Budget deal begins to come together

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congressional and White House bargainers are near a $500 billion budget deal, but lingering differences over new taxes on the rich mean that wide-scale slashes in federal programs still loom for Monday.

More than four months of talks have brought tentative agreements to cut defense and domestic programs and raise the government's take on items ranging from gasoline to Medicare premiums.

officials familiar with the talks said Thursday.

But at nearly 1:30 a.m. today, negotiators broke for the evening, saying they could not yet shake hands on a pact.

"So close and yet we're not quite there," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., as he and other bargainers ended their back-room meeting in the Capitol.

The major question remained whether Democrats would finally agree to a reduction in the capital gains tax — a longtime demand of President Bush — and which levies on the wealthy would be boosted to compensate.

"We're still working on all of that," said House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

Without a budget deal, federal drug agents, nurses at veterans' hospitals, and many of the government's 2.1 million civilian workers faced furloughs beginning Monday.

The lack of an agreement would trigger $85 billion in spending cuts. Social Security, soldiers' salaries and many initiatives for the poor are exempted, but most federal programs faced immediate budget slashes of about one-third.

At the talks, Republicans were willing to abandon the president's insistence to lower the rates of the capital gains tax, which is charged against the profits of property sales, officials said.

Instead, they were willing to leave current rates alone and exempt from the levy increases in the value of an asset due to inflation.

But insistent that most benefits of the tax cut would go to the wealthy, Democrats were holding out for a counter-balancing tax increase on the well-to-do.

Several options were under consideration, including raising tax rates on the richest Americans and limiting their deductions.

A rate increase would represent a significant political victory for Democrats over Bush, whose 1988 campaign is best remembered for his chant of "No new taxes."

The two sides have tentatively agreed that friendly, helpful service was one of the keys to keeping customers.

Iranians protest U.S. troops in Gulf

By JEFF DONN
Associated Press Writer

Millions of Iranians staged anti-American demonstrations today, chanting "Death To America" and denouncing the U.S.-led forces deployed in the Persian Gulf in the standoff with Iraq, according to a news report.

Tehran radio, monitored in Nicosia, covered the protest in the Iranian capital live from the streets. It said others were held across the nation.

A reporter said the demonstrations were "an opportunity for the nation to announce its stance on the attack on Kuwait, followed by the U.S. forces' hasty departure to take up positions in Saudi Arabia."

Iran has condemned Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, but it has deplored the U.S.-led multinational forces sent to protect Saudi Arabia and enforce a U.N.-imposed embargo against Baghdad.

However, it has said it is cooperating with the embargo. And on Thursday, Britain and Iran suddenly announced the restoration of diplomatic ties. They were severed after the late Ayatollah Khomeini's death decree against author Salman Rushdie for his book "The Satanic Verses."

In Paris, representatives of the United States and 20 industrialized nations met behind closed doors to discuss how to replenish oil supplies if they are depleted by the gulf crisis.

Jitters over the crisis sent stocks plunging on major markets.

Stock prices dropped to the lowest point in 3½ years in Tokyo today, and analysts blamed fear of war in the Middle East, high interest rates and climbing oil prices.

In New York, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials plunged 43.83 points to 2,383.66 in the first half-hour of trading. The key barometer has shed 600 points, or just 20 percent in value, in the past six weeks.

The U.S. government said today that its main economic forecasting gauge declined 1.2 percent in August following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the steepest drop in three years.

The Commerce Department's Index of Leading Economic Indicators had been unchanged in July. Since the invasion, however, consumer confidence and the stock market have plunged, hurting an already sluggish economy.

Oil hit $40 a barrel Thursday, exactly eight weeks after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein sent his troops into Kuwait and increased his share of world oil reserves to 20 percent. Oil sold for $22 per barrel before the invasion.

Kuwait's exiled emir, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmad al-Jaber al-Sabah, was to meet today with President Bush in Washington. The White House invitation underscored the U.S. view that the emir is still the legitimate ruler of Kuwait.

Spain and South Korea said they were withdrawing envoys from their embassies in Kuwait following a day of angry protests from Western governments over Iraq's efforts to intimidate foreign diplomats in Baghdad.

For the past five weeks, Iraqi soldiers have been trying to starve diplomats out of their compounds in Kuwait. At last word, the U.S. ambassador and envoys in more than a dozen other embassies were still holding out. The Iraqi forces

More than 100 people attended Thursday's Public Forum to discuss the issue of how to keep shopping dollars in Big Spring. Most agreed that friendly, helpful service was one of the keys to keeping customers.

By PATRICK DRISCOLL

The need for a varied product selection and improved communication between customers and store owners seemed to be issues on which most people could agree at Thursday night's public forum.

Otherwise, there were conflicting comments on differences in prices and the quality of service by local businesses at the "Not Shopping in Big Spring? Tell Us Why!" forum at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum's East Room.

More than 100 people attended the forum in which issues were raised by a six-member panel of consumers and a seven-member panel of merchants.

The forum is an effort to find out why up to 44 percent of county residents' $332.6 million in effective buying power in 1989 was spent out of the county, according to figures in a Dec. 31, 1989, study by Sales and Marketing Management, New York. A 1988 study by the same company indicated that up to 11 percent of buying was done outside of the county, said Nancy Brownfield of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Though there were disagreements last night, most comments were positive.

"Of course we haven't solved any momentous problems but we communicated," said consumer panelist Karen Wingert.

"As far as broad strokes, I don't know that we learned anything striking. They (consumers) re-emphasized a lot of things," said Cliff Attaway, manager of Dunlap's department store and a member of Leadership Big Spring Alumni. "I would say we got a lot of valuable input that we as merchants can do something about."

Firefighters respond to calls

Big Spring Fire Department units responded to two calls Thursday. A reported fire at 3239 Duke St. was discovered to be a false alarm and trucks were alerted en route.

Shortly after 3:30 p.m., firefighters responded to an attic blaze in an abandoned structure at 207 Algerita. The fire caused a reported $1,000 in damage.

Firefighters were able to extinguish the fire quickly, returning to headquarters in under one hour. The cause of the fire is under investigation, said Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles.

Social Security hours may be cut

If no agreement is reached by Washington, D.C. budget negotiators, all Social Security offices will be forced to reduce office hours effective Monday, said Gloria Jean Hopkins, Big Spring branch manager.

The Gramm-Rudman plan, which automatically goes into effect if satisfactory budget requirements are not met, would mandate the reduced hours, she said.

Until further notice, Social Security offices will be open from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and closed on Friday. The reduction in services will affect more than 1300 local field offices as well as 37 national facilities that provide toll-free telephone service, the office reported.

Lake Ivie opens for recreational use

Lake O.H. Ivie, located southwest of Ballinger, will open tomorrow for recreation with the water level at 1,509 feet above sea level.

The lake rose 16.3 feet in the last 10 days due to rains, reported Colorado River Municipal Water District Manager Joe Pickle. Recreation areas will be open as well as an observation point near the dam, he said.

Boating, swimming, picnicking and fishing will be allowed from 7:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day at the lake, which now covers more than seven square miles with more than 84,000 acre-feet of water, Pickle said. Overnight camping is not yet allowed.

Protest shanty damaged by fire

AUSTIN (AP) — A shanty built on the University of Texas campus as a symbol of protest sustained minor damage when someone burned two holes in the makeshift structure, officials said.

The shanty was erected earlier this month as a call for cultural diversity at UT-Austin.

A student discovered two walls of the shanty burning and reported the fire to campus police and the Austin Fire Department at 2:43 a.m. Thursday.

The fire, which was extinguished by the time firefighters arrived, burned a hole in each of the two walls, UT police said. They estimated damage at $20.

Operation Oasis at one-fifth of goal

By DEBBIE LINCUM

Local support for Operation Oasis — sending a note with a Coke to U.S. soldiers in Saudi Arabia — continues as local organizations, businesses and schools give their contributions toward the city-wide goal of 10,000 cases.

"We're over 2,000 cases total," said 7-Eleven field manager Ray Lara, adding that the city was still far ahead of Lubbock in collections. Lubbock mayor B.C. McMinn had issued a challenge to Big Spring to collect more cases of the soft drink.

Big Spring Police officers, firefighters and high school students joined Howard College, Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf and Elbow Elementary School to donate money and Coke during the past two weeks, Lara said.

Big Spring Police Department officers and staff gathered funds to make a mass donation. They bought 23 cases, which will be matched by the Police Officers Association.

"That puts them neck-and-neck with the Fire Department," said 7-Eleven field manager Ray Lara. ● OASIS page 10-A

Hance: Oil could hit $50 in two weeks

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Texas' top oil regulator says crude oil prices could reach $50 a barrel within two weeks.

And if war breaks out in the Middle East, the price could jump to $75 per 42-gallon barrel, Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance said.

"I think that the market is so psychologically driven right now — with the thoughts of war and its inevitability — that you're going to see it go up," Hance said Thursday in an interview with The Associated Press.

The Railroad Commission regulates oil and gas production in Texas, and Hance has been an observer at meetings of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Hance said he based his $50 prediction on market reaction since Bush announced on Wednesday an order to tap 5 million barrels of oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Although Bush said he wanted to combat escalating prices, Hance said, the president's announcement doesn't appear to have had that effect.

In trading Thursday on the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for near-month delivery of West Texas Intermediate oil, the benchmark U.S. grade, rose 87 cents to close at a record $39.54. "I didn't think that we'd hit $50 until President Bush made his announcement," Hance said. "That should have made the markets go down."

"But traders worldwide are looking at it as if he's testing the strategic reserve for war, to make sure it works," Hance said.

"It should have hurt the market. But the market is so strong, it continued to go up even with that bearish news," he said. "That tells you this market has not seen its top."

"Oil prices might not rise to $50 if Bush opens more of the strategic reserve, Hance said.

Oil prices have risen steadily since the Iraqi army overran Kuwait two months ago.

Saying he believes there still is a 70 percent chance of war, Hance said a peaceful settlement of the Mideast crisis could see oil prices fall back to the $21 to $25 per barrel range.

Hance said the higher prices were a "mixed blessing" for Texas.

"I think it will create some new drilling activity. Anyone who has a project that will make money above $20 a barrel will start those projects. But it's still not good overall for the Texas or U.S. economy for it to get this high," he said.

"But certainly, we have more revenues for the state. Royalty owners and producers are going to see their checks today double what they were two months ago."

Soldiers from Fort Hood, Fort Bliss deployed

FORT HOOD (AP) — The first group of as many as 20,000 soldiers from Fort Hood, along with more than 4,000 troops from Fort Bliss, are en route to Saudi Arabia, with some fearful and others optimistic about their combat roles.

About 1,400 Fort Hood soldiers left throughout the day Thursday in a process that could take weeks, the Army said. The process continues today at the sprawling Central Texas post.

"It's proceeding," said base spokeswoman Liz Crossan. "Troops are leaving on a regular basis almost every day until they're all deployed."

Three chartered commercial jets departed from Robert Gray Army Airfield at Fort Hood, beginning about noon, after soldiers clad in desert camouflage boarded the flights in single file.

"I'm a little bit frightened," Spec. 4 Marta Wagner of Houston said before her departure. "But I'm also very confident, and that's a winning combination."

Soldiers boarded the Hawaiian and Northwest Airlines and Pan American World Airways jets to the music of a military band. The Army said additional chartered planes were expected to leave every few hours with more Buck of Milwaukee. "No stupid accidents, and we're not really stressing anything about fighting.

We're ready, but we don't think it's gonna happen." A sign near the entrance to the airfield read: "Saddam, you ain't seen pain yet, but it's coming." The sign referred to Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, who orchestrated the invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

"If you don't have fear, you're not human," said Pfc. George Flatman of Las Vegas. "I'm a little scared. My family's scared. They're trying to find out what's going on. I'm just taking it day by day."

Commercial jets were used for deployment to enable Air Force planes to transport equipment and supplies, said Maj. Jesse Seigal at Fort Hood.

"It just makes more sense to bring in some additional assets to carry the soldiers themselves," he said.

Some signs at the airfield sported the logos of the 2nd Armored Division and the 1st Cavalry. Another read, "Soldiers, we all love you."

The flights last 19 to 24 hours, with two refueling stops before arriving in Saudi Arabia.

M-1 tanks and Bradley fighting vehicles already have been transported on airplanes or taken to ports for the U.S. troop buildup in support of Operation Desert Shield.

On Thursday, two more Army Reserve units were activated for support of the Mideast operation.

Man abducts, molests 14-year-old girl

DALLAS (AP) — Authorities are trying to determine whether the abduction and molestation of a 14-year-old girl in a north Dallas neighborhood Thursday night is related to several similar attacks in the area since last November.

Police say there are similarities in the latest case and six others in far north Dallas, northeast Dallas and suburban Richardson.

But the biggest difference, police say, is that Thursday's victim is older than the earlier girls. The oldest previous victim was 12 years old, but most have been 7 to 9.

The 14-year-old girl told police she was asleep shortly after midnight when a man woke her by pulling on her arm.

Police didn't say how he got into the house, but said he slipped through the house without awakening her parents, as the intruder in the previous attacks has done.

In the other cases, the man entered through unlocked doors or windows.

The girl said she was blindfolded, led out the back door, then taken across the street to the back yard of a neighbor's home, police said.

In several of the other cases, the molester assaulted the victims in neighbors' yards.

The girl said the man told her, "I do not have a girlfriend... and I want to have sex with you," police told the Dallas Times Herald.

After the man removed her underpants, the girl said she pulled away, yanked off the blindfold and ran to a nearby house. A man who answered the door found her naked and called police.

Police said the girl didn't see the suspect because it was dark.

Pipeline bill gets start

WASHINGTON (AP) — Companies with pipelines in the Gulf of Mexico will have to inspect and mark them under legislation now in Congress.

The subcommittee on surface transportation of the Public Works and Transportation Committee approved the bill in a seven-minute meeting Thursday.

The vote occurred nearly a year after a fishing vessel struck a pipeline in the Gulf near Sabine Pass and exploded, killing 11.

But lawmakers indicated the bill had little chance of passage before Congress adjourns next month. The federal budget and other legislation top Congress' agenda.

Rep. Greg Laughlin, D-West Columbia, said the issue is important enough to be taken up again.

The head of the panel that approved the bill agreed. "I plan to look at the matter more closely next year," said Rep. Norman Mineta, D-Calif., who chairs the subcommittee.

More oil from reserve to be sold

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is moving to give President Bush authority to conduct a bigger "test" sale from the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve. Energy Secretary James Watkins provided the opening Thursday for a second release of oil from the stockpile without forcing the declaration of an energy emergency by saying the 5-million-barrel sale Bush ordered a day earlier is too small to test the system.

Recalling that the administration just two weeks ago had threatened to veto a larger test sale, Rep. Phil Sharp, D-Ind., asked Watkins at a hearing by House Energy and Commerce subcommittees how large a test he would like.

"Three times the (5 million) number is the number," the secretary replied. "We want to run half a million barrels a day to test the system."

Bill to pay radiation victims passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uranium miners and Western residents who lost their health from exposure to nuclear weapons tests would get a formal apology and compensation under legislation headed to President Bush's desk.

The House on Thursday approved a bill that authorizes $100 million for a Radiation Exposure Trust Fund to pay people who developed cancer from either mining uranium or because they lived downwind of the Nevada test site for the atomic bomb.

The Senate passed the bill previously.

"We are here saying that as a nation in the dangerous and difficult post-war period we were confronted with a brand new technology," said Rep. Barney

Frank, D-Mass., who led debate on the bill before the vote. "Feeling very much threatened and needing that technology for our defense, we acted hastily."

He said residents in the test area were exposed to levels of radiation "we would not allow now. Miners were sent into the mines without even the slightest protection against the material they were being asked to mine."

People with cancer who lived in Nevada, Arizona or Utah downwind from nuclear testing between 1951 and 1958, or between June and July 1962, would be eligible for compensation under the legislation.

Further legislation is needed to appropriate the money to actually pay the victims if this bill becomes law.

Ordeal ends with gunman killed

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Hostages of a schizophrenic who hated Americans and claimed to hear voices endured seven hours of bizarre conversations and gunfire in a hotel bar.

They also saw one of the hostages killed and seven other people wounded before the gunman died in an explosion of police bullets.

"When he took a head count of us he started counting his rounds as well," said Doug Moore, among 33 people held by Mehrdad Dashti. "He watched every single move. Every time someone moved, he flinched." Dashti, 30, commandeered

Bye bye Allies

WEST BERLIN — The three city commandants, American Maj. Gen. Raymond E. Haddock, left, British Gen. Maj. Robert J.S. Corbett, center, and French General de Division Francois Cann join hands during a farewell ceremony Thursday in front of the checkpoint Bravo, the former border between West Berlin and East Germany. With German unification on October 3, the Allies give up their sovereignty.

Regulations to limit 900 phone service proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A computer-generated telephone call tells an 11-year-old boy he can win a trip and a prize if he dials a 900 long-distance number and answers the question: "What is the name of Batman's car?"

He gets confused when he calls the number and keeps dialing repeatedly. He gets nothing. Mom gets a $120 phone bill.

A TV ad asks kids to call Santa Claus using a 900 number. The callers then are told that Santa is in the bathroom, so they should call back later. No Santa. Big phone bills.

Rep. Bart Gordon, D-Tenn., cited these and other "horror stories" Thursday while urging the House telecommunications subcommittee to adopt his bill to impose strict federal regulations on the burgeoning 900-number audiotext industry.

Gordon said "$120 is not as much as some have lost on these services, but it is more than many people have for such nonsense."

There is a lot of money to be made in 900 calling, said the subcommittee's chairman, Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass. He said the industry had revenues of $480 million in 1989 and is expected to double that this year. By 1992 it is expected to be a $3.2 billion industry, he said.

Most of the audiotext industry is legitimate, witnesses said. But they said companies that impose excessive charges and use deceptive ads for games of chance, sex talk, easy credit pitches and chats with Santa Claus are creating the prospect that a few renegades will kill off a valuable public service.

Markey cited examples of consumers being duped into calling a 900 number "to obtain a pre-approved credit card or to claim nonexistent prizes—only to receive a message to call yet another 900 number at a cost of up to $25 per call."

Gordon's bill, among other things, would require free blocking of 900 numbers; free introductory messages describing the service; clearly stated charges and billing procedures; and a one-time opportunity to stop charges incurred through misunderstandings or unauthorized use.

The Federal Communications Commission would be given oversight of the audiotext industry.

"It is my view that 900-number services have the potential to be the telemarketing consumer fraud problem of the 1990s," said Daniel Clearfield, executive deputy in the Pennsylvania state attorney general's office.

Ken McElDowney, executive director for San Francisco-based Consumer Action of California, said a national survey by his group concluded that "most advertised 900 numbers are unfair at any price."

Names of Stasi unit to be revealed

EAST BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Parliament decided today to go out of business in a blaze of candor by revealing the names of lawmakers who worked for the Communist secret police.

Lawmakers voted overwhelmingly to instruct a commission investigating the former security apparatus to disclose the names of former agents it has compiled. The names were to be released later today.

A member of the committee, lawmaker Peter Hildebrand, said 56 lawmakers or ministers in the current government were informally employed by the secret police unit, known as the Stasi.

The meeting of the 400-member Parliament was the second to last before the nation unites with West Germany on Tuesday and East Germany's government ceases to exist.

"This Parliament must not go down in history as the Stasi Parliament," said lawmaker Marianne Birthler.

Mulroney tries to add new senators

OTTAWA (AP) — Opposition leaders say they'll try to stop Prime Minister Britain Mulroney's move to pack the Canadian Senate with eight new members in an attempt to ram through a proposed 7 percent sales tax.

While manufacturers say the new tax would replace one that hurts their competitiveness with imports, Liberal leader Jean Chretien said Thursday that Canadians will not back Mulroney, whose popularity has dipped sharply in polls.

"When you are 15 percent in the polls and taking an abuse of power and stacking the Senate, he might find that he will not go very far politically with that," said Chretien.

Mulroney used an obscure constitutional provision to seat the new senators of his Conservative Party late Thursday after receiving permission from Queen Elizabeth II. The new members take their seats next week.

The appointees, who serve until age 75, bring the Senate to 112 seats. Mulroney's party now has 54 seats, just three short of a majority.

Consumers, already paying 8 percent to 10 percent in provincial sales taxes, are horrified at the prospect of seeing higher taxes on their purchases, plumbing bills, haircuts and music lessons.

But manufacturers favor the new 7 percent tax because it would replace a 13 percent levy on Canadian industries.

Murder trial ends in convictions

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — A court today convicted 16 soldiers in the murder of President Corazon Aquino's husband but failed to say who ordered the assassination which set the stage for the 1986 revolution.

The impact of the decision was further clouded by the court's acquittal of 20 people in the 1983 slaying of Sen. Benigno "Ninoy" Aquino, the country's top opposition leader at the time.

Other defendants, including a former military chief of staff, have fled the country to avoid prosecution.

The verdict in the 3½-year trial was announced on the first an-anniversary of the death of the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos, who many Filipinos believe ordered the Aquino's slaying.

Airlift, sealift move too slow

The Pentagon boasts that it moved more men, machines and supplies in the first three weeks of Operation Desert Shield than in the first three months of the Korean War. All the same, the crisis in the Persian Gulf has demonstrated convincingly that the armed services' airlift and sealift capacity is woefully inadequate to meet the critical needs of America's fighting forces.

This vulnerability is best illustrated by the hapless situation of the Army's 1st Cavalry Division and 2nd Armored Division, both of which are equipped with the latest heavy armored vehicles. The two divisions were ordered to Saudi Arabia in mid-August. Yet, a month later, these key divisions remain stranded in Fort Hood, Texas. The Pentagon says there are not enough ships to transport the heavy armor halfway around the globe.

Similar snafus abound. For instance, the 24th Mechanized Infantry Division went several weeks without vital equipment because three cargo ships carrying the hardware broke down en route to Saudi Arabia. To replace these vessels and add to the military's sealift capacity, the Pentagon is negotiating to lease foreign ships.

There is also the enormous problem of unloading equipment and heavy arms when they eventually arrive in Saudi Arabia. In response to a reporter's question, a senior Pentagon official acknowledged it will take at least one month to deploy each armored division after it arrives in Saudi Arabia. This is because U.S. forces lack the unloading facilities and training required to transfer the equipment from ship to shore rapidly.

Meanwhile, as the United States slowly builds up its forces in the Persian Gulf, Iraq is moving to strengthen its forces in Kuwait and elsewhere along the Saudi border. The United States has been extremely fortunate, in fact, that Saddam Hussein has been so accommodating. If he had decided to invade Saudi Arabia soon after President Bush first dispatched forces to the gulf, the result could have been an American Dunkirk in the desert. Even today, U.S. forces are far outnumbered by Iraq's tank-heavy ground forces.

Why has the Pentagon, despite the military buildup of the 1980s, failed to provide for its sealift requirements? Interservice rivalry is one factor.

For its part, the Navy has little interest in buying ships to ferry Army troops to battle. It prefers submarines, aircraft carriers, destroyers and other warships. Indeed, the Navy has only a handful of fast sealift vessels and would not even have these had Congress not required them. Meanwhile, the Air Force balks at buying enough C-17 Cargo planes. It prefers fighter jets and bombers.

To quote a military maxim, amateurs argue strategy while professionals argue logistics. The point is that the most sophisticated military hardware in the world is useless if it can't get to the scene of battle in a timely manner and be sustained by adequate supply lines. The outcome of war often hinges more on logistics than strategy.

The conflict in the gulf has demonstrated that the Pentagon has ignored the imperative of adequate sealift and airlift. We can only hope this lesson is reflected in future Pentagon budgets.

Let's bury worn out cliches

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

From time to time we read of old adages, old maxims, old saws, old bromides, old fables, old proverbs and especially old cliches. The thought occurs that it would be nice to have some new cliches.

By way of example, couldn't we retire "to toe the line"? We ought especially to abandon the phrase when it appears, as it appeared in The Indianapolis Star in a headline in July, "Colts seeing who can tow the line." Maybe such towing is an Indianapolis event, for the Indianapolis Business Journal has provided the same variation on an ancient theme.

In Jacksonville last year, a columnist for The Florida Times-Union spoke of people wringing their hands. (Actually, she spoke of people ringing their hands, but never mind.) I have a problem with wringing one's hands. The phrase conveys a kind of Maytag image. Of course, I have a problem with "I have a problem," which is what a ghostwriter told Newsweek magazine he had. "I have a problem with talented people putting words in other people's mouths," he said.

In a perfect world, airlines would clean up the speeches given to flight attendants. We passengers are instructed to wait until the aircraft comes to a "complete stop." This is to distinguish a complete stop from an incomplete stop. Once we are completely stopped, an agent will be "more than happy" to answer our questions. I keep wondering about that agent. What is more than happy? Ecstasy? Bliss? Rapture? Hysteria?

I have an uneasy feeling that "gourmet" is getting out of hand. I mean, like basically, a gourmet dog food is too much of a muchness. You know what I

Several years ago a writer in Advertising Age took off on "quite simply," as in, "The No. 1 managerial productivity problem in America is, quite simply, managers who are out of touch." A Motorola paper is "quite simply" the smallest, most distinctive paper in the world. "What this is, quite simply, is padding."

