315 tourists passed through Big Spring

The Tourist Information Center reports 315 visitors to Big Spring during the month of September.

The center recorded 250 visitors from 32 states and 8 other countries.

Canadians comprised 11 of the total number, with six coming from England, 10 from France, 15 from Germany, five from Holland, one from Ireland, six from Spain and two from Switzerland.

About 35 percent of the total number were from Texas, and 35 percent, or 117, said they were spending the night, according to the report.

The total volunteer hours for the center were 224, with 133½ of those coming from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Fraser offers free amendment booklet

An analysis of the 13 proposed state constitutional amendments that will be on the Nov. 5 ballot are available through the office of Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring.

The 83-page analysis, prepared by the Texas Legislative Council, may be obtained by contacting Fraser's office at PO Box 2910, Austin, 78768-2910.

"Just give us your name and address, mention the constitutional amendments and we'll get a copy in the mail to your right away," Fraser said. "I'm offering this excellent booklet to my constituents free of charge so that they may become better informed."

Simms selected for Tech honor

Sen. Bill Sims, D-San Angelo, was selected to receive the Distinguished Agriculture Alumni Award from the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Sims will be honored Oct. 18 at a luncheon at the university.

Sims is the executive secretary of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association and executive secretary for the Texas Wool and Mohair Warehouse Association. He is also chairman of the Texas Senate Committee on Natural Resources.

CMRWD board to meet Thursday

Consideration will be given to advertising for bids on the Lake O.H. Ivie pipeline to Midland and Odessa at a meeting Thursday of the Colorado River Municipal Water District board of directors.

The price tag of the construction could be more than $100 million, according to a district spokesman.

The meeting begins at 10 a.m. and will be at the district

Closure of state hospital possible but not probable

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
 Staff Writer

Closing the Big Spring State Hospital would drastically hurt the Howard County economy through higher unemployment and less county revenue dollars, according to officials.

"This would have a devastating effect to this community," said Bob Von Rosenberg, superintendent for the hospital here.

"This is a real threat, it's not imaginary. I'm not trying to be an alarmist, and I'm not trying to stir up trouble."

Von Rosenberg said officials have told him the hospital here would not be closed. "I don't think they'll close this facility, that just doesn't make sense to me. But there's always a risk."

Governor Ann Richards recently appointed a five-member review task force to study and make recommendations about closing or consolidating mental health and mental retardation facilities, including the state hospitals, mental health centers and state schools.

The hospital and center recommendations must be submitted to Richards by Dec. 1, 1992 and she has 20 days to accept or reject the proposals. The deadline for the state school facility recommendations is March 31, 1992.

"The committee is not obligated to close anything. They have the authority to look at the centers and the hospitals and a lot of people are concerned," Von Rosenberg said.

Ted St. Clair, director of Moore Development Board, said, "This would have a very significant impact on our community. The single most obvious impact would be on the total number of employed people."

July 1991 employment figures for Howard County show 14,113 people working. The state hospital employs 7 percent of those, or nearly 1,000 people.

The hospital also provide roughly $24 million for the community each year through salaries and goods and supply purchases, said Von Rosenberg. It's the largest employer in Big Spring.

The committee has seven areas of assessment to determine the future of the mental health facilities in Texas. These include the quality of service, available alternatives, geographic location of facilities, possibility of an alternative use for the facility, cost issues, economic effects on the community and any other criteria the committee deems relevant.

The Big Spring hospital has always maintained its national accreditation status and was re-certified this year.

"The consensus among our peers is that we provide very good, quality

Moore Development for Big Spring, Inc.

No new jobs, but board optimistic

By KAREN MCCARTHY
 Managing Editor

In the one year since Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. was established, Big Spring has no new industry but there have been a few nibbles.

Executive Director Ted St. Clair is not discouraged by the seeming lack of progress.

"From a dead start of no organization, there is a corporation organized that is functioning to sell Big Spring, to help Big Spring to grow," he said.

"We've not had the success that we hoped to have the first year," said board member Steve Fraser. "I think our expectations were overly high when you consider that every town is after the same thing."

However, Fraser added, "The contacts we made and the lessons we learned are going to be instrumental to our success in the future. "Private industry is a real challenge, which we knew it would be all along. We've gotten real close a couple of times this year."

Fraser said Moore Development is currently working on plans for a state prison that would employ as many as 700 people. Deadline for the proposal is Jan. 15.

Big Spring voters approved, in May 1990, a one-half cent sales tax to fund an economic development corporation. After a series of town meetings to define the structure and mission of the organization, Moore Development for Big Spring

Inc. was established under the supervision of the Big Spring City Council.

A board of directors comprised of Fraser, Owen Ivie, Jeff Morris, Jim Purcell and Hooper Sanders was sworn in on Oct. 8, 1990, and officers were elected by the board. Ivie was named president, Morris, vice president, and Purcell became secretary/treasurer.

By-laws for the corporation were approved by the council in November and St. Clair was hired as director in January.

The mission of the corporation, as formally set out in April, is "to assist, stimulate and enhance economic development in Big Spring, Texas, subject to applicable State and Federal laws and the By-laws and the Articles of Incorporation to increase the job opportunities available to the citizens of Big Spring by assisting the expansion of local businesses and attracting new business activities to Big Spring."

While no new industry has been attracted to the area because of Moore activities, St. Clair said members of the organization have been working.

"We've had 10 corporations or associations, non-Big Spring or Howard County firms, visit Big Spring to consider the possibility of some kind of facility here." A couple of those are still possibilities, St. Clair said, although he declined

Caution urged with popular bug sprays

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
 Staff Writer

Consumers need to be careful about using several insect repellent products made by D-Con, S.C. Johnson & Son, Inc., and LJB Laboratories, government officials warned.

The products contain chemicals that have been found to pose birth defect risks. Two of the products, 6-12 Plus Insect Repellent Spray and 6-12 Plus Insect Repellent Stick, are currently registered for distribution in Texas, according to the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Two other products, 6-12 Plus Insect Repellent Liquid and Off! have been available in the past. Other products distributed in areas of the nation include, 6100 Formula 2 Fly and Mosquito Repellent Gel, Johnson Wax 6017 Formula 10 Insect Repellent, and BF-100 Blackfly Repellent Solution.

A check of some area stores shows that those products are not on shelves of Wal-Mart Discount Cities or Furr's Supermarkets. Officials with the main offices of 7-Eleven Food Stores are checking to see if they are currently stocked.

Based on information from the Environmental Protection Agency, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry advises all women of childbearing age to avoid using insect repellents containing the ingredient 2-ethyl-1,3-hexanediol. Ingredients of bug sprays and sticks are listed on labels.

"The ingredient may adversely affect developing fetuses. The most significant effect found in test animals was the failure of lungs to inflate at birth," says a press release from Perry's office.

"No adverse human reactions have been reported to the EPA from the products' use. However, consumers are asked to take precautionary measures as the products are removed from the market."

D-con has indicated it will recall those products, the release says. LJB Laboratories has not indicated it will remove existing stocks. Union Carbide Corp., the sole manufacturer of the chemical, and S.C. Johnson & Son no longer market products with the chemical, but hold the registration.

"EPA estimates the number of these products remaining in stores to be small, but believes that older products may still be in the hands of consumers. To safely dispose of the repellents, follow label instructions."

Bad week an understatement

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Rodelio Garza says it's an understatement to say he's had a bad week.

Garza, 42, had things go from bad to worse Sunday.

The unemployed man was at home recovering from being mugged when a two-alarm fire destroyed his rented apartment Sunday morning.

"I got mugged four days ago when I got my Social Security check. Now this," Garza said. "I don't know what to do."

A robber beat him severely last week when Garza was robbed of part of the $350 Social Security he receives.

"Bad luck is not the word for it," Garza said. "This is ridiculous. I almost got killed." Garza said he was sleeping when the fire broke out.

He managed to grab his shoes and a few other things before fleeing from the 12-room house that has been divided into four apartments.

"Everything I own is in there," Garza said, pointing to the burned out home. "I've lost everything. It's been a bad week. That's an understatement."

Carlsbad ready for nuke dump

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — It's been years coming but it appears a nuclear waste repository with strong backing in this southeastern New Mexico community will be opening soon, despite opposition from state political leaders.

The government plans to bury plutonium-contaminated waste 2,150 feet below the surface in salt beds 26 miles southeast of Carlsbad.

Excitement is building among residents as the Department of Energy prepares to move into a test phase 20 years in the making. Their enthusiasm hasn't been dampened by threats from state Attorney General Tom Udall and environmental groups to sue the agency if it attempts to ship waste into New Mexico.

Five killed in house fire

DALLAS (AP) — At least five people, including a pregnant woman, died today after flames swept through a one-story house, authorities said.

An unborn child did not survive after being delivered by Caesarean section at Parkland Memorial Hospital, said Dallas Fire Department Capt. Don Howard. He said doctors listed the child as about 24 weeks old.

Hispanic groups urged to list needs

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — National Hispanic groups are being drafted by Southwest Voter Research Institute officials planning to address concerns related to a free trade pact with Mexico.

The institute will outline those concerns in a document presented to the U.S. and Mexican governments. The proposition could be used as leverage to ensure that Hispanic concerns such as labor, education, capital availability for small businesses and the environment would be addressed before Hispanics would support approval of the agreement.

Negotiating teams from the United States, Mexico and Canada are holding around-the-clock talks to hammer out an accord easing or eliminating trade barriers in North America.

The three governments then will vote on the proposal.

The idea for the Hispanic summit surfaced at Saturday's day-long conference hosted by the institute to examine the trade pact's impact on Hispanics.

About 200 people, including government, civic and business leaders, attended the meeting at a San Antonio hotel.

Travis County Commissioner Marcos de Leon likened the free trade talks to a train traveling 750 miles an hour when Hispanics are sitting in a depot.

"We're fools if we think we can put out our hand and catch up to it," he said.

Former Mayor Henry Cisneros cautioned that he didn't think congressional approval of the agreement would be automatic. And Hispanics need to have an agenda ready before approaching negotiators, he said.

Charles Kamasaki, vice president of the National Council of La Raza, urged Hispanics to de-emphasize positions that divide the community in favor of common interests such as the need for more education and retraining programs for those workers whom increased trade displaces.

The conference identified six areas where free trade would impact Hispanics: U.S. industrial relocation and subsequent joblessness, increasing burdens on border region infrastructure, immigration, environmental issues, business opportunities for Hispanics and the impact on the Hispanic's social well-being and standard of living.

Clinton outlines need for reform

DALLAS (AP) — Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton's weekend trip to Texas was filled with handshakes, meetings and a jab at President Bush's decision to delay $10 billion in housing aid to Israel.

"I think it's unfortunate he raised the issue the way he did," Clinton said of the aid, which would help support Ethiopian Jews that have recently immigrated to Israel.

"He made it look like he was being asked to write a $10 billion check for aid," Clinton said. "When in fact, don't forget this president has already declared an emergency in the budget this year for $13 billion in foreign aid for Egypt and Israel ... and another $42 billion for the Gulf War."

But Clinton, who was in Dallas Sunday, also praised Bush for the recent move to reduce nuclear arms arsenals.

Clinton, visiting Texas for the first time since announcing last Thursday he would seek the Democratic nomination for President, reeled of a laundry list of services needing reform measures. Those services ranged from health care to education programs.

Americans need to be treated more like customers instead of constituents to bring about a total reform of government services, Clinton said.

"All you hear out of Washington is pay raises and perks," Clinton said. "Americans already know

Adoption business booming in Texas

HOUSTON (AP) — The number of Texas adoption agencies is growing as agencies take advantage of Texas' permissive laws to offer quick, loosely monitored adoptions, a published report said.

In a copyright story, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday that problems cited in the industry include skyrocketing fees charged to adoptive couples and large payments to birth mothers, which have tempted some couples to have children for financial support.

The number of Texas children adopted by out-of-state parents has tripled in the last five years, the newspaper said; in 1989, 28 percent of the 2,196 children placed by Texas agencies went out of state.

Texas has more licensed child-placing agencies than New York and California, and the number of Texas adoption agencies has risen dramatically in recent years. By December 1990, there were 138 private child-placing agencies, up from 107 in 1987 and 86 in 1985.

Additionally, TDHS is a public child-placing agency that handles adoptions of children who have been abused or neglected.

Some 5,060 of the 7,277 adoptions in Texas in 1990 were independent adoptions, many of them children adopted by stepparents or extended family members. Other independent adoptions are arranged between birth parents and adoptive parents who find each other and hire lawyers to make it legal.

The remaining 2,217 adoptions were handled by a variety of licensed agencies across the state, from the Gladney Center in Fort Worth — the country's largest — to proprietary agencies run by urban lawyers to small mom-and-pop agencies in rural areas.

"Texas is a good place to try to adopt because, unfortunately, there's a high unplanned pregnancy rate and more young women who are pro-life and reluctant to terminate their pregnancy," said Michael McMahon, president of the Gladney Center.

But he noted, "We have 10 legitimate calls from couples wanting to adopt for every child available for adoption."

The scarcity of healthy white infants — the children most frequently sought for adoption — is underscored by national statistics. According to the Washington-based National Committee for Adoption, only 25,000 infants are available annually for adoption and more than 1 million infertile couples wait for babies.

Mary Beth Seader, vice president of the organization, said: "Large numbers of adoptions take place in Texas. In some ways, licensing standards may be more lax than in other states. It's easier for agencies to become licensed in Texas and there are a large number of them."

Ms. Seader said couples in other states who want to adopt are often counseled by lawyers to turn to Texas.

