School milk probe involves 16 states

ATLANTA (AP) — Federal investigators now are busy in 16 states, including Texas, looking at allegations of bid-rigging on school milk contracts in a scandal that has victimized school children and cost taxpayers millions of dollars.

"In the short run, the kids at school are the victims. If you're having to spend more on milk, you don't have as much to spend on other food for them," said Paul McElwain, chief of school nutrition in Kentucky. "In the long run, the taxpayers are the victims."

Woman is trying to spread AIDS

DALLAS (AP) — For the past two years, a Dallas woman has been getting revenge for becoming infected with AIDS.

In a letter to Ebony magazine and an interview with a Dallas radio station, the woman says she is trying to spread the disease by having unprotected sex with the men she meets at nightclubs.

The letter is running in current issues of the magazine and was signed C.J., which she said are not her real initials. KKDA-AM radio personality Willis Johnson made a public appeal for the woman to step forward after he read the letter in the magazine.

Concert, cookoff to benefit group

A country music concert will follow a chili and brisket cookoff at Comanche Trail Park Sunday. The festivities, which will benefit the West Texas Epilepsy Association, will begin with the cookoff at 1 p.m. in the Balaski Pavilion.

Chili and brisket entries will be sampled by the public, who will use quarters to cast their votes. Details for entering the cookoff can be obtained from the West Texas Epilepsy Association, Midland, 1-697-7901, or from Reuben Darnall, 263-0723.

A country music concert will follow in the amphitheater from 5-9 p.m. Featured entertainers are Doyle Hoggard, Bozo Darnell, Tommy Lucas, who will be reunited with the Desperados for this event, and the Junk Iron Band.

Admission to the cookoff and concert is $5, with children under 12 admitted free. Tickets will be available at the gate, or can be purchased at Leonard's Pharmacies, Howard College Dean of Students Office and Faye's Flowers.

The West Texas Epilepsy Association is a non-profit organization providing information and assistance to people who have seizures.

Proceeds from this event will be used to support programs offered by the association to more than 700 residents of 17 counties.

Iran-Contra scandal: Retired CIA official may face charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecutors are seeking felony charges against retired CIA official Clair George for allegedly covering up the spy agency's role in the Iran-Contra scandal, four sources involved in the investigation say.

A federal grand jury will be asked today to return an indictment accusing George of concealing from Congress in October 1986 former White House aide Oliver North's ties to a secret network to aid the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, the sources said Thursday.

Among the charges will be that George lied to Congress, according to one non-government source who has been involved in the investigation for several years. All of the sources spoke on condition of anonymity.

George, who was the CIA's deputy director for operations during the sale of arms to Iran and the diversion of profits to the Contras, has been under investigation since an agency colleague implicated him in the scandal this summer.

Mary Belcher, a spokeswoman for independent counsel Lawrence Walsh, the chief prosecutor, declined to comment Thursday. George's lawyer, Richard Hibey, did not return telephone messages left at his office.

An indictment now of a former CIA official would come at a particularly difficult time for the agency and for the administration.

Robert Gates, President Bush's nominee to be CIA director, will undergo confirmation hearings starting Sept. 16 before the Senate Intelligence Committee. He is expected to face tough questioning about his role in the Iran-Contra scandal. Gates served as the CIA's deputy director for intelligence in 1985 and was elevated to the No. 2 slot of deputy director in 1986.

Boy, 13, remains in critical condition

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A 13-year-old Winters boy remained in critical but stable condition today at a Lubbock hospital from injuries in a traffic accident near Westbrook in which his parents and younger brother were killed, an official said.

Austin Hord was pinned in a car by the right-front wheel of an 18-wheel semi-trailer truck that collided with the car driven by his mother Tuesday night, said Texas Highway Patrolman Karl Keesee of Colorado City.

Hord was a passenger in the front seat of the car, which was westbound on Interstate 20 "at a slow rate of speed" when the accident occurred about a mile east of Westbrook. Killed were Debra Bailey, 32, her husband Clay Bailey, 27, who was in the front seat, and Bailey's son from a previous marriage, Timothy Bailey, 3, who was in the back seat.

Hord, Debra's son from a previous marriage, received head injuries and was taken to the Mitchell County Hospital. He was later transferred to Lubbock Methodist Hospital and today was in critical but stable condition in the surgical

No state fuels tax for schools

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Public schools will no longer pay state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel, the state comptroller's office announced recently.

"Since the state funds about half the cost of public education in Texas, it just doesn't make sense to pay with one hand and take it away with the other," said John Sharp, state comptroller.

Statewide, the law will affect about 26,000 school buses, both diesel- and gasoline-fueled, as well as those fueled by liquefied petroleum and compressed natural gas. More than 2 million Texas students are transported more than 1.4 million miles each day through public education system transportation methods, Sharp said.

The new law that was passed two years ago became effective Sept. 1 this year. The exemption means a total savings of about $11 million combined for all districts in the state. The 15-cent tax on diesel and gasoline per gallon and $500 each for the nearly 600 alternate-fueled vehicles account for the savings throughout the state, according to Sharp.

"Education in Texas will get more mileage for its money. That's

Drugs cost society billions, studies say

DALLAS (AP) — The costs of drugs on American society was between $60 billion and $125 billion in 1988, a Baylor University study prepared for Congress says.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, asked the researchers to compile previous major drug cost studies into one package for the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Bentsen released the report Thursday, the same day Bush administration drug czar Bob Martinez declared that "victory is within our grasp" in the battle against illegal drugs.

Martinez offered no statistics, but said drug-related violent crime is abating even though violent crime overall is not.

However, Bentsen said the Baylor study "makes clear it would be a serious mistake to minimize the threat that drug abuse poses to our country or the continuing costs it imposes on us."

"Using the higher estimate in the study, drug abuse cost our society more in 1988 than heart disease and

3 Baltic states get independence from Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin's new leadership today granted independence to Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia, ending more than 50 years of Soviet rule. Dozens of nations had already recognized the Baltic states, spurred on their bold course of freedom by last month's failed coup.

In yet another sign of the collapse of communism, lawmakers in the Russian Federation today upheld a decision by Leningrad residents to restore the city's pre-revolutionary name, St. Petersburg, the Interfax news agency said. City residents had overwhelmingly approved the change in a referendum in the spring.

The day-old State Council, the executive body composed of President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, Russian President Boris Yeltsin and leaders of the other Soviet republics, recognized the Baltics at its first meeting.

A day earlier, the Congress of People's Deputies approved the council's formation as part of a sweeping restructuring of the Soviet government during the nation's post-coup transition to a loose confederation of sovereign states.

Earlier today, Gorbachev and Yeltsin declared in a joint television appearance that more than 70-years of Communist rule was a failure.

"This experiment which was conducted on our soil was a tragedy for our people and it was too bad that it happened on our territory," Yeltsin said.

Baltics welcome move by Soviets

VILNIUS, Lithuania (AP) — The Baltic republics greeted the Kremlin's recognition of their independence today with a mixture of satisfaction and foreboding, as a long political struggle ended and an economic one began.

The challenge now facing Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia is to eliminate "the heritage of Soviet occupation, not only economic but in the people as well," said Ramunas Bogdanas, an adviser to Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis.

"I mean that we must learn to work, and learn to live in the world. A psychological breakthrough must be made," he said.

One day after its creation, the Soviet State Council led by Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev recognized the Baltic states' independence this morning, more than 50 years after they were forcibly incorporated into the Soviet Union.

A delegation of U.S. congressmen on a visit to the Estonian capital, Tallinn, said Washington would push for speedy withdrawal of the more than 100,000 Soviet troops stationed in the three republics, which

Cuba: Yeltsin urges troop withdrawal

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist Cuba was put on notice today that its close ties with the Soviet Union are subject to major change. Boris Yeltsin said he favors the gradual removal of Soviet troops from Cuba, while Mikhail Gorbachev said relations with Cuba are "being transformed."

Cuba's economy has been devastated by recent cutbacks in aid and trade from the Soviet Union and other formerly Communist countries, as well as by a longstanding U.S. economic embargo after Fidel Castro took power in 1959 in the island nation 90 miles south of Florida.

The CIA estimated Soviet subsidies to Cuba at $3.5 billion in 1990, down from $4.16 billion in 1989. Analysts expected the subsidies to fall further, even before the Soviet coup and the dramatic government changes it caused.

Castro, who has sent troops to fight with pro-Communist forces in Angola, Ethiopia and Nicaragua, has defiantly held to his hard-line

Trademark dispute settled

BRENNHAM (AP) — Blue Bell Creameries Inc. may soon be serving its ice cream in Japan now that the Texas company has settled a trademark dispute with the Japanese government.

The Brenham-based ice cream maker won the dispute Thursday when a Japanese firm-backed down from plans to use Blue Bell's name in Japan.

"I only wish we could clear up the host of our other trade problems as quickly," U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said. "That would clearly be in the best interests of companies and consumers in both countries."

Blue Bell officials had complained to the Texas senator after the Japanese government recently rejected an application the company had filed in June 1989 for a trademark and instead told a Japanese firm, Ezaki Glico, it could use the Blue Bell name.

Bentsen then fired off a complaint to U.S. Trade Representative Carla A. Hills.

"The quick response to the concerns I raised in my letter to Ambassador Hills (Wednesday) was gratifying," Bentsen said. "The Blue Bell people tell me they were very happy to get the news (Thursday), but I'll bet they're no happier than the Japanese people will be when they get a chance to taste this ice cream as we know it in Texas. There are arrangements to be completed before the Japanese trademark is finalized but at this point the prospects seem bright."

Blue Bell officials did not return telephone calls Thursday regarding the trademark decision.

Earlier, however, they responded to what they termed the "underhanded tactic" by barring Japanese business executives from their ice cream plant.

"I will no longer permit any Japanese national to visit our plant, nor will I ever knowingly purchase any Japanese product," Ed F. Kruse, Blue Bell's chairman and chief executive officer, told Bentsen. "They have proven to me they cannot be trusted."

"It appears to me the Japanese give lip service to opening their trade barriers, and then underhandedly use another means to stop, delay, or limit imports."

Company President Howard Kruse told the Brenham Banner Press that Blue Bell would continue to pursue efforts to sell ice cream in Japan.

Teacher layoffs delayed

DALLAS (AP) — Teacher layoffs that triggered student walkouts and massive protests here cannot proceed until school board members reconsider the budget that forced the cuts, a state district judge said.

In a separate action Thursday, the Dallas Independent School District's top administrator said 68 of the 255 teachers laid off last week would be rehired using $2.3 million in leftover project funds.

But Dallas teachers' unions, vowing to fight until all educators were reinstated, planned to demonstrate at the DISD administration building before Tuesday's board meeting and return to court if necessary to protect jobs.

Judge Frank Andrews, in a hearing requested by the Classroom Teachers of Dallas and joined by other groups, declined to issue a restraining order against the layoffs but said DISD trustees must first review their budget and ratify the job reductions.

"We were asking for injunctive relief to bar implementation of the layoffs," Bob Baker, CTD president, said. "The settlement is that they cannot be implemented until after the board has met to consider these items."

He said the DJSD board must consider whether to ratify the action it took in late June to implement the reduction in force policy. Attorneys for the teachers' union argued that ratification hadn't yet occurred.

"The judge prohibited any layoffs at all until the board meeting. We are prepared to do whatever it takes to fight the cuts," said Kit Blumenstein, a CDT building representative. "We will organize to be prepared for Tuesday's meeting at the administration building. We want to keep the pressure on to reinstate all teachers."

Rene Castilla, DISD board president, said Superintendent Marvin Edwards' budgetary change to rehire the 68 teachers "is an olive branch, if you will, that we are interested and concerned about our teachers and don't want them to leave."

Meanwhile, termination hearings were expected to continue and district leaders said more planned cuts might be announced this week.

But under the court settlement, all teachers notified they would be laid off are still receiving paychecks, said Baker, and educators' unions would continue to fight the cuts in court if necessary.

"We have a number of contingencies still to deal with," he said. "One is the irreparable harm to children, some stacked in a class with 50 other kids, and the fact that some people had been recruited from out of the country to teach, then told a week later they were being laid off."

The Dallas school district is one of hundreds grappling with sharp reductions in state aid. Those cuts were triggered after lawmakers, under pressure from the Texas Supreme Court, approved a so-called "Robin Hood" school finance plan that shifts hundreds of millions of dollars in property tax revenue from wealthy school districts to poor ones.

UNIVERSITY PARK — T. Boone Pickens displays a fueling station at his home in a Dallas suburb Thursday morning. The device compresses natural gas and injects it into the storage canister of an automobile that is powered by the gas. Costs to make the conversion and obtain the compressor total about $5,000.

Study warns against mandating vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study financed by the petroleum industry says a government requirement for sale or use of alternative-fuel vehicles would harm the U.S. economy.

But T. Boone Pickens, a producer of alternative fuels, contended that the oil industry just wants to prevent competing energy sources from gaining a foothold. His Texas energy company, Mesa Limited Partnership, gets more than two-thirds of its revenue from natural gas.

"They don't want anything mandated by the government, and the reason they don't is that they control so much of the (energy) industry," Pickens said Thursday. "The free market they talk of requires military protection of oil fields in certain parts of the world."

The report was conducted by James L. Sweeney, chairman of Stanford University's Department of Engineering-Economic Systems, and W. David Montgomery, a former assistant director of the Congressional Budget Of-ice assistant director.

It was paid for by the American Petroleum Institute, the oil industry's trade association.

Alternative fuels such as compressed natural gas, electricity, ethanol and methanol are making progress, the report said, but they should compete on their own without the government requiring their use.

"We do not know now which, if any, alternative fuels will eventually prove to be the winners," Sweeney said at a news conference Thursday.

The Senate is expected to debate a national energy strategy this fall. Some senators say they will offer amendments requiring automakers to sell alternative-fuel-burning cars, and forcing state and local governments and corporations to buy the cars for their fleets.

Supporters say it's the only way to wean the U.S. economy from Middle East oil. It is needed to ensure development of service stations and other facilities that would make alternative-fuel vehicles practical for average drivers.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — There is no likelihood of survivors from the American executive jet found crashed Friday said Continental Oil Company President Constantine S. Nicandros whose employees were on board.

"Regrettably, none of the information indicates the likelihood of survivors and I have contacted this to the families," Nicandros said when updating Conoco employees at its headquarters in Houston, Friday, said spokesman for Conoco Larry Springer.

"Realistically and with profound sadness, we must prepare for the worst," Nicandros said, added Springer when contacted by telephone from here.

"Wreckage is strewn over a large area," Nicandros added. Flags outside Conoco's headquarters were lowered to half-mast, he said. Meanwhile Civil Aviation Department Director Mohd Adnan Yahya said search and rescue operations were suspended till Saturday because of night fall, because of poor visibility.

The search and rescue operations at the site where an American executive jet was found crashed Friday was suspended till Saturday because of night fall.

Meanwhile rescue officials said they believe the 10 Americans and two Britons in the plane, which crashed in the jungles of Crocker range in state on Borneo island Wednesday afternoon as it was coming in to land at the Kota Kinabalu airport, may be dead.

They said they were basing the belief all may be dead as there was no sign of life, but were not ruling out the possibility of survivors.

