City announces stoplight change

The stoplight at the intersection of 18th and Goliad streets will begin flashing this week, city officials said today. The light, near College Heights Elementary School, is turned to flashing each summer as traffic lightens in the area. The light will be yellow for drivers on Goliad, but 18th Street drivers will be required to stop at a flashing red light. Friday will be the first day of the change, officials said.

Airpark contacted about lost plane

McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark officials were contacted early today about a plane that lost contact with controllers in the local area. Airpark Supervisor John Ramey said Basin Aviation, fixed base operator, received a call from San Angelo controllers about the plane, which may have been headed toward Big Spring. Texas Department of Public Safety officials had contacted his office as well. "They said it was planning to land here, but it had disappeared from their radar," Ramey said. He said the Cessna 210 may have had trouble during the early morning storm or decided to land somewhere else to wait for the storm to clear. "Or they may just be flying below the radar," Ramey said. "We don't know at this point."

Zoning change to be requested

The Big Spring Planning and Zoning Commission will consider a zoning change request at its meeting Tuesday, 5:15 p.m. in the office of the McMahon/Wrinkle Airpark. Tim Blackshear, owner of an old school building at the corner of 13th and Austin streets, is requesting a change from 2F (two family dwelling) to GR (general residential) zoning for the area. City information says Blackshear hopes to renovate the building into apartments.

Perry announces Make it Texas plan

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Department of Agriculture today unveiled a push to harvest big bucks from processing crops and livestock. Agriculture Commission Rick Perry said Texas lags behind the rest of the nation in preparing, refining, or packaging what it produces. "We can brag that we produce more cotton, cattle, goats, wool and mohair than another state," Perry said. "But the bragging stops when it comes to processing those products and reaping the resulting profits."

Rainstorm welcomed by farmers

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Soaking showers which dumped two to six inches of rain in the area overnight and early today have reportedly saved this year's cotton crop.

Drought conditions in May had caused cotton sprouts to begin dying in some areas, Howard County Extension Agent Don Richardson said Friday. Farmers have finished over half the planting of this year's crop and were expected to be done by a June 10 crop insurance date — whether rain came or not, Richardson said.

"The prospects now are going to improve economically for farmers in the county," Richardson said early today. "This will carry us into the season pretty well now." More rain will probably be needed by early July, he said.

Richardson said some replanting is expected due to dead cotton sprouts and because of dirt washed on top of other sprouts during the rainstorm.

"There's still plenty of time to replant. So the prospects are still good for a good crop if there isn't an early freeze and if the bugs don't eat it up," said Ron Walker, who owns farmland near Big Spring and Knott. Walker recorded 1.7 inches of rain on his farm about eight miles north of Big Spring and 5.5 inches of rain on his farm about two miles south of Knott. Farmers in Knott recorded six inches of rain, which flooded some fields and homes there, he said.

About two inches of rain were reported by farmers with rain gauges in the Lomax area, said farmer Lawrence Atkins. "We can make it," Atkins said of this year's crop in that area.

In Big Spring, 2.56 inches of rain had fallen as of 8 a.m., reported a clerk with the U.S. Department of Agriculture Research station in Big Spring. That brings this year's total rainfall to 5.90 inches, which is still less than normal rainfall of 6.86 inches by this time of year. However, it is higher than normal rainfall for June, which is 2.10 inches.

At Lake Thomas in southern Borden County, 2.75 inches fell as of 8 a.m., said Colorado Municipal Water District Manager Owen Ivie. At the Colorado River and Farm Road 669, 1.9 inches fell while .9 of an inch fell in Gail, Ivie said. Lake Spence in Coke County got .5 of an inch.

The rain was not enough to appreciably affect the water quality of Big Spring water, which comes Today's rainfall, however welcomed by area farmers, created problems for motorists early this morning. A driver at Alamesa and Parkway apparently had second thoughts about crossing the intersection this morning.

Specialist to look at firetruck

By DEBBIE LINCECUM
Staff Writer

A specialist is expected to examine the wrecked Big Spring Fire Department mini-pumper today as part of the continuing accident investigation, Fire Chief Frank Anderson said.

"He'll go over it and try to determine if it's salvageable," Anderson said. "At that point, we'll make a decision about what to do." After impact at the May 25 accident, the truck, known as Rescue One, flipped upside down and sustained extensive damage.

Anderson has said the truck may need to be replaced. At present, Central Station crews have returned to use a 1964 Mack pumper that had been replaced by the purchase of a new truck recently. The department has two 1964 Mack vehicles still in use.

"We're very fortunate those two Macks are in such good shape or I don't know what we would do," Anderson said.

Officials said financial responsibility for damages has not been determined in the accident, which involved vehicles driven by new firefighter Mark Settles and Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. Executive Director Ted St. Clair.

Anderson said he is considering whether disciplinary action will be taken within the fire department. Settles, who passed training and joined the department May 16, was

Festival deemed success

Big Spring Main Street officials and volunteers are weary but satisfied with their Heart of the City Festival, coordinator Beverly Franklin said today.

"Everything went so well, we're all just very pleased," Franklin said. "Saturday's attendance was great, and my vendors said Sunday was good for a Sunday afternoon." Jake Glickman of the Record Shop estimated attendance topped 8,000.

Two days of music, exhibitions, performances and sales ended late Sunday. The festival filled the first four blocks of Main Street and several side streets with booths, games and stages.

Out-of-town visitors came from Snyder, Sweetwater, Midland-Odessa, Sonora, El Paso, San Angelo, Texarkana, Dallas, all area towns and several New Mexico cities, Glickman said.

Franklin credited the work of volunteers and Assistant Coordinator Velia Ross with keeping things running smoothly. Ross and Franklin are the only two paid employees of Big Spring Main Street, an independent downtown renovation corporation.

Reunion drawing folks back

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Old "East Side" Big Spring residents will come from all over Texas to attend Saturday's 14th Annual Cannibal Draw reunion, said Reunion Coordinator H.M. "Mack" Underwood.

Underwood said "old east side" Big Spring prior to 1930, was "one of the closest knit communities that there ever was."

Most of the residents of Cannibal Draw were poor, but they were hard working, very fine people, said Underwood.

Before there was a drainage system in Big Spring, water stood in the low areas by the railroad tracks near what is now Owens Street, he said. Since the town at that time did not extend much past Johnson Street, this marked the eastern boundary of Big Spring.

Neighborhood children liked to play in this area, but their parents worried about snakes and other dangers in the area, said Underwood. So to discourage children from playing there, some parent made up a story about cannibals that live in the draw and eat children. Being a close-knit community, other parents picked up the story and the name Cannibal Draw was born.

Underwood refers to himself as a "nostalgia nut." After he returned to Big Spring to retire in 1977, he began thinking of the old neighborhood and those he played with as a boy. So he contacted the "old bunch" and began the Cannibal Draw Reunions.

Underwood's Cannibal Draw buddies include Joe Pickle of Big Spring and now Congressman J. J. "Jake" Pickle.

The reunion has grown from 35 to 50 in the first years to last year's record of 135, said Underwood.

Underwood has received 120 reservations so far for this reunion. "Since our average age is 63 to 95, there are going to be a few aches and pains (that will keep some people away)," said Underwood. "But we could still get some more reservations," he added.

The reunion is scheduled for June 8, at 6 p.m. at the La Posada Restaurant. "Every year, out of town members make up from 30 to 40 percent of the number present," he said.

At the reunion, awards will be given to the eldest man and woman in attendance, to the member who traveled the longest distance to attend and the member who has been married to the same spouse for the longest time, said Underwood.

Underwood reminds all widows and widowers of deceased members that they are eligible to attend and may bring a guest.

Report on poverty shatters stereotypes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ineffective government programs and low wages pushed 2.2 million American children into poverty during the 1980s, a children's advocacy group says in a report that shatters several myths about just who is poor.

Only one in 10 poor children in America in 1989 was black and living on welfare in a female-headed, big-city household, said the study, being released today by the Children's Defense Fund.

"Poor families in America are all of us — white, black, brown, hard working, two parent and single-parent families... fathers and mothers struggling to earn decent wages," said Marian Wright Edelman, president of the group.

About 12.6 million children in the United States — or about one in five youngsters — were living in families with incomes below the poverty threshold in 1989, said the report, which used government figures from the Census Bureau and the Bureau of Labor Statistics. That was 2.2 million more poor children than a decade ago, despite uninterrupted economic growth from 1982 through 1989, the study found. The report concluded that more people are poor in part because federal benefit programs failed to keep pace with the nation's rising cost of living in the past decade.

Several stereotypes about just what type of children are living in poverty turned out to be unfounded, the study found. For instance, in 1989 most poor families with children had at least one worker, and that paycheck — not welfare checks — was the family's biggest source of income.

More poor children live outside big cities than inside them, and nearly two-thirds of all poor families with children have only one or two children.

The report blamed a declining effectiveness of government assistance programs and changes in the job market — such as increased unemployment and lower wages — for the increasing child poverty rate.

"Spending cuts during the 1980s exacerbated the extent to which poor families with children are shortchanged by public programs," the report said, adding that spending for cash payments to low-income families with children fell 21 percent over the decade.

In addition, the study found, more than half of all government cash programs — such as Social Security, veterans benefits and Aid to Families with Dependent Children — go to non-poor families.

"Only $1 in every $12 of such payments in 1987 went to families with children that were poor or would have been poor in the absence of that government help," the study said.

Lower wages and the poor job market is also to blame, the study said. Between 1979 and 1989, the proportion of hourly workers who were being paid wages too low to lift a family of three out of poverty increased by more than 50 percent.

By 1989, nearly half of all hourly workers younger than 25 and one in six older workers were paid such inadequate wages, the study said. The official poverty line in 1989 was $9,885 for a family of three and $12,675 for a family of four.

Not only have more children become poor in recent years, the study found, but poor children fall farther below the poverty line than they did in the 1970s.

By 1989, there were 4.9 million American children — more than two in five poor children — who were in families with incomes below half the poverty line. Only one in 25 working-age adults and one in 50 adults suffer such extreme poverty, the report found.

The United States has one of the highest child poverty rates of all industrialized nations, the report said. Another study found that 17.1 percent of U.S. children lived below the poverty line, more than five times the rate of Switzerland or Sweden.

The study recommended that Congress create a children's tax credit, child support guarantees and enact a higher minimum wage to lift children out of poverty.

Sharp plans major tax overhaul

HOUSTON (AP) — State Comptroller John Sharp said his plans to overhaul business taxes could generate billions of dollars for the state budget. Sharp plans to brief Gov. Ann Richards on his plan Tuesday and present it to the Governor's Task Force on Revenue in Austin Saturday. Sharp wants to scrap the state franchise tax that charges corporations $5.25 per $1,000 of taxable capital and surplus. Instead, Sharp wants a levy based on the level of business a company does. Sharp told The Houston Post his proposal would draw taxes from more than 150,000 businesses "that are completely escaping taxes right now." The list of new taxpayers would include service providers, such as lawyers, Realtors, architects and other professionals that have battled for years to keep their fees exempt from the state sales tax. Sharp plans to announce specific cuts and changes at a June 26 meeting.

Gatlin Brothers plan to retire

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Gatlin Brothers are calling it quits at the end of their current tour, citing health problems, higher business costs and competition from "new hat" country performers. But don't expect to see the Texas trio too upset over the end. "They're real positive about it," Gatlin spokeswoman Brenda Horn told The Associated Press on Sunday. "It's not negative at all. They're actually excited about possibly doing some other things."

