Computer error may change election result

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A computer glitch in counting absentee votes cast in the Nov. 6 election — with a margin of error large enough to reverse the precinct 4 county commissioner's race — has prompted the Howard County clerk to call in secretary of state officials.

Three state officials are expected to be in Big Spring by 2 p.m. today, County Clerk Margaret Ray said this morning. They will manually count the ballots.

A mechanical error occurred in counting the precinct 402 absentee ballots, Ray said. The computer recorded 168 ballots cast but counted no more than a total of 14

Crenshaw's three.

The possible discrepancy in vote tallies is not large enough to make a difference in the two at-large county races for county judge and district clerk, which were won by the Democratic nominees.

"It wasn't anybody's mistake. As far as I can tell it was a mechanical error," said Crenshaw, who plans to be at the courthouse this afternoon as state officials count the ballots.

"It's kind of like doing the election over again," he said. But, he added, "I feel confident I'll still win it."

votes in any one race. Ray said the computer system apparently counted the ballots but not all the card punch holes for each race.

"I just don't think it could add up right," Ray said of the totals, which were noticed as figures were being manually transcribed into a county clerk record book. "So I called the Secretary of State's office to ask them to come in," she said. "This is the only precinct this has happened in."

Also notified were both Pct. 4 commissioner candidates, the canvassing board, the district judge and at least one member of the Commissioner's Court, Ray said.

Pct. 4 commissioner-elect Robert Crenshaw, Republican, beat Democratic nominee Bobby Cathey by a total of 51 votes, 802-751. If Cathey got as many as 103 of the uncounted votes in Pct. 402, estimated at 154 votes, he would be declared the winner.

Of the votes that were counted, Cathey won that precinct 119-113. Of 14 votes counted as absentee in that precinct, he received 11 to

Mobile unit ready to help veterans

The mobile unit for veterans and their dependents will be in Big Spring Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on the north side parking area at Highland Mall.

An accredited claims representative will be available to provide information to any veteran, widow or dependent concerning benefits that may be available through the Veterans Administration.

The date of the mobile unit's visit was incorrectly reported in Thursday's Herald.

Video addresses female self-esteem

AUSTIN (AP) — A videotape addressing the importance of self-esteem for young women has been produced for the Governor's Commission for Women and is available for use by schools.

Texas first lady Rita Clements said Monday the 40-minute video, "Guideposts to Self Discovery," focuses on developing talents and overcoming barriers to success.

More than 25 women, including first lady Barbara Bush, University of Texas women's athletic director Donna Lopiano, and former U.S. Ambassador Anne Armstrong, are featured on the tape.

No guidelines yet for judge position

The city of Big Spring has begun the process of replacing Municipal Court Judge and Clerk Gwen Fair, but guidelines for the job have yet to be established, City Manager Hal Boyd said today.

It has not been decided if the job will be full-time or part-time, and salary is open, Boyd said. City council members and city officials Tuesday supported separation of the two positions — judge and clerk — now held by Fair.

Choirs taking poinsettia orders

Orders for Christmas poinsettias are being taken by the Big Spring High School choirs. Each six-inch plant, grown by Johansen's Nursery, costs $10 and is available in a variety of colors.

Kristy Hayes, BSHS choral director, said, "This is our sixth year, it's an annual project. A lot of people look forward to these and it's been real successful. We hope to continue to have good success."

The 80 students in the choirs will be taking orders for the poinsettias from Nov. 14 through Nov. 20. Delivery is scheduled for the first week in December, Hayes said.

Anyone interested in purchasing the poinsettias can contact Hayes or any choir member at 264-3641, or leave a message at the high school.

Fate of 'eyesores' to be decided

By DEBBIE LINCECUM

Fourteen dilapidated buildings in Big Spring are ready to be considered for abatement by the Board of Adjustments and Appeals. A city official said the buildings are part of a concentrated effort to "clean up" the city.

Assistant City Manager Tom Decell said the buildings, located in various parts of the city, are "eyesores" and may be demolished or renovated.

The board, set to meet Nov. 20, will determine the fate of the buildings.

"They don't have to be torn down," Decell said, "if they can be repaired and brought back to (city building) code (standards). If someone's willing to do that, the buildings will not need to be demolished."

The board is made up of citizens who work in the building trades, including architects and engineers.

Abatement of buildings such as the 14 mentioned is an attempt to "clean up" the appearance of the city, Decell added. Toward that end, city officials are concentrating their efforts on Third, Fourth and Gregg streets, as well as "anything you can see from these (streets)," he said.

"These are the approaches to our city," Decell said. "When you are driving into our town and see those dilapidated buildings, it looks terrible. With the (cooperation of) the chamber (of commerce) and with the area businesses, we are concentrating on cleaning up those areas."

Once the board orders abatement, the owner must comply in a designated period of time, or the city will schedule demolition, Decell

Approximately 100 community officials and invited guests were welcomed to the dedication of the Level II Big Spring Federal Correctional Institute this morning. Warden Mike Fitzpatrick, at the podium, welcomed the guests, who later participated in tours in groups of 10, each accompanied by two staff members and a member of the Community Resource Board.

Visitors tour upgraded prison

HERALD STAFF REPORT

About 100 Big Spring officials and family members of employees of the Federal Correctional Institution observed the dedication of the upgraded prison facility this morning.

Warden Mike Fitzpatrick welcomed the group and thanked his personnel for their efforts in the conversion, and introduced Charles Turnbo, regional director for the U.S. Department of Justice, South Central Region.

Turnbo had praise for the Big Spring staff, and the community, in regard to the success of the local prison and the recent conversion from a federal prison camp to a Level II prison.

The change, he noted, was accomplished in a record eight months at a cost of $3.5 million.

He confirmed the plans for renovation and construction during the coming months to create — once again — a federal prison camp in Big Spring on the perimeter of the current facility.

That project, he said, will represent a $650,000 investment, with the bulk of the construction being done by prisoners.

Turnbo attributed the growth of the prison community, and attendant need for increased bed space, to two factors: increased federal action relating to drug offenses, and longer federal sentences without parole and a reduction in the amount of "good time" any prisoner can accumulate — now limited to 54 days in a single year.

He described the growth by noting that in one recent week the federal prisoner population grew by 480 individuals — one-half of the amount of space of the Big Spring Level II facility.

His remarks came as FCI personnel were conducting a typical prisoner count, Warden Fitzpatrick explained, relating to the fog that settled over much of Howard County this morning.

Any time a fog settles and lifts, a prisoner count is conducted, he said, to ensure no escape has occurred.

Turnbo had praise for the community's support of the prison, saying that it is unparalleled among the 65 locations of federal prisons.

Fitzpatrick said the planned growth using the current buildings outside the Level II

Secrecy surrounds military exercises

IN EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP) — The first major U.S.-Saudi Arabian military exercise, with the ominous name "Imminent Thunder," began its second day today shrouded in secrecy.

By military standards the six-day exercise, including a mock amphibious invasion, is relatively small. But its name and the sudden announcement that it was already under way heightened its importance at a time of uncertainty in the Persian Gulf.

Before the exercise started, Iraq on Wednesday denounced it as "a clear act of provocation" close to the Iraqi border that demonstrated "America's aggressive intentions."

The name Imminent Thunder raised speculation about whether a real military operation was imminent. This was reinforced by the recent prediction in a French magazine that an offensive would be launched on Nov. 17, the first moonless night after the U.S. elections.

U.S. Navy spokesman Cmdr. J.D. Van Sickle said the exercise was not intended to "provoke the Iraqis and insisted the name had no particular significance.

"The purpose is to give participating forces training in joint and combined operations and to enhance amphibious warfare skills," he said. "Exercise Imminent Thunder is part of our Desert Shield training."

Pentagon Spokesman Pete Williams said Thursday the main amphibious landing exercise was being held about 100 miles south of the Kuwaiti border. He also said that as part of Imminent Thunder a smaller group of Marines was conducting a training exercise about 25 miles south of the emirate's frontier.

Approximately 1,000 U.S. Marines, 1,100 aircraft and 16 ships, including the aircraft carrier USS Midway which arrived in the region earlier this month, are participating in the exercise along with an unspecified number of Saudi forces.

Training will consist of the amphibious landing, expected Sunday, with air cover and close air and naval support of ground forces. No

Museum to honor Bradshaw

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

Photographer Pyrlle Bradshaw owned and operated Bradshaw Studios from 1923 until she retired and closed the studio in 1975.

The legacy of Big Spring history contained in her photographs — spanning 53 years — is now on display at the Heritage Museum, and a reception in her honor is scheduled for Sunday from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. at the museum.

Bradshaw, who moved to Big Spring from Otto, Texas, in 1908, said she's donated the pictures and film to the museum in Big Spring and the Howard County Historical Commission because she wants to help preserve the history of the community.

"I'm trying to put things where they'd be appreciated. My family is scattered and wouldn't care about these things, but this way they can be where it will be history," Bradshaw said.

After living in Big Spring more than 70 years, Bradshaw's memories are rich with Big Spring history.

She said she remembers Big Spring when there were horse troughs downtown, and no paved streets or sidewalks. She said there were 1 x 12-foot planks in front of the general store.

"This is the third courthouse I've seen," she recalled.

She also remembers when Big Spring was bigger than Midland or Odessa. She said those towns had a much smaller population than Big Spring, and those cities gave land away to attract residents.

Bradshaw said that although she

Dallas DA opposes proposed drug law

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas County District Attorney John Vance said a proposed law suspending the licenses for convicted drug offenders will only make law enforcement more difficult.

Vance said the law would not curb illegal drug use.

Federal officials want to require states to suspend convicted drug users' licenses or risk losing federal highway funding.

"Possession of a drug canceling a man's driver's license — that doesn't mean a thing for him," said Vance. "He's just going to drive without a license. I'd rather see them concentrate their time and effort on punishment that will have a more direct impact."

State highway department officials said they expect no problems in getting such a bill through the Legislature in 1991.

The federal measure is aimed at deterring casual, middle-class drug users, congressional supporters said. The measure applies to possession convictions involving all illegal drugs.

Police investigate mule deer slaying

AMARILLO (AP) — Police today were investigating the slaying of a female mule deer stolen from the Storyland Zoo in Amarillo's Thompson Park.

The deer was found slaughtered in a trash bin on Thursday four blocks from the zoo, police said.

Amarillo Police Department spokesman Ralph Fletcher said the deer was discovered around 9:30 a.m. Thursday.

Fletcher said police still were searching for suspects late Thursday.

"It appears to be a crude form of hunting," Fletcher said. "Instead of going out in the woods with a gun, they just took the helpless deer from the zoo. The animal was completely butchered."

When workers arrived at the zoo Wednesday morning, they discovered the deer was missing from its pen.

A large hole was cut in the fence of the pen and blood was found inside the pen, indicating that the doe was killed and then dragged away, according to police reports.

Police found evidence that someone had driven a vehicle on the park grass behind the north rear fence of the zoo. Police speculate that the doe was hauled away in the vehicle.

The theft took place between 5:30 p.m. Tuesday and 8 a.m. Wednesday, according to police records.

State calendar made in Korea

AUSTIN (AP) — Their job is to sell Texas but when it came to buying, Texas Department of Commerce officials spent their money a long way from home.

A 1991 calendar, which the Department of Commerce is giving away at promotional events like trade shows, was printed in Korea by a publisher based in Montana.

Mike Murphy, a department media relations specialist who authorized the purchase, said the state paid $1.90 plus tax each for 5,000 copies of the calendars published by Falcon Press Publishing Co. Inc., based in Helena, Mont.

Murphy said a Falcon Press representative contacted him in February requesting department photos to be used in the color-photo calendar. The agency's policy is to supply photographs of Texas scenes free to any publication that requests them.

Falcon Press also offered to run a special edition of the calendar including a roster of the department's events through the year, Murphy said.

Its price was cheaper than the agency would have paid if it had initiated a contract with another printer, he said.

State defends school finance system in court

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' revamped school finance system is "a good faith effort by the 71st Legislature" and should be declared constitutional, state lawyers said in a brief filed with the Texas Supreme Court.

Attorney General Jim Mattox's office said in the brief filed Thursday that State District Judge Scott McCown was wrong to rule the system unconstitutional before it had a chance to work.

"In the end, the trial court's judgment was based upon the fact that it did not trust the various elect officials involved in the process to make the right decisions," the state said.

It cited such phrases by McCown as "the Legislature has given itself plenty of room to do nothing" in future years under the new law.

The Supreme Court has scheduled arguments in the case for Nov. 28. Poor school districts are asking the court to again declare the state's public education finance system unconstitutional.

McCown ruled the system unconstitutional in September, after lawmakers passed a law meant to reform it this summer. The law, Senate Bill 1, gave an additional $528 million to schools for 1990-91 in what was called the first step to an equitable system.

SB 1 was passed in response to a 9-0 Supreme Court decision scrapping the school finance system.

The Texas Constitution requires courts to give deference to co-equal branches of government, the state said in its brief.

"The district court erred in failing to give deference to the Legislature's assumptions and in setting SB 1 aside before implementation," it said. The state said McCown substituted his assumptions for those of lawmakers.

The Supreme Court is hearing the case after a group of poor school districts appealed McCown's decision not to put an immediate stop to the current school finance system.

The state said the system should be allowed to continue, and asked the Supreme Court to reverse McCown's ruling.

It said if the court decides it was not wrong for McCown to rely on his own assumptions about the case, the Supreme Court should allow the lower 3rd Court of Appeals in Austin to review disputed facts in the case before acting.

In his ruling, McCown said the $14 billion-a-year system is unconstitutional because it doesn't give all schools "substantially equal" access to funds for a similar tax effort.

He gave lawmakers until next September to change the system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Fans flock to help Willie Nelson

AUSTIN (AP) — Willie Nelson's fans and friends say it may be time for "Willie Aid" to help the singer out of his tax jam.

"If everybody'd just give a dollar, everybody who loves him and his music, we'd get it in no time," Annetta White, co-owner of Austin's Broken Spoke dance hall, said Thursday.

Nelson, who with singer John Cougar Mellencamp founded the Farm Aid movement, last week saw 22 of his properties in four states seized by the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS officials said the seizure is to ensure payment of $16.7 million in back taxes, penalties and interest owed by Nelson for tax years 1975-1982. He paid his taxes in 1979.

Among properties seized were Nelson's Pedernales Country Club and recording studio near Austin, and his Pedernales Fishing Camp. Also seized were land and houses in Colorado, Alabama and Washington state, said IRS spokeswoman Silvia Tovar.

Ms. Tovar said agency rules prohibited her from saying whether Nelson has contacted the IRS or paid any of his bill. She said no date had been set for auctioning the property.

Nelson reportedly was in Hawaii and not available to comment. Neither his lawyer in Dallas nor his manager in Connecticut returned calls to The Associated Press Thursday.

But his fans are speaking out. "Public response has been there. We've had several radio shows talking about it," Ms. Tovar said.

Mrs. White said customers at the Broken Spoke, where Nelson often played in the 1960s, tell her they want to help. "After all, she said, 'Nobody's got $16 million in his back pocket.'"

She and husband James are organizing a benefit dance for Dec. 2, contacting such performers as George Strait for items they might auction, and collecting contributions from average folks.

AUSTIN — James White holds a collection jar outside The Broken Spoke in Austin. White and his wife Annetta are trying to lend singer Willie Nelson a hand with his tax troubles. Nelson, who had 22 of his properties seized by the Internal Revenue Service, used to play at the club.

"We've got signs up that say 'Where there's a Willie, there's a way.' We've got a ledger where people can sign up and give a dollar or whatever. We collected $16 yesterday," she said.

Nelson, 57, has won five Grammys and has five platinum albums. His hit albums include "Stardust," "Willie and Family Live,"

"Somewhere Over the Rainbow," "Poncho and Lefty," "Red-Headed Stranger" and "Always On My Mind."

Other offers of help also are surfacing. James Hataway, a barber in nearby West Lake Hills, said he is completing paperwork to open a community trust fund account at an Austin bank for people who want to donate.

"I'm just a little guy, a fan who's got all of his records," Hataway said. "But I think we ought to help Willie out."

In Waco, near Nelson's hometown of Abbott, auto parts salesman Dave Crowe proposed that fans join "Willie Aid" by mailing donations straight to the IRS. "He's given of himself, now he is sideways with the IRS through no fault of his own," Crowe said.

Response even came from Washington, D.C., where a group called the National Coalition of IRS Whistleblowers voiced its concerns.

"The IRS as a matter of fact takes a celebrity case each year and talks it up to put the fear of God in people," contended Lisa Lashaway, the group's director. "If the whole intention is to get the money owed, why not let him sell a couple of his properties?"

Nelson's troubles even made the golf column of the Austin American-Statesman newspaper, which noted that the IRS seizure scratched the final round of the long-running 1990 Pedernales Scramble tournament at Nelson's golf course.

"The Scots have the Old Course (at St. Andrews). The back-east bluebloods have their Baltusrol and Winged Foot. But in Texas, there'll never be anyplace that can quite compare with the little 9-hole west of Austin," wrote columnist Del Lemon.

"Though it was called a country club, anybody could play and everybody felt welcome at Willie's."

Greyhound track opens with sellout crowd

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — The $21 million Corpus Christi Greyhound Race Track opened to a sellout crowd, as more than 4,000 people cheered their favorite hounds, booed dogs that beat their picks and tossed losing tickets to the wind like colored cardboard confetti.

Thursday's opening came the day after Valley Greyhound Park in Harlingen became the first Texas dog track to start holding races since voters approved pari-mutuel betting in a referendum three years ago.

Tuxedo-clad handlers paraded the greyhounds on leash down the front stretch to their steel starting boxes.

Shuttle launched on secret mission

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Atlantis settled into orbit under a communications blackout after a dazzling night launch of the Pentagon's last secret shuttle mission. The ship reportedly carried a spy satellite aimed at Iraq.

Riding a 700-foot column of yellow flame, the shuttle lifted from its seaside launch pad at 6:48 p.m. Thursday, climbed smoothly into darkness, slowly dimmed to a speeding star and then winked from view more than 350 miles downrange.

Atlantis' five-member, all-military crew reportedly planned to release a satellite that will focus cameras or electronic signal detectors on the Middle East, where American troops stand poised against Iraq.

A news blackout has been imposed on the mission, cutting off public release of communications between the crew and Mission Control. Only bare status reports will be issued during the four-day flight.

It was the first flight in eight months for Atlantis, one of two shuttles grounded during the summer because of hydrogen fuel leaks.

National guard unit placed on alert

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced that 800 members of the 3rd Battalion, 141st Infantry of the Texas Army National Guard have been placed on alert for possible mobilization in response to military operations in the Persian Gulf.

The unit, headquartered in McAllen, is a mechanized infantry battalion equipped with the latest Army battle weapons, the governor's office said Thursday. It has units in nine locations.

The 149th Personnel Services Company, which was mobilized Oct. 11, is the last unit called up from the Texas Guard. It is currently on duty at Fort Hood in Killeen.

Clements previously announced the 136th Mobile Aerial Port Squadron was activated Aug. 24 and is now on duty at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware. They have been extended for another 90 days.

On Sept. 20, the four-man 1104th Transportation Detachment, Texas Army National Guard from Austin was mobilized and reported to Fort Hood. They have since been deployed to the Persian Gulf area.

Trump misses midnight deadline

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Trump missed a deadline for making a $47.3 million interest payment but moved closer to a deal with investors threatening to force his Taj Mahal casino into bankruptcy court, an attorney said today.

The developer had been negotiating with Taj Mahal bondholders in an attempt to restructure his debts before the payment came due at midnight Thursday.

"There are several issues that are still left outstanding, several of them big ones, so I can't say that we have any agreement at this time," Robert Miller, an attorney for bondholders, told CBS Radio early today.

Singapore pact may set pattern for future bases

SINGAPORE (AP) — More U.S. warships and planes will use existing military bases in this small city-state in what may be the first of a new type of security arrangement in Southeast Asia.

Less costly and more flexible than massive installations like Subic Bay and Clark Field in the Philippines, the new arrangements could provide low-profile U.S. access to facilities without the political complications of establishing American bases.

Host governments would come under the U.S. military umbrella and local economies would be buoyed by spending by the visitors.

Washington would be able to sustain forces in the western Pacific and Indian Ocean, reducing reliance on the Philippine bases. Leases on the Philippine bases expire next year and talks on their future are under way.

The United States and Singapore said the agreement signed Tuesday was "concrete evidence of the determination of the United States to retain a military presence in Southeast Asia for the foreseeable future."

Under negotiation for more than a year, the accord was signed in Tokyo by Vice President Dan Quayle and Singapore Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew. They were attending the enthronement of Emperor Akihito.

The United States will not pay Singapore directly for increased use of the facilities, but the presence of more U.S. servicemen is expected to help the Singapore economy.

Officials stress that no new bases will be built. The U.S. Air Force is to make greater use of Paya Lebar Airport and U.S. Navy ships will call more often at Sembawang.

Paya Lebar, outgrown as the main civil airport, was converted to military use in 1981. Sembawang was a Royal Navy dockyard in British colonial days.

Permanently assigned U.S. Navy support personnel are to increase from 20 to about 95. An extra 75 Americans will rotate through with each air force deployment.

When the agreement was signed, a battle group led by the aircraft carrier Independence was in port after a tour of duty in the Persian Gulf.

Cause of crash remains unknown

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Authorities investigating a jetliner crash that killed all 46 people aboard, including seven Americans, say it could be several months before the cause of the disaster is fully known.

Officials Thursday cited pilot error and technical failure as possible causes of the Wednesday night crash as the Alitalia DC-9 approached Zurich international airport en route from Milan, Italy.

Radar data showed the plane was flying about 990 feet too low. Alitalia and Swiss officials said there was no explanation yet for the low altitude.

Zurich airport spokesman Andreas Meier said radar data "suggest the pilot misjudged his altitude."

Alitalia officials on Italian television speculated the plane's electronic navigation system failed.

Swiss transportation department spokesman Ulrich Sieber said investigators may need several months to compile and publish their report on the inquiry.

At least seven Americans were aboard the plane, according to the airline and U.S. Embassy officials.

The plane crashed into a steep wooded hillside, broke up and was gutted by fire. Zurich police official Eugen Thomann said all victims likely died on impact.

Image improved for Olympic bid

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese city bidding for the 1998 Winter Olympics has advised schools and libraries to destroy materials featuring the "Little Black Sambo" character in order to improve the city's international image, officials said today.

The municipal office in Nagano, central Japan, late last month requested that the city's schools and libraries destroy all books, pictures and educational tools involving Little Black Sambo, a story criticized as racist.

Sambo, originally meaning a person who was half Indian and half black, has been used as a degrading name for blacks.

"It is important for a better international reputation for Nagano," which is bidding to host the 1998 Olympic Games, a municipal official said.

Nagano city maintains everything that carries the word "Sambo" or cartoons of the boy should be banned regardless of content. But Nagano's library officials said references describing racial problems in the story should not be banned.

Gorbachev plans to end paralysis

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today promised a government and military shakeup to break the paralysis of power that has blocked transition to a market economy.

The Soviet leader, addressing the Supreme Soviet legislature which had demanded that he give a full report on his plans, said measures to reorganize the government and "get rid of outdated, clearly useless structures" would be submitted.

Gorbachev said the changes were necessary to implement the union treaty which hold the country together.

He did not spell out the changes but said they had the approval of embattled Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov.

Nice trick; we want an encore

Medicine has now reset the biological clock for motherhood. Researchers at the University of Southern California announced a few days ago that they had helped four postmenopausal women give birth to healthy babies. The new technique, involving the implantation of donated eggs and the use of hormone treatments, offers exciting possibilities to postmenopausal women who want a chance at motherhood.

"There may be 30-year-old women who should be able to do this," Dr. Mark V. Sauer, one of the researchers, said.

Perhaps. But medicine's work is not complete. How about some medical miracles for 45-year-old backs, to help them cope with removing a thrashing 32-pound toddler from the cookie aisle of the grocery store? How about a balm to aid creaking 48-year-old knees forced to crawl under the bed in search of missing Legos? And please don't forget an elixir for 55-year-old memory cells asked, at homework time, to recall quadratic equations and the subjunctive conjugation of French verbs. Wombs artificially stimulated to sustain a pregnancy in middle age are a nice trick, but, for motherhood's sake, don't stop there.

Term limits could be the issue of the 1990s

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — It started as a sleeper among issues, but the drive to limit politicians' terms is awake and kicking now, and the people pushing the idea say they'll seek to put it on at least 15 state ballots in 1992.

Claiming headway in both the victories and frustrations of the off-year elections, term-limit campaigners will meet in Washington early next month to talk about their next steps.

While the immediate target is the state legislatures, their ultimate aim is to limit tenure in Congress.

Term limits were approved in Colorado and California, the two states that had the issue on the ballot and, for good measure, in Kansas City, Mo., which put a ceiling on city council tenure. Oklahoma voted for term limits earlier in the fall.

And then 95 percent of the House incumbents who ran again won again, an outcome one strategist said would help the push for limits. "Even in an anti-incumbent year, you can't beat 'em," said Eddie Mahe, a Republican campaign consultant and advisor to Americans to Limit Congressional Terms.

Proposed constitutional amendments to limit congressional tenure to 12 years have, predictably, gone nowhere in Congress. The measure approved in Colorado would apply to members of Congress as well as state officeholders, and therefore it is certain to be challenged in court.

So the political pressure point is in states, especially those that hold direct elections on such questions. Elsewhere, Mahe said, the term limit drive will be pressed in the legislatures, where lawmakers may be loath to limit their own tenure but likely to approve a call for limits in Congress. That might just offer some openings for ambitious state lawmakers who'd like to get to Washington.