Band R.E.M. sweeps MTV awards

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — Alternative rock band R.E.M. swept the 8th Annual MTV Video Music Awards, but Pee-Wee Herman brought down the house in his first public appearance since his arrest on indecency charges.

Winning in six categories, the Athens, Ga., group led by singer Michael Stipe was named best group and captured the video of the year for "Losing My Religion."

The disjointed, mythical video, named for an old Southern expression that means reaching the end of one's rope, also was honored in the best editing, direction, art direction and breakthrough categories. It is about searching for meaning when life appears meaningless.

The sold-out audience at the Universal Amphitheater screamed its approval when Herman, wearing his trademark bow tie, came on stage.

Chris Isaak's black-and-white video "Wicked Game" took three trophies, including best male video, best cinematography and best video from a film. The song was featured in filmmaker David Lynch's movie "Wild at Heart."

C&C Music Factory won best dance video and best choreography for its raucous "Gonna Make You Sweat (Everybody Dance Now)."

Grand jury does not indict driver

NEW YORK (AP) — A grand jury voted not to indict the Jewish driver of a car that careened onto a sidewalk and killed a black child, igniting racial tensions between blacks and a Jewish sect in a Brooklyn neighborhood.

Pleas for calm were apparently heeded overnight in the Crown Heights district, where the 7-year-old boy's death Aug. 19 had led to the slaying of a Jewish man and three days of rioting.

A station wagon driven by Yosef Lifsh, 22, went out of control and mounted a sidewalk, killing Gavin Cato and critically injuring his 7-year-old cousin, Angela Cato.

The grand jury, which had heard testimony for more than a week, was considering charges of criminally negligent homicide against Lifsh. On Thursday, it found no criminal wrongdoing in Lifsh's actions, said Brooklyn District Attorney Charles Hynes.

"Gavin's memory will not be honored with anger," Mayor David Dinkins said Thursday. "The wounds our city has suffered will not be healed with anger."

"I appeal to all residents of our great city to accept this grand jury's conclusions," said Brooklyn District Attorney Charles Hynes.

Former president defends Bush

JIMMY CARTER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The notion that President Bush spends too much time on foreign affairs is being challenged by an unexpected source, one who labored under the same criticism during his own White House tenure: Jimmy Carter.

Carter made a sentimental visit to the White House on Thursday evening to discuss several international issues and emerged with a strong defense of Bush's handling of issues.

As for the accusation that Bush is obsessed with foreign affairs, Carter said "That was the same charge that was always made against me."

"I didn't think it was fair then and I don't think it's fair now."

The former president, who occupied the White House from 1977 to 1981, returned here to discuss with Bush and former Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone a study on ways to improve U.S.-Japanese relations.

Gorbachev, Yeltsin appear live on ABC

MOSCOW (AP) — Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin, lifelong Communists who presided over the party's removal from power, told American television viewers today the Communist system had failed their country.

The Soviet and Russian presidents sat beside each other in matching gold and ivory chairs in the Kremlin's glittering St. George's Hall. They answered questions live on ABC television from viewers around the United States, and the show was also broadcast in the Soviet Union.

The men addressed the fate of their nation's nuclear arsenal, talked about their religious beliefs and stormy personal relationship, and promised dissidents they could return safely.

One of their more dramatic responses came to a question by Los Angeles actor Ben Stein, who asked whether the two leaders believed any country should live under communism.

Yeltsin answered first: "This experiment which was conducted on our soil was a tragedy for our people and it was too bad that it happened on our territory. It would have been better if the experiment had happened in some small country, to make it clear that it was a utopian idea, although a beautiful idea."

Gorbachev said history has shown that "that model has failed which was brought about in our country. And I believe that this is a lesson not only for our people but for all peoples."

But he added that in other countries, "the devotion to the socialist ideal has led to very interesting results."

On Thursday, Gorbachev and Yeltsin worked together to gain approval of an interim government for the Soviet Union and a program to create a new confederation of sovereign states.

The new system would end more than 70 years of Kremlin rule under the Communist Party and reorganize the Soviet government to give many powers to Soviet republics.

Gorbachev and Yeltsin rose to prominence through that party, but Yeltsin had resigned from it long before the coup attempt and Gorbachev stepped down as party leader afterwards.

A questioner from Atlanta who identified himself as Oleg Myshkin, a defector who said he had had problems with the KGB, was assured by Yeltsin, "There is no more danger... please come back."

Yeltsin said he had met with exiles recently and welcomed them home.

Party's reputation takes upswing

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Three months ago, the governing Peronist Party's election prospects seemed bleak, with inflation rampant and President Carlos Menem shaken by charges of corruption against some aides.

But with the economy spurring to life after three years of recession, Peronist candidates now sound almost euphoric before this Sunday, when they face their party's first electoral test as incumbents in four decades.

"I already feel like I'm the winner," Eduardo Duhalde, the country's vice president who is campaigning for governor of Buenos Aires province, told supporters.

Duhalde's optimism stems from the apparent — and timely — success of the austerity program Menem introduced after taking office in July 1989 from former President Raul Alfonsin of the main opposition Civic Radical Union.

August inflation and unemployment rates reached the lowest levels in years, according to government figures — and Argentines are more concerned about the economy than about any other campaign issue.

Although the current round of elections began Aug. 11, Sunday's vote is the most important because it includes the seven biggest population centers.

Schuller improving after setback

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (AP) — American televangelist Robert H. Schuller was recovering steadily again today as it appeared that residual blood causing swelling in his brain was disappearing, an aide said.

Schuller had been listed in guarded condition Thursday after doctors found a thin sheet of blood surrounding his brain following emergency surgery for a cerebral hemorrhage earlier this week.

"He is alert, talking, sitting up in bed, eating breakfast," said Michael Nason, a Schuller spokesman. "He was assisted out of bed and actually sat up in a chair."

The 64-year-old host of the "Hour of Power" show was found unconscious on the floor of his hotel room Monday during a stopover here at the start of a European tour.

Schuller was rushed to the Free University Hospital, where Dr. John Wolbers on Monday opened the pastor's skull to remove a blood clot on the left side of his brain. Wolbers said after the operation he saw no additional bleeding.

But a CAT scan Wednesday showed that a new layer of blood had developed between the skull and brain.

Nason said Wolbers was "very encouraged" by the signs of Schuller's improvement.

Six die in fierce fighting overnight

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — Croatian and federal forces in a town devastated by fighting agreed to a new truce, but shells rained down on the area overnight and six people were killed, hospital officials said.

Both sides accused each other of breaking the cease-fire. Ten more people were killed in battles in other areas of the secessionist republic, according to Croatian officials and news reports.

Despite the relentless bloodshed, the European Community said it would go ahead with plans to open a peace conference on Yugoslavia on Saturday.

"If we can't silence the guns, let the guns not silence us," Foreign Minister Hans Van den Broek said in Brussels. However, Dig Isha, a Van den Broek aide, said the fighting probably "will have an impact on when the parties actually sit down to negotiate with each other."

Mother fears having child she doesn't want

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a 7-month-old daughter, and another child is due in December. My husband and I were married last January and now we are being divorced. I'll be 21 in October, and I am terrified of being a single mother with two children, not to mention the fact that my husband has paid only $50 in child support. Clothes, food and diapers cost a lot of money.

Abby, this second child was a complete shock, and I'm not sure I really want it. I have no feelings for it. Am I making sense? I feel as though my world has no meaning except for my family, the child I have and myself. I don't know what to do.

I have dreams of how I could hurt myself badly enough to kill this child inside. I wish I wasn't pregnant, but I don't believe in abortion and I couldn't give it up for adoption.

Mom tells me I will have feelings for this baby when it begins to grow. Has anyone ever said this to you before? I will care for it, but I'm afraid that I will never love this baby. Scary, huh? What should I do? Help! — SCARED IN WASHINGTON STATE

DEAR SCARED: If you are having dreams about how you can "hurt" yourself enough to be rid of the baby you say you may never love, cannot support, and did not want in the first place — please talk with a professional counselor or a clergyperson about giving the child up. There are many couples waiting (and praying) for a child to adopt. They would love and provide for it in a way that you cannot. Please consider that option. You need not feel guilty for facing reality. I think you are sensible and courageous. I wish you well.

DEAR ABBY: I am a delivery driver for a major pizza restaurant in Atchison, Kan. I've seen all kinds of things while delivering pizza, but one thing I've seen often, worries me.

Many adults send their small children to answer the door and pay for the pizza. I've had children as young as 3 and 4 years old meet me at the door with no adult in sight. One woman sent her 5-year-old son to the door, and when there was a problem with the order, he had to get her from a second-floor bedroom!

One little boy even let me in the house, saying that he was the only one at home. I love children myself and don't have a problem dealing with them, but people don't know me. How do they know I won't try to abduct their child, or do something terrible to him or her? We read about things like that happening to children every day!

Abby, please tell people that if they want to let their kids "pay" for the pizza, that's fine, but they should be within a few feet of the child when the child opens the door. It could prevent a terrible tragedy. — A PIZZA DELIVERY DRIVER

Dear Abby

DEAR DRIVER: Thanks for a valuable letter. You delivered something far more important than a pizza today.

***
DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I go to a restaurant, we are served such large portions that we either have to ask for a doggie bag to take home what we can't eat, or we leave it on our plates to be thrown out.

At times we have ordered only one meal and an extra plate so we can split the dinner. This isn't always convenient because we both don't always want to eat the same thing.

The few restaurants that offer "lighter fare" serve diet foods. Why can't these restaurant owners realize that all people don't eat like harvest hands? I sometimes wonder if they realize how much food is wasted.

How can we get the restaurant owners to offer only half-portions? I can't be the only person who hates to see food wasted. How about it, Abby? Any suggestions on how to get this problem corrected? — NOT THAT HUNGRY IN ORLANDO

DEAR NOT THAT HUNGRY: If you are suggesting that restaurateurs offer half the food at half the price, please read on: Restaurant owners could not survive on half the profit. Better leave things the way they are and give their customers doggie bags to tote home their leftovers.

Readers can write to Abby at P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Remarkable feats of navigation

By NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC
Although its brain is the size of a peanut, a steelhead salmon returns to its home river in Idaho from the Pacific Ocean, completing an epic round-trip voyage of several thousand miles entailing wondrous feats of navigation.

A little blackpoll warbler, migrating 2,400 miles from Nova Scotia to South America in four days and nights, has a calculated fuel efficiency equal to 720,000 miles a gallon for an automobile.

A new generation of monarch butterflies mysteriously finds its way from its summer haven in northern latitudes to its ancestral winter roosting site on a volcanic plateau in central Mexico.

"Such feats of navigation have long baffled students of animal behavior," Michael E. Long writes in National Geographic. "But now scientists who ask such questions are, with ingenuity and dedication, piercing some of the veils of mystery to reveal answers that surprise and, in some cases, amaze."

Researchers are demonstrating that the senses of the creatures of land, sea and air are incredibly acute. For example:

— A honeybee detects infinitesimal fluctuations of the Earth's magnetic field that only the most sensitive magnetometers can measure.

— A shark recognizes an electric field on the order of five-billionths of a volt per centimeter.

— Some animals may be able to "see" the Earth's magnetic field, a proposition about as staggering as "seeing" the force of gravity.

Scientists are quick to point out, though, that the existence of a sensitivity doesn't prove that it's used for navigation.

"Detection is just the first step," says Melvin Kreithen of the University of Pittsburgh, who discovered that homing pigeons have some remarkable sensors. "We must go into the field and prove how the sensitivity is used to navigate."

Near Mahares, on the Tunisian coast, Long interviewed Rudiger Wehner, a biologist at the University of Zurich, who introduced him to a black desert ant that zigzags as far as 200 meters to find prey and then makes a straight course for home.

"Since few landmarks dot this landscape, the ant's feat was one of the great puzzles of animal navigation," Long writes. "Wehner demonstrated that the ants use skylight as a compass cue and that their visual systems are especially sensitive to the patterns of polarized light in the sky."

And how does it measure distance? It may keep track of how many steps it's taken, says Wehner.

Another concept is that animals might navigate by Earth's magnetic field.

Adrianus Kalmijn of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, an expert in bioelectricity and magnetism, has been studying this theory with sharks, stingrays and skates, a group of fishes called elasmobranchs.

Because of peculiar globular structures in their bodies, elasmobranchs "can detect electric fields as weak as five-billionths of a volt per centimeter — the most sensitive electric-detection apparatus known in the animal world," Long writes.

Smell may also offer an explanation for salmon migration. In 1954, U.S. scientist Arthur Hasler and colleagues plugged the noses of coho salmon on a creek in Washington state. The fish lost their bearings.

"Smell is important for salmon to find their way home," Hasler concluded, and each river has a peculiar odor from its own soil and vegetation.

Norwegian biologist Hans Nordeng came to a different conclusion, also smell-related. He attributes the return of adult salmon to an odor emitted by smolts — young salmon. The odor, a pheromone that the adults recognize innately, is distinctive to a genetic stock of salmon.

Genetics seem to be important to migrating birds, too. From his work with blackcap warblers at the Max Planck Institute in southern Germany, biologist Peter Berthold concludes: "Almost everything that is necessary for a bird to know to fly from the breeding grounds to wintering quarters is inherited from the parents. Incredible but true."

Could animals be using some "factor X" sensory capability not yet recognized?

Pittsburgh's Kreithen answers: "If we are going to understand animal navigation, we must discover a new sensory channel."

Despite frosted lenses to deprive it of visual landmarks, a pigeon will still return to the vicinity of its loft. Scientists have learned that homing pigeons use the sun as a compass, compensating for its movement with an internal time sense. On cloudy days, the birds apparently substitute Earth's magnetic field for compass cues.

NOTICE OF COMPARABLE TAX RATES AND REVENUES

The legislature has enacted a statute on school funding to comply with a court mandate enforcing the state constitution. Under prior statutes (SB 1) the tax rate for last year provides $6979.00 per student in state and local revenues. Under this statute (SB 351) that same rate now provides $5333.00 per student in state and local revenues.

State law only requires a minimum tax rate of $0.79 for county education districts. State law does not require a school district to adopt additional taxes. Neither does state law require a school district to adopt a tax rate that maximizes the receipt of state funds.

The board of trustees of the Forsan School District hereby gives notice that it is considering the adoption of a tax rate of $0.55 that will provide $7562.00 per student in state and local revenues.

Ben Zion Wacholder, a professor at Hebrew Union College, uses a video system in his Cincinnati home to help him view a part of the Dead Sea Scrolls which he helped reconstruct with a computer. A camera magnifies the text for Wacholder, who is nearly blind, and he reads it off the TV screen.

Dead Sea Scrolls released

By RICK HAMPSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Using a desktop Macintosh — "Rabbi Computer" — two scholars have compiled a bootleg version of previously unpublished text from the Dead Sea Scrolls.

The first of five volumes in "A Preliminary Edition of the Unpublished Dead Sea Scrolls" was released Wednesday, but the publisher said the Hebrew transcription contained few historical or theological surprises.

"As far as the content, it's not a bombshell," said Hershel Shanks of the Biblical Archeology Society. "The significance is that for the first time an unpublished text (of the scrolls) is available to scholars. It's a start. We've broken the monopoly."

