Chamber offers business seminar

Tuesday is the last day to sign up for the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce procurement seminar.

The event, scheduled for 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday in the East Room of the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, is designed to teach local entrepreneurs how to participate in the bidding process used by many local agencies and governmental Participants must register at the chamber. There is a fee of $5 for chamber members, $7 for non-members.

Among those expected to attend are officials of the Small Business Administration, the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, the Big Spring Federal Correctional Institution, Howard College and area school Districts. Participants will have the opportunity to meet one-on-one with agency representatives.

Reverse mortgage program expanded

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government on Monday expanded a once-experimental program that allows the nation's elderly to receive a monthly check by tapping their home equity through a

"reverse mortgage. The thousands of lenders authorized to make Federal Housing Administrationinsured loans now also are permitted to offer reverse mortgages.

Fannie Mae, a congressionally chartered company that finances home buying, said it has agreed to purchase at least 25,000 of the mortgages through September 1995, amounting to about $2 billion.

In a reverse mortgage, homeowners who either own their property free and clear or have only a minimal mortgage debt take out a new mortgage. Instead of receiving a lump sum, they either draw on a line of credit or get monthly payments.

Fryar OKd as city manager

The Stanton City Council met in a called session early this morning in the Council Chambers and unanimously approved the hiring of Interim City Manager Danny Fryar to a permanent position of Administrator.

Fryar will be paid an annual salary of $27,880 including benefits. These benefits include medical insurance, retirement, city housing, water/sewer and garbage. The city will also provide him with a vehicle.

According to city records, Fryar's salary will be paid onehalf from the the city's general fund, one-quarter from the water department fund and the other quarter from the water/sewer and garbage fund.

KUWAIT CITY — The first people accused of collaborating with the Iraqi occupation forces sit in their cell inside the Kuwaiti courtroom Sunday. Among the charges they face are helping Iraqis acquire weapons and ammunition, giving shelter to the Iraqis, working for foreign organizations and looting.

No witnesses called in trials of collaborators behind a teak bench, five judges began trying the first of 300 people accused of collaborating with Iraqi occupiers. Not a witness was called, and many defense attorneys were assigned on the spot.

Defense attorneys complained that allegedly incriminating evidence was not made public, that defendants were denied the right to face their accusers - and that confessions had been extracted from some of the accused through torture.

Six men were convicted Sunday as the martial law court opened the trials — one sentenced to 15 years in prison after being accused of wearing a Saddam Hussein T-shirt. It was not clear if the man was suspected of other offenses.

Weakened retaining wall comes tumbling down

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

A weakened cement wall lining the north side of FM-700 broke early Sunday, sending debris perilously near the street.

Texas Highway Department Engineer Mike Chetty today said maintenance workers have stabilized what remains of the wall, located near the Gregg Street overpass. "We feel like we have it in a place now where nothing else is going to happen," he said. "There may be some dirt falling, a little dirt. But (the remainder of the wall) probably won't go anywhere.' The northern-most lane of the highway will remain closed for a week to 10 days while workers monitor any movement, Chetty said. State inspectors are expected to arrive within several days. A collapse occurred about 2 a.m. Sunday, according to reports. Chunks of cement slid down against a guard rail that had been installed earlier to prevent falling debris from hitting the roadway.

Chetty had told the Herald Friday that the cracking wall appeared to be weakening.

Maintenance crews were on the scene within an hour of the predawn collapse, Chetty said.

"They basically went out and picked up the pieces that had fallen

Mortgage company makes tax payments

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

An Oklahoma City mortgage company has paid property taxes the Howard County Tax Assessor-

Collector's Office.

Assessor Collector Kathy Sayles said a check was received from Midland Mortgage Co. late Friday, and has been applied to the accounts of the company's local customers. The company's late payment and the response of its customers were the subject of a Sunday Herald story.

Customer Nolan Beall, a Big Spring firefighter, said today he was pleased by the company's response, but remains skeptical. He had earlier expressed confusion about the company's request that he increase his escrow payments to make up for a deficiency in the

"I'm glad we got a response out of them," Beall said. "But I don't know what to think. I still there's something going on. We'll just have to sit back and wait.

Beall and other local residents had expressed anger with the company's lack of response to the late taxes. Delinquent tax notices were sent to the homeowners and not the company, Sayles explained. It is the mortgage company's responsibility to request tax statements.

A company official contacted last week said the tax payments due Oct. 1 — were mailed imfor 33 local residents, according to mediately after employees discovered an error. Attorney Rollin E. Drew said a tax reporting company had not sent area homeowners' tax statements to Midland Mortgage, which services the mortgages.

He said letters of apology would be mailed to the customers. A copy of the letter sent to the Herald says the company had confirmed receipt of the tax payments, and was signed by Midland Mortgage vice president Carole Dickson.

"Midland Mortgage Co. realizes that the delay in paying your taxes is not the standard of service you expect from us and certainly not the standard of service we customarily render from day to day," the letter says. It says all penalties and interest added to the late taxes were paid by Midland Mortgage and not charged to customers' escrow accounts Sayles said the local tax office's filing system makes it impossible to determine if all Midland Mortgage customers have had their taxes paid. The company took over servicing of the mortgages in August 1990.

Presbyterians avert split

DALLAS (AP) — Members of Highland Park Presbyterian Church who wanted to leave the denomination they consider too liberal failed to win enough votes for the pullout.

A majority of the church members voted Sunday to leave the denomination, but they had to get a two-thirds majority to make it official. The final count was 2,563 votes to leave and 2,001 to stay. The dissidents needed 3,011 votes for withdrawal.

