Support sought for surtax on rich

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders are trying to persuade President Bush to endorse a surtax on the wealthy in hopes of breaking a deficit-reduction deadlock, GOP officials said today.

The effort came as negotiators struggled to reach agreement on a package of tax increases and spending cuts before the government ran out of funds at midnight.

The budget was the top item on the agenda at a Cabinet meeting this morning, where Bush refused to answer reporters' questions about whether he would accept a surtax on the rich or sign another stopgap spending measure to keep the government running.

Democrats have been insisting that a surtax on the richest taxpayers be included in any deficit-reduction agreement. Many Republicans and the president have opposed the idea.

The partisan dispute over precisely how to put new taxes on the rich has become the most difficult issue in the effort by lawmakers and the White House to cut the deficit by $250 billion over the next five years.

According to officials speaking on condition of anonymity, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., broached the proposal during a meeting with Bush last night.

No decisions were made and discussions were expected to continue today, officials said.

Under the proposal, the surtax would fall on people earning more than $300,000 annually. Democrats had been demanding that the surtax be aimed at people earning more than $1 million, but lowering that threshold would raise more money because it would hit more people. This would allow budget writers to reduce savings in other parts of the deficit-cutting plan.

Still undecided was the amount of the tax, although it seemed likely to fall between 5 percent and 10 percent.

Republicans have preferred limiting deductions instead of a surtax, but that alternative is supported by only about half the House's majority Democrats. With most Republicans ready to vote against the budget in any case, there would not be enough support for the measure to be passed by the House.

"We are trying to keep negotiations going," House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif., told reporters Tuesday night after a long, fruitless day. "But the hour is late and we still don't have

Alviar wins first in football contest

This week's first place winner in the Herald's Football '90 contest is Doroteo Alviar Jr., with 16 correct picks.

The tie-breaking score decided second and third places, as second place winner Daniel Glen Barber and third place winner Gary Bays both picked 15 winners.

Sonic was the advertiser winner.

Reeds leave for California

The Reeds, who left their home in Oklahoma to travel to California in search of work, were stranded here because of a lack of funds.

However, Crossroads Country residents came to their aid, donating food, clothes and money.

"We've just been swamped with calls from people wanting to help them," said Tammy Allen of the Salvation Army. Allen said she delivered diapers, clothes and food to the couple Tuesday evening.

Dan said several people came to their motel room to donate clothing, food, diapers, water and money.

"I was very tense at first," he said. "But these people also brought the gospel of Jesus Christ and they brought love. I'll always remember the people of Big Spring. We want to thank everyone from the bottom of our hearts."

Heart Association happy with support

The American Heart Association tele-pledge, held Monday night at TU Electric, proved to be a great success and exceeded the goal for total pledges, Jan Henson, coordinator for the drive, said.

"We have over $1,100 in pledges. It's the first time we've exceeded our goal in several years," she said.

Henson, a customer representative for TU Electric, said this is the first year she's been on the board for the American Heart Association, and this telephone pledge drive is one of the projects used to raise money.

"We phoned some of those who pledged last year by phone, and others we could think of," said Henson, adding that the phones were staffed by six volunteers.

She said she contacted TU Electric to hold the drive because she wanted a company interested in a wellness program.

"TU is interested, so I came here first to get volunteers. We have two coordinators who keep us posted on things to do with wellness. We had a meeting on food and food health, we have a blood pressure monitor in the coffee break (room) and we've had a cholesterol check."

Henson said next year she will again contact a company interested in wellness to hold the telephone fund drive.

Red ribbon week proclaimed

By DEBBIE LINCEUM

Local schoolchildren and Howard College students are pinning on red ribbons this week as part of a new drug awareness campaign.

This week has been proclaimed Red Ribbon Week all over the state. The Big Spring City Council will officially recognize the designation at their meeting tonight. Wearing red ribbons will show support for the anti-drug campaign.

At the elementary and junior high school level, kids are learning about ACT — apprehension, correction and treatment — the three phases of solving the drug problem as designed by Max Webb of the Federal Correctional Institute.

In all-school programs, which began Monday and continue throughout the week, all three phases are detailed. Big Spring Police Officers explain how apprehension works, then federal prison officials discuss correction, and finally, representatives of the Big Spring State Hospital and the Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center talk about treatment.

Webb said the kids respond. "The children are very cognitive about drugs," he said. "They are very, very aware of drugs." He added that sometimes the kids ask very astute questions or make amazing observations.

"A third-grade girl asked us once what effect drugs had on pregnancy," he said.

Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent, said all schools have been given red ribbons for the students to wear.

At Howard College, a group of students in the alcohol and drug abuse counseling program is getting into the red ribbon act as well.

In her class at Moss Elementary School, Christina Martinez sports a red ribbon and button in support of Red Ribbon week, a new anti-drug campaign.

Candace Arnold, a student in the program, said wearing a ribbon means a person is "proud to be drug free."

"We're trying to get everybody in town, everybody in Howard County to wear a red ribbon, or have one on your car or tie one somewhere," Arnold said. "It shows you are drug-free, and you support a drug-free society."

Public has chance to quiz candidates

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The public will have a chance to grill most of the 15 local candidates running, opposed and unopposed, for 11 offices at a forum Thursday night in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

"We've got confirmation from all of the opposed candidates and from all the unopposed candidates except two," said Bob Coltrane, chairman of the Leadership Big Spring Alumni Town Hall Committee, which is sponsoring the event. The four contested races are for county judge, commissioners precincts 2 and 4, and district clerk.

Tax Assessor-Collector Kathy Sayles, running unopposed for reelection, said she wanted to attend, but had a previous engagement and Precinct 2 Justice of the Peace Willie Grant, also running unopposed, said she may not attend because her husband is sick.

The forum will be broadcast live by radio station KBST and a phone line for public input will be set up by the Howard College coliseum director. The number is 264-5063.

Questions for the candidates in the contested races were prepared by Leadership Big Spring Alumni members. The candidates were notified today that they could pick up copies of them at the Big Spring Herald.

County judge candidates will be asked about legal backgrounds, the efficient handling of driving-while-intoxicated court cases and the feasibility of shared county/city services, including existing services such as the ambulance service, the landfill-baler and the 911 emergency telephone service.

Commissioner candidates will be asked to point out at least two areas of the budget where spending can be cut, how non-tax revenues can be raised, whether the county should contribute funding toward economic development and about the feasibility of shared county/city services. They will also be asked to discuss the justification of the $24,400 annual salary of a commissioner.

District clerk candidates will be asked about the four major functions of the office, how civil and criminal cases should be handled, the function of computers in the office, possible changes and goals in the operation of the office and their qualifications.

Candidates will have two minutes to make an opening statement before questions from the audience are fielded, said Sonny Choate, who will moderate the forum. He said the public will be given a chance to ask questions of each candidate.

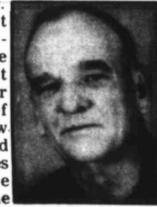

"It's going to be pretty simple and I hope we can get questions," Choate said. "I, as a voter, have some myself."

Coltrane said candidates have been told to expect anything.

"They are all aware that they can be asked anything, because it is an open forum by the public," he said. "This is their (public's) chance. If there is any nebulous areas of concern, all they have to do is show up."

"All the work's been done. It's easy," he said.

Last year about 75 people showed up at a similar candidate forum, said Coltrane, who is hoping more show up this year.

Ambulance contract approved

Improvements at the city Water Treatment Plant are ready to move into Phase III; specifications were approved by City Council members at their meeting Tuesday.

The approval allows Assistant City Manager Tom Decell to advertise for bids for the work, a $900,000 plant and computer system improvement project.

Decell told council members that the improvements would increase city water processing about 6 million gallons per day, to 16 million; and would allow the plant to process amounts of water that now take six hours in two.

Systems control improvements will allow workers to control everything in the plant by computer, as well as make in-depth analyses of the processes, he said. Bids may be opened in December, with an award as early as February. A target date in September or October of 1991 will be set for work completion, Decell said.

Although the taste of our water will not improve, the plant improvements will allow the treatment center to operate under Texas Department of Health standards, he added. Phase IV may improve the taste and quality of our water, Decell said.

Councilman Sidney Clark voted against the amendments. He said after the meeting that he had done so in order to force the issue to be subject to more in-depth discussion at the next meeting.

Members appointed to advisory boards

New members were appointed to six city advisory boards at the city council meeting Tuesday.

New members are:
• Planning and Zoning Commission — Ed Holt, Joyce Crocker and Conrad Alexander.

• Parks and Recreation Board — Noel Hull and Ralph Jordan.

• Board of Adjustments and Appeals — Tommy Corwin (alternate).

• Traffic Commission — Mary Lou Salazar, two-year term; Dusty Johnston, one-year term; Bill Gonzales, one-year term; and Robert Wernsman, one-year term.

• Electrical Board — citizen member Scott McLaughlin.

• Zoning Board of Adjustment — alternates Robert "Don" Miller and Jerry Williams.

The improvements, started about four years ago, are planned to go through five phases.

In other business, the president of the Big Spring Professional Firefighter's Union spoke at the meeting against a set of Texas Municipal League amendments to the Texas and Local Government Code Municipal Civil Service Act. Emma Bogard, personnel director for the city, had encouraged council members to vote to support the proposed amendments, which would change the code on several issues.

"The fire department does not support this, the firefighters don't support this," Brown said. "I've heard no complaints (about the code), and I think it would be unjust that you would pass it if citizens haven't complained."

Bogard questioned the League's interest in modifying the code, saying they were "up to something."

Bogard said the amendments would "clean up" the code. Proposed amendments would require hearing officers to have specified training, make disciplinary demotions immediate, and require a majority of all qualified voters in the city to repeal civil service.

The council voted to support the amendments by a vote of 4-3. Pat Deanda, Chuck Condray and Gail Earls voted "no."

Municipal judge submits resignation

By DEBBIE LINCEUM

Municipal Court Judge Gwen Fair said she's going to miss "a lot of people" when she officially resigns her post Dec. 31.

Fair, after four years on the bench and 15 years as the court clerk, announced her plans to resign on Monday.

"I never had a problem with anybody," said Fair, the first black woman to serve in the post in Howard County. "I put it into a context that I had been court clerk for 10 years; and I always went by my last name — fair."

She said she plans to go back home to Washington, D.C. after helping to familiarize her replacement with the job.

"It took several months for me to come to this decision," Fair said. "It was a very hard (decision) to make."

After making the decision to leave, Fair said she mailed letters to the city councilmembers and hand-carried a copy to City Manager Hal Boyd. Boyd announced her plans at Tuesday's council meeting.

Mayor Maxwell Green said "it is regrettable that she is resigning because she was doing a good job." He said he had not received Fair's official letter of resignation.

Owners demand flags' removal

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents of an apartment complex say the owner is being unpatriotic and unfair in ordering them to remove U.S. flags they have been flying to support troops taking part in Operation Desert Shield.

Some of the original 29 flags have been taken down at the Plantation Apartments in the Galleria area, but many awaited today's deadline.

Apartment manager Martha Smith said residents violated a provision of their leases against drilling holes in outside walls to put up the flags.

"I think it's kind of un-American," said resident Brenda Harrah, who said the complex allows residents to display Halloween decorations and even holds a Christmas door-decorating contest. "You can hang a skeleton on your door, but you can't hang the American flag."

Residents received notices Monday and Tuesday in a note from the apartment's management that the flags must be removed by today.

Mexico wants U.S. officers

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican authorities say they have started prosecution of two Texas lawmen on charges of illegally bringing two Mexican men to the United States to face murder charges.

The Mexican attorney general's office said Tuesday they are seeking to extradite the two men to Mexico.

The allegations are similar to those of an April case that damaged U.S.-Mexican relations: Mexico charged U.S. officials with arranging the kidnapping of a Mexican doctor accused of helping murder a U.S. drug agent.

The former chief of Coahuila state judicial police, Angel Joaquin Lugo Castaneda, was arrested Saturday in the case and was jailed, and two lower-ranking Mexican police were charged, according to a news release.

The news release Tuesday said the Foreign Ministry "is seeking the immediate extradition of the U.S. policemen," identified as Mitch Woods and Frank Collazo of Beaumont.

Police nab 70 in gang sweep

EL PASO (AP) — Police arrested 70 alleged gang members in classrooms and homes in a citywide sweep to curb gang violence that has claimed seven lives this year.

Police compiled 120 arrest warrants over two months for crimes ranging from aggravated assault to defacing property with graffiti. The warrants were used for Tuesday's mass arrests.

Of the 70 arrested, 19 were juveniles. The majority were charged with assault. No weapons were confiscated, but Lt. Eddie Ortega said police were not looking for property.

Since April 1, police have made 400 gang-related arrests, but that didn't curb the violence, said Lt. Jim Carney, commander of the Tactical Section.

Pincher slapped with fines

LUBBOCK (AP) — A New Mexico oil field worker has probably learned to keep his hands to himself after pinching the buttocks of an American Airlines flight attendant.

Jay Scott Curtis, 25, of Hobbs, N.M., wasn't slapped across the face, but he was slapped with $775 in fines after pleading guilty to the charge.

Curtis was among eight oil field workers who allegedly boarded an American Airlines flight intoxicated and later were indicted on charges of interference with a flight crew.

Curtis was sentenced Friday after pleading guilty to the one count of simple assault.

Southland files for bankruptcy

DALLAS (AP) — Southland Corp., the nation's largest convenience store chain, filed a bankruptcy petition and a prepackaged reorganization plan early today.

The parent of the 7-Eleven convenience store chain said it intends to complete a restructuring under Chapter 11 as the company has received from its debt holders and equity holders sufficient percentage of votes for a prepackaged reorganization plan to be confirmed by the bankruptcy court.

A syndicate of lenders has agreed to provide Southland up to $400 million in debtor-in-possession (DIP) financing.

Southland spokeswoman Cecilia Stubbs Norwood said the company intends to use the funds as working capital to purchase necessary inventories and to continue the company's other normal operating activities.

The company said that of those security holders voting on the prepackaged reorganization plan, an aggregate of approximately 89 percent of the outstanding principal amount of debt securities and approximately 90 percent of the outstanding shares of preferred stock voted to accept the plan.

Southland has asked for a bankruptcy court hearing on Dec. 10 for the confirmation of the prepackaged reorganization plan.

If confirmed, the plan would give Southland security-holders approximately 25 percent of the company's common stock. Southland bondholders would receive new notes and, in certain cases, cash.

The company also said it is immediately filing motions in bankruptcy court to seek approval to assume existing 7-Eleven franchises and area licensee agreements; pay employee salaries and wages; and continue existing employee benefit plans and pay pre-petition debt in full to all suppliers who agree to provide the company with customary credit terms during the bankruptcy case.

"In the light of the results of the exchange offers and the high level of support we have received for our prepackaged reorganization plan, we believe this is the best alternative to complete a financial restructuring quickly," said Clark Matthews, Southland's chief financial officer. "We hope to obtain court approval of the prepackaged reorganization plan as soon as possible."

"Upon confirmation of our plan and consummation of our new Stock Purchase Agreement, we will go forward with a more manageable debt load, as well as the capital we need to remain at the top of the competitive convenience retailing industry," Matthews added.

Dallas-based Southland has been staggered by the debt brought on by its $4.9 billion leveraged buyout in 1987. The company also faces increasing competition from proliferating convenience stores run by major oil companies.

Analysts have been predicting that Southland would be unable to avoid filing for bankruptcy protection from creditors. The company has been trying to avoid bankruptcy since March, when it announced it would sell a majority stake to Ito-Yokado Co. Ltd. and Seven-Eleven Japan Co. Ltd., its Japanese franchisees.

The Japanese investors would provide $430 million in new cash in exchange for the stock in the reorganized company.

Veep praises troops for Middle East role

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle concluded a day of campaigning for Republicans with a pep talk to military troops and praise for international opposition to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

"Desert Shield is not about cheap oil. It is about the future of all nations," Quayle said Tuesday night. "It is a question of whether we'll live in a world governed by law or by the rule of the jungle."

Quayle spoke to about 300 troops and their families at Kelly Air Force Base, where dozens of military personnel were clad in sand-colored desert camouflage clothes and hats. An Air Force band played patriotic music as Quayle arrived by plane.

His San Antonio stop was the last of a four-city swing through Texas to campaign for U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and other Republicans, including gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams. Earlier Tuesday Quayle visited Victoria, Corpus Christi and Houston.

"Our hearts and prayers are with the men and women who are there and for their families," Quayle said of Operation Desert Shield. "We are there to stop Saddam Hussein and to stop the naked aggression of Iraq invading Kuwait, and the world is united against Saddam Hussein."

The vice president also remembered the Air Force reservists from Kelly killed recently in a C-5 cargo plane crash in Germany while taking part in the Middle East buildup.

"We salute their heroism, and we will never, never forget them," Quayle said.

At a fund-raising dinner for Gramm, Quayle defended the Bush administration's stance on a Civil Rights bill passed by Congress and vetoed by the president.

"This president is committed to civil rights, and he wants to sign a civil rights bill," Quayle said. "But he will not sign a quota bill."

Quayle also criticized Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards, and asked voters to recall her remarks about then presidential candidate George Bush during the keynote address at the Democratic national convention.

"Just remember what she said about our president," Quayle said. "Remember what Democrats do when they become governor. Just look at the state of Massachusetts."

Discussing the federal budget standoff, Quayle blasted congressional Democrats, saying they are responsible for the budget chaos and are trying to place too much tax burden on working families.

Oldest female veteran dies

DALLAS (AP) — Dora Baker Kelley, an Army nurse during World War I and the nation's oldest known female veteran, died in her sleep at age 102.

Mrs. Kelley, who joined the Army Nurse Corps in 1918, died Monday at the Dallas Veteran's Administration Medical Center, where she had been recovering from a stroke she suffered about a month ago.

"She was doing fine, she was alert," said Rick DuCharme, hospital spokesman. "Everyone fell in love with her."

DuCharme said Mrs. Kelley was determined to be the oldest known female veteran based on records of those receiving benefits.

Mrs. Kelley was born on Dec. 6, 1887, in Hamilton County, Texas, about 60 miles northwest of Waco, according to service records.

She attended Baylor School of Nursing and was graduated in 1917. Mrs. Kelley joined the Army Nurse Corps in 1918 and served Camp Travis near San Antonio.

Discharged in 1919, she worked in a small hospital in her home county and then in Temple, Texas, eventually joining the Veteran's Administration in Detroit as a nurse.

That same year, she married soldier Patrick Jay Kelley, who died in 1928.

Mrs. Kelley continued working for the VA in Muskogee, Okla., until her retirement in 1949.

Parmer charges ethics violation

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic senatorial nominee Hugh Parmer says if no one else does it, he will file an ethics complaint against U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, saying the Republican received an illegal gift.

Gramm's spokesman Larry Neal said the charge was "laughable."

The dispute is over 1.3 acres of lakefront land near Corsicana that Gramm bought in 1983 for $25,000 on a loan he received at 8 percent interest.

