VA schedules lunch, auction

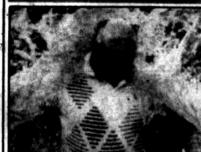

A luncheon and auction are scheduled for Thursday at noon at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center to assist the family of Lisa Boyd, 11, who is stricken with cancer.

Christmas items and baked goods will be auctioned following an Italian food luncheon sponsored by the Nursing Service at the hospital, according to a press release.

"This endeavor is a fun way to show the medical center's concern for Lisa and assist the family with financial aspects of Lisa's illness during the Christmas season," the release

Boyd recently underwent surgery for bone cancer last week and will retun to Dallas for weekly chemotherapy treatments. "Lisa is a smart, pretty, and brave young lady and has proven to be very strong.'

An account for Boyd was established at the Big Spring Government Employees Federal Credit Union. Donations are welcomed and appreciated.

Attorney warns against 'frenz

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A defense attorney for Billy Ray Nelson, accused of capital murder, warned a jury today that the state would attempt to whip them into a "killing frenzy" designed to take Nelson's life.

'That is the sole purpose we have all been brought here. All this is carefully calculated for you to be an instrument in the death of Billy Nelson," attorney Don Richard of Big Spring said in opening arguments of a trial in 118th District Court. "That is why I must Nelson, 23, is accused of the Feb. 23 stabbing death of Charla Wheat, 18. Nelson, wearing a suit jacket and blue jeans this morning, offered no plea after charges were read in court. As a result, a "not guilty" plea was entered in his behalf by District Judge Bob Moore.

Wheat died at her Big Spring home from 13 stab wounds, including seven to the neck, according to an autopsy report. Nelson, roommate at the time, Carol Maynard, who survived and is expected to testify.

District Attorney Rick Hamby told jurors in opening arguments that the case is "heinous, horrible, unnerving and most of all, tragic.' Two victims suffered "something they did not ask for.'

Richard reiterated statements he made during jury selection that with an aggravated sexual assault. Nelson will make no claims of insanity in the case. "I wanted to make sure you all understand that." he told jurors.

About 20 people have been subpoenaed to testify in the case, which could last all week, said officials connected with the trial. Six police officers expected to testify today were sworn in this morning.

Witnesses and jurors were given typical instructions not to discuss the case with anyone, but District Judge Bob Moore stressed those instructions, saying, "This is an extremely important case.

It is the first capital murder trial from the 118th District since 1975.

Council to hold meeting Tuesday

Failing students must have tutorials

"Any student who fails a class has mandatory tutorials every day from 10:25 to 10:55 (a.m.). If they get an F, they go back to that teacher to be tutored until the next grading period," said Big Spring High School Principal Kent Bowermon.

Progress reports are mailed to parents whose children are failing at the three week mark, and any student who receives one must attend tutorials for that subject until the six weeks grades are issued, he

"(The progress report) tells (parents) their child has a 74 or below and is borderline. Many parents do call and check with the teacher, but more do not than do." he said.

Most of the students who failed the past six weeks are freshmen. Nearly 160 Fs were given to freshman students; 90 to sophomores; 43 to juniors; and 20 to seniors, Bowermon said. "Coming out of junior high, students are not accustomed to the freedom of high school. Maturity plays a key (role) and high school teachers expect students to accept responsibility for their own actions," Bowermon said. Students who are involved in extracurricular activities also seem to make better grades. Bowermon said those students are better able to budget their time and produce the work expected of them. Lack of attendance was one reason Bowermon gave for the number of failures. According to attendance reports, many of the students who failed one or

Times Herald close leaves Dallas with one newspaper

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Times Herald closed today with the banner headline "Goodbye Dallas" in its final editions.

The newspaper's death after 112 years made Dallas the nation's largest city with one newspaper. On Sunday, the parent company of The Dallas Morning News said it would pay $55 million for the principal assets of the Times

Herald, ending a fierce rivalry. The Times Herald's 900 full-time employees were laid off with two months' pay.

"I'm sad for myself, I'm sad for the newspaper," said staff writer Marty Sabota. "But mostly I'm sad for the people of Dallas who have lost the advantages and the benefits of a two-newspaper town.

Times Herald Publisher John Buzzetta said the closing was inevitable due to mounting debt costs and the poor economy.

"This recession has been especially difficult for media companies and particularly hard on the second newspaper company in a market," Buzzetta said.

The paper was burdened by the debt of two changes in ownership since 1986 and ended some recent months in the red, Times Herald Editor Roy Bode said. "We weren't losers as journalists," Bode said. "We lost in the end to the market and the economy.' Buzzetta approached A.H. Belo

Gorbachev may still have role

Yeltsin today confronted Mikhail S. Gorbachev with the powerful new commonwealth of Russia, Ukraine and Byelorussia, and said there could be a role in the new political union for Gorbachev.

In addition, Kazakhstan President Nursultan Nazarbayev, who sat in on the Kremlin meeting, said he believed Gorbachev "still has not exhausted his possibilities'' as a leader.

