Standard, Wallace meet to discuss job

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Sheriff A.N. Standard and his defeated challenger for the sheriff's office, Deputy Jimmy Wallace, met Monday to discuss Wallace being taken off forced administrative leave.

Wallace, who could be put back on regular duties, be fired, or voluntarily quit, was forced to take administrative leave without pay the day he filed for the Democratic nomination in January. Standard said Wallace's candidacy was a conflict of interest.

No decision on Wallace's job status was made following the meeting Monday but another meeting is planned, said Standard, who declined to discuss details.

"We did meet Monday and we're scheduled to meet again," Standard confirmed. "It's still negotiable."

As far as details of the first meeting, Standard said, "Any statements really should come from Wallace."

Wallace, contacted by telephone Tuesday, said only, "No comment," and hung up.

Standard would not say when he and Wallace plan to meet again or when a decision on Wallace's job status will be made.

Wallace, a deputy for eight years, has maintained that he is in effect fired from his $25,416 a year job. He lost the March 10 primary 3,033 votes to 1,825 votes following a campaign fraught with allegations of irresponsibility from both sides and with each candidate calling the other a liar.

But Standard, in office 28 years, said the night of his victory that the door is open for negotiation. The day after the election, a registered letter inviting discussion was sent from the sheriff's office to Wallace.

"I think the attitude and the healing process should begin," Standard said last week. "I do not want to destroy his livelihood, nor did I want to."

Wallace is married and has three children.

Standard now faces Republican Neel G. Barnaby Jr. in the Nov. 3 general election. Barnaby, who ran unopposed in the primary, is facility administrator of the Big Spring Correction Center.

Barnaby says changes are needed in the sheriff's office but he cannot pinpoint details until he is elected into office. He said he will soon reveal more details of his platform.

Protestors cheer from atop a pole in central Johannesburg Wednesday prior to marching on police headquarters as results of the whites-only referendum were announced. The electorate voted a mandate to end apartheid and share power with the black majority.

Apartheid Victory ends dominance

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — President F.W. de Klerk was headed for a sweeping victory Wednesday in a whites-only referendum on ending centuries of racial domination and sharing power with blacks.

With results in from the first four of the 15 election districts, de Klerk was winning with 67 percent of the vote. The result included major upsets in two traditionally pro-apartheid districts, which voted for de Klerk.

State-run South African Broadcasting Corp. said it appeared de Klerk had won the crucial referendum, one which he had staked his political future.

All Johannesburg newspapers had predicted a government win, saying the de Klerk had been boosted by a strong voter turnout. Business Day, the country's leading business newspaper, said it had learned pro-apartheid leaders were privately admitting defeat.

Denis Worrall, a leader of the Democratic Party, which backed de Klerk, predicted Wednesday the government would get more than 60 percent of the vote.

De Klerk, who has abolished major apartheid laws, needed a victory to push ahead with his last and most important reform: a new constitution extending full political rights to the 30 million black majority.

If the referendum were to fail, de Klerk promised to resign, clearing the way for a whites-only general election that pro-apartheid parties would be favored to win.

The president, smiling and looking confident after Tuesday's balloting, said he was optimistic and "full of enthusiasm."

"Never in 40 years have I seen people vote like this," said Zach de Beer, leader of the Democratic Party, which supports the referendum.

Several stations nearly ran out of ballots, and many reported at least 80 percent.

The heavy turnout was expected to favor de Klerk, since voter apathy in the past has been attributed mainly to English-speakers who tend to be more liberal than Afrikaans-speaking whites.

Liberal whites, who have traditionally opposed the government, provided de Klerk with a key block of votes, though some were less than enthusiastic.

Helen Joseph, a wheelchair-bound, 85-year-old anti-apartheid activist under virtual house arrest for years, carried a poster to her polling station that read, "I'm Voting For Negotiations — Not F.W."

Violence in black townships has surged since de Klerk called the referendum, claiming almost 300 lives in the past month. But the townships were relatively calm Tuesday night and Wednesday, with four deaths reported.

Voting began shortly after dawn, and long lines formed at many urban polling stations.

"I voted 'yes.' It's the only thing to do for the future of this country. ... My (black) workmates don't have the vote and I must vote for them," said construction worker Chris Bakker.

Another voter, C.P. Katzen, said reforms should be blocked.

B-1B's grounded at Abilene base

ABILENE (AP) — Cracks found in the landing gear assemblies of more than 50 of the nation's B-1B Lancer bombers have resulted in the fleet being grounded.

Fifty B-1 aircraft of 74 inspected Monday at four air bases were found to have the cracks. They have been removed temporarily from service pending a complete analysis, officials said.

Col. Johnny Griffin, commander of the 96th Wing at Dyess Air Force Base, showed reporters at a Tuesday afternoon news conference one of the cracked parts and noted that the damage is so small it can't be seen without some type of magnifying device.

"You can't see it, you can't feel it, you can't smell it and you can't taste it, but it makes headlines," he said.

He said the cracks are tiny stress fractures and are a natural part of a plane's maturation process. New parts will be fabricated and the replacements made soon, Griffin said. He said it would take one person about two hours to change the part out.

The same part also will be changed out on the rest of the fleet, which fly out of Ellsworth Air Force Base at Rapid City, S.D.; Grand Forks Air Force Base at Grand Forks, N.D.; and McConnell Air Force Base at Wichita, Kan.

All the planes could be put into service within minutes in case of war, he said. Since it's peacetime, the parts are being replaced as a precaution, Griffin said.

"We consider it really a non-problem," Griffin said. Each part has a back-up on the B-1, and there were no cracks in the corresponding part on the other side of each aircraft, he said.

Short circuit leaves HC in dark

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

A short circuit in Howard College's primary power lines is forcing some students to study by sunlight while repairs are made.

The Dora Roberts Coliseum, the library, science building and administration building have been without power all week. Many of the classes have been shuffled to areas with electricity, said Terry Hansen, vice-president of administrative services at HC.

Most classes in those buildings are continuing, Hansen said. "Our teachers have done some innovative things, such as field trips."

An underground power system was installed at the college about ten years ago, and Saturday night part of this system fused causing circuits to "trip" in TU Electric's grid for that part of the city, said TU Manager John Toone.

The underground lines are owned by the college and are not part of the TU system, Hansen said.

The first short circuit was in an underground splicing box, which is a juncture for primary (high voltage) feeds into the HC system. This was fixed by HC crews and tested Monday night, but damage had been caused further downline during the initial short circuit. "When it was turned on Monday night it really tripped," Toone said, recalling phone calls about a power

Clinton, Bush planning for fall

CHICAGO (AP) — Bill Clinton and George Bush shifted their sights to the fall campaign today after the Arkansas governor took command of the Democratic race and the president all but snuffed out Patrick Buchanan's challenge.

With big primary victories in Illinois and Michigan Tuesday, Clinton put distance between himself and Democratic rivals Paul Tsongas and Jerry Brown, but they vowed to press on. Tsongas and Brown hoped to blunt Clinton's momentum next Tuesday in Connecticut and turn the race around when New York votes April 7.

Democratic Party chairman

Ronald H. Brown said on CBS that it was "much too early to declare the race over." But if Clinton wins in New York, the chairman indicated it would be time to think about "rallying around our eventual nominee."

His Republican counterpart, tried to quiet the acrimony generated by the Buchanan challenge to the incumbent president.

"We've never looked at Pat Buchanan as the enemy," said Rich Bond, whom Buchanan wanted fired. "Pat seems to be standing down," he told ABC.

Buchanan aides said he planned to scale back his teetering campaign to a one-state protest in California. "Geography and time were not on our side," Buchanan conceded.

Buchanan's sister and campaign manager, Angela Bay Buchanan, said her brother eventually "is going to endorse George Bush and he is going to support him and want him to do well."

Bush vowed to stay put and looked beyond Buchanan's challenge after running his primary record to 16-0.

"I will seek the support of

Ortiz admits hot checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressman Solomon Ortiz of Corpus Christi was the latest to step forward and admit writing overdrafts to the House bank, but the Democrat says most of the rubber checks weren't his fault.

Ortiz, through press secretary Cathy Travis, admits he bounced 17 checks, the face value of which were not revealed. The House ethics committee says Ortiz bounced 20 checks in the 39-month period surveyed.

Ortiz blamed shoddy management at the House bank for most of his overdrafts.

"In most of the instances, it seems that my direct-deposit salary was not credited to my account for several days," he said Tuesday.

Fourteen of the 27-member Texas delegation now have admitted their part in the scandal at the now-closed House bank. The total includes 10 Democrats and four Republicans.

Reps. Mike Andrews, Albert Bustamante and Jack Fields — who had earlier admitted writing overdrafts — Tuesday revealed the exact number of bad checks.

Andrews, D-Houston, told reporters in Houston that he wrote 121 bad checks worth $103,946.37 in the 39-month period.

"This chicken has come home to roost," a visibly nervous Andrews said. "It hasn't been very pleasant."

Of the 14 Texas congressmen who have been identified or have admitted bouncing checks, Andrews' money total ranks third behind Ronald Coleman, D-El Paso, who totaled $275,848 with 673 bad checks, and Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, who bounced 81 checks with a face value of $143,857.

Coleman on Tuesday told constituents poor bookkeeping landed him in hot water with the bank and with an El Paso newspaper. The El Paso Herald-Post in an editorial called for Coleman's resignation.

"We think something should happen now," the editorial said. "The Herald-Post calls for Coleman's immediate resignation for the betrayal of his position and the public trust."

Bustamante, D-San Antonio, said he had 25 overdrafts with a face value of $9,733. He said he never exceeded his next month's paycheck.

In six or seven instances, the bank did not credit Bustamante's paycheck until several days later, accounting for overdrafts, he said.

"My wife said blame her, but no, I blame myself for even putting our money in there," he said. "I could have done better with any outside bank than this bank."

Bustamante was not apologetic about the check flap, and was gleeful that several members of President Bush's Cabinet revealed Tuesday they also had written bad checks.

"I guess we're all sinners," he said. "This is not a solo flight. That plane is loaded. It's a C-5 (cargo plane) and everybody's in it. Some are in the front, some are in the back."

Bustamante called on Congress to slash all congressional perks — including the gymnasium and the barber shop.

