This week's winner in the Herald's Football '90 contest is Pablo Martinez, Big Spring, with 15 correct answers and the closest guess in the tiebreaker. Martinez chose Houston to win by 34 points.

Second place goes to Herman Evans, also with 15 correct guesses. He predicted Houston would win by 24 points and Cleveland by 21.

Margie Talley is the third place winner. She also had 15 correct guesses but picked Houston to win by 24 points, Cleveland by 10.

Kentwood Grocery wins the advertisers contest.

Safe drivers to be rewarded

During the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday period, safe drivers will be rewarded for good driving habits.

The Big Spring Independent Insurance Agents Association announced it is sponsoring the Safe Driving Awards in association with the Big Spring Police Department.

During the holiday season, Thanksgiving through Christmas, Big Spring police will observe area drivers. If these drivers are following the traffic laws and are wearing their seat belts, they will be eligible to receive a $25 certificate.

The certificates will be redeemable at the following agencies; Southwestern Crop Insurance, E.P. Driver Insurance Agency, Inc., Patterson Agency, Reeder & Associates, A.J. Pirkle, Mancill Insurance Agency and Parks Agency, Inc.

A total of 21 certificates will be awarded.

Penneys collecting books for children

J C Penneys, located in Big Spring Mall, is participating in a nationwide effort to collect and distribute books to needy young people during the holiday season.

A collection box has been placed in the children's department at the Penneys store. Donations of "gently used" books for children and young adults will be distributed within the local community.

"This is basically a drive to promote literacy by making available books for young people. We hope, through this drive, to give books to children who might not have any of their own and to give them the opportunity to develop good reading habits," said Mara Wheeler, merchandiser at the local Penneys store.

The Spirit of Giving book drive will continue through Dec. 24.

Summit partners declare Cold War officially ended

PARIS (AP) — President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev led world leaders today in final rites for the Cold War as a 34-nation summit ended with a triumphant declaration that the "era of confrontation and division in Europe is over."

The celebration was tempered by concern over the Persian Gulf, and the leaders departed Paris still apparently groping for consensus on how to force Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

The final act of the first post-Cold War European summit was marked by the signing of the Charter of Paris, a written commitment to democracy, human rights and economic freedom. "We are closing a chapter in history. The cold war is over and we now move on toward working... toward a peaceful and stable Europe," said

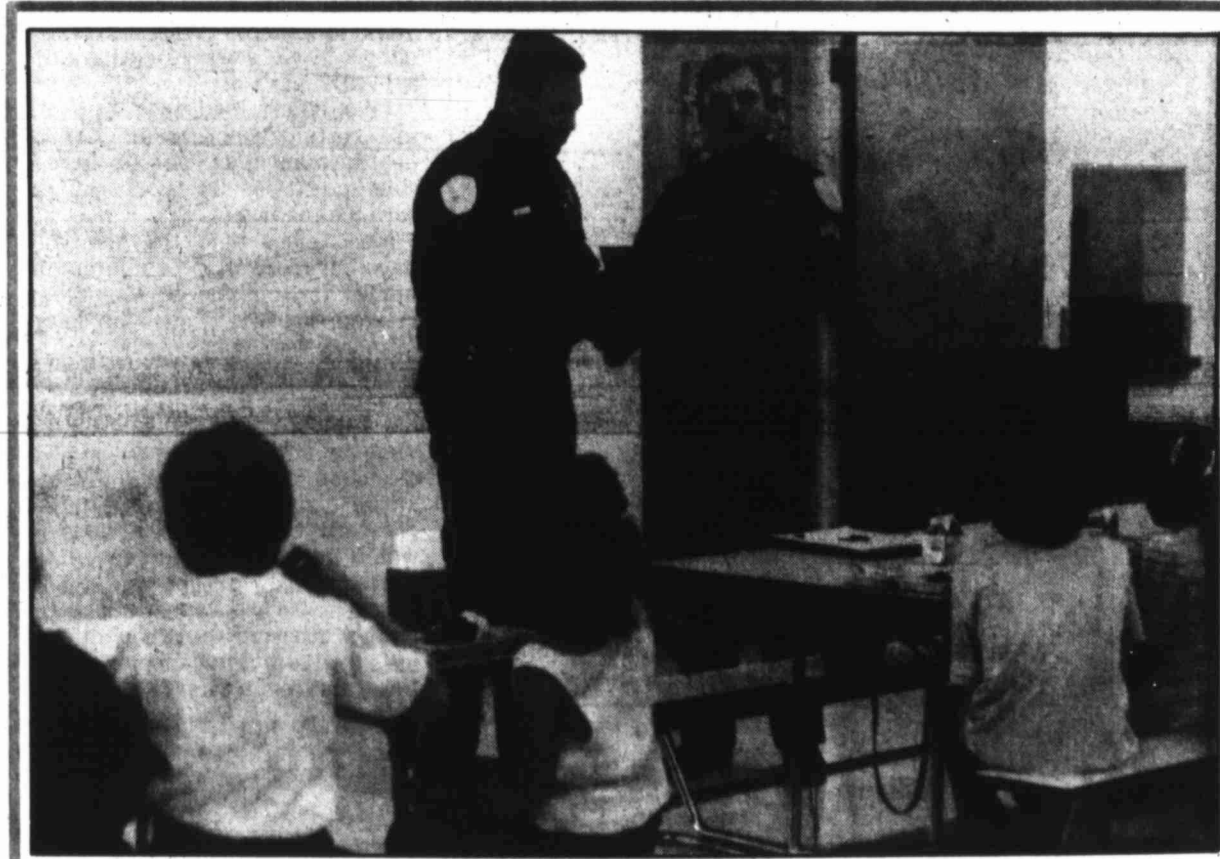

French President Francois Mitterrand was the first to sign. He was followed by Helmut Kohl, chancellor of a newly unified Germany, and the leaders of Poland, Hungary and other nations that until a few months ago were headline communist followers of the Soviet Union.

The summit opened on Monday with the formal signing of a landmark treaty that slashes non-nuclear forces in Europe and a companion non-aggression pact. But if the formal sessions were devoted to European security issues in the post Cold War era, President Bush devoted much of

It took only 15 minutes to sign the document, bound in red leather, which signaled an end to an era of tensions in the nuclear age.

VERSAILLES, France — Thirty-four heads of states and governments sat down for dinner in the Hall of Mirrors at the chateau of Versailles, west of Paris. The leaders were attending the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

Patrol officer gets adopted

BY MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Patrol officer Darrell Mitchell was adopted Tuesday.

Bauer Magnet School's first grade classes "adopted" the officer during lunch. Mitchell was awarded a "Certificate of Adoption" that entitles him to free school lunches and the best seat in the house for special assemblies or programs.

Sergeant Drew Bavin, the Big Spring police department's resource officer, said the Adopt-A-Cop program is now in its second year. The purpose of the program is to provide young children with an opportunity to meet police officers and to learn that cops are people too.

"The officers read to classes or play on the playground with the children. They also go to special assemblies once a month, things like that. This is mainly so they can be around and see the kids," Bavin said.

Currently 12 officers have been adopted by six elementary schools in the area. Marcy, Kentwood, Bauer, College Heights, Washington, and Moss schools have adopted police officers for their first grade classes. Last year Marcy Elementary had two officers adopted by first graders, and the two officers have remained with the class as it moved up.

"Every school is in a different stage of activity. Some are more active than others. Marcy was really active last year," Bavin said.

Another officer will be adopted at Bauer and at Marcy next week, he said.

"It doesn't take a whole bunch of time to do this. As soon as you walk out on the playground in the uniform, you're hoarded by kids," he said.

Mitchell has been a police officer for nine months. He and his family moved to Big Spring from Washington, D.C. Mitchell said he's originally from Odessa, and loves his job.

"I'll be coming by quite a bit. I'm fairly new at it, so I'm not sure, but I'll handle it as I go along," Mitchell said.

He said he volunteered for the program, and thinks he'll enjoy the time spent with the children.

"I like kids. They seem to express a certain interest, and seem pretty excited about it," Mitchell said. Mitchell and his wife Tammy have two children.

He stayed in the cafeteria for most of the lunch hour, talking with the children.

"We've been sitting here telling jokes, and they have been telling me about their delinquent brothers and sisters and dads," Mitchell said, laughing. He did express some reservation about the limited leg room available at the lunch tables in Bauer's school cafeteria.

Bavin said the other police officers participating in the Adopt-A-Cop program are: John Stowers, Darrell Peterson, Javier Becerra and Steve Sasser at Marcy; Jim Rider, Robert Doporto and Drew Bavin at Kentwood; Stan Parker and Lupe Liedeker at Moss; Robert Morales at College Heights.

Waste technology still 'experimental'

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

SWEETWATER — Hazardous waste incineration was described at a hearing Tuesday as an "experiment" in long term health effects and was linked to possible organized crime activities.

Although technology is adequate to operate lawful incinerators, testified experts at a special Senate-House subcommittee hearing, medical information and West Texas hospitals are inadequate. Also, it was pointed out, accidents do happen and must be prepared for.

The 1990 Joint Task Force on Waste Management Policy held the last of nine hearings and two workshops around the state in the wake of more than a dozen proposed hazardous waste burning facilities in the state, many of them in West Texas. Recommendations should be finalized next month and submitted to the Legislature in January, said a Task Force clerk.

Dr. Jonathan Ward of the Environmental Toxicology Division of the University of Texas at Galveston testified that information about cancer and birth defects caused by hazardous chemicals is limited because it must be gathered by surveying human populations. Only "educated guesses" on human effects can be made from animal laboratory experiments, he said.

"Risk assessment is a serious problem because of the difficulties in getting the information to do it," he said. "The toxicology technology is not adequate."

He said effects of incineration may not be known for up to a 100 years. "In other words it's going to be an experiment," he said. "But we'll go into it with our eyes closed."

Short-term effects include coughing, nausea, vomiting and "generally just feel(ing) lousy," said Dr. Daniel Teitelbaum of the Medical Toxicology Partnership, Denver, Colo., where a upgrading of the hazardous waste facility known as the Rocky Mountain Arsenal is occurring. He said finding out about the long-term effects will be a medical "adventure."

"It's a terrible concern. I don't know whether it's a terrible problem yet," he said. "We are in a sense embarking on a technology which has an uncertainty."

He also said that medical facilities in West Texas are inadequate for handling toxic poisoning emergencies.

Family devastated by tragic accident

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Two weeks ago 2-year-old Jacob Cortez was an active, busy toddler playing ball with his brother and sister. Today, he's lying on a couch in a room barren of other furniture, watching his brother and sister playing on the floor nearby. Jacob is unable to move his body or his legs because he's encased in plaster from his underarms to his feet. He holds a toy car in one hand and an apple in the other.

Jacob's mother, Rosemary Cortez, 24, sits beside him, anticipating his need for a drink of water, or just the reassurance that she's near. Jacob's big brown eyes look bewildered, reflecting the shock his small body has been through.

Jacob was the victim of a tragic accident at his home in Big Spring on Saturday, Nov. 10. While he was playing outside with his sister Priscilla, 6, and his brother Lee, 4, and two of his cousins, a friend of the family backed her car over him.

Jacob's mother and uncle were also outside, and witnessed the accident. Although the Big Spring police made a report, the accident occurred on private property and therefore was not public information, according to a police spokesman.

"It happened in about 10 seconds. He was standing beside me, holding his red ball. I saw her backing out, and I heard a big scream, and she was pulling back up the driveway. I just ran — I didn't know who (was screaming). He was lying on the pavement

School fails accreditation

DENTON (AP) — The Denton State School narrowly failed its first accreditation survey under a new set of standards despite high marks in a number of areas.

School spokeswoman Sue Ramsey said the school received 73.2 percent on approximately 600 standards necessary for accreditation. A passing grade is 75 percent.

Two other schools, in San Antonio and Austin, recently passed by narrow margins. This is the first year for schools to attempt to pass new standards by the Accreditation Council for Persons with Developmental Disabilities.

Ms. Ramsey told the Denton Record-Chronicle that the school scored low in two areas of the testing that ended Friday.

Jones memorial service reset

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A hospital memorial service for Stormie Jones, who made medical history as the first recipient of a heart and liver transplant, has been scheduled for Nov. 29.

The Children's Hospital service for the 13-year-old Texas girl who died Nov. 11 originally was planned for Wednesday, but was rescheduled to allow family members to attend.

Stormie received her new heart and liver at Children's in 1984. She lived an almost normal life for six years, but problems with hepatitis forced her to undergo another liver transplant earlier this year. Doctors said her death was caused by her body's rejection of transplanted heart.

Refund ruling upheld by judge

AUSTIN (AP) — The 3rd Court of Appeals affirmed a judgment requiring Energas Co. to refund a $17,055 overcharge to certain customers served by the company's Amarillo distribution system.

At issue were rates Energas, a natural gas utility, charged customers outside the city limit from January 1984 through December 1985.

Energas appealed to the 3rd Court, also in Austin, contending that the Railroad Commission had abused its discretion in reaching its decision.

But the 3rd Court rejected that pleading Wednesday.

Florida landing ends secret shuttle mission

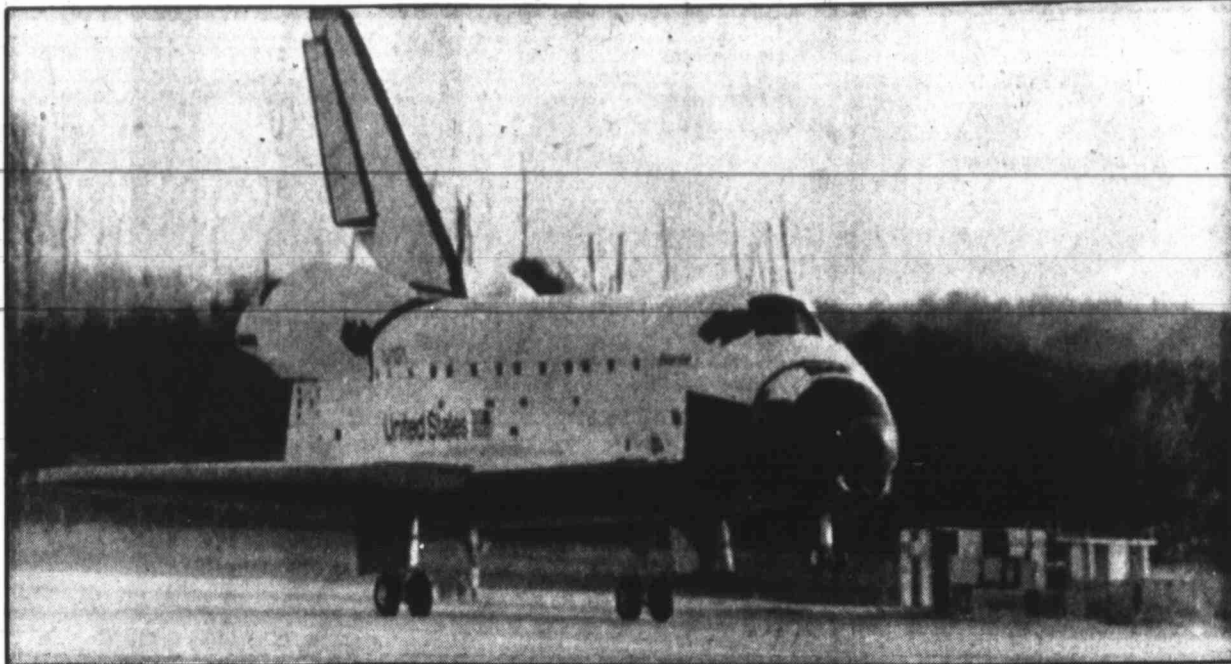

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Atlantis ended its secret mission where it began, making the first shuttle landing in Florida since 1985. Many NASA workers who launch the spaceships got their first chance to see one come back.

Rain-dampened desert runways and high wind kept Atlantis from landing in the California desert as planned. NASA opted for clear skies, calm winds and the concrete runway at Kennedy Space Center for touchdown Tuesday afternoon.

"We didn't expect to be here when we left," mission commander Richard Covey, an Air Force colonel, said after the spacecraft touched down.

During their secret Pentagon mission, Atlantis' five astronauts put in orbit a satellite to spy on Iraq. Atlantis' astronauts had planned to return on Monday, but high winds at Edwards Force Base, Calif., forced them to stay in space another day. Rain at the Mojave Desert base Monday night left the natural surface runways too wet on Tuesday, and the wind was too high for a landing on Edwards' concrete runway.

So NASA decided to use Kennedy, where Atlantis touched down on the 2.8-mile paved runway, its arrival heralded by its signature twin sonic booms. Kennedy workers, given just a few hours' notice, scrambled to prepare for the landing. About 250 people cheered the near-perfect touchdown. They included two busloads of launch control center workers who had counted down to Atlantis' fiery liftoff in an unusual nighttime launch five days earlier. "You have to remember that half the workforce (at Kennedy) has never seen a shuttle landing," said launch director Bob Sieck. "It's a real treat for them and of course we're thankful for it." It was the sixth shuttle landing at Kennedy. The last was in 1985, when Discovery blew a tire and sustained brake damage on touchdown.

Atlantis appeared to be in good shape, with only a few dings in the heat-resistant tiles, said William Lenoir, head of NASA's spaceflight program.

The shuttle had enough supplies to stay in orbit until Thursday if necessary.

The mission, delayed since July by hydrogen leaks, was the seventh and last secret shuttle flight for the Pentagon, which still plans to fly unclassified cargoes on two more shuttles but will use unmanned rockets for secret payloads.

The Pentagon ordered a news blackout on the mission, but sources said the crew deployed a satellite that will conduct photo surveys or eavesdrop on communications in the Persian Gulf.

"One of these days we'll be able to tell you about Dick and Frank and Carl and Bob and Sam's excellent adventure," Covey told a crowd of about 150 people on the crew's return to Houston hours after the landing. "For now, it'll have to remain under ropes and under tight cover."

The other crew members were pilot Frank Culbertson Jr., a Navy commander, and Army Maj. Charles "Sam" Gemar, Air Force Lt. Col. Carl Meade and Marine Col. Robert Springer, all mission specialists.

Boy kicked to death in apparent gang ritual

AUSTIN (AP) — A 16-year-old boy was kicked to death in what authorities said was a gang initiation ceremony designed to test his toughness.

Police said Paul Ruedas, a Crockett High School student, died after being hit by a spinning karate kick from a gang member that knocked him to the pavement.

But the boy's parents and friends said Ruedas wasn't likely to have wanted to join a gang. They say the attack may have stemmed from a disagreement with gang members.

The youth died Tuesday afternoon at Austin's Brackenridge Hospital, where he was taken by gang members after his head hit the pavement during his initiation Monday night, police said.

Authorities said Ruedas is the third person involved with the same gang to die this year.

The boy's mother, Frances Ruedas, said the only way her son would agree to join a gang is if he bowed to intimidation. "Instead of intimidating him further, they just beat him to death," she said.

