Rotary fajita dinner scheduled Friday

The Greater Big Spring Rotary Club is presenting a Fajita Dinner at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, East Room, Friday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. prior to the Big Spring Steers last regular season football game.

Tickets will be available at the door or from any Greater Big Spring Rotary Club member for $5, according to president-elect Phillip Welch. "This is something we've started this year. We decided to hold it the last home game of the high school football season."

Welch said the money received from the dinner will be used for the club's general projects and charitable contributions. "The fajitas are being cooked by Don's IGA, and they should be real good," Welch said from his office at Trinity Memorial Park. For further information, contact Phillip Welch at 267-8243.

Council nominates 911 board members

COAHOMA — The Coahoma City Council nominated Archie Archibald and Jane Gilmore to serve as board members for the 911 system. Archibald will be new to the board, while Gilmore is currently serving, according to City Clerk Ginger Metcalf.

In other business, at Tuesday night's Council meeting, several discussions were tabled, including the Pack Rat Trash Service and the fire department presentation due to the absence of key presenters. The monthly bills were approved for payment.

City Council members present were Gary Roberts, David Elmore, Melvin Dorn and Metcalf. Johnny Justice and Rob Etheridge were unable to attend the meeting.

State Hospital plans arts and crafts sale

The Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Council will sponsor the annual Christmas Art and Craft and Bake Sale Saturday, Nov. 17, at the Big Spring Mall. Money raised from the sale will be used to buy Christmas presents for the patients at the hospital.

"All the items are handmade, donated by volunteers. This is something very worthwhile and very worthy. These items are well made, so people get value for the money they donate," Evelyn Anderson, public information officer for the State Hospital, said.

Anyone interested in donating baked goods or hand-crafts, call Anderson at 267-8216, ext. 535.

U.S. jobs may be in jeopardy

(AP) — Challenged by congressional leaders over its new war footing, the Bush administration has begun to emphasize that American jobs could be at risk if Saddam Hussein is allowed to maintain his grip on Kuwait. "The economic lifeline of the industrial world runs from the (Persian) Gulf and we cannot permit a dictator such as this to sit astride that economic lifeline," Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Tuesday. "To bring it down to the level of the average American citizen, let me say that means jobs."

Baker suggested that a worldwide economic recession could result if Saddam is not checked and the security of gulf oil reserves ensured. He spoke after meeting in Bermuda with Canada's external affairs minister, Joe Clark, who voiced support for a U.S.-sponsored United Nations resolution authorizing the use of military force to drive Iraqi forces from Kuwait. More allied soldiers and hardware may be on their way to join the U.S. expeditionary force that has gathered in the Saudi desert as the chief challenger to Saddam.

The Times of London reported today that Britain is expected to send an additional 6,000 troops and more than 100 additional tanks to the gulf, increasing its ground forces there to 15,500 and its tanks to more than 220. The Bush administration has indicated that it will attack Iraqi forces to dislodge them from Kuwait, which Saddam seized on Aug. 2, if a U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Iraq and saber-rattling fail. That position is encountering resistance from some allies

Resolution approved opposing waste plan

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer
COAHOMA — The City Council here on Tuesday night became the seventh area government entity to officially oppose a proposed regional hazardous waste disposal operation in Mitchell County. At the request of Volunteers Organized to Implement a Clean Environment, three councilmembers present unanimously approved a resolution against the operation. The incinerator and landfill site would be about two miles west of the county line and about two miles south of Interstate 20. "Getting down to the nitty gritty, it's closer to me than it is to Colorado City," said Marilyn Read, one of 12 VOICE members present at the meeting. The resolution cites a belief of a "long-term health hazard" from "exposure to the incinerator emissions" and "eventual contamination of our water supply."

It also states, "We believe that the transportation of hazardous wastes through our community would bring the considerable and immediate dangers of toxic spills to our citizens and to our emergency workers." Signing the resolution was Mayor Eleanor Garrett, Mayor Pro-Tem Gary Roberts, Councilman Melvin Dorn and Councilman David Elmore. Not present were councilmembers Rob Etheridge and Johnny Justice. "I am not for the hazardous waste material. I don't think we need it," said Dorn, who made the motion to pass the resolution. Elmore, who seconded the motion, said he has tried to find out all the facts he can and did not want to make a hasty decision. "But I believe the time has come to make a decision," he said. "I think my decision has been made."

Jo Weeks, left, visiting the new location of Rape Crisis/Victim Services, speaks with board member Mary Louise Traczyk and agency director Lisa Brooks Tuesday. The local non-profit organization had a housewarming event at its new home. The center does not disclose its location in order to protect its clients. RC/VIS officials said they would appreciate donations of office supplies, games for kids and construction materials.

Motion to support code amendments fails in council vote

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer
At Tuesday's City Council meeting, members did not reaffirm their support for the proposed amendments to the Texas Local Government Code drafted by the Texas Municipal League. Amid much discussion and input from city officials, employees and councilmembers, a motion to support the amendments failed in a 3-2 vote. Member Gail Earls abstained, and Corky Harris was absent. A council vote requires four "yes" votes to pass.

"The amendments do affect other municipalities. Here in the city of Big Spring, I know of no problems (with working under the code.)" Frank Anderson (are) threatening management... and the citizens of Big Spring." Brown said he had not intended to threaten anyone and apologized for "ruffled feathers" his letter may have caused. "It seems to me like we are having a management-labor problem right now with communication," he said. Fire Chief Frank Anderson, speaking to the council, said he would be able to deal with changes to the code, but could manage also if it were left as is. "The amendments do affect other municipalities," he said. "Here in the city of Big Spring, I know of no problems (with working under the code.)" Anderson commended the work of city firefighters. He noted that, contrary to recommended practice, local firefighters work with only two men per truck. In a statement released today, Brown said Anderson's talk "showed the barrier between labor and management can be broken."

Members Tim Blackshear, Sidney Clark and Max Green expressed their dissatisfaction with a letter they received from the firemen after the initial vote to support the amendments Oct. 23. "I take offense to this letter," Blackshear said. "I don't feel like we're creating 'political turmoil' anymore than someone who writes a letter like this. It's uncalled for." Green said the wording of the letter seemed like a threat. The letter says, "By creating political turmoil locally, only creates undue stress among those of us who serve the public." "If I don't vote against these amendments," Green said, "you and the firefighters are going to go out and create political turmoil. I feel like you and your organization

Cancer group asks citizens to leave the pack behind

The Great American Smokeout, November 15

By BILL AYRES City Editor
Big Spring volunteers with the American Cancer Society will join thousands of their counterparts Thursday to encourage smokers to "Leave the Pack Behind" during the Society's 14th annual Great American Smokeout November 15. Local volunteer Lisa Brooks stated that several Big Spring businesses will join the effort this year. "The managers at Don's IGA, Don's Fiesta and the Furr's Supermarkets at College Park and 11th Place have agreed to display posters, buttons and stickers promoting the Smokeout. Plus they will discourage in-store smoking that day," she said. To kick the event off, Big Spring Mayor Max Green issued a proclamation at Tuesday's city council meeting designating Thursday as "Smokeout Day in Big Spring". American Cancer Society Big Spring Chapter president Linda Elrod was present to accept the proclamation. Brooks added that Scenic Mountain Medical Center's Respiratory Therapy department will offer free lung capacity tests from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The results will be given to the individuals so they can have their private physicians evaluate the findings. She added that small T-shirts proclaiming "Born a non-smoker" will be given to the parents of any children born at Scenic Mountain Thursday. Dr. Jim Shelton said the VA Medical Center will ask all employees not to smoke in the hospital Thursday. He added that designated smoking areas will be available outside the building. In addition, the Chief of Medicine will present a lecture concerning the dangers of smoking, and renewed emphasis will be placed on encouraging employees to join the hospital's smoking cessation program. Grocery stores will have displays of literature on how to help a friend quit, 31 tips for quitting and creating a smoke-free workplace. A few suggestions to help a friend quit for the day are:

● Make an extra effort to keep close contact by phone or in person to offer encouragement;
● Agree to give up something (like coffee) to show support;
● Remember to never nag, threaten or criticize;
● Send flowers or balloons during the day;
● At the end of the day, offer congratulations and encourage the smoker to try to quit for another day. For those smokers who decide to quit entirely, the American Cancer Society has 31 tips to help. They include:

● Throw out all cigarettes, clean out ashtrays and hide matches and lighters;
● Stay positive;
● Spread the word;
● Eat rather than smoke, but stick to low-calorie, high-nutritional foods, like fresh fruit;
● Scramble your day to break the habits connected with smoking;
● Keep your hands and mind busy; and
● Exercise to relieve tension. Events are scheduled nationally and state-wide to promote the Smokeout. This year the American Cancer Society, in conjunction with the International Apple Institute, will encourage smokers to go for the crunch in apples instead of tobacco. According to information supplied by the American Cancer Society, last year's Smokeout encouraged 10.5 percent of the nation's smokers — 5.2 million Americans — to quit for 24 hours. A Gallup poll, conducted three days later, indicated 3.9 million were still abstaining from the use of tobacco. The American Cancer Society estimates that smoking is responsible for 87 percent of lung cancer cases and is implicated in cancers of the mouth, pharynx, larynx, esophagus, pancreas, cervix and bladder. The Society warns that smokeless tobacco is not a safe alternative to smoking. People who are habitual smokeless tobacco users run the risk of oral cancer, decreased taste and smell and increased dental problems. In addition to the health hazard, the Society estimates that smoke-related diseases cost the economy $65 billion annually in health care

Smokers are urged to quit for one day during the Great American Smokeout.

Bad weather may delay launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — High winds threatened to delay Thursday's launch of Atlantis with a satellite that reportedly will spy on Iraq. "As long as there's a chance, we'll try," said NASA spokeswoman Lisa Malone said Tuesday. Meteorologists predicted a 30 percent chance of favorable weather for launch. Strong winds were expected between 6:30 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Thursday, when Atlantis is scheduled to blast off. The exact time is being kept secret. The Pentagon mission already is four months late because of hydrogen leaks in Atlantis and problems with the satellite.

Cannon explodes, injuring two

SOUTHLAKE (AP) — Cannons are made to be fired, five youths ranging in age from 12 to 18 apparently concluded. But a replica cannon they were playing with Tuesday in a driveway was not designed to be fired, officials said. The iron alloy in the cannon apparently couldn't withstand the pressure, and all five of the youths were injured. Two of them critically, when the replica cannon exploded about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday when they put some sort of explosive powder in it, authorities said. Police said the five were apparently playing in a driveway of a home in the Southlake community.

Mike Bedrick, an officer with the Southlake Department of Public Safety, said the youths were hurt by flying pieces of the cannon and by the explosion's blast wave.

Baylor issue riles Baptists

HOUSTON (AP) — The president of the Texas Baptist General Convention said he believes Baylor University trustees erred when they voted to change the school's governing system.

Phil Lineberger, who was re-elected to his second term Tuesday, said he agreed with a vote by the assembly that postponed action against Baylor until a convention-appointed panel completes its study.

"The Baylor issue is a very difficult issue right now," Lineberger said. "The process of determining what has happened will take some time."

The 48-member board of trustees voted last month to establish a board of regents to govern the nation's oldest Baptist university. The new body eventually would become a 24-member, largely self-perpetuating group with only a quarter of them selected by the convention.

Robert Naylor, chairman of the 26-member panel assigned to study the action, on Tuesday proposed the motion delaying action on Baylor until the panel had completed its investigation of the financial, legal and moral ramifications of Baylor trustees' call for independence.

"Baylor University has amended its constitution without the approval of the convention and thus in violation of our constitution," Naylor said in his motion.

"There are legal problems in the matter of the trustees," Naylor said. "I was amazed to hear that a trustee was not responsible to the group that elected him."

"I think Baylor trustees went against the constitution of the Baptist General Convention of Texas," Lineberger said. "I would agree with Dr. Naylor that this committee should proceed to see what relationship this convention has with Baylor University."

Herbert Reynolds, president of Baylor University, said officials took the action to avoid a takeover by fundamentalist extremists.

"In my opinion, we've worked exceedingly hard at Baylor to see that Texas did not fall prey to this movement," Reynolds said. "We have wanted Texas to stay out of this friction" between moderates and conservative extremists.

"We felt we can do that more effectively" by changing the governing system of the school, Reynolds said.

But Lineberger was not convinced.

"I would love to see Baylor's governance return to the trustees and to resume our relationship as it was prior to the decision on Sept. 21," Lineberger said.

Regulators overreacting, experts say

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Regulators are overreacting to the savings and loan crisis and risk deepening the current real estate recession, according to experts appearing at the thrift industry's annual convention.

Bank and S&L executives began complaining more than a year ago of a shortage of credit induced by regulators in New England. The complaints spread as teams of examiners worked their way through institutions in the mid-Atlantic states, Florida and more recently in California.

Regulators, in forcing banks and S&Ls to establish reserves against possible future losses, maintained they simply were responding prudently to a weakening economy.

But two real estate experts addressing the 98th annual convention of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions said Tuesday it is now

Two real estate experts addressing the 98th annual convention of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions said Tuesday it is now time to ease up or risk making the situation worse.

time to ease up or risk making the situation worse.

"If you're a lender, this is not a recession, this is close to a depression," said Kenneth T. Rosen, chairman of the real estate center at the University of California-Berkeley.

Rosen called on the Bush administration to address the problem with a high-level meeting of Treasury Department officials and financial institution regulators. He said institutions with problem real estate loans should be permitted to absorb the losses over several years.

The approach worked in the mid-1980s when problems emerged for large banks that had made loans to Third World countries, he said.

Anthony Downs, a fellow at the Brookings Institution, a Washington think tank, took a softer tone, saying regulators were forced to crack down hard on real estate lending because bankers ignored earlier milder warnings.

He said a near-total ban is probably warranted on new lending for commercial projects because so many of them are vacant, but added that regulators should soften their stance toward loans to home builders.

Boy lives after rod pierces heart

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Surgeons unscrewed a steel rod from a brave 8-year-old impaled through the heart in a fall from a roof.

Justin Stiner asked for some ice and wanted to play Nintendo on Tuesday after waking up from surgery, doctors said.

"He probably just thinks this is kind of a slight inconvenience in his life," said trauma surgeon Dr. Michael Esser.

The 4-foot-long, 1/2-inch-thick threaded bar used to reinforce concrete was literally unscrewed from the boy's neck and torso Monday in a 2 1/2-hour operation at University Medical Center. Eighteen inches of the rod had penetrated his body.

Justin was listed in critical condition. Esser said the heart wounds should heal fully, and although the boy's severed jugular vein was tied off, that will pose no problems.

The 4-foot-10, 86-pound third-grader from Sierra Vista fell onto the rod while playing with friends on the roof of a house Monday morning.

He was suspended two feet off the ground for about 20 minutes, alert the whole time, while paramedics cut the rod.

Esser and Richmond said the rod went through the right side of the heart, which has about one-third the pressure of the left side.

Unknown buyer purchases ranch

MUSTANG, Nev. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service let go of Nevada's oldest legal bordello for $1.49 million at a bankruptcy sale where most of the 1,000 bidders were more interested in nude paintings and other kitsch.

The future of the Mustang Ranch remained as clouded Tuesday as the identity of its buyer.

Storey County commissioners last month revoked the bordello's permit, vowing never again to endure the "circus" that surrounded the place for 35 years.

During bidding on the 330-acre property Tuesday, there were no takers at the asking price of $10 million. The winning bid was made by Reno lawyer Victor Perry, who refused to identify the new owner.

Perry's brother, Peter, is the lawyer of former Mustang owner Joe Conforte. But Conforte denied he was secretly bidding.

"How can I?" he asked. "They've got me handcuffed financially."

People had expressed interest in the property as a nursing home, halfway house or home for wayward girls, said Dierdre Pagni, IRS manager. She said even a religious group inquired about the property, but she refused to give details.

IRS agents padlocked the 104-room bordello Sept. 21, three days after the property owned by Conforte and his wife, Sally, was forced into liquidation.

New Arctic trade route is under consideration

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Norwegian scientists are exploring the possibility of a year-round route through the frozen ocean north of Siberia that could change the way the world does business.

Unlike their Viking ancestors, who braved unknown seas in wooden ships, these modern adventurers search from laboratories, with computers and calculators.

Oslo's Fridtjof Nansen Institute, named for the Norwegian explorer, was enlisted by the Soviet Merchant Marine Ministry to explore the feasibility of opening the Northeast Passage all year.

The Soviets envision huge icebreakers leading merchant ships through the polar icepack like outsize ducklings trailing their mother.

Willy Oestreg, director of the institute, said the 4,000-mile passage north of the Soviet Union is the shortest route between Europe and the Far East, about half the distance through the Suez or Panama canals.

"It could revolutionize world shipping," he said. The study began formally at the end of October, after two years of discussion.

Adolf Erik Nordenskiold, a Finnish-Swedish explorer and scientist, first negotiated the ice-congested passage between northern Norway and Alaska in a daring two-year steamship voyage that ended in 1879.

A combination of ice ridges 42 feet thick, bitter cold, four-month winter nights and Soviet strategic concerns have prevented the shortcut, often called the Northern Sea Route, from becoming an important factor in world trade.

Oestreg said changes in the Soviet Union and the raw power of modern icebreakers had helped overcome the obstacles.

He said the Soviets believe their icebreakers, which now clear the passage from July to October for the Soviet coastal trade, might be able to open it all year.

Soviet officials hope the route will generate hard currency from fees paid to use the passage and hire Soviet ships, and stimulate the economy of isolated Siberia and the arctic coast, Oestreg said.

Norwegian and outside experts will study the technological challenges, costs, legal and political questions, and the environmental impact of keeping the passage open, Oestreg said. He added that the eight-month pilot project would "define the state of the art" of arctic navigation.

"The main questions are commerciality and the environment," he said, and further research will be required if the pilot project is encouraging, but "if everything fell into place, it could be open in a decade."

New limits placed on Palestinians

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel launched a new crackdown on the nearly 3-year-old Palestinian uprising today, imposing widespread curfews and announcing plans to halve the Arab work force from the occupied lands.

The curfews were to prevent demonstrations on the eve of the second anniversary of the Palestinian state declared by the Palestine Liberation Organization's parliament in exile on Nov. 15, 1988.

The measures also came a day after two key pro-PLO Palestinian activists were ordered jailed for six months without trial for alleged involvement in inciting a wave of attacks against Israelis in the past month.

Israeli left-wingers protested the detentions of Radwan Abu Ayyash, 40, of Ramallah in the West Bank and Ziad Abu Ziad, 50, of Jerusalem.

Abu Ayyash heads the Arab Journalists' Union and Abu Ziad edits a Hebrew-language Palestinian weekly.

"The message of the Israeli government to the Palestinian leadership is clear: there is no point in being a moderate," said Dedi Zucker of the Citizens' Rights Movement.

New Zealanders die in shooting

DUNEDIN, New Zealand (AP) — A man described as a loner upset by the recent death of his mother was fatally wounded by police today after killing 11 people in a shooting spree in a tiny seaside village.

New Zealand's worst massacre began Tuesday night when 33-year-old David Malcolm Gray set fire to a neighbor's house in the South Island village of Aramoana and began shooting people who came to help.

"There may have been a children's party on there or something as there seemed to be a lot of kids about," said neighbor Dorothy Crimp.

The siege in the town 17 miles north of Dunedin ended 23 hours later when anti-terrorism police rushed a house where Gray was holed up and shot him in the chest after he wounded one officer in the leg.

In between, Gray killed two children, including a 6-year-old boy who rode up on his bicycle to see what all the commotion was about; the head of police in nearby Port Chalmers; and eight other adults.

Two young girls wounded in the assault were hospitalized in stable condition.

Gray had used high-powered rifles to keep police at bay and prevent them from reaching the victims, who were scattered on the lawn of his house and a nearby street.

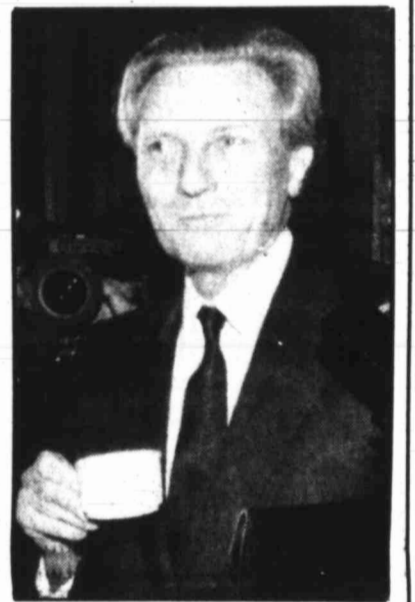

Heseltine will oppose Thatcher

LONDON (AP) — In the most serious challenge to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's leadership, former Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine said today he will challenge her as leader of the Conservative Party, and thus prime minister.

Heseltine, who resigned as Mrs. Thatcher's defense minister in 1986, will run in a ballot among Conservative legislators next week.

