Support group to meet Tuesday

A support group for relatives of service personnel with Operation Desert Storm will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in Garrett Hall at the First Methodist

The group, sponsored by several local support and social service agencies, will meet weekly to discuss fears and feelings related to the conflict.

Group to discuss hazardous waste

A Mitchell County citizens advisory board will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday night on the second floor of the courthouse to discuss a proposed hazardous waste incinerator and landfill operation about eight miles west of Westbrook

The operation has been proposed by National Waste and Energy Development, Pittsburgh. County Commissioners in March signed a host agreement to assist the company in their efforts to obtain federal and state permits in return for free dumping of municipal trash and the right to collect fees which could add up to $1 million or more annually.

Blood drive planned at State Hospital

The Big Spring State Hospital is sposoring a blood drive for United Blood Services.

"We have regularly scheduled blood drives," said Billy Russworm the blood drive coordinator at BSSH. "The bulk of the blood collected here comes from our employees but anyone can come in and donate," added Russworm.

Kirschner expressed his appreciation to Big Spring donors. "The support from the community has been tremendous," he said.

The blood drive is in the Physical Therapy building at the Big Spring State Hospital. Tuesday Feb. 5, from 3 to 6

Booklet available for making a will

The Salvation Army is offering a free booklet to assist the seven-out-of-eight people who have not prepared a will.

With this booklet, the Salvation Army is offering information to help control the distribution of an estate to family, friends and charitable organizations. With an up-todate will, an estate is distributed by one's own wishes rather than legal formulas. Some think only wealthy people need a will, or that drawing a will is too expensive or complicated. The Salvation Army wants people to know that, without a will, the state will determine the disposition of assets, the welfare of one's spouse, and the guardianship of one's children.

Iran makes offer to mediate

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) U.S. and Iraqi forces today traded fire across the desert frontier, and Iran's president made a surprise offer to hold direct talks with both Iraq and the United States to try to end the Persian Gulf War. Allied warplanes, meanwhile, pounded Baghdad before dawn today. Witnesses said communication centers, government offices and industrial installations were hit — some of them for the second and third times since the war began nearly three weeks ago. The newspaper of Iraq's ruling party boasted the Baghdad government would drag the allies into a drawn-out ground war by staging more attacks like last week's Iraqi push into the Saudi town of Khafji.

The allied air strikes have been so effective that senior Iraqi officers are moving their headquarters into schools because "they know we're not going to attack civilian targets."

'Combat on the Saudi periphery should be based on the hit-and-run tactic formulated by our ancestors," the newspaper Al-

Thawra said today For the moment, Iraqi forces appeared to be in a defensive posture. The U.S. military said Iraqi troops were deeply dug in, seeking shelter from punishing allied air attacks. Those attacks continued today, with F-15s and Tornadoes roaring north into hazy skies from a Saudi air base

The allied air strikes have been so effective that senior Iraqi officers are moving their headquarters into schools because "they know we're not going to at-tack civilian targets," the commander of Operation Desert Storm

Asked whether that inhibited the air campaign, Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf said today, "in all probability, yes." But he said he was not concerned.

surprised by Iran's offer to act as a go-between, but held out little hope for such talks. The Iranians have been hostile to the United States since the 1979 Islamic revolution that toppled the pro-Western Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

But they also fought a 1980-1988 war with neighboring Iraq and have condemned Saddam's seizure of Kuwait.

The Iranians have so far rebuffed the Iraqi president's efforts to align themselves with Baghdad against the United States, although U.S. military officials say Tehran has given 89 Iraqi planes refuge since the war

Rafsanjani suggested restoring direct contact with the United States during a Tehran news conference reported by the official Islamic Republic News Agency. It was the first time he has openly indicated such talks are possible.

He also said an Iranian peace initiative to end the war could be Rafsanjani heads Iran's socalled pragmatists, who are trying to rebuild bridges with the West, and the suggestion of a more open relationship with the United States underlined Tehran's nervousness over the Persian Gulf conflict.

Rafsanjani disclosed that the Swiss have been acting as intermediaries with Washington on other issues and said "the same channel can be used" to start talks on the gulf crisis.

The Iranian president said direct talks with the United States would have to be approved by Iran's spiritual leader, Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, and Tehran's Supreme National Security Council.

Iran and the United States have had no diplomatic ties since the 1979 takeover of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran by Islamic militants.

Local residents gather to celebrate prayer day

Local residents gathered at locations around the city to pray Sunday in observance of National Prayer Day for Peace.

Churches throughout Big Spring as well as the VA Medical Center observed the day with worship and prayer. Representatives of many area churches said they have been devoting special attention to prayer for the conflict since August, when Iraq invaded Kuwait and the U.S. sent soldiers to form Operation Desert Shield.

The Rev. Flynn V. Long of First Presbyterian Church said prayer helps to sustain many people during turbulent show support for U.S. troops in

"I was sitting at my desk and this idea came to mind. I went to Bob Deavenport and told him that I was having a 'seizure of patroitism,' '' Creech said. "So, we distributed copies of flags and told the employees we were having a coloring contest.' The idea was overwhelmingly accepted by the participants, according to Creech. "I passed out 34 flags and 30 were entered. Even three prisoners colored flags," she said.

Yellow ribbons were tied around the courthouse lawn for every county resident serving in the Gulf.

'This yellow ribbon idea came from Connie Hernandez. The idea was to place a name of one of our boys and tie it around the lawn trees," Creech explained.

"The response was great from people that participated. We just felt that everyone should be in-volved with this," Hernandez said. "It makes one feel closer to our troops. And the Lord knows we miss them and wish they come back home quickly."

"This was a very fine gesture on the part of the community. To me, this was a personal thing with me, because I taught eight of these young men in school," Justice of the Peace Nolan Parker said. "I am somewhat worried because of their present situation. Peggy should deserve all the credit for coming up with this great idea.

The winners of the coloring contest were: Susie Hull, first place; Patty Rodriguez, second place; and Martha Parker, third place.

Hull identified with the soldiers because her father was a fighter pilot and colonel in the army, and received a letter from the Department of Defense informing him that he may be recalled to active

Her brother-in-law, a major in the Air Force, is a fighter pilot as well and could be deployed at any time, Hull said.

"I thought it was a great idea to color the flags and tie yellow ribbons around the courthouse tree. Many people are thinking about the guys over there and by doing this it makes us feel even closer - or it did me," Pam McAnally

exchange houses

AUSTIN (AP) - Federal officials say a proposed state law to regulate hundreds of currency exchange houses along the Mexican border has one aim: curbing the drug trade.

State Rep. Henry Cuellar, D-Laredo, has proposed legislation that would regulate the exchange houses, or casas de cambio. And Don Morris, a criminal investigator for the Internal Revenue Service in Laredo, says that is good news. "This is all about the war on drugs," Morris said.

Authorities estimate hundreds of thousands of dollars in illegal drug profits are laundered at the exchange houses, which are unregulated by state or federal government. Law enforcement officials say that has made them a major channel for moving drug profits in and out of the country.

Retired nurse kills intruder

HOUSTON (AP) — At the age of 72, the last thing Inez Harris McGrew wanted to buy was a gun. But the Sunday school teacher listened to her stepson as he nagged her to learn to use it.

Mrs. McGrew, a retired nurse, now says she's glad she took those lessons because instinct took over when an intruder burst into her brother's home. Mrs. McGrew shot him four times in the chest, killing him before he could complete his lunge for her throat.