Tony Robert Parrotte, 22, of Austin, surrendered to police Tuesday in the area where police said the initiation rite took place. He was being held in lieu of $40,000 bail on a charge of aggravated assault. That charge was filed before Ruedas died.

Police said Ruedas, a ninth-grader at Crockett, and another youth had been "walking the line" as part of an initiation into the gang. Walking the line is a rite in which gang members form a double column, or as in Ruedas' case, a circle, and hit the initiates as they walk past.

Police said Ruedas and another

Company to charge workers who smoke

DALLAS (AP) — The price smokers pay to light up on the job at Texas Instruments Inc. is going up.

The Dallas-based microchip and defense equipment manufacturer has announced a plan to begin charging a "smokers' premium" on health insurance for employees.

Beginning in July, smokers will pay at least $10 monthly for the privilege. The extra charge may affect as many as 10,000 of the company's 50,000 workers nationwide, a TI official said.

"We determined that smokers are costing more under the TI health plan than non-smokers," said Sue Nelson, TI's corporate insurance manager.

Ms. Nelson said the company pays out more than $4 million annually for claims on "smoking-related diseases," such as heart ailments and cancer. She said a smoker costs the company 50 percent more to keep on the plan than a non-smoker, but declined to provide the statistics to support that assertion.

The charges will apply to the company's basic health plan, for which TI pays 100 percent of its employees' premiums. The charges also will apply to the company's alternate health plan that uses health maintenance organizations and features smaller deductibles and other charges.

In either case, a smoker or user of other tobacco products will pay $10 a month for his or her own habit; another $10 a month if a spouse on a plan smokes; and yet another $10 a month if children covered by one of the plans also smoke.

The maximum additional charge is $30 a month.

The proposed fee is another chapter in TI's long history of anti-smoking measures, an official with a trade association for tobacco product manufacturers told The Dallas Morning News.

Tom Lauria, assistant to the president of The Tobacco Institute, said he believes TI is exaggerating the amount it pays to keep smokers insured.

"This is one of the highest discrepancies (in costs) I've ever heard of," Lauria said. "It's a record of sorts."

Four years ago, TI banned smoking in all work areas at its facilities in Dallas, including restrooms and hallways. The company spent between $400,000 and $500,000 to build facilities where employees could smoke.

Store pulls plug on gang game

AUSTIN (AP) — Austin 7-Eleven stores have pulled the plug on a video game called "Gang Wars" after complaints that the game's theme romanticized gang violence.

Kandy Hodkin of Games In Motion, a company that contracts with 7-Eleven to place video games in the convenience chain's stores in the area, said Tuesday that "Gang Wars" games were being removed from the 17 stores that carried them.

"Nearly all the popular videos have violence in them," Ms.

Hodkin said. "But with Gang Wars, there wasn't an obvious good guy." The arcade-style game features a youth dressed in a karate uniform who battles various gang members.

The video characters slash at each other with knives, throw broken street signs at each other, and commit other types of mayhem in computerized turf battles. Players rack up points according to how many punches or kicks they inflict on their opponents.

Blacks accuse police of racism

BOSTON (AP) — Black leaders accused police of a racist double standard for their low-key investigation of the gang-rape and murder of a young black woman.

Eight teen-agers were arrested Monday in the slaying of Kimberly Rae Harbour, 26, nearly three weeks after her mutilated body was found on a playing field near the housing project where she lived with her 7-year-old daughter.

Investigators said the woman was repeatedly raped, beaten with a bottle and a tree limb and stabbed more than 100 times on Oct. 31.

"The people of our community, particularly the women, were put at risk by the police when they failed to inform the community," said Louis Elisa, president of the Boston chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Police Commissioner Francis M. Roache said officers withheld details of the grisly slaying to avoid jeopardizing the investigation, but comparisons were immediately drawn to the Charles Stuart case.

Stuart, a white man, told police a black man had shot to death his pregnant wife. Police questioned blacks until evidence began to point to Stuart, who apparently jumped to his death in January when he learned he was a suspect.

Man who burned himself identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who burned himself to death on the steps of the Capitol has been identified as a Vietnamese newspaper publisher who recently moved from California to Washington.

Authorities were unable to identify Nguyen Kim Bang, 56, after the Monday incident because he was burned beyond recognition. He doused himself with a flammable liquid and set himself afire on the steps of the Capitol's West Front.

A law enforcement official who spoke on condition of anonymity identified the man Tuesday and said he moved here two months ago to help start a newspaper in northern Virginia.

Acquaintances said he had been distressed about the treatment of his fellow countrymen in Germany and about his own strained ties with a newspaper in California, the Vietnam Daily News of San Jose.

The law enforcement official and acquaintances said Bang evidently had spent time in a "re-education" camp after North Vietnamese communists overran the South and later became one of the boat people who fled Vietnam by sea.

Cave-in hampers traffic, utilities

WASHINGTON (AP) — A construction site cave-in four blocks from the White House tied up traffic, forced businesses to evacuate and threatened to cut power to portions of downtown.

United Press International had to abandon its headquarters adjacent to the scene of the collapse, but the news service continued to operate with help from a rival agency, Reuters, and from National Public Radio.

A 100-foot-long section of sidewalk and part of a downtown street slid into the 4-story-deep hole Tuesday as workers tried to shore up the construction site from the initial collapse Monday night. No injuries were reported.

Thatcher fails to stop party challenge

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher returned home early today from a 34-nation summit in Paris to fight in Parliament for her political survival.

Mrs. Thatcher suffered one of the sharpest defeats in her 11½ years in power on Tuesday by failing to stop a party leadership challenge by former defense minister Michael Heseltine in the first round of voting among Conservative Party lawmakers.

With Mrs. Thatcher weakened politically and her long-governing party severely split, the opposition Labor Party — leading in opinion polls — is scenting victory.

Heseltine said today he expected to gain support as he presses his challenge to Mrs. Thatcher's 11-year-old government.

Mrs. Thatcher, Europe's longest-serving prime minister, fell just short of the 15 percent margin she needed to avoid a second round of voting.

She received receiving 204 votes to 152 for Heseltine in the secret ballot, with 16 lawmakers abstaining.

Conservative Party legislators, who hold 372 seats in the 650-seat House of Commons, will vote for a second time next Tuesday, and Mrs. Thatcher would be expected to step down as prime minister if she does not emerge victorious.

Mrs. Thatcher, who was in Paris for the 34-nation summit on European security, said she planned to be in the House of Commons today to make a statement on the summit on European security.

On Thursday, she is expected to lead the debate on a motion of no confidence proposed Tuesday night by opposition Labor Party leader Neil Kinnock.

"To show up (at the summit) during a traumatic election process showed her fiber and her stamina," President Bush said today in Paris. "A lot of people might have said it's been too traumatic a day and gone back to their hotel, but not Margaret Thatcher."

Prime minister swears in cabinet

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Chandra Shekhar today presented a 32-member Cabinet dominated by loyalists who helped propel him into office after political and religious turmoil sank the previous government.

The ministers who took their oaths of office include just two with a long history in the top ranks of national government.

Seven others served as junior ministers during Prime Minister V.P. Singh's government, which lasted just 11 months, but sided with Chandra Shekhar when he split Singh's Janata Dal Party two weeks ago.

Singh lost a vote of confidence on Nov. 6, and Chandra Shekhar replaced him four days later.

No portfolios were announced during the swearing-in ceremony, but Press Trust of India said Chandra Shekhar retained the top ministerial posts in defense, home affairs and information and broadcasting for himself.

The swearing-in ceremony at the presidential palace was marred when police beat journalists, snatched cameras and kicked them out of the palace.

"This is a brutal act by the police," Subodh Kant Sahay, minister of state for home affairs in the new government, said later. Sahay held the same post in the previous government.

Leftist leaders arrested in Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Security officers have arrested 28 leftist leaders on charges of plotting armed revolution and instigating violent labor and campus protests, police and news reports said today.

Police said that since the crackdown began last month, 13 radical student and labor leaders have been arrested on charges of organizing the Workers Struggle League, with 170 members at 60 factories in five cities.

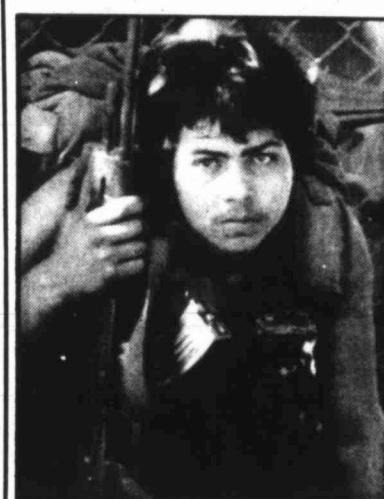

Police said the group has sought an armed revolution led by students and workers to topple the government of President Roh Tae-woo and establish a communist state.

The group has operated a phony trading company in Seoul, the Jaeil (first) Planning Co., and ordered workers and students to set up revolutionary bases in factories, police said.

Police said the group has described South Korea as a U.S. colony and campaigned for the ouster of what they called the nation's pro-U.S. dictatorship. About 43,000 U.S. troops are stationed in the country under a mutual defense pact.

Attacks may threaten peace talks

YOUNG GUERRILLA

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Alfredo Cristiani says a spate of new rebel attacks could derail peace talks, but the rebels say the attacks intend to pressure Cristiani into returning to the negotiating table.

Fighting broke out in half of El Salvador's 14 provinces on Tuesday, with a series of rebel strikes that began early in the day leaving at least 27 people dead and 141 wounded, officials at the scene said.

Sporadic shooting could be heard during the night on the outskirts of San Salvador.

More than 73,000 people have been killed, nearly half of them civilians, since the civil war began in October 1979.

Postal dispute unsettled, goes to arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute over wages and job security for 660,000 unionized Postal Service workers was sent into binding arbitration early today after negotiators failed to meet a midnight contract deadline and called off further talks.

Union leaders accused Postal Service officials of refusing to bargain with them while Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank said the unions' demands would have "priced the Postal Service out of business."

No disruption in mail service was expected because federal law prohibits postal workers from striking.

"It was a charade. We waited untold hours by the telephone for their phone calls," Vincent Sombrotto, president of the 234,000-member National Letter Carriers Union, said at a midnight news conference at the hotel where the Postal Service had held talks with its four largest unions.

Frank, holding his own news conference minutes later, said workers' demands for a $50 billion pay increase package was an "off the wall" proposal that had derailed the collective bargaining process.

Under federal law, a fact-finding commission will be established, under direction of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, to review the dispute. It will report back to both sides within 45 days. If management and labor still can't reach agreement, an arbitration panel will settle the dispute.

The arbitration process could take more than three months.

Government vs. Noriega

If Manuel Noriega ultimately escapes justice, the U.S. government may have only itself to blame. By taping phone conversations between the ousted Panamanian dictator and his legal counsel, in apparent violation of attorney-client privilege, the government has provided him excellent grounds on which to seek dismissal of the drug-trafficking charges against him.

Yet, instead of concerning itself with this potential infringement on Noriega's Sixth Amendment right to a fair trial, the Justice Department is intent on finding out how the highly sensitive tapes fell into the hands of the Cable News Network.

CNN aired excerpts of Noriega's conversations last weekend. Noriega's attorneys claim the tapes were leaked to the Atlanta-based network by a Panamanian government official, who obtained copies from the State Department. If that is true, it could drastically undermine the government's case against Noriega.

CNN is being cast as the heavy in this drama for airing the controversial tapes. The U.S. attorney successfully sought an injunction against CNN's broadcasting the tapes, on the basis that they "should not be played under the fair trial concept."

But it can hardly be said that CNN is the irresponsible party in this matter. It merely exercised its First Amendment prerogative to broadcast whatever news material it gathers. Nonetheless, CNN's attorneys agreed to abide by the injunction until the Supreme Court reviews the matter later in the week. The Supreme Court would have to turn its back on decades of constitutional precedent to uphold the lower court's censorship, which is a clear case of unconstitutional prior restraint.

After the broadcast issue is resolved, the courts can concern themselves with the overriding issue of the government's recording of confidential conversations between Noriega and his lawyer. CNN's revelation that such tapes exist suggests that the prosecution might hold an unfair advantage over Noriega. It is on that basis that Noriega's defense team is expected to seek a dismissal of all the charges against him.

Noriega's bid to have the charges dismissed may hinge on the constitutionality of the Bureau of Prison's taping policies. The bureau, which operates the prison in Miami where Noriega is being held, notifies prisoners that their calls are subject to eavesdropping unless they specifically inform authorities that the calls are for legal business.

There indeed may be legitimate cause for the government to monitor some calls by prisoners — if, for instance, there is reasonable suspicion that criminal transactions, such as drug deals, are being conducted by phone. But it is hard to find justifiable grounds for the government to listen in on a prisoner's chats with his legal counsel.

The federal government has dropped the ball not once but twice in the Noriega case. It should not have taped his conversations with counsel and it should not have disseminated copies of the tapes to external parties. The fervent hope here is that the government has not so compromised its case against Noriega that he will one day walk away on technicalities.

Bush and Iraq: Time for standing firm

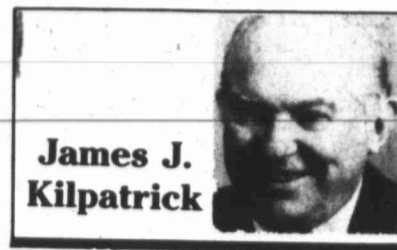

WASHINGTON — A dilemma, by definition, is the unavoidable choice between two equally unattractive alternatives. Since Aug. 2, when Iraq invaded Kuwait, President Bush has been impaled on a dilemma's horns. Now he has another tough decision to reach.

The choice on Aug. 2 was clear. Bush was damned if he intervened and damned if he didn't. He chose to send in the 82nd Airborne Division. In the beginning he enjoyed apparent widespread support. To listen to the radio talk shows, that support is slowly eroding. The president's approval rating has fallen under 50 percent. He needs a boost.

Once again he faces a hard choice, between calling or not calling Congress back into session.

The risks are evenly balanced. If Bush could be assured that a resolution of firm support for his action would be overwhelmingly adopted, it would be worth the effort. Such a gesture by Congress would carry a strong message to Saddam Hussein in Iraq that American resolve has not wavered. The president's hand would be strengthened. A ringing resolution of congressional approval would encourage our allies in this venture.

The Senate meanwhile was engaged with its own Concurrent Resolution 147. It was a much shorter document, carrying the uncertain beat of muffled drums. In the Senate version, Congress "strongly approves the leadership

James J. Kilpatrick

The trouble is that the leadership cannot give such assurance. Let us recall a recent piece of dumb-show.

In the House, Rep. Dante Fascell of Florida took the lead in crafting House Joint Resolution 658. It was a long document that began by condemning Iraq's unprovoked aggression and went on to "affirm" the president's five stated objectives and to "support" the deployment of troops in the Persian Gulf region. The resolution concluded by acknowledging that Bush had reported his actions to Congress in compliance with the War Powers Resolution of 1973. On Oct. 1 the House passed HJR 658 by the resounding vote of 380-29.

The Senate meanwhile was engaged with its own Concurrent Resolution 147. It was a much shorter document, carrying the uncertain beat of muffled drums. In the Senate version, Congress "strongly approves the leadership of the president in successfully pursuing" the adoption of U.N. resolutions. Congress "approves the actions taken by the president in support of" the five goals. And Congress "supports continued action by the president in accordance with United States constitutional and statutory processes to deter Iraqi aggression and to protect American lives and vital interests in the region." On Oct. 2 the Senate approved its concurrent resolution by a vote of 96-3.

The House sent its resolution to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It died there. The Senate sent its resolution to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. It died there. It was an ignominious performance all the way.

If this was the best Congress could do in the first week of October, what could be expected of Congress in the first week of December? The president urgently needs an expression of strong bipartisan support. What he does not need is a tentative, watered-down, Milquetoast resolution, adopted by a widely divided vote. An irresolute resolution would be worse than no resolution at all.

Other avenues ought to be explored for providing the moral support that Bush deserves. House and Senate leaders made a helpful gesture by joining the president this week in Saudi Arabia. If major national organizations — veterans groups, labor unions, patriotic societies, professional and trade associations — would adopt well-publicized expressions of support, they could strike a blow against the rising voices of discontent.

And these voices are rising. The press has to cover the visit to Iraq by Ramsey Clark. This notorious peacemaker may be a limp noodle, but his name makes news. Student protesters are always good for a photograph. Those who fear another Vietnam are entitled to be heard — but they ought not to be the only voices that are heard.

Bush is right in what he has done so far. He has stated the five goals clearly and repeatedly: to achieve Hussein's unconditional withdrawal, to restore the legitimate government of Kuwait, to provide for stability in the Persian Gulf, to protect American lives and to move toward a new world order of peace. His policies are to stop aggression, to help our friends and to protect our national self-interest in Middle Eastern oil.

These are sound goals and prudent policies. It is high time for those who support the president to let him know it.

Something for everyone at concert

To the editor: I want to say thank you to the Big Spring Symphony Association and the Board of Directors, with whom I became great friends: Keith Ross; Gil Oxendine; my country buddy, Suzanne Haney; Phyllis Graumann; Steve Comstock; Virginia Martin; Ricky Mitchell; Pam Welch and Melinda Clark. Everyone involved did a lot of hard work.

The Big Spring Symphony Orchestra did an outstanding job. Also, thanks to Gene Smith, the conductor, for his help in our arrangements and Ed George, Abilene, for writing them... and my fantastic band, the Texas Cowboys, the finest people and musicians anywhere.

The concert and dance were a great success — a lot of hard work went into this. It was a major production, and you the people of Big Spring and surrounding areas who supported it, made it work. I was honored to work with these people. If you missed it, you missed a great evening. I hope everyone enjoyed it as much as I did. There was something for everybody.

'The picture' served the community

To the editor: It appears to me that the publication of "the picture" (the haunted house, Oct. 28) is serving a good purpose. Parents and other thinking people have been helped to understand that the Herald, in actuality, has done us a favor. We needed to know that scene was a part of the haunted house.

Photographer Tim Appel does an excellent job of capturing reflections of activities and incidents in our community. The abundance of good photos adds to the pleasure we experience from reading the Herald.

The organization which sponsored the haunted house had the intention of doing good. A haunted house is supposed to frighten people. People pay money to be scared. A case in point is Stephen King's horror novels. Another is the glut of movies designed to strike terror to the heart of viewers.

I'm impressed with what schools, churches, parents, senior citizens, businesses and friendly neighbors all over town have done to make celebrating Halloween good fun. Since reading Mr. Wernsman's editorial, I feel this issue has evolved in a helpful way. Next year people can choose Halloween activities better informed.

The gift of Thanksgiving Day

The gift of Thanksgiving Day
What I like most about our Thanksgiving Days is you don't have to buy anybody a gift.

You have to buy gifts on Christmas, of course, and then there's Valentine's Day, and I once dated a girl who became irate because I showed up at her house on Ground Hog's Day with no gift.

