Applicants for judge post named

The city of Big Spring has released the names of the five top applicants for Municipal Court Judge, a part-time position.

City Manager Hal Boyd said the five names on the finalist list compiled by the City Council at its Tuesday meeting are:

 Max Webb, retired from the Big Spring Federal Correction Institute.

• Bill Tune, bailiff, Municipal Court.

• Arnold Marshall, retired. • Marvin Wise, patient financial adviser, Scenic Mountain Medical Center.

• Robert Stapp, deputy, Howard County Sheriff's Office.

Boyd said at this point, all five have been notified that the position will require less than 40 hours of work per week, and none have withdrawn from the application process. The council will interview the applicants in executive session Thursday.

Hopes fade for peaceful settlement Congress to U.N. chief makes debate war

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is in a strong position to win congressional support to use force in the Persian Gulf because of Iraq's "infuriating" response to peace efforts, a leading House Democrat said today.

The House and Senate were beginning consideration today of competing resolutions on future action in the gulf.

One, requested by the president, would give Bush authority to use force as of next Tuesday's United Nations deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait. The other, proposed by Democratic leaders, calls for giving the economic embargo against Iraq more time to work.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee's Middle East subcommittee, said today that Iraq's actions in talks in Geneva Wednesday have helped Bush's position in Congress

"I think it strengthens the president," Hamilton said on "CBS This Morning."

"The peace talks collapsed in Geneva and that means war is more likely. If war is more likely I think that tends to strengthen the hand of the president. So my guess is that he's in a very strong position," Hamilton said.

"It's infuriating," he said of the refusal by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to accept a letter from Bush to Saddam Hussein. "For the foreign minister of Iraq not even to accept it just is a very maddening thing.

Perez de Cuellar's mission to Baghdad, where foreign embassies were shutting their doors.

The U.N. secretary-general was to meet with Saddam Hussein on Saturday, just three days short of the U.N.-mandated deadline for Iraq to quit Kuwait or face possible

"I hope that there is a serious chance for peace, and that is why I am going," Perez de Cuellar told reporters today. But he said it is "difficult to say" what peace prospects are.

The U.N. chief's mission was announced after the failure in Geneva of the first high-level U.S.-Iraqi talks since the crisis began.

Perez de Cuellar was flying to Geneva tonight and was to meet with EC foreign ministers Friday before his talks in Iraq on Saturday

In Washington, congressional backers of President Bush's Persian Gulf policy today unveiled a resolution that would authorize him to take the United States to war against Iraq, and predicted it

As lawmakers convened to debate the question of war and peace, Bush's supporters in both parties put forward the resolution clearing the president "to use United States armed forces" to back up United Nations goals of forcing Iraq from Kuwait and restoring its legitimate government.

In Brussels today, NATO allies were briefed on the U.S.-Iraqi talks by Raymond Seitz, assistant U.S. secretary of state for European af fairs, who was present at the Geneva talks.

Seitz told the allies that Secretary of State James A. Bake III had assured Iraqi Foreign Minsiter Tariq Aziz that Iraq would not be attacked if it withdrew from Kuwait, and that the United States did not intend to leave a large force in the region after the crisis ends, a U.S. source at NATO said.

NATO said afterward in a statement that the alliance "shared the profound dissatisfaction with the lack of any Iraqi sign of readiness to comply with the U.N. resolutions." The allies also "expressed their strong and continuing MIDEAST page 8-A ing Inc. may be working with less money than they expected for economic development, preliminary analyses of sales tax revenues have shown.

Due to lagging sales, revenues for the first month since the recent 1-cent increase are not as high as expected.

City Finance Director Tom Ferguson cautioned that speculation about the sales tax revenues would always be "a gamble."

"If sales pick up and stay where they were last year, we will (meet the expected revenue amount), but if they don't we won't," he said.

On Oct. 1, the city sales tax, which is added to the amount levied by the state, increased by 100 percent, to a total of 2 cents. The increase will fund the corporation's economic development work as well as a lowering of property taxes in the city.

City leaders have said $700,000 is the expected revenue from each half-cent increase, basing estimates on last year's sales tax revenue. If current trends continue, the actual revenue may be substantially less $52,080 if sales tax revenues had been as expected.

"When we look at last year's (revenue), the trend is definitely down," Ferguson said.

The total city sales tax revenue collected during October (paid to the city in November), was $181,028 - about $30.000 short of doubling October's revenue last year.

Ferguson said there is no real "average" available for comparing sales tax revenue figures. Some businesses report the tax quarterly while others report every month, he said, so the tax revenue may increase dramatically at the end of a quarter.

City sales taxes collected for November (reported in December) 1989 totaled $96,268. The sales tax revenue figures for December 1990 are not yet available.

Elizabeth Ferguson, special events coordinator for the Howard County chapter of the NAACP, looks at one of three display panels at Goliad Middle School, where students at the school wrote Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s "I Have a Dream" speech in caligraphy. In order to promote better awareness of the slain civil rights leader, the NAACP is hosting an essay contest for students, ages 11-19, with a deadline of Jan. 15 for all essays to be turned into any school office.

Students encouraged to learn more about Martin Luther King

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

"Does anyone know who Martin Luther King Jr. was?'

In a classroom full of local kids, only a few hands go up. That doesn't discourage Elizabeth Ferguson. As special events coordinator for the Howard County chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Ferguson thinks Big Spring kids are ready to learn about the renowned civil rights leader.

The NAACP is sponsoring an essay contest on the subject of King's life and work. Students aged 11 to 19 are encouraged to enter.

"I believe in his concepts," Ferguson said. "He was not only a black advocate, he fought for civil rights for everyone." That is why the transplanted

Arizonian has taken up the crusade of publicizing the contest. If just one child enters an essay, Ferguson said she will be pleased

"It's my privilege to do this," she said. "I'm excited as anyone about it, although I realize we are starting kind of late."

She said the contest was delayed by the recent bad weather and illness among group members. Now, she said, she's ready to go. "I think (the contest) can serve as an educational measure for these kids - how much . . . they know (about King)," Ferguson said. "And they'll learn something. They'll be writing the essays not for the NAACP, not for school, but for themselves.' The goal of the contest is for writers to learn by exploring the life of King, Ferguson said.

"We want them to reflect on what he did from 1929 to 1968," she said. "(And) how he worked for what he believed in. He gave his life for the civil rights of others.

King, known for his "I Have a Dream'' speech and leading groups in numerous acts of nonviolent protest, was assassinated April 4, 1968.

Although Ferguson said she thinks "the dream is hard to visualize for our youth, she is hopeful.

"There are so many opportunities our kids have, if they

Authorities seek Bass assistant

FORT WORTH (AP) - Amillionaire's administrative assistant was sought on warrants claiming that she took at least $100,000 from the businessman's financial empire, according to a report Wednesday.

Police and sources close to the Perry Bass family told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that Shay Evans allegedly took between $500,000 and $2.5 million while serving under Bass, patriarch of one of the world's richest families.

Five warrants were issued for Ms. Evans' arrest by State District Judge Sharen Wilson on Saturday. She remained at large, despite a report that she might surrender to authorities

Ms. Evans apparently "made out some fictitous checks" and then cashed them herself, an official who did not want to be identified told the newspaper.

Police chief list narrowed to three

DALLAS (AP) - The candidates' list for new police chief here has narrowed to three, including the city's acting chief, a North Carolinian and a Los Angeles law enforcement officer who ran security for the 1984 Olympics.

The trio are vying for the post left vacant by the firing of Mack Vines, who was indicted last year after being accused of lying to a special panel investigating a police shooting incident.

The tentative finalists are: Acting Police Chief Sam Gonzales, Los Angeles Deputy Police Chief William Rathburn and Greensboro, N.C., Chief Sylvester Daughtry, city officials said.

