TAP schedules meeting on waste

COLORADO CITY — Texans Against Pollution is sponsoring a meeting Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Colorado City Civic Center to inform the public about recent hazardous waste legislation.

West Mitchell County is the site for a hazardous waste disposal facility being proposed by a Pittsburgh firm. Expected to attend the meeting are Sen. Steve Carriker, D-Robey, David Zwick, national chairman of Clean Water Action and representatives from the Texas land commissioner's office, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock's office and the office of Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater.

"One reason we're having this meeting is because so many West Texas towns are being targeted for hazardous waste facilities and low-level nuclear waste facilities," said TAP Secretary Darlene Hines. "We've got people coming in from Del Rio, Kermit and Breckenridge."

Counseling for veterans provided

President George Bush has provided readjustment counseling for veterans who served their country during conflicts occurring over the past 27 years.

Public Law 102-25 was signed by Bush in response to a request from the secretary of veterans affairs to authorize counseling for veterans serving in the Persian Gulf, the Grenada and Lebanon conflicts, Panama and Vietnam.

For more information, contact the Midland Veterans Center at 1-800-299-8387 or 915-697-8222. Or write the center at 3404 W. Illinois, Midland, Texas, 79701.

Audit praised by lawmakers

Reorganization could save billions

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislative leaders, armed with an audit that proposes saving and raising $5.2 billion, say they will try to implement as many of its proposed changes as possible.

Gov. Ann Richards said the audit released by Comptroller John Sharp, if followed by the Legislature, should head off income tax talk.

"My personal feeling is that you will not see an income tax in Texas," Richards said.

Both House Speaker Gib Lewis and Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock endorsed the audit findings made public Wednesday.

"I look for the Legislature to adopt 90 percent or more of it. The legislation that we will be drafting will be pretty much along the lines of this report. We hope to keep it intact," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Bullock called the audit "the finest piece of work" he had seen in more than 20 years in public office. Bullock said he was "committed to implementing these recommendations."

The governor stopped short of predicting that the nearly 1,000 changes proposed by Sharp's audit could prevent all taxes from going up.

"As far as what will be needed, though, in terms of additional revenue — I don't think we know that yet," she said.

The audit was prepared for lawmakers who are convening to write and fund a 1992-93 budget facing a projected $4.6 billion deficit.

The chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. James Hury, said the audit could mean a lower tax increase if one eventually is needed.

"The magnitude of these cuts makes it easier to get a tax bill because the tax bill will be less... and finally we'll be able to say to the taxpayers we have scrubbed as much as we can" from the budget, he said.

The governor praised the audit's proposals, saying they could put state government on the road to a dramatic overhaul.

"The people of Texas are not satisfied with what they've always got. They are not satisfied with the service and they are not satisfied with the bill that goes with it. And I don't blame them," she said.

Richards said she would decide by the weekend whether to start the Legislature's budget-writing special session July 8, or wait until July 15 so lawmakers would have more time to examine the audit.

Richards, Lewis and Bullock were holding a private summit meeting on Matagorda Island today to discuss the upcoming session, the governor's office said.

Sharp's report, the result of 54,000 hours of work by nearly 100 auditors, called for sweeping reforms in the way government works.

"It was suggested that we should look for ways to cut at least $200 million from the state budget. We did that the first day," Sharp said.

The 975 recommendations included merging some agencies, combining many of the more than 600 state bank accounts and eliminating about 1,000 of the 226,000 state jobs.

Among key proposals:

- Reorganize the Texas Education Agency.
- Merge the numerous health

State exhausts appeals in Dunn case

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

The overturned involuntary manslaughter conviction of former Big Spring police officer Dennis Dunn is final now that the local district attorney exhausted the last appeals step.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the highest criminal court in the state, recently upheld an 11th Court of Criminal Appeals reversal of Dunn's November 1989 jury conviction for the fatal shooting of his wife Carlye in April 1988. Court officials in Howard County were notified Monday.

"They really gutted our case by striking down some crucial evidence," said 118th Judicial District Attorney Rick Hamby, who prosecuted the case.

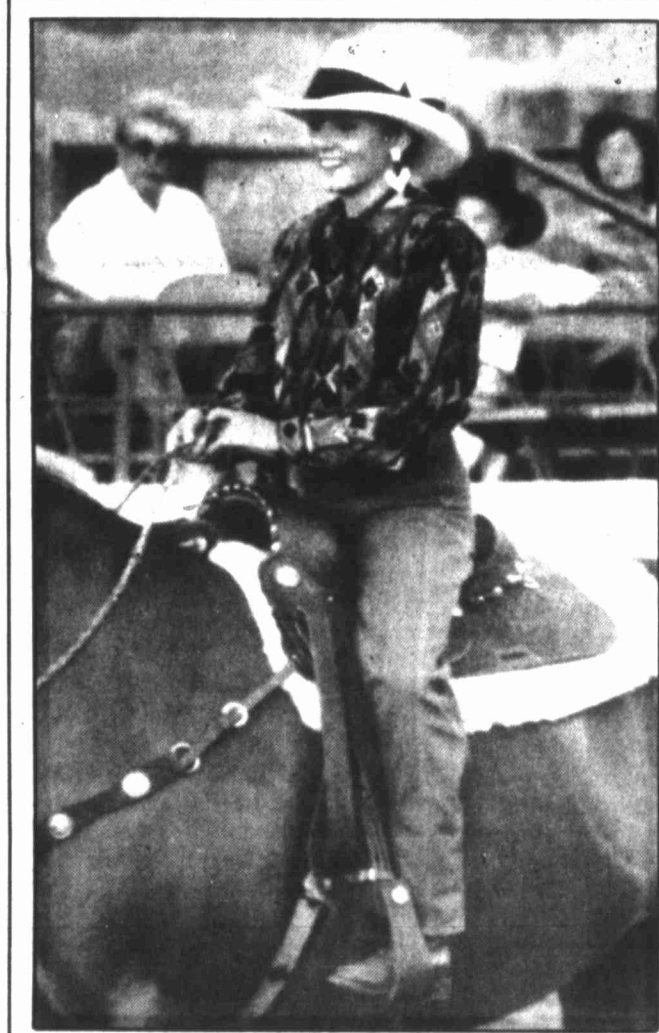

Hamby said he will study the case again before deciding if a new trial will be scheduled. "We are not going to try anyone if we don't feel we have the evidence," he said.

Dunn, who was released in March from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, remains free on a $10,000 bond. He was scheduled for his first parole hearing this month.

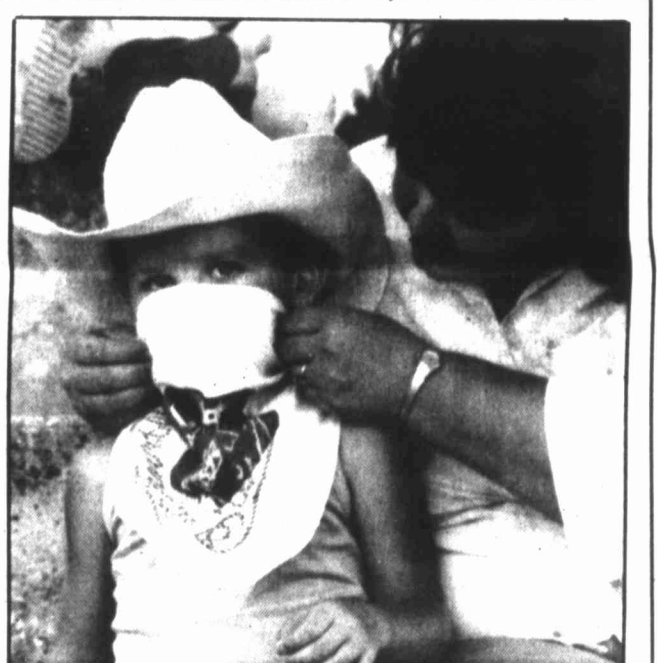

His father, H.C. Dunn of Coahoma, declined to comment on the Court of Criminal Appeals decision.

Members of Carlye's family are not happy with the reversal. "I just hope that the district attorney does retry him and he gets what he deserves," said her father Jimmy Gatlin of Midland. "He deserves a lot more than he already served. I

Mayor supports alcohol permits

By DEBBIE LINCEUM Staff Writer

Mayor Maxwell Green said today he would support an ordinance allowing specific-use permits for the sale of alcohol at areas in Comanche Trail Park.

It was his intention, the mayor said, to vote for the proposed ordinance allowing such permits at Tuesday's City Council meeting, but it never came to a vote. Instead, member Corky Harris proposed changes to the ordinance and a motion to approve it as altered failed for lack of majority vote.

Green said he intended to vote against measures banning alcohol from the park or allowing it only at the golf course. His "no" votes were not apparent at the meeting.

Damage claims for fire trucks up in air

By DEBBIE LINCEUM Staff Writer

City officials are gathering information to determine how to deal with two fire truck accidents in the last month, City Attorney Mike Thomas said.

Thomas said he, City Manager Hal Boyd and Finance Director Tom Ferguson will meet soon to decide if the city will file a claim on the insurance policy of a 16-year-old girl whose vehicle damaged a fire truck in an accident Saturday. Rachele Phillips of Coahoma was cited for failure to yield right of way to an emergency vehicle after her car struck the Big Spring Fire Department's new Emergency One pumper. The truck, driven by firefighter Michael Hayworth, 28, had been headed to a reported fire at Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital that was later discovered to be a false alarm.

Fire Chief Frank Anderson said he will take no disciplinary action against Hayworth. He said the firefighter used all necessary caution at the intersection.

Damage to the vehicle was not reported to be severe.

"We're encouraged nothing serious was done to it," Anderson said. "It's mainly a problem with the trim on the outside running board and the hose basket." He said both could be replaced by the company, Emergency One of Florida.

Thomas said if damages are as minor as they appear, filing a claim may not be worth the city's time.

"It all depends on how much damage is actually there," he said. "We're going to have to get some idea of it." Anderson said local body shops and Phillips' insurance company were providing estimates.

Thomas said the city's only remaining option in the first claim is to take the case to civil court.

The department's 1984 mini-pumper was severely damaged in the May 25 accident, in which vehicles driven by firefighter Mark Settles and Moore Development for

Cable company says MTV decision is final

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Although negotiations between TCA Cable TV Inc. and MTV Networks continued throughout the week, Fred Nichols, president of TCA, said MTV will not be available through the cable system after Sunday.

"Negotiations are over. No resolution could be reached, and we will continue with our plans to replace MTV Sunday night," Nichols said today from TCA offices in Tyler.

Nichols said his firm attempted to negotiate with MTV Networks to allow the video channel access to homes that requested the service. He said the channel would have been offered free of charge for TCA customers who wanted the service.

"This dispute was not over money, it was over how to distribute the channel. We feel this is in the best interest of our company and in the best interest of the communities where we operate," he said.

Nichols said another option might have been to block the channel for customers who did not want MTV as part of their basic service.

"We could have blocked it, but the problem with that is it's a negative option. That would be forcing customers to take something unless they say they don't want it. It's an expensive process, but we wouldn't have charged for that. But we wanted the positive option of allowing those who want to have

MTV in their homes. In the long run, we had to do it another way.

"This is not censorship," Nichols said. "MTV has their choice to program the channel, and we have our choice to distribute it or not."

He compared the issue to a newspaper not printing every syndicated columnist. "An editor decides what columnists to run, and we have to make the same decision. We had to weigh everything. We've been in this business for 36 years," Nichols said.

Nickelodeon and VH-1 are also owned by MTV Networks, and Nichols said those contracts are still under negotiation. "We're not going to lose Nickelodeon — I can assure you of that," he said.

Although those two channels' contracts will expire Sunday as well, he said.

Nichols cited Nielson ratings on MTV. "MTV's rating is .5, out of 100. That means half of 1 percent watches MTV, and these are verified ratings. It means that if you had 1,000 homes, five would be watching MTV," he said.

Larson Lloyd, manager of Big Spring Cable, compared the MTV censorship debate with placing a Playboy centerfold advertisement in the Big Spring Herald.

"If I gave you a $1,200 check to run this centerfold, would you do it? That's the same thing — why isn't that censorship?" Lloyd asked.

He said he supports the company's decision to drop MTV. "I hear the complaints people have, parents have, about it. If it was an option to everybody as to whether they wanted it or not — that's what the whole thing is about — not censorship," Lloyd said.

Big Spring Cable TV will begin carrying E-TV on Sunday night to replace MTV on cable channel 19. Nichols said E-TV is a structured video channel similar to People Magazine.

"It's a good channel. It carries news and information of Hollywood, and its audience is anyone who likes to read People Magazine," Nichols said.

TCA carries cable for seven states with 53 systems, he said.

Most lawmakers approve of bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is how Texas congressmen voted in the 353-74 roll call Wednesday by which the House approved an appropriations bill that includes an amendment that would block enforcement of the government's policy banning abortion counseling at federally funded family planning clinics.

A "yes" vote is a vote to approve the bill.

Record number of people served

AUSTIN (AP) — A reallocation of federal funds has allowed the Texas Department of Health to provide free food and educational benefits to a record 450,000 babies, children and pregnant women, officials said.

But that figure still represents only half of the women and children who are eligible for the Women, Infants, and Children program, Debra Stabeno, chief of the bureau of WIC nutrition, said Wednesday.

She said WIC saves state and federal funds by diminishing the amount of money spent on sick newborns.

Smoking banned in El Paso buildings

EL PASO (AP) — The city of El Paso has banned smoking in virtually all buildings it owns and operates, including the airport, the civic center, City Hall and city-operated senior citizens centers.

After a lengthy debate about the constitutional rights of smokers and nonsmokers, the council voted 4-2 Tuesday to implement the smoking ban. The ban was proposed by Rep. Jay J. Armes, who has been trying to ban smoking from city buildings since he was first elected two years ago.

The ban takes effect immediately and a violation is a misdemeanor carrying a $500 maximum fine.

The new policy allows smoking in designated areas in police and fire stations. The city can't change the working conditions of police officers and firefighters unless the council renegotiates their collective bargaining contracts.

Previous rules prohibited smoking in hallways and other common areas, but allowed people to light up in private offices and designated smoking areas.

Agency steps up inspections for stowaways

By JENNIFER DIXON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service and the nation's railroads are stepping up inspections of trains entering the country to search for illegal alien stowaways as the summer heat begins pushing boxcar temperatures to 180 degrees.

It is only the second time that the INS has launched a concerted, nationwide effort to inspect freight yards and trains for illegal aliens, said spokesman Verne Jervis.

"We are trying to avert a tragedy," INS Commissioner Gene McNary said Wednesday in announcing the effort, code-named Operation Iron Horse II.

"We are especially concerned about the hot summer months ahead of us. The temperature inside a closed boxcar can soar to 160 to 180 degrees and quickly dehydrate a person."

Gene McNary
INS Commissioner

"We are especially concerned about the hot summer months ahead of us. The temperature inside a closed boxcar can soar to 160 to 180 degrees and quickly dehydrate a person," he said.

Four years ago, 18 Mexican men died in a locked, steel-walled boxcar in the desert near Sierra Blanca, east of El Paso. One man survived by using a spike to punch a hole through the floor and breathed through the opening. The others perished as temperatures climbed to 120 degrees. A smuggler had locked them in.

The inspections will involve Border Patrol agents from San Diego east to Brownsville on the Southwest border, and from Blaine, Wash., to Detroit on the Canadian border. The Kansas City area will also be included, the INS said.

Trains entering the country from Mexico and Canada, as well as those crossing the country, will be checked for alien stowaways.

In the first four days of the operation, which began Saturday, the INS said a total of 1,365 aliens were arrested, including 171 aliens who were being smuggled. A total of 40 alien smugglers have been taken into custody during the inspections, INS said.

Jervis said the number of arrests was far above normal.

The increased inspections have resulted in two groups of aliens being discovered in locked boxcars in Laredo, including one containing 14 aliens. Two smugglers were arrested.

"We hope this cooperative law enforcement effort will promote public awareness of the dangers inherent to using freight trains for transportation and possibly save lives while discouraging smugglers," said Laredo Border Patrol Chief Joe Garza, who is the project field coordinator.

Clinic considers move to Texas

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Hope Medical Clinic Director Robin Rothrock said she will move the abortion clinic to Waskom, Texas, if a federal judge upholds Louisiana's abortion law.

"If Louisiana is shut down, obviously it would make sense to move right over the line," Rothrock said Wednesday.

Waskom is on the Texas-Louisiana border about 15 miles west of Shreveport.

Jim Walsh, pastor of First Baptist Church in Waskom, said he adamantly opposes such an establishment in his East Texas community.

"We don't need some kind of Louisiana trash here," Walsh said. "How would you like Texas to come in and dump some waste in your town?"

The clinic, which has provided abortions in Shreveport since 1980, is challenging House Bill 112, which outlaws abortion except in cases of rape, incest or to save the mother's life.

With help from the American Civil Liberties Union, Hope Medical Group filed suit against the state June 19 — a day after the Louisiana Legislature overrode Gov. Buddy Roemer's veto of the abortion bill.

The case goes before Federal Judge Adrian Duplantier July 23 in New Orleans. The law will not go into effect until September.