The vote ended a yearlong debate on whether the 8,000-member congregation of the second largest and one of the most prestigious congregations in the 3-million-member denomination should remain in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A).

Sunday's meeting and church service was moved from the church to Moody Coliseum on the campus of Southern Methodist University because the church's sanctuary could not accommodate the crowd.

Costner practices with Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) — Kevin Costner, the star of "Bull Durham" and "Field of Dreams," got a chance to practice with real baseball stars over the weekend.

Costner, in Dallas for his role in Oliver Stone's movie about John F. Kennedy, practiced Saturday with members of the Texas Rangers at Arlington Stadium.

He was a guest of Rangers first baseman Rafael Palmeiro, who has known the actor since the two were involved with charity work when Palmeiro played for the Chicago Cubs.

An afternoon rain kept the Rangers from taking batting practice on the field, but Costner took some swings in the covered batting cage.

"It was fun. I had a great time," said Costner, who expressed disappointment that the rain prevented him from hitting on the field. "Anyone in their right mind wants to go for the fences rather than the back

The estimated 100 police officers and military troops who stood guard outside the prison Sunday likely will not rush the prison, Wells said.

"We watched this jail go from a population of about 250 to 300 when I arrived in 1987 to its current population of somewhere between 1,400 and 1,500," he said.

Thirty-two inmates have identified themselves as Americans, including two women. None of them were among the dead or wounded, Wells said.

Earlier Sunday, about 35 inmates unfurled a banner from an 80-foot tower that said "We're Fine," and there was no indication they intended to surrender.

The banner, which appeared to be a bed sheet, had four lines that read: "Respect the Family, There Is No Problem, Send Food, We're

Report: Violent prisoners freed

DALLAS (AP) — To satisfy a court order and reduce prison overcrowding, Texas must parole 83 percent of the inmates who become eligible, about 750 inmates weekly.

That often means violent prisoners are let go to make room for less serious offenders, a published report said.

A five-day review of the Texas prison system by The Dallas Morning News found that officials released 801 inmates, nearly a fifth of whom were imprisoned for violent crimes, to make room for 728 new offenders.

The state released 148 violent offenders while locking up 168 during the week of April 1-5, The Dallas Morning News reported Sunday.

Those paroled during the week included 16 convicted murderers, 17 rapists, 35 people convicted of assault, four kidnappers and 16 armed robbers. Among those sent to prison during the same time period were 120 people convicted of drug possession, 16 for burglarizing cars, 21 drunken drivers and 63 thieves. David Young, a spokesman for the Texas Board of Pardons and Parole, said none of the violent crime offenders was released The Convention and Visitors before his eligible parole date. Bureau is also finding ways to pro-Selden Hale, the chairman of the Texas Criminal Justice Board, said officials consider each inmate's case individually.

"In all this furor over paroling murderers, I think that like everything else, it has got to be done on a case-by-case basis,' Hale said. "How long is long enough? I don't know. That's why you have a parole board that looks at every case. There's no science to it. It's an art." Gov. Ann Richards said the findings reinforced her position that criminal facilities should be reserved for the most serious

Those paroled during the week included 16 convicted murderers, 17 rapists, 35 people convicted of assault, four kidnappers and 16 armed robbers.

"Our assumption has been since time immemorial that you should punish sin and crime at the same level," Richards said. "As a consequence of that, you have very serious criminals who can pose a physical harm on society coming out of prison to let sinners in."

Danny Downs, a member of the parole board who reviews the cases of about 200 inmates per week, said nothing in the report surprised "Parole is a joke," said Downs, who opposes the release of most murderers. "I'm more comfortable voting for these older people than for some of these gang members who are very likely to kill someone in the future.

Some state lawmakers say the problem is theirs to solve.

"The system is broke and we need to fix it," said Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, whose bill calls for revising the penal code. funding alternative programs and building space for an additional 28,500 inmates over the next four Stiles said his measure would help less dangerous offenders, such as those convicted of drunken driving, theft and car burglary.

Such offenders will be "put into programs where they can seek a certain education level that will allow them to find a rightful place in society rather than becoming just another number in the recidivism rate," Stiles said.

A warrant is issued if a defendant fails to appear in court to answer a complaint such as an alleged traffic violation. Some courts had routinely issued the warrants using a copy of the ticket instead of a sworn statement.

"Just the ticket is not enough," said Catherine Baen, chief prosecutor for the justice court division in the Harris County District Attorney's Office. "The officer has got to swear to certain facts that have taken place.

Ms. Baen said all 16 justice of the peace courts in the county were potentially affected by a Dec. 12 ruling by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Only jurisdictions such as Dallas automatically file probable cause affidavits. That avoids the avalanche of additional paperwork needed to make the misdemeanor warrants legal.

But the ruling, and a subsequent opinion by a Houston appeals court judge, could also hurt felony cases. That's because felony charges often stem from misdemeanor arrests, said general counsel Rob Kepple of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association in

"We're going to hear some horror stories," he said. Even a capital murder case could be affected, Kepple said. The landmark rulings involved charges alleging aggravated assault and drug possession.

The first ruling came Dec. 12 from the Texas Court of Criminal

The court ruled that Brent Thomas Gordon, a suspect in the April 1987 robbery and sexual assault of a woman at a veterinarian's office in Hempstead, was illegally arrested.

Gordon was picked up on a warrant alleging failure to appear in Deer Park municipal court to answer a minor traffic complaint, said the opinion written by Judge W.C. Davis of the appeals court.

"There being no probable cause set forth in the complaint, the arrest of appellant was illegal," Davis ruled.

