Evening Lions barbecue Friday

The 25th Evening Lions Club Football Barbecue is scheduled from 5-7:30 p.m. Friday at the Big Spring High School cafeteria.

All plates are $5, and children may share a plate.

Money made from the barbecue will go to the eyeglass project sponsored by the Evening Lions Club, which furnishes eyewear to children and adults.

Coahoma council OKs same tax rate

The Coahoma City Council on Tuesday voted unanimously to keep the city property tax rate the same for the upcoming fiscal year.

The rate of .6765 cents per $100 of property value is about 1 1/2 cents over the effective tax rate. The effective rate is what is needed to bring in the same amount of tax revenue as last year.

Glasscock County approves tax rate

GARDEN CITY — Glasscock County commissioners earlier this week voted to approve the effective property tax rate of .3847 cents per $100 of property value.

The effective rate is what is needed to raise the same amount of tax revenue as the year before. In Glasscock County the effective rate, approved as next year's tax rate Monday, is about a half-cent higher than the current rate.

It will generate revenue to fund a 1991-92 budget of about $2 million.

Grady, Stanton ISD meetings Thursday

Trustees for the Grady Independent School District have called a special meeting Thursday at 6 p.m. to set the 1991-92 school district tax rate.

And a special school board meeting to set the tax rate for the school year has been called by trustees for the Stanton district on Thursday at 7 p.m. An open forum will precede the vote.

Martin County sets public hearing

STANTON — The Martin County Commissioners Court will hold a public hearing at 9 a.m. Thursday on a proposed 7.9 percent property tax increase from the effective tax rate.

The effective rate is what is needed to generate the same amount of tax revenue as the year before.

A proposed tax rate of 30.9 cents per $100 of property value is slightly higher than the current rate of 30.7 cents but is more than 2 cents higher than the effective rate.

Baker taking firsthand look at Soviet troubles

MOSCOW (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III said today Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's promise to remove Soviet combat troops from Cuba was "a very substantial step."

At a joint news conference with Gorbachev, Baker said the decision "will be very important in terms of public opinion in the United States." His statement suggested that removal of Soviet troops from the island 90 miles from the U.S. coast would make Americans more willing to see U.S. aid go to the Soviets.

Baker said recent moves toward democracy and economic reforms in the Soviet Union "enhanced opportunities on both the political and economic sides."

Gorbachev said the Soviet Union "will soon begin discussions with the Cuban leadership about withdrawal of a Soviet training brigade."

The Soviet president said there were 11,000 troops in the brigade, a figure higher than previous Western estimates. Disclosure in 1979 of the presence of the Soviet brigade in Cuba was one of several factors that led to withdrawal of the SALT II arms control treaty from Senate consideration.

Another factor in the death of that agreement was the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan in late 1979.

Gorbachev cited Afghanistan as one of the outstanding foreign policy problems on which he hoped to see increased cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Soviet troops have withdrawn from Afghanistan and Gorbachev said he hopes to accelerate moved toward democracy in that country.

Gorbachev said he and Baker also "agreed to cooperate, as before, on the Middle East, specifically to advance toward a peace conference."

On Cuba, Gorbachev said the Soviet Union wanted to maintain "mutually beneficial commercial relations with Cuba." He said Cuba exports sugar, citrus and nickel to the Soviet Union.

City report clears police of brutality charges

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Following an investigation by city staff of 14 complaints of police brutality presented to city council, no proof has been found that any Big Spring police officer used excessive force, according to a report by City Attorney Mike Thomas.

"We have attempted, in a concise manner, to present a factual response to 14 allegations of brutality and harassment," Thomas said in his report at Tuesday's city council meeting.

"Our responses are based on available documentation within the department. We have not intended to imply we are blameless in all the complaints. It is acknowledged we could have done some things better."

"We ask the city council and citizens of Big Spring to judge the police department on the merits of the facts. And we ask that the facts be presented at a proper forum and not based on media reports, or an impassioned presentation designed to cloud the facts," he said.

City Manager Hal Boyd presented the council with a plan that he said should "resolve issues brought forth by individuals and other issues that are perceived by the community."

In his plan, Boyd suggested, in addition to an internal investigation of all complaints, requesting a non-partisan agency, such as the Texas Rangers, the FBI or the Texas Attorney General's office to investigate allegations.

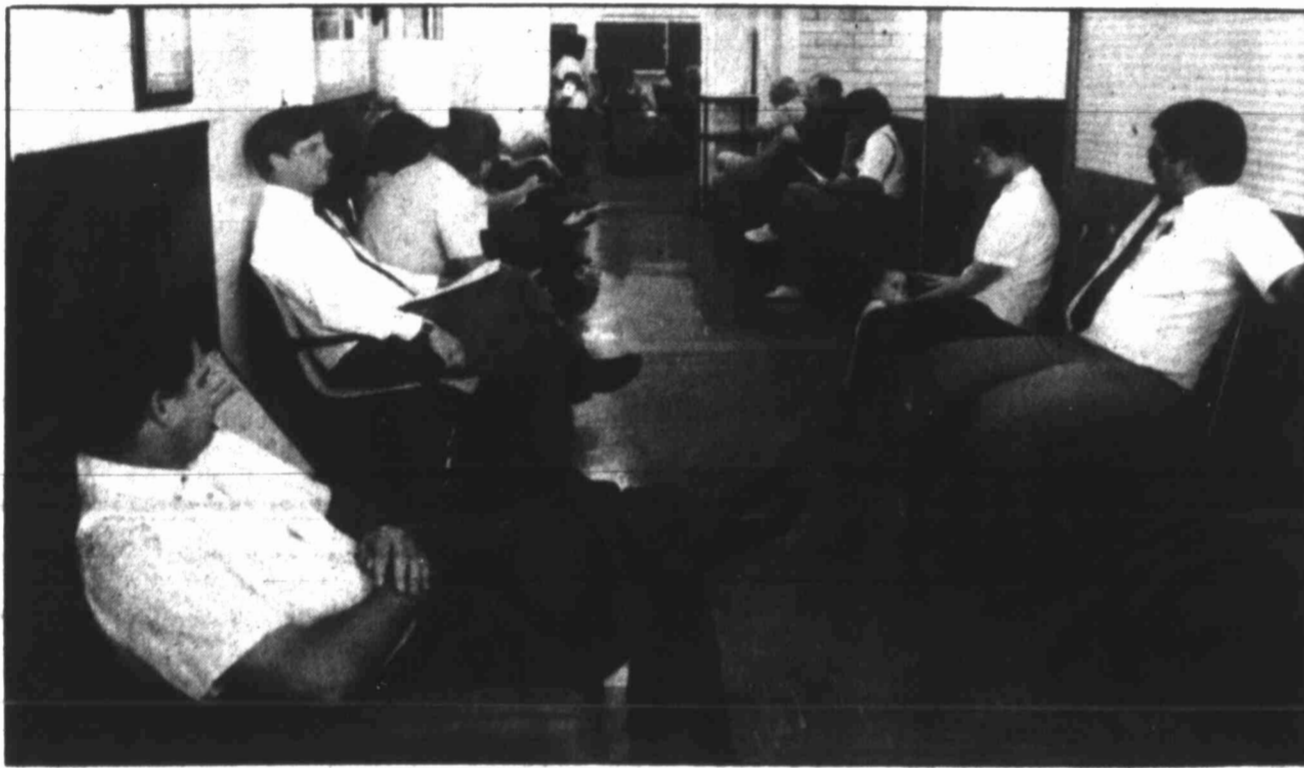

Boyd also proposed hiring an outside consultant knowledgeable in police functions to review the policies, procedures and administration of the city's police force.

Finally, the plan called for the implementation of a citizen advisory committee that would foster the development of more open communications between citizens, the police and the city staff, provide a forum where concerns can be voiced regarding actions taken by the police department, develop a working knowledge of the processes of police officer selection, initial training, certification and follow-up training and study state laws concerning police limitations and complaint procedures.

Council member John Coffee made a motion specifically requesting the Attorney General's office to research all allegations made against the force. That included six additional letters received by Mayor Max Green, he said.

"(With the attorney general's involvement) we can clear this matter up once and for all," said Coffee.

Budget OK'd on 1st reading

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council accepted, on first reading, the proposed 1991-92 budget at its regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night. Corky Harris, Pat DeAnda and Tim Blackshear voting against.

To explain why she was voting against the proposed budget, DeAnda said, "I do not support the seven-officer cut in the police force." Harris voiced similar reasons for his negative vote on the budget, which calls for a $222,000 cut in police department funds.

The council voted to pay $4,000 approved in the current budget but not yet distributed to the Rape Crisis/Victim Services Center.

There was some discussion by the council on amending the proposed budget at the next council meeting to include additional funds for the center.

"We can't tell you how much we were counting on that $4,000," said center director Lisa Brooks in a presentation to the council.

The council also voted to accept the tendered budget from Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. In a presentation to the council, Owen Ivey said the Moore board was involved in "very encouraging" projects in Dallas and Oklahoma.

No action was taken following a two-hour closed session to "discuss the duties and responsibilities of City Manager Hal Boyd."

No changes were made in the job description of the city manager during the executive session, said

BCCI scandal:

Clifford says he has 'clear conscience'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Superlawyer Clark Clifford said today he and his law partner have "clear consciences" about their involvement with a Washington bank with ties to the scandal-plagued Bank of Credit and Commerce International.

"We have not been guilty of any misconduct ... or even of impropriety," Clifford told the House Banking Committee.

"We have a formidable task in persuading many of you of our innocence in this," he told the members of the committee.

Just how formidable was evident moments earlier, when the panel's chairman, Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, opened the hearing by alleging that Clifford and his law partner, Robert Altman, used their knowledge of BCCI to profit in an "inside game" from stock deals and legal fees.

Clifford's appearance was a sharp contrast to his customary role as adviser and strategist to Democratic presidents and witnesses under fire from congressional committees of the past. This time, the 84-year-old Clifford was under fire himself.

Clifford spoke at a packed hearing with Altman at his side at the witness table. Altman's wife, former television "Wonder Woman" Lynda Carter, and Clifford's wife, Margery sat directly behind them.

Clifford and Altman were chairman and president, respectively, of First American Bankshares Inc., which the government says was illegally acquired by BCCI in 1982.

"As the top officials in First American and as legal counsel for the bank, the Clifford-Altman team was in a unique position to know about BCCI's involvement," Gonzalez said.

Referring to a deal in which Clifford and Altman allegedly bought stock with loans from BCCI and netted $9.8 million, Gonzalez said, "These lucrative stock transactions were not the only insider game—that profited these gentlemen. As soon as they assumed the executive chairs at ... First American, legal business started flowing from the bank to their Washington law firm."

A statement submitted to the committee by Clifford and Altman said First American was "honestly and capably run ... and that our own conduct was entirely proper."

But Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis., referring to the statement, said, "I don't believe a word of it."

"I don't believe you are an amicable dunce," Roth told Clifford.

Gonzalez said the banking committee is still trying to determine the exact amount of the legal fees, but he noted they may have exceeded the pair's profit from the stock deal.

The banking committee is trying to find out what, if anything, Clifford and Altman, his law partner, knew about BCCI's relationship with First American.

The lawmakers want to know whether Clifford and Altman misled federal regulators when they said in 1981 that BCCI wouldn't have control of First American, a Washington-based bank holding company.

BCCI — founded by Pakistanis, owned by Persian Gulf investors and based in Luxembourg — is enmeshed in a mammoth banking scandal involving alleged massive fraud, laundering of drug money and support of terrorists.

Senior citizens center may face funding cuts

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

The Spring City Senior Citizens Center, which just got its second director in two months, is facing possible funding cuts because of less lunches being served, a federal official said.

The center already borrowed about $10,000 from the county in the past two months, said Howard County Auditor Jackie Olson. The borrowed money is in addition to a $9,800 donation and in-kind services that the county gave this year.

The center has borrowed money from the county only once before, about a year or two ago, Olson said. "They're a little bit lower than normal."

On Thursday, new center Director Bobbie Leonard, 58, and county officials will discuss funding with officials of the Permian Basin Area Agency on Aging, which distributes federal funds for senior citizen centers. The meeting is at 10 a.m. in the county commissioner chambers.

"We're going to be working with them to look at the dollars. We do want to talk to them before we make any decisions," said Marilyn Roloff, a planner with the agency on aging in Midland. Roloff declined to say how much funding could be at stake.

Olson said county officials also plan to ask questions on conducting possible fund-raisers and about the legal role that the county can take to help. "Maybe we can find out something."

The center, which this fiscal year received $109,339 from the agency on aging, asked for the same amount of funding for meals next year, although the amount of meals served from Oct. 1 through next September is expected to drop from 46,800 to 41,800, said Roloff.

But there is a question of whether the center can serve the amount of meals for which it requested money, she said. A review board that oversees federal funding for senior citizen centers recommended that the agency on aging look at the program to determine if that many meals can be served, she said.

"Will they be able to serve it?" Roloff said. "There is a possibility they will not."

Of the $106,742 requested for next year, meals account for 83 percent

Thomas refuses to discuss abortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas refuses to discuss abortion in his Senate confirmation hearings, but he's backing away from earlier comments that liberals said indicated he would vote to ban the procedure.

Thomas, under questioning Tuesday, said for the first time that he believes in a constitutional right of privacy. And he said his belief in "natural law," a theory his opponents say could be invoked to outlaw abortion, would never affect his judging of constitutional cases.

Today's leadoff questioner, Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, said he would try to zero in on the conservative Thomas' abortion views.

When the Senate Judiciary Committee voted to confirm Thomas as a federal appeals court judge last year, Metzenbaum cast the only vote against him.

Thomas, if confirmed, would become the Supreme Court's 106th justice and its second black. He would replace the retiring Thurgood Marshall, the court's only black — and most liberal — member.

Thomas told the Judiciary Committee at Tuesday's opening hearing that it would be inappropriate for him to discuss in any detail the Supreme Court's Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion in 1973.

Prosecutors try to save North case

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran-Contra prosecutors are heading back to court in a final effort to save their criminal case against former White House aide Oliver North.

A federal appeals court has set aside North's three felony convictions, saying prosecutors must first demonstrate that no testimony from witnesses at North's 1989 trial was affected by North's nationally televised congressional testimony in 1987.

North's onetime boss, former national security adviser Robert McFarlane, was called to appear today before U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell.

Under the appeals court ruling, Gesell must refuse to reinstate North's convictions if the judge finds that North's congressional testimony shaped McFarlane's recollections at the subsequent trial.

North gave that congressional testimony under a grant of immunity.

Prosecutors were trying to show that McFarlane's testimony was free from the taint of North's testimony. North's lawyers were to argue the opposite case.

In an attempt to show that there was taint in the North trial, North's lawyers have subpoenaed 11 Iran-Contra prosecutors.

Dahmer pursuing insanity defense

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jeffrey L. Dahmer is pursuing an insanity defense that could put him in a mental hospital instead of prison for the gruesome dismemberment slayings to which he confessed.

Dahmer, 31, pleaded innocent Tuesday to 15 murder charges and said he would claim insanity if convicted. Dahmer has admitted killing and dismembering 17 people since 1978.

The plea means the former chocolate factory worker would first be tried to determine if he committed the crimes. If found guilty, a jury or judge would decide whether he was insane and couldn't be held responsible.

Automakers planning recyclable cars

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Rather than piling up jalopies on Europe's scrapheaps, automakers under pressure from the government and environmentalists are planning to recycle 1992 models once their shine fades and their engines sputter.

Volkswagen, Audi, Opel, Ford of Europe and BMW on Tuesday offered to take back many of their 1992 models after they drive their final mile so the sheet metal, plastic — even the keys — can be made into new cars and parts.

The 1992 models are made in such a way that almost everything can be used again.

Germans are extremely ecology oriented, putting a lot of pressure on every branch of industry.

Even Chancellor Helmut Kohl, a friend of big business, has become increasingly "green." The political demise of Germany's Greens is partly because mainstream parties have become increasingly ecology-minded.

Volkswagen AG Chairman Carl Hahn told a news conference at the Frankfurt Auto Show that his company would take back 1992 Golfs and 1992 Audi 80s free of charge once they are ready to be scrapped.

The company plans to extend the program to two other subsidiaries SEAT of Spain and the recently acquired Skoda in Czechoslovakia.

"We intend to extend the take-back guarantee for scrap vehicles progressively throughout Europe at least, taking account of national circumstances," Hahn said.

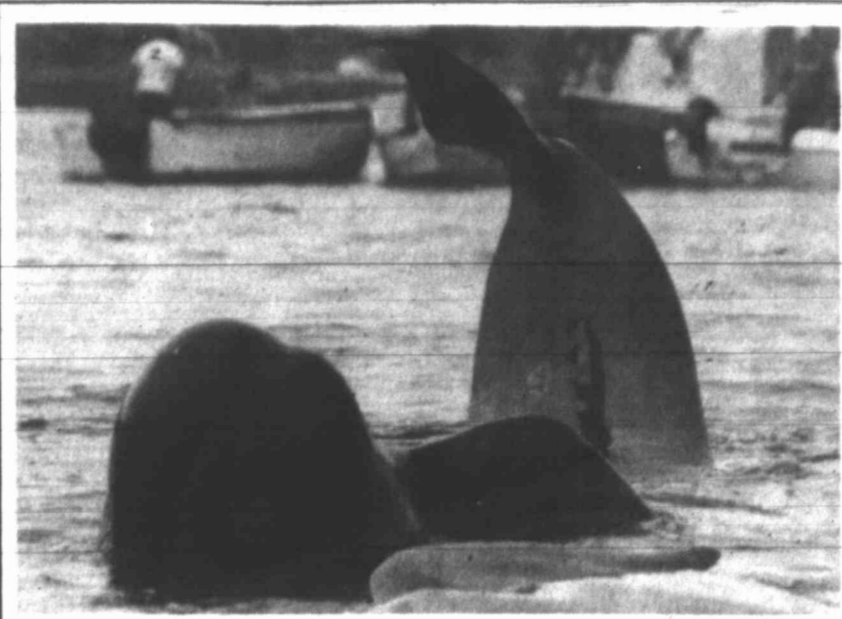

While Volkswagen originally unveiled its take-back guarantee on Aug. 15, Opel quickly followed with its own announcement in August that all its new 1992 Astra models being produced in the northern German city of Bochum will also be taken back at no cost.

