Hall-Bennett fundraising set

A fund-raising event for Hall-Bennett Clinic on Friday will feature the music of local country music performer Jody Nix.

The lunch and dinner-music event will take place in a tent on the lawn of the clinic, 411 E. Ninth St. Barbecue will be served from noon to 3 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys will perform beginning about 7 p.m. The public is invited, and donations are accepted.

College sponsors fun competition

Howard College is seeking entrants for its Fall Fit competition, a "wellness extravaganza," set for Saturday, Nov. 3, to benefit the college scholarship fund.

Admissions Director Linda way said the competitions are both "for the athletic and the not-so athletic." Participants can test their skills in rodeo, basketball, baseball and general fitness.

"The contests will all be fun and completely nonthreatening," Conway said. Teams will not practice before the event, she added.

Teams of four men and four women will be used for all competitions, but persons may enter alone or in small groups to be formed into teams by college organizers. To enter Fall Fit, call 264-5027.

Change batteries, say fire officials

More than 5,400 people died in the United States last year from home fires, said fire department officials, including 80 percent of those trapped inside a burning home.

Early warning of fire is one of the keys to saving lives. The Big Spring Fire Department reminds everyone to change the batteries in their smoke detector when they set their clocks back on Sunday, Oct. 28

"Don't wait till you have a fire to change the battery (in your smoke alarm)," said Captain Alex Calvio, training officer for the Big Spring Fire Department.

"Most of the time people have smoke detectors on their ceiling and they just forget it. They need a yearly reminder to change (the battery). What better time than now, when you change the clock, because most fires happen during the cool season," he said.

Calvio said the fire department decided three years ago there was a need to remind people to change the battery in their smoke detector. He said some people do not realize that if the alarm beeps, it means the batteries are low. "People say 'it started beeping and quit when I took the battery out.' Another woman told me she thought it was her phone beeping. "Replacing the battery in the smoke detectors requires little time, a small, inexpensive battery, and remembering to do the task.

"This is an $8 item that saves people's lives and their homes," Calvio said.

Military buildup will continue in Gulf

By JOHN KING Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said today the United States will continue its military buildup in the Persian Gulf, perhaps adding as many as 100,000 more troops. 'We're not at the point yet where we want to stop adding forces. Cheney said.

DICK CHENEY

He declined to say how many troops might be added to the U.S. deployment, which now totals 220,000 troops in and around Saudi Arabia. But when asked if adding 100,000 troops was possible, Cheney said, "It's conceivable that we'll end up with that big an increase."

Pentagon sources said Wednesday the deployment would reach the planned level of 240,000 in three weeks. But Cheney said the administration "never put an upper ceiling on the deployment.'

His comments came as President Bush faced several decisions about the makeup of the gulf forces and as his top uniformed commander, Gen. Colin Powell, headed home from talks with ground commanders in Saudi Arabia. The talks included discussion of adding more offensive might to the U.S. forces.

The U.S.-led multinational forces now total more than 300,000 but still fall far short of the estimated 430,000 Iraqi troops deployed in heavily fortified positions in occupied Kuwait and southern Iraq.

Pentagon planners, noting a recent decline in polls of public support for the desert deployment, have urged Cheney and other senior administration officials to articulate their reasons clearly should they decide to expand the Cheney said the administration still hoped for a peaceful solution to the standoff with Iraq's Saddam Hussein but wanted to make sure its force in the region offered Bush the option of ordering an offensive.

"We want to make certain we've got the forces over there to deal with any contingency," Cheney said on "CBS This Morning." On ABC's "Good Morning America," he said: "We've not yet settled on an upper limit in terms of our total deployment. So for a number of reasons I would expect a continuing flow of forces to the gulf in the period ahead.

The Pentagon sources, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said that if more troops were sent to the region they likely would be heavy tank divisions, either from the United States or Europe. These sources also said it was possible some non-essential units might be brought home by Christmas, with the 82nd Airborne Division a likely candidate.

Cheney said it was "entirely possible" that the 82nd would be rotated out and additional heavy units sent in. But he said no decision had been made

Even if the United States subbed a tank division for the 82nd, "we still wouldn't have an offensive force to be comfortable with," a Pentagon source said today. This source said no additional ground units have been ordered to the

The American buildup hit a symbolic juncture Wednesday with the arrival in Saudi Arabia of the final elements of the 11th Air Defense Brigade from Fort Bliss. It was the last combat unit scheduled for deployment in the region, Pentagon sources said.

The only remaining troops scheduled as of Wednesday to be sent to the area following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait are support units due to arrive over the next three weeks, bringing the deployment to 240,000.

There appears to be little domestic or international support for a unilateral U.S. offensive,

Barring some action by Iraq that would bring consensus for an attack, Pentagon sources and military analysts consider it far more likely that Bush will make small changes to the force.

"We would have to double the force there to make an offensive palatable from a military standpoint," said Lawrence J. Korb, a former assistant defense secretary for manpower in the Reagan administration. "I don't think that is very likely. . . I'd set up a rotation plan but basically keep my troop level about where it is.

About a month after they sent boxes of sweets to soldiers serving in Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf, residents of Canterbury North have received letters in response.

About 20 residents worked diligently to prepare five boxes to be sent to a Navy ship and Army, Air Force and Marines units in Saudi Arabia. So far, they have received letters of thanks from a Navy ship captain and an Air Force staff sergeant, as well as a card signed by service people from all over Texas and the entire country.

"None of us here question why we're here," wrote Staff Sgt. David N. Riley in his letter of thanks. "We must help preserve the peace in the world so our younger generation can enjoy what so many of us take for

"I'm real proud of this one." Coppock said, looking over the large envelope. "I was in the Navy for six years. I know something about what they're go ing through over there.

County tentatively agrees to ambulance contract

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

The county will probably approve a contract with a local county/city ambulance service for the same amount they have been paying for the past two years, officials say, while the city on Tuesday approved a 6 percent increase for next year. The combined costs will increase 3.6 percent.

A tentative agreement for a oneyear contract between the county and American Medical Transport came during a meeting Wednesday of county and company officials following City Council approval Tuesday night of a five-year contract with AMT. The city contract was arranged independently of any county agreement for the first time in the three years of service by AMT.

"I was suprised to learn Wednesday morning that the city decided to go it alone and enter into a contract," said County Judge John Coffee, who met with AMT Supervisor Brenda Whatley on Wednesday.

He said commissioners indicated they will approve continuing the annual county subsidy of $50,916 at the Nov. 10 Commissioners Court meeting. The county will be paying 42 percent of the total 1990-91 subsidy of $121,716. The city's share is $70,800

"Taking a straw poll of the commissioners, I don't have any doubt that it will be approved," Coffee

Whatley said. "We came to the agreement that we wouldn't have any problem waiting one more year (for an increase).

The original proposal by AMT last summer called for a 10 percent increase of the total 1989-90 subsidy of $117,504 but asked for no increase in the city's share and a 23 percent increase in the county's share.

However, county commissioners balked at the proposed increase and asked for financial statements which were delivered Friday afternoon to Steve Stone, the county's representative on the county/city ambulance board. Coffee said the county from July 1, 1989 to June 30 statements show that AMT had a of this year, only 11 percent were profit of $23,000 out of an $82,000 for for people living outside of Big

Those figures contributed to commissioners questioning the payment of 45 percent of the subsidy. "I think we should be paying a lot lower than that," said Precinct 3 Commissioner Bill Crooker at a Sept. 10 Commissioners Court meeting.

Meanwhile, the city contract calls for annual increases beginning in 1991-92 of either 5 percent or the increase in the consumer price index, whichever is lower.

The county was also asked to approve a five-year contract but Coffee said they would have to levy taxes and set up a sinking fund in WASHINGTON — Congressional leaders were putting the finishing touches today on a deficitreduction package of tax increases and spending restraints that apparently has the support of a majority of lawmakers and President

Bush early this morning averted shutdown of the government by signing a temporary spending measure that will keep operations going until midnight Saturday.

Assuming no unexpected hitch, final votes could come Friday in the House and Senate. That would close another chapter in a longrunning fight between the executive and legislative branches and remove the major obstacle to final adjournment of the 101st

"Do not despair; the end is in sight," Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., said in pleading with the weary House to pass a stopgap bill extending the government's spending authority through the week.