Gorbachev and Nazarbayev were briefed by Yeltsin, the Russian president, for 80 minutes today about the "commonwealth of independent states" formed Sunday by the three Slavic republics.

Nazarbayev, whose vast resource-rich republic was left out of the commonwealth, ruled out any potential union by the five predominantly Muslim Soviet republics - Kazakhstan, Turkmenia, Uzbekistan, Tadzhikistan and Kirgizia — to counterbalance the Slavic commonwealth.

The declarations signed Sunday make no mention of any role for Gorbachev or any Soviet president. But both Nazarbayev and Gorbachev spokesman Andrei Grachev quoted Yeltsin as saying today that Gorbachev might continue to play a leadership role. Grachev told Soviet journalists that Yeltsin raised the possibility of "having the post of president" among the commonwealth's

Nazarbayev said the weekend accord took him by surprise. Gorbachev had no advance knowledge, either, and was not even informed until after Yeltsin telephoned President Bush. The Kazakhstan president said he still supported Gorbachev's Union Treaty — or something similar — but emphasized: "I am a pragmatist and a realist, and I will look at the situation.'

Nazarbayev said he, Gorbachev and Yeltsin agreed the Slavic pact would be sent to the Soviet parliament for consideration alongside Gorbachev's plan. It was not immediately clear what, if any, authority the parliament would have to prevent a commonwealth from coming into existence. Russia, Byelorussia and Ukraine comprise nearly threefourths of the Soviet Union's population and possess most of its economic strength. They make up the country's traditional Slavic heartland.

The breakup of the Soviet Union has provoked worries about what will happen to its enormous nuclear arsenal. Russian officials today moved to assure Western nations that nuclear weapons would remain under central

"No distribution or division of nuclear arms, or loss of control of nuclear weapons will take place," said Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Kozyrev. He said Yeltsin has consulted with Nazarbayev whose republic has many longrange nuclear weapons — and that there was "no dissent" between the two men on nuclear issues. The independent Interfax news agency said Yeltsin was authorized to speak at today's Kremlin meeting on behalf of the Ukrainian and Byelorussian leaders. Neither attended the session.

The presidents of Azerbaijan and Tadzhikistan briefly attended today's meeting, the Tass news agency said. But a full meeting of the State Council, the body temporarily running the Soviet government, was canceled.

In forming the commonwealth - named Sodruzhestvo in Russian - Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk, Byelorussian leader Stanislav Shushkevich and Yeltsin said the Soviet Union had "ceased to exist."

Soviet republics form new alliance

The Soviet Union's three Slavic republics-Russia, Byelorussia and Ukraine-formed a new alliance in an agreement that appears to strip the central government of its remaining power.

Russia, Byelorussia and Ukraine comprise nearly three-fourth of the Soviet Union's 290 million people and possess most of its economic strength, in addition to sharing an ethnic heritage as the country's traditional Slavic heart.

Holiday smiles around the city

There was more than one smile seen around Big Spring last Saturday. In fact, it was a wonderful day to be involved in the community.

The annual Big Spring Christmas parade counted 51 entrants and drew hundreds of spectators on what turned out to be a beautiful day.

First place winners among the entrants included Lawn Concepts, the City of Big Spring, Williams Day Care and Gospel Lighthouse.

As always, the parade signals the official arrival of Santa Claus — and this year was no different, as Saint Nick arrived courtesy the Big Spring Fire Department.

While the parade was going on, and until late in the afternoon, members of the Howard County Coalition for the Environment set up their recycling station on the Herald's north parking lot.

It turned out to be the best effort thus far, with 175 or so persons dropping off aluminum, metal and plastic for recycling.

There were two trailer loads of aluminum and metal and another trailer load of plastic collected. And it was a day of double importance for April

Ferguson, also known as "Mother Earth" because of her efforts on behalf of the environment.

April was recognized by the community Saturday as she served as Grand Marshall of the Christmas parade an honor well-deserved.

Involvement continued at dusk at the Pocket Park in downtown, as Goliad sixth-graders serenaded members of the community with a wide selection of Christmas carols prior to the presentation of awards from the parade.

And if that weren't enough, there was First United Methodist Church's Singing Christmas Tree to cap the

As we said it was a day of involvement and a day of smiles Let's keep those smiles showing as we all get involved to make our Big Spring a better place to live, work and play!

Enjoying a friendly old argument

WASHINGTON — Let us have a tender moment of nostalgia, if you please. Here we are in the midst of a session of Congress, and here is the senior senator from Massachusetts. The gentleman is introducing his same old bill to provide statehood for the District of Columbia

And here is the aging pundit, getting more senior all the time, writing his same old column of opposition. We grow old together, the senator and I. Twenty years slip by, but the French are right. The more things change, the more they stay the same.

This time around, Senator Kennedy has his same old buddies, good Democrats one and all -Simon of Illinois, Cranston of California, Metzenbaum of Ohio, Harkin of Iowa. Paul Wellstone, the flaming young professor from Minnesota, has signed on for the buggy ride. Here we go again.