No additional background is being sought on the other 10 candidates, said John Ware, the assistant city manager who has coordinated the search since Vines' firing in September.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Current oil stocks and emergency reserves are adequate to offset supply disruptions if a war breaks out in the Persian Gulf, the Energy Department says.

But Assistant Energy Secretary John Easton on Wednesday refused to reveal government estimates of how high a war might push oil prices, saying a federal analysis on prices in a worst-case scenario was classified.

'The impact (of a war) on price unfortunately is still anybody's guess," Easton told a House committee. With adequate supplies and emergency reserves "there doesn't need to be a run-up in prices," he continued.

Many energy experts have said that despite adequate supplies, the outbreak of war would cause oil prices to soar immediately perhaps to $60 or more a barrel

"Should hostilities occur . . . currently available strategic and commercial stocks, as well as oil in floating storage would be sufficient to offset any plausible further disruption in supplies."

a day lost from Iraq and Kuwait and that U.S. crude oil stocks – as well as most petroleum products, including gasoline and heating oil were well within average operating levels.

Easton said there also were more than 100 million barrels of unsold crude oil in tankers at sea and that the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, a string of oil storage caverns in Louisiana, contain 506 million barrels. President Bush is expected to draw on the reserve if fighting breaks out.

'There is no oil shortage . . . and the U.S. and its allies have the capability to respond to any further disruptions," said Easton. Easton discounted the likelihood that a war would extensively damage Saudi fields.

Committee Chairman Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., said he was concerned that the administration has not planned for the possibility of a longer war. "A prolonged conflict could cause serious energy disruptions," said Dingell.

Rep. Houston OKs first step toward zoning

HOUSTON (AP) — The nation's largest city without zoning has taken the first step towards bringing some order to jumbled neighborhoods when Houston city council members created a commission to handle the job.

Council members voted 15-0 Wednesday to change the Planning Commission to the Planning and Zoning Commission, marking an end to 30 years of hodgepodge development that has become Houston's trademark. "I feel great, I really do," said Councilman Jim Greenwood, who offered the ordinance with Mayor Kathy Whitmire. The ordinance passed by the council charges the new commission with devising some immediate ways to help neighborhoods while also coming up with a comprehensive zoning ordinance that is scheduled to be presented to the council in about 18 months. We have a lot of work before us," Mrs. Whitmire said. "This is really only the beginning, but I think it is a good beginning because we have a united statement from council that we want to have a unique system of zoning specifically designed for Houston with specific protection for residential neighborhoods. That will be the emphasis.' Spectators in the city council chambers, many of whom were wearing pins with the letter "Z," cheered after the unanimous vote. Zoning has long been resisted by Houstonians, especially during the boom years between 1970 and 1982 when the population increased by 33 percent to 1.6 million. Harry Reed, a planning commissioner, said that the lack of zoning back then made it easier to buy land, build and make money. The

Prosecuters resign, accuse army

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Two prosecutors who resigned from a probe into the 1989 massacre of six Jesuit priests say the army is standing in the way of the investigation. protecting those who plotted the murders.

"The discovery of the masterminds depends on the high command of the armed forces, who have known the facts well since the day they occurred," Edward Sidney Blanco told a news conference on Wednesday.

The charges of an army coverup came a few hours after the military's chief foe, the leftist rebel Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, said it had arrested two members suspected of executing two captured U.S. soldiers.

At stake in the two cases is $42.5 million in U.S. military aid. The U.S. Congress last year suspended the aid to protest slow progress in solving the Jesuit murders and other human rights cases.

U.S. officials said that President Bush had decided this week to seek restoration of the aid. He was prodded partly by what officials called the "cold-blooded murder" of the two U.S. soldiers on Jan. 2.

Fighting intensifies in Somalia

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Intensified fighting was reported today in Somalia's capital, and Western doctors who have established a hospital in the wartorn city appealed for additional medical supplies to treat the wounded.

"The situation is deteriorating rapidly," said a spokeswoman at the Italian Embassy in Nairobi. "There is intensified fighting."

She said the fighting prevented the Italians from sending aircraft to rescue more foreigners from Mogadishu, the Somali capital, or to deliver medical supplies to 10 doctors who have set up a neutral French rescue missions.

Lithuanians guard parliament

MOSCOW (AP) - Hundreds of lithuanians staged an all-nicht vigil today to protect their parliament, fearing a takeover attempt by Soviet paratroopers sent by the Kremlin to round up a reported 13,000 draft dodgers and deserters.

Another vigil was held outside the secessionist Baltic republic's television station after a show of force Wednesday by Soviet troops

The deputy Soviet defense minister was quoted as saying that draft evaders and deserters in Lithuania have until Monday to give themselves up.

Armored personnel carriers had surrounded the television tower in the capital, Vilnius, and parked near parliament for several hours before leaving without incident, Lithuanian legislative spokeswoman Rita Dapkus said.

Commission studies alternatives to incarceration

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. Sentencing Commission is studying supervised probation, home detention and community service as alternatives to imprisoning defendants convicted of federal crimes.

A task force of the commission recently proposed a system of "intermediate punishments" for non-violent defendants with short criminal histories

Under the proposal, judges would have the option of imposing a variety of punishments with a range of restrictions, from simple probation to incarceration at home

Some defendants could be ordered to serve weekends in local jails or intermittent periods at community halfway houses.

The commission, which issued the guidelines that federal judges must follow when imposing sentences, deferred immediate action on the proposal. But the sevenmember panel ordered a staff study of the recommendations.

They come at a time when federal judges are chafing under the restrictions imposed by the

> 'There is nothing that is more disturbing to a judge than to have to give somebody a sentence that the judge thinks the person just should not get," said Broderick, a former New York City police commissioner

The proposal is also being advanced at a time when the federal prison system is engaged in an unprecedented building program to make room for more inmates. The federal prison population has nearly tripled to more than 59,000 in the last nine years.

The Bureau of Prisons estimates the inmate population will reach 100,000 in the next five years.

The task force report said prison give the judges more alternatives, overcrowding shouldn't be the reason for adopting alternative sentences because the number of beds would then determine the punishment.

But clearing out prisons of inmates who pose no security risk to the community would save money and make room for prisoners who should be locked up, Corrothers said

The spectrum of punishments proposed by the task force would enable a judge to "mix and match" sanctions, combining, for instance, several months of prison with community service, Corrothers said.

It also would allow courts to place an offender who has violated probation in a more restrictive program without putting him in prison

These include home incarceration, in which the defendant would not be allowed to leave for any reason. Electronic ankle bracelets would enable probation officers to supervise offenders.

Inmates with drug problems could be sent to drug treatment centers instead of prison

Highway death rate is decreasing

WASHINGTON (AP) - People are dying on the nation's highways at a record low rate, and a crackdown on drunken drivers and increased use of seat belts deserve much of the credit, the Transportation Department says.

The highway death rate dropped to 2.1 people per 100 million miles driven in 1990, the department said Wednesday. The actual number of fatalities also declined to 44,500 from 45,550 in 1989, according to DOT projections.

Transportation Secretary Samuel K. Skinner attributed the improvement in large part to campaigns against drunken driving and the sharply increased use of automobile safety belts.

"While the number of traffic deaths is still too high, the reduction in fatalities is impressive because of an increase in the number of drivers and vehicles on the highways," Skinner said.

pinion Herald opinion Haiti chooses a democracy

For those of us who tend to take democracy for granted, there is a good object lesson in the Caribbean nation of Haiti. Tyrants have ruled Haiti almost continuously/since 1804 when it became independent from France.

For years, Jean-Claude Duvalier ran the country in a brutal fashion, but he was ousted several years ago and fled his homeland.

Last Dec. 16, Haiti held its first nationwide free election, with voters selecting Jean-Bertrand Aristide, a leftist Roman Catholic priest, as its president. He is scheduled to be sworn into office in about a month.