Brothers Larry, Steve and Rudy launched a string of 15 Top 10 hits in 1979 with the single, "All the Gold in California," but have been without a major hit for four years. Ms. Horn said the Gatlins "may decide eventually to get back together. But right now, they just need some time off the road. They've been doing it for so long now. They just need a break."

They plan to stop performing when their "Adios, For Now" ends late in 1992. The tour will take a four-month break this summer as Larry, the group's lead singer and songwriter, undergoes surgery for cysts on his vocal cords.

Larry became unable to sing Saturday during a performance of "Help Me" as the group kicked off its tour in Davenport, Iowa. "I can't make it. It's that simple. The voice is gone," Larry Gatlin told The Tennessean in a telephone interview after the concert.

The cysts keep Gatlin from hitting high tenor notes, he told the newspaper in the copyright story published Sunday.

Following surgery, Larry will not be able to speak for six weeks or sing for four months, he said.

When the tour ends, Steve Gatlin plans to go into artist management, Rudy wants to produce and Larry said he will keep writing songs.

Rapper arrested after pulling gun

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rap singer Vanilla Ice was arrested early today after brandishing a pistol at a man who approached his car outside a supermarket, police said.

Ice, whose legal name is Robert Van Winkle of Carrollton, Texas, was booked for investigation of brandishing a firearm and released on his own recognizance, said police Lt. Michael Ranshaw. The misdemeanor offense carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail or an unspecified fine.

A 9mm pistol found in Ice's car was confiscated, as was another handgun taken from one of his companions, identified as Aaron Martin, Ranshaw said.

Court to hear arguments on school finance law

AUSTIN (AP) — The new school finance law's countywide property tax system will be the focus of a hearing to start June 17, lawyers said after meeting today with the judge overseeing the case.

Wealthy school districts have challenged the law, which is designed to shift hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within the new education taxing districts drawn largely along county lines.

The law sets a minimum tax that the countywide taxing regions must levy for public education. The school districts also may tax more without sharing the revenue. The state will make up the difference, up to a certain level, if poor school districts cannot raise enough money through local taxes alone.

State District Judge F. Scott McCown has scheduled a hearing in the case to begin June 17. "The issue that's going to be tried is the issue of the ad valorem (property) tax system as used in the statute, and whether that's constitutional or not," said Al Kauffman, representing a group of poor school districts.

Kauffman and Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter, representing the state, said the hearing will take about a week. James George, a lawyer for wealthy school districts challenging the law, did not immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press.

School districts with high property wealth say the law sets up an unconstitutional state property tax.

The state will contend that the education taxing districts are constitutional, said Gray McBride, a spokesman for Attorney General Dan Morales.

Kauffman said he also believes the county tax base system is constitutional.

"As far as whether the whole system is constitutional, we have no position yet. We're looking at that," he said. Kauffman said McCown also is to decide whether to consider, in a separate hearing, on whether the state may constitutionally rely so heavily on local property taxes to support public schools.

The new law was passed in response to a Texas Supreme Court order to even out education funding available to school districts. Unless overturned, it will replace the current finance system beginning in September.

LULAC elects state director

WACO (AP) — Hispanic convention delegates who say they were disenfranchised by their group plan to form their own organization in the wake of elections here.

Election of Rosa Rosales of San Antonio as the Texas League of United Latin American Citizens' new state director Sunday followed loss of voting rights by one district and several councils, officials said.

"We're going to convene a conference and try to figure out what our role is in LULAC," said Margaret Gonzales, a former LULAC national vice president. "We feel there's some very unethical things going on here," she said.

San Antonio's District 19 and several councils from across the state lost their right to vote after going through a credentials committee. The committee told the convention that several of the councils either had not paid their dues in 1990, or had paid them to the wrong person.

Ms. Rosales replaces retired Judge Albert Armendariz Sr., appointed by State District Judge Bill Moody in February to replace John T. Garcia as director.

About 100 ousted delegates of the convention for the state's largest Hispanic organization say Interim State Director Armendariz gave the committee false information.

One of the ousted delegates told the Waco Tribune-Herald that formation of a separate group to look after Hispanic needs in Texas was discussed.

The newspaper said almost all walked out of the LULAC meeting after hearing they could not vote.

Delegates received several letters telling them to pay their dues to Armendariz, who said it was a court-mandated requirement for credentials. Yet some "stubbornly" chose to pay the dues to Robert Garza, a former LULAC district director removed from office.

"They resisted and in effect abandoned their position in the organization," said Armendariz.

Delegates ruled ineligible to vote Sunday plan to appeal to Moody, said Ralph Gonzales of Houston. Garcia agreed to step down in February to settle a legal dispute.

Some state LULAC members accused Garcia and his supporters earlier this year of mismanaging state funds.

Garcia sued to block his dismissal and questioned Velez's authority in appointing a successor.

He filed a lawsuit against several LULAC members and claimed that Velez had instigated the attempt to remove him. Garcia had backed then-incumbent Jose Garcia de Lara, who Velez defeated in the June 1990 election for LULAC's presidency.

Garcia, after walking out of the elections Sunday, spoke to others who left the proceedings.

"That's the Republicans in there," he said. "These are the Democrats out here. In there, they're for themselves. They've lost the identity of the Hispanic community and want to assimilate into society. They want to become Gringos."

My turn now

SAN ANTONIO — Dell Bedford, 3, tries to take a water hose away from his brother, Michael Johnson, 4, last week while helping their mother, Patricia Bedford, wash the family car.

Court allows trial on oil firm price fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today cleared the way for a jury trial in a lawsuit accusing the nation's major oil companies of fixing prices and limiting supplies of gasoline in four Western states in the early 1970s.

The court, without comment, left intact a ruling that had revived the suit.

The oil companies were accused by officials in Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington of a massive scheme to rig prices and then cause gas shortages culminating around the time of the Arab oil embargo nearly 20 years ago.

The case, which has generated some four million pages of legal documents, had been dismissed by a federal judge in 1986 after more than 10 years of pretrial maneuvering.

Principal objects to graduation drama

HOUSTON (AP) — Several students at a performing arts school were denied their diplomas during their graduation ceremony after acting dramatically as they crossed a stage.

Annette Watson, principal at the High School for the Performing and Visual Arts, refused to give diplomas to at least four students during the Saturday gathering, although they did receive them after the event, observers said. Several parents said Ms. Watson overreacted, but a Houston school district official defended her actions.

"I was hurt, insulted and outraged," said Wilma Smith, whose daughter, Alvera Cross, was denied her diploma after she walked across the stage slowly like a beauty contestant, waving to the crowd.

"The kids did dramatic things, but they are all drama students," said Mrs. Smith, whose family moved from St. Louis to Houston so the youth could attend the school. Another student who didn't receive her diploma had hugged some school officials and waved to the crowd. One youth crossed the stage with one hand over his heart and the other extended to Ms. Watson and another student performed a dance on stage that caused the crowd to roar with laughter.

Ronnie Veselka, superintendent for District 14 in the Houston school system, said he watched the ceremony and that there was a "radical" difference in behavior among students whose diplomas were withheld and the rest.

"It was incredible. One student was jumping. One could be described as hula girl wriggling across the stage. These were not just displays of excitement. They were very deliberate and designed to draw attention," Veselka said.

NASA begins third shuttle countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA began the third countdown for space shuttle Columbia's biomedical research mission early today, after bad fuel sensors and malfunctioning navigational equipment halted two earlier efforts.

Shuttle managers are now aiming for a Wednesday morning liftoff. They resumed their countdown at 1 a.m.

NASA's second attempt to send Columbia on the 41st shuttle mission ended less than an hour before its scheduled Saturday morning launch. One of the shuttle's three navigational units failed to work properly and could not be fixed.

Workers installed a new unit Sunday. A fresh batch of laboratory animals for the astronauts' research assignments — 30 white rats and 2,478 tiny jellyfish — will be loaded into the spaceship Tuesday.

The week before, technicians had to put in new computer components and fuel temperature sensors. Trouble with those parts forced NASA to halt the first countdown on May 21, a day before scheduled liftoff.

Mission commander Bryan O'Connor and pilot Sidney Gutierrez flew to Edwards Air Force Base in California on Sunday to practice shuttle landings. The five other astronauts stayed behind at Kennedy Space Center and reviewed flight plans. Four of them — three physicians and one cell biologist — underwent further medical testing.

The four medical specialists were named in early 1984 to the nine-day research mission, which NASA hopes will improve what is known about human adaptation to space. The flight was delayed from the mid-1980s to August 1990 by the Challenger disaster in 1986. Last year's shuttle fuel leaks pushed the mission into May.

Their lives have changed considerably while they have waited. Dr. James Bagian was single when he was assigned to the mission. He's now married with three children.

Dr. M. Rhea Seddon was married with a baby. That baby is now almost 9 years old and has a baby brother.

Cell biologist Millie Hughes-Fulford was a newlywed, and her daughter was a high school freshman. Now her daughter is the newlywed.

Cardiologist F. Andrew Gaffney's life is perhaps the least changed since the four were assigned. He's still married with two children, and he's still waiting for his first trip into space.

"We wish it would have been earlier," Seddon, 43, said. "It's been a long time, but it's given us more time to refine some of the studies, the procedures, that we're going to do."

There is another silver lining. The four have been undergoing regular medical testing since they were assigned — the past year has been especially intense — and scientists now have the opportunity to study the effects of aging, said Hughes-Fulford, now 45.

"If you get lemons, you make lemonade out of it," she said. The four will draw blood from one another in orbit and monitor each other's heart, blood pressure, and lung and kidney functions. The findings will be compared with test results acquired before and after the flight.

The three non-medical crew members, assigned to the mission a scant two years ago, will participate in some of the less rigorous tests.

The states alleged that the companies caused the shortages by exchanging information on production levels and expected consumer demand, while conspiring to limit overseas oil imports.

The oil companies that sought to kill the suit are Chevron, Atlantic Richfield, Exxon, Mobil Oil, Shell Oil, Texaco and Union Oil of California.

Their appeal was supported by the Business Roundtable, comprised of chief executive officers of some 200 companies.

The oil companies and the Business Roundtable said the 9th Circuit court ruling exposes businesses to enormous liability in lawsuits based on ambiguous evidence.

Third countdown begins for shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA began the third countdown for space shuttle Columbia's biomedical research mission early today, after bad fuel sensors and malfunctioning navigational equipment halted two earlier efforts.

Shuttle managers are now aiming for a Wednesday morning liftoff. They resumed their countdown at 1 a.m.

NASA's second attempt to send Columbia on the 41st shuttle mission ended less than an hour before its scheduled Saturday morning launch. One of the shuttle's three navigational units failed to work properly and could not be fixed.

Gang's boredom led to murder

BOSTON (AP) — It wasn't only that Kimberly Rae Harbour had been gang-raped, beaten, stabbed 132 times and left to die.

It was the possible motive that put her murder in its full, grim focus.

"There was nothing to do and so I guess we had the impression of going out to the field and kill somebody," a 15-year-old among the eight teen-agers arrested in the case told detectives.

The eight, ranging in age from 15 to 19, face murder charges in the killing last Halloween. A judge is expected to rule later this month whether all eight will be tried as adults or if the five who were 16 or younger when the attack occurred will be tried as juveniles.