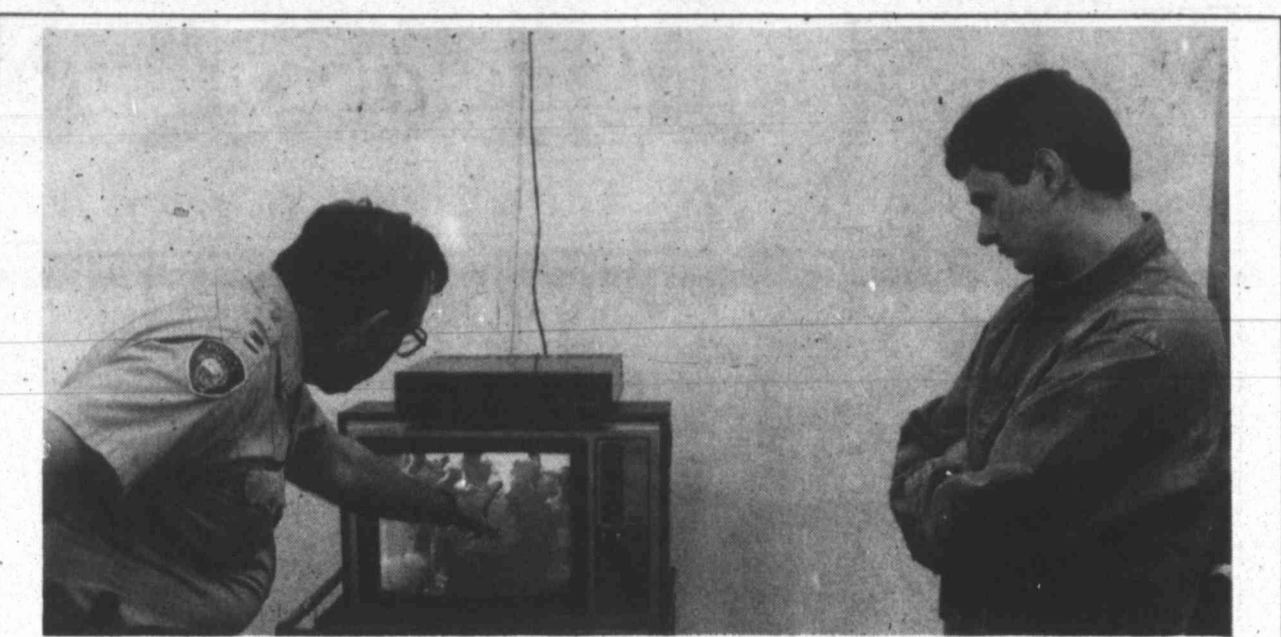

He also wants to sell Camp David, the presidential retreat in Maryland.

"That's a big perk," he said. Bush "can go to his rented hotel room in Houston."

Fields, R-Houston, who earlier had admitted to "some" overdrafts on Tuesday said he wrote 22 bad checks with a face value of $11,114. In no instance did the overdrafts exceed his next month's paycheck.

Fields released the information after meeting Tuesday with the Republican counsel to the House ethics committee.

"As I've said in the past, this entire incident is painful and embarrassing, particularly since I had been assured last October by the House sergeant-at-arms that I did not have a problem with my account," Fields said.

Videotapes of shooting shown

GALVESTON (AP) — Four amateur videotapes made by spring break beachgoers during the police shooting of a Waller man last weekend have been turned over to television stations and aired.

In one of the tapes, Wendall Baker Jr., 21, and his friend Alvin Elliott were shown firing their pistols into the air outside R.A. Appfel Park Saturday.

Moments later, Baker was shot and killed by police Sgt. Michael Putnal. Putnal said he opened fire when Baker aimed his gun at him.

City Manager Doug Matthews said officials will use the tapes in investigating the shooting.

"We will turn everything we do over to the grand jury," Matthews told The Galveston Daily News on Tuesday. "We appreciate people who have volunteered the tapes."

"The tape reinforces the action of the officer. There is no complete video of everything that's occurred because the people there were scared. It supports the sergeant that the young man did have a gun and did fire it in the air."

The remaining three tapes show the riot that followed the shooting, including a beer can hitting Putnal's head. The homemade tapes aired on Houston television stations and Cable News Network.

Police said Baker was shot four times after he allegedly pointed a semiautomatic pistol at Putnal, who had ordered him to drop the weapon. A fight had broken out at a beach party, and Putnal ran toward the center of a crowd where the gunfire erupted.

Senate probes judicial nominee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Senate Judiciary Committee have asked a Texas federal judicial nominee some probing questions about partisanship and his minority hiring views.

The questions asked Tuesday of Houston attorney Ewing Werlein Jr. were prompted by a complaint filed with the committee by attorneys for a Balanced Judiciary, a group composed primarily of Democratic lawyers.

The committee Tuesday held a hearing to consider Werlein's nomination as a U.S. district judge in the Southern District of Texas, based in Houston.

Werlein, a Vinson & Elkins partner, faced the toughest questioning of the four nominees who testified Tuesday.

The attorneys' group, which argues that judicial nominations have become too partisan, reached back to Werlein's support for Republican Barry Goldwater in 1964 as a sign of partisanship. They also cited his lifelong involvement in Republican causes.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who praised Werlein's qualifications, noted that the American Bar Association gave Werlein its highest rating. The ABA rates nominees to the federal bench.

Werlein, whose name was advanced by Republican Sen. Phil Gramm, said his previous political activities were not extensive. He said he ended his contributions to political candidates after learning last year he would be nominated for a judgeship.

The former Houston Bar Association president also assured

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., that politics would not color his judgment on the bench.

"Politics would be left completely behind and should have nothing to do with judicial decision-making," he told DeConcini, who chaired the hearing.

Werlein, a current director of the State Bar of Texas, disputed an allegation that he did little to further minority hiring.

Werlein, 55, noted that as president of the Houston bar, he addressed black and Hispanic attorneys groups.

City Councilman Vince Ryan wrote the Senate committee that while Werlein headed the local bar association he ignored Ryan's request to develop a program to promote minority hiring in the legal profession.

'Baby pipeline lawyer gets probation

HOUSTON (AP) — A lawyer one prosecutor called "a baby pipeline" was put on probation and fined for buying children from an imprisoned woman and collecting fees from the couples who adopted them.

Leslie Thacker, 76, who has arranged more than 750 adoptions, was convicted Monday on five felony counts of selling children. A Harris County jury sentenced her Tuesday to 10 years probation and a $10,000 fine.

Prosecutor Lorraine Parker said state District Judge Charles Hearn will impose conditions for Ms.

Thacker's probation today.

Ms. Parker told the jury that Ms. Thacker deserved the maximum 10-year prison term the convictions carry.

"She is an evil woman," Ms. Parker said. "She was a baby pipeline. What she was doing was getting people who were poor and preying on them."

Defense attorney Dick DeGuerin said Ms. Thacker deserved probation because her ultimate goal was to find homes for unwanted children.

Co-defendant Adamina DeJesus, 27, who is serving a 25-year prison sentence for burglary, manslaughter and a drug charge, was convicted Monday on five counts of sale of a child. Ms. DeJesus, who will be sentenced May 18, could receive life in prison.

Roberts won for best movie actress in a comedy and in a drama, while Cosby won for best male TV performer and "The Cosby Show" was chosen best comedy.

Brooks and McEntire triumphed over pop stars to win best performer awards in the general music and country music categories.

The public made "Terminator 2: Judgment Day" the favorite movie; "City Slickers" the best comedy and "The Silence of the Lambs" the best dramatic film.

"L.A. Law" was the favorite TV drama, while "Beverly Hills, 90210" was tops among young people. "Home Improvement" was the most popular new comedy series and "Homefront" the top new drama on television.

The awards were presented Tuesday. The winners were based on nationwide polls.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker's 22-year-old daughter says she's ready to take over the church her mother started after the PTL televangelism empire collapsed in scandal.

"Ever since I was young I always wanted to sing Christian music and minister to other people," Tammy Sue Chapman said Tuesday. "I think this could not have happened at a better time."

She's studying to become an ordained minister.

Her parents divorced on Friday. On Sunday, Mrs. Bakker asked her daughter to take over the New Covenant Ministries she founded in Orlando, Fla., in 1989.

Bakker, who founded PTL, is serving an 18-year prison sentence for defrauding followers.

Chapman said that her parents won't be directly involved in the small ministry and that she has no plans to go on television.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U2, Robert Palmer, Def Leppard and Annie Lennox are the latest to sign on to perform at an AIDS benefit honoring the late Freddie Mercury. "A Concert for Life," to be held April 20 in London's Wembley Stadium, had already signed David Bowie, Elton John, George Michael, Metallica and Guns N' Roses.

Members of Queen, the band Mercury led, also will perform. Mercury died of AIDS in November at 45.

The concert will be televised around the world.

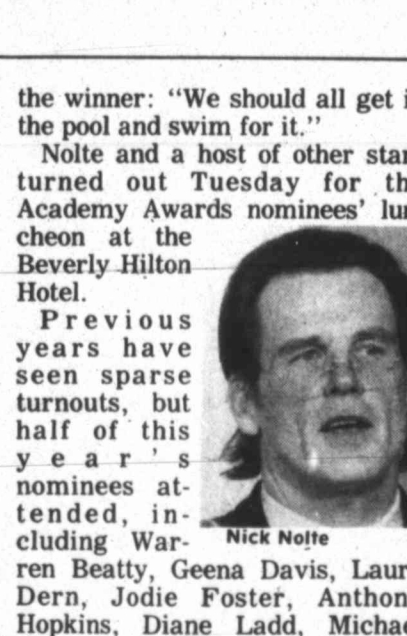

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Nick Nolte, nominated for an Oscar for "The Prince of Tides," says he likes fellow nominee Robin Williams' idea for how to choose the winner: "We should all get in the pool and swim for it."

Nolte and a host of other stars turned out Tuesday for the Academy Awards nominees' luncheon at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Previous years have seen sparse turnouts, but half of this year's nominees attended, including Warren Beatty, Geena Davis, Laura Dern, Jodie Foster, Anthony Hopkins, Diane Ladd, Michael Lerner, Juliette Lewis, Bette Midler and Barbra Streisand.

Streisand, who was nominated as the producer of "The Prince of Tides" but not as director or actress, said she wasn't sure why she was passed over in the directing category.

Bush stops joking about rubber checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush, no longer joking about the House rubber-check scandal, is standing by three Cabinet members caught up in the affair but says it's up to the American people to sort out the wrongdoers from innocent victims.

The back-to-back-to-back confessions Tuesday by Bush's defense, agriculture and labor secretaries let some air out of the political balloon for House Republicans who have relished watching Democrats squirm as the major abusers of privilege at the shoddily run, in-house bank.

A dour Defense Secretary Dick Cheney was the first Bush appointee to confess Tuesday — he had bounced as many as 25 checks. Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan owned up to 49 overdrawn checks — including one for $8,618 — and Labor (Labor Secretary Lynn) Martin said she was docking herself $425 in fees that a real bank might have charged and was donating the money to charity.

Secretary Lynn Martin found 16 in her closet. Cheney served in the House from Wyoming; Madigan and Martin represented Illinois districts.

Bush, who cracked a joke about the scandal on the campaign trail in Milwaukee on Monday, took a more sober-sided approach in a Rose Garden appearance Tuesday.

He expressed "total confidence in (Cheney's) integrity," and added, "I just haven't heard anything about any of the others."

Judy Smith, a White House spokeswoman, said later, "I'm sure he would say the same about all the Cabinet members, that it's a situation they didn't have any knowledge of."