Davis also said that it was not enough for arresting officers to act in good faith if the officer's belief in probable cause is reasonable.

The group's attorney today planned to research in what court she must appeal the right-to-die decision that allowed Sue Ann Lawrance's parents to remove their daughter's feeding tubes on May 3.

In Missouri's Cruzan case which resulted last year in the U.S. Supreme Court's first first right-todie ruling — Nancy Cruzan had told family and friends before she suffered severe brain damage in a car crash that she wouldn't want to be kept alive in such a condition.

But in the Indiana case, Ms. Lawrance has been retarded since childhood, and there has been no evidence about whether she would want to be kept alive in the persistent vegetative state she has been in since a fall in 1987, said Patti S. Mullins, attorney for Christian Fellowship With the Disabled.

32 killed in election violence

NEW DELHI, India (AP) -Under heavy police guard, Indians voted today in a national election that was expected to return former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi to power - but without a majority.

In a striking departure for Indian politics, a right-wing party that wants to make Hinduism officially dominant in the secular nation was expected to take second place in the elections.

More than 15 million police and 63,000 paramilitary officers stood guard to prevent a resurgence of the violence that has plagued the campaign.

By the time polls closed after 10 hours, 32 people were reported killed in clashes between political rivals that disrupted voting at some of the 240,000 operating polling booths, officials and news reports said.

Organizers plan tongue twister of an anniversary

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) -Nebraska will celebrate its 125th birthday bash next year, but many people already are in a quandary over how to pronounce "quasquicentennial.

People might mangle the word, but they rarely forget it, said Clark Kolterman of Seward, an organizer for the birthday party who researched the word.

Quasquicentennial means a 125th anniversary. Kolterman pronounces it "kwas-kwa-centennial." The Random House Dictionary of the English Language places a long "e" sound on the second syllable -"kwas-kwi-centennial." "We don't care how you pronounce it as long as it becomes a household word by the end of 1992," Kolterman said. It's expected that most people will use a shorter version of the word - Q125 - to refer to the yearlong celebration planned to mark Nebraska's birthday. The celebration starts Dec. 31

U.S. students take easier tests

tional test to describe the role and significance of Robespierre in the French Revolution, while American students choose pairs of words with the same relationship as "yawn:boredom."

Lynne V. Cheney, chairwoman of the National Endowment for the Humanities, said Sunday that a study showed achievement tests give U.S. students little chance to show what they've learned in the classroom. Japanese and European students, meanwhile, are forced to prove they've mastered various subjects.

"Our most common, high-stakes examinations . . . do little to advance the notion that hard work in school matters," Cheney said in a statement accompanying the report, "National Tests: What Other Countries Expect Their Students to Know.

While American students are asked multiple-choice questions, Japanese students may be asked to identify European thinkers such as Euclid, Ptolemy, Bacon, Newton and Locke. And British students may have to argue in an essay whether Woodrow Wilson was "unbelievably naive" or "a dogged man of principle.

Cheney said the humanities endowment, an independent federal agency, looked at national tests in Japan, France, Germany, Britain and schools operated by the European Community. High school students in those countries must prove mastery of subject matter by

The United States has no equivalent exam, although the Scholastic Aptitude Test and the American College Testing Program come close, Cheney said.

But, she said, both the SAT and the ACT are basically multiplechoice, have an "arm's length relationship to curricula" and avoid assessing factual knowledge that a student might have learned in the classroom.

"Examinations assessing performance are harder to grade than those that rely exclusively on multiple-choice, but the experience of other countries shows that it can be done," Cheney said. The SAT and ACT measure aptitude rather than achievement, Cheney said. Achievement tests, she said, convey the idea that mastery of school subjects is important and makes student accountable for what they have learned. President Bush and Education

Secretary Lamar Alexander have called for voluntary national achievement tests as part of an 'America 2000'' education strategy. The examinations would be made available to all fourth, eighth and 12th grade students in the subjects of math, science, English, history and geography

But Monty Neill of the private National Center for Fair & Open Testing, which opposes oversaid the endowment's study may charge," said Shanker.

"The truth is, no other country has national exams like those the administration proposes - not Germany, not Japan, not Great Britain, not France," he said. "They don't test every child, and they don't use the tests to compare teachers and schools. "If other countries have better education systems than the United States, it must be due to factors other than national testing," said Neill. He noted that only 15 percent of Japanese high school seniors take that country's college admission test.

And Donald W. Farmer of King's College in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., said the Japanese national exam reflects that country's model of education, which emphasizes rote learning over analysis.

"The purpose should not be to prepare students for a quiz show by emphasizing memorization of in-formation," Farmer said. "The purpose should be to develop understanding and to apply their insights to new situations.

Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers, pointed to the exorbitant costs of administering such an examination. He estimated it would cost more than $100 per student to mark essays in five subjects, compared with only a few pennies to correct multiple-choice tests.

"Nobody should think that this reliance on standardized exams, change could come free of

Opinions from across the U.S.

Against the status quo

Yes, it's true that people kill people, and that street thugs have plenty of illegal ways to get guns. But it doesn't help matters in a violence-prone society to have so much hardware so readily accessible. In this time of shattered windows, terrorized housing projects, endangered playgrounds and outgunned cops, this time when high school dances and pick-up basketball games degenerate into gun fights, law-abiding people have the right to proclaim — We do not have to sit idly by and let this continue unchallenged because somebody is worried that his hunting rifle is going to get taken away — or his means of self-defense.

The Brady Bill fight, which will be resumed in the Senate, is not about hunting rifles. It is not about banning gun ownership. It is about asserting Americans' right to slow the tide of handgun bloodshed.

