Public support sought by president

By RITA BEAMISH

WASHINGTON — President Bush wants Americans to convince skittish lawmakers that backing a $500 billion budget package won't

"I'm not, and I know you're not, a fan of tax increases," President Bush said Tuesday. "But if there have to be tax measures, they should allow the economy to grow. They should not turn us back to higher income tax rates, and they should be fair."

cost them re-election, even though it requires taxpayers to shoulder "a small burden."
"I'm not, and I know you're not, a fan of tax increases," Bush said in a nationally televised address

Tuesday night.
"But if there have to be tax measures, they should allow the economy to grow. They should not turn us back to higher income tax rates, and they should be fair," he added, referring to the proposed tax increases on gasoline, cigarettes, boats, liquor and furs.
In a third straight day of public and private lobbying for the agreement worked out by his aides and congressional leaders, the president was meeting today with journalists from around the country.

Many lawmakers already are shunning the package because it will hit Americans hard in the wallet, a fact that could reverberate when voters go to the polls next month.
Bush offered a tepid defense of the plan in his brief speech Tuesday night, saying, "I cannot claim it's the best deficit reduction plan possible. It's not. But it is the best agreement that can be legislated now."

The $500 billion budget accord, reached Sunday after months of negotiation, shaves benefits to farmers and Medicare recipients and reduces tax deductions for people who earn more than $100,000.

"Clearly each and every one of us can find fault with something in this agreement. In fact, that is a burden that any truly fair solution must carry," Bush said. But he urged Americans to look at the agreement as a whole, not piece by piece.
"Everyone will bear a small burden," he said. "But if we succeed every American will have a large burden lifted."

A congressional study released Tuesday said the poor would be hit hardest by the package and the rich would feel its increases the least. The plan's increased taxes

B-1 Bomber fly-by scheduled Thursday

Tomorrow at exactly 4:20, a B-1 Bomber will do a "fly-by" maneuver over the McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark as a warmup for the Vietnam Memorial Air Show this weekend.
The bomber will "buzz" the area, making a high-speed pass over the airpark. Interested persons are encouraged to be on time to see the stunt. No admission fee will be charged.

Robertson wins football contest

Jerry Robertson was the first place winner in the fourth week of the Herald's Football '90 Contest. Robertson correctly picked 12 winners.
Second place went to J.O. Hanks and third place to Sharon Cregar. Hanks and Cregar both had 11 correct picks, but Hanks won the tiebreaker by more accurately predicting the score.
Autotrend was this week's winning advertiser.

Stop feeding hummingbirds

Hummingbird feeders should be taken down now, said Bebe McCasland, state bird rehabilitator. The major hummingbird migration was in September, she added, and this area is seeing the tail end of it now.
"Hummingbirds become addicted to the sugar and water solution in the feeders and they'll stay around," McCasland said. "As it gets colder and the insects die off, the birds will lose their source of protein. And they can't take the cold weather; they'll freeze to death in December and January."
"Make them go south for the winter. We've enjoyed them all summer. It's time to let them go and wish them well."
Hummingbirds winter in Central and South America, McCasland said.

Challenge planned in finance ruling

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas will appeal a state judges' ruling that the school finance system is unconstitutional, said Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter.
Attorney General Jim Mattox earlier said he hadn't decided what the state would do.
State District Judge Scott McCown last week ruled the school finance system still isn't fair to school districts with low property values, despite a legislative overhaul of the system this summer.
The school system relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.
Ms. Hunter said Tuesday that the state likely will ask McCown for some clarification of his ruling before filing an appeal.

Area farmers want some sunshine now

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

The Big Spring area received more rain yesterday, causing cotton farmers to worry about maturing crops and the problem of boll weevils and boll worms invading the fields.
Farmers agree that the problem is not the rain, but the lack of sunshine and cooler temperatures.
More than two inches of rain was reported last night, bringing the total for the year to about 4 1/2 inches above normal, an official of the Agricultural Research Station estimated.
Chelsey Wilson, a technician with the Howard Soil and Conservation Service, said, "We've had too much rain, we need some sunshine. The cool weather is what hurt. We need warm weather to cure and mature the cotton bolls so they will grow on out."
Cotton farmer Mike Moates of Luther said the rain caused him to spray for boll worms for the first time since he began farming in 1971.
"I'd never sprayed for boll worms before. The old time cotton farmers said that when it rains for a month, like it has been, boll worms become a problem. I think it's got something to do with the miller bugs. We had a lot of them hatching out."

Moates said the concern now is what the weather will be.
"Right now, if we have an early freeze, we'll be caught. If it freezes in October, we'll have a later crop, and the bolls won't finish maturing out," he said. Moates said that he thinks the crops need about 45 to 60 days of sunshine to mature, adding that some crop varieties will mature faster than others.
There are a lot of hazards to raising cotton, said Clay Reid of Coahoma. He retired from cotton farming after 42 years.
"A person's got to have their head examined to ever raise cotton," he joked.
"The problem is that cool weather and moisture make the bolls mature too slow. What really scares me is that a lot of the stuff now is real rank and if the weather gets down like it did last year, well cotton is a hot weather plant. It needs 85 to 90 degree weather for about 45 days to mature."

Souter confirmed, takes oath Tuesday

By STEVEN KOMAROW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON — David Souter of New Hampshire will take his oath next week as a Supreme Court justice with the nation watching how he'll vote on abortion and other contentious social issues.
The Senate voted 90-9 Tuesday to confirm Souter, 51, as the 105th member of the high court in the nation's history.
The court immediately announced that Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist will swear in Souter next Tuesday morning, just before the Supreme Court begins hearing the second week of arguments in its 1990-91 term.
The first major case Souter will hear concerns a sex-bias dispute. At issue is whether employers may exclude all women of childbearing age from some hazardous jobs, and the court's decision could affect millions of women.

Issues of sex discrimination, race discrimination and especially abortion rights were at the core of opposition to Souter within and outside the Senate.
The handful who voted against him and many voting for the nomination worried aloud that he would side with the court's conservatives and overrule Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 ruling that legalized abortion.
To many Democrats who voted for Souter, his record on these social issues was troubling but his testimony encouraging, even though he refused to be pinned down, especially on the politically hot abortion decision.

New Germany facing formidable unification task

By KEVIN COSTELLOE
Associated Press Writer
BERLIN — Forty-five years after its defeat and dissection, Germany is again one nation, its leaders facing the formidable task of merging two alien systems and promising that this new power dominating Europe will serve peace.
Massed before the battle-scarred Reichstag building and awash in floodlights, an estimated 1 million Germans from all walks of life joined at midnight in an emotion-laden chorus of the national anthem.
Fireworks lighted up the sky and bells — one of them pealed near the ruins of Hitler's citadel. Schoolchildren hoisted a huge German flag.

Eleven months after the Berlin Wall fell in a peaceful revolt that cast aside Communist overlords, the city that symbolized the Cold War division of Europe rejoiced. It is again the capital of a united Germany.
President Richard von Weizsaecker, presiding with Chancellor Helmut Kohl and other leaders, briefly addressed the surging crowd.
"We want to serve peace in a united Europe and the world," he said.
Many consider the merged nation of 78 million people to have already supplanted the Soviet Union as a superpower, and there is some anxiety among neighbors with bitter memories of Nazi aggression.

Germany's imperialist past was recalled by the Reichstag, the old parliament building heavily damaged in the last days of World War II. On Thursday, it will again be host to German lawmakers.
Although Berlin was the center of celebration, ceremonies stretched into the early morning hours throughout the country.
In more than a half-dozen cities including Hamburg and Leipzig, however, scattered anti-unification violence marred the festive atmosphere.
Many standing before the Reichstag had tears in their eyes during the main celebrations.
"What for many was only a dream is now becoming reality," said Lothar de Maiziere, the soft-spoken musician who led East Germany through its short democratic life as prime minister.

Dozens held aloft torches that shimmered in the dark.
As the end came for East Germany and the mighty new country took center stage, Germans were united in thanking Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.
De Maiziere credited the bold Kremlin leader with clearing the way for East Germany's peaceful revolution by refusing to prop up "an anti-reform system with the force of weapons."
That revolution, part of the massive pro-democracy movement that swept Eastern Europe last year, set off the sprint to full unification.

"We thank President Gorbachev," Kohl said in a televised address to the nation Tuesday night. "He recognized the nations' right to pursue their own path."
"Without this decision, we would not have experienced the day of unity so soon," Kohl added, also thanking the Western allies for their support.
Despite the relief and joy over unification, Germans face what Kohl himself called a "difficult path" in meshing together a strong with a collapsing economy.
Businesses in what was East Germany are failing daily, with predictions of up to 4 million people out of work.

Oil prices heading down

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices are showing an ability to fall as sharply on the hint of peace as they can rise on the fear of war.

Crude oil plummeted more than $3 a barrel on the volatile New York Mercantile Exchange on Tuesday, a day after falling more than $2 a barrel.

The back-to-back dives left traders wondering where the bottom would be, just as they had wondered last week how high oil could rise as it moved into the $40 range.

"The so-called war premium is being eaten away," said Ann-Louise Hittle, a senior oil analyst with Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.

Contracts for November delivery of light sweet crude oil, the benchmark grade, closed $3.14 lower at $33.95 on Tuesday. Crude contracts for later months all dropped, most by $1.50 per barrel, their maximum limit for the day.

Teen killed by hit-and-run

CLEBURNE (AP) — The body of a retarded teenager, apparently killed by a hit-and-run driver, was found in a ditch behind the youth facility he lived in for the past three years.

Melvin Jackson, 15, ran away from the privately-owned facility, Odyssey Harbor, after a soccer game Monday.

His body was found dead Tuesday in a ditch along nearby U.S. 67.

"I don't think anyone really knows what happened," Odyssey Harbor Director Amine Varga told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "The boys had been playing soccer and the ball accidentally bounced up and hit him. He was angry and he stomped off into the woods."

Paint chips and other evidence found at the scene indicate that Jackson was hit by a large vehicle, probably a pickup truck or van, said Keene Police Chief Reagan Scherence.

Odyssey Harbor, which treats emotionally abused children, has 105 clients on three campuses.

INS officer arrested in Mexico

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Mexican police have released a high-ranking U.S. immigration official they detained for more than 24 hours after investigators allegedly found cocaine on a man with him at a hotel bar.

The incident began Sunday night when Mexican Federal Judicial Police arrested four people at the Hotel Del Prado. One of those arrested was Cecilio Ruiz, an assistant district director for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's Harlingen District of far southern Texas.

"Basically, it appears that Ruiz was socializing with some friends when the MFJP moved in with an investigation," said E. Michael Trominski, INS Harlingen District Director. "One of his acquaintances was in possession of a small amount of cocaine."

The judicial police allowed Ruiz to return to the United States on Tuesday morning, Trominski said. No charges were filed against him.

"He was in the wrong place at the wrong time," said Don Wells, U.S. consul in Matamoros.

3 Texans killed in plane crash

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N.H. (AP) — Rescuers today are contending with low temperatures, high winds and slippery terrain as they try to recover the bodies of three Texas men killed in a fiery plane crash here.

Lt. Jeff Gray of the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department said two of the men in Tuesday's crash were from Fort Worth and the other was from Bedford.

Texas rich divided on effects of luxury tax

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Shoppers in this deliriously rich Dallas enclave look at it this way: If you can afford a $50,000 Mercedes Benz, surely, my dear, you can afford the luxury tax on it.

"I don't like it, but I think it's fair," said Rick Jones, sorting through designer shirts at the Polo Shop, one of this community's high-priced shops.

But Randle Stricklin, a salesman at Cartier Inc., where watches range in price from $1,000 to $20,000, complained the tax burden should fall evenly on all retailers.

"It hits hard," he said. "Why single out luxury dealers, who have suffered in the last 10 years — especially in Texas?"

DALLAS — Todd Meier, president of Rodger Meier Cadillac, laments the proposed luxury tax at his dealership Tuesday afternoon. Most of the more than 2,000 new Cadillacs he sells each year would be effected by the new tax.

Elsewhere in the country, merchants who cater to the carriage trade complain that the government proposal to raise taxes on big-ticket items — including expensive cars, yachts, jewelry and furs — discriminates against their wealthy clientele.

Though they protest, many merchants are bracing for a flurry of sales as customers rush to put an extra case of champagne or a pair of sapphire earrings on their tab for the holidays, before the tax takes effect.

The 10 percent luxury tax, part of a $500 billion deficit-reduction agreement unveiled Sunday, would apply to the portion of the price of some luxury items over certain thresholds.

For example, a $6,000 fur — priced $1,000 above the $5,000 tax threshold — would cost $6,100, if the taxes are approved by Congress. Cars would be taxed at 10 percent of the amount above $30,000. The threshold for jewelry would be $5,000.

"If you can afford to pay $30,000," for a car, you sure can afford to pay a few hundred dollars more," said Terri Jung of Austin as she left a Neiman-Marcus store.

"My first answer as a luxury car dealer is, maybe it isn't fair," said Todd Meier, president of Rodger Meier Cadillac, where $55,000 cars are sold from a chandelier-lit showroom. "But overall, as a citizen, I think it makes sense to tax people who theoretically can afford it."

Meier said virtually all of the more than 2,000 new Cadillacs he sells each year would be affected by the tax.

Highland Park, home of the billionaire Hunt brothers and tycoon T. Boone Pickens, sits squarely in the middle of Dallas, a separate world where nannies wheel their charges along streets lined with Mercedes-Benzes, Cadillacs and BMWs.

Highland Park shopper Billy McCarthy said the luxury tax was unjust. "It'll just be going for the wealthy," he said. "We're overtaxed as it is."

Most agreed the taxes might slow the economy by dissuading middle-class shoppers but would not affect the rich.

"It might prevent people like us. We're going to think twice," said DeAnn Ralston, window-shopping with co-workers outside Bachendorf's Jewelers.

Board: Jury 'unnecessarily alarmed' public

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Insurance says a grand jury "unnecessarily alarmed" the public over the health of the Texas insurance industry.

The board's three members also said they want a legislative committee to look into allegations contained in a report issued last week by the special Travis County grand jury.

District Attorney Ronnie Earle released the report, which warned of widespread fraud and lack of regulation. The report said the combination could bring about a "savings and loan type disaster" in the Texas insurance industry.

Earle said he would welcome a legislative inquiry. "I think that's great. We'd be happy to cooperate in any way we could. We figure that the more people who can look at this situation the better," Earle said.

A letter Tuesday, signed by insurance board members James E. Saxton Jr., Richard F. Reynolds and Jo Ann Howard, disputed the grand jury's warning.

"We believe the district attorney unnecessarily alarmed the insurance-buying public with unsubstantiated charges about the overall health of the insurance industry and made overly broad statements about the prevalence of fraud in the insurance industry," they said.

"What is particularly troubling about the grand jury report and the district attorney's comments is that they make very serious charges about the operation of this agency without documentation or substantiation," the board members said.

The insurance board also complained about a new report from the state auditor, which the board members said would question an early warning system for troubled insurance companies.

The board said it already had decided that the system wasn't progressing as planned and hired an independent consultant to "give us guidance on this massive undertaking."

The grand jury's report was issued last week following a six-month investigation.

It estimated that insurance company insolvencies and fraud could cost the state treasury more than $400 million.

Clerk wounded by shotgun-wielding bandit

FORT WORTH (AP) — A 17-year-old sandwich shop clerk was seriously wounded when a restaurant robbery turned violent as she attempted to open a safe for a shotgun-wielding bandit, police say.

Officers said Stephanie McFarland was being treated early today in the emergency room of Harris Methodist Hospital. Hospital spokeswoman Jo Mertz said the victim was in serious condition.

The girl was wounded in the upper torso and left arm, according to Gero Brown, 18, a co-worker at a Schlitzky's Sandwich Shop.

Police arrested a man identified only as a former employee of the sandwich shop about an hour later as he attempted to hide in an alley about four blocks away. He was still clutching the shotgun, officers said.

Brown said he and the clerk were just closing the shop when a man jumped them and demanded the restaurant's money bag.

Brown was headed towards his bus stop when the man jumped out with his shotgun and told him to stand still, Brown said.

"He told me to stop and don't look at him and if I made a move he'd kill me right there," said

Brown.

Brown said the clerk was still inside the restaurant getting a soda when he was jumped by the man. A few seconds later, however, she walked out and was heading towards her car when the gunman jumped in front of her and demanded the money bag.

Brown said the gunman told them he knew the restaurant's system of depositing money.

When the clerk told the gunman she did not have the moneybag, he ordered them both into the restaurant's office so she could open the safe, Brown said.

"He said if she didn't open it in two seconds he was going to blow my head off," Brown said.

The clerk pleaded with the man to wait because she did not have the safe's combination and would have to call her mother.

Barney Milim, a part owner of the restaurant, said the clerk's mother gave her the combination but was suspicious and called police.

Once she had the combination, Brown said, the gunman repeatedly threatened to kill them if she did not open the safe immediately. The clerk, however, was extremely nervous and was unable to open the lock on the first try, Brown said.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97 percent five year survival rate and a 90 percent 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00 ± $4.50 S&H. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Discovery countdown began today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA began the countdown today for this weekend's launch of Discovery on a mission officials hope will get the shuttle program back in motion and help restore the space agency's credibility.

The shuttle is scheduled to lift off at 7:35 a.m. EDT Saturday with five astronauts and the plutonium-powered Ulysses probe, which will explore the sun.

The countdown clock started ticking at 3:30 a.m.

"We're looking very smooth at this point," NASA test director Terry Willingham said several hours after the countdown began. "Everybody's looking forward to a good launch. It's been a long, dry spell."

NASA has not launched a shuttle since April because of dangerous hydrogen leaks afflicting Columbia and Atlantis. Discovery is the only shuttle in which hydrogen leaks have not been found and is also the last shuttle to have flown.

Fuel costs cause tough decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some Americans may have to choose between heating their homes and buying food this winter as they face soaring fuel costs, a proposed new energy tax and scarce government aid, advocacy groups say.

"We're going back into the 'food or fuel' problem of the early '70s for low-income and senior citizens," says Edwin Rothschild, an energy specialist at Citizen Action, a consumer and environmental group.

The average heating bill of $800 — common in much of the Northeast — will be closer to $1,200 this winter, he predicted.

Federal officials said Tuesday that barring a further flareup in the Persian Gulf, there will be more than enough heating oil and natural gas to meet demand this winter.

The question, however, is whether millions of poor and elderly Americans will be able to afford it. The hardest hit region will be the Northeast, which relies heavily on oil for residential heating.

The wholesale price of heating oil has soared from about 56 cents a gallon before Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait to $1.03 a gallon last Friday, although the price dropped a bit this week.

Hitler quote leads to resignations

"I joined a paper which embraced the conservative ideals and attacked issues with daring style, often tying the line of good taste," C. Tyler White said Tuesday. "Publicly insulting and degrading the Jewish faith is neither a conservative ideal, nor is it in good taste."