"Let's get the facts out, and then I think the American people are very smart," said Bush. "They will be able to make a determination as to what was wrongdoing and who were simply victims of a system that obviously has failed everybody."

Cheney called himself "angry and frustrated" and said he never knew his account had run dry. Madigan called it "an embarrassment to me, my family and friends" but said it should not "impact my effectiveness as secretary of agriculture."

Martin said she was docking herself $425 in fees that a real bank might have charged and was donating the money to charity.

Twenty of the 24 people on the worst offenders' list were Democrats, and Republicans had been quick to lay the blame at the majority party's door.

Police and civil guard officers search through wreckage for victims of an explosion that destroyed the Israeli Embassy in Buenos Aires Tuesday. At least 11 people were dead, at least 135 were injured and about 30 people were trapped under the rubble, reports said.

Experts cast doubt on Earhart solution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Several men who worked on Amelia Earhart's plane say there's no way a piece of fuselage found on a remote South Pacific atoll came from her sleek Lockheed Electra.

Ed Werner, who was an assistant foreman at Lockheed, said he compared the dimensions and shape of the piece of aluminum with a duplicate of Earhart's plane at the Western Aerospace Museum in Oakland.

"Not even close," he said. The aluminum, a medicine bottle cap and parts of a woman's shoe were found on a small uninhabited atoll, known as Gardner Island when Earhart vanished in 1937, and today called Nikumaroro.

Richard Gillespie, executive director of the International Group for Historic Aircraft Recovery, said Monday that the items prove Earhart landed on the island and died there, probably from thirst. Earhart and her navigator, Fred Noonan, took off from Oakland 55 years ago Tuesday, but bad luck dogged them. The airplane crashed in Hawaii and was sent back to Lockheed for repairs.

A plastic template of the 19-by-23-inch piece of aluminum was made from information supplied by Gillespie and compared against the museum's duplicate craft.

"That fragment did not come from Amelia Earhart's airplane or any other Lockheed Electra aircraft," said Elgen Long, a retired San Mateo airline pilot who has spent 20 years investigating Earhart's last flight.

Long contends Earhart crashed some 23 miles northwest of Howland Island — 420 miles northeast of Nikumaroro, or Gardner — after she ran out of fuel.

Barnes freed

Kidnapped American Michael Barnes is escorted to his car shortly after he was rescued Wednesday following a raid at the kidnappers' hideout in suburban Paranaque, Philippines. Barnes' rescue yielded more than 10 people killed in simultaneous raids at different Manila hideouts allegedly in "shootouts."

At least 11 are dead in embassy bombing

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The government today raised the death toll in the bombing of the Israeli Embassy to 11, and rescuers worked frantically to free about 30 people believed trapped in the wreckage of the devastated building.

Three Israelis and an Argentine priest were among those confirmed killed in the suspected terrorist attack; five embassy workers, including diplomats, were among the missing. The government said 135 people were injured.

President Carlos Menem said he had asked the CIA and Israel's Mossad to assist in the investigation. The government stepped up security at highways, airports and border crossings. "All indications lead us to believe it was a terrorist attack," said Menem, who visited the ruined four-story building on fashionable Arroyo Street. The Israeli Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem quoted him as blaming "the Iranian-Syrian axis."

President Hafez Assad of Syria today denied involvement in the bombing, but said whoever was responsible "must be angry at Israel's behavior and actions."

In Israel, Foreign Minister David Levy threatened retaliation. "Those who carried out these murders and those who sent them can expect painful punishment," he told Parliament.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the voters in Precinct #3 for their support in electing me to be their next county commissioner. I will try to work with the other members of the court to better Martin County as a whole. A lot has been done in the past. I think there is room for improvement, also. I intend to work toward completing what Ronnie Deatherage started; to get all families on a good caliche road. He (Ronnie) has done a good job. I admire him and will continue to work with him. I would like to have the support of all the people in Precinct #3 to carry our plans forward. With the support of the people much can be done. I look forward to serving the people in Martin County and Precinct #3. We're all in this game together. Let us try to work together and move forward. A team pulling together pulls harder. Thanks again, Eldon A. Welch

According to the American Cancer Society, one out of four women in the United States will develop breast cancer sometime in her lifetime. It is currently estimated that over 37,000 women die each year as the result of breast cancer. Ninety percent of breast cancers are diagnosed by women or their physicians finding a lump in the breast. Women who are diagnosed with a lump large enough to feel have a 50 percent five year survival rate. A woman who is diagnosed as having breast cancer by mammography, before a lump can be felt, has a 97% five year survival rate and a 90% 10 year survival rate. A mammogram can detect a cancer this small, even before it can be felt.
Guidelines For Screening Mammography Established by the American Cancer Society.
I. 35-40 years of age - One baseline mammogram.
II. 40-50 years of age - A mammogram every 1-2 years depending on breast type and risk factor.
III. 50 years of age and over - An annual physical examination and annual mammogram.
IV. Asymptomatic women under 50 years of age with significant high risk factors should be examined at appropriate intervals. These risk factors include previous breast cancer and family history of cancer.
V. A symptomatic woman should have a mammogram at any age when she experiences a mass, nipple discharge, skin changes or unexplained breast pain. A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers. A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination. The charge for the screening mammogram is $22.00. The Unit accepts cash, check, Visa, Mastercard and American Express. Now filing Medicare (for your reimbursement)

Public life: One enormous sham

James J. Kilpatrick

For the past three months, ever since a mild stroke put me on the sidelines, I have been trying to cover my Washington beat from my home in Charleston. You know what? In some ways the view from South Carolina is better.

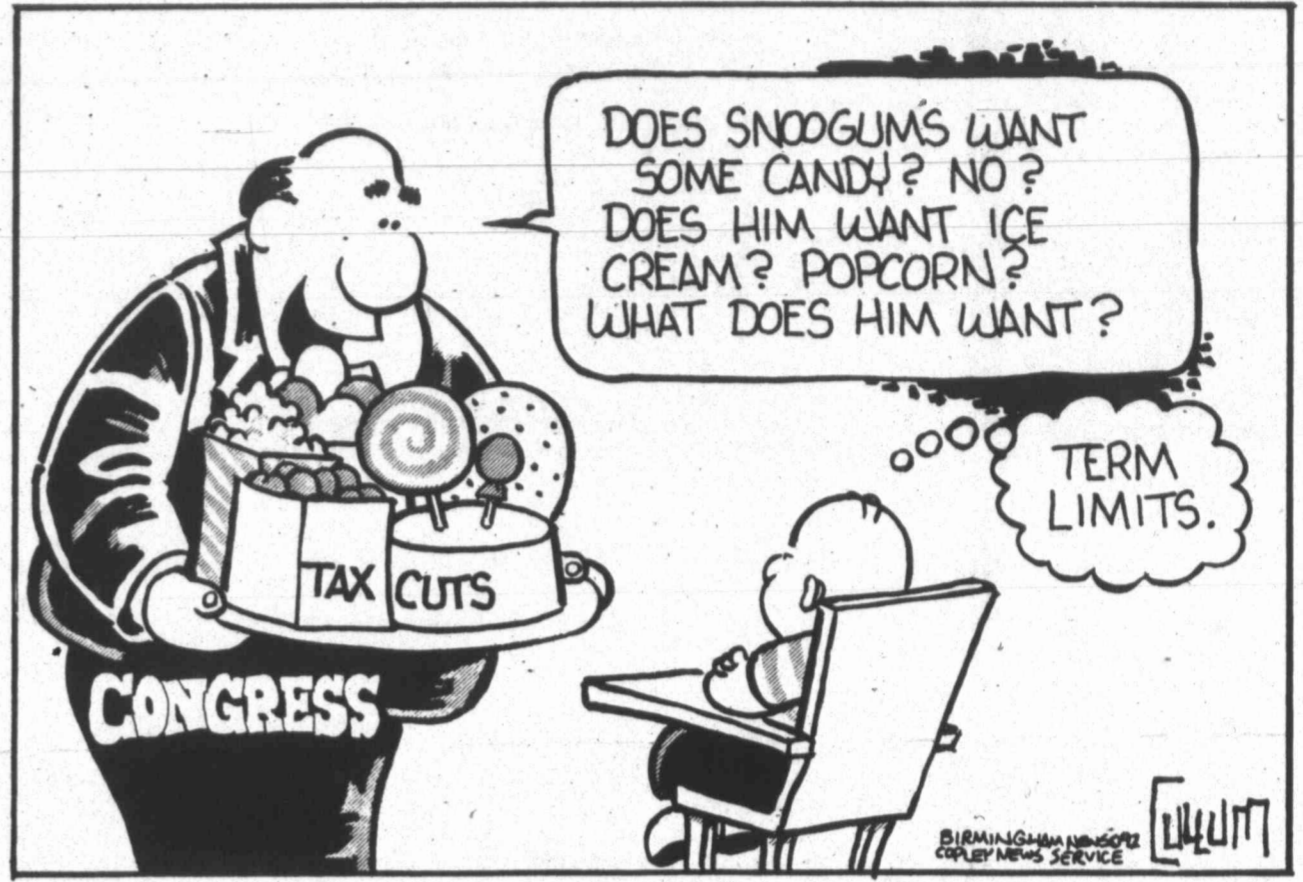

The change in perspective is roughly the difference between sitting in the press box and sitting in the bleachers. The reporter in the press box knows the key players, and the key players know him. They share the little inside jokes. Close relationships develop. The intimacy makes for informed reporting, which is good, but often the coverage suffers for want of detachment.

The view from Charleston has a clarity of its own. In these months I have gained a better understanding of the drive for limiting the terms of members of Congress. I have been reading about Rubergate and the tax bill, and I have been listening. The anger of the people is rising. Letters that come to me from around the country have a common political theme: The people are fed up.

They are fed up with Congress, and more broadly with the federal government as a whole. Oh, they are angry about other things — about public schools, about crimes of violence, about the economic future, about venal lawyers and affirmative action.

Let me stick with Congress. Several months ago, when the story of the check kiting broke, the image of the House suffered severely. Last week, when Speaker Tom Foley tried his best to cover up the scandal, the poor image got worse. One correspondent after another voices the same bitter question: If these idiots can't handle their own money, why should we let them handle ours? The story has done inordinate harm to the House as an honorable institution.

The Senate has been striking

Pack auditorium for prison hearing

Our community has survived Round One of the prison site selection race.

Round Two is rapidly approaching. Round Two is the public hearing, scheduled for next Thursday evening at the Municipal Auditorium.

It is at that time that officials of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice will take public input — both pro and con — regarding the Big Spring proposal.

On the surface, things look encouraging for our community in the race to be awarded one of the new prisons to be built statewide, but it's not time to think we are home free.

Instead, it is time to turn up the efforts another notch. It's time to encourage our neighbors to join us at the public hearing and show our support for the prison.

Start planning now to attend the meeting.

Start planning now to be one of the members of our community who help fill Municipal Auditorium in support of the prison proposal.