"Texas is one of those states where a lot of children are leaving and going elsewhere. There are a number of agencies in Texas set up by out-of-state attorneys and controlled by them," she said.

Branding irons displayed at cattle raiser museum

FORT WORTH (AP) — In the shape of hats, cloverleaves, rocking chairs and frying pans, a museum sponsored by the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association is featuring a different brand of art.

More than 100 of the foundation's 1,035 branding irons have been on public exhibit since this summer. It's the largest collection of branding irons in the United States, gathered from the early Spanish and Mexican ranchers to the likes of President Lyndon B. Johnson and actor John Wayne.

"What you're looking at are images, but they're also so much more," said Bill Benson, the foundation's director in Fort Worth. "Some people probably put more effort into this (designing a brand) than naming their children. It's as much a part of their heritage as their last names."

The foundation opened its 1,300-square-foot addition to the Cattleman's Museum in July to spotlight the collection and the field inspectors who investigate livestock thefts for the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association.

The association oversees law enforcement and brand inspection for about 20,000 member ranchers in Texas and Oklahoma. The collection was donated by Leonard Stiles, 71, who worked as an association field inspector for 11 years and later, as division manager at the King Ranch.

The oldest iron is the J Cross W brand used by the James Taylor White Ranch. Dating back to 1819, it's believed to be the oldest brand in Texas used continuously by one family.

Benson said the most ornate are the Mexican and Spanish brands with lots of curlicues and squiggles. Among them is Stephen F. Austin's Spanish-style iron, one of only three known to exist.

"They were very artistic," Benson said. "It would take a lot of time to reproduce them." An intricate story is etched into some irons. For example, cereal magnate C.W. Post's branding iron sports a "U" design. Post, who in 1907 founded the town of the same name southeast of Lubbock, was planning to establish a Utopian community.

McDonald's has its Golden Arches branding iron to mark the cattle it buys from the King Ranch.

Benson says one visitor saw the iron and was appalled. "She thought they were branding the prisoners," Benson said, laughing.

Irons the foundation added were from celebrity-ranchers such as Texas Rangers' pitching ace Nolan Ryan, former Dallas Cowboys linebacker Lee Roy Jordan, all-pro Dallas Cowboys linebacker Chuck Howley and actor Tommy Lee Jones.

The King Ranch's famous Running W branding iron is included, along with a replica of John Wayne's 26 Bar branding iron from California is included.

"He raised Herefords," Benson said. "A lot of Texans bought bulls from his operation for years."

Report: minorities punished

DALLAS (AP) — Federal figures show black and Hispanic students in Dallas suburban school districts are more likely to be paddled than their white counterparts.

In fact, school records indicate a black student is nine times more likely to be paddled than a white student in at least one suburban Dallas district.

The study of 1989-90 school records by The Dallas Morning News not only showed that blacks were more likely to be paddled, but also that black students are far more likely than white students to be suspended.

On the national level, 1988 records from the Office for Civil Rights in the U.S. Department of Education show a black student is almost two times more likely to be paddled than a white student.

Hispanic students, too, are disciplined more frequently than whites.

The Dallas Independent School District breaks from the national trend, disciplining black and white students almost equally, the newspaper reported.

But outside the city, uneven statistics are beginning to stir intense debate.

As minority populations have grown in suburban schools, these issues have strained relationships between some parents and educators in several Dallas-area districts.

Thomas accused of harassment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House offered a fresh defense today of Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas, seeking to rebut the allegations of a former female aide that he harassed her with talk of sex and porno movies.

Anita Hill, 35, now a law professor at the University of Oklahoma, scheduled a news conference at the university to elaborate on the charges, which gave rise to new questions about Thomas' fitness to serve on the high court.

Since the Senate vote has already been scheduled, the objection of a single senator could block a delay. "We expect the vote to go ahead tomorrow," said Marlin Fitzwater, President Bush's press secretary.

Thomas himself, the White House and Republican senators all contended that Hill's charges were reviewed privately and found to be without substance.

Supreme Court passes on dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a case scientists say could affect the treatment of AIDS and other diseases, today refused to resolve a dispute over the patenting of genetically engineered new life forms.

The justices, without comment, rejected an appeal by a biotechnology company that wants a competitor to reveal how it reproduced a human hormone used to make red blood cells.

The court in 1980, in its only ruling in the growing field of biotechnology, said new life forms could be patented. The decision was highly controversial, as some critics said it gives corporations a license to create a "Brave New World" of altered forms of life.

But since then the ruling has become broadly accepted as a foundation for a multi-billion-dollar industry fostering scientific progress.

Pro-life rallies draw thousands

(AP) Tens of thousands of anti-abortion demonstrators around the country held hands in "life chains" that stretched for miles in some cities.

In an announcement timed to coincide with the protests Sunday, Cardinal John O'Connor of New York said that the Roman Catholic archdiocese would offer medical care to any pregnant woman who seeks it.

she will be given free medical care and free legal services so ... she will not have to live with the guilt of having brought about the death of her own baby," O'Connor said Sunday.

He spoke at a Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral designated a right-to-life celebration.

More than 665,000 people formed "life chains" in 350 cities, according to The National Life Chain, a Yuba City, Calif., group.

Kluge tops magazine's rich list

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Gates, the thirtysomething whiz who formed the world's biggest maker of computer software, is closing the gap on the richest person in America, 77-year-old entertainment mogul John Werner Kluge.

Kluge and Gates ranked No. 1 and No. 2 on Forbes' list of the 400 wealthiest Americans, the magazine said Sunday. The list appears in the Oct. 21 issue.

Kluge, a German immigrant who founded Metromedia Co., is worth an estimated $5.9 billion, up $300 million from last year, the magazine said. He has ranked first for three years in a row.

formed Microsoft, has a net worth of about $4.8 billion, most of it from stock in the company, Forbes said. Last year, he ranked 16th with $2.5 billion.

The net worth of the top 400 hit $288 billion — the highest ever recorded by Forbes — despite a recession that the self-proclaimed "capitalist tool" says hurt billionaires as well as blue-collar workers.

The recession did make ex-moguls of some, mostly in real estate, where values have dropped and vacancies skyrocketed.

But a record 71 billionaires populate the list, up from 66 last year and 13 in the magazine's first ranking, in 1982.

Liz ties the knot for eighth time

LOS OLIVOS, Calif. (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and ordinary guy Larry Fortensky took the plunge — along with a skydiving intruder — under a swirl of airborne reporters and photographers trying to glimpse the screen star's eighth wedding.

Miss Taylor, 59, and Fortensky, a truck driver 20 years her junior, were at a gazebo altar Sunday at Michael Jackson's whimsical Neverland ranch when a parachutist wearing a helmet camera dropped in, landing within 100 feet of the couple.

Guards seized Scott Kyle Harris, a 34-year-old free-lance journalist from Sun Valley, and took him away in handcuffs.

The couple then exchanged vows and a flock of white doves flew skyward, capping a star-studded sunset ceremony performed by lifestyle guru Marianne Williamson. Jackson, a close friend, and Miss Taylor's eldest son, Michael Wilding, gave away the bride.

The parachutist was cited for trespassing and released.

The Oscar-winning star of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" and "Butterfield 8" met husband No. 7 in 1988 when both were at the Betty Ford Clinic to kick drugs. She announced their engagement in July with the promise: "This is it!"

Exclusive rights to cover the ceremony were sold to photographer Herb Ritts and gossip columnist Liz Smith, with the proceeds going toward AIDS research, a cause championed by Miss Taylor.

"SHE DID IT!" Smith exclaimed in her column in Newsday today. "In spite of 15 maddening helicopters overhead that totally drowned out the words of her marriage ceremony, and the parachutist who landed within 20 feet of the minister in the middle of the wedding, Elizabeth the Queen took as her consort last evening commoner and construction worker Larry Fortensky."

Miss Taylor wore a bright yellow floor-length Valentino dress and Fortensky donned a white dinner jacket, Smith reported. Jackson wore a dinner jacket with a large diamond pin at his throat instead of a black tie. He wore a diamond medal on his chest and bright silver boots.

The 160-strong guest list reportedly included Gerald and Betty Ford, Gregory Peck, director Franco Zeffirelli, Arsenio Hall, Pia Zadora, George Hamilton, Liza Minnelli, Merv Griffin, Quincy Jones and "Home Alone" star Macaulay Culkin.

Nancy Reagan attended, but her husband sent word he was detained by business, Smith said. Miss Taylor's mother, Sara, was taken in a wheelchair to the front row. During the ceremony, Williamson said to Fortensky, "Elizabeth is literally God's gift to you for your healing and her healing."

Williamson ended the ceremony by saying, "Through the power vested in me by the state of California and by the fact that I do believe in your love for one another, I pronounce you, Larry and Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Fortensky!"

The ranch 100 miles northwest of Los Angeles offered security and a semblance of seclusion, despite the dozens of reporters and photographers who tried to infiltrate by ground and air.

Arrivals in limousines were identified at the walled gate to the 2,700-acre ranch, then escorted through an airport-style metal detector. The property includes an amusement park and a zoo stocked with exotic pets such as llamas.

Fifteen minutes before the ceremony, a fleet of media helicopters lifted off from a nearby airport and descended upon Neverland.

To deter them, Jackson set up a score of tethered weather balloons — some with happy faces — that floated up to 700 feet in the sky. But daring helicopter pilots navigated between the balloons, at times passing within hundreds of feet of each other.

One person braved the air traffic in an ultra-light plane, snapping pictures.

U.S. hostage Terry Anderson said in an interview obtained by CNN that his captors told him they would soon have "very good news" for the hostages. Peggy Say, Anderson's sister, is shown watching the interview.

Hostage: Captors hint at good news

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — In an unusual videotaped interview, American Terry Anderson sounded optimistic about U.N.-led efforts to end the hostage stalemate and said his captors have promised "very good news" soon.

The journalist, held by the Iranian Islamic Jihad for 6½ years, urged all sides to step up cooperation to bring an end to the ordeal through a hostage-for-prisoner swap.

The 12-minute video, during which Anderson answers an unseen questioner whose voice has been edited out, apparently seeks to apply greater pressure on Israel to release Arab prisoners.

It was not known whether the videotape was made under duress, but the 43-year-old Anderson appeared calm and in better health than in previous photographs and tapes.

The tape was delivered to CNN's Damascus bureau Sunday night with a statement from Anderson's Shiite Muslim captors that called the interview the latest step in a process begun with the August release of Briton John McCarthy.

Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, spoke in a strong voice and laughed occasionally. His hands remained palms-down on a table.

He mentioned a variety of topics, including his joy after hearing a radio broadcast of the daughter he has never seen. The longest-held Western hostage, Anderson was kidnapped in Beirut on March 16, 1985.

His daughter, Sulome, was sleeping when her father was first shown today on television screens in Nicosia. Her mother, Madeleine, told Sulome about Anderson's videotape while driving her to school.

The 6-year-old child, born three months after Anderson's abduction, later saw how her father looked on television, then exclaimed, "Oh mummy, I really want daddy home. Now!" her mother said.

Anderson said his living conditions have improved the past two years and that fellow hostages American Thomas Sutherland, 60, and Briton Terry Waite, 52 are in good health and spirits.

Sutherland, of Fort Collins, Colo., the acting dean of agriculture at American University of Beirut, was seized June 9, 1985.

Waite, an Anglican Church envoy, disappeared Jan. 20, 1987, after leaving his west Beirut hotel to negotiate with Islamic Jihad for the release of Anderson and Sutherland.

Yugoslav army threatens attack

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — The Serb-dominated Yugoslav army threatened today to attack Croatia's capital after secessionist Croat militants pounded federal garrisons on the outskirts of the city.

Croatian President Franjo Tudjman, who ordered a general mobilization during the weekend, asked other countries for help.

tional community to demonstrate its military might," Tudjman said. He told reporters that on Friday, he asked the United States to send its Sixth Fleet into the Adriatic, where the Yugoslav navy is blockading Croatia's main ports. He said he had received no response.

Zadar, a key port in the breakaway republic, appeared encircled by the army early today, Croatian radio said.

Germans win Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — The Nobel Prize in medicine was awarded today to two Germans whose pioneering research in basic cell functioning helped biologists better understand such diseases as diabetes and cystic fibrosis.

Erwin Neher and Bert Sakmann have "revolutionized modern biology, facilitated research, and contributed to the understanding of the cellular mechanisms underlying several diseases," said the Nobel Assembly of the Karolinska Institute, which awarded the prize.

Neher, 47, and Sakmann, 49, who will share the $1 million prize, are cell physiologists who began receiving recognition for their work in the late 1970s.

Their research technique has been used since the early 1980s to test and modify existing medicines, and later to develop new ones. It is unusual for such recent research, and such young scientists, to win the Nobel Prize.

Ministers approve aid to Soviets

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — European Community finance ministers today tentatively approved $2.4 billion in food and medical aid for the Soviet Union to help deal with possible shortages this winter.

Dutch Finance Minister Wim Kok said the 12-nation European Community would ask the United States, Canada and Japan to provide additional funds for a total Western aid package of more than $7 billion. That amount is far below what Soviet officials say is needed.

Kok told reporters industrialized countries "should respond quickly and in an appropriate way" to help the Kremlin import food and medicine.

Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev and other Soviet officials initially sought $14.7 billion in aid from the United States, the European Community and other Western nations to get through the harsh winter. The request was recently reduced to $10.2 billion.

Arabs barred from Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli security forces opened fire today on suspected Arab uprising activists in the occupied territories, killing a Palestinian man, Arab and Israeli reports said.

