Mitchell, Borden shows underway

Stock shows in Mitchell and Borden counties are underway today and Saturday.

The 55th Annual Mitchell County 4-H and Future Farmers of America Show began Thursday at the Mitchell County agriculture barn, said County Extension Agent Bryan Limmer. Judging will be Saturday. There were 72 students who signed to show 183 animals.

The Borden County Junior Livestock Show also began Thursday and will run through Saturday at the county show barn, said Sharlot Stone, secretary to the county agriculture agent.

Bank staff wins award

The staff of First National Bank of Big Spring was named the recipients of the second Pride in Big Spring award.

The presentation was made at the bank this morning.

Sponsored by the Herald and the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, the award differs from the Best of Big Spring award in that it honors entire businesses for creating an atmosphere of customer dedication, or an individual who has continually extended courtesy and special efforts.

C.G. Evans of Don's IGA was awarded the first PiBS Award Thursday.

Mayors ask Bush for help

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of U.S. mayors wants the Bush administration to find ways to curb growing social ills such as urban violence, gang warfare, school dropout and drug use.

Several members of the National League of Cities met Thursday with President Bush to request creation of a commission that would take a long-term look at the urban problems and ways to solve them.

Sheriff hopefuls call for progress

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Challengers in the race for Howard County sheriff say they want a more progressive department that works well with city police and other law enforcement agencies.

The 27-year incumbent says the office has been progressive as well as cooperative with other agencies and will continue to be so. "I'm a candidate for re-election whose record is based on proven merits. If re-elected, I will stay the course of doing the job I was elected to do as cost effectively as possible," said Sheriff A.N. Standard, 63, who is running as a Democrat.

"Let's move forward," urged Jimmy Wallace, 43, a sheriff deputy who will face Standard in the March 10 primary. "The times have changed. It's just the right thing to do."

"If the county wants to go in a new direction in law enforcement, they'll elect me," promised Neel G. Barnaby, 48, facility administrator of the Big Spring Correction Center, who is running as a Republican. "I think I can make the sheriff's office one of the most respected sheriff offices in West Texas."

Most issues so far have been raised between Standard and Wallace. Barnaby, who on Nov. 10 will face the winner of the March primary, said he plans to run a low-key campaign, at least for now.

The issues include:

- Progressive changes and more education of deputies.
- "We need education desperately," Wallace said. Training classes are readily available, he said. "Most of these schools are already bought and paid for."
- "We are fulfilling (state law) guidelines," Standard assured. Whenever possible, deputies takes classes taught by a Howard County deputy who is state certified to teach so that travel costs and time are reduced. He also said the office through the years has consistently kept up with changing state standards for certification of deputies and the jail.

"If I go in, I'm going to look at it from top to bottom. I'm going to make some changes," Barnaby said. "As far as any changes, I can't say until I get in there and look at it."

However, Barnaby did stress that he would work on public relations, including adding programs to reach young school children. "If you don't start with them young, when they get older, it's going to be too late."

Standard said his office has already helped initiate a drug prevention program, called D-FY-IT, in the Coahoma Independent School District, has offered to help the Forsan ISD with the program

More than 150 kids entering stock show

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

The Howard County Youth Stock Show began Thursday at 3 p.m. with the weighing and classifying of more than 385 animals, said Dusty Johnston, chairman.

"I imagine we've got between 150 and 175 kids from Sands FFA (Future Farmers of America), Coahoma FFA, Big Spring FFA and Howard County 4-H," Johnston said.

Forsan students will be represented in the Howard County 4-H Club, he said.

The stock show is in the Howard County Fair Barns. The various shows and judging will take place in the Show Arena, he said.

There are 115 lambs entered for the three different wool categories. Hogs or swine are divided into five breeds. Heifers have one breed and there are three breeds of steer, Johnston said. Capons, or castrated roosters, are also in the livestock show.

"There is no admission to the events and we hope the public will come out and see the show. The stock show sale begins at 1:30 p.m. Saturday," Johnston said.

the animals. Stock animals are hand fed, meaning the youths have control over the type and amount of feed the animal receives.

"Our grand champion steers may sell for over a $1,000 and our hogs and lambs for over $500," he said.

The champion capon sells for about $175. For placing animals, those that earn first, second or third, average sales may be $150-$200 for lambs and hogs and $350-$400 for steers, Johnston said.

"Of course, the youths keep their animals. This is like a reward, an incentive, for their hard work," he said.

Friday at noon the swine were judged, followed by the capon show. The lamb judging begins at 6 p.m.

Colorado City resident shot to death Saturday

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A Colorado City man shot to death Saturday had argued with his slayer moments before the shooting as a drug deal was taking place, according to police.

Jimmy Dean Parham, 28, was found dead in a room where he lived at the Western Motel in Colorado City with two gunshot wounds to the neck and chest. He was discovered by the motel manager shortly after midnight.

Accused of the killing is Jimmy Davis Beavers, 19, of Abilene, also known as Jimmy Jiles, who was arrested Tuesday without incident at his apartment in Abilene and charged with first degree murder. A man allegedly with Beavers when the shooting occurred is identified but not arrested. Beavers is being held at the Mitchell County Jail on a $250,000 bond.