No, it won't make for safer streets overnight. It won't even come close. But it can help the majority liberate gun control from the selfish lobbies that defeat it year after year. And it is a statement, finally, that the status quo has become intolerable.

The Philadelphia Inquirer

Cause for celebration

Passage of the Brady Bill by the U.S. House of Representatives should be celebrated, not because it is certain to become law or wipe out crime, but because the action indicates at least one branch of Congress is coming to its senses on gun control.

After decades of knuckling under the National Rifle Association, the House fended off the (Harley) Staggers distraction and approved its first gun control legislation (President) Bush said he will not sign the bill unless Congress passes his comprehensive anti-crime package. Why should something as long overdue as a nationwide waiting period for handgun purchases be held hostage by the White House?

Gun control laws do not prevent criminals from getting firearms. No rational person expects that ideal but unattainable result. What such laws do is reduce the easy availability of guns to hothead saloon fighters, domestic combatants, curious children, potential suicides and thieves who steal the weapons of the righteous.

The Brady Bill has flaws. Its passage by the house, however, is a welcome sign that the gun lobby is losing some of its undeserved clout

Sun-Sentinel, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

An encouraging beginning

The Brady Bill, the gun control measure that put George McGovern and Ronald Reagan in the same camp for passage, and joined the two Democratic leaders in Congress (George Mitchell and Thomas Foley) with the National Rifle Association against passage, has sailed through the House — and by a surprisingly comfortable

The bill itself is not all that earth-shattering — it mandates a seven-day waiting period for the purchase of handguns, enabling the police to make background checks on potential buyers — and it faces an uphill battle in the Senate and the White House, where President Bush would prefer to include it in his omnibus crime package.

Still, this is a famous victory for advocates of gun control over the now-not-so-powerful National Rifle Association.

Critics of the measure are correct: It will not absolutely prevent guns from falling into the wrong hands. But on the long road toward some sensible national policies about guns and gun ownership, it's an encouraging beginning — and many deaths could be prevented.

The Providence (R.I.) Journal-Bulletin

Equality for women

Thanks to unexpected action by the House Armed Services Committee . . . , a sensible, long-overdue military reform took flight. Will the rest of Congress shoot it down, or give it the life it deserves?

By a voice vote, the committee endorsed a measure that would allow women to fly combat missions in the Air Force, Navy and Marine Corps. Because the reform is now part of an amendment to the 1992 Pentagon budget. it would require action by the House to remove it. Many members may not wish to take such action.

Nor should they. Women have flown commercial airliners for years, and they flew military transport planes in the Persian Gulf War. Women risked — and sometimes lost — their lives alongside men in that war. It is both illogical and insulting to assume that female pilots are less capable than their male counterparts.

War must never be anything but a last resort. But if war is to be waged, let it be done with the skill and talents of women and men alike. Let's hope the full House, and then the Senate, agree.

objective. on the Prairie" episode where

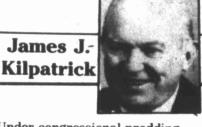

Prestige comes at too great a cost WASHINGTON — Is the United States serious about sending a manned mission to Mars? If so, let us get on with Space Station Freedom. If not, let us fall back and reconsider. At the risk of being charged with a flat-earth lack of vision, I suggest we fall back and take a fresh look

In 1984 Congress approved the concept of a space station that would remain in orbit for at least 30 years after its assembly. The project was sold primarily as an investment in scientific research that would pay rich dividends in civilian spin-offs. The first estimated price tag was $8 billion in 1984 dollars, but the figure was grossly misleading. Now the estimates of cost have floated into an orbit of their own. In testimony before a House subcommittee on May 1, we heard the kind of figures that Rep. Bob Walker, R-Pa., calls "funny numbers." The National Aeronautics and Space Administration put the initial cost at $30 billion in 1991 dollars. The subcommittee staff hazarded a guess of $52 billion. The General Accounting Office pessimistically predicted $118 billion over the 30-year period. One witness said $180 billion.

What would the taxpayers get for these astronomical sums? Tangibly speaking, not much.

Under congressional prodding, NASA has cut back the original concept. As it now stands, Freedom would support a crew not of eight, but of only four. Its costly laboratory would serve only two areas of scientific experiment: microgravity and life sciences.

Harvard's Professor Nicolaas Bloembergen, president of the American Physical Society, testified that a manned space station "is unsuited to microgravity research." The trouble is that "each movement by an astronaut would shift the center of mass of the station, producing a momentary acceleration which is equivalent to gravity." Other witnesses before the committee voiced the same negative opinion.

What, then, of research in the life sciences? Yes, the experts agreed, a manned long-orbiting space station will indeed be required if — if we intend to go for Mars. In short, to quote Bloembergen again, "the only reason for putting humans into space is to learn how to put more humans into space." Could we learn what we need to know about Mars by sending robots instead?

What about the intangible benefits? These were urged before the subcommittee by Adm. Richard H. Truly, administrator of NASA. The space station, he conceded, cannot be justified solely on the basis of scientific experiments or civilian spin-offs.

"The space station should be built," he said, "because it maintains American leadership in space, is an investment in our future, will advance science and technology, and promotes U.S. competitiveness.

This is an attractive rationale, not to be dismissed out of hand. There is indeed something to be said for the values of leadership, pride and prestige. During floor debate on May 2, speakers recalled John F. Kennedy's analogy: Space is "the new ocean." We cannot let it go unexplored. The vision of space travel is a captivating vision.