The incident took place about 5:20 a.m. Saturday.

Richards: Commissioner suits her to a 'T'

Ann Richards says she hopes the State Board of Education's nominee for education commissioner is "willing to take all of our old policies and old planning, and throw them out the window.

Richards, in Washington for the annual mid-winter meeting of the National Governors' Association, said Sunday that everything she's heard about the board's choice indicates that he fits her criteria "to

"In general, I want someone who's not afraid of change," said Ms. Richards. "I want someone who understands that excellence can be measured by something other than a test . . . and I want someone who is not afraid of sharing power.

The Board of Education voted 11-4 late Saturday to nominate Lionel Meno of Albany, N.Y., to oversee a $14-billion-a-year school system that is under court order to be reformed.

Meno has served for the past 21/2 years as deputy commissioner for elementary and secondary education in the New York State Education Department.

In discussions with the Board of Education during its four-month search, Richards said she told members that she wanted someone who would focus on quality.

She also told them that: "I hoped we would find a commissioner that Everything that I have heard about Mr. Meno would suggest that he fits that need to a 'T'," she said.

She said she would act quickly on the nomination and hopes to meet Meno for the first time upon return- of our cities.'

Richards must appoint the educa-tion commissioner and the Senate must ratify the choice.

The governor also said that President Bush's plan to give the states responsibility for $15 billion in domestic programs is a "positive sign" if it gives states greater control over spending. "Any way that we can begin to change this whole business of establishing layers of bureaucrats before services are delivered and projects are funded the taxpayers of this country will be much better off," she said.

Richards said she was also "encouraged and excited" about the possibility of a free trade agreement with Mexico.

"It means a tremendous opportunity for Texas and Texas exports. I think we stand at the gateway of enormous economic opportunities to the south," she said.

Texas, however, must address the infrastructure needs of dealing with the additional trade, she said.

"It means more bridges, it means more highways and linkages to bring that increased trade from Mexico, Central and South America into the United States," she said. "It will create a real hub of activity in San Antonio. . . . We must be, as a state, thinking ahead and planning for the impact that it will have on some

Thousands gather to show support for troops in Gulf

(AP) The U.S. troops involved in the Persian Gulf War have the unswerving support of their country, as demonstrated by weekend rallies drawing thousands of sup-porters and telephone polls of average Texans.

Thousands gathered Sunday at rallies in Beaumont and Killeen, waving American flags and homemade signs listing the names of loved ones deployed overseas. The day before, thousands more huddled at parades and rallies in Dallas, Katy and White Settlement.

Carl Wayne Buntion was sentenced Jan. 24 to die by lethal injection for fatally shooting 18-year Houston police veteran James Irby in June.

"Somebody should be responsible for what happened to my husband," Mrs. Irby said. "There is no reason this should have happened in the first place."

Mrs. Irby, 29, has given up her job as a nurse so she can work fulltime trying to reform the criminal justice system. She also is raising the couple's two children, Cody, 3, and Cally, 18 months. When he killed Irby, Buntion was on parole after serving three years of a 15-year sentence for sexually assaulting a teen-age girl.

A three-member panel of the parole board had denied Buntion's initial request for parole in June 1989. But on May 15, 1990, it gave AUSTIN (AP) — Maura Irby him $200, a new suit of clothes and freed him.

Buntion was supposed to report immediately to the Texas House, a 300-bed Houston facility for parolees. He didn't. On June 27, 1990, six weeks after he got out of the penitentiary, Buntion was riding in a car with a friend when Irby pulled them over. While the motorcycle cop talked to the driver, Buntion got out of the car and fatally shot Irby The day after the killing, officials realized Buntion never showed up at the halfway house and issued a 'blue warrant" accusing Buntion of his ninth parole violation.

"For six weeks they didn't bother to find out what he was doing," Mrs. Irby told the Austin American-Statesman. "It's so blatantly negligent of the parole board to not know where he was.'

She has requested permission to file a lawsuit against the pardons and paroles division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice for failing to monitor Buntion's whereabouts while he was on parole.

The state has legal immunity in most cases, and lawmakers grant very few people the right to sue the state, mostly because of budgetary constraints.

Sen. Gene Green, D-Houston, is drafting a resolution that would allow Mrs. Irby to press forward with a lawsuit, but he admits "it's going to be tough" to pass.

Puppet program teaches evils of drugs

WACO (AP) — There are some new developments in the war on drugs in Mother Goose's neighborhood.

Little Red Riding Hood is fending off a wolf offering cigarettes and beer. The Three Little Pigs are learning to say no to marijuana and paint-sniffing. Little Bo Peep is now teaching her sheep it's bad to smoke cigarettes or marijuana, drink alcohol and sniff paint or other things that smell strong.

These new versions of fairy tales are part of the Junior League of Waco's program to teach first graders about the dangers of drugs. And the storytellers are puppets.
"We felt it's important to target

a younger age about drugs," said project chairwoman Denise

The average age of youngsters with alcohol abuse problems when they start drinking is 11, said Bob Hawkins, a case manager with the Heart of Texas Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse.

"The younger they start drinking, the more likely they are to become an alcoholic," he said.

Children in an environment where others are using drugs may be exposed to drug abuse at younger ages, he said. "A lot of times, they try to act like older

Twelve killed by impure heroin

NEW YORK (AP) — A police dragnet today was seeking the supplier of a deadly heroin laced with a powerful tranquilizer that killed 12 people over the weekend.

Police in Connecticut, New York and New Jersey on Sunday cruised drug-plagued neighborhoods to warn heroin addicts by loudspeaker to avoid "Tango and Cash" — the brand name marked on packages of the lethal narcotic.

They told people to seek medical help immediately if they had taken the drug but as word of the danger spread, police said at least one dealer simply changed the name and continued to sell it.

Officer Scott Bloch, a city police spokesman, said the drug was first sold Friday in an area of the Bronx known as a drug bazaar and magnet for out-ofstate buyers.

Five people have died in New York, five in New Jersey and two in Connecticut since Friday. More than 100 people were taken to hospitals in the tri-state area.

Authorities said preliminary tests show the heroin contained a type of fentanyl, a powerful tranquilizer used in surgery. Underground chemists use it seeking to create synthetic

City Health Commissioner Woodrow Myers said preliminary tests indicated the heroin was laced with methyl fentanyl, which makes heroin 27 times more union members reviewed them. Union spokesman Gary Hubbard said printed contracts could be distributed to 27 local presidents as early as Tuesday.

Myers said the drug induces a "coma or respiratory arrest."

If the presidents approve the agreement, it will go to the union's international committee and 20,000 workers at mines and mills in the Great Lakes region and Alabama.

The proposed contract, effective from last Friday through Jan. 31, 1994, raises pay $1.50 in the first year and 50 cents an hour in each of the next two years. Workers also would receive a $3,250 bonus when the contract is

Palestinians clash in refugee camp

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) -Yasser Arafat's mainstream guerrillas today attacked dissidents loyal to terrorist Abu Nidal in a Palestinian refugee camp, killing one of them and wounding five, police reported.

A police spokesman said guerrillas of Arafat's Fatah, the PLO's largest faction, battled about 20 Abu Nidal fighters at the Ein El-Hilweh refugee camp. The battle lasted about an hour.

In addition to the casualties, seven of Abu Nidal's fighters surrendered, said the police spokesman on condition of War views from across the U.S.

