Area voters say yes to lottery, prison bond amendments

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

More than 29 percent of area registered voters cast ballots in Tuesday's constitutional amendment election and agreed with statewide voters by passing the lottery and prison bonds.

The lottery was passed by 53 percent of 7,019 votes cast on that amendment in a five-county area. Only Martin County voters disapproved, with 63 percent of the voters saying no. In Howard County, the lottery was approved by 55 percent of 4,268 voters. Sixty-four percent of statewide voters passed the lottery, according to wire reports. Eleven of the 13 proposed amendments on the ballot were passed statewide.

"The results are not a surprise," said Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, who said he personally disagrees with the lottery but voted to put it up for voter consideration after more than 75 percent of registered voters who responded to a poll he conducted in his district said they wanted it.

"Out of the 34 states that have a lottery, it never failed (in an election)," Fraser said. "We have believed all along that it had an excellent chance of passing."

"The people have spoken so we'll accept it and just go on," said Rep. David Counts, D-Knox City, who voted against putting the lottery on the ballot after three surveys and hundreds of letters to his office showed that as many as 80 percent of voters in his district opposed the lottery.

Counts and Fraser, who both said they will run for re-election, were put in the same House district under a legislative redistricting plan awaiting federal approval.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, a sponsor of the lottery amendment, could not be reached for comment early today.

"It's a real sad epitaph to the worker ethic," said First Baptist Church minister Kenneth Patrick of Big Spring. Area voters also authorized $1.1 billion in bonds to construct 25,300 prison and drug rehabilitation bed spaces with 73 percent of 6,839 votes cast in favor of the proposition. Voters in all five area counties agreed.

In Howard County, 72 percent of 4,109 voters approved the bonds. In Mitchell County, 86 percent of 1,547 voters said yes. Officials in both counties plan to apply for a state prison facility to be built with those bonds.

Representatives from two local taxing entities and members of the media toured the Hotel Settles Tuesday afternoon, getting a firsthand look at damage done to the building. David Weseloh, a Midland building renovator, conducted the tour and briefly explained renovation plans.

Renovator has high hopes for Settles

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

There is hope in rejuvenating the historic Hotel Settles, a building renovator told representatives of local taxing entities Tuesday.

"It can be done," said David Weseloh of Midland, owner of Innovative Growth Investments, who wants about $161,000 in back taxes dating to 1978 waived before embarking on a renovation project. "I don't want to step in with that kind of liability," he said.

Officials with two school districts, whom Weseloh took on a tour of the building Tuesday, expressed optimism and said they would consider a proposal Weseloh

Officials with two school districts, who Weseloh took on a tour of the building Tuesday, expressed optimism and said they would consider a proposal Weseloh is putting together.

City and county representatives did not go on the tour.

"I'd love to see it fixed up. I don't know what the vehicle's going to be. We'll consider anything that's legal," said Ron Plumlee, assistant superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District.

Thirteen floors of the 15-story building may be turned into low-income housing for senior citizens, Weseloh said. "It would not be a nursing home, it would be a retirement community."

Weseloh, who said he will eventually be the owner of the hotel if plans work out, declined to go into detail of his intentions at this time, saying, "Then every Joe Blow with no experience thinks they can do it."

He also declined to say why the deed was signed over last week to a 19-year-old Grand Junction, Colo., man instead of himself, or what the purchase price was. "I don't want to go into all that," he said.

New owner Scott Faries, who said he has never been to Big Spring, said his mother, Delores Faries of Midland, handled the transaction and he is not aware of details of renovation plans. Delores Faries referred questions to Weseloh.

The Settles' former owner, Gil Cuadra of Cuadra Manufactured Homes Inc., of San Antonio, could

Juvenile talked down from tower

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Big Spring police and Big Spring State Hospital officers talked a 10-year-old juvenile down from a 115-foot tower at Memorial Stadium Tuesday morning.

"The child was hanging from the light tower when the police arrived," said Lt. Terry Chamness, an officer in charge of logistics during the incident. "Two officers and the crisis intervention officer worked together to get him down."

"We brought him down from the light tower itself to the press box roof, and then the prevention officer physically took hold of the child, bringing him to safety about an hour after we were called to the scene."

The crisis intervention officer was a great help because of his extensive training in handling situations similar to this one, Chamness said. Chamness could not comment on the child's disposition during the incident.

It was not known how the child may have entered the stadium grounds, because of the facility's security.

"The only way the child could have entered was by jumping the fence, and it is six-foot tall with three runs of barbed-wire at the top of it," said Mike Murphy, supervisor of buildings and grounds for the Big Spring Independent School District. "The entryways were locked, and there is no damage to the fence."

As classes ended and students at Howard College began to walk the grounds Wednesday morning, many of them saw the child on the tower.

"I looked out my window to see the police officers and the people looking towards the stadium," said Suada Jakubovic, sophomore at the college, "I then noticed the child on the light tower. He was swinging from it and going from one side to the other."

"I then saw him get down to the roof of the press box where the police had set out a chair for him to sit on," she said. "After awhile one of the officers came through the door on the press box roof and got him." Chasity Hood and her friends were going to lunch when the small crowd on the eastside of the campus caught their attention.

"It was about 11:30 (a.m.) when we saw the small child dangling from the top of the lights at the stadium," Hood said. "I did not hear him saying anything, but we were pretty far back."

College officials worked with 12 police officers on the scene in keeping the crowd to a minimum.

Gunshot misses students during recess

HERALD STAFF REPORT

St. Mary's Episcopal School officials are offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of a person who shot a turkey on school grounds during recess Wednesday afternoon.

Students were leaving the building after lunch and entering the playground area when the shooting occurred. Fortunately, none of the children were injured, said St. Mary's official Bebe McCasland.

The children were quickly herded back inside the building by St. Mary's employee Beverly Beauchamp, said McCasland.

The turkeys, of which 13 have been counted in the wild areas of the Parkhill Addition, were feeding on seeds on the playground, but quickly made for the wilds when the children ran from the building for recess.

"When (Beauchamp) heard the shot and saw the turkey react to being hit, she screamed, 'You idiot, there are children on this playground!'" said McCasland.

Once inside and out of danger, children began grieving for the turkey, which convulsed after being shot in the head. The birds have frequented the playground area for as long as 10 years, said Beauchamp.

"I told the children that sometimes people do cruel and dangerous things — sometimes they hurt people and wildlife in the process," said McCasland.

Game Warden Wayne Armstrong believed the shot came from the direction of the alley and was fired from a .22 caliber rifle.

McCasland was aghast that someone would fire a weapon into what is obviously a playground, with children loudly swarming from the building, she said.

Police detectives are mounting a search for the gunman, and there is a possibility that crimestoppers will offer a second reward for information leading to his or her arrest and conviction.

The charge of firing a weapon in the city limits is only a class "C" misdemeanor. The state game hunting penalties are usually assessed as monetary fines. Police could file the more severe charge of reckless endangerment of the children, however.

Those with information, are asked to call Detective Hanna at 263-8311.

DRT marks centennial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The Daughters of the Republic of Texas were remembering the Alamo back at the turn of the century, when a wrecking crew wanted to tear down the historic building.

Now, with 6,200 members, the organization is still going strong as it celebrates the 100th anniversary of its founding with a private reception today at the historic Menger Hotel.

The patriotic society, composed of women descended from pioneers who settled in Texas between 1823 and 1846, perhaps is best known as the custodian of the Alamo.

"We have constantly improved it and watched to see that it wasn't destroyed," said Marjorie Hardy, head of the organization's Alamo Committee. "It's totally thanks to the efforts of the daughters that it's been saved."

The group also was instrumental in pressuring the state to acquire the San Jacinto battlefield.

Court OKs Austin's cross

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A divided federal appeals court has agreed that a Christian cross that appears in the seal of the City of Austin, Texas, does not violate constitutional prohibitions against government display of religious symbols.

In a 2-1 decision Tuesday, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld a September 1990 ruling by U.S. District Judge James Nowlin in Austin. However, it vacated undisclosed sanctions imposed by Nowlin against plaintiffs Jon G. Murray and the Society of Separationists Inc.

Contacted in Dallas, Murray said he had not seen Tuesday's opinion and would not be able to say immediately whether a rehearing might be sought or if the ruling would be appealed.

Firearms leading cause of death

AUSTIN (AP) — For the first time in 27 years, firearms in 1990 were the leading cause of injury-related deaths in Texas, state health officials say.

There were 3,443 deaths related to firearms in Texas last year, compared to 3,309 motor vehicle-related deaths.

Texans decide to go for broke with lottery

By the ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now even dreams are bigger in Texas.

The lottery hit its biggest winning number yet Tuesday when Texans overwhelmingly approved a constitutional amendment to lift a 146-year-old ban on the numbers game.

Texas will join more than 30 other states with lotteries. It had been the largest without one.

Voters also adopted a $1.1 billion prison bond proposal and in Houston, ousted Mayor Kathy Whitmire, whose 10-year reign ended when wealthy developer Bob Lanier and state Rep. Sylvester Turner qualified for a Dec. 3 runoff.

In Dallas, voters elected Steve Bartlett, a five-term Republican congressman who resigned to run for mayor. He will lead a new council that gives widespread political power to the city's ethnic minorities for the first time.

Backers of the lottery hailed it as a shot in the arm for the state government, forced to raise taxes repeatedly since the devastating oil and real estate busts of 1986. Opponents said it would encourage gambling and not prevent higher taxes.

"We badly need that additional revenue to educate our young, to fight crime and to bring jobs to Texas."

Gov. Ann Richards

Texas approved the lottery by a 64 percent to 36 percent margin. With all but two precincts reporting, the results were 1,331,618 in favor and 733,288 opposed.

Instant games will start by July 1, 1992, and computerized "lotto" games in January 1993. The lottery is estimated to generate $462 million for the current two-year budget cycle and $1 billion for the 1994-95 budget.

"We badly need that additional revenue to educate our young, to fight crime and to bring jobs to Texas," said Gov. Ann Richards. She had urged lawmakers to put the lottery on the ballot — something they had refused to do eight times since 1983.

In Houston, the nation's fourth-largest city will get a new mayor for the first time in a decade when Lanier and Turner face each other next month.

Lanier, 66, and Turner, 37, sent five-term incumbent Whitmire to defeat for the first time ever. Lanier cashed in on public opposition to a controversial $1 billion monorail project favored by Mrs. Whitmire.

Turner, trying to become Houston's first black mayor, drew support from black voters who accounted for much of Mrs. Whitmire's backing in her previous five successful races.

Lanier got 136,918 votes, or 44 percent, to Turner's 109,801, or 35 percent. Mrs. Whitmire had 62,608, or 20 percent.

Mrs. Whitmire, 45, had come under fire for not reacting to crime problems and for her insistence in promoting the monorail project.

During her tenure, she presided over a city ravaged by the oil industry bust of the mid-1980s, then took credit for Houston's subsequent economic resurgence.

She was Houston's first woman mayor and broke new ground by appointing the city's first black police chief and then Houston's first female police chief.

In Dallas, Bartlett won 54 percent of the vote in a crowded field of mayoral candidates.

With all ballots counted, Bartlett had 84,785 votes. His nearest opponent, lawyer Kathryn Cain, had 41,985 votes or 27 percent. Forest Smith, a former president of the Greater Dallas Chamber of Commerce, had 20,887 votes, or 13 percent.

FORT WORTH — Jay and Linda Hill leave a Fort Worth courthouse Monday after their arrest on suspicion of child abuse.

Police: 'Average' couple starved son

WHITE SETTLEMENT (AP) — Police describe Jay and Linda Hill as "Mr. and Mrs. Average."

They are well-educated, responsible and very religious, police say, and have no criminal record.

And they profess to love their two sons — all of which makes authorities in this Fort Worth suburb struggle to understand why 13-year-old Stephen Hill was starved for months and chained to a cabinet in his trailer home.

Stephen remained in a coma early today. He suffered cardiac arrest Sunday, the day his bruised, 55-pound body was transported to Cook-Fort Worth Children's Medical Center.

"As a person, I'm devastated about what happened," White Settlement Police Chief Richard Mills says. "Every person connected with this comes out with a sick feeling."

Mrs. Hill, a 37-year-old homemaker, and Hill, a 42-year-old engineer, at General Dynamics, were being held in Tarrant County Jail. They remain there on a $100,000 bond each on charges of injury to a child.

White Settlement is a blue-collar suburb of about 16,000 people next to Fort Worth. It grew up around General Dynamics in the '40s as defense workers settled near the plant.

This closely knit town has struggled with bad news in the last year, first as defense cuts idled workers, then officials got the word that nearby Carswell Air Force Base would be closed down.

The city's spirit also took a beating a year ago when 13-year-old Stormie Jones died, ending a six-year struggle for life. Stormie was the first recipient of a heart-liver transplant, and became a national celebrity for her determination to live a normal childhood.

Names in the news

ATLANTA (AP) — Producers of the TV version of "Scarlett" want unknowns to play Rhett and Scarlett, but many Atlantans would cast Tom Selleck and soap opera star Susan Lucci if they had the choice.