Beavers and the other man were allegedly purchasing "crack" cocaine from Parham when an argument began, according to statements given to Colorado City police, said Police Chief David Montgomery.

"It looked like it was drug related," Montgomery said. "An argument ensued, names were exchanged. One of the subjects pulled out a 25 (-caliber) automatic and shot him.

"We've got a statement from him (Beavers) and we've got enough evidence and statements from other people to go to the grand jury with," Montgomery said. Asked if a confession was given, he said, "I can't say he actually confessed."

The pistol, which witnesses say Beavers owned, and a small amount of marijuana was recovered at the scene and fingerprints were lifted, Montgomery said. Also, Witnesses saw Beavers with bloody clothing. Cocaine was not found.

Beavers, on probation for misdemeanor assault, said in his statement that he had belonged to a New York gang called the "Queen Street Bloods" when he lived in that city, Montgomery said. Abilene police told Colorado City police that Beavers is affiliated with an Abilene gang called the "Bloods."

Parham, who had misdemeanor convictions of possession of marijuana and paraphernalia, was described by relatives and acquaintances as shy and quiet but his life was strewn with tragedies.

CEDs' future cloudy

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

County Education Districts created by the 72nd Legislature late last spring may be ruled unconstitutional in 1992, according to the Supreme Court of Texas and other state and local officials.

"The County Education Districts are a failure and they're not working. They're highly unpopular and I believe... the County Education Districts will be thrown out by the Supreme Court (of Texas)," said State Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring.

"I'm going to be leading the change to do away with the County Education Districts. I think I'm going to be a key player in the plan to file legislation," Fraser said.

Fraser said the mineral and property wealth of West Texas is a crucial part of the school finance debate. West Texas has smaller school districts with less students and greater taxing wealth to provide education for those students.

"Carl Parker, the chairman of the education senate committee has said the oil wealth in West Texas belongs to the state of Texas

(The plan) is to pull all the tax base into the state and create more bureaucracy to use the money.

"This is clearly a battle to dilute our wealth and any more changes in the system will penalize us. The battle is the wealth of West Texas and the rest of the state — the urban areas," Fraser said.

The Texas Legislature created the CEDs following a Supreme Court ruling on the 1984 lawsuit now commonly known as Edgewood vs. Kirby.

Edgewood, a property poor San Antonio school district, sued the Texas education system over inequities in funding and the Supreme Court ruled that Texas lawmakers must find a way to equalize school finance.

"The real problem is that the Supreme Court... won't give any indication of what they will approve. We need clear instruction of what they want us to do and what they will approve," Fraser said.

The CEDs are empowered to collect no less than 72 cents per $100 property valuation to be redistributed to the school districts that make up the local county district.

Big Spring was paired with Forsan, Coahoma and Garden City schools but Sands Consolidated Schools was incorporated into the largest CED created by legislators.

Sands' district includes 26 schools from Borden, Dawson, Gaines, Lubbock, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum counties. There are a total of 188 county education districts in the state.

Each local district was forced to raise school taxes to meet the 72 cents requirement as well as continue to fund their own programs.

Under what has been called the "Robin Hood" formula Forsan stands to lose about $12 million

World leaders appeal to Cuba for mercy

MEXICO CITY (AP) — World leaders are appealing to Cuba to lift the death sentences imposed on two Miami residents condemned for attempted terrorism.

Cuban leader Fidel Castro will be even more isolated from the international community by "such an atrocity as sending some dissident sons of Cuba to the wall before a firing squad," said Oscar Arias, a former Costa Rican president and Nobel Peace prize winner.

On Thursday, Cuba's supreme court upheld the death penalties of the two men but commuted that of a third to 30 years in prison.

The decision followed a dramatic televised hearing in which the convicted men, pleading for their lives, implicated one of Cuba's most important dissidents, Gustavo Arcos, who was immediately arrested.

Cuba has long attempted to tag human rights activists as CIA agents.

"These three men were not — and the Cuban government knows this — in any way connected with the United States," U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III told reporters in Mexico.

"They have not accomplished anything in terms of injury and we have asked that the government of Cuba show mercy in the case." He denied U.S. involvement in the case.

Cuba's 31-member Council of State, headed by President Fidel

Castro, has the power to save the men from the firing squad.

Cuba's foreign minister, Isidro Malmierca, told reporters in Mexico City that the death penalty "is what those criminals deserve."

"There is a popular clamor" for it, he said.

Malmierca, Arias and Baker were in Mexico City Thursday for the signing of the Salvadoran peace treaty. Baker and Malmierca were seen talking, but what they discussed was not immediately known.

A black-and-white picture of the meeting, made available by the Mexican presidential press office to The Associated Press, showed Baker and Malmierca sitting next to each other.

Malmierca is pointing a finger at a woman translator. Baker is smiling, his head turned toward Malmierca. Standing and listening is former Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega.