The challenge to Mrs. Thatcher after 11 years in power comes amid growing criticism within the governing party over the prime minister's reluctance to integrate with the European Community.

The party also is suffering in the polls as a result of high interest rates, double-digit inflation and an unpopular local per-capita tax dubbed the "poll tax."

Defibrillators should be available

DALLAS (AP) — Almost two-thirds of the 300,000 Americans who drop dead suddenly each year from cardiac arrest might be saved if automatic shocking machines were made as common as fire extinguishers, heart specialists say.

Catastrophic disturbances in the heart's normal rhythm — what doctors call sudden death — account for about half of all heart disease fatalities.

Shocking the heart with a machine called a defibrillator can restore normal beating. But the shock must be delivered within five minutes, or the victim will die or suffer brain damage.

"This is an immense problem," said Dr. Douglas P. Zipes of the University of Indiana. "In terms of numbers, it far outstrips everything else, but it's a solvable problem."

PUBLIC NOTICE

On July 19, 1990, GTE Southwest Incorporated ("GTE-SW") filed revisions to the company's tariff pertaining to the features and associated equipment for providing emergency number services (9-1-1).

In this filing, GTE-SW proposes to modify its existing 9-1-1 tariff and to add more than 200 new service offerings. The new items of service and equipment in this application have been added to meet the company's increasing 9-1-1 customer demands and to allow GTE-SW to compete more effectively in the 9-1-1 equipment market.

The product line in the new offerings consists of a mini-computer and specialized console package for larger communities, as well as a personal computer with Automatic Number Identification (ANI) display for smaller communities. (ANI displays a caller's telephone number on the emergency dispatcher's computer screen.) In addition, the product line will include ANI and Automatic Location Information (ALI) display units compatible with, and similar to, those offered by Southwestern Bell Telephone Company and other local exchange carriers in Texas. (The ALI feature displays a caller's address on the computer screen.) The rate charged existing 9-1-1 customers may be revised at the expiration of their contracts with GTE-SW if the proposed tariff is approved.

This filing has been assigned Docket No 9667. The hearing on the merits is scheduled for February 25, 1991, at the offices of the Public Utility Commission of Texas. The deadline to intervene in this docket is December 31, 1990.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information, should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas, 78757. Hostages are Iraq's pawns

One by one, elder statesmen from a number of countries, among them Edward Heath of Britain, Yasuhiro Nakasone of Japan and now Willie Brandt of Germany, are making pilgrimages to Baghdad to ask Iraq's dictator, Saddam Hussein, to let their people go. Shrewdly, because it makes him look compassionate, and because he still has a couple of thousand more hostages as bargaining chips, Hussein complies.

Such missions already have produced the release of hundreds of Westerners and Japanese. In October, 298 French citizens were allowed to leave Iraq, and Heath won freedom for 40 Britons. Seventy four Japanese men flew home with Nakasone, a former prime minister, and after meeting with Brandt, Hussein ordered the release of another 120 people, mostly Germans but also a handful of Americans, Italians and Britons.

Now, some in Congress, notably Rep. Mervyn Dymally of California, want to organize a bipartisan group to join the parade to Baghdad in the hope of winning the release of at least some of the hundreds of Americans held prisoner in Iraq, more than 100 of them as human shields at strategic installations.

These well-intentioned pilgrims ought to think again. In human terms, these journeys are understandable and, without considering the broader context, even admirable. Yet it's the broader context that ought to be paramount. Hussein's "compassion" is anything but that; it's but a part of his strategy to divide opinion, both within the multinational alliance arrayed against him, and within individual countries, most of all the United States.

Hussein is said to believe that Americans, with Vietnam still vividly in mind, don't have the stomach for war, especially a protracted one in which thousands of young Americans are likely to come home in body bags. By seeming reasonable — by praising the peaceful intent of his prestigious visitors, by saying he's willing to negotiate, even to let all the hostages go if at least two major powers guarantee there will be no allied military attack against his forces — Hussein is engaging in a softening-up process calculated to make President Bush look warlike by contrast and to make other leaders think twice before following him into war.

Maintaining solidarity against Iraq, here and abroad, requires a masterful exercise in persuasion. Lately Bush has fallen short of that, waxing unduly bellicose during the closing stages of the election campaign, in particular, by moving the hostage question front-and-center instead of keeping it in the background where it belongs. Now that the election is over, he needs to moderate his tone. That assumes, of course, he still believes that sustaining the international embargo against Iraq is the wisest course, as it is, for so long as it has a reasonable chance of succeeding. By the same token, those who would see U.S. policy succeed can best serve it by not joining the line of supplicants to an aggressor.

Smoke blowers prepare for the annual smokeout

By BILL AYRES
City Editor

For the past 14 years, one day a year I have to hide from my friends and family.

I do this as a way to protect my sanity, and peace of mind. You see, I am a smoker. I enjoy smoking. I like to smoke.

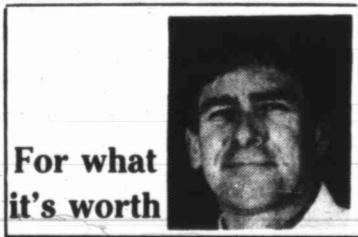

- Oh, I know all the statistics. You know the ones I mean:
- Smoking is related to 390,000 deaths each year;
- Smoking brings about reduced lung function, smoker's cough and other respiratory difficulties;
- The earlier one starts smoking, the harder it is to quit later in life, like any addiction;
- Smokeless tobacco is not a safe alternative to smoking;
- Smokeless tobacco leads to increased incidence of leukoplakia (thickened white patches on the mucus membranes of the mouth), a precancerous condition that leads to decreased senses of taste and smell and increases dental problems.

We also know by now that prolonged smoking leads to problems with the circulatory system and cardiac problems.

I also know the benefits of giving up smoking, more stamina, reduced risk of heart attack and so forth.

But I enjoy smoking. The one day a year I hide is that day the American Cancer Society conducts the Great American Smokeout.

Now in its 14th year, the Smokeout has helped millions kick

For what it's worth

the habit at least for one day. Many smokers have been able to stay smoke-free thanks to support groups the American Cancer Society has established.

So, on the third Thursday of November each year, I hide. I really enjoy smoking. I normally smoke a pipe and I find that very relaxing.

When I have had a stress-filled day, which is common in the type of work I do, it is nice to sit back, fill my pipe and just relax. Maybe it's not so much the smoking, as it is taking time to allow my system time to adjust.

I do know that I have taken stress tests and had results as good as some non-smokers.

I respect the rights of non-smokers. If an area has been designated for non-smoking, then I wait. I don't have to smoke. I just enjoy it.

But, this is beginning to sound like a sermon. In fact, I want to take a moment to encourage all the smokers who read my column to think about kicking the habit for one day. If not, go hide.

If enough of us get together, though, we won't be hard to find. The health Nazis will only have to look for the cloud of smoke.

And that's for what it's worth!

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed: Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. U.S. should keep money at home

I am a middle class American living in West Texas, but I do not consider myself second class. I manage a feed store in a small town for a small, family-owned corporation. I do not pretend to be an expert on world politics or economy, however, I do have some very definite opinions. From talking to people with whom I deal on a daily basis, I believe many others share my opinions, values and beliefs.

I believe that there are many of us who do not support U.S. involvement in a military action in the Middle East. I realize that we need the oil from there and that we should protect our citizens who are there, but no one has appointed us God to protect the rest of the world. Oil is the only reason we have gone to the defense of Kuwait. Granted there will be many hardships domestically without that oil, and alternative energy is more expensive, but in the long run it could be cheaper than allowing ourselves to be held hostage by Middle East oil.

History warns us that when world leaders are in domestic economic turmoil they involve themselves in a foreign war to try to improve the economy. Hirohito admitted that he approved the bombing of Pearl Harbor fearing a civil war because of Japan's economy. The American people are not so naive! I don't think they will be willing to make many more financial sacrifices in the name of patriotism.

People in West Texas are tired of paying taxes and then being asked to pay more while members of Congress are living in luxury and throwing more of our money at every problem in the world.

The deficit is out of hand, and no real solution is being seriously sought. On a percentage basis, we are being taxed much more now than we were when the Boston Tea Party occurred. I believe there will soon be a tax revolt that will make that event look like just that: a tea party.

Our country is in serious economic trouble, and yet we continue to pass out foreign aid as if there is no limit to our money. We need to keep our money at home and quit trying to buy friends everywhere else.

I don't pretend to have all the answers to all the problems, but I do know that something has to be done. A war in the Middle East is only going to be a smoke screen to cover up the real problems here at home. I know it will put lots of people to work through defense contracts, etc., and many people will line up behind the flag to support the country, but many of our soldiers will be killed. And when all is said and done, we will still have the same problems as before. We will also have drastically higher energy costs because the oil production we were fighting for will be the first thing destroyed in the war.

Please consider other options. Reduce spending and reduce taxes, even though it may not be the best thing politically. It will be the best thing in the long run.

Suing the airlines for terror

The Supreme Court has been asked to decide whether or not airline passengers can sue for damages if they've had the devil scared out of them on a flight.

The case involves passengers on an Eastern flight from Miami to Nassau in 1983. The plane eventually lost all its engines, and passengers were told they could crash in the Atlantic.

One engine did start up again, however, and the plane was able to fly back to Miami.

A lawyer for the passengers said his clients were terrorized and many had suffered psychic damages; some would not be able to fly again.

I am keeping a keen eye on this matter.

If the court were to rule in favor of the passengers, it could mean I soon will come into a large sum of money.

I get the devil scared out of me every time I fly, and it's the airlines' fault. They should realize it doesn't make any sense that those big things can get up in the air and stay there; and intelligent people like myself know that and therefore are quite apprehensive the moment we step onto an airline.

(It would also follow, I suppose, that if we're so intelligent, why do we get on a plane in the first place? Well, ever try to get from Atlanta to Omaha on Amtrak?)

I am frightened the most during takeoffs and landings.

First, you've got to get the plane in the air. If that happens then you've still got to figure out a way to get it back on the ground again.

I've never understood why the flight attendants take my drink away during both takeoffs and landings.

"I'm sorry, sir," they say, "but we're about to take off (or land) and I'll have to take your drink."

That's when I need a drink the most. They ought to announce to all the passengers, "We're about to take off (or land) so we'll be passing out drinks."

I'm a little better once the plane levels off and the seat belt sign goes off, indicating it is safe for me to get up and move about the cabin as I wish.

But what about the unlikely event of cabin depressurization?

Will my oxygen mask actually fall down in front of my face? Will I be able to figure out how to place it over my nose and mouth and continue to breathe normally before I die?

And what if my seat cushion won't float? The plane goes down in some farm pond and there I am trying to paddle to the bank on my seat cushion and I won't float like they promised me it would?

Maybe one of the farmer's pigs will swim out and rescue me. But can pigs swim?

Any change in engine sound terrifies me when I fly. And when they start monkeying around with the flaps and landing gear, it sounds like the tail just fell off.

I'm even frightened by other passengers. Ever notice that on every flight you take, there's always at least one guy sitting near you who looks like an Arab terrorist?

He's the one with all the hair who's down on his knees in the aisle chanting.

The truth is, everybody should be at least a little nervous when they fly. If for no other reason, here's one:

How much did the cockpit crew have to drink the night before in the hotel lounge?

See what I mean? I've got a call in to my lawyer now.

to survive this winter. The only solution I see is to introduce ration cards now." — Reformist Mayor Anatoly Sobchak, urging Leningrad city council to impose rationing.

"Sirens were sounding in the basement of the Bank Board throughout 1988, but the regulators just plugged their ears." — Charles E. Schumer, D-N.Y., at a House Budget Committee task force hearing on allegations that the Federal Home Loan Bank Board hushed up conflicts of interest among savings and loan regulators.

In an effort to recognize the positive actions and contributions of young people, Optimist International in 1954 initiated Youth Appreciation Week.

A violet by any other color is a rare find

EL PASO (AP) — Roses are red, violets are blue. But in the Guadalupe Mountains, they can be yellow too.

Folks in the Lone Star State may sing about the yellow roses, but Monday they crowed about a small colony of yellow violets discovered hanging from a cliff by a park ranger who had lost his way.

The rare flower, dubbed the Viola guadalupensis, or Guadalupe Violet, is eligible for listing as a rare or endangered species, said John Cook, National Park Service Southwest regional director.

The plant was found March 22, 1987. It was verified as a species in June and its discovery was announced Monday at a conference on national parks attended by 350 federal officials, scientists and wildlife preservationists.

"I was hiking up in the mountain alongside of a cliff and it was very foggy," Guadalupe Mountains National Park ranger Brent Wauer told a press conference at the gathering. "I was a bit lost and I noticed on the side of the cliff face a yellow plant that was really not where it was supposed to be."

"There are no cliff plants in the park with yellow flowers," he said.

"I knew it was something unusual when I regained my balance, so I went over and looked at it and it was a yellow violet," Wauer said.

The one small profusion of 35 individual plants with vibrant yellow flowers grow in crevices on a limestone formation on the east rim of the mountains.

Smokers have excuse to break the habit

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow will mark the 14th Annual Great American Smokeout, a one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours, just to prove they can do it.

Last year, more than 19.5 million smokers tried to quit for the day. This represents more than 39 percent of the nation's 50 million smokers. Breast cancer used to be the biggest killer for women. But the No. 1 cause of cancer death among women and men today is lung cancer. An estimated 142,000 will die of lung cancer in 1990.

And now, a word about smoking-related diseases — emphysema, chronic bronchitis and heart disease: This year an estimated 390,000 will die from one of these. This total exceeds the number of U.S. battle deaths in World War II; it is nine times as many people who die in automobile accidents every year!

A congressional study has reported that health costs from the adverse effects of smoking have reached a new high of $100 billion a year in increased medical bills and lost productivity. The loss in death and disability cannot be measured. (And how does one measure the amount of heartache, remorse and guilt suffered as a result of a preventable, self-induced tragedy?)

What about "secondhand"

Dear Abby

smoke? Is it damaging to non-smokers to be in the presence of those who are smoking? Yes! Furthermore, studies reveal that the children of smokers are more prone to lung problems and allergies than are children of non-smokers.

For years I have begged my young readers, "If you smoke, quit now. If you don't smoke, don't start!" Yet an estimated 3,000 to 5,000 kids light up for the first time every day. Why? Peer pressure, no doubt.

Quitting "cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit, but my readers have told me it's the most effective, and in the long run, the easiest way. Cutting down is less traumatic, but the temptation to smoke is often too powerful to resist while smoking just one, two or three cigarettes a day.

Those who are heavily addicted may require help to break the habit. Call your local chapter of the American Cancer Society for information. So if you're hooked on cigarettes and have been telling yourself, "One of these days I'm going to quit," why not start tomorrow?

It won't be easy, but it will be the best Thanksgiving present you can give yourself — and those who love you. — LOVE, ABBY

P.S. A favor, please? If you quit tomorrow, even for 24 hours, I want to hear from you. Then write again and let me know how long you were able to stay "clean." Good luck. Keep me posted. I care.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I received a good chuckle from the letter in your column about the two less-than-perfect jumbo birds who fell in love. We have been married for 23 years. I am not sure if the results of our childhood traumas had anything to do with our meeting and falling in love, but he's blind in one eye and I wear an artificial right leg. — DEE MALCHOW IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: Another letter pointing up how socially ignorant some people are:

In June of 1989, my husband and I attended a wedding for which formal invitations were sent along with R.S.V.P. cards stating, "reception following."

This wedding was held at a well-known estate, but we were not informed that it would be outdoors and that the estate would be locked. Parking was over a quarter of a mile from this place, and there were no bathroom facilities. (Only woods!)

The bride arrived by limousine an hour and a half late. The only shade we had while waiting was one tree — for 60 people! The bride, groom and their attendants were formally attired for what turned out to be a very informal service.

The catering (reception) consisted of two kinds of cheese and a little fruit. Needless to say, the amount of food was inadequate. We gave a lovely wedding gift which has not been acknowledged — and it's been over a year. We have not heard from this couple since, but my husband believes that we should include them in a large party we are planning. This has caused a mild dispute between my husband and me.

I say, "Forget these ignorant clods." He says, "Forgive them. They just don't know any better."

Your opinion, please. — MASSACHUSETTS

DEAR MASS.: Although they don't deserve it — be generous and invite them anyway. They may learn something.

Readers can write to Abby at P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of ten women will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as a result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. The cost is only $60.00 + $4.50 S&H. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

No more rubber chicken

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marinade the chicken for up to five days in olive oil and herbs. Or cook the bird in a tiny spa consisting of a plastic bag.

Voila! That bane of banquet dining, the rubber chicken, disappears.

Seven of the city's top hotel chefs gathered Monday in the semi-serious Best Banquet Chicken cook-off to drum up business in this major convention site and maybe improve the reputation of hotel catering, whose predictably elastic fare gave rise to the term "rubber chicken circuit" for the campaign trail.

"None of these dishes are anything close to what you'd call rubber chicken," sniffed John Skaggs, top chef at the Nikko Hotel. He won the general category award for his sesame seed chicken and grilled chicken with white bean relish.

The chefs agreed that the secret to non-rubbery chicken is to make sure the bird doesn't lose moisture and isn't cooked too quickly or too long.

Todd Lough, an assistant chef at the Stanford Court hotel, marinates the chicken for four or five days in olive oil and herbs. "We go out of our way to make it flavorful because a lot of times chicken isn't served the way it should be," he said.

Dave Thompson, executive banquet chef at the Marriott, said he cooks his Spa Chicken in a plastic bag to hold in the herbs and juices.

Thompson, whose Spa Chicken is poached with basil and bell pepper and served with oriental noodles, admitted having served rubber chicken before, "buy only a few times in the past, a long time ago."

"I wouldn't dare do that now," he said.

Chicken Breast Lambada, a baked boneless breast stuffed with red and yellow peppers and splashed with a wine glaze, was the Fairmont Hotel entry. Served with polenta and artichoke hearts, it won in the most nutritious category.

"Presentation is very important," said Vincenzo Cucco, an assistant chef at the Fairmont, as he diced chicken and chopped peppers.

Poultry has been on banquet tables, particularly at political gatherings, since at least the early days of the Republic. George and Martha Washington served chicken at a Mount Vernon reception for Lafayette. Nowadays, chicken is served at an estimated 65 percent of banquet meals.

Savory and traditional holiday meal shortcuts

Everyone looks forward to the traditional Thanksgiving dinner with all the trimmings. Anticipating this special supper is one thing, but getting it all to the table pipit hot and beautiful is another. These recipes offer holiday cooks savory shortcuts, focus on dramatic, colorful presentations and for the most part, can be made ahead. Mix and match with your family's special, but fussier dishes and see if you don't have time for all the traditions and even some time to spare.

PIMIENTO CHEESE BALL
Always a favorite, this colorful spread is one of Dromedary's most requested recipes.

1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese
1/4 cup dry sherry
1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 jar (4-ounce) diced pimientos, drained
1/2 cup minced fresh parsley or chopped, toasted walnuts or pecans
Sliced or diced pimientos, optional
Crackers and/or sliced raw vegetables

Beat first four ingredients with electric mixer until well blended. With spoon, stir in pimientos. Chill overnight to allow flavors to develop. Form into ball; roll in parsley. Transfer to serving dish. Garnish with additional sliced or diced pimientos, if desired. Surround ball with crackers and sliced vegetables.

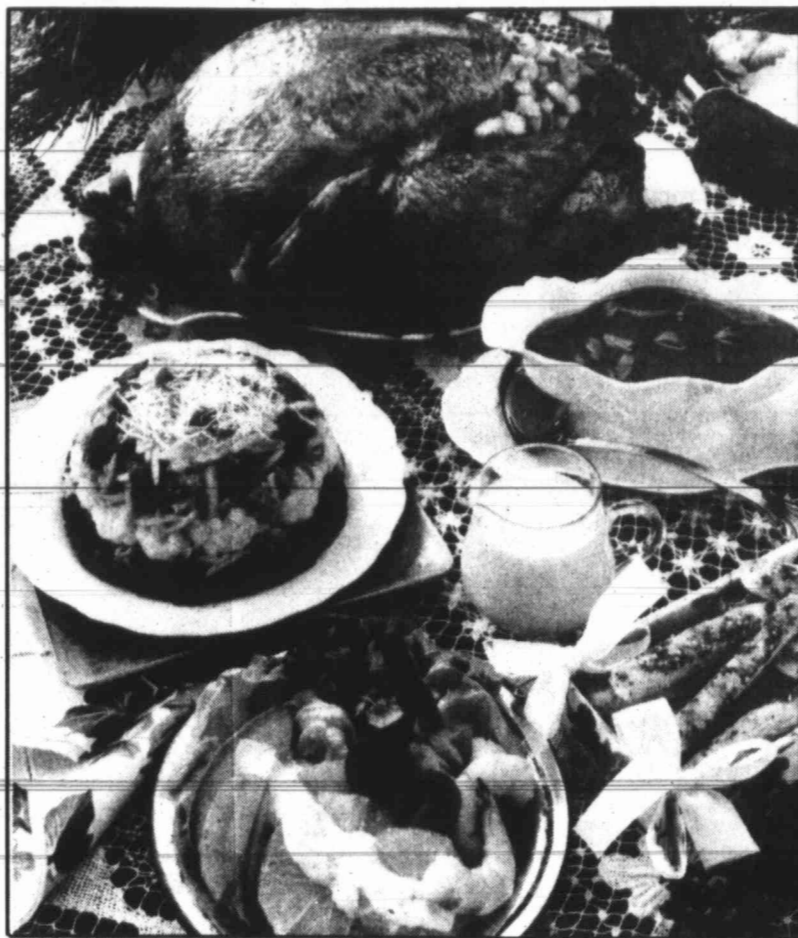

To make log: After chilling, roll pimiento cheese in wax paper to 10-inch log; roll in parsley. Serve as directed.

