Bargainers agree on tax increase

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Congressional negotiators inched toward final approval of a deficit-reduction plan today as the chairmen of two tax-writing committees agreed on most elements of a $250 billion package of tax increases and spending cuts, staff members said.

The only remaining issue in the plan was how to restrain spending for Medicaid health services for low-income Americans.

Spokesmen for Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who heads the Senate Finance Committee, said details of the final agreement would be announced later in day.

The plan includes increases in consumer taxes on gasoline, tobacco, alcoholic beverages and luxuries. It carries a considerable tax increase on upper-income Americans. Medicare recipients would foot $10 billion more of their own health costs under the bill.

The deficit-reduction package was one of the last major items of business for a fractious, wearying congressional session that extended several weeks beyond expectations. "I think this session has gone on long enough," said Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine.

The House Ways and Means

Committee and the Senate Finance Committee arranged meetings later in the day to give their approval to the package. That would open the way for Congress to get the bill to President Bush's desk by Sunday.

Although there was stiff opposition to the bill from many lawmakers in both parties, House Democratic and Republican leaders predicted its passage. White House Chief of Staff John Sununu said Bush considered the plan "real and credible."

"I haven't been working on this for so long to have something go down," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill.

The massive deficit-reduction package — product of half a year of partisan brawling and interminable negotiations — will affect almost all Americans.

It raises the 9-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax by about a nickel and increases levies on alcohol, tobacco and jewelry as well.

It boosts — from 28 percent to 31 percent — the income-tax rate on the richest Americans, but drops the rate paid by the upper-middle class from 33 percent to 31 percent.

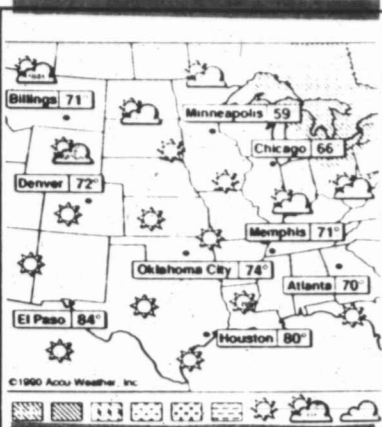

The measure also reduces the deductions available to people earning more than $100,000 yearly by 3 percent, and phases out their $2,050 personal exemptions.

The details were subject to change in late negotiations. Bargainers agreed informally late Thursday to slow the growth of Medicare benefits by $10 billion through 1995, officials said.

That figure matched a House proposal that was about $7 billion lower than the reductions the Senate voted for. Medicare helps pay medical bills for about 33 million elderly and disabled people.

An official demanding anonymity said that under the agreement, the $75 annual deductible paid by beneficiaries would increase to $100. The monthly premium —

Absentee voters can vote Saturday

The Howard County courthouse will open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to allow absentee voting in the general election. Next week, the last week of absentee voting, the courthouse will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

County Clerk Margaret Ray reported 909 people have voted absentee as of Thursday, the seventh day of absentee voting.

She said 196 ballots have been mailed out, so far, with 96 returned. The last day ballots will be mailed out will be Oct. 30. Mail-in ballots must be received by 7 p.m. on election day Nov. 6. Those eligible to mail in ballots must show that they will be out of the county during the election, cannot physically come to the polls or are over 65 years old.

The courthouse is handicapped-accessible and curbside voting is available, if needed, for those who cannot get out of their car.

Wal-Mart petition a community joke

There are fifteen signatures on a petition to keep a business out of Vincent. The petition, which says, "Join the Fight! Keep Wal-Mart out of Vincent, Texas," was recently circulated in that rural community. One resident who signed the petition is Bob W. Buchanan.

Buchanan said the whole thing is just a joke. "The preacher started this, just for funnies. There's an old abandoned building here, and the preacher wanted to put up a sign that said 'Future Home of Wal-Mart,' but he couldn't find one," Buchanan said when contacted by the Big Spring Herald.

He said there are no plans for Wal-Mart moving to Vincent, and that the entire town has about eight people living there.

"There's the Bain family and the Bradbury family. Then the preacher moved in and doubled the population," he said.

Vincent is located off the Snyder Highway. "Just take exit 1205, and you're there," said Buchanan, adding that the town has no city council, no courthouse, but does have a church, a cafe and a filling station.

United Way fund drive nearing end

The United Way funding drive, in its final week, continues to progress said agency director Sherrie Bordsoske.

Money raised so far — $130,559 — amounts to about 60 percent of the goal of $220,000. Most recent tabulations show the highest division totals are $52,775 from the Pacesetters and $34,021 from Loaned Executives.

"We hope to have it wrapped up by the end of the month," Bordsoske said. "I want to urge anyone who has any cards at all to get them turned in by next Thursday. Then we'll have about a two-week wrap-up and try to have reached our goal by Nov. 15."

Hightower supports grassroots agenda

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Grassroots environmental organizations from across the state met with Texas Department of Agriculture officials Thursday in Austin to give input into legislation to stop hazardous waste generation and facilities and to allow for local referendums.

"Instead of leading the nation in hazardous waste pollution, Texas should be leading the way out of our hazardous waste disposal problems by adopting tough state regulations that protect people rather than polluters," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower at an afternoon press conference at the State Capitol following the 9 a.m. meeting.

About 25 representatives from environmental groups discussed 11 recommendations for legislation that Hightower said he will push for passage next year. He called it the "people's agenda."

"The thrust of the proposals is to stop the mass-burning incineration allowed in Texas," said Peggy Maddox, chairperson of Mitchell County Texans Against Pollution. "Also to let the citizens where these things are being proposed have a voice in it, which we don't," said Maddox in a telephone interview from the State Capitol Thursday morning.

Mitchell County is one of more than half a dozen counties in the state where a hazardous waste incinerator is being considered in the wake of proposed Environmental Protection Agency regulations which will increase the number of substances considered hazardous. There are now four facilities in Texas that burn hazardous wastes commercially.

Ghosts, goblins, goodies galore

Full slate of activities planned for Halloween

By JUNDA WOO
For the Herald

Among numerous other activities planned for Halloween, patients at Big Spring Hospital transform themselves for a few hours into clowns and goblins and vampires.

This year, they'll have an audience.

The public is invited for the first time in more than 15 years to the hospital's festive float parade, which features costumed patients and staff from each unit.

"It's pretty creative," said hospital spokeswoman Evelyn Anderson.

Almost all costumes are handmade and designed by the patients, along with the floats built by each of the seven units.

"Last year somebody got hold of a coffin and put fake spider webs all over it and everything," Anderson said.

Because of competition between units, the topics of this year's floats are as highly guarded as state secrets, she added.

Each unit will pick a parade king and queen, and at the celebration's end an overall king and queen are crowned.

A hospital volunteer said the spectacle was "too good for people to not see" and suggested inviting the public.

Administrators readily agreed, Anderson said.

"The only thing that makes me nervous is, of course, you don't dare take pictures of clients without their permission," she noted.

Fairy godmother Nola Wood and four witches — Shirley Smith, Jeanie Booth, Myrtle Keele and Gladys Choate — stand by the cauldron as they prepare for the annual Witches Den and Spookhouse at the Canterbury Retirement Center. will be at the building on the corner of Second and Main streets on Oct. 31, from 7 p.m. to midnight. Admission is $2, or $1 with a Howard College identification.

"Come on out and meet 'Chuckie' and 'Freddie,'" Jim Koerber, Howard College student government president said.

He said the proceeds from the haunted house will fund the student government activity fund.

At the Big Spring Mall, retailers will give trick-or-treaters trinkets, popcorn and, of course, candy from 7 to 9 p.m.

And candy will be available at the Big Spring Police Department for young trick-or-treaters.

In addition, all public schools except Washington will feature carnivals the night of Oct. 27.

Citizens question candidates

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

City taxpayers being taxed twice for the same services, cutting, spending and justifying commissioner salaries were some of the issues tackled by county and district candidates at the public forum Thursday night at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

All eight candidates for the contested offices of county judge, commissioner for precincts 2 and 4, and district clerk, were in attendance. Of seven uncontested offices, four candidates attended.

County Judge candidates were asked about city residents paying both city and county taxes for the ambulance service, which in 1991-90 will be subsidized 58 percent by the city and 42 percent by the county. County residents are only taxed once for the same service.

"I agree they're getting taxed twice. One entity would have to run it," said Democratic county judge candidate Ben Lockhart, 51, a deputy with the sheriff's department.

However, County Judge John Coffee, the Republican candidate for re-election, pointing out that 80 percent of the budget is already spent on services for city residents, said county property taxes would have to be raised to accept more of the ambulance burden. The city accounts for 58 percent of the county's home and business property values, not including oil-related properties which are mostly outside of the city, county records show.

"We can contribute more to the ambulance service if that's what people want us to do, but we'll have to raise taxes," Coffee said.

Although the city can raise non-tax revenue through enterprise operations, the county cannot, according to state law, Coffee said. Counties can raise fees for ser-

Study: Math, science will be top job fields

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Math and science will take on new prominence as emerging professions in the 1990s concentrate more heavily on high-tech skills, a new study reveals.

A Texas Innovation Information Network System study, released this week, shows jobs for laser nurses, robotics workers, telecommunications specialists and artificial intelligence technicians will flourish through 2000.

The two-year study, commissioned by the Texas Department of Commerce, identified the emerging professions to help prepare the state's educational institutions and businesses, said study director Dan Morrison.

Morrison, who is TIINS associate director, said in the 1990s the state's high schools, technical institutes and colleges will face the additional challenge of making math and science palatable to more students. "It's going to put more pressure on the whole educational system to find a way to encourage junior high school students to become oriented to science and math," he said.

"Science and math is the key to all these jobs. If you skip high school algebra, you are out of the game," he said.

Most of the jobs in the TIINS study have a strong foundation in technology, Morrison said.

"I think there will be an ongoing change in the way people think about technology," he said. "Technological change is going to become just an accepted fact of life and people will adapt to it and constantly be in a learning mode."

"We are basically being dragged, kicking and screaming, into a brave new world and Texas is going to be right on the cutting edge because of its strong and very large business sector," he said.

Dog attacks, kills boy

ODESSA (AP) — A 10-year-old boy was attacked and killed by a Doberman pinscher in the backyard of his home, police say.

It was the second incident in which a child was killed by a dog in Texas this week.

Dr. Henry Tom, director of the Odessa-Ector County Animal Shelter, said David Manuel Ontiveros was playing in the backyard Thursday when the dog became agitated and attacked him.

The boy was pronounced dead at Medical Center Hospital, said Odessa Police Lt. Bill Anderson.

Justice of the Peace R.G. "Dick" Hungerford said he pronounced the boy dead and ruled the death as accidental.

The dog was shot twice with a shotgun after Odessa Police officers responded, but managed to crawl under a car. He was shot several more times, Tom said.

Police evacuated neighbors from their homes for a short time because they feared the dog might go on a rampage, Tom said.

Deputy arrested for possession

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Texas Department of Public Safety officers said the chief sheriff's deputy of Bandera County and a Navarro County sheriff's dispatcher have been arrested on charges of possessing 100 pounds of marijuana.

Officers said Farris Theodore Brooks, 49, of Bandera, and Charlotte Biddy, 32, of Corsicana, were charged Thursday with aggravated possession of marijuana from 50 to 200 pounds.

Brooks was later identified as a retired Department of Public Safety narcotics officer.

They were being held in the Bexar County jail late Thursday in lieu of $25,000 bond each, officers said.

Authorities said two DPS officers observed Brooks and Ms. Biddy leaving San Antonio International Airport Thursday. The two were followed to the parking lot of a motel, where the trunk of the car was opened and four large cardboard boxes were transferred to another car parked adjacent to it, DPS reports said.

Longhorns on comeback trail

AUSTIN (AP) — By the turn of the century, the legendary Texas Longhorn was replaced by a fatter breed of cattle, but the sturdy animal is on the comeback trail.

"Probably the largest hurdle we have is convincing old-time cattle raisers they need to change," Bill Anthony, president of the International Texas Longhorn Association, said at the group's first annual meeting.

Anthony, an Ardmore, Okla. rancher, started raising Longhorns 25 years ago and has fallen in love with the breed.

"They are extremely intelligent. You can make housepets out of them if you want," he said.

Houston man wants sheriff jailed

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Santiago Cantu says the sheriff's department has no authority to keep $17,223 found in Cantu's car, and he wants a judge to jail the sheriff.

Cantu, who is from Houston, contends that Kleberg County Sheriff Adan Munoz is not following a court order to return the money.

The Sheriff's department seized the $17,223 in cash found in his car after stopping Cantu in August 1989 for a traffic violation.

Although authorities found no evidence of drugs or other contraband, the money was confiscated under a Texas law that allows seizure of cash.

PAASADENA — Texas gubernatorial candidate Clayton Williams dances with his wife, Modesta, at a barbecue here Thursday. The fundraiser was part of a two-day stop in the Houston area for the Republican nominee.

Richards elated over poll; says race now a dead heat

AUSTIN (AP) — Buoyed by a new opinion poll, Democratic Ann Richards says she's now in a dead heat with Republican Clayton Williams.

"It's not (that) the gap is narrowing; this race is even," Richards said Thursday. "There's no gap at all."

Williams, who on Wednesday had said he was "nervous," remains confident, aides said.

"Our candidate is upbeat," said Williams press secretary Gordon Hensley. "We believe and are confident in our (internal poll) numbers and the issues we're running on."

The campaigns responded to a survey released Thursday by The Epstein Group of Fort Worth. That poll of 1,209 registered voters, taken Oct. 16-21, gave Richards and Williams 38 percent support each, with 24 percent undecided. The poll has a margin of error of three percentage points.

The same poll had shown Williams with a 13-point lead in August and followed by nine days a Gallup poll that had put Williams five percentage points ahead of Richards, at 45-40.

"One thing we're delighted with is that all the movement is down for Clayton Williams and up for me," Richards said during an appearance in Houston.

Campaigning in McAllen on Wednesday, Williams had acknowledged that the race was fluctuating as election day nears.

Williams said independent polls "are bouncing back and forth every day" but that his own campaign's surveys show him with a substantial lead. "I'm working hard, and ... it's a little bit like that Merle Haggard song: 'I'll just keep on working as long as these two hands are fit to use.'"

Democrats said they believe Williams has peaked after months of heavy television advertising.

"He's been on TV too long. Clearly, the voters have grown tired of his cowboy thing," said Chuck McDonald, a spokesman for Richards.

"He's probably suffering from overexposure and people are now beginning to see him and recognize him for the individual he is," added Attorney General Jim Mattox, who lost the Democratic nomination to Richards.

Williams' spokesman rejected that theory, adding that Richards hasn't yet topped 40 percent in a poll.

"The Democrats are attempting to use this 'overexposure' spin as an excuse for her consistently poor performance in ballot tests against Clayton Williams," Hensley said.

"She's never broken 40 percent in any poll. She is the 'Typhoid Mary' of Texas politics."

In other political developments:

- Richards, appearing at Rice University with Kate Michelman, director of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said she believes that "no legislator, no congressman, no bureaucrat and certainly no governor has a right to intervene with the decision a woman makes about whether to bear a child."
- State Comptroller Bob Bullock, the Democratic candidate for lieutenant governor, sharply criticized GOP hopeful Rob Mosbacher for a TV commercial showing Bullock with a hand cupped behind his ear.

Former Western Savings owner charged

DALLAS (AP) — A former owner of a failed Dallas savings and loan accused in a criminal indictment of diverting funds to keep the thrift afloat has been described as one of the industry's biggest "bandits" in Texas.

Jarrett E. Woods Jr., former owner of the failed Western Savings Association, was accused Thursday in the indictment of illegally diverting $18 million to pay off delinquent loans as a way of postponing the highflying thrift's $1 billion collapse.

The 37-count indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Dallas charges Woods with bank fraud, misapplication of bank funds, making false ledger entries and conspiracy.

Woods was expected to surrender to the FBI today and to have an initial appearance before a U.S. magistrate. His attorney did not return telephone calls.

"We have corralled one of the biggest savings and loan bandits in Texas," Attorney General Dick Thornburgh told reporters. "The free-wheeling lifestyle and fraudulent management practices that led to Western's collapse helped set the trend for our national thrift crisis."

Defense bill headed for passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking final action on a 1991 defense bill that slashes President Bush's budget request for the Strategic Defense Initiative and barely keeps alive the B-2 stealth bomber program.

The Senate was expected to approve companion military spending and authorization bills today.

The spending bill totals $268 billion, a cut of $19 billion from Bush's initial proposal in January.

Among the provisions in the bills are a nearly $2 billion cut in the president's $4.7 billion request for the anti-missile SDI program, a reduction in funds for the B-2 bomber that keeps the program alive for at least one more year and sharp cuts in money for land-based nuclear missiles.

The bill also provides money for the V-22 Osprey, the tilt-rotor aircraft that Defense Secretary Dick Cheney has tried to cancel for two years.

False positive test investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the National Institute on Drug Abuse are trying to find out why drug testing by a government-certified laboratory in North Carolina incorrectly identified five people as using illegal methamphetamines.

In each case, the lab's confirmatory tests confused the stimulant drug with high doses of over-the-counter cold medications containing ephedrine and other stimulants, said Dr. Joseph Autry, director of applied research at the government institute.

"This is one (type of) test in one lab for one drug, and it's the only time a false positive has happened in a NIDA-certified lab," Autry said. "We're taking it very seriously."

The case that brought the problem to the government's attention was that of a truck driver, who was removed from his job last July despite his vehement denials that he was falsely accused, officials said.

Officials did not identify him and said his case has resulted in litigation. He was tested under Transportation Department regulations requiring drug testing of employees in department-regulated industries. This testing must be done by one of the 57 labs certified by the institute.

The laboratory that conducted the tests was suspended last week while institute officials try to determine whether the problem was with the lab's testing or was inherent in the testing procedure.

Barry gets six months prison term

MARION BARRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mayor Marion Barry was sentenced today to six months in prison, fined $5,000 and given one year probation for his conviction on a misdemeanor cocaine possession charge.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson disregarded Barry's plea for community service, saying that Barry had abused his office and the collective trust of the community.

"Having failed as the good example he might have been, the defendant must now become an example of another kind," Jackson said.

Congress' pay raises will cover higher taxes

WASHINGTON (TNN) — Although House members are poised to increase the tax burden on nearly all Americans to reduce the federal budget deficit, lawmakers have already insulated themselves from tax shock.

The so-called ethics reform package Congress approved last November provides a healthy pay raise for House members effective Jan. 1. The current $96,600 House salary will increase by 30 percent to $126,000.

At the same time, House members will give up their ability to accept up to $26,850 per year in speaking fees from special interest groups.

House leaders of both parties have outflanked a few halfhearted legislative efforts to roll back the pay hike in recognition of the skyrocketing budget deficit. Thwarted last weekend when the House debated a legislative branch spending measure, pay raise opponents are unlikely to win a House vote on the issue before Congress adjourns this weekend.

And although congressional pay raises often are potent political issues, the pay raise debate has been muted this election year by a bipartisan agreement not to hold incumbent lawmakers accountable for their pay raise votes.

The agreement, signed by Democratic and Republican party leaders last fall as a means of encouraging congressional support for higher salaries, places pay raise votes officially off limits this fall. Although neither party has been completely successful in preventing its challengers from using the issue against House incumbents, the parties are not permitting funds or campaign assistance from Washington to be used in attacking pay raise supporters.

Little-noticed outside Washington until recently, the pay raise protection pact has sparked a few complaints and isolated defiance by outraged candidates who consider it an improper restraint on political dialogue.

Meanwhile, some lawmakers are concerned that the budget plan now heading for congressional approval could give voters the impression congressmen are granting themselves a tax break to go with their new salaries.

While the budget bill would have the net effect of slightly increasing taxes paid by wage earners in the $100,000 to $200,000 income category, lawmakers worry that voters may not see beyond the legislation's reduction in the income tax rate paid by that group.

The income tax rate cut from 33 percent to 31 percent would be more than offset by other provisions including a boost in the amount of wages subject to the Medicare payroll tax.

Police criticized by Israeli probe

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli investigation into the Temple Mount killings said today that police opened fire in self defense, but it severely criticized their commanders for ignoring advance signs of trouble at the holy site.

The three-man commission said that Palestinians provoked the riot, but that police showed virtually no sensitivity to the Temple Mount as a holy place for Jews and for Moslems, who call it Haram al-Sharif.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir named the commission two days after the rioting on Oct. 8 to examine what led to the confrontation, in which 19 Palestinians were killed and more than 140 wounded in Israeli gunfire.