But the democratic tradition that Haiti voters appeared to be establishing on Dec. 16 was shattered Jan. 5 when Dr. Roger Lafontant, who had been a key member of the Duvalier regime, and some of his henchmen shot their way into the National Palace and seized power.

Fortunately, the new reign of terror was short-lived.

Troops loyal to the idea of a free government and to Erthia Pascal-Trouillot, the caretaker president holding power until the new chief executive takes office, stormed the National Palace the next day and took back the government from the Lafontant forces.

At least 37 people were killed in this latest incident in a violence-wracked nation that is one of the poorest countries in the world.

But in retaking the National Palace, the loyalist troops demonstrated their support of the idea of a civilian government.

The idea that an elected civilian government should prevail over military rule is an idea that has often been rejected in the Caribbean and Latin American and Central American nations

But civilian rule is critical if a nation is to be governed by democratic principles and allowed to develop a free market economy.

Throughout the 1980s, an increased number of nations in South and Central America have become more democratic. The recent election in Haiti was a major breakthrough for a nation long mired in tyranny.

Thousands of Haiti citizens who wanted to escape the brutality of their government have fled to the United States in recent years, with many of them ending up in Florida.

Their presence should remind us all that a system based on the principles of democracy can be taken away far more quickly than it can be established.

We can only hope that the newly elected president, Mr. Aristide, will be allowed to take office without any more bloodshed, and that as president he will provide an atmosphere of freedom for his nation.

Eulogizing the Bank That Couldn't

They said goodbye to the Bank of New England this week. When a bank dies there is no ceremony, no tears are shed and few mourn. It gets buried with only a small obituary in the local paper. This is wrong. A bank is a loss to everyone when it dies and the least it deserves is a eulogy. Something like this:

Dearly Beloved:

We are gathered here today to bid farewell to the National Bank That Couldn't, which passed away in its sleep just days ago when it ran out of funds.

This is a sad moment for those of us who knew the Bank That Couldn't over the years and was befriended by it time and time again.

The Bank That Couldn't did not die because it couldn't get a money transfusion. It died of a broken heart, when the people it loaned money to told the bank to shove it. People say that the bank had only itself to blame for its demise. But it is cruel to speak this way about the dead. Sure, it made mistakes, but no more than Chase, Citibank or the Bank of

Aja meets Tug: love story for whole family

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

Random notes while trying not o impale myself with my new cordless drill:

* * * An old newspaper saying is that you can't go wrong with stories about cute kids or cuddly animals, so here's something that ought to catch everybody's attention. Then again, maybe not.

It seems a dog that became sort of a folk hero by spitting in the eyes of would-be captors has finaly been nabbed.

And it wasn't a net or tranquilizer gun or even filet mignon that finally captured this canine - it was ruppy love.

The dog, named Aja, gained almost cult status in Minnesota when she somehow avoided every effort from animal control authorities to capture her.

Authorities tried unsuccessfully for three years to bring Aja to bay. They tried traps, prime-rib baits and even dart guns, but the dog emerged victorious every time.

"It's kind of a folk hero in the city," Charlie O'Brien, Richfield, Minn., animal control supervisor told the Associated Press. "We used to follow the dog, but she started to recognize our vehicles and our uniforms. She was smart.

But, just as John Dillinger was laid low because of his affinity with the Lady in Red, so did attraction to the opposite sex finally prove to be Aja's undoing The source of Aja's downfall? A with the Rottweiler this winter and, when it appeared the nomadic dog had finally settled down. O'Brien set a trap using a mixture of cat food, soup bones and meat as bait in a neighbor's yard.

The dog foiled the trap once but was nabbed the second time. Aja's days of wandering are over, at least temporarily. Efforts are underway to find her a permanent home, and officials ardently hope that if one is found, it's somewhere far away from Richfield

"We really don't want it getting every time.

I suppose I could draw some sort of comparison between Aja's "fatal attraction" and the relationship between men and women, but Momma Reagan didn't raise a fool for a son, so I think I'll pass.

* * * Sticking with animals, an AP article concerning a very productive milk cow caught my eye a few days ago.

Robin the Holstein has been producing milk for the Duane Hill farm in Fountain City, Ind. for most of her 17 years, and, although her milk output has slowed considerably in the past year or two, there's no way she's ending up in the slaughterhouse.

"She's a nice old cow. We're real proud of her," Hill told the AP. "I'm going to let her die here on the farm and bury her in the front yard. We'll probably put a flower garden over her.

How sweet. I can just see Hill leading visitors on a tour of the place: "This is my barn, over there is my plow, and underneath these petunias here is where we planted Robin."

Well, there could be worse fates, wouldn't you agree? What would you choose: A peaceful sleep underneath a flower bed, or an eternity of "Donna Reed" reruns?

purchasing appears to be alive and the lat the Pentagon, under the tutelage of the new acting Defense Under Secretary for Acquisition Donald Yockey.

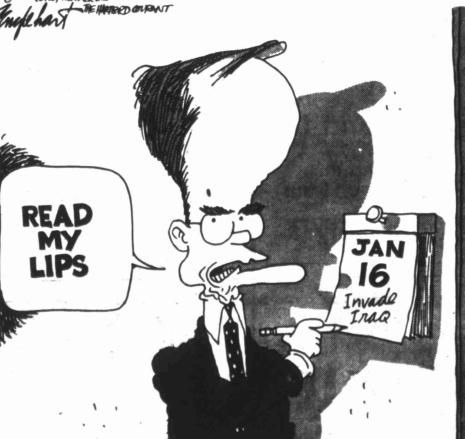

Yockey sailed into office last month as his predecessor, John Betti, sailed out on the wings of a procurement scandal. Betti was nailed with part of the blame for the bungled A-12 Avenger Navy war plane contract. The project was riddled with long delays and massive cost overruns.

Yockey had worked for Betti, and sources say had openly campaigned for Betti's job. He reportedly went so far as to pass around copies of Betti's testimony last summer before Congress. which was looking into an epidemic of contracting scandals.

At one awkward moment in a congressional hearing, Betti was stumped by a crucial question. He could not name one project manager who ever got promoted for alerting the Pentagon to problems with a contract.

Yockey says he did not campaign for Betti's job, and denies that he spread around copies of Betti's bumbling testimony. But regardless of how he got the job, Yockey does not look like a savior. Sources inside the Pentagon told us that Yockey's main goal is to "minimize government interference with contractors." In an internal memo on June 26, tractor was nailed for overbilling and shoddy work, then-Sen.

APAS SPreed

William Proxmire, D-Wisc., called for a Justice Department investigation into possible conflict of interest by Yockey, a retired Air Force officer, and four other retired officers. Proxmire wanted to know whether the five had blocked cost-cutting efforts on the missile project while they were still in the military and then went to work for the contractor. The Justice Department cleared the five men.

Now Yockey has spun back through the revolving door. One top Pentagon source told us that Yockey's effort to curtail contract oversight is the "latest manifestation of the look-the-other-way management.

MINI-EDITORIAL - For 1.5 million Americans, the recession has already turned into a depression. They can't find jobs or afford homes. The administration is busy resorting to bureaucratic solutions - conducting studies, juggling statistics and issuing statements. The real need is for food for the hungry, shelter for the homeless and care for the sick. Federal programs that are supposed to handle those problems are merely using sleight of hand.

Dr. Victor Hoefner Jr., 70, was enjoying his retirement last month when his son, Dr. Victor C. Hoefner III, an Army National Guardsman, was called up for duty in the Persian Gulf.

Now the elder Hoefner has taken over his son's family practice in this western Colorado community.

The Pentagon won't say how many doctors have been called up, citing security. In addition to the activation of members of the Army, Navy and Air Force reserves, the Army has begun forcing some retired medical officers back into uniform.