CRISPY RANCH STICKS

Store-bought pastry is the secret to these easy, flaky sticks. Serve as appetizers, with soup or salad.

1 package (17 1/4 ounces) puff pastry sheets
1/4 cup butter, softened
1 package (4 ounces) Hidden Valley Ranch Buttermilk Recipe Original Ranch salad dressing mix
1 tablespoon each caraway, sesame and poppy seeds

Thaw pastry sheets until they unfold easily, about 15 minutes. Mix together remaining ingredients. Spread half the butter mixture evenly over one pastry sheet. Keep remaining sheet cold. With fork, prick pastry generously all over. Cut sheet in half with sharp knife.

This traditional holiday meal is delicious and easy to prepare, leaving you more time for your guests.

Cut each half into 18 strips, each 1/2-inch wide. Arrange strips on ungreased baking sheet. Leave space between strips. Bake in preheated 375 degree F oven for 10 to 12 minutes, until golden. Cool. Repeat with remaining pastry sheet.

HOLIDAY VEGETABLE BOWL

A stunning, yet easy vegetable dish that can be made ahead and reheated in the microwave.

1 jar (4-ounce) diced pimientos, well drained
1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
3 tablespoons instant toasted onions
Salt and pepper to taste
1 1/2 pounds cauliflower, trimmed to about 5 cups florets
1 pound broccoli, trimmed to about 5 cups florets

Combine pimientos, almonds,

Parmesan cheese and toasted onions. Season with salt and pepper; reserve. Cook cauliflower until tender-crisp; drain and cool. Repeat with broccoli. Butter a 2-to 3-quart ovenproof bowl (about 8-inch diameter and 4-inch in depth). Spoon 1/4 pimiento mixture onto bottom of bowl. Line bowl with alternating rows of cauliflower, broccoli and pimiento mixture, beginning with a cluster of broccoli in center.

Arrange buds to outside and stems to center. Sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Top with buttered wax paper. Refrigerate vegetables if made ahead. To heat, place a casserole dish or other ovenproof object on wax paper to weight vegetables down.

To heat in conventional oven: Bake at 325 degrees F for 40 minutes or until hot. Invert onto serving plate. Garnish with additional diced pimientos and Parmesan cheese, if desired.

RANCH PIMIENTO SAUCE
Turn Ranch dressing into a pretty pimiento sauce to drizzle over hot vegetables.

1 jar diced or sliced pimientos, well drained
1 cup prepared Hidden Valley Ranch Original Ranch salad dressing
1/2 teaspoon dill weed

MILK

Ground black pepper to taste

In blender, combine pimientos, dressing, dill weed, 2 tablespoons milk and pepper; blend until smooth. Refrigerate if made ahead. To warm sauce, place in saucepan over low heat; stir until warm. Do not boil. Or, microwave in microsafe bowl on MEDIUM for 30 to 60 seconds, stirring once. Thin sauce to desired consistency with additional milk. Serve warm over steamed vegetables or serve cool as a dressing or dip.

PERFECT TURKEY GRAVY
Smooth and flavorful, this gravy is simply perfect.

4 1/2 cups turkey stock*
1/2 cup flour
1 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet browning and seasoning sauce
1/4 teaspoon fresh ground black pepper
2 tablespoons turkey drippings
Chopped giblets, optional
Salt to taste

In a small bowl, blend 1-cup cold stock with flour until smooth. Heat remaining stock in large saucepan. Stir flour mixture into hot stock. Cook and stir over moderate heat until mixture thickens. Reduce heat, stir in remaining ingredients and cook 2 to 3 minutes. Serve hot. *Turkey stock: Combine giblets; 1 teaspoon each thyme and chopped parsley; 1 carrot and 1 celery rib with leaves, chopped; 1/2 onion, quartered; and 1/2 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet. Cover with water; season. Simmer about 2 hours. Strain. Reserve giblets.

GOP senators elect conservative leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Restive Republicans elected conservatives to second-echelon Senate leadership posts in secret balloting that signaled more combative GOP dealings with majority Democrats in the next Congress.

In their organizational caucus Tuesday, the GOP senators re-elected Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas and his chief deputy, Alan Simpson of Wyoming. But in contests for four second-tier party leadership posts, conservatives held sway over more moderate colleagues.

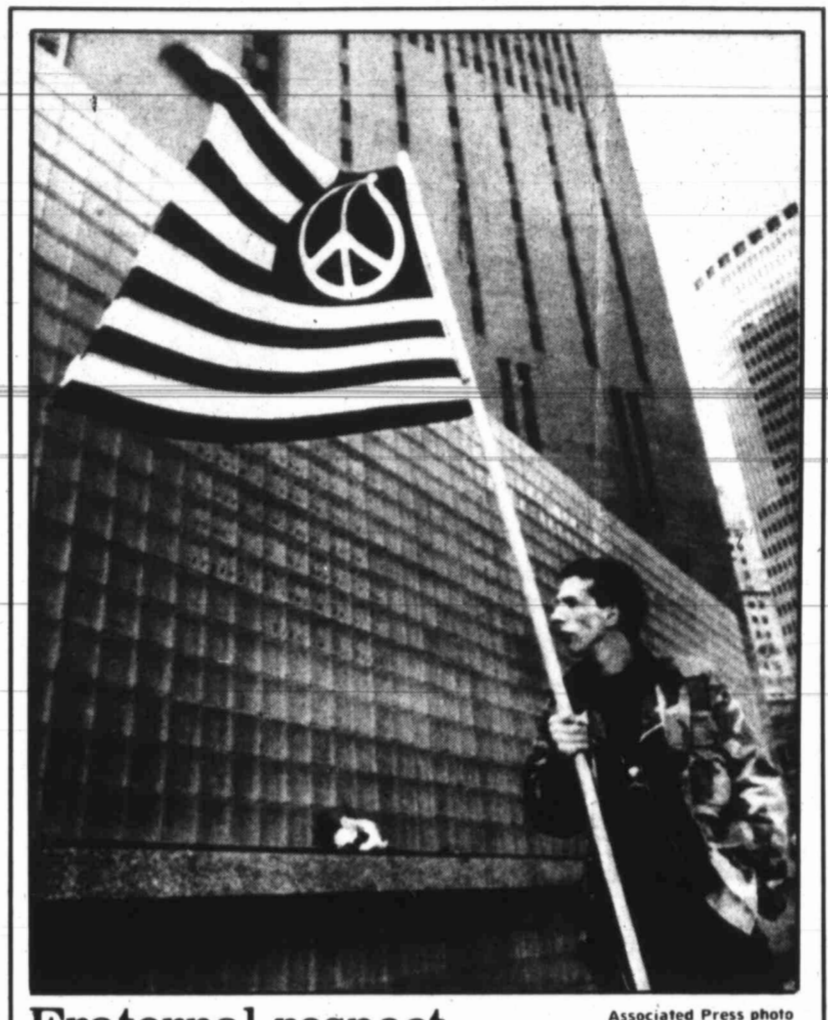

Dumped from the Republican Party's No. 3 leadership job was Sen. John Chafee of Rhode Island, the most liberal Republican in the Senate. Republicans voted 22-21 to replace him with conservative Sen. Thad Cochran of Mississippi.

Sen. Don Nickles of Oklahoma defeated Sen. Pete V. Domenici of New Mexico for the chairmanship of the Republican Policy Committee. Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas beat out Sen. Mitch McConnell of Kentucky for the job of campaign chairman. And Sen. Robert Kasten of Wisconsin was elected secretary of the Republican conference over Sen. Christopher Bond of Missouri.

But Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., who backed Cochran, said, "It was just more Republican." This year, Chafee voted to override President Bush's veto of the civil rights bill, voted against a constitutional amendment to ban flag burning, voted with liberals on restricting aid to El Salvador and voted to cut funds for the Strategic Defense Initiative, or Star Wars.

Basin Aviation signs contract with Big Spring

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

Basin Aviation of Midland has approved and signed the contract with the city of Big Spring to become fixed-base operator at the McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark.

$1,000 per month is necessary to keep up with maintenance and utility costs, Boyd said.

Negotiations with Basin Aviation began after former operator C-Bar Flying Service left during the month of June. Boyd said Basin was chosen out of a number of proposals from companies in several cities.

Playoff teams geared for play

By STEVE BELVIN

With the focus this week being on basketball with the Second Annual Crossroads Tournament in town, high school football is down to the nitty-gritty.

The high school state playoffs begin and three area six-man teams will go to war in the first round of survival Friday night.

It turned out to be a better-than-average football season for the Crossroads Country. Half of the 10 area teams made it to postseason play. Although they didn't make the playoffs, it also was a good season for the Coahoma Bulldogs, in their first year in Class AA, and the Klondike Cougars in six-man play.

Coahoma had its first winning season in a long time, going 6-4. The Bulldogs went 4-3 in a tough District 6-AA, good for fourth place.

Klondike also finished the season with a 6-4 mark. They went 3-2 in 5-A, Six-Man, finishing third.

While six-man teams Sands, Klondike and Grady start playoff action Friday, the Big Spring Steers and Garden City Bearkats are also headed to the state playoffs. They both receive byes in the bi-district round, finishing regular season play Friday.

For all three six-man teams, their first round playoff games will be rematches from earlier in the season.

District 5-A, Six-Man champion Sands will be playing the Ira Bulldogs at 7:30 p.m. in Patricia, home of the Klondike Cougars. The Bulldogs are runner-up in 6-A, Six-Man.

Sands and Ira met in the fifth game of the season on Ira's home field. The Mustangs came away with a 36-20 win.

The Grady Wildcats, runner-up in District 5-A, will play fellow area team Borden County Coyotes, winner of District 6-A at 7:30 in Gail, home of the Coyotes.

These two teams can go one better than the Sands-Ira matchup. This will be the third time the two have played each other.

In a preseason scrimmage, Grady beat Borden County four touchdowns to two. In the second game of the season, Grady beat Borden County 26-8.

Both Big Spring and Garden City are hoping to head into the playoffs on a positive note with the win in their regular season finale — although it appears the Steers will have a harder time doing so than the Bearkats.

Garden City, 8-1, winner of District 9-A and ranked No. 5 in the state, ends regular season play at home against Sterling City, a team with a 3-5-1 record.

Big Spring, 7-1-1, winner of District 3-4A, closes out regular season play at home against the Monahans Loboes — a mad, rested Monahans Loboes squad, mind you.

No doubt the proud Loboes don't want to end their season two consecutive years with losses to the Steers. Last year Big Spring ended Monahans' season with a 20-19 win in the state quarterfinals.

Monahans, 6-3, is mad because they won't be going to the playoffs for the first time in three years. They've had an open date since losing to Andrews two weeks ago.

What better way to end the season than upsetting the state's No. 7 team and making them settle for a co-district championship? A Monahans win would tie Big Spring and Sweetwater for the league title. But the Steers would go as the No. 1 seed because they beat Sweetwater.

Last week two more runners joined the 1,000 yard club for the year, bringing the total to four in the Crossroads Country.

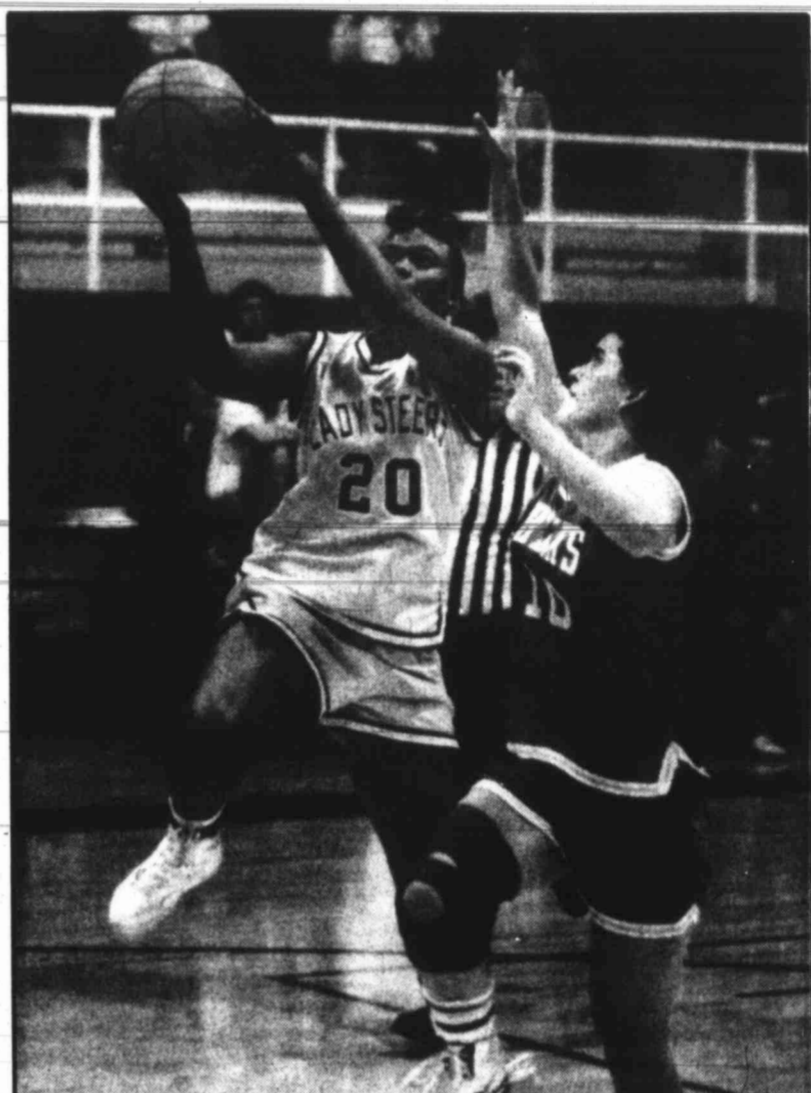

Borden County's Jimmy Rios rushed for 159 yards last week against Highland, bringing his total to 1,097 for the season. What makes that more impressive is because of injuries, he did that in seven games.

In Big Spring's win over Andrews, Jermaine Miller gained 118 yards, giving him 1,045 for the season. Miller and Rios join Garden City's James Soles and Coahoma's Shane Walker in the elite group.

Bronchos nip Steers in thrilling contest

By STEVE BELVIN

All kinds of drama unfolded in the Big Spring Steers season opener at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum Tuesday night.

First the Steers fell behind early, seemingly on their way to an early blowout to the Odessa High Bronchos. Next they played themselves back into the game, finally overtaking the Bronchos. And just when it seemed the Steers had changed the game enough to notch a win, the Bronchos staged a comeback of their own, holding on for a 64-63 victory.

Coach Tommy Washington's Steers, coming off an 5-21 season, played like the team of last year in the first half. Most of the time they forgot about running offensive plays, settling for shots around the perimeter. The Broncho press rattled the Steers also, causing 16 first half turnovers.

The Bronchos led by as much as 14 points in both the opening quarters. They led 38-27 at the half.

Keeping Big Spring relatively close in the first half was the outside bombing of junior guard Rod White, who hit three three-pointers. Forwards Mike Williams and Lemont Jojola combined for 10 first half points. White was also a force on defense, getting four of his game-high seven steals in the first half.

The Broncho first half barrage was led by the smooth floor play of point guard Michael Sanchez, who nailed three jumpers in the first half. He finished the contest with 14 points, five assists and five steals.

The Steers turned the game around in the third quarter however. Their outside shots gave way to a patterned halfcourt offense. Their turnovers vanished and their man-to-man defense became very aggressive.

"We turned the game around with defense in the third quarter," said Washington. "There were times in that first half I saw visions of last year. We changed offenses in the second half; we spread it out, got the ball inside. I tell them good things are going to happen if they run their offense."

The Steers took the ball inside, and senior post player Louis Soldan, who scored only two first half points, took advantage of it. In the second half Soldan made seven of 11 baskets, finishing with a game-high 18 points, one more than White.

The Steers trailed 40-27 early in the third quarter; two minutes

Wall front line topples Lady Steers by 53-42

By STEVE REAGAN

Wall's inside muscle proved too much for the Big Spring Lady Steers to overcome, as the Lady Hawks powered their way to a 53-42 victory in the season opener for both teams at Steer Gym Tuesday night.

The Lady Hawks' inside duo of Paige Dierschke and Robyn Jansa combined for 34 points in leading Wall to the victory. Big Spring was led by Tevayan Russell with 16 points and Jennifer Hendleman with 10.

Clinging to a 13-10 lead after one quarter, Wall went on a 13-2 sprint in the opening minutes of the second quarter to take command of the game, and the Lady Hawks were never seriously threatened after that.

"A strong part of our game is in our post play," Wall Coach Jerry Chitsey said after the game. "I think they had trouble with our post play. I think the difference in the game was that our girls had more time on the court than Big Spring."

"I'm proud for the win, especially with our inexperience," added Chitsey, who lost four starters from last season's state tournament team. "I'm very well pleased with our efforts."

BSHS coach George Martin conceded that Wall's inside play proved to be the difference.

"In spots, we kind of stood around watching them pass the ball," Martin said. "We had girls who were standing straight up — and the ball was going inside."

But Martin, who has been practicing with a full squad for only two weeks because of seven team members being on the volleyball team, said there were bright spots to the Lady Steers' effort.

"There were lots of bright spots," Martin said. "Tevayan played well defensively... and Jennifer played well. We just need to get her to shoot the ball outside more."

"Wall's been in the playoffs nearly every year for the past 12 years," he added. "This was a very good learning experience for us. I felt like we handled the pressure real well."

Big Spring's only lead came late in the first quarter when Russell converted on consecutive possessions to give the Lady Steers a 10-9 lead. The Lady Hawks responded with a pair of free throws from Tracie Multer and a basket by Jessica Wiggins to regain the advantage.

Tarpley out for season

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks hope star forward Roy Tarpley can recover from knee surgery in time for the NBA playoffs — providing they can make it that far without him.

"I'm really disappointed for Roy and for the team," Dallas coach Richie Adubato said. "He was playing great basketball. This is just devastating."

The Mavericks, picked by many to win the Western Conference title, were off to their best start since 1982-83 and were riding a four-game winning streak when it all came crashing down Tuesday.

Tarpley's injury occurred in the first period of Friday night's 111-99 victory over Orlando. His right kneecap slipped out of place when he landed after making a shot on a fastbreak.

The team initially said Tarpley would be out no more than three weeks. Then on Monday, the team said a magnetic resonance imaging study had revealed a cartilage tear and that he was expected to miss four to six weeks.

But arthroscopic surgery Tuesday revealed a tear of the anterior cruciate ligament. Tarpley also suffered a tear in the back of the lateral cartilage, meaning he could see playing time in May at the soonest.

The loss of Tarpley was felt immediately. The Mavericks lost to the Magic 109-103 Tuesday night in Orlando.

Oakland's Welch wins Cy Young award

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bob Welch had a breakthrough season, a Cy Young award-winning season, by giving almost every pitch a lot of thought.

Welch is the third Oakland pitcher to win the award, joining Vida Blue (1971) and Catfish Hunter (1974).

"No doubt about it, with me it's between the ears," the Oakland Athletics' 27-game winner said Tuesday, describing the key to his 1990 pitching success.

He learned to think "every pitch I throw may be my last," Welch added.

Over 12 previous major league seasons, Welch compiled a 149-103 record but never won more than 17 games in a season. He was 27-6 this season, his third with Oakland.

His victory total was the highest for an American League pitcher since 1968, when Detroit's Denny McLain won 31 games. But the A's right-hander was anything but a runaway winner in the AL Cy Young voting announced Tuesday. One of the 28 voters didn't even rate Welch among the league's top three pitching performers.

Boston's Roger Clemens, his bid for a third Cy Young hurt by a late season arm problem, finished as runner-up. Oakland's Dave Stewart was a 20-game winner for a fourth straight season and a Cy Young also ran a fourth straight time, this time in third place. Reliever Bobby Thigpen of the Chicago White Sox posted a major league record 57 saves and finished fourth in the voting.

The National League Cy Young winner will be announced today.

"This is special. It's something I cherish," Welch said of his postseason honor.

But, referring to the National League champion Cincinnati Reds' sweep of the favored A's in October, he added, "You'd like to have the other thing, the World Series championship."

