Bush names state district judge

State district judge Jorge Solis of Abilene was nominated by President George Bush to be federal judge for a 100-county district in North and West Texas, including Howard

His nomination now requires confirmation by a vote of the full U.S. Senate.

Solis, judge of the state's 350th Judicial District Court in Abilene, has also served as a district attorney and a prosecutor, according to a press release from the office of Sen. Phil Gramm, R-College Station. Solis earned his law degree from the University of Texas Law School in 1976. "Judge Solis' legendary legal talent, experience and commitment to battling drugs will make him an outstanding federal judge," said Gramm, who originally recommended Solis for the post.

Warnings issued on viewing eclipse

Scientists, physicians and other groups are warning of the dangers of viewing the partial solar eclipse coming July 11.

The eclipse can only be directly viewed with a specifically designed solar filter. An inexpensive pair of glasses with this kind of filter can be obtained by calling 1-412-279-0627.

There are a number of light filtering devices that are commonly thought to be safe but have been shown to cause eye damage if used to view the sun. These include sunglasses, exposed black and white film, unexposed color film, welding masks, any reflected image from a mirrored surface and any solar filter that is cracked or scratched.

For instructions on building an indirect viewing box, call 1-800-221-3004.

Works of art sprang from New Deal

Editor's note: This is the second of a two-part series about the work done by the Works Progress Administration 50 years ago in Big Spring and the surrounding area.

By GARY SHANKS Staff Writer

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's phenomenal work relief measures, which gave millions of Americans a subsistence wage during the most profound economic depression this nation has ever known, provided bridges, schools, roads, parks and even works of art that are still used and enjoyed today

Roosevelt pushed his economic recovery bill, which came to be known as the New Deal, through Congress. The bill, passed on May 15, 1933, was called the Federal Emergency Relief Act and included two parts.

The first dealt with restructuring American business and provided for the National Recovery Administration, or NRA.

The second dealt with work relief and provided for the Public Works Administration with a $3.3 billion appropriation.

The Civil Works Administration was set up as the working arm of the PWA and it subsequently gave birth to the Works Progress Administration, or WPA, and the Civilian Conservation Corps, or

The idea behind the act was to put as many people to work as possible, as close to home as possible, with as little cost as possible in machinery and materials. The militarily structured CCC put unemployed youth to work in camps that moved from job to job. Young men signed up for six-month "hitches," and it is from the success of this program that the original ideas were developed for what are now the Peace Corps and long and 67 feet high.

The WPA and CCC were the most prominent in Big Spring. The CCC built the Big Spring State Park on Scenic Mountain, and the WPA built miles of farm-to-market roads in Howard County, paved many Big Spring streets, put women to work sewing inexpensive work clothes for relief families in this and surrounding areas and built most of what is now Commanche Trail Park. The PWA also doled out heavy construction projects through the WPA and an "alphabet soup" of other organizations like the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) that built dams for rural hydroelectric power. The most notable example of TVA work in Howard County is the construction of Moss Creek Lake with a dam 1250 feet

One would be hard pressed to find another program with as profound and long-lived an effect as

From this program, America not only received an abundance of roads, dams, bridges and public buildings, it preserved the skills, health and sense of dignity of the work force. This was during a time when, according to a 1933 article in The New York Times, many proud American families were suffering starvation rather than seeking straight government handouts. The WPA also provided work for unemployed artists, writers, musicians and actors. Provisions for these four professions, grouped under the shorthand reference "Federal One," was the forerunner of this generation's National Endowment for the Arts.

complete with controversy. Many were aghast at this piece of

New Deal legislation. Indeed, Vermont refused entirely, putting its unemployed artists to work doing manual labor.

Responding to the criticism, FDR was reported to have said, Why not? They're human beings. They have to live.'

For all the squabbling, the record shows that in 1936 more Americans attended WPA shows and listened to WPA music than all other performances combined, mostly in places that had never known live theater or symphonic Rally organizer Everett Bender said George Washington, Christopher Columbus, John Quincy Adams, Benjamin Franklin and other historical leaders had depended on God to help them through difficult times. As America again faces a crisis, its people should depend on their faith, Bender said.

"We've seen the collapse of everything man has put his trust in," he said, naming banks, health care, sports heroes and government leaders.

Bender said the "collapse of spirituality" had created those difficulties and prayer would be the solution.

"It may be only a minority of the country to continue to pray," but a minority has in the past saved the world, he said.

"There is hope for America and Big Spring," Bender said. If people ask God for strength, they can reverse the negative influences now felt in society.

"You may be asking, 'What can I do? I'm just one person,' "Bender said. "The answer is . . . pray and obey.

Veterans and their families were recognized with applause and honored with a mime performance by members of Joshua Free and Care Company, a troupe organized at Living Water Church. They performed an original routine to "God Bless the U.S.A.'

Gary Smith, a local pastor and member of the ministers' fellowship, said the community needs its churches.

"Today, America is in military, economic and social trouble," he said. "It needs a spiritual awakening.'

Big Spring residents should "turn our attention in all sincerity to prayer for the leaders of this community," Smith said.

BRYAN, Texas (AP) — The TCA cable television company says it hopes to replace MTV with one of its subsidiary stations that plays popular rock, country and jazz videos.

