Firefighters' safety video airs Thursday

The Big Spring Professional Firefighters Association will sponsor a fire safety video on Big Spring Cable TV Channel 8 Thursday at 5:30 p.m.

The video, about 20 minutes in length, addresses recommendations from various agencies and organizations about manning of fire trucks. The International Association of Fire Fighters produced the educational message, which includes information from the U.S. Fire Administration concerning recommended staffing for fire departments:

State honors slain Marine

AUSTIN (AP) - A young Marine following in his family's military tradition was honored by the state Senate after becoming the first Texan killed in combat in the Persian Gulf war.

A resolution adopted by the Senate on Tuesday said every Texan "feels the grievous loss of this brave young man"— Lance Cpl. Daniel Walker, 20.

Walker grew up in Whitehouse and attended schools there and in Nacogdoches, according to resolution by Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall.

By enlisting in the Marines in 1988, Walker was following in a family tradition of military service that included his father and both grandfathers, the resolution said.

"Friends and relatives have found consolation knowing that Daniel died bravely in a noble cause, doing what he believed in," it said. Lyon said, "I would just ask that we would pray that ... hopefully there will be very few of these young men or women to die in this war and that this war is over as quickly as possible." The Senate observed a moment of silence and adjourned in Walker's memory.

Iraqi planes shot down as they try to flee country

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) U.S. jet fighters shot down four Iraqi warplanes in the punishing air war on Iraq, allied officials said today. Iraq said 150 people died in a single air attack on a southern city.

The Iraqi fighters — among the best in Saddam Hussein's air force - were ambushed as they tried to flee to Iran. Three other Iraqi warplanes made it across the

Also today, a Marine amphibious assault force was moving into place in the Persian Gulf. But allied commanders say any ground war to retake Kuwait will probably follow still more air attacks on Iraqi forces.

Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of Operation Desert Storm, said his greatest concern in the Persian Gulf War is that the Iraqis are "capable of the most heinous acts.'

"They have demonstrated that they have absolutely no value on human life," Schwarzkopf said in an interview broadcast today on "CBS This Morning." "It's sort of the mad dog syndrome. . . In a mad dog there is no predictability."

U.S. Air Force fighter jets took out two Iraqi MiG-21s and two SU-25 fighter bombers as they tried to escape to Iran, U.S. military officials said in Riyadh.

Col. Ahmed al-Robayan, the Saudi military spokesman, con-firmed the four jets were shot down, apparently in the past 24 hours. He said three other Iraqi where more than 110 of Iraq's best • WAR page 8-A

In Baghdad, meanwhile, officials said the allies carried out 263 air raids and missile attacks overnight, including intensive bombing of residential areas:

The Iraqis said that in the southern Iraqi city of Nassariyah, about 150 people — including 35 children — were killed by the air assault. Many homes were reported hit.

It was the highest death toll reported by Iraq from a single raid in the Persian Gulf War.

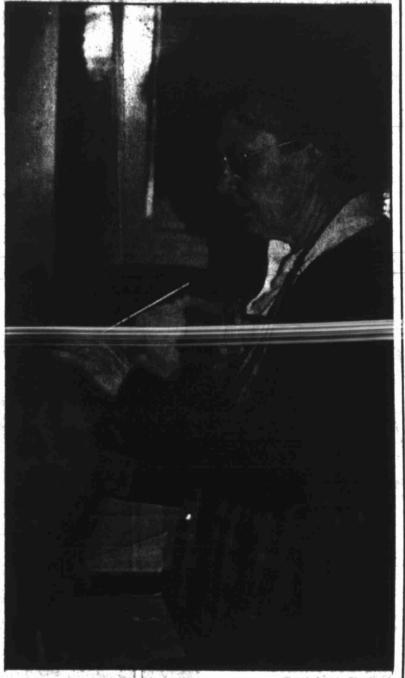

Travelers arriving in Baghdad from Nassariyah reported the city came under intensive bombardment Tuesday night. They said military and industrial targets were hit.

The Iraqi government daily Al-Thawra reported today that 349 people had been killed in the southern port city of Basra since the allied raids began. It was not clear how the latest casualty reports would alter the previously amounced civilian death toll of 428.

Prison to open next week

Staff Writer

The Big Spring Correction Center II, located at the Big Spring McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark, will house inmates beginning early next week, officials said.

If a proposal submitted by the management company is accepted by the Federal Bureau of Prisons, the city-owned facility may eventually become a medical screening facility for other prisons.

Chuck Haugh, chief executive officer for Mid-Tex Detentions inc., the prison management company, said he has filed a proposal with the Federal Bureau to perform the medical screening process for in-mates sentenced to prisons in the region. The Correction Center II will operate on a contract from the bureau to receive inmates.

"This (medical screening) was a need the bureau has, and we just thought we could do it here, Haugh said.

"We would house 40 to 50 additional inmates (for about one week). We would perform the basic intake medical, lab and dental screening. Then we'd tell the bureau if (the inmate) could go to one type prison or another.'

Most inmates coming into contract facilities, Haugh explained, are from the West Coast and very little background information is available to the prison system.

If the proposal is accepted, the BSCC II would become a "central intake" facility to ship inmates to other contract prisons.

The idea, "has tremendous ossibilities," said City Manager Hal Boyd, citing a boost to the local economy from inmate medical ex-• PRISON page 8-A

Desert Storm flooding the marketplaces

South Africans say country is changing

Stan and Pat Smith, residents of South Africa visiting Big Spring, say they are not sure what to expect when they return home. The two spent several days in Big Spring as guests of Rotary International, staying at the home of members Lee and Janet George. 'We won't see a marked change when we return," Mr. Smith said, referring to President F.W. de Klerk's vow to repeal laws enforcing apartheid. "Our home life is very much like what we've experienced in America," Mrs. Smith said. Blacks and whites walk down the same streets. It isn't as if they say, You walk down this street and you walk down that street.' ' There is a complete mixing, as

Unforeseen problems threaten Fina tax abatement

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

An unforeseen snag voids at least one-third of recently approved tax abatements for $15.6 million in planned improvements by Fina Oil and Chemical Co. At stake is an additional $640,000 in taxes over the 30-year project. Three taxing entities that approved the tax abatement proposal Dec. 31 were all required to pass it at the same abatement levels, according to an amendment to the 1981 Property Redevelopment and Tax Abatement Act.

But Howard County Commissioners declined to approved $5.5 million for three improvement projects, citing construction start dates in 1989, while the boards of trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District and Howard College approved the full abatement for all eight projects. "The rule is, we cannot start a construction project until after the abatement," said Fina Plant Manager Jeff Morris.

However, Morris said, none of the construction for the projects was begun in 1989. There was a miscommunication in listing the start dates in the abatement proposal, he said. The dates are actually when the money for each project was approved.

"That's not the date the work started. That's when the confirmation came in," said Morris, who recently has been meeting individually with representatives

Based on our legal interpretation," he said, "all the projects are

Officials have also since learned of the amended law requiring that a tax abatement be approved at the same level by all taxing districts. "None of us were aware of it,"

Morris said. Section 312.402 of the Abatement Act states, "A tax abatement agreement made by a county has the same effect on school districts from all three taxing entities. and other taxing units in which the property subject to the agreement is located." But a municipality has recedent over a county, according to section 312.206.

In light of the new information, Commissioners Court will now have to reconsider the abatement proposal, said Precinct 3 Commissioner Bill Crooker, who was on last year's abatement review committee, made up of two represenatives from each taxing

A boy known only as 7-yearold Eddie sent the "monster chaser," a small creature made of green yarn to a soldier stationed in Saudi Arabia because he had used the creature for years to keep monsters out of his bedroom at

It wound up with Travis Smith, a U.S. Army Specialist with the 82nd Airborne not long after Smith was deployed to Saudi Arabia in August.

Smith, 23, the son of Fran and Clyde Smith of Port Lavaca, only about 30 miles from Victoria, kept the "monster chaser" for a time and then sent it back home to his mother.

"Don't throw this away, Mom," Smith said in a letter. "I'm sending it home to keep the monsters off you. I've been carrying it in my pocket and so far it's worked.

Census report: quarter of population Hispanic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Every minority group in Texas grew faster than the state's white population in the 1980s, according to a Census Bureau report that says one in every four Texans is Hispanic.

Some of the implications of these numbers are that they suggest minorities will play a much more important part in Texas' economic and social and political future," said Steve Murdock, chief demographer for the Texas State Data Center.

"They suggest as well that the need to provide additional socioeconomic opportunities will continue to be an important factor for the state in coming decades," Murdock said from Texas A&M, where he is also a professor of rural sociology.

While all minority groups in Texas grew faster than the white population over the past decade, only the white and black populations grew at a slower pace than the state's overall growth rate of 19 percent.

Murdock said the numbers suggest that predictions of Texas ecoming more than 50 percent minority in the first part of the next century will become reality.

More tax money to go to S&L's

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Banking Committee yesterday authorized an additional $30 billion in taxpayer funds to continue closing failed savings and loan institutions.

The money was approved by voice vote. The Bush administration says the Resolution Trust Corporation, which is managing the S&L bailout, will have to cease operations by the end of the month unless it gets the new cash

Congress voted $50 billion for the bailout in August 1989 while authorizing the corporation to borrow additional funds to buy

Rebels say Americans shot to end their misery

(AP) — Guerrillas under arrest by their own forces for killing two U.S. soldiers shot down over El Salvador said they did so to spare them painful deaths from their injuries, a human rights worker

One of the Americans had been critically injured in the crash of their helicopter; the other had been shot and wounded just after the crash when he disobeyed an order to put his hands up, the guerrillas told Maria Julia Hernandez, director of the Roman Catholic Church's Legal Aid office.

Unable to find transportation to get the wounded Americans to the nearest village, the rebels killed them, Ms. Hernandez said.

She spoke with Aparicio and Porfirio, pseudonyms of the two guerrillas accused in the case, in rebelheld territory in northeastern El Salvador on Sunday and related the conversations to foreign journalists on Tuesday.

The rebels' account is corroborated by other guerrillas and has interviewed, Ms. Hernandez said.

rebels were part of a squa that shot down a U.S. Huey guerrillas. military helicopter on Jan. 2 near Lolotique in eastern El Salvador. The pilot, Warrant Officer Daniel Scott, was killed in the crash. Lt. Col. David Pickett and Pvt. Ernest Dawson survived.

