Weekend rainfall heavy, but no benefit to farmers

By GARY SHANKS Staff Writer

Weekend rainfall was of no benefit to area farmers, and the wind and hail could easily have been damaging, said J. D. Bilbro of the U.S. Agricultural Research Station north of the city. "Anytime you get rain on open bolls it decreases the quality of the cotton," said Bilbro.

Rainfall totals for the weekend ranged from 3-3.6 inches around the city. Saturday's hail storm was comprised mostly of marble-sized hail, but some areas reported hailstones as large as golf balls (2.25 inches), according to a National Weather Service official.

"This is the first measurable rainfall we've had in over a month," said Tommy Hart of Big

According to Hart's records, the last appreciable rainfall was on Sept. 19-20 when about an inch and a half of rain fell.

Some areas received only the less damaging pea-sized hail. "We have not had any significant hail damage," said Bilbro. "We did have some loss of seed cotton due to wind damage.'

Bilbro said the rains were not welcomed by area cotton farmers, as it delays the maturation of the bolls. In some areas the bolls are only 20 to 30 percent matured; 90 percent maturation is what farmers would like to see before the first freeze kills the plants.

State lags in handling abuse cases

HOUSTON (AP) — Child Protective Services was unable to help nearly 65 percent of the Texas children in confirmed abuse and neglect situations last year and state caseworkers say they're not expecting better results this year, a Houston newspaper reported.

"It's hard to look these people in the face and know that you don't have anything to offer them," one longtime Brazoria County caseworker told the Houston Chronicle in its Sunday editions.

In a five-month study of the state's CPS system, the newspaper found Texas children not only are at risk of being abused in their homes, but also neglected by an overburdened system with roughly 2,000 caseworkers statewide.

Of some 85,000 children in confirmed abuse or neglect environments in 1990, about 55,000 fell through the cracks, getting no help from the state agency charged with protecting them.

In many cases, the newspaper said, there is insufficient psychological counseling for children who have been beaten and raped, drug and alcohol treatment for parents with lifelong addictions, or foster homes for children who have been abandoned.

Thirty-five percent of the 112 Texas children who died last year as a result of abuse or neglect had case files with the CPS, state records show. Yet they remained in their family's care for lack of foster homes or social workers to handle their cases, the newspaper reported.

Caseworkers reported that even for children whose cases are investigated further, workers only visit the home and work with the family about once a month. Because caseloads are usually twice the recommended 12 to 15 per worker, caseworkers' visits do little more than ensure the children are still alive, workers told the Chronicle.

One former worker said she quit because she was increasingly "being put in a position I did not want to be in. I'd go to bed at night worrying about the one (child) that I just didn't have time to check on.

Older children, handicapped children, large sibling groups and children abused by a parent's livein lover are among those least likely to be removed from an abusive home or to receive services aimed at helping them cope with their trauma or repairing the family unit, the paper said.

In a Chronicle survey of 289 caseworkers, and in interviews with caseworkers, law enforcement officials, teachers, school nurses, physicians, child advocates and foster parents around the state and the nation, the newspaper found that:

 CPS moves children to and from an average of more than six shelters to circumvent a TDHS regulation preventing emergency shelters from keeping children older than 5 for more than 30 days without a waiver.

 Turnover at the agency is high, and caseworkers report serious problems because of inexperience and inadequate training.

"(Albert) had a strong calling to minister and I was studying to be a teacher. But the Lord just spoke to me one night and told me to go save souls for him. We stepped out in faith — we quit our jobs and rented our mobile home.

"It was rough at first, difficult, to go from management to working with people and youth and learning the process. But it's very fulfilling work — the Lord provides us with cheerful hearts to deal with everything," she said.

The corps provides food and clothing to area needy, as well as utility bill assistance whenever funds allow. Local churches give money to the corps for the aid and refer people to them, she said.

'When people come in looking for food and clothing they're sometimes looking for God and don't even know it. We're an extension of God's hand and they begin seeing God through us. Those we help consistently are building confidence that we're loving and caring people," she said.

The church offers Sunday worship in the chapel at 811 W. Fifth St. beginning with Sunday school at 9:30 a.m. The Holiness meeting begins at 11 a.m. There are also youth meetings, Bible study and ladies group meetings during the week. For more information call 267-8239 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Activists protest use of animals

HOUSTON (AP) — Animal rights activists dressed as gorillas or carrying placards protested the use of monkeys in medical research at a Houston firm which imports the animals from the Philippines and Indonesia.

"Lab animals live in hell," one sign read, while another asked, "Who are the real animals?'

About 25 activists chanted, 'Shame, shame, shame, shame" on Saturday as they pointed fingers at the Charles River Primate Imports facility, a nondescript building behind a barbed-wire-topped chain-link

Charles River Laboratories, which has headquarters in Massachusetts, is believed to be the world's largest importer of research monkeys, the Houston Chronicle reported Sunday. The firm imports macaque, green and rhesus monkeys to Houston.

The group of protesters, from the Houston Animal Rights Team, said the demonstration was in opposition to the importation of animals to Houston after stringent New York laws forced the firm to relocate.

HOUSTON(AP) - AHouston man who erroneously boasted about traveling to the Netherlands to see the tulips blooming remains jailed today on heroin smuggling charges.

Douglas Lee Mitchell, 41, a Houston mechanic, was arrested at Houston International Airport Saturday after U.S. Customs Service agents found 10 pounds of heroin concealed in two plastic envelope-type compartments on the sides of his suitcase, authorities said.

Four other suspects, all Nigerian nationals, also were arrested on conspiracy and conspiracy to possess heroin charges later Saturday at Mitchell's workshop. Federal officials said all four claimed to live in the Houston area.

HOUSTON (AP) — Texans may feel the biggest impact from the $8.3 billion superconducting super collider in their own pocketbooks as they repay bonds and shell out federal taxes to pay for the stateof-the-art atom smasher.

The Houston Post reported in a copyright story Sunday that a twomonth investigation of the project showed it may not bring the expected economic boom and scientific boon for the Ellis-area super

"The super collider may be the last hope for the U.S.A. to really do something in this field," said Dimitri Nanopoulos, a Texas A&M University researcher who has worked at European and American accelerators. "They'd better build a good machine.'

Some say the 54-mile underground, circular tunnel scheduled to begin construction next summer may never become a reality because of growing costs, political wavering and scientific skepticism.

The bonds will be repaid at $80 million a year — only an estimated $20 million is expected to be brought in by the collider. The remaining $60 million annually will cost every Texan at least $3.50 a year for the next three decades.

"I'm not really prepared to say it's a bad bond deal," said Lonnie Jones, who wrote a study that dealt with the collider's fiscal stability for the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission.

"Is it worth it to say that you have it, even though you didn't receive any direct monetary benefit from it? If this were a private business, yes, it's a bad deal. But the state can't always take that narrow of a view."