The effect of the callup is quickly felt in small towns, and the indefinite duration of the crisis is adding to the problem, according to rural health experts.

"Are we talking three months, six months or a year?" asked Toby Turner, spokeswoman for the National Rural Health Association in Kansas City.

"Rural health has been in crisis anyway, and losing 50 percent of your small hospital's staff at one time is just too much of a blow. The military is just filling slots in these units without paying any attention to a medical reservist's role at home.

"The pattern we're seeing is that when people are called from a small community, it's felt much more because the likelihood of a critical position being affected is greater and the likelihood of having adequate backup is less than a large hospital," said Al Chechik, spokesman for the Wisconsin Hospital Association.

The call-up of physicians, nurses and technicians has the potential to strip the U.S. Public Health Service staffs on Indian reservations, although not too many have been called as yet, officials said.

The Public Health Service hospital in Crownpoint, N.M., serving Navajos and other tribes in the area, lost its only ear, nose and throat specialist. "The Public Health Service is part of the armed services, and we sign a statement that we can be pulled for non-combatant duty, said Dr. Annie Kusava, a pediatrician in Crownpoint, who carries the rank of lieutenant colonel. In Verdigre, Neb., the lone physician was called up, leaving the northeast Nebraska community of 617 without a doctor.

Dr. Ken Pavlik, an Army Reservist, leaves a medical clinic and

Big Spring Herald, Thursday, January 10, 1991

He arranged for Dr. D.J. Nagengast, who lives 25 miles away in Bloomfield, to make rounds and check on his patients. "There is no question that this is going to be an inconvenience to a lot of people," Paylik said. While the number of physicians pulled out of rural areas apparently isn't great, their departure leaves a far larger gap than would that of their big-city counterpart.

"It hurts the rural hospitals where there have been shortages anyway," said Pete Moberg, spokesman for St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Junction.

St. Mary's is a regional hospital, with accident victims or emergency surgery patients transferred from lesser-equipped rural hospitals.

Woman suffers water overdose

A 40-year-old flight attendant drank three liters of water in three hours when she was unable to produce urine for the test, according to the report in the Jan. 2 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The woman was still unable to urinate and was sent home. Eight hours later, she was taken to a Burlingame, Calif., hospital after she demonstrated confusion, slurred speech and an unsteady gait. The woman denied use of recrea-

Health insurance program proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Association of Social Workers has proposed a national health insurance program that would cover all Americans and raise the nation's health-care bill by at least $40 billion.

The plan would phase out public health care programs, including Medicaid and Medicare, and institute a federally administered plan carried out by the states. It would be financed through taxes on personal income and employers.

While the plan would cost more than the current system initially, in the long run it would save money by reducing administrative costs and cutting payment rates to physicians, the group said. Also, by extending care to millions more Americans, CARACTA AT A REAL PROPERTY OF A

"High infant mortality rates, decreasing life expectancy among certain populations, staggering numbers of people who are dying of curable diseases, growing numbers of families that face financial disaster because their insurance is not adequate - these are more than statistics to social workers," Richard Edwards, association president, told reporters If the program contained a package of basic benefits for everyone, with limited copayments required for some services and no long-term care coverage, the estimated 1990 U.S. health care bill of $653 billion would rise to $693 billion, the association said.

Long-term care benefits would add about $46 billion. With that included, the total would jump to $740 billion, or 13 percent higher than the amount the nation currently spends on health care.

The bill could go as high as $767 billion if co-payments were

Mark Battle, the association's executive director, said that despite the high price tag, the plan makes sense because "it will save costs in the long run." His group did not estimate the savings or factor them into their cost

"Somehow, I think the Japanese would want to keep the famous brains the way they are now," he said. "They wouldn't like to have them laying around on lab benches.

Many universities keep frozen or preserved brains for research purposes, but none has a collection of geniuses, Yoshida said.

The Tokyo collection resulted from a preoccupation with the differences between Asians and Caucasians, men and women, geniuses and average people, that emerged during the Meiji Era (1868-1912), when Japan began in earnest to study Western science and technology.

Eventually, Japanese medical researchers began to study brains, with some controversial results. The brains of some famous people, they found, were heavier than those of less distinguished thinkers Japan's heaviest brain of record was that of Torasaburo Araki, a politician and doctor who left 57.4 ounces of gray matter behind when he died in 1942, and Prime Minister Katsura's brain was second at 56 ounces. The average Japanese brain is said to weigh 45.5 ounces.

"It seems as if great thinkers may indeed have heavier brains," says Yoshida. "But then, so do many criminals, I hear. Maybe they have a different sort of intelligence.

Sing-a-long craze has Japanese screaming

NEW YORK (AP) - "Feelings." (Cringe!) "Nothing more than ... feel-ings." (Ahhhhhh!) "Trying to forget myyyyy ... feelings of love."

(Get that guy off the stage!) This is karaoke, the Japanese answer to "sing along with Mitch," the craze that has people coming out of the shower and onto the stage to belt out songs before an audience.

Karaoke - Japanese for empty orchestra - is no Milli Vanilli lip synch deal. While music plays in the background, people grab the mike and go to town. The lyrics pop up on TV monitors for the singers to follow

This is the hottest new form of entertainment to hit this country in many years," said Bill Fowls. sales and marketing director at DKKaraoke Inc. of Los Angeles.

More than 10,000 American taverns. clubs and discos have karaoke, which came to the United States in 1983, said Mark Makabe, senior vice president of sales and marketing at Pioneer Laser Entertainment Inc.

"It's kind of a Japanese culture, but the karaoke was really born in the U.S. It follows the concept of the bouncing ball. We've just developed the product to sell it," Makabe said.

An estimated 400,000 establishments and 7 million homes in Japan have karaoke, "The shyest person says they won't get up. ... Once they've tried

"When people get up there, the business people, blue-collar people, they leave their ties on their heads, they wriggle their skirts and leave the office behind," said Singalongs entertainment director Donnie

Kehr Kehr said some of the most requested songs include Meat Loaf's 'Paradise by the Dashboard Light"; "New York, New York" by Frank Sinatra, and — yeah, you guessed it — "Feelings."

Exile hits country charts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Sonny LeMaire of the band Exile figures no one can match the group's diversity as an opening concert act.

"We've opened up for Aerosmith and George Jones," he says. "I don't think anybody in music can lay claim to that kind of pedigree."

Twelve years ago, the band hit the top of the rock 'n' roll charts with "Kiss You All Over," a 1978 flash in the pan that sold 5 million copies. That's when the group did concerts with Aerosmith. Six years later, the band developed a growing following as a sizzling country music group with soaring harmonies and superb instrumentation.

group opened concerts for Jones, a country music legend. Without looking back, the band has moved ahead into a new sound With two replacements on board and a third coming in soon, Exile has rejoined the ranks of country music kingpins.

'We've let people know that Exile never left and we're back stronger than ever," LeMaire said. The group put out no new songs for about two years until mid-1990.

This followed the loss of their recording contract and the disruption caused by the departure of Marlin Hargis, J.P. Pennington and Les Taylor, who are now working independently in music. But Exile signed with Arista

It was the period in which the The band Exile, turning out country hits again after two years in an exile of their own, consists of, from left, Steve Goetzman, Lee Carroll, Paul Martin and Sonny LeMaire. The band has crossed over successfully into rock and country music.

> a sensation when the little-known band released the controversial "Kiss You All Over."

After followup rock 'n' roll records fizzled, the group returned to Lexington and began playing regularly in a bowling alley lounge. LeMaire even took a job in a pizza restaurant because he needed money

Exile has been around for 26 years, and the three new members are the 19th, 20th and 21st to join.

"It's been cycle after cycle," said LeMaire, now the group's bassist and lead vocalist. "You get up and then you're down for a while, and then you find some way to bring it back.