The Jerusalem police command "took routine measures without being aware that the situation on the Temple Mount was extremely difficult and explosive," the report said.

Israel also said its internal investigation would be adequate.

Kazakhstan declares sovereignty

MOSCOW (AP) — Kazakhstan has become the 14th of the 15 Soviet republics to declare sovereignty, defying the national legislature and banning nuclear tests on its territory in Central Asia, Soviet media reported.

The action Thursday came after environmental activists claimed Kazakhstan's 15 million people suffer an elevated cancer rate and other health problems because it is the site of one of the country's main testing grounds for nuclear warheads.

In Moldavia today, authorities in the republic bordering Romania planned to send police to the Gagauz region, where an ethnic minority has declared sovereignty and begun holding elections. Busloads of college-age volunteers were also headed for the area today.

Konstantin Rabu, a member of the Moldavian People's Front, said in a telephone interview from the Moldavian capital of Kishinev that the volunteers were unarmed and would try to end the Gagauz independence drive peacefully.

"We want to talk them out of this craziness," he said.

President Mikhail S. Gorbachev made a telephone call to Moldavia's president, Mircha Snegur, to warn that "violence and confrontation are impermissible," the official news agency Tass said.

Riots threaten Indian government

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The religious dispute that pits Hindus against Moslems is threatening to bring down the government, and the death toll in the violence has risen to 89, according to news reports today.

United News of India reported that 71 people died Wednesday and Thursday in religious riots in the cities of Jaipur and Jodhpur in western Rajasthan state.

The news agency quoted hospital sources as saying 68 bodies of people killed in the rioting had been brought to Jaipur, and at least three other people were known to have died.

Elsewhere in the country, news reports said that at least 18 others had died in Hindu-Moslem clashes since Tuesday.

Medicare savings

Of all the entitlement programs in the federal budget, one of the largest sacred cows is Medicare. Any talk of trimming costs or raising premiums unleashes a torrent of complaints from elderly beneficiaries, represented by the politically powerful American Association of Retired Persons and the health care industry. A proposal to cut $60 billion from projected increases in Medicare spending during the next five years was a principal contributor to the collapse of the initial budget package endorsed by the White House and congressional leaders.

During the last decade, Medicare spending has expanded far more than the rest of the federal budget. Although enrollment in the program increased by only 14 percent between 1980 and 1988, payments increased by 41 percent, from $35.7 billion to $86.3 billion. That was a faster rate of growth than defense outlays during the same period.

Medicare spending has become inviolate partly because many elderly recipients are convinced that any effort to control costs and promote savings will degrade the level of care. Those fears can now be laid to rest on the basis of a new study by the universally respected Rand Corporation in Santa Monica.

After a four-year, $3.9 million survey, Rand found that measures taken by the federal government to limit Medicare's hospital costs had not reduced the quality of hospital care for the elderly. On the contrary, Rand noted, death rates among elderly patients actually fell and other important indices of hospital care improved after cost-control measures took effect in 1983.

Rand's researchers studied five medical conditions that account for roughly one-third of all elderly deaths: congestive heart failure, heart attack, stroke, pneumonia and hip fracture. Not only did they record a 1.1 percent decline in death rates, they also found that the portion of patients receiving poor or very poor care had declined from 25 percent before the cost-control measures were introduced to 12 percent afterward.

Under the controls, hospitals are paid a flat fee based on a patient's illness, rather than the actual cost of treatment. This change has reduced the average length of hospital stays and reduced hospital occupancy rates, resulting in substantial savings to federal taxpayers.

The success of these reforms demonstrates that cost savings in the program do not have to come at the expense of quality care.

Saddam will not tolerate any dissension in his ranks

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has had more than 300 of his army officers executed since the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait Aug. 2, according to Central Intelligence Agency reports. Their crime was that they opposed the invasion.

Such executions are routine for Saddam who, over the years of his brutal reign, has tolerated no dissent and surrounded himself with sycophants who are now too afraid to tell him that his invasion was a bad idea.

Top-secret CIA reports were full of horrendous stories about Saddam long before the invasion. As we recently reported, the stories have taken on an element of fantasy as U.S. intelligence agents scramble to get tidbits of information, credible or incredible, on Saddam.

The fact is, there is no need to make up stories that vilify Saddam. The truth is no less brutal than the fiction.

In the first coup that brought Saddam's Baathist political party to power in 1968, Abdel-Rezzaq Nayef was designated prime minister. He lasted 13 days. At that point Saddam, then his vice president, pulled a gun on his friend Nayef, escorted him to a plane and shipped him to Morocco.

That was Saddam at his most diplomatic. In 1979, when Saddam was the new president of Iraq, he decided to weed out some dead wood. He made up a story about a Syrian plot to kill him and wrung a confession out of one official. Then he assembled Iraq's top leaders and played a film of the confession. With tears running down his cheeks, Saddam confided to the crowd that there were others involved in the plot.

Then, as the assembled stooges sweated, Saddam, between puffs on his cigar, read out the names of alleged conspirators in the bogus plot. They were seized, dragged from their homes and executed along with some of their family members. Saddam himself headed up the firing squad and ordered his cabinet ministers to join in the shooting.

More purges followed during Saddam's long war with Iran. As we reported earlier, one of the most astonishing was his on-the-spot execution of a Cabinet minister in the summer of 1982. Health Minister Riyadh Ibrahim, suggested during a Cabinet meeting that Saddam might step down temporarily as president because Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini hated him so much that he might never negotiate a peace between Iraq and Iran.

Showing no emotion, Saddam asked Ibrahim to step outside and discuss the suggestion privately. The Cabinet ministers heard a shot. Later, Ibrahim's wife, knowing only that her husband had disappeared, begged Saddam to return him. Saddam did — chopped in pieces. Then he put out the story that Ibrahim had been executed for importing life-threatening medicines.

Several months later, Saddam executed 300 high-ranking officers for a variety of "crimes" — all centering on their inability to win the war with Iran. Our sources say Iraq was losing, not because the officers were incompetent, but because Saddam is not a gifted military leader. The war turned to Iraq's favor in 1986 when he finally turned the strategy over to officers in the field, but not before another round of executions of those who dared to suggest that Saddam should not run the war.

After a truce was negotiated with Iran in 1988, several military officers died in mysterious helicopter crashes, and it became a dark joke in Iraq that Saddam was losing more helicopters in peacetime than in war.

Last year, Saddam's own brother-in-law, Defense Minister Adnan Khairallah, died in one of those crashes after he quarreled with Saddam about the treatment of Saddam's wife, Khairallah's sister. Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak cabled Saddam and begged him, for the sake of Arab dignity, "Please, no more helicopter crashes."

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

The writer's art What are you parlay-vooving about?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Yes, you have heard me deliver this lecture before, but you have not heard it in nearly six months. Meanwhile you have forgotten an admonition you should have taken to heart. Today's reminder, one more time, is: Don't use foreign words or phrases unless you are certain you have them right.

Obedience to this commonsense rule would have saved a Denver copy editor some embarrassment last May. The Associated Press had provided a story on the startling defeats suffered by tennis stars Stefan Edberg and Boris Becker in the French Open. They were eliminated by relatively unknown players in the very first round. Headline in the Denver Post: "Edberg, Becker bid bonjour in Paris."

Bonjour? Aaargh! Edberg and Becker didn't bid Paris hello, good morning or good day. They were saying goodbye, for heaven's sake. If the copy editor were determined to Frenchify his headline, he needed "adieu" or "au revoir" or "a bientot."

Why do we show off our bad French? Beats me, but it happens all the time. A food writer in the Portland Oregonian undertook to describe a cassata cake. It is "an amazing menage of amaretto, sweet mascarpone cheese and dark chocolate icing." Menage? Nonsense! A menage is a household. Idiomatically, it is a relationship of husband, wife and husband's mistress, or alternatively, husband, wife and wife's lover.

The last time I saw "menage" so mangled was when a baseball writer was discussing a three-way trade that involved players from Baltimore, Boston and New York (or some such American League combination). He described it as a menage a trois. Mercy! The Portland writer wanted

James J. Kilpatrick

"melange." Are sportswriters addicted to fractured French? A few months ago, Lee Trevino and Jack Nicklaus were fighting it out for prize money in the U.S. Open. They had known such battles before. Said a writer in the Bridgeport (Conn.) Post: "It was like deja vous." Yucceh! He wanted "deja vu," a sense of something previously experienced. (The "deja" takes a couple of diacritical marks that are not in this computer's font.)

The city fathers of Newcastle, England, had a great idea in June. As a symbol of a city emerging from its dark days of coal mining, they proposed to use Andy Capp of comic strip fame. As followers of the funnies know, Andy Capp is a beer-drinking, wench-ogling, cigarette-smoking, altogether scruffy chap. The idea was to get rid of Andy's crumpled plaid cap, to comb his hair, and to make him a kind of sober, rehabilitated, common man's swell.

Well, the idea went nowhere. Newcastle residents howled in dismay at the very idea of turning Andy into a sissy. Newspapers took up the cry. Sponsors hastily killed the proposal. Someone thought of asking Reg Smythe, the 72-year-old creator of the comic strip, how he felt about it. Smythe delivered what The Miami Herald called the "coup de gras." He said the idea was preposterous. The Miami writer was on the right track. He was looking for "coup de grace" (the "a" takes a circumflex), which is the merciful stroke that puts a fatally wounded foe to death. What he found was a stroke of fat, which was not what he wanted at all.

Back in June, a writer for the Everett (Wash.) Herald interviewed a 94-year-old veteran of World War I. One memory still smoldering in his mind was of "the Mues Argon, his last battle." Reporters need to develop an abiding sense of unease about the spelling of foreign places. It's Meuse Argonne, as any standard reference work on the war would have informed the writer.

About this same time a year ago, the National Football League was just getting into mid-season. The Denver Broncos were doing great. Indeed, The New York Times put the team on top of the NFL. A writer in the Denver Post explained: "The Times fed various numbers into its trusty computer, and viola, the Broncos wound up as the league's top-ranked team."

Viola? The spelling was closer to the mark than the spelling in The Seguin (Texas) Gazette Enterprise in July. There a writer turned in a light piece (what the AP used to call a brite) on her doleful experience in trying to build a deck by her family swimming pool. She and her mother did their best, but the nails were too long and their skills were too little. Then came a rescue: "After we had called it quits and my brother took over, wallah! Shorter nails suddenly appeared."

OK, so "voila" sounds like "wallah," but maybe a simple "hallelujah" would have sufficed. Or perhaps "behold!" Or even, "Whaddya know?" Or anything else in English.

despite a strike that began Thursday night.

"It's the wrong size force. It's too big to stay there and too small to attack." — House Armed Services Committee Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., criticizing the number of troops currently deployed in Saudi Arabia.

"We were astonished and I must say embarrassed. We actually didn't know until last week that the funding had even been asked for." — Shirley Fredricks, daughter of band leader Lawrence Welk, responding to criticism of congressional approval to spend $500,000 to renovate the house where her father was born.

The story of a first best friend

By LEWIS GRIZZARD

Danny Thompson was my first best friend. We met in second grade.

Danny was the fastest boy in class and was always picked first when we chose sides for touch football.

I used to practice running alone at home thinking I would learn something that would magically transform me into what the sports pages used to refer to as a "speed merchant."

Nothing worked. Danny and I are both 44 now and we haven't raced in more than 30 years, but I know I still couldn't outrun him. It is a reality I have accepted.

A dear friend threw me a birthday party at her home last week. It was more like a class reunion.

"How did we all get this old this fast?" we asked each other.

Danny was there. We started telling the old stories again and I told the same ones I always tell on him.

It's the story about his damned football. I might have accepted the fact I will never be able to outrun Danny Thompson, but I hadn't gotten over the football.

We played touch football on Sunday afternoons in a vacant lot.

We started playing with Bobby Entekin's football, but it didn't age very well. So my mother bought me one and I threw it into the Sunday games.

But it was showing the signs of wear, too, a couple of years later when Christmas came and we were all 12.

But no problem. Danny's dad gave him a new football for Christmas. He showed it to me.

"Nice ball," I said to Danny.

"Let's go outside and play pass."

"Not with my ball," he said.

"Why not?"

"I don't want to get it dirty," he answered, and put the ball back in its box.

We never used Danny's football. Never. Sunday afternoon games broke up when we graduated from high school, and as far as I know Danny's ball was still in its box.

"So what ever happened to that damned football of yours?" I asked him at the party.

"I guess Daddy threw it away when I went into service," he said, and we had the same good laugh at this story we always do.

Later, Danny handed me a present. "It's something you've wanted for a long time," he said.

I ripped off the paper and opened the box. It was a new football. Not THE original football of 30 years ago, but it was in fact a new football.

"Now, will you quit complaining about my football?" Danny laughed.

I put my arms around him and thanked him.

He's forgiven. The county built a fire station on our old football field. But we said maybe before too much longer we'd all get together again for an old-timers' game of touch.

"I'll bring the ball," I said. "If I can choose first when we pick sides."

I'd still pick Danny.

'Christ is still the solution'

By RON DUNCAN
Special to the Herald

To many, any article titled, "Christ, the Answer," or "Christ, the Solution," is considered an out-of-date, worn out, used up cliché. The title does not quicken the pulse, speed the heartbeat or increase any emotional expectation. The expression has grown "passee."

Some might not consider Christ as the answer because they never really understood the question. The answer to what? ... Solution to what? ... Until ... you find yourself placed in one of life's suffocating and tightly fastened straightjackets. You recall those special occasions in life. No matter how much you twisted and turned, begged and pleaded, screamed and cried — no relief was in sight. You were forced to ride out the storm, hoping it would end soon. The tunnel was dark, and no light could be spotted, no matter how much you squinted your eyes in search of it.

Example? It might have been the grief and the heartache at the death of a loved one along with feelings of helplessness as you wish there was something — just anything you could do to save him.

It might have been the hurt and desperation as your companion, after many years of marriage, shocks you and breaks your heart with words like, "I don't love you anymore ... I don't want you to touch me ... I love someone else instead."

Pastor's corner

It might have been the anger and bitterness over losing a job and being replaced by someone else, even though you were doing the best you could do.

It might have been the anxiety and despair as a sure investment goes down the drain, and you now face financial disaster.

All of these examples can produce feelings of failure, inadequacy and total numbness. Your world is shattered around you. The pressure is overwhelming.

Now where do you go? I like the words of Abraham Lincoln: "I have often been driven to my knees in prayer because there was no place else to go." The idea of Jesus Christ furnishing a solution to all the grief, heartache, hurt, desperation, anger, bitterness, anxiety and despair doesn't seem so trite anymore. Jesus Christ has the solution because he is the solution.

Beginning Saturday night at 7:30 and going through Tuesday night, the Anderson Street Church of Christ will be hosting a lectureship with this theme: "Christ, the Solution." All of the lessons will be taken from the Epistle of Paul to the Philippians. On Saturday's subject will be "Christ, Our Message" (Phil., chapter 1), presented by Tom Craiker, Stanton. On Sunday, Colquitt Nash, Midland, will speak on "Christ, Our Model" (Phil., chapter 2). Bobby Clark, Midland, will present the lesson "Christ, Our Goal" (Phil., chapter 3) on Monday; and Ralph Gates, Midland, will speak on the subject "Christ, Our Peace" (Phil., chapter 4) on Tuesday.

All services will begin at 7:30 each night, including the regular Sunday night service.

All are invited to attend these lectures.

You will be amazed at how many problems Christ can solve when you let him.

Ron Duncan is minister of Anderson Street Church of Christ.

Rebuild the church

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Roman Catholic leader says the new Soviet law on religious freedom will allow American Catholics to assist their "brother and sister Catholics to rebuild their church."

Archbishop Roger M. Mahony of Los Angeles, chairman of the U.S. Catholic Conference's international policy committee, said the new law "is a critical step in the process of providing the institutional guarantees of full religious freedom in all its many dimensions."

World Community Day slated for Nov. 2

Church Women United will observe World Community Day Nov. 2 at the First United Methodist Church at 10 a.m. Child care will be provided.

World Community Day is an annual event that unites Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and other Christian women in a common worship experience.

This year's ecumenical service, titled "Women for Justice — Justice for Women" was written by Christian women in Arizona who are involved daily in justice issues. They write from their lives as Native American, Hispanic, Chinese, Black and Caucasian women, leading us into deeper awareness of the need for justice while lifting up the lives of women all over the world who are women for justice.

It is World Community Day of offerings that make possible, in part, the mission of Church Women United, and support its national commitment to eliminate the poverty of women and children in this country, and to build a world of peace and justice, according to a news release.

Excluded religious facts edging back into classes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Teaching moral standards and religious elements of history, generally shunned by public schools in recent decades, seems to be making a sporadic but growing comeback.

This is the assessment of specialists in the field who cite accumulating evidence of the shift, which they say is urgently needed to overcome a huge gap in educating the young.

The situation "has been pathetic," educator Charles R. Kniker said of the failure of recent decades to teach religion's pervasive historical and social influences.

The omission has been documented in numerous studies of textbooks. But the ignored influences and effects of religion gradually and sporadically are being restored, Kniker said.

"It's slow going, but it's a clear phenomenon," he said in an interview.

"There's a major growth of interest in academic study about religion in the schools. It's been a wilderness, but certainly changes are going on."

Kniker, professor of education at Iowa State University and editor of the journal Religion & Public Education, has made a national survey of state policies on teaching about religion and moral values.

Results showed a spotty pattern, but indicated developing concern in that field.

Since the survey broke new ground, however, prior data was lacking with which to compare the results.

"The main purpose was to get a big snapshot of where we are now in this country," a "base line study to see what is the reality" so comparisons can be made with it in the future, he said.

Thirteen states permit teaching about religion in social studies, while typically prohibiting indoctrination in a religion's beliefs. As Alabama specifies, it allows "religious facts only."

Ten states have school policies on the Bible as literature, some noting that the Supreme Court outlawed systematic or devotional reading of the Bible, but approved "objective teaching of religion."

Auction for missions

Each of us have "old goodies" around our homes that we no longer like or have outlived their usefulness to us. Many times these things end up collecting dust in some out of the way closet. The First United Methodist Church could be the answer to the clutter problem.

An "Auction for Missions" is being planned for Nov. 17 at the C-City Auction House on East Highway 80. Everyone with anything they would like to donate to the cause is asked to bring them to the auction house between 2-5 p.m. every Friday between now and Nov. 17 or leave them at the church, located at 333 Chestnut. All proceeds from this event will go to assist the church's General Mis-

Band boosters costume party

A costume fun party sponsored by the Band Boosters will be hosted Saturday from 7 to 11 p.m. at the Mitchell County Fairgrounds barns. Admission is $2, and will include all activities, including a dance, games, costume contest, and pumpkin carving contest (bring your own pumpkin). A concession stand will be provided with nachos, soft drinks, popcorn and more.

Class of 1981

Class reunions are always fun to attend as you get a chance to see old buddies and reminisce about the good old days. The Class of 1981 held such a reunion last weekend during homecoming. Everyone enjoyed a get-together after the football game but had a better chance to visit at the dance which was held Saturday evening. As classmates registered for the dance they were asked to fill out a questionnaire about each other and vote on specific categories.

The results are as follows: Changed the Least, Sidney Stewart Johnson; Old Maid, Toni Hutto; Most Eligible Bachelor, Robert Godina; Baldest, Leslie Merket; Married Longest, Lonnie Wyrosdick, 10 years; Newlywed, Mark Piland; Traveled Farthest, Toni Hutto, 1500 miles, California; Most Kids, (actually there were others with more children who failed to register) — tie between Melinda Fuller Boyd and Tracey Sassiott McPhaul with three children each.

Living drug free

A "Drug Free" Pep Rally was held Monday at Hutchinson Elementary to kick off the Red Ribbon Week in which Colorado City students will be participating along with others from all over Texas. Everyone across Texas will wear a red ribbon as a sign that they believe the war on drugs is winnable. Our schools are promoting the national theme "Proud to be... Drug Free." Middle school assistant principal Mark Merrell stated "During this week, our school district will make an effort to educate our community in the area of drug prevention." A poster contest was held at Kelley Elementary and Middle School. Middle School also held a video contest.

Texas couple plans to open zoo of exotic animals

By SCOTT W. WRIGHT
Austin American-Statesman

AUSTIN (AP) — Jim and Cindy Carroccio had a farm. E-I-E-I-O.