But Aggies insist they want their MTV — and they don't want others deciding for them whether the performances on the music-video cable network contain too much sex or violence.

"We've asked them (MTV) to allow us to sell it on a positive-option basis at no extra charge to those customers who want it," said Randy Rogers, TCA's local manager, saying he believes such an arrangement would satisfy all subscribers. "MTV's refused to negotiate that point with us.'

DALLAS (AP) — About 20 men and boys robbed and beat an Irving couple in a Dallas park and then sexually assaulted the woman before robbing a would-be rescuer, police said.

The woman was not raped, but five of the men pulled her behind a truck, ripped off her blouse and began assaulting her, Detective Don Knight said.

Officers said the couple bought some food and went to a picnic table at Kidd Springs Park in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas early Sunday when they were attacked by the group.

people turned out to welcome home Texas veterans of Operation Desert Storm — and to honor all of the state's men and women who have fought for their country — in the "Texas Heroes Parade.

The stars of Sunday's parade were 3,000 of the 50,000 Texas soldiers who served in the Persian Gulf War. They marched down the main street of the capital, surrounded by yellow balloons, waving U.S. and Texas flags, and accompanied by military bands and hardware from the war.

But organizers took care to include veterans of all wars.

Five floats representing World Wars I and II, the Korean and Vietnam wars and prisoners of warmissing in action rolled down the street after Lt. Gen. Calvin Waller, second in command of Operation Desert Storm and the grand marshal of the parade.

"We are not here to glorify war. Rather, we are here today to honor the men and women of Texas who

Pageant won't be the same

FORT WORTH (AP) - Don Magness, director of the Miss Texas Scholarship Pageant for 30 years, says he will attend the spectacular this week, but it won't be the same as in past years.

Following a week of pageant preparation and festivities, the competition will be televised statewide Saturday from the Fort Worth-Tarrant County Convention Several veteran volunteers have returned to coordinate the pageant activities, which began Sunday with the arrival of the 64 contestants. Pageant scholarships are up $11,000 this year, to $51,000. But revenues are down from $395,900 last year to $361,500.

Magness resigned under fire last year after the pageant, the largest in the Miss America system, was rocked by scandal after an unflattering portrayal in Life magazine of Magness

The flamboyant Magness came under fire after the magazine ran a photograph showing him in a bubble bath and quoted him as calling a group of Miss Texas contestants "sluts.

The article touched off other criticism of Magness, and Miss America pageant director Leonard Horn demanded his resignation. Magness' wife remains on the pageant board.

Miss America 1980 Cheryl Prewitt Salem will emcee the pageant and help emcee the Fourth of July parade.

The Texas pageant was tarnished by last year's publicity, and officials said they hope to repolish its image with this year's contest.

Last year's investigation led to conflict-of-interest and judging reforms that may extend next year to the other 49 state pageants.

Executive director June Mirike said the troubles are behind them. This year's pageant has eight fewer contestants, partly because of rules clamping down on purchased crowns and living room pageants. Those practices came to light last year when the Texas franchise was investigated.

"If this year's pageant appears to be above board and honest, I think you will see a lot of people returning to the pageant," said Bob Ross, who previously ran the Dallas County and Collin County pageants.

Fate of Texas bases in Bush's han

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush now holds the key to the future of three military installations in Texas targeted for closure, including a naval field in Bee County where he lands to hunt quail.

The independent Base Closure and Realignment Commission voted Sunday to shutter Chase Field Naval Air Station in Beeville, Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth, and Bergstrom AFB in Austin, while deciding to spare Kingsville Naval Air Station.

The commission's decisions, however, are not the last word on the fate of those bases as 21 others around the country that the commission recommended for closure or scaling back. The president now has 15 days to review the list and either accept or reject the entire

"He'll be lobbied, no doubt, he'll be lobbied very heavily. Hopefully, he'll accept our recommendations," said commission Chairman Jim Courter.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Teyas, wasted no time Sunday in promising to lobby the president to preserve the Texas installations. "I'm going to urge him to recon-

While the decision to close Chase Field was one of the toughest commissioners said they faced, there was no debate before the unanimous vote to close Bergstrom, which employs nearly 5,000 civilian and military workers.

In voting 6-1 to close Chase, commissioners noted the potentially disastrous impact shuttering the naval field would have on the Southeast Texas community. So the commission rejected the Pentagon's recommendation that Chase be maintained as an outlying field for the Navy, voting to close both the base and its runway so the entire facility could be developed for other uses.

"If we're going to drive a stake into the heart of Chase, let's not drive it in halfway. Let's close it and let them use that runway and facility for something else," said Commissioner James C. Smith II, an executive with Brown & Root U.S.A. Inc. in Houston.

Smith warned that keeping Chase as an outlying field would be "guaranteeing that (the community) is going to go out of business." And Rep. Greg Laughlin, a West Columbia Democrat who represents the base, said the decision to close Chase would turn Bee County from an economically marginal county to one of the poorest in the country.

"It's going to be devastating to and staff," said Rep. Joe Barton, them," Laughlin said. With 1,647 military and civilian workers, Chase is the county's biggest employer.

Smith was the only commishospital open, saying it would ac- sioner to vote against closing

Privatization law approved today

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet to private hands in less than five parliament today overwhelming- years but will retain up to half of ly approved a landmark law that the defense industry and the allows the state to sell most industry to private companies and individuals, including foreigners.