What is scary is that Saddam Hussein may be delusional enough actually to believe that Americans, or maybe even most of the rest of the world, would buy those obviously coerced statements made on TV by the downed and apparently roughed-up American and other allied airmen.

If he does, it's only further confirmation of what everyone already knew: There's no predicting where he might take this war and to what grotesque lengths he is willing to go.

The gassing of his own population, the missile attacks on Israeli civilian population centers and the threats of chemical warfare already point to a man who has no concept of right and wrong.

So now comes the brutal teratment of prisoners of war, an act that, as President Bush correctly observes, angers Americans. But if the purpose of this barbaric show is to scare Americans from the fight, Hussein has badly miscalculated. It has only strengthened American public opinoin in support of the war.

Nor will Americans turn on these courageous airmen. Americans have had enough experience with this kind of inhumane treatment of U.S. prisoners of war in the Korean and Vietnam conflicts to know that POWs cannot be held to the old, strictest standards of the military code

When they return home — and they will return home they will be treated not as traitors or collaborators. Rather, they will be honored for going beyond the limits of what the vast majority of us can endure... And they will be praised for having willingly risked their lives when their country, duty and honor called.

We had opposed this war before it began, but this latest episode only demonstrates another reason that once in it we must unite behind those who are courageously waging the war so that it may be ended quickly and successfully Chicago Sun-Times

The reliability of high-tech weapons in the Persian Gulf war has been gratifying, and so has the unreliability of forecasters who predicted sky-high oil prices in the event of conflict. Of course, the fighting may be far from over, and the price of a barrel of crude will continue to fluctuate; but the outbreak of hostilities did not trigger anything like the $80- and $100-a-barrel prices some had

The world's economy has not been seriously injured by the wars although the initial increase in oil prices; and the uncertainty leading up to the wan inflicted some attim be damages, especially to the Third World, Eastern Europe and the United States. But now that the conflict is under way, there is much reason to believe that the resolve of the international community in confronting Saddam (Hussein) will boost confidence and the global economy, which is so dependant on that powerful intangible called hope. The Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein has resurrected the 'big lie' principle used in Nazi Germany. The Nazis felt the world could be deceived if their lies were big and repeated with loud and long assurances.

Saddam's greed for his neighbor's oil and territory prompted his unprovoked invasion of Kuwait. After the world condemned his armed takeover of Kuwait, Saddam used the big lie to tell the world his rape of Kuwait was for homeless Palestinians.

The Palestinian issue had nothing to do with Saddam's troops overrunning Kuwait and brutalizing Kuwaiti

In the final analysis, the "big lie" did not work for Nazi Germany, and it will not work for Saddam Hussein.

Waco Herald-Tribune

The cost of waging war is almost as awesome as the weapons systems the American forces are using to attack Iraq installations — about $1 billion per day.

Of course Americans should not bear the entire burden of this war. Our allies, especially heavyweights Japan and Germany, must pay more than the $4.6 billion they'd come up with by Jan. 1. House Budget Committee Chairman Leon Panetta suggests the allies pay half — or up to $43 billion of the top figure.

We're well aware of the sentiment in this country against taxes - just as we're aware of the sentiment for the war. But it seems to us you can't advocate for the war and against the means to pay for waging it. That's fiscal irresponsibility that will haunt our children and grandchildren years from now, just as the consequences of the Vietnam War linger for us today.

The Bradenton (Fla.) Herald

There is plenty of room for reasonable people to disagree intelligently over our government's decision to go to war in the Middle East. What hurts is when unreasonable people intercede stupidly.

One of the most egregious examples imaginable occurred . . . when a. . . . woman wearing a yellow ribbon — in honor of her son, who is serving on a tank crew in the Saudi desert — was approached in a grocery store by a man who told her, "I hope your son dies over there."

To her great credit, the victim of this verbal attack, Kathy Dennis, is not bitter toward people who oppose the war, even those who take to the streets to protest it. She does not even consider herself a supporter of the war.

Intolerance and cruelty exist at the extremes of both sides in this emotional issue.

It is axiomatic that war brings out the best and worst in people. Kathy Dennis' forbearance and sensitivity exemplify what Abraham Lincoln called "the better angels of our nature." Her example should be followed.

Where are water solids going now?

I read with interest Tom Decell's article in the Big Spring Herald, Jan. 14, about our water

He states that to treat 16 million gallons of water daily, to just bring our water to the upper limit set by the Department of Health Standards, to say nothing of the even tighter Safe Drinking Water Act, we would need to remove "in excess of 300,000 pounds each day of solids." He then poses the question, "How do we dispose of this amount of undesirable constituents?

This is a most interesting question, because if we do use 16 million gallons of water daily with the DHS analysis, it follows that the citizens of Big Spring are daily getting rid of about 500,000 pounds of these "undesirable constituents."

Now, let us look to see where we, the citizens, put this much undesirable stuff we will refer to

A. Our bodies — we drink it, nearly 3 times worse than DHS standards. A Big Spring family states that every time relatives from up north visited, they would get sick. Four years ago we went to R/O water and visitors haven't become sick since.

B: Water heaters — it builds up on the bottoms and eats away, shortening their lives by at least

C. Washing machines and dishwashers — where it does a great job of eating and corroding, again shortening life.

D. Water pipes and faucets — it loves to chew away.

Public forum

E. Showers, shower doors, and tubs — can hardly keep nice. F. Car washing — spots more than double the work. G. Lawns and trees — almost kills them, until rain saves.

H. Sewage — On an average we send back about 50 percent or 8 million gallons daily, or 250,000 pounds of it.

Where does Mr. Decell put this daily stuff, now

We hear the phrase, "We can't afford to." Let's ask the real question, "Can we afford not to?" fix our Big Spring water? Something else puzzles me. In a Big Spring Herald article, Jan. 24, 1990, Mr. Decell is quoted stating, "the city typically treats about 3.5 million gallons of water each day." True, this was said during the winter, but it sure is a long way from 16 million. The city of Acton has recently put in a water treatment plant, and I checked with our city to compare. I was told our average daily water usage is 6 million gallons. I wonder who's on first?

What really worries me the most about all of this is our City Council. Don't they ever look into such matters, or do they just nod their heads and say yes to everything city management tells them? Seems to be a question of

Lives are too precious to take lightly

By BETTY JOHANSEN Copy Editor

"I'm a suer," the man replied when asked his occupation. The scene was the "Bob Newhart Show," so the audience assumed he was a nut-case claim ing to be a sewer, the bottom half of a toilet. But he went on to explain that he made his living sung people.

It seems to be a national pastime, looking for a person or organization with "deep pockets", in order to obtain something for nothing. Personally, I think filing frivolous law suits is contemptible. It not only damages the defendant, but it also robs all of us, who must ultimately pay the

However, I recently regretted the fact that I come from a family of non-suers because, as it turns out, some lawsuits may be worth the time, energy and grief they extract.

The week before last. I learned that a lady, who has been a dear friend of my family as long as I can remember, had received a preliminary diagnosis of cancer. She was referred to a cancer specialist in another town, to whom I will refer as Dr. Quack

As soon as I heard Dr. Quack's name, the hair rose on the back of my neck. This autocrat was once my mother's doctor. She was 72 at the time. I guess he ordained she had lived long enough, because he sent her home in kidney failure to

It was no mistake. It wasn't even negligence. I went to the library and read in a medical book that multiple myeloma, from which my mother was suffering, dissolves the bones and clogs up the kidneys with calcium. The patient is at risk of renal failure. A medical student could foresee and deal with that, and this man was a specialist.