Kennedy & Co. have but one argument to support their bill (S.2023). The argument has some merit. Residents of the district pay the same federal taxes that others pay. They are equally subject to military service. They are bound, as others are, by every law in the United States Code.

But they have no voice in passing these laws. Voters in D.C. may vote for president; they may vote for their own city council; they may vote for a delegate in the House who may vote in committee but not on the floor. They may vote, in sum, for everything but senators and representatives.

This terribly aggrieves Sen. Kennedy, especially when he reflects, as he constantly reflects, that if the voters of D.C. were permitted to elect senators and representatives, they would elect Democratic senators and Democratic representatives. They would elect Democrats into the next millennium and probably into eternity. He finds the prospect

James J.

Kilpatrick

pleasing. Let us put the distasteful factor of politics to one side. The senator and his colleagues are above politics in this matter. They are standing on principle, a novelty, and will not be budged

Those of us on the other side are equally principled, sad to say, and equally set in our ways. Besides, we have the best of the really relevant arguments. For beginners: The District of Columbia is a city, period. That is all it is. The district has none of the attributes we associate with statehood farms, factories, fisheries, manufactures, wide-open spaces.

Kennedy's bill would carve out a federal enclave running from Kennedy Center on the Potomac to the Library of Congress on Capitol Hill. The foreign embassies that line Massachusetts Avenue no longer would be situated in the capital of the United States. They would be in limbo, somewhere in the State of New Columbia Within this federal enclave a few residents would remain. What would the senator do about them? In principle, and the senator is surely a man of principle, these persons still would suffer the unfairness that results from having no senator to call their own.

What would the senator do about the 23rd Amendment? The amendment is a great inconvenience. So long as it remains in the Constitution, it guarantees that voters in the "district constituting the seat of government of the United States" —that would be the Kennedy enclave — shall have at least three electoral votes for president. Is it right that 25 stand-pat refugees within the enclave should have three electoral votes?

Another inconvenience stands in the way. The Constitution vests in Congress the power "to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever'' within the district that is our seat of government. Will Congress subject the government to laws enacted by the State of New Columbia? It seems both unlikely and unworkable.

There is an answer to the problem perceived by the gentleman from Massachusetts. It lies in preserving the present 69 square miles of the district as the seat of overnment. Over this district Congress would continue to exercise exclusive legislative power in all cases whatsoever, but title to the 69 square miles would be ceded back to Maryland whence it

For political purposes, residents no longer would be the orphaned voters of D.C. They would be full fledged citizens of the sovereign state of Maryland, entitled to vote for Maryland's governor and members of Congress

Maryland would gain a seat in the House, plus all the crime and social squalor with which Washington, D.C., is so widely acclaimed. Strike that last sentence! Let the same old debate begin anew.

Wilt was careful or lucky

I picked up Wilt Chamberlain's autobiography, "A View from Above," (Villard; $20) and found it had an index.

I immediately looked up "Sex." I found "Sexual Encounters" and turned directly to page 251. I silently thanked Wilt's editor. Otherwise I would have had to read 250 pages before I got to the part where Wilt says he has had sex with 20,000 different women.

I quote from page 251: If I had to count my sexual encounters I would be closing in on 20,000 different ladies. At my age (fiftysomething), that equals out to having sex with 1.2 women a day, everyday, since I was 15 years old.

How tall is Wilt 7 feet 2 inches? That must have been something, him and the .2 woman every day. Of course that's only Wilt's average

Later in the book, Wilt says he had sex with 30 different women in one week in Hawaii. Thursday was the big day. He had six. And still later, he writes, he went to a birthday party where he was the only male with 15 women. "Yes," he explains, "I got all but one before the rising of the sun. I wasn't able to enjoy the muster enough strength to sing her 'Happy Birthday.' Well, that's the least he could have done.

15th birthday girl, but I did

I'm not doubting that Wilt Chamberlain has had sex with 20,000 different women. The man once scored 100 points in a single basketball game.

But it would have been more impressive if he had listed all their names. I suppose, however, it would have taken him longer to remember each one and write down their names than it did to write the entire book.

On the other hand he could have hired whoever it is that counts the number of McDonald's hamburgers sold. "Wilt Chamberlain: 20,000 serviced.

I write books myself but I've never mentioned in any of them how many women I've had sex with. I can assure you, however, the number is far less than 20,000.

I don't know if I've even met 20,000 women. Do you realize there are cities where commercial flights land and take off whose entire populations have less than 20,000 people.

That's 4,000 women's basketball teams. What? Three thousand cheer-leading squads. Two thousand Tupperware parties That's enough wild oats to feed the entire field of every Kentucky Derby for

And think of this: You know Wilt must have had sex with a number of these women more than once. So we could be talking six figures when it comes to adding up the overall number of times Wilt Chamberlain has engaged in sex.