It was the third fatality in the West Bank related to the Palestinian uprising since Sunday, and came as police closed Jerusalem to Arab residents of the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip to prevent violence on the eve of the anniversary of the Temple Mount killings.

City police spokeswoman Anat Granit said the ban would be in effect through Tuesday, the anniversary of the day 17 Arabs were shot to death by police quelling riots in Jerusalem's Old City.

The clash at the holy site known to Muslims as Haram es-Sharif was the single bloodiest incident since Israel captured east Jerusalem in the 1967 Middle East war. The mount is Islam's third holiest shrine, and Jews revere it as the site of their ancient temple.

In the occupied lands today, school or commercial strikes were staged in the West Bank city of Nablus and parts of the Gaza Strip to protest two uprising fatalities Sunday, Arab reports said.

Today's shooting death occurred in the village of Burkin near the northern West Bank city of Jenin.

Children learning about world hunger

ANNANDALE, Va. (AP) — With snack cakes and pizza slices representing world grain, freshmen at Annandale High School got a hard-hitting lesson on how inequitably food is distributed in the world.

"Hey, I only got two pieces and she got five," a boy in the Africa-Middle East section of the classroom said in mock anger, pointing to a girl in the North American area.

"You are now symbolic of the world population," responded World Cultures teacher Michele Vilotti. "You are seeing an inequitable food distribution."

Annandale, which has more than 15 countries represented in the student population, was one of hundreds of schools across the nation that celebrated the anniversary of the World Summit for Children. Thousands of children spent the week discussing global and domestic hunger and poverty, and how overpopulation and other issues are related.

Lesson plans and activities for elementary, middle and high school classes and colleges were sent to 646 school districts throughout the United States.

Overall, more than 750 U.S. cities and 60 countries held a variety of activities as part of the "Keeping the Promise" campaign.

The summit, held at the United Nations at the end of September 1990, attracted President Bush and 70 other world leaders who committed themselves to improving the plight of children around the world by the year 2000. The goals included cutting in half the number of women who die during childbirth and the number of infants suffering with severe and moderate malnutrition.

The 30 freshmen in Vilotti's first class Friday were stilled to learn that 40,000 children die each day throughout the world from largely preventable malnutrition and disease. The message was driven home in a videotape that discussed world poverty as it counted down the number of children dying each second with different faces.

"Three-hundred-and-eight children died while you watched that film," said Vilotti. The videotape, which had been shown at the summit, noted in dramatic tones that "this is the greatest tragedy of our times but because it happens everyday, it simply isn't news."

After distributing the food based on supply in each of the regions, Vilotti asked for reaction.

The words came rapidly: bad, anger, hunger, jealousy, not fair. With 12 percent of the world's population, Africa and the Middle East should get more than two snack cakes if North America gets five cakes with only 6 percent of the population, said Rafee Wasi, 14.

While the food distribution underscored the inequality, Vilotti had trouble convincing students that a lot of beliefs about poverty and hunger are myths. She stressed that hunger is not the result of overpopulation and that people who are poor are able and willing to help themselves.

Checks, balances needed

Wall Street insiders say that heavy fines, perhaps jail terms, await the perpetrators of the Salomon Brothers bond trading scandal. We're happy to hear it. But why are these high-finance shenanigans still allowed to flourish?

The crimes Salomon has already admitted to could have been foreseen. Public outrage might be tempered by the fact that Salomon's mischief, at least in the short run, actually saved taxpayers money. (No wonder congressmen are so eager to prosecute!) This is owing to the strange way the government sells the enormous debt it chucks up every month.

The debt, in the form of Treasury bonds, is sold by auction. Only a limited number of certified firms are allowed to bid. These firms, of which Salomon has long been the most powerful, then sell the bonds to investors at a prearranged price — at a profit, they hope.

Salomon's crime was to file phony orders, using customers' names without permission, to capture more than 35 percent of the market. But the effect was to increase the amount of money paid to the government for bonds. And the higher the price paid for the bonds, the more money the taxpayer saves.

But it's still a crime — for good reason. The long-term effects of concentrating the bond market could be disastrous.

A system of checks and balances — which, many observers claim, these Treasury markets lack — should be put in place. The money fever of 1980s Wall Street has yet to subside; independent-minded regulation is as necessary now as ever.

One space station for sale

It isn't every day that a government agency gets the opportunity to have its cake and eat it too. But that's the happy challenge facing NASA — if it can only shrug off its fear and vanity and seize the opportunity.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is looking for $30 billion to build a space station and put it into orbit sometime early next century. The problem is, as always, money. Specifically, where will NASA get it.

The answer is: There is no money and there won't be for the foreseeable future. But there is an alternative.

Yevgeny Velikhov, a vice chairman of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, suggested that the United States may want to take a look at Soviet space hardware with an eye to leasing it or buying it outright. One piece of equipment that may attract immediate U.S. interest is the spanking new Mir-2, a fully functioning space station that has received high marks.

Alcestis Oberg, an expert on space operations and co-author of "Pioneering Space: Living on the Next Frontier," makes an excellent case in the Sept. 26 issue of The Wall Street Journal in arguing that the United States ought to take advantage of the Russian offer.

For one thing, Oberg said, the $200 million or so it would cost to rent the Mir-2 is small change compared to the $15.7 billion the Bush administration has earmarked for NASA in the 1992 budget. Buying the space station off the shelf might cost around $700 million, but that, too, would save U.S. tax dollars.

U.S. space projects planned for the next decade contemplate spending about $70 billion on equipment the Russians have in their inventory right now, according to Oberg. It's that or wait for generous tax appropriations — which likely are light years away.

Keeping balance of peace

The character of the entire international balance of terror, poised precariously on relations between two military superpowers which held the rest of the world to unwilling ransom, is set to change.

Tremendous as is this de-escalation of superpower nuclear rivalry, it is important to remember that the world is not about to turn swords into plowshares. . . . The nasty truth is that the superpowers' nuclear arsenal, not in spite of but because of its terrible power, kept international peace overall in the past four decades. The balance of terror was also the balance of peace. It is now necessary, and possible, to keep that peace at lower nuclear levels, but it must be kept.

More regulation is not the solution

WASHINGTON — Thirty-odd years ago, newspaper readers delighted in a feature called "There Oughtta Be a Law." The feature came to mind recently, thanks to an interview in Time magazine with Myriam Miedzian. Time identified her as a social philosopher.

James J. Kilpatrick

Mrs. Miedzian seeks to rear boys in ways that will make them less prone to violence and sexism, a worthy aim. The interview focused on boyhood sports. She properly criticized coaches and parents who are obsessed with winning at any cost. This obsession "is frequent enough that it is a serious problem."

Perhaps so. All of us have heard of sports dads who drag their sons into pitching sliders before they learn the fastball. An extreme level of competition, as she said, "is just not good for a 7- or 8-year-old boy." But I am sure that the social philosopher's approach can also be carried to extremes, and I wonder especially at the remedy she would apply. She feels there oughtta be a law.

"I advocate regulation of youth sports," she says. "There are 30 million American children involved in youth sports programs, and there is absolutely no control over the coaches or what is going on."

Mrs. Miedzian has all kinds of worries. She fears that young athletes who are overly concerned with conquering the other team will grow up with a desire to conquer women. They will develop a negative attitude. Boys look at violent movies. They absorb violence from TV. It is completely unrealistic to expect parents to monitor their children's viewing habits. She has a better idea. There oughtta be a law.

"Parents also should be writing letters to their member of Congress, asking for the creation of a children's public television network dedicated to pro-social, non-violent programming."

By reducing the emphasis on winning, and by curbing violence in movies and on TV, she would "redefine masculinity." We must encourage boys from the youngest age, she says, "to be empathetic, to get in touch with their own feelings, to tell them they can be nurturing and masculine at the same time."

Much that Mrs. Miedzian says about our violent society is undeniably true. By her count, American youths will have watched 26,000 murders on TV alone by the time they reach 18. Common sense tells us that when the screen is filled with tales of sex and crime, young people are bound to absorb a notion that sex and violence are acceptable. A horror film is art. Life imitates art, if "art" it may be called.

Yet I doubt that the situation would be greatly relieved by recourse to "there oughtta be a law." One envisions a new bureaucracy, created in the name of the general welfare, that would govern the training and licensing of Little League coaches. Their schooling would include compulsory courses in Graceful Losing 101. Opposing teams would not be known as "opponents." The word smacks of violence. Opposing teams would be known as the Friendly Others.

The lady's proposal for a public TV network for children is equally suspect. She insists she is not talking about "goody-goody, boring programming," but in fact she is talking about government control of a broadcast medium financed with the taxpayers' money. We have quite enough of that, thank you, in the Corporation for Public Broadcasting and National Public Radio.

Let a gaggle of social philosophers run a TV network for children, and the kids will not get Bambi, Lassie and Rin-Tin-Tin. I don't know what they would get, but I would be wary of conning my grandchildren into watching what the government says is Good For Them. It was said of the Jesuits that if they got to a child before the child was 5, they would have the child for life. Indoctrination comes in many forms.

Some months ago, out of curiosity, I watched the Saturday morning cartoons. They didn't seem awful to me. There was plenty of violence, as I recall. Roadrunner was always falling off a cliff or smashing into a stone wall, but the 6-year-old beside me was not impressed. Children are not dummies. They know ketchup, and they know blood, and they know the difference.

We ought to teach boys and girls to play fair, but we ought also to teach them to play hard. The object of a game is to win it — not at any cost, of course, but to win it if one can. Show me a good loser, said one philosopher, and I will show you a loser. This was not a social philosopher. This was a garden-variety philosopher. He learned his trade by coaching third base.

Q: Where's the safest place to keep your money? :

Child's life is molded in the home

By BETTY JOHANSEN Copy Editor

When I was very small, I believed parents never sleep. How could they? Anytime I called or needed something, they were there. It was a real revelation to me when I found out they slept at night, just like I did.

I lived in a park in those days, and the only friend who lived close to me lived inside a drive-in theater (now the Jet Drive-in, then the Terrace.) So I had a whole park, the drive-in's playground equipment and the whole area around the historic Big Spring for my playground.

My childhood was so idyllic that, when I saw Peter Pan, I wished he would come to my house and give me an opportunity to go to Never-Never Land and live forever as a child. It wasn't that I didn't have dreams for my future, but I had it good as a kid and I knew it.

So it's not likely I'll ever come close to understanding what it's like to have to weave mental or physical abuse into the expanding tapestry of childhood. But in a speech, reported by the Associated Press on Sept. 23, actress Roseanne Arnold describing her childhood of abuse, gave me a glimpse.

"Incest is the nasty little secret that has taken all my life's energy and all my life's courage to keep," she said.

"Don't stay untreated. It will kill you. My whole life has been about incest. . . . Incest takes away your power, your access to your thought process, your ability to love, even feel. Incest takes away your life."

If you ask me

I've never admired Roseanne or appreciated her humor, but her statements to that audience of adult incest survivors and therapists were powerful. I don't think I ever realized before what an impact abuse makes in a life. What I have heard repeatedly is that most abusers were abused as children, and so I'll echo Roseanne in saying, "Don't stay untreated." If anyone reading this column has ever been abused in any form and hasn't worked through that trauma, I hope you won't wait until you have children before you get help.

The good news is that, just as negative experiences impact a life, so do positive experiences. Gloria Gaither and Shirley Dobson have written a book called, "Let's Make a Memory," to offer creative ideas you can use to enhance your child's or grandchild's young experiences.

In introducing the book, Gaither wrote, "We believe that special moments don't just happen; they have to be planned on purpose. . . . The home is the natural habitat for growing human beings and shaping eternal souls. Whether we like it or not, we are molding lives."

The book is full of ideas for making special days into family traditions and making ordinary days special. It closes with a chapter of suggestions from other women. Mrs. Larry (Nordis) Christensen shared that at bedtime, she or her husband would scratch each child's back and sing a song. The practice turned a difficult time into a happy, peaceful time.

Corrie ten Boom, author of "The Hiding Place," said her father would come pray for her (and the other children) at bedtime. Then he carefully tucked the blankets around her shoulders. Last he would put his hand gently on her face and say, "Sleep well, Corrie. . . I love you." Years later in a concentration camp in Germany, she sometimes lay in bed at night, remembering her father's soft touch on her face.

Asked why she became a television star, Roseanne answered, "I had to. I thought if I was famous enough, I'd be safe."

She never found safety as a child, and she was still looking for it as an adult. It's not much for a child to ask for: safety. But it's something only parents can give, and they can only give it now.

"Let's Make a Memory" begins with this verse: "We have this moment to hold in our hand, / And to touch as it slips through our fingers like sand. / Yesterday's gone and tomorrow may never come, / But we have this moment today."

Real help for those who suffer arthritis

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — In just a few years, opening a door, grasping a pencil and buttoning a shirt had become nearly impossible for Claire Baumel. Rheumatoid arthritis had crippled both her hands and left her in chronic pain.

In 1989, Baumel, 63, of North Andover, Mass., underwent surgery that replaced the diseased joints in her right hand with flexible hinges made of silicone. It corrected the deformities caused by her dislocated bones, which had made her fingers swing out sideways, and restored almost all her mobility.

It also erased the pain. Artificial joints for hips and knees are relatively well known. That's not the case with the hand joint replacements, although Grand Rapids hand surgeon Alfred B. Swanson developed them nearly 30 years ago.