That bill cleared the House on a 380-45 vote and the Senate with no formal vote at all. It averted a partial shutdown of the government and gave Congress three more days to pass the deficit-reduction plan and the 13 regular appropriation bills for the fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

The plan will mean higher taxes on tobacco, alcoholic beverages, airline tickets, cars, boats, furs and jewelry. A gasoline tax increase of 5 or 6 cents a gallon is likely and retirees probably will have to pay more for Medicare

Fugitives nabbed as part of sweep

HOUSTON (AP) - More than 1,400 drug fugitives have been arrested in Houston and San Antonio as part of a national crackdown begun 10 weeks ago in five target cities across the nation.

Federal authorities announced Wednesday they have booked 1,410 fugitives as part of a national drug sweep called "Operation Southern Star."

We went through our warrant files along with the county and the state in this area and targeted violent, narcotic offenders — mostly recidivists and wanted people," said B.S. Baker, U.S. Marshal for the Southern District of Texas.

'We've got a lot of them on the streets, or we did have. They're behind bars now.

Nationally, authorities nabbed 3,743 fugitives and confiscated $5.5 million in cash and property, as well as $7.3 million in drugs, guns and other contraband.

In Texas, authorities seized $496,296 in cash and property and $432,973 in drugs and contraband, Baker said.

Inmate released after 7 years

HUNTSVILLE (AP) - ATexas death row inmate who awaited execution for seven years has begun a new life on the outside since his conviction was overturned.

John Clifford Skelton, 61, convicted of killing a 46-yearold man in Odessa in 1982 by exploding dynamite in the victim's pickup truck, quietly walked away from the Ellis I Unit two weeks ago.

Skelton maintained he was 800 miles away when Joe Neal, a former employee in Skelton's steam cleaning business, was killed.

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned his conviction in 1989, and the U.S. Supreme Court assured his freedom earlier this month when it refused to reinstate his conviction and death sentence.

"He was very excited, very pleased," Skelton's attorney David Botsford said Wednesday. "But until he walked out the gates, he was restrained.
He's very pleased He's understandably upset that he was unjustly convicted and unjustly incarcerated. I anticipate pursuing certain legal avenues with regard to that.

Austin seeks fusion center

AUSTIN (AP) — The city of Austin is looking for another high-tech prize.

The city already is home to two major high-tech research consortia: MCC, the Microelectronics and Computer Technology Corp., and Sematech, the governmentindustry semiconductor research lab

Now Austin is one of four U.S. locations in the running for the headquarters of an international nuclear fusion research project that could employ 200 or more scientists for the next five years.

The project is called the International Thermonuclear Experimental Reactor, or ITER. It is seeking to build the world's first working reactor to harness fusion power, which is the way the sun makes its energy. Fusion research has been going on for more than 30 years, and researchers expect it will be at least another 35 years before the process becomes commercially viable.

It has enticed scientists for decades with its promise of unlimited energy produced in an environmentally safe manner.

Ad wars rage on Texas TV

AUSTIN (AP) — The television battle continues in the lieutenant governor's race, with Republican Rob Mosbacher and Democrat Bob Bullock swapping more charges.

Mosbacher on Wednesday began airing a commercial that accuses Bullock of slinging mud despite voter disapproval of such tactics. "Get the message Bob. Smears are out," his ad says.

Bullock accused Mosbacher of running the state welfare agency so badly that one tax increase already was needed and a budget request threatens to "cost every Texas family $403 in new taxes." Mosbacher's ad responds to a

Bullock claim that Mosbacher's barge company, Hollywood Marine, had a record of polluting. It says the company's record is "so good, the Fish and Wildlife Service gave them an award" for helping save habitat for the whooping cranes near Aransas Pass. It also answers Bullock's charge that Mosbacher mishandled the Department of Human Services. "Mosbacher's cleaning up that agency while Bullock's spending is up an incredible 700 percent," the commercial says.

Defending Bullock, spokesman John Bender said that when adjusted for inflation, the comptroller's office under Bullock increased spending only 172 percent over the last 15 years - while the number of taxpayers it collected from rose 168 percent. He also said Hollywood Marine's award had nothing to do with its being cited for pollution.

Bullock's commercial says the five-term state comptroller has been endorsed by most of Texas' major newspapers for lieutenant governor

The ad also charges that the welfare agency's budget problems already soaked up $60 million of the most recent state sales tax increase. If the agency's full 1992-93 budget request is met, the ad says that $2.5 billion hike would cost each household $403. The ad refers to Mosbacher as

"Gov. Clements' welfare chairman." Bullock spokesman John Bender said voters seem to know about the DHS problems but haven't understood how Mosbacher came to chair the board of the agency. Defending Mosbacher, Sanders said increased DHS caseloads due to federal law making more people eligible for help have caused the budget increase.

All the poor school districts, and the attorney general's office, had urged the court to take jurisdiction of the case. That means parties wouldn't have to go through the more time-consuming process of filing an initial appeal.

secretary of labor. Mrs. Dole, 54, became the first of President Bush's Cabinet secretaries to depart when she resigned Wednesday to become president of the American Red Cross.

The White House said it had not settled on a possible nominee or talked to any of the likely contenders.

"We continue to look at candidates and consider people and search for the best person," said, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

Officials noted there was no rush to fill the job because Mrs. Dole will remain on the job until Nov. 23. In addition, if Congress adjourns this week as scheduled, the Senate which must confirm any Cabinet secretary - wouldn't be back until January to give its approval, anyway

At a White House news conference Wednesday, Mrs. Dole said the choice of her successor was "up to the president. . What the presi-

Bhutto loses, says election rigged

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) A loose-knit, right-wing coalition headed toward a landslide victory over former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto today, likely setting Pakistan's struggling democracy on a more conservative, Islamic course.

Ms. Bhutto, who claims her August dismissal was a "constiutional coup," refused to concede defeat of her center-left Pakistan People's Party in Wednesday's parliamentary election.

She accused the army-backed caretaker government of largescale vote rigging, a charge that may be difficult to prove.

Opponents called the 37-yearold Ms. Bhutto a sore loser.

Millions in Sudan are threatened by famine

WASHINGTON (AP) - A workers have left in disgust. famine of "biblical dimensions" is people in Sudan, a top relief official says. Roger Winter, director of the private U.S. Committee for Refugees, planned to tell Congress today that the United States must step up food shipments and increase pressure on Sudan's government to allow the food to be delivered. Winter was to join administration officials at a hearing to discuss what can be done to avert a famine that could be greater than the one that killed hundreds of thousands of Ethiopians in the mid-1980s and mobilized world help for Africa's

"The looming humanitarian disaster in Sudan dwarfs any other in the world today," said Winter in testimony prepared for the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Drought and civil war led to the deaths of 250,000 Sudanese two years ago. This year, the fatalities could be in the millions, American officials say.

Sudan's military government, which seized power in a coup 16 months ago, has systematically prevented relief trains, planes and barges from delivering their cargoes. Many international relief

"One element of any approach to threatening as many as 11 million this situation must be a U.S.-led diplomatic effort to achieve the same sort of economic embargo against Sudan that is now in place against Iraq," Winter said.

The United States and other international donors also must step up the number of food convoys from countries bordering Sudan in eastern Africa, especially Kenya with or without the Sudanese government's permission, Winter

But U.S. officials argue they cannot act without permission in parts of the country held by government troops without risking relief workers' lives.

Earlier this month, the administration's top relief official accused the military government of bombing sites used to store international food shipments in the rebel-held south.

Rebels of the Sudan People's Liberation Army in the mostly Christian and animist south have been battling the mostly Moslem government in the north since 1983 to demand autonomy.

About three-quarters of those affected by hunger live in areas controlled by the government. The rest live in rebel-held lands, U.S. officials say.

'Ancient' rock carvings found to be 15 years old

The government was so excited by and were only 15 years old. rock carvings found in a national forest that it started building an interpretive center to explain to terested in how long it might take visitors how ancient people carved to make them. All it took was one them as messages to spirits.

But when artist Jeff Kerker saw a magazine story about the petroglyphs, he sent a message of Forest to prove he made them. his own to the U.S. Forest Service:

The carvings were his handiwork,

"I wasn't trying to fool anyone," said Kerker, of Bandon. "I was inafternoon.