The shootings of the survivors were cited as one of the reasons for President Bush's restoration last month of $42.5 million in U.S. military aid to El Salvador that Congress had cut in October.

The rebel army, the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador has said it will try the two guerrillas. Ms. Hernandez said they are being held under armed guard in a peasant's house.

Ms. Hernandez said Porfirio told her an apparently dazed crewmen wearing a helmet, Pickett, was walking among the wreckage when he reached the crash site

The guerrillas' account, as relayed by Ms. Hernandez, said the following then occurred:

Shouting "Surrender!" to the man in Spanish, Porfirio held up his arms to indicate what he should do. Instead, the soldier crouched.

Fearing he was retrieving one of the aircraft's machine guns, Porfirio fired a burst from his rifle, wounding Pickett in the abdomen.

The other survivor, Dawson, had critical injuries from the crash. Both survivors and Scott's body were dragged from the aircraft when squad commander Aparicio and other members arrived. The wreckage was then burned.

A guerrilla sent to the nearest village to look for transportation for the wounded men found none.

Because the men were in severe pain, Aparicio then decided to apply the coups de grace. Porfirio carried out the order, according to the U.N. wants sanctions to continue

UNITED NATIONS (AP) -The United Nations antiapartheid committee has urged the European Community and all nations to keep economic sanctions on South Africa until it adopts a new constitution.

On Monday, European Community foreign ministers said they planned to scrap sanctions as soon as South Africa's government formally asks Parliament to repeal key apartheid laws.

South African President F.W. de Klerk announced that intention on Friday.

The U.N. Special Committee Against Apartheid said on Tuesday that the EC's plans were racial segregation.

The committee's chairman. Nigerian Ambassador Ibrahim A Gambari, said sanctions should be maintained to keep bargaining pressure on Pretoria until the nation adopts a constitution that guarantees racial equality

Gambari said he was concerned that South Africa could "backslide" on its reforms if it is rewarded too soon.

However, he welcomed de Klerk's plans to do away with the underpinnings of apartheid, South Africa's system of legalized

Greek military plane is missing

AHILIO, Greece (AP) — Hun- in another area." dreds of police and civilians joined military units today in searching for a Greek Air Force transport plane that vanished with 56 airmen on board.

The C-130 Hercules was lost from radar screens in bad weather Tuesday somewhere near this tiny fishing village 150 miles northeast of Athens

"The terrain is not wild or we would have found it if it was here," Ioannis Lepidis, a deputy police chief from the nearby city of Lamia, told The Associated

A marine colonel who spoke on condition of anonymity said the

The air force said the plane was on a routine 190-mile flight from Athens to the Nea Ankhialos air base near Volos in central Greece when it disappeared.

It was carrying five crewmen, six officers, six noncommissioned officers and 39 conscripts who were members of Nea Ankhialos' honor guard, officials said

Prime Minister Constantine Mitsotakis said Tuesday that the government "isn't ruling anything out" in investigating the cause of the crash, including the plane was "either in the water or possibility of a terrorist attack.

Troops will try to restore order

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) Lebanese troops entered south Lebanon today, hoping to assert control for the first time in 16 years over an area used by Palestinian guerrillas for attacks

The latest shelling duel between Israeli and Palestinian gunners subsided as about 1,000 troops in 38 tanks, trucks and armored personnel carriers drove along the coastal highway from Beirut into the southern city of Sidon.

The force deployed at a seaside oil refinery, 30 miles south of Beirut. Its commander, Col. Qassem Siblini, said it would start fanning out across the hills of the Apple Province on Thursday, seeking to fulfill a directive to extend the government's authority and protect civilians:

"In practice for life" Uterine fibroids are benign tumors of varying size composed of muscle cells. These non-cancerous tumors are found in approximately 20% of women over 35 and can be found in all age groups. They can be located inside the uterine cavity, within the muscle wall of the uterus, or on the external uterine surface.

The mere presence of fibroids does not require treatment in all cases unless they are extremely large, cause heavy bleeding and anemia, or interfere with the patient's ability to conceive or carry a pregnancy to term. Although hysterectomy is sometimes indicated for the treatment of fibroids, other more conservative measures are sometimes possible. A procedure called myomectomy removes only the uterine tumors, without hysterectomy, and can sometimes be performed with Bandaid Surgery. Most women with heavy bleeding usually have fibroids inside the uterine cavity which can be removed using a Same Day Surgery procedure called hysteroscopic resection.

Herald opinion

Effort needed to beat bigotry

South Africa's move toward racial equality has taken giant steps forward with President F.W. DeKlerk's call for the repeal of the land acts, which restrict black ownership to less than 14 percent of South Africa's land; the population registration act, which legally classifies all South Africans by race at birth, and the group areas act, which enforces residential segregation.

Strong opposition is expected to reforms, but even so, eventual passage seem inevitable.

With 5 million whites and 30 million blacks in South Africa, the political aspects of acheiving racial equality are very different from those the United States faced a few decades ago. An entrenched minority population has for many years been unwilling to share the privleges of power in South Africa. But world opinion, and perhaps 25 years of economic sanctions, are slowly forcing changes.

Apartheid, said recent visitors to Big Spring, exists everywhere, but in South Africa it is the law.

We disagree. Bigotry exists, undeniably, everywhere. But so do the concepts of freedom, justice, democracy. Citizens of the United States, while not totally free of bigotry, have taken positive action to ensure that no legal barriers exist to racial equality for all.

It is never easy to examine one's prejudices and reject them. It was not easy for whites in the Untied States in the '60s and it will not be easy for South Africa in the

It is important that the white population is finally making an effort to end discrimination in that country. The U.S. should do what it can to support deKlerk and others who are in the forefront of the effort. We should, each of us, do what we can to set the best example of liberty and equality for all, as a demonstration that it does work.

"Give me the liberty to know, to utter, to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties."

Nothing will be gained by executing Giarratano

RICHMOND Va. - The Comkill Joe Giarratano. Gov. Doug Wilder could yet intervene, but without a grant of clemency Giarratano will go to the electric chair on Feb. 22. It is a terrible thing that is about to be done

I have written of this deeply troubling case several times before. The story goes back almost 12 years, to the night of Feb. 5, 1979, when 21-year-old Joe Giarratano arrived at the bus station in Jacksonville. Fla. He walk ed up to Deputy Sheriff Charles Wells and said that he had killed two women in Norfolk, Va. He wanted to turn himself in

That set in motion a chain of events. The Florida police took a confession. In Virginia he signed three other confessions. In several key respects the confessions were contradictory and inconsistent. On May 22, 1979, at the close of a oneday bench trial. Joe was found guilty of murdering Barbara Kline and her daughter Michelle. In August he was sentenced to death. Now his legal recourses have run out. The executioner awaits

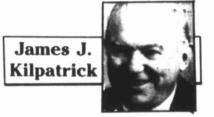

Under the law, the Commonwealth had to prove Joe's guilt "beyond a reasonable doubt." I have spent hours brooding over the record. I am filled with reasonable doubts.

Other than the confessions, the evidence was singularly unconvincing. There was a pubic hair that might, or might not, have belonged to the defendant. There was a fleck of blood on his boot that might, or might not, have come from Barbara Kline. Police never found a weapon.

What of the confessions? They have to be considered in context. Joe Giarratano in 1979 was a worthless drifter. A presentence report found that he had begun taking drugs as a 10-year-old boy in a sordid household. In his teens he experimented with LSD, gluesniffing and marijuana. He went on to cocaine, speed, Quaaludes, Demerol, morphine and Dilaudid. He drank heavily. Twelve years ago he was a drug addict and an alcoholic, suicidally depressed. He begged the trial judge to "end my pain" by imposing a death sentence. He had attempted suicide in 1973 and again in 1977. At the time of his arrest he tried again to kill himself.

Were the confessions reliable? A small fund was raised to bring J.A.C. MacKeith and Gisli Gudjonsson from London to Virginia in March of last year. Dr. MacKeith ranks among the foremost forensic psychiatrists in the world. In the field of criminal clinical psychology, Dr. Gudjonsson is as eminent.

They questioned Giarratano for 12 hours. In the prisoner's confused and suicidal condition at the time of the crime, he accepted "plausible scenarios provided by other people." He believed he was guilty.

Dr. MacKeith: "I conclude that no confidence can be placed in the reliability of Mr. Giarratano's pretrial self-incriminating statements.

Dr. Gudjonsson: "It is unsafe and unsatisfactory to rely on the incriminating statements he made to the police on Feb. 6 and 8,

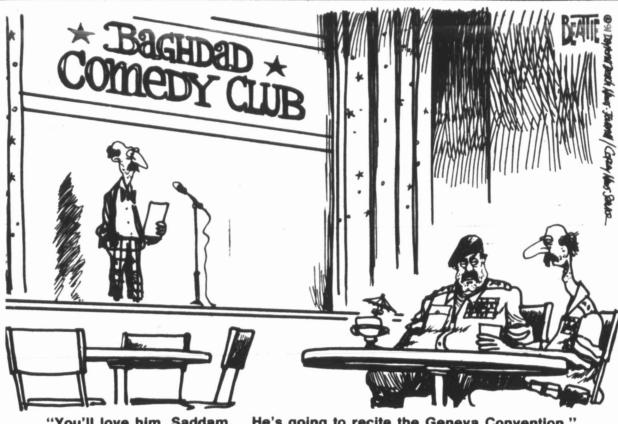

A great many things have happened since that time. During the first three or four years that Joe was in prison, he was a sorry specimen of humanity. Then, as the effects of drugs and alcohol wore off, something better emerged. A truly saintly woman, Marie Deans of the Virginia Coalition on Jails and Prisons, befriended him.

Joe began to develop some sense of self-esteem. He plunged into the study of law, so successfully that his name now appears on a leading Supreme Court case having to do with the right to counsel in capital cases. Dr. MacKeith found a "dramatic, significant" change in his mental

Before imposing sentence, the Norfolk trial court heard evidence of both mitigating and aggravating circumstances. The mitigating factors, having to do with Joe's boyhood and his later addictions, were of no account. These factors might explain; they could not excuse.

