Olsen plea bargains in Allen death

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Ken Olsen pleaded guilty this morning to murdering Winford "Punkin" Allen April 17 after testifying Thursday that he had accidentally shot and killed Allen.

Olsen, 66, was sentenced to 20 years in prison — of which he will serve at least one-third — after pleading guilty in 118th District Court following more than five hours of deliberation by a jury deadlocked 11-1 in favor of a murder conviction. Any jury decision must be unanimous.

Olsen told the eight-woman, four-man jury during one hour of testimony that a .32-caliber Derringer pistol misfired while placing it back in his vest pocket. He said he pulled the gun after Allen, 35, prodded him about not being able to do anything about Allen dancing with a mutual friend, Ruby Ann Maddox, 27, at a local bar called Martha's Hideaway.

Olsen said Maddox convinced him to put the gun away and leave. "I was uncocking it and putting it back in my vest," he said. "And the gun, well, it went off."

Allen's family is apparently happy with the sentence.

"The family is of the opinion it's best to go this route and get this behind them and they seem extremely satisfied," said District Attorney Rick Hamby.

"Hamby has done our family a fabulous job," said Allen's mother Martha Caffey, owner of Martha's Hideaway.

Olsen and his daughter, who watched the one-day trial, declined to comment. His attorney, Wayne Basden of Big Spring, could not be reached.

Olsen testified he disliked how Allen had treated Maddox in the past and admitted telling sheriff deputies two years ago that Allen deserved to be shot because he allegedly burned Maddox's possessions.

Olsen, who owns K&A Welcome Inn — so named for using his first name and Maddox's middle name — also admitted threatening to pull a gun on another bar owner in an unrelated incident because, "I thought he was trying to hire somebody (Maddox) away."

Maddox, who lived "off and on" with Allen seven years and worked as a barmaid for Olsen at times the past eight years, testified she last saw Allen just after Christmas when she picked him up at a bus stop following his paroled release from prison on a burglary conviction.

Olsen has no previous convictions here.

About 11 p.m. the night of the murder, Olsen sat quietly as Allen and Maddox "smooched, kissed, danced," several witnesses testified. Allen reportedly said, "You old bastard, you don't like it, but there's nothing you can do about it."

Olsen pulled his gun, began putting it away and Allen said, "If you ever pull a pistol on me again, use it." The gun then fired, hitting Allen in the stomach.

Ector officials view BSISD system

By MARSHA STURDIVANT Staff Writer

Officials of Big Spring Independent School District met with Ector County school officials here Thursday to discuss Big Spring's newly implemented textbook inventory computer program.

RELATED STORIES — 7A

Tom Henry, BSISD administrative assistant, and Terri Martin, administrative secretary for textbooks, met with six Ector County officials and demonstrated the Hayes Associates program purchased for $1,500.

"This is a good way to keep up and know what we've got in textbooks, and where they are. Congratulations to you for obtaining it. This is the best one to come out in years. I've seen a couple that doesn't come close to this," said Jim Moore, director of instructional resources for Odessa schools.

Henry, as Big Spring's textbook coordinator, is bonded and responsible for nearly 45,000 textbooks with a total value of $727,907. The computer program catalogues all textbooks issued to the district, and includes separate files for textbooks that are outdated or destroyed.

Texas school districts must pay the state for any textbooks damaged or lost during the year. Each campus inventories its own textbooks, and parents pay the activity fund at each campus for any damaged book. The district has paid $1,728.89 thus far this school year in lost or damaged books.

Outdated books are recycled through a shredding process by a company in Terrell, Henry said. Books have a five-year shelf life. The Texas Education Agency considers thousands of books each year and adopts a small amount. Districts are then allowed to select from the approved list of books, Henry said.

Local district trustees appoint a committee of teachers, principals and administrators to review the texts. A public textbook hearing was conducted Thursday requiring the signatures of the committee to approve this year's selection of books. The public may attend any committee meeting to review books being considered.

Terri Martin, administrative secretary for the Big Spring Independent School District, explains the new computer system used to inventory textbooks to six officials from Ector County Independent School District Thursday.

Henry said the new computer system will soon have the textbooks in the district listed and cataloged. He is conducting inventory for the past six years. Each principal is responsible for the books issued to the campus.

Ector County school officials at the meeting included Richard Calzada, Dean Rudd, Jerry Cooper, Betty Heidelberg and Pat Wafer.

Angelo, Abilene schools recommended for closure

AUSTIN (AP) — Six of Texas' 13 schools for the mentally retarded have been recommended to be closed this decade by advocates for people with disabilities.

The first schools recommended for closure are the Travis State School in Austin and Fort Worth State School.

Abilene State School, Lufkin State School, Mexia State School and San Angelo State School also should be closed and could be substituted as the first to go, four groups said in a letter to a task force making recommendations to Gov. Ann Richards.

The letter was signed by representatives of Advocacy, Inc., the Association for Retarded Citizens of Texas, the United Cerebral Palsy Association of Texas, and American Disabled for Attendant Programs Today.

The groups said they "do not believe that individuals are best served in segregated environments, such as institutions, where they are isolated from opportunities for regular connections with everyday community life."

Their recommendations for closing were based on criteria that included whether another state school is nearby; the percentage of residents recommended for community placement and where they would go; the percentage of residents who are profoundly retarded; and the number of children in the institution.

"Our designation of these six schools for closure is not an indication that we believe that these are the six worst schools in Texas, or that those we did not name provide a higher quality of care," the groups said.

The Facility Review Task Force, appointed by Richards, is to recommend by March 31 whether any state schools should be closed.

If the governor accepts the task force recommendation, it is to be implemented by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Linda Parrish, head of the task force, said the disability rights advocates' recommendations would be weighed along with other advice.

A settlement meant to end a federal lawsuit against Texas' system of caring for mentally retarded people includes closing two state schools. Under the agreement, most residents would be moved to group homes. Those unable to live in such settings would be transferred to other institutions.

The advocacy groups said that in closing state schools, money must be reallocated to community services such as group homes or assisted-living programs.

Morehead first recorded American black artist

By MARTHA E. FLORES Staff Writer

According to the Negro Almanac: A Reference Work on the African American, the first American black artist to be recorded was Scipio Morehead in the 18th century. He was aided by poet Phyllis Wheatley.

In the 19th and 20th centuries, documentation of black artist is better. Black painters, sculptors, muralist and collagist are noted among white artists.

The following are only four of a large number of blacks who have had their work displayed at museums across the country and abroad.

• William E. Braxton—Braxton was born in Washington, D.C. in 1878. In New York, he studied art at Adelphi College. Braxton is considered the first American black to do expressionist painting. His work includes Figural Study, Seascape, Portraits of Ira Aldridge, Alexander Pushkin and D'Artagnan. He died in 1932.

• Richmond Barthe—Barthe was born in Bay St. Louis, Miss. in 1901. He studied art in the Art Institute in Chicago. He gained critical attention for his busts of Henry Ossawa Tanner and Toussaint L'Ouverture Barthe has had his work displayed at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. He died in 1989.

• Charles Alston—Alston was born in Charlotte, N.C. in 1907. He received a bachelor's and a master's degree at Columbia University. After receiving his master's, he was the recipient of several grants and fellowships that allowed him to pursue his art career.

He is best known for his murals, which are displayed at Harlem Hospital in New York, depicting the history of medicine. Other known works include Frederick Douglass, Nobody Knows, Blues Song and Blues with Guitar and Bass. Collections of IBM and Detroit Museum include some of Alston's paintings and sculptures.

State races begin to heat

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Supreme Court candidate Charles Ben Howell says he will offer to withdraw from the race, but only if his primary opponent can prove reports referring to Howell wearing pajamas in court and being targeted by a disbarment attempt.

Howell challenged the reports in a letter to his Republican opponent, Chief Justice Craig Enoch of the 5th Court of Appeals in Dallas. Howell once served on the Dallas appeals court.

He cited three statements that he said appeared in Enoch's advertising as quotes from newspaper stories: "Howell has been reprimanded for appearing in court in pajamas..." "He is best remembered for once showing up in court in pajamas and robe," and "The State Bar of Texas tried to disbar him."

Howell said in the letter, dated Friday, that "the underlying facts relating to each of the above statements is literally false or is misleading to (the) point where the average reader or hearer will in all likelihood gain a false impression."

Dee Klotz, Howell's spokesman, said his concern about the State Bar claim is that people would believe Howell was disbarred.

Klotz said the pajama incident "flat never happened."

Howell said Enoch should present evidence within seven days that "the underlying facts... are true and that they are sufficiently accurate as to not create a false impression with the average reader."

Howell said he would make the announcement Friday and give Enoch 24 hours to accept the challenge in writing. He said that Enoch also must agree that if he cannot prove the claims, he must issue a public statement that they are in error and quit using them.

If Enoch can prove the claims, Howell said he would withdraw from the campaign.

Enoch said he had not received the letter from Howell and so could not comment on it.

In other political developments Thursday:

- Republican Railroad Commission candidate Barry Williamson bemoaned the fact that an energy bill approved by the U.S. Senate does not allow oil drilling in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge in Alaska.
- He said that Democratic incumbent Lena Guerrero has not shown leadership on the issue. "By not allowing drilling in Alaska, Texas loses 60,000 jobs" in the energy business, Williamson said.

Ms. Guerrero said she had not seen the 60,000-jobs estimate before.

- Republican Railroad Commission candidate Carole Keeton Rylander said the Texas GOP should adopt a strong platform plank on energy strategy at its June convention in Dallas.
- Democratic Texas Supreme Court hopeful Paul Banner continued to pressure his primary opponent, incumbent Jack Hightower, to remove himself from cases that could affect companies that have hired Hightower's daughter.

On Wednesday, the Supreme Court rejected an attempt to remove Hightower from a property tax case because of an alleged conflict of interest.

Hightower's daughter, Amy Hightower Brees, worked as a lobbyist for an association that could benefit by the tax ruling which remains pending before the court on a motion for rehearing.

Banner also said Hightower should remove himself from cases that involve any of 170 insurance companies because his daughter works for the American Alliance of Insurers.

Pollution concerns

Two women, one holding her breath, walk across a feces-laden canal Wednesday to catch a bus after completing work in a Ciudad Juarez plant. A draft of a border environmental plan being written as part of the free trade negotiations has been criticized by environmentalists as failing to address key U.S.-Mexico pollution issues.

Tilton fails to show for deposition

AUSTIN (AP) — Televangelist Robert Tilton has failed to give a scheduled deposition in a federal lawsuit against the Texas attorney general's office, a spokesman for the state official says.

Meanwhile, Tilton's lawyers have amended the lawsuit filed two weeks ago, abandoning a demand for $2 million in damages and dropping as defendants several assistants to Attorney General Dan Morales.

Morales remains named in the suit, which claims more than 1,000 members have left his Word of Faith Outreach Center Church since the attorney general began investigating the ministry.

Gray McBride, a spokesman for the attorney general's office, refused to comment on the lawsuit, but said Tilton failed to show up in Dallas Thursday for a deposition.

Tilton's attorney, J.C. Joyce of Tulsa, Okla., didn't immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press.

U.S. District Judge Sam Sparks of Austin, who granted Tilton a temporary restraining order suspending Morales' inquiry, has set a March 4 hearing to determine if the evangelist must release records sought by the attorney general.

Morales has been investigating whether Word of Faith, located near Dallas in Farmers Branch, has engaged in deceptive trade practices.

Church officials have said they neither sell nor trade anything and have refused to turn over financial records and other documents.