Gun ban in public housing debated

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Rifle Association has squared off against local officials over whether people can keep guns in public housing projects, and the battle could ultimately affect cities across the nation.

The Chicago Housing Authority's ban is the most recent of several attempts by municipal agencies to forbid residents to keep firearms on public housing property. Similar bans in Oregon and Virginia failed after NRA protests.

Public housing officials in Los Angeles, Seattle and Philadelphia are closely watching the dispute.

The NRA believes law-abiding people who live in public housing have a constitutional right to bear arms, said Washington, D.C., spokesman Tom Wyld. Banning guns hasn't stopped violence by Workers installed a new unit Sunday. A fresh batch of laboratory animals for the astronauts' research assignments — 30 white rats and 2,478 tiny jellyfish — will be loaded into the spaceship Tuesday.

The week before, technicians had to put in new computer components and fuel temperature sensors. Trouble with those parts forced NASA to halt the first countdown on May 21, a day before scheduled liftoff.

Mission commander Bryan O'Connor and pilot Sidney Gutierrez flew to Edwards Air Force Base in California on Sunday to practice shuttle landings.

Japanese volcano erupts, 21 missing

TOKYO (AP) — A volcano sent hot gas, rocks and lava hurtling into a village in southwestern Japan today, setting fire to homes and forcing the evacuation of 5,000 people. Police said 21 people — 13 of them reporters — were missing.

Several news reports said a 25-year-old policeman died when lava engulfed his patrol car. An official of the Nagasaki prefectural police said officers were unable to reach the scene to confirm the report.

Authorities said at least 20 people were injured by today's outburst by Mount Unzen, a volcano in Nagasaki prefecture that killed 15,000 people in an eruption 200 years ago.

Police, firefighters and journalists have been on the mountain-side monitoring the volcano and reporting on its activity since the current eruption began May 24. There have been almost daily lava flows since then.

Homes caught fire today as lava and gas reached a residential area at the foot of the 4,485-foot volcano for the first time in the latest series of eruptions, said Fumiyasu Tokunaga of the Shimabara Fire Department.

Television footage showed at least one home burned to the ground in Kamikoba town, a settlement of 50 houses. Gray ash had covered the area, and patches of forest on the mountainside were aflame.

Fifteen of the 20 injured people were seriously hurt, police said. Most of the injured were believed to have suffered burns. As lava, hot ash and gas raced down valleys today at speeds up to 125 miles an hour, some 5,000 people were ordered to leave their homes, said Atsushi Noda of the Shimabara city office.

Police said the 21 missing people were 13 journalists, three firefighters, three taxi drivers, a policeman and one other person. Television reports said they were listed as missing after authorities were unable to contact them for four hours this afternoon.

It was not immediately known where the missing people had been before contact with them was lost. Telephone lines were flooded with calls, making communication with the area nearly impossible.

The area, less than 30 miles from Nagasaki, is well known for its many hot springs, which draw many tourists each year.

But the tourist trade was reduced to a trickle after the volcano 610 miles southwest of Tokyo erupted last Nov. 17 for the first time in 198 years, and then again Feb. 12 and May 24.

Landslides and tidal waves created by the volcano's 1792 eruption killed 15,000 people, the worst volcanic disaster in Japanese history.

SHIMABARA, Japan — Black volcanic ash from Mount Unzen covers this southern Japan city of Shimabara on Monday as the volcano belched out hot rocks and lava, which rolled down the slope. Local police said 17 persons were injured as the result of the fresh outburst.

Treaty could speed hostage release

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Syrian and Lebanese foreign ministers said today that a cooperation treaty between their two countries will help bring about the release of Western hostages held in Lebanon.

"Any normalization of the situation in Lebanon would help," said Farouk al-Sharaa, Syria's foreign minister.

Sharaa and his Lebanese counterpart, Fares Bweiz, talked about the hostages after exchanging ratification documents for the treaty of "Brotherhood, Cooperation and Coordination." The pact was signed by the Lebanese and Syrian presidents May 22. Optimistic comments about the hostages have been coming almost daily in recent weeks from officials of the various parties.

In addition to talking about how the treaty could help, Sharaa said: "The Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon would help. The Israeli release of Lebanese and Palestinian prisoners who've been taken from Lebanon also would be of great importance."

Israel has occupied a border enclave in southern Lebanon since 1985 to protect its northern settlements from guerrilla infiltrations. It has said it would free 300 Lebanese Shiite Muslims and 40 Palestinians captured in Lebanon in return for seven Israeli servicemen.

Emir ignores opposition demands

KUWAIT CITY (AP) — The ruling emir has ignored the newly united opposition's demand for early parliamentary elections, and it is unclear if the opposition can muster significant support from a public still reeling from war.

The emir decreed Sunday that the vote will be held in October 1992. Opposition demands that the 1962 constitution be restored were not addressed.

Whether the opposition can mount a serious challenge seems to boil down to a single question: Was the shock of the Iraqi invasion and occupation enough to erode confidence in the 230-year-old tradition that holds that the al-

Sabah family emir of the moment ultimately knows what's best for Kuwait.

"People have suffered from the government's policies. The street is hot," said Sami al-Khatrath, a spokesman for the Islamic Constitutional Movement.

"But they might not be ready to make a political act."

The first test comes Tuesday. Before Sunday's election decree, the opposition called for mass public prayers on Tuesday to show support for early parliamentary elections and restoration of the constitution.

Those demands constitute the basic common ground among opposition activists.

Campus patrolled by armed police

BEIJING (AP) — Rifle-toting police patrolled outside Beijing's most politically active university today, seeking to prevent disturbances linked to the anniversary of the military crackdown on the 1989 pro-democracy movement.

One of the officers circling Beijing University had a bayonet attached to his rifle. Security personnel checked the identification of everyone entering the campus and plainclothes police were posted inside and outside the grounds.

Beijing University students were at the forefront of Tiananmen Square democracy movement, which was crushed on June 4, 1989, when troops killed hundreds and perhaps thousands of unarmed civilians in central Beijing.

Students from the university have engaged in small acts of protest in the past week, smashing bottles, distributing leaflets and unfurling a banner saying, "We will never forget June 4."

Authorities also have tightened security at Tiananmen Square, the center of the 1989 protests and symbolic heart of China.

Relief work resumes after storm

CHITTAGONG, Bangladesh (AP) — U.S. helicopters and landing craft resumed relief operations today after a two-day break to wait out a tropical storm that flooded some areas but was far milder than the killer cyclone a month ago.

"The Lord smiled on us, he really did," said Gen. Henry Stackpole, commander of the U.S. military task force that is winding up Operation Sea Angel to help 1.7 million cyclone survivors in southern Bangladesh. "If they had been devastated again, it would have undone the rebuilding that we've been able to start," he said.

With winds averaging 40-45 mph, the storm swept across low-lying islands in the Bay of Bengal, spawning tidal waves of up to seven feet. There were no deaths or injuries reported in the storm itself, but an 8-year-old girl was crushed to death in an overcrowded cyclone shelter.

President regarded as glorified Santa Claus

WASHINGTON (AP) — Let President Bush say just about anything — he's learning to work a computer, he hates broccoli — and the folks in the White House mail room brace for another deluge of cards and letters from the public.

"Every time he opens his mouth, people write in about it," says special assistant Shirley M. Green, who's in charge of handling the president's mail.

The White House received 5.5 million pieces of mail last year, enough to keep 138 employees and 450 unpaid volunteers working day and night. A hard-driving Texan, Mrs. Green runs the biggest office in the White House complex.

Right now, it's dealing with 65,000 to 70,000 pieces a week, which makes the White House as busy as post offices in Caribou, Maine, or Union Grove, Wis.

Last year, the heaviest mail volume dealt with the Persian Gulf War, followed by the budget crisis, child care legislation and abortion, Mrs. Green said. But thousands of letters indicate widespread public interest in Bush's health, his new computer hobby and other details of his personal life.

Mrs. Green and her staff felt sorry for first lady Barbara Bush when she broke her leg in a sledding accident at Camp David, Md. in January. "Our second thought was, 'Oops, here it comes,'" she said. And it did — cakes stuffed with get-well messages.

There are also tons of letters from kids and a few people who, curiously, want Bush to play matchmaker.

"The president just loves children's mail," she said.

Samples: • A lovesick young man asked Bush to intercede with "one of the cutest females that I have ever

"I don't want to lose touch with the people who put me here."

President George Bush

seen" by writing a letter on his behalf. "I would like to go on a date with her," the boy wrote. "The only problem is that she thinks that I am weird."

• A high school student in Germany appealed to "the highest authority in the United States" to answer this question: "What do you say in American when somebody sneezes?" He and his classmates were incredulous when their teacher said Americans, like Germans, say "Gesundheit!"

• An 8-year-old girl whose father was sent to the Persian Gulf wrote: "Can you tell President Bush to let my Dad come home or President Bush will have to eat Brokley for a year."

A Polish immigrant in New York offered a plan to defeat world communism in exchange for $150 billion, payable in advance.

Bush, of course, is not the only president who ever received odd letters. A Yugoslav once proposed a magical AIDS vaccine to Ronald Reagan if the president sent some money and "two extremely beautiful, attractive, healthy and pure ladies to my address."

Mrs. Green, who has known Bush since the mid-1960s, said the president is a prodigious letter writer and an avid reader of his mail.

"I don't want to lose touch with the people who put me here," he told Mrs. Green after he was inaugurated.

She sends him a weekly report tabulating mail received on both sides of major issues, plus two or three dossiers loaded with sample letters. Bush personally signs 200 or 300 letters a week, sometimes adding a personal postscript to the responses prepared by Mrs. Green's staff.

"We try to answer all the mail," she said, except for mass mailings generated by special-interest groups. This preprinted mail, which accounts for about 50 percent of the total annual volume, is merely counted for future reference.

All incoming mail is X-rayed at the Washington Navy Yard to detect any explosives or other hazardous contents, then is trucked to the Old Executive Office Building, where it is processed in offices that occupy half the ground floor and parts of three other floors.

Two dozen Postal Service workers sort the mail. Each card and letter is read by one of 38 "analysts" working day and night shifts. Mail containing threats is referred immediately to the Secret Service for investigation.

Most of the mail, which deals with major political issues, is answered with a form letter signed by Mrs. Green. Fourteen writers draft responses to letters that require a personal reply from Bush. Crank mail is boxed and ultimately destroyed.

About 600 letters written in foreign languages are sent every week to the State Department for translation. Most are summarized and sent to U.S. embassies abroad for action.

Translator Joel Stern, who reads 20 East European languages, says the letters frequently contain appeals for money, food, clothing, medicine, housing assistance, children's toys and even luxury automobiles.

"Basically," he said, "the president is regarded as a glorified Santa Claus."

Gondoliers protest

VENICE, Italy — Hundreds of gondoliers and other Venetian boatmen block the Canal Grande, Venice's main "street" on Sunday to protest a "luxury tax" on boats, passed last month by the cabinet. Higher taxes were imposed also on items ranging from portable telephones to shoes to four-wheel-drive vehicles.

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Opinions from across the U.S. Poor decision by court

Family planning clinics were conceived with the purpose of counseling expectant mothers on matters of health and the size of their families. That advice might well include the possibility of abortion, especially in a deprived social environment where the termination of a pregnancy could be a matter of crucial importance for a poor woman who could ill afford to have an infant.