A single aggravating factor was decisive. Joe's bad record as a juvenile, coupled with his sullen behavior in court, created "a probability that the defendant would commit criminal acts of violence that would constitute a continuing, serious threat to society.

Every psychiatrist and psychologist who has examined Joe Giarratano in recent years has concluded that this "serious threat" no longer exists. Why, then I would ask the governor. why kill him now? What useful purposes would thereby be served? I have tried but I cannot think of a single one.

"You'll love him, Saddam. He's going to recite the Geneva Convention."

Tests are a dubious standard

By BILL AYRES City Editor

Earlier in the school year Texas students faced a new battery of tests, referred to as the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills.

The purpose of the TAAS test is to determine the educational level Texas school children have reached. The test is given to students in the third, fifth, seventh, ninth and 11th grades. In addition, it is used as an exit test for high school seniors

I remember that, a few years ago when I was in grade school, we were subjected to a battery of test. But nothing like the kinds or the number students face today. You have to remember, when I was in grade school, slide rules were still king

Our test was given to determine where our interests might lie. It wasn't an IQ test, per se. It was more a skills test Having always enjoyed reading,

I did fairly well in the literature section. But then everything changed.

The next section caused a total mental lock-down.

Here was question after question asking the same thing, "If 'x' does this, and 'y' does that, what tand math better than the rest of us, that sounds a little like algebra.

But, here's the catch. To illustrate each of the questions, clever little drawings greeted the befuddled student. One illustration depicted several pulleys and belts, all connected at

Or, we had to decide on which side of a box the shaded side would be. The box would be shown as if someone had cut it apart. There would be a row of four squares to represent the sides and a single square attached above and below the row for the top and bottom. So, the student had to reassemble the block in his mind to discover where the shaded side would be Another set of illustrations was similar to the boxes, but represented houses. I don't remember what we had to determine on that set. I probably didn't care either.

My favorite was a set of gears We had to look at the direction one was turning and decide how the one on the end or near the end

Obviously I am not mechanically inclined, which my test scores made painfully evident. In fact, after the results came back, the school counselor advised I stay away from hand tools to prevent bodily injury.

Unlike most kids, I listened to the advice and stayed away from anything mechanical as much as possible. While most of my friends were crawling under and into cars, trying to make them run faster, I was content just to watch. And I didn't get dirty either, at least, not until I decided to operate my own business.

Then I was amazed how deeply repairs cut into one's profit margin. And after watching some of the repairs being made, l realized I could do them and save some money So, casting all my fears aside, I picked up a screwdriver one after noon and repaired a switch that had been acting up. Soon I was replacing broken faucets and even tackling some minor equipment repair. Next came small appliances. You wouldn't believe how many parts there are in a Well, some repairs are best left to the experts and probably less expensive when the repairman doesn't have to fix what you just But, to get back to testing. Are tests really an indication of what a student is capable of learning? And are they the yardstick by which we want him to be measured?

There have been numerous stories about the poor quality of education in America, but I'm not sure developing more tests is the right answer.

Who knows, maybe someone with the right type of computer will develop a test to test the test. Could be interesting

Ultimate test of courage

The television reporter was talking to a few good kid-Marines in Saudi Arabia as The Deadline

What an appropriate term I was thinking. Dead-line

One young man had this to say: "I've never had a bullet fired at me, and have never fired at anyone else. I've been through training, but I've never been in the real thing.

"I just hope when it all starts I'll be able to do my job and be just as ready to die as the Iraqi soldier I'm fighting.

What the young man was saying was he hoped when the shooting starts he wouldn't be a coward How many times I've thought that myself. Combat must be the ultimate test of courage, the ultimate gut check Facing that test, would I scream and cry and run the other way? Or would I stand and fight? A physical problem kept me out of Vietnam, and I'm too old for the Persian Gulf. I'm not complaining, but I'll never know the Still that question lingers. Bombs exploding around me. Bullets whizzing through the air Noise. Blood. Death. Hell. Could

I have hacked it? I know a man who is a few years older than I. I consider him to be one of the strongest individuals I've ever met

I'm seen him handle countless adversities with amazing courage. He remains calm in the midst of madness. His is always the voice of reason. If ever I had to follow someone into battle. I would want it to be him.

But he told me this once: "I really wanted a career in the service. I went into the Army out of college, a few years before

Korea. 'But when my father died, I had to leave and go back home to times since I've wondered if I'd take care of the family. A million stayed in and had been sent to Korea how I would have handled "Until you've been in combat, you'll never know the limits of your courage. I might have just turned tail and run. So I sit and watch that television and see and hear those kids. I think about my own father. He was in World War II and then went back to Korea. He passed the test. In two wars. I have his Silver Star and his Purple Heart framed on my wall as proof. But can courage be passed on genetically? I've gone into two heart surgeries without screaming and crying and kicking. That's a big deal? Nobody was trying to kill me. They were trying to save my life. All this "support for our boys" is a nice thing. Tie your yellow ribbons and wave your flags. But also know and appreciate and pray that deep in hundreds of thousands of minds, souls and hearts in that godforsaken desert that unsettling question is repeating itself over and over

How will I handle it when real bullets are aimed at me? The strain must be overwhelming the anxiety a mountain.

May God help them all. Wrestling with such a hideous unknown must be a hell all its own. Copyright 1991 by Cowles Syndicate,

Bon Appetit rates food trends

NEW YORK, N.Y. (AP) - BonAppetit magazine has compiled a list of "Top 10" food and entertaining trends for 1991. According to a poll of Bon Appetit's editors, Americans in 1991 will be enjoying: • Organic vegetables and wines, for environmental and health

• Potluck dinners, including upscale takeout foods:

 Pacific Rim cooking; Sandwiches with barbecued

 Vegetarian entrees "that don't seem vegetarian";

Salmon, as representative of

"hearty healthy" cuisine;

 Gourmet baby food; • Semifreddo, an Italian soft ice cream dessert;

 Domestic sparkling wines; Sunflowers as a motif for tableware and in centerpiece arrangements. "Food, wine and entertaining trends always tend to reflect developments in society in general," says Barbara Fairchild, Bon Appetit's executive editor.

"The current mood of economic uncertainty, the growing concern over the environment, the continued preoccupation with health, and even a new baby boom will all have an impact on those trends in 1991," Fairchild says.

The result, say Bon Appetit's editors, will be an increase in home entertaining, with the almost stylized elegance of the '80s giving way to practical concerns — and a more relaxed attitude.

French champagne will lose ground to domestic sparklers whose improved quality and moderate price make them a popular alternative for entertaining situations - particularly in champagne cocktails. Busy, price-conscious cooks will elevate the potluck dinner to a new level, and mix home-cooked recipes with upscale takeout, they

Home cooks will serve vegetarian entrees "that don't seem vegetarian." Salmon, barley and other "heart healthy" dishes, as well as low-fat desserts and fruits like bananas, will also be

Finally, the editors say, gourmet baby food will be popular - a reflection of the recent rise in the birth rate in the United States.

and convenient to cook, it's not a low-fat meat. Most supermarkets offer lean and extralean ground beef, which contain less fat than the usual product. For meatballs, patties and meat loaf, buy the leanest ground beef you can afford. If you plan to crumble and cook the meat for use in casseroles or these sandwiches, buy regular ground beef and thoroughly drain the fat.

Former Stanton resident Stella Pierce and Fort Worth native Joy Newman have joined "Volunteers For Israel," a private organization based in New York, and will leave for Israel Feb. 10.

Florence Cohen, organization president, said there is a "desperate need for volunteers" to perform duties left vacant by Israeli military personnel called to active duty.

"There is a strong labor shortage. We sent 100 people Jan. 23, and we'll have another 150 go Feb. 10. We send people to Israel to work in certain facilities like hospitals, geriatrics, picking crops. We have -a factory that manufactures 9 plastic coveralls in case of a biological attack", she said.

"Our maintenance camps have packers that pack food, pharnaceuticals, do kitchen work. Our volunteers are doing civilian work to take the place of people in sensitive jobs (in the military) in Israel," Cohen said.

b Since beginning the organization in 1982, Cohen said 26,000 people worldwide have participated, ing cluding 14,000 from the United States.

"These are all volunteers, nobody gets paid. We work because we believe now Israel is not a victor but a victim. We take all people who have a desire to go to do something outstanding, and these g people should be applauded," she Cohen explained the only re-9 quirements for a volunteer are "a good strong back, good health and a desire to go." Currently the need is for volunteers to pick the crops on which many small communities base their financial security, she said. During the Lebanese war, 600 zi volunteers managed to bring in 95 no percent of the crop'.

-7 Patty Friedman, information n specialist at the Israeli Embassy in -r Washington D.C., said she's receivg ed many calls from volunteers at throughout the country who want to of "express a love for Israel and the accraziness of a country sitting unoi.provoked, that is being bombed by II that medman Hussein.

.9 She said several organizations send volunteers to Israel. Some might go as part of an exchange program to lend their skills and f training, or others might go to help * with a building project or work in the "kibbitzim

'Kibbitzim began in the late 18th century. It's a common type of settlement where the people own their homes and share - the income (from their crops) is part of a group. That's just one part of Israel's society, a small percen-" tage live in these," she explained.

Stella Pierce, right, and Joy Newman have joined Volunteers for Israel and will leave for Tel Aviv Feb. 10. The women will perform jobs vacated by the Israeli soldiers as a result of the war. The pair would also like to perform their country/western and gospel music for the Israelis and the American soldiers in Saudi Arabia.

Friedman said due to the war, tourism has dropped in Israel, and there is a need for volunteers to perform the less critical, nonsecurity jobs

Pierce and Newman said they are anxious to "lend comfort and support to the people of Israel." The two musicians met at a Fort Worth country and western show 12 years ago. Since then the pair has toured 43 states and two foreign countries, traveling 55,000 miles in the last year.

Pierce, in an interview from her sister's home in Stanton, said, "We're Christians who promote Israel. Israel is the only democracy, the only free country in the Middle East. We're not over there to convert people; we're over there to comfort them. To comfort those who mourn.

Pierce said she became sympathetic to the Israelis during a visit two years ago when she learned of the Holocaust. She said she doesn't remember learning in school about the concentration camps where the Jews were placed in during World War II.