"We intend to stay in Shreveport," Rothrock said. "We intend to keep providing medical services for women in the Ark-La-Tex. But with the concept of letting the states decide, you get into a philosophical discussion of moving across the border."

Cleanup plan for salty lake possible this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-year fight over who pays to clean up the salt pollution threatening water supplies for thousands of West Texans may finally be resolved this year, lawmakers say.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Wednesday that he is optimistic Congress may approve legislation that would include the federal government in financing and conducting the cleanup of Lake Meredith.

The Panhandle lake is the source of drinking water to 450,000 people in West Texas, but naturally occurring salt could eventually render the water useless for human consumption, Bentsen said.

"I'm very optimistic about our chances of adopting the bill this year," Bentsen said. "The House approved it recently and I'll be pushing hard for quick action in the Senate."

Bentsen first introduced legislation in 1988 authorizing the federal government to finance one-third of the cleanup costs. The bill passed the Senate in 1989, and the House approved it in 1990. But the plan died last year during a conference committee dispute over an unrelated issue.

The Lake Meredith plan was again approved in the House last week, and Bentsen introduced similar legislation in the Senate Wednesday.

Private and government studies show that 70 percent of salt entering the lake originates in a shallow brine aquifer in New Mexico, Bentsen said. The aquifer is under artesian pressure and is leaking into the Canadian River, which feeds Lake Meredith.

A Bureau of Reclamation report in 1985 recommended the most cost-effective solution would be to intercept the brine at the source by well pumping and disposal by deep well injection, Bentsen said.

Cost estimates have ranged as high as $9 million.

The legislation would authorize the Bureau of Reclamation to pay for design preparation and construction management, an estimated one-third of the total costs. The Canadian River Municipal Water Authority would be responsible for the remaining two-thirds.

"Each year of delay puts another 30,000 tons of salt in Lake Meredith. If the salt problem is not solved and Lake Meredith continues to be flooded with salt, it could eventually be rendered useless," Bentsen said.

Communities that depend on the lake for drinking water include Lubbock, Amarillo, Brownfield, Lamesa, Levelland, Plainview, Slaton, Borger, Pampa, O'Donnell and Tahoka.

Commission accused of disregarding evidence

DALLAS (AP) — Consumer advocates claim that the Public Utility Commission disregarded evidence presented in 200 days of rate increase hearings for TU Electric and set a goal of granting the utility 80 percent of its $442 million request.

Public Utility Counsel Luis Wilmot, the state-paid attorney for residential ratepayers, said some internal PUC memos show that administrative law judges presiding in the TU case disregarded evidence.

"This is not the way rate making is supposed to occur," Wilmot said. "If, in fact, what we see is correct, then all the evidence and testimony was of no consequence. We might as well not have gone through that tedious process."

PUC spokesman Guillermo Garcia denied the accusations, calling them "completely and totally garbage." Recommendations by three administrative law judges that TU receive a $353.8 million rate increase will be considered at a PUC meeting July 15. If approved, the increase could mean an average 8.2 percent hike for residential ratepayers.

Wilmot cited five commission memos exchanged between the hearings division and staff witnesses in the TU case. He said the memos, dated May 30 and June 5, refer to granting the Dallas-based electric company 80 percent of its request.

Wilmot said the memos were exchanged among Hank Card, assistant director of the PUC's hearings division; James Brazell, an administrative law judge who presided in the case; and staff members of the PUC's electric division.

Government needs to clamp down

WASHINGTON (AP) — Northrop Corp. is a good example of why fraudulent defense contractors need to be punished more severely, perhaps by cutting them off from government procurement programs, a House panel says.

The House Government Operations Committee released a report Wednesday detailing fraud it contends Northrop committed on its nuclear-tipped cruise missile.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., the committee chairman, said the report and the panel's recommendations, approved Wednesday, are "necessary steps to address the pattern of widespread defense contractor abuse which the Northrop improprieties have sadly come to symbolize."

Among the panel's recommendations:

- Strengthen laws to prevent the military from continuing to do business with companies after they've committed wrongdoing.
- Develop policies that give the Pentagon a second supply source so the military is not dependent on one company for critical parts.
- Increase supervision of defense contractors.
- Improve requirements governing the training and supervision of employees.

House OKs abortion counseling bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-passed bill that would permit abortion counseling at taxpayer-financed clinics is on its way to the Senate, where a key subcommittee chairman predicts approval.

"And I expect a presidential veto, and I'm prepared to fight the president on this," Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee that will receive the measure.

Whether the House or the Senate could find enough votes to override a veto promised by President Bush is not clear.

"We'll just have to wait and see where people want to be counted on this one," Harkin said in an interview Wednesday. "But I can say that women's groups all over this country are going to be watching this one."

Staunch abortion foes, however, are confident they can sustain a veto.

The House on Wednesday overwhelmingly approved a $203 billion spending bill that included an amendment that would block enforcement of the government's abortion counseling ban, upheld recently by the Supreme Court.

The bill, appropriating money for the Labor, Health and Human Services and Education departments, was approved 353-74.

No evidence of poisoning found

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The writer whose theory prompted authorities to exhume President Zachary Taylor's remains said she is glad to know the truth about his death — even if tests showed he wasn't poisoned as she suspected.

Clara Rising had theorized Taylor was poisoned with arsenic in 1850 for opposing the spread of slavery into the Southwest.

Kentucky Medical Examiner Dr. George Nichols, disclosing the results of high-tech tests done on hair, bone scrapings and fingernails from Taylor's crypt, announced Wednesday that the 12th president died of natural causes.

"It's not borderline. He was not poisoned," Nichols said.

Unspent foreign aid approaches $9 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly $9 billion in U.S. aid to other countries, some of it made available as long as 10 years ago, is sitting unused.

There are several reasons the money hasn't been claimed, but there's growing sentiment in Congress to limit the number of years that funds can sit untouched in the so-called foreign aid pipeline.

"At a time when programs for Americans are being cut back, like Medicare and housing, the foreign aid pipeline is an insult to the people we are here to serve," said Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis., who recently got the House to approve taking back to the Treasury any of the money idle for three years or more. He estimated that would be about $2 billion.

The Senate is due to act by July 8.

The figures on unused aid were compiled for Roth, the ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs economic policy subcommittee, by the congressional General Accounting Office, which submitted them last week.

They showed the unspent amount rising from about $6 billion in 1981 to $8.8 billion last Sept. 30. The total increased by $226 million over the year before, partly because new aid to Panama and Nicaragua had not been spent. More than $90 million dated back to 1980 or earlier.

Here's how the money gets stuck. Once Congress approves aid to a country, the money goes into an account. Sometimes the U.S. Agency for International Development spends it promptly.

But sometimes it doesn't. The receiving country may have to provide matching funds that it cannot raise right away, or the U.S. aid agency decides to hold up the funds for a country until the next election there.

In other cases, funds for an entire long-term project may be put in the pipeline, even though they won't be spent for years, according to an AID official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The GAO report said that while some of the accumulation is beyond the control of U.S. authorities, much was due to unrealistic or overstated planning.

Troops move on borders, airport

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — Army troops and tanks moved today to seize Slovenia's borders and main airport. The secessionist republic's president promised a fight and urged federal soldiers to desert.

The challenge to Slovenia's independence bid came two days after Slovenia and neighboring Croatia declared independence from the Yugoslav federation, long troubled by feuds among rival ethnic groups.

In Croatia, government troops were apparently limiting themselves to trying to prevent clashes between ethnic Serbs and Croats.

The Serbian-dominated central government said it would crush opposition. But Slovenian leaders, who met in emergency session, promised resistance.

Despite the huge deployments, no fighting or injuries were reported today, two days after the republics declared independence and one day after ethnic clashes killed seven people in Croatia.

Slovenes used buses, trucks and snowplows to block roads leading to their borders with Italy and Austria after government troops were ordered to secure them.

The Slovenes also blocked roads into Ljubljana, their capital.

Power to tax divides Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — The question of who will be allowed to levy taxes in a newly realigned Soviet Union is shaping up as the main stumbling block to agreement on Mikhail S. Gorbachev's treaty for holding the union together.

The Soviet president wants the federal government, the republics and municipalities to all be able to raise revenues from taxes.

That pits him against some of the leaders of the nine republics who have otherwise backed his Union Treaty, which would transfer a great deal of political and economic control to the republics.

Under a "one-channel system"

Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin and other republic leaders favor, their governments would have the exclusive right to levy taxes and would pay a fixed amount to the central government.

Gorbachev initially pushed for the right to levy taxes to be solely in the hands of the central government, which would keep some of the revenue for programs such as defense and energy.

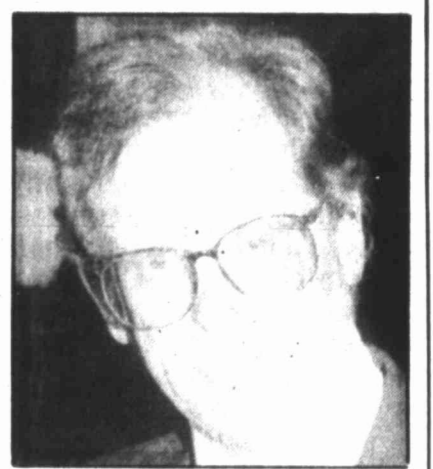

Now, he has come back with a proposed "three-channel system" — similar to that used in the United States — that would give the power of taxation to the national, republic and local governments.

U.S. says Iraqis hid nuclear parts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States says Iraq tried to fool international inspectors who paid a surprise visit to a military base fingered by informants and satellite photos as a storage facility for weapons-grade uranium.

State Department spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler said Iraq had for several days blocked an international inspection team from visiting a site at the Abu Gharaib military base in Baghdad suspected of containing nuclear equipment. The inspectors were only allowed in Wednesday and found the targeted building empty, she said.

Iraq denied removing any nuclear material from the base. Acting U.S. Ambassador Alexander Watson said Iraq was hiding parts of a crude device for enriching uranium to weapons-grade quality.

Surplus came at high cost

The United States has posted its first trade surplus in nine years. Since it took a war and a recession for a surplus to appear, it might be worthwhile to wonder whether the surplus was worth the cost.

Supposedly objective journalists routinely announce a trade deficit — a situation in which more Americans buy goods from abroad than foreigners buy from the United States — as "bad news." Is a surplus gained by war and recession now "good news?"

The truth is, a trade deficit or surplus, however measured, has little or nothing to do with the overall health of the economy.

Much of the surplus represents payments by coalition partners in the Gulf war to the U.S. government, a one-time transfusion but hardly a productive one. And there's no denying we're in a recession.

Since the current figures demonstrate so clearly that trade deficit figures mean little or nothing to any useful analysis of the overall health of an economy, will we finally be spared excessive apocalyptic discussions of them? Don't count on it.

Reputation undeserved

Harris County residents are showing they are fired up and can't take it any more.

They are getting too many early-release parolees and too many halfway house residents. It was satisfying, to say the least, for a local halfway house to refuse admission to convicted killer Wesley Wayne Miller.

The decision was strongly influenced by citizens expressing their outrage. The doors of all other halfway houses in Texas had been closed to Miller who served only 9 1/2 years of a 25-year sentence for murder in the death of a woman stabbed 38 times after she rejected his romantic advances.

This horrific crime occurred in Fort Worth more than a decade ago. What was the state's criminal justice system doing sending Miller to Houston in 1991?

This question is among several that residents of this area should have about a system terribly unfair to the state's largest county, which has been unofficially and unjustly — termed the county with "the hang-'em-high mentality."

A recent study of sentencing patterns in Texas' top 10 counties strongly refutes this contemptuous label.

Harris County proved to be on the of the least tough on crime. It turns out our judges and juries issued an average of 21 years in prison to those convicted of murder. That ranked seventh out of the 10 and well below the leader of the pack, Dallas County, with a 26-year average sentence for murderers.

Harris County has 306 of the state's 761 halfway house beds; Dallas has only 40.

If residents of this area need another issue to get angry about and protest, they have it in the difference between Harris and Dallas counties' treatment by the Board of Criminal Justice.

Texas needs merit system

Now that the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that judges elected in Texas are covered by the anti-discrimination section of the Voting Rights Act, the Legislature should take the opportunity to institute a "merit system" for selecting judges.

By a 6-3 vote the Supreme Court rejected arguments from Texas and Louisiana that elected judges are not "representatives" and do not come under the Voting Rights Act.

"If a state decides to elect its trial judges, as Texas did in 1861, those elections must be conducted in compliance with the Voting Rights Act," wrote Justice John Paul Stevens for the majority.

That means no system of electing judges will be allowed if even unintentional dilution of minority voting strength occurs. When it is shown that minorities are under-represented in an election, the remedy most often accepted is a court-approved district system that is drawn to enhance minority representation.

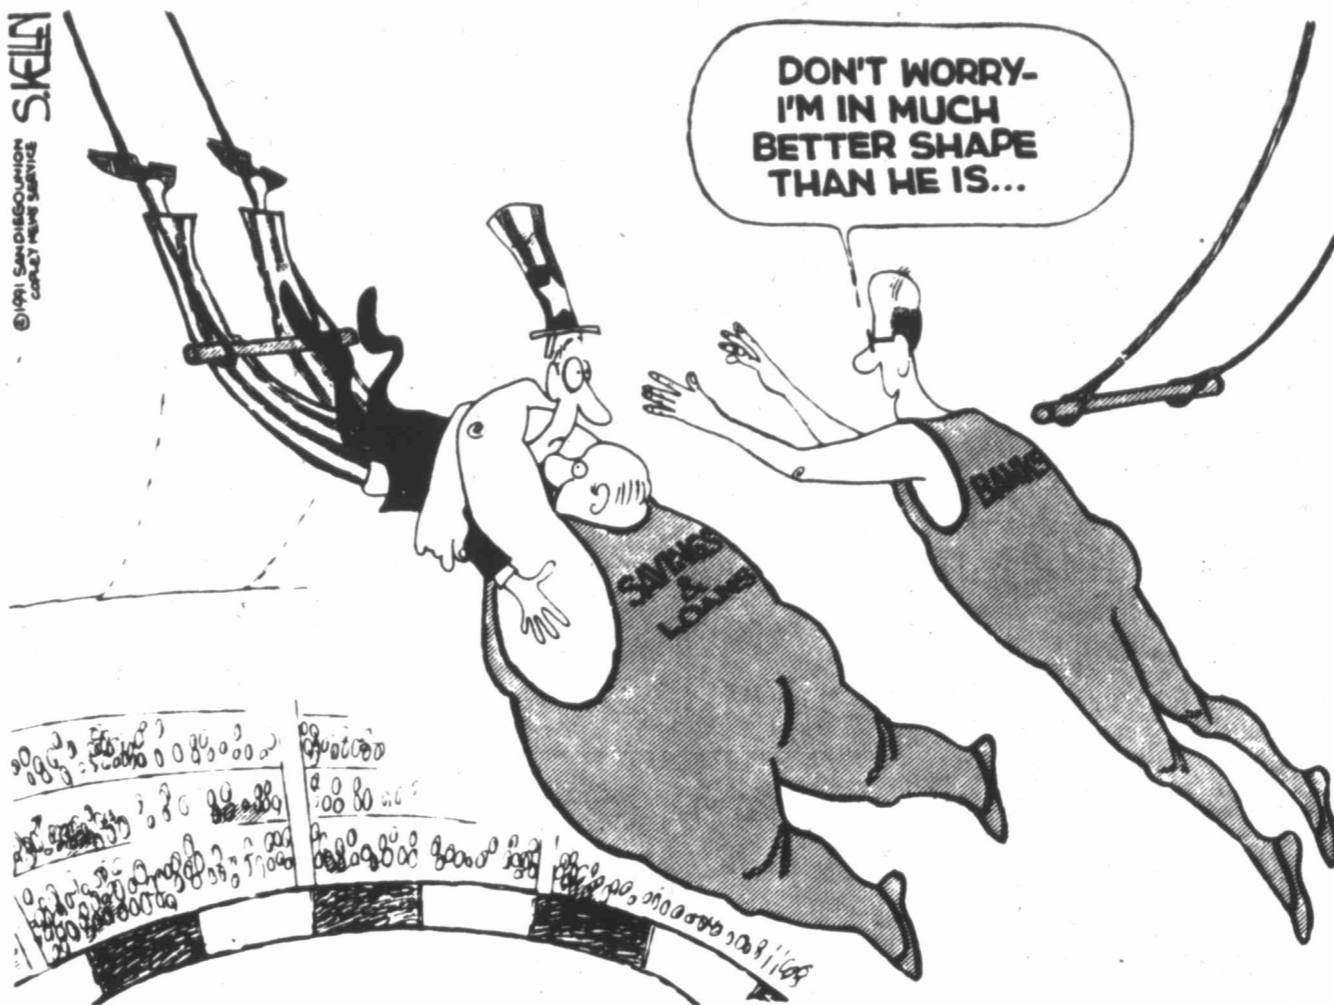

The decision did not dictate a remedy, nor did it declare the at-large system illegal. It returned two lawsuits filed by minority groups to the U.S. 5th Court of Appeals where it will be decided if Texas' system of county-wide elections dilutes minority representation.

