Budget showdown looms in Congress

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress' first showdown loomed today on the $500 billion deficit-cutting plan as an all-out lobbying blitz by President Bush and top lawmakers left voters optimistic but nervous.

The focus of the battle was in the House, where despite public expressions of confidence by Democratic and Republican leaders, aides confided that their vote counts still fell short of assured passage.

By late Wednesday, each party was about 40 votes short of getting majority support in the House for the measure, with many uncommitted members in both parties, sources said.

"We're still worried," one Democratic staff aide said late Wednesday. "We're still working hard."

Bush summoned 27 Republican congressmen to the White House to seek their support for the plan, which would be the largest package of tax increases and spending cuts ever. He dispatched lieutenants to the Capitol to buttonhole lawmakers in corridors in what one White House aide called the administration's biggest lobbying effort.

"We have people who have been...advocating certain positions, coming out of the left, coming out of the right, coming out of the broad center, and I'm having to say to them, 'Now look, lay aside that passion for that specific issue...and put the national interest first,'" the president told reporters.

Senate leaders seemed more confident of prevailing in today's vote, which was to be on a broad outline of the spending plan. Congress will vote in two weeks on a separate measure containing the actual spending cuts and tax boosts.

"I've got mine, unless somebody discovers a time bomb in there," said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., when asked if GOP senators would support the compromise.

Lobbyists for various interest groups also fanned out across Capitol Hill. Dole, for instance, was visited by vintner Ernest Gallo, who was unhappy with the package's eight-fold increase in the 3-cent-per-bottle tax on wine.

The plan would produce $134 billion in new taxes, $109 billion in cuts in benefit programs, and about $200 billion in reduced military spending over the next five years, including $40 billion in savings in the fiscal year that started Monday.

Taxes would be raised on alcohol, tobacco, yachts and other luxury items, gasoline, heating oil and a small portion of the incomes of the wealthy.

But since its unveiling Sunday after four months of White House-congressional bargaining, the package has been under attack from lawmakers on both ends of the political spectrum.

Liberal Democrats are unhappy with the $60 billion in cuts in Medicare, especially the $30 billion in higher costs and reduced benefits for the elderly and handicapped people.

They also believe the taxes would disproportionately hurt poor people and that the plan's $11 billion in tax breaks for small businesses

Proposed tax changes

Key provisions in the proposed budget include:

Cigarette taxes will gradually grow from the current 16 cents per pack to 24 cents;

The tax on a six-pack of beer will go from 16 cents to 36 cents. A gallon of hard liquor will be taxed $13.70, up $1.20 from the current price. The levy on table wine will grow from 3 cents to 24 cents per bottle;

Gasoline, now taxed by the federal government at 9 cents per gallon, will eventually be taxed at 21 cents per gallon;

The federal tax on airline tickets will grow from 8 percent to 10 percent;

Fancy cars, private boats, furs and jewelry will be taxed another 10 percent above price thresholds for each item. Boat owners also will be assessed a $25 annual fee to help cover the Coast Guard's costs of patrolling the waterways;

People who earn more than $100,000 annually will lose 3 percent of their deductions above that amount;

The 1.45 percent tax that helps support the Medicare program, which is now applied to only the first $51,300 of income, will be subtracted for the first $73,000;

Medicare recipients will be charged about $34.30 monthly premium for doctors' care instead of the $26.60 they are paying now. Medicare deductible will double from $75 to $150;

Farm support programs will be cut by $13 billion during the next five years;

Federal retirees, now allowed to take in a lump sum a portion of their pension funds, will lose that option.

Golden Knights to parachute to mall

The Golden Knights, the U.S. Army's premier parachute team, will perform a jump Friday at 5:15 p.m. in the Highland Mall parking lot. The team will be part of the Vietnam Memorial Air Show this weekend.

There will be no admission charge for Friday's jump demonstration.

Market, dance scheduled Saturday

Big Spring Main Street Inc. announced additional participants in its first "Trash and Treasures" market set for this weekend.

Coordinator Beverly Franklin said the Howard County Youth Horsemen's Club will hold its annual auction at 2 p.m. Saturday during the market. Equestrian items will be sold to fund club activities.

Franklin said Big Spring Firefighters will attend the market, displaying a fire truck and offering tips about fire prevention.

At this time, 25 vendors have signed up to peddle their wares at the event. Items for sale will be both new and used.

"Trash and Treasures" will be Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the 100 block of Main Street. A dance will follow the market.

Zoning Commission re-elects officers

The Planning and Zoning Commission of the city of Big Spring re-elected past officers at an organizational meeting Tuesday.

Officers are: Jim Weaver, chairman; Arnold Marshall, vice-chairman; and Martha Calvio, secretary. The board, an advisory to the City Council, meets the first Tuesday of each month as needed to consider city zoning, subdivisions, etc.

Rain dampens fair attendance

The Howard County Fair officials said attendance was good at this year's fair, despite the rain storms that plagued the event all week.

"The problem was when it rained. People didn't mind getting wet once they were out at the fair, but it would start raining at 5 or 6 (p.m.), just as they were getting ready to go, and they're not going to get out in that weather," said board member Skipper Driver.

Attendance at the fair was estimated at 15,000 people, down 40 per cent from last year's fair attendance, Driver said.

Driver said that plans are underway for next year's fair, and this year's torrent of rain will in no way dampen the Howard County Fair for 1991.

C-City considers recycling proposal

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — The Colorado City Council expressed interest in a proposal for a regional municipal waste recycling center which would bury only 15 percent of waste received.

The other 85 percent would be manufactured into marketable products such as compost, said T. Barret Lyne, of Environmental Process Management, Bryan. He said it would be a viable alternative to a proposed regional hazardous and municipal waste facility by a Pittsburgh company as far as solving local landfill and economic woes.

"I'm really looking forward to the learning experience we're going to have with this," Mayor Jim Baum said. "It's a new technology for us. It may be the answer for our waste problems and it may even solve our economic problems. I hope it's as good as it sounds."

Peggy Maddox, chairperson of Texans Against Pollution, a local organization opposed to the hazardous facility proposal, said, "We'll be cautious all the way. We will investigate. You just don't not ask questions." TAP cites possible health risks in opposing the hazardous facility proposal. Maddox was one of about two dozen citizens attending the council meeting.

In efforts to solve local landfill problems due to stricter federal regulations going into effect next year, Mitchell County Commissioners signed a host agreement in March with National Waste and Energy Development, Pittsburgh, which would allow county municipal waste to be dumped for free. Proponents say the safety of the facility would be guaranteed by federal and state permitting agencies.

Lyne said his proposal could also solve a city landfill problem without bringing in hazardous waste. "We can do that right here with this, a safer way," he said.

He said they would handle hazardous waste such as arsenic, a cotton defoliant, by melting in a thermal process and then solidifying, making it inert before burial. "I would be willing to enter into a contract to restrict me on mass incineration burning," he said.

Mass burning is on the way out, he said. "In reality, huge landfills and incinerators have repeatedly destroyed communities all across the county," he said. "That's history. They're not going to survive another decade."

Lyne said he would buy or lease the city's 160 acre landfill and permit to build a $10 million facility which would handle 3,000 tons of waste every 24 hours and employ 90 people with a $1.2 million annual payroll. The city could possibly collect fees on incoming trash, although he did not specify an amount, and related recycled material manufacturing plants would be encouraged.

"We are not requiring you to put up any resources at all. You will be making money," he said. "We're looking at a potential industrial park around these facilities."

The only extra cost could be trash pickup. According to studies, pickup costs for recycled materials increases $1.50 to $2 per month per household, he said. His company would assist in a school educational program on keeping trash separated in different bags. "We can break the habits that we

Grant approved for city streets

Streets in the western part of the city, such as Fifth Street near Galveston, are slated to be paved soon with the help of a $300,000 grant from the Texas Department of Commerce. The project will also receive $130,000 from the City Council.

The city of Big Spring recently received a grant to repair and pave a group of streets on the west side of town, said Public Works Director Tom Decell.

City officials applied for and got a grant of $300,000 from a Texas Department of Commerce program for city street improvements. The decision about allocation of the funds was made by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission.

Decell said the "target area" for the repairs extends from Fifth Street south to 11th Place and from Abrams west to Sunset Boulevard. The area is immediately north of Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

"All of the numerical streets will be reconstructed," Decell said. "In some cases out there there's never been a (paved) street." He added that the roads constructed will be of a quality comparable to Highland Drive, Coronado Avenue and streets in the Kentwood area.

Decell said drain and gutter work will also be completed with money from the grant.

"There are specific drainage problems in several of those streets," he said, "including Galveston, Presidio and part of Fifth (Street)."

In those areas, a technique called "hot-mix paving" will be used to, in effect, invert the streets for better drainage, he said.

"They'll be able to handle the large volumes of water that come off (Scenic) Mountain."

Decell said this was the third year the city has applied for the money to be used in this area. The completion of this project will eliminate the last of major city

Conference targets concerns of women

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

The seventh annual Women's Conference will attempt to address issues that relate to all women, whether working in the business world or in the home, the club president said.

The conference takes place Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. It is sponsored by the Blue Blazers, an organization for women that is associated with the Chamber of Commerce. "Conferences like this can instill more confidence in women," said organization president Iris Correa. "The stories give us something to relate to. They let us know we're not alone."

She said the subjects covered in workshops and talks will relate to the lifestyles and concerns of all women.

Keynote speaker Mary Scott Nabers, a commissioner with the Texas Employment Commission, will address the group with "Reaching for Tomorrow Today," a discussion of global economics, the U.S. response, and the development of future leaders.

Other speakers will discuss issues such as divorce, competition in the workplace and effective communication.

"We've tried to touch on topics everyone will be interested in," Correa said.

A fashion show featuring clothing from local merchants will give "career dressing" ideas.

Death date set for Lucas

AUSTIN (AP) — A Dec. 3 execution date has been set for Henry Lee Lucas, who once confessed to killing hundreds of people before recanting.

State District Judge John Carter set the execution for the 1979 slaying of an unidentified female hitchhiker, Williamson County District Attorney Ken Anderson said Wednesday.

The woman was found strangled in a culvert off Interstate 35, north of Georgetown.

Lucas confessed to nearly 600 slayings before he began saying he had made up the confessions. He now acknowledges only one killing — the beating death of his mother in Tecumseh, Mich. in 1960.

The hitchhiker case is the only one for which Lucas has received the death penalty. He has been assessed six life terms, two 75-year sentences and one 60-year term for other Texas convictions.

Reps undecided over budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most Texans in the House were uncertain what they would do today in the budget vote that forces them to choose between higher taxes or economy-crashing automatic spending cuts.

Only 10 of the 27 Texans had made a decision by Wednesday. They lined up 7-3 against the deal that trims the federal deficit but raises taxes on such things as gasoline, beer and luxury goods.

The undecideds said they were still looking at the deal and the way votes were shaping up, both in the delegation and the House in general.

"It's the worst of all worlds," Rep. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth, said.

"It ain't going to be an easy vote," said Rep. Albert Bustamante, D-San Antonio.

"I'm going to wait until the last minute." Republican Reps. Dick Arney of Copper Canyon, Tom DeLay of Sugar Land, Jack Fields of Houston and Lamar Smith of San Antonio say they oppose the package.

House votes to save task forces

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug-fighting task forces that serve more than 200 Texas counties have been saved in the crime bill House members may vote on today.

The House voted 236-189 Wednesday to amend the bill so federal anti-drug funds will remain under the administration of states.

Texas allocates the money to 49 task forces based on need, mostly to those in rural and border areas. But a Kentucky lawmaker had written a provision in the bill to send the money directly to large urban areas.

Rep. Albert Bustamante's amendment will keep the Texas task forces operating with an expected $27 million next year. Reps. Lamar Smith, R-San Antonio, and Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, also pushed hard for the change.

"This action recognizes the importance of rural areas in the nation's fight against drugs," said Bustamante, D-San Antonio.

Six companies join for pipeline venture

HOUSTON (AP) — Six natural gas pipeline companies have combined to build and expand a southern Alabama natural gas pipeline, making it the one of the largest U.S. pipeline projects in recent years, industry analysts say.

A letter of intent to transport up to 12 billion cubic feet of natural gas daily from Mobile Bay has been signed by the six companies.

The companies intend to own and operate onshore and offshore pipeline facilities from the energy-rich bay, the Houston Chronicle reported.