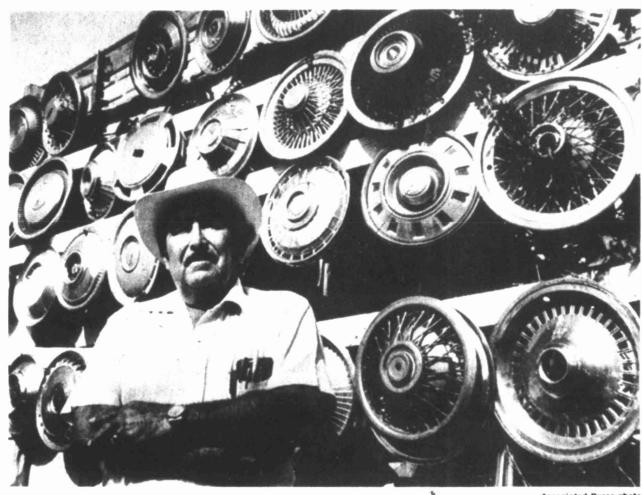

Politicians tend to tout the spinoff technologies that the exploration of the atom might produce. But some physicists who will analyze data from collider experiments say the project ought not be viewed as a potential industrial ter mousetrap," Glashow said.

"There's a lot of excitement in Texas about the super collider for reasons that I don't truly understand," scientist Sheldon Glashow said.

The Harvard physicist shared the 1979 Nobel Prize for identifying the link between electromagnetism and the "weak" force that causes some atoms to decay. He said the average person knows little about the science involved in the super collider project, while scientists aren't particularly interested in making a profit.

"Some people have a duty to understand the world they were born into. They feel called upon to pursue knowledge for its own sake; they're not doing this to build a bet-

A current outbreak has the South Texas veterinarian fearing a repeat rabies scare.

So far this year, 47 cases of rabies in animals and one case of rabies in a person have been reported across the state's southern region. "We're really very alarmed in and skunks - even one person all have been infected this year across South Texas. The 1976 Laredo epidemic pro-

'Teach' program provides relief for schools

HOUSTON (AP) — Jennifer Gray's language arts lessons have just started at Cornelius Elementary School and the room full of second-graders are jumping at the chance to answer questions.

Little arms reach for the sky, as the 7- and 8-year-olds try to get their teacher's attention. Some add a muffled "ooh, ooh," or pound a foot on the floor, hoping for an advantage. One youngster whispers something to a student next to him and the pair exchange words.

Gray quiets the din with a simple gesture, by standing silently and putting a finger to her lips. The questions get answered and the class moves quickly through its lessons, encouraged regularly by words of praise from their teacher.

Gray's classroom is so colorful and the class work so organized you might think Gray, 22, has been teaching for years.

She hasn't. She's barely been at it three months.

Gray comes to the Houston Independent School District through an innovative program called Teach for America, which some have likened to a relief corps for troubled inner-city and rural schools.

A May graduate of Cornell University with a degree in medieval and Renaissance history, Gray took Teach for America's intensive six weeks training session this summer, including five weeks worth of student teaching in some tough Los Angeles schools, and headed for Houston.

Gray, 22, said friends tried to convince her "I could do so much more," like going to graduate school or to law school. But she said, "Now I don't think there's anything more important I could be doing.

Oscar A. Ortiz, 22, said he realized by his senior year at the University of Illinois last spring that he had made a mistake in pursuing a

America teachers this year. Others are working the Rio Grande Valley. The program has grown from being an innovative idea of a Princeton University senior to a multimillion-dollar-a-year enterprise in three years.

Short on experience but long on desire, the new teachers have been welcomed by a district that has a hard time keeping all its teaching positions filled. While most had not planned on being teachers after graduation, they have given a commitment to remain in teaching for at least two years

"These are fabulous individuals, super kids," said Cornelius Principal Rhelda Ball. "What they lack in knowledge and training, they more than make up for in enthusiasm and willingness to HISD Superintendent Frank R.

Petruzielo said he would hire as many of the Teach for America participants as he could get.

"We have a tough time getting top quality people," he said. "I have not seen one (Teach for America graduate) yet who I would not want teaching my son.'

Houston Federation of Teachers President Gayle Fallon said the program has "a lot of potential." She said the Teach for America members "probably haven't had enough training but if they have ongoing support, it can be successful.

"This is my career. This is all I some of the knowledge that teachers with education degrees have, but she is convinced that much of what it takes to be a good teacher comes from "acquired learning. 'You need to be in the classroom

(to get it)," she said.

Peter Holtz, who received a degree in German literature from Bowdoin College in Maine this year before signing on with Teach for America, said education courses help prepare teachers for some classroom details but not necessarily how to manage the range of problems that students present

"Survival has more to do with the individual," he said.

Holtz, who is teaching reading at Edison Middle School, said he is still uncertain about how his lessons tie in with the required curriculum and how best to schedule his teaching activities through the semester, but he is pleased with the progress he sees in his classes.

'Two of the kids asked if they could go to the library rather than going to lunch," he said. "It's very challenging, but it's worth it."

The teachers have been enlisted in HISD's widely recognized alternative certification program, which allows individuals with noneducation backgrounds to be certified as teachers in a year. The director of that program,

Delia Stafford, said Teach for America members, like participants in alternative certification, will go to three-hour training courses every Monday night for 10 weeks. They also will be assigned a mentor teacher from the certified ranks to answer any questions that Stafford said the Teach for America training program, while different than that provided in her program, has been evaluated and approved by the Texas Education Agency. Several Houston teachers were involved in the Teach for America training institute and advised participants of curriculum requirements in Texas "I think they're doing very well," Stafford said of the new corps of teachers. "The principals I talk to have very positive things

Stafford said she is still trying to get all the Teach for America graduates in their own classroom. About 40 Teach for America graduates are teaching in ancillary positions like music and art or are teaching as part of a team because the number of teaching vacancies was lower than expected this year.

Stafford said those teachers would be moved into their own classrooms as vacancies arise, probably in three to five weeks.

PLO wants to freeze settlements

JERUSALEM (AP) - The opposition Labor Party today echoed Arab demands to freeze new Jewish settlements on occupied territory, but Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said doing so would weaken Israel's hand in this week's peace talks.

On Sunday, Yasser Arafat demanded that the settlements be dismantled and another PLO official said Arab leaders won't proceed past the talks' opening session unless Israel at least stops the building.

The statements come three days before Israel confronts its Arab enemies in Madrid, Spain, and strikes at the heart of what is probably the main conflict: who will control the lands Israel seized from the Arabs in 1967.

The question of Palestine Liberation Organization influence on the negotiations also continued to weigh heavily as sharpshooters and police took up spots around the 18th-century Royal Palace, where the talks

Swapping 'corn for porn'

Normally, you'd be hard pressed to find a link between federal funding of lewd art and grazing fees on government land, but with Congress all things are possible. In this instance, congressional negotiators struck a deal . . . to remo /e an anti-obscenity provision from arts funding in return for continued low fees for ranchers whose cattle feed at the federal trough.

The conferees' agreement means that a prohibition of federal funding for "patently offensive" sexual exhibits will be scrapped, even though more than two-thirds of the House and Senate members voted for it. Rep. William Dannemeyer, R.-Calif., described the congressional conferees' action as a "swap of corn for porn."

The congressman, who steered the arts funding provision through the House, said the agreement is an example of the "imperial arrogance of liberals in Congress." Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., who sponsored the House-approved provision to increase grazing fees more than fourfold, put the blame on the influence of a relatively few wealthy cattlemen upon Congress. "Grazing fees can buy anything," . . . Synar told The Associated Press.

The AP reports the agreement was reached by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., chairman of Senate Appropriations, and Rep. Sidney R. Yates, D-Ill., chairman of the Interior subcommittee of the House. Strange bedfellows perhaps, since . . . Yates supports the arts endowment and . . . Byrd voted in favor of Sen. Jesse Helms' sanctions.

