Renovation issue on meeting agenda

The Citizens' Committee for School Improvement, an advisory group to the Big Spring school board's new building project, will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the high school board room.

The committee has been divided into three sub-groups to consider issues related to the project, which may include the construction of two new schools. The group will consider at its Tuesday meeting whether renovation of Runnels Junior High and College Heights Elementary School would be feasible.

School's video to be broadcast

Bauer Magnet School's three-minute message to Gov.-elect Ann Richards has been chosen to go on TV Tuesday.

Bauer and Moss Elementary made video addresses to the new governor last week as part of an Inaugural Committee project to highlight Richards' policy on education.

Kathy Tedesco, the music teacher who directed Bauer's effort, said they received a call early today announcing they had been one of the videos chosen for television. The video spot will be aired sometime between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesday, she said.

"We're just on cloud nine," Tedesco said. She added that she hoped parents and others would watch the broadcast, to be shown on IJSE (Channel 29).

Absentee voting ends on Tuesday

The deadline to vote absentee in three area Jan. 19 elections is Tuesday at 5 p.m. 19.

As of this morning 273 people have voted in the election for Howard County precinct 4 commissioner, County Clerk Margaret Ray said. There are 2,484 registered voters in the precinct.

One person has voted so far in Martin County in an election to annex Howard County Pcts. 104 and 105 into the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District.

Another area election is in Colorado City, where City Council seats for District 1 and District 6 are up for election.

Taxpayers face relocation costs

HOUSTON (AP) — Inmates still crowding the Harris County Jail could force taxpayers to pay almost $1 million a month to house them elsewhere.

Chief U.S. District Judge James DeAnda gave the state and county until Saturday to bring the prisoner population below 6,100, or have the excess inmates transferred to other county jails or private facilities.

Iraqi legislature votes to back Saddam

Iraq's rubber-stamp legislature today unanimously backed Saddam Hussein's no-concession stand on Kuwait with the blood of the nation, and U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said he had lost hope for peace.

"Unfortunately, I don't see any more reasons to be optimistic. I don't see any reason to have real hope," the secretary-general said grimly after meeting with President Francois Mitterrand in Paris today.

His 2½ hour meeting with Saddam in Baghdad on Sunday had been considered the last best chance to avoid an attack on Iraqi forces by the U.S.-led multinational force drilling on Saudi sands.

President Bush on Sunday called Iraq's apparent intention to have troops in Kuwait beyond the Tuesday midnight EST withdrawal deadline "a tremendous mistake." In Baghdad, Saddam said any "last-minute initiatives" for peace were up to the United States.

Across the world, prayers and anti-war protests grew more passionate. In the states that line the Persian Gulf, residents stocked up on provisions and sealed windows and doors to protect against poison gas attacks.

"Unfortunately, I don't see any more reasons to be optimistic. I don't see any reason to have real hope."

U.N. Secretary-General

Some people sought gas masks, others hunted for a flight out.

Fearing the attack Iraq has promised if it is struck, Israel called up reserves and the United Nations ordered the dependents of its staff members to leave that country.

For months, Saddam has suggested that a peaceful settlement in the gulf could be linked to a Middle East peace conference that addresses the Palestinians' demands for an independent state on Israeli-occupied land.

The French and other European members of the coalition challenging Iraq favor allowing Saddam to partially save face by linking an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait with such a conference. Bush has rejected such a link — as well as urging from some quarters to consider allowing sanctions more time.

Perez de Cuellar said he did not bring up the issue of a Middle East conference in his talks with Saddam.

He said the Iraqi leader "never mentioned the word withdrawal, or if he mentioned the word, it was not in the sense of being prepared to withdraw." White House officials said Bush expected to hear from Perez de Cuellar by telephone today.

In Baghdad, members of the National Assembly shouted that they were willing to back Saddam "with our blood, our souls, we are ready to sacrifice for Saddam." At Saddam's urging, the body had voted in August to absorb Kuwait and last month to release all foreign hostages.

"We declare here and now that we are ready to sacrifice everything for the cause of Palestine. Palestine should be liberated and rights of Palestinians restored," he said.

"A last-minute initiative is now up to the Americans because they are the ones now raising the slogan of war," Saddam said Sunday in comments carried by the official Iraqi News Agency.

SAUDI ARABIA — A Saudi Arabian child in army fatigues and his brother carry gas masks and filters their father picked up at an Aramco distribution point. The government-owned company is distributing over 80,000 gas masks to employees.

VILNIUS, USSR — Lithuanians carry a civilian who was wounded during an attack by Soviet soldiers at the Lithuanian tv tower in Vilnius early Sunday in which 13 were reported killed and 100 wounded.

Assault ordered by the military

VILNIUS, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today said a local military commander decided to use force in the breakaway republic of Lithuania, where an assault by Soviet troops on Sunday claimed 14 lives.

"The manner of defense was decided by the commandant," Gorbachev said of the assault. "I learned only in the morning, the early morning, when they got me up. When it happened, no one knew."

Lithuania's foreign minister, who is in Poland with instructions to form a government in exile if Moscow takes over the republic, said the army is taking control in the Soviet Union.

"In Vilnius, the Soviet army is

CRMWD announces water rate increase

Water rates to member cities of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will increase slightly in 1991 with the implementation of the third 5-cent per 1,000 gallons charge previously approved by member cities for Lake O.H. Ivie construction.

CRMWD directors said last week the increase will be needed to keep abreast with financial demands from the lake project and to put the district in a position for other work including, in part, the Mitchell County reservoir now under construction.

Under the rates adopted by the board at its Thursday meeting in Big Spring, Odessa's increase will amount to about 7.7 cents more per MG than the actual rate for 1990; Big Spring will increase 1.96 cents and Snyder 1.94 cents more than in 1990. These figures were arrived by dividing the sum of monthly fixed charge and the delivery charge into the estimated deliveries to the cities in 1991.

Last year, Odessa's actual rate per MG was 73.13 cents, about 2 cents more than calculated because Odessa used 3.14 per cent less water than estimated. Big Spring's actual 1990 rate was 59.38 cents, or 4 cents more than calculated due to under-running its delivery estimate by 2.31 per cent; Snyder's actual rate of 69.56 cents was 9 cents more per MG than estimated due to a 17.15 per cent under run of deliveries.

The directors voted to apply $1,400,000 of non-municipal water sales during 1991 to help modify rates. This is the same amount used last year.

Monthly fixed charges, which cities must pay regardless of deliveries, were set at $455,245 for Odessa, $307,850 for Big Spring and $104,180 for Snyder for 1991. To these sums are added a 29.20-cent delivery (or cost of power) charge to Odessa; 16.69 cents for Big Spring, and 7.76 cents for Snyder.

Development grant program reviewed

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Howard County can now begin applying for grants, ranging from conservation projects to economic development, with the completion of a plan for the participation in the 12-county Big Country Resource Conservation and Development.

"The thing that we can do now is sit and wait or we can begin researching," consultant Chesley Wilson told Commissioners Court during their regular meeting this morning. Wilson, a technical assistant for the Howard County Soil and Water Conservation District, helped put together the Howard County plan, which he submitted to commissioners.

Unless the county authorizes money or service for a project, they are not required to pay anything as a member of Big Country RC&D, which the county joined in July. Commissioners approved purchasing the $175 Foundation Center Book for Research, which lists various funding for projects, and agreed to have Wilson do research.

"I think it'll probably be a good investment," Precinct 3 Commissioner Bill Crocker said.

The plan lists projects such as erosion and flood control, economic development, adequate housing for low-income families and improving water, sewage, landfill, fire and civil defense systems. But anything can be added to that list, Wilson said.

"It's just as big as you're imagination will let it get," he said. "Whatever ya'll want to try to get, then somewhere, someone wants to give some money."

As examples, he said museums have been created, a peanut mill was constructed in Gorman and a $500,000 resource learning center and nature trail was built in Midland. In Sweetwater, People for Progress Inc. bring in $4.5 million annually for about 20 programs, including a day-care center in which elderly citizens babysit.

"It's something to see, bringing in four million dollars income to that area," he said of the Sweetwater programs.

Projects adopted by the Big Country RC&D Executive Council will be funded through private and public grants, which the Council will assist in securing.

Federal money may be available in which counties will provide 35 percent of the costs, probably through in-kind construction service, for projects.

Health, lineage major factors when deciding to purchase pet

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Is there a way to be sure your new puppy will be exactly what you want? Margaret Taylor, Big Spring Kennel Club recommends you buy your dog from a reputable breeder.

Taylor urges buyers to beware of pet stores. Their dogs usually come from puppy-mills. This increases the chance of getting an unhealthy pet with questionable lineage.

"The reputable breeder is not in the business for profit," says Taylor. The puppy mills can turn out a hundred litters a year, with little regard to providing the proper environment, nutrition, and inoculations necessary to raise a quality puppy, she added. The show breeder, on the other hand, focuses on one litter every year or two. In this way, breeders can ensure the puppy's genetic health by finding the best breeding partner, and can provide the environment and care necessary for raising healthy animals.

Taylor explained, "Often pet store purchases are made on impulse without proper thought to the responsibilities involved."

Power plants go on alert

DALLAS (AP) — Officials at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport and TU Electric said they are prepared if terrorists attempt to target their facilities.

With the threat of war looming in the Persian Gulf, the U.S. State Department has begun an anti-terrorist watch nationwide. That watch includes enhanced security at airports and warnings to nuclear power plants.

DFW spokesman Joe Dealey said travelers won't notice most of the precautions.

"Right now, if you and I were to go out to the airport, you probably won't see much change, but that doesn't mean measures aren't in place," Dealey said.

He said the measures will become more noticeable if war starts in the Persian Gulf.

"In the event hostilities break out, there are levels of increased law enforcement that will become quite visible," Dealey said. "The most noticeable change initiated will probably be more uniformed police in security areas."

Police dog disarms suspect

PLANO (AP) — The slogan "Take A Bite Out of Crime" is more than just a catch phrase for a police dog named Blitz. Blitz is credited with halting a possible shootout between a gun-wielding suspect and two Plano officers after he clamped his jaws around the man's arm.

"Once the excitement was over, I looked at the dog and thought, 'This dog saved my life,' and I felt extreme joy," said Blitz's trainer Rick McDonald, a Plano canine officer.

"He (also) saved the other officer's life and probably saved the suspect's life, too, because no doubt if the dog didn't hit the suspect, deadly force would have been justified," McDonald said.

Texans hold vigils on eve of deadline

Thousands of believers gathered at a mountain shrine, 700 people held a mock funeral procession and the altar of a suburban church was ringed with barbed wire as the inexorable countdown toward a possible war continued.

Prayers resounded from the pews and pulpits of churches around the state Sunday as Texans prayed for a miracle to halt a possible conflagration in the Persian Gulf.

The United Nations has given Iraq until midnight Tuesday to retreat from Kuwait or face possible attack.

"Maybe with a little prayer, God will answer our prayers and there won't be war," said Ester Rodriguez, 28, of El Paso.

Members at Central United Methodist Church in Waco set up a 24-hour prayer vigil that will last through Tuesday's deadline.

"The opportunity to do something is limited for some of us. Yet if you understand the power of prayer, there's a very profound role for those to share," said co-pastor Claus Rohlf.

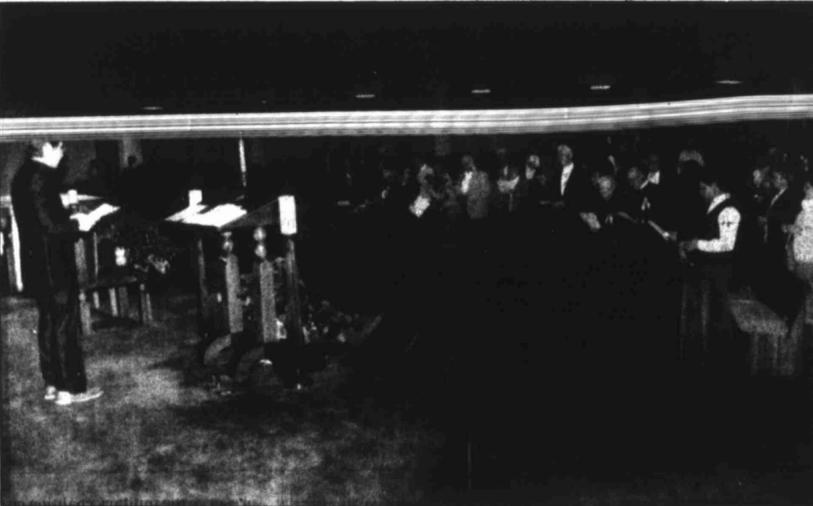

Tuesday is also the Rev. Martin Luther King's birthday, a fact some ministers noted.