Passage of the law by the Supreme Soviet marks a major step in the transformation of the Soviet Union's state-run economic system. The law will take effect upon publication early this week.

The Soviet government, which owns virtually all industry, is proposing to transfer two-thirds of it energy industry

"This may be the most important step from a state economy to a market economy," lawmaker Fyodor Burlatsky said.

He said the law would strengthen President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's hand when he meets with leaders of the Group of Seven industrialized nations in London in two weeks

The law was approved by a vote

Yugoslav army agrees to pull back

LJUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) Yugoslavia edged back from civil war today after an agreement that government troops would return to barracks in rebellious Slovenia, and a break in a bitter political deadlock over the country's leadership.

But it was not yet certain that the army would abide by the pullback pact, which was reached late Sunday by federal Premier Ante Markovic and Slovenian leaders and was to take effect

The army had been without a supreme commander since mid-

May because the collective presidency of the ethnically diverse federation was paralyzed by a dispute over its annually rotating chairmanship.

That stalemate was broken with the election of Croatia's Stipe Mesic to the post early today. Forces led by Serbia, which is the largest Yugoslav republic and dominates the army, had for six weeks blocked Mesic's appointment.

The state news agency Tanjug said the presidency scheduled a meeting today.

U.S. turns over recreation facility

CAMP JOHN HAY, Philippines (AP) — The United States today turned over to the Philippines this northern recreational facility which had been one of the oldest U.S. military bases abroad.

U.S. Ambassador Nicholas Platt presented a symbolic key to Camp John Hay to Tourism Secretary Rafael Alunan, ending 88 years of U.S. control over the Alunan said the 560-acre pinecovered forest reservation in the cool mountain resort-city of Baguio, will be converted into a world-class resort earning $6 billion a year.

The return of John Hay, which is 125 miles north of Manila, and three other smaller facilities was agreed to last year during talks between Manila and Washington on the future of Clark Air Base and Subic Bay naval base.

Both Clark and Subic were damaged by the eruption of Mount Pinatubo.

Walsh should go find a job

The U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. was witness to an unusual drama . . . as Judge Gerhard Gesell tried patiently to explain to independent counsel Lawrence Walsh why the proceedings against former White House aide Oliver North should be dropped. . . . Walsh has until September to think about Judge Gesell's words. . . .

North's indictment and conviction two years ago on 12 counts of obstructing Congress, destroying government documents and accepting an iHegal gratuity were subsequently thrown out by the U.S. Court of Appeals. That was an action with which the Supreme Court later concur red. The appeals court ruled that . . . North's right to a fair trial was violated when tainted testimony was used against him.

North, you may recall, was forced by Congress to testify about his knowledge of the Iran-Contra mess to a joint committee in return for immunity from criminal prosecution. . . . Walsh then used that testimony to "refresh the memories" of key government witnesses against . . . North, a former Marine lieutenant colonel. Michael Bromwich, . . . Walsh's assistant, told Judge Gesell . . . that such testimony was a "harmless error."

The judge bristled. The tainted testimony "covers massive parts of the case." Judge Gesell concluded by saying, "One wonders what it is you're trying to accomplish here." The (Wall Street) Journal reported that as . . . Bromwich tried to explain, Judge Gesell rose and walked out of his courtroom.

The message should be crystal clear. . . . Walsh & Co. have spent five years and more than $35 million taxpayer dollars in a vain effort to extract criminal penalties from what was essentially a policy dispute between the legislative and executive branches of government.

"We do not countenance political trials in this country," said federal appeals court judges Laurence Silberman and David Sentelle, in striking down . . . North's convictions. Nor should we keep the machinery in place that facilitates them. It is time for . . . Walsh and his associates to find employment elsewhere

The News and Courier

Impossible burden given

The U.S. Supreme Court may have activated a slowly ticking time bomb ..., deciding that inmates must prove "deliberate indifference" about prison conditions before the constitutionally barred "cruel and unusual punishment" threshold can be reached.

The 5-to-4 decision offers a blank check of sorts to unscrupulous or incompetent prison officials to exceed the bounds of punishment ordered by our courts and determined by our laws.

How — the court's dissenters asked rhetorically — can an inmate effectively prove that "indifference" to poor prison conditions is "deliberate"? The answer is simple. Inmates won't be able to prove such cruelty. And, after a while, they will deem it futile to Prison inmates are human beings. That fact is inescapable no matter how we may feel about the crimes they committed or whether we feel incarceration should be rehabilitative or punitive in nature. Most prison officials recognize their duty to protect those inmates behind their walls. Although no rose garden was ever promised, a sentenced inmate should be reasonably assured of his safety at all times. Unfortunately, abuses do occur and they occur with disturbing regularity. Many of these grievances are settled amicably. Others are settled in class action lawsuits. And some are settled — or at least addressed — by

In the case addressed by the Supreme Court, Ohio prison inmate Pearly Wilson sued the state for mistreatment and $900,000. While we won't address the merits of his claims, the court's majority failed to view the broad implications of allowing abuses to continue unless its ambiguous standard can be proven.

"The ultimate result of (the decision), I fear, is that serious deprivations of basic human needs will go unredressed due to an unnecessary and meaningless search for 'deliberate indifference,' " wrote Justice Byron White in dissent.