But then, . . . Byrd also backs Western senators who oppose higher grazing fees for their wealthy constituents.

In any event, the grazing fees may be settled for another year — an increase was similarly scuttled last year in conference. . .

If . . . Dannemeyer is unable to gain another House vote on the proposal, both of these volatile concerns will have been successfully defused again in the proverbial smokefilled room. Truly a remarkable illustration of business as usual, perhaps better described in this case as "pork for porn.

The Post-Courier, Charleston, S.C.

Out of touch with reality

With all the recent talk in Washington about sexual harassment and the need for heightened awareness and stricter laws, one thing has been left unsaid: Laws on the subject do not apply to Congress.

Nor do other employment discrimination laws. Nor wage and hour laws. Nor Social Security laws.

It isn't that the matter simply slipped the minds of members of Congress.

The latest civil rights bill under debate in Congress would also exempt members of Congress and their staffs. So would the pending Family Leave Act, which is designed to guarantee employees unpaid time off from their jobs for circumstances such as childbirth or terminal Congress is quite willing to set workplace rules for others but reserves the right to do as it pleases when it comes to their own shop.

This is perfectly consistent with the pattern members of Congress have established in creating their own little world in which they are shielded from many of the common concerns, restraints and regulations their fellow citizens face.

Like bounced checks with no penalties, unpaid restaurant tabs and unparalleled benefits and perks, selfexemption from rules of the workplace makes if difficult if not impossible for members of Congress to understand the real-world problems faced by constituents.

It's time for this arrogant self-elevation to end. What's good for the rest of us should be good for Congress. The Meridian (Miss.) Star

It's too soon for euphoria

The peace conference in Madrid will deal merely with part of the Middle East.

Not on the agenda are the problems of the (Persian)

Gulf region, which earlier this year erupted in war. Pretty soon these problems will cause the additional death of tens of thousands of Iragis, not from warfare but from lack of food and medicine.

It is important to recognize this, not to belittle the achievements of U.S. Secretary of State James Baker, but to forestall any chance of an outbreak of euphoria, even if the problems between Israelis and Arabs are brought to an end.

The Middle East — with its overabundance of oil, dictatorships, religious fanaticism; its debauched "historical conscience" and its lack of human rights, democracy, general development and water — will remain a hot spot Trouw, Amsterdam, Netherlands

Government: Grand-nanny for us all

WASHINGTON — In a hundred varying situations, most of us have heard the same defensive objection: "It's not the money that counts. It's the principle of the thing." Nine times out of 10, it's the money

In the continuing debate over a parental leave bill, it truly is the principle that counts. Moreover, in this controversy principle is the only aspect worth debating, for the bill faces a certain veto and a veto would be sustained. But the principle is indeed important. It merits reflection.

By a voice vote on Oct. 2, the Senate passed the Dodd-Bond bill on family leave. The measure would not accomplish much of anything for employees, but it would not impose unbearable burdens on employers either. This is not a bad bill on its merits; it is a bad bill on principle.

Sen. Kit Bond of Missouri, a Republican, and Sen. Chris Dodd of Connecticut, a Democrat, have been working for years on a bipartisan bill. Their final version would require employers to grant up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave per year to employees meeting certain eligibility rules.

The bill is of limited application. It would not apply to companies having fewer than 50 employees. An estimated 95 percent of all employers thus would be exempted. The benefit would be available only to employees who had been on the payroll for at least 1,250 hours in the preceding year. An employer could refuse to grant leave to his key people.

The purpose of the unpaid leave is to permit the employee to nurture a newborn or adopted child, or to care for the serious illness of a member of the immediate family. In the nature of things, the secretary of labor would issue rules and regulations. A studycommission would measure costs and benefits. And so on.

Proponents staunchly defend the bill as a pro-family bill. The nuclear family is steadily disappearing. For lack of a loving family life, many youngsters go wrong. Boys turn to crime. Teenaged girls get pregnant. This bill would not strengthen every family, but 12 weeks of leave, said Dan Coats of Indiana, "would be a good start.

Proponents make other arguments. The General Accounting Office estimates that the typical cost to a covered employer would be no more than $5.30 per employee per year. At any given time, only one of every 275 workers likely would be on family leave. The benefit would boost individual morale and company esprit. Sen. Bob Packwood noted that Oregon has a state law mandating 12 weeks of unpaid parental leave; he said that 91 percent of affected employers in Oregon have had no difficulty with the

To these contentions, Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah and other opponents respond as follows: The Dodd-Bond bill is really a yuppie bill, for yuppies are the only ones who could afford to go three months without a paycheck. The bill would be meaningless for most workers. The cost estimates are largely conjectural, but the costs would be significant. An employer who is compelled to pay for family leave will have less available for other benefits. In some immeasurable degree, this added cost of doing business would make U.S. firms less competitive in world markets.

The big objection to the Dodd-Bond bill has nothing to do with economics. It has to do with power, and with the proper role of government. It has to do with should have a large degree of freedom. A free people should have abundant room to negotiate for themselves or to bargain through their unions. At the heart of this proposal is an ugly word: compulsion. The covered employers would be compelled to provide this fringe fringe-benefit whether their workers wanted it or not.

To be sure, the government has been imposing compulsory requirements on business for many years. Employers must obey wage and hour laws. They may not employ children. They must pay at least a minimum wage and maintain a safe workplace. Employers must deduct taxes; they must engage in collective bargaining. Companies must not conspire to restrain trade. The list is endless.

Parental leave is one more thing, but it is a different thing. Other laws mandate uniform benefits for everyone. The Dodd-Bond bill would benefit only a select few. In order to benefit these few, all must be penalized; and the role of government, as grand-nanny for us all, would be expanded. My own thought is that government is big enough now.

Grateful for prayers, calls, gifts, concern

We wanted to thank everyone for the many prayers, phone calls, gifts, and concern for our son, John Andrew who was bitten by a diamondback rattlesnake on September 16 on his middle finger. Thanks to the quick response to a frantic phone call, Deputy Woodie Howell got us to Scenic Mountain emergency room where they were waiting for our arrival. They performed what emergency service they could then flew him to children's hospital at the University Medical Center in Lubbock, where he spent six days. He underwent emergency surgery on Monday night to relieve pressure of the muscles of the arm, hand, and fingers. Otherwise he would have lost those.

Wednesday, he had another surgery on his hand and arm, finally they told us that he would regain 95 percent mobility in his hand. Today our son is doing great; we have a few more follow up visits to Lubbock and the scars to let heal. But as long as he is alive; with God's help we will come through this near fatal tragedy with more faith and thankful to God that he is alive.

To the editor:

Just a note for anyone wanting to help with the Neighbors Helping Neighbor Joe's Cancer Fund, being deposited at the Coahoma State Bank. It is hard enough being faced with or having this dreaded sickness, as some of us know, without facing the trials of debts and oncoming expenses. Maybe we can help ease the load by being a helpful neighbor. So anyone wanting to help, please go by the Coahoma State Bank.

We would like to thank the businesses, Lakeway Grocery, Gale's Cakes and Cookies Shop, all the people who baked, gave and donated and the radio stations for all the time they gave in supporting Joe's Cancer Bake and Garage Sale. Thanks again for your help.