Kerker said he had photos of the carvings in the Siskiyou National

The Forest Service was waiting to see Kerker's evidence before deciding whether his story was true. But enough of a question was raised that work was suspended on the interpretive center being built at Daphne Grove outside Powers, said spokeswoman Patty Burel.

"There is the off chance we never will be able to tell, since there is no exact science for dating petroglyph art like this," she said.

The carvings were discovered in 1987 on three boulders along the South Fork of the Coquille River, Burel said. One represented a fish, but the others weren't clear. The carvings were taken to a Forest Service office for preservation, and replicas were carved for the interpretive center.

A variety of archaeologists inside and outside the Forest Service examined the carvings and decided they were genuine, Burel said.

One reason was that the carvings had been eroded, and another was that they were below the river's high water mark.

'That was important, because the petroglyphs were considered to have spirits," said Janet Joyer, archaeologist for the Siskiyou Na-rose, then the petroglyphs would be under water. They were thought to transmit the people's prayers down to the salmon people.

Joyer said the development carries a good lesson.

"This will be important for archaeologists, a reminder that we must be conservative with things like this that are not dateable."

Take action against waste

Alan L. Keyes lost a U.S. Senate race in Maryland a couple of years ago. For that, we should all be thankful. Because that loss freed Republican Keyes, a former official in the Reagan administration, to become president of Citizens Against Government Waste (CAGW).

That is an organization of people who, like Keyes, are mad as you-know-what about government waste and the compulsion of Congress to spend and spend and to raise taxes until the average citizen doesn't have anything left.

And if we citizens get organized, according to Keyes, we don't have to take it anymore.

CAGW was founded in 1984 by J. Peter Grace, a businessman who headed a commission that recommended billions of dollars worth of savings, and Jack Anderson, a newspaper columnist who has specialized in uncovering government waste. CAGW has fought to help implement the recommendations of the Grace Commission and has helped save taxpayers $152.4 billion by ensuring that many of those suggestions were carried out.

He said during a recent Sacramento, Calif., trip designed to help promote Taxpayer's Action Day, set for October 27, that "tens of billions of dollars are just going down the toilet." He said government waste is so extensive and Congress is so hooked on spending tax dollars that, "I would be willing to bet the farm that no deficit reduction takes place no matter how big a tax increase they (Congress and President Bush) slam on us.'

If you are wondering why the leaders of Congress are attempting to saddle Americans with a tax increase of around $150 billion (the number changes almost daily), Keyes will tell you: "I think the folks in Washington are off in another land."

While such people as House Speaker Tom Foley are trying to make taxpayers feel guilty about not paying enough to help support the government (we now pay around 44 percent of our resources to federal, state and local government), Congress is planning to spend $3 million to refurnish congressional dining rooms.

Keyes is mad as you-know-what about such expenditures and such examples of waste as the Pentagon's purchase of a 33-year-supply of women's blouses. We like to support our men and women in uniform, but that is CAGW has performed a real public service by ranking all House of Representatives members and senators on 12 critical votes in which the lawmakers were either for the taxpayers or against them.

A lawmaker who nearly always voted to cut government waste and help the taxpayers was ranked as heroic (unfortunately there were very few of those) while other were rated as friendly, lukewarm, unfriendly, or hostile.

If you are as mad as Keyes over the mess that Congress and President Bush are making of the budget, and if you are upset at the idea of a big tax increase, it might be worthwhile to attend the Taxpayer's Action Day programs taking place all over the country. Keyes is hoping that a grass-roots organization will be formed to let Congress members know we are through supporting their lavish lifestyle and tired of the bloated budgets they are forcing us to finance.

Voters like term limits for the other guy

BY WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) - As political punishment, the drive to limit lawmakers' terms and tenure can send them a message without getting personal. And even disenchanted voters seem to prefer it that way.

The upstart issue of this campaign, term limits are gaining endorsements from some candidates who see them as hostile to the establishment and to incumbents, few of whom are likely to be ousted by the voters.

Term limits offer a way out for voters who tend to favor their own representatives, while complaining about what is happening at the State House or the Capitol.

"People say, 'I like my legislator, but not the legislature," said John Keast, who tracks referendum issues for the conservative Free Congress Foundation. "Term limits are a concept rather than a candidate. It's much easier for people to

A Washington Post-ABC News poll conducted Oct. 14 makes the point in numbers: 63 percent of those surveyed said they disapproved of the way Congress is doing its job — and 64 percent said they approved the performance of their own House member.

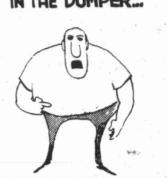

Despite the voter dissatisfaction reflected in polls, neither party expects major changes in Congress in the Nov. 6 elections.

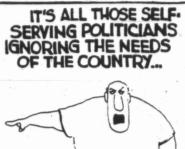

Only two states, California and Colorado, will be deciding in this election whether to restrict terms in office. Oklahoma already has imposed a 12-year limit for state legislators, effective Jan. 1. That measure was approved by twothirds of the voters in a Sept. 18 primary election. Polls reflect majority support for the other two state measures, but there is an intensive, well-financed campaign against the California limits.

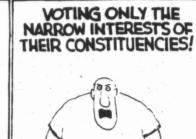

It would take a broadened movement with staying power to apply term limits in a way that would force real changes from a system in which incumbency, and the seniority that comes with it, usually rule

Vice President Dan Quayle sees that coming. "The voters are channeling their discontent into real and lasting reform," said Quayle, who is pushing term limits as he campaigns for Republican candidates.

'The people are restless,' Quayle said. "This new wave of cynicism has been building for a long time. It should not be discounted. Clearly, term limitation is an idea whose time has come.'

President Bush says he's for term limits, noting that the Republican platform advocates them. While Bush hasn't stressed it as an issue, GOP gubernatorial candidates have in states like Texas, Florida, California and Georgia.

with Bush in Dalles on Monday, Clayton Williams said that if he is elected governor, he will push a constitutional amendment for term limits. "The people in Texas are fed up with the politicians in Austin," Williams said. Opponents of term limits argue that career bureaucrats and special interests would become stronger than they already are if legislatures were stripped of their veteran lawmakers They complain that term limits are an anti-democratic measure because they restrict the choices available to the voters. Advocates concede that point, but say it's a price worth paying for change. While there is some Democratic support for term limit measures, it makes more sense for

Republicans. The GOP would benefit from turnover, especially in the House, which has been run by Democratic majorities for 36 A constitutional amendment For example, as he campaigned year would impose a 12 year ceil-would impose a 12-year limit on service in Congress, a provision that certainly would face constitutional challenge in the courts. But measures that apply only to state legislatures could eventually turn up the pressure for action to limit congressional tenure too. "People rightfully feel that entrenched legislators are only interested in getting re-elected, and I do not think the movement to limit terms will stop at the state level," Quayle said in Louisville,

Ky., last week

He said it should be extended to cover the House and Senate, where he served 12 years. His first speech as a congressman from Indiana in 1977 was a call for federal term limits. It had been one of his campaign themes in 1976, when he upset a veteran Democrat.

Telling the truth about a flight to South Bend

It wasn't a big story, but at the same time it wasn't a small story and it did have a tiny connection with the budget fight.

It seems that two Saturdays ago the secretary of the Air Force, Donald B. Rice, took an Air Force jet to South Bend, Ind., with his wife and an aide, Lt. Col. Carl Tickel, when Notre Dame was playing the Air Force Academy. The cost to the taxpayer was Critics of the junket felt that it was a waste of taxpayers' money, and the trip was an outrage to Pentagon cost-cutting.

But Secretary Rice's spokesman, Lt. Col. Darrell Hayes, insisted that the jet flight was "official business." The only reason that Rice flew out there was to discuss Notre Dame ROTC business with the cadets at the school, according to Hayes. Hayes was quoted as saying, "It was an official visit, and as secretary he is authorized to use Air Force aircraft for official business.' Witnesses at South Bend, including the colonel in charge of the Notre Dame Air Force ROTC. claim that they didn't notice Rice conducting any business at all.

Because the stories vary so much we can only guess what really happened. As one who always takes the word of an Air Force spokesman as opposed to some crabby civilian, here is my scenario:

It was a quiet Saturday morning at the Pentagon, and Secretary Rice turned to his aide, Col. Tickel. "I'm bored," Rice told him. "I wish I had something to do today.

Tickel replied, "Why don't we go out to Notre Dame and review the troops?'

"That's a good idea," Rice said.

