Big Spring restaurant not part of recent sale

Big Spring's Taco Villa, 1501 S. Gregg, is not part of the Del Taco/Taco Villa group sold by W.R. Grace Co. to Pepsico's Taco Bell subsidiary.

The local store, along with stores in Lubbock, are owned by Don Williams of Lubbock, according to Big Spring store manager Willie Langford.

Other West Texas Taco Villas, including those in Midland, Odessa and San Angelo, will become part of Taco Bell. A press release from W.R. Grace said Taco Bell would decide by mid-summer as to which stores to convert to Taco Bells and which to close.

Decisions set Friday

Big Spring and Howard County residents and officials will know by noon Friday whether the community will get either a new state prison, a textile mill or both.

The list of communities chosen as sites for several new state prisons is expected to be released at 10 a.m. by the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, while the Texas Agricultural Finance Committee will meet at 10 to decide whether to grant a $2.2 million loan to Wright Fibers of Decatur.

A new prison would employ a minimum of 300 persons while Wright's textile mill would initially employ 65.

Museum meets tonight

The annual meeting of the membership of the Heritage Museum will be held today at 6:30 p.m. at the museum, 510 Scurry. Attendance at the meeting and dinner is by reservation only.

Members will be entertained by actor-singer-speaker Larry Buchanan.

Info agreement has council, board upset

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

A release of information agreement has some Big Spring City Council members and appointees to the city's police advisory board upset.

According to City Manager Hal Boyd, all appointees have been asked to sign the release because of the following stipulations in the ordinance:

- Each member must:
  - Be a registered voter.
  - Have no delinquent ad valorem or personal property taxes.
  - Have no felony convictions.
  - Have no immediate family in law enforcement.

- Have no immediate family with felony convictions.

Although restrictions on felony convictions are a prerequisite for a member of any of the many city boards, according to the Big Spring City Code, only the advisory board members have been asked to sign a document, which states the following:

I hereby authorize any employee of the City of Big Spring or any agent of the city to obtain any information from any government agency, institution, business or individual relating to my qualifications to serve on the Big Spring Citizens Advisory Board. This information may include but is not limited to, any tax records, arrest records, and conviction records.

I hereby direct any government agency, tax office, business or individual to release any of the above requested information to the bearer of this release. I hereby release the use of such documents by the city and authorize the release of such information to any third parties as necessary by the City of Big Spring.

Much of the discontent has been in association with the records checks and the city's ability to distribute the information as it sees fit, said Joyce Crooker, who served on the bylaws committee and was nominated to serve on the advisory committee.

Another inflammatory part of the affidavit is the extensive list of what is to be considered the immediate family, according to council member John Coffee. The list includes: spouse, parent, stepparent, first cousin, parent-in-law, child, stepchild, brother, sister, stepbrother, stepsister, brother-in-law, sister-in-law, grandparent, grandchild, aunt, uncle or any other relative or other person living in the same household.

City council member Mark Sheedy, who worked extensively with the ad hoc committee, said, "I wouldn't sign that. The city council is responsible for all of the city's boards and we do not

County conducts tours

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Tours of Howard County government offices, conducted Wednesday as part of County Education Week, opened eyes and made some impressions.

"I thought it was pretty neat," said Brandi Cypert, 10, a student at Washington Elementary, who watched a skit on fire prevention presented on the courthouse lawn.

"I think there were a lot of people in the group that got their eyes opened a little bit," said J.D. Fortenberry, a local union leader who toured the county jail and juvenile detention facilities.

Sixty-seven people attended tours throughout the day of several county departments, including courts and clerk offices, said Kay Kennemur, who conducted the tours. Another 150-to-200 visited the courthouse Wednesday, which this week is decorated in a vivid patriotic theme.

Visitors are still welcome Thursday and Friday, and tours for clubs and students can be arranged, said Kennemur, secretary for the Commissioners Court. Those interested should contact Kennemur. However, the courthouse will be closed from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday for an employee picnic.

"We've done real good," Kennemur said of the tours Wednesday. "I think we've accomplished at least a portion of what we set out to do: Make people aware of the county and employees and that the county is involved in a lot more than people realize."

The tours were educational, some participants assured. Fortenberry said he was surprised to learn the extent of operations by the juvenile department. "I knew they had a little office there but I didn't know it was as encompassing as it is."

Wholesale prices edge up in March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices edged up a tiny 0.2 percent in March as a big drop in food costs offset the largest increase in energy prices in five months, the government reported today.