Parmer said the cost of the land and interest rate were below market value and that Gramm should have reported the transaction as a gift on his public disclosure statements.

In addition, he said, the gift was illegal because the lender, Dr. Paul Gibson, was at the time director of First Republic Bank of Corsicana, which had a political action committee in Washington that lobbied members of Congress.

"It is illegal for members of Congress to receive gifts from persons with a direct interest in legislation before Congress," Parmer said.

"I can't see any plausible way ... the Senate Ethics Committee could fail to discipline Senator Gramm for this transaction. It is a clear-cut, flagrant violation of the rules," Parmer said.

But Neal responded, "Sen. Gramm paid full asking price for the Corsicana land at an interest rate that was absolutely appropriate for raw, undeveloped

Quake closes roads in California

LEE VINING, Calif. (AP) — Three of the four roads into Yosemite National Park remained closed today after a strong earthquake triggered rockslides that blocked traffic lanes. No injuries were immediately reported.

The wide-ranging quake late Tuesday was felt from San Francisco to Nevada, shaking up casinos and hotels in South Lake Tahoe and Reno.

The quake struck at 11:15 p.m. Tuesday and measured a preliminary 5.8 on the Richter scale, said Pat Jorgenson, spokeswoman for the U.S. Geological Survey.

It was centered in this Sierra Nevada town of 400 people just east of Yosemite and about 190 miles northwest of San Francisco, Jorgenson said.

"It was a rolling, strong jolt and lasted about 25 seconds," said Robin Bergmann, a resident of Manteca, about 120 miles from Lee Vining.

Two highways into Yosemite from the west and one highway into the park from the east — the Tioga Pass road — were closed by rockslides, said Darlene Hales, a park dispatcher. The park remained open, with access via a highway from the south.

"We had lots of calls but no reports of injury," said Mono County Sheriff's Deputy Suzanne Sturdivant, who said the quake lasted about 45 seconds.

Syrena Styff, an employee at Harrah's in Reno, said guests reported feeling dizzy.

New balloon technique opens tubes

CHICAGO (AP) — A new device that opens blocked fallopian tubes with a tiny balloon can offer a simpler and cheaper method for helping infertile women become pregnant, doctors reported today.

However, the technique is designed for a particular type of blockage, present among only 10 percent of the estimated 1 million American women who have blocked fallopian tubes.

The procedure, which requires neither surgery nor general anesthesia, is similar to the use of balloons to open the clogged arteries of heart patients, according to the report in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The balloon is mounted on a flexible tube called a catheter and threaded through the womb into one of the fallopian tubes, which connect the uterus to the ovaries. Once the balloon is in place, doctors inflate it to open the passage.

Dr. Edmond Confino, the study's lead author and director of education in obstetrics and gynecology at Mount Sinai Hospital Medical Center in Chicago, said the procedure could reduce by two-thirds the cost of treating women with blockages, who now usually choose between microsurgery or test-tube fertilization.

The procedure is expected to cost a third as much as test-tube fertilization, which totals about $6,000, succeeds about 20 percent of the time and results in only a single pregnancy. Microsurgery, in which the patient's abdomen is opened, typically costs up to $10,000, Confino said.

Bush veto angers Black leaders

ATLANTA (AP) — Months ago, President Bush was "talking the talk." But in the language of the civil rights movement, "talking the talk" must be accompanied by "walking the walk," and now Bush is seen as walking the wrong way.

Civil rights leaders bitterly accused the president of betrayal for vetoing, as expected, a major anti-discrimination bill Monday. Bush said the measure would have led to hiring quotas, something sponsors dispute.

In Washington, Jesse Jackson said the veto was "a call to a return to massive direct action." He said that could include street demonstrations and other forms of non-violent protest. Jackson accused Bush of "a closed-door policy and he has a closed-mind policy — he is betraying the American dream."

JESSE JACKSON

Coretta Scott King, widow of Martin Luther King Jr., said Tuesday the president had wandered to "those who profit from discrimination." She said the veto "demonstrates racist attitudes among those who call the shots in the White House."

LAHORE, Pakistan — Large billboards depict candidates for prime minister of Pakistan, People's Democratic Alliance head Benazir Bhutto, right, and Islamic Democratic Alliance head Nawaz Sharif, on the main street of Lahore, capital of Pakistan's largest province. Bhutto had been dismissed by President Ghulam Ishaq Khan in August on charges of corruption. The election, in progress today, reports an unexpectedly light voter turnout.

U.S. plans slow troop withdrawal from Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviets are withdrawing, Koreans and Filipinos are protesting and costs in Japan are enormous. But the United States says any reduction of its big troop presence in Asia will be slow and limited.

Critics accuse the Defense Department of looking for new threats now that the Soviet Union has begun major pullouts of troops, ships and aircraft east of the Ural Mountains.

Backers of a strong U.S. force say it will prevent any country from dominating the region and ensure that the world's richest trade routes remain open.

In February, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney announced a 10 percent cut in Asian-based troops over three years, and the latest round of planned bases closings includes nine small facilities in South Korea and one in Japan.

A U.S. military spokesman in Hawaii, Lt. Col. Thomas Boyd, said very few soldiers actually have been removed from Asia to date.

"We're still in the stage of deciding who's going to be moved," he said.

Cheney says the bulk of American forces will stay.

"I think our presence in the Western Pacific is in everybody's interest," he said in a speech last month. "It dampens down the enthusiasm others might feel if, in fact, the United States wasn't there in terms of their desire to move in and fill the vacuum."

The United States now has 50,000 military personnel in Japan, 44,400 in South Korea and 14,800 in the Philippines. An additional 25,800 are on ships of the Japan-based U.S. 7th Fleet.

The main justification for a big U.S. presence in Asia has shifted from one of defense against Soviet aggression to a role that a Defense Department report describes as "regional balancer, honest broker and ultimate security guarantor."

Noting that cross-Pacific trade totals more than $300 billion a year — 50 percent more than U.S.-European trade — the report says, "It is in our own best interest to help preserve peace and stability."

Other justifications include continued racial and ethnic tensions, unresolved territorial disputes, advancing weapons technology, continued arms sales and illegal drug trafficking.

Critics say Asians can protect themselves.

"Since the Cold War is over and a Soviet invasion is no longer credible, military officials in the U.S. have been scrambling to find new enemies and threats to justify maintaining extensive military forces in the Pacific," said a report by the private Center for Defense Information.

The center, led by retired senior military officers, long has been critical of U.S. military buildups around the world. It issued successive reports in recent months calling for U.S. troop withdrawals from Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

The key exception to official support of the U.S. presence among America's Asian allies has emerged in the Philippines, where talks are to resume next month over the two largest U.S. foreign bases, Clark Air Base and Subic Naval Base.

Bombs kill six in Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Bombs exploded simultaneously before dawn today at two checkpoints near the Irish border, killing at least six security forces members and injuring 27 people, mostly soldiers, authorities said.

The Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the 4:12 a.m. attacks, the domestic news agency Press Association reported.

One person was killed by the bomb detonated at a checkpoint at Newry, a village about 40 miles south of Belfast on the main road between Belfast and Dublin.

Five were killed in the other blast, which targeted a checkpoint near Londonderry, 65 miles northwest of Belfast.

Both posts have been attacked by the IRA several times.

Police said that in both cases the bombs were driven to the checkpoints by civilians acting under IRA threat. Police said a 65-year-old man drove a van to the security checkpoint outside Newry, jumped out of the vehicle and shouted: "There's a bomb in the van!"

Before police, soldiers and the driver had time to get clear, the bomb exploded. The driver suffered a broken leg.

Staff at Altnagelvin Hospital treating casualties from the attack near Londonderry said two people were dead on arrival and three other soldiers died at the scene.

Canadians beat U.S. to recession

TORONTO (AP) — Canadians abhor being seen as following in American footsteps, and this time they got out in front by officially tumbling into recession on their own. The United States, however, may not be far behind.

Finance Minister Michal Wilson, after weeks of dodging the dread "R" word, finally acknowledged to a House of Commons committee Monday night that Canada had slipped into a recession, though he expected it to be short.

The country's largest bank, the Royal Bank of Canada, also predicted negative growth for the third and fourth quarters of this year, saying a slow recovery would begin next year.

Wilson said the current recession would be nothing like the 1981-82 version, which involved a precipitous drop into a "black hole."

"The partial information that is now available for the third quarter, together with some major work stoppages, the crisis in the Middle East and the weakening U.S. economy, suggest a further decline in output," Wilson said. "However, we do not expect this to be a severe recession."

Dr. Edward Neufeld, chief economist at the Royal Bank, said the current situation differed from the 1981-82 recession in that the economy since 1988 has slipped slowly into economic malaise and will work its way out slowly.

Neufeld said the Canadian economy has never gone into recession when the American economy did not "no matter how far back you want to look."

The opposition in the Canadian Parliament has blamed the conservative government's policy of high interest rates — an effort to cure inflation — for the recession.

Israeli troops seal borders today

TIGHT SECURITY

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops sealed the borders of the occupied territories today in an effort to curb a wave of bloody revenge attacks by Arabs and Jews.

An order from Defense Minister Moshe Arens banned the nearly 1.7 million Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip from entering Israel.

Late Tuesday, police accompanied Gaza-bound cars carrying some of the estimated 100,000 Palestinian workers in Israel.

"The consideration that brought it about was to try to defuse the tension and pacify the wave of violence," said Defense Ministry spokesman Dan Naveh.

He said the order would "last for several days only" and should not seriously affect the troubled Israeli economy.

No, we won't show the photos

Just when we began to breathe a sigh of relief for the hiatus in the Mapplethorpe obscenity saga, Garry Trudeau seemingly bit the hand that feeds him in Sunday's cartoon section with a strip satirizing news editors' handling of the story.

We choose to carry the Doonesbury cartoons because they are usually clever and generally thought-provoking. Naturally, we don't always agree with the opinions expressed, but that's not a criteria for judging their value in our cartoon pages.

Trudeau hit home Sunday when he pointedly indicated that we have talked quite a bit about the Mapplethorpe exhibit, trial and so-called obscene photos, while refusing to print copies so our readers can judge for themselves.

He's absolutely right. And incidentally, the artist himself left the blank spaces in the cartoon strip — they were not edited out by us.

We have seen copies of the questionable photos. They present an intriguing glimpse of an alien view of the world and self. They are sad, fascinating, provocative, and they challenge the viewer to define sexuality. We did not find them to be obscene, nor did the jury in Cincinnati.

Nevertheless, they do not belong in a newspaper which, we hope, is read by the entire family.

Viewers have a choice about going into a gallery to see the works on display. If they don't want to be exposed to Mapplethorpe's works, they can elect to stay away. Or they can refuse to view photos they find objectionable.

Our readers don't have quite the same choices. We don't want you, or your children, to open the paper and discover that the stories you want to read are surrounding a photo that many consider to be in highly questionable taste.

It's not a matter of censorship so much as an effort to offer a product with the broadest appeal to our market.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Oh, deer the hunt is on Deer hunting season began Saturday. According to an article I read, there'll be more guys with guns in the woods in my environs just Saturday than there are American troops in Saudi Arabia. I'll sleep well tonight knowing I'm not only safe from Saddam Hussein, but from the ferocious deer as well.

There was some other deer news in the papers. A jury in Maine brought back an innocent verdict against a deer hunter charged with manslaughter. He's out in the woods of Maine and he sees something white, so he takes a couple of shots.

What he saw was a young mother of infant twins, who was in her back yard wearing white mittens. She died from the gunshots.

In her back yard!

A portion of the hunter's defense, I read, was that the dead woman wasn't a native of Maine and didn't know about all the hunting that went on and should not have been in her back yard wearing white mittens.

I'm really not against deer hunting, per se, but I've said all along it could be a much fairer sport (if killing anything can be called a sport) if they would just change some of the rules of the game.

So I have put some great thought into this and can now offer you Grizzard's Revised Rules of Hunting Down Deer and Blowing Them Away:

RULE NO. 1: If you kill a deer, you have to eat it. None of this trophy killing or shooting a deer for the sheer thrill of seeing it fall.

We kill cows so that we can have hamburger, so killing a deer in order to have something good to eat, I think, is OK.

An addendum to Rule No. 1 is you have to eat the entire deer if you kill it. OK, you don't have to eat the pancreas or the large intestines, but whatever's edible you've got to eat it all.

Addendum No. 2 to Rule No. 1 is you can't kill a second deer until you've eaten all your first one.

If you kill a second deer, a game warden will be sent to your house to check out your freezer and make certain there was none of the first deer left.

If you kill a second deer before you eat all the first one, you have to eat the pancreas of the second one, but you can prepare it anyway you wish. I am a fair man.

RULE NO. 2: You have to hunt in the nude. The deer aren't dressed, are they? All that camouflage is nothing but trickery and should not be allowed if this thing is to be truly fair. I realize you might get a little nippy out there, and there's all those briars and barbed wire fences, but, hey, this ain't no Easter egg hunt.

RULE NO. 3: Forget Uzis and bazookas. You can have only one bullet when you go hunting.

Barney had only one bullet and Andy didn't even carry a gun and they kept Mayberry safe. Sorry, pal, you missed. Go home and get another bullet and you can try tomorrow.

RULE NO. 4: If you do happen to shoot another person by mistake, it would be quite tacky to ask the family of the departed to allow you to have the head of the victim to put on the wall in the den. Except in Maine, where it's sort of expected.

RULE NO. 5: You cannot at any time say you hunt deer because you (1) are doing the deer a favor by killing them because if you don't there'll be too many deer and a lot of them will starve; or (2) it's your way of communing with nature.

If you're worried about the deer starving, why not take some food into the woods and feed the poor things instead of killing them?

And if all you want to do is commune with nature, get a pair of binoculars and go watch birds. That way if you spot a redheaded, three-toed, black-billed ratbird, there are no rules you have to eat the darn thing, as there are in deer hunting.

RULE NO. 6: If you do not follow Rules 1 through 5, the next time you're in the woods, may Smokey the Bear eat you for your hat, which is what he's been doing to Boy Scouts for years.

Jefferson and the Kitty Kat

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
WASHINGTON — Darlene Miller, Gayle Sutro and Carla Johnson want to dance in the nude in Indiana. Michael Barnes, prosecuting attorney of St. Joseph County, threatens to put them in jail for indecency if they do.

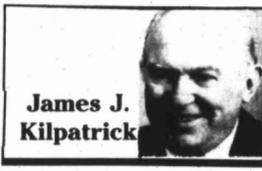

Out of this insignificant controversy the Supreme Court may yet fashion a landmark decision. The case could well bring a major pronouncement on First Amendment freedoms.

Over the years the court has had a good deal to say about freedom of the press, which involves the printed word. The court has decided many cases on freedom of speech, which involves the spoken word. Since 1952 the court has been creeping into an ill-defined area of freedom of expression, which seems to involve just about anything — movies, plays, painting, music, silent picketing, flag burning, the wearing of black arm bands as a form of protest, and so on.

But nude dancing at the Kitty Kat Lounge? What would Thomas Jefferson say?

The Indiana case will mark the fourth time the high court has grappled with the issue. In 1972 the court held that it was "not irrational" for California to prohibit topless and bottomless dancing in bars, but the decision did not involve First Amendment freedoms. The case went off on the state's power under the Twenty-first Amendment to regulate liquor licensees.

Significantly, however, Justice William Rehnquist noted that all nine justices agreed that "at least some of the performances are within the limits of the constitutional protection of freedom of expression." But the court was not ready "to insist that the bacchanalian revelries that (California) sought to prevent were the constitutional equivalent of a performance by a scantily clad ballet troupe in a theater."

A few years later, in the 1975 case of Doran v. Salem Inn, the court looked at topless dancers in three bars in North Hempstead, N.Y. The trouble here was that the town's ordinance was overly broad. It prohibited females from appearing "in any public place" with uncovered breasts.

In speaking for the court, Rehnquist upheld an injunction against enforcement of the law. Even though nude dancing in a barroom "may involve only the barest minimum of protected expression," under some circumstances it might qualify as a First Amendment freedom.

The issue returned in 1981, when the court nullified an ordinance in the Borough of Mount Ephraim, in Camden County, N.J. This was a zoning ordinance, banning live entertainment altogether within the borough. The court held 7-2 that zoning laws could not be employed to prohibit "a wide range of expression."

Justice John Paul Stevens was plainly uncomfortable with the decision. He got off a memorable metaphor: "The foliage of the First Amendment," he said, "may cast protective shadows over some forms of nude dancing."

ing," but he was not happy with the record in the case.

Now the court will try again, and this time the issue is framed, unadorned, under the First Amendment. The Indiana law deals with "public indecency." It treats nudity as conduct, not as speech. The Seventh Circuit, with three judges strongly dissenting, found the law unconstitutional. Nude dancing is a form of protected expression, the majority held, even though the expression in the Kitty Kat Lounge may be an expression of lustful desire.

In a concurring opinion, Circuit Judge Richard A. Posner lambasted the Indiana law as an "indefensible threat to artistic freedom." Barroom dancing may not be as classy as ballet, but such aesthetic judgments are irrelevant.

Circuit Judge Richard D. Cudahy also concurred, but reluctantly. To treat nude dancing as free speech, he said, is to "trivialize" the First Amendment. Clearly, "the message of the striptease is not a subject the Founding Fathers had in mind."

My own feeling was best expressed by former Chief Justice Warren Burger in the Mount Ephraim case: "To say that there is a First Amendment right to impose every form of expression on every community, including the kind of expression involved here, is sheer nonsense."

Since Mount Ephraim in 1981, Justices O'Connor, Scalia, Kennedy and Souter have come aboard. They have not yet explored the outer limits of freedom of expression. In pondering high life at the Kitty Kat Lounge, they will have that opportunity now.

The costs of spreading the word

By BILL AYRES
City Editor

In this age of cable TV, computers, and fax machines, one thing seems to remain the same. The flood of press releases turned out daily on every subject imaginable never seems to slow.

Most are simply a notice to inform the media of some event that is planned or the results of a meeting that took place some time ago.

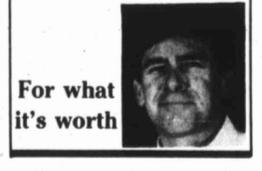

During an election year, however, the number of releases seems to multiply. Every candidate, regardless of the race, seems to think every word he spouts is worthy of publication.

The more money a candidate has to spend, the more he depends on his public relations firm to keep his name in the press.

And what about products? Every time a company changes, improves or introduces a product, the press releases begin to fly. Sometimes a sample is included with the release to back the claim that the product is worthy of mention.

But what about the cost? Think about it for a minute. If you own a business that manufactures a simple, inexpensive product and you run your business rather efficiently so that your overhead is not too great, but your company name is not well-known, what do you do?

You can advertise. But national advertising is out of the reach of all but the big corporations. So, how do you reach the most people without having to spend a huge portion of your operations budget? Public relations.