The scramble to emphasize the recycling angle continued later in the day, with the Cologne-based Ford subsidiary also announcing Tuesday that it would take back its 1992 Escort and Orion models.

That was finally topped off at an afternoon BMW news conference where Bayerische Motoren Werke AG Chairman Eberhard von Kuenheim said his company would take back all its 1992 models "as long as they had not been modified," by the customers.

Kuenheim denied that BMW's hand had been forced by the other recycling announcements. He said the company had planned to hold back on announcing its decision until the car show.

There was no immediate word on two other major German manufacturers, Mercedes and Porsche.

Struggle for freedom

WELLFLEET, Mass. — A large pilot whale thrashes and arches its body while attempting to free itself from a marsh at Chipman's Cove in Wellfleet, Mass., Tuesday morning. About 28 whales stranded themselves on the shore of the Cape Cod town. Whales were able to get free at high-tide, and it is expected they will attempt to join other whales as the tide goes out.

Australia says it can store nuclear waste

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — As the United States and other countries struggle to find places to store nuclear waste, Australian companies say they have an answer: ship it to their vast country and store it in "synthetic rock."

They foresee a $200 billion-a-year business by the year 2000. But they also face opposition by environmentalists.

The inventor of the synthetic material, or Synroc, says it can store naturally occurring radioactive elements for millions of years without the leakage possible from other means of containment, such as regular rock, steel casing or layers of concrete.

Nuclear waste, some of which have half-lives of thousands of years, need to be stored in dry, stable areas to prevent leakage and contamination.

The problem of proper disposal of tons of radioactive waste has become a pressing issue around the world.

The proposed dump would open by the year 2010 and entomb 70,000 tons of waste from nuclear power plants across the country for 10,000 years. The U.S. Energy Department warned that aging atomic waste tanks at one nuclear reservation in Washington state could leak high-level radiation before a new dump is established.

Bernard Cohen, professor of physics and radiation health at the University of Pittsburgh, says the Australian project could provide the safest means of storing nuclear waste to date, despite the costs.

"The start-up costs could be prohibitive, perhaps in the neighborhood of a billion dollars, but if they are willing to put the money behind it, technologically it's the best way to go," he said of the Australian venture.

About $20 million has been spent on research in the past 13 years. And the Australian government has endorsed a Synroc study group, created years ago, although the government bans the import of nuclear waste and is unlikely to immediately change its stance.

The Synroc study group hopes that with an educational campaign about safe uses of the synthetic rock, to be conducted over the next four or five years, domestic opposition to the importation of nuclear wastes would decline.

Protests greet U.S. aircraft carrier

YOKOSUKA, Japan (AP) — The USS Independence aircraft carrier sailed into its new home port today, opposed by hundreds of anti-nuclear demonstrators.

A Navy marching band and hundreds of family members also gathered on the dock under rainy skies, to welcome the massive flattop to its new home.

Its arrival symbolizes America's continued Pacific commitment following the end of the Cold War. The Independence and its crew of 5,179 replace the USS Midway as the only U.S. carrier based overseas and the hub of the U.S. naval presence in Asia.

The 80,643-ton ship was greeted by a flotilla of about 150 anti-nuclear demonstrators, who claim U.S. vessels routinely violate a ban on bringing nuclear arms into Japan, the only nation to suffer atomic bomb attacks.

About 300 protesters chanted anti-nuclear slogans at a nearby park, hoisting a huge banner reading, "Anti-war, Anti-base: Don't allow Yokosuka to be made the home port of a nuclear (vessel)."

After the vessel's arrival, demonstrators marched toward the base's main gate.

Capt. Robert L. Ellis, commanding officer of the Independence, reiterated Wednesday the U.S. Navy's position of refusing to confirm or deny the presence of nuclear weapons.

Eastern Europeans not welcomed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Free from the Soviet yoke, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland thought admission into the huge European Community trading bloc was almost a right. They're not exactly finding the door wide open.

It comes at a time when the former Communist counties need new markets to help rebuild their ravaged economies. But West Europeans fear their own economies could suffer from a potential flood of cheaper products from the East.

The European Community is at an impasse over lifting barriers on the import of agricultural goods and textiles from the three countries, which are now wondering if earlier Western pledges of forging a common European home were merely empty gestures.

In a bid to bring pressure on the 12-nation community, Poland has pulled out of scheduled Sept. 19-20 talks with the EC's executive body on terms of associate membership, the first step toward full participation.

A key Polish negotiator, Jacek Saryusz-Wolski, said Tuesday that his country is uninterested in a token association. EC participation, he said, must have "real economic benefits."

Formal debate on Subic base opens

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The Philippine Senate opened formal debate today on a new lease for a U.S. naval base after a mass march by President Corazon Aquino failed to sway enough senators to let the Americans stay.

The agreement, under which Washington will hand over volcano-damaged Clark Air Base next year but keep Subic naval base for 10 more years, appears headed for defeat after senators rejected the pact 12-to-11 in a preliminary vote Monday.

At stake is the U.S. presence in one of the Navy's most important Pacific bases as well as the jobs of tens of thousands of Filipinos.

Is Big Spring another L.A.?

As of Tuesday night, 20 complaints of police brutality have been made against the Big Spring Police Department. It's beginning to look as though the city has a serious problem with police misconduct, doesn't it? Well, let's look.

Some of these complaints date back as far as 1988. Several were brought before a former city council, investigated by them and dismissed. Two cases were reviewed by the Justice Department, who concluded that no action against police officers was warranted. One lawsuit was settled out of court on the advice of the city's insurance carrier "to avoid further costs of litigation." One case was investigated by the Texas Rangers.

Ten complaints, dating from September 1990, plus eight new complaints, were brought to the attention of the city council two weeks ago by attorney Bob Miller. Coincidentally, they were introduced at the same time the council was holding public hearings on a budget that imposed major cuts in the police department. At that time, no formal complaints had been filed.

Since then, four of the complainants, plus five more, have written letters of complaint, either to Police Chief Joe Cook or to Mayor Max Green. None of the letters contain a sworn statement attesting to the facts stated in the letter.

Miller is representing 16 of the 20 complainants. Facts about the arrests in the original 14 complaints were read to the council at Tuesday night's meeting as a "report from staff regarding the results of a review of allegations tendered against the police department."

Several obvious questions should have been raised: Was there an internal investigation of these complaints? did witnesses corroborate any of the statements of complainants? was any disciplinary action taken? None of the questions were asked.

Instead, the city council heard City Manager Hal Boyd's proposal for a citizen's review board, which council will consider later, and for an independent outside consultant to be called in to do an investigation. The council asked Boyd to provide resumes from possible consultants, who would be paid from the police department's reduced budget. They then voted to ask Boyd to contact the state attorney general to investigate. Boyd said he would do that and then added that he also intended to call the Texas Rangers.

Four separate entities investigating 20 incidents that may or may not have any validity — who can tell at this point? — should muddy the waters long enough to give citizens a chance to forget the council approved the unpopular cuts in the police department.

The council seems less concerned with the validity of the complaints or the effectiveness of the present procedure to investigate complaints than they are with getting the most mileage out of the fact that these complaints exist. Unless some members of the council have a hidden agenda of their own, this appears to be gross ineptitude on the part of our elected officials.

We would be the first to argue that even one case of police misconduct is too many. But to put this in perspective, the police made more than 7,000 arrests in 1990 alone. Given the inevitable tension in any situation involving a victim, a suspect and a law enforcement officer, is it reasonable to expect that there will be no complaints at all?

Citizens have a right to expect their elected officials to be objective and fair. There was no sign of those qualities in the actions of the council last night.

For the record

S.D. Lawrence, in a hand-delivered letter to the editor published in Tuesday's Herald, stated that "extravagant redecorations have recently taken place in at least two offices, one elementary school and one secondary school."

The Herald has been informed by Jan Nichols, secretary at Moss Elementary School, that redecorations in her office were paid for by herself and that no school money was spent on the project. We have further been informed that efforts to contact the writer of the letter have been unsuccessful.

"I always found it somewhat inconsistent for a person to stand up in front of the court and tell a jury my client did not commit this offense and then say later, come to think of it, even if he did he was insane at the time." — Jeffrey Dahmer's lawyer, Gerald P. Boyle.

Metaphorical millenium is not yet at hand

WASHINGTON — For the past few weeks, ever since the Soviet Union began to crumble, our own country has been wallowing in euphoria. At the risk of raining upon this glorious parade, let me venture a suggestion: Knock it off. A metaphorical millennium is not at hand.

Yes, these events are astonishing. Yes, the collapse of communism is an occasion for great joy. But come now. New York's Sen. Pat Moynihan is a sensible fellow; he has a good head on his shoulders, but last week he lost it. "The age of totalitarianism," he says, "is over." Really? The Wall Street Journal, not usually given to gushing, sees "the end of attempts to remake the world through military power." The Journal is positively giddy: "Mankind is at last free to construct a new world order." Hallelujah! Born again!

Hold the euphoria. Let rapture be restrained. Suppose we spin the globe and take a closer look. The age of totalitarianism certainly is not over in the People's Republic of China, where more than 1 billion people have no republic at all. What of North

Children's welfare is primary

By JANICE ROSSON
 I am writing to address some of the issues put forth by the Citizens for Choice regarding the upcoming school bond election.

Many people pass by Runnels and College Heights and see nothing wrong with these buildings from the outside. But inside there are many problems which make the buildings unattractive, uncomfortable, and unsafe for students and faculty.

Runnels Junior High (built 1916 — oldest building still being used for instructional purposes in any district our size or larger in this area):

1. Runnels has large holes in the third floor caused by termites. These are visible; who knows what damage has occurred to the large wooden beams underneath.
2. Runnels is still heated with steam heat — a dangerous system that is no longer allowed in new school construction.
3. Exposed steam and water pipes run along the ceilings in the halls of the basement at Runnels. In addition to being unsightly, these are also dangerous.
4. Runnels is inaccessible to the handicapped — an expensive elevator and ramps would need to be installed to correct this problem.
5. The evaporative air conditioners that exist at Runnels are totally inadequate. Children have been sent home ill because of the heat.

College Heights Elementary (built 1938):

1. Water pipes are rusted and corroded — students drink brown water. Replacing all pipes would be very expensive.
2. The school is too small. Instruction takes place in six portable buildings, which are from 100 to 200 feet from the nearest restrooms.
3. There is no adequate place to hold assemblies or PTA meetings.

Public forum

In warm weather students sit on the grass with the insects in the patio — bothered by hot sun or chilly breezes. In cold weather, students go in two shifts to the cafeteria where they sit on the floor crowded together like sardines.

4. There is no separate nurse's office. Sick children are placed on a cot adjacent to the secretary with no running water, commode, or privacy.

The argument that fifth grade is too early to bring children together in one building, as they would be at Goliad if the seventh is moved to a new junior high, is not a valid one because children are brought together for the first time now at the kindergarten level. In addition, fifth graders at Goliad could begin instrumental music and formal art instruction earlier than they do at present. Without the seventh grade, Goliad would no longer be run as a junior high but as an elementary school, which would be better for sixth graders.

Many people feel sentimental about the old Runnels Junior High building, particularly since it served as Big Spring High School until 40 years ago. Money does exist in the proposed bond issue to raze the building. If someone figures out a viable alternative for the facility, this money would be deleted from the proposal.

However, with all the other abandoned buildings in town (Settles, Permian, Petroleum, State National Bank, and K-Mart, to name a few), what could be done with yet another?

I am a long time Big Springer — attended high school in the Runnels building and am closely involved with the BSHS Exes Association. But my sentimentality is quickly overcome when I see first-hand the undesirable conditions which exist in Runnels and College Heights now. In fact, I was privileged to move into the present Big Spring High School from the old building in 1952 and can only use the most glowing adjectives to express how wonderful it felt to be in that brand new facility.

Renovating these buildings would only be "putting bandages" on obsolete facilities. In a few years, citizens would again be faced with the decision to build new buildings when state aid is not as generous as it is now, interest rates are not as low, and contractors are not as hungry for work.

Please remember one other thing when voting in this bond election. Prospective new business and industry take a long hard look at the school systems of cities they consider locating in. The fact that no elementary school is less than 30 years old, and the fact that all students are channeled through a junior high built when Woodrow Wilson was president do not impress these people with Big Spring. Let's make school facilities a plus, rather than a minus, in the promotion of this community as a great place in which to work and live!

Editor's note: JANICE ROSSON, principal of College Heights Elementary School for the past 3½ years, has worked for Big Spring ISD since 1958, except for six years she took out to spend with her children. She has worked as a high school English teacher, high school guidance counselor (8 years), secondary curriculum coordinator for the school system (8 years), and assistant principal at Goliad Middle School (2½ years.)

Driving on the wild side

Is Hosea Williams really as bad a driver as the press has made him out to be? The Civil Rights leader and politician thinks it's all a racist plot by the media that he's had more scraps with the traffic cops than Mike (Stop Me Before I Fondle Again) Tyson has lawsuits by beauty queens.

Hosea's most recent problems have brought him a hit-and-run felony indictment involving him and his Hoseamobile, the dreaded blue El Dorado Eat-My-Dust Cadillac convertible.

But I wanted to give Hosea a chance to prove it's all a plot by the media, the police, the National Guard, the Boy Scouts and the Jehovah's Witnesses and whomever else it is Hosea can think of to blame for his driving problems.

Caring not for my personal safety and believing firmly in giving a guy a break, I climbed into the seat next to Hosea in the Blue Streak and asked him to take me on a ride.

I did take some precautions, however. I wore a crash helmet, an asbestos suit and re-thought my will.

"Don't be nervous," Hosea said as he turned on the ignition. "I can do this in my sleep."

"I know," I said. "I read about it in the racist papers."

Hosea hit the gas, pulled out into the street and did a U-turn. There was a bumping sound from beneath the car.

"What was that?" Hosea asked. I looked behind us.

"You ran over a convenience store," I told him. "Bean dip and Fritos are everywhere."

We came to a red light. Hosea stopped the car. A sign said, "No turn on red."

Hosea turned right.

"That's a violation," I said to him. "The sign said, 'No turn on red.'"

"Is that what it said?" Hosea asked again. "I thought it said, 'Step on it hard.'"

We turned onto the interstate directly past another sign that said, clearly, "Wrong Way."

"Hosea!" I screamed. "We're going the wrong way on the interstate."

"I always do this," he said. "You make better time. You never get behind anybody."

Sensing I was nervous because of the several near-collisions with semis, other cars and a cement truck, Hosea swerved across the median and U-turned it back with the traffic.

"Another violation," I said. "You can't cross the median on an interstate highway."

Hosea was too busy sidestepping and then passing a Roto-Rooter van to comment.

We exited the interstate. Hosea ignored a Yield sign and turned into traffic.

Several motorists blew their horns. Hosea ignored them and floored it through a four-way stop, throwing his hands in the air, saying, "Wheeee!"

I'm on the Great Scream Machine and Mr. Magoo is driving.

We finally made it back to where I had climbed into Hosea's car. On the way, however, we ran a red light, drove on the sidewalk for a time. "Less traffic over here," Hosea explained, and drove through a car wash at 55.

"See, not a scratch on you," Hosea said as he parked his car. On a fire hydrant.

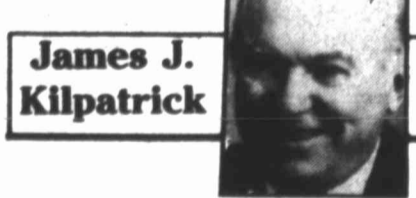

It's not a racist plot Hosea needs to worry about, I came away from the experience thinking. It's one at the cemetery.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed: Letters should be 350 words or less, typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes. They are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered. Letters exceeding the 350-word limit will be cut. They must be signed, free of libelous statements and in good taste. Political endorsements won't be accepted during a campaign; candidates are allowed a single letter during a campaign. Letters listing numerous donors to projects are not published. Please write your name and address on the letter and include a daytime phone number for verification. Letters submitted without signatures won't be published. Address letters "To the editor," Big Spring Herald, Box 1431, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Korea, Afghanistan, Laos and Albania? The age of dictatorship assuredly continues in Libya and in Cuba.

Is military power about to become obsolete? Tell it to the people of Vietnam, Yemen, Uganda, Ghana, Nigeria and Guinea. Explain this in Lesotho and Syria. Has anyone seen democracy lately in Iraq? How do the election returns from Mongolia and Tibet? When is the next primary in Iran? Half the population of this planet knows no more of democracy than geese know of grand opera.

As for the Soviet Union, President Bush is absolutely right in his cautious approach. No one, virtually no one, had anticipated the imposition of the empire. Neither can anyone confidently forecast the future of these founding "nations." One night in Azerbaijan the people went to bed as communists. When they woke up, they were democrats. What now?

When the kissing stops — and it will stop before the snow flies — the Soviet people will find the same problems that plagued them before. They must learn freedom the way a child learns to read, one syllable at a time, and they must begin by grasping the idea of freedom.

Beyond the principal cities, the idea of freedom is an alien idea. It is a difficult idea. For people who have never known freedom, the idea will not be easily accepted or mastered. After 200 years, we of the United States imperfectly understand freedom. Look at these campus codes of "appropriate" speech.