However, the group is withholding the exact construction cost and level of ownership each company will hold until they file applications required by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

The participants are ANR Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Coastal Corp. of Houston; Florida Gas Transmission Co., half owned by Enron Corp. of Houston and Sonat Corp.; Southern Natural Gas Co.; Tennessee Gas Pipeline Co., a subsidiary of Houston's Tenneco; Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., a subsidiary of Houston's Panhandle Eastern Corp.; and Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., a subsidiary of Houston's Transco Energy Co.

Cost estimates offered by analysts ranged from $100 million up to $400 million.

The announcement comes a month after Houston's Exxon Co.

U.S.A. announced it would spend $1 billion to build platforms, pipelines and onshore facilities needed to produce its natural gas reserves in Mobile Bay.

These gas pipeline companies will use the gas to supply customers in Florida, the Northeast and the Midwest.

The energy commission has been holding so-called "open season" proceedings in the Mobile Bay area to decide which competing pipeline proposals will be approved, the newspaper reported. In June, five major companies agreed — at the commission's urging — to collaborate on building one pipeline.

Wednesday's announcement throws out the June agreement in favor of expanding four times the capacity of the 123-mile onshore Transco line and building a 77-mile offshore line. Transco was not a party to the June agreement.

Woman guilty of murdering own son

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — After being convicted of killing her 4-year-old son, a western Kansas woman now faces trial in Texas in the deaths of four other children, three of them her daughters, the other a relative's child.

A Finney County District Court jury returned a first-degree murder verdict Wednesday against Diana Lumbra, 32, who moved to Garden City from Texas in 1985. The jurors got the case late Tuesday afternoon and deliberated a little more than three hours.

As the verdict was read, Ms. Lumbra stood next to her attorney Michael Quint and cried, dabbing at her eyes with a tissue.

Quint said he would appeal the conviction in the May 1 death of Jose Lumbra.

"We made it perfectly clear from the start that we believed the trial should have been moved because of prejudicial, pre-trial publicity," he said. "I believe the entire jury panel was tainted from the start, during jury selection."

Jurors said the decision had been difficult. They said that until two pathologists testified as rebuttal witnesses for the prosecution, many of them had been leaning toward acquittal.

The state contended Ms. Lumbra smothered her son to get sympathy and life insurance money, but Dr. William Eckert, the Wichita pathologist called by the defense, said the child died of a viral infection.

However, the pathologists called to rebut his testimony said there were no signs Jose died of natural causes.

Jurors said they had limited knowledge of the Texas cases, and that they had no influence on their verdict. In addition to the four deaths with which Ms. Lumbra is charged in Texas, the deaths of two other sons are under investigation there.

Ms. Lumbra, who will be sentenced in November, faces life in prison, with eligibility for parole in 15 years. Three of the cases against her in Texas carry the death penalty on conviction.

A hearing is scheduled for Friday to determine if she will be extradited immediately to face the Texas charges.

"It will be our position that we are entitled to keep possession of her until the sentencing is done," said Ricklin Pierce, the Finney County prosecutor. "We will attempt to keep her from leaving."

Pierce said he believed the fact that for a year before Jose's death, Ms. Lumbra had been lying to her landlord, loan agent and friends by telling them the boy was dying of leukemia, coupled with the fact that she had administered hospital-prescribed medicine to the boy the day he died, convinced the jury that she was not a mother intent on keeping her son alive.

The real heroes of this case were the forensic pathologists and Garden City police who refused to give up on their investigations," he said. "I'm just glad it's over. It's been a real trying time."

House votes for more immigration

WASHINGTON (TNN) — House lawmakers approved a sweeping immigration bill Wednesday that will raise the number of immigrants allowed into the nation each year to 775,000 — up from the 540,000 currently allowed.

The measure was approved on a vote of 231-192 and essentially allows legal U.S. residents the same rights as citizens in bringing their extended family members into the country. Federal officials estimate an additional 90,000 immigrants would come into the country each year from that adjustment.

The Bush administration has opposed the plan, wanting stricter limits on immigration. Rep. Lamar Smith, R-Texas, offered a series of amendments to reshape the legislation along lines endorsed by the administration but each was rejected during two days of debate.

Smith argued that instead of opening the door to more immigrants simply because of family ties, the nation should shift its focus to educated or skilled immigrants the way Canada and Australia have.

"The fact is this country just isn't capable of absorbing every person that wants to come here," Smith said.

The legislation does encourage immigration by skilled workers by allowing 65,000 immigrants to enter each year through business sponsorship.

But supporters of the legislation, however, also argued that most immigrants eventually contribute more in taxes and productivity than they cost in terms of social services.

Global warming could be reduced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Plugging natural gas leaks in polluted Eastern European and Asian cities could help reduce future warming of Earth's climate by the "greenhouse effect," according to a study published today.

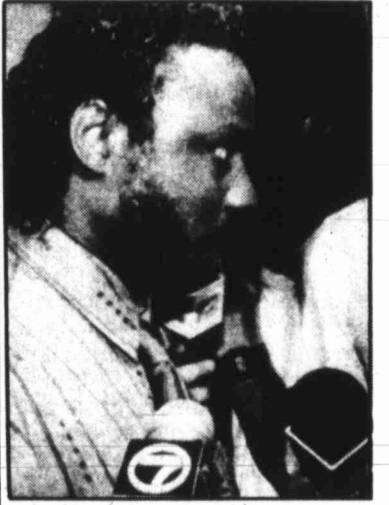

"It would be one small step in the right direction — a manmade contribution to global warming that can be remedied by mankind's own efforts," said Stanley Tyler, an atmospheric scientist at the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo.

The new study was published in the journal Nature by chemists F. Sherwood Rowland, Donald Blake and Neil Harris at the University of California, Irvine.

"It's very significant work" because it shows one relatively easy way to reduce future global warming, said Kathleen Hogan of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's global change division.

Store owner says conviction unfair

CHARLES FREEMAN

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A black record store owner convicted of obscenity for selling a sexually explicit album by the black rap group 2 Live Crew says the all-white jury "doesn't represent my community."

"It's unfair. The jury was all white. They don't know where E-C Records is. They don't know anything about the ghetto," Charles Freeman yelled to reporters after he was convicted Wednesday.

Critics of the rap group hailed the verdict as a milestone in the battle against material they consider obscene.

MANILA, Philippines — This photo of renegade Colonel Alexander Noble, former chief of staff of President Aquino's Presidential Security Group, was taken during an interview in his hideout in southern Philippines. Col. Noble is believed to be the leader of mutinous troops that seized a southern city and a military camp.

New coup attempt is brewing in Philippines

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Hundreds of soldiers mutinied on the nation's second-largest island today and declared independence from President Corazon Aquino's government in what appeared the first step of a new coup attempt.

The Mindanao island mutineers seized the city of Butuan before dawn and later took over the military headquarters at Cagayan de Oro, a major port of 200,000 people 500 miles south of Manila.

They did not appear to encounter any serious resistance. A battalion of marines was sent to Manila from elsewhere on the main island, Luzon, to reinforce armed forces headquarters in case of attack.

The rebels were led by Col. Alexander Noble, a former chief of staff of Mrs. Aquino's guard force who has been at large since taking part in a bloody December coup attempt.

Witnesses said mutineers, wearing red, white and blue armbands, were marching around the streets of Cagayan de Oro in a virtual "victory parade," attracting large crowds of curiosity seekers and distributing leaflets.

Witnesses estimated that between 300 and 600 rebels were with Noble.

Brig. Gen. Emiliano Templo, a military spokesman in Manila, said loyal forces held the Cagayan de Oro airport but flights to the city were suspended.

He said rebels were holding the military headquarters in the city but that loyal troops were also in the garrison facing the insurgents. Templo said the military was under orders to regain full control of the camp.

The armed forces went on nationwide alert and Mrs. Aquino appealed to the Filipino people to support her government.

"I'm calling once again on the people to rally against these troublemakers," Mrs. Aquino said on the radio. "The constitution will be upheld with force when challenged with force."

National Security Adviser Rafael Ileto said the rebels hope to establish an independent Mindanao "and move up north." There have been rumors that a coup attempt was brewing in the region for nearly six months.

Military sources said the mutineers were planning to stage "pocket rebellions" in remote areas of the country before striking in the capital.

Bomb explodes at envoy's home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government increased security at embassies today after a bomb exploded at the U.S. ambassador's home and police said they had seized dozens of weapons from right-wing extremists.

Police patrols were increased at embassies in Pretoria and consulates in other cities after a small bomb exploded Wednesday at the back gate of U.S. Ambassador William Swing's residence. No one was hurt in the blast.

In other developments today, police said one man was killed in black factional fighting in Natal, but the rest of the country was quiet. Some 800 people have died in recent weeks in factional battles.

South African Foreign Minister

Pik Botha said the government was determined to catch whoever was responsible for the bombing at the U.S. residence.

No group took responsibility for the blast. South African press reports today said it appeared to be the work of white right-wingers opposed to government plans to end apartheid and share power with the black majority.

Ambassador Swing was home when the explosion occurred, said Larry Schwartz of the U.S. Information Service. "It's a total surprise," Schwartz said. "It's never happened before."

The United States backs President F.W. de Klerk's efforts to end apartheid. De Klerk was given a warm welcome during a state visit to Washington late last month.

New parliament holds first session

BERLIN (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl told the first meeting of unified Germany's Parliament that as they shape their new nation Germans must never forget the Nazi Holocaust or the repression of the East German Communists.

For the first time in nearly six decades, German lawmakers met in the Reichstag, prewar Germany's parliament building.

The ceremonial session one day after unification brought together

664 deputies — 520 from the West and 144 from the East — who will serve until elections on Dec. 2.

Today's session was only five minutes old when the opposition Social Democrats heckled Parliament Speaker Rita Suessmuth, a member of Kohl's Christian Democrats.

Kohl confronted a barrage of verbal attacks from Oskar Lafontaine, the Social Democratic candidate for chancellor in the December elections.

Superpowers agree on arms pact

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are in substantial agreement to reduce non-nuclear weapons in Europe and now will try to conclude a second pact slashing their nuclear arsenals.

Success in completing both treaties would carry arms control to new heights and contribute to the reduction in East-West tensions.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze announced the resolution of all remaining major issues Wednesday for the most comprehensive arms reduction accord since World War II.

Inequitable school funding

A Texas judge has ruled, once again, that the way we finance our public schools is unequal and unconstitutional. Unfortunately, the court did not say what legislators must do to make the system constitutional.

After the Texas Supreme Court first upheld by a 9-0 vote an earlier lower court ruling that the system discriminated against property-poor school districts in favor of wealthy districts, state legislators labored long and hard — through four special sessions — to come up with a more equitable $14 billion plan for financing schools.

But Gov. Bill Clements blocked one alternative financing plan that poor school districts would have accepted by vetoing the taxes needed to pay for it. So the poor school districts challenged the new plan, and now State District Judge Scott McCown of Austin has ruled it does not pass muster either.

How many times will legislators have to try? This could go on forever.

The court needs to provide narrow guidelines for legislators to follow on what is acceptable, or offer specific plans as options that the Legislature can vote on.

This decision-making by process of elimination is far too costly.

Pullout should be orderly

Filipinos say ending the 1947 treaty that allows six U.S. military bases to remain in the Philippines is a matter of sovereignty, with is true. Unfortunately, many may be confusing sovereignty with security.

The bases, which include Clark Air Bases and the Subic Bay naval base, . . . are the linchpin of the $500 million U.S. aid package, and they provide billions in secondary spending. The bases also provide 80,000 jobs.

American officials suggested during negotiations some sort of phaseout that would allow the United States access to the facilities, especially during crises.

Filipino officials asked for operational control of Clark Air Base as soon as possible and complete control of the four smaller installations on Sept. 17, a day after a base lease expires.

Negotiations stalled and further talks are planned. Philippines President Corazon Aquino, who ran for office on an anti-bases platform, says she will plan to dismantle the bases if an agreement can't be reached by January.

Yes, it's time for the U.S. military presence to leave the Philippines and allow the country to be independent.

But the process should be done in an orderly fashion that will continue to help the country's economy and ensure the democratic process is not threatened by the communist insurgents.

Dallas Times Herald

Leave Boy Scouts alone

Here's a trend we hope gets nipped in the bud, fast. It's a trend that should never have gotten to the stage where it became a controversy. But it has, and it's time to make certain it goes no further.

A local United Way chapter in Genoa, Ill., has cut off funding to the Boy Scouts of America. The reason? Anyone who's ever been in the Scouts can tell you: The Boy Scout oath mentions every scout's duty to "God and country."

According to the board of the Genoa United Way chapter, those few words mean the Boy Scouts "discriminate on the basis of religion" . . .