Almost 400 Atlanta Journal-Constitution readers called the newspaper Monday to nominate actors for the lead roles in the "Gone With the Wind" sequel.

Selleck of "Magnum, P.I." was the top choice for Rhett Butler, with one-third of the votes.

Ms. Lucci of "All My Children" and former "Designing Women" star Delta Burke were the No. 1 and No. 2 choices for the role of the Southern belle.

The media rights to "Scarlett" sold for a record $8 million Sunday. The CBS miniseries is expected to air in 1993.

NEW YORK (AP) — The opening of the Broadway musical "Nick & Nora," starring Barry Bostwick and Joanna Gleason, has been postponed — again.

The $4.3 million production — the only Broadway musical scheduled to open before the new year — will be put off until Dec. 8 while creators reshape it and add two songs, spokesman Jeffrey Richards said Tuesday.

The show, based on the husband-and-wife detective team created by Dashiell Hammett, was to have opened Nov. 10, and then Dec. 2. It began preview performances Oct. 8, but word of mouth has not been good.

NEW YORK (AP) — Oprah Winfrey will produce all four of next season's "ABC Afterschool Specials."

TOM SELLECK SUSAN LUCCI

Harpo Productions Inc., which produces Winfrey's talk show, will make a drama, a documentary and two "reality-based" shows, ABC said Tuesday. Winfrey will serve as host of the documentary and moderator of the latter two shows.

ABC did not say what Harpo Productions would be paid.

HONOLULU (AP) — Tourists won't find Hawaii's best-known crooner, Don Ho, at the Hilton Hawaiian Village Dome anymore.

Ho, 61, said he is moving his show to the smaller Hula Hut on Beachwalk, four blocks away, to reduce his overhead. He plans to open there Dec. 22.

Ho has five months remaining on his contract with the Hilton, and the hotel is resisting the move.

"We hope to work it out to the mutual satisfaction of both parties," said Hilton spokeswoman Jeanne Park Datz. "We regret to see Don move."

Ho, whose easygoing show is considered a Hawaii vacation fixture, has been entertaining in Waikiki since the 1960s, when his "Tiny Bubbles" hit the charts. He has been at the Hilton for 10 years.

Father of 'My Three Sons' dies at 83

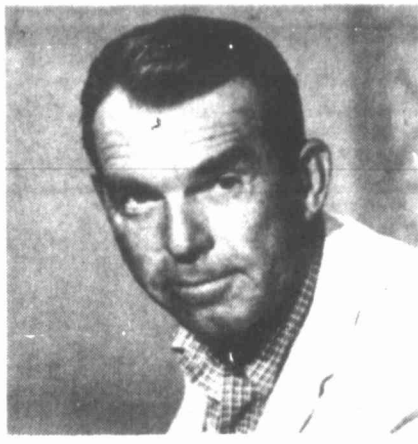

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fred MacMurray, who dispensed fatherly wisdom between puffs of his pipe on television's "My Three Sons" and played lovable kooks in a string of Disney movies, has died at 83.

MacMurray died of pneumonia Tuesday at St. John's Hospital and Health Center in Santa Monica, a day after being admitted for cancer treatment.

Although light comedy was his strength, MacMurray played almost any film role with success, including Western hero, high-society figure and double-dealers of various stripes.

MacMurray played against type in 1944 when he starred opposite Barbara Stanwyck as a crooked insurance salesman recruited for murder in Billy Wilder's moody "Double Indemnity."

He worked with Wilder again in 1960, playing a philandering husband in "The Apartment." In "The Caine Mutiny" of 1954, he played a deceitful Navy lieutenant.

Wilder joked about the character switch, saying MacMurray "gives people the feeling that he's kind to dogs, children, mothers and widows."

The good-guy image served MacMurray well in "My Three Sons," in which he played widower father Steve Douglas.

Gates given task of redirecting CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert M. Gates is becoming director of the CIA with the task to redirect and slim down the spy agency into a new, post-Cold War mold.

The Senate's 64-31 vote Tuesday to confirm Gates ended a six-month ordeal for the first careerist ever from the CIA's analytical branch to rise to the top of the 44-year-old agency.

President Bush said today he was "just delighted." The agency could not be in more capable hands.

Departing for a NATO summit in Rome, Bush said that as deputy national security adviser, Gates has been "at my right hand on all the big decisions we've had to make about war and peace."

Bush, a former CIA director himself, said Gates will bring "professionalism (and) dedicated leadership to an agency that will be undergoing significant change in the world in the years ahead."

With support from a solid phalanx of Republicans, Gates benefited from a split among Democrats to roll up his easy margin of approval.

Gay artists awarded federal grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two performance artists whose work deals with their gay lifestyles are being awarded grants from the National Endowment for the Arts, one year after their first applications were vetoed by NEA Chairman John E. Frohnmayer.

Frohnmayer announced Tuesday that $8,000 fellowships have been awarded to Tim Miller of Santa Monica, Calif., and Holly Hughes of New York. They were among 735 grants made by the NEA for the final quarter of this year.

Hughes said she and Miller will continue to pursue a lawsuit challenging Frohnmayer's original action and a congressional requirement that the NEA consider standards of decency in making its grants.

"I am grateful to get this money," she said in an interview. "It's good news for me, but I don't think it means that the struggle is necessarily over for the art world." Miller said, "I feel the chilling effect is still very much there to artists."

Death of publishing magnate a mystery

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands (AP) — The death of tabloid tycoon Robert Maxwell, whose nude body was found floating in the Atlantic Ocean after he disappeared from his yacht, leaves a legacy of mystery and a troubled empire with an uncertain future.

An autopsy was under way today on the body, which had a mark on the forehead.

Authorities questioned the crew of the 180-foot yacht from which Maxwell disappeared before dawn Tuesday near the Canary Islands.

Dr. Luisa Garcia Cohen, head of the forensic team conducting the autopsy, reported the presence of one scrape or wound. "There is a mark on his forehead. We'll see whether it's important or not," she said.

Speaking in Las Palmas, the capital of Spanish-held Grand

Canary Island, she said results of the autopsy that began this morning would probably not be available for about a week because samples had to be sent to the Spanish mainland.

Maxwell was last seen before dawn Tuesday, pacing the deck of his $21 million yacht. The crew did not realize until hours later that he had disappeared.

The 68-year-old publisher had skipped an appearance on the eve of his death, and his company and family told organizers he was ill.

However, he had spent Saturday and Sunday on the vacation island of Madeira, swimming, drinking beer, visiting a casino and browsing in shops.

His crew said he dined alone Monday night on the island of Tenerife, returned to the vessel and told the crew to cruise all night.

The death of the brash, rotund publisher raised questions about the future of his holdings. The $2 billion global publishing empire he personally ran is burdened with debt, and Maxwell had been selling assets to raise money to meet a $750 million payment due in October 1992.

In addition to New York's Daily News, which he rescued from the brink of collapse in March, Maxwell owns several British tabloids.

The boards of Maxwell's companies named Maxwell's son Kevin, 32, as acting chairman of Maxwell Communications, and son Ian, 35, as acting chairman of the Mirror Group.

Slovenian statehood appears lasting

DRAGONJA, Yugoslavia (AP) — With hefty flagpoles sunk into fresh asphalt, there's an air of permanence about Slovenia's 34 new border crossings with Croatia that says Slovenia is out of Yugoslavia and won't be back.

Free of federal soldiers since Oct. 26 and armed with passports and a new currency — the tolar — Slovenia is already operating effectively as an independent state.

Its leaders are confident the alpine republic and its frontiers are now just months away from international recognition.

Only four months ago, when Slovenia declared independence from the Balkan federation, Yugoslav army tanks smashed the new crossings in what proved a vain attempt to bring the secessionist republic to heel.

Blacks return to work after strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Millions of blacks streamed back to work today after a two-day strike but union leaders threatened further action unless they get a voice in government policy.

The center of Johannesburg and other cities returned to normal with streets full of people heading for work. Trains and buses were full after being virtually empty for two days.

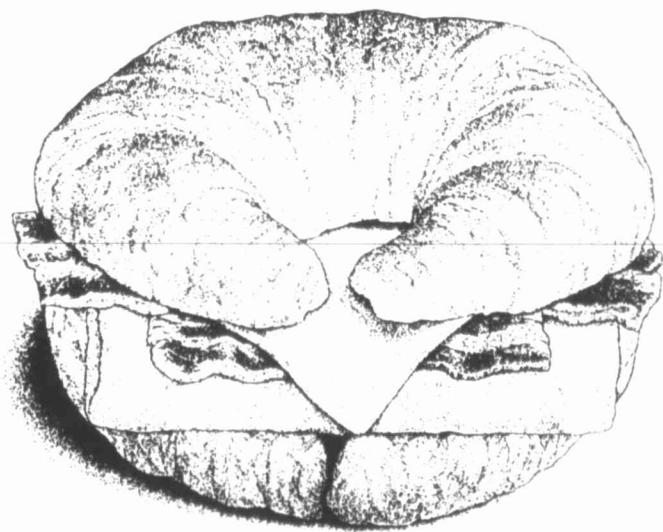

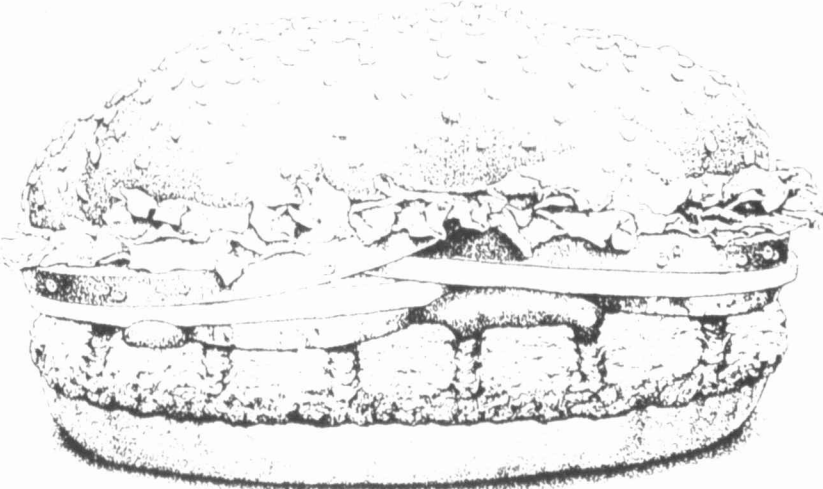

The strike was aimed at a new tax system, but anti-apartheid organizers used it to rally opposition to government policies in one of the biggest shows of black political power in recent years.

The Congress of South African Trade Unions, which called the strike, said it would mount further protests unless the white government consulted it on next year's national budget.

Plan to help clean the air

Under a promising new clean air strategy, industries would be given financial incentives to make voluntary reductions in their toxic emissions sooner than required by federal law. Regrettably, however, delays by the Environmental Protection Agency in setting forth emissions standards — upon which the incentives for early compliance would be based — have held up the process.

Under the pending clean air rule, companies that voluntarily reduce toxic pollutants earlier than required by law would be given a six-year grace period to install EPA-Specified equipment to control pollution. Many firms would find it more cost effective to make immediate voluntary reductions than to hold off until the EPA requires installation of the anti-pollution equipment.

The beauty of the EPA strategy is that companies would save money, while the air would be cleaned sooner. As it is, U.S. industries will release billions of pounds of toxic pollutants into the air this year. And while the 1990 Clean Air Act eventually will require industries to reduce emissions by as much as 98 percent, compliance will not be required in most cases until late 1995 at the earliest.

In exchange for a later deadline for full compliance with the federal standards, a company must agree to an early reduction of either 90 percent for gaseous pollutants or 95 percent for toxic particulates. The net result of this trade off is a drastic reduction in toxic emissions over the six-year grace period.

When EPA Administrator William Reilly announced the market-oriented rule last June, he noted that it means "we'll get these toxics out of the system in the early 1990s instead of the late 1990s." Indeed, without the rule, federal clean air standards would take until 2001 to be fully implemented.

Leading environmental groups generally have been supportive of the rule because they calculate that, in the long run, there will be a greater reduction in toxic emissions. The National Resources Defense Council, for instance, figures that the "early cuts will more than make up for the extra emissions during the six-year extension."

Longtime citizen's opinion of government

To the editor:

Stand up tall and be heard. As a citizen of Howard County for the last 45 years, I want to express my personal opinion about our local government.

When our mayor stated that the population that gas in Howard County was a few cents higher than in other counties, I would like to know what is "a few cents" in cents, 15 cents, 10 cents, or even cents just a few cents. As a senior citizen, feel one cent is too much as most senior citizens are on a fixed income.

I feel that maybe the attorney general should investigate the distributors or jobbers or even service station owners to see if there may be a monopoly and price fixing on gas, and also investigate our local merchants and parts store owners are 50 percent higher than in surrounding cities.

Also I feel our local police department and sheriff department and our Texas highway patrol are not getting a fair shake. Our local police department is under investigation. I think our local city council and mayor and maybe one of four local attorneys should ride with police officers for one or two nights and see for themselves how they are verbally abused, kicked, hit and knocked down and then tell our local citizens if there has been police abuse. Then they could make a correct assessment of the situation.