The only thing he has apparently done more of is miss free throws. There used to be a theory held by all my high school coaches that fooling around could hurt one's athletic abilities. That turned out to be a lot of garbage. I abstained from sex my entire high-school career (I weighed 130 and had zits on my nose, which was the primary reason) and I still averaged only 9 points a game my senior year. Wilt Chamberlain went to bed with 20,000 different women and scored all those points and got all those rebounds. "A View from Above" (certainly a fitting title) was written long before Magic Johnson announced he was infected with the AIDS

Still, I looked in Wilt's index to see if "Condoms" was listed. They weren't.

Maybe Wilt was careful. Or maybe he just got lucky. In more ways than one.

"The Ugly American" (copyright 1958) is a book I've always known about, but never read. The past week, though, current events kept bringing to mind my vague notions of its contents. So I checked it out of the library Friday.

My perception had been that the ugly American was any obnoxious tourist abroad, whose superior attitude made all Americans look repulsive to foreigners. In fact, the book's intent was to expose the arrogance of paid envoys ambassadors and their staffs, for example — who were causing America to lose the diplomatic war with the Soviets in Asia in the

The prime example of an ugly American was Ambassador Louis Sears, chief diplomat to the fictional country of Sarkhan. After losing his fourth bid to the Senate, Sears demanded a nice, cushy judgeship from his party's National Committee. He was informed no judgeship would be available for two years, so he was made an ambassador to Sarkhan to while away the time.

In Sarkhan, Sears refused to learn the country's language, passed his time in an airconditioned office, and used American aid to manipulate local events, such as his being represented as a buffoon in an editorial cartoon in the local newspaper. His diplomatic abilities got him a flattering cartoon and editorial and Sarkhan got its aid.

Although "The Ugly American" is fictional, it was based on actual people and events. Its purpose, no doubt, was to shock Americans into awareness of the insulting, ignorant way we were being represented in Asia.

I was eight at the time the book came out and, consequently, not greatly affected by it. I can identify with it, however, as evidence comes to light concerning people who purport to represent Christianity.

I have to tell you, some of the high-profile media Christians make me feel that my faith is being represented in an insulting and ignorant way. It does not even come close to representing true Christianity

I don't feel inclined to name names. Christianity hadn't had so much press in decades as it has received in recent years, and you probably know all the details.

But when televangelists beg for a portion of a person's pension, so they can air-condition their dog house; or claim to support 64 orphanages in Haiti when only one is receiving a few dollars from the organization; or present themselves as paupers because their house burned when they have a mansion in another location, I have a hard time believing they are in fellowship with the same God I am.

An Asian journalist in "The Ugly American," analyzing America's rapid loss of prestige in Southeast Asia, said, "The Americans I knew in the United States were wonderfully friendly, unassuming, and interested in the world . .

"For some reason, however, the Americans I meet in my country are not the same as the ones I knew in the United States. A mysterious change seems to come over Americans when they go to a foreign land. They isolate themselves socially. They live pretentiously. They're loud and ostentatious . . . " (Remind you of any televangelists?)

But some thoughtful, intelligent Americans are presented in the book. One came selling milk powder, so the people of Sarkhan would learn to like milk. Then he planned to introduce Texas milk

Mystery truck driver brightens day for nursing home residents

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - The and keeps a scrapbook of the 18 in a rest home, I would visit and postcards aren't fancy and their messages aren't deep. But the mysterious missives from a truck driver known as "Heavy Duty" have residents of Nebraska nursing homes eagerly awaiting the fat guy," said Mrs. Kramer, one of next day's mail.

paycheck while she worked.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — For Ola McLaurin, getting through the month on the $240 left from her Social Security check after her health insurance is paid is hard

The smallest cost-of-living increase in five years won't make it any easier, she said.

"I'm hurting already," the 79-year-old retired Tampa housekeeper said recently, echoing the sentiments of other elderly people across the nation.

"I've got rent, electricity bills, phone bills that keep going up. My check has to keep up. A few extra dollars just ain't enough," she said.

The government announced recently that the nation's 43 million Social Security recipients will receive a 3.7 percent cost-of-living increase next January, the smallest raise since 1987 when benefits rose 1.3 percent. Last year's increase was 5.4 percent.

The average check will rise just $22 a month to $629, reflecting moderate price inflation because of the sluggish economy.

McLaurin is among an estimated 25 percent of Americans over age 65 who rely on Social Security for more than 90 percent of their income. After paying premiums for says his interest income has fallen supplemental health insurance, her check comes to just $240.

"You try living in this world on $240 a month — it's hard," she said. Other people around the country said times will be tough for them as Claire Seifert, a 68-year-old widow, said she is forced to work as a secretary at Jewish Family Services of Los Angeles to supplement her $600-a-month Social Security check.

"I'm working because I have to," she said. "I can't survive on Social Security alone and a 3.7 percent increase is a slap in the face."

Fred McKimzey, a 64-year-old disabled commercial artist from Little Rock, Ark., agreed that benefits already are too low.

Nursing home shortage affects hospital costs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) -Hospital patients who pay their bills are underwriting the expense of elderly patients too ill to go home but unable to find a nursing home

"Traditionally, there's a shortage of nursing home beds," said Barbara Barnett of the North Carolina Hospital Association.

