New budget calls for higher taxes

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The tax bill Congress passed this weekend will touch nearly every segment of the American public.

Most Americans will pay higher taxes, but on their purchases rather than on their earnings. The bite will be relatively light for all but the well-to-do. Those with incomes over $200,000 a year will see their federal tax liabilities rise by an average of 6.3 percent.

Many of the 70 million couples and individuals with incomes under $20,000 will get a slight tax cut, thanks to expansion of the earned-income credit for poorer, working families with children.

The National Taxpayers' Union, a nonpartisan organization that campaigns for lower taxes, estimated the bill will boost the taxes of a $30,000 household by an average of $109. The union, which figured all households in a certain income bracket, regardless of size, said a $40,000 household will pay $166 more. At $50,000, it will pay an extra $214; $70,000, $277 more; $100,000, $542 more, and households at the $225,000 level will face an average tax increase of $3,572.

Here are major provisions:
● GASOLINE: Raise the 9-cent gasoline tax to 14 cents a gallon and the 15-cent diesel tax to 20 cents on Dec. 1. A motorist driving 10,000 miles a year in a car that gets 22 miles per gallon will pay about $23 more.

● ALCOHOL: Double the beer tax to 32 cents a six-pack; raise the $12.50-a-gallon tax on 100-proof liquor by $1, or 20 cents a fifth; raise taxes on most wines, including table wine, which will go from 3 cents a 750-milliliter bottle to 21 cents.

● TOBACCO: Raise the 16-cent cigarette tax by 4 cents in 1991 and another 4 cents in 1993. Snuff, cigars and other tobacco will face 25 percent tax increases each year.

● AIR TRAVEL: Raise to 10 percent the 8 percent tax on airline tickets, which had been scheduled to drop to 4 percent at year end. The average round-trip ticket, which costs about $300, will increase by $6.

● TELEPHONES: Make permanent the 3 percent tax on local and long-distance phone service, which otherwise will expire Dec. 31.

● LUXURIES: Impose a 10 percent tax on the portion of the price

Burn victim listed in serious condition

A 56-year-old Howard County man, who suffered burns over 35 percent of his body from an Oct. 27 propane explosion, is still listed in serious condition, reported a hospital spokesperson at University Medical Center in Lubbock this morning.

James Fryar, County Road 26, may be in the surgical burn unit for another two weeks, a relative said. Fryar was caught in a flash fire when propane gas he was using to clear water lines in a camper trailer was ignited by a pilot light. He has been listed in serious condition since being transferred from Scenic Mountain Medical Center in Big Spring on Oct. 18.

Coahoma girl wins Herald bike contest

Krystal Herrera, daughter of George and Diane Herrera of Coahoma, was the winner of the bicycle in the Ghostbusters Spooktrail contest sponsored by the Big Spring Herald. To be eligible for the drawing, participants had to visit merchants designated in Thursday's paper and collect all the letters in the word "Ghostbusters".

Blood drive scheduled Tuesday

Big Spring State Hospital will conduct a blood drive Tuesday, Oct. 30, from 2 to 6 p.m. in the Physical Therapy building.

Absentee voting reported to be heavy

The total absentee vote, with 277 people voting Saturday at the Howard County courthouse, now stands at 1,327 since Oct. 17, reported Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray.

In addition, there were 21 more people voting this morning, Ray said. The deadline for absentee voting in the Nov. 6 election is 5 p.m. Friday. The courthouse will be open until then from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Tomorrow is the deadline to have ballots mailed to voters who are eligible to mail in their ballots because they will be out of town, are physically handicapped or are over 65-years-old. Mail-in ballots must be received by 7 p.m. on election day.

Gramm receives police endorsements

Sen. Phil Gramm announced that he has received the endorsements of 157 chiefs of police, including Big Spring Police Chief Joe Cook. Cook was a guest at a rally for Sen. Phil Gramm Sunday in Midland.

Gramm picked up several endorsements from law enforcement groups and individuals during the stop on his campaign for re-election for a second six-year term.

"I said he had done a fine job for law enforcement," Cook said today of his appearance at the rally. "He has"

France ordered to close embassy

By ANDREA HAMILTON
Associated Press Writer

PARIS — France said today its diplomats have been ordered to quit their besieged embassy in Kuwait and return home with 300 French hostages being freed by Iraq.

French Foreign Ministry spokesman Daniel Bernard said the half-dozen diplomats would leave Kuwait with about 70 French citizens aboard an Iraqi Airways 747. The plane was to fly to Baghdad and pick up other French hostages and 10 Greek nationals before heading to Paris.

President Francois Mitterrand of France cautioned against celebration as long as hundreds of Westerners remain captive in Iraq and Kuwait.

"I express the joy of all the French people to those coming home," Mitterrand said. "But we will rejoice fully only when the other hostages can return to their own countries."

Mitterrand spoke at a news conference outside Paris with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev after the signing of a Franco-Soviet cooperation treaty.

Gorbachev told Iraqi President Saddam Hussein not to expect a split in the international alliance opposed to his Aug. 2 seizure of Kuwait.

"We must not permit the Iraqi regime to hope there will be a division, a weakening of positions," Gorbachev said. He called Iraq's use of hostages "amoral."

France, the United States and Britain have been the only Western countries to maintain embassies in Kuwait since Iraq overran the emirate. In August, Iraq cut off

Civil rights veto being used as issue

By WENDY BENJAMINSON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Democratic candidates want blacks and Hispanics to remember President Bush's veto of the civil rights bill and put their party over the top in the increasingly tight statewide races.

In a last-minute blitz through black churches and Hispanic rallies this weekend, Democrats repeated their theme that the GOP is the party that favors the rich and the white.

"Remember what the other party did to us in the 1980s. Remember what the president did with the civil rights bill," said Morris Overstreet, campaigning Sunday for a seat on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Bush vetoed a civil rights bill last week, saying it would force business owners into a quota system for hiring and firing employees.

"The theme these last nine days is 'Remember in November,'" said Overstreet.

Overstreet, who could become the first black to hold a statewide office in Texas, appeared with Democratic attorney general candidate Dan Morales, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, and a dozen other state and local candidates at church near downtown Houston.

The candidates planned a tour of about 30 black churches to encourage blacks to vote for Democrats.

With the latest polls showing Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards even with Republican rival Clayton Williams, Democratic officials have said they hope a last-minute get-out-the-vote campaign will encourage blacks and Hispanics to turn out and carry the Democratic ticket to victory.

On Saturday, Richards and other Democratic candidates campaigned before a breakfast of black ministers and at a Hispanic rally in Houston.

Candidates at the Wesley Chapel AME Church on Sunday stressed what they saw as pervasive racism in the Republican Party.

College announces homecoming events

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

Howard College plans a variety of events — from sports and fitness to theater and dancing — for its Homecoming celebration this year.

Kicking off the festivities will be the first annual "Town and Gown," reception and tour for citizens of the area who are interested in knowing more about Howard College.

Vice President and Assistant to the President Cheri Sparks said many people may "drive by the college every day, or come to one building, but they never see the entire campus."

"We'll show them the educational areas (and) let them see where the action is," Sparks said. Interested persons should meet in the Fireplace Room of the Student Union Building Friday at 8:30 a.m. for a reception. Tours will continue until 11 a.m.

Registration for ex-students begins at 8 a.m. Saturday in the foyer of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The "Fall Fit Wellness Extravaganza" begins at 9 a.m. all over the campus. Cost for the variety of "fun, not serious" competitions is $5 per participant. Proceeds will go to the scholarship fund.

At noon, the awards picnic for Fall Fit participants will take place on the campus grounds. Picnickers should bring their own lunches.

At 1 p.m. the Exes Association will meet in the Tumblewood Room in the Student Union Building. The group, organized last year, will meet to accept new members. All ex-students are welcome.

A reception for the Allied Health Department will take place at 4 p.m. Former nursing and dental hygiene students will meet in the Cactus Room of the SUB for fellowship and sharing of work experiences.

A gathering and barbecue at 6 p.m. will feature the HC Fine Arts Department Hall of Fame Induction. The 1990-91 Distinguished Alumni award recipient will be announced at this time as well.

Inductees include members of the softball team of 1947, and baseball teams from 1948 (the first year of baseball at HC) until 1957. Former "bat girls," assistants to the teams of 1983-87 will be honored as well.

The theatre production "A Pack of Lies," by Hugh Whitmore, begins at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the auditorium. This cold war espionage story questions the morality of lying. Tickets are $4 for adults, $3 for children and senior citizens.

There will be a dance in the SUB cafeteria after the Saturday performance. Former and current students are welcome at the event. A disc jockey will play a variety of music beginning at 10 p.m. until 1 a.m.

Sunday at 2 p.m. the new residence halls will be dedicated. The event will take place in the foyer of the Ann Garrett Turner (women's) Residence Hall. Tours of both facilities will be available after the dedication ceremony.

A bonfire will be lit about 7:30 p.m. east of the tennis courts. The community is welcome to attend.

Monday includes several sporting events. A rodeo exhibition begins at 2 p.m. in the HC Rodeo Arena. The Lady Hawks basketball team will play the Ranger JC team beginning at 6 p.m. in the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. The Hawks will play the Ranger JC team at 8 p.m. in the coliseum.

Between games, the homecoming queen will be crowned, and the "sexy legs" winner — a male student — will be chosen by the crowd.

Parties battle for Ruby's gun

DALLAS (AP) — A legal squabble that dates back more than 20 years is set to go before a jury, as the warring parties attempt to settle the estate of Jack Ruby and decide who owns the gun used to kill Lee Harvey Oswald.

Today's trial in Dallas County probate court was called to determine distribution of Ruby's assets and consider a petition to remove Jules Mayer as executor. The most valuable asset by far is the gun that the late Dallas nightclub owner used to kill the accused assassin of President Kennedy in 1963.

Mayer, a lawyer who knew Jack Ruby, and Ruby's brother, Earl Ruby, have been waging a bitter, hard-fought legal skirmish in the nearly 24 years since Ruby died. This is at least the fifth time Earl Ruby has gone to court in unsuccessful attempts to unseat Mayer.

Jack Ruby, a small-time nightclub owner, was convicted of murder in 1964 and sentenced to death in the electric chair. An appeals court overturned the conviction in 1966, citing the failure to move the trial from Dallas, among other things.

New area code starts Nov. 4

DALLAS (AP) — Faced with an impending shortage of telephone numbers in North Texas, Southwestern Bell Telephone will activate its eighth new area code for the state beginning Sunday.

About 600,000 customers north and east of Dallas will be changed to the 904 area code. Dallas and nearby cities will remain 214.

Because some three-digit prefixes, such as 555, are reserved, there are about 7.9 million possible seven-digit phone numbers within each area code, Southwestern Bell spokesman Jim Patillo said.