We live in very touchy days, although that is scant excuse for the idiocy we sometimes promulgate in the name of sensitivity. Sometimes, in fact, it seems as if the sensitivity police have wired every imaginable nook and cranny of American life with sensors programmed to take offense. Sooner or later they are bound to go off over something.

But "God and country"? That's taking the quest for political purity a bit far. Can't we reserve our nitpicking for Supreme Court nominees and leave the Boy Scouts out of it?

El Paso Herald Post

New toxic waste center

Pollution on the loose? Who you gonna call? Maybe the Gulf Coast Hazardous Substance Research Center at Lamar University in Beaumont. The new center at this often-overlooked campus is leading the way in uncovering ways to cope with the often-toxic residue of modern civilization.

Hazardous waste has become a major problem for modern society. It is a special problem along the Gulf Coast, where a giant, job-rich petrochemical complex has been erected to meet the nation's need for oil-based products. The petroleum itself is one hazard to beaches and estuaries. But the complex also produces a wide range of waste products . . . that must be moved and disposed of without harming the environment or posing a health hazard.

Finding ways to handle and dispose of these wastes with minimal risk is a job that has fallen to a consortium of universities along the coast working through the Gulf Coast Hazardous Waste Research Center.

The center's work is sponsored by state and federal grants as well as private contributions. The consortium's Texas schools include Lamar, Texas A&M and the University of Houston.

The experiments often run to the exotic. . . (and) will provide the petrochemical complex and a host of other Texas-based industries longer life by cutting the threat to the environment.

Voodoo to sell budget

By ART BUCHWALD

Washington had a terrible time with the budget last week. The only thing the White House and the conservative Republicans agreed on is that the other side was to blame for the mess. The Democrats had no choice but to watch the spectacle in horror.

Now that a compromise has been reached, some questions can be answered.

"Why was the President so insistent on a cut in the capital gains tax as part of his budget reform?" I asked Frederic Decker, a deep thinker on the Hill.

Fred said, "Mr. Bush is always looking for new ways to help the rich."

"Why was Mr. Bush so sure that a tax cut would stimulate the economy and encourage people to invest in the nation's business?"

"The President assumed that people would only make successful investments such as the Silverado Savings and Loan Association."

I then talked to a White House spokesman. "Mr. Bush blames Congress for all the troubles he has been having with the budget. How can he be so sure that the opposition is at fault?"

"If you are a President you automatically know who is responsible for your woes. Bush and his administration have been honest and forthcoming in trying to present a budget that will strengthen the country and the economy. But when you have so many Benedict Arnold Republicans on the other side, the President has no choice but to take his case to the public."

"How does Mr. Bush intend to do that?" I asked.

"He will carry his message to every state in the union, as well as parts of the District of Columbia."

"Does he mean that?"

"Not really. He'll go to a few big fund-raisers and then send Dan Quayle to all the others, if he can ever find him."

"What good will it do if the Vice President does take Bush's message to all the states?"

"We don't know about him, but it will give Marilyn Quayle a rest. In order to get the budget President Bush has to use all the hyperbole he can muster. There is nothing that pleases him more than to stick his finger in Newt Gingrich's eye."

I had another question for Frederic Decker. "Do you believe that the President frightens the Democrats?"

"They're scared silly. When he threatened them with excommunication because they wouldn't give the country a cut in the capital gains tax, they all hid under their desks."

I spoke to a Democratic congressman. "The President doesn't believe in new taxes. He believes that the lower the taxes the more the economy will survive. We're in a recession and the deficit is the worst it's ever been. Could it be that the President is practicing voodoo economics?"

The congressman said, "Who knows? But one thing we're sure of. Mr. Bush believes that you'll never stop white-collar crime in this country until you give the people in the highest income brackets a break."

Good news for newlyweds

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

Random notes while waiting for my ship to come in:

With news of impending wars, the deteriorating environment, AIDS, etc., the following may not seem like great shakes, but it made my day.

It seems that Boy Scouts in White Bear Lake, Minn., were able to do one of those patented good deeds that Scouts are famous for, much to the delight of a newlywed couple.

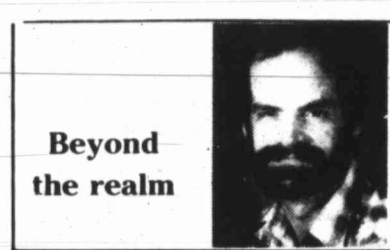

The Scouts were performing cleanup duty on a highway near White Bear Lake when one of the group spotted a cardboard box sitting by the road.

Upon inspection, it was discovered to contain a copy of Cynthia and Karl Rutherford's wedding vows, along with some checks.

The Rutherfords were married Sept. 1 and were on their honeymoon when their luggage, Cynthia's wedding dress, Karl's tuxedo, the box containing their vows and about $500 in cash and checks were stolen.

The money, not surprisingly, was never recovered.

But, being a semi-newlywed myself, I know how important the recovery of the other items would be. After all, money can be replaced, but wedding gifts and other moments of that day cannot.

Beyond the realm

By the time my column appears next week, I'll have celebrated another birthday. For the morbidly curious, I'll be 36.

It is probably hopeless to ask, but to my friends (both of you), please don't send me any wreaths or black balloons or make snide comments about how gray my beard is getting or how shiny my head is becoming.

It is just another birthday, of which I hope to celebrate several more in the years to come. I like to think that, like the commercial states, I'm not getting older, I'm getting better.

Yeah, right.

So, my friends, I ask that you limit any cruel jokes to less than 30 seconds so that we all may get back to more important matters, such as working, sleeping, eating and sleeping some more.

Be kind, folks, because you too will be 36 someday — if there's any justice in the world.

Speaking of shiny heads (and I really wasn't, but this is the best segue I can manage under deadline pressure), it does seem that mine is resisting all of my prayers to grow more hair.

I'm not exactly bald, mind you, but neither am I likely to receive an invitation to double for any heavy metal rockers.

My wife, the dear, sweet, loving, understanding soul that she is, consistently reassures me that it makes not one whit of difference to her how many hairs are left on my head.

Of course, the corners of her mouth turn up every time she says that.

What this has to do with anything is up for grabs, but it does remind me of something Sen. Alan Simpson of Wyoming once said when someone made a remark about his glossy pate.

"You're only born with so many hormones," he said. "If you want to waste yours growing hair, that's your problem."

'Miracle' has treasure inside

A REVIEW
By DEBBIE LINCECUM

In "The Miracle Worker" by William Gibson, Doctor Anagnos describes Helen Keller as "like a little safe locked. Perhaps," he says, "there is a treasure inside." The same can be said for the Big Spring High School theatre department's current production of the play.

Inside, there is definitely a treasure.

The production's only real fault is that at times the students seem afraid of it — as if they don't realize what a fine show they have.

Directed by drama/speech teacher Timothy Haynes, the cast was chosen well, the set designed comfortably. Two of Haynes' finest casting decisions were Helen and her teacher, Annie Sullivan.

As they should, these two actors

— Joie M. Pate as Helen, and Sunny Fraser as her teacher — carry the show.

One of the production's finest moments is a teacher-student confrontation at the dining-room table. An intense, physical scene that could be very difficult is accomplished with energy, emotion and confidence. I wanted to shout, "More!"

Helen's mother and father, played by Belinda Davis and J.P. Shanks, respectively, are two more stand-outs.

Shanks' Captain Keller projects a gruff, powerful manner from his first moments on stage. Something about this guy makes you want to say "yes, sir!"

As his strong, though younger, wife Kate, Davis displays some moments of emotion that strike a chord. Her beautiful singing voice and a familiar lullaby also help to create a haunting climax at the end of Act I.

A surprise comes from out of the supporting cast: Sheila Gamboa as the maid, Viney, gives more than a few scenes a nice comic edge.

In its depiction of blind, mute and deaf Helen's first few weeks with her teacher, the play draws strong parallels with her brother James' troubled relationship with their father. Both climax in the play's final scenes. As James, Chris Holmes handles his brave confrontation, and wields a chair, well.

Pate, as Helen, gives the entire play meaning in a powerful final scene.

Truly a treasure that only needs to be given the gift of confidence, "The Miracle Worker" will be on stage tonight, Friday and Saturday beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the Big Spring High School Auditorium.

Singer Bobby Glenn to perform locally

Entertainer Bobby Glenn will perform from a varied repertoire of music Friday and Saturday nights at the Pindeck Night Club in Highland Mall.

Glenn has been a back-up singer and lead vocalist for Diana Ross for 12 years. He appeared in Madonna's video "Like A Prayer" and has been on HBO, Motown 25 and other TV productions.

While with Ross, he accompanied her on the "Diana Central Park" show and the "Diana World Tour."

He recently recorded an album, produced by musicians from "Earth, Wind and Fire." Pindeck employees said Glenn, whose songs reportedly span the decades from the 1930s to the 90s, will perform requests during his three-set shows.

Tickets are $4 at the door. Shows begin about 8 p.m.

BOBBY GLENN

Pool hustler to perform at Cahoots

World champion pool artist and hustler Fast Eddie will perform at "Cahoots" Friday night. The club is now open in the former site of the Brass Nail II.

Fast Eddie was portrayed by Paul Newman in the movie, "The Hustler." Now, Eddie Parker (his real name) has come out of retirement to promote the sport of pocket billiards.

Born in Springfield, Mo. in 1931, Parker began playing pool at age 9. He moved to Kansas City, Mo. while still a teenager and was tutored by world champion Benny Allen.

His skill with a pool cue got Parker through some tough situations in the next several years, and in 1959, his life became the subject of a book, "The Hustler," later made into the movie.

Cahoots, newly remodeled, now has two 46-inch stereo TV screens for sports and music videos, as well as a pool table. Owners Shelton Castle and Denny McCullough plan daytime sports-watching and evening dancing at the club.

Fast Eddie's show will consist of shooting a ball out of someone's mouth, making 12 balls in one shot, audience participation, comedy and shots using all sorts of props.

The two-hour exhibition and seminar will begin at 8 p.m. Admission is $4 per person.

Study: Regular volunteer work increases life expectancy

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column, a writer stated that it was foolish to work for nothing as a hospital volunteer. Thanks for saying, "The rewards are far more valuable than money." You're so right, Abby.

In 1988, a study was done by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center. They followed 2,700 people in Tecumseh, Mich., over a 10-year period to determine the impact of social relationships on health. They found that regular volunteer work, more than any other activity, dramatically increased life expectancy!

This was especially significant for men: Men who did no volunteer work were 2½ times more likely to die during the course of the 10-year study than those who volunteered at least once a week.

Research at Yale, the University of California, Johns Hopkins, the National Institute of Mental Health and Ohio State supports these findings. — LONGTIME VOLUNTEER LEADER, MECHANICSVILLE, VA.

DEAR LEADER: So what else is new? People who spend their time doing for others feel useful, productive and good about themselves. Volunteers, particularly those who work in hospitals, hospices and nursing homes, are too busy to dwell on their own troubles or feel depressed.

Those who give — get!

DEAR ABBY: I want to clear up a common misconception that has resulted in many painful feelings.

My best friend is 17 years old. She's pretty and popular, and she's worn a pacemaker for two years that I know of. Until people get to know her, they make rude comments like, "My grandfather has one of those — what's wrong with you? I thought they were only for old people."

This has caused a great deal of pain for my friend. I just wish you'd tell people that pacemakers aren't such a horrible thing. My friend is able to run, dance, swim and do everything I can do. Abby, please set the record straight and encourage people to be more understanding of this heart condition. — A FRIEND IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR FRIEND: Thanks for giving me this opportunity to state that anyone who has a heart is old enough to have a heart problem. And thanks to the advances in medical science and technology, we now have that modern miracle — the pacemaker.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter who lives in another city believes she has a ghost or spirit living in her house. She says that ever since she rented this house, things get moved around, lights get turned on, doors open by themselves, etc.

She is really upset by all this and doesn't know what to do. My suggestion was to move quickly, but moving is expensive, and besides, she can't find another place she can afford right now.

My question is: Is there some way to get the ghost to move so she won't have to?
I am not crazy, and neither is

she. — LOUISE IN MARYSVILLE, WASH.

DEAR LOUISE: Advise your daughter to phone the clergy person of her choice and ask whether he or she performs exorcisms (the act of expelling evil spirits). And if her clergy person does not perform exorcisms, ask if he or she knows of someone who does. It may not help, but it can't hurt.

Abby's family recipes are included in her cookbook! Send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Another death shatters royal family's realm

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — When Grace Kelly married Monaco's prince, they seemed like lovers favored by the stars in an old romantic tale. Now, the royal family is starting to seem as star-crossed as players in an ancient tragedy.

