pressure, Saddam was quoted Thursday as saying Iraq could hold out for "five or six" years against the trade embargo.

water, methane gas, surface drainage and erosion.

"It's going to be a great expense," Lee said of the increased monitoring. He said the new rules may be passed in January, according to information he has heard.

Lee said it will take two weeks to two months for Stanton and Martin County officials to finish the application for a new landfill permit. Thirty days will then be allowed for other agencies to review it. A notice would then be published in a newspaper and another thirty days allowed for public comment.

If citizens desire a hearing, then it would take 120 days for a final decision, he said. If no hearing is held, a decision could be made in only 60 days. Lee added that there is now a two to three month backlog in scheduling hearing examiners.

According to estimates compiled by Parkhill, Smith & Cooper Inc. in October, it would cost about $9,057 a month to collect and haul trash to the landfill in Midland, the closest city accepting trash, in addition to landfill fees.

Dumping charges at Midland are $11 per ton. Using the TDH estimate of one ton of trash per person per year and preliminary 1990

Census figures of 4,946 population in Martin County, the cost of hauling trash would be $54,408 a year, or $4,534 monthly.

Lively said he is working on compiling a current estimate of hauling costs. "We're going to try to have something worked out for the next Council meeting," he said. The next meeting is Oct. 9.

So far the county has paid about $191,000 and the city $170,000 in engineering and construction fees to close the landfill and open a new one. Harris said $141,000 has been spent in construction to close the landfill, which is 95 percent closed. Another $49,000 was used to build a fence for the new landfill.

On Monday, commissioners and councilmen also agreed to authorize a $2,884 bid by American Fence to repair a section of fence, including replacing two posts. They also discussed seeding the old landfill to create a grass cover. That could run about $2,000, Harris said.

But Precinct 4 Commissioner E.D. Holcomb said he would check to see if the county could do the seeding at a cheaper rate. "I'd rather go out there with a hand seeder and see what Mother Nature can do rather than spend money," he said.

Bufs

type of mistakes — getting unnecessary penalties that stop our drives — we are going to be in trouble," said Buffalo junior varsity coach Rob Young.

Greenwood got the ball back and set up shop at the Bufs' 49-yard line to began another drive. Again the Stanton defense came through, recovering another Greenwood fumble. As the third quarter came to a close the Buffalos still led 2-0.

In the fourth quarter, Greenwood began a drive deep in its territory and began to move the ball downfield. The Rangers drove the ball 66 yards and, from the one, Dunn scored the winning touchdown. The two-point play failed, but Greenwood led 6-2.

With less than three minutes left in the contest, the Buffalos mounted their last drive from their won 37-yard line. Lorenzo Marquez and Jay Huckaby moved the ball downfield for a first down. Facing a fourth down and 16 from the 49-yard line of Stanton, Huckaby found David Carby on Greenwood 35-yard line to keep the Bufs' victory hopes alive with 1:15 left.

Marquez ran for another first down to the Ranger 16-yard line, but without any timeouts, the clock ran out and Greenwood escaped with a 6-2 win.

"We worked hard this week on our passing game, but with the weather being the way it was, we could not pass. This Greenwood team is a good team and they have beaten some good teams. Our kids played their hearts out and they should be proud of the way they played. I know I am," said Young.

He added, "On defense Drew (Harbison) and Jay (Huckaby) played well and on offense, Lorenzo (Marquez), David (Carby) and Brad Barnhill played extremely well after Ricky Lucas was hurt and had to go out of the ballgame. Ricky is at the hospital and we don't know the extent of his injury at this point."

Wheat

The department's ASCS, which administers commodity programs, said the 15 percent reduction would probably reduce harvested wheat acres in 1991 by 5 million to 7 million acres from this year's 69.9 million acres.

According to the agency, wheat farmers may idle a total of about 12 million acres under the 1991 program. That would compare with around 7 million acres signed up for idling this year.

One ASCS official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said a 1991 harvest of 2.4 billion bushels would "pretty much break even" with projected use of wheat in the 1991-92 marketing year that will begin next June 1.

No major changes in export trade or domestic use were considered in drawing up the long-range projections, he said. The U.S. wheat supply would hold fairly steady under those assumptions.

Earlier this month, a USDA supply-and-demand analysis showed the U.S. wheat stockpile could rise to 936 million bushels by June 1, compared with 535 million bushels at the beginning of the marketing year last June 1.

The increase in unused stockpiles, of course, is due mostly to this year's bumper harvest.

As a result, wheat prices have tumbled sharply. The Sept. 12 report said farmers nationally may see an average of $2.55 to $2.85 per bushel over the 12 months of the current marketing year. That would be down from $3.72.

In a related report Thursday, the department's Economic Research Service said that despite the lower commodity prices recently, its Aug. 29 forecast for record farm income is still valid.

"Recent commodity market developments point to lower season-average prices for corn, wheat and milk in 1990-91 than were expected a month ago," the report said. "However, these changes will have offsetting effects on U.S. farm incomes, and most of the impacts will be felt next calendar year."

Tour makes case for black colleges in South

DALLAS (AP) — Michelle Clark, 17, said she was deeply stirred as she recently strolled across the campus of Tougaloo College in Tougaloo, Miss.

"I really felt something when the guide told us that this was the land where slaves worked and died and the administration building was the slave master's house," said Miss Clark.

Miss Clark, a junior at Kimball High School in Dallas, was among 33 Dallas area high school and junior high students who toured 11 African-American colleges in five Southern states in August.

The tour, sponsored by the Psi Chapter of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority Inc. in Dallas, was designed to interest African-American students in attending one of the nation's 117 traditionally African-American colleges or universities.