"As far as we know, no ancient text has ever been reconstructed by computer," said Dr. Ben-Zion Wacholder, professor of Talmudic Studies at Hebrew Union College in Cincinnati. "Rabbi Computer, or Dr. Computer, did the work."

The Dead Sea Scrolls, one of the century's great archaeological finds, were discovered in the late 1940s and early 1950s in caves near the Dead Sea. They were handwritten on parchment in Hebrew and Aramaic, possibly by a small sect of Jewish monks, and range from Biblical texts to details of everyday life 2000 years ago.

Published sections of the scrolls already have provided insights into the development of Judaism and Christianity. But the international committee of scholars that controls the scrolls has never published all the material, and in recent years some scholars have complained that the committee was unfairly restricting access. Israeli authorities, meanwhile, have insisted that all the scrolls be in print by 1996.

But Wacholder, who is 67 and almost blind, said he couldn't afford to wait. So he discussed the problem with Martin Abegg, a biblical graduate student and computer hacker.

Wacholder had never seen the scrolls themselves or photocopies. But a member of the scrolls scholars committee had given him a document entitled "A Preliminary Concordance to the Hebrew and Aramaic Fragments," a five-volume guide to the scrolls.

A concordance is a scholar's tool that is organized like a dictionary. But instead of defining words, it gives the words in which they appear in a given document or body of writing. The concordance for the scrolls, compiled about 25 years ago, lists every word that appears in the previously unpublished texts, including words adjacent to it and the name of the scroll where it appeared.

Abegg programmed his computer to recognize overlaps between the concordance's "word strings," and to assemble those groups of words into larger and larger word groupings.

The material contained in volume one includes calendars, almanacs and the rules and customs of the priestly class that produced the scrolls.

The scholar who gave Wacholder the concordance said Wednesday that the release of the computer-generated transcript, which sells for $25 a volume, was "a sad thing."

"Wacholder's taking someone else's work and publishing it himself," said John Strugnell of Harvard University, who was dismissed from the scrolls committee last year after criticizing Judaism. "What else would you call it but stealing?"

He also said the edition was unreliable. "Twenty percent will be misleading, 80 percent will be reliable, and there's no way the reader can tell which is which," he said. The problem, he explained, is that about 20 percent of the transcriptions and associations used to compile the concordance have been revised over the past 25 years.

A scholar who is still on the scroll committee also expressed reservations.

"How can you trust it?" asked Eugene Ulrich, professor of theology at the University of Notre Dame. "They say that 85 percent of it will be right, but it will be like a mine field. Most of the mine field is clear, too. No one will be able to base solid work on it."

In an interview with The Chicago Tribune, another member of the committee, Emile Puech, threatened legal action against the authors and publisher of the new transcription.

Wacholder was asked if he feared such action.

"No," he said with a smile. "The copyright has expired."

humanity that we make contact with people to represent the difference Christ can make."

Continue support

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops have urged Congress to continue to tie any U.S. military aid to El Salvador to "satisfactory progress" toward a negotiated settlement with insurgents.

Archbishop John R. Roach of St. Paul-Minneapolis, head of an international policy committee, said in a letter to the Senate: "El Salvador does not need more and more arms, but support for a negotiated and just peace."

Liven it up

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Dull worship has been a main reason for an exodus of black members from the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, a black pastor told a conference sponsored by the denomination's black ministry commission.

Noting the denomination's German roots, the Rev. Ulmer Marshall of Mobile said, "German music is just not attuned to what many of us are accustomed to and grew up with."

COLLEGE BAPTIST CHURCH

Guest evangelist comes to College Baptist Church

BY RICK HOPE

A Venezuelan missionary and his family will be the special guests at an upcoming revival at College Baptist Church.

Butch Strickland, along with his wife Pam, sons Nathan and Jonathan, and daughter Carrie, have just completed their first three year term as Southern Baptist missionaries to Venezuela and have been enjoying a furlough in their home state of Texas.

Strickland is a 1975 graduate of Wayland Baptist University in Plainview and a 1984 graduate of Golden Gate Seminary in California. While attending both of these institutions, Strickland served two different churches in ministerial capacities. He was finally appointed to Venezuela by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board in August of 1985. After completing a year of language school, the Strickland's officially began their work as missionaries which largely includes church planting and evangelism.

Strickland said the first term in Venezuela has changed his family's life in a variety of ways. "It brought our family closer together. Our children are educated in the home and most of our entertainment involves the whole family," said Strickland. "It also gave us a different perspective on the world situation. It's amazing how differently you look at world events when you are in another country besides the United States."

Strickland will be the guest evangelist in a mini-revival at College Baptist Church. Services will be at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on September 15 and at 7 p.m. on September 16. The church is located at 1105 Birdwell Lane.

Avoid the burden #### of divinity

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Ministers must avoid bearing the "burden of divinity" sometimes laid on them by admiring church members, a Texas minister told an annual Southern Baptist pastors' school here.

Saying congregations often put pastors "on a pedestal as someone who represents the Lord," the Rev. Ben Loring of Amarillo, Texas, said. "We have assumed the messiah complex."

Instead, he added, ministers should reflect the "fragility of our humanity. ... It is through our humanity that we make contact with people to represent the difference Christ can make."

Graham: Our greatest need is to be reconciled with God

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I admit I am attracted by religion, but I am afraid of becoming a religious fanatic — you know, someone who is always talking about religion and goes to church all the time and never thinks about anything else. How can I avoid becoming a religious fanatic? — N.L.

DEAR N.L.: I want you to notice carefully what Jesus Christ promised to all who follow Him: "I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full" (John 10:10). Does that sound like the kind of "fanaticism" you are worried about, a "fanaticism" which cuts a person off from life? No, not at all. Instead, Christ is concerned to make every aspect of our lives joyous and complete — and He will, as we follow Him.

That's why I invite you to give your life to Jesus Christ. You see, the Bible says that God created every one of us, and He intended for us to have a full and abundant life through our fellowship with Him. But sin has separated us from God and ripped our lives apart — and our greatest need is to be reconciled to God. Is that possible? Yes! It's possible because Christ came into this world to take away our sins and reconcile us to God. "For Christ died for sins once for all, the righteous for the unrighteous, to bring you to God" (1 Peter 3:18). Can you imagine anything more fulfilling than knowing God personally?

That doesn't mean that we will treat our commitment to Christ casually, as if it didn't really matter. Christ will change your life — have no doubt about that. And you will find yourself wanting to be with His people, and wanting others to come to know Him also.

Yes, occasionally a person becomes "religious" to escape from life's responsibilities. But Christ frees us to live life to the fullest — the way God intended it to be lived. Discover this for yourself by making your commitment to Christ today.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have never confessed this to another person, but when I was a child I was sexually abused repeatedly by my father (who later left us). It has scarred my life terribly, and I know that all the anger and fear I feel are because of it. I am afraid it has messed me up so much psychologically that I will never be able to get married or have a normal life. Have you ever dealt with anyone before who had this problem? — F.M.

DEAR F.M.: Sexual abuse is a terrible thing — and yes, I get letters almost every week from someone who has been devastated by it. Every type of sexual immorality (including sexual abuse) is a sin — and one reason is because it affects more than one person. The Bible is clear: "The body is not meant for sexual immorality, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body" (1 Corinthians 6:13).

Sexual abuse which takes place in childhood is usually so devastating that its scars cannot be erased easily — as you have discovered. But God loves you, and He doesn't want you enslaved by what happened in the past. With His help you can begin to be free of its bondage.

Begin by making a conscious commitment of your life to Jesus Christ. He knows all about what has happened to you, and He loves you and accepts you just as you are. Open your heart to Him and receive His forgiveness and love. Then ask Christ to help you forgive your father, in spite of what he did, and to fill your heart with love instead of anger.

Then I encourage you to share your story with your pastor or with someone else (preferably a mature and wise Christian) who can suggest some further steps for you (such as counseling). Above all, keep your eyes on Christ, not on what happened in the past. God has promised, "I know the plans I have for you ... plans to give you hope and a future" (Jeremiah 29:11).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: A few weeks ago I was in a serious automobile accident (which was my fault) on my way to school. The policeman said I was lucky I wasn't killed, although I had only a few minor injuries. Fortunately no one else was hurt. Do you think God is trying to tell me something through this experience? If so, what? — B.W.

DEAR B.W.: God often uses the experiences of life to teach us things — although often they are things we should have learned earlier if we had been listening to His Word. And yes, I'm sure He has things to teach you through this experience.

Certainly one truth He wants to teach you is the brevity of life. Yes, you were delivered — but every day people your age (and younger) die, and in any event we will all die someday. The Psalmist said that "our days ... quickly pass. ... Teach us to number our days aright, that we may gain a heart of wisdom" (Psalm 90:10,12). Don't waste your life, but begin to live for Christ right now.

God has a purpose for you; will you turn to Christ and seek His will for your future? Don't let the lessons God wants to teach you fade, but learn to commit each day to Christ and walk with Him the rest of your life.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I never talked about religion before we got married. Now I have found that all his family is very religious. I never had any background in religion and they look down on me because of my lack of background and even make little sarcastic comments about it. I have tried to tell them that I am not opposed to religion, and in fact I want to learn. But right now I am afraid they will think I am just trying to impress them or something if I start going to church. Do you have any advice? — Mrs. C.M.D.

DEAR MRS. C.M.D.: I'm sorry your in-laws give the impression they look down on you, for they shouldn't. They should rejoice that you are open to learning more about God. Jesus said that "there is rejoicing in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner who repents" (Luke 15:10).

You see, God loves us. He knows all about our backgrounds, and He also knows our hearts. But instead of rejecting us — as He would have every right to do — He still loves us, and He wants us to become part of His family forever. In fact, that is why Jesus Christ came into the world — so we could be forgiven of our sins and adopted into the family of God. "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

on the study of Central America written by Dondena Caldwell, editor of Missions Magazine. Caldwell has also served as a Missionary in Cuba, Mexico and Brazil.

The objectives of this study are to acquaint the members with the countries of Central America, and to identify the social and political problems. Identifying these problems helps us to understand the US involvement in the history and present conditions of Central America.

The statistics of each country, namely, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Panama were reviewed. This included their size, population, languages; individual life expectancy; literacy; and per capita income.

Studying Central America as a region, as well as country by country, helps to see the common problems each faces and how they relate to one another.

The October lesson will present the Church of God's current work in Central America.

Army engineers hunting ordnance at Raritan

EDISON, N.J. (AP) — Ed Pinson has been digging up the Middlesex County College, one cupful at a time. He has reason to be careful.

Beneath the school, an industrial park and adjacent areas, Pinson and his colleagues are finding a veritable cornucopia of ordnance — thousands of World War I vintage explosives, TNT, anti-aircraft shells and nerve and mustard gas.

Once, these 3,200 acres of suburbia comprised the Raritan Arsenal, a weapons warehouse and distribution post during the World Wars. Now, it is a scary place to sink a shovel. More than 50,000 explosives have been unearthed.

"It gets down to an archaeological dig," said Pinson, who served 20 years as an Army explosives specialist and sports a Bomb Squad tattoo on his bicep. "It's like opening a surprise package every time you scratch the surface."

Raritan is the first military arsenal to be cleaned up, said Pete Shugert, spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in New York. Work has been under way for four months; the estimated cost is in the millions.

That pales next to similar cleanups that are being planned. The Army estimates it will take $580 million to clean up the Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland, and more than $2 billion to rid Colorado's Rocky Mountain Arsenal of nerve gas, pesticides and toxic solvents. All together, the decontamination of non-nuclear military sites is expected to cost $30 billion.

Still, Raritan has offered a rule of thumb for future base cleaning — there's more to be found than you expect.

"There's always more waste than you think there is," said Jim Werner, an environmental engineer for the Natural Resources Defense Council in Washington.

Assemblywoman Marlene Lynch Ford, who chaired hearings into hazardous dumps at military sites in New Jersey, agrees: "We'd get a hint something was bad, we'd look into it, and it'd be 10 times worse."

Pinson and two other workers from EOD Technology of Oak Ridge, Tenn., have been digging behind an office building in the middle of campus, uncovering booster adaptors — 9-inch cylinders used for detonating bigger explosives. They're buried in the middle of what was once officers' housing.

They loosen the soil with a backhoe until magnetometers begin squealing at the presence of metal. Then they use small gardening tools to sift the soil to exhume the boosters, much as if they were picking potatoes.

The workers harvest slowly, sifting the soil almost cup by cup. After six weeks, they've excavated an area the size of half a tennis court.

Most of the weaponry disposed of by the arsenal was simply dumped in holes and covered over. "Back then, that was an acceptable method, to bury them in the ground or sea dump them," said Wayne Galloway, an explosives expert with the Corps of Engineers.

Little or no record-keeping also was the norm back then. "Records?" asked Galloway. "Ha!" Cleanup crews rely on magnetometers to find the bombs.

But there is some sense of the magnitude of the task ahead:

— The Army Corps has yet to start digging in area 5, where mustard gas, potassium cyanide and red fuming nitric acid were buried in 5-foot trenches.

— The Corps plans to remove bulk TNT from a 25-acre site known as area 4, which sits in the middle of the Raritan Center industrial park.

A workman hands explosives specialist Ed Pinson, right, a booster adaptor they unearthed while digging for explosives at the Middlesex County College in Edison, N.J., in early August. The site, the former Raritan Arsenal, contains anti-aircraft munitions, as well as TNT and mustard and nerve gases.

— Lead, mercury, benzene and a host of other hazardous chemicals also have been detected. A two-year study is under way to determine how much is there and how they should be removed, and removal is expected to begin in 1994.

— An undeveloped 200-acre site, area 16, has yielded more than 30,000 37mm anti-aircraft projectiles. A backhoe lifts buckets of wet clay from the marshy ground and dumps them in a sifting screen.

The shells, along with explosives from other sites, are detonated along the Raritan River in area 16. Earlier in the summer, nearby residents complained about the constant noise and efforts were made to muffle the sound.

The proximity of those homes — and of the many people who work and study on the site — has complicated matters at Raritan. Unlike the bases that now are closing, Raritan already has been remade by developers.

Nestle, Michelin and Macy's are among the companies that have offices or warehouses in the sprawling Raritan Center industrial park. Middlesex County is one of the largest community colleges in the state, with 11,300 students.

An exhibition hall hosts meetings and trade shows. A park named for localite Thomas Edison and a regional headquarters for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency also are situated on arsenal land.

It appears that none of the buildings is constructed directly over explosives. But some are built in areas where no building should have taken place.

The Corps of Engineers started studying the site in the 1980s; a 1989 engineering report listed 16 areas of contamination, but none on the campus.

Authorities found out about the munitions there only this spring, when a man at a public meeting said he had unearthed munitions while digging for a utility company in the 1960s.

Replica of condom atop home of senator

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — AIDS activists inflated a 15-foot nylon replica of a condom on the roof of North Carolina Sen. Jesse Helms' suburban Washington home Thursday.

"A condom to stop unsafe politics," said the printed message. "Helms is deadlier than a virus."

The protestors used two air blowers powered by a portable generator placed on the home's front porch to keep the condom inflated for about 15 to 20 minutes, said protestor Peter Staley, 30, a member of a group called Treatment Action Guerrillas.