"I think term limits is really a reaction against the fact that so many of our congressional elections, and our other elections, are not really competitive," said Gov. Richard F. Celeste of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic Governors' Association.

Mahe said that when, and if, more states impose limits, or at least call for them nationally, Congress will start to feel the political heat. "Once those are in place at the state level, the pressure at the national level is going to be geometrically increased," he said.

"This is going to be an issue," says Vice President Dan Quayle. "You had the tax revolt in the 1970s and early 1980s, and in the 1990s, I think, you're going to see the voter revolt."

Campaigning for Republican candidates this year, both Quayle and President Bush pushed term limits. The 1988 Republican platform endorsed limits on House and Senate tenure, without saying what the ceiling should be. Quayle says he favors 12 years.

"All around this country there is a growing momentum for limiting terms of legislators," Bush said before the elections.

"... Term limitation is an idea whose time has come, and I think its time has come to Capitol Hill, frankly."

Quayle built part of his set campaign speech around the issue.

"The chairman, listen to this, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee has been in the Congress longer than my mother and father have been married. He had seven years of seniority when I was born," he would say, drawing ripples of laughter. "I tell you, there is an idea that is sweeping this country, and that is the idea that it is time to limit the terms..."

The chairman, Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., just won his 26th term.

But there is turnover, for all the power of incumbency, and more than 60 percent of House members have been elected since 1980.

Mahe said the organizations pushing term limits will seek commitments from House candidates in 1992 that they won't seek to serve more than a dozen years in Congress. "When they're running for the first time, 12 years looks like a long time," he said.

To a veteran, though, it doesn't look that long. Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, who also served in the House, once recalled that he'd arrived as a foe of the seniority system.

But the longer he stayed, McCarthy said, the more he saw the wisdom of it.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

The writer's art Grammar never made him no dollars

Some years ago I cherished an acquaintance with a rough-cut fellow, a self-made millionaire who still spoke the roustabout speech of the oil rigs. His oldest daughter, a schoolteacher, once reproached him for falling into a double negative.

"Sallie," he said, "good grammar never made me no dollars."

My friend's cavalier view of the matter seems to have many adherents. If I am not mistaken, grammar as grammar is not much taught in the schools these days, or left to fend for itself. The distinction between nominative and accusative, which once we learned in Latin class, fades into a mist. There it joins the vanishing subjunctive. A Las Vegas sportswriter, not trying to be funny, speculates on "whom beats who in the Seattle Kingdom this weekend." Well may we ask, whom cares?

A great many teachers care. I know this to be a fact because they write me to express their frustration. Some teachers don't know how to care. Back in February two teachers of "life management," whatever that is, sent a form to parents in McPherson, Kan. This was the accompanying note:

"Using the following information regarding temperamental traits would you please write a detail description of your child's temperament. Your child did this exercise in class regarding how they view their own temperament. Our hope is that you as a parent will share, honestly, your view of their temperament."

"In order for your child to receive credit for this assignment they must turn in a signed copy of your assessment. Thank you for your time and thought into sharing with your child regarding their personality. Hopefully this will be an enlightening experience."

It is a fair assumption that the authors of that pathetic missive are college graduates. They are high school teachers, for Pete's sake, presumably educated people. No one ever taught them how to write. Good grammar ain't making them no dollars.

Mary Jane Martinez, wife of the governor of Florida, was for 20 years a teacher in Tampa. Last year she visited schools in Broward County. "Twenty years of teaching taught my husband and I the value of field trips," she told youngsters at the Lippman Shelter in Fort Lauderdale. The editors of Webster's "Dictionary of English Usage" find that in casual speech, as distinguished from formal writing, "my husband and I" is widely accepted in the objective case.

Brent Musberger, the sportscaster, said in May that coverage of Monday night football "had not been discussed between Dennis and I." In Las Vegas, a TV critic for the Review-Journal took a look at ABC's "Good Morning America." The program "dares to put people like you and I on the air." In the Philip Morris magazine in June, we learn about actress Michelle Pfeiffer: Her constant companion is an actor "who is seven years younger than her." In the Chicago Sun-Times, a columnist raved that she was attracted to an absolutely wonderful man until she asked him his age. The headline read: "He's a lot older than her — but so what?" So it's lousy grammar, that's what.

It was a double negative, as I recall, that prompted Sallie's reproach of her father. Old dad has lots of company. In the Knight-Ridder newspapers a reporter prepared a somber article on teen-agers' suicides. She sought to make the point that parents are responsible for their children. She pounded the point to fragments: "Not society, not the community, not schools, not police, not psychiatrists, not nobody but parents." Not nobody? The ungrammatical gaffe destroyed the seriousness of her thought.

This was a headline in the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch in July: "Governor says he can't promise no housing cuts." At second, or third or fourth glance, perhaps the meaning was clear. The governor refused to pledge that he would not ask for cuts in spending on public housing. Why be unclear?

Good grammar alone may never make a man no dollars, but good grammar may win something that cannot be measured in millions. It earns the respect of people who cherish the old values. This is not elitism or intellectual Brahmanism. It is a manifestation of civility, of the conservation of a culture worth conserving.

Problem does have a solution

A 33-year-old female legal assistant was recently acquitted by jurors in Houston for entering a men's restroom during a concert, which is illegal in Texas. George Strait had been on stage.

I was at a Willie Nelson concert in Atlanta a couple of years ago when a convoy of ladies (more than two) stormed into a men's room where I happened to be standing at the time.

"We just can't wait, boys," said the spokesperson.

Does this happen at concerts involving non-country singers? I suppose it has, but it likely happens more at country concerts because (1) there's more beer-drinking going on; (2) country music fans tend to be a little more down-to-earth; and (3) unlike rap concerts, you're not afraid you'll miss the dirty parts while you go to the bathroom.

The woman in Houston, Denise Wells, said, you guessed it, the reason she went into the men's restroom was the line to the ladies was just too long.

I certainly can sympathize with a woman going into the men's room when nature's call has reached the critical stage.

The desire for relief will cause members of both sexes to do something they might not do otherwise.

Women sportswriters going into men's locker rooms is a professional matter. A woman going into a men's room because she just can't wait has to do with the basic human urge to stop pain.

Men get in and get out of their restroom. Tarry too long and somebody in the back of the line will embarrass you by screaming, "Hey, buddy. You gonna (go) all day?"

But women must look at who's really to blame when they have to resort to going into a men's toilet facility.

They must blame themselves. If women would go into their own restrooms cognizant of the fact their sisters are waiting on them, this problem could be solved quite easily.

The question of why women take so long in the bathroom has always intrigued me. I even wrote a country song about the issue, titled, "When My Love Returns From the Ladies Room, Will I Be Too Old to Care?"

After the song followed a book of the same name and Hollywood will be out with the movie as soon as enough extras can be located for the long-line-to-the-ladies-restroom scene.

To put an end to this problem and keep the issue out of our courts, women need to pick it up a bit. Try these ideas:

1. Keep your undergarments to a minimum when you go to a concert.
2. Don't wear anything with a lot of snaps, zippers — or a key. Why not give Velcro a chance?
3. Comb your hair and powder your nose somewhere else. There are people in line turning blue.
4. If somebody asks you, "Where did you get those darling earrings?" wait until you both get outside to answer.

For further instructions, you might want to pick up my soon-to-be-published sequel to "When My Love... etc.," titled, "Is It Time for a Shot Clock in Women's Restrooms?"

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed: Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.

They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered. Letters exceeding the 350-word limit will be cut.

They must be signed, free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign; candidates are allowed a single letter during a campaign. Letters listing numerous donors to projects are not published.

Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

Address letters "To the editor," Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Cowboy cops cause problems

IRVING (AP) — For one night, they were Cowboy cops. Five Dallas Cowboys, including quarterback Troy Aikman, traded in their NFL jerseys for police uniforms for a Halloween charity party.

But Irving Police Chief Benny Newman has come under the gun from some city officials.

"Apparently they had the whole regalia," said Mayor Pro Tem John Medaille. He said Newman showed "incredibly poor judgment at best."

But Council member George Susat believe the chief acted out of a "zeal to cooperate" with a worthwhile cause, a private benefit for the disabled.

In addition to Aikman, those borrowing uniforms, including badges, were Babe Laufenberg, Rob Awalt, Mark Stepnoski and Daryl Johnston.

"The only time it could have posed a problem was when a woman at the party wanted me to frisk her," said Laufenberg, backup quarterback to Aikman.

"And I politely declined. I gave her the Troy Aikman 'No thanks, I'll pass.'"

The flap and need for a uniform policy will be discussed by the council Wednesday.

Free pizza for correct pis

BALTIMORE (AP) — You can eat for free at the Happy House of Pizza, but first you have to understand that some pies are round and some pis "r" squared.

"Back to school with a free large cheese pizza for the correct answer," reads the flier Happy House of Pizza began mailing to Annapolis-area households in September. "If a 15-inch pizza costs $8.75, how much should a 16-inch Happy House pizza pie cost?"

Owner Ryan Belen said he came up with the promotion to prove how much bigger his pizzas are than those of a nearby Domino's outlet. Both restaurants sell a large cheese pizza for $8.75.

Most Happy House customers come up with the half-baked answer of $9.33, by incorrectly applying the ratio 15-to-16 to the price, he said.

The actual solution lies in finding the area of each pie using the formula for deriving the area of a circle — pi times the radius squared. The ratio of the two areas is then used to find what the price would be if Happy House charged accordingly.

The larger pie gives roughly 25 square inches more pizza and would cost $9.96 if Happy House charged the same amount per square inch as Domino's.

Pi, the 16th letter of the Greek alphabet, is the mathematical term for the ratio between the circumference of a circle and its diameter, which is always approximately 3.14159265. The letter "r" is the math symbol for radius.

Nine out of 10 customers come up with the wrong answer, but Happy House has given away 86 pizzas, Belen said.

Saddam's palace

Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein's opulent al-Sijoud Palace, shown in artist's conception, is reportedly under construction in Baghdad according to Time Magazine, which obtained the picture from Kuwait and published it in its Nov. 19 issue. Time says the moat-surrounded palace was begun before the invasion of Kuwait and has an estimated price tag of $1 billion.

Fact: A young, healthy person is more likely to be disabled for a considerable time than to die. Yet, though most people with financial responsibilities have life insurance, few of them consider the need for disability coverage.

Social Security doesn't pay a lot, and only if you are totally disabled; you'll wait at least five months for benefits.

What do you need? Ideally, enough money to replace 50 to 60 percent of gross salary (benefits are tax-free if you pay for the insurance), continuing until you are 65. A three-month waiting period will save on premiums; your savings should hold you that long.

Better policies will pay off even if you're not totally disabled. Some are designed to make up the difference between what you can earn now and what you could if working full time at your usual profession.

Most important: look for renewal guarantees. The top policies are "noncancelable" to freeze premiums.

Group labors to save wetlands

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — Poverty and violence are much more pressing issues in Latin America than the environment, but 16 years of quiet, steady work to save wetlands is showing results. Ducks Unlimited, a non-profit group associated with similar groups in the United States, Canada and New Zealand, is dedicated to preserving the natural habitat of more than 50 species of migratory waterfowl. It is particularly active in Mexico, which ranks third among the world's nations in the diversity of bird and animal life. "Conservation is a luxury in a country like ours, but at the same time it is very much a necessity," said Eric Gustafson, vice president

"The lowly swamps that in the past have been drained have proven to be the seedbed of all life."

of Ducks Unlimited, which is based in Monterrey. "The lowly swamps that in the past have been drained have proven to be the seedbed of all life. For the poor, wildlife is a source of food, but this wildlife must be cared for because many species endemic to Mexico are being threatened with extinction. We need to teach them to consume the ones that are abundant and conserve others."

Gustafson said Mexico is ripe for environmental activism because of its varied topography, ranging from tropical rain forests and deserts to mountains and thousands of miles of beaches. He added that "there is lots of land still untouched by man." Ducks Unlimited has focused on reforestation, rehabilitation of wetlands and adding shoreline by building dams, pools, lagoons and islands with nesting boxes and vegetation. Gustafson said it had developed more than 860,000 acres of wetlands. "Other animals, like deer, jaguar and doves also benefit because they drink the water," he said. Habitat for ducks, geese and cranes is disappearing and several species are threatened because of pollution, expanded oil exploration and agriculture, he said, and described the goal of his group to an interviewer: "You can conserve a species in a zoo. What we want to do is conserve them in the habitat where wildlife lives and breeds in its natural state. That includes providing water, food, cover and space." Ducks Unlimited works to help spread community awareness.

GAZA CITY, Israel — An unidentified Israeli soldier armed with an assault rifle helps a blind Palestinian around his jeep in downtown Gaza City. The shuttered shops in the background are the result of a general strike called by the Palestinian leadership.

Albanians refugees seek a better life

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Hundreds of people are fleeing repressive Albania, but the welcome is wearing thin in Yugoslavia, a troubled neighbor that already has ethnic problems with a large Albanian minority. Officials say more than 600 Albanians have crossed the heavily guarded border from their communist homeland so far this year, compared to only 40 in 1989. Albania's leaders have begun cautious reforms and seek to emerge from decades of self-imposed isolation, but many of their people are taking a faster route to freedom. "We were forced to escape after enduring years of horror," said Pashko Preldakaj, who led 20 people through the rugged mountains of northern Albania last month. "I cannot describe what it is like to live in Albania." Preldakaj's group evaded Albanian frontier guards in an all-night trek that covered 20 miles from Nikc, his home village, across a mountain range more than 6,000 feet high. Adults carried children in their arms, scrambling in the dark over narrow, rocky trails above deep gorges, Preldakaj said. Yugoslav authorities routinely give escaping Albanians up to 30 days in jail for illegal entry, then turn them over to representatives of the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees. Judith Kumin, deputy director of the refugee agency, said they may be kept in Yugoslavia temporarily if the United Nations pays their expenses. She said the high commissioner's office has no way of knowing how many people are caught trying to flee Albania. On average, Albanian refugees spend six months in Yugoslavia before emigrating. Most go to the United States. The influx has created resentment in Serbia, Yugoslavia's largest republic, where the refugees are kept while awaiting resettlement outside the country. Ethnic Albanians make up 90 percent of the 1.9 million people in Kosovo, the heart of medieval Serbia, where 60 people have been killed in ethnic violence during the past year. Only four of the eight refugee centers in Yugoslavia still accept Albanians. Recent reports say Albanian authorities have softened their shoot-to-kill policy on the border and have significantly reduced the 23-year prison terms previously imposed on citizens caught trying to flee.

Danes will be offered free bicycle use

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Officials in the Danish capital believe they've found a way to stop bicycle thefts — let people use them for free. Starting in May, 5,000 bicycles carrying advertising from sponsors will be placed in 900 bike racks throughout Copenhagen. They'll be available for use by anyone who needs them, tourists, shoppers, businessmen late for an appointment or commuters who have missed the bus. "You take a bike, drive around as long as you want it and put it back in a special-built rack. No charge," explained Ole Wessung, a 30-year-old chiropractor and an originator of the Bycykel (City Bike) project. "I had enough of getting my bicycles stolen. Five of them have disappeared within three months," he said.

According to police, 101,288 bicycles were reported stolen in 1989 in Denmark, a loss of $1.74 million. Wessung and publisher Morten Sadolin, 30, spent two years developing the project, and hope to make money by selling the advertising space on the bicycles. The Copenhagen city council — interested in reducing air pollution, traffic congestion and bike thefts — has given permission for placement of the bicycle racks on almost every other street corner. A similar plan was proposed for Amsterdam in the 1970s but never caught on the Dutch city. However, a similar free-bike plan is operating successfully at the Hoge Veluwe national park in the Netherlands. In the closed-off area, visitors can pick up a bike for free and drop it off anywhere else on the grounds.

"They sign a three-year contract and during that period bicycles with their brands and colors will be seen in the streets," said Wessung. The clumsy-looking bicycles have big, flat central tubes where sponsors' advertisements will be placed. But the ungraceful appearance also has another purpose. "They are easily recognizable and were designed so no one would steal them," says Wessung. "Everyone can see it's a Bycycle. If you are spotted 200 kilometers (125 miles) away from Copenhagen, you're either a good rider or a thief." Would-be thieves are discouraged from stealing the bike for refitting because standard saddles, wheels and other parts do not fit the Bycycle, which means "city bike" in Danish.

Gas.
It's A Natural.

When it comes to doing things better for less, nothing works like gas. Naturally. Nothing heats your home, heats your water, cooks your food, or dries your clothes as efficiently. Or as cost-effectively. Or as cleanly.

As for reliability, when's the last time your natural gas went off?
Use natural gas for your household energy. For cleanliness, cost-efficiency and reliability, it's a natural.

What's more, no other form of energy helps to protect our environment — or our economy — quite like natural gas. Leading scientists state that the use of natural gas can guard against many of the environmental problems facing us today. And, virtually all of the natural gas we consume in the United States is produced right here in North America.

Top educators speak out on reforms

WASHINGTON— Asked their opinions about how to improve education and make their jobs easier, a group of America's top teachers said they'd like their own computers, smaller class sizes, fewer standardized tests and greater responsibility over how their schools are run.

The 231 teachers were honored earlier this year as part of Thanks to Teachers program sponsored by Apple Computer Inc. and the National Foundation for Improvement of Education. They were polled by the Gallup organization on a variety of education reform issues last May and the results of the poll were released here Wednesday.

The teachers said most schools fall short on providing basic support tools readily available to their counterparts in industry.

For example, almost nine out of 10 said they could do a better job if they had a computer on their desks and 83 percent said their schools did not have enough copy machines. Half of the award-winning teachers said they would like to have their own telephone to keep in touch with parents and colleagues during the work day.

Nearly all of the teachers said they spent money out of their own pockets for school supplies not provided by the school district — spending an average of $400 to $600 per teacher each year.

The teachers embraced the trend toward "site-based management," which allows teachers, principals and parents to set policy for their own schools instead of following directions handed down from school districts and states.

The teachers said they have little faith in standardized testing, despite the dramatic increase in such tests over the past 10 years.

More than three-quarters of the teachers said standardized tests force teachers to place less emphasis on skills that can't be measured by the exams and spend too much time rehearsing students for the examinations. Only 37 percent said the boom in testing has improved the quality of schools by holding teachers responsible for their students' performance.

"These outstanding elementary and high school teachers advocate innovation, stressing the need to move away from concepts that have been in place for centuries — the isolated teacher, fact memorization and centralized school management," concluded Bernard Gifford, an Apple executive.

More than 85 percent of the teachers said they found the profession much more difficult than they had imagined when in college, and most knew of at least one teacher who was "burned out" or not qualified to teach.

But the optimistic news, Gifford said, is that despite their criticism of the education system, the great majority of the award-winning teachers said they love their jobs and plan to stay in the profession for at least 10 more years.

Hospital offers drive-through shots

POMONA, Calif. (AP) — Too busy to get sick, and too busy to get out of the car?

A hospital offered free drive-through flu shots for Southern California's automobile-obsessed residents. "Roll up your sleeve and put your arm out the car window as you queue up for Los Angeles County's first drive-through flu clinic at Pomona Valley Hospital Medical Center," the hospital declared in a news release.

Volunteer nurses spent the morning injecting motorists with a vaccine effective against three strains of influenza that health officials believe may reach the United States this winter: A-Shanghai-89, A-Taiwan-86 and B-Yamagata.

The hospital opted to provide the drive-in shots because construction at the hospital has reduced the number of parking spaces.

Woman loves man who won't commit

DEAR ABBY: I've been seeing Philip — not his real name — for seven months. We get along famously most of the time, despite our age difference. Philip is 34 and twice divorced, and I am 20 and never married. We had both agreed to see other people if we wanted to, and it was going well until now.

Philip has been sleeping with other women, and I just can't handle it any longer. I told him how I felt, and he said he would commit to just one person — me or anyone else — even though he loves me.

Abby, the thought of him sleeping with somebody else makes me hysterical! My friends tell me it's too early to expect an exclusive commitment from Philip. He says he will never marry again, but I think I can get him to change his mind.

I don't know if I should hang in there for a little while longer or break up with him. I love him with all my heart, but I'm afraid my love may be blinding me to the realities of this situation. Please advise me. — IN LOVE IN OMAHA

Baptist church hosts Ladies Night Out

Calvary Baptist Church hosted a Ladies Night Out Nov. 8. The Family Center was festively decorated in the Mexican tradition, with an authentic sombrero, rug, and towels. The tables were decorated with brightly colored crepe paper flowers and cactus plants. Everyone enjoyed a Mexican "pile on" dinner and for a special treat after supper everyone received a "fortune mint." These mints featured a praise scripture. The mint and scripture was wrapped in a corn shuck and tied with a brightly colored tie. The group had fun playing a game with Spanish words. Kathy Wilson awed the crowd with beautiful slides of a trip to Mexico.

Senior pep rally

The seniors were recognized Oct. 9 at the pep rally of the season. Fans and students alike enjoyed the fun as Head Coach Tom Ramsey dressed up like the school mascot, Sluefoot, and sang about the "Big Bad Wolf", before firing the football players up to win. A special skit involving the seniors about their 12 years in school was entertaining.

Many tears flowed as the seniors and senior parents were asked to come to the stage to sing the school song once more.

Progressive supper

Ten singles from the First Baptist Church enjoyed an early "Pilgrims Progressive Supper" Saturday in honor of Thanksgiving. Everyone met at the church and traveled in the van to the prepared homes.

The first stop was to the home Virginia Dearen where the singles began with a fresh fruit salad. The main course of chicken and dressing and sweet potatoes was eaten at the home of Christine Cooley. Everyone enjoyed the usual holiday desserts of pumpkin pie, pecan pie, and fruit cake at the home of Kay Fite. The group also took this opportunity to share some of the year's blessings and thanksgivings.

Food drive

The local Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts will be collecting canned goods this Saturday and Sunday in their Scouting for Food project to gather food for the needy.

Bags for the project were delivered Thursday in the Colorado City Record. Fill your bag with canned goods and place it outside your door on the day of the drive. The Scouts will come by and pick them up.

Last year the Scouts were able to collect more than 2,000 cans in this drive and hope to do as well this year.

Stenholm visit

United States Representative Charles Stenholm was in town Nov. 10 and spoke to the students at Colorado High School.

Stenholm spoke of the situation in the Mideast and said he believed that this would not turn into another Vietnam because U.S. soldiers are not on the front lines. "The Egyptians and Syrians are on the front line," he said.

Stenholm also talked about other topics such as abortion, flag burning, freedom of speech, the budget,

Church briefs

Community service set for Sunday

An Ecumenical Service of Thanksgiving for the community will be conducted Sunday at First United Methodist Church at 3 p.m. Don Newbury, president of Howard Payne University, Brownwood, will be the speaker. A combined choir composed of singers from area churches will sing "A Jubilant Song," by Allen Pote accompanied by a brass ensemble under the direction of High School Band Director Eddie Gellner, the organ, and handbells. Keith Ross will be at the console of the organ and Gil Oxendine will direct the Community Choir.

The Meistersingers and Rhapsody, under the direction of Kristy Hayes from Big Spring High School, will sing three numbers.

The Thanksgiving offering will go to the Salvation Army's meal program to feed the needy of the community.

Newbury is the 16th president of Howard Payne, assuming the leadership role Jan. 1, 1986. Prior to coming to his present position he served as president of Western Texas College, Snyder; director of communications for Tarrant County Junior College District, Ft. Worth; and director of College information and instructor of journalism at Sul Ross State University.

A native of Early, Newbury holds a bachelor of arts from Howard Payne, a master's degree in journalism from the University of Texas, Austin; and a doctorate in philosophy in higher education administration from North Texas State University, Denton.

Newbury is recognized as one of the outstanding after-dinner speakers in the United States. He's a member of First Baptist Church, Brownwood, where he serves as a deacon.

College Baptist news

The Stewardship Committee of College Baptist Church will meet Sunday at 8 p.m.

Adult Fellowship will be Saturday at 6:30 p.m. at Danny and Marcy Weir's home. Bring a topping for baked potatoes and a dessert.

Bakers Chapel AME Church to celebrate

Bakers Chapel AME Church will celebrate its 61st anniversary Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Rev. Earnest Wilson, pastor of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, will be the speaker of the hour.

The Rev. Floyd Green Jr. and members of Bakers Chapel invite the public to attend. Dinner will be served in the annex after the service.

First Christian news

The Annual Congregational Meeting of First Christian Church will be Sunday at noon. Participants will be voting upon the 1991 General Budget request. The budget is an over-all five percent increase compared to the 1990 General Budget, and is also a record budget request in the history of First Christian Church. John Leubner, Board chairman.

The Wednesday Morning Bible Study group has begun a study on the Book of Ecclesiastes. The group meets in the church parlor, 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. every Wednesday.

"One offering, Many ministries" is your opportunity to make an over and above contribution to Basic Mission Finance, Sunday. This Thanksgiving Special Day offering supports the denominations ministry, laity studies, social concerns, evangelistic efforts, and Christian education.

The Advent theme is "Follow The Signs", and begins Dec. 2, and continues each Sunday through Christmas. The Downtown Association of Churches is sponsoring.

The joy of sharing Churches to serve Thanksgiving dinner

By LYNN HAYES
Lifestyle Editor

If you have no family in town, or can't afford to buy a meal and don't want to spend the Thanksgiving holiday alone, you're in luck. Three local churches will serve a free Thanksgiving meal to the public on Thanksgiving Day.

Spring Tabernacle Church, 1209 Wright St., will begin serving at noon and will continue to do so until "all are filled," said Mona Lou Tonn, co-minister.

The menu will include turkey, dressing, giblet gravy, green beans, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, pecan pie and cake.