Both women said they are not missionaries, but believe this is a debt they owe the Israelis. Newman said, "God put it in both of us, it purely had to come from God. We owe a debt to the Jews for their contributions to America in science, art and medicine. Israel is a land grant divinely given by God to the Jewish people, his chosen people."

Pierce said she believes Israel will only flourish if Jewish citizens control the country, and America is supported by God because America supports Israel.

"Joy and I were planning to go to Israel anyway, before the war, to show our solidarity with Israel. The land has never been productive without the Jews. The fact is it never flourished until they came in, made it liveable," said Pierce, who's family still performs gospel music at local churches.

Newman said she's not afraid to travel to the Middle East because, 'God put this desire within us and He'll keep us. This (the war) is a very spiritual matter. The politics and religion go hand in hand.

The women will fly to Tel Aviv, where they will receive their instructions and assignments. They have been fold they will wear military fatigues and boots during their six month volunteer service. "I can't visualize myself in fatigues and army boots, but if that is God's way, then I'll have God's protection. I just hope they offer one size fits Japan," she joked.

The women hope to use use their music to entertain the Israelis, and they have offered their entertainment to the troops in Saudi Arabia as well, they said

Piercing children's ears is a cruel form of child abuse

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: You hear and read so much about preventing child abuse, yet one of the most common and blatant forms of child abuse goes on daily without comment.

I refer to the practice of piercing the ears of infants and small children who have no say in the matter, which is a terrible thing to do to a child. I have walked past shops in malls where this is being done, and heard little girls screaming. Forcing children to have a hole punched through a tender part of their bodies is cruel and barbaric.

I've seen children not yet 3 or 4 with several earrings in each ear, with a hole for each earring! There is no doubt in my mind that a small child experiences a trauma from this abuse at the hands of the one who is supposed to love and protect them. Americans laugh at pictures of Africans with bones in their noses, but parents who inflict a similar (though lesser) disfigurement on their own children are no better. Please comment. -JAMES R. NEWBY, VAN BUREN, IND.

DEAR MR. NEWBY: I agree. I, too, am opposed to putting a hole in a child's ear. And yes, I am aware that in some cultures it is a traditionally accepted practice. But in my view, children should not be subjected to this until they are old enough to make that decision for themselves. (And please, dear readers, don't anybody bring up circumcision.)

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend surprised me with a diamond engagement ring for Christmas. It wasn't cheap by any means, but I hated it. Now the problem. I went to the jewelry store it came from and exchanged it for the kind I wanted — a solitaire.

I've been married before and I hated my first engagement ring, so this time I wanted one I really liked, so I got a solitaire. I love my boyfriend with all my heart, and I wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world, but I'm afraid I did. I could see the disappointment in his eyes when I told him I had exchanged my ring for a solitaire. He admitted he felt hurt, but he never brought the subject up

Traveling with cardiac patients

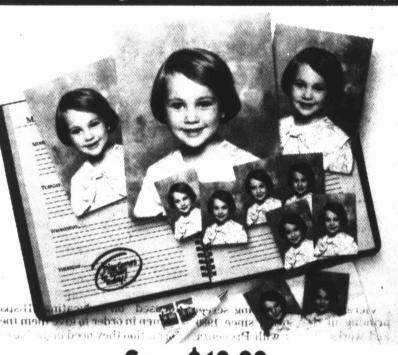

How should a person with cardiac problems prepare for travel by car, airplane or ship?

Travel is generally safe for people with heart disease — provided they stay within prescribed areas of activity, rest, medication and diet, according to Dr. Richard Levin, associate professor of medicine at New York University Medical Center.

An estimated 17 to 20 percent of all Americans suffer from some form of cardiovascular disease, ranging from hypertension to atherosclerosis. And heart disease remains the leading cause of death of Americans both at home and traveling abroad. Determining the advisability of travel for people with heart disease should be made on an individual basis.

Levin said people with heart disease should find out before leaving on a trip how to prevent or treat such common travel-related ailments as jet lag, motion sickness and, particularly, traveler's diarrhea. The discomfort of the ailment and the dehydration that can result may put stress on the cardiovascular system and cause dangerously elevated pulse

Interviews narrow field of applicants

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY - A list of 61 applicants for city manager has been narrowed to four following extensive interviews the past couple of weeks with seven applicants.

The Council may vote to hire a manager within the next two weeks, said Mayor Jim Baum. "I'm going to say the next two weeks and hopefully sooner," he said. "We are in the process now of contacting references.'

Applications for the job have been accepted since November when former City Manager Brenda Hammond abruptly announced her resignation.

Baum said, of the four finalists. two have topped the list for the vacated job. They are: Kenneth Martin, a general manager and director of the Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District Number 1; and Buddy Foster, chief financial officer for Pecos, a southwest Texas city of about 13,000 people. Colorado City has a population of about 5,000.

"Those are our top two. There are others that we can fall back on," Baum said. "The Council feels good about the two leading candidates. They have the qualifications that we're looking for."

In the next couple weeks, councilmembers will travel to the cities where the two applicants reside to do followup interviews, he said.

Kuykendall, city administrator for Gun Barrel City, a city of about 3,000 located southeast of Dallas; and Bud Moore, responsible for the public works department in Madisonville, a city of about 4,000 located between Dallas and Houston.

Not making the final list following interviews were: Kenneth Neal, city administrator of Knox, a city of about 2,000 north of Abilene; James H. Pratt, city manager of Ingleside, a city of 6,000 near Corpus Christi; and Charles E. Northington, director of finance for Mineral Wells, a city of about 15,000 west of Fort Worth.

Only one person from Mitchell County applied for the job; former County Judge S.L. "Mac" Morris. He was not interviewed by the Council.

A list of qualifications councilmembers were considering included experience in finance, personnel and city government. "Those were definitely three things that we were looking for," Baum said. "I really feel that we were fortunate to have the quality applicants that we've had." The Council also looked for a background in community involvement and expertise in minority relations, Baum said. "I really feel that the person we get won't have to stop and think: 'Am I being

Texans urged to make use of hidden resource

By BILL AYRES City Editor

Finding ways to make the maximum use of a hidden resource in Texas, Hispanic women, was the theme of a women's conference sponsored by the League of United Latin American Citizens Feb. 1, 2 and 3 in Lubbock. The event was coordinated by focused on educating. Hispanic women in order to give them the information they need in the business and political world.

Linda Chavez, LULAC deputy state director for women. Three Big Spring residents, Sylvia Polanco, Viola Barraza and Pat DeAnda were present at the conference. DeAnda said the conference

The keynote speaker at the conference was Marta Cotera, an Austin business woman who has written several books on the history of Hispanic women and is owner of Information Systems Development.

DeAnda said Cotera spoke about the importance of the role Hispanic women are playing in the development of the family and society. Several workshops were also offered during the second day of the higher education, economic development, census data and employment discrimination.

conference. These covered politics.

Gloria Salazar and Rhonda Romero discussed the importance of education and ways to encourage students to finish their education.

Debbie Matalone, director of the Texas Tech University Small Business Development Center. conducted the economic development workshop.

The need for more Hispanic women to get involved in local politics was addressed by Esther Sepeda, president of COMA-Lubbock Hispanic Chamber of Commerce. The problem of discrimination in the workplace was the focus of the workshop conducted by Betha Galan, an investigator with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in Dallas.

A report on the census was presented by Tomas Zuniga, a Census Bureau employee.

DeAnda said the conference strived to inform the women attending the importance of becoming more visible, vocal and active in the community.

Implementing the medical screening procedure would require hiring additional staff, Haugh said. Both medical personnel and support staff would be needed.

It may be several months before Mid-Tex knows if the proposal has been accepted, he added.

"I just proposed it last week when I was in San Antonio...(with) our Federal Bureau contact," he said. "We've got our hands full right now (preparing for the arrival of inmates), but we hope something like this can work out.

The prison will house about 385 prisoners, many of them illegal aliens.

With the addition of the BSCC II, the city-owned prison system has more than doubled in size. According to city information, jobs related to the prisons increased from 45 to 124 and the payroll now totals $2.5 million each year. Boyd said about $200,000 will be added to the city's general fund each year from prison operations. The Federal Bureau has committed to $7.8 million in inmate per diem at the two sites, according to

"It simply means that the Commissioners Court will need to reconsider the abatement proposal that was submitted to us," he said. "I feel like we should try to do that at our next Court meeting or the very near future." The Court meets on the second and fourth Monday of every months avec

Officials from the two school districts who sat on the abatement committee said they will wait for a decision from the county. They did not know if the boards of trustees would have to take another vote in the event the county does not approve the full abatement.

"If the county stays firm in their committment, then there's nothing the school districts can do," said Big Spring ISD Assistant Superintent Ron Plumee.

"I think we're just going to have to wait and see what the county does," said Howard College Vice President Terry Hanson.

Morris said they have been legally advised that a decision by the county is not binding on the school districts, according to the law. "It doesn't say who has to follow who," he said. "The school district and the college don't have to do what the county does." A disagreement would only result in a stalemate, he

The $5.5 million in improvements that the county declined to abate would reduce taxes for Fina by $160,000 if approved, Morris said. Since the county tax rate is 20 percent of the combined 1.6134 cents per $100 valuation of the three taxing districts, that means another $640,000 in approved abated taxes by the school districts is questionable.

Abatement for all eight projects would reduce taxes from $5 million to $3.35 million over 30 years, Morris said. Those projects include: an upgrade of plant controlling instruments, a revamp of processing to provide propane, improvements to the truck rack, a valve upgrade and a cryogenics project. The $6 million investment for a cryogenic unit is the most expensive and will aid in the recovery of propylene, used to manufacture plastic.

Projects not abated by commissioners involve tank farm imtion and a gasoline treater.

workers are expected to be employed and another 22 indirect jobs should be created, according to the abatement proposal.

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. — Franklin Lischke, 82, of Litchfield, Conn., model for illustrator Norman Rockwell's "No Swimming", poses next to the famous 1921 painting at the Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge last Thursday for a Saturday Evening Post cover.

Man recalls boyhood as a Rockwell model

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — At 82, his sparse hair neatly combed, his sturdy frame attired in sober gray flannel, Franklin sum of 50 cents an hour to pose. Lischke couldn't be more removed from the freckle-faced imp scampering away in Norman Rockwell's 1921 painting "No wimming.