"We pulled the plug after the police arrived," said Staley, who is infected with the AIDS virus.

No one was arrested and no charges are pending, said Tom Bell, a spokesman for Arlington County police. "They were just trying to get a little publicity. I guess it worked, too," Bell said.

Helms was told about the demonstration, but he had no comment, the senator's office said.

The group, which was formed by members of the militant AIDS activist group ACT-UP, was protesting positions the Republican lawmaker has taken on several AIDS related-issues, Staley said.

No one was in the home in this Washington, D.C., suburb at the time of the protest, Staley said.

West steps up human rights pressure on China

BEIJING (AP) — China's hard-line leaders got their first taste this week of life without the Soviet Communist Party to divide the attention of international human rights advocates.

It was rough going. British Prime Minister John Major became the first Western leader to visit Beijing since the violent suppression of pro-democracy protests two years ago. But he spoiled the Chinese triumph by publicly lecturing them on human rights.

Then three U.S. legislators, led by Rep. Nancy Pelosi, raised a stir by placing flowers in Tiananmen Square in honor of the pro-democracy demonstrators killed there in 1989. They also warned Chinese officials that the battle in the U.S. Congress to link China's favored trade status with human rights was not over.

Following the Soviet move toward liberalism, "the focus is on China now," said Rep. Ben Jones of Georgia.

Former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Italian Premier Giulio Andreotti are scheduled to visit China soon, and they are also likely to bring up human rights.

The issue has cast a pall over what should have been a season of triumph for China with the resumption of visits by top Western leaders. Western countries froze high-level contacts in 1989 to protest the crushing of the democracy movement.

In their statements, Chinese leaders have refused to yield to the international pressure on human rights.

"If some people think they can change China's policy by exerting pressure, they are wrong," Foreign Ministry spokesman Wu Jianmin said Thursday. "The change taking place in the Soviet Union is the affair of the Soviet Union. We Chinese will firmly take the road of socialism."

Premier Li Peng rebuked Major during the British prime minister's visit, condemning foreign powers that "totally disregarded the human rights of the Chinese people" during colonization of large chunks of China in the 19th and early 20th centuries. Britain seized Hong Kong on China's southeast coast.

In private, however, Li told Major that a Hong Kong man jailed in China would soon be released. The man, Lo Haixing, was convicted of trying to help dissidents escape. Major disclosed the premier's promise after leaving China.

Both Chinese and foreign human rights advocates say China also has made concessions by receiving human rights delegations and giving them information about political prisoners.

The recent U.S. congressional delegation was organized by a U.S.-based group, the Democracy for China Fund, led by an exiled Chinese student dissident, Shen Tong. The fund's executive director, Marshall Strauss, was in the delegation and said he was amazed at being allowed to visit China.

Strauss said China's public security minister, Tao Siju, indicated Shen Tong would be permitted to return to China without prosecution for his role in the 1989 movement.

"It's too early to tell what the signal is," Strauss said. But he expressed optimism that China would eventually be forced to relax its tight political controls.

"It may be inconceivable in the minds of the rulers of Beijing that human rights for the people of China are inevitable, but I believe that the time will be short," Pelosi said.

Most Chinese liberals believe it will take five to 10 years for reform to occur in China. They applaud foreign pressure, but say the major force behind change would come from within China itself as education and increased prosperity raise popular expectations.

"The revolution will come from within China," Strauss said.

OPEN HOUSE FOR INCOME TAX SCHOOL

Curious about how income taxes are taught? H&R Block, the country's largest income tax preparation firm, will hold an open house on September 7th. According to Tommy Richmond, H&R Block franchise owner, "We invite anyone interested in income tax preparation to attend."

*****

Experienced H&R Block tax preparers will be available to answer the public's questions about income taxes and tax return preparation. Tax manuals and class-room study materials will be on display.

*****

The 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. open house will be held at 1512 S. Gregg, the location of Block's Income Tax School. One of more than 1,500 schools conducted throughout the United States, the 75-hour course will begin on September 9th.

*****

The school's curriculum of more than 40 tax topics includes filing requirements, itemized deductions, farm returns, retirement plans, rental property, and business schedules, among others. Graduates receive certificates and 7.5 continuing education units.

*****

"You do not need an accounting background or tax experience to enroll," said Tommy Richmond. "Our students range from homemakers and college students to retirees and people studying toward careers in tax preparation. You can find all ages and educational backgrounds represented in a typical Income Tax School course."

*****

Anyone interested in attending the open house or enrolling in the Income Tax School can contact Tommy Richmond or Gladys Custer at the H&R Block office at 1512 S. Gregg or call 263-4572.

Kindergarten teacher, pupils face 'first day' of school

By KEELY COGHLAN
San Angelo Standard-Times
SAN ANGELO (AP) — Kindergarten teacher Jan Wiedenfeld shared an important first with her students as this school year began: They both started their first day of school.

The event was a little scary for both. "I didn't get much sleep ...," Wiedenfeld confided. "I stayed awake going through the schedule and the plans last night."

Kindergarten students and parents are normally a bit tense, too. But most of the 14 children in Wiedenfeld's classroom at Crockett Elementary had come to an open house the day before to check out the classroom and ease those first-day jitters.

First-grader Ryan Golden, who hadn't been able to join his mother at the open house, hung back at the door with his father, drawing back every time his dad stepped across the class threshold.

Wiedenfeld greeted him and gently eased him into the room and over to a seat near his friend, Heather Cahill.

"I knew if I could get him into the room, I was going to be OK," she said. "It's all how the teacher reacts to them."

Other students, like Perrice Murray, walked confidently into the room looking for the teacher and her bear nametag.

Robert Hardin pulled out a set of plastic eggs, opening each one to reveal a smaller and smaller set, from the shelf behind him. "Hey, that is very cool," said Allen Manning.

"Awesome," added Steven Crouch.

The open house was a suggestion from Wiedenfeld's fellow kindergarten teacher, Lani Schmidt. Schmidt, who has taught for six years, is Wiedenfeld's mentor under a new assistance program for first-year teachers.

"I didn't even realize that's what she was," Wiedenfeld said. "She'd just been helping me and giving me suggestions. I knew what was going on was great. I just didn't know what was going on. She was just the kind of person who would do that."

Schmidt came up with the idea for an open house after one first day, when she had parents crying and a girl running loose outside in the courtyard screaming. "I'm going home."

"It was just too traumatic to ever go through again," Schmidt said.

Schmidt has been offering suggestions to Wiedenfeld throughout the summer, even before attending a workshop on the mentor program.

She greeted Wiedenfeld with a survival kit — candy, pain reliever, plastic strips, markers and lotion when she returned to the campus after a teacher appraisal workshop. "I needed a boost," Wiedenfeld said. "That was the most depressing workshop. I went home and asked myself why I said yes to teaching."

"I would be there for Jan anyway," Schmidt said. "My first year of teaching was horrible. I came in at mid-year."

"Everyone knew I was new, but they didn't realize how tough a time it was. I decided then that if I ever had the opportunity to help another teacher out in any way, I would."

Wiedenfeld soon had children on the floor for a story and a name game. But even then, some students remained shy.

Ryan nodded his head, but wouldn't sing.

Monique Talavera hid her face during the game. "Some of us are shy," Wiedenfeld said. "But Monique has a smile on her face."

Classmate Zachary Warren didn't suffer from any such qualms. He piped up, "Zachary. And what's your name?"

Story-telling was frequently interrupted by questions, comments and requests.

"How many people are there? I want to count," said Erma Sampson, anticipating a later assignment.

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, boys," the class chanted. "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven girls."

"How much is seven and seven?"

"My brother will tell me that tomorrow," said Sean Killgore. "He takes math."

Perrice snuck in an unofficial total count. "Twenty," she said, then reconsidered. "Fourteen."

"Are you sure that said hair? My book at home says ear," Savannah Schmidt asked Wiedenfeld.

"This book says hair, Savannah. But thank you for asking. Mrs. Wiedenfeld sometimes makes mistakes, too."

"I've seen tarantulas at our house, and they were as big as my dad's hands, and boy, my dad's hands are big," Sean said, stretching his hands out at least a foot.

At one point, Wiedenfeld told Savannah, Allen, Sean and Bradley Roper that they would pick a day to talk about black widows and tarantulas.

"I feel good about the students," Wiedenfeld said. "They're a good group of kids. They're eager to get into learning. As they learn the rules, it will take us less time to read."

"This is how they start to learn about the older grades. There are times you listen, and times you raise a hand and talk. I've learned through substituting that if I just do this, put my finger to my lips, then they remember," she said.

Students struggled to try to write their names, the alphabet and their numbers and draw a picture. The papers will be used at the end of the year to show the children and their parents how much they learned.

Even students who had never written their name before tried, Wiedenfeld said, pleased.

She experienced a few minutes of worry on the playground, when she briefly came up one short during an explanation of playground rules.

Robert had seen the other kindergarten class already in action on a new slide, and he decided to join in that fun.

"I'm constantly counting them," Wiedenfeld said.

Schmidt and Wiedenfeld took pictures of all the students, two by two, during recess. Wiedenfeld said she planned to stick the photos on the calendar to remind them of birthdays and lost teeth; it will also teach students to learn to read a graph, she said.

Victoria barber retires his scissors

VICTORIA, Texas (AP) — Back when haircuts were 25 cents and only 11,000 people lived in Victoria, Floyd A. "Whit" Whitley opened Palace Barber Shop at 111 E. Constitution St.

Now, 57 years and several hairstyles later, Whitley is retiring at age 84.

"I've seen styles change. I gave a mohawk one time, and I swore I'd never do it again," Whitley says with a smile.

On Oct. 1, 1934, Whitley, his young wife, Ollie Wilson Whitley, and their 2-year-old son, Floyd, came to Victoria and rented a house on Navarro Street.

"Back then, you could buy a big sack of groceries for a dollar, but you had trouble getting a dollar," Whitley says.

He bought the barbershop from a man named Max Zahn, the shop's second owner. Whitley rents the building and has never owned the property where the shop is located.

"The shop's over 100 years old and has had three owners." He says he can't remember exactly why he named it Palace Barber Shop, but says he likes the name.

That is about the only thing Whitley can't remember. He remembers dates and can recite almost any significant date, including some customers' birthdays.

"You have to work at it to have a good memory," he says.

Last weekend Whitley and Ollie, 80, celebrated their 61st wedding anniversary as well as his last day at Palace Barber Shop.

The owner of the property has decided to remodel the barbershop and another adjoining space for use as an office.

"There's not much I can do," Whitley says of the shop's closing. "I have adjusted myself to it. I feel like I'll enjoy my time."

Whitley says he had always wanted to be a barber when he attended Lewis Barber College in San Antonio in 1928.

He was 21 and working construction in El Campo when he left for barber college.

He says that after only two months at the college his instructor told him to leave and find a job as a barber.

"He told me, 'Ain't no reason in you wasting your time here.'"

Whitley found jobs cutting hair in El Campo, Weimar, Bay City, Eagle Lake and Edna.

In Edna he met Ollie, and from there they moved to Victoria.

After three years in Victoria, they had their second child, Nan Jean, who now lives in Dallas. Their son, Floyd, was killed in a bicycle accident in 1951.

Whitley says he does not remember the number of haircuts he's given over the years. "I cut a head of hair and visit with the fellow a little bit. Then, two hours later, I couldn't tell you whose hair I cut. It becomes routine."

He says that when his business was at its best in the 1930s, there were 11 barbers on Constitution Street.

intensive care unit, a nurse said. He has not fully regained consciousness, said Hord's aunt, Dorothy Rinn of Ballinger. "He responds every once in a while, which is great," she said. "It could be days. It could be months or years," she said in reference to therapy he will have to undergo. "How do you tell him his mother died?"

"The reasons why the truck hit the car, we don't know yet. The car did not have any lights on, (but) it was at that time when it was just getting dark and you don't really need them yet," Keesee said. "The truck driver said he didn't even see them until he hit them."

"When the truck tractor hit the back of the car it jumped up on the back end of the car, maybe the front bumper was sitting on the trunk. When it did that, it kind of veered off of the road to the right and it hit an embankment. The truck crawled right up on it. The front bumper of the truck had gone past the dash."

Drug and blood samples were taken from truck driver, Donnie Hayes of Virginia, and Debra Bailey, Keesee said. Test results were not available yet.

Rinn said the family may have been traveling to Big Spring since Debra has a brother that lives there.

cancer combined," Bentsen said. The $125 billion estimate is slightly more than the annual sales of Exxon Corp., the nation's largest company, and is comparable to $1,250 in every U.S. home. The study's broad cost range stems from the different methodologies and assumptions made in the 15 major reports it brought together, said James Henderson, a Baylor economist who was a principal author. Health-related costs fell in a range of $7.8 billion to $32.2 billion. The cost to business because of reduced productivity was a range of $10.2 billion to $48.7 billion.

Law enforcement costs ranged from $42.4 billion to $44 billion, the study found.

And the Baylor study leaves out one major cost about drug abuse: the amount of money users spend on drugs.

The cost that can be most directly treated, Henderson said, is prenatal exposure to drugs. In 1988, the study found it cost between $2.8 billion and $10.5 billion to take care of newborn babies who had been exposed to drugs during their mother's pregnancy. The study estimates special education costs of such children will add $24 billion a year to school budgets by 2000. "I think it could go as high as $60 billion," Henderson said.

Policymakers, he said, must decide whether the cost of programs to fight drug abuse will result in lower costs to society pointed out in the study.

The study does not estimate drug costs on a state basis. But one section of the 93-page report is devoted to drug abuse in Waco, where Baylor is located.

It estimated the 1988 cost of drug abuse in the city of 191,000 at between $47 million and $93 million.

back-to-school money that can be better spent on educating the children of Texas," Sharp said. John Vandever, business manager for the Coahoma district, said all of its 19 school buses have gasoline engines. He said the district has ordered one diesel-engine school bus, but changing over will take time. Vandever said Coahoma schools would have saved more than $6,000 if the exemption had gone into effect in 1990. With the tax increased from 15 cents to 20 cents this year, he said the district is saving more than $8,000.

"Of course, we never paid federal taxes, just state. And now we don't have to pay those," Vandever said.

Ron Logback, assistant business manager for Big Spring schools, said, "We'll save money because of how we pay up front the tax on unleaded gasoline."

Using the number of gallons the district bought multiplied by the 15-cent tax, Big Spring should save more than $9,000 per year with the new exemption. Logback said he thinks the district stopped paying diesel tax last year, and the new law will not affect this year's fuel bids, which have been approved.

"The way we take the fuel bid, we get the prices and use the base rate they charge for a certain day and then basically we figure the profit margin and the freight charges and make a decision. The taxes don't affect the profit margin or the freight charges."

Howard Stewart, transportation director for Big Spring schools, said of the 25 school buses currently running routes, only four use gasoline.

"We hardly ever use the gasoline

Unemployment remains at 6.8% for August

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate remained at 6.8 percent in August as new hiring failed to post a large enough gain to make a marked improvement in the labor market, the government reported today.