When we got Mother home from Lubbock, she was acting weird. My brother Carl took one look at her and said, "What happened?" He called my aunt, a nurse, and she figured it out long distance: the disease had caused kidney failure. "She has to have fluids," my aunt told Carl.

Mother wasn't interested in fluids or anything else, so my wise and wonderful brother got busy and got her to a real doctor at Scott and White Hospital in Temple. Dr. Bonnett put her on intravenous fluids for a few days and she "woke up" herself again. We enjoyed another 21/2 years with Mother before multiple myeloma finally killed her. They were treasured years for all of us. It is beyond my comprehension it upon himself to steal that time from us.

But we are living in a time when people speak compellingly about the rights of dying and dying with dignity. Family members (as in the Nancy Cruzan case) and professionals (as in Helga Wanglie's case) want to make life and death decisions in hopeless

I can understand why the Cruzans didn't want to finance a new swimming pool for Nancy's doctor or a new wing for the medical institution where she was living. I can understand there are some unusual cases that seem to dictate unusual methods

However, it would be a mistake to allow the technology that creates many of those unusual cases to undermine society. If this nation chooses to allow so-called mercy killings, albeit for noble reasons, murders will follow. It is Pollyanna-ish to believe

Before such laws are established, we'll only hear about the loving husband who did his wife a favor by putting her out of her misery, the solicitous father who knew for a fact his daughter would not want to live like a vegetable: But after the fact, the laws will be there for the malicious and heartless, as well as the loving and caring

In a country that turns its court system inside out to make sure no innocent person is ever punished by mistake, I hope we will be as careful to protect the wisest, gentlest citizens among us as we are to protect the criminal who is walking the streets on a technicality. I hope our legislators take into account that laws allowing mercy killings set the stage for devious murders, for loss of respect for certain members of society and for some people to shame old or helpless family members into choosing euthanasia

Sometimes I wish my family had sued Dr. Quack, as a statement that we find his heartless arrogance unacceptable in a civilized nation. At the very least, suing him might have helped our friends remember his name, so none of them would ever trust their precious lives to his treacherous care

Names nothing to play around with

From a UCLA psychology professor comes a new book titled, "The Name Game: The Decision That Lasts a Lifetime." It is published by National Press Books and will cost you $9.95 to have a copy of your very own. I read about the book in my local newspaper, which costs me a quarter. These are tough times According to the report, Dr.

Albert Mehrabian, the author, says children are often given names on a whim, instinct, family tradition or as attempted humor.

Says Dr. Mehrabian: "You owe it to your children to select a name that will help them get through life and not handicap

Having a child soon? What name should you select for the addition to the family that will help the little darling get through life without a handicap such as being named "Norbert" or "Ernestine"?

In his book Dr. Mehrabian offers the following names as the ones that best say, "This person is a success.

FOR GIRLS: 1. Jacqueline 2. Katherine 3. Samantha 4. Victoria Lauren train robber before he turned his back There's Prince Charles, Alexander the Great (no relation to Catherine), and my cousin Kenneth, a successful hunter and fisherman who showed me how to throw a curveball when I was 8. I've never had any children of my own to name, but if I ever do,

I want to take Dr. Mehrabian's advice and be very careful. Here are some names I would avoid if I had a son: Norbert, Gunther, Seymour, Pig Face,

Clarence, Spiro, Sammy Joe Bob,

Running Buffalo or Gilroy. For girls I'd stay away from Ernestine, Willamena, Clovis, Mavis. Nanci Jo, Anna Sue, Gourd Head, Darting Squirrel or Oprylandria.

You are asking, "Oprylandria?"

Here are some names I would avoid if I had a son: Norbert, Gunther, Seymour, Pig Face, Clarence, Spiro, Sammy Joe Bob, Running Buffalo or Gilroy.

I have a friend who is a teacher and she swears there was a little girl in her class named Oprvlandria.

When she asked the parents why such a name, they said it was because the child was conceived during a visit to Opryland. A sick attempt at humor, indeed. I'm fairly satisfied with my own name, Lewis. That was my father's name, too, and he got it from his maternal grandfather. It's no "James" or "Madison" or "Alexander," but my mother explained to me I was conceived in 1945 in a sleeping berth on a

So, had my own parents had the weird sense of humor of little Oprylandria's parents, I could have been named "Coal Car," "Sidetrack" or "Three Hours Late."

Another one of my cousins, 'Motel 6," is a story I'll get to at another time.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) -A dispute over free speech at the University of California at Berkeley led to the lifting of a temporary ban on war-related posters in public areas of campus housing.

Volunteers go to Israel's aid

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Iragi missile attacks on Israel have not deterred hundreds of Jewish supporters in Southern California from undertaking missions to that country. People have volunteered to travel to Israel to aid the country's citizens affected by the Persian Gulf war, and Jewish groups have stepped up fundraising efforts.

"This is the first time the civilian population of Israel has been so directly exposed to foreign attack," said David Finegood, Jewish Federation Council of Greater Los Angeles president.

"We want to personally convey the real groundswell of support the Jews of our community feel for them," Finegood said.

Under the volunteer programs, U.S. residents usually pay their own way to Israel and work in non-combat posts at military bases, hospitals or farms for three weeks to six

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) -Four days after the Army Reserve unit of Sgt. 1st Class Frances Manthey's was called to active duty as part of Operation Desert Storm, she was asked to sign her discharge papers.

The reason? Manthley is 60 and the Army said she was too old to serve.

Manthey is an operating room technician and medical supply specialist who has spent 18 years in the military service, including duty overseas.

But without a special waiver, she won't be with the 5501st U.S. Army Hospital when the Fort Snelling-based unit leaves this week for Fort Sam Houston in Texas.

"It's like 60 is some magic number," said Manthey, who insists her experience could be valuable in handling casualties from the Persian Gulf. "When I was 59, I was fine. Now, at 60, I can't do anything?"

Historical society plans war display

CINCINNATI (AP) — An historical society is going ahead with a $1 million exhibit recalling the city's involvement in World War II, hoping patrons aren't put off by its timing.

Directors of The Cincinnati Historical Society considered delaying announcement of its exhibit, "Cincinnati Goes to War: A Community Responds to World War II," because of the Persian Gulf war.

The five-year exhibit will open April 20 at the Union Terminal, where troop trains took thousands to war 50 years ago.

"Cincinnati Goes to War' is not a celebration of war, but a remembrance of how the people of Cincinnati worked together to serve their country, at home as well as abroad,' said museum director Ruby Rogers

Gale Peterson, the society's director, said the exhibit has nothing to do with the Persian Gulf war, but some staffers feared that any kind of war memorial would spark controversy

"It's hard to ever guess where people might take offense," Peterson said. "It's by pure coincidence of schedules that it happened."

Although America ostensibly seeks no territory in the Middle East, some experts say U.S. forces almost certainly will remain long after the war against Iraq ends in order to maintain peace in the shattered region.

"Under all foreseeable circumstances the United States will have to remain politically and militarily engaged in the region," the Washington Institute for Near East Policy said in a strategic study published after the outbreak

"We could end up the policeman of Iraq," said Charles William Maynes, editor of Foreign Policy magazine. "Even if it doesn't go that far, the United States has taken on responsibility for helping construct a new security order or balance in the region.'