Tilton's practice of encouraging viewers to make "vows of faith" and promising that God will give them wealth in return first came under national scrutiny after he was featured in a segment on ABC's "PrimeTime Live."

Morales has filed a lawsuit in Travis County probate court seeking the ministry's financial records for inspection.

The lawsuit asked that a trustee ensure that records and assets are not disturbed, and that the ministry — registered as a nonprofit corporation in Texas — forfeit its corporate charter and be dissolved.

The ministry broadcasts on more than 200 television stations in the United States and Canada.

AG releases redistricting probe results

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney general's office has given a special federal panel its findings of an investigation into allegations of improper conduct by U.S. District Judge James Nowlin over a redistricting plan.

In the letter to the panel released Thursday, Morales revealed that there were "numerous instances of unexplained contact during critical periods of the litigation between Judge Nowlin's office and the offices of legislators from both parties."

Until now, Morales had alleged only that the offices of two Republican lawmakers had contacted Nowlin's office before the judge ordered a state Senate redistricting plan that favors Republicans.

The new revelation by Morales prompted Texas GOP Chairman Fred Meyer to accuse Morales of trying to cover up information on Democrats because he refuses to reveal their names.

"I am appalled that the lawyer who purports to represent the people of Texas is concealing information in a blatantly partisan and dishonest way," Meyer said.

Morales has alleged that after telephone calls between Republican San Antonio Rep. George Pierce's office and Nowlin's court, the redistricting plan was changed.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Aykroyd says true love saved him from despair after best friend John Belushi died of a drug overdose in 1982.

"Donna saved my life," Aykroyd said of actress Donna Dixon, whom he married in 1983. "She pulled me out of the terrible spin I was in, made it possible for me to pick up again."

He and Belushi were "great pals. Brothers, really," Aykroyd, 39, says in Sunday's Parade magazine.

The two started out together on "Saturday Night Live," where they introduced the comic singing duo later featured in the hit movie "The Blues Brothers."

Aykroyd's other movies include "Ghostbusters" and "Driving Miss Daisy."

NEW YORK (AP) — Spy magazine says it's publishing a nude picture of Arnold Schwarzenegger to prove that the body builder-turned-actor can't control the media.

Publisher Kurt Andersen said Thursday he received the 1970s-era studio photograph while the magazine was preparing a story on Schwarzenegger's attempts to control how he's portrayed by the media.

Andersen said he decided to publish it in the March issue when Schwarzenegger publicist Charlotte Parker called to complain.

But Parker's husband and business partner, Joel Parker, says his wife just called "to be helpful." Parker said Schwarzenegger had no reaction.

Schwarzenegger's hits include "Terminator 2: Judgment Day."

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (AP) — Convicted Watergate felon H.R. Haldeman told high school newspaper editors not to trust their history books.

"For Pete's sake, don't believe what you read in history books just because of the fact that those words are printed," President Nixon's former chief of staff told 100 teen-agers Wednesday at the Richard Nixon Library & Birthplace.

Most of the students weren't born in 1975, when Haldeman was convicted of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury in the Watergate scandal. But at least one, Stacy Tolchin, was skeptical of his advice.

"I believe the books more than him," said the 17-year-old Pasadena High School senior.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — "Northern Exposure" star Rob Morrow, whose TV series is set in Alaska but filmed in Washington state, will be in Anchorage for the Iditarod.

Morrow arrives Thursday for the start of the 20th Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race, the race committee announced Wednesday.

Morrow and other members of the CBS series are expected to shop for Alaskan props for future episodes, the committee said.

The 1,047-mile race from Anchorage to Nome starts Feb. 29.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bryan Adams, Garth Brooks, Nirvana and U2 won environmental kudos from the paper industry for using recycled cardboard to package their 1991 compact discs.

The "Environmental Grammy Awards" were announced Thursday by the paper recycling committee of the American Paper Institute, a week before the Grammy Awards.

The committee cited Adams' "Waking Up the Neighbors," Brooks' "Ropin' the Wind," U2's "Achtung Baby" and Nirvana's "Nevermind" for "artistic merit and use of recycled paperboard."

LONDON (AP) — Actress Kim Basinger settled a libel suit against the Daily Express, which falsely reported that the "9½ Weeks" star had been a cocaine addict.

The out-of-court settlement was announced Thursday by her lawyer, Michael Skrein, who wouldn't disclose the sum. The newspaper also published an apology.

Basinger's latest movie is "Final Analysis" with Richard Gere.

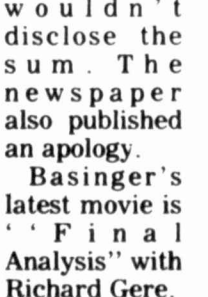

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pop singer Paula Abdul and actor Emilio Estevez say they are "completely in love" and will marry.

No date has been set, the singer's publicist, Eliot Sekuler, said Thursday in announcing the engagement. It will be the first marriage for both.

Abdul's hit albums include "Spellbound" and "Forever Your Girl."

Estevez's latest movie is "Freejack." He is the son of actor Martin Sheen.

Both are 29.

Cholera strikes airline passengers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At least 25 people who took a flight from South America to Los Angeles have reported symptoms of cholera, the disease that killed one passenger and sickened five others, health officials said.

The officials are still trying to contact scores of other passengers who arrived in Los Angeles on Valentine's Day aboard Aerolineas Argentinas Flight 386, which originated in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and stopped in Lima, Peru.

"We have to presume that something on this plane, food or water, caused this exposure," said Dr. Shirley Fannin, director of the county Health Department's disease control program. "We have to find out what went wrong."

The airline also is investigating. One of the passengers, Anibal Cufre, 70, died Tuesday of cholera. Five other passengers are recovering, some in hospitals, Fannin said.

Bush's daughter to marry Democrat

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush and his wife Barbara are said to be "thrilled" at daughter Dorothy's engagement to a top aide of House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, D-Mo.

Dorothy Bush LeBlond, 32, plans to marry Robert Koch, 31, who is the administrative assistant for Gephardt, one of Bush's toughest congressional critics.

Mrs. Bush's press secretary Anna Perez confirmed the engagement on Thursday, and when asked the reaction of the bride's parents, she said they were "thrilled."

No date has been announced but the wedding will take place at the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., she said.

Gephardt and Koch have discussed the marriage, said Gephardt's press secretary, Deborah Johns. "I'm sure he's happy for them," she said of her boss.

Black leaders denounce referendum plan

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Black opposition groups today denounced President F.W. de Klerk's plan to hold a whites-only referendum on ending apartheid as an attempt to save white-minority rule.

The African National Congress, the main black political party, black trade unions and black civic groups attacked de Klerk's announcement Thursday as giving whites a veto over the rights of all South Africans.

'A whites-only referendum is not only the hallmark of racism but also has the effect of delaying movement toward peace and justice for all our people.'

African National Congress

"We are of the firm view that this reflects the crisis of the apartheid establishment and underlines the need to move as speedily as possible to a democratic society," an ANC spokesman said.

De Klerk stunned South Africans Thursday by announcing a snap referendum on whether to continue political reform, and that he would resign and call a whites-only general election if he lost.

His announcement came a day after the governing National Party lost the second parliamentary by-election in three months to the pro-apartheid Conservative Party.

The vote indicated growing white backlash to de Klerk's moves to dismantle the policy of racial separation in a country with 5 million whites and 30 million blacks. A government defeat on the referendum could plunge the racially tense country into chaos and violence.

"I think that it is an important moment of truth," de Klerk told a news conference after announcing the referendum.

Government officials said today that Parliament is expected to be adjourned next week and the referendum held in March. De Klerk said he wants the vote as early as possible.

Black groups were considering today what action to take, with some activists calling for protests. But the government is in firm control of the country and black groups would find it difficult to block the referendum.

"A whites-only referendum is not only the hallmark of racism but also has the effect of delaying movement toward peace and justice for all our people," the ANC said after an emergency meeting Thursday night.

The black nationalist Pan Africanist Congress denounced the vote, claiming the government and the Conservatives were secret allies plotting to suppress blacks.

The referendum will ask whites who they want as representation — the government, which will continue reform, or the Conservatives, who want to reimpose apartheid in a white homeland.

The Star newspaper of Johannesburg reported today that recent opinion polls indicated de Klerk would win a referendum. But the government has been rapidly losing support to the Conservatives.

De Klerk, in calling the referendum, clearly hopes to fend off the Conservatives while he still has sufficient white support.

Panel's decision viewed as positive for manufacturers

DETROIT (AP) — A federal panel's finding that silicone gel breast implants could not be conclusively linked to health problems was viewed as positive for manufacturers facing lawsuits prompted by leaking implants.

The panel of experts said Thursday it would urge the Food and Drug Administration to limit the use of silicone gel implants to women who need breast reconstruction.

The committee also said evidence linking silicone gel implants to diseases and other health problems was "disturbing" but inconclusive.

That could help Dow Corning Corp. and other implant makers defend themselves against numerous lawsuits seeking millions of dollars in damages for medical problems allegedly caused by leaking implants, said Hemant Shah, an industry analyst in Warren, N.J.

"The key is liability. The advisory panel said in a very clear way that there's no conclusive evidence. In terms of liability, they basically cleared Dow Corning," said Shah.

Dow Corning, the Midland,

Mich.-based developer of the implants, said it may stop making them in light of the FDA panel's ruling.

Meanwhile, the company will work with the FDA on a research plan to resolve lingering questions about the long-term safety of silicone implants, Dow Corning spokeswoman Barbara Carmichael said.

Dow Corning officials declined to comment on whether the decision would help against lawsuits brought by implant recipients. But a company spokesperson who spoke on condition of anonymity said "anything that pulls the implants off the market will help the trial lawyers."

Dow Corning, a 50-50 joint venture of the Dow Chemical Co. in Midland and Corning Inc. in Corning, N.Y., is one of four U.S. manufacturers of the product. Silicone gel breast implants represent about 1 percent of Dow Corning's annual sales of $1.8 billion.

Mentor Corp., an implant maker based in Santa Barbara, Calif., said it hoped the panel's decision to partially restrict silicone implants would reassure the women who have them.

Dr. Elizabeth Connell, center with glasses, chairperson of a Food and Drug Administration panel of experts on general and plastic surgery devices, tallies votes Thursday afternoon in Bethesda as the panel recommended unanimously to severely restrict silicone gel implants for breast enlargement but allow easy access for women needing reconstructive surgery.

Official leaves for Iraq with warning

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A senior U.N. official left for Baghdad today, armed with a warning from the Security Council that Iraq faces of "serious consequences" if it continues to obstruct disarmament efforts.

"It is a very important trip," said Rolf Ekeus, head of a U.N. commission overseeing the destruction of Iraq's chemical, biological and nuclear weapons programs. "The U.N. Security Council has expressed how serious the situation is."

It is Ekeus' third visit to Iraq since the cease-fire last spring. He is expected to be there three days.

The 15-nation Security Council on Wednesday said Iraq's failure to cooperate with U.N. weapons inspectors, disclose information and agree to future monitoring nearly a year after end of the Persian Gulf War represented a "material breach" of cease-fire terms.

The Security Council sent Ekeus to Baghdad to convey its demands. It said the Swedish diplomat would meet with "the highest levels" of the Iraqi government, but did not specifically mention Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

"The mission should stress the serious consequences if such agreement to implement is not forthcoming," the council's statement added.

U.N. officials have not ruled out the use of force.

Legal battle against Japan expected

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — An activist today predicted a long political and legal battle following Tokyo's refusal to pay compensation for thousands of Korean women forced to serve as sex slaves during World War II.