"It is very ironic that on the very day of the birthday of Dr. King, that eloquent voice for peace, that we face the prospect of war," said Rev. James L. Tucker at St. James Episcopal Church in Houston.

About 700 people prayed for peace in San Antonio during a mock funeral procession, complete with an empty casket draped with an American flag to dramatize the casualties that would occur if war begins.

The procession, which included more than 300 vehicles, ended at Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery with a prayer service. Several casualties of Operation Desert Shield are buried there.

AMARILLO — The Rev. Jerry Stein of St. Francis Assisi Catholic Church leads about 200 people in a prayer for peace during a city-wide ecumenical prayer service Sunday evening in Amarillo. Participants were asked to commit prayer time every day until the Middle East crisis is over.

Wing who were killed Aug. 29 during the crash of a C-5 jet in Germany are buried at the national cemetery.

"Bring us all, oh Lord, to our senses," the Rev. Don Adickes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Richardson, said in a prayer Sunday.

For U.S. troops, he prayed, "Keep them safe, protect them, as they seek to bring stability to that part of the world."

Adickes was an Army chaplain in Vietnam and later head chaplain at Fort Hood.

Near El Paso, 2,500 believers made a pilgrimage two miles up Mount Cristo Rey, where they heard a Roman Catholic Mass celebrated in Spanish. Yellow rib-

U.S. hopes glut, reserves will head off energy crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — If war erupts in the Persian Gulf, the Bush administration is betting heavily on market forces, a current glut of oil and the use of government-owned emergency reserves to head off an energy crisis.

There are no plans to regulate prices, allocate supplies or ration fuel — measures that led to long lines at gasoline stations during the Arab oil embargoes of the 1970s, administration officials emphasize.

In fact, they warn that if states attempt any heavy-handed measures to interfere in the market, the White House may ask Congress to stop them.

Energy Department planners have labored for months, examining a number of oil supply scenarios that might come out of a war with Iraq, including one in which another 3 million barrels of petroleum a day would be lost because of damage to Saudi Arabian oil fields and refineries.

In each of these cases, the officials argue, they are confident that current substantial stocks and the sale of oil from the government's Strategic Petroleum Reserve, 586 million barrels stored in Louisiana and Texas salt caverns, will be adequate to prevent shortages and calm the markets.

"The world has plenty of oil right now," Assistant Energy Secretary John Easton last week reminded lawmakers concerned the administration might not be adequately prepared for the energy fallout from a prolonged war. And he said he was confident that Saudi oil facilities could be protected.

"We are prepared to respond rapidly to disruptions in the energy markets," Easton said. But he acknowledged that fighting in the gulf could prompt market speculation, panic buying, hoarding and prices to jump sharply.

To ease any oil shock, the administration plans to rely almost exclusively on assuring the markets that the current high level of inventory and the availability of the government-owned reserves will provide adequate supplies.

Figures from both the federal Energy Information Administration and the oil industry show that increased production worldwide over the last five months not only has replaced the 4.3 million barrels a day of oil lost from Iraq and Kuwait but left stocks at a comfortable level of about 327 million barrels.

There also is an abundance of refined products, including gasoline and heating oil, because of increased production and a decline in demand over the last four months, largely attributed to higher prices, a declining economy and mild weather.

Officials say there may be as much as 100 million barrels of additional unsold oil in tankers at sea around the world.

"There is no reason to panic," says Charles DiBona, president of the oil industry's American Petroleum Institute, echoing the sentiments of senior Energy Department officials.

But some state energy officials, consumer advocates and members of Congress are not as optimistic.

Richards wants changes at agency

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov.-elect Ann Richards says she wants changes made at the Texas Department of Commerce starting with its executive director.

In a copyright interview by KTBC-TV in Austin, Richards described Commerce as one of the "poorest run agencies in the state."

In addition, she said that executive director Bill Taylor should "perhaps seek other employment with a better future."

Taylor could not be immediately reached for comment Monday.

Captain wants cop killer in jail

HOUSTON (AP) — Police Capt. Roy B. Chandler is waging a personal campaign to keep those who murder other officers behind bars, and he is starting with the man convicted of killing a friend.

Richard DeLain Kyles is up for parole next month on a life sentence he received for killing Houston police officer Johnny Bamsch 15 years ago, but Chandler is trying to keep him in prison for the rest of his life.

"I knew Johnny Bamsch. He was friend of mine," Chandler said. "I've never done anything else for him," he said of Bamsch. "His case was handled by homicide (division) so those guys did that. The (prosecutors) did their part."

Now, Chandler thinks it's up to him and Bamsch's fellow officers to put pen to paper in an effort to keep Kyles in prison.

But he doesn't want to stop with Kyles. Chandler wants to launch a letter-writing campaign every time a convicted cop killer comes up for parole.

He also plans to protest the possible commutation of death sentences involving police killers.

"If you hit the parole board with several hundred letters, that will keep that guy an extra two or three years," he said. "That two or three years could save somebody's life."

Daniel Guerra, spokesman for the Board of Pardons and Paroles, said each case is considered individually, but public pressure could play a part in the decision.

"As far as whether it makes a difference, it's up to the individual board members," Guerra said. "Some are very liberal in granting paroles."

Study shows rape attempts down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heightened sensitivity among men to the concerns of women over the past two decades is being cited by criminologists as a possible explanation for a dramatic decrease in rape attempts.

The rate of attempted rapes of girls and women in the United States decreased 46 percent from 1973 to 1987, according to a study released Sunday by the Justice Department.

According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics study, the rate of attempted rapes fell from 1.3 per 1,000 girls and women in 1973 to 0.7 per 1,000 in 1987.

However, the rate of completed rapes — 0.6 per 1,000 — held steady over the same time span.

Criminologist Alfred Blumstein theorized that the decline in attempted rapes could be attributable to heightened male sensitivity to concerns raised by women in the last 20 years.

But Blumstein, dean of the school of urban and public affairs at Pittsburgh's Carnegie-Mellon University, said he could only guess at the reasons. Many women still are reluctant to report the crime, making statistics unreliable, he said.

Only 53 percent of rapes or attempted rapes are reported to police, the study said.

RAMAT DAVID AIR BASE, Israel — Israeli air force ground crewmen push an American made Sidewinder air-to-air missile towards an Israeli F-16 combat aircraft at Ramat David air base, Sunday. As Jan. 15 nears, the Israeli air force maintains a high state of alert.

D'Amato may face committee next

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few people in the nation's capital have as much reason to stay glued to the Keating Five hearings as Sen. Alfonse D'Amato.

The New York Republican could be the next senator squirming in the Senate Ethics Committee hot seat, and some Congress-watchers think the Keating case may give glimpses into D'Amato's future.

Since July 1989, the panel's staff has been examining a complaint that D'Amato exploited his public office to steer federal contracts and other favors to his contributors and political friends.

In the Keating Five investigation, the ethics committee is studying whether five senators were swayed by more than $1.3 million in campaign contributions they received from Charles H. Keating Jr. He had asked them to intervene with federal regulators on behalf of his Lincoln Savings and Loan, which subsequently failed.

On a basic level, the charges against D'Amato and the Keating Five are similar: all are accused of trading their influence for political contributions. All have denied any wrongdoing.

"In terms of what Keating Five means for D'Amato, the short answer is everything."

Barbara Bush suffers broken leg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Bush will be on crutches for several weeks, nursing a broken leg suffered when she slammed into a tree while sledding with her grandchildren at Camp David, Md.

The 65-year-old first lady returned to the White House in a wheelchair Sunday after the accident.

Mrs. Bush "was going down a hill that was very icy" on a plastic inner tube-type sled, spokeswoman Anna Perez said.

A presidential doctor, Lawrence Mohr, checked her cuts and bruises and sent her off by ambulance to a Hagerstown, Md., hospital, where X-rays revealed "a non-displaced fracture of the left fibula bone," the White House said.

The break was not severe enough to require a cast.

Israel prepares to respond to an attack

JERUSALEM (AP) — Convinced it will be an early target for Iraqi missiles, Israel is trying to balance U.S. pleas for restraint with its own need to maintain a credible deterrent.

An army official said today the air force, civil defense and military intelligence have moved into a high state of alert, and have called up reservists to beef up their forces.

"We're gradually broadening the reserve call-up and moving into a higher state of readiness," said the official, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The moves came a day after Israel insisted on the right to respond to an Iraqi attack, brushing aside U.S. assurances that the awesome assembly of U.S. air power in the Persian Gulf region would deal with the Iraqi missile batteries.

Iraq has said it will attack Israel if hit by U.S.-dominated multinational forces arrayed against it in the gulf.

U.S. Undersecretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger ended two days of talks in Jerusalem without winning a promise from Israel to stay on the sidelines if it is attacked.

Israel "made it clear to the Americans it maintains its right to act in its defense if it is attacked."

Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said in a statement issued Sunday after his final meeting with the U.S. official.

Still, the phrases used by Israeli leaders — who spoke of "defense" and of a "response" to attack — are mild by Israel's past standards.

More typical was a remark by Foreign Minister David Leviv in December in which he said that if Saddam thought he could threaten Israel, "he will find Israel ready, always, with its might, to destroy his security, to hurt him until he is sorry and regrets his action."

Underlining Israel's capability to strike back, Defense Minister Moshe Arens hosted Israeli and foreign reporters at a northern Air Force base. They watched ground crews arm two U.S.-supplied F-16 fighter-bombers with Sidewinder missiles and 6,600 pounds of explosives.

"We are prepared to defend ourselves and we will give a good account of ourselves," Arens said. "We are hoping we will not be involved, but if we are attacked we will respond."

The United States is anxious to preserve the military coalition confronting Iraq, which could unravel if Israel gets involved.

Civilians to control Soviet program

SEATTLE (AP) — The U.S.S.R. is moving toward civilian control of space exploration, a leading cosmonaut said.

Yuri Viktorovich Romanenko, an administrator at "Star City," the Gagarin Cosmonaut Training Center near Moscow, said a committee was being formed to arrange the transition from partial military to fully civilian control.

Soviet space exploration began with fighter pilots, and training and launches still are handled by the Defense Ministry, he said during a preview of "Soviet Space," an exhibit that runs through May 12 at the Pacific Science Center.

The Mir space station, occupied almost continuously since it was launched in February 1986, and other orbital operations are directed by the Academy of Sciences, he said.

A key question in the civilian takeover is whether to enlist free enterprise in space operations.

Despite the nation's economic woes, there has been no move to cut space exploration funding, he said. "It helps us a lot that the United States spends more because then we can say, 'Look how much they're spending.'"

Refugees to be kept, used as pawns

SITE 2 REFUGEE CAMP, Thailand (AP) — The United Nations wants to help the 300,000 Cambodian refugees in Thailand return home, but their guerrilla overlords seem determined to keep using them as pawns in the 12-year-old war.

The Khmer Rouge guerrillas are building up their "liberated zones" in western areas bordering Thailand, opposite the refugee camps.

Instead of allowing the refugees to return to their home villages, the Communist guerrillas may move them into the zones, for use in military and diplomatic maneuvering.

"The resistance wants to populate the liberated areas with the refugees, not only to control the areas but also to keep their hold on these people," said Jean-Jacques Fressard, head of the International Committee of the Red Cross in Thailand.

"This seems to lead to a Lebanonization of Cambodia," he said. "You have a government that controls part of the country, and you have three factions that each control a small part. This leads to partition rather than a settlement of the Cambodian conflict."

Re-election is 'victory of tolerance'

MARIO SOARES

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese President Mario Soares called his landslide re-election a "victory of tolerance" because he received support across the political spectrum.

The 67-year-old socialist leader captured 70.4 percent of the vote Sunday to win a second five-year term.

It was the widest margin of victory in a presidential election since 48 years of rightist dictatorship ended in April 1974.

Under the Portuguese Constitution, the president is not allowed to belong to any party. Although Soares emphasized his socialist background, he drew diverse support from dissident Communists to the center-right Social Democratic Party of Prime Minister Anibal Cavaco Silva.

"This is the victory of tolerance," Soares said.

Group warns of deepening racism

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an effort to "sound a national alarm" and reinvigorate the civil rights movement, a major church group is issuing an unusual pastoral letter warning that racism is a deepening problem in America.

More than three decades after the start of the modern civil rights movement, poverty is worse for non-white Americans and racially motivated violence has increased, the United Church of Christ contends.

Racist attitudes, it concludes, "permeate most of our institutions" and systemic racism underlies economic and social disparities between whites and non-whites.