For what it's worth

Each section contained high quality black and white photos of the individual vehicles, plus detailed spec sheets that list all the features, standard equipment and optional equipment.

In addition, a multi-page press release describing the vehicle is also included.

Each section contains subsections that list the various models, each in its own full-color folder. Again, something real nice.

After you wade through all the various sections, you come to a section entitled "Highlights". This section has more press releases that give an overview of everything you just read. But, it also has the name of the persons responsible for producing the packet and, even more importantly, a postage-paid postcard you can send to request color transparencies or technical illustrations of each type of vehicle.

All this comes at no cost. At least not one we see.

If this packet is sent to all the dealers, larger newspapers, advertising agencies and radio and tv stations, just think what the total cost might be. Of course, you have to add the public relations firm's fee for producing the packet in the first place.

I don't know about the rest of the country, but I'd rather be informed less about the plush interior or custom instrument package and see cheaper prices.

Oh, by the way, in that entire information packet, there was not a price listed anywhere.

I think I know where they could cut the price a little.

And that's for what it's worth!

Study shows role of genetics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Genetics, not the social class of a family, is the strongest influence on intelligence, according to a study of identical twins who were raised separately.

The study, published in the journal Science, said that twins who were raised separately scored close to the same values in their intelligence tests given as adults.

Thomas J. Bouchard, a University of Minnesota professor who directed the study, said it shows that inherited characteristics are the most powerful contributor to intelligence. He and his colleagues found that 70 percent of the influence on IQ scores was genetics and only about 30 percent was a result of environment.

Genetics, not the social class of a family, is the strongest influence on intelligence, according to a study of identical twins who were raised separately.

This suggests, the study said, "While 70 percent of the variation in IQ in this group is due to genetic factors, that still leaves considerable room for environmental influences," Bouchard said. "But whatever those influences are, social class isn't one of them." — Thomas J. Bouchard, University of Minnesota professor found to influence IQ scores for the young, but not among adults.

They do indicate that, in the current environments of the broad middle class, in industrialized societies, two-thirds of the observed variance of IQ can be traced to genetic variation," the study said.

The study also evaluated the attitudes, interests and personalities of the raised-apart twins and found what was called "remarkable similarity."

Childhood environmental influences also seemed to have little effect on physical and emotional traits. Identical twins, the study said, "are about equally similar on most physiological and psychological traits, regardless of rearing status."

Bouchard's study is in conflict with some earlier separated twins studies.

FORDSVILLE, Ky. — Clown members of the Ritz Shrine Temple of Madisonville participated Monday as pallbearers for Richard "Dick" Brunner, 69, a fellow member and clown, who died Saturday of leukemia. It was Brunner's wish to be buried as a clown by his fellow members.

Clown is buried in red nose

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) — There was a lot of clowning around at the funeral, but everybody knew that's how the departed would have wanted it. In fact, Patches the Clown had insisted on it.

Patches, also known as Richard Eugene "Dick" Brunner, was buried Monday in his trademark black derby, patched suit and polka-dot tie. His nose was covered with bright red clown paint.

Brunner, 69, was laid to rest in a casket festooned with balloon animals. He was carried to his grave in a hearse painted with pictures of clowns and balloons.

Brunner, who died Saturday in a Nashville, Tenn., hospital, had told a friend of his funeral plans in June after learning he was dying of leukemia.

"I said, 'If that's what you want, have at it,'" said Marvin Melhiser, a fellow member of the Shriners organization for which Brunner performed as a clown.

So Brunner's funeral opened with a recording of "Send in the Clowns," a cue that brought 17 clowns into the chapel. They handed out balloon animals to mourners.

"He always had a joke, always had a smile," recalled fellow clown Al Arnold.

Procrastinators of the year announced

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Some criticize the snail's pace of the budget talks on Capitol Hill. Others give it their highest praise.

The Procrastinators Club of America has given its Procrastinator of the Year award to President Bush and Congress.

The club, which champions delayed decisions and postponed projects, announced the honor Wednesday — and said it will begin working on a ceremony for the winners sometime in 1992. Or maybe later.

Bush and Congress did "an outstanding job" of putting things off, said club president Les Waas.

"The procrastinators were aware of what was going on with our taxes because we eventually read Bush's lips," Waas said. "But we also like Congress, and people in politics, because they are just like us, they procrastinate."

The Procrastinators Club, established in 1956 by employees at a Philadelphia advertising agency, says it has about 8,500 members and half-million who haven't found the time to sign up.

The award was accompanied by advice from the president and Congress: "Spend the money first," Waas said, "then determine the budget later. That way, they will always come out even and without any need for quibbling."

Previous winners included comedian Jack Benny for putting off turning 40 for so many years and topless dancer Julie Gibson — the first winner in 1957 — for always putting things off.

Latest crime in Oregon pine forests is mushroom rustling

GRANTS PASS, Ore. (AP) — To the ranks of poachers, marijuana growers and timber thieves, rangers in Oregon's forests can add a new foe — wild mushroom rustlers.

The mushrooms, which grow in the ponderosa pine forests of Oregon's Cascade Range, sell for as much as $40 a pound in Japan. With that kind of money to be made, those who are picking them illegally are armed and dangerous, rangers say.

"These doggone matsutaki mushrooms they are picking, what we commonly call pine mushrooms, they sell for a pretty high price in Japan," said Bill Reanier, agent in charge of law enforcement on the Winema National Forest.

"Many of the pickers out there, for whatever reason, are carrying handguns and what we call long knives," Reanier said. "The story we are getting out of them is they are doing it to protect themselves from other pickers who are out there trying to establish territorial rights."

Rangers have taken to wearing flak jackets and traveling in pairs through mushroom country.

This past picking season, rustlers descended in large numbers on both the Winema National Forest, where picking is legal with a permit, and Crater Lake National Park, where visitors are supposed to take nothing but pictures.

Rangers at Crater Lake seized 500 pounds of illegally picked mushrooms and handed out 15 citations, said Chief Ranger George Buckingham. Fines range from $25 for someone picking for himself to $250 for those picking for profit.

Rangers at Winema National Forest handed out a similar number of citations to those caught picking without permits. Two pickers were also turned over to state police after computer checks revealed they were wanted for other crimes. Reanier said most of the problems seem to be caused by itinerant pickers who follow the mushroom harvest down the Cascades from Canada to California.

"We've got some pretty unsavory people coming from the Oregon coast and up in the state of Washington," he said.

Local buyers pay $10 to $14 a pound for top-grade matsutakis, which are then resold in Japan, Reanier said.

"I talked to one buyer who said he had $50,000 in cash on him," he said.

Halloween fun Holiday treats for kids

Calling all scary pirates, funny clowns, ghouly ghosts and pretty princesses — it's time to cook up some October mischief with an at-home Halloween party.

Children revel in the spellbinding fun of Halloween get-togethers, and will soon realize that the real "thrills and chills" of Halloween can be had just as easily as they can be out trick or treating.

A bewitching buffet is easy to prepare with the help of enthusiastic youngsters. It's also a terrific opportunity to introduce children to the fun and creativity of cooking. Not only do youths learn more about food, but they also get to use their math skills when measuring and combining recipe ingredients.

Follow these suggestions for a ghostly good time. There are many recipes that can be prepared ahead. Witches' Buttons are tasty little pumpkin cookies for which the dough can be prepared a few days ahead and then baked the night before the party. Younger children can roll the dough into balls and use the end of a wooden spoon to make holes for the jelly filling.

Sloppy Joe Pumpkins are fun little sandwiches that kids will love to make. Have youths help make the sandwich filling, spoon into hollowed out rolls, and wrap in aluminum foil to form a pumpkin shape. If time is limited, the sandwiches can be prepared, unbaked, two days ahead. Just store in the refrigerator until ready to heat. Use a felt-tip marker to draw jack o' lantern faces on foil-wrapped sandwiches before warming them in the oven.

Famous Pumpkin Tarts are mini versions of traditional pumpkin pie. You and your family can mix and bake these 18 little tarts in just minutes. Personalize each tart with names of family members and any other party guests. Use them as "place cards" when decorating a dinner table, or serve them on a tray and let little ones find the tart with their name.

Children young and old will enjoy Halloween Coleslaw With Pumpkin Dressing, a colorful and slightly sweet slaw made with red and green cabbage, mandarin oranges, and shredded carrots and raisins. The light and creamy dressing featured canned pumpkin pie mix, cider vinegar and dry mustard. Use hollowed-out orange halves as mini bowls for the slaw.

Finally, prepare a festive party drink like Pumpkin Float Punch. Made with ice cream, canned pumpkin pie mix, sparkling cider and seltzer, this refreshing punch should be made just before guests arrive. Now, just decorate the hose with Halloween "touches," dress in costume, and prepare for a "hauntingly" good evening of family fun.

Each of these pumpkin treats features pumpkins pie mix that already contains sugar and spices, or natural, solid pack pumpkin.

Pumpkin is an excellent source of vitamin A and other valuable nutrients — as well as a good source of dietary fiber.

For additional recipes using pumpkin, send $1.98 and two labels from any Libby's pumpkin product to: Libby's Favorite Pumpkin Recipes, P.O. Box C1041, Young America, Minn. 55394-1041. Allow eight weeks for delivery.

SLOPPY JOE PUMPKINS

- 2 pounds lean ground beef
 - 1 1/2 cups (15 1/2-ounce can) Sloppy Joe sauce
 - 2 cups (8 ounces) shredded mild Cheddar cheese
 - 16 (3 1/2-inch) round rolls
- In 12-inch skillet, brown ground beef; drain well. Stir in Sloppy Joe sauce. Simmer, uncovered for 3 to 4 minutes; cool slightly. Stir in cheese. Cut thin slice off tops of rolls. Hollow out rolls, leaving 1/2-inch sides and bottom. Fill each roll with about 1/2 cup meat mixture; replace top. Cut foil into 12-inch squares; place roll in center. Bring up opposite corners, mold foil around roll to form pumpkin shape. Twist foil at top to make stem. With felt-tip marker, make pumpkin face on foil.

To heat: Place wrapped sandwiches on cookie sheet; warm in preheated 400 degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until heated through. Place in basket to serve.

HALLOWEEN COLESLAW WITH PUMPKIN DRESSING

Pumpkin Dressing:
 3/4 cup pumpkin pie mix
 1/3 cup cider vinegar
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Coleslaw:
 6 cups finely shredded green cabbage
 1 cup finely shredded red cabbage
 1 cup (11-ounce) can mandarin orange segments, drained
 1/2 cup shredded carrots cup raisins

To make dressing: In small bowl, combine pumpkin pie mix, vinegar, oil, mustard, salt and pepper; mix well. Refrigerate to allow flavors to blend.

To make coleslaw: In large bowl, combine green and red cabbage, orange segments, carrots and raisins. Just before serving, add dressing; toss until well coated.

Fill hollowed-out orange halves with coleslaw. Serve immediately or hold in refrigerator.

FAMOUS PUMPKIN TARTS

2 eggs, lightly beaten
 1 3/4 cups (16-ounce can) solid pack pumpkin
 3/4 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves
 1 1/2 cups (12-ounce can) undiluted evaporated milk
 18 prepared single-serving graham crusts
 Whipped cream, optional
 Pumpkin candy, optional

In large mixing bowl, combine eggs, pumpkin, sugar, salt, cinnamon, ginger, cloves and evaporated milk. Place crusts on cookie sheet. Pour 1/4 cup pumpkin mixture into each crust. Bake in preheated 350 degree F oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Top cooled tarts with small dollop of whipped cream and pumpkin candy, if desired.

Note: For personalized pumpkin tarts, using fine tip of prepared frosting in a tube, write guest's names on each tart.

WITCHES' BUTTONS

2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
 1/2 teaspoon ground mace

3/4 cup butter or margarine, softened

1/2 cup granulated sugar
 1/2 cup packed light brown sugar
 3/4 cup solid pack pumpkin
 1 egg
 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
 1/4 cup grape jelly
 1/4 cup apricot jam

In small bowl, combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon, nutmeg and mace; set aside. In large mixer bowl, cream butter and sugars. Add pumpkin, egg, and vanilla; beat until light and creamy. Add dry ingredients; mix well. Dough will be soft. Wrap dough in plastic wrap, shaping into 1-inch thick square. Chill 4 to 6 hours. Divide dough into 4 portions. Lightly dust 1 portion of dough with flour; cut into 1-inch squares (keep remaining dough chilled).

Roll into balls. Place on greased cookie sheet. Using handle of wooden spoon dipped in flour, make depression, 1/2-inch wide, in center of each cookie. Fill each cookie with approximately 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon grape jelly or apricot jam. Bake in preheated 350 degree F oven for 15 to 20 minutes, or until lightly browned. Immediately remove from cookie sheet; cool on wire rack. Repeat process with remaining dough.

PUMPKIN FLOAT PUNCH

1 quart softened vanilla ice cream
 2 1/2 cups pumpkin pie mix, divided
 1 bottle (approximately 25 ounces) non-alcoholic cider, chilled

1 bottle (approximately 33 ounces) seltzer, chilled

In large mixing bowl, combine ice cream and 1 1/2 cups pumpkin pie mix; stir until well blended. Freeze mixture for 2 hours. Beat with mixer or in food processor. Cover tightly; freeze additional 2 hours, or until firm and ready to serve. To serve: In 4-quart punch bowl or pitcher, gently stir together remaining pumpkin pie mix, cider, and seltzer. Scoop pumpkin ice cream into balls; add to punch. Serve immediately.

CARAMEL-NUT POPCORN CRUNCH

1 1/2 quarts popped corn
 1 cup pecans
 1/2 cup butter
 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
 1 cup brown sugar
 1/4 cup light corn syrup
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Spread popped corn and nuts in a large, shallow pan and place in preheated 250 degree F oven. Combine butter, brown sugar, syrup and salt in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring until sugar dissolves. Wash sugar from sides of pan with a wet brush. Boil until mixture reaches 248 degrees F (firm ball stage on candy thermometer), about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in soda. Pour mixture over corn and nuts, stirring gently to coat. Return glazed popcorn and nut mixture to oven and bake 45 minutes, stirring every 15 minutes. When cooled, pack in airtight tins.

McDonald's sells pizza

By CONNIE CASS

Associated Press Writer
 OWENSBORO, Ky. — Stacy McIntire and her visitors wanted something with cheese and sauce, so they did the obvious thing at a not-so-obvious place.

They went out for pizza — at McDonald's.
 "We had company over and we fed four people on two pizzas for something like $12," she said. "We went to the drive-through and didn't even have to get out of the car. We got it in five minutes."

Pizza, in the land of all-beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles, onions and sesame-seed buns? Is this a fast-food induced nightmare?

Not at all. McDonald's, which for years counted its hamburger sales in the billions, may soon be counting pizza, pasta and other non-traditional offerings in an attempt to boost sluggish U.S. dinner sales.

Owensboro's four Golden Arches and 10 others across the Ohio River in Evansville, Ind., are among 240 restaurants nationwide which are test-marketing tomato pies. The 12-inch pies also are being tested in Las Vegas; Hartford, Conn.; Fresno, Calif.; and suburbs of Chicago.

Fresh carrots and celery sticks are being test marketed in Pennsylvania and California, and McDonald's also is experimenting with fresh fruit and soups.

"Our customers are interested in a little more variety and more choices," said Melissa Oakley, spokeswoman at McDonald's Corp.'s Oak Brook, Ill., headquarters. "But we have to be very careful in what we choose. We're still committed to serving a limited menu."

McDonald's, held up by many as a model American corporation, has long been committed to test marketing. Salads, the McDLT and Chicken McNuggets made the grade; the Hulaburger, two slices of cheese with a slice of grilled pineapple on a toasted bun, did not.

Ms. Oakley noted that McDonald's tested salads for 10 years before introducing them in all of its 8,500 U.S. restaurants.

But Michael Mueller, a Montgomery Securities Inc. analyst who specializes in restaurants, says McDonald's has reasons to press ahead with pizza now — investors' complaints about the company's recent U.S. sales growth.

A pattern of progressively weaker domestic sales growth began in 1988 after peaking at 11.6 percent in 1987. A selloff of the company's stock followed release of second quarter results showing domestic sales of $6 billion for the first half of 1990.

Mistakes can cut patients to the quick

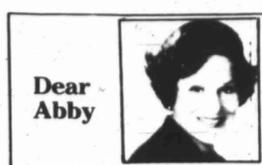

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from the woman who received a positive diagnosis of chlamydia. After 16 years of a completely faithful marriage, I, too, was diagnosed as having this sexually transmitted disease. Worse yet, I received a telephone call from the nursing assistant informing me that my name would be sent to the county health department, and I should have all my partners treated!

I was so shocked I could hardly speak! I asked if there was any other way I could have gotten such a disease and was told that it was transmitted only through sexual intercourse, and either I — or my partner — must have had sexual contact with someone who had the disease.

Two days later, I insisted that I be retested. The test came back negative!

My advice to the woman wondering about her spouse — wonder instead about your test results, the lab processing and the doctor's method of handling your case!

I recognize that medical staff

Dear Abby

ters from readers with tales of testing identical to yours. Chlamydia should always be tested by taking a culture.

DEAR ABBY: For almost 10 years, "Leon" has been my best friend. Leon has seen me through the death of a parent, an attempted suicide, a bout with cancer and the chemotherapy that followed.

Here is where I need your advice, Abby. I am getting married in a few months. I've selected my bridesmaids and flower girl, but I would like to have Leon stand up with me as my "man of honor." I've discussed this with my fiancé, and even though he thinks it sounds a bit odd, it's perfectly all right with him.

My mother, on the other hand, feels that I would be the laughingstock of our town. I say, if people want to laugh at a solid friendship, let them. Incidentally, Leon and I never were lovers, only very close friends.

What is your advice? Do you think it would be inviting rumors to have a man stand up with me? (My mother thinks so.)

My fiancé has offered to let Leon be an usher, but I want him to be there in the role of the person who has been the nearest and dearest friend of my adult life.

Please tell me your feelings. Would you frown upon such a choice? — KANSAS SUNFLOWER

DEAR SUNFLOWER: Would I frown on selecting a man to honor as your best friend? Certainly not! Friendship knows no gender. Some bridegrooms have a chosen "best woman" instead of "best man."

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Popularity Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. 1948 Hyperions host meeting

The 1948 Hyperion Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clayton Bettle, with Mrs. Jack Alexander as co-hostess.

Mrs. Dean Forrest, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Jerry Dudley, program leader for October, introduced Linda Conway, dean of Admissions at Howard College, who presented a video tape titled "45 years at Howard College." The tape, narrated by Bob Lewis, uses photos and newspaper clippings to show growth and accomplishments during the 45 years of the college's existence. After the tape, Conway shared information about other facets of the college and answered questions from the group.

During the business meeting that followed the program, each member was asked to bring a gift to the next meeting. These are to be used at the Corral for bingo prizes.

Refreshments were served to 21 members and two guests, Mrs. Gary Sims and Conway.