Goodness knows we ought to give a decent burial — or even an indecent burial — to "arguably." U.S. News looked back on the achievements of Jim Wright, former speaker of the House of Representatives: "He arguably presided over one of the most productive Democratic Congresses since the New Deal." United Press International let us know that Princess Diana is "arguably" the world's most celebrated princess. In Seattle, a food critic described a local chef as "arguably the best French chef west of the Rockies." The Wall Street Journal pondered the Bush-Gorbachev personal relationship. It is "arguably the world's most important." Aaargh!

In USA Today we read last year of the fabulous sales prospects for a record album: "Of course, all this could collapse like a house of cards if the album doesn't sell." There's a novel simile for you. The Washington Post fell into banality: A $20 million gift from actor Bill Cosby will give Spelman College "a significant shot in the arm."

Now and then a writer attempts to dress up a cliché, in the fashion of putting a hat on a mule. The Toronto Globe and Mail mused that Rich Little's "lack of TV success may be the only fly in the impersonator's ointment." A writer for The Associated Press in New York did better. He spoke of Boris Yeltsin as "the gadfly in Mikhail Gorbachev's ointment." How long has it been since a literal fly got in a literal jar of ointment? It's been at least as long as the time since land offices did a land-office business. That was when land sold like hotcakes.

The cliché that really grabs me, in the same way that "grabs me" grabs me, has become epidemic. In Newsweek in July, Gen. Maxwell Thurman's future assignments "remained to be seen." On the same page, it remained to be seen if computer wizardry will work wonders at the Pentagon.

Newsweek is addicted to this stupidity. After serious reflection, the magazine concluded that it remained to be seen if charges against a civil rights leader had substance. It also remained to be seen if New Jersey's takeover of Jersey City schools would solve problems. It further remained to be seen if the Time-Warner merger would succeed. Would women flood Rotary clubs with applications for membership? This "remains to be seen."

Attention! Let us ponder the undeniable imbecility of "it remains to be seen." The phrase is intended to be obviously profound; it is in fact profoundly obvious, for EVERYTHING under moon or sun, from this millisecond onward, remains to be seen. If you would abandon a single dearly loved cliché, abandon this one first of all.

Boys need to learn a real game

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

The three mothers, all with boy children still with single-digit ages, became concerned because all their kids did anymore was sit in front of the TV and play Nintendo.

"They never went outside anymore," one of the mothers, a friend, was telling me. "They just sat and Nintendo-ed all day." The three mothers were concerned that their boys were going to grow up to be pale wimps with bad eyes and become accountants.

"Not that there's anything wrong with becoming an accountant," said my friend, "but have you ever met an accountant that reminded you of Mel Gibson?" I haven't. My accountant sort of reminds me of a cross between Don Knotts and Henry Block.

He's a great guy to have around when you're looking for a way to write off a weekend trip to the Bahamas with your gorgeous new secretary as a business expense, but he wouldn't be a lot of help if you got into a saloon fight with a couple of guys wearing black hats.

So, the mothers came up with an idea.

"We went to a local department store," my friend explained, "and we bought our three boys toy guns, holsters and cowboy hats."

I thought toy guns, holsters and cowboy hats went out with pogo sticks and Chinese checkers.

And the results? "The boys haven't looked at Nintendo in weeks," she said.

"They're outside all day playing cowboy. They call themselves the Three Amigos. They look a lot healthier, their appetites have picked up, and they've all asked for ponies for their birthday."

I consider this great news. For some time I have worried that we are raising a generation of little boys who would never know the joys playing cowboy brings.

Oh, to be back astride my mother's broom, a make-believe horse I named Midnight. To pull my toy gun out of my holster and shoot Danny Thompson, who always played fair and fell when you shot him.

Some of my other friends wouldn't fall.

"I shot you," I would say.

"You missed," they would argue. "I did not," I would say, tears of anger welling in my eyes. Cowboys do occasionally cry, just not when there are girls around.

I decided to write this in hopes that other mothers of small boys would realize their children are spending far too much time Nintendo-ing and should be introduced to playing cowboy.

I would like to see cowboys come back in this nation. I believe it would help little boys learn to cope with all the problems they will face as young men, such as the federal deficit, a war between Iraq and whoever it happens to be invading at the time, and the fact women will probably be playing in the National Football League.

Playing cowboy got you outside. It got you exercise. It told you who your real friends were. It made you want to grow up to be a jet pilot or a fireman or a horse thief instead of wanting to grow up to be somebody's bean counter.

The only negative involved with playing cowboy is no matter how much you ask, your parents will never really come through with a pony and all your birthdays will come to another year and still no pony.

But the positives far outweigh that one negative. Hop-along Grizzard wouldn't give you a bum steer.

Cabinet campaigning is expensive

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — George Bush's Cabinet members wore a path in the jet stream this summer flying back and forth between Washington, D.C., and the Pacific Northwest. But the frequent-flyer marathon does not mean there was a national crisis on the West Coast. No, this was simple, old-fashioned political stumping at the taxpayers' expense.

Bush is still stinging from the humiliation of being beaten by, of all people, the now-forgotten Michael Dukakis in Oregon and Washington in 1988. With the upcoming congressional elections on Bush's front burner next to the Iraq crisis, the president's minions have been pressed into service. Cabinet members have suddenly become lifelong soul mates with guys like Rep. Denny Smith, R-Ore., who is facing a stiff reelection challenge, and conservative Bob Williams who is trying to oust liberal Rep. Jolene Unsoeld, D-Wash.

Some of these missions have traces of meat on them, but most of it has been served up on expensive plates — like the private $500-a-plate GOP fund raiser hosted by Labor Secretary Elizabeth Dole in mid-July in the penthouse dining room of Portland's U.S. Bancorp Tower.

Our associate Jim Lynch asked Dole's office the purpose of the trip. A Labor Department spokeswoman studied Dole's calendar and then said Dole had visited regional offices of the department.

While she was in the neighborhood Dole was the guest of honor at the meal that raised $50,000 for Denny Smith's campaign, and she spoke at a fund raiser for candidate Bob Williams across the state line in Vancouver, Wash.

Dole's visit, like the others, made a pretense of official business, just enough to charge the taxpayers for the trip.

President Bush himself flew to Portland in mid-May to give a forgettable speech on the economy, sitting on the fence between spotted owls and loggers. That duty aside, Bush was free to star at the $1,000-a-plate shindig for GOP candidates for state races in Oregon. The accommodating president also managed to be photographed chatting with his pal Denny Smith. Bob Williams crossed the state line from Washington to get his photo taken with the president too.

Since then, first lady Barbara Bush, Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan, Trade Representative Carla Hills, Veterans Affairs

Secretary Edward Derwinski, Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner and Bureau of Land Management Director Sy Jamison have all carried the Republican pompons to Washington and Oregon.

Jamison gave a rousing pro-Williams speech in Washington, a state where the BLM owns not an acre of land.

The taxpayers picked up the bill for these campaign trips. Air fares run around $1,600 round trip (first class, of course), and there are daily expenses of about $100 per VIP, not to mention the fact that these Cabinet members, whose salaries break down to about $400 a day, don't do this stuff on their own time.

Democrats in Oregon and Washington can't be blamed if they feel a bit besieged by the full weight of the national Republican Party. A spokesman for the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee told us that the GOP blitz in the Pacific Northwest reflects Bush's wishes. "He puts great value in doing this. They're tired of getting embarrassed in House races."

The most recent team player in the cross-country relay is Vice President Dan Quayle who was scheduled to be the celebrity at a $250-a-plate breakfast in Seattle this week. The White House proudly admits that Quayle has raised more money for the party than any vice president before him. It appears to be his most indisputable achievement.

Women's lunch

First Presbyterian Women's lunch break is set for Oct. 1 from noon to 1 p.m. Karen Kilgore from Schriener College at Kerrville is guest speaker.

Church to show film

Vincent Baptist Church will show the film, "Cry from the Mountain" Sunday at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall.

"Cry from the Mountain," a World Wide Pictures Production, is an adventure film set in the majestic wilderness of Alaska by screenwriter Daniel L. Quick. Scene after scene portrays the beauty and wildlife of this "last frontier" state.

The story centers around the Sanders family. Larry Sanders takes his 10-year-old son, Cal, on a camping trip where he is to break the news that he and his wife, Carolyn, are getting a divorce. Meanwhile Carolyn, filled with bitterness and unable to forgive her husband for an affair he has had with a woman in his office, considers the option of having an abortion. Through a life-threatening accident and an old hermit living in a deserted mining camp, the course of events is changed for the Sanders.

The principal roles in "Cry From The Mountain" are played by four outstanding performers.

James Cavan plays Jonathan, the old hermit who is the caretaker of a deserted mining camp, and who lives alone with his dog Jake. The old man resents the intrusion of Larry and Cal Sanders, but eventually comes to share his Christian faith.

Gospel singing

Birdwell Lane Baptist Church will host a "Gospel Singing" Sunday from 2:30 to 5 p.m. Interested vocalists or instrumentalists are welcome to share a selection and the public is invited to attend. A fellowship meal will be offered after the singing.

Music month

National Headquarters of the Assemblies of God in Springfield, Mo., declared September National Music Month. It was observed at First Assembly of God, 4th and Lancaster. The theme for the month was "Make Me An Instrument."

Throughout the month of September various singers and groups, some local and some out of town have been a part of Gospel Music Month.

Sunday night at 6 p.m. will be an entire evening of gospel music. This will be all local talent. You will hear a variety of gospel music styles and singers (of all ages), using various instruments: drums, bass guitar, accordion, brass instruments, piano and organ as well as some sound track.

Robinson to speak

Darrell Robinson, vice president of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention and former Coahoma resident, will lead a rally Saturday at First Baptist Church, Coahoma, at 7 p.m.

The rally will kick off the church's 100th anniversary celebration, which will take place in April.

Minister walks on the air waves with gospel music

By RICHARD VARA
Houston Chronicle

BAYTOWN — The Rev. Darrell Martin keeps walking with Jesus, and the result is a small radio broadcasting enterprise.

Martin owns and manages AM radio station KWWJ (Keep Walking With Jesus), a 1,000-watt station in Baytown that has popped into the ratings with a unique black gospel music format.

"We have been able to take the station from nowhere to the top 25 stations in the Houston metroplex," said Martin, a part-time minister at New Day Deliverance Holiness Church.

"It surprises a lot of people that we are still here," said the Rev. Michael Mosley, music director for the station. "A lot of stations are now keeping tabs on us."

Martin was convinced Houston needed a black gospel radio station when he purchased the Baytown facility in 1988. He made the buy without a market analysis, a precaution many business investors would regard as necessary.

"I just stepped out in faith — me and Jesus," Martin said. "I felt there were other people like me who were limited in the number of stations they could listen to. They had to listen to (radio) news stations or Christian stations that were not reaching the needs of the black community."

Martin waged a small crusade in the early '80s to convince white stations to play black gospel music if only on a part time, off-hours basis. He, along with his six brothers and a sister, grew up hearing only religious music since his father was an independent Pentecostal church pastor.

A radio disc jockey friend of Martin broadcasted gospel music for two hours weekly in the late 1970s on a Houston Christian station. But the program ended when his friend left the city.

"After my friend left, I got a desire to get into radio," said Martin, who also operates an independent insurance agency. "I went to KTSU and I trained for about a month." The Texas Southern University station then and now devotes Sundays to gospel music.

"After I left there I started inquiring about developing my own program," he recounted. But white stations rejected the idea. "They didn't want it. I went to every major Christian station, and they nicely refused to put it on."

Martin was finally able to purchase an hour on KJOJ late Saturday evening in 1980 and expanded the program to three and a half hours. In 1982, he returned to KTSU as a Sunday gospel music program volunteer.

Then came the chance to buy KBUK, a Baytown country and western station that had never cracked the ratings.

Martin wasn't the only one who knew that a black gospel station had potential.

Burt Perrault, general manager of KSBJ Christian radio station, was also looking at buying the station and using a black gospel format. "You had a ready audience waiting for the station to come on," Perrault said. Houston has a large black community with a large network of Baptist and Pentecostal churches, he said.

KWWJ claimed No. 23 in the Arbitron ratings this summer and edged out longtime black stations KYOK and KCOH last fall. "The black market is very religiously oriented, and they appreciate church music as they attend religious ceremonies or when they are at home," said Jeff Sleete, vice president and general manager of KYOK.

Sleete does not regard KWWJ as a direct competitor since his station is geared toward a different audience.

But Martin said other Houston stations now realize that black listeners and black gospel music are a serious combination.

"This lets other stations know that black people do listen to gospel and they are supporters of gospel music," Martin said. "Gospel listeners are very loyal. They are not the type that switches the dial, because they are listening to something they really believe in."

"Gospel music is something that can't be duplicated," he said. "It gives you a spiritual boost."

Moreover, gospel music is part of the heritage of blacks, Martin said. "We started gospel music, so it is part of us," said Mosley, who joined the station a week after it went on the air on Aug. 13, 1988. "This music is very inspiring no matter how you look at it. The blues get you down, but people want to be inspired."

The station offers listeners the traditional gospel works of such revered artists as James Cleveland, Shirley Caesar, the Winans and Traimaine Hawkins.

The station does not play contemporary Christian music even if recorded by black artists, said Mosley, who is also minister of music for the Texas South Central Diocese of the Churches of God in Christ.

Such artists as the Winans and Traimaine Hawkins at times have alienated black gospel listeners when they have tried to adapt gospel to more contemporary music formats.

Those artists are reaching out to attract young blacks or white audiences, he said. Christian rap, for example, is not played on the station, even though some major artists are experimenting with the sound.

KWWJ also provides a showcase for major gospel talent in the Houston area, Martin and Mosley agree. "The talent in Houston is phenomenal," Martin said.

Such local artists as Michael McKay and Redeemed, Cedric Taylor, Ed Johnson and Praise, the Rev. Paul Jones, New Community Mass Choir, and Greater St. Matthew Baptist Choir are national-level talent, the men said.

While music forms the bulk of the programming, there also are taped sermons from ministers both from the national and local scene.

Both Martin and Mosley regard the station as a ministry. "I get phone calls all the time for prayer or just someone to talk to," Mosley said. "Other stations can't offer that."

The station has applied to the Federal Communications Commission to increase its power to 5,000 watts, a change that will give the station greater audience coverage.

Nonetheless, Perrault doubts the station will be able to go much higher in the ratings. "He might be able to break into the top 20, but you're dealing with a specialty format," said Perrault, a longtime friend of Martin.

But Mosley believes that once the station increases its power in 1991, the audience will increase as well.

Until that happens, KWWJ will continue to broadcast its music of inspiration and a message of hope. "That is what our job is in gospel music and gospel radio: to encourage someone to keep on going, not to give up, to remind him that God has not forgotten you," Mosley said.

Pope issues regulations for Catholic universities

By STEPHEN R. WILSON
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II set down rules for Catholic universities today, pleasing many U.S. Catholic educators by dropping earlier plans to give bishops jurisdiction over the hiring and firing of theologians.

But the pontiff also included a stipulation that surprised American officials — that a majority of an institution's teachers be Catholic.

The long-awaited papal document, issued in the form of a constitution, upheld the right of academic freedom and independence.

But it also stressed that students and teachers — particularly theologians — must not stray from official church teaching, and gave local bishops a watchdog role.

"The identity of a Catholic university is essentially linked to the quality of its teachers and to respect for Catholic doctrine," the pope wrote.

"All Catholic teachers are to be faithful to, and all other teachers are to respect, Catholic doctrine and morals in their research and teaching."

The 49-page document, drawn up over 10 years, appeared to meet the requests of U.S. Catholic educators, who had complained that earlier drafts threatened to undermine academic freedom and give the church hierarchy too much control.

The United States, with 235 Catholic institutes of higher learning, has the world's largest Catholic university system.

Sister Alice Gallin of Washington, D.C., executive director of the Association of Catholic Colleges and Universities, said the revised document is "very much what we hoped it would be."

"We've got a good document," she said. "It's a decided improvement as a result of all these meetings and consultations we had. The dialogues were fruitful."

Noting that a U.S. delegation of educators conferred with Vatican officials in April 1989 to urge changes in a previous draft, Gallin said, "This document has kept

LDS members edging into more interfaith cooperation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Mormons, who generally have kept aloof from other Christian communities, are gradually — and in expanding ways — moving into working association with them.

To some extent, the past shunning has been mutual. Steps toward alleviating it represent a quiet mending of a rupture in America's social-religious fabric.

For most of its 160 years, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) has avoided links with the other religious groups, which, in turn, have kept a cold shoulder toward Mormons.

But on both sides, leaders are showing a growing impulse for contacts and efforts toward better understanding and are increasing moves for cooperation, although some distrust lingers and some people oppose the trend altogether.

"Some Mormons don't want it," said Mormon theologian Roger R. Keller of Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. "Some of the others are suspicious of Mormons. But we've begun to break through the shell of isolation."

As misconceptions and scurrilous notions about each other are diminished, "more interchange becomes possible," he said. "I hope we are standing at the

'Give your anger to the Lord'

By Billy Graham
DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Does God really expect us to love everybody? Frankly, there are some people I don't think I could ever love, no matter how hard I tried. This is especially true of my father, who angered me very deeply when I was a child by abandoning our family. I will never be able to get over this, I don't think. — S.F.

DEAR S.F.: What your father did was wrong, and God understands the hurt and anger that you still feel. God also knows that in yourself you don't have the ability to turn your back on what your father has done and forgive him and love him as you should.

But God wants to help you get over your bitterness. He knows your anger is like an acid that will eat away at you if you don't get rid of it. What good is your anger, after all? It cannot remake the past; what has happened will not be changed by your anger. Nor will it do you any good; in fact, anger can easily turn you into a bitter, sour person who is difficult

"The Bible calls us to love others even when they are not perfect. This, after all, is the kind of love God has for us. — Billy Graham.

to get along with. The Bible warns, "An angry man stirs up dissension, and a hot-tempered one commits many sins" (Proverbs 29:22). Jesus said that in God's eyes anger toward someone is as bad as outright murder (see Matthew 5:21-22).

Give your anger to Christ. He wants to forgive it — as well as all your sins — and replace it with love so you will be able to forgive your father and release the emotional hold of his action over you.

But more than that, realize that God loves you and he will never abandon you.

Yes, the Bible calls us to love others even when they are not perfect. This, after all, is the kind of love God has for us. No, you cannot love your father in your own strength — but with Christ in your heart you can begin to love him. And perhaps your love will someday help him face up to the wrong he has committed.

Mormons

 crossroads of genuine dialogue." Such dialogue has flourished for years among Protestant, Roman Catholic, Anglican, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish groups, reducing old prejudices and distortions about one another.

But Mormons, who were denounced, persecuted and driven westward in their early years, generally had stayed apart from that inter-religious companionship and teamwork until recently.

Dallin H. Oaks, a member of the church's ruling Council of 12, said the change is toward working together "on matters of common interest" and the church now is involved in several such projects. "I think the outlook for our being involved with others is good," he said. "And I think other groups need us, and we need other groups."

Oaks, a former law professor, president of Brigham Young University and Utah Supreme Court justice, said "traditionally our church has been very distant from other churches." Considering the past persecutions of Mormons, he added, "It is easy to understand why the Latter-day Saints' relationship with other faiths has been a strained and suspicious one."

But as the American-born denomination has grown — now totaling 4 million U.S. members and 7 million worldwide — it has entered into several interfaith ventures in the last decade.

"We are more mature as a church," Oaks said. "We feel less threatened by others. We're willing to forget some old persecutions and some old history and meet people on the basis of mutual respect and mature self-interest."

Among such recent moves by Mormons was their joining in 1988 with 22 faith groups — Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — in the National Interfaith Cable Coalition, producing religious and values-oriented programs on the VISN television network.

In 1986, Mormons became part of the Religious Alliance Against Pornography, a wide ecumenical cross-section. In 1984, they affiliated with Religion in American Life, involving most major U.S.

denominations — in seeking to stimulate weekly worship.

Also in the mid-'80s, Mormons entered into inter-religious relief work, including aid to the homeless. They contributed about $5 million to relief efforts in famine-ravaged central Africa, much of it through Catholic Relief Services and the American Red Cross.

Oaks, as a former educator, had experienced ecumenical cooperation in the Association of Presidents of Independent Colleges and Universities in the 1970s, and has since encouraged that trend in the church.

So far, such connections have been on non-doctrinal matters, and Oaks emphasized that the church disapproves any discussions aimed at changing doctrines.

That, however, isn't the aim of inter-church doctrinal talks. It is, rather, to explain their concepts to each other, to overcome misperceptions of one another and to achieve fuller mutual understanding.

Regulations

 those changes."

She said she did not foresee any major changes in the U.S. system to conform with the norms.

Four years ago, presidents of 110 U.S. Catholic institutions said imposition of the Vatican's original proposals could force some of the nation's schools to close, drive theologians away and cost the colleges federal and state student aid.

One of the main objections had been to proposals giving bishops a juridical role at universities, including the power to hire and fire teachers of theology.

That was dropped from the final document, which states that the local bishop "has a responsibility to promote the welfare of the Catholic universities in his diocese and has the right and duty to watch over the preservation and strengthening of their Catholic character."

In case of problems, the bishop should take "the initiatives necessary to resolve the matter" working with university officials and, if needed, the Vatican.

The document said relations between universities and bishops should be marked by "mutual trust, close and consistent cooperation and continuing dialogue."

"That statement in itself would not disturb anybody here," said the Rev. Joseph A. O'Hare, president of Fordham University in New York and part of the U.S. delegation that worked with Vatican officials. "Catholic universities want to work closely with bishops in the United States, and bishops in turn want to promote the Catholic universities."

O'Hare said he was surprised, however, by the norm specifying that the number of non-Catholic teachers at each Catholic university should not constitute a majority.

He said this issue was not discussed in his group's consultations with the Vatican and predicted the rule may be hard to enforce.

The document says the constitution will go into effect the first day of the 1991 academic year and applies to all Catholic universities and institutes throughout the world.

It says freedom of conscience is to be "fully respected."

The church recognizes freedom of research and teaching in each discipline, it says, but stresses that this must be "in accordance with its own principles and proper methods, and within the confines of the truth and the common good."

It stressed the sensitivity of scientific research, saying new discoveries should be for the "authentic good of individuals and of human society as a whole."

The document singled out the role of theologians, saying they must "respect the authority of the bishops and assent to Catholic doctrine."

Poverty report released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau says 31.5 million Americans, or 12.8 percent of the population, lived in poverty last year. That was virtually no improvement over 1988, even as median household income was up slightly because of an unexplained bulge in the income of black households.

The poverty rate had previously declined since 1983, when it reached a high of 15.2 percent. In 1988 it was 13 percent, and the bureau said the slight dip to 12.8 percent in 1989 was not statistically significant.

Daniel H. Weinberg, chief of the Housing and Household Economic Statistics Division of the bureau, declined to speculate on what the figures for 1990 will show when they become available next year.

The report, he said, "does not tell us anything about the current situation."

However, Robert Greenstein, executive director of the Center of Budget and Policy Priorities, a private research group, predicted the poverty rate will go up with the apparent end of the economic recovery of the 1980s.

"Our guess is that 1989 is the end of the trend," Greenstein said. "The likelihood is overwhelming that when the 1990 figures come out, poverty will have started back up."

Robert Rector, welfare and poverty policy analyst at the conservative Heritage Foundation, said the report "dramatically overstates the extent of true poverty" because it does not count non-cash government benefits such as food stamps and Medicaid as income.

In an article published Tuesday in The Wall Street Journal, Rector said, "Evidence is mounting... that the Census Bureau's poverty report dramatically understates the living standards of low-income Americans."

In addition to the official poverty rate figure, the bureau released calculations based on other experimental methods that showed different results, some higher and some lower.

The official definition of poverty was developed by the Social Security Administration in 1964 based on Department of Agriculture research on what people spend on food.

It counts income in money only. By using an experimental formula that counts Medicare, Medicaid, school lunches, food stamps and other benefits, the Census Bureau arrived at a rate of 10.4 percent.

Weinberg said substitution of the experimental standards would not change the trend in poverty rates.

Black household income was up 5 percent to $18,080, but median incomes in white and Hispanic households did not significantly change. Nor did the median income of black families or that of black men.

Weinberg said the bulge for black households, which resulted in the "overall" increase in median household income, appeared to be the result of gains in income for black professional women living alone or with a roommate. He had no explanation for this, and said it could be the result of an anomaly in the sampling.

The report was based on a survey of 58,000 U.S. households in March. It showed that per capita income in 1989 was $14,060, an all-time high. The figure was up 1 percent from 1988, which was also a record.

Median household incomes increased in the Northeast and West, but remained unchanged in the South and Midwest. The report did not include state-by-state figures.

KILGORE, Texas — Bud Moreland, 30, begins his commute back to Longview from Kilgore College, Kilgore. The 15 mile ride takes Moreland one and a half hours. He goes to school five days a week.

Student commutes to school by bicycle

By ANNETTE TAYLOR
Longview News-Journal

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — A man who is a full-time student, part-time worker, and 30-mile-a-day bicycle commuter would seem an ideal candidate for physical and mental burnout.

But Charles 'Bud' Moreland, a 30-year-old nursing major at Kilgore College, seems to be making it OK.