The Czechoslovak Foreign Ministry and Nicaragua's current president, Violeta Chamorro, also appealed to Cuba to spare the lives of the men, who were arrested on Dec. 29 as they landed on the island carrying a load of arms.

Cuba's Supreme Popular Tribunal upheld the death sentences against Eduardo Diaz Betancourt, 38, and Daniel Santovenia, 36, whose father took part in the disastrous U.S.-planned Bay of Pigs invasion in 1961.

Military officers meet in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — More than 5,000 officers of the former Soviet armed forces, feeling threatened by nationalist claims on their loyalty, met in the Kremlin today seeking unity, but began to quarrel immediately.

They argued over the agenda and the question of television coverage, and were angry over the absence of most of the former Soviet republics' presidents. Russian President Boris Yeltsin and Kazakhstan President Nursultan Nazarbayev were the only two leaders of the 11 former republics to attend.

Nazarbayev told the officers that the two main issues facing the new Commonwealth of Independent States are price reform and the future of the military.

"The army, whose duty is to defend nations, is itself in great need of protection. And it's our duty to provide for it," he said.

Saddam finally admits Iraq's defeat

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Saddam Hussein publicly admitted today that Iraq was militarily defeated in the Gulf War, and accused the allies of pulverizing his country with nearly 110,000 tons of bombs.

Until now, the Iraqi leader has never said flatly that Iraq's vaunted military was defeated in the 43-day war, which he dubbed "the Mother of All Battles."

Iraq's military was seriously battered in the fight to oust Baghdad from Kuwait, although post-war allied assessments indicate that the military losses were considerably less than initially claimed.

"From a conventional and material standpoint... the gathering of the faithful was defeated and the gathering of infidelity, vice and corruption triumphed," Saddam said in a speech.

But he claimed at least a moral victory, saying: "A miracle was attained in this showdown. Faith triumphed over atheism and right triumphed over wrong."

American businessman kidnapped

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Four armed men kidnapped a prominent American businessman today while he was on his way to work in Manila's financial district, a company official said.

Michael Barnes, 41, vice president of Philippine Geothermal Inc., was abducted in front of the Metrobank building where his office is located, said Rex Lores, the firm's corporate affairs manager.

Barnes, of Long Beach, Calif., also is vice president of the American Chamber of Commerce in the Philippines.

Police Capt. Olderico Angeles said three of the four men armed with revolvers and a pistol jumped out of a van that cut Barnes' path and ordered him into the vehicle. Angeles said a check on the abductors' vehicle showed that the jeep had a stolen carplate.

Cesar Nazareno, the national police director-general, ordered a manhunt for the kidnapers.

Victim's family awarded $100,000

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP) — The family of a slain teacher has been awarded $100,000 after suing the store that sold the gun used in her shooting. An adult cousin bought the gun for one of her teenage students.

Attorneys for the store, Guns Unlimited, argued that operators had no idea the cousin, Curtis Lee Williams, 40, was buying the gun for the teen-ager, noting that he lied on a form recording the sale.

Thursday's jury award was the first time a gun shop was held liable for damages in such a purchase, said Dennis A. Henigan of the Washington-based Center to Prevent Handgun Violence.

Nicholas Elliott killed teacher

Karen H. Farley and wounded a second teacher at the Atlantic Shores Christian School on Dec. 16, 1988. He was 16 at the time.

The 9mm semiautomatic handgun he used in the rampage was purchased for him three months earlier by Williams.

Williams, who served a 15-month prison term for lying on federal paperwork recording the sale, testified the boy, who was 15 at the time, was with him in the store, told the sales clerk which gun he wanted to get and carried the $300 firearm from the store.

Elliott is serving a life sentence after pleading guilty to first-degree murder.

AIDS cases spreading faster now

ATLANTA (AP) — It took eight years for the first 100,000 AIDS cases to appear in the United States. It took just 26 months for the next 100,000, a group including more heterosexuals, women and minorities.

The Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that the nation's AIDS count now stands at 206,392 cases, with 133,232 deaths. It was August 1989 when the 100,000th case was reported; the next 100,000 came in just more than two years.

"The cumulative total... emphasizes the rapidly increasing magnitude of the HIV (AIDS virus) epidemic," the CDC said in its report.

The second 100,000 AIDS cases differed from the first 100,000: —Seven percent of the newer AIDS cases were traced to heterosexual transmission. That's up 44 percent compared with the first 100,000, 5 percent of which were heterosexual cases.

Lady Hawks whip Fresno City, 78-39

FRESNO CITY, Calif. — The Howard College Lady Hawks won their first contest game of a three-game California road trip as they whipped Fresno City 78-39 Thursday night.

The wins gives the No. 12 Lady Hawks 16-3 overall record. Fresno City falls to 10-10.

Howard coach Royce Chadwick said it wasn't one of his team's better performances. "We really didn't play that well," said Chadwick. "We left Big Spring today and the kids had to get up at 5 (a.m.). We had a layover in El Paso and by the time we got to LA, it was 15 minutes 'till 4. By the time we checked in and put on our uniforms it was almost time to play."