But that useful maternal counseling, unfortunately, no longer will be available to millions of poor pregnant women if the planning clinics they attend receive federal subsidies. That vital aspect of family planning will be barred under a backtracking decision by a deeply divided U.S. Supreme Court.

In a 5-4 vote, the court held that a 1988 ban contained in regulations issued by the Reagan administration does not violate free speech rights or a woman's right to end her pregnancy. Primarily, the harshest impact would be on women with low incomes who are dependent on 4,000 family planning clinics that receive federal grants.

For pro-choice advocates, the court ruling is a critical setback, not only immediately but also in unsettling long-term implications of further inroads on a woman's right to terminate pregnancies. Particularly upsetting for the future was the crucial tie-breaking vote cast by the newest court member, Justice David Souter. He could be a decisive force in abortion challenges before the high court that are certain to be accelerated by the latest ruling.

Besides the unsettling constitutional breaching of a woman's free speech right and right to abortion, the ruling has the socially regressive effect of setting up a two-tier system of reproductive health care — one class for women able to afford a private physician who can advise them on choices, the other, a deprived class of women who no longer will have access to federally funded clinics for this essential counseling.

This is, indeed, a poor choice in basic social terms.

The Star-Ledger, Newark, N.J.

A mockery of justice

Kuwait's attitude toward rebuilding its shattered infrastructure may strike many as excessively casual, but when it comes to dispensing draconian justice, the Kuwaitis march to a very different drumbeat indeed.

The United States did not send 540,000 of its best and brightest halfway around the globe merely to make the world safe for medieval potentates.

The military tribunal prohibited witnesses from testifying and did not permit defendants to meet with their government-appointed attorneys, who saw them for the first time in court. Defense attorneys were forbidden to cross-examine witnesses, clients' evidence was kept secret, and some defendants charged their confessions had been coerced by torture.

The so-called trials make a mockery of Western notions of justice and constitute a cynical betrayal of the Kuwaiti government in exile's promise to introduce a degree of democracy after it was restored to power.

The rulers of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia owe not only their thrones, but their very hides, to American resolve and military skill. The world community should not passively permit them to resume their bad old ways without expressing its disapproval in the strongest possible terms.

Sun-Sentinel, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

States should have dibs

Surplus federal property was bought and paid for by U.S. taxpayers, and those taxpayers should get the full benefit of the property. However, an existing foreign policy program gives first dibs on the best surplus equipment to foreign countries, while cities and states here at home go begging.

States shop regularly for federal castoffs, frequently purchasing road equipment and other big-ticket items for less than 10 cents on the dollar. Road graders, fire trucks, barges, cranes . . . there is a tremendous list of things that cities, counties and states need but cannot afford to buy new.

Since 1986, the very best of the highly prized material no longer needed by the Defense Department has been offered first to selected foreign countries under a congressionally established Humanitarian Assistance Program. For the cream of the crop, 39 other countries get first refusal. U.S. cities and states must get in line.

To add insult to the taxpayers who paid millions of dollars for this stuff in the first place, the foreign countries don't have to pay for the equipment, for shipping or for needed repairs. But U.S. cities and states do.

We say the program puts quite a chunk of foreign aid largesse in the hands of the Defense Department. And it puts much-needed equipment out of reach of the people who originally paid for it.

Scrambling the law on abortion

James J. Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON — All of us have bad days now and then. The Supreme Court had a lousy one recently. In an important case involving federal family planning services, Chief Justice William Rehnquist produced a labored opinion that combined sound judicial tradition with patently specious reasoning. It wasn't his day.

This was a test case brought to obtain a binding interpretation of anti-abortion regulations issued under Title X of the Public Health Service Act. The law provides funds for clinics that offer women "a broad range of acceptable and effective planning methods and services." The act then provides that none of these funds may be used "in programs where abortion is a method of family planning."

Pursuant to the statute, Health Secretary Louis Sullivan issued regulations for the guidance of grantees. One regulation absolutely forbids doctors or staff from providing "counseling" concerning abortion. If a woman asks about abortion, the doctor is to reply, "The project does not consider abortion an appropriate method of family planning and therefore does not counsel or refer for abortion."

A group of Title X grantees and doctors brought suit to challenge the regulations. They contended that Secretary Sullivan had misinterpreted the act, and they argued that the rules violated a doctor's First Amendment right of free speech. On May 23, voting 5-4, the high court upheld the regulations and found no constitutional infirmity.

Rehnquist began by making a point that lawyers will appreciate. The suit challenged the "facial validity" of the regulations. As a matter of jurisdiction, this is a tough row to hoe.

"A facial challenge to a legislative act," said Rehnquist, quoting a case from 1987, "is of course the most difficult challenge to mount successfully, since the challenger must establish that no set of circumstances exists under which the act would be valid."

Turning to the act itself, Rehnquist sighed: "We need not dwell on the plain language of the statute because we agree with every court to have addressed the issue that the language is ambiguous." The act says nothing at all about "counseling." The act denies funds only to "programs" in which "abortion is a method of family planning."

If a doctor in a federal clinic answers questions about abortion, is he expending funds wrongfully on a "program"? Rehnquist and his four colleagues obviously were uncertain. They retreated to traditional rules of construction.

When in doubt, the court must accord "substantial deference" to the interpretation of a federal agency. Secretary Sullivan is presumed to know more about the intention of the act than anyone else. Doubt also may be relieved by examining the legislative history of a given act, but here "the legislative history is ambiguous and unenlightening."

Throwing up their 10 hands, the five justices in the majority concluded that Sullivan's construction was not impermissible. They felt they had to defer to it. Neither the act nor the regulations could be held facially invalid.

That left the constitutional issues. The court ought to have left them alone, but no. Rehnquist began in the magisterial voice of Sir Oracle: "There is no question but that the statutory prohibition is constitutional." Horsefeathers! Of course there is question. The 1st and the 10th Circuits both held the regulations invalid on constitutional grounds. Dissenting Justices Blackmun, Marshall and Stevens think the rules are unconstitutional. Justice O'Connor finds "serious First Amendment concerns."

Congress is not compelled to adopt any particular law, but one enacted, a statute becomes subject to the same constitutional conditions that apply everywhere else. One such condition is that Congress shall make no law abridging freedom of speech. If doctors are to talk candidly with patients, doctors cannot constitutionally be gagged.

Rehnquist denies that by banning any discussion of abortion as "unacceptable" and "inappropriate," the government is discriminating on the basis of viewpoint. Again, horsefeathers! The content of a program is one thing; the content of speech is something else.

Congress has the power of the purse to forbid outright payment for abortions. No question about it. But there is not money enough in the treasury to buy the silence of a doctor whose first duty is to his patient.

Successful relationships are built slowly

By BETTY JOHANSEN
Copy Editor

A few weeks ago on the TV show "Another World," Whitley, a graduating college student, decided it was time to begin sleeping with her boyfriend of several months. When she told her friends, they laughed at her, amazed she had dated one guy so long without sex. After they finished laughing, they gave her a gift: a condom. The conversation made it clear all the other girls were "experienced."

In his book "Romanced to Death," Paul de Parrie reports the experience of Anna Quindlen, a staff writer for the New York Times, who saw the following bit of graffiti in a high school bathroom: Jennifer is a Virgin. When Quindlen asked about it, the kids told her virgin was "shorthand for geek, nerd, weirdo, somebody who was . . . incredibly out of it . . . If you were a virgin . . . you just lied about it." Today, it seems, the most insulting thing one teenager can call another is "virgin."

De Parrie traces the subtle transformation in the Western world of love perceived as a decision and a commitment into love perceived as a feeling. Once love was considered to be a feeling, it became subject to the capricious mood swings of the average person, and a marriage based on love could be easily discarded when the mood changed.

If you ask me

Next, according to de Parrie, love came to mean sex, as in "making love." Then the "Love Myth" enslaved Americans in a "sexual Disneyland," because it became a quest, always beckoning, always promising shimmering wonders, but never delivering on the promise.

TV, movies, magazines and music are full of those shimmering promises, and it's easy to see where today's teenagers get their perverted notions about sexuality. What the popular propaganda fails to mention is that teens (and anybody else) can live without sex. Abstinence won't make them bald or hairy, freaky or fruity, or even geeky and nerdy. It will, however, help them prepare for a meaningful, lifelong marriage relationship, which is the only real repository of shimmering wonders.

Don't get me wrong. Marriage isn't an automatic ticket to wonderland. It has to be approached with diligence and intelligence, a process that is inevitably short-circuited by premature sex.

In the October 1988 Focus on the Family magazine, Dr. James

Dobson discusses the 12-step bonding process for marriage, based on the research of Dr. Desmond Morris. If each of the steps is worked through at a leisurely pace, a couple can arrive at a decision to marry or not marry, confident they made a wise choice. Steps 9-12 occur after marriage and are not the subject of this column. Here are steps 1-8:

1. Eye to body. Upon meeting, people size each other up and begin to gather superficial information, such as size, age, personality, occupation, etc.
2. Eye to eye. Whereas strangers who exchange glances usually look away embarrassed, a smile may indicate an interest in getting better acquainted.
3. Voice to voice. This is a long stage during which the couple are learning each other's pastimes, opinions, habits and hobbies — indicators of compatibility or incompatibility.
4. Hand to hand. If a couple is beginning to think of each other romantically, hand-holding is the first sign.
5. Hand to shoulder. And arm around the shoulder indicates a position of facing the world side by side. It is closer to a strong friendship than real love.
6. Hand to waist. This embrace clearly indicates a romantic relationship. The couple are close enough to be sharing secrets and their own private language. Yet they are still walking side by side, facing the world. 7. Face to face. This phase includes gazing into each other's eyes, hugging and kissing. If none of the other stages were skipped, the couple will have developed a special code that allows them to communicate deeply with few words.

8. Head to head. This extension of the previous stage involves cradling the head or stroking the other person's hair, something rarely done except by lovers or family members.

One of the reasons for our abysmal divorce rate, I'm convinced, is that "The Love Boat" and similar media offerings have trained people to dive from step one or two, all the way to step 12, with or without the benefit of marriage. Those who do choose to marry may have no idea who (or what) they're marrying, because they skipped most of the bonding stages.

You've probably heard as often as I have that teens are going to have sex, so they must have birth control and disease control. (Hoping it will work.) But I think we should give today's kids more credit. They're not interested in a 50 per cent divorce rate. I believe an adult who loves and respects them (preferably a parent) can share these steps with them, as well as the perils of premarital sex, and make a difference in their lives. If you have a child, I hope you'll give it a try.

Thank you was Dad's most precious gift

DEAR ABBY: This is a belated thank-you letter for something you printed in your column several years ago.

I lost my father suddenly last year. As difficult as his death was, I had peace of mind knowing that I had left nothing unsaid. Because of a Father's Day column you wrote, I sent my father a three-page letter instead of a necktie. It was a difficult letter to write because I had never verbalized my feelings about him, but once I started to tell him how important he had been in my life, and how much I owed him for raising me to be a caring, responsible, productive person, it was easy.

I will never forget the expression on his face as he read my letter. When he finished, he told me that he had never before received such a precious gift.

My father died knowing how much I loved and appreciated him. Abby, please make that suggestion to your readers every year. Thank you from the bottom of my heart. — JUDY THRASHER, DEFIANCE, OHIO

DEAR JUDY: Here's your letter, dedicated to the memory of your beloved father. And thank you, Judy, for giving me permission to use your name when I telephoned you.