Fifteen of the voting members of the Baseball Writers Association named Welch first on their Cy Young ballots. He got 10 second-place votes and two third-place votes for a total of 123 points. Clemens (8-10-7) had 77 points, Stewart (3-7-7) 43 and Thigpen (2-1-7) 20.

Welch's bottom-line figure — the 27 wins — must have made the difference. His ERA of 2.95 was considerably higher than the other top finishers in the voting. Clemens was 21-6 with a 1.93 ERA, Stewart 22-11 with a 2.56 ERA.

Welch, in a news conference near his home, said A's pitching coach Dave Duncan deserved a lot of the credit for his success.

ever went on the mound," Welch said, adding that he learned "to prepare for what goes wrong."

The first batter Welch faced this season, Minnesota's Dan Gladden, provided a reminder about the need to concentrate on the mound. Gladden homered, but Welch then turned things around.

"Each of the next three hitters hit the first pitch for an out."

Welch set a club record for victories, won 10 straight decisions early in the season, and never lost two straight decisions. He pitched just two complete games — both shutouts — in 35 starts. In 238 innings, he walked 77, struck out 127, gave up 26 home runs and 214 hits.

Clemens became just the second Red Sox pitcher in 73 years with an ERA of under 2.00. He completed seven games, including four shutouts, in 31 starts. Stewart pitched 11 complete games, four of them shutouts, in 36 starts.

Hunter left the A's, as a free agent, after his Cy Young season and finished his Hall of Fame career with the New York Yankees. Welch, 34, has free-agent status now.

Welch did not indicate Tuesday whether he would re-sign with the Athletics. He was born and raised in the Detroit area, and the Tigers are one of many teams expected to bid for him.

Women's tourney starts Thursday

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Just like it's initial season, the Second Annual Howard College Crossroads Tournament is expected to be exciting.

The three-day basketball-fest is two tournaments rolled into one. Six women's teams will compete in the Howard College Classic, and eight teams will compete for the championship in the high school girls division.

Play gets started Thursday morning, with all games being played at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

Not including Howard, three of the teams that played in the Classic return this year: Blinn, Weatherford and Western Texas. Newcomers are Hardin-Simmons University and Cisco Junior College.

The Howard College Lady Hawks play all of their games at 8 p.m. Thursday's opening college action begins with Blinn (3-0), ranked 25th in the JUCO poll, taking on Hardin-Simmons (0-3), which is in its first year of women's basketball. At 4 p.m. Weatherford (0-3) will play Western Texas (2-2), which is coached by Kelly Chadwick, Lady Hawks coach Royce Chadwick's dad. At 8 p.m., Cisco (3-1) will test Howard (5-0), who's ranked No. 14 in the nation. A featured match will be Blinn and Howard Friday at 8 p.m.

Coach Royce Chadwick's Lady Hawks are coming off an impressive 95-36 win over Hardin-Simmons Monday. Chadwick, who hasn't been pleased with his team's consistency, said Howard played good Monday, but he's still looking for more consistent play.

"I'd really like to see us play well. We haven't played well since the Ranger game (opening game)," said Chadwick Monday morning before his team played Hardin-Simmons. "We've been executing poorly, making bad decisions both offensively and defensively. We need to play a more solid all-around game. I think we're fortunate to be 4-0."

"We've been lacking intensity. I see girls making mistakes they shouldn't be making; forcing passes, having defensive lapses. It's like for 10 minutes we can be awesome; in the South Plains tournament we went eight minutes without scoring a point."

Thus far this season Howard has fielded a balanced scoring attack. Sophomore forward Lisa Moore is averaging 15 points per game while sophomore post Mulu Tosi is averaging 13 points per game. Sophomore guard Cindy Williams is scoring 12 points per game and freshman forward Yolanda Wells is scoring at 11 points per clip.

Returning All-American Kim Robinson, playing a new position at point guard, is adjusting nicely. She's currently averaging nine points and nine assists per game.

Porkers to ink top hoopster

(AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks looked today to keep improving their basketball fortunes, which took them to the Final Four last season and have them ranked No. 2 nationally in this year's pre-season Associated Press poll.

Today is the first day of the weeklong NCAA early signing period for several sports, including basketball and baseball. The early signing period ends on Wednesday of next week.

Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson apparently outrecruited Kansas, UNLV, DePaul, Kentucky, Rice and Georgetown for one of the nation's top high school players. 6-9 center John Carter of Atar-Spencer High School in Oklahoma City.

The University of Texas indicated it would sign four players today, while Texas Tech and Texas A&M had their sights on three players each.

Warriors edge Spurs, 128-124

Mitch Richmond, 24-for-30 from the field in his last two games, scored 31 points and Tim Hardaway and Chris Mullin had 24 apiece for Golden State as they beat the Spurs 128-124.

The effort by the Warriors' trio overcame a 32-point, 18-rebound effort by San Antonio's David Robinson.

The Spurs, trailing 114-103 midway through the fourth quarter, got within three with 3:28 remaining following a 10-2 run, but Mullin started a 7-0 run with a basket and three-point play.

Capriati falls to Graff

NEW YORK (AP) — Top-seeded Steffi Graf defeated 14-year-old Jennifer Capriati 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 to begin defense of her Virginia Slims Championships title at Madison Square Garden.

In other first-round matches, Conchita Martinez upset seventh-seeded Zina Garrison 6-3, 6-0 and sixth-seeded Katerina Maleeva defeated Helena Sukova 6-3, 6-3.

The night's final singles match also decided the first quarterfinal pairing. Graf next faces Maleeva, the younger of two sisters to post first-round victories in this season-ending, $3 million tournament.

New hope for minor leagues

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators from the major leagues received a new proposal from the minor leagues and said they hoped to schedule a bargaining session on the Player Development Contract for Thursday.

Bill Murray, the chief negotiator for the major leagues, said he was reviewing the two-page proposal with his bargaining committee. At the same time, Commissioner Fay Vincent said he might soon become involved in the talks.

Vincent had believed an agreement was close before he traveled to Japan two weeks ago for a postseason tour, but a deal could not be closed. The major leagues then announced they would hold their own winter meetings at Rosemont, Ill., next month rather than join the minor leagues in Los Angeles for the traditional joint session.

ment field will be a crowd-pleaser, especially since there is a matchup between two-ranked teams Friday.

"It's the first time I think we've had two ranked women's teams in here at the same time. When we plan Blinn, it should be a really good game," he said.

DEFENDING CHAMPS BACK IN HIGH SCHOOL DIVISION

The Lubbock-Coronado Lady Mustangs are back to defend their title they won last year. Other teams returning besides Big Spring are Coahoma, Lubbock Estacado and Abilene High. Newcomers are Odessa Permian, Snyder and Odessa Parkland.

The first round of play Thursday will pit Truman Meissner's Coahoma Bulldoggettes against Abilene High at 9 a.m. Next is Odessa Permian against Lubbock Estacado at 10:30 a.m. At 2 p.m. Lubbock Coronado and Snyder square off, and Big Spring plays El Paso Parkland at 6 p.m. Last year Coronado defeated Coahoma, 71-68 in the championship. Big Spring won third place by downing Abilene High, 64-57.

All of the high school teams enter the game with one official game under their belts.

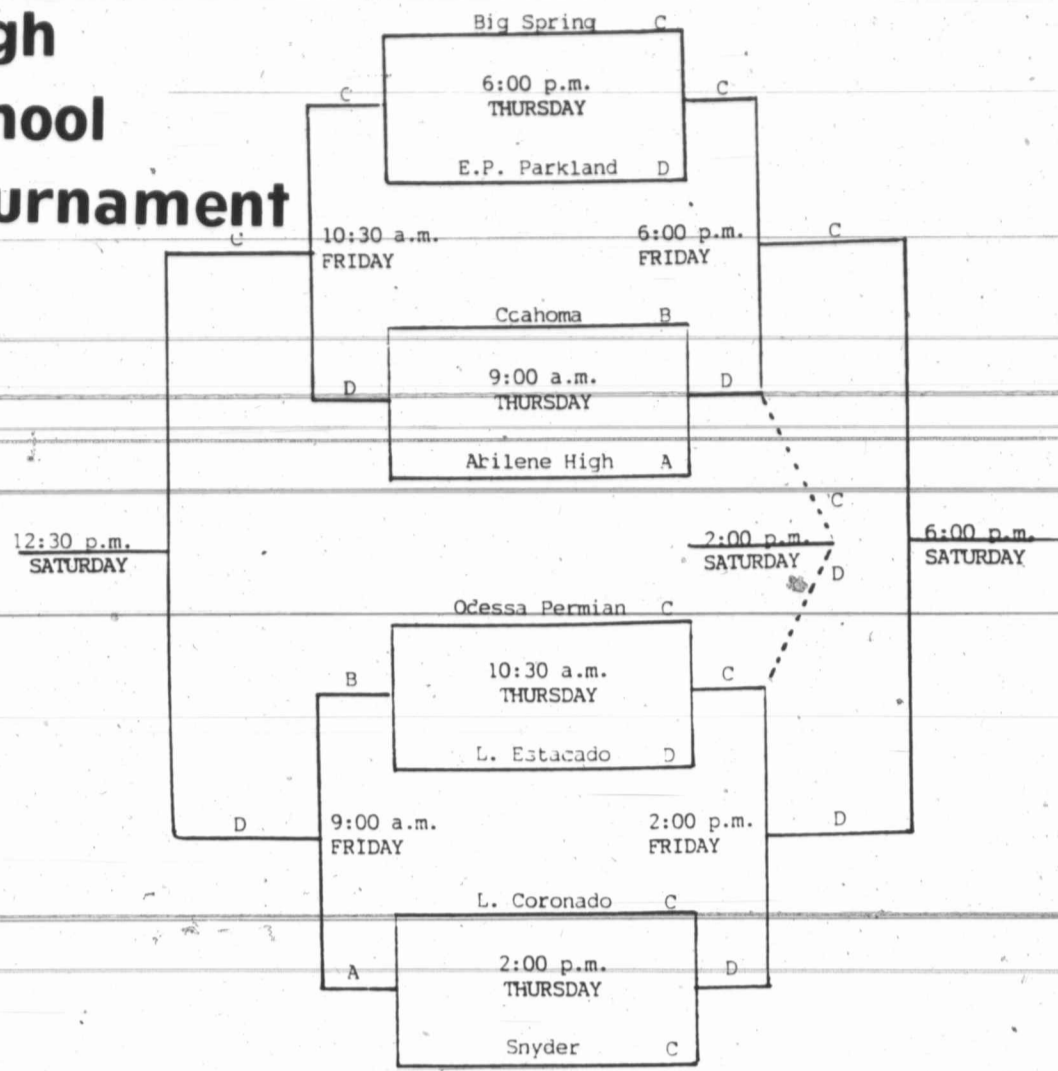

The tournament will feature outstanding players like Coronado's Kelly Gregory, who scored 19 points against Coahoma in the championship game last year. There's also senior guards Patrice Conright of Estacado and Coahoma's Kim Gee; both were named to the all-tournament team last year.

In Coahoma's 74-69 win over Estacado in the first round last year, Conright pumped in 36 points. Gee was one of the leading three-point shooters in the state last season. She will get ample help from post player Kim Wilborn. Wilborn scored 24 points and grabbed 19 rebounds in the title game loss to Coronado.

The Lady Steers have junior post player Teveyan Russell and senior wing Jennifer Hendleman returning. Hendleman, a three-year starter, was an all-district selection last season.

Lady Steers coach George Martin sees it as a well-balanced field. He thinks either his team, Coronado, Permian, Coahoma or Abilene High have legitimate chances to win.

later it was 40-33, and four minutes later the lead was trimmed to 46-43. Soldan's turnaround jumper with 30 seconds remaining left the Steers trailing 46-45 going into the final quarter.

Big Spring took its first lead of the game when Jojola got a steal and took it in for a layup. Moments later Big Spring went up 51-48 on a short jumper by Soldan. After Odessa missed, Big Spring went up 53-48 when Jojola fed Soldan inside at the 5:40 mark.

But the Bronchos battled back. Ricky Rodriguez hit a three-pointer for Big Spring; but Odessa answered with "threes" by Michael Sanchez and Avery Thomas. Moments later OHS regained the lead, 58-57 when Manuel Rodriguez rebounded Thomas' miss and put it in for a score.

Then Leon McDaniel blocked Soldan's shot, leading to a layup by Thomas, putting Odessa High up 60-57 with two minutes remaining.

The Steers closed to within 60-59 when White fed Soldan inside. OHS answered with two baskets off an offensive rebound by Jarvis Williams and a steal by Manuel Rodriguez, resulting in an easy layup for McDaniel. OHS led 64-59 with 1:06 left.

The Steers made one final grasp at victory. Soldan hit a basket, cutting the lead to 64-61, which was followed by an Odessa turnover. On the other end Sanchez stole the ball off the dribble from White. Odessa's scoring try was thwarted when Soldan blocked Thomas' shot.

With time winding down, White tried a three-pointer that was short. Odessa rebounded but the outlet pass was intercepted by Jojola. White tried another three-pointer; the miss was rebounded by Soldan, who made a 10-footer just before the buzzer sounded, leaving the Steers one point short in a thrilling opener.

ODESSA JV MAKES IT A SWEEP

In the junior varsity game, Odessa High won by a score of 68-46. Troy Dixon and Randy Doggett led Big Spring with 12 points each. Randy Doggett scored 10 points.

The Steers will be in action Saturday in Lubbock against Lubbock Dunbar. Junior varsity play starts at 6 p.m., followed by varsity play at 7:30.

Forsan Queens win opener

FORSAN — The Forsan Queens opened their 1990-91 basketball season with a win over the Midland Christian Lady Mustangs 46-32.

The Queens led this game from start to finish, leading by a basket after the first quarter, 11-9, and stretching it to 19-15 at the half.

By the end of the third quarter they were leading 36-19. "I think in the second half that they (the Queens) started to realize what being aggressive really means," said Queens Coach Johnny Schafer. He was pleased with their "hustle" during the game. They will be trying to do a few new things this year and it looks like it may have paid off.

Junior Post Becky Gerstenberger led Forsan with 14 points. She was followed by Freshman Post Jenny Conway with 9 points.

the second quarter, and Wall took full advantage of the situation. While Big Spring was going three minutes without a point, the Lady Steers were converting on all but two trips down the floor, expanding their lead from three points to 11 by the time Vernice Ross hit on a layup for Big Spring with 5:30 left in the half.

Big Spring scored only six more points in the quarter, and Wall led, 33-18, at intermission.

The Lady Steers tried to make a run at Wall in the third quarter. A three-point play from Russell, and jumpers by Hendleman and Ross cut the deficit to 35-25 with 3:45 left in the stanza.

JV, Freshmen fall
Wall made it an evening's sweep by capturing the JV and Freshmen games. In the freshmen contest, a pair of free throws with no time remaining proved to be the difference as Wall escaped with a 29-28 win. Amy Earnst and Rachel Brown led Big Spring with 10 and eight points, respectively.

Bootleg Beatles
 NEW YORK (AP) — Paul McCartney says he sometimes listens to bootleg Beatles music, but he's ambivalent about releasing such recordings.
 McCartney, the other two surviving former Beatles and EMI Records settled protracted lawsuits a year ago, clearing the way for the release of some of the band's unreleased audio and video work — and possibly some of hundreds of hours of studio outtakes. The New York Times reported Sunday.
 "If someone were to come to me and say, 'Look, I've got this very charismatic little album of outtakes, I'd have no problem with that," McCartney said in an interview in Sunday's Times.

 "But we've tried to release the very best of our work," McCartney said. "If you start making the alternate takes available, in 10 years people may not know which was the finished take and which wasn't. I'd rather avoid the confusion."

A good distraction
 NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Kevin Costner says having his wife, children and parents on location on the South Dakota prairie while filming "Dances with Wolves" was a distraction, but worth it.
 "You sometimes find yourself thinking, 'I could do this better if I was by myself,'" he said in the Nov. 19 issue of People magazine. "Then you think, 'Yet I'd miss two months with my family.'"

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An odd message could put you in a quandary this morning. Curtail spending. Planning a fun Thanksgiving weekend will cheer you. You may be tempted to carry a flirtation too far.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1990

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You are in control today and instinctively know the right things to do. Operating behind the scenes puts you in a powerful position. Lunch with a fun bunch of people. Adventure beckons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Many tasks can be juggled at one time today. Others appreciate your versatility. Get as much done as you can at work. That special bond you share with someone is very valuable.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You should enjoy being the center of attention today. Set aside some quiet time to regroup late this afternoon. A trip to the dentist may be overdue. Do not wait any longer.

Bullock: Texas economy on a roll

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas made solid economic gains in 1990, although the lethargic national economy is cause for concern, the state comptroller says.

The November issue of Fiscal Notes, published by Comptroller Bob Bullock's office, said Tuesday that the Texas economy grew for the third straight year in fiscal 1990.

The hard-hit energy and construction industries began a rebound, and there were signs of recovery in real estate and finance, Bullock said Tuesday.

"I don't want to overstate the case. These battered industries are nowhere near the levels they reached during the boom years . . . But in 1990, Texas took a big step toward shaking off the last, lingering effects of the state's 1986 recession."

Bob Bullock

nowhere near the levels they reached during the boom years. And the national picture is not bright," said Bullock, the state's lieutenant governor-elect.

"But in 1990, Texas took a big step toward shaking off the last, lingering effects of the state's 1986 recession," he said. In fiscal 1990, which ended Aug. 31, the Texas economy grew for the third time since the recession of 1986-87, according to Fiscal Notes.

But manufacturing stumbled, due to a slower national economy and defense industry cuts.

The state's trade industries gained despite a national trend of lower sales, the comptroller's office reported. Transportation, health and business services, and government were strong new sources of employment, it said.

All six regions of the state gained jobs, according to Fiscal Notes.

A reflection of the state's improving financial position was its $767 million cash balance at fiscal year's end, the largest since 1983. But the comptroller's office cautioned that this is just a "snapshot" midway through a two-year budget period.

Of the balance, $300 million is reserved for energy conservation projects, and the rest is spoken for during fiscal 1991.

There are further challenges for the state, including more demands for human services and public school spending.

Former Cowboy gets life sentence

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Ralph Coleman received life imprisonment following a second conviction for the beating death of a Greenville nightclub bouncer in 1987.

Coleman, who played with the Cowboys in 1972, showed no emotion as the verdict was announced but maintained his innocence as Circuit Court Judge C. Victor Pyle Jr. handed down the life sentence on Tuesday.

Coleman, 40, was charged with the July 10, 1987, slaying of Ronald M. Taylor, Taylor, 44, was found lying in a pool of blood about a block from the nightclub in downtown Greenville where he worked.

Coleman was convicted of Taylor's murder in March 1988. But the state Supreme Court overturned that verdict last February. A jury could not reach a verdict in the retrial of the case in August.

Stormie's family to open services

WHITE SETTLEMENT, Texas (AP) — The mother and stepfather of Stormie Jones have decided to make services for the world's first heart-liver transplant patient open to the public.

The services, which were going to be private, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday at the West Freeway Church of Christ. A spokeswoman said the family had decided to allow those who had shared Stormie's hopes, dreams and difficulties to attend.

Stormie died unexpectedly Sunday at Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh, where she had been hospitalized with a sore throat and high fever.

Ms. Millikan said a news conference was planned this afternoon to discuss details of funeral arrangements with reporters. Alan and Lois "Susie" Purcell, Stormie's mother and stepfather, planned to attend, she said.