At the heart of individual freedom lies individual responsibility. For the past 70 years, the Soviet people have lived under collective responsibility, not as children of God but as wards of the state. A vast and impenetrable bureaucracy has done their thinking for them. Now they must think for themselves.

In the charged atmosphere of freedom, long-suppressed ethnic rivalries are ripe for explosion. In National Review, free-lance reporter George Berkin writes from Moldova. Two-thirds of the inhabitants are Romanian, one-third Russian. Under majority rule, the Russians must learn to speak Moldavian and to abandon their Cyrillic alphabet. They are incensed by the prospect. The Russian-majority city of Tiraspol is threatening to secede from the new secessionist state.

Bush has extended recognition to the three Baltic republics. They may be individually viable. Perhaps they can live outside an incubator. Russia and the Ukraine can make do. Byelorussia is about the size of Kansas, Azerbaijan about the size of Maine. It is folly to suppose that they could establish their own currency and their own armed forces for defense against their brotherly neighbors.

Easy does it, Mr. President! When Gorbachev and Yeltsin disarm their nuclear weapons, when they begin to disband their armed forces, when they settle down to the hard work and tough discipline that lie ahead, it will be time enough to talk of foreign aid. Meanwhile, let us send the Soviets our very best wishes. For now, that should suffice.

U.S. has quarterly foreign trade surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States recorded a $3 billion surplus in foreign trade from April through June, the first time it has posted back-to-back quarterly surpluses in nine years, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

The second-quarter surplus followed an even-larger one of $10.5 billion in the first three months of the year.

The positive trade numbers in both quarters reflected huge payments made to the U.S. Treasury by other countries, such as Japan and Saudi Arabia, to pay for the Persian Gulf War.

Without the payments, the country actually would have suffered a trade deficit of $5.2 billion in the second quarter and $6.4 billion in the first quarter.

The trade figure reported today covers the current account, the broadest measure of trade because it tracks not only the flow of merchandise between countries but also investment and service transactions.

Because of the commitments to pay $55 billion to the United States to support the Persian Gulf War, economists are forecasting that the current account trade deficit will shrink dramatically this year.

David Wyss, an economist with DRI-McGraw Hill Inc., an economist consulting firm in Lexington, Mass., said he expected the deficit to almost disappear this year, falling to around a negative $6 billion.

"We are forecasting that the current account will be close to balance," Wyss said. "But in 1992, the deficit will worsen. As the economy comes out of the recession, imports are going to rebound."

Economists said they were looking for the deficit to shoot back up to the $70 billion to $80 billion range in 1992, reflecting the absence of Desert Storm payments and higher imports.

For the second quarter, the $3 billion current account surplus came in spite of a $15.6 billion deficit in merchandise trade. The merchandise trade deficit shrank 15.2 percent from the first quarter, reflecting a 3.2 percent rise in U.S. export sales, which climbed to a record high of $104.1 billion.

This offset a smaller 0.3 percent advance in merchandise imports, which rose to $119.3 billion. Foreign shipments to the United States have been depressed this year by America's recession.

The United States posted a surplus of $8 billion on service transactions in the second quarter, up 12.7 percent from the first quarter with nearly all of the increase coming from higher airline and other travel payments by foreigners as tourism returned to pre-war levels.

America's surplus on investment income fell to $2.5 billion, down from $4.9 billion in the first quarter, reflecting lower earnings by Americans on their overseas investments.

The final category of the current account, known as unilateral transfer payments by governments, showed a surplus in America's favor of $8.2 billion in the second quarter, down from $16.9 billion in the first quarter.

In the first quarter, payments for Desert Storm totaled $22.7 billion, but this level fell to $11.6 billion in the second quarter.

The back-to-back surpluses in the current account were the first since the surpluses in the first and second quarter of 1982. Since that time, the United States has run up huge current account deficits as imbalances on merchandise trade swamped small surpluses in the investment and service categories.

Impoverished area tries to revive

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Once the pride of the city's Mexican-American community, the Guadalupe Street neighborhood has seen homes deteriorate, businesses close and crime take over.

But an ambitious urban renewal group is trying to give this west side barrio a facelift and gambling on the improvements being more than skin deep.

"I think that it's something that was needed by the area," said Rodolfo Davila, president of the non-profit Avenida Guadalupe Association. "Everything is coming together."

In the midst of run-down buildings, the association, with the help of the government and private companies, is opening a $1.4 million marketplace called El Parian.

It's the latest phase of a Guadalupe neighborhood revitalization that also includes a small medical complex, a cultural arts center and a city-run plaza visited by Pope John Paul II in 1987 and Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari in April.

The city is opening a literacy center across from the market. And the San Antonio Housing Authority is about to refurbish federally-subsized apartments near the market, some possibly to sell to residents.

In mid-September, the market will hold a grand opening. The place is designed to be a sort of incubator for mom-and-pop businesses that would move out into the neighborhood after they prosper.

"It's not going to be your typical downtown mercado that tourists go visit," said David Garza, association executive director. "It's going to be a place where people can go and buy the products that they need."

Still, organizers of El Parian envision it eventually attracting tourists. They foresee it one day being San Antonio's sample of Mexico, much like Chinatown is in San Francisco and Little Italy is in New York.

"When I go visiting to another part of the country, I like to go where the natives are," said Davila, a third-generation businessman in the neighborhood who still lives nearby and whose children also are getting involved in his pharmacy.

SAN ANTONIO — Rodolfo Davila, president of the Avenida Guadalupe Association, poses on a stack of bricks that will be used on the floor of a $1.4 million marketplace called El Parian. The market is the latest phase of San Antonio's Guadalupe neighborhood revitalization.

El Parian has 33 stalls for merchants to sell arts and crafts, flowers, food and services like shoe repair and tailoring. Stalls rent from $109 to $315 per month and are 80 percent leased, Garza said.

El Parian has been under construction for about two years, and is funded by the federal Department of Health and Human Services, the Economic Development Administration, a San Antonio city loan and Levi Strauss Co.

A revolving loan fund is available for merchants, some of whom are first-time business owners getting coached by the University of Texas at San Antonio and two local banks, Garza said.

"We're doing a lot of hand-holding for our tenants," Garza said. "It's important for us that they succeed, because if they succeed we succeed."

Leticia Escamilla and her husband, Oscar, for years made wallets, belts and other leather products. They plan to sell them at a shop in El Parian.

"I think it'll do really, really good," Ms. Escamilla said. "I really see that happening. It is going to take work."

Ms. Escamilla, who hopes one day to offer an apprenticeship in leather works at the shop, said El Parian will show San Antonio citizens the westside neighborhood has more to offer than crime.

"The plaza was visited by the pope and it was visited by the president of Mexico. If it's good enough for them, why isn't it good enough for the people of San Antonio?" she said.

At nearby Alazan-Apache Courts, the city's largest public housing project with 3,500 apartments, it has been a year of violence. Five homicides were committed there in a one-month period this summer.

The killings prompted the Rev. Jesse Jackson to visit the project during a visit to the city, and U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez held public meetings there in July and August to seek solutions to residents' problems.

Fred Martinez, who plans to open a meat market in El Parian, said he hopes the neighborhood returns to the proud place it was in the 1950s and 1960s, when he delivered hot bread each morning to local stores.

Martinez said neighborhood residents, many of whom are elderly, now must travel several blocks or even miles to do their shopping. "I think it's going to be a nice neighborhood, sooner or later, and the businesses that go there will prosper," said Martinez, who once ran his own neighborhood meat shop and now is a butcher for another merchant.

The Guadalupe Street improvement project has been under way for more than a decade, since the Avenida Guadalupe Association incorporated in 1979.

When the Guadalupe medical complex opened, Davila decided to "take the leap" and move his family's pharmacy business into the building. A handful of doctors now have offices at the complex, as do branches of the American Cancer Society and the Metropolitan Health District.

The city's literacy center is a key part of the revitalization as well, Garza said, because it will attract market customers and help educate neighborhood residents.

"You can have all the brick and mortar that you want, all the buildings that you want. But if you don't have people, it's not going to work," he said.

Garza, who came to Avenida Guadalupe Association two years ago from the federal Neighborhood Reinvestment Corp., takes obvious pride in the renewal effort. A west side resident himself, Garza considers the project a success.

Chances of peace seem remote in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The planned signing of a peace pact by black and white leaders is not likely to halt the horrific war engulfing South Africa's black townships.

The main political groups are to sign the peace accord Saturday, despite a new wave of violence that has claimed scores of lives in black townships around Johannesburg. Even as the delegates sign the agreement, some of their followers are likely to be fighting each other.

"What type of people are we that we have turned, with such unbelievable savagery, against ourselves?" The Sowetan, the country's largest black newspaper, asked Tuesday.

Like other recent peace plans that failed, the new measure does not suggest how to end the tribal and ideological divisions fueling the violence. Instead, it calls for monitoring to determine who starts the violence. Much of the fighting pits the African National Congress against the Inkatha Freedom Party. The country's two biggest black political groups oppose apartheid, but agree on little else.

The rivalry has sharpened with the impending end of white rule as President F.W. de Klerk dismantles apartheid and negotiates on sharing political power with the black majority.

Inkatha and the ANC, which is much larger, are divided ideologically and tribally. The ANC leans to the left; Inkatha backs a free market economy and other conservative measures.

But the struggle has turned increasingly into a ruthless battle for power in which differences over political structure and economic systems have become largely meaningless. Both sides aspire to rule, excluding the other.

In the townships, the fighting often breaks down along tribal lines with Inkatha Zulus battling blacks who back the ANC, whose leadership and support has a strong Xhosa element.

The rivalry between the Zulus and the Xhosas, the country's two main tribes, goes back centuries. Some Zulus say they will never accept an ANC government because it would be "foreign."

The fighting also reflects the lawlessness of the townships after decades of apartheid and poverty. Black leaders say their people have no tradition of political tolerance and violence is the only way they know to settle differences.

The South African Institute of Race Relations, an independent think tank, estimates nearly 11,000 people have died in political violence since 1984. The overwhelming majority were blacks killed by other blacks.

ANC President Nelson Mandela and other black leaders have charged that the white security forces are fanning the violence, trying to weaken the opposition and give the government an edge in power-sharing talks.

A series of well planned military-style attacks has helped to spark township violence and raised suspicions about security force involvement. But the government denies the accusation, and Mandela has not been able to substantiate the charges.

White right-wing extremists, opposed to government efforts to end apartheid, have been accused of attacking blacks, but have not been linked to the factional fighting.

Nation's banks' earnings 12% less than a year ago

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's 12,150 commercial banks earned $4.6 billion during the April-June period, a 12-percent drop from a year ago and the lowest second-quarter level in four years, the government said today.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. said 88 percent of banks earned profits and slightly more than half reported higher earnings than a year ago. But that improvement was offset by continuing commercial real estate loan problems, particularly in California and Northeastern banks.

"Unfortunately, the second-quarter figures could be characterized as the banking industry bumping along the bottom of the recession," said L. William Seidman, FDIC chairman.

Because a fewer-than-expected 57 banks failed in the first half of this year, down from 99 in the first half of 1990, the balance in the government insurance fund protecting bank deposits up to $100,000 per account increased to $4.5 billion as of June 30, up $500 million from six months earlier.

Fiesta fare for diez-y-seis de Septiembre

September 16, also known as Diez-y-Seis and Fiestas Patrias, is Mexico's most joyously celebrated national holiday. It commemorates the beginning of Mexico's campaign to free itself from Spanish rule in 1810. Although the initial uprising was put down and it was fully 11 years before independence was won, that first step toward a new republic still is celebrated both in Mexico and in Mexican-American communities. Parades, reenactments, speeches, fun and feasting continue for days.

This year, Mexican Independence Day falls on a Monday. Why not join in the spirit of the holiday with weeknight fiesta for friends? Serve up great south-of-the-border taste in record time with two new recipes from Pace Foods home economists. Fuss-free to assemble and quick to cook, each easy entree relies on mild, medium or hot Pace Thick & Chunky Salsa for its fiesta flair and authentic Mexican flavor. With large chunks of tomatoes, onions and fresh jalapeno peppers, and no fat, additives, preservatives or sugar, it's a healthy way to give a Texas-size flavor boost to all your favorite foods.

Salsa Pollo Con Frijoles (Salsa-Topped Chicken with Beans) will bring guests flocking to the table. To prepare, boned and skinned chicken breast is rolled around a savory mix of pinto beans, green onions and thick & chunky salsa. Additional salsa tops the chicken rolls as they bake, and a last-minute sprinkling of cheese and optional cilantro completes the dish.

Speedy Salsa Snapper quickly simmers cumin-seasoned fish fillets in garlic accented thick & chunky salsa. When the fish is removed from the skillet, a dollop of sour cream is stirred into the salsa remaining in the skillet to make super creamy topping. Garnish with cilantro or green onions and ripe olives for serape-bright color and flavor contrast.

To complete either entree fiesta-style, team it with rice cooked in chicken broth and tossed with corn and green onions, and a simple salad of tomatoes and avocados.

SALSA POLLO CON FRIJOLES

- 3 whole chicken breasts, split, boned and skinned
- 1 1/2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup rinsed and drained canned or cooked pinto beans
- 3/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons Pace Thick & Chunky Salsa
- 1/2 cup green onions with tops
- 3/4 cup (3 ounces) shredded monterey jack cheese
- 1/4 cup chopped fresh cilantro, optional

Pound chicken to 1/4-inch thickness; sprinkle lightly with 1/2

On Mexican Independence Day, Sept. 16, or on any day you're feeling festive, celebrate with great-tasting, quick-to-fix Salsa Pollo Con Frijoles (Salsa Chicken with Beans). The boneless skinned chicken breasts, filled with a mix of beans, scallions and the cook's choice of mild, medium or hot salsa, are ready to bake in minutes. Top with additional salsa before baking and sprinkle with cheese and cilantro to serve.

teaspoon of the cumin and salt. Combine beans, 2 tablespoons of the salsa and remaining one teaspoon cumin in small bowl; mash with a fork until fairly smooth. Stir in green onions. Spread evenly onto center of each chicken breast half. Roll up; secure with wooden pick. Please seam side down in 11x7-inch baking dish. Spoon remaining 3/4 cup salsa evenly over chicken. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 30 to 35 minutes or until chicken is cooked through. Sprinkle with cheese return to oven until cheese is melted, 2 to 3 minutes. Sprinkle with cilantro, if desired, and serve with additional salsa. Makes 6 servings.

SPEEDY SALSA SNAPPER
1 pound red snapper or other firm, white-fleshed fish*, cut into 4 pieces
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1 cup Pace Thick & Chunky Salsa
1 clove garlic, minced
1/3 cup dairy sour cream
1/4 cup chopped cilantro or thinly sliced green onions with tops

1/4 cup sliced ripe olives
Sprinkle fish with cumin; set aside. Bring salsa and garlic just to a boil in 10-inch skillet; top with fish. Cover tightly and simmer gently 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with fork. Remove from heat. Remove fish to serving plate. Stir sour cream into pan juices; spoon over fish. Sprinkle with cilantro and olives. Serve with additional salsa. Makes 4 servings.

Prize-winning pizza meat loaf

Battle Creek, Mich. — An easy-to-prepare combination of pizza and meat loaf created by Grace Crispo of Norwell, Massachusetts, was selected as the grand prize winner from over 4,000 entries in the Kellogg's® All-Bran Healthy Life Recipe Contest.

BRANIZZA

- 1 1/2 cups Kellogg's® All-Bran® cereal
- 1 1/2 pounds lean ground beef
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/4 cup low-fat milk
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1 teaspoon oregano
- 1 teaspoon basil
- 1 can (16-oz.) tomato sauce with Italian seasoning
- 1 can (8 oz.) pizza sauce
- 1 pkg. (8 oz., 2 cups) shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese
- 1 large green bell pepper, thinly sliced
- 1 can (2 1/2 oz.) sliced ripe olives, drained
- 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese

1. In a large bowl, combine Kellogg's All-Bran cereal, ground beef, egg, milk, onions and spices. Let stand about 5 minutes or until cereal is softened.

2. Evenly press meat mixture into an 11 x 15 x 2-inch jelly roll pan. Combined the tomato sauce and pizza sauce. Spread sauce over meat mixture. Sprinkle mozzarella cheese, pepper slices, olives and Parmesan cheese evenly over sauce.

3. Bake at 400 Degree F. about 30 minutes or until cheese is bubbly and begins to brown. Cut into 18 slices. Serve hot.

Fixing tender, juicy hamburgers on the grill

NEW YORK (AP) — For tender, juicy hamburgers hot off the grill, the American Dairy Association has the following tips:

- Keep handling to a minimum when shaping the ground beef into patties. The more the beef is manipulated, the less juicy the burgers will be.

- When using a charcoal grill, place a grid over medium coals.

• Avoid flattening the burgers with a spatula. This forces out the natural juices and makes the burgers dry and less tender.

- Wait to salt burgers until they have been turned.

Preserving Hemingway country

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP) — Back when Ernest Hemingway lived in his well-fenestrated hillside house overlooking the Big Wood River, there wasn't another building in sight.

Now development encroaches throughout the popular Sun Valley resort area, and Hemingway is part of the reason.

His son, Jack, hopes to be part of the solution. He's on the board of the Nature Conservancy in Idaho, and he believes his father, who died here 30 years ago, would have approved.

"In his day, the word 'environmental' wasn't in common usage, certainly," Hemingway says. "His feeling for the land essentially was that it should be unspoiled. . . . In those days when some country you loved was over-run with people, you just moved on and found another place."

"Idaho was sort of his last stand; he wasn't going to move on. He wanted to keep what we had here as inviolable as possible. . . . I think he was a little depressed to see more people coming, but even in '61 when he died the growth hadn't even begun. . . ."