"As a result of racial discrimination, all over the United States there are 'quiet riots' in the form of unemployment, poverty, social disorganization, family disintegration, housing and school deterioration, and crime," the church said.

Next Sunday, a day before the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, church leaders will read the letter to more than 6,000 congregations of the United Church of Christ, a 1.7-million-member Protestant denomination.

The past carries both theological

"We should have made much more progress toward racial harmony."

Rev. Benjamin Chavis Jr.
Veteran civil rights leader and United Church of Christ official and social meaning for church members, but it is intended to draw wider attention to show that racism has worsened, said the Rev. Benjamin Chavis Jr., a veteran civil rights leader and church official.

"We are trying to sound a national alarm," Chavis said in an interview last week. "We believe the leadership of our nation has focused so much on the world situation that we're losing sight of the domestic — the internal deterioration of our society."

"We should have made much more progress toward racial harmony."

The church calls on its followers to recognize racism as a sin and to become active in the political process on behalf of equality.

The pastoral letter is only the third in the history of the United Church of Christ, said Chavis, who is executive director of the church's Commission for Racial Justice.

In the 1970s, Chavis spent 4½ years in North Carolina prisons as a member of the Wilmington 10, a group including nine young black men convicted of firebombing a store and related charges during civil rights unrest in Wilmington, N.C.

They were cited by Amnesty International as the first case of U.S. political prisoners, and a federal appeals court overturned their convictions in 1980.

The church's statement voices alarm at an increasing frequency of violent acts against minorities. The violence cannot be dismissed as isolated acts of fringe groups and extremists, it says.

The attacks are, in fact, "visible consequences of racist attitudes" permeating society, the church says.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Searching for answers

The United States began the New Year with a full blown debate raging over a person's right to die. The idea seems almost ludicrous. The right to die? Death is inevitable. Why does anyone need the right to pass into the final phenomenon of life?

The answer, simply stated, is a combination of medical technology and constitutional interpretations. Medical technology in the United States appears to be in quest of something beyond health. It seeks immortality. That goal has haunted and eluded people from the beginning of time.

But it is only in this century, and really within the last 25 years, that medicine has learned to sustain biological functions with extraordinary means. The burden of personal stress and the backbreaking load of financial obligations raise the question, "Who wants all this?"

The Nancy Cruzan case became the focus of supportive and negative comments about the issue. Ms. Cruzan finally was allowed to die in a vegetative state when a judge ordered no interference with her parents wishes that feeding tubes be disconnected. The battle had gone all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court and back to the local courts in Missouri.

Sizable majorities in national polls support an individual's right to refuse treatment. But the issue that decides the question ultimately may be more financial than ethical, theological, or philosophical. Some people firmly believe that they must not be a drain on society sustained at huge cost without hope for recovery. Others raise the difficult question of how much society is obligated to pay to sustain life indefinitely.

Quick answers aren't likely. They probably aren't desirable.

But the emotional and financial costs of death must be debated as technology extends the edge of life farther and farther.

Pre-judging politicians

Just as campaign finance reform laws in the 1970s led to unanticipated PAC abuses in the 1980s, the Ethics Reform Act of 1989 already seems to be having unhealthy side-effects. One of these is an exodus of talented employees from federal service. The former drug czar William Bennett recently declined to become chairman of the Republican National Committee because, as of Jan. 1, he would have been barred from honoring a book contract.

Bennett is not the only one to encounter these new regulations. A disturbingly high number of high-ranking officials left government at the end of last month because, had they waited until after New Year's, new regulations would prohibit them from getting jobs with private firms interested in employing their expertise.

As readers are well aware, ethics in government is vitally important. But not everybody in Washington shares (former House Speaker Jim) Wright's moral compass. Congress should amend its new rules to aim for an ethical environment that does not rest upon the presumption of guilt. To do otherwise is to punish the honest dissemination of expertise, and that can only encourage a government managed and staffed by people lacking honesty, expertise — or both.

Freezing not acceptable

Louis Sullivan, secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, should look at the weather map. It would help him understand what's wrong with his proposal to slash federal energy assistance.

Under pressure from the White House budget office, Sullivan initially suggested that home-heating subsidies for the poor be cut by two-thirds and restricted to nine Northeastern states. Icebox states... would be literally left out in the cold. Criticism of that plan caused Sullivan to backtrack somewhat, but how far remains unclear.

We don't want to be too hard on Sullivan. He is trying to make more room in his budget for other deserving programs — such as prenatal and infant care and prevention of lead poisoning, breast cancer, tuberculosis and AIDS. But the administration ought to understand that letting people freeze is simply not an acceptable way to deal with the nation's budget problems.

Drinkable water possible if we want to pay the cost

By TOM DECELL, M.P.A.
Assistant City Manager

"Water, water everywhere and all the boards did shrink; Water, water, everywhere and not a drop to drink."

The paradox of the ancient mariner, "not a drop to drink" is noteworthy and appropriate for the dilemma we are facing in West Texas with our drinking water.

As a nation we treat an average of 183 gallons of water per person per day. Of this, we use, on an average, 70 gallons per day for bathing, cooking and washing and recreation.<sup>2</sup> The remainder is used for watering, industrial, commercial and public uses.

The amendments to the Safe Drinking Water Act have mandated increased tightening of standards imposed on the contents allowed in the water. The E.P.A. and Health Department impose two levels of drinking water standards; primary and secondary. The primary standards, which our water does meet, deal with such things as bacteriological, disinfection and chemical. The secondary standards address those things that give the water the bad taste and other problems. We can all agree that our water at best is of a poor drinking quality; just how bad — let's compare a few of the secondary standards with the current Big Spring drinking water analysis completed by the Texas Department of Health in October of 1990.

CONSTITUENT	SWDA	HEALTH	BIG SPRING
Iron	0.3 mg/l	0.3 mg/l	0.3 mg/l

*To be promulgated. MGL — milligrams per liter

Not only are we in Big Spring facing this "opportunity," we are additionally strapped with a water production facility that is not capable of meeting the present summertime demand, let alone providing a reserve capacity for any growth. There is a "light at the end of the tunnel" in this area, as we have awarded bids for improvements that will provide for a significant increase in capacity of the Roy C. Hester Water Treatment Plant.

And, we are sitting on an inordinately large number of "sleeping time bombs" throughout our water distribution system. These time bombs are the bell joints of our cast iron pipe reacting to a process called electrolysis, where dissimilar metals, lead and iron, in certain soil conditions interact, causing serious corrosion and weakening of the bell joint itself. Any unusual conditions, or in some instances no conditions, cause these time bombs to "explode." (In reality, the bell end of the pipe splits, emitting a tremendous volume of water at one time.) The results are evident throughout the city.

And, pockets of red water are with us throughout the system. This red water is caused by interaction of the aggressive water with the high levels of chlorides and the unlined cast iron piping which generates iron oxide. It is compounded in areas by low flows and unlooped piping. Additionally the iron oxide and the buildup in the piping of solids, or tuberculation, demands greater and greater amounts of chlorine to meet the Health Department criteria for drinking water.

What are we doing about these opportunities? What are our plans? What is the rationale for the proposed actions?

Water Quality

There are a number of systems — Reverse Osmosis, Ion Exchange, Electrodialysis — on the market today that can significantly reduce the level of constituents in our drinking water. One approach will be to significantly treat a percentage of the water to a very low level of total dissolved solids,

Public Forum

chlorides, sulphates, etc. and blend this water with the other finished water to bring all of the water in to the Safe Drinking Water Act standards. For a plant production capacity of 16 million gallons per day, we will need to treat approximately 11 million gallons per day, or between 65 and 70 percent of the water produced out of the conventional side of the plant, to be blended with the finished water to meet the requirements set forth by the Safe Drinking Water Act.

How much will this cost?
Capital cost: $6,000,000 to $9,000,000
Operations and amortization: $1 per 1,000 gallons
Disposal costs of effluent: Unknown

Preliminary indications are that any of the processes at the 16 million gallons per day rate of flow will generate in excess of 300,000 pounds each day of solids.

Where do we dispose of this amount of undesirable constituents safely?

Add these costs on to our present water bill of $1.63 per 1,000 gallons of water!

Are we ready to pay this piper?

Of course, a good rain at the right place will make a significant impact in the water quality, however, we can't, with any degree of accuracy, predict rains in West Texas. The blended water concept is the most realistic approach that is available to us. Our present plans are to further evaluate the cost impact to our citizens. Additionally, we are continually looking for a better, more realistic and cost effective solution.

Distribution System

The "time bombs" have been with us for sometime. All of our new distribution line installations are being made with polyvinyl chlorides (PVC) pipe and when ductile iron is required we are taking steps to isolate the pipe from the corrosiveness of the soil.

The 1980 bond issue authorized $2,890,000 in water system improvements. We have utilized all of these funds in conjunction with community development grants on various water projects throughout the city, replacing or installing new approximately 45 miles of pipe. The City Council approved in the 1990-91 budget the formation of a utility construction crew which consists of 2 two-man teams. The construction team was not fully manned until Oct. 1 of this year. However, in calendar year 1990 we installed in excess of 12,000 linear feet of new pipe. Our plans are to continue year-round the replacement of the "time bombs" and their associated piping.

The "time bombs" have caused a rethinking of our street maintenance program. In light of the widespread distribution of the cast iron/ductile iron piping throughout the city (in excess of 500,000 linear feet), we will not schedule any major street renovation work until such time as we have effected a change-out of the cast iron distribution mains under the street.

Red water

We are working with several alternatives with respect to the red water problem, including cleaning of the pipe, chemical treatment and line replacement and looping.

These opportunities have been a long time in their formation; each will require careful attention to detail to effect the most cost effective resolutions. We in the public works sector are committed to this end.

The child is grown and now a soldier

By BETTY JOHANSEN
Copy Editor

One of my best friends is deployed in Saudi Arabia with the Marines. "All I know," he wrote me in September, "is that I'm in the desert, the most forwardly deployed American unit, an offensive unit, and we're not here to get tanned."

All I know is I don't like his being there.

My first distinct memory of Darryl was about eight years ago when he was 14. He was a student at the Christian school where I was a teacher. I taught him math, English, science and history. He taught me Navy, F-14 Tomcats, aircraft carriers and war.

On that memorable day, hydrofoils were the lesson topic. He was going to grow up, join the Navy and command this weird vessel that could skim along on the water or just above the water, some sort of flying boat, I guess. It sounded like fun.

Later, he decided to be a naval aviator. He wanted to be in an F-14 Tomcat where he could participate in dogfights, chasing the enemy into the sun and hiding in clouds. That didn't sound like fun. But Darryl was a kid then with other things on his mind besides the Navy. Well, a few other things.

If I came into the room and found two guys hanging from the table with one arm, scratching with the other arm and grunting like apes, it was Darryl and his buddy Jon.

If the phone woke me in the middle of the night and someone

If you ask me

sang "Anchors Aweigh" on the other end of the line, it was Darryl and Jon.

Even after they graduated, I was still the lucky one they woke at night. One time they locked their keys in the trunk of the car at Lake Thomas. Obviously, it wasn't the kind of thing you want to admit to your folks, so you call your old teacher. At 6:30 a.m.

And he drove me crazy trying to get me to explain women to him: "What did she mean when she said that?" "So what can I do to impress her?" "You used to be a girl, why can't you tell me why she acts that way?"

I wasn't much help. I don't understand us either.

And Darryl generally concluded, "Who cares? I'd rather have an airplane, anyway. They never break your heart." And so, after putting in three years with Naval ROTC at Tech, Darryl decided to join the Marines. He finished basic training, combat training and specific training in the amphibious vehicle that is his specialty just in time to pack for Saudi Arabia.

He's over in that desert now, and it makes me nervous to get information, such as I received this week. I was given a copy of a page from the January issue of the monthly periodical The Mid- night Cry, which highlights information from various sources. It quotes the November 1990, Intelligence Digest (England), which says both the Soviet Union and China are supplying Iraq with weapons, food and other supplies by way of Afghanistan and Iran.

Another report says a terrorist organization has injected a virus — coded the Whale virus — into crucial computer systems, which could spread rapidly and destroy our defense capability. It also warns of an anti-American revolution brewing in Saudi Arabia and advises striking Iraq decisively before it's too late.

Whether these reports are true or not, they scare me. I've had an uncomfortable feeling our troops are sitting ducks, surrounded by tenuous alliances, ever since they arrived in Saudi Arabia. My most basic impulse is to say, Get out of there now!

But I don't believe in peace at any price and I don't have much confidence in a peace dividend. The world has always had bullies, whether it's a thug on the corner taking a child's lunch money or a despot from Iraq with grisly chemical weapons, and I've never heard of a bully responding to reason. Power is the only language they understand.

