Senate panel OKs federal prison funds

A U.S. Senate subcommittee has approved funding for construction work at the Big Spring Federal Correctional Institution.

Prison spokesman Charlie Marmolejo said the work, which includes expansion and renovation of some facility buildings, will be the second phase of the prison's mission change. The first phase included installation of high fences and higher security levels to accommodate medium security level prisoners.

Special budget-writing session starts today

AUSTIN (AP) — A special session to write a state budget started today with legislators talking tough about cutting spending.

Moments before the 72nd Legislature's overtime session began, conservative lawmakers promised to tame the budget without a tax increase.

"And if we can't do it, then I guess we're going to have to clean house and get another bunch of people that can," said Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, who is one of 49 legislators that comprise the Texas Conservative Coalition.

Gov. Ann Richards has said the first order of business will be reducing the budget.

"Where we stand in the governor's office is that we're going to cut government," Richards said. "And there are going to be complaints heard from a lot of quarters."

Lawmakers face a projected $4.8 billion shortfall to pay for an approximately $57 billion budget that would continue the current level of services for the next two fiscal years.

And they have less than eight weeks to solve the problem before the new budget period starts Sept. 1.

After addressing a joint session of the Legislature, Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, the presiding officer of the Senate, and House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, will hold a news conference.

The three leaders have met frequently in recent weeks to discuss the budget and strategy.

The centerpiece of the session is a proposal by State Comptroller John Sharp to produce $5.2 billion — $4 billion of which he says could be applied to the $4.8 billion general revenue deficit.

Since unveiling the report last month, Sharp's plan of cuts,

MTV not returning; lack of demand cited

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

Music Television was not returned as an option to Big Spring cable viewers because of a lack of customer demand, the manager of the local cable franchise said today.

A spokesman for Tyler-based TCA Cable, which owns Big Spring Cable TV, said the option of returning MTV to basic cable service was left to individual franchise managers.

Pete Oppel, a public relations official for TCA in Dallas, said a recent contract renewal offered the music video network to all of TCA's 53 franchises in six states, including Texas. It would be an optional channel that could be completely blocked from households that elected not to choose it, Oppel said.

"I understand on the next bill there would be a card they could sign saying if they wanted it," he said. However, the decision whether to carry it as an option was left to individual franchises, Oppel said.

"A contract has been signed (between TCA and MTV), but it was up to the individual cable

Whistleblowers at odds with NRC over Comanche Peak

DALLAS (AP) — Micky Dow and his wife, Sandra Flanigan, say they have a lot to tell the Nuclear Regulatory Commission about irregularities at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant near Glen Rose.

But they've been on the run for almost a month, dodging a court order to turn over their evidence, including the names of Dow's sources inside the plant, which is located about 50 miles southwest of Fort Worth.

They fled Texas because they fear for their safety, said Dow, 43, a skinny, one-legged, tattooed man from Stephenville. He took his boxes of documents with him. Dow was given until noon today to comply with a subpoena that requires him to show the NRC what he has.

"If I show up where they want me, I wouldn't give us 30 seconds on the street before they grab us," Dow said.

NRC officials say that's ridiculous.

"What we've got here is a fellow who came forward and said, 'Gee, I know something, but I'm not going to tell you what it is,'" said Charles Mullins, NRC lawyer in Washington, D.C., who handles Comanche Peak matters. "All

Summit to hear Soviet plea

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of the world's seven richest nations today opened a summit mired in economic disputes and were quickly challenged to help Mikhail Gorbachev save the Soviet Union from financial ruin.

German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, the chief advocate of a massive aid package for Moscow, told the leaders their summit should mark "the start of an intensive dialogue between the West and the Soviet Union."

"It cannot be in our interests for the Soviet Union to slip into instability," Kohl said, according to remarks prepared for delivery. He did not mention any amount of financial aid.

Yet, President Bush and most of the other leaders remain skeptical that Gorbachev is committed to meaningful economic and political reforms that would merit large infusions of Western aid.

Amid pomp and pageantry, the leaders assembled under heavy security at Lancaster House for three days of talks overshadowed by anticipation of a personal appeal from Gorbachev on Wednesday for support.

Related story on page 3-A

British Prime Minister John Major, the summit host, greeted each leader on a red carpet as they arrived one by one in limousines. German Chancellor Helmut Kohl arrived first at the 19th Century mansion in central London, followed by President Bush.

The first order of business was posing for the so-called class picture that traditionally opens every summit.

Bush and some of the leaders met face to face before the summit to discuss a variety of political issues. Bush expressed optimism about concluding a nuclear arms treaty with Moscow. And, he hailed Syria's acceptance of a U.S. proposal for a Middle East peace conference as "a good response."

As for the arms talks, Bush said he had been briefed by Secretary of State James A. Baker III on negotiations in Washington that resolved all but one final issue. "It's encouraging — one point remaining but an important one,"

Bush said, adding that U.S. experts would review technical points before he meets with Gorbachev on Wednesday.

Brent Scowcroft, the president's national security adviser, said "it is quite possible" the arms treaty will be wrapped up by Wednesday. Interviewed on NBC's "Today" show, Scowcroft said Bush would not go to Moscow for a summit with Gorbachev unless every last detail of the treaty was nailed down.

Gorbachev's request for Western support has drawn a cold reaction from many of the leaders.

"This is not blank-check time," cautioned Bush, underscoring opposition shared by Britain, Japan and Canada to any costly, quick fix for stabilizing Gorbachev's crumbling economy.

"There's no one here who wants to send Mr. Gorbachev discouraged away and there's no one here who wants to send him away with a big fat check," British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said.

Hurd, interviewed today on ABC's "Good Morning America," said Gorbachev must implement an economic reform plan before the West provides anything beyond technical aid.

Capehart water line to be replaced

By DEBBIE LINCECUM Staff Writer

City of Big Spring workers are expected to begin today replacing a main waterline in the Capehart Addition, a measure that officials said may greatly improve the area's water quality.

Capehart residents have been plagued by red, rusty water caused by the old cast-iron pipes still in use throughout some areas of the city. Assistant City Manager Tom Decell said the city will replace the main line with a polyvinylchloride type, which will not rust.

The replacement process will take several weeks, he said.

"The initial phase is probably a three- or four-week job," Decell said. Once workers replace the line, it must be flushed with chlorine and tested several times before it can be tied into individual street waterlines.

Individual lines will not be replaced until a need is established, Decell said.

"After about 90 days (using the new main line), we'll have to re-evaluate," he said. "Some streets may see an improvement with this and others may not. We're trying this rather than going in and replacing it all at once. That would be a very expensive proposition."

Capehart resident Jack Watson of 2601 Chanute said he doesn't have much hope the plan will work.

"They tried something last year and it didn't do any good," he said. Before he heard the city was beginning work on the main line today, Watson said he was preparing to complain one more time. Capehart water has been the subject of frequent and regular complaints, city officials said.

"I was ready to go down there with a picket line," said Watson, who has lived in his home several years. "Last night my son got ready to take his bath and said, 'I don't want to go in there!' I didn't blame him. Tomato juice is what I call it."

"It's ruined our clothes," Watson said. "Bleach doesn't help. We don't wear whites, we wear pinks."

One possible reason for the area's extreme problem is the number of vacancies in the area, Decell said.

"There's not a lot of water going through," he said. "That (frequent use) is the best deterrent to red water."

The replacement project should improve distribution in the area.

reported Sunday that it looked through Dow's documents and found little new information. Most allegations have been heard and investigated in the past, the newspaper said.

But TU Electric, owner of Comanche Peak, and the NRC say something important might be buried in Dow's boxes of papers and on 16 reels of tape recordings from the plant's switchboards that Dow obtained.

Dow went to Washington twice to get congressional investigators involved. In April he asked a federal judge to bar TU Electric from restarting the plant, which had been shut down for repairs. But he never provided details or witnesses to back up his claims of violations. He lost on a procedural point and has appealed.

Dow said he thinks the truth about Comanche Peak will come out, and that the truth is somewhere in his boxes of documents.

"If you take a bag of marbles and put in several white ones and one black one, and keep pulling one out, eventually you'll pull out the black one," Dow said. "We're just trying to do some good with this."

Dozen families victimized in scam

HOUSTON (AP) — About a dozen Houston families have fallen victim to a leasing scam in which they would pay rent to a bogus landlord, authorities say.

Investigators say the suspects would break into foreclosed property and then show it to prospective renters. After collecting the first month's rent and deposit, the suspects would make off with the money, leaving renters homeless.

In some instances, the first month rent and deposit amounted to about $900, said Precinct 4 Constable Dick Moore.

Roy Evans, 71, was charged Friday with theft by deception. Evans, previously convicted of burglary, forgery and fraud, was freed Sunday on $2,000 bond. Another man is being sought in connection with the scam.

Slaying sparks demonstration

HOUSTON (AP) — More than a thousand people angered by the attack on three gay men took to the streets this weekend during a demonstration in the heart of the city's gay community.

The demonstrators marched on a busy intersection in the Montrose neighborhood Saturday night to protest the July Fourth gay-bashing incident that left one man dead. Police said no arrests were made during the raucous, but non-violent, demonstration.

"Hey, hey, ho, ho, homophobia's got to go!" the crowd chanted. "No more hate! No more hate!" others yelled.

"An attack on one of us is an attack on all of us," declared a banner carried in the march. It was signed by "fags, dikes, people of all colors and sexualities created as one."

The march came after two more men were charged in the beating attack on three men outside a gay bar. Paul Broussard, 27, was killed in the attack.

In all, three men have been charged with attempted murder and one faces a murder charge.

More voting power needed

HOUSTON (AP) — Hispanics could make giant political strides during the next decade, but first they must increase their voting power through redistricting, activists say.

Redistricting represents "a historic opportunity for our community to make a quantum leap forward in our politics," said Andy Hernandez, president of the Southwest Voter Registration Project in San Antonio.

Several states with growing Hispanic populations are gaining congressional seats because of overall population increases, and Hispanics want their fair share, Hernandez said Sunday. Hispanics also want to increase their political representation at the state and local levels.

But Hernandez, who spoke on the opening day of the National Council of La Raza's annual convention, warned Hispanics not to rely on others to obtain representation.