"There was no environmental movement. You just had a very strong feeling about what should be done with the land."

"He used to talk about good country, and this was good country. The country around here, the sort of desert-y country, reminded him a lot of Spain, which was a place he dearly loved. He loved the bird hunting here in particular."

When the resort was being developed in the late 1930s, Ernest Hemingway and other celebrities were brought here to promote it. They stayed in complimentary quarters and resort officials guided them on hunting, fishing and skiing adventures — and snapped publicity photos.

In 1958, when he could see he might have to leave his Cuban home because of Castro's revolution, he bought the Big Wood River house where he ended his life on July 2, 1961. The house, a replica of the Sun Valley Lodge, was bequeathed to the Nature Conservancy by Hemingway's widow, Mary, who died in 1986.

Conservancy state director Guy Bonnivier, who spent much of 1990 running the Gray Ranch for the Conservancy in New Mexico, has KETCHUM, Idaho — Nature conservancy state director Guy Bonnivier poses with his dogs Chessie, left, and Rebate on the deck of Ernest Hemingway's former house near Ketchum, Idaho earlier this summer. Hemingway's widow, Mary, bequeathed the house to the Nature Conservancy, and Bonnivier has his office in the upstairs room where Hemingway wrote.

his Idaho office in the upstairs room where Hemingway worked on such books as "A Moveable Feast" and "Garden of Eden," at a window overlooking the valley toward the basal outcroppings of the Boulder Mountains.

"When Ernest lived here, you couldn't see another building from this house," Bonnivier said as he walked through the imposing two-story, poured-concrete house with its dominating windows.

Most Hemingway furnishings remain, including impala and lesser kudu trophies of his African safaris over the fireplace and a mountain lion pelt on the sofa. Hemingway's deep-sea fishing cap is of a shelf in Bonnivier's office.

The house and grounds are closed to the public, a condition of Mary Hemingway's will.

Hemingway especially loved to canoe down Silver Creek 30 miles southeast of here on duck hunts, his son says. The Conservancy now owns the Silver Creek Preserve, 3,000 acres near the headwaters.

The private, non-profit Conservancy also owns 8,000 acres close to the confluence of the Snake and Salmon rivers in the Hell's Canyon area near the Oregon-Washington border, 120 miles along Soldier Creek, three miles of river frontage in the Thousand Springs Preserve and a half mile of Wood River frontage which Bonnivier calls "the Hemingway Preserve."

"There is all sorts of development encroaching on the (Wood) river," Bonnivier says, a particular problem because of the river's tendency to flood.

Homeowners who have built down in the flood plain have ripped their river frontages with protective boulders, altering the course of the river and increasing its speed, he says.

A group called Friends of the Wood River instituted a program to counteract riprap with "drop structures" designed to slow the flow and return it to its normal flood plain.

The Conservancy, meanwhile, wants to acquire more Wood River frontage.

"We want to get hold of the pieces that aren't ripped," Bonnivier says.

The Nature Conservancy, sometimes called the real estate wing of the environmental movement, acquires ecologically sensitive land, then sets about rehabilitating it. In Idaho, the organization has been involved in protecting some 45,000 acres overall.

But the Silver Creek Preserve is something of an anomaly.

"There had been no history in the past of the Conservancy allowing any public hunting on any of their land, but it was really felt that this was a traditional use," Jack Hemingway says.

Bonnivier says hunters are allowed to canoe down Silver Creek three days a week, to shoot from the public access riverbed areas to the high-water line and to walk ashore on Conservancy land to retrieve their birds.

Besides ducks, Silver Creek has long-billed curlews, wintering bald eagles, visiting peregrine falcons, breeding pairs of Swainson's hawk and several owl species.

When the time came for Hemingway to consider where he'd live after leaving Cuba, his son says: "I don't think there was any question in his mind about where he'd go. This was it."

He had worked on many of his books during Sun Valley visits, starting with "For Whom the Bell Tolls" in 1939, and he had many friends here.

Sun Valley erected a modest Hemingway monument 25 years ago overlooking Trail Creek. A bust of him sits atop a pillar. On the base is an inscription distilled from Hemingway's eulogy for a friend killed in a Thousand Springs hunting accident:

"Best of all he loved the fall, the leaves yellow on the cottonwoods, leaves floating on the trout streams, and above the hills the high blue windless skies. . . . Now he will be a part of them forever."

Cats kept out of their own home

NEW YORK (AP) — A Fifth Avenue co-op invoked a no-pets rule to keep out a pair of house cats that inherited rights to a swank apartment when their widowed owner died.

The cats, named Damon and Pythias, are 6-year-old brothers and beneficiaries of Terry Krumholz, who died of cancer July 25 at age 55.

Writing her will last December, Mrs. Krumholz left the bulk of her $3 million estate to the Elroy and Terry Krumholz Foundation, named for her and her late husband. The foundation was instructed to provide care for the cats.

That included maintaining the $750,000 10th-floor Krumholz apartment as the pets' home until new owners are found to take them as a pair.

Once the cats are resettled, the foundation's assets — apartment included — go to charity, said Dr. Lewis Berman, a veterinarian who cared for the cats after Mrs. Krumholz died.

So far so good.

That is until Sanford Becker Jr., the Krumholz estate executor, brought the cats back to the apartment on Aug. 5. He was barred from the building.

Berman and Carol Wilbourn, a cat therapist who has treated the animals, said Tuesday the no-pet rule had been ignored for six years while Mrs. Krumholz was alive.

"She had never had to be secretive about taking the cats in and out," Wilbourn said. "They would go back and forth with her for weekends on Long Island."

Arnold Hackmire, lawyer for the building management, declined to comment.

Becker, through a secretary, twice declined requests for comment.

The cats' whereabouts, meanwhile, were not disclosed.

It's believed they're with one of Mrs. Krumholz's two maids, The New York Times reported Tuesday.

Wilbourn began treating the cats in October 1989 because Damon was attacking Pythias. "They were feuding," she said.

The problem was stress, probably related to Elroy Krumholz's death the previous year, she said.

Fraternal tranquility was restored after 15 therapy sessions, Wilbourn said. "They're not fighting anymore."

Man wants to open door wife shut on his family

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I would be writing to you. My wife, "Annie," does not care for my family; so we spend every holiday with her family. She says my family lives "too far away" to visit although hers lives only a few miles closer.

Annie and I are happy together, but shutting out my family completely is starting to bother me. I think of them on holidays and their birthdays and would like to share these times with them. I try to discuss this with Annie, but she always says, "We'll talk about it another time" — then she always initiates sex. (I just realized this.) It does take my mind off the discussion for the time being.

Have you had letters from anyone else who neglected his family because of his spouse and later regretted it? — "SAM" IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR SAM: Yes, I have heard from many readers who deeply regretted not spending more time with their families while they were able to. (Especially parents.)

A large part of a loving marriage is compromise, which may mean spending time with people because they are important to one's spouse. The next time you discuss this with Annie, point this out, take a cold shower and keep talking.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 22-year-old single woman, independent and very nice-looking — so I am told. For two years, I was seeing a married man who was separated from his wife. He said he and his wife were trying to work out their problems with a counselor for the sake of their three kids, but he was still very much in love with me. I sent him back to his wife and family.

I took a month's vacation to try and forget him. Now I'm home, and he is on the phone trying to get me to see him. I don't want to see him because he is a very convincing man and I don't want to start up with him again. On the other hand, I really love him. Half of me wants to see him again, and the other half tells me I shouldn't. I need your advice as soon as possible. — IN LOVE IN NEW MEXICO

DEAR IN LOVE: Listen to the half with the brains in it, and tell him to stay with his family.

DEAR ABBY: Is there a universal sign of apology? There are many universal rude gestures known by everyone, but I often wish I had a signal saying "I'm sorry."

For example, if I were daydreaming at a red light and the driver behind me had to honk the horn, how could I let that driver know that I'm sorry? Other examples: splashing someone on the sidewalk, or misjudging the distance in passing so the other driver had to slow down.

Perhaps this "I apologize" sign would work if you absentmindedly jostled another person in a multi-lane area, and you weren't sure which language to apologize in.

If there isn't such a sign, maybe you should invent one. You have enough readers. Perhaps we could create a more polite environment.

— SMALL TOWN IN NEBRASKA
DEAR SMALL TOWN: A smile, a salute, a nod, or just a plain "Oops" with the appropriate facial expression would do.

DEAR ABBY: I have two big, good-looking sons. One is 16 and the other is 18, and they've been fighting each other ever since they were old enough to swing their arms.

The 18-year-old just bought a car and drove past his brother walking down the road, and he wouldn't even stop to give him a ride.

The 16-year-old, who's as big as his brother, keeps his clothes in better shape, so the older one helps himself to his kid brother's clothes without asking.

The boys fight and cuss each other out like a couple of mule skinner. Why can't they act like brothers? — WEST VIRGINIA MOM

DEAR MOM: They do. Cain and Abel.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TALKED ABOUT IN NEW ORLEANS: Keep your character in mint condition, and your reputation will take care of itself.

BREAST CANCER DETECTION UNIT AVAILABLE TO AREA WOMEN

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

CALL 267-8226 FOR APPOINTMENT

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of nine women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

- I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

A Service of Transamerican Diagnostic Services (Providing Mammography Services for over 5 years)

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Soviets to withdraw 11,000 troops from Cuba

MOSCOW (AP) — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev, in the clearest sign yet he is ready to sever strong Soviet military ties with hard-line Cuba, said today a Soviet training brigade would soon leave the island.

It was not clear if that would constitute a complete Soviet military pullout from Cuba, where Fidel Castro's authoritarian rule is far out of step with the changes that have swept the Soviet Union since last month's failed hard-line coup.

Gorbachev, speaking at a joint news conference with Secretary of State James A. Baker III, told reporters: "We will soon begin discussions with the Cuban leadership about the withdrawal of a Soviet training brigade." He said about 11,000 soldiers were involved.

Baker welcomed the news, saying the Soviet decision "will be very important in terms of public opinion in the United States."

The Soviet military presence on the island, just 90 miles off the U.S. coast, was a symbol of Cold War superpower tensions that culminated with the Cuban missile crisis nearly three decades ago.

Washington has been pressuring Moscow to reduce its economic and military aid to Castro, who has vowed to stick to his hard-line policies at any cost.

Gorbachev said he told Baker that the Soviet Union intended to convert its relations with Cuba to solely political and economic ties. "We will remove other elements from that relationship," he said.

The figure of 11,000 troops cited by Gorbachev was higher than Soviet troop estimates by Western military analysts, including the International Institute of Strategic Studies in London.

The institute estimates there are 7,700 Soviet troops on the island — 2,100 troops involved in signal intelligence, 2,800 military advisers and 2,800 members of a motorized rifle brigade.

Baker said that he and Gorbachev also "spent quite a bit of time talking about the importance of quickly developing a credible economic reform program for presentation to international financial agencies."

The United States and other countries have withheld aid to Moscow pending more reform.

Without specifically saying the United States would not supply economic assistance to the Soviet Union as long as it was supporting Cuba, President Bush and other U.S. officials have said on several occasions that reducing assistance to Cuba and cutting Soviet defense spending in general would make U.S. economic aid more likely.

Soviet Foreign Minister Boris D. Pankin said on Thursday that it was time again to re-examine Soviet ties with Cuba and certain other countries following last month's abortive Kremlin coup.

A day later, Gorbachev and Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin, who has taken on a strong role in the new decentralized Soviet government, both agreed on reassessing ties with Cuba when they were interviewed together on U.S. television.

Castro, in power since his revolution that toppled dictator Fulgencio Batista in 1959, had close relations with Moscow since the abortive, U.S.-backed Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961.

The following year, the placement of Soviet missiles in Cuba prompted the U.S.-Soviet missile crisis.

of the funding, Roloff said. A drop of $2,597 was money phased out for center operations, a decision made four years ago that applies to all centers, she said.

Meanwhile, Leonard, who began work last Wednesday following the resignation of former director Ron Robey, said she is working to solve the problem.

"My No. 1 priority is to build up the (meal) count," she said. "Hopefully it's because of summer vacations, and they'll be coming back before too long."

Robey, who said he quit because of personal problems after less than two months at the job, did not return a phone call.

Leonard was the second choice behind Robey to fill the position vacated by Jaynet Smith, who left in July after more than two years service, Lockhart said.

Leonard, who worked with senior citizens for 11 years as a technician for the U.S. Housing and Urban Development agency in Odessa and Big Spring, said she wants to find out what senior citizens want. "This belongs to the senior citizens. Whatever they want to do we'll try to do," she said. "We need everything as positive as we can get. It's such a nice center and the people need it. They deserve it."

Leonard was born in Coahoma and raised in Big Spring. She graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College.

Following additional research, Boyd said he would present a finalized plan at a later council meeting for a vote. The plan might not be ready for the next council meeting, Boyd said he planned to "take the time, and do it right."

Former council member Gail Earls and others voiced opposition to inviting the attorney general to "air our dirty laundry."

After the council had passed the motion to request the investigation by the attorney general, however, one police officer commented, "We've been asking for this all along."

"We owe it to our police to remove any cloud of doubt," said council member Mark Sheedy.

Mayor Max Green. "It was just general discussion," said Boyd after the meeting.

During a public hearing on the proposal to change the name of Hearn Street to Windmill Road, Big Spring resident Don Brodie informed the council that the original proponent of the plan, who owns a business on Hearn Street, had misrepresented the wishes of the majority of Hearn Street residents.

"I represent the majority of the residents of Hearn Street, and most everybody told him they weren't interested," said Brodie.

Brodie produced signed statements from many of the street's 11 property owners.

Following his presentation, the council voted unanimously to refuse the name change.

In other business, the council:

- Passed on second and final reading, a resolution requesting the new extension of FM-1927, which leads to the O.H. Ivey Reservoir, be renamed the Ray C. Stoker Jr. highway.
- Approved on final reading a resolution to designate unmarked cars for the police department and the city arson investigator.

- Approved an alcoholic beverage application at the Old Settlers Pavilion from the Chicano Golfers Association.
- Denied a request from a Big Spring woman to raise rabbits for sale at 1311 Virginia.
- Approved the purchase of a used skid loader for $11,500 from Associated Supply Co. of Lubbock.
- Awarded a bid for a truck tire changer for $7,224 to Myers Tire Supply of San Antonio.
- Authorized the city manager to advertise for bids for four garbage trucks and a rubber-tire loader.
- Accepted the minutes of the Parks and Recreation Board from their Aug. 26 meeting.
- Accepted the minutes of the July 18 Traffic Commission meeting, which entails a request to the Texas Highway Department to determine the optimum safe speed for Third and Fourth Streets.
- Approved on first reading an ordinance fixing and levying the city property tax.
- Approved on first reading an ordinance amending the city code to allow increases for water and wastewater rates.

- Approved on first reading an ordinance to amend the code and allow an increase in fees at the Municipal Golf Course.
- Approved on first reading, resolutions authorizing the mayor to execute agreements with the Heritage Museum, renewing their annual contract to manage the Pottin House; with the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce authorizing them to increase tourism by "encouragement, promotion, improvement and application of the arts," and to attract business through the use of industrial promotional advertising; with the Rape Crisis/Victim Services Center to provide victim counseling to area residents for the 1991-92 fiscal year.
- Approved on first reading, a resolution authorizing a response to the Texas Department of Corrections' request for information about the location, construction and operation of a correctional facility.

Baker

"I would not characterize that as a small gesture," Baker said of the announcement on Cuba. "I think it was a very substantial step."

Earlier, Soviet Foreign Minister Boris Pankin said that it is now "up to the West" to move on economic aid to his troubled nation.

Pankin spoke to reporters before going into a meeting with Baker.

Asked for his expectations on economic aid from the West, Pankin said, "It is not up to us to move now, it is up to the West to move."

Pankin said the Soviets were prepared "to reaffirm our firm commitment to all our (international) obligations." He specifically cited arms control treaties and central government control over the Soviet Union's nuclear arsenal.

Pankin said that "in response to certain concerns voiced in the world" about nuclear weapons being claimed by seceding republics, "I would say that we do have someone to control that process."

He also said he hoped humanitarian aid in the form of medicine and food would come to the Soviet Union.

"And the sooner that would start, the better, because we are facing winter," he said.

The meeting with Pankin was the first in an unprecedented series of talks with Soviet officials in which Baker hoped to get a clearer sense of where the chaotic events of recent weeks are leading their country.

Economic aid was what most Soviet officials wanted to discuss. As he arrived in Moscow, Baker said he also wanted to talk about nuclear weapons safeguards, Soviet progress toward a market economy after seven decades of Communist central control and the standards being followed in the swift transformation of Soviet political structures.

The secretary made it clear the Bush administration hopes to influence the Soviet Union, but is uncertain how the changes will play out.

He spoke repeatedly of "the center," his way of referring to the greatly weakened central government that once ruled the 15 Soviet republics with an iron hand.

Eleven of those republics have declared independence and the former Soviet Union appears headed toward creation of a loose confederation.

"This trip will give us a much better feel than we now have of what the status of the center is," Baker said.

In addition to sessions with Yeltsin and Gorbachev, he will meet such emerging political figures as Mayor Anatoly Sobchak of Leningrad and President Nursultan Nazarbayev of Kazakhstan, the second largest republic in area.

Baker said he was visiting the Soviet Union "at a rather extraordinary time" and was "seeing a much wider and broader range of officials than we normally have."

As for economic aid to the troubled one-time superpower, Baker said it remained contingent on Soviet movement toward a market economy.

"There has to be a commitment to free market policies," he said.

A State Department aide said Baker hoped to meet with representatives from all the republics during his five-day visit.