Without the change, population growth in the current 214 area would have used up all available numbers by the end of 1991, he said.

The greatest impact will be to customers living along the Northeast Texas border in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Arkansas. These residents frequently call businesses and residences in North Texas, Patillo said.

Raging buck spooks surveyors

HOUSTON (AP) — A startled surveyor slit the throat of a raging buck known to locals as a mischievous beast who would creep behind people and chase them to their cars.

The buck attacked a three-man surveying team in a remote wooded area Friday, and one of the men, Ron Wheaton, slit his throat in self-defense, the men said.

The surveyors, who work for Inland Geophysical Services Inc. of Houston, were on assignment for an oil exploration company on private property near Beaumont when they were attacked.

"This big buck came out of the woods and walked right up to us," said Wheaton, 38. "He put his head down and charged Monty (Flake). But Monty got out of his way by stepping around some trees. Then the buck came after me."

The buck, which weighed more than 200 pounds, pitched Wheaton about 20 feet in the air and into a creek, said Flake, 34, who was the surveying team's supervisor.

"Every time I tried to get up," Wheaton said, "he would shove me back in the creek. This buck wasn't going to back down."

While the buck was busy with Wheaton, Flake said he managed to climb up a tree.

Both men were yelling for Anthony Robin, who was 200 yards away, but before he arrived the buck backed away from Wheaton, giving him time to climb a nearby tree.

Williams rally sparks debate

DALLAS (AP) — A political rally for Republican Clayton Williams briefly turned into an abortion debate when his supporters squared off with protesters backing Democrat Ann Richards.

Williams' appearance at a Young Republicans rally Sunday was preceded by a heated exchange between about 50 Richards supporters, who chanted pro-choice slogans, and advocates for Williams.

The protesters started chanting, "Not the church, not the state, women must decide their fate." They also carried placards saying, "Stop the joke about rapists," "Women don't service, cows service," and "Claytie won't debate."

About 15 people grabbed "Clayton Williams for Governor" signs and the two sides stood toe-to-toe, with the Richards supporters shouting "pro choice" while Williams supporters shouting "pro life." After about a minute they were separated by supporters from both sides.

Williams shrugged when asked about the protesters. "That's what comes with a free country," he said. "That's all right."

In San Antonio, thousands of community activists applauded Richards at a Sunday convention, where the absence of her Republican opponent drew some boos.

Williams declined to appear before the first state convention of the Texas Industrial Areas Foundation Network, a coalition of church-based community action groups.

However, he met with network leaders hours before the convention began.

Williams also promised in a letter to work with the network to improve housing, health care, job training and education.

Still, there were boos from the crowd when his absence was noted. And Richards said it was a mistake for Williams not to show up at the convention, where the network estimated attendance at 10,000.

"The fact that he wouldn't come, sure it poses problems for him," said Richards. She was among a number of Democratic and GOP statewide candidates who appeared.

"The public deserves to see a lot of us at every opportunity. It is ridiculous to think that you can hide from the people and serve as governor of Texas," Richards said.

The network does not endorse political candidates.

Williams had stumped in San Antonio earlier in the day, and he pressed Richards on her position about a state income tax.

Officials debate how to combat killer bee invasion

HOUSTON (AP) — The first U.S. invasion of killer bees has sparked debate over a project designed to slow the threatening swarms.

Critics say the joint U.S.-Mexican program, operated by the Animal Plant and Health Inspection Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, was a costly, ill-conceived venture that concentrated on trapping and killing Africanized bees as they advanced through Mexico.

"It didn't do anything, it didn't slow the bees down a drop — they're here," said Roger Morse, a honeybee expert and professor of agriculture at Cornell University. "All I know is, as far as I can see, the bees have moved roughly the same speed they moved through Central America."

USDA scientists defend the program, noting they set out 65,000 baited traps and destroyed approximately 23,000 swarms of African bees.

"We never said we were going to stop them," said Elba Quintero, who is now in charge of the USDA effort to trap and kill swarms of Africanized bees in South Texas.

The USDA has spent $6 million since September 1987 to operate the joint program with the Mexican agriculture ministry.

U.S. and Mexican officials placed the traps baited with a sex lure to track the bees, which have been moving slowly north since 1957, when they escaped from a breeding experiment in Brazil.

Killer bees earned their nickname because of their habit of attacking intruders in swarms and chasing their prey for long distances.

Beekeepers and farmers fear the killer bees will take over domestic hives and reduce honey production and pollination of important crops, crippling Texas' multi-billion agriculture industry.

Authorities in Harlingen earlier this month trapped the first of the Africanized killer bees that crossed into the United States from Mexico. Scientists believe they have turned back that invasion, but expect a new offensive in the spring.

In addition to the Mexico project, the USDA has 13 scientists in four honeybee labs around the country researching the Africanized bee.

The $1.4 million annual budget for these studies, conducted by the Agricultural Research Service of USDA, includes projects to quickly identify Africanized bees when they are captured; genetic research; development of chemical compounds to repel the bees; and a chemical eradication project for use in urban areas.

Fourteen government inspectors last week placed 112 baited traps, set in a two-mile circle around a tree where researchers caught and killed the advance guard of the killer bees.

Texas Instruments debuts new laptop

TEMPLE (AP) — Texas Instruments Inc. is joining its competitors by marketing a lightweight laptop computer featuring an increasingly popular microprocessor.

The new notebook-size computer, called Travelmate 3000, costs less than one with a similar chip announced two weeks ago by Compaq Computer Corp.

Texas Instruments said it would introduce the new laptop computer today.

The Texas Instruments machine has less memory than Compaq's LTE386S-20, but it's lighter at 5.7 pounds and has a bigger screen. In addition, the TI machine includes the DOS operating system, which costs extra on the Compaq model.

DOS is the operating system used on International Business Machines Corp. computers and compatible models. An operating system is the base layer of software that controls a computer's internal functions.

Dallas-based Texas Instruments will make the computer at its plant in Temple, about 130 miles south of Dallas. The company also announced production of new laser printers at the plant.

The brain of the new laptop, which will be available in November, is a less costly version of Intel's 386 microprocessor called the 386SX.

The computer measures 8.5 by 11 by 1.8 inches and has a 10-inch diagonal display and one floppy diskette drive. A unit with a 20-megabyte hard disk drive has a list price of $5,499, while one with a 40-megabyte hard disk drive lists for $5,999.

The comparable models made by Houston-based Compaq cost up to $6,999, and weigh 7.5 pounds. Epson America Inc. and the Grid division of Tandy Corp. also offer laptops based on the 386SX chip.

The Travelmate 3000 is the fourth laptop Texas Instruments has introduced since last November. The other three use an earlier Intel processor that doesn't compute as quickly.

The company in July introduced the Travelmate 2000, which weighs 4.4 pounds and has less memory.

The new laser printer, called microLaser XL, prints up to 16 pages per minute. Three models, priced from $3,449 to $4,499, are available.

The printer is built for IBM-compatible computers, but a $145 device will allow it to be used with Apple Computer Inc. machines.

Contract negotiators face deadline

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers union worked against a midnight deadline today in an effort to reach a new contract covering 63,000 employees.

Bargaining was said to be going slowly, and union and company officials said Sunday night that negotiations were likely to extend into tonight. Among the major issues hanging up the talks were pensions and health care.

Chrysler, the nation's No. 3 automaker, has been under pressure since the union on Friday gave notice that the contract extension under which it has been working since mid-September would expire tonight.

The union has scheduled a meeting of its 200-member Chrysler bargaining council for Thursday, during which the local presidents and bargaining committee chairmen could get an update on the talks, review a tentative agreement or discuss strike strategy.

Some crimes expected to increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crimes motivated by racial, religious and cultural prejudice are increasing and likely will escalate faster if the nation's economy continues to deteriorate, experts say.

"As economic conditions decline, the civility of society declines also," Jeffrey Ross, director of campus affairs for the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, told a conference of the Washington Journalism Center.

"At the very least things will get worse before they get better," he said.

Ross said the league received reports of anti-Semitic incidents on six college and university campuses in 1984 and the figure increased to 51 in 1989.

"Things seem to be heating up," he said.

Other experts at the conference agreed that incidents of bigotry are increasing.

Some attribute it to the pressure of competition for jobs among blacks, whites and other racial or religious groups.

"The increase in anti-Semitism is clearly related to an increase in bigotry in general on campus," Ross said. "You also have increased numbers of assaults upon blacks, upon Hispanics, upon Asians, upon gays and lesbians."

He said most of the anti-Semitic crimes were directed against property, whereas the assaults on gays and lesbians were against people.

Adele D. Terrell, acting executive director of the Baltimore-based National Institute Against Prejudice and Violence, said, "We don't know how much of it goes on."

CHECKING DAMAGED BRIDGE

OREGON INLET, N.C. (AP) — Tempers flared as tourists stranded on North Carolina's Outer Banks by a bridge collapse waited in a 600-car backup for ferry rides back to the mainland.

Volunteers eased the tension early today by handing out snacks and blankets to motorists waiting in the dark in 40-degree weather.

"People in the community have brought God knows how many sandwiches, and coffee and spiced tea and such," said Julia O'Neal, who works in the Ocracoke Island ferry office. "It means a lot when you've got something hot in your hand."

O'Neal declined to guess how many cars remained in line overnight; there were about 600 late Sunday.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — About 30 Ku Klux Klan members march towards the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., Sunday after walking from the Washington monument. Forty-three anti-Klan demonstrators were arrested for disorderly conduct and other infractions.

Large security force needed for KKK march

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of police officers provided security as a Ku Klux Klan march and rally drew about 30 robed and hooded members to the nation's capital. Forty-three counter-demonstrators were arrested and 14 people were injured.

The rally at the Capitol on Sunday was the second in as many months. More than 5,000 officers from three police departments prevented a few thousand counter-demonstrators from coming face-to-face with the Klansmen.

Six protesters were treated at a local hospital for minor injuries, according to local police.

Eight police officers were hurt, most suffering minor injuries in confrontations with the counter-demonstrators, said city police spokesman Sgt. Joe Gentile. A female officer suffered a serious neck injury when she was struck by a rock, according to Ed Wilson, another police spokesman.

Gentile said the Metropolitan Police arrested 40 demonstrators. Three others were held by the U.S. Capitol Police on charges of disorderly conduct, demonstrating after revocation of a permit and disobeying the orders of a police officer, said spokesman Dan Nichols.

"We knew this was going to happen," District Police Chief Isaac Fulwood Jr. said at a news conference afterward. Referring to a federal judge who rejected a city bid to restrict the march to a shorter path, he added, "We thought that the judge erred. I thought he used poor judgment."

Several officers struck counter-demonstrators with clubs, but Fulwood said he did not believe they used excessive force. None of the Klan members was hurt.