If White's fears are realized and such deprivations lead to violence, the five justices may look back at Wilson's case and realize that bars hold back people, not emotions. La Crosse (Wis.) Tribune

Better screening planned

Plans recently announced by the American Red Cross to update its system of handling blood to more effectively screen donors for the AIDS virus is welcome news.

Red Cross President Elizabeth Dole said the organization planned to install a new computer system and make other changes to protect the blood it collects. In order to accomplish this, the Red Cross will close its 53 blood centers in rotation beginning in 1992. While each of the centers is closed for installation of the new equipment, its staff will receive training in new procedures. . .

While there can be no guarantee that the threat of AIDS transmission through blood transfusions will be completely eliminated, the ambitious program undertaken by the Red Cross, which handles about half of the nation's blood supply, should provide a message of welcome reassurance to the public

Dear John: You can be an awful pain

THE CHIEF OF STAFF SORTS OUT THE NEW SYSTEM.

James J. Kilpatrick

Sunday evening, 630

Dear John: It really hurts me to write this letter. We've been pretty close for a long time, and I'm not asking you to get out of my life - not yet, anyhow - but by golly, if you pull one more dumb stunt with White House transportation, that's it. I mean, hey, John, enough is enough. Got to stop this.

In some ways you're the most brilliant guy I've ever met in public life. Great governor of New Hampshire. Not long ago I said to myself, gee, I wish I had the brains of John Sununu, but look: Having brains doesn't necessarily mean you have common sense. Trouble is, you don't. Have common sense, I mean.

If you had exercised common sense, you never would have commandeered an Air Force plane to take you skiing. Or to see your cotton-pickin' dentist. I thought we had that uproar quieted down in April. Cut it out.

The next thing I know, you order up a limousine to drive you to New York. And for what? So you could go to a stamp auction where some Graf Zeppelin airmails of 4930 would be up for sale. Beautiful stamps. I used to know a guy who told a story about the Grafs. Seems he was 12 years old and had a plate-numbered block of the 65-cent issue. A fat kid named Roy traded him out of it for a lousy pocket knife. Worth $3,000 today. I mean the block is worth $3,000. Mint condition. Where was I? It was dumb,

John, just plain dumb, to call up that limousine. And when you lost instant access to Air Force planes, you began scrounging up corporate jets to take you to fundraisers. The more I think about it, the madder I get. Dumb, dumb,

For crying out loud, John, you've been in political life for 18 years. You should have learned by this time that, hey, people don't get upset by the big things. Think of the deficit. What is it for this year? I forget. Hundred billion? Two hundred billion? Dick Darman knows this stuff. He can figure out a deficit six different ways. That's what a budget director is for. On budget. Off budget. Who knows? Who cares? Talk to voters about the deficit.

you put 'em to sleep. Talk about a national debt of $3 trillion, their eyes glaze over. Nobody understands a trillion dollars. But a limousine? A limousine! Anyone can understand a cotton-pickin' limousine. And people don't like the idea of your riding around in an air-conditioned, 24-foot Cadillac as if you were the maharaja of Kuwait. Or whatever that fellow is called. He's got no more common sense than you have. Kinda sorry we helped him

Or Lawrence Welk's boyhood home. $500,000 for that piece of pork. People understand $500,000.

Lot of money to most folks. Not everybody was that crazy about Lawrence Welk anyhow. His accordion wheezed. I heard that some of his musicians and singers actively disliked the guy. Highhanded.

And that reminds me. You made mighty few friends last year in all those budget negotiations. Key fellows from the House and Senate. Said you were a bully Pushed them around. No tact. I tell you, throwing your weight around doesn't work with those prima donnas on the Hill. All want to sing at once. No pleasing them.

People are laughing, John, and that can be fatal. The cartoonists have you floating around like a barrage balloon. You're flying first class in Air Sununu. They have you and me in the Bush League. Got to stop.

The thing is, John, that only one of us is president. And that's me. mean that's I. I get mixed up on pronouns. Hard to tell the difference. When you do something dumb, it's like my doing something dumb, and it does us no good to have people thinking they have two knuckleheads in the White House. By that I mean you and me. Leave Danny out of this. Right in the middle of the April ruckus, he calls up an Air Force plane to go golfing in Augusta. He's vice president. Ought to know better. You say you have to be able to get in touch with me every minute of the day. I appreciate that, but John, I don't need you every minute of the day. I really don't. You're a great chief of staff, but you've come down with a bad case of hubris. That's Greek for chutzpah. Swelled head. Too bad. You want to go to New York? Take the shuttle. Speaking in Chicago? Fly United. I still love you, John, but you can be an awful pain in the rear.

Ten reasons MTV

taken off cable To the editor:

Here are the top ten reasons why the Big Spring Cable has decided to take off MTV. (Drum roll please.)

10. It makes you dizzy when the T.V. is on those really high channels

9. Larson Lloyd finally understood the symbolism in Cher's "If I Could Turn Back Time" video.

8. Never ran the "I've fallen and can't get up" commercial. 7. Leaves free channel for the HRB network (Hicks, Rubes, Bumpkins) 6. Depressed that Paula Abdul never took it all off.