Mona Lou and her husband, Arnold, who serves as pastor, and church members have donated money and their time to help feed the lonely and the hungry.

The Tonns say by feeding others they are following the word of the Lord.

"This is something we're doing

"This is something we're doing because we love people. . . . We believe it's what the Lord wants us to do. He (Jesus) came to feed the hungry and said 'Do what I do,' — Mona Lou Tonn.

because we love people. . . . We believe it's what the Lord wants us to do," Mona Lou explained. "He (Jesus) came to feed the hungry and said 'Do what I do.'"

Anyone who would like to eat at the church is invited to do so. "Everyone's invited — the lonely, hungry, those that have no family, or people who just want to fellowship," Mona Lou said.

"Thanksgiving is a special time, a day to set aside to be thankful for all of God's blessings. It's traditionally a day of feasting and fellowship with those we love. If for some reason the season won't mean so much to you, we invite you to come and share with us fellowship — lots of good food," Arnold said.

Those who'd like to stay after the meal are invited to share in a special singing and worship time. "We'll probably spend the day worshipping and praising the Lord," Mona Lou said.

If you'd like to attend but have no transportation, church members will be glad to help, Mona Lou said. Please call 267-5321 or 263-0544.

First Church of the Nazarene, 1400 Lancaster St., will serve Thanksgiving dinner from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

"The main reason we're doing this is dispel loneliness during the season," said the Rev. Gary Smith.

Turkey, ham and all the trimmings will be served to those who don't have anyone to spend the holiday with, Smith said.

Families are invited to eat their holiday meal at the church.

"If a family would like to eat here, and they can afford to, we ask they bring some food to share," Smith said.

If you'd like to attend and/or you need transportation, please call the church by Tuesday at 267-7015.

The Salvation Army, 811 W. Fifth St., will serve its annual Thanksgiving dinner for the hungry and the needy from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

The church also will provide a meal for shut-ins. To make reservations for a meal, please call 267-1175.

The Salvation Army also needs volunteers to deliver the meals. To volunteer, please call 267-4239.

Bible is key to productive life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some captains of industry offer a perennially repeated message to their fellow Americans: read the Bible each day. It's the key to good and productive lives, they say.

VICTOR EIMICKE

A group founded by business people has been stressing that advice for half a century in its sponsorship of National Bible Week, which this year is Nov. 18-25.

On the 50th anniversary observance of the event, the current national chairman, Richard M. DeVos, president of Amway Corp., said:

"My goal is to encourage every American to make daily Bible reading a personal commitment. God interacts with us in many ways. I believe one of the best ways to find and follow him is through the pages of your Bible."

Special events for the week are planned in about 10,000 communities, along with public service media ads and state and local proclamations, to stress the Bible's importance in American history and culture.

The sponsoring Laymen's National Bible Association was started in 1940 by a small group of New York businessmen. It since has expanded to include businessmen throughout the country as well as public officeholders.

"The Bible gives us a positive pattern to live by, and also a program to die by . . ." said DeVos, a member of the Christian Reformed church. "Other patterns are some person's theory, but the Bible is . . . what God says we ought to be."

"It's vital to our behavior and society. It's the guidebook to life."

While presidents, governors and mayors also lend backing to the association's Bible campaign, leading businessmen have been its working mainstays.

"There are a tremendous number of business people throughout the country who are very good and devout people interested in this cause," said Victor W. Eimicke, the association's president the last nine years as well as president of V.W. Eimicke Associates, a Bronxville, N.Y.-based producer of business forms.

Eimicke, a Dutch Reformed Church member who holds a doctorate in industrial psychology, said recent Wall Street scandals produced a "feeling that something was very wrong with the ethics of businessmen."

But that's a mistaken image, he said, "it's not representative." He said 99 percent of the business people he has known were "fine, upright people," many of "strong faith."

Noting that a different national business figure each year is chairman of the Bible drive, he said they are "a who's who of the business world, wonderful, wonderful people."

The executive chosen as national chairman recruits about 100 business people as associate chairmen, who in turn each recruit 10 to 15 others, thus totaling 1,000 to 1,500 each year.

Eimicke, whose family has a longtime custom of reading from the Bible each morning at breakfast, said, "I believe that unless we get back to the basic principles in the Bible, we're not going to solve the many problems around us."

He cited the drug problem, saying more spending and legal crackdowns won't solve it.

"We'll stop it when families again start gathering around the breakfast table each day, and give young people some self-esteem," enabling them to know their own worth so they will spurn drugs.

Bishops call human sexuality a 'divine gift'

WASHINGTON (AP) — In adopting their first comprehensive guidelines on human sexuality, U.S. Roman Catholic bishops call it a "divine gift" that should be carefully nurtured.

"We do not fear sexuality, we embrace it," the bishops said both in lauding that universal human endowment and reaffirming traditional church restraints in expressing it.

In the 185-page assessment of sexuality, approved Wednesday to guide education on the subject, the National Conference of Catholic Bishops added:

"We are dealing with a divine gift, a primal dimension of each person, a mysterious blend of spirit and body, which shares in God's own creative love and life."

"What we fear at times is our own inability to think as highly of the gift as does the God who made us sexual human beings."

While maintaining long-established church disapproval of premarital and extramarital sexual intercourse, the document does so in gentle, reasoned tones, and somewhat tempers past strictures against homosexuality. It came after Bishop Raymond W. Lessard of Savannah, Ga., sought unsuccessfully to insert a 1986 Vatican declaration calling homosexuality a "strong tendency" toward "intrinsic moral evil" and an "objective disorder." Archbishop John R. Quinn of San Francisco called that a philosophical analysis that has been misunderstood as meaning such people were "intrinsicly disordered and bad."

"Every human being has some disordered tendency," such as toward anger and greed, Quinn said.

The Vatican statement was put in a footnote, along with an explanation that it was not meant to demean individuals. It has caused "untold damage," pushing "many over the brink to confront the church head-on," said Auxiliary Bishop Peter A. Rosazza of Hartford, Conn.

Another flurry erupted over the document's reiteration of the church ban on contraception. Surveys indicate that a large proportion of Catholics reject the ban.

Bishop Kenneth E. Untener of Saginaw, Mich., noting that dissenters are asked to prayerfully reconsider, said they might respond: "We will if you will."

A time for giving

Lewena Smith and C.J. Ward, two members of the Ladies About the Master's Business group at First Church of the Nazarene, add the finishing touches to the care baskets that were distributed Wednesday to shut-ins and the needy in the community. Church members donated enough food and personal items to fill 70 baskets, according to the Rev. Gary Smith.

CHARLES A. KELLIHER

Long-time fugitive is caught

NEW YORK (AP) — Charles A. Kelliher's 40 years as a fugitive from a Virginia chain gang have come to an end, but he says he has paid society all it has coming and at least 100 of his friends agree.

Kelliher's past caught up with him this month when federal marshals knocked on the door of his Brooklyn apartment. Diane Kelliher, his wife of 20 years, said she "had no idea. I was shocked about the whole thing."

Kelliher was taken to a New York City jail, where he has been held without bond since Oct. 31.

The 59-year-old former moonshine runner and self-described hell-raiser, said he fled a prison road crew in 1950 when he was a 19-year-old rowdy from Manassas.

"We were out on a highway cleaning ditches," Kelliher said. "Something happened on the other side of the road and the guards turned and I took off."

Kelliher had served only a few months of a 22-year sentence when he fled to New York. He had been convicted of getting drunk, breaking into the county courthouse and stealing his own car, which police had confiscated when they caught him hauling illegal whiskey.

"I thought he had lost his mind — 22 years!" he said of the judge.

Virginia authorities — who have a program to locate long-missing fugitives — enlisted the help of federal law enforcers who, after hours of stakeouts and computer record searches, traced Kelliher to his Bay Ridge apartment.

Donald Zimmerman, of the Virginia Department of Corrections in Richmond, said the state still wants Kelliher to serve the 21 years, eight months he owes.

Kelliher, with the help of attorney Philip A. DiPippo, who learned of his case through news reports, is resisting extradition.

NEWBERG, Ore. (AP) — Doctors, clergymen and business executives come from around the country for a few weeks in the steep, green hills that climb from the Willamette River southwest of Portland.

They come to learn to turn their backs on drugs and alcohol at the Springbrook Institute, one of the few substance abuse centers that specializes in treating professionals.

Kent E. Neff founded it last year after working 15 years with addicted doctors, dentists, teachers, business people and other professionals. "It became clear to me that the needs of doctors and professionals were different," said Neff, a 51-year-old psychiatrist.

Professionals are well-educated, have little supervision and are loath to admit they have a problem.

"They're really wiler — so that things look better than they are," he said. "If you look just at work performance, everything looks great."

Health professionals also have access to drugs, said Carmen Hull, program coordinator of the Oregon Diversion Program for Health Professionals. The state program refers doctors, dentists and nurses to Springbrook. Under the program, those who recover keep their licenses and face no legal penalty.

Although spouses or children often are the first to recognize addiction, co-workers often report it, Neff and Hull said. "Many people, especially professional and managerial people, come in with some element of coercion," Neff said.

Once at Springbrook, patients undergo medical evaluation and detoxification, Neff said. For alcoholics, evaluation and detoxification normally last one to five days.

Then the patients enter the recovery phase, in which they live at Springbrook and attend classes about their disease and treatment, nutrition, exercise, stress and Alcoholics Anonymous' 12-step program.

Movement and meditation therapy are vital in helping patients become less self-centered and learn self-love, Neff said. In counseling, patients learn to listen to their emotions, their bodies. They explore, ask questions, learn independence.

"We try to teach them healthy life skills," said Dr. Gary Jacobsen, medical director at Springbrook.

For some of the men, it is the first time they have done their own laundry, Neff said. Depending on mothers, then wives, many patients have never ironed a shirt.

Family week is held the third or fourth week, involving intensive education and counseling for relatives.

Recovery continues with outpatient treatment, in which the patients continue classes and counseling, but live away in housing arranged by Springbrook, Neff said.

After returning home, patients must attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and undergo two years of weekly urine testing.

Doctors comprise about 25 percent of Springbrook's patients.

U.S. steel industry is cleaning up their formula

PENN HILLS, Pa. (AP) — The steel industry is working to remove the dirtiest ingredient in its 378-year-old steel recipe — coke.

The $44 million, four-year experiment in this Pittsburgh suburb to make steel in a cleaner, more efficient way could clear the air near coke ovens and help steelmakers meet federal pollution standards, but could also mean layoffs.

The American Iron and Steel Institute and U.S. Department of Energy unveiled their research on Tuesday.

"What you have is steel without all the stink," said Carnegie Mellon University professor R.J. Fruehan, a researcher on the project.

An American company will be selling steel made with the new cokeless process by 2005, said Ian Hughes, technology vice president at Inland Steel Corp.

At least one environmental activist is skeptical the changes will come anytime soon.

"Coke will be around for a long time, and it's certainly going to be another generation of our children before these changes are in place," said David Jasnow, a board member of the Group Against Smog and Pollution.

In the method first used in blast furnaces in 1612 in England, steel is made by melting iron ore to remove oxygen, then mixing the liquid iron with limestone and coke.

Coke is almost pure carbon made by baking impurities from coal.

The iron-coke-limestone mixture then must go through two furnaces before it is finished into steel.

The experimental process mixes coal, iron ore and limestone to make liquid steel in one step.

Hughes said the new technology combined with other advances in steel finishing and rolling, would cut the current 1,000-hour method of making steel to 10 hours while demanding the same amount of coal from American mines.

Taxpayers have cheated IRS out of billions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans have been cheating the government out of billions of dollars a year by claiming non-existent children and parents as dependents for tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The year after Congress required that children 5 or older have Social Security numbers, the number of dependent exemptions dropped by 7 million below what had been predicted. That brought in an extra $2.8 billion in taxes in 1987 alone, the IRS says.

Returns filed by 11,627 couples and individuals showed declines of seven or more dependents claimed from the previous year. Nearly 67,000 claimed four, five or six fewer dependents than before. In most cases, the exaggerated claims had been made for several years.

"The decrease is particularly significant because it seems to indicate that a 20-year trend of increasing numbers of improper dependency exemptions has finally been reversed," concluded IRS researcher John A. Szilagyi.

The study indicated that most of the cheating was being done by single taxpayers and by married people who filed separate returns. The number of dependents claimed by singles dropped 48.3 percent from 1986 to 1987; claims by married people filing separately declined 28 percent; the number claimed by couples filing joint returns dropped 3.9 percent.

There was not nearly so much variance when the tax returns were divided into income groups. Those with income under $25,000 showed a 7 percent decline in dependents claimed; between $25,000 and $50,000, the number fell 4 percent, and those with income over $50,000 reported 4.9 percent fewer dependents than a year before.

Returns filed for 1987 claimed 69.7 million dependents; the IRS had anticipated 76.7 million. These figures do not include the personal exemptions allowed taxpayers and their spouses.

The IRS began asking Congress as far back as 1976 for authority to require Social Security numbers for children claimed as dependents. But the idea was resisted for fear it would lead to a single number by which a "Big Brother" federal government could trace the finances of any citizen.

By 1979, the number of improperly claimed dependent exemptions had grown to 8.2 million, or 11.2 percent of those claimed, the IRS said. But Congress would not agree to the change until it overhauled the tax system in 1986.

The law has been amended twice since. For returns filed in 1991, any child 2 or older must have a Social Security number. As part of the deficit-reduction plan enacted earlier this month, Congress lowered the age to 1 starting with returns filed in 1992.

The IRS is not through with those taxpayers who were found to have exaggerated their claims for dependents over a period of years.

The agency checked a sampling of 838 such taxpayers whose returns had been audited by last May and found that 89 percent of them had been hit with tax increases averaging $2,200. About 4 percent of those cases are facing the possibility of criminal fraud charges.

The George Washington Party, circa mid 1930s, from Pyrlie Bradshaw's scrapbook. Bradshaw, who owned Bradshaw Studios from 1923 to 1975, will be honored at a reception sponsored by the Howard County Historical Society on Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Heritage Museum, 510 Scurry Street. Standing are Florence Hall, Alice Carter, Olive Braughton, Thelma Bowen, Mabel Carter Kountz, Mrs. Garland Woodward, Mrs. Albert Fisher, Isabel Rabb and Ray Simmond. Sally Asher Service and Maude Bennett are seated. The children are Sarah Woodward, Louise Ann Worthy, Janet Rabb and George Oldhaw.

Bradshaw

 and her sister Tot Sullivan, co-owner of Bradshaw Studios, were business owners in an era when women were just getting to vote, there was never any trouble for them with the community.

"I guess they thought we were a novelty. When we went to a business, they rolled out the red carpet."

"And we had a good Chamber of Commerce man, C.T. Watson. Whenever another studio would want to locate here, he told them we had plenty," Bradshaw said.

She also recalled financing the studio.

"That was the funniest thing. We borrowed money from the bank to pay the photographer we bought the studio from, and they (the bank) just let us have it. The man came to us and said we could have it, but that they usually don't let women have money 'cause they lose it," she said.

Although the buildings where the studio was housed downtown are now destroyed, Bradshaw said her family's home is still standing on north Nolan street.

Her parents had 10 children, and Bradshaw was the second oldest. Four of her sisters are living in other states.

Bradshaw learned the art of photography when she was young from a photographer in Midland who employed her and her sister, Lena May (Bradshaw) Goodpastor as receptionists. Lena May was the first owner of the studio in Big Spring, with Tot, but she sold her half to Pyrlie when she married in 1923.

Pyrlie said she attended many conferences and workshops to learn more about photography, but that she did not graduate from high school.

"They said I 'quitted'," Bradshaw joked. She worked for several photography studios in Texas and Oklahoma before she became owner of the first studio in Big Spring.

Using box cameras stationed on tripods, Bradshaw and Sullivan photographed every type of picture, including politicians, families, horses and baggage cars. She said she remembers climbing on top of box cars to take pictures. The pictures were produced from 8 x 10-inch black and white negatives, she said. The sisters used light and heavy oil painting techniques to create colored portraits.

Some of the photographs Bradshaw donated to the museum include an 8 x 10-inch black and white of illegal whiskey being poured out during Prohibition, and photographs of World War II heroes. There are also portraits of the sisters, and reproductions of J.W. Caylor's paintings, among many others. She donated reels of movie camera film that she began shooting in 1935.

She also recalled some of the portraits she did for prominent people in Texas, including the wedding pictures of Clayton and Modesta Williams, and Toots Mansfield and Tom Good's pictures for the Cowboy Hall of Fame.

Bradshaw has remained independent throughout her life, and now, at 94, she is the second oldest member of Eastern Star in the state of Texas. She said the idea to spell her name differently from the traditional 'Pearl' was her own, just something she did to be different.

"I wasn't a pearl button, and that's what the name always made me think of," she said.

The reception at Heritage Museum is sponsored by the Howard County Historical Commission. The public is invited to attend and view the photographs and other material Bradshaw donated, and to meet the artist.

Josephine Dawes, secretary for the Historical Commission, said the idea to honor Bradshaw is appropriate because she contributed so much to the Big Spring community.

Relay Texas system explained by director

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

The SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf invited local media representatives to meet with Larry Evans, the director of the Texas Commission for the Deaf before the "Town Meeting" on Thursday night to explain the new telephone system available for the deaf, Relay Texas.

Evans said, through signing interpreter Billy Collins, the system consists of using specially trained operators to provide the link between a hearing impaired individual's telecommunications device for the deaf and the hearing person being called. The operator receives the message over the TDD and reads, or voices the messages to the hearing person. The response is typed back through the TDD to the deaf person.

Evans said the telephone system allows hearing impaired people the same access to the telephone that hearing people have, and with the signing of the American Disabilities Act by President Bush last July, national relay services are now required, and should be in effect throughout the country by the year 1992.

Evans said he will fly to Washington, D.C., Nov. 18 to work with the group responsible for making the rules concerning the nationwide relay system. The Federal Communications Commission will regulate the new service, he said.

"We want to make sure they do it right," he added.

Bush also signed the Chip Bill recently, Evans said. This new bill will require all television manufacturers to build sets with a special chip that accesses closed-captioned programming. Currently, a decoder is needed to provide the viewer with written dialogue on the screen for each program.

 facility and fence is a model for the Federal Bureau of Prisons — in relation to its time of construction, use of existing structure and cost-savings by using prisoner labor for finish construction. Completion is projected for fall 1991.

Also recognized was the departure today of Associate Warden Anne Beasley who is being transferred to the federal prison in Seagoville, and the relationship of the FCI with the Big Spring Correctional Center, which is also being expanded near the FCI.

Buildings

 said. A lein is then placed on the property for the cost of the demolition.

"Before (the building) can change hands, ... that lein must be satisfied," he said.

The vacant lots can be developed by new owners.

Several other buildings are already scheduled to be demolished, Decell said.

An illegal wrecking yard, a burned-out structure that once housed a motel and a former nightclub in the west end of town are on that list, he said.

Deaths

James McNew

James Roy (Buck) McNew, 51, Wharton, formerly of Big Spring, died Monday, Nov. 12, 1990, in a Houston hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services were 3 p.m. Wednesday at Wharton Funeral Home in Wharton.

He was born Nov. 6, 1939, in Big Spring. He attended schools in Knott. He married Diane Youngblood Oct. 17, 1958. He worked for a seismograph company for several years. He then settled in Wharton in 1981. He worked for the Wharton Independent School District.

Survivors include one son, Ricky McNew, Wharton; three daughters: Debbie Brown and Mary McNew, both of Brewton, Ala.; and Tonja McNew, Wharton; his parents, Jack and Ruth McNew, Big Spring; three brothers; Billy McNew, Athens; Rexie McNew, Gonzales; and Bob McNew, Navasota; four sisters: Jean Crowder, La Grange, Ky.; Sharon Husson, Satche; Joy Howland, and Carolyn Rodgers, both of Big Spring; and Barbara Clark, Coahoma; three grandsons; and several nieces and nephews.

Kevin Eastham

Kevin Eastham, 16, Houston, grandson of a Big Spring woman, died Oct. 31, 1990, at his residence.

Services were in Houston. Burial was in Arkansas.

He was born July 13, 1974, in Baytown. He was very active in high school sports, and was the president of the Student Council at Kingswood High School in Houston.

Survivors include his parents, Doug and Phyllis Eastham, Houston; one brother, Gary Eastham, Plano; his grandmother, Evie Eastham, Big Spring; and several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Hawks win by forfeit

SNYDER — The Howard College Hawks notched their sixth straight victory in an unusual way, winning by forfeit over Weatherford Junior College in first-round action at the McDonald's-Western Texas Classic here Thursday night.

The Hawks were leading, 45-37, with about five minutes left in the first half when the Weatherford coach received his second technical foul of the game, which resulted in his automatic ejection.

"(Weatherford) didn't have an assistant coach," HC coach Steve Green said. "Their coach told me after the game any other choice (but to forfeit). He didn't want to leave his players out there by themselves."

The Hawks will play their second-round game at 7 p.m. tonight against Ranger, the team Howard blasted, 137-104, in its season opener Nov. 5. Despite the lopsided score during the teams' first meeting, Green does not expect a let-down on Howard's part.

"We weren't particularly setting the world on fire last night," Green said. "I hope we treat this event tonight in a little different perspective. We need to get back to playing well."

The game will be held at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Scenic Mountain turkey trot

The Scenic Mountain Turkey Trot, a 5K run and one mile run for kids, will be Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at the Big Spring State Park.

Entry fee is $10 for the 5K and $8 for the mile run. Awards will be given to the top finishers in each age division. The overall male and female winner will also receive a turkey.

For more information call Gary Wollenzien at 267-8234 or Keith Gibbons at 263-2241.

Coahoma youth hoops tryouts

COAHOMA — Tryouts and draft for the Coahoma Youth Basketball League will be Saturday at the Coahoma junior high gym.

Girls will tryout at 10 a.m. and boys will tryout at 1 p.m.

Final bass club tourney

The Big Spring Bass Club will have its final tournament Saturday at Lake Colorado City from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m. For more information call Jerry Dudley at 267-2629 or 263-0062.

Combat match set for Sunday

There will be a combat match at the Western Sportsman Club at 1:30 p.m. Sunday. The public is invited to attend and/or participate. The club is located nine miles west of Big Spring on State Highway 176 (Andrews Highway).

Bol making hunger appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Manute Bol of the Philadelphia 76ers is appealing to Americans to help the starving people of the Sudan, his homeland.

Bol told a hunger relief group on Capitol Hill on Thursday that he wants to believe that Americans are compassionate, but that his friends sometimes tell him otherwise.

"Some friends, not my teammates, they ask me do you think that Americans will help those hungry people, give them something?" Bol said. "I say 'Why do you say that?' and they say 'There's a lot of homeless right now in Philadelphia and nobody's helping them.'"

The Big Spring Lady Steers overcame injuries to two key players and held on for a 54-49 win over the El Paso Parkland Lady Matadors Thursday night in the opening round of the Howard College Crossroads Tournament.

First Big Spring lost junior post player Teveyan Russell, who went down midway through the first quarter, never to return. Then came the most crushing blow: senior wing Jennifer Hendleman went down with 7:31 left in the game. Both players suffered knee injuries and the extent of their injuries were not known.

When Russell went down the Lady Steers held a three-point lead in the early going. They built that lead to as much as 11 in the second quarter before the Lady Matadors battled back to cut the halftime deficit to 26-22.

When Hendleman went down, the Lady Mats were making a serious run at the home team, and tied the contest at 39-39. Hendleman, a 5-foot-8 senior, had played a very strong game. She left with a six-of-seven shooting performance from the floor, finishing with a game-high 16 points to go along with three assists and six rebounds.

With their leader gone, the Lady Steers grimly held on after they fell behind 46-43. Keying the rally was the play of reserves Amber Fannin, who substituted for Russell, and guard Bernie Valles. Fannin did a good job on the boards and Valles hit a couple of clutch baskets down the stretch.

Ironically, the Lady Steers started their trek to victory doing what they hadn't been doing all night — getting offensive rebounds.

Big Spring Lady Steers' post player Shawn Settles (30) tries to block the shot of El Paso Parkland's Indhuro Lynton (50) during action Thursday night in Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. Helping on the play is Big Spring's Bernie Valles (40).

For most of the game, the Lady Mats stayed close by beating Big Spring on the boards, led by the rebounding of Lisa Austin, who finished with 16 boards. After Hendleman went down, Fannin responded by getting an offensive rebound.

Howard 87, Cisco 79

The Howard College Lady Hawks shook off a slow start, and then run-and-gunned their way to an 87-79 win over the Cisco Junior College Lady Wranglers in the opening round of the Crossroads Classic Thursday night at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The No. 14 nationally ranked Lady Hawks had a tough time in the beginning, going through a cold streak that lasted the first six minutes of the first half. When Howard finally got itself in gear, the Lady Hawks displayed a tenacious defense and an offensive running game that finally wore the Lady Wranglers out. Howard goes to 6-0 with the victory.

Things started well for Howard. On its first possession Desiree Wallace passed inside to Mulu Tosi for an easy basket. But what followed was a shooting nightmare. The Lady Hawks didn't score again until there was 13:25 left in the half. The Lady couldn't score whether guarded or unguarded.

In that span, Howard came away empty on eight field goal and six free throw attempts. Meanwhile Cisco was padding its lead thanks to the inside play of forward Tracy Corn, a transfer from Western Texas College. Corn missed only one shot in the first half but missed lots of time because of foul trouble. She eventually fouled out with 1:20 left in the game, after hitting eight of 11 shots, finishing with 20 points and eight rebounds.

Howard finally ended its scoring drought with two free throws by Lisa Moore, but by that time Cisco led 13-4. Then Howard soon found its shooting touch. The Lady Hawks utilized their pressing defense and dominance on the boards to get back into the game.