Lawmakers should take the opportunity to scrap the idea of electing judges. Judges should not be partisan politicians. Texas judges are politicians first and judges next. A judge's qualifications should include experience, temperament, knowledge, character and scholarship. Qualifications should not include the ability to raise money and glad-hand voter support.

Under the merit system used in several other states, the governor would appoint judges from a list of qualified candidates prescreened by a judicial qualifications committee made up of lawyers, legal scholars and laypersons. After a term in office, the judge would stand for election, running on his or her record. If one judge is turned out, another judge is appointed. Partisan campaigning is removed from the process.

No system is perfect, but the merit system comes closer to meeting the demands of a fair and impartial judiciary than any other.

Fishing boat for Sununu

As everyone knows, John Sununu, the White House chief of staff, has to check out all his travel plans with C. Boyden Gray, the President's legal counsel.

Sometimes it's easy to get an okay — and sometimes it is more difficult.

Last week Sununu went in to see Gray. "I wish to go down to Key West for a fishing trip. Do you have any objection if I take the aircraft carrier, USS Forrestal?"

"Legally there is nothing wrong with it, but it could present an appearance problem. The press may ask questions about why you had to take an aircraft carrier for a pleasure trip off the Keys."

Sununu became agitated. "I have to keep in touch with the President. The Forrestal has just the right communications set-up for me in case the President wants to veto a bill or attack the Democrats. As for calling it a pleasure trip, I intend to do business as well. I have to address the Everglades Republican Club in Palm Beach at a fundraiser for Dan Quayle."

"This one has to be passed by the President," Gray told him. He buzzed the Oval Office on the speaker phone and said, "Mr. President, I have John here and he wants to borrow an aircraft carrier to go fishing. How do you feel about that?"

"I possibly could, Mr. President. But an aircraft carrier makes more sense because it has space where I can spread out my papers. I shall be working most of the time."

"How does it look from a legal standpoint, Boyden?"

"You have the authority to give it to him, Mr. President. However, you said in your campaign that you wouldn't permit any of your staff to take aircraft carriers unless there was no other means of transportation available. What we have to worry about is if the American people perceive the trip as unnecessary. Then you will have to defend Sununu publicly on television, which is something I know you find humiliating."

Sununu interrupted, "Mr. President, I have checked out all the fishing boats in the Keys, and the USS Forrestal is the only vessel that knows where the fish are. If you have any sort of problem back here, they can catapult me to Washington in a couple of hours. But it's your decision."

The President said, "John, you have taken an unwarranted beating on your travel arrangements, and it really gets me mad. I think fairness dictates that the taxpayer ought to look at all the facts. We'll have Fitzwater say that when you go to Florida you are not just going for pleasure — you'll be there to explain Medicaid to our senior citizens."

"I think what we should do, Boyden, is let John take the carrier, and if there is any kind of stink, I'll tell the American people that I will not turn my back on any member of my staff who likes to fish."

Sununu responded, "Thank you, Mr. President. If I catch a barracuda I'll send it back in a Stealth bomber."

"Good luck, John," the President said, "and don't forget to leave the Forrestal's telephone number with your secretary in case I want to get in touch with you."

Congress not like rest of us

By STEVEN KOMAROW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — They say the rich aren't like the rest of us. Neither is Congress.

Rep. John Porter, R-Ill., traveled to Brazil, Puerto Rico, England, Bermuda and the Soviet Union last year. Rep. Rick Boucher, D-Va., took trips to the Middle East, Mexico, and Europe.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., watched Milwaukee Brewers games with team owner Bud Selig. Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., was presented with two rugs from Turkey, which he used to decorate his office.

Porter, Boucher, Aspin and Byrd are men of relatively modest financial standing, not among Congress' millionaires.

But by accepting free trips to far-off locales or little exotic gifts, they managed through their offices to find satisfactions not available to the ordinary American citizen.

Financial disclosure forms released last week for the House and Senate show that most lawmakers buttressed their incomes, their lifestyles or just their egos with the help of lobbyists, interest groups or foreign governments.

Only a minority limited themselves to their public pay and the taxpayer-financed services of Capitol Hill. Most found an incredibly wide array of indulgences at their fingertips, just for the asking.

Speechmaking for dollars — one of the few ways lawmakers can legally put extra money directly into their bank accounts — remained a very popular pursuit in 1990. Senators alone raked in more than $2 million.

House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski collected $310,000 on the lecture circuit. He gave 90 percent of it to charity to get down to the legal limit he could keep.

Next year, he and other House members won't be allowed to pocket any speech honoraria, but Rostenkowski isn't slowing down. For the Illinois Democrat and for others, making speeches tends to personal needs that can't be measured only in dollars.

Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa., is a former firefighter who loves to talk about the art and science of that profession. His speechmaking was dominated by appearances before firefighting groups.

Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., exercised his intellect with 22 speeches at Washington's Brookings Institution last year, and his fees totaled $9,800.

Sarbanes didn't have to leave town for his appearances, but others seemed struck by wanderlust.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a past and possibly future presidential candidate, was able to bone up on foreign affairs at others' expense. He accepted trips to Moscow and Venice, where he spoke at international conferences.

Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., took his wife and three children on a 10-day, expenses-paid trip to Jerusalem and Cairo. The Religious Action Center of Washington D.C., paid for Reid and his wife, while seven individuals picked up the tab for their kids.

Dozens of lawmakers accepted free trips to Sun Belt golf tournaments during Washington's coldest months. Many senators attended a charity ski tournament near Salt Lake City.

Speech honoraria and fancy trips are the big items. But they're not the only things that help make lawmakers feel special.

General Motors distributed to House and Senate members videotape copies of the acclaimed public television series, "The Civil War."

Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., a former pilot who was a prisoner of war in Vietnam, reported he got a ride in a restored World War II bomber.

Others reported receiving everything from cookies to cameras, bananas to bracelets. The law doesn't require the reporting of anything worth less than $75, but a few offices made the effort anyway. It took six pages for Rep. Alex McMillan to list all the stuff that showed up in his office last year.

What does this all mean to Congress' performance of its public duties?

Common Cause and other groups concerned with government ethics have attacked, with some success, the honoraria system as inherently corrupt. The free trips are also a target of criticism from these people.

Drawing the line, however, is tough. Will giving lawmakers copies of television programs give General Motors a leg up on the legislation it wants? The folks at General Motors may think so.

On the other hand, did the Confederate Air Force give John McCain a free bomber ride as a bribe? It sounds silly.

But the little extras have become part of the addiction that keeps House and Senate incumbents running for re-election time after time after time.

The honoraria, trinkets and special treatment are a form of adulation that constantly reassures Congress that it's special.

Not like the rest of us.

A lovesick teen worries her parents

DEAR ABBY: We are a middle-class family with a 20-year-old son and a 16-year-old daughter. Our problem is the girl — "Karen." She's been going with the same boy, "Mark," for a year and a half. He's 17, and they are so wrapped up in each other, it's terrible.

Karen was always a happy, outgoing girl, but now she's secretive and quiet. She used to confide in me. She doesn't go places with her girlfriends like she used to; they don't even call her anymore. Her grades have plunged this year, so she has to go to summer school to make up some credits.

I have tried to reason with her. We have restricted her to seeing Mark only once a week because they were getting too thick. (She says she "loves" him.) We have talked until we are blue in the face about doing something besides waiting for Mark to call, but she can't — or won't — see the light. What can we do? — KAREN'S PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Your daughter has a bad case of lovesickness. She needs someone she can talk to honestly about her feelings. Unfortunately, there is now little communication between you and Karen. So, family counseling might bring you closer together.

Karen needs to see you as loving parents, which is what you are, instead of "the enemy" — using your parental power to keep her from seeing the boy she loves. (Don't ridicule her; although she is only 16, her love is genuine.)

Ask your family doctor to recommend a family therapist. If money is tight, your YWCA may be the answer. And hats off to you for seeking help.

DEAR ABBY: I need your opinion. Two weeks ago, I gave my girlfriend an engagement ring. We have been going together for nearly two years, and it's understood that we will get married in about a year, so she wasn't exactly surprised. (I am 24 and she is 21.)

Now, the problem: The ring I gave her is a three-carat zircon — set in white gold. It looks exactly like a diamond, but it is not nearly as expensive. I never did tell her it wasn't a diamond, and she has been showing it off at work and to her relatives. Now I'm too embarrassed to tell her the truth.

I keep thinking that one day, when I can afford it, I will replace it with a real diamond, but now I don't have the nerve to tell her the truth. What should I do? — NO GUTS

DEAR NO GUTS: Please get the guts to tell her the truth, and the sooner the better. If she should decide to insure the ring, she would be told immediately that it is not a diamond. Your engagement would be less "rocky" if she heard it first from you.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law's behavior is sometimes very puzzling to me. She will bake (or buy) some sort of pastry or dessert to take with her when invited to a get-together for a special occasion. (Birthday, anniversary, housewarming, etc.)

When the get-together is over, she always goes to the kitchen and packs up whatever is left over from her "offering" and takes it home with her. Trying to get her to leave even a portion of it is like pulling teeth!

I'm embarrassed when she does this in front of my family, or even her own children. My husband and I feel that whatever she brings to the home of another is a gift, and she has no right to take home even a part of it. — CONFUSED IN MARIPOSA, CALIF.

DEAR CONFUSED: The leftovers should be left — unless, of course, the host or hostess insists that the donor take them home. And by the way, when one takes a "goody" to the home of another, it would be very thoughtful to bring it on a paper plate, a box, or some other type of disposable container.

By AUDREY WOODS
LONDON (AP) — It has been 10 years since Lady Diana Spencer, shy, sheltered and barely 20, married Prince Charles with much of the world watching.

The bashful kindergarten teacher has emerged, at 30, as a self-assured future queen, an international celebrity and the royal family's most visible asset.

Her touch has become sure, and personal.

"Her availability to anyone, her openness to other people, her acceptance of others" are part of her appeal, said Janet Laithwaite, training director of the Relate marriage counseling centers, which Diana supports.

Diana appears more down-to-earth than her husband, and more approachable than tradition would allow for her mother-in-law, Queen Elizabeth II.

When 67-year-old Alice Frazier threw her arms around the queen in Washington last May, the queen smiled pleasantly but was clearly happy to disengage.

In Budapest a year earlier, Zsuzsa Goncz, the obviously nervous wife of Hungary's interim president, slipped her hand into Diana's during a state visit, apparently for a little guidance and moral support. Diana took hold.

During her visits to AIDS wards in Britain and New York she made a point of shaking hands.

"She shook my hand without wearing gloves, and that meant more to me than anything," said AIDS sufferer Shane Snape after her 1987 visit to a London hospital.

"HIV does not make people dangerous to know, so you can shake their hands and give them a hug: heaven knows they need it," Diana said in London in April.

Her support has been welcomed. "Because she is a popular figure who takes an active and positive interest in it, she's making it more normal," said Ben McKnight of The London Lighthouse, an AIDS and HIV support center. "Other people see her and realize it can be dealt with rationally."

The British seem to enjoy photos of the Princess of Wales sprinting barefoot down a field, skirts and elbows flying, at her son's school games.

They wouldn't want the queen to do it, and a picture of Charles shedding his dignity in the three-legged race would only provoke embarrassed laughter.

"She has a tremendous sense of fun," said Olivia Hughes of the London City Ballet, one of the organizations of which the princess is patron.

Daily Mail society columnist Nigel Dempster calls her "a stunning success."

"She has this extraordinary natural talent" for the role of Princess of Wales. "She stumbled onto it, it stumbled onto her. It is a perfect case of a round peg finding a round hole."

In February, when The Sunday Times accused the royal family of behaving self-indulgently during the Gulf War, it excluded the queen and the Princess of Wales.

Criticism of Diana generally concerns her intellectual powers — along the lines of Denis Judd's comment in the left-leaning New Statesman Society magazine that Diana was "embarrassingly lightweight."

A lot has been written about Prince Charles' university education and Diana's minimal secondary school credits; his interest in high art, serious music and "green" farming; her rock 'n' roll and her giggling.

But Simon Hoggart, a columnist in the liberal Observer newspaper, thinks she's a great deal smarter than she appears.

"The idea of this deep-thinking

Princess Diana, the bashful kindergarten teacher has emerged, at 30, as a self-assured future queen, international celebrity and the royal family's most visible asset. Diana, shown in 1980 with children at the Young England Kindergarten in London where she worked, was shy, sheltered and barely 20 when she married Prince Charles.

As London's Sunday Times said in 1983, she didn't just marry Charles, "she married us too."

Dempster sees Diana as a ray of hope for the monarchy: "She has projected them into the 20th century, and she might just have saved the royal family's future standing as constitutional monarchs of this country."

Isn't it about time we gave Big Spring the business?

Don't let the name fool you. These guys are all heart. Heartless is from left, Loy Hahn, Kent Tibbels, Barry McBee, Tony Ripley and Gene Alexander.

'Heartless' hoping the fun never ends

By DEBBIE LINCUM
Staff Writer

They may be Heartless, but they're hoping for a big break.

Members of this newly formed progressive country music band say they do their best to please the crowd and live to play the music they love.

"We've got more talent than you can imagine in this band," said Barry McBee, who plays mandolin, fiddle and acoustic guitar. He, Kent Tibbels, Gene Alexander, Tony Ripley and Loy Hahn — all age 30-something — make up Heartless. The group got together early this year, a mix of guys with steady day jobs who just want to play music.

Ripley, who had used the name in a previous group, started the band and picked up members through recommendations from his friends. They say they're happy playing regular gigs and aren't too anxious to move ahead just yet.

"We enjoy what we're doing right now," McBee said.

"Yeah, it could change, but right now, this is great. We hope it doesn't change," said Tibbels, the bass player.

A crossover performer whose first love was rock 'n' roll, Tibbels had to be talked into joining Heartless, he said.

"What drew me into this band was that we're progressive country," he said. "They promised we'd play some rock 'n' roll."

Everybody agreed country alone wasn't enough, said Hahn, a guitarist and singer, and drummer Alexander.

"When we practiced for the first time, something just clicked," Tibbels said. "You know how that is. It's been like that ever since."

Lately, the group has been traveling out of town for most shows, playing clubs and events from Midland to Colorado City, Lamesa to Ozona and at Bootscooters Saloon in Big Spring. "We want a chance to get in front of everybody and show what we can do," said McBee, a former bluegrass and country music student who hadn't played seriously in 10 years before he joined the group.

They limit their shows to weekends now, because, as Tibbels said, "We've got to work." He, Hahn and Alexander are employed by Texaco Pipeline Inc. Ripley works for Big Spring Cable TV and McBee has his own business, B&E Roustabouts.

Although each has experience, group members maintain there are no stars. They play popular country music, classics and some rock. Covers are their bread and butter now, but members say they plan to write more originals as they get experience playing as a group.

Members of Heartless agree they love what they do. To the observer, it shows.

Countless 'love shows' hold U.S. in icky lip lock

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An unreasonable facsimile of love has a lip lock on American television viewers.

It's a gooey, yucky kind of boy-meets-girl story — the kind where the boy inevitably is a macho, arrogant, emotionally retarded sort and the girl is usually a titting, unbelievably young sex fiend.

Ponder the titles: "Studs," "Personals," "Love Stories," "Amazing Love Stories," "Love Objects" and — lest we forget — the daddy of them all, "Love Connection."

Most are just plain stupid. But, as is often the case in such matters, stupidity never stopped a love affair. And viewers, it seems, can't get enough.

Take "Studs," made by Fox Television Stations Productions. The series, which debuted March 11 on Fox's Los Angeles affiliate, KTTV Channel 11, is now syndicated in 15 cities. Come fall, "Studs" will be shown nationwide.

Its premise: two men go on dates with the same three women (at different times). Then all five go on camera and compare notes to determine who's the bigger "stud."

Sample remarks made by the women:

"Everything about him was just perfect. He had a great body."

"He's tough, he's buff and that's enough."

On "Studs," the female contestants were asked to ponder this mind-boggling query about their recent dates:

"Who's most likely to make a Xerox copy of his butt?"

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for residence Custom Calling Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for certain residence Custom Calling Services.

The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three Way Calling, Speed Calling 8 and Speed Calling 30.

The Company's proposal would increase the monthly rate for the individual Call Waiting feature from $2.10 to $3.10 for residence customers. Also, the rates for certain combinations of Custom Calling Features (Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8) would increase or decrease depending upon the combination of features. In addition, the company proposes to obsolete the optional Custom Calling Service feature Speed Calling 30 for residence customers except for existing customers at their existing locations. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

One Feature Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting	$2.10	$3.10
Call Forwarding	2.10	2.10
Three-Way Calling	2.10	2.10
Speed Calling-8	2.10	2.10
Two Features Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding	3.75	4.50
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling	3.70	4.50
Call Waiting, Speed Calling-8	3.70	4.50
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling	3.70	3.50*
Call Forwarding, Speed Calling-8	3.70	3.50*

Three Features Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and 3-Way Calling	5.30	5.90
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.90
Call Waiting, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	5.90
Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8	5.30	4.90*
Four Features Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, 3-Way Calling, Speed Calling-8	6.90	7.30
Speed Calling 30	3.20	3.20

*denotes rate decrease

**Southwestern Bell's application proposes to obsolete residence Speed Calling 30 except for existing customers at their existing locations.