HOUSTON (AP) - State and local officials confirmed they are investigating whether the $18,000 auction sale of ex-Beatle Paul Mc-Cartney's birth certificate was faked to inflate the document's value.

The birth certificate - the legitimacy of which has not been questioned — was put up for sale last month by Marshall Terrell, who bought it from McCartney's stepmother, Angela Williams, according to a bill of sale provided by Ms. Bean. McCartney was not involved in the sale.

Ms. Bean accused Terrell, buyer Brian Taylor, auctioneer Ray Simpson and Phoebe Moody, who took the certificate to Simpson on Terrell's behalf, of faking the sale. Simpson said the sale was legitimate, but would not say whether Taylor had paid for the document.

Betty Alice Bell, 35, Box 231, is in stable condi-Center today after being hit by the vehicle, driven by a State Hospital worker. A nursing supervisor said Bell will undergo surgery today. The Big Spring Police reported the following incidents:

Media protest Pentagon rules for war coverage WASHINGTON (AP) - Several major news organizations are protesting Pentagon ground rules for covering war in the Persian Gulf that restrict descriptions of combat and require military review of combat dispatches. In letters to the Pentagon, the organizations said the rules would unacceptably limit combat coverage to pools, small groups of reporters who share their work with colleagues, and would give the military too much control over reporting.

Britain and France announced similar restrictions for correspondents with their troops.

"We think existing proposals go far beyond what is required to protect troop safety and mission security," the four major television networks said in a letter to Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

"Specifically, we object in the strongest possible terms to the socalled 'security review' provisions that set up cumbersome barriers to timely and responsible reporting and raise the specter of government censorship of a free press." The review provision provides that matter objected to by reviewing offices will be referred to the Pentagon, which will discuss it with the organization concerned.

'Security review may not be censorship in its purest form, but it compromises the free flow of information with official intrusion and government oversight," said the letter signed by four network news presidents - Roone Arledge of ABC, Eric Ober of CBS and Michael G. Gartner of NBC and Tom Johnson, president of the Cable News Network.

The Associated Press, in a separate letter to the Pentagon, objected to the security review provision and several others, including a prohibition on reporting "details of major battle damage or major personnel losses" until announced by the Pentagon.

"You could drive an Army truck through this provision," The AP's Washington bureau chief. Jonathan Wolman, said in the letter. Wolman said the broad language in the provision could be interpreted by military officials conducting the pre-release security reviews "as an invitation to strike out descriptive material of unsuccessful or costly combat events."

"We must and we will accept clear ground rules that protect the lives of the troops and the security of their mission," said Louis D. Boccardi, president and general manager of The Associated Press. "But that should be accomplished without imposing unnecessary restrictions that make editors out of military people.

And Time magazine, in a letter to Cheney written by managing editor Henry Muller, objected to the reliance on combat pools to report the fighting.

'This is simply unacceptable,'' Muller wrote. "Pools are intended as short-term, stopgap measures until independent coverage can be arranged. I know of no precedent for the kind of open-ended and severely limiting policy that the Pentagon is contemplating in this case.

Other news organiztions said they had protested, or planned to.

The New York Times, in an editorial Wednesday, applauded the Pentagon for dropping some restrictions and said there were times when military censorship was acceptable for security reasons. But it cautioned the Pentagon against using the reviews for reasons other than protecting safety and security.

In the House, the Democratic alternative was being drafted by a group led by Majority Leader Richard Gephardt of Missouri. Gephardt ran unsuccessfully for his party's presidential nomination in 1988 and has not ruled out seeking it again. His alternative expresses Congress' commitment to forcing Iraq out of Kuwait and endorses the use of military force to support the international economic embargo against Iraq and to defend Saudi Arabia. But it asserts that sanctions and diplomacy are the wisest course for now, and that Bush must come back to Congress later for authority to use troops if those efforts fail.

in harrassment suit

Woman wins $16,000

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

One of three women who filed a sexual harrassment suit against a local chiropractor was awarded $16,000 for assault and punitive damages by an 118th Judicial District Jury Wednesday. The other two women did not receive anything.

The verdict came following a day of testimony in which Dr. William T. Chrane, owner of Chiropractic Health Center, denied all charges levied by former employees Georgia Joyce Newsom, Patty and Came. M.

ivewsom, who received the award, and the other two women each said Chrane made sexual remarks, gestures and advances towards them.

Chrane, who said he used to give back and neck adjustments weekly to Newsom and Eden, admitted that some jokes he told may have been "a little bit risque" and that he and Newsom flipped "bird" signs at each other, both more than half a dozen times.

But he denied accusations that he indecently touched Newsom and Morrows and said Morrows did not even work for the chiropractic business from March 15 to Aug. 8 of 1987, as she said, but worked for an automobile sales dealership he owns for two days on Aug. 11 and Aug. 13 of 1987.

"That's not true," he said when asked about sexual advances. On a charge by Newsom that he offered her money for sex, he said, "That is absolutely not true.' Newsom in turn denied testimony from a friend of Chrane's. Dale Austin, a former Big Spring resident now living in San Antonio, who said she kissed him and put her arms around him when they first met in the chiropratic office. "No sir," she answered when asked on the stand if Austin had told the truth. Newsom, who worked for Chrane percent at fault.

from Aug. 31, 1987 to Feb. 8, 1989, said she left because of his abuse.

Chrane said Newsom could have come back to work if she wanted to and did once, following a disagreement, but another secretary had since become the "head girl" in the office. "Really, Joyce and I got he said. "There was along,' nothing I criticized her for."

Eden, who began work for Chrane on Feb. 8, 1989, said she was fired Feb. 16 because she rejected Chrane's advances. But Chrane and another secretary at the chiropratic center, Dorothy mid Eden was wor a trial basis and that she could not do the work and would not attend any seminars for further training. Eden said Chrane wanted her to attend seminars alone with him.

"This thing boils down to who do you believe," said Chrane's at-torney Wayne Basden, Big Spring, in his closing argument to the jury.

"Obviously, as you've figured out, somebody is not telling the truth," Odessa attorney Allen Stroder, who represented all three women, told the jury.

In his closing argument, Basden, referring to testimony from Danny Heckler that Morrow at one time said there was not a case, accused Stroder of looking for two other women to make a stronger case after being approached by one of the women. He also questioned why Newsom put up with Chrane for as

The Soviet Union today appealed to Iraq, its former ally, to "make the move the entire world community is expecting" and withdraw from Kuwait.

"We urge all parties, and specifically Iraq, to understand the seriousness of the prevailing situation and demonstrate responsibility for the destiny of the region, for the destinies of their own people, said Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Vitaly Churkin.

Iraq said today that Bush has been deluded by military advisers into believing the United States can win a war in the Persian Gulf.

"The price which Bush will pay is not only the U.S. defeat and the loss of U.S. strategic interests, but rivers of Americans' blood," said al-Thawra, the newspaper of Iraq's ruling Baath Arab Socialist Party. France's defense minister, Jean-Pierre Chevenement, today suggested the United States could do more to entice Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait by the U.N. deadline. Some U.S. lawmakers said Iraqi intransigence in the Geneva talks raised the chances Bush would get congressional authorization to wage war. Congress was to begin debating such a resolution today.

Former Howard cagers doing well

Here's keeping up with ex-Howard College basketball Former All-American guard

Terrence Lewis is starting at Washington State University in the Pacific 10 Conference. The Cougars are currently 8-3 overall. They've beaten Arizona State 95-86 and lost to Arizona 84-69 in conference play.

Lewis is averaging 15 points, four assists, four rebounds and two steals per game. He's shooting 51 percent from the floor, including 42 percent from three-point range. He's also making 77 percent of his foul shots

Also on the west coast is former Lady Hawks forward Linda Waters, playing at Pepperdine University in the West Coast Conference.