"I like surprise visits. Can we order up an airplane?' "Of course we can," the colonel responded. "There is nothing more official on your schedule than this trip.'

They boarded the plane, and Rice, his wife and Tickel flew out, arriving at 1 o'clock. When they reached the campus there was no one around. They kept walking until they saw a stadium and heard the roars coming from it.

"What is it?" Rice asked. Tickel peeked through a hole in the fence.

"I think they're playing football, sir.

"What's football?" Rice wanted to know.

"It's a game that Notre Dame plays with a very funny shaped Rice said, "We should go in because all our ROTC cadets might be there.

The three went inside. It was time-out and Tickel yelled, "All Air Force ROTC students come down from the stands and meet tne secretary of the Air Force.' Five thousand students rose from their seats and gathered around the Rices, completely ignoring the game.

The secretary told them, "I want you to study hard and be good to your mothers." They all cheered. Rice continued, "Never take a $3 bill from a drunken sailor. Thank you, gentlemen." The students broke into the Air Force hymn and saluted as Rice with his wife and Tickel walked out of the stadium.

Tickel said, "Don't you want to see the game, sir? It's Notre Dame vs. the Air Force.'

"No, this is a strictly business trip. I'll see them play some other time when I'm paying for it myself."

That, dear reader, is the true story of what happened with Rice's plane. If you would rather believe Col. Hayes' version, I'd like to tell you a story about a grizzly bear that went into the bar for a drink.

There oughtta be a law. How many times have you heard that plaintive cry? Almost every time someone is faced with a totally nonsensical situation, you hear those five words: "There babes . . . Those are fairly decent ideas, once you think about them. As the father of a seven-year-old with a very active imagination, I shudder to think of the laws Jeramy would have enacted if he had the power.

Among the 3,500 laws submitted by the children were: Sisters can't open your birthday presents.

For starters, Christmas and birthdays would probably be celebrated about 14 times a year. Also, he would in all likelihood make it illegal for anyone over the age of, say, 10 to beat him at Nintendo.

I am quite confident that Jeramy would legislate a perfect season for the Washington Redskins and straight As on his report card, not to mention postponed bedtime on school nights.

But why should children have all the fun? My wife probably has a few pet laws she'd love to see enacted, mostly along the lines of making it illegal for her lazy husband to watch TV before the trash is emptied or the lawn is mowed. And, what the heck, there are a few laws that I'd like to see hit

In a lawsuit, Father Alexander Wangler of Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church accused Ms. Macias of disrupting church services by singing her own songs, causing "confusion and disruption.

At first she sang from her pew, the lawsuit said, but then she got up and started singing through the sound system.

Because of her actions, the church suffered a "loss of good will, spiritual tranquility and membership," the lawsuit said. State District Judge John Specia issued an injunction last week ordering Ms. Macias to cooperate or risk being held in contempt of court.

Collecting barf bags isn't sick

ting airline barf bags. The University of Florida anthropologist has more than 100 (unused) barf bags of varying sizes, designs and colors on the bulletin board of his office.

"All artifacts of a culture give clues about a way of life," he said. "Barf bags, which after all represent food and sickness, should be no different.

The British Airways bag gives terribly proper instructions: "If used for air sickness, please hand to the cabin crew for disposal.

"In other words, don't leave it on the seat," Armelagos Armelagos' favorite bag, from KLM Airlines, depicts a kangaroo throwing up in his pouch. It reads, "For a clean feeling.

Air Afrique's barf bag is decorated with gold masks. Aere Peru's with archaeological symbols. Passengers can play gin rummy on the gameboard on a TWA barf bag or use the Kodak ad on an American Airlines bag to get their film developed.

"One of the biggest problems in collecting barf bags now is that more and more airlines are starting to use generics,' Armelagos said. "I feel cheated when I get on a plane and find the same barf bag that I saw on some other flight.'

Group was just a bunch of jerks

()MAHA, Neb. (AP) — They may have a fancy title, but the folks who met here over a banana split luncheon recently were just a bunch of jerks. And proud of it.

Of course, that's an old joke for the 20 or so members of the National Advisory Council of the National Association of Soda Jerks. And their business in Omaha was serious stuff. They want to preserve America's past.

More specifically, they want to preserve that part of America's past that dispenses ice cream and sodas from behind counters in drug stores.

"The organization is dedicated to the preservation of American nostalgia," said its president and founder, Betty J. Davis, between bites of her

Ms. Davis conceived of the organization after helping organize a series of annual soda jerk reunions at Omaha's Western Heritage Museum. The event ended in 1988.

Last July, she announced formation of the organization and began a search for soda jerks and fountains. Since then, she said, she has heard from 300 former soda jerks across the country, and the organization has registered 50 soda fountains.

It also has embarked on a nationwide search for the oldest existing fountain, and plans to publish a list of soda fountains along with the memories of former soda jerks

Gary Laughlin of George Jay Drug Co. in Shenandoah, Iowa, said his fountain is 102 years old, "but it isn't the oldest."

"People will ask, 'Do you care if I take a picture?' We see it every day so I guess we don't realize that there aren't as many around as there used to be," Laughlin said.

Ms. Davis said her interest in soda fountains stems from her parents

LIMA, Peru — A Lima street urchin named Freddy, left, holds onto a younger friend near a downtown park. Hundreds of children live on Lima's filthy streets, and most will either die young or end up in the city's infamous prisons.

Kids are called piranhas

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The street kids of Lima are called 'piranhas," for the Amazon fish that can strip a swimmer of flesh in minutes. They swarm over victims in packs, snatching wallets, purses

He is 11 years old. Like the other kids, Freddy sniffs glue to get high or quiet his hunger

Hundreds of children roam the garbage-filled streets of Lima, willing even to sell their bodies for enough to buy some food and glue. Without help, most probably will die soon or end up in Peru's infamous prisons.

'Many of the kids have venereal disease, some have AIDS and all of them have some kind of skin infection," said Dwight Ordonez, head of a project called Ninos de La Calle (Street Kids) that is trying to

For the hundreds of "piranhas" there is no home. They live in parks, plazas, on the river bank behind the Government Palace.

Packs of them roam La Parada. a huge food market frequented by drug dealers and prostitutes, and Kennedy Park in Miraflores, a district of nightclubs and luxury

The city operates five youth shelters, there are several orphanages and the police have two juvenile detention centers, but the number of children on the street indicates the old system doesn't Ninos de La Calle is part of the private, U.S.-financed Center of Information and Education for the Prevention of Drug Abuse. It takes a different approach because "we are convinced the normal way of working with street kids fails,' said Ordonez, 30, who has a master's degree in psychology.

He said the traditional way is to confine the children, beat them and impose overly strict rules.

Ordonez said Ninos de La Calle homes are like ponds next to a river, where the piranhas can swim in, stay awhile and swim out. Children of 5 or 6 hawk cigaret- House rules are fairly simple: No tes, shine shoes or wash cars. Most stealing, fighting, breaking things,

Ninos de La Calle has two homes and is building a third. About 55 boys have continuing contact with the group. The project was born in June 1989. Ordonez and other team members spent three months in the streets studying homeless children, and were horrified by what they saw. Lima's street kids, all boys and aged 10 to 16, run in loose-knit gangs of 30 to 50, Ordonez said. All sniff glue, he said, and about 10 percent smoke "pasta basica," semi-processed coca leaf from Peru's Amazon jungle. Project workers won the confidence of the boys, who generally are aggressive and anti-social, by organizing soccer games.

Once exposed to the homes set up by Ninos de La Calle, many decided to stay. They even chased away other piranhas who tried to lure them back onto the street with promises of drugs

The homes' biggest attraction seems to be a sense of belonging to a group where someone cares.

What they need more than anything else is to talk, but it's what they do least," said Eduardo Villanueva, 29, a psychologist who has been with the project since it

Band ranks ninth at UIL competition

The Big Red Band, which left town Saturday morning with an escort of parents and Sheriff's Deputy Woodie Howell, returned from UIL District II competition with a Division I rating. The band competed against 10 bands in Abilene, but were ranked with a total of 19 bands, including bands competing in Wichita Falls.

Judges from Abilene flew to Wichita Falls and compiled ratings from both competitions, after tallying the results, the Big Red Band placed ninth. The band will not be competing in any more marching contests, but will be working hard to go to individual competition at region Dec. 8 and hopefully, to district competition Jan. 19.