The death Wednesday of Princess Caroline's husband, Stefano Casiraghi, in a speedboat crash added to the pain of a family troubled by marital problems and the death of Princess Grace eight years ago.

Grace Kelly, a beautiful American film star, married dashing Prince Rainier in a civil ceremony on April 18, 1956, after a courtship in his tiny Riviera realm.

On Sept. 13, 1982, Grace and Stephanie were traveling a winding road from the family's summer residence near La Turbie, France, in the hills overlooking Monaco.

The automobile failed to negotiate a hairpin turn and tumbled down a ravine. Grace, 52, died of a stroke a day later. Stephanie suffered neck injuries and deep emotional stress.

Mustangs state-ranked for first time in history

By RAEMI FRYAR
Knott-Ackerly Correspondent

The Sands Mustangs are now for the first time in history state-ranked. After the Christoval game, in which the Mustangs showed a tremendous team effort, they have been ranked number 10 in the state. The Mustangs also defeated the New Home Leopards 50-0 expanding their record to 4-0. The Mustangs will play Ira at Ira Friday at 7:30.

The Junior High and junior varsity didn't have as good a week as the varsity Mustangs. The JV played Midland Christian at Midland Christian and lost Thursday night. The Junior High played Grady at Grady and also lost 26-6. The Junior High plays at home tonight against Klondike at 5 p.m. The JV will also host Klondike at 6:30.

Six weeks tests

Six weeks tests start this week. Today, periods 1, 3, 5, and 7 were tested, while periods 2, 4, and 6 will be tested on Friday. Report cards will come out on Wednesday.

School pictures

The entire school will have their pictures taken for the yearbook Monday. Students are to come to school dressed for the occasion and money must accompany the child's order if they want the pictures.

Students appointed to 4-H Council

Local students have also had the privilege to be appointed to the Howard County 4-H Council. Raemi Fryar, Courtney Fryar, and Dustin Gaskins were selected from the Knott 4-H group to participate on this council. Activities such as the Award's Banquet and community aid are included on the agenda. The next meeting will be Tuesday at 5:30 at the courthouse. The Knott and Ackerly 4-H Club will be hosting an Omelet Breakfast Saturday in the Ackerly Church of Christ workroom, from 7 to 10 a.m. Tickets are $3 and can be obtained by any 4-H member.

FFA competes

Some of the Sands FFA members competed this past weekend at the Lubbock Fair. Raemi Fryar, Courtney Fryar, Clayton Fryar, and Matt Snell showed their cattle livestock. Raemi Fryar won third with her hereford heifer and Matt Snell won fourth with his Angus heifer. Lamb shows this weekend were Holly Zant, Delynn Reed, Marla Reed, Tabitha Grigg, Justin Hambrick, and Kami Hambrick. Sands FFA members will also be delivering previously ordered sausage this week. Marcus Carr sold the most boxes of sausage and won a pair of roper boots from the FFA.

It's just a piece of paper. But to this man, it's a wall between him and a decent life.

What do you do when you're 32 years old and still can't read?

He's getting help in a literacy program for adults. They got help from the United Way. All because the United Way got help from you.

Your single contribution helps provide job training for a former drug abuser, counseling for a rape victim, and day care for the child of a single parent.

Or, in this case, a literacy program where a man can learn to read. So a job application can be a beginning, not an end.

Parachutists, Harriers highlight annual air show

The Vietnam Memorial Air Show, in its third year locally, has become a community-wide effort which gives notoriety to Big Spring, an organizer said.
"This has become something for everybody in Big Spring," said Phillip Welch, president of the Vietnam Memorial Air Show committee. "We've got all kinds of groups involved in planning and working at the show. This is something good for the city. It brings in a lot of people from outside."
Welch said this year's event would be different, but equal to or better than last year.
"It's going to be both educational and fun," Welch said. "The board has looked at the air show that way and planned for that."

Activities for the kids are being emphasized this year. They include an exhibit from NASA, the Border Patrol Drug Dog and "Zar" and his Starship "Pride." Kids 12 and under are admitted free to the show.
A B-1 Bomber will fly by today at exactly 4:20 p.m. to get observers warmed up for the weekend.
The U.S. Army premier parachute team, the Golden Knights, will do a number of shows both days, making at least two jumps during each show. The group will do a publicity jump Friday at 5:15 p.m. in the Highland Mall parking lot. No admission fee will be charged.

The Marine Corp AV-8 Harrier Demonstration Team will perform both Saturday and Sunday. The jet is unique in that it can takeoff and land vertically or seem to jump off the ground, Welch said.
Local rancher Connie Edwards and son Tex will bring several planes, including a PBY, an amphibious twin-engine plane; current Navy and Air Force training planes; and four World War II training planes.
The Coors "Silver Bullet" Jet, reported to be the smallest jet aircraft in the world, will be stunt piloted by Lynne Geringer during the show.
A reunion for ex-military personnel once stationed at Webb Air Force Base will take place Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in hangar 1101 on the West side of the park.

Also in the hangar, a dance later that evening will feature the country and western music of "Prairie Fire" beginning at 8 p.m. The admission fee will be a donation at the door.
A "Fun Run and Walk will be held Saturday morning. The entrance fee is $10, or $8 if bought in advance, which includes a ticket to the airshow. Participants should be at the airport office at 8:30 a.m. Contact Dr. David Rickey at 267-1673 for more information about the run.
Gates open at 10 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday, and shows are scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

General admission tickets to the air show are $7 for persons 13 years old and up. The price includes a souvenir program with detailed information about participants.
Souvenirs such as hats and t-shirts will be sold, as will such refreshments as barbecue, funnel cakes and soft drinks.
The committee plans to use proceeds from the show, as well as past years' events, to build a memorial to local soldiers who served in the Vietnam War. The memorial, expected to cost $30,000 to $40,000, will be constructed on donated land at Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Budget

were nothing more than a gift to the wealthy.
"We're making available for the very wealthy an opportunity to shelter income," complained Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.
Rostenkowski, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said he did not know how he would vote. But he and other lawmakers said they would push for changes in the package before it is considered in two weeks.
Conservatives were upset with the tax increases and with what they considered insufficient spending cuts and benefits for business.

Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., a leader of the opposition, said he believed the vote was too close to call. He had predicted Tuesday that the supporters would win.
"I've had members walk up to me and say they've gotten so many phone calls from their districts against the package that they don't know if they can stay with it," said Gingrich, the No. 2 House GOP leader.
Supporters of the plan readily conceded that it contained something for everyone to dislike, but they argued it was needed to help the economy and no alternative was available.
"It's sort of an indulgence to pick the agreement apart when you don't have anything else to put on the table that has the possibility of passing," said Sen. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., who was a budget negotiator.

Grant

areas without adequate streets, he said.
"There are still pockets (that are) not paved. But of the areas I can legally fix, this will wipe out any major community areas," Decell said.
Areas in the "100-year flood plain" cannot be legally repaired with grant funds because of the city's flood insurance program, he said.
"Not that there's not a need (for those repairs)," he said. "We'll have to try to look into some other methods."
Construction on the west end of the city streets should begin next summer, Decell said. The grant still must be approved by state officials, but that is expected to happen by Jan. 1.
"The neighbors have been very patient down there," Decell said. "This will not be a long-running project, it should go relatively fast."
The construction work will be contracted, he said, and the City Council has agreed to add $130,000 to the grant amount.

have," he said.
The facility would accept out-of-state trash but it would not be hazardous, Lyne said. Texas is in a good position to capitalize on a national waste problem, and proposed federal legislation to prevent the interstate transportation of waste has failed, he said.
"Take that garbage, take those fees," he told councilmembers. "That's what's got to be done."
He said he would probably be interested in acquiring more than the 160 acres that the city now uses but it would be in use longer than it would in an incinerator operation. "Instead of doing 1,000 acres every 20 years, do 1,000 acres every 200 years," he said.

New driving tests required

The Department of Public Safety is preparing to license approximately one million commercial drivers in Texas.
According to a recent release, all commercial motorists who operate vehicles in excess of 26,000 pounds or transport hazardous materials requiring a placard, are required to have a commercial driver's license by April 1, 1992.
Drivers who drive buses designed to carry 16 or more passengers, including school and church buses, will also be required to obtain a CDL by the deadline.
Exemptions include: farmers, when driving within 150 miles of their farm, military personnel, recreational vehicle operators and fire fighters when operating fire fighting vehicles or equipment.

Commercial drivers whose current licenses expire prior to April 1 will not be eligible for renewal. A DPS announcement said plans should be made to visit driver's license offices for CDL testing at least one month before the expiration date.
The CDL license fee is $40, less $4 for each year of validity remaining on current Texas driver license. Free CDL handbooks are available at all license offices.

Lyne also said he would still be interested in locating the facility here even if NWED sets up operation. "If you want me to come here I'll come here whether they come here or not," he said.
Answering questions from councilmembers, he said markets for some materials, such as metals, are historically good and plastics are being emphasized dramatically. Other materials can be directed into various products. "If the paper market crashes, then you redirect that material," he said. Paper can be composted.
As far as possible pollution and subsequent cleanup, he said 30 percent of their profits would be set aside for future monitoring and any cleanup necessary. Also, the community could be involved with the operation through an advisory council. He suggested that a council with citizens from the West Texas area be created.

He said it would take about six months to construct the facility and suggested that he would like to be in operation by next summer. He said his plan has approval by the Texas Department of Health.
Councilmembers agreed that he have his lawyer send a letter of intent.
NWED officials said they may apply for a municipal waste permit in January. A hazardous waste permit would be applied for at a later date.

Thumb-sucking shows right-handed preference

NEW YORK (AP) — Scientists who studied thumb-sucking by fetuses reported today that even in the womb, lefties are a distinct minority.
Ultrasound examinations indicated that only 12 of 224 fetuses preferred sucking the left thumb. The rest favored the right thumb, the scientists said.

Repeated observations of 17 fetuses showed preference for a particular thumb continued through pregnancy. The position of the fetus did not affect thumb preference, the researchers said.
The scientists, from Queen's University of Belfast in Northern Ireland, reported their findings in a letter to the editor in today's issue of the British journal Nature.
"One could speculate that although the initial bias is a result of advanced right-sided neuromuscular development, its maintenance results from reinforcing aspects of thumb-sucking," wrote Peter Hepper, Sara Shahidullah and Raymond White of the university's School of Psychology.
They said the result supports the idea that genes determine whether one is right- or left-handed, while questioning theories that say stress during pregnancy or birth plays a role.
Another researcher said in an interview the study does not argue against a role for such stress in producing southpaws.

The stress theory assumes that people are usually genetically biased to be right-handed, but that difficulties such as prolonged labor, undernourishment as a fetus or Caesarean section can affect the nervous system and produce a left-hander instead, said psychology professor Stanley Coren.
Studies show the likelihood of being left-handed doubles if one emerged from such a stressed birth or a difficult pregnancy, said Coren, from the University of British Columbia at Vancouver.
In addition, some left-handedness is thought to be genetic, he said.
The fetal preference for the right hand supports the idea that people are usually biased to be right-handed, he said. But while studies say about 15 percent of children younger than about age 10 are lefties, the fetal study found only about 5 percent favoring that hand.
"They simply didn't find enough left-handers," Coren said. "Where do all the extra left-handers come from?"
One possibility is that some right-handed fetuses later shift to the left hand because of stress in pregnancy or birth, he said.
He also said the fetuses should be studied as children to make sure their thumb-sucking behavior in the womb really predicts which hand will be dominant later on.

Drive safely. Don't wreck your life.

Grady runner in final season

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Former Grady track star Shanna Hale is training for her final year of track at Pan American University.

Hale, a fifth-year senior, has used all her eligibility in cross country, but still one season of eligibility left in indoor and outdoor track. She competes in the 5000, 3000 and 1500 meter events. In those events last year, Hale won two firsts, two seconds and two thirds.

Hale ran unattached at a recent Monte Crisco meet with a hurt foot. Trainer Jim Lancaster thinks it might be a stress fracture, according to a new release from Pan American. Hale led the race and finally had to stop because the foot was hurting.

Cathey in 12th on PRCA tour

As the Nov. 5 cutoff date approaches, Coahoma bull rider Wacey Cathey appears to be headed back to the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, Nev.

Cathey is currently in 12th place in the bull riding standings with $34,285. The top 15 in each event qualify to the NFR. Leading all bull riders is Jim Sharp of Kermit, who's earned $74,744. Clint Branger of Roscoe, Mont. is second with $71,835, and Norman Curry of Deberry is third with $54,380.

Fighting for a berth in the NFR bull riding is Charles Sampson of Casa Grande, Ariz. Sampson is in 15th place with $27,651. Sampson is married to Big Spring native Marilyn Casmon.