"K-K-K, we're here to stay," shouted the Klansmen as they marched the 11-block route from the Washington Monument to the Capitol.

Even before the march began, police dressed in riot gear along Constitution Avenue were pelted with bottles, cans and sticks by counter-demonstrators.

The counter-demonstrators chanted slogans including "Hey, get down, we're going to run the Klan out of town."

Virgil Griffin of Shelby, N.C., leader of the Christian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, said he was pleased with his group's success.

"We've done good," Griffin said.

He criticized police for not arresting counter-demonstrators who confronted police along the march route.

"They should have arrested the people making threats against the Klan," he said. "They would have arrested me if I made threats against the Communist Party."

Israeli Arab soldier found dead

JERUSALEM (AP) — An Israeli Arab soldier was found shot to death on a roadside, and Palestinians in the occupied lands observed a general strike today called by uprising leaders in memory of a 1956 massacre.

The strike kept tens of thousands of Palestinians away from jobs in Israel. It came only a day after Israel lifted a four-day closure of the occupied lands and hundreds of Arabs found they had been replaced in their jobs by Israelis.

The dead soldier was identified by a military spokesman as Cpl. Hareb Hatham, 19, of Beit Jann village in northern Israel, which is predominantly Druse. The Druse are a minority Arab sect that is loyal to Israel. Unlike most Israeli Arabs, their men serve in the armed forces.

Hatham was shot twice in the chest with an Israeli-made Galil rifle, army radio said.

He apparently dragged himself to the site where he was found by a truck driver at about midnight.

Soviet media is critical of Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet media have shelved their previous unswerving support for Cuba and are becoming downright irreverent in discussing the island's policies, its Marxist system and even Fidel Castro himself.

Although relations remain cordial at the official level, newly liberated Soviet reporters are feeling no compunction about saying what they think.

The latest and perhaps most notorious example touched on an area that has been sacrosanct for 30 years — Castro's personal life.

Komsomolskaya Pravda, a new wave, glasnost-era daily, said recently that Castro has 32 houses, a personal security contingent of 9,700 and five children by his "present wife." So far as the Cuban public knows, there has been no change in Castro's marital status since he was divorced 35 years ago. Such subjects are taboo in Cuba, and during the heyday of Soviet-Cuban relations, the Moscow press was respectful of Cuban sensitivities on the subject. But no longer.

Other examples of Soviet media deviationism:

• Disputing Cuban claims of a 2-million-ton shortfall this year in Soviet oil deliveries to Cuba, Komsomolskaya Pravda said in September the deficit was only 580,000 tons. The Cuban daily Granma called the allegation "lies."

• A letter published in the same Soviet publication also criticized the treatment given 250 Soviet children who were sent to Cuba after becoming ill from the 1986 Chernobyl nuclear accident.

Soviets, France sign agreement

RAMBOUILLET, France (AP) — Presidents Francois Mitterrand and Mikhail S. Gorbachev signed a cooperation agreement today pledging French assistance as the Soviet Union shifts to a market economy.

The treaty also commits France to helping the Soviets arrange accords with the 12-nation European Community.

The two leaders signed the agreement at the chateau of Rambouillet, 35 miles southwest of Paris, following private talks on issues including the Persian Gulf crisis.

Gorbachev arrived Sunday evening after a three-day visit to Spain, where he obtained $1.5 billion in guaranteed loans to help ease the Soviet Union's move away from a centralized economy.

This session had some accomplishments at last

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 101st Congress was wracked by ethics scandals and ridiculed for a budget process that seemingly wouldn't end. But by the time it was over, lawmakers managed to pass legislation that had eluded enactment for many years.

"People ought to take some hope from that process instead of dumping all over it," said House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash. "We have persevered on a hard, unpleasant, difficult process up to the very week before election."

In its final days before adjournment Sunday — during a time when all previous Congresses would have been home campaigning — the 101st Congress made its biggest accomplishments:

• A huge tax hike and spending cut package which, combined with spending restraint, promises to reduce the federal deficit nearly $500 billion over the next five years.

• A child care package including a new grant program and increased tax credits for low-income families with children.

• The first overhaul of the federal clean air law in 13 years, which would require new pollution controls on automobiles, factories and utilities.

• The first major revision of the nation's immigration system in 25 years, providing more visas for families and those with special job skills.

• Passage of all 13 of the annual spending bills for federal agencies, none of which was completed by the Oct. 1 deadline. In a major reversal from the Reagan years, defense spending will be heading down over the next five years while domestic spending increases.

• A five-year farm bill designed to contain costs and address environmental concerns.

Congressional leaders held multiple news conferences during the weekend to boast about those accomplishments and others. They acknowledged some legislative failures — no major bills on crime, education, health care or campaign reform.

But what really marked the 101st Congress was the ugly political infighting and the ethics scandals.

Facts for the tax debate

A few facts for the tax debate:
 Taxing the rich is a good idea. Taxing the poor makes little sense because the poor don't have any money. If they had money, they wouldn't be poor.
 Republicans who cry out against "class warfare" are not against class warfare when it involves the middle class being forced by law to subsidize the rich. They oppose warfare (or even unpleasantness) against their own class because it might result in losing a few bucks.
 Raising the income tax will not remove the motivation to be rich. As Sophie Tucker put it, "rich is better," no matter what the tax rate. The worst thing higher upper-bracket taxes might do is convince financial wheeler-dealers and lawyers to work a little less hard, a blessing to every life form on this planet.
 Interest on the national debt is the fastest growing "entitlement program" in the budget. It is money we bale up and ship off to international bankers to pay for the phony prosperity of the days when it was "morning in America."
 If we don't do something soon, there won't be any arguments over guns vs. butter. There will be none of either. Our money will go straight to our creditors, like a family with 100 credit cards, all past due.

Philadelphia Daily News

Economy under siege

Inflation is a lot like flu. Even when it's not around, there's a feeling that it's lurking somewhere, just waiting for an opportunity to strike again.
 For two months now the cost of living has risen sharply. If the situation worsens we could return to the days of double-digit inflation.
 Usually inflation can be blamed on a number of factors. But its recent upsurge could largely be attributed to one single villain — Saddam Hussein. The inflation spurt was caused largely by the jump in the price of oil, which was precipitated by Saddam's invasion of Kuwait.
 The future does not look promising. Still, we have blundered our way through other messes. The U.S. economy is under siege, but it is still a very tough customer. At this point, we can still keep our fingers crossed and hope for the best.

Las Cruces (N.M.) Sun-News

Seniors getting more

The government is in deep money trouble and the economy is headed for the basement. So what does the United States do? It raises the payments it makes to 40 million people getting Social Security checks, whether they need the extra cash or not.
 The boost in benefits was automatic. At 5.4 percent, it's the biggest in more than eight years. The increase is determined by the rate of inflation. The worse inflation gets, the bigger the increase. That's good for those getting checks. It's bad for those paying the bill.
 Social Security already takes more than 15 percent of the pay of working Americans.
 Many people getting Social Security checks are well off and don't need the money. But of course they take it. They're entitled to it by law. They paid into the system when they were working, and now they're entitled to whatever they get, whether they need it or not.
 While this is going on, our government is trying to decide on how much more each of us gets to pay in taxes to cover the uncontrolled spending of the federal government.
 There's something perverse about a government that wants to raise taxes when it already takes from the earnings of struggling young people so that it can give more money to everyone over 65, even those whose hefty incomes allow them to enjoy their senior years without money worries at all.

Albany (Ore.) Democrat-Herald

Restrictions needed

Capitalism is a great tool for human progress, but Germany is proving that the free market is too free.
 German companies have been prime contributors to Iraq's military complex, including its abilities to manufacture and deliver chemical weapons and its progress toward building nuclear weapons. The German government needs to step in and bring those merchants of death to heel.
 But we can't be smug or self-righteous about this issue. The United States supported Iraq in its long war against Iran, overlooked its use of chemical weapons, and urged other Arab nations to help finance Iraq. And our nation has supported terrorism that suits our national purposes and profited handsomely by weapons sales that aid our balance-of-trade deficit problem.
 The lesson here is that the free market has limits. Governments need to place sensible restrictions on death merchants.

The Rapid City (S.D.) Journal

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Obscenity: The larger issue

By James J. Kilpatrick
 WASHINGTON — In Florida a jury has acquitted members of 2 Live Crew. In Cincinnati a jury in effect has acquitted the late Robert Mapplethorpe. The people have addressed the conflict between public morals and artistic freedom, and freedom has won. Permit me a faint and barely audible hooray.

The rap group known as 2 Live Crew is a band of smart-alecky children who have just discovered dirty words. Beyond the rhyming of cat and bat, they have no discernible talent. Forget them. As for Mapplethorpe, not even Sen. Jesse Helms challenged his right to produce photographs of perverted sexual acts. What infuriated Helms and me and many others was that our tax funds were being spent on junk.

These individual controversies have become a bore. They obscure much more important issues involving the role of the federal government in subsidizing "artists." It disputes stir up so much dust that larger questions of public policy rarely are seen at all.

Let me advance two postulates:
 (1) The federal government has no business in the arts business;
 (2) the government has no business in a hundred other things either.

James J. Kilpatrick

In its annual report for 1988, the National Endowment for the Arts routinely listed the grants it had made during that fiscal year. In the field of music, this is where our tax money went:

To Sarina B. Bacheitner, New York, $2,500 to support intensive one-on-one study with pianist Joanne Brackeen; to Zachary B. Brown, Brooklyn, N.Y., $5,000 to support intensive one-on-one study with percussionist Warren Smith; to Ira N. Coleman, New York, $5,400 to support intensive one-on-one study with bassist Dave Holland.

The NEA made 10 grants ranging from $12,500 to $17,500 to would-be playwrights. Teri J. Edelstein, South Hadley, Mass., received $10,830 "to support travel to London to complete a study of the paintings of Edward Penny." Judi H. Freeman of Los Angeles won $8,550 "to support travel to France to study museum and gallery collections." Susan T. Goodman of New York received $10,000 "to support travel to Israel in order to gain greater knowledge of Israeli art." A grant of $20,000 went to Edmund L. Keeley of Princeton, N.J., "to support the translation from Greek of a selection of Yannis Ritsos' poems based on ancient Greek sources." And so on.

In the name of the founding fathers, how did such outlays get to be the business of the federal government? Congress has no authority to spend our money in this arbitrary and capricious fashion. The individual grants bear no relationship whatever to the general welfare. It is the old problem of not being able to see the forest for the trees. By wasting too much attention on a handful of NEA grants, we lose sight of the constitutional principle that is being violated.

In a trillion-dollar budget, the NEA grants are nickels and dimes. The outlays are small; the principle is large. How can Congress justify grants to individual towns for construction of sewerage? Surely the building of local sewers is a local responsibility. Let us inquire into the constitutional authority for the endless time-wasting seminars and conferences sponsored by the Department of Education. The federal budget teems with appropriations that rest upon a flimsy basis or on no basis at all.