Beauty Center opens at new location

Fraser speaks during assembly

Representative Troy Fraser was in town Monday morning and spoke to all the students at an assembly in the high school auditorium. Fraser said it was good to be back in Coahoma, recalled some of his special memories of the school he graduated from, and reminded seniors that some of their best memories will be of the time spent at Coahoma High. He told a full auditorium how proud he was to be in Austin and be able to make awards to schools, but to make an Excellence Award to his own school was fantastic. He recognized the junior high students, and complimented the eighth grade on their academic achievements.

For the Herald "Crimes of the Heart," as performed by the Big Spring Community Theatre, brings to Big Spring a provocative tale of humor and pathos through the relationship of three very diverse sisters in a small Mississippi community. Lenny McGrath, played competently by Gayle Williams, is the oldest, and the tie that binds the McGrath family together.

Meg, the wanton sister who is still sowing a few wild oats, is played most convincingly by Linda Choate-Koenes.

Babe, the youngest sister with a room-temperature IQ, played by Debbie Lincecum, steals the show with an innocence that makes you forgive her anything, including an attempt to murder her husband. Greg Smith, as Barnette Lloyd, a

The acting ability of the cast overshadows the vagueness of the plot. The quality of the dialogue was generally excellent.

Hats off to Gloria Hopkins, who so ably cast, directed, and put together a great set. The saxophone music by Adolph Labbe set an appropriate mood for the production.

"Crimes of the Heart" is certainly worth viewing. Big Spring needs more opportunities to view drama other than on the tube.

The play opens tonight, continuing Friday and Saturday. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Auditorium. Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and children under 12. Tickets will

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

 A one-vehicle accident resulted in the brief hospitalization of a local man. George Michael Kennedy, 32, HC 76 Box 22, was riding his motorcycle north in the 600 block of west FM-700 about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday. The motorcycle apparently struck the curb and skidded about 60 feet before coming to rest. Kennedy was transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by American Medical Transport. Hospital officials said today that he was treated and released. Possible contributing factors cited by the report include alcohol use and failure to control speed.

 Audrey Montgomery, 21, 1014 East 21st, was arrested pending a warrant from Mitchell County.

 The burglary of a home was reported in the 3700 block of Boulder Drive. A boy's watch and a glow-in-the-dark skull were reported missing.

 Criminal mischief to a vehicle was reported in the 500 block of Westover Road. Paint covering the hood and windshield of the car caused a reported $1,000 damage. A vehicle was reported stolen from a business in the 1500 block of East Fourth Street. A four-door 84 Silver Pontiac was listed as missing

The House approved a similar same solution to the "obscene art"

National Endowment for the Arts measure last week. The Senate's action virtually assured that the controversy will survive when negotiators from both chambers draft a compromise later this week for final congressional approval.

Under the Senate bill, the arts agency would get a one-year extension of life and a $170 million budget through next September. That is $5 million less than President Bush requested and $10 approved.

The endowment's statutory

WASHINGTON (AP) - Con- red from receiving new NEA authority technically expired Oct. excretory activities or organs." Williams predicted that the new Congress convening in January will quickly approve a three-year extension of the NEA's life.

Apart from differences in the NEA's proposed budget, the Senate bill would allow endowment Chairman John E. Frohnmayer to continue requiring grant recipients to sign a non-obscenity pledge. The House voted to outlaw the pledge, which has prompted three federal lawsuits challenging its constitutionality.

The Senate rejected Helms' proposal to forbid NEA support for works that "depict or describe, in a patently offensive way, sexual or

Later, on voice votes, the Senate rejected another Helms amendment intended to bar NEA grants for affluent artists, but it approved a separate Helms proposal to ban federal support for any work that denigrates religious objects or beliefs.

The Senate bill as approved would scrap a year-old ban on NEA support for works that "may be considered obscene," depictions of homosexual or sadomasochistic activites, sexual exploitation of children or "individuals engaged in sex acts."

The judicial formula for settling "obscene art" disputes was proposed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, leader of a bipartisan coalition of liberals and conservatives.

But Helms charged that the Senate was "ducking its responsibility" if it relied on the courts to halt the flow of obscene art.

The Pentagon sources said draft rotation plans call for six-month rotations for most units, which would mean the first large-scale substitutions would occur in February. Some units that are harder to replace "may have to spend more time in the country than we or they would like," one source said. The sequence of the rotations is still under discussion, with an announcement expected within two weeks, this source said.

Instead of jail, police took the impostor to a homeless shelter. They did not publicly identify him.

Bond said the average daily take from each booth is about $265, much of which is collected by tolltakers during rush hour. He said he isn't sure how much money was collected during the Friday morning shift. 'It's fascinating that he went to

Steers get stern league test

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers will get their first true test in District 3-4A play when they play the Sweetwater Mustangs in the Mustang

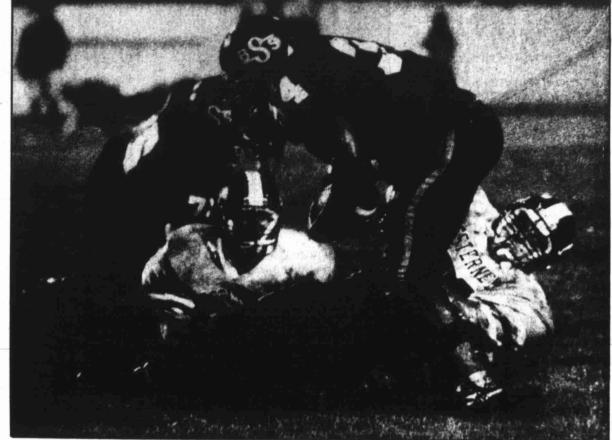

Bowl Friday night at 8. The Steers, the No. 9 ranked team in the state in the Associated Press Poll, roll into the game with a 4-1-1 record. Sweetwater, after dropping their season-opener to Lubbock Coronado 14-7, have won six in a row. The Harris Poll has installed Big Spring a three-point

The Steers are 2-0 in district play, having beaten San Angelo Lake View 49-6, and whitewashing Fort Stockton last week 23-0. Both Fort Stockton and Lake View are picked in the bottom half of the district

On the other hand, the Mustangs have played a much tougher league slate so far. They beat Pecos 27-7, Andrews 21-17 and Monahans 7-3.

Big Spring enters the contest with the state's third-leading defense, allowing 141 yards per game. The Mustangs defense has played well also, limiting opponenets to 199 yards per game. Big Spring also has the league's best offense, averaging 343 yards per game (245 rushing, 98 passing). Sweetwater is averaging 241 yards per game (139 rushing, 101

The game shapes up to be a defensive battle, but that what it appeared to be last year when the Steers whipped the Mustangs 37-15.

Steers coach David Thompson is quite impressed with the Mustangs' defense. "They've got a good football team, defensively they're awfully good,'' said Thompson. "This is the best defense we've faced up to this point; they have a good front five, the linebackers are excellent and they've got a good secondary.

Steers defensive coordinator Dwight Butler seems equally impressed with the Mustangs' offense. "They had platooned their quarterbacks (David Ruffin and David Ritchey) until last week. It depends on what they think they're going to be able to do going into the ballgame. One has thrown about 70 times (Ritchey) and one has throw about 30 times (Ruffin), not that the other one can't throw," said

"I think they're going to run over us. They're a lot bigger than we are, and they've got lots of speed. The closest thing we played to them speed-wise is Lubbock Estacado. They haven't put up a lot of points on the board, and that's • STEERS page 2-B

LAS VEGAS (AP) — James "Buster" Douglas, who beat the unbeatable Mike Tyson to win the undisputed heavyweight title, must beat his own weight to retain it tonight against undefeated Evander Holyfield.

A disbelieving Douglas, who was never weighed during his training camp, tipped the scales at 246 pounds Wednesday, 141/2 pounds heavier than he was when he took the title from Tyson in February. "I'm 236 pounds, 236 pounds," he told officials from the Nevada

State Athletic Commission. The weight shocked not only Douglas, but the camp of Holyfield who weighed in at 208 pounds for the scheduled 12-round fight. "They better bring a crane in to lift him into the ring," said Holyfield's co-trainer, Lou Duva.

Douglas had said all along he expected to come in near the 2311/2 pounds he weighed when he fought Tyson. But when he stepped on the scale in a jam-packed convention area at The Mirage late Wednesday afternoon, the scale read 246.