I hope it doesn't take as long as it has taken to solve the Comanche Park situation at the amphitheatre, which I don't think has been solved yet — going on more than five months unsolved. The police department situation has been on going for three months in litigation, unsolved. If our city council and city father can raise taxes in one month or two, why can't they solve the above problem in same amount of time?

Noticing touch of beauty in Big Spring

To the editor:

I would like to add a positive note about our community. My voice may only be a whisper in all the shouting that is going on right now, but I think it is important to note a nice touch of beauty that glimmers through the smoke of political gunfire. I wish all of us would take just a moment from our busy lives and look at the beauty that our community possesses.

One small enhancement to our city is the Blimp Comanche Amphitheatre, which has been the city's installation of restful amber lights along the lakeside. They have mowed the surrounding area and it is lovely in the day and bewitching at night. I hope the city and the citizens will continue to see this as a resource and will take the responsibility for maintaining its cleanliness and aesthetic appeal.

I hope some, at least, will see the little attributes of our community from their spot on the negative bandwagon.

Thanks to everyone who gave help, comfort

To the editor:

I thank the wife and family of Carl Bradley, Alexander, Jr., who passed away Oct. 28, we wish to express our thanks and gratitude to the nurses at VAMC, Dr. Leonard's Pharmacy, N. By Pickle & Welch Electric, and A&B Electric.

Carl Bradley, co-workers and Comanche Trail Nursing Center, our wonderful neighbors and friends who brought food, sent flowers, called and gave us words of comfort.

You are all special.

To whoever stole a little girl's bicycle

To the editor:

I thank the person or persons who took my daughter's bike on Saturday Street.

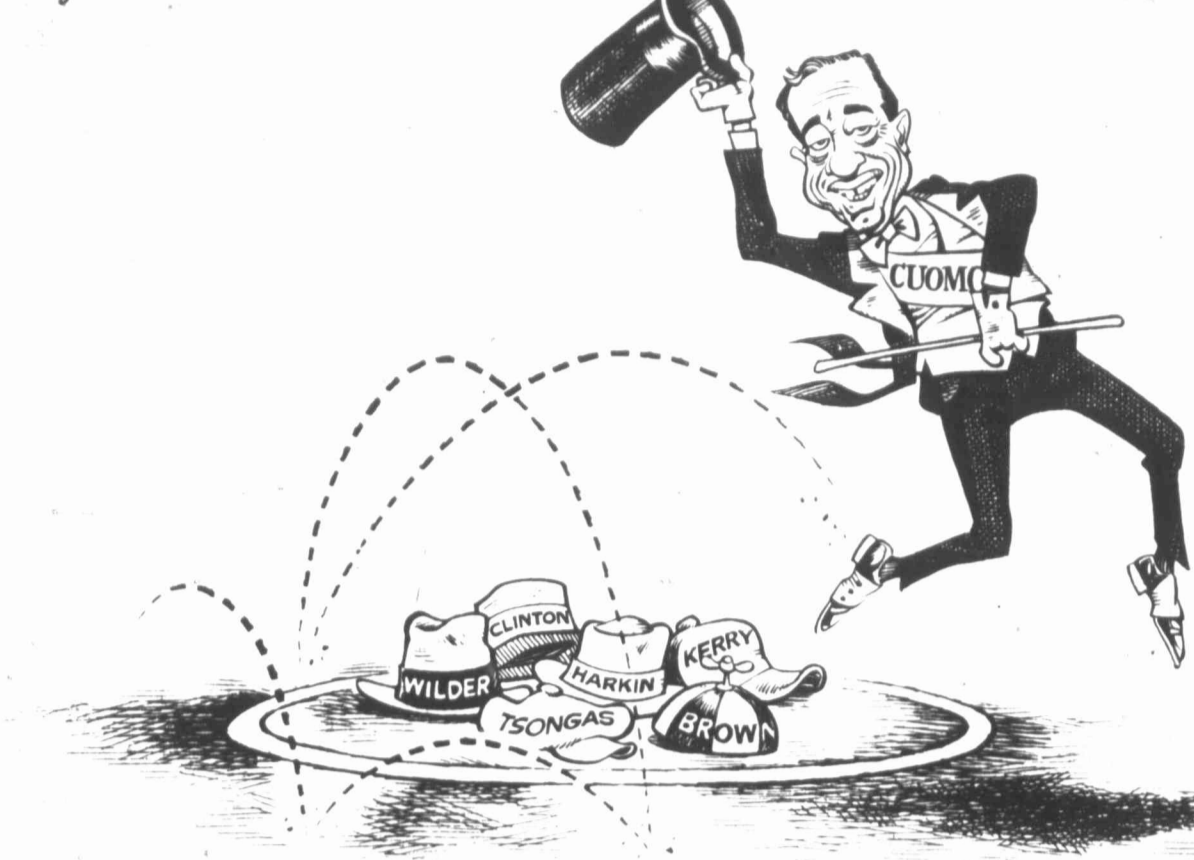

That bike was her pride and joy. May you have accomplished what you thought was your best judgment.

She worked very hard to buy that bike. When she came home, she asked me what had happened to her bike. I responded, "I guess someone needed it more than you did, mija (which is Spanish for daughter.)"

Adding up marks on ledger

The door bell at home rang Saturday afternoon. Catfish, the black Lab, went ballistic. Catfish always goes ballistic when the doorbell rings. It could be the guy who comes in to spray for bugs, Catfish's sworn enemy. I don't think he likes the smell the bug guy leaves.

I answered the door. It wasn't the bug guy. It was a man, perhaps in his late '30s. Standing next to him were two boys. One looked about 4. The other, 6 or 7.

The man introduced himself and said he was from San Antonio, Texas, and proceeded to give me the danglest song and dance I'd ever heard.

I will try to reconstruct it in paraphrase.

The man was a single parent. He pulled out a tattered divorce decree that showed he had been granted custody of the two boys.

He said he had come to Atlanta to work for a computer firm. The job was a to last six weeks.

His sons, meanwhile, had taken to the two rocking chairs on my front porch. "Get out of those chairs," their father said to them. They got out of those chairs.

But when he arrived in Atlanta he found something had gone wrong and there was no job.

He had only a few dollars on him. No credit cards. No bank account back in Texas.

He went to the city and asked for help. He showed me another piece of paper, also tattered, that indicated he and his two boys had been placed in a shelter.

He said he got his hands on some food stamps, but he also said the shelter was in a bad neighborhood, and somebody pointed a gun at his head and took his few dollars and the food stamps.

Long before he had finished his story, I knew this was a pinch. I've always been a sucker for pinches. I get it from my Grandma Willie, who used to feed every tramp who wound up at her front door looking for a meal.

"You never know," she explained, "when God sends an angel down to you to see if you're willing to help your fellow man."

What this man, who could have been an angel, was trying to get was $178 for bus fare back to San Antonio for him and his two sons, "Why did you decide to come to my house?" I asked him.

"I've been all over the neighborhood," he said "I'm desperate."

I asked how much money he had raised on his door to door search for bus fare.

"Nearly $80," he said.

So there I stood.

The man was pleading. The two boys were looking up at me.

They had me. I think they probably knew that by now. I pulled out my wallet.

The only cash I had was a $100 bill.

I handed it to the man.

I thought he was going to cry. I thought he was going to hug me. "God bless you!" he said.

I'm bad at scenes. I said, "Good luck," and went back inside my house.

I heard him say, "Boys, we're going home!"

It probably was a scam. Guy gets two boys and goes into neighborhoods with sad stories and doesn't have to pay any income tax on what the suckers hand out.

Regardless, I still got a mark on God's ledger where he keeps marks for goodness. Didn't I? Sure I did.

Congress makes some changes

WASHINGTON — Spread some sawdust on the floor! Bring on the gospel singers! Sign up a dozen darling kiddies dressed as angels, for Congress has got religion. Hallelujah, the boys and girls are born again!

Well, maybe. The papers have pretty well covered the principal sinners. Over on the House side, Speaker Tom Foley has shut down the House Bank. No more bounced checks. He has ordered members to pay up pronto on their restaurant tabs. No more free-loading.

This is not all. Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., who ranks second in seniority in the House, has introduced a bill "to repeal and prohibit all exemptions, privileges and gratuities" for members of both the House and Senate. Yea, Charlie!

Specifically, the Bennett bill would make it illegal to furnish any member with "medicine, hospital care, ambulance services, meals, flowers, plants, pictures, picture frames, haircuts, or other items, services or privileges." Praise the Lord!

Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., has singled out the perquisite of medical care. Under his bill, everybody would pay "full market value" for all medical services, medical tests and medications that have been provided free in the past. Right on!

Rep. Porter J. Goss, R-Fla., hearing the holy message, has taken aim at the perks of former speakers. Carl Albert, Tip O'Neill and Jim Wright now enjoy mailing costs, office expenses and the services of three staff members. All this would end three years hence. You tell 'em, Porter! Let the old boys write books for a living.

James J. Kilpatrick

Members of the Senate are not to be outdone. Senators Howard Metzenbaum, Edward Kennedy and Alan Simpson have risen from the sinners' bench and walked in deep repentance down the sawdust aisle. What joy there is in heaven!

Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, enhancing his reputation as a pain in the Senate's backside, has put in a zinger. He would crack down hard on foreign travel. Hereafter junketers would have to travel "by the most economical means conveniently possible." Moreover, public reports would have to identify every employee "and any other person" who accompanies the member on a trip abroad. Atta boy, Chuck!

Grassley can't be accused of sudden conversion. Since he came to the Senate 10 years ago, he has tried valiantly but vainly to abolish all the exemptions that Congress now enjoys from laws that affect everyone else. It is not widely understood, but congressional staffers are treated at law as little more than serfs. No minimum wage. No limit on hours of work. No overtime. If their civil rights are violated they may complain to the Ethics Committee. Big deal.

The holy spirit descended upon the whole Senate on Oct. 24. By a vote of 94-3 the Senate approved a bill to make federal agencies obey federal law. Astounding!

Specifically, the bill (already passed by the House in a different form) would subject federal agencies to the same regulations on toxic wastes that apply in the private sector.

Our government, it appears from a committee report, has a terrible record in this regard. The Department of Defense alone has roughly 17,500 contaminated sites at 1,855 installations. A sample survey of 17 federal agencies in 12 states found almost half of them in violation of the law. A uranium plant in Ohio has been unlawfully polluting for 40 years. In Minnesota, solvent from an Army ammunition plant has contaminated water supplies. Every state has a similar horror story of federal agencies' contempt for the law.

The bill has its curious aspects. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) would be given power to sue other federal agencies, and to collect fines and civil penalties, for violation of rules on toxic waste disposal.

Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., found this arrangement "patently idiotic." We are wasting scientific resources, he insisted, by endorsing "a silly kind of faddism that permits collection of fines from an agency, thereby reducing the funds available to abate the very problem for which the fines were collected."

Wallop voted against the bill (so did Helms of North Carolina and Garn of Utah), but there was no stopping the stampede to salvation. Will Congress and the government abandon the high and mighty privileges so long enjoyed? Miracles happen. They may be happening now on Capitol Hill. But don't bet the ranch.

Study: Doctors often treat relatives

BOSTON (AP) — Many doctors routinely tend to their families' earaches, sore throats and other minor medical woes, but some also perform relatives' operations, diagnose their cancer and deliver their babies, a study finds.

Treating one's own family was once considered ethically unwise. Even though this taboo has eased, some insurance companies refuse to pay doctors for treating their relatives.

The subject has received little formal attention from medical researchers, so doctors at a suburban Chicago hospital conducted a survey of their colleagues' experiences treating relatives.

They found that 99 percent said they had been asked by family members for medical advice or care, and nearly all of them had provided it to some degree.

Eighty-three percent said they prescribed medicines to family members, 80 percent diagnosed illnesses that required treatment, and 72 percent performed physical exams.

Most of the care was given for minor infections and other trivial problems. However, 15 percent of doctors said they also had served as the primary physician when relatives were admitted to hospitals.

The survey, directed by Dr. John La Puma, was based on 465 questionnaires returned by doctors at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, Ill. The results were published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Doctors once routinely took care of each other's families at no charge so they would not have to treat their own relatives.

The code of ethics adopted by the American Medical Association in 1901 advised against treating family members, in part because physicians might not be able to handle relatives' problems objectively. In 1977, the AMA dropped this warning, along with other "outmoded matters of medical etiquette."

However, concerns still exist about the wisdom of a physician becoming his or her own family doctor. The researchers noted that doctors might feel uneasy about taking a relative's intimate history, performing a complete physical exam or breaking bad news. They also might have trouble assessing their symptoms objectively.

The study looked only at how many doctors treated relatives and did not attempt to learn whether the care they gave was as good as it should have been.

Garbage and debris float near a boat moored in Hong Kong's Victoria Harbor recently. Although Hong Kong means "fragrant harbor," in reality the harbor stinks from the two million tons of untreated sewage, chemicals and toxic metals dumped into it daily.

Hong Kong's harbor polluted and smelly

HONG KONG (AP) — In Chinese, Hong Kong means "fragrant harbor." In reality, it stinks. Two million tons of untreated sewage, chemicals and toxic metals are dumped daily into Victoria Harbor.