It is this failure to recognize constitutional restraints that leads directly to the fiscal mess we are in. Congress operates on the airy assumption that its powers are unlimited. Anything goes. In the closing hours of this session, Congress voted for a study of jazz, for a study of Acadian culture in the state of Maine, for the protection of fish in the Corejos River of Colorado and for the establishment of a Japanese-American museum. Bills were flying to enactment faster than reporters could keep up with them. And in the midst of this blizzard of activity, members were still arguing over ways to prevent the NEA from subsidizing dirty pictures. Sometimes one despairs.

The dirty pictures matter and the dirty "rap" sessions matter, for they contribute to the steady erosion of old values of modesty, taste and sheer decency, but they don't matter greatly. No one has to listen to 2 Live Crew or look at Mapplethorpe's photographs.

What matters, and matters deeply, is the casual irresponsibility of Congress in spending our money on programs not sanctioned by our Constitution. If today's topic is obscenity, look no farther than Capitol Hill. Now, that's obscene.

Can scholars fill the void?

By Lewis Grizzard
 ATHENS, GA. — I introduced myself to the studious-looking, bespectacled young man coming out of class on the University of Georgia campus the other morning.

I had remained in Athens after attending Saturday's Ole Miss-Georgia football game, which Georgia lost.

Many Bulldog fans are despondent because of Georgia's current 3-3 record, and the fact the Bulldogs have fallen from the circle of college football's elite.

Some of the football problems can be directly attributed to the fact that the university administration, led by President Charles Knapp and many forward-thinking members of the faculty, have determined Georgia should upgrade its academics and become, as one faculty source told me, "Harvard on the Oconee." (The reference is to the Oconee River, which flows through Athens, and was once the site of many a spirited rowing match, until after the Jan Kemp trial when all the Bulldog oarsmen flunked out of school.)

Increased academic requirements of athletes, more stringent than most of its competitors, also have cost the football team its defensive line. There's also a rumor another player is in academic hot water for being caught gazing out a window during his botany professor's brilliant lecture on stamens and pistils. (Not the rock group of the same name.)

So what I was doing introducing myself to the young man was trying to find a brilliant student who would make Georgia football fans forget we don't have a quarterback or a defense, but at least we could be proud of academic achievement instead.

The young man said he was Arnold Snedgemeyer, III, of the West Paces Ferry Snedgemeyers of Atlanta.

"So how did you do in class today?" I asked him.

"Aced my history test," he said. "How 'bout them Dawgs!" I yelled.

"Pul-leeze," the young man replied. "Besides, for someone who made a perfect score on his SAT, it was a piece of cake."

"With a perfect score on your SAT you could have gone anywhere to college. Why did you choose Georgia?"

"Certainly I wouldn't have back when Georgia was allowing all those public school ninnies from those atrocious little towns outside Atlanta to enroll. Dad would never have stood for it," Arnold explained.

"So," I went on, "you don't think students who don't have your brainpower should be admitted to their state university?"

"What? And have we gifted be guilty by association? That's absurd. Where did you go to school, Auburn?"

"As a matter of fact," I said, "I'm a Georgia graduate."

"No doubt you were here in the Dark Ages," sneered Arnold.

"Well, I must admit I didn't make exactly a perfect score on my SAT," I said.

"That much I presumed," Arnold sneered once more.

"Arnold," I pressed on, ignoring his elitist remarks, "how big are you?"

"I'm 5-8, 130, without my glasses. Why do you ask?"

"Well, when we used to sign a good football player the fans always wanted to know his size. I guess I'm just reminiscing."

"Whatever, Old Sport," said Arnold. "I'm off to chemistry. Big test today. Au revoir."

Before I left the campus I walked back and gazed at Sanford Stadium where once we cheered for Stanfill and Belue and Walker and Scott and Johnson and Ol' Moopie Wilson and Cowboy Parrish.

But now, I suppose, we must look to the Arnold Snedgemeyers to fill their void.

Is it any wonder, then, there was a bumpersticker at Saturday's game that read "We've been 'Kemp-Knapped.'"

Charity golf tourney benefits D-FY-IT

A Charity Golf Scramble was held Saturday, Oct. 20, to benefit the D-FY-IT program at Big Spring High School. The event raised $1,452.34, which will be put into a certificate of deposit.

Scenic Mountain Medical Center, which is doing the drug screenings for the D-FY-IT program free of charge, planned the tournament to generate support for the program within the community.

"We feel fortunate to be able to make a contribution to the D-FY-IT program," said Ed Cunningham, hospital administrator. "It's a small price to pay for the betterment of our youth."

"I am most impressed with the fact that the students themselves initiated the program, instead of the parents or teachers," he added. "That is one reason we support D-FY-IT 100 percent. We felt, however, that more people should be made aware of what these students are trying to achieve. The idea of a charity tournament sprang to mind and we took it from there."

Several businesses in town that were unable to offer a D-FY-IT member discount were approached with the tournament idea. Fina Oil & Chemical Co., Pollard Chevrolet-Buick-Cadillac, Don's IGA, First National Bank, Spring City Do-It Center, Fiberflex Inc., and KBST all agreed to help sponsor the event with Scenic Mountain Medical Center. In addition, approximately 25 other businesses, made a contribution.

port," said Cunningham. "Based on the amount of money raised, we feel the tournament was a success. It generated public awareness and gained community support for D-FY-IT, and that was our objective. The hospital plans to make the charity tournament an annual event.

Senate incumbents have financial edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dozen Senate incumbents who face the voters in two weeks enjoy better than 9-to-1 fund-raising edges over opponents, according to a survey that indicates spending in a handful of Senate races has or likely will pass $10 million.

In addition to the 12 senators with the whopping fund-raising advantages, another nine incumbents up for re-election had raised at least double the amounts of their challengers. Common Cause said in one of its periodic analyses of campaign finances.

"When it comes to our political system, rich incumbents are getting richer, and poor challengers are getting poorer," Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer said Wednesday in a statement released with the survey.

Common Cause, which compiled the information from the latest campaign reports to the Federal Election Commission, said four Senate incumbents with no major party opposition this fall had at least $850,000 in their campaign coffers as of Sept. 30.

Increase in part-time jobs 'a danger signal'

By PAUL FURIGA
Herald Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — A new study by the Economic Policy Institute concludes that nearly five million Americans hold "dead-end, low-wage" jobs because they can't get full-time work. "Short Hours, Short Shift," economist Chris Tilly's extensive study of payroll data, demonstrates what he calls "a danger signal for the U.S. economy."

The study by the University of Lowell professor, released this morning, estimates that 19 million Americans, or 18 percent of the nation's work force, hold part-time jobs, usually at lower wages and with much poorer health and pension benefits than workers who hold full-time positions.

Tilly, currently a visiting professor in urban studies and planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, found that part-timers earned 40 percent less on average than their full-time counterparts and that one in six families supported by them lived below the poverty level, compared to one in 37 supported by full-time workers.

As well, Tilly reported that only 22 percent of part-time workers had employer-provided health insurance, compared to 78 percent of full-time workers, and 26 percent of part-time workers had employer-provided pension coverage, compared to almost 60 percent of full-timers.

"Most part-time jobs are low-wage and low-skill," he said, "and a flood of them has swept the United States since the early 1970s. The increase has not occurred because more workers want these jobs, but because more industries have been deliberately seeking to cut wage and benefit costs by shifting to part-time work schedules."

Between 1969 and 1988, according to Tilly, 72 percent of the new part-time jobs in the U.S. have been held by workers who would prefer full-time work but can't get it.

Jeff Faux, president of the institute that funded the Tilly study, said its findings demonstrate that "over the past year, the increase in the number of people working part-time involuntarily has equaled the rise in the number of people who are unemployed."

Tilly estimates that the 5 million Americans working part-time are the equivalent of an additional 2.5 million unemployed because their work is economically insecure.

Faux said he finds a looming danger in those statistics.

A mother's 'trip to Holland'

DEAR ABBY: Your column several months ago about Down syndrome children had a profound effect on me. I especially appreciated the piece "Welcome to Holland." As a mother who has raised three special-needs children — now adults — I resented that awesome responsibility to the point where I could no longer enjoy life. I wanted to be able to do the things with my husband that any other "empty nest," middle-aged couple did. Instead, I was cast in the role of a mother with adolescentlike children. It wasn't fair.

Their demands are small, but their love is enormous. These are the windmills, the tulips and the Rembrandts of Holland. I won't find them in Italy. Thank you, Abby, for sharing that wonderful piece with your readers. — JEANNE STARR IN MISSISSIPPI

DEAR JEANNE: I appreciate your kind words about the piece, and because October is Down Syndrome Awareness Month, I've been asked to run it annually. The author is Emily Pearl Kingsley. than Italy. But after you've been there for a while and you catch your breath, you look around, and you begin to notice that Holland has windmills, Holland has tulips, Holland even has Rembrandts.

"But everyone you know is busy coming and going from Italy, and they're all bragging about what a wonderful time they had there. And for the rest of your life, you will say, 'Yes, that's where I was supposed to go. That's what I had planned.'"

"The pain of that will never, ever, ever go away, because the loss of that dream is a very significant loss.

"But if you spend your life mourning the fact that you didn't get to Italy, you may never be free to enjoy the very special, the very lovely things about Holland."

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter from a woman who made her husband shave his chest. She must be screwy. And any man who would let his wife talk him into it must be screwy, too.

I have a very hairy chest, which I wouldn't shave for any amount of money. I sleep only in pajama bottoms, and my wife says she'd rather feel my hairy chest against her cheek than the collar of a mink coat. — HAIRY AND HAPPY

Sayles talks to Roxanne Pulitzer

By DEBBIE LINCECUM

Former Big Spring resident Ginie Polk Sayles, nationally-known "Marry the Rich" teacher and author, spoke with Roxanne Pulitzer on a national radio show while she was in Big Spring last week.

GINIE SAYLES

Sayles, known as Virginia Morris while she lived here, graduated from Big Spring High School in 1962. She was back in town to attend her induction ceremony for the Big Spring High School Hall of Fame.

While at her parents' home, she spoke live on the Florida-based radio show with Pulitzer, former wife of newspaper heir Peter Pulitzer.

Sayles said she and Roxanne

Pulitzer differed in their view of marrying the rich. Sayles wrote a book and teaches courses that help students discover the joys of marrying rich.

"Her viewpoint was, that you marry the rich and you lose your identity," Sayles said. "My position was that that's not how it has to be. You make that choice, even in a poor marriage."

Roxanne Pulitzer and her former husband went through a scandal-ridden divorce trial in 1982. Ms. Pulitzer lost custody of her children and received only a modest alimony.