The fight's on whether you like his weight or not," said Douglas' trainer, J.D. McCauley. "I can't worry about his weight now; it's a done deal. He did his job and he's more ready than he was for the Tyson fight."

The fight, scheduled to begin about 9:30 p.m. Big Spring time,

Fielder Associated Press Player of the Year

DETROIT (AP) — Baseball has always been a family affair for Cecil Fielder and it remains that way now that postseason honors are beginning to roll in for Detroit's favorite import.

Fielder, who came to Motown after a tune-up in Japan, was selected The Associated Press Player of the Year on Wednesday. But, true to form, he gave all the credit to his wife, Stacey,

"She's the one who got me through it," Fielder said. "People don't realize how much pressure your wife is put under during a season.

The Fielders traveled a lot this year. Stacey and their 6-year-old son, Prince, waited for him outside many a clubhouse. They went to Japan as a family and they rode to his moment of glory as a family.

And when he hit homers No. 50 and 51 into the seats at Yankee Stadium on the last day of the season, Stacey and Prince were

"My wife really did this for me," Fielder said. "For her to back me for the whole season, just let me go out and do the things I have to do, she deserves a lot of credit. Because it's not easy on a family ... you go through a lot of changes.'

Fielder, whose 51 home runs made him only the 11th player to reach the 50-homer plateau, was a clear winner in the nationwide vote by sports writers and broadcasters. Fielder received 901/2 votes, Oakland outfielder Rickey Henderson 3912 and Pittsburgh outfielder Barry Bonds 27.

Chicago Cubs second baseman Ryne Sandberg, who hit 40 homers, picked up seven votes, and four players — three of them pitchers — basis and he was willing to give me the chance.' It became clear right away that Lajoie knew what he was doing. On March 28, a sun-dappled afternoon in St. Petersburg, Fla., Fielder hit three homers in an exhibition game against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The news traveled fast. People who thought Lajoie had been crazy to throw so much money at this behemoth from Japan were suddenly having second thoughts.

"That, I think, is when things started to turn around for me as a ballplayer," Fielder said. "The press, after that day, started to see that I was capable of hitting the ball. They started to see from my

And once he got rolling, there was no stopping him. Fielder had 28 homers by the All-Star break.

"It was so much fun," Fielder said. "I mean it was like sometimes I'd get home from a ballgame where I'd maybe hit two and had some RBIs and you just wanted the next day to come.

Oilers get Garcia for injured kicker

HOUSTON (AP) — Teddy Garcia, who last kicked regularly for the New England Patriots in 1988, worked out with the Houston Oilers Wednesday and is the likely replacement for injured Tony

"The ball got off the ground quickly and they were accurate and his kickoffs had good hang times so we're probably going to go ahead and sign him," Oilers' coach Jack Pardee

Zendejas, who is right-footed, broke a fibula in his left leg Sunday in the Oilers' victory over New Orleans.

Garcia, the Patriots' fourth round draft pick, kicked in all 16 games in 1988, hitting 11 of 16 extra points and six of 13 field goals. Garcia since has had tryouts with Detroit, Los Angeles Rams and was cut in preseason by Seattle.

Zendejas was placed on the team's injured reserve list Tuesday after breaking his leg trying to make a tackle against the Saints. He'll be out for a minimum of four weeks.

Garcia was in Dallas last week trying out for the new World League of American

"I felt like it went pretty good today," Garcia said after working out before a large delegation of media and under "The attention doesn't bother me. My business is concentrating on the football. You have to do that in a game so why not here too?'

The Oilers also added former Baylor quarterback Tom Muecke to the club's practice squad, reuniting Muecke and Oilers backup quarterback Cody Carlson, also a former Baylor player.

UT coach suspends player for steroids

AUSTIN (AP) - University of Texas football coach David McWilliams has suspended reserve tackle Alan Luther, who was charged with misdemeanor possession of a controlled substance.

Police said the substance was an anabolic steroid. Luther, a third-string offensive tackle who has not played a game for the Texas, was arrested last week after being stopped for a traffic violation.

"I am not in any way determining guilt or innocence here," McWilliams said Wednesday after the team's practice. "But from a team standpoint, we feel disciplinary action is necessary. No player will be allowed to do something that could bring discredit to this football team."

Luther, a Houston sophomore, surrendered Tuesday when he learned an arrest warrant had been issued. He posted a $500 bond and faces up to six months in jail and up to a $1,000 fine if convicted of the Class B misdemeanor charge.

Luther, 21, has declined comment about the incident. After a routine traffic stop last Thursday, police searched Luther's car and discovered a brown vial and syringe, according to an affidavit filed by

University of Texas police. Drug analysis showed the vial contained testosterone, an illegal anabolic steroid banned by the NCAA. Anabolic steroids are performance-enhancing drugs used to build muscle and increase weight. The Texas football team is 4-1 and ranked No. 13 by The Associated Press.

Exchange student learning about football

By NEAL FARMER Houston Chronicle

HOUSTON (AP) - Rice University running back Trevor Cobb ran for 203 yards last Saturday, fourthbest in school history

Cobb's roommate, Konstantin "Kot" Petrov, was clapping and yelling for Cobb in the stands. But Petrov wasn't exactly sure what was happening. He was just reacting with the crowd.

Petrov is an exchange student from the University of Moscow in the Soviet Union and, well, soccer is more his game. But there is a recreational revolution going on at Rice for Petrov. He is seeing Cobb Petrov said.

'I did what the crowd did, and I clapped so hard that the palms of my hands were red," Petrov said. When I first arrived at Rice and they told me my roommate was a football player, and the best football player, I was shocked."

Petrov knew his roommate was a Big Man On Campus when, during his walks around the Rice campus, he heard Cobb's name bandied

But even though he and Cobb are roommates, they don't see a lot of each other. "Trevor is so busy,"

"He's so busy," Cobb said, almost in unison with his roommate.

They both stay on the go — Cobb with his football moves, Petrov with his study of physics. The road to Rice has led two divergent people to share more than just a room.

"He is teaching me Russian, while I'm teaching him English,' Cobb said. "He's real easy to get along with.

Adds Petrov, "Trevor told me something about the arrangement of the football players on the field. None of my friends in Moscow know about that. I'll tell my friends

Petrov, 20 and a college junior, arrived in Houston on Sept. 17 and will stay a total of seven months. He had been expecting to go to

Texas," Petrov said. "I had spent a day in New York and was OK, but it took awhile to get used to Texas.'

He has adjusted. Petrov has a host family, Ann and David Grizzle of Houston, and they see to a lot of Petrov's needs. One of them was to prepare the Russian on one of the older American traditions - how to throw a football.

Petrov said he was one of 2,000 University of Moscow students who applied for seven exchange positions with the Institute of Interna tional Education. The seven ended up at either Rice, Harvard or

Season hasn't even started yet and Bullets are hurting

EMMITSBURG, Md. (AP) The season hasn't even started and the Washington Bullets are in

On Tuesday, the Bullets had only 10 healthy players for an intrasquad scrimmage and two were limping as the game wound down. And then the workout went into overtime.

Washington's problems began when starters John Williams and Ledell Eackles decided to skip training camp until their contract disputes were settled. They still haven't showed up.

The depleted roster became even smaller because of cuts and injuries. Tired of seeing his players beat each other up, coach Wes Unseld decided to break camp on Wednesday, two days earlier than planned.

"It's hard to prepare for a season when you're unsure of what your roster is going to look like on opening day. Our first three games were terrible. But in our last game, I thought we were very good. We made a lot of improvement and hopefully we're on an upward trend," — Bullets forward Mark Alarie.

Pervis Ellison, who was supposed to provide long-needed stability in the middle, has a sprained ankle. Tom Hammonds has a strained tendon in his left foot and is walking around in a soft cast. Forward Harvey Grant is out with shin splints and Bernard King has a bad

Worse, Steve Colter hurt an ankle during Tuesday's scrimmage and Darrell Walker, who missed the Bullets' last preseason game, needed to soak his aching Achilles tendons in ice water after the intrasquad game.

"I can't say that, outside of maybe Greg Foster playing well, there's been too many positive things that have happened in training camp," said forward Mark Alarie. "It has not been a preseason of optimism ... it's been a real negative.

With the regular season 10 days away, the Bullets are in woeful shape. And even if Williams and Eackles quickly come to terms, they won't be of much at the start.