Moreland, a second-year nursing student, says he lost everything he had in a divorce, and has been riding his 10-speed bike from Longview to school — a round-trip of about 30 miles — for over a year.

"It started two years ago when I became divorced and left Dallas. I had nothing," said Moreland.

"When I relocated to Longview, I lived on the south side of Longview and worked on the north side. So, I had to borrow my sister's bicycle to get around," he said.

Moreland said even though on some rainy days friends offer to drive him to school, most days he pedals in the rain.

"I remember one particular day when it rained. Some friends of mine were at work and it hit them. 'Bud's gonna have to ride to school in the rain.' So they came by and loaned me their car to drive," said Moreland, who also works nights as a truck loader at United Parcel Service in Longview.

While most students are still sleeping, Moreland is riding. He leaves for school at 6 a.m. It takes him about 1 1/2 hours to get there.

For relaxation, Moreland scuba dives and spends time with his children, ages 5, 7 and 10.

Before moving to Longview, he worked as a police officer for 11 years. He said he gave it up because he was burned out.

"I remember one particular week we had two officers killed within two weeks of each other," he said. "I had always wanted to do something to save lives, so when I decided to give up being a policeman, I wanted to carry on, but in the medical profession instead."

While juggling school and a night job last semester, Moreland also worked as a student assistant in the Kilgore College Library.

Library technician Melanie Ford said Moreland has the stamina to "make it."

"Bud's one of the most determined individuals I know. He's the type of person who wants to help people, and I wish we had more dedicated students like him," she said.

Kay McKinley, a human anatomy and physiology instructor at Kilgore, said Moreland's determination should inspire other students.

"I think it's wonderful that he's so determined to get an education," she said. "He's always on time for his 7:30 a.m. lab class, and I know a lot of people, that on some days wouldn't even get up and come in the car. So, it shows a tremendous amount of determination that he's using whatever means he has available to get to school," she added.

With winter not too far away, Moreland said he hopes he will have warmer transportation. But he says he won't give up no matter what.

What keeps him going is, "refusing to give up, and refusing to lose. Just because you're down on your luck one day, doesn't mean it's gonna be there forever," he said.

"No matter how bad it seems, there's always tomorrow, and I have a zest for life."

Quake shakes six states

NEW HAMBURG, Mo. (AP) — Experts preached calm after an earthquake that rattled people in six states, saying it isn't necessarily a precursor to the catastrophic Big One predicted for December.

No major damage or injuries were reported from Wednesday morning's quake or a second, smaller one that night. The quakes, felt in Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and Indiana, were in the New Madrid Fault zone.

For months, people along the seismic zone have been worrying about scientist Iben Browning's contention that there's a 50-50 chance for a major quake there on or about Dec. 3. Many scientists have dismissed the prediction.

Doug Wiens, professor of earth and planetary sciences at Washington University in St. Louis, said there is no extra cause for alarm.

"I'm worried about this sort of hysterical tone that's come out, where people are planning to take trips, close schools, close businesses on December 3, because it is completely ridiculous," he said.

The U.S. Geological Survey said the first quake Wednesday measured 4.6 on the Richter scale. The second was believed to be an aftershock and measured a preliminary 3.0, said David Stewart, director of the Center for Earthquake Studies in Cape Girardeau.

Although the quakes were off the New Madrid Fault proper, they fell within the fault zone.

A slice of life

Pizza Hut gets taste of Soviet bureaucracy

By BRIAN FRIEDMAN
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW — Pizza Hut is trying to swallow a big slice of Moscow bureaucracy, battling to keep its two new restaurants open after health inspectors shut them, a company official says.

Restaurant officials say the inspectors are unfamiliar with modern technology such as automatic dishwashers, or Western ways of preparing restaurant food, and that it's just a "simple misunderstanding."

The pizzerias, part of a $10 million joint venture between PepsiCo, Inc.'s European branch and the Moscow city restaurant department, opened Sept. 11, and feature American-style pizzas, garlic bread and salad bars for both dollars and rubles.

Since they opened, Soviets have waited in long lines to dine at the red-and-white checkered tables, amid brass railings and fake tropical plants.

On Sept. 20, however, the larger of the two Pizza Huts on Kutuzovskiy Prospekt near a large foreigners' compound was shut down for 2½ days. On Wednesday, the second one, on Gorky Street near the Kremlin, also was closed.

City sanitary inspector T. Piskaryova told the Tass news agency that raw, semi-cooked and cooked food was found side-by-side, in violation of city standards. The Pizza Huts also were found to lack large sinks to wash dishes, as a backup to their automatic dishwashers.

Andrew Rafalat, the British-born deputy general director of the restaurants, said Wednesday that he was surprised by the closures and believes the inspectors are unfamiliar with Pizza Hut's techniques.

"We've set up joint ventures to transfer new ways of running restaurants, new technologies, MOSCOW — Two young Muscovites eat pizza at a Pizza Hut restaurant in Moscow. One Pizza Hut restaurant in Moscow is now reopened despite a ban imposed by Moscow sanitary control authorities.

new ways of training people, and clearly what we're doing is very different from the Soviets," he said in an interview at the reopened Kutuzovskiy Prospekt restaurant as Western-trained waiters scurried by with pans of pizza and trays of soft drinks and beer.

"Now, I think that realization is just starting to dawn, and when they find that our ways of doing things doesn't jell with theirs, unfortunately the immediate reaction has been (to) close down, which is kind of disappointing to us, because... if there's any areas that don't jell, let's talk about it," Rafalat said. One of the problems has been the lack of a manual dishwashing system.

"We're being told we have to have five-compartment sinks," he said. "Well, we're saying, 'Sorry chaps, we use dishwashers, actually, in today's world.' I mean, a dishwasher does the job better, probably. But that isn't taken into account in the Soviet regulations."

Rafalat said kitchen plans were submitted to city officials months ago, and "we assumed that those had been looked at, approved, but in reality, no one told us that they hadn't." Tass, citing fears of salmonella poisoning that occurred in Moscow a year ago, said unwashed vegetables were found next to prepared foods, in violation of standards.

"Those are things that, once we know about, we'll do to comply with the Soviet law, although we don't do it that way in any other country," Rafalat said. "We have open kitchens because, again, our philosophy is that you have an open planned work area, our employees are trained in hygiene, and they handle it accordingly."

Once Pizza Hut officials were able to explain their operations to the inspectors, they were allowed to reopen the Kutuzovskiy Prospekt restaurant, he said.

"Nothing has changed at all since last Thursday. We're running exactly the same restaurant, but we now have a clean bill of health and we have an agreement to work jointly with the authorities to explain our technologies and the way we do things, which really should have happened a lot earlier," he said.

Rafalat could not say when the Gorky Street restaurant would reopen, adding that workers there had to throw out about 220 pounds of dough Wednesday. "It's a pretty substantial amount of food in a city which I don't think should be wasting food," he said.

The larger restaurant has been serving around 2,000 customers a day, and many want two or three pizzas, forcing officials to restrict the number of pies a person can take out, he said.

Rafalat said his objective was to "find a common language" with city officials, "because that's the future of this country here. If they don't find a common language, then there's not going to be many more businesses opening up."

Dinner has mother on edge of her seat

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I gave our daughter what we hoped would be an elegant wedding reception, followed by a sit-down dinner.

A cousin of mine brought her two young uninvited children, ages 4 and 6, who made a nuisance of themselves running around the cake table, screaming, laughing and playing tag while the dinner was in progress. I had to get up from my place at the table to ask them to please go sit with their mother.

Because I did not expect the children, there were no place cards for them, but they sat down first, displacing two other guests for whom I had to find other seating! (We were short two dinners, but fortunately the caterers were able to handle it.)

Abby, please, please, please, tell your readers that if they receive a wedding invitation that does not specifically include their children, they should not assume that the children are invited. It is incredible that people actually need to be told this, but apparently they do, so be a "dear" and tell them. — BRIDE'S MOTHER IN INDIANA

DEAR MOTHER: I've been trying to get that message across for more than three decades. Each time, I have been bombarded with critical mail telling me that children "need" exposure to adult gatherings in order to learn how to conduct themselves.

I have also been called "an old fuddy-duddy" to suggest that uninvited guests of any age can drive a hostess's blood pressure up — and wear her patience down.

Mitchell County Fair to open Saturday

By BARBIE LELEK
The annual Mitchell County Fair opened its doors Thursday at 6 p.m. Entries included everything from everything from pictures of grandchildren to handmade ashtrays. The different categories for competition this year are: Agricultural, horticultural, womens food and needlework, youth food and needlework, mens, youth craft and adult craft, art, grandma's brags, pet show and bake-off.

The bake-off on Saturday is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club. Entries will be accepted from 3-4:30 p.m. with judging from 5-6 p.m. by out of town judges. All bake-off entries will be auctioned off at 6:30 p.m. with proceeds going to the B&PW Club.

There will be four divisions for our local "cooks" to choose from: Cakes, pies, breads and youth. Winners will receive more than $600 in prize money.

While adults are enjoying the fair, the kids will be doing their best to make themselves sick on the carnival rides and food. The doors will be open today from 2-10 p.m., and Saturday 10 a.m.-10 p.m.

dunking booth at the Mitchell County Fair, with some "loudmouths" trying to encourage passers-by to give it a try. Also, the club is trying to get a few city or county officials to participate as "sitting ducks."

Lions Club

The Colorado City Lions Club is also holding a raffle to be completed at the fair. The club is selling raffle tickets for $1 for a chance to win a VCR. The VCR will be given away at the Mitchell County Fair on Saturday night. If you have not obtained a raffle ticket contact the City National Bank for the name of a Lions club member.

Wolves collapse

The Colorado City Wolves traveled to Slaton Sept. 21, with hopes of stopping the express of the Slaton Tigers. Slaton had averaged more than 30 points a game in its first two contests. Speed was the name of the game for the Tigers as Slaton's Marcus Kirkwood took the first play from scrimmage and shot through the right side of the line for a 90-yard touchdown run. He outran all of the Wolves for the score, but the Wolves' Kevin Green almost got a hand on him at the goal line as he ran all the way from the far side of the field to try and make the tackle.

Colorado City wasn't nearly as explosive but was able to play ball control, as was their game plan, and move the ball for a touchdown. The point after failed as did Slaton's and the game was tied at six. Slaton moved the ball at will on the Wolves and soon the Tigers scored again and also completed the two-point conversion for a 14-6 lead. With 9:58 to go in the half, the Wolves scored again but failed on the two-point conversion and the score was 14-12. That was all of the scoring for the Wolves as they were able to recover a fumble in the first half, but on the very next play threw an interception to give the ball right back.

Slaton was able to score with 4:51 to go in the first half to take a 21-12 lead. For some reason, the Wolves left their ball control plan, and went to the air on the next series. Instead of trying to run the clock out and mount a long scoring drive, the Wolves threw on all three downs and had to punt. This enabled the Tigers to get the ball back with little more than two minutes in the half. It didn't take long for them to score again and take a 28-12 lead at the half.

The second half was more scoring for the Tigers and none for the Wolves as the game ended up 43-12 in favor of the Tigers. This week the Wolves will play the Merkel Badgers at Wolf Stadium with game time scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday. The game will once again be broadcast on KAUM FM 106.3 with pre-game at 7:45.

Old Timers Reunion

The annual Mitchell County Old Timers Reunion is scheduled for this Saturday. Registration will be from 9:30-12 p.m. in the Civic Center. A luncheon will be held at noon with Mayor Jim Baum as the master of ceremonies. Earnest Porter, Jackson, Miss., will be the featured speaker.

Hightower: FBI inquiry is politically motivated

AUSTIN (AP) — The chairman of the state Democratic Party says he's angry over an FBI inquiry into campaign finance records of two of the party's candidates, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower and lieutenant governor hopeful Bob Bullock.

"Perhaps the Justice Department and the public would be better served if they spent our tax dollars to prosecute drug dealers and savings and loan crooks and left the politics to the voters," said Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle.

Both Democratic candidates said Thursday that they had done nothing wrong and have nothing to hide.

Bullock, the five-term state comptroller, said he considered the FBI inquiry "just a routine matter" that may have stemmed from complaints of a disgruntled former employee.

Bullock said FBI agents would find nothing wrong. "Not a thing," he said. "I'm not concerned about it one bit."

Hightower said, "I resent the FBI getting into my political campaign with these kinds of overt acts of political activity. It amounts to Nixonian dirty tricks here."

But Hightower's Republican opponent, state Rep. Rick Perry, said that to him the inquiry means, "Where there's smoke, there's generally fire ... I am confident justice in all cases will be done."

FBI officials didn't return phone calls from The Associated Press.

On Monday, six weeks before the November election, FBI agent Greg Rampton obtained from the secretary of state copies of 1988-90 campaign finance reports filed by the two Democratic candidates.

Bullock's Republican opponent is Rob Mosbacher Jr., son of U.S. Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher. In the agriculture commissioner race, Perry has received backing from the president's eldest son, George W. Bush.

"Always, this stuff heats up right before (an election). This time, it's against the two Democrats who, according to the polls, are leading by the largest margins," Hightower said.

"Two Democrats who the administration seems most interested in getting: Mr. Bullock because he's had the gall to run against Mr. Mosbacher's boy ... Myself because I've been something of a burr under the sad-de of the Bush administration on their price-busting, farm-bankrupting agricultural policies," Hightower said.

Perry and Mosbacher said they had nothing to do with the FBI inquiry.

"I don't know anything more about it than I've read in the papers," Mosbacher said.

"I don't know anybody in the FBI, and I can assure you that none of them have talked to me," Perry said. But he said the inquiry shows that "irregularities in (Hightower's) agency have caught the attention of federal authorities."

Hightower told a news conference that he believes the FBI's action was improper. He said other inquiries had found nothing wrong at the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"The FBI (is) apparently frustrated by its inability to find anything on us. They keep catching us with our pants up," Hightower said.

"They can't get us through the legal process. So they've now entered into the political process. This agent, Mr. Rampton, appears to me to be an agent who's gone beyond the bounds," Hightower said.

Neither Byron Sage, agent-in-charge of the Austin FBI office, nor Rampton returned telephone calls from The Associated Press. Their office referred inquiries to FBI spokesman Claude Martin in San Antonio, who didn't immediately return a call.

Don't speak the 'R' word out loud

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Fear matters," says Georgia State University economic forecaster Donald Ratajczak, so it doesn't surprise him if the Bush administration is dancing away from using the word "recession" to describe the state of the economy.

It doesn't surprise Alfred Kahn, either. A retired Cornell University professor, Kahn was chairman of President Carter's Council on Wage and Price Stability. He recalls what happened in 1978 when he suggested that unless inflation were brought under control pronto the nation might face a deep depression.

Stuart Eizenstat, a presidential aide, called up and asked him if he might just quit using that word.

So next time out, Kahn used "banana" when he meant "depression." He talked about The Great Banana of 1929. He said if inflation weren't brought under control, the nation might have a big banana.

Kahn learned a political lesson. Fear matters and words alone can trigger fear.

Recession is a loaded word, and economists who can't agree on whether the country is in one yet concur that the word itself can spur one on.

"Fear matters," said Georgia State's Ratajczak. "But obviously what's in the pocketbook matters, too. If the pocketbook is still jingling, fear can soon be overcome."

"People start looking at their budgets and seeing what they can live without. They tend to make business slow down when they do that," said Bob Dieli, an economist for the Northern Trust Co. of Chicago.

Small wonder that when the bad news came out Tuesday, six weeks before an election, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said, "We don't believe we are in a recession right now." He was commenting on the Commerce Department's report that the economy grew at a stagnant annual rate of 0.45 percent in the second quarter of this year.

And small wonder, at least to linguist Walker Gibson, that Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors, says he'd like to redefine recession. Gibson is founder of the Committee on Public Doublespeak of the National Council of Teachers of English.

The usual definition is that a recession occurs after six months of decline in the gross national product, the total value of new goods and services in the nation. Greenspan told Congress last week he'd prefer a less rigid definition. A true recession, he said, is a "cumulative unwinding of economic activity."

Richard Rahn, chief economist for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, said he can't blame the White House for refusing to label the economy's current state a recession.

"If I were the president, I wouldn't say we were in a recession, either," Rahn said. "They are not in a position to give judgment calls the way we and other outsiders are. They are the guardian of the statistics. They need to be very, very cautious."

The fear that the word recession triggers, said Gibson, tells something about language itself. The word "recession," he said, "almost certainly started as a euphemism for an even more fearful word, depression."

"But it's been used so long as a euphemism that it's lost its power to euphemize," he said. "Now they talk about 'downturns.'" agreed to hold defense spending to $170 billion below the amount it would need to stay even with inflation over the next five years, including a $10 billion cut next year.

The growth of benefit programs would be slowed by $120 billion, half of it coming from Medicare.

Participants in the program, which provides health care to 33 million elderly and disabled people, would bear half the cuts. Much of the savings would come from a $5.70 increase in the $28.60 payment they make monthly for doctors' coverage. Doctors and hospitals would have to swallow the other half of the Medicare reductions.

Over five years, support payments to farmers would be cut $12 billion and benefits for civil servants would drop by $14 billion.

Although not yet agreed to, it appeared likely that Social Security recipients would be hit for $20 billion in savings, either by having cost-of-living increases delayed or the taxes on their benefits increased.

Tax increases tentatively set were an 8-cent-per-gallon increase in the federal gasoline levy, already at 9 cents; a separate tax on all fuels based on their energy content; and a 10 percent tax on luxury items including yachts, furs and jewelry.

Democrats would like to boost the income tax rate on the wealthiest Americans above its current 28 percent. People who fall just below the top bracket must pay taxes of 33 percent, and Democrats would like to increase the top rate to at least 31 percent, officials said.

As an alternative, they are considering a plan limiting the deductions people who earn above $100,000 can claim to 90 or 95 percent of what they would otherwise be entitled.

Democrats also have proposed lifting the earnings ceiling above which Medicare taxes are not taken out of paychecks.

As part of Social Security withholding, people now pay a 1.45 percent tax to support Medicare on earnings up to $51,300 per year. They pay nothing on money they earn above that amount. Under the proposal, that ceiling would be lifted to $65,000 or $75,000.

Mideast

Spain on Thursday ordered two Iraqi diplomats to leave the country and denied two others permission to take up their posts.

South Korea's Foreign Ministry announced in Seoul today that it temporarily closed its embassy in Kuwait. It said Ambassador Soh Byung-yong and the few remaining staff arrived in Amman, Jordan, on Thursday.

Turkey enforced the U.N. air embargo against Iraq by searching planes bound for Baghdad, and Spain and South Korea joined other nations in pulling envoys from embassies besieged by Iraqi troops in Kuwait.

The United Nations has authorized nations to order planes bound for Iraq to land when they pass over their territory and submit to searches.

Iraq's army newspaper today accused Israel and Egypt of setting up an intelligence station in Israel's Negev Desert to gather data on the movement of Iraqi troops. Al-Qaddissiya, quoting unidentified Arab sources, said the electronic and radar reconnaissance station was financed by the former rulers of Kuwait and the government of Saudi Arabia.

Another Iraqi newspaper, the government-run Al-Jomhuriya, said Israel would be among targets struck in the "coming fire," for which it said the United States and its allies would bear responsibility.

Oasis

Lara. Big Spring firefighters bought 47 cases of Coke for Oasis.

Elbow Elementary School students added a personal touch to their 12-packs Thursday afternoon. The kids, members of two fifth-grade classes, sent notes of their own creation, using "spare change" to buy the Coke.

"We thought this would relate to their social studies class," said parent volunteer Reba Bristow. "We want to sharpen their awareness that our country is still fragile and we have to have people over there ready to defend it."

At SWCID, students, faculty and staff purchased a total of 57 12-packs in a completely volunteer effort.

Organizer and instructor Sharon Coltrane said the drive, started in one of her classes, became a four-day event for the whole school.

"All the teachers took five minutes out of their classes to explain what we were doing," she said. "We sent out memos, hung up posters, and made yellow ribbons for everyone who par-participated. That got a lot of people interested."

A teacher of developmental writing, Coltrane said the drive began as a class project to write letters to soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf.

"Some of the students said, 'Why don't we do it throughout the school and get everyone in on this?' so we did. We're very pleased with the way it turned out."

As for the 10,000 case city-wide goal, Coltrane said she feels "pretty positive about it."

"Usually when the people of Big Spring are asked to do something, they come through," she said.

Howard College also conducted a drive Wednesday in the Student Union which was attended by representatives from the Southwest Coca-Cola Bottling Company and 7-Eleven stores.

Vice President for Fiscal Affairs Terry Hansen said the administration has shown great support for Operation Oasis.

"I think it's a nice gesture," he said. "It's something we can all do. Dr. (Bob) Riley (college president) has really supported this."

Lara said a drive at the high school was one of the largest so far. Students, teachers and staff pooled their funds and bought 135 cases. The Veterans Awareness student group sponsored the drive, Lara said.

Amy Parish of the group said they organized the drive with the Leo Club. Students manned the tables and collected change during the lunch hour.

"We only had about four hours total," Parish said. "But we did very well." She said large donations came from the Key Club, the Business Professionals Association, the Quarterback Club and a second-period Spanish class.

Lara said the community has shown tremendous support for Operation Oasis.

"It's so good to see people getting behind something like this," he said.

By the weekend of the Vietnam Memorial Air Show, scheduled for Oct. 6 and 7, Lara said sponsors will try to make a decision about whether to cut off sales and ship the Coke overseas.

Big Spring Herald, sponsored the forum.

A follow-up to the forum will be held Oct. 2 at 1 p.m. at the Highland Mall meeting room. Last night's input will be analyzed and planning will begin for the first of a series of quarterly management seminars for Chamber members and others.

One of the biggest topics last night was the ability of local merchants to keep a variety of stock on hand.

"We can't afford to stock every item that is available but we'll go out and get it for you," said panelist Randy Gee, manager of Bob Brock Ford Inc., who said he was speaking on behalf of all local merchants.

"If we can't get it, we'll let you know," he said.

There is not enough volume in purchases to keep many different items in stock, said one merchant in the audience. He suggested that people take time to shop in more than one store and they will probably find what they want.

Commenting on a suggestion for a bookstore, panelist Tammy Watt, the leasing and operation manager for Big Spring Mall, said, "You've got to have the volume."

There were also complaints and comments on the services received.

"You need to tell your employees to make a list of things people tell them," said one audience member in a typical complaint about service and the politeness of employees in one store.

But soon after, in a typical response, another audience member said of the same store, "I've never been in there when they were impolite."

Most merchants stressed that people need to communicate with them about what they want. "If you're not satisfied you need to tell us," said C.G. Evans, manager of Don's IGA Grocery. One audience member recommended that suggestion boxes be set up.

There were also disagreements on prices. Many consumers said they shop in Midland because of cheaper prices. Some others said that when they shopped around they found cheaper prices in Big Spring. One woman said her mother was able to redo her kitchen for $200 less than she would have if she had bought the materials in Midland.

Gee said significantly lower prices in Midland is "strictly a myth."

"We'd been out of business a long time ago," he said. "It's just not true that you can go out of town and buy a car that's $3,000 cheaper," he said of one example brought up. "I'd say that somebody probably did something that wasn't up front."

"If there's a difference, it's a little difference because of the competition and because of the small markup," Evans said of the grocery business.

Watt said, "I believe there's a lot of preconceived ideas in Big Spring."

Much of the two-hour forum was spent with consumers detailing problems they have had with particular needs, which ranged from buying large and small sizes in clothes, having diabetic foods available, getting adequate medical attention or just getting something repaired, such as a video recorder.

Other consumer panelists included: Melinda Hernandez, Joy Decker, Ed Holt, Stephanie Stevenson and Laverne Gaskin.

Other merchant panelists included: Cindy McGuire, an owner of Red Mesa Grill; Greg Brook, an owner of Blum's Jewelers Inc.; Don Sanford, new manager at Walmart Discount Cities; and Roxie Rutledge, new owner of the Accent Shoppe.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Big Spring (2-1) at Snyder (2-1)

This game is always a hard-fought contest, district game or not. The Snyder Tigers are off to a good start as coach David Baugh's system seems to be sinking in. Over the past few seasons the Tigers have had good defenses, but were lacking in offense. This season the offense is more explosive, averaging three touchdowns per game. Meanwhile the defense is allowing a paltry 120 yards per game. This is going to be a knock-down, drag-out affair. The Steers have something to prove; although they won the battle last year, physically they lost the war to the fired-up Tigers. The Steers will have fire in their eyes, and it's a good thing, because they'll need it.

BIG SPRING 21, SNYDER 14

Loop (0-3) at Borden County (1-2)

The Borden County Coyotes have lost two in a row and need to get back on the winning track. The Loop Longhorns need a win to get their confidence going. Borden County plays good defense, but has been lacking in the offensive department. Tonight they'll get enough offensive production to reach the .500 mark.

BORDEN COUNTY 30, LOOP 15

Iraan (2-0-1) at Coahoma (2-1)

When is the last time the Coahoma Bulldogs won three football games in a row? "When Moby Dick was a minnow," said one Coahoma resident. Regardless of the answer, the Bulldogs face a tough opponent in the Iraan Braves, who are emerging into a perennial playoff team. Coahoma's defense will be good, and its offense will be good enough to win its district-opener.