"No matter how good intentions people may have, no matter how much they are our allies on everything else, when you get down to the bottom line, redistricting is a political process that involves the exercise and acquisition of power," Hernandez said.

"It means taking up power and bringing it into our community to empower (us.) That means that those who have the power now are going to resist with a lot of energy and vigor any redistricting process that leads to them losing power," he said. "So we can't count on anyone except ourselves to ensure that we get a fair and equitable drawing of the lines."

Redistricting was the subject of the five-day convention's first seminar. Other workshops will be held on free trade, immigration, education reform, AIDS, housing and building political alliances with other minority groups.

The NCLR is a national Hispanic civil rights umbrella group for 130 "affiliates," or formal community-based organizations. The group expects about 9,000 community activists and political and business leaders to attend the conference.

Hernandez said a coalition of Hispanic groups wants to maximize the number of districts where Hispanic voters determine the elections as well as those where Hispanics provide the swing vote.

"We need to ensure that we are not shut out of the political process for the next 10 years because we have been drawn out of the political process because of gerrymanders or election schemes that dilute or diminish our vote," he said.

Hernandez noted that Hispanics could gain districts in California, Texas, Arizona and Florida, and could reap even larger rewards if the 1990 census is adjusted. Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher must decide by today whether to replace the 1990 population count with the Census Bureau's revised estimate.

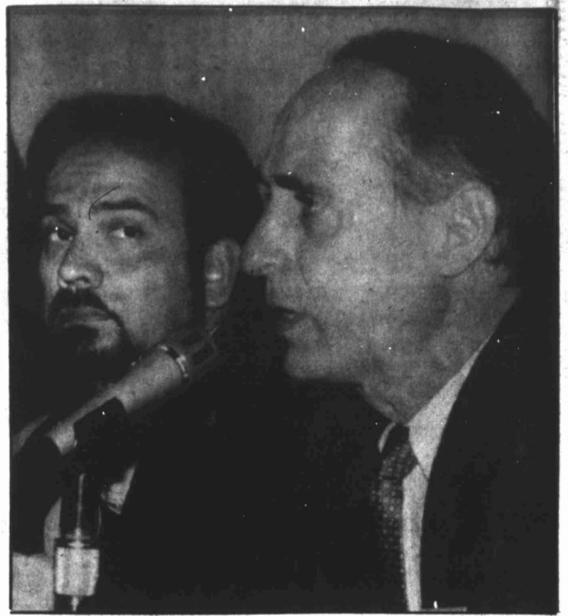

Critics charge the Census Bureau failed to count millions, particularly Hispanics and blacks.

In Texas, Hernandez said the coalition on redistricting opposes the state Senate's plan because he says it denies a state senate district for Hispanics in Houston and one in San Antonio.

And as for congressional redistricting in Texas, he said an acceptable plan must have two Hispanic districts.

If the coalition isn't satisfied with any of the new districts, it is prepared to take the issue to the Justice Department and the courts, said Hernandez and Arturo Vargas, director of outreach and policy for the Mexican American Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Vargas said a redistricting plan must follow the one-person, one-vote concept and must not diminish or dilute the voting rights of minorities to pass court muster.

HOUSTON — Andy Hernandez, left, President of the Southwest Voter Research Institute, listens as Robert Brischetto, Executive Director of the Institute, talks about the nation's growing Hispanic population and how they should increase their voting power through redistricting at the opening day of the National Council of La Raza's annual convention in Houston Sunday.

Officer says he had no choice

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A police officer videotaped striking a handcuffed car theft suspect 28 times with a nightstick believes he will be cleared of an assault charge, saying he had no other way to gain control of the man.

"I did what I was trained to do," Officer Edward J. Parnell III told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in a copyright story Sunday. "I did what I thought I was supposed to do."

The interview marks the first time Parnell has spoken at length about the July 3 incident.

Parnell had arrested Ernest Alvin Anderson on suspicion of car theft and was driving him to a police station when Anderson kicked out a rear window and tried to jump out onto Interstate 30.

Anderson, 21, said he was only trying to loosen his handcuffs. But Parnell said he had already adjusted the handcuffs. Later, Anderson threatened suicide, Parnell said.

Parnell stopped the car, removed Anderson and began beating him with a baton. A woman videotaped the beating from a home nearby.

Parnell, 32, admitted he repeatedly struck Anderson, but he said he had no other choice.

"I don't have control of the situation. And as far as I'm concerned, I'm losing because he's still coming out of the vehicle," Parnell said.

"I then took my nightstick with two hands, brought it back and swung with as much force as I can muster. I needed him back in the car, either through pain or fright."

Anderson was treated for cuts and bruises to his left arm, right leg, chest, back and head, police said. It has not been determined which injuries were caused by the nightstick and which were caused by Anderson's smashing the window.

Since the broadcast of the videotape, shown nationwide, Parnell has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon. He has been placed on detached duty with pay, pending a grand jury hearing.

"I feel I'll be found not guilty of all charges brought against me," Parnell said.

"I've been trained in the academy to not let a felony prisoner escape. I've also been trained not to let somebody commit suicide," he said. "I've been trained to use whatever force is necessary to not let either happen."

An Explorer Scout, Michael Tobey, 20, was with Parnell when Anderson was arrested. Tobey said he also tried to calm Anderson. But when Anderson began banging his head and feet against the rear window, Parnell radioed for help and requested a nurse stand by at the jail.

He said a police supervisor radioed back and denied his request to turn on his emergency lights and siren.

"It's about 5 o'clock, there's rush-hour traffic. I'm weaving in and out of traffic trying to get to the jail as fast as I can," Parnell recalled.

And then Anderson shattered the back window with his feet.

"He starts crawling out of the window while we're on I-30 going 55 (miles per hour)," Parnell said.

"I don't like fighting. I've never really had a serious fight in my life," he said.

Dallas planning parade

DALLAS (AP) — As many as 50,000 spectators are expected for a ticker-tape parade Saturday in downtown Dallas that will wrap up four months of victory celebrations around the country for the heroes of Operation Desert Storm.

"This is going to be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity," said John Weekley, the salute's director.

"This is one of the largest parades ever held in the state of Texas, and it's probably the largest military parade in the state since World War II," Weekley said.

The celebration follows similar events earlier in the summer in New York, Washington, Los Angeles, Chicago, and Austin.

An estimated 4,500 troops from eight states will attend the party. The procession also will feature bands from the eight states — Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Missouri and Kansas.

The salute to Operation Desert Storm veterans also will include an official USO show, a number of special receptions, and a military hardware display for troops and their families.

Student plans to hand out condoms

DENTON, Texas (AP) — The vice president of the University of North Texas student body says he'll press on with a plan to distribute condoms to incoming students because "universities are a hotbed for sex."

Wade Duchene, 24, has battled for the past year to get condom dispensers placed in residence hall restrooms.

Administrators said they are concerned about the message the 2,000 incoming students, many of them just out of high school, and their parents might get from students distributing condoms.

Duchene received a letter Wednesday from Phillip Bustos, assistant dean of students, threatening disciplinary action if he hands out the condoms.

Adult videos on trial

DALLAS (AP) — Federal prosecutors in Texas say they want to make an example of a California company accused of violating pornography laws by shipping adult videocassette tapes.

But free speech advocates say adults should be able to watch whatever they want.

Justice Department spokesman Doug Tillett said the government defends free speech, but added, "We're charged with enforcing the federal laws as written by Congress."

In a trial beginning today in the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, Donald P. Browning and Michael Warner, operators of California Publishers Liquidating Corp., are charged with conspiracy and importing and mailing obscene material.

Also charged are Ron Zdeb, vice president and general manager of a California Publishers subsidiary; Susan C. Colvin, supervisor of telephone sales; and Christian Mann, a shipping and receiving employee.

The five are accused of shipping more than 70 adult videos in 1989 and 1990 to a suburban Dallas video store called Good Vibrations.

If convicted on all charges, the five defendants could receive sentences ranging up to 35 years in prison and $1.75 million in fines.

Budget stalemates still unresolved

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Ongoing budget stalemates left 8,000 state employees in California without paychecks today and saw state government shut down for a third week in Maine.

In both states, workers' compensation packages have held up the budgets for the new fiscal year, which began July 1.

The missed paychecks, which affect 4 percent of the state's 199,000 workers on mid-month pay periods, were the first significant impact from Republican

Gov. Pete Wilson's refusal to sign a $55 billion budget until workers' compensation and income tax measures were also on his desk.

Maine Gov. John R. McKernan and Democratic leaders Sunday night agreed to a plan in which McKernan would sign a two-year $3.2 billion budget when an acceptable workers' comp package is negotiated.

McKernan wants a 35 percent reduction in workers' compensation rates.

State moves to take over company

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — State officials moved to take control today of Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. while industry experts worried that the takeover would erode faith in the nation's insurance companies.

State control of the company, the nation's 18th largest health and life insurer, would prevent the largest failure of an insurer to date.

The expected seizure would affect about 400,000 policyholders nationwide and more than 200,000 people whose employee pension plans bought Mutual Benefit annuities.

Policyholder withdrawals likely will be suspended while regulators come up with a restructuring plan or find a buyer. Mutual Benefit plans to continue to pay all death, health and disability claims and to make regular annuity payments, said Stephen Carlotti, the company's chief operating officer.

Mutual Benefit's board was scheduled to vote today on turning the company over to regulators, said Carlotti.

One issue to be resolved in treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — American and Soviet experts are taking a final stab at overcoming one final obstacle to a landmark nuclear arms reduction treaty. President Bush said today he was encouraged but that the remaining dispute was an important one.

The two sides almost completed a Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty slashing by 30 percent their long-range bombers, submarines and nuclear missiles. But they fell slightly short Sunday.

"The long journey of nine years is coming really to an end," Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh said at the conclusion of four days of talks with Secretary of State James A. Baker III.

Iraq provides detailed list of nuclear program

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — On a day President Bush and French President Francois Mitterrand hinted that Iraq had better tell all or face attack, Iraq released a new, more extensive list describing its nuclear program.

Sources close to a U.N. team that has been trying to get a complete picture of the Iraqi program said the list, which the Baghdad provided Sunday, was the most detailed yet offered.