"The predominant surgery for orthopedic surgeons is with the hips and knees, because the first thing you want to do is restore mobility for the patient," said Gene Jakubczak, director of marketing of silicone devices for Dow Corning Wright of Arlington, Tenn., which markets the small joint implants. They are manufactured at Dow Corning's plant in Hemlock, Mich.

Only about 10 percent of the approximately 10,000 orthopedic surgeons in the United States specialize in hand surgery and have specific knowledge of the implants. Jakubczak said. Because arthritic patients commonly see general practitioners and orthopedic surgeons who don't specialize in the hand, they may never find out the implants are available.

"Hand surgery is very complex," Jakubczak said. "Essentially, it's like doing five little knees."

About 16 million people in the United States suffer from osteoarthritis and 2.1 million from rheumatoid arthritis, the forms of the disease for which the implants are designed. About one-quarter of them have cases severe enough to be considered for surgery, Swanson said.

But of the millions of Americans who potentially could benefit from the small joint implants, only about 200,000 have had the surgery, Swanson said.

Worldwide, the rubber-like artificial joints have been used in more than 1 million operations in 83 countries since Swanson performed the first surgery in 1964.

Osteoarthritis, which afflicts about half the population over 65, is caused by damage to cartilage. Rheumatoid arthritis, apparently a disease involving the immune system, is an inflammation of the lining of a joint. As the cartilage and ligaments of the joint are destroyed and bone begins to rub against bone, the person begins feeling chronic pain.

Swanson is a surgery professor at Michigan State University and director of an orthopedic research and hand surgery fellowship at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center in Grand Rapids.

He became interested in joint replacement in 1950. As a student at Indiana University, he assisted in the development of an artificial hip implant.

Two years later, while an Army surgeon, he hand-carved a model to implant out of wood. He also

Claire Baumel, 63, of North Andover, Mass., displays the difference between her right hand, which had surgery to correct rheumatoid arthritis and her left hand, which had not yet been operated on in this 1990 photo. The diseased joints were replaced with flexible hinges made of silicone, correcting the deformities caused by her dislocated bones and restoring almost all her mobility.

tried, unsuccessfully, to replace destroyed toe joints with a metal version.

In 1961, Swanson heard about a medical-grade silicone developed by Dow Corning. He began experimenting with the implants on test machines and animals in a subbasement at Blodgett.

"The normal joint is so sophisticated and the ligaments around it so much in tune that you really can't simulate nature," Swanson said. "My idea was to make a functional joint, one that was pain-free and restored most of a person's mobility."

Previously, doctors would remove the diseased joint and leave a gap, hoping it would be filled with scar tissue that didn't cause as much pain. "It was totally unpredictable. My goal was to make it predictable," Swanson said.

After surgery, reconstructed tissues heal and surround the implant to function as ligaments while the bone around the implant improves. Relatively few complications from the surgery have been reported, Swanson said.

The surgery does not cure arthritis. But most patients regain 50 percent to 75 percent of the hand's original mobility, he said.

Surgery for one hand generally costs about $2,000 and is covered by most insurance plans, he said.

Today, 27 years since his first operation on humans, the joint implant remains almost identical to Swanson's first design. The silicone used, however, has been toughened, and Swanson has developed a titanium shield to be placed on either side of the implant to protect the silicone from damage caused by sharp bone edges. He believes that innovation will make the implants last at least 30 years.

Swanson, whose desk displays samples of the various patented joints he's developed, also has made silicone implants for three wrist bones, as well as the shoulder and elbow.

"I think Dr. Swanson's development of the silicone implant has been a tremendous contribution," said Dr. James W. Strickland, president of the American Society for Surgery of the Hand and professor of orthopedic surgery at Indiana University Medical School. "They really have stood the test of time."

Untreated depression and increased suicide

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attention often focuses on a rising rate of teen-age suicide, but experts say older Americans are far more likely to kill themselves.

Depression, loneliness, social isolation, chronic illness and pain, fear of being institutionalized and loss of status and self-esteem are factors experts associate with suicide among older Americans.

White men have the highest suicide rate among Americans over 65; black women have the lowest rate.

"The biggest message here is that we need to continue to focus on the suicide rate of youth, but there also is a need to not have our attention diverted from the problem among older people," said Dr. Patrick J. Meehan, New Hampshire's chief health official and author of a study in the September issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

The suicide rate for Americans over 65 decreased from 1950 to 1980, but has been rising over the last decade, according to figures compiled by the National Center for Health Statistics.

Experts on aging and suicide use the figures to support their contention that the mental health needs of the elderly are being neglected, often because of perceptions that suicide is a rational choice for older people, especially those suffering from debilitating illnesses.

"It seems to be more shocking when a teen-ager takes his life," said Daniel Perry, executive director of the Alliance for Aging Research, a private, non-profit clearinghouse that promotes research on issues related to aging.

From 1950 to 1988, the national suicide rate for all ages rose slightly, from 11 per 100,000 Americans to 11.4.

In 1950, the highest rate — 31.1 per 100,000 — was among those ages 75-84. That fell to 19.1 per 100,000 in 1980, but increased to 25.9 per 100,000 in 1988.

For people ages 15-24, the suicide rate in 1988 was 13.2 per 100,000, up from 4.5 in 1950.

In 1986, white men over 65 had a suicide rate of 45.6 per 100,000. The rate for aging black men was 16.2 per 100,000, while for white women it was 7.5 per 100,000 and 2.4 per 100,000 for black women.

Recent, well-publicized cases of assisted suicide and a best seller that explains how to commit suicide painlessly may be helping to promote suicide as an option for the elderly. But experts declined to attribute the increase in elder suicide to that alone.

Dr. Gene Cohen, acting director of the National Institute on Aging, said depression was the major cause of suicide.

Plan for the worst

DEAR READERS: It's National Fire Prevention Week again, and the message for 1992 is: "FIRE WON'T WAIT — PLAN YOUR ESCAPE!"

Since 80 percent of all fire deaths occur in the home, knowing how to escape will dramatically increase your chances of survival.

Firefighters urge you to replace the batteries in your smoke detectors when you turn your clocks back from daylight-saving time — Oct. 27. However, the warning of the smoke detector is not enough. You must have a well-rehearsed plan of escape before a fire strikes.

Remember, smoke is thick, and you can't see through it. Also, toxic gases can be disorienting, so you should practice crawling close to the floor, feeling your way along walls until you reach the door to the exit.

Fire drills are essential to ensure safety, so all members of the family should participate. You should all plan two escape routes from each room and make sure that each exit is accessible. Also, check for windows that could be painted shut, furniture blocking doorways, dead-bolt locks too high for children to reach, etc., and remedy these obstacles before a fire breaks out.

If you must escape through smoke, remember to crawl close to the floor where the air is fresher. If your clothing catches fire, stop, drop to the floor and roll to extinguish flames!

If there are elderly, disabled or very young family members, special efforts to get them out must be planned. They should also be included in your fire drills.

Many lives have been saved because a farsighted homemaker had a sturdy rope attached to an upstairs window, enabling those who were trapped upstairs to slide down the rope to safety.

And remember, once you are out — stay out. Never go back into a burning house in an effort to "save" anything.

Fire drills are important not only for homes, but for schools and places of employment.

Although this year's motto is "Plan Your Escape," I would hope that everyone who reads this has at least two fire extinguishers that are in working order; one for the front of the house or apartment, and one for the back.

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago, you recommended a reply to any intrusive question; it was, "Why do you ask?"

I can't tell you how often I have used this, and I must thank you for it again. — JANE THEODOROPOULOS IN REDWOOD CITY

DEAR JANE: The "Why do you ask?" response covers a multitude of presumptuous questions that should not have been asked in the first place. And it always throws the nosy questioner off balance and renders him/her speechless.

Hospice offering services in Big Spring area

By MARTHA E. FLORES Staff Writer

Hospice of the Southwest serves the Big Spring area with an alternative to hospitalization for terminally ill patients.

Located and operated out of Odessa, the hospice was established in 1984 as the Hospice of Odessa to serve the local community. After they opened, people outside Martin county were also requesting its services.

"We had been turning down people," said Connie Brinker, executive director. "And we had people stay with relatives who live in Odessa, in order to receive our services.

"We decided to expand our services to Monahans, Andrews, Kermit and Big Spring to alleviate the problems that were occurring," she said.

Hospice of Odessa then became Hospice of the Southwest, serving a 50-mile radius.

"We have provided services for 32 families since we opened," said Brinker. "And we have served three families in Big Spring since we began the program there Aug.

The services provided by the hospice includes contracting with different agencies to provide services, co-ordinating services with staff at medical facilities, she said.

"We have nurses on call 24 hours a day," said Brinker. "In order to stay updated with patients' conditions we have regular scheduled visits, and when a real intensive period of the illness is taking place we provide a nurse around the clock."

Social workers are also available to aid in filling out forms and helping with social services.

"After the basics are taken care for the patient, we find out what is important to the family," said Brinker. "We provide non-medical services also."

"We buy groceries, mow lawns, wash clothes and make beds," said Brinker. "It depends on the state of the family."

"Hospice is a way of managing problems. It is not a place. It is a way of doing things. We take our show on the road," she said.

Eighty percent of hospice services are paid for by Medicare,

Medicaid Part A, or private insurance.

"We have fundraisers in order to provide the services to those who do not have Medicare, Medicaid or insurance," said Brinker. "The Big Spring program is fortunate in that the Dora Roberts Foundation and A. Bell-Hanger Foundation of Midland have made donations to take care of the expenses."

To contact Hospice of the Southwest call Brinker at 1-800-747-HOME.

Court upholds decision in Texas air crash suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to revive a lawsuit accusing federal officials of causing a 1985 airplane crash at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport that claimed 137 lives.

The court, by a 5-3 vote, rejected arguments that a federal appeals court failed to review the case adequately when it upheld a judge's dismissal of the suit.

Justices Harry A. Blackmun, Anthony M. Kennedy and David H. Souter voted to send the case back to the appeals court for further study.

The crash occurred Aug. 2, 1985, as the crew of Delta Air Lines flight 191 from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Los Angeles tried to land the plane at DFW airport in a thunderstorm.

Eight crew members and 128 passengers died, along with a motorist whose vehicle was struck by the plane. Three of the plane's crew members and 24 passengers survived.

The Federal Aviation Administration and the National Weather Service were sued by Delta and relatives of those who died, including the widows of the pilot and second officer.

The suit said air traffic controllers failed to warn the crew about the storm's severity, and as a result the crew was not aware how bad the weather was.

U.S. District Judge David O. Belew Jr. in Fort Worth ruled in favor of the federal officials. The judge said the plaintiffs failed to prove the alleged negligence caused the crash, largely because the crew "possessed substantially all of the weather information" the government officials had.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last January upheld Belew's ruling. The appeals court rejected arguments that the judge failed to apply Texas negligence law properly.

"We cannot gainsay the (judge's) apparent view that when Flight 191 chose to fly into a thunderstorm at a low altitude and speed it chose to dice with death," the appeals court said.

The appeal acted on today said the suit should be restudied in light of a Supreme Court ruling last March that directed federal appeals courts not to defer in some circumstances to federal trial judges' interpretation of applicable state law.

House fire

The Margeret Young residence at 2602 Langley St. suffered about $12,000 damage during a Sunday afternoon fire. Big Spring firefighters had the blaze under control within five minutes after arriving at the scene. The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Jury says stonger warning needed

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — A man whose stomach exploded after he took Arm & Hammer baking soda for indigestion is not entitled to damages, but the product label should have warned of the danger, a jury decided Friday.

Both sides claimed victory in the lawsuit, brought by William Graves, editor of National Geographic magazine, against Church & Dwight Inc. of Princeton, makers of Arm & Hammer.

"This puts the country on notice that they can get hurt or can die with this product," said Adrian I. Karp, Graves' attorney.

Graves, of Bethesda, Md., said he developed indigestion one night in 1979 after eating a bowl of homemade chili and drinking two martinis and a glass of wine.

He said his stomach ruptured after he drank a glass of water mixed with a spoonful of baking soda. Graves, 64, said he needed seven operations to recover and almost died twice.

He sued Arm & Hammer in 1984, seeking unspecified damages and an order that the product not be sold as an antacid.

After a five-week trial, the state Superior Court jury voted 5-1 that baking soda does present a danger of stomach rupture and that Arm & Hammer's warnings were inadequate. But the panel also voted 5-1 that an adequate warning would not have prevented Graves from taking the remedy.

Because it voted against Graves on that question, the jury never considered whether the baking soda actually caused Graves' stomach to rupture.

William Egan, president of Arm & Hammer Products, said the baking soda label was changed in 1983 to include a warning that stomach injury could occur if it is taken as an antacid on an "overly full" stomach. The verdict applied to the old label, which had no such warning.

"It's difficult to look backwards. If you go home today and look at labeling, it's sufficiently stronger," Egan said.

He said baking soda was a safe antacid and if it were dangerous, the Food and Drug Administration would not allow Arm & Hammer to sell it as an antacid.

ty care. We're the only hospital with the lowest cost per day, so in cost effectiveness we've done a very good job," he said.

"We will continue to provide what we consider to be the best care in Texas. I've told my staff to carry on with business as usual and we'll continue to take care of the needs of our clients," Von Rosenberg said.

Chuck McDonald, spokesperson for Richards' office in Austin, said the task force was mandated by the Texas Legislature as part of the budget and appropriations bill. The committee is to consider ways to consolidate services and save the state money. He said a lobby group of handicapped persons sought out legislatures during the last session requesting community-based care options.