And so, we eventually have to make some decisions: How far are we going to let the bully go? How many lunches are we willing to miss? How many lives are we willing to let him destroy? And why should it be American blood that is spilled stopping him?

I'm glad I'm not the one who has to make those decisions. I'm also glad there's something I can do about the situation. I can pray — pray for Darryl, for all our troops and for the leaders who must make the decisions.

And as for Darryl, he's a man now. His dreams haven't panned out exactly the way the boy envisioned them. He's not an aviator. The enemy is an Arab, not a Russian. But he told his mother a week or so ago on the phone, he's ready. He expects the fighting to start by the first of February, and he's ready.

I believe he's right. He is ready. On Sept. 9, 1986, a month and a half after his high school graduation, the Big Spring Herald printed a letter he wrote to the editor in response to an article in the Aug. 31 paper, where a young man was complaining about the new drinking age in Texas. The man was angry that he was old enough to go to war and to prison, but was not allowed to drink.

Darryl said, "I was appalled... That, sir, is the biggest copout I've ever heard. They must not have taught (him) much in basic training."

"Drinking impairs the judgment to a degree — especially when the bullets start flying... You're going to get killed or get someone killed..."

"I am a Christian. And if you want to get a natural high, I suggest you get to know God personally. If you go to war or prison, booze will not keep you alive. Only God will."

Right on, Darryl. I'm glad you're ready, because I'm not.

Reading program accelerates learning

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

The Anderson Kindergarden Center incorporated a reading program three years ago that teaches the fundamentals of phonics and has 5-year-olds reading before they reach first grade.

The program, called Distar, is not a new program, according to principal Johnathan Slaten. It is designed to be used with the children in the full-day kindergarden program.

"We looked at different kinds of language programs, but we chose this one because it has a phonetic approach to reading and the whole child is involved. This teaches the meaning behind it (the letter or sound), and it gives them structure right away. If they know the letter and the sound, this gets a handle on reading," Slaten said.

He said the most important years in a child's life are the five years before they reach school. Children will learn to read at their own pace, usually between 4 and 6 years of age, he explained.

"We have to be flexible. We have children who come to us reading and kids who come to school who have never had a book read to them. What they have had before us determines what we can do with them," he said.

Slaten said working parents might not always have time to read to their children, but the sooner a child is exposed to reading, the easier language skills develop. The program also teaches character development, he said.

"This is a maturational-type thing. It depends on the child. A 5-year-old can read on a fifth grade level, but what good is it? Placing meaning to the words is different. We give them the background and help and when they're ready, they'll read. When they can apply what they've learned, reading just takes off," he said.

"Reading is important to me, and it's important to my kids at this school," said Slaten of the 392 children who attend the kindergarden center.

Phyllis Bruton, a teacher at the kindergarden center, said children are tested into the program, and there is a regular pace and a "fast pace" for students who have developed language skills. The program has at least 150 lessons, so the teachers are able to use the program every day.

Distar focuses on the sounds letters make and teaches children to recognize and remember those letters. Each full day kindergarden class spends approximately one and half hours working in Distar. The classroom is divided into groups of not more than six students. The teacher works with each smaller group on the Distar lesson at a separate table while the teaching assistant monitors the work the other students are doing. The lessons last about 20 minutes, and another group is brought to the table.

Herald photos by Marsha Sturdivant

Children attending Anderson Kindergarden Center work with the Distar reading program to learn phonics and reading. The children are taught to sound out the letters and ultimately to recognize, or read, the word. Pictured left to right are: Phyllis Bruton, teacher, Maggie Talamantez, Bobbie Jo Villa, Marissa Hernandez, Crystal Rodriguez and Chassidy Johnson.

"Get ready. Sound it out," Bruton told her Distar group. "fff ee ttt," said the children sitting at the table.

"Now say it fast." "Ffeettt." "Now tell me the word," Bruton said.

"Feet," said the children.

As she teaches, she holds up the Distar workbook with the words printed in phonics for the children to read. On the "get ready" command, she places her finger on the large dot located on a line beneath the word. She guides the children through sounding out the word as she moves her finger across the line to the arrow at its end.

All the letters are pronounced phonetically, and then the sounds combined to make the words. While the children are learning, the sounds are exaggerated, and Bruton asked each child sitting at the table to make the sounds and pronounce the words.

The program also offers story books with phonetically-spelled words that encourage reading. The words look strange, with lines drawn for the long vowel sound, or smaller printed type for the letters that remain silent, but the children remember the sounds and learn to read the words.

it's possible to have a rock talking, which may seem unusual to an adult.

Bruton said, "Children are like plants. The soil they're planted in, the food they receive and the nurturing they get determines how they will thrive."

She said setting an example is the most important job a parent can do to help their children learn to read.

"If they see their heroes, mom and dad, reading, they'll read," she said.

But she points out with so many parents working, finding time to read to a child might not be a priority in a home.

"Physically, who has the time? In some cases, it's what's more important, reading a story or putting food on the table," said Bruton, who added that some parents work nights or work two jobs to support their children.

"But that's a tough condition for children," she said.

"One of the criticisms is that by the time they get to fourth grade they'll only be average. But I say, by the time they get to the end of then program, they'll be average," Bruton said.

Slaten said there is a lot of pressure on first grade teachers now, and children need to develop language skills before they get to the first grade classroom. With the Distar program, he said, there's a difference in what they're taking into the first grade.

Man's rape of daughters is haunting tale of horror

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just read something in the Bradenton (Fla.) Herald, and I can't get it out of my mind. A man was found guilty of raping his three daughters over a period of nine years. They are now 17, 20 and 23 years old. He was sentenced to 30 years in prison. His wife got 15 years because she was aware of what was going on at the time. While her children were screaming and trying to fight their father off, she turned her face to the wall, pretending to be asleep!

The daughters were impregnated a total of 10 times, and their mother took them for abortions. Can you believe this? And now this animal and his wife will be living at the expense of the taxpayers.

Please print this, Abby: The public needs to know what's going on. — HURTING HEART
DEAR HURTING HEART: My heart is hurting, too, but this "animal" and his equally guilty wife were probably given the stiffest sentences allowed by law, which doesn't say much for our judicial system.

These people deserve to be locked up in a maximum security prison for the rest of their lives with absolutely no chance for parole.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating this guy for 10 months. I really fell for him, and he told me he loved me. Two weeks ago, I heard that he is engaged to marry a girl who lives out of town. Their wedding is scheduled for January, and I was shocked because he never even mentioned her to me. I finally asked him if what I heard was true and he said it was, but he says he loves me and wants to continue seeing me. He asked me to please be there for him if his marriage doesn't work out.

Dear Abby

I don't understand this. He knows that I love him, and if he really loves me, why does he want to marry someone else?

What should I do? This is very painful for me, because we had such a great relationship for 10 months and it will be hard for me to end it. Should I keep going with him up until the time he gets married or what? — HEARTBROKEN DOWN SOUTH

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: End it now, and thank your lucky stars you aren't the girl he's engaged to. How would you like to be engaged to a guy who's telling another girl he "loves" her and wants her to be there for him in case his marriage with you doesn't work out? He's bad news. Please, read the first sentence of my answer again. And commit it to memory.

Police beat

A 19-year-old man was charged with burglary of a building early today in connection with the unlawful removal of hundreds of dollars worth of property from the Comanche Trail Golf Pro Shop. The Big Spring Police Department solved the crime with the help of local citizens who contacted the Crimestoppers organization. The department did not say if they believe the man worked alone in the burglary.

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

• A car's brakes reportedly failed as the driver parked outside a store on Johnson and Fourth streets Sunday. The vehicle struck the front of a 7-Eleven store, causing an estimated $1,000 worth of damage.

• Theft of long distance telephone calls was reported in the 2200 block of Monticello. A person reportedly used the phone to make $66 worth of calls, but did not arrange for payment.

• A 22-year-old man was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated early Sunday after his car struck a parked vehicle in a local apartment complex parking lot. The arrestee had apparently passed out in his car while it was in gear and the engine running.

Stateside hospitals to help with casualties

STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The Big Spring Department of Veterans Affairs Medical Center, along with similar facilities in Dallas and San Antonio, is on the list of 80 hospitals across the country that will be asked to care for casualties if war erupts in the Persian Gulf.

For the first time, the U.S. Department of Defense is asking VA and civilian medical centers to help in the war effort.

Hospital workers say they're not looking forward to the task, but they'll be ready.

Tom Balderach, assistant to the director of the Big Spring hospital said, "Everybody's been praying and hoping that we would find peace. But we are ready to rise to the occasion."

Assault

The enemy and nobody knows who is commanding it," said Foreign Minister Algirdas Saudargas.

Gorbachev said Sunday's assault came after a group of what he called "workers and intellectuals" had asked the military commander in Vilnius, the Lithuanian capital, to "give us protection."

He appeared to be referring to opponents of Lithuanian independence who have formed a self-declared National Salvation Committee.

Sunday's deaths were the first in the 10-month-old standoff between the Kremlin and the republic of 3.7 million people, which was annexed by the Soviet Union at the start of World War II.

The storming of the republic's main broadcast facility provoked harsh condemnation from the United States and the European Community. Western governments expressed renewed concern today about the situation in Lithuania.

"I don't see how we could continue with the kind of programs of help for reform in the Soviet Union... if the Soviet Union has turned its back on the West and on the ideas of reform and gone back into its Stalinist shell," British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd told the British Broadcasting Corp.

In his comments to reporters during a break at the Supreme Soviet legislature in Moscow, Gorbachev did not identify by name the military leaders who ordered the assault. Nor, during his 10-minute conversation with reporters, did he express regret for the deaths, or explain why he waited until today to comment on the violence.

"Everybody's been praying and hoping that we would find peace. But we are ready to rise to the occasion."

Tom Balderach
Assistant to the director of Veterans Affairs Medical Center

"We pray to God we don't have to do this," said Leon Miller, a member of the emergency preparedness committee at the Dallas Veterans Administration Medical Center.

"It's comforting to know that there's this kind of care available for young men and women, but it's just not something that's pleasant to contemplate. It really is a tragic thing," he said.

The other Baltic republics, Latvia and Estonia, braced today for possible crackdowns. Citizens set up barricades in the streets of Riga, the Latvian capital, and gathered to protect telephone and radio buildings. Latvia's parliament met through the night.

In Lithuania today, the streets were quiet, and the republic closed its schools to begin three days of official mourning.

The National Salvation Committee on Sunday declared a 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew and said a military commandant was in charge of Vilnius. It forbade the use of photocopying machines, fax machines and amplifiers, banned most public demonstrations and authorized the military to make spot checks.

The committee's full membership has not been publicly revealed, but it includes leaders of the anti-independence branch of the Communist Party.

It also appears to be linked to Yedinstvo, a movement to protect the rights of ethnic Russians and Russian-speakers, who form a minority in the republic, and it clearly has support from the central government.

Most Lithuanian residents still seemed to support their elected government instead of the Salvation Committee.

Committee spokesman Juozas Jarmalavicius, the Lithuanian Communist Party ideology chief, said members are "in contact" with Gorbachev, but he would not elaborate.

"If there is not the immediate introduction of presidential order, immediately there could be more deaths."

and Jada Lee Haynes, Port Orford, Ore.; 13 grandchildren, and 21 great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by one daughter.

Pallbearers will be Gene Moore, James Alexander, Kenneth Joe Moore, Alan Ross Moore, Curtis Moore, and Randy Moore.

The family suggests memorials to the Salvation Army.

John Callihan

John Robert Callihan, 43,

The Big Spring hospital is designated as a secondary support facility, or a back-up to military hospitals in El Paso and Albuquerque. If the need arises, Big Spring VA could take veteran patients or military casualties, Balderach said.

"We don't have comprehensive (treatment) capability," he said. "We would handle internal medicine, psychiatric, general surgery and rehabilitation medicine."

The Dallas and San Antonio facilities are part of a smaller group of VA hospitals designated to treat chemical warfare victims.

Under the law, 80 of the nation's 172 VA hospitals would receive soldiers wounded by conventional weapons if the military hospitals become full.

Pets

and dogs were euthanized by animal shelters in the state of Texas alone." She explained reputable breeders usually interview prospective pet owners to ensure that the person is committed to a 10- to 15-year ownership. "I don't want one of my dogs taken to the pound," said Taylor.