Review editors said the passage was put in by an unknown staffer without their knowledge. The Review called the incident sabotage and offered "heartfelt apologies to Jews."

U.N. summit ends with hope for treaty

NEW YORK (AP) — A 35-nation conference of foreign ministers ended with statements of concern about the volatile gulf region, but hope of a treaty to limit conventional arms in Europe.

The members of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe (CSCE) said they were joining the United Nations in condemning Iraq's seizure of Kuwait.

A statement from the conference said the Aug. 2 invasion "jeopardizes the just and peaceful world order to which more cooperative European relations are making an important contribution."

The conference, which ended Tuesday, included officials from 33 European countries, Canada and the United States.

Participants also accepted the U.S. position that an arms reduction treaty should be settled before a planned European-North American summit to be held in Paris Nov. 19-21. Talks on the treaty are under way in Vienna.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, whose countries lead the Vienna talks, said prospects are good for an accord. The two planned to meet today before Shevardnadze returns to Moscow.

The arms talks have been on a fast track since they opened in March 1989 between negotiators for the 16 nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the seven of the now-crumbling Warsaw Pact.

They were designed to bring both sides to equal ceilings in troops and conventional weapons from the Atlantic Ocean to the Ural Mountains.

The two-day CSCE session in New York was the first held in the United States.

"The objectives set out in Helsinki in 1975 have been realized to a degree unforeseen even a few years ago," said Tuesday's communiqué. "Ministers agreed that the role of CSCE must be enhanced to respond to new opportunities for cooperation."

Referring to today's entrance on the world stage of a reunified Germany, Baker said "a new era is beginning for Germany, for Europe and, indeed, we hope for the world."

Holocaust is remembered in Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) — Germany's top diplomat in Israel laid a wreath today in memory of the 6 million Jews slain in the Holocaust after assuring Israel that his reunited country would never reject responsibility for its Nazi past.

The somber ceremony at the Yad Vashem memorial to the Jewish victims of the Nazis underscored the sadness and worry felt by many Israelis over the merging of East and West Germany.

The speaker of Israel's Parliament, Dov Shilansky, himself a concentration camp survivor, called on Israelis to recite the "Kaddish," a Hebrew prayer of mourning.

"Today the murderers from both sides are unified," he said on Israel radio. "Germany has a stain on its clothing that cannot be removed."

Polish-born Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, whose parents died in the Holocaust, met briefly at his office with German Charge d'Affaires Heimo Richter before the ceremony at Yad Vashem.

China crash kills over a hundred

CANTON, China (AP) — Chinese authorities said today that at least 127 people were killed and more than 40 seriously injured when a hijacked plane crashed into two parked jets at this southeastern city's airport.

The Xinhua News Agency said that in addition to 90 Chinese, the dead included one American, 30 Taiwanese, four people from Hong Kong and two from Macao. The U.S. Embassy declined to identify the dead American.

But Scottie Gilbert of Alexander City, Ala., said she believed her daughter, Mary Anna

Gilbert, was killed in the crash. Ms. Gilbert had been traveling with the only known American survivor.

Quoting air traffic controllers, the official said the hijacker appeared confused about where he wanted to go.

"At one time he said Hong Kong, then he said Taiwan," the official said. "We are investigating whether he was a terrorist."

The hijacker, a 27-year-old man, was killed in the crash and his remains have been recovered, officials said.

Princess Caroline's husband dies

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Stefano Casiraghi, the 30-year-old husband of Princess Caroline, was killed today when he flipped his speedboat while defending his title in a world championship race, the Royal Palace said.

Caroline, 33, was in Paris when she learned of the death of Italian financier husband. She quickly left for Monaco, wearing black mourning clothes. It was the second tragedy to strike the Grimaldi family in eight years — Caroline's mother, Princess Grace, died after a car crash in 1982.

Witnesses said Casiraghi and co-pilot Patrice Innocenti drove their catamaran, the Pinot di Pinot, straight into a wave at 93 mph during a morning run for the World Offshore Championships.

The 42-foot boat flipped over, ejecting Innocenti. But witnesses said Casiraghi remained strapped to his seat and bore the full impact of the vessel slamming into the water.

Court studies punitive damages awards

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court is studying the constitutionality of skyrocketing punitive damage awards in lawsuits, setting the stage for a ruling of potentially enormous importance to American consumers and businesses.

The justices were to hear arguments today over a $1 million jury award in an Alabama insurance fraud case.

Leading business groups, the American Medical Association and pharmaceutical industry, religious officials and media giants are among those urging the court to restrain or outlaw multimillion-dollar damage awards.

Their opponents include consumer organizations and important segments of the nation's legal establishment.

Scores of groups have inundated the court with stacks of friend-of-the-court legal briefs, recalling the intense state legislative lobbying over "tort reform" by both sides in recent years.

The court is being asked to decide whether awards aimed at punishing wrongdoers and deterring future misconduct may be so large in some cases that they are fundamentally unfair. A ruling is expected in 1991.

David H. Souter was confirmed by the Senate on Tuesday to the high court but was not hearing the case today because he will not be sworn in until Oct. 9.

Reunification raises doubts

The partition of Germany imposed after World War II came to an end today. Germany is reunified and Berlin once again is its capital.

This is an occasion for joy, not only for the Germans but for all of those who respect and admire the German people for their historic contributions to civilization and culture.

And it is satisfying to close the book on World War II, that conflict now buried so deeply in the past that people much under 50 years old cannot even remember it.

But what has been called the German question remains and causes a nagging doubt. Is there really cause for celebration? A unified Germany will be the most powerful nation in Europe, and, it is feared, the most dangerous.

That is because the central fact about World War II was not, as many would say, the invention of the atomic bomb, which should have come as no surprise. It was predictable, and in fact had been predicted by, among others, the American historian Henry Adams. It was inevitable that some sort of doomsday weapon would be produced by the advance of modern science and technology.

No, what was crucial and unpredictable about World War II was the Germans' effort to exterminate European Jewry. On this effort hangs whatever new and significant has been said and written about the war and about the nature of man in the 20th century. In truth, this century which is now coming to an end should not be called "the American century," or "the nuclear century" or "the century of the environment." It was and is, tragically and irrevocably, the century of the Holocaust.

Primo Levi was an Italian Jew who survived Auschwitz and told the story of his survival more clearly, more humanely and more nobly than any other writer on the subject.

"It happened, therefore it can happen again," he wrote. "This is the core of what we have to say. It can happen, and it can happen everywhere. . . Few countries can be considered immune to a future tide of violence generated by intolerance, lust for power, economic difficulties, religious or political fanaticism, and racial attractions. . ."

He did not believe what happened could have happened only in Germany and he refused to indict every individual German for the event. But he recognized that there was a certain spirit of the Germans which was the sum of German traditions, customs, history, language and culture and he said he could not fully understand the German spirit as it was manifested in the death camps.

Much has happened in the last half century to change that spirit. A new democratic Germany is now the custodian of German Kultur.

It is that new Germany, reunited, which will be welcomed to the community of nations. May it never forget the tragic lesson it has learned about the fear of outsiders, the unspoken dogma that it is "us" against "them," the feeling that a whole people has become the victim of history, the sinister thirst for revenge.

Other nations, other peoples must likewise remember and guard against their own tendencies to perpetuate the irreparable evil that nestled in Europe half a century ago.

There's one subject flatlanders all love

By BILL AYRES
City Editor

There is something decidedly unique about West Texans.

When they gather out on the turn rows, or at the coffee shop or even while playing dominoes at the gin office, one topic has a tendency to come up. Mountains.

The idea of getting away to the mountains of New Mexico or Colorado is to most West Texans as going to the beaches of California or Baja is to people of the desert southwest.

The majority of West Texans have been born and raised in this area. In fact, many will admit they have traveled less than 50 miles from where they were raised.

This doesn't mean the occasional trip to Dallas, San Antonio or other metro areas in Texas. Nor does it mean that rare family vacation where you spent two weeks on the road trying to see as much as possible, and all the while wondering what was going on back home.

When you talk to native West Texans, one of the things they like best about the area is the flatness.

The feeling that flatness is good is similar to the old song title, "On a clear day you can see forever."

Having been raised in a mountainous area, I sometimes miss the view. But I have to admit living here for more than half of my life has made me appreciate being able to see if any storms are coming in.

As a child, I spent many hours wandering around the mountains near my home. When the summer heat waves hit, sending temperatures climbing to 115 or more, all I had to do to escape was climb to the top of the nearest mountain and enjoy the cool winds.

Of course, the mountains of

For what it's worth

Arizona were not like the mountains of northern New Mexico or Colorado. There were no trees, just rocks. So, while you get some relief from the heat, you still have to contend with the piercing sun.

To get back to West Texans, being exposed to flatness every day tears at you. So, every now and then, you have to load up and take off only for a weekend, especially during the summer.

The cool pines offer a break from the dry West Texas heat. And, while you are in the mountains, you don't have to worry about a very common West Texas occurrence — dust storms.

The last time I went to New Mexico, I really thought the state had been annexed by Texas. I saw just about every type of license tag one can imagine and a whole lot of Texas tags, but not too many from New Mexico.

Maybe they were all over in West Texas visiting the flatness.

Now that I have moved to Big Spring, I have the best of both worlds. If I want flat, all I have to do is drive a few miles in any direction and there it is.

And, guess what, on the way back to town I can see mountains. Well, we call them mountains in West Texas. I mean anything larger than a sand dune is a mountain to a flatlander.

So, enjoy the flatness, take off to the mountains for a change of pace, but remember — no matter where you go, there you are.

And that's for what it's worth!

This budget tastes like spinach

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — One of the all-time great cartoons in The New Yorker appeared back in 1928. It depicted a young mother trying to pull a con job at the dinner table.

"It's broccoli, dear," says the mother to her rebellious child. "I say it's spinach," says the kid, "and I say the hell with it."

The budget agreement that was reached on Sunday, after four months of tedious negotiations, should be greeted in the same way. Yes, the agreement contains a few useful provisions. Taken by its four corners, the scheme is a stinker.

Looking at this misbegotten document, one searches for the most appropriate adjective. The word that comes instantly to mind is "disgraceful." Everything about it is disgraceful. President Bush began the process on Jan. 29. He sent up a budget purporting to reduce the deficit to $63.1 billion in fiscal 1991. That deficit now is estimated at $293.7 billion.

Budget Director Richard Darman described the president's January budget as "serious." He said it was realistic and credible. It contained no gimmicks. In point of fact, the president's budget document was a farce. It should have provided decisive leadership. It provided no leadership at all.

Thus encouraged to behave irresponsibly, Congress rose magnificently to the challenge. The two chambers proceeded to miss every deadline contained in the budget act. On Monday, when the fiscal year began, the Senate had passed only four of the 13 regular appropriation acts. Not a single one of these key bills had gone to the White House.

Instead of an orderly legislative process, characterized by public debate and thorough consideration, congressional leaders presented the country with a contemporary version of the smoke-filled room. Ambassadors from the White House, notably director Darman, huddled in privacy at Andrews Air Force Base with a dozen key members of Congress.

In a repudiation of the whole process of representative government, they cobbled together a compromise package. At the last possible minute they unloaded their agreement. If the pact is not accepted on the Hill in the next two weeks, a horrible thing will happen: The blunderbuss cuts required under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings Act will be triggered.

Members should not be intimidated by talk of imaginary horrors. Pull the trigger! Let us paraphrase the ancient Romans' fearless defense of justice: Fiat sequestra, ruat caelum. Let sequestration be done, though the heavens fall. For the heavens would not fall. The president retains authority to exempt such essential services as meat inspection and air traffic control. A federal government suddenly stripped of non-essential services could function indefinitely. It would be a generally better government.

The Andrews agreement errs in every direction. A sensible package would have included significant reduction in the tax on capital gains. Bush has been exactly right in advocating this long-range stimulus to entrepreneurial investment. He let himself be swindled out of it by Democrats who demagogued the idea to death.

Under the agreement, gasoline taxes would go up — but the added revenue would not go for needed work on our highways. Similarly, the pact would drain off new funds that are desperately needed for airports. It is all very well to boost taxes on wine, beer, cigarettes, fur coats and expensive cars, but this is nickel and dime stuff.

The agreement's greatest failure lies in its failure to curb federal spending. Here the prin-iples of representative government have been superbly upheld. The people are as irresponsible as their members of Congress. The people want a trillion dollars worth of goodies a year. But don't make us pay! Congress happily will oblige.

A homely example: Among this year's spending bills is a bill for water and sewer projects. The small town of Turbeville, S.C., stands to receive a grant of $1.5 million. Is this a true federal responsibility? Of course not. But when Sen. Ernest Hollings was asked about it, he explained that if Turbeville didn't get the money, some other community would. He had to stand by his constituents. Statesmanship be damned. Build the sewers.

The Andrews agreement may be the best that could be achieved, but it's a bummer. Metaphorically speaking, it isn't broccoli. It isn't fresh asparagus or Boston lettuce. It's spinach. And the kid had the right idea.

Hate mail gets colorful at times

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

People ask, "Do you read all your mail?"

Of course, I do. The mail is great fun.

I get letters that say I'm a terrific guy. I get letters that say I'm a disgrace.

I enjoy both kinds. The love mail fires my ego and makes me feel wanted.

The hate mail tells me I'm hitting nerves and stirring things up. I've always been an irreverent little cuss.

The hate mail is also enjoyable because of the names I get called. Here are some examples I've collected over the years:

- "You Godless Gizzard."
- "You Tunnel-Visioned Toad."
- "You Ignorant Maggot."
- "You Four-eyed Fur-mouthed, Fish-faced fool."

These come from religious nuts, gun lovers, bleeding heart liberals, soccer fans and the left-handed Chinese Yacht Racers Anti-Defamation League."

But the all-time all-time came in the other day.

A man who signed himself as A.M. Lamar of Montgomery, Ala., put me in my place as no one ever has before.

Mr. Lamar took exception with a column I wrote suggesting we immediately kick butt in Iraq, which sounded like a good idea at the time.

His letter began: "Like most childless, middle-aged, medically deferred megamouths, you just can't wait to see someone else's young sons charge in to 'kick butt' in another bloody and stupid patriotic war."

Brilliant. In one sentence, Mr. Lamar refers to my inability to stay married, my advancement to middle age (a sure sign of stupidity), my health problems and my occasional tendency toward mindless pontification.

But that wasn't the best part. Here's what Mr. Lamar's letter said next:

"Are you ready to volunteer in Iraq, you pecksniffian, pusillanimous, pig-valved (rhymes with 'hiss') ant?"

That is taking alliteration to previously uncharted heights.

"Pusillanimous," you can look up. It's "lacking courage or spirit; cowardly."

And I do have an aortic valve that once belonged to a pig and you certainly should know of the lowly ant to which Mr. Lamar refers and how it implies that one is terribly insignificant, as in "run you little (rhymes with 'hiss') ants" (from the movie "The Last Picture Show").

"Pecksniffian" took some work. I went to the Random House Dictionary of the English Language, Second Edition, Unabridged, and there it was.

It comes from the Seth Pecksniff character in "Martin Chuzzlewit," a novel by Dickens.

Pecksniffian's definition read, "Hypocritically and unctuously affecting benevolence or high moral principles" — whatever that means.

So I went to "unctuous." It is, "characterized by excessive piousness."

Basically, I think "pecksniffian" means I'm an ignorant maggot.

At any rate I wanted A.M. Lamar to know how much I appreciate his letter and that his points were well-taken and I'm also glad "pecksniffian" didn't mean anything dirty.

Town installs first signal light

STANFIELD, Ore. (AP) — Residents have decided to call a halt on traffic streaming through this crossroads community in eastern Oregon. They've installed a traffic light — the first in the town's 107-year history. "This is one of the best things that ever happened to the town," Mayor Frank Alvarez said of the three-lens traffic signal at a ribbon-cutting ceremony Tuesday attended by about 70 of the town's 1,615 residents. Though other towns in the region have resisted the need for a red light, Stanfield is happy to have traffic come to a halt, even if only for a moment. "When you see old people standing on the curb for 45 minutes at a time, trying to get across, you know it's kind of bad," City Councilman Bob Swales said. Five years ago, the town earned headlines and a mention by Johnny Carson on the "Tonight Show" when it passed an ordinance outlawing public sex by animals.

Woman protests by unleashing roaches

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP) — An apartment tenant was cited for contempt after unleashing thousands of cockroaches in court to protest her living conditions, authorities said. Maria Terwen said she wanted to demonstrate to court officials that her apartment was uninhabitable. So she dumped the insects on the desk in front of Morgan County Magistrate Margaret Gordon at a hearing Wednesday. "Thousands of roaches must have been in the container," Gordon said. "It was awful. It really freaked me out. I never had anything like this happen before in court." A few of the insects found their way to second-floor offices, hallways, bathrooms and magistrates' offices, authorities said. The building was later sprayed. Contempt of court is punishable by $50 to $100 fines.

Judge has robes of many colors

BECKLEY, W. Va. (AP) — Flowing black robes have no place in the courtroom of Circuit Judge John Ashworth. In Raleigh County Circuit Court, Ashworth wears a red robe at Christmastime, for weddings and occasionally, as he puts it, "just for the devilment of it." But his favorite robe is electric-blue. "I really don't like a black robe," he said. "Why should you wear a black robe when you have so many other colors to choose from?" His colorful taste extends to his regular wardrobe. He recently came to work in a lilac suit with matching suspenders and bow tie. He also favors hats, including a straw hat that he rarely is seen without during the spring and summer. "I usually remember to wear a hat wherever I go," said Ashworth, who is known to friends as "the Mad Hatter." "I've got about 15 straw hats, three derbies, felt hats, wool caps and even a hat from Australia," he said. Lawyers say Ashworth's eccentricity livens up his courtroom. "It adds a little color to the courtroom," Beckley lawyer John Wootin said. "I think it's a nice change." Ashworth does own a black robe, but not the kind that hangs to the floor. "I had the sleeves altered so they're not in my way, and the bottom shortened," he said. "I like my sawed-off one very much. . . . It can't get caught in my chair."

John Marchesi, left, helps his brother Jim move Sunday during Chicago's traditional October migration of apartment dwellers. Twice a year, on May 1 and October 1, thousands of apartment leases expire simultaneously citywide, and moving vans choke the narrower streets in popular residential neighborhoods.

October is moving month for Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Synchronized leasing. A fancy name for moving hell.

Not enough vans. Not enough crews. Not enough room on the streets for thousands of Chicago apartment dwellers who pack up and head for new digs at the same time twice each year when their leases expire simultaneously.

Monday, Oct. 1, was one of those days. May 1 is the other. "We started at 10 a.m. and it is now 4 p.m.," said Jim Marchesi, who had to maneuver his rental truck around four others on his North Side block Sunday. "I have only had to move about five blocks, and it feels like I have moved from five different countries."