Make no mistake about it, public support will weigh heavily in the selection process — especially if all other factors are equal.

If YOU care enough to take the time to attend the hearing and show your support, our community can win our fight to gain the facility and help ensure its continued growth and revitalization.

But only if YOU care.

Explanation of high prices is simple: Greed

To the editor:
This letter is in response to John H. Walker's letter on Sunday's editorial page in the Herald. For a long time the citizens of Big Spring have wondered why they pay more for gas than anyone else in the area when most of it comes from a refinery in our own town. I think the answer is pure and simple — Greed.

I understand price fixing is illegal but have you ever noticed how all stations go up or down (mostly up) the same amount on the same day? It would appear the wholesalers are getting together and agreeing on what they want the prices to be.

I don't think anyone expects to buy gas for less than it costs the station owner. However, when you can drive a few miles and save 5 to 10 cents a gallon on gasoline that has come from our refinery, I think it is obvious drivers in Big Spring are being charged too much. I have on numerous occasions paid 15 to 25 cents a gallon less for gas in the metropolitan Dallas, Fort Worth, Denton area.

It would seem to me something this obvious cannot be good for prospective businesses to locate in our city.

I think this is an example of something going on in our city that is bad for all concerned (except the ones who are reaping the profits). Yet we are encouraged to shop Big Spring first!

Mudslinging lowers reputation of town

To the editor:
It really is a sad shame that grown men have to stoop to a lower level and call each other names and sling mud to try to win a place in the hearts of the public. (That includes political women also.)

It seems to me that if they have anything worth saying, they can stick to their platform and beliefs and stand on their principles instead of calling each other names and telling tales on their shortcomings and accusing each other of telling lies.

The American people (most of the time) are not stupid. They know the results of who is in office. They recognize the discrepancies of things being done, right or wrong. They can form their own judgment of what is going on in a public office.

Yes there are times when we all get a shock of our lives when something is brought to light that is a hidden talent of a candidate. But it is not a shock to everyone, because someone (one rotten apple in the basket) usually taints a second apple and causes the whole bushel to go bad. You can be sure your sins will find you out, and eventually it will become a known thing if you are a good servant of the public or a bad one.

I think our local grocery stores are just as political lately as the candidates running for office. Look at their ads, namely "our store is cheaper than your store, our prices are cheaper than your prices. We sell for less." None of this is true. Yes, some items are cheaper. Some are higher. The grocery bill is approximately the same depending on what you are buying. I do not buy coffee, tea, cigarettes, or beer, so I save money. But I buy bread and milk, and their prices are approximately the same price as they are statewide.

Grow up and just advertise and stop slandering each other. People know who they want to shop with. They know how they are treated by the clerks and shop managers. We are too small a town to spend time cutting each other down and gossiping about our neighbors. At one time we were known as the friendliest town in the state of Texas. Do we have to stoop so low that we ruin our reputation completely?

I have known Mr. Wallace and his family for many years. Even before he was married to his sweet wife and had children. I have known Mr. Standard for an equal number of years. They are both fine people. Perfect? No! Have faults and shortcomings? Yes!

To become small in the eyes of the public because they could not keep their tongues civil has hurt the entire public, and even divided friends in some instances. For anyone who chooses to use scripture (and it is your free agency to do so) read the second chapter of James in the King James Version of the Bible. It tells what a tongue can do to the hearts and minds of men.

Now that this race is over, let us all work together and make Big Spring a home worth living in. It is almost Christmas in April again, and we can beautify our lives as well as the homes we repair and the yards we clean.

Letters

Letters to the editor on issues of general interest always are welcomed by the Big Spring Herald and always are printed if these guidelines are followed:
Letters should be typewritten if possible, and double-spaced. If not, the handwriting must be legible to reduce chances for mistakes.
Letters are subject to editing, but the essence of the writer's message will not be altered.

poses over a tax bill that runs on for nearly 800 pages. An entirely typical provision is to this effect:

"Subparagraph (B) in Section 1(g)(7) (relating to income included on parent's return) is amended (1) by striking '$1,000' in clause (i) and inserting 'twice the amount described in paragraph (4)(A)(i)(I)', and (2) by amending subclause (II) of clause (ii) to read as follows . . ."

That is from Title IV, "Simplification Provisions."

I cherish a warm affection for Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, chairman of Senate Finance. He is one of the truly decent members of the Senate. But I will hazard a guess that not even Sen. Bentsen knows everything that has crept into his own bill. He relies upon professional staff. In certain areas of expertise, staff must rely upon outside tax experts for the drafting of specific language.

A pretense is maintained that by increasing the tax upon wealthy families, X dollars will flow into the Treasury; by decreasing the tax on middle-class families, X dollars in effect will flow out. No one knows whether this is true.

No one can say positively whether the policy is good or bad. In opening debate on March 10, Bentsen said confidently that his bill would (1) promote fairness, (2) provide real economic incentives and (3) stay within budgetary boundaries.

Working from the same data, economists for the National Center for Policy Analysis in Dallas, a conservative think tank, reached opposite conclusions. The Senate bill "would lead to a loss of about 233,000 jobs by 1996." Far from providing incentives, the bill "would cause investment spending to drop by $101 billion." By 1996, say these economists, the federal deficit would grow by $20 billion.

Who's right? Who knows? Economists at the Brookings Institution, a liberal think tank, are as skeptical. They agree that the Senate bill, in the form in which it passed last week, will do little or nothing to improve the economy in the long run.

What the people do sense is that the Senate wasted a week in posturing. The debate was an exercise in futility. Everyone knew it. If the bill that emerges from conference is mostly the Senate bill, George Bush will veto it, and the charade will begin anew.

Charade. Maybe that is what has so angered the people. Our public life has become one enormous sham. Special preferences expose the myth of equal opportunity. Members of Congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, daily go through an elaborate dumb-show. They speak empty words to empty chambers.

From a distance, watching on C-SPAN, reading the Congressional Record, one forms a clear impression of government gone awry. If this is the best we can do, may God save the republic. Left alone, Congress will make bad matters worse.

Madonna in a league of her own

Lewis Grizzard

I normally don't do columns on anything having to do with rock stars. It's because I've got all this space to fill up and what I have to say about rock stars is only one sentence long.

That sentence is, "Rock stars are demented and spoiled people with little musical talent who are getting rich off people who are even more demented than they are."

But I've been following closely the relationship between rock star Madonna, who used to have a last name but apparently forgot it, and the city of Evansville, Indiana.

I don't recall ever going to Evansville, Indiana, but it's probably a nice, middle-sized city with mostly good people in it who work, play, raise families and go to church. It's probably the sort of place one of the TV networks would send a news crew to do a story on the American heartland.

Madonna spent three months in Evansville recently, filming a movie with Tom Hanks and Geena Davis. The movie is called, "A League of Their Own."

I have no idea what the movie is about, but I'm willing to bet it will include several scenes where Madonna struts around in her underwear, including the bra with rivets in it. When it comes to strutting around in underwear, Madonna is in a league of her own.

The problem was Madonna did not have a good time filming the movie in Evansville. In fact, she later told TV Guide, "I may as well have been in Prague."

catatonically in front of, like, a book.

And that is, like, booooring . . . when I have to read instead of being able to watch people from the planet Mungo beat on musical instruments.

I also miss not being able to see the rap videos on MTV, as well. That's where a guy with his hat on backwards chants about blowing the heads off anybody who doesn't happen to agree with his personal world view.

In a hotel room recently, I didn't have MTV and wound up having to read a newspaper and its report on the presidential primaries.

"What are presidential primaries?" Madonna might ask.

To explain it in terms she might understand, it's where a bunch of grown men go around from state to state trying to find out the location of each other's dirty underwear. By the way, Madonna, you've never had anything going with Gov. Bill. No, of course not.

Anyway, I hate to see a place like Evansville, Indiana, get trashed in the press for doing absolutely nothing wrong by somebody so shallow as to whine about not being able to see MTV.

Why didn't you spend the time cleaning out your toe-jam, Madonna? You could stick it in your ears the next time you can't get MTV and get stuck having to watch the news.

Or, better yet, go sit under the hole in the ozone.

Hawks run winning streak to nine

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

After giving up 26 runs in 11 innings of doubleheader play Tuesday to drop a four game series against the Howard College Hawks, Cedar Valley will undoubtedly be glad to return home to the Dallas area to play teams closer to their level.

The Hawks got 24 hits on their way to 16-9 and 14-2 wins in the games at Jack Barber Field, running their win streak to nine and their record to 20-12.

The Suns, 10-14, used nine pitchers and walked 25 batters in ten innings of the doubleheader. The second game was stopped after four-and-one-half innings because of the ten-run rule.

In the first game Hawk freshman designated hitter Jay Maldonado led a 13-hit Howard attack with three hits and four RBI.

Cedar Valley used six pitchers in the game including at least two that were listed as infielders.

Dave Kelly (3-0) got the win in relief for the Hawks, pitching two-and-two-thirds innings and allowing two runs on four hits.

"Obviously they're a hell of a lot better than we are," Cedar Valley coach Benny Jones said after the first game.

Of the six pitchers Cedar Valley used in the first game, only infielder Joe Bill Andress was able to last more than an inning and one third. Sun hurlers combined for 12 walks and allowed six extra-base hits in six innings.

The hot hitting Maldonado went three-for-three in the first game. In five plate appearances he doubled, singled, tripled, walked and drove in a run with a sacrifice fly.

Howard coach Bill Griffin said he has had Maldonado change his batting stance and it has led to his breaking out of a mild slump.

"We closed his batting stance considerably and it's made him hit to all fields instead of pulling the ball," Griffin said. "A lot of freshmen open up (their stance) too soon and pull their shoulder and head out (of the plate area). It gives them problems hitting the breaking ball."

Cedar Valley jumped on Howard starter Alvin Casillas in the first inning for five runs on four hits, but Casillas would have gotten out of the inning unscathed if Hawk second baseman James Espinoza had been able to turn a double play.

Espinoza failed to handle an underhand throw from shortstop Santiago Rivera on what appeared to be a double play ground ball hit by Sun DH Ryan McCurley.

The Hawks fought back with four of their own runs in the bottom of the first and took a 7-5 lead with three in the third.

With the score tied 7-7 Howard put four runs on the board in the fourth to go ahead for good.

Hawk first baseman David Suarez led the rally with a two-run double to left off Cedar Valley reliever James Mountain.

Cedar Valley's baseball program is only in its third year. It is a Division III school which means, unlike Division I Howard, it does not award athletic scholarships. But Jones said the team is not shying away from playing tough schools.

"We feel like we're playing as tough a schedule as any junior college in Texas," Jones said.

The Suns have split with Odessa College and played Ranger, McClennan County and Blinn Junior College.

They are 4-0 and leading the Metro Athletic Conference which is comprised of five community colleges from the Dallas County Community College District.

"We're trying to get to the same level as (Howard)," Jones said. "It just takes us a while."