COAHOMA 20, IRAAN 14

Smyer (3-0) at Klondike (3-0)

Homecoming night for the surprising unbeaten Klondike Cougars. Equally surprising is the fast start for the Smyer Bobcats. Coach Tom Ham's Cougars have exhibited an explosive offense and a stout defense. His main concern is: Between homecoming and six weeks test, can his troops keep their minds on the game? They will.

KLONDIKE 38, SMYER 26

Ozona (0-3) at Forsan (1-2)

The real season starts now — the district-opener for both teams. The Ozona Lions are coming off a playoff year (8-3-1), but lost a horde of people from that team. Their winless record is deceiving because they've played all Class AAA teams. The Forsan Buffaloes are coming off their first win of the season, and they always seem to play Ozona tough; last year Ozona squeaked out a 26-12 victory. This year the Lions will squeak out another victory — the tough non-district schedule pays off.

OZONA 21, FORSAN 12

Wink (0-3) at Garden City (2-1)

A rematch of last year's Thanksgiving area playoff game. Wink has played a tough schedule so far. It doesn't get any easier with a Garden City squad that's coming off a loss to Rankin. Wink is talented, with tailback Jason Bounds leading the way; the Bearkats have more weapons though. A happy homecoming for the Bearkats.

GARDEN CITY 28, WINK 14

Wall (2-1) at Stanton (0-3)

The Wall Hawks are seeking their second straight district title and it all begins with the Stanton Buffaloes in the league-opener. Stanton will have to wait another week to win a game; the Hawks have too much offensive balance.

WALL 27, STANTON 10

Merkel (0-3) at Colorado City (1-2)

The Colorado City Wolves are hoping to bounce back after a disappointing 43-12 loss to Slaton last week. Meanwhile the Merkel Badgers are trying to find their offense. The Wolves win a close one.

COLORADO CITY 14, MERKEL 13

New Home (0-3) at Sands (2-1)

The New Home Leopards have the unlikely distinction of playing the Sands Mustangs after a defeat. It won't be fun for the visitors. The Leopards go to the slaughter house.

SANDS 50, NEW HOME 12

Grady (2-1) at Loraine (0-3)

Last year the Loraine Bulldogs 45-point-ruled the Wildcats. This year is a rebuilding year for Loraine, and the Wildcats are on a roll. What goes around comes around.

Harriers hosting meet

Sports Editor

Local fans will get their first chance to see the Big Spring High School cross country teams in action for the first time this season when Big Spring hosts the Big Spring Invitational Saturday at the old air base golf course.

This will be the fourth meet of the season for coach Randy Britton's runners, and Britton admits he is in a rebuilding stage, especially for the boys team.

Britton says his girls team will be hard-pressed to win their fourth straight district championship, although he does have two experienced senior runners returning.

Heading the Big Spring girls squad is Mimi Regalado, who is earning her fourth letter in cross country. She will be only the second female runner in Big Spring High School history to letter four years. Rocky Avilair who's now attending Notre Dame, was the first to do so last year.

Regalado is coming off a cross country season where she finished 10th at regional, and 27th of 105 runners at the state cross country meet. Her time in the two-mile course of 12:38 is a school record.

Regalado, who has constantly battled leg injuries throughout her high school career, finished 30th at state as a freshman.

In fact she didn't run in the San Angelo meet last Saturday because of a strained hamstring she suffered the week before in the Odessa meet. She ran a 13:39 in Odessa, 39 seconds faster than she did last year at this time, said Britton.

The other varsity runner is senior Ericka Franks, who's working on her third letter. Last year Franks finished 27th at regional, running a 13:36. Last Saturday she ran a 14:15 in the rain in San Angelo. That was 40 seconds faster than her time last year at this time, according to Britton.

"It's a big plus to have Mimi and Ericka," said Britton. "They've been with me long enough to know what I want and what I expect. They know what it takes to get to regional and state."

"I tell the other girls when they (Regalado and Franks) tell me something, they're not trying to boss them. They're telling them something that will help them; they don't want me chewing on them. It helps both the coach and the younger kids."

Britton has established some lofty goals for his two veteran runners. "I'd like to see Mimi break 12 minutes, if she can stay healthy. When you break 12 minutes you're getting into a different zone. I think Ericka can break 13 minutes," said Britton.

A pleasant surprise for Britton has been sophomore Elizabeth Lopez, who's in her first year of cross country running. She ran track last year, but had problems with injuries said Britton.

Lopez has run the team's second fastest time of the season behind Regalado, running a 14:05. "She's run in three meets and gotten three medals," said Britton of Lopez. "She's a good, gutsy runner. One day she could be as good as Mimi; she doesn't have the natural talent that Mimi does, but she's a good worker."

BEIJING — Chinese cyclist Zhou Lingmeri races to a world record Thursday in the women's one kilometer time trial at the 11th Asian Games. Averaging 30.45 miles per hour, Lingmeri pedaled the distance in one minute, 13.899 seconds, breaking the old mark of 1:14.249.

At 65 were Mike Donald, Dan Halldorson, Jim Nelford and Dillard Pruitt.

Steers junior varsity remains undefeated

SNYDER — The Big Spring junior varsity Steers ran their record to 4-0 by downing the Snyder Tigers 29-0 here Thursday night.

The win marked Big Spring's third shutout this season; Monahans has been the only team to score on the Steers.

Big Spring scored in the first quarter on a 25-yard run by Darius Hill. In the second quarter the Steers scored when the Snyder center snapped the ball over the punter's head into the end zone. Big Spring's Oscar Valencia recovered the ball for a TD. Dwayne Edmonds ran in the two-point conversion, giving the Steers a 14-0 lead.

Also in the second quarter Oscar Cervantes booted a 27-yard field goal, upping the lead to 17-0. Still in the second quarter, wingback Valencia threw a 30-yard scoring pass to split end Pat Martinez. Big Spring led 23-0 at the half.

The final score of the game came in the third quarter. Cornerback Stacy Martin intercepted a Snyder pass and returned it 35 yards for a score. Martinez and Tony Sarmiento also intercepted passes. Martinez and Marcus Yanez recovered fumbles.

"The defense is doing a great job, and the offense is averaging about 21 points a game, so they are doing their part, too," said Big Spring coach Tim Tannehill. He added that quarterback Clay Klatt played a good game.

Big Spring is open next week, and will play San Angelo lake View Oct. 11 at 6 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

STEERS FRESHMEN 20, SNYDER 14

The Big Spring freshmen ran their record to 3-1 by downing the Snyder Tigers Thursday night at Memorial Stadium.

Big Spring opened the scoring in the first quarter on a 38-yard run by wingback Mike Oliva. Ritchie Thompson passed to Oliva for the two-point conversion.

Snyder answered with a 30-yard run in the first quarter. Big Spring came back with a 21-yard run by Josh Jones in the second quarter, giving the Steers a 14-8 halftime lead.

Snyder tied the game early in the fourth quarter, setting the stage for Big Spring's winning drive.

The Steers' defense started things by making a goal line stand at their own two-yard line. Then the Steers offense drove the ball 98 yards in eight plays for the winning tally. Jimmy Johnson scored from two yards out, giving the Steers a 20-14 win.

"We ran in between the tackles, and the offensive line opened up the holes," said Big Spring coach Gary Simmons of the winning drive.

Colts don't miss Eric

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Inexperience and not the absence of Eric Dickerson is the big problem facing the winless Indianapolis Colts, according to running back Albert Bentley.

Dickerson's suspension for conduct detrimental to the team is over and the six-time Pro Bowl selection could practice with the team if he reported and passed a physical. But Dickerson remains on the NFL's non-football injured list, awaiting word from the NFL on his appeal that the Colts illegally placed him there.

Bentley, the major offensive weapon of the Colts in the absence of Dickerson, denies that the 0-3 start is due to the uncertainty that has lingered for months over the league's seventh-leading rusher.

"We went ahead with the offense and didn't hold up any of the plans worrying about Eric," said Bentley, who has 41 of the team's 57 rushes for 137 yards and also leads the Colts with 13 receptions for 124 yards. "We tried to get everyone else straight with the feeling that once Eric came in, he'd just blend right in. I don't think developing the offense has been hurt by his situation."

Bentley, who joined the Colts in 1984 after two years in the now-defunct United States Football League, has been the only experienced starter in the backfield. He's been lining up with rookie Jeff George at quarterback and rookies Ken Clark or Anthony Johnson in the backfield.

Tossing in offensive linemen Zefross Moss and Pat Tomberlin gives the Colts four players who made their first NFL start this month.

"If Eric had been here and played the way we know he can, I'd say it might have helped us some. But the inexperience has been the big thing. We've had a unit that is taking a while just learning where to be, what to do."

"We just haven't come together as quickly as we hoped. That's been our downfall, causing things like penalties, fumbles and just bad execution at times. It hasn't been any individual. It's been a unit," Bentley said.

Along with Seattle, the Colts are the only NFL team to lose their first three games. They travel to Philadelphia (1-2) this week before starting a streak of four consecutive home games.

"This would be a great way for us to get our head out of the mud, to go to Philadelphia and get a win," Bentley said.

Rumors that coach Ron Meyer might be fired haven't helped, Bentley adds.

"They sucked it up when they had to and the backs ran great. It wouldn't have been close if we hadn't turned the ball over five times."

Middle linebacker Ricky Gonzales intercepted a pass, and Steve Gallagher played a good game, said Simmons.

RUNNELS A 22, SNYDER 14

SNYDER — The Runnels Yearlings improved their record to 2-1 as they downed Snyder here Thursday night.

Snyder scored first and made the two-point conversion, making the score 8-0. Next Runnels' Donald Vanderbilt ran the kickoff back 75 yards for a score, but it was called back because of clipping.

Runnels then went on to drive the ball in for the score, thanks to passes from Dustin Waters to Frankie Martinez and Tim Rigdon. Donald Vanderbilt scored from six yards out and also ran in the conversion.

In the second quarter Donald Vanderbilt put Runnels up 14-8 with an 80-yard scoring run. Next cornerback Tony Rodriguez intercepted a Snyder pass and returned it 20 yards to the Snyder 25-yard line. Next Waters passed to Rodriguez for 25-yards and the score. Vanderbilt ran in the two-point conversion. Runnels led 22-8 at the half. Rodriguez also intercepted another pass in the first half.

Snyder scored once in the second half, but the Yearlings held on for the win. Top offensive performers for Runnels were Charley Leos, Tedrick McCalister, Andy Mott, Charlie Ochoa, Manuel Cervantes.

RUNNELS B 26, SNYDER 6

SNYDER — The Yearlings got two scoring runs each from Rudy Haddad and Mike Sizenbach to run past Snyder here Thursday night.

Haddad scored on runs of two and 12 yards. Sizenbach returned a kickoff 75 yards for a score and ran 40 yards for another TD.

Runnels coach Ben Neel said both red and white offensive units did real well. Defensively Eladio Zubaite, Johnny Reyes and Richard Thompson played well. Runnels B is 3-0 for the season.

IRAAN 34, COAHOMA JV 0

IRAAN — The Coahoma junior varsity Bulldogs lost their first game of the season against a tough group of Braves from Iraan.

Iraan remains undefeated and unscored on. "They played real good and we didn't play good at all," said Coahoma coach Kim Nichols. "We weren't mentally ready to play, we couldn't block, run or tackle."

Defensively Nichols said Greg Atkinson, Wes Rowell, Juan Moran and Juan Ruiz played well.

Coahoma, 3-1 for the season, will play Wall in Coahoma Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

IRAAN 12, COAHOMA 7th 8
COAHOMA — The Coahoma seventh grade fell to 1-2 as they lost to Iraan here Thursday night.

Coahoma's score came in the third quarter, a 60-yard run by Rudy Dominguez. Adam Tindol passed to Shawn Marien for the two-point conversion.

COAHOMA 8th 14, IRAAN 0

COAHOMA — The Coahoma eighth grade ran its record to 3-0 as it whitewashed Iraan here Thursday.

Jeff Phernetton returned the opening kickoff 75 yards for a score. The two-point conversion was a pass from Chris Matherson to Rocky King. In the third quarter Phernetton ran 20 yards for a score.

Phernetton also intercepted a pass on defense, and John White recovered a fumble. Coahoma also made a goal line stand in the third quarter.

The Coahoma seventh grade will play Big Spring Oct. 6 at 9 a.m. at Blankenship Field. The Coahoma eighth grade will play Big Spring at 10:30 a.m. at Blankenship.

Former NBA commissioner O'Brien dead at 73

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry O'Brien, who directed John F. Kennedy's campaign for president and later served for nearly a decade as commissioner of the National Basketball Association, has died at age 73.

He died Thursday night of cancer at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said Joseph Napolitan, a close friend. "He was a giant of American politics and sports," Napolitan said.

O'Brien's talents for organization and compromise made him one of the Democratic party's leading strategists for two decades. He directed Kennedy's successful senatorial and presidential campaigns, served as congressional liaison for Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, was Postmaster General for three years, and was twice named chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

O'Brien left politics in 1972, and three years later was named commissioner of the NBA.

The 62 was one shot shy of the tournament record set by three players, the last Dave Barr in 1988.

Twitty, bothered by back problems for three years, took off the final five months of 1989 and managed to earn only $6,000 in his first 14 events this year.

Since late May, his earnings have increased to $90,319, beginning with an eighth-place finish in Atlanta.

"My back was hurt for quite a while, but this summer it has been a lot better and since early May it's been about 100 percent," said the 41-year-old Twitty, in his 16th year on tour.

He won the B.C. Open in 1979 and the Hartford Open in 1980, but has never done better than second since.

"It helps if you've been in contention a few times," said Twitty, who hasn't been in a while, although he was close in Atlanta until he managed to shoot only par over the last two rounds.

"I had a good shot at winning Atlanta, but I didn't play well late Saturday or Sunday," he said.

But, he said, "the good thing is that I won and know I've done it, there's no reason why I can't do it again."

Mize, however, could be a large stumbling block.

Mize, who hasn't won since capturing the 1987 Masters, is the leading money winner here, earning more than $577,000 this year — 11th on the money list. And Columbus is where he makes his home.

But, it also puts more pressure on Mize.

DETROIT — Boston Red Sox Jody Reed slides under Detroit Tigers' shortstop Travis Fryman in the first inning of Thursday night's game at Tiger Stadium. Reed was forced out by teammate Carlos Quintana in a double play. Boston won the contest 3-2.

'Jays, Bosox locked in first

By The Associated Press
 The odd race in the American League East is all even.

The Boston Red Sox and Toronto Blue Jays, who have taken turns blowing the division lead since early June, begin a three-game series in Boston tonight. And if ever there were two teams that could split a three-game series, these are the two.

"We've got six games at home. They've got three with us and three with Baltimore. But it means nothing. We have to win games," Boston manager Joe Morgan said after the Red Sox won a big one Thursday night, defeating the Detroit Tigers 3-2 despite Cecil Fielder's 49th home run.

"This is going to be a great series and all the games should be very interesting," catcher Tony Pena said. "Everybody knows how much each game means now."

Two records were set Thursday night. The Chicago White Sox beat Milwaukee 6-4 for Bobby Thigpen's said. "I went right after him. I threw him a great pitch and he went after it and he got it. I'm not the only pitcher he's hit home runs off of. He's hit them off Dave Stewart, too."

The Red Sox scored all their runs in the fourth inning, chasing Detroit starter Steve Searcy (2-7).

Carlos Quintana singled, Dwight Evans doubled and Ellis Burks had an infield single to load the bases for Greenwell, who hit a two-run double. Burks scored on a sacrifice fly by Tom Brunansky.

"This is what baseball is all about," Evans said. "This was a tremendous win for us. It wasn't do or die, but it was mighty important."

Before Boston fans get too excited, Lamp had a word of warning.

"We're looking forward to our series with Toronto, and I'm sure they're looking forward to playing us," he said. "We've played well all season. Baseball's an unpredictable game, as all Red Sox fans know."

White Sox 6, Brewers 4
 Frank Thomas' sixth home run of season snapped a 4-4 tie in the third inning. It came off Tom Edens (5-3), who relieved Kevin Brown in the second inning, and extended Thomas' hitting streak to 10 games.

The White Sox won 11 of 12 games with Milwaukee this season. They added a run off Edens in the sixth on consecutive singles by Ron Karkovice, Robin Ventura and Scott Fletcher.

Winner Wayne Edwards (5-3) pitched 5 2-3 scoreless innings in relief of Melido Perez, who gave up all the Milwaukee runs in the first two innings.

Orioles 5, Indians 3
 Dave Johnson won on the road for the first time since July 28. Johnson (13-8), Baltimore's win- ningest pitcher, yielded two runs and eight hits over eight innings, including Joel Skinner's home run. Olson gave up a run and three hits in the ninth and broke the mark of 34 saves set by Don Aase in 1986.

John Farrell (4-5) was the loser in his second start after spending almost three months on the disabled list because of tendinitis in his right elbow. He yielded four runs and seven hits in 4-1-3 innings, in- cluding Mike Devereaux's 11th home run in the third inning and consecutive RBI singles by Leo Gomez, Billy Ripken and Steve Finley in the fifth.

ARLINGTON — Oakland A's batter Doug Jennings reacts as he is hit by a pitch by Texas Rangers' Brad Arnsberg during eighth inning ac- tion Thursday night. Texas won the game 8-6.

Rangers 8, Athletics 6
 Rookie Scott Chiamparino earned his first major league win against the team that let him go. Chiamparino (1-2), who came to Texas from Oakland last month in the Harold Baines trade, yielded four runs and seven hits in seven innings.

The Rangers had scored only three runs for Chiamparino in 24 1-3 innings, but raked Scott Sanderson (17-11) for eight runs in three innings. Jack Daugherty and Pete Incaviglia hit consecutive homers in the Rangers' five-run first. Rickey Henderson and Jamie Quirk homered for Oakland.

Angels 7, Royals 6
 Devon White foiled Kansas City's five-man infield with a one-out single in the ninth inning to cap a two-run rally. Lance Parrish singled home the tying run off Jeff Montgomery (6-5) and the Angels had the bases loaded when Kansas City yanked its right fielder and put three infielders between first and second. However, White lined a single inside third base.

Bryan Harvey (4-4) was the winner despite allowing Brian McRae's two-run single in the top of the ninth.

Mets, Pirates both win

By The Associated Press
 Randy Tomlin and Ron Darling don't quite see the pennant race the same way.

Yet on Thursday night, they each played a key part as the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Mets head for a possible showdown at Three Rivers Stadium next week.

Tomlin was called up from Double-A ball to pitch in an August doubleheader. He has since become a part of the rotation.

Darling, meanwhile, seems on quality start.

Darling, relegated to the bullpen most of the season, gave up four hits in five innings before Bob Ojeda relieved. Both Darling (7-9) and Ojeda said earlier this week they expected to be traded after the season.

The Expos, eliminated Wednesday, have lost seven straight games after sweeping consecutive three-game series from Pittsburgh and New York. The Expos have scored only two runs in their last 55 innings.

Pirates 3, Cubs 2
 Sid Bream's sixth-inning RBI double snapped a tie as Pittsburgh beat Chicago at Three Rivers Stadium.

Andy Van Slyke added a run-scoring double and Bobby Bonilla drove in his 117th run as the Pirates swept the three-game series. The Pirates have won seven of their last eight.

Mets 6, Expos 0
 Daryl Boston's three-run homer off Montreal starter Kevin Gross (8-12) highlighted New York's four-run sixth inning at Olympic Stadium.

With the Mets leading 1-0, Dave Magadan opened the sixth by drawing a walk from Gross, who is winless since June 11. One out later, Pat Tabler and Tom O'Malley singled before Boston's 12th homer.

Reds 4, Braves 2
 Cincinnati reduced its magic number for winning the NL West to two by beating visiting Atlanta on Glenn Braggs' two-run homer. The Reds' sixth victory in seven games opened their lead to five games over idle Los Angeles with six to play.

Cincinnati was held to four hits through five innings by Steve Avery (3-10), who was protecting a 2-1 lead while pitching with a blister on his hand. But Avery walked Eric Davis to open the sixth and Braggs hit the next pitch over the left-center field wall for his sixth homer.

Tom Browning (15-9) gave up seven hits — all in the first three in- nings — in seven innings before Rob Dibble relieved for his 11th save.

Phillies 4, Cardinals 3
 St. Louis' Jose DeLeon lost 19 games in a season for the second time in his career as John Kruk doubled in two runs for Philadelphia at Veterans Stadium.

DeLeon (7-19) lasted only 12-3 in- nings as he lost his fifth straight decision to Philadelphia. In those five games, he has given up 18 runs and 25 hits in 15 innings. DeLeon was 2-19 in 1985 for Pittsburgh.

A remedy to prevent choking

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — It's not always the successes that are engraved in the minds of sports fans. The failures have their own place in history.

Who can forget watching the ball roll under Bill Buckner's glove, and the World Series slipping away from the Boston Red Sox?

Or hometown idol Carl Yastrzemski popping up to end that 1978 playoff game, making a hero of Bucky Dent and a pennant-winner of the hated Yankees?

This year, baseball's best known chokers have seen a 6½-game lead in the American League East evaporate. They fell behind Toronto by 1½ games, but with victories Wednesday and Thursday climbed back into a tie with Toronto.

Maybe they should also have Wayne Shebilske.

The psychology professor at Texas A&M says he has developed the "Shebilske maneuver" to prevent athletes from "choking" under pressure.

By learning to perform well in clutch situations, stars could become superstars, Shebilske says.

"I feel I can make a difference," Shebilske said, by developing a routine styled for each individual.

"I think I can improve... not so much the overall batting average but getting a hit when the stakes are high."

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M psychologist Wayne Shebilske says he has developed methods to prevent certain athletes from choking when the pressure is on.

Getting rid of butterflies is not the answer; harnessing that pent-up energy is, Shebilske said in an interview.

In short, he says, "calm down and pay attention."

"I believe that the... mind causes neurological lies," he said.

"I think those neurological lies can be reduced somewhat by the people who work with the team's mental attitude and coach those people to calm down."

"My goal is to get the athlete so that they have their swing when they need it, and they have it even when their internal environment changes due to game conditions."

"Game conditions can range from emotional intensity to very high temperatures, low temperatures; early in the game, late in the game; overall fatigue versus temporary fatigue."

Shebilske said this is where feedback comes into play, and feedback is not all that mysterious.

"It can be such things as the feel of the bat in the hand isn't quite right. It can be the tug of the sleeve on the hand as the bat comes around, the feeling of the shirt," he said.

Superstars use such feedback without thinking to give the brain information it needs to compensate for stressful circumstances, Shebilske said.

"What I think I can do at that point is to teach people to cope with those neurological lies," he said.

Also, former Pittsburgh Steeler running back Rocky Bleier was a schoolmate, "and I got to see the kind of body and soul it took to be an athlete and realized I would do better to devote that same kind of energy to school," Shebilske said.

His interest in amateur athletics, he said, was mostly as a coach, umpire and spectator, including at minor league baseball games in Appleton.

Shebilske is cautious about details of his technique, presumably because if it is successful, it could have commercial value.

But he listed steps as: identify a short training procedure to perfect a skill, and practice the procedure during game conditions "close to actual performance time in both high- and low-tension situations."

"I think I can prevent choking by getting batters to change what they do in the on-deck circle, when they step out of the batter's box — better things they can do to make use of those moments," Shebilske said.

The key is to get players to use the procedure without thinking.

A&M defender won't be welcome in Death Valley

COLLEGE STATION — If Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum ignores Tyrone Malone on the sidelines Saturday — it's nothing personal. He might just be trying to avoid flying debris.

Malone returns to Baton Rouge's "Death Valley" for the first time since he scorned Louisiana State University and transferred to A&M last year.

Malone is eager to visit his friends and former teammates at LSU (2-1).

"I'm kind of excited," he said. "I get to see a lot of guys I lived with and a bunch of friends. I'll be happy to see them."

They might welcome him with open arms, but it is unlikely that the 80,140 fans at Tiger Stadium — popularly known as "Death Valley" by opposing teams — will do so.

If rooting against the 11th-ranked Aggies (3-0) weren't enough, they also got Malone to hound.

"I'm sure that the first time I make a tackle, you won't be able to hear my name above the boos," Malone said. "We probably won't be able to hear ourselves anywhere on the field because of the boos."

"I don't plan on going anywhere without my teammates," he said.

"No, we're not out to get him," said Tiger running back and former roommate Harvey Williams. "We hope he has a really good game."

"And I'm not just speaking for myself. The whole team feels that way. Everybody around here loves Tyrone," he said. "But I'm quite sure the fans will boo him — and throw things at him."

Malone, a blue-chip recruit from Sugar Land Willowridge snubbed A&M and several other schools and signed with LSU.

After a redshirt freshman season, the 6-4, 236-pounder worked his way onto the first team during spring drills, but was becoming disenchanted with the school.

Malone says he hit an all-time low on Thanksgiving day when he was left alone in the dorm, while teammates were at home enjoying the holiday with their families.

"I was just a kid 500 miles away from home," he said. "I didn't want to live like that for four years."

Malone made a decision to move closer to home and chose Texas A&M, mainly to rejoin his former high school coach John Pearce, now an A&M assistant.