Three minutes after Moore's free throws, the Cisco lead was narrowed to 15-10. A few minutes later Yolanda Wells sunk two foul shots. This was followed by Moore's foul shot. Wells rebounded the second attempt and put it back in, and Howard was very much in the contest, trailing 18-17 with 9:52 left in the half.

The two teams just about played an even terms the rest of the half. Howard's Kim Robinson scored on a driving layup with 15 seconds left, giving Howard a 41-39 lead. But Cisco's Tonya Caraway rebounded a shot and put it in just before the buzzer, leaving the squads tied 41-apiece at the half.

Howard came out and made a 13-5 run in the first six minutes of the second half. Tosi started it off

Nuggets break into win column, 121-108

(AP) If the Minnesota Timberwolves were facing a gang of holdup men, they'd probably shout, "Don't shoot! Don't shoot!" That was their philosophy against the Denver rapid-fire machine-gunners Thursday night and it paid off — but not for the Timberwolves.

The Nuggets, whose racehorse style had produced only defeats in their seven previous starts, were reduced to a more normal game by the ball-control Timberwolves and came away with their first victory of the season, 121-108.

"I didn't place any added significance on this game," Denver coach Paul Westhead said. "We tried to press and trap as much as we could, but if a team doesn't want to shoot the ball, there is not much you can do to speed it up."

Meanwhile, Portland remained the NBA's only unbeaten team (7-0) with a 141-125 victory over New York and Sacramento stayed the only winless team (0-6) by losing to San Antonio 122-103.

Elsewhere, it was Orlando 102, Utah 99 in overtime; Los Angeles Lakers 108, Houston 103 in overtime, and Golden State 103, Chicago 93.

The Nuggets, who averaged 137 points and yielded 153 in their 0-7 start, wanted to run. But the Timberwolves' slowdown style turned out to be a help as Denver shot 54.5 percent to Minnesota's 41.1.

Orlando Woolridge made 11 of 16 shots and led the Nuggets with 25 points. Todd Lichti had 21 and Walter Davis 20. Corey Gaines had 16 assists in directing the Denver offense.

Minnesota was topped by Tyrone Corbin and Tony Campbell with 24 points apiece. Pooh Richardson and Sam Mitchell had 20 points each.

Because of Minnesota's style, the Nuggets scored 16 points below their season average but came within one point of equaling the most points ever surrendered by the Timberwolves. Minnesota, which is 0-6 in Denver, had been allowing 91.1 points a game, best in the NBA.

"We knew they would play hard," Lichti said. "But in the second half we rebounded better. Their slowdown was actually beneficial to us because it allowed us to get back on defense. When they won't take an open 14-footer, they won't take an open 14-footer."

Freshmen down Monahans, 32-6

The Big Spring High School Freshmen football team ended its season on a high note, downing the Monahans counterparts, 32-6, at Memorial Stadium Thursday night.

Tailback-linebacker Ed Guerrero provided the first two touchdowns in the first quarter. The first came on a four-yard run and the second came when he recovered a fumble in the end zone.

Fullback Jimmy Johnson provided the next Big Spring score on a three-yard run in the second quarter. A Monahans TD made the halftime score 18-6.

In the third quarter, cornerback Mike Oliva returned an interception 30 yards for a touchdown to make the score 24-6. The final Big Spring TD came in the fourth when tailback Lonnie Jackson swept around left end for a 94-yard score. Toby McQuerey passed to Luis Bustamante for the PAT.

The freshmen ended their season with a 8-2 record. The Big Spring JV also won its final game of the year, 8-0, over Monahans. Additional results were not available at presstime.

Goliad splits with Monahans

The Goliad Mavericks football team ended their season with a split decision against Monahans Thursday at Blankenship Field. The Goliad A squad won, 34-14, while the B team fell to Monahans, 6-0.

In the A game, Jason Ash started the scoring for Goliad when he recovered a fumble for a touchdown. Ray McGee added the two-point conversion.

The next Goliad score came when Donny Hill scored on a 15-yard run. Jeff Mathews added another score for Goliad when he caught a 27-yard touchdown pass from Bucky Crenshaw.

Scott Schaeffer, McGee and Kenny Dupree were recognized by the coaches for their fine play. Goliad A ended its season with a perfect 9-0 record.

Goliad B ended its season with a 3-6 record. Playing well for the Mavericks in the loss were Brant Farris, James Wheeler, Chris Martinez, Lance Purcell and Tim Rios, coaches said.

Runnels squads end season

MONAHANS — The Runnels Yearlings football squads ended their season on the road, winning one and losing one at Monahans.

Joe Franklin's 49-yard touchdown run on the third play of the game proved to be the only scoring as Runnels A downed Monahans, 8-0, to end their season with a 6-2 record.

Defensively, the Yearlings shined in the last quarter, twice holding Monahans inside the Runnels 20. Leslie Adkins, Carlos Garza and Jason Roberts were lauded by the coaches for their defensive play.

Offensively, Adkins, David Belew, David Foresyth, Kirk Klatt and Chris Haddad played a fine game for the Yearlings, coaches said.

The Runnels B team ended its season on a sour note, dropping a 21-8 decision to Monahans. The loss gave the Yearlings a season record of 5-4.

Late layup leads Iowa past Temple in NIT

NIT roundup

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's Acie Earl wasn't in the lineup at the start of the game against No. 19 Temple, but he made his presence felt in the waning seconds.

The 6-foot-10 sophomore from Moline, Ill., took a perfect pass from freshman guard Kevin Smith and sank a layup with 6 seconds to play Thursday night to lead the Hawkeyes to a 73-71 upset victory over the Owls in a first-round game of the pre-season NIT.

Iowa (1-0) faces Notre Dame, a 56-46 winner over Fordham on Thursday, in a second round game at South Bend, Ind., on Saturday. Tonight, it will be Boston College at No. 6 Duke, No. 15 Oklahoma at No. 2 Arkansas and East Tennessee State at No. 3 Arizona.

Earl had been the starting center in Iowa's two exhibition victories, and coach Tom Davis said all week he would be in the starting lineup against Temple. But when the game started, Earl sat on the bench while junior Brig Tubbs started at center.

"Acie missed some practice time this past week to take care of some academic business he should have had taken care of earlier," Davis said. "It's not a bad idea, as it turned out, for Brig Tubbs to start and keep Earl for the last part of the game."

In the game's opening minutes, Temple center Donald Hodge scored 11 of the first 16 points for his team, repeatedly turning and sinking short jumpers over Tubbs. That changed with 11:34 before halftime when Earl got into the game with Iowa trailing 16-12.

He immediately sank two free throws and sparked Iowa on a 14-2 run that gave the Hawkeyes a 26-18 lead, capped by Smith's 3-point shot at the 7:45 mark. Iowa led 46-41 at the half and Earl had 11 points.

A 3-point shot by Vic Carstarphen pulled the Owls within 50-48 with 15:04 left in the game, but Earl capped a 10-4 spurt with a 3-point play to put the Hawkeyes up 60-52 with 10:55 remaining. A 3-point shot by Mik Kilgore and two 3-pointers by Carstarphen, who was 5-for-10 from long range for the game, cut Iowa's lead to 64-63 with 6:47 to play.

Hodge's bucket at 2:51 gave Temple its first lead of the half, 69-68, and Mark Macon expanded that to 71-68 with a basket with 56 seconds to play.

Val Barnes' 3-point shot from the top of the key knotted the score at 71 with 43 seconds left. Temple took a timeout, but Earl deflected the ball on the inbounds pass and Iowa had the ball with 19 seconds remaining. That's when Smith drove into the paint and dished it off to Earl for the winning basket. Macon misfired a long jumper as time expired.

Barnes finished with 15 points for the Hawkeyes, 12-16 last season. Hodge and Carstarphen had 19 points each to lead Temple. Hodge went 9-for-9 from the field and had 11 rebounds.

Temple (0-1) entered the game with five returning starters, including Macon, one of the nation's premier guards. He averaged nearly 22 points last season, but was held to eight Thursday night.

six of those coming on two 3-point shots in the first half.

"We were scrambling around and just trying to plug a hole here and plug a hole there," Davis said.

Iowa's team featured no seniors, six freshmen and only two returning starters — juniors Troy Skinner and James Moses — in the lineup Thursday night.

"You don't know what to expect," Davis said. "I'm sure it worked in our favor that the Temple players looked at our lineup and it was hard for them to take us seriously."

"I'm really speechless. It was a tremendous effort. It's very emotional and very gratifying," he said.

"The last couple of plays in the game illustrated really fine basketball play. Kevin knew what he was doing in those final seconds. It was an unbelievable last second-play by a freshman point guard," Davis said.

Temple Coach John Chaney said Iowa simply out-hustled his team.

"Obviously we had a lot of high hopes if we started off with a win here and go on," he said. "Iowa really played an excellent game."

"As far as our team, we have some blocks to build the rest of the season on. They had about 20 layups and got to every loose ball. Iowa executed well."

Islanders quench Flames in overtime

NHL roundup

(AP) The New York Islanders had to work overtime, but it finally paid off at the Saddledome in Calgary.

"They are a hard-working team," Calgary coach Doug Risebrough said after the Islanders beat the Flames 4-3 Thursday night on Brent Sutter's goal with 42 seconds remaining in overtime for their first win ever at the Saddledome.

"They are patient and disciplined," Risebrough said. "We came at them hard, but we didn't get as much as we should have."

The Islanders had been 0-8-2 at the Saddledome since it opened in 1983. Their last win in Calgary was a 6-4 victory at the Stampede Corral in October, 1982.

Overall, the Islanders have won five of their last six games, including back-to-back wins over the Flames. They knocked off the Flames 5-1 at home last Saturday.

In other NHL games, it was Hartford 4, New Jersey 2; Philadelphia 4, Montreal 1; Boston 6, Quebec 0, and the New York Rangers 4, Minnesota 2.

Sutter scored his second goal of the game with Calgary defenseman Gary Suter in the penalty box for hooking. He was stationed to the right of goaltender Rick Wamsley when he took a pass from Patrick Flatley, turned into the slot and whipped the puck into the far corner for his ninth of the season.

Calgary tied the game 2-2 on a quick wrist shot by Gary Roberts with eight seconds left in the second period, then took the lead on Jamie Macoun's goal 2:51 into the third period. But with Rick Natress off for hooking, newly acquired Ray Ferraro scored his second goal of the game for the Islanders at 10:47.

"I was upset about letting my man get away when they got their third goal," Sutter said. "I knew I had to make up for it."

The winning play was the result of work the Islanders did earlier in the day.

"It was a system play we work on in practice," Sutter said. "Pat made a great pass and it worked like in the book."

Whalers 4, Devils 2

Rookie goaltender Daryl Reaugh made 29 saves and Paul Cyr scored two goals to lead Hartford over New Jersey.

After enduring an 0-7-1 slump, the Whalers have won three straight. New Jersey lost for the fourth time in five games.

Reaugh was playing in only his eighth NHL game. His only previous win came on Nov. 1, 1987, a 7-6 decision over the New York Rangers when he was with the Edmonton Oilers.

The Devils outshot the Whalers 12-1 in the opening period, equalling the New Jersey team record accomplished twice before: Feb. 24, 1988 against the Winnipeg Jets and Jan. 29, 1984 against the Vancouver Canucks.

Flyers 4, Canadiens 1

Rick Tocchet and Murray Craven each had a goal and an assist as Philadelphia defeated Montreal.

Keith Acton and Tocchet scored goals 1:52 apart in the first period to give the Flyers a 2-0 lead they never lost. Tocchet also scored later in the first period.

Flyers third-string goaltender Pete Peeters, who replaced injured Ron Hextall and Ken Wregget, remained unbeaten in his last four starts.

Houston meets Eastern Washington

HOUSTON (AP) — The No. 12 ranked Houston Cougars are no longer undefeated but they'll still have a winning streak intact when they meet Eastern Washington in the Astrodome Saturday.

Texas snapped the Cougars' 12-game winning streak last week but Houston (8-1) still has won 13 consecutive games in the Astrodome and the Cougars will be strong favorites against the Division I-AA Eagles in the 4 p.m. CST kickoff.

But Houston coach John Jenkins has his usual word of caution for what could happen if the Cougars' volatile run-and-shoot offense isn't clicking.

"We are approaching this game no different from any other game," Jenkins said. "St. Mary's Cathedral could beat us if we are throwing it in the dirt. We've got to get out there and re-start the Houston Cougar rhythm."

A victory over Eastern Washington followed by a victory over Arizona State on Dec. 1 would give Houston a 10-1 record and its most victories since 1979 when the Cougars finished 11-1 with a 17-14 victory over Nebraska in the Cotton Bowl.

Houston added Eastern Washington to its schedule last spring when Temple coach Jerry Berndt discontinued the series and Eagles coach Dick Zornes wasn't included in the decision.

"You can say you don't want to do it or you can look at it as a great experience," Zornes said. "Hopefully we'll keep them from setting the scoring and yardage record."

Zornes isn't sure what to expect from his team.

"I don't know if we're coming down there to play a game or get autographs," Zornes said. "I think (the players are) a little intimidated but I don't think they'll lay down. It's a big deal to them. You don't get a chance to play a game like this in your whole career."

It's a money game for the Eagles, Zornes said.

Worthy arrested on solicitation charge

HOUSTON (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers forward James Worthy didn't allow his off-court problems to bother his on-court performance against the Houston Rockets.

Several hours after he was arrested at his hotel Thursday and charged with solicitation of prostitution, Worthy reported to the Lakers bench in the second quarter and finished with 24 points in a 108-103 overtime victory.

"James is a great performer and he told me he wanted to play," Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said. "He did and I think that says a lot for the kind of guy he is."

Police spokesman Dan Turner said Worthy consulted the yellow pages of the telephone book Thursday and called an escort service that had earlier been shut down by police. Undercover police officers were dispatched to prospective clients in place of prostitutes, Turner said.

"He made contact with two HPD undercover females assigned to the vice division," Turner said. "A solicitation by Mr. Worthy was made to cut a deal with the females to participate in prostitution. At that point he was arrested." If convicted of the two Class C misdemeanor charges, Worthy faces up to six months in jail and a $1,000 fine. He had to post $1,000 bond Thursday.

Worthy was released about 20 minutes before game time. He reached The Summit near the end of the first quarter and entered the game with 9:33 to go in the half after shaking hands with his teammates.

He received a standing ovation from the sellout crowd of 16,611 at the Summit.

"When we saw him, it was like our missing link had arrived and we just said 'OK, let's go,'" guard Magic Johnson said. "He showed us a lot. James cares about us. He showed that by playing tonight. Everybody makes mistakes but he's still our boy and we love him."

Worthy said he never considered not playing in the game.

"The best place for me was out on the court, but it was tough," Worthy said. "It wasn't a pretty situation. I haven't really had a chance to dwell on it."

He declined to answer specific questions about his arrest.

Worthy hit his first shot of the game and was instrumental in the Lakers' victory.

"Obviously I went for the win so I played him, he's our leading scorer," Dunleavy said. "We all got together and told him we were behind him once he got to the game."

Howard

with a three-point play and Robinson finished it off by picking Tammy Murphy's pocket, which resulted in Wells canning a turnaround jumper. Howard led 54-46 with 13:45 left in the contest.

Howard led by as much as 11 in the half, but Cisco stayed close behind the inside scoring of Pam Wilkerson and outside shooting of Tiffany Burris.

Robinson and Lempea played instrumental roles in the victory. With Lempea relieving Robinson of her point guard duties, it gave Robinson time to concentrate more on her offense. Robinson responded with a team-leading 22 points and nine rebounds. She also chipped in four steals and six assists.

"Julie Lempea played well tonight," said Lady Hawks coach Royce Chadwick. "Kim Robinson did a good job of creating things when she had the ball, that was the difference."

Another reason for the Howard success was that the Lady Hawks enjoyed a 51-28 rebounding edge. Helping Robinson pound the boards were Moore, who had nine rebounds, Wells with eight, Tosi with seven and Wallace with six boards. Moore and Wallace also had good games scoring; Moore scored 17 and Wallace followed with 16. Guard Cindy Williams added 12 points.

Cisco falls to 4-3 for the season. Burris led the Lady Wranglers with 22 points and 10 assists and Wilkerson added 16 points.

Chadwick said Howard's up-tempo game was the difference. "We were trying to put pressure on them, make them play a different style," he said. "They wanted to play halfcourt, and we couldn't you know you've got them thinking."

In previous games, Denver's opponents had broken the Nuggets' full-court press rather easily for one slam dunk after another. Minnesota played it differently.

"We took three jump shots in a row that missed and they were able to make their (third-period 10-5) run," coach Bill Musselman said. "I just didn't feel Denver's defense was good enough to stop the layup, so why shoot a jump shot?"

"Next time we have to take better advantage of what Denver gives us," Richardson said. "It's very hard not to shoot the open jumper."

Trail Blazers 141, Knicks 125 Clyde Drexler scored 13 of his 31 points in a 42-point first quarter for Portland. The Blazers never trailed. They bolted to an 11-2 lead and hit 11 of their first 12 shots for a 25-11 advantage.

The Blazers shot 60 percent, including 6-of-6 from 3-point range, three each by Terry Porter and Danny Ainge. Portland turned the game into a rout late in the third quarter as Jerome Kersey scored 12 of his 20 points in the period. Patrick Ewing scored 27 points for the Knicks. The Blazers have trailed only once in their last four games, 2-0 to Denver. "I thought it was a very good game for us from the very start," coach Rick Adelman said. "We never really let them get into the tempo they wanted. I think we pretty much controlled the whole game." "We were passing the ball around very quickly," Drexler said. "We were cutting and moving and getting open shots. We were making the outside shots as well as the penetration shots. This team can shoot. I don't think anyone can argue with that."

New York coach Stu Jackson said: "I don't think we're this bad but clearly Portland is the best team we've seen so far. They're playing like you'd expect a Western Conference champion to play."

Spurs 122, Kings 93 Terry Cummings scored 22 points and Sean Elliott had 19 for San Antonio. Sacramento's start is the second worst in franchise history. The Kings lost their first seven games in 1988-89.

Lionel Simmons led Sacramento with 25 points and Antoine Carr had 19. The Kings have lost 12 straight games dating back to April 10, the second longest losing streak in franchise history, topped only by a 14-game skid in 1959-60.

defensive rebound and scoring, putting Big Spring up 41-39. After a Parkland miss, the Lady Steers crashed the offensive boards again. Shawn Settles rebounded a missed shot and passed to Kerry Burdette, who sunk a short jumper. But Parkland came right back with a three-pointer by Kayla Lloyd and a jumper by Tomie Sales, taking a 44-43 lead at the 5:20 mark.

A few moments later Lloyd, who came off the bench to score 11 points, hit from the outside again, putting Parkland up 46-43 with 4:50 left. Big Spring's Vernice Ross scored a basket cutting the lead to one. Valles then gave the lead to Big Spring for good 47-46, by sinking two foul shots at the four minute mark.

The lead went to 49-46 when Fannin passed to Valles, who made a short baseline jumper. Sonya Wills made a free throw for Parkland, but Valles retaliated with another short baseline jumper, giving Big Spring a 51-47 lead at the two minute mark.

Fannin then put the icing on the cake when she grabbed another offensive rebound, put it back in and was fouled on the play. She sank the foul shot, giving Big Spring an insurmountable 54-47 lead with less than a minute remaining.

Lady Steers coach George Martin said it's going to take time for his team to come together.

"We need about two more weeks of us working out together," he said in reference to half of the team getting a late start because of volleyball. "We were standing around too much. We had to replace some people tonight, and that's what you have to do sometime. Maybe my expectations are too high right now."

The Lady Steers, 1-1 for the season, kept up the defensive pressure and tried to play a fast tempo pace on offense. Martin showed he had confidence in his bench, using 13 players. Following Hendleman in scoring was Fannin, who scored 12 points and got a team-high 10 rebounds. Valles and Shawn Settles scored six points each.

Parkland, now 0-2 for the season, was led by Lloyd's 10 points. Wills and Dusty Pankrantz scored eight points each.

Northern Dancer humanely destroyed

CHESAPEAKE CITY, Md. (AP) — Northern Dancer, whose championship accomplishments on the racetrack were overshadowed by his career as sire, was humanely destroyed today.
 The 29-year-old father of 25 champions suffered a severe attack of colic Thursday night.
 Northern Dancer, the 1964 Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner, won 14 of 17 starts and earned $647,000.

His progeny earned $27 million on the race track, and his 174 sons and daughters, who were sold as yearlings in 22 years at the Keeneland Sales in Lexington, Ky., brought $160 million for an average of $919,621. He retired from breeding in 1987, and his last yearling was sold at Keeneland in 1989 for $2.8 million, which was the highest price at that sale.

Northern Dancer was bred and raced by the late E.P. Taylor, who founded Winfields Farms. He spent most of his stud career at Winfields Farms in Chesapeake City, which is now the Northview Stallion Station.
 Charles Taylor, president of Winfields, said Northern Dancer will be buried at Winfields Farms at Oshawa, Ontario.

'He's not a jerk'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sylvester Stallone's sister says it bothers her that people think the "Rocky" and "Rambo" star is dimwitted and self-absorbed.

"People think he is really a jerk," Toni Ann Stallone said in a taping of the "Geraldo" show, which airs Friday. "It's kind of sad in a way, because he really struggles against that. "I think, now that he's getting older, he would like to be more respected."

Miss Stallone said her brother went to college in Switzerland and attended the University of Miami. "I'm proud of him and when I was little, growing up — there's a big age difference between us — he was my hero," she said.

Appearing with Miss Stallone on the show were Cher's sister, Georganne LaPiere, Barbra Streisand's sister, Roslyn Kind, and Jerry Hall's sister, Rosy Hall.

Sheldon signs contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bestselling author Sidney Sheldon has a multimillion-dollar contract for his next four books, including an autobiography.

The 73-year-old author of such books as "Bloodline," "Rage of Angels" and "The Other Side of Midnight" said he already has ideas for the three novels.

Sheldon, whose books have been made into movies and miniseries, said his upcoming "The Doomsday Conspiracy" already has been earmarked for a movie by producer Joel Silver, who hasn't even read it yet.

He said in Wednesday's Los Angeles Times that each new book does "15 percent better" than the previous one.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Complete an unfinished business project before 1990 draws to a close. New investments or a business expansion will bring increased profits in early 1991. Spring will put you in touch with an old friend. Plan a large family celebration for next July. Late summer is the best time to travel. Although a love relationship will be strained from time to time, you want it to last. Be ready to make certain concessions.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Consult family before making any budget changes. Do not count on your income suddenly increasing. Sign legal documents. An older person offers you some valuable advice; follow it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A long walk early today will help clear your mind. Your concentration improves. Shop in your own neighborhood if you can. Be careful when a close friend offers to act as Cupid!

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1990

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Double-check your facts before you make any kind of accusation. Be sure you know where you stand with a friend. A close relative makes an interesting proposition you cannot afford to decline!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The weekend may bring complications. You could be torn between invitations. A patient attitude will help couples sort out their differences. Dine in tonight. Loved one shares a secret!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Children may figure prominently in your plans this morning. Share your thoughts. A stranger may have designs on your money. Stick up for your rights. Mate is your strongest ally.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Whatever you do today, hold on to your money. Avoid gambling or making new investments — you will not come out ahead! Put more energy into your platonic relationships. A good friend is a treasure.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An excellent day for shopping. Bargains abound! A confidential discussion is very much to your liking. Be careful about flirting; you may get carried away! Spend more time with a child.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Certain relationships are temporarily strained. Spending the day by yourself might be wise. A do-it-yourself home decorating project is therapeutic. Accept a last-minute invitation this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): It pays to be a doubting Thomas when faced with pie-in-the-sky schemes. Protect your hard-earned savings. Romance looks fulfilling for both singles and married couples. Be considerate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may become privy to secret information or gain access to someone influential today. Recognize the potential value of this contact. Romance is happier than in recent days.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can easily attract people who have influence and wealth. Business ventures flourish when you are creative and persistent. An evening of reflection will enrich you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day to confide in others and listen to their advice. Your mental powers are at a peak. Channel any excess energy into your work. Long hours seem to agree with you!

U.S. forces stage mock invasion

IN EASTERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP) — The first major U.S.-Saudi Arabian military exercise, with the ominous name "Imminent Thunder," began its second day today shrouded in secrecy.

By military standards the six-day exercise, including a mock amphibious invasion, is relatively small. But its name and the sudden announcement that it was already under way heightened its importance at a time of uncertainty in the Persian Gulf.

Before the exercise started, Iraq on Wednesday denounced it as "a clear act of provocation" close to the Iraqi border that demonstrated "America's aggressive intentions."

The name Imminent Thunder

"The purpose is to give participating forces training in joint and combined operations and to enhance amphibious warfare skills. Exercise Imminent Thunder is part of our Desert Shield training."

Cmdr. J.D. Van Sickle

raised speculation about whether a real military operation was imminent. This was reinforced by the recent prediction in a French magazine that an offensive would be launched on Nov. 17, the first moonless night after the U.S. elections.

U.S. Navy spokesman Cmdr. J.D. Van Sickle said the exercise was not intended to provoke the Iraqis and insisted the name had no particular significance.

"The purpose is to give participating forces training in joint and combined operations and to enhance amphibious warfare skills," he said. "Exercise Imminent Thunder is part of our Desert Shield training."

Pentagon Spokesman Pete Williams said Thursday the main amphibious landing exercise was being held about 100 miles south of the Kuwaiti border. He also said that as part of Imminent Thunder a smaller group of Marines was conducting a training exercise about 25 miles south of the emirate's frontier.