But look a little closer at Lischke and you see a twinkle in the eye. an arch of the eyebrow and suddenly the young model for Rockwell's picture emerges, right down to the mouth pursed in a soundless "O" of scary delight.

"Yes, that's me," Lischke says, pointing to the picture he modeled for as a lad of 13. "I am the skinny guy, believe it or not.

HC going to regional; a confusing 6-2A race

By STEVE BELVIN Sports Editor

Basketball season is fast coming to a close and it's time to start thinking about the playoff picture in the Western Junior College Athletic Conference race. The top four teams from the league advance to the regional tournament in Waco.

In the women's race one thing is for sure — the Howard College Lady Hawks (7-1), Odessa College (7-1) and South Plains (7-1) are in. Frank Phillips (3-4) and New Mexico Junior College (2-5) are battling for the final spot with five games to go.

In the men's race it's pretty much the same — Howard (9-1), Odessa (7-3) and South Plains (10-0) are in with six games left. Frank Phillips (5-5) has the inside track at the number four spot, with New Mexico Junior College (4-5), Midland (4-5) and Western Texas (3-7) having outside shots

It's been a very trying year for Midland College coach Reggie Franklin.

Midland, 12-10 for the season, has grown accustomed to 20-win seasons and conference championships. Recently, however, Steve Green and his Howard Hawks have owned Midland College, beating the Chaparrals at home three straight years. Green's teams are 4-1 against Midland.

The frustration is showing at Midland. In a home game against New Mexico Junior College, Franklin was hit with two technical fouls in the latter part of the game, setting the tone for a 91-88 NMJC victory

The very next game on the road against Odessa, Franklin received three technicals and was booted out of the game, along with sophomore post player Carrol Boudreaux. The most suprising ejection in Odessa's 100-79 win was that of the MC mascot, Pepe the Chaparral.

The offense that triggered the referee's thumb was Pepe doing what he does at all the games he attends. During a timeout, Pepe approached the official and attempted to cause a reaction by waving, feigning a handshake and dusting off the referee's shoes.

Midland Reporter-Telegraph Assistant Sports Editor Jimmy Patterson said it best. "Throwing Pepe out of a Chap game is akin to kicking Big Bird off Sesame Street.

There's quite a race going on in District 6-2A girls basketball play. Two Crossroads Country teams, the Coahoma Bulldogetes and Forsan Buffalo-Queens are in the thick of things.

The race is divided into two halves, with the winner getting an automatic bid to the state playoffs. There is also a point system for teams based on their finish in race. Wall won the first half and Coahoma tied for second with Iraan, and Forsan finished fifth.

With one games left, Iraan is out of the second half race with three losses. Forsan and Wall are tied for first with one loss each. Coahoma and Eldorado are tied for second with two losses each. There is one game left Friday. Coahoma plays Stanton and Forsan plays Ozona.

The point system is based on a 8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 system. So that means Coahoma got 61/2 points for trying for second in the first half, and Forsan got 31/2 points for tying for fourth in the first half. If Coahoma, Forsan and Wall — who's playing Eldorado - win, then Coahoma would get 51/2 points for tying for second in the second half, and Forsan would get 71/2 for tying for first in the second half. Wall gets a playoff bid because it won the first half title outright. Coahoma would go as the district runnerup because it accumiated 12 points to 11 points for Forsan. But if Eldorado, who's playing at home, beats Wall, Forsan is in and Coahoma is out because Forsan would be the second half district champ. Sounds confusing? It is.

Lott willing to take pay cut

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) -Ronnie Lott, often called the heart and soul of the San Francisco 49ers defense, has offered to take a $200,000 pay cut to remain with the team.

But his attorney, Leonard Armato, says the 49ers want an even deeper slice of the $1 million Lott is scheduled to receive this year.

Lott, left off the 49ers' protected list and now a Plan B free agent, wants to play two more years and would like them to be with San Francisco. But five other teams have expressed an interest and Lott hasn't ruled out a move.

"At this moment, I'm a 49er," he said Tuesday. "And I want to stay a 49er. But since I've been put in this position, I've got to let my attorney do his job.

"The ultimate thing is you want to play, you want to contribute. What's intriguing is the opportunity to still play football."

Washington, the Los Angeles Rams and Raiders, Phoenix and Green Bay have called to talk about the possibility of Lott moving.

The 49ers protected 37 players when the Plan B lists were released last Friday. Lott, 31, was one of 20 49ers left unprotected. Eight of his 10 years he has been an All-Pro.

"I told (coach) George (Siefert) I would be willing to reduce my salary if it was a financial (problem)," said Lott. "I'd be willing to reduce it $200,000. But I don't know if it's financial or if it's the way I played."

Under Plan B, players can accept offers from other teams up to March 31.

three-pointer and Cobos made a free throw, giving the Chiefs a 56-53 lead going into the final quarter.

The game was tied twice in the fourth. Cobos hit another three-pointer to start the quarter, tying the contest at 56-apiece. Later he sank a foul shot, deadlocking the game at 60-all with 5:50 remaining.

Lake View led 66-63 with four

on two free throws by Chad Allen with 1:08 left. Chavarria hit a three-pointer to cut the lead to 71-68 with 58 seconds left. After each team failed to convert, Big Spring had one last chance for the tie, but Soldan's three-point attempt from the top of the key was off the mark.

Steers coach Tommy

Washington said one thing that hurt his team was poor shot selection. "We shot ourselves out in the Forsan's Micah Epley gunned in two at the buzzer to give Forsan a 34-28 halftime lead. In the third quarter Forsan started off with two baskets within 20 seconds by Wooten and Martin. But Stanton answered with a basket by Joe Cazares. Again, Wooten and Martin each sank a basket keeping the Forsan lead at 42-31. After several unanswered points by both teams and with 23 seconds left, Stanton's Barnhill

Arnaz criticizes movie

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Lucie Arnaz criticized as distorted a forthcoming CBS movie about her parents, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, that includes scenes of her father's reputed infidelity.

"Lucy & Desi: Before The Laughter," scheduled to air Feb. 10, also focuses on the couple's career conflicts.

"This is not their lives," Ms. Arnaz, 39, says in the Feb. 9 issue of TV Guide. "This is as much a cartoon of their lives as any unauthorized fiction.'

Ms. Arnaz, the couple's firstborn, says the movie is "ex-

Law class inspires book

NEW YORK (AP) - Caroline Kennedy says that when she took a class at Columbia Law School on civil rights, she wasn't quite sure what the Bill of Rights was.

"I'd heard of it, but I don't think I knew it was the first 10 amendments to the Constitution," Kennedy, 33, told People magazine in its Feb. 11 issue.

That class inspired Kennedy, and schoolmate Ellen Alderman, 32, to write a book called "In Our CAROLINE KENNEDY Defense: The Bill of Rights in Action." The women took turns writing up each case, then edited each other's work.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE EXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Hang on to your dreams; they could come true sooner than you think! Friends will be a source of financial inspiration next month. A class reunion in June could rekindle an old romance. Change your eating habits if your energy lags. Going back to school in the fall will help boost your earning power. A raise or promotion is possible by early November. Your romantic partner's views on marriage will coincide with your own next December. You set an important date!

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do your work without fanfare - someone influential is assessing your performance. Real estate transactions are worth a closer look. Write letters and return phone calls promptly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Do not let outside influences permeate the office environment. Keep your mind on your work. A confidential talk will lead to greater financial security. A close relationship intenTHURSDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1991

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A reconciliation may be difficult now, but it will help you right a delicate situation. An older person asks important questions. Answer honestly. The truth hurts less than evasions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Employment affairs are on a more productive course. Take advantage of a friend's offer to help out in a family emergency. A new acquaintance adds glamour to your social life. Limit spending.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A career or business proposition will be handed to you on a silver platter. An older person calls on you to play the role of peacemaker. Give your loved ones more of your time. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A meddlesome older person could complicate your morning. Afternoon brings welcome relief! A practical financial approach will win the backing of influential people. Romance is unpredictable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your concerns about a neighbor or child are exaggerated. Your health and work habits could be directly related. Resolve a career problem and you will feel like a new person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A friend plays a more active role in your life now. Travel can be both invigorating and profitable if you plan carefully. Your closest relationships are a source of real contentment this

Barbee talks to Lions

District Govenor Earnest 'Ernie'' Barbee met with the Stanton Noon Lions Tuesday at the Martin County Community Center and discussed ways that the club helps the community and around the world.

A veteran of four years in the Air Force and a North Texas State graduate from Rule, Barbee expressed his appreciation to the Lions for a job well done and hoped to keep the district moving forward.

He mentioned the Kerville Camp and addressed members to help find individuals between the ages of 7-16 with an impairment and send them to camp for "the time of their lives." He talked about the disaster victims that were helped by the club and three persons receiving seeing eye dogs in this area.

Man cleared of murder charge

ARDMORE, Okla. (AP) -Carter County jurors have cleared a Madill man of charges alleging he killed one man and wounded another in an argument.

Brian Lee Weldon, 27, had been charged with first-degree murder in the death of Aubrey Day, 25, of Ardmore.

An assault and battery charge alleged Weldon shot John Thomas Hollenbeck of Gene Autry. Hollenbeck, who suffered a neck wound, was a key witness against Weldon.

The shootings occurred July 13, 1989. Authorities found Day's body in February 1990, while searching south of Ardmore for a missing airplane.

Iraq claims raid kills 150 civilians

- Iraq today renewed its claims that allied air raids were battering civilian areas, reporting 150 people died in an overnight air strike. It was the highest death toll reported by Iraq from a single raid in the Persian Gulf War.

As the unrelenting allied air attack continued on Iraq, a U.S. Marine amphibious assault force was moving into place today in the Persian Gulf. Allied commanders say, however, that any ground war to retake Kuwait will probably follow still more air attacks on Iraqi forces.

Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, commander of Operation Desert Storm, said his greatest concern in the war is that the Iraqis are "capable of the most heinous acts. "They have demonstrated that they have absolutely no value on human life," Schwarzkopf said in an interview broadcast today on "CBS This Morning." "It's sort of the mad dog syndrome . . . In a mad dog there is no predictability.