Waters had been a part-time starter this season. She's averaging eight points, three rebounds and two assists per game. She's shooting 41 percent from the floor, 38 percent from the three-point line and 67 percent from the foul line. Her best game was 16 points against the University of California at Santa Barbara. Pepperdine is currently 7-7 and starts conference play this weekend against San Diego State. Former Lady Hawks, forward Ana Carroll and guard Monique Cook are currently starting for Pan American University in the American South Conference. Carroll is averaging 10 points and five rebounds per contest. She's shooting 41 percent from the floor and 68 percent from the foul line. Cook is averaging four points and three assists per game. She's shooting 26 percent from the floor, 30 percent from the three-point line, and 78 percent from the foul line. The Lady Bronchos are 2-7. They begin conference play Saturday night by hosting Central Florida University. Another former Lady Hawks playing is post player Shannon Lawson, who's playing for the Stephen F. in NFL history.

"I think I'm respected by my peers and that's where you want to be respected, by your peers and coaches," he said. "I think I've learned to be more patient over the years. You have to take what the defense gives you and not try to push everything downfield.

"Critics are my motivating factor, but I'm my own worst critic, so no matter how hard someone else is on me, I'm harder on myself."

Moon is the only quarterback to pass 20,000 yards in both the NFL and the CFL. He's thrown more than 3,000 yards four times and this season narrowly missed the 5,000-yard plateau.

"I think I might have gotten 5,000 if I hadn't been hurt," he said. "It's ironic. People said I couldn't do in the NFL what I did in the CFL. Sometimes, goals you don't set become goals when someone says you can't do it."

The Oilers' first season operating the run-and-shoot offense produced four Oilers wide receivers among the top seven AFC receivers in catches.

"Warren works so hard to get the ball to the receiver right on his chest." Drew Hill said. " I think we just believe in one another. Warren believes I can make the play. He reads my body language and I try to make the correct reads and be in NAME OF BRIDE OF BRIDE MART NAMES IN there will all the great quarterbacks."

Oilers offensive coordinator Kevin Gilbride also appreciated Moon's season.

"It's nice if you have a person with enough athleticism that when the protection breaks down and the coverages break down on the route you have called, he can buy time and get you out of a bad play,' Gilbride said.

Being a quarterback in the runand-shoot is more important than in other alignments, Moon said.

"I can't have a bad game and think we still can win," Moon said.

Houston's Derrick Daniels had something to prove after being held scoreless by the Arkansas Razorbacks

He proved his point with a career-high 35-point performance Wednesday night to lead the Cougars to an 80-73 Southwest Conference basketball over the Rice Owls.

"I wanted to set the tone early to show the Arkansas game didn't deflate me," said Daniels, who was scoreless in Houston's 95-79 loss to second-ranked Arkansas on Sunday. "I got a lot of frustration out in this game. I didn't feel I was being aggressive enough

In the only other conference game, Texas Christian defeated Texas A&M, 80-72. Southern Methodist edged Texas-San Antonio, 88-86, in overtime.

It was the 16th consecutive home victory for the Cougars, 10-3 for the season and 2-1 in SWC games. Rice dropped to 5-7 and 1-2.

Daniels, who had 14 three-point baskets in Houston's first 12 games, hit 3 of 5 three-pointers in the first half, helping the Cougars to a 45-35 lead at intermission. He finished with a career-high 5 threepointers

Brent Scott led the Owls with 26 points and Dana Hardy added 15 points. Alvero Teheran scored 19 points for the Cougars.

Jordan reaches another milestone

During a long afternoon session, delegates approved by nearly a 10-1 margin a complex measure that shortens playing seasons and reduces time demands on athletes

Americans shine in world swim meet

PERTH. Australia (AP) Matt Biondi retained the gold medal in the 100-meter freestyle and Janet Evans finally got her first world title in the World Championships.

Earlier, Kent Ferguson of Boca Raton, Fla., gave the U.S. a surprise gold medal in the men's 3-meter springboard diving competition. He turned in a sensational final dive to hold off China's top-rated Tan Liangde.

Evans won the 400 freestyle in 4 minutes, 8.63 seconds and defeated Hayley Lewis, the Australian who beat Evans in the 200 free. Biondi held off Sweden's Tommy Werner in 49.18 to keep the world title he won four years ago in Madrid, Spain.

The Evans and Biondi victories along with the victorious women's 400 freestyle relay team gave the United States four swimming titles

The U.S. took the 400 freestyle relay with a time of 3:43.26. The U.S. team was made up of Nicole Haislett of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Julie Cooper of St. Louis; Whitney Hedgepeth of Roanake Rapids, N.C., and Jenny Thompson of Dover, N.H.

Astros trade

top slugger

HOUSTON (AP) - Glenn Davis was traded from the Houston Astros to the Baltimore Orioles today for pitchers Pete Harnisch, Steve Finley and Curt Schilling.

Davis, who will be 31 in March, batted .251 last season with 22 homers and 64 RBIs. He was on the disabled list from June 25 through Aug. 29 with a strained rib-cage muscle.

Houston, which is ridding itself of high-priced veterans, was unwilling to sign Davis to a multiyear contract. Davis, who earned $1,985,000 last season as a salary arbitration winner, is eligible for free agency following the 1991 season.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS When it comes to passing milestones, Michael Jordan would rather be in Philadelphia. Jordan, who earlier in his career scored his 5,000th and 10,000th career points at the Spectrum, passed the 15,000 mark Wednesday night and finished with 40 points in the Chicago Bulls' 107-99 victory over the 76ers.

"I've had milestones here in the past, but we lost the games. The thing that meant most to me tonight was getting the win," Jordan said. "I'm aware of the great basketball history here. Maybe that's why I keep getting milestones here.

Jordan reached 15,000 points he's the 54th player to do so - in 460 games, faster than anyone else except Wilt Chamberlain, who scored his 15,000th in his 358th game.

"I'm a little surprised I did it so quickly. Six or seven years ago I wouldn't have thought it would happen so quickly," said Jordan, who is in his seventh NBA season. Jordan's 15,000th point came on a free throw late in the first quarter.

"To reach the milestone was a bonus," he said. "This was a great victory for us. We've been playing kind of low-key lately, but we had our minds set to win this game, especially since they beat us in Chicago earlier.'

In addition to his other Philadelphia milestones, Jordan also became the Bulls' all-time scoring leader during a 120-109 loss in Philadelphia last Jan. 26.

Charles Barkley had 29 points and Armon Gilliam 23 for the 76ers, who have lost six of seven games and fell 81/2 games behind firstplace Boston in the Atlantic a 101-79 loss at Utah on Dec. 7: Division leader — and Smith didn't get a sack in the last three games.

But this is no one-dimensional player

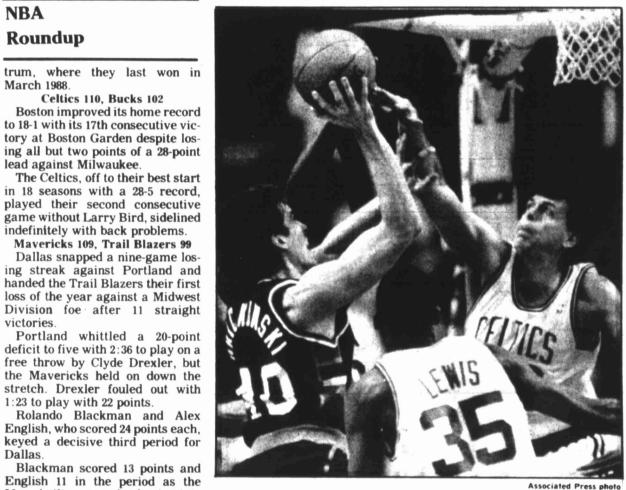

"He looks like the most dominant player in football right Giants coach Bill now. Parcells said.