"The kids did a heck of a job just getting out there and playing. Kings River (next opponent) is 15-8 and Sequoia (Saturday's opponent) is 20-2, so that will be good for us. We ought to play better tomorrow."

Howard was paced by reserve Vernetra Allen with 12 points. Desiree Wallace and Yolanda Wells scored nine points each and Anita Wright added seven points.

The Lady Hawks will play Kings River tonight in Reedley at 9 Texas time.

Longhorn pitcher will have surgery

AUSTIN (AP) — A junior college transfer expected to be one of the Texas Longhorns top pitchers says he prefers to undergo surgery rather than rehabilitation, possibly ending his season.

Chad Trahan, a righthanded pitcher who went 24-2 over two seasons at Seminole Junior College, has a slightly torn rotator cuff in his right shoulder, according to Dr. Carey Windler, the team's physician.

Windler recommended that Trahan rehabilitate for six to eight weeks or undergo arthroscopic surgery and then complete the rehabilitation.

"I think right now we'll go in with the scope," said Trahan, a 6-foot-4-inch junior. "I'm real disappointed, but on the other hand, I'm hoping it will come out positive. Dr. Windler ... thinks it's minor."

Trahan, who has been clocked at 94 mph, began sensing trouble last spring when his fastball dropped to 88 mph.

Texas was involved in a recruiting battle last spring with defending national champion Louisiana State and Miami for Trahan.

Green's return a success

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Steve Green's returned to Dorothy Garrett Coliseum just as he left it — a winner.

Thursday night Green's Midland College Chaparrals came away with a 90-83 victory to hold on to first place in the WJCAC race. Green coached at Howard College for the past three seasons and it was his first return back to Garrett Coliseum.

The wins gives Midland a 5-0 conference mark and 15-4 overall record. The Hawks fall to 2-4 in conference play and 15-5 overall.

Both Green and Howard coach Jeff Kidder said that free throw shooting had a big impact of the outcome of the game, even though both teams shot about the same. Howard was 25 of 37 for 67 percent while Midland was 24 of 35 from the line for 68 percent.

The Chaps led for the majority of the game, Howard had to rally from 10-point deficits in each half. The Hawks had the lead for a short span three times in the second half, but every time Howard managed a

Perhaps the unsung hero of the contest was Midland starting guard Terrance Rone, who didn't score his first points of the game until 6:15 was left in the contest. Howard had just taken its first lead of the half, 73-72, thanks to two free throws by Corey Williams.

Rone came back and hit a jumper and then followed it with a three-pointer from the top of the key, giving the Chaps a 77-73 lead with 5:35 left.

Rone went on to score five more points down the crucial stretch.

"Terrance hit some big shots at the end of the game," said Green. "He's like a little boxer: He gets knocked around but he comes back. We've been a pretty good free throw shooting team. It seems like in the close games, we step up and hit our free throws."

Coach Kidder said poor Howard free throw shooting in the first half made a big difference. "It started with the free throws. The effort was there. Then we got back to trading baskets with them. I was thinking whoever had the ball last would win. Then we didn't make the plays in crucial situations." Howard struggled from the line early in the game. Midway through the first half Howard was 3-9 from the line and Midland led 21-13. The Chaps opened a 29-19 margin, but the Hawks rallied to cut it to 41-38 at the half. The Chaps hit 8 of 11 foul shots in the first half. "There was no rhythm to the

Bulls continue mastery over Cavaliers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember a few years ago, when Michael Jordan made a last-second shot against Cleveland that sent him dancing around the court and sent the Chicago Bulls into the second round of the playoffs?

The Cavaliers sure do. Because ever since Jordan ended their 1988-89 season, they have not been able to beat the Bulls.

Chicago made it 12 in a row Thursday night, winning in Cleveland 100-85 behind Jordan's 35 points. The game matched the teams with the two top records in the NBA, and the Bulls left little doubt about who was best with their seventh straight victory.

Nuggets 101, Mavericks 90
Winston Garland scored 25 points and Denver kept Dallas winless in 1992, sending the Mavericks to their 10th straight loss.

The Nuggets had lost eight in a row on the road. But Garland's three late baskets prevented Dallas from winning its first game since Dec. 23.

Seattle won in its first game under interim coach Bob Kloppenburg as Shawn Kemp made four foul shots in the final minute. Kloppenburg replaced K.C. Jones, who was fired Wednesday night.

Kemp's two free throws with 42.4 seconds left put the Sonics ahead 99-98. Ricky Pierce led Seattle with 26 points, including 10 of his team's final 14 points.

Danny Manning scored 26 points for visiting Los Angeles.

Warriors 98, Rockets 91
Billy Owens led a late run and Tim Hardaway finished with 27 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists as Golden State improved to 12-5 on the road.

The Warriors overcame a 17-point deficit in the first quarter. Owens scored six points during an 11-0 burst in the final period that put Golden State ahead for good. He scored 11 of his 15 points in the fourth quarter.