Japan can expect additional lawsuits as well as pressure from Korean women's groups and the Seoul government, said Yun Chung-ok, head of the Korean Council for the Women Drafted Under Japanese Rule.

"Tens of thousands of Korean women were subjected to an unspeakable crime," said Ms. Yun. "It's part of the worst chapter in Korean history — a thoroughly planned crime, repeated over and over again."

Documents discovered in January refuted Japan's contention that battlefield brothels were not organized by the military, and Japanese Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa apologized last month during a visit to Seoul.

But on Thursday, his office said Japan would not pay compensation.

Mashed potatoes that are an insult to Mom's cooking

For weeks, I've been seeing a television commercial for this certain chain of restaurants. The commercial claimed it served home-cooking. "The kind Mom used to do."

I'm not going to name the restaurant chain. I've already got one libel suit pending.

But I will say I've spent the nearly three decades since I left the cooking Mama used to do, looking for something, anything, that came close to it.

I grew up at a fried chicken, pork chops, pot roast and fresh vegetable table, with corn bread or Mama's home-made biscuits on the side.

I must have this sort of food at least once a week or be struck by the dreaded bland-food poisoning.

That's because I have to eat a lot of airline food, as well as hotel food. The airlines and hotels get together each year and plan their menus. Steak au gratin and Chicken a la Belch.

So I gave this chain a try. I walked into one of its restaurants and looked over the menu. There was no fried chicken or pork chops.

But there was country fried steak and pot roast. I decided to go for the pot roast.

"Can I get mashed potatoes and gravy with the pot roast?" I asked the waitress.

"Sure," she answered. The pot roast was so-so. The gravy was suspect. One bite of the mashed potatoes, and I knew. I called the waitress back over.

"I would take it as a personal favor if you would be perfectly honest with me," I said. "These mashed potatoes came out of a box, didn't they?"

The waitress dropped her eyes for a brief second. Then, she looked up and said apologetically, "Yes, they did."

I hate mashed potatoes that come out of a box. When God created the mashed potato, I am certain the Bible points out somewhere, he had no intention of anybody goofing around and coming up with mashed potatoes from a box.

He meant for real potatoes to be used. You peel them, you cut them into little pieces and put them in a pot of boiling water.

Lewis Grizzard

You put in some salt and pepper, and then you add some butter and maybe even a little sour cream and then you beat them and stir them and you've got biblically correct mashed potatoes.

I realized the waitress didn't have anything to do with the fact the restaurant served mashed potatoes from a box in a place that advertised Mama's cooking — an affront to mothers everywhere. That was upper management's doing.

So when I paid my bill reluctantly, because there should have been a warning on the menu that the mashed potatoes weren't really mashed potatoes, I did have a word with the assistant manager who took my money anyway.

"May the Lord forgive you for ye know not what you do, you potato-ruiner."

I think he thought I was some sort of religious nut. He was still waiting for me to hand him a pamphlet and ask him for money as I walked out the door.

Mashed potatoes from a box! That's what's wrong with this country. That, and non-alcoholic beer, instant grits, canned biscuits, soybean anything, frozen french fries, fake flowers, staged photo opportunities for politicians running for re-election, tanning salons, and I bought some vanilla ice cream at the grocery store recently, but when I went to eat it, I realized I had gotten yogurt instead.

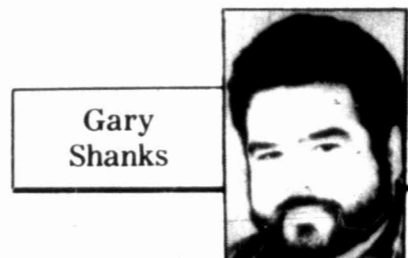

What's real anymore? Computerized voices talk to me at the airport. I phone a friend and I talk to a machine. Musical stars are lip-synching it.

Did somebody mention silicone implants? As soon as I make the world safe from boxed mashed potatoes, I'll get around to that.

It's a matter of priorities, you know.

Competing in global marketplace

Gary Shanks

Before everybody starts talking about naval blockades and yelling "Nuke 'em again!" let's discuss these smart-mouth, ethnocentric, squid-breath, pinhead Japanese politicians in a calm, adult fashion.

Don't get me wrong. I've got nothing against Japanese people or their heritage. In fact, of all the politicians I can think of, U.S. Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, is my favorite.

But ya' know, it's bad enough that these pompous Japanese political twerps call American workers stupid and lazy, but it's worse when jerks in this country agree with them!

Studies have shown Americans spend more time at work than the lion's share of people in industrialized countries. In fact, Americans spend around 160 more hours-per-year at work now than they did a decade ago, and the equivalent to an extra month's work.

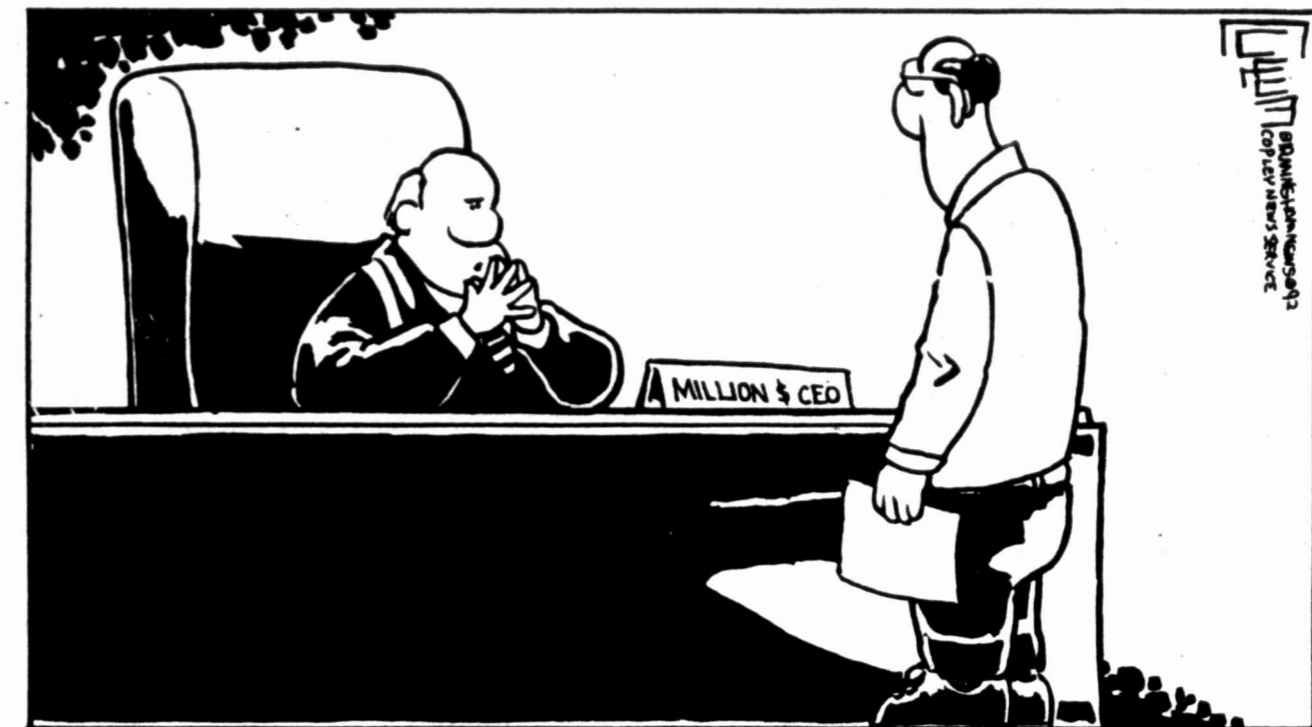

There are problems in American business, but the workers, for the most part, are not among their number.

In my humble studies, I've identified the following problems:

• Some corporations have grown too large and cumbersome, which causes:

a. Large expenditures on logistics trackers, overpaid executives who maintain production data on companies owned by conglomerates. (Before it was bought out, each individual company kept track of itself, and the $100,000/year watchdog wasn't needed.)

b. Inflexibility. To compete in the current, growing, global business environment, companies need to be wiry — able to make major modifications in response to changes in the marketplace.

"THOSE JAPANESE ARE FORCING ME TO LAY YOU OFF, SIMMONS. ABOUT ALL I HAVE LEFT TO OFFER YOU IS $5 AN HOUR TO WASH MY LEARJET."

c. An ability to buy out local competition rather than go through the fuss and bother of making a better product at a better price — this practice is coming back to haunt the multinationals as we speak.

• A reliance on quarterly profits. Long-term profitability depends on long-term strategy. In the long run, as long as a business stays solvent, quarterly profits mean nothing.

• Selling priceless new technology to the Japanese instead of developing the resulting products here. The Bush administration allowed General Dynamics to sell F-16 fighter jet technology to Japan. Aerospace technology was one of the few areas in which the U.S. was quantum leaps ahead of Japan. (I'm sure it looked great on the profits for that quarter).

Well, enough about that. It's 10-year prediction time:

• Japan has maxed out. Its people are waking up to the reality that family and leisure time are as important to life as work.

• The U.S. will fluctuate between recession and marginal economic growth until its businesses learn to compete in the global marketplace. Inventors and the cutting edge of science are this country's most profitable resources. If utilized properly, they will be the nation's deliverance. Unless...

• If Pat Buchanan is elected, I predict his protectionist tariffs will cause the first full-blown depression since the economic chaos of the 1930s. One need only look to the remains of the Soviet Union to see what total border protectionism and the lack of competition can do to manufacturing and distribution systems.

• In either 1995 or 1996; someone, somewhere — for some unknown reason — will actually give a rat's tail what I think... maybe not.

Tally Ho!

Drug world is not a game of charades

To the editor: I'm back. And I'm going to voice what I think of what Mr. Kenneth Carson had to say about the druggies that were rounded up. True I agree, it was nothing, but small change rounded up.

But what I can't figure is all the news media, being along. For in order to pull a good bust off, it should be run like a covert operation, the less people that know about it, the better things should go.

Mr. Carson came down on Jack Howard. He was talking about entrapment, narc's sleeping around, so a bust can be made. I'm for it, simply because the drug world is not a game of charades, or Scrabble. It is a war where people get hurt, messed up, and some even die or get killed.

I should know. I worked the bad streets of a big city for a long time, and saw both sides of it. I had people affected by it. And if you have never lost anybody to it, then don't say anything on the matter of how it should be stopped. And as far as that goes, how does Mr. Carson know about entrapment? Getting to the heavy duty dealers, it's going to take some doings, for nobody wants to come forward and say anything for fear of reprisals.

People, and you too Mr. Carson, just be glad that you don't have the organized gangs here — like the Crips, the Bloods — and be very glad that the Jamaican Posse's are not set up in town, for if so, there would be much shooting, etc. going on.

The writer's art

Spelling words correctly

Some errors in spelling can be explained: The reporter was on deadline, and just didn't have time to check. The headline writer knew how to spell, but accidentally hit a wrong key. The error would have been caught, but an eyelash got in the proofreader's eye. And so on.

Other errors can't be plausibly explained at all. Here, for example, is the Christmas catalog of the Hammacher Schlemmer folks. The producers had plenty of time to get it right. They were pushing fireplace accessories. For $2,700 you could buy a "hand-carved fireplace mantle." Now, a "mantle" may be all kinds of things — a loose cloak, a part of a blast furnace, the chimney of a kerosene lamp — but the finish around a fireplace is a "mantel." How come no one caught the error?