Benefit rifle shoot Oct. 14

There will be a benefit rifle shoot Oct. 14 at the Western Sportsman Club range, located nine miles west on Highway 176 (Andrews Highway).

The money raised will go to the Girl Scouts. The shoot is open to .22 rifle, centerfire or black powder rifles. There will also be a short pistol shoot after the rifle match. Entry fee is $10.

For more information call Robert Downing at 263-3255 or David Haller at 267-5520.

This time Red Sox don't choke

BOSTON (AP) — This is a different Red Sox team. When this team is "one strike away," balls stay in gloves. They don't bounce away.

Bill Buckner, symbol of Boston's failure in the 1986 World Series, watched Wednesday night's pennant-clinching game from a broadcast booth at Fenway Park.

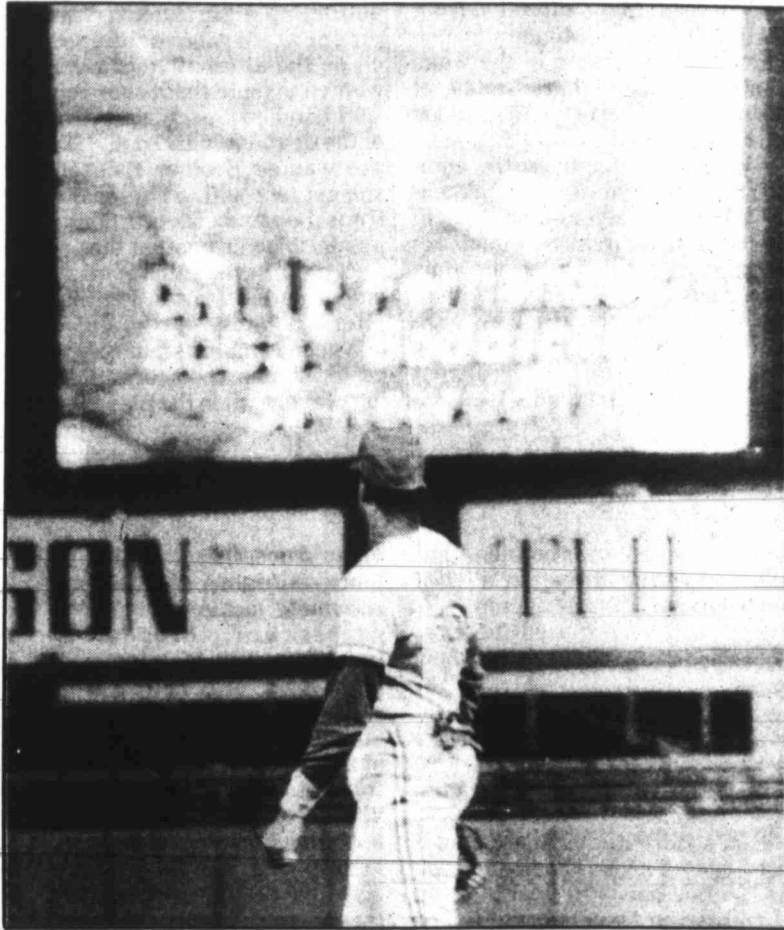

Tom Brunansky and Jeff Reardon, stars of the 1987 Minnesota team that upset St. Louis in the World Series, starred for the Red Sox as they beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1 Wednesday night in the last game of the regular season.

And Tony Pena, the catcher who hit .409 in that World Series for St. Louis, is a major reason for the togetherness that has replaced tension in the Boston clubhouse.

"I see a lot of parallels between the Twins and this team," Reardon said. "We weren't picked to go anywhere in 1987. The atmosphere in the clubhouse then was the same as it is here. Everybody gets along well. There's no bickering."

"Any kind of experience helps," said Mike Boddicker, whose victory Wednesday night was saved by Reardon. "Not only are (the three) good ballplayers and have good experience, but they are good in the clubhouse. That helps a lot."

In the sixth game of the 1986 World Series, Buckner's error allowed the New York Mets to score the winning run in the 10th inning. Before the winning rally, BALTIMORE — Toronto Blue Jays first baseman Fred McGriff looks at the Diamondvision screen Wednesday night as the Boston Red Sox defeated the Chicago White Sox to win the American League East.

Boston needed just one more strike to win the game.

In the final game of the 1990 regular season, Brunansky raced to his left, slid on the warning track and grabbed Ozzie Guillen's two-strike, two-out liner to preserve the victory. Had it dropped in, the two runners would have scored, tying the game.

Boston needed a win or a Toronto loss in Baltimore to clinch the American League East title. After Boston won, Toronto lost 3-2.

The Red Sox had squandered a 6½-game lead they held over Toronto on Sept. 4 and came back from a 1½-game deficit they had on Sept. 25.

"This team has heart and desire that I've never seen before" on any other Red Sox teams he's played for, Wade Boggs said. "There's so much pleasure in doing something like this because people say you can't do it."

"I really don't think the fans wrote us off. It's just that they've had their hearts broken so many times and we have to try to erase the (bad) memories."

Boston hasn't won a World Series since 1918. In 1988, it was swept by the Oakland Athletics in four games in the AL championship series. That same matchup begins Saturday night in Boston.

"The last time we faced Oakland in 1988 we were unprepared," Boddicker said. "We were tired. We're pumped up now."

Brunansky helped Boston with his hitting as well as his fielding. In the Red Sox' three-run third inning, he tripled in one run and scored another on a bad throw during a rundown.

"This is not the time to start worrying about pressure and getting tense. This is the time of year to enjoy it," he said.

"You never can tell in baseball," Pena said when asked about the 1987 Series trio being part of the Red Sox success. "You never can tell what's going to happen because everybody's a human being and everybody's allowed to make mistakes."

Seconds after Brunansky's catch, Buckner emerged alone from the booth and walked to an elevator. He had made an inspirational comeback and won a spot on the Red Sox in spring training. But he was released on June 5, a month and a day after Brunansky was acquired from the Cardinals.

"Pretty exciting, huh?" someone on the elevator asked Buckner.

"Yeah," the famous spectator said with little expression in his voice or on his face. "What a finish."

When the door opened, a flock of reporters charged to Boston's victorious clubhouse. Buckner walked quietly in the other direction onto the street where fans of his former team were celebrating.

Fielder cranks numbers 50 and 51

NEW YORK (AP) — For a week the pressure had been building, the tension had been mounting. With each swing-and-a-miss, it looked as if Cecil Fielder's drive for 50 home runs would fall just short.

It would have been a nice season. But 49 home runs isn't 50, the same way 299 isn't 300 and 19-game winners aren't 20-game winners.

But wait! Don't close the history book just yet! Cecil had a few swings left.

And, in the dying moments of baseball's 1990 season, Fielder made the most of them.

In the fourth inning at Yankee Stadium Wednesday night, Fielder connected on a fastball pitched by rookie Steve Adkins. The ball went on a line to the third deck at Yankee Stadium.

And now, Fielder was among the greats. A 27-year-old first baseman from Los Angeles finds his name next to Babe Ruth, Jimmie Foxx, Willie Mays, Mickey Mantle, Hank Greenberg and Ralph Kiner.

"I did it! I did it!" he said as he jumped up and down outside the batter's box and the crowd showered him with applause.

Even the Yankees, finishing in last place for the first time in 24 years, were happy as Fielder went into his trot.

"It looked like a thousand pounds had been lifted off his shoulders as he went by first base," New York first baseman Don Mattingly said. "His face just lit up."

Fielder didn't have to go through the torment of Roger Maris, whose hair fell out when he chased Ruth and 60. But, still, being at the center of the spotlight left Fielder feeling a little burned.

"It was a lot of pressure," he said. "To me, I wouldn't wish that on anyone in baseball."

He arrived at Yankee Stadium with 49 homers as the season-ending, three-game series began. Three Japanese reporters were along for the chase, not unusual, given that he played for the Hanshin Tigers in 1989.

In the first two games, Fielder went 0-for-8, striking out five times. When he walked in the first inning Wednesday and lined out the second time, his slump reached 2-for-21.

"I tried to pull the ball every time up, which hasn't been my style all season," he said.

Adkins, a rookie who has trouble finding the plate, went to 2-1 on Fielder's third trip to the plate. The next pitch soared on a majestic line and bounced out of the upper deck, 391 feet away. Fielder finally lost it.

He took four steps up the first-base line, then waited to make sure the ball didn't hook foul. All of a sudden it looked as if he was on a pogo stick, what with the leaps and both arms pumping into the air.

"I couldn't help it," said Fielder, usually a calm sort. "It was heat of the moment. Next thing I know, I was in the air."

Adkins wasn't dejected. He felt he did his job.

"It was a fastball low and away," he said. "He just dove into it. It was a good pitch."

Can Bucs handle Nasty Boys?

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates don't want to see any of the "Nasty Boys" tonight.

If they do, they could see themselves slipping behind the Cincinnati Reds at the outset of the National League playoffs.

The Pirates were 0-6 this season when they had to bat against either Norm Charlton, Rob Dibble or Randy Myers. They were 6-0 in games when the "Nasty Boys"

The Pirates swept a four-game series at Riverfront Stadium in mid-August by pounding the Reds' starters and middle relievers. The closing trio never got into a game as the Pirates outscored the Reds 20-8.

"It was a big weekend for us because we avoided Myers and Dibble," Pittsburgh's Andy Van Slyke said.

The Reds went to Pittsburgh the next weekend for four games. They lost the first, when the "Nasty Boys" were quiet again. The closers appeared in the next three, and the Reds won all three.

The bullpen is perhaps the Reds' biggest advantage as they open the series tonight with Jose Rijo (14-8) facing Bob Walk (7-5). Otherwise, the teams are comparable — leading players to expect a long series.

"We're pretty much evenly matched," Reds starter Danny Jackson said. "I don't think either team is going to sweep or win it in five games. I think it's going to be six or seven."

"I can't see any significant differences, except in the bullpen. But if they put runs on the board early and stay ahead, they don't have to worry about it."

They know.

"The key is to make sure we don't get behind early," Walk said. "If we do that, they can bring in Dibble and Myers, and then it's pretty tough to score a run. It's not impossible, just really difficult."

Nothing's been as big a factor as the bullpen. For instance, there's been no home-field advantage in the season series: the Pirates were 4-2 at Riverfront Stadium this season, the Reds 4-2 at Three Rivers Stadium.

Neither team has been in the playoffs since 1979, when the Pirates swept the Reds in three games and went on to win the World Series. So neither team can claim an advantage in postseason experience, either.

Pittsburgh's Bobby Bonilla likes the similarities.

"It's not going to be a thing about matchups or this strength against that weakness," Bonilla said. "It's just going to be two (even) teams going after each other. It's going to be a lot of fun."

"Pittsburgh's winning something for the first time, like us," Dibble said.

Another similarity: the top run producers on the two clubs were hot during the season series.

Bonilla hit .390 with six homers and 13 RBIs against the Reds, the best on the Pirate roster. Eric Davis topped the Reds with a .393 mark against Pittsburgh, but won't be at full strength tonight. He's still troubled by a severely bruised left shoulder from running into an outfield wall one week ago.

Davis played in the Reds' regular-season finale Wednesday and went 1-for-3 with a single and two stolen bases in a 3-2 loss to Houston.

MEET OUR NEW WARRANTY ADMINISTRATOR AT ELMORE CHRYSLER-DODGE-JEEP

Chuck Miller

Chuck Miller is a well-known and respected member of our community. He was born and raised in Big Spring and is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Howard College. He has worked in Big Spring for 18 years.

Chuck is the son of Wesley and Thresa Miller, also Big Spring residents. Wesley worked many years with Cosden Chemical Company and is now retired. Thresa is a homemaker.

Chuck and his wife Bonnie, who has been the Personnel Director for Western Container since 1985, have two children. Terra, who is 10 years old, attends 5th grade at Elbow School. Wesley is 2 years old and attends Hillcrest Day Care Center.

After being with the Elmore team for four months, Chuck says he enjoys his work and is there to answer any questions you have about your warranty. He considers his position as one more step towards their goal of reorganizing the service department to better insure Customer Satisfaction.

Parts Department

The Parts Department at Elmore has recently completed the major task of reorganizing and recording each and every part they stock, into a computer system. When you stock a quarter-of-a-million dollars in parts, it's vital to have easy access to that knowledge. And with delivery of parts 4 times a week, we're able to avoid any delays in processing your order. Our goal is to satisfy you, the customer.