So-called "synchronized leasing" has been around a long time, but most cities abandoned the practice. No one seems to know why it lingered in Chicago, but many people believe it may have something to do with the city's weather.

"No one in their right mind wants to move in a Chicago summer or a Chicago winter," said leasing agent Tom Lucido. "By May 1 it's usually warm but not hot — and the weather really does change significantly from September to October. By Oct. 1, it's cool — but not cold."

"The typical nightmare is that you have a tenant whose lease expires Sept. 30, and they haven't moved out yet when the new tenant's supposed to move in Oct. 1," he said. "You end up with a tenant sitting out there in a moving van with no place to go."

Commonwealth Edison Co. and Peoples Gas Co. estimated that more than 50,000 rental units were up for tenant changes on or about Oct. 1.

"You can't get a truck. You can't get a mover. You can't get an elevator," said Joel Kline. "You're moving into an apartment someone's moving out of. You're moving out of an apartment someone's moving into. It's just terrible."

Kline was among the lucky. He got a four-day lease extension. "It's been total chaos," said Dave Beard, assistant manager of a U-Haul outlet. "We never seem to have enough equipment come May and October. People get frustrated. There are attitude problems."

City officials estimated the municipal building alone cost $10 million to build. City Attorney Eric Vickers said the value of the properties far exceeds anything owed the DeBows.

"I think this decision is just a major miscarriage of justice and demonstrates bias against the city of East St. Louis," Vickers said. "The city has not defaulted on its payments. It's ludicrous."

Another lawyer for East St. Louis, Irvin Williamson, said the city would ask a court to stay the judgment pending appeal. "If the court allows the judgment to stand against the city, what's next? The police cars? The fire trucks?" Williamson said.

Judge awards City Hall

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — Walter DeBow and his family fought City Hall, and now they own it.

DeBow, 55, suffered permanent brain damage after being beaten into a coma by a fellow prisoner at the city jail more than six years ago. He and his family were awarded $3.4 million in a 1985 court settlement with the city.

With interest, that amount has grown to $4 million, and the debt-ridden city has not paid at least $1 million of it, said the DeBows' attorney, Clyde Kuehn.

So last week Judge Roger Scrivner of St. Clair County Circuit Court awarded the East St. Louis Municipal Building and 220 acres of city-owned property to the DeBows.

Kuehn said the DeBows planned to sell the property. "Definitely my clients want what they were awarded, and I think this is necessary to accomplish that," he said.

City officials estimated the municipal building alone cost $10 million to build. City Attorney Eric Vickers said the value of the properties far exceeds anything owed the DeBows.

"I think this decision is just a major miscarriage of justice and demonstrates bias against the city of East St. Louis," Vickers said. "The city has not defaulted on its payments. It's ludicrous."

Another lawyer for East St. Louis, Irvin Williamson, said the city would ask a court to stay the judgment pending appeal. "If the court allows the judgment to stand against the city, what's next? The police cars? The fire trucks?" Williamson said.

Holiday helpers

Get a head start on the holidays by home canning your gifts

Food

LOS ANGELES — Autumn's chill will soon be in the air. It's time to bring the season's tastes and smells indoors by canning fall fruits and vegetables for future treats.

By putting up these foods now, you'll benefit three ways. First, you'll beat the holiday rush for cooking ingredients and gift-buying. Second, friends and family will enjoy your handiwork for months. And, finally, your pantry will be well-stocked for feeding last-minute guests.

What delicious foods does Autumn offer? A basketful of cranberries fresh from the bough may be turned into a holiday side dish, Cranberry-Orange Relish. This tangy condiment enhances main courses, too, like Golden Roast Chicken with Cranberry-Pecan Stuffing.

And, apples cooked into Autumn Apple Chutney are a piquant accompaniment to melted brie.

Foodstuffs aren't all that go into a Kerr jar. Brighten gloomy late-season days by filling jars with lively Holiday Spice Potpourri. Dried orange and lemon peels plus aromatic spices will scent your home like the holidays.

For additional recipe and gift ideas, order the new Kerr Kitchen Cookbook by sending your name and address with a check or money order for $3.50 to: Kerr, Consumer Products Division, P.O. Box 76961, Los Angeles, Calif., 90076.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE RELISH

2 pounds cranberries, approximately 8 cups
2 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 orange with peel, seeded and finely chopped
1/2 cup orange juice (may substitute 1/2 cup orange liqueur)

In a 6- to 8-quart saucepan, combine sugar and water. Over medium heat, stir until mixture dissolves. Add remaining ingredients and bring mixture to a boil, stirring occasionally.

Boil, stirring constantly, until cranberries pop and mixture thickens, approximately 7 1/2 to 10 minutes. Immediately fill hot pint jars with mixture, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Carefully run a non-metallic utensil down inside of jars to remove trapped air bubbles. Wipe jar tops and threads clean. Place hot lids on jars and screw band on firmly. Process in boiling water canner for 10 minutes.

Makes 3 to 4 pints. For smaller yield, cut ingredients in half. Processing times and other directions remain the same.

GOLDEN ROAST CHICKEN WITH CRANBERRY-PECAN STUFFING

5- to 6-pound roasting chicken
1 1/2 cups herb-seasoned stuffing mix

1 half-pint jar (1 cup) Cranberry-Orange Relish

3/4 cup chopped pecans

3 tablespoons butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Remove giblets and neck from chicken cavity. Rinse chicken under cold running water. Pat dry. Combine stuffing mix, Cranberry-Orange Relish, pecans and 2 tablespoons butter, melted. Mix well to blend. Loosely stuff chicken with mixture. Close openings with skewers and secure skewers with string.

Place chicken on a rack in a baking pan. Melt remaining tablespoon of butter and brush over chicken. Roast chicken, uncovered, for 2 to 2 1/2 hours, or until internal temperature registers 185 degrees F. Baste chicken with pan juices several times while roasting. Let stand 15 minutes before carving.

AUTUMN APPLE CHUTNEY

8 cups (approximately 10 medium whole) pared, cored, chopped tart apples

1 cup chopped onions

1 cup chopped sweet red bell peppers

2 hot red peppers (approximately 2 tablespoons), seeded and finely chopped

1 clove garlic, minced

1 1/2 pounds raisins

4 cups firmly packed brown sugar

3 tablespoons mustard seed

2 tablespoons ground ginger

2 teaspoons ground allspice

2 teaspoons salt

4 cups cider vinegar (labeled 5 percent acidity)

Combine all ingredients in a 6- to 8-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for about 1 to 1 1/2 hours or until deep brown and thick, stirring occasionally at the beginning of cooking and constantly at the end of cooking. Immediately fill hot pint jars with mixture, leaving 1/2-inch headspace.

Carefully run a non-metallic utensil down inside of jars to remove trapped air bubbles. Wipe jar tops and threads clean. Place hot lids on jars and screw bands on firmly. Process in boiling water canner for 10 minutes. Makes 4 to 5 pints.

HOLIDAY SPICE POTPOURRI

4 oranges

4 lemons

1/2 cup whole cloves

1/2 cup whole allspice

10 cinnamon sticks, broken

10 bay leaves, crumbled

4 8-ounce Kerr decorated jelly jars with bands and lids

Using a vegetable peeler, peel oranges and lemons, being careful to remove only peel and hot white pith. Cut or tear into 1-inch pieces.

Some wood dusts can be irritating

By TONY WEDIG

Sometimes when information is common knowledge to me, I forget to tell others about it. This column is about such information.

My wife was helping me put up some paneling and after finishing the sawing and nailing, I went to the bathroom and poured rubbing alcohol onto a wash cloth and wiped off my arms and hands before washing them with soap and water. I advised my wife to do the same. She asked why, and I explained briefly that almost all paneling is glued together with a urathane type resin. These resins utilize formaldehyde. Formaldehyde and urathanes are soluble in rubbing alcohol but not very soluble in water. In sawing and working with new paneling the dust is impregnated with these chemicals.

For most people urathanes and formaldehydes will cause a skin irritation. By wiping off the skin with rubbing alcohol first, then washing with soap and water, the skin can be easily cleaned. After this explanation my wife suggested that I tell my readers about this "new info."

She also asked if other wood dusts should be washed off in a like manner. The answer is yes. Saw dust from pressure treated or just treated wood is irritating to many people. Anyone with asthma or other breathing disorders should be very careful around this type of saw dust. I would recommend at a minimum the wearing of a dust mask. Because the wood is saturated with preservatives all dust will also be saturated.

The preservatives of wood keep the wood from rotting. Rotting is the normal biological decay process and the preservatives kill the bacteria (and other living things) that carry out this biodegrading process. A good rule of thumb is that anything that kills biological systems can also hurt us.

An often overlooked item is the fact that some of these compounds are vaporized in the sawing process. The heat produced by the friction of the blade with the wood will exceed the vaporization temperature for most of these preservatives and related compounds. The body has a simple way of telling us if we are around these vapors — we get a headache.

If you get a headache then don't take an aspirin, get away from the saw dust. Stop working and wash up. Again, I would recommend wiping off the exposed skin with a wash cloth dampened with rubbing alcohol before using soap and water.

Neither a name nor a nose can reveal a person's faith

DEAR ABBY: I have a question for a new friend and need help in devising a subtle approach. This new friend has the potential to play a significant role in my life. If the answer is yes, or if it is no, I couldn't care less either way, but I would like to know if he is Jewish.

Dear Abby

How can I find out if he doesn't volunteer? His last name is questionable. He is from a large family in upstate New York. His nose tells me nothing. His father is French and I don't know about his mother. His complexion and hair are very dark. He has jokingly referred to Jews as "Hebes."

Abby, how can I ask without sounding too concerned, which I really am not. — CURIOS DOWN SOUTH of hair color or complexion; Jews come in all colors.

Also, some Jewish people jokingly refer to Jews as "Hebes." But if, as you say, this new friend has the potential to play a significant role in your life, if you're still seeing each other in December, ask if you can attend Christmas services with him.

DEAR CURIOUS: It's a good thing you are not drawing your conclusions on the basis of his name or his nose because both are easily changed. Having a French father doesn't tell you anything about his religion. There are French Jews, Mormons, Christians, Moslems, Buddhists and atheists. And don't draw your conclusions on the basis

DEAR ABBY: I have been wanting to write this letter for years, but I'm finally getting around to it. I used to respect the signs that read "Parking for Handicapped Only." No more. In my community, many drivers have special license plates issued to handicapped people, and do you know what one person's handicap is? Hard of hearing! Why on earth would a person who is hard of hearing need a special place to park?

I also know a man with a handicapped license who is supposed to be disabled. He goes dancing four nights a week until 1 a.m. Why should he be given a special place to park?

Another person I know borrows a car from a handicapped relative so she can park in reserved-for-handicapped spaces. Those places are meant for people who are in wheelchairs, walkers or crutches.

DEAR DISGUSTED: I, too, am disgusted with cheaters, but may I remind you that not all handicaps are visible. People with heart conditions or emphysema may "appear" to be hale and hearty, but they can't walk a block without needing to stop and rest.

DEAR ABBY: Add this to your collection of unbelievable hospital bills: In 1953, my wife gave birth to a baby girl. Before checking out of the hospital, we were presented with the following bill:
 Birthing and hospital care.....$129.00
 Circumcision.....$25.00
 — FRANK IN HAMBURG, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: I am going crazy trying to figure something out. Is it possible to have an aunt who is younger than you are? And if it is possible, please explain how it can be. Thank you. — GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: It's possible, and here's how:
 • An aunt is the sister of your mother or father. Right? Let us say that when you were 5 years old, your father's mother (who is your grandmother) gave birth to a baby girl whom she named "Paula." Well, because Paula is your father's sister, even though she is 5 years younger than you, she is your aunt. Got it?

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Bullock: Federal tax hikes will be costly for Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas state government will lose more than $200 million over the next three years under the proposed federal budget agreement, Comptroller Bob Bullock says.

Bullock said the higher taxes, proposed for such items as gasoline, alcoholic beverages and cigarettes, will drive down consumption by Texans, reducing the amount of state taxes collected from their sale.

The cost to Texas state government would be $42 million this year and $164 million in the 1992-93 budget period, the comptroller projected.

"It may make the bottom line look better in Washington, but it only puts us further in the hole in Texas because we depend on these consumption taxes more than the federal government does," Bullock said Tuesday.

Texas has neither a personal nor corporate income tax. Much of the state government's revenue comes from a general sales tax and so-called "sin" taxes on alcoholic beverages and tobacco products.

A loss of revenue for the state caused by lower consumption of those products could hit particularly hard during the next two-year budget cycle.

The Legislature is bracing for a budget deficit estimated at more than $3 billion to continue services at the present level.

Lawmakers raised taxes just last June to help pay for a $528 million increase in state aid to public schools. Those hikes included increases in the sales tax, the tax on mixed drinks, and the taxes on cigarettes and other tobacco products, including chewing tobacco and smoking tobacco.

If approved by Congress, the budget deal announced this week in Washington would increase federal taxes on gasoline, diesel fuel, cigarettes, beer, wine and liquor.

The federal gas tax would rise 12 cents a gallon, the cigarette tax by 8 cents a pack, the tax on beer by 100 percent and the 3-cent tax on a fifth of wine goes up to 25 cents.

Criticism of the budget agreement rolled in from across Texas on Tuesday.

State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower called the plan a "disaster" for rural Americans.

He said higher fuel costs would hurt farmers who need it for production and rural residents who don't have mass transit services. "Any increase in the gasoline tax is money out of their weekly food budget," he said.

"The worst thing about this proposal is that it equates the painful sacrifices it forces on working families and the elderly with the minimal hardship the very rich will face when they have to shell out an extra hundred for their next Mercedes," Hightower said.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards said the plan would hurt the elderly. "The increase in Medicare deductible and premiums will literally force thousands of Texans to choose between food and shelter on one hand, and medical care on the other," she said.

The Texas Motor Transport Association, which represents the truck and bus industry, also complained about the fuel tax increases.

"The price of fuel has increased by as much as 35 percent within the last six weeks because of the Persian Gulf crisis. Now Congress wants the truck and bus industry to help pay for reducing the budget deficit with the substantial fuel tax increases," said Robert Floyd, the group's president.

Trial date set in Colorado City case

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — A Feb. 4 trial date has been set for a civil suit filed in Abilene against Colorado City, the police department and individuals, including a former part-time police officer who fatally shot a Hispanic man May 13, 1988.

The civil suit, filed May 11 in U.S. District Court in Abilene, alleges a history of abuse against Hispanics by police prior to the death of Sammy Gomez, 27, who was shot three times, once in the back of the head, by Billy Ray Williamson during an arrest on sexual assault charges. Williamson said Gomez advanced on him with a knife but League of United Latin American Citizens claim a knife was planted.

"We've overcome the initial thrust to get this case dismissed," said plaintiff's attorney Ruben Sandoval, San Antonio, who is representing the Gomez family in the suit. "I'm most anxious to hear Billy Ray explain his version to a jury. In a court of law he will be subject to cross-examination by me. I assure you I will be meticulous."

Williamson, who has been exonerated by two Mitchell County grand juries, did not seem concerned upon learning of the trial date. He said he has not yet been served notification of last week's pre-trial notice and order which set the date. "If we are, then fine. If not, then whatever," he said.

Gomez's mother, Minnie, said she was glad. "It's getting closer," she said. "All this waiting, years and years, it's hard."

Colorado City Police Chief Bobby Sparks, named individually as a defendant, said he did not want to comment. City Manager Brenda Hammond, also named as a defendant, could not be reached Tuesday afternoon or this morning.

Other individuals named in the suit include police officers Patrick Taylor and Tim Atkins.

The suit alleges six allegations of abuse documented by former county Attorney Pat Barber, including five involving minorities, by the police department. Williamson was named in four of those incidents.

"So in my opinion, we need a stretch of warm weather behind this rain and then the rain won't make that much difference," Reid explained.

He said another problem with the cotton crops is the boll weevils and the rain.

"Back in 1975 we had a lot of rain and cool weather in September and I lost my crop. The boll weevils ate it up," Reid remembered.

Reid said the price of cotton always seem to be the lowest for the year in the fall, when farmers are selling their crops.

"I used to think it was the law of supply and demand, but now I seriously think it's the law of manipulation and rip-off."

Larry Shaw, a cotton farmer in Knott, said that he's hoping the rain stays away, and sunshine continues.

"What we need is normal conditions. We don't need any more rain out here, but if it clears off it won't hurt us too much. We've got good size cotton, we just need the sunshine to get down into the bolls," Shaw said.

Pat Porter, who lives in Luther, said that this weather is the strangest he's seen.

"My ducks are getting hoof-rot, and there's moss growing on my mesquite tree this morning," Porter said. Porter said he thinks all this rain will be good for raising cattle because it will improve the feed and grain.

In the area, the rainfall for last night was 2.1 inches, according to an official of the Agricultural Research Station. The research station is closed for the remainder of the week due to budget cuts.

Stanton resident Jimmy Stallings reported 1.7 inches of rain and Frances Biggs in northwest Martin County reported 2.1 inches of rainfall.

Grover Springer in Lenorah reported 1.7 inches of rain and B.G. Barber, in the heart of Big Spring, reported 1.7 inches of rain last night.

Speaking for the Democratic leadership, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell echoed the president, saying, "This package is a compromise. Neither side got what it wanted."

Democrats, he said in an equal-time TV address after Bush spoke, joined a Republican president to get the agreement. Now, he said, "We hope the Republican members of Congress will also set aside partisan differences in doing what's right."

Bush planned to continue pushing his package in speeches around the nation, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

"There's a lot of people who disagree with this. A lot of people have trouble with it. And they need to be convinced. And we'll do our best," Fitzwater said.

While it is expected to take a tough sell among many Democrats as well as Bush's fellow Republicans who don't want to endorse tax increases and spending cuts in an election year, some opponents said the president had a good chance of getting the package through Congress.

and reduced benefits would take an average 2 percent of the earnings of one-fifth of Americans with the lowest incomes, according to the survey by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The president asked Americans to "tell your congressmen and senators you support this deficit reduction agreement." He said lawmakers "worry about your reaction to one part or another."

He also called the budget deficit "a cancer gnawing away at our nation's health" and warned that if it continues unabated, "our economy will falter, markets may tumble and recession will follow."

Earlier, Bush summoned a group of business representatives to the White House and told them "everybody has had to compromise" for the agreement.

"The country, frankly, is at stake here," he said.

Apparently referring to his violation of his "no new taxes" campaign pledge and his failure to get a capital gains tax cut, Bush said, "I don't want to sound sanctimonious about this, but I was elected to govern."

Suspects in burglary ring face grand jury

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Two Howard County men suspected of being part of a Crossroads Country burglary ring will go before a 118th District grand jury this week to answer 14 charges of burglary of a habitation. Jurors, who met this morning, are also expected to hear charges against 37 other people today and tomorrow.