HOW NEW YORK COULD PROFIT FROM

Halloween: Celebration of death

By BETTY JOHANSEN Copy Editor

I find it interesting that liberals revel in mocking and accusing conservatives of being oldfashioned, unprogressive, trying to drag civilization back to the dark ages: but along comes a long-standing principle the liberals like and we hear words like "tradition" and "when I was a kid.

A case in point is Halloween. Halloween used to be a time of school carnivals and candy collecting. No need to know the candygivers or anything about them. It was a blast! But that was before Charles Manson and Matamoros and razor blades in apples and dismembered animal remains scattered around the country. That was before the explosion of cults and the occult and before many of us understood what Halloween was really about

In her book "Like Lambs to the Slaughter," Johanna Michaelsen wrote that England decided to settle the question of witchcraft once and for all in 1951 by repealing the Witchcraft Act and declaring witches non-existent. The result was that "it helped open the door to an unprecedented resurgence of Witchcraft in the Western world." Whether the modern sophisticate believes in the spirits or forces or demons worshipped in witchcraft and satanism seems immaterial to me. The practitioners of those religions believe in them, and some, not all, are willing to participate in criminal activities to ingratiate themselves with their gods and to obtain more power. In their book "Demons, Witches, and the Occult," Josh McDowell and Don Stewart wrote, "The day witches celebrate above all others is Oct. 31 . . . It is believed that on this night Satan and his witches have their greatest power.

The origins of Halloween go back to 2,000 B.C., they said, when the Druids honored the lord of the dead. They believed that on this night, the spirits of the dead returned home to visit the living. The living were expected to provide food for the spirits, or else terrible things would happen to them, in other words treat or get

According to Michaelsen, Halloween is a time among witches for contacting the dead, but for the satanist it is one of the two most important days of the year to honor their god Satan — in many groups, with blood sacrifices. Some, perhaps most, are satisfied with animal sacrifices; but truly serious practitioners desiring to please their god and achieve more power are actually willing to offer human sacrifices.

In reporting on the Matamoros, Mexico, murders, People magazine, May 1, 1989, said the leader of the cult "told his followers that the spirit and the essence of the victims were absorbed by those who did the sacrifices, and the grisly killings were followed by prayers for strength, riches and protection from the police and physical harm.

Sean Sellers, a death row inmate in Oklahoma who killed his parents and helped kill a convenience store clerk, explained in 'Web of Darkness' that his group performed rituals but couldn't attain the results they wanted. They needed to prove their allegiance to Satan. They broke the Ten Commandments one by one until only one remained: murder.

They murdered the clerk in their search for power and Sellers grew more serious about satanism, he said, but he was unhappy. And he was bored. He went home one night, having been awake for three days on speed, determined to get some sleep. He studied, performed one of his rituals and went to bed. When he woke up, he was in prison and his parents were dead.

In our enlightened age, it's easy to write these people off; after all, many superior intellects know that anyone who believes in anything supernatural belongs in the nut house. Even if they were right, I would still understand and fully support those who refuse to participate in Halloween's celebration of death. And I find it pretty two-faced that the ACLU is attempting to remove every reference to God and the Bible from public life, but they never utter a peep about witches and goblins, ghosts and jacko-lanterns, and all the trappings of Halloween. Witchcraft is a legally recognized religion in the United States, so why are there no laws and no court cases concerning their holiday?

Of course, I know the answer. The ACLU seems to hate only Christians; no other religion is subject to their persecution. They have a lot of company. Satanists feel the same way.

Dear Abby

Feathers ruffle over town event

DEAR ABBY: I read in a recent column about the Midland (Texas) Community Spirit Award honoring American communities for distinguished caring service.

While it is fitting that truly good people should be honored, may I suggest a different award for the community that most shames America by its total lack of decency and humaneness. I nominate Hegins, Pa.

Every Labor Day, this little town invites its citizens to a family outing that features a live pigeon shoot.

As the pigeons (which have been confined in small boxes) are released, and the disoriented birds attempt to achieve flight, they are shot down by the town's "sportsmen." The birds that are not killed instantly - but merely wounded - then have their necks twisted and broken by young boys trained for this occasion.

Their slogan this year was "Shoot pigeons - not drugs!" (As though the only sensible alternative to shooting drugs is shooting pigeons.)

Let's hope public awareness and outrage at this unbelievable cruelty will finally bring an end to this "sport," which the Pennsylvania legislature has refused to stop. - ASHAMED IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR ASHAMED: I hope so, too, but don't bet on it. In 1986, I wrote to then-Gov. Dick Thornburgh (who was until recently U.S. attorney general), asking him to please put an end to this shameful sport. He shot me down with a courteous letter defending the live pigeon shoot as a time-honored tradition.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 35 years. We are both over 60 and have a good marriage, except for one thing -he is much more interested in sex than I am. When I turn him down, he gets upset and accuses me of not loving him. Abby, I do love him, and this is the only thing we disagree about.

I would like to know more about saltpeter. I know it can be purchased in a drugstore, but does a person have to have a prescription to buy it? Does it have any side effects other than the one wanted? Also, can it be slipped into food or drink without detection?

I would appreciate a speedy reply. — TIRED IN UTAH

DEAR TIRED: I consulted my friendly neighborhood pharmacist, Dave Powells. He said, "Saltpeter, also know as 'potassium nitrate,' can be purchased over the counter without a prescription, but it should not be slipped into food or drink because it can cause violent gastroenteritis. It could raise one's blood pressure to a dangerous level. Also, prolonged exposure to saltpeter may produce anemia, nephritis (kidney disease) or methemoglobinemia (blood disorder). A cold shower might cool the husband's ardor."

DEAR ABBY: For the grandma who loaned her grandson $500 and is having a hard time collecting any part of it: Write him a note at Christmastime and say, "In lieu of a Christmas gift, I am subtracting $100 from the $500 you owe." It works for me. - N.M. IN PALM SPR-INGS, FLA.

Versatile artist going strong at 70

By MARTHA E. FLORES Staff Writer

Nadine Blair is living proof that it is never too late to pick up a brush and start painting.

"I always had the desire to paint, but didn't have the opportunity to express my artistic talents," Blair said.

Blair, who is in her 70s, is an individual who expresses herself with the stroke of a paint brush. She began to paint 35 years ago when she could no longer hold back the muse. "It was always inside of me," she said. "But I did not know how to allow myself to paint until I was an adult. I grew up in West Texas about 90 miles away from Big Spring, and there was nobody to teach me about art. My mother had a gift but did not have the time to devote to teaching me. She had a family to take care of." After Blair's children were grown she began to take her interest more seriously. After receiving a set of brushes and canvasses from her daughter one Christmas, she then began to paint regularly and take art classes. She studied under Paul Milosevich, who has been featured in Southwest Art, and LaWanda Callton, a well-known New Mexico artist.

Blair's late start has only served to give her artistic yearning momentum.

"I usually paint every day," she said. "I do my oils upstairs and my watercolors downstairs. I have my work throughout the house.

One of Blair's prized pieces is a watercolor abstract titled "Carnival Night." The array of colors washed on the canvass exude the life found at a carnival. The highs and lows of the bold blue strokes depict the adventures found plummeting downward on a roller

The ligher colors illustrate the lights and laughter at a carnival. Blair has won more than 100 ribbons with her works in her career. Her philosophy on painting and art is one of acceptance and liberties.