Approximately 1,000 U.S. Marines, 1,100 aircraft and 16 ships, including the aircraft carrier USS Midway which arrived in the region earlier this month, are participating in the exercise along with an unspecified number of Saudi forces.

Training will consist of the amphibious landing, expected Sunday, with air cover and close air and naval support of ground forces. No live ammunition is to be fired.

The exercise began under a news blackout but the military said pool media coverage was being planned for the weekend.

The participants represent about 1 percent of the 230,000 Americans and 100,000 servicemen from 25 other countries deployed in the gulf following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait on Aug. 2.

Nonetheless, it is the largest use of aircraft in a single training exercise in Operation Desert Shield. It is also the first mock amphibious assault in Saudi Arabia following three previous exercises in

GHS math team preparing for meet

The Grady High School math team is preparing for a new season of competition for 1990-91. Team members are Laurie Romine, Mike McKaskle, Brad Gibson, Johnny Britton, Elizabeth Rivas, Melissa Romine, J. C. Odom, David Gonzales, Crystal Adkisson and Tandi Peugh.

The team has been hard at work two hours every night trying for a spot at the meet in San Antonio. At present Rivas and L. Romine are tied for first place with a 227 score, next is Gibson with 222, McKaskle with 213 and M. Romine with a 200. Sponsor Coach Johnny Tubbs stated Grady has not been in the UIL state meet since 1986, when Chris Cox and Greg McKaskle qualified in number sense. "We can make it with hard work. We have the students to do it again," Peel said.

High school selling holiday poinsettias

Grady High School will continue selling poinsettias through Nov. 29 for the Christmas holidays. The poinsettias are priced at $10 each and will be delivered Dec. 3. For more information contact 459-2445.

Senior class sponsors bazaar

Sterling City high school senior class will sponsor a Christmas bazaar, Nov. 17, from 9-5 p.m. at the Community center. The bazaar will include a variety of crafts, such as clothing, jewelry, and woodwork, from around the area. For more information, contact Mrs. Judy McDaniel at 378-8711, after 5 p.m.

Mobile unit ready to help veterans

The mobile unit for veterans and their dependents will be in Big Spring Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on the north side parking area at Highland Mall. An accredited claims representative will be available to provide information to any veteran, widow or dependent concerning benefits that may be available through the Veterans Administration. The date of the mobile unit's visit was incorrectly reported in Thursday's Herald.

Federal prison unit dedicates upgraded facility

HERALD STAFF REPORT

About 100 Big Spring officials and family members of employees of the Federal Correctional Institution observed the dedication of the upgraded prison facility this morning.

Warden Mike Fitzpatrick welcomed the group and thanked his personnel for their efforts in the conversion, and introduced Charles Turnbo, regional director for the U.S. Department of Justice, South Central Region.

Turnbo had praise for the Big Spring staff, and the community, in regard to the success of the local prison and the recent conversion from a federal prison camp to a Level II prison.

The change, he noted, was accomplished in a record eight months at a cost of $3.5 million. He confirmed the plans for renovation and construction during the coming months to create — once again — a federal prison camp in Big Spring on the perimeter of the current facility.

That project, he said, will represent a $650,000 investment, with the bulk of the construction being done by prisoners.

Turnbo attributed the growth of the prison community, and attendant need for increased bed space, to two factors: increased federal action relating to drug offenses, and longer federal sentences without parole and a reduction in the amount of "good time" any prisoner can accumulate — now limited to 54 days in a single year.

He described the growth by noting that in one recent week the federal prisoner population grew by 480 individuals — one-half of

Fund donation

Stanton National Bank president Joe Hodges, center, presents a check to Church Charity fund Co-chairmen MC Sheriff Dan Saunders and Judge Bob Deavenport. The check is from Eddie Cook's first cotton bale. The bale was part of the first bale contest that SNB and other businesses sponsored in MC. Money collected in the contest is donated to the fund, which is used to help travelers in the event of emergencies that arise during their travel through the county.

Grady Wildcats ready to tackle Borden County

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ

After a 26-8 win over Borden County early in the season, Grady head coach Leandro Gonzales isn't taking the Coyotes lightly. "They are a vastly improved team, and they give you a different look with their key player Jimmy Rios in the lineup. I feel that if we stop Rios, we can beat Borden County," Gonzales said.

Gonzales has reason to be concerned about Rios. He carried the ball 112 times for 1097 yards this season, averaging 9.8 yards per carry. Another threat is John Paul Harris, who carried the ball 68 times for 789 yards.

On the other hand, Grady has big numbers of its own. Gilbert Cortez rushed 113 times for 732 yards, including 16 touchdowns. "We are going to run an unbalanced line, nothing fancy, just dives and sweeps. I'm not going to change anything that already got us this far. We will be waiting for a new strategy from Avery and his bunch," Gonzales said.

The Coyotes basically run a 2-3 formation offense and a 2-3 defense, while the Wildcats counter with a spread offense and the Slot and a 4-2 defense. "If we can consume most of the clock on offense and stop Rios on defense, we can pull this one out in our favor and it may be a long night for BC, if not, we're in for a long night," said Gonzales.

Wildcat defensive end Mike McKaskle agreed with Gonzales, "our key is Rios. If he is in their offense they are a better offensive team, without him they are just another team. I feel that they will try to pass offense with screens, and run sweeps with the players they have. They have a good bunch of players like, Clint and Shane Kemper and Harris."

Gonzales feels that the winner of this contest will have to score at least 40 or more points to come out on top. "It's going to take at least 42 or maybe more to beat Borden County. We both have the personnel to score even more than that. I don't think that it will be a runover. Our kids are ready to play, and that's what it's going to take. BC will hit you, they are pretty well coached and we will have to be mentally ready."

The Wildcats will take their 8-2 record tonight into Coyote Stadium with one thing in mind, "let's win this one and worry about the next game later."

Video equipment, bills discussed by SISD trustees

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ

Stanton Independent School District board met Monday at 7 p.m. at SISD Administration Building to discuss several objectives.

The meeting was called into session by board president Mike Hall, with all members present. The board approved the minutes from the last meeting and the payment of the monthly bills, was approved as well as the bills.

SISD business manager Rob Roberson supplied the board with information about certain bills requiring discussion. Video equipment, purchased to tape all Buffalo games, was reviewed. Roberson pointed out the district was spending $3,500 yearly for film processing and the cost of the equipment, $7,000, would be deferred after two years of use.

Also discussed was the cost of the TI-IN program, which allows students to take classes not otherwise offered through the school. Three students are currently taking advantage of this program, enrolled in a Latin class, according to SHS principal Johnny McGregor. The TI-IN program offers Stanton High students six to eight programs per week, at least one program per day. The reason some students are not taking advantage of this is because it interferes with school curriculum, according to McGregor.

SISD officials were presented the audit report by Stallings & Herm of Stanton. The report included problems the State has regulated, making the auditors change the audit to the approval of state officials. CPA Steve Stallings talked about monies the state had allocated to be spent in certain areas. The board was informed reports were required concerning where the money has been spent and for what programs.

Steve Herm, CPA, discussed the lawsuits involving the school district. One suits concerns T&B Sharp Drilling Company, in which the company does not want to pay taxes to the SISD district, but would pay to the MISD school district. The company owed the county taxes on four stacked rigs inside MC. The company agreed, in a court settlement, to pay 60 to 70 percent and the school district would receive delinquent taxes sometime in this school year.

The auditors discussed the pros and cons of what has been done in the past and what will be done in the future in regard to spending and grants the district has received. The auditors were rehired by the trustees to do the audit next year.

The board reviewed a list of names, selected by superintendent Wayne Mitchell, to serve on a textbook committee. The committee will discuss a move by the state to promote evolution in the school system, along with considering creation as a science. The committee will consist of: Betty Wright, Marilyn Wheeler, Leslie Robinson, Stacie Redder, Mary Holcomb, Doyla Haislip, Nancy Almaraz, Jim White, Robby Tollison, Jarrell Hedrick, Bill Young, Oleta Young, Ted Gacs, Johnny McGregor and Mitchell.

The last item on the agenda called for the board to move into executive session to discuss SISD personnel. According to Mitchell, the board reviewed information about school teachers and their performances.

Phone companies taking precautions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Telephone companies are taking precautions today against a possible disruption of service somewhere in the country by computer "hackers" breaking into the phone network. Non-specific threats had been made to invade the massive computers that control the telephone network, but not to attack physical facilities, industry sources said.

Sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said the threats apparently were in connection with a sentencing scheduled in Atlanta this afternoon for three members of a hackers' group called the Legion of Doom who had broken into BellSouth Corp. computers.

Franklin E. Darden Jr. and Robert J. Riggs pleaded guilty earlier this year in federal court to one conspiracy count each. Adam E. Grant pleaded guilty to possessing 15 or more access devices with intent to defraud.

"We have not been able to assess the validity of the threats, but we certainly take any threats seriously, and we've taken precautions to minimize the risk of intrusion," BellSouth spokesman Bill McCloskey said.

"We are aware of the purported threat to try and disrupt at least part of the nationwide network," said Herb Linnen, a spokesman for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. "Our corporate security organization has sent word around the country to make sure everyone is on alert in the coming days."

Linnen said the purported threat was not against any single company. He said the rumor of the attempted disruption was discussed at a regular meeting Wednesday of technical executives of a number of phone companies.

"We have no idea how widespread the threat might be, but it's our understanding that the group may be national," said Peter Goodale, a spokesman for Nyx Corp., parent of the New England Telephone and New York Telephone companies. "We've taken the appropriate security measures to ensure the integrity of our network."

FBI and Defense Department officials said they were unaware of any such threat.

Federal prosecutors in Chicago last year charged that members of the Legion of Doom had used their computers in February 1989 to tap into the 911 system of Atlanta-based BellSouth and copy the program.

The information then was published in an electronic newsletter in Chicago for hackers, but the 911 network was not disrupted.

Taypayers forced to drop dependents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Millions of Americans have been cheating the government out of billions of dollars a year by claiming non-existent children and parents as dependents for tax purposes, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The year after Congress required that children 5 or older have Social Security numbers, the number of dependent exemptions dropped by 7 million below what had been predicted. That brought in an extra $2.8 billion in taxes in 1987 alone, the IRS says.

Returns filed by 11,627 couples and individuals showed declines of seven or more dependents claimed from the previous year. Nearly 67,000 claimed four, five or six fewer dependents than before. In most cases, the exaggerated claims had been made for several years.

"The decrease is particularly significant because it seems to indicate that a 20-year trend of increasing numbers of improper dependency exemptions has finally been reversed," concluded IRS researcher John A. Szilagyi.

The study indicated that most of the cheating was being done by single taxpayers and by married people who filed separate returns. The number of dependents claimed by singles dropped 48.3 percent from 1986 to 1987; claims by married people filing separately declined 28 percent; the number claimed by couples filing joint returns dropped 3.9 percent.

There was not nearly so much variance when the tax returns were divided into income groups. Those with income under $25,000 showed a 7 percent decline in dependents claimed; between $25,000 and $50,000, the number fell 4 percent, and those with income over $50,000 reported 4.9 percent fewer dependents than a year before.

Returns filed for 1987 claimed 69.7 million dependents; the IRS had anticipated 76.7 million. These figures do not include the personal exemptions allowed taxpayers and their spouses.

The IRS began asking Congress as far back as 1976 for authority to require Social Security numbers for children claimed as dependents. But the idea was resisted for fear it would lead to a single number by which a "Big Brother" federal government could trace the finances of any citizen.

By 1979, the number of improperly claimed dependent exemptions had grown to 8.2 million, or 11.2 percent of those claimed, the IRS said. But Congress would not agree to the change until it overhauled the tax system in 1986.

The law has been amended twice since. For returns filed in 1991, any child 2 or older must have a Social Security number. As part of the deficit-reduction plan enacted earlier this month, Congress lowered the age to 1 starting with returns filed in 1992.

The IRS is not through with those taxpayers who were found to have exaggerated their claims for dependents over a period of years.

Miss Enthusiasm

By TYSHAWN BARNES
Students of Stanton High School and middle school gathered in the SHS gymnasium, Friday, Nov. 9 for a performance by Tanya Crevier, World's best Female Basketball Handler.

"When it comes to handling basketballs, Tanya is one of the best I've seen," said Michael Jordan of the Chicago Bulls.

Crevier's ball handling skills allow her to grasp the minds of any audience. Once she has their attention, she takes the opportunity to minister to each individual. Her finale includes spinning nine basketballs simultaneously.

"Tanya will motivate anyone seeking excellence." North Carolina State University head coach Kay Yow said. Yow travels as coach with Crevier and was on the 1988 United States Olympic gold medal team.

She issued a challenge to each student to do the best they could do in everything they do. Crevier communicates the message that life, work, ethics, values, teamwork, motivation, and respect for others will be your life and your gain to make life work for you, Yow added.

Crevier, a member of the Bill Glass Prison Ministry, was recommended by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes to be part of the SHS student council. "Tanya is one of the greatest performers in this country. Her basketball routine is absolutely spectacular. It is backed by her sweet spirit and great Christian integrity," said Bill Glass of the Evangelistic Association.

Tanya lettered in four sports during her college career. She played professional basketball for two years for the Iowa Cornets and one year for the San Francisco Pioneers.

Sshhhh! Friday, Nov. 9, was girl hush day. Hush day is one of many spirit days sponsored by the high school cheerleaders.

Each girl was given a ribbon with the word "hush" on it. Every girl's goal that day was to make the girls talk. If a boy made a girl talk, she had to give him her ribbon. At the end of the day there was a pep rally. The girl with the most ribbons was named, "Mr. Irresistible."

Friday, Nov. 16, the Stanton Buffalos basketball team will begin its season against Tahoka. The team will have six returning letterman. The seniors are John Paul Barry, Joe Cazares, Allan Carby, Chris Barnhill and Tommy Flores. There are five juniors on the squad, Jim Bob Kelly, Grant Woodfin, John Eric Wyckoff, Allen Prough and Kenny McCalister. The remaining members are sophomores Sherman Bryant and Jeremy Stallings. Last year's basketball team was a tough competitor and this year's is expected to be even tougher. They are in a new district and will be facing some different teams.

Price support loans available to producers

By NESTOR HERNANDEZ

Nestor Hernandez, County Executive Director of the Martin County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, announced that price support loans are available to producers who are participating in the 1990 farm programs.

"Some producers may wish to store their crops after harvest to take advantage of future price increases, if so, a price support loan will provide them with operating cash at that time. Loan rates on 1990 program crops for cotton is $50.25," Hernandez said.

Under the price support loan program, the Commodity Credit Corporation makes loans to eligible farmers or to cooperative marketing associations. Loans mature on demand, but no later than the last day of the ninth month following the month in which the loan application is made. Stocks may be stored on the farm or in an approved commercial warehouse. The commodities serve as collateral for the loan.

Loans on wheat and other small grains will be available through March 31, 1991. Corn, sorghum, cotton and soybean loans will be available until May 31, 1991, according to Hernandez.

MC farmers test new cotton loan center

USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service recently opened a Regional Cotton Loan Center in Lubbock, as part of a pilot project to improve loan service to cotton producers. Martin County is one of 42 Texas counties to participate in this project.

"Through this facility, we expect to significantly speed up the loan making process by reducing the turnaround time for loans to approximately 24 hours, rather than the three or more days usually taken, if the producer present warehouse receipts and class cards to the Center," Hernandez said.

To speed up the loan process, the Regional Cotton Loan Center will provide services for reading warehouse receipt and class card data to diskette, and transmit the data to the county ASCS office. The center will be responsible for the storage and retrieval of warehouse receipts and class cards. "We will continue to administer the cotton price support program. Services to producers from our office will not change, except that producers now have a choice other than the county office, to transact loan activities," Hernandez said.

He added, "we hope that faster redemptions and handy data base will make the producer's cotton under loan readily available to potential buyers. The center increases the commercial potential of producer's cotton by providing a centralized loan collateral data base to cotton buyers."

The success of the center and the benefit to cotton producers hinge on the rapid transmission and exchange of loan information between the center and the county office, according to Hernandez.

neighboring Oman and Bahrain. If Desert Shield is to be effective, either defensively or offensively, its numerous Arab and Western military contingents must be coordinated effectively.

Only two weeks ago, Secretary of State James A. Baker III and King Fahd of Saudi Arabia agreed on command and control of all troops.

Inside the kingdom, there is now joint U.S.-Saudi command. Outside the kingdom, the United States will command its own forces but it must receive the king's permission to launch an attack from Saudi soil.

President Bush has said he wants to wait for U.N. trade sanctions against Iraq to force Baghdad out of Kuwait but he has also voiced impatience with President Saddam Hussein's intransigence.

Bush, who will visit troops on Thanksgiving Day, recently doubled the number of U.S. aircraft carriers in the gulf region to six. He is also sending 200,000 additional military personnel to give Desert Shield an offensive capability. Earlier this week, British Defense Secretary Tom King and Abdullah Bishara, secretary general of the Gulf Cooperation Council, also warned Iraq there was a limit to the patience of the allied forces.

The exercise includes units of the U.S. Army, Navy, Air Force and 1,000 members of the 4th Marine Expeditionary Battalion as well as the Royal Saudi Air Force, and naval and marine units.

Staff Sgt. Maceo Wylie, 42, of Columbia, S.C., with the Army's 528th Medical (Psychological) Detachment, said it was important for the allies to train together "because that's the only time you know who you can rely on in combat."

But Army 1st Sgt. Mickey Kershaw, 37, of West Islip, N.Y., said the exercise was "a waste of time." He said it would be far better to attack Saddam now "than do it five years from now when this guy nukes me and the family I might have."

With the offensive line clearing the right side of the field, tailback Neal Mayfield finds an opening to gain yardage during first half action against Monahans at Memorial Stadium.

Field goal edges Steers past Loboes

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Spring Steers continued to do the one thing it has done all year long — dominate teams in the fourth quarter. The Steers concluded regular season play Friday night by pulling out a 15-14 last-second win over the Monahans Loboes.

It was the only time Big Spring led in the contest, and the winning boot came from Neal Mayfield. Mayfield, who hasn't missed a field goal all year, had lots of room to spare on his 29-yard attempt. It made amends for the extra point he missed on the Steers' first touchdown.

It kept going the tradition of Big Spring getting the best of teams in the final quarter. Big Spring shut the Loboes out in the final quarter, and Mayfield's boot with 35 seconds left on the clock was all the Steers needed. So far this season, Big Spring has outscored its opponents 66-8 in fourth quarter.

"The major thing is we hung in there," said Steers coach David Thompson. When asked about his team's domination in the fourth quarter this year he said — "I think it has a lot to do with the kids being in good condition. I think we kind of wear people down by the fourth

"The major thing is we hung in there. That's the sign of a champion when you come from adversity and drive the ball 80-something yards to win the ballgame. I thought the kids had a great effort. I think they thought they wasn't going to lose."

The way things were going, it seemed that the Loboes were trying to wear the Steer defense down with its bruising runs by fullbacks Joey Munoz and Frank Ordonez. The Steer defense bent, but it didn't break, yielding 134 yards on the ground, and 107 in the air.

The Steer offense had good balance even without tailback Jermaine Miller, who didn't play because he missed practice this week. Carrying the brunt of the rushing load was Mayfield, who carried 19 times for 55 yards. Johnny Lozano replaced Miller gaining 28 yards on six carries.

The Monahans defense limited Big Spring to 107 yards on the ground, but got hurt by the pass. For the second consecutive week Steers quarterback Gerald Cobos had a good game. He completed six of 10 passes for 172 yards and two touchdowns.

Monahans scored in the opening quarter, driving 64 yards in nine plays. It was set up by a 26-yard punt return by Jody Carrasco. The drive got started with a 21-yard screen pass to tight end Sal Sanchez from quarterback Steve Ward. It ended with Ward finding Carrasco for a 20-yard scoring pass. Carrasco booted the extra point and Monahans led 7-0 with 3:36 left in the quarter.

Monahans literally let another scoring attempt slip through its hands early in the second quarter. Ward beat the Big Spring blitz and threw a perfect strike to Richard Judkins, who had the Steer secondary beat by 10 yards. Judkins dropped the perfect spiral, and Monahans had to punt.

Big Spring made the dropped pass hurt even more. On the first play from the Big Spring 25-yard, Cobos hit Mayfield streaking across the middle. Mayfield made the catch at the 45 and headed for the sideline. Once he got there, he outran the rest of the Monahans secondary, completing a 75-yard scoring play.

Mayfield missed the extra point, leaving Big Spring trailing by one

SportSpecial closes season

The end of the regular football season — and virtually all Friday night grid action — also brings to an end this season's Saturday SportSpecial effort by the Big Spring Herald.

The football season publication was born from a belief that this community was ready, at least for the short term, to support a Saturday publication and particularly during its most popular sports season. That has proven to be the case.

It has been structured to meet a different type of market, with an obvious emphasis on sports. Although it's been demanding on the Herald staff — except for a handful of stringers, freelancers, and part-time personnel, the regular staff has handled the extra edition — it's been satisfying. We've been treated to very positive feedback as we've gone about the business of serving our communities; and that, after all, is our purpose and reason for existence.

Despite the demands of working 'til 3 and 4 a.m. each Saturday, it's been a treat. And, the effort is drawn notice outside of the Crossroads Country area. Newspaper publishers as far away as Oklahoma, Iowa, California, and Minnesota have obtained copies and requested information on how we've gone about the task.

Thanks for your support — and watch for the SportSpecial next football season.

Continued from page 1-A at the half. Monahans scored its final points of the season on their first possession of the third quarter. The Lobos marched 48 yards in seven plays, behind the power runs of the 213-pound Munoz.

Munoz carried six times for 32 yards in the drive, and Ward completed a 16-yard pass to Carrasco. Munoz scored from two yards out. Carrasco's PAT gave Monahans a 14-6 lead.

The Steers almost scored on the next possession, but a illegal man downfield penalty halted the drive and brought back a 30-yard completion to Mayfield. The pass to Mayfield, which carried to the Monahans 10, was all for naught. Oscar Cervantes caught a key 19-yard pass in the drive.

After Big Spring punted, the first turnover of the night occurred. On the first play Ordonez's fumble was recovered by Steers' Freddy Rodriguez at the Monahans 32. On the very next play, Cobos faked the ball to a running back in the middle, and threw to wide open Pat Chavarria for the score.

Big Spring tried for two, a quick pitch to Mayfield, but it gained nothing. The Steers went into the final quarter trailing 14-12.

The game rocked on until the final five minutes when Big Spring forced Monahans to punt from the Big Spring 33. Sanchez's punt went into the end zone, giving Big Spring the ball at the 20.

From there the Steers marched to victory, thanks to a key penalty by the Lobos. With a fourth-and-seven on their own 38, Big Spring had to punt. But Monahans had too many men on the field, giving Big Spring a first down. The Steers calmly moved the ball on the ground, mainly with Mayfield's rushing.

With less than a minute remaining, Mayfield gained six yards, giving Big Spring a fourth-and-two at the Monahans 12, setting the stage for Mayfield's winning boot. Even more important than the winning kick was the way holder Nick Roberson handled a high snap. Mayfield calmly booted his fourth field goal of the season.

Coach Thompson said it was never any doubt that he was going for the field goal. "We had already made up our mind to kick," said Thompson. "We didn't need to take any more chances, and our kicking game turned out to be a big part of us winning," he said.

"The major thing is we hung in there. That's the sign of a champion when you come from adversity and drive the ball 80-something yards to win the ballgame. I thought the kids had a great effort. I think they thought they wasn't going to lose."

Monahans ends the season with a 6-4 mark. Big Spring, which hasn't lost a district game in two seasons, goes to 8-1-1. Big Spring will play the winner of the Lubbock Estacado-Hereford game Saturday night.

Arizona vote forces threat from the NFL

AP Sports Writer

Martin Luther King Jr. had a dream. It probably had nothing to do with the Super Bowl. It does now.

Little more than a week ago, voters in Arizona said no to a paid statewide holiday for the slain civil rights leader and the NFL, prepared to gesture in kind, will vote and say no to a 1993 Super Bowl in Arizona.

It could be a long time before either side blinks and sport injects itself into politics at great risk to both. But if past history is any indication, it is a risk well worth taking.

That was certainly the case in 1936, when a slim black man strained for opportunity and leaped into immortality. Jesse Owens, with the less-than-enthusiastic backing of most of his countrymen, won four gold medals at the Berlin Olympics and in the bargain, exposed the claim of racial superiority for the silliness that it was. It would be nice to recall that Owens returned to this country to adulation, but it would also be wrong.

Sport does not cause a society to shift with the violence of an earthquake; instead it produces ripples that, like an aftershock, nudge people in a different direction. More than a decade passed before any blacks were accorded similar opportunities in professional sports and Owens himself had to eke out a living at jobs that had nothing to do with his exceptional talents — unless you count the money he pocketed for a few years by running match races against horses at county fairs.

Still, with that singularly glorious achievement, Owens arguably did as much to change this society as politics and attempts to legislate morality had done in the previous 160 years of the republic. He gleaned few rewards from it, and even those came late in his life, some of which he spent in Arizona.

Much has changed, much of it for the better since Owens' feats, and even in the decade since his death. But what is going on in Arizona now is the same old fight about opportunity, even if most of it is focused at the moment on economic opportunity. That is because the Super

Litke's letter

Bowl, depending on whose estimate you accept, could mean as much as $200 million to the state's coffers.

When the deal was struck last March to bring the game to Arizona, the NFL owners, all white, all privileged and none activists by any stretch of the imagination, threw out the question of a full state holiday more an aside than a condition. Business and community leaders from Arizona assured the NFL that it would be in place by 1993, and more than a few are moaning now that the leak of the NFL threat just two days before the election doomed a proposal that had been leading in the polls up to that point.