HOWARD 14, CEDAR VALLEY 2
Maldonado had three more RBI in the second game and the Hawks scored nine in the bottom of the fourth to go up by the final score of 14-2.

Edwin Corps (1-0) got his first win of the season for Howard in the second contest.

Right fielder Chad Dunavon hit his sixth and seventh home runs of the year in the win.

Power lies in the Panhandle

The Texas high school state basketball tournaments proved that girls basketball is still dominated by South Plains and Panhandle teams.

Last weekend's state high school girls basketball championship clearly proved two things for sure: new dynasties are being built, and many of them come from the Panhandle.

Four first-time state champs were crowned and three Amarillo-area schools took home titles from the 42nd annual University Interscholastic League Tournament.

No defending champion even reached the three-day tourney. Instead, five of the 15 spots were filled by teams from the Panhandle.

Panhandle, Canyon and Canyon Randall won the Class 2A, 3A and 4A titles. Other area teams, Claude and Plainview, were eliminated in the semifinals.

Celeste won the Class A crown and San Marcos stunned perennial powerhouse Duncanville for the Class 5A title. Both teams took home trophies in their first tournament appearances.

Class 3A winner Canyon broke the new champion rule as it won its seventh title. However, it was the school's first crown since 1978 — three years before this team's seniors were even in grade school.

Canyon's path to the title was amazing — after an 8-9 start, Canyon won the next 21 games including a 49-29 victory over top-ranked Winnsboro.

On consolation for the Big Spring Lady Steers, they were eliminated from the state playoffs by the Class 4A state champion.

When I saw Canyon Randall defeat Big Spring 72-38, I had a feeling I was looking at a state champion in the making. The Lady Raiders were well-versed in all aspects of the game, and to be truthful, they were downright cocky.

One thing I noticed about Randall, forward Amanda Sandlin, was the best all-around high school player I had seen all season, and guard Corey Norman was the most tenacious defensive player I'd seen all season. They both played major roles in Randall's championship win over Georgetown.

Randall earned its first Class 4A title when Sandlin followed her own miss with a layup with 25 seconds remaining, pushing the four-year-old school past Georgetown 43-42.

Randall (33-2) won its 20th consecutive game, a streak that began with a victory over Class 3A champ Canyon.

Sandlin's basket ended a 29-game win streak by Georgetown, which finished the year 33-3. Georgetown had a chance to win, but missed three straight shots as time ran out.

Norman had four steals and scored nine points on a trio of 3-pointers.

It seems there are always some teams with good records left out of the March Madness circus.

The ones that strikes closest to home is the Rice Owls (20-11) of the Southwest Conference and the University of Texas San Antonio of the Southland Conference (21-8).

In all there were 12 teams that won 20 games or more that weren't invited to the NCAA or NIT tournaments.

Tennessee-Chattanooga of the Southern Conference (23-7), had the best record of any of the uninvited teams.

UTC coach Mack McCarthy agrees with the solution by my co-worker Tim Appel — let them all play.

Pirates trade 20-game winner to Twins

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — Left-hander John Smiley said his $3.44 million contract must have influenced the Pittsburgh Pirates to trade him to the Minnesota Twins. Pirates general manager Ted Simmons said money had no bearing on the deal.

Smiley, 20-9 last season with a 3.08 earned run average, was traded Tuesday to the Minnesota Twins for top pitching prospect Danny Neagle and minor league outfielder Midre Cummings.

"I think my contract had a little bit to do with it. I don't need a ton of money to live," said Smiley, who cried after learning he was traded.

Last month he signed a one-year contract worth $3.44 million, avoiding salary arbitration.

"It had absolutely nothing to do with this trade," Simmons said.

The trade also was independent of the fact that the Pirates' payroll this year could reach $35 million and of the club's decision it could not sign both Smiley and Doug Drabek to long-term contracts, Simmons said.

"I feel the Pittsburgh organization got what it wanted," he said.

Holyfield's brother killed

ATLANTA (AP) — Willie Holyfield, brother of heavyweight champion Evander Holyfield, was shot and killed early today at his home in southwest Atlanta, police said.

Atlanta Homicide Sgt. Tom King said Willie Holyfield's brother-in-law, Michael Lucas, 35, was arrested and charged with murder.

King said Lucas, who lived around the corner from Willie Holyfield, came to the house about 4 a.m. armed with a .12-gauge shotgun. King said several people were at the home and Lucas accused someone of stealing something from him, but it was not immediately determined who was accused.

Evander Holyfield was notified and came to his brother's house.

Smiley said he was "extremely shocked."

"I don't know what to say. It's going to take me a few days to try to figure this thing out," Smiley said. "I'm going to miss these guys."

"I thought maybe I could get on a roll, but this is what they decided to do with me. What they did, they did."

The Pirates were faced with the possibility of losing Smiley, 27, to free agency at the end of the season, as they are with outfielder Barry Bonds.

Neagle, a 23-year-old left-hander, was 9-4 with a 3.27 ERA in 19 games with Class AAA Portland last season and 0-1 with a 4.05 ERA in seven starts with Minnesota.

He also was "in a state of shock."

"But the Pirates wouldn't give up a 20-game winner if they didn't have plans for me. I think I throw a lot like Zane Smith and Randy Tomlin, and they've had some pretty good success there," Neagle said.

Terry Ryan, the Twins' vice president for player personnel, said the deal is good for Minnesota

Texans turn tables on San Jac

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Eric Williams had game highs of 28 points and 12 rebounds as top-seeded Vincennes, Ind., raced past Northeastern Oklahoma A&M 81-63 in the last of six first-round games in the National Junior College Athletic Association tournament Tuesday night.

Mohammed Acha and Deon Jackson added 16 points each for Vincennes, which rolled to a 51-32 lead at the half. Kevin Joshua scored 17 points and Avery Lamb added 15 for Northeastern Oklahoma A&M.

The five-day, 16-team, double-elimination tournament also saw Seth Marshall and Marton Rhymes score 25 points apiece as Central Arizona defeated Northeast Mississippi 77-65.

Marshall was the catalyst in the second half, scoring 15 points on 6 of 7 shooting from the field. George Banks chipped in 12 points and grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds. Scotty Shettles scored 20 points for Northeast Mississippi, but he scored them all in the first half, going 0-for-4 from the field in the second half. Tracy Miller added 14 points and Greg Sheffield had 10.

In other first-round games, Anthony Beane scored 20 points as Three Rivers, Mo., held off Daytona Beach, Fla., for an 88-82 victory.

Beane scored 16 of his points in the second half. Also in double figures for Three Rivers were Shon Peck-Love with 17, Eric Schweain with 15 and Belys Noland with 12.

Beane hit 7 of 10 field goals and Peck-Love was 8 of 9.

Three Rivers hit 8 of 8 free throws in the final 1:29, including a pair by Beane and four by Schweain.

Daytona Beach was led by William Moore's 25 points.

Arteaus Sullivan added 21 and Anthrius Carter had 17.

Meanwhile, four-time National Junior College tournament champion San Jacinto, Texas, was a first-round casualty. Terry Alexander scored a game-high 31 points to lead South Plains, Texas, past San Jacinto 79-71.

Alexander was 10 of 12 from the field and got plenty of support from teammate Artie Griffin, who finished with 26 points.

South Plains (25-10) led at the half 37-35 as Alexander scored 14 points.

San Jacinto (31-4), a four-time NJCAA tournament champion, was led by Carl Turner with 15 points, while Norman Marbury and Reginald Whitaker added 12 each.

Another game saw Maurice Morris and Gary Robb each score 24 points as Sullivan, Ky., defeated Chattahoochee Valley, Ala., 83-72.

Continued from Page 5-A play one extra weekend. That's all it would take, one extra weekend," McCarthy said. Let everybody in, and then all you could gripe about is the seedings. And that would be a pleasant thing to gripe about. I wouldn't care if I'm the 117th seed out of 300. That means I'm going to play somebody worse than me in the first round. That'd be OK.

In all likelihood, it's probably more equitable than the current system of automatic berths and at-large bids determined by computer rankings.

The only bad thing about letting them all play is that it kind of cheapens the pot. A team get rewarded for being sorry, instead of a team being rewarded for being consistent all season long.

Oh well, it's something to think about anyway.

Two former Howard Hawks are in post season play.

Dexter Abrams and his Georgia Southern teammates play Oklahoma State in the NCAA opening round of the Southwest Regional Friday in Atlanta.

Terrence Lewis and his Washington State teammates will play in the NIT. The Cougars host Minnesota tonight in first round action in Pullman, Wash.

Former Lady Hawk player Shannon Lawson and her Stephen F. Austin Ladyjack teammates play the winner of Creighton-Long Beach State winner Sunday in the West Regional of the NCAA.

Bulls gain seventh straight victory

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

They used to call the Chicago Bulls a one-man team. Against New Jersey, they almost were.

Michael Jordan scored almost half of Chicago's points in Tuesday night's 90-79 victory over the injured-riddled Nets at the Meadowlands. Eleven of his 40 points came during an 18-0 fourth-quarter run that clinched the Bulls' seventh straight win and 10th in their last 11 games.

Jordan personally outscored the Nets 13-9 in the final quarter, when the Bulls held New Jersey to one basket in the last nine minutes.

"It's a good thing for me to be able to take over," Jordan said, "but I don't want to rely on that too much."

New Jersey, playing without Derrick Coleman, Sam Bowie and Kenny Anderson, took a 74-65 lead with 9:05 left on a jumper by Drazen Petrovic, who finished with 26 points. But the Nets didn't score a point in the next seven minutes as Jordan went wild.

In addition to his big scoring night, Jordan had 10 rebounds and four assists.

"I've seen this a few times before," said Chris Dudley, who started in place of Bowie at center.

"When he gets going, you just say, 'Oh no!' You just try to slow him down, but he's a great player. He really took over the game."

New York then scored the next nine points during a 17-second stretch to put away the Magic, who have lost 21 of their last 25 games. Ewing was 8-of-13 from the field and had 10 rebounds for the Knicks, who snapped a two-game losing streak.

Bucks 127, Celtics 106 At Milwaukee, Dale Ellis scored 22 points and Jay Humphries had nine of his 21 points in the decisive third quarter as the Bucks cruised past Boston.

Rodney McCray scored a basket 33 seconds into the fourth quarter to give Dallas a 70-69 lead. But the Mavericks, winless in their last 21 road games, did not score again until Rolando Blackman made a 10-footer with 4:12 remaining. The Suns scored 14 straight points.

Blazers 111, Timberwolves 91 At Portland, Clyde Drexler scored 13 of his 21 points in the third period as the Trail Blazers handed Minnesota its ninth straight loss.

Warriors 119, SuperSonics 107 At Seattle, Sarunas Marciulionis scored a season-high 30 points and Tim Hardaway added 28 as the Warriors beat the SuperSonics.