The Sunday color comic strips are prepared weeks in advance. Can't the North America Syndicate pay someone to correct the spelling in the Mark Trail strip? I love the feature, but honestly! The creators last year spoke of the "main" of a zebra — it's the mane — and they spelled wildebeest as if it were a wild beast. They had tips for the "gardner," by which they meant the "gardener."

The supervisor of elections in Columbia County, Fla., provides absentee voters with "a hand-held stylist to punch out your choices on the ballot card." The stylist need not be returned. Mark Twain was a stylist. The tool is a stylus. Someone should have known better.

Soon after the presidential election of 1988, the national headquarters of Young Americans for Freedom sent out a fund-raising letter. Perhaps an old American should have proofread the thing. The YAFers recalled "the hare's breath defeat" of Nelson Rockefeller in the California primary of 1964. Never mind a lagomorph's halitosis! That was a hahor's-breath!

Train of thought: The owner of a dress shop sent me a flier she had received from a supplier. Here she was offered a "rabbet hair sweater" and a "strait skirt" from Ellen Tracy. From Anne Klein II a "fushia top" and a "cummerbun." There was also a Calvin Klein "high wasted" skirt and some "cruse wear," not to mention a dress with "sequence" and a sweater with gold "tassle." Aaargh!

Why do respectable magazines miss errors in spelling? They're not under the same time pressures one finds at a daily newspaper. In an article about figurines, House & Garden three times admired "dalmation" bookends. That firehouse dog is a dalmatian. Time magazine has flubbed the spelling of "foreword," as in a book's foreword. The U.S. Department of Labor also spelled it "forward" in its report last year on women in executive positions.

I can't tell you how a release from the Medical Tribune News Service originally was worded, but I can tell you how it appeared in The Greenville, S.C., News. The article dealt with a new surgical technique for hysterectomies. Only three small cuts are made "around the naval and public areas." Most interesting operation I ever heard of.

Classified ads turn up some startling misspellings. Under the heading of "For Sale Shoes," a reader in Wyoming could find "Hush puppies and Floor Shine shoes, some slightly used." For sale in Vero Beach, Fla., last summer was a lady's "14-carrot white gold two piece bridal set." In the Harrisburg, Pa., Patriot-News, a collector of holographs might have been drawn to a letter written by "Charles Lenberg" after his trans-Atlantic flight.

Now and then a word is spelled properly, but it just looks wrong. How do you identify someone who sews? Right. In Fredericksburg, Va., a needleworking shop advertised scissors that would make a "perfect gift for the sewer." The word dates from the 14th century, and I'll bet it has given trouble ever since.

Purely phonetic spellings can get us in trouble too. Several years ago (I keep clipping a loong time) a paper in Woolford, Md., carried a column on cooking. The writer was promoting ruffage in our diets. Three times she promoted ruffage. In Maui, Hawaii, a theater writer commented on "the ways we lampon our sexual morays." I'm sure those voracious eels have a sex life, but on stage?

The lesson in all this is: When in doubt about the spelling of a word, look it up! And cultivate a strong sense of doubt.

Another medal for U.S.

ALBERTVILLE, France (AP) — When figure skater Midori Ito fell early in this week's Olympic competition, her gold-medal chances likely crashing with her, Japan's national newspaper tried to console her.

"Don't Cry, Midori. There's Always Tomorrow," read the headline in Sankei.

There's always the lure of Lillehammer, too, just around the corner.

Athletes who flopped in France — and those who can't wait to add to their medals collections — are taking solace in the once-in-a-lifetime interim of just two years between Winter Olympics. Less than 24 months of training remain until the Games open in Norway at 1 p.m. on Feb. 12, 1994.

Tonya Harding, another top skater who went sprawling in the original program Wednesday night, will be pondering Lillehammer not long after she leaves the ice in tonight's free skate. After pointing to the Olympics for four years, her medal hopes went poof in mere seconds.

"I've not made up my mind, being that the Olympics are only two years away," said the 21-year-old from Portland, Ore. "I've been skating 18 years and I'm a little tired of it, but I love competing."

Ito, 21, the pre-Olympics favorite who stood only third going into tonight's finale, also says she's weary from all the stress and strain of competing in her second Olympics. But it will be tough for any athlete in his or her prime to walk away from a shot at comparatively quick redemption in Lillehammer.

Kristi Yamaguchi, the 1991 world champion, has the inside track on the gold medal tonight, with countrywoman Nancy Kerrigan and French leaper extraordinaire Surya Bonaly ready to claim it if she falters.

Like most of her foes, the 20-year-old from Fremont, Calif., prefers not to talk about 1994 just yet. But here's a hint: She said this week she wants to add a new triple jump to her repertoire a sure tipoff she isn't ready to retire from competitive skating.

The Winter Games entered their climactic final phase today with two marquee events: the women's figures and a U.S.-Unified Team clash in the hockey semifinals that had everyone talking about 1980. The last time the Americans and day. The U.S. No. 1 sled, driven by Randy Will, was 10th after the first of four runs in a time of 58.57 seconds, trailing the 57.74 of Austria No. 1.

The United States earned its eighth medal Thursday night in the new medal sport of short-track speedskating, and for the sixth time in Albertville it was women who ascended the podium for the Americans.

Cathy Turner, 29, of Rochester, N.Y., anchored the 3,000-meter relay team that finished with the silver behind Canada. She was joined by Nikki Ziegelmeyer, 16, of Imperial, Mo., Amy Peterson, 20, of Maplewood, Minn., and Darcie Dohnal, 19, of Wauwatosa, Wis.

Kim Ki-Hoon set a world record in the men's 1,000, giving South Korea its first gold medal in Winter Olympics history.

The Norwegians surpassed their previous high of 17 medals, from the first Winter Games in nearby Chamonix in 1924, with a silver and bronze Thursday in the men's 10,000-meter speedskating. But it was the Dutch who celebrated the outcome when Bart Veldkamp cruised to the Netherlands' first men's gold in the sport in 16 years.

Julie Parisien had a chance to claim the Americans' first gold in Alpine skiing in eight years Thursday, but blew a first-run lead and lost a sure medal to an admitted case of nerves. Austria's Petra Kronberger whizzed to her second gold medal of the Games with the slalom run of her life in the afternoon.

"This is never going to happen to me again, no matter what," vowed Parisien of Auburn, Maine, who threw her ski poles angrily to the snow after finishing fourth. "The pressure's never going to get to me like that again."

The International Olympic Committee decided in 1986 to move the Winter Games to a separate year from the Summer Games, ending a 70-year tradition. IOC officials wanted to give the Winter Olympics a stronger identity, and opted for a two-year break following the 1992 Games rather than six to avoid losing a whole generation of athletes.

It's a golden opportunity for athletes like Dan Jansen, who might have retired after disappointments in the 1988 and 1992 Games rather than another four-year training grind.

Arbitration good to Palmeiro

DALLAS (AP) — The Texas Rangers were forced to dig deeper into their pockets this winter. But if nothing else, they have a couple of delighted superstars on their hands for the summer.

Texas first baseman Rafael Palmeiro won $3.85 million in salary arbitration Thursday, just one day after teammate Ruben Sierra won a record $5 million.

Palmeiro's award is the third-highest in arbitration history behind Sierra's and the $4.25 million awarded Tuesday to New York Mets pitcher David Cone.

The owners still lead the players 10-8 in cases decided by arbitrators, with a decision due today on Cincinnati pitcher Greg Swindell. Jose Lind, the last player left in arbitration, was to have his hearing today.

Also, relievers Mike Henneman of Detroit and Lee Guetterman of the New York Yankees avoided arbitration Thursday by agreeing to one-year contracts.

Arbitrator Gil Vernon, who heard the case Wednesday in New York, chose Palmeiro's figure over the Rangers' offer of $2.35 million. Palmeiro, 27, made $1,475,000 last season, when he hit a career-best .322 with 26 homers and 88 RBIs.

"I did my job," Palmeiro told WFAA-TV in Dallas. "I put up the numbers. And I helped my team win."

On Wednesday, arbitrator William Rentfro chose Sierra's figure instead of the $3.8 million submitted by the Rangers.

"People don't understand what that amount of money is," said team president Tom Schieffer. "because they heard the day before that there was a $5 million contract, the day before that, a $4.25 million contract. It's as if it's Monopoly money, and it doesn't really count."

Texas general manager Tom Grieve said he understood the arbitration process, yet "I doubt very much originally if it was intended to settle disputes as large as the ones we've tried to use for in the last couple of days."

"But we recognize that the arbitrator decides the salary. We recognize that Raffy won his case, and we congratulate him," Grieve said. "And now it's time to start playing some baseball, and leave the contract squabbles behind us and let's start letting the bat hit the ball."

Still, Grieve said the 1-2 punch of the Sierra and Palmeiro cases will have a tremendous impact on the team's future.

Lakers lose sixth straight

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

A six-game losing streak carries little historic significance for most teams. The Los Angeles Lakers aren't like most teams.

The team that once won 33 straight games has lost six straight for only the fourth time in its history. The Lakers haven't seen a worse streak since losing 11 in a row during the 1958-59 season, when Elgin Baylor was a rookie and the franchise called Minneapolis home.

Despite a 105-103 loss to the Seattle SuperSonics on Thursday night before a crowd of 30,847 at the Kingdome, the Lakers see reason for hope.

"One thing we did compared to the last few games was we communicated much better," said Sedale Threatt, who led the Lakers with 23 points. "If we can keep playing like we did tonight, we'll get it back."

"This team still has potential," said James Worthy, who scored 20. "I don't go by what the experts say. But every game is a challenge."

Ricky Pierce sank a 20-foot jump shot as time ran out to give Seattle its sixth win in seven games under coach George Karl.

Eddie Johnson scored 24 points for the Sonics and Pierce and Kemp each scored 19. Byron Scott had 20 points for the Lakers.

challenges by Philadelphia as Rudy Tomjanovich guided the Rockets to a victory in his first game as interim coach.

Houston led 63-51 at halftime, but Hersey Hawkins scored 10 third-quarter points as Philadelphia closed to 79-77 with 3:48 left in the period.

The Rockets led 92-89 with 9:15 left before they took control with a 9-1 run.

The Rockets (27-26), who have won six of their last seven home games, snapped a two-game losing streak and avoided falling below .500 for the first time this season.

Armon Gilliam led Philadelphia with 24 points and Charles Barkley scored 23.

Cavaliers 92, Knicks 89

keeping the Cavaliers ahead of the Knicks in the race for second in the Eastern Conference.

New York led 83-76 with 4:25 left after a jumper by Greg Anthony. But a three-point play by Brad Daugherty and a 3-point goal by Craig Ehlo pulled Cleveland within one. The Cavaliers got that close three more times before Nance's decisive tip of Ehlo's miss put them ahead 90-89.

Mark Price scored 22 points and Daugherty had 19 points and 14 rebounds for Cleveland, 3-0 against New York this season. Patrick Ewing finished with 26 points and 17 rebounds and Kiki Vandeweghe scored 17 points for the Knicks.

Heat 111, Bucks 109

Glen Rice's tap-in with 1.8 seconds left gave Miami a franchise-record 25th victory and snapped the Heat's five-game road losing streak.

Rice, who scored 26 of his 30 points in the second half, missed a shot from the baseline. Teammate Grant Long got an offensive rebound, missed and Rice tipped in the shot.

Rony Seikaly had 20 points and 14 rebounds for the Heat.

Frank Brickowski scored 25 and Jay Humphries 21 for Milwaukee, which saw its six-game home winning streak end. It also was the Bucks' third loss in as many games this season against Miami.