The next meeting will be Nov. 15 at the home of Mrs. Morris Rhodes, with Mrs. Ed Shive as co-hostess.

"Join Nutri/System This Week and Pay $100 for each Lb. You Want To Lose."

"I've tried to lose weight in the past, but I never got too far — I always gained it back. Then I went to Nutri/System. They are the only ones that taught me how to get the weight off and keep it off. The counselors practically held my hand and guided me through the program. So losing and maintaining my weight for 7 months now was not a problem. Things have really turned around for me. My life is three things it wasn't before, great, great, and great."

Anniversary time for Bulldogs

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor
There will be a lot of proud athletes walking around June 29.

That date will mark the 25th anniversary of the Spike Dykes-Coahoma Bulldogs era.

Steve's stuff
Dykes' football teams went undefeated in regular-season play.

Those athletes weren't just good football players, however. They also won more than 40 games in a two-year span in basketball.

The members of that class were: John Gibson, Tony Butler, Mike Hinsley, Mike Mosley, Lawrence Lepard, Bobby Pherigo, Bobby Weaver, Teddy Merrick, Dean Bohannon, Mike Butler, Marshall Williams and Howard Gregory.

Other members of that fantastic class were: Bobby Lindsey, Eddie Torres, Wayne Oglesby, Keith Hodnett, DeWayne Allen, Eddie McHugh, Travis Reid, Ted Clearley, Eddie Wolski, Joe Anderson, Wesley Wright, Troy Fraser, Terry Denton and Carl Dorton.

Hats off to the Cincinnati Reds for their World Series sweep over the Oakland Athletics.

But a team with the caliber of players Oakland has usually doesn't go sour all at once.

It all has to do with the odds. As you'll recall, Cincinnati started out the season scorching hot; nobody could touch them — except the San Francisco Giants, who owned them this season.

Meanwhile the A's started the season strong and finished strong. But what goes around comes around.

I agree with Oakland A's pitcher Dave Stewart. After the sweep Stewart said, "We'll back back next year, the question is — will Cincinnati?"

With so many NFL teams becoming so passing-minded, the days of a 1,700-yard rusher may soon be a passing fad.

Two familiar names made their debut Sunday. Bo Jackson carried 12 times for 53 yards in the LA Raiders win.

There are so some new kids on the block. Seattle rookie Derrick Finner leads the NFL with seven rushing TDs.

All-Star team has lots of new faces

NEW YORK (AP) — A question of what have they done lately could apply to those missing from The Associated Press baseball all-star team.

Excluded were 10 players who graced the 1989 team. Five of them — pitchers Bret Saberhagen of Kansas City and Joe Magrane of St. Louis.

Saberhagen plunged from 23-6 to 5-9 and Magrane was 10-17 after going 18-9.

Sandberg, the second baseman, was named to the team for the third consecutive year and the fourth time in the last five.

The team is evenly divided with six National Leaguers and six American Leaguers.

Also on the team are first baseman Cecil Fielder of Detroit, third baseman Matt Williams of San Francisco, shortstop Barry Larkin of Cincinnati, catcher Carlton Fisk of the Chicago White Sox.

Torborg manager of Year

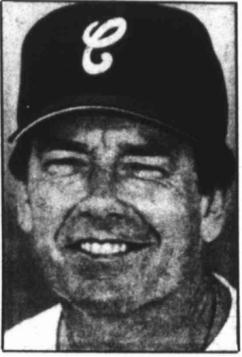

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Torborg directed his Chicago White Sox in a season-long chase for the American League West title.

Torborg, who led an amazing about-face by the White Sox, was named Manager of the Year today by The Associated Press.

Torborg took a team that finished last in 1989 with a 69-92 record and guided the White Sox to 94-68 in 1990 for the second-best record in the American League.

Torborg received 70 votes from a panel of 156 sportswriters and broadcasters across the nation.

JEFF TORBORG

Athletics in the World Series, was third with 20 votes, and Oakland's Tony LaRussa was fourth with 11.

Larkin of Cincinnati, catcher Carlton Fisk of the Chicago White Sox, outfielders Rickey Henderson of Oakland and Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla of Pittsburgh.

Puckett's absence is explained by his batting average, which fell from .339 in 1989 to .298.

This year's team is power-laden, averaging 29 homers per player, excluding pitchers.

Fielder made a sensational comeback to the majors this year after spending the 1989 season playing in Japan.

Sandberg, the NL's Most Valuable Player in 1984, led the senior-league in home runs and runs scored (116).

Larkin, one of the key performers in the Reds' first World Series championship season since 1976.

Williams, who led the NL in RBIs with 122, also hit 33 homers.

The flamboyant Henderson moved within two of Lou Brock's all-time stolen base record of 938 by swiping 65 to lead the AL.

Bonds hit .301 with 104 runs scored, 33 homers, 114 RBIs, 52 stolen bases and a .565 slugging percentage.

BELMONT, N.Y. — Go for Wand, a three-year-old filly owned by Jane Du Pont Lunger, rolls around in her pen at the Belmont Race Track.

Track. Lunger's horse will compete in the Breeder's Cup Saturday. Go for Wand is considered one of the race favorites.

Big Spring LB, Coahoma RB head list

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

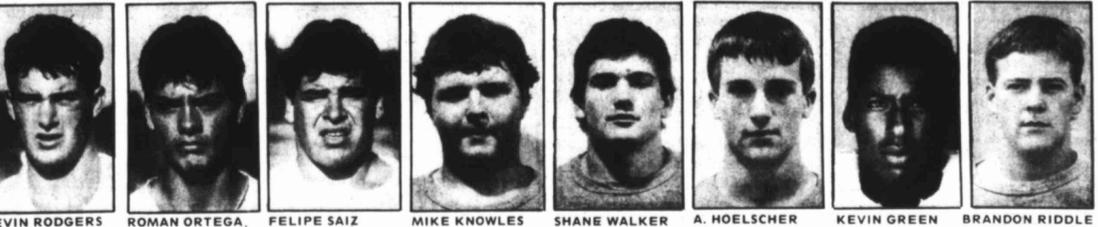

For the past two weeks the Big Spring Steers' defense has been real stingy, allowing six points.

One of the main characters in the Steers' sterling defensive performance was outside linebacker Kevin Rodgers.

He finished the game with five solo tackles, eight assists, including two quarterback sacks, one tackle behind the line of scrimmage, one quarterback pressure and one caused fumble.

For the second consecutive week, Coahoma Bulldogs halfback Shane Walker rushed for more than 150 yards.

Friday in Coahoma's 26-0 win over Eldorado, the 6-foot, 170-pounder rushed 31 times for 216-yards, scoring on runs of one, one, 48 and 24 yards. For his efforts, he's the Offensive Player of the Week.

In Garden City's 22-19 win over Bronte, tailback James Soles carried 24 times for 193 yards and one touchdown and caught a 61-yard scoring pass.

In Big Spring's 23-0 win over Fort Stockton, Neal Mayfield carried 18 times for 120 yards and scored all 23 points.

In Sand's 61-12 win over Dawson, Eric Herm rushed 10 times for 117 yards and three touchdowns. Pank Grigg carried five times for 87 yards and scored one TD, and also kicked seven of seven points after TDs.

In Stanton's 58-0 loss to Iraan, Gary Don Thompson carried 13 times for 98 yards.

In Grady's 54-6 romp over Loop, Gilbert Cortez carried 11 yards. Right tackle Thomas Sanchez was the key member in the line, which paved the way for 359 yards.

In Colorado City's 17-0 win over Kermit, running back Kevin Green carried eight times for 88 yards, including a 59-yard score.

In Borden County's 42-12 win over Ira, Jimmy Rios carried 18 times for 178 yards, scoring on runs of 37, 15 and 15 yards.

Top defensive performances were:

times for 140 yards and scored three TDs. He also caught a 39-yard pass.

In Klondike's 34-18 upset win over Wellman, Jamie Trotter caught five passes for 81 yards and a 18-yard TD.

In Borden County's 42-12 win over Ira, Jimmy Rios carried 18 times for 178 yards, scoring on runs of 37, 15 and 15 yards.

In Grady's win, linebacker Gilbert Cortez made 11 tackles and What feud? Pokes, Eagles act like there never was one

IRVING (AP) — Jimmy Johnson and Buddy Ryan aren't about to give away bulletin board ammunition.

So they were on their best behavior Tuesday when asked about each other.

Last year, Dallas coach Johnson was given a snowball salute by fans in Philadelphia after accusing the Eagles of trying to injure Luis Zendejas for a bounty at Texas Stadium in an earlier game.

Asked if he had sympathy for the Eagles' slow start, Johnson said, "I haven't paid a lot of attention to what's happening in other parts of the country."

A reporter told Johnson there was a radio report that Ryan had guaranteed a victory on Sunday in Texas Stadium in the first meeting of the season between the two NFC Eastern Division rivals.

"Buddy makes a lot of predictions," Johnson said. "People become accustomed to them."

Ryan, in a telephone conference call to the media at owner Jerry Jones' press luncheon, denied he said any such thing.

"I didn't say a word," Ryan said. "Dallas is too much of an improved team. There's no way I'd guarantee anything."

Ryan, who was called "fat" by Johnson after a game last year, was asked if he would shake hands with Johnson.

"I'll be there on the 50 watching Dallas warm up like I always do," Ryan said.

Ryan was complimentary toward the 3-4 Cowboys, saying "their defense has improved a great deal and I really like (quarterback) Troy Aikman. The Cowboys are better. They have one more win than we've got."

Ryan was asked if he thought a loss to the Cowboys might cost him his job.

"I don't think so," Ryan said.

Court to hear Permian lawsuit

ODESSA (AP) — The Ector County Independent School District and its superintendent, Gene Buijner, were added as defendants to the Permian High School football coaches' lawsuit against the University Interscholastic League.

Also, a "John Doe" PHS player has been named as an additional plaintiff in legal action filed Monday afternoon in 261st District Court in Austin, where the case is scheduled to be heard at 9 a.m. Friday. The Odessa American reported today.

The lawsuit was filed Sept. 28 in an effort to restore Permian's playoff eligibility this season and also to have UIL penalties against Panthers coaches Tam Hollingshead, Myron Schneider, Larry Morris and Nate Hearne lifted.

The UIL ruled last month that Permian, the defending Class 5A champion, was ineligible for this year's playoffs because the school violated rules by holding organized practices before Aug. 20.

The Panthers were the top-ranked schoolboy team in the country last year.

Big Eight reinstates officials

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Big Eight has reinstated the seven officials who mistakenly allowed Colorado to score the winning touchdown on fifth down against Missouri, but they will not work again as a crew.

Each of the seven will be assigned to games for the rest of the season, John McClintock, supervisor of league officials, said Tuesday. The Kansas City Star reported that a source said the officials would not be assigned to any Colorado or Missouri games.

The Big Eight suspended the officials after reviewing tapes of the game.

The officials were Terry Turlington, Kennett, Mo.; J.C. Louderback, Arkansas City, Kan.; Ron Demaree, Oklahoma City; Willie Weisbrook, Lincoln, Neb.; Scott Koch, York, Neb.; Paul Brown, Omaha, Neb.; and Frank Gaines, Lincoln, Neb.

Tough defense
SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Miami's Jeff Sanders can't get past New Jersey's Sam Bowie (31) during first quarter action in the Carrier Dome. The Nets won the exhibition contest 112-101.

Holyfield hopes to win bout with his mind

LAS VEGAS (AP) — If Evander Holyfield has his way, Thursday's heavyweight title fight with champion James "Buster" Douglas will be as much a test of minds as bodies.

And in his mind, Holyfield feels he has a clear advantage.

"When it comes down to the clutch, it comes down to determination and smarts," Holyfield said. "That's where I feel I can control the fight."

Holyfield, undefeated in 24 fights, goes into his first heavyweight title fight giving away size, reach and weight to the undisputed champion.

But his determination and focus have never been questioned, unlike Douglas, who many thought quit when he was stopped in the 10th round of a 1987 title fight against Tony Tucker.

"I think the deciding factor will be mental strength, and I think Evander has just got so much more mental strength," co-trainer Lou Duva said. "That's what we're gambling on."

Odds makers apparently agree, making Holyfield an 7-5 favorite to beat Douglas in the champion's first defense of the title he won when he shocked the boxing world by stopping Mike Tyson in Tokyo last February.

Holyfield, a former cruiserweight champion, will be fighting as a heavyweight for only the seventh time against the 30-year-old Douglas, who stands 30-4-1 after a nine-year pro career.

The 27-year-old challenger is at a decided physical disadvantage, giving away about 20 pounds and Spur's Terrell Brantley scored seven touchdowns in last week's 56-40 victory over Knox City and that's just the beginning.

He rushed 451 yards on 44 carries, caught a pass for 15 yards and threw for a two-point conversion to earn the spotlight in The Associated Press Schoolboy Honor Roll.

Brantley's 451 yards was the eighth-best ever for a Texas schoolboy and gave him a season total of 1,456 yards rushing. Brantley has caught nine passes for another 235 yards and three touchdowns.

He has scored 178 points for an average of 29.7 points per game.

Brantley moved to West Texas from Houston and made the transition from an offensive lineman to a running back. He's been 1A Spur's leading rusher the past three years, gaining 1,010 yards as a sophomore and 1,869 yards last season.

"He's up to 225 pounds and he gets his knees up and pumping so there aren't any soft places to hit him," Sexton said.

New Waverly's Elton York also had a seven-touchdown performance in a 74-0 victory over Deweyville. York passed for six touchdowns and ran for a seventh.

Five of York's touchdown aeriels went to Swain Hector. York completed nine of 12 passes for 169 yards. Hector caught seven passes for 113 yards.

Mission quarterback Koy Detmer, brother of Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer, completed 18 of 25 passes for 290 yards and touchdowns of 53, 40, 30 and 9 yards in a 35-0 victory over Edinburg.

Malakoff running back Vanoid Dawson gained 339 yards on 14 carries and scored on runs of 33, 29, 67 and 45 yards in a 61-0 victory over Cuyaga.

Neal Mayfield scored all of Big Spring's points in a 23-0 victory over Fort Stockton. He rushed 120 yards on 18 carries and had touchdown runs of 1, 43 and 5 yards. He kicked a 30-yard field goal and two extra points.

Boling's Kevin Waddy caught more passes on defense than he did on offense in a 15-13 victory over former state-ranked Tidehaven. Waddy intercepted four passes, including one in the end zone, as a defensive player, and he caught three passes for 64 yards on offense.

Coahoma's Shane Walker carried 31 times for 216 yards, including touchdown runs of 1, 1, 48 and 24 yards in a 26-0 win over Eldorado.

Evadale's Greg Black completed 14 of 20 passes for 256 yards and touchdowns of 20, 29, 10 and 25 yards in a 61-25 loss to Burkeville. Evadale wide receiver Jody Burnett caught four passes for 115 yards — all touchdowns.

The run-pass combination failed to get a victory because of Burkeville running back Aaron Spikes, who gained 221 yards on 25 carries.

icated he was aware of the deal.

Igwebuike worked out with the Vikings at their Eden Prairie practice facility on Tuesday. He confirmed that he was the subject of an investigation, but wouldn't answer specific questions. Igwebuike told an ABC reporter to talk to his attorney.

Igwebuike's attorneys, Larry Reed and Herbert Iganugo, said the placekicker is a victim of circumstantial evidence. They said on his person as well as the heroin, officials said.

"Our client was contacted by the authorities, who are taking a look at certain individuals that our client knew," Reed said. "These individuals got into trouble. Donald was questioned by the authorities about those individuals. We understand the other individuals have been charged with offenses. Our client has not."

Reed accused the drug enforcement officials of irresponsibly leaking the story.

"I've got a problem with what has come out here," he said. "Such a disclosure, because of sensationalism and trial by media, is inappropriate. They must not have irrefutable evidence or our client would have been charged."

Igwebuike was interviewed locally by a customs agent from Tampa last week, Reed said.

"He cooperated. He said, yes, he knew (Ibekwe). This was the individual who has been charged. I saw their files and there was no mention of Donald anywhere in there. They referred to a tape of a conversation in Edo language. I had someone listen to it and was told there was no mention of any activity in which Donald was involved."

Edo is a language spoken in southern Nigeria.

U.S. Customs officials obtained a search warrant Tuesday for Igwebuike's apartment in the Minneapolis suburb of Bloomington.

weigh around 210 pounds at this afternoon's formal weigh-in.

"Everybody else is worried about him and his weight, but we're not worried a bit," said Douglas trainer J.D. McCauley. "I'm always a critic, but there's nothing to criticize. Buster did his job this time."

Douglas, like Holyfield, appeared calm and relaxed as the fight neared, and comfortable about his mental frame entering the bout.

"I think I'll be in better shape now because I'll be more mentally focused than in the last fight."

The fight, which shapes up to be the most competitive heavyweight title match in more than a decade, also is the first in three years that doesn't involve former champion Tyson.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Magician Doug Henning says he and Indian guru Maharishi Mahesh Yogi will build a $1 billion theme park, practically in Walt Disney World's backyard, featuring magic and Eastern-style meditation.

The park will open in 1993 on 450 acres and offer 38 major attractions focusing on the themes of knowledge, enlightenment and entertainment, he said.

It will include a courtyard of illusions and a building apparently suspended above water.

The park will be the flagship of similar parks in the Netherlands, Brazil, Canada and Japan, Henning was quoted as telling The Orlando Sentinel. The parks will be called Vedaland. Veda is an Eastern term

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — British rock star Rod Stewart plans to marry a 21-year-old New Zealand model, her parents said today.

Rachel Hunter and Stewart, 45, will have an "old-fashioned church wedding" in Los Angeles on Dec. 15, said her mother, Janine Phillips. A reception will follow at Stewart's $7 million Los Angeles mansion.

Miss Hunter, who works for New York's Ford model agency, appears on the cover of this month's Australian Vogue. She met Stewart in August.

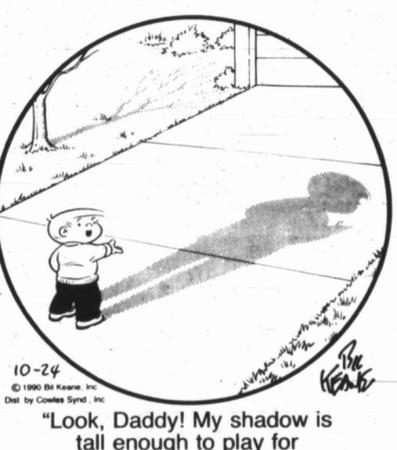

Stewart has enjoyed success as a member of the band Faces and as a solo performer. His hits include "Maggie May," "Hot Legs" and "If You Think I'm Sexy."

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1990

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Focus on completing projects already under way. Developing a natural talent could put you in the money in December. Auditions and stage performances enjoy highly favorable influences in January and February 1991. Business travel pays off handsomely next April. A romantic relationship that has grown a bit lackluster could pick up by June. Save your money — an extended honeymoon or summer vacation may be possible!