But the head of the 37-member U.N. team would not say whether the list satisfied all demands made by the United Nations in the cease-fire agreement that ended the Persian Gulf War.

Iraq has been under strong pressure to meet the U.N. demands — both to win an easing of crippling economic sanctions and to avoid a threatened military strike.

Today, Britain joined France and the United States in saying it was prepared to use force to stop Iraq from acquiring nuclear weapons.

British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said in London the Group of Seven leading industrial nations all agreed "that one way or another we are going to prevent Iraq becoming another nuclear power."

Asked in an interview with Britain's Independent Television Network, "Even if that means providing forces?" Hurd replied, "Yes."

Under terms of the cease-fire resolution, Iraq must disclose all its nuclear, chemical and biological weaponry and cooperate in their destruction.

Baghdad has repeatedly been accused of submitting incomplete lists and playing hide-and-seek with U.N. inspectors.

U.N. team leader Dimitri Pericos said the latest Iraqi list provides information in all areas requested.

British refuse to allow interviews

LONDON (AP) — Reporters are grumbling: For the first time in 17 years of economic summitry, they are being barred from covering all activities of the leaders and their spouses.

The British government has decreed that every event is a photo opportunity only.

As a result, leaders of the seven major industrialized democracies will be insulated from questions during the three-day summit except at Wednesday's closing formal press conference.

Anna Perez, press secretary for Barbara Bush, said she was "mystified" and surprised by the restrictions. She said she didn't know why reporters were excluded. Yet, she indicated she was resigned to the policy. "When in Rome . . ." she said.

Anyone looking for insight into the summit's human dimension will have to scrutinize TV pictures and still photos.

"Texas was a lot more hospitable," said Carl Leubsdorf, Washington bureau chief for the Dallas Morning News.

Syria accepts plan for conference

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — President Hafez Assad has told President Bush that Syria accepts in essence a new U.S. proposal for a regional peace conference — making Israel the only major party to have rejected the compromise plan.

The Syrian announcement came in a letter handed to the U.S. ambassador on Sunday and could mark a significant step forward for Washington's efforts.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III said in Washington that while apparently not specifying conditions for conference participation, the letter moves the Syrians "further than they've been willing to move before."

In the past, Syria demanded a comprehensive conference to resolve all issues between the Arabs and the Israelis. Now, it is effectively agreeing to separate the Palestinian issue from the overall Arab-Israeli problem.

The position of Syria, Israel's most formidable enemy, may set the tone for other Arab nations.

U.S. may give up Clark Air Base

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The United States may give up volcano-damaged Clark Air Base but still wants to keep a military presence in the Philippines, chief U.S. negotiator Richard Armitage said today.

As Armitage resumed talks on the future of Clark Air Base and the Subic Bay naval base, his negotiating partner said that the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific recommended today that U.S. troops quit Clark.

The base has suffered extensive damage from the eruption of Mount Pinatubo.

Foreign Secretary Raul Manglapus said Adm. Charles Larson told President Corazon Aquino today of his recommendation.

A 30 year history of our name "Coahoma State Bank" celebrating thirty years of banking service. CSB has a lot to feel good about. It's our 30th birthday and we're celebrating 30 years of banking service to Howard County. We've been writing a book on bank performance for 30 years with one-on-one customer assistance and fulfilling individual, family and business financial needs. We build relationships and that way we're in your best interest; come by, say hello, and help us celebrate Tuesday, July 16, 1991.

Remember Back When?

We at Coahoma State Bank enjoy reminiscing about our past...from the early days when the bank was cooled with a "swamp cooler" and a screen door was on the rear entrance, in addition to the metal door...so that if there was a breeze, the bookkeeping department could catch some of it! Although we like to look in the past, we continue to look forward...to handling all of our old and new customers alike with the careful handling that has become one of our trademarks. Do you remember when? How often we hear statements that are prefaced with this opening! As we celebrate our 30th anniversary, we hear our "older" employees say... "Do you remember when..." 1) after closing time...we would have customers come to the back door and we would still take care of their business? 2) account numbers used to be 3 numbers long...? 3) you used to go make a major purchase such as a car or a tv, and then call the bank and tell them to fix you up a note...and they did? 4) all inquiries on accounts and all filling on accounts was done by last name and initial...not by account numbers? Oh! for the good old days!

"I may not agree with what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it." — Voltaire

Opinions from across the U.S. Base closings necessary

Now that a presidential commission has endorsed a list, the closing of two dozen military bases is a step nearer. The president has two weeks to ratify the list and has signaled he is likely to do so. Then Congress has an additional 45 days to accept or reject it. Congress' choice is all or none.

The tortuous route to the closings was devised to minimize pork-barrel pressures that have been responsible for creating so many bases from coast to coast and keeping them open so long. Even if the list survives the gauntlet that it must run, none of the bases may close until 1998 — if then.

There is no question that, beginning in World War II and continuing to the present, bases have proliferated out of any realistic relation to need. As is customary in government, opening new, essential facilities has rarely meant closing old, obsolete ones. The cost of duplication and over-capacity has been high. It is estimated that actually closing these few bases could save $1.6 billion. And there are many others that are ripe for mothballing.

Another round of closings should follow this one and has been discussed, but the pressures to keep bases open will begin anew. And the government has an even more disreputable reason than pork for resisting. Many bases are said to be massively polluted. So long as they remain under military jurisdiction, fewer environmental laws apply to them. But any attempt to sell the land to turn it to civilian uses could expose the federal government to prosecution for pollution and huge cleanup costs.

Still, the government must scale back its military expense. David Stockman, the former Reagan budget director, said publicly this week what most Americans have realized privately for a long time. For 40 years, but especially in the 1980s, the United States and the Soviet Union were on an arms race to bankruptcy. Luckily for us, the Soviets won. But only narrowly. Our deficit problems will be with us for a long time, and one large entry on the expense side has been military spending.

We cannot afford to become defenseless, of course. But the wastefulness of continuing operations that have outlived their usefulness can no longer be justified. Scattering bases hither and yon to please the constituents of powerful armed services committees must stop. Consolidation is needed. Manpower must be reduced. Weapons wish lists must be trimmed. The huge defense presence abroad must shrink.

Probably only a Republican administration can achieve the necessary savings. Happily, that's what we've got, and it should get on with the business of rationalizing and down-sizing defense. For starters, the president should approve these cuts and seek more.

Gates tolerated brutality

Four months ago a videotape shocked Los Angeles. It showed three white Los Angeles police officers beating and kicking a black man while he was down. It showed a large number of officers standing around watching the beating instead of trying to stop it. . . . Los Angeles Police Chief Daryl F. Gates called the episode an "aberration." But others wondered. Could an episode involving so many officers be a fluke or was the aberration that the beating was videotaped? Mayor Tom Bradley created a commission, headed by former Deputy U.S. Attorney General Warren Christopher, to investigate the Los Angeles Police Department and find out.

The report found that within the LAPD, there are a number of officers who repeatedly have been involved in brutality, racism and sexism. Judging by their derogatory comments and insulting slurs, these officers have a bad attitude about those whom they have chosen to protect and serve. Those officers represent a police culture gone sour — a "we/they" mentality marked by a distrust of the community that is downright anti-social.

Of course, all police departments are bound to end up with some bad apples. . . . But what was most chilling about the report wasn't that such officers existed — but how well they were treated. The department frequently failed to investigate plausible accusations against officers. Even when it did find wrongdoing, officers often escaped any real punishment. . . . It is Gates, after all, who over the past 13 years failed to set policies to effectively discourage violence and bigotry by his officers. From the top came the message that police misbehavior would be tolerated.

The only reason Gates has for hanging on is to save his own ego. Sadly, that huge creature is being massaged at the expense of the many men and women in blue who want a department that respects the people of Los Angeles and is respected by them in turn.

Stealing person's good reputation

WASHINGTON — The most villainous villain in all of Shakespeare, it is generally agreed, is the evil Iago in "Othello," but the dastard gets off one great line.

Good name in man and woman, says Iago, is the immediate jewel of their souls. "Who steals my purse steals trash, 'tis something, nothing." Then comes a truth for all ages: "But he that filches from me my good name/Robs me of that which not enriches him/And makes me poor indeed."

The familiar passage came to mind last month when the House Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs renewed its consideration of credit bureaus. Twenty years have passed since Congress enacted the Fair Credit Reporting Act. In these two decades the technology of credit reporting has gone almost literally from quill pen to computer chip.

In the process, the threat to individual reputations has mushroomed in the same way. Today the three dominant credit bureaus maintain dossiers on 90 percent of all adult Americans. A serious error in their reporting can effectively ruin my good name, or yours, or anyone's.

Rep. Esteban Torres, D-Calif., put it this way: "Under current law, the lives of consumers are an open book. Sensitive personal financial data is bought and sold without consumers' knowledge or consent; workers are denied employment or even blackballed because of information placed in their files; inaccurate credit information is difficult, if not impossible, to remove from a consumer's record."

The committee heard from witnesses who have experienced the consequences of error. One such witness may be identified as John Robert Doe. In January 1990 he was abruptly fired from his job with a cablevision company here in Washington.

In bewilderment he sought an explanation and at last received an answer. The company has an absolute policy against employing persons with a history of drug abuse. A check with one of the big-three bureaus let the company know that John Robert Doe had been convicted of possession of cocaine and sentenced to 12 months on probation. The credit bureau had "verified" this information by a cross-check of Doe's name and birthdate.

The information was totally false. Through human error, John Robert Doe, born March 17, 1954, had been confused with John Raymond Doe, born Dec. 15, 1963.

Even as to John Raymond Doe the information was seriously inaccurate. The two men had different Social Security numbers and different addresses. John Robert Doe is a black college graduate, married, underemployed, and "I have no idea when the erroneous report will return to haunt me."

John Robert Doe might as well be identified as Legion, for his name is many. The subcommittee's files bulge with personal experiences that might have come from the pen of Franz Kafka. This past April, Consumers Union arranged for 57 of its own employees, or their acquaintances, to obtain their credit reports. They sent the required fees, usually $15, to the big-three bureaus and received 161 reports in return.