But the hard question remains: Is this particular investment the best way in which to continue the explorations of our solar system? Some highly qualified observers are highly doubtful.

John Pike, director of space policy research within the Federation of American Scientists, testified that the proposed experiments in microgravity had been "greatly oversold.

G. Brent Dalrymple, president of the American Geophysical Union, said the space station would produce "little or nothing" in the way of experiments that could not be done better and at less expense through unmanned satellites.

Louis J. Lanzerotti, chairman of the space studies board of the National Research Council, put it bluntly: "Neither the quantity nor the quality of research that can be conducted on the proposed station merits the projected investment.

Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., chairman of the subcommittee that heard these witnesses, feels that NASA's $30 billion would buy the taxpayers no more than an "empty garage" in space. She wants an independent study by uninvolved and knowledgeable authorities. It is little enough to

For my own part, I am wedded to the idea of exploring this "new ocean." It's exciting. But I have read the record and listened to congressional debate. This particular investment strikes me, plainly and simply, as a bad investment. I would stop it before it gets unstoppable.

Values should be more important By BETTY JOHANSEN

Copy Editor In an earlier column, I told about Vasily Kotov, a young Russian who defected to the United States after World War II, and the bewilderment he experienced trying to adjust to freedom. One of the first questions Vasily asked in America was, " 'What is the goal of this

He asked the question of a Czech major, also new to the U.S. The Czech did not understand the question, so Vasily explained how, in the Soviet Union the nation as well as each factory, is working toward a goal — a five-year

The major laughed and waved scornfully at a roomful of beautifully dressed men and women, " 'The aim of this people is only to get dollars,' he said. 'To drink, to eat well, to have clothes which are better than the others — nothing

The Czech's answer saddened me, and I examined myself, wondering if my only purpose in living is to chase dollars. I don't believe the pursuit of money is a worthwhile life goal for human beings who possess such powerful endowments as imagination and creativity and compassion.

But, although most individuals would deny that attaining wealth is their highest priority, we are surrounded by examples of people who act as if money is their main

I remember a "Little House

If you ask me

Papa Ingles got gold fever. He moved his family to the gold fields and soon learned that the possession of gold must carry with it a willingness to do violence to the parasites who were constantly trying to steal the lucky striker's new-found wealth, murder being no object. It didn't take Charles long to move his family back to their little house on the prairie where more important goals than money motivated the good people of Walnut Grove.

The legalization of gambling, in all its many forms, is a current issue in many states. The fact that gambling attracts and even creates get-rich-quick vultures, who are willing to sell their souls and spill our blood for money, seems never to enter into the decision-making process. What are we going to do when there are no more Walnut Groves to move back

On May 2, the Associated Press ran a story about a clerk who found a winning lottery ticket discarded behind the counter at her place of employment. She paid $5 for the ticket and claimed her prize. Lottery officials declared her the winner, but the owners of the convenience store and the clerk who printed the ticket sued for the money. In the face of a $12.5 million jackpot, it's hard to fault any of the players in the little drama; but I can't help visualizing a herd of pigs struggling to push each other away from the slop bucket.

Back in the days when I had a stronger stomach than I do now, I used to watch some of the daytime talk shows "Donahue" and "Oprah." I remember programs in which prostitutes justified their career choice on the basis that no other work could afford them the standard of living they enjoyed. To give up a job paying several hundred dollars a night for a job paying $3.50 an hour seemed to them a preposterous suggestion. In other programs, experts on the drug culture explained that pushers could make thousands of dollars a week on the street; whereas, they were not qualified to make more than minimum wage at any other occupation. Besides, in any other employment, they would be expected to (gasp!) work. Frankly, I'm of the opinion it is the mindset of the prostitute and the pusher that allows voters to re-elect congressmen vear after year on the basis of their power and ability to get bucks for their districts. We're willing to elect presidents with principles because presidents represent the whole country; our own personal pocketbooks aren't directly effected. But when congressmen get some power, it is almost impossible to get rid of them, because they're smart enough to protect the financial interests of their constituents, even though

they're willing to shred the morals of the country

For example, I would not, under any circumstances, vote for a politician who supports abortion. Unless there are two pro-life candidates on a ballot, I have no choice. If I supported a pro-abortion candidate because I thought he could put dollars in my bank account, I would be violating my deepest values for the sake of a buck.

In the 1972 movie "Cabaret," about pre-Hitler Germany, two bizarre characters - pitiful, insecure Sally Bowles and a weirdo in a tuxedo and a painted, clown face - sing a song that goes: "Money, money, money. makes the world go round. Money makes the world go round . Out in the streets, clean-cut, blonde Nazis are singing, "Tomorrow belongs to

The message is powerful. When the hearts of a people are singing, "Money makes the world go round," their nation is susceptible to corrupt influences. Germany fell. The United States could too. In a time and place when money is the only thing that stands between cold and hunger and homelessness for us and our families, it is understandable that we may sometimes get carried away with our pursuit of dollars. But we'll do ourselves and our nation a favor if we'll examine ourselves and make sure our vision is loftier than a piece of paper with a president's picture on it.

Queen first British monarchy to visit Texas

HOUSTON (AP) - Queen Elizabeth II today becomes the first British monarch to visit the Lone Star State, 151 years after Great Britain became one of the first European nations to recognize the fledgling Republic of Texas.

With all the hoopla of an electionyear campaign swing, the queen and Prince Philip will be winding up their 10-day U.S. tour with a three-day stay in Austin, San Antonio, Dallas and Houston, hitting the usual tourist traps as well as attending some made-for-royalty extravaganzas.