Retirement investments should reflect caution vestments made in younger years. investemnt strategies for retirement years should emphasize capital preservation, some inflation protection, and cash flow from income-generating investments.

Your tolerance for risk should decrease, and your portfolio's holding of growth stocks should be switched to income-producing stocks. More of your portfolio should be devoted to quality fixedincome securities. A money market fund can provide liquidity and serve as an emergency fund.

Too many older investors concentrate on getting the highest yield possible, but "reaching for yield" can be dangerous, as holders of junk bonds have learned in the last two years. Quality should be of utmost importance, even if this parameter results in less interest income.

U.S. Treasury and government mortgage pass-through securities provide both quality and respectable yields. Treasury notes with 10-year maturities often provide comparable yields to longer-term Treasury issues and offer less price volatility.

But older investors often lean so far in the direction of safety, through fixed-income investments, that they ignore the effects of inflation on their principal. Yet, at age 65, life expectancy stands at about 20 years. At 5 percent inflation over source of monthly income.

DENVER (AP) - Unlike in- 20 years, almost two-thirds of a sum's original value, in terms of purchasing power, is lost

> To combat this, consider investing up to 50 percent of your holdings in blue chip and income stocks to provide growth and income - dividend increases are an important way of keeping up with inflation. You should also consider investing in stocks by using mutual funds, such as growth and income, equity income, and utility sector mutual funds.

Note, too, that all fixed-income investments are not alike. For instance, mortgage pass-throughs provide monthly payments, but those payments consist of interest and principal. More than one investor has been shocked to find, at the end of the investment's life, that he or she already has received and perhaps spent — some or all of the principal.

In retirement, investments must start to deliver a monthly cash flow. Mutual funds allow for systematic monthly withdrawals while the remainder continues to work for the investor. Additionally, these years are the right time to start distributions from annuities and qualified retirement plans. For instance, you may wish to convert a cash-value life insurance policy to an annuity to gain yet another

Commissioners support prison construction

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A resolution supporting passage of prison construction bonds on the Nov. 5 state ballot was unanimously approved this morning by Howard County Commissioners.

Proposition 4, if passed, will authorize $1.1 billion in bonds to construct 25,300 prison and drug rehabilitation beds. It is one of 13 proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot. Early voting is underway and will continue through Friday at county courthouses. Prison overcrowding has caused

"Proposition 4 on the constitutional election ballot Nov. 5 is the most critical amendment to the the early release of violent Texas Constitution voters have faccriminals. Studies show 85 percent ed in many years," states a letter by Lyon that was sent to counties across the state.

Howard County voters have an additional interest in the proposition. If passed, local economic development leaders plan to put in a bid for construction of a 1,000-bed prison, which would create 300 jobs, or a 2,250-bed prison, which would create 800 jobs.

Voter turnout is expected to be low, as evidenced by the low turnout after more than a week of early voting, said County Clerk Margaret Ray. As of this morning, 357 ballots, 2 percent of the 15,377 registered voters in Howard County, were cast.

"It's going to be low," Ray predicted of the final turnout.

Commissioners this morning also approved paying $450 to the County Judges & Commissioners Association of Texas as Howard County's share of the association's efforts to settle a prison overcrowding lawsuit filed in federal court against the state by urban counties

The suit resulted in House Bill 93. which will distribute $158 million to counties across the state in the next two years as payment for housing state prisoners. Howard County would receive $30,000 to $65,000 annually, according to estimates from the sheriff's department.

Civil rights bill is result of long fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief sponsor of a civil rights bill awaiting Senate action this week says the measure is the product of a draining two-year fight that left all sides eager "to wrap it up."

The Clarence Thomas hearings on sexual harassment also may have prodded lawmakers and the Bush administration to reach a compromise, Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press."

"I do think that with the Clarence Thomas matter and particularly with the women's groups . . . that did give some added impetus toward the end," he said.

"But, mainly, I think that everybody got kind of tired of this thing and it had been hanging on now for two years, and people wanted to wrap it up," he added.

Bush reached an agreement with Senate Democrats last Thursday on the bill to protect workers against discrimination and sexual harassment on the job. Floor debate was to resume this after- years in the Senate.

noon on the compromise.

"I don't think that it was some sort of plot regarding civil rights," Danforth said. "I think principally what held it up was a real concern about the litigation explosion in America and how to control it."

"There are people in both parties who wanted to make the race issue or the gender issue a political issue," said Danforth, adding that Bush was not among them.

The president "was very strong in wanting a civil rights bill, and I think he finally dutch-uncled the lawyers," Danforth said. "I think that the president does not want race to be a political issue.'

Asked if he had any regrets over the way Thomas' accuser, Anita Hill, was treated, Danforth said: "Absolutely none. I think that the whole thing was an outrage. I think that her story does not ring true." He said the airing of the allegations against Thomas was "the greatest outrage" he had seen in 15

Labonte wins Busch National

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) Bobby Labonte's season, which began in flames, ended on a considerably more positive note.

"It's been a tough year. We fought back the whole way, and I'm just glad it's over,'' Labonte said Sunday after capturing NASCAR's 1991 Busch

Grand National championship. To appreciate his drive to the title, one need only recall the picture of Labonte climbing out of his mangled, burning Oldsmobile at the first of the series' 31 races. Four times Kenny Wallace took the points lead, and four times Labonte answered by taking it back.

The younger brother of 1984 Winston Cup champion Terry Labonte went ahead to stay two weeks ago.

Wallace cut his deficit from 42 points to 19 last week, but in Sunday's 200-lap season finale, the Winston Classic at Martinsville Speedway, he ran out

Edberg still tops in indoor tennis

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Stefan Edberg is still No. 1 in the world, but when it comes to indoor tennis, nobody beats Boris Becker.

Becker ran his won-lost record indoors since 1987 to 111-13 in the Stockholm Open Sunday, capping a magnificent week with a five-set triumph over Edberg in the final.

"But I don't consider myself as a better tennis player than Stefan," Becker said after winning the first meeting between the world's two top-ranked players in a year, 3-6, 6-4, 1-6,

Twins World Series champions

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - After all the twists, turns and tension, the closest of World Series ended in the closest of games.

The Minnesota Twins and Jack Morris squeezed past Atlanta 1-0 on pinch-hitter Gene Larkin's single in the bottom of the 10th inning Sunday night to win Game 7 and end baseball's most dramatic odyssey.

Never before had three Series games gone into extra innings, and the Braves and Twins saved the best for last, matching zero for zero, pressure pitch for pitch, even turning back bases-loaded threats in the same inning.
Morris, the MVP, pitched 10 shutout innings for his second victory in three Series starts, five times escaping with Atlanta runners in scoring position.

"Someone had to go home a loser, but there's no loser in my mind," Morris said. "Those are two of the greatest teams. I just didn't want to quit. Somehow, we found a way to win this thing."

From the start, it seemed almost inevitable that the first last-to-first World Series would go down to the last pitch. And it did, as for a record fourth time a game was decided on the last swing.

"It was a storybook ballgame," Twins manager Tom Kelly said. "The whole series was like a storybook. We played it out, chapter 7.

"Î don't know which team played better," Kelly said as the trophy was presented by commissioner Fay Vincent. "By rights, they should cut this thing in half and give half to us and half to the

Oilers burn Bengals

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston'sWarren Moon has a sports therapist and Drew Hill to thank for his success against the Cincinnati Bengals.