Of the 161 reports, 48 percent contained inaccurate information. Nineteen percent contained a "major" inaccuracy, of sufficient gravity to result in denial of a job, a loan or a charge account. Under the law, individual credit reports are supposed to be made available only to companies that have a legitimate business need for the information. It was apparent that 27 percent of the reports had been seen by persons with no authority to see them.

In testimony before the subcommittee, a spokeswoman for Consumers Union acknowledged that a sample of 161 reports is too small for extrapolation into 400 million credit dossiers. One wonders all the same. The credit bureaus insist that the number of material inaccuracies is "infinitesimal," but it would be interesting to check a statistically valid sample of, say, 2,000 or 2,500 files.

The several bills now pending in the House subcommittee are intended to provide individual consumers with greater protection than they now enjoy. At the very least, amendments to the basic act should permit a citizen, on request, once a year to obtain a free and comprehensible copy of his own credit report.

I understand the importance of credit. It fuels our entire economy. But I also understand the meaning of power, and I know that the credit bureaus wield power that is awesome and often invisible. It is important that power be exercised, but it is even more important that power be restrained.

Water company explains policy

To the editor:

We read Mrs. Judy Shrum's letter in the mailbag section of the newspaper and we apologize for any inconvenience that has been placed on our valued customers. Before the implementation of the policy we took into consideration, our customers, and tried to come up with a solution that would satisfy all concerned.

Unfortunately, we are unable to please everyone but we truly believe that the majority of our customers appreciate the convenience the new policy has created at the drive thru window. It is a fact that TU Electric, Energas and Big Spring Cable give back change at the drive thru, but if it takes too long you have the liberty to get out of line and go inside. At the Water Department drive thru window, if you're in line, you may not remove your vehicle from the lane because of the ramp and rail.

We implore you, our valued customers, to understand we have and will continue to implement, develop and revise anything that will improve our public relation and rapport.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed:

Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes. They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered. Letters exceeding the 350-word limit will be cut.

They must be signed, free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign; candidates are allowed a single letter during a campaign. Letters listing numerous donors to projects are not published.

Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published.

Newspapers: Pluses, minuses

By BETTY JOHANSEN
Copy Editor

One day about a year ago my sister-in-law Terri called me to tell me she had noticed a job opening at the Big Spring Herald listed in the classifieds and I should take my resume and get down there. I told her there was no way. If I did something so foolhardy, having neither education nor experience in journalism, they would laugh in my face.

Like Charlie Brown's, my face doesn't like to be laughed in. But, on the other hand, Terri has never given me a bum steer and, since summers are lean for substitute teachers, I decided to take the chance.

I had to go home after my interview here with Karen McCarthy and admit to Terri that no one had laughed. Instead, I was hired and maybe I shouldn't have been so skeptical — my family's relationship with the Herald goes way back.

As long ago as I can remember, Daddy used to come home in the evenings and sit down with the newspaper. When his eyes failed him 12 or 14 years ago, one of the things he missed most was reading the newspaper every day.

I'm not sure Mother always managed to read the papers the day they came, but she went through them before they left the house. I know because she saved clippings. She had them everywhere, in scrapbooks, loose in cabinets, stuck between the pages of books.

She had newspaper clippings that span decades, stories about people she knew who married or died or left town or came back to town, such as Janice Boardman marrying Harold Rosson and Herman Smith being named head coach at Big Spring High School. One story clued me in on the fact that in 1951 Gene Puckett, a dear friend of our family, won the title "Picnic Queen for a Day." She received $250 as first prize in a picnic recipe contest.

Being firmly related to my Mother, I also have newspaper clippings everywhere, some filed and some waiting to be filed. One of the advantages newspapers have over radio and television is the fact that they provide their consumers with those clippings, pieces of history we can keep and read again in 10 years or 20 or 30. We can relive those moments of yesteryear or make discoveries about loved ones by seeing what articles they considered important enough to save.

On the other hand, I have been sorry to notice that many newspapers, like the rest of the media industry, have taken a distinct turn toward the left, all the while claiming to be objective. (A small town newspaper, such as the Herald, is less prone to bias since its goal is to cover local events. My following remarks do not apply to small dailies like ours, but to national papers that may influence our politicians.)

In his book "Free Speech or Propaganda?", Marlin Maddoux tells how he was beginning to be aware of a media bias several months before the May 1970 tragedy at Kent State. "Night after night I had seen the radicals who were calling for the destruction of America being paraded as heroes across my television screen," he writes. "They were given a national platform from which to spout forth their venom and disdain of our country and its institutions. . . ."

... something was wrong in the way the news media had played up these revolutionaries. They hadn't shown us both sides. By the sheer hours of coverage they gave to each little radical group, they were planting in the viewers' minds the idea that these were the true Americans. . . .

"Although I watched the evening news for years and years, I never saw the other side presented. . . ."

Maddoux reports on an article by John Corry, television critic for the New York Times. Apparently Corry believes the media bias is not intentional. It is "so inbred that the media elite truly believe they are being totally objective when, in fact, because of their liberal mindset, they are not even capable of fairness and objectivity."

An article in the May 1991 Reader's Digest says the consistent results of polls taken in the United States show that 90 percent of Americans have never doubted the existence of God. Seventy percent believe in life after death. And ninety percent say they pray. In the article, "The Things That Matter," Garry Willis says, "Nothing has been more stable in our history" than belief in God.

I have heard of polls where journalists are asked similar questions, and they expressed a much lower rate of belief in God and prayer. So it is not surprising that the media often reflect views opposed to religion and conservative values. What never fails to surprise me is that the press believe their own press; they honestly believe they are speaking for the masses.

Last week on his "Focus on the Family" radio program, Dr. James Dobson spoke to Gary Bauer of the Family Research Council in Washington, D.C., about the effort by pro-abortion forces to persuade Congress to reverse the recent ruling by the Supreme Court, making it unlawful for federally-supported clinics to recommend abortion. Bauer said the abortion camp has spent $5 million in the last few weeks buying ads in major newspapers: USA Today, The Wall Street Journal, The New York Times. Apparently, many Congressmen are being frightened away from their pro-life position by this advertising blitz.

I think Americans urgently need to contact their Congressmen and make it clear that the media do not necessarily speak for us. We need to delineate our views on issues that are important to us. That's how a republican form of government works. And if we fail to do it, "government of the people, by the people, and for the people" will perish from the United States.

Police banner offers blanket of security

DEAR ABBY: Last year, my sister gave me a large plastic "Please Call Police" banner, which I kept in the glove compartment of my car. She said it could be a lifesaver if I ever had car trouble on the road, because I could get help without putting myself in danger by having to leave my car to seek assistance.

Dear Abby

As the girl's parents did not consult me before inviting him, I am now in the position of being the mean mom if I refuse to let him go.

I took my car in for service a couple of weeks ago and had my banner folded in the glove compartment. When I went to pick up my car, the banner was gone.

When I asked my sister where she got hers, she said she had sent for it after reading a letter in your column from a woman whose car had broken down on a highway as she was rushing to the side of her critically ill child. She had placed her banner over her windshield, and it took only minutes for a state trooper to come to her aid.

As a registered nurse in the obstetrical unit that provides services for about 100 unwed teenage girls a week, I am very much aware of the dangers of allowing teen-agers to spend large amounts of time together unsupervised. His parents will be there, but I'm very uncomfortable about the closeness this kind of vacation will provide. Secondly, we have a 15-year-old daughter, and I can't afford to set this kind of precedent for a similar situation involving her.

I would like to replace that banner. Please tell me where I can get one. I am single and commute 300 miles every weekend. — CHARLOTTE B., LAS VEGAS, NEV.

And finally, our son has a summer job to pay for his clothes and books for college this fall, and a month's absence would significantly decrease his contribution to college financing.

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Write to WCIL-BANNERS, P.O. Box 66955, Los Angeles, Calif. 90066. You will receive one PLEASE CALL POLICE banner as a premium for a $5 contribution to WCIL, and another banner with each additional $4 contribution. (Many people want two, one for the windshield and one for the rear window.)

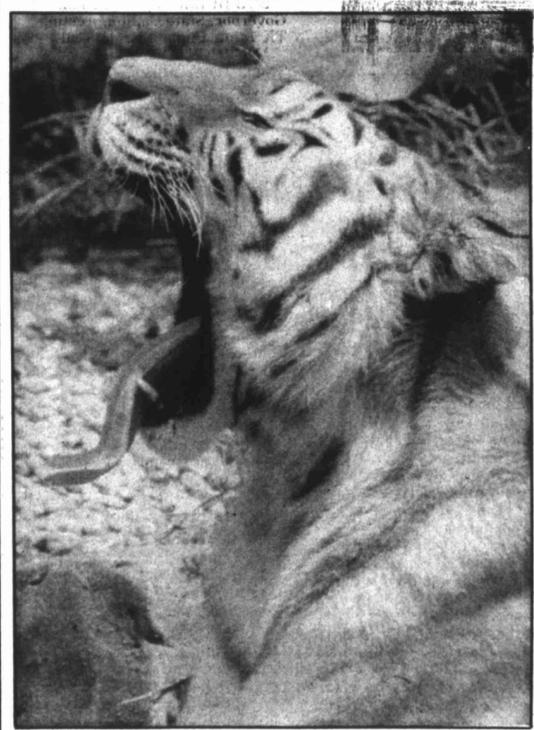

Needless to say, our once-quiet household is being torn apart by this situation. Please rush your reply. — CONCERNED MOM

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Please help! My 17-year-old son, who just graduated from high school, has been invited to accompany his girlfriend's family on a month-long vacation across the country.

DEAR CONCERNED: Remind your son that he agreed to work this summer to help with his college expenses, so he can forget about accompanying his girlfriend on her family's vacation trip. And don't be apologetic when you tell him. His girlfriend's parents should have consulted you before inviting him. At 17, he is still a minor.

Make your check or money order (U.S. funds only, please) payable to WCIL-BANNERS. Allow eight weeks for delivery. The Westside Center for Independent Living is a not-for-profit organization that helps disabled people live independently.

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Scenic Mountain honors Wolf

Shari Wolf, Scenic Mountain Medical Center Obstetrics Department LVN was the recipient of the "Star Performer" Award for July/August, according to Ed Cunningham, SMMC Executive Director. Shari has been an employee of SMMC for 2½ years. Her smile and positive attitude are just a part of what make her an asset to this hospital. Shari is constantly being praised by patients as the person who made their stay more enjoyable, as well as her co-workers for helping to boost employee morale. She is dedicated to her work and is always willing to go the extra mile. Shari is truly a "star performer."