"At this point, even if they came here tomorrow they wouldn't be in playing condition in 10 days, Unseld said.

Washington is 0-4 in the preseason, with three blowout losses. The uncertainty surrounding the status of Williams and Eackles hasn't helped.

"It's hard to prepare for a season when you're unsure of what your roster is going to look like on opening day," Alarie said.

It's been so bad that seemingly the only source of encouragement was a close loss to Indiana. The one-point setback last week was a ray of hope.

Our first three games we were terrible," Alarie said. "But in our last game I thought we were very good. We made a lot of improvement and hopefully we're on an upward trend.

Unseld knows he can't do anything about the holdouts or the injuries. His job is simply to make the best of a bad situation.

'What I want to do is to put on the court a team that is going to make the Bullets proud," he said. 'They might not win as many games as everybody would hope they would, but they will not embarrass the organization.

Valley Ranch brash and brave, loaded down with enough gold chains to stock a small jewelry His Mercedes license plate read "Playmaker" and he talked so fast you had to play a tape recorder over and over for an exact translation. Confident Michael Irvin had no doubt he was going to be the reason nobody would laugh at the downtrodden Dallas Cowboys anymore. He, the playmaker, would personally see to it.

The first-round draft pick out of Miami averaged 20 yards per catch in 1988 for a team in disarray, the best since Tony Hill had averaged that many in 1981. Ir-

"They finally got me the ball. I was getting sick of running routes for no reason, like track practice," - Michael Irvin.

vin caught 32 passes, scored five touchdowns, and delighted the Texas Stadium crowd doing it with his unrehearsed antics. It was the only solace in a 3-13

But changes were in the wind. Tom Landry was fired and things were going to be even better for Irvin in 1989 under his old college coach, Jimmy Johnson.

"Coach Johnson knows what I can do in the big games," Irvin

But Irvin blew a knee out in October a year ago against the San Francisco 49ers. Cold humility set in. The NFL actually went on without "The Playmaker. Impatient, Irvin rushed things and tried to come back too soon. He pressed the healing process in training camp at Austin. Irvin pushed Johnson into playing him during the preseason. Irvin caught a touchdown pass but hurt his knee again. He had to spend an extra month on the injured reserve list. There had even been rumors he might be traded.

Once activated, Irvin practiced for two weeks but never got a pass during a game.

Irvin finally made his comeback complete on Sunday, catching a 28-yard scoring pass from Troy Aikman with less than a minute to play to give the Cowboys a 17-14 victory over the big play," Johnson said.

Mark Robinson late in Sunday's game at Tampa Stadium. The pass covered 28 yards, giving the Cowboys a 17-10 win.

ning touchdown pass in front of Tampa Bay's

The "Playmaker" was back. "He showed he can still make

"Michael has never been the fastest of receivers but has always had the quality of making the big play in a big game."

Irvin admitted he had started to have doubts if his special magic would ever return. "For awhile the game hadn't been fun for me," Irvin said. "If the game isn't fun then what's the use of playing it. Now it's fun again. They pay me to make plays. That's what I live for - to be in those (last-second) situations. Now, it's showtime again for the 'Playmaker.

Hurricanes won't be sheadding any tears

As they enter this Saturday's game against Texas Tech, the Hurricanes must shrug off the burden of being the first Miami squad since 1984 to have two regularseason losses, said coach Dennis Erickson.

'We can't sit down and feel sorry for ourselves. Texas Tech has played well and not so well, but they always play well at home," Erickson said.

Despite last week's 29-20 loss to Notre Dame, Erickson and his senior leaders are confident they'll bounce back against Texas Tech (2-5) in Lubbock on Saturday

"I'm not as concerned with our opponent as I am with how we react to the loss," he said. "We still have a lot to play for - a 10-2 season, reaching a major bowl and finishing in the top five.

The eighth-ranked Hurricanes have played the unranked Red Raiders four times, winning three. The last meeting resulted in a 61-11 Miami walkover in 1986.

Texas Tech has played five of its first seven games on the road, with Miami its their fourth Top 20 opponent. The Red Raiders are coming off a 42-21 loss to Rice in which they had eight turnovers and nine penalties.

"This is the third time this year we've had to play a ranked team that lost the week before," said Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes. "It will be quite a challenge for us, especially the way we played last week. They've been the dominating start in Miller's place.

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — program in college football for the sthey enter this Saturday's game last decade and I don't see any drop-off this year.

While Erickson deemed it necessary for a pre-Monday morning practice meeting in which he espoused playing out the season with "vengeance," his quarter back felt otherwise.

"I've never been in this position before, with two losses," said Craig Erickson, Miami's senior quarter back. "It's important for the seniors to rally behind us, but motivational things only work up to a point. Actions speak louder than words and we have leaders that lead by example.

Coach Erickson said his main concern has been with the team's offensive inefficiency in the third quarter this season. Taking away its 14-0 edge over Kansas, Miam has been outscored 27-14 in the third quarter, including Brigham Young (11-7) and Notre Dame (6-0). Opponents have held a 53:24 to 36:36 time of possession advantage during third quarters

'Either we're not focused enough coming out of halftime or we're not feeling a sense of urgency," Erickson said.

Miami will be without the services of right defensive end Eric Miller, whose nagging shoulder in jury was aggravated during the Notre Dame game. The fourth year junior will be operated on next week and will miss the remainders of the regular season. Rustyl Medearis, a 6-3, 245-pound secondyear freshman will make his first Sunday to repair a ruptured spinal disk, said Tuesday he hopes to make it to at least one Ohio State practice this week and plans on coaching the Buckeyes against Minnesota on Saturday.

Speaking on the Big Ten teleconference, the third-year coach of the Buckeyes said he expected to be released from the Ohio State University Hospitals this morning. He added that he will be at Ohio Stadium for the Buckeyes' next game, either on the sideline or if his back is bothering him —

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The 11th green at Augusta National, washed out in heavy rains last week, will be restored well before the 1991 Masters Tournament.

Work on the green, which is where Nick Faldo won his consecutive Masters titles in 1989 and 1990, is expected to be completed in four to six week, club general manager Jim Armstrong said Tuesday

Flooding from nearby Rae's Creek last week also covered parts of the 12th and 13th holes. The 12th was unharmed, but the members' tee at No. 13 was severely eroded.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indianapolis Motor Speedway is sticking by its decision to use a Japanese-made vehicle as the 1991 pace car, saying it reflects the growing ties between domestic and foreign automakers. Last month, the speedway named the Dodge Stealth RT Turbo as the pace car for next year's race. The Stealth's exterior was designed by Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division, but the car is built in Japan by Mitsubishi Motors Corp.

The United Auto Workers union is organizing a protest movement. Union leaders said the "500" and its pace car should be symbols of the American auto industry

Chrysler owns about 12 percent of Mitsubishi and the two own a Normal, Ill., auto plant.

NEW YORK (AP) — A gift pack consisting of a limited edition, individually numbered, boxed set of GTE Silver Anniversary Super Bowl Theme Art Cards and a commemorative GTE Super Bowl XXV seat cushion will be presented to each fan attending the Jan. 27 NFL Championship game at Tampa,

The art cards will feature a glossy re-creation of the poster art from each Super Bowl game. They will have a historical and statistical summary on the back.

The cards will be packed inside a silver box and inserted into a foldover pouch that will be attached to the seat cushion. Each seat cushion will be attached to each seat in Tampa Stadium.

LAS VEGAS (AP) Welterweight Lonnie Smith of Las Vegas used his left jab to pound out a one-sided unanimous decision over Antonio Reyo Garcia of Guadalajara, Mexico, in a 10-round

Smith, the World Boxing Council junior welterweight champion during 1985 and 1986, had no problem with the slower Garcia in the bout that had no knockdowns. He won by scores of 100-90, 99-91 and 98-92.

Smith, 144 pounds, improved his record to 27-2-1 with 13 knockouts. Garcia, 145, dropped to 30-7-1 with 25 knockouts.

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) - Carmine Abbatiello became only the second driver in harness racing history to win 7,000 races when he drove Right On Course to victory in the 10th race Tuesday night at Yonkers Raceway.