"How thoughtless," she said. On Thanksgiving all you have to do is show up and eat.

I like a holiday like that. It's simple and requires very little effort.

Buying gifts for somebody is a lot of work. First, you have to go to a mall and find a parking place. When they build a mall they never build enough parking places.

One Christmas I go to a mall to do my shopping. I drive around for an hour and a half and still can't find a parking place.

Of course I think I have a parking place a couple of times. You know that trick.

You see somebody sitting in their car with their door open. You think, "Good, this person is about to leave and I'll take the parking place."

Wrong. These people are always getting out. What they do is, as soon as they get parked, they open their door and wait for somebody to pull behind them and stop.

Then, they sit in their car for 10 more minutes, acting as if they can't find their keys, and then they get out of their car and laugh at you for taking the bait.

The other hard thing about buying somebody a gift is you either (1) don't know their size; (2) don't know whether or not they might already have an Amazing Popeil Pocket Fisherman; or, (3) probably won't have sex with you no matter how much the necklake cost.

I've even tried to give people money and say, "Go buy your own gift."

That never works. "How thoughtless," they say. "Why? You get to buy something you really want that way."

"Yeah," they answer to that thought, "but I'm the one who has to find a parking place."

I guess we have the Pilgrims to thank for making Thanksgiving a no-gift holiday.

One of the Pilgrims probably said, "Hey, let's invite the Indians over for lunch Thursday and everybody exchange gifts."

Fortunately a wiser Pilgrim spoke up and said, "It's already hard enough to find a parking place at the trading post. Why don't we just sit down and eat?" Just sit down and eat. How nice.

Circus animal trainer lays down whip

PITTSBURGH (AP) — He performed in places like Madison Square Garden more times than Frank Sinatra, Jack Dempsey and lots of other big names.

But after 11,697 shows, animal trainer Gunther Gebel-Williams performed his last death-defying act Sunday with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

"Everybody asks me, 'Why now?'" he said in the thick German accent he hasn't lost since he came to the United States 22 years ago. "I want to step down when I am really good. I don't want to be like Ali, Sugar Ray, 'Another fight, another fight.'"

A U.S. citizen since 1979, he calls himself "German-engineered but a proud American" and often sports a cowboy hat and a Western-style shirt. Though he's 56, Gebel-Williams remains enviably trim, 141 pounds with a ruddy complexion and his trademark sweep of blond hair.

He announced two years ago that he would retire from "The Greatest Show on Earth" at the end of the 1990 season. He plans to settle at his winter home in Venice, Fla., with his 20 Bengal and Siberian tigers.

After 42 years on the road, he said, training 20 tigers is getting a little riskier because he has lost some of his quickness and his eyesight is not what it used to be.

And glasses wouldn't look so hot with his skin-hugging tights and sequined boleros, he joked.

"When you have 20 tigers, it's not easy to act like nothing can happen," he said. "I've been like their father, their brother. I've been in charge always. But when one tiger is hurt, they always blame me."

His domination in the ring comes from a soft-spoken training method based on mutual respect that separates him from his chair-and whip-wielding predecessors like Clyde Beatty and Mabel Stark, who taught animals to fear them.

man, Indian or English. He welcomes animal rights advocates to attend his training sessions.

"That's the difference between me and everybody else," he said. "I did everything with open doors."

"In 21 years never did somebody say I treated an animal wrong." Gebel-Williams began his career when he joined Circus Williams in Germany as an usher at 12. He became so much a part of the Williams family, who had hired his mother as a seamstress, that he added their name to his. By the 1960s, he was well-known as one of Europe's top animal trainers.

In 1968, he caught the eye of Irvin Feld, owner and producer of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, who bought the entire Circus Williams to get their star to come to America.

Now Gebel-Williams will yield the ring to his 20-year-old son, Mark. But he won't yield the tigers because he's afraid they won't transfer their devotion to his son.

Mark's act will include the African and Indian elephants, white Lippizaner horses, zebras and camels.

"I think it's time for Mark. I have to step back," said Gebel-Williams, adding that he'll continue to work with the animals behind the scenes.

Gebel-Williams said he didn't plan anything special for his last show, explaining that a change in routine would confuse the animals. And he hopes no one calls for a speech.

"It'll be very tough, but as long as I don't have to talk I can get through it," he said.

After a lifetime with the circus, it would be impossible for him — and his tigers — to give it up entirely, he said.

Delayed shuttle flight fills lab with jellyfish

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Dorothy Spangenberg's laboratory is jammed with 20,000 jellyfish — four times more than usual — because of NASA's delay in launching the space shuttle Columbia.

The biologist from Eastern Virginia Medical School plans to send 2,700 tiny, young jellyfish on a research mission to study their metamorphosis in a gravity-free environment. Originally scheduled for August, it was pushed into 1991 when the shuttle sprang hydrogen leaks.

Those leaks are fixed now, and NASA plans to launch Columbia in early December on an astronomy mission. The flight with Spangenberg's jellyfish, Columbia's next trip, is targeted for May.

Spangenberg said she needs a large jellyfish supply so there will be plenty at the right stage of development when it comes time for the mission. She expects to have more than 25,000 jellyfish by spring.

"I'll just keep growing them until we have enough, although I don't know how to gauge how much is enough," she said. "We're going to get as many as we can between now and then."

Jellyfish polyps, an early form of the animal and about as long as the lead tip of a pencil, occupy aquariums, dishes and flasks in Spangenberg's Norfolk, Va., laboratory. The dishes and flasks are inside incubators.

Each container is filled with artificial sea water that lacks iodine and thus prevents metamorphosis. Polyps can live indefinitely at that stage in the laboratory and reproduce continuously.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has sent up monkeys, chimpanzees, rats, flies, bees, moths, spiders and guinea pigs. Neither country, though, has ever flown jellyfish in space.

What makes the marine creature so suitable for a nine-day shuttle mission is that polyps develop into the more mature

Dr. Dorothy B. Spangenberg, research professor in the Department of Pathology at Eastern Virginia Medical School, examines tiny immature jellyfish which are being prepared to be sent into space aboard an upcoming shuttle flight.

ephyra stage in five to six days when iodine is added to their water.

Ephyrae mature within four to six months into the final developmental stage, called medusa. It's the form familiar to most people — the 4- to 5-pound animals have bells, or humps, tentacles and long mouth arms.

Columbia's astronauts will videotape the jellyfish during the flight, add iodine to the water of some of the specimens, and track their growth. Spangenberg will analyze the data.

"We need a range of organisms to begin to put together a picture to see if the response (in space) is similar from one organism to the next," said NASA's Gary Jahns, the mission's payload scientist. "Jellyfish are a single point in that picture."

The Spacelab life sciences mission, which will include a rat study and 18 other experiments, originally was scheduled for late 1986, then early 1987. A month after NASA approved Spangenberg's experiment application in December 1985, Challenger exploded and the shuttle program ground to a 2½-year halt.

The delays have proved beneficial for Spangenberg. In October, she discovered another kind of jellyfish cell in the ephyra, a gravity receptor that helps the creatures maintain direction and balance somewhat like the human inner ear.

Each jellyfish gravity receptor has a sac of calcium sulphate crystals, just as each inner ear has calcium-containing crystals. Spangenberg is sending up about 150 ephyrae to see if any calcium is lost in the weightlessness of space. Thirty white rats on the shuttle will be observed in a related study.

Such knowledge is expected to improve scientists' understanding of calcium loss in astronauts during flight.

"The cells of the jellyfish are basically very similar to cells of higher animals," Spangenberg said. "I look at them as a good model system for the study of a variety of biological problems."

Wording dispute delays report

NEW YORK (AP) — A federal panel waited five months before announcing its finding that steroids can halve the death rate from the pneumonia that is the leading killer of people with AIDS. The New York Times reported.

The panel withheld the announcement until Oct. 10 because members could not agree on how to word their statement, the newspaper said.

Part of the reason they could not agree, said panel vice chairman Dr. Paul Meier, was that the findings had not yet been accepted at a prestigious medical journal, and they feared an early announcement would jeopardize publication.

AIDS activists have attacked the policy as a barrier to the release of life-saving information.

"When the lives of people are in the balance, it is totally unethical not to release information immediately," said Dr. Mathilde Krim, a founder of the American Foundation for AIDS Research, a non-profit group in New York.

The finding, and the delay in releasing it, came to light in the Nov. 2 issue of AIDS Treatment News newsletter.

Graduates receive warranties

LUBBOCK (AP) — Vocational students who graduate from the Lubbock Independent School District leave with diplomas and come with warranties.

Beginning at the end of this school year, would-be auto mechanics, welders, cabinet makers and cosmetologists will graduate with guarantees aimed at making them more employable.

The school district promises to provide additional training if a former student is found to be lacking in basic skills within two years after graduation.

Superintendent Mike Moses said he hopes the district is "on the cutting edge of something here."

Cheese cake queen

'Mother Wonderful' tells how to bake them better

By ERICH SMITH
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA — Come on, says Mother Wonderful. Have some cheesecake. It won't kill you.

"No one ever got cardiovascular disease from a sliver of cheesecake now and then," says Mother Wonderful, alias Myra Chanin. "Don't eat cheesecake three times a day, but when you do have it, enjoy it to the max."

Chanin's book, "Mother Wonderful's Cheesecakes and Other Goodies," first came out in 1982 and went out of print. The second edition now is in its second printing.

Chanin, whose cheesecakes come in flavors like ginger pear, mocha blanca and honey fig, isn't surprised. She sees good food as essential for marital bliss.

"Soft lights, sweet music and diaphanous gowns may create an evening's diversion, but comes the dawn and even Casanova must eat," she says in the book's introduction.

Professional bakers agree that cheesecakes haven't lost their attraction.

"We're selling more than ever," said Janet Rosing, owner of Cheesecakes by J.R. in Chicago.

Ms. Rosing estimates she sells more than five tons of cheesecake a week. "It's fun to visualize, isn't it?" she said.

Nancy Bier, owner of Miss Grimble Associates in New York, says people think of cheesecake as something special.

"When people want dessert and want to splurge, they say, 'Let's have a piece of cheesecake.' Everyone likes the flavor and the fact that it's so rich."

Miss Grimble's has been in business for about 20 years and turns out about 50 different cakes and pies, but Mrs. Bier said cheesecake still is the No. 1 item.

"The classic vanilla with a sour cream topping is the best seller," she said.

Several qualities come together to make a good cheesecake, Ms. Rosing said.

"It's a combination of creamy texture, which is very satisfying, and the flavors of the cream and the sweetness," she said. "People feel they're really getting value in cheesecake. There's really something substantial there. It's not some light, fluffy thing."

Even a doctor from the American Heart Association went along — somewhat — with Mother Wonderful's idea that a sliver of cheesecake once in a while isn't all that bad.

"I would certainly agree with a sliver now and then, but what does one call a sliver?" said Dr. Alan Chait, chairman of the AHA's Nutrition Committee. "And if you bake a whole cheesecake, who's going to eat just a sliver?"

Chait, a professor of medicine at the University of Washington, said the AHA doesn't preach the idea of good or bad food.

"The important thing is a person's total diet — a diet that is low in saturated fat and cholesterol — rather than the individual food," he said.

Both the AHA's cookbook and Mother Wonderful offer low-fat cheesecake suggestions.

Chanin also offers encouragement to the nervous cook.

"Cheesecake is the easiest dessert to make! How did it get such an awesome reputation? Bakers lie. When you find out how easy it is to make cheesecake, you'll stop paying $25 for theirs and start baking your own."

She thinks the problem is the old-fashioned ways of baking.

"People are still using recipes that were created in 1850. Ovens then had no thermostats, so they'd tell you to bake the cake in the oven for half an hour and leave them in the oven with the door ajar. You couldn't leave the house!"

"Then there are those recipes that tell you to put your cheesecake pan in a pan filled with boiling water! I think that one was invented by Johnson & Johnson, to sell more Band-Aids. There's no better way in the world to scald yourself."

There's none of that in this cookbook. What Chanin does offer is advice such as how to get that creamy, custardlike texture.

"Since I never want to unwrap another package of cream cheese, PHILADELPHIA — Myra Chanin, also known as "Mother Wonderful," poses in her Philadelphia kitchen Thursday with one of her cheesecake creations. Chanin's book, "Mother Wonderful's Cheesecakes and Other Goodies," first published in 1982, is in the second printing of its second edition.

I pass on all my secrets to you," she confides before introducing her "Ten Commandments for Making Perfectly Baked Cheesecakes Every Time."

Actually, there are 17 commandments, which Chanin admits tends to prove her husband's contention that she is "bossier than God." Among them:

- Thou Shalt Not Chintz on Ingredients.

- Thou Shalt Never Defile Thy Crusts with Graham Cracker Crumbs.

- Thou Shalt Never Even Think About Using Those Gunky Cornstarch Toppings.

- Thou Shalt Measure Out Ingredients before Beginning to Bake.

- Thou Shalt Always Add Eggs to Thy Batter with Thy Mixer on the Lowest Speed.

She really means it about using the best ingredients.

"The cost differential between a sublime cheesecake and a third-rate one is less than $3. If money is a problem, make an 8-inch version and serve petite wedges, but always make sure anyone who tastes it will rave about your skill and beg for more."

Here, for Thanksgiving, is a recipe for Pumpkin-Ginger Cheesecake, from "Thanksgiving Dinner: Recipes, Techniques and Tips for America's Favorite Celebration," by Anthony Dias and Kathryn K. Blue (Harper & Row, 1990).

Crust:
1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon sugar
1 stick unsalted butter, melted

Filling

Three 8-ounce packages cream cheese, at room temperature
1½ cups sugar
5 eggs
One 16-ounce can pumpkin puree, or 2 cups fresh puree
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
2 tablespoons dark rum
2 tablespoons minced crystallized ginger
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon grated nutmeg

Topping

1½ cups sour cream
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons dark rum

In the bowl of a food processor fitted with the metal blade, combine graham cracker crumbs, cinnamon, ginger, sugar and melted butter, pulsing two or three times to blend evenly. Pour into a buttered, 10-inch springform pan and press the mixture onto the bottom and one-third up the sides of the pan. Chill for 30 minutes.

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. In the bowl of an electric mixer, beat the cheese and sugar until smooth. Continuing to beat at medium speed, add eggs one by one, beating well after each addition.

In a mixing bowl combine pumpkin, vanilla, rum, ginger, cinnamon and nutmeg. Mix until smooth. Add pumpkin mixture to the cream cheese and beat to combine.

Pour the filling into the crust and bake for 1½ hours, or until set.

Whisk the sour cream, sugar, cinnamon and rum together and spread over the cake. Allow to cool and then chill for at least five hours before serving.

Can be made up to two days ahead. Cover and refrigerate.

Leftover turkey and a skillet supper

After you've finished the Thanksgiving Day meal, you may wonder what to do with the leftover turkey.

PACE picante sauce offers this recipe for a Tex-Mex style single-skillet dish.

SAN ANTONIO-STYLE TURKEY-PASTA SKILLET

- 10 ounces vermicelli, broken into pieces
- 2 large onions, coarsely chopped, 2 cups
- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 1 can (16 ounces) whole tomatoes
- 1 can (about 14 ounces) chicken broth
- 2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken
- ¾ cup picante sauce
- 1 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 large green pepper, cut into short, thin strips
- ½ cup (2 ounces) shredded Cheddar cheese
- ¼ cup chopped cilantro, optional

Cook onion and garlic in oil in 12-inch skillet over medium heat for 2 minutes. Add pasta; cook and stir 2 minutes. Stir in tomatoes with spoon, 3 minutes. Add green pepper; continue to simmer until pasta is tender and most of liquid is absorbed, 4 to 5 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese, and if desired, cilantro to serve. Serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 6 servings.

San Antonio-Style Turkey-Pasta Skillet turns after-the-holiday turkey leftovers into a speedy skillet supper with lively Tex-Mex taste.

Buying fish

(AP) — Here are some tips to help make sure the fish you buy is safe and fresh:

- Buy from a reputable, popular dealer to be assured of good turnover of stock.
- Buy fish that is well-chilled, on ice at about 33 degrees.
- The eyes of whole fish should be bulging and bright and shiny, not watery.
- Skin should be moist, scales shiny. Gills should be red or pink.
- The flesh should be firm to the touch. Filets should be firm and glistening.
- Fish that smells "fishy" probably has gone bad. Fresh fish smells mild.
- Eat the fish within 24 hours. Do not freeze fish unless you are absolutely certain it has not been previously frozen.
- Shellfish should be alive and lively.

In her new book, "Fish: The Basics," Shirley King suggests shoppers go to the market willing to buy whatever fish is freshest.

Martins return home; club meets

Jack and Claudia Martin have returned from a vacation that began Sept. 27. The couple, accompanied by their dog and cat, packed the travel trailer and drove to Canada to spend a few days with their son, Jack, and his family.

They spent a week in Owassa, Okla., visiting their daughter and family. While in Oklahoma, they went to the State Fair in Tulsa. After enjoying the fair, the couple left Oklahoma for Fairmont, W. Va. They spent three weeks there visiting with Claudia's sister, brother, and other relatives. The trip took them to Kentucky then Tennessee, where they toured Memphis, spent a few nights in Mississippi with Marilyn's in-laws. On the trip through the Ozarks they visited with relatives in Arkansas. While on the seven-week trip, the couple toured Oklahoma, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky and Texas. According to Jack, the fall foliage was at its best during the trip. Both Claudia and Jack are glad to be back at home in Coahoma, but they are planning another trip in the near future.

Mary Jane Club hosts meeting

The Mary Jane club met Thursday at the home of Janie Phinney, with Jerri Gee as co-hostess. Fourteen members answered the roll with "show and tell about my favorite quilt."

Many beautiful quilts were shown, some new, and others worn from age and use. Jean Robertson, Midland, gave a demonstration on the art of quilting. She displayed many of her quilts and quilted wall hangings. Jean, formerly of Coahoma, was the first president of the Mary Jane Club when it began in 1950. Since moving to Midland, Jean has founded the Midland Quilters Club, she teaches a weekly quilting class, and has had two of her quilts selected to be pictured in the 1992 American Quilt Calendar.

Special guests included Carolyn Brooks, Eddie Echols, Leola Newton, Annie Phinney, Amy Purcell and Delores Wolf.

The next meeting will be Dec. 13 at the home of Nan McKinney.

"It is the presence of dedicated military people like Crenweige that brings America's principles to life and gives them strength and meaning," President George Bush said. He is the son of retired Lt. Col. Joe E. and Elizabeth A. Crenweige, 2805 Apache.

Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class James W. Reed, son of Lee G. Reed, 2410 E. 24th, is currently deployed aboard the U.S.S. Brewton to the Middle East in support of Operation Desert Shield while serving aboard the frigate USS Brewton, homeported in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

He is a 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School. Operation Desert Shield is the largest deployment of United States military forces since Vietnam. The operation is in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and threat to Saudi Arabia.