The jobless rate, unchanged from July's rate of 6.8 percent, had been expected to stay frozen or even worsen slightly because employers apparently are not confident enough in any economic recovery to hire workers back.

Today's report by the Labor Department said employers added 34,000 jobs in August, a relatively small payroll gain for an economy trying to pull out of a recession.

The number of Americans who are jobless stayed at 8.5 million — about 1.7 million higher than when the recession started in July 1990. "Labor market conditions in August continued to lack clear direction," said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Analysts said the mediocre jobs report is a clear indication that any recovery the economy may have been mounting has stalled. It should add pressure on the Federal Reserve to lower interest rates to stimulate the economy, they said.

"I think the Fed will lower interest rates this fall as it becomes increasing clear this recovery is stuck in the mud," said Jack Albertine, who heads an economic forecasting firm in Washington. Highlighting the political significance of the numbers, the White House scheduled a news briefing for later today with President Bush's chief economic adviser, Michael Boskin.

With the jobless rate refusing to budge from 6.8 percent in August, the unemployment level is now back to where it was in March. The rate had worsened to a five-year high of 7 percent in June, but then dropped to 6.8 percent in July. That decline was dismissed as a fluke caused by Americans abandoning the job hunt rather than any hiring rebound.

August's flat conditions mean that job conditions are neither improving or deteriorating significantly.

Today's payroll numbers showed that employment stayed mostly flat because gains in manufacturing and services were nearly offset by declines in other industries.

The brightest spot in today's report was that manufacturing added 42,000 jobs over the month. Gains in factory jobs now total nearly 70,000 over the past two months, the Labor Department said. Prior to the recent rebound, the manufacturing sector had been in a slide for about two years.

The service sector added jobs, too, posting a 60,000 payroll gain.

But there were losses, too. Construction lost 12,000 jobs, the third straight decline, and mining was down 6,000 — continuing a six-month string of job losses. In addition, wholesale trade lost 18,000 jobs.

In the joint interview, conducted live on ABC, Yeltsin said he foresaw the eventual withdrawal of Soviet military hardware from Cuba, a longtime Soviet client. "I think that the process has begun and it must be continued. Gradually the troops must be moved out," he said.

Gorbachev, too, said relations with Cuba were "being transformed." He was less direct on the subject of a military pullout, but said

"things are changing in a very essential fashion, and I am basically in agreement with that which was said" by Yeltsin.

Both Yeltsin and Gorbachev also offered assurances that the Soviet nuclear arsenal is under strict control despite the upheaval.

Yeltsin said a legislative committee had been set up "in charge of controlling not only nuclear weapons, but everything connected with nuclear processes."

Walsh has said he is investigating a "coverup in the CIA." Fiers spent several days in recent weeks in front of the federal grand jury answering prosecutors' questions about his former CIA colleagues.

Fiers told prosecutors that George orchestrated a coverup in which CIA officials hid North's role in the Contra supply network from Congress, according to a court document released in July when Fiers pleaded guilty. The alleged coverup took place after one of the planes in North's operation was shot down over Nicaragua on Oct. 5, 1986.

On Thursday, the official Mexican news agency Notimex reported from Havana that Cuba would begin rationing cooking fuel on Sept. 15, adding to a list of restricted goods that include food, clothing and gasoline.

The official Cuban news agency Prensa Latina reported Thursday that Cuba's vital sugar industry, where much of its export income comes from, has been using compost to replace increasing scarce fertilizer.

Yeltsin, the Russian Federation president, and Gorbachev, the Soviet president, appeared live today on ABC-TV, answering questions from Americans around the country. They were asked by a Cuban exile from Miami whether they foresaw the withdrawal of Soviet military equipment from Cuba.

The congressmen also said the United States would provide the Baltic states with humanitarian and technical assistance, but not major financial aid in the near future.

"We can respond to the humanitarian needs of this and other countries," said Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz. But "massive economic support such as grants should wait" until conditions for investment and economic development have improved, he was quoted as saying at a news conference by the Estonian news agency ELTA.

"The U.S. will urge the Soviet Union to see that its vast military presence would not be in such force as to intimidate the host government," said Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Md., who is leading a delegation of U.S. congressmen working with the Helsinki Commission, which monitors human rights.

Lithuanian officials said the decision by the State Council in Moscow to grant independence was anti-climactic.

Friday Football Forecast

Compiled by Herald Sports Staff

Big Spring at Amarillo Caprock

Time for Steer Battle No. 2 and the Caprock Longhorns are aching for revenge, especially since the next win will be coach Preston Smith's 100th career victory.

The Longhorns return a strong nucleus with five starters on each side of the ball. Big Spring returns more than half from one of the state's stingiest defenses, but is relatively inexperienced on offense.

It will be a close game. But in the end it will be the Steers' defense, the knowledge of quarterback Gerald Cobos and three veteran offensive linemen. Not to mention Caprock has eight starters going both ways.

Coach Smith will have to wait for the monumental win. Big Spring 21, Amarillo Caprock 13

Ballinger at Colorado City

It's been a long time since the Colorado City Wolves were favored to beat the Ballinger Bearcats, but that's the case tonight.

Colorado City started a rebuilding program last season and returns 12 starters from last year's 4-5-1 team.

The Ballinger Bearcats are rebuilding with a new coach and only one returning starter from a 11-1 squad.

The Bearcats have gone 21-3 over the past two seasons, that winning tradition goes back a long ways.

It will be a war in this long-time rivalry, but tradition will win out over more lettermen.

Ballinger 14, Colorado City 12

Coahoma at Greenwood

The Coahoma Bulldogs are sniffing for a playoff berth in the Class AA ranks, as are the Greenwood Rangers in Class AAA.

Both teams return a good nucleus for the season. The Bulldogs are really well-stocked offensively, returning nine starters. But in two scrimmages they've moved the ball well, but had trouble getting it into the end zone.

The Rangers lost some good skill personnel, but return a good running back and good wide receiver.

On paper it looks like Greenwood, but this week Coahoma's offense will find a way to get into the end zone. The Upset Special of the Week.

Coahoma 21, Greenwood 17

Stanton at Seagraves

The Stanton Buffalos, with first year coach Bill Grissom have a huge task awaiting them. The Seagraves Eagles are coming off a 10-2 season and return seven starters on both sides of the ball.

While Grissom has more experience and a very balanced offensive attack. The eagles will fly.

Seagraves 28, Stanton 7

Forsan at Garden City

This one looks to be a rout. The Garden City Bearcats, ranked tops in the state Class A polls, are loaded with personnel (26 lettermen and eight starters on both offense and defense return) and own a three-year winning streak against the Buffalos.

Forsan, which will field only 16 players, is out-matched on paper, but there is quality if not quantity on offense in fullback Gilbert Rodriguez and receivers Jacoby Hopper and Ryan Hamby.

Still, expecting the Buffs to upset Garden City might be asking too much. The Bearcats will be minus leading rusher James Soles, but will have plenty of other threats for Forsan to worry about.

Sands at Hermleigh

The Sands Mustangs, ranked fourth in the state six-man polls, open their season on the road against the Hermleigh Cardinals.

Last year was a disaster for the Cardinals, who ended up suspending their season because of a lack of players. Sands, meanwhile, advanced to the state quarterfinals before losing to McLean (in a game McLean later forfeited because of an ineligible player).

Hermleigh should be much improved, but the Aaron Cowley and Eric Herm-led Mustangs should be, also. Sands opens its season on a high note.

Ropes at Klondike

The Klondike Cougars, who finished third in the district chase last season, begin their quest for a playoff spot tonight when they host the Ropes Eagles.

The Cougars face a rebuilding job this year, as only three lettermen return from last year's 6-4 squad, but coach Tom Ham has plenty of speed to choose from in the skill positions.

Ropes posted a 5-5 record last season, and return 13 lettermen from that team. The Eagles, behind 1,000-yard rusher Tommy Medrano, have their sights set on a playoff spot.

This one should be a doozy.

Borden Co. at New Home

Talk about Reversal of Fortune: The Borden County Coyotes ended a 19-year playoff drought in 1990 by winning the District 6-A, Six-Man title, while the New Home Leopards, the 1989 champs of District 3-A, slipped to a 1-9 record in '90.

New Home has a decided experience factor. The Leopards return 13 lettermen — including five offensive starters — while the Coyotes have only seven lettermen (two offensive, one defensive starter) back from last year.

Add in the home field advantage, and it looks like Bobby Avery's Coyotes will have to wait another week for their first win.

New Home 28, Borden Co. 22

Grady at Midland Christian

The Grady Wildcats will start their quest for a fourth straight playoff spot when they travel to Midland tonight to take on the Midland Christian Mustangs.

The Wildcats have plenty of experience to base playoff hopes on as eight lettermen, including two starters on both sides of the ball, return from 1990. The Mustangs are more blessed in that department, however, returning 14 lettermen — including all six defensive starters, from last year.

Revenge is with the Wildcats, but experience and the home field advantage with the Mustangs, so...

It will be Steer Battle No. 2 when the Big Spring Steers play the Amarillo Caprock Longhorns Saturday at 2 p.m. at Dick Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

Last year the two teams again started the season and the Steers welcomed the Longhorns to the Class 4A ranks with a 42-13 victory at Memorial Stadium. Big Spring blew open a close game with three fourth quarter touchdowns. Wingback Neal Mayfield totaled 345 yards total offense and scored four times.

Caprock coach Preston Smith is one up on Butler in the experience department. Last year was Smith's first year at Caprock. Last year Smith's Longhorns went a 5-5. Caprock returns 14 lettermen, including five starters each on offense and defense.

The Longhorns, from District 1-4A, are picked in the preseason polls to finish fourth in their league. In scrimmage action this year they tied Wichita Falls Hirschi 1-1 and lost to Plainview 3-1.

Sub-varsity roundup

Big Spring JV 33, Cooper Soph. 12

The Big Spring Steers' junior varsity, paced by tailback Lonnie Jackson, opened its season on a high note with a 33-12 victory over the Abilene Cooper sophomores at Blankenship Field Thursday evening.

Jackson scored touchdowns on runs of 48, two and one yards as the Steers led throughout the contest.

"The kids played hard. We had good effort," JV coach Rickey Long said. "I think we're about where we need to be. There's some things we need to improve on, but it's nothing we can't correct. We'll get better."

Jackson opened the scoring with a one-yard run in the opening quarter. Wes Hughes' point-after-kick made the score 7-0. Later in the quarter, Jackson struck again, this time from 48 yards out. Hughes' PAT made the score 14-6 entering the second quarter.

In the third, tailback Josh Jones got into the scoring act from two yards out. The PAT was no good, but the Steers led 20-6.

Jackson added his third touchdown, a three-yard run, and tailback Brian Scott added another three yard touchdown run to close out the scoring.

Long lauded the efforts of safety Jones, who had an interception, middle linebacker Louis Bustamante and the entire offensive line.

Old Man Jimmy keeps rollin' along

NEW YORK (AP) — Five down. Two to go.

Jimmy Connors' remarkable run through the U.S. Open continues, unexpected, unabated and unbelievable.

The speed bump on Thursday night was Paul Haarhuis, who was overmatched against Connors and a howling National Tennis Center crowd of 20,000 fans that is going along on this joyous journey.

Connors won 4-6, 7-6 (7-3), 6-4, 6-2, moving into the semifinals at 39, the second oldest man to make it to that level in the Open era.

He is playing dramatic, dominating tennis, seizing opportunities, taking no prisoners.

Against Haarhuis, he used four dramatic lobs in a break point that kept him from falling two sets behind. The crowd erupted and Connors waved his racket at them, looking like Zubin Mehta conducting the New York Philharmonic. From then on, the match was his.

Haarhuis said the fans didn't disturb him. "I handled the crowd," he said. "I couldn't handle Jimmy Connors."

"In the third set, I started seeing everything. The ball looked like a basketball. That was as well as I've ever seen it."

Jimmy Connors

Neither has anybody else. There is a Connors karma operating at the National Tennis Center. Even Jimbo is feeling it.

"In the third set," he said, "I started seeing everything. The ball looked like a basketball. That was as well as I've ever seen it."

At 39, when others are being fit for bifocals, Connors' eyesight is getting sharper.

Haarhuis, who won the first four games losing just three points, went south after that.

"In the fourth set, there was an unbelievable lull in his face, his stride, his game," Connors said. "I thought it was time to jump on him, take advantage and get out of here."

Case closed. This Open saga began in a most unlikely way, with Connors down two sets and a service break in the third of his first match against Patrick McEnroe. He rallied to win the match in five sets.

"I can't imagine what my brother is thinking right now," John McEnroe said. "He unleashed a monster."

Connors appreciates the fairy tale he is weaving. "To come in here and play like this against the best players in the world, there's no way to describe it," he said. "Is this for real? I don't know. I can't describe this to you. It'll take six months before I can tell you what happened here."

"And it's not over yet. That's the best thing. The only way it will be over is if somebody steps up and beats me and he'll have to play damn good tennis to do that."

The last part was just in case French Open champ Jim Courier was listening. Courier, the tournament's fourth seed, meets Connors

Pickens plucks Cardinals

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Carl Pickens and a pair of freshmen backs stole the show Louisville wanted so badly to put on for, the largest crowd ever to see a game in Cardinal Stadium.

Pickens scored touchdowns of 75 and 67 yards and James Stewart and Aaron Hayden each ran for more than 100 yards as the 11th-ranked Volunteers (1-0) ended the Cardinals' eight-game winning streak with a 28-11 victory Thursday night.

"We have been talking about this game as the biggest game in University of Louisville history, and it was," Louisville coach Howard Schnellenberger said. "Unfortunately we weren't up to it tonight."

Adding to Fiesta Bowl champion Louisville's woes was the fact that junior quarterback Jeff Brohm left the game in the fourth quarter with what was later diagnosed as a fracture in his right ankle. Brohm's leg will be in a cast for about six weeks, team officials said.

The game was seen by a record crowd of 40,457 and the first national television audience to see a Cardinal home game.

Pickens scored his 75-yard TD on Tennessee's third play from scrimmage. He caught a pass from Andy Kelly near the Louisville 30 and raced down the right sideline into the end zone.

"We had a good run fake and the safety bit," Kelly said. "I think that opened it up. Anytime I see Carl open one on me I get it to him or close to him."

Pickens' second touchdown, the clincher, came on a punt return with 10:49 to play.

"I think we played better than the score indicated," Louisville center Carey Figg said. "If you take away the big plays we were right in there most of the time."

sure advantage Caprock has on his team in size. "They're definitely bigger than us, but we can say that just about every week," said Butler.

Butler said Caprock is a basic wing-T team that plays a 4-3 defense. He said the best player is fullback-lin-backer Trey Smith (6-1, 190), who happens to be the coach's son. Smith has 4.7 speed in the 40-yard dash.

"They try to get the ball to him (Smith) a lot," said Butler. "They run traps, fullback belly and throw him the bootleg pass. Their split end (Robert Waters) is pretty good and their quarterback (J.D. Tenorio) throws the ball well."

"I think if we can control Smith from making the big plays and keep the quarterback from running the bootleg, we'll be right."

Coach Smith said he thinks his team is ahead of what it was last year. "I think we're better on both sides of the ball," said Smith. "We're still trying to get enough kids to be able to compete in 4A, I feel like we should have more."