"For Service That Equals No Other"

Elmore has plans for growth and expansion in it's first-rate service department. It is equipped with the latest in electronic and computerized machinery. They are staffed by 8 highly skilled Certified Auto Technicians.

"We have lots of customers from out of town, Midland, Andrews, Snyder, Colorado City and other places. So we recognize the importance of getting it right the first time," comments Chuck Miller, Warranty Administrator. He says, "We've spent the past 3 months reorganizing the service department, so that our out-of-town and Big Spring customers will be better served."

"With this concept in mind, we'll always strive to do the very best for our customers!"

When You Experience The ELMORE Difference You'll See...We Stand Behind Our Claims!

Why A Business As Big As Ours Runs A Yellow Page Ad As Small As This.

Big Spring Herald 710 Scurry St. 263-7331

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every day, we'll start placing big ads in it. Until then the Yellow Pages is nothing more than a directory of names, phone numbers and addresses that the average person uses infrequently at best. This is the reason we run ads in the newspaper, and we suggest you do the same.
Your Yellow Pages sales person can't tell you how many people are likely to see your ad every week in the directory. We can tell you that over 20,000 people can see your ad in the Herald and Crossroads Country Advertiser, and that kind of coverage can lead to sales, especially when you use the Herald and Crossroads Country Advertiser to tell people about your competitive pricing, announce a new location or service and illustrate your clear advantage over the competition.
Of course, there's one more thing you can't do in the Yellow Pages. You can't change your ad copy for a year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market, promote a special sale, or ... You advertise in the newspaper.
Call us for a no-obligation assessment of your Yellow Pages advertising. We'll help you develop a plan that includes the right amount of directory advertising combined with the proven results of newspaper advertising. Call 263-7331 today.

NSU will not appeal sanctions
NATCHITOCHEES, La. (AP) - Northwestern State University will not appeal NCAA sanctions for giving illegal inducements to men's basketball recruits and extra benefits to athletes already enrolled in the program by former coach Don Beasley.
"Although the sanctions are stern, the institution recognizes the fact that the penalties imposed by the Committee on Infractions are tempered with compassion," Dr. Robert Alost, the school's president, after the sanctions were announced Wednesday.
The NCAA put Northwestern State on probation for three years, banned the team from postseason play for two years and from television for one year as part of the punishment for about 40 violations.
All of the violations took place under Beasley, who was fired on July 27, 1988, and later replaced by Don Bell.
As further penalties against Northwestern State, the NCAA said this year's squad may have no more than 13 players on scholarship, that the school is limited to two new scholarships next year and to three new ones for the 1992-93 season.
Expenses may be paid for only eight recruits to visit the campus for the 1990-91 year and only 12 for 1991-92.
And, for the three-year probationary period, Northwestern State's coaching staff is limited to a head coach, one full-time assistant and one graduate assistant.
Penalties were also imposed on Beasley and three of his assistants at Northwestern State. For the next 15 years, if Beasley is hired by a school that is a member of the NCAA, he and the school are subject to sanctions. Former volunteer assistant Joe Cunningham is subject to sanctions for seven years; Wayne Waggoner and Mark Mendez face five years each.
Northwestern State should have been aware that there was the possibility of violations, because Beasley had a history of run-ins with the NCAA and the school new it, the NCAA said in its announcement.
The NCAA actually imposed the death penalty on Northwestern State for the 1990-91 season on Wednesday and imposed a three-year ban on postseason competition, but reduced the ban because the school cooperated.

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists are working with singers Carole King and John Oates to have logging and mining outlawed on 13 million acres of Northwest wilderness.

The two appeared Wednesday at a news conference to push a proposal from the Alliance for the Wild Rockies, based in Missoula, Mont.

"Some environmental groups are like the unpopular kids at a high school dance who stand around in the corner because no one wants to dance with them," said Oates, from the band Hall & Oates.

"I'm here to see if I can't get someone to dance with them," he said.

CAROLE KING RONALD REAGAN

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Former President Reagan will dedicate a sculpture next month that marks the first anniversary of the Berlin Wall's demise.

Reagan will dedicate the sculpture "Breakthrough" on Nov. 9 at Westminster College, where Sir Winston Churchill said in a 1946 speech that "an iron curtain has descended" on Europe.

The sculpture was done by artist Edwina Sandys.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: New responsibilities and rewards provide the variety your restless nature finds most fulfilling. December could bring you unexpected financial help. Be careful not to jeopardize your reputation in early 1991 by choosing the wrong business partners. Check into someone's background before signing papers. A summer romance could turn out to be the real thing! Family will be pleased by your choice.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Refuse to be rattled by unexpected developments. You may want to ask an older family member's advice before making a major decision. Your romantic appeal is stronger than ever!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick to your guns! You should never be afraid to take a chance on yourself. Romance should be exciting this evening. You enjoy meeting someone new. Keep a tighter grip on your wallet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20):

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1990

Untried abilities and activities occupy your thoughts today. The high-way to success may be paved with challenges. See how much you can accomplish in a limited amount of time. Work at full speed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Wonderful surprises could come through travel. You benefit from joining forces with old friends or former work mates. Your popularity quotient is high. Influence others.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be receptive to people who wish to back you privately; there could be a big payoff. Confidential talks could lead to positive changes in your finances. You find out where your real support is.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You could be going through a turbulent period. Avoid making decisions with long-range consequences. Concentrate on completing solo projects. Someone is working behind closed doors on your behalf.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It pays to be highly visible today. You have superb stage presence! Dress to impress. Joint financial ventures and major purchases enjoy favorable influences. Good luck accompanies you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You delight in your new mobility today. A lively conversation provides food for thought. Live it up and splurge a little. Allow plenty of time to reach your destination if traveling by car.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Family and career affairs could conflict today. A loved one may expect a larger share of your time. A candid conversation with a close friend helps. Be direct and you win new respect.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Concentrate on creative efforts. Home life could be tricky. Tact will help you avoid arguments with relatives. Follow up stock tips; you could be lucky! Romance may be a guessing game.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Misunderstandings, unacknowledged resentments or suspicions could cloud a relationship. Attempt to clear the air by expressing your feelings. Spend time with those you truly enjoy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Others may lean on you today. It is wonderful to be needed! Investigate an unusual travel opportunity. Adventure beckons from afar. A good day for do-it-yourself projects.

Kite has sights set on Texas Open title

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Back home from the golfing wars of Europe and Japan, Texan Tom Kite says he wants to turn a mediocre year into a lucrative one starting today in the $800,000 Texas Open.

He can't match his record 1989 earnings of $1,395,278 in the closing weeks of the current PGA campaign, but he could top the million-dollar mark again.

"I'm really playing well," Kite said Wednesday after firing a 4-under-par 66 in the pro-am prelude to a tournament he's never won but where he's always fared well and never missed the cut.

"I played a tournament in France two weeks ago and one in Japan last week," he laughed, "and if I can get back on Texas time, I'll be in pretty good shape."

A winner only once this year, compared with three times in 1989, Kite indicated that a Texas Open title coupled with a second consecutive victory at the upcoming $2.5 million Nabisco Championships in Houston is not just wishful thinking.

Although it sometimes is "kind of tough" getting psyched up late in the year, Kite said that's not a problem for him.

"In my case, I'm home," he said, referring to Austin, which is little more than an hour's drive from Oak Hills Country Club. "And I really want to play well.

"Also, this hasn't been that great a year for me. But I still could make it into a very good year in these next two tournaments. And they're both in Texas."

The Nabisco affair, which Kite won last year at Harbour Town in South Carolina, will be played Oct. 25-28 at the Champions in Houston, a course which Kite knows and plays well.

The winners share of the $2.5 million purse: $450,000.

Actually, Kite's triumph last year was worth $625,000 — $450,000 as the winner's check and another $175,000 as a season-long bonus. That helped establish him as the all-time leading money winner. Counting this year's $580,000, his winnings total nearly $6.2 million.

"It's hard to say this has been a terrible year," conceded Kite, who is ranked 11th on the money list. "But it's not up to what I consider my standards. I've played all right at times, and it's nothing I could pinpoint, although putting has been a weak link.

"I just haven't been able to put it all together."

Kite is among the favorites in a field that includes the current No. 2 money winner Payne Stewart, two-time Texas Open champion Ben Crenshaw, shoo-in rookie-of-the-year Robert Gamez and defending champion Donnie Hammond.

IAAF will issue statement on shot putter

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Word could come today on whether shot put champion record-holder and former Texas A&M star Randy Barnes failed a drug test.

The International Amateur Athletic Federation has double-checked results of a drug test Barnes allegedly failed and will soon issue a statement.

Last month, the French sports publication L'Equipe reported Barnes tested positive for a banned substance after a meet he won in Malmo, Sweden.

Barnes' case has been on hold while a second sample taken at the Malmo meet was analyzed to ensure accuracy. The substance must be found in both samples before disciplinary action is considered.

"The situation is that it's at a standstill at the moment," said Bryan Wotton, a doping control officer for the federation in London. "I would anticipate we would have an answer tomorrow," he said Wednesday.

Wotton said the federation's drug commission chairman, Arne Ljvngqvist, has received the second test's results and is studying them.

Attempts to contact Ljvngqvist were unsuccessful. Ljvngqvist had already left his office in Stockholm, Sweden, and he didn't answer calls to his Stockholm residence Wednesday night.

The results of the backup test were not released by Wotton.

"I'm not at liberty to discuss that at the moment," he said.

Barnes set the world record of 75 feet, 10 3/4 inches in May. He passed a drug test afterward and also passed at least two other drug tests this summer, including one before the Malmo meet.

Barnes couldn't be reached for comment Wednesday. He didn't immediately return a message left on an answering machine at his parents' house in South Charleston.

Barnes has not denied that he took a banned substance, but has said he has not taken steroids. Barnes has said if a substance had showed up in the sample, it might be from cold medicine or a similar source.

"I know it's not a steroid, so I don't know what it is they're accusing me of," Barnes told the Charleston Daily Mail last month. "I'm not about to deny anything yet because I don't know what they think they found."

Pete Cava, press information director for The Athletics Congress in Indianapolis, said he couldn't discuss Barnes' case.

"The only time we could say anything about Randy Barnes is after" a second test showed he had used a banned substance and if Barnes didn't appeal.

If Barnes appealed, "we wouldn't discuss it until after the hearing," Cava said.

Lions hold meeting Tuesday

Stanton Noon Lions met Tuesday at Martin County Community Center. Lion Jimmy Wheeler introduced guest James Eiland of Marble Falls, a former member of the club. An announcement was made on the upcoming 4-H Health Fair set for Oct. 22. A new member was introduced to the club, assistant band director Robert Tucker. First United Methodist Church Pastor Milton Jochetz presided over the program and spoke about the value of everybody's lives.

MCSCC to hold garage sale

Martin County Senior Citizens Center will hold a garage sale this weekend at the community center. Times are Friday at 9-5 p.m. and 8-5 p.m. on Saturday. The seniors will have a booth to sell hamburgers and hot dogs, and the Ol' Sorehead Band will perform if weather permits. Anyone wishing to donate items may bring them to the center or call 756-2791 or 756-2240.

Golden Knights to parachute to mall

The Golden Knights, the U.S. Army's premier parachute team, will perform a jump Friday at 5:15 p.m. in the Highland Mall parking lot in Big Spring. The team will be part of the Vietnam Memorial Air Show this weekend. There will be no admission charge for Friday's jump demonstration.

One million drivers need new licenses

The Department of Public Safety is preparing to license approximately one million commercial drivers in Texas. According to a recent release, all commercial motorists who operate vehicles in excess of 26,000 pounds or transport hazardous materials requiring a placard, are required to have a commercial driver's license by April 1, 1992. Drivers who drive buses designed to carry 16 or more passengers, including school and church buses, will also be required to obtain a CDL by the deadline.

Parachutists, Harriers to highlight 3rd airshow

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

BIG SPRING — The Vietnam Memorial Air Show, in its third year, has become a community-wide effort which gives distinction to Big Spring, an organizer said. "This has become something for everybody in Big Spring," said Phillip Welch, president of the Vietnam Memorial Air Show committee. "We've got all kinds of groups involved in planning and working at the show. This is something good for the city. It brings in a lot of people from outside."

Welch said this year's event would be different, but equal to or better than last year.