Ben Garza, 36, 1017 Johnson St., and Billy Lee Green, 45, no address available, were arrested Aug. 7 and more than $30,000 in property believed to be stolen from a five-county area, was confiscated. Sheriff A.N. Standard said the number of burglaries in which they are suspected of being involved indicates they may have been part of a burglary ring.

At the time of their arrest, 22 burglaries had occurred in the county in 1990, according to records, while there were 23 burglaries in all of 1989. "Really, we were in quite a siege of burglaries for quite some time," Standard said. "Mostly what was happening were barn burglaries."

Confiscated by sheriff deputies in August were vehicles, farm equipment, tools, appliances, furniture, food and clothing.

"We're expecting multiple indictments here," Standard said. "One of them has already given statements in a series of burglaries."

In addition to the 14 charges, four more burglary charges are pending against them in Howard County which may also be investigated by the grand jury. Standard said.

They also face multiple indictments and charges in surrounding counties.

Each were indicted by an August Mitchell County grand jury on four counts of burglary of a habitation and nine counts of burglary of a building. In September, a Scurry County grand jury indicted both on felony theft.

In Dawson County, they face a charge of burglary of a building. In Borden County they are facing a charge of felony theft. Sheriff department officials in area counties, except in Mitchell County, said more charges could be filed.

Burglary of a habitation carries a sentence of 5-99 years in prison or a life sentence and/or a fine of up to $10,000. Burglary of a habitation is 2-20 years and/or a fine up to $10,000.

According to courthouse records in Howard County, Garza was convicted of two burglaries in 1977 and was sentenced to eight years in the Texas Department of Corrections. Green received a probated sentence for a 1962 burglary but served time following a probation revocation in 1965.

member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said there appeared to be "two Judge Souters."

"The Judge Souter who testified before our committee did not seem locked to the past, and that was the one he was voting for, Kohl said. He added that he hoped the Senate had not been deceived.

"He's about the best we can expect, from my perspective, from this administration," Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., said of President Bush's first Supreme Court nominee.

But the National Abortion Rights Action League said the Senate

"made a dangerous leap of faith" that could lead to the defeat of abortion rights and a return to "back-alley abortions."

Souter toasted the vote with champagne in Concord, N.H., and pledged to return the nation's confidence in him.

"I have been given much and much will be expected of me in return, and I will make that return to you and I will make it in the fullest measure that I can," he said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other Democrats who opposed the nomination, said they would not give Souter the benefit of the doubt.

Souter could "solidify a 5-4 anti-civil rights, anti-privacy majority" on the court, said Kennedy, repeating the argument he made as the only member of the Senate Judiciary Committee to oppose the nomination.

Forum deemed success by organizers

By DEBBIE LINCEUM Staff Writer

The community forum held last week to discuss shopping in Big Spring was a great success — allowing customers to speak out and giving merchants fuel for improvements, an organizer said.

"Not Shopping in Big Spring, Tell Us Why!" was sponsored by Leadership Big Spring Alumni and two committees of the chamber — the Commerce Business Committee and the Extension Community Development Committee.

Cliff Ataway, chairman of the business committee, said the forum generated two categories of comments.

"One, we got sweeping generalizations, which were not specific enough to be helpful except as a barometer (of shopper's attitudes)," Ataway said. "Then we got a few broad strokes that we could focus on. There seems to be the perception that some sales people are not as polite, attentive and caring as they should be... and, you've got people saying they want more and better selection."

Ataway said the changes brought up by the forum may be "difficult to tackle."

"Merchants have to make up their mind to listen to their customers and pay attention to what their customers want," he said.

At the forum, many of the between 80 and 100 local residents said there was a need for varied product selection and improved communication between store owners and customers.

Though the audience numbers seemed relatively small, Ataway said the live broadcast on KBST with call-in capability helped the forum reach a larger number of people.

"One hundred people is a pretty fair cross section," Ataway said. "But there are a lot of people who are afraid to speak about something like this in person, so we got some good anonymous comments over the phone. I heard a lot of people say they listened to the broadcast."

At a follow-up meeting Tuesday, many merchants expressed their appreciation for the comments generated at the forum, Ataway said.

The business committee plans to hold quarterly training seminars to "give merchants the tools they need to increase business and offer better service," he said.

"We (merchants) do feel we could make some positive changes. We're excited about the input we got."

According to chamber of commerce figures, total buying power in Howard County in 1989 was $315,340,000. As much as 44 percent of that total may have been spent out of the county in 1989, according to a study conducted by the chamber.

"In my mind, the forum was a smashing success," Ataway said. "We got a gold mine of comments."

A good year for baseball

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

With a season that started so gloomy, it sure turned out to be a good baseball year.

Baseball survived Pete Rose's imprisonment, the owners' lockout and Billy Martin's death in an automobile accident.

It may have began grave at times, but boy, did it end with a bang.

It was a year for Cecil Fielder, Ryne Sandberg, Willie McGee, George Brett, Nolan Ryan, Bob Welch, Carlton Fisk, Ricky Henderson, Barry Bonds... the list could go on and on.

It's been a year of major leaguers chasing major league goals that are really big. What a year Fielder has had. The former Japanese League player is chasing the 50-homer mark, needing one. That's a mark baseball experts said couldn't be reached in modern baseball, in an era of night baseball and bevy of fire-balling relief pitchers.

Going into this week Fielder's 49 homers and 127 runs batted in lead the majors. He's got an .282 batting average to boot. You would think he's a likely choice for MVP. Just because the Detroit Tigers finished nine games out of first, does that count him out?

If that goes against him, look for Rickey Henderson of the Oakland A's. Henderson, a fleet-footed left fielder, is having his greatest year ever. He's been in the league 11 years, and he's still the AL's top base stealer. He has 63 thefts, and is closing in on Lou Brock's all-time career base-stealing mark. Henderson is second behind Kansas City's Brett in batting, .328 to .326, and Henderson is seventh in homers with 28.

You can't count out Toronto Blue Jays third baseman Kelly Gruber, who's trying to lead his team to consecutive division crowns. Gruber hit 30 homers, drove in 130 runs and batted .280.

Chicago Cubs second baseman Ryne Sandberg is going through what Fielder's going through with Detroit. Playing with the second division Cubbies, Sandberg could get overlooked for MVP honors. Last month Sandberg became the first second baseman to hit 30 homers in consecutive years. He could also be the first at his position since Roger Hornsby in 1925 to lead the league in homers.

He leads the league with 40 homers, has 97 runs batted in and is hitting .304. But then you talk about the Killer B's in Pittsburgh — Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla — and their team won their division to boot.

Bonds is hitting .304 with 33 homers and 113 RBIs. He also swiped 52 bases, third best in the league. Bonilla batted .282, with 32 homers and 117 RBIs.

Who do you give the Cy Young Award to in the American League?

Boston's Roger Clemens has been awesome, when he's not hurt. Clemens is 21-6 and has an eye-popping 1.98 earned run average.

Oakland's Bob Welch has stayed healthy and is 27-6, the first 25-game winner in a decade. But his ERA is 3.00. Let's not forget teammate Dave Stewart, who's 22-10 (2.58), his fourth straight 20-win season.

The Cy Young in the NL? Pittsburgh's Doug Drabek is 21-6 with a 2.80 ERA. There's also 19-game winner Frank Viola from Cincinnati and Ramon Martinez from Los Angeles.

The AL Rookie of the Year? Cleveland catcher Sandy Alomar Jr., Yankees first baseman Kevin Mass or Boston outfielder Carlos Quintana.

NL Rookie of the Year? Montreal second baseman Delino Shields or Atlanta outfielder Dave Justice. Take your picks. Man, it's been a good year.

Guillen's bat keeps Blue Jays alive

By The Associated Press There may be no tomorrow for the Toronto Blue Jays, but at least they still have today.

And if things go today — tonight, actually — like they did Tuesday night, there not only will be a tomorrow but the one-game winner-take-all playoff for the American League East will be in the Blue Jays' SkyDome home.

"You have to go in saying it's do or die. We don't want to have to go to Toronto for a playoff game," Boston's Jody Reed said after the Red Sox failed to clinch the title by losing to Chicago 3-2 on Ozzie Guillen's RBI single in the 11th inning.

An hour or so earlier, the Blue Jays had remained alive by edging Baltimore 2-1 on Fred McGriff's ninth-inning, two-out homer.

"There are a lot of things that go through your mind," said Bud Black (13-11), who held Baltimore to a run and three hits in eight innings before Tom Henke pitched the ninth for his 32nd save. "You're helpless. The White Sox had a chance to help us, and they did. McGriff hit a tie-breaking home run with two out in the ninth inning Tuesday night to give Toronto a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles and keep the Blue Jays' American League East title hopes alive.

McGriff's 35th homer came on a 2-2 pitch from Baltimore starter Dave Johnson (13-9).

Johnson had retired 12 straight batters when George Bell singled with one out in the Toronto fifth. John Olerud singled Bell to third and Pat Borders' single gave Toronto a 1-0 lead.

White Sox 3, Red Sox 2 Dennis Lamp (3-5), Boston's fourth pitcher, was unable to hold Chicago in the 11th after the Red Sox failed to score with the bases loaded and two out in the 10th against Donn Pall (3-5). Ellis Burks flied out to end the inning after an intentional walk to Wade Boggs.

With one out in the 11th, Ron Karkovice and Robin Ventura singled. Scott Fletcher popped out but Guillen pulled a low-outside pitch into right field and Karkovice just beat Kevin Romine's throw.

Wayne Edwards, Chicago's fourth pitcher, pitched the 11th for his second save. Romine singled with two out, but Tony Pena forced him to end the game.

Pirates prevent Gooden from winning No. 20

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco Giants Brett Butler steals his 50th base of the season during second inning action, sliding under the tag of Atlanta Braves shortstop Jeff Blauser.

By The Associate Press The Pittsburgh Pirates added one more unhappy moment to the New York Mets' disappointing season.

The Pirates, who spoiled the Mets' season by winning the NL East title, ruined Dwight Gooden's hopes for 20 victories Tuesday night by beating New York 9-4. Gooden entered the game with eight straight wins and 16 victories in his last 17 decisions, but allowed eight runs, six earned, in five innings.

Still, Gooden finished 19-7 and was 16-2 after June 2. His earned run average was 3.83, the highest of his career.

The Mets gave Gooden a pair of two-run leads, but he couldn't hold them. The Pirates went ahead to stay in the fourth when Gooden walked in the tie-breaking run and wild-pitched home another.

Sid Bream's two-run homer, his 15th, and an 8-4 lead that made Bill Landrum (7-3) a winner.

Dodgers 8, Padres 7 The Dodgers locked up second place in the NL West when Juan Samuel singled in the winning run in the 10th.

The Dodgers trailed 6-2 before scoring five runs in the eighth, capped by Mickey Hatcher's two-run pinch-single. Mike Pagliarulo's RBI single tied the game in the ninth, but the Dodgers loaded the bases in the 10th off Craig Lefferts (7-5) before Samuel's line-drive single gave Dave Walsh (1-0) his first big-league win.

Braves 16, Giants 7 Atlanta spotted the Giants a 4-0 lead, then roared back with 12 runs in the last four innings at Candlestick Park.

Tommy Gregg's three-run pinch-hit homer in the sixth off Mark Dewey (1-1) gave the Braves a 7-6 lead. Jeff Treadway added a two-run single later in the inning and Ron Gant had a solo homer in the eighth as the Braves finished with 18 hits.

Reds 3, Astros 2

The Reds tuned up for their playoff opener as Paul O'Neill singled in two runs and Jack Armstrong led a parade of six pitchers who combined for a four-hitter at Riverfront Stadium.

Armstrong pitched two perfect innings in his first start since Aug. 24. He had been sidelined with a sore elbow. Four Cincinnati pitchers retired the first 16 Astros until Luis Gonzalez doubled off Rick Mahler with one out in the sixth. Mahler allowed all Houston four hits, including Glenn Davis' two-run single in the seventh.

Scott Scudder (5-5) pitched two perfect innings in relief of Armstrong. The Reds scored all their runs off Xavier Hernandez (2-1), who took his first major league loss in his first big-league start after 40 relief appearances.

Cubs 3, Phillies 1

Andre Dawson reached the 100-RBI mark for the third time in his career with a run-scoring single as Chicago defeated Philadelphia.

Dawson singled in the Cubs' first run in the top of the first off Tommy Greene (3-3) and scored on Derrick May's double.

Wide receivers, linebacker head Honor Roll

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

In taking wins over Wink and Loraine, the Garden City Bearcats and Grady Wildcats went to the air. The results were exceptional.

Garden City bombed a good Wink Wildcat squad 76-7 and Grady manhandled Loraine in six-man action 30-8. Leading the way were two receivers who had banner games, thus earning Crossroads Country Honor Roll co-Offensive Players of the Week recognition.

Garden City junior wingback Richard Morales destroyed the Wink secondary. When he was finished, the 5-foot-10, 150-pounder, had six receptions for 154 yards and touchdown catches of 42, 28, 39 and 38 yards. From his spot in the secondary, he picked off a pass and returned it 38 yards for a score.

Grady receiver Danny Valle has been the team's leading tackler from his defensive end spot the last two seasons. This season the 5-foot-7, 145-pound senior, has become a major offensive weapon.

Against Loraine he caught six passes for 189 yards. He had catches of 58 and 67 yards, both leading to Grady scores.

The Crossroads Defensive Player of the Week also comes from Garden City. Last season James Soles was noted for his fancy footwork in the backfield as he rushed for more than 1,800 yards. This season Soles is still running the ball, sharing duty with Mario Aguilar. But now he spends most of his time punishing opposing linebackers from his new middle linebacker spot.

Against Roscoe, the 5-foot-10, 157-pound junior, was a force, making 22 tackles — four behind the line of scrimmage — sacking the quarterback once and causing two fumbles.

Soles had plenty of help from his teammates. Eric Seidenberger, in a new position at defensive tackle, made 11 tackles, four for losses, caused two fumbles and recovered one in the end zone for a TD. Eric's younger brother, Matt, an outside linebacker, made 11 tackles; safety Allen Hoelscher also had 11 tackles.

Other top defensive performers were:

• In Sands' 50-0 win over New Home, the trio of cornerback Pank Grigg, linebacker Eric Herm and end Brandon Riddle, were the main reasons New Home managed only 96 yards total offense.

• In Big Spring's 14-14 tie with Snyder, middle linebacker Felipe Saiz made 17 tackles and end Frank Garza made 10 tackles.

• In Coahoma's 17-7 loss to Iraan safety Rusty Ginnetti made 12 tackles; cornerback Keith Burnett made 10 tackles and linebacker Mike Hernandez made 12 tackles.

• In Colorado City's 21-21 tie with Merkel, linebacker Cade Proctor made 11 stops, two for losses, and sacked the quarterback once.

Top offensive performances were: • In Garden City's win, quarterback Shae Scott completed 14 of 24 passes for 238 yards and four TDs; quarterback-wide receiver Allen Hoelscher completed two of three passes for 70 yards and two TDs, caught six passes for 65 yards and a touchdown and had one punt for 61 yards. Tailback Mario Aguilar carried the ball 15 times for 98 yards and two TDs.

• In Stanton's 38-12 loss to Wall, wide receiver Kenny McCalister caught six passes for 84 yards.

In Sands' win, Grigg carried five times for 104 yards and two TDs. He also kicked four of six points after touchdowns.

• In Colorado City's tie with Merkel, halfback Robbie Smith carried 22 times for 126 yards.

NCAA to reconsider Runnin' Rebs penalty

LAS VEGAS (AP) — UNLV may be able to defend its national basketball championship after all.

The NCAA's Infractions Committee on Tuesday agreed to reconsider its July decision banning UNLV from postseason play, setting an Oct. 28 special meeting in Chicago to rehear the case.

UNLV officials called the decision a "clear signal" the NCAA might move away from the postseason ban, and said they would offer the committee a list of lighter penalties to take the place of the ban.

"We've gotten a second chance,"

UNLV president Robert Maxson said. "We've got to make the most out of that second chance."

The decision by the Infractions Committee to meet a second time on the case came as UNLV was preparing to go to Kansas City next week to appeal the postseason ban to the NCAA Council.

The appeal was shelved, at least temporarily, and Maxson expressed optimism the university would be able to convince the committee to agree to a lighter penalty for the basketball program.

"We're very pleased. We think this is a good sign for the university," Maxson said.

The Infractions Committee in July slapped the one-year postseason ban on UNLV as the final resolution to a battle with coach Jerry Tarkanian that stretched back to the NCAA's attempt to have Tarkanian suspended from coaching for two years in 1977.

UNLV, which had been expecting no more than a slap on the wrist, protested loudly and immediately launched an appeal of the decision.

UNLV counsel Brad Booke said Tarkanian still holds a court injunction prohibiting the university from suspending him, and said that any disciplinary action involving Tarkanian will have to get his prior approval.

"Coach Tarkanian has an injunction against the school," Booke said. "If we cross over into any of those areas, we'll have to have an agreement with him."

Booke acknowledged that one of the possible proposals would be for UNLV to ask Tarkanian to step aside during postseason play. Other contingencies include limiting of recruiting or the loss of some scholarships for the basketball program.

"We'll be trying to formulate ideas for alternative penalties right up until Oct. 28," said Booke. "We've discussed virtually every idea possible."

Tarkanian did not attend Tuesday's news conference called by Maxson to announce the NCAA decision.

Booke said, though, that university officials have discussed a variety of possible sanctions with the coach, and hinted that some of the penalties may apply to Tarkanian.

"There's certain things coach Tarkanian can do that are probably permissible under his injunction," he said.

Judson placed on probation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Judson High School football program Tuesday was placed on a year's probation for recruiting an incoming freshman athlete, a newspaper said.

The District 26-5A Executive Committee also requested that Judson receive a public letter of reprimand and that the recruited player, Jerod Douglas, be suspended from participating in varsity athletics for two years.

The committee also recommended that the coach responsible for recruiting Douglas be referred to the University Interscholastic League's state executive committee and issued "greater than a private reprimand," the San Antonio Light reported.

Bill Fish, the committee chairman, said the probation won't disqualify Judson from the 1990 UIL football playoffs.

"If there was another incident like this, sort of like what happened in the (Odessa) Permian case, (Judson) could be taken out of district championship status," said Fish. "That could be a possibility, and something this committee would have the power to do."

The recruiting charges were brought against Judson in late August by Schertz Clemens High School football coach Robert Lehnhoff. The Schertz-Cibolo district sent a letter to Fish contending that Douglas had been illegally lured to Judson when his mother went to work for the school district.

It is against UIL rules for a student to switch schools for athletic purposes or be recruited to another school by its coaches, officials or community members.