He still holds the highest respect for the Steers. "Big Spring lost some really good football players. They lost two outstanding backs, they don't have that kind of player anymore but I think maybe they are a better football team.

"I think they are coming together and realize they have to play more as a team. They don't have the big play guys."

A major concern for the Steers have been replacing Mayfield and Miller and getting offensive linemen to go along with returners Jon Downey at center, Lance Reeves at left tackle and Rocky Ortega at right guard.

The Steers will counter losing two all-state running backs with an abundance of skill people. Butler said he might use as many as two tailbacks (Maurice Evans and Tim Pearson), three fullbacks (Darrin Hill, Stacy Martin and Kevin Rodgers), three flankers (Pat Chavarria, Duane Edmonds and Oscar Valencia), three tight ends (Oscar Cervantes, Jason LeGrande and Ricky Gonzales) and three split ends (Pat Martinez, Nick Roberson and James Ward).

Both teams will have an abundance of two-way players. Big Spring will have as many as seven players going both ways and Caprock will have as many as eight.

Coach Smith figures fatigue could be a deciding factor in the contest. "With as many players going both ways and playing in the middle of the day, fatigue will be a big factor," he said.

Butler said a key for his team will be the offensive line. "The young kids (offensive linemen) did a lot better the other night (Friendship scrimmage) against stunts than we expected them," said Butler. "Jon, Rocky and Lance have been doing a good job trying to solidify the other. The key is to not let them get flustered. Having those guys (Downey, Ortega and Reeves) makes it a good deal."

Both coaches want ball control. "Our offense has to maintain the football," said Smith. "We have to make their defense stay on the field."

"We would like to control the football," echoed Butler. "We'd like to be able to take what they give us passing and do what we can do with our running game. We don't want to make the kids do something that is physically impossible for them to do, especially with our inexperienced linemen and backs."

Vols

Louisville (1-1) had a chance to tie it at 7 in the second quarter after Ray Buchanan intercepted Kelly's pass and returned it to the Tennessee 32. The Cardinals drove but failed to score in four attempts from the 1-yard line.

"That took the wind out of their sails," Bradley said. "We had our backs up against the wall and we stopped them. Any time you make a play like that, it means a lot."

But running back Ralph Dawkins, who was stopped on the fourth-down play, said the game didn't hinge on one series.

"We still had opportunities; we just didn't capitalize," he said.

The Volunteers turned the ball over five times — twice on interceptions and three times on fumbles. But Louisville was able to convert only one of the Volunteers' mistakes into points.

"We need to work on holding on to the football," Tennessee coach Johnny Majors said. "Typically we have better ball security. I can't remember a game like that in 10 years."

Tennessee, however, turned Louisville's lone turnover — a fumble by Dawkins on the Louisville 13 in the third quarter — into a touchdown. Stewart, a true freshman who finished with 101 yards, barreled 10 yards for the score that gave Tennessee a 21-3 advantage.

Louisville then went into a no-huddle offense and after two unsuccessful drives managed a four-play, 36-yard effort capped by 20-yard pass from Brohm to Randy Wyatt. Brohm's keeper was good for the 2-point conversion, closing it to 10 points with 14:33 to play.

"There came a point there at one time when we had gone to the 2-minute drill where we got close enough to think we had a chance to win, but then their talent overtook us and put the game out of reach," Schnellberger said.

Hayden, also a true freshman, finished the game with 109 yards and a second-quarter touchdown. Kelly was 10 of 20 for 150 yards and two interceptions.

Brohm was 14 of 25 for 133 yards before leaving with the injury.

Blue Jays extend AL East lead to four games

American League

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 A pennant race means different things to different people. Detroit manager Sparky Anderson has seen lots of races, so he's not too concerned that the Tigers fell four games behind Toronto in the AL East as a result of Thursday's 4-1 loss to Oakland.

"It's wonderful to win, and we all want to win, but the most important thing is to get our kids ready," Anderson said. "After where we were the last two years, I'm excited about where we will be in the future."

"Toronto's playing good ball, and they have a very nice team, but four games is one week," Tanana said. "That can disappear in a hurry. We have to put a surge, and win a lot of games."

"You try not to put any pressure on yourself because it's September. You try to think like it's April," Key said after the Blue

CHICAGO — Chicago White Sox Bo Jackson slaps the ball for a single, his first base hit since coming back from a hip injury, during the first inning Thursday against the Kansas City Royals. Jackson had three RBIs as Chicago won, 11-2.

Jays routed the last-place Indians 13-1 at Cleveland.

The Red Sox rallied for a run in the ninth to tie the score and beat the visiting Mariners 4-3 in the 10th on John Marzano's pinch single.

"It just feels great to contribute in a pennant race," Marzano said. "It was a game we had to win because Toronto blew away Cleveland. Now, instead of falling 6½ games behind the Blue Jays, we're still 5½, and there's a long way to go."

There may not be enough time for the three-time defending champion Oakland, though. The A's trail first-place Minnesota by 8½ games.

"We've got a lot of work to do," A's manager Tony La Russa said. "We've got to win almost every game for two or three weeks to get back into the race."

The White Sox beat the Royals 11-2 to move within 7½ games of the Twins.

Blue Jays 13, Indians 1
 Jimmy Key gave up one run in 7 2-3 innings and Rance Mulliniks drove in four runs for Toronto.
 Key (15-9) allowed eight hits before rookie Vince Horsman came on and retired four straight batters in his major-league debut. The Blue Jays, 9-1 against the Indians this year, have won 10 of their last 14 games overall.

Mulliniks, Roberto Alomar and Candy Maldonado each had three of Toronto's season-high 17 hits.

Joe Carter had two hits, including his 31st homer.
 Loser Charles Nagy (8-12) yielded seven runs and 11 hits in five innings.

Athletics 4, Tigers 1
 Harold Baines had three hits, including a home run, as Oakland won at Tiger Stadium.

Mike Moore (13-8) allowed one run on six hits and six walks in six-plus innings, before giving way to the bullpen. Moore is 4-1 since coming off the disabled list on Aug. 6.

Rick Honeycutt put runners on first and second in the ninth and Dennis Eckersley came on to get the last two outs for his 37th save, tying Rick Aguilera for the AL lead.

Frank Tanana fell to 11-9.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 1
 John Marzano's pinch single scored Carlos Quintana from third base with an unearned run in the 10th inning to lift Boston over Seattle at Fenway Park.

White Sox 11, Royals 2
 Bo Jackson drove in three runs with his first two major-league hits since his return from a serious hip injury, and Chicago scored 10 runs in the fourth inning to beat visiting Kansas City.

Padres damage Cards' pennant hopes

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Cardinals are now playing for second place.

San Diego rallied for three runs in the eighth inning to beat St. Louis 3-1, dropping the Cardinals 9½ games behind Pittsburgh in the NL East.

There were no other games scheduled in the National League. Even in defeat, there were some special moments.

The Cardinals turned their first triple play in three years and left fielder Milt Thompson made a home run-saving catch before San Diego rallied.

"It could've been a different ballgame with a couple of different plays," said Cardinals starter Bryn Smith, who pitched a four-hit, shutout ball through seven innings before being removed for a pinch-hitter.

"The triple play got us out of a jam," Smith said. "The ball Milt Thompson caught on Fred McGriff got us out of another jam. It could've been a 2-1 game going into the eighth."

The Padres broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning on a two-run single by

National League

pinch-hitter Benito Santiago with the bases loaded and two outs.

Greg Harris (5-4) allowed one run on three hits through eight innings for the victory.

But after watching the Cardinals turn their first triple play since Aug. 16, 1988, against Houston, Harris didn't think luck was on his side.

"To me, it was like the odds were against us today," said Harris, who has a 1.59 ERA spanning his last seven starts. "They got the triple play early, then they robbed Fred. You sort of have to look back and say, 'Uh-oh, it's going to be a low-scoring game today.'"

The triple play occurred in the second inning with Oscar Azocar on second base and Tim Teufel on first. Jerald Clark hit a sharp grounder to third baseman Todd Zeile, who stepped on the bag and threw to second baseman Geronimo Pena, who then fired to first baseman Pedro Guerrero.

College powers heavily favored in season openers

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's late summer, and in college football that means it's too late for many of the weaker schools to avoid their traditional blow outs. Many of the top football schools fill their early season schedules with easy games against teams from smaller or less ambitious programs eager for a big payday. Saturday's schedule includes 15 games involving Top 25 teams, and in 11 of those games, the ranked team is either favored to win by 16 points or more, or the game is expected to be such a rout that there is no betting line. The "no-line" games are San Jose State at No. 6 Florida, Appalachian State at No. 8 Clemson and Utah State at No. 14 Nebraska. Top-ranked Florida State will be a 40-point favorite when it plays host to Tulane on Saturday night, but Seminoles coach Bobby Bowden is wary of the Green Wave, especially in light of Memphis State's upset of No. 16 Southern Cal on Monday. "Tulane upset us in 1983 when we were a Top 10 team and undefeated," Bowden said. "Memphis State beat Southern Cal at Southern Cal. That's what happens when you're not mentally ready." Bowden isn't the only coach using Memphis State as a cause to keep his team focused. Joe Paterno of No. 5 Penn State, a six-touchdown favorite over Cincinnati, also reminded his players of a 1983 upset. "I told them prior to the Southern Cal game that I was nervous about Cincinnati," said Paterno, referring to the Bearcats' 14-3 defeat of the Nittany Lions eight years ago. "You never know how good a team is going to be in its first game." "Our goal is to win and that would shock the football world," Cincinnati coach Tim Murphy said. Elsewhere Saturday, No. 2 Michigan is a 23-point favorite at Boston College, Indiana is a 17-point underdog at seventh-ranked Notre Dame, No. 12 Colorado is a 22-point favorite at home against Wyoming, Hawaii is a 16-point underdog at No. 15 Iowa,

No. 20 Alabama is a 17-point favorite at home over Temple and Vanderbilt is a four-touchdown underdog at No. 24 Syracuse. The only game involving ranked team has No. 25 Brigham Young at No. 23 UCLA. No. 4 Washington is at Stanford, No. 13 Texas is at Mississippi State and Arizona is at No. 22 Ohio State in games in which the ranked team is favored by less than 10 points. On Thursday night, No. 11 Tennessee thrashed Louisville 28-11. Carl Pickens caught a 75-yard touchdown pass on Tennessee's third play of the game and added the capper with a 67-yard punt return TD after Louisville had cut the Vols' advantage to 21-11 in the fourth period. Colorado coach Bill McCartney suggested that Wyoming, which lost its opener 32-17 to Hawaii, might have an advantage in having practiced longer and having played one game. "If that's true, maybe we could trade rosters," Cowboys coach Joe Tiller said.

Latenight nuptials

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor John Travolta, visiting Paris for the premiere of his new movie, "The Tender," decided to mix romance with business, marrying actress Kelly Preston in a midnight ceremony.

The two were wed Thursday night at the De Crillon hotel, Travolta's publicist, Paul Block, said in Los Angeles.

The marriage is the first for the 37-year-old Travolta, who has starred in such films as "Saturday Night Fever," "Urban Cowboy" and "Look Who's Talking." It was the second for Preston, 28, whose film credits include "Run" and "Exposing Myself," Rivera's new book, recounts how he prepared for an interview with singer Bette Midler.

"We were in the bathroom, preparing for the interview, and at some point I put my hands on her breasts. She loved it, and we fell into a passionate embrace."

He says of Margaret Trudeau: "It was like she had never been made love to before. It was like she was unleashing years of pent-up frustration."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

You may be expecting too much from young people. Give offspring more time to mature and life will be easier. Family members draw closer together as Thanksgiving approaches. In December, cut yourself free from negative people and unsuccessful projects.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your stubbornness is a plus today, despite the reaction of your mate or another family member. Romance deserves a second chance. Make your wishes clear. Do not say "yes" when you mean "no."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An older person feels young again after visiting with grandchildren. Two in-laws get along better. A romantic refusal may not be permanent. Refuse to be discouraged. Act cheerful and bide your time!

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Forgive someone's shortcomings. You cannot make this person pay forever for a mistake. Changing your attitude could bring new financial benefits. Be careful not to take loved ones for granted. Repay favors.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Travel could provide a welcome change of pace. Include members of several generations. Keep vacation expenses down by avoiding trendy restaurants and costly souvenirs.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): A family get-together enjoys favorable influences. Forget past grievances and focus on shared interests. A family secret is revealed. Luckily, no harm is done. Protect a parent. Be more discreet in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Pace yourself and you will accomplish more. Your mate or another family member gives you a hand around the house. Save money whenever you can. Use store coupons to trim your grocery bill.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Jot down original ideas before you forget them. A friend wants to make amends for a slight. Be receptive. Juggle your schedule to spend more time with your loved ones. Cherish a child.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Looking for larger quarters to increase your family's comfort will be worth the additional expense. Changing your lifestyle will contribute to better understanding between parent and child.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Trust your intuition today—it is right on target! Some long-awaited news arrives in the nick of time. Romantic partner likes to keep you guessing. Listen quietly and wait for further clues.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Reaching an agreement with your neighbors will improve your relationship. You can find some fine bargains if you shop carefully. Entertaining at home can be fun without being expensive. Limit your guest list.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Expect a frantically busy day but one that you will enjoy. Friends help you make a major personal decision. Comparison shopping will pay off big if you decide to buy a large appliance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Spending time outdoors gives you new vim and vigor. A young person looks to you for guidance. Verbal conflicts can be avoided if you exercise more tact and patience. Stop sounding so critical.

Bearkats' defense defeats Forsan Buffaloes

GARDEN CITY — The Garden City Bearkats have been long known for their fast-attack offense, but the game ball for Friday night's 49-0 victory over the Forsan Buffaloes deserves to go to the defense.

The Bearkats, ranked first in the Associated Press Class A poll, featured a smothering defense that limited the Buffaloes to less than 70 yards total offense, while Garden City's trademark offense rolled for more than 500 total yards.

Forsan had trouble getting untracked all evening, and when star fullback Gilbert Rodriguez went down with a lower leg injury late in the first quarter, things rapidly got worse for the Buffs' attack. Rodriguez was taken to Scenic Mountain Medical Center for X-rays, and his status was unknown at presstime.

Minus their star running back, the Buffaloes were easy prey for raced 80 yards in just two plays. Mario Aguilar went around the left end for 43 yards, and Bradford ended the drive on the next play when he went around right end and scored from 37 yards out.

Aguilar gained 61 yards on seven attempts.

Garden City coach Sam Scott was very pleased with the effort from Bradford and Aguilar.

Garden City's passing game, which was kept fairly well under wraps by the Buffaloes, finally got into the scoring act late in the first half when quarterback Shae Scott capped an eight play, 54-yard drive by passing nine yards to Matt Seidenberger.

"I was just tickled to death," he said. "James is a great back, and with him gone, we've got some kids who are stepping in and doing a great job."

Scott also was pleased with the Bearkats' defense.

"We are definitely playing better defense than in past years, and hopefully that will carry us," he said. "I'm really proud of the effort we got from our defense."

The Bearkats closed out the scoring in the second half on touchdown runs of 31 yards by Bradford and seven yards by Bradford and on a 30-yard interception return by cornerback Andy Lopez.