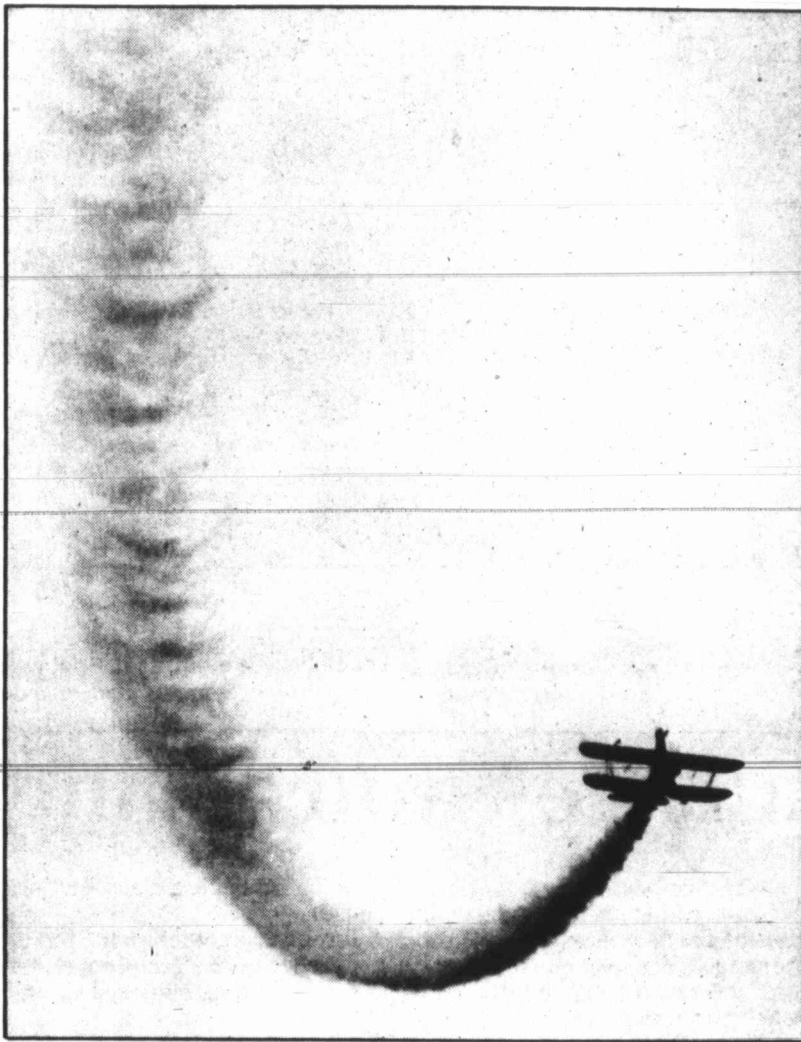

"It's going to be both educational and fun," Welch said. "The board has looked at the air show that way and planned for that."

Activities for the kids are being emphasized this year. They include an exhibit from NASA, the Border Patrol Drug Dog and "Zar" and his Starship "Pride." Kids 12 and under are admitted free to the show.

A B-1 Bomber will fly by today at 4:20 p.m. to get observers warmed up for the weekend.

The U.S. Army's premier parachute team, the Golden Knights, will do a number of shows both days, making at least two jumps during each show. The group will do a publicity jump Friday at 5:15 p.m. in the Highland Mall parking lot. No admission fee will be charged.

The Marine Corp AV-8 Harrier Demonstration Team will perform both Saturday and Sunday. The jet is unique in that it can take off and land vertically or seem to jump off the ground, Welch said. Local rancher Connie Edwards

Showdown looms on budget vote

By ALAN FRAM Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congress' first showdown loomed today on the $500 billion deficit-cutting plan as an all-out lobbying blitz by President Bush and top lawmakers left vote-counters optimistic but nervous.

The focus of the battle was in the House, where despite public expressions of confidence by Democratic and Republican leaders, aides confided that their vote counts still fell short of assured passage.

By late Wednesday, each party was about 40 votes short of getting majority support in the House for the measure, with many uncommitted members in both parties, sources said. "We're still worried," one Democratic staff aide said late Wednesday. "We're still working hard."

Bush summoned 27 Republican congressmen to the White House to seek their support for the plan, which would be the largest package of tax increases and spending cuts ever. He dispatched lieutenants to the Capitol to buttonhole lawmakers in corridors in what one White House aide called the administration's biggest lobbying effort.

"We have people who have been advocating certain positions, coming out of the left, coming out of the right, coming out of the broad center, and I'm having to say to them, 'Now look, lay aside that passion for that specific issue ... and put the national interest first,'" the president told reporters.

Senate leaders seemed more confident of prevailing in today's vote, which was to be on a broad outline of the spending plan. Congress will vote in two weeks on a separate measure containing the actual spending cuts and tax boosts.

"I've got mine, unless somebody discovers a time bomb in there," said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., when asked if GOP senators would support the compromise.

Lobbyists for various interest groups also fanned out across Capitol Hill. Dole, for instance, was visited by vintner Ernest Gallo, who was unhappy with the package's eight-fold increase in the 3-cent-per-bottle tax on wine.

The plan would produce $134 billion in new taxes, $109 billion in cuts in benefit programs, and about $200 billion in reduced military spending over the next five years, including $40 billion in savings in the fiscal year that started Monday.

Taxes would be raised on alcohol, tobacco, yachts and other luxury items, gasoline, heating oil and a small portion of the incomes of the wealthy.

STANTON

The Stanton Buffalos will travel to McCamey to take on the Badgers Friday night in district 6-2A action. The Buffs will come into the contest at 0-1 in district play, while the Badgers are at 1-0.

Stanton had a tough time Friday as the Buffalos hosted pre-season favorite Wall as the Hawks took a 38-12 win. "We knew we had to stop number 40 (runningback Brandon Braden) and 11 (quarterback Shawn Box) and we didn't," said Stanton head coach Dale Ruth.

McCamey had an easier time last week as they travelled to Eldorado and defeated the Eagles with a 20-6 win. McCamey's big gun, wingback Stephen Terry, scored three touchdowns, two on pass receptions and one on a run.

GRADY
Grady's Wildcats, now 3-1 for the season, will travel to Hermleigh to take on the Cardinals Friday night.

"They run a spread offense, and anytime that a team runs the spread the defense has their hands full. With three injuries on our team we cannot afford to take Hermleigh lightly. Center Joel Garza and quarterback Len Garza are nursing injuries," said Grady head coach Leandro Gonzales.

"with our 4-2 defense, we will try to work on our inside game," Gonzales added.

Operation Merry Texas Christmas begun

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Operation Merry Texas Christmas, the brainchild of former serviceman Tex R.H. Houston, offers Stanton and area residents and organizations an opportunity to do something for the troops in Saudi Arabia.

Houston explained his idea is to make Christmas stockings from camouflage fabric and then fill the stockings before sending them over to the Middle East.

"A friend of mine, Ruby Payne, made me one of these two years ago. And when the Saudi Arabia thing came about, I remembered what it was like overseas," said Houston, recalling how important gifts, letters and care packages from home were to him when he was stationed in Vietnam.

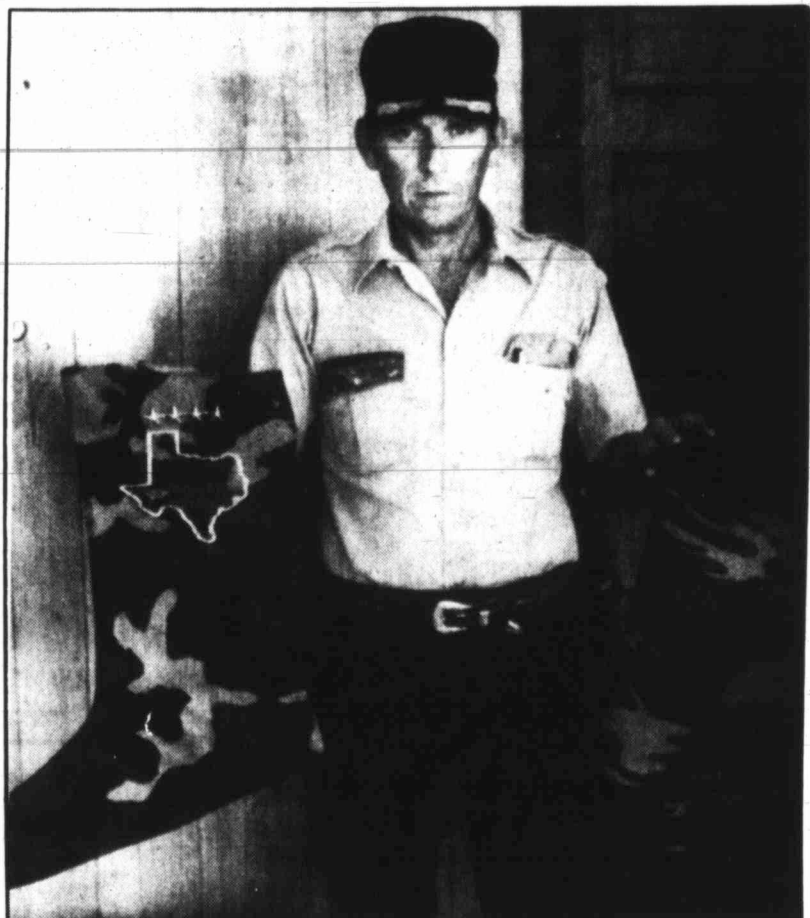

"It was really great, and made a lot of difference in the quality of life," said Houston, remembering a woman from Reno, Nev. who mailed him a package once a month.

"Now, 20 years later, there are other young people doing the same thing, defending the country. It's not that I want to do this, it's that I have the responsibility to do this," Houston explained.

Houston said this idea of making and filling the camouflage stockings is a way small communities can be involved in supporting the armed services stationed in the Middle East, and he said he's working with the Army and the Air Force to ensure that the stockings are received.

Houston said the idea for the project's name came from an old Gene Autry song.

"His song said, 'Have a merry

Tex Houston holds a pair of camouflaged stockings he plans to send to U.S. servicemen and women stationed in Saudi Arabia this Christmas. Houston is encouraging area residents to participate in the program, which he calls Operation Merry Texas Christmas.

Texas Christmas, you all. And that's what I want this to say. 'Merry Texas Christmas, from people all across Texas,'" Houston said.

He said this is a good project for an auxiliary, club or other climate. "I really want to stress that we have women there now, and those ladies have different needs than the men," Houston said.

Some items Houston suggested for filling the stockings are powdered Gatoraid and presweetened Kool-Aid, disposable razors, toilet articles, peanuts, and any food stuff that can withstand 120 degree weather.

Also, he said, decks of cards, tobacco sauce and plastic packaged condiments like ketchup and honey, sealed in plastic baggies, would be useful for the soldiers.

"The women out there will know what their counter parts might require," Houston said. He said in previous years, the U.S. military was all men, unlike now where women are deployed in strategic positions in Saudi Arabia. Houston said that although the Saudi government has forbidden any religious material from entering the country, he really thinks there will be no way to keep our service people from getting Christmas cards.

And he held up a large-than-life stocking he intends to send to four-star General Norman Schwarzkopf.

"They call him Stormin' Norman," Houston said about the general.

Houston offers his assistance to any group or individual who wants to participate in Operation Merry Texas Christmas. Anyone interested in the project may contact Houston at the Martin County Historical Museum in Stanton, 756-2722. Material will also be available at the Stanton Herald office, 210 N. St. Peter.

Saddam tours Kuwait; five Europeans escape from Iraq

By ANDREA HAMILTON Associated Press Writer

Iraqi troops kissed Saddam Hussein's hands as he took his first known tour of occupied Kuwait, and officials said today that three Britons and two Frenchmen had fled Iraq in a daring escape by boat.

The five Europeans were found Wednesday by the Saudi coast guard drifting in the small boat in a Persian Gulf shipping lane off the Saudi-Kuwait border, British diplomats and Saudi officials said. The British escapees told London's Daily Mail newspaper that they had spent 25 hours in rough seas after taking the 10-foot boat through the marshes of southern Iraq, into the Shatt-al-Arab waterway and then the gulf.

It was the first report of Western men escaping Iraq since August. The Britons said they had been working on a key oil installation near the Iraqi port of Basra, and the two Frenchmen were barge masters. They were among a small number of Europeans living on dwindling food supplies and denied permission to leave.

Iraq is holding about 2,200 Westerners hostage in Kuwait and Iraq, some at strategic installations to discourage attack by the U.S.-led military forces that began massing in the region after Iraq seized Kuwait on Aug. 2.

Nine of those hostages — all Frenchmen — returned to Paris today after being freed by Iraq. Also today, 173 Brazilians arrived home after Brazil negotiated their release from Iraq.

Saddam's visit to Kuwait coincided with the arrival in the region of two foreign leaders and a top envoy seeking a peaceful solution to the crisis.