Clean-up efforts, such as those in a multibillion-dollar sewage plan, are clogged by financial, bureaucratic and political considerations. In this city and continent, environmental neglect is more the rule than the exception.

Mussels collected from a local beach in 1990 had a toxicity of five times the internationally established safety limit. Eating just five mussels could be fatal.

Summertime routinely brings numerous reports of bizarre skin diseases caught by bathers.

Hong Kong is famed for its ferries and floating restaurants but the pollution defames the name of the formerly pristine waterway once home to clipper ships and a booming fishing trade.

The not-so-fragrant harbor is a by-product of years of unchecked economic growth in this free-wheeling British colony of 5.9 million people.

Factories, subject to scanty pollution controls, dump a kaleidoscope of wastes into the harbor, poisoning marine life and threatening the food chain.

"You could catch squid 10 years ago, but now the only thing you can catch is disease," said John Parker, director of the Hong Kong branch of Friends of the Earth.

Environmentalists like Parker say Hong Kong should take a leading position in Asia in cleaning itself up. Its British colonial government is considered among the more enlightened administrations in the continent. Hong Kong's masters in London are also more responsive to international pressure than other Asian nations.

Under the $2.5 billion plan, sewage will be collected in a series of 490-foot deep tunnels connected to a main treatment plant. After treatment, the sewage will be discharged through a 19-mile out-fall pipe into the South China Sea.

The percentage of sewage treated will rise from about 50 percent to 100 percent. Right now, the amount of hazardous material dumped daily in Victoria Harbor would fill 1,000 Olympic-size swimming pools.

The sewage project is scheduled to be finished by 2000. But the government has hinted at delays because of commitments to the territory's biggest economic and political priority, a $16.3 billion airport and port plan.

The government originally planned this year to declare the harbor a Water Control Zone to regulate release of all effluents. But that date has been pushed back at least two years because of paperwork and other obstacles.

There is one benefit, however. "Though the pollution in the harbor is appalling, the upside is that... there are no barnacles to bother our boats," said John Edwards, general manager of the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club.

Healthy holiday treats

As visions of sugarplums dance in our heads, there's also the nagging question: "How much weight will I gain this holiday season?"

Treats of the season, often high in calories and fat, are so appealing. And let's face it, they're part of the holiday tradition. Actually it's possible to enjoy the treats while also eating a healthful diet this holiday season, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal. Here are a few tips:

- Be sure to eat well-balanced meals throughout the holiday season. This will help take the "edge" off the craving for sweets.
- If a party includes a meal or hors d'oeuvres late in the evening, eat something light at your usual mealtime so that you're not "starving" when you get to the party.
- Cut out mealtime desserts and save the calories for special party treats.

- When you're the host, balance the often high-calorie, high-fat sweets of the holidays with lighter fare.

For example, a tray of traditional treats might also include Cereal Snack Meringues, made with Whole Grain Total cereal. Gunkler notes that these festive cookies are just 20 calories each; they are almost fat-free and provide no cholesterol.

- CEREAL SNACK MERINGUES
- 3 egg whites
 - 2/3 cups sugar
 - 4 cups Total cereal
 - 1/2 cup semisweet chocolate chips, if desired
- Heat oven to 325 degrees F. Lightly grease cookie sheet. Beat egg whites in large bowl until

With only 20 calories each, these cereal snack Meringues made with Whole Grain Total will add a festive yet light touch to your holiday cookie tray.

foamy. Gradually beat in sugar; continue beating until very stiff and glossy. Fold in cereal and chocolate chips.

Drop mixture by teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart onto cookie sheet. Bake 14 to 16 minutes or until light golden brown. Store in airtight container. 3 1/2 dozen meringues.

- High Altitude Directions (3500 to 6500 feet): Gradually beat in sugar; continue beating until soft peaks form. Continue as directed.

Homemade gifts give instant gratification

Instead of giving something that could end up at the back of a closet, why not give a gift that will be enjoyed right away? A lovely jar of marinated mozzarella cheese cubes or a walnut holiday cheese ball make great gifts from your kitchen. And you know how everyone goes right for the cheese at parties!

Subtle-tasting, soft-textured mozzarella takes on delicious flavor when marinated with roasted red peppers and garlic in Italian-herbed olive oil. Combine the ingredients in a jar with a tight-fitting lid and then turn the jar over occasionally for several days to blend the seasonings. Be sure to enclose a card with the cheese that suggests serving it at room temperature for best flavor and texture.

A one-quart bowl becomes the mold for Holiday Cheese Ball. In a food processor whirl cream cheese, onion, toasted walnuts, worcestershire and a few drops of hot pepper sauce; spoon into a bowl coated with wine-flavored cheddar. Once unmolded, the cheese ball looks pretty garnished with fresh chopped parsley or more toasted walnuts. If you prefer smaller cheese balls, divide the cheese mixtures between three custard cups. Serve with crackers, toast, vegetable slices or red apple chunks.

- MARINATED MOZZARELLA
- 1 pound mozzarella cheese, cut in 1-inch cubes
 - 1 jar (7 ounces) roasted red peppers, drained, cut in strips
 - 2 garlic cloves, cut in halves lengthwise
 - 1/4 cups olive oil
 - 4 teaspoons Italian seasoning, crushed
 - 1 teaspoon rosemary leaves, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
- Fresh rosemary or thyme sprigs (optional)

In a 1-quart jar combine cheese, roasted peppers and garlic. In a small bowl combine olive oil, Italian seasoning, rosemary and crushed red pepper. Pour over cheese mixture. Add a few fresh herb sprigs, if desired. Cover tightly; turn jar upside down several times to blend ingredients. Refrigerate at least four hours. Before serving let jar stand at room temperature for about 1 hour. Remove cheese and peppers from oil; serve with crackers. Refrigerate marinated mozzarella for up to two weeks. Yield: 1 pound cheese, 1 quart.

Marinated mozzarella cheese makes an appreciated gift from your kitchen, and it's all dressed up in a pretty jar for holiday parties.

- HOLIDAY CHEESE BALL
- 1 container (12 ounces) cold pack port wine cheddar cheese food, softened
 - 1/4 small sweet onion
 - 2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese, softened
 - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
 - 10 drops hot pepper sauce
 - 1/2 cup chopped walnuts, toasted*
- Line a 1-quart bowl with plastic wrap allowing the plastic wrap to overhang edges. Spread cold pack cheese across the bottom and up the sides of bowl forming a 3/8-inch shell; set aside. In a food processor fitted with a metal wing blade process onion until finely chopped;

add cream cheese, worcestershire sauce and hot pepper sauce; process until smooth and combined, about 20 seconds. Add walnuts; process until just combined, about five seconds. Spoon cream cheese mixture into center of prepared shell; smooth the top. Cover and refrigerate until firm, about four hours. To unmold place inverted bowl on serving plate; remove bowl and plastic wrap. Garnish by pressing cheese surface with fresh chopped parsley or additional chopped toasted walnuts, if desired. Serve with assorted crackers, vegetables or fruits. Yield: 1 cheese ball.

- * To toast walnuts place in a dry skillet over low heat until golden, about 5 minutes.

Note: To make 3 small cheese balls, line 3 (12-ounce) custard cups with plastic wrap. Divide cold pack port wine cheese and cream cheese mixtures among the bowls.

Figuring on snack foods

NEW YORK (AP) — Every salesman knows that the customer is always right, so it's no surprise that "lite," no cholesterol and other lures have nestled into snack aisles at the supermarket.

The problem is that shoppers looking for healthier alternatives may not read the fine print.

Since "lite" has no official definition and no cholesterol tells only that no animal products were used in the food, "healthy" chips may be little better than the originals — which generally range from around 50 percent to 60 percent of calories from fat, according to Consumer Reports.

While some people need to watch the amount of salt they eat, the key ingredient for most people to consider is fat. Even popcorn, which when popped without oil is nearly fat-free, can have more fat than you might expect.

There are 9 calories in a gram of fat, so all you need to do is look on the label for the number of grams of fat in a serving. Then multiply that by nine. Divide the total fat calories by the total number of calories per serving. That's the percent of calories from fat.

Public Notice

On October 18, 1991, Southwestern Bell Telephone Company filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to add a new optional service offering called SmartTrunk™ Service. The application has been assigned Tariff Control No. 10687.

SmartTrunk Service provides access between the customer's premises and the serving Southwestern Bell central office for circuit-switched voice and data communications. This communication capability is provided where facilities are available using Integrated Services Digital Network architecture. ISDN services available with SmartTrunk Service use Primary Rate Interface (PRI) technology. SmartTrunk Service requires PRI ISDN compatible Private Branch Exchange (PBX) customer provided equipment registered under FCC Part 68 Rules. SmartTrunk Service employs a 1.544 Mbps facility (denoted as SmartTrunk Interface) typically divided into twenty-three B channels and one D channel. B channels are used for voice and data communications while the D channel provides out-of-band signaling.

If approved by the Commission, the rates for each SmartTrunk Interface facility will be $1,110 per month under a 36-month service contract or $1,010 per month under a 60-month service contract. The proposed rate for the use of the central office varies from $12.25 up to $18.90 per month for each B channel depending on the rate group classification which is determined by the customer's location. Southwestern Bell estimates revenue of $2.8 million from this offering during the first year.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should file comments regarding this application with the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate, or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256. The telecommunications device for the deaf (TDD) number is (512) 458-0221.

One man's pothole is another's art

NEW YORK (AP) — Most people see potholes and think front end damage. But Tom Hctor has a different perspective: He sees a tossed salad. Or a rubber duckie. Or a cup on a golfing green.

And then he photographs them. His car loaded with "boxes of toys" and his mind filled with preconceived "potshots," Hctor routinely scours the city's pocked streets in search of the perfect pothole.

When he finds it — and he always does — out come the toys, red traffic cones (to avoid getting hit) and his camera. The result is some funny photographs touting useless and unusual things to do with a pothole.

Hctor, 44, of the Queens borough is a supervisor for the city's Department of Highways and an amateur lensman, although he thinks of himself as a "photographer who dabbles in highway repair." He began his unusual hobby two years ago.

"I thought about someone writing a letter to Dear Heloise: 'I've got a pothole in my driveway, what can I do with it?' ... The first thing that came to me was well, why don't you toss a salad in it?"

And so a crater down the street from the Rockefeller Center skating rink became a tossed salad, complete with lettuce, tomatoes, mushrooms, salt and pepper mills and a glass cruet.

A pit near Columbus Circle was transformed into a nest with three eggs; a fissure near Kennedy Airport became a private pond for a dime store rubber duck; and a hole in Elmhurst, Queens, became a golfer's hole in one.

Crowd reaction to Hctor's pothole antics has ranged from the placid to the nonplussed.

"A lot of people stop to watch me and say, 'What is this, Candid Camera?'" he said.

But there's also those seen-it-all New Yorkers incapable of being surprised.

As Hctor prepared his salad pothole at Rockefeller Center, a building security guard came up and asked him what he was doing. "Making a salad," Hctor replied. "Oh, OK," the guard said and walked away.

Hctor's "Potshots" exhibit is on display at his union headquarters, District Council 37 in Lower Manhattan.

Bone loss less with exercise, estrogen

BOSTON (AP) — Contrary to popular belief, moderate exercise alone does not appear to be an effective way to prevent bone loss among older women, according to a study.

The researchers found that exercise plus estrogen pills were most effective, although calcium and exercise also slowed down bone loss.

Women begin to lose bone after their body reduces its production of estrogen following menopause. This makes the bones break easily, causing hip fractures, crushed vertebrae and other painful problems.

Doctors routinely prescribe estrogen to these women. Not only do the supplements keep their bones strong, they also prevent heart disease and relieve the hot flashes and other unpleasant symptoms of menopause.

Some studies have shown that exercise alone can also slow the loss of bone.

The new study, conducted on 120 older women, showed that women who exercised lost about 3 percent of bone density per year — about the same as those who took no precautions against bone loss.

In those who exercised and took calcium supplements, bone loss nearly stopped. However, among women who took estrogen while exercising, bone density increased about 3 percent a year.

The study was conducted by Dr. Richard L. Prince and others from Sir Charles Gairdner Hospital in Nedlands, Australia. It was published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

In the same issue, Dr. Brian W. Walsh and colleagues from Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston strengthened the case for taking estrogen after menopause to prevent heart trouble.

Aviator is giant in his hometown

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP) — He is not among the Wrights, the Lindberghs, the Earharts or even the Corrigans, the pilots who are universally remembered as the pioneers of aviation.

But at least in Wenatchee, Wash., Clyde Pangborn is a giant.

Sixty years ago, on Oct. 5, 1931, Pangborn and co-pilot Hugh Herndon Jr. landed their small plane in this central Washington city after making the first non-stop flight across the Pacific Ocean.

Thus, the local airport is named Pangborn Field. The North Central Washington Museum has a major Pangborn exhibit that includes the plane's bent propeller. There is a stone marker on the spot where the plane, the Miss Veedol, actually touched ground. And Wenatchee's sister city is Misawa, Japan, near the start of Pangborn's flight.

"It's still the biggest news ever to happen in Wenatchee," said Carl Cleveland, who covered the event as a young newspaper reporter.