Spring training officially begins

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sure, the start of spring training means mixing sun, sand and surf with baseball. It also can mean a lot more.

To someone like Kirby Puckett, this is the time to work on the skills that will prolong his status as a star.

To someone like Todd Worrell, this is the time to see whether he will be able to prolong his career.

Puckett and Worrell were among those in Florida and Arizona who officially started spring training Thursday. Even though only pitchers and catchers were required to report in 15 camps, many players wanted to get an early jump.

About 20 players went through a voluntary but tough workout at Ft. Myers, Fla., for the World Series champion Minnesota Twins. The Twins said all 23 pitchers and six catchers on their roster were in camp and would be at today's first mandatory practice.

Puckett also was on hand, even though position players are not scheduled to report until next week.

"Working hard is our forte," Puckett said. "We can't rest on our laurels. That was 1991, and this is 1992. It's a different year. We were champs last year and the world knew it, so guys are going to be shooting for us. We've got to be on top of things from the start."

As always, the champions began the year saying that there would be no complacency. Reliever Rock Aguilera was the first to address the subject for the Twins.

"It doesn't look like we're going to sit on what we accomplished last year," he said. "We're not going to live off that. We all want to work hard to do it again. We all know it all starts in spring training."

Worrell knows that as well as anyone. Once one of baseball's top relievers, he has missed two seasons because of elbow and shoulder injuries.

Worrell was one of about 20 players who worked out at the St. Louis Cardinals' camp in St. Petersburg, Fla., one day before the first official practice. He's confident about regaining a spot on the roster, even though Lee Smith has claimed the Cardinals' role as the closer.

Last fall, Worrell was impressive in a short stint in the instructional league. Worrell, 32, had 30 or more saves in three of his four full seasons, and is one save shy of Bruce Sutter's team record of 127.

With the help of his kids, Tom Watson shoots a 63

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Tom Watson figures he's spoiling his kids.

Michael, 9, and Meg, 12, walked 18 holes with him Thursday for the first time ever and he rewarded them with a 9-under-par 63 — "my lowest score in a long time, maybe 10 years."

It gave him what he called "a slight advantage" in the $1 million Buick Invitational of California, which is spread over two courses at Torrey Pines.

Brad Faxon and Robert Wrenn also shot 63s in the near-ideal scoring conditions but agreed that Watson's effort was a couple of shots better.

The difference is that both Faxon and Wrenn played the 6,392 yard North course while Watson birdied 10 times at the 7,000 yard South course.

"Easily a 2-3 shot difference" between the two courses, Wrenn said. "At least two, closer to three," Faxon concurred.

Watson didn't even care.

"I'll take 63 anywhere, anytime," said the five-time British Open champion who ranked as the premier player in the game before going into a victory drought since 1987.

The captain of the 1993 American Ryder Cup team was particularly pleased to do it in front of his family.

"The kids were really hitting the hot dogs and cokes on the front, and then it got kind of exciting and they got caught up in it," he said.

Michael, in fact, went running onto the green to congratulate dad when Watson capped a string of four consecutive birdies with what he called "a slam-dunk birdie," a 40-foot putt that hit the back of the cup on his 16th hole.

More realistically, Watson said his change in fortunes may have resulted from a small adjustment he made in his swing after missing the cut in Hawaii two weeks ago and some friendly play with veteran Lanny Wadkins, also in Hawaii, last week.

Watson said he changed to a more upright swing, "more like I used to have" when he dominated the game.

"I got some good feedback on the swing," he said. "I came in here with a lot more confidence. I feel good about the way I'm playing."

"Lanny said I might have a chance to win some tournaments the way I'm swinging," Watson said. "Obviously, I hope I can continue."

Steve Pate had a 64 on the North course and said he was surprised to shoot 8-under par "and have three guys in front of me."

Australian Steve Elkington, who won the Tournament of Champions at nearby La Costa last month,

Two leading Hawaiian Open

HONOLULU (AP) — It looks like Kris Tschetter finally will make the cut at Ko Olina Golf Course.

Tschetter, the club's touring pro, has missed the cut the past two years at the Hawaiian Ladies Open. This year she's tied atop the leaderboard with Susie Redman at 4-under 68 after Thursday's opening round.

"I was starting to get a little complex about it," Tschetter said after making six birdies on the par-72, 6,244-yard course. "I do feel a little extra pressure here because I want to do well. I knew I could break 74 here if I tried."

Tschetter started off on the back nine with a bogey on No. 10, missing a 7-foot par putt. She followed with birdies on Nos. 13, 14 and 15.

On 13, she hit a sand wedge from 65 feet to within one foot of the pin, followed that with a 5-footer for birdie on 14 and sank a 20-footer from the back fringe of the green on No. 15 when the ball hit the pin and fell in.

"I made some putts I don't normally make, then I missed some shorter ones. The greens are hard, you just have to judge," Tschetter said. "If you get in the rough, it's tough to hit the greens. It's definitely a penalty to hit into this rough."

Redman hit the back nine at 2-under before making birdies on three of the next five holes to go 5-under.

Redman sank a 35-foot putt for birdie on No. 13, then made what she called a great putt on No. 14, breaking a 15-foot downhill putt from left to right.

She bogeyed No. 16 when she missed a 6-footer for par after hitting out of a bunker, but broke another downhill putt on 17 — this one a 21-footer going right to left — to return to 5-under.

On 18, she tried to hit a 7-wood on to the green, but hit short and couldn't get it up and down, missing a 15-foot chip.

Tschetter and Redman both are looking for their first LPGA tournament wins. Tschetter has been on the tour since 1987 and won last year's JC Penney Classic mixed-team event with Billy Andrade. Redman's best finish was a seventh-place tie at the Tucson Open in 1990.

New owners for Texans

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Texans of the Arena Football League have been sold to a local ownership group, it was announced Thursday.

Kent Kramer and Greg Gibson, the majority owners, manage Texas Football L.C. of Plano, a group of investors, which bought the team from Lanier Richey.

Kramer helped manage the team in 1990, their first year in the league, when they went to the Arena Bowl.

He said Thursday he would like to interview coach Drew Pearson, who was 4-6 in his first year on the job with the Texans.

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

- Police are waiting for autopsy results in an unattended death that occurred Feb. 19 at about 9 p.m. in the 300 block of West Sixth Street. Linda Langston, 51, was found dead at her home and police are waiting on autopsy results before ruling out criminal activity such as murder, said Lieutenant Pam Jordan. An investigation is always done in cases of unexplained death, she said.

- The autopsy was ordered by Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles.
- CrimeStoppers of Big Spring is offering $1,000 for information on the theft of two pickup trucks from the Pollard Chevrolet used car lot. The vehicles were driven through a pipe fence and gate. $2,000 in damage was done to the vehicles, which police later recovered.

- Currency of $200 was reported stolen at a home in the 2600 block of Ent.

- Juan Jose Alcantar, 23, of 612 Steakly was arrested for failure to stop and render aid.

- Money, jewelry and other items totaling $5,580 were reported stolen during the burglary of a home in the 2900 block of Melrose.

- Windows were reported broken and holes punched into the walls of a building at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

- Z.B. Rinehart, 44, of 2717 Central was arrested for class C assault/family violence.

- William E. Mondy, 36, of Missouri was arrested for public intoxication.

Howard-Glasscock CED board meets

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
 Staff Writer

The Howard-Glasscock County Education District board members met today in the Big Spring Independent School District board room to discuss tax collections and the future of the board.

Big Spring Superintendent William McQueary said, "This whole CED mess, surprised no one when they ruled it unconstitutional, but it did surprise many when they allowed it through the 1992-93 school year. No one even guessed they would give the Legislatures that much time to fix this thing."

CED board president Lee George of Forsan said McQueary's speaking to a local Lions Club should be considered by other trustees. The court ruling, he said, makes "anything possible. We should look into visiting more service clubs in the communities (to discuss the CED)."

Ron Plumlee, BSISD assistant superintendent for business, presented the current tax collection figures to trustees representing Coahoma, Forsan, Garden City and Big Spring schools.

Glasscock County ISD has collected 96 percent, $2,405,070, of their CED taxes thus far. Charles Zachry, superintendent and trustee Dennis Fuchs attended the meeting. Fuchs said he would like to know how many labor hours were required to manage the CED business.

Big Spring ISD has collected 98 percent, or $4,460,117, of its school taxes for the year. Ford Farris, trustee, Sandra and James McFarland, administrative personnel, and Ron Logback, assistant business manager, attended the meeting.

Coahoma ISD has collected 92 percent, or $1,341,103, of its school taxes. Superintendent Gary Rotan and trustee Phillip Reid said their collections reached the present status when a large taxpayer agreed to pay the CED tax, although it has been ruled

School trustee elections set

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
 Staff Writer

Several area school districts called for trustee elections on May 2 during February board meetings. They include Forsan, Coahoma, Stanton and Glasscock.

Coahoma Superintendent Gary Rotan said three positions are up for election for the district: Jim Wright and Jimmy Sterling for three-year terms and Gail Wells for a two-year unexpired term. Wells was appointed to the board when Jim Mathison resigned.

Trustees also accepted the resignation of elementary principal Mike Turner. Turner's contract was not renewed last year. "I've not made any plans as of today, but I am looking at several job opportunities in education. Possibly an administrative job," Turner said. His contract expires in June and Rotan said the district will soon begin a search for his replacement.

Trustees also approved the purchase of two new school buses, gasoline or diesel engine, and reviewed the local policy on presenting controversial material to students. Trustees moved to stay with the current policy of seeking parental consent before introducing such topics as AIDS, sex education, religion and drug education, Rotan said.

Forsan superintendent J.F. Poynor said two positions on the school board will be voted on in May. Jim Alexander and Jack Howard have expiring three-year terms. Alexander has filed for his position, but Howard is not seeking re-election, Poynor said.

Sharon Cregar, music teacher for Elbow Elementary, is retiring after 21 years with the district, he said. Principal contracts were renewed, and driver's education will be offered this summer to district students for $100 tuition.

A bid was awarded to Vibra-Whirl, Panhandle, in the amount of $35,511 to remove, resurface and restripe the track. Bids are now being accepted through March 5 for jumping pits, Poynor said.

The swimming pool will be open from 2-5 p.m. and from 6-8 p.m. two evenings a week from May 31 through Aug. 9, following trustee approval. A school bus will transport students from Wasson Road to the pool and back from 2-4 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. The pool is free to district residents.

Stanton Superintendent Wayne Mitchell said Dr. Randy Moore, Place 6, and Jimmy Graves, Place 7, have expiring three-year terms. Both men have filed to run for re-election.

Contracts for administrators and principals were renewed for one year, he said. The next board meeting will be March 16 at 7 p.m.

Grady ISD will call for its trustee election following March's board meeting, said Superintendent Gerald Singleton. "Probably, by that time we'll know the district boundaries," he said.

A Grady ISD resident, Guadalupe Garza, filed suit against the district calling for single member districts instead of the current at-large election. Singleton said there is no problem with complying with the request, and the district hired an attorney to handle the litigation.

Three positions for the district are up for election this year, but trustees must wait until the districts are redrawn before designating which positions, he said.

Contracts were renewed for Sandra Singleton, curriculum director, Richard Gibson, principal, and Johnny Tubb, part-time business manager and teacher, following board action. Deann Kargly was added to the substitute teachers list.

The next Grady ISD trustee meeting is scheduled for March 4.

Tax collections for the districts reached expected percentages, officials agreed. And Grady Independent School District collected 101 percent of the 98 percent expected.

