

State Sanitary Engineers Begin Work

It is estimated that at present there are some 30,000,000 pounds of quality dairy butter in storage.

It is brought out further that the dairy farmer himself is not without blame. A survey of cross-roads and village grocery stores disclosed that a large part of butter substitutes sold in this county are purchased and consumed by farm families.

It looks as if the solution to the dairy phase of the farm problem is largely a matter for the farmer himself to solve through his own dinner table.

Three main causes are advancing the secondary road movement: the need for relieving congestion on main highways, the efforts being made in all states to reduce taxes and keep down governmental expense.

Good secondary roads are a perennial attraction to tourists who welcome the opportunity to see the "back country" that main highways often avoid.

From the standpoint of the farmer, good roads are indispensable. They mean an end to the time when he stayed home in bad weather, or started for town and got mired.

Nothing but a permanent increase of government expenditures and permanent increase of taxes can result unless there is a limit placed upon the bureaucracies which the government is building up.

It needs no argument, he said, to satisfy one that government expenditures are wastefully large, and that the ever-growing burden of taxation is one of the great factors in bringing about our present depression.

The missionary society met at the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 and made bandages to send to the mission field in Africa to be used for the lepers.

Good Rains Flood Friona Territory

Rains which visited the Friona Territory last Thursday night made up with a vengeance for the recent dry spell. Just as everyone was beginning to get the blues again and thought sure the wheat crop was a goner there was a general rain all over the north half of Parmer county.

Friday night another good rain fell generally all over the county, adding about an inch of moisture to that received Thursday.

Fourth Prize Letter

WHY FRIONA SHOULD HAVE THE COURT HOUSE

First, it is nearer the center of the county than any other town, so of course it would be more convenient for every one.

It is the largest town in the county. It has five churches, four elevators, it markets more wheat and does more business than any other town. It has the finest school buildings and the largest and best schools in the county.

What has the court house done for Farwell? Has it helped it to progress in any way?

They have not even beautified the court house lawn with grass or flowers.

We have a large park here set out in trees and the ladies are putting out shrubs and flowers.

You may come from Farwell to Friona, notice the streets, you don't see many cars parked on the way over, but where you cross the railroad into Friona from the Carl Maurer place of business to the extreme north of town to Key's store you find no parking place.

Friona is the most progressive, wide awake, all-around town in the county. Yes, we are getting ready for the court house in the near future, too.

The members of Zone No. 2 met at the Friona Methodist church last Thursday, May 28. A good representation of the missionary societies from Hereford, Bovina, Dimmitt, Oklahoma Lane and Friona was present.

Our district secretary, Mrs. R. L. Graves of Amarillo, presided in the absence of Mrs. Murry Lee, zone president, who was absent on account of illness.

Rev. Fuller of Hereford, chairman of the board of Christian education of this zone, had charge of the program from eleven to twelve o'clock.

Miss Swisher, student secretary at Canyon, gave an interesting talk concerning her work among the students of the Canyon school.

Cleanup Starts Under State Supervision

State sanitary engineers arrived in Friona Wednesday to work in cooperation with the Friona sanitary health committee recently appointed by Judge Aldridge. District Sanitary Engineer H. E. Hargis, accompanied by J. R. Curtis, county sanitarian, inspected our city and have planned a health campaign which will start with a general cleaning up of Friona and its surrounding territory.

Through the cooperation of J. A. Blackwell, scout master, the boy scouts will assist Mr. Curtis in a general survey of the town. The program to be carried out is the installation of sanitary pit type toilets and converting the old toilets into fly-tight toilets, abating the breeding places of flies and generally putting on a real clean-up. Mr. Hargis stated that this work is being done through the cooperation of the U. S. public health service and the state health department and everyone is urged to do his or her part in the campaign.

The instructions issued include: First, clean up around your place, cutting the weeds and gathering all rubbish.

Second, place all garbage in tow sacks of light wood boxes so that this may be collected easily.

Third, build up your toilet and make it fly-tight.

Let's clean up the town and make it sanitary. We will get out of this campaign only as much as we put into it and in order to get the best results, we must all pull together.

Women of County Meet Here June 17 In Achievement Day Program; Wyche 4-H Club Will Stage Play

(From the Hereford Brand)
 Glorifying the Farm Home might well be the subject dominating the program June 17, when under leadership of Miss Emma Gunter, Deaf Smith county home demonstration agent, women from all sections of the county gather to participate in and witness the Home Dress Contest as a part of the annual clothing day exercise in Hereford.