DEAR ABBY: Unfortunately, your advice to "Anonymous in the USA," the working couple who had never filed income tax returns, fell short of the best advice they should have received.

Contacting the IRS in this situation without first seeking the professional advice of a qualified, experienced CPA or tax attorney is asking for more, not less, trouble.

Dear Abby

While it's possible that they might emerge unharmed, the risk of far harsher treatment is too high.

Much better for them to consult with an experienced tax accountant or attorney so they can learn their rights as well as their obligations. So much of this couple's financial and emotional future is at stake; they need expert outside advice on this kind of problem, Abby.

In the past, you have advised people who have legal problems to seek legal advice; this situation is no different. Please correct your advice to this couple before too many people follow it. — DONALD B. WALTER, CPA, SEATTLE

DEAR MR. WALTER: I just did, thanks to you.

DEAR ABBY: Was it you who wrote:

"Women in slacks
"Should not turn their backs?"

— HARRY IN MANITOWOC, WIS.

DEAR HARRY: No, but thanks for the compliment. The author was Ogden Nash, who must have been fixated on ladies' derrieres because he also wrote:

"Deck your lower limbs in pants, my sweet.
"You have seen yourself advance.
"But have you seen yourself retreat?"

A ponder over pizza

By CHRISTINA MUNGAN
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One lawyer wore a chef's hat and apron and Exhibit B was six pizza pies. The question: Is pizza Chinese or Italian?

It took an appetizing bribe to get San Francisco Municipal Judge George Choppelas to rule, but in the end he decided the Italians really did invent pizza.

Was there ever any doubt? Yes, according to the Court of Historical Review and Appeals, which lightheartedly called real lawyers and judges on Thursday to determine whether Marco Polo imported pizza to his homeland from China.

The court meets periodically to try such historical figures as Ebenezer Scrooge and Santa Claus.

"We wanted to show the public that the courts are not all stuffy people putting people in jail," said Bernard Averbuch, who runs his own public relations firm and founded the court in 1975.

Witnesses were sworn in by a real bailiff and the court reporter took down every word, but attorney Frank D. Winston, who argued for the Italians, adopted a more whimsical tone, appearing in a white chef's coat and cap.

Annie Soo, a historian for the Chinese Historical Society of America, said Kublai Khan munched on a steamed Chinese pastry called "pingtze" made of rice flour and fine sausage during the Chinese New Year.

"I find this affair probably the steamiest one this court has ever heard," objected Winston, raising laughter and cheers from an audience of about 150 that included local Italian- and Chinese-speaking television reporters.

But Soo didn't miss a beat in her argument.

Marco Polo probably took pizza to Italy in 1271, and when the imported ingredients ran out "probably the third cook's assistant's wife" improvised a new version with tomato paste and cheese, Soo said.

A diagram of a pizza slice was exhibit A for the Italian side and when chef and restaurant owner Gino Biradelli produced six pizzas as exhibit B, the suspicious judge had just one question before digging in.

"This exhibit isn't 900 years old, is it?"

In the end he ruled the Greeks and the Etruscans created pizza some time after 650 B.C. The name comes from "peccia," for the ashes that covered the pizza's bottom when it came out of the oven.

What will they think of next?

By ELLIOT SPAGAT
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A compact disc that navigates a driver through unfamiliar cities and a car radio that changes stations on voice command are among the high-tech gadgets manufacturers are hoping consumers can't live without.

For those who need information now, there is the electronic encyclopedia, small enough to be held by hand. For those who don't want to leave their home unguarded, there is "Scoutabout," a robot that prowls the house in search of burglars.

Those items and much more are on display at the 1991 International Summer Consumer Electronics Show, which runs through June 2.

About 55,000 people, mostly advertising representatives and potential buyers, are expected to attend the four-day show in which more than 1,000 companies are involved, said Electronic Industries Association spokeswoman Cynthia Upson.

"What you see is electronics on the go," she said. "One of the things the industry does best is take large objects and transform them into small ones, things you can carry with you, use in your car."

Car-related items seem to be particularly popular this year.

There is the Travelpilot navigation system, designed to get a driver with a limited sense of direction from one point to another through the use of a compact disc, wheel-mounted sensors, a compass and maps.

The driver programs Travelpilot with his departure and destination points and then follows his progress on a map displayed on a 4 1/2-inch dashboard-mounted screen.

"I think it's ideal for someone who's always getting lost, like me," said Ross Merel, owner of Slam Group Ltd., a Chicago company that sells audio equipment.

Manufactured by Blaupunkt-Bosch Telecom of Broadview, Ill., Travelpilot's suggested retail price is $3,495. It is already available in the West with compact discs containing maps of such cities as Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas. It is to be introduced in the Midwest in the months ahead.

Sanyo Fisher (USA) Corp. of Los Angeles says it will soon be offering U.S. consumers a voice-activated car stereo for $1,499. The stereo, with radio and tape deck, is already available in Japan.

It allows a driver to remove a tape cassette by simply saying "eject" and to tune to a particular radio station by reciting its call letters.

CHICAGO — A model demonstrates Sanyo's EX-W2 voice-activated car stereo, at the Consumer Electronics Show in Chicago recently. An automobile driver can say "eject" to remove a tape cassette, or recite the four-letter call sign of a radio station to tune the radio. The microphone mounts on the driver's visor. The unit, already on sale in Japan, will retail in the United States for $1,499.

"I see it as a really good safety device for people always taking their eyes off the road and fidgeting with the radio," said Grady E. Purches, a sales representative for Montgomery Ward & Co.

Franklin Electronic Publishers Inc. of Mount Holly, N.J., has introduced a hand-held, electronic encyclopedia that is to be listed in the July issue of The Sharper Image Catalog. The suggested retail price is $399.

The encyclopedia, which is 7 inches long, 4 inches wide, one inch thick and runs on batteries, resembles a calculator with a small screen.

Samsung Electronics America Inc., based in Saddle Brook, N.J., is offering the Scoutabout, a 15.5-pound home robot that looks like the top half of a hamburger bun. It should be in stores next year at a retail price of about $1,000, said Samsung marketing manager Jon Lezon.

authorized to drive the truck to a grass fire nine days later when the accident occurred.

"Our policy is that they work on the line three months (before driving a truck in an emergency situation)," Anderson said. Short staffing was a factor in the decision to put Settles behind the wheel, he said. Accident reports say Settles and Lt. Robert Muller were in the vehicle.

The truck was struck by St. Clair's vehicle, leased to Moore Development for Big Spring, at the intersection of Birdwell Lane and Fourth Streets. Although St. Clair was cited for failure to yield right of way to an emergency vehicle, Anderson said fire trucks do not have the right of way at red lights during emergencies.

"You're really requesting traffic to halt and let us go through," he said. "You can't just go through."

C-City man indicted for murder

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Eddie Martinez, 40, of Colorado City, was indicted late Friday for first degree murder in connection with the shooting death of a Loraine man two weeks ago.

Martinez said in a statement to the sheriff's department that he shot Florentino Sanchez Jr., 31, in self-defense on May 19, said 32nd District Court Attorney Frank Conard. Martinez, being held in county jail on bonds totalling $55,000, may face trial this winter, Conard said.

"He is making a claim of self-defense but the facts show that he went over to Mr. Sanchez' with a loaded firearm. So that puts him inside his house with a loaded firearm," Conard said. "Of course no one (else) was there."

A motive has been established, Conard said. However, he declined to discuss details. "I believe the intent was over personal matters," he said. "I don't think there's any question that that's how the motive would be defined."

Sanchez was found at his home at about 4 a.m. the day he was shot after sheriff deputies were notified and led to the scene by Martinez, said Sheriff Wendell Bryant. Sanchez was pronounced dead at the scene and an autopsy was ordered by Justice of the Peace Gienda Haltom. The cause of death appears to be wounds from a .22-caliber rifle, according to Bryant.

Several guns, including a .22-caliber rifle belonging to Martinez and rifles and a handgun belonging to Sanchez, were seized at the scene, Bryant said. Conard said they are still waiting for results of ballistic tests on the weapons.

Martinez was also charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle because he allegedly drove Sanchez' vehicle from the scene following the shooting, Conard said. Bond on the murder charge is $50,000 while the unauthorized use of the vehicle is $5,000.

Conard said he does not know at this time what kind of sentence he will recommend in the case. First degree murder is punishable with five to 99 years in prison or life in prison. If a deadly weapon is used in a murder, then the convicted person must serve at least 1/4 of a sentence before being eligible for parole, Conard said.

Martinez, who is married and has four children, worked as a farm hand for the past six years. His employer, Ed Roach, said he has never had any problems with Martinez.

Sanchez, who was not married and had no children, was a lifetime resident of Loraine and worked for Corky's Hardware Store in Colorado City the past 10 years. He was described as a "fantastic" person by store owner Corky Houston.

Rain

from lakes Thomas and Spence, Ivie said. "Right now we're going to have to have more rain before we can have better quality water," he said.

Heavy rains were also reported by law enforcement officials in Martin and Mitchell counties. An estimated 2 inches fell in Stanton. No estimate was provided in Colorado City but there was some reported flooding of streets and homes.

Forecasts from the National Weather Service predict more scattered thunderstorms tonight.

A severe thunderstorm watch issued by the weather service for Glasscock County ended at 10 a.m. The thunderstorm, included in a line of thunderstorms that extended from near Abilene to south of Big Spring and northwest of Sanderson, was moving east at 20 miles an hour.

Court docket

The following charges were filed in Howard County Court:

- J.D. Stoker, 47, 2604 Albrook, driving while intoxicated.

- Carlos Carbajal, 22, 1206 Mesa, DWI.
- Librado Garza Canalez Jr., 55, Tubbs Addition, DWI.
- Martha Lopez, 19, 411 N. Scurry, resisting arrest.
- Daniel Fredrick Hembree, 23, Route 76, Box 2B, fleeing to elude a law officer.
- Ray Sanchez Jr., 29, 1601 E. Third, driving while license suspended.
- Martin Carlos Alvarado, 17, possession of a prohibited weapon.

Sheriff's log

The Howard County Sheriff's Department reported the following incidents:

- A gunshot went through a door at a residence on Midway Road.
- A 27-year-old man was arrested for driving while intoxicated on Interstate 20 in Sand Springs. He was released on a $1,000 bond.

Fire report

The Big Spring Fire Department reported the following incidents:

- A room air conditioning unit caught fire in the 1300 block of Birdwell Lane Saturday, causing minimal damage to one room of a home.
- Buckets of tar or other roofing material left on top of Park Village Apartments ignited late Saturday, causing no damage to the building.
- A home in the 900 block of East 15th St. caught fire early Sunday. The cause appears to be suspicious and is under investigation, said Fire Marshal Burr Lea Settles. Damage to the residence, mostly caused by smoke, was estimated at $5,000.

Oil/markets

July crude oil $21.23, up 10, and July cotton futures $4.55 cents a pound, down 10; cash hog was steady at $4.25; slaughter steers steady at $7.25; June live hog futures $6.75, up 45; June five cattle futures $7.92, up 20 at 10:48 a.m., according to Delta Commodities.

TV ads promote poor eating habits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saturday morning children's television encourages eating habits that can lead to tooth decay, heart disease and cancer, say a congressman and a public interest group.

From 8 a.m. until noon each Saturday, children tune in to shows sponsored by high-sugar, high-fat and high-sodium fast foods with little nutritional value, said Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore.