Admissions officials at those colleges say student interest in the schools is rising and enrollment is increasing.

"More and more middle- to upper-income families are exposing their kids to what the black schools have to offer, not just in academics but in other social and cultural aspects," said Hugh For- dyce, research director of the United Negro College Fund in Atlanta.

Enrollment at UNCF schools rose from 43,984 students in 1987 to 48,233 in 1989, an increase of about 10 percent, according to the fund's records. During about the same period, the enrollment of African-American students at predominantly white colleges and universities increased only four percent, according to the U.S. Department of Education.

Tougaloo College was opened for freed slaves in 1869 on the site of a former Mississippi plantation. The college, which has 946 students, emphasizes its image as a small, intimate school that offers students individual attention.

Tour coordinator Juanda Wallace, vice president of the Psi chapter, said several of the teenagers told her that the visits gave them a new outlook about preparing for college. Some said they will consider attending a historically African-American school.

"We wanted them to see that these colleges are out there, that they are thriving and doing well. We wanted to reacquaint them with their heritage," said Ms. Wallace, a Dallas school district librarian. The students toured Jackson

State University in Jackson, Miss., and Tougaloo College in Tougaloo. In Atlanta, they visited Morehouse, Spelman, Morris Brown colleges and Clark-Atlanta University. They also visited Alabama State University in Montgomery, Dillard University in New Orleans, Southern University in Baton Rouge, La., Texas Southern University in Houston and Prairie View A&M University in Prairie View, Texas.

Ms. Wallace said the visits "made an impression" on the students. Willie Johnson, 15, a sophomore at South Oak Cliff High School, said after the tour, "Now I know what black college I want to go to."

He had considered Grambling State University in Grambling, La., he said. But now he's leaning toward Southern University in Baton Rouge.

Miss Clark, the Kimball High junior, said the tour helped her realize that there is more to college than the fictional glamour of "A Different World," a popular television program about college life.

"Everybody thinks of Hillman College from 'A Different World' when they think about a black college," said Miss Clark. "On TV, it seems you can do whatever you want. But I now see that you really have to work, maybe harder than I thought. It's not like on TV."

She said Tougaloo's small campus attracted her because it differed from the large public schools she had attended. Tougaloo recruiter Stephen Smith told the students that class sizes range from five to 25 students.

"I like the idea of seven people in a class and not 500," said Miss Clark.

The students received a healthful dose of heritage at Tougaloo, as at the other campuses. "Tougaloo is very Afro-centric," Smith said.

Recruiters stressed to the students the importance of preparing for and taking college entrance tests. The advice stuck with the students. After one frank talk by an admissions counselor, one exasperated student remarked, "I KNEW I should have taken that ACT (American College Testing) exam."

Jackson State president James Hefner briefed students on the school's academic and athletic programs, then gave some fatherly advice: "You have to grow up fast. And if you don't grow up fast, you don't stay around very long."

GOP takes advantage of free mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey by a no-new-taxes group on the use of free mail privileges in the House of Representatives shows Texas Republicans generally use the perk more than Democrats.

But the survey released Thursday is far from comprehensive, said the National Taxpayers Union, which advocates reform of the mailing privilege. And aides to Texas congressmen who rank high on the list said its analysis is unfair.

"That survey is so far off and so unrepresentative of what goes out of members' offices, it's, to me, extremely unfair they would publish something like that," said Trish Brink, spokeswoman for Rep. Tom DeLay, R-Sugar Land. "What they were trying to do was certainly admirable ... but there's no way they can give an accurate reflection."

DeLay ranked No. 2 among the 27-member delegation in number of pieces sent in mass mailings last year.

House members, unlike senators, don't have to disclose how much mail they send from their offices. So the National Taxpayers Union decided to take a stab at it.

The group gathered the most information it could from the Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards, but it wasn't much, said James Davidson, president.

The commission only tracks mailings that are sent to every address in a congressional district. Not included are letters individually addressed, either by typewriter or computer label. Those are also sent at no cost, a practice called franking.

The group said many members forsake the commission by not sending blanket mailings. Instead, they use elaborate address lists or target special groups, like veterans or senior citizens.

For instance, the group said Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, never sent a blanket mailing to every household in his South Texas district last year. But the congressman sends newsletters weekly to about 600 constituents and others, one of his aides said.

"All these members who don't go through franking or whose files do not include everything they mail out, they're not going to call the National Taxpayers Union and say 'Gee, I sent out a lot more mail,'" Ms. Brink said.

"We wouldn't be surprised if some members of the House of Representatives are spending nearly $700,000 to $800,000 in 1989 and 1990 just for direct printing and postage costs alone," said David Keating, executive vice president of the National Taxpayers Union.

The free mail perk lets allows incumbents to publicly finance their re-election campaigns, Keating said.

"The average incumbent spends more on the frank than the average challenger spends on his entire election campaign," he said.

Members of the group stood in front of a tractor-trailer truck at the Capitol to announce their findings. They said the truck could be filled with the amount of mail House members send to constituents in a single day.

A Congressional Research Service study released earlier this year estimated House postage costs will top $136 million for 1989 and 1990.

The taxpayers group said the Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards had records on an 215 million newsletter mailings in 1989, at an estimated cost of $30 million.

Texas Republicans appear to favor such mass mailings more than Democrats.

Of the Texas delegation, Rep. Dick Armey, R-Copper Canyon, sent the greatest number of pieces in mass mailings.

He sent about 1.6 million newsletters and 410,000 postcards in 1989, the group said. Armey's district, which includes Arlington, Denton and part of Fort Worth, is the nation's most populous.