Moon got a massage treatment Friday that loosened his stiff shoulder and gave him the flexibility to throw three touchdown passes, including a 61-yarder to Hill, leading the Oilers to a 35-3 victory over helpless Cincinnati Sunday.

The victory gave the Oilers a four-game winning streak for the first time since 1980 and a 7-1 record for their best start in the franchise history. The Bengals fell to 0-8 start, equaling their worst start ever.

"I almost have to say he's a miracle worker," Moon said of the therapist who massaged his shoulder. "My shoulder has been stiff. It's the whole rotator cuff."

Moon and the Oilers pounced on the Bengals early for a 23-3 halftime lead on Moon's touchdown passes of six yards to Haywood Jeffires, 14 yards to Ernest Givins and 61 yards to Hill.

Moon, who had shoulder surgery in 1989, felt best about airing out the touchdown bomb to Hill, who caught six passes for 129 yards.

"I felt good because the ball was coming off with a lot of velocity.,' Moon said. "I finally found a neuromuscular therapist who could help me. It's basically a massage, but he hits pressure points and gets down deeper than most massages."

Moon threw two interceptions, giving him 11 for the year, but he completed 24 of 37 passes for 289 yards and had the Oilers in control by halftime.

Moon directed the Oilers to Allen Pinkett's two-yard touchdown in the third quarter for a 29-3 lead and then watched backup Cody Carlson take over and hit Tony Jones with a 68-yard touchdown pass.

"I got off to a good start but I'm still having problems turning the ball over," Moon said. "I need to concentrate on lowering my interceptions. That's what's impor- by Rickey Dixon's 47-yard in- in the game.

The Oilers defense continued to maul the opposition led by cornerback Cris Dishman, whose third quarter interception was his fifth of the year and marked his seventh straight week to get a turnover.

The Oilers intercepted backup Cincinnati quarterback Erik Wilhelm twice and forced him to fumble once as a replacement for injured Boomer Esiason. 'The key thing was keeping Wilhelm's confidence down, Dishman said. "Our defense as a whole prides ourselves on making the big plays. We haven't had a perfect game yet."

But they came close enough to dismantle the struggling Bengals, who didn't cross mid-field until 4:56 remained in the first half and managed only Jim Breech's 20-yard field goal that was set up

'We just tried to come out and execute and move the ball downfield," Wilhelm said. "We didn't do that. Me? I just threw a couple of balls low on third down and didn't sustain some drives."

Lions take advantage of Cowboys turnovers

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Lions have shown they are for real. So why won't the Dallas Cowboys believe it?

Easy. The Cowboys feel they were responsible for the Lions' 34-10 victory Sunday.

The Lions (6-2) remain tied with Chicago, who they play on Sunday, for first place in the NFC Central. It was the first road loss of the season for Dallas (5-3). which had a four-game winning streak snapped.

"As lopsided as the score was, we let this one slip away," Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said. "If we played like we are capable of playing, we would have had a chance.

It wasn't as if the Cowboys were sleepwalking. They finished with a 22-13 edge in first downs, 415-208 advantage in total yards and 69-48 edge in plays.

On top of that, they knocked out Detroit quarterback Rodney Peete early in the first quarter, forcing the Lions to go the rest of the way with Erik Kramer.

But the Cowboys also led in one other important category. Mistakes.

Dallas turned the ball over four times, twice on fumbles and twice on interceptions — one of which was returned for a touchdown. The Lions also blocked a field goal attempt and ran that back for a touchdown.

The Lions have endured slings and arrows all season long. They kept hearing that the teams they defeated had a combined 8-30 record. They kept hearing about losing to Washington and San Francisco by a combined score of

The question now is how far the

'We'll just have to wait until we get an update on Rodney," Fontes said. "Unfortunately, his situation takes away from a great victory.

Kramer, with two years in the Canadian Football League and very limited NFL experience in mop-up duty this year, played better than the Lions had a right to expect. He completed nine of 16 passes for 108 yards, including his first two NFL touchdown tosses, 26 yards to Willie Green and 10 yards to Barry Sanders.

"It took a while for him to get going," Fontes said. "Erik knows all the passing routes well, but he hasn't had the reps in practice, so we just wanted to stay with the basic passing game and a strong running game.

The running battle that was envisioned between Sanders and Emmitt Smith never developed; Sanders finished with 55 yards on 21 carries, Smith 66 on 16 carries,

"This is just a stepping stone we have to overcome," Smith said. "We have eight more games.

Redskins lone remaining unbeaten team

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS The last time the Washington

Redskins beat the New York Giants, they won the Super Bowl. After Sunday's rousing comeback victory at Giants Stadium, the Redskins just might start thinking about another NFL championship. Washington rallied from a 13-0 halftime deficit to beat New York 17-13, giving the Skins their first 8-0 record ever. They lead the NFC East by three games — four over New York — and are the league's Roundup only unbeaten entry.

"This was a long time coming," said coach Joe Gibbs after Washington broke a six-game losing streak against the Giants.

"We feel like we got the monkey off our backs - finally," said defensive end Charles Mann of the Redskins. "This feels real satisfying."

Nothing about the first half was satisfying for the Skins. New York drove 75 yards and 64 yards to field goals by Raul Allegre and Rodney Hampton had a 1-yard TD run for a

But irrepressible Washington stormed back as Mark Rypien hit Gary Clark for TDs of 7 and 54 yards, then rookie Ricky Ervins rushed for first down after first down before Chip Lohmiller clinched it with a 35-yard field goal with 51 seconds left.

"I'm only a rookie, but you get a sense of how important this game is," Ervins said. "We've been talking about it all season. We didn't do anything different, just catching the ball and making the blocks."

While Washington was staying perfect, the league's other unbeaten team tasted defeat as the Chicago Bears came back for a 20-17 decision at New Orleans. The Saints dropped to 7-1. "You win one, it's one win. You lose one, it's one loss," Saints coach Jim Mora said. "We've won a lot of games this year as a team. Today, we lost one as a team."

Redskins 17, Giants 13

The Giants (4-4) dominated the opening half, outgaining the Redskins 207 yards to 35. Washington never got into Giants territory until 5:36 was left in the third quarter.

Then the Redskins took charge. Rypien found Clark twice within 2:52 and the Redskins converted nine straight third-down plays. Ervins ate up the yardage and the clock on the 62-yard, 14-play drive to Lohmiller's field goal.

Pirates star free agent

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Bobby Bonilla of the Pittsburgh Pirates became a free agent as soon as the World Series ended.

Players eligible for free agency, those who have at least six years of major-league service, could begin filing Sun day night immediately after the Series

Dennis Gilbert, Bonilla's agent, said Sunday that he'd already instructed the players association to file for Bonilla as soon as the last out was made or the clock ticked past midnight, whichever came first.

Bonilla can still negotiate solely with the Pirates for the next 15 days. After that, it's open season

"I'm having an open mind about anything," Bonilla said Sunday. "I want to go to the right situation for me and my family.'

Bonilla said that judging from the history of his negotiations with the Pirates, it's doubtful he'll remain with them.

The Pirates' last offers to Bonilla reportedly were for years for $16.8 million and three years for $13.5 million. Douglas Danforth, the Pirates chairman of the board, is expected to make at least one more offer to Bonilla.