The Big Spring Kennel Club provides a breeder referral service that allows the prospective pet owner to obtain the desired breed of dog. In addition, explained Taylor, the breeder referral service will provide information on which breeds best suit the lifestyle of the individual owner. For example, if the buyer lives in an apartment, he should get one of the smaller, more sociable breeds, and if the owner does not have extra time for grooming the dog, a short-haired breed would be more desirable.

When buying a puppy, Taylor says, "expect a three-generation pedigree. If the breeder has not received litter papers at the time of the purchase, make sure to get a bill of sale. You should also receive an inoculation record, and should ask the breeder about any genetic defects found in the lineage."

Another way in which the Kennel Club can help match the right pet with the right owner is by offering retired show dogs as pets, Taylor said. "These dogs are well trained, they have a good temperament, and you don't have all the problems associated with puppies, such as housebreaking and chewing."

Kennel Club members hope to introduce the community to reputable breeders when they host the opening of the 1991 AKC show circuit with their annual all-breeds championship dog show. The Big Spring Kennel Club is sponsoring the show Saturday at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. On Sunday the Concho Kennel Club from San Angelo will host another show.

"This is the first time we've had a show and match on the same day," said Carole Owen, secretary of the Big Spring Kennel Club. She said "We chose to do that because we can fulfill our AKC requirement to have an annual match when we already have a captive audience of exhibitors who are staying over at the Concho Kennel Club Show." Judging begins at 8 a.m. for both shows. There will not be a gate fee and the public is urged to at-

"I look at the VA as kind of a spare tire," said VA spokesman Kerry Cartier in Dallas. "If the Department of Defense hospitals can't handle the casualties, they use the VA as a backup."

So far, the casualty contingency plan has been only an exercise on paper.

Each day, participating VA hospitals report how many and what kind of beds they could have available immediately and within 24 and 72 hours. They also report any staff members that have been called to the effort. None have left yet; some are on alert.

The local hospital is equipped with 167 beds. At this time, Balderach said it has reported 19 beds could be ready within 24 hours and 59 beds within 72 hours.

As many as 1,100 dogs will be shown this weekend, representing 100 AKC recognized breeds, Taylor said. The show will attract breeders from across the country, with judges coming from as far away as Maryland, California, and Ohio. There will also be salespeople showing lines of dog equipment that may be unavailable in local stores. At the end of each day's judging, "Best in Show" awards will be given to the dogs that best exemplify their respective breeds.

The sanctioned match is more informal than the AKC Championship Show, and is open to anyone with a purebred dog. Match entries may be made on the day of the match, but entries for the Championship Show must have been made three weeks in advance. A sanctioned match is designed to acclimate pets and their owners to the show environment. Breeders use this show to train pups younger than the six-month limit enforced in the licensed show.

Runnels boys nab consolation

ANDREWS — The Runnels Yearlings ran their record to 4-3 as they took consolation honors at the Andrews tournament over the weekend.

Runnels lost its first game to Denver City 54-42. Tim Rigdon scored 12 points and Chris Wollenzien added 10. Runnels advanced to the consolation game by downing Andrews B 54-14. Dustin Waters scored 22 points in the win. In the consolation game, Runnels whipped Andrews A 66-36. Rigdon scored 27, followed by Waters with 19 and Wollenzien with 10 points.

Runnels will be in action Saturday when its hosts Snyder at Runnels Gym. The B game begins at 10 a.m., followed by the A game at 11.

Trenary will not defend crown

NEW YORK (AP) — World figure skating champion Jill Trenary will not defend her national title next month because of an ankle injury, her coach said Saturday. Trenary, the three-time U.S. champion, had surgery on her left ankle this week, coach Kathy Casey said. According to the coach, Trenary has been told by doctors to withdraw from the U.S. championships, set for Feb. 10-17 in Minneapolis.

Dr. Milton Waldron, who performed the surgery, said it would be at least 10 days to two weeks before Trenary can train again and 3-4 weeks before she should put pressure on the ankle.

Americans win big at swim championships

PERTH, Australia (AP) — Joerg Hoffmann shattered one of swimming's longest-standing world records Sunday, chopping more than four seconds off Vladimir Salnikov's mark in the men's 1,500-meter freestyle at the World Swimming Championships.

Hoffmann, the 400 freestyle champion, took the lead at the 500-meter mark and the German held off a challenge by early leader Kieren Perkins to win his second gold in 14 minutes, 50.36 seconds.

Tamas Darnyi broke the two-minute barrier in the men's 200 individual medley, his second world mark and second title of the meet. Darnyi, defending world and Olympic champion, won in 1:59.36 to shatter the previous mark David Wharton set in 1989.

Summer Sanders of the United States got her first gold medal after a silver and a bronze. She won the women's 200 butterfly in 2:09.24.

The United States won the final event of the championships, the men's 400 medley relay, in meet-record time of 3:39.66.

On Saturday, American Melvin Stewart ended the eight-year reign of Michael Gross as the world's best in the 200-meter butterfly with a world-record performance.

Giants manhandle Bears, 31-3

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Bill Parcells knows a championship defense and a championship quarterback when he sees them.

He saw them in 1986, when his New York Giants won the Super Bowl. He thinks he saw them again Sunday, when the Giants routed the Chicago Bears 31-3 in the NFC playoffs.

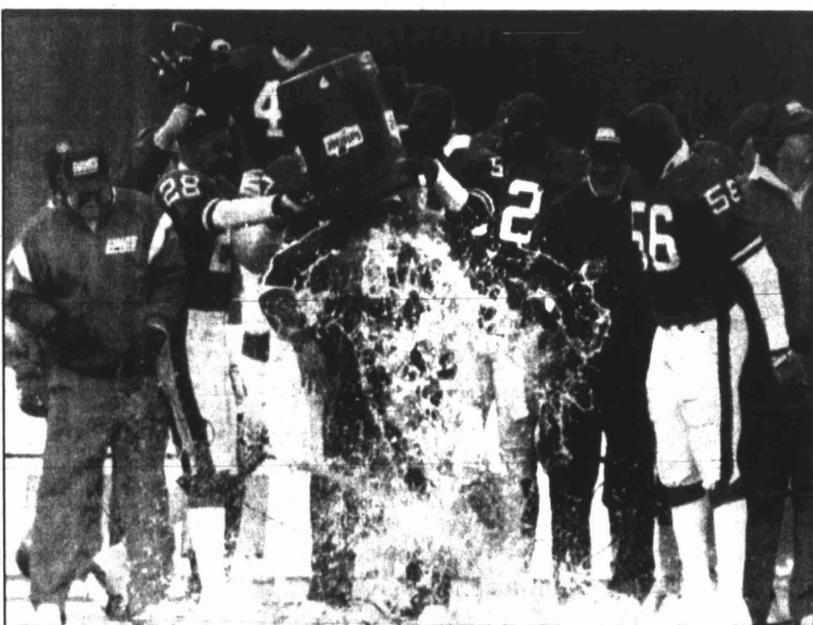

Next week, he finds out for sure as the Giants go to San Francisco and try to stop the 49ers' "threepeat."

The NFC championship game will be yet another big test for that traditionally strong defense, which was magnificent in holding Chicago's powerful running game to 27 yards, 125 below its average. Parcells credited his assistants as much as the players, who had no trouble adapting to a 4-3 alignment.

"Bill Belichick once again pulled a little magic out of his hat," Parcells said of his defensive coordinator. "Against Detroit, he put in the right defense for a special kind of offense (run-and-shoot). And for this kind of offense, where a team will try to pound it at you, he put in the right defense once again."

That defense, which staged two goal-line stands and otherwise was dominant, basically featured an 8-man front: four linemen, three linebackers and the strong safety.

"We talked as a staff. We were ready to use this against any opposition," Belichick said. "But we felt against the Bears' running game it would work best."

It worked so well that Neal Anderson, the NFC's No. 2 rusher, managed a mere 19 yards. Brad Muster and Anderson couldn't get a touchdown after the Bears got inside the Giants' 5.

"That was a killer," said Muster, who lost a yard when he ran into John Washington on fourth down from the 1 in the second quarter. "When you don't score from that close, all the momentum switches."

To make sure they kept the momentum, the Giants had Jeff Hostetler. In his first playoff game replacing the injured Phil Simms, Hostetler improved his record to 5-0 as starting quarterback. He threw for two scores and ran for another, and his scrambling added a dimension opponents have not had to deal with against New York.

"It's very helpful to feel the pressure of a game bigtime," the coach said. "Jeff did and he threw well and said, 'Hey, I can do this.' It's something a guy needs."

"There are some veteran quarterbacks in our division who have still not gotten to that point."

Hostetler produced points with a pinpoint 21-yard pass to Stephen Baker and a 5-yarder to Howard Cross. He also ran in from the 3 for

Raiders surge in last quarter

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In typical Los Angeles Raider style, the winning touchdown pass against Cincinnati was caught by a player who's been released twice.

And it was thrown by a quarterback probably known more in the past for his erratic play than excellence.

Ethan Horton made a juggling catch of a pass from Jay Schroeder around the Cincinnati 15-yard line and then scored untouched to complete a 41-yard play with 8:52 remaining Sunday as the Raiders beat the Bengals 20-10.

The TD snapped a 10-10 tie and Jeff Jaeger's 25-yard field goal with 19 seconds left provided insurance in the Raiders' first playoff victory since Jan. 22, 1984, when they beat Washington 38-9 in the Super Bowl at Tampa, Fla.

Now, the Raiders are one win away from returning to Tampa, but that one win doesn't figure to come easy — they've got to beat Buffalo at Rich Stadium to qualify for the Super Bowl on Jan. 27.

Nine teams, including the Raiders, have tried to beat the Bills on their turf this season, and nine have failed, the latest being Miami, which lost 44-34 Saturday.

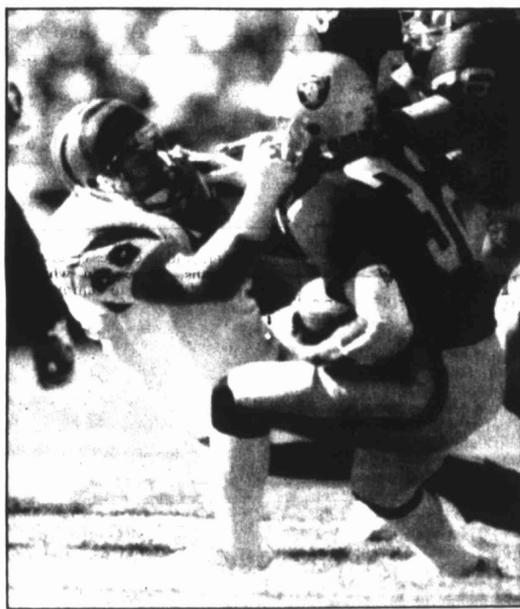

In fact, the Bills are 24-2 at home since the beginning of the 1988 season.

Esiason threw an 8-yard touchdown pass to Stanford Jennings with 11:49 remaining to cap a 71-yard, 13-play drive and tie the game 10-10 and quiet the Los Angeles Coliseum crowd of 92,045 — largest in Raiders history and largest in the NFL this season.

Four plays later, the Raiders faced a third-and-20 play from their own 22-yard line. However, Schroeder hit Tim Brown near the right sideline around the Los Angeles 35 and Brown broke a tackle before finally being brought down at the Raiders' 48.

It was a 26-yard gain and a Los Angeles first down. Schroeder's touchdown pass to Horton came three plays after that and, as it turned out, the Raiders were home free.

"They caught us in man-to-man coverage and it was a perfect throw," Bengals coach Sam Wyche said of the pass to Horton. "We made them make a perfect throw, and that's why championships ought to go to teams that make those plays."

The Raiders had to struggle despite gaining 389 yards in total offense to only 182 for the Bengals, who were missing perennial All-Pro left tackle Anthony Munoz and left guard Bruce Reimers and got minimal play out of James Brooks, their best running back who dislocated his left thumb last weekend.

In addition, Brooks and Esiason, who completed 8 of 15 passes for 104 yards and a touchdown, played with the flu.

"We played an excellent game in the sense that we didn't give up, we persevered even though we didn't take advantage of all our chances," Raiders coach Art Shell said. "We were determined that we were not going to be denied."

"They've said all year that the road to the Super Bowl goes through Buffalo. We're just happy to be taking that path."

Horton led all receivers in the game with four catches for 77 yards. It was the continuation of quite a success story — he was a first-round draft choice of Kansas City as a running back in 1985, but released by the Chiefs in the summer of 1986.

Arizona State junior displays left-handed magic

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus' name was mentioned, and Tom Watson's, following Phil Mickelson's victory in the Northern Telecom Open.

"He's just on a different level," said Bob Tway, a former PGA champion and one of the victims of Mickelson's left-handed magic.