A May 1989 survey indicated 3,111 people were waiting for nursing home beds, she said.

The average wait for a nursing home bed was 15 days, Ms. Barnett said. But patients with complications could wait longer. A patient in a respirator had to wait an average 53 days and one with a tracheotomy waited 80 days.

In an effort to resolve the problem, the state Health Coordinating Council recently approved an additional 1,500 nursing home beds for 1992.

The problem is causing some hospitals to convert beds to nursing

Rex Hospital in Raleigh already has opened a 140-bed convalescent care center that is much like a nursing home but not restricted to the elderly

Moore Board is trying to attract state prison

By GARY SHANKS Staff Writer

The board of directors of Moore Development for Big Spring Inc. met Friday to discuss attracting a state prison, a master plan for the city and funding for moving a textile industry to Big Spring.

Following a closed session, the board voted to contact an unnamed textile manufacturer and report that the Moore board is willing to discuss funding the move.

The referendum outcome dealt a sharp political blow to Gov. Rafael Hernandez Colon. Leader of the Popular Democratic Party, he favors a continuance of the island's status as a U.S. commonwealth with greater autonomy.

In declaring victory Sunday night, a triumphant Rossello called on his supporters to begin concentrating on the November 1992 elections for governor.

"The referendum is over. Now on to the elections," he declared.

Rossello had pledged that, if elected next year, he would hold a status as a U.S. commonwealth yes-no vote on statehood. A clause in the bill defeated Sunday would for the bill, which he wanted evenhave blocked such a vote, requiring that any referendum include the three options of statehood, independence or remaining a commonwealth.

However, Rossello said Sunday night that if elected he will hold a three-way referendum. But while agreeing to put statehood and independence on the ballot, he left open the option of requiring that a new form of commonwealth be proposed.

In a brief speech conceding the bill's rejection, a somber Hernandez Colon declared, "We accept the will of the Puerto Rican in the House of Representatives.

Anti-statehood bill rejected

Many Puerto Ricans had seen the referendum as a test of Hernandez Colon's popularity, which is waning after seven years in office. Puerto Ricans are about evenly divided between those who want statehood and those who favor staying a commonwealth, according to polls, with less than 10 percent wanting full independence. The referendum bill had called for "the right to choose a status of full political dignity without either colonial or territorial subordination to the plenary powers of the U.S. Congress."

The bill also sought to

"guarantee . . . our culture, language and distinct identity," including the island's right to field its own teams for international tournaments such as the Olympics.

A final clause sought to guarantee U.S. citizenship for Puerto Ricans.

Rossello's party charged that the bill could offend the federal government and lead to a cut in federal benefits such as social security, Medicare, food stamps and subsidized housing.

Three out of five Puerto Rican families receive food stamps.

Independence Party leader Ruben Berrios blamed the bill's defeat on what he called a "scare campaign" by pro-statehood

Sidelines Oilers clinch division title

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers did the same things they did two weeks ago in a loss to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Sunday, they just did it better. Houston rallied behind a rejuvenated running game and two touchdowns by Allen Pinkett for a satisfying 31-6 victory over the Steelers that gave the Oilers their first AFC Central Division championship.

"It's been a long time coming." Oilers center Bruce Matthews said. "I think about the guys who have come and gone and helped make this team what it is. I feel for those guys. It's hard to imagine we got to this point.'

The Oilers (10-4) had failed two straight weeks to wrap up the title in losses to the Steelers (26-14) and Philadelphia (13-6).

They weren't going to be denied a third time Sunday.

Pinkett rushed 98 vards on 16 carries and had touchdown runs of seven and 11 yards. The improved running, opened the Oilers passing lanes and allowed Warren Moon to complete 23 of 36 passes for 254 yards and a 16-yard touchdown pass to Haywood Jeffires.

'All the maybes and what ifs are behind us now, it's here," Matthews said. "And it's very gratifying." The Oilers defense contributed to the victory with seven sacks and a 70-yard fumble return by linebacker Al Smith for a touchdown. "I played half-mad today," said

Ray Childress, who had two sacks. "I've been here for 10 years and this is my happiest moment. I felt we had to play half mad, violent. We've been too gentle. Moon threw a career high five interceptions in the 26-14 loss to the Steelers but he had only one on Sunday. "We didn't do a whole lot difference and they didn't do a lot different," Moon said, comparing the two games. "We just didn't turn the ball over and we ran the ball better because we ran it more Sunday in Houston.

Houston Oilers head coach Jack Pardee is doused with Gatorade in the fourth quarter during a game against the Pittsburgh Steelers

"We played a cat and mouse game with their defense because they were really coming at us.'

The Oilers manhandled the Steelers from the start, taking a 10-3 halftime lead on Pinkett's seven-yard run and a 24-yard field goal by Al Del Greco.

Pittsburgh (5-9) got its only points on a 54-yard field goal by Gary Anderson as the halftime buzzer sounded and a 36-yard Anderson kick with 13 minutes expired in the third quarter.