South African rallies to victory

THE WOODLANDS (AP) -South African Fulton Allem came PGA to the Independent Insurance Agents Open in Houston with the hope he somehow could save his American tour exemption. A tournament victory, he figured, would be a bonus.

He got both.

Allem made up seven strokes Sunday with a torrid back nine that included five birdies to emerge from the pack with a final-round 66 and win his first American tour event by one shot over Tom Kite, Billy Ray Brown and Mike Hulbert. Allem shot 273 for the four rounds, 15 under par.

The victory and the $144,000 first-place money lifted him from 143rd spot on the PGA Tour money list — and a near-certain 1992 visit to Tour Qualifying School — to 71st and an exemption for next year's play.

"I had pressure on me." he said. "My livelihood was at stake. The win is an absolute bonus.

"I've had a funny career. Every time I had to do something, I did.'

Earlier this year, the 34-yearold Allem, who plays out of Heathrow, Fla., had to overcome a painful herniated disc that not only kept him from playing but also from walking. He finally turned to acupuncture and now visits an acupuncture specialist every three weeks.

"That's all history," he said of his back pain. "I'm absolutely pain free.

But the pain clearly showed on the faces of local favorite Brown, who played collegiate golf at the nearby University of Houston, and fellow Texan Kite.

Brown blew a three-shot lead with seven holes to play. His drive on the 12th hole hit a cart path and bounced into the woods. The double bogey there dropped him into a tie with Kite. He followed that with bogeys on Nos. 13 and 15. A 20-foot birdie opportunity on the 18th hole to tie Allem slid just past the cup.

"Right now, I just feel sick," Brown said. "It hurts pretty bad. We looked like a bunch of guys who didn't want to win a golf tournament." Kite hit the flag on his second shot on the par-4 18th hole, knocking the cloth off the pin and scattering nuts and bolts on the green. His ball bounced within inches of the cup and rolled about 10 feet away. Then he missed the putt that would have sent him to a

"I'm pleased with my play but real disappointed with the results," Kite said. "I was shooting for first place. Obviously, it was a disappointing end. When you get so close, there's only one thing to do.

'I don't have a reputation as an aggressive player, but I played those last holes as aggressively as I could."

Hulbert, who started the day three shots back, never could get anything going, shooting 14 straight pars before a bogey and a pair of birdies led to a 71. A long bid for birdie on No. 18 and a tie for the lead fell short. Rookie Duffy Waldorf and Mike Springer finished another shot back at 275.

Tour rookie and hometown boy Jeff Maggert, who led each of the first three rounds and had a three-shot advantage going into Sunday's play on the Tournament Players Course at The Woodlands, had an awful final round, ballooning to 80 and finishing at 280, seven shots back.

The tournament had been rescheduled from April, when heavy rains washed out the original dates, earning the October event the nickname "The Mulligan."

49ers 23, Eagles 7 THEY'RE BACK.

It looks like the 49ers might be of resurrected. Or maybe it was the disarray in Philadelphia that made San Francisco look so good.

The Niners got their first road win of the year in overpowering style. The defense had six sacks recovered three fumbles, in tercepted a pass and held the Eagles to 29 yards rushing on 11 carries. Don Griffin intercepted the pass and recovered one of the fumbles. Charles Haley had three sacks and Larry Roberts two.

Jim McMahon, out for two games following arthroscopic surgery on his right knee, return ed, aggravated the injury just before halftime and left Jell Kemp, signed a week ago, came on but sustained a concussion and wound up in the hospital for X rays. So McMahon limped back in to the game and finished.

McMahon did get the Eagle their first offensive TD in 14 plus quarters, covering 43 possessions as he connected with Keith Byans for a 19-yard score.

New England, the NFL's worst team last season, has been rough at home. The Patriots surprised Houston and Minnesota and nearly did the same to Denver.

"I'm having an open mind about anything," Bonilla said Sunday. "I want to go to the right situation for me and my family.'

Bonilla said that judging from the history of his negotiations with the Pirates, it's doubtful he'll remain with them.

South African rallies to victory

THE WOODLANDS (AP) -South African Fulton Allem came PGA to the Independent Insurance Agents Open in Houston with the hope he somehow could save his American tour exemption. A tournament victory, he figured, would

He got both. Allem made up seven strokes Sunday with a torrid back nine that included five birdies to emerge from the pack with a final-round 66 and win his first American tour event by one shot over Tom Kite, Billy Ray Brown and Mike Hulbert. Allem shot 273 for the four rounds, 15 under par.

The victory and the $144,000 first-place money lifted him from 143rd spot on the PGA Tour money list — and a near-certain 1992 visit to Tour Qualifying School — to 71st and an exemption for next year's play.

"I had pressure on me," he said. "My livelihood was at stake. The win is an absolute bonus.

"I've had a funny career. Every time I had to do something. I did."

Earlier this year, the 34-yearold Allem, who plays out of Heathrow, Fla., had to overcome a painful herniated disc that not only kept him from playing but also from walking. He finally turned to acupuncture and now visits an acupuncture specialist every three weeks.

"That's all history," he said of his back pain. "I'm absolutely pain free.'

But the pain clearly showed on the faces of local favorite Brown. who played collegiate golf at the nearby University of Houston, and fellow Texan Kite.

Brown blew a three-shot lead with seven holes to play. His drive on the 12th hole hit a cart path and bounced into the woods. The double bogey there dropped him into a tie with Kite. He followed that with bogeys on Nos. 13 and 15. A 20-foot birdie opportunity on the 18th hole to tie Allem slid just past the cup.

"Right now, I just feel sick," Brown said. "It hurts pretty bad. We looked like a bunch of guys who didn't want to win a golf tournament."

Kite hit the flag on his second shot on the par-4 18th hole, knocking the cloth off the pin and scattering nuts and bolts on the green. His ball bounced within inches of the cup and rolled about 10 feet away. Then he missed the putt that would have sent him to a playoff.

"I'm pleased with my play but real disappointed with the results," Kite said. "I was shooting for first place. Obviously, it was a disappointing end. When you get so close, there's only one thing to do.

"I don't have a reputation as an aggressive player, but I played those last holes as aggressively as I could."

Hulbert, who started the day three shots back, never could get anything going, shooting 14 straight pars before a bogey and a pair of birdies led to a 71. A long bid for birdie on No. 18 and a tie for the lead fell short.

Rookie Duffy Waldorf and Mike Springer finished another shot back at 275. Tour rookie and hometown boy Jeff Maggert, who led each of the first three rounds and had a three-shot advantage going into Sunday's play on the Tournament Players Course at The Woodlands, had an awful final round, ballooning to 80 and finishing at 280, seven shots back.

The tournament had been rescheduled from April, when heavy rains washed out the original dates, earning the October event the nickname "The Mulligan."

Bears 20, Saints 17 Jim Harbaugh was in a dangerous situation — coach Mike Ditka was thinking of benching him because he was 2-for-19.

Ditka stayed with his quarterback and Harbaugh responded by going 3-for-3 on the 52-yard winning drive. That drive was set up by a 12-yard punt by Tommy Barnhardt.

Harbaugh hit Wendell Davis for 27 yards, ran Neal Anderson on a draw to the 18, then hit Anderson with a 6-yard pass to the 12 before finding Tom Waddle for the decisive TD with 54 seconds left.

"We tried it two times before." Harbaugh said of 13 Wing Jet, the name of the play. "I got sacked one time and I had to throw it away in the dirt the other time.'