Travelers arriving in Baghdad from Nassariyah reported the city came under intensive bombardment Tuesday night. They said military and industrial targets were hit.

The Iraqi government daily Al-Thawra reported today that 349 people had been killed in the southern port city of Basra since the allied raids began. It was not clear he the latest casualty reports would alter the previously announced civilian death toll of 428.

Iraqi officials said the allied bombs and missiles raining down on Baghdad overnight smashed a hospital, bridge, communciations center and homes. Iraqi officials said two surface-to-surface rockets landed near a bus station, destroying two movie theaters and about 200 shops night.

"We have to beat O'Donnell and Klondike has to beat Borden County, Friday night in order for us to have second place secure,' Grady coach Randy Peel said.

Grady and Sands played the first quarter very close as the Wildcats held a two point lead at the end of the stanza. The Lady Mustangs hung tough with fine shooting by Robin Wootan and Courtney Fryar; they combined for 3:2 points — 19 and 13 points, repectively.

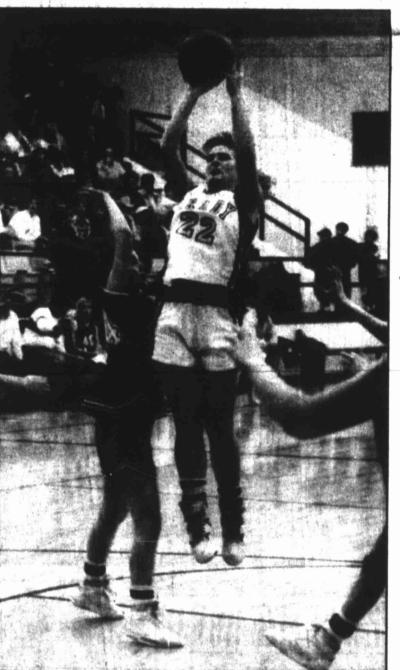

The Wildcats were led by senior Sherrie McMorries with 26 points, followed by the sister duo of Laurie and Melissa Romine with 12 each.

At halftime, the home team held at 31-27 lead. "I was real pleased with our press. Most of our defense played real good, and we tried to double team Wootan, but she got away a few times,' Peel said.

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Two Stanton school district students recently received high honors on creative thinking and academic achievement tests.

Matt Moore, a Stanton sixth grade student, scored 98 percent in the Torrence Test of Creative Thinking. This score automatically qualifies him to become a Torrence Creative Scholar.

The Torrence Creative Scholars program is a national search and support program for individuals with high creative potential. The program is designed to identify individuals who are highly creative and to provide them with the type of support needed so that they can develop their creativity.

Benefits include receiving a certificate of membership, receiving a quarterly newletter, being matched with mentors in the program and being elgible for programs and special institutes sponsored by the Torrence Center for Creative Studies.

Lance Payne, a Stanton seventhgrade student, has qualified to take the SAT or ACT college entry. assessment as part of the Duke University talent search for their Talent Identification Program.

Seventh grade students are eligible to participate in this program if they meet specific criteria which includes scoring 97 percent or above on a recent achievement test on the math or verbal subtest, or the total composite score.

Students who elect to participate in the talent search receive benefits for participation as well as recognition and awards for achieving designated scores on the assessment they elect to take.

WASHINGTON (AP) - There will winners and losers under a free trade agreement with Mexico, but on balance the U.S. economy will benefit, according to a study by the International Trade Commission

"This study reaches a significant conclusion: On balance, free trade with Mexico can produce economic benefits for the United States," Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Tuesday in releasing the study. "An agreement has the potential to provide new jobs and other benefits for Texas and the United

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas

The study said a free trade agreement will benefit the U.S. economy overall by expanding trade opportunities, lowering prices, increasing competition and improving the ability of U.S. firms to exploit economies of scale.

But relative to the size of the U.S. economy, those benefits are likely to be small, at least initially, because many trade barriers between the United States and Mexico have already been reduced or eliminated, the study said.

President Bush, however, in announcing Tuesday that Canada would be joining the negotiations, said a free trade agreement would link the three countries' economies

TOCKBRIDGE, Mass. — Franklin Lischke, 82, of Litchfield, Conn., model for illustrator Norman Rockwell's "No Swimming", poses lext to the famous 1921 painting at the Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge last Thursday for a Saturday Evening Post cover.

Man recalls boyhood as a Rockwell model

STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — *At 82, his sparse hair neatly combed, his sturdy frame attired in sober gray flannel, Franklin sum of 50 cents an hour to pose. Lischke couldn't be more removed from the freckle-faced imp campering away in Norman Rockwell's 1921 painting "No wimming.

But look a little closer at Lischke and you see a twinkle in the eye, an arch of the eyebrow and suddenly the young model for Rockwell's picture emerges, right down to the mouth pursed in a soundless "O" of scary delight.

"Yes, that's me," Lischke says, pointing to the picture he modeled for as a lad of 13. "I am the skinny guy, believe it or not.

The painting, one of Rockwell's many covers for the Saturday Evening Post, shows three young boys clutching their clothes to them as they flee an unseen pursuer, their flight underscored by the "No Swimming" sign in the

First as a model and then as a $5-a-week "studio boy," the young Lischke forged a friendship and a love of art that would nast a lifetime and inspire him to take up a career as a graphic artist, a profession he still plies from his home in Litchfield, Conn.

Lischke's youthful face, by turns mischievous and preternaturally solemn, shows up in several Rockwell illustrations, from a young boy learning the accordion to a pesky younger brother spying on his sister and her beau — only to be betrayed by a mighty succee.

@Each spring and summer, thousands of Americans will turn on their home air conditioners for the first time. The air conditioners will run for a few hours, or a day. And then the cool air will suddenly stop.

Many of these air conditioners will be nearly new. They will have worked perfectly well on that final day, last summer, before the temperatures turned brisk. Most of those families will pay for — and wait for — a service call. (Average cost: $67.) Many will also be faced with repair expenses, which can easily add $100 or

Forgetfulness can be costly

The reason for the failure was not a faulty compressor or electrical problem. It was, in fact, simple - yet costby — forgetfulness.

Over the winter, dust, dirt and pet dander collected in the air filter. Things we don't normally even think about, such as fine particles from the fireplace or wood stove, laundry room and workshop, probably added to the problem. The air was cleaner as a result of this accumulation — at least for a while. But air flow through the system gradually became restricted. And now, as the cooling season begins, there's even less air flow around the cooling coils. The result: The coils have frozen. In many cases, the blower motor has also burned out, or is close to it. Is there any way a homeowner can prevent this from happening?

How often is too often?

For a home's air conditioning and dooling system to work efficiently, the air filter must be cleaned or replaced regularly. But how often is often enough? And how often is too often? The fact is, although more families today care about clean air in the home. fewer have the time to worry about periodically . 1.

hold contaminants. Operation is simple: As the filter accumulates dust and other contaminants, the air flow from the furnace or air conditioning system seeks the ath of least resistance, and an increasing amount of the air flows through the small opening in the Remind-Air whistle. This causes the whistle to create its unique sound, telling you it's time to clean. As more dust gathers, the whistle becomes stronger, until the filter is removed for cleaning.

Remind-Air gives homeowners the benefit of continuous, clean air and the highest performance from the heating and cooling system. By cleaning at the point when the heating and air conditioning system starts to lose efficiency, the owner saves money and time.

Remind-Air is a "permanent" air filter that can be cleaned again and again with no loss of efficiency. In addition, it has no moving parts to wear or replace and does not consume precious energy. In fact, it reduces energy consumption. Most importantly, it does not produce harmful ozone as do electronic air cleaners.

Experts believe that for a product to succeed, it must offer the consumer real advantages in terms of time-savings, comfort, convenience and cost. It's easy to see how a "smart" filter that provides both clean air and an automat-"reminding" feature can achieve this. How can you tell if your home is leaking energy dollars? With summer just around the corner, now is the perfect time to assess your home's insulation, and make sure that the money you're spending on cooling (and, in winter, on heating) literally isn't going out the window.

Air infiltration, the process through which costly energy leaks occur, can happen in numerous places in the average home: between eaves, under thresholds, between baseboards, under exhaust ducts, around chimneys, under and on top of loose siding, and between corner joints and

According to the Home Energy Saver's Workbook, published by the United States Federal Energy Administration in 1977, "In a wellinsulated house, the largest source of energy loss can be the air leaks around ful, but they may also be the cause of house fires if they are not properly installed, main tained or used. It takes more work than turn ing up a thermostat.

It's important to get a quality stove made of cast iron or heavy gauge steel. A professional installation is advised to comply with local building and fire codes. Some purchases include installation.

The stove should be at least three feet from the nearest wall, ceiling, furniture or draperies. The insulating pad underneath should extend at least 18 inches in front of the ash-removal door.

The stove pipe should be corrision-resistant

Rotary tools speed through spring fix-ups

Have you ever had to improvise to complete a home fix-up? If you're like most do-it-yourselfers, you've used a screwdriver as a prybar or a putty knife as a wedge - certainly not the uses for which these tools were intended. But what else are you supposed to do? There isn't a single tool for all of your home fix-ups, is there?

Multi-purpose rotary tools answer many of these "I don't have the right tool" problems. For instance, rotary tools are ideal for removing old window glazing plus hundreds of other DIY tasks around the house, workshop and garage.

Rotary tools are super high-speed grinders that perform a variety of functions. In fact, they'll remind you of a standard drill, without the pistol-grip portion that houses the trigger. The main difference between a drill and a rotary tool is speed, and that's the key to the rotary tool's usefulness. A goodquality professional drill with a lot of torque will operate between 600 and 1,200 RPM. A good-quality rotary tool, like those from Sears or Dremel's Moto-Tool line, will operate at speeds of up to 30,000 RPM.

Rotary tools use chucks or collets like those found on drills, but they can use a wide variety of bits. Dremel has over 150 different bits for rotary tools. These bits, combined with the high done. To show the advantage of speed over torque, Dremel's high speed cutters, for example, have as many as 12 cutting surfaces, so at 30,000 RPM, the bit is making 360,000 cuts per minute. It's easy to see how these palm-sized rotary tools work so well. While a drill uses brute power to cut through wood, the rotary tool will use finesse and high speed.