"Saturday morning television advertising is really about food," said Wyden, who is asking four federal agencies to look into the situation.

"I am troubled that a time block which demonstrably has a very high percentage of loyal, young, highly impressionable viewers is being used to reinforce poor nutritional values rather than good ones," Wyden wrote to the Federal Trade Commission, Department of Health and Human Services, Federal Communications Commission and U.S. surgeon general.

Wyden's letters were based on a study being released today by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, a 20-year-old, non-profit consumer health advocacy organization based in Washington.

The federal agencies had no immediate response to Wyden's letter. However, FCC spokesman Steve Svab said the Children's Television Act of 1990, which takes effect next year, will limit the number of ads allowed during children's shows.

In the late 1970s, the FTC tried to regulate the content of such ads but was pulled off the effort by Congress, which said the agency was overstepping its authority.

To prepare the latest study, researchers for CSPI watched programs on ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox networks on the morning of Feb. 9 and found that of the 350 commercials, 63.4 percent were for food.

Of the food ads, most were for cereals, followed by restaurants, candy, beverages, cookies, entrees and chips. There was also one public service announcement sters were full to overflowing. Discarded garbage lay in streets and parking lots throughout the downtown area.

"We've got everything pretty much cleared up," Franklin said today. The festival hired about 15 members and staff of the Corral Community Support Program to pick up litter in the downtown area.

Difficulties, including five lost children and one festival-goer's sudden seizure, were handled quickly and efficiently, Franklin said.

"The police we had working said this was the least amount of trouble they had ever seen," she said.

She attributed the lack of difficulty to a "blending of cultures" at the event.

"When you've got people from (cultural and ethnic groups) there who are respected and liked in that group, they can keep the young people in line somewhat," Franklin said. "I think what we had were people taking care of their own people."

Weather cooperated throughout the two-day event, save a brief period shortly after opening Sunday when skies threatened a storm. Festival workers, informed erroneously that a tornado was in the area, told participants and visitors to take cover immediately. Within minutes, however, word spread that the tornado report was unfounded and the festival continued.

"I'm sorry if I created a panic," Franklin said. "But we were informed there was (a tornado) on the ground. I had a bunch of children lined up for a beauty contest and I really wanted to get them inside. I think a little panic was better than what (the consequences) could have been."

About 25 volunteers did the work of more than 100, Franklin said.

"I had helpers coming from everywhere," Franklin said. "There was one couple, Gus and Jacky Myrick, I had never even seen before. They were in town visiting the Bill and Betty Gossett and they came out and worked as hard as anyone."

"We really need more volunteers," Franklin said. "Our festival is growing so much. Everybody was doing six or seven jobs at once."

Franklin encouraged interested people to join the Heart of the City planning committee, which meets once a month all year. Call Big Spring Main Street at 267-4801 for information.

The group will meet this week to discuss finances, re-cap and finalize this year's event.

Events such as beer and mixed-drink sales, the "donkey dump," street dance and booth rental were fund-raisers for Big Spring Main Street. Proceeds will benefit the group's work towards the revitalization of downtown.

Are volunteers and coordinators, charged with hard work and success, ready to start planning next year's Heart of the City Festival?

"Don't ask us that yet," Franklin said.

Deaths

Brenda Haskins

Mrs. Alan (Brenda) Haskins, 31, Belton, Mo., a relative of several Big Spring residents, died Thursday, May 30, 1991, in Belton, Mo.

Graveside services will be 4 p.m. Wednesday at Trinity Memorial Park with the Rev. J. B. Shewmake, BRENDA HASKINS retired Baptist minister, officiating, and under the direction of Nalley-Pickle and Welch Funeral Home.

She was born Oct. 29, 1959, in Waukesha, Wis. She married Alan Haskins in Sept. 1985, in Wichita, Kan. She was raised in Abilene and attended school there. She graduated from Abilene High School in 1977. While in school, she was involved in the ROTC program and had received an appointment to the Air Force Academy in Colorado, but did not pursue it because of marrying and raising her family. While in school, she was in orchestra and band and had won many honors. She lived in Belton the past three years.

Survivors include her husband, Alan Haskins, Belton, Mo.; three daughters: Kay Davis, Stephanie Davis, and Christal Haskins, all of Belton; one son, Davin Haskins, Belton; her mother, Betty McDonald, Abilene; her father, Ken Kontos, Waukesha, Wis.; one sister, Linda Reynolds, Abilene; two brothers: Mark Kontos, and Jerry Kontos, both of Waukesha; her maternal grandmother, Vallie Long, Stanton; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Kontos, Waukesha; and four aunts and two uncles.

Pallbearers will be Gary Hale, Rodney Hale, David Hilger, Robert Quaid, Heath White and Thomas Brewer. Honorary pallbearers will be Matthew Hale, David Stroud, Corey Long and Kelly Long.

The family suggests memorials to Girls Home of Abilene or a favorite charity.

The family will meet at 4117 Parkway Road following the services.

Robert Searle

Robert Searle, 68, Jean, Nev., died Sunday, June 2, 1991, at V.A. Medical Center in Big Spring. Services are pending with Myers and Smith Funeral Home.

Gilbert Mancha

Gilbert Mancha, 55, Odessa, formerly of Big Spring, died Sunday, June 2, 1991, at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

Services were 2 p.m. today at Frank W. Wilson Funeral Directors Chapel with Father Ray Gallagher, officiating. Rosary was 7 p.m. yesterday in Frank W. Wilson Funeral Directors Chapel. Burial was in Odessa Cemetery under the direction of Frank W. Wilson Funeral Directors Chapel in Odessa.

He was born April 6, 1936, in Big Spring. He was a self-employed house painter for the past 10 years.

Survivors include two brothers: Ben Mancha, Odessa; and Luis Mancha, Big Spring.

Hawks pitcher inks with Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Frank Rodriguez, Boston's first pick in the 1990 amateur draft, signed a one-year contract Sunday, a day before the Red Sox would have lost his rights. Rodriguez, an 18-year-old shortstop and pitcher, received a reported $250,000 signing bonus. He was the first pick of the second round of last year's draft. Rodriguez, playing for Howard Junior College in Texas, was named the most valuable player of the JUCO World Series in Grand Junction, Colo., on Saturday after striking out 17 in Howard's 7-2 victory over Manatee (Fla.) Junior College.

It will be an all-European final

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — European teams dominated the first year of the World League of American Football, and that isn't going to change in the World Bowl.

The London Monarchs on Sunday made the World Bowl an all-European event by rallying from a 17-point deficit behind five touchdown passes by Stan Gelbaugh to post a 42-26 victory over the New York-New Jersey Knights at Giants Stadium.

Barcelona (9-2) had grabbed the other spot in the WIAF title game at Wembley Stadium with a 10-3 win over the Birmingham Fire Saturday night.

For the opening 20 minutes Sunday, the Monarchs (10-1) appeared like they would miss the title game in their backyard. Their secondary blew three coverages, staking the Knights to a 17-0 lead.

Game three, which was played at Giants Stadium because of soccer matches at Wembley, proved no different. Instead of burying the Monarchs, the Knights (5-6) let them right back in the game.

Gelbaugh, the league's offense player of the year, threw touchdown passes of 6 yards to Andre Riley and 21 yards to Judd Garrett to get the Monarchs within 17-14.

The deficit eventually reached 20-14 on a 48-yard field goal by Kendall Trainor on the final play of the half. But being down six points after playing so poorly seemed to buoy London.

The Monarchs didn't take the lead for good until Gelbaugh hit Pat Davis with a 1-yard touchdown pass early in the third quarter for a 21-20 lead, shortly after the first of two interceptions by Dedrick Dodge.

Gelbaugh, who completed 25 of 41 passes for 391 yards and three interceptions, added a 68-yard scoring pass play to a leaping Jon Horton later in the quarter for a 28-20 edge.

New York-New Jersey drew within 28-26 on a 6-yard TD run by Eric Wilkerson with 6:04 left in the third quarter, but they blew three chances to either tie the game or take the lead.

The first chance to tie slipped away when quarterback Jeff Graham overthrew Lonnie Turner on a 2-point conversion try after Wilkerson's TD.

A fumble by Graham on a snap at the London 26 with nine minutes to play killed one drive and Corris Ervin intercepted a Graham pass at the Monarchs 5 with 3:38 to play.

"We were just one or two plays away from winning it and going the World Bowl," said Graham, who completed 19 of 35 for 399 yards and three interceptions. He was also sacked nine times.

Gelbaugh wrapped up the game with a 78-yard scoring pass to Horton, who had eight receptions for 225 yards. The five touchdown passes tied the league single-game mark set by Kerwin Bell of Orlando in week one.

David Smith had a 3-yard TD run with :51 to play to end the scoring.

Perkins' bomb drops Bulls, 93-91

CHICAGO (AP) — Sam Perkins came to Los Angeles with the stigma of being an underachiever, a good player who didn't do enough to help his team win.

On Sunday, he achieved something remarkable.

With one perfect 3-point shot, he overshadowed both Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson in the exciting opener of the NBA Finals. And he did plenty to help his team win.

The unexpected hero gave the Lakers an unexpected 93-91 victory over Chicago on the second anniversary of the Bulls' last playoff loss at home. It was only their second loss in 13 playoff games this year and broke their streak of 15 home playoff wins, an NBA record.

Neither team led by more than seven points. The Lakers' 84-80 lead was the biggest in the last 10 minutes. The lead changed hands six times in that span as Jordan and Johnson took turns making big plays.

But it was Perkins, a forward and backup center, who put the Lakers on top 92-91 with his 3-pointer with 14 seconds left. They held on as Jordan's 16-footer from the left hit the rim but bounced out with 4.9 seconds to go.

"I was wide open," said Jordan, who led all scorers with 36 points. "It felt good."

"When I let it go, I feared it was going to be blocked," said Perkins, who scored 22. "This will be an experience I'll always remember."

His six years in Dallas were forgettable. He averaged 14.4 points during those regular seasons. The Mavericks got past the first round of the playoffs just twice and never reached the Finals.

Last Aug. 6, he signed as a free agent with the Lakers. But his value wasn't immediately obvious.

"I wasn't really involved into the system enough," Perkins said the day before the opener. "I just got off on the wrong foot and everything started jelling as time went on."

Perkins has developed into a more complete player. In the first quarter, he had three baskets off post-up plays and two 3-pointers. And he had six of the Lakers' last seven points.

"What we've come to find out since we had him is what a good low-post player he is," Los Angeles coach Mike Dunleavy said.

He also has confidence with Perkins on the perimeter.

"That's his shot," Dunleavy said of the game-winner. "He can make 3-pointers. He's got the green light to shoot any time he gets it." Jordan had his shot. Twice.

There were 24 seconds left, and Chicago led 91-89 in the first Finals game in its 25-year history. Jordan's 15-foot bank shot from the right swirled around the rim and

Edberg crushes Soviet

PARIS (AP) — Top-seeded Stefan Edberg, getting stronger with each match, crushed Soviet Andrei Cherkasov in three sets today to reach the quarterfinals of the French Open.

Cherkasov had beaten two other serve-and-volley specialists in the early rounds, former Wimbledon champions John McEnroe and Pat Cash. But Edberg, who says his power game can win on the clay of Roland Garros Stadium, encountered no serious trouble en route to a 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, 6-3 victory.