And on this farm they had some pigs. E-I-E-I-O, what gives here. Those don't look like any ordinary squealing porkers in that pig pen.

No, they're Vietnamese potbellied pigs. And what's that on the other side of the barnyard? Barbado sheep, Sicilian miniature donkeys and Tennessee fainting goats that will fall over with a clap of the hands.

With an oink oink here and a baah baah there, the Carroccios plan to open an exotic animal park for kids this spring that will be stocked with such rare critters from nearly every continent.

"It'll be a cross between a zoo and a nature center," says Cindy Carroccio, a former nurse who quit her hectic job at a local hospital nearly a year ago to care for the ever-growing number of animals at her home.

"But we don't want it to be like a zoo where they just come and look at the animals inside cages," she says. "We want the kids to be able to touch the animals and actually learn something about them."

The Carroccios say they and investors have spent nearly $75,000 buying rare animals, and constructing facilities to house them on the couple's 25-acre ranch about five miles southwest of Oak Hill.

"We want the kids to understand that there is a good way and a bad way to keep animals," says the 33-year-old Cindy Carroccio. "We want them to learn how to coexist with animals and give them dignity and respect."

AUSTIN, Texas — Jim Carroccio feeds a Vietnamese pot-bellied pig at his 25-acre ranch south of Austin. He and his wife hope to open an exotic animal park there.

The couple got their start in the exotic animal business several years ago with the purchase of several Shetland ponies and Vietnamese potbellied pigs, which some people keep as pets because they are small and can be housebroken.

Next came the brown-and-black Barbado and Mouflon sheep, delicate-looking creatures with horns that hail from the Caribbean island of Barbados and from Europe.

Then the Carroccios added fainting goats, which have a genetic disorder causing them to tumble when scared. And later a pair of Bengal cats, spotted felines that resulted from breeding tabby cats with Asian leopards.

"Our friends came over, and they enjoyed seeing the animals so much that they wanted to know if they could bring their kids out," says Jim, a 37-year-old theatrical set designer. "Then they wanted to know if they could bring their friends' kids out. Finally, we just decided we should open a park."

The Carroccios, who have applied for a permit from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to show the animals to the public, say they hope to gradually add more exotic animals to their menagerie.

"We don't plan on having any dangerous or vicious animals," Jim Carroccio said.

"We hope that by teaching children respect for the animals, when they grow up they won't be so inclined to go out and do something that will destroy the animals' habitat," Cindy Carroccio says. "We want them to be able to coexist harmoniously."

Venus has mile-high bulges

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Venus has 600-mile-wide circular bulges on its surface caused by molten rock pressing up from inside the planet, the same kind of forces that created Hawaii, a Magellan scientist says.

The bulges are as much as a mile high, said Ellen Stofan, a geologist who analyzes the spacecraft's pictures of Venus at NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

"You have hot material that rises from deep within the interior of the planet," pushing up overlying rock, she said. The process "happens over scales of hundreds of millions of years," she said Wednesday.

From a bird's-eye-view, the bulges look like sets of concentric rings. The rings on the bulges are ridges and valleys. Numerous volcanoes and lava flows dot the bulges, which are called coronas. Stofan said the bulges are formed by the same kind of upwelling of molten rock that created the Hawaiian Islands.

On Wednesday, Magellan orbited Venus for the 551st time since arriving at the planet Aug. 10.

It has used its picture-making radar to peer through Venus' thick clouds during 288 of those orbits since mapping started Sept. 15.

About 30 of the coronas were found on Venus by the Soviet Venera 15 and 16 orbiters in 1983 and 1984. But the Venera spacecraft couldn't determine if they were bulges or depressions caused by gargantuan meteorites.

Magellan is examining the planet with a more sophisticated radar that makes much more detailed pictures and can also calculate surface topography.

Ortega says revolution is possible

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Daniel Ortega, who won international respect by accepting an election defeat, says revolution in Latin America may survive the collapse of European communism, but not if its leaders cling to dogma.

Nicaragua's former president said in an interview that injustice and poverty still are problems in the region, providing the fodder of revolution.

At 46, with a decade of leadership behind him as head of the Sandinista National Liberation Front, Ortega has abandoned the olive fatigues and black-and-red bandanna of his guerrilla days and years in power. President Bush once compared the outfit to a Boy Scout uniform.

Ortega cultivates a youthful image, dressing in jeans and colorful shirts, and remains politically active in Nicaragua and abroad. Young admirers pursue him for autographs when he appears in public.

His acceptance of the February election loss to Violeta Chamorro, Nicaragua's new president, improved his image in the world. At home, Ortega has reined in the more radical elements of the Sandinista National Liberation Front.

A combination of Ortega's influence and two crippling strikes led by the Sandinistas persuaded the new government to retain many Sandinista programs, including land distribution.

"The reality of Nicaragua is that no one can govern without the FSLN," he said, using the initials of the Sandinista Front.

"I am sure that our talks with the government and our attempts to reach a consensus have angered some people inside the government, but we think common sense is prevailing."

Elements of Mrs. Chamorro's fractious coalition accuse her of weakness for dealing with the Sandinistas, who are by far the largest party in Nicaragua and want to be consulted on important economic decisions.

The Sandinistas oppose such austerity measures as currency devaluations, reductions in the public payroll and selling nationalized industries back to private investors.

Ortega works for the party and travels abroad seeking foreign aid for Nicaragua.

He said being out of office allows him more time with his eight children, but that they interfere with a book he is writing on the years in government.

Wealthy nations are focusing on their own concerns at the expense of Latin America and other poor regions, Ortega said.

"We will now see an industrialized North, including the former Socialist bloc... disappear and they are not compensated by the United States or other industrialized countries. This places Latin America at a disadvantage. It does not help our countries. The need for revolutionary change remains."

"We still have a revolutionary movement in El Salvador, and Brazil can explode, too. We have armed groups in Peru and Colombia. What happened in the East policies of assistance of the Socialist bloc... disappear and they are not compensated by the United States or other industrialized countries.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Former President Daniel Ortega attends the funeral of Commander of the Revolution Carlos Nunez with Sandinista sympathizers earlier in October. Ortega has shed his military fatigues and improved his international image since his February election defeat.

"This places Latin America at a disadvantage. It does not help our countries. The need for revolutionary change remains."

"We still have a revolutionary movement in El Salvador, and Brazil can explode, too. We have armed groups in Peru and Colombia. What happened in the East does not improve the living conditions of people in the South."

Washington no longer can accuse all revolutionary movements of being communist, Ortega added, and "at the same time, the revolutionary movement must rethink the kind of projects and programs they want. In the past there was a tendency to dogmatism."

"Our revolution was never subordinated to the Soviet Union," he said. "They offered their support after the victory."

Birds were killed for oil spill study

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Alaska oil spill researchers killed as many as 350 birds this summer as part of a study commissioned by the federal government, a newspaper reported.

The researchers fitted the dead birds with radio transmitters and smeared some with oil, then tossed the bodies into the sea to track their progress. The Sacramento Bee reported.

The federal government commissioned the $600,000 study to help its case against Exxon Corp., owner of the tanker that ran aground and spilled nearly 11 million gallons of oil into Prince William Sound in March 1989, the newspaper said.

By tracking the dead birds, researchers hope to develop a formula to estimate the number of birds killed in the spill.

During a highly publicized program after the spill, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said 797 birds had been rescued, cleaned and released, the newspaper said. Thousands more birds were believed to have died then.

The birds killed this summer were shot on islands, most in national wildlife refuges, outside the spill zone, the newspaper said without providing specifics.

Seeing-eye horses must go

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP) — A nearly blind retiree has lost his bid to keep two "seeing-eye horses" in his yard.

The City Council voted 6-1 Tuesday to deny George Bradford a zoning variance opposed by neighbors who complained of the smell from his corral.

Bradford, 71, who had been a construction worker and a truck driver, retired in 1963 because of his eyesight and gave his horses, Ol' Blue Rocky and Buck, the "seeing eye" tag, saying they help him keep his independence.

Bradford, who retains about 1 percent of his sight in one eye, rides Ol' Blue Rocky the two miles to downtown Artesia, across six intersections with stoplights. He claims the horse knows when it's safe to cross.

In 1981, the City Council granted him a lifetime variance to keep the horses, but inspectors reported in 1987 that he wasn't cleaning up after the animals.

A judge last year said Bradford could keep the horses another year but had to apply for permission beyond that.

Kevin Hanratty, Bradford's attorney, asked the council to honor the lifetime variance.

"Can the citizens of this city rely on the word of this city or not?" he asked.

Eddie Wallace, Bradford's neighbor, said Tuesday he lives about 30 feet away and cannot see why he should have to put up with the flies and odor.

But Debbie Fulton said she has lived next door for about a year and had never seen Bradford's corrals dirty.

Dr. Wendy Gramm campaigns in Big Spring

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
 Staff Writer

Dr. Wendy Gramm, wife of Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, visited the home of Troy and Linda Fraser in Big Spring Thursday to drum up local support for her husband and other Republicans in the coming election.

Gramm, a former professor of economics at Texas A&M, currently serves as chairperson of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission in Washington, D.C.

Beginning a brief talk to a group of about 60 supporters, Gramm gestured around the spacious living room in the Fraser home.

"Phil Gramm's vision for America is that every American would have a place like this," she said. "The Democrats' vision is public housing."

DR. WENDY GRAMM

She said that, although Sen. Gramm is reported to have a strong lead in his race, "the only poll that counts is the one on election day."

In response to a question about the effect the advent of the European Economic Community will have on America's economy, Gramm said it and "new economies" developing all over the world would "spawn some great competition."

"It's truly an international world now," she said. "We've got to work to keep our economy strong. We have to make sure we don't over-regulate, impose too many restrictions."

Gramm described her family background: Her grandparents came from Korea to Hawaii around 1900 to work on the sugarcane harvest for a large sugar company. Her grandfather later became vice president of the company.

Now, ironically, the sugar industry is regulated by the commission she chairs, she said.

Her entree into politics was defense-related research. Gramm said she was hesitant at first.

"But at that point, I thought I might as well see if I can be part of the solution rather than complaining about the problems of government."

She said later that her parents had always been Republicans and, although she and Sen. Gramm had at one time supported the Democratic party, she said they now realized the party "no longer represented the views of Texans."

She commented that Linda Fraser had assembled a remarkably large group of supporters on short notice. "Big Spring has always been very supportive of Phil," she said.

An aide to Sen. Gramm said Dr. Gramm had been keeping her suitcases packed at all times lately, not knowing if her husband would be able to leave Washington to campaign. Budget negotiations have kept the senator confined to the office, so Dr. Gramm has been "filling in," the aide said.

Linda Fraser said she had first received word of the visit Tuesday evening, although plans were not set until Wednesday morning. She said she had 24 hours to assemble a group and arrange the affair.

"I'm really pleased with the turnout," she said. "Most people we called, when they heard Wendy (Dr. Gramm) was coming, said they wouldn't miss it."

Jobs

Most of the 50 jobs pinpointed by the study don't require a four-year college degree.

"These are jobs that are available to today's high school graduates with as little as 12 months of additional training," Morrison said. "That's terrific news for high school people."

The increasing emphasis on technology, coupled with advances in many fields, means that many workers already on the job may have to update their knowledge and skills.

Halloween

including ball tosses and goldfish-catching, are planned; money raised will go to each school's Parent-Teacher Association.

Because some parents oppose Halloween for religious reasons, College Heights and Marcy are labeling their fairs "fall festivals," but costumes are encouraged, said organizers of those schools' activities.

"We want the parents to dress up, too," said Jan Anderson, a carnival chairwoman at Marcy. "Some of the parents are funnier than the kids."

In addition, students at Moss and the Kindergarten Center can come to school in costume Oct. 31.

Murray Murphy said costumes should not be worn to classes at the high school. "We do not encourage that at all," he said. "This is primarily a little kids' day."

The staff and residents of Canterbury Retirement Centers are inviting children to come by 1700 Lancaster Street on Halloween evening, Oct. 31, from 6 to 9 p.m. for thrills and treats in the "Spookhouse" and "Witches Den." There is no charge.

The Howard County Jaycees will have their third annual haunted house Friday and Saturday, Oct. 26 and 27, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., and again on Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 30 and 31, from 7 to 11 p.m.

This year's haunted house will be in the old Cowper's Clinic and Hospital on Gregg Street, and admission is $2 for adults and $1 for children 12 years old and under.

"We thought (about Cowper's), what a great place, it being a hospital, it's spooky enough by itself," Jaycee state director Marlon Hale said.

Golden Plains Care Center is having a party for residents and their families from 2 to 4 p.m. Halloween Day. They have invited children from Sunshine Day Care Center to participate in the fun.

On Oct. 27, the Big Spring Herald will sponsor a "Ghostbusters" bicycle drawing and giveaway for children 12 and younger. Participants must visit designated merchants that day to pick up game pieces.

Those who collect all the letters in the word "ghostbusters" are eligible to win. Contest rules were published in the Big Spring Herald yesterday.

vices, but that has been exhausted in Howard County. "The only source of revenue we have now is to raise taxes," he said.

Areas of the budget that could possibly be cut, in response to declining property values, are reducing salaries by eliminating jobs through attrition and in the road and bridge department, said Republican candidate for Pct. 2 commissioner Jerry Kilgore, 47, the owner of Highland Barber Shop.

Jobs would be eliminated by not hiring people when vacancies become open, he said.

As an example of a possible cut in the road and bridge department, he said road graders, which cost about $175,000 each, could be used longer. "They trade it in sooner because they had a guaranteed trade-in. It takes away the competitive bid from another brand," he said. They could be used at least 10 years, he said.

His Democratic opponent, John R. Stanley, 68, former owner of Stanley Hardware and former city councilman, agreed that those two areas need to be looked at, but otherwise praised the current budget. "It looks like the county commissioners have done an excellent job on formulating this budget," he said.

When asked about taking care of roads in Coahoma, he said he is aware of the needs in that area. "I'll be working just as hard for those people out there as in Forsan, the Tubbs addition," he said. "Yes, if I'm elected. I've got to get there first. I've got to know what I can do."

However, Democratic candidate for Pct. 4 commissioner Bobby C. Cathey, 58, a farmer and rancher on the Howard County Soil and Water Conservation District board, has said that if money is under-spent anywhere, it would be on roads needing work in his precinct. His Republican opponent, Robert Crenshaw, 39, a machinist for Permian Research Corp., said that he has been informed of deteriorating roads in that precinct.

Concerning a complaint that road and bridge workers were not doing their jobs, Cathey and Crenshaw both said they want to see that problem taken care of.

All candidates agreed that the county should be involved in economic development efforts and they should strive to work with city officials in shared services, such as the ambulance service, the 911 emergency telephone service and the landfill.

Asked about the justification of commissioner salaries, $24,400 per year, only one candidate, Stanley, said he would consent to a salary decrease. His opponent, Kilgore, said he does not know if he can justify it, but said it is in line with what commissioners in other counties are being paid.

Cathey said it is justified as a full-time job and said he would resign if he did not earn the pay. His opponent, Crenshaw, said it is a justifiable salary for an executive. "It's hard to justify it," Stanley said. "I haven't seen my county commissioner in 10 years. To me that's not justification."

"I did not set the system up. As far as justifying it, I don't know that I can," Kilgore said. But, he said, "I do not feel it is a part-time position. I can devote the time that is necessary." Meanwhile, the amount of pay is in line with other counties, "if not less," he said.

"If I can't (do the job), I'll resign," Cathey said. "I think you need a good competent man to handle it," Crenshaw said. "(The pay is) not a waste of taxpayers' money."

The county judge candidates also addressed legal experience.

Coffee spoke of the responsibility of judging misdemeanor and juveniles cases. "I think everyone would admit that they wouldn't want the district judge to be a layman," he said. "They wouldn't want a judge on a court of appeals to be a layman."

But Lockhart said, "A formal education in law is not the only method to obtain a background. I've probably spent as much time testifying (as a law officer) as John has handling cases."

In another contested race, the district clerk candidates were asked about their qualifications for the job.

District Clerk Brenda Brasel, 50, the Democratic nominee for re-election touted her 22 years of experience in the district clerk's office. She is in her sixth year as district clerk and was chief deputy clerk for 17 years.

"(I have) proven abilities in the performance of my duties," she said. That includes budget preparation and living within the budget, she said.

Republican candidate Judi Atkins, 43, office manager and legal assistant for the law firm Little, Palmer & Williams, said her 20 years experience in the legal profession can enable her to do a better job. That includes 17 years experience with computers, docket control and purchases, she said.

"I think all this experience and my ideas qualify me for this office," she said. "I have fresh ideas." Part of those ideas include creative new uses for computers, which she says can always be found.

But Brasel pointed out that the limits of a new computer system in that office is determined by funds to purchase the needed programs.

Bob Coltrane, chairman of Leadership Big Spring Alumni Town Hall Committee, the sponsor of the forum, said he was pleased with the event, saying it was better than last year's.

"I thought there were some good points raised tonight," he said. "It was far better than last year. The discussion was better. The phone helped."

"We had an excellent turnout," he said. Approximately 100 persons were in attendance.

School trustees consider change in Career Ladder

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
 Staff Writer

Big Spring Independent School District trustees discussed a proposed change in the Career Ladder policy at a special meeting Thursday.

The Career Ladder is a statewide program to give pay bonuses to teachers who reach certain levels in their yearly appraisals.

The major problem, Superintendent Bill McQueary said, is that Career Ladder payment bonuses are mandated by the state, but money to fund them is not provided. A committee of teachers, administrators and board members, formed in August, has submitted a new policy to the board for consideration.

Proposed changes include a requirement that teachers who have reached Level III would receive higher appraisal ratings in order to maintain that level. While only required to receive "exceeding expectations" appraisals now, by 1991-92, Level III teachers could be required to achieve a "clearly outstanding" designation.

The proposal policy does not change the district pledge not to use local funds for the program. It dictates that state funds will be assigned to salary upgrades required by the program on a funds-available basis.

Assistant superintendent Murray Murphy said teachers were "well aware" of the policy, and had been told of the consideration for change. He added that two teachers on the committee had supported the changes.

Trustees and administrators agreed there would probably be questions or complaints from teachers on both sides of the issue as the policy comes up for approval. The policy change will appear as an action item on the board's Nov. 9 meeting agenda.

In other business, the board approved a transfer of up to $5,000 from the general fund to the Flexible Benefit Plan bank account.

He told trustees that the actual amount needed by the fund would probably not exceed $1,500 and would be taken as needed. The amount will be repaid in full to the general fund, he said.

Assistant superintendent Ron Plumlee said the Flexible Benefits Plan "allows employees to shelter tax dollars on premiums for cancer and term-life policies," as well as "pool" money for child care and non-reimbursable medical expenses.

Trustees approved numerous recommended bidders for purchases of $78,000 worth of maintenance, custodial and transportation supplies.

The mass bid is part of the district's attempt to comply with new laws concerning the bid process: orders which, in one year's time, will cost more than $10,000 must be awarded through bids.

Logback said 95 percent of the companies were recommended as vendors because they had submitted the lowest bid. Exceptions were bids that did not meet the specifications, he said.

McQueary announced to the board that Tommie J. Huckabee, architect-advisor for the new building proposal, would begin his analysis of district facilities. McQueary said Huckabee was bringing a team of engineers to complete a detailed analysis of current buildings.

Trustees have given their approval for administrators to begin investigating the possibility of building two additional schools in Big Spring.

tions from Hightower's office call for a moratorium on all new hazardous waste permits in 1991-92, until the need for them can better be determined. They also call for reducing hazardous waste generation through facility redesigns, recycling and use of less toxic substances and for conducting local referendums to give citizens more say in the approval of hazardous waste permits.

They also call for requiring company emergency preparedness plans, designated hazardous-waste shipment routes with emergency guidelines included; the consolidation of waste permitting agencies into one agency headed by an elected official; and a state review board to review the new EPA regulations and propose stricter standards if necessary.

Legal changes called for include: having criminal as well as civil penalties for corporate and government officials who violate environmental laws; giving the attorney general independent authority to enforce environmental laws; broader reimbursement to citizens participating in permit hearings; and preventing former ex-regulatory officials from lobbying their former agency for a set period of time.

TDA Executive Assistant Max Woodfin said the finer points of the recommendations were discussed with representatives of the environmental groups.

"There may be some changes in language and there may be a few more specific items to make sure we don't leave ourselves open to interpretation," he said of the input from the meeting.