"I suspect that since you now have a president who calls Texas home may have influenced her." said Helen Mann, vice consul for the British Consulate in Houston.

Sidelines Lee forces Hawks to play one more

STEPHENVILLE - For the record for most wins in the season, Howard College Hawks and the Lee College Rebels, there is no tomorrow.

The Rebels, behind the three-hit pitching of Joe Richard, beat the Hawks 5-2 Sunday to force a final game today at the State Junior College Baseball Tournament at Tarleton State University.

Richard went the distance, hurling a perfect game until Jose Gomez lined a double in the top of the sixth. His record improved to was ineffective Sunday, pitching only one inning in picking up his fourth loss of the season against 13

"Richard pitched really good," Howard Coach Bill Griffin said. "He was spotting his pitches really well. We hit the ball pretty good, but we hit them where they were.'

Lee scored all the runs it would need in the bottom of the first when Wayne Gann led off with a double and scored one hit later on a tworun double by Richard Evans.

The Rebels added single runs on Richard DeLeon's sacrifice fly in the bases. Gomez followed with a the second and Balcerak's RBI single in the third.

The Hawks, meanwhile, were unable to get untracked until the sixth. After Gomez's double, David Snyder and Willie Olivas walked to load the bases with one out. However, Richard forced Efrain Contreras to ground into a double play to end the threat.

Howard finally got untracked in the seventh. With one out, Sean Teague reached on an error, Jeff Schulz beat out an infield hit and Franklyn Johnson walked to load single to right that scored designated runner Keith Cosby and Schulz to end the scoring for the

"Copple had a terrible start," Griffin said of his starter. "He didn't have anything, but even if he had, we've still got to hit the ball to Griffin credited the loss in part on emotional momentum Lee might have gained by eliminating defending national champion San Jacinto earlier in the day.

"They just outplayed us, and that happens in baseball," he said. "Lee was on a big high after beating San Jacinto, and you can imagine their confidence factor after that. If that carries over to today, we're going to be in trouble."

Griffin said that Frank Rodriguez (11-1) will start for Howard in today's game, but added that he would not hesitate to call on any one of the Hawks' pitchers.

"I'm going to go with everybody's we've got," he said. 'There's no tomorrow.

Jordan's supporting cast leads the way

CHICAGO (AP) - Michael Jordan was the first to admit he did not have a great game.

When that's happened in the past, the Chicago Bulls usually lost. On Sunday, they beat Detroit 94-83 in the opener of the Eastern Conference finals, with Jordan scoring nearly 10 points less than his playoff scoring average.

"You have to give my supporting cast a lot of credit," said Jordan, who scored 22 points. But 15 of those came in the first half, and he was scoreless in the third quarter. "I did not have a particularly good game," Jordan admitted. "The bench came out and held its Scottie Pippen had 18 points, six steals and five blocks and Bill Cartwright scored 16 points. Four reserves - B.J. Armstrong, Cliff Levingston, Craig Hodges and Will Perdue — all scored in the first five minutes of the fourth quarter as the Bulls stretched a 68-65 lead to 81-72.

In knocking Chicago out of the playoffs the previous three years, including the last two Eastern Conference finals en route to winning consecutive NBA titles, the Pistons have neutralized Jordan, and the rest of the Bulls didn't take up the

This time, Armstrong finished with nine points, Levingston eight, Hodges seven and Perdue six. The much-malinged bench players also had 15 rebounds as the Bulls controlled the boards 43-26. 'They had critical play in short minutes," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "Detroit is a team that wears you out with their physical presence. We need relief from the bench in this series.' Game 2 of the best-of-7 series also is in Chicago on Tuesday night. Then the scene shifts to the Palace in Auburn Hills, Mich., for games Saturday and next Monday. The Bulls took an early 12-point lead, but the Pistons rallied in the third quarter to pull ahead 54-53 and 59-58. They also tied it 62-62 on a 3-pointer by Isiah Thomas before

The Bulls were more rested, having sewed up their series with the Philadelphia 76ers on Tuesday. Detroit played an overtime game Friday night, ousting Boston from the playoffs.

"We were sluggish, slow afoot and struggled, but we could have stole this one," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said. "The Bulls looked rusty from their long layoff. If you were going to beat the Bulls, today was the day.

But Chicago's reserves were

"You have to know what is expected," Hodges said. "You have to take your job seriously and not embarrass your team. We had a solid game plan and we had the minutes to get into rhythm.

For Levingston, it was "a great confidence builder. Before this, when it came to crunch time, we'd be out of there. We scored, played good defense, stayed in there and ourconfidence started to build."

"The difference in this series will be whose bench plays better," Perdue said.

"It was our bench that did it," Jackson said. "They got critical points in short minutes. Detroit wears you down with their physical presence and you need relief minutes.

The Pistons were making no excuses although their backups provided most of the scoring, with Mark Aguirre having 25 points and Vinnie Johnson 21. The only starter in double figures was Isiah Thomas with 11 points, all in the second "The Bulls did everything well," Thomas said. "This was a wellplayed game. We have to make adiustments before Tuesday. We have to play better in Game 2."

"We don't make excuses," Johnson said. "We're champions back-to-back. It seems the team never got into sync.'

Hornets will get top choice

NEW YORK (AP) — The Charlotte Hornets, New Jersey Nets and Sacramento Kings emerged as the big winners and the Denver Nuggets as the big losres in the 1991 NBA draft lottery Sunday

The Hornets, who finished with the fifth-worst record in the NBA at 26-56, got the No. 1 pick when one of their seven balls was drawn out of a bin containing 66 balls with team logos. Allan Bristow, vice president of the Hornets, said he wasn't sure who Charlotte would take with the first selection.