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: artist Pablo Picasso, actor Tony Franciosa, basketball star Dave Cowens, singer Helen Reddy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A business relationship that starts out oddly could grow and flourish. Clever ideas help you advance on the job. Your co-workers seek your advice; give it to the best of your ability.

CALVIN AND HOBBS

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Curb a tendency to say too much at work. Keep your plans to yourself while working out the details. Travel is indicated for some. Take good care of your health. Exercise regularly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Refuse to worry about trifles. Do things right the first time and you will accomplish more. People love you for what you are, not for what they can get from you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Loved one's idea bears fruit, thanks to your energetic response. Key alliances are subject to strain; act cautiously. Domestic obligations should come before social pleasures tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You start out in high gear today but may lack the incentive to continue. Push yourself to beat a deadline. Forge new alliances. Business contacts at a distance can make your night supreme!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Your reputation could be jeopardized if you act too hastily in business. Make certain your every move is well-thought-out. Sharing a secret wish with a close chum is a good idea.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Stand fast and work toward a well-defined goal; persistence will help you succeed! A newcomer could be an excellent source of information. Use whatever you learn to your fullest advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You and a VIP get along fabulously today. Charitable acts can make you a star. Stay alert if you have a juicy secret. Socializing will help you make valuable contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Allow your mind to roam unchecked. It may come up with something that will benefit all of your loved ones. Be selfless. Develop efficient work habits. Romance looks splendid.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The agenda you set for today could be delayed by circumstances beyond your control. Keep your cool and you will avoid any mishaps. Social events require careful planning.

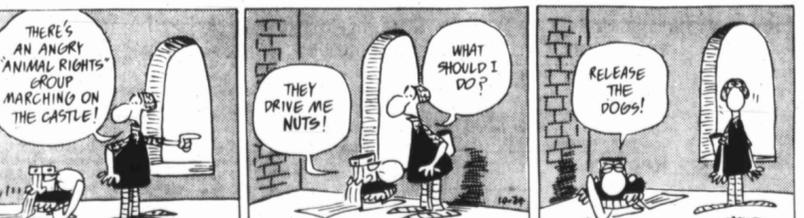

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Where there have been sharp differences in the past, there could be new disagreements today. Take pains to smooth things over. Attend to your family's needs.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): The personal satisfaction you get from obtaining positive results is reward enough! Financial planning is favored. Working overtime can put you at the controls.

FFA selling turkeys and fruit

Stanton High School Future Farmers of America will be selling turkeys door-to-door in the community until Nov. 2, according to FFA member Wesley Hardin.

The FFA's Fruit sale began last Friday and will continue until Nov. 14. Oranges, apples and grapefruits will be available, according to FFA sponsor Randal Redder.

Anyone wanting to purchase a Thanksgiving turkey or fruit for the upcoming holidays may contact any FFA member or leave a message at the SHS office, 756-3326.

Hospital to X-ray candy

Halloween trick-or-treaters will have a chance to have their goodies examined by Martin County Hospital personnel Oct. 31, according to hospital officials.

Children must bring their candy to the hospital and parents must sign a permission form, the officials said.

For more information contact officials at MCHD at 756-3345.

Sex Ed speaker for parents only

Stanton High School officials announced that Pat Socia of Project Respect will be here, Monday, Oct. 29 at 7 p.m. in the high school auditorium, to speak to parents only concerning sex education, according to SHS counselor Marsha Todd.

Socia has taught junior high and high school and has been a public speaker for 10 years on topics ranging from family relations to involvement in public affairs.

Her work with Project Respect involves speaking on sexual behavior, encouraging and assisting parents in becoming involved with their child's sex education and training teachers to teach True Abstinence Education.

School drops rebel mascot

FORT WORTH (AP) — Southwest High School's 23-year-old Rebel mascot has been dropped following tense racial confrontations over the Confederate battle flag at a pep rally almost a week ago.

Southwest principal Quince Fulton told school board members Tuesday night the school will no longer use the Rebel as a school symbol.

School board members will vote to ban the mascot at their next meeting Nov. 13, if the school does not follow Fulton's dictate.

On Oct. 19 scuffles broke out at a pep rally after a makeshift Confederate flag was displayed. Earlier in the week, four students were sent home for wearing T-shirts bearing the school name above a Confederate flag.

The Confederate flag was banned from the school in 1986.

SHS reports

1990 Homecoming Queen candidates

By CRYSTAL PAYNE

Here she comes, Miss America... Wait! Are you sure? Well, Miss America is close, but what we're talking about is the SHS Homecoming queen nominees.

The SHS annual staff caught up with a couple of candidates, and here's what their reaction was to being nominated:

"I feel honored being chosen and I'm really excited being a candidate," nominee Heather Newman said. Beverly Burnett claimed that she was nervous, but the fact that she was chosen for the court really makes her feel good about herself.

The other nominees are Melissa Scurllark and Angie Bundas. The community will get a chance to see the crowning of the 1990 Homecoming queen at the football game Friday.

Council sponsors 'care' hotline

By TYSHAWN BARNES

Stanton High School's student council will sponsor an "I Care Hotline" for students at SHS.

The hotline will provide every community teen with a connection to someone who cares. It will also assist the caller with problems including alcoholism, depression, sexual and physical abuse, suicide, runaway, family problems, drug abuse, rape, grades, pregnancy, AIDS, and bad relationships.

The students will have an opportunity to report drug dealers without having to leave their name.

Operators trained to work with teenagers will make their services available on a 24-hour basis.

The toll-free number will be printed on posters to be hung in every hallway and classroom throughout the school. Calling cards and stickers will provide a quick referral to the "I Care Hotline" number.

Four vie for queen's crown

Stanton High School is set to celebrate its 1990 homecoming with various activities scheduled this week.

According to SHS Student Council President Lance Hall, the council has set days aside for different activities. Today is color day and everyone is urged to wear red, according to Hall. A mini-float parade will be held Thursday at the North end of Buffalo Stadium at 7:45 p.m. There will be one float per elementary classroom, junior high home room and high school class.

The floats will be on little 4-wheel red wagons with restrictions to three feet wide. The theme should show football spirit or homecoming ideas. All entries will have only two designated people pulling the wagon, although the elementary entries can have up to four. The winners will be announced during the Friday community wide pep rally in front of the courthouse. In conjunction with "Red Ribbon" week, balloons will be released before the football game.

There will be a car-bash at the south end of home parking lot. The cost will be 50 cents for 30 seconds of bashing with a sledgehammer and for spray painting. Bashes can begin before school, during lunch and after school until 7 p.m.

Winners of the run-through signs will be announced first thing Thursday morning. There will be one sign per classification.

After the game Friday, a disk jockey from Odessa radio station Foxy 106.7 will provide the music at a dance at the Rink-a-Dink until

Support sought for wealthy surtax

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Republican congressional leaders are trying to persuade President Bush to endorse a surtax on the wealthy in hopes of breaking a deficit-reduction deadlock, GOP officials said today.

The effort came as negotiators struggled to reach agreement on a package of tax increases and spending cuts before the government ran out of funds at midnight.

The budget was the top item on the agenda at a Cabinet meeting

"We are trying to keep negotiations going. But the hour is late and we still don't have an agreement." — House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif.

this morning, where Bush refused to answer reporters' questions about whether he would accept a surtax on the rich or sign another stopgap spending measure to keep the government running.

Democrats have been insisting that a surtax on the richest taxpayers be included in any deficit-reduction agreement. Many Republicans and the president have opposed the idea.

The partisan dispute over precisely how to put new taxes on the rich has become the most difficult issue in the effort by lawmakers and the White House to cut the deficit by $250 billion over the next five years.

According to officials speaking on condition of anonymity, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., broached the proposal during a meeting with Bush last night.

No decisions were made and discussions were expected to continue today, officials said.

Under the proposal, the surtax would fall on people earning more

King denies report about concessions

By CHRISTOPHER BURNS
Associated Press Writer

Saudi Arabia's king today denied reports that the Saudis are willing to accept territorial concessions to defuse the Persian Gulf crisis, and a U.S. senator said Iraq and the multinational force are headed for war.

Thirty-two British hostages returned to London today, and about a dozen Americans also freed on Tuesday were headed home.

One of the British hostages who was held at a strategic site in Iraq said he and his fellow captives briefly rioted when their guards refused to provide them with enough food or adequate toilet facilities.

Iraq's ambassador to France said all French citizens in Iraq and occupied Kuwait could return to France within two days.

Iraq's parliament on Tuesday endorsed Saddam Hussein's proposal to allow all French citizens in the country to leave, a gesture seen in Paris as an attempt to divide the West's anti-Iraqi alliance.

The more than 300 French citizens in Iraq and Kuwait are among hundreds of Westerners prohibited from leaving by Saddam since his invasion of the emirate Aug. 2. Many are being held at strategic installations to deter a possible attack by the U.S.-dominated multinational force in the Persian Gulf.

The Pentagon on Tuesday said the United States might send more troops to the region than the 240,000 who are there now or en route.

"The fact is that we're headed toward conflict," Sen. Richard Lugar, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said during an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

"If the Iraqis don't move they're likely to be pushed out, peace is not at hand," the Indiana Republican said in response to Saudi comments over the weekend that some interpreted as a peace overture to Saddam.

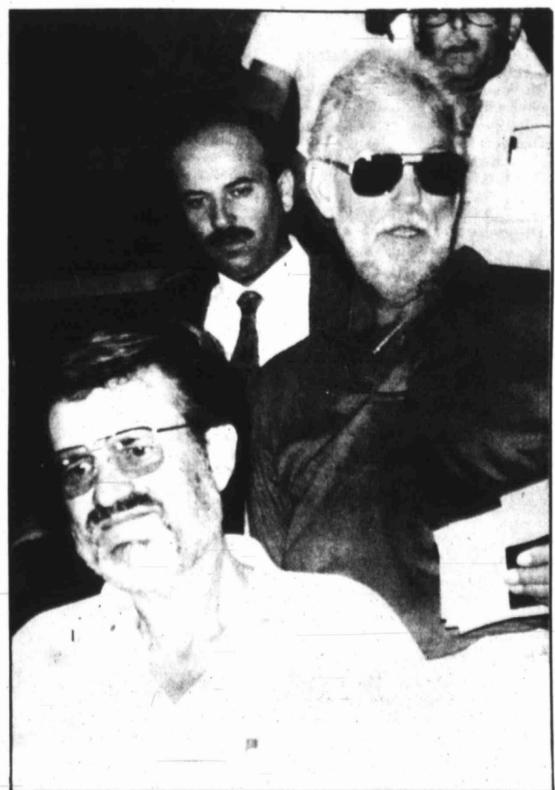

King Fahd — for the second time in two days — today denied the Saudis would be willing to accept territorial concessions to Iraq to prevent war.

The king stressed that the Saudis demand an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and the return to power in the oil-rich emirate of exiled Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, who was deposed in the invasion nearly 12 weeks ago.

"The decisive and clear stand that the government of the kingdom set toward the Iraqi aggression on the state of Kuwait is firm and unchangeable, clear and unambiguous," Fahd said in a statement distributed by the official Saudi Press Agency, monitored in Bahrain.

On Sunday Prince Sultan, the

Owners demand flags' removal

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents of an apartment complex say the owner is being unpatriotic and unfair in ordering them to remove U.S. flags they have been flying to support troops taking part in Operation Desert Shield.

Some of the original 29 flags have been taken down at the Plantation Apartments in the Galleria area, but many awaited today's deadline.

Apartment manager Martha Smith said residents violated a provision of their leases against drilling holes in outside walls to put up the flags.

"I think it's kind of un-American," said resident Brenda Harral, who said the complex allows residents to display Halloween decorations and even holds a Christmas door-decorating contest. "You can hang a skeleton on your door, but you can't hang the American flag."

Residents received notices Monday and Tuesday in a note from the apartment's management that the flags must be removed by today.

Mexico wants U.S. officers

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican authorities say they have started prosecution of two Texas lawmen on charges of illegally bringing two Mexican men to the United States to face murder charges.

The Mexican attorney general's office said Tuesday they are seeking to extradite the two men to Mexico.

The allegations are similar to those of an April case that damaged U.S.-Mexican relations: Mexico charged U.S. officials with arranging the kidnapping of a Mexican doctor accused of helping murder a U.S. drug agent.

The former chief of Coahuila state judicial police, Angel Joaquin Lugo Castaneda, was arrested Saturday in the case and was jailed, and two lower-ranking Mexican police were charged, according to a news release.

The news release Tuesday said the Foreign Ministry "is seeking the immediate extradition of the U.S. policemen," identified as Mitch Woods and Frank Collazo of Beaumont.

Police nab 70 in gang sweep

EL PASO (AP) — Police arrested 70 alleged gang members in classrooms and homes in a citywide sweep to curb gang violence that has claimed seven lives this year.

Police compiled 120 arrest warrants over two months for crimes ranging from aggravated assault to defacing property with graffiti. The warrants were used for Tuesday's mass arrests.

Of the 70 arrested, 19 were juveniles. The majority were charged with assault. No weapons were confiscated, but Lt. Eddie Ortega said police were not looking for property.

Since April 1, police have made 400 gang-related arrests, but that didn't curb the violence, said Lt. Jim Carney, commander of the Tactical Section.

Pincher slapped with fines

LUBBOCK (AP) — A New Mexico oil field worker has probably learned to keep his hands to himself after pinching the buttocks of an American Airlines flight attendant.

Jay Scott Curtis, 25, of Hobbs, N.M., wasn't slapped across the face, but he was slapped with $775 in fines after pleading guilty to the charge.

Curtis was among eight oil field workers who allegedly boarded an American Airlines flight intoxicated and later were indicted on charges of interference with a flight crew.

Curtis was sentenced Friday after pleading guilty to the one count of simple assault.

Southland files for bankruptcy

DALLAS (AP) — Southland Corp., the nation's largest convenience store chain, filed a bankruptcy petition and a prepackaged reorganization plan early today.

The parent of the 7-Eleven convenience store chain said it intends to complete a restructuring under Chapter 11 as the company has received from its debt holders and equity holders sufficient percentage of votes for a prepackaged reorganization plan to be confirmed by the bankruptcy court.

A syndicate of lenders has agreed to provide Southland up to $400 million in debtor-in-possession (DIP) financing.

Southland spokeswoman Cecilia Stubbs Norwood said the company intends to use the funds as working capital to purchase necessary inventories and to continue the company's other normal operating activities. The company said that of those security holders voting on the prepackaged reorganization plan, an aggregate of approximately 89 percent of the outstanding principal amount of debt securities and approximately 90 percent of the outstanding shares of preferred stock voted to accept the plan.

Southland has asked for a bankruptcy court hearing on Dec. 10 for the confirmation of the prepackaged reorganization plan.

If confirmed, the plan would give Southland security-holders approximately 25 percent of the company's common stock. Southland bondholders would receive new notes and, in certain cases, cash.

The company also said it is immediately filing motions in bankruptcy court to seek approval to assume existing 7-Eleven franchises and area licensee agreements; pay employee salaries and wages and continue existing employee benefit plans and pay pre-petition debt in full to all suppliers who agree to provide the company with customary credit terms during the bankruptcy case.

"In the light of the results of the exchange offers and the high level of support we have received for our prepackaged reorganization plan, we believe this is the best alternative to complete a financial restructuring quickly," said Clark Matthews, Southland's chief financial officer. "We hope to obtain court approval of the prepackaged reorganization plan as soon as possible."

"Upon confirmation of our plan and consummation of our new Stock Purchase Agreement, we will go forward with a more manageable debt load, as well as the capital we need to remain at the top of the competitive convenience retailing industry," Matthews added.

Dallas-based Southland has been staggered by the debt brought on by its $4.9 billion leveraged buyout in 1987. The company also faces increasing competition from proliferating convenience stores run by major oil companies.

Analysts have been predicting that Southland would be unable to avoid filing for bankruptcy protection from creditors. The company has been trying to avoid bankruptcy since March, when it announced it would sell a majority stake to Ito-Yokado Co. Ltd. and Seven-Eleven Japan Co. Ltd., its Japanese franchisees.

The Japanese investors would provide $430 million in new cash in exchange for the stock in the reorganized company.

Veep praises troops for Middle East role

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle concluded a day of campaigning for Republicans with a pep talk to military troops and praise for international opposition to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait.

"Desert Shield is not about cheap oil. It is about the future of all nations," Quayle said Tuesday night. "It is a question of whether we'll live in a world governed by law or by the rule of the jungle."

Quayle spoke to about 300 troops and their families at Kelly Air Force Base, where dozens of military personnel were clad in sand-colored desert camouflage clothes and hats. An Air Force band played patriotic music as Quayle arrived by plane.

His San Antonio stop was the last of a four-city swing through Texas to campaign for U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and other Republicans, including gubernatorial nominee Clayton Williams. Earlier Tuesday Quayle visited Victoria, Corpus Christi and Houston.

"Our hearts and prayers are with the men and women who are there and for their families," Quayle said of Operation Desert Shield. "We are there to stop Saddam Hussein and to stop the naked aggression of Iraq invading Kuwait, and the world is united against Saddam Hussein."

The vice president also remembered the Air Force reservists from Kelly killed recently in a C-5 cargo plane crash in Germany while taking part in the Middle East buildup.

"We salute their heroism, and we will never, never forget them," Quayle said.

At a fund-raising dinner for Gramm, Quayle defended the Bush administration's stance on a Civil Rights bill passed by Congress and vetoed by the president.

"This president is committed to civil rights, and he wants to sign a civil rights bill," Quayle said. "But he will not sign a quota bill."

Quayle also criticized Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards, and asked voters to recall her remarks about then presidential candidate George Bush during the keynote address at the Democratic national convention.

"Just remember what she said about our president," Quayle said. "Remember what Democrats do when they become governor. Just look at the state of Massachusetts."

Discussing the federal budget standoff, Quayle blasted congressional Democrats, saying they are responsible for the budget chaos and are trying to place too much tax burden on working families.

Oldest female veteran dies

DALLAS (AP) — Dora Baker Kelley, an Army nurse during World War I and the nation's oldest known female veteran, died in her sleep at age 102.

Mrs. Kelley, who joined the Army Nurse Corps in 1918, died Monday at the Dallas Veteran's Administration Medical Center, where she had been recovering from a stroke she suffered about a month ago.

"She was doing fine, she was alert," said Rick DuCharme, hospital spokesman. "Everyone fell in love with her."

DuCharme said Mrs. Kelley was determined to be the oldest known female veteran based on records of those receiving benefits.

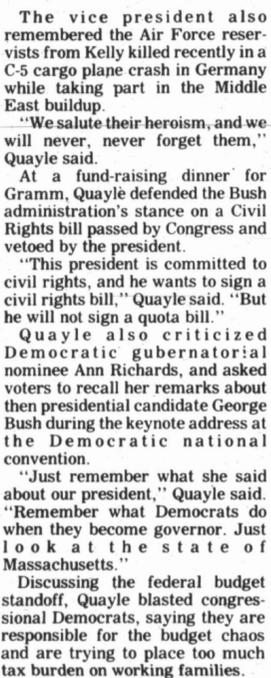

Mrs. Kelley was born on Dec. 6, 1887, in Hamilton County, Texas, about 60 miles northwest of Waco, according to service records.