Oilers put

Rozier on waivers

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Rozier's 5-year Houston Oilers career, which included two Pro Bowl appearances, is over.

The four-time Oilers leading rusher was waived by General Manager Mike Holovak Tuesday after attempts to trade him failed.

Rozier's release eased the logjam at the one running back spot in the Oilers' run-and-shoot offense. Lorenzo White is the starter and he's backed up by Allen Pinkett.

"If you read my quotes in the preseason I said that in this offense we really only needed two backs," Holovak said. "There's just not enough work to go around for three."

Rozier had 10 carries for 42 yards and no touchdowns in four games this season and he caught 5 passes for 46 yards.

Rozier was a contract holdout at the start of the 1989 season and then missed the early part of the season with a knee injury. He appeared in 12 games and finished with 301 rushing yards on 88 carries, the lowest totals of his NFL career.

Rozier's playing time this season dropped off even more when new Coach Jack Pardee installed the one-back run-and-shoot offense.

The Oilers started training camp with four veterans battling for the starting S-back spot, which places a high premium on blocking.

Alonzo Highsmith was the projected starter but he was slowed in camp by injuries and eventually traded to the Dallas Cowboys. Lorenzo White earned the starting spot with Allen Pinkett in reserve.

White leads the Oilers in rushing with 80 yards on 34 carries.

Rozier signed a one-year contract with the Oilers for $600,000, making him an expensive reserve.

NHL officially starts season Thursday

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

When Al MacInnis was drafted by the Calgary Flames in 1981, not a single NHL player earned $1 million a year.

But when the NHL breaks the ice on a new season Thursday night, there will be more than a dozen millionaires, including MacInnis. "I don't feel any pressure (about the four-year, $4 million contract)," said MacInnis, who will be in the lineup when the Flames play host to Vancouver in one of nine games.

"There are some defensemen in the NHL who are going to be paid a lot more than I am. Scott Stevens. Ray Bourque. Paul Coffey turned down $5 million. So if you look at it that way, why should there be more pressure?"

MacInnis, actually, has Stevens to thank for his good fortune.

Everybody knows that Wayne Gretzky and Mario Lemieux are making millions, and few begrudge them.

But Stevens, a free agent with the Washington Capitals, signed a four-year, $5.145 million contract with the St. Louis Blues in the off-season and thus became the first million-dollar defenseman in NHL history. Until he signed his groundbreaking contract, no defenseman in the league was making more than $500,000 a year.

Stevens' signing followed a $7 million deal for Brett Hull, who scored 72 goals for the Blues last season, an NHL record for a right wing.

The two will be on the ice when the Blues open their season at Minnesota.

at Boston, Montreal at Buffalo, Quebec at Hartford, Detroit at New Jersey, the New York Rangers at Chicago, Toronto at Winnipeg and the New York Islanders at Los Angeles.

Washington will play host to Pittsburgh on Friday night. The defending champion Edmonton Oilers will be the last to get their season started, being at home Saturday night to the Winnipeg Jets.

TCU duo honored

FORT WORTH (AP) — With boos raining down, quarterback Leon Clay was replaced in Texas Christian's season opener against Washington State.

The Horned Frogs went on to lose that game 21-3.

Clay accounted for five touchdowns on Saturday as he rallied the Frogs to a 42-21 Southwest Conference victory over the SMU Mustangs.

Clay's performance earned him The Associated Press SWC Offensive Player of the Week salute for the second time in his career. Clay won it once last season. He's only the fifth TCU player in history to account for five touchdowns in one game.

Now TCU fans are calling Clay "neon Leon."

Clay, a sophomore from Gladewater, shared the spotlight with teammate, freshman defensive end Dan Dougherty, who won The AP Defensive Player of the Week award for his 38-yard touchdown interception return against the Mustangs. Dougherty had seen action in only five varsity plays prior to the SMU game.

Dougherty, an armed services veteran, celebrated his 22nd birthday the day after the game.

FORTH WORTH — Texas Christian University football players Dan Dougherty (left) and Leon Clay were named Associated Press Defensive and Offensive Players of the Week for their play in TCU's win over SMU Saturday.

the scoreboard showed that Toronto beat Baltimore. Tom Brunansky led off with a double, the fourth hit off Chicago starter Melido Perez.

Jeff Stone ran for Brunansky and Bobby Thigpen relieved. Pena sacrificed Stone to third and Danny Heep — hitting .174 — pinch hit for Luis Rivera and hit a sacrifice fly.

Fletcher walked to start the Chicago seventh and was forced at second on Guillen's bunt. Ivan Calderon singled and Lance Johnson's infield hit loaded the bases. Larry Andersen replaced starter Tom Bolton and uncorked a wild pitch that enabled Guillen to score.

Yankees 4, Tigers 1
Cecil Fielder remained stuck at 49 home runs, popping out twice and striking out twice. Jesse Barfield singled home the first of three Yankee runs in the eighth inning. Fielder went a weak 0-for-4 for the second straight game and has gone 20 at-bats since his last homer with only two singles in that span.

He was hitless in three tries against rookie Mark Leiter, against whom Fielder hit homer No. 47 on Sept. 16. Leiter fanned Fielder twice, the 180th and 181st time the Detroit slugger has fanned this season, five short of the American League record and eight shy of the major league mark.

The Yankees snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth against Edwin Nunez (3-1). Roberto Kelly singled and was forced on Steve Sax's bunt. But Sax stole second and scored on Jesse Barfield's single. Two errors by third baseman Darnell Coles let two more runs score.

Brewers 1, Rangers 0

Milwaukee rookie Kevin Brown pitched a one-hitter over seven innings for his first major league victory. Brown, acquired by the Brewers in a Sept. 7 trade with the New York Mets, left after seven innings because of a blister on his index finger and was replaced by Chuck Crim, who gave up two hits in the eighth. Dan Plesac pitched a perfect ninth for his 24th save.

In just his third major league start, Brown allowed only a fourth-inning infield single to Ruben Sierra. The 24-year-old left-hander walked Julio Franco in the sixth inning and struck out three. Milwaukee got its run in the third off Kenny Rogers (10-6) when George Canale walked, was sacrificed to second by Mike Felder and scored on Jim Gantner's double.

Athletics 6, Angels 4

Jose Canseco's two-run double after Rickey Henderson's second stolen base drove in the tying and lead runs and helped Bob Welch to his 27th victory. The AL West champion A's, down 4-0 in the first inning, roared back with a display of power, speed and pitching, including Dennis Eckersley's 48th save, and won their 103rd game.

Henderson's 64th and 65th stolen bases moved him within two of Lou Brock's career record of 938. Henderson went 1-for-4 at the plate and dropped a point to .325, three points behind Kansas City's George Brett's league-leading .328.

Pokes need win badly

IRVING (AP) — Tampa Bay is no gimmie, but for the sake of the season the Dallas Cowboys have got to beat the Buccaneers.

That's Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson's thinking going into Sunday's meeting with the vastly improved Buccaneers.

"This is a key game for us," Johnson said on Tuesday. "It's important for us to win. It can give our players some confidence as to where we are headed. It would be positive reinforcement. Psychologically, it's as important a game as we've had."

The Cowboys have lost to the New York Giants twice and the Washington Redskins after an opening victory over the San Diego Chargers.

Dallas is in a stretch where it plays Tampa Bay twice and the Phoenix Cardinals. However, the Tampa Bay meetings don't look as attractive as they did earlier in the season.

The Buccaneers have jumped to a surprising 3-1 start, including a 23-20 overtime victory over the Minnesota Vikings on Sunday.

"Tampa is very talented but a notch below the Giants," Johnson said. "I'm sure their morale and confidence is at an all-time high after winning in Minnesota."

Johnson said he was disappointed with Dallas' 1-3 start.

"I'd like to have seen us 2-2 at this stage," he said. "I'm a little disappointed in our start but to have expected any more wins was unrealistic. Now, we need to show significant improvement, get some wins, and get back on track."

The game will mark the first time in his 21 games as an NFL head coach that Johnson will face one of his three former University of Miami quarterbacks who are currently playing professionally.

Vinny Testaverde was the 1986 Heisman Trophy winner with Johnson's Hurricanes. Testaverde currently leads the NFL in passing efficiency with a 104.5 rating.

"Vinny is as talented an individual as I've ever been around," Johnson said. "I said when he won the Heisman that I had never been around a player more talented at his position no matter what it was."

"Vinny has blossomed in Tampa Bay this year. His supporting cast has improved. A quarterback is judged by his ability to put the ball in the end zone and he's been doing it."

Johnson said injured middle linebacker Eugene Lockhart should be ready to play against Tampa Bay in Sunday's noon game at Texas Stadium although "he's got a sore toe, a sore knee, and a sore shoulder. He'll miss a practice but should be ready by Sunday."

There were 8,900 tickets remaining, owner Jerry Jones said.

Bush calls for budget support

By RITA BEAMISH
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush wants Americans to convince skittish lawmakers that backing a $500 billion budget package won't cost them re-election, even though it requires taxpayers to shoulder "a small burden."

"I'm not, and I know you're not, a fan of tax increases," Bush said in a nationally televised address Tuesday night.

"But if there have to be tax measures, they should allow the economy to grow. They should not turn us back to higher income tax rates, and they should be fair," he added, referring to the proposed tax increases on gasoline, cigarettes, boats, liquor and furs.

In a third straight day of public and private lobbying for the agreement worked out by his aides and congressional leaders, the president was meeting today with journalists from around the country.

Many lawmakers already are shunning the package because it will hit Americans hard in the wallet, a fact that could reverberate when voters go to the polls next month.

Bush offered a tepid defense of the plan in his brief speech Tuesday night, saying, "I cannot claim it's the best deficit reduction plan possible. It's not. But it is the best agreement that can be legislated now."

The $500 billion budget accord, reached Sunday after months of negotiation, shaves benefits to farmers and Medicare recipients and reduces tax deductions for people who earn more than $100,000.

"Clearly each and every one of us can find fault with something in this agreement. In fact, that is a burden that any truly fair solution must carry," Bush said. But he urged Americans to look at the agreement as a whole, not piece by piece.

Area farmers: Enough rain, already

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

Rain is almost always welcomed in this part of the country, but too much at harvest time could have detrimental effects, Martin County's ag extension agent said.

"Cotton that has already opened up will begin to deteriorate immediately after being exposed. It starts to hurt the quality of the cotton. But it does help our crop for next spring," Greg Jones said.

The late moisture is frustrating farmers' attempts to harvest their crops, because muddy fields prohibit them from stripping the cotton. Another problem the farmers face is the possibility of cold weather setting in before the cotton can be stripped.

"If the temperature gets to less than 60 degrees, cotton just won't do anything. It will shut down... and just sit there. What we need now is heat. With plenty of sunlight and heat, immature cotton will begin to mature and we can have more production," Jones said.

"With the way things look now, we may not have the crop that we had two years ago, but we will average at least from half a bale to two bales per acre," he added.

One area farmer that got the

jump on his colleagues is at least $2,850 richer for his efforts.

Eddie Cook stripped his first bale and brought it to Farmers' Coop in Stanton, Sunday Sept. 9, according to Co-op Manager Doug Church.

"We were waiting for the first bale to come in at least by one more week. When Eddie brought the bale in, we were not ready, but we managed to get it processed," Church said.

Stanton Buffalo Band
By CHRIS BARNHILL

The Stanton High School Buffalo Band is definitely a well-known name in West Texas. The Buff Band has been known for its excellence and excitement at district contest performances.

This year, one expects no less, as Band director Kirk McKenzie prepares a show that may be the toughest that Stanton has done in a long time. It consists of two very well known songs, "Ghost Riders in the Sky" and "Home on the Range."

This show was designed to take the band to State. The band will be at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa in a few weeks, according to McKenzie.

Stanton will compete against two of the best-known bands in the state, Iraan and McCamey. These two have been rivals of Stanton for many years. Iraan is usually picked as one of the top performers in state competition every year.

Stanton will have another great band, Sundown, to contend with on its trip to regionals. The Division 1-A state marching championships have been won by Sundown the last three years.

"The SHS band looks good, but we've got a long way to go before we get to Austin," said McKenzie.

Flag Pole
By CRYSTAL PAYNE

There was a sense of warmth and compassion as 20 members of the Stanton High School student body gathered around the school's flag pole to signify the unification of students for Christ on campus.

This moment of togetherness was sponsored by the nation's Baptist churches. Across the country, high school students assembled at their school's flag pole.

The assembly at SHS was led in prayer by Baptist youth minister Michael Harris of Stanton.

NHS Induction

A SHS tradition was performed Sept. 14, when the new members of the National Honor Society were inducted by senior members conducting the ceremony.

Oil prices heading down

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices are showing an ability to fall as sharply on the hint of peace as they can rise on the fear of war.

Crude oil plummeted more than $3 a barrel on the volatile New York Mercantile Exchange on Tuesday, a day after falling more than $2 a barrel.

The back-to-back dives left traders wondering where the bottom would be, just as they had wondered last week how high oil could rise as it moved into the $40 range.

"The so-called war premium is being eaten away," said Ann-Louise Hittle, a senior oil analyst with Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc.

Contracts for November delivery of light sweet crude oil, the benchmark grade, closed $3.14 lower at $33.95 on Tuesday. Crude contracts for later months all dropped, most by $1.50 per barrel, their maximum limit for the day.

Teen killed by hit-and-run

CLEBURNE (AP) — The body of a retarded teenager, apparently killed by a hit-and-run driver, was found in a ditch behind the youth facility he lived in for the past three years.

Melvin Jackson, 15, ran away from the privately-owned facility, Odyssey Harbor, after a soccer game Monday.

His body was found dead Tuesday in a ditch along near-by U.S. 67.

"I don't think anyone really knows what happened," Odyssey Harbor Director Amine Varga told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. "The boys had been playing soccer and the ball accidentally bounced up and hit him. He was angry and he stomped off into the woods."

Paint chips and other evidence found at the scene indicate that Jackson was hit by a large vehicle, probably a pickup truck or van, said Keene Police Chief Reagan Scherence.

Odyssey Harbor, which treats emotionally abused children, has 105 clients on three campuses.

INS officer arrested in Mexico

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — Mexican police have released a high-ranking U.S. immigration official they detained for more than 24 hours after investigators allegedly found cocaine on a man with him at a hotel bar.

The incident began Sunday night when Mexican Federal Judicial Police arrested four people at the Hotel Del Prado. One of those arrested was Cecilio Ruiz, an assistant district director for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's Harlingen District of far southern Texas.

"Basically, it appears that Ruiz was socializing with some friends when the MFJP moved in with an investigation," said E. Michael Trominski, INS Harlingen District Director.

"One of his acquaintances was in possession of a small amount of cocaine."

The judicial police allowed Ruiz to return to the United States on Tuesday morning, Trominski said. No charges were filed against him.

"He was in the wrong place at the wrong time," said Don Wells, U.S. consul in Matamoros.

3 Texans killed in plane crash

MOUNT WASHINGTON, N.H. (AP) — Rescuers today are contending with low temperatures, high winds and slippery terrain as they try to recover the bodies of three Texas men killed in a fiery plane crash here.

Lt. Jeff Gray of the New Hampshire Fish and Game Department said two of the men in Tuesday's crash were from Fort Worth and the other was from Bedford.

Texas rich divided on effects of luxury tax

HIGHLAND PARK (AP) — Shoppers in this deliriously rich Dallas enclave look at it this way: If you can afford a $50,000 Mercedes Benz, surely, my dear, you can afford the luxury tax on it.

"I don't like it, but I think it's fair," said Rick Jones, sorting through designer shirts at the Polo Shop, one of this community's high-priced shops.

But Randle Stricklin, a salesman at Cartier Inc., where watches range in price from $1,000 to $20,000, complained the tax burden should fall evenly on all retailers.

"It hits hard," he said. "Why single out luxury dealers, who have suffered in the last 10 years — especially in Texas?"

Elsewhere in the country, merchants who cater to the carriage trade complain that the government proposal to raise taxes on big-ticket items — including expensive cars, yachts, jewelry and furs — discriminates against their wealthy clientele.

Though they protest, many merchants are bracing for a flurry of sales as customers rush to put an extra case of champagne or a pair of sapphire earrings on their tab for the holidays, before the tax takes effect.

DALLAS — Todd Meier, president of Rodger Meier Cadillac, laments the proposed luxury tax at his dealership Tuesday afternoon. Most of the more than 2,000 new Cadillacs he sells each year would be effected by the new tax.

The 10 percent luxury tax, part of a $500 billion deficit-reduction agreement unveiled Sunday, would apply to the portion of the price of some luxury items over certain thresholds.

For example, a $6,000 fur — priced $1,000 above the $5,000 tax threshold — would cost $6,100, if the taxes are approved by Congress. Cars would be taxed at 10 percent of the amount above $30,000. The threshold for jewelry would be $5,000.

"If you can afford to pay $30,000

for a car, you sure can afford to pay a few hundred dollars more," said Terri Jung of Austin as she left a Neiman-Marcus store.

"My first answer as a luxury car dealer is, maybe it isn't fair," said Todd Meier, president of Rodger Meier Cadillac, where $55,000 cars are sold from a chandelier-lit showroom. "But overall, as a citizen, I think it makes sense to tax people who theoretically can afford it."

Meier said virtually all of the more than 2,000 new Cadillacs he sells each year would be affected by the tax.

Highland Park, home of the billionaire Hunt brothers and tycoon T. Boone Pickens, sits squarely in the middle of Dallas, a separate world where nannies wheel their charges along streets lined with Mercedes-Benzes, Cadillacs and BMWs.

Highland Park shopper Billy McCarthy said the luxury tax was unjust. "It'll just be going for the wealthy," he said. "We're overtaxed as it is."

Most agreed the taxes might slow the economy by dissuading middle-class shoppers but would not affect the rich.

"It might prevent people like us. We're going to think twice," said DeAnn Ralston, window-shopping with co-workers outside Bachendorf's Jewelers.

Board: Jury 'unnecessarily alarmed' public

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Insurance says a grand jury "unnecessarily alarmed" the public over the health of the Texas insurance industry.

The board's three members also said they want a legislative committee to look into allegations contained in a report issued last week by the special Travis County grand jury.

District Attorney Ronnie Earle released the report, which warned of widespread fraud and lack of regulation. The report said the combination could bring about a "savings and loan type disaster" in the Texas insurance industry.

Earle said he would welcome a legislative inquiry. "I think that's great. We'd be happy to cooperate in any way we could. We figure that the more people who can look at this situation the better," Earle said.

A letter Tuesday, signed by insurance board members James E. Saxton Jr., Richard F. Reynolds and Jo Ann Howard, disputed the grand jury's warning.

"We believe the district attorney unnecessarily alarmed the insurance-buying public with unsubstantiated charges about the overall health of the insurance industry and made overly broad statements about the prevalence of fraud in the insurance industry," they said.