"Things are looking good at the moment," said Edberg, who has never won the French or U.S. Opens. "It would be nice to finish a career having won all four Grand Slams, but there's still quite a ways to go ... This is probably the toughest for me."

The 57-minute first set was the hardest for Edberg, who said he was bothered by a chilly wind. Cherkasov had set point at 4-5 but squandered the opportunity with a groundstroke that sailed past the baseline.

In the tiebreaker, Edberg made several unforced errors, but won the last two points on service winners. In the final two sets, he mixed his attacking game with long rallies from the baseline.

In the quarterfinals, Edberg will face the winner of today's late match between Americans Jim Courier, the ninth seed, and his unseeded practice partner, Todd Martin, ranked 243rd in the world.

In another fourth-round match today between two unseeded players, Argentina's Franco Davin defeated France's Arnaud Boetsch 7-6 (7-2), 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. Davin, ranked 69th in the world, will face the winner of a match between 12th-seeded Michael Stich of Germany and French teen-ager Fabrice Santoro.

The top-seeded women moved into the quarterfinals Sunday with little difficulty.

Defending champion and No. 1 seed Monica Seles was the first woman to lose a set in the tournament, but she rebounded to beat injured Sandra Cecchini 3-6, 6-3, 6-0.

The other top women all won in straight sets, including second seed Steffi Graf, third-seeded Gabriela Sabatini and fourth seed Mary Joe Fernandez. Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, the 1989 champion and No. 5 seed this year, and sixth-seeded Jana Novotna of Czechoslovakia, also won.

Conchita Martinez, the seventh seed, eliminated 10th seed Jennifer Capriati 6-3, 6-3, then said she couldn't understand why some people considered it an upset.

"People shouldn't give her so

PARIS — Argentina's Gabriela Sabatini concentrates on the ball during her match against Rachel McQuillan of Australia during French open tennis championships at Roland Garros stadium Sunday.

much attention," Martinez said. "She's not the No. 1. She's an American and very young and she's a good player, but she's just one of many good players today."

No. 13 seed Nathalie Tauziat of France had the most difficult match, beating Naoko Sawamatsu of Japan 7-5, 2-6, 12-10.

For most of the favorites left in the tournament, the high-pressure matches are yet to come. For Michael Chang, they're becoming routine.

Twice in three days, Chang strode on to center court to find more than 16,000 fans rooting wildly for his rival. Each time, he stuck to his game plan, kept his poise — and survived.

First, 38-year-old Jimmy Connors excited the crowd with his play. But Chang, half his age, hung on until Connors withdrew, exhausted, in the fifth set.

Sunday, the opponent was seventh-seeded Guy Forget, France's best hope for a title, cheered on by hopeful partisan fans. Chang won in four sets.

The road ahead gets no easier. Next up, in a quarterfinal match Tuesday, is second seed Boris Becker, playing excellent tennis. If Chang beats Becker, his semifinal opponent might be Andre Agassi, also in top form.

Agassi ran off 15 straight points at the end of the first set to begin a 6-3, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1 rout of Alberto Mancini in a fourth-round match Sunday. His quarterfinal opponent is unseeded Jakob Halask, a strong Swiss player.

Is Chang, the winner here in 1989, getting accustomed to huge crowds cheering against him?

"I'm not getting used to it, but I am preparing myself when I know it might happen," Chang said. "I try to concentrate on the opponent and the ball."

Andrade nets first win

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Billy Andrade earned more than $180,000 for winning the Kemper Open. He also picked up a whole lot of respect.

At age 17, Andrade was the top-ranked junior player in the nation. As a collegian, he was a three-time All-America. As a pro last year, he ranked a decent No. 64 on the money list.

All that was nice, but his career was missing one very important item — a tournament title. Andrade took care of that Sunday, when he beat Jeff Sluman on the first playoff hole to win the Kemper.

Andrade made two birdies and a scrambling par to force a playoff, then made a birdie on the first extra hole shortly after Sluman hit his tee shot into the water. The winner's check gave him $266,936 this year, good for No. 27 on the money list.

His family joined him to celebrate, and he was still hugging friends near the clubhouse some two hours after his winning shot. The only disparaging thing about the whole day was that the victory came at the expense of Sluman, his best friend.

Andrade was all but assured the victory when Sluman's first shot in the playoff ended up in a lake to the right of the 17th hole.

PGA

Sluman teed it up again, taking a stroke penalty, and hit the green. But when he missed the putt he conceded to Andrade, who tapped in his birdie putt as a formality.

The two have been best friends since 1988, and they often room together on the road. Sluman can at least console himself with the $108,000 runnerup check, which put him No. 10 on the money list.

Sluman appeared headed toward the title when he made consecutive birdies on the 13th and 14th holes to take a two-stroke lead over Andrade. But he made par on the final four holes, and Andrade made up ground with birdies on 16 and 17 before forcing a playoff with an exquisite par on 18.

Andrade put his tee shot into a bunker and did the same with his approach. But he blasted out of the sand within three feet of the pin and made the putt.

Jones' memory pays off

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Coming up to the 18th green at the Rochester International with victory in reach brought back memories for Rosie Jones.

Next time, the memories will be sweeter.

"I only remembered seven years ago, how fast it was and how much break there was," Jones said Sunday after winning a two-shot victory on the Locust Hill Country Club course and taking home a $60,000 check.

Jones lost to Kathy Whitworth in Rochester in 1984 by bogeying on the 18th in a sudden-death playoff.

This time around, Jones shot a bogey-free 6-under 66 to finish at 12-under 276, two shots ahead of Danielle Ammaccapane and 19-year-old rookie Brandie Burton.

Finishing three shots back at 9-under over the par-72, 6,162-yard course was Pat Bradley, a two-time winner of the Rochester tournament. Colleen Walker and Beth Daniel were at 8-under.

The victory ended a nearly three-year winless streak for Jones, one of the tour's most successful golfers. Her last title came in August 1988, although she

LPGA

Jones is the 15th different winner of 15 LPGA tournaments this year.

Jones started the day in fourth place at 6-under. She collected birdies on the second, third and fourth holes to make the turn at 9-under, then added a 6-foot birdie putt on 10 and sank 20-foot birdies on 12 and 16.

Jones said it helped to have playing partner Burton, who was tied with Jones at 9-under at the turn and at 10-under after 11 holes, nipping at her heels.

Ammaccapane also shot a bogey-free 66, finishing at 10-under. Burton, who dropped out of Arizona State to join the tour in October, had five birdies and two bogeys for a 68.

Walker started the round leading at 10-under, but had four bogeys and two birdies for a 74. Daniel shot an even-par 72, with three bogeys on the front half and three birdies on the back.

Montreal fires Buck Rodgers

MONTREAL (AP) — Buck Rodgers, whose Montreal Expos were in last place in the National League East, was fired today, ending his seven-year tenure as manager.

Upon dismissing Rodgers, whose team had a 20-29 record and was 13 games out of first place, Expos general manager David Dombrowski replaced him with third-base coach Tom Runnels. The Expos are 13 games out of first place in the East, farther than any club in the four divisions.

"I just felt it was time for a change in managers and regime," Dombrowski said. "Tom has had success at the minor league level and I feel he'll do a good job for us."

Runnels, 36, becomes the youngest manager in the majors. He takes over in Houston on Tuesday night.

Rodgers, 52, was the fifth major league manager fired this season.

With a career record of 520-499, Rodgers was the winningest manager in the Expos' 22-year history, surpassing Gene Mauch in that category on the final day of the 1990 season. Rodgers joined Montreal prior to the 1985 season, after having managed the Milwaukee Brewers and the Expos' Class AAA affiliate at Indianapolis.

Other managers fired this season were Don Zimmer of the Chicago Cubs, Nick Leyva of Philadelphia, John Wathan of Kansas City and Frank Robinson of Baltimore.

Runnels was seen by some as Dombrowski's hand-picked successor from the time he joined the Expos last season, after managing the Class AAA squad in Indianapolis to a title in 1989. It was felt that Runnels was a good fit into an organization with a young management team — Dombrowski is 35 and his assistant, Dan Duquette, is 33.

"Buck is a great man and a great manager," Runnels said. "I've learned a lot from him, especially communication, which is going to be a key for me."

Rodgers, who replaced Bill Virdon in 1983, was a strong communicator with the players and the media during his managerial career in Montreal.

Entering this season, he had only one sub-.500 team. His best record was 91-71 in 1987. That year, he took a club of questionable talent and had it in contention until the final week of the season.

But this year, the Expos' season had become a nightmare, despite Rodgers' proclamation that the club was good enough to win in the NL East.

A bullpen which has blown 11 save opportunities, an anemic offense, which has seen key players such as Delino DeShields, Tim Lincecum, Larry Walker and Andres Galarraga decline in productivity, and a largely inexperienced starting rotation, combined to dash the preseason promise.

Coaches divided on draft issue

DALLAS (AP) — The College Football Association passed a resolution opposing an amendment proposed by the NCAA Council that would enable a student athlete to apply for the professional football draft and retain eligibility for college football.

Coaches were unanimously against the amendment Sunday, although athletic directors were divided on the issue.

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne said "it has become a spring training thing at our school where players sign for 12 hours and drop six because their whole thought process is on professional football."

Texas Christian coach Jim Wacker agreed there was something wrong with the "perception" of the National Collegiate Athletic Association amendment.

"It would send the wrong message," Wacker said. "It would be disruptive to college programs. You'd find hundreds of kids dropping out of school in the spring. Then every kid would have to get an agent."

T. Jones, athletic director at Texas Tech University, said "historically, (the amendment) would be a disaster."

Home Depot athletic director at Georgia Tech, said: "The scenario could be devastating. It would jeopardize the main thing we are trying to do — graduate our young people."

Sizzling Pirates roll over Phillies

SAN DIEGO — San Diego's Tony Gwynn slides safely after steal third base as Houston's Ken Caminiti goes up with a late throw.

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

As the Pittsburgh Pirates' streak kept going, Tommy Greene's came to an end.

The Pirates won their ninth straight game Sunday, 5-3 over Philadelphia, and Greene, arguably the league's hottest pitcher, saw his scoreless streak end at 29 innings.

Barry Bonds had a two-run homer in the sixth and a run-scoring double in the ninth as Pittsburgh matched its longest winning streak since July 1988 and beat the Phillies for the sixth time in as many games this season and 12th in a row overall.

Cubs 4, Expos 3
At Montreal, rookie Cedric Landerum's two-out, two-run single in the ninth kept the Cubs perfect in six games against the Expos this season. The loss was the fifth in a row and 10th in 11 games for Montreal, which had grabbed a 3-2 lead in the seventh with the aid of two Chicago errors.

Paul Assenmacher (3-2) worked two innings for the victory while Dave Smith pitched one for his 13th save and ninth in his last nine appearances.

National League

Cardinals 3, Mets 1
At St. Louis, Milt Thompson did more than enough to soften the injury to Cardinals' starting right fielder Felix Jose. Thompson, who replaced Jose Saturday night after he slightly strained a groin muscle, had the game-winning hit in 10th that night and his two-run triple was the key hit in Sunday's victory.

Dodgers 4, Reds 1
At Los Angeles, Juan Samuel had three hits and two RBIs and Tim Belcher came within one out of his first shutout since 1989.

Belcher (6-4) allowed seven hits — three to Jeff Reed — and struck out eight with one walk. Reed drove in the only run with a two-out single in the ninth. Tim Crews got the final out for his second save.