The Oilers went up 17-3 with 6:21 expired in the third quarter on Moon's pass to Jeffires, who leaped high in the end zone for the score. Pinkett scored on an 11-yard run 35 seconds into the fourth quarter.

The Steelers drove to the Houston eight yard line where Lamar Lathon forced quarterback Neil O'Donnell's fumble. Smith scooped it up and ran 70 yards for the final Oiler touchdown. The celebration started before the end of the game with Houston Coach Jack Pardee being doused twice with kegs of water. Ernest Givins did an end zone dance and defensive end Sean Jones remained on the field long after his teammates had gone into the locker room

"We've been so close for so many years and this is such a special moment," Pardee said. "I've been here 10 years and five of those were littered with coaching changes. This is a relief as much as anything.

Pittsburgh coach Chuck Noll saw little difference in the two games except the outcome

"The effort was pretty good today, we just didn't execute," Noll said. "They were somewhat the same too. They just were better prepared here and the weather was a factor up there.

Anderson's two field goals boosted his career total to 1,000 points. He is the 19th player in NFL history to reach at least 1,000 points.

Howard expected to garner Heisman Trophy

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) -Brigham Young quarterback Ty Detmer has his plans for next weekend all figured out. "I'm going to New York to watch Desmond," Detmer said. The Heisman Trophy will be awarded in New York next weekend, and Detmer - last year's winner — is ready to have Desmond Howard take home the next copy

And why not? Michigan's sensational receiver is considered a prohibitive favorite for the Heisman. He even struck a Heisman pose after scoring one of his 23 touchdowns this season.

The results of the Maxwell Award voting suggest it'll be a landslide.

Howard received the Maxwell, honoring the country's top player, during an hour-long awards program Saturday at the College Football Hall of Fame. He got 74 percent of the vote, winning by the biggest margin in the award's 55 years.

After the program, Howard naturally was asked again about the Heisman.

"I wish I could get it over with," he said, his smile sagging momentarily. "It's kind of dragging out now, with the redundant questions. It gets kind of repetitive. But I'll take it in stride.

He took the Maxwell by storm.

Howard easily beat Detmer and Florida State's Casey Weldon for the award, voted by the Football Writers Association of America, college head coaches and the Maxwell Club.

Howard got 2,402 points in the voting. That's four times as many as Detmer, who won last year as part of his sweep of the Maxwell and Heisman.

Eagles level Giants

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

After winning the most exciting Super Bowl, what would the New York Giants do for an encore?

How about fall apart? Their free fall dropped the Giants out of playoff contention Sunday. The same old problems that have plagued them since the beginning of the season were evident in a 19-14 loss to Philadelphia.

"We've looked like champions at times, and at times we've looked like the worst team in the NFL,' linebacker Steve DeOssie said. "We're not getting turnovers, we've lacked on defense and we haven't made the big plays that are 209 yards. characteristic of the Giants.

Eagles 19, Giants 14 Jeff Kemp replaced the injured Jim McMahon and guided the Eagles back from a 14-3 deficit and to their sixth straight win. Kemp connected for an 8-yard score with Calvin Williams late in the first half, beginning the comeback. Roger Ruzek had four field goals and Philadelphia (9-5) completely clamped down on New York, which has lost seven of eight to the Eagles. "Personally, I am not taking any great satisfaction in knocking off the Giants from a pedestal," Kemp said. "I am just pleased the Eagles are closer to their goal, which is a Super Bowl. We've got a long way

Falcons 31, Rams 14 At Anaheim, Calif., the Falcons (9-5), gaining inspiration from their baseball counterparts in Atlanta, assured their first winning season in nine and moved into first place in the NFC West with their fourth straight victory.

Chris Miller hit 19 of 28 passes for 271 yards and two touchdowns. Michael Haynes had six catches for 112 yards, and Brian Jordan had an interception and two sacks.

"Those guys (the Braves) were just like us at the beginning of the season; they were in the cellar," cornerback Tim McKyer said. "We've been just like the Braves, and we want to do the same thing.' Jim Everett completed just 7 of

At Chicago, Mike Ditka won his 100th regular season game as a coach. Jim Harbaugh threw two touchdown passes to Wendell Davis and Brad Muster ran for two scores as the Bears (10-4) stayed tied with Detroit atop the NFC Central. The Packers (3-11) lost their fifth in the last six games.

Bills 30, Raiders 27

At Los Angeles, the Bills (12-2) won the rematch of last January's AFC Championship, but not nearly as convincingly. They had to rally with 14 points in the fourth period, getting them on a 1-yard run by Kenneth Davis and a 9-yard pass from Jim Kelly to James Lofton with one minute left.

Kelly completed 33 of 52 passes for 347 yards and two touchdowns with one interception.

Irvin and Smith have big games in Dallas' win over New Orleans

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and the New Orleans Saints are both 9-5 with two games to go in the NFL's regular

But Dallas' 23-14 win over the Saints Sunday left the two teams looking at the season from totally different perspectives - the Cowboys as high as any team can be; the Saints as low.