"The governor was instructed to name the people on the force. The legislature patterned it after the federal committee that did the military base closures," McDonald said.

He added that, just as community support in San Angelo kept Goodfellow Air Force Base open, this committee will probably listen to the community here. The committee members are expected to make a thorough investigation of all facilities before making their recommendations, he said.

The Mental Health and Mental Retardation State Facility Review Task Force members are Luther Campbell of Dallas, Linda Parriah of College Station, John J. Sampson of Austin, Roberto Soto of Houston and Bert Williams of Fort Worth.

The governor's office has a toll-free number for citizens to call and give opinions and input on this issue. That number is 1-800-252-9600.

to give specific details about the companies.

St. Clair has also visited another eight companies in an effort to spread the word about Big Spring attractions. He said he has been focusing primarily on companies that might utilize the airport facilities, which he considers one of the town's biggest assets.

There is no single reason why companies have rejected Big Spring, said St. Clair, adding that he has heard no specific negative comments about the town. He blames the national and international economic climate for the difficulties in attracting industry.

Purcell said board members have donated a minimum of five to six hours per week in attempts to attract industry. "As far as knowing, we've done our best, I'm satisfied with that," he said.

St. Clair said he has also talked to 26 people who have approached him with ideas for business development. Although some of the ideas were poorly conceived and impractical, a few had possibilities that could eventually lead to the formation of a business, he said.

One of the problems St. Clair has seen with many local ideas is the Michigan makes deep cuts in welfare benefits

DETROIT (AP) — Go to work or get out of Michigan.

Those were the words one Michigan lawmaker had for 90,000 people who lost their welfare benefits under a leaner, meaner state government assistance program that took effect this week.

"They can move to sunny California, to stylish New York; if they like winter sports, to Minnesota. If they don't like winter, they can move to Arizona," Rep. David Jaye said Wednesday.

On Tuesday, Michigan joined a handful of states that deny welfare to employable, childless adults. Cutting the payments, which averaged about $145 a month, is expected to save $246 million a year.

"The most important fact is we took $300 million out of welfare for single, healthy employable adults — that's 90,000 in the state of Michigan — and said, 'Get a job or hit the road, Jack,'" said Jaye, a Republican from Shelby Township.

The director of a church-sponsored charity program that feeds 500 people a month and give clothes to 2,000 said the cuts will swamp charities.

"It will put more of a stress on the program," said Cris Bobier, Outreach Ministries director for the Potter Park United Methodist Church in Lansing.

"People say, 'Well they can just go get a job,'" Bobier said. "But for a majority of these people, it's impossible. They don't have the training, the education, the transportation, the clothing, the food, the money to buy a newspaper to look at the want ads. They have no phone. And soon they'll have no residence."

A spokesman for Republican Gov. John Engler, who proposed the cuts, said the intent wasn't to run people out of the state.

"We'd rather have them in Michigan, working," said John Truscott.

State Rep. David Hollister, who led Democratic efforts to blunt the cuts, said Michigan is "leading a retreat" in social services.

Pokes stay perfect on the road

MILWAUKEE (AP) — He's listed as a tight end but plays at times like a wide receiver. That Jay Novacek is a hard guy to figure.

At 6-foot-4, he's tall like most tight ends — but not necessarily big for the position at 230 pounds. Split him out and he's a hard guy to cover, able to confuse defenses in a hurry. Just ask the Green Bay Packers.

Novacek caught 11 passes for 121 yards on Sunday and the Dallas Cowboys used three big plays by their defense to beat Green Bay 20-17.

Novacek grabbed one touchdown pass from Troy Aikman and Dallas used two interceptions in the final two minutes of the first half to score 14 quick points. The victory gives the Cowboys a 4-2 record, their best start since going 6-2 in 1986.

"I caught a few balls. It's nice to feel used and needed," said Novacek, who had 19 catches entering the game after leading NFL tight ends with 59 a year ago.

"I spread out more and caught a lot more balls as a wideout," he said. "With their run defense that good, we didn't think we'd be able to get open like that."

Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson made sure that Novacek got involved.

"Green Bay has played solid defense and for that reason we were going underneath a bunch to Novacek and do some things when they doubled up on wide receivers. We designed the game plan to go to Novacek more. He has great hands and he makes first downs," explained Johnson.

Ray Horton's 65-yard interception return of a pass by Blair Kiel — filling in for the injured Don Majkowski — gave the Cowboys a 7-0 lead with 1:54 to go in the half.

Horton snared the ball near the sidelines, kept himself from going out of bounds and then took off for the end zone, pushing teammate Larry Brown out of his way en route.

"I was trying to bait Kiel into thinking I was covering (Sterling) Sharpe. I just broke to the sidelines and caught the ball," Horton said of his second TD in two weeks.

Ten seconds later, Issiac Holt picked off another Kiel pass, setting up a 13-yard touchdown pass from Aikman to Novacek. It came just 73 seconds after Horton's return.

MILWAUKEE — Dallas Cowboys tight end Jay Novacek (84) tries to hang on to the ball as Green Bay Packers safety Steve Reagan (36)

Trailing 14-0, the Packers got a 42-yard field goal by Chris Jacke on the last play of the half, then stunned the Cowboys when Charles Wilson returned the second-half kickoff 82 yards for a touchdown to make it 14-10.

Green Bay was on the move for a go-ahead score with a first down at the Cowboys' 14 after a 35-yard pass from Kiel to Perry Kemp and a personal foul on Holt.

But Kiel was sacked twice, the second time on a vicious hit by Jim Jeffcoat that jarred the ball loose. Tony Tolbert recovered at the Dallas 29.

"What we have to change is the turnovers. You just can't make them and win," said Kiel, who was 18-for-35 for 212 yards in just his third NFL start.

Once the Packers' momentum had been stopped by the fumble, the Cowboys got a pair of field goals from Ken Willis for a 20-10 lead.

But Kiel, ignoring chants for Mike Tomczak, completed seven passes on a late 84-yard drive that consumed just 84 seconds, capping it with a 13-yard pass to Sharpe with 3:46 to go. That made it 20-17. Aikman and Novacek weren't through, though. They hooked up on a 10-yard reception for a key first down and the Cowboys got another one on an 8-yard pass to Kelvin Martin before running out the clock.

The Packers, who had made 16 sacks entering the game, didn't get to Aikman once. And Emmitt Smith gained 122 yards, even though it took him 32 carries to get them.

"Our guys did a good job of concentrating on what they had to do coming into a hostile situation," Johnson said.

"I was concerned about a bizarre play putting us behind. The interception by Horton really gave us a comfortable feeling and then we got the other interception with them going against the wind and we got the 14-point lead."

What the Packers (1-5) got was another frustrating loss. They've lost three in a row by a total of eight points and the mistakes just keep coming. Now they'll take a week off to regroup.

"Every loss is tough, especially when you've lost as many as we have," coach Lindy Infante said.

Houston Oilers put the hurt on Elway and Denver Broncos

Houston (AP) — Denver quarterback John Elway kept looking at his wrist as if checking the time to see how much longer he had to endure playing against the Cris Dishman-led Houston defense.

In reality, Elway was reading the plays written on his wristband because he calls his own plays, but the notes did little good against the peppery Oilers defense that squeezed out a 42-14 victory Sunday.

"In the fourth quarter, it was time to circle the wagons, guard the woman and children and hope we can make it home," Elway said. "They were not worried about our running game. When you're 28 points ahead you don't have to."

The Oilers (4-1) sacked Elway five times and scored their first 28 points off turnovers en route to a 35-0 halftime lead. Denver (4-2) had hoped to improve to 5-1 for the first time since 1981, Coach Dan Reeves' first year as head coach.

But the Oiler defense provided all the jump-start needed.

Dishman continued his big play antics with a 19-yard fumble return for a touchdown and a 43-yard interception return that set up another score to key the defensive quick start.

Sean Jones sacked Elway on the first play of the game and Bo Orlando blocked the first punt and Bubba McDowell recovered for a touchdown with 1:18 elapsed in the game.

William Fuller had three sacks and McDowell also blocked a field goal attempt that kept the Oilers' shutout alive through the half.

"I think playing against Elway fired up the whole team," Fuller said. "If we didn't get fired up it would have been a long day. Elway and Gaston Green) can score some points."

But the Oilers, stinging since losing to New England 24-20 two weeks ago, had the right answers for all of Denver's questions.

Green entered the game as the AFC's leading rusher but the Oilers held him to 36 yards on 15 carries.

Elway completed 24 of 42 passes for 301 yards but he didn't get the Broncos into the end zone until the third quarter when he hit Steve Sewell with a 3-yard touchdown pass. Mark Jackson caught a 70-yard touchdown pass from Elway in the fourth quarter but the Denver offense rallied too late.

Houston — Denver Broncos running back Gaston Green (28) is stopped by Houston Oilers Sean Jones in the second quarter of the NFL game Sunday.

It was the fourth week in a row that Dishman generated a turnover to aid the Oilers cause.

"I'm just fortunate to be making plays," Dishman said. "We've improved as a defense. That's what we've been striving for."

Dishman's 43-yard return to the Denver 1-yard line set up Allen Pinkett's touchdown dive for a 14-0 lead. William Fuller recovered Elway's fumble at the Broncos' 13, leading to Lorenzo White's 1-yard

TD run. Denver got to run two more plays before Dishman scooped up a fumble by Steve Sewell and ran 19 yards for a touchdown for the 28-0 bulge.

The Oilers went up by 35-0 on Warren Moon's 3-yard touchdown pass to Haywood Jeffries, completing an 80-yard drive highlighted by Ernest Givins' 49-yard catch to the Broncos 25.

"Cris has become a smart player, he's been reading the offenses' mail the past couple of games," Oiler coach Jack Pardee said.

Colts still winless

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS If you swoon in September, the rest of the NFL schedule can be a long trip through purgatory.

Ron Meyer's journey was cut short when he was fired as coach of the Indianapolis Colts last week. Dan Henning, Richard Williamson and Sam Wyche had to win a bit when they heard the news.

Wyche and Rick Venturi, who replaced Meyer, probably still are cringing. Henning and Williamson are all smiles today.

When San Diego beat the Los Angeles Raiders 21-13 and Tampa Bay edged Philadelphia 14-13, Henning and Williamson got their first wins of the season. Both teams did it with strong defense and some opportunistic offense.

Wyche and Venturi weren't so fortunate. Seattle beat Wyche's Bengals 13-7, while Pittsburgh was a 21-3 winner over Indianapolis in Venturi's debut.

Steelers 21, Colts 3

It was hard to see any difference in the Colts after the coaching change. They were hit by two more backfield injuries — they already have nine players on injured reserve — as Anthony Johnson sprained his knee and ankle and Eric Dickerson played only briefly in the second half because of a strained hamstring. And their offense, last in the NFL in rushing, was held to 42 yards, only 24 for Dickerson.

And no place to hide, especially when Bubby Brister got hot. He connected on all seven of his second-half passes, including touchdowns of 21 yards to Eric Green and 24 yards to Barry Foster.

Seahawks 13, Bengals 7 Cincinnati (0-5) came up short — literally — and matched its worst start since 1984. Wyche's first year as coach.

With fourth-and-four at the Seattle 22 in the dying seconds, Boomer Esiason threw a short pass to James Brooks, who had stopped near the first-down marker. Dwayne Harper wrapped him up immediately and Nesby Glasgow helped knock him back.

A measurement showed he was inches short of the first down and Seattle ran out the clock. John Kasay kicked field goals of 36 and 31 yards early in the third quarter for the winning margin.

NFL Roundup

Chargers 21, Raiders 13 Losers of eight straight, dating back to last season, the Chargers turned to Henry Rolling to play hero. He returned a fumble 53 yards to set up a touchdown early, then intercepted a pass to secure the win in a surprising place — the Raiders lost at home for the first time in four games this season and only the third time in 20 games since Art Shell became coach two years ago.

Buccaneers 14, Eagles 13 Until Chris Chandler got Tampa Bay's offense untracked in the fourth quarter, this was an ugly game of mistakes and missed opportunities. The Bucs turned the ball over six times, but came back from a 13-0 deficit with five minutes to go.

Eagles punter Jeff Feagles fumbled a snap and Broderick Thomas tackled him inside the Eagles' 10. Chris Chandler, off the bench to replace Vinny Testaverde, threw an 8-yard TD pass to Robert Wilson two plays later. Then he directed a six-play, 54-yard drive that produced Bruce Hill's game-winning 5-yard reception with 1:09 to go.

Redskins 20, Bears 7 At Chicago, Mark Rypien threw a pair of TDs to Art Monk, while interceptions by Fred Stokes and Kurt Gouveia in the fourth quarter led to 10 points.

Neal Anderson's 1-yard run assured the Redskins would not get their fourth shutout in six games.

Joe Gibbs became the first coach with three successive wins over Chicago's Mike Ditka.

Lions 24, Vikings 20 When in doubt and in trouble, call on Barry Sanders.

The Lions have learned that lesson and they taught it to the Vikings, who had contained Sanders before the fourth quarter. But the All-Pro running back keyed a 21-point comeback and scored the winning TD from

Ryan, Franco end season in style

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 On a day when the Toronto Blue Jays and Minnesota Twins tuned up for the last time, the Baltimore Orioles bid farewell to an old ballpark and the American League West welcomed a new order.
 And while there weren't any pennant races to be decided on the last day of the regular season, several other titles went down to the final swing. Julio Franco became the first Texas Rangers player to win a batting championship at .341 and Jose Canseco and Cecil Fielder both were shut out and wound up tied for the home run title at 44.
 Nolan Ryan, meanwhile, finished up in style. He reached the 200-strikeout mark for the 15th season.
 On Tuesday night, the AL playoffs begin in Minnesota with the Twins and Blue Jays. On Sunday, Toronto won 3-2 in 10 innings for its second victory in three days at the Metrodome.
 Twins manager Tom Kelly said the only games that matter begin this week.