For spring cleanup there's a wealth of uses for rotary tools. Summer furniture is often stored outside or in a damp area and gets a bit rusted. Using a metal brush bit with even the smallest rotary tool, Dremel's cordless MiniMite™, quickly removes the rust and prepares the surface for new paint or a light oiling. Aluminum lawn furniture often is held together by lightweight aluminum rivets that tend to break. The MiniMite fitted with a grinding stone or drill bit can drill out a broken rivet, which can quickly be replaced.

The same rotary tool works well for refinishing wood furniture. The MiniMite or similar rotary tool does a great job of removing the damaged wood finish without damaging the underlying wood. Use the ultra-compact MiniMite for cleaning out the detailed scroll work in an antique table, and use a full-sized Moto-Tool speed of the tool, are what get the job to do the larger areas. Add a sanding drum on low speed to complete the surface preparation before new stain and finish coat.

> In the garage, the rotary tool is indispensable in cleaning up the damage a harsh winter has done to a car. Using a grinding stone bit, the tool works just as well to remove rust spots that attack cars in parts of the country where salt is used during the winter. A cut-off wheel can quickly cut through a frozen, rusted bolt. Or for any time of year, a rotary tool is great for cutting speaker holes in a car's interior for a new stereo system.

There's also the multitude of other spring cleanup details that rotary tools alone can handle. With a felt polishing bit and polishing compound, rotary tools can polish brass handles, decorations and hardware around the house. What's more, these jobs can be finished so fast, people unfamiliar with using rotary tools are amazed.

Rotary tools are also great in the workshop. People familiar with Moto-Tool products know that craftsmen have been using rotary tools for over 50 years in the workshop for hobby and craft projects. Here's where people see the versatelity of the rotary tool. With each of the bits available for rotary tools, each time you change a bit, you have a different tool. With a sanding band, the tool is an effective high-speed sander that tackles wood, plastic and metal sanding with ease. With a grinding stone, the tool becomes a precision sharpener for everything from scissors to lawn mower blades. With a drill bit, the tool becomes a precision drill for such detailed work as drilling on computers' printed circuit boards. Special attachments are available for these tools that allow them to be used as precision routers and drill presses, too.

A recent rotary tool development is the cordless feature. Dremel's MiniMite, for example, is cordless. It has most of the utility of the corded Moto-Tools, but is more compact and easier to handle than its corded counterpart. It even has a replaceable, rechargeable battery pack, so that with spares, there is essentially no down time waiting for the batteries to recharge. This also makes the MiniMite inexpensive, so at $35, you can get a precision rotary tool, while higher-powered rotary tools can cost as much as $100.

No matter what the spring project is, chances are a rotary tool would help with a cleaning or repair project. Unfortunately, even experienced rotary tool users don't realize all the ways to use their tools for repairs, crafts or hobbies. For just this reason, Dremel has a special offer on a book that discusses how to use rotary tools for a variety of home repair, hobby and craft projects. The 96-page book, 175+ Uses for the Moto-Tool, is available for $4. To get your copy, write to Dreftel at 4915 21st Street, Racine, Wisconsin

Booklet explains window design inside and out

Taking a tour of homes in almost any neighborhood these days will reveal a dramatic change in the look of windows. Traditional double-hung and casement units are being joined by new bays and bows-plus shapes ranging from round to hexagon.

But there's much more to window design than looks. Modern windows have been transformed inside and out-to provide products that not only look good but also function to provide optimal energy efficiency and low utility costs in

The American Architectural Manufacturers Association (AAMA), which developed performance standards and a testing and certification program for windows and patio doors, has published a 36-page consumer guide titled "Windows." The practical, illustrated booklet is a must for anyone in the market for windows and patio doors.

The AAMA guide tells how to choose the best window style for your home, and details how the right windows save energy. It also explains the features that identify quality windows and patio doors, including the AAMA certification label.

The label indicates the manufacturer complies with performance standards pertaining to structural strength, waterresistance and air infiltration ability. "Thermal tested" labels also indicate the product's thermal and condensation performance

The AAMA label can be found on replacement windows and doors, storm windows and doors, and units designed for new construction applications.

For a copy of the booklet, send $2.00. to: "Windows," c/o AAMA, 2700 River Rd., Des Plaines, IL 60018.

Uterine fibroids are benign tumors of varying size composed of muscle cells. These non-cancerous tumors are found in approximately 20% of women over 35 and can be found in all age groups. They can be located inside the uterine cavity, within the muscle wall of the uterus, or on the external uterine

The mere presence of fibroids does not require treatment in all cases unless they are extremely large, cause heavy bleeding and anemia, or interfere with the patient's ability to conceive or carry a pregnancy to term. Although hysterectomy is sometimes indicated for the treatment of fibroids, other more conservative measures are sometimes possible. A procedure called myomectomy removes only the uterine tumors, without hysterectomy, and can sometimes be performed with Bandaid Surgery. Most women with heavy bleeding usually have fibroids inside the uterine cavity which can be removed using a Same Day Surgery procedure called hysteroscopic resection.

Bear up down under Can you guess Australia's best-known native animal? This animal is indigenous to Australia, lives in trees and feeds only on certain species of eucalyptus. If you guessed the koala. you are correct. If you guess the koala bear, you are partially correct. Koalas are not bears; they are marsupials. Kangaroos are also marsupi-

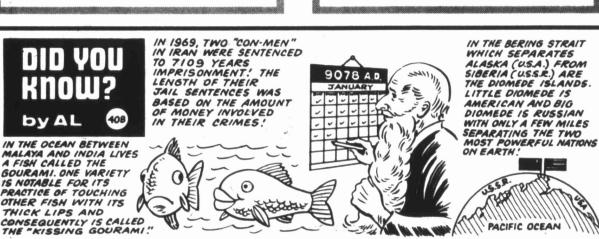

If you look up marsupial in an encyclopedia, you will find that the wombat, bandicoot and opossum are marsupial cousins and that with the exception of the American opossum, they all live in or near Australia. The principle characteristic of the marsupial mammal is the pouch of the female body. It is in this pouch that the mother cares and feeds her young. "Koala" is an Aboriginal word implying that the marsupial seldom drinks water in its natural habitat: the als and they too live in animal apparently derives sufficient liquid from dew and moisture in eucalyptus

So the next time you see a koala either in Australia or in a zoo, don't forget it is not a bear, it is a marsupial!

Witner D. Mizell, executive director the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, has outlined his concept to establish Local Councils on Physical Fitness and Sports which would promote the importance of physical fitness for our nation's youth, adults and senior citizens in the local community.

PHYSICAL FITNESS

STARTS

AT HOME

The first local council on physical fitness and sports was established in Buncombe County, N.C., earlier this year. Its plans include organizing programs and advising elected officials and others on the county's need for them.

Highly cost-effective

Operating costs can be minimal with a strong volunteer network and assistance from the private sector. With solid leadership and enthusiastic backing, local councils can be a highly costeffective means for addressing grassroots fitness and health problems.

The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports has prepared an information guide concerning the organization and functions of local councils. To receive a free copy, call or write the PCPFS, 450 5th Street, N.W. Suite 7103, Washington, D.C. 20001; or call (202) 272-3430. HF915873

An easy Valentine's Day menu for the infrequent cook

February can be the dreariest month absorbed. of the year, so Valentine's Day is a welcome relief. It's a good excuse to snuggle up with a loved one in front of a roaring fire, sipping champagne and nibbling chocolates.

To set the mood for a romantic evening, you could take your loved one out for a fancy meal at an expensive restaurant...or, for a truly personal touch, serve a home-cooked meal. If you don't cook often, the person you're cooking for may be so surprised and touched that he or she will be willing to overlook any flaws. But why not play it safe by serving simple, yet elegant, dishes that are practically guaranteed to produce good results?

Easy dishes have another advantage in that they allow you to spend more time with your loved one and less time in the kitchen. It's also nice to choose dishes that can be partially prepared earlier in the day or even a day or two

Whatever you cook, remember that a beautiful table, bedecked with flowers and a candle or two, will help make the meal special. The recipes for Mushroom Soup for

"Seven out of ten individuals can be expected to react when exposed to urushiol, the 'poison' of the Rhus family," according to Charles Zugerman, M.D., associate professor of clinical dermatology at Northwestern University Medical School, and consultant to Blistex Inc., makers of Ivarest poison ivy medication

Number one cause

It's little wonder that an estimated 18 million cases of poison ivy and poison oak rash affect Americans each year; reportedly more cases of allergic contact dermatitis than from all other causes combined, he adds.

If you can't avoid the poison plants, you can move fast - within ten minutes, preferably, to try to remove as much as possible of the oily urushiol toxins which have spread across your skin. Wherever your skin has overreacted to this allergen soon will be evident in telltale red patches. But, scrub gently with warm water and soap so as not to disturb the oil balance of your tissue.

If allergic reaction starts — causing inflammation, fluid accumulation and itching — apply a medicated cream or lotion such as Ivarest that contains an astringent to dry oozing blisters and an well as an antiseptic to prevent secondary infection, Dr. Zugerman advises.

Yard marsh provides home for wildlife

Did you ever stop to think how much water rolls off your roof each year? Summer thunderstorms and winter snows can drop forty inches of precipitation annually, according to Craig Tufts, spokesperson for the National Wildlife Federation.

"Someday, I'll live next to a marsh." says Tufts. " In the meantime, I'm enjoying one that I've built in my yard. Some minor calculations indicated that just half of my roof could supply me with 14,000 gallons of water a year. Instead of drowning my lawn. I reasoned that quantity could moisten a little marsh."

Under the right conditions, a marsh will become home to butterflies and humming birds. GT916868

Saunas are finding prominent place in today's home designs coming from Europe, saunas are gaining wider appeal among homeowners who want to add a touch of elegance to their homes. Long simply a dark, square box stationed in a far-off corner of the house, homeowners are using these new saunas as the primary component in a room's design — even in main floor bathrooms and especially in rooms adjacent to the master bedroom. "New sauna designs are bringing the sauna out of the basement," says Keith Raisanen, president of Finnleo Saunas in Cokato, Minn. "There is a new generation of saunas that offer features such as round, half-round, and angled windows with tinted glass and a wide range of attractive door options. A variety of sauna configurations is offered in standard kits, and many have unconventional angles that make the space more interesting and inviting." In the case of Finnleo, the new elegance is thanks to European craftsmen who are incorporating the best in European furniture design into the traditional Finnish sauna.