Favorites win opening bouts

FORT WORTH (AP) — There were no surprises in the opening bouts of the state Golden Gloves championship as four returning champions began defending their titles with victories.

Bantamweight champion Chris Hamilton of Wichita Falls won a unanimous decision over Juan Lopez of Dallas Tuesday night in the opening card of the five-day tournament.

Defending lightweight champion Danny Rios of San Antonio won his fight against Jesse Garcia of Corpus Christi when referee Fred Spradlin stopped the lopsided brawl.

Rios, a semifinalist in the national USA Boxing tournament three weeks ago, connected repeatedly with straight right shots to Garcia's face. Spradlin then stepped in to call off the attack.

Joel Perez of Houston, last year's light welterweight class champion, survived a decision against east Texan Kevin Jackson.

Trey Harris, last year's 156-pound champion, won his 165-pound bout against Jose Torres. Wichita Falls.

 A truck load of materials for the repairs arrived from Arlington early today and Hansen expects that, with a little luck, power could be restored for Friday.
 The repairs will include installing "loop feed" lines that will allow most of the buildings to retain power if a similar power line interruption occurs in the future, Hansen said.

Bush gives Walton Medal of Freedom

BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — In the heart of Bill Clinton country, President Bush paid an emotional tribute Tuesday to discount-store magnate Sam Walton as "an illustration of the American dream."

"He's given far more than he's gotten," Bush said of the ailing, billionaire founder of the Wal-Mart chain.

Walton, 73, rose from his wheelchair before the president draped the blue-ribboned Medal of Freedom around his neck and said, "Gosh, it's wonderful, isn't it, to be awarded and recognized this way."

Walton is suffering from bone cancer.

Bush finished his tribute to Arkansas's best-known citizen with the words, "I salute you, sir, for your vision and I am proud to give you your nation's highest civilian honor."

"The story of Sam Walton is an illustration of the American dream. His success is our success, America's success," said the president.

Sam Walton, pushed in a wheelchair by his son Rob, arrives on stage Tuesday for ceremonies honoring him with the Medal of Freedom.

Walton, whose 1,940-store chain sold $44 billion worth of goods last year and made profits of $1.6 billion, said, "We're all working together and I hope that we can keep it going that way."

Bush made the journey with his wife, Barbara, to present the honor at what he emphasized was not a political mission. It was the first time Bush has set foot in Arkansas as president.

Bush deflected questions about politics in Fayetteville, saying, "this is not a political day." But asked how he would do in Tuesday's Illinois and Michigan primaries, he said, "very well."

Along the way there were few political signs, except for some welcoming the president.

Reports: Royal couple to separate

LONDON (AP) — News reports said today that Prince Andrew and the Duchess of York, the former Sarah Ferguson, are preparing to announce their separation after five years of marriage.

Buckingham Palace refused to comment and Maj. Ronald Ferguson, the father of the duchess, said, "I do not make any comment on my daughter's private matters."

Ferguson is polo manager to Prince Charles, Andrew's brother and heir to the throne.

The London newspaper the Daily Mail said news media discussion about the friendship between the duchess, dubbed "Fergie" by the tabloids, and wealthy Texan oilman Steve Wyatt had brought matters to a head.

In January, the paper reported that photographs of the duchess and Wyatt taken while they were vacationing in Morocco with friends were found by a cleaner at a London apartment vacated by Wyatt.

It said at the time that the pictures were shown to the paper before being handed to police.

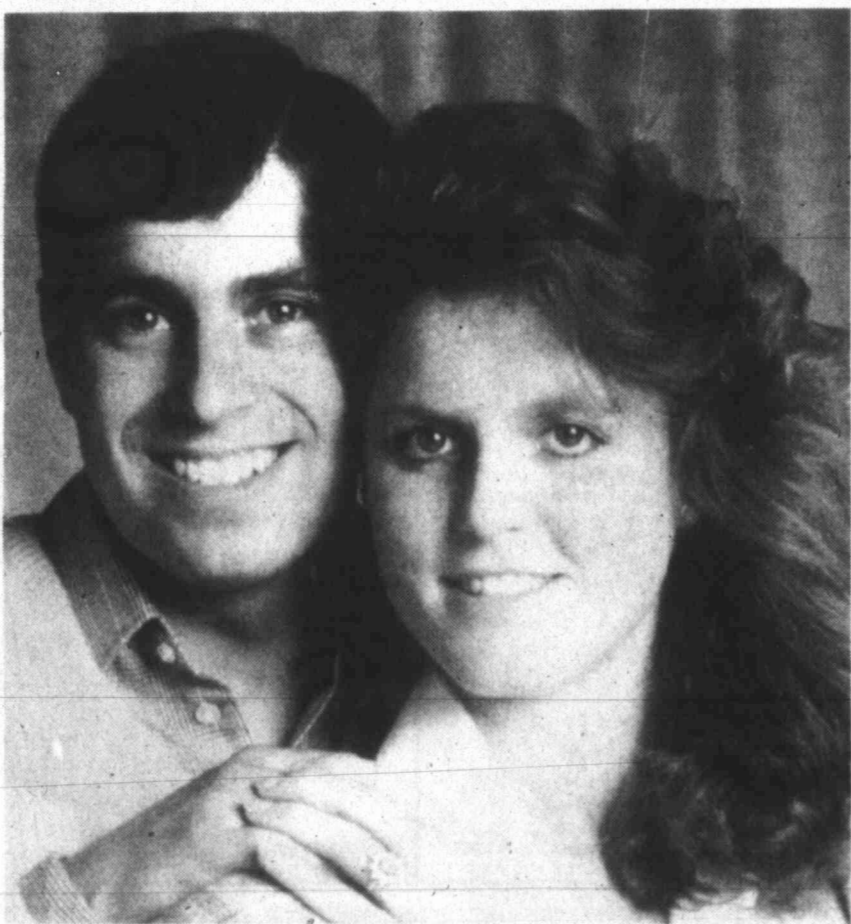

British tabloids have repeatedly criticized the extrovert duchess, alleging she is noisy, tactless, a poor mother and prefers holidays to royal duties.

The Daily Mail said today that over the past year she has become increasingly disillusioned with royal life, finding constraints and criticism depressing.

The paper said the queen's lawyer, Sir Matthew Farrer, and other lawyers on Sunday discussed what it called tangled legal issues of separation with Andrew and his wife at their home Sunninghill Park, 20 miles west of London.

Andrew, the second of Queen Elizabeth II's three sons, and Fergie were married on July 23, 1986. Both are 32 and they have two children — Princess Beatrice, 3, and Princess Eugenie, who turns 2 on Monday.

The Daily Mail said it was understood the duchess will have Britain's Prince Andrew and his wife, the former Sarah Ferguson, plan to separate after nearly six years of marriage, according to an article in the Wednesday edition of Daily Mail, a London newspaper. The paper said the queen's lawyer and other attorneys have discussed "fangled legal issues" with the couple. Buckingham Palace has refused comment.

custody of the children and that Andrew, a Royal Navy helicopter Flight Commander who fought in the 1982 Falklands War, will have full access rights to them.

Andrew is currently on a training course at the Army Staff College at Camberley near Sunninghill Park. His military duties have often separated him from his wife for weeks at a time.

The Daily Mail said that in January the queen discussed their wish to part at a meeting at Sandringham, the 65-year-old monarch's country estate.

Other London tabloids had similar reports. The Sun reported: "Andy and Fergie are to split up."

The royal family is no stranger to marriage problems.

The queen's sister, Princess Margaret, 61, and her husband Lord Snowdon divorced in 1978 and the queen's only daughter, Princess Anne, 41, and her husband Mark Phillips, separated in August 1989.

British tabloids have also periodically reported strains in the 10-year-old marriage of Charles and Princess Diana.

People's favorites awarded

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — Garth Brooks and Reba McEntire triumphed over pop stars to win best performer awards in addition to country honors Tuesday at the 18th annual People's Choice Awards.

Julia Roberts and Bill Cosby also won People's Choice awards, which are billed as the only awards that span television, film and music and in which the public votes.

In the music category, the public chose Brooks and McEntire as the best male and female country performers and best male and female performers overall.

Brooks beat fellow country singer Clint Black and pop crooner Michael Bolton for the male performer award, and McEntire prevailed over pop divas Paula Abdul and Mariah Carey.

"Terminator 2 — Judgment Day" was named the public's favorite motion picture. "City Slickers" won in the comedy picture category and "The Silence of the Lambs" was the best dramatic film.

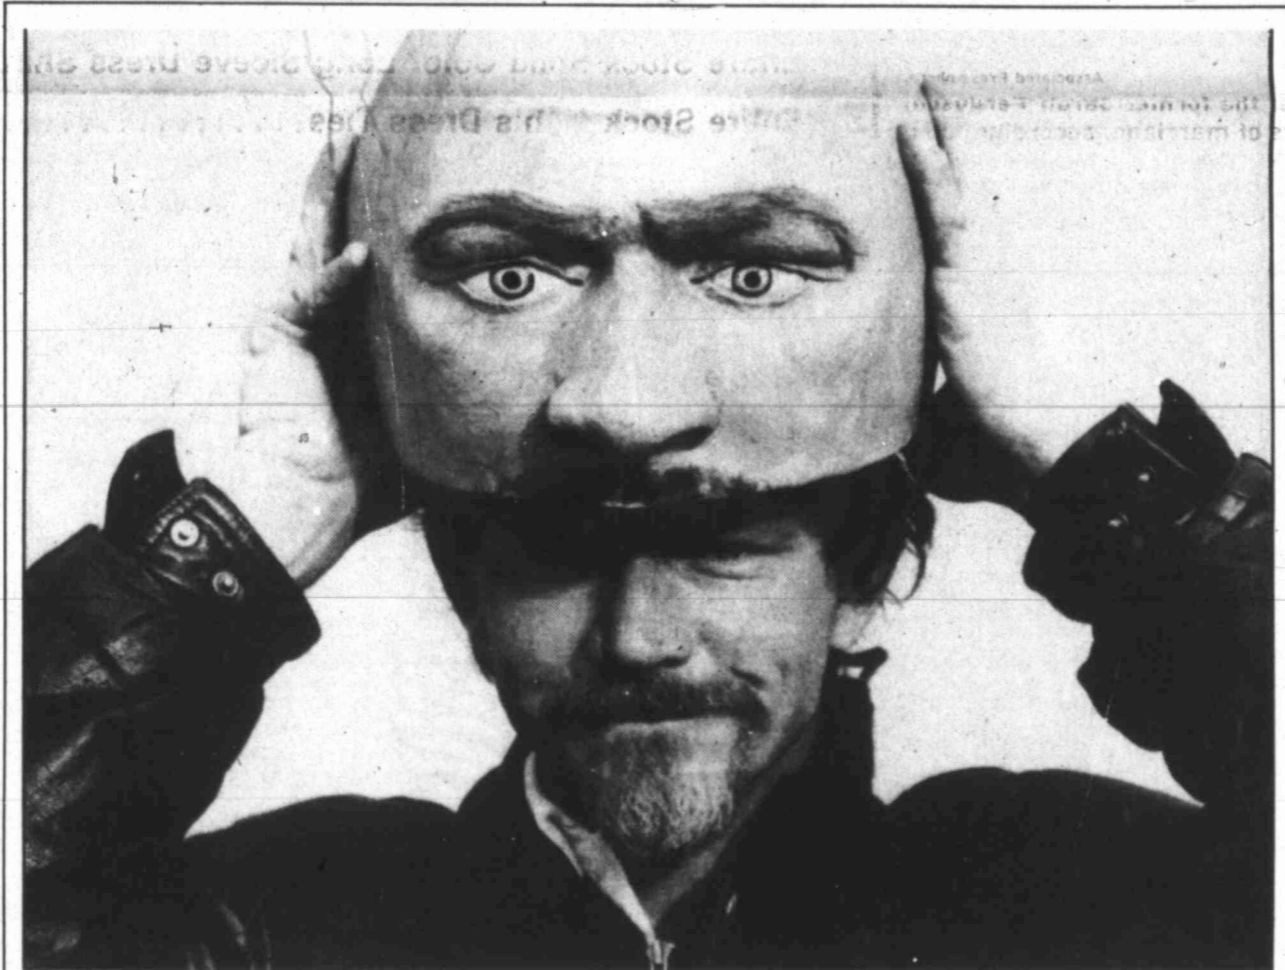

"Beverly Hills, 90210" was the favorite television show among young people and "L.A. Law" was a repeat winner in the dramatic TV series category.