The effort to enforce U.N. sanctions against Iraq brought U.S. and Australian forces together here Sept. 15, marking the first multinational boarding of an Iraqi tanker during Operation Desert Shield.

The boarding of the Iraqi-owned tanker "Al Fao" was the final step in a process that dragged on for nearly 24 hours; a process that successfully stopped the merchant vessel following warning shots fired from the Pearl Harbor-based frigate USS Brewton and the Australian destroyer HMAS Darwin. The unprecedented multinational boarding was also the first to follow warning shots and the first conducted in the dead of night.

The effort to identify, halt, and inspect the Al Fao began in the early morning hours. Brewton, with an embarked Coast Guard Law Enforcement Detachment (LEDET), drew within visual range and trailed the suspect tanker. Cmdr. Craig Kennedy, the 438-foot warship's commanding officer, ordered his 278-man crew to battle stations at first light and began the scripted procedure for querying the vessel's master about his intentions. After hours of exchanges via bridge-to-bridge radio. Al Fao's master still refused to stop for inspection of his ship's cargo holds.

Constant communication up the U.S. and Australian chains of command kept military leaders apprised of the situation throughout the operation. When it became apparent that Al Fao would not agree to stop and allow a search of her holds, the decision was passed down to proceed to the next step in the interdiction procedure.

Navy Fireman Apprentice Tracy A. Stone son of Johnnie R. and Janet M. Stone, Lamesa, is currently deployed to the Middle East in support of Operation Desert Shield while serving aboard the battleship USS Wisconsin, homeported in Norfolk, Va. A 1986 graduate of Lamesa High School, he joined the Navy in August 1986.

Operation Desert Shield is the largest deployment of United States military forces since Vietnam. The operation is in response to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait and threat to Saudi Arabia.

The battleship USS Wisconsin (BB 64) demonstrated the far-reaching capabilities of speed, endurance and maritime presence of the battleships through an 8,500 nautical mile transit from her homeport in Norfolk, Va. to the Persian Gulf. Two weeks after leaving Norfolk, Aug. 7, after a sustained 25 knot crossing of the Atlantic Ocean and Mediterranean Sea, the heavily-armed battleship steamed through the Strait of Hormuz into the Persian Gulf, 100 percent ready to support operation Desert Shield.

The range, endurance, survivability and massive strike capability make the modernized battleships unequalled among today's surface warfare ships. No other combatant can steam as far or as fast and have such an instantaneous effect on arrival.

Take time to count your blessings

DEAR READERS: Here's an update on my traditional Thanksgiving column:

Tomorrow is Thanksgiving, so why not take a few minutes to count your blessings?

How's your health? You have a few minor complaints? Well, thank God they're not major. Obviously you're still alive. You can probably think of at least one person who isn't around this year. (I can.)

If you awakened this morning and were able to hear the birds sing, use your vocal cords to utter human sounds, walk to the table on two good legs and read the newspaper with two good eyes (or even one), praise the Lord! A lot of people couldn't. (Say a prayer for those who perished in a fire, a flood, an earthquake or an accident.)

How's your pocketbook? Thin? Well, most of the world is a lot poorer. No pensions. No welfare. No food stamps. No Social Security. No Medicare. In fact, one-third of the people in the world will go to bed hungry tonight. Would you rather be in Poland, the Soviet Union or Iraq — God forbid!

Are you lonely? The way to have a friend is to be one. If nobody calls you, pick up the phone and call somebody. Go out of your way to do something nice for someone. It's a sure cure for the blues.

Are you concerned about your country's future? Hooray! Our system has been saved by such concern. If you don't like your elected officials, you can go to work and vote them out of office. We still have the soapbox and the ballot box.

Freedom rings! You can still worship at the church of your choice, or not worship at all if you don't want to. You can cast a secret ballot, or criticize your government without fearing a knock on the head or a knock at your door in the middle of the night.

And if you prefer to live under a different system, goodbye and good luck. You are free to go. There are no walls or barbed wire fences to keep you here.

In closing, I'll repeat my Thanksgiving prayer. Perhaps you will want to use it at your table tomorrow. Let one of the children read it.

"O, heavenly Father, we thank thee for food and remember the hungry.

"We thank thee for health and remember the sick.

"We thank thee for friends and remember the friendless.

"We thank thee for freedom and remember the enslaved.

"May these remembrances stir us to service

"That thy gifts to us may be used for others.

"And, dear God, please bless and watch over our men and women in the Persian Gulf and bring them home safely — and soon. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours.

— Love, ABBY

P.S. Special greetings to those of you in the military who wrote from Korea, Okinawa, Japan and the Philippines to tell me you are using my Thanksgiving prayer.

Police beat

Plate glass windows were damaged at three city businesses Tuesday. Businesses in the 1500 block of Mesquite Street, the 100 block of Cedar Road and the 400 block of Dallas reported broken or shattered windows. The estimated value of the damage was listed as $100 in each case.

The three incidents appear to be the latest in a string of similar criminal mischief.

The Big Spring Police reported the following incidents as well:

- An aggravated assault was reported in the 1800 block of State Street. The complainant reported being held at knife point and threatened, causing her to fear for her life.
- Burglary to a building in the 600 block of Benton Street resulted in the monetary loss of over $1,000.
- Enrique Sabedra Jr., 20, San Antonio Way, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana, under two ounces.
- Teresa Kay Smith, 33, 1211 Rannels Street, was charged with driving while intoxicated, felony.
- A major accident occurred early today near the Figure 8 Tennis Center on Whipkey Drive. No details were available.
- Shots were reported fired in the 1200 block of Lloyd Avenue.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incident:

- At 11:15 p.m. Tuesday a person used beer bottles to damage the hood, top and windshield of a white Mercury 3-door Capri on the 500 block of South First in Coahoma, it was reported. The owner said she knows the suspect and plans to file charges.

Democrats file suit to bar Bush from war

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of 45 House Democrats filed suit Tuesday to try to force President Bush to seek authority from Congress before ordering a U.S. military attack to drive Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

The lawsuit seeks an injunction to bar Bush "from launching or initiating an offensive military attack by United States forces against Iraq without obtaining a declaration of war or other explicit authorization from the Congress."

The lawsuit was filed in U.S. District Court a day after Iraq ordered an additional 250,000 troops into Kuwait and nearly two weeks after Bush began deployment of an estimated 200,000 more U.S. troops to the region. Some 230,000 U.S. troops already are in Saudi Arabia.

"This case poses a question of supreme importance to this nation and one uniquely for the courts to decide: whether a major war, not partaking of the element of surprise and leaving ample room for deliberation, may be initiated by the president without the consent of Congress," the lawmakers said in court papers.

"The framers of our Constitution thought not; most members of today's Congress think not," they said.

A military reservist who is challenging his orders to go to Saudi Arabia filed a similar action last week. A federal judge in Washington refused to bar Bush from sending Sgt. Michael R. Ange to Saudi Arabia along with his Army National Guard unit.

But U.S. District Judge Royce Lamberth scheduled a Dec. 10 hearing on the soldier's motion for a permanent injunction to prevent his deployment. The judge said the case raised "a difficult legal question" about who has the power to declare war.

The Center for Constitutional Rights, which also represents the Army National Guard reservist, filed the lawsuit on behalf of the 45 lawmakers led by Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif.

At issue is whether Bush is required by the Constitution to get a declaration of war from Congress before attacking Iraqi troops in Kuwait.

The war authorization clause gives Congress the power "to declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water."

Agents lure Lebanese heroin figures to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal drug agents lured reputed Lebanese heroin producers and traffickers to the United States with the promise of payment for previous drug shipments in order to arrest the ring's leaders, a prosecutor says.

"We were able to arrange for all of the key players to be present in the United States during a two-week period," said Henry E. Hudson, U.S. attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia.

"They came here to collect money for previous transactions," he said Tuesday, adding, "We're talking several hundred thousand dollars."

The results were the arrests of 22 people in five states and the District of Columbia, including nine people who normally reside in Lebanon but were enticed to the Washington area, officials said.

Among the Lebanese residents arrested were Kamal Charif, a former Lebanese state senator, and his son, Wadgy Charif.

Wadgy Charif told undercover Drug Enforcement Administration agent Hollis Williams and a DEA informant on Aug. 2, 1989 that his father "owned and operated one of the largest heroin processing facilities in the Bekaa Valley, and could supply... Williams with large quantities of heroin," Williams said in an affidavit.

Kamal Charif came to the United States not only to pick up money but also "to negotiate with our agents to supply 50 kilograms (110 pounds) a month to supply what he thought was a heroin network," Hudson said in an interview.

The 16-month undercover case, dubbed "Operation Helix," began with the August 1989 meeting at the Four Seasons restaurant in Alexandria, Va., and involved purchases or arrangements to purchase numerous multi-kilogram quantities of heroin at about $40,000 apiece, Williams' affidavit said.

It also led to the seizure of 25 kilograms of extremely pure heroin, Hudson said.

"It's possible that the arrests could have been delayed so we could have seized more heroin, but we might have lost a couple of the key players," the prosecutor said.

"This organization is probably one of the largest importers of heroin on the East Coast of the United States, responsible for supplying significant quantities into the Washington metropolitan area as well as into New York and Detroit," Hudson said.

Of the 22 people arrested, 18 were charged with conspiracy to distribute heroin, a charge that carries a possible sentence of life without parole, as well as immigration violations. The other four are charged only with immigration violations.

The investigation is expected to lead to nine more arrests, including one in Germany, said an official familiar with the case.

Summit

his backstage diplomacy to the Persian Gulf, where Iraq's occupation of Kuwait is more than three months old.

Bush, headed for the Middle East and a Thanksgiving Day visit with U.S. troops there, departed without a public commitment from Gorbachev to support a United Nations resolution authorizing the use of force to dislodge Iraq's army from Kuwait.

Even so, he said, "I've said all along... that we are on the same wave length as the Soviet Union." He added he was "very encouraged about this holding together of a coalition in the sands and on the seas of the Gulf."

The summit document exulted in the end to Cold War tensions that divided Europe for 45 years. Every European nation but Albania signed, as did Canada, the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Europe is liberating itself from the legacy of the past," the charter said. "Ours is a time for fulfilling the hopes and expectations our peoples have cherished for decades: steadfast commitment to democracy based on human rights and fundamental freedoms, prosperity through economic liberty and social justice, and equal security for all countries."

The charter sets up a small bureaucracy in Prague for the 34-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, as well as a center for the prevention of conflict in Vienna and an office in Warsaw to help monitor elections.

"Democratic government is based on the will of the people, expressed regularly through free and fair elections," the charter said. "Democracy is the best safeguard of freedom of expression, tolerance of all groups of society, and equality of opportunity for each person."

The summit document also recommends that the heads of member states and governments meet at least once every two years, their foreign ministers annually and senior officials even more often.

Bush, who met with Gorbachev over dinner on Monday night, said he was leaving Paris convinced that "we're in good synchronization" with other nations on strategy for ending the gulf crisis.

Nevertheless, the Persian Gulf was not discussed at Tuesday's afternoon closed-door session, said French spokesman Hubert Vedrine. He said the subject did not come up, adding: "There will be no common declaration by the 34 on the gulf."

There was not, and the leaders departed without devoting a line of their summit charter to the issue.

burgh company proposing a hazardous waste incinerator and landfill in Mitchell County about possible involvement of organized crime in the industry and the profits they anticipate to make.

Dickson, reading from testimony in a February 1989 Pennsylvania Crime Commission hearing, asked Vice President Jim Cronin of National Waste and Energy Development, Pittsburgh, about his relationship in another waste project with convicted felon and "proven racketeer" John Nacrelli.

Cronin said Nacrelli took an inappropriate fee when he was Mayor of Chester, Pa. Nacrelli was later enlisted by city and county officials in Chester to mediate a disagreement on two waste projects, including one Cronin was involved with.

"My position in respect to him was he made a mistake and paid the penalty," Cronin said. "I didn't shun him."

The Crime Commission report, said, "The preception that government must rely upon or call upon convicted racketeers to mediate disputes in an industry historically tainted with organized crime involvement, serves no other end but to suggest to the citizens of Chester, that racketeers still decide public policy issues in the city of Chester."

Dickson also questioned Cronin about projected profits that NWED would make on an incinerator and landfill in Mitchell County but was unhappy with the answer.

Cronin said it was too soon to make those projections. When pressed, he said, "I'd be guessing but I'd say it's less than $100 million. Pressed more, he said, "Quite frankly we don't know it."

Dickson responded, "I have a feeling you could tell me what revenues you're facing."

Cronin, his voice rising, answered, "Well you're just going to have to face the fact right now that you're wrong."

Asked about his company's municipal incinerator and electrical generator in Chester, he said they invested $340 million and expect $500 million in electrical generation for the lifetime of the landfill. However, the Mitchell County facility would not generate electricity. "They're not at all alike," Cronin said.

Concerning incineration technology, Cronin, a consultant with no connection to NWED and a Texas Air Quality Control Board official all agreed that it can be done according to the law.

"It's proven, it's not an experimental technology. It's not an adventure," Cronin said. When asked if they are entirely safe, he said, "We're humans, we make mistakes. We try to minimize the mistakes. We try to be aware of the risks involved."

Certainly the technology exists to build a facility that can be operated by law," said Jim Myers, deputy for enforcement of the TACB. "The downside is you have people operating it."

Consultant Robert Kier said you need to plan for accidents. "We must assume, when we look at these sites, that there will be a failure," he said.

In closing statements, Task Force Chairman Rep. Dudley Harrison, D-Sanderson, said there is at least one thing they learned. "We've got to learn to quit making it (waste) and we've got to recycle."

Also on the Task Force were senators Steve Carriker, D-Roby and Bill Sims, D-San Angelo and representative David Counts, D-Knox City. Rep. Bob Junell, D-San Angelo could not make it.

sideways, just crying and crying," Rosemary Cortez said.

Rosemary grabbed Jacob from the pavement and rushed him to the emergency room of Scenic Mountain Medical Center. He suffered broken bones in his left leg and a fractured skull. Now Jacob is immobilized in a full body cast, to keep his legs from moving and allow the bones to heal. The doctors expect him to be in the cast for four to six weeks, and then he will need physical therapy to learn to walk again, his mother said.

"I knew there was something wrong with his leg — he kept rubbing it on the way to the hospital. And for days he wouldn't move his head, I guess because it hurt," Rosemary said.

Jacob was in the intensive care unit at Scenic Mountain for three days, and in a regular room for three more. He came home last Friday, his mother said.

Now the family is waiting for him to heal, and taking turns entertaining Jacob, who is too small to understand what's happened to him.

"(I worry about) his leg getting back to normal, and him being able to walk again, right. And at Christmas, to be that way. He won't be able to have any fun. He'll just be able to watch the other kids playing," she said, then hurried to the bedroom to check on her youngest son.

The accident has placed all of Rosemary Cortez's plans for her young family on hold. A single parent, with limited income, Rosemary dropped out of high school to get married. She and her husband have been separated for six months. He lives in another city.

Rosemary was attending classes to obtain a general equivalency diploma, planning to enter Howard College in January. But she missed the final exam because it was scheduled four days after Jacob's accident. Because of Jacob's physical therapy, college in the spring has been ruled out for the young mother.

"I was planning on taking computer courses and typing, the necessities for today. And English," Rosemary said.

Transportation is still a problem for the family. Her car was in the garage for a new engine when the accident happened, and Rosemary does not know how she will pay the repair bill. Family chores, such as going to the laundromat or buying groceries, require long-range planning because Jacob's casted body is so heavy his mother cannot carry him very far.

"I picked him up and took him outside for stroll (Sunday), so he could get some air and some sunshine," she said.

Rosemary stands Jacob up between her legs to feed him. She said he loves french fries and catsup, and chocolate milk, but she has trouble getting him to eat very much.

"He was a real active kid. He's really frustrated, because he can't get up. He sleeps off and on, and he takes (medication) for pain. But now we can't go anywhere, like to the park on weekends.

"I hope he's out of the cast by Christmas. That would be great," she said.

Rosemary remains optimistic about her family's future, but the shock is still visible in her eyes.

"(I'll just) have to get back on my feet again. I'll just start all over, again," she said.

Defense keys second half Hawks rally

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Howard College Hawks are a fast-paced team that is known for their offensive exploits. But Tuesday night in the Hawk Classic, Howard won with defense.

Coach Steve Green's Hawks wrapped up a two-game sweep in the Classic by whipping the Lamar College Runnin' Lopes 124-97 at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

In Tuesday's other game, Western Texas defeated Wharton 131-105.

The Hawks overcame a 14-point first-half deficit to take complete control in the second half of play. Howard did it with a pesky halfcourt man-to-man defense, combined with a strong inside game that the Runnin' Lopes couldn't deal with.

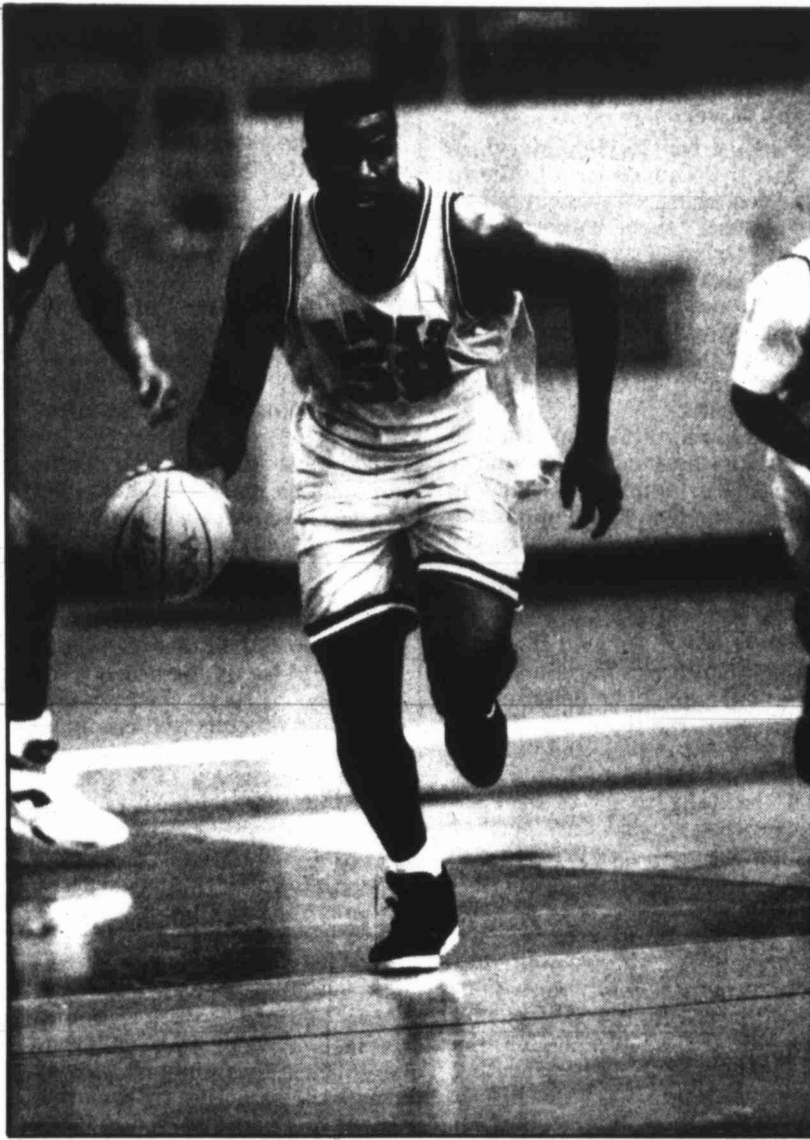

Leading the way was sophomore post player Vernon Broughton, who scored a career-high 39 points.