"The United States will not be tional institutions or local arrangements to protect American interests," The Washington Institute's report concluded. The institute assembled a bipartisan study group of more than 40 Middle East and foreign policy specialists before the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait to develop a new U.S. strategy toward the Middle

Until a dozen years ago, the United States relied on Iran and Saudi Arabia, both oil-rich and heavily armed by the United States, to maintain balance in the Persian Gulf region. But with the collapse of the shah of Iran and the subsequent punishing war between Iran and Iraq, one pillar of that policy collapsed.

The rise of Iraq as a predominant, threatening power in the region and its invasion and annexation of Kuwait last August split the Arab League and shattered hopes that traditional balance in the region could be restored

Complicating efforts to return peace to the gulf is the destabilizing effect of the Arab-Israeli conflict. Although Iraq so far has failed to draw Israel into the fray, its missile attacks and Israel's promise to respond at some point underscore the difficulty of reaching any settlement that doesn't deal with the struggle between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

Van Hollen suggested the United States may be prepared after the war to work out a formal security agreement with Israel to help press Israel toward resolution of its dispute with the Arabs.

Asked if that wouldn't tie down more U.S. forces in the region, the former ambassador acknowledged, "It might, but we might be willing to do that if this meant we could defuse the Arab-Israeli conflict."

Maynes agreed. The Israelis have opposed the idea in the past, he said, but "I think it's going to be addressed with a much greater sense of urgency. We've been creeping toward it for some time."

Battleship fires big guns

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) -The battleship USS Missouri used its 16-inch guns in action for the first time since the Korean War, blasting Iraqi army positions in Kuwait, U.S. military officials disclosed today.

The famed World War II battleship is one of two deployed to Operation Desert Storm and is equipped with long-range Tomahawk cruise missiles as well as the huge guns that can fire a 2,000-pound shell about 25 miles.

Military sources said Sunday's targets were prefabricated concrete bunkers that the Iragis were moving into place in Kuwait, apparently to serve as fortifications for troops in case of an allied assault on the occupied country.

"They took out some of them," one source said.

The sources declined to say where the bunkers were located other than "within 21 nautical miles of the Missouri.'

The 68,000-ton battleship won fame as the site of Japan's surrender in August 1945, and served later during the 1950-53 war in Korea. It was brought out of mothballs in 1987 during the U.S. naval buildup in the Persian Gulf, but was not used in combat.

The Missouri arrived in the gulf two months ago to take part in the massive deployment against Iraq. Its sister ship, USS Wisconsin, also has been active in the war, firing its Tomahawks at targets in Baghdad.

Educate America, based in Morristown, N.J., made the national exam proposal its first initiative in a campaign to "drive the education policy agenda for the 1990s.

Kean, now president of Drew University in Madison, N.J., criticized current assessments of student achievement as inadequate measures of schools' progress in relation to the education goals established by President Bush and the nation's governors

He said a national test would motivate students and provide a "reliable accountability system for students, schools and states.

Under the proposal, all high school seniors would be given a ciency in reading, writing, mathematics, history, geography and science. Test results would complement the high school diploma and transcript and be forwarded to colleges or employers.

The tests would be administered free of charge each November by a national contractor. All major testing companies would have an opportunity to bid competitively for the job. Test results would be available by mid-winter so students can share them with potential employers or college officials, under the proposal. "The test will add meaning to the high school diploma by giving employers more objective information about student achievement," said Saul Cooperman, former New Jersey education commissioner under Kean and founder of the group.

"More importantly, it will create system which will send a message to all students that hard work pays dividends, that learning is important, and that tough courses are the path to success," Cooperman said.

Student confidentiality would be protected as the test results are aggregated and published annually. Comparisons by states and schools would be available, Educate America officials said.

Cooperman said the United States is one of the few industrialized nations that does not have some form of national assessment. Germany, Japan, Britain and France routinely measure students' progress at critical periods in their educational careers

The organization also pointed to a 1989 Gallup poll indicating that 70 percent of Americans favor national achievement standards and 77 percent favor requiring schools to use standardized national tests to measure student achievement

PARIS — This horizontally pleated full skirt with a tight-fitting sleeveless semi-transparent top is part of the Italian designer Valentino's 1991 Spring-Summer collection introduced in Paris.

A custom look at a ready-made price

Fabric headboards with matching bedcovers and pillow shams have long been popular in the fancy lady's boudoir. Now the hoi polloi can loll about in like style.

Once a custom-only look, affordable fabric headboards are now available through furniture stores in either in-stock fabric or the customer's own. There are also matching comforters, bedskirts, pillows, skirted dressing tables and

These ensembles are part of a trend toward products that straddie the line between custom and mass-produced home furnishings. Patterned bed linens introduced in the 1960s and a growing demand for more stylish decor have contributed to a desire for the look.

Pearson Co., a Lane subsidiary, and Carson's, Inc., both of High Point, N.C., are two upholstery manufacturers now marketing fabric headboards.

'We were getting requests for bedroom ensembles from customers who were having to go to a custom source to get them made," says Ruth R. Clark, vice president of design for Pearson.

So, now the company makes dust ruffles, pillow shams, skirted dressing tables and upholstered benches, chaises and chairs. Yardage is available for window cover-Although Pearson has 300 fabrics in its line, Clark says many customers prefer to supply their own. Pearson has four types of upholstered headboards ranging from tailored rectangles to more ornately curved shapes. Prices range from about $575 to $820 for a queen-size upholstered headboard in a medium-grade fabric.

Thomas C. Stout, president of Carson's, says his company appeals to customers with more contemporary tastes. There are 400 s to choose from inc shades of Ultrasuede. Headboards can be all fabric or fabric with brass or black nickel trim.

Typically, a Carson customer buys a matching chaise, bench or chair, with yardage available for spreads and window treatments.

Stout says Carson's best seller has been a channeled fabric headboard, $580 in queen size. An Art Deco style with brass trim is also popular. Prices run about half of what custom-made would cost, he quilted comforters, bedspreads, says.

Dear Abby

"family," and I, for one, would not judge the mother-to-be because of her marital status

A baby born out of wedlock is as deserving of a baby shower as one born of married parents. And probably more in need of one.

DEAR ABBY: I can't get over the letter from the middle-aged man who was bemoaning the fact that his middle-aged wife of 16 years had confessed on her wedding night that she had had four previous boyfriends (lovers) before she married him. His whole life was "haunted" by these thoughts of his wife's premarital affairs, and he kept wondering what his wife was thinking about while he was having sex with her and if perhaps she was comparing his performance to the other men she has had.

Well, I have news for this guy. In all likelihood, the only thing on his wife's mind during sex is whatever work she had left undone at the office that day, or the upcoming visit to the school guidance counselor about Johnny's grades, or where they were going to get the money to pay the IRS come April 15, or how she is going to squeeze her motherin-law's grocery shopping between Janie's acrobatics class and Satur-sex? And suppose he does actually run into one of her old lovers does he actually believe the guy will even remember her name after 16 years, let alone bring up the subject in conversation? Let's face it, Abby, if the sparks were that terrific 16 years ago, it only confirms his excellent judgment in getting a ring on her finger and a permanent commitment from so desirable a female. — MRS. G.J. IN OCALA, FLA.

DEAR G.J.: Thanks. You make an excellent point.