On Saturday he will visit Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, the three Baltic states that were just granted their independence.

Hostage talks advance as Israel frees prisoners

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar appeared to make headway today in efforts to negotiate the release of Western hostages when Israel freed 51 Arab prisoners demanded by pro-Iranian groups.

As Perez de Cuellar met with top Iranian officials, the Israeli military said the Arab prisoners were freed in recognition of the U.N. chief's work to secure a broad-based deal that would include the 11 Western hostages.

Pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim radicals had insisted that no more Western hostages would be freed until Israel released some of its nearly 375 Arab prisoners in south Lebanon and Israel. The prisoners freed today did not include Sheik Abdul Karim Obeid, a leader of Shiite group Hezbollah, who was kidnapped by Israeli authorities in 1989 as a bargaining chip.

Israel said it freed the 51 Arab prisoners held by the Israeli-backed South Lebanon Army today after receiving confirmation that an Israeli serviceman missing in Lebanon was dead. The Israeli military communique said the Jewish state also returned to Lebanon the bodies of nine Arab guerrillas.

The moves could help build confidence of Israeli willingness to participate in a swap involving the 11 Western hostages, captured Arab guerrillas and seven missing Israeli servicemen. Israel has sought proof of the whereabouts of the servicemen or their remains.

Yossi Olmert, an Israeli government spokesman, said today's developments could be seen as "a move toward release of all those innocent hostages" from Israel and Western nations. "I'm sure we're on the right track," he added.

The South Lebanon Army commander, Col. Antoine Lahad, told the Voice of South Lebanon radio: "We took this initiative for humanitarian reasons and as proof of our willingness to make a gesture, hoping that such an initiative will get a response from the parties involved — those holding some of our soldiers and some of the Israeli soldiers."

"We hope they will do the same as we did for humanitarian reasons, and we hope that our initiative will help Perez de Cuellar to succeed in his attempts to release all the POWs and the innocent kidnap victims, who were kidnapped in recent years," Lahad said.

Perez de Cuellar's two-day visit included talks with President Hashemi Rafsanjani, who has urged an end to the hostage crisis.

He also planned today to meet with families of Iranians missing in Lebanon. Iran has linked the fate of the Western hostages to concrete information of four Iranian kidnappers by Christian-backed Phalangist forces in June 1982.

After arriving in Tehran on Tuesday, the secretary-general said his visit to Iran will deal primarily with issues related to the U.N. cease-fire resolution that ended the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war, and other regional issues.

But Perez de Cuellar also said if Iranian officials wanted to raise the hostage problem he would be "only too happy to listen."

"The Iranians are helping me, but they do not hold the key," he said.

The Western hostages include five Americans, three Britons, two Germans and an Italian. The longest-held is American Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, who was kidnapped in March 1985.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said Perez de Cuellar thanked Iran for previous efforts to free the Westerners.

In a statement in Paris on Monday, the U.N. chief said he would seek Iranian help in freeing the hostages.

"By that, I don't wish to say that the Iranians are responsible, but even so they have influences which could be useful for me in trying to resolve the problem of the Western hostages, as well as the detainees held in south Lebanon and missing people on the Israeli side," he said.

British television journalist John McCarthy, released Aug. 8, delivered a letter from the captors to Perez de Cuellar requesting that the U.N. chief mediate the swap of the Westerners for the Arab prisoners held by Israel and its allies. Three days later, American writer Edward Tracy was freed in Beirut.

Survivors include her husband, Frank Luera, Big Spring; three sons: Ramond Rando, Frank Luera Jr. and Jason Luera, all of Big Spring; two daughters: Gloria Martinez and Martha Henderson, both of Big Spring; one brother, Luis Mascarenas, Clovis; and two sisters: Trini Garcia, Clovis, and Betty Gavale, Amarillo.

Grady officials won't change policy

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

LENORAH — Grady school district trustees have decided not to change the dress code policy, said Gerald Singleton, superintendent.

"The problem is that we're all in one building and if we let the little ones, we'd have to let the big ones. It might be different if we had different campuses, but we're all under one roof," Singleton said after Monday's trustees' meeting.

The resignation of librarian Ruth Darby was accepted. Permission was granted to Robert Moreno to attend Grady as a transfer student.

Trustees also changed the employee leave and absence policy to comply with new state requirements that all employees be granted five days sick leave, he said. The tax roll was certified, and a professional measure for evaluating administration was adopted.

Singleton said enrollment at Grady has increased by seven students since last year, from 207 to 214 for 1991-92.

The date was also scheduled for trustees to set the tax rate for this school year, Thursday at 6 p.m.

Lady Steers awaken to beat Lee

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

The Big Lady Steers didn't nap too long.

The Lady Steers woke up after a dismal first game to rally to beat the Midland Lee Lady Rebels 6-15, 15-9, 15-11 in non-district volleyball action here Tuesday night.

Big Spring's play in the second and third games hardly resembled their play in the first game, one which Lee dominated from start to finish. In the final two games the Lady Steers kept the pressure on the Lee defense with some hard spikes, and it's defense took everything the Lady Rebels hit at it.

Big Spring Lady Steers coach Lois Ann McKenzie called it one of her team's better performances. "It's one of our best matches by far this year," said McKenzie. "Take away that first game and we didn't look too bad. I don't know... I thought we had the lineup like I wanted it and the third game I changed Heather (Farris) and Anne (Rodriguez). The first game we just missed too many serves."

Leading the Lady Steers offense were senior hitters Amber Grisham and Teveyan Russell, along with junior setter Cassie Underwood. Grisham and Russell's power spikes offset a fine performance by Lee hitter Teixeira Strambler.

Strambler had an excellent match, downing 16 of 23 kills, to go along with three blocks. Grisham came off the bench and gave Big Spring instant offense, she finished the match with 15 kills in 22 attempts and three blocks. Russell was almost as efficient, downing 16 of 26 attempts to go along with two blocks.

Underwood and teammates Rodriguez, Farris, Kayla Roberts and Amber Fannin were all over the floor, blocking at the nets and digging up hard smashes by Strambler and Co. Underwood got four of five kills and one block and Fannin game off the bench to register five of eight kills and three blocks.

Big Spring never had the lead in the first game. The score was tied 3-3 when Rodriguez served an ace and Grisham got a kill.

Then the Lady Rebel reeled off the next five points before Fannin served an ace, cutting the deficit to 8-4. Lee answered by scoring four unanswered points to take a 12-4 advantage. Tanisha Mills served the last point of the game thanks to a set by Jeanna Jones to Strambler, who nailed a rocket, giving Lee a 15-6 victory.

Strambler downed seven of nine kills in the game and Tiffany Grafá was three of three to lead Lee.

In the second game Lee jumped to a 4-0 lead The Lady Steers answered with two service points each by Fannin and Russell to tie the game.

With Lee holding a 7-6 lead, Big Spring made its move to take control. With Roberts serving, Big Spring scored when Fannin got a kill off a Lee return. Lee was whistled for a net violation and Russell put a dink over the Lee front line. Big Spring led 9-7.

Lee answered with two points when Grafá served two balls Rodriguez couldn't handle. It would be the last time Lee would score in the game however.

Russell then served the last six points of the game. The rally started with Grisham blocking Lee's Melinda Butts and ended with Underwood setting Grisham for the final kill.

McKenzie said the momentum started to shift midway through the second game. "I put Amber Fannin in and she made a difference," said McKenzie. "She put pressure on Strambler with her outside blocking. One she started getting her hands on the ball it made a difference. In the last two games we stepped on the court like we wanted to play."

Lee took a 1-0 lead in the rubber match but Big Spring quickly surged ahead 4-2 on a point by Fannin and three by Russell. Big Spring's

Save your money Iron Mike Tyson

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

With the current big names and high salaries in professional sports, no wonder there are so many sports heroes.

There's Michael Jordan, Carl Lewis, Wayne Gretzky, Nolan Ryan, Joe Montana, Steven Edberg, Monica Seles, ... and the list could go on and on.

Many children and even adults idolize these athletes. They are public figures, and some are role models for our youth. Personally I'm a fan of Michael Jordan, Nolan Ryan, Magic Johnson and Joe Montana.

Some sports figures are put on a pedestal not so much for what they can do in sports, but for what they stand for. Not only are they outstanding athletes, they are outstanding individuals. That's why they also make so much money marketing products for various companies.

One athlete that has fallen from my good graces is Iron Mike Tyson. When Tyson first began his professional boxing career he was so good and yet so modest. His boyish characteristics made him one of America's most-loved athletes. But with more success came more troubles in Tyson's life. The latest controversy in his life is facing charges of rape and three other criminal counts.

The indictment came after a month-long investigation by a special Marion County, Ind., grand jury into allegations Tyson sexually assaulted an 18-year-old woman July 19 in Indianapolis.

I'm not convicting Mike Tyson, I truly hope he's innocent, but allegations like this make the public think a lot less of Tyson. His credibility is gone. What Iron Mike has to watch out for is that it could very well hurt his pocket book.

I hope he has a little money put aside, because his rainy-day could be fast approaching. With controversy surrounding him like this, his appeal at the gate could evaporate faster than a stack of chips in Vegas. His endorsement value has already dropped drastically. Lloyd Kolmer, who heads a New York-based sports and celebrity negotiating firm put it bluntly — "He'd better beat Evander Holyfield, because that's about the only way he'll ever make another nickel."

Now the general feeling is there will be no more endorsements for Mike because there's not very many figures in sports whose image right now is as loathsome. There are other current athletes who have more or less been blackballed for endorsements. There's womanizing Wade Boggs and Pete Rose the gambler. Then there's gun-toting Jose Canseco and substance-abusers Dwight Gooden and Lawrence Taylor. But none of them are thought to be, as Tyson is, banished from the banquet and commercial circuits that provide so many ballplayers with the adulation and walking-around change they seem to need so desperately after they leave the game.

There are some athletes who have made it back to the good graces of the public after scandals. A good example is Paul Hornung and Alex Karras following a football betting scandal. Both of them made it back.

I even think Gooden is on the way back. After all, Nike gave him a second chance. I can even see Rose, given the right set of circumstances, making it back in a few years.

Now there's even more pressure on Tyson to beat Holyfield. He's lost to Buster Douglas, and he's had two bad fights with Razor Ruddock. Right now he's such an unpopular villain that if he gets beaten up pretty good, the boxing world, the public, his fans will be glad to get rid of him for good.

Tyson could earn as much as $15 million for his fight with Holyfield. For Mike's sake, I hope he invests his money wisely.

Soviet gymnasts rout field

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Soviet men remained atop the gymnastics world Tuesday, while the United States stumbled in its bid to win a medal for the first time in 12 years in the World Championships.

The Soviets, never worse than second in 14 trips to the World Championships, routed the field of international challengers. The margin over better than seven points over runnerup China was the equivalent of a 20-run lead in baseball.

It was the fourth consecutive title for the Soviets and eighth since 1954, the first year the team competed in the World Championships.

The Soviets captured the team gold with a score of 584.425 points. China scored 577.050, and Germany, competing in the World Championships under a united flag for the first time since 1954, took the bronze with 576.125.

Japan was fourth with 574.925 and the U.S. fifth with 569.725.

The remaining order of the top 12 teams that qualified for next year's Olympics at Barcelona was South Korea, Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Switzerland and Great Britain. France missed by .10 points of sending a team to Barcelona.

The U.S., competing without Lance Ringnald, the 1988 Olympian who separated his right shoulder while executing an iron cross on the still rings in Sunday's compulsory, fell apart on the floor exercise, their second routine of the night.

With Ringnald out, the scores of the remaining five U.S. athletes all counted in the optional finals. Under international rules, a six-man team is allowed to throw out the lowest of its scores.

One U.S. gymnast after another crumbled before a highly partisan and American flag-armed crowd of 5,962 in the Hoosier Dome.

The disaster began with national champ Chris Waller, who missed the landing on his first somersault pass and finished with a score of 9.175. Patrick Kirksey was only slightly better with a 9.325, and when team anchor Scott Keswick toppled forward onto his head at the end of his routine, the Americans' chances for a medal vanished.

Keswick followed the floor flaw with another backbreaker, a 9.20 on the pommel horse.

Jarrod Hanks' 9.60 was the high score on floor for the Americans, with Keswick's 9.050 the lowest. Keswick, the UCLA standout who had carried the team through compulsory after Ringnald's injury, earlier provided the U.S. with one of its few bright moments, a 9.80 on the high bar.

Tyson enters not guilty plea

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — As demonstrators chanted "Postpone the fight, do the right thing" outside, former heavyweight champion Mike Tyson made his first court appearance today on charges he raped an 18-year-old Miss Black America beauty pageant contestant.

During the brief proceeding, Marion Superior Court Judge Patricia Gifford read Tyson the rape, criminal deviate conduct and confinement charges against him.

"The court enters a preliminary plea of not guilty," she said, adding that the plea would become final in 20 days unless Tyson changed it.

Gifford set trial for Jan. 27. She also set a hearing Friday on a motion by Tyson's Indianapolis attorney, James Voyles, that lawyers and police be ordered not to make statements that would prevent Tyson from getting a fair trial.

She informed Tyson that he doesn't need to be present for that hearing.

Tyson sat impassively with his hands folded in front of him during his eight-minute appearance before Gifford. He was joined by Voyles and Vincent Fuller, his attorney from Washington, D.C.

The only time Tyson was required to respond was when Gifford asked him his birthday. He stood and said, "6-30-1966."

As the hearing ended, Gifford said: "I order the defendant to be transferred to the Marion County Sheriff's Department for processing."

At that point, Tyson and his attorneys rose and were accompanied by sheriff's deputies from the courtroom. Tyson, 25, was to be fingerprinted and booked at the county jail before posting $30,000 bail.

After arriving at Indianapolis International Airport from Las Vegas about 6:20 a.m. EDT, Tyson said, "I know I'm innocent," then signed one autograph and thanked his fans.

"I really appreciate their support," he said.

Tyson said his indictment Monday by a Marion County special grand jury "has dramatically affected my life." He could get up to 63 years in prison if convicted on all counts.

"I'm not dwelling on it," he said. He added that he just wants to get on with preparations for his scheduled Nov. 8 fight against Evander Holyfield.

"I will resume training just as soon as I can," he said.

Outside the City-County Building, where Tyson was appearing in court, 16 Guardian Angels chanted and carried signs that said, "Justice before greed," "Do the right thing," and "Postpone the bout."

"We're not here to protest against Mike Tyson," said Ken Dosie of Chicago, regional coordinator of the Guardian Angels. "We're here to send a message that there's justice before greed. He should have the justice situation (settled) before the fight."

Dosie said that Tyson has a right to go on with the title bout unless convicted.

"If he wants to go ahead, that's his decision," Dosie said. "We're just here to pass on the message. He is accused of a crime. We want

Settlement close in Martina suit

FORT WORTH (AP) — Martina Navratilova and longtime companion Judy Nelson met privately again today in an attempt to reach a settlement in the palimony lawsuit against the tennis star.

Navratilova and Nelson entered a jury room with their attorneys at state district court in Fort Worth about 8:20 a.m. The attorneys emerged soon afterward, leaving the women to continue a private discussion.

"What's happening now is due to the devastating testimony yesterday," said Mike McCurley, Navratilova's attorney. "Judy felt she needed independent counsel from this point forward."

"If they make any offers, we'll listen," he said. The two women began talking about a settlement Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Judge Harry Hopkins said the preliminary hearing in Nelson's lawsuit would continue for a third day if the women did not reach an agreement.

The hearing focused on whether the former beauty queen's attorney, Jerry Loftin of Fort Worth, should be disqualified from the case.

In tearful testimony Tuesday, Loftin's paralegal BeAnn Sisemore said she alone drew up the disputed property agreement between the two women. Nelson, who appeared tired Wednesday, was asked if she got any sleep overnight.

"No, I didn't," she replied. Asked the same question, Navratilova said, "I always do," adding, "don't I look bright-eyed and bushy tailed?"

Her publicist said the two women had tentatively reached agreement over the financial aspect of an out-of-court settlement that would end the lawsuit. But the talks broke down over non-financial matters in the settlement.

Navratilova publicist Linda Dozoretz said Tuesday night. Dozoretz, who said Nelson made the offer, added she was "optimistic" both sides would come to terms.

Nelson contends Navratilova reneged on a 1986 non-marital cohabitation agreement in which Nelson was to get half of the estimated $5 million to $9 million earned during their seven-year relationship.

An unnamed source close to the case told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that following the couple's break-up in February, Navratilova offered to settle for approximately $1 million. The nine-time Wimbledon champion said in a televised interview with Barbara Walters that Nelson's side refused to begin talking for less

Runnels netters start season

The Runnels volleyball season started last week and Runnels posted three wins out of four matches.

Saturday the Runnels team split with Pecos. The White team won 15-5, 11-15, 15-10. High point server was Cecilia Mendez with 12 points and Charlene Angel with eight points.

The Red team lost to Pecos 10-15, 14-16. Top servers were Teri Gonzales with six points and Dusty Amos with five points.

Monday Runnels swept Sweetwater. The White team beat Sweetwater 15-2, 15-4. Nikki Zertuche led the way with 11 service points. Allison Alcantar served seven points.

The Red team defeated Sweetwater 15-12, 15-6. Gonzales and Claire Miller served six and five points.

Both teams will compete in the Andrews tournament Saturday.

BSHS netters down Estacado

BROWNFIELD The Big Spring High School Tennis Team improved its fall season record to 2-0-1 by blasting Lubbock Estacado 16-2, in matches here Tuesday.

Big Spring opened its season Sept. 3 with a 9-9 tie with Odessa, then beat Brownwood, 16-2, Saturday.

The dominant performance by the Steers pleased coach Todd Spears.