She attended Baylor School of Nursing and was graduated in 1917. Mrs. Kelley joined the Army Nurse Corps in 1918 and served Camp Travis near San Antonio.

Discharged in 1919, she worked in a small hospital in her home county and then in Temple, Texas, eventually joining the Veteran's Administration in Detroit as a nurse.

That same year, she married soldier Patrick Jay Kelley, who died in 1928.

Mrs. Kelley continued working for the VA in Muskogee, Okla., until her retirement in 1949.

HOUSTON — Vice President Dan Quayle holds nine-year-old Ana Hermosilla as he visits the Texas Children's Hospital here Tuesday. Ana has received a heart pacemaker at the hospital.

Parmer charges ethics violation

AUSTIN (AP) — Democratic senatorial nominee Hugh Parmer says if no one else does it, he will file an ethics complaint against U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, saying the Republican received an illegal gift.

Parmer's spokesman Larry Neal said the charge was "laughable."

The dispute is over 1.3 acres of lakefront land near Corsicana that Gramm bought in 1983 for $25,000 on a loan he received at 8 percent interest.

Parmer said the cost of the land and interest rate were below market value and that Gramm should have reported the transaction as a gift on his public disclosure statements.

In addition, he said, the gift was illegal because the lender, Dr. Paul Gibson, was at the time director of First Republic Bank of Corsicana, which had a political action committee in Washington that lobbied members of Congress.

"It is illegal for members of Congress to receive gifts from persons with a direct interest in legislation before Congress," Parmer said. "I can't see any plausible way ... the Senate Ethics Committee could fail to discipline Senator Gramm for this transaction. It is a clear-cut, flagrant violation of the rules," Parmer said.

But Neal responded, "Sen. Gramm paid full asking price for the Corsicana land at an interest rate that was absolutely appropriate for raw, undeveloped land in 1983." He said Gibson gave Gramm a low interest rate because he "probably thought Gramm was an honest man who would repay his debt."

Neal said Parmer "has abandoned all hope of winning, he wants to spend the last few weeks smearing the senator's reputation."

In other political developments: The Texas Environmental Voters Watch, a coalition of environmental leaders, released its report card on statewide candidates. The grades were based on the candidate's past record, statements and positions, the group said.

Gramm received an "F" while Parmer received an "A." In the governor's race, Democrat Ann Richards was given a "B" and her rival Clayton Williams received a "D."

Democrat Bob Bullock earned a "B" and Republican Rob Mosbacher a "C" in the lieutenant governor's race.

Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower received an "A" and his opponent Republican Rick Perry was given an "F."

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro received a "B-plus." Republican opponent Wes Gilbert was given an "F."

Democratic state comptroller candidate John Sharp received a "C" and his Republican rival Warren Harding Jr. was given a "U," which means the candidate has little background on environmental issues.

In the state treasurer's race, Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison received a "D" while Democrat Nikki Van Hightower got a "U."

In the campaign for a seat on the Texas Railroad Commission, Democrat Bob Krueger was given a "D" and Republican Beau Boulter an "F."

Richards, meanwhile, said Williams' comments during their brief joint appearance on television Monday night indicate he now may be backing away from his plan to use a "voucher" system to allow parents to send children to the school of their choice.

Mistakes can cut patients to the quick

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in response to the letter from the woman who received a positive diagnosis of chlamydia. After 16 years of a completely faithful marriage, I, too, was diagnosed as having this sexually transmitted disease. Worse yet, I received a telephone call from the nursing assistant informing me that my name would be sent to the county health department, and I should have all my partners treated!

I was so shocked I could hardly speak! I asked if there was any other way I could have gotten such a disease and was told that it was transmitted only through sexual intercourse, and either I — or my partner — must have had sexual contact with someone who had the disease.

Two days later, I insisted that I be retested. The test came back negative!

My advice to the woman wondering about her spouse — wonder instead about your test results, the lab processing and the doctor's method of handling your case!

I recognize that medical staff

Dear Abby

must regularly deal with patient denial, but I knew I had not been unfaithful, and I was certain my husband had not been either. The nursing assistant, however, insisted that one of us must have strayed. We have been taught to respect medicine and the people in it as all-knowing. They are human, they make mistakes, but unfortunately, the news they deliver can destroy people. We are wise to question and remain calm if we possibly can.

If my husband and I did not have such a trusting relationship, the false test could have done great damage. — ALSO FROM ARIZONA

DEAR ALSO: My mail has brought an alarming number of letters from readers with tales of testing identical to yours. Chlamydia should always be tested by taking a culture.

DEAR ABBY: For almost 10 years, "Leon" has been my best friend. Leon has seen me through the death of a parent, an attempted suicide, a bout with cancer and the chemotherapy that followed.

Here is where I need your advice, Abby. I am getting married in a few months. I've selected my bridesmaids and flower girl, but I would like to have Leon stand up with me as my "man of honor." I've discussed this with my fiancé, and even though he thinks it sounds a bit odd, it's perfectly all right with him.

My mother, on the other hand, feels that I would be the laughingstock of our town. I say, if people want to laugh at a solid friendship, let them. Incidentally, Leon and I never were lovers, only very close friends.

What is your advice? Do you think it would be inviting rumors to have a man stand up with me? (My mother thinks so.) My fiancé has offered to let Leon be an usher, but I want him to be there in the role of the person who has been the nearest and dearest friend of my adult life.

Please tell me your feelings. Would you frown upon such a choice? — KANSAS SUNFLOWER

DEAR SUNFLOWER: Would I frown on selecting a man to honor as your best friend? Certainly not! Friendship knows no gender. Some bridegrooms have a chosen "best woman" instead of "best man."

"How to Be Popular" is for everyone who feels left out and wants an improved social life. It's an excellent guide to becoming a better conversationalist and a more attractive person. 1948 Hyperions host meeting

The 1948 Hyperion Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Clayton Bettle, with Mrs. Jack Alexander as co-hostess.

Mrs. Dean Forrest, president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Jerry Dudley, program leader for October, introduced Linda Conway, dean of Admissions at Howard College, who presented a video tape titled "45 years at Howard College." The tape, narrated by Bob Lewis, uses photos and newspaper clippings to show growth and accomplishments during the 45 years of the college's existence. After the tape, Conway shared information about other facets of the college and answered questions from the group.

During the business meeting that followed the program, each member was asked to bring a gift to the next meeting. These are to be used at the Corral for bingo prizes.

Refreshments were served to 21 members and two guests, Mrs. Gary Sims and Conway.

The next meeting will be Nov. 15 at the home of Mrs. Morris Rhodes, with Mrs. Ed Shive as co-hostess.

Officials debate synthetic hormone

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Dairy farmers, processors and food chains are being squeezed one way and then another by advocates and critics of a synthetic hormone designed to boost a cow's milk production.

At the center of the storm is bovine somatotropin, or BST, a synthetic hormone that can boost milk production by 10 percent to 25 percent.

The Food and Drug Administration next year is expected to approve the chemical — also called BGH, or bovine growth hormone — for commercial use.

Critics of the hormone contend that it taints milk, harms cows and threatens to open the floodgates to surplus production that will depress prices and wash out thousands of struggling dairy farmers.

One of the severest BST critics has been Jeremy Rifkin of the Foundation on Economic Trends, a Washington-based advocacy group that often is involved in consumer issues.

Rifkin recently announced a national campaign to boycott BST and those dairies, companies and grocery chains that don't go along with the anti-hormone movement.

The National Milk Producers Federation, which has not taken an official position on the issue, is telling members about some of the forces that will be at work in the coming months.

"With the tide of scientific evidence running against their health safety arguments, BST foes have turned to picket and boycott threats to achieve their goals," the federation's newsletter said this week.

The Rifkin plan includes letters to companies asking for support for the BST boycott and urging them to sell only BST-free milk and dairy products, even if the FDA gives the chemical a clean bill of health.

In December, the foundation plans to issue a "pure milk advisory" newsletter that Rifkin said

Farm scene

"will identify those companies that have pledged to accept and sell only pure and natural" milk free of the synthetic hormone.

The advisory, he said, will include a list of companies that intend to accept or sell milk from hormone-treated cows.

"Those companies will be subject to selective picketing and boycotts by grassroots farm and consumer organizations in local communities around the country," the foundation said.

But the dairy federation said a number of farm and food organizations have alerted members "to the dangers of the coming campaign" over the hormone.

"The International Dairy Foods Association told members they are under no obligation, legal or otherwise, to respond to the (foundation) letter," the dairy newsletter said. "The Dairy Industry Coalition has also expressed its opposition to milk and dairy products becoming a pawn in the biotechnology controversy."

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department says U.S. dairy production is increasing and that surpluses are expected next year.

"In 1991, milk and dairy product prices will fall sharply from a year earlier," according to a report this week by the department's Economic Research Service.

"Significant surpluses of both cream and skim milk are expected. Milk production is projected to grow 1 percent to 2 percent next year, largely on the strength of late-1989 and 1990 returns."

Overall, the agency said, the farm price of milk in 1991 is expected to be down $2 to $3 from this year's average of around $14 per 100 pounds.

WASHINGTON — Veterinarians help farmers with their livestock and city people with their pets, from lizards to ponies. They also are important for the protection of the nation's food supply, says Shelton Pinkerton, president of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

"Many consumers are aware that veterinarians in private clinical practice are involved in production agriculture, working with farmers and ranchers to develop and maintain healthy, well-nourished, properly housed, economically productive herds and flocks," he said Tuesday.

But what most people are unaware of is the work that veterinarians do in the public sector, Pinkerton told the American Association of Food Hygiene Veterinarians.

"The fact that most of the public is unaware of your role is not because of ignorance on the part of the public, but rather because of your skill and good work, which unfortunately results in your being taken for granted," he said. "We expect safe, wholesome food, and we have safe, wholesome food."

Pinkerton said that one measure of the confidence and security people have in the U.S. food supply is "the level of media attention that develops in those rare occasions when there is a problem that affects the public."

WASHINGTON — Preliminary tests of cotton plants genetically engineered to destructive insects have been encouraging, the Agriculture Department says.

The department's Agricultural Research Service this summer conducted the first field tests of the cotton plants developed by Monsanto Co. of St. Louis, the agency said Tuesday.

Test plants, called transgenic, were inserted with a gene from a different organism, Bacillus thuringiensis, or Bt, a commercially available natural bacterium.

The gene enables Bt to make a protein toxic to many caterpillar species. And the transgenic plants make a similar protein.

Saudi defense minister, was reported to have raised the possibility of allowing Iraq to keep some Kuwaiti territory if it withdraws its hundreds of thousands of troops.

Regarding the hostages, a jetliner landed outside London today with former British Prime Minister Edward Heath and the 32 Britons whose release from Iraq he had helped secure a day earlier.

Jim Thompson, one of the freed Britons, told reporters on the flight that he and 14 other foreigners held as human shields at an Iraqi armaments factory had rioted to protest bad conditions.

Thompson, 50, an engineering company manager, said they were held without enough food and with no proper toilets.

He did not say if any Americans were in the group.

"We were in really bad shape. We told the guards, unless you do something... we are going to have a disturbance," he was quoted as saying.

He said when nothing was done, they tore down fences, broke windows, painted anti-Saddam remarks on walls and shouted anti-Saddam slogans until guards forced them back into their rooms at gunpoint.

He did not say where the factory was located or when the incident happened.

The 14 Americans flown Tuesday from Baghdad to Amman, Jordan, were to leave today aboard two Royal Jordanian Airlines flights. Nine of them were to fly to London today, then take a Pan Am flight for New York on Thursday.

The rest of the group were to fly to New York via Amsterdam.

The number of Americans held in Iraq and Kuwait is estimated at 1,000.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said in Washington on Tuesday that of the 14 American men released Tuesday, six are ailing, two have critically ill relatives at home and six are students.

She said 63 Americans with health problems have not been allowed to leave.

Iraq's ambassador to Paris said all the French hostages held in Iraq and occupied Kuwait could be flown home within two days.

Ambassador Abdul Razzak al-Hachimi told journalists that an Iraqi Airways plane could evacuate the hostages held in both countries.

Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said on Tuesday that U.S. officials were considering sending more troops to the region. That could give Operation Desert Shield a far greater offensive capability.

Deaths

Thomas Shankle

Thomas Jerry Shankle, 53, Midland, died Tuesday, Oct. 23, 1990, at his residence after a brief illness.

No funeral services are scheduled.

He was born Dec. 20, 1936, in Texas and had lived in Midland for 30 years. He attended school in Stanton. He was a partner with Kay Pinkerton in J & K Auto Repair in Midland, and in recent years had worked as a weekend announcer at radio station KJBC in Midland. He married Virginia Wooley Aug. 7, 1954, in Big Spring. He was a veteran and a member of the Alamo Heights Baptist Church in Midland.

Survivors include his wife, Virginia Shankle, Midland; one son, Jerry Glenn Shankle, El Paso; one daughter, Sherry Lynn Shankle, Phoenix, Ariz.; one sister, Anita Blocker, Midland; one brother, Bobby Shankle, El Paso; and one grandchild.

Budget

than $300,000 annually. Democrats had been demanding that the surtax be aimed at people earning more than $1 million, but lowering that threshold would raise more money because it would hit more people. This would allow budget writers to reduce savings in other parts of the deficit-cutting plan.

Still undecided was the amount of the tax, although it seemed likely to fall between 5 percent and 10 percent.

Republicans have preferred limiting deductions instead of a surtax, but that alternative is supported by only about half the House's majority Democrats. With most Republicans ready to vote against the budget in any case, there would not be enough support for the measure to be passed by the House.

"We are trying to keep negotiations going," House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta, D-Calif., told reporters Tuesday night after a long, fruitless day. "But the hour is late and we still don't have an agreement."

Proceeds from higher taxes on the wealthy would be used to moderate proposed increases in the gasoline tax — about five cents rather than the nine cents passed by the Senate — and in patients' costs of Medicare.

Lawmakers were under pressure from two deadlines: With the Nov. 6 elections less than two weeks away, leaders want to adjourn for the year by the weekend, and the government's authority to spend

President Bush already has signed four stopgap spending extensions since the new budget year began on Oct. 1, and he said Tuesday he has not decided whether he will go along with a fifth in the absence of a deficit-cutting agreement. Congress has yet to enact any of the 13 annual appropriation bills for the new year.

Bush, campaigning for Republicans in New England, declared himself "so frustrated by Congress' inability to do anything... I don't know what I'm going to do." He urged Republicans to get behind a compromise agreement.

Democrats were doing the same. Although Bush has abandoned his campaign pledge not to raise taxes, many GOP allies in the House are sticking to theirs; they want no part of any tax increase. Thus, Democrats are left with the choice of pushing through a deficit-reduction package of tax increases and spending restraints whose basic outlines have been endorsed by Bush, or drafting their own plan and hoping for reluctant support from senators and the president.

Tuesday's negotiations indicated Democrats have about abandoned hopes of winning support for a Republican-backed plan and are ready to move with their own.

Any package likely to emerge from continuing negotiations will include tax increases on tobacco, alcoholic beverages, plane tickets, and expensive cars, furs and boats. Higher-income wage earners would have to pay more for Medicare coverage; retirees would have to pick up a bigger share of the cost of insurance covering doctors' bills.

Senators of both parties, the administration and House Democrats have agreed that upper-income people should carry a significantly higher tax burden. There even is general agreement that the maximum tax rate affecting the richest Americans should be raised from the current 28 percent to 31 percent.

Bipartisanship has broken down over how an additional bite should be put on the wealthy. Republicans favor limiting the itemized deductions of people with incomes of $100,000 a year or more. Democrats want a more direct approach: requiring those with incomes of $1 million or more to pay a surtax of around 7½ percent.

Democrats say the surtax is better because it is easily understood and would be clearly viewed as taking back a portion of national wealth that flowed to the richest Americans during the last decade. Republicans have insisted a surtax would be an invitation to special interests to begin petitioning Congress for special exclusions, and that within a few years, the only recourse would be to pay for those exclusions by raising tax rates on everybody.

Dress Up Pop Corn for HALLOWEEN FUN

DILLY POP CORN

- 1 pop & serve bag (3.5 oz.)
Jolly Time Light Microwave
Pop Corn, Butter Flavored or Natural Flavor
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1½ teaspoons dried dillweed
- ½ teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning

Pop pop corn according to package directions. Place popped corn in large bowl. Combine butter, dillweed and lemon pepper seasoning. Drizzle over popped corn and toss lightly. Makes about 3 quarts.

Note: To lower calories, use reduced calorie margarine.

NACHO CHEESE BALL

- 3 cups popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- 2 teaspoons taco seasoning mix
- 3 cups shredded sharp Cheddar cheese, softened
- 2 packages (3 oz. each) pimiento flavored cream cheese, softened
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped red bell pepper
- 2 tablespoons canned chopped green chilies
- Dash ground red pepper
- Fresh apple slices or crackers

Place popped pop corn in small plastic bag; seal and crush with rolling pin to medium-fine consistency. Add taco seasoning. Set aside. In medium bowl, beat Cheddar cheese and cream cheese until smooth. Stir in red pepper, green chilies and ground red pepper. Shape cheese mixture into a rough ball. Roll in crushed seasoned pop corn mixture. Chill until ready to serve. Serve with sliced fresh apples or your favorite crackers. Makes 1 cheese ball.

BAKED CARAMEL CORN

- 6 quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
- ½ cup light or dark corn syrup
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 250°F. Coat the bottom and sides of a large roasting pan with vegetable coating spray. Place popped pop corn in roasting pan. In a heavy pan, slowly melt butter; stir in brown sugar, corn syrup and salt. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; boil without stirring for 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in baking soda and vanilla. Gradually pour over popped corn, mixing well. Bake for 1 hour, stirring every 15 minutes. Remove from oven, cool completely. Break apart and store in tightly-covered container. Makes about 6 quarts.

Tempt Halloween revelers and trick or treaters with pop corn coated Nacho Cheese Ball, Dilly Pop Corn and Easy Halloween Haystacks.

If you don't watch out, the witches, ghosts and goblins will get you into the spirit of Halloween. Halloween has become a celebration for all age groups. Youngsters often celebrate the day both at school and at home. It's a perfect time for a family or neighborhood gathering, too, as both young and old alike enjoy the fun of a Halloween costume party. And if trick or treating is part of the plan, older children or an adult can join in the fun by escorting the youngsters around the neighborhood.

Pop corn, one of America's most popular snack foods, is the ideal food to dress up for Halloween. Americans eat nearly 14 billion quarts of pop corn each year, or about 56 quarts per person. The makers of Jolly Time Pop Corn, America's first brand name pop corn, point out that you can serve pop corn a variety of ways — plain or fancy, sweet or savory. You can stir up a batch of Dilly Pop Corn as a healthy snack for your Halloween costume party or wrap up some Easy Halloween Haystacks for the trick or treaters.