Sayles said she and Pulitzer were "friendly" on the talk show about their differing views.

"I was really very supportive of her," she said. "I understand her view. But what I teach is that a person who tries too hard to please in the marriage is in a losing position."

Pulitzer's view of the situation comes out in her book, "Prize Pulitzer," about her troubled life as Peter Pulitzer's wife.

Sayles said her opinion is that, in any marriage, a person must value herself enough that she becomes the "strongest asset."

In Sayles' courses, she uses the slogan, "You should judge people by their hearts, not their money. But the rich are going to marry someone, why not you?"

Her husband Reed Sayles said he enjoyed visiting his wife's hometown. They left Monday for California, where Ginie is to tape an appearance for a television talk show. She said she would disclose details on the future appearance when she knew the show's air date.

Sayles wrote a book, "How to Win Pageants" that is reportedly used by beauty queens all over the world. She has appeared on numerous other shows to discuss marrying the rich, including "Donahue" and the Sally Jesse Raphael show.

Imported animals cause major problems in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia and New Zealand are cursing the introduction of rabbits, foxes, opossums and other foreign animals, which breed virtually unchecked because their natural predators were not brought along.

"New Zealand could be said to be facing a creeping ecological disaster with the impact of introduced species on our environment," said Philip Woollaston, its conservation minister.

"We have a long and inglorious history of introducing new and alien elements into our environment. Homesick settlers brought familiar plants and animals to a country that looked foreign to them."

"It has taken a long time for us to shake off the settler mentality of wanting to create a Southern Hemisphere European country."

Some alien species were assets. Sheep, cattle and various crops have become economic mainstays of both countries, but the lists of foreign pests are long.

New Zealand's includes goats, chamois, opossums, wasps and deer. Predators or parasites sometimes have been brought in as controls, but they often created new problems.

"Foxes were once thought to be the answer to the rabbit menace," Woollaston said. "Fortunately, they did not take hold in New Zealand as they have in Australia, where they have done terrible damage to indigenous fauna."

"Unfortunately, stoats and weasels, which also were introduced for rabbit control, have found New Zealand a very suitable habitat."

The opossum, introduced from Australia in the 19th century for its fur, now is the main threat in New Zealand. The government has declared war on the animal, which outnumbers the 3.1 million New Zealanders about 23 to 1.

Opossums devastate foliage in many forests and carry a form of tuberculosis that has infected other species, particularly cattle.

There has been little resistance to poison pellets intended to kill opossums, even though other animals also die.

Agriculture Minister Jim Sutton said New Zealand needs a major research project to find biological methods of wiping out the opossum through disease or sterility without harming other species.

"We have to do the research ourselves because this is a uniquely New Zealand problem," he said.

Sutton said opossums could withstand a death rate of 5 million a year without a permanent reduction of their numbers.

Margaret Evans, mayor of the North Island city of Hamilton, has suggested an opossum-hunting program to give jobs to the unemployed.

Foxes and rabbits were brought to Australia by Europeans to be bred for hunting. They now are blamed for contributing to the extinction of 18 marsupial species and threatening 30.

Victoria state alone has about 25 million rabbits. Officials estimate they cost the national wool and cattle industries $100 million a year, which does not include environmental damage.

Steve Crabb, the state's environment minister suggests marketing fox pelts as an "environmentally friendly" alternative to other furs.

While the rabbit destroys vegetation, the fox preys on birds, reptiles and farm animals.

"The fox did not co-evolve with our native wildlife, so these small animals have no defense mechanisms against it," said Clive Marks of the Keith Turnbull Research Institute. "We've never had a predator like the fox. It's a very efficient killing machine."

Australia has strict quarantine laws to keep out rabies and other animal diseases, and officials fear the fox as a carrier.

"Should we get rabies, our fox population would be the prime spreader of the disease," Marks said.

Introduction of fleas carrying the rabbit-specific myxoma virus reduced the number of rabbits for a time until they developed immunities. As with the opossum in New Zealand, the best hope for controlling Australia's rabbits and foxes lies in research.

Efforts are under way to genetically alter existing viruses so they will make the animals sterile.

Australia's only toad and was introduced from South America in 1935 to control the cane beetle and has been an ecological disaster.

How's that?

Q. When did cattle branding first begin?
 A. We know cattle branding was practiced at least 4,000 years ago. According to North American Precise Syndicate, Inc., old tomb paintings show Egyptians branding their cattle.

Calendar Meeting

TODAY
 • The B.S.H.S. Quarterback Club will meet at 7 p.m. in the B.S.H.S. library. The business meeting will be followed by Coach Thompson's video presentation of the previous week's game.

Budget

 of cars above $30,000; boats above $100,000; jewelry and furs above $10,000 and private planes above $250,000. A $40,000 car, for example, will face a luxury tax of $1,000.
 • TAX RATES: Raise to 31 percent the 28 percent top income tax rate paid by the 600,000 couples and individuals with the highest incomes. That will raise taxes on singles making more than about $125,000 a year and couples with incomes above the $200,000 range.
 • Cut to 31 percent the 33 percent rate that as many as 4 million upper-middle-income people pay on part of their earnings. This will reduce taxes for single people with incomes between about $60,000 and $125,000 and couples between about $100,000 and $200,000. However, other parts of the bill will take back that tax cut in most cases.
 • Raise from 21 percent to 24 percent the alternative minimum tax, which is paid by fewer than 100,000 high-income people with large amounts of deductions that otherwise could reduce tax liability to near zero.
 • CAPITAL GAINS: Tax profits from the sale of investments at a maximum rate of 28 percent. This will provide a break for those investors who pay a maximum rate of 33 percent. There is no deep across-the-board cut in capital gains taxes as President Bush has demanded.
 • ITEMIZED DEDUCTIONS: Reduce by 3 percent the value of certain itemized deductions that may be written off against adjusted gross income over $100,000. Only 97 percent of deductions will be allowed against the portion of income above $100,000; thus the allowable deduction will be reduced by $300 for each $10,000 of income above $100,000. The restriction will not apply to deductions for medical expenses, casualty losses or investment interest. The provision will affect about 2.5 million couples and individuals.
 • EXEMPTIONS: Reduce personal exemptions — which now are $2,050 for a taxpayer and each dependent — as adjusted gross income rises above $100,000 for a single person and $150,000 for a couple. This will raise taxes for people at those levels. The exemptions will be reduced by 2 percent for each $2,500 that income exceeds those thresholds. The exemptions will be lost once income tops $225,000 (single) or $275,000 (couple).
 • LOW-INCOME: Increase the earned-income tax credit, which benefits about 5 million low-income working families with children, as a way of offsetting some of the higher excise taxes.
 • MEDICARE TAXES: Increase to $125,000 the $51,300 maximum annual wage to which the 1.45 percent Medicare tax applies. This will affect about 8 million wage-earners. The tax is withheld as part of the Social Security tax and paid by employees and employers.
 • MEDICARE PREMIUMS: Raise the $28.60 monthly premium for Medicare Part B insurance to $29.90 next year and $46.20 by 1995.

Deaths

Bush mixes fun and work during island visit

HONOLULU (AP) — President Bush, noted for his devotion to the sporting life, did not miss the chance to make his two-night stay in the nation's island paradise into a rolling opportunity for fun.
 Sandwiched in with the more tedious business of political fundraising, conferring with Pacific island leaders and giving a foreign affairs speech, Bush managed two morning runs on Waikiki beach and two dips in the ocean, a catamaran cruise out of Honolulu Harbor and 18 holes of golf at Hickam Air Force Base before leaving Sunday for San Francisco.
 His dawn outings on the beach at the Hilton Hawaiian Village hotel attracted dozens of tourists, who tend to rise early in the balmy climate.
 On Saturday night, Bush gathered about 30 staff members, political supporters and ambassadors for a twilight cruise on a catamaran owned by his longtime supporter Fred Zeder, head of the Overseas Private Investment

HONOLULU, Hawaii — President Bush lifts a baby above the crowd Sunday following a speech before military personnel and federal employees at Hickam Air Force Base in Hawaii. The President told the crowd of thousands the U.S. was not looking for a war in the Persian Gulf but that the U.S. would not walk away.

Corp.
 Bush sported a splashy print Hawaiian shirt and told reporters that his attire was "getting very good reviews."
 He said he had come to the harbor fresh from telephone conversations with congressional leaders in Washington, who had finally toiled to a finish on the budget agreement that he has agreed to sign.
 "Everyone was very tired — but they're glad" to be done, he said.
 The boaters returned after dark, their cruise topped off by an offshore view of the shimmering Waikiki skyline in the background, and Bush headed off for dinner in an elegant restaurant.
 On Sunday, after his 6:30 a.m. swim in the ocean, Bush changed into his golf togs and headed out to Hickam's palm-tree dotted links by the sea.
 He invited two of the 11 Pacific Island leaders with whom he met on Saturday — Prime Minister Geoffrey Henry of the Cook Islands and Fiji Prime Minister Ratu Sir Kamisesa Mara.

 Others in the two groups of three were Bush's national security adviser and frequent golfing buddy, Brent Scowcroft, Zeder and the commander of U.S. Pacific operations, Adm. Huntington Hardisty.
 Rain began to fall about an hour after they teed off, and Bush's new partners learned that it takes more than rain to get him to come in off the course. In any event, the sun returned and they completed the 18 holes.
 It was unclear whether Henry got the chance to press again his public comments of Saturday, when he said the pool of good will islanders felt toward the United States had begun to dry up since World War II.
 He also spoke of a "gulf of misunderstanding and misinformation" on the issue of global warming, a matter of great concern to the islands because any rise in the ocean caused by fossil fuels warming the Earth's atmosphere would greatly affect their lives.

On the side

Archer wins Seniors golf

RANCHO MURIETA, Calif. (AP) — George Archer overcame a four-stroke deficit over the final 10 holes Sunday for a one-stroke victory over Dale Douglass in the Rancho Murieta Senior Gold Rush. Archer, in his fourth Senior Tour win of the year, finished with a 6-under 66 for a tournament-record 12-under 204 total. He earned $60,000. Douglass was at 205 and Charles Coody was third at 209.

Coleman signs fat contract

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Derrick Coleman, the NBA's No. 1 draft choice, signed a five-year contract Sunday with the New Jersey Nets that will pay at least $15 million. The NCAA's all-time leading rebounder from Syracuse missed training camp and said he won't be at full speed for two to three weeks. The first four years of the contract are reportedly guaranteed. The Nets have the option to pick up the fifth year.

Suns trade No. 1 choice to 76ers

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns traded first round draft pick Jayson Williams to the Philadelphia 76ers on Sunday for a first-round selection in the 1993 draft. Williams, a 6-foot-10 forward from St. John's, was the 21st player selected in the draft despite missing all but 13 games last season with a fractured right foot. The trade is contingent on Williams passing a physical and signing a contract, which the 76ers expect Monday.