Hakeem Olajuwon became Houston's all-time leading rebounder. He got 19 for a total of 6,976, two more than Moses Malone. Otis Thorpe had 25 points and 20 rebounds for the Rockets.

Walsh goes back to former stomping ground

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Stanford has Bill Walsh as its football coach, and it's full speed ahead.

Walsh, 60, wanted nothing to do with any diminished capacity or figurehead position. He plans on coaching and overseeing the Cardinal football program right on down to making recruiting trips.

"I was on the phone already this morning," Walsh said Thursday at a news conference. "It's so easy how it all comes out. (Stanford) is obviously an easy product to sell. The next step is getting on the plane. I'm prepared for (recruiting), and at this moment it sounds like fun."

After spending three seasons as a television analyst for NBC, Walsh took over a Stanford team that finished its 1991 season with an 8-4 record after losing 18-17 to Georgia Tech in the Aloha Bowl. The Cardinal tied for second in the Pac-10 with a 6-2 mark.

Walsh first coached at Stanford during the 1977 and 1978 seasons, leading the Cardinal to a 17-7 record with victories in postseason bowl games after each season.

Under Walsh, Stanford went 9-3 in 1977 with a 24-14 victory over Louisiana State in the Sun Bowl, and 8-4 in 1978 with a 25-22 victory over Georgia in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

He went on to amass a 102-63-1 record with the 49ers, winning six NFC Western Division titles and three Super Bowls (1982-85-89).

"Bill Walsh is a legend in football," said Stanford tailback Glyn Milburn. "My respect for him is immeasurable. Right now we're looking for everything to improve, support and ticket sales, just because of his name."

Walsh also introduced Terry Shea, formerly the head coach at San Jose State, as his assistant coach and offensive coordinator.

"It's going to be an aggressive program," Walsh said. "We're going to play exactly as Denny's teams played, and we're going to have all the intensity the opposition can handle."

"I'm still a little flabbergasted that we have a guy of his stature," Leland said. "We have a five-year contract, but we hope that Bill will have so much fun here that he will finish his career at Stanford."

'Homecoming' gift

Thursday evening was a homecoming of sorts for Midland College basketball coach Steve Green, as the former Howard College coach was in town for a contest against the Hawks. Howard College cheerleader Amy Stockwell was one of the cheerleaders who presented the coach with a mum before the game started.

Committee makes plans for ninth HOC festival

By STEVE REAGAN
City Editor

Thoughts of a giant block party may seem a bit out of place, given the recent freezing weather, but officials are busy planning for the ninth annual Heart of the City Festival.

The festival is scheduled for June 5-6 on Main Street between Fourth and First streets, and Heart of the City committee members began planning for the event Wednesday night at the Railroad Plaza.

The tentative schedule calls for festivities to begin June 5 with a street dance in the evening, featuring Destino, a Tejano band from Odessa.

A full slate of activities are scheduled for the next day, including events such as gorilla volleyball, a car stereo contest, auto and fashion shows and a barbecue cookoff. The festival will close that night with another street dance, this one featuring the country-western band Heartless.

HOC Committee Chairman Barry Barnett said this year's schedule, pared down somewhat from 1991, should make for a more entertaining festival.

"Last year was just too many hours in one weekend to get everything in," he said. "This year should be better because we'll have more quality entertainment in a smaller amount of hours."

Another feature of the festival is a variety of vendors. Between 50 and 75 booths were operated at last year's events and officials are hoping to exceed that amount this year.

"We hope we can improve on that number," Barnett said. "One of my objectives is to make the festival bigger and better every year."

The major concern right now for the committee, however, is getting enough volunteers to help ensure the event's success.

"We did this last year with basically about 15 people," Barnett said. "The big problem now is that we need bodies... The more we have, the easier it will be for everybody."

"Basically, the people in here are putting their lives on hold for the next five months," he added. "It's almost like a full-time job."

Court docket

Filings in Howard County courts indicate the following:

- Larry Simmons, 35, Route 61, Box 460-A, pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense of driving while intoxicated and was sentenced to three years in prison.
- Robert Lara Contreras, 34, of Lamesa, pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was sentenced to three years probation and fined $500.

- Dewayne Bledsoe, 31, 705 Cherry, had a probation for DWI revoked and was sentenced to 49 days in jail and fined $500.

- Michael Lara Paredes, 31, Route 76, Box 157, was sentenced to three days in jail for a DWI conviction.
- James Willie Matthews, 60, 910 Rannels, pleaded guilty to revocation of a DWI probation and was sentenced to five years probation.

CEDs

while Garden City schools may lose as much as $1.2 million from their property tax revenues, officials predict.

School officials have estimated that Coahoma will gain about $572,000, and Big Spring may gain as much as an estimated $1.6 million from the redistribution of wealth. But if the county education districts are ruled unconstitutional, lawmakers must return to Austin to come up with another finance plan.

"We'll try to reverse everything that's been done and go back to the prior system we had," Fraser said.

The local CED set the tax rate at 79 cents per $100 property valuation, slightly higher than the required amount determined by the Commissioner of Education, Lionel Meno. Decreased property values in the area were attributed to the 7 cent difference, the CED board explained.