On the date set for this contest and annual clothing day, Miss Gunter will have been in the Deaf Smith county work exactly one year, a coincidence and not of set design. During the year, Miss Gunter has assisted 300 women and girls of Deaf Smith county with problems incident to making farm homesteads more attractive. Coming to the task fully equipped with experience and technical training, the tasks of the farm homes have been made her tasks, and that too with an earnestness and sincerity that has endeared her to the housewives and daughters of the entire area which she serves.

Club Work Expands.
 Attention is called to the fact that in the inceptive periods of home demonstration work in Texas about 15 years ago, the activities were confined almost purely to canning and preserving. From this as a beginning, it has extended to many direct and implied angles pertaining to the rural household. Work in the county during the first completed year will show freighting interest in the achievements shown.

Feature Year's Work.
 No. 1. Three months study and work in improvements of the living rooms on the farm. In this connection, it is stated, special judges and experts have been brought in touch with the women and girls concerned in bettering their living rooms.
 No. 2. Three months work and study on clothing problems of the farm homes. The clothing expert of the state has been called upon to assist the women and girls on the farmers of the county in mastering the knotty aspects of desirable dress for all occasions.
 No. 3. Four months have been devoted to study and work in connection with the 4-H pantry. This has to do with supplying the farm tables with desired food products in season and out. Canning, preserving, pickles and drying have had their place in this important schedule. It is stated. Vegetables and fruits have been supplemented by poultry and game, as well as by the heavier meats, each and all passing through the proper canning process, under direction of the expertly and scientifically trained and thoroughly experienced home demonstration agent.

Exhibit of Achievements.
 Thus have ten months of the twelve been accounted for, and now comes an accounting of the remaining 90 busy, purposeful days: Achievement day programs must be arranged for exhibiting the handiwork of these demonstrators who have been assisted in their labors for home betterment by the county representative in their particular fields of endeavor. These programs must be held for each of the ten community clubs.
 In addition to these achievement days, with their exhibits, there must be the making, submitting, classifying and filing of reports from each of the clubs in order that no record of worthy accomplishment be lost to the housekeepers and home makers of the coun-

Program for June 17.
 For the annual clothing day with its house dress contest, the following program has been announced by Miss Gunter:

Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

June 7, 1931.

JESUS CRUCIFIED.

Luke 23:33-46

33. And when they came unto the place which is called the Skull, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand and the other on the left.

34. And Jesus said, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. And parting his garments among them, they cast lots.

35. And the people stood beholding. And the rulers also scoffed at him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself. If this is the Christ of God, he chosen.

36. And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, offering him vinegar.

37. And saying, If thou are the King of the Jews, save thyself.

38. And there was also a superscription over him, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39. And one of the malefactors that were hanged railed on him, saying, Art not thou Christ? save thyself and us.

40. But the other answered, and rebuking him said, Dost thou not even fear God, seeing thou are in the same condemnation?

41. And he indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds; but this man hath done nothing amiss.

42. And he said, Jesus, remember me when thou comest in thy kingdom.

43. And he said unto him, Verily, I say unto thee, Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise.

44. And it was now about the sixth hour, and a darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour.

45. The sun's light failing; and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

46. And Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit; and he gave up the ghost.

having said this he gave up the ghost.

Golden Text: He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isa. 53:5.

Time: From 6:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m., Friday, April 7, A. D. 30. Place: Pilate's judgment hall and Herod's palace in Jerusalem, Calvary, outside the walls of Jerusalem, probably on the north.

Introduction.

"To gain a clear idea of the awful event, the crucifixion, it is important to compare and combine the accounts of all four evangelists. Because of the excitement of the terrible hours each eyewitness who reported the story in after years would remember a certain particular that had impressed him; so these several narratives differ, but are not in conflict. That there is some confusion as to the order of events, and as to minor details, is perfectly natural."

"Notice that there is a reverent, delicate passing-over of some horrible particulars, and no attempt on the part of the evangelists to excite emotion by detailing them. They know that that is not necessary. They tell their story with a simple realism that makes their picture cut into the memory and overmaster the reader. Their one heartening note would seem to be: This is your Saviour, dying for you! It has been remarked that the crucifixion is John 3:16 dramatized."

Crucifixion.

"Crucifixion is of all deaths the most horrible, and possibly the most painful. The Jews did not practice crucifixion; the Romans seem to have got it through the Phoenicians. The crucifixion was after this manner: The upright piece was firmly set in the ground, and the victim was then extended, with arms tied to the cross-piece, to which his hands were spiked. Then by means of ladders and ropes he was raised to a position so that his feet would be about a foot from the ground. The cross-bar was then either tied or nailed to the upright. Then the torturing rest was placed beneath him, and his feet were stretched down and either spiked through with one long nail or each separately nailed to the cross. Thus the unfortunate victim would hang until death came as a tardy relief. The heart of many a hardened sinner has been broken in contemplating that the Saviour went through this ordeal."—Rev. John H. Cable.