"What is particularly troubling about the grand jury report and the district attorney's comments is that they make very serious charges about the operation of this agency without documentation or substantiation," the board members said.

The insurance board also complained about a new report from the state auditor, which the board members said would question an early warning system for troubled insurance companies.

The board said it already had decided that the system wasn't progressing as planned and hired an independent consultant to "give us guidance on this massive undertaking."

The grand jury's report was issued last week following a six-month investigation.

It estimated that insurance company insolvencies and fraud could cost the state treasury more than $400 million.

Clerk wounded by shotgun-wielding bandit

FORT WORTH (AP) — A 17-year-old sandwich shop clerk was seriously wounded when a restaurant robbery turned violent as she attempted to open a safe for a shotgun-wielding bandit, police say.

Officers said Stephanie McFarland was being treated early today in the emergency room of Harris Methodist Hospital. Hospital spokeswoman Jo Mertz said the victim was in serious condition.

The girl was wounded in the upper torso and left arm, according to Gero Brown, 18, a co-worker at a Schlitzky's Sandwich Shop.

Police arrested a man identified only as a former employee of the sandwich shop about an hour later as he attempted to hide in an alley about four blocks away. He was still clutching the shotgun, officers said.

Brown said he and the clerk were just closing the shop when a man jumped them and demanded the restaurant's money bag.

Brown was headed towards his bus stop when the man jumped out with his shotgun and told him to stand still, Brown said.

"He told me to stop and don't look at him and if I made a move he'd kill me right there," said

Brown.

Brown said the clerk was still inside the restaurant getting a soda when he was jumped by the man. A few seconds later, however, she walked out and was heading towards her car when the gunman jumped in front of her and demanded the money bag.

Brown said the gunman told them he knew the restaurant's system of depositing money.

When the clerk told the gunman she did not have the moneybag, he ordered them both into the restaurant's office so she could open the safe, Brown said.

"He said if she didn't open it in two seconds he was going to blow my head off," Brown said.

The clerk pleaded with the man to wait because she did not have the safe's combination and would have to call her mother.

Barney Milim, a part-owner of the restaurant, said the clerk's mother gave her the combination but was suspicious and called police.

Once she had the combination, Brown said, the gunman repeatedly threatened to kill them if she did not open the safe immediately. The clerk, however, was extremely nervous and was unable to open the lock on the first try, Brown said.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97 percent five year survival rate and a 90 percent 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00 ± $4.50 S&H. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Neither a name nor a nose can reveal a person's faith

DEAR ABBY: I have a question for a new friend and need help in devising a subtle approach. This new friend has the potential to play a significant role in my life. If the answer is yes, or if it is no, I couldn't care less either way, but I would like to know if he is Jewish. How can I find out if he doesn't volunteer? His last name is questionable. He is from a large family in upstate New York. His nose tells me nothing. His father is French and I don't know about his mother. His complexion and hair are very dark. He has jokingly referred to Jews as "Hebes."

Abby, how can I ask without sounding too concerned, which I really am not. — CURIOS DOWN SOUTH

Dear Abby

DEAR CURIOS: It's a good thing you are not drawing your conclusions on the basis of his name or his nose because both are easily changed. Having a French father doesn't tell you anything about his religion. There are French Jews, Mormons, Christians, Moslems, Buddhists and atheists. And don't draw your conclusions on the basis of hair color or complexion; Jews come in all colors.

Also, some Jewish people jokingly refer to Jews as "Hebes." But if, as you say, this new friend has the potential to play a significant role in your life, if you're still seeing each other in December, ask if you can attend Christmas services with him.

DEAR ABBY: I have been wanting to write this letter for years, but I'm finally getting around to it. I used to respect the signs that read "Parking for Handicapped Only." No more. In my community, many drivers have special license plates issued to handicapped people, and do you know what one person's handicap is? Hard of hearing! Why on earth would a person who is hard of hearing need a special place to park?

I also know a man with a handicapped license who is supposed to be disabled. He goes dancing four nights a week until 1 a.m. Why should he be given a special place to park?

Another person I know borrows a car from a handicapped relative so she can park in reserved-for-handicapped spaces. Those places are meant for people who are in wheelchairs, walkers or crutches.

DEAR DISGUSTED: I, too, am disgusted with cheaters, but may I remind you that not all handicaps are visible. People with heart conditions or emphysema may "appear" to be hale and hearty, but they can't walk a block without needing to stop and rest.

DEAR ABBY: Add this to your collection of unbelievable hospital bills: In 1953, my wife gave birth to a baby girl. Before checking out of the hospital, we were presented with the following bill:

Birth and hospital care.....$129.00
Circumcision.....$25.00
— FRANK IN HAMBURG, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: I am going crazy trying to figure something out. Is it possible to have an aunt who is younger than you are? And if it is possible, please explain how it can be. Thank you. — GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: It's possible, and here's how: An aunt is the sister of your mother or father. Right? Let us say that when you were 5 years old, your father's mother (who is your grandmother) gave birth to a baby girl whom she named "Paula." Well, because Paula is your father's sister, even though she is 5 years younger than you, she is your aunt. Got it?

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

ing operations until late October or early November," Church added.

Cook and his three sons, Mark, Kyle and Kenneth, all farm around the Glasscock and Martin County areas. They work with both irrigated and dryland cotton. "I farm at least 770 acres southeast of Martin County on the Rufus Tom field," Eddie said.

He noted that he planted his winning cotton on May 1, with DPL 50 and DPL 90 seed. "The reason it opened up so quickly is we had plenty of rainfall in the early part of the planting season, but then it stopped raining and the hot spell we had early in the season helped open up the plants as it did in '56 and '57."

"The difference between the DPL 50 and 90 is that the 50 makes for shorter stock, while the 90 makes for taller stock," Cook added.

Cook has been farming since he was 17 and admits that things have changed since his younger days. "I've been farming all my life around Martin County and have seen changes; for instance, tractors have gone from two to four row plows to eight to ten row plows. What takes us only 20 hours to do today, would take us 200 hours in the past."

"It would take 100 hands (cotton pickers) to pick 20 bales a day," Cook said. "Now we pick 50 to 60 bales per day, and if things go right with your stripper, it can go even higher," Kenneth added.

Both of Cook's first bales in '56 and '57 were hand picked. "When we won the first bale money in 1956, the whole crop was hand picked. We didn't start using a mechanical stripper till 1970," he said.

Stanton National Bank President Joe Hodges admits that it is imperative for businesses to get on the bandwagon and help promote recognition for cotton in this area.

"We around Martin County exist on agriculture and the cotton farmer. Without this important crop, our economy would be depending on oil production," Hodges said.

According to Church, the area crop looks as though it will be more than double what last year's totals were.

"Last season we ginned over 7,000 bales, but we had a very dry year," Church said. "This year I expect to see our bales be twice or more than that, providing we have hot weather and the temperature don't go down into the 50s at night. We need to dry out and have a couple of weeks of sunlight and a late freeze and we should be way ahead of last year's numbers."

Souter to take seat on Supreme Court next week

By STEVEN KOMAROW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — David Souter of New Hampshire will take his oath next week as a Supreme Court justice with the nation watching how he'll vote on abortion and other contentious social issues.

The Senate voted 90-9 Tuesday to confirm Souter, 51, as the 105th member of the high court in the nation's history.

The court immediately announced that Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist will swear in Souter next Tuesday morning, just before the Supreme Court begins hearing the second week of arguments in its 1990-91 term.

The first major case Souter will hear concerns a sex-bias dispute. At issue is whether employers may exclude all women of childbearing age from some hazardous jobs, and the court's decision could affect millions of women.

Issues of sex discrimination, race discrimination and especially abortion rights were at the core of opposition to Souter within and outside the Senate.

The handful who voted against him and many voting for the nomination worried aloud that he would side with the court's conservatives and overrule Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 ruling that legalized abortion.

To many Democrats who voted for Souter, his record on these social issues was troubling but his testimony encouraging, even though he refused to be pinned down, especially on the politically hot abortion decision.

Sen. Herb Kohl, D-Wis., a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said there appeared to be "two Judge Souters."

"The Judge Souter who testified before our committee did not seem locked to the past," and that was the one he was voting for, Kohl said. He added that he hoped the Senate had not been deceived.

"He's about the best we can expect, from my perspective, from this administration," Judiciary Committee Chairman Joseph Biden, D-Del., said of President Bush's first Supreme Court nominee.

But the National Abortion Rights Action League said the Senate "made a dangerous leap of faith" that could lead to the defeat of abortion rights and a return to "back-alley abortions."

Souter toasted the vote with champagne in Concord, N.H., and pledged to return the nation's confidence in him.

"I have been given much and much will be expected of me in return, and I will make that return to you and I will make it in the fullest measure that I can," he said.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and other Democrats who opposed the nomination, said they would not give Souter the benefit of the doubt.

Souter could "solidify a 5-4 anti-civil rights, anti-privacy majority" on the court, said Kennedy, repeating the argument he made as the only member of the Senate Judiciary Committee to oppose the nomination.

In addition to Kennedy, those voting against Souter, all Democrats, were Alan Cranston of California, Daniel Akaka of Hawaii, Brock Adams of Washington, Bill Bradley and Frank Lautenberg of New Jersey, Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, John Kerry of Massachusetts and Barbara Mikulski of Maryland. Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., did not vote.

Biden warned Bush that the next nominee might not get confirmed if the president moved further to the right.

"I want to express the hope that the administration will not learn the wrong lesson" from the lopsided Senate vote on Souter, Biden said. A more doctrinaire conservative "could well fall outside the sphere of acceptability," he said.

Souter, who lives in rural Weare, N.H., near Concord, is a graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Law School and a Rhodes Scholar.

After law school, Souter returned home to practice and soon began working in the judicial system of his home state, working his way up to attorney general, trial judge and then the state Supreme Court.

Souter will fill the seat vacated by the retirement of Justice William Brennan in July. He almost certainly will vote more conservatively than the liberal Brennan, and conservatives were pleased.

"He's just exactly the kind of person with a broad background that we need on the Supreme Court," said Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

Farm scene

WASHINGTON — Few things get Agriculture Department officials as worked up as prospects of a demonstration in front of their administration building.

The building is where the secretary of agriculture has his office, and it's convenient for tourists walking along the Mall as they take in the museums and art galleries.

It's also a great place for ceremonies, such as planting trees, and for demonstrations against all sorts of injustices and grievances.

A bit of each was in store on Tuesday, a bright autumn day scheduled by the Farm Animal Reform Movement, or FARM, to protest what the group sees as the inhumane treatment of cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry that farmers produce for consumer tables.

On Monday, the office of Secretary Clayton Yeutter sent notices to reporters that he would be participating in a tree-planting ceremony on Tuesday, an hour before the scheduled demonstration by FARM members.

Yeutter, the notices said, would share the planting of three trees with His Excellency, Major General Juvenal Habyarimana, president of the Republic of Rwanda, in central Africa.

"Both the United States and Rwanda recognize the importance of reforestation," the notice said. "The (USDA) is the lead agency in the National Tree Planting Initiative, with the goal of planting one billion trees a year."

The notice added that President Habyarimana's reforestation programs "serve as models for other African nations hoping to increase their agricultural production."

On Tuesday morning during a staff meeting, Yeutter's press secretary, Kelly Shipp, was informed that the tree-planting had SHS student Michael attended kindergarten through the third grade in Saudi Arabia.

The family took up residence in an American camp when Mr. Whitefield's oilfield job required living in the Middle Eastern country.

"At that age, it wasn't much different than living in the United States," Michael said.

There was a theatre and bowling alley for the people living in the camp, but Arabians were not allowed to see American films, according to Whitefield.

Arabian women were required to wear ankle dresses and a veil over their faces, while the American women were only required to wear ankle dresses when they left camp. Michael and his family had to make frequent trips back to the United States to avoid establishing citizenship in Saudi Arabia.

The Whitefields were not allowed to celebrate holidays such as Christmas and Easter. "We had to hide our Christmas tree from the security guards that patrolled the area," he said.

Everything was evened, according to Michael. Even pictures were cut from magazines that entered the country.

burden," he said. "But if we succeed every American will have a large burden lifted."

A congressional study released Tuesday said the poor would be hit hardest by the package and the rich would feel its increases the least. The plan's increased taxes and reduced benefits would take an average 2 percent of the earnings of one-fifth of Americans with the lowest incomes, according to the survey by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The president asked Americans to "tell your congressmen and senators you support this deficit reduction agreement." He said lawmakers "worry about your reaction to one part or another."

He also called the budget deficit "a cancer gnawing away at our nation's health" and warned that if it continues unabated, "our economy will falter, markets may tumble and recession will follow."

Earlier, Bush summoned a group of business representatives to the White House and told them "everybody has had to compromise" for the agreement.

"The country, frankly, is at stake here," he said.

Apparently referring to his violation of his "no new taxes" campaign pledge and his failure to get a capital gains tax cut, Bush said, "I don't want to sound sanctimonious about this, but I was elected to govern."

Speaking for the Democratic leadership, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell echoed the president, saying, "This package is a compromise. Neither side got what it wanted."

Democrats, he said in an equal-time TV address after Bush spoke, joined a Republican president to get the agreement. Now, he said, "We hope the Republican members of Congress will also set aside partisan differences in doing what's right."

Bush planned to continue pushing his package in speeches around the nation, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said. "There's a lot of people who disagree with this. A lot of people have trouble with it. And they need to be convinced. And we'll do our best," Fitzwater said.

While it is expected to take a tough sell among many Democrats as well as Bush's fellow Republicans who don't want to endorse tax increases and spending cuts in an election year, some opponents said the president had a good chance of getting the package through Congress.

One, Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., said that more than half the House Republicans were opposed or leaning against the package but that administration lobbying eventually would sell it.

Another opponent, Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn., agreed, saying, "I'd guess right now it would be narrowly defeated. By tomorrow, it would be narrowly passed. ... People are being moved, one by one."

Mexican artist creates outdoor art

AUSTIN (AP) — What does Felipe Ehrenberg get when he crosses metal rods, broken mirrors, concrete blocks, burlap, palm branches, plastic sheeting and votive candles with a creek on the University of Texas campus?

The answer is art.

"It's hard to say what it will look like," said Ehrenberg, a 47-year-old artist and author from Mexico City who this week will create an outdoor work of art that spans both sides of a creek near the school's Fine Arts Building.

"It's an abstract piece," he said. Officials at the university's Huntington Art Gallery, who arranged for Ehrenberg's two-week stay in Austin, admit they were taken aback when the artist first sent them a list of materials he would need for the work.

But Mari Carmen Ramirez, the museum's curator of Latin American art, says she has no doubt that the finished product will be as artistically pleasing as it is thought-provoking.

"From the things he's requested it's very hard to picture what this is going to look like," Ms. Ramirez said. "But I've seen some of Felipe's work before and it was wonderful, just marvelous."

Ehrenberg said the work, which will take several days to complete, will be titled "Let's Light Up The Border." He said he hopes to draw attention to the conflicts and clash of cultures along the U.S.-Mexico border.

The work should be finished before Saturday, when the museum will sponsor a one-day symposium on Mexican art of the 1980s during which Ehrenberg will give the keynote address.

"I plan to use the creek as a metaphor for the Rio Grande," he said. "On each side of the creek I want to build certain barriers out of different sets of materials that represent the United States and Mexico."

He also plans to pour a pathway of sawdust or flour, inlaid with stenciled designs, that will bridge the two sides of the creek, a custom in some small Mexican villages during the celebration of a saint's feast day.

"I want it to symbolize the avenues that should be explored between our two cultures," he said. "I'm not just talking about geographic circumstances but the fact that there are two major cultures coming together and each has misconceptions about the other."

Museum officials said Ehrenberg will be given a $3,000 honorarium, which he must also use to pay for his expenses. They estimate it will cost another $200 for the materials the artist has requested to complete the work.

A TAILGATING PICNIC

with Italian Style

The roar of the crowd. The snap of pigskin at the 10-yard line. Trees in robes of crimson, orange and gold. Crisp afternoons scented with woodsmoke. Fall has arrived and with it one of America's cherished dining customs—the tailgate picnic.

Since the first American football match was played in 1869, good food and a good game have always made a winning combination. Whether you serve the meal from a hatchback or a convertible, you can stage a picnic guaranteed to have both sides applauding.

Forget barbecuing or ordinary deli sandwiches. Build your tailgating menu around easy-to-make items that star some delicious flavors from Italy. Hearty and wholesome, Italian cuisine is one of the most popular in this country and perfect for a tailgate picnic.

Everything on this menu can be made in advance. Start picnic planning by selecting from a variety of Rubbermaid's convenient containers. Tightly sealed, they help keep ingredients fresh longer, make refrigerator storage a snap, are easily portable and double as serving containers at the site.

Kick off your tailgate picnic with Mediterranean Half-Time Toasts, a favorite Italian-style appetizer. To score points with everyone, top crisp toast rounds with a zesty spread of lightly smoked Norway brisling sardines, the smallest and most delicate sardines found only in pure, cold Nordic waters. Your hometown team will also appreciate the powerhouse of nutrition offered by Norway sardines—protein, omega-3 fatty acids and important bone-building calcium.

Next, open Rubbermaid's Dip and Snack Tray packed with an assortment of fillings for make-your-own Roman Sandwiches. Generous compartments and a high lid make it easy to fill the reusable container with enough food for a large group. Crusty sandwich rolls stuffed with roasted red peppers, mozzarella cheese and convenient Norway sardines will satisfy even a linebacker.

As an accompaniment, offer a delicious autumn salad made as colorful as the season with corn kernels and chopped fresh tomatoes. Prompted by the popularity of Mediterranean cuisines, Americans are discovering and enjoying the delicious tastes and healthful textures of grains and beans.

Since Italians love sweets as much as Americans, a chewy chocolate bar rounds out this tailgate menu. Be sure to tote an extra container to take into the stands for half-time munching.

So pack your picnic basket and head for the stadium! This tailgate picnic menu will make you wish for a game every weekend.

Lore from American Football History

- The American game of football developed from the English games of soccer and rugby.
- × The first American intercollegiate football game (more like a 50-man soccer game) was played in 1869 between Princeton and Rutgers at New Brunswick, New Jersey.
- A rugby-type game was played at Harvard College, Cambridge, Massachusetts, in the 1870s.
- × A professional football league was formed in 1920 and renamed the National Football League (NFL) in 1922.
- Spurred by the tremendous surge of popularity for professional football after World War II, the NFL absorbed two rival leagues and grew to 28 teams in two conferences by the 1980s.
- × The annual Super Bowl game for the league championship has been a major sports spectacle since its introduction in January 1967.

The real Robinson Crusoe

Did you know that the book Robinson Crusoe was based on the adventures of a real man? He was a Scottish man born in 1676 at Largo, Fifeshire. His real name was Alexander Selkirk.