Hall of Famer Herve Filion is the leading driver with more than 12,000 victories. Right on Course, timed in 2:00 3-5 in a driving rainstorm, paid $3.60 $3.40 and

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A thirdstring offensive tackle on the 13thranked University of Texas football team surrendered to police Tuesday after an arrest warrant was issued alleging he was in possession of a controlled substance.

Alan Luther, 21, a sophomore from Houston, posted a $500 bond. Police said the controlled substance was an anabolic steroid, the Austin American-Statesman reported. The charge, a Class B misdemeanor, carries penalties of up to six months in jail and a $1,000

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) - A3-year-old pacer named Beach Towel will try to make harness racing history next week at Florida's Pompano Park by becoming the first standardbred to win $2 million in a single season.

The colt was one of 68 horses entered Tuesday in eight Breeders Crown races for 3-year-old and older pacers and trotters on Nov. 2.

NEW YORK (AP) - What has kept Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward married for 32 years? Eternal love? Undying affection?

Try sheer luck. The Newmans, breaking a policy of not talking about their marriage, told Parade magazine they don't know why they've stayed together.

"Our marriage hasn't been a bed of roses," Newman said in the magazine's Oct. 28 issue. "Sometimes you get terminally irritated, and at one point I just packed up and left. Asked why she thought their marriage had lasted, Woodward said: "I have no idea. Absolutely not one single idea on the subject. Probably

ECI program helps 'at risk' children cope

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Martin County children "at risk" because of environmental, physical or development delays are receiving help from the Early Childhood Intervention program:

The first ECI family support group meeting was held at the Texas Electric Reddy Room in Stanton on Tuesday. Two families participated in the meeting, while four families scheduled for the meeting were unable to attend due to illness

Sustaita said referrals can come from parents, neighbors, schools, nurses, civic groups or churches. Most recently, he said, the referrals are coming from other family members.

The ECI team consists of parent liaisons or case managers and physical, occupational and speech therapists. Together, the team pinpoints developmentally delayed children and works with the

Cheney: U.S. military buildup will continue

By JOHN KING

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said today the United States will continue its military buildup in the Persian Gulf, perhaps adding as many as 100,000 more troops.

"We're not at the point yet where we want to stop adding forces, Cheney said.

He declined to say how many troops might be added to the U.S. deployment, which now totals 220,000 troops in and around Saudi Arabia. But when asked if adding 100,000 troops was possible, Cheney said, "It's conceivable that we'll end up with that big an increase."

Pentagon sources said Wednes day the deployment would reach the planned level of 240,000 in three weeks. But Cheney said the administration "never put an upper ceiling on the deployment.

His comments came as President Bush faced several decisions about the makeup of the gulf forces and as his top uniformed commander, Gen. Colin Powell, headed home from talks with ground commanders in Saudi Arabia. The talks included discussion of adding more offensive might to the U.S. forces.

The U.S.-led multinational forces now total more than 300,000 but still fall far short of the estimated 430,000 Iraqi troops deployed in senior administration officials to heavily fortified positions in oc- articulate their reasons clearly cupied Kuwait and southern Iraq. should they decide to expand the

On ABC's "Good Morning America," its force in the region offered Bush he said: "We've not yet settled on the option of ordering an offensive. an upper limit in terms of our total deployment. So for a number of reasons I would expect a continuing flow of forces to the gulf in the period ahead.

The Pentagon sources, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said that if more troops were sent to the region they likely would be heavy tank divisions, either from the United States or Europe. These sources also said it was possible some non-essential units might be brought home by Christmas, with the 82nd Airborne Division a likely candidate.

Cheney said it was "entirely possible" that the 82nd would be rotated out and additional heavy units sent in. But he said no decision had been made

Even if the United States subbed a tank division for the 82nd, "we still wouldn't have an offensive force to be comfortable with," a Pentagon source said today. This source said no additional ground units have been ordered to the region.

The American buildup hit a symbolic juncture Wednesday with the arrival in Saudi Arabia of the final elements of the 11th Air Defense Brigade from Fort Bliss. It was the last combat unit scheduled for deployment in the region, Pentagon sources said.

Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait are support units due to arrive over the next three weeks, bringing the deployment to 240,000.

There appears to be little domestic or international support for a unilateral U.S. offensive, however.

Barring some action by Iraq that would bring consensus for an attack. Pentagon sources and military analysts consider it far more likely that Bush will make small changes to the force.

"We would have to double the force there to make an offensive palatable from a military standpoint," said Lawrence J. Korb, a former assistant defense secretary for manpower in the Reagan administration. "I don't think that is very likely. . I'd set up a rotation plan but basically keep my troop level about where it is.

The 82nd Airborne is the first candidate to come home because it was the first to arrive in Saudi Arabia, is lightly armed and not designed for a tank war. Also, many of its troops spent last Christmas in Panama as part of the U.S. invasion force.

Withdrawing the paratroopers, one of the Army's premier rapiddeployment offensive units, "would signal that we are going to hunker down and wait right along with Saddam," one source said. In addition, a Pentagon official said, "We'd look good bringing some people home for Christmas, even if in the big scheme of things it didn't amount to much." This official said the 82nd could be sent back to the region after the holdidays. The Pentagon sources said draft rotation plans call for six-month rotations for most units, which would mean the first large-scale substitutions would occur in February. Some units that are harder to replace "may have to spend more time in the country than we or they would like," one source said. The sequence of the rotations is still under discussion, with an announcement expected within two weeks, this source said.

Parents who attended Tuesday's meeting took their first exam for English as a Second Language instruction, and the children played and worked their Individual Educational Plans.

Parent liaison Pat Kerr said she finds her position full of personal rewards because the children show improvement. The home visits offer the child a chance to develop in the most secure and least restrictive environment, she said.

"Children learn and develop through play. We come in with blocks and Play-Doh. This doesn't take high tech material - kids can learn with pots and pans. Play is work for children, it's the work they do to learn," said Kerr, ad-ding that her job allows her to go to the home and sit on the floor and play with babies.

The ECI provides a toy lending library, a tape lending library and video players for parents to watch instructional material and learn English.

Children might be developmentally delayed for several reasons, explained Pat Kerr, parent liaison with the Early Childhood Intervention program.

Premature birth, being born to a teen mother, as well as physical or mental problems, including Down's Syndrome, cerebal palsy, and dwarfism might all conbtribute to a child's development falling behind the normal progress of maturity, she said. ECI checks a child's development in five different areas; cognitive (thinking) skills, gross motor skills, fine motor skills,

"The emphasis is on the child, but we work with the whole family. We've found that mom and dad may not be working with the child because they're worried about how the light bill will be paid or where groceries will come from this week. If we can work to solve the other problems of the family, then we have time to work with the child," Sustaita said.

Effective in September, 1990, the ECI team may no longer provide service for children who have reached their third birthday. Once the child is 3, the local school district takes over the educating process, if the child qualifies for district help

"We have a break in services. There's a year's gap, because most communities don't have a 3-yearold program, but they do have 4-year-old Headstart. The child falls through the gap," Sustaita said. He added that an ECI conference is scheduled in Austin, and he feels sure this problem will be addressed.

Students hold plant show

By KRISTI COLE

Students in Doyla Haislip's third and fourth-grad science classes sowed the seeds of responsibility, plant care, and self esteem recently growing a plant from a seed, caring for it at home and displaying it at this week's plant show.

A calendar was used to record important occurences in the course of the plant's growth. The students wrote a story about their special plant using the calendar as a reference.

Mrs. Haislip felt the project went very well and her students enjoyed

What do

By HEATHER NEWMAN Pizza, clothes or hardware? What do you want? The owners of Stanton Thriftway will be building a new store in the near future.

SHS students and parents were asked to comment on the type of store needed. Many students said they would prefer a Sonic Drive-In. "I would like to have a 24-hour convience store," said Crystal Payne, SHS junior.

"I believe a fast-food resturant is just what Stanton needs. The location is good for the high school lunch crowd. It would give the young people a place to go on weekends, Y said Janice Newman, parent.

Coming back a better band

By INNET BROWN

This Saturday the SHS marching band competed at the Texas Tech Marching Festival in Lubbock and returned with scores of 95, 94 and 92 on the judges sheets.

The Buffalo band was up against nine other good marching bands. Their biggest competition came from Iraan and Sundown bands.

This Saturday, the "best band herd" will travel to Odessa'a Ratliff Stadium to go against Mc-Camey, Iraan, Van Horn and Forsan for a district title. Good Luck Buffs.