Tark makes offer for reverse decision

CHICAGO (AP) — UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian offered to sit out the championship tournament, forfeit a personal stake of as much as $100,000 in playoff revenue and abstain from recruiting for a year if the NCAA reverses a ruling blocking the Runnin' Rebels from defending their national title. The offer was one of four alternatives Tarkanian and UNLV officials presented during a two-hour meeting Sunday with NCAA Infractions Committee, which capped a 13-year legal dogfight with UNLV in July by banning the Runnin' Rebels from the 1991 tournament. Each of the four alternatives was presented as mutually exclusive, in exchange for which Tarkanian promised to pursue no further litigation against the NCAA.

Becker win title against Edberg

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Second-seeded Boris Becker defeated top-ranked Stefan Edberg 6-4, 6-0, 6-3 in the final of the Stockholm Open on Sunday. Becker earned $137,450 for his fifth ATP Tour title of the year.

Empty tank costs Wallace

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Steve Grissom did his homework, and then he made Kenny Wallace pay the ultimate price for gasoline. "Late in the race I knew it was going to happen," Wallace said after dominating the 200-lap Busch Grand National portion of Sunday's Winston Classic, only to run out of gas with three laps left and hand the victory to Grissom. Wallace was one of several drivers who tried to go the entire 105.2 miles at Martinsville Speedway without pitting for gas. Grissom said he was thinking about doing the same thing as late as the day before the race on the .526-mile, low-banked oval. "We figured we could go," he said.

Cunningham bails out Eagles

IRVING (AP) — With 3:53 to play, injured Randall Cunningham was called upon to save not only a game but the season for the Philadelphia Eagles. He did so with a flourish.

"It was major gut check time" was the way Cunningham described the Eagles comeback 21-20 victory on Sunday over the Dallas Cowboys. "It ranked right up there with some of our best wins."

Cunningham, working against the clock with a bruised hand and knee, took the Eagles 85 yards in 13 plays with the payoff coming on a 10-yard touchdown pass to Calvin Williams with 44 seconds left.

On the classic drive, Cunningham passed for 66 yards and scrambled for 10 more for a first down.

"That's just a Randall Cunningham-type day," said offensive tackle Ron Heller. "That's just an average day for him. There's no limit what he can do."

Cunningham said there was no panic although the team realized that a fifth loss could severely damage the Eagles' playoff chances.

"We would have been 2-and-5 and you can figure that out, it wouldn't have been real good," said Philadelphia coach Buddy Ryan.

The Eagles, earning their first victory over an NFC Eastern Division foe in four tries, increased their record to 3-4 while the Dallas Cowboys dropped to 3-5 with their sixth straight loss to the Eagles.

Safety Wes Hopkins said, "A loss would have been devastating to us. It would have made us 0-4 in the division. I don't know that we would have recovered."

Cunningham, who also suffered a blow to the head during the game, said "I was close to coming out of the game because my knee hurt so bad. But I stuck it out."

Cornerback Issiac Holt's blocked punt set up Emmitt Smith's 3-yard touchdown run with 4:02 to go and gave Dallas a 20-14 lead.

HOUSTON — Philadelphia Eagles quarterback Randall Cunningham (12) is face masked by Dallas Cowboys defensive tackle Danny Noonan (73) after a pass play in fourth quarter action Sunday afternoon. No penalty was called on the play.

"It looked like the blocked punt was going to kill us, but Randall put together one heckuva drive."

Ryan said. "Dallas played a great game. We were very fortunate to pull it out at the end."

"That's the way we seem to do things. It was a big game for us and our season."

Mudd wins Nabisco

HOUSTON (AP) — Jodie Mudd thought he'd bought the farm when he hit one shot out of bounds and lodged another ball between a photographer's stomach and his belt.

Instead, Mudd is in position to buy the farm.

As the winner of the Nabisco Championships, Mudd has a portion of his $450,000 check earmarked for a 200-acre farm in Kentucky.

"My agent will be talking with them in a couple of days," he said, then considered: "But I guess if they were watching TV, the price might have gone up a little bit."

Neither of those errant, front-nine shots were shown on television. But viewers were treated to a putting clinic down the stretch as Mudd birdied the last two holes of regulation to catch Billy Mayfair, then won the biggest prize in American golf with a third consecutive birdie on the first playoff hole.

"I really didn't think I had that kind of game," said Mudd, who had won only three previous titles in a nine-year PGA Tour career. That includes the Players Championship earlier this year.

For Mayfair, a tour sophomore who has yet to win, it was his second playoff loss of the year.

Mayfair won $270,000 from the tournament purse of $2.5 million.

Greg Norman never really got untracked in the final round. He could do no better than a round of par 71 and tied for seventh at 279.

But he was a winner, too. Norman collected $82,250 from the tournament purse, along with $175,000 from a year-long bonus pool that concluded in this season-ending event.

It made him the money-winning champion of the season with $1,165,477. He also won a second consecutive Vardon Trophy as the leading scorer on the tour.

Wayne Levi, the only four-time winner on the American tour this season, came from a tie for 12th with a course-record 63 and tied for third at 276. That was worth $146,250 and made him the No. 2 money-winner. With $106,000 from the bonus pool, his total was $1,024,647.

Ian Baker-Finch, who chipped in for birdie on the 17th hole, had a 68 and was tied for third.

He was followed by Nick Price, 70-277, and Chip Beck, 70-278. Tim Simpson had a 70 and tied Norman for seventh at 279.

They entered the final round in a tie for the lead. But due to Mudd's peculiar adventures over the front, the steady Mayfair had a one-shot lead going to the 17th. And he birdied there, from about 15 feet. Mudd dropped a 10-footer in on top of him.

Mayfair could not answer Mudd's 20-foot birdie putt on the 18th and they were tied at 273, 11 under par. Each had a closing 68 on the Cypress Creek course at Champions.

ing for the 49ers' 15th consecutive victory, a 20-17 win over the Cleveland Browns.

After getting possession at the San Francisco 28, a pass interference penalty against Mike Sherrard pushed the 49ers back 10 yards before Montana got them going. Montana, who had completed four of 16 passes for 31 yards in the second half before the game-winning drive, connected with Sherrard for 35 yards to the Cleveland 41. He then ran twice for three yards each and hit Jerry Rice for a five-yard gain with nine seconds left.

"When you run out there and you've got a minute and 10 seconds left, enough of us have been here long enough to know we still had a chance, especially with our type of skill people." 49ers guard Harris Barton said. "We knew if we gave (Montana) time he could get something going."

Montana completed 17 of 37 passes for 185 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions. It was the second time since Oct. 24, 1988, that he failed to complete 50 percent of his passes.

Mike Pagel, Cleveland's backup

HOUSTON — Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon (1) is sacked by New York Jets defensive end Dennis Boyd (90) in fourth quarter action at the Astrodome Sunday afternoon.

Houston's first half scoring came on field goals of 42 and 49 yards by kicker Teddy Garcia, subbing for Tony Zendejas, who suffered a broken leg in last week's game against New Orleans.

Moon rallied the Oilers to a 12-7 lead in the third quarter, climaxing a 92-yard drive with a 9-yard touchdown pass to Haywood Jeffries at 10:39.

Davis' touchdown fumble recovery was the first for the Jets since 1984 when Mark Gastineau scored on a fumble recovery against Kansas City.

Pat Leahy's 32-yard field goal with 44 seconds left in the game removed the threat of the Oilers winning by a field goal. Leahy has now converted 71 of his last 75 field goals inside the 40-yard line.

Moon completed 30 of 43 passes for 381 yards while O'Brien had more modest figures, finishing with 11 completions on 23 attempts for 142 yards.

The Jets sacked Moon five times for 39 yards in losses.

quarterback, threw for two touchdowns after replacing Bernie Kosar.

Giants 21, Redskins 10

The Giants won their sixth straight over Washington on two touchdown passes by Phil Simms and an interception return for a TD by Everson Walls. The victory gave the Giants a three-game lead over Washington in the NFC East.

With 6:51 left and New York leading 14-10, the Redskins had a second-and-goal at the 3. Stan

Humphries, who had 11 straight completions in the second half, threw for a wide-open Earnest Byner in the end zone, but the ball bounced off his shoulder and into the hands of Greg Jackson, the second of three interceptions thrown by Humphries.

"We have a three-game lead, and you should win the division with a three-game lead," linebacker Lawrence Taylor said. "We should win unless we do something stupid."

Virginia stays on top

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virginia remained No. 1 for the third straight week, while unbeaten but unimpressive Auburn fell from second to fourth in today's Associated Press college football poll.

The Cavaliers (7-0), who meet Georgia Tech in an Atlantic Coast Conference showdown Saturday, received 44 first-place votes and 1,462 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Virginia did not play last week.

Notre Dame (6-1) moved up one spot to second after beating Pittsburgh 31-22, and Nebraska (8-0) rose a notch to third after downing Iowa State 45-13. The Irish received six first-place votes and 1,380 points, while Nebraska got five first-place votes and 1,350 points.

Auburn (6-0-1) lost support after edging Mississippi State 17-16 on a blocked extra point with 2 1/2 minutes left. The Tigers got two first-place votes and 1,284 points — a drop of two first-place votes and 86 points from the previous week. Although Auburn is one of six and we don't plan on doing something stupid."

Bills 27, Patriots 10
Thurman Thomas rushed for 136 yards and a touchdown as Buffalo won its fifth straight. The Bills, who had rallied in the final period to win their previous three games, led 14-3 at halftime and 27-3 after scoring on three consecutive possessions in the third quarter.

The Patriots have lost five straight and are off to their worst start (1-6) since 1970.

Buffalo took a 14-0 lead on Don Smith's 1-yard dive in the first quarter and Thomas' 3-yard run midway through the second. In the third quarter, they got two 35-yard field goals by Scott Norwood and a 20-yard touchdown pass from Jim Kelly to Keith McKeller.

"Thomas had a very good game," said Kelly, who completed

14 of 20 passes for 208 yards and a touchdown. "The offensive line gave me time to throw."

Dolphins 27, Colts 7
Miami linebacker Cliff Odom, cut loose by Indianapolis last spring, recovered a fumble for a touchdown and made a hard but clean sideline tackle that knocked Colts quarterback Jack Trudeau out of the game. It was the fourth straight victory for Miami, its longest winning streak in five years.

Trudeau suffered a torn ligament in his right knee and rookie Jeff George went out with a bruised left knee late in the third quarter, leaving 40-year-old Joe Ferguson as the Colts' only healthy quarterback.

"Jack's a good friend of mine. I didn't want him to be hurt," Odom said. "It's unfortunate it happened. I hate for anybody to be hurt."