Words from the Cross.

"And Jesus said, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." This is the first seven "Words from the Cross," probably spoken during the agonizing first stages of fastening the Saviour to the cross. This utterance shows that our Lord, at a time when most men shrieked and cursed, was engaged in prayer, not for himself, nor even for his dear ones, but for his enemies; and more than that, that he was finding in their ignorance of what they were doing an excuse for their terrible deed. The dying prayer of the protomartyr Stephen (Acts 7:59) is only one example of the profound impression which these words of the Crucified has made upon the world. "We can never forget that he who spoke these words had said not twelve hours before, 'He that hath seen me hath seen the Father.' The forgiveness in this first sentence from the cross is the forgiveness of redeemed humanity. The forgiveness of the cross is the revelation of the forgiveness of the Father in heaven."—Bishop Chas. L. Slattery. In this word from the cross Christ illustrated his own precept, "Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you."—Matt 5:44.

Jesus On the Cross—Mocked and Derided.

The writers emphasize the fact of sin and the spiritual anguish of our Lord by recording the scoffing which he had to endure. The rulers taunted him with accusations of failure: "He saved others, let him save himself." The soldiers, who, indifferent to his anguish, had gambled at the foot of the cross for his garments, took up the scoffing of the Jews, and jeering, offered him some of their sour wine to drink. The superscription, "This is the King of the Jews," was turned by them into a mockery. And even the two robbers who were crucified with him reproached him with failure.

The Thief On the Cross—Saved by Grace.

To one of these robbers, however, something happened. While the other was railing on Jesus he suddenly burst into speech. See verses 40-42. And in his speech and prayer and the answer of Jesus we see wonders of grace. There in the presence of Jesus and of death he was aroused to a sense of sin, and made a confession of his guilt. He saw the injustice of Christ's death, and believed in him as the Messiah who would one day come in his Kingdom. And he threw himself upon the mercy of Jesus in that faith.

The response of Jesus to this confession and prayer of faith is the response of a victor, and a fresh revelation of his grace and majesty. It graciously accepts the penitent's petition, and assures him that the companionship begun on the Cross will be continued there. "With me" makes "Paradise" wherever a soul is.—Matthew 18:3.

"It may be that our Lord saved one man at the last moment that none might despair, and only one that none might presume."—Rev. James S. Stone, D. D.

Jesus' Last Words On the Cross.

"Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." The seventh word from the cross illustrates our Lord's perfect trust in God. "He faced death's last moment calling upon God as Father, and committing confidently to his keeping, not only his personal existence, but his royal rights as Son." "In his final words there is felt the relief and anticipation of one who is going home." And having said this, he gave up the ghost. "Let us look upon the dying Christ as the centurion amid the gloom of a heaven overcast with clouds as if nature felt the divine agony, exclaim, 'Behold, this was the Son of God! Behold, Christ, and in his death you behold God's incomparable sorrow for sin. You behold the world-vision of self-giving love. You behold the royalty of forgiveness and sacrifice.'"

The Atoning Death of Jesus Christ.

"Gazing in astonishment at the sufferings of Christ I declare them to have been vicarious sufferings, expiatory sufferings, atoning sufferings. They were vicarious sufferings, for he stood in man's place when he suffered. The penalty he bore had no relation to the life he lived. He stood connected with all human sin and failure, and seeing that he bore it, man is delivered from it. They were expiatory sufferings. Through what he wore, he exhausted human sin, put it away, he made it not to be. They were atoning sufferings in that through them he has dealt with all that separated between man and God. He has now made possible the restoration of the lost fellowship, and man may henceforth live in communion with him."—Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, D. D.

"Alas, and did my Saviour bleed? And did my Sovereign die? Would he devote that sacred head, For such a worm as I? Well might the sun in darkness hide, And shut his glories in. When Christ the mighty Maker died, For man the creature's sin."

A passenger bus of the Pickwick-Greyhound company, coming in from the west with a load of passengers, was detained here Wednesday afternoon, through arrest of the driver, R. A. Burnett, by John Keller, license and weight inspector of the state highway department, who filed charges with the county attorney that the driver was operating a vehicle wider than eight feet upon the highway.

The state law prescribes a maximum of eight feet, according to Mr. Keller, and he stated he found by measurement that the bus was eight feet, six and one-quarter inches in width. The matter was turned over to local officials and the bus and passengers were still here at 3:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, while the driver was in communication with officials of his company who were trying to get in touch with the state highway department at Austin.

Mr. Keller stated that the Pickwick-Greyhound company had been warned before that operation of such bus vehicles was in violation of the law because of over-width.