"We're playing with great confidence right now," said Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson, whose Cowboys, 1-15 just two years ago, won their third straight, guaranteed their first winning season since 1985 and moved a step closer to their first playoff berth since that season. And Michael Irvin, who set a singleseason receiving record for the Cowboys, even uttered the magic words — "Super Bowl.

The Saints, meawnhile, are going in the opposite direction, losing for the fourth straight time after starting the season 9-1 and are now tied for first with Atlanta for first in the NFC West, a division they had two shots at clinching. For the third straight week, they lost when a win would have guaranteed a playoff spot.

Moreover, once again they entered the fourth quarter ahead and lost. They've now been outscored 51-7 in the final period of their four straight losses.

"The noose is tightening," said linebacker Pat Swilling.

The fates of the two teams were no better symbolized than by one series after Ken Willis' third field goal of the game, a 40-yarder, had put Dallas ahead 16-14 2:34 into the fourth quarter.

On the next series, Fred McAfee, the Saints' rookie running back, broke loose for 34 yards to the Cowboys' 39. Two runs netted two yards and then coach Jim Mora elected to go for a first down on fourth down rather than try to have Morten Andersen, who has kicked a 60-yard field goal this season, try a 54-yard field goal that could put the Saints ahead.

Steve Walsh's pass was deflected by Bill Bates and the next time New Orleans got the ball back, they were down by nine points and there was just 1:54 left.

The Cowboys drove 63 yards for a touchdown, 54 yards on the ground against what has been the league's second-best defense all season. Emmitt Smith, who finished with 112 yards in 27 carries for the Cowboys, had 50 of his yards on that drive and Tommie Agee capped it with a 4-yard TD

"I just felt we had a better shot at making the first down than having Morten make a 54-yard field goal," said Mora, who also passed up a 55-yarder in overtime against Atlanta two weeks ago, a game New Orleans eventually

What hurt even more was the failure of the defense to hold the Cowboys after Walsh's fourthdown pass went awry. The Saints, who were without Vince Buck and Reggie Jones and lost Toi Cook with a broken arm during the game, had just one true cornerback and had to play safety Gene Atkins there.

"The injuries hurt, but that's no excuse," Mora said.

Indeed, Smith became the first player in 19 games to rush for 100 yards against one of the game's best front sevens. "Any time someone makes 100 yards on you, it hurts," said Swilling. But that wasn't the whole story Irvin had six catches for 101 of Walker to Minnesota for a dozen players and draft choices has allowed Johnson to rebuild the Cowboys as quickly as he has.

It's a symbolic record — the trade

Steve Beuerlein, winning his third straight game in relief of the injured Troy Aikman, was 17 of 29 for 184 yards and had a 1-yard touchdown pass to Daryl Johnston that gave the Cowboys a 7-0 first-period lead. Willis added a 50-yard field goal 10 seconds into the second period before Walsh hit Eric Martin with an 8-yard TD pass to make it 10-7 at the half.

After Willis kicked a 41-yarder to make it 13-7, Walsh, who was 26 of 39 for 238 yards, hit Gill Fenerty with a 4-yard TD toss on third down to put the Saints ahead

But then came the fourth quarter, which isn't the Saints'

It is for the Cowboys, who unlike the Saints, have the depth to overcome injury

'Steve Beuerlein is a secondstring quarterback with firststring ability," said Irvin. "He knows his role as a backup, but he plays like starter.'

Dallas now heads for Philadlephia, which is also 9-5.

Langer coasts to victory

SUN CITY, South Africa (AP) — It was the best of times for Bernhard Langer, the worst for Ian Woosnam and David Frost.

Langer completed a recordbreaking performance Sunday to win the Million Dollar Golf Challenge at 16-under-par, five strokes ahead of American Mark Calcavecchia.

He also was a whopping 28 shots in front of Frost, the twotime defending champion who limped in at 12-over 300, 16 strokes higher than his winning total a year earlier.

The 34-year-old Langer set three tournament records and tied two others en route to grabbing golf's richest top prize — $1 million.

Langer's total of 272 broke the old record of 274. His 54-hole total of 200 also was a record and came in his record sixth appearance in the tournament.

He joined Seve Ballesteros and Frost as the only two-time winners. Langer's secondround 65 also tied the tournament mark for lowest round on the 7,729-yard Gary Player Country Club course.

After the first round, Langer predicted that 10- to 14-under would win. He beat that total, and needed to because Calcavecchia, who began the day 10 strokes back, fired six birdies with one bogey to make it close.

Langer said his big lead at the start of play Sunday left him undecided on how to approach the round.

"I looked at the pins and said, 'Well, I'd better be aggressive," said Langer, who also won the tournament in Aggressive he was. For the second straight day, he blasted a long second shot to the island green of the par-5 ninth hole to set up a birdie.

"I just kept hanging in there, making some birdies and the occasional bogey," Langer said of his even-par final round that followed a 68, 65 and 67.