"This was our fourth match of the season, and I think it showed we had a little more maturity than before," Spears said. "We weren't as nervous as we were earlier."

Paced by number-one seed Kristen Sevey, the BSHS girls swept Estacado in singles. Using the pro set format, Sevey downed Tammy Guzman 3-1. Brandy Willis, Christy Ragsdale, Paige Griffin, Leslie Fryar and Maria Villarreal also won their matches.

The only Big Spring loss on the girls' side came when the doubles team of Griffin and Ragsdale was defeated by Gomez Hernandez, 8-6.

The BSHS boys won five of six matches in singles, with number-one seed Trey Terrazas leading the way with a 10-8 victory over James Gibson, who was fourth in regional competition last year.

Robert Lee, Greg Biddison, Stefan Balderach and Shanan Severance also posted singles victories for the Steers.

Big Spring will return to action Saturday when they participate in a three-way match with Levelland and Lubbock High School at Lubbock.

Coed softball play scheduled

Home and Community Services II is sponsoring a coed softball slow-pitch softball tournament Sept. 28-29 at Roy Anderson Complex.

Entry fee is $100 per team and roster limit is 15. There must be five male and five females playing at all times.

There will be team trophies for the first three finishers. There will also be individual trophies for the first place team.

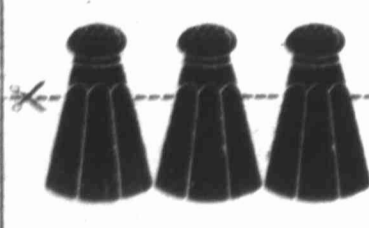

Team entry deadline is Sept. 25. For more information call 263-8123 or 263-2216.

Coahoma linemen head Honor Roll

By STEVE REAGAN
Staff Writer

One could say the front men for the Coahoma Bulldogs had a lot to say about who won Coahoma's first football game of the season.

The Bulldogs' offensive line, consisting of center Drew Bell, guards Lee Coleman and Kirby Brown, tackles Mike Knowles and Allen Grant and ends Matt Coates and Kenny Lowery, played an integral role in Coahoma's season-opening 17-14 victory over the Greenwood Rangers.

Each member of the line, which helped the Bulldogs gain almost 400 yards in total offense against Greenwood, graded out at better than 80 percent in post-game evaluations.

Head Coach Steve Park said the linemen were a key factor in the victory, and for their efforts they are the Herald Crossroads Country Honor Roll co-offensive players of the week.

Other sterling offensive performances included:

- Colorado City wide receiver

K. RODGERS J. BRADFORD C. WILLS C. RHODES L. COLEMAN C. PROCTOR E. SEIDENBERGER M. KNOWLES

David Castillo, who caught three passes for 81 yards in the Wolves' 21-0 loss to Ballinger.

- Coahoma running backs Mike Mendez and Stephen New, who gained 165 and 131 yards, respectively, against Greenwood. Mendez gained his yardage on 25 carries, while New carried the ball 15 times.

- Borden County back Brandon Adcock, who carried the ball nine times for 79 yards and two scores and returned a kickoff 50 yards for a TD in the Coyotes' loss to New Home.

- Borden County back Clint Wills, who completed six of eight passes for 150 yards and two TDs.

- Garden City tailback Jody Bradford, who rushed 15 times for 136 yards and three scores in the Bearkats' 49-0 win over Forsan.

- Big Spring tailback Maurice Evans, who gained 52 yards on 10 carries in the Steers' 24-0 shutout over Amarillo Caprock.

- Also for the Steers, wide receiver Nick Roberson caught two passes for 94 yards and touchdown against Caprock.

- Sands lineman Jason Hodnett, who won the Mustangs' lineman of the week award in their 50-0 win over Hermleigh.

- Sands back Pank Grigg carried three times for 41 yards, caught a 55-yard pass for a score and was three-for-three in extra-point tries in the Mustangs' win.

On the defensive side of the line, there were several outstanding performances, as evidenced by the fact that three area teams shut out their opponents.

One would be hard pressed, however, to top the heroics of Garden City middle linebacker Eric Seidenberger. Seidenberger, a 236-pound senior and a pre-season all-state selection, made 17 tackles — three for losses — and recovered two fumbles in the Bearkats' win over Forsan.

For his efforts, he is the Honor Roll's defensive player of the week.

Other notable defensive performances included:

- Sands defenders Eric Herm and Charles Rhodes. Herm had 11 tackles and a fumble recovery, and Rhodes added seven takedowns, both while playing less than a quarter in the Mustangs' shutout of Hermleigh.

- Big Spring linebacker Kevin Rogers had eight tackles (two for losses), four assists, a sack and fumble recovery in the Steers' victory over Caprock.

- Borden County cornerback Brandon Adcock, who made 18 tackles in the Coyotes' loss.

- Coahoma defenders Stephen New and Lee Coleman. Cornerback New had 13 tackles (four solo, nine assists) and a fumble recovery while Coleman added nine tackles and a fumble recovery in the Bulldogs' win.

- Colorado City linebackers Mark Smith and Cade Proctor. Proctor had eight solo and four assisted tackles, while Smith had four solo and eight assisted tackles for the Wolves against Ballinger.

Braves regain first place from Dodgers

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Dodgers were looking ahead. Instead, they fell behind.

Manager Tom Lasorda, planning for a big weekend series in Atlanta, moved up Ramon Martinez in the rotation to pitch in Cincinnati on Tuesday night. It didn't work, as the Reds roughed the Los Angeles ace and won 6-0.

National League

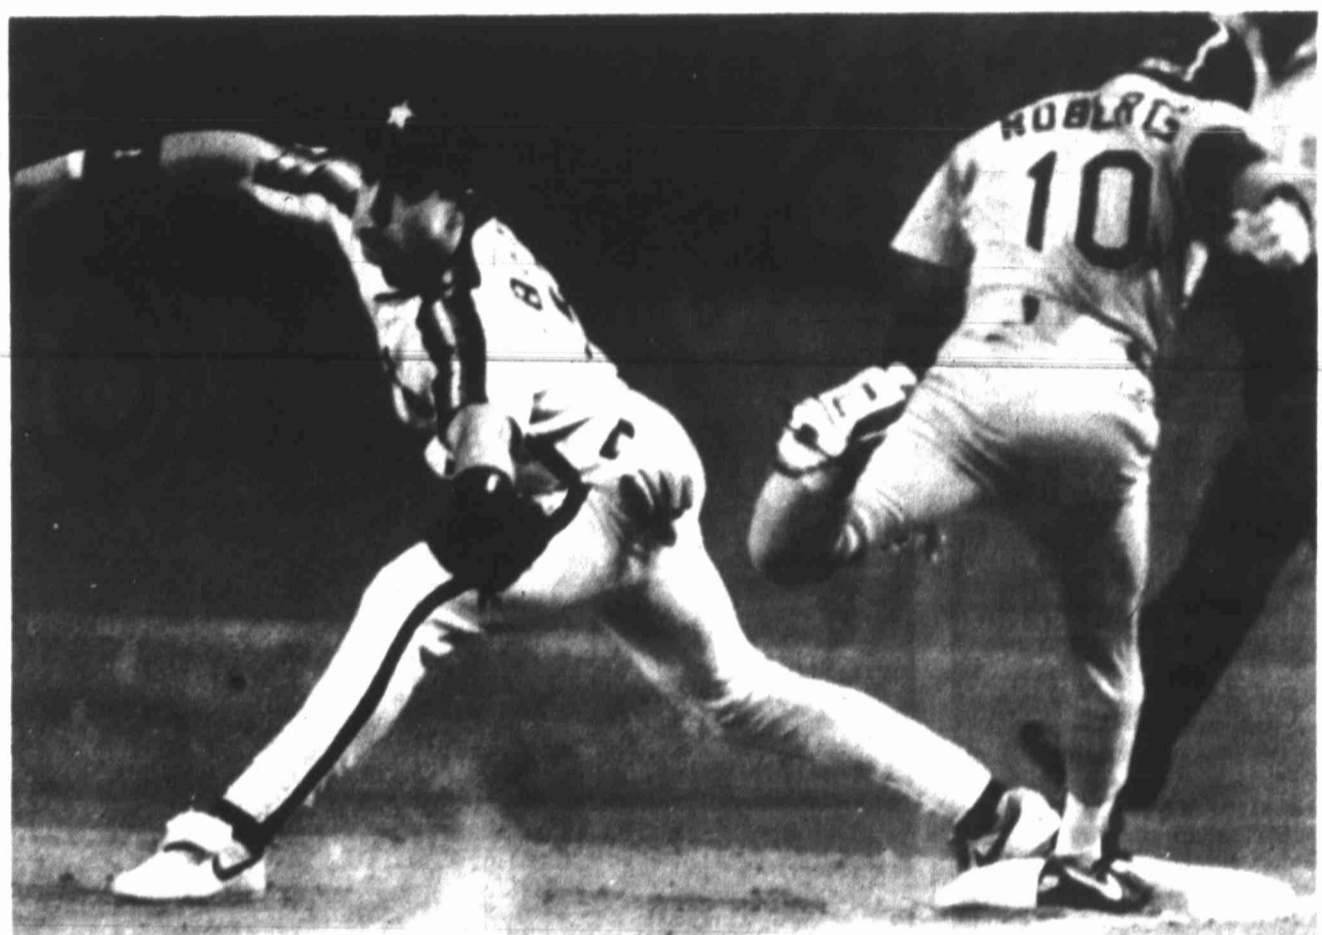

The loss dropped the Dodgers in to second place in the NL West, one-half game in back of the Braves, who beat San Francisco 4-1.

Martinez worked on three days' rest for the first time this season. The move will enable him to pitch this weekend in Atlanta, but it backfired for now.

Martinez (16-10) lasted only 3 2-3 innings. He gave up five hits, including Mariano Duncan's solo homer and two-run doubles by Chris Sabo and Billy Hatcher, and walked three.

Jose Rijo (13-4) shut down the Dodgers on two hits for six innings. He won his fifth straight start and improved to 8-0 in 13 games at Riverfront Stadium this season.

Rijo struck out two and walked three. He led by a 6-0 lead after a brief talk with manager Lou HOUSTON — Houston Astros Jeff Bagwell (5) receives the throw at first base ahead of the San Diego Padres Bip Roberts (10) in the sixth inning Tuesday at the Astrodome.

Braves 4, Giants 1
Steve Avery shut down visiting San Francisco before needing last-out relief help and also got his first major league RBI as Atlanta won its fifth straight.

Avery (15-8) gave up three hits in 8 2-3 innings and left with two runners on base. Alejandro Pena retired Kevin Mitchell on a grounder back to the mound for his seventh save.

The victory was Avery's first in four career decisions against San Francisco. He was 0-2 with a 12.79 ERA this year.

Avery went 3-for-4. His single in the eighth inning gave him his first RBI in 92 lifetime at-bats.

Terry Pendleton hit his 19th home run as the Braves handed John Burkett (9-10) his fifth consecutive defeat. The Giants have lost eight of nine.

Mets 9, Expos 0

Pete Schourek pitched a one-hitter, allowing only Kenny Williams' single with two outs in the fifth inning, as New York stopped a five-game losing streak.

Schourek (3-3), making his fourth major league start, set down the first 14 batters before Williams singled. He struck out seven and walked two.

Howard Johnson and Mackey Sasser each hit three-run homers as the host Mets snapped Montreal's five-game winning streak. Johnson connected off Mark Gardner (8-10) for his league-leading 33rd homer.

Padres 7, Astros 6

Tim Lincecum hit a three-run homer, Benito Santiago had a two-run single and Fred McGriff added his 27th home run as San Diego won its seventh straight game, its longest winning streak since 1987.

Dennis Rasmussen (6-11) was the winner and Craig Lefferts pitched the ninth for his 21st save.

Rocket Roger fires two-hitter at Tigers

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roger Clemens and his Red Sox seem to be heating up at just the right time. Clemens pitched a two-hitter as Boston beat Detroit 4-0 Tuesday night at Tiger Stadium to move within four games of first-place Toronto in the AL East. The Red Sox have won seven straight and have gone 28-12 since the All-Star break.

The Blue Jays finish the season against the West, and started Tuesday night by losing 5-4 to Seattle at the SkyDome. Clemens lost a perfect game and no-hitter in the seventh inning with one out when Lou Whitaker walked and Alan Trammell grounded a clean single to left field.

American League

Mariners 5, Blue Jays 4
Harold Reynolds participated in a triple play in the fifth inning, hit a two-run homer and snapped an eighth-inning tie with an RBI double as Seattle beat Toronto, snapping a 13-game road losing streak.

Brian Holman improved to 13-13.

Twins 7, Royals 2

Pedro Munoz hit a two-run homer and Allan Anderson and four relievers combined on an eight-hitter as Minnesota rolled past Kansas City at Royals Stadium for its fifth straight victory.

Indians 5, Brewers 2

Doug Jones, Cleveland's longtime relief ace, won his first major league start and Reggie Jefferson hit his first grand slam as the Indians beat Milwaukee at County Stadium.

Jones (2-7), whose contract was purchased last week from Cleveland's Triple A affiliate in Colorado Springs, gave up two runs and eight hits over 8 2-3 innings. It was his first start in 272 major-league appearances since 1982.

Bill Wegman (11-7) took the loss.

Orioles 6, Yankees 3

Mike Devereaux and Cal Ripken hit consecutive home runs in the third inning off loser Eric Plunk (2-4) as Baltimore beat New York, sending the visiting Yankees to their fifth straight loss.

Bill Ripken drove in two runs for the Orioles, who won a second straight game for the first time since Aug. 23. Todd Frohwrth (6-3) got the victory with 4 2-3 innings of two-hit relief.

than $2 million.

Dozoretz said Nelson had substantially reduced her economic expectations but the stumbling block was Nelson's refusal to acknowledge that the cohabitation agreement was invalid.

Nelson said both sides have compromised in trying to reach a settlement.

"Neither of us ever wanted this to happen. It has, and we're in it, and I think that we would both like to see the pain and the suffering stop so that we can both recover from it and get on with our lives," she said.

Nelson said the lawsuit is about more than the millions of dollars she could win in a judgment.

"It's about Martina honoring a contract, an agreement that she did honestly and that we both wanted," said Nelson, a former beauty queen. "I really don't want to look at the dollars and cents of it. I mean it goes beyond that."

Earlier Tuesday, the two women returned to a state district courtroom for the second day of a preliminary hearing. State District Judge Harry Hopkins was to rule whether Loftin should be disqualified from the case.

Navratilova's attorneys are trying to have Loftin removed, saying he has unfair knowledge of Navratilova's financial status due to previous work for her.

"I would like to have settled this before it ever began," said Nelson, 45, of Fort Worth.

* SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT *

NEW ELECTRONIC VOICE-MAIL SERVICE BEGINS FOR WIVES, FRIENDS & FAMILY OF INMATES AT BIG SPRINGS FEDERAL CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTE !!!

COMMUNICATE, INC. announces a new electronic message service called "O+ Dialing"™ for the friends and family of inmates at BIG SPRINGS FCI. Now, for the first time, inmates and their friends & family can receive messages using state-of-the-art voice-mail technology.

ADVANTAGES OF "O+ DIALING"™

1. Meets Bureau of Prison inmate communication rules by providing live operator intercept for all out-bound FCI calls.
2. 24-hour access with BILINGUAL operators.
3. All messages are security-coded to insure privacy.*
4. Small monthly fee.
5. Hear and leave messages in own voice.
6. Eliminates need for family and friends to remain phone-side to receive or deliver messages.
7. Inmates can receive and leave many messages in a short time.
8. Allows messages to be communicated to and from anywhere in the world.

*RESTRICTIONS: As with all out-bound FCI calls, all calls placed to "O+ Dialing"™ may be subject to monitoring by facility officials. "O+ Dialing"™ can only be initiated by noninmate sponsors (nonincarcerated individuals over 21 years old) and requires one-month prepayment and long-distance deposit.

World record hurdler has major surgery

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Roger Kingdom, the world record holder in the 110-meter hurdles, is trying to recover from a debilitating knee injury.

Kingdom, 29, had the torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee replaced with another tendon last week.

A torn anterior cruciate ligament is probably the most serious injury an athlete may face, said Freddie Fu, the University of Pittsburgh doctor who performed the operation.

The ligament runs alongside the knee and prevents buckling. Fu was optimistic Kingdom will compete next year.

"If it were you or me, it would be much harder," Fu said. "But you cannot underestimate the willpower of athletes."

Kingdom's knee is bandaged and braced. He may begin running in a pool in about two weeks.

"Roger feels comfortable with the program he is in," Fu said.

Kingdom is trying to become the first athlete to capture gold medals in the 110 hurdles in three consecutive Olympics. He won at Los Angeles in 1984 and Seoul in 1988.

He set the world record of 12.92 seconds in August 1989.

More athletes are recovering from anterior cruciate ligament operations, but the rehabilitation is slow and difficult.

Penn State running back Blair Thomas couldn't play in 1988, eight months after undergoing the surgery, and he didn't play again until 1989.

Thomas, now with the New York Jets, was nine years younger than Kingdom when he had surgery.

To run in the 1992 Olympics, Kingdom must qualify in the U.S. team trials in New Orleans on June 19-28.

Kingdom's torn ligament was discovered last April, when Fu performed arthroscopic surgery to remove bone chips.

General makes the cut

DETROIT (AP) — Norman Schwarzkopf made the cut. So did Ted Turner. But don't expect to see lip-synching pop stars Milli Vanilli or poison-pen biographer Kitty Kelly in the latest edition of International Who's Who.

"We do try to avoid people who have just done one thing," editor Richard Fitzwilliams said Tuesday. But if that one thing is to lead allied troops to victory in the Persian Gulf War, the catalog of global notables makes an exception.