Garden City will return to action Friday when they host Grandfalls at 8 p.m. Forsan will celebrate its homecoming Friday by hosting Rankin in an 8 p.m. game.

Bradford, subbing for an injured James Soles, led all rushers with 137 yards on 15 carries. Rodriguez added 74 yards on 10 carries while

Bearkats' defense gets an A

GARDEN CITY — Sam Scott said the Garden City Bearkats' number-one goal for the 1991 season was to improve on defense.

If Friday's season-opening 49-0 blowout over the Forsan Buffaloes is any indication, Scott can rest easy — the Bearkats' D is in very fine shape.

The Garden City defenders went about their task like wild banshees Friday, limiting the Buffaloes to less than 70 yards total offense for the entire game.

Forsan managed but 47 yards rushing on 31 attempts, and 22 yards passing on six completions.

The most notable thing, however, is that Garden City's defense got stingier as the game went on. In the second half, the Bearkats limited Forsan to 19 yards — total.

Garden City has always been known for its explosive offense, but the defense has always been considered a sort of weak sister, as evidenced by last year's 54-8 loss to Valley Mills in the state quarterfinals.

Scott gave notice that the defenders would improve, and his efforts seem to have borne fruit.

"We definitely played better defense than in years past — and hopefully that will carry us," he said Friday night. "I'm real proud of the effort we got from our defense."

GARDEN CITY — Forsan Buffaloes' wingback Ryan Hamby (11) is pursued by Garden City linebacker Matt Seidenberger (32) and another Bearkat defender during Friday night's game in Garden City. The Bearkats won, 49-0, in the season opener for both teams.

Another person who notices the improvement on defense is the unit's leading tackler — middle linebacker Eric Seidenberger.

"We've improved a lot ahead of where we were at the end of last season," Seidenberger said. "I think that's great."

GARDEN CITY — Garden City quarterback Shae Scott (1) struggles to get away from Forsan defender John Reese (22) during first quarter action at Bearkat Stadium Friday night.

Coahoma ground attack squeaks by Greenwood

By LORNE FANCETT
For the Herald

GREENWOOD — The Coahoma Bulldogs came into Friday's game as the underdog attempting to bring home an upset victory over the Greenwood Rangers in their season debut.

As luck would have it — along with a little help from the offense — the Bulldogs succeeded as they handed the Rangers a 17-14 defeat.

For the fans, though, doubts may have cropped up as the Bulldogs failed to cash in on two long drives in the first quarter. The first Coahoma drive consumed a good portion of the clock and entailed 13 plays — including a 19 yard run on the first play from scrimmage from fullback Stephen New.

Unfortunately for the Bulldogs, the end result was a missed Brian Sledge field goal attempt from 33 yards out.

The second drive started after a fumble recovery on the Bulldogs' 30. Eight plays later, which included a 22-yard pass from quarterback Brent Elmore to wide receiver Matt Coates, Coahoma found itself on the Rangers' 5-yard line.

Things seemed to be going the Bulldogs' way because, on the next play, the defense was called for encroachment, bringing the ball to the 2½ yard line. Unfortunately for Head Coach Steve Park, his offense failed to penetrate the strong stand that the Rangers' defense offered.

The second quarter started off as a nightmare for the Bulldogs as Greenwood's Jason Spokes made himself known to the fans. On a Coahoma first down at its own 27, Spokes intercepted an Elmore pass and returned it to Coahoma's 22. The next play saw Spokes racing in for a touchdown on a pass from running back Eric Clutters.

Coahoma appeared to stop the Rangers' two-point conversion attempt, but a penalty gave Greenwood another chance — and the Rangers made the most of it, taking an 8-0 lead.

The score didn't hold for long, though, as the Bulldogs' Stephen New scored on a 71-yard trap play just 2 minutes later. A failed 2-point conversion play by Coahoma left the score 8-6 at the half.

The third quarter seemed to be bittersweet for both the Bulldogs and the Rangers. Coahoma received the opening kickoff and started to move the ball well. During this drive tailback Mike Mendez had carries of 19 and 24 yards to help move the ball down to the Rangers' 14-yard line.

GREENWOOD — Coahoma fullback Steven New (25) finds some running room as Greenwood defenders Eric Clutter (15) and Ted Flowers (17) close in during first half action Friday. Also in on the play is Coahoma tailback Mike Mendez (20).

Greenwood's defense stiffened, however, and Coahoma settled for a Sledge field goal, making the score 9-8.

Greenwood never had the chance to respond to that score, as the Bulldogs recovered the ensuing kickoff. But Coahoma couldn't capitalize on its new found fortune as the Rangers mounted yet another goal-line stand.

The quarter ended with the score of 9-8 in favor of the Bulldogs. They had possession of the ball for more than 9 minutes of the quarter but could only produce 3 points.

It was in the last quarter of the game when the fans really got the chance to bite off some fingernails. Coahoma's faithful were the first to start chewing as Greenwood's tailback Eric Clutter scored on a 43-yard run with 5:44 remaining. A failed 2-point conversion left the score 14-9.

On the first play of the ensuing drive, tailback Mike Mendez received a pass from Elmore that covered 33 yards, bringing the ball to midfield. Two plays later, a pass interference call on Greenwood brought the ball down to its own 23.

From there, Mendez took over. He took the next handoff and scampered 12 yards to the Rangers' 11. On the next play, he took a pitch around right end and scored, making the score 17-14 after a successful two-point conversion.

"Both the offense and the defense played super," Coahoma

Head Coach Park said after the game. "We should have scored a couple of more times. I'm a little disappointed in that but other than that our kids played super."

The final totals saw Coahoma rack up 390 total yards offense and 20 first downs. Mike Mendez led the Bulldogs with 197 yards total offense, including a 33-yard pass reception and 164 yards rushing on 31 carries.

Fullback Stephen New compiled 128 yards on 16 carries.

Curious about how income taxes are taught? H&R Block, the country's largest income tax preparation firm, will hold an open house on September 7th. According to Tommy Richmond, H&R Block franchise owner, "We invite anyone interested in income tax preparation to attend."

Experienced H&R Block tax preparers will be available to answer the public's questions about income taxes and tax return preparation. Tax manuals and class-room study materials will be on display.

The 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. open house will be held at 1512 S. Gregg, the location of Block's Income Tax School. One of more than 1,500 schools conducted throughout the United States, the 75-hour course will begin on September 9th.

The school's curriculum of more than 40 tax topics includes filing requirements, itemized deductions, farm returns, retirement plans, rental property, and business schedules, among others. Graduates receive certificates and 7.5 continuing education units.

"You do not need an accounting background or tax experience to enroll," said Tommy Richmond. "Our students range from homemakers and college students to retirees and people studying toward careers in tax preparation. You can find all ages and educational backgrounds represented in a typical Income Tax School course."

Anyone interested in attending the open house or enrolling in the Income Tax School can contact Tommy Richmond or Gladys Custer at the H&R Block office at 1512 S. Gregg or call 263-4572.

Bearcats score easy win over C-City Wolves

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

COLORADO CITY — Two extended scoring drives and an 80-yard touchdown punt return gave the Ballinger Bearcats an easy 21-0 win over the Colorado City Wolves Friday night.

Wolf coach Tom Ramsey attributed much of the holes in defense to first-game jitters for many players. "They were a little bit nervous tonight," he said. "A lot of them were the inexperienced players coming up from the junior varsity."

Bearcat coach Glen Jones said the win is a big confidence booster. He said he was unsure how well a new Bearcat defense would do and knew before the game that he would want to rely on two or three touchdowns to win.

"That was our goal coming in here," he said. "We're going to try to score two or three touchdowns and then hold them."

The Wolves were held to 50 yards rushing on 20 plays. Kevin Green got most of those yards until he was helped off the field with a sprained ankle late in the third quarter. Quarterback Kelly Ramsey hit five passes on 15 attempts to rack up 97 yards. He was intercepted once.

"I'm just tickled to death with our defense," Jones said of the scoring shutdown. "This was real, real good for our program."

The Bearcats rushed for 158 yards on 41 plays. Quarterback Will Duggan threw eight complete passes for 86 yards on 12 attempts. He was intercepted once.

The first score came during the first quarter on a 67-yard drive that chewed up about five minutes on 11 plays. It culminated with a two-yard touchdown run by fullback Kristen Trimble with 1:38 left in the quarter.

"We were breaking down and losing containment — you just can't do that," Coach Ramsey said of the drive.

Then with less than one minute into the second quarter, the Wolves were forced to punt and Bearcat Kirk Travis was able to scramble free from about half a dozen defenders to run 83 yards for the second touchdown of the night.

COLORADO CITY — Ballinger defender Nolan Sellers (30) turns the corner as Wolves fullback Coty Strain (14) runs upfield during first half action.

them five yards.

The Wolves were stymied when they opened the fourth quarter. The drive ended with a 13-yard loss when quarterback Ramsey was sacked. The Wolves had one more chance to score with about four minutes left in the game after Gene Rogers recovered a fumble on the Bearcat 20-yard line. But the Wolves lost the ball on another fumble inside the Bearcat five-yard line.

"It killed us. You can't turn the ball over. Especially when they give you a gift," Coach Ramsey said. "Whenever you fumble that's mental, that's not physical."

Meanwhile, Ramsey said he expects a tough opponent next Friday when the Wolves travel to Martin County to play the Stanton Buffaloes, who have nine returning starters.

"We expect them to be pretty salty. I thought they were pretty good last season," he said.

Green should be ready to play that game, Ramsey said. "They said it's not broke, it's a sprain, so he should be back next week."

"That was probably the big backbreaker," Ramsey said. "You could see the heads drop and the momentum change."

The third touchdown was set up by a 33-yard punt return in the third quarter by Eric Fritze, which brought the ball to the Wolf 36-yard line. It took six plays in about three minutes to bring the ball over the goal. Duggan squeaked the ball over on a one-yard quarterback sneak.

The brightest moments for the Wolves then followed when they got ball with about 4½ minutes left in the quarter. But a 52-yard, eight-play drive that took about four minutes fizzled with the injury of Green.

It began with a 15 yard pass from Ramsey to David Castillo, who was brought down on the Wolf 46-yard line. Green took over on the next four plays, chugging out runs of 12, seven, five and three yards respectively. That put the Wolves at the 27 yard line on second down with two yards to go for a first down.

After an incomplete pass to Castillo that would probably have been a touchdown if thrown a little bit higher, Coty Strain ran the ball one yard, making it fourth down with one yard needed for a first down.

The Wolves took a chance with about half a minute left in the quarter and again gave the ball to Green. Green ran the ball to the 17-yard line but was injured in the play. After Green hobbled off the field with two people holding him up, the Wolf offense wilted. As if to signal the end, an illegal procedure was called against the Wolves just before the quarter ended, costing

Klondike Cougars

Eagles flew right on past Cougars

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

PATRICIA — The Ropes Eagles combined a big play offense and a stingy defense to down the Klondike Cougars 42-22 in the season-opening game for both six-man teams.

The Eagles defense controlled the young Klondike offense while offensively the Eagles got some big plays from running backs Tommy Medrano and Fabian Lopez to make the game an almost-rout.

The score wasn't as close as it appeared. The Eagles had a 42-6 lead with just over four minutes left in the game. The Cougars came back with two long scoring pass plays in the waning minutes to make the score look better.

The contest started out as if it would be a big-play affair for both teams as each scored on their first possessions in a hurry.

The Cougars scored on their second play from scrimmage, and made it look easy. Sophomore running back Mike Lee took a handoff and went around left end untouched for a 55-yard scoring run.

But then the Ropes defense put on a stellar performance. The Cougars didn't get their next first down until there was 6:54 left in the contest.

Klondike coach Tom Ham called it valuable experience for his sophomore-dominated squad. "It was a good learning experience. We try to take that attitude that we'll learn from it," said Ham. "I wanted to win, especially since I used to coach at Ropes. We had some bright spots... Mike Lee looked good on that second play. We made too many mistakes and we couldn't keep our heads up to play past those mistakes."

Ropes marched 65 yards in five plays on their first possession. Michael Salas started it off with a 20-yard run, followed by an 18-yard run, which was capped off by another 18-yard scoring run by Salas, who broke four tackles along the way.

Ropes scored two more times late in the second quarter to take a 20-6 halftime lead.

Starting from their own nine, it took the Eagles three plays to score. The big play was a 69-yard jaunt by Lopez, who simply outran the Cougar defense.

The Eagles made it 20-6 by going 48 yards in six plays. The big play to start it off was a 14-yard pass play from Medrano to Bonifacio Grimaldo. It was capped off by a 30-yard pass from Medrano to a diving Salas in the end zone.

Ropes coach Grover Willis, who used to coach at Sands, said quickness was the key to the victory. "The quickness did it, we were just a lot quicker than they were," said Willis. "I figured we would make some big plays. We did real good in the scrimmages. We play a lot of young kids. Except from Medrano, who's a junior, all of our other backs are freshmen. The seniors on this team do less playing than anybody."

down attempt early in the third quarter, the Eagles mounted another scoring drive. The six-play, 42-yard drive ended with the elusive Medrano making several Cougars miss him, scoring from 26 yards out.

Ropes scored again after Klondike missed another fourth-down attempt. The drive started off with passes of 14 and 15 yards to Grimaldo. It was followed by a 16-yard run by Medrano. It was concluded with a six-yard run around left end by Adam Rosales. Ropes led 34-6 with 8:29 left in the game.

Following the script again, Ropes scored when Klondike failed to convert on fourth down. Lopez busted runs of 11 and 30 yards.

Medrano scored his third TD of the game, a five-yard scoring run with 4:55 left.

The Cougars made the score respectable by scoring with two long touchdown passes. Brandon Oaks threw a 47-yard bomb to Lee, and Chris Riggins threw a 31-yard pass to David Rawlings. Oaks booted both two-point kicks.

Klondike will be on the road Friday when they travel to Whitharrel while Ropes is at home against Amherst.

SMU, Arkansas set to tangle

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Southern Methodist University coach Tom Rossley and Arkansas coach Jack Crowe are at the opposite ends of the spectrum when it comes to the timing of Saturday's game.

The Razorbacks are inexperienced at quarterback, Rossley said, so this is a good time to play Arkansas. The inexperience was unavoidable with Arkansas quarterback Quinn Grovey having completed his eligibility last year, he said.

Junior quarterback Gary Adams, the starter in last week's 31-3 loss to Miami, threw a dozen passes in his first two years at Arkansas. His backup is Doyle Preston, a couple of months out of high school.

"SMU always plays better football early in the season when they are not so banged up," Crowe said. "We have been fortunate to play them late in the year in the past. This is not the case this season. They are an experienced and hungry team that I know will be improved."

SMU, banned from football by the NCAA in 1987 and 1988 for various rules violations, outplayed the Razorbacks' Southwest Conference championship team in 1989.

Seagraves prevents Stanton from scoring

The Seagraves Eagles made a strong entrance into the 1991 football season with a 35-0 win over the Stanton Buffalos.