 The Blue Jays beat Minnesota 8-4 in the season series. Toronto finished at 91-71 and the Twins were 95-67, a 21-game improvement over last year's last-place finish. Jack Morris will pitch the playoff opener for Minnesota against Tom Candiotti.
 California's victory ensured that every team in the AL West finished at .500 or better. The last-place Angels wound up 81-81, marking the first time every team in a division has been at break-even or better.
 The Twins and Toronto got a bit testy in the third inning when Devon White, who led off the game with a long home run, ducked away from a pitch near his head by Tom Edens. Both benches emptied, but there was nothing close to a fight.
 Rob Ducey hit a solo home run, his first since Sept. 14, 1987, in the 10th inning to win it. Allan Anderson (5-11) was the victim.

ARLINGTON — Texas Rangers second baseman Julio Franco is congratulated by teammate Mike Stanley (5) after clinching the American League batting title.

David Weathers (1-0) pitched a scoreless ninth for his first major-league victory. Duane Ward worked the 10th for his 23rd save in 25 chances.

American League

Tigers 7, Orioles 1
 Brooks Robinson and John Units (with a football) threw out the first balls, bringing back 38 years of memories at Memorial Stadium, but Detroit put a damper on the final Orioles' game.
Rangers 4, Athletics 2
 Julio Franco went 2-for-4 and led the majors in batting, and Juan Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning that enabled Texas to finish ahead of Oakland. The Rangers and the three-time AL champion Athletics went into the game in Texas tied for third place.
Angels 3, Royals 1
 Mark Langston matched his career best with his 19th victory and Gary Gaetti hit a three-run homer as California made certain that every AL West team was at .500.

Cone ties record

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 The final day of the season in the National League provided meaningful moments instead of meaningless games.

The Pittsburgh Pirates clinched the NL East long ago, and the Atlanta Braves finished their journey from worst to first on Saturday.
 Sunday was a day for the record books.
 At Philadelphia, David Cone tied an NL record with 19 strikeouts as the New York Mets ended their worst season since 1983 with a 7-0 victory over the Phillies.
 At Chicago, Ryne Sandberg became the first Cub second baseman ever to drive in 100 runs or more in consecutive seasons.
 At Atlanta, even though Terry Pendleton didn't play, he capped his championship weekend by winning the NL batting title with a .319 average. Now, Pendleton and the rest of the Braves will prepare to open the playoffs at Pittsburgh on Wednesday night.

National League

 Cone (14-14) just missed the major league record of 20 strikeouts set by Boston's Roger Clemens on April 29, 1986, against Seattle. The 19 strikeouts gave Cone 241 for the season as he won the NL title for the second straight season. He tied Clemens for the major league lead.
 Cone had a chance to break the NL single-game strikeout record, also shared by Tom Seaver and Steve Carlton, but Dale Murphy grounded out to end the game.
Dodgers 2, Giants 0
 The Dodgers finally beat the Giants at Candlestick Park, but it didn't matter. Chris Gwynn singled twice and scored a pair of runs

Joe Montana's elbow could require surgery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Joe Montana's elbow injury may require season-ending surgery, according to a published report.

Surgery appeared likely after the 35-year-old San Francisco 49ers quarterback experienced pain throwing passes on Saturday, the San Francisco Chronicle reported in today's editions.

Montana could not be reached for comment Sunday night, the newspaper said. Team owner Ed DeBartolo Jr. said a decision about surgery would be up to Montana and the team's orthopedic surgeon, Dr. Michael Dillingham.

"This has to be strictly a personal and a medical decision," DeBartolo said. "The club surely doesn't have any input into that decision. I know how bad he wants to play and come back, but there's some things you can't control."

Montana has a torn tendon near his right elbow and was placed on the injured reserve list at the start of the season. He was ordered to rest his arm completely for an extended period in hope that the tendon would heal itself.

He resumed throwing 15-to-20-yard passes at less than full velocity early last week, but minor pain returned Wednesday, and the elbow was swollen on Thursday.

On Saturday, while trying to throw passes of 30-35 yards with conditioning coach Jerry Attaway, Montana had severe pain similar to what he experienced in August.

He was forced to quit, and coach George Seifert ruled out his hoped-for return to the active roster for next Sunday's game against Atlanta.

"Surgery is now a very strong possibility," the Chronicle quoted a source close to the 49ers as saying. The source asked not to be identified.

Dillingham said Sept. 9 that if rest failed to cure Montana's elbow, the next alternative was surgery.

The possibility that an operation would not cure Montana's problem was in "the 20 percent range," Dillingham said last month.

Montana, who has taken rehabilitation slow so as not to aggravate the injury, also has indicated readiness to undergo an operation, the Chronicle said.

"Joe's feeling has been that if it doesn't get better with rest, let's do the surgery," a source close to Montana told the newspaper.

The career of former Pittsburgh Steelers star Terry Bradshaw ended at 35 in 1983 after surgery for a similar problem.

Bradshaw, however, tried to play through his injury for a year. He finally underwent surgery, but his arm was so weakened that he played only one more game in the NFL.

15 yards with 36 seconds to go. Sanders had 70 of his 116 yards rushing in the final eight minutes and caught nine passes for 76 yards.

Detroit is in first place in the NFC Central for the first time since 1983.

Jets 17, Browns 14
 At Cleveland, Blair Thomas threw an option pass to Rob Moore for a touchdown. Ken O'Brien was 19-for-23 for 195 yards and the Jets moved to 3-3. Cleveland couldn't win despite holding the NFL's top-ranked rushing attack to 76 yards.

Pat Leahy's 28-yard field goal in the fourth quarter was the difference.

"It's just something we game-planned on film on what their tendencies were in the red zone," Bruce Coslet said of the option pass. "I thought it would never come down. It had great hang time. I was kind of looking at it out of the corner of one eye. I didn't really want to watch the whole play."

The Browns lost cornerback Frank Minnifield to a bruised shoulder — the sixth defensive back they've lost this year.

Dolphins 20, Patriots 10
 A month-long slump ended for Dan Marino. The Dolphins quarterback, who threw one touchdown pass in his previous three games, got two in 1 minute late in the second quarter. He hit on 25 of 38 passes for 321 yards.

In the last two minutes of the opening half, Marino connected for 24 yards to Mark Clayton for a TD, then hit Jim Jensen for a 5-yarder. He was 6-for-7 for 112 yards on the two possessions.

E.J. Junior had four of Miami's six sacks.

Giants 20, Cardinals 9
 Rodney Hampton, healthy at last, had a career-best 137 yards rushing. He ran for 101 yards in the first half and scored as New York grabbed a 17-3 halftime lead.

Jeff Hostetler was 14-for-18 for 200 yards and the host Giants held Phoenix without a touchdown for their sixth straight win over the Cardinals and 11th in 13 meetings.

Greg Davis kicked field goals of 52, 40 and 29 yards for Phoenix.

Baseball Today

Baseball Today
 Tuesday, Oct. 9
 By The Associated Press
SCOREBOARD
 On the 35th anniversary of Don Larsen's perfect game in the World Series, the AL playoffs begin. Tom Candiotti (12-13) starts for Toronto and Jack Morris (10-12) pitches for Minnesota.

STARS
 Every team in the AL West finished at .500 or better. It's the first time each club in a division wound up at break-even or above.

STREAKS
 The New York Yankees finished at 71-91, a year after going 47-91. Their record had dipped for five straight seasons, tying a major league record.

SLUGGERS
 The California Angels (81-81) finished last in the AL West despite having a 19-game winner (Mark Langston), two 18-game winners (Jim Abbott and Chuck Finley) and AL save-leader Bryan Harvey (46).

STARTERS
 Frank Tanana beat Baltimore 7-1 Sunday in the Orioles' final game at Memorial Stadium. Tanana opened the season by pitching Detroit to a 16-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox in their first game at the new Comiskey Park. Tanana also spelled Seattle's debut at the Kingdome in 1977 while pitching for California.

STOPPERS
 Toronto relief ace Tom Henke pitched one scoreless inning Sunday against Minnesota. He had not pitched since Sept. 17 because of shoulder tendinitis until working one shutout inning Friday night against the Twins, the Blue Jays' opponent in the playoffs.

STRIKEOUTS
 David Cone tied the National League record with 19 strikeouts Sunday as New York beat Philadelphia 7-0. He had a chance to match the major-league record of 20 set by Boston's Roger Clemens on April 29, 1986 against Seattle, but Dale Murphy grounded out to end the game. Cone and Clemens tied for the major league lead with 241 strikeouts.

SLUMPS
 The Cincinnati Reds finished 20 games behind in the NL West. The farthest from first place any team has finished the year after winning the World Series was 20 1/2 games, by the Boston Red Sox in 1919. The 1996 New York Giants also came in 30 games back. Other World Series champions who faded were the 1994 Baltimore Orioles (19 games behind) and the 1993 Detroit Tigers (19 1/2 games back).

SEATING
 Sunday's crowd of 37,794 gave the Minnesota Twins a 2,992,843 season attendance, their second best ever. They set their club record in 1986, when a total of 3,030,473 set an AL record since broke three times by the Blue Jays.

STARS
 David Cone struck out 19 batters as New York beat Philadelphia. He tied the NL record held by Steve Carlton and Tom Seaver, and missed Roger Clemens' major league mark by one.

Names in the news

Urich and son

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Robert Urich says he doesn't mind being upstaged, at least not when the scene-stealer is his son.

Urich, formerly of television's "Spencer for Hire," stars with his 12-year-old son, Ryan, in the upcoming ABC movie "Survive the Savage Sea," about a family whose schooner is capsized by a whale.

Urich said in the Oct. 12 issue of TV Guide that he asked producer Frank von Zerneck to give his son a shot. Ryan acted earlier in a CBS movie with his father.

Urich, who hasn't had a big-screen hit, said, "Maybe we'll end up with a movie star in the family."

ROBERT URICH DESMOND TUTU

Tutu plans retirement

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Desmond Tutu said at a 60th birthday party that he is moving off the political stage and plans to retire in five years.

The Anglican archbishop of Cape Town and winner of the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize greeted 500 guests Friday at the University of the Western Cape, where he is chancellor, a ceremonial post. His actual birthday is Monday.

"When I went to Amsterdam one of the questions I got was: 'How do you feel walking in the shadow of Nelson?' And I said, 'Real cool,'" Tutu said.

What a pity

LONDON (AP) — The Duchess of York says she destroyed her husband's letters, gave up keeping a diary and takes a shredder wherever she goes to protect her privacy from Britain's prying tabloids.

Jeanne Dixon's Horoscope

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Set fresh priorities and you will reap wonderful financial and social rewards. Work on projects in the order of their importance. New monetary backing will be available in December. A program to benefit your community will hold strong appeal early in the new year. Cool-headed and forceful, you make an excellent advocate for the causes you support. Offer to be the spokesperson for a special group in April of 1992. Romance deepens into the real thing next summer.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: politician Jesse Jackson, comedian Chevy Chase.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): High-tech learning tools make a big difference for both students and teachers. Use all of your resources to advance your career aims. Business profits rise. Romance becomes more active.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Things begin to turn around for you.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1991

You make rapid financial progress. Be careful not to promise more than you can deliver. Eat those foods that will give you energy, not extra pounds.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Rewarding relationships do not just happen. You must nurture them. Open up to those who have your best interests at heart. An older, more experienced person offers sage advice.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Close friends will be there when you need them. Have greater faith in your own abilities. Those who are flexible will make the largest gains. Go along with a loved one's plan.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Satisfy your strong urge to do something by seeking constructive outlets for your abundant energy. Any chores you have postponed can be cleared up with relative ease. Trust your financial instincts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Tackle a new project enthusiastically; you finally have a chance to make your mark! A conservative, pragmatic approach to decision-making is far better than yielding to impulse.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A career transition can be tough on the nerves. Your sense of humor helps Develop a new outlook on your love life. Better days lie ahead!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your financial goals are easier to achieve now. A timely investment or second source of income means greater security. Intelligent compromises are the key to a lasting alliance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be willing to go along with others where an exciting business idea is concerned. You must take action within the next few days. Be patient with your loved ones. Deeper rapport is possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be more willing to answer questions, otherwise, people may think you have something to hide. A family relationship finally changes for the better. Your financial position improves.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your actions could be misunderstood now. Be careful not to take advantage of someone while trying to improve your own position. You have a very good feeling about a new product.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Find out what is going on with your associates. Someone in authority wants to be surrounded by well-informed people. Make better use of your contacts. A timely investment pays big dividends.

Savory Spoon-On

- | | |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|
| 2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce | 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce |
| 1 tablespoon lemon juice | 2 cups KELLOGG'S® ALL-BRAN® cereal |

- Mix together Worcestershire sauce, lemon juice and hot pepper sauce. Blend thoroughly. Pour over KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN cereal in large bowl. Immediately toss to moisten.
- Gently spread mixture evenly on a baking sheet coated with cooking spray. Bake at 325°F about 12 minutes or until dry and crisp. Cool completely. Store in airtight container.

YIELD: about 2 cups

SUGGESTED USES: Sprinkle on salads, baked potatoes, hot cooked vegetables and cottage cheese. Mix into dips and meatloaves.