"Home Improvement" was the most popular new TV comedy and "Homefront" was the top new dramatic series.

The awards were being presented at Universal Studios and televised nationally by CBS. Kenny Rogers was the show's host.

The winners resulted from two Gallup Organization polls. In the first, those polled were allowed to vote for anyone they wished. The top three vote-getters in each category were designated as the public nominees.

The second poll of a scientifically selected sample determined the winners.

In the Grove: AP album reviews

"The Acoustic Motorbike" (Reprise) — Luka Bloom

An Irish folk singer covering L.L. Cool J.'s rap come-on, "I Need Love," can either sound ridiculous or utterly charming. There isn't much middle ground.

Fortunately for Luka Bloom, it's the latter. "This love search, it's really making me bug," Bloom raps in a thick brogue, strumming an acoustic guitar. There are few better ways of proving to folk fans the common ground they share with rappers.

Bloom, the brother of famed Irish singer Christy Moore, recorded this album during a visit to Ireland after spending time in New York City. It makes for an interesting combination of influences — the drive of the city with the reverie of the country.

The title cut and other strong cuts, such as "You" and "I Believe in You," make "The Acoustic Motorbike" a worthy followup to an impressive debut. Bloom, who took his first name from the Suzanne Vega song, shares with Vega the willingness to explore musically while keeping folk as a base.

Oddly less successful is an overly polite cover of "Can't Help Falling in Love." He should have left Elvis alone. At least on this album, Bloom doesn't fare well when he slows things down.

"What a Woman Wants to Know" (Reprise) — Dawn Sears

Going by the title tune on this album doesn't do much to impress a listener, but Dawn Sears is someone who could grow on you.

Sears does the best she can with such songs as "What a Woman Wants to Know," "He's in Dallas" and "No More Tears." However, the almost stereotypical country laments about heartbreak do little except point out how thin Sears' voice can tend to be on high notes.

The best part of this album is "Half as Much" where Sears updates the Patsy Cline hit by going with a fast tempo accompanied with fiddles and strong drum beats. This should be a hit again, especially on country dance floors.

Sears doesn't have an outstanding voice that can stand among country's leading lady vocalists like Reba McEntire or Wynonna Judd, but she can hold her own when given better material.

Time, and record sales, can only tell if fans give Sears a chance to catch on.

"The More I Learn" (Mercury) — Ronna Reeves

The song that defines love in the 1990s — answering machine style — has arrived thanks to Ronna Reeves.

This relative newcomer, who has been the opening tour act for top singers including George Strait and the Judds, teams up with Sammy Kershaw for a duet on "There's Love on the Line."

The song takes a humorous look at the awkward stages of hesitant lovers trying to get back together and missing thanks to the answering machine. This tune more than holds up the entire album even though it doesn't need it.

Reeves distinguishes herself on "The More I Learn" with her wry, sideways glance at love, most notably on "Frontier Justice" where a woman longs for revenge against the man that's done her wrong.

In fact, love songs abound on this album, a wide variety dealing with confusion ("The More I Learn (The Less I Understand About Love)") to "Honky Tonk Hearts" that fall in love at night only to face a long morning after.

Reeves' effort may not sound good to someone recovering from a broken romance, but it hits home with anyone who is ready to enjoy a look back.

Video view: news and reviews

"Dead Again" (Paramount, No. suggested retail. Rated R)

There is something so Hitchcockian about Kenneth Branagh's "Dead Again" that you can almost slice it with Norman Bates' blood-speckled meat cleaver.

It is a movie that combines the best of such timeless suspense yarns and thrillers as "Spellbound," "Dial 'M' for Murder" and "Psycho," and dabbles in the supernatural.

With a touch as devilishly light as Hitchcock's, Branagh smoothly pours a delicious blend of romance, comedy, mystery and murder that goes down as nicely as hot-buttered rum on a snowy night.

Written by Scott Frank, "Dead Again" was one of the most original works to emerge from the Hollywood mill last year. Branagh spins this wonderful celluloid web of intrigue, romance and horror with a sure and hypnotic hand. And although he pitches in some Hitchcockian hints that may allow us to unravel the very heart of the mystery — or sidetrack us — his delicate maneuvers make it a fascinating treat that holds up well on the small screen.

"Shattered" (MGM-UA Home Video, $94.99. Rated R)

"Shattered," which stars Tom Berenger, Bob Hoskins and Greta Scacchi, was touted as a psychological thriller in the Hitchcock tradition.

It is sacrilege to mention Hitchcock in the same breath with this film, directed by Wolfgang Petersen from his own screenplay of Richard Neely's book.

Berenger plays millionaire San Francisco architect Dan Merrick, who suffers "psychogenic" amnesia in a near-fatal automobile crash with his wife, played by the lovely Scacchi.

He emerges from a coma and countless plastic surgeries unable to remember a thing about his life. Hey, it happens all the time, right? And a good thing, too.

Otherwise, how could we enjoy those stylish flashbacks of shattering glass? And how could we watch while he's nursed back to health and figures out that he was a bit of a rotter?

About 30 minutes into "Shattered," you'll find yourself drumming your fingers, whistling tunelessly and daydreaming while you wait for the movie's characters to figure out what you surmised 15 minutes ago.

"Surely," you murmur diffidently, "a plot as contrived and transparent as this must have some switcheroo built into it. It can't be as obvious as this. I will wait for complexity."

Ah, pilgrim, you will wait in vain. The payoff is illogical and leaves more loose ends than a shag carpet. "Shattered" is how you'll feel if you waste two hours on this movie.

"Timebomb" (MGA-UA Home Video, $89.98. Rated R)

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen would say it best about "Timebomb": "I knew 'The Manchurian Candidate' and let me tell you, you're no Manchurian Candidate."

Just as Dan Quayle failed to strike Bentsen as a credible successor to John F. Kennedy, "Timebomb" fails to live up to the movie that informs its plot.

Michael Biehn ("The Terminator," "Alien," "The Abyss") plays Eddy Kay, who's been brainwashed to be part of an elite corps of killers.

Problem is: The reprogramming failed to work.

As director Avi Nesher's movie opens, Kay is living a mundane existence as a watchmaker. When he runs into a burning building to save a mother and child, he makes the TV news.

Quite conveniently, the head of the government program that developed the killer elite sees it. Indeed, he's so distracted that he hangs up on the phone sex he was having.

The casting of Patsy Kensit ("Lethal Weapon II," "Twenty-One") as the repressed, intellectual shrink strains believability.

Cook with fruit and trick the sweet tooth

NEW YORK (AP) — Reduce the fat in your diet! Add fruit without giving up brownies — or cake! It all sounds like a circus barker's pitch.

But it's possible to make brownies without butter, carrot cake without oil, even chocolate cake with no shortening. And without artificial anything — just replace the fat with pureed fruit.

The resulting pastries may not have all the richness of the originals, and it may take some experimenting to get the right fruit for a recipe. And these are not calorie-free — or even cholesterol-free — foods. Some have eggs, nuts or chocolate.

But for the most part, this appears to be a useful idea.

A 1½-inch square brownie from a traditional recipe has 98 calories, with 6½ grams of fat. Substitute puree for butter, and the brownie has 58 calories, with 2.2 grams of fat, said Elizabeth Russell, a spokeswoman for the California Prune Board, which considers the substitution a rather terrific idea.

Although nearly every health authority has chastised Americans' fat-laden diet and warned of its link to heart disease and other ailments, most people haven't been willing to revise their diets. So in the race to gratify consumers' fat cravings, several companies are producing substitutes.

Several commercial bakers are testing fruit purees in baked goods, Russell said. Prune or other fruit puree can be made at home in a food processor with pitted fruit and a little water.

Rose Beranbaum, author of "The Cake Bible," said the fruit desserts sounded good, but should be judged on their own, not as substitutes. "People are getting fat eating excess — going for quantity over quality," she said.

The purees seem to work best in quick breads and muffins.

Creative Food Service in New Rochelle, N.Y., tested applesauce recipes for Mott's. Spokesman Steve Goldstein said cooks there found the substitute worked best in fluid, moist batters.

A carrot cake made with applesauce rather than oil was light and moist, without the greasy film carrot cake can leave in the mouth. Chocolate chip cookies made with prune looked and tasted good but were somewhat dry and very chewy.

Nostalgic flavor but without the old fat

Those rich, creamy puddings that comforted us as children can continue to soothe us as adults; all they need is a little slimming. Here are recipes for quick Rice Pudding Parfait and Brownie Pudding that offer plenty of nostalgic flavor but a lot less fat.

To prepare the Rice Pudding Parfait (photo), combine instant rice, sugar, cornstarch, salt and lowfat milk and cook until rice is tender (about five minutes). Once chilled in the refrigerator, the pudding — plus strawberries and apricots — is layered in parfait glasses. For a more traditional presentation, serve the still warm rice pudding with a few raisins and a sprinkle of cinnamon or nutmeg. The pudding contains less than 200 calories with only two grams of fat per portion.

Brownie Pudding combines the flavors of a brownie with the moist consistency of pudding cake. Unsweetened cocoa powder is mixed together with flour, brown sugar, baking powder, lowfat milk and salt and placed in a baking pan. Vanilla-flavored scalded milk is then poured over (but not mixed in with) the cocoa butter. After baking about 30 minutes, the pudding forms two layers — a sauce on the bottom and a cake on top. Scoop the pudding out and serve in bowls. Each serving has only about three grams of fat.