Fraser said he hopes the Supreme Court will leave the CEDs in place for the remainder of this school year, even if they do rule them unconstitutional. The CEDs are expected to raise $4.5 billion to fund Texas schools this year.

At the heart of the court debate is whether the CEDs are imposing a statewide property tax. If the court determines the collection and redistribution on money amounts to a statewide property tax, legislators, in effect, would have violated the state constitution.

"If they rule it unconstitutional, then the taxes are uncollectable and there would be no valid taxing entity. The Legislature doesn't have a method for coming up with the money. It comes from local sources and if it's held invalid, we'll have a monster problem," Fraser said.

He said he also intends to introduce legislation that will prohibit the court system from being involved with school finance.

"I'm going to attempt a constitutional amendment on the ballot that will change the Constitution, saying the courts do not have authority over school finance. The Legislature has ultimate authority and it will remove the court from coming in each year," Fraser said.

The Supreme Court has not made a ruling, but did issue a statement that the case is still under review.

and has conducted bike safety and fingerprint education programs.

- Cooperation with other law enforcement agencies.

"We need to cooperate. The criminal element now is too high tech for us to keep secrets," Wallace said. "Right now we're losing. We've definitely got a drug problem in Howard County."

"I have a duty to cooperate. I also have a right to disagree," Standard said. "I will continue on that course of cooperation as long as it's in the best interest of county government and law enforcement." An upcoming issue, he said, will be a possible centralized jail for city and county prisoners.

- Implementing emergency 911 telephone equipment, such as a computer terminal and printer, in the sheriff's office.

"I would never refuse it. I never refused it," Standard said. He said he does not totally endorse the system because of possible liabilities the county could incur. Not all 911 operators are trained in trauma and medical emergencies, he said, and until a few months ago, after complaints from Standard, rural addressing had not been completed.

"I will see that the 911 system is operational within the sheriff department as it was designed to be, voted upon, and that the citizens of Howard County are paying for," Wallace said. He said he would also work with 911 officials to provide information for more detailed rural addresses.

- Bringing in a computer system to handle bookkeeping and filing.

A computer system is already being brought on line, Standard said, and will continue to be as time and money allows.

"It's still done the way it was 30 years ago," Wallace said.

- Staffing of shifts.

Wallace said he would spread shiftwork out more to have at least two deputies on each shift, including a graveyard shift, which he said he and others have had to work at risk by themselves. "We don't have the time, we don't have the luxury, we don't have the manpower to have everyone down there in the daytime."

Standard said most activity, including serving legal papers and warrants and transporting prisoners, takes place in the daytime. Other law enforcement agencies and off-duty deputies are available to back up a deputy who usually works alone during a three or four hour period before sunrise, he said.

Wallace said, "Warrants and papers can be served at anytime. That's not strictly a daytime job."

Standard said Wallace, who was a night supervisor, should have addressed any manpower deficiencies while in charge of the four-deputy shift from 5 p.m. to sunrise. "He had the option to regulate his shift in any way he wanted to long as I knew."

"But I did (address it)," Wallace said. He said Standard rejected at least half a dozen different recommendations.

"I do not recall that conversation," Standard said.

Standard, born in Mississippi and raised in Central Texas and Big Spring, was elected sheriff in 1964 after then Sheriff Miller Harris declined to run. Standard was a deputy in that office since 1960, attaining the rank of chief deputy.

Before that, he was an officer with the Big Spring Police Department since 1950, beginning as a foot patrolman and eventually becoming a detective and daytime shift supervisor. He reached the rank of captain. He also served three years as a military policeman with the Army-Air Force.

Wallace, born and raised in Roscoe, has been a deputy since 1984, reaching the position of night supervisor. Before that, he was an officer with the Big Spring Police Department since 1971, where he began as a patrolman and attained the rank of detective sergeant.

Wallace was put on forced administrative leave without pay last Friday, the day he filed for office, by Standard, who cited a conflict of interest.

Barnaby, born in Big Spring and raised in different areas of the country because his father was in the Navy, has been at the Correction Center since the facility opened in 1989. Before that, he was a district drilling coordinator for Eastman Whipstock for 10 years.

He also worked five years with the Louisiana State Police, seven years with the New Orleans Police Department and served four years with the U.S. Navy.

Youth offer mission of love in Mexico

By LYNN HAYES
For the Herald

While most of us were celebrating the recent holidays, 12 members of the Nazarene Youth International youth group of the First Church of the Nazarene were on a mission of love in Mexico.

Sponsored by Southern Nazarene University, the group left Big Spring Dec. 26 on a 30-hour journey to Ciudad de Valles where they, along with 260 other volunteers from churches throughout Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, worked on existing Nazarene churches.

Local youth volunteers included Tracy Carpenter, David Carpenter, David Doll, Lance Moore, Brena Smith, Michael Wiley, Marcus Wiley, Chris Rosenbaum and Billy Sutton; adult leaders were Pat Sutton, Bobbie Bayes and Wilma Doll.