DEAR ABBY: I live at home with my mother (I'm 25), and a young man named "Bo" lives with us. (He's 21.) Bo has been here almost a year. We dated less than two months, when he stayed over one night. The next day, before I could take him home, his mother came and dumped all his belongings on my front lawn. Bo had no job and nowhere to go, so Mother and I took him in.

A year later, he still has no job. Last month, he was arrested for violation of his probation, he has to attend a group therapy class once a week. Since he has no driver's license, I have to drive him everywhere. (Group therapy is 30 miles each way.)

But here's the real problem: I was born and raised in a strict Baptist home. (My father was a minister.) When I met Bo, I went back on everything I ever believed in: no sex before marriage, no living together. My mother did the same. Last month, I decided to go back to my church. I refused to Syndicate

Did he marry his wife solely for have sex with Bo, and he hit the ceiling. No matter what Scripture I showed him in the Bible, his answer was, "This is the '90s.

When I went back to church, I met a man I was drawn to immediately. I've only talked to him once, and that was when he was going around shaking hands. When his hand touched mine, sparks flew. He sings in the choir, and he stares at me the whole time. He is deeply religious, very handsome, polite and well-dressed. He is a beautiful, super person. What am I going to do about Bo? I don't love him. I realize now that I never did love him. I feel sorry for him because if we make him leave, he will have nowhere to go. He can also get violent if he thinks someone has wronged him. I am trapped, Abby! What should I do? MISERABLE IN THE BIBLE

DEAR MISERABLE: Tell Bo clearly that you want him out of your house by a certain date - and stick to it. The arrangements will have to be up to him. Tell him he had better go back to his mother. because you have gone back to your church.

If he gives you and your mother trouble, call his probation officer and explain it to him. Between the three of you, I'm sure you can get Bo to see the light.

At Living Waters Church, the Rev. Leo Free encouraged his congregation Sunday to pray for peace and service personnel in Operation Desert Storm.

Secretary Angela Dorland said the church also observes a day of prayer and fasting each Tuesday.

"From sundown Monday until sundown Tuesday, we pray and fast for the nation," Dorland said. The Rev. David Robertson of

First United Methodist Church led his congregation in a special communion service Sunday.

"At the close of each table of communion, we had prayers for peace." Robertson explained.

Robertson, who with many of his congregation attended the service at the VA, said he believes in the benefits of prayer.

"I feel that it offers people the possibility of uniting . . ." he said. "It's a very positive way of asking God's guidance, comfort and direction.'

Ostensibly to curb rising crime rates and maintain public order, Belov's four-man unit walked the neighborhood's 10-block police beat this frigid winter weekend on the lookout for - what else? - crime and disorder. Did they find any?

"Well, no," Belov said, chuckling, then regaining his composure. 'But we're here just in case.'

The patrol — accompanied by a pack of foreign journalists — was met by skewed glances, a derogatory shout, and curious stares of residents. In a country long accustomed to uniformed authorities on its streets, the patrol added a new dimension of surveillance.

The four-man unit stopped in hotels, a beer hall, and a department store. It meandered past the Okruzhnaya train station.

'They asked if everything is OK here, if there were any troubles,' said the manager of a modest hotel on Gostinichny Street. "I said 'no, everything's OK here.' But these guys showing up, now that's a little strange."

The patrols, criticized by reformers as a sign of a creeping military dictatorship, were ordered by Defense Minister Dmitri Yazov and Interior Minister Boris Pugo last month. PATROLLING CLOTHING STORE

The squad, led by Kovel with the lieutenant and privates walking behind, waded into Okruzhnaya's sole beer hall, an underheated, smoke-filled den of palpable depression and anger.

"Soviet power is vile!" one drinker shouted from the corner. With the soldiers following,

Kovel pushed his way through the crowd, checking identification papers and surveying the clientele. Kovel later took the patrol into a department store near the Okruzhnaya train station, leading the soldiers past bundled shoppers skeptically examining Soviet-made jeans and dresses. Storekeepers are known to hide extra inventory in back rooms for sale later to employees' friends or on the black market. Authorities seeking to halt such economic crimes have given the KGB and the Interior Ministry broad searchand-seizure powers. Kovel's unit doesn't have that power, so he made do with walking the sales aisles. "This is my post, Okruzhnaya's regular beat cop, an and I have to check every site at army lieutenant and two privates. my post, whether it's a shop or Overhearing Kovel's statement,

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

It's for sure Cindy Williams is one Lady Hawk who won't be taking the Clarendon Lady Bulldogs lightly.

Going by the rankings, the Howard College women should beat Clarendon rather easily tonight at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum. After all, the Lady Hawks are ranked No. 4 in the nation, fielding a 22-1 season record and 6-1 league record. On the other hand, Clarendon is 4-14 overall and hasn't won a league game in seven tries.

Add to that the fact that Howard won the first meeting, 69-49 in Clarendon, and it should be an easy game for Howard — right?

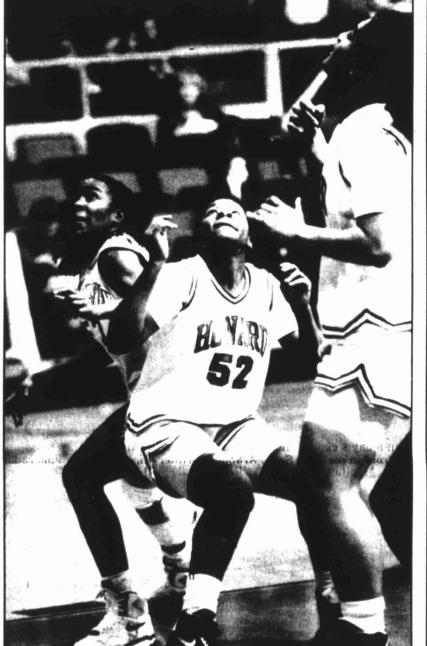

Williams isn't counting on it. A bad memory from her high school days at Stephen F. Austin in Houston is a reminder.

"I had an experience in high school. We took this team lightly and they beat us by six. We should've blown them away," said Williams. "We've played Clarendon before. The freshmen may have the idea we've already got the game, but I'll tell them, 'Don't take them lightly.'

Williams, a 5-foot-8 sophomore, has blossomed into a leader for the Lady Hawks. She saw considerable action on last year's 26-4 squad. This year she is Howard's leading scorer, averaging 13 points and four rebounds per game. She shoots 49 percent from the field and a highly respectable 56 percent from the three-point line.

The main difference in Williams this season is her all-around play. Last year she was used for instant offense coming off the bench. This year she's more versatile, playing either shooting guard or small for-

Azinger wins Pebble play by four strokes

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) For the first time in Paul Azinger's career, there's no question about whether he will return to Pebble Beach.

In fact, he'll be back twice next year: once as the defending titleholder in the National Pro-Am and again in the U.S. Open.

"I can hardly wait for the '92 Open at Pebble," Azinger said Sunday after his four-stroke triumph in the National Pro-Am, the tournament that for so many years was called "the Crosby Clambake. The victory came as something of a surprise to Azinger; a surprise on two counts. First, he said, he wasn't playing very well coming in.

"You don't know how much pressure I put on myself the last few weeks. I was playing poorly, and I usually get off to a good start" at the first of the year, he And, secondly, there was his track record at this event. He had never before even qualified for the final day's play.

"If I had to list the tournaments I expected to win, this would be dead last," said the lanky player called "Zinger" by his fellow when I got on the greens, I was just totally confused.