Most of the Company's residence customers in Texas who subscribe to one or more of the Custom Calling Service features will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring. It is expected that the proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.9 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. The restructuring will result in an increase in the Custom Calling Services rates for approximately 2.5 million residence customers and rate decreases for approximately 15,000 residence customers. Also, the obsolescence of the optional feature Speed Calling 30 will affect approximately 156,000 residence customers.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Comptroller recommends mergers, layoffs

AUSTIN (AP) — A massive reorganization plan of state government would merge agencies, cut more than 1,000 state jobs, and raise numerous fees and public college tuition.

The payoff to taxpayers, according to State Comptroller John Sharp, would be $5.22 billion in revenue and a more efficient state government.

Unveiling his report Wednesday after 4½ months of audits, Sharp said Texas government is "overlaid with hundreds of agencies, boards, commissions and advisory groups. It is a jerrybuilt mess."

Many of the recommendations "promote good government or improve the flow of services to the public — gains no less real or important than those measured in dollars," he said.

For example, he said, parents of children with multiple disabilities currently have to seek assistance from several agencies. But under his plan, they would go to one agency that would be composed of the 14 existing agencies now providing most health and human services.

Although, 1,043 state employees would lose their jobs, Sharp said the remaining 225,000 state workers would receive better health insurance and retirement benefits, plus incentives to perform a better job.

He proposed massive changes to the education administration, including the shutdown of the Texas Education Agency in order to allow the new education commissioner,

JOHN SHARP

Lionel "Skip" Meno, to restructure the department.

In higher education, tuition at public colleges and universities would increase from $20 per semester hour to $40 per hour for in-state students, and from $40 per hour to $160 per hour for out-of-state students. One-fifth of the tuition revenue would go into a special fund to provide loans to low-income students.

Other reorganization measures would create a new Department of Transportation by combining the departments of highways, aviation, and turnpike authority. The High Speed Rail Authority would be rolled into the Texas Railroad Commission.

Twelve business and occupation licensing boards, and 20 health-related licensing panels would be combined into the Department of Licensing and Regulation. Sharp also recommended abolishing the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission, and bringing the agency's responsibilities under his office.

And environmental agencies, including the Water Commission, Air Control Board, and Structural Pest Control Board, would be brought under one roof. A similar proposal died during the regular legislative session.

Sharp pushed for a wide range of fee increases, including a hike in the cost of a driver's license from $16 to $25. The license would be good for five years instead of the current four years.

In addition, the diesel tax would jump by 4.5 cents per gallon, and the fees for some 60 different alcoholic permits and licenses would be increased.

The plan would also eliminate the discounts now allowed businesses for collecting and paying taxes on time.

Sharp said that major savings would be made by consolidating 301 funds into five super funds ($540 million); delaying phase-in of the sales tax exemption for manufacturing machinery ($368 million); and delaying the 1993 transfer to Teachers Retirement Systems ($250 million).

Highlights of audit proposals

AUSTIN (AP) — Here, at a glance, are highlights of the 1,200-page audit released Wednesday by Comptroller John Sharp, who said it could save and raise $5.2 billion for state government.

ORGANIZATION

● Sunset Texas Education Agency, reorganize it.

● Cap school administrative costs at 25 percent of instructional expenses.

● Create a new Health and Human Services Board by merging other agencies, including current departments of Human Services, Health, Mental Health-Mental Retardation, Employment Commission, Youth Commission, Commission for Blind, Commission for Deaf, Department on Aging and others.

● Establish a new Natural Resources Council from the Water Commission, Air Control Board, Water Well Drillers Board, Structural Pest Control Board and environmental functions of other agencies.

● Create a new Transportation Department from Highways and Public Transportation, Department of Aviation and Turnpike Authority.

● Create a Department of Licensing and Regulation by combining 12 business and occupation licensing agencies and 20 health-related licensing boards.

● Abolish the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, giving its tax work to the comptroller's office and enforcement work to the Department of Public Safety.

REVENUES

● Raise some fees to "more fairly reflect" the cost of services.

● Raise driver's license fee from $16 to $25 and boost term from four years to five years.

Audit

● Create a Natural Resources Council. Currently, 15 agencies deal with the environment and natural resources.

● Consolidate many of the more than 600 special-purpose bank accounts now on the books.

● Provide incentives for state workers to be more efficient.

● Limit school district administrative costs.

● Obtain more federal Medicaid and child support money.

● Increase tuition at public colleges and universities, and various state fees.

Sharp said the audit's findings — if enacted — would generate $4 billion in savings and higher fees.

The proposals also could bring an additional $1.2 billion in new money, mostly from the federal government, he said.

However, Sharp warned that it is crucial that the recommendations not be picked apart by state agencies and their lobbyists. That almost certainly means higher taxes, he said.

Sharp likened his recommendations to a string of Christmas tree lights.

"Every bulb is important. If you pull one of them out, the whole string goes dark," he said. "We can either streamline state government as proposed... or we can pass a tax (increase) to pay for the old way of doing things."

An indication of the fight that may lay ahead was all around him as Sharp made the 1,200-page audit public in the Senate chamber. Crowded into the room and seated in the spectator galleries were hundreds of state agency employees.

The comptroller said he expected legislators to be pressured by both bureaucrats and lobbyists for the various special interests that are cozy with the 200-plus agencies that now exist.

"If you're going to call your legislator and harass them about some $500,000 item, then have the guts to call them and tell them you're for a $5 billion tax increase at the same time," Sharp said.

"You've got all these people that no doubt are going to be calling them (lawmakers) saying, 'Save my agency.' And then the next call is going to be, 'Don't give me a $5 billion tax.'"

One dead, 15 hurt in bus accident

DONEGAL, Pa. (AP) — Investigators are trying to determine why a Greyhound bus with a rookie at the wheel veered off a highway, crashed through a guardrail and slid down a steep embankment. One passenger was killed and 15 others were injured.

A Greyhound spokeswoman said the driver had been driving for the company only since Saturday.

No other vehicles were involved in the accident Wednesday afternoon on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, about 60 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, police said.

"The bus just drove right off the road," Robin Francis, 23, of Mentor, Ohio, told The Pittsburgh

Press. "We just went right over the hill without stopping until we hit the bottom."

Mrs. Francis was in fair condition today with a broken shoulder at Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh. She said the bus driver looked tired when she got on the bus at 7:30 a.m. in Cleveland.

The driver, Nadiyah Shakir, 23, of Cleveland, was in serious condition today at Conemaugh Valley Memorial Hospital in Johnstown, nursing supervisor Lois Tomb said.

Greyhound spokeswoman Elizabeth Dunn in Dallas said Ms. Shakir completed her three weeks of training June 7 and started work Saturday.

Another Greyhound spokesman, Bill Kula, said Ms. Shakir then had Monday and Tuesday off before reporting to work at 3 a.m. Wednesday in Cleveland. The actual driving part of the shift began at 7:20 a.m. and the accident happened about 1:30 p.m.

Greyhound has been operating with replacement drivers since March 1990 when its drivers, mechanics and other workers went on strike.

Brent Bahler, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board, said investigators would try today to determine the cause of the accident.

Juror makes up her mind

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The jury had just been selected after three days of questioning when one member announced her verdict on the murder charges.

"Your Honor!" Michelle Giammarco yelled.

Circuit Judge Peter Dearing was stepping away from the bench and didn't hear her. She was hushed by a bailiff, but persisted.

"I've already made up my mind," she said. "She's guilty." The defendant, Veronica Perdue, is accused of murder in the drownings of her two young sons.

Congress moves legislation forward

WASHINGTON (AP) — A determined Congress is moving forward with legislation to slap tough conditions on normal trade relations with China in the face of a certain presidential veto.

On Wednesday, the House Ways and Means Committee approved strict terms for future renewal of most-favored-nation or MFN status for China, including curbing its foreign sales of nuclear weapons and missile technology.

The Senate Finance Committee was meeting today to act on a similar measure — one calling for an immediate cutoff of normal trade relations with China if it is found to have sold missiles or launchers to Pakistan, Syria or Iran.

MFN status — a misnomer because virtually all U.S. trading partners enjoy it — offers a country the lowest available tariff rates on goods it exports to the United States.

As Congress moved toward its confrontation with the White House, President Bush stepped up his lobbying in hopes of winning 34 Senate votes — one-third of the body — to sustain a threatened veto of the legislation.

Bush invited 11 senators to the White House on Wednesday to discuss the issue, including five Democrats who either support unconditional renewal of MFN status for China or are wavering.

The White House suffered a setback on Wednesday in Ways and Means, where lawmakers voted 17-15 to defeat a heavily watered-down conditions bill offered by Rep. Bill Archer, R-Texas.

The defeated measure, less objectionable to the White House than other congressional approaches, would have essentially left the entire question of MFN status for China to Bush's discretion.

Limit sun exposure when young

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The best way to save baby-smooth skin is to baby it from babyhood. That strategy is best because once you have wrinkles, there's not much you can do to get rid of them, says Dr. Lowell Goldsmith, chief of dermatology at the University of Rochester.

"If we cut down on sun exposure when we are very young, we can prevent, or at least minimize, wrinkling," he says. Wrinkles are not necessarily a badge of old age. "Ninety-plus percent of wrinkling is due to sun damage. When you look at heavily pigmented people — people with naturally dark skin — you usually don't see wrinkling. If you look at the buttocks of an older person — an area of the body that generally doesn't see the light of day — you won't find much wrinkling." Sun, and not age, also is the culprit behind liver spots. "We get a lot of sun on the tops of our hands, and that's usually where we get liver spots," he says. "People who garden or play outdoor sports just have to remember to protect their hands, and well as their faces, with sunscreen."

Tune in to the media

Watch a segment of the evening news on television with your family. Another night watch a news program like 20/20, 60 Minutes or The MacNeil Lehrer Newshour. Which news program did you find to be the most interesting? Did any of the news shows have a noticeable point of view? How are news programs different from a situation comedy like The Cosby Show or a drama like Wonderworks or Young Riders? Are there any similarities?

When you watch the news, list all the things that are used to make the news exciting. Check the amount of time given to the different segments on the program, such as sports, weather, celebrity interviews, local and international news. Look for maps, charts, scenes that were taped earlier, or different camera angles. How many different people present the news? Why are some newscasters called "anchors"?

Compare a newspaper report with a television news report for the same day. Now listen to the radio news for a story on the same topic. Which medium provided you with the most information? Which report did you find to be the most helpful? Why?

Sonora cowboy shines opening night

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The 58th Annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo got off to a rousing start Wednesday night and long-time Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association cowboy Arnold Felts grabbed the spotlight.

The Sonora cowboy, who's been on the PRCA tour 18 years, came away with the best times in both team roping and calf roping events.

Felts teamed with Sonora mate Cliff Davis for a time of 7.3 seconds in calf roping. All the other teams no-timed except for the New Mexico duo of Martin Lucero and Darin Simpson, who got a five-second penalty and ended up with a time of 14.3.

Felts then came back in his speciality — calf roping — to take the best time of the rodeo in that event. The 1981 world champion calf roper nailed his prey in 12.6, almost a full second ahead of second place finisher Mark Ivy of Mountain View.

Felt's performances, the crowning of the rodeo queen, the antics of clowns-bullfighters-barrelmen Quail Dobbs, Miles Hare and Michael "Smurf" Horton, nifty trick riding and trick roping by a pair of youngsters and the appearance by the Owens Country Hitch made it all an enjoyable opening night performance.

The Owens Country Hitch, navigated by Randy Hatfield, put on a splendid performance of precision and grace. There was also 12-year-old trick rider Rey Worthington, who thrilled the crowd with her daring riding stunts. Then there was 13-year-old Arliss Pierce who did numerous rope tricks, including standing on top of his horse.

At the start of the rodeo, Miss Rodeo Texas Lana Grubb crowned Donya Brewer rodeo queen. Brewer, a 14-year-old sophomore at Forsan, received a $500 scholarship to Howard College, along with other prizes. First-runnerup Cassandra Swafford received a $250 scholarship from Howard and other prizes.

The crowd got a chance to see local favorite Wacey Cathey ride in the bull riding competition. Last year's champion was the only rider to stay on in the second section of the competition. The Coahoma bull rider scored a 69, good for third place.

In the first section Stephenville cowboy Mike Collier scored a 74 and Scott McCune of Houston scored a 70.

Big Spring cowboy Guy Miller was timed in 24.9 in the calf roping, the fifth best time of the night.

In bareback bronc riding Randy Slaughter of Belen, N.M. took top honors by riding "Roll With It" for a 77. Chris Guay of Stephenville was second with a 71. They were the only two riders to score in the 70s.

In the saddle bronc competition Steve Roberts of Euless edged out Tom Reeves of Stephenville 74-73. Reeves is currently ranked fifth on the PRCA tour. Charles Soilaue of Stephenville was third with a 71.

The barrel race competition was very close with only two out of the 13 competitors getting penalty points. The first ride of the night was the best, Stephenville's Cindy Smith turned in a time of 17.65. Ginny Wilkerson of Fort Worth was second at 17.70 and Kim Teague of Rankin was third in 17.76.

Tonight's performance begins at 8:30. Top athletes scheduled to perform tonight are saddle bronc riders Cody Lambert and Monty "Hawkeye" Henson, bull rider Bobby Del Vecchio and barrel racers Sherry Johnson and Martha Wright.

UNLV trio highlights basketball draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The NBA could have held its draft in April and not much would have changed.

The Big Four in the spring — Larry Johnson, Kenny Anderson, Billy Owens and Dikembe Mutombo — was still the Big Four Wednesday night.

The projected second tier of four players — Steve Smith, Doug Smith, Luc Longley and Stacey Augmon — went 5-6-7-9, with only Mark Macon sneaking up a few spots to break the pattern.

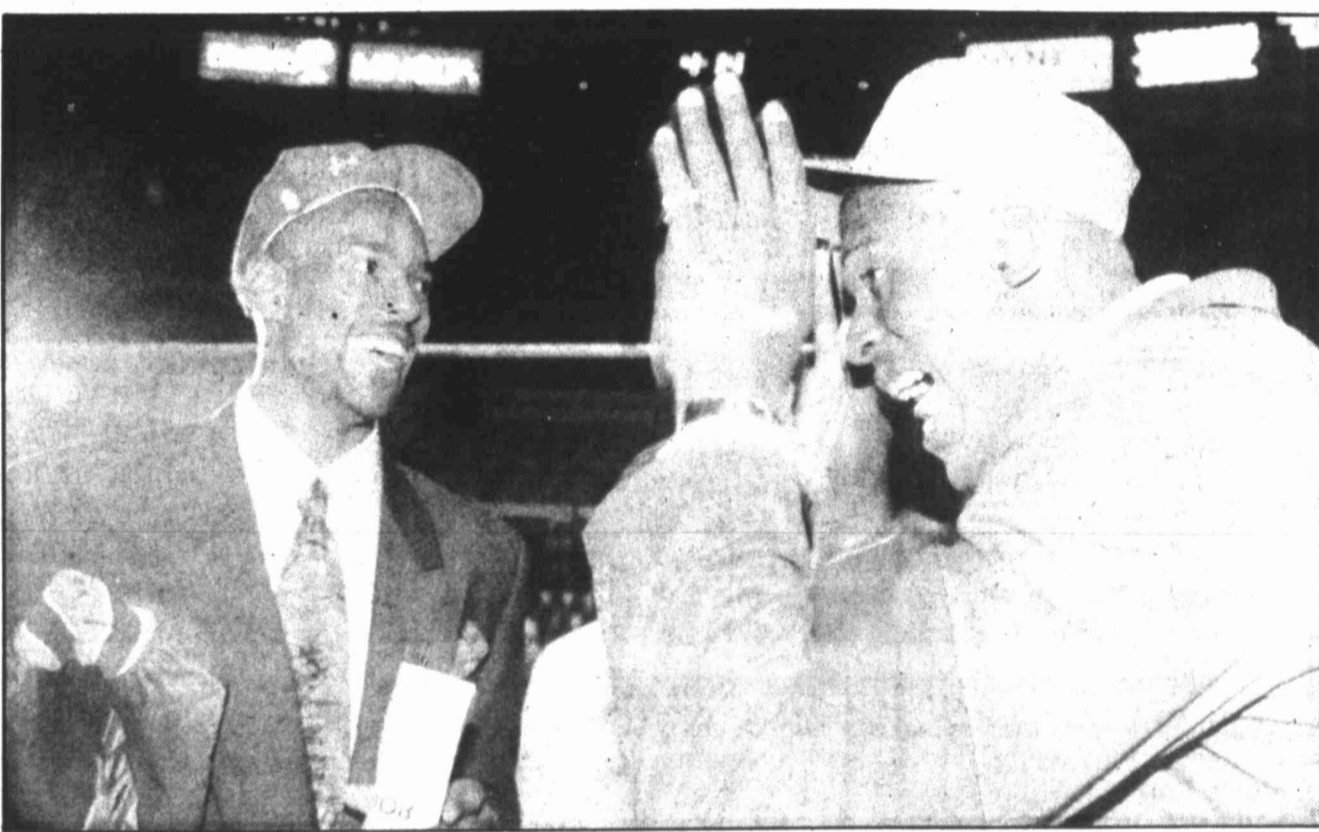

The four centers projected as the best in the first round — Mutombo, Longley, Rich King and Stanley Roberts — went exactly in that order.