Pangborn was born in Bridgeport, Wash., and grew up in St. Maries, Idaho. An engineer, he began flying for the U.S. Army Signal Corps during World War I.

After the war, he became a barnstormer with Gates Flying Circus. He met Herndon, scion of a wealthy family, in 1929 and they barnstormed together.

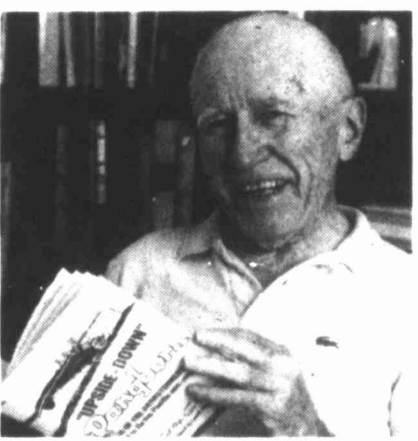

In 1931, they tried to break the around-the-world record of 8 days and 15 hours set a few months earlier by Wiley Post.

The trip was beset with problems from the start, and the aviators decided to abandon the quest when their plane was damaged during a landing in Siberia. While in Siberia, they learned of a $25,000 prize offered by a Japanese newspaper for the first non-stop flight from Japan to the United States. They took off for Japan, which at that time was at war in Manchuria, and flew over the Japanese island of Hokkaido.

Their load included a 16mm movie camera, which drew the attention of Japanese authorities when they landed at a Tokyo airport.

They were charged with espionage, found guilty and ordered to pay fines of $1,050 each. Supporters in the United States wired money to pay the fines so they could make their historic flight.

They rigged their plane's

CARL CLEVELAND WITH HIS BOOK "UPSIDE-DOWN PANGBORN"

300-pound wheels with steel pins and cables so they could drop them once in the air — reducing the plane's weight so its fuel would carry it farther. They had to do this secretly; the Japanese government had put harsh restrictions on such flights after several aviators lost their lives in failed attempts.

The Miss Veedol, loaded with 915 gallons of fuel and 45 gallons of oil, was too heavy to take off at the short runway in Tokyo. They moved to Sabishiro Beach, about 300 miles from the city.

To further reduce weight, they carried no radio, life raft or parachutes.

They took off the afternoon of Oct. 3, and 300 miles out they dumped the wheels. Later, Pangborn had to crawl out of the plane and onto an icy wing at 17,000 feet to unscrew landing gear rods so they could make a belly landing.

Once they reached the Puget Sound area, Pangborn decided to seek another $25,000 prize offered for the first one-stop flight from Japan to Dallas.

He knew they would need a long runway to take off with a refueled plane, and headed for Spokane where Pangborn knew there was enough room. The airport there was fogbound, so they turned back west to Wenatchee, where Pangborn's mother and brother lived.

Cleveland, a friend of Pangborn's, remembers there were about a dozen people and only two reporters at the Wenatchee airport — no one was sure Pangborn would come there.

"At 7 a.m. they came over the hills," said Cleveland, who was on the phone to his editor at the Wenatchee newspaper describing the scene. That editor in turn was on the phone to The Associated Press in Seattle, relaying the story to the rest of the world.

"He made a circle at first and dumped the last of his gas," Cleveland said. "They went south toward the Rock Island Dam and came in low. Pangborn was fishtailing to slow down the plane as much as he could."

With Herndon sitting in the tail to add weight, Pangborn brought the red Bellanca down on the dirt runway and skidded along the ground. The plane went up on its nose, bending the propeller, but then settled back on its belly.

The two pilots climbed out of the plane. Herndon had suffered a cut on his head from a flying can of motor oil.

Wofford upsets Thornburgh

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Harris Wofford scored a Democratic upset in a Pennsylvania race that rehearsed White House campaign issues, while Republican businessman Kirk Fordice ousted Gov. Ray Mabus in Mississippi, in odd-year elections that raised storm warnings for incumbents, now and in 1992.

President Bush, leaving the White House this morning for Europe, said he was "depressed" that former Attorney General Dick Thornburgh lost in Pennsylvania, but noted that Republicans won big in Mississippi, New Jersey and Virginia.

"Please don't look at the part of the glass that is only half full," Bush said. "It was a political day yesterday and we did very, very well."

The president said "one of the loud messages" Tuesday was not to raise taxes, and another was "to try to help people with health care. . . . We've got to balance these two."

Democrat Brereton Jones was elected governor of Kentucky, easily defeating a veteran GOP congressman caught up in the House check-bouncing episode.

In New Jersey, voters angered by hefty tax hikes ended Democratic control of their Legislature and elected Republican majorities in both Senate and Assembly, a turnaround so total that the GOP will have majority margins wide enough to override vetoes.

While voters rejected some of the biggest names on the ballots in the scattered elections of 1991, in Washington state they took the advice of Speaker of the House Thomas S. Foley and voted against a term limit measure that would have been the nation's toughest.

Foley went home to campaign intensively against the measure that would have forced him and the other seven Washington House members to retire in 1994. He said it was an unconstitutional affront to voters.

With 98 percent of voting precincts counted, Initiative 553 was failing 699,564 to 604,494, or 54 percent to 46 percent.

In Mississippi, Mabus lost a state that has been electing Democratic governors for 107 years.

"Any incumbent these days is in for a close race," said Mark Gearan, executive director of the Democratic Governors' Association in Washington. "There's a lot of cynicism and anger out there."

Fordice campaigned against racial quotas, criticized welfare and said recipients should work. Those are similar to themes David Duke — whom Bush rebuked today by saying he would vote for Democrat Edwin Edwards if he had to choose — is using in his campaign for governor next door in Louisiana.

With 99 percent of the votes counted, Fordice had 357,083 votes or 51 percent, to Mabus' 334,208 or 48 percent. An independent candidate had the rest.

In Kentucky, Jones, the lieutenant governor, gained 65 percent of the vote to 35 percent for Rep. Larry Hopkins, a seven-term GOP congressman. Hopkins had been making campaign headway with questions about Jones' personal finances when he had to admit that he'd bounced 32 checks at the House bank.

The Washington vote was a surprise setback for the term limits campaign, which had won in three states in 1990.

In Washington, the voters also turned down a ballot measure to legalize physician-assisted suicide for the terminally ill. That vote was running 54 percent no today.

Initiative 119 supporters Natalie Hamm, left, and Sara Ingram sit dejected Tuesday night in Seattle as Washington state voters reject the measure which would have allowed doctor-assisted suicide.

Richard Atkins looks at damage to the second floor roof of the Hotel Settles during a tour of the hotel Tuesday afternoon. Blocks on the floor were dropped from the top of the building, creating the damage.

Settles

not be reached for comment. Cuadra purchased the hotel and back tax liability in 1984 for $20,000, paid two years of taxes and then stopped.

Cuadra is still liable for back taxes, according to the title deed, said delinquent tax attorney Drew Mouton. Beginning next year, Faries is liable for taxes expected to be more than $2,000 annually. However, the building is still subject to foreclosure for non-payment of taxes, regardless of ownership.

In order to waive back taxes, the hotel would first have to be foreclosed, Mouton said. Taxing entities would then assume ownership if there are no buyers at a sheriff's sale and then, if representatives chose to, it could be deeded free of charge to another owner.

Weseloh said he is preparing a proposal for taxing entities that will include references and complete information on his background, which includes 25 years of renovation experience. The 50-year-old said he is currently renovating the two-story, 72-unit Scottish Delight Motel in Midland, a project expected to be complete in two years.

"I've got a very solid plan that will work," Weseloh said of his desire to renovate the Settles. He said he believes it can be done for under $4 million, but would take about five years to complete. "We just use a lot of hard work and time. We just pursue it and do it."

He said there is no structural damage to the main portion of the building but renovation must begin soon to prevent a further collapse of parts of the building that threatens the whole structure. "There's still some time but there's not that much."

Half the damage to the building occurred, mostly from vandals, within the past year, he guessed. "Even from one week ago, there's more damage," he said referring to his second and most recent visit to the site.

The hotel, built in 1930, was for decades touted as the tallest building between Fort Worth and El Paso. It is still the tallest building in Big Spring. In 1987, it was designated a Texas historical landmark. It is currently appraised at $92,223 on Howard County tax rolls.

Counties may try to attract prison facilities

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Overwhelming local support for prison bonds on Tuesday's constitutional amendment ballot gave the green light for Mitchell County officials to apply for a state prison facility.

Howard County officials also view local election results as a further sign of public support for efforts to locate a state prison in Big Spring.

Voters statewide authorized $1.1 billion to construct 25,300 prison and drug rehabilitative beds, with 68 percent of voters casting votes on that amendment approving. In Mitchell County, 86 percent of 1,547 voters said yes. In Howard County, 72 percent of 4,109 voters approved.

"I think this gives a clear indication that the voters in Mitchell County are in favor of a prison here," said Mitchell County Judge Ray Mayo. "We were looking at Proposition 4 as an indicator of whether or not to proceed on the application."

"I feel it's an acceptance of the community for an additional prison," said Howard County Commissioner Bill Crooker, who has been instrumental in two previous efforts since 1989 to locate either a 1,000-bed or 2,250-bed prison in Big Spring.

The smaller prison would have created 300 jobs while the other would have created 800. Howard County was on the finalist list both times but did not make the final cut.

In November 1989, Howard County voters approved a similar prison bond amendment, for $400 million in funds, with 89 percent of 3,281 voters approving. State officials attribute a larger turnout in this year's election to the lottery issue on the ballot.

Crooker said there may have been a higher percentage of Howard County voters approving the prison bonds in 1989 because of more activity in the prison application effort, including several visits from state prison officials. "There was a lot of activity leading up to the bonding election."

Commenting on this year's local results, he said, "I think it's a real healthy acceptance rate."

Police beat

At 8:14 p.m. Tuesday, police were called to the 7-11 convenience store, 800 South Gregg Street, for a fight in progress.

Upon arrival, police found a struggle between a 36-year-old man and the store's employee. The employee had confronted the man who had attempted to leave without paying for two suitcases of Budweiser beer.

When the suspect was confronted, he assaulted the employee, and a struggle ensued.

The man is also being held on an outstanding warrant of parole violation.

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following additional incidents:

- A 27-year-old Big Spring man reported being assaulted at Goliad Middle School.
- A window worth $200 was reportedly damaged in an attempted burglary in the 1400 block of South Main Street.
- A stereo worth $1,200 was reported stolen from a home in the 1300 block of Harding.

- Shoes worth $120 were reportedly stolen at Runnels Junior High School.
- A 21-year-old Big Spring man was arrested for failure to appear on a warrant for driving without insurance.
- A wallet and contents worth $210 were reported stolen in the 1400 block of East Sixth Street.

The crazy NFL; wild tie-breakers

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Who can figure out pro football? Who would've thought that the Dallas Cowboys would be sitting in second place in the NFC East with a 6-3 record, two games ahead of the defending world champion New York Giants and the Philadelphia Eagles?

How about the Oilers? This is a team that was so inconsistent that it never won more than two consecutive games last year. This year the Oilers have proven to be legitimate contenders with their 7-2 record.

They would've defeated unbeaten Washington at RFK Stadium if Oilers kicker Ian Howfield hadn't missed a 33-yard field goal with one second left in regulation play.

You don't think there's pressure playing professional football? After Howfield's misadventure, the Oilers put the rookie kicker on waivers Monday.

Howfield, the son of former NFL kicker Bobby Howfield, had trouble controlling his emotions as he endured the media a final time. "I'm, proud of the way I played and I have to say thanks to the Houston organization for giving me a shot," said Howfield. "I've just got to go back to the beginning again."

I wonder if Dad told him there would be days like this?

Going back to the Who Would've Believed It department:

- The Cincinnati Bengals, once an NFL powerhouse, won their first game of the season Sunday.

- The Detroit Lions are 6-3 in the NFC Central Division, the Rams are at the bottom of the NFC West with a 6-3 record while the 49ers are next-to-last with a 4-5 record.

- The Saints are leading the division with an 8-1 mark, followed by the Atlanta Falcons at 5-4.

I don't think the Saints are that good, they've just played an easy schedule so far. The West isn't what it used to be with the 49ers and Rams struggling.

The Cowboys could easily be at the .500 mark in three weeks. The Pokes go on the road to play Houston, NY Giants and Washington.

Now for the question all you die-hard Big Spring Steer fans have been asking: What happens if the 3-4A football race ends up in a three-way tie between Big Spring, Andrews and Sweetwater?

Just remember, the magic number is 12; that is, Big Spring has to defeat Andrews by more than 12 points. Don't forget, the Steers still have to take care of Monahans on the road. The Steers have a tall mountain to climb.

Explaining this isn't easy. Keep remembering though, the magic number is 12, plus a win over Monahans on the road.

Here's the equation that was drawn up by the district's executive committee in 1987.

These guys, mostly superintendents I think, were all probably math instructors at one time or another.

In case of ties, the maximum number of points a team can win by is 21. Supposedly, it prevents teams from running up the score.

Andrews beat Sweetwater by three points, therefore it is plus three. Sweetwater beat Big Spring by 28 points, so it gets the maximum of 21 points, making Sweetwater a plus 18 and the Steers a minus 21.