Besides TAP, other West Texas groups represented at the meeting included Volunteers Organized to Implement a Cleaner Environment, of Coahoma, and Ector County Environmental Conservation Corp. Also attending was Ector County Commissioner Joe Hernandez.

Permian lawyers argue their case.

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawyer for Odessa Permian High School said today that the University Interscholastic League based on vague rules its decision to make Permian ineligible for the Class 5A football playoffs.

Lawyer T. Gerald Treece of Houston said UIL rules against early football practices that Permian was penalized for violating were confusing for coaches to follow, and the penalty too sweeping.

"With their broad brush they have defamed, literally put the mark of Cain, on a football team and coaching staff," Treece said of the UIL.

Treece's comments came in the opening of a court hearing to determine whether defending Class 5A champion Permian will remain ineligible for the 1990 playoffs.

The Panthers were declared ineligible by the UIL for violating early practice rules by holding practice before Aug. 28.

Permian filed a lawsuit Sept. 28 in an effort to restore the school's eligibility this season and also to lift penalties imposed by the UIL against coaches Tam Hollingshead, Myron Schneider, Larry Morris and Nate Hearne.

The Panthers were the top-ranked schoolboy team in the nation last year.

The UIL attorney, Matthew Trevena, argued that Odessa Permian's coaches have not been injured in the case.

"What they really want you to do, judge, is let their football team go to the playoffs," he said.

Trevena told District Judge Pete Lowry he must decide whether the UIL was correct in determining whether the workout was illegal. He said that the practice session was organized and overseen by coaches in direct violation of UIL rules.

UIL director Bailey Marshall testified that the vast majority of Texas high school coaches have no problem understanding the rules. "I'd say 99.9 percent of our coaches understand what those rules mean," Marshall said.

Champ

As the pandemonium eventually diminished, Douglas rose to his feet, walked to his corner where he put his head on his arm and began sobbing.

"I'm not embarrassed," he insisted. "It's a thing of accepting the challenge each and every time out. Sometimes it goes your way, sometimes it doesn't."

It may not have gone Douglas' way because the 6-foot-4 fighter was badly out of shape, having failed to shed the huge weight gain he had after winning the title Feb. 11 with a shocking 10th-round knockout of Tyson.

"He resigned himself to the fact he was overweight," said Dr. William Berliner, who examined Douglas after the fight.

Douglas had appeared shocked at the pre-fight weigh-in, when he tipped the scales at 246 pounds, 14½ more than he weighed when he fought Tyson in Tokyo. And he fought like he felt every pound against Holyfield.

The vaunted jab that had kept

Tyson at bay barely presented itself during the brief fight. Instead, it was Holyfield working the jab and Holyfield setting the quick pace.

"I was trying to dictate the pace and make Buster fight at a faster pace, then maybe catch him in the later rounds," Holyfield said. "I knew I couldn't be worried about what Buster was going to do, I just had to worry about what I was going to do."

Holyfield, a stand-up fighter who had previously shown little movement or defense, switched tactics and was moving and jabbing while the ponderous champion was fighting flat-footed.

In the second round, Holyfield opened with three straight jabs and kept after Douglas, who appeared to be already trying to catch his wind.

"He didn't want to fight this big guy, he wanted to box him," said Holyfield's co-trainer George Benton. "He didn't rush him, he was trying to box him to win a decision."

But when the opportunity suddenly presented itself, Holyfield, a fighter whose punching power had been questioned, took advantage of it.

"This was no longer a bulked-up light heavyweight or cruiserweight."

"He made a simple mistake and Evander took advantage of it," said Douglas' trainer, J.D. McCauley. "That's all there is to it. The weight had nothing to do with it"

District c-country meet Saturday

The Big Spring Lady Steers will be going after their fifth consecutive cross country championship Saturday when the District 3-4A cross country meet is run at the former air base golf course.

Coach Randy Britton's Lady Steers will get a strong challenge from the San Angelo Lake View Maidens. In the boys division, the San Angelo Lake View Chiefs are heavy favorites to win third consecutive district championship. They might get a challenge from Andrews.

The Lady Steers team will be composed of seniors Mimi Regalado and Ericka Franks and sophomores Elizabeth Lopez, Shonda Wilson and Rebecca Trent.

"I think they've got a pretty good chance (to win district)," said Britton of his girls squad. "I've got a good feeling about it. This is probably the hardest working bunch I've ever had. Their workout times have really improved, and that's the only indicator I've got. Once the gun goes off, anything can happen."

Team members for the Steers are senior Kevin Stansel, juniors Jerry Trevino and Sammy Gonzales, and sophomores Jackie Lynn and Lee Christian, and freshman Mark Rocha.

Action starts at 10 a.m. with the girls running their two-mile course first. The boys will run their three-mile course after that. Junior varsity will run last.

Rifle match this Sunday

The Western Sportsman Club will have a 22 rifle match Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Women and junior shooters are welcome. The match is open to the public. The club is located nine miles west on Highway 176 (Andrews Highway).

Send-off for Steer gridders

According to the Big Spring Quarterback Club, today will be Black and Gold Day. Everyone is encouraged to wear black and gold to show their Steer spirit and support.

There will be a send-off Friday evening for the Steer football team. It will be at 4:15 p.m. in the high school parking lot.

The Quarterback Club will meet Monday at 7 p.m. at the high school planetarium.

Baseball caps on sale at BSHS

Members of the Big Spring High School baseball team will be taking orders for baseball caps until Friday, Nov. 2. Baseball coach John Velasquez said.

The caps are fitted, not one-size-fits-all, Velasquez said, and interested persons should give their head sizes when ordering.

The caps are $7 apiece, in black and white, and can be obtained from Velasquez, assistant coach Bobby Doe or any team member.

Basketball officials to meet Oct. 31

A meeting of Big Spring basketball officials will be Oct. 31 at 7 p.m. at the Big Spring High School library.

Anyone who is interested in becoming a basketball referee should plan to attend. For more information contact John Jones at 267-8323 or Craig Jones at 267-6679.

Norman trying to turn it around

HOUSTON (AP) — The slaughter at St. Andrews sent Greg Norman spiraling into a summer-long slump.

"It's been like two seasons, up and down, peaks and troughs," Norman said, and admitted the thrashing administered by Nick Faldo on a July Saturday in Scotland precipitated his slide into the golfing doldrums.

The two were tied for the lead and played head-to-head in the third round of the British Open. Faldo, who went on to a victory, humbled Norman 67-76.

He hasn't been the same since. Not until he turned things around with 5-under-par 66 that tied him with Tim Simpson for the first-round lead Thursday in golf's richest tournament, the $3.5 million Nabisco Championships.

PGA

"I got into some bad habits. I didn't want to practice. I let some complacency slip in," Norman said, and added: "You can't do that."

So he imported his long-time teacher, Charley Earp, from Australia to Florida for two weeks of intensive work.

"Charley's known me since I was a 27-handicapper. He got my swing back in the right plane."

"I know I'm solid now. My confidence is on the rise. My putting is much better.

"I feel I'm back where I was before that Saturday in St. Andrews, back where I was when I felt I was going to shoot a good score every round I played," Norman said.

He signaled the end of the long slump in convincing fashion, playing the three par-5 holes 4-under and then gaining a share of the top spot with a 17th-hole birdie.

Simpson, a winner last week in the Disney tournament, scattered seven birdies in his effort over what he called "the longest booger I've ever seen," the Cypress Creek course at Champions.

The course, site of the 1969 U.S. Open, is listed at 7,187 yards. But Simpson says "it's 7,400 if it's an inch."

Nick Price and Jodie Mudd were tied for third at 68, two back of the co-leaders. Price got there despite a double bogey on the double-tough 11th hole. Mudd got there despite himself.

"I got away with murder," said Mudd, who hit only six fairways and 12 greens — and did not have a bogey.

Billy Mayfair and Chip Beck were next at 69. The only others in the field of the top 30 money-winners of the year to break par 71 were Davis Love III and Peter Jacobsen. They had 70s in the gusty winds.

The current Open champion, Hale Irwin, could do no better than a 75. PGA title-holder Wayne Grady shot 72, and defending Nabisco champ Tom Kite was two over par at 73.

Norman, who won two American titles before his slump, spiced his round with a 40-foot sand shot for an eagle-3 on the fifth hole.

He birdied the other two par-5's and, at one point, was two in front of the field and threatening to run away.

But he bogeyed the 15th after driving into the trees, then three-putted the next hole.

That dropped him one shot behind Simpson.

But Norman bounced back with a 15-footer on the 17th and regained a share of the top spot in the last official event on the PGA Tour schedule.

TOUGH FILLIES
NEW YORK (AP) — They were nicknamed the "Barbarous Battalion" but luckily for the rest of the world they were horses, not soldiers.

In the years after the Civil War, horse owner Francis Morris of New York had some thoroughbred fillies, all daughters of a mare called Barbarity.

Their names were Remorseless, Relentless, Merciless, Regardless and Ruthless. They all were high-spirited winners and Ruthless, in 1867, became the first horse to win the Belmont Stakes.

SOCCER GROWS
OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP) — The popularity of soccer is on the rise in the United States. The NCAA quotes the Soccer Industry Council of America as saying that 15.3 million Americans over the age of 6 played soccer at least once during 1989.

According to the council, soccer now rates third in team-sport popularity in the under-age below 18 group. There seemed to be no loss in support for the sport in 1990 despite the quick elimination of the United States team from the World Cup Tournament.

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Salman Rushdie, in hiding since Ayatollah Khomeini ordered his execution for writing "The Satanic Verses," will appear on CBS' "60 Minutes" Sunday.

CBS officials said the interview with Mike Wallace took place at a secret location. Rushdie was escorted there by police from England's Scotland Yard.

The author went into hiding in 1989 after Khomeini ordered him killed. The late Iranian leader said the "The Satanic Verses" denigrated Moslems.

Rushdie told Wallace he did not intend to insult Moslems.

"I'm not this kind of creature with horns and a tail that I've been painted," Rushdie said.

KEENAN WYNNANS SALMAN RUSHDIE
The 43-year-old author said he remains optimistic he can eventually reconcile with the Moslem world. But Rajee-Khorrasani, an Iranian Parliament leader, told Wallace the death sentence can never be lifted.

The hit comedy "In Living Color," says he never worried that white people wouldn't get the jokes, but he was surprised that so many like the show.

"I knew there wouldn't be a problem with white people getting it, especially urban, hipper folks," said Wayans, who created the show and is one of its actors and writers.

The show, which won an Emmy during its first season, includes such skits as "Homeboy Shopping Network," in which two chain-bedecked black men sell off luxury cars in a stadium parking lot while the vehicle owners watch a baseball game.

It also features wicked impersonations of such black celebrities as Mike Tyson, Arsenio Hall and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

SJH splits with Coahoma

by MICHAEL PAYNE
For the Herald

The Stanton Junior High teams had mixed results in Thursday action here against Coahoma. The SJH eighth-graders romped to a 42-18 victory, while the seventh-graders fell to the Bulldogs, 12-6.

Seventh-grade game

Stanton's seventh grade drove 35 yards in the second quarter to score the first points of the contest. Jerrod Stallings took the ball in from the seven-yard line to give the Buffs a 6-0 lead with 1:55 left in the quarter.

The drive was highlighted by fine running from running backs George Cox, Nick Hull and Cory Haribson.

Coahoma answered the Stanton score with one of its own as the 'Dogs quarterback marched his team downfield with three pass completions, capping the drive with a 15-yard touchdown toss. As the half came to an end, the Buffs and the Bulldogs were tied at 6-6.

In the third quarter, neither team could move the ball and the score remained deadlocked at 6-6. With 3:08 left in the final quarter, a Bulldog runner got outside the Buffalo defense and scored on a 35-yard run to give Coahoma a 12-6 lead. The PAT try failed.

The Buffs tried to mount a last gasp drive, but failed to pick up a first down, and the game ended in favor of the visitors.

Study targets top jobs for 1990s

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS — Math and science will take on new prominence as emerging professions in the 1990s concentrate more heavily on high-tech skills, a new study reveals.

A Texas Innovation Information Network System study released this week shows jobs for laser nurses, robotics workers, telecommunications specialists and artificial intelligence technicians will flourish through 2000.

The two-year study, commissioned by the Texas Department of Commerce, identified the emerging professions to help prepare the state's educational institutions and businesses, said study director Dan Morrison.

Morrison, who is TIINS associate director, said in the 1990s the state's high schools, technical institutes and colleges will face the additional challenge of making math and science palatable to more students.

"It's going to put more pressure on the whole educational system to find a way to encourage junior high school students to become oriented to science and math," he said.

"Science and math is the key to all these jobs. If you skip high school algebra, you are out of the game," he said.

Most of the jobs in the TIINS study have a strong foundation in technology, Morrison said.

"I think there will be an ongoing change in the way people think about technology," he said. "Technological change is going to become just an accepted fact of life and people will adapt to it and constantly be in a learning mode."

"We are basically being dragged, kicking and screaming, into a brave new world and Texas is going to be right on the cutting edge

Saddam reportedly seeks peace with Iraqi minority

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saddam Hussein is seeking to make peace with Iraq's Kurdish minority, a Baghdad newspaper said today. The Kurds have in the past been the target of poison gas attacks and forcible relocation by the Baghdad government.

Saddam's reported bid to reconcile with the Kurds comes several weeks after the Iraqi president made peace with another longstanding foe, Iran, so he could move tens of thousands of troops from the Iranian border to occupied Kuwait and the Saudi Arabian border.

It was not immediately clear why Saddam would want to placate the Kurdish minority, but he may want to eliminate all internal opposition to prepare for possible combat with the multinational force arrayed against him.

Iraq's foreign minister, meanwhile, criticized the United States and Britain, saying they were trying to block any Arab solution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Tariq Aziz, in remarks reported today by the official Iraqi News Agency, also accused the U.S.-led multinational force of seeking to seize control of the region's oil resources.

In another development, Kuwait's exiled prime minister was quoted today as saying Kuwait must be liberated even if it means the destruction of the emirate in a military strike.

"What is left of Kuwait after what Saddam's soldiers did to it?" said Prime Minister Sheik Saad al-Abdullah al-Sabah, according to the Saudi daily Ashraq al-Awsat.

"As a citizen and a responsible official, I am ready to sacrifice everything for the sake of regaining my land and liberating it, and that is how each ordinary Kuwaiti thinks," said Sheik Saad, who is also the crown prince.

Kuwait's government-in-exile has also disclosed that casualties from the invasion were far higher than initially reported. The government-run Kuwait News Agency, monitored in Bahrain, said 4,200 Kuwaitis were killed during the invasion. Initial reports had said several hundred died.

The news agency, citing Kuwaiti government officials, also said 12,000 Kuwaiti soldiers were taken prisoner, out of a total pre-invasion Kuwaiti military force of about 20,000.

Fears about war in the gulf sent oil prices up more than $3 per barrel in the futures market Thursday. Light sweet crude rose $3.17 to $34.25 a barrel for December delivery contracts on the New York Mercantile Exchange, a key market. It was crude oil's third-biggest one-day jump in the Mideast crisis.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev was quoted today as hailing U.S.-Soviet cooperation in efforts to contain the crisis, which began with Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Gorbachev, who is on a visit to El Pais, told the Spanish newspaper "the first serious international crisis since the end of the Cold War," has "not perturbed, but strengthened Soviet-U.S. cooperation."

In other developments:

• Thousands of Japanese demonstrators marched on the parliament building in Tokyo today to protest the proposed dispatch of Japanese troops to the gulf region. The protest followed separate rallies of more than 23,000 people during the weekend and scattered incidents this week. Critics claim the deployment of troops, even in non-combat roles, violates Japan's postwar constitution.

• Former Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone announced today he will visit Iraq next week for talks with Saddam to seek a peaceful solution to the Gulf crisis.

MESQUITE — David Guise, shown at his pumpkin stand here Wednesday, discussed his anti-Washington feelings in a recent interview. "Washington has too many millionaires, and they don't care about the working man," Guise said.

Read their lips: They're fed up

By SCOTT McCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

MESQUITE (AP) — Retired sheet metal worker Ben McAbee knows politics is rarely pretty. But lately, he says, what's been going on in Washington has been downright disgusting.

"I think people are getting plumb fed up with it," McAbee said.

From California, where 20-year-old Monique Osborne said simply, "I think it's way bad," to Maryland, where Vincent Broco described the U.S. government as a "circus," anti-Washington sentiment is running deeper than the deficit.

In Tampa, there's a group called "Throw the Rascals Out."

Radio call-in shows across the country hear strong anti-Washington sentiments. The Albuquerque (N.M.) Tribune set up a phone line for readers who want to complain. Newspaper ads have suggested that all incumbents be tossed overboard.

The showdown over a new budget between Congress and President Bush has been about as popular as Roseanne Barr's rendition of the National Anthem. The District of Columbia is now the District of Contempt.

"They would have to clean Washington right out completely and start over," said Don Hart, who was running errands Wednesday in downtown Traverse City, Mich. "Disgusted" isn't the word.

"Mad" would be a better one."

Many everyday Americans interviewed around the country this week said they were following the budget battle closely, and didn't like what they saw. From Bush on down, no one appeared immune to wrath. Politicians' performances seem to have gotten worse over the years, people said, and this year is the worst yet.

"I'm pretty upset about it actually," said Neil Tucker, a 34-year-old commercial real estate broker in Baltimore. "We elect these people to represent us and they're more concerned with their special interests and getting re-elected than voting their convictions."

With 15 seconds gone in the second quarter, Lee scored again on a 28 yard run, and the Buffs had a commanding 20-0 lead.

Brown got into the scoring act as he scampered for 20 yards and a touchdown with 3:38 left in the first half. The Buffs led 26-0.

After the kickoff, the Bulldogs scored on a 59-yard pass to cut the lead to 26-6, ending the scoring in the first half.

Both teams scored twice in the second half; Stanton scored early in the third and fourth quarters on runs by Almazon and David Torres. The extra points were scored by Joey Foley and Eric Martel to give the Buffs a 42-6 lead with 7:45 left in the contest.

Coahoma managed to score twice, once on a 98-yard kickoff return, and a four-yard run late in the game to end the scoring.

Stanton's eighth grade will meet Forsan next week, while the seventh grade will travel to Seagraves to take on the Eagles.

"I blame leadership," Tucker added. "I blame the people in Congress. They're all basically a bunch of jokers."

"I'm not going to vote for a single incumbent," said Tomas Martinez, a New Mexico state government clerk who lives in Albuquerque. "I think it's time to give others a chance. ... Maybe they'll think more like a consumer, like a taxpayer, rather than remaining in office feathering their own nest."

Polls show public confidence in government is at a two-decade low, and Bush's approval ratings at their lowest levels of his presidency.

Congress' approval ratings are even lower — a Newsweek poll found 52 percent would be willing to fire the whole Congress. And a recent ABC News/Washington Post poll found a record 79 percent of those surveyed said the country is on the wrong track.

"They've got no respect for us and we've got no respect for them," said farmer David Guise, who runs a fruit stand outside Dallas. "It's a helluva mess. Washington has got too many millionaires in there, and they don't care about the working man."

"As far as pointing fingers, I think it's everybody's fault," said Art McArdle, who administers a surveyor's apprenticeship program in Oakland, Calif. "It's an appalling situation. I think the problem is they've known that this was going to happen and they didn't take the bull by the horns soon enough."

"Yes, I'm following it," construction worker Gary King in Des Moines, Iowa, said of the budget battle. "I've been following it for 12 years and it seems like it always falls on the working-class man. It doesn't make a whole lot of sense."

At the Diplomat Mall in Hallandale, Fla., a senior-dominated Broward County city, Laura Goldman said: "We're all watching it. Look, we're on fixed incomes. They're talking about increasing the cost of Medicare? They should decrease it."

"I don't think it will ever be straightened out. I have grandchildren, and I worry about that budget deficit for them."

Larry Nusbaum, an artist displaying his acrylics on the Santa Fe, N.M., plaza, blamed the American people more than Congress or Bush for the budget fiasco. The public makes so many conflicting demands on the federal government, he said.

Nusbaum said his opinion of Congress "wasn't very high to begin with, but I can understand their dilemma."

"It's not Congress, it's us. They receive the messages from us. We get the government that we deserve. You can blame the government all you want to, and that doesn't cut the cake," Nusbaum said.

Tax increases expected in the new budget are a particular sore spot.

McAbee, the Texas retiree who sells handmade pillows and quilts from a roadside stand, complained that the rich should shoulder a heavier burden. Increasing cigarette, gasoline and beer taxes will hit the working-class hard, he said.