5. Never certain which one was "Downtown" Julie Brown. 4. Cable staff thought it had a beat, but couldn't dance to it. 3. Two simple words, "fatter profits' 2. Felt that it was having a bad influence on channel 8. And finally, the number one reason why the Big Spring Cable has decided to take off MTV: 1. They got tired of waiting for Sullivan to bring out the Beatles. WILLIAM C. COLEMAN in Philadelphia agreed to adopt the Declaration of Independence, making themselves a new nation. Or a roomful of traitors. A war was to decide how history would

According to the book "The Light and the Glory," by Peter Marshall and David Manuel, silence followed the vote. Then John Hancock said, "Gentlemen, the price on my head has just been doubled!

Next Samuel Adams spoke. " 'We have this day restored the Sovereign, to Whom alone men ought to be obedient. He reigns in heaven and . . . from the rising to the setting sun, may His Kingdom come.'

After a bloody war with England, the signers of the declaration emerged heroes. And some of them returned to Philadelphia in the summer of 1787 to draft the Constitution that would mold the young nation's future. The weather was melting and the debate seemed endless and futile.

According to "From Sea to Shining Sea," also by Marshall and Manuel, the convention seemed about to die from heat, humidity and boredom when Ben Franklin rose to speak. Not known for a faith in God, Franklin surprised everyone when he said, . . . 'I have lived, sir, a long time, and the longer I live, the more convincing proofs I see of this truth: that God governs in the affairs of man. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without His notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without His aid?'

He called the delegates to prayer, and the next day progress was made. Eventually the Constitution took shape with its matchless Bill of Rights. Perhaps no words in the history of the United States are more precious to more people than the First Amendment of that Constitution: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; of the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

It's amazing, in a nation built so solidly on a faith in God and so celebrated for its First Amendment protections, that teachers, and even students, have been ordered not to read their Bibles. Civil rights protesters, arrested for trying to prevent the destruction of unborn babies, are not allowed to use such unspeakable four-letter words in court as b-ab-y. They are not allowed to express their deep convictions and are, thus, left without a defense. What happened to their right to free speech, not to mention a fair I can tell you where it started on a large-scale: "All in the Family," 1971. Norman Lear had an inspiration. He created an obnoxious, bigoted piece of slime and presented him to the American people as a WASP (white Anglo-Saxon Protestant). Lear made it popular to laugh at and scorn conservatives, whom Archie Bunker supposedly represented.

"M ★ A ★ S ★ H" was next. Carefree, sexually-liberated Hawkeye Pierce and Trapper John McIntyre had a joke for every occasion, many of them at the expense of the U.S. government. And hypocritical, sniveling Frank Burns was the keeper of the Bible.

It was subtle, but effective, and with some help from Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart, makir ; a mockery of Christians became the "in" thing to do. Denying Christians their rights seemed almost OK since we're such bigoted, sniveling excuses for humanity.

War fought for liberty, not license But I want you to know that I' hang around with Christians and conservatives all the time, and they are warm and wise and witty. I never met an Archie Bunker or a Frank Burns among them. And you can call us what you like back-woodsy, morals corps, the righteous, hicks, rubes, bumpkins — if you think it's cutesy. I hope it makes you happy, but, even if it gave you a world of pleasure, it wouldn't be worth insulting the character of decent, caring parents who are merely doing the best they can to protect their children from a sewer of a culture.

And I hope you can understand this: In 1776, when our forefathers were sweating out the question of indépendence vs. treason and going to war with the Redcoats, they put their lives on the line for liberty. Not license. They were willing to die for our right to live with courage and integrity in a beautiful, free country. Not so we could fill our minds and hearts, our homes and streets with insipid garbage. I believe that, if they'd suspected they were fighting for people's right to pipe titillating videos into their living rooms, they would have put down their guns and gone home. Come on, Big Spring, get real.

According to the story in the June 27, 1991, Big Spring Herald, TCA Cable TV Inc. tried very hard to negotiate with MTV. MTV would not negotiate. TCA President Fred Nichols explained that he tried to arrange a deal through which subscribers could request MTV at no extra cost. The company wanted MTV to be optional so that children wouldn't be inadvertently exposed to it.

MTV refused. You don't like it? Write MTV, 1775 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019. Tell them you're outraged at their greed and insensitivity. Get off the backs of the cable companies, which are trying to do the best job they can for all their customers.

On the other hand, if you're encouraged to see some part of the television industry displaying a little responsibility and backbone, write TCA Cable TV Inc., P.O. Box 130489, Tyler, Texas 75713-0490, and congratulate them. That's what I intend to do.

Happy 215th, America!

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents

 Alcohol use and failure to control speed were cited as conributing factors in an accident that occurred in the 2000 block of Morrison early Sunday. Benjamin Deleon Jr. was cited for driving while intoxicated after his vehicle veered from the roadway, struck a parked car and forced the car into a cinderblock fence. Deleon was reported in good condition at Scenic Mountain Medical Center early today.

• Four men were arrested for driving while intoxicated in separate incidents throughout the city during the weekend. A woman reported being assaulted in the 600 block of Holbert.

 Unauthorized use of a vehicle and burglary of a vehicle were reported in the 800 block of East Fourth Street. Damage was caused to a Monte Carlo and a 1981 Oldsmobile was reported missing.