Willingham doing "Charlie Brown," a second first place went to Mica Merrell and Whitney Bassham singing, "I want to be more like Jesus" second place went to Monica and Rita Orna, singing "Dancing Machine," third place went to Mandi Hogue doing "Straight Up" and fourth place went to Amanda and Melissa Rivera singing, "Release Me." All prizes were donated by Pizza Hut, Dairy Queen and Perry's. John Erwin was the emcee and Coley Ramage and Marilyn Kay served as judges.

The results of the volleyball tournament were first place, "Derricks Team." Made up of Derick and George Ramsey, Larry Paul Raschke and Chris Perkins. They won an "I Survived" T-shirt (in that heat, it was) second place — "Beach Burns" Dane and Tracy Hoover, Rose Mary Rosas and Ronald Appling, third place went to "US" Woody and Susan Anderson, Brian Bassham and Brice Webb. Eight teams were entered in this Gorilla Volleyball Tournament, which means almost no rules!

There were also pony rides and a petting zoo sponsored by the 4-H club.

To end a full and exciting day, many town members gathered at Ruddick Park to watch the fireworks brought by the Colorado City Fire Department.

Spring board

How's that?

Q. Is Washington D.C. the only capital the United States has ever had?

A. According to North American Precip Syndicate Inc., two other capitals preceded the District of Columbia: New York and Philadelphia.

Calendar

TODAY

- The City of Big Spring Clean Team will be working in District 7 through Friday. If you have articles to be picked up, call the city at 263-8311.
- There will be gospel singing at 7 p.m. at the Kentwood Center on Lynn Drive. Everyone welcome. For more information call 393-5709.
- There will be a Howard County Lioness Club meeting at 7 p.m. in the Wesley United Methodist Church Memorial Hall, East 12th and Owens.

TUESDAY

- Spring Tabernacle Church, 1209 Wright St., has free milk and bread to give to the area needy from 10 a.m. to noon.
- The Coahoma Senior Center Project will have their monthly pot-luck luncheon at noon at the Coahoma Community Center.
- A.M.A.C. (Adults Molested As Children) will meet at 5:15 p.m. in the Saint Mary's Episcopal Church library, 1001 Goliad. Anyone interested must call first — Dr. Federman or Dawn Pearson at 267-8216 ext. 287.
- The Parenting Support Group will meet at 7 p.m. at the Howard County Mental Health Center. This group provides support and parent education to assist parents in coping effectively with the management of their children and teenagers. Anyone interested must call first to schedule an orientation interview — John McGuffey or Dawn Garrett at 267-8216 ext. 287.
- There will be a Desert Storm Support Group meeting at 7 p.m. in the Scenic Mountain Medical Center cafeteria.
- The Big Spring Art Association will meet at 7 p.m. at the Kentwood Senior Citizens Center, 2905 Lynn Drive. There will be a watercolor demonstration by Hoyt Mulanax.
- The senior citizens of Colorado City will serve as hosts for a dance from 7:30-10:30 p.m. at the Civic Center in Colorado City. The Porky Proctor Band will perform. Area seniors are invited.

Summer school classes coming to an end Friday

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Summer school classes are winding to a close, and more than 350 students participated in the programs, scheduled to conclude Friday.

Murray Murphy, assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction, said the summer school programs were offered for many different grade levels.

"All the classes were remediation except for grades nine through 12. Seventy-five to 80 percent of those students were taking classes to get ahead," Murphy said.

The high school classes were offered in two sessions, three weeks in length. Popular classes for the students were government and economics, as well as English, he said.

"They take those to keep from taking them their senior year," Murphy said.

About 110 students per semester attended the courses at the high school.

The Youth Tutoring Youth program funded by the Job Training Partnership Act served about 70 kindergarten through third-grade students, he said. The program is in its third year in Big Spring.

Fourth-grade students received Texas Assessment of Academic Skills Test remediation, a new program for the district. These 40 students failed the third-grade TAAS test, and the district offered remediation free of charge to help the students.

The Personalized Achievement Center had 15 students studying for their high school equivalency diplomas this summer. PAC offers classes to students age 16-18 who wish to finish high school.

The middle school summer program offered remediation for about 40 students in the sixth through eighth grades. Classes included math and language arts.

Driver's education found 165 students learning to drive this summer. About 150 students will complete the program, said Howard Stewart, transportation director. The other students moved away after completing the classroom portion of the course, but the work will transfer to any school in Texas, he said.

Big Spring is the only district in the area that offers summer school for students and serves Coahoma and Forsan districts as well. Less than 5 percent of the students enrolled were out-of-district, Murphy said.

Searching for a time capsule

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

A former Big Spring resident searched for buried treasure over the weekend, but the elusive riches remain hidden from sight in a field in the southern part of the city.

James Harris, 61, who now lives in Westminster, Calif., said this is the third time he's dug for the treasure he and two childhood friends buried during World War II.

"I had been to a movie and saw a newsreel about some place that had buried a time capsule. I thought it was a good thing to do. T.L. (Cannon) and I stayed up all night at the tree house and the next day we decided to bury our own," Harris said.

Harris, along with brothers T.L. and Carrol Cannon, dug a hole about 10 feet square and 6 feet deep near a tree house on land owned by Harris' relatives. Each boy buried a glass jar filled with what the then-14-year-old boys thought would be in a time capsule.

"We figured to uncover it 15 years later," Harris said.

But now, more than 47 years later, the jars are still buried.

Harris searched in 1964 and again in 1967, all to no avail. This trip's dig was cut short due to Friday's rain, and Harris left for California Saturday with the treasure still underground.

"I'm stumped because it was either 10 steps or 10 paces from the tree house," Harris said. The tree house and the tree in which it was built are no longer standing, but Harris has located a stump he is sure was the large mesquite tree the boys used as a landmark.

"I remember we were trying to be unique when we hid it. We started out from the tree, but by the end of the day when it had gotten so hot we moved toward the tree to get in the shade," Harris said.

The boys each buried their own treasure in their jars. Harris said he doesn't know what went into the Cannon brothers' time capsule, but he put newspapers and magazines about the war in his, as well as current coins, a zinc penny used during the 1940s, a dime dated sometime in the 1800s and perhaps a rare half-dollar.

"We didn't bury them all together — it seems like we separated them 8 to 10 feet from each other. I've dug down 3 to 4 feet and found pieces of glass and hunks of rock that weren't supposed to be there," Harris said. The boys covered the jars with trash, rocks and glass before completely burying the site, he said.

Harris said he continues searching for the site because of the adventure of the dig.

"It's a challenge to me to refine it. I'm curious how it withstood all this time. It's the moment of the thing — just because it's there.

"This site is on private property, so anyone will have to get permission to dig. I want it donated to the (Heritage) museum and let the museum open it. I hope the newspaper or the museum might set up a reward for finding it and turning it in unopened," Harris said.

He asked that the location of the dig not be revealed without permission from the landowners and without the museum's knowledge of excavating.

James Harris, former Big Spring resident, digs in a field south of Big Spring for a "time capsule" he and his boyhood friends buried during World War II. Harris returned to his home in California without finding the treasure.

Session

layoffs, agency mergers, and fee increases has been slammed hard by agency chiefs, higher education officials, and human service representatives.

But Sharp remains optimistic. "It's probably the last time in my lifetime that we are going to have the planets lined up ... to make it work. The document was well-researched and it's pretty hard to attack on its merits."

Key lawmakers, however, have said the most that is politically possible to pass is $3 billion worth of Sharp's plan.

And some lawmakers also say that bridging the shortfall to continue current services is not enough. The "real" shortfall, they say, is between $6 billion and $7 billion to pay for additional programs. Texas already ranks among the lowest in the nation in most human service categories.

Speaker Lewis says he will push for a state lottery, which would produce about $450 million. A move to place the question of whether to establish a state lottery before voters failed in the House during the regular session by 10 votes.

Richards, Bullock and Lewis have reportedly agreed that Texas' franchise tax on business should be changed because it is outdated. Sharp has recommended repealing the franchise tax and replacing it with a tax on profits that allows deductions for major expenses.

Also thrown into this maelstrom is a plan by Richards that would give her and future governors the power to hire and fire directors of major areas of government. Currently, the governor of Texas, unlike most states, has only indirect authority over state agencies.

Richards says the authority is needed to hold agencies more accountable for the money they spend and services they deliver.

Almost lost in the debate has been a blue-ribbon committee recommendation to pass a state income tax.

District's bond rating to be maintained

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

An "A" bond rating for the Colorado River Municipal Water District is expected to be maintained in an updated rating survey for a $115 million water-delivery pipeline project from Lake O.H. Ivie to Midland, water district Manager Owen Ivie said.

Officials from two major national bonding firms are in West Texas this week to make visits to the site of the proposed 155-mile pipeline and to hear presentations from the water district, Ivie said. The district is "very healthy financially," he said.

"We expect to maintain our 'A' bond rating," he said. "To maintain it is very positive, with the Texas economy the way it is for the last 10 years."

The new bond rating will be included in a prospectus that will go to possible bidders for bonds to fund the project, Ivie said. "We will insure the bonds and they will sell as triple 'A' bonds," he said. "We're anticipating an interest (rate) of 7 percent."

Moody's Investors Service Inc. was scheduled to hear a presentation at a 1 p.m. meeting today in the water district's office in Big Spring, Ivie said. Standard is scheduled to hear a presentation Wednesday at 1 p.m.

Meanwhile, the survey for the proposed pipeline is about two-thirds complete and may be finished by mid-September, Ivie said. Construction of the pipeline is projected to be complete by the end of 1994.

"We hope to award contracts for the construction of the pipeline somewhere about the latter part of February," he said.

The pipeline will have the capacity to deliver 90-million gallons of water a day, of which 25 million will be allocated to San Angelo, 20 million to Midland and 35 million to the water district, Ivie said. Along with six pump stations and a 100-million gallon storage lake at the end of the line, there will be a juncture for a future pipeline to Big Spring.