For Halloween pop corn fun, you can pop your corn on top of the stove or in a variety of electric and non-electric poppers. For ultimate ease and convenience, you can use easy-to-pop-and-serve microwave pop corn. No matter how you pop it, best results will be achieved by selecting top quality pop corn such as Jolly Time, which has been carefully selected and includes only the choice high-popping kernels from the center of the ear.

For the microwave, you have the choice of regular or the new light pop corns with reduced fat and calories. And Jolly Time also offers you a choice of yellow or white pop corn. White pop corn, the choice of connoisseurs because of its sweeter flavor and tender kernels, is used in their Natural Flavor and Natural Flavor Light Microwave Pop Corns.

You can make your Halloween pop corn snack selections from these creations: Nacho Cheese Ball, a zippy pop corn coated cheese ball with sharp Cheddar cheese and peppers, which can be served with crisp fresh apple slices; Dilly Pop Corn, accented with dillweed and lemon pepper; and Savory Pop Corn Snack Mix, a full-flavored pop corn snack with bacon, onion and mustard and adult appeal. For those with a sweet tooth, there's old-fashioned Baked Caramel Pop Corn, Easy Halloween Haystacks or chocolate frosted Rocky Road Peanut Butter Pop Corn Bars.

Sioux City, IA 51102

With the brochure you also will receive a Nutrition Fact Sheet listing selected nutritional values of all Jolly Time Pop Corn products. Plain air popped pop corn is low in calories and fat and is considered a good source of dietary fiber. Light microwave pop corn products have reduced fat, calories and sodium.

EASY HALLOWEEN HAYSTACKS

- 1½ quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- 1 cup chow mein noodles
- 1 package (12 oz.) butterscotch or peanut butter pieces

Combine popped pop corn and chow mein noodles in large bowl. Melt butterscotch or peanut butter pieces over hot, not boiling water, stirring constantly until smooth, about 3 to 5 minutes. Pour melted candy over pop corn; stir to coat well. Drop by heaping tablespoonsful onto wax paper-lined pan. Refrigerate until firm. Store in tightly covered container. Makes 24.

SAVORY POP CORN SNACK MIX

- 3 quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn (use Light Microwave Pop Corn, if preferred)
- 2 cups miniature pretzels
- ½ pound bacon, chopped
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons chopped green onions and tops
- 1½ teaspoons spicy brown mustard
- ¼ teaspoon seasoned salt
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Combine popped pop corn and pretzels in large bowl. Cook bacon until crisp; drain on paper towels. Melt butter in small saucepan. Stir in green onions, mustard and seasoned salt. Sprinkle bacon and Parmesan over pop corn mixture. Pour butter mixture over all. Toss well to coat. Serve immediately. Makes about 3 quarts.

ROCKY ROAD PEANUT BUTTER POP CORN BARS

- 3 quarts popped Jolly Time Pop Corn
- ½ cups raisins
- 1 cup light corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon butter
- ½ cup peanut butter pieces
- ½ cup chunky or creamy peanut butter
- ¼ cup miniature marshmallows
- ½ cup peanuts
- ½ cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 1 teaspoon vegetable shortening

Place popped pop corn and raisins in large bowl. In saucepan, heat corn syrup and butter to boiling. Boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in peanut butter pieces and peanut butter. Stir until smooth. Pour mixture over popped corn, tossing gently and coating all pieces. Press into a buttered 9-inch square baking pan. Sprinkle marshmallows and peanuts over top, pressing lightly into pop corn mixture. Melt chocolate pieces and shortening over very low heat. Drizzle over top. Cool several hours before serving. Cut into 2¼ by 1-inch bars. Makes 36.

HAPPY HALLOWEEN!

Home video productions go Hollywood

The lights are dimmed, the popcorn's ready and the audience is quiet. With a burst of 3-D special effects, colorful animation, and sophisticated fades and wipes, the production begins.

The latest Steven Spielberg major motion picture? Not at all. It's an average home movie—turned Hollywood.

The proliferation of camcorder and VCR use has spawned the development of low-end home video equipment and software, enabling home movie enthusiasts to create Hollywood-type productions—termed "Desktop Hollywood"—complete with color, sight and sound.

Today, people need not pay the cashier under the marquis at the local theatre for a taste of Hollywood. They can create the same effects in their own home, on a computer, just like a movie studio production company.

genlock (a device that superimposes graphics on video). Whatever the level of expertise—video enthusiast or weekend buff—a little imagination and an Amiga soon could make you the envy of your block and, who knows, maybe even help you receive an Oscar nomination.

LIGHTS, CAMERA, ACTION—"Desktop Hollywood" allows video enthusiasts to use their camcorder, VCR and Commodore Amiga computer to transform ordinary home movies into Hollywood productions that include 3-D graphics, cartoon-like animation, TV-style special effects, titling, and sophisticated fades and wipes.

Lights, camera, action

With the assistance of low-cost personal computers like the powerful and creative Commodore Amiga 500, home movies have catapulted into the 21st century.

Gone are the days of splicing broken film and fussing with a temperamental projector. Cartoon-like animation, TV-style special effects, titling and musical soundtracks have taken their place, transforming normal, everyday video footage into a personalized work of art.

Weddings, birthdays, bar mitzvahs, graduations, vacations, even baby's first steps can be captured like never before. All it takes, in addition to a VCR and camcorder, is a Commodore Amiga and

The stereo "sweet spot" of a good hi-fi or video sound system is that one location where everything sounds just right—sounds from the left and right speakers merge to create a realistic sonic image of the original recording.

Close your eyes and you can pinpoint the location of every instrument, vocalist, actor or sound effect—as if you were really there.

However, with conventional speakers, the sweet spot is usually only wide enough for one or two people sitting close together. Everyone else in the room hears the sound mostly from either the left or the right speaker. Hearing half of stereo is much less satisfying than listening to a program in mono.

By learning to control directional sound patterns carefully, a Brooklyn, N.Y., company, Ohm Acoustics, has developed speakers with a sweet spot wide enough for the whole family.

Even when sitting well to the side of the listening area, people hear the balanced acoustic image of the performance rather than just the sound of the nearest speaker.

WITH CONVENTIONAL SPEAKERS, you must sit in the "sweet spot" in front of the speakers to enjoy balanced stereo. Ohm speakers have a full-room sweet spot, allowing everyone in the room to enjoy full stereo sound effects.

Ohm speakers are sonically invisible; individual sounds seem to come from three-dimensional space. Furniture can be arranged for comfortable viewing and listening without fear of anyone being in a bad listening position.

Ohm loudspeakers range from the magnificent $4,800 Ohm Walsh 5 to the $300 CAM 16, and include the unusual and popular Sound Cylinders. Ohm's new Coherent Audio Monitors (CAMs) have rotatable tweeters that allow flexible speaker placement without sacrificing sound quality.

Call 718-783-1111 for the Ohm dealer nearest you.

Security system that's economical, easy to install

SAFEGUARD YOUR FAMILY... If you live in a home, condominium or apartment, a wireless home security system, such as the Heath Zenith SS 5900, can be installed in minutes. The expandable system comes with two wireless door/window sensors and a control console that can monitor up to six different zones within the residence. System options include additional door/window sensors, motion sensors, a personal command control, a wireless key pad, an auto dialer and a siren. At a suggested retail price of less than $250, it's a product no family can afford to live without.

"Join Nutri/System This Week and Pay $1⁰⁰ for each Lb. You Want To Lose."

"I've tried to lose weight in the past, but I never got too far—I always gained it back. Then I went to Nutri/System. They are the only ones that taught me how to get the weight off and keep it off."

The counselors practically held my hand and guided me through the program. So losing and maintaining my weight for 7 months now was not a problem. Things have really turned around for me. My life is three things it wasn't before: great, great, and great.

The largest treats in the world

Imagine being able to dig into the largest chocolate bar in the world, or the largest pie, or pancake, or cookie!—

Well, people go to all extremes as far as food is concerned—sometimes for charity, sometimes for fun. King-sized dishes that can be shared among hundreds of people can be an enjoyable feast.

According to the Guinness Book of Records, the longest banana split ever made measured nearly four and a half miles long and was made by university students in New Jersey.

The world's largest jello was a gigantic, wobbling, pink, melon-flavored one, which was made with about 10,000 gallons of water.

The largest milkshake ever made took 200 pounds of vanilla ice cream, 25 gallons of milk and 51 pounds of vanilla syrup and was drunk by citizens of Mt. Lebanon, Pennsylvania in 1986 on Independence Day.

The largest apple pie ever made was by TV chef Glynn Christian in a 36 x 21 foot dish at Hewitts Farm in Chestfield, Kentucky. More than 600 bushels of apples were included in the pie, which weighed 13.66 tons.

And finally, the world's largest popsicle weighed about 6,000 pounds and was made in Davenport, Iowa in 1975.

Could you imagine eating these large quantities of food?

What is a nerve?

The billions of cells whose job it is to keep your body informed of conditions outside and inside it, are called nerve cells, or neurons.

Neurons transmit messages throughout the body by passing signals or impulses from one to the other.

Sensory neurons are nerve cells which carry impulses from the eyes, ears, nose, mouth and skin to the brain and spinal cord. They allow us to see and hear, smell and taste and tell us whether we are hot or cold, and let us feel pleasure or pain.

Motor neurons are nerve cells which carry these impulses from the brain to the muscles in the body, telling them to sit, run or walk.

Other neurons work automatically, without signals from the brain. These neurons keep your heart beating, your blood flowing, your lungs breathing and your stomach digesting food—all automatically, with no command from your brain.

The later years can be among the most rewarding: Capitalize on your resources

Grandma Moses was painting at age 100, and Arthur Rubinstein gave one of his greatest recitals at Carnegie Hall when he was 89. While there isn't any magic formula for remaining active so long, Donna Dalton Hummel, Ph.D., author and teacher of development and aging in the Department of Psychology at Castleton State College in Vermont, says that if we can dispel the myths of aging, plan well for retirement, develop financial security and maintain a positive outlook on life, the later years can be among our most rewarding. "Many sources of information and everyday assistance now exist to help older people," Hummel says. "Most are a telephone call away, but unless a person knows that the programs exist they are of no value."

It was for that reason that Hummel, with Edith Furst and Anne Avery, wrote Successful Aging: A Sourcebook For Older People And Their Families (Ballantine Books). The book explains what resources exist for the elderly, where they are, what they do, and how they can be contacted. "It isn't a textbook on how the body ages," Hummel stresses. "It is a resource guide to point you in the direction of sources of help."

The idea for the book came from the massive amounts of information on assistance for seniors that passed across Furst's and Avery's desks at the Consumer Federation of America in Washington, D.C.

Furst currently is Product Safety Coordinator at the Consumer Federation of America and Avery is former Product Safety Director for the Consumer Federation of America.

It took the authors over seven months to compile all of the information for their book, which includes sections on Social Security and Medicare, health and nutrition, drug packaging, alternative housing choices, retirement planning and coping with death and dying.

The authors' findings dispel many of the myths that have surrounded aging through the years. "Old age isn't synonymous with being sick and senile," Hummel comments. "The greatest danger in allowing these myths to go uncorrected is that older adults may accept them as truth. If you expect your memory to fail, it will."

"In fact, no dramatic transformation occurs at age 65 to turn you into a different person from the one you were at 64," Hummel stresses. In 1935, when Social Security was enacted, only four percent of the population lived beyond age 65.

"That age was chosen for retirement basically for reasons of financial expediency," she says.

"You should find out whether your company has a pension plan, whether you are in direct control of it, whether the plan is pegged to Social Security benefits, how early retirement can be taken without a benefit penalty and what the monthly benefits will be," Hummel notes.

"It is equally important to have a will," she says.

When shopping for upholstered furniture, wise buying saves both time and money

Buying upholstered furniture requires an understanding of how sofas, loveseats and chairs are made.

Once you get an idea of how the fabric meets the frame and what goes between, you will be in a better position to discern value in meeting your needs.

The attraction of upholstered goods is frame and fabric. Sleek contemporary or romantically traditional, the style is only as good as the wood frame.

nected firmly with screws, glues and dowels.

For added strength, all frames are reinforced with corner blocks, which must be screwed, glued and doweled, in order for you to get your money's worth.

Ask the furniture salesperson to show you the underside of the piece, if possible. The foundation will be covered but the legs will be exposed enough to evaluate quality.

On chairs, inspect as much as possible on the joining of the legs to the frame, usually a good indication of quality. Simple screwed-on legs could be a sign that you will want to consider a more securely fastened chair.

Be sure to sit in as many varieties of sofas and chairs as possible, paying close attention to the feel. For instance, on sofa arms can you feel the wood frame under the padding? If so, you might want to consider a better model.

On sofas, sit on both sides and the middle. You will be testing the springing. One test is to remove the side arm pillow or bolster and sit deep into the corner. Better quality sofas will place springs flush to the arms. The springing will tell you a lot about the quality of the sofa or chair.

Ask questions about the quantity of springs, how they are fastened to the frame and how they are tied together.

Better quality sofas have more springs, and they are hand-tied together eight ways, to assure comfort.

Due to style, some contemporary sofas are unable to provide eight-way, handknotted springing.

Look closely at tailoring, usually a good clue to quality. Stitching is better than stapling fabric to frame.

The cushioning can be synthetic, but it must be dense enough to provide comfort. When you are sitting on the sofa, see how much the corner of the cushions "kick up." Better cushions will kick up slightly to compensate for the weight of the person. Another clue to quality is strip decking. When the corners kick up, you should be able to see the same fabric in the gap on better goods.

Much of what you are unable to see on upholstered goods determines the price. But so does what you can see, especially the cover.

Most sofas and chairs are priced according to the grade of fabric. And a choice of grades is usually available.

A step-by-step guide to changing your own motor oil

The use of a technically advanced motor oil with superior lubricating qualities and adherence to a good maintenance schedule has never been more important. Today's high performance, fast burn and fuel-efficient engines are placing a greater demand on motor oil than ever before. They start up and take off more quickly, and produce searing heat that can begin to break down an oil immediately.

Step one

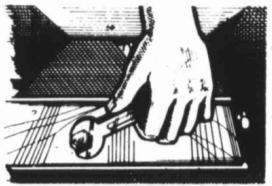

Warm engine to its normal operating temperature (about five to 10 minutes idling).

Switch off engine. Raise the hood, locate the oil filler cap and loosen it.

Step two

Locate the oil drain plug underneath the car, at the bottom rear end of the engine sump (or oil pan). Do not loosen the automatic transmission drain plug, usually located further back. (When in doubt, refer to your owner's manual.)

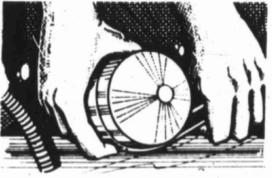

Place the drain pan beneath the drain plug and slightly towards the back. Engage the plug with your wrench and turn it counterclockwise until it rotates freely. Finish removal by hand. Be careful of hot oil, and avoid dropping plug into drain pan.

Step three

Loosen oil filter (it may be hot) by turning it counterclockwise with a filter wrench. Avoid touching the hot exhaust manifold. Complete removal of the filter manually, catching it in your hand.

If filter is installed "threads up," it will be filled with oil and slightly heavy. Ease it down and away from engine, then tip it over into the drain pan.

Materials you will need

- 1) Approximately five quarts of motor oil. Check your owner's manual for the proper SAE viscosity, API performance and quantity required for your engine.
- 2) New oil filter: Most cars use "spin-on" type, available in various sizes. Check your manual for type and size.
- 3) Drain plug socket wrench or open end wrench (exact size), plus an oil filter wrench.
- 4) Large drain pan, six to eight quart capacity.

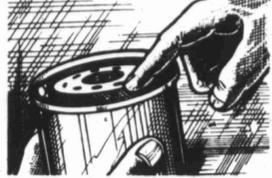

Safety first

- Read your owner's manual for specific safety precautions before going under car.
- Do not use a bumper jack to hold up car while underneath. (Portable wheel ramps if available, are ideal and safer.)
- Put car in gear or "park." Set brakes and chock both wheels with wooden blocks to prevent car from rolling.
- Do not start engine without oil.

Step four

Clean in and around the filter seat on the engine with a rag. Take a new filter and apply a light oil film to gasket (this film provides necessary sealing).

Carefully screw the new filter onto the threaded oil line, turning it clockwise. Once aligned properly, the filter will thread on easily. Snug up tightly by hand. Do not use a wrench or overtighten.

Step five

Clean the oil plug and drain seat. Align and replace the plug; screw it in carefully by hand and avoid "cross threading." Tighten the plug firmly or snugly with a wrench. Do not overtighten.

Step six

Fill the engine with the required quantity of oil. Check oil dipstick to assure proper fill level. The oil light should go out soon after the engine is started.

Run engine for several minutes, turn off engine and recheck oil dipstick to assure proper oil level. Then check under the car for leaks. Keep a written record of the current mileage and date in the glove compartment.

For the finest engine care, use premium motor oils. Castrol GTX Super Multi-Grade is a high performance motor oil that is designed to meet the needs of today's high revving, hot running, fast burn engines. It is a shear stable motor oil that, in every grade, provides maximum protection against viscosity and thermal breakdown.

Castrol GTX is formulated to provide maximum protection against motor oil breakdown. Castrol's exclusive additive package contains unique viscosity improvers, anti-oxidants, detergents, sludge dispersants and varnish inhibitors.

Castrol products exceed the performance and warranty requirements of every car and light truck on the road, exceeding the highest API (American Petroleum Institute) performance specifications.

Castrol GTX motor oils are Turbo Approved, and exceed the performance requirements of all turbo gasoline and turbo diesel passenger car engines.

Precautions to follow

- Prolonged and repeated skin contact with used motor oil should be avoided.
 - Wash thoroughly with soap and water to remove motor oil from skin. Do not use gasoline or other organic solvents.
 - Skin contact with clothing that is oil-soaked should be avoided. Oil-soaked cloths should be washed before re-use. All oil-soaked articles that are unwashable should be discarded.
 - Dispose of used oil in accordance with Federal, state and local regulations. If possible, deliver to a certified used oil reclamation center. Protect the environment and dispose of used oil properly.
- CAUTION: Prolonged and repeated skin contact with used motor oil may be harmful.
- Used motor oils have been shown in laboratory tests to cause skin cancer in mice. No direct evidence exists of similar effects to humans in normal anticipated use. However, there may be a potential risk from prolonged or repeated skin contact in the absence of good personal hygiene.

TRUCK CAPS, such as the Leer 190 Crown shown here, not only add style and attractiveness, they help protect your pickup from the elements.

Fishing for compliments? Try these easy recipes

For some reason, many cooks are intimidated by fish. They're uncertain about how to shop for it and how to prepare it. Fish, however, is a light, healthy, delicious and very versatile food that's easy to work with, once you learn how.