The gain in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index was identical to a 0.2 percent February increase and left wholesale inflation so far this year running at an annual rate of just 0.7 percent.

Meanwhile, another report showed that the number of newly laid off workers making trips to unemployment offices totaled 432,000 for the last week in March. The drop of 24,000 from the previous week was bigger than had been expected.

In a third report, the Commerce Department said that businesses planned only a modest 4.6 percent increase this year in spending for new plants and equipment.

The spending projections, if carried out, would represent a rebound from last year when recession-weary companies actually cut spending by 0.6 percent, but today's estimate marked a downward revision from a 5.4 percent projected increase in capital investment made three months ago.

Still, economists said the various reports pointed to an economy that is finally beginning to mount a sustained recovery following a lengthy recession while managing to keep inflation under control. Many analysts believe that wholesale prices for the entire year will rise by around 2.5 percent, up only slightly from last year's 2.1 percent advance, and that consumer prices will remain docile as well.

The slight 0.2 percent increase in wholesale prices in March reflected a 0.5 percent drop in food costs as the price of vegetables retreated following a huge surge in February that was caused by floods in Texas and California that destroyed winter vegetable crops.

The drop in food prices was partially offset by a 1.2 percent rise in energy costs, the biggest gain since an identical October rise.

The government was scheduled to report on the March consumer price performance on Friday and analysts were looking for a moderate increase similar to the gain in wholesale prices.

For the year, analysts said they believed consumer prices will rise by between 3 percent and 3.5 percent, little changed from last year's 3.1 percent advance.

"We are forecasting good inflation news lasting probably until 1994," said David Wyss, an economist at DRI-McGraw Hill.

The big drop in initial claims for unemployment benefits followed two straight weekly increases. The improvement was led by Michigan, which reported unemployment claims fell by 7,500 as a result of fewer layoffs in the auto industry.

Decreased funds cited for layoffs

By GARY SHANKS

Howard College President Bob Riley is requesting the school's board of directors lay off numerous faculty positions at HC and the Southwest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf.

Although HC Vice President Cheri Sparks declined today to release the names of instructors told their contracts would not be renewed in the fall, those thought to be on the list for termination include: drama instructor Bill Doll; associate professor of business

Gayla Williams; art instructor Melinda Anderson; SWCID admissions counselor Bob Coltrane; and a number of people in the athletics department. The total number of layoffs is thought to be as many as 17, according to several sources who requested anonymity.

Riley was out of town and was unavailable for comment.

The cutbacks in staffing are attributed to a 5½ percent cut in state funding from the Texas Legislative Budget Board for fiscal year 1993, Sparks said.

The Legislative Board suggested that colleges make 2-to-3 percent cuts in budgets for the 1992 fiscal year, said Lauri Smith, an examiner for the Legislative Board.

Howard College is probably the only area junior college that is immediately cutting positions, said Vice-President for Business Gay Hickman of Western Texas College in Snyder. Hickman said he did not anticipate cuts at WTC.

Some students are worried about the effects of the cuts on the college's departments. "We want to

Riley: HC should remain competitive

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Howard College's pending elimination of assistant coaching positions and its athletic director post does not mean the school is de-emphasizing athletics, President Bob Riley said Wednesday in a telephone interview.

Riley said his recommendations Tuesday for changes in the school's athletic department came to "meet the financial crisis the state (of Texas) is going through." He said the school gets 40 to 50 percent of its funding from the state.

"We intend to remain competitive and to have competitive teams. However, we feel we must act responsibly when it is clear that we will have less public funds in the future," Riley said.

work smarter and harder. We will want to remain competitive and I believe we will," Riley said.

He said he will reevaluate the athletic directorship and may appoint someone to the position at a latter date.

The changes, along with Athletic Director and head baseball coach Bill Griffin's leaving Howard, will result in a big difference in the Howard athletic program.

Two of the four head coaching positions at the school will change. If assistant coaches are on the staff they will be part-time only, and there may or may not be an athletic director.

Coach Scott would not comment on his removal as head rodeo coach and other coaches could not be reached for comment.

Gay Republicans plan convention

HOUSTON (AP) — A national group of gay Republicans plans to hold its convention near Houston just before the GOP's national gathering this August.

The Log Cabin Republicans will hold their meeting Aug. 14-16 in The Woodlands, a suburb of Houston. The Republican national convention is Aug. 17-20 at the Astrodome.

The group says it'll use the convention to plan a strategy for influencing elections nationwide.

"We're trying to point out there are diverse views within the party," said Paul von Wupperfeld, president of the Log Cabin Republicans of Texas. "People tend to look at the party as monolithic, leaning toward the right."