"I surprised myself a little bit" in the tournament, he said. "It was pretty amazing golf."

Calcavecchia pulled within four shots of the lead with a birdie on No. 16. A bogey on the 18th, which he double bogeyed Saturday, gave him a 67 and 277 total

"If someone told me I'd come here and shoot 11 under par, I'd have laughed," he said. "On top of that, to lose by five or six. I would have really laughed.

First-round leader Mark McNulty of Zimbabwe carded a 74 to end up 6-under for third place.

Nick Faldo of Britain, the world's second-ranked player, fell off to a 76 in the final round and a fourth-place finish at 3-under. South African John Bland and American Fred Couples tied for fifth at 1-under

For the other four players, the tournament ended on a bogey-filled note.

Woosnam, the world's topranked player, carded his third poor round to finish 5-over and in seventh place. A favorite coming in, Woosnam said he never felt comfortable, even after his second-round 68.

"I've just got no coordination," said the stocky Welshman, who was coming off three straight winning performances

"You can't play well every week," he said. "It's hard to recover on a course like this, especially the way the pins were today.'

Snake's intelligence have little to do with smarts

DEAR ABBY: "Karen," whose letter said snakes make loving pets, must have a very unusual snake. She said she has a 6 1/2-foot boa constrictor that she used to take everywhere. It is very intelligent, she claims — it kisses her on command, and once it even chased away a prowler it heard coming through the sliding glass

Abby, snakes are not very intelligent — they have very small brains and cannot hear. They have no ears, but they feel "vibrations." Also, her snake is not "kissing" her

— it is smelling her. A snake's sense of smell is its best weapon have had him since I was 11 years old. (I am now 38.) Leonard does not know his name, although I speak to him often. From what I have learned about snakes, Leonard has lived a very long time for a bull snake, and he is probably nearing the end of his life. Although it may seem silly to be sentimental over a reptile, after I also have a pet snake. His name having him around for 27 years, I

DEAR ABBY: I fear your correspondent Karen has a very fertile imagination concerning the "intelligence" of snakes.

When I was a kid back in the old country — Hungary — I also had a pet snake, which I carried around inside my shirt to pull out when I met a girl I knew would scream when she saw it. (Most girls react with horror at the sight of a snake.)

Abby, I know something about snakes, and I can tell you that you can't teach a snake anything much less have it respond to a request for a kiss. Snakes are far is Leonard. He's a bull snake and I will cry when he dies. - MICHELE from intelligent. They have only

"reptilian brains," barely adequate to respond to anything beyond their instinct to survive.

As for a snake going after a burglar who was attempting to enter through a sliding door snakes cannot hear. They feel only vibrations, and they pick up smells with their tongues.

Furthermore, the only snake that appears to enjoy (or even tolerate) handling is the indigo snake found in the southern part of the United States — and the poor critters are hunted to near extinction for this very reason. — ERWIN FUCHS, SEATTLE

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a businesssize, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. FOR TUESDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1991 HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Set aside routine activities to develop new skills and talents. Greater versatility will boost your income in 1992. Your leadership potential surfaces late next spring, thrusting you into an executive position. A timely business move means new prestige in early fall. There could be one or more additions to the family circle by next Thanksgiving.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actors Kenneth Branagh and Harold Gould. basketball star Mark Aguirre, actress Susan Dey.
ARIES (March 21-April 19): Logic has nothing to do with a decision made today. You will not get far trying to reason or ra tionalize with someone. Follow your hunches about people and opportunities.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take a conservative approach when making in-novative suggestions. Your original ideas will receive a better hearing that way. Avoid risky forms of recreation. Take a friend's

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It should be easy to make the correct choice today. Avoid making a big deal out of nothing at work. Time is on your side. Play a waiting

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can afford to bargain now. Do not make a major purchase until you have studied all the angles and priced several sources. Be sure to fulfill your family obligations. Offer practical support. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Progress can be made on the job front. Well-connected pals could aid your career or give you good advice on handling a financial matter. Plan a great evening for your loved ones. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It pays to hedge your bets. Have an alternative plan up your sleeve in case of last-minute changes. Leave your work at the office tonight. Entertain a small group in your

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You usually have shrewd instincts where money is concerned. Adopt a wait-and-see attitude if you have any misgivings about a business tran-saction. Keep within your budget.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Small details could become petty annoyances. Scour a business plan to make sure all is well. Shop for value when purchasing holiday gifts. A teen-ager needs more of your time and SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Keep important discussions under wraps for the time being. A new concept could be misunderstood by certain people on the job.

Show loved one a wonderful evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The chances of working out an agreement are better today than yesterday. Remain calm and cooperative. A compromise helps relieve tension between you and your partner. Focus on achieving shared goals.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Display our affection openly to someone you love. Creative types should concentrate on get-ting their ideas on paper. Brainstorming sessions are favored. Cater to the feelings of a parent this evening. Be attentive. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Unusual contractual arrangements or expenditures may be needed to wipe out an obligation. Parlay your communication skills into a consul tant's job. Investigate self-employment