Schwarzkopf and his British counterpart in the war against Iraq, Sir Peter de la Billiere, are among 1,200 new entries in the 1,800-page volume.

SCHWARZKOPF

CANDICE BERGEN

Beauty got in the way

NEW YORK (AP) — Candice Bergen says she always wanted to play comic roles but her good looks got in the way — until a few wrinkles and the role of acerbic Murphy Brown came along.

"My dream, always, since I was a kid, 14 or 15 years old, was to do really broad, flat-out comedy."

The role of the saucy TV newswoman on CBS' "Murphy Brown" has cracked Bergen's reserve so much that her husband, French director Louis Malle, doesn't like to drive with her.

"She's like a commando. She went from this quiet, polite woman to someone who can match barbs with anyone," English said.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1991

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE:

Your expectations may be unrealistic where youngsters are concerned. Give them time to mature! Family members draw closer together as Thanksgiving approaches. Cut yourself free from negative people as the year winds down. The business outlook will improve in January and February of 1992. Your eye for detail will bring you new professional success next spring.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): If the spirit of cooperation is missing, it may be wiser to proceed on your own. Relying on undependable people could cause a setback. Avoid issuing ultimatums. Stress spiritual will power over bullying.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The morning hours are best for negotiations. A secret conference could help you realize a fond dream. Your energy will soar this afternoon. The social scene is getting livelier. Dress your best.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Start the day with an entirely new attitude regarding your prospects. There is a lot you can accomplish this month. Set specific goals for yourself after consulting with experts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stay footloose and fancy-free in romance. A newcomer will question your approach to business. Find novel ways to get your original ideas across to higher-ups. Work more closely with your associates.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Only you can decide what is right for you now. Just remember, seeking revenge is a waste of energy. The time is right for making a permanent commitment. Forget past grievances.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take note of what has to be done, then do it. Conduct a thorough investigation. Talking to the right people will further your professional aims. Be on the lookout for new career opportunities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Take the good advice of a close relative and make improvements on the home front. An old friend comes to your rescue in time of need. Make a change in your dining habits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): If others try to force their opinions on you, politely decline to listen. Be willing to start at the bottom to get your foot in the door. Seek a car loan without delay.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep your own counsel if planning to change jobs. Update your resume and enroll in high-tech classes. Do not withhold your love if upset with that special person in your life. Talk things out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Wake up to your special talents and abilities. Help to reconcile two friends who are at odds. It is futile to spend your time on people who do not want to grow. Seek greener pastures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stay excited about the future; success rests in your hands. Acting suspicious of a loved one could damage your relationship. Master your own feelings instead of trying to control loved one's actions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Put your faith in your partner and see what happens. Adopting a new lifestyle may be a good idea. Listen closely to what your children are saying. Certain changes are way overdue.

ADVERTISER

◆ Sweet-Sour Shrimp ◆

Makes 6 to 8 buffet servings

- 1 can (21 ounces) cherry filling and topping
- 3 tablespoons vinegar
- 3 tablespoons firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 green pepper, seeded and cut into thin strips
- 1 can (8 ounces) sliced water chestnuts, well drained
- 1 pound peeled and cooked medium shrimp, well drained
- Hot, cooked rice*

In a 1½-quart glass mixing bowl, combine cherry filling, vinegar, brown sugar and ginger. Mix well. Stir in green pepper, water chestnuts and shrimp. Mix just to combine. Cover bowl with waxed paper. Microwave on HIGH (100% power) 4 to 5 minutes (stirring 2 or 3 times), or until hot. Pour over rice in serving dish.

*NOTE: If using microwave oven to prepare rice, cook rice in a glass-ceramic covered casserole. Pour hot Sweet-Sour Shrimp over cooked rice in casserole to serve.

◆ Cherry Cheesecake ◆

Makes 8 to 10 servings

- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- 2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese
- 1 package (6 ounces) white baking chocolate
- ¾ cup granulated sugar
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup individually quick frozen tart cherries, coarsely chopped*
- 2 tablespoons semisweet chocolate morsels

In a 10-inch glass-ceramic quiche dish, microwave butter on HIGH (100% power) 30 seconds, or until melted. Stir in graham cracker crumbs. Mix well. Press mixture firmly into bottom of dish. Microwave on HIGH 1½ to 2 minutes (rotating dish once), or until set. Set aside.

Put cream cheese in a 2½-quart glass mixing bowl. Microwave on MEDIUM (50% power) 2 minutes, or until softened. Set aside.

Put white baking chocolate in a small microwavable container. Microwave on MEDIUM 2 to 3 minutes (stirring 2 to 3 times), or until bar melts and can be stirred smooth. Blend melted baking chocolate into softened cream cheese. Add sugar, flour, eggs and vanilla; mix well. Microwave on HIGH 2 minutes (beating with a wire whisk every minute), or until mixture starts to set. Stir in cherries.

Pour filling into prepared crust. Microwave on MEDIUM 7 to 8 minutes (rotating dish twice), or until cheesecake is set in center. (Filling becomes firmer as it cools.) Refrigerate at least 8 hours, or overnight.

Before serving, microwave chocolate morsels on HIGH 1 minute, or until melted. Drizzle over cheesecake.

*NOTE: 1 cup well-drained, canned tart cherries, chopped, may be substituted for 1 cup frozen tart cherries.

◆ Cherry-Mushroom Appetizers ◆

Makes about 30

- 30 large mushrooms (about 1 pound)
- ½ pound bulk pork sausage
- 1 cup dried cherries, chopped*
- 2 green onions, sliced
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened

Pull stems from mushrooms and discard (or save for another use). Rinse mushroom caps; drain well. Set aside.

Break sausage into small pieces and put in a microwavable bowl. Microwave, uncovered, on HIGH (100% power) 1 minute. Stir with a wooden spoon to break sausage into small pieces. Microwave on HIGH 1 to 2 minutes longer, or until sausage is cooked. Drain.

Add chopped dried cherries and sliced onions to sausage; mix well. Add cream cheese and stir until all ingredients are well blended. Fill each mushroom cap with a heaping spoonful of sausage mixture.

Place filled mushrooms on a microwavable platter or plate. Microwave about 12 mushrooms at a time on HIGH 3 to 4 minutes (rotating once), or until mushrooms and filling are hot. Serve immediately.

*NOTE: Dried cherries are available at gourmet and specialty food stores.

If desired, substitute ¾ cup frozen or canned tart cherries for 1 cup dried cherries. Finely chop cherries (thaw frozen ones after chopping) and drain well on paper towels before adding to sausage.

Microwave cooking times may vary, depending on wattage of oven. Recipes were tested in 600 to 700 watt microwave ovens.

Creative, easily prepared foods using versatile cook-and-serveware help make parties more manageable.

◆ CREATE MEMORABLE MOMENTS ◆

Birthdays, anniversary receptions, graduation open houses, and, of course, birthday parties produce lasting memories. Planning and creating these cherished events can be a pleasant, not-so-frantic experience for any host or hostess. Just follow these basic guidelines:

- Keep food preparation simple. Take advantage of the increasing variety of kitchen appliances, including the microwave oven, that simplify food preparation.
- Use affordable, yet elegant, table decor for food presentations. Manufacturers are offering an ever-increasing selection of versatile, cook-and-serveware that meets this need.
- Choose recipes that combine appealing ingredients in a creative way.

The microwave oven has indeed progressed into the category of appliances essential to the fully equipped kitchen. Whirlpool Corporation reports that nine in ten U.S. households have microwave ovens. In many of these homes, the microwave oven is considered the primary cooking appliance. Cooks have discovered that beyond the microwave ABC's of "heat and serve" are many exciting culinary specialties from the first course to the grand finale.

In partnership, the microwave oven and the latest versatile cookware offer welcome advantages to party planners — a cool kitchen, cooking speed, easy clean-up and delicious results! Multi-purpose cook-and-serve products, such as the new Classic Black Corning Ware cookware, are elegant enough for entertaining, yet offer the durability needed for everyday use. The Corning products also go conveniently from freezer to oven to table. Their versatility underscores their affordability.

When considering recipes for entertaining, success is assured by choosing foods with wide appeal featured or combined in creative ways. Cherries, for example, are an all-American favorite. Cherry pies and cherry crisps are popular recipes, but cherries also can be used to create unusual and tasty party fare.

Sweet-Sour Shrimp is easy when canned cherry filling and topping is used as the sauce base. Just combine the ingredients and heat in a microwave oven. In just minutes, you have an entree that's ideal for a buffet with several other main-dish selections. This colorful recipe also could be enlarged to serve eight or more at a festive sit-down dinner.

Cherries also are used to accent Cherry Cheesecake, made with a blend of cream cheese and white baking chocolate. Again, the microwave oven speeds preparation and saves time for a busy host or hostess. Ruby-red dried tart cherries are featured in Cherry-Mushroom Appetizers, easily prepared and refrigerated in advance, then heated in the microwave oven just before serving. Dried cherries, taste treats yet to be discovered by many, are available at gourmet and specialty stores.

DID YOU KNOW...

- Most of the nation's tart cherry orchards are along Michigan's western shore with its sandy soil, rolling hills and moderate weather.
- After planting, it is six years before the first commercial harvest of a cherry tree. A tree produces quality cherries for 20 years.
- Evidence shows that long before French explorers introduced cultivated cherries to the Great Lakes region, wild cherries were part of prehistoric man's diet in America.
- Microwave/convection ovens are designed to cook by microwave, convection or a combination of both to give the speed and efficiency of microwaves and the quick browning and crisping achieved by convection.
- Popcorn is one of the most popular snacks cooked in a microwave. Many models feature a "popcorn cycle," a preset time for commercially prepared microwave popcorn.
- Surveys show most consumers still believe that foil cannot ever be used in a microwave. It is successfully used, however, to shield the wing tips of poultry. Follow the directions in your microwave cookbook.
- Virtually all Corning's glass and glass-ceramic (Corning Ware, Visions, Pyrex) products are ideal for microwave oven use... even Pyrex products that were introduced more than 75 years ago.

Reserve Power For Engine Starting Now Available In New Battery Designs

Words like "diodes" and "silicon resistors" may sound foreign to you, even if you know a little bit about automotive electronics. But you're probably all too familiar with what can happen when your car battery fails.

Suddenly you become stranded, struggling with jumper cables, or calling someone to rescue you. The Triple A Auto Club reports that nearly half of their emergency calls involve battery trouble.

The threat of being stranded by a dead battery is now a thing of the past thanks to a new technology that pairs a standard automotive battery and an emergency back-up unit in a standard battery case. Several companies are now marketing this two-in-one automotive battery, among them Johnson Controls, Inc. Battery Division of Milwaukee, WI.

Johnson Controls manufactures the EverStart back-up power battery which is marketed under the Energizer and Eveready brand names. The company also manufactures the Sears DualStart and Interstate X2Booster.

"We believe our Energizer EverStart reserve capacity battery will be to the 90s what front-wheel-drive cars were to the 80s," says Tom Hansen, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for the Johnson Controls Battery Group. "Johnson Controls typically surveys the consumer market with phone surveys and focus group studies several times a year. We discover during one of these studies that the consumer really wanted a back-up power system in case their main battery failed."

Years of complex research and development by Johnson Controls translates into simple usage for the consumer. When the driver turns his key in the ignition and hears the sickening clicking sound signaling that the battery is dead, he is just minutes from re-starting his car. According to the directions included with every battery, all the driver needs to do is lift the hood, turn the Selector clockwise from "MAIN" to "BACK-UP" and with the hood still up, start the car normally.

After the car has been allowed to run for a few minutes, the driver turns the Selector back to "MAIN," closes the hood and drives off. In cold weather drivers can also access the back-up battery even when the main battery is fully charged to give them extra starting power.

Two-in-one batteries are sold in automotive and discount store chains nationwide. Tim Sauer is the Sales Manager of the automotive division of the Farm and Fleet stores. Sauer says his stores sell thousands of automotive batteries each year, and he has recently added the Energizer EverStart reserve power battery to his line. Sauer says the new batteries appeal to a wide range of drivers. "I've sold batteries to all kinds of people who say they absolutely have to have back-up starting power," doctors... traveling salesmen... active families."

Back-up power batteries are readily available and easy to operate, but the technology behind them is far more complex. For instance, the Johnson Controls batteries have a total of 800 cold cranking amperes or CCAs. The main battery houses 525 CCAs and the back-up has 275 CCAs. Both are housed in a standard size car battery. In less scientific terms CCAs are the amount of current delivered to the car's starter and ignition system by the battery. Basically, a battery's cold cranking amps should be double the engine's cubic inch displacement, so 525 CCAs will handle most engines.

In addition, the Energizer and Eveready EverStart batteries offer the option of side or top terminals and feature an adjustable height adaptor base. A Johnson Controls spokesman says that means their reserve power batteries will fit in over 85 million cars on the road today.

The Energizer EverStart line is also extremely reliable. The Johnson Controls people have tested their sophisticated Selector electronics under a wide range of temperatures from a scorching 280 degrees F to 20 degrees below zero. During testing the batteries operated successfully through 17,000 starts. The EverStart battery utilizes a patented design which makes it impossible for the reserve battery to lose its power. A positive temperature coefficient (PTC) silicon resistor limits the amount of current that can flow through the protective diode in the circuit.

In layman's terms that means the current can flow only one way when the Selector is turned to the standard "MAIN" position, meaning the back-up battery is never tapped. The same technology allows the current from the alternator to charge the back-up battery while limiting the voltage and current, so it can never overcharge. This PTC and diode combination also protects against overheating and power surges.

"Technologically, it's a very necessary product," says Farm and Fleet's Sauer. "Today's autos have many variables, like on-board computers. Auto people have brought cars so far forward, more sophisticated batteries—with higher-cold cranking amps are needed to power them."

As you may have guessed, all this new technology and convenience doesn't come without a higher price tag. For instance, the Energizer EverStart batteries cost about double what a regular auto battery would. This doesn't seem to bother consumers however. "People say, 'I don't start my car'—it's difficult to place a price on dependability," says Sauer.

Of course prices will vary depending on the store and battery model. Warranties on the batteries vary too. Farm and Fleet offers a 65 month warranty on the Energizer EverStart. Back-up batteries are sold at Wal-Mart, Jamesway, the Wholesale Clubs and Warehouse Clubs.

For more information about the types of batteries on the market, their proper handling and disposal, write to: Johnson Controls, Inc., Energizer Batteries, P.O. Box 591, Milwaukee, WI 53201-0591.

High-Tech Cars In The 90s Require Computerized Service Availability

Compared to today's technologically advanced automobiles, yesterday's vehicles seem almost primitive. Remember when gasoline was gravity-fed from the gas tank down to the engine—and it was up to the driver to manually mix the air and fuel by pulling the choke just right?

Those days are gone forever. Automobiles of the '90s come equipped with sensitive on-board computers that monitor and control everything from the metering of the fuel supply to the comfort of the interior climate.

This advanced technology brings with it many benefits, including higher performance and easier operation. Our cars can even talk to us, reminding us to turn off the lights or fasten the seat belt. And the smarter our cars get, the smarter we have to be about vehicle diagnostics. In fact, it often takes a computer to figure out what's wrong with another computer.

For that reason, Chrysler Motors dealerships from coast-to-coast will be upgrading their diagnostics capabilities by installing the computerized Mopar Diagnostic System (MDS).

MDS provides Service Technicians with a tool which will separate electrical problems from mechanical ones and then lead the technician through easy to follow diagnostic procedures. MDS will also provide the technician with all appropriate technical information relating to the specific repair including Technical Service Bulletins, Hot Line News letters and an integrated parts catalog.

MDS provides the means for Chrysler technicians to significantly impact the "Fix it Right" the first time goal.

MDS also features a portable data recorder for use when identifying hard-to-find intermittent problems. It allows technicians to record all significant data during a road test so that information can then be fed back through MDS for appropriate diagnostic procedures.

In addition, to relying more heavily on computerized diagnostics to evaluate the condition of today's new cars, we must also seek out those technicians who represent the cream of the crop: skilled automotive technicians who are thoroughly trained in their trade, and kept current through periodic training updates. Chrysler's MDS includes a continually updated Technical Information Library that allows technicians to review the most current service information on-screen at any time. It provides years of technical service bulletins, all hotline newsletters, diagnostic procedure manuals, and five years of recall notices and procedures.

Now, more than ever before, it is especially important to have your car serviced by technicians who are familiar with all aspects of that make and model. That may mean taking your vehicle to the dealership whenever service is needed—especially if it's one that's equipped with special diagnostic tools designed especially for your car.

U.S. Parts/Service Industry Wields Major Economic Force

The automotive industry for most Americans means making, selling and fixing cars, but it's a major economic force which touches every city and small town says the Automotive Information Council (AIC).

Motor vehicle and allied industries account for nearly 15 percent of the jobs in the United States—about 13 million Americans. Auto sales and service make up 25.2 percent of that total.

Detroit, while it continues to be a center for the automotive industry, is now not the only one. The South, especially the states of Tennessee and Kentucky, are booming with auto manufacturing. California and northern New Jersey boast headquarters of major foreign car manufacturers. And, the midwest continues to strengthen its manufacturing base as a main location of many aftermarket product manufacturers.

The terms and names used in the automotive industry can be confusing. The following are simplified definitions of the major segments of the industry from AIC: OEM: Original Equipment Manufacturers are the companies who manufacture new cars and trucks, such as Chrysler, Ford, Toyota, BMW, and Kenworth. Roughly 60 new car and truck manufacturers operate 335 facilities in 36 states and employ about 700,000 people.

Aftermarket: The total of individuals and companies who provide goods and services for car maintenance and upkeep. The aftermarket includes several segments: parts manufacturers, warehouse distributor, retailers, and service facilities.