More than likely Sweetwater is in. Its remaining game is against Fort Stockton. If Big Spring beats Andrews by 12 points it would take Big Spring from a minus 21 to a minus 9. It would move Andrews from a plus 3 to a minus 9.

If by any case Big Spring wins by 12 and defeats Monahans and Andrews beats San Angelo Lake View in its final game, Big Spring would gain a playoff berth because it beat Andrews in head-to-head competition.

Confused? Good, so am I.

Leaders of the pack

By STEVE BELVIN

They've both had rocky seasons, but Hope Martinez and Elisabeth Lopez have teamed to lead the Big Spring Lady Steers to a regional cross country berth.

Big Spring, via its second place finish at district, will compete in the Region I-4A cross country meet in Lubbock Saturday. Joining the two juniors are Stephanie Mendoza, Dorothy Trent, Brandy Wheeler, Shawnda Wilson and Evy Perez.

Lopez and Martinez have been the leaders from day one. Both are seasoned veterans, both know what it feels like to compete in a regional meet and both have endured the hard times this season.

Lopez, a two-year letterwoman for the Lady Steers, was on Big Spring's district winning team and competed in the regional meet last year.

Martinez knows what it feels like to compete at state. Last season at Eldorado she and her teammates finished second in Class 2A at state. Martinez, who was the top runner on the team, finished 19th.

This season Lopez hasn't gotten to compete much, a strained quadracep saw to that. She missed four meets before the district meet. At district, she finished second on a very cold, windy morning, running a 14:02.18 over the three-mile course, far above her season best of 13:36.

Martinez missed two weeks, including the meet before district; bronchitis was her nemesis. Still she finished fifth, running a 14:45.13, well above her best of 13:38 this year, and 13:05 last year.

They head into the regional meet with high expectations. "I'd like to go to state," said Lopez. "I've never been there. Coach (Randy Britton) wants to take another runner, the last four years he's taken Mimi (Regaldo). I want to keep that going."

Martinez said another trip to the state meet in Georgetown would still be scary. "I was very scared last year and I'd be nervous this year if I made it to state," said Martinez. "It was a lot of fun at state. It was a big meet and a lot of people."

Running has made Lopez and Martinez better competitors and better friends.

Martinez said she was worried about being able to compete in Class 4A. "I figured there were a lot better runners in 4A than 2A," she said. "Whenever I'd see them running I'd think they were running real fast. I was scared that I wouldn't be able to compete with them."

Lopez said she was worried about Martinez's presence. "In practice before I got hurt, we would always pushing each other," she said. "I was worried that I wasn't going to be number one anymore. I like having Hope to run with me, I'm glad she came, she's really nice person, and she's smart."

Both runners know that in the past, a time in the 12:40's is what it takes to get to Georgetown. The top two teams and 10 individuals qualify to state. Both runners have realistic goals.

"Before I got hurt, coach said I could break Mimi's school record of 12:38," said Lopez. Now I don't know. Hopefully me and Hope will do well in practice this week and cook at regional."

"I haven't been running as well as I did last year," said Martinez. "I was sick at district but I felt I had worked hard all year and I wasn't going to miss that meet. It's something I wanted to do, but I didn't think I would finish. My goal is to run as fast as I did at regional last year."

Twins second baseman AL Rookie of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — At precisely 4 p.m. Houston time, Chuck Knoblauch's telephone rang.

"As soon as he said his name, I knew what he was calling for," the former Texas A&M star said. "My heart was definitely racing."

The person at the other end of the telephone was Jack Lang of the Baseball Writers Association of America, and he called Tuesday to tell Knoblauch he had been chosen American League Rookie of the Year.

"Luckily I was with a winning team, did some things well and had a consistent year," Knoblauch said. "There's been a lot of people saying I was going to get it, but I didn't feel like it until I got the call."

Knoblauch, a second baseman who made the jump from Class AA to the majors and helped spark the Minnesota Twins to a World Series victory, received 26 of 28 first-place votes. Toronto pitcher Juan Guzman and Detroit outfielder Milt Cuyler split the other two first-place votes.

Knoblauch got two second-place votes and finished with 136 points in the 5-3-1 voting system. Guzman got 20 seconds and three third-place votes, finishing second with 68 points. Cuyler got two second-place votes and 11 thirds and was third with 22 points.

Knoblauch was drafted by the Twins in the first round in June 1989 after making second-team All-America at shortstop in his junior year at Texas A&M. He hit .286 in 51 games at Kenosha of the Midwest League and .364 in 18 games at Visalia of the California League.

The following year, he was promoted to Orlando of the Southern League and hit .289 with two homers and 53 RBIs. That earned him an invitation to spring training as a non-roster player.

Florida HS penalized for good samaritan act

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Lake Brantley football coach Fred Almon has a heart. He wishes the Florida High School Activities Association had one, too.

Instead, the FHSAA has a rule book officials say requires the Patriots to forfeit two games, because the team dressed an ineligible player.

It doesn't matter that the player is an emotionally handicapped student who hasn't played a down for Lake Brantley, which is having the best season in its history yet may be in danger of missing the state playoffs because of the FHSAA action.

"This is one of those unbelievable technicalities," said school principal Darwin Boothe. "My interpretation of the rules is that he should be eligible."

The student, whose name is being withheld to protect his privacy, has been enrolled at Lake Brantley in nearby Altamonte Springs since his sophomore year.

His family moved to another district last spring, but he was able to remain at Lake Brantley because he's enrolled in the Emotionally Handicapped Resource program.

Almon was familiar with the student and invited him to join the team because he thought participating might help his self-esteem. The youngster practiced with the squad but is the only member of the team who has not played in a game.

Boothe said he reported the situation to the FHSAA in September because he wanted to make sure the student was eligible to play football.

Things are stormy in Stoney's life right now

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — New Mexico freshman quarterback Stoney Case will always have a passion for throwing the football and hopes his new boss will share that sentiment.

Case has thrived recently under the run and shoot offense installed at New Mexico this season by coach Mike Sheppard, who was fired Monday in the midst of the school's ninth straight losing season — the last five under Sheppard.

Case, who signed with the Lobos after leading Odessa (Texas) Permian to the Texas 5A state championship in 1989, said Tuesday he would consider transferring to another Division I school if Sheppard's successor goes with an offense that is run-oriented.

"If they go to an option-type offense, they're going to have to bring in some quarterbacks that are more suited to run it, and that's not me," Case said.

Case redshirted last season and would have to sit out another year if he transfers to another NCAA Division I school.

Case was the No. 3 quarterback when the season opened and remained on the bench as New Mexico stumbled to a 1-6 record. Sheppard gave him the starting job three weeks ago in an attempt to put some punch in the Lobos' run and shoot offense, and Case has gotten better each week.

He threw for 198 yards and one touchdown in his debut against Wyoming, improved to 351 yards and three touchdowns against Brigham Young and last week completed 25 of 39 passes for 393 yards and two touchdowns against Air Force in the Lobos' 34-32 win over the Falcons.

Accomplice testifies in umpire's shooting

DALLAS (AP) — The alleged accomplice of a man on trial in a July shooting incident that left American League umpire Steve Palermo seriously injured testified Tuesday that the defendant believed he shot someone during the incident.

Vernon Myers, 20, told the jury that he was driving in Dallas with Army Pvt. Kevin Bivins, 22, before the incident began. Bivins, stationed at Fort Hood in Killeen, is charged with aggravated robbery and two counts of attempted murder in the shooting.

Former Southern Methodist football player Terence Mann also was injured as he and Palermo tried to stop the purse-snatching incident July 7.

Testimony in the trial began Tuesday before state District Judge John Creuzot. Bivins is being tried first on the aggravated robbery with a deadly weapon charge.

Myers told jurors he was riding with Bivins and two others when they spotted two women walking to their cars. Myers said he led Bivins, Jerry Fuller and a juvenile out of the car.

During questioning by Assistant

District Attorney Neil Pask, Myers said that a short time later, Fuller ran past the car carrying a purse and was being chased by "a lot of people."

He said Bivins and the juvenile got back in the car and the group stopped in the parking lot of a nearby bakery when they saw Fuller surrounded by the men. Myers said he got out of the car to help Fuller.

"Everyone was all around him beating and kicking and calling him names," Myers said. "I stopped the car and started pulling people off Jerry."

Myers testified Bivins had a gun in his hand when he got out of the car. He said he didn't see Bivins shoot anyone, but he heard three shots and Bivins told him that he thought he "shot someone" when he got back in the car and the four drove off.

In a statement to police, which defense attorneys unsuccessfully tried to get ruled as inadmissible, Bivins admitted shooting a man, but said he did so after the man pulled a gun and fired.

Defense attorney Julius Whittier suggested the state had promised Myers a plea bargain in exchange for his testimony. Myers testified he had received no such agreement.

But Mann, a drug and alcohol counselor, testified he only held the man down and saw no one else carrying guns.

Jurors Tuesday also heard testimony from the two waitresses, Melinda Henson, whose purse was taken, and Dixie Bristow, who was hit in the eye.

Palermo was shot in the back and Mann, 27, was shot in the neck, arm and abdomen. Palermo recently returned to his Kansas City, Mo., home, after months of rehabilitation in Dallas.

Sidelines

Howard teams finish second

LUBBOCK — The Howard College rodeo team ended its fall season on a good note as the HC cowboys finished second and the HC cowgirls did likewise at the Texas Tech rodeo.

Western Texas College won the men's division with 230 points. Howard had 185 followed by Odessa College with 120 and Frank Phillips with 93.

Tarleton State University won the women's division with 220 points, followed by Howard with 160, Vernon with 117 and Odessa College with 70.

The finishes puts the Howard men third in the region behind Tarleton with 690 points and Western Texas with 673 points. Howard has 600 points.

The Howard women are fifth after four rodeos. Eastern New Mexico University leads the way with 615 points, followed by Vernon with 440; Odessa College with 415; Tarleton with 395 and Howard with 250 points.

At Tech, the Howard men, Troy Brown was third in the short-go of calf roping and Don Henderson was the overall winner in the saddle bronc riding. J.O. Duke was third overall in steer wrestling and Phillip Morris was third in the steer wrestling long-go. Lance Reed was fourth in the bull riding overall.

The Howard women were paced by Jamie Bean who won the barrel racing, and Alison McFadden who was third overall in the barrel racing.

Howard will compete in six rodeos in the spring.

B-County duo heads Honor Roll

By LORNE FANCETT
Staff Writer

Borden County Coyotes John Paul Harris and Brandon Adcock put in all-around performances on offense and Eric Seidenberger contributed enormously for the Garden City Bearcats win.

Harris, a 5-foot-11, 150 pounder, created some major numbers for the Coyotes in their victory over Loraine, 62-35. From his end position, he caught two passes that covered 100 yards. Both of those receptions went for touchdowns. He also carried the ball five times gaining 97 yards, one a 74-yard touchdown run.

Harris' teammate also put in a great effort for the Coyotes. Adcock, a 175-pound sophomore, led the Coyotes offense with 132 rushing yards on 19 carries. Two of those carries went for scores. He threw one pass in the game going for 47 yards and a score. Adcock also returned a kickoff for a touchdown, covering 60 yards on the play. Adcock overall was an instrumental factor in four of the Coyotes touchdowns. For both of their efforts, they are the Honor Roll's Offensive Players of the Week.

Seidenberger, a 235 pound senior, helped make life difficult for the offense of Robert Lee in Garden City's 42-7 victory.

Seidenberger made nine tackles in the game, four of those in the backfield throwing Robert Lee ball carriers for significant losses. He also scored a touchdown, running in a punt he blocked. For his efforts he is the Honor Roll's Defensive Player of the Week.

Other top offensive performers were:

- In Garden City's 42-7 victory over Robert Lee, running back Jody Bradford carried the ball 12 times for 132 yards. All of this came in the first half of the game. Quarterback Shae Scott was 10 of 13 passing on the evening with 208 yards and two touchdowns. The three that were incomplete came on dropped balls. One of his targets was his brother, receiver Jim Bob Scott, who caught three passes for 64 yards and one touchdown. Another target was receiver Andy Lopez, caught two passes for 46 yards and one touchdown.

- In Stanton's win over Forsan, 48-6, Allan Prough rushed the ball for 161 yards on 14 carries. He scored three touchdowns in the game, two coming on runs and one a pass reception.

- In Sands 46-0 destruction of Grady, credit goes to the offensive line. Left end Adrian Zarate, center Clay Parker and right end Jason Hodnett paved the way for Mustangs in their win.

- In Coahoma's 48-7 win over McCamey, Steven New carried the ball 21 times for 138 yards and two touchdowns. His partner in the backfield, Mike Mendez, carried the ball eight times for 84 yards and one touchdown.

- In Colorado City's 48-13 loss to Reagan County, split end David Castillo caught three passes for 99 yards and scored two touchdowns.

- In Big Spring's 23-6 victory over Pecos, running back Tim Pearson gained 69 yards on 15 carries.