Trial begins for 'fake' baron

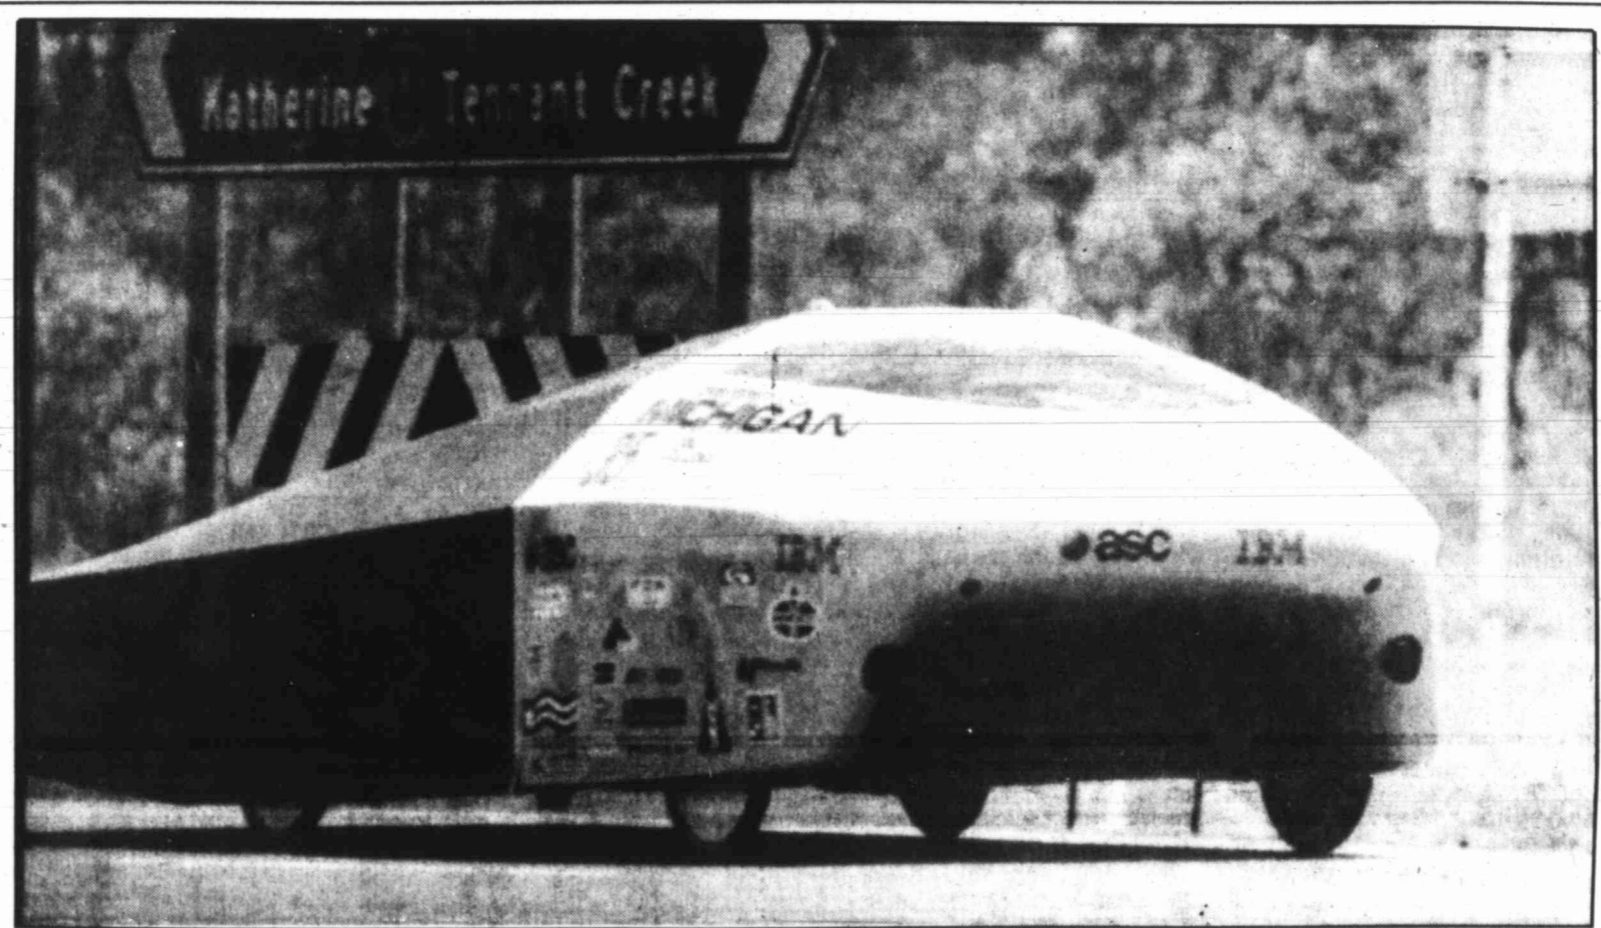

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Texas native who masqueraded as a member of a wealthy French family while at Duke University says he believed in his identity, but a federal agent says the man told him he benefited from the name change.

Paul Stirrup, an FBI agent who investigated Maur Rothschild, testified Tuesday that the two agreed to meet in Durham in 1989.

"He told me he began using the name baron when he found out it did him some good," the agent said.

Rothschild denied saying that to Stirrup, and said he changed his name 15 years ago because of psychological problems.

A jury was picked Tuesday in the fraud trial of Rothschild, who is accused of bilking two banks out of thousands of dollars.

Crisis could put U.S. jobs at risk

(AP) — Challenged by congressional leaders over its new war footing, the Bush administration has begun to emphasize that American jobs could be at risk if Saddam Hussein is allowed to maintain his grip on Kuwait.

"The economic lifeline of the industrial world runs from the (Persian) Gulf and we cannot permit a dictator such as this to sit astride that economic lifeline," Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Tuesday.

"To bring it down to the level of the average American citizen, let me say that means jobs."

Baker suggested that a worldwide economic recession could result if Saddam is not checked and the security of gulf oil reserves ensured.

He spoke after meeting in Bermuda with Canada's external affairs minister, Joe Clark, who voiced support for a U.S.-sponsored United Nations resolution authorizing the use of military force to drive Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

More allied soldiers and hardware may be on their way to join the U.S. expeditionary force that has gathered in the Saudi desert as the chief challenger to Saddam.

The Times of London reported today that Britain is expected to send an additional 6,000 troops and more than 100 additional tanks to the gulf, increasing its ground forces there to 15,500 and its tanks to more than 220.

The Bush administration has indicated that it will attack Iraqi forces to dislodge them from Kuwait, which Saddam seized on Aug. 2, if a U.N.-ordered embargo on trade with Iraq and saber-rattling fail.

That position is encountering resistance from some allies abroad and some leading members of Congress who accuse the president of showing too much of an inclination to resort quickly to the military option.

Bush last week decided to send 200,000 more troops to the Persian Gulf to bolster the 230,000 American GIs already there, putting U.S. forces on an offensive footing.

On Tuesday, key Democratic and Republican senators asked him to convene an emergency session of Congress to discuss the administration's gulf policy.

The White House quickly called such a session unnecessary. Said press secretary Marlin Fitzwater: "There is no war."

Judge refuses to stop reservist deployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. troop buildup in the Persian Gulf poses a "difficult legal question," says a federal judge in refusing to bar the Army from sending a reservist to Saudi Arabia without a formal declaration of war.

U.S. District Judge Royce C. Lamberth rejected a bid Tuesday by Army National Guard Sgt. Michael R. Ange for a temporary restraining order to stop his deployment to the Persian Gulf.

"If I gave your soldier a TRO, I would have a few others in here tomorrow," Lamberth told Ange's lawyer, Michael Ratner. The judge scheduled a Dec. 10 hearing on Ange's request for a permanent injunction.

The case "does pose a difficult legal question" about President Bush's power to send troops to a combat zone without a congressional declaration of war, the judge said.

Ange's lawsuit was filed as two key Republican lawmakers, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas and Richard Lugar of Indiana, former chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, urged Bush to seek congressional authorization for the U.S. military mission in the Middle East.

Ange contends that Bush has not gotten the authorization from Congress that is required by the Constitution. Ratner, an attorney for the Center for Constitutional Rights, also argued that the order to deploy Ange violates the 1973 War Powers Act.

"There has not been sufficient congressional consent, or any consent, to the military activities at issue," Ratner argued.

The Constitution makes the president commander-in-chief of the armed forces, including National Guard troops called into federal service, and gives Congress the power to declare war.

The War Powers Act requires the president to notify Congress of any substantial new deployment of forces overseas, and requires him to win congressional approval or withdraw troops within 60 days if he sends them into combat or into situations where hostilities are imminent.

Apnea ups risk of attack

DALLAS (AP) — About 2 million Americans unknowingly suffer from a breathing disorder that doubles their risk of dying from a heart attack, researchers say.

The disorder, in which people stop breathing for 30 to 60 seconds or longer during sleep, is most common in people who snore, said Dr. Bernard Burack, a cardiologist at the Montefiore Medical Center's Sleep-Wake Center in New York.

"That doesn't mean everyone who snores is going to drop dead," Burack said. But patients with the snoring-related disorder have a risk of heart-related death 2.1 times the national average, Burack reported Tuesday at the annual scientific meeting of the American Heart Association.

The disorder is called obstructive sleep apnea. It occurs most often in men, but when it occurs in women it is even more lethal, Burack said.

It tends to occur in people who are overweight, have high blood pressure and heart arrhythmias, or rhythm disturbances, Burack said. Daytime sleepiness is another indicator of the disorder, because it often disrupts sleep.

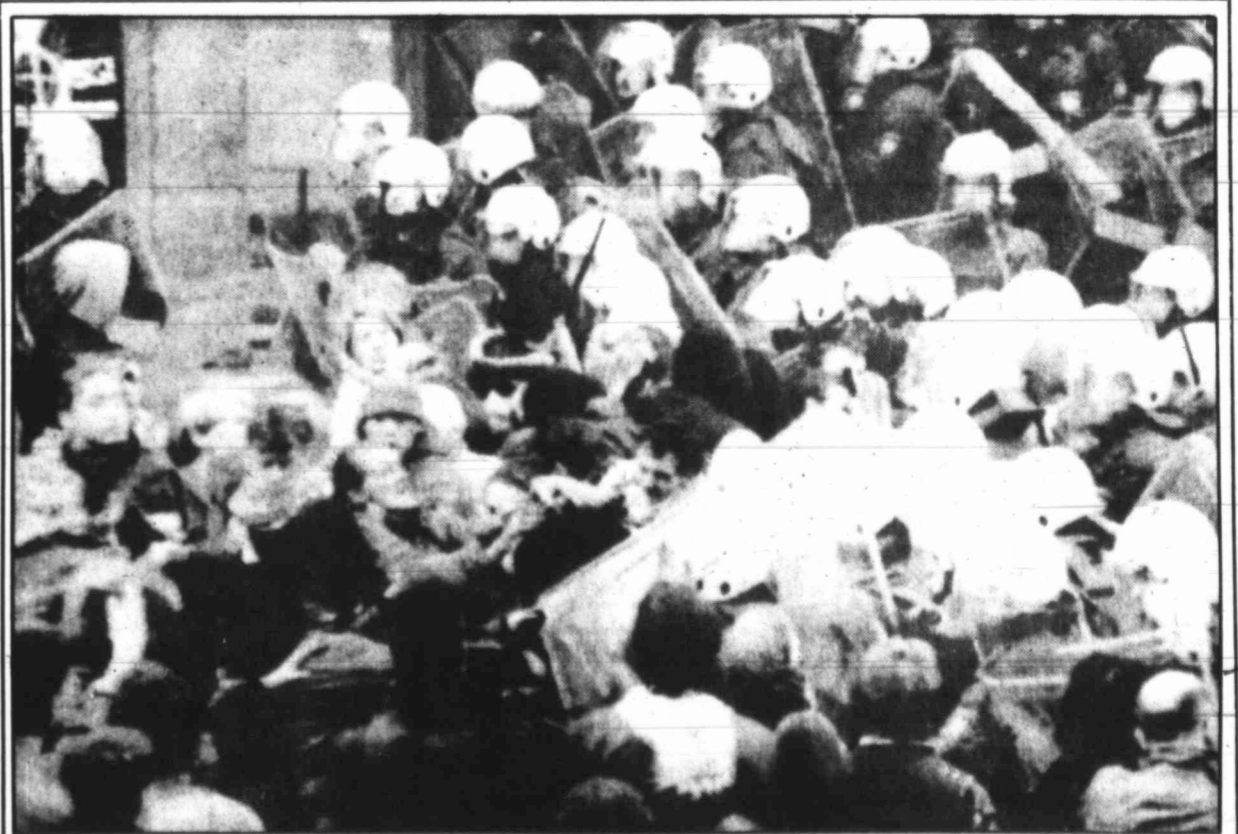

The disease is particularly dangerous in people who have atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, Burack said.

In a study of 223 patients, Burack and his colleagues found that the patients died at a median age of 61, compared to the national median of 78. Twenty of 35 deaths in the group occurred between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m.

During an episode of sleep apnea, the amount of oxygen in the bloodstream plummets. The heart may beat slowly or even stop beating. The heart, already stressed by the lack of oxygen, is further stressed by the abnormal rhythms.

Efforts to breathe then produce an overdrive, often triggering rapid heart rhythms. "That can

Mitchell, D.-Maine, showed little enthusiasm for calling lawmakers back from recess, but said Senate hearings would be scheduled on the crisis, probably in the next several weeks.

"The American people deserve a full national debate," he said. Leading senators favoring an emergency session included Sam Nunn, the Georgia Democrat who chairs the Armed Services Committee, and Richard Lugar, R-Ind., a senior member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"What clearly has occurred since the president sent the additional troops over... is an unraveling of support around the world," said Lugar. "That has to stop and this is why it is important that we come together, congress and the president, now to affirm precisely what we're going to do."

His comments reflected concerns that several members of the U.S.-dominated alliance against Iraq were reluctant to fight Saddam's soldiers.

A U.N. Security Council resolution on that use of force can be vetoed by any of its five permanent members.

Among them, France, China and the Soviet Union have indicated they want to give the economic sanctions and diplomacy more time.

In other developments Tuesday:
 • Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, concluding an independent peace mission to Baghdad, said Iraq had agreed to release four Americans from the hundreds held hostage by Iraq.

• The Pentagon said U.S. Marines would conduct their first amphibious assault exercise in Saudi Arabia since being deployed in the region. Spokesman Pete Williams would not say when or exactly where the exercise would be held.

The Washington Times said it would be held 10 miles from Kuwait, quoting unnamed U.S. officials as saying it was "provocative" to hold such maneuvers that close to the border.

• The Pentagon also said it has authorized the callup of additional Navy reservists and will take similar steps for other services.

• A federal judge in Washington refused to stop the Army from sending reservist Sgt. Michael R. Ange to the Persian Gulf without congressional authority but said the case posed "a difficult legal question" about presidential power.

'Best Band Herd' concludes marching season

By MARY BARNHILL
 For the Herald

Last Friday night's performance at Buffalo Stadium ended a very successful season for the Stanton High School "Best Band Herd." It also marked the last performance in marching season for the band's seniors.

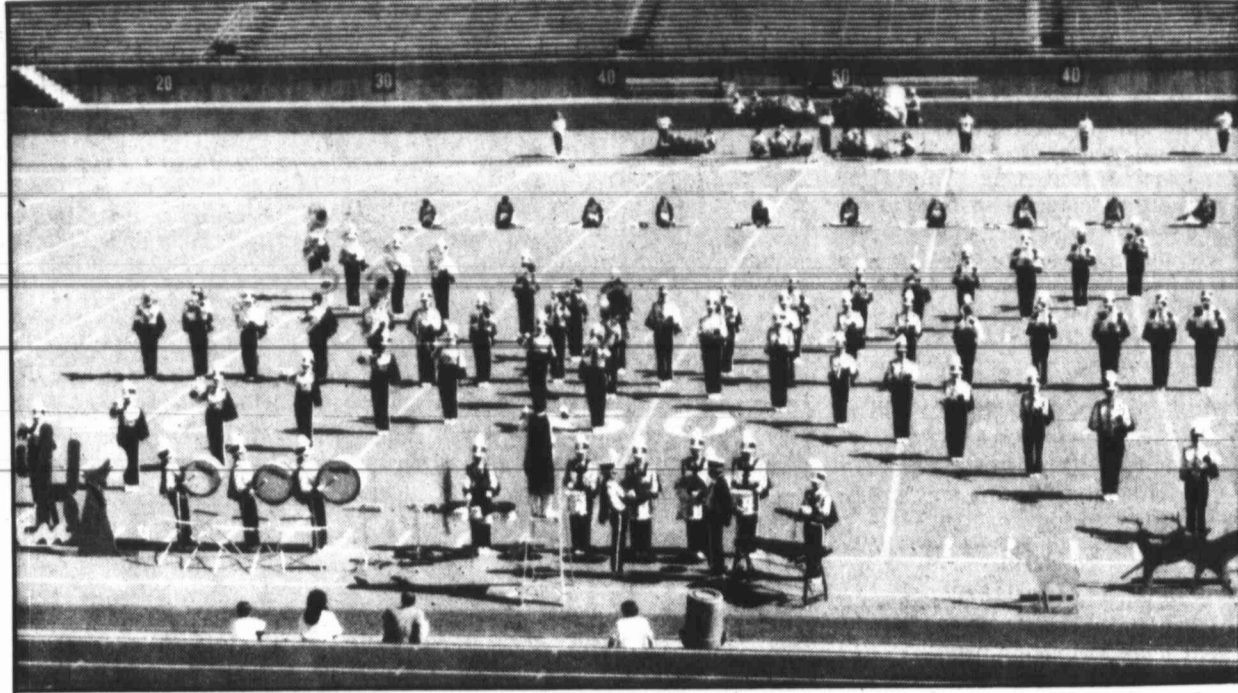

Marching season began with unsure expectations for the coming months when Rick Lee left to take a position at another school, leaving Kirke McKenzie to succeed him.

Kirke took on the responsibility, along with his assistant Robert Tucker, by changing the style and music of the performances with the use of props, backgrounds and marching techniques.

He formed the "Best Band Herdsmen," a group of parents and friends who work with the band to give students moral support and also help with all the details of the show each week.

This help by the adults marked a new chapter for the SHS band. At least 20-30 adults helped with each Monday-night practice and Friday-night halftimes. They traveled with the band to all the contests, helping with the props and instruments.

The chance to work one-on-one with the kids this year and to be able to participate in band activities left the parents with a feeling of pride and accomplishment. The parents were as anxious about each show as the kids were, if not more so, and proud of each and every performance.

ODESSA — The Stanton High School Marching Band is shown competing in the UIL District Marching contest at Ratliff Stadium recently. The "Best Band Herd" ended their marching season with their performance at last Friday's halftime.

Pam Cannon and her parent assistants did an excellent job training the flag corp and choreographing the flag routines. Their use of props and streamers was excellent. The 12 girls worked together in unison and received good ratings from all the judges. Kirke's outstanding reputation and capabilities as a band director has been proven this year by leading the largest SHS band — 80 members — to ever march for Stanton High School through a successful marching season, never losing one student to grades. The "Best Band Herd" won second place at Lubbock Marching Contest, second place at District UIL Marching Contest and third place at Regional UIL Marching Contest, being named alternate to State UIL Contest.

Also, the band performed for Senator Phil Gramm when he visited Big Spring recently. The "Best Band Herd" was recognized by judges at every contest entered this season as one of the most entertaining and audience appealing shows seen this year.

As senior parents of the SHS band members, we would like to express our appreciation to those who loaned and donated paint, lumber, food supplies and especially their time to the students' performances this year.

We will leave as SHS band parents after our children's senior year with a feeling of great pride as we worked with all the kids and the directors.

We urge the public to be watching for future performances by the "Best Band Herd" and their leaders, Kirke McKenzie and Robert Tucker, in the next few years at halftime shows. There will be plenty of surprises and excitement to come.

Commissioner posts bond after warrant issued

DALLAS (AP) — County Commissioner John Wiley Price is free on $200 bond after a judge issued a warrant for his arrest on charges that he violated probation last week during an altercation with an off-duty police officer.

Price is slated for a grand jury investigation stemming from the confrontation with Robert Bernal.

County Criminal Judge John Orvis issued the warrant Tuesday because of a June misdemeanor criminal mischief charge for whitewashing alcohol- and tobacco-related billboards, said Ted Steinke, assistant district attorney.

Price received six month's probation from Orvis for painting over the billboards in predominantly black neighborhoods. Price said the billboards victimized minorities.

Orvis said Price violated a condition of probation requiring him to "commit no offense against the laws of this or any other state."

The judge signed the order against Price shortly before 2 p.m. Tuesday, according to court clerk Subrina Brenham. Officials allowed Price to post bond on his own.

Price did not appear at Lew Sterrett Justice Center to post the $200. Instead, he made arrangements through the county's pretrial release office to settle the warrant without having to face a crowd of reporters who gathered late Tuesday afternoon at the county jail.

Steinke said the motion filed by prosecutors Monday in effect asked the judge to revoke the commissioner's probation and set a hearing in the case.

"There are two kinds of probation in Texas, and this was non-conviction probation," said Steinke, adding that Price pleaded guilty in the case. "Now, this motion asked the court to go ahead and convict him of the criminal mischief charge and then revoke his probation."

The controversy surrounding the commissioner began Nov. 5, when Bernal told his superiors that Price pointed an Uzi submachine gun at his head after the officer shouted "Wiley sucks!" while jogging past the commissioner's house.

Price said he was holding a pellet gun during his confrontation with the officer but did not point it at him. Price also said Bernal called him a "nigger."

Bernal denies using any racial slurs.

Indian student will not cut hair

LUBBOCK (AP) — An American Indian, who claims his cultural identity of wearing long hair is being violated by the Lubbock Independent School District's dress code, says he will not cut his locks despite a district judge's ruling.

Judge Bradley Underwood denied a motion Tuesday by two students and their parents for a permanent injunction against the LISD's new dress code.

The policy prohibits boys from wearing longer than shoulder-length hair, rat tails, pony tails, braids and designs in their hair.

"Everyone at school was real disappointed," Yacatico Kelley said of Underwood's decision.

"People asked me what I was going to do. I told them I wasn't going to cut my hair.

"I think we will keep fighting this. I still feel the same way about (the dress code). That won't ever change."