Vegetable Dinner Rolls

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 2 cups all-purpose flour | 1 cup water |
| 1 cup whole wheat flour | 2 tablespoons margarine |
| 2 cups KELLOGG'S® BRAN FLAKES cereal | 2 egg whites |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 1 cup shredded zucchini |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | 1/2 cup shredded carrots |
| 1 teaspoon herb-spice seasoning | 1/4 cup sliced green onions |
| 1 package active dry yeast | 2 teaspoons sesame seeds (optional) |

- Stir together flours. In large electric mixer bowl, combine KELLOGG'S BRAN FLAKES cereal, 1 cup of the flour mixture, sugar, salt, seasoning and yeast. Set aside.
- Heat water and margarine until warm (115-120°F). Using regular beaters, add water mixture and egg whites to cereal mixture. Beat on low speed with electric mixer 30 seconds or until thoroughly combined. Increase speed to high, beating 3 minutes longer, scraping bowl frequently. Mix in vegetables.
- By hand, stir in remaining flour to make sticky dough. Cover loosely. Let rise in warm place until double in volume. Stir down batter. Portion evenly into twelve 2 1/2-inch muffin-pan cups coated with cooking spray. Sprinkle with sesame seeds, if desired.
- Let rise in warm place until double in volume.
- Bake at 400° F about 17 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm.

Eating healthier does not mean giving up good taste. It simply means selecting ingredients and foods lower in fat and cholesterol while increasing your dietary fiber. For example, use skim milk in place of whole milk or low-fat yogurt for sour cream, and reduced calorie cheeses. Choose lean cuts of meat, and include plenty of fruits, vegetables, whole grain breads and bran cereals.

It's easy to reduce fat and cholesterol when preparing foods. Meats can be seasoned with herbs and spices then either baked, roasted, broiled or grilled. Reduce cholesterol in baked goods by using 2 egg whites or 1/4 cup egg substitute to replace one whole egg. In breads and cookies, replace nuts with dried fruits such as raisins to lower the fat content.

As you lower your dietary fat, it is also important to include fiber-rich foods. The average American's daily dietary fiber intake is only 11 to 15 grams. The National Cancer Institute recommends between 20 and 30 grams of dietary fiber per day with an upper limit of 35 grams, from a variety of sources like bran cereal, whole grain breads, vegetables and fruits.

To include more dietary fiber in your diet, eat fresh fruit for snacks and desserts. Bran cereals are also rich in dietary fiber. Cereal can be sprinkled on salads, vegetables and pasta and easily added to recipes. Use fiber-rich cereal as an extender in meat loaves. Give homemade breads and desserts a nutty whole wheat flavor and texture with fiber-rich cereals. The delicious recipes on this page use Kellogg's® ready-to-eat cereals and were developed to be good sources of dietary fiber and lower in fat.

DIETARY GUIDELINES FOR AMERICANS

Cooking healthy and making positive dietary choices each day will promote good health and nutrition. The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) and United States Department of Health and Human Services (USDHHS) have developed simple dietary guidelines. These guidelines can help you make dietary choices that can lead to healthier eating habits.

- Eat a variety of foods.
- Maintain healthy weight.
- Choose a diet low in fat, saturated fat and cholesterol.
- Choose a diet with plenty of vegetables, fruits, and grain products.
- Use sugars only in moderation.
- Use salt and sodium only in moderation.
- If you drink alcoholic beverages, do so in moderation.

Man of the '90s is high on fitness but low on time

Looking good is in, and nothing looks better than a body that's fit and trim. Unfortunately, today's man has little opportunity to stay in shape, with work, social and/or family obligations competing for his time. Now NordicTrack, a leading manufacturer of fitness equipment, offers a perfect solution for the man on the go — the Executive Power Chair.

"The Executive Power Chair was developed for the '90s executive," says Jim Bostic, president and CEO of NordicTrack. "It functions as both a superb office chair and an effective strengthening device that allows today's leaders to build and maintain their upper body strength and muscle tone, and still handle their demanding responsibilities. It puts an end to having to sacrifice your lunch hour at the health club or gym."

A recent survey published in The Physician and Sports Medicine found that two-thirds of the top U.S. corporate executives exercised at least three times a week. Moreover, according to survey conductor Dr. James Rippe, M.D., "An amazing 90 percent of the executives indicated that they would like to improve their physical condition over the next five years."

"Many people with demanding careers are recognizing the need for strengthening, not only for appearances' sake, but to improve their overall health and mental outlook, reduce stress and increase personal productivity," says Mr. Bostic.

In The Strength Connection — How to Build Strength and Improve the Quality of Life, Kenneth Cooper, M.D., M.P.H., chairman and founder of the Institute for Aerobics Research in Dallas, Texas, writes, "we think there's a definite connection between adequate muscle strength and endurance, and quality of life."

With just six basic exercises, which can be done in 10 to 20 minutes on the Executive Power Chair, men can exercise all of the major muscles in the chest, shoulders, arms, back and abdomen. Performed three days a week, a basic workout on the Executive Power Chair can effectively build muscle and bone mass, tone a flabby abdomen, restore energy and relieve stress.

The Executive Power Chair is designed like an executive chair, with rich upholstery, an ergonomically designed, posturally correct seat, a swivel and tilt five-star base, rollers, height adjustment and comfortable resting arms. The strengthening device, which consists of a pair of articulating exercise arms and a set of pulleys, can be folded away behind the chair when it's not being used. The pulleys attach to cables, which connect to the resistance housing located beneath the chair. The resistance is isokinetic, meaning the chair's pulleys respond to the speed of motion put into them. If someone pulls on the pulley cords gently, he'll get a light resistance.

Pulled with greater force, he'll encounter a more challenging resistance.

In recent years, much has been written about the stress of working wives who have to juggle homemaking and parenting responsibilities with their jobs. But what about men who do the same? According to one report published in The Newsletter of The American Institute of Stress, "Many men are learning that being a good parent and having a demanding career are often mutually exclusive." In a survey of 1,600 employees, almost as many fathers as mothers — 36 percent versus 37 percent — reported feeling a "lot of stress" in balancing their work and family lives.

"As a father with two small children, I'm very familiar with the angst of trying to divide fair shares of my time between work and home," says Mr. Bostic. "An hour or two spent at the health club means I have that much less time to be at the two places I'm needed most. That's why the Executive Power Chair is so convenient — I can get a quick, effective strength training workout right at my desk. Stress melts away, leaving me refreshed, more focused, and better prepared to take on the challenges of a hectic workday," he continues.

The Executive Power Chair is available in three upholstery fabrics. The leather-like black NorTex™ model and the cashmere-like nylon fabric model sell for $999. The deluxe leather Executive Power Chair, which sells for $1,199, includes an adjustable lumbar support system for alleviating the back pain and discomfort commonly associated with sitting behind a desk all day.

The Executive Power Chair, as well as the full in-home line of Nordic Fitness Chairs, comes with a 30-day trial period and two-year limited warranty. They can be shipped anywhere throughout the United States and the world.

NordicTrack, a CML company, sells a full range of in-home, institutional and therapeutic equipment through direct marketing and a toll-free number: 1-(800)-848-7786, extension 819. MA912724

A UNIQUE STRENGTHENING DEVICE is combined with a handsome office chair in the Executive Power Chair, by NordicTrack, for the busy male executive who's concerned with staying in shape, but lacks the time to work out.

Car maintenance now made easy for the man on the go

Are you besieged by ringing phones, demanding bosses, pressing deadlines? Do weekends seem to fly by? Wish you had more time to relax and really enjoy yourself?

With the costs of living on the rise, it is more important than ever to save money through regular do-it-yourself auto maintenance. At the same time, however, our schedules keep getting busier, leaving us feeling like we never have the time for what we really want to do.

"Men expect maximum performance from their vehicles but don't want the hassle of repetitive maintenance jobs that are irritating but, if neglected, can cause safety problems," says Chip Fichtner, chairman of the board of Lifetime Automotive Products in Dallas, Texas. "While I sometimes love to work under the hood, reducing petty maintenance chores gives me more spare time for leisure activities, traveling or spending quality time with family and friends."

Fichtner offers five tips to reduce vehicle maintenance problems:

- Replace your ordinary rubber blades with synthetic wipers, which provide superior visibility and don't need to be replaced every six months.
- Add a concentrated windshield wash fluid booster to your washer fluid reservoir. Plain water does not have the detergents necessary to break down sludge and debris, and the typical blue fluids lack the detergent power to combat smog and chemical buildup.

• Use a petroleum-based fuel additive to improve engine performance, reduce carbon buildup and dissolve sludge and varnish. You'll not only reduce time spent at the auto repair shop, but also reduce time and money spent filling up the gas tank.

• Protect your fuel supply — from vandals who siphon gas, and neighborhood kids who insert toys and other items — with a locking gas cap.

• Replace worn and faulty lifts on trunks, hatchbacks and tailgates with install-it-yourself lift savers, a much cheaper and just as permanent alternative to those installed at repair shops.

According to Fichtner, who is an antique and classic car buff, there are quality automotive products on the market that are relatively trouble-free and last longer than other brands, thereby costing less in the long run. For a free brochure on automotive products that make life easier — and make great gift items, too — call 1-(800) 552-5327 or write Lifetime Automotive Products, Inc., Dept. PR-1, P.O. A tailored new classic

FRAGRANCES FOR MEN have never been as numerous, as exotic or as varied as they are today. And yet, for the man who still prefers a traditional, uncomplicated scent, the choice becomes more limited. With this in mind, Crabtree & Evelyn introduced in June a tailored new classic: Sienna. A subtle but diffusive fragrance, Sienna was created by an outstanding international perfumer. Distinguished by warm and woody notes from the Far East, the top note is composed of citrus, bergamot and other green notes while basil, rosemary and marjoram add the pungency of aromatic herbs. To complement the cologne, Crabtree & Evelyn offers a shave cream in a pot or tube, after-shave and a soothing after-shave balm — all with the distinctive Sienna fragrance. Also available — and unique — is a glistening black soap, enriched with glycerine, that produces copious white lather. MA912853

A farmer's daughter shares her family's cooking secrets

Green fields, blue skies and apple pies cooling on the window sill — the farm has always been the symbol for bounty, sustenance, family and community. In Food from an American Farm (Simon & Schuster, $24.95) Janice Sarlin, a New York City caterer, reveals three generations of family recipes that were passed down to her while growing up on a Southern Minnesota dairy. Fun and full of life, Sarlin reminisces about everyone on her family tree (and some who aren't) sharing memories and, most importantly, recipes from the farm — country fried chicken, corn fritters, real strawberry shortcake and homemade jams.

Food from an American Farm is comfort food. Each recipe brings back warm memories of a slower-paced, family-centered era, focusing on the hard-working hearty-eating life of a farm family — from breakfast to dinner to supper, with two lunches in between! Lunch was a "little something to tide you over" till the mid-day meal (dinner) or the evening meal (supper). At every meal the family was together, sharing food and events of the day.

Sarlin's roots give her a great perspective on the changing roles of women and the shifts in responsibilities in multi-generational families on the farm and the history of farm life. With authentic, cherished recipes from her family's collection — catering to today's nostalgic mood — Sarlin brings old-fashioned home cooking back into the kitchen.

Food from an American Farm combines the homespun wisdom of three generations with mouth-watering food that celebrates the earth's bounty. From hearty "Early Bird Breakfasts" and scrumptious treats "From the Red Cookie Tin in the Pantry" to savory clean-your-plate dinners, Sarlin has adapted classic recipes for today's busy home cook.

Ample offerings from the vegetable garden are treated to delicious, yet simple, variations in preparation and serving. "A Collection of Heirloom Cakes" provides the family's contributions to "an edible art form," and a means of personal expression and creativity in recipes passed down from generation to generation.

Charming vintage photographs from Sarlin's family archives sprinkled throughout the text accompany delightful anecdotes and childhood reminiscences of life on the farm. "Life on our farm was romantic, humorous, and full of adventure," says Sarlin. "We shared sadness and happiness with our friends, family, and neighbors, and everyone worked very hard." Food from an American Farm is a joyous celebration of that life.

The recipe reproduced below will satisfy your family's hearty appetites.

- RIBS
- 2 racks of pork ribs (about 6 pounds of meaty ribs and bones)
 - 1/2 cup flour
 - 1 teaspoon celery salt
 - 1 teaspoon black pepper, freshly ground
 - 1 teaspoon paprika
 - 1 clove garlic, minced
- SAUERKRAUT MIXTURE
- 2 tablespoons butter
 - 3 medium onions, peeled and chopped
 - 2 carrots, peeled and chopped
 - 2 stalks celery, chopped
 - 1 green apple, peeled and chopped
 - 1 quart sauerkraut, undrained
 - 1 teaspoon black pepper, freshly ground
 - 1 teaspoon caraway seeds
 - 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- POTATOES
- 7 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
- HOT MUSTARD SAUCE
- 1/2 cup whole-grain mustard
 - 1/2 cup Dijon-style mustard
 - 1 tablespoon dry mustard
 - Few drops olive oil

To make ribs: Preheat oven to 375°. Cut bones into small portions. Mix flour, celery salt, pepper, paprika, and garlic together in plastic bag.

Working in batches, shake ribs in flour mixture, until well coated. Place on rack inside large roasting pan and bake uncovered until brown and crisp, approximately 1 1/2 hours.

To make sauerkraut mixture: While ribs roast, melt butter in heavy casserole and saute onions until soft and translucent. Add carrots and celery and saute 3 to 4 minutes longer.