"They didn't tax wine because that's what they drink," McAbee said. "But some poor bastard who has to buy gasoline to drive to work and have a cold beer when he gets home, they're going to tax him to death."

Jobs

because of its strong and very large business sector," he said.

Most of the 50 jobs pinpointed by the study don't require a four-year college degree.

"These are jobs that are available to today's high school graduates with as little as 12 months of additional training," Morrison said. "That's terrific news for high school people."

The study also forecasts a change in vocational education.

"There is going to be less and less demand for auto body mechanics and others that you traditionally think of as vocational technical graduates ... as more and more identify with computers, lasers, robotics and artificial intelligence systems," Morrison said.

The increasing emphasis on technology coupled with advances in many fields means that many workers already on the job may have to update their knowledge and skills.

"More and more people are going to have to go back and get retraining," Morrison said. "There will be new skills in the service sector and there will be a shift of skills in established industries like manufacturing."

One area already impacted by the lag between worker knowledge and existing technology is the health care field.

"The overriding concern of the health care industry is that there are not enough qualified people to fill job openings that require an understanding of current technologies," the study said, citing as examples nurses and health care technicians.

Other findings of the study are:

As businesses increasingly look to automation, more technicians and specialists will be needed to operate and manage computer networks, telecommunications and hardware.

Developments in agriculture will give rise to new opportunities in agriculture engineering, aquaculture, crop protection and production, sanitation, sales and research.

The manufacturing, design and engineering fields will increasingly demand technicians skilled in computer-based technologies, robotics, artificial intelligence, artificial vision and computer-aided design.

The demand for specialists in environmental testing, waste recycling, asbestos removal and alternate fuel analysis will increase.

Development in laser and electro-optics technologies will give rise to the need for laser specialists and fiber-optic maintenance technicians.

Budget

their approval to the package. That would open the way for Congress to get the bill to President Bush's desk by Sunday.

Although there was stiff opposition to the bill from many lawmakers in both parties, House Democratic and Republican leaders predicted its passage. White House Chief of Staff John Sununu said Bush considered the plan "real and credible."

"I haven't been working on this for so long to have something go down," said House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill.

The massive deficit-reduction package — product of half a year of partisan brawling and interminable negotiations — would affect almost all Americans.

It raises the 9-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax by about a nickel and increases levies on alcohol, tobacco and jewelry as well.

It boosts — from 28 percent to 31 percent — the income-tax rate on the richest Americans, but drops the rate paid by the upper-middle class from 33 percent to 31 percent. The measure also reduces the deductions available to people earning more than $100,000 yearly by 3 percent, and phases out their $2,050 personal exemptions.

The details were subject to change in late negotiations.

Bargainers agreed informally late Thursday to slow the growth of Medicare benefits by $10 billion through 1995, officials said.

That figure matched a House proposal that was about $7 billion lower than the reductions the Senate voted for. Medicare helps pay medical bills for about 33 million elderly and disabled people.

An official demanding anonymity said that under the agreement, the $75 annual deductible paid by beneficiaries would increase to $100. The monthly premium — $28.60 this year — would grow gradually to $46.20 by 1995.

Disagreement remained over the exact size and nature of cuts in Medicare reimbursements to doctors and hospitals. Those reductions were expected to total about $33 billion over the next five years.

The plan cuts student loans, farm aid and other benefit programs.

Final agreements were being sought over Medicaid, which helps the poor pay medical bills. Although the program will be cut, liberals wanted to provide an additional $2.9 billion for low-income elderly people. The Bush administration was trying to reduce that figure.

Also under negotiation were $2.5 billion worth of tax breaks for the oil and gas industry, championed by Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas. The Senate also wanted $5.6 billion worth of tax breaks for businesses, including those doing research, and individuals, for items such as employer-provided educational benefits.

With Election Day approaching, members were getting itchy to halt the budget bickering and return home for campaigning.

By STEVE BELVIN

SWEETWATER — The Big Spring Steers pulled off the hat trick.

For the second consecutive year the Steers went into the unfriendly confines of Mustang Stadium and came away with a win. Friday night Big Spring handed the Sweetwater Mustangs their first District 3-4A loss of the season, taking a 16-7 victory.

As expected, the game was a fierce defensive struggle, but it was the Felipe Saiz-led Steer defense that stole the show. The Big Spring middle linebacker and his buddies bottled the Sweetwater offense all night long.

In fact, the Mustangs had to resort to trickery to get their only score. That was partly due to the fact that Big Spring free safety Pat Chavarria fell down on the play.

The Mustangs' score in the second quarter was the first points of the game, leaving the Sweetwater crowd in the frenzy. But unfortunately, it would be one of the last things the home crowd would have to cheer about.

The Sweetwater score came after Big Spring tailback Jermaine

Miller fumbled at the Steers' 42-yard line. On the second play quarterback Gregg Ruffin pitched to tailback Randall Lepard, who fired a 42-yard scoring strike to sophomore wide receiver James Moore.

Chavarria, who was running stride-for-stride for Moore, fell down, allowing Moore to haul in the pass. Ruffin booted the extra point and Sweetwater led 7-0 with 7:09 left in the first half.

The Steer defense played a dominated the game. Sweetwater's two-quarterback attack of Ruffin and David Ritchey never got rolling. The Steer defense took away the running game, and the pass rush constantly harassed the passer. Saiz and end Frank Garza each registered sacks, while safety Nick Roberson picked off a pass, as did cornerback Abel Hilario.

The Big Spring defense was so dominating that the Mustangs managed 90 yards total offense. Big Spring controlled the second half as well, allowing the home team 23 yards and one first down.

Steers coach David Thompson said his team got more intense after starting linebacker Kevin Rodgers was carried off the field on a stretcher late in the second quarter, following a crushing blind-side block. After the game Thompson said Rodgers had injured his sternum.

"The kids kind of picked it up after Kevin got hurt," said Thompson. "Our kids played hard, what can I say? The defense played a great game, they shut down a good team tonight."

The Sweetwater defense, led by tackle Bruce Nazworth, didn't do a bad job of holding the league's top offense either. Big Spring managed 98 yards rushing, and 107 in the air.

Miller earned 83 tough yards on 22 carries, including 59 in the second half. Quarterback Gerald Cobos and wingback Neal Mayfield did the damage in the air, with the help of a big first half catch by wide receiver Nick Roberson.

Cobos, staying calm under pressure, completed six of 11 attempts, and Mayfield caught four passes for 68 yards. Mayfield also booted a 31-yard field goal, and kept the ball away from Moore on kickoffs and punts. Roberson set up the first Big Spring score with a 22-yard reception at the Sweetwater four.

Big Spring's only score in the first half came two series after Sweetwater scored. Ruffin was hit hard on an option play and fumbled, which was recovered by Garza. It took the Steers five plays to go 36 yards.

Facing a fourth and 22 from the Sweetwater 26, Cobos, who had lots of time, found Roberson at the four. On the next play Miller bulled his way into the end zone with 2:15 left in the half. Mayfield's extra point tied the game.

On Big Spring scored on its second possession of the second half, driving 66 yards in seven plays. The drive consisted of Miller's running and Cobos' strikes of 22 and 9 yards to Mayfield. Big Spring scored when Cobos faked the ball to Miller, who dashed untouched into the end zone from two yards out. Mayfield's extra point attempt sailed wide right. Big Spring led 13-6 with 3:02 left in the third quarter.

The Mustangs got a good return from Moore to their 46. Three plays later they faced a fourth-and-one on the Big Spring 45. Mustang fullback Jeff Briscoe was stopped cold by end Fernando Alvarez and linebacker Richard Krissen, allowing Big Spring to take over.

Mayfield closed out the scoring with 7:10 left in the game by booting a 31-yard field goal, completing the Big Spring hat trick.

Thompson continued to heap praise on his defense. "It stills boils down to winning any big game — it's defense," he said. "Our offense didn't score very many points, but we scored when we had

Traveling by air dominates the SWC

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — Remember when the primary mode of travel in Southwest Conference football was by land?

From Earl Campbell, Dickey Morton, Jim Bertelsen, and Roosevelt Leaks in the '70s, the SWC went to Eric Dickerson, Craig James, Kenneth Davis, Reggie Dupard and Eric Metcalf in the '80s.

Quickly name the 100-yard-per-game rushers now in the SWC. The list is a short one: Darren Lewis of Texas A&M and Trevor Cobb of Rice.

Houston's Chuck Weatherspoon, Texas Christian's Curtis Modkins and Texas Tech's Anthony Lynn are good runners but play at schools which emphasize the pass.

The league is fast becoming a quarterback conference, a quality quarterback conference.

Young, strong-armed quarterbacks are joining sensational senior Quinn Grovey of Arkansas in giving the league promise for an exciting future.

Leon (don't call him Neon) Clay has Fort Worth locked in a case of Horned Frog fever. The Texas Christian sophomore has thrown 14 touchdown passes and averaged 226 yards passing per game as the Frogs cracked The Associated Press national rankings for the first time since 1984.

J.J. Joe, a redshirt freshman who never ran the option in high school, has rescued a Baylor offense that had almost ground to a halt. Joe was completing 59 percent of his passes as he got the Bears offense off dead center and back into the SWC chase.

Robert Hall, a redshirt freshman, joined Jamie Gill to give Texas Tech a lethal one-two quarterback punch. Hall has already rolled up 1,105 yards passing while Gill averages 155 yards per game directing the Red Raider attack.

Then there's Peter Gardere, Mike Romo, Donald Hollas, Bucky Richardson, and last but not least, the University of Houston's David Klingler, a sophomore, who leads the nation in passing offense and total offense by averaging 422 yards per game passing.

Klingler, who may be the heir to Andre Ware's Heisman Trophy, is already smashing NCAA records such as last Saturday when he completed 48 of 78 passes. He's already passed for 2,533 yards.

Gardere, a sophomore, directed the Texas Longhorns to victories over Penn State, Oklahoma and Arkansas. He killed the Sooners for the second year in a row with a 91-yard drive and the winning touchdown pass late in the game.

Romo, a sophomore, has the gritty job of bringing Southern Methodist back into big-time football and he's averaged 242 yards passing per game. He had five touchdown passes against Vanderbilt.

Hollas, a Rice senior, has passed for 196 yards per game and accounted for five touchdowns in a recent upset of Texas Tech.

Richardson, a junior, took away Lance Pavlas' job and has shown flashes of regaining the promise that led Texas A&M to a Cotton Bowl victory over Notre Dame three years ago. Richardson missed last season with a leg injury.

Midway through the season, these quarterbacks have passed for over 10,000 yards.

TCU coach Jim Wacker just shakes his head at the talent in the SWC. The Frogs run a wide-open offense called "The Triple Shoot."

"You're talking to an old Veerman," he said. "But you've got to pass to win these days. And we've got some great quarterbacks in this league. We're running fastbreak football in this league now. It's a fun time for the Southwest Conference."

With improved quarterbacking, the SWC scoring averages are way up from TCU's 44 points per game to SMU's 18.3 at the bottom of the ladder. Others include Texas 37.5, Houston 37.2, Arkansas 29, Texas Tech 28.8, Baylor 27, Texas A&M 26 and Rice 25.5.

It's been a fun season for everyone except the folks doing the scoring summaries.

Foreman: eating his way back

AP Sports Writer

George Foreman waits to fight the heavyweight champion and fights with temptation instead.

"I used to eat two fried chickens for dinner. Now I eat them baked. I used to eat a dozen eggs for breakfast. Now I eat 11 — boiled. "There are times," Foreman sighed, "when you have to give to get."

And this, he made clear in a telephone call Tuesday, is one of those times. Nearly two dozen other times over the past three years, Foreman left Humble, Texas, and returned home victorious, yet hardly closer to his dusted-off dream of a title shot.

Little more than 10 years ago, Foreman walked away from boxing, and now he is certain the comeback trail has come full circle and that the heavyweight champion will come calling any day. At 42 years old and 260 pounds, George will be neither impatient nor hard to find.

"How soon could I be ready?" Foreman rolled the question over once gently. "Hmmm. If it's Evander Holyfield, I'd fight him today. Buster Douglas? I was ready yesterday. Mike Tyson? How about tomorrow?"

"Look," he said, "I was the heavyweight champion once, I know the drill. When I started, the people in charge treated me like any other guy chasing a buck. So I set out to make myself a bona fide contender.

"The first step was to make the public believe; the next to prove I still had the punch. The last was to show there'd be a crowd any time and everytime I fight. Now the only thing left is to have the fight.

"They're going to have to get around to me," he said, "and now it's sooner than later.

"The nice thing about Holyfield winning is that I'd get to Vegas for a little press do. I like that. It's a wonderful thing to see yourself on TV and see yourself in the newspapers. Some guys got used to that, but I never did.

"Besides," he chuckled, "I like the spreads they set out." This fascination with food has become a fixture of George redux.

The comeback story starts with him trying to squeeze all 315 pounds of him back into a pair of his old boxing trunks, trimming back all the way to 229 for cosmetic, then realizing his strength was maximized at about

One of his most vocal critics, the physician-turned boxing commentator Ferdie Pacheco, contends Foreman is at least 50 pounds overweight and that this comeback is life-threatening. George is not listening.

In Las Vegas last June, long enough to knock out Brazilian Adilson Rodrigues, Foreman posed with plate piled high and said he was on a seafood diet: "I see food," George said, "I eat it."

The gag quickly became part of a freewheeling routine which he could deliver with equal aplomb in a Vegas lounge or a pre-fight press conference. But those who remember George as the gold-medal Olympian, the stern conqueror of Frazier and the humorless straight man for Ali remember it was not always so.

Much like Tyson, the young Foreman came up hard, was a fearsome fighter and uncomfortable with his public. But in the intervening years since he left the sport after losing a decision to Jimmy Young in 1979, he appears to have made peace with the world around him.

"People ask me if I've got a problem doing something violent like boxing to raise cash for a cause. I tell them this — to live in this world and not be able to dream," George said, "is just like death."

Coahoma spoils Stanton's homecoming, 31-12

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
For the Herald

STANTON — The Stanton Buffalos met the Coahoma Bulldogs Friday night in District 6-2A action, spoiling the Buffs homecoming with a 31-12 win.

Bulldogs running back Shane Walker had a big night with 32 carries and 211 yard of offense. Allen Prough was the leading rusher for the home team carrying the ball 11 times for 53 yards.

The Bulldogs took the opening kickoff 53 yards on 13 plays to set up a one-yard run by wingback Rusty Ginnetti with 6:50 left in the first quarter. Mike Hernandez added the extra point and Coahoma led 7-0. Walker was instrumental in the opening drive. He carried the ball for 30 yards on seven carries.

Stanton took the ensuing kickoff and returned the ball to its own 28 yard line, but a clipping violation took the ball back to the 13, leaving the home team in bad field position. The visitors stopped the Buffalos offensive unit on three downs and forced the Buffs to punt. A rush to block the punt resulted in a roughing the kicker call, giving the home team new life and a first down at the 36 yard line.

The Buffalos continued moving downfield aided by a 17-yard toss from Buffalo quarterback John Eric Wyckoff to split-end Kenny McCalister for a first down. Stanton tailback Sherman Bryand carried the ball to the 6 yard line, moving Stanton close to the goal.

Good defensive plays by Bulldog Sam Justiss and Matt Coates stopped the Buff drive. Stanton was faced with a fourth down and 12 situation. Coahoma took over on the 20 after the punt. The visitors began to mount another drive deep into Buffalo territory. On first down from the Buff 29 yard line, Coahoma fumbled and Stanton recovered the ball. However, two plays later Stanton fumbled the ball back to the Bulldogs on the 37 yard line, with 7:17 left in the first half.

From there, Walker broke loose for a 25-yard gallop and with 5:29 left in the second stanza, the Bulldogs built their lead to 14-0, as Hernandez added the PAT.

Stanton, on the first play following the kick, fumbled the ball. Justiss recovered for Coahoma on the Buff 17 yard line. The Bulldogs were moved back to the Buff 23 yard line and from there, Hernandez added a 3-pointer from 33 yards out to give the Dogs a 17-0 lead with 3:45 left before halftime.

The Buffs turned the ball over again when Coates intercepted a Stanton pass, returning it to the Stanton 39. Walker wasted no time going in from the five for the score. Hernandez added the extra point.

STANTON — An unidentified Stanton player runs upfield as he gains yardage during first half action against Coahoma Friday evening. The visiting Bulldogs defeated their 1-20 rivals, 31-12

STANTON — Melissa Scurlark, a senior at Stanton High School, was crowned the 1990 Homecoming Queen during halftime festivities Friday evening.

The half came to an end with Coahoma holding 24-0 lead.

The Buffalos took the opening kick at their 20. The offense went to work driving the ball deep into Bulldog territory. After runs by Prough, Wyckoff and Jim Bob Kelly, the ball rested at the Bulldog 4. Kelly bulled his way through the defensive line on the next play, scoring the Buffs first touchdown of the night, with 7:02 left in the third quarter. The PAT was blocked.

The Bulldogs moved the ball 87 yards on nine plays that resulted in a score on a pass from Bulldog quarterback Brent Elmore to Mike Mendez. Hernandez added the PAT to put the Bulldogs up 31-6.

With plenty of time remaining, the Buffalos attempted another offensive drive. Faced with a fourth down and two situation, Wingback Selestino Hernandez went back to punt the ball, faked the kick, went wide, and picked up 18 yards for a first down.

Disaster struck again for the home team when linebacker Keith Fontana stepped in front of a Buff pass at the Coahoma 10-yard line. However, the home team got the ball back when Edward Armendariz stripped the ball from a Bulldog running back at the Bulldog 16.

From there, Wyckoff found McCalister in the end zone on a 12-yard toss, with 8:06 left in the final quarter. The Buffs went for the two-point conversion, but failed to cross the goal line, to put the score at 31-12.

The victory is the third district win for Coahoma.

The Bulldogs are 5-3 for the year, and 3-2 in district play. The Buffs fall to 0-8 overall and 0-5 in district action. Coahoma will host the McCamey Badgers, and Stanton will travel to Forsan to battle the Buffaloes.

Grady slips past Klondike

By CHARLES POISALL
For the Herald

KLONDIKE—Talented and offensive-minded six-man teams met on the football field in Klondike Friday night and proceeded to put a total of 73 points on the scoreboard. When the action was over, a little more than two hours after the opening kickoff, the Grady Wildcats had taken a 43-30 win from the Klondike Cougars.

Coach Leandro Gonzales'

Wildcats were led by senior quarterback Len Garza and the Cortez brothers, Baldomar and Gilbert, both running backs. Also turning in outstanding performances for the Wildcats were senior end Victor Hewtty, junior running back Florencio Hewtty, senior end Danny Valle, senior end Joel Garza and sophomore running back Joel Morales.

Standing out on defense for the Wildcats were sophomore end Matt

Rivas and senior end Mike McKaskle.

Coach Tom Ham's Cougars were led by Ramiro Serrato and Brandon Oaks, both junior quarterbacks, and senior end Cody Vogler. Also playing well for the Cougars were senior back Andy Guerra, senior back Brandi O'Brien, sophomore back Matthew Hogg, senior end Ricky Serrato, senior end Claud Christian and junior end Leon Zarate.

The District 5-A victory upped the Grady Wildcats' record to 7-1 for the season and 3-0 in district play. The Klondike Cougars dropped to 5-3 for the season, 2-1 in the district.

Next week the Wildcats will visit the undefeated Sands Mustangs for a crucial District 5-A contest. The Cougars will travel to Dawson County.

The two teams traded the ball back and forth in the first eight minutes of the ball game. Gilbert Cortez intercepted a Ramiro Serrato pass to end the first Klondike possession.

The Wildcats drove to the Cougar 13-yard line where they had a first down and goal to go, but a pass from Len Garza, intended for Valle, was incomplete. After Florencio Hewtty was stopped on the Klondike three-yard line on a fourth-down play, the Cougars took possession.

Guerra and O'Brien took turns carrying the ball and the Cougars reached the Grady 30-yard line. From there Ramiro Serrato found Vogler open and rifled the ball to him for a touchdown. Oaks kicked the two-point conversion and the Cougars had drawn first blood, leading 8-0 with a minute and nine seconds left to play in the first quarter.

After the kickoff, the Wildcats needed only two plays to tie the score. Len Garza's kick was good with seconds left in the first period.