He worked for his father until he was almost 30, and then went to sea, joining an expedition to harass Spanish ships in the Pacific Ocean. The leader was a man called William Dampier, who made Selkirk Master of a ship called "Cinque Ports." The ship's captain, Thomas Stridling, was not well liked by his crew.

Leaving Plymouth in 1704, the ship stopped for water at an island called Juan Fernandez. Selkirk pointed out that repairs were needed because the ship was leaking. For some reason the captain was furious and a violent quarrel broke out between the two men.

Being marooned was not uncommon in those days. Stridling had previously marooned five of his men, guilty of mutiny, on Juan Fernandez. Often men were marooned with nothing, so Selkirk was fairly well provided. However, he soon regretted his decision to stay on the island.

Selkirk had enough to eat, but he quickly became lonely and depressed. He built two huts, one for reading and the other for cooking, and managed to survive on what food he could find. There were goats, which gave him meat and milk. There were also wild cats and some kittens for company, but he was the only human on the island.

Each day he climbed to the highest part of the island to look for a ship, but no ship passed by for five years.

On the last day of January, 1709, his luck changed. A British ship arrived. Selkirk quickly lit a fire and hurried to meet the landing party of sailors. After being stranded for five years, he found speaking difficult, and the food and drink he was offered made him ill.

The pilot of the ship was Selkirk's old leader, Dampier. Dampier persuaded the captain to give Selkirk a job, and he later became captain of another ship.

Two years passed during which Selkirk made a small fortune. Eventually, the ship returned home and Selkirk went back to Largo, where some say he lived in a cave for a while before joining another ship.

In time, he married and lived in another town in Scotland before joining "HMS Weymouth." It was on this ship that he died near Africa in 1721.

The writer Daniel Defoe heard of Selkirk's adventures and used them in Robinson Crusoe, but refused to let Selkirk share in the money the story made.

Enjoy a summertime do-ahead salad

Reviewing the Pyrex archives for recipes from "yesterday," this one called "Tomorrow's Salad" caught our eye. It's a chilled do-ahead salad perfect for those hazy, lazy, crazy days of summer.

Developed in the 1920s to take advantage of the "prepare ahead-store-and-serve later" features of the Pyrex brand-refrigerator dish, it was rediscovered as Corning probed its archives for "old-time" recipes to update for the Pyrex brand's 75th anniversary.

While the Pyrex refrigerator dish called for in the original is no longer available—unless you happen to have one in your cupboard—any of the current 1- or 1 1/2- quart Pyrex dishes, casseroles or mixing bowls will do as well. We're suggesting the 8-inch round cake dish.

TOMORROW'S SALAD

- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup vinegar
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups sweet cherries, pitted and halved
- 2 cups pineapple chunks, cut into small pieces (not crushed pineapple)
- 1 orange, peeled, sectioned and cut in small pieces
- 1/4 cup candied cherries cut in small pieces
- 2 cups mini-marshmallows (the original recipe suggested quartering regular marshmallows)
- 1 cup whipping cream

Combine beaten eggs, sugar and vinegar in a 2-cup Pyrex measure, blend thoroughly. Cook on MEDIUM HIGH in microwave a minute at a time (or cook in a double boiler), stirring frequently until thick and smooth. Stir in butter or margarine and allow to cool.

Combine fruits and marshmallows, blend well. Whip the cream, fold in the cooled egg mixture and then fold in fruit mixture. Blend well. Put in a Pyrex 8-inch round cake dish, and let stand in a cool part of the refrigerator for a day (do not freeze).

Serve by scoops on bed of lettuce leaves. Serves 12 and is perfect for bridge luncheons, after-theater parties, as a salad course or as a dessert. That makes it almost as versatile as the Pyrex ware in which it's made.

As "at home" Halloween parties for children become increasingly popular, parents are on the look-out for tasty and healthful foods to serve their little witch and goblin guests.

California figs are perfect for ghoulish "get togethers," as these versatile treats can be enjoyed both as out-of-hand snacks, and as delightful additions to most recipes. These popular dried fruits are exceptionally good when used in baked goods and desserts. Their sweetness and natural moistening qualities help keep cakes and cookies flavorful and prevent dryness well beyond normal shelf life. California figs are also higher in fiber than any other common fruit, nut or vegetable and contain large amounts of iron, potassium, magnesium and calcium.

To be the hit of your next Halloween party, try these delicious "Carrot Fig Cupcakes." With a luscious combination of figs, pineapple and carrots, these Halloween goodies are packed with healthy goodness. They are sure to please trick-or-treaters of all ages, and parents are the only ones who need to know they are nutritious!

For more nutritional information and recipes using California figs, send a stamped, self-addressed legal-size envelope to: California Fig Advisory Board, Dept. M, P.O. Box 709, Fresno, CA 93712.

CARROT-FIG CUPCAKES:

 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup oil
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 cup finely shredded carrots
 - 1 1/2 cups drained crushed pineapple
 - Grated peel of 1 orange
 - 1/2 cup chopped, dried California figs
- Frosting:
- 2 oz. cream cheese, softened
 - 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 - 2 teaspoons orange juice concentrate
 - Few drops of red and yellow food coloring
 - 2 cups sifted powdered sugar
 - 1/4 cup chopped dried California figs

In large electric mixing bowl, stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, soda, cinnamon and salt. Add oil, eggs, carrots, pineapple, orange peel, and figs.

Beat 2 minutes on medium speed. Spoon batter into 16 muffin cups greased and dusted on bottom with flour or into paper liners.

Bake at 375° 25 to 30 minutes or until tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool on rack.

For frosting, in medium bowl, blend together cream cheese and butter until light. Beat in orange juice concentrate and coloring. Gradually blend in powdered sugar until it is of spreadable consistency. Stir in figs. Spread cupcakes generously with frosting. Makes 16.

Today's pharmacist: Providing vital information in a complex medication market

While consumers are becoming better educated about health issues, most don't realize that one of the best sources for up-to-date information on drugs and health concerns can be found right in their own neighborhood—behind the pharmacy counter.

The pharmacist is an important link between the patient and the medical community. The drug store of yesterday—with its resident pharmacist mixing specialized concoctions, and kids perched at the soda fountain counter—has virtually disappeared, but the responsibilities of today's pharmacist are more vital than ever.

The rapid development of new medications and the prevalence of over-the-counter (OTC) products require well-informed professionals who are able to monitor the dizzying array of new products and to communicate essential information to their customers.

"I keep detailed records on my computer to monitor what drugs my customers are taking," says Frank Daniel,

Pharm.D., from Orange County, Cal. "With medical practices becoming more specialized, it's not uncommon for customers to bring a handful of prescriptions from different physicians—perhaps one from a gynecologist, another from a dermatologist, and a third from an internist. It's my job to ensure that these drugs interact safely when taken at the same time."

Thomas Gossel, Ph.D., a pharmacology professor at Ohio Northern University's College of Pharmacy, says that consumers should rely on their pharmacist for details about their prescribed medications, such as particular side effects.

"Often, the side effects are not what might typically be expected," explains Gossel. A common example of this is the sun sensitivity reaction induced by many categories of drugs, including diuretics, oral contraceptives and antibiotics like tetracycline. Ortho Pharmaceutical's Retin-A[®] can also make the skin more susceptible to sun damage. Frequently the pharmacist can recommend ways to minimize potential side effects.

"When I dispense a drug that is known to induce sun sensitivity in patients, it's my responsibility to educate patients about the risk and to recommend that they use an effective sunscreen while on the medication," explains Daniel. Like other contemporary pharmacists, Daniel believes that his role in health education extends beyond specific medication information.

"I also take this kind of opportunity to emphasize the importance of sun protection and to help my customers differentiate between the many products available. I generally recommend a sunscreen called Photoplex[®] by Herbert Laboratories. It's kept behind the pharmacist's counter so that pharmacists can educate consumers about this sunscreen's unique, therapeutic benefits," says Daniel.

"Most other products on the market primarily guard against UVB. People think that a high Sun Protection Factor (SPF) offers all the protection they need, but actually SPF is mainly a measure of UVB protection. We are also exposed to dangerous UVA rays," explains Daniel.

Researchers say that UVA rays are more abundant than UVB rays, they are present year-round, throughout the day, and penetrate deeper into the skin than UVB. In addition, UVA rays may contribute to the cancer-causing effects of UVB rays and can damage the deep layers of the skin to produce wrinkles, sagging, a leathery appearance and broken blood vessels. UVA rays also can induce many sun sensitivity reactions.

"A nice layer of zinc oxide provides ample broad-spectrum protection, but it's cosmetically unacceptable to most people. Photoplex offers broad-spectrum UVB and UVA protection and is a non-greasy, cosmetically appealing alternative that is suitable for everyday use," says Daniel.

"In an increasingly complex medication market, knowing the details about topics like sun protection and accurately disseminating information is more important than ever," remarks Gossel.

A lifetime passport to feminine health

Most women can count the days since their last menstrual period ended. But how many remember when they began spotting? Had cramps? Ovulated? Saw a gynecologist? Had a pap test or mammogram? Who knows her mother's age when she had her first or last period?

To help women record their personal feminine history from puberty through menopause, the Vagisil Women's Health Center is offering consumers a free copy of its new Lifetime Passport to Feminine Health. The attractive passport-sized booklet also gives women basic information on vaginal ecology and a checklist of sound feminine health practices.

Because feminine health issues change during a woman's life span, the Lifetime Passport comes with separate pamphlets on "Feminine Hygiene: The Early Years," "Feminine Hygiene and Pregnancy," "Feminine Hygiene and Menopause" and "Yeast Infections and Other Feminine Irritations."

The pamphlets, each of which features a guide to symptoms and treatments of the most frequent feminine problems, are separately available free from the Vagisil Women's Health Center.

When used conscientiously, the Lifetime Passport and accompanying pamphlets can be a valuable aid in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of gynecological problems, according to the Passport's creator, Dr. Herbert Lapidus, director of the Vagisil Women's Health Center.

"They teach women about daily vaginal hygiene, prompt them to see their doctors on a regular basis and help them answer key questions that gynecologists often ask," he explains. "Too often a woman just doesn't know or remember crucial information that can help a gynecologist diagnose her problem. She's not at fault. No one ever told her what was important."

The Vagisil Women's Health Center, based in White Plains, N.Y., is a clearinghouse of practical information on women's feminine hygiene problems. It sponsors an ongoing program of consumer education, special studies, physician and consumer surveys, research and specialized publications.

Dr. Lawrence J. Sonders, a gynecologist and obstetrician who reviewed the Lifetime Passport and accompanying pamphlets for Vagisil, recommends that women record their feminine history conscientiously. The data becomes very important after the age of 35, he notes, when serious conditions such as breast cancer, uterine disorders and dysfunctional bleeding can increase.

Some women can avoid unnecessary office visits or even hospitalization if they use their passports carefully, Dr. Sonders adds. For example, a physician can judge the seriousness of spotting by knowing when it occurs in the menstrual cycle, but many women don't remember the precise dates that spotting took place.

Similarly, the pattern of menstrual pain can help doctors diagnose endometriosis, a condition that leads to infertility. Again, Dr. Sonders has found many of his patients can't recall exact dates.

Dr. Sonders also recommends recording the mother's gynecological data as early as possible because this information can provide clues to a daughter's normal development as well as extraordinary conditions. "Most daughters will follow their mothers' histories," he explains.

The Lifetime Passport begins with a checklist of preventive measures, including a yearly gynecological examination and pap test, monthly breast and genital self-examinations and daily cleansing of the vaginal area. Yearly mammograms are urged after the age of 40.

A Feminine Calendar in the center of the Lifetime Passport gives women a place to record their "Personal History at a Glance" month by month. They may use the space to write in important dates, events, procedures and appointments, to keep track of their fertility or menstrual cycles or to note other personal records.

The Personal Feminine History section at the end of the Passport records information about the onset of menstruation, pregnancies and physical examinations.

While many feminine health conditions are age-specific, vaginal irritations and infections can occur at any time—and happen to most women at some point in their lives. Accordingly the pamphlet "Yeast Infections and Other Feminine Irritations" is recommended with the Lifetime Passport for women from puberty through menopause.

"Feminine Hygiene: The Early Years" is a guide for teenagers and young adults. It covers physical and emotional changes during puberty, providing basic information about menstruation and feminine problems that can cause redness, irritation, inflammation, unpleasant odors and discharges.

"Feminine Hygiene and Pregnancy" describes health issues of concern to women who are pregnant. During this stage of life, feminine hygiene is crucial to a woman's current and future health.

Finally, "Feminine Hygiene and Menopause" provides a guide to symptoms and treatment of frequent problems before, during and after menopause. While the most talked about symptom is usually the hot flash, a range of changes are common.

For a free Lifetime Passport to Feminine Health, just send 50 cents for postage and handling to: Vagisil Women's Health Center, Box 328 LP, 1101 Westchester Avenue, White Plains, NY 10604.

When requesting the Lifetime Passport, ask for any or all of the following insert pamphlets at no additional charge: "Feminine Hygiene: The Early Years," "Feminine Hygiene and Pregnancy," "Feminine Hygiene and Menopause," "Yeast Infections and Other Feminine Irritations."

TO HELP WOMEN record their personal feminine history from puberty through menopause, the Vagisil Women's Health Center is offering consumers a free copy of its new Lifetime Passport to Feminine Health. 1990/1958

For outdoor enjoyment...

Light up your landscape this summer

To light your way safely into your garage after dark, cast aluminum, low-level spread lights in various colors and shapes are excellent. These fixtures are designed to shed light down in a broad pattern and can illuminate flower beds, steps, perimeter plantings, pathways, small shrubs, statuary and specimen trees as well. They provide beacons of light to welcome family and guests when installed around your patio. They also provide pleasure from the inside when looking out at a garden. For most effective indoor to outdoor viewing, keep inside light levels low.

Is there an interesting tree, a giant oak or a delicate birch in your yard? Uplighting, with fixtures buried in the ground or surface mounted, creates a dramatic effect in all seasons, whether it's autumn with its swirling multi-colored leaves or winter with its pristine white snow.

Perhaps you prefer the effect of moonlight filtering down through tree branches. This technique requires soft light sources positioned very high up in trees. The downward direction of the light creates varying shadows on the green carpet of your lawn and on the leaves as they stir in the breeze.

Flower beds, small shrubs and statuary can be accented to create special areas of interest in your landscape design. For accenting, use lighting with an intense and controlled beam spread. Adjustable spot and accent fixtures are available for focusing on particular areas or objects. This creates a focal point outdoors, just as a fireplace or furniture arrangement does inside your home.

Landscape lighting can create an outdoor room for fair-weather entertaining and relaxing, for special parties and for quiet moments after a hectic day.

The types of fixtures and light bulbs you choose are very important, as is the choice of power supply. Outdoor lighting is available in systems that work on regular 120-volt line voltage or 12-volt low-voltage as well as a combination of both.

Different light sources and light bulbs cause color variations on your flowers and plants, so professional help in selecting them is vital. Send $2.00 to American Lighting Association for a copy of "Light Up Your Landscape," a 24-page, four-color complete outdoor lighting guide, or visit a lighting showroom and talk to the outdoor/landscape lighting experts.

LOW LEVEL spread lights provide excellent patio lighting.

Vinyl siding beautifies

The best home improvements are the kind that use building products which combine good looks, easy care, economy and durability.

One example of just such a building product is solid vinyl siding. It won't rust or corrode. Since it has color throughout, there's no surface color to wear off nor will scratches show. There are no blistering or peeling problems because it never needs painting.

An occasional rinse with a mild detergent and water keeps vinyl siding new looking for years. One of its best attributes, says the Vinyl Siding Institute, is that it eliminates the bother, cost and time involved in painting the exterior of a house every few years.

Available in a variety of colors, textures and styles, vinyl siding is suitable for most architectural styles and can be used to blend or contrast with other exterior color elements. It also comes in various clapboard widths and in vertical or horizontal styles and in smooth or woodgrain textures.

A complete line of matching accessories, such as shutters, downspouts, gutters, fascia, soffits and other solid vinyl trim, help reduce exterior maintenance even more.

Additional information is included in a free booklet, "What Homeowners Want to Know About Solid Vinyl Siding." To get a copy, send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to VSI, 355 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Creative use of space adds to laundry convenience

Are you in a quandary about just where in the home to relocate your laundry? And which of the many laundry appliance configurations should you select to replace that 20-year-old laundry pair?

Home economists from Whirlpool Corporation note that the first step in relocating a laundry center is to select the general home area in which you'd really like to place it. Then they suggest you answer these questions before finalizing the space:

- Where do you generate most of the family's laundry (bedrooms, bathrooms, kitchen, etc.)?
- Where do you fold and store most of the items?
- Where can you do the laundry and still be in the center of family activities?
- Where do you have some space to devote to laundry?

For today's busy families, doing the laundry is not a once-a-week chore; it's an everyday task that's sandwiched in between cooking, eating, dishwashing and TV watching each evening. The current laundry in the basement, garage or utility room is not only inconvenient, it's most definitely outside the hub of family activities.

So, where is the best place for the laundry? Whirlpool home economists note that with many new and remodeled homes, the trend is for laundry in or near the kitchen; tucked away in a hall closet near the family room or kitchen; or installed in a conveniently located bathroom. You may want to check out possible space in these home areas for your laundry.

The size and configuration of appliances for your laundry depends upon the available space, family size, personal choice for configuration and possible physical limitations (such as stooping, bending or reaching abilities), according to the home economists.

Both standard side-by-side laundry appliances and the stacked pairs fit well into a kitchen setting. Stacked pairs also work very well in closet and bathroom areas where space is limited, as do compact side-by-side pairs.

To relocate or add a laundry center, first designate the preferred space, then select appliances in a configuration sized to fit family needs and home space, and install them for easy reach and use, recommend Whirlpool home economists. Locating the laundry near the hub of other family activities adds convenience, saves time and may even get other family members to help do the laundry!

JUST DESSERTS

Dried, canned, and preserved apricots are available year 'round, but it is only in the summer months that fresh, ripe apricots are generally available.

Fresh apricots are tasty snacks, but they can also be the star ingredient in some very extravagant desserts. Both of the recipes reproduced here take some time to prepare, but the result is a delightful treat that could be the highlight of a dinner party or a family celebration.

The recipe for Apricot Mousse is taken from The Taste of Summer, by Diane Rossen Worthington (Bantam). The recipe for the Fresh Fruit or Berry Tart, which can also be made with peaches, pears, or berries, is taken from Michael's Cookbook, by Michael McCarty (Macmillan).

APRICOT MOUSSE

Serves 6

- 1 1/2 pounds fresh apricots, halved and pitted
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup half-and-half
- 4 egg yolks
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg whites
- Pinch cream of tartar
- 1 envelope or tablespoon gelatin
- 3 tablespoons apricot or peach liqueur
- 1 cup whipping cream

Garnish

- 1/2 cup whipping cream
- 3 small apricots

1. In a food processor fitted with a steel blade process the apricots until pureed. You may have to push the apricots down with a rubber spatula once or twice. Press through a fine sieve into a medium mixing bowl. Add 1/2 cup sugar and mix well. Set aside.