RICE PUDDING PARFAIT
 ½ cup sugar
 3 tablespoons cornstarch
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 3 cups lowfat (1%) milk
 ½ cup quick-cooking rice
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 1 pint strawberries, hulled and sliced

1 can (16 ounces) apricot halves packed in juice, drained

In a medium saucepan combine sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add milk; stir until smooth. Add rice; over medium heat cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Boil, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and rice is tender, about 1 minute. Stir in vanilla. Spoon into a medium bowl; cover surface with plastic wrap. Refrigerate until cold, about 2 hours. In 6 parfait or wine glasses place about 3 tablespoons rice pudding; top with a layer each of sliced strawberries and apricots. Repeat layering, ending with rice pudding. Serve immediately or cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate until ready to serve.

BROWNIE PUDDING
 1 cup all-purpose flour
 ¼ cups firmly-packed light brown sugar, divided
 6 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder, divided
 2 teaspoons baking powder
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 2½ cups lowfat (1%) milk, divided

 1 tablespoon butter, melted
 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
 Preheat oven to 350 F. Butter an 8-inch square cake pan; set aside. In a small mixing bowl combine flour, ½ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cocoa, baking powder and salt. Add ½ cup milk, melted butter and vanilla; mix until smooth; pat into prepared pan. In a small bowl combine remaining ¼ cup brown sugar and 4 tablespoons cocoa; sprinkle over mixture in pan. In a small saucepan heat remaining 2 cups milk until scalded, about 3 minutes; pour over mixture in pan (DO NOT STIR). Bake until a wooden pick inserted in the center comes out clean, about 30 minutes. Cool on a wire rack. Scoop pudding into serving bowls.
YIELD: 8 portions

Rice Pudding Parfait, an up-dated version of a nostalgic dessert is made with lowfat milk and instant rice.

'Great Cakes' recalled for harmful recipe tip

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not a great idea to decorate desserts with poisonous lillies-of-the-valley, says the publisher of the recalled "Great Cakes" recipe collection, which had made that suggestion.

Ballantine Books announced Thursday it recalled all copies of the collection from retailers and wholesalers after learning the small, fragrant flower is poisonous.

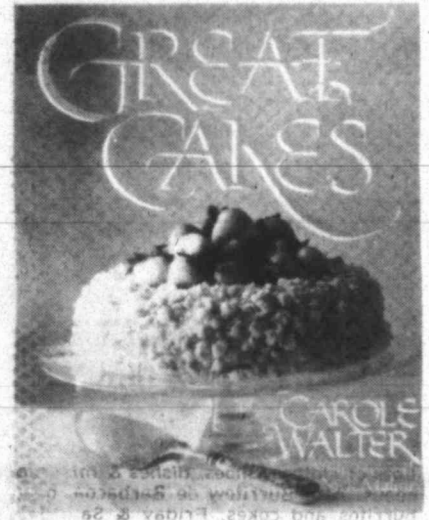

"No amount of lillies-of-the-valley is considered safe to eat," the publisher said.

Ingesting the flower can cause such problems as upset stomach, irregular heartbeat and other circulatory woes.

Ballantine said a reader tipped author Carole Walter to the hazard after the book was published last November.

The publisher said it knew of no one eating the flowers and getting sick.

People who have copies of the book are asked to cross out the reference to the flower on page 499. Those who wish to return the book for a refund should call 1-800-726-0600.

Papa Joe back on his knees

Hi gang! Papa Joe back again this week with two new knees and a couple of great recipes. I want to thank my son, Joe Reed Jr., for pinch hitting this past week while I was in the hospital.

Certainly, it's a son's duty to help his father when needed, but I am puzzled by the bill he presented for writing the column. This week, folks, I've got a couple of great recipes for you. Both are easy to fix, a joy to eat and very little mess. You can't beat that combination. The first is a one dish meal (that's the best kind) and you have only one pan to clean. Remember men, it's dishes like these that will get you the reputation of being great cooks. To get started, you need to get all your ingredients together and pre-heat your oven to 400 degrees. This recipe is called:

PAPA JOE'S SKILLET SURPRISE

Hamburger (1 lb.)
 Onion (1 medium)
 Beans (1 can-Ranch Style)
 Corn bread mix (1 pkg.)
 Salt & pepper to taste

The first you do is make the corn bread mix according to directions on the package. Set this aside for the moment. Next, brown the hamburger meat, onion and seasoning and drain. All of this goes into a large iron skillet. Add the Ranch Style beans and pour over the meat mixture. Now, pour the corn bread mix on top. Bake in the 400 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until cornbread is a golden brown. Cut into pie shaped wedges and serve. With a simple salad, you have a complete meal. If you want to add a little variation to it, you could add a can of green chilies, or you might want to add some chili powder. Remember, in the kitchen, you are the boss. From start to finish, this only takes about forty five minutes. A great meal when you are in a hurry.

For our dessert, this is a winner every time. I got this one from a very dear friend. I call it:

A DIETER'S DELIGHT

Buttermilk (1½ cups)
 Sugar (1 cup)
 Chopped nuts (1 cup)
 Cool Whip (1 16 oz. Carton)
 Bananas (6-sliced)

Mix all the ingredients together and pour into a 13X9X2 casserole. Cover with Saran Wrap and freeze. When serving, cut into two inch squares. You wonder why I call it "a dieter's delight"? Simple. After four o'clock, all the calories disappear. I thought everybody knew that.

Papa Joe's Kitchen tip: Want to save cooking time? If you will marinate your meat overnight it will reduce cooking time by almost half. This not only saves time, but you will have a more flavorful dish.

If you would like a copy of Papa Joe's Cookbook, "How to Open An Egg". Just send $5.95 plus $1.00 postage to: Papa Joe Reed, 1425 E. 6th St. #39, Big Spring, Texas 79720.

Business Operators: Don't Do It!!!

Don't let one decision tie you up for an entire year

Can you predict your advertising needs for the next 18 months?

That's what you are being asked to do when you sign a contract with the yellow pages; once you commit, you've locked yourself into stagnant ad copy that can't be changed for a year. Even worse, you can do little to promote your seasonal sales or changes in merchandise or hours.

The only thing that is certain is that you will receive a yellow pages bill at the end of each month, whether you still like the ad or not.

With the Big Spring Herald, this is not the case. We give you total control over your advertising message and your budget on the daily basis.

Before you commit yourself to a yellow pages contract, visit with someone other than a yellow pages representative about yellow page listings. Smart advertisers use an advertising mix. We'll explain how you can save hundreds or even thousands of dollars while having a better advertising strategy (that includes yellow pages as part of the mix) at the same time.

Remember:
 Put your LISTING in the yellow pages.

Woman battles loving a married man

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, and my boyfriend is 40 and married. I am trying to decide what to do about this relationship. The age difference is not the problem. My mother and others close to me tell me that this is an unhealthy relationship ("once a cheater, always a cheater"), and I should break it off. Half of the time, I think they're right because being in love with a married man has me sneaking around like a criminal. Then there are times when our love is so beautiful, it's worth all the pain I go through, and all the thoughts of breaking up go right out the window. He tells me he loves me and he will marry me once he gets everything straightened out. Should I keep on seeing him and hoping for the best, or break it off now and tell him to get in touch with me when he can make a commitment? I realize that only I can make that decision, but your advice would help me immensely. — IN LOVE, BUT CONFUSED

DEAR IN LOVE: You have answered your own question: Break it off now and tell him to get in touch with you if and when he is able to make a commitment. DEAR ABBY: I recently spent four days with my daughter, son-in-law and baby granddaughter, 11 months old, who live in another state. Maybe I'm behind the times, but I would like your opinion of the following: My son-in-law works until 11 each night, and my daughter feels that the baby should be kept up until Daddy comes home so they can have some "quality time together." Translated, I believe that means that they want to sleep late mornings and not be awakened by a hungry baby at 6 or 7 a.m. The baby wakes up about 8:30 a.m., is given a bottle and put back in her crib until 10 or 11 a.m. She is then bathed, dressed and fed breakfast at noon. She has a little afternoon nap. Lunch is fed to her around 5:30 or 6 p.m. She then takes a nap until 8:30 or 9 p.m. She is then awakened, fed supper, plays until her daddy comes home, and is put to bed for the night between 11 p.m. and midnight. The baby also suffers from non-stop colds. Other than this situation, I can't find any criticism. She is adored by both parents and I'm sure will never be abused. However, I don't believe her present eatingsleeping pattern is healthy for her. How do you feel about this? My feelings will not be hurt if you tell me it's none of my business. Please be honest. — NERVOUS NANA

DEAR NERVOUS NANA: Thank you for telling me that your feelings will not be hurt if I tell you it's none of your business — because it isn't. However, the night schedule may be convenient now, but the baby may have some trouble adjusting to a day schedule when it's time for preschool or kindergarten.

Jeane Dixon

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 19, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Things go your way now, thanks to your willingness to make commitments. Extensive networking helps you land a coveted job or important client in June. An emotional or financial breakthrough occurs by late summer. Adopting a new lifestyle next fall will improve your image and boost your self-esteem. A creative project comes to fruition in December. Seek expert advice on publicizing a stunning accomplishment. Happy romance gets 1993 off to a flying start.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actresses Glenn Close and Ursula Andress, actor Bruce Willis, author Philip Roth.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Cultivate new alliances; they are priceless commodities. People at a distance can lighten your load or provide financial assistance. Honest discussions can lead to a workable solution.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A financial situation could be difficult. Pay bills; do not amass debt. Pick your words and moves very carefully at the negotiating table. Be careful not to trip up or divulge secrets.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Show someone how much they can profit by working with you; and you will soon be in the chips. Gifts and favors work wonders. A long-distance journey could make good money sense.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Say "no" to impulse buying. If you are in a temporary financial bind, see if you can get a better payment schedule. Look miles away for work — the doors of opportunity open to you. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Glad tidings come your way. Communications are noteworthy and reliable. Timely trips or letters will improve your money situation. Listen to the views of a clever associate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Business travel proves highly refreshing and rewarding now. Be sociable and you could learn something to your advantage. Good luck is yours in obtaining favors.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may be wondering about an unusual situation at work for the first time. Better not roll over any stones when looking for answers. Gossiping with your co-workers would be a mistake.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A new challenge may be in the offing. Luckily, you are in top form! This is an excellent time to reach profitable agreements. Making money is easier than in the recent past.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An opportunity for success suddenly presents itself. Move decisively, but only after great thought. Confide your plans to trusted associates but keep the details to yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A good time to search for bargains in housing and home furnishings. Others are impressed by your excellent taste. Work hums right along. Strike while the iron is hot.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): An older person's sage advice helps you make a beneficial and far-reaching decision today. Joint effort gets the job done in a jiffy. Share the applause.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Romance soars to new heights. Be decisive in professional matters. Stop waiting around for someone to give you the green light. Dust yourself off after a setback and start all over again.