San Angelo and Midland will fund 38.5 percent of the construction, while the water district will fund 61.5 percent, Ivie said.

Lake Ivie has been filling with water since last year following the completion of its construction.

Decision will toss question back to courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Billions of dollars in federal money and potential shifts in state and national political power are at stake today as the Commerce secretary decides whether to scrap last year's census head count in favor of population estimates.

The government has never jettisoned official census numbers in the 200 years that it has been counting Americans.

The alternative to the head count is an estimate that comes from a survey of 165,000 households conducted by the government about the time of the census. It is commonly believed that the head count census missed millions of people whose existence was verified in the survey.

By the Census Bureau's own estimate, the count of 248.7 million is too low by 5.3 million people.

Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher was under a court order to decide by today if the government will use the estimated instead of the actual 1990 census count to determine how many representatives each state sends to Congress.

There's a lot at stake for the cities and states. A low population count translates into a loss of billions of federal dollars and a decade of diminished political clout.

The year before the census was taken, 45 federal programs distributed more than $17 billion in aid based on the count, congressional auditors said.

More than 30 governments, organizations and individuals representing big cities and populous states have filed suit in New York to force federal officials to correct the 1990 census. By the Census Bureau's own estimate, the count of 248.7 million is too low by 5.3 million people.

The bureau in June said it missed an estimated 560,000 people in Texas, which would raise the state count from 16.9 million to 17.5 million.

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales has threatened to file a $1 billion lawsuit if the Census Bureau fails to adjust for the undercount. Morales estimates that a failure to account for the missing Texans could cost the state $1 billion in federal aid for the decade.

Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, has filed legislation that would require the Census Bureau to identify and correct the 1990 census to make up for the thousands of people missed during the national count.

But other lawsuits, like one filed by Wisconsin, ask the courts to forbid any adjustment of the census numbers. Wisconsin would lose a congressional district if the adjustment were made.

Under a court order in the New York suit, Mosbacher could correct the census if the government could prove the population estimates were more accurate than the census count, not just for the nation as a whole but for small cities and even neighborhoods.

Attorneys on either side are poised to demand a quick judicial response, whichever way Mosbacher decides.

If he decides to keep the census count, "we'll go back to court," said David Goldin, assistant corporation counsel for New York City, an advocate of correcting the numbers. "We'll ask the court to order that the census be corrected."

The programs funded with use of population figures cut across the range of American life.

companies whether they wanted to renew it or not," he said.

Larson Lloyd, manager of Big Spring Cable TV, said customer demand was the reason for the decision not to offer MTV locally.

"There was a lot of publicity (by the Big Spring Herald) that was very negative toward us, but even with that we only heard from 40 or 50 people," he said. "It was 10 to 1 letters and comments in favor of what we did."

Oppel said the decision against MTV in some areas may have been based on lack of necessary equipment.

"It may have been a problem with technology," Oppel said. "Some franchises just don't have the equipment to offer the network on an option basis." Lloyd said the local company has equipment available to offer MTV on an option basis, but it would not be economically feasible.

In areas where MTV will be available, customers who choose to block it from their homes will not save money, Oppel said.

A renewed contract agreement was announced Friday between MTV, a division of Viacom International Inc., and TCA. In the local area, MTV was removed from basic cable service June 30. When TCA announced it was removing the music video channel, the company cited customer complaints about the content of videos, and officials said they wanted MTV offered as an option for customers.

Locally, MTV was replaced by E-TV, Entertainment Television. Lloyd said the new channel has drawn both support and complaints.

"But I haven't heard a lot either way," he said. "I think E-TV has been overshadowed by all this other stuff."

Masons honor Big Spring police chief

Members of the Staked Plains Masonic Lodge No. 598 honored Big Spring Police Chief Joe Cook as their choice for Citizen of the Year.

This is the first year that the award has been given, said Masonic past master Bill McDonald. The award is given to a member of the community who is a non-Mason and has displayed exemplary character by his actions.

Cook, with his family, was on hand to receive the award Friday night.

Cook is a veteran of naval service in Vietnam. Following this and college, he spent 10 years with the FBI in California. He worked in the state comptroller's office before coming to Big Spring in January 1987.

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- A 25-year-old woman was arrested for possession of a controlled substance in the 1300 block of Colby Lane.

- Three young people were arrested at Comanche Trail Park for possession of a controlled substance and minor in possession of alcohol. The youths, ages 16 and 17, were believed to be in possession of marijuana.

- An aggravated assault was reported in the 2300 block of Gregg. A man said another man pointed a small black revolver at him.

- Theft of a lawn mower was reported in the 1500 block of Wood.

- A videocassette recorder and several taped movies were reported stolen from a home in the 1400 block of Princeton.

- A hit-and-run accident was reported in the 700 block of San Antonio. The car, driven by Martha Fina Lopez, 19, 411 N. Scurry, hit a chain link fence, made a U-turn and struck the curb, then crossed the sidewalk and struck a parked car. Alcohol use was cited as a contributing factor, and Lopez was cited for public intoxication.

- Burglary of a home was reported in the 2600 block of Carol. A VCR, television set and stereo were among items taken.

- A tan Oldsmobile was reportedly involved in a hit-and-run accident in the 1800 block of Gregg.

- A 25-year-old woman was arrested for possession of controlled substances. Her bond was set at $3,000.

- A 34-year-old man was arrested for driving while intoxicated.

Ziegler easily wins Seniors play

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Larry Ziegler shot a 5-under-par 67 for a six-stroke victory Sunday with a tournament-record total of 17-under 199 in the Newport Seniors Cup.

Mansell wins Grand Prix

SILVERSTONE, England (AP) — Nigel Mansell of Britain sped away from the field Sunday to capture the British Grand Prix by 42 seconds over Gerhard Berger for his second Formula One victory in eight days.

Mansell, who had won the French Grand Prix a week earlier, led for all but the opening 45 seconds. No other car could match the speed of his Williams-Renault, which repeatedly set lap records.

Defending world champion Ayrton Senna, driving a McLaren-Honda, was second for nearly the entire race but ran out of fuel on the last lap and dropped to fourth.

Rahal wins Marlboro race

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Bobby Rahal, driving a Chevrolet-powered Lola, raced to a 6.954-second victory over teammate Al Unser Jr. in the Marlboro Grand Prix at the Meadowlands on Sunday.

Rahal, who has 20 career victories and three at the Meadowlands, took the lead with 89 of 150 laps remaining on the 1.217-mile, six-turn circuit and dashed off to margins as large as 14.9 seconds by lap 126.

Pole-winner Rick Mears was third, followed by John Andretti. Rahal leads the points standings with 125 through nine of 17 races.

Belmont guard charged with cruelty

BELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — A Belmont security guard accused of bashing three horses in the face with a stick and throwing bleach that damaged one animal's eyes has been arrested on a charge of cruelty to animals, police said.

Terrance Knight, 18, told police at the time of his arrest Sunday he was petting the horses and they nipped at him, said Nassau County detective Dennis Aylward.

The injured animals — Slew's Ghost, West Texas Wind and Lord Charles — were placed under the care of a veterinarian. The seriousness of their injuries was not immediately known, Aylward said.

Each of the animals sustained injuries to its face, as the result of being hit with a stick. Slew's Ghost also had bleach thrown in his face, causing chemical burns and damage to his eyes, Aylward said.

Knight was charged with cruelty to animals and was expected to be arraigned today at First District Court.

Giants sign tight end

NEW YORK (AP) — Tight end Zeke Mowatt, waived last week by the New England Patriots, has agreed to terms with the New York Giants according to a published report. New York Newsday reported in today's editions that Mowatt, one of the players implicated in the sexual harassment of Lisa Olson when she was a reporter for the Boston Herald, will report to the Giants late tonight or early Tuesday.

Internationals eliminate Nationals

By STEVE REAGAN Staff Writer

MIDLAND — The International League All-Stars found happiness in twos, scoring twice in the first, third and sixth innings en route to a 10-3 victory over the Big Spring National All-Stars in a District III Little League Tournament elimination game Sunday.

The IL stars advance to face Odessa Sherwood Monday at 6 p.m. In other Sunday elimination games, Midland Eastern defeated Lamesa 15-8, El Paso downed Midland Western 16-6 and Sherwood beat Odessa Floyd Gwinn 7-6.

The Internationals took advantage of nine hits and three National errors to score their runs. That was more than enough cushion for IL starter Joe Montez, who limited the NL to four hits while striking out eight and walking seven.

Blake Hull, the first of three National League pitchers, took the loss.

Winning manager Randy Gee said his team responded well to Thursday's loss to Midland Mid-City and two consecutive rain postponements.

"I was a little worried... because of the rain delays, but the kids came together," Gee said. "I've got 14 players who could start for almost any other team. They've been coming through all year, and that's what they did today."

NL manager David Roman said a lack of hitting hamstrung his team.

"We really felt like hitting was going to be our strong suit, but we never got untracked," he said. "We never really had a big inning. (The

The Internationals struck for two runs in their first at-bat. With one out, Brad Cox hit a bloop over the first baseman's head for a single, stole second and went to third on John Morelion's groundout before scoring on a wild pitch. The Nationals had a chance to get out of the inning with only that one run, but third baseman Gilbert Yanez dropped Edward Aguilar's pop.

Cody Peugh followed with a single and Gilbert Morales drove Aguilar home with a base hit to left.

The IL chased Hull with two quick runs in the third. With one out and Morelion on first, Aguilar jumped on a Hull fastball for a two-run homer to deep center, giving the IL a 4-0 lead.

They padded that lead with three more runs in the fourth off reliever Justin Myers. With two outs and two on, Aguilar slapped a single to left scoring Cox. Josh Palmer's throw to the infield was wild, allowing Morelion to come home, making the score 6-0. Aguilar scored the final run of the inning when Joe Mata reached on an error.

The Nationals broke their scoring drought in the bottom of the fourth when Palmer walked, went to second on a passed ball, third on an error and home on a wild pitch.

The IL added another run in the fifth on Montez's RBI single and two in the sixth on two walks, a single and a groundout to make the score 10-1.

Montez suffered some wildness in the final inning and the Nationals took advantage of four walks and an error to score twice. But with one out and the bases full, Montez struck out Jarrod Spears and forced Kaegan Welch to ground to first to end the game.