If you're not sold on the idea of eating more fish, try these facts about nutrition for size.

According to Ann Clark, author of Fabulous Fish (New American Library), fish is:

- Low in calories. A four-ounce portion of lean fish has about 155 calories, while the same amount of fatty fish has about 200. "Don't be misled by the word fat as it describes fish," Clark writes, "the fattest fish contain less fat than the leanest meat."
 - High in protein. One four-ounce serving provides adults with one third to one half of their Recommended Daily Allowance.
 - Rich in vitamins A, D and B.
 - Rich in minerals—phosphorus, potassium, iron, iodine, selenium. Shellfish is a very good source of zinc.
- Of course, the best way to ensure eating the freshest fish possible is to catch it yourself. But, in between fishing trips, you can buy good fish; it's a simple matter of knowing what to look for.
- You know fish is fresh, according to Patricia Boely, author of The Joy of Seafood (Barron's), if:
- The eyes are clear.
 - The gills are red and not sticky.
 - The scales and skin are shiny and the meat is firm.
 - Fillets are firm and not sticky.
 - There is no odor. "Don't be ashamed to ask to smell the fish," Boely advises.
- As for versatility, well, fish can be served at breakfast, lunch and dinner, and as appetizers, and hors d'oeuvres. It can be broiled, baked, grilled, poached, roasted, stewed, sauteed, stuffed, made into soups and salads, and, oh, don't forget microwaved.
- Fish prepared properly in a microwave oven is extremely moist and tender, writes Michele Scicolone in her book Fish Steaks and Fillets (Harmony Books). To prevent overcooking, Scicolone prescribes the following method.
- In a flat, shallow, microwave-safe dish, place fish with thicker portions to the outside of the pan. Thin fillets can be form thickness. The pan should be covered with plastic wrap with one edge folded over to let steam out. Depending on the particular microwave, cooking time should be about three minutes on high power per pound of fish.

Here's a recipe idea for the microwave from Fish Steaks and Fillets. It's hard to believe that anything that tastes this good can be so easy to make.

STRIPED BASS WITH FENNEL

3-4 servings

- 1 large fennel bulb, about 1 pound
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 1 pound striped bass, snapper, or sole fillets
- 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
- Salt and pepper to taste

1. Cut fennel in half lengthwise; discard tough stems. Cut into very thin crosswise slices.
2. Place butter in an 8x12-inch microwave-safe dish. Cover with plastic wrap, turning up one corner to vent. Microwave on high for 30 seconds. Stir in fennel, onion, and orange peel. Cover, and microwave on high for 6 minutes. Let stand for 3 minutes.
3. Arrange fillets over fennel in dish. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. Spoon some of the fennel over the fillets, cover, and microwave on high for 3 minutes. Serve immediately.

Of course, even in a regular oven delicious fish dishes are a snap. Just try this one for Bluefish with Rosemary Potatoes from Fish Steaks and Fillets. Bluefish lovers will flip.

BLUEFISH WITH ROSEMARY POTATOES

8 servings

- 1 1/2 pounds all-purpose potatoes, peeled and thinly sliced
- 3 cup olive oil
- 3 large garlic cloves, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary, crumbled
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 2 pounds bluefish, mackerel, or mullet fillets
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons chopped fresh parsley

1. Preheat the oven to 450°F. Oil a 10x15-inch jelly roll pan.
2. Combine the potatoes with half the olive oil, garlic, rosemary, salt, and pepper. Spread the potatoes evenly in the pan. Bake for 20 minutes, or until the potatoes begin to brown.
3. Remove the pan from the oven. With a metal spatula, turn the potatoes over. Bake for 10 minutes. Arrange the fish on top of the potatoes. Sprinkle with the remaining ingredients and bake for 15 minutes. Serve immediately.

When fly fishermen are successful at rivers and streams, they'll be amazed at how good their catch will taste "in jail." This recipe for Stuffed Fresh Trout in Jail comes from The Joy of Seafood, and gets its name because the fish is wrapped in tin foil.

STUFFED FRESH TROUT IN JAIL

Makes 4 servings

- 6 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 1 pound mushrooms, finely chopped
- Juice of one lemon
- Salt and freshly ground black pepper
- 4 whole 1/2 pound trout
- 1 small carrot, peeled and minced
- 1 small onion, minced
- 1 stalk celery, minced
- 2 tablespoons water
- 4 sprigs fresh rosemary (or 1/2 teaspoon dried)
- Juice of 2 lemons

1. To make the stuffing, melt 2 tablespoons butter in a large skillet. Add mushrooms, juice of 1 lemon, salt and pepper and cook over medium heat for about 10 minutes, or until all the mushroom liquid has evaporated. Remove from skillet and set aside.
2. Wash trout and pat dry; season with salt and pepper. Place each trout on a square of aluminum foil.
3. In a skillet, melt 1 tablespoon butter; add the carrot, onion, celery, water and salt and pepper to taste. Cook over medium heat for 7 minutes. Drain and set aside.
4. Spoon the mushroom mixture into the cavities of the fish. Place the reserved vegetables over each fish and top with a rosemary sprig. Enclose the fish tightly in foil.

5. Preheat oven to 425°F. Place foil-wrapped fish on a baking sheet and bake for 10 minutes. Meanwhile, heat the juice of 2 lemons in a small, non-aluminum saucepan over high heat. Whisk in remaining 3 tablespoons butter 1 tablespoon at a time. Adjust seasoning and serve the fish.

And finally, here's an idea from Fabulous Fish: Piccata of Mako Shark with Capers and Lemon. It takes just five minutes to make, but tastes like you've slaved all day. It works with a variety of fish, as well as shark.

PICCATA OF MAKO SHARK WITH CAPERS AND LEMON

Serves 2

- 1/2 tablespoon virgin olive oil or unsalted sweet butter
- 1/4 pound thin (1/4-to-1/2-inch) slices of shark fillet (see Note)
- 1 small lemon, peeled and sliced, each slice cut into 8 to 12 pieces
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground white pepper
- 1 1/2 teaspoons capers, well rinsed and dried
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped Italian parsley

Heat the olive oil in a skillet, add the shark fillets, and cook over medium-high heat only about 1 minute or a little less on each side. Remove to a heated platter.

Add the lemon pieces, salt, pepper, and capers to the skillet, and, when hot, pour over the sautéed shark. Sprinkle with parsley and serve immediately.

NOTE: This recipe is excellent with many other lean, moderately fatty, and fatty fish. It works best with thinner fillets. Try it with: Sole, flounder, orange roughy, catfish, salmon, trout, tuna, bluefish, red snapper, tilefish, porgy, ocean perch, rockfish, amberjack, and mahimahi.

Cushion-backed carpet offers multiple benefits

Want a quick and easy way to brighten a room at a low cost, plus add energy efficiency and comfort right down to your toes? Then consider installing cushion-backed carpeting as a do-it-yourself project.

Not only does cushion-backed carpeting provide rich beauty and comfort underfoot, it aids in energy savings, noise reduction, and actually makes carpet wear longer—all at an affordable price.

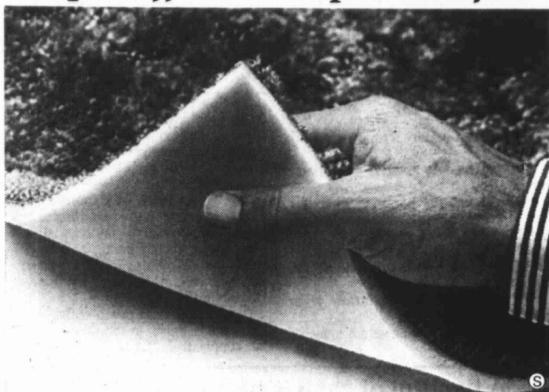

Today's cushion-backed carpeting is not the same as that of years ago. Advanced urethane chemistry and improved manufacturing processes ensure that the backing won't crack, peel, or crumble as rubber backings once did. In fact, carpets that feature the patented Kangaback, one of the leading brands of attached urethane cushion, are also easier to remove.

Cushion-backed carpeting is designed with the novice handyman in mind. Since there's no separate pad needed, cushion-backed carpeting requires no stretching, a task best handled by professional installers. So, with a few simple tools, you can easily carpet a room in one afternoon, using any good multi-purpose adhesive or double-faced tape.

For apartment dwellers or those in temporary housing, the purchase of cushion-backed carpet gives a permanent decorating solution to a temporary living situation. When you're ready to move, attached-back carpet that's been loosely laid or installed with double-faced tape comes up without a mess, and is ready to travel with you.

Ask your carpet retailer to show you samples of today's cushion-backed carpeting. It comes in a variety of thicknesses. More than 70 manufacturers now offer Kangaback, the patented prime urethane attached carpet cushion, on more than 300 different carpet styles and a multitude of color choices.

Made of 100 percent prime urethane, Kangaback is environmentally safe, and contains no fillers. It makes carpet wear better, because it's a perfect match of carpet and padding support, thus minimizing damage caused by foot traffic and heavy furniture.

Prices for cushion-backed carpeting range from low budget to high fashion. It's a better value than buying carpet with a separate pad, which is often included as a hidden cost. Plus, many carpets with attached cushion now also feature stain-resistant and anti-static treatments for today's active lifestyles.

There's a carpet selection that's just right for your decorating theme. Choose from berber, cut pile or sculptured styles, in every shade and texture. Be sure to have your room measurements handy when you make your purchase so you'll know how much it will take to complete your job.

Cushion-backed carpet can be installed in one of two ways. A multi-purpose floor covering adhesive ensures no movement after the carpet is installed. It requires more skill in use, however, and is permanent. Using double-faced tape makes the carpet easier to install, plus it's easier to remove.

So, how to choose between the two? If you're covering nice hardwood floors, then consider using tape for easy removal. However, if the flooring is already damaged, or is constructed of plywood or particleboard, you may prefer adhesive.

For your installation project, you'll need some simple tools, easily purchased at your carpet retail store, or hardware and home centers. With a few tools, tape or adhesive, and carpet, you'll be ready to add lasting comfort, beauty, and energy savings to your home—all at an affordable price.

Ask your local carpet dealer for literature on Kangaback cushion-backed carpet, available in a wide variety of styles and colors. Many stock it for cash and carry, and most have Kangaback available from their leading carpet manufacturers. FH901852

That's Why We Say...The Best Tires In The World Have Goodyear Written All Over Them.

Out of the woodwork: ideas to beautify the home

It is often said that a house is a reflection of its owner's personality. Today, options in beautifying each room are literally coming out of the woodwork—architectural woodwork, that is.

The term architectural woodwork includes moldings and trim, staircases, cabinetry, window casings and sills, doors and door jambs, paneling, floors and much more.

When it comes to finishing products for the home, you have many choices. For woodwork, many architects, designers and homeowners prefer solid U.S. hardwoods over softwoods and synthetic imitations. Hardwoods provide natural beauty and lasting quality, and their many colors and grain patterns offer infinitely varied and distinctive options.

Whether you're decorating a new home or remodeling an old one, solid hardwood products are the perfect finishing touch.

If you have already decided on hardwood floors, kitchen cabinets or furniture, consider matching moldings, doors and wainscoting.

The creative use of hardwood woodwork adds distinction and value to your home, whatever the style. In most cases, older homes already have beautiful woodwork that has stood the test of time and can easily be matched to the hundreds of patterns available today. Hardwood woodwork also adds warmth and beauty to even the most modern home designs.

Yet solid hardwood woodwork is affordable and can be found at most retail lumber yards and home centers. In most cases, a step up to solid hardwood translates into only a minor additional cost. That investment will pay for itself many times over in years to come, both monetarily and aesthetically.

Another practical advantage of solid hardwood is that its natural characteristics make it easy to repair if damaged. Unlike synthetic materials, when the surface of solid hardwood is scratched, the same quality material appears underneath.

For the installation of hardwood architectural woodwork, look for a qualified remodeler or carpenter contractor who is experienced in fine home interiors.

For more information on solid hardwood woodwork, please write for a free "Finished Home" booklet from the Hardwood Manufacturers Association, 400 Penn Center Blvd., Suite 530, Pittsburgh, PA 15235, or call 1-800-373-WOOD. FH901644

HAMMERING WITH SAFETY

Most striking tools have 'do's' and 'don'ts' concerning their use...and hammers are no exception. Here are some of the more important 'do's' and 'don'ts' from the experts at Stanley Tools.

- Do strike squarely with no glancing blows;
- Do wear safety goggles when hammering; and
- Do discard the hammer when the face shows excessive wear, mushrooming, chipping, dents, etc. And, for some 'don'ts'?
- Don't strike with the side of the hammer;
- Don't strike one hammer with another; and
- Don't use a hammer with a loose or damaged handle. FH901646

Heat pumps save energy and help the environment

Cutting down on energy use is one of the most important things individual homeowners can do to help improve the environment. Saving energy means less fossil fuel production, which means less pollution.

One of the main ways homeowners can save energy is by installing a heat pump. This versatile device will both heat and cool your home, and its efficient design results in major energy savings as well as cost savings on monthly utility bills.

Because the heat pump collects heat that already exists in the outdoor air, it can supply from 1.5 to 2.5 times more heat than the energy it uses. On electric heating bills, heat pumps can mean savings of 30 to 60 percent because they use 30 to 60 percent less energy to supply the same heat as an electric furnace.

The latest information about heat pumps, including money-saving tips and a schematic drawing, is featured in the Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute pamphlet "Heat, Cool, Save Energy with a Heat Pump." The pamphlet is free to consumers who send a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to: ARI, Dept. U-154, P.O. Box 37700, Washington, DC 20015. FH901489

Ten tips for making exercise more fun

With America becoming more health-conscious, many people are enrolling in exercise programs. But statistics show that few succeed: At least 50 percent of those who begin a physical fitness program drop out before six months. In fact, health clubs operate on the premise that most new members will disappear after three months.

What does it take to stick to an exercise program and reap lifetime benefits? Professional trainers advise that exercise must be fun, and stress the importance of making your routine a part of your regular lifestyle. The time-worn phrase, "no pain, no gain," no longer applies.

Whether they work out with weights, do aerobics or play racquetball, those who gain the benefits usually are those who actually look forward to time spent exercising—not those who go to the gym grudgingly.

To tune out the pain and increase the gain, here are 10 pointers on how to make your workout more enjoyable:

- 1) Wear comfortable clothing—Dress appropriately for the activity and weather. Wear clothing that "breathes" and is loose-fitting to make movement easy. Shoe fit is important for avoiding blisters, as are appropriate undergarments for support.
- 2) Warm up slowly—You'll feel better if you elevate the heart rate and warm up muscles before exercise to reduce stress on muscles and tendons; more important, it'll help avoid injury.
- 3) Exercise regularly—Your body adapts to exercise in the same way that it adapts to any routine such as eating and sleeping. For maximum benefit, work out at least every other day, even if it means lighter workouts on some days.
- 4) Listen to music—Music is a diversion that makes exercise less tedious and more pleasant. The rhythms of music are a natural stimulus to movement, and promote intensity of exercise.

Electronics manufacturers have responded to this need with small, durable radios. For example, the recently introduced GE "Action" AM/FM stereo radio is ultra-light, can be fastened to the arm with an adjustable band, and has small bud-type headphones that fit inside the ear.

5) Exercise with friends—Combine your time spent exercising with socializing. Organizing work-out activity with others also reinforces motivation.

6) Make goals—Set measurable goals for yourself over several months. As you reach your goals, your feeling of accomplishment will help you to set and pursue new goals.

7) Challenge yourself—Go for the "burn." It feels good because you know you'll get results.

8) Compete with yourself—You are your best judge, but don't compare yourself with Arnold Schwarzenegger or Bo Derek. After all, Rome wasn't built in a day.

9) Look in the mirror; measure the results—Results are best measured by how you look. Because muscle weighs more than fat, a successful training program will not necessarily result in loss of weight.

10) Create variety—Boredom is exercise enemy number one. When exercising, be aware of all muscle groups. Most professional athletes supplement their sport with other activities, such as running and weight lifting, to build strength and endurance. Remember, you're building habits for a lifetime.

Games kids play: Hide the "veggies"

Who among us doesn't remember as a child facing the challenge of the veggies. Every dinner time, there they were, on a pre-assembled plate placed before us, with the command of the cook/mother/boss to "eat all your vegetables." Methods of dealing with this problem were as varied as the number of kids at the table.

The family dog always came in handy in such situations. The truth be known, veggies aren't high on a dog's list either, but they'll do anything to please their young masters...even eat peas.

Kids with a superhuman portion of tenacity—or who just had nothing to do after dinner, except homework or the dishes—took the "out-last 'em" approach. Pile the potatoes high, slide the veggies around behind, then pick at the meat and potatoes until the vegetables look unappetizing even to mom. Finally, she utters three little long-awaited words: "Oh, forget it!"

Probably the most common tactic, though, was—and is—the old "fool the taste buds" approach. Bury a few veggies in a mound of potatoes and zip 'em down before the taste buds send out an alarm.

Smart moms quickly caught on to this latter tactic and took to pre-burying the vegetables. Cooked in this fashion, they seemed (to kids, anyway) to lose their individuality, blending in with other more tolerable flavors. It's like the proverbial spoon full of sugar helping the medicine go down.

A recipe perfect for this tactic was offered by Corning early in the baby boom years. Published in the May 1946 issue of the company's employee newsletter, it was turned up in a search of the company's archives during this, the 75th anniversary year of Pyrex brand bakeware.

The recipe called for a Pyrex 1 1/2 quart casserole dish, which is every bit as functional now as it was then...more so, because that same dish can now be used either in the conventional or microwave oven. It's a one-dish meal cooked and served in the same dish, which is bound to please the after-dinner clean-up crew.

FIVE-LAYER DINNER

- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 cup cooked ground meat (raw for microwave version)
- 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 2 teaspoons salt, divided
- 1 cup cooked potatoes, sliced or cubed
- 1 cup string beans, cooked
- 1 cup corn, cooked
- 4 medium size tomatoes, sliced (or 1 large can Italian plum tomatoes, drained)
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons grated cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Cook onion in the shortening until almost tender, add meat, pepper, chili powder and one teaspoon of the salt. Stir to blend well, and place in a well-greased 1 1/2-quart Pyrex casserole dish.

In layers, add the potatoes, string beans and corn. Sprinkle 1/4 teaspoon of salt over the vegetables, add the tomatoes, sprinkle with remaining salt and sugar and top with cheese and parsley.

Bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees. Serves six.

Microwave Instructions:

This whole dish can be done in the microwave oven.

Put the onion in the casserole dish, cover with a plate (a Corning dinner plate will do nicely) and steam on HIGH 30 seconds or until onion is wilted. Add meat (in the microwave, use lean ground beef, and add a clove or two of minced garlic) and cook on HIGH one minute, stir and cook another minute, then drain any fat.

Then follow the assembly directions above and cook on HIGH for eight minutes, rotate dish and continue cooking until dish is heated through—about six to eight more minutes.