These four area schools approved 1992-93 school calendars, and students will share the same spring break next year, officials said.

Glasscock County trustees have three at-large positions available in May. Superintendent Charles Zachry said the trustee positions currently held by Lynn Glass, Ernest Schwartz and Glenda Blalock are up for election.

Principal and administrators' contracts for the district were renewed. Glasscock County students will begin their spring break Feb. 24 for three days to take part in the Houston Livestock Show. And the school will have a longer Easter break, Zachry said.

Police seize magazines with false bill

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Police have been ordered to search stores and news stands for issues of a popular magazine that printed a 1,000-kronor bill and urged readers to cut it out and spend it.

Police raided the magazine's publisher on Tuesday and confiscated 500 copies of Gazette after several stores complained of receiving "false" bills. A 1,000-kronor bill is worth about $170.

"The magazine has incited fraud," Attorney General Harald Dryselius was quoted by the national news agency TT as saying.

He said 47,000 copies of the magazine were printed.

Editor Richard Flinck called the confiscation a great surprise and apologized.

"We consulted lawyers in advance and were given the go-ahead if the facsimile was not an exact copy. The bill was an imitation, not a replica."

U.N. peacekeeping missions planned

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Diplomats today studied a proposal to send the largest-ever U.N. peacekeeping force to Cambodia, while preparing to move ahead with plans to dispatch forces to Yugoslavia.

The two proposed forces, totaling more than 39,000 soldiers, display the new U.N. objectives to take a more aggressive role to halt conflicts. But the plans are estimated to cost more $2.5 billion and could seriously strain already depleted U.N. coffers.

The 15-nation Security Council was expected today to approve a 13,000-member peacekeeping force for Croatia, where about 10,000 people have died in ethnic fighting since the former republic declared independence from Yugoslavia on June 25.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering, the council president, said Thursday some of the forces would be deployed immediately to monitor a seven-week-old ceasefire and protect the population.

For Cambodia, U.N. Boutros Boutros-Ghali on Thursday proposed sending a 26,000-member peacekeeping mission — which would be the United Nations' largest operation. A 20,000-member force operated in the Belgian Congo, now Zaire, in the early 1960s.

The Cambodian force would seek to demobilize all factions in the 13-year-old Cambodian civil war and oversee the elections, scheduled for April 1993.

The Security Council is expected to vote on Boutros-Ghali's $2 billion plan next week.

Also Thursday, about 700 Thai army engineers under U.N. command moved into Cambodia on Thursday to help clear mines. Soldiers from France and New Zealand also will help in the mine-clearing operations.

Cambodia's Vietnamese-backed government and the three guerrilla groups signed an U.N.-supervised peace accord in October. All sides have pressed the United Nations to send troops.

"Unless we go there in force... the peace process which is very precarious, very fragile, may begin to disintegrate," said Yasushi Akashi, the U.N. official overseeing the peace plan.

The proposal calls for a 15,900-member military peacekeeping force; more than 7,000 civilian election monitors, and a police-monitoring group of 3,600. He said all four factions want peace, but he noted a small advance force of U.N. peacekeepers have been blocked access to some areas controlled by the rebels of the communist Khmer Rouge.

The U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees says more than 360,000 Cambodian refugees may return to their country. Boutros-Ghali said the returnees should be provided with shelter and food for 12 months and about five acres of land per family, after making sure it is clear of mines.

In Yugoslavia, nearly all parties in the conflict support U.N. peacekeepers. However, an ethnic Serb leader, Milan Babic, opposes allowing U.N. forces into the enclave of Krajina. A referendum on the U.N. plan has been delayed.

Ethnic Serbs and the Serb-led federal military have battled Croatian forces since June. Fighting has subsided since a U.N.-brokered truce on Jan. 3.

A U.N. report estimated the cost of the peacekeeping force at $637 million for one year. Some governments are seeking ways to trim expenses, such as asking Croatia and Yugoslavia to contribute use of their hotels. At least 31 nations, including the United States, are expected to contribute to the force.

Boutros-Ghali has an emergency $10 million fund for peacekeeping operations, but it will only cover a fraction of the costs.

A U.N. report last month said the peacekeeping account was in debt $377 million and the general U.N. budget had a $439 million shortfall. U.N. officials have pressed the United States and other members for back-dues and other money owed.

York of 'Bewitched' dies Thursday at 63

ROCKFORD, Mich. (AP) — Actor Dick York, best known for his role as Darrin on the 1960s television series, "Bewitched," has died at 63, a funeral home spokesman said.

DICK YORK

York died Thursday afternoon at his home in Rockford, said David Pederson of Pederson Funeral Home in Rockford. He had suffered for several years from emphysema and a degenerative spinal condition but worked to raise funds for poor people.

For five years, York played the stressed-out husband to Elizabeth Montgomery's nose-twitching Samantha on the popular ABC series about a witch who could work miracles with a twitch of the nose married to a mortal advertising executive.

He was replaced on the show by Dick Sargent in 1969 when problems stemming from an old back injury, including overdependence on painkillers, forced him to leave. The show ran from 1964 to 1972.

York was born Sept. 4, 1928, in Fort Wayne, Ind.

York began his acting career as a child, doing radio in Chicago, where his family moved when he was young. At 15, he starred in the network radio show "That Brewster Boy."

In addition to his television work, he appeared in several films, including "My Sister Eileen," "Going My Way," and "Inherit the Wind," in which he played the schoolteacher whose teaching of evolution prompts the celebrated 1920s "monkey trial."

He also appeared on Broadway in the mid-'50s in "Tea and Sympathy" and "Bus Stop."

He and his wife, Joan, moved to Rockford, about 12 miles north of Grand Rapids, in 1985 to be near her mother after the death of her father. The couple had planned only a short stay until York's health worsened.

Despite his ailments, York was active in raising funds for the homeless, working by telephone while largely confined to his home. He called his private fund-raising effort Acting For Life.

"I'm ready to fight city hall and scream and yell about everything," he said in a 1988 interview. "It seems to me, when somebody's hungry, you feed them. If they don't have a place to live, you find them a place to live."

The Rev. George Heartwell Jr. said York made donations to the Heartside Clinic in Grand Rapids, which provides medical assistance to homeless people.

"It was kind of one of those angels that drop into your life," Heartwell said.

"He would spend hours at a time, calling all over the United States if he thought there was a chance of something getting thrown away, to essentially salvage it for the homeless," said Dennis Sturtevant, director of the Dwelling Place, another Grand Rapids organization that received contributions from York.

York once said the financial problems his family faced during the Depression were one of the reasons he was inspired to help the poor — and one of the reasons he became an actor.

Middle class is shrinking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The middle class is not as large as it once was, according to the Census Bureau.

The government released a report Thursday that shows the percentage of Americans with middle incomes dropped from 71.2 percent in 1969 to 63.3 percent in 1989.

"The conclusion is obviously that (income) inequality has grown rather substantially over the last 20 years," said Jack McNeil, the Census Bureau economist who wrote the report. "We're getting clusters toward both ends" of the income scale.

The growing income inequality is partly due to the increase in families headed by single mothers, who are less likely to work, McNeil said.

Previous studies have documented the decline of the middle class. But the new report provides more detail on income trends in different population groups, McNeil said. For the first time, the Census Bureau used a "relative income" measure that takes family size into account.

"The elderly are doing better than any other group... You can see some improvement in their relative status," McNeil said.

The percentage of people aged 65 and over with middle incomes ranged from 21.5 percent to 29.9 percent in 1964, the report shows. By 1989 it had grown to between 24.9 percent and 34.2 percent.

There also were signs of improvement among blacks. The percentage of blacks with high incomes increased from 22.6 percent in 1969 to 28.8 percent in 1989.

Building new hope and new home

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

When Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Church was organized in Big Spring nearly 50 years ago, its 11 members met in a one-room house on Willia Street.

As membership grew, so did the church facility. However, three years ago, the 85-member congregation decided it was time to construct an even larger building in which to serve the Lord.

In Nov. 1990, members purchased two acres on 24th Street. Construction of the facility began Aug. 1, 1991.

"We began a building fund three years ago for the purpose of building a new building," said Elder Jeff Harris. "We didn't want to start until we had 50 percent of what it would take to build it."

Upon completion, the 7,000 square foot building and the land will be debt-free.

The church site on Willia Street is 2,400 square feet, Harris noted.

"The actual cost of construction and the land is $175,000," Harris said. "It will be totally paid for when it's completed."

Before construction began, members estimated it would take a year to complete the project. Harris said he anticipates preaching his first sermon in the new facility Aug. 1, a year to the day after construction began.

"That's what we're shooting for. . . We're a little bit ahead of schedule," Harris said.

The construction process has been an effort of the entire church membership, Harris noted.

"Each brother and sister is helping in their own way. It's awesome. Each one has something to contribute to this cause," said Harris who designed the building, drew up the blueprints and serves as a carpenter.

Youth members also have contributed to the building's construction.

"My 7-year-old and 11-year-old boys nailed these nails," Harris said as he pointed to the pulpit floor.

Women help by serving food to the hungry workers.

Church member Leo Parker, who serves as chief carpenter's helper, and Harris both have spent 1,000 hours working on the facility.

"This is really a banner week. He (Parker) and I have literally worked 1,000 total hours," Harris said.

Deacon John Wayne Metcalf has also spent countless hours on the building's construction.

"He's been of immense help," Harris said.

The facility will feature a work and study room, sanctuary, baptistry, fellowship hall, video room, and a sound room for the production of the church's radio broadcasts. In the back of the sanctuary, a "cry room" also is under construction.

"A cry room is where mothers can take their babies if they're crying," Harris said with a smile.

Before 1832, Harris explained, all Baptists were one family. However, when the church divided, Primitive Baptists were labeled by the church majority.

"When division arose among the Baptists, the majority of Baptists adopted the modern ideas concerning the church. Because of this, they called themselves the New School or Missionary Baptist Church. And, said at that time those maintaining the old-fashioned way would be called Primitive or Old School," Harris explained.

In keeping with the church's doctrine, Harris said the church doesn't offer Sunday School.

"We don't believe in a segregated congregation. . . Children need to be with the adults during the service," Harris said.

Harris, who said he's privileged to preach in the Primitive Baptist church, praises the local members for their dedication and hard work on the new facility.

"I'm so thankful and I praise God for the involvement of the members of the our church in this project," he said.

In the above photo Elder Jeff Harris straps on the tool belt during the beginning stages of the churches construction. Below, the January snow covers the roof of the new Primitive Baptist Church. The congregation began the building project in Aug. 91 and expect to be in the church by Aug. 92.

Recession forces churches to tighten budgets

God loves a cheerful giver is the message still being spread in the nation's pulpits, but such donors are becoming scarcer during a recession that has more people knocking on heaven's door for food and shelter.

The institution that fashions itself a city built upon a hill faces the same painful choices confronting governments, corporations and other more worldly groups as it seeks to fulfill its mandate to care for the poor, the hungry and the homeless and stay in business.

The sacrifices in tightening church budgets can be great.

The Rev. Robert Beck in Buffalo, N.Y., gave up his salary, then his secretary to keep his downtown church alive. His benefits — health insurance and housing and car allowances — are his only compensation.

"That's the only reason we can handle the situation," said Beck, pastor of St. Paul's and St. Mark's United Church of Christ. "You find ways of doing it if you have to. That doesn't mean it's easy."

In Des Moines, Iowa, the head of a local ecumenical organization said it could easily spend double the $2,000 a month it allocates to meet emergency expenses for the needy, but the funds are not there.