 Burglary of a home was reported in the 4100 block of Parkway. Damage to windows, screens and a pool liner was listed.

 A disturbance was reported in the 1100 block of North Scurry late

Sunday. • Three men were arrested for a number of offenses including theft over $20, public intoxication and evading arrest during an alterca-

WASHINGTON - Texas Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford, and the 40 or so members of the Conservative Democratic Forum live for the day when they can vote as a block and change the political course of the House.

On July 11, House Democrats are going to vote on who will replace retiring Pennsylvania Rep. William Gray as House Whip, third-ranking post in the Democratic leadership and a common stepping stone to the job of Speaker of the House.

At a post-termination hearing held in April at the request of Smith, Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire and appraisal district board members denied that records had been falsified.

Toomire acknowledged at the hearing that reappraisals on almost half of the approximately 23,000 property parcels in the county were tossed out last year because they were not done according to instructions. However, he said, falsification of records did not occur and Smith was not fired because he reported the incorrectly done reappraisals."

Toomire did not comment on the lawsuit, which Smith had indicated in April he would file.

The attorney's going to call me next Friday on it and we're going to talk about it," Toomire said. "I don't have any estimate of legal fees. I really don't know much other than we turned it over to our attorney.

The suit, prepared by Odessa attorney Melissa Hirsch, asks for compensation for damage to reputation and for emotional distress and back pay and demands reinstatment to the job on pay that would be due in the future.

The suit alleged the posttermination hearing was conducted unfairly. "Plaintiff was denied a full and fair hearing and plaintiff's counsel was denied the right to fully question witnesses concerning the dismissal and termination of plaintiff," it said.

Fans steal the show at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) -Jimmy Connors was the star, but he had a supporting cast of thousands of young fans on a very untraditional day at Wimbledon.

They applauded the ballboys and belted out soccer songs. They counted each stroke out loud during warmups. They hollered "Jimmee, Jim-mee" at a player twice their age.

All in the staid Centre Court stadium. And on the middle Sunday a rest day at the tournament since 1877.

"The atmosphere was great today," Connors said after limping out of the tournament in straight sets to Derrick Rostagno. "It was a different crowd, not the traditionalists giving you the 'Jolly good.""

The rain that had caused a huge backlog of matches during the opening five days returned briefly on Sunday. But it did little to dampen the enthusiasm of fans who stood in line overnight for tickets they normally cannot get.

The All England Club reluctantly agreed to break tradition by playing Sunday because of the traffic jam of matches.

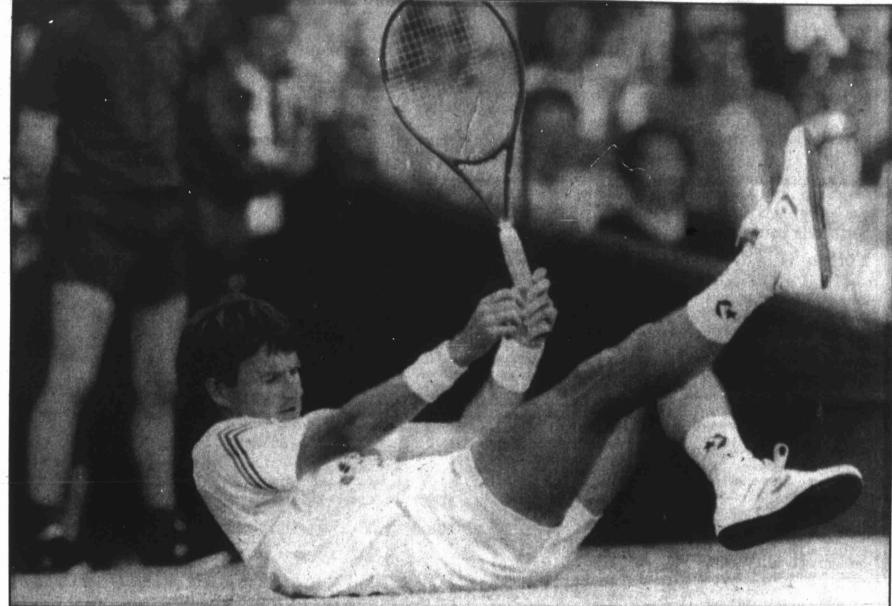

"The committee are determined this should not be seen as a precedent," said Chris Gorringe, the club's chief executive. "It was forced upon us by the extreme weather conditions.

Though Connors lost his thirdround match 7-6, 6-1, 6-4, the fans exulted in his gutsy performance. Connors refused to quit despite injuring his leg in the first set.

"For somebody who was not supposed to play Wimbledon, to do this well is really a lot of fun," said the 38-year-old Connors, who had wrist surgery last winter.

"I've done my duty here. I've given this place everything that I've had to give. I broke my back for them. I didn't mind bleeding and doing whatever it took to play my best tennis, and now I still like doing that. But this is just all gravy for me.

Strong back nine makes Couples a tad bit richer

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — If Fred Couples had gone through with his original plans to skip the $1 million St. Jude Classic, it would have been a $180,000 mistake.

Couples took charge on the backnine Sunday, posting a final-round of 3-under-par 68 and matching Tom Kite's 72-hole record at the TPC Southwind with a 15-under 269 to capture the $180,000 winner's check.