Although the final margin of defeat turned out to be less than 1 percent — or about 17,000 votes out of more than one million cast — most of the voters who won on the ballot are furious the NFL would threaten that victory by threatening their pocketbooks.

They note that both the state already has set aside a Sunday for the holiday, and that Arizona's largest city, Phoenix, and the site where the game would be played, nearby Tempe, already honor King's birthday with a Monday holiday as do the federal government and 47 of the other 49 states.

They say the decision is not necessarily racist, but rather the result of a large retired population that does not want to shell out the money for another paid day off for state employees. They and their supporters cynically note the league's own checkered past in the area of race relations.

They have until March when the league owners will make a final decision.

For whatever reason, the NFL has pointed itself and the state in the right direction. And that, remember, was all Jesse Owens needed.

Cotton Bowl drawing national interest

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS — The man called "Hoss" can chill down from his big sweat: the Cotton Bowl will demand the nation's attention Jan. 1.

Jim Brock has those glamorous Miami Hurricanes as his guest team on New Year's Day. A cat with canary feathers sticking out of his mouth couldn't look more satisfied.

The defending national champions could still have a big say about their successor. Ranked third, and with Boston College, Syracuse and San Diego State still on the schedule, the Hurricanes could be playing the Southwest Conference champion for the title.

"I'm not so sure they might not jump over those boys (Notre Dame and Colorado) before its all over," Brock said.

"They'd never been in our game and wanted to come," Brock said. "The money is good, they got eight kids on the team from Texas. It wasn't too hard to get together on the dance floor."

Of course, the Cotton Bowl can't officially announce Miami is signed, sealed and delivered until Nov.

Freeman file

24 because of NCAA rules. However, it's a done deal and one which has CBS officials in New York smiling.

CBS and the Cotton Bowl have a deal through the 1992 game and arrangements such as the one bringing the Hurricanes to Dallas will help negotiations in the future.

"I think we'll have at least the number two bowl matchup and I don't know many who'll have a better one," Brock said.

Of course, the Cotton Bowl needs for the seventh-ranked Texas Longhorns to at least stay where they are and that's NOT a done deal.

Texas had to deal with Texas

Christian on Saturday then must hook it up with Baylor and Texas A&M, both still in contention for Cotton Bowl berths. A&M has defeated Texas six consecutive years and the Baptist Bears bring down fire and brimstone on the Horns in Waco.

Brock can't play favorites because as he puts it: "We made a deal in 1941 with nine institutions and we take what's dealt to us."

However, it wouldn't take too much imagination to guess that Brock would be secretly rooting for the Longhorns, who haven't been to the Cotton Bowl since 1983.

Those fans who stormed the field after Texas crushed the previously unbeaten Houston Cougars obviously wouldn't mind spending New Year's Day in Dallas, wearing their burnt orange blazers and spending some of mom and dad's money.

"It's exciting around here, hoss," Brock said. "Miami is a marquee name and has a strong television appeal."

Grady advanced to playoffs on penetrations

"You've got to give Borden County credit; they came to play. We weren't expecting them to be that tough defensively."

Rodney Johnson

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

GAIL — The final score read 20-20, but the numbers to remember are 5 and 3.

The Grady Wildcats and Borden County Coyotes hooked up in a bi-district six-man playoff game here Friday night, and after 2½ hours of see-saw action, stood tied at 20-20 at the end of the game.

But, because of a 5-3 edge in penetrations, the Wildcats advance in the playoffs to face two-time defending state six-man champion Fort Hancock at a date and site to be determined.

Grady, in winning its first-ever playoff game, improved its record to 9-2. The Coyotes, making their first playoff appearance since 1972, ended their season with a 7-4 mark.

The victory constituted a hat trick of sort for the Wildcats. They defeated Borden in a pre-season scrimmage before downing them, 26-8, in the second game of the regular season.

But accomplishing a three-in-a-row feat against the Coyotes proved to be no mean feat, according to Grady assistant coach Rodney Johnson.

"You've got to give Borden County credit; they came to play," Johnson said after the game. "We weren't expecting them to be that tough defensively."

Grady dominated the statistical battle, outgaining the Coyotes, 293-172 in total yardage. But a stiff Coyote defense and a horrible night for the Wildcats' kicking game kept Borden in the contest.

The Coyotes, hampered by the loss of star running back Jimmy Rios, had trouble running against the Grady defense all night. The Wildcats limited Borden to 90 yards rushing on 25 carries, and intercepted two passes while allowing only five completions in 16 attempts.

What looked like a squandered opportunity turned into gold for the Wildcats early in the second quarter.

The Wildcats took possession on their own 24 and marched to the Borden one in eight plays. Highlighting the drive was an 18-yard pass from Len Garza to Gilbert Cortez and a 27-yard run by Cortez that gave Grady a first and goal at the Coyotes' 14.

Three running plays took the ball to the Borden two, but on fourth and goal, Cortez's brother Baldomar was stopped by the front wall of the Borden defense, giving the Coyotes the ball at their own one.

Disaster struck the Coyotes immediately, however, when Klint Kemper fumbled the handoff, and Danny Valle recovered the bobble in the end zone for a Grady touchdown and a 6-0 lead.

The Coyotes responded to the score with one of their own, marching 57 yards in eight plays. The drive was aided by a facemask call against Grady that gave Borden County a first down at the Wildcats' 17. Three plays later, Kemper redeemed himself for his earlier mistake by plowing over from two yards out to tie the score at 6-6.

Borden had another chance to score in the quarter when Brandon Adcock recovered a Joel Morales fumble at the Grady 25, but Cortez killed the threat on the next play when he intercepted Shane Kemper's pass to Cole Vestal.

After intermission, the Wildcats opened in a spread formation on offense and proceeded to march to their second touchdown of the night.

The big play of the drive was a fourth-down pass from Garza to Gilbert Cortez that gave the 'Cats a first down at the Borden 38. Four plays later, Baldomar Cortez bulldozed over from four yards out to make the score 14-6 with 5:59 left in the third quarter.

Grady's sub-par kicking game (the Wildcats averaged only 19 yards in four boots) put the Coyotes back into the game early in the fourth. Kicking out of his own end zone, Garza shanked his punt and the ball went out of bounds at the Grady six.

Two plays later, Klint Kemper went two yards for his second touchdown of the night. Shannon Smithie's PAT try was no good, and Borden trailed, 14-12, with 9:12 remaining.

Grady again gained the advantage a few minutes later after taking over on downs at the Borden 33.

Just when it seemed that the 'Cats had finally nailed the lid shut on Borden, Grady's punting woes resurfaced to put the Coyotes back in business.

On fourth down, Baldomar Cortez — who substituted for Garza punting — evaded a heavy rush in the end zone, only to have the ball go out of bounds at the Grady 31.

On the next play, Shane Kemper avoided a heavy rush and lofted a perfect pass down the left sideline that Vestal grabbed at the seven and took in for the tying score.

Unfortunately for the Coyotes, they still trailed in the penetration department and their last chance for a win died when Florencio Hewtty recovered Smithie's on-side kick.

Undefeated Mustangs crush Ira, 50-0

By CHARLES POISALL
For the Herald

PATRICIA--Unleashing a devastating ground attack to go with their strong defense, the Sands Mustangs rolled over the Ira Bulldogs on the Klondike field here Friday night, 50-0, in the first round of the 6-man playoffs.

The game ended 4 minutes and 15 seconds into the third quarter, shortly before 9:00 p.m., under the 45-point-margin rule. With the score standing at 44-0, Junior running back and kicker, Pank Grigg of Sands, carried the ball over the goal line from 20 yards out for the final touchdown of the game.

Grigg became the game's leading scorer with 20 points when he made the game-ending run. Earlier, he had carried the ball three times, scored two touchdowns, and kicked for double extra points four times out of six tries.

But Grigg's efforts did not constitute a one-man show, Sands Coach Randy Roemisch pointed out after the game.

"It was a team effort," Roemisch said, "and I'm extremely proud of every man on this team. They played their best game of the year offensively, and made key plays on defense."

Back Eric Herm, a junior, rushed 15 times for 178 yards and scored three touchdowns. Senior back John Young carried 9 times for 82 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Playing well on both offense and defense for the Mustangs, as they have done all season, were junior quarterback and cornerback Aaron Cowley, junior end and cornerback Adrian Zarate, junior back and linebacker David Covarubias, junior back and safety Charles Rhodes, junior end Clay Parker, senior end Brandon Riddle, and senior center and cornerback Marcus Carr.

The Mustangs, champions of District 5A and undefeated this season, now sport a record of 11-0. The Ira Bulldogs, coached by Don Jones, ended their season at 4-7. The Bulldogs were runners-up in District 6-A.

Roemisch, whose record at Sands now stands at 29 wins and only 4 losses, praised his assistant coaches for their team effort in preparing for the game. "I'm proud of Coaches Jerry Gooch, Allan Wootan and Leland Bearden," Roemisch said. Young, Riddle and Carr are the only seniors on the Sands team this year.

The Bulldogs from Ira took the opening kick-off and threatened to score on their first possession. Picking up two first downs along the way, they drove from their own 27 to the Sands 4-yard line. Carries by running back Mike Hughes and end James Sturdivant accounted for most of the yardage. A pass from quarterback Chris Haynes to Sturdivant carried to the Sands 5-yard line.

But the drive stalled there after an Ira fumble and recovery and an incomplete pass into the end zone. The Mustangs took over on downs.

Cowley, Herm, Young and company went to work. Staying on the ground because of a strong northeast wind blowing catty-cornered across the field, the Mustangs drove to the Ira 1-yard line.

Herm carried over the first touchdown of the game with 2 minutes left in the first quarter. Grigg kicked his first 2-point conversion.

The next Ira possession ended with a little more than a minute left in the first quarter when back Bryan Luna of the Bulldogs fumbled deep in his own territory. Rhodes recovered the ball on the Ira 11.

After Herm carried to the 4, Young streaked over the right side for the game's second touchdown. Grigg's kick was wide, but the Mustangs held a 14-0 lead as the

After a 48-yard punt by Sturdivant in the second quarter, the Mustangs had the ball on their own 8-yard line. Herm took the ball on a handoff from Cowley and turned in the most spectacular run of the game, going 72 yards through the middle for the third touchdown of the game. Grigg's kick this time was good, and the Mustangs led 22-0 with 6 minutes to go in the first half.

The Bulldogs reached the Sands 9-yard line on their next possession, but Cowley ended the threat when he intercepted a Brian Martinez pass in the endzone. Young and sophomore David Ybarra then marked up yardage, and Herm carried to the Ira 1. Grigg scored from there with 3 minutes left in the first half. Grigg then kicked for the 2 points, upping the score to 30-0.

After Cowley intercepted again late in the period, this time on a pass thrown by Sturdivant, Herm scored again from 4 yards out. Again Grigg kicked for 2, and the Mustangs led 38-0 at the half.

Receiving to start the third quarter, the Mustangs picked up one first down with runs by Young and Herm. Then Young scored through the middle from 4 yards out, upping the score to 44-0 with less than 3 minutes gone in the period. Grigg's kick this time, which would have ended the game, was barely wide to the left.

The Mustangs had to wait until their next possession, when they held the Bulldogs on downs on the Ira 20, to wind it up with Grigg's final touchdown.

Mustangs to face Mustangs Friday

The Sands Mustangs, winners over the Ira Bulldogs on the Klondike field Friday night, will travel to Imperial, in Pecos County, for a regional play-off game against the Marathon Mustangs at 7:00 p.m. November 23.

The game will be played on the Buena Vista High School field in Imperial, which is 30 miles from Ft. Stockton and 20 miles from Monahans.

Arrangements for the game were completed following Friday night's game in Klondike.

The Marathon Mustangs, runners-up in District 8-A, drew a bye and were idle Friday night. Marathon goes against Sands sporting an 8-2 record, all in District 8-A games. Both Marathon losses came at the hands of Ft. Hancock, the champions of District 8-A.

Bearkats claim district crown with 34-12 victory

GARDEN CITY—The Garden City Bearkats treated their home fans to an exciting district championship game defeating the Sterling City Eagles 34-12 here Friday night.

With the win, the Bearkats' move to 9-1 for the season and 6-0 in district play. The Eagles' drop to 3-6-1 for the year.

Garden City's James Soles carried the ball 26 times for 190 yards and one touchdown, and Allen Hoelscher added 72 yards and one TD to his total with 7 pass receptions.

The outstanding player for Sterling City in the district closer was Scotty Johnson with 27 carries for 194 yards.

Garden City was first on the scoreboard with 8:42 to go in the first quarter on a 4-yard pass from Shae Scott to Richard Morales. Jody Bradford followed up with the PAT, making the score 7-0.

In the second quarter, the Eagles' Scotty Johnson went in for 6 points after a 46-yard run. The 2-point conversion attempt failed, making the score 7-6.

Garden City's turn came again with only 18 seconds remaining in the half when Shae Scott threw a 2 yard pass to Allen Hoelscher. The extra point attempt missed, and the half ended with Garden City up by 7.

In the third quarter, David Rodriguez's 2-yard run added another 6 to Garden City's total.

This was followed by a Shae Scott pass to Steven Jost for 2, making the score 21-6.

The excitement really mounted when, with 1:02 to go in the third quarter, Garden City attempted to punt and bungled the snap. The ball sailed over the head of the intended kicker, landing in the end zone. Sterling City recovered the ball in the endzone for the score, closing the gap to nine points, 21-12. The Eagles were unable to add the extra two points.

David Rodriguez made it into the end zone again on a 3-yard run with 9:11 to go in the fourth quarter. The point-after attempt failed, putting Garden City ahead 27-12.

The final score of the game came with 2:42 remaining on a 55-yard run by Garden City's Soles. Jody Bradford kicked the extra point. The game ended with the Bearkats up 34-12.

Next Saturday, November 24th, at 2:00 p.m., the Garden City Bearkats will tangle with Santa Anna in Colorado City in a bi-district championship game.

GARDEN CITY — With defensive pressure from both the front and the back, Garden City quarterback Shae Scott prepares to toss the ball downfield during first half action against Sterling City Friday evening.

GARDEN CITY — After receiving the handoff, Garden City tailback James Soles prepares to meet Sterling City defenders Allen Del Real (72) and Scotty Johnson (10) who wait for him during first half action Friday evening.

Stanton girls win, boys lose in Friday action

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

STANTON — The Tahoka Bulldogs spoiled Stanton's home debut, downing the Buffalos, 59-52, here Friday.

Leading the way for the Bulldogs was Bruce Burleson with 17 points and Brandon Cate with 16. Cate pulled down six rebounds to lead in that department. The Buffs were led by Kenny McCalister with 20 points and nine rebounds and Grant Woodfin with 10 points and four rebounds.

In the first quarter, McCalister hit a jumper from the paint to give the Buffs a 2-0 lead. Mike Burleson came right back with basket for the Bulldogs and Cate added another. With 6:51 left in the first quarter, the Bulldogs led 4-2.

Woodfin tied the contest as John Eric Wyckoff found Woodfin under the basket and he layed up the assist for the Buffs. As the quarter came to an end, the visitors led 11-8.

The Bulldogs padded their lead to 13-8 in the second before the Buffs started rallying. Coach Kevy Allred's charges scored 12 unanswered points to take a 20-13 lead with 3:43 left in the first half.

Four Buffs got into the scoring

"We made too many mistakes tonight. We were outrebounded by a smaller team and they shot the ball well. We were blocked out and they took advantage of the boards. We have potential players out there, but they're going to have to decide if they want to play or not."

act before the Bulldogs could produce a bucket. At halftime, the Buffs led, 26-24.

Tahoka rebounded in the third quarter, and led, 38-30 with 2:49 left in the quarter, and 43-36 heading into the final eight minutes.

The Buffs rallied, however, and took the lead with four minutes remaining when McCalister put up four points and Joe Cazares netted a steal and a basket. McCalister put the home team ahead for the fifth time in the contest with two free throws at the 3:57 mark.

But the Bulldogs responded with a Burleson three-pointer to regain the lead, and held off the Buffs for the victory.

"We made too many mistakes tonight. We were outrebounded by a smaller team and they shot the ball well. We were blocked out and they took advantage of the boards," Allred said. "We have potential players out there, but they're going to have to decide if they want to play or not. We went to a 2-3 zone because I felt that Tahoka was too fast for us.

"We're too slow to play man-to-man against that type of speed. We just lost the ball at crucial times when we needed a score and we were forcing the ball and making bad passes," Allred added.

The Buffalos will travel play the O'Donnell Eagles in their next game.

In junior varsity action, the Tahoka Bulldogs outlasted the Stanton JV squad 23-10. Robin Barnes led all scorers with eight points and Mackie Hurst added two. For the Bulldogs, Robert Jackson was high scorer with 11 points.

Lady Buffs lose

Stanton's Lady Buffs took their 1-0 mark against Tahoka in girl's basketball action with the visiting team overtaking the Buffalos 50-37.

Kevy Allred

Leading the way for the Lady Bulldogs was Chasity Hood with 22 points, followed by Myra Williams with 20 points.

Brandi Bundas led Stanton with eight points, followed by Nancy Chapa and Mitzi Koonce with six apiece. Kari Ruth and Melissa Scurlark both scored four points. On the defensive side, sophomore Stacy Tollison controlled the boards with a 12-rebound performance.

The Stanton five kept the contest close in the first half of play as Tollison's rebounding and Bundas' shooting kept the Lady Bulldogs in check for most of the two periods. Tahoka had a one point lead at the end of the first quarter.

The one woman offensive machine of Hood kept the Bulldogs in the lead. The Lady Buffs tried to press the visitors, but the Lady Bulldogs broke the press without difficulty. At the end of the first half the Bulldogs led 21-17.

In the second half the visitors began to pull away as Hood and Williams accounted for 42 points in the contest. The visiting team went home with a 13-point win as Stanton's record dropped to 1-1.

The Lady Buffs will host the Rankin Lady Red Devils Monday in Buffalo gymnasium. The JV contest will start at 6:30 p.m., while the varsities tangle at 8 p.m.

In JV action, Stanton beat Tahoka 42-38. Leading the way for the Lady Buffs was Innet Brown with 17 followed by Reagan Koonce with 15 and Gloria adron with four. For the Lady Bulldogs, M. Martin had 12 points and L. Hood scored 11.

'All Things Must Pass'— including the football season

"All Things Must Pass" was the contention of George Harrison's popular album of the early '70s. Presumably, that includes football season.

The regular season, which began with physicals and windsprints in 100-degree weather in August, ended Friday night for all area teams.

For a fortunate and talented few — Big Spring, Garden City, Sands, Grady and Borden County — the state playoffs kept dreams of football glory alive for at least one more week. For the other area teams, however, basketball season has arrived.

Football, especially in West Texas, is more than just a sport. It is almost like a 10-week rite of passage, in which communities pit their way of life against other on a 100-yard battlefield.

This bond between a town and its high school football squad may strike visitors from other parts of the country as a bit strange, but very few West Texans would have it any other way.

The lure of Football Fridays is more than just the game, although that's the centerpiece. For several small communities, a home football game offers a good excuse to drive into town and visit with your friends.

There's also the bands, the cheerleaders and various other sights, sounds and smells to attract even a casual fan to the local stadium.

There is, of course, the game itself.

Football's 1990 edition produced the expected quotas of brilliant plays and not-so-brilliant mistakes, individual heroics and team tragedies.

Neal Mayfield's 343-yard performance highlighted week one, while the Borden County Coyotes produced the high note of the final week by finally breaking an 18-year playoff drought.

In between, there were plenty of notable achievements, including Sands' and Big Spring's second consecutive district championships, Garden City's first-ever 11-man district title and Grady's third straight trip to the playoffs.

On a slightly smaller scale, the Forsan Buffalos won their first district game in more than two years this season, while the Colorado City Wolves, beset by more injuries than some hospital emergency rooms, surprised almost everybody by finishing with a .500 record.

There were, of course, disappointments. The Stanton Buffalos, seeking their third straight district title, struggled to a 1-9 finish, while the Coahoma Bulldogs, picked by many to make the playoffs, finished just out of the running.

On the whole, however, Football 1990 was memorable in more ways than one, and it's passing only serves to lend more emphasis to that eternal football chant:

"Wait'll next year!"

Andrews defeats Lakeview, 18-9

ANDREWS--The Andrews Mustangs captured third place in District 3-4A, winning an eventful final district game 18-9 over the San Angelo Lakeview Chiefs here Friday night. Andrews' record for the year is 6-4, and 4-2 in district play.

The Mustangs' Eric Perucca kicked in a 49-yard field goal in the second quarter, his second best of the year. Earlier in the season he had made 3 points for the Mustangs on a 57-yard field goal. Chris Garrett, of Andrews, also had a good game, rushing for 137 yards.

The Chiefs scored first on a 21-yard field goal with 9:17 to go in the first quarter. This was the only score in the first quarter.

At the end of a 58-yard drive in the second quarter, the Mustangs' Chris Garrett scored on a 32-yard run. Zach Miller ran in for 2, taking the score to 8-3.

With only 3 seconds remaining in the half, Eric Perucca kicked his 49-yarder, and the score going into the half was 11-3.

In the third quarter, Lakeview's quarterback Cory Stephens scored on a 1-yard option run, capping a 65-yard drive in 7 plays. The pass for the 2-point attempt was intercepted by the Mustangs' Kevin Nichols, ruining the Chiefs' extra point attempt.

The last score of the game came on the last play of the third quarter, with Zach Miller going in for 6 on a 4-yard run. Perucca kicked the PAT to make the final score 18-9.

First downs give edge to Palo Duro

The Palo Duro Dons will advance to area competition against El Paso Coronado next week after winning a close one over the Odessa High Bronchos in Lubbock Friday night. The final score was 20-20, with the Dons winning on first downs.

Donald Shanklin scored first for Palo Duro on a 19-yard run. The PAT attempt was no good, and the Dons led 6-0.

The Bronchos' Ira Young scored next on a 77-yard run, followed by the extra point kicked by Brad Givens, making the score 8-6 at the half with Odessa leading.

Palo Duro's A' Mon Turner got into the end zone in the third quarter on a 1-yard run, and the PAT by Chris Weiss took the score to 13-8.

Brad Givens scrambled 34 yards for the next OHS score, but the 2-point attempt failed.

Givens added 6 more to the Bronchos' tally, running 65 yards for the score. Again the 2-point try failed, and the score was 20-13 with Odessa in the lead.

Turner and Weiss made 7 more points for Palo Duro in the fourth quarter, tying the score at 20-20. The Dons led the Bronchos 20-15 on first downs and will go to area play next week.

Hawks pull game out in last minutes

SNYDER — The Howard College Hawks blew open a tight game in the last four minutes to down the Ranger College Rangers, 117-94, in a second-round game at the WTC-McDonald's Basketball Classic here Friday night.

The Hawks, now 7-0 for the season, were led by Anthony Valiengo's 23 points. Other Hawks in double figures were: Vernon Broughton, 20 points; Johnny McDowell, 19; Cecil Pittman, 16; and Harvey Petty, 11.

HC coach Steve Green said that the Hawks had trouble shedding Ranger in the game.

"The score was a lot more misleading than the actual game,"

Green said. "There were three spurts in which we were in obvious control, but they kept climbing back into the game."

The Hawks led at the half, 56-44, and increased that edge until a Valiengo three-pointer gave Howard a 17-point cushion in the second half. However, Green said, the lead "kind of dissipated" as the Rangers staged a comeback.

The Hawks dominated the game statistically, holding a 50-38 edge in rebounding, including 22-14 in offensive caroms.

Howard returns to action in the third round of the Classic Saturday when they take on Temple at 5 p.m. in the Scurry County Coliseum.

DALLAS (AP) — Here are previews of this weekend's Southwest Conference football games:

TEXAS (7-1, 5-0 SWC) at TCU (5-4, 3-3 SWC), 11 a.m. (CST), CBS National Telecast — Texas leads the overall series 55-19-1. The Longhorns also have a 44-19-1 record against TCU in SWC contests, including 22 straight. Texas' David McWilliams is 30-23 (fifth year) overall, 23-19 (fourth season) at UT, 21-14 in SWC contests, and 4-0 vs. the Horned Frogs. TCU's Jim Wacker is 132-85-3 (20th year, 14th-winningest active NCAA Division head coach), 33-52-2 (eighth year) as the Horned Frogs' coach, 17-42-1 in SWC games, and 0-7 against Texas. The Horned Frogs' throw a variety of pass patterns and tested receivers at a Texas defense which led the SWC for the three weeks prior to last Saturday's game with Houston and which is 22nd nationally in total defense. Texas' defense, forcing six turnovers against Houston last week, has been rugged behind the likes of FS Stanley Richard (three interceptions), DE Shane Dronetti (three blocked place kicks) and LB Brian Jones. That trio has helped the UT defensive unit make 15 sacks in the last three games. OT Stan Thomas and OG Duane Miller anchor one of Texas' top offensive lines in a decade. The Horned Frogs have been piling up mounds of offense behind QB Matt Vogler (80-of-151 passing with 1,109 yards and seven TDs in the last two games after replacing the injured Leon Clay) and three outstanding receivers ranked among the SWC's top five catching artists. TE Kelly Blackwell (59 receptions, 770 yards) leads the nation pass-catching tight ends while WRs Stephen Shipley (53 grabs, 714 yards) and Richard Woodley (33 catches in his last two games) are move-the-chains players. The Longhorns have an edge in the punting game behind Alex Waits (fifth nationally with a 43.3 yards per kick average).