Yevgeny Primakov, a senior adviser to Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, arrived in Baghdad today carrying a message from Gorbachev, Soviet diplomatic sources said. Its contents were not disclosed. In Moscow, Gorbachev said today he did not think the crisis would lead to war, and he also told reporters he saw no reason to send

But since its unveiling Sunday after four months of White House-congressional bargaining, the package has been under attack from lawmakers on both ends of the political spectrum.

Liberal Democrats are unhappy with the $60 billion in cuts in Medicare, especially the $30 billion in higher costs and reduced benefits for the elderly and handicapped people.

They also believe the taxes would disproportionately hurt poor people and that the plan's $11 billion in tax breaks for small businesses were nothing more than a gift to the wealthy.

"We're making available for the very wealthy an opportunity to shelter income," complained Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill.

Rostenkowski, chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said he did not know how he would vote. But he and other lawmakers said they would push for changes in the package before it is considered in two weeks.

Conservatives were upset with the tax increases and with what they considered insufficient spending cuts and benefits for business.

Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., a leader of the opposition, said he believed the vote was too close to call. He had predicted Tuesday that the supporters would win.

"I've had members walk up to me and say they've gotten so many phone calls from their districts against the package that they don't know if they can stay with it," said Gingrich, the No. 2 House GOP leader.

Supporters of the plan readily conceded that it contained something for everyone to dislike, but they argued it was needed to help the economy and no alternative was available.

"It's sort of an indulgence to pick the agreement apart when you don't have anything else to put on the table that has the possibility of passing," said Sen. Wyche Fowler, D-Ga., who was a budget negotiator.

Eight-graders win, seventh-graders lose to C-City

HERALD STAFF REPORT

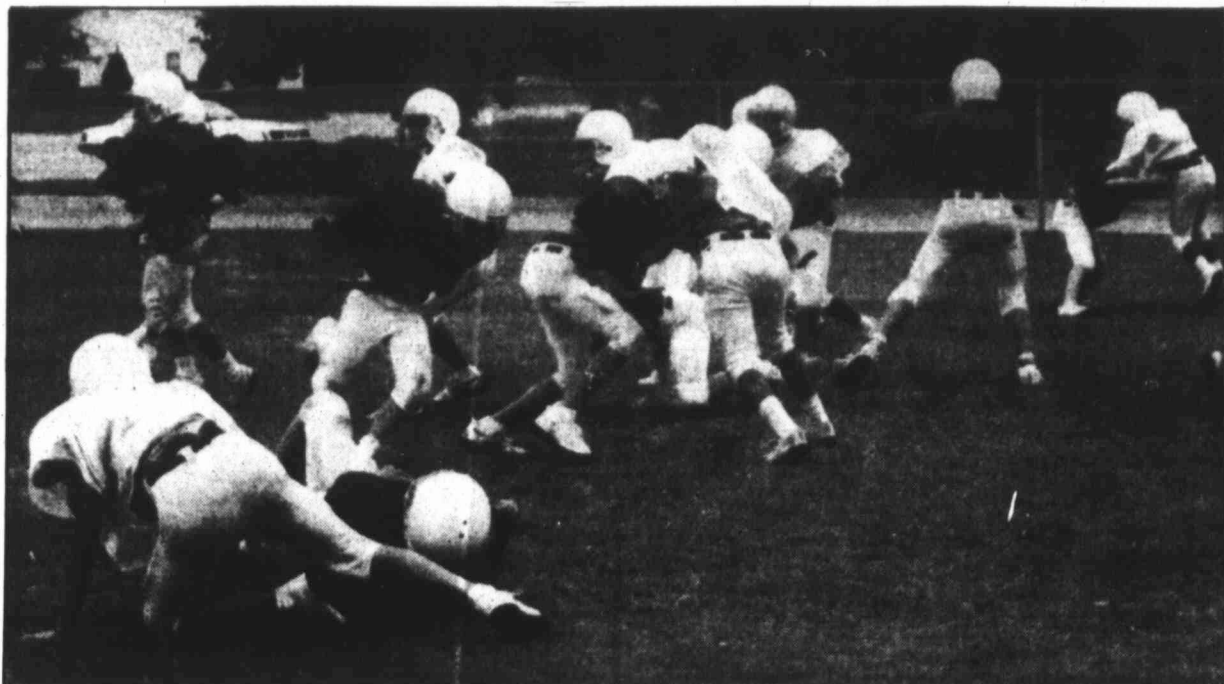

Stanton's seventh and eighth-grade teams went to Colorado City to take on the Wolves recently and came home with a 14-6 win for the eighth-graders and a 12-8 loss for the seventh-grade Buffs.

Junior high head coach Sam Eoff was pleased with both teams' outings, saying the seventh graders had their chances to win, but they showed promise of improvement, while the eighth grade drove the ball well.

"Our eighth grade moved the ball well against C-City and they competed well against a much larger team that went 4-4, last year against 3-A teams," Eoff said. "Our quarterback J.J. Ortiz did a fantastic job of completing passes. Coach (Tom) Posey and Coach (Albert) Chavez did a good job with our offensive line. They got off the ball real well and blocking was good.

"The offensive unit played as a team, and our defense played super," he added. "Fullback Robert Moreno ran the ball well and blocked just as good. Along with Moreno, Billy Joe Marquez and Michael Paul Martinez did a good job of running and executing on pass routes and concentrating on their assignments."

"With our team traveling to McCamey Thursday, we feel that we will be able to play a good ballclub and also have a chance to look at our team more closely.

"Our seventh grade is getting there and we are very excited about their upcoming game with McCamey. We penetrated the ball well into Colorado City territory more than they 3-1, but C-City had a busted play and we missed on a couple of tackles as their runner bumped off some of our players and he went 60 yards for their last score," Eoff added.

He said that George Cox did a good job returning a 75-yard kickoff return, while the kickoff return team opened a hole for Cox to go through. Taylor Looney moved the ball well, Eoff said.

Farm scene

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Farm commodity exports are expected to decline a bit in the fiscal year that began this week, mainly because of hefty grain supplies throughout much of the world.

The Agriculture Department says another reason, although not a large factor, is the historic joining of the two Germanys on Wednesday, which will mean a slip in corn exports. East Germany typically bought about 500,000 metric tons annually.

But with unification, the new Germany becomes part of the European Community, said Stephen MacDonald of the department's Economic Research Service. Suddenly, it becomes too expensive to import U.S. corn.

"Their price goes up and that price is protected by the (EC) tariff," MacDonald said, commenting on a report in the October issue of Agricultural Outlook magazine.

Normally, West Germany has not been a significant U.S. corn market, he said. Some has been imported, but mostly for industrial uses.

The main reason for a weakening of U.S. farm export prospects is large foreign supplies of wheat, rice and corn in both the importing and exporting countries.

In some measure, the outlook for 1990-91 could reflect what happened in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, although USDA analysts say it's too early to make flat predictions.

Also, they say, there are many variables relating to the Mideast crisis, energy costs and global finances.

But in 1989-90, U.S. agricultural exports probably reached 148.5 million metric tons, worth $40 billion, both slightly more than the year before, the report said.

"Export volume likely rose about 2 million tons (in 1989-90), as larger corn and soybean exports offset lower wheat exports," the report said. "During the first 10 months of fiscal 1990, corn exports rose 8 million tons, soybeans rose 2.5 million, and wheat exports fell 7 million."

The drop in U.S. wheat exports was attributed to larger prospective crops in several major importing countries, including the Soviet Union and China; rising supplies among competitors, especially Canada; and the anticipation of foreign buyers that prices would decline in the future.

Total U.S. agricultural exports to China dropped more than 40 percent last fiscal year, mostly because of the decline in wheat shipments.

In the first nine months of the fiscal year, the report said, China's wheat imports from all sources fell nearly 10 percent, and the U.S. market share dropped to about 25 percent from 50 percent. Meanwhile, Australia and Canada increased their share of the Chinese market.

Wheat exports to Egypt also have weakened, the report said. This has been due mostly to Egypt's difficulty with past-due payments for U.S. credit extended in earlier years.

Egypt's imports of U.S. vegetable oil, tallow and poultry meat also are down, although sales of short-staple cotton were up sharply as Egypt continued to increase its exports of textiles and long-staple cotton.

"The U.S. ban on trade with Iraq and the U.N. general trade embargo helped lower fiscal 1990 U.S. agricultural exports to Iraq by $200 million from a year earlier," the report said. "Wheat and soybean meal likely accounted for most of the decline. Sunflower oil exports also were down."

Extension news

By KATHRYN BURCH

"Kids in Charge" is a program that provides learning experiences that will enable children to be more self-reliant and be prepared when caring for themselves.

The program will consist of a joint effort between Martin County 4-H and Stanton elementary fourth grade teachers.

In a recent survey of Stanton children in grades 3-6, 37 percent of the children surveyed stayed home alone on a regular basis with 67 percent reporting to be alone on some instances. Stanton has no after-school care program provided to meet this need in the community.

The program deals with coping with fear, fire and weather safety, getting along with others, nutrition, being responsible, medical emergencies and personal safety.

Games, puppet shows and pencil and paper exercises have all been incorporated to make this a fun learning experience. A video series from Southwestern Bell also is being used to give a variety of help in each field being discussed in the program of actual learning experiences.

Parents are getting in on the act, too. Each participating child received a home activity book. Concepts covered in class can be practiced at home, where they will ultimately be used.

Teachers involved in this project are Stacy Redder, Norman Wright, Gracelyn Snell, and Patty Johnson under the auspices of the area 4-H.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Sixth-grader has part in TV movie Saddam

MIDLAND (AP) — Ginger Thomas knows what many adults don't know. Acting is hard work.

"I thought it would be easy, but it's real hard work," Ginger says, referring to her bit part in "Cabin Fever," a made-for-television movie which will be released this winter.

Does hard work discourage Ginger?

"No. I'm used to hard work. I love hard work."

Ginger, who is 11 and a sixth-grader and cheerleader at Odessa's LBJ Elementary, has been taking dance lessons for eight years, first from Jan Collard and currently with Judy Gorlin.

"Since I was 3, I've been dancing," Ginger says, explaining her familiarity at such a young age with work. "For a little preschooler, dancing was hard back then. Real hard.

"But it's easy to me now. I've been taking tap and ballet since I was 3. When I turned 5, I started jazz. At 7, pointe. At 8, heel tap. Right now, I'm taking tap, ballet and jazz."

"Each week I don't have hardly any rest time. It don't hardly bother me. I'm used to going to dance every day of the week, and then whenever I get out of dance, spending at least an hour to an hour and a half on my homework trying to do the best I can."

She makes straight A's. Math is her favorite subject. She has difficulty deciding what her least favorite subject is, then settles on English. Yet, without hesitation, she knows what she wants to do with her life.

"I want to be a dance instructor and an actress and a model," Ginger says.

She even knows how to juggle such a schedule.

"I'm going to hire another professional dance instructor to take over whenever I need to go out of town for modeling or making a movie," she said.

In the past weeks she cut her first television commercial. The commercial is for Twin Cities Speedway's Oct. 7 "Kid's Day" show.

In the commercial, Ginger, who plans to race in the Oct. 7 competition, is wearing Reebok pumps and encouraging kids to come and compete in the bicycle race for which Reeboks are the prize.

Ginger, who is a racing fan, is no stranger to Twin Cities Speedway. She remembers how she felt in 1988 when she won the race in her age category there.

"I felt great — glad. I was the only girl in my group. It made the boys mad, but that's tough."

Ginger, who is the daughter of Odessans Marla and Alan Thomas, says she couldn't have accomplished what she has without her family.

A reunion for ex-military personnel stationed at Webb Air Force Base will take place Saturday at 6:30 p.m. in Hangar 1101 on the west side of the park.

Also in the hangar, a dance later that evening will feature the country and western music of "Prairie Fire" beginning at 8 p.m. The admission fee will be a donation at the door.

A "Fun Run and Walk" will be held Saturday morning. The entrance fee is $10, or $8 if bought in advance, which includes a ticket to the airshow. Participants should be at the airpark office at 8:30 a.m. Contact Dr. David Rickey at 267-1673 for more information about the run.

Gates open at 10 a.m. both Saturday and Sunday, and shows are scheduled to start at 1 p.m.

General admission tickets to the air show are $7 for persons 13 years old and up. The price includes a souvenir program with detailed information about participants.

Souvenirs such as hats and T-shirts will be sold, as well as refreshments as barbecue, funnel cakes and soft drinks.

The committee plans to use proceeds from the show, as well as past years' events, to build a memorial to local soldiers who served in the Vietnam War. The memorial, expected to cost $30,000 to $40,000, will be constructed on donated land at SouthWest Collegiate for the Deaf.