The Dodgers scored two unearned runs in the third off Jack Armstrong (4-4) for a 3-0 lead. Samuel drove in one of the runs with a sacrifice fly and the second scored when Kal Daniels' two-out routine grounder went through second baseman Luis Quinones' legs.

Padres 3, Astros 1
Adam Peterson combined with two relievers on a two-hitter as the Padres completed a four-game sweep and beat the Astros in San Diego for the 33rd time in 40 games.

It was the first four-game sweep by the Padres since June 20-23, 1985, against San Francisco and it matched their longest winning streak of the season.

Peterson (2-1) allowed a lead-off homer to Steve Finley in the first inning and then gave up one hit over the next six innings.

Clemens and Red Sox continue to struggle

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roger Clemens doesn't seem so unbeatable these days.

After starting the season with six straight wins, Clemens has lost three of his last four starts. Baltimore won 5-1 Sunday as Boston's ace struck out only three, his season low.

Clemens (7-3) allowed three runs and eight hits in eight innings and walked one. The most interesting statistic was the low strikeout total.

Roy Smith (2-0) gave up one run and three hits in seven-plus innings, struck out two and walked none. Mark Williamson finished with perfect relief for his second save.

Baltimore, which has won five of six, took the lead in the second when Joe Orsulak singled and scored on a triple by former Red Sox outfielder Dwight Evans, who scored when right fielder Tom Brunansky's throw went over second baseman Jody Reed for an error.

Angels 7, Blue Jays 2
Dave Winfield hit a three-run homer and drove in four runs at the SkyDome, giving him nine RBIs in two games.

Winfield, who hit a grand slam and drove in five runs on Saturday in California's 11-8 victory, homered in the third inning off Jim Acker (1-3) and added an RBI single in the fifth.

Jim Abbott (5-4) won his fifth consecutive decision since April 28. He allowed nine hits in 8 1-3 innings, struck out four and walked three.

Yankees 7, Brewers 4
Wade Taylor won his major league debut and Ted Higuera lost in his first start of the season. Jesse Barfield drove in three runs as New York won for the eighth time in 10 games.

Taylor (1-0) gave up seven hits and four runs in 5 1-3 innings, struck out four and walked one. Steve Farr, New York's third pitcher, finished for his third save.

American League

Indians 3, Tigers 2
Tom Candiotti allowed three hits in eight innings and Jerry Browne singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning as visiting Detroit lost its fifth straight.

Candiotti (7-2) won for the fifth time in six decisions, striking out eight and walking two. Doug Jones pitched a one-hit ninth for his sixth save, his first since April 28.

Frank Tanana (2-5) gave up two earned runs and eight hits in seven innings.

Twins 4, Royals 1
Scott Erickson (8-2) won his eighth consecutive decision, allowing five hits in 8 1-3 innings, striking out a career-high eight and walking one.

Tom Gordon (4-3) allowed four runs and seven hits in four innings, giving up three doubles, two home runs, a triple and three wild pitches.

LSU Tigers bomb Fresno State

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Florida coach Joe Arnold said his Gators didn't come to Omaha to win a state championship. They want a national title at the College World Series.

But fourth-seeded Louisiana State showed it is a major force to contend with for the championship game next Saturday with its 15-3 pounding of eighth-seeded Fresno State Sunday night.

Florida (50-20) is the fifth seed, but eliminated in-state rival and top-seeded Florida State 5-0 on freshman right-hander Marc

CWS

Valdes' three-hitter earlier Sunday.

Herbert Perry singled in a run in the first for all the Gators needed, but Florida added three more in the sixth on Mario Linares' two-run double, followed by a double from Bo Camposano.

Ted Rich doubled in another run in the eighth.

LSU had one of those, too, with Mike Sirotko (11-0) scattering five hits over six innings. Mark LaRosa and Rick Greene finished off the Bulldogs of Fresno State.

Sirotko gave up a two-run homer to Chris Falco in the second, but nothing thereafter.

In the meantime, Chris Mook had a single, double and triple to drive in three runs, and Gary Hymel set a school record with his 22nd and 23rd home runs of the season, while also driving in three.

Hymel's long blasts erased the old school mark of 21 set by Joey Belle in 1986 and tied by Belle in 1987.

bounced out. Perkins rebounded.

After Jordan missed again with 4.9 seconds remaining, Los Angeles' Byron Scott got the rebound, was fouled and sank the final point with 2.7 seconds to play.

"The wrong North Carolina guy made the shot," said Jordan, who was a college teammate of Perkins and James Worthy with the Tar Heels.

Game 2 of the best-of-7 series is Wednesday night in Chicago. Even if the Bulls win, the Lakers will retain the homecourt advantage they stole Sunday. The next three games are scheduled for Los Angeles.

"We can certainly go out there and win," Jordan said. "There is no reason to panic."

The loss was Chicago's first at home in the playoffs since June 2, 1989, when Detroit beat the Bulls in Game 6 of the Eastern Conference finals. Los Angeles is seeking its sixth title since Johnson arrived in 1980.

"I just said, 'Oh, no' when he shook loose and put the shot up,"

Johnson said of Jordan's final attempt. "Michael is a number one, scariest person in the NBA at that time in the game."

Perkins, who made 18 of 64 regular-season 3-pointers, would be far, far down that list. But Johnson drew the double team from Bill Cartwright, found Perkins open and passed to him.

"Sam Perkins made a heck of a 3-point shot," Jordan said. "I had the same opportunity to hit the 2 (pointer) and it rattled in and out. Down the stretch, the team that makes the plays is going to win."

Jordan had 12 points in the third quarter and has led Chicago's scorers in all 13 playoff games. He added 12 assists and eight rebounds. Scottie Pippen had 19, but no other Bull scored more than six. Jordan and Pippen were saddled with five fouls down the stretch.

Worthy had 22 for the Lakers. Johnson got the 29th playoff triple-double of his career with 19 points, 11 assists and 10 rebounds. He missed his only field goal attempt in the first half but was 4-for-4 in the second.

Chicago made 23 of 39 shots in the first half but 15 of 41 after that. The Lakers took only 66 shots, tying an NBA record for fewest attempts since the 24-second clock was adopted in 1954, but outscored Chicago 28-14 from the foul line.

The Bulls, who hadn't played in five days, didn't get their running game going like they wanted to.

"Some of our team was not quite in game shape," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said.

Chicago led 53-51 at halftime and 68-67 with 1:52 left in the third quarter. Worthy then connected from the top of the key, and Johnson hit two 3-pointers, giving the Lakers a 75-68 lead with one period left.

Chicago got the first 10 points of the fourth period, as Jordan had three baskets and two assists, and went ahead 78-75. With the Bulls leading 89-86, Perkins stepped forward.

He hit a turnaround shot from the low post, then made a free throw to tie the score at 89 with 1:22 left. Two free throws by Pippen put Chicago on top 91-89 with 1:02 remaining.

Division III
Panthers 7, Purple Passion 6

The Panthers held on to an early lead to come away with a 7-6 win over Purple Passion.

Jenny Conaway took the win for the Panthers. Ann Marie Scott and Jackie Martinez pitched for Purple Passion.

The Panthers held on for the win in the final inning. After Purple Passion's Stephanie Green tripled, driving in two runs and cutting the lead to 7-6 with no outs, Conaway went to work. Conaway then fanned the next three batters to preserve the win for the Panthers.

Conaway led Panther hitters with two doubles. Sandy Franco, Teri Gonzales, Tisha Hilliger, Jessica Rios, Nikki Mills and Lisa Hernandez all added hits.

Tammy Alexander got two hits for Purple Passion. Scott, Rachel Ortega and Charlene Angel also got hits.

AMERICAN LITTLE LEAGUE

Longhorns 17, Astros 13

Danny Hull was the winning pitcher and Drew Wegman took the loss for the Astros. Hull fanned eight of the nine batters he faced in relief of Weldon Gibbs.

Hull, Heath Bailey, Cory Walker, Aaron Boadle and Mike Pearson all drove in two runs for the Longhorns, with Hull and Seay getting two hits each.

For the Astros, Leon Eddington, John Smith, Jeff Denton and Harvey Rosas all got two hits.

Please Hammer don't watch us!

ALBANY, Calif. (AP) — Rapper M.C. Hammer's family would probably prefer he stick to the concert stage and stay away from the race track, at least when the family's horses are running.

His family's O a k t o w n Stable horses have gone 0-for-3 when Hammer has gone to the track to watch. The latest occasion was

M.C. HAMMER

Saturday when the filly Drouth Willow finished fifth in the eighth race at Golden Gate Fields despite the exhortations of Hammer and other family members.

"That's OK. We'll just have to take it from here," said Hammer's father, Lewis Burrell Sr.

Sacks honored by university

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Oliver Sacks, whose landmark work with sleeping sickness patients was recounted in the movie "Awakenings," has been presented an honorary doctor of letters degree.

"It's very strange for someone trained in the hard sciences to find himself a doctor of humane letters, but I think there shouldn't be any contradiction, because science itself is poetic," the neurologist told nearly 2,000 graduates of Staten Island University.

Sacks' book "Awakenings" recounted his work in the 1960s in using the drug L-dopa to revive patients who had been in trance-like states for as long as 40 years. The book was made into last year's hit movie starring Robin Williams and Robert DeNiro.

Sacks, whose work took place at the Bronx Psychiatric Center in New York, recently lost his job there because of state budget cuts.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Look forward to a year of great productivity and happiness. Climactic career developments will make September a red-letter month. Personal relationships will come under review in December. You decide to either end a romance or make a permanent commitment. Draw closer to your family and friends over the Christmas holidays. Business travel in February and March of 1992 will produce many lucrative contacts. There will be much to celebrate next spring! Simplify your lifestyle.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Call on your energy reserves to get you through this busy day. Be more organized. Return important telephone calls and write timely letters. Tone down your rhetoric with loved ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Stick to routine tasks during the morning. Creative ventures will dominate later in the day. A new romantic attachment brings happiness. Family approval will add to your sense of well-being.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Turn your attention to projects you can complete on your own. A get-together with an old friend brings back happy memories. Do not be overly extravagant. Set aside cash for your bills.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Going to work may be a pleasant change from the hectic domestic scene. Family becomes more demanding due to last-minute chores. Give children and parents extra encouragement.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Romance is real but a little confusing. You feel a need to perfect certain routines. Work at improving communication with your loved ones. Discuss any financial woes with a trusted family friend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Career matters progress smoothly now. Keep your own counsel and refuse to be pressured into acting against your instincts. Strive for cooperation over confrontation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The work scene is quieter now. Consult experts before signing business agreements. Use your imagination and charm to work around a difficult person's whims. Learn more about finance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Those of you with jobs outside the home will have to be diligent. Other people will try to distract you. Exercise self-discipline. Social activities will keep you stepping lively this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A personal sacrifice may be called for. Although friends try to influence you, the final decision is yours. Choose wisely. It is time for a show of independence in romance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Financial matters benefit from a bit of good luck. Your loved ones continue to be cooperative. Be appreciative. Romance is more fulfilling than in the recent past.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your ideas are very practical, especially where your career and finances are concerned. Do not rely on promises from outsiders. Travel is favored for business, pleasure.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Continue to lie low until the remaining clouds have vanished. Optimism is reborn this evening, reviving joint expectations. Do not be ashamed to say what you are feeling.