The LISD was sued by Michael Kelley, father of Yacatico, a sophomore at Lubbock High School, and Kathy Buckberry, mother of fifth-grader Michael Buckberry.

Yacatico and Michael returned to school today and will be allowed to attend classes until Monday, when school officials will begin enforcement of the hair policy.

The boys' parents say they will pull their children from school and either transfer to a private school or teach the boys at home.

Michael, an honors student, has worn a rat tail for the last three years.

Yacatico claims his cultural heritage of wearing long hair is being denied by the dress code.

The elder Kelley said he will consult with his lawyers before committing to an appeal.

Meanwhile, officials from the LISD are hoping the dress code doldrums are behind them.

"I don't think that we have any reason to gloat," said LISD Superintendent Mike Moses.

Edwin Price, a lawyer representing the boys, said the parents have not decided if they will appeal the decision.

"It's a close call," Price said. "I am a bit surprised. The judge has indicated to us that previous cases, which state (that) hair is not a sufficiently important issue for intervention of an appellate court, are still good law."

Murray Hensley, a lawyer representing the school district, said Underwood's ruling was a victory for the students.

"It has been the position of the school district all along that the dress code gives the schools a better environment for learning," Hensley said. "If that is the case, the students will get a better education."

Units in place; tents, equipment yet to arrive

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The 340th Supply and Service Company, based in San Antonio, is in place in Saudi Arabia — but not the tents and equipment it needs to establish its desert position 50 miles from the Kuwaiti border.

"It has left (the port of Houston) and is in route," said Maj. Larry Furphy, in response to reports from family members that the unit was still waiting for its equipment as late as Sunday. Frank Campa said his son, Pfc. Steven Campa, called him from Saudi Arabia on Sunday night.

"He told me that the equipment is still sitting on the dock in Houston," the elder Campa told the San Antonio Express-News.

While the 340th's wrecker, repair van and all of its trucks and tankers arrived at the port of Dammam on the Persian Gulf on schedule Nov. 3, the containers with the unit's bakery, fuel tanks, showers, laundry, computers and other technical equipment were not with them.

The containers also held all the unit's recreational equipment, including a VCR and TV monitor.

"All they are doing is sitting around," Campa said his son told him. He said his son asked for sports equipment such as Frisbees, footballs, softball equipment or games.

Margie Uvalle said Tuesday that her husband, Sgt. John Uvalle, and other members of the 340th also said they were still waiting.

She said the unit members were nevertheless preparing for the move from the tent encampment in "Cement City" to the remote desert location where they were assigned.

 kick off, in somebody who's vulnerable, a fatal rhythm," Burack said.

Weight loss can help alleviate the condition in some people, Burack said. Patients can also be fitted with a mask and air pump that will force air into their mouths and keep the airways open during sleep.

"The problem is people don't want to sleep with a mask over their faces for the rest of their lives," Burack said.

Surgery to remove excess tissue in the throat can sometimes help. In extreme cases, an incision is made in patients' throats that can be fitted with a plug meant to be removed at night.

Burack said people who suspect they suffer from sleep apnea should seek treatment in a sleep disorders clinic.

Trainer crash kills three

CRESTVIEW, Fla. (AP) — Federal investigators were seeking the cause of the crash of a twin-engine turboprop plane that killed a civilian instructor from Alabama and two Fort Rucker student pilots, including an Army officer from Fort Worth.

The National Transportation Safety Board and the Federal Aviation Administration were investigating the crash Tuesday morning at Bob Sikes Airport in this Florida Panhandle city in place of the military because the Beechcraft King Air A90 was a civilian plane, said Al Endicott, a spokesman for Fort Rucker in southeast Alabama.

The plane was operated by FlightSafety International Co. of Dothan, Ala.

Flight instructor Thurman Frederic Garnand, 38, of Clayhatchee, Ala., was killed in the crash, said Fort Rucker Public Affairs Officer Lt. Col. Eric Jowers.

Another Fort Rucker spokesman, Bill Hayes, today identified the two student pilots as Maj. Thomas V. Hart, 38, of Fort Worth, who was based at Fort Knox, Ky., and Chief Warrant Officer Paul L. Godwin, 35, of Evergreen, who was based with an Army aviation unit in Heidelberg, Germany.

"The tail is still intact, but that's the only thing that is," Okaloosa County Sheriff's Department spokesman Rick Hord said.

THANKSGIVING DINNER Traditional Elegance with Ease

Thanksgiving is special. It's a time for family and friends to share a festive meal. The spirit of the occasion brings back memories of feasts of the past and kicks-off lively conversations about the holiday season ahead.

Hosting this meal should be fun and easy for the chief cook. All it takes is a little organization.

TIMELY TIPS

Here are some simple suggestions that will ease preparation:

- Plan in advance by making a grocery list and checking supplies of kitchen staples. Make sure tablecloths, dinnerware and serving dishes are clean and ready to use.
- Do as many tasks as possible in advance. Sometimes it is even possible to set the table the night before the meal.
- The biggest purchase for the meal is the turkey. Plump, juicy Butterball® turkeys are available conveniently both frozen and fresh.
- Consumers can purchase a frozen turkey well in advance of the feast and hold it in the freezer. Thaw the bird in a refrigerator; allow 2 to 3 (24-hour) days to thaw a 12- to 16-pound turkey. Do not thaw turkey at room temperature. If purchasing a fresh turkey, it is best to bring it home several days before the meal. Then store it on a tray in a cold (35 to 40°F) refrigerator.
- Roasting a turkey is easy, especially in an open pan. Remove the neck and giblets and drain the turkey well. Stuff the turkey, if desired. Then place breast up in a shallow pan, brush with oil and roast in a 325-degree oven. Check the turkey after several hours, shielding breast with foil when the skin is golden brown.
- Cherries add color and flavor to traditional bread stuffing, but there is no need to arise at dawn to stuff the turkey. Prepare, but do not combine, stuffing ingredients the night before the meal and store in refrigerator. Allow about 20 minutes to prepare and stuff the turkey before putting it in the oven.
- Cherry Cheese Delight, a festive salad, can be prepared easily the day before the meal because it is a combination of readily available ingredients — cherry pie filling, cottage cheese, whipped topping and almonds. Prepare and put in a serving bowl, then cover and store overnight in the refrigerator. Garnish with almonds or fresh mint just before putting on the table. Other ideas using cherries are available in a free brochure. Just write Cherry Marketing Institute, 2220 University Park Drive, Dept. 901C, Okemos, MI 48864.
- Preparation of the gravy is a last-minute detail because you need the pan drippings from the turkey. Have the saucepan, serving bowl and other ingredients at hand so the gravy can be prepared quickly. A cherry juice blend adds distinctive flavor to traditional gravy.
- Brussels sprouts are the most popular vegetable for the Thanksgiving meal. A hint of ginger and a sprinkling of walnuts give a different twist to this recipe. If desired, prepare and cook the sprouts the day before the meal, then toss with the butter mixture and heat just before serving.
- Have a plan for storing leftovers after the meal is over. As a general rule, get them in the refrigerator within two hours.
- The advantage of a large feast is that you have meals to last the entire weekend. When serving turkey a second time, create a cherry sauce flavored with curry to give the meal a new taste sensation.

TURKEY with TART CHERRY STUFFING

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3/4 cup chopped celery
- 1/3 cup chopped onion
- 3/4 teaspoon dried thyme leaves
- 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- 1 package (7 ounces) dried herb seasoned stuffing cubes
- 3/4 cup golden raisins
- 3/4 cup chicken broth
- 1 can (16 ounces) red tart cherries, drained
- 12-pound Butterball Turkey, thawed if frozen
- Vegetable oil

Melt butter in medium saucepan over medium heat. Add celery and onion; cook 6 minutes or until crisp-tender. Stir in thyme and poultry seasoning. In large bowl, toss together stuffing cubes, raisins, celery mixture and broth. Stir in cherries. Set aside.

Preheat oven to 325°F. Remove neck and giblets from turkey cavities. Drain turkey well. Stuff neck and body cavities lightly with stuffing. Turn wings back to hold neck skin in place. Place turkey, breast side up, on flat rack in open pan, about 2 inches deep.

Insert meat thermometer deep into thickest part of thigh next to body, not touching bone. Brush skin with oil. Place turkey in oven and roast about 4 hours. When skin is golden brown, shield breast loosely with foil to prevent overbrowning. Check for doneness; thigh temperature should be 180 to 185°F. Let turkey stand 15 to 20 minutes before carving.

Makes 10 servings (6 cups stuffing).

Note: One package (16 ounces) frozen red tart cherries, thawed and drained, may be substituted for the canned cherries.

FRUITFUL TURKEY GRAVY

- Turkey drippings
- Cherry juice blend or cherry-apple juice
- 1/4 cup cornstarch
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Dash ground black pepper

Pour turkey drippings from roasting pan into 4-cup measure. Remove 1/4 cup fat from drippings; place in saucepan. Skim off and discard remaining fat from drippings. Add cherry juice blend to drippings to make 3 cups. Blend cornstarch into fat until smooth; add drippings. Cook and stir over medium heat until gravy comes to a boil and thickens. Stir in salt and pepper.

Makes about 3 cups.

WALNUT BUTTERED BRUSSELS SPROUTS

- 2 pounds fresh Brussels sprouts
- 2 cups water
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/3 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger

Remove wilted leaves of Brussels sprouts, trim stems and make a shallow cross cut in stem of each. In large saucepan, bring Brussels sprouts and water to boiling; cover, reduce heat and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until tender. Drain. Rinse with cold water and drain well.

Melt butter in Dutch oven over medium heat. Add walnuts; cook and stir until butter browns, about 3 minutes. Stir in ginger. Then add Brussels sprouts and sauté until hot.

Makes 8 servings.

CHERRY CHEESE DELIGHT

- 1 can (21 ounces) cherry filling and topping
- 1 container (16 ounces) small-curd cottage cheese
- 1/2 cup slivered almonds
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract, or to taste
- 1 cup frozen whipped topping, thawed
- Toasted almonds or fresh mint leaves, optional

In large mixing bowl, combine cherry filling, cottage cheese, almonds and almond extract; mix well. Fold in whipped topping. Chill until ready to serve. Garnish with almonds or mint leaves.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHERRY CHUTNEY for TURKEY

- 1 can (16 ounces) dark sweet cherries
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 tablespoon cornstarch
- 1-1/2 teaspoons curry powder
- 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
- Dash salt
- Hot, sliced Butterball Turkey

Drain cherries, reserving 1/2 cup syrup. Chop cherries into small pieces; set aside.

Melt butter in small saucepan over medium heat. Add onion and garlic; cook 4 minutes or until tender. Remove from heat. Add reserved syrup and vinegar. In small bowl, stir together sugar, cornstarch, curry powder, ginger and salt. Gradually stir sugar mixture into onion mixture. Cook and stir over medium heat until sauce thickens and is bubbly. Add cherries; reduce heat and simmer 3 to 5 minutes to blend flavors. Serve with hot, sliced turkey.

Makes about 1-3/4 cups.

HELP FOR THE COOK

Whether you are cooking your first Thanksgiving meal or are an old-hand at Thanksgiving dinner preparation, questions often arise. But don't despair, help is as close as your telephone.

Forty-four specially trained home economists are answering phones for the Butterball Turkey Talk-Line. The toll-free hotline, now in its 10th year, provides consumers nationwide with answers to questions about turkey preparation.

The hotline handles more than 150,000 calls in a two-month period, so, if possible, call in advance of the holiday. Jotting down your questions and having a pencil and notepad handy will help ensure accurate answers.

The Butterball Turkey Talk-Line is open Monday through Friday, October 29 through November 21, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. (CST); the weekend prior to Thanksgiving, November 17 and 18, home economists are available 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. On Thanksgiving Day, November 22, calls will be taken from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. From November 23 to December 21, the Talk-Line is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. (CST). The number to call is 1-800-323-4848.

Americans are known for having what could be called a collective sweet tooth. This comes as no surprise. Desserts have always been an important part of the American diet, something which is obvious when looking through most of the cookbooks from the 1800s.

Along with recipes and directions for making one's own venison sausage (freshly killed, of course), or a true (as opposed to a mock) turtle soup, recipes abound for innumerable pies, cakes, puddings, pastries, ice creams, dumplings, fritters and other related confections.

An ongoing interest

One slender volume, entitled The New Family Book, or Ladies' Indispensable Companion and Housekeepers' Guide: Addressed to Sister, Mother and Wife (New York, 1954), by E. Hutchinson, includes 62 recipes for desserts, out of a total of 155—nearly half the book!

Clearly, this reflects something of our ongoing verve for things deliciously sweet. And, as time has been telling us, many of these old-fashioned desserts are made still in much the same way they were then, and for good reason.

Early American cooks knew what they were doing, and knew that traditional treats were more satisfying when made (more or less) in the traditional fashion. This does not mean improvisation should be avoided, of course; after all, the traditional ways had to have been improvised at one time or another, but, to satisfy that desire for down-home flavor, there's nothing like turning to an old-fashioned dessert, made with good, wholesome ingredients.

Apple Nut Strudel and Peach Hazelnut Cake, both selected from A Mountain Harvest Cookbook (Doubleday & Company, Inc.), by Roberta Sickler, are just two of many delicious recipes which can be found in this volume with old-fashioned roots as well as contemporary appeal.

APPLE NUT STRUDEL

Serves 6-8

- 4-6 medium cooking apples
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans
1/4 cup raisins
2 tablespoons honey or maple syrup
1 tablespoon oil
1 tablespoon flour
6 sheets of phyllo dough
5 tablespoons melted butter
Poppy seeds

Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Peel apples, if desired. Core and thinly slice. Combine slices with nuts, raisins, honey, oil, and flour. Stir together.

Unroll phyllo dough. Remove 1 sheet and lay it on a smooth surface. (Keep rest of dough between dampened towels to prevent drying.) Brush with melted butter. Cover with another sheet of phyllo, butter, and repeat process with remaining 4 sheets.

Spread apple filling over the last pastry, leaving wide margins at ends and sides. Fold margin of long sides over on the filling. Roll the pastry from one end. Gently lifting, with the help of spatula, place the pastry on an oiled cookie sheet.

Slit the top in 2 diagonal slashes, and brush with a bit more butter. Sprinkle with poppy seeds.

Bake for 30 minutes, or until golden. Apple Nut Strudel is delicious served warm, topped with yogurt or honey ice cream.

PEACH HAZELNUT CAKE

Serves 6-8

- 1/2 cup butter
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
2 cups flour (all unbleached white or half white, half whole wheat pastry)
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg
1 1/4 cups buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup chopped peeled peaches, dredged with flour
1/2 cup ground hazelnuts

Preheat oven to 400 degrees F. Butter an 8-inch round cake pan, an 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2-inch loaf pan, or a 9-inch tube pan.

Cream together butter and sugar. Add the egg. Sift the dry ingredients together and add them, alternating with the buttermilk (dry ingredients in three additions, buttermilk in two). Add vanilla, peaches, and nuts. Pour into prepared pan and bake until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean, about 35 to 45 minutes.

Set on rack to cool about 20 minutes before removing from pan.

Traditional favorite

Brownies have long been an American favorite and, while the origin of the first recipe is uncertain, brownies' first appearance in print was in the 1897 Sears, Roebuck and Co. Catalog. The recipe below is culled from The American Heart Association Cookbook (Ballantine Books).

FUDGE BROWNIES

- 2 tablespoons cocoa
3/4 cup dark brown sugar, firmly packed
1/2 cup margarine, melted
1 large egg, slightly beaten
1/2 cup all-purpose unbleached flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat oven to 325°F. In a mixing bowl, combine cocoa and brown sugar. Stir in margarine and egg. Beat with a wooden spoon until thoroughly blended.

Sift together flour and salt. Mix into the batter along with chopped walnuts. Stir in vanilla extract. Pour the batter into a greased 8x8x2-inch square pan. Bake 25 minutes, or until done.

Remove from oven and cool on a wire rack for about 5 minutes. Cut into squares and let cool further before removing from pan. Store in a covered container.

Yield: 16 squares. Approx. cal/serv.: 115

Pudding stems from a long-standing tradition most likely started in Europe, and was originally more of a meat dish. In early American versions it was something thrown together at a moment's notice, usually consisting of milk, cornmeal and molasses—the results of which were called "cornmeal mush" or "hasty pudding."

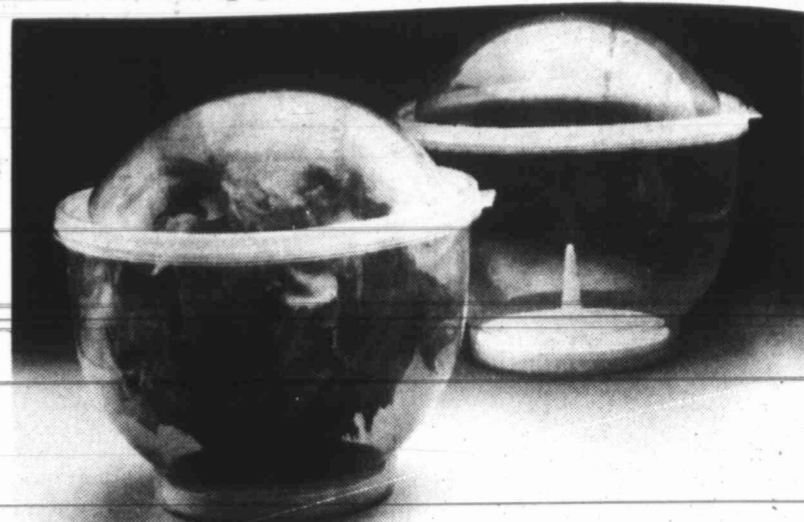

The recipe below for Indian Pudding dates from Colonial times and is related to hasty pudding because of the cornmeal, which was also known as "Indian meal." And, it's followed by a recipe for many people's favorite, Chocolate Pudding.

Both recipes have been culled from The Dictionary of American Food & Drink (Ticknor & Fields), by John F. Mariani.

INDIAN PUDDING

Scald 5 cups milk and pour slowly over 1/2 cup cornmeal. Cook in double boiler till slightly thickened, then add 1 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup molasses, and a pinch of grated nutmeg. Pour into buttered dish and bake at 300° for about 2 hr. or until set. Serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

Keep food fresh and flavorful

IF YOU LOVE SALAD, you're going to love the new "Lettuce Crisper." No more bruised heads of lettuce going to waste in the vegetable drawer—taking up space till they get thrown out. Now you'll have crisp, fresh lettuce always ready to be turned into the perfect salad. Here's how it works: A head of lettuce is cored, rinsed and placed on a spike in the bottom of the "Lettuce Crisper." Any moisture remaining on the lettuce drains into a well under a grid, which keeps the water from touching the leaves. An airtight lid is snapped on top and the "Lettuce Crisper" is stored in the fridge...providing the ideal cold, moist atmosphere needed to keep lettuce, vegetables and other greens deliciously fresh for weeks at a time. Suggested Retail Price is $7.99. For more information contact: Decor America, Inc., 250 West Artesia Blvd., Compton, CA 90220 (tel. 213-605-0994).

The fine art of elegant home entertaining

Refinement, richness, tradition: These three words together evoke the aura of elegance which, in the 1980s, increasingly has surrounded the fine art of home entertaining.

This focus on the home as an entertaining sphere is an outgrowth of the '80s trend to spend quality time at home—and the focus on quality is reflected in a general willingness to invest significant amounts of both time and money into making the home a radiant expression of personal style, which is willingly shared with an intimate circle of family and friends.

In fact, hospitality is the keynote of the '80s lifestyle, a hospitality remarkable for its love affair with formality.

Eating at home has become dining—the more so when guests are invited. Multi-course meals are prepared carefully to please exacting palates, and their presentation is given equally painstaking consideration.

People who, 10 years ago, chose to eat off rustic stoneware in neutral earthtone colors, today are setting their tables with fine china, shimmering crystal and gleaming sterling, as the old and traditional suddenly are new again.

This trend has been a long time coming, fueled by the affluence and appreciation of fine things which characterize the Yuppies, who have made significant contributions to the lifestyle and values of 1980s America.

What does all this mean, in terms of style? According to Gorham, manufacturers of fine tabletop accessories, gold accents on crystal stemware, fine china, sterling and fine stainless flatware are extremely popular—a trend which emphasizes the luxe image today's discerning consumer prefers to project.

Simplicity is also key—the look of richness is achieved through clean shapes and discreet designs, as tableware sports the sort of classic good looks which enhance food, without overpowering it.

China patterns tend to be streamlined—Gorham's Midnight Contessa, for instance, features an edge treatment of concentric circles, which sets off the otherwise creamy plate, and food arranged on it, oh so gracefully.

Flatware features updated traditional designs, such as Gorham's sterling flatware pattern, Edgemont Gold. Here the gold accents highlight the stylized scroll used in late Georgian architecture.