The trip, titled "Commission Unto Mexico," was a work and witness trip, said Wilma Doll, youth leader. Not only did the group perform manual labor on church structures, they had the opportunity to witness about the Lord to the Mexicans and the Hausteca Indians.

"The Nazarene church has an International Missionary Society and we send missionaries to several different countries," Wilma explained.

Of the 17 Nazarene churches in the area, the 260 volunteers were sent to work at four different sites.

The group from the First Church of the Nazarene look over some pictures they took while on a mission trip to Mexico. The excursion was filled with eye-opening experiences for the participants as they helped build a church and witnessed to the rural people of Mexico.

"These churches and parsonages were in various stages of construction," Wilma said. "They're cinder block and stucco structures with wooden pews and cement floors. There's not any glass in the windows — only bars."

Using only brushes, shovels, picks and a sledgehammer, youth members, ranging in age from 14 to 21, painted buildings, dug septic tanks and broke rocks for more than a week.

On Dec. 29, approximately 100 people attended the first service conducted at the newly-renovated facility.

When they weren't working on the church, the group traveled deep into the Mexican jungles and mountains where they realized first-hand the difference in cultures.

"The homes were just cement walls with concrete floors — and those were the nice ones," Wilma noted.

Because Americans tend to take their way of life for granted, the group admitted their trip to Mexico was an humbling experience.

"It made us thankful for what we do have," Tracy said.

"They have so little and give so much, and we have so much and give so little," Brena explained.

After saving their pesos for more than a year, church members were able to present to the Americans a meal of fried chicken, including the feet.

"The average income of these people is only $300 a year. However, they saved to feed the American people," Pat said.

Although the group was thankful for the food, they admitted mealtime was an eye-opening experience.

"It made me thankful for everything we have in America. Even the simple things like shoes, food and water. And no chicken feet in our food," said David Doll.

Although the group was excited about the trip, they admitted they were a bit apprehensive.

"Before we went, we talked about the stories we'd heard about Mexico. We were scared of the food and the water. But, we all wanted to go because you always hear about mission explained. One of the highlights of the trip, the group said, was the opportunity to witness in Mexico.

trips and you never really know what's going on," Tracy explained.

"They (the Mexicans) were real receptive," Chris noted. "Because none of the volunteers spoke Spanish fluently they communicated using basic high school Spanish."

"They knew the key words — like church," Tracy said. "The group said the trip to Mexico was possible because of the donations received from the Big Spring community."

"Everyone had to pay their own way," Wilma explained. "The youth group sponsored a bike-a-thon in November and we raised nearly $3,000. We're so thankful to the Big Spring community for making this trip possible."

"A highlight of the trip was during the New Year's service when around 40-50 people responded to the altar call. It shows what we were helping to accomplish," said Bobbie Bayes.

Although the group spent 10 days away from home, they say they can't wait for their next mission trip.

"Another trip is being planned for the Bahamas or Haiti — possibly at the end of the summer," Wilma said.

The group said they'll never forget their experiences in Mexico and how the trip has changed their lives forever.

"We saw how those people live. It was a life-changing experience," they all agreed.

When they weren't working on the facilities, members went into the country to witness to Mexican families.

The kids work to cover a newly installed water line with rocks.

Colonial Dames

The second week of February has been designated by Congress to be "Salute To Hospitalized Veterans Week." The third week of February is National Patriotism Week set aside by Richard Hubbell Chapter of Colonial Dames of the XVII century for their annual celebration to place flags on veterans' graves, to give flag ceremonies to honor the men and women who fought in all American wars, especially Desert Shield.

Dames will give books, tapes, toiletries and valentines to veterans in our VA Hospitals during these two weeks.

During each day between Feb. 5-10 the Colonial Dames representative, Lola Kelley, will interview 27 veterans in the Nursing Home Care Unit as Donna Reed, Recreation Director, or Assistant, Julie Parker video tape a living history to give to each veteran's family.

In 1990, 68 flags were placed at veterans' graves by one of the 42 chapters in Texas. There are 1500 Colonial Dames in Texas and 27,000 among the 50 states.

Last year 760 leaflets on the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and citizen responsibilities were given to hospitalized veterans in VA Hospitals and contract nursing homes as well as to children in veterans' state orphanages.

Of 27,000 national members there were over 125 junior members of Colonial Dames serving in Desert Shield. They are members between ages 18 and 35 who are descendants whose ancestors served in the original 13 colonies between 1601 and 1701. They were patriots, merchants, ministers, landowners, judges, governors, legislators and craftsmen.

Women served in all branches of the military service in Desert Shield army and navy nurses, WACS and Waves, dieticians, Marine and Naval reserves as well as Air Force personnel.

The first woman in history to be captured as a prisoner of war was Major Rhonda L. Cornum, Flight Surgeon on a Chinook Helicopter that crashed over Iraqi territory during Desert Storm in 1991. The Richard Hubbell chapter had its very own junior member, Celeste Dale, daughter of Mrs. Mike Skalicky serving in the naval reserve. She is a geologist who resides in Odessa with her husband, R. I. Dale, and five year old daughter.