Liffort Hobley's interception on the final play of the third quarter set up Miami's final touchdown, a 2-yard run by Tony Paige. Earlier, Pete Stoyanovich kicked two field goals and Jim Jensen caught a 5-yard touchdown pass from Dan Marino, who hit 21 of 29 for 161 yards.

Falcons 38, Bengals 17
Deion Sanders returned a punt 79 yards for a touchdown. Scott Case set up two others with an interception and fumble recovery, Chris Miller hit Floyd Dixon with scoring passes of 3 and 11 yards and Steve Broussard ran 50 yards for a touchdown.

The victory was a measure of revenge for Atlanta coach Jerry Glanville and Mike Rozier, who were with Houston last year when Sam Wyche's Bengals rolled up a late-season 61-7 victory. Sanders' punt return early in the third quarter was the longest punt return in Atlanta history.

Wyche made a reference to Glanville's style of play after the game in which players got into a shoving match more than a dozen times. But no one was ejected and there were no penalties called.

"There were still some marginal hits," Wyche said. "I guess someone will have to be carried off on a stretcher before the league does anything about it."

Bears 31, Cardinals 21
Neal Anderson had a pair of 2-yard touchdown runs and Jim Harbaugh passed and ran for two other scores. Anderson has 10 of the Bears' 14 touchdowns this season.

Chicago led 28-0 in the first half before holding on for its third consecutive victory. Phoenix rallied behind Timm Rosenbach, who completed 18 of 30 passes for two touchdowns and a career-high 256 yards but was sacked four times.

Chargers 41, Bucs 10

Marion Butts had three touchdowns runs and San Diego intercepted four passes by Chris Chandler, who was substituting for the injured Vinny Testaverde. Tampa Bay committed seven turnovers, helping San Diego to its highest point total of the season.

The Chargers won at home for the first time in four tries this season. Gill Byrd had two interceptions, pushing his career total to 30, a club record.

Lions 27, Saints 10
Detroit's defense made the difference as Jimmy Williams returned a fumble 53 yards for a touchdown and the Lions intercepted three of Steve Walsh's passes. Walsh also flubbed a handoff in the third quarter as New Orleans' first four possessions of the second half ended in turnovers.

New Orleans lost four fumbles and four interceptions and had eight penalties for 71 yards.

Robert Clark had six receptions for 127 yards and one touchdown for Detroit, which won despite getting just 10 yards on 12 carries from Barry Sanders.

Packers 24, Vikings 10
Minnesota, a preseason pick to at least make the playoffs, fell to 1-6 with its fifth successive defeat and sixth loss in the last seven meetings with Green Bay. The Packers intercepted five passes, including a 9-yard TD return by lineman Shawn Patterson.

Patterson jumped and deflected Rich Gannon's pass, caught the ball and ran into the end zone for a 17-3 lead with 44 seconds to go in the third quarter.

Children and crime

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — In the squalor of the city and the shadow of Vesuvius, part of a generation has been abandoned to crime. They are the children who act as lookouts, run drugs and sometimes carry guns for the Camorra, the Neapolitan crime organization. Lately, they also have been caught in the cross fire.

There is no firm estimate of their number, but deputy police chief Matteo Cinque says thousands of youngsters are involved with the Camorra in Naples and the dense belt of blighted towns around the port city.

It is a metropolitan area of more than 2 million people, a part of Italy unseen by tourists who board the ferries to Capri and Ischia.

Cinque says the children generally begin their criminal careers by snatching purses, then move up to cocaine dealing and armed robbery.

Their particular attraction for the cynical Camorra is that children under 16 are not liable to criminal prosecution.

Naples has long been plagued by crime, and children traditionally have helped their parents scratch a living from unlicensed cottage industries like glove making, or selling selling contraband cigarettes. The Camorra's roots can be traced to the early 1800s.

Prep bowl

Scenic Mountain Medical Center sent two teams of radiology students to the Permian Basin Radiologic Technology Society meeting's "prep bowl" recently. Students were questioned in five subject areas, including physics, patient care and management and radiographic technique.

There were two teams; members of the first team were: Misty Turner, Tere Barrier and John Vidlak, second year students. Second team members were Linsa Rodriguez and Sandy Hatfield, second year students; and Duncan Campbell, first year student.

The second team won $150 which will go to fund a trip to send students to the state meeting competition. Both teams will compete in February at the High Plains Society annual meeting in Amarillo.

Overall well-being is rare for students

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five percent of American children commonly attend drinking parties as early as the sixth grade and the figure increases to 61 percent by the time they are high school seniors, a survey released today showed.

The study, done by the Search Institute of Minneapolis for the Lutheran Brotherhood, said 31 percent of all students from the sixth through 12th grades frequently go to parties at which their peers drink.

The institute studied what it identified as 10 negative factors and 30 positive factors in overall well-being and found that only 10 percent of students met what it said were minimal standards.

Among negative factors, the study of 50,000 youths showed that 58 percent spent two or more hours a day at home without an adult, 40 percent watched television at least three hours a day and 7 percent reported that a parent had a serious problem with alcohol or drugs.

One child in 10 reported at least one incident of sexual abuse and 17 percent said they had been physically abused by an adult at least once.

The institute said 48 percent of the students surveyed placed "high importance on self-serving values," 21 percent felt under stress or pressure most or all of the time and 6 percent felt "a consistent lack of care, support and understanding."

Two percent of the students reported that most of their close friends were involved in chemical use, were in frequent trouble at school, or both.

The study found that a number of the positive factors declined substantially between the sixth and 12th grades. For instance, in interviews with students, school staff determined that 73 percent of sixth graders received "high levels of love and support" from their families. This dropped to 51 percent by the 12th grade. The overall figure was 56 percent.

About one student in four received help from parents at succeeding in school. The figure was 46 percent for sixth graders and 14 percent for high school seniors.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Katharine Hepburn says that getting old is "a bore" and that death will be a relief from reporters.

Asked if she fears death, the 83-year-old actress told People magazine in its Nov. 5 issue: "Not at all. Be a great relief. Then I wouldn't have to talk to you."

So why did she agree to an interview?

"Soon it will be too late, and I'd rather do this myself than have others do it after I'm dead. They never get things straight," she said.

Getting old, she said, is a "B-O-R-E," when you find you've begun to rot.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kirstie Alley says she's willing to pay the supermarket tabloids for the names of people who leak information to the reporters of Tinseltown.

"Those sleazeballs who write this crap are so slimy they'll gladly inform on their informants for money," the star of "Cheers" and the new movie "Sibling Rivalry" said in Sunday's The Tennessean.

"I'm about to get a list of the people at Paramount who are feeding them stuff. I'll make sure they won't work there again."

"No way will I dignify those people by suing them," she said. "I try to ignore everything, hoping people will realize what total lies they are telling."

Public to feel taxes' pinch

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON — The tax bill Congress passed this weekend will touch nearly every segment of the American public.

Most Americans will pay higher taxes, but on their purchases rather than on their earnings. The bite will be relatively light for all but the well-to-do. Those with incomes over $200,000 a year will see their federal tax liabilities rise by an average of 6.3 percent.

Many of the 70 million couples and individuals with incomes under $20,000 will get a slight tax cut, thanks to expansion of the earned-income credit for poorer, working families with children.

The National Taxpayers' Union, a nonpartisan organization that campaigns for lower taxes, estimated the bill will boost the taxes of a $30,000 household by an average of $109. The union, which figured all households in a certain income bracket, regardless of size, said a $40,000 household will pay $166 more. At $50,000, it will pay an extra $214; $70,000, $277 more; $100,000, $542 more, and households at the $225,000 level will face an average tax increase of $3,572.

- Here are major provisions:
- GASOLINE: Raise the 9-cent gasoline tax to 14 cents a gallon and the 15-cent diesel tax to 20 cents on Dec. 1. A motorist driving 10,000 miles a year in a car that gets 22 miles per gallon will pay about $23 more.
  - ALCOHOL: Double the beer tax to 32 cents a six-pack; raise the $12.50-a-gallon tax on 100-proof liquor by $1, or 20 cents a fifth; raise taxes on most wines, including table wine, which will go from 3 cents a 750-milliliter bottle to 21 cents.
  - TOBACCO: Raise the 16-cent

Murderer gets life sentence; deputy lauded

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

LUBBOCK — Convicted murderer Rita Nerios Arredondo, 39, received a life sentence for the Feb. 4 execution-style murder of Frank Villalobos. A 137th District Court jury deliberated almost four hours last Wednesday before sentencing Arredondo.

State evidence proved that the weapon used was a Raven pistol, according to Ronald Richardson, supervisor of ballistics at the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Austin.

Richardson testified that all 11 bullets found in Villalobos' body were .25-caliber, and that the bullets were fired from a Raven .25-caliber handgun. Investigators found a box containing several CCI .25-caliber shells and the empty box for that kind of gun in the locked glove compartment of Ms. Arredondo's car in Stanton.

Arredondo and sister Juanita Espinoza were both indicted for the murder in connection with the death of Villalobos. Espinoza has not yet been tried.

On Feb. 10, Martin County Deputy Sheriff John Castro read through the all-points bulletin right before he went on duty that afternoon. That night, as he was patrolling north of Stanton near State Highway 137 and Interstate 20, when he spotted a 1977 Oldsmobile sedan speeding north on highway 137. The vehicle matched the description listed on the APB bulletin.

"I got on (Highway) 137 to head after them. I caught up with the vehicle near the Baptist encampment north of Stanton. I'd say they were traveling at least 80 miles per hour. When the license plate proved to be the right vehicle, I knew I had the right person," Castro said.

He added: "I pulled the car over about a quarter-mile west on (State Highway 176). They did everything I told them to do. The report stated that there would be five children and two adults. The children was my main concern at that time. I was very worried about the children's safety in case something went wrong."

Assisting Castro, who called for back up was another MC sheriff's deputy and a Texas Department of Public Safety trooper. The children belonged to Arredondo.

The other adult in the car with the suspect was Danny Martinez, an acquaintance of Arredondo who was not considered a suspect in the Villalobos murder, according to Lubbock detective Randy McGuire.

Arredondo and Martinez were

Demos blitz for minority voters

By WENDY BENJAMINSON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON — Democratic candidates want blacks and Hispanics to remember President Bush's veto of the civil rights bill and put their party over the top in the increasingly tight statewide races.

In a last-minute blitz through black churches and Hispanic rallies this weekend, Democrats repeated their theme that the GOP is the party that favors the rich and the white. "Remember what the other party did to us in the 1980s. Remember what the president did with the civil rights bill," said Morris Overstreet, campaigning Sunday for a seat on the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Bush vetoed a civil rights bill last week, saying it would force business owners into a quota system for hiring and firing employees.

"The theme these last nine days is 'Remember in November,'" said Overstreet.