"I was a kid who had been taken care of by a couple of older players on the team," recalls Malone, who starts at outside linebacker. "Then all of a sudden they were gone and I was alone. I wasn't mature enough to handle it."

That decision did not endear him to Tiger fans and Malone added fuel to the fire by zinging LSU with a few parting shots as he was leaving campus such as describing it as a "party school."

But Malone was just one of several disgruntled Tiger players to transfer, but was singled out because of the comments.

Ironically, the week of last year's A&M-LSU contest, law officers announced that Malone was wanted for questioning after a package from Las Vegas and addressed to him arrived on campus with $10,000 worth of cocaine in it.

Charges were never filed and after a brief investigation, Malone was cleared.

Despite his innocence, Malone lived in fear for a week.

"I was scared," Malone said. "Every night when I went to bed, I had no idea if the FBI would be at my door in the morning. It was hard to realize that I was about 10 minutes from jail."

NHL suspends Fuhr

NEW YORK (AP) — Edmonton goaltender Grant Fuhr has been sidelined by the NHL for using drugs.

But while announcing a one-year suspension Thursday, NHL president John Ziegler left the door open for a possible early reinstatement. Fuhr could be back as early as Feb. 18, 1991, if he met certain conduct requirements.

"I have given consideration to the fact that he has been drug-free for 12 months," Ziegler said in a statement. "I have given weight to the fact that he has come forward and is facing this matter head on."

Ziegler's ruling came one day after a hearing was held in Toronto for Fuhr, who had been suspended after his drug use became public in a story in the Edmonton Journal on Aug. 31.

The Journal, quoting several sources, including Fuhr's ex-wife, reported he used cocaine since approximately 1983 or 1984 and that he failed a private drug test and spent two weeks in a Florida treatment center in August 1989. Fuhr, 28, admitted he had abused a "substance" since approximately 1983 or 1984.

Fuhr became the fifth player disciplined for drug use or possession in Ziegler's 12 years as the head of the league. The others — Don Murdoch in 1978, Ric Natross in 1983, Borje Salming in 1986 and Bob Probert in 1989 — were all reinstated before their full suspensions, and Ziegler gave Fuhr and the Oilers a chance to appeal this suspension.

"This has indeed been a most sad case," Ziegler said of Fuhr. "Mr. Fuhr has been an All-Star player for most of his career. He admits he has made a major mistake and is working hard to redeem."

In his statement, Ziegler said Fuhr used "cocaine, an illegal drug," for approximately six to seven years prior to August 1989.

"This use was sporadic, sometimes 'bingeful,' but never at an addictive level."

The time period of Fuhr's admitted substance abuse came while he was considered one of the world's best goaltenders and while he was backstopping the Oilers to four Stanley Cups.

"His conduct went on for a period of six to seven years," Ziegler said. "It went on in spite of a clear league policy that if you use illegal drugs you will be suspended."

"Mr. Fuhr's actions were intentional and were in defiance of this policy. He must suffer the consequences."

Ziegler, however, also said that "the Oilers and Mr. Fuhr may apply for a commutation of this order by presenting a written application to the president of the NHL on or before Feb. 1, 1991, but not prior to Jan. 15, 1991."

"If it can be demonstrated to the president's satisfaction that Mr. Fuhr has, in the interim, conducted himself in a manner so as not to have caused dishonor or prejudice to the league, the suspension will be lifted and he will be reinstated effective Feb. 18, 1991."

Ziegler said during Fuhr's suspension he could "participate, at his club's discretion, in all training and practice sessions so as to keep himself fit and to maintain an adequate level of his hockey skills."

In Edmonton, Oilers general manager Glen Sather didn't agree with Ziegler's decision.

"I think it was much too harsh," he told a news conference before the Oilers' exhibition game against the Winnipeg Jets.

Sather said he hoped Ziegler would take into consideration that Fuhr had admitted his problem and decided to deal with it. But the Oilers will not appeal the decision because "it would be a waste of time to appeal."

Sather said Fuhr, who has been in counseling, was "devastated" by the decision.

"He had spent a long time trying to get himself straightened out. I told him to remain positive and think of the future," Sather said.

Although the NHL announced Fuhr would be suspended without pay, Sather said the Oilers will pay the goaltender a salary "as long as he practices."

Writing around

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ

"Transfer" is a word that brings a chill to any working individual's back. It has also been accused of causing relationships with one's better half to be strained.

In my case, the new world turned out to be a blessing in disguise.

My wife (Norma), kids (Trey, 2½, and Linsey 6 months) and I moved into Martin County not knowing what to expect from a small community with a history full of insight and people to match.

With these doubts still alive, I went to work, while my wife stayed home and faced the task of unpacking our jungle.

Trey and Linsey did their part — they decided to help Mom.

As the days went by, one thing that kept popping up in everybody's conversation was the Old Settlers Reunion.

"What's that?" I wondered. Working closely with Martin County Historical Museum Curator Ruby Payne and Mrs. Stanley Reid, my life was made easier. They helped educate me on the reunion format.

This reunion was nothing more than the best planned and organized festival this reporter has ever seen. Martin Countians from all over the area participated in one or more area of the festivities. They dedicated their time and effort to make this 57th annual reunion a success.

For so many years they have enjoyed the success of what a handful of people managed to keep close to their hearts since 1931.

After the reunion, the County Fair became an obstacle that I had to wrestle with. With the county fair gone, I was almost afraid to ask what the city had in store next.

According to the Stanton and Grady communities, there was nothing for a while, except FOOTBALL.

I said to myself, now there is something I know about. Ha! Ha! Buffalomania and Wildcat craze hit this reporter square on my round face.

Being from — I admit it — Coahoma, I thought that, well maybe my colors would not change that much. Sorry, Bulldogs, I now stand firmly behind the Battling Buffs and the Wildcats. Without hesitation, I adopted this Stanton football team as the team to beat and win the District 6AA district crown, again.

My perfect season as a Buffalo fan will be homecoming. That's when most of my old friends from my old alma mater saunter into Buffalo Stampede Territory. Coahoma's Bulldogs and their fans will take home at least a couple of buffalo hoof prints as a reminder of the new era in Stanton. As part of my personal ritual, I will go out on a limb and predict a 24-14 Buff win. And see Stanton march into the playoffs for a third year.

Millhollon trust estate shows growth

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

The Nettie Millhollon Educational Trust Fund Estate, which provides low-interest loans for any college student in Texas, has grown to more than $2 million in the last 27 years.

According to Rene Crosthwait, the secretary-treasurer for the trust fund, there are currently 333 loans out to students; 73 made during the fall 1990 semester.

"Student loans are all we can do. Students in the whole state of Texas are eligible and they can go to college anywhere they want to," said Crosthwait, the only full-time employee for the trust fund estate.

"But we don't provide loans for graduate work. She (Millhollon) probably felt that if a student wanted to continue, they could go further on their own," said Crosthwait from her desk in the Millhollon building.

Millhollon died in 1960, leaving her estate, valued at $346,354.42, as a trust fund "to be used in aiding and assisting worthy and well qualified poor and underprivileged boys and girls who make application for assistance in furthering their education."

Today, the fund has grown to $2,411,956.71 in two separate accounts. The principle fund for the trust fund estate.

Iranians protest U.S. presence in Persian Gulf

By JEFF DONN
Associated Press Writer

Millions of Iranians staged anti-American demonstrations today, chanting "Death To America" and denouncing the U.S.-led forces deployed in the Persian Gulf in the standoff with Iraq, according to a news report.

Tehran radio, monitored in Nicosia, covered the protest in the Iranian capital live from the streets. It said others were held across the nation.

A reporter said the demonstrations were "an opportunity for the nation to announce its stance on the attack on Kuwait, followed by the U.S. forces' hasty departure to take up positions in Saudi Arabia."

Iran has condemned Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait, but it has deplored the U.S.-led multinational forces sent to protect Saudi Arabia and enforce a U.N.-imposed embargo against Baghdad.

However, it has said it is cooperating with the embargo. And on Thursday, Britain and Iran suddenly announced the restoration of diplomatic ties. They were severed after the late Ayatollah Khomeini's death decree against author Salman Rushdie for his book "The Satanic Verses."

In Paris, representatives of the United States and 20 industrialized nations met behind closed doors to discuss how to replenish oil supplies if they are depleted by the Gulf crisis.

Jitters over the crisis sent stocks plunging on major markets.

Stock prices dropped to the lowest point in 3½ years in Tokyo today, and analysts blamed fear of

In New York, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials plunged 43.83 points to 2,383.66 in the first half-hour of trading. The key barometer has shed 600 points, or lost 20 percent in value, in the past six weeks.

The U.S. government said today that its main economic forecasting gauge declined 1.2 percent in August following the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the steepest drop in three years.

The Commerce Department's Index of Leading Economic Indicators had been unchanged in July. Since the invasion, however, consumer confidence and the stock market have plunged, hurting an already sluggish economy.

Oil hit $40 a barrel Thursday, exactly eight weeks after Iraqi President Saddam Hussein sent his troops into Kuwait and increased his share of world oil reserves to 20 percent. Oil sold for $22 per barrel before the invasion.

Kuwait's exiled emir, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmad al-Jaber al-Sabah, was to meet today with President Bush in Washington. The White House invitation underscored the U.S. view that the emir is still the legitimate ruler of Kuwait.

Spain and South Korea said they were withdrawing envoys from their embassies in Kuwait following a day of angry protests from Western governments over Iraq's efforts to intimidate foreign diplomats in Baghdad.

For the past five weeks, Iraqi soldiers have been trying to starve diplomats out of their compounds in Kuwait. At last word, the U.S. ambassador and envoys in more than a dozen other embassies were still holding out. The Iraqi forces have cut off water, electricity and any supplies to the embassies.

Baghdad says the embassies must close because Kuwait was annexed and made a province of Iraq. The diplomatic war escalated this month when Iraq raided several Western diplomatic compounds in Kuwait City.

Hance: Oil could hit $50 within two weeks

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN — Texas' top oil regulator says crude oil prices could reach $50 a barrel within two weeks.

And if war breaks out in the Middle East, the price could jump to $75 per 42-gallon barrel, Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance said.

"I think that the market is so psychologically driven right now — with the thoughts of war and its inevitability — that you're going to see it go up," Hance said Thursday in an interview with The Associated Press.

The Railroad Commission regulates oil and gas production in Texas, and Hance has been an observer at meetings of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Hance said he based his $50 prediction on market reaction since Bush announced on Wednesday an order to tap 5 million barrels of oil from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve.

Although Bush said he wanted to combat escalating prices, Hance said, the president's announcement doesn't appear to have had that effect.

In trading Thursday on the New York Mercantile Exchange, contracts for near-month delivery of West Texas Intermediate oil, the benchmark U.S. grade, rose 87 cents to close at a record $39.54.

"I didn't think that we'd hit $50 until President Bush made his announcement," Hance said. "That should have made the markets go down."

"But traders worldwide are looking at it as if he's testing the strategic reserve for war, to make sure it works," Hance said. "It should have hurt the market. But the market is so strong, it continued to go up even with that bearish news," he said.

Oil prices might not rise to $50 if Bush opens more of the strategic reserve, Hance said.

Oil prices have risen steadily since the Iraqi army overran Kuwait two months ago.

Saying he believes there still is a 70 percent chance of war, Hance said a peaceful settlement of the Mideast crisis could see oil prices fall back to the $21 to $25 per barrel range.

Hance said the higher prices were a "mixed blessing" for Texas.

trust is $1,144,860.12 and, following Millhollon's instructions, that capital is never touched.

The revenue and interest from the principle account is placed into the loan fund to be used for the student loans. The loan fund currently has a balance of $1,045,904.24.

The Trust Fund loans a student $1,500 per fall and spring semester. As Millhollon also bequeathed, interest is not charged for the loans until the student has been out of school for 90 days.

Then the interest starts accruing, but once the principle is paid, the interest charges stop. The last payments on the loan are made to cover the interest. In this way, although the loans are made at 8 percent interest, the student actually repays at only about 3 percent interest, Crosthwait said.

More than four months of talks have brought tentative agreements to cut defense and domestic programs and raise the government's take on items ranging from gasoline to Medicare premiums, officials familiar with the talks said Thursday.

But at nearly 1:30 a.m. today, negotiators broke for the evening saying they could not yet shake hands on a pact.

"So close and yet we're not quite there," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., as he and other bargainers ended their back-room meeting in the Capitol.

The major question remained whether Democrats would finally agree to a reduction in the capital gains tax — a longtime demand of President Bush — and which levies on the wealthy would be boosted to compensate.

"We're still working on all of that," said House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

Without a budget deal, federal drug agents, nurses at veterans' hospitals, and many of the government's 2.1 million civilian workers faced furloughs beginning Monday.

The lack of an agreement would trigger $85 billion in spending cuts. Social Security, soldiers' salaries and many initiatives for the poor are exempted, but most federal programs faced immediate budget slashes of about one-third.

At the talks, Republicans were willing to abandon the president's insistence to lower the rates of the capital gains tax, which is charged against the profits of property sales, officials said.

Instead, they were willing to leave current rates alone and exempt from the levy increases in the value of an asset due to inflation.

But insistent that most benefits of the tax cut would go to the wealthy, Democrats were holding out for a counter-balancing tax increase on the well-to-do.

Several options were under consideration, including raising tax rates on the richest Americans and limiting their deductions.

A rate increase would represent a significant political victory for Democrats over Bush, whose 1988 campaign is best remembered for his chant of "No new taxes."

The two sides have tentatively agreed to hold defense spending to $170 billion below the amount it would need to stay even with inflation over the next five years, including a $10 billion cut next year.

The growth of benefit programs would be slowed by $120 billion, half of it coming from Medicare.

Participants in the program, which provides health care to 33 million elderly and disabled people, would bear half the cuts. Much of the savings would come from a $5.70 increase in the $28.60 payment they make monthly for doctors' coverage. Doctors and hospitals would have to swallow the other half of the Medicare reductions.

Over five years, support payments to farmers would be cut $12 billion and benefits for civil servants would drop by $14 billion.

Although not yet agreed to, it appeared likely that Social Security recipients would be hit for $20 billion in savings, either by having cost-of-living increases delayed or the taxes on their benefits increased.

Town celebrates 100th anniversary of Ike's birth

By TERRI LANGFORD
Associated Press Writer

DENISON — If David Jacob Eisenhower had been a better businessman, this small town north of Dallas may never have laid claim to his famous son, Dwight David Eisenhower.

Out of work after his Kansas grocery business failed, Eisenhower took his family to Denison in 1888, where he worked as a steam wiper for the Katy Railroad.

The family left three years later, about eight months after the future president was born.

But they didn't count on the sharp memory of Denison schoolteacher Jennie Jackson, who recalled rocking a "David Eisenhower" on her lap after reading about Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's Army career.

For years, the man who later became the nation's 34th president had incorrectly given Tyler, Texas, as his birthplace.

She secretly wrote Eisenhower, who told her to contact his mother, Ida. She wrote back confirming the general was indeed the same "David Eisenhower" Miss Jackson remembered.

She then went public with a campaign to save the small clapboard house where Eisenhower was born.

Miss Jackson died shortly after she persuaded the city to buy the house in 1946, but not before a reunion with the future president that year when he visited Denison. Eisenhower was elected president in 1952.

"The main thing was he was born in Denison and that means a lot to have a president born here," said Vivian Hassel, 82, a former tour guide at the birthplace, now a state historic landmark.

About eight months after Eisenhower, the third of seven sons, was born Oct. 14, 1890, the family moved to Abilene, Kansas.

Originally named David Dwight Eisenhower, he reversed the names by high school.

Today and Sunday, Denison residents will celebrate the 100th birthday of the native son they almost never had, with a parade, 10-kilometer run, birthday party, ball and even a President and Mrs. Eisenhower look-alike contest.

Attending the ceremonies will be Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, and Eisenhower's nephew Earl Eisenhower Jr.

A special coin commemorating the 100th birthday will be unveiled by the U.S. Department of Treasury.

City officials are holding the anniversary early to prevent an overlap with the Abilene celebration next month.

Although the Kansas city is also closely associated with Eisenhower, his Denison connection is no secret.

Last year, more than 75,000 tourists visited the modest two-story home, and Mayor Ben Munson said there are plans to double the size of the two-acre park where it is located.

A 15-minute tour of the house includes the humorous tale of the tumbling block quilt, the only original Eisenhower family possession inside the birthplace.

Sewn by Eisenhower's mother and her sons, including the former president, it was donated by a family member years ago, spurring a controversy among the Eisenhower relatives.

For years the family fought over the ownership of the quilt, said Ajkeem Elahi, the park's manager. This year, a family member visited the house and laughed when she saw it.

"She said they're still fighting over that," he said.

Budget deal jelling; differences remain

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congressional and White House bargainers are near a $500 billion budget deal, but lingering differences over new taxes on the rich mean that wide-scale slashes in federal programs still loom for Monday.

The lack of an agreement would trigger $85 billion in spending cuts. Social Security, soldiers' salaries and many initiatives for the poor are exempted, but most federal programs faced immediate budget slashes of about one-third.

At the talks, Republicans were willing to abandon the president's insistence to lower the rates of the capital gains tax, which is charged against the profits of property sales, officials said.

Tax increases tentatively set

Democrats would like to boost the income tax rate on the wealthiest Americans above its current 28 percent. People who fall just below the top bracket must pay taxes of 33 percent, and Democrats would like to increase the top rate to at least 31 percent, officials said.

As an alternative, they are considering a plan limiting the deductions people who earn above $100,000 can claim to 90 or 95 percent of what they would otherwise be entitled.

Democrats also have proposed lifting the earnings ceiling above which Medicare taxes are not taken out of paychecks.

As part of Social Security withholding, people now pay a 1.45 percent tax to support Medicare on earnings up to $51,300 per year. They pay nothing on money they earn above that amount. Under the proposal, that ceiling would be lifted to $65,000 or $75,000.

NEW YORK — An attempt by President Bush to calm the oil markets failed and prices for crude peaked $40 a barrel for the first time.

Bush's announcement Wednesday that the government would sell 5 million barrels of oil from the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve was overshadowed by antagonistic statements from Iraq and reports that an American warship fired across the bow of an Iraqi tanker.

The November contract for light, sweet crude rose 87 cents Thursday to settle at $39.54 a 42-gallon barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange after trading as high as $40.10.

NEW YORK — A judge put off the final chapter of Wall Street's worst scandal, delaying the sentencing of Michael Milken to allow time for an unusual hearing on other alleged crimes by the junk-bond financier.

The surprise ruling Thursday by U.S. District Judge Kimba M. Wood followed by a day the release of a pre-sentencing memo from prosecutors that urged a stiff sentence on the basis of a broad array of wrongdoing.

The judge was scheduled to pronounce punishment for Milken Monday. He faces a maximum 28 years imprisonment after pleading guilty to six felonies in April.

DANBURY, Conn. — Union Carbide Corp. said it would sell some assets and reorganize one of its principle subsidiaries under a restructuring expected to produce $600 million in after-tax proceeds.

The plan, announced Thursday, calls for the chemical company to sell up to half the equity in one subsidiary, while selling off its interest in two businesses and restructuring its industrial gases business. It also includes buying back up to 14 percent of its common stock.

About half the proceeds would be used to reduce debt.

DENVER — President Bush's son Neil testified he was a "go-between" for a controversial line of credit extended by the failed thrift where he was a director. But he insisted his actions involved no conflict.

Bush was testy at times as he testified Thursday on the third day of a hearing on the government's conflict-of-interest allegations against him.

Bush was a director of Silverado Banking, Savings and Loan Association, which collapsed in 1988 at an estimated cost to taxpayers of $1 billion.

WASHINGTON — Regulators learned the government fund protecting bank accounts is dwindling faster than thought only two months ago, and they voted a 1991 increase of more than 60 percent on the deposit insurance premiums charged banks.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.'s bank fund dropped from $13.2 billion at the end of last year to $11.4 billion at the end of June — a 14 percent decline.

NEW YORK — Bank customers could pay higher fees or receive lower interest on their savings to help make up for the increase in bank insurance premiums mandated by regulators, industry analysts said.

The insurance increase also could reduce profits in an already-troubled industry, the analysts said Thursday. But they added that the higher premiums were necessary to ensure the health of the banking system.

LONDON — Laura Ashley, hailed as a great British retailing success story until falling on hard times, said it will sell or close most of its factories and cut its work force by one-fifth in an effort to survive.

The retailer of English country-style women's clothing and home furnishings operates nearly 500 stores worldwide, 185 of them in the United States.

The company said Thursday it would largely abandon manufacturing its own apparel because it can be bought much more cheaply from outside suppliers.

MOSCOW — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev began using his sweeping new powers to rescue the collapsing Soviet economy, ordering businesses to fulfill supply contracts and the government to ensure distribution.

But it was far from clear that people would comply with his order Thursday. Many are uncertain how they will fit in the market economy Gorbachev is trying to establish and they find it more profitable to trade goods on the black market, rather than distribute them in the established structure.

VIENNA, Austria — The Persian Gulf crisis and its negative impact on East European economies has sent the Viennese stock market into a tailspin, after two years of outperforming other European bourses.

From an all-time high of 739.21 points on March 13, the exchange's Boersenkammer index slumped to a low of 464.68 this week.

And since Aug. 1, the day before Iraq invaded Kuwait and sent oil prices rocketing and international markets reeling, the index has been Europe's worst casualty — off 35 percent.

The stock market declined broadly again Thursday as higher oil prices spooked investors. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 32.17 points to 2,427.48.

Spain on Thursday ordered two Iraqi diplomats to leave the country and denied two others permission to take up their posts.

South Korea's Foreign Ministry announced in Seoul today that it temporarily closed its embassy in Kuwait. It said Ambassador Soh Byung-yong and the few remaining staff arrived in Amman, Jordan, on Thursday.

Turkey enforced the U.N. air embargo against Iraq by searching planes bound for Baghdad, and Spain and South Korea joined other nations in pulling envoys from embassies besieged by Iraqi troops in Kuwait.

The United Nations has authorized nations to order planes bound for Iraq to land when they pass over their territory and submit to searches.

Iraq's army newspaper today accused Israel and Egypt of setting up an intelligence station in Israel's Negev Desert to gather data on the movement of Iraqi troops. Al-Qaddisiya, quoting unidentified Arab sources, said the electronic and radar reconnaissance station was financed by the former rulers of Kuwait and the government of Saudi Arabia.

Another Iraqi newspaper, the government-run Al-Jomhouriya, said Israel would be among targets struck in the "coming fire," for which it said the United States and its allies would bear responsibility.

Malone's power proves too much for the Bulldogs

By BILL AYRES
City Editor

The running ability of Iraan junior back Riley Malone proved too much in Friday's 17-7 victory over the Coahoma Bulldogs.

Malone dominated the Iraan offense, carrying the ball 29 of the 42 plays for 177 yards, scoring two touchdowns for the Braves.

Mike Finley, Iraan head coach, stated the Coahoma defense forced the Braves to call audibles at the line. "We'd go to the line with one play, then call an audible, giving the ball to Riley. He's a good running back and the man we're going to go with," Finley said.

Iraan scored on its first possession of the game on a hand-off from Brave quarterback Corby Maurer to Malone. After breaking a couple of tackles, through the middle of the line, Malone dashed 58 yards for the touchdown. The PAT by Maurer was good to put Iraan up 7-0.

Coahoma was unable to move the ball on its first possession, punting the ball away with 10:05 remaining in the first quarter.

The Bulldog defense held Iraan, blocking one pass attempt and stopping the Braves on a fourth and one.

The Bulldogs took over on their own 41. Eight minutes later, after 13 plays, quarterback Brent Elmore completed a 32-yard pass to Mike Mendez for the score. Mike Hernandez kicked the extra point to tie the game with 57 seconds remaining.

Neither team's offensive units were able to launch a successful scoring drive during the second quarter.

Coahoma's defensive guard recovered a fumble early in the quarter, but the Braves held.

As the half came to a close, Iraan was in possession of the ball on the Coahoma 17, following a 42-yard run by Malone. The Bulldogs dug in, holding Iraan at the one yard line. Two plays later, Iraan, faced with a fourth and 13, attempted a 30-yard field goal. The kick was blocked by Coahoma, which regained possession on its 32 with 17 seconds remaining. The Bulldogs were able to move the ball to the Iraan 44 before time ran out.

Iraan added its second score early in the third quarter on a lateral-pass play from Maurer to Jesse Rivero to Malone for 63 yards. Maurer added one more with the extra point kick, to put the Braves out in front 14-7, with 9:07 left in the quarter.

The final score came late in the final quarter. Iraan, after being held by the Coahoma defense, went for a 20-yard field goal. The attempt by Maurer was good, putting the score at 17-7.

A fumble by Coahoma, with 1:24 remaining in the game, ended the final offensive drive of the game. Iraan elected to run out the clock as Maurer fell on the ball after each snap.

"Our boys played hard," said Steve Park, Coahoma head coach. "They have a good ball club. Our defense held them, but they had a couple of big plays."

"We had no field position during the second half," said Park.

Coahoma quarterback Elmore completed five of nine passes for 116 yards. Leading the ground attack for the Bulldogs was Mendez, who had 33 yards on 15 carries; followed by Shane Walker with 31 yards and Keith Fontana with 32.