Other top defensive performances were:

- In Garden City's romp, the whole defense gets credit for holding Robert Lee to minimal yardage. Robert Lee was only able to gain 23 yards rushing and 60 yards in the air. For the entire game Robert Lee only made two first downs. Other standouts for the Bearcats included Joe Bob Scott who had six tackles and one interception, Heath Dainiels with five tackles, four of those for losses and David Rodriguez who had six tackles, three of those for negative gain.

- In their defeat of Forsan, Stanton's Sherman Bryant was a factor in three of the Buffaloes turnovers. One was a fumble recovery, another on an interception and the third was a turnover he helped cause.

- In Sands' victory, both Pank Grigg and David Ybarra put in outstanding performances. They shared the honors of the most tackles and Ybarra had an interception as well as a fumble recovery.

- In Coahoma's win Mike Mendez had four tackles and also returned an interception 76 yards for a touchdown. Brent Elmore added seven tackles and also had an interception. Shamon Smith came up with seven tackles, three of them in the backfield and one a quarterback sack.

- In Colorado City's loss, linebacker Mark Smith had 20 tackles. Cornerback Marcus Monroe had six tackles of his own along with one interception. Chris Williams had nine tackles — two of those throwing Reagan County for a loss.

- In Big Spring's win, defensive tackle Joey Franco recorded eight tackles — two of which went for a loss.

Giants need jump-start

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Ray Handley is the first to admit the New York Giants need a jump-start to make the playoffs.

But making Phil Simms the starting quarterback instead of Jeff Hostetler isn't the way to go, the rookie coach reiterated Tuesday after watching films of the Giants' 30-7 loss to the Philadelphia Eagles on Monday night.

"I don't feel the play of the quarterback is the reason we're not playing well offensively, so I won't make the change," Handley told a packed news conference at Giants Stadium.

In fact, Handley did not say whether he planned any changes heading into Sunday's now crucial matchup with the Cardinals in Phoenix.

The Giants (4-5) have seven regular-season games left and they probably need to win six of them to get into the playoffs. That won't be an easy task for a team which has not won more than two games in a row this season, and one now riding a two-game losing streak.

The Giants also appear to be a team in disarray.

Handley gives no indication of knowing how to right the problem and his best player said after the game that he was playing with a bunch of quitters.

"We didn't do anything out there at all," perennial Pro Bowl linebacker Lawrence Taylor said. "In my 11 years in the league, I can't remember a game where all 47 players and all the coaches quit like this ... ever."

The loss was the Giants' worst since a 44-7 decision to San Diego in 1980. Its severity may have made people realize this defending champion may not be a playoff team — a fate which also fell to the 1987 team after winning the Super Bowl.

The start is also the Giants' worst in a non-strike year since 1983 (2-6-1). With seven games left in the season, New York is out of a playoff spot, tied with Philadelphia and San Francisco for the eighth best record in the NFC.

Handley refused to address Taylor's comments Tuesday, saying he had not read them and did not want to comment. He said if Taylor wanted to talk to him, they would.

"We have to try to get the players to rally and, I think, as I said, there are some things they want to regain, and part of that is their pride," Handley said. "I think that has been hurt and they can't tempt to regain that. We have to get started winning some games in order to regain that."

One thing is apparent. Handley believes his way is the right way and he is not going to change things or even threaten to change things in hopes it sparks a better performance. The soft-spoken coach even ruled out a locker room tirade, saying even the more vocal Bill Parcells didn't do that in recent years.

Knicks' home-opener a smashing success

By The ASSOCIATED PRESS

After flopping on the road, the New York Knicks polished their act and opened on Broadway to rave reviews from coach Pat Riley.

"After what happened over the weekend, they were committed to come home and have a great home opener, and they did it," Riley said after the Knicks whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 113-85 Tuesday night. "This team wants to win."

Returning to the bench after an absence of one season, Riley watched the Knicks lose twice to recent expansionists Miami and Orlando. And for a while, it seemed that the Bucks might upstage him in his debut at Madison Square Garden.

Hardly blessed with the talent he had in compiling the best winning percentage in NBA history while leading the Los Angeles Lakers to four league titles, Riley coached his way to this victory. With the Knicks leading just 42-41 at halftime, the director changed the script.

"We changed defenses at halftime, going to a pressure defense," he said of the strategy that resulted in eight Milwaukee turnovers in the third period.

Leading the way for the Knicks was Mark Jackson, who got 14 of his 16 points, five assists and three steals as New York outscored Milwaukee 40-13 in the third period.

Xavier McDaniel, acquired from Phoenix just before training camp started, had 28 points and 13 rebounds, and Patrick Ewing scored 24 points for the Knicks.

Dale Ellis and Jay Humphries had 14 points each for Milwaukee, which had won its first two games.

Clippers 114, Lakers 109 OT
Loy Vaught scored six of his career-high 20 points in overtime to lead the Clippers over the injury-riddled Lakers for their first victory at the Forum in 10 years.

The Lakers, playing their third consecutive overtime game — to tie an NBA record shared by eight other teams — were without Magic Johnson, Vlade Divac and Tony Smith.

The Clippers' last road victory over the Lakers came on Nov. 27, 1981, when they were based in San Diego.

Danny Manning scored 22 points for the Clippers, including a basket that forced overtime at 102-102. Sedale Threatt led the Lakers with 25 points and James Worthy added 22.

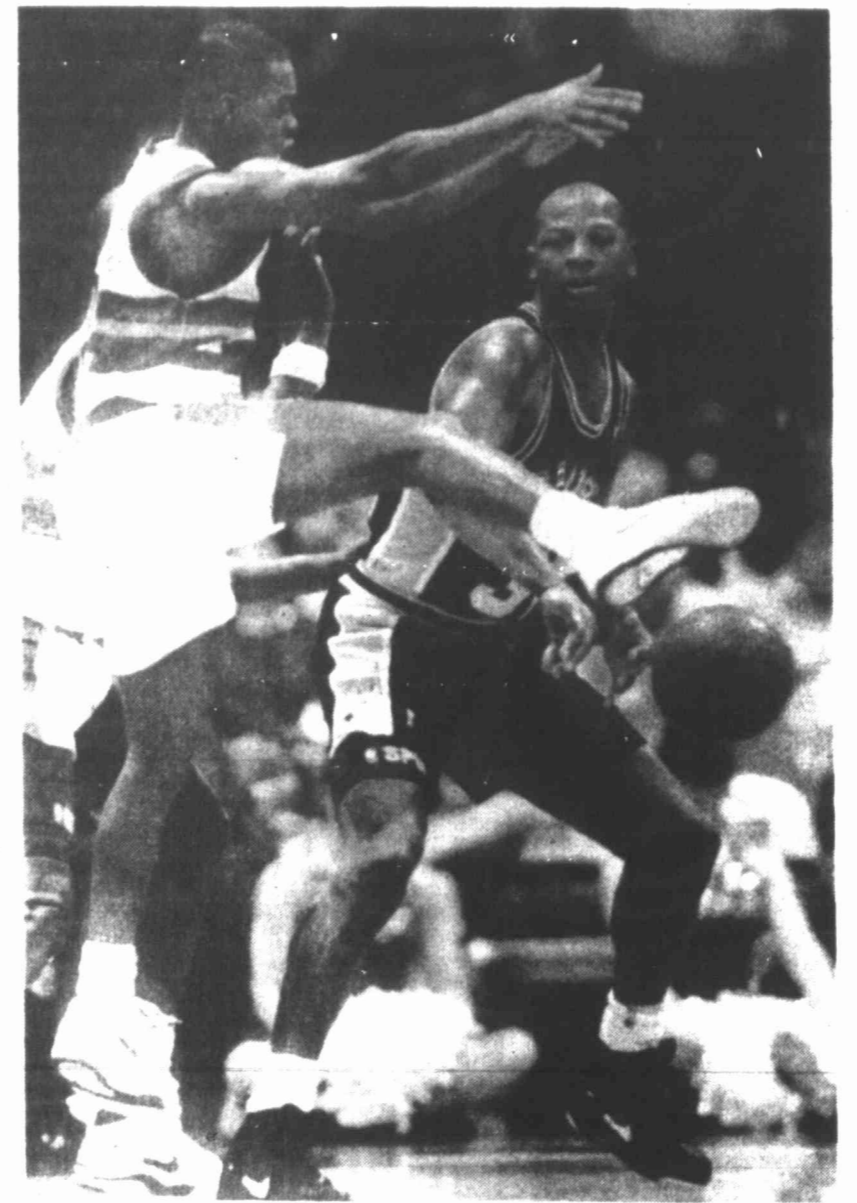

Nuggets 97, Spurs 96
Reggie Williams' layup with 6.7 seconds left capped Denver's 8.0 run and a rally from a 14-point deficit in the final 4:47.

Visiting San Antonio led 96-89 when Sean Elliott scored with 1:12 left, but the Spurs didn't get another point.

Williams had 24 points and rookie Dikembe Mutombo 21 points and 13 rebounds. Antoine Carr led the Spurs with 23 points, Willie Anderson had 18 and David Robinson 17 points and 15 rebounds.

Warriors 118, Bulls 110
Chris Mullin scored 38 points and led a 20-2 fourth-quarter charge as unbeaten Golden State stopped the defending NBA champions at Chicago.

The Warriors have won their first three games for the first time since 1982-83. The Bulls fell to 1-2, despite 40 points from Michael

NBA Roundup

Vernon Maxwell scored 24 points, including the go-ahead basket with 1:17 to play, as Houston broke a two-year losing streak against Portland.

The Rockets snapped a seven-game losing streak against visiting Portland. They last beat the Trail Blazers 109-86 on Nov. 7, 1989.

Hakeem Olajuwon led the Rockets with 27 points and 20 rebounds, and Otis Thorpe added 16 points and 17 rebounds. Clyde Drexler had 18 points to lead Portland and Cliff Robinson added 17.

Celtics 93, Heat 89
Free throws kept Miami in the game, then beat the Heat as visiting Boston made six straight in the final 6:30 seconds.

Miami, hitting just 39 percent from the floor, made 30 of 36 free throws.

Larry Bird missed 14 of 20 shots and committed five turnovers, but scored 20 points for Boston. Reggie Lewis had 25 points for the Celtics.
Miami's Bimbo Coles had a career-high 16 points and Rony Seikaly had 16 points and 15 rebounds for the Heat.

Cavaliers 112, Mavericks 101
Larry Nance scored 13 of his 29 points in the fourth quarter as Cleveland won its first game this season, beating winless Dallas. Craig Ehlo added 22 points and Brad Daugherty scored 20 and had 12 rebounds for visiting Cleveland, which had lost its first two games; Dallas, led by Rolando Blackman's 23 points, is winless in three starts.

Pacers 111, Suns 105
Chuck Person scored seven of his 12 points in a 69-second span early in the fourth quarter as visiting Indiana handed Phoenix its first loss.

Indiana's Reggie Miller scored 34 points, including 12 in the final 7:29 of the third quarter.

Micheal Williams scored 21 points, Detlef Schrempf 19 and Rick Smits had 13 points and 12 rebounds. Dan Majerle had 25 points and Jeff Hornacek 20 for Phoenix.

SuperSonics 98, Kings 87
Gary Payton and Derrick McKey keyed a 16-4 second-half burst as Seattle beat Sacramento, extending the Kings' NBA record to 39 consecutive road defeats.

McKey scored 20 points and Payton 18. Mitch Richmond, playing his first game for the Kings since being acquired from Golden State, scored 18 points. Lionel Simmons added 17 points for Sacramento, 0-2 on the road this season.

Hawks 98, Jazz 94
Blair Rasmussen hit shots from both corners in the final 1:42 and Dominique Wilkins scored nine of his 25 points in the final 6 minutes as Atlanta rallied.

Rookie Stacey Augmon added 18 points for the Hawks and Travis Mays had 15. Karl Malone led the visiting Jazz with 23 points. Jeff Malone had 22 and John Stockton 19.