2. Scald the half-and-half in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Remove from the heat and cover.

3. In a medium mixing bowl, with an electric mixer, beat the egg yolks until frothy. Add the remaining sugar and beat the mixture until thick and pale yellow colored. Gradually add the scalded half-and-half, whisking until blended.

4. Pour back into the saucepan over medium heat and whisk until a thin custard forms. It should lightly coat the back of a spoon. Stir in the vanilla and remove from the heat. Strain through a fine sieve into a large mixing bowl.

5. Sprinkle the gelatin into a small saucepan and pour the liqueur over. Let the gelatin soften in the liqueur for about 5 minutes and then dissolve over low heat. Pour into the custard mixture and stir until completely blended.

6. Whip the egg whites with cream of tartar in a separate mixing bowl until stiff.

7. With an electric mixer, whip the cream in a medium mixing bowl until soft peaks form.

8. Fold the apricot puree into the custard mixture. Next, carefully fold in the egg whites and whipped cream until the color is uniform.

9. Spoon into individual glasses or parfait dishes, cover, and chill at least 4 hours or overnight.

10. When ready to serve, prepare the garnish. With an electric mixer, whip the cream in a medium mixing bowl until stiff peaks form. Spoon into a piping tube fitted with a star tip.

11. On the top of each mousse pipe rosettes 1/2-inch apart along the edge.

12. Cut the apricots in half and remove the pits. Slice into 1/8-inch slices and place between the rosettes. Serve immediately.

Advance Preparation: This may be prepared through step 9 up to 1 day ahead and refrigerated. Garnish just before serving.

FRESH FRUIT OR BERRY TART

(For one 10-inch tart)

- 8 to 10 ripe apricots, 3 ripe free-stone peaches, or 3 ripe pears, or 5 cups fresh berries
- 3 large eggs
- 1 cup granulated sugar

- 5 tablespoons (1 1/2 ounces) all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 12 tablespoons (1 1/2 sticks) unsalted butter
- 1 Pâte Sucrée pastry shell (see below), chilled
- 1/2 cup Simple Syrup (see below)
- 1/4 cup red currant jelly (if using berries) or apricot jelly (if using fruit)
- Confectioner's sugar

Preheat the oven to 350°F.

For the apricots or the peaches, bring a medium-size saucepan of water to a boil. Add the fruit and simmer about 30 seconds, then drain well and rinse under cold running water. With a small, sharp knife, nick the skins of the fruit and carefully peel off the skins. For apricots, halve and stone; for peaches, halve and stone, then cut them into thin wedges. For the pears, simply peel, halve, and core the fruit, then cut each half crosswise into thin slices, keeping the slices together.

In a mixing bowl, whisk together the eggs and sugar, then whisk in the flour and the vanilla until smooth.

In a medium-size saucepan over high heat, melt the butter and cook it, whisking continuously, until it browns to the color of hazelnuts, about 5 minutes. Whisk the butter into the egg mixture.

For a blueberry tart, distribute half the blueberries inside the shell. For an apricot tart, arrange the apricot halves cut sides down in the pastry shell. For the peach tart, place the slices of fruit in the shell in a neat spiral pattern. For the pear tart, fan out each sliced half in the shell from the center to the edge, like the spokes of a wheel. Pour the brown butter filling into the shell around the fruit, taking care to follow the fruit's contours and not to cover it completely. Bake the tart for about 1 hour, until the filling has set and the edges of the crust are golden. Let the tart cool to room temperature.

Put the Simple Syrup and jelly in a small saucepan and cook over high heat, stirring, until thick and bubbly. If making a berry tart, glaze the tart with half of the melted jelly, then neatly arrange the berries on top (or mound the remaining blueberries in the center) and brush them with the remaining jelly until lightly glazed. Otherwise, glaze the tart with all the melted jelly and dust the edges of the tart with confectioner's sugar.

SIMPLE SYRUP

(For about 4 1/2 cups)

- 3 1/4 cups water
- 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar

In a saucepan, combine the water and sugar and bring to a boil, stirring as the sugar dissolves.

As soon as the mixture boils, remove it from the heat. Let it cool to room temperature, then refrigerate in a covered container.

PÂTE SUCRÉE

(Makes enough for 4 tart shells)

- 5/8 cups (1 1/2 pounds) all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup granulated sugar
- 1 pound (4 sticks) unsalted butter, chilled and cut into 1-inch cubes
- 3 large egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons heavy cream

Put the flour and sugar into the bowl of an electric mixer fitted with the dough hook. With the machine running on low, add the butter; mix until the ingredients resemble cornmeal, about 10 minutes. (You can also process the ingredients in a food processor with the metal blade.)

Meanwhile, whisk together the egg yolks and cream until smooth.

Turn up the mixer speed to medium (or turn on the processor) and add the egg yolk-cream mixture; as soon as the dough comes together, in just a few seconds, stop the machine. Divide the dough into 4 equal pieces; gather each piece into a ball, wrap it in plastic wrap, and chill in the refrigerator for 1 hour before using. Securely wrapped, the dough may be stored in the refrigerator for several days or in the freezer for several weeks.

For a pastry shell:

Remove one ball of the pâte sucrée from the refrigerator and let it warm and soften at room temperature for about 30 minutes.

On a cool, floured surface, pound it with a rolling pin to flatten it out to a circle, then roll it out to a circle about 11 inches in diameter and about 1/8-inch thick.

Gently roll the pastry around the rolling pin, then unroll it carefully into a 10-inch fluted tart ring with a removable bottom. Gently press the pastry into the bottom and sides of the pan and trim the edges. Refrigerate for about 1 hour before using.

Accessories enhance and extend the life of consumer electronics products

What do video rewinders, electronic keyboard stands and videotape storage units have in common? How about compact disc cleaners, power surge protectors, replaceable AC adaptors and camcorder tripods? They're all accessories, designed to enhance and extend the life of consumer electronics products.

The Electronic Industries Association's Consumer Electronics Group (EIA/CEG) says that there are a multitude of accessories available to help maximize the consumer's enjoyment of consumer electronics products. Accessories help consumers to realize a product's full potential, at affordable prices.

"Consumers are more and more

'accessory-conscious' these days," says Steven Trice, president of Jacso Products Company and chairman of EIA/CEG's Accessories Section. "By shopping the accessories displays at their local stores, they are finding applications for their consumer electronics products they never knew existed."

Ken Thomson, president of Discwasher, says that "Consumers need to explore the care and feeding of their consumer electronics equipment. Consumers should read articles in their local newspapers, in magazines, and talk to friends about the accessories that they've purchased for their products."

Timothy Hill, director of marketing and sales for Consumer Battery

Products at Gates Energy Products, reminds consumers that "the purpose of accessories is to make consumer electronics products more functional, more enjoyable, and, in turn, a better value."

According to Irwin Diamond, president of SIMA Products Corporation, "The single most important thing a consumer must be is product conscious. A consumer electronics product is a big investment, and the quality of that product will be maximized by the purchase of the right accessories."

There are many accessories available that will enhance the value of a variety of products in every consumer electronics product category. Some of the accessories consumers can purchase include:

- Replacement personal headphones for personal FM cassette stereos;
- Wireless headphones that allow consumers to move around without having to drag a long cord;
- A variety of connecting cables for audio and video equipment;
- Cordless lights for camcorders, providing fill-in light for video scenes that take place in low-light situations;
- Storage units for compact discs, and video and audio cassette tapes;
- Compact disc cleaners, CD lens cleaners (to remove dirt and grime that can prevent a CD player from playing properly), and CD rings that improve the sound of a particular CD (the ring

- is affixed directly to the CD);
- Cleaners for audio and videocassette recorder heads;
- Many computer accessories, including carry cases for laptop computers, cables to connect the laptops to telephones in hotel rooms for transmitting information back to the office, and storage units for computer floppy discs;
- Telephone accessories, including replacement coil cords, "T" adaptors to hook up more than one phone on a single line, and extension cords.

Consumers who want to learn more about the types of accessories available for their favorite consumer electronics products can order any or all of four EIA/CEG pamphlets that help consumers in the purchase of accessories.

- The pamphlets include:
1. Care products (covering preventative maintenance);
 2. Accessory products;
 3. Installation products;
 4. Computer/Home Office Accessories.

Consumers can request a copy of any or all of these pamphlets by sending a No. 10 self-addressed stamped envelope with 25 cents postage for pamphlet 1; 45 cents postage for pamphlet 2; 65 cents postage for pamphlet 3; and 65 cents postage for pamphlet 4. The address for all requests is the Electronic Industries Association, P.O. Box 19100, Washington, D.C. 20036. CE903049

Specialty advertising: A political tradition continues

George Washington started an important American political tradition when he distributed copper buttons featuring a "GW" monogram. And, George Bush continued the tradition almost two centuries later when he sailed to victory on a wave of "Bush" balloons, buttons and bumper stickers.

While campaign strategies for the first American president were drastically different from the current office holder, both Georges had something in common—they successfully used specialty advertising.

Advertising specialties are useful or decorative articles of merchandise that are imprinted with a logo, advertisement or message and are distributed free to a target audience. Political candidates integrate specialty advertising into campaigns by imprinting their names and slogans on pens, buttons, T-shirts, key tags, matchbooks and other items and distributing them to voters.

With the upcoming November elections, millions of voters will be reached through this type of advertising as candidates place their names on lapels, car bumpers and shopping bags.

"Free political items are unique because they are tangible and leave a lasting, positive impact on voters," says H. Wayne Roberts, chairman of the board of Specialty Advertising Association International (SAAInternational), the industry's trade group.

The use of advertising specialties, or "adcentives," has become a key strategy for political campaigns. Candidates have found such items to be extremely effective in creating goodwill, improving name recognition and enhancing a perception of public endorsement.

"Because ad specialties are given away, they establish a personal bond between the candidate and the voter, something television, radio and newspapers do not always accomplish," Roberts says.

When imprinted items are distributed throughout communities, a candi-

IMPRINTED BUTTONS are among the more popular political advertising specialties. Ad specialty supplier Rudy Bartolomei displays a selection of the millions of buttons he manufactures for candidates.

"People who wear political buttons, carry shopping bags or sport T-shirts become walking billboards for their candidate and reach large numbers of potential voters," Roberts says.

A little creativity helps, too. Jeff Schaeperkoetter, a candidate for the Missouri state senate, wanted to both reach voters and overcome what he believed was a handicap—a long, difficult name. Because his name was too lengthy to conveniently fit on a single button, he used two buttons, one imprinted with "Jeff Schaeper," and the other with "koetter - State Senate." The candidate transformed a possible liability into an asset and, helped by the unusual buttons, created enough interest among voters to win the election.

Thanks to American reliance on the automobile, bumper stickers have become quite prevalent during political races. According to George Herpel, a retired professor of business administration at Villanova University, "Bumper stickers are a good form of political advertising because people are so much more mobile today."

"It is not unusual for a person to drive 50 miles or more in the course of a day. The motorist becomes a billboard on wheels for the candidate," Herpel says.

A voter who uses a political adcentive not only advertises a name or campaign slogan, but also implies his or her endorsement of the candidate. "When people see campaign buttons on their friends or other people they respect, they may feel a connection with that candidate and may cast their vote for him or her," Roberts says.

No matter what form it takes, specialty advertising allows politicians to literally place their names and messages in the hands of the voters.

"In some cases, such efforts can make the critical difference between winning and losing an election," Roberts says.

Specialty advertising is not limited to the political arena. Just as political candidates successfully utilize imprinted products to sell their names and campaign messages, businesses use the advertising medium to sell products and services. In fact, businesses are the biggest users of the medium.

With an estimated 15,000 types of specialties available, the items are used in marketing and communication programs to increase sales, introduce products, promote new facilities, motivate employee productivity or improve employee morale.

"The same specialty advertising strategies that candidates use to sell their names and messages can be applied by businesses to influence their target audiences," Roberts says.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Sun Country is proud of their personal touch

Sun Country Realtors, founded in 1981, continues to grow as a leader in Big Spring. A well-trained staff, dedicated to putting their best efforts to work for Big Spring, is one of the reasons for their success.

The staff at Sun Country have distinguished themselves by achieving professional plateaus: the three founding partners — Patti Horton, Janelle Britton and Janelle Davis — are all designated GRI-CRS, a honor conferred by the Realtors National Marketing Institute only on those who have "achieved a superior level of knowledge by completing prescribed courses, and...proved competence through documented practical experience."

In addition to the three principals, Sun Country's staff includes Katie Grimes, Ellen Phillips, Connie Helms, and Julie Bailey.

Katie Grimes, in real estate since 1982, has earned her broker's certification and GRI (Graduate Real Estate Institute) designation. Active in community affairs, Grimes serves on the boards of the American Cancer Society and Heritage Museum.

America is on the go with portable electronics

If you're like most people these days, you're always on the go, and you're probably taking your favorite music and other electronic entertainment with you.

From portable CD players and boom boxes to portable FM cassette stereos and the latest portable programmable video game units, the consumer electronics industry offers a wide variety of portable electronic products that respond to the needs of today's active society.

According to the Electronic Industries Association's Consumer Electronics Group (EIA/CEG), today's portable electronic products are extremely sophisticated. For example, music fans can take the popular CD experience with them wherever they go by using one of the many high-quality portable CD players available today.

What are the latest developments in portable electronics? Marnix van Gemert, president of Sony's Personal Audio Products Company, says that portable CD players and personal FM cassette stereos are becoming smaller and lighter.

Digital technology is a very important part of today's portable electronic products, according to Dick Irvine, director of sales for Aiwa. Irvine says, "Consumers no longer have to bother with tuning dials to set their favorite radio stations. Digital technology delivers a readout of the frequency of the stations on the face of the units."

Irvine notes that "Today's personal FM cassette stereos feature sophisticated circuitry which rivals some of the high-end home units that are available." He says that "sports" models are very popular, "especially for people who are on-the-go." Boom boxes with detachable speakers are popular with consumers because the speakers can be separated for a more realistic stereo sound, according to Bennett Norell, group product manager for electronics at Goldstar.

Consumers who purchase portable audio equipment with built-in cassette recorders should be aware that it is important to choose the proper blank tape. Robert Fontana, customer and technical service manager for TDK, says, "Before consumers choose blank tape, they should consider the type of music they're recording."

Fontana tells consumers that "normal bias tape will usually suffice when recording from the radio or when recording dance music. However, music with a more extreme dynamic range, such as contemporary jazz or classical music, or music that is light and airy, such as country and western or soft rock, should be recorded on high bias tape so that low level passages are faithfully reproduced. In addition, high bias tapes can yield a better frequency response because of their heightened sensitivity."

Care of portable audio equipment is just as important as care of home audio equipment. Tony Marcon, U.S. director for BIB America, says, "Portable units have a higher vulnerability than home units because they're subjected to outside elements."

"Personal cassette players, for example, are affected by tape shedding, which results in a buildup of contaminants on the tape heads, especially in warmer weather. It's critical to use a quality head cleaner to keep the heads clean." Today's portable video game systems are generating quite a lot of excitement among video game fans. Howard Phillips, "Gamemaster" of Nintendo, says, "Portable video games are designed to challenge and reward people in a short period of time. For example, people who are waiting for a bus can play a short game or two until the bus arrives."

Whatever your preference in portable electronic equipment, you're certain to find what you're looking for at your local electronic retailer. Why not visit there today and see and hear the latest portable electronic units for on-the-go entertainment?

Consumers who want to learn more about portable electronic equipment can order any or all of five EIA/CEG pamphlets. The pamphlets include:

1. "Something About the Purchase, Use and Care of Compact Discs, Players and Compact Disc Video";
2. "How to Buy, Use and Care for VCRs, Camcorders and Tape";
3. "How to Choose and Use Accessories";
4. "How to Choose, Use and Care for Audio and Video Tape";
5. "Audio Headset Safety."

Consumers can request a copy of any or all of these pamphlets by sending a No. 10 self-addressed stamped envelope with 25 cents postage for pamphlet 1; 45 cents postage for pamphlet 2; 45 cents postage for pamphlet 3; 25 cents postage for pamphlet 4; and 25 cents postage for pamphlet 5. The address for all requests is the Electronic Industries Association, P.O. Box 19100, Washington, D.C. 20036. CE903052

Careful investing protects retirement income

"My greatest fear is that I'll outlive my money." Whoever said that may have been joking, but protecting financial assets is no laughing matter for retired people.

The ability to maintain purchasing power is being challenged by the specter of inflation, which again is on an upward spiral. The United States is experiencing its highest inflation rate in five years. For retired individuals, that translates to an erosion in income from pensions, annuities and investments and, in turn, an erosion of lifestyle.

J. Kevin Donovan, a certified financial planner who specializes in counseling retired investors, says the inflation rate in 1989 was reported at 4.6 percent. However, retired individuals face a real rate of 6.5 percent and higher because Consumer Price Index components that affect them most are above the average rate of increase in the CPI.

Examples cited by Donovan of "hidden increases" within the CPI include hospitals and related services (11.8 percent), medical care (8.1 percent), gasoline (8.8 percent) and automobile repair (7 percent). Donovan, who publishes an investment newsletter called The Mature Investor, predicts the upward spiral in inflation will continue through 1990.

"Even if the real inflation rate really was 4.6 percent, over five years that represents a 23 percent loss in buying power," says Donovan. "In 10 years, the drop would be 46 percent."

Real return

The "real" return on investment is the rate on the investment less the cost of inflation and less taxes, counsels Donovan. For example, an investment return of 8 percent for an individual in the 28 percent tax bracket would be calculated at 8 percent less 4.6 percent inflation, or 3.4 percent less taxes of 2.2 percent for a "real" rate of return of only 1.2 percent.

Because most retired people are conservative in their investments, Donovan feels, they often rely heavily on interest-oriented investments. "They use very safe, fixed income investments and hope for the best," he says. "But as illustrated, inflation will eat away at those returns. A person retiring today with a fixed income of $30,000 will only have $15,000 in purchasing power in 10 years, assuming an annual inflation rate of 5 percent.

"A retired individual who has all of his or her money invested only in interest-bearing investments does not have much disposable income after inflation and taxes," says Donovan.

What should retirees do? Donovan offers this advice:

- Be careful of investments offering high rates of return. You can get into some risky situations.
- Build a conservative, diversified and balanced portfolio that will maximize the rate of return. The portfolio should include Treasuries, CD's, bonds, and equities - individual stocks and mutual funds.
- Plan ahead. Don't wait until inflation places you in a position where you can't make ends meet to do something about your investment portfolio.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00 ± $4.50 S&H. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.