In the first quarter, the teams had trouble holding onto the ball, with fumbles making the going tough for awhile. The Eagles got over their first night jitters with 8:32 to go in the first quarter, however, when they recovered a Stanton fumble. Nine plays later, after a 47-yard drive, junior fullback Kendrick Anderson took the ball in from one yard out to put the first points on the scoreboard. Timmy Cabazos kicked in the point after, and the Eagles led 7-0.

The second quarter started badly for the Stanton Buffalos when the Eagles recovered a Buffalo fumble on the first play. Cabazos passed the ball 17 yards to Todd Moore for the score, and then Cabazos made the two-point PAT. The score stood at 15-0.

The Buffalos were forced to punt with 3:36 left in the half, and the Eagles' Kendrick Anderson ran 12 yards for the next six points. Cabazos made the point after, increasing the Eagles' lead to 21-0.

Seagraves got the opening kickoff to start the second half. The 5-play, 50-yard drive resulted in another six points, run in by Anderson from 12 yards out. Cabazos put the extra points on the scoreboard for a 28-0 lead.

Another fumble by Stanton at their own 21 yard line resulted in yet another turnover. Five plays later, Tony Conde of the Eagles scored from four yards out with 20 seconds left in the quarter. With Cabazos' kick, the score stood at 35-0.

The bright spot in the game for the Buffs was the performance of their two leading rushers. Jim Bob Kelly carried the ball 19 times for 155 yards, and Allen Prough carried 11 times for 38 yards.

The leading rusher for Seagraves was Kendrick Anderson, who gained 110 yards on 14 carries.

HERMLEIGH — Sands quarterback Grant Gooch (3) drops back in the pocket, ready to pass to one of his receivers downfield during first half action Friday evening. Sands defeated Hermleigh, 50-0.

Mustangs race out of starting gate

HERMLEIGH — The No. 4 ranked Sands Mustangs got off to a roaring start as they blanked the Hermleigh Cardinals 50-0 in season-opening six-man play here Friday night.

The Mustangs defense was simply awesome, not allowing the Cardinals a first down, and limiting them to 35 yards total offense. The game was called five plays into the third quarter because of the 45-point rule. Sands first score came in the opening quarter when Aaron Cowley passed 55 yards to Pank Grigg. This was followed by a one-yard run by David Ybarra. Grigg added the two-point kick, giving the Mustangs a 14-0 lead. The Mustangs scored their third touchdown in the first quarter when Grigg scored from 21-yards out.

Midland Christian walks all over Grady

MIDLAND — Midland Christian got three touchdowns from Bill Autrey and two touchdowns by John Dallas to whip the Grady Wildcats 48-14 in six-man football action here Friday night.

The Midland Christian defense held Grady scoreless in the first half, building a 26-0 halftime lead.

Midland Christian scored first on a 37-yard pass from Autrey to Dallas. This was followed by a 68-yard run by Dallas.

In the second quarter Weaver threw a 27-yard pass to Autrey.

Grady scored in the third quarter on a four-yard run by Gilbert Cortez. Midland Christian scored in the third period on a 12-yard run by Kyle Jackson and a 26-yard run by Autrey.

In the fourth quarter Grady scored on an eight-yard run by Tony Hewetty. Midland Christian's final score was a 26-yard run by Autrey.

Grady Leandro Gonzales said his team didn't play well. "We panicked, it was just about the worst game I've ever coached," said Gonzales. Nothing clicked. It was 14-0, we drove to the one and fumbled. Then Autrey caught the touchdown pass, that broke our back."

Grady will be on the road Friday against Borden County at 7:30 p.m.

New Home edges Borden County

NEW HOME — The New Home Leopards squeaked past the Borden County Coyotes, 39-37 in the season opener for both teams Friday night.

The Leopards were first on the scoreboard with a 2-yard run by Troy Fillingim. The extra point attempt failed, and the score was 6-0 for the home squad.

Borden County came back to tie the score with 1:31 to go in the first quarter on a 2-yard run by Brandon Adcock. The kick was no good, and the score was tied 6-6.

With only one second remaining in the first quarter, New Home's Jesse Rodriguez took off on a 55-yard run to score another six. The extra point attempt failed, and the score was 12-6 at the end of the first quarter.

The first score of the second quarter came with 5:44 to go on a 41-yard run by Jesse Rodriguez of the Leopards. Lanny Zant passed to Blain Fillingim for the PAT, and New Home led the visitors from Gail, 19-6.

With 2:55 remaining in the second half, Jeff Armes of New Home lobbed a 33-yard pass to Blain Fillingim for another touchdown. With the extra point try to follow, the

The extra point attempt by the Leopards resulted in a loose ball, which was snared by the Coyotes' Juve Balague, who ran the length of the field for a Borden County point. Borden County closed the gap to 25-7, with more fireworks to follow.

With 50 seconds to go in the half, Clint Wills connected on a 23-yard touchdown pass to Juve Balague, resulting in another six for Borden County. Richard Buchanan scored the point after, ending the half with a score of 25-15.

In the third quarter, Brandon Adcock scored another six for the Coyotes with 5:49 to go, and it was Buchanan again on the PAT, pulling the visitors to within two, 25-23.

With 1:07 remaining in the third,

New Home's Michael Caballaro passed 10 yards to Blain Fillingim in the end zone for the score. The extra point attempt was no good, and the score was 31-23 at the end of the quarter.

Fourth quarter scoring got underway with 9:09 to go in the game when Troy Fillingim ran in from 10 yards out. The score was now 37-23 with the failed PAT attempt.

Ten seconds later, Brandon Adcock hit paydirt as he gathered in the kickoff and returned it 50 yards for the score. Buchanan scored the point after for a score of 37-31.

The Coyotes' Juve Balague caught Clint Wills' 22-yard pass for the next Borden County score with 6:17 to go in the game. The kick was no good, and the score stood at 37-all.

Borden County then made a fatal mistake with 1:43 remaining, as Coyote quarterback Clint Wills was sacked in his own end zone, providing New Home with the winning margin, 39-37.

With only 20 seconds remaining, the Coyotes had one last chance to pull it out of the fire, but a fumble recovered by New Home ended the chance, and the Leopards took home their first victory of the new season.

Old mixed with the new at Open Super Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Super Saturday at the U.S. Open — two men's semifinals sandwiched around the women's championship — has turned into a celebration of tennis history, with a teen queen along for the ride.

Martina Navratilova and Jimmy Connors, two blasts from the past, owned center stage at the National Tennis Center today, seeking to take their unlikely Open adventures to one more level.

Navratilova, one month short of her 35th birthday, played 17-year-old Monica Seles for the women's crown and Connors, who celebrated his 39th birthday during the tournament, faced 21-year-old Jim Courier in one of the men's semis. The other paired another graybeard, 31-year-old Ivan Lendl, against Stefan Edberg.

Navratilova, who reached the Open finals for the eighth time in 11 years by defeating top-seeded Steffi Graf 7-6 (7-2), 6-7 (6-8), 6-4 Friday, enjoyed the return to prominence of the over-30 set.

"You know, we have all been written off many times before," she said. "I have. I should have quit playing in 1987 if I listened to other people, or to what was written. But Jimmy is still in there and he has a chance to win the whole thing. And obviously, so do I. I think it just shows what the spirit can do."

A booming serve and aggressive play at the net helped, too, against Graf, who admitted that Navratilova surprised her. "She served very well," Graf said. "I didn't expect her to play such solid tennis."

Few did. Navratilova, burdened by some difficult personal baggage, had struggled through a so-so summer that resulted in a No. 6 seeding at the Open, a tournament she has won four times. She was troubled by that but understood it.

"The seedings were accurate," she said. "I was No. 6. But I can't remember the last time I went into a Grand Slam that I was thinking, 'I can't win it.' I knew the odds were against me a lot more than they had been in the past."

Now they are greatly reduced and Navratilova is delighted at a chance for a 19th Grand Slam title. "I want to win the thing, of course," she said. "It is nice to have that opportunity. I am thrilled to death."

To reach this point, Navratilova had to battle through two tiebreakers, the second after she was broken by Graf as she served for the match. That was a reminder of the inconsistent tennis that has plagued her all summer.

Still, Graf knew the dangers Martina posed at this stage of a tournament. "I knew it was just a matter of time before she got going again," she said. "Today, she did."

That could be a problem for Seles

who was as inconsistent against Capriati as Navratilova was all summer. There were three double faults, 44 unforced errors and a sea of missed opportunities in her 6-3, 3-6, 7-6 (7-3) victory. Her serve was broken six times.

At times, the two teen-agers looked like a couple of country club players instead of semifinalists in a Grand Slam tournament.

"I was very mad at myself," she said. "I could not hold my serve."

Neither, however, could Capriati, who lost her own serve six times and committed 40 unforced errors of her own. Twice, Capriati served for the match. Twice Seles broke her. The frustration showed.

"I just think I wasn't aggressive enough," she said. "You know, at that time is when you're really got to go for it and I didn't."

Tapani wins ninth straight; Twins edge Yanks

American League

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Kevin Tapani shook off a shaky start for his ninth consecutive victory and Chuck Knoblauch tripled to spark a three-run fourth inning Friday night as the Minnesota Twins beat the New York Yankees 3-1.

The Twins, who hadn't won with three or fewer runs since July 19, have used a 34-18 record since the All-Star break to take command in the AL West.

Tapani (14-7) hasn't lost since June 27 and is 12-1 since ending a six-game losing streak June 5. He is 4-0 against the Yankees this season and 5-0 in his career.

He got out of a first-and-third, one-out jam in the first inning and allowed two hits and a run in the third. But the Yankees never got another runner past first base and Tapani pitched seven-hit ball for eight innings, walking none and striking out six.

Wade Taylor (7-8) lost despite giving up just six hits in 7 1-3 innings, tying a career-high with six strikeouts and allowing only one hard hit all game. That was the triple to left-center by Knoblauch, who, like Taylor, is a top AL rookie. The Twins are 43-14 when Knoblauch scores.

Knoblauch, who also doubled and is batting .357 with 13 runs in his last 19 games, scored on Kirby Puckett's high-chop double down the left-field line.

Hrbek walked. With Puckett and Hrbek moving on a hit-and-run, Brian Harper threw his bat at Taylor's pitch and sent a grounder between short and third. Puckett collided with third baseman Pat Kelly, who was trying to get to the ball, but no interference was called and Puckett scored after the ball went into left field. Shane Mack followed with an RBI grounder.

New York scored in the third on Kelly's bunt single, Bernie Williams' double and Steve Sax's run-scoring grounder.

Angels 2, Brewers 1

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Joe Grahe earned his first victory in eight starts this year and Dave Winfield ended a 2-for-25 drought with a ninth-inning RBI single as the California Angels beat the Milwaukee Brewers 2-1 Friday night.

California scored twice in the ninth inning off hard-luck loser Chris Bosio (10-10), who held the Angels scoreless on three hits through the first eight innings. The right-hander walked Luis Polonia with one out, before singles by Junior Felix and Wally Joyner tied the score.

Doug Henry relieved Bosio, who came within two outs of his first shutout in 44 starts, and Winfield greeted him with a line single to right.

Jim Gantner homered with two out in the ninth to give Milwaukee a 1-0 lead against Grahe, who surrendered just four hits as he went the distance for the first time in 16 major league starts. The right-hander struck out two and walked, five.

Gantner, who hit his second homer, hit a 2-1 pitch from barely over the reach of right fielder Lee Stevens with two out. The home run was only the second allowed this year by Grahe, who has dropped all eight of his starts this year, and the first off him since June 18, when he surrendered one to the Brewers' Paul Molitor — the first batter the right-hander faced this year.

Bosio pitched 8 1-3 innings and gave up five hits, struck out five and issued two walks.

White Sox 11, Rangers 6

ARLINGTON (AP) — Julio Franco's costly error on Bo Jackson's bases-loaded grounder opened the gate for four runs in the sixth inning and the Chicago White Sox went on to hammer the Texas Rangers 11-6 Friday night.

Jackson went 2-for-4 and had two RBI in his fifth game with the White Sox.

Texas starter Nolan Ryan, who led 5-4 after five innings thanks to Franco's 419-foot homer in the bottom of the fifth off reliever Don Pall (7-2), got a no-decision.

Ryan, who threw 114 pitches, allowed six hits, four runs, struck out six and walked four, gave way to Kenny Rogers. (9-9) in the top of the sixth.

Rogers got into immediate trouble with a walk, then threw late to second on a sacrifice by Ozzie Guillen. Tim Raines bunted safely for a single and Robin Ventura tied the game by walking with the bases loaded.

Terry Mathews struck out Sammy Sosa but Jackson hit his grounder to Franco who booted the ball, then watched two runners score. After a walk, Craig Grebek got another runner home on a groundout.

Chicago scored three more runs in the seventh off three Texas relievers with Jackson capping the inning with a run-scoring single.

Ryan fell behind 4-0 in the first three innings.

In the first, Raines beat out an infield single and scored on Ventura's double. Lance Johnson's single scored Ventura.

In the second, a walk, Jackson's double and sacrifice flies by Johnson and Ron Karkovice gave Chicago two more runs.

Texas tied it with Ruben Sierra's solo homer in the third and a three-run homer by Ivan Rodriguez in the fourth inning following two walks off starter Wilson Alvarez, who was pulled from the game after going 3 1-2 innings.

After scoring their last run in the ninth on an RBI single by Juan Gonzalez, the Rangers left the bases loaded. Melido Perez allowed three hits in four innings of relief for his first save.

Red Sox 6, Mariners 5

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Pena drove in the tie-breaking run with his third single after a controversial obstruction call in the seventh inning Friday night as the Red Sox beat the Mariners 6-5 despite light-hitting Dave Valle's first career grand slam.

After Valle capped a five-run fourth against Boston starter Matt Young, Dennis Lamp (5-3) blanked the Mariners on one hit for 3 1-3 innings for the victory. Jeff Reardon, the fourth Boston pitcher, got the last two outs for his 35th save.

With their third victory in a row, sixth in seven games and eighth in the last 10, the Red Sox remained 5½ games behind Toronto and 1½ behind Detroit in the AL East race.

Tom Brunansky began the Boston seventh with a walk against Mike Jackson (6-5), the fourth of six Seattle pitchers. Mike Brumley sacrificed and reached first as first baseman Alvin Davis' throw got away from shortstop Jeff Schaefer at second.

As the ball rolled into the vacated shortstop area, Schaefer wouldn't let Brunansky regain his feet until the big outfielder picked him up and dumped him on the ground. Plate umpire John Shulock awarded Brunansky third base and Pena followed with a single.

The Red Sox took a 3-0 lead against Seattle starter Bill Krueger in the third. Phil Plantier drove in the first run with a sacrifice fly. Mike Greenwell followed with an RBI triple and Tom Brunansky added a run-scoring single.

Blanked by Matt Young for three innings, the Mariners shelled the left-hander signed as a free agent for $6.35 million for three years in the fourth.

Ken Griffey Jr. started the rally with a single and Jay Buhner walked. Tracy Jones singled, scoring Griffey. Alvin Davis walked, filling the bases. Young appeared to settle down as he struck out Tino Martinez and got Jeff Schaefer to tap back to the mound for a force at the plate.

Valle ran the count to 3-2, then hit his eighth homer, all on the road, in the screen in left, giving Seattle a 5-3 lead with Lamp replacing Young.