Broughton played well in all aspects of the game, grabbing 12 rebounds and collecting four steals. When the 6-foot-7 Huger, S.C. native wasn't scoring inside the paint, he was killing Lamar at the foul line. He hit 12 of 18 field goals and was 15 of 16 from the line.

But in the first half it looked like the team from Colorado might upset the nation's No. 6 team. It answered Howard's pressing defense with an outside shooting show that featured five three-point bombs. Meanwhile, Howard forward Johnny McDowell, the team's leading scorer, got into early foul trouble and only played about five minutes of the first half.

Lamar's first half fireworks were led by Jon Johnson, Rickey Rivers and Dion Wingo, who combined for 38 first half points.

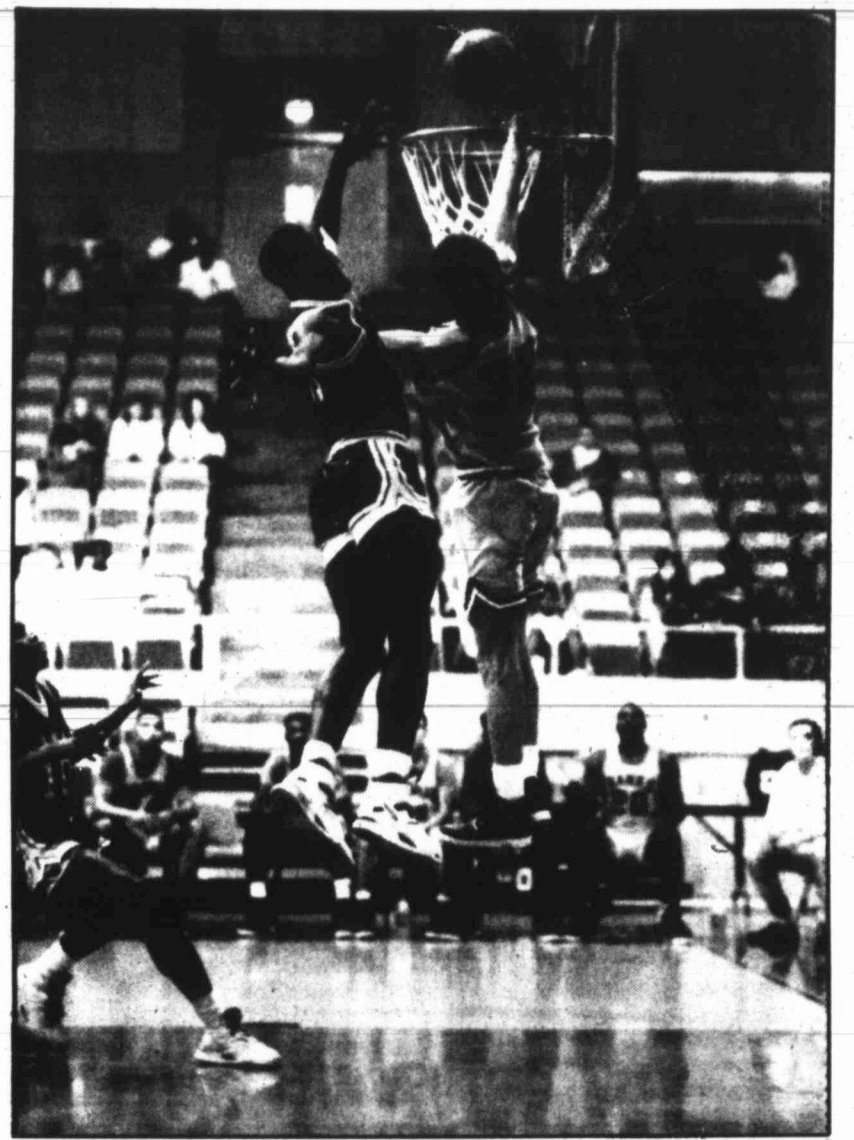

Howard stayed within contention in the first half via its inside game,

Time for giving thanks

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Last week marked the start of my seventh year at the Big Spring Herald. Sometimes I think I've been here too long, but when I reevaluate, it's really hasn't been that long because time has flown.

Personally, there have been good times and bad times; winning awards or making glaring errors that make you wish you could bury your head in the sand for a couple of weeks.

In dealing with my job I've seen the bad and ugly sides of sports. It has definitely been a learning and fulfilling experience. I couldn't have had so many good times without the help of numerous local and area people I've come in contact in the sports field.

Since Thursday is Thanksgiving, I'd like to salute the following in making the Herald sports department a fun place to work.

TERRY ROBINSON AND DON RITCHEY — Seems like these two have become regulars in this Thanksgiving column, and deservedly so. These two gentlemen run the west side press box at Memorial Stadium.

Now, I've been in numerous press boxes, and most don't compare. In fact, some are downright unfriendly. But not Robinson's and Ritchey's. They act as if they've never met a stranger, they're always so warm and friendly. It makes you look forward to watching the game from the press box.

ROYCE AND LISA CHADWICK — Two of my favorite basketball coaches. Not only do they make a cute couple, they make a fantastic coaching pair — just look at the success the Howard College Lady Hawks have had the past two seasons.

The Chadwicks are very efficient; they're willing to go the extra mile to help get their team presented to the public. They always have times for you and they care about their players.

STEVE POINTEVINT — It's a small world when your first high school journalism teacher turns out to be one of your working companions in a different town 40 miles away. That's how I first met Mr. P.; at good ol' Colorado City High School.

Almost two decades later he's still the same, caring individual that believes in good journalism. Not to mention being a good photographer and a tireless worker.

JIM FIERRO — I first Mr. Fierro at a baseball game and wondered why he was always taking pictures at various sporting events. The answer was simple — he loves sports.

Mr. Fierro is a fine photographer that puts his heart into his work. He's a photographer you can count on, and a darn good one.

CHARLES POISALL — Another old-timer that loves his sports. I'll admit I was skeptical when my supervisor told me about a retired journalist who might do some reporting for the sports department.

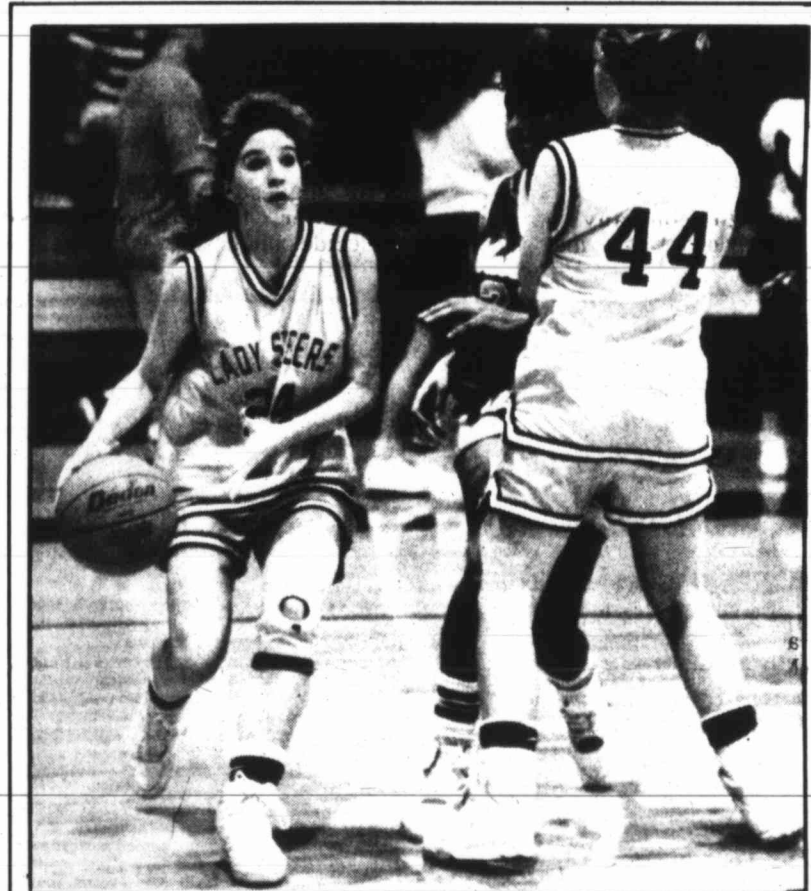

When I was told he was a sharp person, I didn't realize just how sharp. Mr. Poisall writes a precise sports story. Many young writers, myself included, could learn a thing or two from him.

LOIS ANN MCKENZIE — This lady has brought organization and discipline to Big Spring High School volleyball. She is slowly turning the program around, and she comes up with some of the best quotes around.

DWIGHT BUTLER — The Steers defensive coordinator comes off kind of gruff on the outside, but he's really a very nice guy on the inside. Butler always makes things sound worse than they are. But the best thing about him is he knows his business and he cares for his players.

Last but not least is my family who has been there for me in a very trying year; a year in which I lost my mother to cancer. Thanks for keeping me strong and making me smile.

Happy Thanksgiving everybody.

Quarterback thinks he'll recover from broken neck

BOSTON (AP) — Gary Wilkos lay on the ground, his neck broken and his promising career in limbo.

A month later, he talks confidently of resuming his career as quarterback for the University of Massachusetts.

"I'll be as good as new. Better. I'm not worried about anything," Wilkos said Tuesday. "I think I'm going to lock myself up with my brother this summer. No job, no nothing. Lift (weights) seven days a week."

On Saturday, though, he'll miss Massachusetts' Division I-AA playoff game at William & Mary. And one of the team doctors isn't sure he'll ever be able to play college football again.

Wilkos, a sophomore, rushed for 526 yards in six games and gained more than 100 yards in three of them before being hurt Oct. 20 in the 17-3 win. He also completed 53 percent of his passes for 733 yards and four touchdowns.

Massachusetts was 5-0-1 with Wilkos and ended the regular season at 8-1-1 after losing last Saturday to New Hampshire.

Although Dr. George Snook expects the fractured first vertebrae to heal completely, "there are certain things we can't see," he said. "It's like the knee. If the knee is injured, it's always more susceptible to injury. The neck is like that, too. "There's no question he wants to play, but he also has to think about the rest of his life."

Wilkos suffered no paralysis and on Tuesday he was thinking about something far less intense. His day included going to church, getting a haircut, visiting a mall and working on a big project for school.

Life goes on for a young man who came close to losing it a month ago.

He was having another big game as Massachusetts' quarterback. About midway through the third quarter, he tacked 10 yards onto his team-leading rushing total before being tackled by two Delaware players.

He didn't get up. Play resumed about 40 minutes later without Wilkos.

While he spent Tuesday at home in Staten Island, N.Y., where he is visiting for the Thanksgiving holiday, his teammates were back in Amherst, Mass., getting ready for Saturday's game.

"I'm sure on Saturday it'll cross my mind, thinking, 'Why couldn't I be there?' But I'm not, so I have to accept it as a man," he said. "I really haven't gone through that syndrome of being depressed since I've been injured." He considers himself lucky.

A's outfielder American MVP

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Rickey Henderson put it all together this year performing in his hometown before fans "who keep me happy, make me feel like a kid playing again."

The Oakland Athletics' left fielder and leadoff man was at his happiest Tuesday as winner of the A L Most Valuable Player award, having edged Detroit slugger Cecil Fielder in the voting by members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Henderson had 14 of the 28 first-place votes and 317 points. Fielder, the first major leaguer since 1977 to crack the 50-homer mark, had 10 first-place votes and 286 points.

"I haven't been as excited since I broke Lou Brock's (single-season) stolen base record," Henderson said at a news conference, referring to the 1982 season in which he went past Brock's old record of 118 steals and finished with 130.

"My next big moment will be when I break Brock's all-time record," he added.

That probably will come in the opening week of next season. Henderson's total of 936 steals over 11½ seasons is two short of Brock's record. His 32nd birthday is next month. Brock was 40 years old when he stole his 938th base in 1979.

Henderson, whose career batting average is .293, hit only .267 while running wild on the basepaths in 1982. In 1986, playing with the New York Yankees, he hit a career-high 28 homers but batted just .263. He returned to the A's in a 1989 mid-season trade and helped them go on to the World Series title.

This season, Henderson matched his career-high home run total and had a career-high .325 batting average to go with it. He also won his 10th stolen base title, with 65, and his slugging average of .577 was second only to Fielder's.

"It's a dream come true. It took a lot of hard work and dedication," Henderson said. "I'm very proud of this award."

He added that he knows how Fielder, who had 51 homers and 132 RBI, feels as runner-up.

"I remember 1981, when Rollie Fingers edged me," Henderson said. "I always felt the MVP award should go to an everyday ballplayer."

Fingers, the relief pitcher who began his career in Oakland, was with the Milwaukee Brewers in 1981. He got 319 points to Henderson's 308 in the MVP voting, and he was the first of three AL pitchers to win the MVP award in the 1980s.

Boston's Roger Clemens, the 1986 MVP, had three first-place votes and finished third this year with 212 points. Oakland reliever Dennis Eckersley had one first-place vote and was the sixth-place finisher, behind infielder Kelly Gruber of Toronto and reliever Bobby Thigpen of Chicago.

"Rickey and I both helped our teams. We're two different type teams. In power stats, I did better. For average, he did better," Fielder said Tuesday. "Of course I feel like I should have won it."

Henderson noted, "The game has changed since I got into baseball. The public and the sports writers are seeing now that it's more than just hitting home runs."

Hall of Famer Willie Mays — Henderson chose No. 24 as a uniform number because it was Mays' number — on Tuesday said, "Rickey's the best leadoff man I've ever seen. ... I've never seen a leadoff man who can do all the things he does so well."

The A's failed last month in their bid to repeat as World Series champs. But Henderson batted .294 in the AL playoffs against Boston and .333 in the four Series games against Cincinnati.

Clemens suspended for five games

BOSTON (AP) — Because Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens had such a good, long view of the last game of the American League playoffs, he will miss the first five games of the 1991 season.

American League president Bobby Brown announced on Tuesday that Clemens also was fined $10,000.

Clemens was ejected by plate umpire Terry Cooney in the second inning of Oakland's 3-1 victory that completed the A's four-game sweep Oct. 10.

In his announcement, Brown cited Clemens for making "... significant physical contact with an umpire (Jim Evans), for verbally abusing umpire Cooney, for threatening umpire Cooney, for obscenities and for not leaving the dugout immediately after the ejection."

Clemens was not immediately available for comment.

But his agent, Alan Hendricks, said the decision would be appealed.

"We feel it's totally excessive. We hope to get a fair hearing," Hendricks told The Boston Globe. "I have not talked to a person in America who doesn't feel like Clemens didn't deserve a warning. People's minds were blown by this."

The announcement came a week after Clemens earned a $50,000 bonus for finishing second in the AL Cy Young Award voting and on the same day he earned another $50,000 for finishing third in the AL Most Valuable Player voting.

Although Clemens can appeal, Red Sox general manager Lou Gorman said, "Dr. Brown's statement and subsequent fine and 'suspension' of Roger Clemens speaks for itself. Although we are not in agreement with the severity of the league's action, we are satisfied that the issue has been addressed."

Last season, Clemens led the league for the second time in earned run average with a 1.93 mark. He was 21-6, the second winningest season of his career.

He finished second to Oakland's Bob Welch in the Cy Young balloting. Clemens won the award in 1986 and 1987 and was the league's Most Valuable Player in 1986.

Although Boston surprised preseason predictors by winning the AL East, the season ended on a sour note for the team and its star pitcher.

The altercation occurred after Clemens walked Willie Randolph, giving the A's, who led 1-0, runners on first and third. Cooney and Clemens got into a shouting match and Clemens, trying to get closer to Cooney, bumped Evans.

After the game, Clemens and Cooney said that after Randolph walked, the pitcher shook his head near the mound.

Sidelines

Lady Steers fall to Estacado

Lubbock Estacado's one-two punch of Tasha Brooks and Patricia Conwright was too much for the Big Spring Lady Steers, as the Lady Matadors raced to a 75-47 win at Steer Gym Tuesday night.

Brooks scored 26 points and Conwright 21 for the Lady Mats, now 4-2 for the season. Big Spring, led by Bernie Valles' 16 points, falls to 1-4.

"Estacado's just got a tremendous team," Big Spring coach George Martin said. "We played as hard as we could. The only experience we have out there is Amber Fannin, and she only started the last six games last year."

Other leading scorers for Big Spring were Amber Grisham with eight points and Vernice Ross and Tessa Olague with six points apiece.

In the junior varsity game, Big Spring came up with its first win of the season, downing Estacado 44-41.

The Lady Steers will return to action next Tuesday when they travel to Lubbock to face on Coronado High School. Game time is 6 p.m. for the junior varsity and 7:30 p.m. for the varsity.

Tornadoes blow away Steers

LAMESA — The Big Spring Steers are still looking for their first basketball win of the season.

Tuesday night coach Tommy Washington's Steers fell to 0-3 with a 91-63 whipping handed to them by the Lamesa Tornadoes.

The game was close for one quarter. Lamesa led 24-21 after the first eight minutes. The Tornadoes led 46-31 at the half, and the game was all over. The Tors led 69-40 going into the final quarter.

Mike Williams led Big Spring with 22 points. Rod White scored 15 and Louis Soldan added 12. For Lamesa, Tyrone Lewis scored 22, followed by Bert Butler with 19.

New Hampshire out to end 26-game skid

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — New Hampshire, the nation's losingest Division I basketball team the past four years, enters the season looking to end the country's longest home losing streak — 26 games covering nearly three years.

The last UNH victory at Lundholm Gymnasium was Feb. 7, 1988, against Colgate.

"We don't hide it," second-year coach Jim Boylan said. "We talk about it. Obviously we'd like to get rid of it, but we don't emphasize it. It's going to happen on its own."

The Wildcats have a .150 winning percentage the past four years and are coming off a 5-23 mark — their best showing in four years. Since 1986-87, UNH is 17-94.

Boylan, a former Michigan State assistant, acknowledged the schedule doesn't make things any easier. After opening at Virginia Commonwealth on Saturday, the Wildcats will try to break the home losing streak Tuesday against Big East opponent Boston College, which is certain to be a heavy favorite.