The second period was scoreless, until eight seconds remained on the scoreboard clock. Quarterbacks and running backs from both teams staged passing and running shows between the goal lines. Late in the period the Cougars drove deep into Wildcat territory and chalked up a first down on the five-yard line. O'Brien took a short pass from Ramiro Serrato and was forced out of bounds on the two. Guerra plowed over from there and the Cougars again held the lead. Oaks' kick was wide to the left, but the Cougars held a 14-8 lead at the half.

The third period was scoreless until the final three minutes. Completing a drive from their own 26-yard line, the Wildcats reached the Cougars' one. From there Baldomar Cortez scored through the line to tie the score at 14-14. Garza's kick was good, and the Wildcats led 16-14.

Early in the fourth period Baldomar Cortez scored again for the Wildcats, driving over this time from two yards out. Again Len Garza's kick was good and the Wildcats led 24-14 with less than nine minutes left in the game.

Two minutes later the Wildcats scored again. The Cougars were forced to punt to the Grady 33-yard line. Gilbert Cortez carried for a short gain and then Florencio Hewtty took a handoff from Len Garza and scampered 45 yards to paydirt. This time Garza passed to Valle for the one-point conversion and Grady held a 31-14 lead with 6:53 left in the game.

Determined to get back in the game, the Cougars drove for a score on their next possession. On a second down play from the Grady 16, O'Brien reached the end zone to bring the score to 31-20. Oaks' second try for the two-point conversion, after an offsides penalty against the Wildcats, made it 31-22, with five and a half minutes left.

The Wildcats made it 37-22 on their next possession. Gilbert Cortez carried over from the five at the 3:14 mark. The extra point attempt was bobbled.

Gilbert Cortez scored again from the two with a minute and a half remaining. Garza's kick was wide to the left.

With seconds remaining, Ramiro Serrato passed to Jamie Trotter for the final touchdown of the game. Serrato then kicked for the two points and the game ended seconds later with the Wildcats taking the 43-30 win.

Garden City takes command with 35-18 win

JAMES SOLES

RICHARD MORALES

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

ROTAN—In the first half of their game with the Rotan Yellowhammers, the Garden City Bearkats were perfect, but in the second half, they were perfectly awful. In the end, however, they were in a perfect position toward the drive for their first ever district championship.

The Bearkats, behind the rushing of James Soles and a tenacious defense, exploded for 35 points in the first half and then held on for a 35-18 victory over the Yellowhammers in District 9-A action here Friday night.

The win, Garden City's sixth in seven tries, gives them sole possession of first place in the district standings. The loss drops Rotan to 4-4 overall, 3-1 in league standing.

Soles was an unstoppable force in the first half, carrying the ball 15 times for 179 yards and 3 touchdowns. He finished the game with 209 yards on 24 carries.

But it was the Garden City defense, which had lived in the shadows of the Bearkats' high-powered offense, that got things going for Garden City in the first quarter. After holding Rotan on its first possession, Bearkat defenders rushed through and blocked Trey Carrillo's punt attempt. Mario Aguilar scooped up the loose ball and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown, giving the Bearkats an early 7-0 lead.

After Rotan quarterback Eric Smith scored on a 33 yard run to cut the lead to 7-6, Soles and the Garden City offense went to work. The Bearkats marched 71 yards in 7 plays, with Soles going the final 15 yards to give Garden City a 14-6 lead with 5:18 left in the opening period.

The Bearkats' defense again held on downs, forcing another Carrillo punt. Jim Bob Scott fielded the punt at the Garden City 40-yard line and returned it 25 yards to the Rotan 35. The Bearkats wasted little time cashing in on this opportunity, as Soles took a pitch around left end and scooted in for the touchdown, giving the Bearkats a 14-point lead with less than 9 minutes gone.

Rotan moved the ball well on its ensuing drive, marching to the Bearkats 16. But on 4th and 1, three Garden City defenders stopped Smith for a 2-yard loss and the ball went over on downs.

Once again, the Bearkats' attack began rolling. Soles gained almost half the yardage on the drive, with substitute tailback Aguilar providing help. The drive was capped when quarterback Shae Scott found Richard Morales in the left flat for an 18-yard score. Scott and Morales then hooked up for a 2-point conversion pass to give Garden City a 28-6 lead with 7:13 left in the half. On the Yellowhammers' ensuing drive, Allen Hoelscher stepped in front of a Smith pass, giving Garden City the ball on its own 38-yard line. Exactly one play later, Soles ripped through the middle of the Rotan defense and rambled 62 yards for his third and final score of the night. Jody Bradford's point after kick gave the Bearkats a 35-6 lead going into halftime.

As flawless as the Bearkats were in the first half, however, their performance in the second half was almost the exact opposite. Several drives during the last 24 minutes were stopped by either penalties or turnovers.

Soles found the going rough in the second half, collecting only 30 yards on 9 carries.

As generous as the Bearkats were, however, it was not until Rotan recovered a Garden City punt on the Bearkats' 14 that the hosts were able to cash in. Five plays later, Smith plunged over from one yard out to cut the Garden City lead to 35-12.

The game's final score came when Yellowhammer punt returner David Daniel fielded a Holscher punt at his own 11, cut left behind a wall of blockers and ran 89 yards untouched for the score. The try for 2 failed, leaving the score at 35-18 with 6 minutes left in the game.

Garden City coach Sam Scott was understandably displeased with his team's second-half performance.

"We started making some mistakes in the second half. We had some penalties and some turnovers; the kids just didn't do what they expected to do. It's kind of understandable though. In the first half, we were expecting a close ballgame, then we turn around and it's 35-6."

Scott was pleased, however, with the win, which puts the Bearkats in command of the district race.

"We've still got 3 games to go, but we're definitely in the driver's seat," he said. "Our goal is to bring home a championship trophy, which Garden City has never had."

Scott's comments were echoed by his players after the game.

Fourth quarter rally falls short

The Forsan Buffaloes came from behind and almost pulled Friday night's game out of the fire in the 4th quarter—but not quite. The Eldorado Eagles held firm, winning 23-15.

In the first quarter, the Eagles' Justin Paxton kicked a 32-yard field goal for 3 with 9:01 left in the quarter.

Later in the quarter, Quarterback Cy Griffin sailed an 11-yarder to Justin Edminston, who took it in for 6. Justin Paxton kicked in the PAT.

After a scoreless 2nd quarter, the Eagles scored again on a 5-yard run by Justin Paxton, with 5:33 remaining in the 3rd. Fito Gonzales kicked in the extra point, to put the score at 17-0.

In the 4th quarter, the Forsan Buffaloes finally got the ball moving. Gilbert Rodriguez made a 6-yard run for Forsan's first score. Stephen East kicked in the

The Buffaloes' final score came with 2:39 to go on a 2-yard run by David Britton. Gilbert Rodriguez ran in the 2-point conversion. The game ended with the Eldorado Eagles out in front 23-15.

Sands crushes Loop, 46-14

LOOP—The Sands Mustangs traveled to Loop Friday night and trampled the Longhorns 46-14 in district play. The win moves Sands to 8-0 for the season and 3-0 in district. The Loop Longhorns go to 1-7 for the year, 0-3 in district.

A 17-yard run by Mustangs' John Young, with 3:48 to go in the first quarter, put the first points on the board. The kick by Pank Grigg made the score 8-0.

In the second quarter, with 1:59 remaining, Charles Rhodes scrambled 3 yards for the TD, followed by another Grigg kick, to make the score 16-0 at the half.

A 5-yard run by Eric Herm, put 6 more on the board for the Mustangs, to make the score 22-0, with 9:08 remaining.

Loop scored again, with just under five minutes left in the game, when Crow rushed 20 yards for the end zone. The failed after point scoring attempt left the score 48-14.

The Sands Mustangs meet the Grady Wildcats next Friday in Sands. The Wildcats are also 3-0 for district games.

Pank Grigg scored on a 3-yard run with less than five minutes left in the quarter, then kicked in the points after. The score was 30-0 at this point.

The Scouts:

If football scouts were players, they would be offensive linemen.

Linemen toil in relative obscurity, quietly performing their tasks while all eyes focus on the quarterbacks, receivers, running backs or defenders. If the linemen do their job adequately, the typical fan hardly notices them.

The same is true of scouts. They, like the anonymous linemen, go about their jobs largely unnoticed by all but the most alert observers.

They are, for lack of a better word, the football team's spies. Friday nights find them in the stands or pressbox — where their team's next opponent is playing; checking tendencies and personnel in an effort to unlock a flaw they can use to their best advantage next week.

If they err in their deductions, their team in all likelihood will lose their next game. If they are correct, they will get a handshake and pat on the back from their boss — then hit the road again.

A typical Friday night for a scout consists of logging plenty of miles down Texas highways, eating supper at one truckstop or another, carefully observing and detailing every play of the game they're watching, driving back to their home and then working until 2 or 3 a.m. Saturday to complete their report so the head coach can devise a game plan the same day.

It is not, by any stretch of the imagination, a glamorous life, but an essential one if the team is to have a successful season.

"They're extremely important in terms of preparation," Big Spring head coach David Thompson said. "Without the reports, we wouldn't be able to prepare for the next game . . . We rely on our scouting reports a great deal."

"Scouting is definitely important," Coahoma Head Coach Steve Park said. "It'd be like us going into a game with our hands tied if we didn't have the scouts doing their jobs."

Park identifies easily with scouts, having performed the task several times early in his career. The time demands of the job, he said, can be considerable.

"It takes a lot of time — even after you get home," he said. "You get home about midnight or so, then build your report . . . and get through about 2 or 3 in the morning."

Ben Neel, who's scouted games for almost 20 years in Big Spring, said there's another downside to the job.

"The travel doesn't bother me that much," said Neel, who began coaching in Big Spring under Spike Dykes, now the Texas Tech head coach. "It's missing the Steers' games; most of those kids playing are kids you had, so you have an affinity for them."

Another area coach who's logged plenty of miles as a scout is Stanton's Dale Ruth. He said the experience benefitted his career.

"Almost every coach starts out as a scout," Ruth said. "You learn a lot. You learn how to attack a team, or build a defense against a team. It helps set up your 'football mind.' In later years, it's a big plus."

In this area, scouting duties are relegated to the junior high football coaches. Most schools have a team of three or more coaches who perform scouting duties on a staggered basis: two will scout the upcoming opponent while the other stays in town with the team.

Neel said the Big Spring scouts, who all coach at Runnels Junior High, learn their schedule

StoryTeller
Steve Reagan

Toiling in obscurity

before the season begins in August. The Steers have six scouts divided into two groups, ensuring that the scouts will cover only about five games during the regular season.

Monday through Thursday on scouting week is devoted to the normal routine of coaching the junior high team.

On game night when they're scouting, the scouts divide their responsibilities in the following manner: one calls out the downs, distances, yardlines, hashmark placements and other pertinent information; the second jots down the information on the scouting sheets; while the third concerns himself with special plays, blocking patterns, and kickoff and punting formations, Neel said.

After the game, the scouting team returns home, bringing the information they've collected during the game and, by a gentleman's agreement with other schools, videos of the opponent's two previous games.

After arriving back in Big Spring, the scouts spend about two or three hours combining data from the three games before submitting the information into a computer, which will break down the data and report any tendencies shown by the opponent.

Later Saturday, the scouts will take the computer information and finalize their report into a seven- or eight-page format, Neel said.

"Really, it's a lot easier (with computers)," he said. "It doesn't take as much time as it used to . . . back when Coach Dykes was here, our reports would nearly be 100 pages long."

Most area schools use computers to aid their scouts, but Ruth said Stanton still relies exclusively on the scouts' information and game films.

"We tried computers, but we went back to the old way," he said. "It worked better for us; we're more familiar with it."

Although most schools have two- or three-man scouting teams, Forsan's scouting duties are handled exclusively by Johnny Schaffer, who also coaches the junior high football team and the girls' varsity basketball team.

"In the situation we're in, we only have one scout," Forsan Head Coach Jan East said. "Coach Schaffer's doing a good job for us under the circumstances . . . He's been doing it now for 10 years. He has to know what he's doing, and he's pretty good at it."

Schaffer said being a one-man scouting crew takes a lot of time, especially in Forsan's wide-spread district, which stretches from Coahoma to Iraan toward the west, and south to Eldorado and Wall.

"It definitely involves a lot of time," he said. "In our district, there's so much travel that sometimes I leave right after school and don't get back until midnight or 1 a.m. Then, I get up the next morning and prepare my report."

"All the time involved (is a disadvantage to the job)," he added. "Plus the fact that I never get to see our team play."

Another disadvantage to scouting solo, Schaffer said, is that it limits the amount of information he can gather on the opposing team.

"On offense, I can get the basic play . . . but I can't get any traps or what the linemen are doing; I'm limited in that respect," Schaffer said. "I have to focus in on one or two things per play."

The job has its good side, he noted. "I get to see a lot of Texas; get to eat out a lot," he said jokingly. "Plus, I get to meet a lot of people."

Wolves trampled by Sonora Broncos, 32-0

SONORA — The Colorado City Wolves had "one of those nights" Friday in Sonora. They just couldn't get their act together against the Broncos, who ran away with a 32-0 victory.

After a one-quarter warm-up, scoring got off the ground with 1:52 to go in the second quarter. A 34-yard run by the Broncos' Adam Youngblood put six on the board. Oscar Perez's kick for the PAT was good.

In third-quarter play, Youngblood made the second TD of the game on a 54-yard run with 10:41 remaining. The extra point attempt was no good, to make the score 13-0.

Bronco quarterback David Merike found Blake Sikes with a 24-yard pass for the next score. The Broncos tried for two, but missed, and the score after the third quarter was 19-0.

In the fourth quarter, Youngblood was in the end zone again, after a 26-yard pass from Merike. Oscar Perez's aim was true this time to put the score at 25-0, with 10:53 to go.

A 35-yard run by Michael Escalero, added another six for the Broncos', but the kick failed, to leave the score 32-0 with 5:38 remaining.

After Friday night's game, Colorado City moves to 3-4-1 for the year, and 1-2 in district. Sonora stands at 6-2 for the year and 2-1 in district.

The Colorado City Wolves play Reagan County at Reagan County next Friday night.

TRENT — The Borden County Coyotes tamed the Trent Gorillas here Friday night with a passing and rushing game that resulted in a 45-20 final score.

The Gorillas passed for 111 yards on nine completions, while Borden County completed five of 10 passes for 73 yards.

Jimmy Rios, of Borden County, had four touchdowns, with 17 carries for 143 yards. He also returned an on-side kick 56 yards for the score.

Cole Vestal, of Borden County, ran 70 yards for a two-point attempt, after the Coyotes blocked the Gorillas PAT kick, with 2:14 left in the game.

Rios scored first for the Coyotes 7:18 into the game with a 15 yard run. Smithie's pass to Rios was good for one extra point, to make the score 7-0. Borden County scored again five minutes later on a 1-yard run by Kemper. This time Rios passed to Smithie for the one point conversion, moving the score to 14-0.

With 31 seconds left in the first quarter, Borden County scored again, on a 1-yard run by Rios. The extra point failed. The score at the end of the first quarter was 20-0.

The Gorillas scored on a 2-yard run by Sanford with 23 seconds left in the first half. The PAT failed, putting Trent on the board, 20-6.

Four minutes into the third quarter Rios made a 4-yard run for the Coyotes and again Smithie made the extra points. Kincheloe carried a 6-yard pass from Shane Kemper three minutes later, and after the PAT, the score was 36-8.

Trent scored next on a 37-yard pass from Payne to Masonheimer. The kick by Walker brought the score to 36-14, with 38 seconds left in the third quarter.

Rios' 56-yard return, four seconds later, combined with Smithie's PAT moved the score to 44-14.

Trent scored one final time on an 11-yard run by Masonheimer, with 2:14 left in the game. The Coyotes blocked the extra point attempt, running 70 yards for one point.

Borden County is now 3-0 for district play and 5-3 for the season. The Coyotes will meet Loraine in Borden County next Friday.

By MIKE NADEL

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Wayne Gretzky, who already holds almost every NHL scoring record, became the first player to reach the 2,000-point plateau when he set up a goal by Tomas Sandstrom at 14:32 of the first period of the Los Angeles Kings' game at Winnipeg on Friday night.

The game was stopped momentarily as Gretzky's teammates poured onto the ice and a sellout crowd at the Winnipeg Arena gave Gretzky a standing ovation.

Gretzky started the play with a pass from his own end to Tony Granato in center ice. Granato then sent Sandstrom in on a breakaway and Sandstrom beat goaltender Bob Essensa between the pads, cutting the Jets' lead to 2-1.

"It happened early; the goal got us back in the game but it didn't break their back," Gretzky said in an interview following the first period of the Kings' 6-2 loss.

"It's been a tough two days for me in Winnipeg, with a lot of media attention. From here we go to New York on Monday, so it was nice to do it tonight. Sunday's game will be relaxed."

The Kings also play at Winnipeg on Sunday.

Gretzky had come close to assists on two previous occasions prior to Sandstrom's goal. He did not figure in the scoring of the Kings' other goal, by Robert Kudelski.

Gretzky, in his 12th NHL season, eclipsed Gordie Howe as the league's all-time leading scorer with his 1,851st point on Oct. 15, 1989, in a game at Edmonton.

He has been the NHL's career assist leader since March 1, 1988, when he passed Howe's total of 1,049. That milestone came against the Kings, just five months before Wayne Gretzky grins as Los Angeles Kings trainer Peter Demers congratulates him on scoring his 2,000 points.

Gretzky was traded from Edmonton to Los Angeles. Gretzky's assist total is 1,316.

Gretzky's 1,000th point also came against the Kings, on Dec. 19, 1984.

Gretzky's only remaining target is the league's goal-scoring record. He has 684 goals, fourth on the all-time list behind Howe (801), Marcel Dionne (731) and Phil Esposito (717). However, including Friday night's game, he has played only 857 regular-season games, far fewer than the other three players.

Gretzky owns the single-season goal-scoring mark with 92, a feat he accomplished in 1981-82.

Gretzky's point total does not include the 110 he scored during one season in the World Hockey Association.

Holyfield: Iron Mike will have to wait

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The new heavyweight champion of the world surveyed his realm Friday and proclaimed George Foreman his most worthy challenger.

The morning after flattening Buster Douglas with one punch to win the undisputed heavyweight crown, Evander Holyfield made it clear that former champion Mike Tyson would have to wait his turn for a shot at the title.

"We felt it would be better to fight George Foreman first, then Mike Tyson," Holyfield said. "As far as business goes, it's better that way."

Holyfield's handlers said contracts for his first title defense against Foreman have been signed, and a site and date for the fight are expected to be announced in about two weeks.

"It will be (in April in either Las Vegas or Atlantic City," said Shelly Finkel, who helps promote Holyfield.

Almost as quickly as Holyfield knocked out Douglas, boxing's sanctioning organizations began backing off earlier threats to force Holyfield to make his first defense against Tyson, and the way seems clear for a fight matching the new champion with a man who held the title during the early 1970s.

"George Foreman happens to be ranked now and Evander Holyfield has the option of fighting anyone in the top 12," World Boxing Association attorney Jimmy Binns said. "Mike Tyson will have his mandatory shot when he's entitled to it."

Holyfield was relaxed and smiling at a morning press conference at The Mirage hotel-casino, where he stopped Douglas with a right hand Thursday night in the third round of their scheduled 12-round fight for the heavyweight title.

Holyfield, who waited for 18 months as the No. 1 contender before getting his shot at the title, seemed to savor the realization he finally was the champion.

"The waiting wasn't in vain," he

LAS VEGAS — Referee Mills' Lane counts out Buster Douglas as Evander Holyfield walks away in the third round of their heavyweight title bout Thursday night at the Mirage Hotel. Holyfield said. "To be the heavyweight champion is the ultimate thing you could be."

Douglas didn't attend the press conference, leaving his trainer, J.D. McCauley, to face questions about the former champion's bloated weight and apparent lack of heart.

"I felt from the bottom of my heart he was ready for the fight last night," McCauley said. "We talked earlier in the day about the fight and he said he was fine. He said, 'I got him.' But when the fight started he was flat."

McCauley grew angry at suggestions that perhaps Douglas could have gotten up from the overhand right that sent him to the canvas in the third round.

"How do you know what was in that kid's heart?" he asked. "No one here took that shot. Buster Douglas took it. He's the only one who knows."

Holyfield, 28, the former light heavyweight and cruiserweight champion, who won the championship in only his seventh fight as a heavyweight, said he had worked in training camp on defending against Douglas' overhand right, which he used to great effectiveness when he won the title from Tyson in February.