Mallon wins U.S. Open

FORT WORTH (AP) — Not so long ago, a smiling, friendly, light-hearted young lady named Meg Mallon was just another freckle-nosed face on the LPGA golf circuit, a fair golfer with a nice swing and no victories.

Today she's the U.S. Women's Open champion and a budding superstar.

"It's overwhelming," Mallon, 28, grinned after she gunned down two of the game's premier players in a tense Sunday showdown and escaped with her second major title in two weeks. It was her third LPGA victory of the year.

"When you're on a roll, you're on a roll," she said after firing a 4-under-par 67 in the final round to overtake Pat Bradley and Amy Alcott and secure the $110,000 top prize by two shots.

The 67 matched her closing round two weeks ago when she won the LPGA Championship at Bethesda, Md., in a similar shootout with Bradley and Ayako Okamoto.

Sunday's victory shoved her into second place on the money list with $420,773.

Bradley, the 1981 Open champion, and Alcott, the 1980 Open winner, matched Colonial's demanding par 71 while Kean finished with a 70.

Bradley seized the runner-up $55,000 prize at 285 while Alcott was third at 286 and Kean fourth at 287. Joan Pitcock, the co-leader with Bradley after three rounds, fired a 72 and fell back to 289.

Mallon, playing ahead of Bradley and Alcott, caught the leaders with a 21-foot birdie putt on the 11th hole, kept pace with a 25-foot birdie putt at No. 14 and moved ahead with a 30-footer at 15.

At the 16th tee, she said, she did not know whether she was ahead or behind and did not want to know for fear of adding to the pressure.

"I made a conscious effort not to look at the scoreboard," she said. "Then some little kid told me I was a shot ahead... When I heard that, I got a little nervous."

She rescued par on the par 3 16th with the "putt of the tournament," a sidehill 3 1/2-footer, easily parred the last two holes and watched via neither

Bradley nor Alcott could mount a rally.

"I have nothing to be ashamed of," said Bradley, who retained her position as the year's leading money winner. "I played well, played steady, all week. Somebody made a few more birdies, but that's just the name of the game..."

"They haven't seen the last of me yet."

49ers lose running back

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Francisco 49ers' quest for a successor to Roger Craig as a heavy-duty running back was set back Saturday when the team learned that rookie Ricky Waters will be out six to eight weeks with a broken right foot.

Waters, a second-round pick from Notre Dame, was injured Friday during the team's first workout in pads. He twisted the foot as he turned and planted to try to gain more yardage.

Initially, the injury was diagnosed as a severe sprain. But X-rays showed that Waters broke the fifth metatarsal bone in his right foot.

Both running backs drafted by the 49ers have been injured. Sheldon Canley, a seventh-round pick from San Jose State, strained his right hamstring Thursday and could miss up to three weeks. The two had been expected to compete with Dexter Carter for the position, left vacant by the departure of Craig as a Plan B free agent to the Los Angeles Raiders.

Carter, Keith Henderson and free agent acquisitions James Gray and Adam Walker have been in camp since Thursday's opening. Other veteran running backs on the roster are Harry Sydney, starting fullback Tom Rathman and Spencer Tillman.

The 49ers also announced they had released defensive end Sean Smith, signed in the off-season as a free agent.

UGSA All-Star teams hanging tough in tourney

SAN ANGELO — All four of the Big Spring United Girls Softball Association All-Star teams are still in the hunt to reach the championship round of the all-star tournament here.

DIVISION I The Big Spring Division I All-Stars ran their tournament record to 4-0 by taking wins over Brownwood and Andrews Sunday.

In their first game Sunday, the Division I All-Stars defeated Brownwood 17-3. Chrissy Meikle got the win in three innings work. She fanned all nine batters. Amy Jackson relieved her.

Meikle helped her own cause with a homer, as did Monica Rubio. In the second game Big Spring defeated Andrews 11-5 behind the pitching of Nicole Yanez and Meikle. Leading hitters were Amy Lang, Meikle, Rubio and Yanez.

DIVISION II The Big Spring Division II All-Stars head into Monday's play with a 4-1 record, tied with Andrews and Fort Stockton.

In their first game Sunday the Division II All-Stars defeated Brownwood 16-1 with Melissa Martinez getting the win. She was relieved by Amanda Alvarez.

Heather Spence and Mandy Morrow led Big Spring with a single and double each. Jessica Cobos, Martinez and Sherry Burdette doubled, and Erica Lansperry added a triple.

Playing well defensively were Alvarez at first base, Cobos, at shortstop, Mandy Lance in center field and Kara Hughes at catcher.

The Division II All-Stars lost their first game of the tournament, dropping a 10-4 decision to Snyder. Spence started for Big Spring and took the loss. She was followed by Alvarez and Martinez.

Martinez led the Big Spring bats with two doubles. Cobos singled and tripled and Spence singled.

DIVISION III After winning two games Saturday, the Big Spring Division III All-Stars ran into some tough luck Sunday, dropping two close decisions.

In their first game Sunday, the Division III All-Stars were beaten by San Angelo 6-5 in extra innings. The game was tied 5-5 at the end of six innings and the one hour, 30 minutes time limit. San Angelo won the game in the seventh.

Ginny Conaway started for Big Spring and went the first three innings. When she left the score was tied 3-3. Jackie Martinez pitched the last four innings and took the loss.

Top hitters for Big Spring were Robbi Hall, Conaway, Stephanie Green and Debbie Cunningham.

In their second game Sunday, Brownwood scored 11 unanswered runs to beat Big Spring 14-11, dropping Big Spring to 2-2 in tournament play.

Conaway started for Big Spring and pitched the first four innings. She was relieved by Martinez with Big Spring leading 11-3. Martinez was replaced by Amy Jackson.

Getting two hits each for Big Spring were Sandy Franco, Hall, Kathy McGee, Conaway, Martinez and Green.

DIVISION IV

The Division IV All-Stars go into Monday's competition with a 3-1 tournament record.

In their first game, Snyder thumped Big Spring 19-5.

In the second game Karma Morrow, Heather James and Shonda Wilson combined to pitch a no-hitter as Big Spring dominated Sweetwater 10-0. Morrow got the win, pitching the first four innings.

Jo Ann Rodriguez paced Big Spring with a double and triple. Amber Fannin and Christy Hull added singles.

In their third game, Big Spring defeated Andrews 15-2 as Morrow, James and Wilson combined for a one-hitter. Morrow started and was credited with the win.

Morrow and Fannin paced Big Spring with three hits each, including a double. Melissa Yanez singled and doubled, Rachel Ortega got two doubles and Rodriguez and Hull got two singles. Also getting hits were James, Toka Friday, Chris Pesina, Eva Berma and Wilson.

In their fourth game Big Spring knocked San Angelo from the unbeaten ranks with a 5-3 victory as Morrow and James combined to hurl a one-hitter. Morrow started and got the win, going the first four innings. James pitched the last three innings.

Fannin led the Big Spring hitting with two triples. Yanez, Pesina and Marissa Deleon all singled.

After Monday's round, the top two teams in each division with the best record will play in the finals for the championship.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

Dodgers lose fourth straight

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
The two best teams in the National League West still haven't won a game after the All-Star break.

National League

The first-place Los Angeles Dodgers lost four straight in Montreal, including a doubleheader on Sunday, while the Reds lost four in a row to Pittsburgh at Cincinnati. All this means the Dodgers still have their five-game lead over Cincinnati.

While the Dodgers and Reds are 0-8 since the start of the second half, the Pirates and Mets are a combined 7-1.

Pittsburgh, first in the East, completed its sweep by rallying for a 10-6 victory on homers by Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla.

Bonds hit a two-run homer — his third of the series — and sparked a five-run sixth inning with an RBI double that tied the score at 3. Mike LaValliere followed with a two-run double off reliever Randy Myers to send the Reds to their season-high sixth straight loss.

Bonilla, who was 4-for-4, hit a two-run homer in the ninth off Don Carman.

Expos 3, Dodgers 2

Expos 7, Dodgers 4
Delino DeShields had three hits and scored twice as the Montreal beat slumping Los Angeles in the second game to sweep the doubleheader. It was the first time the Expos have ever swept a four-game series from the Dodgers.

Oil Can Boyd combined with two other relievers on a seven-hitter to lead Montreal in the opener.

Cubs 4, Astros 3
Part-time starter Mike Bielecki won his team-high 10th game on as Chicago took three of four from Houston at Wrigley Field.

George Bell's double capped a three-run third inning off Darryl Kile (3-3), giving the left fielder seven RBIs in the four-game series.

Padres 2, Mets 1

San Diego right-hander Greg Harris stopped the Mets on one hit — a leadoff double by Mackey Sasser in the eighth — in 8 1-3 innings as the Padres snapped New York's 10-game winning streak.

Braves 2, Cardinals 1

All-Star game starter Tom Glavine pitched a six-hitter for his 13th victory as Atlanta completed a four-game sweep of visiting St. Louis. The slumping Cardinals have lost seven of their last eight games and seven in a row to the Braves.

Giants 17, Phillies 5

Will Clark drove in seven runs, including a grand slam, and had five hits as San Francisco routed Philadelphia.

McDowell tosses one-hitter at Brewers

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
The first one-hitter of Jack McDowell's career wasn't exactly a nailbiter.

American League

McDowell gave up a leadoff home run to Paul Molitor in the first inning, then pitched hitless ball the rest of the way Sunday as the Chicago White Sox routed the Milwaukee Brewers 15-1 behind four RBIs from rookie Warren Newson.

Molitor's home run was his 10th this season. It was fourth time this year and the 31st time in his career he led off a game with a home run. "One fastball that got away," McDowell said. "It was the only big mistake I made all day."

Royals 18, Tigers 4

Brian McRae and Mike Macfarlane each hit two of Kansas City's club-record six home runs. The visiting Royals had a season-high 21 hits as George Brett and Todd Benzinger also homered.

McRae drove in six runs, four with his first grand slam, in the first multiple-homer game of his career. Macfarlane also had his first multi-homer game and matched his career high with five RBIs.

Athletics 3, Orioles 2

Tom Gordon (5-7) was the winner and Luis Aquino got his second save. Bill Gullickson (11-5) was the loser.