Their only other home game before January is Dec. 4 against Massachusetts, which beat New Hampshire by 23 points last year.

"We'll just try to weather the storm," Boylan said. "My job is to get the young guys through the difficult games, help them roll with the punches so we can go into every game believing we can win."

Boylan said he's optimistic the streak will end. He said the team has more depth, talent and height than a year ago, and the players' attitudes seem better.

However, breaking the streak has taken a back seat to other, off-court distractions recently.

"The last year has been real tough for us," Boylan said. "We've had some highs, but there's been a lot of lows."

In September, Boylan interviewed for the University of Miami (Ohio) coaching job without telling his players, and withdrew his name. Indiana assistant coach Joby Wright eventually got the position and Boylan publicly apologized to UNH players for not informing them of his intentions.

"The timing of it, I know, was bad," he said.

Then top recruit Antonio Darnell Steadman was accused of sexually assaulting a female UNH student and was expelled. Steadman maintains his innocence and is suing the student for defamation.

Despite the problems, Boylan said he believes the team will improve this year. He said the team will be able to run more and play more aggressively on defense.

Last year, the team didn't have enough talent to push the ball and force turnovers, he said.

"It's awfully tough to beat someone when you're only scoring that many points," Boylan said.

Queens dominate Water Valley

FORSAN — The Forsan Queens came out firing early and continued throughout the game to come out with their second win of the season against the Water Valley Lady Wildcats, 52-38.

At the end of the first quarter the Queens led 12-1. But the Lady Wildcats came back in the second quarter and scored 17 points to the Queens 11 points. With 2:28 left in the second quarter Kara Evans had a steal and passed in to Casey Cook for two points to put the Queens on top, 23-18.

From the start of the third quarter the Queens never looked back. Becky Gerstenberger started out the scoring with a jumper, followed by a three point shot by Barbara Mitchell to put the Queens on top 28-18.

Mitchell led Forsan with nine points, Gerstenberger and Cook followed with eight points each.

"I was pleased that everybody scored, and also that the players coming off the bench helped to pick up the tempo of the game. We didn't play at the level I wanted us to play but we were still able to win," said Coach Johnny Schafer of the Queens.

The Queens will be on the road next Tuesday to play the Sands Lady Mustangs.

Number 10 team nips Buffaloes

FORSAN — The Forsan Buffaloes opened their basketball season against the #10 ranked 1A basketball team, the Water Valley Wildcats. The Buffaloes fell short, 55-50.

The first quarter both teams continually traded baskets, but the Wildcats ended that quarter on top by only two points, 14-12. Then it seemed the game would continue the same. Half way into the second quarter Joey Conway hit for two with an assist by Dave Rundell to tie up the score 19-19. Then the Wildcats had several unanswered points and came out on top at the end of the second quarter, 32-23. Opening the second half Josh Wooten hit for two points, followed by two points from Clay Martin to move in on the Wildcats, 32-27.

But the Buffaloes ended that quarter still behind 30-42. Late in the fourth quarter Brandon Riffe hit two 3 pointers within 11 seconds to bring the Buffs close 48-51 but the Wildcats answered with two points, and then Josh Wooten hit for two points with 38 seconds left to bring the Buffaloes within three points, 50-53. The game ended with two free shots from Water Valley to put them on top 50-55. Leading scorer for the Buffaloes was Stephen East with 13 points, followed by Brandon Riffe with 11 points.

"I was pleased with the effort of the team. Clay Martin played well with 10 offensive rebounds and Brandon Riffe made some clutch baskets. They did a good job at coming back," said Coach Kurt White of the Forsan Buffaloes.

Hawks

Midway through the first half, Lamar went on an 17-6 run, and Howard found itself trailing 40-28 with 5:54 left. Three minutes later Lamar's Duane Clark scored on a drive, and Lamar had its biggest lead of the game, 50-36.

But the Hawks, fueled by Broughton and Abrams, made a run before half, cutting the lead to 56-48 at intermission.

Five minutes into the second half Howard had made up the lost ground. The main reason is that Howard forced Lamar into seven turnovers the first three minutes of the half. Eddie Sheppard fed Broughton inside, trying the contest at 64-64. From that point on, it was Howard's show.

The Hawk defense forced 15 Lamar turnovers in the second half. Howard kept pounding the ball inside, and its inside shooting began to pick up.

Green said the game was the best and worst all in one. "They (Lamar) threw up some shots in the first half, and we were hanging all over them," he said. "We missed some shots and they got to running and hitting everything. That's what happens when a teams gets hot early. The basket starts looking like the Gulf of Mexico."

"We quit pressing them and got back because we couldn't stay with them. I told our guys to get the ball inside; they couldn't stop us inside. Our guards and wings stopped us in the first half because they didn't try to get the ball inside."

After Howard tied the game at 64-apiece, it went on a 20-10 run over the next five minutes. Midway through the half, Howard was well in control, leading 84-74.

With Green substituting freely, Howard kicked its running game in high gear. Pittman and Berry scored on fast break layups, Berry hit a three-pointer, and Pittman and Broughton got a couple more easy baskets off the break. This was mixed in with a couple of long distance bombs by Gregg Jeffery.

Then Broughton got a running jam, and then turned in a three-point play off another fast break. Howard led 100-77 with 6:10 left and the game was over for all practical purposes.

"There's no question about it, they (Lamar) got tired," said Green. "But we'd better get a lot better. We can't expect to come back in the second half against a quality team."

Howard is 10-0 for the season while Lamar falls to 2-5. The Hawks will play in the Cowley County Classic in Arkansas City, Kan. this Friday and Saturday.

AT ELMORE THE DIFFERENCE IS PEOPLE

Happy 3rd Anniversary, Geraldine!

We congratulate Geraldine Parrish on her third anniversary at Elmore Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep! Geraldine is the bookkeeper at Elmore, handling accounts receivable and payable and is also a computer operator.

Geraldine is a native of Howard County and has a brother and three sisters also living in Big Spring.

In her leisure time she enjoys reading, aggravating her family and traveling (as long as it's no farther than 60 miles from home). She's also been a member of Eastern Star, Chapter 67 for more than 30 years.

Geraldine has been in this particular phase of the car business since December of 1949 and says, "My job at Elmore has been the best thing that's ever happened to me, because I enjoy working and I enjoy working for the Elmore's, they've been very good to me." She also comments, "It sure beats sitting at home in a rocking chair."

"We're proud to have you with us." - The Elmore's.

Nets still can't win at home

By The Associated Press
NBA
 For those cynics who think there is no place too far away to send the hapless New Jersey Nets, Lester Conner has an idea. "We can't win on the road or at home. Maybe we need to schedule a couple of games on the moon or Mars," said Conner, who has played in every one of the Nets' NBA-record 33 consecutive road losses, including Tuesday night's record-setting 105-88 setback at the hands of the Seattle SuperSonics.

"We're not a good team on the road or at home," echoed center Sam Bowie. "It doesn't make any difference where we play right now. It's frustrating because losing creates a bad taste in any environment."

Sedale Threatt and Xavier McDaniell keyed a 23-9 Seattle spurt to start the third quarter after the Nets, who last won on the road Dec. 19 in Miami, trailed by 4 at halftime. Threatt scored 9 points and McDaniell 8 as Seattle opened a 71-53 lead. New Jersey never got closer than six the rest of the way. McDaniell scored 35 points and Threatt added 22.

"It's tough," Nets coach Bill Fitch said. "There are a million reasons why we lost. Basketball is not as tough a game as we made it look."

"I can't relate to this streak. Most of the guys can't," said Reggie Theus, who led the Nets with 29 points. "But we have to deal with it. A win will take a gorilla off our back."

The Nets are 0-5 away from home this season and it could get worse because they play the Los Angeles Clippers, Phoenix Suns and Golden State Warriors before returning home.

The Nets erased the Baltimore Bullets from the record book. The Bullets lost 32 consecutive road games from Jan. 2, 1983, to March 14, 1984.

Pistons 106, Heat 90
 John Salley scored 24 points and Detroit held Miami without a field goal over a 9:19 second-half span. Mark Aguirre added 22 points and Isiah Thomas had 13 points and 14 assists. Salley and Aguirre outscored the entire Miami team 19-16 in the second period.

The Heat shot only 37.8 percent (81 of 82), including 5-for-23 in the third quarter. Miami trailed 55-45 when Glen Rice, who scored 19 points, hit a 22-foot jumper with 6:58 left in the third quarter. But the Heat didn't get another basket until 2:21 into the fourth period.

Warriors 123, Magic 120
 Tim Hardaway scored 23 points, fellow guard Sarunas Marciulionis added 19 and Golden State held off a furious Orlando rally in the final two minutes. The Warriors lead was 116-94 with 2:24 remaining in the game but Orlando quickly narrowed the gap against Golden State reserves.

The Magic had 26 points in the final 1:43, with three 3-point goals, three 3-point plays and four dunks.

Golden State's sixth win in seven games gave the Warriors an 8-3 record, their best 11-game mark since they went 9-2 in 1972-73. The Magic was led by Terry Catledge with 17 points and Dennis Scott with 16. Chris Mullin had 18 and Rod Higgins 16 for Golden State.

Rockets 115, Knicks 88
 Akeem Olatunji scored 10 of his 30 points in a six-minute span of the third quarter and dominated his head-to-head matchup with Patrick Ewing. Olatunji and Vernon Maxwell, who scored 9 of his 16 points in the third period, scored all but 4 of the Rockets' 23 points in the quarter, keeping the Knicks from threatening Houston's 16-point halftime lead.

The Rockets, who won for the first time in four road games, outscored New York 15-4 to start the fourth quarter, taking a 90-65 lead. Ewing, averaging 26.8 points, scored 14, giving him only 26 in his last two games. Gerald Wilkins led New York with 17 points.

Hornets 128, Hawks 121
 J.R. Reid led seven players in double figures with 23 points as Charlotte handed Atlanta its fifth straight loss. Kenny Gattison, starting for the injured Armon Gilliam, had 17 points and a career-high 17 rebounds. Charlotte is 6-6. Last season, it took 19 games before the Hornets had six victories.

Two free throws by Johnny Newman gave the Hornets their biggest lead, 87-61, with 8:38 to play in the third quarter. The Hawks rallied with a 15-4 run to begin the fourth period, and a 3-point shot by John Batie pulled Atlanta to 123-117 with 1:26 left before the rally died. Dominique Wilkins scored 27 points for Atlanta.

Timberwolves 92, Mavericks 91
 Tyrone Corbin tipped in his own missed shot with three-tenths of a second left in overtime. Brad Davis made one of two free throws with 9.1 seconds remaining to give Dallas a 91-90 advantage. Corbin then missed a shot in the lane and Felton Spencer missed a tip-in before Corbin guided home the game-winner.

Aussies don't like court

PALM HARBOR, Fla. (AP) - Australian captain Neale Fraser held a newspaper in the air to emphasize a point about the playing surface in his team's upcoming Davis Cup final against the United States.

An article about the clay court the Americans are building in the Florida Suncoast Dome caught his attention Tuesday morning. Fraser couldn't resist the opportunity to renew his criticism of the United States Tennis Association's choice of playing surfaces. The story said one of the men preparing the court for the finals Nov. 30-Dec. 2 didn't realize the project would require him to become a combination of a brick mason and chemistry whiz.

Fraser, who objects to the court because he thinks it violates a Davis Cup rule requiring the host country to select a surface "in general use" in that country, said it isn't fair that the matches will be played on what he described as an "experimental" court.

Original plans called for the use of clay imported from Germany, but officials consented to the use of American clay after the Australians complained. The newspaper article discussed how the builder then conducted tests to come up with a mixture that would yield a surface close to what the Americans originally sought.

"It's the Davis Cup final, not the first round," Fraser said at a news conference called to announce the members of the Australian team.

"We're not complaining about the surface we're playing on, as long as it complies to the rules," he added, now holding a copy of the rules. "We're just making a point that this book is not being adhered to."

Meanwhile, Fraser said 1987 Wimbledon champion Pat Cash, Richard Fromberg, Darren Cahill and Wally Masur have been selected to play the American foursome of Andre Agassi, Michael Chang, Rick Leach and Jim Pugh in the finals.

The Australian captain wouldn't discuss his plans for the singles matches or who will be paired against Leach and Pugh in doubles, but promised the team will be prepared to win despite its unhappiness over the choice of playing surfaces as well as starting times.

"All I can say is whoever plays will be in form and do Australia proud," said Fraser, 4-0 in Davis Cup finals as captain, including victories over the United States (1973), Italy (1977) and Sweden (1983 and 1986).

Cash, Fromberg, Cahill and Masur were picked from a pool of six players who helped Australia reach the finals for the first time since 1986. Both John Fitzgerald and Mark Kratzmann are eligible in the event one of the team members is injured before next week's draw.

Besides being unhappy with the red clay court that's similar to those typically found in Europe, Fraser also disagrees with a USTA decision to start the first of two Nov. 30 singles matches at 5 p.m. EST. The lone doubles match begins at 12:30 p.m. the next day.

He said the players have the "right to reasonable rest" and reiterated Australia's concern that the United States will have an advantage because Leach and Pugh are doubles specialists who won't play singles matches the night before.

She loves musicals

PHOENIX (AP) — Florence Henderson says she regrets arriving in Hollywood about the time the studios stopped making musicals. "I loved those old film musicals," said Henderson, best known as the matriarch of "The Brady Bunch." "I grew up in this tiny town in southern Indiana where going to the movies was the biggest excitement of the week. I wanted to be Jane Powell."

She even tried to break into show business as a singer, at a talent show staged by bandleader Horace Heidt, but the results were less than successful, she recalled in a

Newman donates $10,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Newman is donating $10,000 from his Newman's Own line of food products to help keep a Ms. magazine educational program cooking.

The program, "Ms.: The World of Women," provides copies of the magazine for use in women's, sociology and psychology classes at about 2,000 U.S. colleges.

The magazine initially provided the copies for free. After Ms. ran into financial troubles last year, people such as Newman began underwriting the program, said publisher Ruth Bower.

Newman's company donates its earnings from such products as salad dressing to charity.

Loop edges Grady ladies

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ Staff Writer

If nothing else, Grady Lady Wildcats' head coach Randy Peel hopes the Loop Lady Longhorns gave his team a wake-up call.

"We did not block off, we were not working on defense. Last year we played Stanton and got beat and that woke us up. Maybe that's what this loss will do to us," Peel said after Loop defeated Grady, 49-40 in Wildcat Gym Tuesday night.

Sherrie McMorries and Casey Robertson scored four points apiece in the first quarter to give the Lady 'Cats an early 12-5 lead.

In the second quarter, Loop began to chip away at the Wildcat lead, with shots from Halbrook and Gloria Grandes. With Grady holding a 12-5 lead, both Loop players accounted for an 8-2 run that reduced the Grady lead to one point with 5:13 left in the first half.

Robertson kept the Wildcats close with her rebounding and followup shooting, but Loop outscored the Lady Wildcats, 17-10, in the second quarter to tie the game at intermission. In the first half, Grady committed 15 turnovers, while Loop had six.

Loop outscored Grady in the third quarter as well, led by Grandes and Halbrook. Robertson's scoring and Laurie Romine's rebounding kept the Lady Wildcats close, but Loop held a 37-33 lead after three.

The final period was all Loop as the Lady Longhorns took advantage of Grady turnover en route to the final margin.

"I have to give Loop credit, they caused most of the turnovers. They

Gorbachev urges council meeting

(AP) Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today urged a meeting of the U.N. Security Council on the Persian Gulf crisis.

President Bush said there were only minor differences between himself and Gorbachev on Iraq's occupation of Kuwait.

In Paris, Bush met with Gorbachev and other world leaders on the gulf crisis but failed to win backing from the Soviets for a U.N. resolution on using force to drive

Iraq from Kuwait.

However, Bush said he and Gorbachev saw "eye to eye" on the subject of Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait. He said any differences between the superpowers were "extraordinarily minor."

Asked if the United Nations might act this month on a U.N. resolution to use force against Iraq, Bush said: "Stay tuned. There's certainly a chance."

Later, Gorbachev seemed to move closer to Bush's position. The Soviet leader urged an immediate Security Council meeting to address a "very dangerous" situation in the gulf "and take a decision there."

"We can't just leave things this way without giving them closer analysis," the Soviet leader said after meeting with Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

Gorbachev did not elaborate on what any U.N. Security Council meeting might discuss, or what any solution might involve.

A day earlier, Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said the Security Council should "take stock of things and pass appropriate judgment on what it has been doing."

Then, if necessary, he said, the body should "adopt new resolutions with a view to implementing all the previous decisions."

Summit partners declare Cold War ended

PARIS (AP) — President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev led world leaders today in final rites for the Cold War as a 34-nation summit ended with a triumphant declaration that the "era of confrontation and division in Europe is over."

The celebration was tempered by concern over the Persian Gulf, and the leaders departed Paris still apparently groping for consensus on how to force Iraq's withdrawal from Kuwait.

The final act of the first post-Cold War European summit was marked by the signing of the Charter of Paris, a written commitment to democracy, human rights and economic freedom. "We are closing a chapter in history. The cold war is over and we now move on toward working... toward a peaceful and stable Europe," said Bush.

It took only 15 minutes to sign the document, bound in red leather, which signaled an end to an era of tensions in the nuclear age.

French President Francois Mitterrand was the first to sign. He was followed by Helmut Kohl, chancellor of a newly unified Germany, and the leaders of Poland, Hungary and other nations that until a few months ago were hardline communist followers of the Soviet Union.

The summit opened on Monday with the formal signing of a landmark treaty that slashes non-nuclear forces in Europe and a companion non-aggression pact.

CNN hands over Noriega prison tapes to judge

MIAMI (AP) — CNN's tapes of Manuel Noriega's jailhouse phone calls to his legal team are in the hands of a federal magistrate who will help determine whether the former dictator's right to a fair trial has been jeopardized.

The network handed over a briefcase full of tapes on Tuesday after the U.S. Supreme Court refused over the weekend to lift U.S. District Judge William Hoeweler's temporary order barring CNN from airing the recordings.

U.S. Magistrate William Turnoff will make and study transcripts and report to Hoeweler, who as the judge who will preside over Noriega's trial on drug trafficking charges will weigh a defense request to dismiss the case.

Hoeweler assigned Turnoff to listen to the tapes to avoid being "tainted" by having learned details of Noriega's defense strategy.

No time limit for reviewing the tapes was set, but Noriega's lead attorney, Frank Rubino, said the judge guaranteed it would done "with dispatch."

Rubino also asked Hoeweler to set a contempt hearing against CNN for airing a conversation in alleged violation of the judge's order. The judge did not immediately set a hearing, saying he must await a decision by the chief judge of his judicial district on a CNN request to remove him from the tapes case.

CNN attorney Steven Korn wouldn't say how many tapes were turned over. He would not discuss their contents or origins but said he was confident that the judge will rescind his so-called prior restraint on broadcast of the tapes.