The Bulldog defense held Iraan to six first downs and 63 passing yards, but were unable to stop Malone.

The Bulldogs, now 2-2 for the season and 0-1 in district play, will face Wall next Friday.

Bulldog band hopes to improve

By BILL AYRES
City Editor

The Coahoma High School marching band may be small in numbers, but members make up for it in pride.

"We're a young band," said Mike Porras, Coahoma band director. "We have better sound and tone quality than past years," he added.

Currently the Coahoma band has 50 members, with 47 in the marching band and three alternates. Porras has been at Coahoma for three years; prior to Coahoma, he was at Fort Davis and had been an aide in Alpine.

The band is busy preparing for contest, which will be held in Abilene on Oct. 20. "We're a lot better than last year," Porras said.

The Coahoma band received a III at contest. "You could consider that as being average," he said. "Our band members have a better attitude this year."

The band has been working hard preparing for contest, performing some of its contest routines during the half of Coahoma football games.

"This year at contest we will lead off with a selection entitled 'Amarillo'. We will feature a trumpet solo by junior David Scott," Porras said.

"We will follow a piece entitled 'Rawhide' to highlight our percussion section. The piece was used as the theme of a western show.

"The third selection we will perform will be 'Ghost riders in the sky'.

"Our final selection will be a brass sextet entitled 'Happy Trails,'" Porras said.

"We will be looking for a stronger showing this year."

Garden City buries Wink

Bearcat territory was treacherous for the Wink Wildcats Friday night as the Garden City team plowed over the Wildcats 76-7.

Leading groundgainer for the game was Richard Morales of Garden City, who caught 6 passes for 163 yards and made 5 TD's, one on an interception.

The scoring got off to an early start when Shae Scott threw a 29-yarder to Richard Morales. The PAT was kicked by Jody Bradford. With 10:24 to go in the first quarter, the score was 7-0, Garden City.

Wink made its only score with 7:19 left in the first quarter. Jason Bounds ran one yard for the points, and Troy Ratliff kicked the extra point.

The Bearcats were back at it with 5:33 to go when they got on the scoreboard again with a 1-yard run by Mario Aguilar. Bradford kicked for the PAT.

The next score came with 8:38 to go in the second quarter with James Soles running in the final yard for the TD. David Rodriguez ran the ball in for 2 to bring the score to 22-7.

At 4:51 to go, Mario Aguilar made a 17-yard run to score one more, with Bradford kicking the extra point.

With only 4 seconds remaining in the half, Allen Hoelscher, Garden City, threw a 42-yard pass to Richard Morales, and Bradford kicked in the extra point.

In the third quarter, with 9:37 left, Allen Hoelscher's 28-yard pass found Richard Morales; Bradford kicked for the PAT.

Richard Morales got an interception with 8:43 left in the quarter and ran 38 yards for the TD. Again, it was Bradford on the extra point.

With 7:32 to go in the third quarter, Shae Scott's 14-yard pass to Jim Bob Scott, along with Bradford's kick, added 7 more points to the Bearcats' lopsided score.

At 5:10 to go in the quarter, Shae Scott found Morales with a 39-yard pass, and Bradford's kick made another 7-point addition.

The fourth quarter was more of the same with Shae Scott passing to Allen Hoelscher for a TD with 8:29 left in the game; Bradford's aim held true for the extra point.

The final score of the game came with 5:44 left. Eric Seidenberger recovered a Wildcat fumble in the end zone for 6 points. The extra point attempt failed, and the final score was 76-7, Bearcats.

Friday's game takes the Garden City Bearcats to 3-1 and the Wink Wildcats to 0-4.

Death: One more burden Baylor must bear

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

WACO — Grant Teaff is one of those old-fashioned coaches who still come to the press box after a Baylor game to rehash what happened.

It's a courtesy that few, if any, coaches in college football extend to writers. He's always been willing to tell you eye-to-eye why he made a certain call and you have an opportunity right then to question his judgment.

The press box interview with Teaff has always been one of the best aspects of covering a game at Baylor.

It's one of many classy things Teaff does and is always appreciated by writers on deadline.

But for the first time in his 19-year Baylor career, Teaff didn't make it to the press box after the

Bears beat Sam Houston State on Sept. 22.

It was understandable, though, as another tragedy had befallen the Baylor athletic family.

Ten minutes before kickoff, Teaff got word that John Karkoska, a big strapping offensive lineman, died for reasons that mystified six doctors.

Karkoska had collapsed on Sept. 13 while running wind sprints, sending shock waves through the Baylor squad. He never recovered from what doctors eventually concluded was viral gastroenteritis that resulted in kidney and liver failure.

A football game became of secondary importance to Teaff and the Baylor squad. They cut practices short and didn't even hold one on Friday before the game. Teaff never even studied film on the opponent because of his constant vigil at the hospital.

Karkoska's death served as a painful reminder of other Baylor athletic tragedies:

- Freshman basketball player Angel Gist was killed in a one-car accident in 1989, the same year freshman football player Albert Greggs had a leg amputated after a shooting.

- Basketball recruit Joe Davis of Tom Bean High School died in January in a two-car accident.

- Almost 10 years ago, Baylor football player Kyle Woods was paralyzed in a scrimmage.

Teaff has had to be a tough guy emotionally and physically to handle all that's happened to him.

He was nearly killed while coaching at McMurry College when the team plane crashed — with all aboard surviving miraculously.

Only this last summer he had a back operation and had to convalesce at home for several months.

Last year his wife, Donnell, had a dangerous scrape with viral pneumonia that sent her to the hospital.

Teaff's greatest hour in athletics was taking Baylor to its very first Cotton Bowl in 1974, fighting long odds to pull it off. Four years later, they did it again.

However, in the battle of life, he's received some cheap shots.

Losing Karkoska will be just another in a long line of tragedies that Teaff and the Baylor athletic department have had to overcome.

Teaff said he plans to rename the "Fighting Bear Award" after Karkoska.

He said the award "goes to the player who is one of those attitude guys, who does his very best all the time and gives effort and typifies the kind of player that a coach just loves to have."

Baylor football will be branded by the tragedy in 1990. Wins and losses seem insignificant when a personal cataclysm strikes.

And Baylor has had a burden few other athletic departments have had to bear.

Mailbag

'Tis the season . . .

To the editor:

On the first day of football season dark clouds parted and a loud voice was heard throughout the land — "Remember all of you high school coaches — you are there for the boys and remember the boys are not there for you!!!"

On the second day of football season dark clouds parted and a loud voice was heard throughout the land — "Remember all you college coaches all the young men are out there for you — you are not there for them."

On the third day of football season dark clouds parted, and a loud voice was heard throughout the land — "Remember all of you professional coaches — the players are not out there for you — they are out there for themselves!!!"

Bear defense shines, on borrowed time

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO — Mixing pride with advancing age is the sporting world's recipe for a Molotov cocktail.

The return of the Bears' punishing defense to the top of the NFL heap may be one of the young season's most welcome surprises — the game is never more exhilarating than when it yields "Snap! Crackle! Pop!" — but it also could be one of the most short-lived. So enjoy it while it lasts. This thing could blow up as early as next week.

A bookie taking bets it won't happen again would not have lacked for action in the Chicago locker room following Sunday's 19-16 win over the Minnesota Vikings.

The outcome pushed the Bears to 3-0 and pretty much guaranteed that their lease on the penthouse of defense — the league's No. 1 ranking — would be extended for another week. That's not bad — until you remember that once upon a time, they virtually owned the place.

In 1985, with irascible Buddy Ryan commanding the troops, the Bears' defense revolutionized football. Through the late 1970s and early 1980s, while almost every other club spent their highest picks on draft day gambling on golden-armed quarterbacks or similarly potent offensive weapons, the Bears kept accumulating defensive gems.

It began in 1979 with the selection of Dan Hampton and Al Harris (selected 1a and 1b) and stretched through the selection of William "Refrigerator" Perry in 1985. The Bears stocked the team with enough back-breakers over that stretch — Otis Wilson, Singletary, Todd Bell, Dave Duerson, Richard Dent, Wilber Marshall and Shaun Gayle (in 1984, they even took a flyer on Illinois tackle Mark Butkus because a relative named Dick was a pretty fair defender) — to win the Super Bowl in January 1986 and terrorize opponents long after the rest of their game wouldn't have scared some college teams.

Indeed, so strong was the core left behind when Ryan took his scorched-earth philosophy to greener (and silver) pastures in Philadelphia that new defensive coordinator Vince Tobin did a little tinkering and kept the steamroller going with the same brutal efficiency.

It went so well for so long that almost nobody noticed how old and how fragile the parts had become — until last year.

Chicago started 1989 by going 4-0 — and then Hampton, an 11-year-veteran, went down for his ninth and 10th knee surgeries. With him went the pass rush and just about everything and anything that could have salvaged the season.

Marshall was long gone, via the free-agent express to Washington, and Wilson was derailed for good because of a bad knee. Harris and Bell had already joined Buddy in Philly. Perry couldn't push himself away from the table or past most blockers, and linemate Dent, playing with a string of nagging injuries, was chasing him up the scale. Injuries also limited the playing time of Gayle and Duerson (whose ineffectiveness got him shipped out in training camp this year).

Although Singletary and Steve McMichael performed credibly in 1989, there was little they could do to fill all the gaping holes on the field — and even less to offset the psychological damage coach Mike Ditka inflicted on the handful of promising youngsters with his tirade of the week. Chicago slid to 6-10 and the defensive ranking dropped from No. 2 in 1988 to No. 25.

It is safe to say no one expected Ditka to be this mellow by this juncture of the season — nor the Bears, and particularly the defense, to be this good.

In three games, the team has one shutout (in the opener against Seattle), has surrendered just two touchdowns, one the result of an interception, collected 11 sacks, forced the same number of fumbles and intercepted seven passes. In the bargain, the Bears' defense has proven that the precipitous drop in performance last year was in large part the result of injuries and inexperience.

A young secondary, toasted by Ditka as often as opposing receivers last year, is playing almost flawlessly. The steadying influence of Perry, Hampton and McMichael rotating at the tackles has enabled second-year defensive end Trace Armstrong to match his sack total (five) for all of 1989 and helped Dent, the other end, to regain the form that made him the Super Bowl MVP.

To their credit, the Bears, especially compared to previous years, are doing very little growling.

Nobody wants to be reminded that the numbers have come against three teams with just two wins among them and that the players who provide much of the heart and most of the soul on the unit — Singletary, Hampton (33) and McMichael (three weeks shy of 33) — already are playing on borrowed time.

Snyder Tigers tie 9th ranked Steers, 14-14

Sports Editor

SNYDER — While most state attention was focused on the Odessa High-Odessa Permian game in Odessa, there was a hotly contested match going on at Tiger Stadium.

For the second straight year the Snyder Tigers outmuscled the Big Spring Steers, but this time the Tigers came away better than last year's 28-16 loss; they played the No. 9 Steers to a 14-14 tie.

The former district rivals put on another hard-hitting show, with the Tigers holding the upper hand in power.

The Tigers lived up to their No. 2 ranking in state defense, limiting the Steers to a season-low 119 yards total offense. The Steers' defense wasn't bad, holding the Tigers to 197 total yards.

The best looking offensive drive of the game resulted in nothing.

After having stopped Big Spring on the one-foot line, the Tigers marched to the Steers' 24. The 19-play drive took the majority of the third quarter. After wingback Mark King dropped a sure-touchdown pass, the Tigers fumbled on a second-down draw play; Joey Franco recovered.

In this hard-hitting contest there were several caused fumbles. At the start of the second half, there were four turnovers in less than two minutes. The few points that were scored occurred after that flurry.

Snyder managed a 3-0 halftime lead on a 28-yard field goal by Brian Brunson, who was a very busy man. In addition to doing the kicking, he also punted and played fullback. He finished the game with 42 yards on 12 carries, and caught three passes for 30 yards.

He booted the field goal on Snyder's first possession. The Tigers drove the ball 19 yards. The short drive was set up by a 40-yard punt return by King to the Big Spring 30-yard line.

Big Spring's only scoring threat in the first half came when Franco recovered his first loose ball of the game, and the Steers had the ball at the Snyder 36. In eight plays the Steers came close. Snyder defensive tackle Clint Haywood stuffed Jermiane Miller at the goal line, and the Steers fell inches short on fourth down.

Snyder controlled the ball in the first half, running 34 offensive plays to Big Spring's 18. At halftime the Steers had two first downs and just 37 yards.

In the third quarter the turnover barrage began. It started when Gerald Cobos kicked off for the Steers. His short kickoff landed between Hayward Clay and Paul Anderson. Both looked at the ball and Big Spring's Nick Roberson recovered at the Snyder 21.

On Big Spring's first play fullback Roman Ortega fumbled, and it was recovered by Blair Williams, giving Snyder the ball at their own 21. On Snyder's first play halfback Anderson was popped hard, and his fumble was recovered by Pat Chavarria at the Snyder 22.

Three plays later Steers quarterback Cobos' pass was picked off by defensive back Terry Stevens at the Snyder 16.

Snyder had to punt and the Steers got the ball at the Snyder 36.

It took seven plays for Miller to blast in from the two. A key play was a 14-yard screen pass to Ortega. Cobos' extra point gave the Steers a 7-3 lead with 5:09 left.

The Steers had good fortune on this kickoff also. This time Cobos' short kickoff went through the arms of Clay. The Steers recovered at the Snyder 31.

On the first play Miller blasted through for a 31-yard score. Cobos' PAT left the Tigers stunned, trailing 14-3 — only eight seconds after Big Spring had scored its first touchdown.

On this kickoff, The Tigers got a 20-yard return by Anderson to midfield.

The Tigers answered with a seven-play scoring drive. On a sweep play, Anderson stepped out of a Big Spring tackle and sped around end 17 yards for the score.

Then the Tigers pulled off what may be the biggest offensive play of the game. Snyder quarterback Ed Rios connected on the two-point conversion pass to King. The score was 14-11 with 2:57 left in the third quarter.

Now it was time for the Steers to have some bad luck on a kickoff. Freddy Rodriguez made a good return, but fumbled, and Brunson recovered at the Big Spring 40.

Rios connected on a 13-yard screen to King and a 10-yard pass to Brunson as the Tigers moved deep into Big Spring territory. But the Steer defense stiffened, and Brunson kicked a 27-yard field goal, tying the game at 14-14 with 11:49 left in the contest.

From that point, defense controlled the game.

Steers coach David Thompson said his team didn't play very well.

"The defense played well in the second half. Offensively, we didn't do much of anything," said Thompson. "It was one of those deals where they were ready to play, and we weren't; and I don't know why that happened."

"We had quite a few turnovers, we have to eliminate them. We had the opportunities to win the ballgame. But not taking anything from Snyder, they had a lot to do with that. They played well."

"Last year we were 1-2, this year we're 2-1-1. I'm glad we've got an open week coming up. They start counting now."

Snyder is also 2-1-1 for the season.

Buffalos run into solid brick Wall, fall 38-12

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

The Stanton Buffalos met the Wall Hawks in a district 6-AA match in Buffalo Stadium Friday night, with the visiting Warbirds taking home a 38-12 win.

The Buffs received the opening kickoff and immediately began to move the ball, but on third and one, Walls' defense stopped senior quarterback John Paul Barry short of the first down and forced the home team to punt.

Wall's all-district quarterback Shawn Box scampered down the sideline for 38 yards to score the first points of the contest. Jimmy Martinez added the extra point, giving the visitors a 7-0 lead, with 8:32 left in the opening stanza.

On the ensuing kickoff, Stanton set up shop at its own 20-yard line. Three plays later, the Buffalos fumbled, giving the Warbirds the ball on the Stanton 14-yard line.

Four plays, from inside the 20-yard line, forced the Hawks to settle for a field goal try from 25 yards out. The three-pointer went wide; with 5:42 left in the quarter, the score remained at 7-0.

Stanton returned the kickoff to the 20-yard line, met by a wall of Wall defenders. After a series of downs, the Buffalos were forced to kick the ball back to the visitors.

pass, and a tough rush by defensive end Rick Posey forced the incomplete pass.

The Buffalo defense held, forcing Wall to punt. The Buffs punted for the third time in the quarter, unable to move the ball themselves.

With time running out in the first quarter, Box found running back Joe Martinez for a 30-yarder in the end zone. Martinez added the PAT to put Wall up 14-0, with :38 left in the quarter.

The Buffs began to move on their next possession. Barry found junior split-end Kenny McCalister for a five-yard gain. The Buffs moved into Hawk territory, aided by a roughing-the-passer penalty.

A hard rain made handling the ball difficult for the offense; Stanton was forced to punt after an 11-yard loss. As Posey went back to kick, a tough rush and a bad snap gave Wall the opportunity to block the kick, giving the Warbirds good field position at Stanton's 49-yard line.

Walls' Joe Martinez eluded several tackles, galloped through the middle for a 34-yard pickup. Box used all-district running back Brandon Braden to move the ball to the three-yard line. Box kept the ball on the next play to score Walls' third touchdown, the extra point went wide to put Wall up 20-0 with 7:07 left in the first half.

The Hawks were not through. A Hawk defensive safety intercepted a Buff pass at the Stanton 21-yard line.

Box found the goal line as he waved through the Buffalo defense to score from the 16-yard line. The PAT went wide putting the Warbirds in the lead 26-0.

Another turnover deep in Stanton territory gave the ball back to Wall at the 20-yard line. Box used Braden to move within striking distance. Box then took the ball in from three yards out to score for the fourth time. The two-point conversion was stopped short of the goal line.

The Stanton defense was able to hold Wall at the beginning of the second half, giving up only three yards. The Buffalos fared no better, punting the ball back.

Buff senior linebacker Garry Don Thompson intercepted a Hawk pass and pushed his way into the end zone, to put Stanton on the board. The extra point failed, after a bad snap. Stanton cut the lead to 32-6 with 7:33 left in the third quarter.

A Buffalo turnover on the Wall one-yard line, ended a drive that began on the 42-yard line. The quarter ended with Wall up 32-6.

On the first play of the fourth quarter, Wall fumbled. Hector Jimenez recovered the ball at the 22 for Stanton. The Buffs moved the ball to the visitors' four-yard line, but an interception ended the drive.

On the next play, junior safety McCalister intercepted a Wall pass, running for 20 yards. Wall scored once more as the contest ended.

Wall moved its mark to 3-1, while Stanton dropped to 0-4. Stanton will travel to McCamey for its second district 6-AA contest. Wall will entertain Coahoma at Warbirds Stadium next Friday night.

Wolves' effort falls short; tie Merkel 21-21

By CHARLES POISALL
For the Herald

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Wolves and the Merkel Badgers battled to a 21-21 tie here Friday night in a non-district Class AAA football game featuring two evenly matched teams.

The host Wolves of Coach Tom Ramsey appeared ready to take the lead and possibly the victory late in the fourth quarter when, with the score knotted at 21-all, they drove from their own 34-yard line to the Merkel four-yard line with a series of running plays.

But then, with second down and goal to go, a mishandled snap caused the ball to hit the ground and bounce toward the Merkel defenders. It was covered on the five-yard line by an alert Badger linebacker.

Directed by junior quarterback Criswell Whisenhunt, the Badgers then mounted an attempt to score from 95 yards away with only 49 seconds remaining in the game. Three running plays took the Badgers to their 14-yard line with 12 seconds to go. But time ran out as Whisenhunt completed a pass to split end John Bauer, who was run out of bounds at the Merkel 40 by the Colorado City secondary.

The Wolves scored first in the opening quarter, with 6:41 remaining, when Robbie Smith, a 170-pound senior running back, took a handoff from senior quarterback George Ramsey and sprinted five yards off tackle for the score. The extra point try was blocked.

On their third possession, the Wolves had driven with a ground attack from their own 39-yard line.

The ball exchanged hands several times during the remainder of the first quarter as neither team could score. The score remained 6-0 Wolves as the first period ended.

Early in the second quarter, Merkel tailback Lorenzo Whitney took a handoff from Whisenhunt and scampered 10 yards off right tackle for the first Badger touchdown, knotting the score at 6 each.

Senior tailback and kicker Scott Leamon then booted the extra point, giving the Merkel Badgers a one-point lead.

With five minutes to go in the first half, the C-City Wolves took the lead again. After a drive from the Merkel 47 that featured gains through the line by Ramsey, fullback Mark Smith, running back Robbie Smith and split end Kevin Green, back Bobby Silva took a handoff from Ramsey and scored from 12 yards out.

On the extra point try Ramsey carried off right tackle for two points and the home team held a 14-7 lead with five minutes to go in the first half.

The two teams traded the ball back and forth and played evenly for the rest of the period and the score remained 12-7 Wolves at the half.

Marching bands from both schools entertained the crowd of several hundred enthusiastic fans at halftime.

Late in the third quarter, tailback Lorenzo Whitney of

Merkel scooted through the Colorado City line, carrying two would-be tacklers with him, for a 10-yard touchdown. The extra point kick was wide to the left and the Badgers still trailed, 14-13.

With three minutes to go in the third quarter, quarterback Ramsey, the son of the Colorado City coach, took the ball on a keeper option play and legged it 63 yards off left for the third Wolves' touchdown. Robbie Smith split the uprights with his extra point kick and the Wolves held a 21-13 lead. That score held at the end of the third period.

The Badgers of Coach McClesky were not through for the night, however. In the fourth quarter, after gains by Kenny Nault on the ground and a pass from Whisenhunt to Sean Leamon, Merkel tight end Chad Taylor took the ball from Whisenhunt on an end around play and churned around right for a 21-yard touchdown.

The Wolves led 21-19 at that point. But Lorenzo Whitney took the ball from Whisenhunt on the extra point try and carried it into the end zone for two points.

The game ended less than five minutes of playing time later after both teams' last ditch efforts to untie the score fell short.

The Wolves' record for the season now stands at one win, two losses and one tie, all in non-district games. Next Friday night they will host the Abilene Wylie Bulldogs in another non-district game.

The Badgers' record is 0-3-1 for the year. Their next opponent will be Lubbock Roosevelt.

Mustangs run roughshod over New Home

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

ACKERLY — Although the Sands Mustangs made a slight adjustment to the formula, the finished product had a familiar look.

The state-ranked Mustangs again displayed a suffocating defense, but complemented that with a blitzkrieg ground game en route to routing the New Home Leopards, 50-0, here Friday night in a game called because of the 45-point rule.

Sands did nothing to disprove its brand-new number-10 state ranking against the bigger-but-slower Leopards, improving to 4-0 for the season (Christoval's win over the Mustangs was forfeited because of an ineligible player).

The Mustangs' defense again did yeoman work, limiting New Home to 110 yards in total offense. What was a bit of a surprise, however, was Sands' new efficiency offense. The Mustangs were unstoppable, gaining 269 total yards and scoring on every possession.

Leading the way for the Mustangs was Pank Grigg. The junior running back, subbing for an injured Charles Rhodes, only carried the ball three times, but made the most of his chances, gaining 98 yards and scoring two touchdowns. Eric Herm added 66 yards on nine carries.

"Pank Grigg did a great job," Sands' head coach Randy Roemisch said after the game. "He ran hard on offense and played super on defense as well."

"You've got to give credit to our offensive line," Roemisch added. "They did a super job blocking for our running backs. Jerry Gooch is the offensive line coach and he's done a great job with them."

The proficiency of the Mustangs'

ACKERLY — New Home defender Troy Fillingim attempts to tackle an unidentified Sands runner during first half action between the Mustangs and Leopards Friday evening in Ackerly. Sands defeated the visitors, 50-0.

ground attack was all the more surprising given the fact that the Leopards, with a decided height and weight advantage, stacked its defensive line to shut off Sands' inside game.

The tactic failed miserably, however, as Herm and John Young were more than effective running inside, while Grigg and David Ybarra were devastating on misdirection plays to the outside.

The attack came to the forefront early in Friday's contest. After forcing a punt on New Home's first possession, the Mustangs proceeded to drive 51 yards in six plays for the game's first score.

The drive was highlighted by a seven-yard fourth-down run by Young to keep the drive moving. On the next play, from the New Home 29, Grigg sliced through a hole in the line and dragged three defenders down to the Leopards' 4.

On the next play, Brandon Riddle scored on a dive play to give Sands a lead it would never relinquish.

The Mustangs wasted little time adding to that lead. Aaron Cowley took a Blaine Fillingim punt on Sands' 15, cut to the right and raced down the sideline for a 65-yard touchdown.

Sands evidently found the quick-strike offensive tactics to their liking, because the 'Stangs added another TD before the first quarter ended.

Taking over on downs at the Leopards' 34, Herm gained four yards before Grigg broke through the left side of the line and ran 34 yards to give Sands a 20-0 lead entering the second quarter.

The Leopards shot themselves in the foot on the ensuing drive when Troy Fillingim fumbled the ball away to Sands at midfield. Four plays later, quarterback Cowley found Riddle alone in the end zone for the Mustangs' only pass completion — and fourth touchdown — of the game.

The Leopards were again held on downs, and again the Mustangs did their imitation of "Marching through Georgia." Two carries by Herm netted 13 yards, then Cowley faked inside to Herm and pitched right to Grigg, who zipped down the right sideline 42 yards to give the Mustangs a 36-point lead at halftime.