Finnleo adds to the elegance by using Nordic White Spruce for its saunas and white African Abachi for its seats. These light-colored woods match

With new, more elaborate designs the newest Scandinavian furnishings and provide a cleaner, more spacious feeling than traditional saunas made of the darker cedars and redwood. Regardless of the size of the sauna you need, chances are there's a standard sauna package that will work for you. They come ready-to-assemble in a variety of sizes and configurations, from a small 45-inch square mini sauna to a full club-size unit. If your interest is in a one-of-a-kind model, manufacturers also are offering custom sauna packages that give the homeowner total flexibility for almost any size, shape, and design in a sauna. These complete custom sauna packages have all the wood cut and components built to the exact specifications of the buyer. A custom sauna doesn't mean sacrificing design or accessories options. For example, Finnleo's custom cut saunas are available with all of the new generation designs in windows and

Arm yourself with knowledge during the winter cold season

With February's blustery weather want to deal with is the misery of a common cold. Unfortunately, though, the winter months are also cold season-but not for the reasons you may Americans catch more than 100 million colds a year. However, they are not caused by cold, wet weather or drafts, as is commonly believed.

A cold is a virus that can be spread only by an infected person. Usually this is done through hand contact. For example, if you shake hands with someone who has a cold, or touch a surface that has been infected by a cold sufferer, and you then rub your eyes or nose, you will likely spread the virus onto yourself.

Colds prevail in winter because people spend most of their time indoors, in close quarters with stale air. thus increasing the chances of spreading infection. Getting enough sleep, exercising regularly and eating balanced meals can help build up your resistance and may decrease your chances of getting a cold. But if you are stricken, knowing what to do can prevent you from getting sicker and can make you more comfortable until you recover. Although aspirin will reduce a cold's fever, aches and pains, and overthe-counter decongestants and other medications will help stuffy noses and a host of other cold symptoms, there is no cure for the common cold. Antibiotics. which are used to fight bacterial infections, do not work against viruses. Your doctor may give you antibiotic medication when you have a cold, only to prevent secondary bacterial infections such as pneumonia or a sinus in-

What your mother always told you is correct: Get plenty of rest and drink lots of fluids, especially fruit juices, when you have a cold. And what about chicken soup? It certainly won't hurt. Fluids are good for a cold, and so is steam. However, smoking can worsen cough and congestion, and drinking alcohol can increase the sedative effect of most cold medicines.

Many over-the-counter medications and short, gray days, the last thing we can help relieve the discomfort of the common cold. When using over-the-counter medications, always ask your pharmacist and doctor how they work and what side effects to anticipate. For example: • Nasal sprays shrink the blood ves sels in the nose, thus reducing swelling of nasal passages to help you breatheeasier. But nasal sprays should not be used for more than three consecutive days, as they can become addictive. The blood vessels in the nose rebound when the spray wears off, becoming even more swollen, and you begin to "need" the spray to breathe.

 Oral decongestants have the same action without rebound swelling. They can, however, cause insomnia and nervousness. In addition, because of the blood vessel-constricting action of decongestants, those taken orally can also cause problems for people with cardiovascular conditions. • You will see a variety of other. medications on your drugstore shelf. For coughs, antitussives work by reducing the brain's impulse to cough. These are available over-the-counter in non-narcotic formulas, as well as by prescription for narcotic formulas containing codeine. Antihistamines relieve sneezing and itchy, watery eyes, and expectorants help bring up phlegm by increasing fluid secretions in the respiratory tract. Some people are particularly sus-ceptible to adverse reactions from any one or combination of cold medications. These include persons over the age of 60 and those with high blood pressure, asthma and glaucoma. As always, women who are pregnant or nursing should use caution when taking any medicines. If you fall into any of these at-risk groups, always consult your doctor and pharmacist before taking any over-the-counter cold relief preparation.

QUALITY PAINT DESERVES QUALITY TOOLS. Purchasing a top quality acrylic latex paint is the first step toward a top-notch exterior paint job. But to get the best results with latex or water-based paints, it's also important to use high quality brushes and rollers made of synthetic materials, say experts at the Rohm and Haas Paint Quality Institute.

Proper brushes and tools help perfect home painting

Experts agree that for best home painting results, you should pay a little more to get a top quality paint. But z authorities at the Rohm and Haas Paint Quality Institute say it is also important to use top quality application tools high quality brushes, rollers and other accessories — to get a job that not only looks great, but will be long-lasting, too. Here are some tips on what to buy and what to avoid

• Since natural bristles tend to absorb water and swell, be sure to use synthetic bristle brushes to apply water-based latex paint. Polyester brushes are best. They will maintain the proper stiffness and keep their shape regardless of the amount of water and humidity they are exposed to.

• For the same reasons, if you are using rollers, be sure to select those that have synthetic covers when painting with a latex or water-based product.

• Natural bristle brushes or rollers are fine to use with oil-based or alkyd paints. • Regardless of the type of brush you select, it should be a high quality product to ensure even and effortless application of the paint. Before purchasing your brushes, test them for springiness. Be sure they don't fan too much or have bristle gaps or loosely held bristles.

· A good brush is one that is well balthat have tightly packed bristles and are between 1/4" and 1" thick for a standard

• A five-gallon bucket with roller grid will speed up your work. Just as important, it will place a more even amount of paint on the roller and thus give better

 Don't discount the possibility of using spray equipment. Power washers and spray painting gear are available from most equipment rental companies. Follow manufacturers' suggestions for safe and proper use

• If you need additional advice about brushes, accessories or top quality acrylic latex paint, ask for help at your local paint or hardware store, or decorating center.

HOW MUCH DO YOU KNOW ABOUT PAINTING?

⊗If you think you know a lot about exterior paint, put yourself to the test by responding to the questions below. The answers are provided courtesy of the Rohm and Haas Paint Quality

Q. If the latex paint looks too thick, should I add water?

A. Probably not. Water will only dilute the carefully formulated and blended ingredients of the paint, thereby reducing the paint's quality and its application characteristics. If you think the paint is too thick, stir it more vigorously. However, if the container has been opened and closed a number of times or stored for a while, then you may want to add a small amount of water to replace any that may have evaporated.

Q. Do all gloss paints lose their shine at the same rate?

A. No. Any exterior gloss paint will maintain its gloss much better in a shaded area, compared to a location that is in direct sunlight. In general, however, quality acrylic latex gloss paints will maintain gloss longer than oil-based paints, especially in sunny

Q. What steps should I take when re-using paints that have been stored for awhile? A. First of all, remove any skin that has developed on top of the paint, along with any rust or other foreign matter. Then, mix the paint thoroughly to a smooth consistency and strain through cheesecloth or nylon hose before painting.

Ms. Fix-it, a do-it-yourself expert who appears on television and in home improvement magazines, says, "We have become a generation of collectors everything from baseball cards to Barbie* dolls to crystal. Ms. Fix-It recommends looking for 'upper space" to solve storage needs.

There's no reason that shelves have to start at floor level. Most rooms need every inch of floor space. Products such as Knape & Vogt's Variations* adjustable wall-mounted shelving put walls to work while opening floor space for chairs and people," advises Ms. Fix-It.

KV's revolutionary new Variations line, designed for today's lifestyles and varied decorating preferences, are attractive, well-crafted wall modules that work in the den, the kitchen, the bedroom or the home office. The reinforced shelves come in contemporary finishes such as a granite-look, hightech matte black and clear tempered glass. Support brackets serve as bookends and can be angled to create a tilted display shelf for magazines or books. Wall standards come with covers to conceal slots and form an architectural column. These decorative covers can be painted to blend into the wall or to complement a room's "Storage is now a matter of style," notes Ms. Fix-It. "KV's unique engineering also allows for side-by-side placement with minimal support. Variations flexibility lets us create custom shelving at an affordable price," she adds.

Additional Variations wall components have been introduced for even greater options to extend the custom system. A wall-mounted bookcase, available in classic walnut, frosted oak or moonlight white, has an overhead door that quickly makes storage an

And, the installation process for wall-mounted shelving has never been easier, according to Ms. Fix-It, who promises that even the novice do-itvourselfer can complete the installation with confidence. 'There is no longer a need to tap the

The Variations paper wall template, similar to a sewing pattern, is also available to assist with pre-installation placement without having to mark up the wall.'

"I can't think of a home I've visited that wouldn't benefit from added storage space," observes Ms. Fix-It. ARTHRITIS A CONCERN FOR GARDENERS

(S) Winter has passed, spring is here; and you can't wait to get into your garden. Your mail-order seeds arrive, and so does a fine day. You assemble the digging tools, and set out on your grand plan for a vista of floral beauty and a harvest of home-grown vegetables. You traipse out to the back yard, kneel down, and start to dig. Alas, it's not very long before you are beset with pain in four fingers, your wrists, your feet. You pause for a while and the pain subsides; then you resume your activities, but the pain returns. Your knees give you the most agony. Your foot joints hurt a lot. So you call a halt, hoping it will only be a temporary disruption, and arrange to see a family or podiatric medical physician. The diagnosis: arthritis, which strikes one of every seven of us, from children to senior citizens.

Arthritis is a frequent component of more than 100 disease systems whose common characteristic is inflammation of the lining and ligaments of the body's joints. In some cases, arthritis is a relatively minor problem, but in most instances the inflammation brings about swelling, redness, heat, and pain, which can be crip-The doctor of podiatric medicine, who often responds to a complaint of heel or arch pain, stiffness, or swelling, is frequently the first doctor to see the early signs of arthritis. Generally speaking, treatment of arthritis is appropriately a team effort, with a variety of specialists involved; a podiatrist who is the first to identify the disease will recommend further diagnosis and treatment, especially if complicating factors such as diabetes or circulatory disease are involved. Some of the treatment tools a podiatrist might use in treating arthritic conditions are medication, physical therapy, exercise, orthoses (shoe insert devices), special shoes, or surgery. If you have persistent pain in the joints of your feet, but haven't been diagnosed as arthritic, you should be examined by a podiatric physician. For more information on arthritis and the feet, call toll free, 1-800-FOOTCARE.