He said CNN believes it never violated the judge's order because the telecast conversations did not deal with matters protected by attorney-client confidentiality — in part because Rubino tacitly agreed to broadcasting them when he identified them on the air.

Democrats challenge deployment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of 45 House Democrats filed suit Tuesday to try to force President Bush to seek authority from Congress before ordering a U.S. military attack to drive Iraqi troops out of Kuwait.

The lawsuit seeks an injunction to bar Bush "from launching or initiating an offensive military attack by United States forces against Iraq without obtaining a declaration of war or other explicit authorization from the Congress."

The lawsuit was filed in U.S. District Court a day after Iraq ordered an additional 250,000 troops into Kuwait and nearly two weeks after Bush began deployment of an estimated 200,000 more U.S. troops to the region. Some 230,000 U.S. troops already are in Saudi Arabia.

"This case poses a question of supreme importance to this nation and one uniquely for the courts to decide: whether a major war, not partaking of the element of surprise and leaving ample room for deliberation, may be initiated by the president without the consent of Congress," the lawmakers said in court papers.

"The framers of our Constitution thought not; most members of today's Congress think not," they said.

A military reservist who is challenging his orders to go to Saudi Arabia filed a similar action last week. A federal judge in Washington refused to bar Bush from sending Sgt. Michael R. Ange to Saudi Arabia along with his Army National Guard unit.

But U.S. District Judge Royce Lamberth scheduled a Dec. 10 hearing on the soldier's motion for a permanent injunction to prevent his deployment. The judge said the case raised "a difficult legal question."

Court affirms conviction

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the conviction of Sue Miller, who was sentenced to 10 years in prison in the 1985 kidnapping of an infant from Dallas County.

The baby's mother, Jennifer Lynn Sutton, testified that she hired Ms. Miller, whom she knew by another name, to babysit. Ms. Sutton said she returned home on Nov. 13, 1985, to find the woman and child missing.

Ms. Sutton next saw her daughter a month later, when she flew to Tampa, Fla. to recover the baby.

Value of U.S. ag exports reaches nine-year high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of U.S. agricultural exports rose to a nine-year high in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30, but Agriculture Department analysts say it'll be tougher sledding in 1991.

In fiscal 1990, the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday, export values rose to $40.2 billion from $39.7 billion in 1989. That was the most since the record of $43.8 billion in 1981.

Official forecasts of 1991 exports, farm income and other indicators will be issued next week at the department's annual outlook conference.

But bumper crops in some other countries have already lowered prospects for U.S. grain exports in the coming year, the report said.

For example, the export volume of corn in September — the final month of the 1990 fiscal year — plunged to 2.7 million metric tons, the lowest monthly volume since February 1987.

Although analysts were not specific on the effects of an export slowdown, the report noted other factors that will have a bearing on farm income in 1991 and beyond.

"The U.S. economy continues to grow very slowly, and the outlook is for more slow growth, or even a brief contraction," the report said. "Given an orderly unwinding of current problems, though, growth should pick up in 1992."

Over the longer haul, it said, forecasts suggest that inflation, interest rates and the value of the dollar will drift down.

"Lower interest rates would put downward pressure on farmers' production costs and a lower exchange rate would aid farm exports," the report said.

But good crops in much of the world "have lowered prospects for U.S. exports of wheat, coarse grains and rice," it added.

"Global wheat output is expected to rise 11 percent in 1990-91, setting a record," the report said. "A smaller gain in coarse grain production is likely, and world trade will slip. A record world rice crop is expected, and trade will increase only slightly."

The monthly report by the department's Economic Research

Service also said the net cash income of farmers this year is still expected to be at a record level, probably in the range of $59 billion to $63 billion.

That is unchanged from previous forecasts by the agency. Net cash income is the difference between gross cash income and cash expenses.

Another report Tuesday said the cereal grain needs for 55 low-income countries in 1990-91 "are substantial, despite the favorable outlook for supplies" globally.

"East Africa and the relatively populous region of South Asia will require the most assistance, followed by Latin America and Southern Africa," the report said.

Yeutter not leaving

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter has no plan to leave his job, despite speculation that he would soon step down, says his chief spokeswoman.

Talk has circulated on Capitol Hill and elsewhere that Yeutter was headed for greener pastures following completion of the 1990 farm bill and the conclusion next month of international trade talks.

One of the latest to surface is that Yeutter might be in line for an ambassadorship, perhaps to Germany, if that should become available.

Desert deep freeze

Bush, headed for the Middle East and a Thanksgiving Day visit with U.S. troops there, departed without a public commitment from Gorbachev to support a United Nations resolution authorizing the use of force to dislodge Iraq's army from Kuwait.

Even so, he said, "I've said all along... that we are on the same wave length as the Soviet Union." He added he was "very encouraged about this holding together of a coalition in the sands and on the seas of the Gulf."

The summit document exulted in the end to Cold War tensions that divided Europe for 45 years. Every European nation but Albania signed, as did Canada, the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Europe is liberating itself from the legacy of the past," the charter said. "Ours is a time for fulfilling the hopes and expectations our peoples have cherished for decades: steadfast commitment to democracy based on human rights and fundamental freedoms, prosperity through economic liberty and social justice, and equal security for all countries."

The charter sets up a small bureaucracy in Prague for the 34-nation Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, as well as a center for the prevention of conflict in Vienna and an office in Warsaw to help monitor elections.

"Democratic government is based on the will of the people, expressed regularly through free and fair elections," the charter said. "Democracy is the best safeguard of freedom of expression, tolerance of all groups of society, and equality of opportunity for each person."

The summit document also recommends that the heads of member states and governments meet at least once every two years, their foreign ministers annually and senior officials even more often.

Bush, who met with Gorbachev over dinner on Monday night, said he was leaving Paris convinced that "we're in good synchronization" with other nations on strategy for ending the gulf crisis.

Nevertheless, the Persian Gulf was not discussed at Tuesday's afternoon closed-door session, said French spokesman Hubert Vedrine. He said the subject did not come up, adding: "There will be no common declaration by the 34 on the gulf."

There was not, and the leaders departed without devoting a line of their summit charter to the issue.

Mideast

Resolutions already approved by the Security Council impose an economic boycott on Iraq and occupied Kuwait, call for Iraq's unconditional withdrawal, insist upon restoration of Kuwait's deposed government and demand Iraq free Western hostages.

Iraq, meanwhile, promised to free 157 more Europeans it is holding. Western officials said. Many have said Saddam Hussein's policy of releasing hostages gradually is designed to break the world alliance against Iraq.

Iraq is holding hundreds of Westerners, many as human shields at strategic sites to deter attack by the 350,000-strong U.S.-led multinational force in the Persian Gulf. Those troops are arrayed against an estimated 460,000 Iraqi soldiers, deployed in southern Iraq and Kuwait.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, in Paris with Bush, said Baghdad's moves to free hostages gradually instead of immediately was another effort to chisel away international solidarity against Iraq.

"Our answer is simply, 'Sorry, it won't work,'" said Fitzwater on Tuesday.

Bush left for the Middle East today after three days in Paris for a European security summit. He said he would tell U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia that they were "not there on a mission impossible."

Bush was to spend Thanksgiving in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia with U.S. troops deployed there. His first stop on his Middle Eastern tour, however, was in the Saudi city of Jiddah for a meeting with the exiled emir of Kuwait. Next was a near-midnight dinner with Saudi King Fahd, known for his preference for late-night meetings.

About 250,000 American troops have been sent to the gulf in the biggest deployment since the Vietnam war. Bush has ordered an additional 200,000 soldiers to the Middle East.

Magness steps down from pageant board

FORT WORTH (AP) — B. Don Magness, the former director of the Miss Texas Pageant, today resigned from any association with the competition because of what he called "blackmail."

Magness also claimed national leaders of the pageant are concerned with the number of black winners of the competition and its ability to attract sponsors.

He said during a morning news conference that the "blackmail" came in a letter he received from Miss America Pageant director Leonard Horn that stated Magness must step down or the franchise for the Miss Texas Pageant would be revoked.

Magness said that Horn told him during a visit to Fort Worth last month that prior to the 1989 Miss America Pageant, it was time for a minority contestant to win. The 1989 Miss America, Debbye Turner, is black. This year's winner, Marjorie Vincent, also is black.

Magness alleged Horn raised concerns about television ratings and sponsors, should a black woman be chosen for the third year in a row.

A Miss America spokeswoman in Atlantic City, N.J., said Horn could not immediately be reached for comment on Magness' remarks.

In direct response to a question, Magness said he was not contending that the 1989 pageant was rigged, but added, "I'm just telling you what he said."

Magness, the unpaid director of the Miss Texas Pageant since 1960, stepped down as chairman of the board just before this year's national finals in September. A magazine article quoted him as referring to some contestants as "sluts." He has stayed on as a board member.

Before official word came from pageant headquarters Tuesday Magness told the reporters: "They do not have the votes on my board to force me off. But, if they threaten to strip Fort Worth of the franchise and move the Miss Texas Pageant out of Fort Worth, then I would resign rather than have that happen."

OLD-FASHIONED FAVORITES WITH NEW-FANGLED TWISTS

Baking is alive and well and thriving in the '90s. Granted, it's not quite the way Grandma did it...but the results are every bit as good.

With the onset of the holidays, turn your thoughts to old-fashioned favorites. Thanks to a raft of on-hand ingredients, you can turn out delicious homemade desserts with a flick of the wrist.

Nothing says "This is a VERY special occasion" better than a homemade pie, with its nostalgic aroma wafting through the kitchen. Karo corn syrup and Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts have teamed up to give you four knock 'em dead holiday pie recipes that can be whipped out in a mere fraction of the time it took to make pies of yore.

Apple Cranberry Pie - The sweetness of apples and the tartness of cranberries combine in this contemporary creation.

Apple Almond Pie - A sugar-glazed apple wreath adorns intriguing almond custard pie, chock full of apples and nuts.

Classic Pecan Pie - No holiday would be complete without this original American classic.

Pumpkin Swirl Pie - Give the tried-and-true pumpkin pie a new twist with a swirl of rich cream cheese filling.

Karo corn syrup, a staple ingredient in American cupboards for years, turns these pies into impressive, fresh-baked treats for the season.

Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts take home-baking one step further with a holiday look. With a little imagination, the creative baker can make a pie crust masterpiece. Illustrations and step-by-step directions show just how easy it is to update your favorite pie with decorative edges.

A smashing dessert lends a festive air to any special occasion and brings accolades from family and friends; an occasion to make Grandma proud!

New Designs for Holiday Pies

A classic pie takes on a festive look with a fanciful edge or decorated crust. It's so easy to do. Once you've mastered these simple techniques — a pinch here, a twist of the finger there — you'll never turn out a plain-Jane pie again.

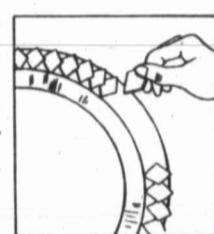

PREPARING THE CRUST

Place one refrigerated pie crust in a pan. For a single-crust pie, fold extra dough that hangs over pan rim under itself so that the crust edge is even with the pan rim.

With a two-crust pie, trim bottom crust even with pan rim. Fill; top with second crust and fold extra dough of top crust under bottom crust, making edge even with pan rim.

CREATIVE CUT-OUT EDGE

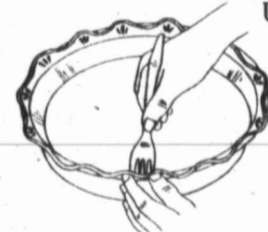

Brush edge of a single unbaked crust with egg white. Using a second refrigerated pie crust, cut desired shapes, such as tiny circles, squares, triangles or leaves. Overlap cut-outs on edge of crust; press lightly to secure.

A FORK SCALLOP DESIGN

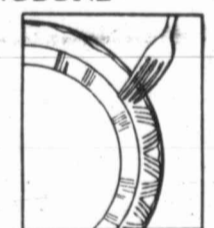

Place left thumb and index finger about 1/4 inch apart on the outside of pie crust edge.

Use right index finger to push dough toward edge, forming a scallop shape. Dip fork in flour; press tines into wide scallops.

THE CLASSIC HERRINGBONE

Dip fork in flour. Press tines onto the crust edge at angles to form "V" shapes. Continue around the rim making a series of "Vs" to form the herringbone pattern.

APPLE CRANBERRY PIE

- 1 (15-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup corn starch
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 5 cups peeled apple slices
- 2 cups fresh or frozen cranberries
- 1/3 cup Karo light or dark corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- Milk
- Sugar

Prepare pie crust according to package directions for filled two-crust pie using 9-inch pan. Heat oven to 450°F. In large bowl, stir sugar, corn starch and cinnamon until well mixed. In another large bowl, mix apples, cranberries and corn syrup. Add fruit to sugar mixture. Mix to combine. Spoon into pie crust-lined pan. Dot with butter. Top with second crust; flute. Cut four 4-inch slashes in center of crust forming a criss-cross design. Peel back center points and press lightly in crust to hold and form 8 petals. Brush crust with milk; sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 450°F for 10 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350°F; continue baking 40 to 45 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely on wire rack. Store in refrigerator. 8 servings.

TIP: Cover edge of pie crust with strips of foil during last 15 to 20 minutes of baking to prevent excessive browning.

PUMPKIN SWIRL PIE

- 1 (15-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
- 1 (8-oz.) pkg. cream cheese, softened
- 1/2 cup Karo light corn syrup, divided
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup canned pumpkin
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup evaporated milk
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice*
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Prepare pie crust according to package directions for filled one-crust pie using 9-inch pie pan. (Refrigerate remaining crust for later use.) Flute edge using fork scallop design or as desired. Heat oven to 325°F. In small bowl with mixer at medium speed, beat cream cheese until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in 1/4 cup corn syrup and vanilla until smooth. Spread evenly over bottom of pie crust-lined pan. In same bowl combine pumpkin, eggs, remaining 1/4 cup corn syrup, evaporated milk, sugar, pumpkin pie spice and salt; beat until smooth. Carefully pour over cream cheese mixture in pie shell. With knife or small spatula, swirl mixture to give marbled effect. Bake at 325°F for 45 to 50 minutes or until knife inserted halfway between edge and center comes out clean. Cool completely on wire rack. Store in refrigerator. 8 servings.

TIP: One teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg and 1/8 teaspoon allspice can be substituted for 1 1/2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice.

CLASSIC PECAN PIE

- 1 (15-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
- 3 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup Karo light or dark corn syrup
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 1/2 cups pecan halves

Prepare pie crust according to package directions for filled one-crust pie using 9-inch pie pan. Use second crust to form cut-out edge or flute as desired. Heat oven to 350°F. In medium bowl, beat eggs slightly. Add sugar, corn syrup, butter and vanilla; stir until well blended. Stir in pecans. Pour into pie crust-lined pan. Bake at 350°F for 50 to 55 minutes or until filling is set around edge and slightly soft in center. Cool completely on wire rack. Store in refrigerator. 8 servings.

VARIATIONS:

CALIFORNIA PECAN PIE: Stir 1/4 cup sour cream into eggs until blended.

KENTUCKY BOURBON PECAN PIE: Add up to 2 tablespoons bourbon to filling.

CHOCOLATE PECAN PIE: Reduce sugar to 1/2 cup. Melt 1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips with butter.

APPLE ALMOND PIE

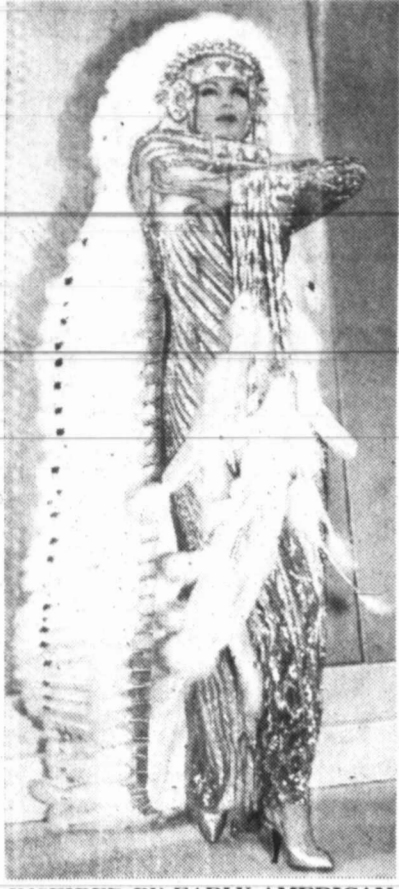

- 1 (15-oz.) pkg. Pillsbury All Ready Pie Crusts
- 1/4 cup sugar, divided
- 1/4 cup corn starch
- 3 eggs
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1/2 cup Karo light or dark corn syrup
- 1/4 teaspoon almond extract
- 2 cups (about 2 large) peeled, chopped apples
- 1 cup sliced or slivered almonds, toasted

GARNISH

- 1 small apple, peeled and thinly sliced (optional)
- 2 tablespoons sliced or slivered almonds, toasted (optional)

Prepare pie crust according to package directions for filled one-crust pie using 9-inch pie pan. (Refrigerate remaining pie crust for later use.) Flute edge using herringbone design or as desired. Heat oven to 375°F. Reserve 2 tablespoons sugar. In medium bowl, combine remaining sugar and corn starch. Add eggs, beating well to combine. Stir in butter, corn syrup and almond extract. Mix in apples and almonds. Pour into pie crust-lined pan. If desired, garnish with apple slices overlapped in a circle around edge of pie. Sprinkle center with almonds. Sprinkle reserved sugar over top. Bake at 375°F for 50 minutes or until center of pie is set. Cool completely on wire rack. Store in refrigerator. 8 servings.

COVER OF SMOG—Much of the pollution and smog in metropolitan areas today is being blamed on motor vehicles.

Clean Oil Best Bet To Make Family Car Last Even Longer

Making the family car last longer and longer is the goal of owners who now pay an average $15,000 for their new vehicles and who may finance them for 5 years or more.

Preventive maintenance is the answer, beginning with checking and changing of motor oil.

Car Care Council reports that 28 percent of vehicles inspected during National Car Care Month were found with low or dirty oil. Neglecting to change oil and filter is the most common cause of engine failure, says the Council. Many engine rebuilders report the majority of their business comes from high mileage drivers who, becoming careless, run their vehicles too far without changing oil.

Oil is the lifeblood of the engine, providing more than lubrication; it cools internal engine parts and provides anti-corrosive protection as well.

The detergent additive found in quality motor oil is an effective cleaning agent that holds minute particles of abrasive grit and contaminants in suspension until they are trapped in the filter.

Smart homeowners carry an insurance policy designed especially for their needs. (Indeed, the mortgage holder will insist on it!) Renters get similar protection with a tenant's form of the homeowner's policy.

Now there is also protection available for the special needs of the condominium owner.