Parts Manufacturer: Makers of virtually all automotive products, service and repair equipment, chemicals, tools, paint, body supplies, accessories, vehicle care products, appearance products, in addition to parts.

Warehouse Distributors: Companies who purchase products from the manufacturers in quantity and sell them to the retailers.

Retailers: Auto parts stores who sell products to professional service technicians at service stations, independent garages, repair shops, car dealers and directly to the public. Examples include: Trak Auto, Chief Auto Parts Stores, NAPA Auto Parts Stores and many independently owned and operated auto parts businesses.

Repair & Maintenance Outlets: Facilities where vehicle repair work is done. These 400,000+ outlets include service stations, independent garages, new car/truck service departments and self-service fleet shops.

Technicians: Automotive service professionals who are employed at gas stations, independent garages, chain service centers, specialty repair facilities, car and truck dealers and body shops.

FIRE DESTROYS VEHICLE—A pitiful roadside site is a motor vehicle that has been gutted by fire, or one currently belching smoke and flames. According to the Car Care Council, vehicle fires often are the result of mechanical neglect. Periodic inspection of the engine and other components can help prevent such fires.

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of nine women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer.

Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate.

A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.

Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.

- 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
- 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
- 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
- Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.

V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination.

The charge for the screening mammogram is $65.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express.

Get a home-energy audit to stay cozy

A hard-working furnace wastes valuable energy and burns up your money quickly. Though it isn't possible to eliminate all wasteful use of fuel and get every penny's worth of performance, significant fuel and money savings can be achieved when homes are properly insulated.

Virtually every house needs to be weatherized. Many projects are easy to complete and high-performance products should be used. A few of the projects are obvious: seal leaky windows and doors, insulate walls and ceilings, and wrap hot-water heaters in blanket insulation.

The first step is to find the areas of air leakage. These gaps in your home let in cold air and permit warm air to escape during winter. This makes your furnace work harder. If you have an electric-fired oil burner, you will use more electricity and more oil.

These same gaps let in hot air during the summer, forcing your air conditioner to work harder. This not only increases your electric bill, but it also places an added power drain on the local utility.

Many utility companies will check the efficiency of your home for free, according to 3M's Gary Smith, who works closely with utilities to provide consumers with energy-saving information.

He said some might charge a small fee for the service.

"A utility's study takes into consideration the style of home, its age and number of occupants," he said. "It will look at the heating system to evaluate annual fuel use and cost and it will review the air-conditioning system performance and cost. Utilities often recommend conservation measures, estimate the cost of installation, and estimate annual savings."

The specific conservation actions most often recommended include caulking and weather stripping around doors and windows; insulation for ceilings, walls, floors, ducts and exposed pipes; installation of storm windows (or quality window insulator kits) and storm doors; and using a set-back clock thermostat.

Utilities also provide information about the payback period (the amount of time required to recover the cost of the conservation measure) for each weatherization upgrade.

"You will save money on utility bills," said Mr. Smith. "While it may take several years to recover the cost of some upgrades, homeowners often forget that many of the improvements can add immediately to the market value of the home." †

CONTEST RULES

RULES: Pick the team you think will win from each advertiser' block. The score is only necessary in the last "Tie Breaker" box. Write your picks in the center box. Each contestant must pick from each block. Do not miss any games.

Winners will be announced in the next Tuesday Herald. Winners may pick up prize money at the Herald office, 710 Scurry, Big Spring, Tx. Prizes will be awarded in "Herald Football Bucks" which can only be spent with the merchants on this page. Herald employees cannot participate. Must be 18 or older to play. Only 2 entries per person, per week. Must be entered on original contest entry form.

In the event of a tie, a drawing will be held to determine the winner. When using the tie-breaker; the closest guess to the winner's score will be judged the winning entry.

All entries must be received by 3 p.m. Friday evening to the Herald office, no exceptions.

A sleep tip sheet for the rest of your life Bath remodeling: better safe than scalded

There's no substitute for a good night's rest to wake refreshed and revitalized. While much remains unknown about the process, experts have found that you can improve the quality of sleep and counteract occasional sleeplessness by creating a more sleep-friendly environment.

To improve your sleep chamber, evaluate your bedroom using the "Sleep Tip Sheet" compiled by the Sleep Products Division of Du Pont. Begin with an assessment of the sleeping environment and sleep "equipment." The checklist of influential factors includes noise, temperature, light, fresh air, visual surroundings and bedding.

Noise: Listen for noise inside and outside the bedroom. Sporadic environmental noises such as planes flying overhead can interfere with sleep by moving the sleeper from a deep stage of sleep to a lighter one.

To reduce noise, carpet the floors and hang draperies to absorb sound. In extreme situations, earplugs or a "white sound" machine that emits a special frequency can curtail disruptive noise.

Temperature: Although there's no single temperature conducive to sleep, approximately 65 degrees seems to be ideal for most people to have a deep, undisturbed sleep. When it's too cold, there's a tendency to sleep too long, with many awakenings. Sleep is likely to end prematurely when the temperature is too warm.

Light: Light of any form makes it difficult to fall asleep because it's stimulating to the eye. Cover bedroom windows with curtains or drapes to help prevent untimely awakenings due to unwanted light.

Fresh air: Some people can sleep even in the coldest weather as long as there is fresh air circulating in the room. Other people don't notice, or prefer a closed room. It's strictly a matter of preference.

Visual surroundings: Take a look at the overall composition of the room and its decor. All of the room's elements should work together with no single component being an extreme focal point. To create a soothing bedroom decor, select muted colors and compatible accessories so that your surroundings serve to relax rather than arouse. Conceal articles that relate to activity, such as sewing machines and computers, since their presence can be stimulating.

Sleep equipment: Perhaps the most important part of a good night's rest is the sleep equipment. An evaluation of that equipment should include mattresses, mattress pads, pillows, bedding and linen. Begin by taking stock of the mattress and its size. Sleeping is a very active state so the mattress must allow enough space for the sleeper to move freely plus "stretching out room." A couple should have at least a queen size bed.

Evaluate the condition of the mattress. Check for signs of wear, including stains and frayed edges. Would you be embarrassed if your friends and neighbors saw your naked mattress?

If your mattress is more than eight years old, it needs replacing. If you toss and turn at night only to wake up with a back ache, the problem could lie in a lumpy, unsupportive mattress.

If your mattress needs replacing, there are a variety of constructions including innerspring, foam and flotation with varying degrees of firmness, but the most important criterion is that it provide uniform body support, which leads to better circulation.

One way to obtain excellent weight and pressure distribution is with pillow-top mattresses, like those containing Du Pont "Quallofil" fibers or other Du Pont approved cushioning fibers. Synthetic hollow fibers like those from Du Pont have the ability to cool in summer and warm in winter, and they're naturally odorless and non-allergenic.

Mattress pads can provide an extra layer of cushioning to the sleeping surface and also extend the life of the mattress by protecting it from dirt and abrasion. The Du Pont certified "Comforel" Bed Topper/Mattress pad provides a layer of down-like softness and exceptional support.

Move to the pillow, probably the most personal piece of sleeping equipment.

Evaluate the pillow as you would the mattress, through touch. External signs of a broken pillow include unraveled ticking, frayed edges and stains from hair residue and makeup.

Pillows should be replaced every two to three years. A stiff neck or back pain can be caused by improper head and neck support from your pillow.

Another pillow factor is allergies. If you're one of the millions of allergy sufferers, make sure your pillow is washable and dryable.

Squeeze the pillow and check for lumps and breakdown of the fill. Measure its current loft compared to the loft at the time of purchase.

If your pillow needs replacing, shop around as one size and type does not fit all. Down- and feather-filled pillows are soft and lofty, but difficult and expensive to launder. Allergy sufferers should steer clear of down and feather pillows as they provide the perfect home for allergy-causing dust mites. Pillows made from foam rubber, while less expensive than down, lack durability and deteriorate much faster.

A third choice is quality man-made fiber pillows. They are washable, non-allergenic, long-lasting and available in a variety of "feels," from soft to firm.

One of the best man-made fiber choices is the Du Pont certified "Comforel" pillow. It is made with thousands of soft, down-like clusters, but unlike down, is washable, dryable, nonallergenic and backed by a 10-year warranty from Du Pont.

Bedding and linen can also influence sleep. First, take a look at what comes between you and your mattress — the sheets. Given the wide range of choices from flannel to satin, the constant criteria are comfort and ease of care.

For comforters, the sleeper's environment is significantly affected by selection since it can enhance the quality of sleep by maintaining a comfortable temperature. Select the features you want in a comforter. These may include year-round use, extra warmth during winter months, wash-, dry- and fluffability.

Down comforters are warm and fluffy, but like down pillows, can't be washed or dried easily and are a warehouse for allergens.

Comforters filled with man-made fibers offer the best value. They are easy to care for and remain comfortable throughout the seasons. Du Pont has certification programs for comforters made with Du Pont filling materials, all of which are nonallergenic, machine washable and dryable. Some names to look for when shopping for comforters are "Comforel," soft and lofty like down, "Quallofil," Du Pont's top shelf comforter and "Thermoloft," specially designed to provide superior warmth.

Overall, comfort is the key. All of the elements described affect your good night's rest. Instead of enhancing sleep, your sleep environment and equipment can keep you tossing and turning all the night. To create a sleep haven, review the "Sleep Tip Sheet" to uncover what's coming between you and your 40 winks.

Du Pont Sleep Products will make it even easier to get a better night's rest with a rebate offered November 24 through December 8. Consumers receive up to $30 off selected Du Pont Sleep Products by redeeming proofs of purchase and product tags. F1912035

Most of us know what happens if a toilet is flushed while the shower is running. A sudden rush of hot water in the shower can cause scalding, while a burst of cold water can send you running or jumping — and in a shower that could lead to a dangerous fall. Sometimes the fluctuating water temperature is merely a nuisance, but there are times when the resulting thermal shock can cause serious accidents and injuries.

Preventing thermal shock is particularly important when the physically impaired, the elderly or small children are bathing or showering. According to the National SAFE KIDS Campaign, more than 5,000 children are scalded by hot tap water in the tub each year, and more than two-thirds of those victims are under age five.

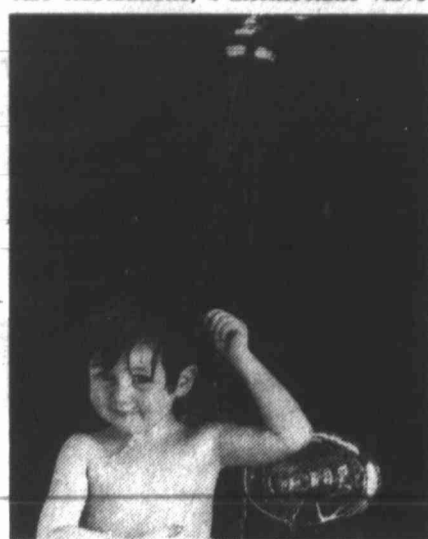

Because their skin is so delicate, children exposed to 140 degree water for only three seconds can receive third degree burns requiring hospitalization and skin grafts.

It is not surprising that design professionals and code boards have been moving toward the installation of "safety" valves as a standard precaution for combating this problem. There are two primary types of "safety" water mixing valves: pressure balance and thermostatic.

Pressure balance valves control water temperature and eliminate shocks by compensating for pressure fluctuations in the water line. They are designed to shut down if hot or cold water pressure is completely lost. Pressure balance valves work best if there are no fluctuations in the temperature of the water supply itself.

Thermostatic valves go a step further. Using a thermal element which adjusts water flow based on temperature fluctuations, a thermostatic valve

"SAFETY" WATER MIXING valves help protect your family from scalds and temperature shocks. The Grohmix thermo/pressure "safety valve" from Grohe America, Inc. lets you preset and maintain your shower water temperature just as you would the heat or air conditioning in your home.

will maintain water temperature regardless of whether a temperature change is caused by pressure fluctuations or by a change in the temperature of the water supply. Thermostatic valves will also shut down if there is a complete loss of either hot or cold water pressure.

A number of manufacturers offer "safety" faucets and shower valves that can control temperature shocks. One popular model is the Grohmix Thermostat Valve from Grohe America, Inc., of Wood Dale, Ill., which utilizes advanced thermostat technology for the maximum in family bathing safety.

The Grohmix valve makes it possible to pre-set bath or shower water by simply dialing the desired temperature, just as you would the air conditioning or heating in your home.

Accurate to within one degree Fahrenheit, temperature is selected by dialing the Grohmix handle within the 60 to 100 degree comfort zone. Hotter temperatures, up to 140 degrees, can be achieved only by pressing the red override button. Constant manual adjustments to correct water temperature fluctuations are completely eliminated. Grohe offers a complete line of quality, German engineered and manufactured thermostat and pressure balance mixing valves.

Safety valves and faucets offer a simple solution for preventing thermal shock. Incorporating this "ounce of prevention" is a worthwhile investment in both safety and comfort. KB911634

Ancient Bull Sculpture Being Recreated in Paris
(NU) - In one of the art world's most ambitious projects, a 20-ton reproduction of "The Khorsabad Bull," housed in the Oriental Institute of Chicago, will be constructed at the Louvre in Paris.

The bull, which stands 15 feet tall, was one of several guardians of the palace gates of Assyrian King Sargon II, who ruled in the 8th century B.C. The Louvre will reconstruct the monumental facade of Sargon's palace for its "Courtyard of Khorsabad" exhibit, scheduled to open in 1993.

The Khorsabad Bull, which has the body of a bull, the wings of an eagle and the head of a king, was found in on-site digs sponsored by the University of Chicago from 1928 to 1935. It is the only piece still needed to complete the Louvre exhibit. The majority of the pieces were previously found by the Louvre at the same site.

The project is being made possible through a $170,000 grant from Lafarge Coppée, the worldwide leader in building materials.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Smith's Automatic Transmission

A Guaranteed Winner

The need for transmission service is a fact of life. That's not the reason you should see Billy Smith at Smith's Automatic Transmission. More important is the fact that Billy and his crew guarantee the work they do. "We can do that because we know the job will be done right."

"Our estimates are free and without obligation," says Billy. "You won't find any surprises when you get your bill. Our estimates are guaranteed."

Smith's Automatic Transmission has been serving the people of Big Spring for 25 years. The reason is simple. Owner Billy Smith explains, "When we get a new customer, we want to keep them. We count on repeat business. That's why we stand by our estimates and guarantee the work. If the customer knows he has a solid estimate and that the work will hold up, he can figure that into his budget comfortably without worry."

Transmission service is a year around consideration, not just something you think about

Owner Billy Smith gives free estimates and guaranteed service on cars, pickups, 4 wheel drives and RV's.

when you're getting ready to take a trip. Billy advises that winter is also an important time to have your transmission serviced. Owners who regularly drive great distances, drive in the mountains or pull heavy loads, have added reasons for having their transmissions checked regularly. "This is the work we do best, day in and day out. That's why our transmission service is the best available."

We keep on top of the latest developments and equipment."

Today's environmental hearth products provide warmth, economy, convenience

There are many reasons to consider dedicating precious home improvement resources to the hearth.

The fireplace is a family focal point that can not only provide you with hours of enjoyment, but also add significant value to your home.

What's more, the recent crisis in the Persian Gulf demonstrated — again — how depending on a foreign energy source for heat can be an iffy prospect.

If you are thinking about adding a new hearth to your home, or improving an existing one, be sure to familiarize yourself with the range of new products now available before you make your decision. The choices today are greater than ever before.

And the good news is: In this era of ecological concern, all the new products are as easy on the environment as they are on your pocketbook.

Pellet stoves come into their own

One of the more interesting new hearth products on the market is the pellet stove. Similar in appearance to a woodstove, pellet stoves burn wood, paper, or agricultural by-products that have been compacted into one-inch pellets. The pellets are fed continuously into the stove from an attached hopper, which the user needs to load only about once every 24 hours.

The advantages to the consumer are immediately apparent. The pellet stove offers the feeling and warmth of a woodstove, without all the splitting, stacking, loading, and reloading chunk wood requires.

In addition to convenience, pellet stoves are extremely fuel-efficient. "Since the pellet fuel is so concentrated," says Bill Mathewson, vice president of Vermont Castings of Randolph, Vt., "none of the heat is wasted."

When shopping for a pellet stove, be sure to find out if pellet fuel is available in your area and what kind of pellets the appliance burns. Many stoves burn only sawdust pellets, which are readily available only in pockets west of the Rocky Mountains. Ask for a stove that is versatile in the type of pellets it will burn.

Finally, if you are looking for an aesthetically pleasing experience from your pellet stove, as well as a warming one, do some comparative shopping. A few of the latest pellet stoves use a variety of technologies to produce a flame that looks just like a wood fire.

Gas fireplaces lose the blues

Concern over environmental issues, a desire for convenience, and increasing consumer demand for natural gas have led to steady growth in popularity of the gas fireplace.

For some homeowners, its flick-of-the-switch convenience is offset, however, by the gas fireplace's unrealistic, blue flame and less-than-convincing ceramic logs.

As the availability of natural gas grows, and as its benefits have become more widely known, hearth manufacturers have concentrated their research and development efforts on developing sophisticated new gas products whose aesthetics match their ease of use.

The best new-generation gas fireplaces produce a yellow flame virtually indistinguishable from that of a wood fire. Ceramic logs, too, have been the subject of intense R&D, and now look as though they came straight from the woodshed.

Some manufacturers have gone further still. Vermont Castings has developed a gas fireplace called the GoldenWarm, which actually creates useable heat. The GoldenWarm produces 29,000 BTUs of heat per hour, enough to heat 1,200 square feet.

"With the best new gas fireplaces," says Vermont Casting's Mathewson, "consumers can use their gas hook-ups to fuel a convenient, attractive — and warming — fireplace."