Johnson was the No. 1 pick of the Charlotte Hornets, winning out over Owens among the team's management because of the aggressive play he displayed at UNLV the last two years.

"He came up No. 1 in most of the categories that we were looking at, but the big thing about Larry Johnson is his competitiveness and his leadership, and he's a winner," Hornets player personnel director Allan Bristow said. "The thing that separates Larry from all the rest is that he's always been a winner."

Johnson was the first of three Runnin' Rebels taken in the first round — another expected development — and four were taken in the first 29.

Augmon went to Atlanta with the ninth pick the Hawks acquired earlier in the day from the Los Angeles Clippers in a deal for Doc Rivers. Greg Anthony was selected 12th by the New York Knicks and George Ackles by Miami with the second pick in the second round.

NEW YORK — Nevada Las-Vegas alumni Larry Johnson (right) and Stacey Augman celebrate their selection as first round picks in the 1991 NBA

"It's rare when you have a team that has as many high draft picks make it to the NBA," Anthony said. Indiana in 1976, UCLA in 1979 and Michigan in 1990 also had three first-round players in one year.

Owens, from Syracuse, was favored by New Jersey player personnel director Willis Reed and coach Bill Fitch, but the Nets' ownership wanted the flashy Anderson, believing the sophomore point guard from Georgia Tech is a better drawing card because he was a high school hero in New York

Edberg completes soggy first round win

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — After three days of rain delays, top seed Stefan Edberg finally completed a 73-hour victory over Marc Rosset today at soggy Wimbledon.

Edberg won 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in a match originally scheduled to begin Monday afternoon. And even today, a light rain mocked the defending champion's try to wrap up the contest.

"This is the longest match I've played," Edberg said. "I haven't eaten a proper lunch now for four days."

The match was rained out Monday. It was suspended by rain Tuesday with Edberg leading 6-4, 6-4, 0-1. Rain prevented its resumption Wednesday.

Rain delayed the start of play today, but the match finally resumed at 1:38 p.m. Edberg quickly took a 5-4 lead, but the rain returned at 2:01 p.m. as Edberg prepared to serve for the match.

After another 39-minute delay,

Edberg held his serve to complete the match at 2:44 p.m. — exactly 73 hours and 44 minutes after it had been scheduled to start.

Both players were laughing as they left the court, as another shower began.

The incessant rain this week already has wrecked a couple of Wimbledon traditions and now is challenging one of its most hallowed rituals — the mid-tournament break.

All England Club officials have mandated for more than a century that, "On the seventh day, we rest."

But a backlog of matches caused by four days of miserable weather could call that commandment into question.

"At this stage it is too early to decide if we will have to play on the middle Sunday," said chief executive Chris Gorringe. "It has never been done in the past and of course we have had this sort of weather before."

Yet Wimbledon librarian Alan Little, who has been at the Grand Slam event for 46 years, said he cannot recall such soggy weather.

"I can't remember a wetter first three days," Little said. "This is certainly the wettest start we've ever had."

After three days of Wimbledon, the rain was winning 134-46. Instead of the 180 matches that should have been completed by Wednesday night, only 46 had been finished.

"It's not quite critical, but it's getting close to that," Wimbledon referee Alan Mills said. "It's obviously been a very frustrating and depressing three days."

But Mills said he still hopes to avoid playing this Sunday and is optimistic the tournament can end as scheduled on July 7. He said it could be completed on time even if the first round is not finished until Monday.

WIMBLEDON, England — Argentina's Gabriela Sabatini waits to return a shot from Britain's Monique Javer during first round Wimbledon action Wednesday evening.

Rather than playing this Sunday, Mills said he would prefer to make other moves if the rotten weather continues — such as cutting men's doubles matches from best-of-5 to best-of-3 sets.

"It is not just the tennis that is to be taken into consideration," Mills said. "It is all the domestic things that have to go on and be organized with all the contractors and the stewards and ballboys and linespeople."

The rain has forced tournament officials to move the traditional daily starting time ahead by 90 minutes until at least Saturday.

And the poor weather undermined another Wimbledon staple this spring when it ruined the British strawberry crop — forcing officials to import the tournament's famed berries from Belgium and France.

After a total washout on Monday and the completion of 28 matches on Tuesday, only 18 more matches were finished Wednesday as heavy rain caused a 6½-hour delay and turned parts of Wimbledon into marshland.

When the wet weather finally cleared early Wednesday evening, Gabriela Sabatini and Jennifer Capriati wasted little time scoring straight-set victories.

Bulldog greets to get together

It's going to be a hot time at Coahoma High School Saturday.

That's because it will be the 25th reunion of the 1965 Coahoma Bulldogs. Those Bulldogs, along with head Coach Spike Dykes and assistants Bernie Hagins and Don Fuqua, were the most successful athletic teams Coahoma ever fielded.

In two football seasons, the group went undefeated in district play, averaging 41 points per game and allowing seven points per game. It's hard to believe that a state football championship always eluded them.

Average attendance at the Coahoma football games was about 3,500.

Those athletes weren't just good football players, however. They also won more than 40 games in a two-year span in basketball, once beating a team 128-26. To show they weren't rubbing it in, Coahoma played the last three minutes with two players on the court.

In track, the Bulldogs had a 1:55 half-miler, a 3:19 mile relay and a 175-foot discus thrower.

Dykes and his coaching staff had their influence on athletics and education. Twelve of the 17 players of the class of 1965 received their college degrees.

The members of those great teams were: John Gibson, Tony Butler, Mike Hinsley, Mike Butler, Mike Mosley, Lawrence Leopard, Bobby Pherigo, Chuck Pherigo, Bobby Weaver and Teddy Merrick.

Other were Dean Bohannon, Marshall Williams, Howard Gregory, Bobby Lindsey, Eddie Torres, Wayne Oglesby, Keith Hodnett, Dewayne Allen, Eddie McHugh, Travis Reid and Ted Cearley.

Rounding out the class were Eddie Wolski, Joe Anderson, Wesley Wright, Troy Fraser, Terry Denton, Carl Dorton, Ken Gregory and Jay Ingram.

Mitchell's shot leads Giants to win

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 It didn't take long for Kevin Mitchell to show what he means to the San Francisco Giants.

Mitchell, in his first game since coming off the disabled list, homered in the 11th inning off Tim Crews on Wednesday night as San Francisco beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2 for its sixth straight victory.

National League

"Coming in here and winning two games against the Dodgers when they're been playing so well, and beating their best pitchers has to give us a lift," Giants manager Roger Craig said.

Matt Williams tied the game in the ninth inning with a two-out, two-run homer off Ramon Martinez, who was one out away from a two-hit shutout.

Mitchell, who hadn't played since June 3 because of an injured right knee, entered the game as a pinch hitter in the ninth and popped out to second. Two innings later, he hit his 11th home run of the season off Crews (2-1).

"I was looking for something hard that I could drive," Mitchell said. "He started me off with a fastball up and away, and then he threw me a slider for a strike. In that situation, I never thought he'd throw me a ball that I could pull."

Jeff Brantley (2-1) pitched the 10th inning for the Giants, striking out Stan Javier to end the game with Brett Butler on third. Martinez allowed three hits in nine innings, struck out seven and walked four.

Braves 3, Astros 2
 Terry Pendleton went 4-for-4 and scored the go-ahead run as visiting Atlanta ended a 23-inning scoreless streak against Houston.

With the score tied 2-2, Pendleton led off the eighth with a double off Jim Clancy (0-2). Jeff Treadway then singled home the lead run.

Mike Stanton (3-1) allowed one hit in 1 1/3 scoreless innings. Juan Berenguer finished with perfect relief for his 11th save.

Cardinals 14, Phillies 1
 Pat Combs (2-6) walked five of six batters he faced at Busch Stadium and 22 of his 27 pitches were balls.

St. Louis had 16 hits, including five doubles and a triple. Tom Pagnozzi drove in three runs and pitcher Bryn Smith, Ozzie Smith and Todd Zeile had two RBIs each, sending the Phillies to their fourth consecutive loss.

Bryn Smith (6-4) won for only the second time in seven starts, giving up six hits and a run in 6 2/3 innings.

Reds 6, Padres 2
 Scott Scudder hit his first major league homer in a four-run third and pitched six strong innings. Cincinnati reached six games over .500 for the first time this season at 38-32, winning for the fifth time in seven games.

Mets 7, Expos 4
 Frank Viola survived a shaky start and five hits by Marquis Grissom as he beat the visiting Expos for the third time this season.

Viola (8-5), who lost four of his previous five decisions, gave up three runs and 10 hits in seven innings and improved to 7-1 lifetime against Montreal. John Franco, who hadn't pitched since June 14 because of a sore back, got the final out for his 14th save.

Pirates 7, Cubs 6
 Barry Bonds and Jose Lind homered in a five-run third inning at Three Rivers Stadium, Bob Walk remained unbeaten and Jay Bell went 5-for-5.

Walk (6-0) allowed six hits in seven innings and has won eight straight decisions since last Sept. 9. Bill Landrum got three outs for his 14th save in 14 chances.

Belle returns to Indians with a bang

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Albert Belle is alive and well and living in Cleveland — again.

Belle, banished to Class AAA Colorado Springs on June 6 after not running out a double-play grounder, returned to the Indians'

American League

lineup Wednesday night and wasted no time making his presence felt.

He had a two-run double in his first at bat and an RBI single in his second — both in a nine-run first inning that led Cleveland to a 10-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Cleveland manager John McNamara hopes Belle, who still leads the Indians with nine homers and is second with 30 RBIs, is back to stay.

"If he continues to play like he did in Colorado, he'll be a big plus for us," McNamara said. "He's very important to this club."

Greg Swindell (4-6), who's suffered all year from a lack of offensive support, had no complaints after the Indians' biggest inning of the season. He allowed four runs and 10 hits in six innings.

Rangers 8, Athletics 1
 Steve Buechele's three-run triple keyed a six-run seventh inning as Texas rallied for a victory at the Oakland Coliseum.

Oakland led 1-0 after six innings, but Buechele put Texas ahead with his bases-clearing triple to left-center off Gene Nelson. He added an RBI single in the eighth to hand Oakland its ninth loss in 12 games.

Kevin Brown (6-5) overcame his own wildness — he walked six — and allowed just one run and four hits in seven innings.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 2
 Toronto cooled off baseball's hottest team behind David Wells' pitching and Joe Carter's hitting.

Wells (9-5) allowed seven hits in eight innings, losing his shutout when Chili Davis hit a two-run homer. Carter went 4-for-5 with two doubles, two singles and two RBIs as the Blue Jays snapped Minnesota's 11-game winning streak at the Metrodome. Tom Henke pitched the ninth for his 13th save.

Yankees 5, Red Sox 1
 Scott Sanderson allowed six hits in six innings and Steve Howe pitched three scoreless innings as the Yankees won their second straight game at Fenway Park.

Angels 10, Royals 5
 The Angels made it easy for Mark Langston, scoring six runs in the top of the first to complete a three-game sweep at Royals Stadium while setting an American League record with their 13th straight errorless game.

Mariners 5, White Sox 4
 Mike Jackson preserved Randy Johnson's third straight win by striking out Carlton Fisk with the bases loaded to end the game at Comiskey Park.

Draft

 guard that will be announced Monday but won't involve Owens.

"We did not draft him to trade him," Reynolds said. Denver did what was expected with the fourth pick, grabbing the best center available in Georgetown's 7-foot-2 Mutombo.

Despite not playing basketball until he was a senior in high school in Zaire, Mutombo averaged 15.2 points, 12.2 rebounds and 4.7 blocks as a senior for the Hoyas and was selected as the Big East's defensive player of the year last season.

Mutombo also has excellent running skills and stamina for a big man, and he'll need them with the Nuggets, 20-62 last season with the worst defense in the NBA.

"I am a great defensive player," said Mutombo, who turned 25 on Tuesday. "This will bring defense back to Denver."

After Miami picked Michigan State's Steve Smith, Dallas selected Missouri forward Doug Smith and Minnesota took New Mexico's Longley. Denver used its second choice to take Macon.

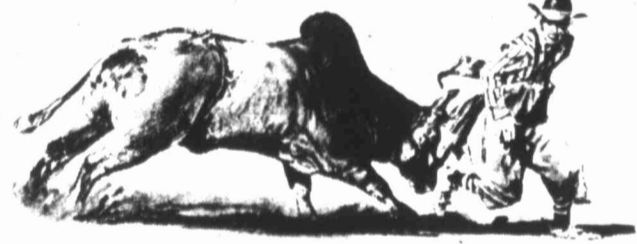

The Nuggets, who acquired the eighth pick in a deal that sent guard Michael Adams to Washington, appeared to commit to using shooter Chris Jackson at point guard. "We looked in the draft to get a nice balance of inside-outside, and we got exactly that," coach Paul Westhead said. "I'd be hard-pressed to think of anything better. It would be our hope that both would start right away. They are key players in our immediate future."

"Denver is a long way from home, but it is my home now," Macon said.

Between Augmon at No. 9 and Anthony at No. 12, Orlando took forward Brian Williams of Arizona 10th and Cleveland grabbed guard Terrell Brandon of Oregon 11th.

After Anthony was taken, it was forward Dale Davis of Clemson to Indiana, center Rich King of Nebraska to Seattle, Seton Hall's Anthony Avent to Atlanta, Chris Gatling of Old Dominion and Victor Alexander of Iowa State back-to-back to Golden State, Kevin Brooks of Southwest Louisiana to Milwaukee, Louisville's LaBradford Smith to Washington, John Turner of Phillips to Houston, Eric Murdock of Providence to Utah, Syracuse's LeRon Ellis to the Clippers, Stanley Roberts of LSU and Real Madrid to Orlando, North Carolina's Rick Fox to Boston.

Douglas at peace with the world

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James "Buster" Douglas is content.

On Tuesday, he took his 6-month-old son for a checkup. The next day, while going through his morning mail, he came across a tattered letter on a series of small sheets of paper, all taped together.

It was from a child, requesting an autograph from the man who was the heavyweight champion of the world for 258 days last year.

"I'll tell you, this is great," he said. "I go through my mail and I still get a lot of people who ask for autographs. That makes me feel terrific. A lot of people out there remember you and care."

It has been almost a year-and-a-half since Douglas' greatest triumph, a stunning 10th-round knockout of Mike Tyson in Tokyo on Feb. 10, 1990. It has been eight months since his most humiliating loss, a third-round knockout at the hands of current champion Evander Holyfield on Oct. 25 in Las Vegas.

The same hand that knocked out Tyson wrote "Love and Peace" under the signature. There is little doubt that Douglas is at peace.

"If I never fight again, I'll still be the happiest man in the world," he said.

Since an overweight and out-of-shape Douglas hit the canvas against Holyfield, he has thrown himself into building an expansive community center near the eastside neighborhood where he grew up. It will be called the Lula Pearl Douglas Community Center, in memory of his mother, who died shortly before he left for Tokyo to take on Tyson.

He has also enjoyed spending time with a son, Cardae, born Dec. 15.

"Right now, I'm on a break," Douglas said. "I was busy the last 10 years doing nothing but trying to become the heavyweight champion of the world. Now I'm taking time off."

"When I look at my youngest son, well, he's fascinating. It never ceases to amaze me. I'm enjoying spending time at home, doing the things I always wanted to do and the things I never dreamed I could do."

Helping him enjoy the time is his $24.1 million payoff for the loss to Holyfield. But even though he admitted he is stung by those who laugh at his weight or criticize his performance against Holyfield, he said he tries to not let it bother him for long.

"If somebody mentions my name in a negative way, that's fine," he said. "I know there's more to life than being the heavyweight champion."

He said he doesn't miss being the celebrity attendant with being the champ.

"It's a relief, to be honest with you," he said. "I never went into boxing to be the center of attention."

All I wanted was to be the heavyweight champion. The money and attention came with it. ... I don't miss being honked at and gawked at all the time. But I'm sorry holding the title didn't last longer."

He said he still watches the top fights on television. He'll watch Friday night's Tyson-Razor Ruddock bout with interest. Still, he doesn't see himself in the heavyweight picture.

"I know I'd have to be 110 percent. I couldn't come in like I did in my last fight," he said.

Ruddock 10 pounds heavier this time

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Donovan "Razor" Ruddock says he's just being natural for his rematch with Mike Tyson.

"We've been training very hard," Ruddock said Wednesday after the official weigh-in for Friday night's 12-round fight outdoors at The Mirage.

"I wanted to come in at my natural weight. I think I came in a little too light the last time."

Ruddock weighed 228 pounds when he was stopped in the seventh round by Tyson March 18. On Wednesday, he weighed 238.