Overstreet, who could become the first black to hold a statewide office in Texas, appeared with Democratic attorney general candidate Dan Morales, Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower, and a dozen other state and local candidates at church near downtown Houston.

The candidates planned a tour of about 30 black churches to encourage blacks to vote for Democrats.

With the latest polls showing Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ann Richards even with Republican rival Clayton Williams, Democratic officials have said they hope a last-minute get-out-the-vote campaign will encourage blacks and Hispanics to turn out and carry the Democratic ticket to

France orders diplomats out of Kuwaiti embassy

By ANDREA HAMILTON
Associated Press Writer

France said today its diplomats have been ordered to quit their besieged embassy in Kuwait and return home with 300 French hostages being freed by Iraq.

French Foreign Ministry spokesman Daniel Bernard said the half-dozen diplomats would leave Kuwait with about 70 French citizens aboard an Iraqi Airways 747. The plane was to fly to Baghdad and pick up other French hostages and 10 Greek nationals before heading to Paris.

President Francois Mitterrand of France cautioned against celebration as long as hundreds of Westerners remain captive in Iraq and Kuwait.

"I express the joy of all the French people to those coming home," Mitterrand said. "But we will rejoice fully only when the other hostages can return to their own countries."

Mitterrand spoke at a news conference outside Paris with Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev after the signing of a Franco-Soviet cooperation treaty.

Gorbachev said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein should not expect a split in the international alliance opposed to Iraq's Aug. 2 seizure of Kuwait.

"We must not permit the Iraqi regime to hope there will be a division, a weakening of positions," Gorbachev said. He called Iraq's use of hostages "amoral."

The Soviet leader urged sanctions against Iraq be stepped up and said the time was right for Arab nations to embark on a new initiative to resolve the crisis, possibly under Saudi leadership.

"It seems to me that the Iraqis could be ready for this," Gorbachev said. "If we were to have an inter-Arab meeting, this would be the quickest way to a settlement."

Gorbachev said he had received a telegram from his envoy, Yevgeny Primakov, indicating after a visit to Baghdad and a meeting with Saddam that there were some shifts in Saddam's positions. The Soviet leader did not elaborate. Earlier, the Soviet foreign minister said Primakov's talks were cause for "little reason for optimism."

Saddam is holding hundreds of foreigners as "human shields" at strategic sites in Iraq to deter possible attack. Although he has allowed selected groups of the thousands of foreigners to leave, many others are being held.

European Community leaders meeting in Rome pledged not to send representatives to try to win freedom for hostages held in Iraq and occupied Kuwait, reasoning that to do so would only support Saddam's efforts to try to divide the alliance arrayed against him.

The decision followed a trip to Baghdad by former British Prime Minister Edward Heath, who helped secure the release of more than 30 British hostages.

France, the United States and Britain have been the only Western countries to maintain embassies in Kuwait since Iraq overran the emirate. In August, Iraq cut off water and electricity to all embassies that defied its orders to close.

France had been considering withdrawing its diplomats from Kuwait for several weeks because of the extremely arduous living conditions under Iraqi occupation. It refrained from doing so to allow the diplomats to support the French hostages in Kuwait.

Bernard, the French Foreign Ministry spokesman, confirmed that France will honor Iraq's demand to fill the plane with medicine for the return flight.

Watchdog challenges waste industry

By MATT FLORES
Dallas Times Herald

WILMER, Texas — Listening to Lorrie Cotterill talk garbage is like listening to a preacher's most intense fire-and-brimstone sermon.

For more than five years, she has given the waste industry fits as it sought to build or expand landfills in southern Dallas County. Preaching an environmental gospel, she has galvanized her low-income neighbors into action and slowed the flow of trash into their world.

"The way I feel about it is that it's like a religion," says the 34-year-old homemaker and mother of four. "God put us here to be stewards of the land. We are just as guilty as the polluters if we don't try to stop them."

She has used such talk in scores of appearances at hearings before state panels, spending thousands of her own dollars and thousands more hours of her time.

Two of her biggest victories have come in the past two months: persuading state health officials to oppose expansion of landfills in Ferris and Hutchins. In both cases, the officials' opposition is likely to delay or kill the projects.

She also complained to the Texas Water Commission about the Pleasant Run Road landfill, into which Dallas-based Dal-Tile had been dumping toxic waste. The commission arrested and taken to the Martin County jail, then were returned to Lubbock by Lubbock Police Department detectives.

 The children were released to the care of Arredondo's mother, according to Castro.
 Lubbock police reports state that Arredondo and his sister were together with Villalobos early Feb. 4.

The victim's body was found Feb. 6 alongside North Avenue Q near FM 2641. The state alleged during the trial that the women killed Villalobos as revenge for the killing of their nephew, Cosme "Rambo" Rosales III, 22, after his body was found in a Lubbock vacant lot Oct. 5, 1989.

Lubbock District Attorney Ken Hawk, expressed his gratitude to Castro's handling of the evidence.
 "(Castro) handled the situation in a very professional manner. From the booking of the suspects, keeping everything under control and going smoothly to the collecting of all the evidence, keeping it all legal. Without the kind of cooperation from officers in this area, who knows, we might not have had this kind of success in putting Arredondo behind bars," Hawk said.
 He added, "Martin County is very fortunate to have Castro patrolling your area. He helped make this case. He is very alert and handles any situation with the utmost care that everything is done according to law."

Usually, Hawk said, a suspect without a felony record will in most cases get probation in a case like this. "But this woman killed the victim by execution, without ever acknowledging she had done anything wrong. Ms. Arredondo testified that she shot Villalobos six times and that her sister shot him five times," Hawk said.
 "Cold, unfeeling, cold-blooded... never shed a tear," Prosecutor Travis Ware said, describing Arredondo. Ware also told the jury that any probated sentence would result in a surge of revenge killings in Lubbock County.

The defense attorney for Ms. Arredondo pleaded during the proceedings that she needed probation. "I needed her to be put back in her family, provided that she abides by the terms of her probation. The defendant has seven children, including one grown child and six that still lived with her."

Banks sending USDA bill for guaranteed loans

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Private banks have begun asking the Agriculture Department to make good on $2 billion worth of credit guarantees for the sale of wheat, rice and other commodities to Iraq.

Not all of the $2 billion is coming due at once, however. The loans are spread out, some of them running through 1995 or later.

The guarantees mostly involve two "export credit" programs called GSM-102 and GSM-103 that are operated by USDA to boost sales of farm products to selected overseas buyers.

Unlike concessional or long-term programs such as Food for Peace,

Farm scene

these are for shorter periods involving commercial loans underwritten by private banks.

The GSM-102 program provides credit and repayment over six months to three years. A wide variety of U.S. farm products are exported to dozens of foreign countries with these arrangements.

Under GSM-103, an intermediate program, loans can run from three to 10 years and focus on products with longer economic lifetimes, such as breeding livestock.

The programs are backed up by the department's Commodity Credit Corp. and are administered by the Foreign Agricultural Service. The CCC also is the financing agency for all federal commodity support programs.

No money is lent directly by the department. Once a country is approved for the guarantee, private lenders and exporters work out a plan with the foreign buyer, subject to USDA approval.

Larry McElvain, director of CCC operations for the Foreign Agricultural Service, said claims "are coming in now every day" from lenders who want their payments for grain sold to Iraq.

No estimate of the number of credit guarantee claims or amounts was readily available.

"What you want to understand about the claims is that we don't just pay out the $2 billion all at once," he said. "That is because (lenders) can't file a claim until it comes due."

Iraq had been buying U.S. farm commodities with credit guarantees since 1983 and had "an excellent" record of repayment, McElvain said.

"There has never been a claim filed or paid on Iraq until this situation here," he said.
 "This situation" began Aug. 2 when Iraq invaded Kuwait. As a result, President Bush severed all trade with Baghdad, including further credit sales of farm commodities.

The annual credit line under the guarantee program was at a peak of slightly more than $1 billion in fiscal 1989. For 1990, the year that ended Sept. 30, Iraq had been cleared for $500 million, with another $500 million available, subject to further review.

WASHINGTON — Moderately strong demand for high-protein meal and vegetable oil is helping bolster soybean prices this season, according to Agriculture Department analysts.

 sion's executive director since has recommended a $2 million fine against the company.

Richard Gooding, a retired gunsmith who lives in Hutchins, credits Mrs. Cotterill for organizing an effort against the proposed expansion of the Browning-Ferris Industries landfill near him.

"She really brought the seriousness of the situation to my attention," Gooding said. "She was definitely the motivating force behind getting the residents to oppose it."

State officials and opponents acknowledge her as a formidable player in the trash game, though they wouldn't comment on her style. But it's clear she's ruffled some waste company feathers.

At a July hearing on expansion of the Browning-Ferris landfill, an attorney for the company asked that Mrs. Cotterill be barred from entering the dump site without authorization.

During the proceeding, she admitted to coming into the compound to take photographs. The hearing examiner later he said he did not have the authority to prohibit her from entering the landfill site.

State officials say she's earned respect by doing her homework.

"She's made a diligent effort to learn the system," said Wayne Lee, a health department branch chief. "I've seen her doing research here about once or twice a week for the past few months."

Mrs. Cotterill, a self-described "waste watchdog," lives in a modest Wilmer home, just east of Interstate 45 and near four landfills.

She said the turning point for her activism came when a now-defunct Dallas company was forced to suspend lead-waste dumping in west Dallas and later chose a site near Wilmer.

Her quest for information was met with impatient clerks and evasive company spokesmen, she said. But the more she learned, the more concerned she became.

"I read about chemicals like lead, chromium and cyanide, and said, 'Good grief, this is terrible!'" Mrs. Cotterill said. The revelations prompted her to organize Groups Allied to Stop Pollution, or GASP, which she co-founded.

In the past two years, Mrs. Cotterill said she has spent between $5,000 and $6,000 on travel and reports and official documents.

Her living room is littered with reports and official documents.

 victory.

On Saturday, Richards and other Democratic candidates campaigned before a breakfast of black ministers and at a Hispanic rally in Houston.

Candidates at the Wesley Chapel AME Church on Sunday stressed what they saw as pervasive racism in the Republican Party.

State Rep. Ron Wilson, running for re-election, noted an ad by Hightower's rival Rick Perry in which Hightower is shown with Jesse Jackson. The ad asks whether Hightower represents mainstream values.

"Rick Perry's ad sends a racist negative message," Wilson said. "He's trying to portray (Hightower) as a Negro-lover. That means they are the party of Negro-haters."

"I thought we were beyond that in Texas," Hightower said later of Perry's ad.

Harris County Democratic Chairman Ken Benson noted that U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, "flew back to Washington to cast the deciding vote to sustain the president's veto with David Duke looking down from the gallery."

David Duke, who recently lost a runoff for a Senate seat from Louisiana, was once a high-ranking member of the Ku Klux Klan.