"You're getting caught at both ends. Not only do you have increasing needs on the part of the congregation and the community, at the same time you have diminishing resources to meet those needs," said the Rev. Forrest Harms, director of the Des Moines Area Religious Council.

Giving by church members in nine denominations increased by 5.7 percent in 1989, from $345 to $365 a member, according to the 1991 Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches published by the National Council of Churches.

But giving as a percentage of income has steadily decreased since 1968, when members gave 3.05 percent of their income to 1989, when members in the 29 Protestant denominations studied gave 2.62 percent of their income, according to a study by the Empty Tomb Inc., a Christian research organization based in Champaign, Ill.

One trend reported by clergy and church giving experts is that congregations are keeping greater percentages of their incomes at home, preferring to cut their budgets by limiting their allocations to national programs.

"More and more people want to see the tangible results of the money they're giving," said

Ronald Vallet, executive director of the Ecumenical Center for Stewardship Studies in Indianapolis. "There is definitely a squeeze at the national level."

Last year, the Episcopal Church reduced its headquarters staff in New York by 18 percent from 291 to 239. In Chicago, the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America eliminated 25 staff positions. U.S. Roman Catholic Bishops last June cut the budget for their joint operations by 3 percent, or $1 million, to $34 million.

The Rev. Eric Shafer of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America said recessionary fears have made people afraid of making large financial commitments.

"That fear that you hear about and read about is certainly prevalent in the church," Shafer said. "Things are tough and things are tight. I detect people would like to do better for the church at large, but are just being cautious."

But others say more disturbing trends also are at work.

There is still money available in large urban congregations such as St. John's Lutheran Church in Des Moines, where a record $1.2 million was raised last year, according to the Rev. Elton Richard.

But he said church members want the money to stay in the community partly out of "a distrust of big church, big government."

He also said, while the church has been able to raise money for capital projects, "I wish I could sit here and say we could get the same kind of commitment for a social problem."

Sylvia and John Ronsvalle of Empty Tomb Inc. said the seeds of the current decline in giving as a percentage of personal income were sown before the recession as part of a larger trend of individuals approaching the church as consumers rather than stewards.

These members will support programs that benefit them such as youth education or music or building maintenance, but they do not have the same sense of discipleship of past church members who would be more willing to give as a percentage of income and feel a greater responsibility for world mission.

For example, during the Great Depression, Protestant church members gave about 3.3 percent of their income to the church, as compared with the average 2.62 percent given in 1989.

Briefs

Bush supports prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, assuring the recent convention of National Religious Broadcasters that he favors voluntary prayers in public schools, said, "In Sunday school, children learn that God is everywhere but in public school they find that he's absent from class."

Hitting the air waves

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — The founder of "Operation Rescue," which has staged protests at many abortion clinics, says he is launching a syndicated daily radio talk show.

From studios in his hometown, Randall Terry says the show will be broadcast by satellite beginning April 20. He said stations across the country are being lined up to carry it.

Missionaries to switch

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The leader of the Southern Baptist Fellowship, an organization of moderates, says scores of missionaries have asked if they can switch to the fellowship because of dissatisfaction with fundamentalist policies of the denomination's Foreign Missions Board.

"I get letters and phone calls every day from missionaries sick to death of what the Foreign Mission Board trustees are doing," says the Rev. John Hewett, a pastor here and moderator of the fellowship formed last year in opposition to the present fundamentalist control of the denomination.

The fellowship voted to offer employment to missionaries in Europe after the board's two top administrators for that region quit in protest.

The Rev. Robert P. Beck who pastors the urban congregation of St. Paul's and St. Mark's Church of Christ, poses in downtown Buffalo recently. During these recessionary times, the church has eliminated the secretary's job and the Rev. Beck works for benefits only — no salary.

Single parenting a difficult task

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am all alone, and at times I feel like giving up. My husband left us a couple of years ago, and it is very hard being a single mother. I don't know why I'm writing you, but maybe you can give me some encouragement. — Mrs. L.U.

DEAR MRS. L.U.: Being a good parent is a difficult, demanding responsibility even under the best of circumstances, and being a single parent is unquestionably one of the hardest tasks anyone can have. But there are steps you can take to lessen your burden, and God wants to help you become the best parent you can be.

Realize first of all that you are not alone. For one thing, God is with you, if you will but open your life to Christ and trust Him by faith to lead you. The Bible tells us, "do not be discouraged, for the Lord your God will be with you wherever you go" (Joshua 1:9). Ask God to help you right now.

In addition, other people can be of help to you from time to time. Learn from other single parents how they manage their pressures. Perhaps there are relatives who can give you time off occasionally. Become active in a good church; some churches today have special programs and help for single parents.

No, life is seldom perfect or free of problems. But God is in the midst of it all, and He knows your concerns and needs. He also has given your children to you, and never forget that "Sons are a heritage from the Lord, children a reward from Him" (Psalm 127:3). Don't let the hurts of the past spill over on your children. Instead, pray for your children, and ask God to help you not only love them and take care of them, but give them the spiritual foundation they need in life.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My husband and I seem to be swimming in a sea of debt. Every month it just seems to get worse, because we have to pay so much interest on our credit cards. I don't know how we got into this mess, but I wish somehow God would get us out. — B.R.

DEAR B.R.: Uncontrolled debt — which also really means uncontrolled spending — is a terrible taskmaster. The Bible reminds us that "the borrower is servant to the lender" (Proverbs 22:7). It also says, "Let no debt remain outstanding" (Romans 13:8).

God does not want you to be burdened with debt and preoccupied all the time with concerns about money. His will instead is for you to get free of this burden as soon as possible. But how will that happen? How does God want you to solve your money problems? Let me make three suggestions. First, take practical steps to get your spending under control. Make a budget, based on what you know you will need each month and what you are earning. Include in it as much as possible for debt repayment.

Second, take some practical steps to avoid spending, particularly on impulse. Leave the credit cards at home; I heard of one man in your situation who locked them in his safe deposit box so he would not be tempted to overspend.

Third, ask God to help you to have the right perspective on money and things. Right now they are ruling you, instead of you ruling them.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Do you think we have a conscience down inside us that tells us what is right and what is wrong? If so, how do you account for people who can commit terrible crimes and not even seem to feel guilty for it? — F.S.

DEAR F.S.: Yes, we each have been given a conscience by God to give us an inner sense of right and wrong. This is one of the things that makes a human being different from the animals. King Solomon could say to someone who had hurt his father, "You know in your heart all the wrong you did" (1 Kings 2:44).

At the same time, our conscience is not a perfect guide, and in fact it can be suppressed and dulled. The reason is because we have been scarred by sin.

Seminar reminder

Big Spring Baptist Woman's Missionary Union is sponsoring a seminar, "Personal Witnessing" featuring speaker and writer Marsha Spradlin on Feb. 24 at the First Baptist Church, 705 Marcy. Women of all denominations are invited to participate.

SPRADLIN

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. with a meal in the fellowship hall, followed by the seminar at 7 p.m. A nursery will be available. Tickets for the meal and the seminar can be purchased at the First Baptist Church office or through the local Baptist Women organization for $5. For more information call Gloria Scarbrough (263-8654) or Betty Thomas (267-2002).

Understanding Genesis seminar in Midland

The First Baptist Church, 2104 West Louisiana, Midland, will be hosting a seminar on evolution entitled "Understanding Genesis" Feb. 28-29. The program includes guest speakers Duane Gish, (Ph.D. U.C. Berkeley) author of "Evolution: Challenge of the Fossil Record" and Steven Austin, (Ph.D., Geology, Penn State). The program begins on Friday night with a discussion on Dinosaurs and Mount St. Helens. Free child care is available on this night but reservations must be made by Wednesday. Call 682-1646.

On Saturday morning beginning at 9 a.m. a film entitled "The World that Perished" will be shown followed by Gish's presentation of the Origin of Man. At 10:45 Austin will speak on the topic of "Is the Earth Really Billions of Years Old?"

Later on Saturday discussions will be held on creation, evolution, fossils and the big freeze.

This seminar is free and open to the public. No pre-registration is necessary. For additional information call (915) 697-0557 or 685-1981.

Jehovah's Witness plan day of assembly

Working hard in doing the will of God will be the theme for the Special Day Assembly of Jehovah's Witness being held in Spanish on Feb. 22 at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum in Big Spring.

This theme is based on the Scriptures of Eph. 6:6 and 1 Ti. 4:10 which encourage us to guide our way of life according to the will of God.

"Does the will of God Guide Your Life?" This question will be addressed in the morning by R. Figueroa, a representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. He will consider in his speech things in which one should keep one's guard up to assure oneself that we no longer live for man's wishes and according to the spirit of the world.

During the afternoon session

Figueroa will address us with another speech, "Our purpose in Life: To do the will of God." One main point in this speech will be to know the best way to fulfill our purpose in life today and the results of doing individually and collectively the will of God.

These are two of many discourses to be considered. Session will begin at 9:55 a.m. till 12:05 p.m. after a short recess the afternoon session will begin at 1:30 p.m. till 3:55 p.m.

Approximately 600 persons are expected with delegates from Lubbock, Lamesa and Big Spring.

You are cordially invited to attend at no charge. This is part of a worldwide Bible educational work that is supported by voluntary donations.

Church members attend college days

Twenty-three will be attending College Days at Southern Nazarene University this weekend. This provides an opportunity for our youth to see and experience college life, visit with professors, and get individual college preparation advice.

Included in tour will be a visit to the campus church where Mike Warnke will be speaking Friday evening.

Sunday, Mar. 1 will be "Dell McGuire Appreciation Day". We will be recognizing a very special person who has given many years of service to the Church of the Nazarene.

The Church of the Nazarene in Big Spring has become known throughout Texas and even other parts of the nation by developing Texas' largest Drive-Through Nativity each year during the Christmas season. But, the church has done much more to impact our community and world with the message of the Gospel. The ministries of the church includes five satellite services; support of local indigent care groups; a ministry to assist needs of the less fortunate; a jail ministry, and support for church planting throughout the West Texas area.

Recently, the teens of First Nazarene went to Ciudad de Valles, Mexico to work on some of the 22 churches and witness to jungle Indian tribes. First Nazarene gives financial support to nearly 700 missionaries in 95 world areas and serves over 45,000 patients annually in church hospitals and clinics.

Every week the inhouse ministries include nursery, graded children's ministries, youth ministries, adult ministries, and senior adult ministries called PRIME TIME. Trips, meals and other gatherings are scheduled throughout the year for the PRIME TIMERS. A special men's ministry and a women's ministry are of special importance to the church also. Each Sunday morning and Wednesday night our vans provide transportation for these ministries.

The church pastoral staff includes Dick Milton, Assistant; J.D. Bilbro, Assistant; Ron Osborn, Music; John Doll, Youth; Wilma Doll, Youth and Sunday School, along with outstanding laymen to lead in vital ministries.

The immediate plans are to expand the sanctuary's seating capacity to meet the ever-increasing numbers that are coming to worship. Remodeling of the Educational facilities are on the drawing board. Improvements on the gymnasium and Fellowship Hall are underway.

Exciting plans are being finalized for a youth trip to one of our 11 colleges, Southern Nazarene University, and also another mission trip to Mexico. Extensive plans are being prepared to enlarge the Drive-Through Nativity for the 1992 season.

Pastor Gary Smith is nearing his sixth year at First Nazarene and he is more excited about the future ministry of the church than when we first came in 1986. He says, "This church is a wonderfully exciting place to be and we extend a warm welcome to all."