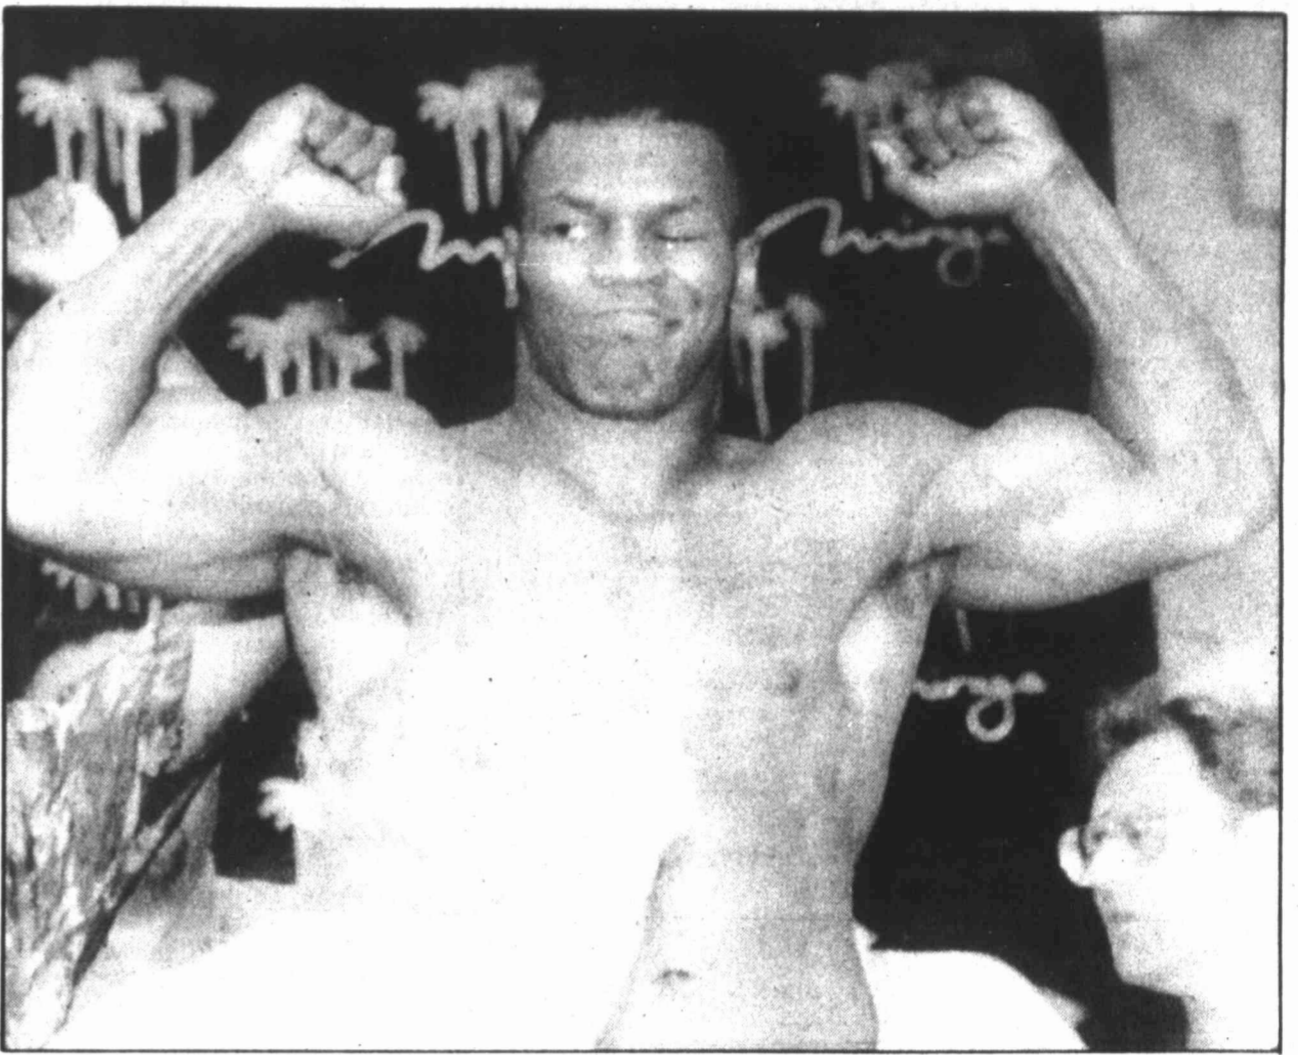

Tyson weighed in at 216 pounds, one less than he weighed for the first fight.

Ruddock's weight gain reminded some reporters of James "Buster" Douglas' preparation for his first heavyweight title defense and led them to question just how hard Ruddock has prepared for the rematch.

Douglas, who weighed 230½ when he won title on a shocking 10th-round knockout of Tyson Feb. 11, 1990, was a flabby 246 pounds when he was knocked out in the third round by Evander Holyfield Oct. 25.

While Ruddock didn't appear flabby, the added weight was noticeable.

In his last fight before he lost to Tyson, he weighed 228 pounds when he knocked out Mike

LAS VEGAS — Former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson winks to the crowd as he is weighed by Chuck Minker of the Nevada Athletic Commission Wednesday at the Mirage Hotel. Tyson weighed in at 216 pounds for his bout with Donovan Ruddock.

Rouse in the first round last Dec. 8. He weighed 230 pounds for his most important victory, a fourth-round knockout of former champion Michael Dokes April 4, 1990. Tyson was a strong favorite to win the match, which will be officiated by Mills Lane.

It's men only at this party

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner is asking why the fuss over a men-only party he's throwing for Friday's closed-circuit telecast of the Mike Tyson-Razor Ruddock fight.

"Let me and the guys enjoy ourselves just once," he said in a statement Wednesday responding to critics. "We deserve it."

Steinbrenner and businessman Phil Alessi asked 120 men, some of them prominent local officials, over to watch the fight on a giant TV screen.

"Gosh, I always liked ladies... I always liked to take the ladies to dances, movies, orchestra, opera, ballet, homecoming games and the World Series," Steinbrenner said. "The wrestling matches and boxing, I prefer to watch with the guys. So what's the big deal?"

While Tampa mayor Sandy Freedman dismissed the affair with an eye-rolling "boys-will-be-boys" comment, Hillsborough County commissioner Jan Platt said not being invited was a big deal.

"I think it's cast in a different light when invitations are to public officials," she said. "It just would seem all or none would be invited. I do believe it's exclusionary. It's just one more example of how it's practiced in our community."

People should stop worrying about "petty crap" and focus on issues like "educating young people, police protection, the environment..." said Steinbrenner, who lives in Tampa much of the year.

Platt and others said that to exclude women officials raises questions of access to power and political correctness.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of its intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for Directory Assistance Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for Directory Assistance Service.

To help recover its costs, the Company is proposing to increase the rates for Directory Assistance calls from $.30 to $.40 per call (after the three-call allowance). Southwestern Bell is proposing that there be no change in the number of free Directory Assistance calls allowed each month (currently three) and that customers who qualify for exemption of Directory Assistance charges because of visual or physical handicaps continue to be exempt from these charges. The company also proposes to begin charging $.25 per call for Directory Assistance from pay telephones.

If approved by the Commission, this proposed rate change for Directory Assistance will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.4 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. This proposed rate change would affect approximately 900,000 residence customers, approximately 155,000 business customers, approximately 500 private pay telephone owners and all customers who make Directory Assistance calls from public pay telephones.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Steroid supplier said he was scared

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A physician accused of providing anabolic steroids to professional wrestlers says he sold large amounts of the drugs to a 300-pound weightlifter because the man previously threatened his family.

Dr. George Zahorian III, sobbing at times while testifying in his own behalf Wednesday, said he would have given the lifter, William Dunn, "anything. If he wanted to take one of my tables with him, he could have had it. ... The size of this man threatened me far beyond what you can imagine."

Dunn, who wore a recording device for the FBI the last four times he purchased steroids and painkillers from Zahorian, was the key government witness in the trial.

The case was expected to go the jury later today, following rebuttal testimony from the government. That testimony was expected to feature at least one professional wrestler.

Zahorian admitted he provided anabolic steroids to Hulk Hogan and other professional wrestlers. But, he said, he was not aware that providing steroids for non-medical purposes became illegal in November 1988 and he said he carefully monitored the wrestlers' physical conditions as a ringside doctor.

Zahorian, 43, is charged with supplying steroids and other controlled substances to Dunn and four wrestlers — Roddy Piper, Rick Martel, Daniel Spivey and Brian Blair. The wrestlers were not charged because steroid use was legal at the time covered in the indictment.

Defense lawyer William

Costopoulos is trying to convince the jury that Zahorian was not aware the law had changed, that the law itself is unconstitutional and that the doctor was intimidated into providing large quantities of steroids and painkillers to Dunn.

Zahorian said he started fearing Dunn several years before the lifter became a government informant. He told the jury that Dunn delivered some stolen gym equipment to him, then warned him not to say a word to anyone.

The doctor said Dunn put a hand on his neck and said, "You have a nice family, nice children, a wife. They're nice. You're never to tell anybody where this equipment came from."

Exhibits offered by the defense included numerous photographs of Zahorian, his wife and daughters posing with Hogan and other wrestlers.

"The evidence is going to show Doctor Zahorian had a weakness," Costopoulos said in his opening argument. "His weakness was compassion and caring for the men he idolized since childhood, professional wrestlers."

The doctor also testified that he provided steroids to other wrestlers, including Hogan. Zahorian, sobbing openly, said Hogan once had a serious problem with steroids but, with the doctor's help, has been clean for several years.

Hogan, the World Wrestling Federation champion and perhaps the best-known figure in the game, was subpoenaed as a government witness. But U.S. District Judge William Caldwell ruled he did not have to appear.

Referee standing by his decision

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Richard Steele will referee his 88th world title fight Saturday — a middleweight match between James Toney and Reggie Johnson.

He'll hear taunts of "Stop it, Richard."

On March 18, Steele stopped the Mike Tyson-Donovan "Razor" Ruddock fight in the seventh round, making Tyson the winner and touching off a storm of controversy that led to the rematch.

It will be held Friday night outdoors at The Mirage.

"To most people, I robbed them of the climax," Steele said of the crowd's angry reaction to his decision in March. "They were sitting on the edge of their seats waiting for the big punch to come, and I stopped it."

"People want to see somebody still upsets him.

"I'm very angry with the press," Steele said. "They said I did something shady."

"They scared my 16-year-old daughter and my wife so much they said they wished I'd have gone ahead and let him get hurt."

Shortly after the fight, 16-year-old Za'Keisha Steele got an "A" on a school test.

"This idiot got up and said, 'Your father was bought off, so I guess you bought your 'A,'" Steele said.

Besides criticism that Steele was too hasty in stopping the fight, there also were suggestions of impropriety.

Steele works as a blackjack pit boss at the Golden Nugget, which is operated by Steve Wynn, who also operates The Mirage, the site of the first Tyson-Ruddock fight and of the rematch.

"When you do something, you do it without malice in your heart," said Steele, who is an ordained Baptist minister. He has no problem reconciling his roles as minister, referee and casino employee.

"Safety has always been the factor," said Steele, who boxed while he was in the Marines and had 21 fights as a light heavyweight after turning pro in 1966.

Ruddock was knocked down in the second and third rounds, but rallied with a barrage of punches in the last 22 seconds of the sixth round.

The seventh round, however, was all Tyson.

Late in the round, Tyson landed a right, left hook, right and yet another hook to the head that sent Ruddock reeling back.

Tyson was about to follow Ruddock, when Steele grabbed him and stopped the fight with 38 seconds left in the round.

Some people felt that Steele assumed Ruddock was going down and criticized Steele for not looking at Ruddock and seeing that he was sagging against the ropes with his right arm over the top strand.

"A lot of people said I had my back to him," Steele said. "I was stopping the attack. I didn't have to look at him."

Critics said that since the ropes were holding Ruddock up, Steele could have ruled a knockdown and given Ruddock a mandatory 8-count. That would have given Steele more time to determine if he could continue.

Steele said he didn't need more time.

When Ruddock realized the fight was over, he said, "What, what?" and looked at his corner.

While some reporters continue to criticize Steele, many people have rallied to his side.

"I have a big envelope filled with letters from all over the world," he said. "Most of them stood by what I did."

"Many people called me — most of them didn't know anything about boxing — saying I was in their prayers."

Cowboys' owner feeling confident

AUSTIN (AP) — Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones stopped short of predicting a playoff spot for the Cowboys this season but said his players can match up with anybody in the National Football League.

Jones said Wednesday 80 players would be coming to summer football camp in Austin. "This is the most competitive that the Dallas Cowboys have been for intrasquad positions in many, many years."

He said the roster includes second-year players Emmitt Smith, a running back who was NFL Rookie of the Year, and wide receiver Alexander Wright, whom Jones said is the fastest player in the NFL.

Both were holdouts last year and will be taking part in their first summer camp.

"We have excellent talent. I believe we have talent on par with anybody in the NFL, with anybody in the NFL today," Jones told a news conference. "It is dramatic the talent that we have relative to where we were two or three years ago."

The Cowboys finished 7-9 last season, which was the second for Jones and Coach Jimmy Johnson.

The team improved from a 1-15 record in 1989. As a result of that improvement, Johnson was named NFL Coach of the Year.

Last year, in a training camp Johnson called "fantastic," the Cowboys drew 97,647 spectators for 36 practices, according to the team's count.

"I think you haven't seen anything yet compared to what it's going to be," Jones said.

The Cowboys report to camp at St. Edward's University on July 14, with the first practice July 16.

An intrasquad scrimmage is scheduled for July 21. Scrimmages against the Houston Oilers will be held July 25 in Austin and July 28 in San Antonio.

Camp ends Aug. 16.

"The heat is right, the Cowboys are right," Jones said. "We have excellent talent and the excellent makings of a team. We know the other teams have something to say about how successful we're going to be."

"I do want you to know that our coaching staff are so optimistic that I really don't even want them saying some of the optimistic things they have in the backs of their mind about what kind of success we're going to have this year, because sometimes those things are hard to live down."

Dallas trained in Thousand Oaks, Calif., for 27 years before new owner Jones shifted camp to St. Edward's, a 106-year-old Catholic university with an enrollment of 3,100.

New England female linksters cry dirty golf

BOSTON (AP) — There are nearly 280,000 female golfers in New England, and many say they are not treated at par with males at the region's private country clubs.

Most private clubs won't let women golfers play during prime times, such as weekend and holiday mornings, according to The Boston Globe, which said it interviewed more than 60 women golfers and other observers.

Some clubs have men-only bars, dining rooms or card rooms, and many discourage or prohibit women from becoming full voting members through their dues policies. A few will not admit single women.

Jane Blalock, whose 29 championships on the LPGA tour mean she has won more professional golf tournaments than any other New Englander of either gender, could not get a drink in the clubhouse at the Wollaston Country Club in Milton, Mass.

She said she "had to sit outside on the porch" last week after playing 18 holes with three men because the lounge, known as the Men's Grille, would not serve a woman.

Clubs reserved weekend hours exclusively for men when most women worked during the week and women frequently did not. But times have changed, and women golfers want clubs to change.

The National Golf Foundation found last year that 87 percent of the golfers in the country are male, but 41 percent of new golfers are female.

Since Midge Martin, a member of the Longmeadow Country Club, began a crusade for change last summer, her cat has been poisoned, flowering trees have been pulled from her lawn, she has received threatening calls and letters and golf balls have been thrown at her home, she said.

It isn't just that women usually cannot tee off until noon on weekends, she said, but that men who support restrictions include college presidents, judges, lawyers, bankers, corporate executives and other community leaders.

The Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination and the attorney general intervened at Longmeadow, where women could not vote, tee times were restricted,

Rocket sits on sidelines in opening exhibition tilt

TORONTO (AP) — It was hardly what Raghib "Rocket" Ismail wanted out of what he said was the first professional football game he'd ever attended.

Instead of returning punts for touchdowns in what was supposed to be his Canadian Football League debut, the injured Ismail watched from the sidelines as a teammate, Mike Clemons, took a punt 87 yards for a score.

"He told me he was going to do it. He said he was going to make something happen," Ismail said Wednesday. "He got busy. He was hyped."

So were a lot of other people at the Skydome. After all, when Ismail, the consensus first pick in last May's NFL draft, signed a four-year contract with the Toronto Argonauts that could pay him $26 million, he brought a lot of expectations with him.

But a pulled leg muscle kept Ismail out of action. He stood on the sidelines wearing a baseball cap as the Winnipeg Blue Bombers beat the Argos 29-15 in the exhibition season opener for both teams.

"He wanted to play," said one of the Argos' new owners, Los Angeles Kings owner Bruce McNall. "The doctor said it wasn't a smart idea."

Ismail said he kept his options open until the last hours because he hoped that the left quadriceps muscle he pulled about two weeks ago in training camp would be up to the stress. In the end, he decided it wasn't.

"I decided just today when we were getting treatment," he said. "It just didn't feel good at all."

Still, he said he was difficult standing still at times.

"I was like, 'Oh man, I could have done this or I could have done that,'" he said. "But, in due time, in due time."