Sands scored twice in the third quarter — on a 19-yard run by Herm and a 20-yard scamper by David Covarrubias — to close out the scoring and the game.

"I had no doubt that we could've run outside on the, but I wanted to establish something inside," Roemisch said. "We did what we had to tonight."

The Mustangs will return to action Friday night when they travel to Ira. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Tommy Hart, shown with wife Elnora upon receiving the Sportswriter of the Year award in 1971, had a colorful career at the Big Spring Herald. He began as a newspaper carrier and retired in 1981 as managing editor — having served a lengthy stint as sports editor in between. He's shown on the opposite page talking with then-senatorial candidate Bob Krueger in 1976; typing a report while serving with the Army Air Force in Puerto Rico in 1944; and, reflecting this week on a storied career.

A career of coverage

Practically speaking, nearly anyone over the age of 35 can tell you where they were the day President John Kennedy was assassinated.

On Nov. 22, 1963, Tommy Hart was at a football game.

As might be expected for someone who covered sports for more than 30 years, this former sports editor for the Big Spring Herald, has had his share of experiences. Few, however, could be as eerie as covering a football game the night the country was mourning its slain president.

Although surprised that the game, between Big Spring and San Angelo, was not called off, Hart said continuing the contest may have had a beneficial effect.

"The sobering affect of the assassination didn't set in until later," he said, recalling that day. "They had delayed word on whether Kennedy was dead . . . then the turn of events was furious.

"It hit all of us tragically, but perhaps we all needed something to take our minds off what happened," Hart said. "Whether it was the right thing to do or not, I don't know — I've often thought about it — but it sure diminishes the impact of a sporting event when something like that happens."

The happy side of that dark day, as any hard-core Big Spring fan recalls, is that the Steers white-washed the number-one ranked Bobcats 22-0. "I think our heart was in it more than their's,"

Hart said. "They had more talent, but they couldn't hit a lick that night."

Hart virtually built his career at the Herald from the ground up, beginning as a paper boy at age 11. During the Great Depression, he worked in the Herald mailroom alongside Joe Pickle, who later became editor of the paper.

Finally, in the early 1930s, Hart joined the newsroom staff, and — except for five years of military service during World War II, remained there until retiring as managing editor in 1981.

For about 35 of those years, Hart was the Herald's sports writer, and in that capacity earned several Associated Press honors as well as being named Sportswriter of the Year in 1971 and serving as the Texas Sportswriters Association president.

Memorable experiences brightened his career.

One of the first experiences he recalled during a recent conversation occurred when he, Pickle and Herald photographer Keith McMillan flew to Pampa to cover a Steers' game.

"We ran into a weather front on the way up there," Hart said. "The pilot lost his instruments . . . and we didn't know where we were; the clouds were solid below us."

The pilot kept circling lower and lower until the plane finally broke through the clouds over Palo Duro Canyon. "We landed on a highway . . . and taxied up to a farmhouse near a town called

The four explained their plight to the farmer, who good-naturedly lent them his Oldsmobile.

"That astounded us," Hart said. "When we drove back the next day, we said, 'You don't know who we are. Why did you trust us?' He said, 'Well, I had your airplane.'"

Another equally harrowing experience came when Hart served in the Army Air Force during World War II. "I was stationed at Puerto Rico . . . and the only shot I heard that was fired in anger was by our own troops."

Hart said a rumor reached base headquarters one night that the Japanese had landed on Puerto Rico. "The Japanese were everywhere in those days," he said, describing the near-paranoia of the period.

He and his fellow troops were quickly mobilized, with the results not likely to make any Army history books. U.S. troops "were deployed on both sides of the runway — and they started firing at each other," he said. "They killed a horse, and shot a maid's nose off. We did everything but find the Japanese."

After the war, Hart returned to the Herald on what he thought was a temporary basis. "I only came back until this new sportswriter showed up," he said. "Well, you see what happened."

Hart has been an avid follower of the Steers — and football in general — for many years.

Needless to say, he's seen several changes in the sport.

"Players used to line up head-to-head. Now, football's changed in so many ways. Back then, players would go both ways and think nothing about it," he said.

Two Big Spring teams stand out in his memory: the 1931 and 1953 squads. The 1931 team, under coach Obie Bristow, was memorable because it outscored its opponents 397-7 during the season. It missed a playoff spot by losing 7-0 to Sweetwater; the Mustangs of '31 had future great quarterback Sammy Baugh at the controls.

The 1953 team did better, becoming the only BSHS football team to reach the state finals.

"That team didn't realize how good they were," Hart said.

"They had a team camaraderie and spirit," he added. "And they had good leadership. They were a team that picked up momentum gradually. They were primarily a running team, which was unusual in those days."

Hart also had the opportunity to interview several legendary sports figures. Tops on his list are golfer Ben Hogan and Philadelphia Athletics' owner Connie Mack.

"Byron Nelson was a very charming fellow," Hart said. "I interviewed Connie Mack at the Settles Hotel . . . It was just like father and son: As long as you wanted to talk to him, he was there."

Making Hart's worst-interview list were golfer Ben Hogan and former Texas A&M football All-American John Kimbrough.

"(Hogan) was very abrupt. If you asked a question that didn't appeal to him, he'd insult you," Hart said. "He remains that way to this day; I think it's in his genes. There's no denying that Hogan was a great golfer, but he needed to develop a personality. Kimbrough had a very short temper," he added. "It wasn't very flattering to sit there and talk to him."

Hart also found himself on the receiving end of a tongue-lashing by former University of Texas football coach Darryl Royal.

"He called me twice in about 30 minutes," Hart said. "He was peeved because I wrote that the only reason Texas had talked to this one player was to get another player to come to the university — which was the truth, but he didn't want me to talk about it."

Hart still follows sports events, even though he's been retired for almost a decade. "I still follow sports as closely as I ever did; I just don't take it as seriously as I used to."

"It's still a game, whatever people make of it," he said. "With the isolated communities you have in West Texas, it's the only contact people have with people in other communities, so in that way I suppose it's beneficial — but there's others who put too much emphasis on winning."

"To paraphrase Andy Warhol, 'Everybody will be famous for 15 minutes,'" Hart added. "Well, there will be another game in 15 minutes, so why take it so seriously?"

Smyer ruins Cougar homecoming, 39-28

The Klondike Cougars played host to the Smyer Bobcats Friday, where the Bobcats gouged the Cougars for a 39-28 win. Andy Guerra was the leading rusher with 71 yards on 24 carries, while Cody Vogler stacked up 91 yards on pass receptions.

Klondike led off the scoring with 6:11 to go in the first quarter on an 11-yard pass from Brandon Oaks to Cody Vogler for 6 points. Ramiro Serrato connected with Andy Vogler for the point after.

At 2:06 to go, the Cougars scored again on a 1-yard rush by Andy Guerra. It was Serrato and Vogler on the PAT once again.

There was 1:08 left in the first quarter when Smyer finally got on the scoreboard on a 37-yard pass from Adam Rocha to Josh Bain. Rusty Bryan threw to Daniel Lee for the PAT.

Second quarter scoring was led off by Smyer with 8:23 on the clock. Josh Bain received a 50-yard pass from Rusty Bryan and ran it in for the score. Their next score came less than five minutes later at 3:59 to go when Danny Baxter captured a Klondike pass and ran 80 yards for an interception TD. Rusty Bryan kicked for the PAT.

It was the Bobcats again at 4:35 to go in the third quarter when Daniel Lee made his 29-yard run to add to the lead. The extra point attempt failed. But nothing could get the Bobcats down Friday night, and they came back with only 44 seconds remaining in the period for another 6 points.

At 9:06 to go in the last quarter, Daniel Lee made a 47-yard run for another TD; the kick was wide.

Jeralyn Griffith and Andy Guerra, both seniors, were honored at Klondike's halftime as homecoming queen and king.

Klondike got a chance for a comeback late in the fourth quarter on an 8-yard run by Brandi O'Brien. The snap was fumbled on the PAT attempt.

O'Brien made his second TD of the night with 57 seconds to go in the game; the kick failed.

Klondike's last score in the game came with 29 seconds remaining. Rusty Bryan was caught behind the goal line for a 2-point safety. The final score was 39-28, Smyer.

Coyotes fall short, 24-21

GAIL — The Borden County Coyotes spotted the Loop Longhorns a 24-0 lead, battled back, only to see their hopes fall short, dropping a 24-21 decision to the Longhorns here Friday night.

Loop got three scoring plays from Bradley Crown to jump on the Coyotes. Crow scored on runs of eight and 25 yards; and threw a scoring pass of 35-yard to Bobby Medlin.

Borden County scored late in the first quarter. Klint Kemper took an onside kick attempt, and raced 30 yards to the Loop 10 yard line. John Paul Harris scored on a eight-yard run.

After a scoreless second and third quarter, Borden County rallied with two-fourth quarter scores.

Jimmy Rios threw a eight-yard scoring pass to Cole Vestal. Shannon Smithie kicked the PAT.

Borden scored again on a 21-yard run by Harris. Rios passed to Paul Sturdivant for the one-point conversion. Borden County had a chance to win the game as it drove to the Loop five late in the game. But a fumbled pitch on fourth-and-goal from the five, ended the threat.

"We thought we we're going to win; we thought it was going to be pretty easy," said Borden County coach Bobby Avery. "We underestimated them. They (Loop) came out and got after us and jumped on us."

Borden County, 1-3 for the season, will host Klondike in its homecoming game Friday at 7:30 p.m. in Gail. Loop is 1-3.

Sweetwater 42 Borger 0

The Sweetwater Mustangs dominated the Borger Bulldogs, winning Friday night 42-0.

The Mustangs got their first two touchdowns from 2-yard runs by Gregg Ruffin, who also made the first extra point kick. With 3:56 in the first quarter, James Moore impressed the crowd with a 79-yard punt return for a TD; the kick by Ruffin was good.

Mustang Randall Lepard scored on a one-yard run in the second quarter, followed by another successful Ruffin kick. Less than two minutes later, David Ritchey caught a Lepard pass for another TD, and another Ruffin kick with 2:13 left in the half.

The third quarter began with a Mustang safety after a Bulldog punt returner was tackled in the end zone. With 7:12 left in the third, Ruffin completed a 32-yard pass to Kiley Anglin for a touchdown, but the kick was blocked, bringing the final score to 42-0.

The Bulldogs came close to scoring once with an interception by Stuart Houston. He returned it 64 yards, Borger's deepest drive of the night.

Leading rushers for the game were Lepard, who carried 13 times for 80 yards and one TD, and Ruffin, with seven carries for 69 yards.

Fort Stockton 27 Crane 9

Fort Stockton Panthers clipped the wings of the Crane Golden Cranes Friday night, 27-9.

Panther Phillip Houston started off the scoring with :09 left in the first quarter, running in a 40-yard touchdown. The PAT failed.

The Cranes were looking strong in the second quarter, as Corey Jones scored on a 75-yard pass from Chad Ellison with 8:38 left in the half. Ricardo Garza's extra point was good.

Stockton came back quickly, however, scoring a safety after tackling a Crane running back in the end zone at 5:59. Then Houston picked up another TD at 2:16 on a one-yard run, but the PAT failed. Score at the half was 14-7, Stockton.

Panther Houston continued to prowl in the third, scoring again on a one-yard run with 8:50 in the quarter. The kick by Shannon Beles was good.

With just over five minutes left in the game, Stockton's Beles ran in 27 yards for a touchdown, but the kick was blocked. Crane's Jones carried the ball 95 yards to score two points on the blocked PAT return. But the Golden Cranes' hopes of winning were gone with five minutes left in the game, the score at 27-9, Stockton.

Pecos 24 Kermit 17

The Pecos Eagles came back from a 14-point deficit at the half to beat the Kermit Yellowjackets Friday night, 24-17.

Darrell Pando began the scoring for Kermit, picking up a fumble and taking it in on a one-yard run at 10:46 in the second quarter. Brian Munck's extra point kick was good.

Just over two minutes later, Alex Pando scored off of another fumble, running it in seven yards. It was followed by another kick by Munck. The Pando brothers' TDs brought the game to its half-time score of 14-0.

Abilene 13 Cooper 10

With 10:25 left in the third quarter, Eagle Cruz Avila brought the team back, completing a 13-yard pass from Myron Jenkins. The run for the extra point was unsuccessful.

Chris Machuca scored on a one-yard run with 1:24 left in the third, and again the run for the extra point failed.

With 10:29 left in the fourth, Munck kicked a 30-yard field goal for the Yellowjackets, bringing the score up to 17-12 in their favor.

Two Eagle TD's ended the Jackets' hopes of victory near the end of the game, however. Machuca scored on a three-yard run with 4:05 left, and Jenkins followed with a 51-yard touchdown run, but both extra point kicks failed. That ended the scoring with 2:35 left in the game.

The Eagles' Jenkins was leading rusher for the game, carrying 23 times for 208 yards.

Yellowjackets Darrell Pando, with 17 carries for 119 yards; and Tony Halterman, with 18 carries for 143 yards also led in rushing.

Andrews 10 Levelland 0

After three scoreless quarters, the Andrews Mustangs won out over the Levelland Lobos Friday night, 10-0.

The Mustangs started a successful drive at their own 18 yard line with 3:18 left in the third quarter, ending it 13 plays later at the Lobos' 14. From there, Mustang Eric Perucca scored on a 30-yard field goal with 10:10 left in the fourth.

The only touchdown drive of the game began when Mustang safety Lee Glover intercepted a Levelland pass at the Lobo 37. The Mustangs drove to the two-yard line in six plays, and Bo Haigood scored from there with 5:31 left to play. The kick by Eric Perucca was good.

Levelland only made one penetration during the game, and came out far below Andrews in passing, rushing and first downs.

Grady defense sparkles

LORLAINE — The Grady Wildcats put up a defensive gem as they whipped the Loraine Bulldogs 30-8 here Friday night in non-district six-man action.

The Bulldogs prevented a shutout as Joel Williams scored on a 39-yard run in the fourth quarter.

Baldamor Cortez scored twice for the Wildcats, now 3-1 for the season. Cortez on a one-yard run in the first quarter, and another one-yard run in the second quarter. Gilbert Cortez scored from four yards out, and two PAT kicks by Len Garza, gave Grady a 22-0 halftime lead.

After Williams' touchdown, Grady ended the game by scoring on a 42-yard run by Florencio Hewtty. Garza's kick put the final score at 30-8.

Danny Valle had a big night receiving for Grady. He caught six passes for 189 yards; including catches of 58 and 67 yards.

"The defense did extremely well, we had seven penalties for 75 yards; we defeated ourselves as far as that goes," said Grady Coach Leandro Gonzales.

Loraine falls to 0-4. Grady will play Hermleigh Friday in Hermleigh at 7:30 p.m.

Ozona claims first win, downs Forsan 29-0

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

FORSAN — Ozona's Lions came away with its first district victory of the season Friday over the host Forsan Buffaloes, 29-0.

"This was a real exciting win for the kids. It's the first win of the season for us," Ozona's head coach Don Payne said.

The opening play of the game found the Lions kicking off to the Buffaloes, twice, because the first kick was called back for offside penalty against Ozona. But the penalty didn't stop the Lions and they finished the game ahead of Forsan in all statistics.

"Our defense really came around tonight and they played better than they have in the past. We kept them out of the end zone and held them to their end of the field," Payne said.

Ozona rushed for 306 yards and quarterback Danny DeMoyos completed three of eight pass attempts for 181 yards. DeMoyos also rushed for 91 yards during the game.

"Yea, he's pretty good. But tonight the other 10 guys helped him," Payne said about DeMoyos.

Forsan's head coach Jan East said the Buffaloes played good ball, just not good enough.

"We moved the ball, but just couldn't get in. Those three or four big plays killed us, one 90-yard pass and another 64-yard pass," East said.

East also said the Buffaloes have been working on their passing game, and quarterback Stephen East completed six of twelve pass attempts for 57 yards.

Forsan's Gilbert Rodriguez carried the ball in the first play, gaining six yards from the 39 to the 46, but two plays later, the Buffs lost the ball in a fumble that Ozona's Mike Kenison recovered.

But on the very next play Ozona fumbled, and Forsan's Jeff Conaway recovered, giving the ball back to Forsan. However, four plays later Forsan had not moved the ball, and were forced to surrender to Ozona in 65-yard punt first quarter.

Forsan ran three plays in the next series, successfully completing the first down attempt when Rodriguez rushed for five yards. East kept the ball and ran for six yards, but his next pass attempt was incomplete, and Forsan had to punt.

Ozona's Adam Alba took Jeff Cook's 70-yard punt on the Lion's 10 yard line. In ensuing action, DeMoyos handed off to Domingo Perez and, although Forsan's Clark Fields was able to slow him down, Perez ran 90 yards for the Lion's third touchdown.

Borrega's point after kick was good, and the score was 22-0, Ozona.

With only 4 minutes left in the half, Ozona's Lonnie Martinez met the pass before East's intended receiver Cook made it, and claimed the only interception of the game. The half ended with the ball in Forsan's possession.

In the third quarter Ozona scored again with only three minutes left on the clock. Borrego rushed for 48 yards for the touchdown, and then kicked an extra point, bringing the score to 29-0. DeMoyos kept the ball for a 29-yard scoring burst.

that was downed on the Ozona 1-yard line.

Two plays later, the Lions had moved the ball eight yards when the starting quarterback for Lions applied a move that was to be repeated throughout the game.

Ozona's QB Danny DeHoyos kept the ball and ran 10 yards for the first down. DeHoyos then threw his first pass of the game, good to receiver Domingo Perez to the Ozona 27 yard line, for 65 yards.

The Lions next moved the ball twice for another gain of 20 yards, and then Ruben Borrego took the hand off from DeHoyos and ran straight through for the touchdown.

The Lions surprised the Buffs with a fake PAT kick, but ran the ball instead for a successful 2-point conversion. This made the score 8-0, Ozona six minutes into the first quarter.

Following the kickoff, Forsan quarterback Stephen East threw to Jeff Cook for four yards. Although his next pass was incomplete, East completed another pass that resulted in a first down for Forsan.

However, East then lost five yards when Ozona's Randel Wilson sacked him, and three plays later Forsan was forced to punt.

The Lions didn't keep the ball, though, as Ozona's Michael Fay fumbled the 48-yard punt. Forsan's Cam Clinton recovered, and Forsan resumed play on the Ozona 42.

Ozona's defense proved to be strong, and Forsan's Rodriguez lost four yards on the next play. East's pass was incomplete, and Forsan punted the ball back to the Lions.

It took five plays for Ozona to score again, accumulating four first downs along the way. Demoyos again ran the ball himself for a gain of 10 yards, and Michael Ybarra gained 25 yards rushing during the scoring drive.

On the 17-yard line, DeMoyos pitched the ball to Ybarra, and he gained 12 yards before being stopped by the Forsan defense. The next play found the same pitch from DeMoyos to Ybarra, and this time the drive succeeded.

Ruben Borrego kicked the extra point for Ozona, and the score was 15-0, with only 45 seconds left in the patrick. Fritzpatrick and the owl defense will be trying to slow down the Houston Cougars offense tonight.

Cougars hoping to sound siren

HOUSTON (AP) — If Houston's run-and-shoot offense isn't enough to make opponents uncomfortable, the 13th-ranked Cougars have added some sound effects and smoke to make the Astrodome even more hostile.

After each passing touchdown by the Cougars, an air-raid warning sign appears on a screen to accompany an ear-numbing air raid siren.

Houston plays the Rice Owls, whom they beat 64-0 last year, Saturday night in the Astrodome and the Cougars expect their siren to get plenty of use.

"I love that sound because it means touchdown," Houston coach John Jenkins said. "It's just like when other places shoot off cannons that spook you.

Rice will be more concerned about the return of NCAA record holder Manny Hazard, who has been sidelined since the second quarter of the season opener with a dislocated elbow.

Hazard, the NCAA record holder with 142 catches last season, has recovered and is ready to resume his senior season.

The Cougars (2-0) have done plenty of damage to Nevada-Las Vegas and Texas Tech without Hazard.

David Klingler stepped into Andre Ware's Heisman Trophy shoes and is leading the nation in total offense, averaging 431.5 yards per game.

Tracy Good has filled in nicely for Hazard with 19 receptions in the two games and is ranked second in catches per game.

Klingler has thrown to nine different receivers in each of Houston's first two games.

Houston's offense ranks second nationally in passing (430.5 yards per game) and fourth in total offense (538). It is sixth in scoring at 44 points a game.

And watching all that offense from the sidelines has Hazard eagerly awaiting his return.

Hazard's injury forced the Cougars to use more of their weapons and Jenkins was delighted with the results.

"We have weapons dispersed in different places," Jenkins said. "We have five seniors in there rotating at the receivers spots and they've all done it a million times and know exactly what to expect."

SWC teams geared for conference play

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest Conference gets down to family feudin' this weekend.

Texas Christian is at Southern Methodist in a regionally televised noon showdown to start the day off. The oddsmakers made the Horned Frogs six-point favorites.

There will be a crosstown battle in Houston with Rice making the drive over to the Astrodome to meet the high-scoring Cougars. Houston (2-0) rated a 28-point pick over the Owls, who are 2-1.

Baylor is at Texas Tech as the Bears and Red Raiders get their conference seasons underway. Tech was a field goal favorite at Jones Stadium game.

Texas A&M and Arkansas are involved in non-conference action. The 11th ranked Aggies make the perilous trip to Baton Rouge, La., where national rankings have been shattered in the past to play Louisiana State.

The Aggies are six-point favorites although the last time they won in Tiger Stadium was by a 39-8 count in 1975.

Arkansas, trying to rebound from a loss to Mississippi, hosts Colorado State and the Hogs were 13-point favorites.

Texas is idle.

SMU has had an extra week to prepare for TCU's "comeback kids" and may need it. The Horned Frogs have overcome deficits of 12 and 14 points in their final two non-conference games to beat Missouri and Oklahoma State of the Big Eight Conference.

SMU needed the break after opening with a 44-7 victory over Vanderbilt but losing 43-7 to Tulane.

The Frogs' last victory in Dallas was 1971.

Texas Tech will have a new starting quarterback when the Bears come calling. Redshirt freshman Robert Hall took over last week when Jamie Gill suffered a knee injury and rallied the Raiders to a 34-32 victory over New Mexico.

SMU leads Rice 15-4 in their series but the Owls have won three of the four games in the Astrodome. Houston has won nine straight games in the building.

Texas A&M is off to its best start since 1984.

Houston back dropped from list

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston running back Chuck Weatherspoon has been dropped as a nominee for the inaugural Doak Walker Award because he has been charged with assault, an official says.

Bill Lively, associate vice president for alumni affairs at Southern Methodist University, which sponsors the award, said Wednesday that Weatherspoon, a two-time 1,000-yard rusher for the Cougars, was dropped because of the assault charge.

Boston takes lead in AL East

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOSTON — Jeff Stone, in his first major-league at-bat this season, put Boston in first place in the American League East Friday night with a ninth-inning single to right-center field over a drawn-in outfield, giving the Red Sox a 7-6 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

AL roundup

The Red Sox, now 9-2 against Toronto this season, took the opener of the crucial three-game series at Fenway Park after blowing two leads in the late innings. They now lead the division by one game with five games left for both teams.

Toronto, with Tom Henke (2-3) going for his 32nd save, went into the bottom of the ninth with a 6-5 lead. Jody Reed walked and went to second on a sacrifice before Wade Boggs walked.

Ellis Burks singled to load the bases before Mike Greenwell's single tied the score, with Boggs holding at third despite a bad throw to the plate by right fielder Junior Felix, whose two-run homer in the top of the inning gave Toronto the 6-5 lead.

Tigers 3, Twins 1

DETROIT — Homers by Tony Phillips, Chet Lemon and Travis Fryman lifted Detroit over Minnesota.

Cecil Fielder, trying to become the first American League player to hit 50 homers since in 1961, had a single in four at-bats and remained the major-league leader with 49 home runs and 127 RBIs.

Jack Morris (14-18) allowed eight hits and struck out eight in 7 2-3 innings to halt a personal seven-game losing streak against the Twins dating to Aug. 18, 1987. Mike Henneman finished the game for his 22nd save.

All of Detroit's homers came off Twins starter Allan Anderson (7-18).

Phillips tied the score 1-1 in the third. After Gary Ward started the sixth with a fly ball to the warning track in right, Lemon and Fryman both hit the first pitch from Anderson for homers to left field.

ARLINGTON — Oakland batter Rickey Henderson reacts after a strike thrown by Texas Rangers pitcher Charlie Hough during the first inning here Friday night.

Athletics 4, Rangers 1
ARLINGTON, Texas — Oakland reached 100 victories for the second time in three seasons as Mike Moore regained playoff form against Texas.

The American League West champions, who notched their 50th road victory, won 99 games last year and 104 in 1988.

Moore allowed seven hits and one run in 6 1-3 innings, with Gene Nelson, Rick Honeycutt and Dennis Eckersley finishing the game. Eckersley pitched the ninth inning for his 46th save.

Moore (13-14) was roughed up in his previous two outings, allowing 16 hits and 11 earned runs in eight innings after he bruised a wrist on Sept. 2 in a collision at first base against the Rangers.