THE ELEGANT TABLETOP—Sleek china, shimmering crystal and glistening sterling combine in a place setting that's the picture of refinement, traditional yet fresh-looking, and very much in keeping with the more formal style of home entertaining prevalent today. Here, all from Gorham, are china in the Midnight Contessa pattern, Lady Anne Gold crystal, and Edgemont Gold sterling flatware.

And crystal, cut by diamonds and rimmed in gold—Lady Anne Gold, from Gorham, is a striking example of this trend—blends equal parts of discretion and elegance.

In addition, heirloom quality jacquarded linens are favored, as are refined floral arrangements—sometimes a single exquisite flower at each place setting.

which is a gracious alternative to low, elegant arrangements which create a focal point for the table, without impeding the flow of conversation.

It's the sort of timeless table dressing that will continue to look fresh and appealing—an investment in homestyle, and a lifestyle, that will yield high returns for years to come.

DID YOU KNOW?
by AL 462

THE FORENAME "MOHAMMED" IS BELIEVED TO BE THE COMMONEST IN THE WORLD DUE TO THE FACT THAT ALMOST ALL MUSLEMS CALL ONE OR MORE OF THEIR CHILDREN BY THIS NAME AFTER THE PROPHET "MOHAMMED."

THERE IS ONLY ONE MAMMAL THAT CAN FLY AND THAT IS THE BAT WHOSE WINGS OF SKIN JOIN ITS ARMS AND LEGS. BATS LIVE IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD EXCEPT THE ARCTIC AND ANTARCTIC.

Do cats really have nine lives?

Most cats live about fourteen years, although some have been known to live to the age of thirty and even beyond.

The myth that a cat has nine lives probably came about because of its ability to escape from many dangerous situations without harm.

Cats have good memories.

Keen eyesight and exceptional senses of smell and hearing. These qualities, combined with their swiftness and agility, help them out of danger.

So even though a cat may escape with its life many times, it still only lives once, just like any other animal.

The history of the kite

Kite flying is a favorite summer activity with most children. But did you know that kites have been around for thousands of years? Indeed, some evidence dates their invention at around 1000 B.C.

In many parts of Asia, kites held great religious significance. When flown at night, it was thought they kept evil spirits away.

The Chinese are still among the world's best kite flyers. They even have one day a year, September 9, which is designated as Kite Day.

Kites also have practical uses. Meteorologists have used them to carry weather recording equipment into the sky. Kites have also been used in simple bridge building by attaching a cable to the kite and flying it across the river.

And don't forget Benjamin Franklin, who used a kite to prove that lightning is a form of electricity.

Warm up chilly fall nights with a bowl of chowder

Few foods are more comforting on a chilly autumn evening than a steaming chowder, chock full of vegetables, seafood or chicken, in a hearty, buttery milk base.

Ladled into oversized bowls from a large pot or tureen, a thick soup-stew is a wonderful way to fortify yourself and your family against the raw winds and plunging temperatures of fall and winter. Served with a tossed salad and thick slices of a robust wholegrain bread, chowder makes an easily-assembled meal which is satisfying to both body and soul.

Traditionally associated with the seafood/clam soup of New England, the term "chowder" may refer to any hearty soup in which chunks of ingredients—particularly corn and potatoes—are still intact after cooking is completed.

The origin of the word "chowder" is unclear, but John E. Mariani, in The Dictionary of American Food & Drink (Ticknor & Fields) reports that most authorities believe it derives from the French word for a large cauldron, chaudière, into which sailors threw their catch in order to make a communal stew.

It is believed that this custom was carried to Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, and then down through New England during the 17th and 18th centuries.

An alternate explanation reported by Mariani is that "chowder" is actually a dialectical variation of an old Cornwall or Devonshire word, jowter, meaning "fish peddler."

It is generally accepted that early chowders were thick fish stews which were closer to the consistency of a pudding than to that of a soup, making them easy to prepare (using a minimum of water) and easy to eat on board ship.

By the 1730s, fish chowders were known in England, and they were popular among the Indians of the Northeastern United States even before that time.

It is not clear, however, if the Indians were responsible for introducing the colonists to this concoction. In Eating in America (Ecco), authors Waverly Root and Richard de Rochemont point out that "fish chowder was a popular dish among Northeastern Indians, but as this dish has been created spontaneously, in one form or another, along every coast in the world, we can hardly credit the Indians with having introduced it to the Europeans."

Whatever the early settlers may or may not have gleaned from the Indians in the way of chowder-preparation pointers, this flavorful, full-bodied soup has come to be an American favorite.

The recipes below demonstrate both the delicious variations which have evolved, and the traditional fish-based stews which were their predecessors.

Scallop or Mussel Chowder is a particularly elegant combination of seafood and flavorings. This recipe is reproduced from Dominique's, by Dominique D'Ermo (E.P. Dutton).

SCALLOP OR MUSSEL CHOWDER

Serves 6

- 3 tablespoons butter
- 1/2 cup diced onion
- 1/2 cup diced celery
- 1 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and diced
- 3/4 cups clam juice
- 1 cup milk or light cream
- 1/4 cup dry sherry
- Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste
- 1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch, dissolved in 4 tablespoons clam juice
- 3/4 pound drained raw scallops or mussels, cleaned, beards removed, and removed from shells
- French garlic bread, toasted

Melt the butter in a large frying pan. Add the onion and celery and cook over medium heat for 5 minutes. Add the mushrooms, potatoes, and clam juice.

Bring to a boil, cover, and simmer gently until the potatoes are tender, about 15 minutes. Remove the cover and add the milk or cream, sherry, salt, pepper, and Parmesan and stir to blend. Add the dissolved cornstarch, bring to a slow boil, then add the scallops or mussels. Simmer about 5 minutes, or until the fish is cooked through and tender. Taste and adjust the seasoning.

Serve with toasted garlic bread and pass around additional cheese, if you wish.

The recipe below for Clam Chowder, reproduced from Malachi McCormick's Irish Country Cooking (Clarkson N. Potter), includes instructions for preparing fresh clams for this dish. The procedure is not difficult, and the added flavor is worth it!

CLAM CHOWDER

- 12 large chowder (Quahog) clams
- 6 cups water
- 2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 3 garlic cloves, sliced
- 2 medium onions, sliced
- 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 2 tablespoons fresh chopped basil, or 3 teaspoons dried basil
- 2 medium carrots, scraped
- 1 large potato
- 1 large parsnip, scraped
- 1 large leek, thoroughly washed (both white and green parts)
- 1 tablespoon fresh thyme, or 1 teaspoon dried thyme
- 6 tablespoons heavy cream

Wash the clams. Put the water in a large steamer and steam the clams open. Set the steamer aside.

In a large saucepan, melt the butter. Add the garlic and, 1 minute later, the onions, and fry for 3 minutes, until the onions are translucent, but not brown. Add the cayenne and basil and stir in with a wooden spoon. Chop the clams, add in, and fry for 4 minutes, so the clams absorb a strong garlic flavor.

Add one-third of the clam liquor from the steamer, bring to a boil, and then reduce heat to a quietly bubbling simmer. Coarsely-chop vegetables and add to saucepan. Add the remainder of clam liquor. Bring to a boil, and again reduce heat and simmer quietly for an hour, or until vegetables are soft but not mushy.

Take the chowder off the heat, add the thyme, and stir in the heavy cream. Serve immediately.

Serves 6 to 8.

The recipe for Corn and Kielbasa Chowder is reproduced from Daphne Metaxas Hartwig's Dinner's Ready (Macmillan), and that for Corn and Potato Chowder is taken from Foods of the Sun: Cooking of the West and Southwest (Harper & Row), by Anne Lindsay Greer. Both capitalize on the taste and texture contrast between a creamy soup base and the spicy sausage.

CORN AND KIELBASA CHOWDER

Serves 4

Cooking time: 5 minutes

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 pound smoked kielbasa, cut into thin rounds
- 1 medium-size onion, finely chopped
- 2 13 1/2-ounce cans regular-strength chicken broth
- 1 cup mashed potato flakes
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 10-ounce packages frozen corn

Melt the butter in a soup pot over medium-high heat. When the bubbling subsides, add the kielbasa and onion; stir and sauté for about 5 minutes, or until the kielbasa rounds become rosy and begin to pucker slightly. Add the remaining ingredients and heat slowly, until the corn thaws and the potato flakes dissolve to smoothness. Let the chowder simmer for 1 minute and remove the pot from the heat. Either serve the chowder immediately or let it cool, uncovered, to room temperature; then cover and refrigerate until ready to use—for up to 3 days.

To cook

Bring the uncovered cold chowder to a boil over medium-high heat; then lower the heat and simmer, covered, for 2 to 3 minutes, or until it is heated through.

Keep the pot on the stove, but off the heat, until the time comes for the next serving; then bring the chowder to a boil again and simmer for a minute or two, or until it is heated through. If the temperature in your home is above 82 degrees, refrigerate the chowder between serving times.

CORN AND POTATO CHOWDER

6 servings

- 2 small red potatoes, about 6 ounces, scrubbed, or 1 sweet potato, about 6 ounces, scrubbed
- Salt
- 6 ears fresh corn (about 3 1/2 cups corn kernels)
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 3 cups chicken stock, preferably homemade
- 1 1/2 tablespoons unsalted butter
- 6 scallions, sliced thin
- 1 red bell pepper, finely diced
- Pepper
- 1 cup smoked sausage or bulk chorizo, cooked and crumbled

Put the potatoes in a saucepan of lightly salted water and bring to a boil. Boil until tender, about 10 minutes. When cool, peel and dice into 1/4-inch cubes.

Cut the corn kernels from the cobs and set 1/2 cup aside for finishing the soup. Heat the remaining kernels, the cream and chicken stock in a medium saucepan over medium-high heat for 5 minutes. Reduce the heat to medium-low and continue to cook, stirring occasionally, for 10 minutes.

Put the corn and cream mixture in a blender, and blend on high speed to liquefy. Strain into the same saucepan, pressing to extract all the liquid from the kernels.

Heat the butter in a skillet over medium heat. Add the scallions, reserved corn and red pepper and sauté until soft, 5 minutes. Add to the cream mixture with the potatoes and simmer, stirring occasionally, until corn is tender and the soup is hot, 10 to 12 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper. To serve, ladle hot soup into bowls. Top each with a spoonful of sausage.

NOTE: Corn soup tends to thicken when refrigerated, so if you prepare it in advance, you may need to thin it with water when you reheat it.

Variation

Substitute smoked fish for the sausage. Skin and debone the fish and cut it into bite-size pieces. What you should have about 1 1/2 cups. Add the fish shortly before serving and heat for 10 minutes. Do not boil.

Eat right while eating out

Smart eating is clearly important in today's health-conscious society. From low fat to high fiber, new information about nutrition is helping us educate our palates—enabling us to eat right and feel better than ever before.

No one knows this better than Harriet Roth, the well-known nutritionist and gourmet chef whose bestselling Harriet Roth's Cholesterol-Control Cookbook taught America to prepare healthful foods with variety, taste, and common sense. Now, with Harriet Roth's Guide to Low-Cholesterol Dining Out (Signet; $1.95), she shows readers how to extend their improved eating habits beyond their own front doors—to eat right while eating out.

Too often, restaurant meals—whether a common sandwich or a gourmet dish—can camouflage large amounts of fat and cholesterol with attractive presentations or misleading terms. With her new guide, Roth cuts through the verbiage and mystique of restaurant menus, explaining in simple terms how to select the right foods and enjoy yourself at the same time. Among the guide's informative points:

- Basic dishes to enjoy or avoid in American restaurants, including fast-food restaurants;
- What to order in ethnic restaurants;
- Tips on ordering healthy foods;
- Key phrases for ordering healthful meals in French, Spanish, Italian, and German;
- Dietary information for frequently-ordered alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages;
- Helpful hints for brown-baggers.

The sophisticated and innovative cuisine of a world-renowned chef

Georges Blanc is one of the present-day great chefs of France and, by extrapolation, of the world. Scion of generations of talented cooks, Blanc and his wife took over the family inn in Burgundy, La Mère Blanc, in 1968; in 1981, La Mère Blanc was awarded one of the most prestigious honors of his profession—Michelin's three stars—and made culinary history as the youngest chef to have achieved that pinnacle.

What makes Blanc's cuisine so special—and so exquisite—is the superficially contradictory combination of simplicity of ingredients with artistry of presentation.

A reliance on seasonal foods—only the freshest will do—results in a constantly evolving and changing table, and a cuisine whose juxtaposition of colors, tastes, fragrances and textures dazzles and ravishes.

Equally ravishing is The Natural Cuisine of Georges Blanc (Stewart, Tabori & Chang, $45.00), with evocative full color photography by Christopher Baker.

Divided by seasons, the volume parades past the reader the fruits and vegetables of each time of year, complemented by dairy products and seafood where appropriate, but eschewing meats and poultry of any sort.

The counterpoint provided by the photos echoes and reinforces the counterpoint which is an essential ingredient in the recipes.

General photographs seek to capture the gentle beauty of the French countryside, its rolling farms, its fields splashed with color, its misted horizon washed by the hues of sunset.

Close-ups feature typical scenes of French rural life—someone selling produce from gnarled baskets, the weathered gray walls and red tile roof of a chateau rising up beyond its reflection in a pond, the interior of a stable with rustic wood beams and hay-strewn floor.

These views are interspersed with images of fresh produce—leeks banded together in a crate, ready for market, slabs of newly made cheese aging on wood rounds, pendant plums hanging heavily from a tree branch—and finished dishes, where Blanc's deliberate artistry contrasts most dramatically with the charm of nature's randomness.

Extra Fine Green Beans with Fresh Truffles is a simple salad raised to culinary heights through presentation—and all of the nuances of the presentation are apparent in the photograph, in which a nest of green beans is arranged, slightly off center, on a spacious white plate, pistachio with truffle slices, with three chive blades rising from its middle, two sprigs of chervil lazily emerging from its sides and garnished, finally, by a flower, off to one side, created with purple leaves and carefully sliced pieces of tomato, red petals alternating with green.

Exquisite precision is enhanced by asymmetry; what in other circumstances might be static is rendered through Blanc's artfulness as vital and vivid as any of nature's unaided creations.

In another photograph, illustrating Red Radish Soup with Tapioca, translucent rounds of radish, white rimmed with red, float on the surface of a green soup, lazily overlapping clouds of white cream.

The red and white balance of the radishes is echoed by the soup bowl, whose white expanse is defined by a few slender, concentric rings in deep red, and a

APRICOT BAVARIANS WITH NECTARINES, PISTACHIOS, AND ALMONDS

(Bavarois d'abricot à la Pêche Nectarine, aux Amandes, et Pistaches Vertes)

- 18 large ripe apricots, halved and pitted
- 1 package (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/4 cups sugar
- 3/4 cup crème fraîche
- Lemon juice
- 5 ripe nectarines
- 1 ounce sliced almonds for garnish
- 1 ounce shelled unsalted pistachios for garnish

Purée apricots in a food processor. Strain purée through a fine-mesh strainer into a bowl. Measure out 2 cups purée; cover and refrigerate remainder.

PREPARE THE BAVARIANS: In a small bowl, soften gelatin in 2 tablespoons cold water. Meanwhile, pour 2 cups apricot purée into a medium saucepan and add 1/2 cup sugar. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring to dissolve sugar. Whisk in softened gelatin; remove from heat. Continue whisking until gelatin is thoroughly melted and combined. Set aside to cool completely.

Beat crème fraîche until stiff. Fold into cooled apricot mixture. Spoon bavarian mixture into four 1-cup dariole molds or ramekins; smooth surfaces. Cover and refrigerate until set, at least 4 hours. (The bavarians can be prepared 1 day ahead.)

PREPARE THE SAUCE: Stir remaining 3/4 cup sugar into remaining apricot purée. Whisk well to dissolve sugar; stir in lemon juice to taste. Refrigerate until serving time.

TO SERVE: Briefly dip molded bavarians into hot water. Run a thin knife around the edges to loosen. Unmold bavarians onto 4 dessert plates. Cut nectarines into 1/2-inch slices and arrange artistically on each side of the bavarians. Halve the pistachios and arrange them in a crown pattern on each bavarian. Spoon apricot sauce into the center of the crowns and on either side of the bavarians. Sprinkle sauce with sliced almonds and serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

wider pink band near the edge.

A Collage of Fruit Purées, one of Blanc's most exquisite summer desserts, is brought to vibrant life in a photograph of purées, red, green, purple and white, discrete but blending into each other at the edges, a spiderweb of cream marbling the center, in a round white dish whose surface is punctuated by the fretted shadow of a lace curtain.

For a book which restricts itself to fruits, vegetables, dairy products and seafood, the range of recipes is quite impressive, and runs the gamut of the menu from soups and other starters, through main courses and side dishes, to desserts, with each recipe assigned to its most appropriate season.

Spring recipes burst with the tender flavors of the year's first vegetables and fruits. Slender asparagus stalks star in a spectacular presentation of Puff Pastry with Broccoli Mousse, Asparagus, and Morels; julienned, and garnished with slices of fresh truffles, they are featured in Warm Asparagus Salad; puréed, their pure flavor comes across crisply in Asparagus Flans.

Baby vegetables combine in a masterful Spring Vegetables Vinaigrette, and young greens—sorrel, watercress and spinach—add their special savor to a whole range of foods, from an elegant Three-Layer Omelet, to Sorrel Soup with Fresh Cheese Quenelles, to Fresh Spinach with Skillet-Roasted Salmon.

The spring fruits Blanc chooses to concentrate upon are strawberries and cherries. A Strawberry-Vanilla Charlotte with Strawberries is one extravagant way of greeting the season.

The tenderness and fragility of spring produce gives way to the vigor and abundance of summer fruits and vegetables.

Ratatouille Provençal—a savory mixture of tomatoes, eggplant, zucchini, peppers, garlic and onions—is probably the classic French summer preparation; Blanc's version is perfumed by the herbs contained in a bouquet garni, and is finished in the oven, where the individual flavors of the various vegetables experience their final blending.

These same vegetables recur in recipes throughout the summer section of the book; zucchini stars in a melted Zucchini Gratin, golden under a spiced Gruyère cheese, while tomatoes and peppers are paired in a glistening Tomato, Red Pepper, and Olive Tart.

Fight the air pollution inside your home

As winter approaches, America is heading indoors. This year, with environmental issues so much in the news, there's greater concern than ever about the air—including indoor air. Pollen, mold spores, dust and pet dander concentrate indoors. Fortunately, unlike the air outside, the air inside our homes can be improved remarkably—and quickly.

Dr. M. Eric Gershwin, nationally-known allergist, author and Professor of Medicine, offers some guidelines on how to select an air cleaner that will remove the most troublesome contaminants without adding others!

Question: Who benefits most from a home air cleaning system?
Dr. Gershwin: Both children and adults with allergies, as well as anyone who lives in a home with a smoker. Also, anyone who suffers from bronchitis, emphysema or asthma.

Question: How are allergies and asthma different?
Dr. Gershwin: Allergy is a state of hypersensitivity to a particular food or medication, or more commonly, an airborne material such as pollen, dust or mold. Many cases of asthma are caused or made worse by this sensitivity.

Asthma is a specific condition in which the bronchial tubes contract. The collapse of these airways leads to shortness of breath.

Question: So, it is true that an air cleaner would only help people with allergies to airborne irritants like pollen, dust and mold?
Dr. Gershwin: Not at all. The wheezing asthmatics suffer is definitely aggravated and increased by pollution, dust and smoke. A good air cleaning system will remove all of these irritants.

Question: How do you determine which air cleaner is best?
Dr. Gershwin: Look for one that removes pollen, mold spores, dust, pet dander and other household pollutants without requiring expensive installation or a lot of maintenance. The type we recommend in our practice is a passive electrostatic type manufactured by Newtron Products Company of Cincinnati, Ohio: (800) 543-9149.

Question: Is electrostatic different from electronic?

Dr. Gershwin: Very different. Electronic systems use electricity to charge particulates in the air. Electrostatic systems use the natural phenomenon of static electricity. As air flows over a special grid of static-prone materials, particulates are charged and attracted to the filter grids. It's much like the attraction of iron to a magnet. Pollutants are held in place until they're released by washing.

Question: Are there any other key differences between electronic and electrostatic?

Dr. Gershwin: From a health standpoint, electronic filters pose a special problem for everyone, particularly those with respiratory allergies. While electronic filters remove some of the pollutants, they actually generate another very undesirable pollutant: ozone.

Question: Isn't there ozone in our atmosphere anyway?