Even with Ismail's questionable status going into the game, 31,196 fans showed at the Skydome — 10,000 more than attended the Argos' only home preseason game last year.

"To show you, I don't think we had this many people the last two years (except) for a couple of games," said Rick Silvestri, a season ticket holder from St. Catharines, an hour's drive away.

Rocket sits on sidelines in opening exhibition tilt

Silvestri wasn't concerned that he wouldn't get a chance to see the CFL's latest star.

"It doesn't matter. He'll play. We've got all year," he said. "He's here. He looks good. He was limbering up in the warmups and he looked fine."

Argos' first-year coach Adam Rita said Ismail looked more than fine in the brief training time before the injury.

"He can do a lot," Rita said. "He's a lot better you can even imagine, better than I even imagined. We expect a lot of great things from him, and I think he expects a lot of great things from himself."

Not only the Argos, but the league as a whole is expecting great things from Ismail.

"If ever this league really needed a lift, it was certainly at this time," said J. Donald Crump, the CFL's commissioner the last 18 months.

Things have been worse for the CFL. In 1987, the league lost one of its oldest teams, the Montreal Alouettes, because of financial problems, and reports indicated several other franchises in the eight-team league were close to folding as well.

Regular season attendance reached a 14-year-low of 1,744,430 and many observers wondered if the league would be able to survive.

"I think the league kind of lost touch with the younger generation," said CFL communications coordinator Norm Miller. "People seemed to get turned off."

Hines may hang up taps

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Gregory Hines says his dancing legs are just about tapped out.

"It gets harder as the years go by," said Hines, 45. "Let's just say I loosen my taps a little bit more each year to get that jingle."

He said his one-night stand at Bally's Grand Casino Hotel in Atlantic City on Saturday is about all he can handle.

"I think I could tap at this level for another four or five years, and then I'll change my style or give it up," he said.

When his dancing days end, Hines said, he'll concentrate on acting and singing.

Black leaders said the bust is an insult.

"I know some people object, but their arguments don't hold water," said the 81-year-old Faubus.

Coaches come and coaches go

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ

My, how times change. I'm sure smirks are headed in my direction from youngsters who wish school would never start, but my thoughts are turning to the upcoming school year and how there will be new coaches at the high school.

And thinking about coaches invariably reminds me of the 1990-91 school year. In my first year here in Stanton, I was trying to report on the Buffalos and at the same time not become a pest to the Stanton coaches.

But, finally everything clicked, players began to accept me and became very cooperative and helpful. They began to — ahem! — appreciate my inquisitive mind about their condition and opened up to questions.

The season rolled along very smooth on my side of the coin. For the Buffs, however, it was probably the worst autumn of their young lives — not to mention the coaches, who went through the same hell as their ball players, if not worse. The school board and administration, looking back on the year, apparently felt as if some house-cleaning was in order, and they went about it in a big way. They recently voted not to renew the high school coaches' contracts.

Being involved in sports most of my life, I've learned that coaching is not the most secure of professions.

Well, after talking to most of the community, the majority seemed to believe the situation could have been handled better. Not knowing all the details, however, they accepted the change.

Enough for last year, now for the 1991-92 Buffs.

Bill Grissom, a proven winner in Breckenridge and Hamlin, is the new athletic director and the community seems eager for the upcoming football season to begin.

Since meeting with Grissom and most of his staff, I have come to realize these guys would not be here if their track record was not good. They have expressed their desire to work hard and get the Buffs in shape for the 1991 season.

As anyone watching football, basketball or track action last year would agree, we're in a rowdy district. Any one of the eight teams that comprise District 6-2A is capable of winning the league crown in any sport. There is no slouch nor an easy week in this district.

To last year's coaches, I would like to thank them for putting up with me. Coach Ruth, you are one of a kind. There is no better person or coach to interview, even in a losing cause.

Coach Allred, there is no one more capable of moving a player with a halftime speech than you. Coach Young, you can find talent within a player by pushing them to the limit. Coach Barry, your fire will keep you in this field long after everyone else leaves. Good luck, guys.

To our new coaches, bear with me as I try to become acquainted — and use a flyswatter if you have to, I tend to become a gnat during the school year.

Sheriff: MCSO a service agency

Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders has been accused of only one thing in his 38 years as head of the county's law enforcement agency, and that's helping his fellow man.

Saunders announced his candidacy April 1, 1952, winning the election and took over the sheriff's office on Jan. 1, 1953, and is still in office. According to Saunders, then-incumbent Kyle Shoemaker did not run for another term and supported him.

"I was elected when I was 26 years old and I never dreamed at that time I could stay in office this long. Very few men get to spend their entire adult life doing what they want to do. Some people say, 'I hate my job,' well, I love my job."

"After 38 years, I still go home and critique my daily routine. I consider if there was more to do, or how could I have done it better," Saunders said.

What made Saunders chose the career in law enforcement?

"All my folks on both sides of my family were farmers. My father died when I was very young, and I never remembered seeing him. I always wanted to have a daddy because I heard all the kids in school say what their dad did for them or what their dad bought them."

"When I was small, Sheriff Morris Zimmerman was in office. I looked up to him and wanted to always be like him. I admired and respected him. And when I was young, I vowed to him that one day

I would become sheriff and act, look and serve like him. I wanted to keep the honor and respect of this office," Saunders said.

According to Saunders, his office is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year and he is available and accessible to anyone that comes through the department's office doors.

"I am available to the young, old, rich and the poor. They know me and I usually know them. I'm not a cure-all and I can't solve every problem, but I have two good ears and I retain what I hear. When people come and talk to me, I keep it confidential and they know I won't go spreading anything said in my office."

Born and raised in Lenorah, Saunders served with the U.S. Army in World War II, with most of the time spent with a military police detachment. "I served three years with the Army and came back and served for three years with the Texas Highway Patrol until I resigned and decided to run for sheriff," he said.

"When you're given the title as sheriff, that gives you power, and if you misuse that power people are going to suffer. A sheriff must learn patience and restraint and he must also learn as one would say, on-the-job training."

"There are three things I ask myself when making a decision. No. 1, not only is it legal, but is it right? No. 2, how is this decision going to help the county and not just the individual? And No. 3, how is this decision going to help in a year from now? All these things are required because everyday is an experience and you're here in

Former SHS coaches sign on with schools

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Two former Stanton High School coaches have accepted positions at other schools.

Coach Don Barry has accepted the offensive coordinator position under Randy Hicks at Clint High School, near El Paso.

Barry said he will probably also work with the defensive secondary. "After talking with Hicks, I'll probably be working with the secondary, but I'll also be the offensive coach. I had the pleasure of working with Hicks when I at Lampasas."

"It was fun here in Stanton. Jeannie and I will miss the community. We hated to leave, but there comes a time when you just keep going. We weighed all the pros and cons and we couldn't pass up the deal they gave us," Barry said.

"We had a tough season last year, but I'm very proud of the kids we had. They never quit, but everything just snowballed on us. We had bad injuries that kept us from playing what we wanted."

"When you lose all the talent we had two years ago, it's hard for a team to start young players in new positions. It takes time. Our 1989 season was probably one of the best teams Stanton has ever had. That night when we beat Greenwood going in to the game as the underdog team and just whipped them, that got us in the playoffs. I knew then we had a solid team."

Former head basketball coach and football assistant Kevy Allred is heading to San Saba, where he will assume the same duties he performed here.

"I hated to leave home, because it is my home. I like it here, but I feel it will be good for Nancy, Kiley and I to go to a different place. We're very positive at this point. Stanton will always be my home town, but it was just time to go."

Allred said. Allred will be under Athletic Director Brad McCoy at San Saba. "He took over the helm as AD the second year he was there. And he feels we will have a decent season in basketball. San Saba is not well known for its basketball program, but it's a contender in football. I will have three returning letter-

Mohair vote slated

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has scheduled a referendum June 17-28 for mohair producers to decide whether to continue a market promotion and improvement program.

The proposed program is similar to one approved in 1986. The new program would continue to authorize deductions from producer price support payments.

If the referendum is approved by a majority of the producers voting, or by a majority of the total volume of production represented in referendum, deductions from mohair price support payments would be at a rate of up to 4 1/2 cents per pound for marketing years 1991 through 1995.

The deductions will be used by the Mohair Council of America to finance advertising and sales promotion programs for mohair and Angora goats in domestic and foreign markets, and for information programs for producers on production management and market improvement.

USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service county offices will distribute ballots in early June. Completed ballots must be returned in person to the county office or postmarked by the June 28 deadline.

To be eligible to vote, a person must have owned Angora goats six months old or older for at least 30 consecutive days in 1990. A cooperative may vote for its members but, if it does so, its members then are ineligible to vote for themselves.

In the 1986 referendum, 82.2 percent of the producers approved the program.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation is seeking comments on methods for calculating support prices for wool on unshorn lambs and mohair for the 1991 marketing year.

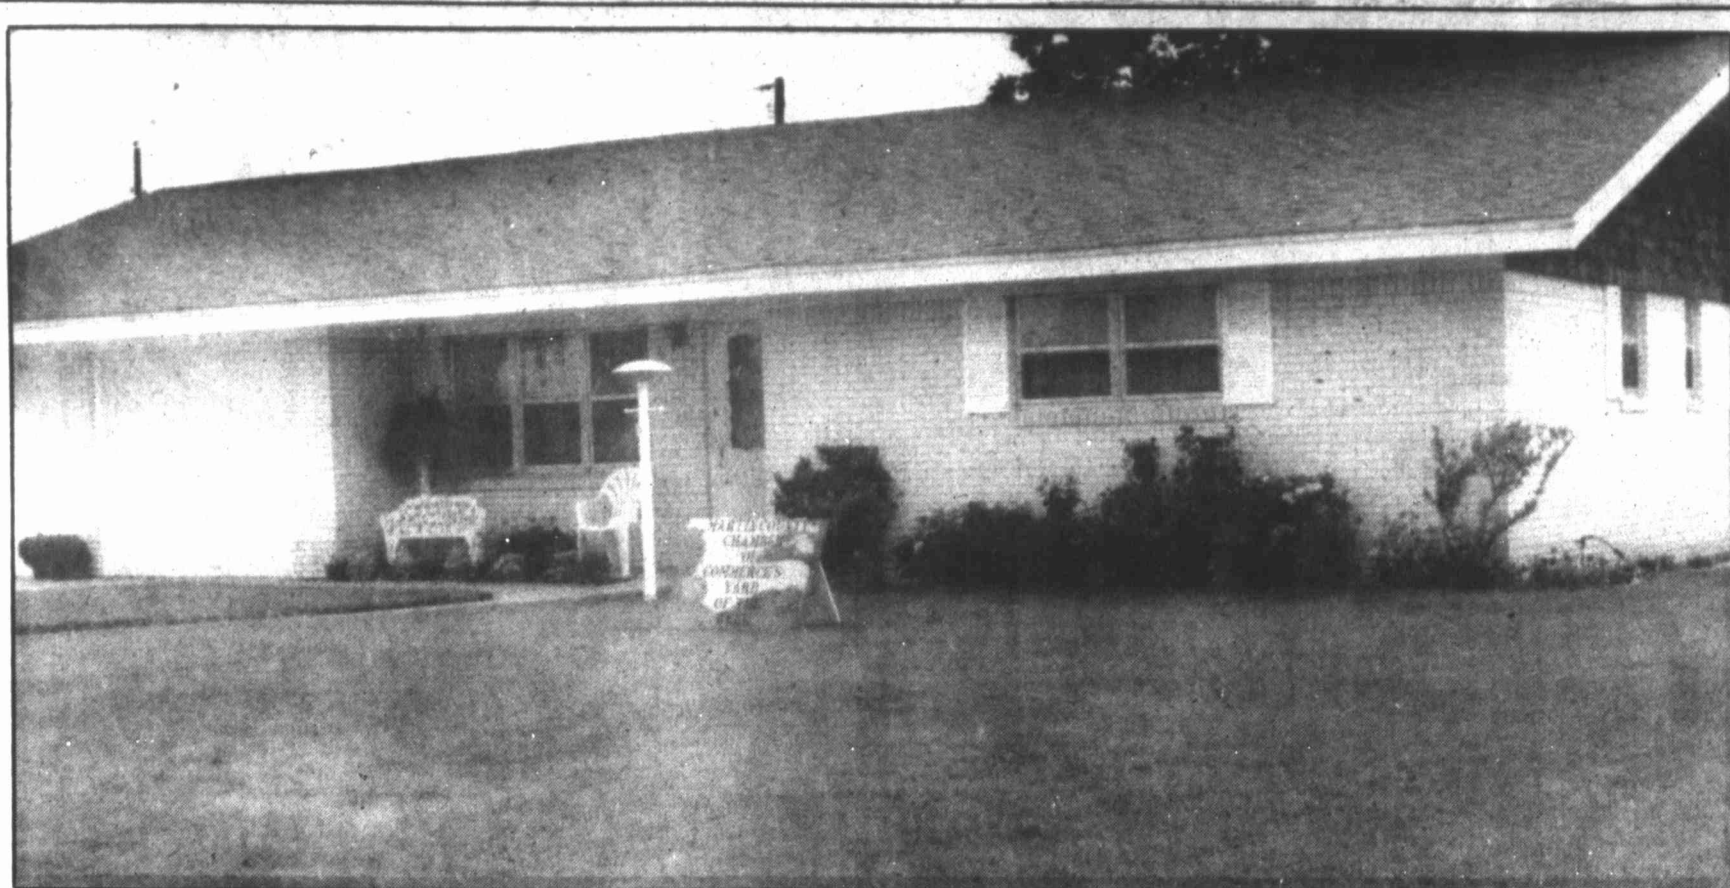

The National Wool Act of 1954, as amended, provides that the support prices for pulled wool shall be set at a level relative to the support price for shorn wool so as to maintain normal marketing practices for pulled wool. Pulled wool is the wool removed from the pelt of a slaughtered sheep. In the past, this provision has been implemented through payments based on the hundredweight of live, unshorn lambs marketed.

The law also says that mohair be supported at a level determined necessary to maintain approximately the same percentage of parity as for shorn wool. The support price shall be set at a level not more than 15 percent above or below the comparable percentage of parity at which shorn wool is supported.

The shorn wool support price is based on a formula prescribed in the wool act. Based on the current reported parity index, the 1991 shorn wool support price will be $1.88 per pound (grease basis).

A preliminary regulatory impact analysis on the options is available from: Director, Commodity Analysis Division, USDA/ASCS, Room 3741-S, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013 or by calling (202) 447-6734.

Details appear in the May 14 Federal Register. Comments must be received by June 13 and will be available for public inspection in Room 3706-S of USDA's South Building during regular business hours.

Lucas runs operations center

By PEGGY LUXTON
 Communicators Advisor
 Cap Rock Electric, Inc.

Kay Lynne Lucas began her Cap Rock career over 19 years ago. Her first job with the co-op, for five years, was as a Billing Clerk. She then moved into the Operations Department and was named Operations Center Superintendent in 1990.

As superintendent of the Operations Center, Lucas supervises an Operations Clerk and two dispatchers. She makes sure the SCADA system is monitored and supervises the receipt and dispatch of trouble calls that come into the department. Her department keeps time schedules for Service Linemen and handle paperwork and secretarial duties for Construction, Operations, Engineering, Purchasing, Power System and Stores Departments.

"About 98 percent of my time is spent communicating with Service Linemen," Lucas says. "We have a steady exchange of information every day. Also, right now, we're working with the Map Digitizing Department in assigning a line section number to each of our locations. These numbers will facilitate future load studies and other information-gathering activities."

The Operations Department also does its share of Customer Service work. Especially in bad weather, Lucas and her department are contacting members either by phone or letter, explaining why line problems may have occurred and furnishing other information to customer-members. Each trouble ticket must be entered into the computer and reports are generated from trouble ticket information that is dispatched to several departments.

The advent of a customer service philosophy has been one of the biggest changes Lucas has seen in recent years. She says, "It's so different now. We've done a turnaround. What used to be theirs is now ours, more or less. We do a lot more service that extends into the customer's end of the co-op/member relationship."

Linemen are dispatched by Lucas to call on customers with problems. But whether or not a problem beyond the meter is fixed by co-op personnel is a decision Lucas leaves to field personnel. "We can't make a field decision from the office," she says. "Those decisions are always made by the field personnel."

Lucas agrees with Cap Rock's customer service philosophy. "I believe it's improved the employee/member relationship," she says. "I believe it's made us more customer-oriented than in the past. I think the customers feel this. I think this is a positive improvement."

Needy eligible for assistance

AUSTIN — Some low-income Texans may be eligible for help in paying cooling bills this summer through the Home Energy Assistance program, according to the Texas Department of Human Services.

The one-time payment is available to may low-income households. Applications for energy assistance were mailed to households that receive food stamps, Aid to families with Dependent Children, or Supplemental Security Income in May. Other low-income individuals may request an application by calling the toll-free number 1-800-252-8060 during the enrollment period of July 1 through July 31.

Aug. 15 first day of school

The Stanton Independent School District Board of Trustees announced the first day of school will be Aug. 15 with in-service beginning Aug. 12, according to SISD Superintendent Wayne Mitchell.