The Nuggets, a league-worst 20-62 last season, were saddled with the fourth pick when none of their 11 balls in the bin was drawn. The lottery determines only the top three picks in the draft, with the rest of the 11 non-playoff teams choosing in reverse order of their record.

After the top four picks, the draft order will be Miami, Dallas, Minnesota, Washington the Los Angeles Clippers, Orlando and Cleveland.

Sanchez victor in Italian Open

ROME (AP) — Spain's Emilio Sanchez won the Italian Open on Sunday when a severe groin pull forced Alberto Mancini to quit midway through the third set of their championship match.

Sanchez, the ninth seed, was leading 6-3, 6-1, 3-0 when Mancini gestured that he could not continue, awarding the $181,000 first prize to Sanchez

Johnson clocks fastest 200

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) -Michael Johnson ran the fastest 200 meters in the world this year, clocking 20.02 seconds Sunday in the first Grand Prix track and field meet of the season. The previous best this year was a 20.20 clocking by Jimmy French on May 11 in Fayetteville, Fla.

Robson da Silva of Brazil won the 400 in 45.06. The only faster time in the world this year was Johnson's 44.73 at the Drake Relays last month. In the women's division,

American Gwen Torrence won the 100- and 200-meter races, clocking 11.22 seconds in the 100 and 22.60 seconds in the 200 and American Kathy Freeman won the 400-meter hurdles in 56.91 seconds CLEVELAND (AP) - Alev-tina Naumova of the Soviet Union won the women's portion of the Revco Cleveland Marathon on Sunday in a record time of 2 hours, 35 minutes, 32 seconds, while Paul Kipkoech of Kenya won the men's portion in 2:14:26, just three seconds off the all-time record.

The men's 10-kilometer race, won by Keith Brantley of Gainesville, Fla., was marred by the death of a 26-year-old man who collapsed about twothirds of the way through. Cuyahoga County Coroner Elizabeth Balraj identified him as Brian McNitt of Shaker Heights.

Anne Audain of New Zealand won the women's 10-kilometer race for the seventh time overall and second consecutive year. She was timed in the 32:56, two seconds faster than Michelle Bush-Cuke

orth Stars continue to win at home

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) -Home ice isn't always an advantage in the Stanley Cup playoffs except when the Minnesota North Stars play at the Met Center, of

There they have been the most dominant home team in the NHL's postseason by far.

"Our strength is at home," Minnesota center Mike Modano said after the North Stars won their eighth straight at the Met Center with a 3-1 decision over the Pittsburgh Penguins Sunday night.

Not since a 6-5 defeat by Chicago in their first postseason home game have the North Stars lost in their arena. In the next eight games, the North Stars outscored their opponents by a whopping 37-14. In that time, they have trailed for only 4:27 of the 400 total minutes played.

Actually, the North Stars' homeice dominance started in the middle of the season. They are 20-2-2 at the Met Center since Jan. 17.

"Guys have confidence here," Minnesota forward Brian Bellows said. "We just feel if we work hard, we will win here. We're not overconfident. We just feel we can get the goals when we need them.'

The North Stars hope to complete a home sweep over the Penguins in Game 4 of the Stanley Cup finals on Tuesday night. Sunday night's victory gave them a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 series.

"Home ice advantage won't mean anything unless we win on Tuesday night," Bellows said. "This team isn't suffering from overconfidence. We know that we have to work hard to win at home." Following Tuesday night's game, the teams will play Game 5 in Pittsburgh, where they split the first two games.

We have to like being in this position," Minnesota center Bobby Smith said. "We're leading 2-1 with still another home game to play

The Penguins actually played 54 games without their prime-time player during the regular season.

Lemieux had missed most of the year because he was recuperating from disc surgery over the summer Actually, Penguins coach Bob Johnson found a certain resolve in his team with Lemieux on the sidelines.

period and played sloppily. "We ran around in the first period trying to make things happen," Bellows said. "The guys just too anxious to make things happen.'

The quick-strike North Stars, who have outscored opponents 32-18 in the first period in the playoffs, waited until the second to do some damage this time. Then they did it in a hurry, getting goals within a 33-second span from Dave Gagner and Smith.

Gagner scored from the left circle at 7:21 and Smith from the right circle at 7;54.

The North Stars' 2-0 lead held up until Phil Bourque scored for Pittsburgh at 1:23 of the third period on a point-blank shot in front of Casey, who made 29 saves.

At this point, Johnson told his team that there was still plenty of time left.

"In the dressing room, we talked about breaking down the third period into two parts," Johnson said. "We wanted to score one goal in the first 10 minutes and another in the last 10. But after we scored our first goal, they came back so quickly.

That was the backbreaker by Minnesota left wing Gaetan Duchesne, who put in a rebound at

"To get that goal was a big relief," North Stars center Dave Gagner said.

Morris receives rude greeting

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

For more than a decade, Jack Morris was Detroit's stopper. He still is, apparently. Morris got roughed up in his return to Tiger Stadium and Detroit stopped an eight-game losing streak by routing the Minnesota Twins 8-3 Sunday. Morris was in trouble from the start giving up a three-run homer to Cecil Fielder and a grand slam to Milt Cuyler in the first inning. It was Detroit's biggest first inning since April 13, 1984, the year Morris helped pitch the Tigers to the World Series championship.