Smith faced double-teaming in every game this year and triple-teaming in some. Unlike some of his peers, he does not look on that as a compliment.

"I don't think it's real smart to put so many blockers on one guy," he said. "It just means on our team you don't have enough people to handle a Cornelius Bennett, Shane Conlan, Darryl Talley or Leon Seals. I don't think that's the way to play us."

"Smith is the kind of player who will beat you with any move," said Jets tackle Jeff Criswell, who knows very well how embarrassing an afternoon opposite Smith can be. Criswell often is the guy on the highlight films who is left groping at air as Smith tackles the ballcarrier or quarterback. "He'll get you inside, outside, with speed or a bull-rush. It doesn't matter.'

Byron Scott, who had 20 points for the game, scored nine in the first 51/2 minutes to propel the Lakers to a 20-8 lead. Los Angeles held a 33-22 advantage at the end of the first period and extended it to 58-41 at halftime.

AUSTIN (AP) - Dallas Carter High School must forfeit its 1988 state 5A football title and give back the championship trophy, the University Interscholastic League's state executive committee ruled today.

The unanimous decision upheld the committee's original decision of Nov. 18, 1988

Carter was ordered to forfeit the championship after Texas Education Commissioner William Kirby ruled that one of the school's players, Gary Edwards, had failed algebra and was ineligible for extracurricular activities under the nopass, no-play rule.

A state district judge overturned Kirby's ruling. But the Third Court of Appeals set aside that ruling in October, meaning that Kirby's decision stands

The UIL committee voted to require Carter to forfeit all 1988 season games played after Oct. 10, 1988, to return its championship trophy to the UIL and "make a good faith effort" to collect championship medals from former players.

MCHD conducting survey

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ Staff Writer

Martin County residents will be randomly selected to give their views on the Martin County Hospital and its services, according to hospital district officials.

According to Hospital Administrator Jeanette Page, the district wants to know what facilities provide the best care for area residents and what the community wants in a hospital

'We are looking for suggestions from our county residents as to what programs are needed to better care for our area patients and what could would be needed to bring them in," Page said.

Survey questions will range from the conditions of the hospital to what services are needed or should be cut.

"We need to generate revenues for the hospital," Page said. "The board and I feel that this area needs a hospital and we feel that we will try anything to get our own residentie to use whet the shave

House backs Lewis

AUSTIN (AP) - House Speaker Gib Lewis says a series of votes that crushed a challenge to the speaker's power shows that House members are satisfied with the way business is being conducted.

The House overwhelmingly defeated challenges to the speaker's power Wednesday, including a proposal to require future speakers to temporarily step aside if facing the same legal problems as incumbent Gib Lewis

None of the proposals to limit a speaker's power received more than nine favorable votes in the 150-member chamber.

"I think the votes are indicating how the members of the House want to conduct their business. The House belongs to the membership," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth, adding that he didn't perceive the proposals as a personal challenge.

'I don't view them at all like that. It does not offend me one way or the other. And I don't think it was meant to be ... I view it as what they consider a good, reasonable way to conduct House business, in a very orderly manner," he said.

Lewis was re-elected on a 46-1 vote Tuesday for a record fifth term as the top House officer. He has been indicted by a Travis County grand jury on two counts of alleged ethics

Convict wins new identity

HOUSTON (AP) - A man convicted of arranging a notorious triple slaying legally has changed his name to erase his connection with the crime, angering authorities who helped put him behind bars.

Walter Waldhauser Jr., who got out of prison last year, went to court in April and took the new identity of Michael L. Davis, obtaining a new driver's license and Social Security numbers.

The 36-year-old Waldhauser was sentenced in 1981 to 30 years in prison in a deal with prosecutors after he testified against two other men involved in the murders of John and Diana Wanstrath and their 14-month-old son.

Waldhauser hired another man, Allen Wayne Janecka, to do the shootings and had been paid by Markham Duff-Smith, Mrs. Wanstrath's adopted brother, who inherited half of the $800.000 Wanstrath estate. Waldhauser also confessed to arranging the slaving in 1975 of Duff-Smith's adoptive mother.

KILLEEN (AP) -Casualty notification, military housing even income taxes — were topics of Army briefings here for families of soldiers stationed in the Mideast as a U.N.-imposed deadline loomed.

Three briefings were held Wednesday for about 1,200 families of troops, many from Fort Hood's 2nd Armored Division, who have been sent to Saudi Arabia in the wake of the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait.

"The families need to know that the soldiers are being taken care of," said Gen. Pete Weyrauch at the sprawling Army post. "Also, the soldiers need to know that their families are being taken care of' during the operation if war breaks out

A report that hundreds of additional troops would be deployed from Fort Hood early Thursday morning was not confirmed. An Army spokesman did not immediately return calls to The Associated Press.

As the Jan. 15 deadline for withdrawal of Iraqi troops looms, talks by representatives of that country and the United States ended Wednesday in disagreement.

The Army covered plans for housing, security and even how to file income taxes in the briefings.

"It helps a little bit," said Michelle Mahan, one family member at the post, "to know that somebody will be there if something does happen."

Security was being beefed up at Fort Hood, but no terrorism threat has yet been identified, the Army said.

Officials said hundreds of units of blood were also readied for possible use at the base if an emergency arises

Meanwhile, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said in Washington he could seek presidential authority to keep reservists on active duty for up to two years under a provision allowing the call up of as many as 1 million more reservists as part of the Persian Gulf operation.

Cheney currently has authority by virtue of presidential approval to call to active duty as many as 200.000 reservists for up to 180 days. For most of those reservists, their tour of duty expires in mid-February.

Many reserve units, including about 700 doctors and nurses based in Mesquite, have already been called out in support of the Mideast operation.

Bush's chances for war resolution improve

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush is in a strong position to win congressional support to use force in the Persian Gulf because of Iraq's "infuriating" response to peace efforts, a leading House Democrat said today.

The House and Senate were beginning consideration today of competing resolutions on future action in the gulf.

One, requested by the president, would give Bush authority to use force as of next Tuesday's United Nations deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait. The other, proposed by Democratic leaders, calls for giving the economic embargo against Iraq more time to work.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee's Middle East subcommittee, said today that Iraq's actions in talks in Geneva Wednesday have helped Bush's position in Congress. "I think it strengthens the president," Hamilton said on "CBS This Morning.

"The peace talks collapsed in Geneva and that means war is more likely. If war is more likely I think that tends to strengthen the hand of the president. So my guess is that he's in a very strong position," Hamilton said.

"It's infuriating," he said of the refusal by Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz to accept a letter from Bush to Saddam Hussein. "For the foreign minister of Iraq not even to accept it just is a very maddening thing.

mittee and an advocate of "economic sanctions, a continued military threat and patience," said in an article for the Op-Ed page of Thursday's editions of The Washington Post that Saddam should not "misread this debate."

"If war occurs, the constitutional and policy debates will be suspended, and Congress will provide the American troops whatever they need to prevail," Nunn wrote Foley said House leaders would not pressure members on the issue, and they would be "free to follow their consciences, as they should." In the House, the Democratic alternative was being drafted by a group led by Majority Leader

Richard Gephardt of Missouri.

Pork production to show little increase WASHINGTON (AP) - Hog farmers are not expanding production as rapidly as had been expected, and Agriculture Department analysts say that means prices of ham, pork chops and sausage will remain high for some time.

Last week a quarterly report of swine inventories and breeding intentions showed that farmers still are leery about boosting production significantly this year.

As of Dec. 1, the start of the 1991 marketing year for pork producers, the U.S. inventory of hogs and pigs was estimated at 54.6 million head, up 1 percent from a year earlier.

However, the number of breeding hogs, at 6.87 million, was "virtually unchanged" from Dec. 1, 1989. Further, the report said the 1990 pig crop declined 2 percent from 1989 to 90.1 million head.