Breeder's Cup favorite draws bad post position

NEW YORK (AP) — Carl Nafzger wouldn't trade places with Bud Delp for anything, not even a free lunch. If he did, he'd only have to give it back.

That's because, "if I were Bud Delp, I'd be throwing up."

Delp's Woodward winner Dispersal was made the lukewarm 4-1 early favorite when 14 horses were entered Wednesday for the $3 million Breeders' Cup Classic at Belmont Park.

The odds might have been shorter had Dispersal not drawn the No. 12 post position for Saturday's race, one of seven on the $10 million Breeders' Cup program.

"Naturally I don't like it, but here is nothing I can do about it. I'll have to live with it. . . I'm not going to go on a suicide mission to get the lead," Delp said.

In a race of 1 1/4 miles around two turns, the post position might not normally carry such weight. But at Belmont, where the track is 1 1/2 miles around, a 1 1/4-mile race starts on the first turn. To make the first 100 yards of the race a little straighter and less bizarre, the gate has been moved to the outer rail, by a water tower.

"Dispersal is a horse that's dead," Nafzger said. ". . . Would you like to be out there with a speed horse, and you've got all the speed in front of you, and you're going to come out of that turn trying to get to the lead? You may end up over there where that tower is."

So why, when his Kentucky Derby winner Unbridled drew the No. 14 post, was Nafzger throwing stones?

"I don't have the speed horse," he said. "What's to keep me from angling right to the rail?"

Dispersal, winner of five in a row, will be ridden by Chris Antley, while Pat Day gets the ride aboard Unbridled, an 8-1 betting choice coupled with stablemate Home At Last. The second choice, at 9-2, was Travers winner Rhythm, while Flying Continental, ridden by Corey Black, was listed at 5-1 on the strength of his victory in the Jockey Club Gold Cup.

Including the Classic, four of Saturday's Breeders' Cup races drew the maximum fields of 14 — the $1 million Sprint over six furlongs, the $1 million Juvenile Fillies over 1 1/16 miles, and the $1 million Mile on turf.

Hereford shocks netters

LUBBOCK — The Big Spring High School tennis team's hopes for a return trip to state in team tennis came to a halt as it was defeated 10-8 by Hereford in the Region I-4A tennis tournament semifinals Friday.

Ironically, Big Spring beat Hereford last year in the regional semifinals. In the other semifinal match, top-seeded Wichita Falls High whipped Andrews 10-2. In the finals Wichita Falls easily downed Andrews, the district runner-up to Big Spring.

The Big Spring boys outpointed Hereford 6-3 and the Hereford girls beat Big Spring 7-2. The Hereford girls were quite impressive, winning all six singles matches. The Lady Steers did rally in doubles however; Tammy Mason and E.D. Barnett won their match, and the team of Christi Ragsdale and Melena Martinez won their match.

In boys singles, top seed Rocky Tubb, along with Ernesto Martinez, Steve Sims and Robert Lee won their singles matches. In doubles play, Tubb and Sims, and the team of Pacen Booth and Chris Ficke won their matches. Big Spring Coach Don Lawrence was disheartened with the loss. "We should have been up 5-1 after the boys singles, and we were only up 4-2; we lost one we should've won," said Lawrence.

"As a team we didn't play real consistent; we played hard, we just didn't play well. We only won four singles out of 12. Usually we struggle in doubles and play well in singles. I wonder if we were looking ahead to Wichita Falls in the finals. We're real disappointed."

Big Spring finishes team tennis play with an 11-2 record.

Florida St. going after elusive win No. 200

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Will Bobby Bowden finally get win No. 200 or suffer loss No. 3?

In his 25th season as a head coach and 15th at Florida State, Bowden's record is 199-74-3, a victory total second among active Division I-A coaches to Penn State's Joe Paterno (224).

But Bowden has been stuck on 199 for two games now — road losses to Miami and Auburn. He goes for 200 again Saturday before the home folks in Tallahassee against LSU.

"It doesn't get any easier for us," Bowden said of No. 12 Florida State's date with the Tigers (both clubs are 4-2). "They have a good football team and always give us fits."

"It doesn't get any easier for us. They have a good football team and always give us fits," — Florida State Coach Bobby Bowden on playing LSU.

Since Bowden arrived at Florida State, his teams have dropped three straight games only four times — twice in 1976, his first year; at the end of the 1981 season and again in 1983, although a 34-28 loss to Tulane was reversed by forfeit.

For those who believe in precedents, either Miami or Auburn was involved in each of those streaks.

Want more precedent? A year ago, the Seminoles beat LSU to snap a two-game losing streak.

Another team trying to avoid losing three in a row is No. 22 Oklahoma, which hasn't suffered that fate since 1965. The Sooners visit No. 10 Colorado in the week's only pairing of Top 25 teams.

Top-ranked Virginia is idle while No. 2 Auburn is at Mississippi State, No. 3 Notre Dame at Pitt, No. 4 Nebraska at Iowa State, No. 5 Illinois at Wisconsin, Arkansas at No. 6 Houston, California at No. 7 Washington, No. 8 Miami at Texas Tech and New Mexico at No. 9 Brigham Young.

Also, SMU at No. 13 Texas, Northwestern at No. 15 Iowa, Duke at No. 16 Georgia Tech, No. 17 Mississippi at Vanderbilt, No. 18 Wyoming at Texas-El Paso, No. 19 Clemson at Wake Forest, No. 20 Michigan at Indiana, No. 21 Southern California at Arizona State, Washington State at No. 22 Arizona, Baylor at No. 24 Texas Christian and Stanford at No. 25 Oregon.

Besides Virginia, No. 11 Tennessee and No. 14 Florida also have the week off.

Except for the Oklahoma-Colorado game, California (5-2), LSU and Indiana (4-1) are the only opponents of ranked teams with better than .500 records.

Two weeks ago, Oklahoma lost by a point to Texas. Last week, the Sooners lost to Iowa State by two. Last year, the Sooners had a 12-year winning streak against Colorado snapped 20-3.

"Two weeks ago, Oklahoma was ranked fourth in the nation and now they've had two bitter defeats," Colorado coach Bill McCartney said. "Losing never creates anything positive, but with their team pride and tradition, I know we're going to catch them at their best."

"I think they'll respond with a vengeance. They're going to come in here snarling, really revved up, and we're going to have to play our best game of the year to beat them."

"They're a much better team than they were a year ago. They're more cohesive on offense and (freshman quarterback Cale) Gundy has given them a new dimension throwing the ball. They have one of the best defenses in the country, a really dominant defense."

Colorado has won five straight after a 1-1-1 start. The Buffs beat Iowa State 28-12 two weeks ago. Next week, they play at Nebraska.

If McCartney wants to know what it's like to play Oklahoma and Nebraska in consecutive weeks, all he has to do is call Iowa State coach Jim Walden, whose team completes that assignment on Saturday. The Cyclones haven't beaten Nebraska since 1977.

"Defensively, I think this is the cream of the crop in the four years I've had to play against them," Walden said of a Nebraska team that has given up only 3.2 yards per play and leads the nation in scoring defense and total defense. "I think this is not their best offensive team since I've been here, but it's certainly their best defensive team."

The Cornhuskers also lead the nation in kickoff returns and are eighth in punt returns.

"They're doing some exciting things with their special teams," Walden said. "So with everything else they have, what you don't need is a team that has great special teams on top of it."

Iowa State will counter with an offense the Nebraska coaches call "basketball on grass," a ball-control passing game.

"Basically, it's a philosophy of attempting to cause the defense to adjust improperly to numerous pictures and then throw reasonably easy passes, which can result in big gains," Nebraska secondary coach George Darlington said.

"It's a BYU philosophy, a West Coast passing philosophy, where they just try to get you in a position where somebody is wide open and just get the ball to him."

"They have legitimate running threats in (Blaise) Bryant and (Sherman) Williams, as well as... (quarterback Chris) Pedersen. So consequently they run a lot of bootlegs with their quarterback, as well as various types of dropback passes. They'll throw a three-step drop and just wear you out on slant passes until you take it away from them."

The Cyclones don't have BYU's Ty Detmer but they do have Pedersen, who engineered the 33-31 victory over Oklahoma by rushing for 148 yards and two touchdowns and throwing a touchdown pass.

"He's better than anybody they've played so far," Walden said. "They've got to decide what they can do to stop him."

Auburn coach Pat Dye may have given Mississippi State some added motivation when he noted that "we still have to play two of the better teams in the (Southeastern) conference on the road."

He was referring to Florida and Alabama and that's bulletin board fodder, even though Dye later hedged:

"We are concerned about Mississippi State. I'm worried about this game."

Mississippi State is coming off a 38-17 victory at Tulane in which the Bulldogs had 418 yards of offense — 228 rushing, 190 passing.

"It is important from an offensive standpoint that we continue to have an offense that a defense can't zero in on," coach Rocky Felker said. "If we get too predictable on any aspect of it, we can be in trouble. And the thing that keeps Auburn going is their defense."

Having been bounced from the national championship picture by losing to Notre Dame last week, defending champ Miami seeks to rebound against Texas Tech.

"We've got a chance to go play the heck out of those folks from Miami," Tech coach Spike Dykes said. "Our guys are excited about playing them. I know that sounds funny, but it's true. We'll be ready. We've got a good strategy and we have had a great week of practice."

Then Dykes, like Dye, did some hedging of his own, perhaps remembering that the Hurricanes rank in the top 10 in total offense, passing offense and rushing defense.

"My gosh, their game films are worse than scary. They will take your breath away," Dykes said. "They have got size and great speed at every position. We are just excited to get a chance to play them."

California, off to its best start since 1978, is 3-1 in the Pac-10 to Washington's 4-0 and the Golden Bears would like to prove they are for real. It won't be easy.

"I cannot believe there would be (six) teams better than (Washington), and probably when they're playing in Seattle there might not be anybody better," Cal coach Bruce Snyder said.

Although Washington's Don James said his Huskies have "had four really good league games," he isn't concerned with the rankings just yet.

"The polls that scare people are being ranked No. 1 at the start of the season," James said. "I don't think it's a real secret that most Division I-A programs would like to win their conference championships and a national championship. That's always been one of our goals."

James also said this is the best Cal team the Huskies have faced in his 16 years at Washington. Cal hasn't had a winning season since 1982 and hasn't beaten Washington since 1976 (nine games).

And speaking of 1976, Notre Dame's Lou Holtz seems to think he's facing Pitt's 1976 national champions instead of this year's struggling 3-3-1 bunch.

"Pittsburgh is a dangerous football team; they've got an awful lot of talent," Holtz said. "I'm sure they expected to have a better record at this point than they do, but that doesn't mean they aren't capable of playing with, and beating, anyone in the country, including Notre Dame."

"Plus we never seem to play real well at Pitt. They drilled us there in '87 and in '88 we were lucky to get out with our lives. They can make their season by beating us."

New tax bill would reach most taxpayers

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Hardly any person who pays federal taxes would go unaffected by the tax bill on which congressional negotiators were completing work Friday.

Most Americans would pay higher taxes, but on their purchases rather than on their earnings. The bite would be relatively light for all but the well-to-do. Those with incomes over $200,000 a year would see their federal tax liabilities rise by an average of 6.3 percent.

Many of the 70 million couples and individuals with incomes under $20,000 would get a slight tax cut, thanks to expansion of the earned-income credit for poorer, working families with children.

The National Taxpayers Union, a nonpartisan organization that campaigns for lower taxes, estimated the bill would boost the taxes of a $30,000 family by an average of $109. A $40,000 family would pay $166 more; at $50,000, $214; $70,000, $277 more; $100,000, $542 more, and families at the $225,000 level would face an average tax increase of $3,572.

Here are major provisions:

- GASOLINE: Raise the 9-cent gasoline tax to 14 cents a gallon and the 15-cent diesel tax to 20 cents on Dec. 1. A motorist driving 10,000 miles a year in a car that gets 22 miles per gallon would pay about $23 more.
- ALCOHOL: Double the beer tax to 32 cents a six-pack; raise, the $12.50-a-gallon tax on 100-proof liquor by $1, or 20 cents a fifth; raise taxes on most wines, including, for example, table wine, which would go from 3 cents a 750-milliliter bottle to 21 cents.

- TOBACCO: Raise the 16-cent cigarette tax by 4 cents in 1991 and another 4 cents in 1993. Snuff, cigars and other tobacco would face 25 percent tax increases each year.

- AIR TRAVEL: Raise to 10 percent the 8 percent tax on airline tickets, which had been scheduled to drop to 4 percent at year end. The average round-trip ticket, which costs about $300, would increase by $6.

- TELEPHONES: Make permanent the 3 percent tax on local and long-distance phone service, which otherwise would expire Dec. 31.

- LUXURIES: Impose a 10 percent tax on the portion of the price of cars above $30,000; boats above $100,000; jewelry and furs above $10,000 and private planes above $250,000. A $40,000 car, for example, would face a luxury tax of $1,000.

- TAX RATES: Raise to 31 percent the 28 percent top income tax rate paid by the 600,000 couples and individuals with the highest incomes. That would raise taxes on singles making more than about $125,000 a year and couples with incomes above the $200,000 range.

- Cut to 31 percent the 33 percent rate that as many as 4 million upper-middle-income people pay on part of their earnings. This would reduce taxes for single people with incomes between about $60,000 and $125,000 and couples between about $100,000 and $200,000. However, other parts of the bill would take back that tax cut in most cases.

- Raise from 21 percent to 24 percent the alternative minimum tax, which is paid by fewer than 100,000 high-income people with large amounts of deductions that otherwise could reduce tax liability to near zero.

- CAPITAL GAINS: Tax profits from the sale of investments at a maximum rate of 28 percent. This would provide a break for those investors who now pay a maximum rate of 33 percent. There is no deep across-the-board cut in capital-gains taxes as President Bush has demanded.

- EXEMPTIONS: Reduce personal exemptions — which now are $2,050 for a taxpayer and each dependent — as adjusted gross income rises above $100,000 for a single person and $150,000 for a couple. This would raise taxes for people at those levels. The exemptions would be reduced by 2 percent for each $2,500 that income exceeds those thresholds. The exemptions would be lost once income tops $225,000 (single) or $275,000 (couple).

Report exonerates police, criticizes commanders

An elderly Palestinian man hobbles past a group of Israeli border police Friday in the Old City of Jerusalem. Only 7,000 worshippers were allowed into Al Aqsa Mosque on the Temple Mount for Friday prayers.

By G.G. LABELLE
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM — An Israeli report on the Temple Mount killings exonerated police Friday for using live gunfire on rioting stone throwers. But it severely criticized police commanders for ignoring warning signs of potential riots.

The report drew immediate criticism from Palestinians and Israeli leftists and brought renewed demands for Israel to allow a United Nations investigation into the deaths of 20 Palestinians in the Oct. 8 bloodbath.

The three-man Israeli investigative team said Palestinians started the riots. Still, it accused police commanders of failing to heed the danger that rioting could easily erupt in the heated atmosphere among Moslems at the shrine. And it said there was "indiscriminate use of live ammunition."

The panel, appointed by Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, said danger to policemen's lives justified the overall use of gunfire, but also emphasized "the immediate need to develop alternatives to the use of live ammunition."

In the riots at the shrine in Jerusalem's walled Old City, more than 140 people were wounded by gunshots in addition to those killed, according to hospitals.

Police initially listed 19 dead, but Friday's report increased the toll to 20.

The killings brought a hail of international criticism of Israel. On Oct. 12, the U.N. Security Council condemned the use of excessive force, and on Wednesday it delisted Israel's refusal to accept a U.N. investigation.

Both resolutions were backed by the United States, Israel's chief ally.

Friday's 59-page report blamed the start of the rioting on "violent and threatening" calls through loudspeakers at the Mount's two mosques, including an exhortation to "slaughter the Jews."

A barrage of rocks and metal objects was then unloosed at policemen on the Mount, the report said.

"The commission has concluded that the lives of the police on the Temple Mount were endangered, and that they feared for their lives and for the lives of thousands of worshippers at the Western Wall," the report said.

Stones hitting Jews caused an intensely emotional reaction since the wall, also known as the Wailing Wall, is revered as the last remnant of the ancient Jewish temple.

Initial reports said the stoning began when as many as 20,000 Jews were at the wall for prayers during the eight-day festival of Sukkot. But the report noted that the first stones were aimed at police on the Mount above 55 minutes after the prayers ended, when Jews began moving away.

It listed nine Jews injured at the wall and 21 police hurt by rocks during the 40 minutes before police issued a cease-fire order.

After tear gas and rubber bullets failed to halt the rioting, police retreated from the mosque compound, the report said. It said they began to use live ammunition as they charged back onto the Mount.

The live fire also was justified by pleas for rescue from two police on the Mount, the report said. However, it later turned out the men already had been rescued by Moslem officials.

The use of uncontrolled fire by police was not mentioned until the next-to-last page of the report.

It said there was "indiscriminate use of live ammunition," implying it came when lives were no longer in danger and the Temple Mount area was under control.

Richard's rise in polls contributed to opponent

HOUSTON (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards on Friday credited GOP opponent Clayton Williams with contributing to her recent rise in the election polls, but she told about 1,000 supporters in Houston that they had to keep working until Nov. 6 to assure her victory.

"I know that Clayton Williams is doing everything he can to help us, but we can't count on him," she said to rousing laughter.

"I want you to be prepared for whatever might come in these next few days because I fully expect that they're going to try to throw everything — including the kitchen sink — at us," Richards said.

"But that's OK. That's all right. If we do our job, they're going to be the ones waking up the morning after the election wondering what in the world they should have done differently."

Earlier, Richards battled hecklers at the University of Texas to tell a student rally that a Republican pledge of "no new taxes" really means a tax increase is just around the corner.

Both President Bush and Texas Gov. Bill Clements promised no taxes while campaigning, then agreed to raise taxes when in office, Richards told the students.

"We read his (Bush's) lips, and now we know," she said. "No new taxes means your taxes are fixing to go up. ... You vote for the Republicans that make promises and do not keep them."

Williams has pledged to oppose any new taxes, although legislative experts have forecast a budget deficit of more than $3 billion for next year. Richards also has said she opposes new taxes.

Later, at a fund raising rally in Houston, Richards brought Republican supporters into the fold.

"I've been a Democrat all my life," she said. "The Democratic Party has represented to me the goals and dreams and aspirations of this country. But I've said all along, once you are elected to office, you represent all the people.

"I know that Clayton Williams is doing everything he can to help us, but we can't count on him. I want you to be prepared for whatever might come in these next few days because I fully expect that they're going to try to throw everything — including the kitchen sink — at us," — Ann Richards not just the people who are aligned with you. And that's the reason we have so many Republicans for Richards here in this auditorium. And I am grateful for your support."

At both rallies, Richards strongly emphasized her pro-choice stance on abortion.

"No bureaucrat, no legislator, no judge and indeed no governor has the right to interfere in the choice of a woman," she said.

She also chided Williams for refusing to debate her. "It would be wonderful, truly, if my opponent would appear in a debate," she said.

The Democratic candidate organized the Austin rally, which drew about 3,000 students. Most supported Richards, but a vocal minority chanted "Claytie, Claytie" throughout much of her speech. Each time, they were drowned out by Richards' backers chanting, "Ann, Ann, Ann."

Richards accused Gov. Bill Clements Friday of conspiring with the Clayton Williams campaign to "put a lid" on an investigation into the candidate's Midland bank.

Clements met earlier this week with State Board of Insurance Chairman James Saxton, and press secretary Rossanna Salazar said the two discussed the board's inquiry into ClayDesta National Bank among other topics.

Ms. Salazar denied that Clements made any suggestions about the board's inquiry into allegations that people were forced to buy expensive credit life insurance in order to obtain car loans from the bank.

Trial to proceed despite publicity

EL PASO (AP) — A convicted rapist will be tried in El Paso on a serial murder charge accusing him of killing six women and young girls and burying them in the desert, a judge decided Friday.

Despite extensive publicity in the case, 171st District Court Judge Peter Peca decided against ruling on a motion the judge himself filed earlier this month to move the trial of David Leonard Wood outside the city.

However, Peca said he will compile a list of alternative sites for the trial if attorneys are unable to find an unbiased jury in El Paso. He also denied a request from Wood's attorneys for a delay in the trial.

Wood was indicted July 13 under the state capital murder statute. He adamantly denies committing the killings and has filed a $20.5 million lawsuit against the El Paso Police, accusing them of harassment.

The slayings have drawn national publicity. But neither prosecutors nor Wood's attorneys wanted Peca to move the trial.