After building a one-stroke lead in Saturday's third round, Couples admitted the Memphis stop, in its third year at the 7,006-yard, par-71 Southwind course, almost didn't happen.

"I loved the old Colonial course we used to play, and you become a little stubborn when there's a change," said Couples, whose titles include the 1984 Tournament Players Championship.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Now that she's third on the LPGA money list and has won a major tournament, Meg Mallon is ready to assume a spot among the prominent names in women's golf,

"Not necessarily," she says. "I still feel like I have a long way to go. I see someone like Beth Daniel and Patty Sheehan and I see that it's going to take a little while to get to their level.

Maybe so, but on Sunday, Mallon went head-to-head with golfing greats Pat Bradley and Ayako Okamoto, and emerged with the LPGA Championship. In one of the more memorable duels in the history of the tournament, Mallon sank a 10-foot birdie-putt on the 72nd hole to snap a threeway tie. The victory in the $1 million tournament was worth $150,000 and gave her a season total of $308,298. It is by far the most money the 27-year-old Mallon has won in a year since joining the tour in 1986

The finish, Mallon said, was the stuff dreams are made of. There she was, putting on the final green with the title on the line while the rest of her threesome, Bradley and Okamoto, looked on.

There was a huge gallery, too, as well as a national TV audience. A lesser player might have tensed up under such conditions, but Mallon was too focused to think about just how intense the situation was

The three leaders started the day at 6-under and were 9-under going to the final hole, a 379-yard par 4. After Okamoto and Bradley made the fairway in good shape Mallon hit her tee about the same time someone in the nearby parking lot honked a horn.

LPGA

She pushed her shot a bit to the right to wind up 167 yards from the pin at No. 18, then chose a 5-iron because she expected to hit the ball hard.

The shot put her within striking distance, and she dropped the putt after Bradley and Okamoto had parred the hole

It was only the second tournament victory for Mallon, who earlier this year won the Oldsmobile Classic. In four previous years on the tour, she had not finished higher than third in any event or better than 27th on the money list.

"The same thing the next day But that was good, because it kept things low key."

Okamoto and Bradley collected $80,000 apiece, while defending champion Daniel was fourth at 278. Barb Bunkowsky and Deb Richard were another shot back

Stage finally set for Johnson-Lewis duel

(AP) - It's a race of rivalry, revenge and redemption. Now all it needs is some suspense. Three years after their last headto-head race at the 1988 Olympics. Carl Lewis and Ben Johnson are set to resume their fierce competition Monday night in the 100 meters at the BNP Grand Prix track meet.

The storyline looks compelling: The disgraced Johnson, stripped of his gold medal and world record after testing positive for steroids in Seoul, seeks to redeem himself against the man he hates personally and loves most to beat. The cocky Lewis, who feels the same about Johnson, aims to reassert his supremacy over a man he says could never beat him without performance-enhancing

As if to rub it in, Lewis said Sun-

VILLENEUVE D'ASCQ, France day: "Ben and I have not raced in quite some time, and (he was) probably never clean.'

While the grudge factor adds spice to the race, there may be nothing to prevent the long-awaited showdown from being a completely one-sided affair.

Based on his recent performances since returning to competition after a two-year suspension for steroid use. Johnson may be fortunate not to finish last in the starstudded eight-man field.

As world record pole vaulter Sergei Bubka put it: "Now there's such a very big difference between them, maybe five or even seven meters. Johnson is not the same as he used to be."

Since starting his comeback, Johnson has competed in four 100-meter races in the past two • DUEL page 2-B

Doc continues to struggle, Mets lose

What's up, Doc? Dwight Gooden again broke down, and so did the New York Mets on Sunday, losing to the Philadelphia Phillies 10-9.

"The breaking ball is gone," Gooden said. "And there was no speed on the fastball. I'm not a machine ... just got to keep working hard.

Once, the Mets were almost certain to win with Gooden - his 126-52 career record is the best alltime percentage (.708) of pitchers with at least 1,500 innings. Now, though, he's become the very symbol of the Mets' season of inconsistency

Gooden (7-6) gave up seven runs on nine hits and two walks in 4 1-3 innings. Sil Campusano, Steve Lake and Dickie Thon all hit home runs off the one-time ace, whose ERA climbed to 4.39.

"There's nothing wrong with Dwight's arm," Mets manager Bud Harrelson said. "Thon and Campusano hit breaking balls and Dwight didn't have any control of it. He's been hit hard for a month."

Thon, Campusano and Lake began the day with a combined total of three home runs, all by Thon. Gooden had never allowed three home runs in a game until two weeks ago, when Atlanta roughed him up.

Gooden's bad game, and concern over his condition, carried over to the clubhouse. Mets pitching coach Mel Stottlemyre and a reporter had to be separated when the questioning about Gooden got too tough.

The Chicago Bears, oblivious to the running back's drug problems according to some reports, drafted Lewis in the sixth round with the 161st pick overall.

"That was my biggest downfall, the drug thing," Lewis said last week from his parents' house in

"There's no doubt in my mind that was the only reason I wasn't drafted higher. If it wasn't for the drugs, I would've gone in the first two rounds," he said.