Oakland jumped on Charlie Hough (12-12) for three runs in the third inning, capped by Harold Baines' RBI single.

Orioles 2, Indians 0

CLEVELAND — Ben McDonald pitched a four-hitter for his second shutout and Baltimore scored two runs on Billy Ripken's grounder to beat Cleveland.

McDonald (8-5) walked one and struck out four in his third complete game. His other shutout came July 21 against the Chicago White Sox in his first major-league start.

Mike Devereaux led off the Orioles' second with a double and moved to third on a groundout. After Leo Gomez walked, Ripken hit a grounder that pitcher Sergio Valdez (5-6) fielded near the third-base line, but his throw sailed over the head of first baseman Brook Jacoby, letting both runners score.

Mariners 13, White Sox 4
CHICAGO — Alvin Davis knocked in six runs and hit his third grand slam of the season.

Pirates edge Cardinals; stay three ahead of Mets

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pirates 6, Cardinals 4
ST. LOUIS — Jay Bell ended a 6-for-49 slump with a three-run homer and the Pittsburgh Pirates survived another shaky start from John Smiley to beat the St.

in the Pirates' pitching staff down the stretch and lasted only 2 1-3 innings, surrendering two home runs to the light-hitting Cardinals. Tom Pagnozzi hit a solo homer with two outs in the second and Pedro Guerrero hit a two-run homer, a shot measured at 408 feet, in the third.

Astros 2, Braves 1

HOUSTON — Casey Candaele's two-run triple with one out in the 10th inning gave Houston a 2-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves 2-1 Friday night in the Astros' record-tying 27th extra-inning game of the season.

Mark Davidson singled and moved to second on a walk to Eric Yelding, who made two errors in the top of the inning. Jeff Parrett replaced Kent Mercker (4-7) and Candaele lined a triple into the gap in left-center field.

The Astros tied the record of 27 extra-inning games in a season set by the 1943 Boston Braves and tied by the 1967 Los Angeles Dodgers.

Al Osuna (2-0) got one out in the 10th and earned the victory.

Jeff Blauser reached second leading off the Atlanta 10th on Yelding's throwing error from shortstop but was thrown out at the plate by right fielder Eric Anthony on Mike Bell's single. Bell, who went to second on throw to the plate, scored when Yelding's throw to first on Ron Gant's grounder was wild.

Padres 2, Reds 1

CINCINNATI — Bruce Hurst pitched a four-hitter and Benito Santiago doubled home a ninth-inning run Friday night as San Diego beat Cincinnati 2-1 to keep the Reds from clinching a tie for the National League West title.

The second-place Los Angeles Dodgers played at San Francisco later Friday, and a loss to the Giants would also give the Reds a tie. The Padres broke an eight-game losing streak to keep the Reds from clinching a share of their first NL West title since 1979.

NL roundup

Louis Cardinals 6-4 Friday night, reducing their magic number for clinching the National League East title to three.

Barry Bonds also broke a 1-for-13 slump with two hits, an RBI and a stolen base and Pirates relievers worked 6 2-3 scoreless innings as Pittsburgh won its fifth straight game and eighth out of nine to retain its three-game lead over New York. The Mets defeated Chicago 7-1.

Both teams have five games remaining, including a season-ending three-game series starting Monday in Pittsburgh, and any combination of three Pirates victories or Mets defeats will give the Pirates their first division title since 1979.

Smiley has been the weak link

NEW YORK — New York Mets' Darryl Strawberry watches the game from the dugout after back spasms sidelined the slugger against the Chicago Cubs Friday night at Shea Stadium.

Palmeiro, Henderson chasing Brett for batting crown

ARLINGTON (AP) — Just where did George Brett go over the All-Star break, anyway? Rafael Palmeiro and Rickey Henderson are two guys that want to find out.

He didn't go to Chicago for the game, that's for sure. Not with a .258 average. Maybe he went off to dip his bats in that Florida spring that Juan Ponce de Leon never could find.

Wherever he went and whatever he did, it worked. He's hit better than .400 since the break, and now he's trying to become the first player to win batting titles in three decades.

Brett's surge has taken him right past Texas' Palmeiro and Oakland's Henderson in the American League chase. As of Thursday, Brett's .330 was .005 better than Henderson. Palmeiro was third at .324.

Palmeiro went 2-for-4 with an RBI to raise his average to .32446 in Thursday night's 8-6 victory over the A's. Henderson was 2-for-5, a double and a three-run homer, to climb to .32489. Brett was playing a late game in Anaheim, Calif.

Henderson and Palmeiro aren't conceding anything just yet, but they agree that with the season in its final week, the American League batting title is Brett's to win or lose.

"I really don't have any control over it," Henderson said. "If I go out and get some hits and he goes out and gets some hits, I don't have a chance. All we can do is make him swing the bat."

"I don't feel any pressure any more," Palmeiro said. "George is seven points ahead of me. Why should I feel pressure? He could sit out the rest of the year and win it."

Brett won AL batting titles in 1976 and 1980.

"To win one when you're 23 years old and turn around and win one when you're 37 — it would be a great feat," Brett said.

Henderson chatted with Brett Tuesday night before the Athletics clinched the AL Western Division title in Kansas City.

"We talked about it," Henderson said. "I told him, 'If you win it, I'm happy for you.' I have a lot of respect for him. If I don't win it, I'm pulling for him. That's not to say Palmeiro isn't good enough to win it. He is."

"But Brett's trying to be the first to do it in three decades. He's been around a long time and I respect him for it."

But Henderson did have some heated words for Royals manager John Wathan later. With the A's leading 4-0 in the eighth inning Tuesday, Wathan ordered Henderson walked intentionally to get to Walt Weiss. Henderson shouted at Wathan as he walked to first base and continued shouting at him as Weiss batted.

"Every time I face him, it's going to haunt him," Henderson said. "I didn't like it ... If I'm going to make an out, that's OK. But let me make my own outs. I think George probably didn't like it either."

Palmeiro predicted three weeks ago that Brett would win the title.

"This guy's hitting .400 since the All-Star break," Palmeiro said. "I could see it coming. He's always been one of the better hitters in baseball."

Brett said experience and health have both been on his side so far.

Gorbachev seeks to regain control

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, struggling to maintain central control over Soviet political and economic life, plans to transform 550 armament factories to civilian production, his spokesman said Friday.

Gorbachev and top aides met to complete the conversion plan as representatives of seven Soviet republics agreed to bypass central authorities in working out a new system of economic and political cooperation.

The Supreme Soviet parliament has been unable to pass a cohesive reform plan, and on Monday granted Gorbachev extraordinary powers to transform the national economy from a planned to a market system.

Representatives of nine of the 15 Soviet republics and the mayor of Leningrad, dissatisfied with Gorbachev's reforms, met in the Estonian capital of Tallinn and signed a protocol establishing an Economic Consultative Committee to coordinate their own shift to a market economy.

Another group of reformers, led by Moscow Mayor Gavriil Popov, held a news conference in the capital to express concern about the powers granted to Gorbachev.

They said in a statement they also feared "the dangerous situation created by the capitulation of the president to conservative forces, the worsening of relations between the center and the republics, especially Russia" which is taking the lead in the reform drive.

The radical Moscow Group of Deputies and Interregional Group of Deputies, consisting of reformists in the national, Russian and Moscow city legislatures, also appealed for creation of a parallel body to the official parliament as a means of hastening political reforms.

The Communist Party

newspaper Pravda on Friday condemned such calls, accusing the reform group of seeking "the elimination of CPSU (Communist Party of the Soviet Union) from the political arena." Popov and other radicals left the party last July.

The Pravda article rekindled rumors that the military was planning a takeover to restore order. Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov this week denied such rumors.

Gorbachev's plan to shift hundreds of defense plants to civilian production appeared designed to quell fears of a military resurgence and to assure people the central government was acting to meet consumer demands.

Presidential spokesman Vitaly N. Ignatenko, told reporters that Gorbachev was meeting late Friday with members of the advisory Presidential Council to cement plans to shift arms plants to the production of processed food, medicine, electronics and other goods desperately needed in the faltering Soviet economy.

The 550 factories would be converted in stages over the next five years to produce 270 billion rubles ($472.5 billion) worth of goods for civilian use from 1990 through 1995, twice the level as during the previous five-year period, Ignatenko told a briefing.

On Thursday, Gorbachev issued his first decree under the enhanced powers, threatening businesses with fines if they did not fulfill supply contracts to government retailers.

Ignatenko denied that ordering businesses to meet the contracts contradicted Gorbachev's stated intent of transforming the nation.

The measures, Ignatenko said, "are designed to stabilize the situation and move to a market economy as soon as possible."

Gorbachev, meeting in the Kremlin with the chairman of the General Electric Corp., Jack Welch, acknowledged that "the Soviet Union is living through a dramatic, tough, but creative time."

"The Soviet people understand the need to radicalize the economic reform, revitalize finances, change the forms and types of property ownership and move to market mechanisms," the state news agency Tass quoted Gorbachev as telling Welch.

California adopts tighter emission rules

By E. SCOTT RECKARD
AP Business Writer

LOS ANGELES — California on Friday adopted strict auto emission rules to compel production of a new generation of ultra-clean cars and fuels, toughening the strictest air quality controls in the nation.

The effort is an attempt to grapple with California's enormous dilemma: some of the worst air pollution in the nation, a population of 30 million people, 22 million vehicles on the road and few mass-transit alternatives.

But those statistics also describe a lucrative market for cars and fuels, a force the state Air Resources Board believes will compel the industries to come through.

"I think by passing this measure we are making one giant leap for winning the war," said board member Brian P. Bilbray, a San Diego County supervisor.

The board voted 8-0 to adopt the rules, which include requiring electric cars to constitute 2 percent of annual car sales in the state by 1998, and standards defining cleaner burning gasoline that big oil companies have already begun to introduce.

The board intends to bring about an era of cars running on methanol, natural gas, ethanol and reformulated gasoline. But the board left it up to the auto and oil industries to choose technologies.

Despite pressures to do so, the board avoided setting mandatory sales quotas for new fuels. Instead, the rules simply call for them to be made available on a widespread basis.

Other last-minute changes included allowing automakers more review sessions with the board if design problems arise and greater leeway in the early years of the program in meeting emission standards.

The concessions make the plan "more doable than it would have been otherwise," said Sam Leonard, director of emissions control for General Motors Corp.

Auto and oil companies knew the handwriting was already on the wall.

Atlantic Richfield Co. has led the way in making less-polluting gasolines, hoping those will be seen as a better option than alternative fuels. And GM already had said it will introduce an electric car in California this decade.

Leonard said GM will now try to meet the standards by developing cars powered by methanol, ethanol and compressed natural gas.

But he still has reservations about whether drivers will buy such cars, which may have less power and shorter range, and whether GM can successfully design them.

"I am not saying we can meet these standards," he said. "They are clearly technology-forcing standards."

The rules were adopted after two days of hearings that drew the views of numerous interest groups. They ranged from suggestions by oil company representatives that market forces be responsible for cleaning up the air to environmentalists' suggestions that all fossil fuels be phased out.

The new standards are expected to increase pressures nationwide for better anti-pollution measures. New York, for example, this week adopted smog standards based on California's existing rules and seven other Northeast states have pledged to adopt them.

Chief defends hospital

CLEVELAND (AP) — The chief of staff of a Veterans Administration hospital on Friday defended the institution's medical care, calling a critical network television report erroneous and distorted.

But in Washington, one Ohio senator called for an investigation and another called for the hospital director's suspension until the matter is resolved.

ABC's "PrimeTime Live" reported Thursday that it used hidden cameras to record examples of unsanitary conditions and poor patient care during three days at the Wade Park VA Hospital.

The hospital's chief of staff, Dr. Murray Altose, blasted the report as unfair.

"I'm saying it isn't substantiated and it's grossly distorted," Altose said. "It's not the way things are at this medical center. That picture was a grossly distorted representation that's full of patently erroneous allegations."

Rep. Mary Rose Oakar, D-Ohio, said House Veterans Affairs Committee Chairman G.V. Sonny Montgomery, D-Miss., has agreed to investigate the allegations.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, also called for Veterans Affairs Secretary Ed Derwinski to investigate, and Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said the hospital's director, Dr. Peter Stajduhar, should be suspended until the issue is resolved.

"PrimeTime Live" reported that, among other things, bloodstained needles were not disposed of properly, asbestos was removed near patient quarters and one paralyzed patient was not fed for three days.

Altose said that there are likely to be some failings in the quality of medical care in any large hospital dealing with seriously ill patients.

He also said it was improper to draw conclusions based on the brief video shown in the report.

The Cleveland hospital was selected for the investigation because it was "a typical representation" of the care at VA hospitals, ABC spokeswoman Rena Terracuso said.

Altose said the allegations would be investigated and a VA medical inspector would visit the hospital.

"We welcome that visit," he said. "We trust that he will look at, in depth, the goings on in this place and establish clearly, as we contend, that there is absolutely nothing to hide. There are not terrible things going on."

Odessa survives feud; Permian wins 24-6

ODESSA — In the land where high school football is as important as oil, cattle and chili, a traditional cross-town rivalry is hotter than ever after a stinging expose, a tattling coach, a lawsuit and death threats.

Police patrols were more than doubled for the game between state powerhouse Permian High School and longtime rival Odessa High School on Friday night and city leaders urged rabid fans to keep their cool.

"There was a lot of concern that, because of anger, there could be vandalism, even violence, if we did not pull together as a community," Mayor Lorraine Bonner said.

Permian won 24-6 and there were no incidents reported immediately after the game. Players from both teams hugged each other at mid-field after the game as 20,000 fans stood in ovation.

Before the game, a student read a prayer and the schools' bands played "America the Beautiful" together.

Contributing to the pre-game tension was action by Odessa football coach Jerry Taylor. He ended Permian's chances of defending its state title when he told University Interscholastic League officials he saw the Permian team holding an organized practice before the Aug. 20 starting date.

Taylor's accusation resulted in Permian's ban from the 1990 playoffs and several anonymous death threats against Taylor.

Attorneys for the Permian football coaching staff filed a lawsuit against the league Friday in hopes of reversing the sanctions, which included a two-game suspension for Coach Tam Hollingshead and a year of probation for the team.

The Permian Panthers, widely known as "Mojo," have won five state titles and finished second four times.

Permian fans also were angered by H.G. Bissinger's book, "Friday Night Lights." It depicts a city where racism is rampant, football gets more attention than English class and school district lines are drawn to guarantee the best athletes play for Permian.

Book-signing appearances by Bissinger in this west Texas city of 108,000 were canceled last week by bookstore owners after they received threats on the Pulitzer Prize-winning author's life.

Some residents claimed Bissinger duped them into cooperating with assurances he was writing a positive account of local prep football, along the lines of "Hoosiers," a heroic tale of an Indiana high school basketball team.

To keep tensions at a low boil, Odessa High canceled its yearly mock funeral procession of Permian's mascot.

"This rivalry was bad enough before all the sanctions came down," said Candy Dennis, a Permian graduate who works at Odessa High. "They canceled the panther funeral because they don't want any more trouble between the two schools."

The mayor and 14 students from both schools on Wednesday videotaped a public service message they hoped will reduce animosity.

"With this appeal... we are asking that everyone who goes to the game Friday night show the real stuff that Odessa is made of," Ms. Bonner said. "Let's show everyone watching, and that's going to be a lot of people, that Odessa has a lot of strengths, too."

Odessa High, which has not beaten Permian since 1964, was given its best chance in many years to beat Permian this year. The game at Odessa's 20,000-seat Ratliff Stadium has been sold out for days.

The city's police department assigned about 50 officers to the game, "where normally we would have no more than 20," said Sgt. Jim McKown.

"Tensions run high for this game even when there isn't all the added conflict, so there is a real potential for trouble."

Soviet boy in stable condition

GALVESTON (AP) — An 8-year-old Soviet boy burned over 32 percent of his body earlier this month was in serious but stable condition Friday at Shriners Burns Institute.

Anton Avdeenko was severely burned when a flammable liquid exploded as he played near his home Sept. 17. On Friday, his burns were excised and covered with donor skin, according to a statement issued by the hospital.

Doctors said Anton suffered deep burns on his left lower leg and foot that extended to muscle tissue, tendons and bone.

"The major concern of the surgeons coordinating Anton's care is that the severity of burns to the left leg may result in some degree of functional impairment," the statement said.

Anton is scheduled to undergo further surgery late next week to begin replacing the donor skin with skin grafted from Anton's torso and scalp.

The boy arrived at the Galveston hospital Thursday after an American airlift began in his hometown of Magadan, in the Soviet Far East, on Wednesday and flew him to first to Alaska and then on to Texas by LifeGuard Alaska air ambulance.

"He appears to be in an excellent state of mind," said Dr. J. Paul Waymack, a Shriners surgeon. "Even when he's having blood drawn or dressings changed, he is most cooperative... especially for an 8-year-old who's been through so much in so short a period of time."

The LearJet that brought the boy and his mother, Anna Avdeenko, to Galveston made an unexpected stopover at Anchorage Alaska's Providence Hospital when the boy developed minor breathing problems.

Harris County denied new prison

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County proposal to share costs of a temporary prison for 1,000 inmates to prevent early jail releases was rejected by state officials Thursday, sources told the Houston Chronicle.

More than 35 state and county officials held a closed meeting to seek a remedy for the crowding woes that threaten to force release of 400 state felons from the Harris County Jail.

But sources said disputes over financing prevented the two sides from developing alternative housing plans or devising another method to keep federal judges from ordering early releases.

"I can't say we agreed on anything in particular," County Judge Jon Lindsay said after the meeting.

"I think we agreed to agree in the future."

Aides to Lindsay and state officials plan to meet again next week.

The county's proposal reportedly called for the state to spend $13 million to build a 1,000-bed modular lockup on 10 acres at the Humble Detention Center.

Jerry Hodge, acting state prison board chairman, confirmed the county's offer, but said the state is legally prohibited from utilizing certain types of temporary housing. He said his agency also lacked the funds to enter into the county's proposal.

On Monday, U.S. District Judge James DeAnda called for exploration of temporary housing for an overrun of state inmates in the county jail. DeAnda and U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice have ordered reductions in the jail population, including a limit of no more than 1,350 state inmates.

Since that order, the number has hovered around 400 above the cap.

State prisons are under a separate federal court order limiting the number of prisoners they can accept.

DeAnda and Justice earlier this month ordered the release of 254 jail prisoners to ease overcrowding, but an appeals court temporarily blocked another order to release 400 state prisoners from the jail.

A new 4,000-bed Harris County Jail is scheduled to open September 1991.

Blue Bell plans sales in Mexico

AUSTIN (AP) — Yankees can't even buy it yet, but Texas-made Blue Bell Creameries' ice cream has entered the global marketplace.

In the last year and a half, several companies from outside the United States have asked to distribute Blue Bell, company officials say.

So far, Blue Bell has given only one foreign firm, Manhattan Paletas of Mexico, permission to market the ice cream in an agreement announced this week.

Bush pledges Kuwaiti sovereignty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush promised the exiled leader of Kuwait Friday that his country will not remain under Iraqi control.

JABIR

"Kuwait's sovereignty and territorial integrity will be restored," Bush vowed in a departure statement as Sheik Jabir al-Ahmed al-Sabah, the emir of

Bush said that in their talks he had told the emir, "that America's resolve to end this aggression remains... firm and undiminished."

He also praised the Kuwaiti underground resistance movement that is fighting the Iraqi invaders dispatched by President Saddam Hussein.

Following their Oval Office meeting, Bush and the emir were having lunch together. Their top aides were meeting in a Cabinet room.

Killer had guns despite record

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A gunman who killed a college student in a hostage standoff apparently stockpiled his weapons legally despite a history of criminal and mental problems, officials said Friday.

Mehrdad Dashti was killed Thursday by police after a night of terror and sexual perversion at a popular student tavern near the University of California in Berkeley.

The attack by the heavily armed man prompted calls for tighter gun control. "Either this man with a history of being severely mentally disturbed was able to go in and legally buy a gun, or someone bought them for him and the gun registration laws aren't worth the paper they're written on," said Berkeley Mayor Loni Hancock.

Dashti, 30, shared an apartment with Fred Smith, who described him as a devout Moslem who kept a 9mm semiautomatic pistol, a .45-caliber handgun, a .22-caliber pistol and a semiautomatic rifle.

Dashti seized control of Henry's Public House & Grille at the Durant Hotel, where he held 33 people hostage. Armed with three pistols and firing intermittently, he wounded several people and killed John Nicholas Sheehy, 22.

Toxic gas leak leaves two dead

MENDENHALL, Miss. (AP) — Toxic gases leaked from a furnace at a south Mississippi manufacturing plant Friday, killing two maintenance workers and injuring six others.

The eight were repairing the furnace at Magnatek, Inc. early Friday when the deadly leaks occurred, said plant manager Dennis Kokaisel. The furnace is used to harden steel.

"What happened is still under investigation and the cause has not been determined," Kokaisel said.

A. de Jean King Sr., area director of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said his investigators were at the scene but it was too early to pinpoint the source of the leak or the materials involved.

Kokaisel identified the dead workers as John Hosey, 52, the crew foreman, and Bertram Bass, 27.

He said four other workers were treated at area hospitals and released. Two were admitted to Simpson General Hospital for observation, Kokaisel said.

Authorities said the gases were confined to the plant and no one outside its boundaries was evacuated.

About 100 of the plant's 1,400 employees were at work at the time of the accident.

She's worn out

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Sharon Gless says she was worn out after six years of tracking bad guys on television's "Cagney & Lacey."

SHARON GLESS

"I just retreated. I worked on getting my act together, finding me again," she said. "It sounds so corny. But I had to find out what I need to do besides work."

Miss Gless, who portrayed New York detective Chris Cagney on the CBS show, is feeling better now and has a new TV series, "The Trials of Rosie O'Neill."

The blond-haired, blue-eyed actress stars as an attorney who left a prestigious law firm for a job as a public defender after her husband dumped her for a younger woman.

Miss Gless, 47, says Rosie isn't a hero but an ordinary woman trying to find a meaningful life after spending her 43 years pleasing others.

Jose's the one

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Hank Aaron says Oakland A's outfielder Jose Canseco is the best bet for breaking his major league baseball home run record. If he keeps playing, that is.

HANK AARON

"That's the problem. Baseball players today can afford to quit," Aaron said Thursday. "I had to keep playing. I needed the money."

Aaron slammed 755 home runs in 23 seasons and retired after the 1976 season. He played all but two of his seasons with the Milwaukee and Atlanta Braves.

Aaron, 56, in Lincoln to go to bat at fund-raisers for the Big Brothers and Big Sisters programs, said too much focus in baseball today is on money.

"You can't put a dollar value on the home runs, the runs batted in in your career," he said. "Besides, a fool and his money always part."

Rights group releases China report

BEIJING (AP) — A U.S.-based human rights group on Friday issued the most comprehensive list to date of prisoners of conscience held in Chinese jails.

Most of the 1,000 prisoners profiled in the report by Asia Watch, a New York-based rights group, were arrested after the June 4, 1989, military crackdown on prodemocracy demonstrators.

Sidney Jones, Asia Watch's executive director, said the aim of the report was to keep the prisoners from being forgotten.

"We are concerned that human rights in China as an issue is going to fade from public view... We want to make sure that these names become very much in the public eye," she said in a telephone interview.

The Chinese government did not immediately respond to the report. It generally rejects criticism of its rights record as interference in its internal affairs.

It includes people from every segment of society — students, intellectuals, peasants, workers, and government officials — from all 29 of China's provinces.

East Germans reveal ties to Stasi

EAST BERLIN (AP) — In a rare display of guilt from a disappearing government, East Germ a n lawmakers trooped to the podium of Parliament on Friday and revealed their ties to the dreaded security arm of the former Communist regime.

One Cabinet minister resigned after admitting he had contacts with the notorious secret police, or Stasi, while about a dozen lawmakers came up to the microphone to deny or explain the accusations against them.

The scene was a remarkable display of soul-searching by a troubled government in the final days of its brief existence, as the bell tolled to close the government before unification.

The first freely elected Parliament in East German history will meet one more time before it disbands on Wednesday, when the nation merges with West Germany. Friday's anguished session lasted 12 hours.

In one of its last acts, Parliament voted overwhelmingly to ask a committee investigating the secret police to release the names of 56 officials, three of them ministers and the rest Parliament members, who were purportedly on the secret police payroll.

Killing feared Iraqi terrorist act

DJIBOUTI (AP) — Assaultants tossed three grenades into a crowded cafe, killing the 9-year-old son of a French soldier and injuring 17 other people, including the boy's parents, officials said Friday.

No one immediately claimed responsibility for the attack Thursday night in Djibouti, a small African country on the Red Sea that is used as a staging area for French forces sent to the Persian Gulf region.

The cafe is frequented by French military personnel, and there was speculation the attack could represent a protest against France's military deployment against Iraq.

All but two of those injured were French, officials said. The others were a West German and a Djiboutian, officials said.

Six people remained hospitalized Friday, including the parents of the dead boy, according to medical officials.

French President Francois Mitterrand expressed his "horror" at the "cowardly attack."

One of the injured people said the child, seated on his father's knee, shielded the man from the blast, medical officials said.