USDA analysts had forecast some increase in output this year, but the Dec. 1 figures have cast doubts on that occurring.

In the January issue of Agricultural Outlook magazine, for example, the department's Economic Research Service said: "From a cyclical perspective, expected (farrowing) intentions some expansion in pork output is expected in 1991, with production forecast to be up about 3 percent from a year earlier.

It added: "By second quarter 1991, year-to-year expansion is expected to get under way and accelerate as the year progresses.'

But last week's quarterly report, which was compiled and released after the outlook article was written, put a different spin on the projections.

For example, the new figures showed that in the 10 top states which produce nearly 80 percent of the nation's pork - producers intend to have 2.4 million sows farrow in March, April and May, down 2 percent from the spring quarter of 1990

Research service analyst Ron Soviets buying grain Gustafson said that because of the new figures the agency has 'basically pulled back on the forecast for late 1991," which had indicated greater pork supplies and some weakening of prices.

for the spring quarter," Gustafson said in a telephone interview Wednesday.

The earlier outlook article said retail pork prices this year "are expected to average near 1990's record of $2.11 per pound, with year-to-year increases expected in the first two quarters and declines expected later.'

Gustafson did not disclose revised 1991 figures for pork retail prices - the $2.11 per pound indicated previously is an all-cut average used by the research agency. But he said the hold-down on expansion plans point to "prices still remaining extremely strong" this vear.

"There's nothing here that shows chink in the armor of pretty strong red meat prices over the next year or so," Gustafson said.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Soviet Union has already used a large part of its new $900 million line of U.S. credit to buy grain, according to Agriculture Department "In general, we did not get the export figures.

Officials said Wednesday that

U.S. grain and soybean meal, a day after getting the go-ahead on the credit guarantee package.

Private exporters reported selling 3.72 million metric tons of corn and 550,000 tons of soybean meal for delivery to the Soviet Union in 1991, the first year of a new longterm grain agreement signed last June 1.

Exporters are required by law to report large sales of grain to USDA on a daily basis. However, no selling prices or other details are provided.

Although the announcement did not say the grain and meal were covered by the new credit guarantee, terms of the deal clearly showed the commodities were eligible for the financing, according to one official who demanded anonymity.

Thus, it appeared that a large portion of the $900 million approved for USDA guarantees — the actual loans are handled by private banks is being used quickly.

For example, corn last month was valued at more than $100 per metric ton delivered to export ports on the Gulf of Mexico. The 3.72 million tons of corn could have

Moscow bought large quantities of an export value of around $380 million. Last month President Bush announced the Soviet Union would be offered up to $1 billion in credit guarantees to buy U.S. commodities. In announcing the $900 million on Tuesday, USDA said the remainder would be allocated later.

The credit package includes $530 million for feed grains, primarily corn; $165 million for wheat or flour; $130 million for proteint meals, mostly soybean; and $25 million for poultry meat. Also, $50 million was earmarked for transportation costs.

Under the five-year agreement reached in 1990, the Soviet Union is committed to buy a minimum of 10 million tons of U.S. grain each vear

In 1989-90, under the old pact, the Soviets bought 20.3 million tons of grain, including nearly 16.5 million tons of corn and 3.8 million tons of wheat. That was for the year that ended last Sept. 30.

An additional three months was tacked on to the old agreement so the new pact could commence on Jan. 1.

It would not have covered Lewis, however, because Price proposed that it apply only to indictments issued after the amendment was adopted. Lewis was indicted Dec. 28.

"We have procedures to expel a member (of the House). We have procedures to get rid of a committee chairman or vice chairman," Price said. "We do not have a provision for removing a speaker.

But only Price and Moreno voted against a motion to kill the amendment, and it died.

Price said he believes that legal difficulties for a House leader could cause problems for the Legislature.

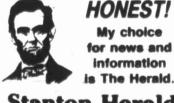

"I don't think indictments are issued just frivolously. But the point is, the speaker, whoever the speaker is, ought to step aside and let the House go, so that there's no chance that the House will suffer from a person's private problems," Price said.

The lawmaker said he wasn't surprised by the lopsided votes against his proposals.

"I'm not disappointed. I expected it to go that way. But under the circumstances, I think I had to bring it up," he said.

Lewis said he wasn't offended by the challenges.

'Al has made those amendments over the last several years. The same thing for Mr. Moreno. They're very sincere in their approach to it," Lewis said.

Seventh-grade Buffs bow to Coahoma

Stanton's seventh-grade A and B teams lost to Coahoma Monday.

The A team lost 32-28. They were led by George Cox, who scored 12 points, followed by Jason Hopper with eight, Taylor Looney with six and Jerrod Bedingfield and Nick Hull both with one point apiece.

"For three quarters, we played evenly with Coahoma. The last quarter was our downfall as we failed to connect on free throws and lost the ballgame. We have improved tremendously from the start of the year. We are playing as a team," seventh grade coach Albert Chavez said.

The B team lost to Coahoma 25-17. "We lost the first half and played even the second half, trading baskets, but could not overcome the first half. The kids played good and it was a close game,' Chavez said.

Scoring for the B team was David Cazares, Shandal Clay and Jory Johnson, all with four points, and Brandon Kelly and Lance Payne with two and Andy Hinojosa with one point.

Eighth grade A falls

The Stanton eighth-grade A boys lost to Coahoma at the buzzer, 31-29. Leading the way for Stanton was J.J. Ortiz with 20 points followed by Moreno, Michael Paul Martinez and Jerele Lee with two points and Quincy Brown with three. The eighth grade B boys beat Coahoma 19-15. Leading thw way for the home team was Castro with six points followed by Almazan with five, Kendall and Crow with two and Caffey with four.

Perot said the United States should not go to war with Iraq unless Congress approves. He added that Americans should understand the consequences if war breaks out.

"Let's not make the mistake we made in Vietnam. We committed our troops to war, but we never committed our nation" he said.

Perot, who is perhaps best known for hiring a team to rescue two EDS executives held hostage in Iran in 1979, said he has been speaking out on the Persian Gulf crisis since early December.

The United States, Australia and the Netherlands announced preparations to withdraw their diplomatic officials.

German officials said their remaining diplomats in Iraq have returned home. Belgium recalled its envoys, and France said it was reducing staff at its other Middle East embassies.

Britain evacuated all but one diplomat from Baghdad, sending the others out of the city in a convoy at dawn. Britain's more than 30,000 troops represent the largest Western presence after the United States in the multinational force confronting Iraq in the region.

Belgium today recalled its two diplomats from Baghdad after consultations with its European Community partners, Foreign Affairs Minister Mark Eyskens said. He called the recall temporary, and said it was done as a precaution.

France chartered two Air France jetliners to fly to Israel, Jordan, Abu Dhabi, Qatar, Bahrain and Saudi Arabia to evacuate French citizens who want to leave but cannot find space on regular flights. French officials did not estimate how many would do so.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman said France also was reducing staff at its other Middle East embassies.

Officials from the 12-nation European Community were meeting in Luxembourg and were expected to reach a joint decision to evacuate their embassies, an Italian Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Rome.

Fear of war grew after the failed Geneva talks Wednesday between Secretary of State James A. Baker 111 and Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz.

British Counsul General Christopher Segar stayed behind to attend a court trial of a British citizen that Iraq has charged with trying to escape illegally. Segar is expected to leave Iraq soon.

Jordan on Wednesday closed the border to refugees. Hundreds of thousands of mainly Asian and Arab refugees poured into Jordan shortly after the gulf crisis began, posing a heavy burden on a country already in financial straits.

In Australia, Prime Minister Bob Hawke said the three remaining Australian diplomats in Baghdad would be pulled out soon. Diplomats said the officials would leave early Friday and drive through the desert to Jordan.