Instead, there were 17 running backs chosen ahead of Lewis. Some were big names, like LSU's Harvey Williams, Colorado's Eric Bienemy and Notre Dame's Ricky Watters. But others were practically no-names, like Fresno State's Aaron Craver and East Texas

State's Terry Bagsby Even his A&M backfield mate, fullback Robert Wilson, went in the third round to Tampa Bay. Wilson passed on his senior year to enter

As he prepares to report to the Bears' training camp in Plat-teville, Wis., today, Lewis doesn't sound bitter about being such an unwanted draft commodity.

"All of those guys are great backs," said Lewis, a Parade magazine All-American at Dallas Carter High School. "It just so happened that I was in a nice class of good running backs.

"My expectations with the Bears are simple. I just want to work hard, take it one day at a time and do whatever it takes to make the team. (Chicago) coach (Mike) Ditka just said for me to do whatever I can to contribute. They know about the capabilities that I have. They know what I can do as far as running the football," he said. Last month, Lewis admitted himself to Riverside Hospital in Houston to undergo drug rehabilitation. He spent 28 days at the facility, where he was conditioned to re-evaluate his frivolous and carefree lifestyle.

"When you come out, you have to change the people, places and things you come in contact with," your habits. You have to stay out of clubs, period. People aren't having clean parties any more, so you have to stay away from all that. "Getting help for myself was a big turnaround for me. I was just grateful that (the Bears) gave me a chance."

Indeed, a chance is really all Lewis has. The Bears are loaded at running back, with All-Pro Neal Anderson, versatile Brad Muster and former Texas A&I standout Johnny Bailey. Getting carries behind those three will not be easy.

"That's one of the things I have to deal with. I'll have to wait in line said Lewis. "You have to change as far as the playing time goes, Lewis said. "As far as the competition at running back, I'll just have to worry about me. That's my main focus right now."

> He left A&M as the Southwest Conference's career rushing leader (5,012 yards, 18 touchdowns). He became only the fifth player in NCAA history to rush for more than 5,000 yards in a career.

"I'm not worried about making the team or not," said Lewis. "The Lord is with me. He knows it's something that I really love, so it's not going to be taking away from

The truth and nothing but the truth

DALLAS (AP) — A prosecutor curious about Dick Clark's age took advantage of an opportunity to get the truth — the whole truth and nothing but the truth — from America's oldest teen-ager.

Clark, host of "American Bandstand," appeared last week in federal court as a character witness for a defendant in an investment fraud trial. When it came time to cross-examine Clark, Assistant U.S. Attorney Bob Webster was ready to grill the entertainer-producer. "Since I have you under oath, my wife told me to ask, 'How old are you?" the prosecutor said.

"Sixty-one," Clark replied as jurors broke into laughter.

A new neighbor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Madonna, in the market for a new house since a neighbor complained about foliage around her Hollywood Hills home, is buying a 21-room French-style villa overlooking the city.

The singer will pay more than $8 million for the gated home on four acres in exclusive Bel Air, an unidentified broker said in Sunday's Los Angeles Times. The home had been listed at $10.5 million.

A bad time for Martina

In December, Madonna was

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) Martina Navratilova's former companion maintains she didn't time her lawsuit against the tennis star to interfere with the Wimbledon championship.

"There's never a good time for something like this," Judy Nelson said. "I tried everything I could to have it done before Wimbledon.'

TUESDAY, JULY 2, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Someone you take into your confidence now will help you land a job or business contract in September. A romantic relationship moves into high gear by November. Let family members see the real you over the Christmas holidays.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: auto racer Richard Petty, Justice Thurgood Marshall, actress Polly Holliday, singger Jose Canseco.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Unpredictability can be an asset now. You score a major triumph by keeping a competitor off-balance. Consult an expert on marketing a creative idea. Curb your temper when dealing with loved ones.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A windfall fattens your pocketbook and sends your spirits sky-high. A stunning performance may surprise some people but not those who know you best. Be firm about saying "no" to hangers-on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone may try to manipulate you today. Keep your guard up and realize that not everyone emulates your direct ways. Romance hits a high note when family members applaud your choice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You bounce back after some difficult experiences. Career demands could separate you from your loved ones. Call home often and make the best of what is a temporary situation. Romance thrives on consideration.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Innovative ideas abound! Take a chance and try an unusual approach to an old problem. Lost documents can be replaced. Protect your reputation. Fulfill an obligation to your employer without further delay.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): The differences of opinion that divide you and your loved one are not important enough to separate you permanently. Lay your cards on the table. Intelligent compromises can lead to lasting happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Trying to take the easy way out will only complicate matters. Make a firm decision and move quickly. You can no longer afford to close your eyes to what must be done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Th spotlight is on the arts and other creative activities. A meeting with member of the opposite sex coultrigger an outburst of feelings. Exer cise self-restraint. Keep a close ey on spending.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec 21): You are able to hold things to gether in a difficult situation. Th way you handle your emotions i important to your health. Bringin; others home unexpectedly could upset your mate. Call first!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19] A lethargic mood could hold you back today. Stop feeling guilty and build a more positive relationship with a member of the opposite sex Co-workers will respond favorably to your friendly overtures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18] Keep a close eye on business spend ing now. Accept a new role and make it work for you! Someone could be overwhelmed by a proposal you make. Give them time to think. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Loved one looks to you for romantic inspiration. Getting away to a distan place for a while would do you a world of good! Put new financia information to practical use. Revise: budget.