"Every year when I'd leave back. But in about six months, I'd change my mind."

Azinger, however, now has learned to factor in the pull of the ocean on the putts at Pebble Beach, as he demonstrated in a final round 67 over the links that stretch along the cliffs above Carmel Bay.

He made a 45-50 foot putt for birdie on the fourth hole and twice made par-saving putts of about 15 1-over.

His little stretch of poor play was solved, he said, by a tip from Jim Flick early last week in oros. "I love the golf course, but Phoenix: "A little change in my backstroke," he said.

"He's got me back in the position I've been in when I'm playing here. I'd swear I'd never come my best," said Azinger, who now leads the PGA Tour with victories in five consecutive seasons.

Bills lead AFC to 23-21 Pro Bowl victory

HONOLULU (AP) — The Buffalo Bills had a super Sunday. They could only wish it had come a week earlier.

Turning the Pro Bowl into a Bills' showcase, Jim Kelly, Thurman Thomas, Andre Reed and Bruce Smith led the AFC to a 23-21 victory over the NFC in a well-played contest that went down to the wire.

Miami defensive end Jeff Cross horned in on the Bills' show at the end, preserving the victory by blocking a 46-yard field goal try by the Saints' Morten Andersen with seven seconds remaining.

Kelly, who had been nursing a sore left knee, courtesy of the New York Giants in their 20-19 Super Bowl victory over Buffalo the previous Sunday, threw for two touchdowns in the Pro Bowl. including a 13-yarder to Ernest Givins of Houston for the gamewinner with 1:49 left. Voted the MVP of the all-star game, Kelly completed 13 of 19 passes while splitting duty with AFC starter Warren Moon of Houston.

"I would have loved to have won the MVP a week earlier (in the Super Bowl), but this feels good," Kelly said.

The Bills had 10 players, most of any team, in the Pro Bowl game. The Giants topped the NFC with seven representatives.

Buffalo's Andre Reed had four receptions for 80 yards, tops in the all-star game, and caught a 20-yard scoring pass from Kelly. Bills running back Thurman Thomas rushed for a game-high 38 yards on seven carries and also had 36 yards on four receptions.

And Buffalo defensive end Bruce Smith was the defensive star for the AFC with three quarterback sacks and a blocked field goal.

Buffalo's Smith said that while the players enjoy the week in Hawaii leading up to the game, they play hard when it begins.

"I wasn't on vacation all week," Smith said. "People thought we were taking it lightly this week, but once you get out there and start competing, no one's taking it

Phoenix Cardinals rookie Johnny Johnson had a fine game for the NFC, scoring on runs of 1 and 90 yards and picking up 32 yards on 10! carries.

"It's an honor to play in a game like this, when I grew up watching a lot of these players." Johnson said. "It also was a great feeling to contribute by scoring two touchdowns.

The first half was low-scoring with the AFC getting a 26-yard field goal from Kansas City's Nick Lowery in the opening quarter, then Johnson putting the NFC up 7-3 with a 1-yard dive in the second.

Lowery's 43-yarder made it 7-6 in the third quarter, then Johnson scored on his 9-yard run to put the NFC ahead 14-6.

Kelly brought the AFC to life in the final quarter, hooking up with Reed to make it 14-13 early in the period. After Barry Sanders of the Detroit Lions scored on a 22-yard run to give the NFC an eight-point lead, Lowery kicked a 34-yard field goal with 2:58 left, then Kelly hit Givins with the winning pass.

Kelly, smiling afterward, said he, was nervous as he watched Andersen line up for the lastsecond field goal.

BIG LAKE (AP) — Until recently, most college recruiters were hard pressed to locate Big Lake, about 90 miles southeast of Odessa.

That was before the public relations work of Reagan County High School Coach Sam Harrell.

Knowing his school was a bit off the beaten college recruiting track, Harrell put together a film showcasing the talents of linebacker Ken Neill.

"I knew that he didn't receive enough publicity to warrant the kind of attention he needed to get a scholarship," Harrell said. "So we put together a highlight film (of Neill's season) and sent it off to different schools.

The response was overwhelming as recruiters from North Texas, Arkansas, Eastern New Mexico, East Texas State, Southern Methodist and Mississippi State universities contacted the school about Neill.

This Wednesday, Neill will announce his final decision. But Neill already has indicated he will accept SMU's scholarship offer.

"I was kind of surprised by the interest, especially from Division I schools," Neill told The Odessa American. "I knew I could play at a small school but I didn't really think about going to a Division I.

"I realized that SMU is one big family and I wanted to be a part of that family.

The 6-foot, 190-pound linebacker played on a 5-4 team. He'll move to strong safety at SMU, a position his coach said suits him better.

"It will be easy and natural for him (to move to defensive back)," Harrell said. "He has the speed to play back there and, when he needs to make a tackle, he can definitely do that."

Neill said he plans to major in sports medicine and that his main goal is to "get as much playing time as I can. And, of course, keep my grades up.

"It's a joy for me to see hard work and dedication pay off like this," Harrell said. "Here's a young man that put a lot of years of hard work into it and this is his reward — a chance to play and a chance to get a good education."

Bulls K-O Magic; but not Lakers

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Call it a health hex, or just a jinx. Whatever, the best place to find the NBA's top players these days is in a hospital.

Two more All-Stars went down Sunday — Magic Johnson was knocked unconscious and Bernard King left with sudden breathing problems.

Neither problem was diagnosed as serious. But they added to an ever-growing list of stars who have been struck this season — Larry Bird, Isiah Thomas and Akeem Olajuwon are still out, Charles Barkley and James Worthy recently returned and Patrick Ewing missed his last game because of Johnson's injury, though, was the most frightening. He tripped over teammate Terry Teagle as he dropped back to defend against a fast break, hit his skull on the court and then was accidentally kicked in the head by Chicago's Horace Grant.

Johnson briefly lost consciousness and stayed on The Forum floor for about five minutes. He eventually walked to the locker room and was taken to a hospital for an overnight stay.

"It was a very scary moment," said Michael Jordan, Johnson's good friend. "At moments like that, you think about him as a person first and forget about the FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) -The No. 2 Razorbacks may have beat Rice 100-87 on Saturday, but nobody seemed to be pleased with it, especially with No. 1 Nevada-Las Vegas looming.

Lee Mayberry said there was never any doubt Arkansas (21-1, 8-0 SWC) would beat Southwest Conference foe Rice (8-11; 3-6); but "It was just how we won it. We've got to finish a team off. We can't play Fresno State. like this against a better team, especially on the road week, she sparked a struggling Howard offense with 13 first half points.

She's basically a starter, but has come off the bench the last few games because of back problems and the flu. "I kind of like coming off the bench," she said. "It gives me a chance to look at us and them, and the position I have to fill. Starting doesn't matter . . . as long as

Howard coach Royce Chadwick said he knew Williams was good, but her play this year has surprised him. "I never thought she'd be as good of an all-around player as she is today," said Chadwick.

Cindy is a pure scorer. When she feels the heat she'll pump harder. She'll say, 'It's time for me to do something.' Julie (Lempea, Howard guard) is a good shooter. You tell her to go out and shoot it; you tell Cindy to go out and score. She's the kind that can stick it in your face and score."

With only three sophomores on the team, Williams said the leadership role hasn't been hard, and sophomore teammate Kim Robinson has been a big help with that.