The visiting Orioles took a 2-1 lead in the 11th on Chris Hoiles's two-out, RBI single off Todd Burns (1-0).

Gregg Olson (1-4) blew his fifth save in 24 chances as pinch-hitter Jamie Quirk and Rickey Henderson singled with one out and moved up on a two-out wild pitch before Canseco's hit.

Rangers 8, Blue Jays 6

Texas survived two homers and three RBIs by Joe Carter and a late Toronto rally to avoid a sweep, snapping the Blue Jays' six-game winning streak.

Ruben Sierra singled, doubled and drove in two runs, Brian Downing had a pair of doubles and scored twice, and Juan Gonzalez hit a two-run homer to key a three-run fifth inning for Texas. The Rangers, who beat Jimmy Key (10-4), had lost the first three games of the series at the SkyDome.

But Toronto, which had won 11 of 12, made it difficult by scoring three runs in the eighth. Carter homered with one out off John Barfield (4-3), his second of the game and 21st of the season.

Jeff Russell, the fourth Texas pitcher of the inning, got its final out and worked a perfect ninth for his 18th save.

Mariners 14, Indians 3

Edgar Martinez and Scott Bradley had four hits each as Seattle prevented visiting Cleveland from winning consecutive games for the first time since June 1-3. The Indians have lost 28 of 34.

Red Sox 5, Twins 3

Joe Hesketh won as a starter for the first time since June 28, 1986, when he beat Pittsburgh for Montreal. Luis Rivera had three hits and scored three runs at the Metrodome as Boston stopped a four-game losing streak.

Hesketh (3-1), making just his fourth start since 1986, allowed seven hits in seven innings and Jeff Reardon pitched an inning for his 22nd save.

Angels 10, Yankees 2

Bobby Rose hit a two-run double in the fourth as California got 15 hits and stopped a seven-game losing streak.

The Angels, who had scored just one run in 41 innings, tied the score 1-1 in the bottom of the first and went ahead in the third.

Chuck Finley (13-4) became the American League's first 13-game winner, allowing both runs and nine hits.

Big Spring 7, Andrews 3

In tournament (ages 14-15), the Big Spring team made it to the finals via taking a 7-3 win over Andrews Sunday afternoon.

Todd Parrish and Wes Hughes combined to three-hit Andrews. Parrish started and got the win, allowing three runs on three hits in three innings. Hughes pitched no-hit ball the last four innings.

Big Spring took control of the game early, scoring four times in the first inning. They added a run in the second, a run in the fifth and another run in the sixth.

Hughes led the Big Spring hitting attack with a four-for-four performance at the plate. He hit three singles and a triple. Second baseman David Akin was another top hitter for Big Spring.

Again catcher Brandon Hamblin had a good game, throwing out a

SENIOR LEAGUE

MIDLAND — In Senior League play (ages 14-15) at the District III tournament in Midland, the Big Spring International All-Stars were eliminated by El Paso 6-3, Sunday.

Mike Smith took the loss for Big Spring. The Internationals ended the tournament in fourth place.

On Saturday afternoon in Big Spring, the Big Spring Internationals eliminated the Big Spring Nationals from the tournament with a 6-0 victory. The game was moved to Big Spring because of wet fields in Big Spring.

Michael Paul Martinez was the winning pitcher for Big Spring. He went the distance, pitching a four-hitter.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

In District III Junior League (age 13), the Big Spring Internationals were eliminated by dropping a 5-1 decision to Midland Nationals.

Mark Holland pitched a two-hitter against the Internationals. The Internationals finished fifth in the tournament.

The Big Spring Big League All-Stars, the International Yankees, begin tournament action tonight by playing Coahoma at 8 at Hogan Field.

Favorites win figure skating competition at Festival

LOS ANGELES (AP) — America's top figure skating team survived a spill Sunday to win the U.S. Olympic Festival gold medal, while a new scoring system left two boxers puzzled and local swimmers dominated their sport.

The second day of the festival saw competition in 19 events, ranging from freestyle wrestling to rhythmic gymnastics. The festival continues through July 21 at sites in and around Los Angeles.

Natasha Kuchiki of Canoga Park, Calif., and Todd Sand of Costa Mesa, Calif., won as expected in figure skating. The pair, who finished third at the World Championships earlier this year, overcame a fall by Sand in the final moments of their free skating routine.

Calla Urbanski of Chicago and Rocky Marval of New Egypt, N.J., won the silver medal, with the bronze going to Tristen Vega of Torrance, Calif., and Richard Alexander of Simi Valley, Calif.

The ladies' title went to 13-year-old Nicole Bobek of Chicago, who held on to the lead she had taken during the original program Saturday. Bobek was coming off a concussion she sustained during a practice 11 days ago.

Tonia Kwiatkowski of Broadview

Heights, Ohio, won the silver medal. The bronze went to 12-year-old Joanna Ng of Woodland Hills, Calif.

National champion Todd Eldridge of Chatham, Mass., outclassed the field in winning the gold medal in the men's competition. Aren Nielsen of Kansas City, Mo., finished second and Colin Vanderveen of Marietta, Ga., won the bronze medal.

The ice dancing gold went to U.S. champions Elizabeth Punsalan of Sheffield Lake, Ohio, and Jerod Swallow of Northville, Minn. They had been second after Saturday's compulsories.

In boxing, both the winner and loser questioned the new electronic scoring system after Kenneth Friday of the Air Force beat Julian Wheeler of the Navy 10-9 in a 125-pound semifinal.

With the new system, being used for the first time in the United States, all five ringside judges press a button when they see a boxer land a scoring blow. In order for a point to be counted, three of the five judges must recognize the same punch and push their buttons within a one-second span.

Meanwhile, two national champions were beaten and four advanced to the finals Tuesday night.

U.S. champion Vernon Forrest of Augusta, Ga., lost to Terronn Millett of St. Louis in a 139-pound match. Millett came out with a flurry of punches and dropped Forrest at the 2:10 of the first round. The fight was stopped by the referee after a standing eight count.

At 178 pounds, reigning champion Terry McGroom of Chicago lost to John Ruiz of Chelsea, Mass., 24-18. Ruiz has been fighting only two years.

The national champions who advanced were Tim Austin of Cincinnati at 112 pounds, Ivan Robinson of Philadelphia at 125, Raul Marquez of Houston at 156 and super heavyweight Larry Donald of Cincinnati.

In swimming, Steve West of Huntington Beach, Calif., set his second festival record in as many days by winning the 200-meter breaststroke wire to wire in a time of 2:18.12.

West, at 19 the oldest swimmer in the meet, had set the record in the 100 breaststroke on Saturday.

Ian Mull of East Lansing, Mich., broke a festival mark in the 400-meter individual medley with a time of 4:27.00. That surpassed the record of 4:29.15 set by Roger von Jouanne of Renton, Wash., in 1982.

Vanity Fair cover found offensive

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Three supermarket chains in the state have banned the new issue of Vanity Fair magazine because of its cover featuring a nude picture of pregnant actress Demi Moore.

Officials with the Food Lion, Winn-Dixie and Harris-Teeter chains said they wouldn't allow the issue on their shelves, even though it was wrapped and covered.

The cover features the actress standing with one hand under her belly and the other across her breasts.

"We feel the cover is controversial enough to offend a fair number of our customers," Vince Watkins, vice president of special projects at Food Lion Inc., told Durham television station WTVD.

A spokesman for Winn-Dixie Inc. said experiences with controversial covers made the decision easier.

Lee runs with bulls

PAMPLONA, Spain (AP) — Film director Spike Lee joined hundreds of others Saturday running with the bulls in the festival made famous by Ernest Hemingway.

While Lee completed the run unscathed, three Spanish youths were gored and seriously injured. Four others suffered minor injuries, officials said.

Lee, in Pamplona to shoot a television commercial, ran well ahead of the bulls in the half-mile run from the city pens to the bullring in the old quarter. Saturday was the seventh of eight days of the running of the bulls.

Lee directed films including "Jungle Fever" and "Do the Right Thing."

A Swedish man and a Norwegian woman injured Monday remained in the hospital.

Hundreds of thousands of tourists flock to the annual San Fermin festival, immortalized by Hemingway's novel "The Sun Also Rises."

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Good luck and new monetary gains are coming your way! Get your financial act together in October. Prime investment opportunities arise in November. Travel for business or pleasure as the winter holidays approach.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actresses Barbara Stanwyck and Ginger Rogers, violinist Pinchas Zukerman, actor Ruben Blades.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Unexpected changes in business may leave you feeling perplexed. Be patient. Your financial fortunes are on the upswing. Although an interesting job offer is tempting, it might be better to stay put.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You radiate confidence and charm today. A health problem or emotional situation deserves your immediate attention. Promote greater harmony at home and a close relationship will thrive. Forget past omissions and mistakes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Sparks could fly today. You send a non-verbal signal that hits its target. The right person responds. A change of scenery will boost your spirits this evening. Discuss your plans with mate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Increase your participation in a work or community project. You could come up with the ideal plan! Postpone buying a pet unless sure you have enough time to keep it happy and healthy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): It is important that your work be consistently good now. Higher-ups are keeping a close watch while deciding who should move up. Good eating habits pay off handsomely where your health is concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A professional appearance is important to your customers. Study an investment scheme very carefully. If you spend a lot of time on household tasks, purchase something that will make your chores easier.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Romance is a source of delight. Give more thought to putting down roots. Discuss the future with your loved ones. A drastic budget revision may be necessary to make your dream come true.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Being too direct could rub someone the wrong way. Be subtle. A real estate investment will prove especially profitable if you take an expert's advice. All is fair in love and romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You should be feeling more optimistic now. That restless feeling disappears. Public opinion will influence what you do later today. Make your vacation plans now to get a lower rate on tickets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone loves you more than you think. People react strongly to what you do and say. Curb your temper. A startling development could result in new financial benefits. Play a waiting game.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Seize an exciting opportunity to expand your horizons today. Changes in your lifestyle and relationships are indicative of how far you are ready to go. Travel may be necessary.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your career moves into high gear this month. Many people will be making demands on your time and, perhaps, even your money. Guard against scattering your energies. Focus on developing positive new ideas.