"We can get as fair a trial here as anywhere else. That doesn't mean he can get a fair trial," said defense attorney Norbert Garney.

Wood's attorneys were dismayed by Peca's refusal to delay the trial, which is scheduled for Jan. 14.

"Just this morning we went to look at the evidence. There's literally a whole room full," said Garney.

Garney said it was impossible to be ready in eight weeks for a case that was investigated by authorities for three years.

"It's not a speedy trial problem. At this point, the problem is too speedy of a trial," Garney said, adding that the attorneys will likely continue trying to get the trial delayed. The attorneys would prefer to go to trial in May.

On Thursday, an appeals court overruled an order by Peca that would have allowed Wood's attorneys to make photocopies of everything in the district attorney's investigative file.

Marcia Wheatley, mother of one of the victims, attended Friday's hearing. She has attended every hearing in the case, checks the criminal file weekly and is in constant communication with the district attorney's office.

Student's plan to defy order

NORTH RICHLAND HILLS, Texas (AP) — Students here vowed the Confederate battle flag will always fly over their high school, no matter that a nearby Fort Worth school has been ordered to abandon their Rebel mascot.

Fort Worth school trustees this week ordered Southwest High School in Fort Worth to abandon its Rebel mascot following a confrontation Oct. 19 between black and white students at a pep rally.

But Richland High School students say they have no plans to abandon their flag.

Local NAACP officials predict their organization will ask Richland to change its flag within 30 days. The group first requested the change in 1986, but the request was denied in 1987 after the Texas Educational Agency found no racial discrimination at the school.

"When you see a Nazi sign, you know what it's all about. For black people, it's the same with the Confederate flag," said Ray Bell, president of the Fort Worth-Tarrant County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"It doesn't mean that much to the kids. But to the black person, it is an offense. It has a nasty odor to it," Bell told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in Friday's editions.

Students say they attach no racist overtones to the flag.

"All we look at is the flag — we don't think about what is behind it," said Richland football player and student body president Cole

"When you see a Nazi sign, you know what it's all about. For black people, it's the same with the Confederate flag. It doesn't mean that much to the kids. But to the black person, it is an offense. It has a nasty odor to it," — Ray Bell, president of the Fort Worth-Tarrant County chapter of the NAACP

Coulson. "It's our flag and we love the Rebel flag. We look at what's ahead of it for Richland."

"All it is, is just a symbol of Rebel spirit," said sophomore basketball player Nelson Bamundaga. "It has nothing to do with the past."

Richland alumni Dolores Webb, who entered the school in 1961, said the flag has a meaning unique to the school.

"We were just the Richland Rebels because it started with an 'R,' and went with Richland," said Ms. Webb, who is a trustee of the Birdville school district. "It just looked real neat on the band uniforms — you know, 'RR.'"

Former student body president Mike Cooke, now a Fort Worth attorney, said the Rebel symbols were accepted in part because few black students were enrolled at Richland when it opened in 1961.

"Part of it might have been that 99 percent of the student body was not black and people my age never associated the flag and 'Dixie' with active racism and active prejudice," said Cooke, who graduated in 1981.

Birdville school trustees have not discussed eliminating the flag or "Dixie" from Richland this year, but school officials said they would scrap Rebel flag immediately if it became divisive to the community.

Less than 2 percent of Richland student body is black. Southwest High School, the site of the recent racial tensions over the Confederate symbols, is 20 percent black.

BONNER BRIDGE TOPPLES

High winds strand thousands

WANCHESE, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of people were stranded without power Friday on Hatteras Island after gale-force winds tore a dredge from its moorings and slammed it into the Bonner Bridge, toppling a 369-foot segment.

The 2½-mile span — the only road link between the mainland and Hatteras — may be closed for months.

No injuries were reported. State Highway Patrol Sgt. A.C. Joyner rushed to close the bridge early Friday after it was struck by the dredge Northerly Island. The wind was blowing at 45-50 mph and gusting to 60 mph when the collapse occurred less than an hour later.

Students injured in bus accident

MINERAL WELLS (AP) — A school bus carrying students home from classes ran off a road and into a gully Friday, injuring 13 children and the driver, authorities said.

The driver lost control of the bus for unknown reasons about 4 p.m. on a two-lane road in a rural area about 20 miles southwest of this north-central Texas community, said Sgt. John Stahl of the state Department of Public Safety.

The eastbound bus swerved into the westbound lane, overturned once and came to rest upright in a gully, Stahl said. The sun was shining and the pavement was dry when the accident occurred.

AIDS victim's grave decorated

CICERO, Ind. (AP) — The mother of the late AIDS victim Ryan White has decorated his grave for Halloween with a smiling, 2-foot plywood ghost.

The wooden apparition is intended to represent White, who became an international spokesman for people with AIDS. He was 18 when he died in April of complications from the disease.

The ghost was among other decorations placed at the grave by Jeanne White, said her secretary, Shelly Henson.

RYAN WHITE

"You could see both of the guard rails move toward the west and then it just snapped," Joyner said.

"Nothing's built for that kind of stress," said Clayton Jenson, superintendent of McLean Contracting of Chesapeake, Va., which built the 26-year-old bridge. Another section of the bridge was unstable, Jenson said.

"It's just a guess, but I think it's going to take five to six months to fix the bridge," Jenson said.

The accident, combined with storms that kept ferries in port, stranded thousands of people on the island and without power.

An estimated 5,000 people live year-round on the island.

Patsy Jackson, 8, was in critical condition with internal and head injuries, hospital officials said. The child was airlifted to Cook Children's Medical Center in Fort Worth, where she was undergoing surgery late Friday, said hospital spokeswoman Robin Worthington.

The other 12 children — ranging in age from 5 to 13 — and the bus driver, 33-year-old Elena Rouse, were treated at hospitals for minor to moderate injuries, hospital officials said.

An unidentified child was hospitalized in stable condition and the rest were expected to be discharged.

"She just gets a lot of enjoyment thinking spiritually he's aware of what's taking place," Ms. Henson said. "She just thinks he would like that."

Pilots sentenced

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Three former Northwest Airlines pilots convicted of flying a passenger plane while intoxicated were sentenced to prison today, two for a year and the other to 16 months.

The sentences were within federal guidelines, which recommended 12 to 18 months; the maximum would have been 15 years. Rosenbaum left open the possibility that they could remain free pending their appeals.

The defendants — Capt. Norman Lyle Prouse, 51, of Conyers, Ga.; 1st Officer Robert

LYLE PROUSE were convicted of flying while intoxicated on a hop from Fargo, N.D., to Minneapolis the morning of March 8.

Prouse, who had the highest blood-alcohol concentration in a test given two hours after the flight landed, was the one who received the 16-month sentence. The judge told him that his acknowledged alcoholism was not "a license to kill."

Bodyguard shot

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Unidentified assailants firing from a speeding car on Friday assassinated an army intelligence agent who served as a bodyguard for former military ruler Gen. Augusto Pinochet, police said.

Police said Sgt. Victor Valenzuela was shot five times as he left his house Friday morning in a working-class neighborhood in southern Santiago.

Interior Minister Enrique Krauss said Valenzuela was a member of the army intelligence service, and was assigned to Pinochet's protection.

It's standard time again. Remember to set your clock back one hour at 2:00 a.m. this Sunday, October 28th.

Eight protesters killed by police

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired on protesters in a township outside Cape Town and black factions clashed there, leaving eight people dead and dozens injured, police said Friday. Four died in violence elsewhere.

The Khayelitsha black township, about 25 miles outside Cape Town, was generally calm Friday after the day of violence. The fighting, which began Thursday and continued into the night, broke out after an explosion and fire damaged the local government building.

Many residents of black townships oppose the local councils and consider council members collaborators with the country's white-led government.

Police fired birdshot, rubber bullets and tear gas at a crowd of at least 800 blacks who tried to

SOUTH AFRICAN VIOLENCE march on the government building.

Resolution on war crimes drafted

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council reached broad agreement Friday on a new draft resolution that takes a step toward establishing Iraq's responsibility for war crimes, diplomats said.

The resolution invites nations to collect information on serious abuses of Kuwaitis and other civilians contrary to the Fourth Geneva Convention and share it with the council.

Ambassadors ranging from America's Thomas R. Pickering to Cuba's Ricardo Alarcon said the council was now working on details of the resolution's language and structure, and predicted a vote overnight.

The new resolution also would hold Iraq liable for war damages caused by its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait and invite nations, companies and individuals suffering losses to document the damage for the council.

It does not provide for punitive reparations.

The draft resolution threatens Iraq with unspecified new punishment under the U.N. Charter if it doesn't stop mistreating and oppressing Kuwaitis and release its foreign hostages.

It also says Iraq must allow the immediate provision of food, water and basic services to diplomats and foreigners in diplomatic missions in Kuwait City.

Iraq says Kuwait is now a province of Iraq and that the diplomats must move their operations to Baghdad. It has cut off water and electricity to the missions.

Gorbachev discusses aid in Spain

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on Friday took a break from headaches on the home front and opened a three-day Spanish visit, seeking to convert his personal appeal abroad into aid for the struggling economy.

Gorbachev, grabbing Madrid Mayor Augustin Rodriguez Sahagun by the arm, waded into the crowd, crossing yellow barriers and a cordon of police outside Madrid's 17th-century City Hall.

The reception served to remind Gorbachev — increasingly unpopular at home because of worsening economic conditions and ethnic tensions — of the respect he commands in foreign lands.

Though Gorbachev is seeking help for the Soviet economy, he also had some hard words for the Iraqi occupation of Kuwait.

"We favor taking advantage of all possibilities for a political solution. Nevertheless, no one GORBACHEV should take the search for these joint or bilateral solutions as a sign of weakness, or for vacillation over implementation of U.N. Security Council resolutions," Gorbachev told the Spanish parliament's Foreign Affairs Committee.

Mustangs return to Memorial

AUSTIN (AP) — Southern Methodist Coach Forrest Gregg says Saturday's visit to No. 13-ranked Texas will be "very difficult for us."

The Southwest Conference game will be SMU's first on the Longhorns' home field since 1986, when Texas won 27-24.

"It will be the first trip to Memorial Stadium for most of our kids. But it's all part of growing up," Gregg said.

Southern Methodist's last conference victory was 13-7 against Texas Tech on Nov. 15, 1986, when the current Texas coach, David McWilliams, was coaching at Tech.

The Mustangs, as a result of the NCAA's first-ever "death penalty" sanctions, were ineligible in 1987 and chose not to field a team in 1988.

Texas, after two straight losing seasons for the first time in half a century, is 4-1 this season, with victories over Penn State, Rice, No. 22 Oklahoma and Arkansas. Its lone loss was 29-22 to Colorado, currently ranked No. 10.

The Longhorns, relying on a veteran squad, are heavily favored over the younger Mustangs, whose coach, Forrest Gregg, is 0-11 in the SWC.

"Texas has the biggest people I've ever seen in my life," Gregg said. "Their defensive line and linebackers are huge."

Texas' front four averages 260 pounds, and the three linebackers 220.

Although Southern Methodist (1-5, 0-3) is last as a team in the SWC in total defense and next to last in total offense, it ranks No. 12 nationally in passing, averaging nearly 261 yards a game. Sophomore quarterback Mike Romo is No. 14 in individual offense, averaging 232 yards a game.

DALLAS — University of Houston strong safety Kenny Perry (8) breaks up a pass intended for SMU wide receiver Michael Bowen (17) during action last week. This week SMU plays No. 13 Texas, and No. 6 Houston plays Arkansas.

Texas has excelled in the kicking game, with Michael Pollak making good on 12 of 14 field goals to rank second nationally, and Alex Waits averaging 43.5 yards on 25 punts to rank eighth.

Kickoff, for the 68th game in a series that began in 1916, is 1 p.m., CDT. A crowd of 70,000 is expected.

Porkers hoping to stop slump

HOUSTON (AP) — Saturday's battle between No. 6-ranked Houston and struggling Arkansas will be a streak-snapper regardless of the outcome.

Either the Cougars (6-0) will extend the nation's longest winning streak to 11 in a row, the Razorbacks (2-4) will beat the Cougars for the ninth straight year or a tie will end both victory streaks.

Arkansas has lost three straight games, all in Southwest Conference play, and its defense has yielded an average of 47 points in those three games.

The Razorbacks have not lost to Houston since 1981 and they've beaten Houston's run-and-shoot for the four years it's been the Cougars' mode of attack.

Arkansas coach Jack Crowe discounts the loss of Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware as slowing down the offensive machine. It's been just as effective under junior quarterback David Klingler.

"I think, honestly, David throws the ball better than Andre and he isn't quite as elusive, but he can run," Crowe said. "Andre could get the ball off quicker sometimes, but David is right there too."

Hog quarterback Quinn Grovey, ranked No. 2 nationally in passing efficiency, will have to throw the ball for the Razorbacks to have a chance, Crowe said.

"We don't think it can be a game with the scoring in the 50s but we've got to throw to score enough points to win," Crowe said. "We'll have to play the game different from last year."

Arkansas won last year's game in Little Rock 45-39.

SWC Thumbnails

ARKANSAS (2-4, 0-3 SWC) at HOUSTON (6-0, 5-0 SWC), noon CDT, HSE-Prime Network Live Telecast. The series: The Razorbacks lead the brief but highly-contested series 11-5 in all contests (since 1952) and 10-4 in SWC activity. Arkansas has a current, eight-game winning streak after falling to the Cougars 20-17 at Little Rock in 1981. UH's most recent win at the Astrodome over the Hogs came by a 24-17 count in 1980. Houston built its series-longest winning streak (four games) from 1978-81. After several tough defensive encounters, the last five games in the series have produced 296 points between the teams. Arkansas QB Quinn Grovey piloted the Razorbacks to a 45-39 triumph over Houston, but the Cougars since have compiled the nation's longest Division I-A winning streak at 10 games. The Razorbacks won 26-21 over UH in their last meeting at the Astrodome.

The coaches: Arkansas' Jack Crowe stands 7-19 (third season) overall, 2-4 (first year) with the Razorbacks, 0-3 in SWC contests, and faces Houston for the first time as a head coach. The Cougars' John Jenkins, who started at every backfield position on offense at one time or another at Arkansas during his 1971-73 varsity playing career, is 6-0 (first season) overall, 5-0 in SWC games and battles his alma mater for the first time.

The teams: After last year's aerial display, both teams have utilized the pass as a "lethal weapon" throughout 1990. Houston and Arkansas are 1-4, respectively, in SWC total offense with a composite 912.7 yards per game. The Razorbacks have one of the nation's most dangerous receivers in SE Derek Russell (29 catches, 622 yards, 21.5 yards per catch, school-record 7 TDs). QB Quinn Grovey is edging toward the 6,000-yard mark in career total offense (5,361 yards) and set a school season record with his 12th TD pass last week. UH All-America wideout Manny Hazard has sparkled in the last four games (33 catches, 294 yards during that span) and is second in SWC career receptions with 177. QB David Klingler still is first nationally in total offense with 412 yards per game while RB Chuck Weatherspoon is fifth in SWC rushing despite some injuries with 84 carries for 540 yards. "Spoon" also has 4,461 all-purpose yards in 28 games for seventh place in SWC history.

MIAMI (FLA.) (4-2) at TEXAS TECH (2-5, 1-4 SWC), noon CDT, Raycom Sports Telecast. The series: Miami meets a SWC opponent for the 44th time Saturday, and the Hurricanes hold a 25-18 lead against the current nine members. It's the fifth battle of the Hurricanes and Texas Tech, and Miami leads this series 3-1. The Hurricanes scored a 19-0 win in the initial meeting in 1939 before Tech's 1940 team downed UM 61-14 in Lubbock. Miami won the last two meetings 6-0 in 1941 and 61-11 in 1986 (both at Orange Bowl Stadium). The 'Canes last played a SWC school in Nov., 1988, while edging Arkansas 18-16 at Miami to spoil an unbeaten season possibility for the Razorbacks. The coaches: Miami's Dennis Erickson is 65-34-1 (ninth year) overall, 15-3 (second season) with the Hurricanes and 1-0 against SWC opposition after his 1988 Washington State crew edged Houston 24-22 in the Aloha Bowl in Honolulu. Tech's Spike Dykes, who has been head coach during two Red Raider bowl visits since 1986, is 22-19-1 (fifth year, all at Tech) and battling the stout Southern independent for the first time. Dykes has a five-year record in non-conference games of 9-6. The Red Raiders bring in a 31-season record of 67-38-5 (.632 winning percentage) against outside opposition since starting SWC football competition in 1960.

The teams: Miami was the "Team of the 1980s" in NCAA Division I-A football with a 86-19 mark and 11-1 record last fall under Erickson. Texas Tech has pulled its share of surprises at Jones Stadium, and some recent ones include a 27-24 win over Texas A&M in 1989, a 24-14 triumph over Arizona last year and a 23-21 victory over Texas in 1986. Key individuals: DT Russell Maryland anchors a Miami defense which is eighth nationally with 97.7 net yards rushing allowed per game. QB Craig Erickson has picked up where he left off in 1989 with 125-of-220 passing totals for 1,838 yards and nine TDs. The Red Raiders find strength in QBs Jamie Gill and Robert Hall (a combined 128-of-251 aerially for 2,039 yards and 11 TDs). They join with IB Anthony Lynn (166 carries, 671 yards) as a possible second trio in SWC history (Houston accomplished it in 1988 with QBs Andre Ware and David Dacus and SB Chuck Weatherspoon) to have two 1,000-yard passers and a 1,000-yard rusher on the same squad.

SMU (1-5, 0-3 SWC) at TEXAS (4-1, 2-0 SWC), 1 p.m. CDT. The series: Started in 1916, this rivalry is renewed for the 68th time this fall. Texas has a 41-22-4 overall advantage and 40-22-4 mark, excluding the series-opening win over the Mustangs 74-0 in 1916, in SWC encounters with SMU. Consistency of home and road play has marked past meetings. Texas is exactly 20-11-2 in Austin and in conference contests played on SMU turf. The Mustangs last won in the series 44-14 in 1985 at Texas Stadium in Irving while the Longhorns topped SMU 27-24 when they last met at Memorial Stadium. Texas won four of the seven games played against SMU in the 1980s and downed the Mustangs 45-13 at Owenby Stadium last season. The Longhorns also have the longest dominance in the series with a 13-game winning streak from 1967-79.

The coaches: The Mustangs' Forrest Gregg is 3-14 (second year, both at SMU) overall, 0-11 in SWC tilts and 0-1 against the Longhorns, though SMU kept the contest close for much of three quarters in Dallas last fall. Texas' David McWilliams stands 27-23 (fifth season) overall, 20-19 (fourth year) at UT, 18-14 in SWC competition, and 1-1 versus the Mustangs.

The teams: SMU, which has moved the ball effectively through the air and which has had some stellar performances from a variety of receivers for QB Mike Romo, could get a confidence boost with the all-out effort it had in the 1989 tussle with Texas. The Longhorns, climbing in the national rankings and gaining confidence weekly, have a tough stretch of six SWC games in six weeks ahead of them. Texas' defense has been the key to early success while the offense has become more cohesive (498 net yards against Arkansas) in every phase. Key individuals: LB Bill Kiehl (79 tackles) and FS Cary Brabham (54 tackles, six deflections) have a chance to play major roles in slowing Texas' steady ground game. Romo (433-of-758 passing for 4,383 career yards) continues his trek through the SWC record annals. Longhorns' freshman RB Phil Brown (82 carries, 358 yards) has been a steady inline threat on offense. WR Johnny Walker (94 catches, 1,319 yards) is closing in on the century mark in receptions and is third in Texas career receiving yards.

RICE (3-4, 1-3 SWC) at TEXAS A&M (4-2-1, 1-1-1 SWC), 2 p.m. CDT. The series: These schools first met in 1914, and the Aggies have taken a 44-27-3 overall series lead since then. In SWC encounters, A&M also rules 42-26-3. TAMU seeks to make it a rivalry-record 10 games in succession with a win Saturday over Rice. The Owls last downed the Aggies 10-6 in a 1980 defensive struggle. Texas A&M also leads in SWC games played at College Station 17-10. Rice currently holds the series record for consecutive wins with 10 from 1946-54, and the teams have played 44 of their 71 SWC contests in Houston.

The coaches: Rice's Fred Goldsmith is 7-19-1 (third season) overall, 5-12-1 (second year) at Rice, 3-9 in SWC games, and 0-1 against A&M. The Aggies' R.C.