Mrs. Elvis (Helen) McCrary is Veterans Service Chairman of Richard Hubbell Chapter. Her committee decorated the nursing home care unit at the VA Hospital during the Christmas holidays with wreaths fashioned from grapevines entwined with gold garlands and big red bows.

In 1990-91, 15,228 hours of service by Colonial Dames to VA hospitals, nursing homes, state veterans homes, military hospitals, orphanages and prisons calculated at minimum wage, amounted to $65,350 given in volunteer work.

52 representatives and 41 deputies attended the VA Advisory Committee meetings in VA Medical Centers served by Colonial Dames. They gave $5,901.26 reported cash for veteran patient needs and 32,892 items with a cash value of $45,257.50 to VA Hospital veterans.

The local chapter wishes to salute each and every hospitalized veteran with prayers for their recovery and comfort.

One of our outstanding volunteers, Margaret Barnett, has served over a period of 24 years with almost 1800 volunteer hours. According to Mr. Fred Cox, direc-

Mention of former spouses causes irritations

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen this situation written up in your column: it's mothers-in-law (or daughters-in-law) on a silver platter in front of the present son-in-law or daughter-in-law.

Why do they do this when they know it irritates the present son- or daughter-in-law? Also, if the "ex" was so terrific in the first place, they wouldn't be "ex" now, right?

Please print this, Abby. There are a lot of people who have this problem, and it hurts. — HURTING IN HOUSTON

DEAR HURTING: Where grandchildren are involved, it's in the best interest of the children to portray the absent parent in the best possible light.

Many mothers-in-law do go overboard extolling the virtues of the "ex" son- or daughter-in-law, because they're bitter and angry when they recall happier times before acrimony (and alimony) entered the picture.

grown and we even have grandchildren, and we are very much ashamed of not having any wedding pictures.

What I would like from you is the name of a company or a photographer who can take old pictures of my husband and me and superimpose the heads on another couple dressed in a nice tuxedo and wedding gown.

I am not looking for a wedding album — just a few pictures of a nice young couple getting married. Please do not judge me for being deceitful. — NEEDS MEMORIES

DEAR NEEDS: I am not "judging" you, but there is no shame in admitting that you eloped and therefore have no wedding pictures.

Rather than attempting to have your heads superimposed on the bodies of another couple, why not renew your wedding vows on your next anniversary? You could rent a beautiful bridal gown and tuxedo and engage a photographer to capture the occasion.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 9 months. All we have heard from our relatives since we came back from our honeymoon is, "When is the baby due?"

This really upsets me and my husband because I may not be able to have children for physical reasons. My husband and I discussed this before we got married and he has no problem with the fact that we may not have any children. My question: What do we tell the relatives the next time they ask, "When is the baby due?" — NO CITY, USA

DEAR NO CITY: Tell them, "Maybe never — but we'll give you six month's notice."

FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 18, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A tricky problem will be solved by the end of February. If you use your head, you will win big concessions in negotiations that take place next May. Cut back on your long working hours in the summer. Regular periods of rest and relaxation will make you stronger and more productive in the long run. Family members draw closer together next fall. Determine your romantic goals and pursue them with zeal.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actors Kevin Costner and Cary Grant, author A.A. Milne, orator Daniel Webster.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Your flexibility wins you new friends. Someone you thought was a foe turns out to be a valuable ally. Probe the motives of someone who tries to separate you from your romantic partner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): The emphasis now is on communicating your ideas to those who can help. Close personal relationships keep your spirits high. Buy property for investment purposes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Financial pressures lighten when an unexpected check arrives in the mail. A young person asks important questions. Take your time if you do not know the answers.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your intuition serves you well in both business and romance. An attractive associate of the opposite sex begins to notice you. This person may want something. Guard your resources.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): An older person has a wonderful message to share. Obtain professional advice if trying to unravel a financial mystery. Get your kitchen and bathroom spick and span. Film classics are featured this weekend.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Taking a short trip with someone special ignites romance. Your marriage partner accomplishes the impossible. Sharing your feelings helps you live life to the fullest.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): An interim solution may be best until other family members can contribute their ideas. Face the facts about a deteriorating romance. Consider what you may be getting into before accepting an invitation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Promises made by new friends may never be fulfilled. Be forgiving when a child admits a transgression. A loved one needs all the reassurance you can give. Spend part of the day exercising.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Catch up on your sleep. You will need all your energy to take advantage of a pleasant surprise! Adopt new tactics in romance. A visiting relative could cause tension.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Get your mind off work today and concentrate on family or friends. Romance continues to play an important role in your life. Keep an eye on spending.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Travel is subject to delays and mix-ups. It may be more comfortable to remain close to home today. Gentle words help heal a rift. Apologize for an earlier rush to judgment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Plan large purchases in advance so as not to exceed your budget. The spotlight is on your health. Aerobics will trim your figure and help you shed unwanted pounds. Eat nutritious foods only.