Add sauerkraut; cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer 15 to 20 minutes. Season with pepper, caraway seeds, and sugar; taste and correct seasonings. Set aside off heat until meat is brown. This can be done ahead.

When browned, ribs should be added to sauerkraut mixture. Or, if desired, remove meat from bones, discard bones, and add meat to sauerkraut.

To cook potatoes: Place potatoes in and around sauerkraut and meat mixture. Add water (1/2 to 1 cup) if necessary to keep moist; cover and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, partially covered, 20 to 25 minutes or until potatoes are cooked.

To make mustard sauce: Mix mustards together, adding a few drops of oil for proper consistency if necessary. Spoon small portion on top of whole affair or pass in bowl. Serves 6. PA9/3328

Microwave Magic

As at least 80 percent of hectic American householders know, microwave ovens can be great when it comes to preparing foods quickly. Plus, microwaving may be much healthier than frying or barbecuing, according to the latest medical reports. Yet microwaved meat, poultry or seafood often emerges dry, tough and lacking in eye appeal.

Happily, local stores now have new products that can make microwaved meats much more delicious and are economical to use.

One of these, called Micro Shake, is a unique blend of flavorful ingredients—flours, starches, spices—that busy cooks can use to microwave fresh meats so they have all the taste and appearance of traditional cooking methods. Developed by Golden Dipt Company and Micro-wave Foods Inc., Micro Shake seasons food and seals in juices, browns and tenderizes so meats will not dry or toughen. Plus, it helps food cook more evenly.

Start with fresh or totally defrosted meat, poultry or fish. Then, moisten the meat with water, wine or other liquids. Shake on Micro Shake so it covers all surfaces. Piercing the meat (except burgers) deeply with a fork flavors it all the way through. For even more flavor, shake on additional Micro Shake halfway through the cooking process and rotate meat. Be sure to use a covered microwaveable dish.

Micro Shake's Char-Broil flavor turns a microwave into a smokeless grill for burgers, steaks and pork, lamb or veal chops. For snacks or buffet dishes that would otherwise take a lot of time and effort, the Hot 'n' Spicy flavor results in tasty chicken wings and shrimp after just minutes in the microwave.

Look for Micro Shake in the meat department of local groceries and supermarkets.

A simple solution for the busy baker

Hosting a Sunday-morning brunch or a late-afternoon tea? Friends dropping in unexpectedly at the last minute? Simplify your baking preparation and serve your guests a delicious, piping-hot Zucchini Walnut Bread, Finnish Barley Bread, or one of the other delicious loaves in Quick Breads: 65 Recipes for Bakers in a Hurry (Clarkson N. Potter), by Beatrice A. Ojakangas, one of the nation's most renowned bakers and an authority on Scandinavian cooking.

Quick breads, unlike yeast breads, do not require kneading or rising, and most take only minutes to prepare. Assemble the dry and liquid ingredients separately ahead of time, mix together, bake about 50 minutes prior to serving, and watch the bread disappear shortly after it is removed from the oven. Some of the quick breads can be prepared a day or two ahead of time and served toasted with Apricot Cream Cheese Spread, Whipped Spiced Amaretto Butter or any one of the delicious spreads featured in Quick Breads.

In Quick Breads there are recipes for moist and flavorful tea breads such as Coconut Strawberry Tea Bread, Cinnamon Pear Tea Bread, and Cheddar Apple Bread. The fruit and nut lover will devour the hearty dark and rich breads, such as Carrot Walnut Bread, Granola Chocolate Cherry Bread, and Bishop's Bread, to name a few. Hungry for a satisfying snack or looking for an accompaniment to a meal? Try a savory quick bread such as Herbed Irish Soda Bread or Australian Damper. There are also chapters on holiday and ethnic cakes, old-fashioned coffee cakes and corn sticks, rolls, and breads.

Imagine the delectable aroma of freshly baked bread filling your home, enticing family and friends to gather in the kitchen for a taste of your delicious homemade confections. If the thought of time-consuming kneading and numerous risings has reduced such moments to memories in your home, Quick Breads may be the solution. Quick breads make wonderful house warming and holiday gifts and will bring variety to any pot luck dinner or bake sale. This enticing collection of recipes will enable even the busiest cook to make tempting sweet and savory breads on a moment's notice.

CARROT WALNUT BREAD

- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups finely shredded fresh carrots
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1 egg

Preheat the oven to 350° F. Grease and flour one 9 1/2 x 5 1/2-inch loaf pan or three 5 1/4 x 3 1/2-inch loaf pans.

In a large mixing bowl, combine the flour, nuts, sugars, baking powder, cinnamon, and salt until well blended. Stir in the remaining ingredients just until moistened. Spoon into pan or pans. Bake 50 to 60 minutes for a large loaf, 35 to 45 minutes for small loaves, or until they test done. Cool in the pan for 10 minutes, then turn out onto a rack to finish cooling.

Makes one large or three small loaves.

HERBED IRISH SODA BREAD

- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon dried or fresh thyme
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 egg

Preheat the oven to 375° F. Grease an 8-inch round cake pan or pie pan. In a large bowl, stir together the flour, salt, baking powder, soda, sugar, and thyme. With a fork or pastry blender, cut the butter into the dry ingredients until crumbly. In a small bowl, mix the egg and buttermilk, then stir into the dry ingredients. Turn out onto a lightly floured board and knead until smooth, 2 to 3 minutes. Shape into a smooth round loaf. Press into the prepared baking pan. With a sharp knife, cut a long X on top of the loaf. Bake 35 to 40 minutes, or just until golden. Makes one 8-inch round loaf. P69/9788

BUSINESS REVIEW

City Finance — Still here and going strong!

"For those sudden, unexpected cash shortages, we fill a real community need," says Debbie Reese, manager of City Finance, 206 1/2 Main Street.

Money to pay bills, take a vacation, pay for car repairs, buy new school clothes — even to pay for college books and tuition — are among the reasons people turn to City Finance, she says.

"We've had record months recently," Debbie says. "We've been sending out mailings and doing a lot of phoning to let people know we want their business."

The loan limit has recently been raised by the State of Texas to $360, Debbie says. All that is required is for the customer to fill out an application, have a permanent income and pass credit approval.

The business is state regulated, with the state setting the interest rate and payment schedule, and the state specifies that the borrower must have the means to pay back the loan. State auditors check the firm's books annually.

Another important use of a small loan is to establish credit. For example, a customer will bring in a son or daughter or friend. The borrower then makes regular payments and thus establishes a credit rating. Debbie and her associate, Pat Cypert, try to provide a friendly, comfortable atmosphere that puts customers at their ease. To improve services to customers, City Finance is continuously refurbishing, and has recently added new customer service counter and newly furnished waiting area.

City Finance has been in business in Big Spring more than 30 years. Debbie has been with the firm 12 years, with Pat on the staff, 7 years.

Doing business in the downtown area, both Pat and Debbie are supporters of the

Kid's Casting Contest During National Fishing Week

During National Fishing Week, June 3 - 9, 1991, more than 180,000 youngsters ages 6 to 16 can try their casting skill at the Zebco/Field & Stream Jr. Casting Contest, a nationwide event held in conjunction with the Kids All-American Fishing Derby program. Nearly 20,000 volunteers help execute the derbies on the local level. At the casting contest, each youngster can step up and cast with a Zebco reel and rod to hit a target. Winners receive a reel and rod combo.

Since the beginning of the program, more than 500,000 young anglers have had the opportunity to fish and test their casting skills. For complete information, write Hooked on Fishing International, P.O. Box 691200, Tulsa, OK, 74169-1200.

Moss Green Colored Fishing Line Introduced

Tournament pros are finding a new moss green colored fishing line exceptional for use in stained or tannic acid waters found in many parts of the U.S.

The new color has been added to the already popular "Magnathin" small diameter line made by Du Pont. "It disappears underwater so the fish can't see it," said tournament fishing pro Shaw Grigsby. Adds Denny Brauer, another popular pro, "I think the moss green used in cover has been a big benefit to fishermen, much like the Crystal Clear 'Magnathin' is for clear open waters." The new Moss Green "Magnathin" is available from 4 to 30 lb. test.

REFLECTING BEAUTY AND LOVE OF NATURE, The Hummingbird, 6" x 12" two-tile set is inspired by designs from the late 1800s.

Add elegance with tiles

For well over two thousand years, people have been using decorative tiles to embellish their homes. And today, the beauty of classic designs has returned to make tiles more colorful and enduring than ever before.

The popularity of tiles lies in their ability to transform the most ordinary room into something extraordinary, to enliven the dull surface with color, pattern and texture," says Paula Cornelison, vice president of Fourth Bay, a manufacturer of elegant, historical reproduction tiles called "Influences."

"Research through a broad spectrum of historic decorative arts material — textiles, furniture, ceramics, library archives, museum and historic installation — provides the influence for our designers," says Cornelison. "By embracing the best qualities of our discoveries, we develop tile designs for today's interiors."

Designs range from flowers, birds and landscapes to classical myths, geometric shapes and Anglo-Japanese influences. Decorators have a variety of options, all of which can be mixed and matched with each other or with Fourth Bay's border and solid color tiles to create a look that's unique.

With such a tremendous selection from which to choose, how do you decide which colors, textures, sizes and shapes are best suited to your decorating needs? Cornelison offers these tips:

• First, ask yourself what you want to accomplish through the use of tiles. Do you want an arrangement of tiles to become the focal point for a room, or to serve as backdrop to your furniture and furnishings? Do you want them to highlight an interesting architectural detail, or to disguise an imperfection?

• Second, think about what effect you want the tiles to have on your overall decor. If your interior design falls within a particular style, you may want the tiles to reflect that theme — or you may want to create contrast by adding, for instance, a classical touch to a mostly modern look.

When choosing tiles with which to decorate, there are five basic elements to consider: color, pattern, size, shape, and texture. Most of these elements are abundant within the "Influence" range of tiles from Fourth Bay, now on the market.

Crafted to recreate the elegance of the original 19th century designs, each Fourth Bay tile is faithfully hand-finished, using up to 18 colors and exquisite glazes. Produced to the historical standards — six inches square — they can be used with stunning effect in entryways, bathrooms, kitchens, or as hearth tiles.

"There is no question that tiles are among the most versatile decorating elements available to homeowners today," Cornelison concludes. "So whether your goal is to create an overall atmosphere for a room, or simply to add a functional, fashionable touch to kitchen or bath, the answer can almost always be found in tiles."

For a free tile catalog, or the name of your local distributor, contact Fourth Bay, Box 287M, Garrettsville, OH 44231 or call (216) 527-4343.

Old typewriters now worth $1000s

Remember the clackety-clack of your old fashioned manual typewriter? If you still have it in the hall closet, take a closer look. It could be worth hundreds, even thousands of dollars.

Today, electronic typewriters have nearly driven manual machines off the market. Darryl Rehr of the Early Typewriter Collectors Association, says, "Not many people know about it yet, but old typewriters are now becoming hot collector's items, because modern technology has suddenly made them obsolete."

Rehr is a nationally-published writer who specializes in typewriter history. He says, "The key dates are 1873 to 1920. That's when American factories were churning out all sorts of weird typewriters. The stranger they are, the more valuable they could be."

Any old typewriter from that time period is worth investigating. The values of common Royals, Underwoods and L.C. Smiths are minimal, but Rehr says hundreds of other models are worth $250 and up, and some rare ones sell for $1000 to $3000.

Among machines worth $1000 is the world's first typewriter. It was called the "Sholes & Glidden," made by Remington in 1874. This great American invention revolutionized the way we write, and many may still be found. In fact, thousands of other valuable typewriters are thought to be hidden in America's attics and basements.

If you'd like to sell an old machine, or start a collection, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Early Typewriter Collectors Association, 11433 Rochester Ave. #303, Los Angeles, CA 90025. Include a description of your machine and, if possible, a photo.

1874 SHOLES & GLIDDEN Typewriter, worth $1000 today.

Skin care tips for active people

Almost everyone knows that regular exercise is beneficial — both physically and mentally. And, increased activity — indoors or out — results not only in a fit body, but also a healthy sweat.

Sweating serves an important function because it helps the body maintain a constant temperature. However, perspiration increases bacterial growth on the skin's surface and when sweat and bacteria interact, body odor can result. Using a deodorant soap helps to keep skin clean and reduce body odor.

"We tend to bathe or shower more frequently when we increase physical activity, which can deplete the natural moisture of the skin," according to Michael Saruk, M.D., Department of Dermatology of the Mount Sinai School of Medicine, New York, and Paoli Memorial Hospital, Pennsylvania.

Dr. Saruk recommends a deodorant soap like Lever 2000, "because it's mild enough for the whole family and combines skin care ingredients with deodorancy."

To maintain healthy skin along with your healthy body, Dr. Saruk suggests that you:

- Avoid direct sunlight, especially during the hours of 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Use sunscreen protection when in the sun.
- Wash with a mild soap like Lever 2000 for deodorant protection, since it has special skin care ingredients.
- Drink six to eight glasses of water per day to help replenish lost fluids.
- Maintain a balanced diet; eat three to four daily servings of fresh fruits and vegetables.

The role of exercise

Exercise is a vital part of any skin care regimen. It promotes good circulation and increases the flow of blood and oxygen to the skin to give it a healthy, vibrant glow.

For a free booklet on exercise and skin care tips, send a stamped self-addressed envelope to "Lever 2000 Tips for Active Lifestyles," 450 Park Avenue South, Dept. M, New York, NY 10016.