Pastor Gary F. Smith

This year the famous stone replicas are being brought back by popular demand through the courtesy of Texas Faceters Guild. These are exact replicas of 22 World famous Gems, many of which are in the Smithsonian, others in other museums or private collections. These are cut from Cubic Zirconia in colors of the original Gems. There will be many other outstanding display cases. Some will carry out this year's theme, "Things to do in '92."

The grande prize will be a blue faceted Topaz cut in the design "STAR IN BIG SPRING". A chance to win this stone is guaranteed with each $2.00 ticket. You do not have to be present to win, but the club offers this valuable prize to encourage the public to attend the show. There will also be door prizes every hour, but you do have to be present to win one of those. There will be a snack bar for your pleasure, so why not come spend the whole two days? A spinning wheel will furnish fun and prizes for the children (and many grown-ups as well).

City Extension

Homemakers Club

Naomi Hunt, Howard County Extension Agent, met with the City Extension Homemakers Club on Feb. 14, in the home of Jean Cantrell.

"Fat Budgeting yields Healthy Dividends" was the subject of Ms. Hunt's program for the eleven members of the club. She emphasized age, weight, nutritional needs and activities as determining factors of the body demand for fat in the diet.

A display of cooking oils commonly used with poly, mono, and unsaturated fat values was the basis for discussion of cholesterol in the diet, along with choice lists of foods for making educated decisions in selecting foods.

Jowili Ethison and Frances Zant were chosen as alternate delegates to the district meeting at Andrews on Apr. 16.

Last chance

If you missed the Up With People program on Tuesday, you have one more opportunity to catch this entertaining show.

The Up With People cast will perform at the Midland Center on Feb. 24 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $7 and $9. Call the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce for more information.

Mary Jane Club

The Mary Jane Club met Feb. 13 at the Coahoma Baptist Fellowship Hall with Lee Milliken and Bobbie Nix as co-hostesses.

Wayne Mitchell, Superintendent of Stanton Independent Schools, gave a very interesting program on Spur Collecting.

Mitchell showed spurs made of iron, stainless steel, and elaborately overlaid with Sterling silver and beautifully engraved.

Since very little has been written or published about spurs, in 1985 Mitchell's wife, Natha Jean Mitchell wrote a book, "Spur Marks."

Mitchell said that the history of spurs was definitely a part of our Western Heritage, but, to him, belief and faith in God, as well as patriotism were the most important parts.

Guests present were Ruth Cathey, Carroll Choate, Rob Ethridge, Dean Forrest, Bill Milliken and Clovis Phinney, Jr. Also welcomed were new members, Laura Murphree and her daughter, Becky.

The next meeting will be Mar. 12 in the home of Janie Phinney.

Howard County

Lioness Club

Howard County Lioness met in Memorial Hall of Wesley United Methodist Church, Feb. 17 at 7 p.m.

Lioness Marguerite Thompson, president, called on Leta Kirby who gave the invocation and led the pledge of allegiance.

Kay Clark read the minutes of the Dec. 1991 meeting and reported we met with the Big Spring Evening Lions Club in January for the official visit of District 2-A1 Governor Paul Palmer and District Secretary Dale Palmer.

Leta Kirby gave the treasurer's report and reported on the proceeds of the knife sales, and cornbread and bean supper recently held.

It was voted to work with Christmas in April on Apr. 25.

A committee of five charter members has met and made plans for the 5th Anniversary of the Howard County Lioness Club to be held Mar. 21 at the Big Spring Evening Lions Club Building at 7 p.m. It will be by invitation with RSVP required as a dinner will be served.

The "Just Say No Club" at Marcy School held its first meeting with Lioness Debbie Sanders leading the 115 children who came. She reports it was very inspiring to hear 115 children repeat the "Just Say No Club" pledge in unison.

The "Just Say No Club" sponsored by the Howard County Lioness's had their meeting and Valentine Party at the Westside Community Center on Friday.

Lioness-Lion Jan Noyes reported the Big Spring Evening Lions are having a Golf Tournament, Saturday, Mar. 28 and invites all Lionesses and husband to participate. It was also reported they helped get donated eyes to recipients in Lubbock and San Angelo last month.

Next meeting will be third Monday of March.

Eagles Lodge #3188

February has been designated by the Eagles Lodge state wide as Heart Fund month.

On Feb. 28 the Eagles Lodge #3188, located at 730 W. 3rd, will host a benefit cake and pie auction in an effort to raise money for the heart fund.

The benefit is sponsored by the Ladies Auxillary. For additional information or the make a donation please call 263-1781 or 263-0845. Your help is greatly appreciated.

Big Spring

Art Association

Doris Vieregge told the members of the Big Spring Art Association that a Center for the arts is being established in Big Spring. Opening date is targeted for early May; location will be 312 E. Third St.

A gallery, gift shop and art supply store are being planned as part of the center. Classes in the visual arts, dance, drama, and music will be offered.

Membership to the center for the arts will be available to the public. Quin Martin presided over the business meeting.

Pauline Long, Kay Smith, Doris Vieregge, Robert Caffey, Jean Money and Hazel Duggan took part in a critique of their displayed pictures. The artists discussed their techniques and offered suggestions for art work improvement.

The next meeting will be Mar. 17, Kentwood Center, 2805 Lynn Drive.

Elbow Extension

Homemakers Club

The Elbow Extension Homemakers Club met Feb. 6 in the home of Dot Blackwell, vice president Muriel Prokschl, presided.

Mrs. Blackwell gave the devotional: Proverbs 4:7. Gloria Kappes read the thought: Most of us know how to say nothing, few of us know when. Nine members and two guests answered roll call with: My biggest buying mistake.

The guests were Fran Riley and Extension Agent Naomi Hunt. Mrs. Riley was enrolled as a new member. Naomi gave the program: "Know your fat budget." Too much dietary fat has been linked with several diseases, especially those associated with high blood cholesterol levels and being overweight.

The next regular meeting will be Feb. 20 in the home of Madred Bradley.

Honk! Wrong way silly goose

A gaggle of geese enjoy a stroll along a pond at D.W. Field Park in Brockton, Mass. recently. These birds obviously have no regard for traffic flow signs.

Youth speaks out for the environment in winning essay

Ami Vasanawala was the winner in the Up With People essay contest in the 7th and 8th grade division. Her winning entry is entitled Why Is It Important To Help Our Environment?

Our environment is in dire need of help. People must start with themselves. Our rainforests are destroyed by the millions; our oceans are flooding with oil; and numbers of people get cancer every year from the toxic waste. Due to the greenhouse effect and global warming, our home is losing time.

Our planet suffers from air pollution. For example, smog, ozone pollution created by the action of sunlight on emissions such as automobile exhaust, appeared in record proportions which came back to haunt our nation's cities. Ground-based ozone was causing $5 million in annual U.S. crop losses alone. Sulfur dioxide exceeded deadly levels in Shenyang, China for 146 days. You would think Paris was the "City of Love", think again. It is officially the "City of Death." It ranked number one for having deadly amounts of Carbon Monoxide.

Also, two years ago a severe drought occurred, and we could not even resort to our nation's rivers. Beaches were closed because of pollutants coming to our shorelines. They vary untreated human waste to used medical syringes. Plus, the Environmental Protection Agency showed that one-half of our streams are either acidic or on the verge of becoming so. (The acid rain takes away necessary oxygen for our marine life.)

This is not nearly all the damage we have done to Mother Earth. We can change things. Buy biodegradable products. Use non-aerosol cans. Get your car checked, and try to reduce emissions. These are just a few helpful hints. Remember your three R's. Reduce, reuse, and recycle. We can change tomorrow if we change today.

Due to the large number of environmental disasters in the past decade, our earth is fighting back. Earth says, "I can no longer be treated in a negative and destructive manner, or else you will be."

7.9% APR NEW CAR LOANS

Now is the time to take advantage of historically low interest rates on new car and pickup loans! Unlike most of the "good rates" offered by captive finance companies, our 7.9% APR is not tied to any particular car or pickup model. It is good for up to 60 months on any new 1992 vehicle. And, if the manufacturer is offering a rebate, you get to keep it!

But hurry, this rate is good only for a limited time!

Public restroom no place to leave kids alone

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman who graduated from college last year. I now sell media advertising, which requires quite a bit of traveling. I am not married and have no children, so I'm far from an authority on the subject, but I find appalling the number of mothers who allow their little ones (sometimes as young as 5 or 6) to use public restrooms unsupervised.

Last week, I went to the ladies' room at O'Hare Airport and inadvertently walked in on a little girl who was too small to lock the stall door. She was barely big enough to get up on the stool. She was sitting on the bare toilet seat, and had an accident because she wasn't big enough to sit back all the way. I assisted her, had her wash her hands, and escorted her to the waiting area outside — where her mother was sitting, reading a newspaper!

Today I was at a gas station having work done on my car and observed a girl about 7 go into the men's room alone. She didn't even look at the sign on the door.

Until I was in about the sixth grade, my mother would take me into the bathroom, put paper liner down for me (or at least wipe the seat off) and make sure I washed my hands thoroughly afterward. This kind of mothering seems to be missing today. What is your opinion? — NICOLE FROM OMAHA

DEAR NICOLE: There are all kinds of people traveling these days. Be assured that most mothers and fathers wouldn't dream of letting their little ones out of their sight at an airport — or any other public place. But, unfortunately, some parents are too lazy, too trusting or too harebrained to make their children's safety their first priority.

Orchids to you for your caring and compassion. Should you choose to have children one day, they will be blessed to have you for their mother.

Jeane Dixon

FOR SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A major career decision must be made; you benefit both financially and emotionally from trying new things. A fresh approach pays big dividends in business. Count on a legal matter being settled in your favor by August. Travel sets the stage for happy romance next fall. Enjoy the social whirl in November and December.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: President George Washington, actress Drew Barrymore, basketball star Julius Erving, tennis champ Michael Chang.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Spur-of-the-moment social activities are a source of delight today. A romantic relationship heats up. Spend more time with younger people. A chance meeting could result in an impromptu party.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Tough decisions may be necessary. A temporary sacrifice will pay off handsomely. Those of you participating in academic programs need to reserve more time for reading and studying.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Exploring new surroundings with friends holds strong appeal. A close pal could help you make a secret wish come true. A private meeting with VIPs gives you an opportunity to float your ideas.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Give your imagination free rein and there is no telling what terrific ideas you can come up with. A brief encounter with a newcomer could give you second thoughts about a current romance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your allies may know more about someone than you do. Drop a strategy that does not meet with the approval of those who share your goals. Your star is on the rise!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Wait until you and your partner are completely sure before announcing a major decision. Hide with the tide that is carrying you into uncharted but wonderful seas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Look forward to a lucky day for love and friendship. Your poise helps you win new friends and admirers at a social gathering. Let loved ones know how much you need their support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Romantic partner continues to keep you on your toes. Certain financial news is music to your ears! You may be able to orchestrate a sweet business deal. Drive a hard bargain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Love and luck abound this weekend. Go ahead and mix business with pleasure when entertaining. Romance has you walking on air. Promote a charity-related project or social event.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Minor complications arise at home or work. Haul in your sails. By evening, you will have accomplished what you set out to do. Get in the social swim! Accept a spontaneous invitation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An urge to splurge could grip you today. Be careful not to go overboard where entertainment costs are concerned. Economize by inviting friends to your home for a dessert-and-coffee party.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A friend who feels depressed will appreciate your wishing him away for some fun. Romance is enhanced when you put partner's wishes ahead of your own. Take special pains with your appearance tonight.