'Last year I was depending on others and just following. This year it was time for me to do something and lead others. I really try to be a leader wherever I go, even if it's with older people, or people who have less experience than me

"Kim has inspired me a lot. She can do a lot of things, no matter what part of the floor she's at. I try to play like her; come up to her standards."

Coach Chadwick said his team has to keep everything in perspective. "We have to think about each game as a chance to move up in the standings. We just have to take care of our business," he said.

Following the Lady Hawks game at 6 p.m., the No. 5 Hawks will play Clarendon at 8

Singer entertains Cubans

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) - Four Cuban refugees found a slice of Margaritaville along with probable freedom when they landed at singer Jimmy Buffett's waterfront home in an 18-foot boat, the U.S. Coast Guard said.

Buffett spotted the two men and two women Wednesday and called police.

Buffett, who sings of living on sponge cake and watching the sun bake in the tune he popularized, offered the refugees souvenirs and refreshments.

"He came out and gave them all tapes and gave them all drinks," DENNIS THE MENACE

JIMMY BUFFETT RON HOWARD Coast Guard Lt. Tom Criman said in Key West,

Howard films safety spot

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) -Actor and film director Ron Howard has joined a gun safety campaign organized by a woman whose 12-year-old son was fatally shot while playing with a loaded handgun with a friend.

'One minute of your time could mean a lifetime to your children," Howard said in a spot he filmed last week. Howard urged parents who own handguns to keep them unloaded and locked up

The spot will air in Connecticut and possibly around the country, said Susan Kenney, who founded Gun Responsibility in Every Family, or GRIEF, after her son David was killed in June 1989.

A 12-year-old player on a Babe Ruth League baseball team Howard coached in California was killed in similar circumstances.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1991 HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE

NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Make a firm commitment to someone and then honor it. You will win both new financial rewards and your colleagues' respect. Your ability to act independently will be enhanced by the actions others take in midsummer. Educational activities open the door to a rare opportunity next September. U.S.-Iraqi forces exchange salvos

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) U.S. and Iraqi forces today traded fire across the desert frontier, and Iran's president made a surprise offer to hold direct talks with both Iraq and the United States to try to end the Persian Gulf War.

Allied warplanes, meanwhile, pounded Baghdad before dawn today. Witnesses said communication centers, government offices and industrial installations were hit — some of them for the second and third times since the war began nearly three weeks ago.

U.S. officials disclosed today that the battleship USS Missouri had used its 16-inch guns in action for the first time since the Korean War, targeting prefabricated concrete bunkers that the Iragis were moving into place in Kuwait.

Meanwhile, the newspaper of Iraq's ruling party boasted that the Baghdad government would drag the allies into a drawn-out ground war by staging more attacks like last week's Iraqi push into the Saudi town of Khafji.

"Combat on the Saudi periphery should be based on the hit-and-run tactic formulated by our ancestors," the newspaper Al-

The military described it as the first such attack on American miltary personnel in Saudi Arabia.

The new diplomatic effort by Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani was reported by Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency. County employees show support for U.S. troops

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ Staff Writer

Martin County employees colored flags and tied yellow ribbons as part of a courthouse contest last Thursday to show support for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf

County treasurer secretary Peggy Creech came up with the idea while thinking about a way to show support for soldiers participating in Operation Desert

"I was sitting at my desk and this idea came to mind. I went to Bob Deavenport and told him that I was having a 'seizure of patroitism,' " Creech said. "So, we distributed copies of flags and told the employees we were having a coloring contest."

The idea was overwhelmingly accepted by the participants, according to Creech. "I passed out 34 flags and 30 were entered. Even three prisoners colored flags," she said.

Yellow ribbons were tied around the courthouse lawn for every county resident serving in the Gulf.

'This yellow ribbon idea came from Connie Hernandez. The idea was to place a name of one of our boys and tie it around the lawn trees," Creech explained.

WASHINGTON (AP) — interests. Members of Congress who see peril, not promise, in a free trade necessarily opposed to freer trade agreement with Mexico are gear- with Mexico, they favor a go-slow ing up to sidetrack the approach. They'll have their first; negotiations.

Supporters, who acknowledge there will be winners and losers when trade barriers along the 2,000-mile U.S.-Mexico border come tumbling down, are also girding for a tough fight as Congress enters a crucial point on the timetable for free trade negotiations.

For supporters like Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, there's the prospect of Corpus Christi and San Antonio becoming world trade centers and impoverished Texas border cities becoming major distribution hubs. For opponents, there's the fear of massive job losses to cheaper Mexican labor.

The Bush administration and U.S.-Mexico free trade supporters in Congress favor keeping the negotiations on the "fast track," which would culminate in an agreement that could not be amended by

While opponents say they're not chance to knock negotiations off the fast track by mid to late February, when a vote by either the House Ways and Means Committee or the Senate Finance Committee could kill the agreement.

Opponents have another shot at; the agreement this spring, when either the House or Senate could vote against extending the Bush administration's authority to negotiate non-amendable bilateral trade arrangements through June

'It is a precarious process and what that means is that there will have to be an all-out effort, a lot of vigilance at every step of the way if we are to keep the fast-track pro-

Reorganization to top council meeting agenda

By PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, Inc.

LUBBOCK — A reorganization of the Producer Steering Committee and consideration of tentative policy positions to direct activities of the National Cotton Council will top the list of items to be dicussed at the upcoming NCC annual meeting in Los Angeles Feb. 10-12.

In addition, new NCC officers will be elected at the general session and several committees will meet beforehand, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Among the committees to meet early are the Producer Steering Committee and the Boll Weevil Action Committee on Feb. 8. Johnson adds that he will present a short overview of the 1990 boll weevil diapause program conducted on this conflict and our interest is in getting Iraq out of Kuwait," Fitzwater said in Washington. The Iranian peace bid came one day after Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said only an Iraqi pullout from Kuwait could end the fighting now. "We are not interested in a promise or a pledge or a commit-ment to withdraw from Kuwait," he said Sunday on ABC Iran says it is neutral in the war.

But the allies were puzzled when Iraqi aircraft began seeking refuge in Iran — 89 by allied count. Iran has said the planes will be impounded until the war's end; the United States has said it will take the Tehran government at its word. U.S. commanders have said the Iraqi planes will be shot down if they try to leave Iran.

In today's clashes along the battle front in northern Saudi Arabia, U.S. Marines lobbed artillery shells at Iraqi targets in Kuwait and used air power to blast an Iraqi rocket battery after it opened fire on allied positions, Marine officials said. No U.S. casualties were reported.

The Marines said neither side's ground forces breached the border in today's skirmishes. Six days ago. Iraq set off the first major ground fighting of the war with a push into Saudi Arabia. In the larger of today's engagements, a battalion-sized Marine task force hurled 155mm artillery fire at Iraqi ground radar and infantry positions near the Umm Gudair oil field in southwestern Kuwait. There was no immediate word on damage to the Iraqi installations. Earlier today, Marine light armored vehicles exchanged cannon and small arms fire with Iraqi troops in Kuwait, Marine officials said. No casualties were reported. The Iraqi rocket site, whose location was not disclosed, was destroyed with bombs dropped by two FA-18 fighter-bombers, the officers said.

The allied air strikes on Baghdad began after midnight and cotinued for five hours, sending residents fleeing to shelters, AP correspondent Salah Nasrawi reported from the Iraqi capital. Anti-aircraft guns opened fire, and explosions could be heard. There was no immediate word on casualties or damage.