Rangers 12, Red Sox 4 Julio Franco drove in four runs and Texas completed the best homestand in its 19-year history, again beating up Boston for its seventh straight victory

ARLINGTON — Texas Rangers Ruben Sierra (21) and Juan Gonzales celebrate after they scored on a double by teammate Mike Stanley against the Boston Red Sox during the sixth inning at Arlington Stadium Sunday.

Franco, Mike Stanley and Steve Buechele each homered. Stanley also tripled and doubled, and Franco, Rafael Palmeiro and Mario Diaz added three hits

American League

Reliever Gary Alexander (1-0) got his first major league victory. Bolton lasted just 2 2-3 innings and got tagged for seven runs and nine

White Sox 5, Blue Jays 4 Mark Whiten got the biggest hit, punching Chicago pitcher Jack McDowell in the face and igniting a bench-clearing brawl. But Lance Johnson got the most important hit, a tiebreaking single in the sixth inning that help the White Sox win at home.

Ken Patterson (1-0) was the winner. Bobby Thigpen pitched 1 2-3 innings for his eighth save.

Yankees 3, Mariners 2 Steve Howe got his first victory since 1987 and Mel Hall hit a tworun homer as New York stopped Seattle's six-game winning streak.

Howe (1-0) pitched 1 1-3 innings for his first win since Sept. 20, 1987, while with Texas. He was released by the Rangers after that season and has been out of the majors, trying to overcome a drinking problem. Athletics 9, Indians 4

Dave Henderson drove in four runs, increasing his major leagueleading total to 35 RBIs, and Terry Steinbach hit a three-run homer.

Oakland went 5-5 on its road trip, while Cleveland fell to 3-13 at Henderson got three hits, including an RBI double in the fifth. and a three-run double in the sixth that made it 6-4. Steinbach hit his third home run in the seventh. Reliever Curt Young (2-1) was the winner.

Angels 10, Orioles 2 Dave Gallagher went 5-for-5 and drove in three runs as California won at Baltimore. Gallagher, who played 23 games for the Orioles last season and was traded to the Angels in December, set a career high for hits. He also scored two runs.

Brewers 4, Royals 2 e Navarro pitched into the ng and Gary Sheffield hit double as Milwaukee

Chamberlain was the other. He shot a career-high 539 from the field, 12th in the league, and was third in steals

"This year, we knew his minutes and his scoring average would go down to save him for the crucial times of the season," said coach Phil Jackson, whose Bulls have a 1-0 lead over Detroit in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference

Struggling Giants lose in extra innings

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco Giants can't believe how badly they're playing. Sunday's 5-4, 13-inning loss to the Montreal Expos left the Giants with a 12-25 record, the worst in baseball. San Francisco is nine games behind first-place Los Angeles in the National League

"We just can't keep talking about it, getting better, we just have to start doing it," said Will Clark, who homered Sunday to drive in his league-leading 34th run. "The thing that's puzzling to me is that I don't understand why its happening.

Ivan Calderon hit a run-scoring single with two outs in the 13th inning off Mike LaCoss (1-5) as the Giants lost for the seventh time in nine games. The Giants, who tied the game on Kevin Bass' two-run homer in the ninth, have lost 19 of Cardinals 9, Astros 2

Ray Lankford, Pedro Guerrero and Todd Zeile drove in two runs each as the Cardinals increased their home record to a NL-best

Jordan named league's MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Jordan, who led the Chicago Bulls to the best record in franchise history, today was named the NBA's Most Valuable Player for the 1990-91 season.

It was the second MVP award for Jordan, who received 77 votes of the 96 possible first-place votes from a panel of writers and broadcasters. His 891 total points in the voting easily outdistanced Magic Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, who had 497 points and 10 first-place votes.

San Antonio's David Robinson finished third, followed by Philadelphia's Charles Barkley, Utah's Karl Malone and Portland's Clyde Drexler. Robinson, Barkley and Drexler also got first-place votes.

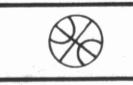

Jordan, the key to Chicago's 61-21 regular-season record, averged 31 points, 6.0 rebounds and 5.5 assists. He is only the second player in NBA history to lead the league in scoring in five seasons - Wilt average with 2.72 per game.

He did all that while playing 37 minutes per game, fewer than in any of the past five seasons, and averaging only 22 shots per game, second-lowest over that period.

Denver records

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - John Denver swapped Rocky Mountains highs for the wide open-spaces at lower elevations to record an album

The album, tentatively titled "Foxfire," is scheduled for release in the fall. It will be distributed by American Grammaphone Records, founded by Chip Davis of the Omaha-based musical group Mannheim Steamroller.

Denver, 47, was joined this weekend by his wife, singer-actress Cassandra Delaney, who flew in from Aspen, Colo., for their daughter Jesse Belle's second birthday on Saturday.

Explaining his coming to Nebraska, Denver said he met Davis about a year ago and "had a wonderful day with him. It felt like meeting an old friend. Denver is best known for his hits of two decades ago, "Rocky Mountain High" and "Sunshine on My Shoulders

So long to Harry

NEW YORK (AP) - Harry Reasoner, a founding correspondent with Mike Wallace on "60 Minutes," bid farewell to viewers. Reasoner, 68, becomes "editor emeritus" and will appear occasionally on the top-rated Sunday program, CBS spokesman Roy Brunett said.

On Sunday night's show, Reasoner recalled his doubts when producer Don Hewitt asked him to make a pilot for the TV news magazine in 1968.

"I said sure, but I also said I didn't think it would fly," Reasoner said. "I've been wrong a lot but never so happily wrong. The former Minnesota newsman

Reasoner joined CBS in 1956 and left in 1970 for eight years, during which he was anchorman of ABC's added, "I could go on and on but I