BAYLOR (5-3-1, 4-1-1 SWC) at RICE (5-5, 3-4 SWC), 12 Noon (CST), Raycom Telecast — Baylor maintains an all-time advantage of 40-28-2 over the Owls and a 40-27-2 margin in SWC encounters with Rice. The Owls prevailed 6-3 in Waco last year after having several close calls with the Bears throughout the 1980s. Bears' boss Grant Teaff is 154-141-7 (28th year) overall, 112-95-6 (19th season) as Baylor's most productive football coach and the sixth-leading game winner in SWC coaching history, 73-67-4 in SWC tilts, and 14-4 lifetime against the Owls. Rice coach Fred Goldsmith is 9-20-1 (third year) overall, 7-13-1 (second year) with the Owls, 5-10 in SWC games, and 1-0 against Baylor. Baylor has executed its veer option running game successfully against some of the region's toughest defenses but has lost two standout QBs in Brad Goebel and J.J. Joe for the year. The Bears' defense must contend with a Rice offense that is having one of its most successful seasons. Baylor RBs Eldwin Raphael and Michael Moore form a sound, 1-2 punch with a composite 202 carries for 946 yards and seven TDs. FB Robert Strait has blossomed with 83 carries for 325 yards on the campaign and 72 yards rushing against Arkansas. Defensively, safety Mike Welch (15 career interceptions) and DE Santana Dotson join WACO — Baylor's Eldwin Raphael gets chased down by Sam Houston State's Jimmy Caldwell (20) and Darryl Harrison (56) during first half action. Today the 5-3-1 Bears will play SMU.

CB Michael McFarland (three pickers this season) in forming a strong barricade to the Bears' goal. QB Donald Hollas (148-of-258 passing for 1,800 yards, third-most yards by a SWC quarterback in 1990) takes some of the "heat" off school season rushing recordholder RB Trevor Cobb (267 carries, 1,290 yards, 14th-highest yardage total in SWC season annals) for the Owls' offense. Defensive standouts LB O.J. Brigance (98 tackles, four fumbles caused or recovered) and NG Matt Sign (five QB sacks) have limited Rice opponents to the team's lowest scoring average (24.1 points per game) since 1980 (19.5 ppg).

SMU (1-8, 0-6 SWC) at TEXAS TECH (3-7, 2-5 SWC), 2 p.m. (CST) — Texas Tech leads this series in both all games 19-16 and in SWC contests 16-12. SMU's Forrest Gregg is 3-17 (second year, both with the Mustangs) in the college ranks, 0-14 in

SWC games and 0-1 against Tech, though he has won 83 NFL contests and guided Cincinnati to the 1982 Super Bowl. Tech's Spike Dykes stands 23-21-1 (fifth season, all at Tech), 14-14-1 in SWC games, and 1-0 in battles with SMU after earning consensus 1989 SWC Coach of the Year honors. SMU cranked up 468 yards of total offense, including 449 passing yards, against Rice last week in a losing effort. A healthy QB Mike Romo (second in SMU career history, 12th on SWC rolls with 4,906 passing yards since 1989) makes all the difference for the Mustangs as he was 40-of-62 passing for 449 yards and four TDs against Rice last week. WR Jason Wolf (100 career catches over two seasons) had nine receptions against the Owls while the SMU defense has been feisty at times in 1990. LB Bill Kiely (116 tackles, two fumbles forced) sets the pace for the Mustangs. Tech relies on the big-play capabilities of WR Rodney Blackshear (40 catches, 874 receiving yards, 597 kickoff return yards and the conference's only TD runback on a kickoff return against Texas A&M) and QB Robert Hall (105-of-210 passing for 1,502 yards). Paced by a pair of FS Tracy Saul interceptions, Tech's defense had a season-high 160 yards on interception returns against TCU.

TEXAS A&M (6-2-1, 3-1-1 SWC) at ARKANSAS (2-7, 0-6 SWC), 3 p.m. (CST) — Arkansas has a surprisingly large advantage in this rivalry, which has decided the last five SWC championships. The Razorbacks are 38-22-3 in all games with the Aggies and lead the SWC series over A&M 37-20-3, though the Aggies took the first game 6-0 in 1903. The Aggies' R.C. Slocum is 14-6-1 (second season, both at A&M), 9-3-1 in SWC bouts and 0-1 against the Razorbacks. The Razorbacks' Jack Crowe stands 7-22 (third year) overall, 2-7 (first season) at UA, 0-6 in SWC encounters, and meets the Aggies for the first time. The Aggies bring in one of the nation's most potent ground attacks with 329.4 yards per game — third nationally — in rushing offense. The Razorbacks seek more consistency on both sides and throw one of the SWC's most balanced offenses (180 yards per game rushing, average passing of 184 yards per contest) at a physical A&M defense. Aggies' RB Darren Lewis bids to become the fifth 5,000-yard rusher in NCAA Division I-A history and needs 340 yards in his final three contests. QBs Bucky Richardson (59 carries, 414 yards rushing) and Lance Pavlas (most efficient SWC passer and SWC-best 60.8 percent completion rate) are the triggermen. DB Kevin Smith (18 career interceptions) seeks to become the solo proprietor of that SWC mark. Arkansas QB Quinn Grovey has a 24-10 mark as a starter for the Razorbacks and has been one of the conference's most versatile players (1,672 career yards rushing, 4,184 passing yards) while LB Mick Thomas (114 tackles) is a mainstay. SE Derek Russell averages 20 yards per catch (36 receptions), and yearling Tracy Caldwell chips in 23 catches, 383 yards and four TDs.

EASTERN WASHINGTON (5-5) at HOUSTON (8-1, 7-1 SWC), 4 p.m. (CST) — First meeting of Houston and Eastern Washington of the Big Sky Conference. EWU's Dick Zornes is 87-57-2 (14th season) overall, 67-52-2 (12th season) at his alma mater. Houston's John Jenkins stands 8-1 (.889 winning percentage) overall in his first season of college coaching. It is the best start by any SWC head football coach in his initial year. The game probably will be a passing extravaganza. The Eagles have averaged close to 40 pass attempts per game while Houston passes at least 58 times a game, completing an average of 33. EWU has been ranked among the Division I-AA Top 15 in passing yards per game most of the year while the Cougars have held Division I-A passing yardage and TD pass leadership for most of the last three seasons. EWU RB Harold Wright has averaged close to 100 yards per game rushing most of the campaign, including 649 yards on 144 carries with seven TDs in his first six contests. QBs Scott Stuart and Mark Tenneson have shared passing duties and look to freshman WR Tony Brooks as a prime target. The Cougars' QB David Klingler accounted for 341 of his team's 391 net yards of total offense against rugged Texas and continues to hold national leadership (434.6 yards per game). He already stands second to Houston's 1989 Heisman Trophy winner Andre Ware in SWC season completions (292), passing yards (3,852) and touchdowns (36) after throwing 16 TD passes in his last three games. RB Chuck Weatherspoon, injured for part of 1990, is third in SWC career all-purpose yards with 5,153 (all in his last 30 games), 14th in career rushing (3,058 yards) and needs four all-purpose yards to pass Texas Tech's Donny Anderson for second place in SWC history.

Nittany Lions out to upset No. 1 Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Holding the top spot in college football has been a chancy proposition this season, and No. 1 Notre Dame rolls the bones again Saturday against No. 18 Penn State.

Notre Dame (8-1) is struggling toward a possible national championship in the second of three tough games that round out its regular season.

The Irish beat No. 14 Tennessee, 34-29, last Saturday, and they play No. 19 Southern Cal next week as they line up for an Orange Bowl berth against No. 2 Colorado.

The defense has been shaky all season, allowing 18 rushing touchdowns after giving up only four last year, and giving up an average 265 passing yards a game.

"If I was going to raise money for a charity, I'd ask people to donate a nickel for every yard we've given up since the start of the season," said Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz.

Coach Joe Paterno isn't expecting any Irish donations to Penn State (7-2). "We've had some luck against them, but not lately," he said.

Paterno's luck is three years old, dating to a 21-20 victory over the Irish at State College, Pa. The past two years, Penn State faced a top-ranked Notre Dame team and lost: 21-3 in 1988 and 34-23 last year when the Irish rushed for 425 yards.

The Lions will face two Pennsylvania natives — Raghob "Rocket" Ismail of Wilkes-Barre and Ricky Watters of Harrisburg — who sealed Tennessee's fate and hurt Penn State last year. Ismail ran 44 yards for the game-winning score last week, and Watters rushed for a career-high 174 yards and two touchdowns.

Against the Lions in 1989, Watters rushed for 128 yards and a touchdown, and Ismail combined rushing and pass catching for 111 yards. "Watters, Ismail, (Tony) Brooks, the whole mess of them, they've got more offense than anybody we have played so far," Paterno said.

Lions quarterback Tony Sacca has led his team to seven consecutive victories, passing for 1,402 yards and six touchdowns, after opening the season with losses to No. 7 Texas and Southern Cal. Running back Leroy Thompson has carried for 517 yards and eight touchdowns.

Irish sophomore quarterback Rick Mirer has learned on the job this season, completing passes for 1,533 yards and eight touchdowns, and running the option for five more scores.

The Notre Dame defense has pulled off key plays despite weaknesses in pass coverage. Cornerback Rod Smith intercepted a Tennessee pass with 45 seconds remaining to kill the Volunteers' last-ditch effort.

Lady Steers fall, 69-38

Sports Editor

Playing without their top two players, the Big Spring Lady Steers found the going rough. It was evident the Lady Steers missed Teveyan Russell and Jennifer Hendleman, but even with them it would've been hard to beat the Abilene High Lady Eagles.

The Lady Eagles rolled into the championship game against Odessa Permian by whipping the Lady Steers 69-38 in the second round of the Howard College Crossroads Tournament Friday night. Making the night even worse was the news that Hendleman will undergo major knee surgery Tuesday, and will be lost for the season. It is unknown the status of Russell's knee injury.

The Lady Eagles beat the lady Steers at their own game — fullcourt pressure and fast-break offense. The AHS press was a headache to Big Spring for 32 minutes. The Lady Eagles kept a fresh stable of players in the game, constantly pressuring the flustered Lady Steers. When all the damage was done, Big Spring had turned the ball over 39 times.

The AHS attack was spearheaded by guard Lakeita Richardson, one of only two seniors on the AHS team. Richardson finished with eight steals, scored 19 points, got six rebounds and dished out four assists.

Just as effective was reserve guard Tamara Jones, who finished the game with five steals and seven points. Forwards Amanda Horton and Sharon Green contributed 10 and 11 points respectively.

Lady Hawks down Blinn College, 76-71

The Howard College Lady Hawks conquered a big challenge Friday night as they defeated the Blinn College Lady Bucs 76-71 here Friday night in the Howard Classic.

The win was No. 14 Howard's seventh in as many tries. Blinn is ranked No. 25 in the nation.

For the second consecutive game, Howard got a strong performance from sophomore Kim Robinson, who scored 27 points, including 21 in the second half. Cindy Williams scored 12 points and Julie Lempea and Desiree Wallace added 10 points each.

Howard led by as many as 15 points in the first half, but Blinn hit two three-pointers near the end of the half, closing the gap to 39-33 at intermission.

"We kept Blinn in the game at the free throw line," said Howard coach Royce Chadwick. "We played pretty good defense; we had some non-thinking fouls."

"Kim Robinson played really good tonight. She played the off guard and we posted her down low, that really made the difference. Julie Lempea had her best performance tonight. She did a good job of setting things up. She played real good defense."

Today's schedule has Cisco playing Hardin-Simmons at 10:30 a.m., Blinn playing Western Texas at 4 p.m. and Weatherford playing Howard at 8 p.m.

HOWARD (76) — Lempea 26 10; Robinson 10 7 27; Wallace 4 2 10; Moore 2 1 5; Wells 1 2 4; C. Williams 5 2 12; Tosi 4 0 8; totals 28 20-26 76.

BLINN (71) — Richard 2 0 5; Llorens 4 4 15; Starks 1 0 3; Day 4 2 12; Hart 1 0 2; Littles 1 3 5; Ortiz 2 5 9; totals 22 20-26 71.

HALFTIME — Howard 39, Blinn 33.

Sooners bite worm in Apple

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Oliver Miller, a big man with soft hands, scored 20 points, dominated the inside and started a couple of important fast breaks with long passes as second-ranked Arkansas whipped 15th-ranked Oklahoma 110-88 Friday night in the second round of the Big Apple NIT.

Arkansas plays Duke, a 100-76 winner over Boston College, in the tournament semifinals in New York on Wednesday. The Blue Devils beat the Razorbacks in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament last year.

The loss was Oklahoma's worst since Nebraska beat Billy Tubbs' first team in 1980, 90-63.

The 6-foot-9, 275-pound Miller grabbed 12 rebounds, blocked five shots and tied up the Oklahoma shooter on at least three other occasions. Miller picked up his third foul with 18:43 left in the second half and returned five minutes later with Arkansas up by nine.

Miller scored inside and then fired 70 feet to Arlyn Bowers for an easy basket and a 70-57 advantage. Four straight points by Bryan Sallier cut the lead to nine again but Lee Mayberry hit a jumper, Miller got the ball to Todd Day for a fast-break basket and then Miller

top by 18. Ernie Murry's 3-pointer with 5:41 left made it 93-71. The Sooners never got closer than 16.

Oklahoma's last lead was 34-33 on Sallier's layup with 5:45 left in the first half. Clyde Fletcher, who contributed some hustling plays during his five minutes, put Arkansas ahead for good when he made a layup after a steal.

The score was tied three times in the early going, the last time at 10-10.

Two baskets by Day, one of them a 3-pointer, put Arkansas in front by five with 16:02 left in the first half. The Razorbacks stayed in front until a three-point play by Terry Evans made it 27-26 with 9:20 left in the half.

A steal and a layup by Fletcher gave Arkansas a 1-point lead and then Ron Huery took a pass from Day for an easy basket. Brent Price, with 13 points in the first half, hit from 12 feet but Day banged home a 3-pointer and Huery added a free throw for 41-36. Terrence Mullins made a 3-pointer to narrow the margin, but Miller put back a rebound and Isaiah Morris made two straight from the field for a 47-39 lead.

Prince and Sallier ended with 20 points.

No. 6 Duke whips B.C.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Bill McCaffrey and Thomas Hill scored 15 points apiece to lead sixth-ranked Duke to a 100-76 victory over Boston College Friday night in the second-round game of the Big Apple NIT.

Duke (2-0) earned a trip to New York's Madison Square Garden for the semifinals Wednesday.

Duke took command 2½ minutes into the game, launching a 24-2 run that included 20 straight points while holding Boston College (1-1) scoreless for 6½ minutes in wiping out an early 6-4 deficit. Two free throws by freshman Grant Hill tied the game 6-6 with 17:33 to go in the half and the Blue Devils quickly turned the game into a rout. Grant Hill scored eight of Duke's first 10 points.

By the time Boston College's Doug Able converted a layup with 9:45 left in the half, Duke led 30-10 on the way to a 44-25 advantage at intermission.

McCaffrey scored five points in the first three minutes of the second half to spark an 11-0 Duke run that pushed the lead to 30 points. The Blue Devils made 20 of 25 shots in the second half.

After 92 years, DePaul finds itself a conference

CHICAGO (AP) — Officials at DePaul University say creation of the Great Midwest Conference marks a long-awaited end to the Blue Demons' independent status.

"Our 92-year search for a conference is over," DePaul Athletic Director Bill Bradshaw said. "Any time you take that long to do something, you are obviously very particular. This conference offers all we are looking for philosophically, academically and athletically."

DePaul was passed over for an NCAA tournament bid last season with an 18-14 record. The program has been looking for years for a league that could help its postseason chances and simplify scheduling opponents.

Thursday's official formation of the NCAA's 34th conference changed the structure of Division I college basketball. The Blue Demons join Alabama-Birmingham, Cincinnati, Marquette, Memphis State and St. Louis University in the non-football conference. It will begin play in the 1991-92 season.

The Great Midwest's office will be in Chicago as is DePaul, but little else is definite.

Asked about such particulars as a commissioner, television coverage, scheduling and sharing of revenues, Bradshaw said, "All these questions will be answered by Jan. 1."

He indicated some TV carriers had approached the new league. But by waiting and possibly adding new members, he said, the conference thought it could demand greater opportunities in coverage and finances.

Rick Taylor, Cincinnati's athletic director, called the new conference "a great idea, a great concept. We have a credible league that is national in stature from the start."

But formation of the Great Midwest also may mean the end of the Metro Conference. It now has four members with the defection of Cincinnati and Memphis State on top of prior departures by Florida State and South Carolina.

Metro commissioner Ralph McFillen said Thursday his conference will step up its meetings with prospective members after the Great Midwest's official announcement.

"We have and will continue to meet with prospective members," McFillen said from Atlanta. "I see this as an opportunity to expand our membership into new areas as well as solidifying regions with present members.

"I am disappointed to hear that two of our members have joined another conference. All six institutions agreed last month to come back to the table in 30 days to determine if solutions could be reached... For those members not to honor this agreement is regrettable."

Florida State went to the Atlantic Coast Conference this year, and South Carolina left for the Southeastern Conference.

Marquette and St. Louis came in from the Midwestern Collegiate Conference, while Alabama-Birmingham was in the Sun Belt Conference.

"We are coming from a great conference of fine institutions and leadership and going to a conference of great institutions and leadership," Marquette Athletic Director Bill Cords said.

The loss of Marquette and St. Louis leaves the MCC with seven members — Butler, Dayton, Detroit, Evansville, Loyola of Chicago, Notre Dame and Xavier. All but Notre Dame play men's basketball.

Notre Dame, however, has agreed to play at least one basketball game each season against each conference member on an alternating home-and-away basis.

"The strong philosophical and academic similarities of our institutions will see the MCC through this disruption of membership," MCC commissioner Tucker DiEdwardo said in a statement.

Celts tune out Jazz, Mavs edge LA, 76ers bite Bullets

BOSTON (AP) — Robert Parish scored 8 points and Larry Bird 6 in a 24-4 third-period outburst Friday night as the Boston Celtics whipped Utah 114-89 for their 20th consecutive Boston Garden victory over the Jazz.

The Jazz led 58-55 early in the second half before Bird ignited the big rally with a free throw on a illegal defense technical foul. Reggie Lewis and Brian Shaw scored 4 points apiece and Kevin McHale a pair in the next 6½ minutes as the Celtics charged to a 79-62 lead.

Lewis led Boston scorers with 24 points, while Bird had 23 and Parish 20.

Utah, which lost its fourth straight, was led by Jeff Malone with 23 points, John Stockton with 18 and Karl Malone with 17.

Mavericks 99, Lakers 86

DALLAS (AP) — Derek Harper scored 8 of his 19 points during a 15-2 run to open the final quarter as Dallas Mavericks broke a nine-game regular-season losing streak against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Harper hit two 3-pointers and a driving layup at the start of the fourth quarter as the Mavericks extended a 69-68 lead to 84-70. The struggling Lakers lost for the fifth time in seven games this season and saw their string of six straight victories at Reunion Arena ended.

The Mavericks, continuing to adjust to the loss Roy Tarpley and Fat Lever, both of whom underwent knee surgery earlier this week, got 17 points each from Rolando Blackman and Herb Williams.

Byron Scott led the Lakers with 23 points. James Worthy added 21 and ex-Maverick Sam Perkins, heavily booed by the Reunion Arena crowd, had 18 for the Lakers.

76ers 115, Bullets 102

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Barkley had 35 points and 18 rebounds, Ron Anderson hit a game-tying 3-pointer with 4.4 seconds left in regulation and Philadelphia used a 10-0 run to defeat Washington in overtime.

Barkley scored on a follow shot to give Philadelphia a 98-96 lead to start the extra period, but then fouled out, setting up Mark Alarie's two free throws that tied the score with 3:52 left.

The 76ers then scored the next 10 points for a 108-98 lead with 1:21 remaining.

Anderson had 22 points and Hersey Hawkins 20 for the Sixers, while Bernard King had 33 points, all in the first three periods, for Washington.

Cavaliers 99, Bucks 94

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Larry Nance scored 25 points, including 5 during a 9-0 run in the fourth quarter that gave Cleveland a 10-point lead, and the Cavaliers went on to beat Milwaukee for their fourth straight win.

The win was tarnished when Cleveland's John Williams was carried off the floor after twisting his left foot and collapsing to the floor in pain with 17.2 seconds remaining. Coach Lenny Wilkens said a preliminary examination of Williams did not indicate any broken bones.

Milwaukee, which trailed by 10 early in the third quarter, took the lead briefly early in the fourth and was behind by only one after Ricky Pierce made two free throws with 7:25 to play. Then came the 9-0 run for a 94-84 Cleveland lead.

Brad Daugherty scored 15 points and matched his career high with 17 rebounds for Cleveland. Alvin Robertson led Milwaukee with 24 points, 20 of them in the second half.

Pistons 105, Nets 96

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Isiah Thomas had 9 of his 18 points and 4 of his 14 assists as Detroit outscored New Jersey 35-18 in the first quarter and coasted to victory.

The Pistons opened and closed the quarter with 11-2 and 13-4 runs, and the Nets played catchup the rest of the night. Detroit led 62-38 at the half and by as many as 26 points early in the third quarter.

Joe Dumars had 20 points and Bill Laimbeer 15 points and 13 rebounds for Detroit. Sam Bowie had 20 points and 21 rebounds for New Jersey.

Pacers 106, Heat 80

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Vern Fleming, who signed a contract extension earlier Friday, scored 10 of his 14 points in the first 10 minutes when Indiana broke the game open en route to defeating Miami.

Indiana used its reserves for all of the fourth period and was led by Reggie Miller with 17 points.

Miami, which shot 31 percent from the field (29-for-93), was led by Billy Thompson with 12 points.

The Pacers led 25-9 late in the first period before the Heat closed to 28-17 at the end of the quarter.

Miami then missed its first 11 shots in the second period and was outscored 18-1. Indiana led 46-18 with 7:52 remaining in the half after a 3-pointer by Chuck Person.

Hornets 119, Hawks 109

ATLANTA (AP) — Rex Chapman scored 12 points in the fourth quarter, including 7 in a row in the closing minutes, leading Charlotte to its first victory ever in Atlanta.

The Hornets, whose three-season record against Atlanta is 2-6, led 89-83 going into the fourth quarter, but the Hawks scored the first 4 points — two free throws by Dominique Wilkins and a basket by Duane Ferrell — to make it 89-87.

But the Hawks, who lost their third straight game, got no closer. Chapman's 7-0 streak came on two baskets and a 3-point shot, giving Charlotte a 115-106 lead with 2:26 left.

Armon Gilliam finished with 24 points and 11 rebounds, while Johnny Newman and Chapman each scored 22 and J.R. Reid 19 for Charlotte. For the Hawks, Wilkins had 27 points and John Battle 25.

Here's the NBA today

SCOREBOARD

Phoenix at San Antonio (8:30 p.m. EST). The Suns have bad memories of last year, when they lost all four meetings with the Spurs.

STARS

Thursday

Sam Perkins and Magic Johnson, Lakers: Perkins scored 29 points, three on a 28-foot jumper that forced overtime, made 11 of 14 from the field and grabbed eight rebounds while Johnson had 24 points, 16 assists and 10 rebounds as LA earned its second victory of the season, 108-103 in overtime at Houston.

Clyde Drexler, Trail Blazers, scored 31 points on 12 of 18 shooting and added eight assists as Portland beat New York 141-125 to improve to 7-0.

SHORTS

Rookie Dennis Scott of Orlando started, missed two shots in three minutes and was benched for the rest of the night when the Magic beat Utah 102-99 in overtime on Thursday. Hot-handed Jerry Reynolds replaced Scott and finished with 22 points on 8-for-10 shooting.

STATS

Portland, the league's only unbeaten team, has trailed only once — by 2-0 against Denver — in its last four games. . . . Houston was 4-for-18 from 3-point range in its 108-103 overtime loss to the Lakers on Thursday. . . . Chicago attempted only 14 free throws, 20 fewer than Golden State, in its 103-93 loss on the Warriors' home court. . . . Sacramento missed 17 of its 35 free throw attempts in its 122-93 loss to San Antonio.

STREAKS

Denver snapped its losing streak at seven with a 121-108 victory over Minnesota on Thursday. . . . Orlando has won two straight at home after losing an NBA-record 16 in a row on its home court. . . . Sacramento's 122-93 loss to San Antonio was its 12th straight dating back to last season. The Kings, 0-6, are the league's only winless team.

SLOW NIGHT

Michael Jordan endured one of the least productive nights of his career on Thursday, taking only 12 shots and scoring only 14 points in 38 minutes as the Bulls lost 103-93 at Golden State. The point total was the four-time scoring champion's lowest since March 14, 1987, when he had 13 against Washington. For his career, Jordan has averaged only 21.4 points in seven games at Oakland Coliseum Arena, by far his lowest average in any NBA building.

STAMINA

apiece as the trio combined for 68 points.

STARTERS

Journeyman center Greg Kite of Orlando played 48 of a possible 53 minutes in the Magic' 102-99 victory against Utah on Thursday. Kite, averaging 32.6 minutes and 7.6 rebounds per game, shared game honors with 12 boards.

SWINGS

Utah, which last season led the league with a .505 shooting percentage, dropped to .432 this season with a 36-for-88 showing in its 102-99 loss at Orlando on Thursday.

SUPER TROIKA

Portland guards Clyde Drexler, Terry Porter and Danny Ainge combined to shoot 28-for-38 (73.7 percent) from the field, including 6-for-6 from 3-point range, in the Trail Blazers' 141-125 victory over New York on Thursday. The trio finished with 69 points, 24 assists, 5 steals and 5 turnovers.