This time, it worked, overshadowing a 60-yard field goal by New Orleans' Morten Andersen that was the second longest in NFL history.

49ers 23, Eagles 7 THEY'RE BACK.

It looks like the 49ers might be resurrected. Or maybe it was the disarray in Philadelphia that made San Francisco look so good.

The Niners got their first road win of the year in overpowering style. The defense had six sacks, recovered three fumbles, intercepted a pass and held the Eagles to 29 yards rushing on 14 carries. Don Griffin intercepted the pass and recovered one of the fumbles. Charles Haley had three sacks and Larry Roberts two.

Jim McMahon, out for two games following arthroscopic surgery on his right knee, returned, aggravated the injury just before halftime and left. Jeff Kemp, signed a week ago, came on but sustained a concussion and wound up in the hospital for Xrays. So McMahon limped back into the game and finished.

McMahon did get the Eagles their first offensive TD in 14-plus quarters, covering 43 possessions, as he connected with Keith Byars for a 19-yard score.

Broncos 9, Patriots 6

New England, the NFL's worst team last season, has been rough at home. The Patriots surprised Houston and Minnesota and nearly did the same to Denver.

Jason Staurovsky had two field goals for New England (3-5), but his 25-yarder with the score tied 6-6 was blocked by Dennis Smith in the fourth quarter. He never got a chance to tie it after David the year, both against Tampa Bay. Treadwell's third field goal, a The Packers (2-6) were sacked six Hugh Millen took the Patriots from their 16 to Denver's 15 with 14 seconds to go. The Patriots had no timeouts left as Millen scrambled and got to the 6. He was tackled with 5 seconds left and could not get off another play in time for a chance at the tie.

Falcons 31, Rams 14 A familiar sight and sound greeted the Falcons at Atlanta's Fulton County Stadium. The fans were doing the tomahawk chop and

And the Falcons responded as the Braves have in baseball. Chris Miller passed for 237 yards and three touchdowns - 19 yards to Floyd Dixon, 20 yards to Andre Rison and 55 to Michael Haynes before leaving with bruised ribs and a bruised left knee.

Miller was 14-for-19 in his best statistical day. Atlanta had the ball for 40:01.

Browns 17, Steelers 14 Bernie Kosar is threatening the NFL record for consecutive passes without an interception, but he needed a lot of luck this time.

Kosar extended his streak without an interception to 262 attempts, second-longest in NFL history behind Bart Starr's string of 294 for Green Bay in 1964-65.

"To say it was a couple of breaks is an understatement," Kosar said. 'One thing the Steelers do - and I was worried about it through the course of the week - was that they really concentrate on batting balls down. They did that a lot today. We definitely got some breaks on tipped balls today."

One of those breaks was for a TD. Leroy Hoard caught a deflected pass while lying flat on his back in the end zone as Cleveland (4-4) surpassed last season's total of three

Seahawks 20, Chargers 9

Seattle took its fourth win in the last five games to improve to 5-4 it's first time above .500 this season despite being outgained 320-217.

But the Seahawks got some big plays, from rookie John Kasay's club record-equaling 54-yard field goal, his eighth field goal in a row. and a 51-yarder to Chris Warren's 55-yard kickoff return that led to a 5-yard pass by Dave Krieg to Mike Tice for a TD.

The Chargers (1-8) got three field goals by John Carney.

Vikings 28, Cardinals 0 Maybe the Vikings can schedule the Cardinals again after winning two games in three weeks by combined 62-7.

Packers 27, Buccaneers 0 In a game dubbed the "Bay of Pigs," Green Bay won its second of 34-yarder with 1:56 left, put Denver times, but they also had six sacks.

South African rallies to victory

THE WOODLANDS (AP) -South African Fulton Allem came PGA to the Independent Insurance Agents Open in Houston with the hope he somehow could save his American tour exemption. A tournament victory, he figured, would be a bonus. He got both.

Allem made up seven strokes Sunday with a torrid back nine that included five birdies to emerge from the pack with a final-round 66 and win his first American tour event by one shot over Tom Kite, Billy Ray Brown and Mike Hulbert. Allem shot 273 for the four rounds, 15 under par.

The victory and the $144,000 first-place money lifted him from 143rd spot on the PGA Tour money list — and a near-certain 1992 visit to Tour Qualifying School - to 71st and an exemption for next year's play.

"I had pressure on me," he said. "My livelihood was at stake. The win is an absolute bonus.

"I've had a funny career. Every time I had to do something,

Earlier this year, the 34-year-old Allem, who plays out of Heathrow, Fla., had to overcome a painful herniated disc that not only kept him from playing but also from walking. He finally turned to acupuncture and now visits an acupuncture specialist every three weeks.

"That's all history," he said of his back pain. "I'm absolutely pain free.

But the pain clearly showed on the faces of local favorite Brown, who played collegiate golf at the nearby University of Houston, and fellow Texan Kite

Brown blew a three-shot lead with seven holes to play. His drive on the 12th hole hit a cart path and bounced into the woods. The double bogey there dropped him into a tie with Kite. He followed that with bogeys on Nos. 13 and 15. A 20-foot birdie opportunity on the 18th hole to tie Allem slid just past

"Right now, I just feel sick," Brown said. "It hurts pretty bad. We looked like a bunch of guys who didn't want to win a golf tournament."

Kite hit the flag on his second shot on the par-4 18th hole, knocking the cloth off the pin and scattering nuts and bolts on the green. His ball bounced within inches of the cup and rolled about 10 feet away. Then he missed the putt that would have sent him to a playoff.

"I'm pleased with my play but real disappointed with the results," Kite said. "I was shooting for first place. Obviously, it was a disappointing end. When you get so close, there's only one thing to do.

"I don't have a reputation as an aggressive player, but I played those last holes as aggressively as I could."

Hulbert, who started the day three shots back, never could get anything going, shooting 14 straight pars before a bogey and a pair of birdies led to a 71. A long bid for birdie on No. 18 and a tie for the lead fell short.

Rookie Duffy Waldorf and Mike Springer finished another shot

back at 275. Tour rookie and hometown boy Jeff Maggert, who led each of the first three rounds and had a three-shot advantage going into Sunday's play on the Tournament Players Course at The Woodlands, had an awful final round, ballooning to 80 and finishing at 280, seven shots back. The tournament had been rescheduled from April, when heavy rains washed out the original dates, earning the October event the nickname "The Mulligan."

Pirates star free agent

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Bobby Bonilla of the Pittsburgh Pirates became a free agent as soon as the World Series ended. Players eligible for free agency, those who have at least six years of major-league service, could begin filing Sunday night immediately after the Series.

Dennis Gilbert, Bonilla's agent, said Sunday that he'd already instructed the players' association to file for Bonilla as soon as the last out was made or the clock ticked past midnight, whichever came first.

Bonilla can still negotiate solely with the Pirates for the next 15 days. After that, it's open season.

"I'm having an open mind about anything," Bonilla said Sunday. "I want to go to the right situation for me and my family."

Bonilla said that judging from the history of his negotia-tions with the Pirates, it's doubtful he'll remain with

The Pirates' last offers to Bonilla reportedly were four years for $16.8 million and three years for $13.5 million. Douglas Danforth, the Pirates chairman of the board, is expected to make at least one more offer to Bonilla