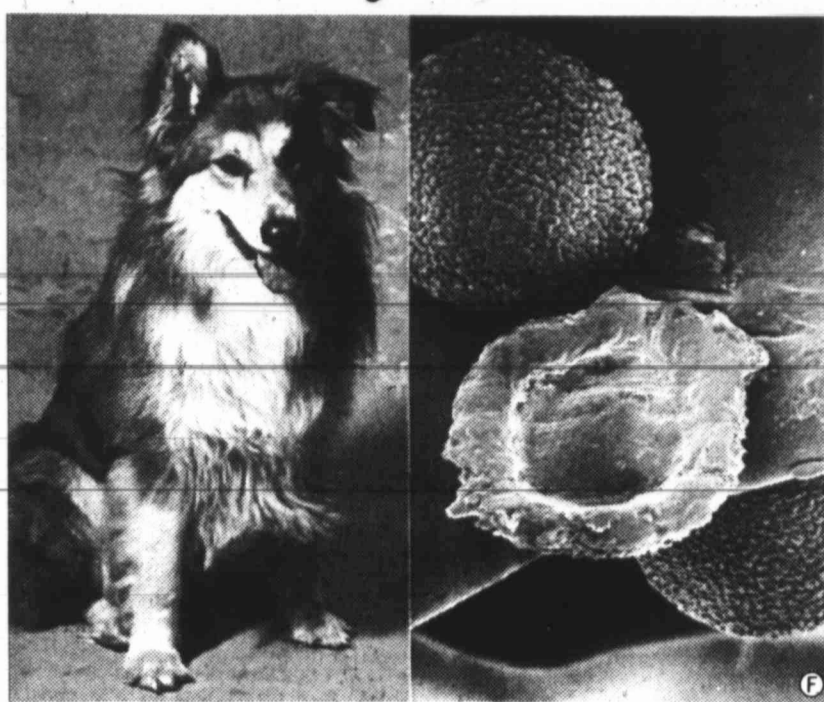

Dr. Gershwin: Yes, in small amounts. Ozone is a type of oxygen that surrounds the earth at high altitude, shielding us from the damaging ultraviolet rays of the sun. However, ground level ozone is also a lung irritant. Even in small quantities, it can decrease lung capacity and be very irritating to the lung. Anything that produces ozone is not recommended for home use.

Question: How much help can an air cleaner provide if a person only has it at home?

Dr. Gershwin: Excellent question. Allergies are at their worst at night. In a home without an air cleaner, the heater or air conditioner is continually stirring up dust and pollutants that cause sneezing and coughing. The best answer is to install a passive electrostatic filter in the heating and air conditioning system and leave the fan on 24 hours a day. This provides the best relief.

Question: What about fiberglass filters?

Dr. Gershwin: Fiberglass filters are standard in most residential heating systems. As air flows through them, ALLERGY SYMPTOMS can be caused by household dust, mold spores, pet dander and pollen, among other things. The pollen shown here has been captured by a Newtron air cleaner and has been magnified 500 times by an electron microscope.

they filter out particles of dust. They need replacement at least monthly. They do not really help allergy victims, because they don't eliminate allergens like pollen. Also, when filled up with dust and other particulate matter, these filters impede the efficiency of the home's heating system, since the fan motor has to work harder to circulate the same amount of air.

Our increased awareness about environmental issues is certainly a healthy trend, but it's important to recognize just how serious the problems really are, particularly as they relate to the quality of our air.

One of our biggest problems is the staggering number of people breathing the air and using materials. Today, the Earth's population is 5.3 billion and growing each year by another 95 million. The majority of the world's population growth has occurred in less than one-tenth of the time man has been on earth. The truth is, we can't make any more air—and people have to consider the quality of the air they're exposed to. We're at home and in our workplaces more than anywhere else, particularly during the colder months, and that's where we can make the most difference in the shortest period of time.

For more information on air cleaning alternatives, contact Newtron Products Company, P.O. Box 27175, Cincinnati, Ohio 45227-0175. Phone: (800) 543-9149; in Ohio: (800) 544-3753. (Inquiries can only be processed through Newtron.)

Dr. Gershwin is Chief, Division of Rheumatology/Allergy and Clinical Immunology at the University of California, and the author of two books on allergy. TB904819

Solar screens save energy

Thousands of homeowners install storm windows each year. If you are planning on investing in storm windows, or if you already have them, here's a tip on how to make them save energy all year long.

Instead of conventional insect screens that usually come on storm windows and cover only the bottom window, look for storm windows that are available with full length SunScreen® (U.S. Patent No. 4,002,188) solar screens.

When used in place of regular insect screening, SunScreen can block up to 70 percent of the sun's heat. The result is a window that will help keep your heat inside during the winter months and the sun's heat outside in the summer.

If full solar radiation is desirable on some windows (south facing ones, for example), the solar screens can be removed and stored during the winter months.

Many homeowners fail to realize exactly how storm windows work. Storm windows do a great job in controlling heat and cold that is transferred by conduction and convection.

But there is a third type of heat transfer that is very important in heating and cooling—radiation. And, almost all of the sun's radiated heat (or sun rays) pass right through the layers of glass and air that make up most storm windows. Once these sun rays enter the window, they are absorbed and re-radiated within that home as heat.

That's why carpets, furnishings and even glass surfaces exposed to direct sun rays become quite hot, even when it's freezing cold outside. Imagine how this radiated heat can add to your cooling costs in the summertime.

This is where SunScreen can make a big improvement on the summer efficiency of storm windows. Since the screens are installed on the outside of the glass, they stop a large portion (up to 70 percent) of these sun rays before they enter the window.

Heat that never enters your home is heat that your air conditioner never has to remove. SunScreen solar screens are a lot like putting your windows under a large shade tree except that the screens stay in place all day long to keep the heat from the window surface.

The Energy Auditors at most local utility companies are a good, reliable source for recommendations concerning storm windows and solar screens. Many utilities recommend the application of solar screens and some may even offer incentives for solar screen installations.

By "piggy-backing" the installation of storm windows and solar screens at the same time, you'll save on installation costs and have a storm window that will pay back considerably more quickly than a conventional storm window alone.

In addition to saving on cooling costs, solar screens can offer a number of additional advantages. Solar screens work year-round to help protect draperies, carpets, and furnishings against fading. The screens come in a choice of several colors and can actually enhance the exterior appearance of your home.

Solar screens can help improve daytime privacy. On a sunny day you can see out, but it's more difficult for people to see in. And, since the screens replace regular screens, they can also keep out most insects when the windows are open.

Since the solar screening is an open mesh and not a film, gentle breezes can come in, allowing healthier natural ventilation.

SunScreen is woven of strong, durable fiberglass, which should last for years and years with only an occasional cleaning with soap and water.

If you're shopping for storm windows, ask for SunScreen solar screening as an option. It will cost a few extra dollars now, but will save you energy dollars for years to come.

Flowers express feelings at Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving—its origin springs in part from the days when English villagers brought home the last loads of grain from the fields and shared a feast called "Harvest Home." It was a celebration of the final harvest of the season and people rejoiced and gave thanks that their work was done and they had food to sustain them through the winter.

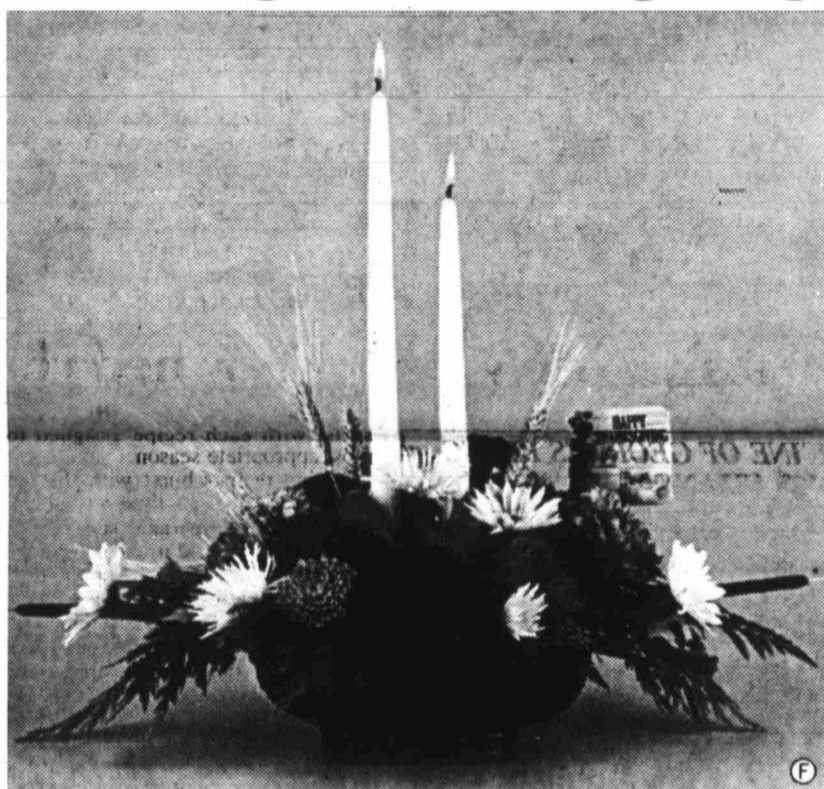

The pilgrims of Plymouth carried on their ancestors' tradition of giving thanks following their treacherous journey from England to the New World. When their first successful harvest was gathered, they celebrated with a sumptuous feast of corn and wild turkey.

Today's Thanksgiving celebration includes some of these same traditions: a feast fit for any king, colorful fall decorations, and the company of relatives and friends. And when people gather together on the fourth Thursday of November, they give thanks for their blessings and express gratitude for their good health and fortune, just as the pilgrims and English villagers did over 300 years ago.

As was true with the early Thanksgiving celebrations, floral decorations are still used to adorn holiday tables and serve as symbols of bounty and celebration. With this in mind, Florists' Transworld Delivery (FTD) designed a special gift to help create a festive mood for the holiday season.

The FTD Autumn Harvest Bouquet is an array of rich fall colors with a touch of the old "Harvest Home" tradition. Wheat stalks and oak leaves reminiscent of early Thanksgiving celebrations accent the vibrant floral hues of yellow, orange and red carnations, butterscotch pompons and yellow daisy pompons.

This arrangement is a perfect addition to any holiday table and can be used to express a variety of sentiments during the holiday: tell relatives or friends in distant cities you're thinking about them; say thank you for being invited into your hosts' home; or decorate your own table. Everyone can appreciate the thought and expressiveness behind a holiday arrangement. And, after the excitement of the holiday has ended, the flowers will serve as beautiful reminders of a special holiday.

A THANKSGIVING TRADITION: Flowers have played an integral part in enhancing holiday festivities for generations. FTD has captured that "Old World" flavor in its Autumn Harvest Bouquet with accents of wheat stalks and oak leaves among the richly colored carnations, pompons, cattails, lotus pods and cedar. The arrangement can be ordered for delivery across town to your Thanksgiving host or hostess or across the country to a far-away friend through the FTD flowers-by-wire network of nearly 25,000 florists.

Two carpet booklets offer helpful advice on how to keep floors covered

Choosing carpet that makes the correct fashion statement has always been a major decorating decision. Now that stain-resistant technology has made it practical for consumers to buy carpet in a wide range of bright and subtle colors and well-defined surface textures, selecting the right color and texture has become an even greater challenge.

There is an easy-to-read booklet now available — free — for people who want to take control over the decorating process.

Allied Fibers, makers of Anso V Worry-Free carpet, offers consumers Decorating With Carpet, a useful guide for integrating carpet into the overall home decorating scheme. It offers tips on:

- Color — how it affects mood and size of a room;
- Texture — what the differences are between saxtonies, velvets, friezes and various loop styles;
- Carpet performance — how to measure it prior to purchase by observing density, yarn twist, pile height and weight.

Also included in Decorating with Carpet is information on selecting padding which, when done correctly, can extend the life of a carpet by 17 to 50 percent, depending on the type of carpet and area covered.

Another informative booklet, Smart-Care for Carpet, is also available free to consumers. It offers helpful stain removal tips on a wide variety of common household spills.

The booklet presents an easy-to-follow carpet care maintenance system that has been thoroughly tested on the family of Anso products.

There are no guarantees on stain removal from other manufacturers' carpets, but you still can benefit from the stain removal tips in the booklet.

To receive the free booklets simply call: 1-800-992-9014, or write: Anso V Worry-Free, Dept. 104B, 25 West Long Lake Road, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48013.

Book gives wall-to-wall hints for do-it-yourselfers

Don't let painting and wallpapering scare you away from doing them yourself. The only difference between an amateur's and a professional's workmanship may be the professional's secrets for making jobs trouble-free.

Tips for these and many other do-it-yourself projects are available in a new book by Eureka, the vacuum cleaner manufacturer.

How To Beat Housework not only includes advice on how to clean your home, but also gives helpful suggestions for tackling wallpapering and painting chores yourself. The 480-page, hard-cover book is not for sale; it's free with any $80-or-more Eureka purchase.

Many homeowners choose to do their own painting, but they learn too late how to avoid problems. Here are a few of Eureka's suggestions:

- Coating metal surfaces with petroleum jelly will protect them from accidental spills.
- Make sure you don't paint on too thick a coat or use too much paint, or your surface may "wrinkle." If this happens, sand the surface and brush on a thinner coat.
- You can keep white paint from yellowing if you stir in a drop of black paint.
- Wallpapering can also be a headache if it's done haphazardly. Try these tips:
 - Take a look at the room to be papered before starting. Where's the least conspicuous area of the room? Choose this area as your starting and finishing point in case the pattern doesn't match perfectly.

- Are there any grease spots on the wall? If so, cover them with clear nail polish or shellac so the grease won't soak through the paper.
- Once the paper is hung, you can pop out bubbles with a sharp needle. Then push the blister inward from its edges, squeeze out excess paste, and press it with the back of a spoon.

No matter how helpful Eureka's hints may be, you can make it easy on yourself by minimizing the need to repaint or re-wallpaper. If you regularly remove dirt buildup on your walls with the floor and wall brush of your vacuum, you will improve the look of your walls so you can perform these tasks less frequently.

Accentuate your home with flea market finds

Autumn days are ideal for outdoor shopping at country flea markets and for refinishing the furniture gems often found there. By investing a little time and elbow grease, it's possible to transform nearly any piece of furniture into a showpiece for your home. The experts at Elmer's Adhesives offer tips for restoring your finds at minimal cost.

Chairs and tables with flat surfaces are the easiest to refinish, while those with ornate carving or design will be more of a challenge. Don't shy away from wood that has been painted. Many coats of paint are not necessarily damaging, and often serve to protect the wood underneath.

Decorate bedrooms with wallcovering Wallcovering firm offers swatch book

As decorative interiors become increasingly popular, the bedroom is naturally one of the first rooms in the home to be redesigned with an eye towards more color, pattern and architectural interest.

One needn't have cathedral ceilings and skylights to create a dramatic bedroom. Wallcovering, borders and fabric, properly used, will add depth and personality to any bedroom.

According to John Leigh Spath, director of design for Van Luit, a manufacturer of fine wallcoverings and fabrics, "Wallcoverings can create the illusion of height, of spaciousness, of coziness, masculinity and femininity. It all depends on the pattern you choose."

Spath uses examples from his Definitive Florals Collection to illustrate this point: "With a cabbage rose pattern like 'Le Valle' on the walls, complemented by the large striped bows in 'French Ribbon,' a plain room is transformed into a romantic boudoir. A canopy treatment, using the floral fabric with ruffles; a valance and a gracious drapery treatment, creates a focal point where none existed before."

A more masculine bedroom can also benefit from decorative wallcoverings. Spath notes, "The 'Somerset' pattern in the black colorway makes a strong statement because of its color and its emphasis on Oriental bamboo trees and leaves. For some architectural interest, set the bed into a recess, even into the space originally designated for a double closet—use an armoire for clothes—and frame the moulding around the opening with the matching border."

Insulation cuts energy costs

Want to do something about high cooling and heating bills?

The U.S. Department of Energy has an illustrated 12-page booklet covering a dozen ways to conserve energy, from determining R-values, to choosing insulation, to do it yourself, home insulation instructions.

The booklet also lists agencies and organizations offering additional information on insulation, installation instructions and other energy-conservation measures.

Van Luit's "Le Valle" wallcovering wraps around this bedroom, transforming it into a romantic boudoir. The "Le Valle" fabric is used to create a decorative focal point as a canopy treatment over the bed. Complementary "French Ribbon" pattern completes the feminine look.

Even simpler wallcovering treatments can add decorative value to a bedroom. Spath concludes, "Stripes add height, large-scale patterns in small rooms add spaciousness, and warm colors in a large room create a cozy feeling."

For years, anyone who wanted to, could save substantially on the purchase of top brands of wallcoverings by doing two things. First, they decided which pattern they wanted and how many rolls they needed. Then they called Direct Wallpaper Distributors toll-free at 1-800-336-WALL, placed their order and saved up to 72 percent on first quality wallcoverings by Schumacher, Waverly, Imperial and other leading manufacturers.

Now, that's no longer necessary. Buyers can select the pattern they want directly from Direct Wallpaper's beautiful new swatch book called, "New

Fashions in Wallcoverings

The new Direct Wallpaper swatch book contains scores of actual samples—not printed reproductions—of the latest wallcoverings, including solid vinyls and other pre-pasted, strippable wallcoverings.

Direct Wallpaper makes its swatch book available for $4.00, plus $1.50 for handling and shipping. If an order of $50.00 or more is placed within 60 days, the $4.00 is deducted from the customer's invoice.

According to Bob Hepp, president of Direct Wallpaper, "the order is shipped out immediately to the caller's home or office. Next day UPS service is also available, on request. Since sales costs are virtually eliminated," says Hepp, "the purchaser can save from 35 to 72 percent, depending on the brand and number of rolls ordered. The savings are so dramatic that many people are now using wallcoverings who would ordinarily have only used paint."

Direct Wallpaper has recently expanded its discount policy to include leading brands of window treatments such as Kirsch, Levolor and Bali blinds. To order the swatch book, call 1-800-336-WALL or write to Direct Wallpaper Distributors, 370 Hall Street, Phoenixville, PA 19460.

Steel siding eliminates painting forever

Have you taken a good look lately at the paint on your house? Is it peeling, chipped or faded? Is the color outdated?

If you've been putting off the inevitable, you have three choices, says Owen Johnson, owner of Big Spring Siding:

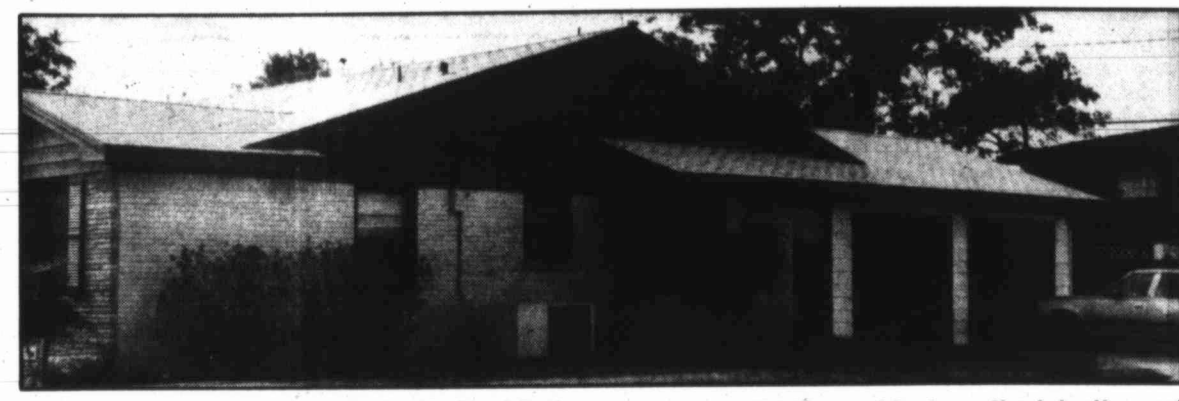

1. You can re-paint the house yourself — for weekend after weekend.

2. You can hire a professional housepainter to put your house in tip-top shape — an expense that you will repeat in just a few years.

3. You can make a modest investment in new steel siding — and scratch house-painting off your list of chores forever.

Siding gives your home a permanent just-painted look that is as durable as it is attractive.

"We install only the top-of-the-line siding," says Johnson. "This siding carries a lifetime warranty which is transferable, should you ever decide to sell your

When Big Spring Siding installs Alside Steel Siding to your home, your painting chores are gone forever. Owen Johnson personally prepares all bids, and he is on the job site working with his crew every day, from start to finish.

home. The warranty guarantees that the siding will not crack, peel, rust or discolor.

Of course, a warranty means nothing unless the siding is properly installed, Johnson adds. "Big Spring Siding has the equipment and skills to do the job right."

Unlike many siding companies, we have no commissioned salesmen, nor do we use sub-contract installers," Johnson says. "By doing business this way, we can keep our job costs way below that of our competitors — even their so-called sale prices.

Johnson says his company will never call residents at home "at all hours of the day and night with spectacular sales gimmicks." Big Spring Siding has no need for that, relying on referrals from satisfied customers, plus a modest advertising budget to promote business.

"Our marketing approach keeps our costs down, so that we are able to install siding on a customer's home for about what it costs for two or three professional paint jobs."

Big Spring Siding has a good selection of shutters, storm windows and storm doors to dress up your home, and a variety of insulation products. The choice in new siding colors and trim products are sure to appeal to the taste of the most discerning homeowner.

For a free estimate on installing steel siding over your home's fading and chipped paint, call Johnson at 267-2812. There is no obligation.