In most cases, a condominium owner is liable for everything within the unfinished interior of the outside walls — paint, wallpaper, even cabinets and carpeting. A condo policy can be customized to cover the value of your own "additions and alterations" (the official phrase).

Though the condo association has a master insurance policy to cover the entire facility, it may not be adequate to cover a large judgment against the association. If the owner's agreement with the association allows assessment for loss, the policy can cover that, too.

For those who sublet their condominium quarters, policies can be designed to cover furnishings and theft by tenants.

Menswear from Spain for Fall 1990: Oversized, detailed and accessorized

Menswear from Spain is gaining worldwide attention with its exciting collections for Fall 1990.

Creativity in shape, color, fabric and detailing have turned all eyes to Spain. Watch for the country-gentleman look—refined roughness in outerwear, softer fabrications, quilting, spicy earth tones, innovative knitwear and retro-look ties.

Highlights:

The focus is on outerwear. Oversized bombers, parkas and duffels are shown with everything from corduroys and cashmere turtlenecks to shirt-and-tie looks. Fabrics include brushed cottons and wools, some with leather and suede trim, toggle closures, drawstring waists, hoods and oversized pockets. Quilting is the newest trend, showing up in yoke details or in the overall jacket fabrication.

Sportswear takes its inspiration from the country. Styles are "lived-in," with comfort a high priority. Trousers are new in velour fabrics with leather trim. Knitwear is dynamic when shown in earth-tone colors and with strong graphic patterns. There's an abundance of sports jackets this fall, including classic houndstooth

IN THE WORLD OF FOOTWEAR, WOMEN CAN HAVE IT ALL

Something new has been introduced into the world of shoe fashion—comfortable and stylish women's pumps.

The trend is toward casual and comfortable footwear, away from spiked heels and pointed toes.

One innovation is the fashionable "walking pump" or "comfort pump." The toes are rounded and the heels are a sensible inch and a half or two.

Some pro-consumer manufacturers are using more flexible soles and sneaker-like construction with space-age, longer-lasting cushioning that provides more shock absorbency. Three styles of walking pumps have the use of the American Podiatric Medical Association's Seal of Acceptance.

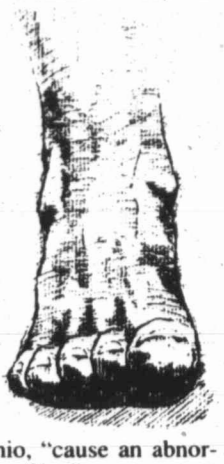

There are also eye-pleasing pumps with 2 or 2 1/2-inch heels with spring and sponging.

With the availability of new styles, women no longer need abuse their feet with high heels which, according to Nancy Lu Conrad, DPM, of Circleville, Ohio, "cause an abnormal position for our feet."

Whether because of high heels or poorly fitted shoes, women are subject to a variety of foot ills and other ailments. Some are:

Achilles tendonitis: This happens from the stress high-heeled shoes put on the back of the legs, knees and lower back, resulting in shortened tendons.

Bunions: These are misaligned big toe joints that become swollen and tender.

Men's accessories from Spain are versatile, daring and bold

Men are taking more fashion risks than ever before and accessories from Spain are at the forefront of this trend.

Ties, scarves, belts and shoes are becoming more eclectic and contemporary. Retailers are going nontraditional, realizing that items which might have been considered novel in the past are now key elements in a man's wardrobe.

Good taste seems to be the only restriction on manufacturers and designers. Bold colors, bright florals, elaborate stitching, embroidered designs and intricately embossed patterns are all finding their way onto accessories and into a man's "total look."

This adventurous attitude towards dressing is also reflected in tailored clothing and sportswear, but is most evident in accessories because of their ability to adapt and interchange well.

In addition, accessories extend the wardrobe by providing an easy and economical way to update or alter a look.

"Today's man is self-expressive; he wants his outfit to make a statement about who he is," says Mercedes Lamamie de Clairac, fashion director of the Commercial Office of Spain. "Spanish designers are enabling men to give their wardrobes personality by creating accessories that are tasteful, but unusual and maybe a little off-beat."

How to select an insulation contractor to get your home ready for the winter

Fall is a busy time for many homeowners, as they get their homes ready for the colder months. Finishing yardwork, storing summertime clothes in the attic and weatherizing the house are some of the tasks that need to be completed.

When to hire a contractor

Upgrading the insulation levels in your home is an excellent step to take in the fall to help reduce your winter energy bills and keep your home more comfortable. Adding insulation in your attic is an easy, do-it-yourself project that can be completed in an afternoon. But if you're short on time and there are other areas in your home that need insulating, consider hiring a contractor to do the job for you.

The right materials

Selecting an insulation contractor is an important process that requires finding an experienced professional who uses quality products. He'll probably recommend a fiber glass blown-in insulation like CertainTeed's Insul-Safe III. It's non-combustible, noncorrosive and won't rot or decay.

Look in your telephone directory under "Insulation Contractors." Friends, relatives, and even your local utility can also be a good source for leads. Once you've identified a few contractors, you can easily determine their credentials. A good rule of thumb is to make sure they've been in business for at least five years. Look at the types of projects they've done in the past to see if they match your job, and ask for a list of customers in your area that you can contact. It's also a good idea to check all information with your Better Business Bureau.

Costs are recuperable

By hiring a professional contractor to install insulation in your home this fall, you can relax in the comfort of an energy-efficient home and still complete the rest of your home projects. The cost of the job will probably be recovered through energy savings in a few years.

Protecting your rights

Ask for a written estimate that lists the type, amount, and R-Value of the insulation to be installed, the total cost for materials and labor to complete the job, as well as a starting and finishing date. It's important to get the proper R-Value, not just inches, since the thermal efficiency of products varies. All job specifications, details for the method of payment and the contractor's warranty should also be included. To validate the contract, both you and the contractor need to sign and retain copies of it.

Fighting back against cracks

Don't let creeping wall or ceiling cracks catch up with you. A fresh coat of paint alone isn't the answer. These creeping cracks, large or small, soon will pop through a new coat of paint unless they are repaired.

Use a drywall plaster product, such as DAP's Fast 'n Final Spackling to smooth over the crack or hole.

Tip: Slightly overfill holes or cracks with spackling and allow to dry. Gently sand so the patch is smooth with the wall. Then, you only need to patch once. Use a quality spackle to avoid shrinkage.

In older homes, where settling has made fighting cracks a losing battle, try a new tactic. Add decorative texture to walls or ceilings to cover blemishes. A variety of products, with thin to thick textures, are available including DURABOND Decorative Wall Texture or DURABOND Texture Additive for Paint. Textures can be applied by rolling or spraying.

A consumer helpline

Do I have enough collision insurance on my new car? Why was my health insurance policy cancelled? Do I really need such a large life insurance policy? Does my homeowners policy cover my swimming pool?

In an effort to respond to these and other general consumer questions and concerns about insurance, the property/casualty and life/health industries have joined forces to establish a nationwide, toll-free, consumer information telephone line.

The National Insurance Consumer Helpline—(800) 942-4242—operates from 8:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. EST, Monday through Friday. The Helpline is managed by an independent company under contract with industry sponsors that uses trained industry personnel to handle inquiries.

Planning to paint your bedroom? Masking products save preparation and cleanup time

Your bedroom is your retreat: a very private place, the most personal room of your home. You can let your decorating imagination go here as in no other room, using paint colors and wallpaper to express your innermost feelings and to create a soothing mood.

Your bedroom is also a room that you may want to repaint more frequently than other rooms; it can always benefit from the clean look that a fresh coat of paint provides.

Doing your own painting isn't difficult or tricky. You can make the most of your time by planning your painting carefully and cutting cleanup chores by protecting your belongings.

•Check your local hardware or home center store for tools and sundries to help you maximize your painting efforts.

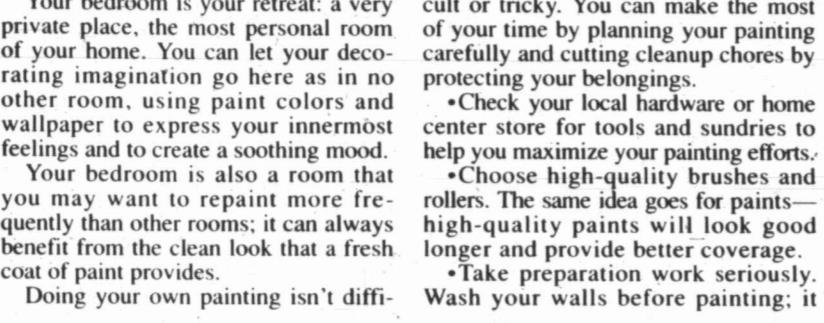

•Choose high-quality brushes and rollers. The same idea goes for paints—high-quality paints will look good longer and provide better coverage.

•Take preparation work seriously. Wash your walls before painting; it helps paint to adhere uniformly.

Preparation also means protecting your furnishings. You'll need to protect carpeting, floors, furniture, windows, and other areas from paint drips.

Your best bet is to stock up on paint masking products that have an advantage over the bedsheets, dropcloths, newspapers and masking tape you've used in the past.

The answer to complete masking is Tape 'n Drape, which combines a durable poly dropcloth with a non-marring tape preapplied to one edge. Rolls unfold to either 21 or 43 inches wide, in various lengths. Tape 'n Drape catches paint drips and spills, cutting cleanup time to nearly nothing.

PROTECT WINDOWS, WALLS, AND FURNITURE from paint spills and splatters with Tape 'n Drape® pre-taped poly dropcloths.

It also trims maintenance Vinyl siding beautifies

The best home improvements are the kind that use building products which combine good looks, easy care, economy and durability.

Available in a variety of colors, textures and styles, vinyl siding is suitable for most architectural styles and can be used to blend or contrast with other exterior color elements. It also comes in clapboard widths or horizontal styles, smooth or woodgrain textures.

One example of just such a building product is solid vinyl siding. It won't rust or corrode. Since it has color throughout, there's no surface color to wear off nor will scratches show. There are no blistering or peeling problems because it never needs painting.

A complete line of matching accessories, such as shutters, downspouts, gutters, fascia, soffits and other solid vinyl trim, help reduce exterior maintenance even more.

An occasional rinse with a mild detergent and water keeps vinyl siding new looking for years. One of its best attributes, says the Vinyl Siding Institute, is that it eliminates the bother, cost and time involved in painting the exterior of a house every few years.

Additional information is included in a free booklet, "What Homeowners Want to Know About Solid Vinyl Siding." To get a copy, send a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to VSI, 355 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Home winterization : Don't forget your water pipes

Autumn's crisp, blustery days are finally here, bringing with them the swirling leaves, crystal-clear skies and refreshing chill of fall. Thoughts of winter are just starting to form—friendly snowball fights, romantic ski weekends and hot mulled cider being sipped by a fire. To guarantee that this winter is as enjoyable and care-free as you've imagined, it's a good idea to take a few precautions to protect your home and family from one of winter's less popular aspects—its freezing temperatures.

Many concerned homeowners devote at least one weekend preparing for the cold season by winterizing their property. Whether it's closing up a mountain cabin or preparing the family home for the coming snowy months, these winter warriors faithfully check attic insulation, clean out roof gutters and downspouts, re-caulk windows and doors and even bleed radiators.

But how many conscientious homeowners remember to protect their water pipes? If home water pipes are overlooked, they can freeze or even burst, resulting in hundreds of dollars in plumbing repair costs and, possibly, irreparable damage to a home's foundation, structure and electrical system. Valuable rugs, furniture and personal keepsakes are often lost as well.

There are two ways to protect water pipes from freezing, and they are most effective when used together. The first step to winterizing water pipes is to wrap them with high quality insulation. Leading manufacturers of industrial and residential pipe and duct insulation recommend that homeowners use one-half or one-inch tubular insulation, and that they completely wrap pipes, valves, spigots and connections. Correctly installed, insulation keeps heat on the pipes instead of allowing it to dissipate into the air.

The second step toward pipe winterization is to wrap pipes with self-regulating heating cable. This method, which should always be used in conjunction with appropriate insulation, warms the water in the pipes to prevent dangerous freezing or bursting which can result from long cold spells or unexpected cold snaps.

Self-regulating heating cable is wrapped around exposed water pipes and plugged into an electrical outlet. The cable automatically "senses" the exterior temperature from inside the cable itself. Instead of relying on a thermostat, self-regulating heating cables automatically produce more heat as temperatures drop, and less heat as they rise. This ensures that just the right amount of heat is supplied to a home's water pipes, only when and where needed. Because of their self-regulating properties, most heating cables can be overlapped without any fear of overheating—which can occur with thermostatically-controlled systems.

Raychem Corporation, manufacturer of Frostex Plus™—a unique self-regulating pipe heating system—and Smith Gates Easy Heat, the product's marketers, strongly suggest that consumers carefully follow the manufacturer's installation and maintenance instructions included with their self-regulating heating cable to ensure reliable system performance. Below are a few tips to keep in mind when you go to your local hardware store to purchase self-regulating heating cable.

- Before purchasing heating cable, measure your pipe diameter and total length. Count the valves and spigots along the pipe, as they will add to the length of heating cable you'll need.
- Ensure that pipes and fittings are free of sharp edges which can damage the heating cable; if the cable is punctured, the entire heating cable system should be replaced.
- Don't forget to purchase good quality tape or plastic ties for attaching the cable to your pipes—as wire or metal clamps can damage the cable.
- Be sure to purchase good quality, waterproof and fire-resistant insulation to ensure the heating cable's best performance.

IF HOME WATER PIPES ARE LEFT UNPROTECTED during the cold weather season, they can freeze or even burst, resulting in costly plumbing costs and sometimes irreparable damage to the home. One means of protecting your water pipes from winter's freezing temperatures is Frostex Plus™ self-regulating pipe heating system, which features a braided cut-to-order heating cable with a metallic sheath for grounding, a patented gel end seal and built-in fuse plug.

America's trash cans are lined with gold

"Everyone reading this story has thrown away something worth $100 or more," believes collectibles expert Dr. Tony Hyman.

You wouldn't toss out a crystal bowl, Hyman explains, because it looks valuable, but things worth a lot more end up in trash cans or sold for pennies at yard sales.

"If it's more than 15 years old, don't throw it away, because someone somewhere will probably pay for it," says Hyman, who in the past 10 years has interviewed nearly 10,000 buyers of so-called "trash."

From snowmobiles to moon landers, baby buggies to pedal cars, anything related to transportation is sought after. And not just the vehicles themselves. Tim O'Callaghan lives in Plymouth, but buys owners' manuals, plant badges, dealer literature and "everything associated with Ford."

Other buyers seek items associated with taxis, hearses, buses, and other public conveyances. Are they worth anything? Chicagoan Hank Winningham pays $75 and up for taxi driver hats.

Do you have other uniforms in your closet? Those worn by police officers, prisoners, pilots, flight attendants, Scouts, and members of the armed forces (especially female) can be converted to cash. Even early McDonald's uniforms have buyers waiting.

No uniform? Whether you labored in a sawmill, an insurance office, or a saloon, someone wants to buy the ephemera of your workplace. Cash awaits for business cards, blueprints, catalogs, and pictorial pre-1910 letters and envelopes from just about any business. Texan Ginger Daily will even buy your old hotel registers.

Sports ephemera, from ticket stubs to golf clubs, has never been more popular. Many treasures are found in tackle boxes, says Hyman, pointing out fishing plugs (painted wooden bait) from the 1930s and '40s often bring $100 or more from a Hollywood collector.

Most things can't be sold locally for more than a fraction of their real value, according to Hyman, so he wrote a national directory listing "best buyers" in the U.S. and Canada who will purchase your items by mail or phone.

Hyman's book contains names, addresses and phone numbers of people and institutions eager to pay cash for more than a million different items you might own. His 320-page reference also includes what they want to buy, who to call for free appraisals, and tips on how to get top dollar when you sell.

"I'll Buy That!" is available only by mail. Send $19.95 plus $4 shipping ($23.95) to Treasure Hunt Books, 1947 Chapman Road, Claremont, CA 91711. Mention this newspaper when you order and get a free pad of form letters to use when writing to buyers, plus a 5,000-item price guide. MasterCard/Visa orders may call free, 1-800-543-7500. There is a 30-day money-back guarantee.

People will pay money for nearly everything associated with transportation, business, sports, childhood, war, politics, advertising, smoking, alcohol, entertainment, or comic characters.

You can easily sell duck decoys, cigar boxes, paintings, signs, photos, toys, phonograph records, pens, magazines, radios, wrist watches, carnival and depression glass, musical instruments, dolls and accessories, pin back buttons, coin operated machines, silverplate, costume jewelry, baseball cards, books, autographs...and much more.

Tin cans are among items that originally cost a buck or less but can today be worth hundreds of dollars. Top price for a 20th century can is $12,000, Hyman points out, and hundreds of coffee and tobacco cans are worth $50 or more.

A reader in Belleville, Illinois, told Hyman he made $2,300 in only two weeks of selling his junk. "What a great way to remodel your bathroom," he said. FH901915

Sunrooms offer indoor comfort with a view

Whether building a new home or remodeling an existing one, there's nothing like adding a sunroom to combine outdoor views with indoor comfort. A properly planned, well-made sunroom should blend with any building material, whether cedar, stone, frame, stucco, or brick. It should also enhance the architectural style of the house, be it Colonial or contemporary.

According to Lindal Cedar SunRooms, a sunroom should be comfortable year-round. With so much glass, some people worry about overheating. The way to avoid this, says the manufacturer of sunrooms, is to incorporate state-of-the-art technology into the sunroom design. This means up-to-date glazing, as well as the latest in technology for heat transfer, ventilation and shading.

If overheating is a concern, consider high performance glazing. Low emissivity glass, for example, is designed to improve energy efficiency by 50 percent. Heat mirror glass is designed to improve energy efficiency by 150 percent. Both let sunlight in, but help block its heat. They also reduce the amount of ultraviolet light that could fade carpets and furniture.

In cases where the sunroom isn't open to the interior of the house, Lindal suggests that heat be transferred either by opening or closing sliding glass doors or with an optional fan to move hot air into the house and cool air into the sunroom. At night, a damper automatically closes to seal out cold drafts.

An optional ventilating system set in an end wall keeps fresh air circulating and expels excessive hot air. It works even better when set opposite a door or window for cross ventilation.

Another way to block most of the heat before it enters is with exterior shades. This optional shade screen system is easy to install and operate with a pulley and cord. It comes in a variety of shade densities as well as colors. Lindal's cedar shade panel system is a popular alternative, in which the panels substitute for some of the overhead glazing.

A Lindal sunroom can be built in virtually any size or configuration. It can be inset into the roofline or projected from a side of the house. It can enclose a ground level deck, be wrapped around a corner or built on a cantilevered balcony. It can include ceiling to floor glass or rest on a base wall.

For more information about sunrooms, write to Lindal Cedar Sunrooms, Dept. PR-6, P.O. Box 24426, Seattle, WA 98124. FH901585