"You'd have to go back to Nicklaus to find an amateur like Phil," agreed Tom Purtzer, who had to settle for a tie for second with Tway in the face of Mickelson's stunning triumph over adversity.

"Guys like Phil and Nicklaus and Watson don't come down the pike too often," Purtzer said.

In fact, the 20-year-old Arizona State junior, who previously tied one of Nicklaus' amateur marks, went one up on the Golden Bear with his one-stroke victory on Sunday.

Last year, Mickelson joined Nicklaus as the only golfers to win the NCAA and U.S. Amateur championships in the same season.

Nicklaus, however, did not win a pro tournament as an amateur. Mickelson was only the second to do so since Gene Littler won the San Diego Open in 1954.

"He's a special kid. He's a kid you'd like to have as a son or brother," said Purtzer, 39, a veteran of 17 seasons on the pro tour.

Then, with a wry smile, Purtzer added:

"I just want them to make sure he stays in school for two more years. For the sake of our pocketbooks."

While some egos may have been bruised, Mickelson's victory did nothing to damage the pros' pocketbooks.

As an amateur, Mickelson passed up the $180,000 first prize and returned to his classes in Tempe, Ariz., today while the pros went on to Hawaii. Tway and Purtzer split the first and second-place prizes, worth $144,000 each.

Mickelson's rewards included a 1½-year exemption on the pro tour, beginning after his graduation date in the spring of 1992, a pass through the Tour's qualifying school and a "can't-miss" label when he eventually joins the professional ranks.

He said he's in no rush to change his amateur classification, despite the million-dollar purses now common on the pro tour.

"Money's no problem right now. I'm on a scholarship. There's no pressure on me, financially, to go out and try to make money," he said.

He will, however, play in such events later this year as the Masters, U.S. and British Opens, the Phoenix, Doral-Ryder and San Diego Opens.

He won this one despite a triple-bogey 8 on the 14th hole, where he hit two shots into the scrub and sand of the Arizona-Sonora desert, incurred two penalty shots and eventually got his sixth into a bunker.

From a one-stroke lead when he stepped on the tee, he went to three behind and tied for fifth when he walked off the green.

But Purtzer and Tway, playing well ahead of Mickelson, gave him a hand.

Purtzer left one in a bunker on the 18th and took a last-hole double bogey. Tway missed the green and bogeyed the 17th. That dropped each them back to 15 under par, one in front of Mickelson.

The handsome youngster responded to the opportunity by lofting a sand wedge to within a foot of the cup for a birdie on the 16th that tied him for the top.

After a par on the 17th, he hit a 9-iron approach about eight feet left of the flag on the final hole and calmly, confidently, rapped it in for a final round 71 and a 272 total.

Sidelines

Akeem undergoes eye surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets center Akeem Olajuwon underwent surgery today to repair a blowout fracture of the bones around his eye.

The operation, considered a fairly common procedure, was expected to take about two hours.

Olajuwon should be released from the hospital Tuesday and is expected to hold a news conference later this week.

Olajuwon was injured Jan. 3 against Chicago when Bulls center Bill Cartwright's elbow smashed into Olajuwon's right eye as they were going for a rebound.

The injury was diagnosed as a blowout fracture of the floor and medial wall of the right orbit, which houses the eyeball.

Spurs forward still out with injury

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Injured forward Terry Cummings is not expected to play when the San Antonio Spurs face the Jazz in Utah Tuesday, team officials said.

Cummings, suffering from lower back pain and a groin pull, has missed the last four games and is listed as day-to-day in the Spurs injury report. Cummings has averaged 18.8 points per game and is 37th in the NBA in scoring.

"He is going to tell us when he is ready (to play)," Bob Bass, Spurs vice president for basketball affairs, said Sunday.

"He'll play whenever he tells us he is ready, but I definitely know he's not going (to Utah) unless something changes."

Howard

"He's not done that to date, so it was a kind of a surprise," HC coach Steve Green said of Williams' long-range shooting. "It's not his forte, but I have this philosophy that if (the Hawks) do what I want them to do on defense, what they do offensively is theirs."

"He played well," Green added. "He was the big surprise in the game. I don't think Odessa expected him to shoot so much."

Williams, a 6-foot-7 forward from Brewton, Ala., was recruited by former Howard assistant Eddie McCarter. Since he came to Big Spring, his major contribution to the team has been that of a role player.

"He's a utility player," Green said. "He's capable of playing a lot of positions. His strength is that he has great speed. He's sort of a garbage player — he gets a lot of tip-ins... that sort of thing."

"He can spark you with athletic-type plays," Green added. "The other night, he showed us a new side... He gets his hands on the ball and makes things happen."

According to Green, Williams typifies what the coach thinks is his biggest asset: the Hawks' bench, which allows Green to play as many as 12 players in a game without a serious drop in production.

"The hardest decision I have is who to start," he said. "I've got 12 guys who can all play, and they all add something different."

Green said the only two players he definitely pencils in as starters are forward Johnny McDowell and guard Antonio Valiengo.

"Almost everyone else is bound to be on the floor in a game-determining situation."

"I think we've got the deepest team in the league," Green said. "We may have the deepest team in junior college."

The next test for the Hawks and their deep bench will be tonight when they host the Frank Phillips College Plainsmen at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The game will mark the third time Green and his younger brother Kelly, the head man at FPC, square off against each other. "I personally hate to play against him. If it wasn't a conference game, I wouldn't play against him at all, if I had anything to do with it," Green said.

The Plainsmen are 11-5 overall, and 2-1 in conference action. They have wins over Midland College and New Mexico Military Institute to their credit, while their only conference loss came to South Plains.

Lakers blast Rockets

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Los Angeles Lakers center Vlade Divac felt his season-high 22 points against the Houston Rockets came cheaply because they didn't come against Akeem Olajuwon.

James Worthy saw it differently, however.

"It's always great to see a player exploit the weaknesses of another team," Worthy said after the Lakers beat the Houston Rockets 116-97 Sunday night. "He's always had a tremendous amount of physical talent. It's always been there, and now he's feeling more comfortable and making the plays."

In the only other game Sunday night, Portland beat New Jersey 116-103.

Houston is 2-3 since losing Olajuwon, the NBA's rebounding leader, and they won't have him back for at least another eight weeks. He was scheduled to undergo surgery today in Houston to repair an injury to his right eye socket.

"I'm upset because he didn't play," said Divac, who led the Lakers in scoring for the first time this season. "I like playing against Akeem. Their team is very hard to play with or without him in there."

Olajuwon held Divac to seven points and six rebounds in 27 minutes of the Lakers' 108-103 overtime loss Nov. 15 at Houston in their only other meeting this season. But this time, against Larry Smith, Divac had 11 rebounds and shot 9-for-11 in 38 minutes.

"He played well and did everything we told him to do," teammate Byron Scott said. "He hit the boards and ran the floor well, and took advantage of his height and quickness on offense."

"It's still early in his career and he's improving, but he's got to be more consistent. Some games he comes ready to play and some games he doesn't. If he plays every night the way he did tonight, we'll be in good shape."

Seven players scored in double figures for the Lakers, who recorded their seventh straight home triumph — their longest such streak since capturing their final 13 home games of last season.

Otis Thorpe scored 24 points for the Rockets, who remained winless here in 14 regular-season games dating to Jan. 30, 1985.

"We as a team can't be thinking if Akeem is with us or not," Thorpe said. "We have got to play together as a team now. We can do it. We just need to execute. We need to go out and play tough every game; play at 100 percent all the time. We can't give up just because Akeem is out."

Despite Olajuwon's absence, the Rockets became only the second team to rebound the Lakers at the Forum this season, 48-45.

"We miss (Olajuwon) more on the defensive end than the offensive end," Houston coach Don Chaney said. "He's the backbone of our defense because he clogs up the middle, blocks shots, serves as an intimidator and helps us on our fast break. And we love his rebounding."

The Rockets outscored Los Angeles 12-0 after Magic Johnson went out for Larry Drew with 1:09 left in the third quarter. Thorpe's slam dunk with 10:50 to play followed a short hook by David Wood and a slam dunk by Kennard Winchester and sliced the Lakers' 18-point margin to 82-76.

But Johnson returned following a timeout and the Lakers scored 11 of the next 13 points to restore their cushion to 93-78 with 8:09 remaining. Houston never got closer than 13 points after that as Johnson finished with 17 points, 16 assists and nine rebounds.

Trail Blazers 116, Nets 103

Buck Williams scored 24 points, snagged 10 rebounds, started a third-quarter spurt and shut down Derrick Coleman as Portland sent New Jersey to its 10th straight loss.

The Trail Blazers, the NBA's winningest team, stopped a two-game skid. They have not lost three in a row this season.

Terry Porter had 26 points and 10 assists and Kevin Duckworth scored 22 points for Portland. Williams, formerly with the Nets, scored six points during a 12-0 run as the Trail Blazers overcame a 63-62 deficit midway through the third period.

ORKNEY, South Africa — Spectators help carry a woman killed at a soccer match. At least 40 people died and 50 were seriously injured when fans rioted during an exhibition match Sunday.

Soccer melee leaves 40 dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police and soccer officials opened inquiries today into the cause of a fight that touched off a stampede at a soccer stadium, leaving 40 people dead and more than 50 injured.

The violence erupted at an exhibition match Sunday between two of the country's most popular professional soccer teams, the Kaiser Chiefs and the Orlando Pirates.

When the Chiefs scored a goal 27 minutes into the match, fans began brawling. A panic ensued and the crowd in the main grandstand tried to push through a wire fence onto the field at Orkney, 80 miles southwest of Johannesburg.

Many of those injured were in serious condition and the death toll could rise, according to police.

Police said an investigation was underway, but gave no additional details. There were no indications that the violence was politically motivated.

The National Soccer League, the governing body for the sport, sent officials to investigate and held an emergency meeting of its management committee Monday.

"This tragedy is unprecedented in the history of South African soccer and it must not be allowed to happen again," said Cyril Kobus, chief executive officer of the league.

More than 20,000 black spectators were attending the match held at a stadium on the grounds of the Vaal Reef Gold Mines.

Jenkins' wife dies

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Services were pending Sunday for Maryanne Jenkins, the wife of former Texas Rangers pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, one of the newest members of baseball's Hall of Fame.

Mrs. Jenkins, of Guthrie, Okla., died Saturday at Oklahoma Memorial Hospital from injuries she suffered in an automobile accident last month, said the Rev. Ed Fleming, a hospital chaplain.

Jenkins, 47, was elected to the Hall of Fame on the third try last Tuesday, receiving two votes more than the minimum needed.

Jenkins, a seven-time 20-game winner, got 334 of 443 votes from the Baseball Writers Association of America, or 75.3 percent.

Mrs. Jenkins is survived by her husband and their two children, ages 5 years and 16 months.

According to a Toronto newspaper, she suffered a broken neck, broken clavicle, broken ribs and punctured lungs in the accident. She also developed pneumonia in both lungs.

Jenkins had spent most of his time at his wife's bedside since the crash, leaving only long enough to journey to New York City last week when he was selected to the Hall of Fame.

Jenkins won 20 games for six consecutive years from 1967-72, but never pitched an inning in postseason. He spent virtually all of his career pitching for mediocre-to-bad teams.

Jenkins, a 6-foot-5, 205-pound right-hander, pitched his best baseball for the Chicago Cubs, who acquired him from the Philadelphia Phillies early in 1966. Beginning in 1967, he was 20-13, 20-15, 21-15, 22-16, 24-13 and 20-12 in his hot run for the Cubs. In 1971, Jenkins won the NL Cy Young Award.

Porkers wary of Frogs

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The No. 2-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks shouldn't have much trouble on their farewell tour through the Southwest Conference.

But if they're going to stumble, it could very well be Tuesday.

That's when the Hogs have to play the dangerous Texas Christian Horned Frogs in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum in Fort Worth.

Last year Fort Worth and Waco were the only two places Arkansas didn't win, losing on the road to TCU and Baylor.

TCU, the only team besides the Hogs still unbeaten in SWC play, upset Arkansas 81-79 last Feb. 14.

Moe Iba's TCU club has improved rapidly this year behind center Reggie Smith and on Saturday night downed Baylor in Waco 68-65.

Iba said his Frogs will find out what kind of team they've got against Arkansas.

"To be honest I don't know how good we are," he said. "I guess Arkansas will tell us."

The Frogs' victory came as Arkansas won another game, this one on the road at Lubbock, by taking out Texas Tech's maturing Red Raiders by a 113-86 count.