Cathey wins by one vote on ballot recount

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A recount of absentee ballots Friday in the Precinct 4 commissioner race has reversed the original result and put Democratic nominee Bobby Cathey ahead by one vote, 851-850. Of 148 previously uncounted votes, he got 100.

Republican Robert Crenshaw will remain the commissioner-elect pending an official recount or another election, which could be ordered in 118th District Court if a suit were filed by Cathey. Cathey indicated he would file suit.

An unofficial recount of the precinct 402 absentee ballots was conducted at the Howard County courthouse by three auditors from the Secretary of State's office after an apparent mistake was found in a computer count of votes for that precinct in the Nov. 6 election. The computer recorded 168 ballots but counted no more than 14 votes in any one race.

Cathey originally had 11 absentee votes to Crenshaw's three but that changed to 111-51 after the recount. The overall count in that precinct, which includes neighborhoods near Big Spring High School, increased from 119-113 in Cathey's favor to 219-161.

Cathey said he will talk to a lawyer early next week. "I think Robert would do the same thing if it were the other way around. One vote's all it takes," said Cathey shortly after the auditor results were released about 5:30 p.m. "If it comes out in Robert's favor, that's what I want. If it comes out in my favor, that's what I want," he said.

Crenshaw said he has already talked to a lawyer. "I'm sure he'll take it to court and we'll see what the district court does," he said. "I feel like things will be all right, win or lose. I'm a competitor."

He did say the results surprised him. "I was surprised it came up that close," he said.

No other county or state races could be reversed by the margin of votes that were uncounted in the Pct. 402 absentee votes.

Ray, who said she called in state officials because of the possibility that the commissioner race could be reversed, said there is nothing else her office will do until given orders by a district judge.

Judge Robert Moore, of the 118th District Court, said he is not aware of any authorization his office has for action on the matter. The law is clear on such matters, he said Friday night, that if an election contest suit is filed on a non-statewide election, the resident district judge is disqualified from hearing the case.

Moore said it is his understanding that there is a 30-day deadline — presumably from the date of the official vote canvass — for an election contest suit to be filed. Under that period, any suit would have to be filed during the first week of December.

The state auditors, Ray said, also counted the Pct. 402 absentee votes in the race for Supreme Court chief justice and Howard County district clerk as spot checks on statewide and at-large county races. In addition, they counted boxes in three other precincts to check for other possible counting mistakes.

'Galleria Rapist' remains at large

ROSHARON (AP) — More than 300 lawmen searched a five-mile area near Rosharon Friday for an escaped prison inmate once known as the "Galleria Rapist."

Eight packs of bloodhounds and mounted and foot patrols searched the area near the Ramsey I Unit through thick fog Friday for Donald Eugene Dutton, 41.

Dutton, who was serving a life sentence for various sexual offenses, fled the Ramsey Unit before 6 a.m. Thursday with another inmate.

About six hours later, authorities arrested Nolen Leroy Moore, 48, about at a house he broke into about four miles from the prison.

Moore was also serving a life sentence for various rape and sexual assault convictions.

Dutton, formerly of Jacinto City, was dubbed the "Galleria Rapist" when he was arrested in 1987 for a series of knife-point attacks in southwest Houston.

Dutton previously had been sentenced to two 20-year prison terms in 1980, after he pleaded guilty to aggravated rape and burglary with intent to rape. While the terms were meant to be served consecutively, prison officials misread his paperwork and released Dutton on parole in June 1987.

Dutton was re-arrested by Houston police in October 1987 in connection with attacks on at least seven women.

Texas Department of Criminal Justice spokesman Mike Moore said authorities believe the two inmates stole a key to a gate. They then threw a blanket over the wire topping the prison fence and fled sometime between 3 and 6 a.m. Thursday.

Dutton was convicted in Harris County on two counts of aggravated rape, aggravated sexual assault with a deadly weapon.

Richards' first pick is campaign manager

SOUTH PADRE ISLAND (AP) — Vacationing Gov.-elect Ann Richards said Friday she has "read a lot of trash books" during the past week and given little thought to major appointments.

She did say that she wants her campaign manager to lead the transition team. But her campaign manager, Mary Beth Rogers, was non-committal Friday about the transition job.

"I haven't gotten her to say so yet," Ms. Richards said while walking by the sand dunes. "I hope she will."

Ms. Rogers, who also works for Ms. Richards as first deputy state treasurer, said, "She didn't announce that did she? We haven't made any decisions."

The governor-elect took time off from her week-long vacation at South Padre Island for briefings on the governor's office from Ms. Rogers and Paul Williams, the deputy state treasurer. They met Friday at a beachside condominium owned by friends Mike and Betty McKool of Dallas. Mike McKool is a former Democratic state senator.

There has been much speculation in Austin since the Nov. 6 election over whom the new Democratic governor will appoint to important state posts. Those appointments include secretary of state and a pending vacancy on the Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's oil and gas industry.

The commission will have a vacancy after the first of the year when Commissioner John Sharp takes over the comptroller's office. Sharp was elected comptroller Nov. 6.

"We haven't even discussed it," Ms. Richards said of the pending appointments. "I'm not in any hurry about that."

Bill Cryer, her press secretary, said the first task was to brief Ms. Richards on "basic information about the governor's office."

"I think these first appointments are important," Ms. Richards said. "I think they set the tone for what the administration is going to be like."

She said she plans to return to Austin on Sunday to start working on the transition next week.

Ms. Richards said she has spent her vacation walking on the beach, visiting with friends and family and has read "a lot of trash books and magazines." She has been staying at a beach house owned by Austin writer Bill Wittliff.

She said she has tried to get her mind off the campaign. She also says she holds no ill feelings toward Republican opponent Clayton Williams.

"I had a few days by myself," she said. "It's kind of a nice re-entry into the real world, to bring you back."

Truck overturns, sparks fire

SAN ANGELO (AP) — A Ballinger man suffered minor injuries after the fuel truck he was driving overturned and caught fire in this West Texas town early Friday.

Noel Klane Field, 24, walked away from the incident with minor injuries.

But flames fed by crude oil melted guard rails and damaged bridge supports on the upper overpass, which connects Loop 306 with U.S. 87, and a lower overpass for traffic en route to Big Lake.

Both overpasses have been closed to traffic pending removal of debris and safety inspections by state bridge experts, the San Angelo Standard-Times reported.

One of eight Goodfellow AFB firefighters assisting 25 city firefighters was overcome by heat and smoke, officials said. He was treated at Shannon Medical Center and discharged.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran's foreign minister said Friday after returning from Iraq that Saddam Hussein had not ruled out withdrawing from Kuwait.

The Iranian official, Ali Akbar Velayati, spoke in an interview with Tehran television a day after returning from a two-day visit to Baghdad. He met twice with his Iraqi counterpart, Tariq Aziz, and once with Saddam.

The lack of a joint communique by the nations, foes during the 1980-88 gulf war, indicated the talks were chilly.

Asked about the effects of the U.N. economic sanctions, Velayati said "the Iraqi government itself did not try to conceal that the sanctions have after all affected them." He did not elaborate.

Velayati said it seemed Baghdad had not decided whether it would keep Kuwait.

"One cannot say with certainty that it will go either way, staying in Kuwait, and putting into practice the annexation of Kuwait, or the withdrawal from Kuwait," he said in the television interview, monitored in Nicosia.

Velayati said he stressed that Iran believes international borders are inviolable.

"We did not prevaricate. Although we preserved the positive trend of our talks, we stressed to them our principle ... that as the Islamic republic we recognized, and still recognize, Kuwait as an independent country."

"We believe that Kuwait's independence must be returned to it," he said.

Iran and Iraq remained enemies until August, when Saddam unexpectedly agreed to Iran's conditions for a formal settlement of the 1980-88 war. Analysts said he was seeking to pacify his eastern flank to focus on the standoff with the U.S.-led multinational forces deployed in the gulf region after Iraq seized Kuwait.

Iran and Iraq reopened embassies in each other's capitals last month.

Bush embarks on trip to Europe and Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush got last-minute briefings on the Persian Gulf crisis Friday before embarking on a weeklong journey that will include a Thanksgiving visit with American forces sent to the Middle East.

Bush's first stop, early Saturday, was to be in Prague, to lay a wreath commemorating the first anniversary of Czechoslovakia's turn to democracy. The visit was the first ever by an American president. Hundreds of thousands of people were expected to pack into Wenceslas Square to hear him speak.

After celebrating Czechoslovakia's "Velvet Revolution," Bush is scheduled to fly to Germany to meet with Chancellor Helmut Kohl before heading on to Paris. There, he'll be reunited with longtime American allies in Europe — and former foes as well — in a treaty-signing ceremony that will push the Cold War further into the depths of history.

Bush went jogging Friday as he prepared for the transatlantic flight. He also wrapped up details on some domestic work, signed some legislation and went over briefing materials for his eight-day trip. A large part of the official talks during his travels will center on the U.S. military buildup in the Persian Gulf.

The president left from Andrews Air Force Base near Washington shortly before 7 p.m.

The White House announced that congressional leaders — Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, House Speaker Thomas Foley, Senate Republican leader Bob Dole and House Republican leader Robert Michel — accepted Bush's invitation to join him in Saudi Arabia for the holiday.

Dole said the leaders will leave

Washington Tuesday evening and return Friday. "I think it's a good indication," he said. "It sends a good signal, not only to the American people, but hopefully to Saddam Hussein, that there is bipartisanship and politics does stop at the water's edge."

Bush flies from Paris to Saudi Arabia to spend Thanksgiving Day with the troops he ordered to the Gulf region to stand against the Iraqi army of President Saddam Hussein in the wake of the invasion and takeover of Kuwait.

Bush vowed Thursday that despite the massive buildup that will put more than 400,000 U.S. troops in the region, he does not intend to embark on a no-win war akin to Vietnam.

"I will not, as commander-in-chief, ever put somebody into a military situation that we do not win — ever," he said in an interview with CNN.

"And there's not going to be any long drawn-out agony of Vietnam."

But Bush also said he could understand the public's growing uneasiness with his military buildup "because they are thinking, we don't want to have a drawn-out Vietnam."

He said he wanted a strong U.S. offensive capability in the Middle East to send a "clear clarion signal to Saddam Hussein, we are deadly serious" about Iraq retreating from Kuwait, which it invaded Aug. 2.

During his trip, Bush will take the opportunity to discuss the Persian Gulf problem with members of the 34-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, including Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., right, is sworn in by Senate Ethics Committee Chairman Howell Heflin of Alabama as Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., watches, center, dur-

'Keating Five' deny wrongdoing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators under investigation for helping Charles H. Keating Jr. battle federal banking regulators emotionally defended their integrity and denied any wrongdoing Friday before the Senate Ethics Committee.

"John Glenn does not peddle influence, period," the Ohio Democrat told the panel of fellow senators. Sen. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., held up a jigsaw puzzle and said the committee special counsel was missing some key pieces when he negatively described Riegle's conduct.

The committee turned to personal defense statements by the "Keating Five" senators after the counsel, Robert Bennett, wound up a day and a half detailing accusations and evidence against them.

In addition to Riegle and Glenn, Sens. John McCain, R-Ariz. and Alan Cranston, D-Calif. presented their statements. Cranston and Riegle showed considerable emotion in their appeals for exoneration.

The hearing adjourned until Monday, leaving only Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. to make his defense statement. After he speaks, witnesses will be called.

Bennett concentrated on Cranston, the Senate's No. 2

Democrat, on Friday, saying his help for Keating and the businessman's failing Lincoln Savings and Loan was "closely connected" to political donations from Keating.

Cranston, suffering from prostate cancer and making his first appearance at the hearings, was defiant in his denials.

"I engaged in no unethical conduct," he said firmly. "You know that I broke no law. . . You know that I broke no Senate rule. . . You know that I pocketed no money, that there was no personal gain for me or any member of my family."

Oil spill occurs in rough seas

BOSTON (AP) — A Norwegian-flagged oil tanker spilled between 4 million and 6 million gallons of crude oil when it hit rough seas in a storm in the Atlantic Ocean earlier this week, the Coast Guard said Friday.

The tanker, named the Berge Broker, spilled Arabian light crude oil about 700 miles southeast of Nova Scotia on Tuesday, said Lt. Richard Gill of the U.S. Coast Guard in Boston.

The tanker, bound for Newfoundland, apparently encountered an Atlantic storm, but it was not known if the storm directly caused the oil spill, Gill said.

The captain of the Berge

Broker apparently notified the Norwegian Consulate in New York about the incident. Calls placed to the consulate and its spokesman after business hours Friday were not immediately returned.

The U.S. Coast Guard was informed by Norwegian authorities that no assistance was needed, Gill said.

Jim McGrenachan, a spokesman for the Coast Guard in New York, said the ship had a hole in one tank but it was not in danger of sinking.

"Some oil has been released," McGrenachan said. "The tanker was in rough seas. Right now we're not even responding."

Trump financial plan draws OK

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Trump and investors in his Taj Mahal casino agreed Friday to a restructuring of the gambling parlor's debt that will briefly put it under bankruptcy-court protection and give bondholders half ownership.

Some details of the arrangement were still to be worked out, but bondholder representatives said it contained several incentives for Trump to improve the performance of the Taj Mahal, which has been unable to break even since its April 2 opening in Atlantic City.

The deal was reached about 12 hours after Trump missed a $47.3 million interest payment on $675 million worth of high-yield junk bonds used to finance the Taj Mahal. The bondholders had threatened to push Trump into bankruptcy proceedings and seize control of the casino.

Under a compromise arrangement, Trump and his investors agreed to restructure the debt in what is known as a "prepackaged" bankruptcy filing that will enable the casino to emerge from court protection within weeks, TRUMP negotiators said.

TRUMP negotiators said.

"The result is turning out to be a very positive one," Trump said at a joint news conference with representatives of the bondholders' group.

Texas mother draws life penalty

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) — A mother was sentenced to life in prison Friday for smothering her 4-year-old son and now faces charges in Texas in the deaths of four other children, three of them her daughters.

Diana Lumbrera, 32, repeated her innocence when Finney County District Court Judge J. Stephen Nyswonger sentenced her to life in the Kansas Penitentiary.

"All I've got to tell you is that I didn't murder my son the way you all are accusing me," Mrs.

Lumbrera said.

She was convicted Oct. 3 in the death of her son, Jose Antonio Lumbrera, in her Garden City home last May.

In August, a Parmer County, Texas, grand jury indicted Mrs. Lumbrera in the deaths of three daughters — 3-month old Joanna Lumbrera, 2-year-old Melinda Ann Garza and 3-year-old Melissa Lumbrera. The three girls died between 1976 and 1982, before she moved to Kansas.

Happy Birthday, dear orchestra

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The party favors were there, the cake was decorated and the audience members could leave Friday's 90th birthday concert for the Philadelphia Orchestra saying they had sung at the Academy of Music.

The audience's part of the program was the old favorite "Happy Birthday." The orchestra's part was a little more highbrow — Beethoven's "Symphony No. 5" and Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto No. 1," plus selections from the works of Goldmark, Weber, Berlioz and Wagner.

The program was the very one the orchestra followed in its first concert, Nov. 16, 1900.

But the nostalgia was not shared by everyone who can still remember the old days and recount such accomplishments as the world premieres, the first electrical recording by an American symphony, the first stereo recording by an American symphony, the first radio broadcast in 1929 and the first television broadcast in 1948.

Bahrain emer in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The emir of Bahrain is receiving medical care at the Cleveland Clinic, according to an official of the Persian Gulf country's embassy in Washington.

The unidentified official told The Plain Dealer newspaper that Sheik Isa bin Salman Al Khalifa, 57, flew to Cleveland from Bahrain on Wednesday for a routine checkup.

KHALIFA

The Cleveland Clinic is widely known for its coronary expertise and past treatment of leaders from the Middle East. A State Department official said the Arab leader suffered a heart attack Oct. 14.

Hospital officials on Friday refused to confirm the sheik's visit.

Bahrain is supporting the U.S. effort to oust Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

The Khalifa family has ruled the country since 1782. Sheik Isa became emir in 1961.

A sentimental country journey

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Carlene Carter is planning a sentimental journey with her father, Nashville crooner Carl Smith, on a cable television program.

Carter will perform the song "You Are the One," which Smith originally recorded in 1956 — the year she was born. Carter brought back the tune this year by recording it for her hit album "I Fell in Love."

Smith, 63, who has not performed publicly for five years, also will sing on the "Nashville Now" variety program Monday on The Nashville Network. He will perform his 1971 song "Red Door."

Susan Sizemore, a spokeswoman for the show, said Friday there are no plans for them to sing together.

Carter's mother is country music veteran June Carter Cash, now married to country star Johnny Cash.

Lithuanians lack British support

MOSCOW (AP) — Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis sought Friday to portray his four-day trip to Britain as a success, although he failed to win formal British support for Lithuanian independence.

In a speech to the parliament of the Baltic republic, Landsbergis said "the political forces of Britain support Lithuania's striving for independence" even though "the stand of the Thatcher government is more restrained."

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher met with Landsbergis during his visit this week. Apparently reluctant to add to President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's domestic woes, she did not endorse Lithuania's drive to secede from the Soviet Union.

Lithuania declared independence on March 11 but suspended the declaration last summer in return for the Kremlin's agreement to halt an economic embargo and enter talks. After weeks of preliminary meetings, the formal negotiations toward possible independence were scheduled to begin at the end of this month.

But Lithuanian Prime Minister Kazimiera Prunskiene said in an interview published Friday that the Lithuanian government would not hold talks with the national government headed by Soviet Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov.

Russians in power struggle

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev and Russian leader Boris N. Yeltsin took their power struggle to the legislature Friday, and demanded very different steps to rescue the economy and hold the Soviet Union together.

Gorbachev announced plans to remove military and government officials blocking his reform plans, but indicated he would not ask for the resignation of Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov.

Yeltsin, president of the Russian Federation, demanded Ryzhkov's ouster and the formation of a new leadership with strong representation from the nation's 15 restive republics.

Their conflicting speeches showed the two leaders were still far from resolving their differences and ending the paralysis of power in the Soviet Union.

Yeltsin had said after a private meeting with Gorbachev on Sunday that the two leaders would form committees to work out a power-sharing agreement, creating hope for a unified effort to end the country's economic crisis.

But Gorbachev told the SOVIET SHOPPERS SEEK FOOD.

Supreme Soviet legislature that Sunday's meeting was merely "routine," and he refused to give the Russian leader more national power.

This dead horse not to be beaten

LONDON (AP) — Authorities have banned an animal welfare group's advertisement showing a dead horse dangling by its neck from a meat hook on the grounds that it is too shocking.

The double-page advertisement of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals appeared in The Times of London, The Independent and other newspapers on Thursday.

Its aim was to win support for preventing the export of horses for slaughter to other European nations in 1992, when the 12-nation European Common Market is to abolish trade barriers.

After the ad was banned by the Advertising Standards Authority, it was run Friday by the London-based Guardian newspaper, with a blank space where the picture of the horse had been.

The caption read: "Unfortunately the photograph that should accompany the text opposite was withdrawn at the request of the Advertising Standards Authority."

A spokesman for the watchdog group said it ordered the ban because the ad "was likely to cause unnecessary offense and distress to the public."

Horse meat is virtually never eaten by Britons, but it is a regular part of the diet among French and other continental Europeans.

The text with the advertisement read: "The continentals love freshly butchered horse meat. When are we going to supply it?"

"Sadly, we are going to supply it after 1992. Because in 1992, it will once again become legal to transport live British horses to the continent for slaughter."

Daily sports paper sidelined by finances

NEW YORK (AP) — The National, the nine-month-old daily sports newspaper, is running into financial problems even as it tries to expand, has laid off 18 editorial employees to cut costs, a spokesman said Friday.

The layoffs, which amount to 6.5 percent of the company's total work force of about 275, offer the most concrete evidence to date of the privately held paper's difficulties in establishing itself with readers and advertisers as the first national sports daily in the United States.

The newspaper has encountered a very difficult environment for advertising, with companies cutting back on spending as the economy weakens.

The poor advertising market has driven some magazines out of business and has prompted some media companies to close bureaus, lay off reporters, seek concessions from remaining employees and impose austerity measures.

Spokesman Stephen Hammond said those being laid off at The National include mostly editorial support workers such as layout designers and copy editors at sites nationwide.

The National currently publishes nine metropolitan editions in cities spread from Boston to San Diego and plans to launch three more — in Philadelphia, Atlanta and Baltimore-Washington — in the next three months.

But the paper apparently has been spending more than expected when it was launched last winter with editions in New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Last week, the newspaper announced it was suspending publication of its Sunday issue after Nov. 25 because of low circulation and distribution difficulties. It will continue to publish on weekdays, Monday through Friday.

Also last week, the president and publisher of the paper, Peter O. Price, was stripped of day-to-day responsibilities for the operation and three top executives — the circulation director, assistant publisher and the finance and administration director — were fired.

The largest shareholder in the partnership that runs the paper, the Univisa unit of Mexico's Televisa entertainment and publishing company, put one of its U.S. executives, Jaime Davila, in charge of the National's operations.

A week ago, Editor in Chief Frank Deford told editorial staffers that a handful of jobs might have to be eliminated but that he hoped to do it through attrition rather than layoffs.

"That is what we hoped but nobody left," Hammond said.

Efforts to reach Deford on Friday were unsuccessful. Price and Davila also were said to be unavailable to the media.

Hammond was asked whether the layoffs, which he said reduced the number of editorial staffers at the paper to about 210, complete the cutbacks.

"I can't give you an honest answer on that," he said.

John Morton, who follows newspaper companies for the brokerage firm Lynch Jones & Ryan in Washington, said, "This was bound to happen."

"They are trying to create something we have not had before. Whenever you are inventing something new, there will be unexpected events," he said.

Morton said The National has had trouble competing for readers with the sports sections of metropolitan dailies.

In addition, it was launched during a "media recession," he said.

Lady Steers

Amber Fannin and point guard Vernice Ross, who scored seven points each. Kerry Burdette scored six points.

The AHS press forced seven Big Spring turnovers in the first three minutes, and the Lady Eagles led 11-2. Big Spring's first basket was scored on a Ross jumper, and their other first quarter baskets were scored by Burdette and Tessa Olague. AHS led 17-6 after one quarter.

It got worse in the second quarter as the Lady Eagles went on a 15-5 run in the first five minutes of the quarter. AHS led 38-18 at the half, and the game was over for all practical purposes.

Lady Steers coach George Martin said he was pleased with his team's effort. "I know those 12 little girls out there played their hearts out," said Martin. "Since I've been here they've always played hard. Abilene High has a tremendous ballclub.

"We've got a lot of work to do. Every game we take the floor before district we want to improve, and I did see some improvement tonight."

The schedule today has Coahoma playing Lubbock Estacado for consolation at 12:30 p.m.; Big Spring playing Snyder for third place at p.m., and Abilene High taking on Odessa Permian at 6 p.m. for the championship.

Shot put record holder's life changes in a hurry

ST. ALBANS, W.Va. (AP) — A stranger walks up to Randy Barnes in a restaurant and tells the world-record holding shot putter he's backing him in his bid to overturn a two-year suspension from competition.

"When all this blows over, I hope you set a record that won't be touched for 20 years," the man says.

The former Texas A&M star politely thanks him. As the man walks away, the 24-year-old, 300-pound shot putter replies quickly when asked if such support is more trouble than it's worth.

"Are you kidding?" Barnes said. "I'd be lonely without it."

Barnes' life has changed in a hurry. He reached a peak in May, when he set the world record with a throw of 75 feet, 10 1/4 inches. He's in a valley now, following the International Amateur Athletic Federation's decision earlier this month to impose the ban.

The IAAF, the governing body of world track and field, is basing the suspension on a drug test Barnes allegedly failed. But Barnes denies he ever has used steroids and believes his name will be cleared and the suspension lifted through an appeal to The Athletics Congress, the U.S. governing body.

The IAAF used shoddy procedure in conducting the test and someone could have tampered with his sample, Barnes said.

"There's not enough information," he said. "I'm not ready to point the finger at anyone yet ... When this thing finally blows over, I'll be anxious to hold a press conference and really vocalize my thoughts."

Barnes' first chance to fight the ban could come Dec. 22, the date tentatively selected for a hearing before TAC in Washington.

The outcome could go a long way toward deciding whether Barnes will be able to meet his goal of competing in the national indoor shot put championships on Feb. 24 at Princeton University.

The silver medalist in the 1988 Olympics said he's doing his part to compete at that meet.

He works out at a gym in his native St. Albans and spends "most of the days on the phone working to clear myself."

The workouts will keep him in good enough shape to return to the sport immediately if the suspension is lifted, Barnes said.

"My No. 1 goal is to make sure I'm ready, that this won't cripple my career," he said.

Still, he said it may not be the same if he returns to the top of the hill.

"I had the whole world in front of me," Barnes said. "This sounds so melodramatic, but it was like a fairy tale. You dream it and then you do it. I felt like anything was possible, and I still do. I don't consider myself washed up at all."

"... I'm trying not to become cynical, but it's opened up my eyes to the politics that are involved," he said. "I always thought you could just wrap yourself up in your own world and train hard ..."

Strangers often recognize Barnes and offer support, the athlete said. That has helped him stay upbeat.

But trips to the gym or out to eat are now a major undertaking, Barnes said.

"You get a real paranoid feeling," he said. "I've got faith in the TAC appeal and the process, but I don't have faith in the drug-testing process, and I'll have to do it again ... Unfortunately, I'm probably more well-known now than I was when I set the record. It's unfortunate, but that's just the way society is."

"People who don't know you pick up the paper and say, 'Why there's another one,'" Barnes said.

As for friends, "no one has turned their back on me, but it's become obvious who my friends are," he said. "I have a lot of them."