A&M-TCU battle heads SWC slate

DALLAS (AP) — Here are preview highlights of Southwest Conference football games this week:
TEXAS A&M (6-1, 4-0 SWC) at TCU (6-2, 3-2 SWC), Thursday, Nov. 7, 7 p.m. (CST), ESPN national telecast — The Aggies have an overall lead of 50-29-7 (33-28-6 in SWC games) in a rivalry which began in 1897 when TCU was Add Ran College in Waco. The Aggies' R.C. Slocum is 23-8-1 (third year, all at A&M) overall, 15-4-1 in SWC encounters and 2-0 against the Horned Frogs. The Horned Frogs' Jim Wacker stands 143-89-3 (21st year) overall, 39-56-2 (ninth year) at TCU, 20-46-1 in SWC tilts, and 0-6 against A&M. Slocum notched his first SWC triumph in an early-slated 1989 SWC game at TCU while Wacker has guided the Frogs to two of their four winning seasons since 1965. Both coming off victories prior to the shorter week of preparations, the Aggies and Frogs set their sights on a crucial conference triumph. This is the third wide variance in offenses for which TCU has had to prepare (Baylor's veer, SMU's run-and-shoot, Texas A&M's multiple attack) while the Aggies must continue to get the outstanding pass rush (35 sacks in their first six contests) they have enjoyed this autumn. Associated Press Defensive Player of the Week (12 tackles, six for losses, two QB sacks, one pass deflection on Oct. 26 against Houston) LB Jason Atkinson of Texas A&M continues to show youthful progress. Aggies' QB Buckley Richardson has a chance to become the 20th quarterback in NCAA Division I-A annals to gain 2,000-plus career yards (he has 1,935 entering Thursday's contest). TCU rides the steady play of do-it-all DE Roosevelt Collins (12 tackles behind the line, 20 quarterback pressures, 52 total tackles) and bookend Tunji Bolden to apply the heat as the Frogs did in holding Baylor to 303 net yards of total offense. TE Kelly Blackwell ranks fifth in SWC history with 165 career pass receptions and is TCU's all-time leader.

record a two-game team best of 15 total tackles behind the line against SMU and Rice. QB Robert Hall of the Raiders completed 30-of-51 passes for 518 yards against those two squads.
RICE (3-5, 1-4 SWC) at SMU (1-7, 0-6 SWC), 2 p.m. (CST) — Dating back to 1916, the series is renewed for the 69th time Saturday. The Mustangs enjoy an overall advantage of 41-26-1 and SWC lead of 41-25-1 against the Owls. Rice's Fred Goolsby has a 12-26-1 (fourth year) overall record, is 10-19-1 (third season) at RU, 4-15 mark in SWC tussles, and 2-0 against the Mustangs. SMU's Tom Rossley is 1-7 (first year) overall, 0-6 in SWC games and meets Rice for the initial time as a head coach. The two mentors have won this year over a common opponent — Tulane — by almost the same scores (Rice 28-19 and SMU 31-17), both in games played at New Orleans, La. Each team has a chance to get back into the SWC win column after some close calls during 1991. The squads have similar styles on offense with one-back sets and ample receivers in the back pattered. Both schools also seek to play containment defense rather than all-out blitzing. SMU has come closest (three points) to winning its initial SWC game since 1986 in last autumn's loss at Rice. The Owls' ever-present Trevor Cobb continues to move up the SWC seasonal ladder for rushing yards and carries. He's now 18th in single-year rushing with 1,236 net yards on 258 carries, eighth-most in SWC annals. Cobb also has moved into 15th place in SWC career rushing history with 3,106 yards, the Owls' all-time leading total. DB Nathan Bennett and LB Tony Barker give him support defensively for the Owls. SMU's Rongea Hill, one class behind Cobb as a soph, has the same darting, hard-to-tackle tendencies with 530 yards on 115 carries.

TEXAS (4-3, 3-1 SWC) at HOUSTON (2-5, 1-3 SWC), 2:30 p.m. (CST), ABC regional telecast — Home turf has determined the winner of the last two contests in this series, and Houston is hoping to use this trend to its 1991 benefit. Texas still maintains a 9-6-2 overall advantage in this short but hard-fought series, which began in 1953. In conference games, the Longhorns hold a 8-6-1 edge over the Cougars. UT's David McWilliams is 37-27 (sixth year) overall, 30-23 (fifth year) at Texas, 27-15 in SWC contests, and 2-3 vs. UH. Cougars' mentor John Jenkins is 12-6 (second year, both at UH) overall, 8-4 in SWC games and 0-1 vs. the Longhorns. McWilliams guided his first two teams — Texas Tech in 1986 and Texas in 1987 — to bowl while Jenkins posted a best-ever 10-1 mark in his inaugural season at Houston in 1989 after serving as offensive coordinator for the 1987-89 UH squads. It's a classic case of unyielding defense (Texas) against sometimes-unstoppable offense (Houston) as the teams clash. Last season, Texas limited the Cougars to 42.3 percent (22-of-52) in the passing department with four key interceptions to turn the tide. Houston, rested from an open date, began to get some of its walking wounded back in a near-upset, 27-18 loss at Texas A&M and is psyched for another challenge. The Longhorns have used a variety of running backs in the one- and two-back sets, and soph Phil Brown (67 carries, 363 yards) joins Butch Hadnot (166 yards against Tech) as stalwarts.

ARKANSAS (5-3, 4-1 SWC) at TEXAS TECH (3-5, 2-3 SWC), 12 Noon (CST), Raycom regional telecast — The final Arkansas Texas Tech contest features a pair of potent outfits. Tech seeks its seventh win in 35 outings against the Razorbacks, who lead the total series 28-6 and the SWC rivalry 25-6 since 1960. Jack Crowe of Arkansas is 13-26 (fourth year) overall, 8-11 (second season) with the Hogs, 5-8 in SWC clashes, and 0-1 against Tech. The Red Raiders' Spike Dykes is 27-26-1 (sixth season, all at Tech) overall, 17-17-1 in SWC contests and 1-3 against UA. After tangling with very physical opponents last week, these two teams probably need a little finesse. Arkansas traditionally has played outstanding first quarters in recent games at Lubbock, and the Raiders seek to gain the early, upper hand as they did in Fayetteville last fall. Hogs' LB Darwin Ireland has become a seasoned, All-SWC-potential defender with 62 tackles and five tackles for loss despite some midseason injury troubles. Arkansas kickoff return ace Freddie Bradley has three kickoff returns of 40 yards or more (including a 50-yarder against TCU) and has been around the 25-yard average mark for most of 1991. Tech LB Matt Wingo is among the nation's leaders in total tackles with 14.5 stops per game prior to last week's tilt. NT Fred Petty has provided a solid inside pass rusher and helped Tech

NBA Today

Wednesday, Nov. 6
SCOREBOARD
 Chicago at Boston (7:30 p.m. EST). The first meeting of last season's Eastern Conference division winners.

STARS
Tuesday
 —Hakeem Olajuwon, Rockets, had 27 points and 20 rebounds in Houston's 106-99 victory over Portland.
 —Chris Mullin, Warriors, scored 38 points and added seven rebounds in visiting Golden State's 118-110 victory over Chicago. He was 15-for-28 from the field.
 —Charles Barkley, 76ers, scored 33 points and had 19 rebounds in Philadelphia's 107-106 victory over Washington.
 —Xavier McDaniel, Knicks, had 28 points and 13 rebounds in New York's 113-85 victory over Milwaukee. He was 12-for-17 from the field.

STATS
 The Los Angeles Clippers' 114-109 overtime victory over the Los Angeles Lakers at the Forum on Tuesday night was their first there since Nov. 27, 1981, when they played in San Diego. The Clippers had lost 27 straight games at the Forum. ... Rik Smits had "double-doubles" for points and rebounds in Indiana's first three games of the season. ... Philadelphia's 107-106 victory over Washington on Tuesday night enabled the 76ers to avoid their first 0-3 start since 1972. It also prevented the Bullets from going 3-0 for the first time since the 1978-79 season.

SWEEPING THE GLASS
 Charlotte had four offensive rebounds as a team — the same as Detroit's Dennis Rodman, Mark Aguirre and Orlando Woolridge each recorded — in its 117-93 victory Tuesday night. The Pistons outrebounded the Hornets 58-43.
SWINGS
 Golden State's Victor Alexander scored 28 points and added 14 rebounds in his NBA debut as the Warriors routed Sacramento 153-91 on Saturday night. In Golden State's 118-110 victory over Chicago on Tuesday night, Alexander had two points and two rebounds. ... Portland, which began last season 19-1, is off to a 1-2 start this season.

STARTS
 Pat Riley, who compiled the best winning percentage in NBA history while coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, recorded his first victory as the coach of the New York Knicks in a 113-85 triumph over Milwaukee on Tuesday night.
 Mitch Richmond and Billy Owens, traded for each other last week, debuted for their new teams Tuesday night. Richmond scored 18 points, on 6 of 19 shooting from the field, in Sacramento's 98-87 loss at Seattle. Owens had seven points and four rebounds in 18 minutes in Golden State's 118-110 victory over Chicago.

STRANGE RANGE
 Denver's Reggie Williams was 3-for-3 from 3-point range and 4-for-11 from 2-point range in the Nuggets' 97-96 victory over San Antonio on Tuesday night.
STAYING LATE
 The Los Angeles Lakers' 114-109 loss to the Clippers was their third consecutive overtime game, tying an NBA record for overtime games to start a season. They lost 126-121 in two overtimes at Houston in their season opener Friday and beat Dallas 114-113 on Saturday.
SIDELINED
 Boston Celtics guard Brian Shaw was placed on the injured list after hurting a hamstring in practice and is expected to miss at least five games. The Celtics are already without the services of Shaw's backcourt partner Dee Brown, who underwent knee surgery last week.

SPEAKING
 "Patrick (Ewing) and Charles Oakley both are having to learn to play with me after a couple of years of playing with Kiki Vandeweghe. That's hard to do, but tonight we worked together well and Mark got us the ball." — New York newcomer Xavier McDaniel, who had 28 points and 13 rebounds in the Knicks' 113-85 victory over Milwaukee on Tuesday night.

No news is bad news where cancer is concerned Jeane Dixon - horoscope

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column in the Oregonian that shook me up. It was from a woman who said that her husband had had a physical every year since 1971, checked out 100 percent — then out of the blue he was diagnosed as having inoperable prostate cancer! No one had told him that if his father or a brother had had prostate cancer, he should take a P.S.A. blood test. After I read this in your column, I wrote "GET THIS" on the column and handed it to my husband, because his brother has had prostate cancer. So with no symptoms, my husband took the P.S.A. test and was found to have early prostate cancer!

Thank God for that letter — and thank you, Abby, for publishing it. I had copies made and sent them to all my male relatives. I even posted one on the bulletin board at our club. You may use my name. — BOBBI (MRS. FRED) JACKSON, SOUTHBEACH, ORE.

DEAR BOBBI: Thank you for permitting me to use your name. For those readers out there who want to know — the name of the blood test is "Prostatic-Specific Antigen."

DEAR ABBY: This is a story about two men. One of them is my friend who went to his doctor for his regular physical examination. An elevated blood count indicated that he needed further testing and, as suspected, it was found he had two cancerous polyps on his prostate. They were removed by a simple surgical procedure. Prognosis: He will probably live a normal life.

The other one is my brother, who had ample warning of the same problem for a year, but who kept putting off a visit to the doctor until it became absolutely necessary. By then, the cancer had spread through his system and he required radical and painful surgery. Prognosis: We buried him last week, and it was so unnecessary! Please excuse the tear stains. I miss my brother. — GRIEVING IN THE OZARKS

DEAR ABBY: Last weekend I went camping with my family and a friend. I met a really special guy who I fell for right away. The problem is, I told him I was 17 (I am 15).

He is 17. Now I am worried that he will be mad at me for lying and think I am too young. The reason I told him I was older is because a lot of guys think I'm too young even before they get to know me. I look 17 and am very mature.

I don't think age should matter if two people really like each other. How do I convince him that I like him so much, and that I'm sorry for lying? — SORRY I LIED IN YUBA CITY, CALIF.

DEAR SORRY: Age does matter during the teen years, and so does the degree of maturity. Some 17-year-old "boys" are men — and much depends upon his degree of maturity at age 17. Liking him so much that you lied about your age is not much of a defense, but my advice is just to be straightforward and tell him what you've told me. Lying about one's age is, in itself, immature.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Decisions made now will bring you inner peace and result in greater productivity. Higher-ups are dazzled by your job performance next month. Expect a raise or promotion in early 1992. A parent-child relationship undergoes favorable changes next spring. Be on the lookout for new business or travel opportunities in early summer. An unexpected alliance will boost your income in August. Share the limelight with your loved ones next September.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: jazzman Al Hirt, singer Joni Mitchell, writer Albert Camus, Rev. Billy Graham.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Greater authority will soon be yours. Secrecy preserves a friendship and protects someone special. New associates play a large role in the decisions you make now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Obtain more information before plunging into a new family or investment program. It is time to make some far-reaching decisions about a child or older relative. Consult experts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Do not be misled by the honey-coated words of an experienced confidence trickster. Your brothers, sisters or neighbors are standing by, ready to help you out. Postpone a romantic rendezvous.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be more realistic where romance is concerned. Someone may be telling you what you want to hear. Deal with regrets over past mistakes by making new rules. Uphold your high ideals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Careful now, you do not want to step on an important person's toes while pursuing your goals. You have to give a little in order to get a little help today. Be flexible.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You continue to influence others. The people you attract to a pet cause are there for good reason. Work the phone and mail. Happiness can be gained by seeing beyond an apparent contradiction.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have a knack for befriending people. Open the door to influential associates, old pals and newcomers. Do not forget your overseas contacts — everyone counts now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Family harmony and favorite pastimes keep you invigorated. Do not gamble with your savings. Underhanded moves could send you back to square one. Big meetings are best postponed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An alliance changes for the better. You can chart future moves with greater wisdom. Far-off contacts add a new dimension to a business venture. Be careful not to offend someone whose support you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Mutual gains are the big topic of discussion today. Put your ideas on the drawing board and seek feedback from smart allies. You could have your financial future in your capable hands.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): People who need people really are the luckiest people in the world. Respond to someone's offer of friendship. Keep in touch with former associates.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You reach your stride in both employment matters and personal relationships today. Use all available means of communication and transportation. By nightfall, you will be ready for some solitude.