In other games, the Texas Longhorns stayed alive in the SWC race by overcoming a 14-point deficit to defeat the Rice Owls 92-79 in Houston. Southern Methodist whipped Texas A&M 65-50 to get the Aggies off to their worst league start since 1957, and the Houston Cougars suffered a road, non-conference defeat when they fell to DePaul 76-62 in Chicago.

Besides Arkansas at TCU on Tuesday night, another highlight SWC game this week is Houston at Texas on Thursday night (8:30) on ESPN.

Texas has another TV date Saturday when it hosts DePaul at 11:30 a.m. Baylor at Texas A&M at noon is the Raycom TV game Saturday.

Arkansas is 4-0 in the SWC followed by TCU at 3-0, Texas 3-1, Houston 2-1, Texas Tech 2-2, SMU 1-2, Baylor 1-3, Rice 0-3 and Texas A&M at 0-4.

Some 7,033 fans watched Arkansas beat back the scrappy Red Raiders.

"We couldn't guard Oliver Miller one-on-one, then when we doubled him somebody else hurt us," said Tech coach Gerald Myers.

Miller had 27 points and eight rebounds as Arkansas scored the most points ever tallied against Tech by an SWC team.

Texas coach Tom Penders said he wasn't concerned when the Owls raced to a big lead before 5,083 fans in Autry Court, which is nicknamed "Jungle Gym" because it's always so hot inside.

"I told our players not to panic," Penders said. "It was a big comeback for us, but it wasn't the first time. We've been doing this all year."

Joey Wright, who scored 24 points, said "Coach Penders

A&M coach Kermit Davis didn't keep his after what he called the worst game the Aggies had played since he took over from Shelby Metcalf as head coach.

"We had guys mentally not into what we were trying to do," he said. "I'm embarrassed for our players, our staff, and our former students. We had guys who were not giving it all they had."

"That's the first time that's happened this year. We've got to do some soul searching and find some guys who care about winning or losing."

Davis said he benched his starters because they were late to a pregame meeting.

Two other Raider standouts Sunday were Marcus Allen, who rush-played the backup role to perfection.

"We've needed Jeff to step up and, today, he did," Parcels said. "He passed this test."

The next test, of course, is San Francisco, where the Giants lost 7-3 this season. Again, they had the defense in that game, but Simms struggled when New York got into threatening position.

This time, the spotlight is on Hostetler.

"I'm not really into it a lot," Hostetler said of the attention he is getting. "This is more of a hassle than anything, but I'll take this over what might have been."

The Bears headed home after a disappointing ending to a turnaround year. They collapsed to 6-10 in 1989 after five straight NFC Central titles and one Super Bowl season ended, benched in favor of Steve Beuerlein. But Schroeder has thrown all but two of the passes attempted by the Raiders this season.

Schroeder, meanwhile, was a second-stringer when the 1989

"We'll just go home and lick our wounds," said DT Dan Hampton, who played the final game of an illustrious 12-year career. "Hopefully, the guys will rebound next year. It's a shame it ended here."

The road didn't end at the Meadowlands for the Giants, who hadn't won a playoff game since their Super Bowl victory. Now, they head west.

Names in the news

Actress goes door-to-door

NEW YORK (AP) — Dianne Wiest, who plays an Avon lady in the movie "Edward Scissorhands," practiced by accompanying a real Avon saleswoman on her rounds.

"We went door-to-door so she could get a feel of what it was like to be a rep," June Young, 50, said in the Jan. 21 issue of People magazine.

Ms. Young, who has sold Avon cosmetics for 15 years, said she thought Miss Wiest "portrayed the Avon person as nice and caring."

Miss Wiest discovers Edward Scissorhands, a gentle creature with shears for hands, when she rings the bell of a forbidding castle overlooking her suburb.

Edward's hands are so sharp he

CHER DIANNE WIEST keeps cutting himself on the face, and Miss Wiest tries to cover up the scars with Avon products.

Cher would like baby

NEW YORK (AP) — Cher says she would like to have another baby but would not necessarily marry a third time.

"I was with one man for 11 years and it wasn't that much fun," the 44-year-old actress and singer said of her marriage to Sonny Bono. "I can't see staying in there to say, 'I'm a martyr, what a good job I did.'"

"If I'd stayed with Sonny... I wouldn't have Elijah, wouldn't be an actress, wouldn't be a woman. God, I'd be dead," she said in the Jan. 21 issue of People magazine.

Cher has two children: Chastity, 21, with Bono, and Elijah, 14, with musician Greg Allman, to whom she was married from 1975 to 1977.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

TUESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1991

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Elvis Presley, rock star David Bowie, singer Shirley Bassey, journalist Charles Osgood.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A good day for quiet meditation. What do you really want? Put your thoughts to paper; some ideas come only once and then are lost forever. A personal relationship is on the mend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be good to yourself today! A massage or nap could work wonders. Devote more time to creative projects. Your imagination gives you a big edge over the competition. Emphasize your special skills.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Problems could arise if you dip into common funds without prior agreement. Making small sacrifices for others puts you in their good graces. Pursue romance tonight.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Dealing with people in far-off places proves rewarding. Longtime allies lend a hand by promoting a speculative venture. Be sure a complicated business maneuver is legal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are likely to score a victory on the bargaining table today. Dressing for success is especially important when dealing with bankers. Avoid wearing anything flashy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You find a better way to do your job when you consult someone with more experience. People want to please you; be an open book! A good day to negotiate and sign contracts.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Certain business arrangements may suddenly fall through; be careful not to provoke anyone. Romance is more exciting than in the recent past. Partner responds beautifully when you take the initiative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Before entering negotiations, it's a smart idea to review where things stand. Quick thinking will prevent your making a costly mistake. Seek a second opinion before signing a contract.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be aware of the financial risks involved in taking an entirely new approach. Exercise greater self-discipline and you will quickly rise to the top of your profession.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Loyal allies and a feeling of freedom give your spirits a lift. Exercise more patience. Let your loved ones follow their own paths. Romance is at hand but needs time to develop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Creative projects you complete on your own are psychologically rewarding. You feel ready to tackle something completely new. A logical argument is more effective than an emotional appeal.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Valuable contacts can be cultivated behind closed doors today. An open exchange of ideas launches an important project on a positive course. If contemplating a second career, set your plans in motion.

Baker: Ball in Saddam's court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration today said the last opportunity to resolve the Persian Gulf crisis peacefully "now must come from Baghdad." As prospects for averting war grew dimmer, Sen. Sam Nunn said, "It's time to rally behind the forces in the field."

Nunn, an opponent of the congressional resolution backing the use of force, said that debate was "behind us." But he also cautioned Americans to expect "confusion" and possible bad news from the battlefield if war breaks out.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, after conferring in Canada with Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, expressed hope that "as the clock ticks down to midnight Jan. 15th that there will be an opportunity to resolve this crisis peacefully and politically."

"That opportunity now must come from Baghdad," he said.

Baker's stop in Ottawa was his last on a nine-day trip during which he conferred with a dozen leaders of U.S. allies in the international effort to force Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait.

A senior administration official, meanwhile, said U.S. military allies were nearly unanimous in agreeing to send their forces into battle.

President Bush approached the last hours before the Jan. 15 deadline for an Iraqi pullout with backing from Congress for military action. The president said Sunday his message to Americans who do not want to go to war with Iraq: "We've got to do what we have to do."

The president awaited word from United Nations Secretary-General

Javier Perez de Cuellar, who met with Saddam in Baghdad on Sunday. The U.N. official said in Paris today, "Unfortunately, I don't see any more reasons to be optimistic. I don't see any reason to have real hope."

FBI Director William Sessions predicted "terrorism may emerge and may explode worldwide."

Nunn, an opponent of the congressional resolution backing the use of force, said that debate was "behind us" but he also cautioned Americans to expect "confusion" and possible bad news from the battlefield if war breaks out.

Interviewed on "CBS This Morning," Nunn, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said that while there might be some last minute diplomatic effort to avert war, "It doesn't look good right now."

In the event of hostilities, said Nunn, "No one should be surprised if there's some confusion, that's the nature of warfare." The senator also said Americans "certainly need to be prepared for some bad news from the battlefield. I don't think there's going to be very much, I hope there's not."

All the allies are in agreement on using military might to evict the 540,000 Iraqi troops under an undisclosed timetable proposed to them by Bush, a senior U.S. official said Sunday.

"To my knowledge, no one has balked — with the possible exception of Syria — on sending its ground forces into action, said the

Taxpayers face relocation costs

HOUSTON (AP) — Inmates still crowding the Harris County Jail could force taxpayers to pay almost $1 million a month to house them elsewhere.

Chief U.S. District Judge James DeAnda gave the state and county until Saturday to bring the prisoner population below 6,100, or have the excess inmates transferred to other county jails or private facilities.

Jail population has fluctuated from more than 7,000 to below 6,300. Last week, the number of inmates hovered around 6,500. On Sunday, Sheriff's Department officials listed the jail population at 6,571.

With the new Harris County Jail scheduled to open in September, the county may find itself busing hundreds of inmates to other counties for the next eight months at a cost of $40 a day for each prisoner.

"It could be a substantial amount of money, and that is taxpayers' money," said Assistant Harris County Attorney Harold Streicher. "Many Harris County taxpayers are unaware that they are absorbing the costs of housing those inmates."

Women not as likely to receive bypass surgery

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — American women have nearly as many fatal heart attacks as men but are far less likely to get bypass surgery, the American Heart Association reports in its annual update of heart disease statistics.

The Dallas-based association also reported Sunday at its annual science writers' meeting that heart disease death rates are highest in the South and lowest in the West.

American women suffer some 244,000 fatal heart attacks each year, compared with 268,000 for men, the association said. Yet figures from 1988 show that 83,000 heart bypass operations were done in women, compared with 270,000 in men.

Angioplasty, in which a balloon-like device is threaded into blocked arteries and used to force them open, was done 67,000 times in women and 160,000 times in men.

The heart association gave no explanation for the differences in treatment received by men and women.

Women who smoke and use birth control pills are 39 times as likely as other women to have heart attacks and 22 times as likely to have strokes, the figures showed.

The analysis of state heart disease data found that South Carolina had the highest death rate, with 258 deaths per 100,000 people in 1987. The next highest states were Mississippi, West Virginia, Louisiana and Georgia.

The states with the lowest heart disease death rates were Hawaii, with 160 deaths per 100,000 people, followed by Mexico, Colorado, Minnesota, Montana and Arizona.

Michigan and Ohio also had high death rates, and Florida's death rate was among the lowest.

The figures were based on 1987 data, the most recent available, from the government's National Center for Health Statistics.

"These trends have persisted for quite a while and they probably reflect the influences of lifestyles and socioeconomic factors," said Dr. Lewis Kuller of the University of Pittsburgh. He said the differences could be explained in part by regional variations in smoking, cholesterol levels, diet, income and education.

However, Dr. William Kamel of Boston University said the variations could be due to differences in the reporting of heart disease deaths.

Killeen tense as deadline nears

KILLEEN (AP) — The young children who attend school at Grace Lutheran Church near Fort Hood know today is an important day.

The parents of 25 of the children are among the 23,000 troops deployed to Saudi Arabia from the post, the Army's largest.

"They're very aware," school director Bunny Gruschkus said Sunday.

The children rehearsed "Let There Be Peace on Earth" to sing at the church's prayer service today, the eve of the possible start of fighting in the Persian Gulf.

"I hope they'll all make it through it without crying," Ms. Gruschkus said.

The children, who range from pre-schoolers to third graders, are aware, as is everyone else in this military town, that Tuesday is the United Nations deadline for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait or face possible attack.

An estimated 400,000 American troops are part of the 600,000-troop strong multinational force in the Persian Gulf.

More troops have been sent from Fort Hood than any other Texas installation and signs of those ties to the crisis are everywhere in this Central Texas city.

"We are apprehensive," said Mary Feuge, whose husband, Lt. Col. Dennis Feuge, is the primary staff officer of the 1st Cavalry.