Among Other business covered at the meeting:

- Boardmembers Bobby Holland and Jimmy Graves were selected to serve on the County Education District Board, which will meet with two delegates from the Grady ISD board of trustees.

- Bids were taken for a depository bank. The bids were from Stanton National Bank, First National Bank of Stanton and State National Bank of Big Spring. The Big Spring bank was selected as the depository for Stanton school funds.

- Bids were solicited for athletic supplies and equipment. According to Mitchell, the lowest bidder from different athletic suppliers will be awarded the contract. Moffatt Carpets of Midland was approved to supply the district with carpet.

- The school budget was discussed but no action was taken.

- A 65-passenger school bus was purchased for next year. "We try to purchase one bus per year. We just order the bus and the state will provide us with the vehicle. Most of our buses are used until they reach 100,000 miles, then we submit a request to the state," Mitchell said.

- The board accepted the resignations of Patricia Bennet and Tammy Bell from the middle school and employed Ennis Gates, Teresa White and Nancy Brough, subject to assignment by the superintendent.

'Texas armadillos' were imposters

SAN ANGELO — Armadillo connoisseur Sam Lewis was distressed to learn that two less-than-Texas armadillos were passed off as natives of the Lone Star State during the recent Texas Festival in Washington.

So the San Angelo entrepreneur, who has helped place Texas armadillos in zoos around the world, has offered to send two true-blue Texas 'dillos to the National Zoo.

A pair of six-banded armadillos presented to the National Zoo earlier this month to inaugurate the Texas Festival at the Kennedy Center proved to be imposters. The armadillos, which hailed from Central America, were presented as "a symbol of the uniqueness and charm of Texas."

Bill and Roxy Coggin has been in the grocery store business since 1967 when he and an associate bought Bill's Friendly Foods, and the store has been steadily growing and changing since then.

"When we started out in the grocery store business, we were responsible for pricing, inventory and delivery. Now, we have a survey pricing group from our IGA offices that check our prices and gives us a suggested price," Coggin said.

"Our delivery structure is so different now. Sometimes we only had one delivery per week, now we have three, sometimes four, deliveries with every product one could imagine," he said.

"As far as the future of the grocery business is concerned, it is interesting and always changing, but I think the grocery business has a very good future," Coggin said.

In 1981, a True Value Service Center was added to Bill's. About 5,000 square feet that was once a parking lot was added to the store.

"When we decided to make our north part of the store an addition to the building, I had no idea how big we were, but our True Value gave us the room we needed to operate comfortably.

"After we built the hardware part of our store, we were in need of a parking area. We were so lucky that we could get the property across the street for that purpose," Mrs. Coggin said.

During the past 20 years, Bill and Roxy have witnessed various operations suffer from the fluctuating economy. As a community service, they have tried to compensate for lost businesses by keeping on hand a small supply of items which are no longer available in town, until someone else re-establishes that particular business.

"When Deavenports went out of business, we supplied dry goods like jeans, shirts and other clothing. We feel that if we can bring to our customers what they need, they will come back and look and maybe they will stay here and shop. We are true believers of shopping locally," said Coggin.

The store also serves the elderly and home-bound by offering home delivery three days a week.

"We have been in this location for 20 years. I think one of the reasons is because of some special friends. I have a special feeling for our town," Coggin added.

A grand opening was recently celebrated at C & C Grocery. A ribbon-cutting ceremony was held at the location near Interstate 20. C & C has gone through some major changes on the inside as well as the outside. "We have done much work to the store to better serve the community," Coggin said.

The Coggins, along with their 24 full-time employees and 10 part-timers, are heavily involved in community activities. Bill and Roxie support and participate in just about all community functions including the Chamber, school athletics, and the county fair. Bill served on the city council for six years and has been involved in efforts to promote the city.

They also are active in the First Baptist Church and in the Mexican Baptist Church, where Bill teaches a Sunday School class and Roxie plays the piano and helps with the children's choir.

The couple have been married for 41 years and they have two children, Chip Coggin and Patricia McKinney. They have six grandchildren, four boys and two girls.

Depot news

By A.L. (BUD) LINDSEY

Gene and Clara Clements have headed to the mountains to escape the 100 degree heat. They will make a side trip to Canyon to attend "Texas" before returning home. This leaves the first chair for violin with the Old Sorehead Band temporarily vacant.

Dewitt Davis was given a 65th birthday party on Tuesday, June 18. A few friends got together and played a little music, ate homemade ice cream and cake and showered Dewitt with cards. They actually decorated a cake with 65 candles. It took so long to light the candles that the first ones lit were burned down to the frosting by the time the last ones were ignited. Happy birthday, Dewitt, and welcome to Medicare, part A and B!

The search continues for a tuba player for the Old Sorehead band without results as of this date.

In last week's News from the Depot, we mentioned the free coffee being offered to seniors over 62 years of age by the waterfront Dairy Queen. In our sentence wording we may have left the impression that a purchase was necessary in order to take advantage of the free coffee offer. This is not so.

Bernice Jenkins has been admitted to the Scenic Mountain Hospital in Big Spring for a serious illness.

Monday, July 1, has been declared Martin County night at the Midland Angels baseball game to be played at Angel's Stadium in Midland. Free tickets are being offered to senior citizens. MCSCC director Sally Carroll is going to take the county van to transport anyone wishing to go. Tickets are also available. Anyone interested should meet at the center at 6 p.m.

Seniors: Going somewhere? Been somewhere? Had a reunion? Had a wedding or anniversary? Let Carroll or Bud know.

In last week's space, there were several mistakes in identifying the people featured. For instance, Alton Turner became Alton Jones. Bill Walker became Louis Roten. Others included the misspelling of Gene Clemons rather than Gene Clements. There may be others. We'll try to do better. We're working on it.

Council discuss senior plans
The council for the senior citizens center met with Carroll in its regular meeting recently. Eight of the 10 current board members were present. The board received a report from Carroll on 490 daily lunch meals served to seniors during the month of May.

Settler's Reunion July 13. The center will enter a float and decorations ideas are being solicited from anyone. The center will also supply a float and the band to ride in the Big Spring Rodeo parade, Saturday. Band members should meet at the depot at 8 a.m. to catch the center's van to the parade.

Another item placed on the council table was the possibility of another trip to Canyon to attend a performance of "Texas." A group of fourteen seniors and Sally made the trip last summer. All who attended last year's expedition into the north country were very enthusiastic in their praise of the venture.

Couple sharing the word

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

Local residents Leroy and Jannie Linney appeared this past weekend on UHF Channel 42, on an invitation by the owners of the Roswell, N.M. station.

Owners of the "Prime Time Praise" program, Al and Tommie Cooper, asked the Linneys to share their testimony.

Mrs. Linney was asked to appear in "Tommie's Little Corner," a program connected with "Prime Time Praise." She shared her Christian art.

Here is a part of their testimony as it appeared on the program:

"In 1971, there was a city-wide revival and I would always attend and rededicate myself to the Lord, but there was no commitment. One day during the revival, the group I was in was taken back to a room."

"We were going through the Bible, when suddenly it hit me. It was a complete turnaround. My desires changed and I began going to Bible study classes and I couldn't get enough learning about the Lord," Mrs. Linney said.

"I began learning more and more about what our savior wanted from us. With three little phrases, I began to see what he meant. Number one was for the Lord to give me more to learn about him, and he set me away from all my fears and being baptized again, he is my healer and deliverer."

"After devoting my life to our Lord, I began to pray for our oldest grandson born with spinal meningitis and for our marriage. Our Saviour healed our grandson and he began walking through the miracle of our Lord. From then on, I knew the reality of Jesus Christ," she said.

Mr. Linney shared his testimony with the audience.

"I was always a hard worker and a good provider for my family. But, I liked to drink and dance and after going to Big Spring for part for my tractor or for anything we needed, I felt the desire to stop at a bar now and then and drink."

"One day while sitting at a bar, I was taking a drink and out of the clear blue, I heard a voice talk to me. It said, 'Leroy, you have a good wife and three lovely daughters. Go home.' I immediately put my drink down and left. I knew my wife was praying for my soul, but I didn't expect it to hit me that way." "That's when I began to realize there was something more. We were having problems with our marriage and sometimes, I just wanted to walk out. But... (God) began to help me understand what I had and what I wanted in life. Since then, I have accepted and began to know Jesus as my personal savior and the Lord of my life," he said.

"One day I began to do the work of the Lord by becoming involved in the Prison Ministries. I have worked from a vice-president position to International Director. Since being reborn again, I have quit smoking and everywhere I go, I have taken the Lord with me," he said.

The Linneys have been invited back to the program in September.

Even Jesus made decisions

By REV. MILTON JOCHETZ,
Pastor
First United Methodist Church

Have you ever considered the fact that at some point in his life Jesus had to make a decision?

Perhaps it was the natural result of several likeminded, similarly directed vows of purpose. Or perhaps it was the first thing recalled from his former glory with the Father — a recollection of a commitment from which all other choices and vows would unveil a progressively realized purpose. But, at some point the big decision had to be made.

The decision which Jesus had to make is a decision we have to make, and it is the hardest decision to make because it involves a choice between our way and God's. It is a choice that can mean standing against the shifting and often violent tides of public favor and popular opinion and a choice that will always be met by the resistance of candid intimations from well-meaning family and friends and will have resist scores of candy-coated persuasions to "get with it" and "do your own thing." It is a decision that requires much.

The decision to choose God's way over our own is not easy because we must die in self in order to realize it. It is no small matter that Jesus says: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me. For whoever would save his life will lose it, and whoever loses his life for my sake will find it."

Jesus knew the difficulties of choosing the way of the cross over a present experience of a life full of vitality and all too immediately realized promises.

Apparently God's way is not natural to the characteristics of the flesh. This is why the book of Hebrews speaks of Christ as having shared in our flesh and blood nature, on one hand and of his having been tempted in every respect as we are, on the other.

But that is exactly why we must make a decision, a strong one, to follow God. We won't come to him by the characteristic bent of our nature. We must choose against our natural proclivities as a conscious effort to make God's way our own.

We are continually bombarded with choices which will either support or detract from a decision to accept and follow God's way. Sometimes we will have to shirk comfort for challenge. But, whoever said that the way of the cross was an easy path to follow?

Two 4-H volunteers from Martin County were among 30 honored June 5 at the 1991 State 4-H Roundup at Texas A&M University.

Charlie and Lou Smith of Stanton received the Texas 4-H Salute to Excellence Award provided by the Texas 4-H Foundation, the service organization of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service 4-H Youth Development program.

The Smiths have provided leadership for members of Martin County 4-H Super Shooters for 11 years. They have devoted a lot of time and energy to youth development. As coaches of shooting sports, they have trained Martin County young people to become some of the competition's best.

The couple has worked as a team, teaching adults as well as children the fundamentals of shooting. They continue to carry out major responsibilities at county, district and state shoots.

FmHA loans can help needy

The Farmers Home Administration has established a new loan program to help members of socially disadvantaged groups, including minorities, acquire land for farming in the state.

Ronnal E. Bruton, County Supervisor, said that under the program, the agency will try to find people who are interested in farming and who qualify for an FmHA farm ownership or a operating loan.

We are prepared to sell or lease them farm held in our inventory, he said. "If there are none in the county, the agency will make a loan for the purchase of land in the open market."

FmHA can also provide other loans and technical assistance. If needed to help the borrower get started. People who think they might be eligible for this program should contact this office at 103 East Broadway, Stanton, Texas or telephone 915-756-3308.

The Bible is a book still listed as the bestseller of all time. What is it that gives us such a fascination with this one book? Leroy Brownlow in the book 'Grandpa Was a Preacher' tells the time when grandpa saw an oldster in the country reading the Bible much to his pleasant surprise. Grandpa told him he was delighted that he was reading the Good Book. His reply was: "I wuz just lookin' in the Book of Job to see if it tells what he done for boils." The Bible does offer so much and many find it useful reading. But the Bible is more than practical advice, more than a collection of historical events, and sayings of wisdom. The Bible is the story of God.

Cotton talk

By PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

LUBBOCK — Timeliness and efficiency were key points of testimony given by Larry Nelson, current President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Nelson's testimony centered on the current state of the Farm Credit System and the operations of the Farmers Home Administration.

Nelson presented both oral and written testimony at a hearing conducted by members of the House Agriculture Subcommittee on Conservation, Credit and Rural Development in Lubbock Monday, June 17.

House members present were Subcommittee Chairman Rep. Glenn English Rep. Larry Combest and Rep. Bill Sarpalus. The subcommittee will use the information to conduct a complete review of current agricultural credit programs, including the FmHA.

"In our area FmHA plays a major part in the farm credit system," Nelson said. "What we would like to see, and what we feel will be most effective, is a major overhaul of the system when there is enough time to do the job right."

"From a producer's point of view it seems that the only times we hear about the need for improvements to the system are when there is a shortage of funds or some other equally pressing crisis," he said.

Nelson stressed that FmHA can provide two of the three things necessary for an adequate farm credit system: fund availability and cost effectiveness.

Problems, he points out, seem to exist in the procedures for loan approval and the transfer of the funds to the producer.

"A timely decision as to whether his financing will be available or not will be of the most immediate benefit to a producer," Nelson noted. "Put simply, a farmer needs to get a prompt yes or no answer."

In addition Nelson made several suggestions for changes to the way FmHA operates. The changes could possibly decrease the turnaround time for FmHA loan applications.

His suggestions involve FmHA making better use of the people who man the local FmHA offices in order to speed up the decision-making process.

Nelson suggested that local officers be better trained to make wise and prudent leading decisions, given the authority and opportunity to make key decisions, and given responsibility for the outcome of the decisions they make.

Nelson points out that by doing this FmHA could reduce loan processing times and producers could receive the timely answer they need.

When each case is reviewed by district and then state offices, Nelson notes, there is a critical break in the normal cycle of business transactions. The result is that credit lines which span more than 60 days become a liability for the businessmen who offer them.

With a responsive credit system in place the usual 30 to 60 days credit lines should be adequate for most situations, Nelson said.

this office to help the county and its people," Saunders said.

Dan married the former Billye Bouldin of Lenora and they have two sons, David and Dan "Sid" Jr. David is a criminal investigator for the Midland County Sheriff's Department, while Sid is a longtime pumper for Tamarack Petroleum Co.

Saunders said he has seen many changes, the biggest of which has been in communications. "I've seen changes since I came into this office and spent 25 years without a dispatcher. My wife Billye served as my dispatcher for a long time. We had an extension at our house and she would call me if there was any trouble."

"Now, in a computer era, within seconds we can receive a fingerprint scan of any suspect we need to run a check on and get a license check before we stop any automobile. It's amazing," he said.

There are still numerous problems in running a sheriff's office, according to Saunders. "No. 1 is trying to stop a family squabble. The most dangerous and most helpless situation is a family dispute. It always occurs when either one or both sides are drinking. Their mood is very violent and vindictive. It's hard to settle a problem that has been brewing for 30 years in 30 minutes, but we try."

"No. 2 is trying to negotiate civil differences, such as evictions, property line disputes, possession disputes, and No. 3 is running a jail. There is no holiday when operating a jail. The state jail commission has put restraints on running a jail. We must monitor the jail both... and make hourly bed checks. Everything must be documented. We have had more than 14,000 prisoners go through our doors, and I am happy to say we have never had a prisoner commit suicide, and we never had another prisoner kill another or had one die while in our custody. One cannot accomplish this track record by staying home," Saunders said.

"There are sad situations that make this job very hard. One is delivering a death message. That's when you have to tell the parents of a son or daughter their child has been killed in an accident."

"There have also been instances that have stuck in my mind. One of these tragic situations occurred in June 11, 1964, when a local boy robbed, raped and brutally murdered his 84-year old grandmother. She was the owner and operator of a little grocery store just east of town on Highway 80."

"Another was when three airmen from Webb Air Force Base in Big Spring and a girl came over here and robbed and executed a local boy, a night attendant at the Exxon station on Interstate 20 on July 4, 1969. We eventually caught the foursome headed to Midland. While the girl was in custody, she gave birth to a baby. A Big Spring preacher... persuaded me to hand over the girl until she had her baby and he later returned her back to me after she delivered her child."

"We along with the Stanton City Police and Department of Public Safety Highway Patrol work hand-in-hand. They borrow things from us, we borrow from them. We stick together. Our relation goes further than just law enforcement; we are all friends. I feel we all are just like a big net there to catch fish. One department works like a trout line, the other works as a fisherman, but we're there for one reason, and that's to serve everybody equally," Saunders said.

man from a 17-10 season, so it looks good at this point.

"I'll probably be the offensive line and defensive ends coach, but we're not sure at this time. The district we're in is very tough. We have Eastland, Bangs, DeLeon, Goldthwaite, Ranger, Cisco and us. Most of the schools are very traditional schools in football."

"My long term goal is to become an AD later on, and I felt I would have never had that chance here in Stanton. Maybe this is it, I don't know, but I feel my decision was based on my future. Besides, we love the country... it's beautiful," Allred said.

Isn't it about time we gave Stanton the business?