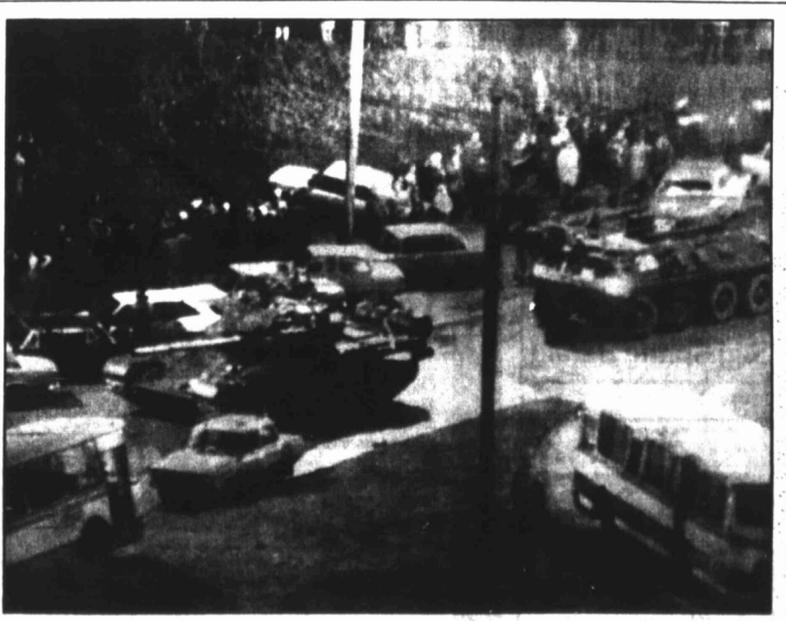

Many residents wear "We support our troops" buttons and many business have window signs that say the same. A bank sign flashes "Pray for Peace."

Dottie Kulp said it's important "to keep not just the soldiers, but the civilians in your prayers." Her husband Don is in Saudi Arabia, supporting the Fort Hood intelligence detachment he works for as a civilian.

At Grace Lutheran in Killeen, there was new hope in the baptism of six-week old Tim Neubauer.

But the boy's father, Cpl. Timothy S. Neubauer, has only seen him in pictures. He was deployed to Saudi Arabia as a fuel specialist for the 2nd Armored Division.

"He tells me he's just doing his job," said Neubauer's wife, Shelly. "I know he's scared. I'm scared. I'm terrified."

Overall the heart association reported the continuation of an encouraging trend in heart disease. Between 1978 and 1988, the death rate from heart attacks declined 29 percent, while stroke deaths fell by 33.2 percent. Deaths from high blood pressure declined 20 percent.
The association attributed the decline to healthier lifestyles and advances in medical treatment.

PCG lowers deficiency payment rate forecast

BY PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK — Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. of Lubbock now projects a total 1990-crop cotton deficiency payment rate between 7.0 and 7.7 cents per pound, down from the 7.1 to 7.9-cent range foreseen by PCG a month ago.
Under the 1985 farm law, each year's deficiency payment rate equals the difference between the target price and the weighted average calendar-year farm price. The target price for 1991 is 72.9 cents.

According to Donald Johnson, executive vice president, PCG's new projection is based on monthly prices and volume of marketings for the first 11 months of 1990. PCG's earlier calculation, made before November figures were available, included figures for only 10 months.

The final, official rate will be calculated and announced by the United States Department of Agriculture soon after December's price and marketing volume, along with August-November price and volume revisions, become available Jan. 31.

The drop in the range of payment rate probabilities, PCG notes, is the joint result of a higher average November price and a surprisingly large increase in November volume. The November price, at 68.2 cents, was up from a 67.5 cents in October, and the volume in November climbed to 3.412 million bales, up over 32 percent from October's 2.583 million.

Together the two raised the weighted average price a full cent from 64.5 cents at the end of October to the current 65.5 cents. Combined October-November marketings of 5.995 million equal almost 50 percent of the year-to-date total of 12.019 million bales.

Pressed for a "most likely" payment rate, Johnson says allowing for a more-or-less normal December drop in both average price and volume, PCG's calculations show a 12-month average price of 65.7 cents, yielding a final payment rate of 7.2 cents per pound.

But, he cautions, December numbers and USDA revisions of August-November figures are yet to come "so don't go out and spend the money until you hear it from USDA."

Whatever the final rate, producers who didn't accept the 4.2-cent advance will receive a net of the rate minus the .515-cent reduction mandated by the 1989 Budget Reconciliation Act, less 1.4 percent to comply with the 1990 Gramm-Rudman-Hollings sequestration order.

Producers who requested the advance had the full BRA reduction and the GRH sequestration deducted from their check for the 4.2-cent advance. So their final payment rate will equal the difference between the total rate and 4.2 cents, minus 1.4 percent.

Assuming USDA follows past procedures, the final rate will be announced in the first week of February and payments should be mailed to producers by early March at the latest.

Not long thereafter, PCG mentions, sign-up for the 1991 program is expected to begin, at which time producers will be eligible for a 1991-crop advance payment of four cents per pound, 40 percent of USDA's projected 10-cent 1991 deficiency payment rate. Neither the BRA nor GRH reductions will affect the 1991-crop payment.

official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Otherwise, Baker found unanimity in his talks with leaders of Britain, France, Germany, Spain, Luxembourg, Italy, Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates, Egypt, Syria, Turkey and the ousted Kuwaitis.

Sessions was interviewed on the NBC "Today" show and urged Americans to call police or the FBI to report actions which "are suspicious to them or look to be threatening."

Bush said Iraqi President Saddam Hussein was "making a tremendous mistake" by insisting that he has no intention of relinquishing Kuwait by Tuesday's deadline.

Bush was also meeting this afternoon with Japanese Foreign Minister Taro Nakayama.

In the debate that led to Saturday's passage of congressional resolutions authorizing force to drive Iraq from Kuwait, many lawmakers criticized as inadequate the contributions that Japan, Germany and some other allies have made to the U.S.-led effort in the gulf.

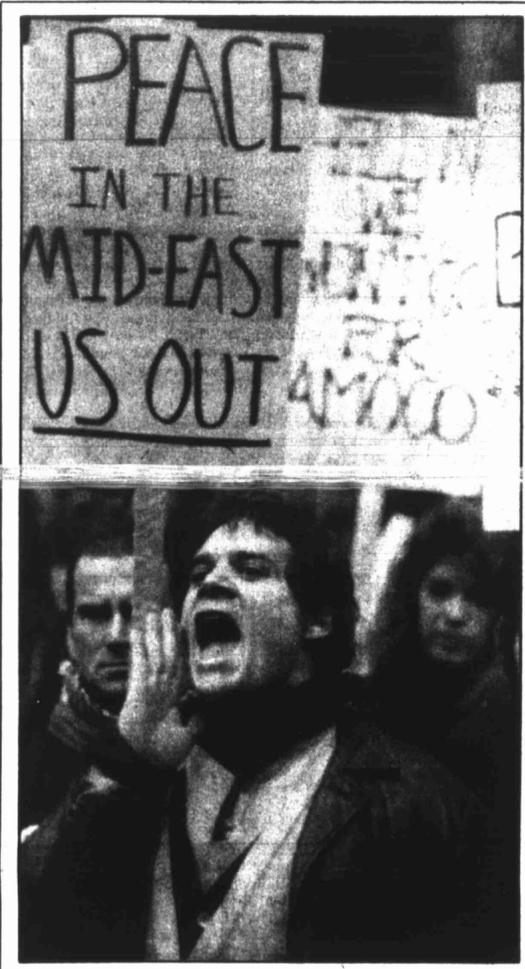

A few dozen antiwar demonstrators marched outside the White House on Sunday.

Bush, asked his response to pleas from citizens not to go to war, told reporters, "I think that matter was resolved when the Congress acted." The Senate voted 52-47 and the House 250-183 to authorize the use of force.

"I say we've got to do what we have to do. And the Congress has affirmed that position," the president said.

Bush said it is unclear what Saddam would do as the U.N.-imposed deadline nears. The Iraqi leader pledged in a radio address to hold fast to "the 19th province," as he calls Kuwait.

Joseph Wilson, the top diplomat at the U.S. Embassy in Baghdad, returned to Washington on Sunday night.

Supreme Court upholds convictions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today left intact the 1986 criminal convictions of eight sanctuary movement members who helped Central American aliens smuggled into this country.

The justices, without comment, refused to review a federal appeals court ruling that the prosecution of eight religious leaders and lay workers of churches in Arizona and Mexico was valid.

The appeal acted on today contended, among other things, that the prosecution violated religious freedoms.

The appeal also argued that the eight convicted people should have been allowed to offer evidence at their trial that they had believed the aliens were "entitled to enter and reside in the United States under the terms of international law and the 1980 Refugee Act."

That belief was crucial, the appeal said, because knowledge of the aliens' legal status was an element of the offenses for which the eight — who included two priests, a minister and a nun — were convicted.

The high court apparently had postponed action on the appeal, filed in late 1989, until it ruled on an unrelated tax-evasion case.

In a decision announced last week, the justices ruled that people cannot be convicted of criminal tax evasion if they sincerely believed they had no duty to pay federal income taxes — no matter how unreasonable that belief.

The court said the government can force such people to pay back taxes and steep civil penalties, but cannot send them to jail if a jury believes they did not know about their tax obligation.

Today's denial of the sanctuary movement members' appeal, although unexplained, suggests the justices drew some distinction between the asserted lack of criminal knowledge presented in both cases.

Students discover sea-going bottles reach wide audience

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — While walking her dogs along Florida's scenic east coast, Georgia Ketchum was startled to discover a brown wine bottle containing a note from Texas students more than 1,100 miles away.

"When you see something like that you don't pass it up," said Ms. Ketchum, 62, a teacher's aide at Osceola Elementary School in Vero Beach, about 150 miles north of Miami.

"I was real excited."
Unknowingly, Ms. Ketchum had stumbled onto a "drift" experiment by third-grade students at St. Josephs Parochial School in Bryan.

The Texas students, attempting to better understand ocean currents, sealed one-page messages with return addresses in corked wine bottles.

The bottles were tossed overboard from Texas A&M University's 180-foot research vessel, the Gyre, last October and November near Florida, the Bahamas and Panama and along the Gulf Coast.

The bottle drops were the fourth and fifth in a two-year period.

Ms. Ketchum was among more than a dozen people finding the bottles on beaches in the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean Sea.

They ranged from a "humble fisherman" in Mexico and a 14-year-old Panamanian rock 'n' roll enthusiast, to a surfer and a retired Nebraska police officer vacationing on the Texas coast.

Tyson Robertson, a fourth-grader at Ms. Ketchum's school, also found a bottle on a Florida beach. His class responded by writing a letter to the bottle-senders in Bryan, hoping pen-pal friendships would result.

Tyson's teacher, Reynold Gervasio, said students sent photos of their class and asked about life in Texas, but have yet to receive a response.

St. Josephs Elementary third-grade teacher Connie Carson, whose students sent the bottles, said her students plan to write to the Florida students, along with other bottle discoverers.

"I'm busy tracking how far the bottles traveled from their release," Carson said. "The neat thing is that the longer the bottles are going crazy floating to even farther away locations. The whole thing is something right out of Gilligan's Island."

The experiment has spurred interest in geography, spelling and writing.

"It's real fun, but you also learn something about other people and places," said Sean Taylor, 8. "You could also learn another language."

"The work is worth it. You really get a lot of fun out of it."

Sean's father, a Texas A&M

oceanographer, dreamed up the experiment two years ago in an attempt to spark children's interest in the ocean.

"Given school finances, it would be tough to corral and bring children down to the ocean," he said. "So I thought it would be nice to cook up an experiment to bring it to life for students cooped up in the classroom."

"The kids are situated so far from the ocean. Most have never seen it."

Taylor, who said state-of-the-art drift experiments rely on electronic "markers" tracked by satellites, called the third-graders' experiment a success.

"The kids are learning things without anyone trying to cram anything down their throats," Taylor said.

Many of the children agree. "I feel so excited because I've never done this before," said Thomas Swanner, 9. "My bottle could go anywhere — maybe to South America."

Amee Petroski, 8, said she received a letter from Eloy Hervis Pinada, a Mexican fisherman near Veracruz, who said he lives in a small one-room casita and collects pieces of driftwood to fire his kitchen stove.

"He said he was a humble fisherman and he went out after every storm to find things he could use,"

Amee said. "He said he had a 4-year-old daughter."

"I wrote to him and told him I have a 4-year-old sister and she's a brat," Amee said. "I told him that we have three-bedroom house with two bathrooms and my friend Whitney has stayed overnight at our house 20 times or more."

Brook Werlinger, 8, said two of her messages were found along Florida's east coast.

"I've never done this before," Brook said. "It was real exciting because we were going to go to Walt Disney World in Florida. I was thinking about those people when I went to Florida in December."

Laura Prawdzik, 8, said she now better understands the shifting ocean tides and currents.

"It was real neat because the bottles travel through the ocean and you don't know where they will land," she said. "It's sort of like getting pen pals, but you don't know where ... It's a weird way of getting pen pals."

Audra Massey, 9, added: "It was real fun. We got to learn about different people and what states they live in."

St. Josephs principal Marta Swanner said the students were not all optimistic their bottles would be found.