Some of the issues the group plans to tackle are funding for AIDS research and the military's ban on homosexuals. Log Cabin leaders also want to improve the image of gays.

"We have to educate people that we are not left-wing, earring-wearing liberals," said Andy Smith, president of the Austin Log Cabin chapter and secretary of the national group.

Police: Woman killed for 'thrill'

BEDFORD (AP) — Police capital murder charges will be filed against three teen-agers, one of whom allegedly killed a 57-year-old woman "just for the thrill" during a robbery.

The boy slashed the woman's throat while his two friends, ages 15 and 17, watched, said police Lt. David Flory.

"It was just a spur of the moment, do it just for the thrill of it thing," Flory said.

New district could get Anglo rep

HOUSTON (AP) — A meticulously designed new congressional district — drawn to almost guarantee Houston's expanding Hispanic population a representative of their own — could wind up sending an Anglo to Washington.

State Sen. Gene Green, who is white, faces Ben Reyes, an Hispanic Houston city councilman, in the Democratic runoff April 14 and the party's nomination for the new 29th Congressional District.

The race is one of three congressional runoffs in Tuesday's voting. The others are in El Paso and the Dallas-Fort Worth area as Republicans are choosing a candidate to oppose longtime Democratic congressmen.

Reyes and Green finished 1-2 in last month's Super Tuesday primary. Reyes' 34 percent of the vote, however, was well short of the 50 percent he needed to avoid a runoff. Green collected 28 percent in the five-person Democratic field.

The runoff winner will face Republican Clark Kent Ervin, a former White House aide, in the November general election.

The new 29th District — one of three new seats given to Texas thanks to the 1990 census — is

Board may vote against early releases

AUSTIN (AP) — The state prison governing board may vote against authorizing early release of nearly 3,000 inmates to ease prison and county jail overcrowding, Gov. Ann Richards' spokesman says.

The Texas Board of Criminal Justice is scheduled to vote Friday on whether to invoke the Prison Management Act (PMA) to avert a prison shutdown, which can be triggered if the population exceeds a court-established limit of 95 percent.

"My understanding is that the board is not going to invoke the PMA," gubernatorial press secretary Bill Cryer said Wednesday.

Cryer said it doesn't appear that enough board members favor the idea to vote for it.

Early release, Cryer said, "is absolutely the last thing anybody wants done."

He said Richards has directed her staff to find other options, if possible, to early releases.

"We understand quite clearly that outside of (prison lawsuit) defendants, there probably aren't too many people who want to see the Prison Management Act invoked," Cryer said.

Under the law, the criminal justice board may release inmates selectively.

Prison officials have said inmate population now tops 94 percent, and an estimated 14,000 state inmates are being held in county jails awaiting transfer to the state prison system.

Prison population now tops 48,000. An average of 588 inmates a week have been released in recent months, but officials say that total would have to hit 750 to keep pace with incoming prisoners from the counties.

Both Attorney General Dan Morales, a Democrat, and Texas Republican Party Chairman Fred Meyer, on Wednesday urged the criminal justice board to vote against using the early release law.

Names in the news

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bette Midler and CBS are close to a deal for a three-hour TV production of the musical comedy "Gypsy."

An agreement should be signed by Friday, producer Craig Zadan said Wednesday.

The movie would star Ms. Midler as brassy stage mother Mama Rose, the role originally played by Ethel Merman on Broadway and by Rosalind Russell in the 1962 movie.

The role of stripper Gypsy Rose Lee has yet to be cast.

The movie would air next season.

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Arsenio Hall issued a dare to students when he received an honorary degree from Central State University.

"I dare you to dream and chase those dreams and make them come true," the talk show host told the audience of about 1,000 on Wednesday.

He received an honorary doctorate of humane letters.

Central State, a predominantly black school near Dayton, has about 3,300 students.

ORANGETOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Al Pacino landed in the doghouse for letting his canines run loose and was fined $50.

The actor's lawyers entered a guilty plea on his behalf Tuesday to violating town leash laws, court clerk Sharon Macaulay said Wednesday.

Pacino's dogs ran loose in Orangetown, a suburb north of New York City where he owns property, on Feb. 6, March 20 and March 25. During the last incident, his dog bit another dog.

Macaulay said the "Godfather" star has tried to keep his dogs under control by installing an electric fence around his property and MIDLER HALL putting electric collars on the dogs.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All-American singer Bruce Springsteen's new albums are being upstaged in the United States by a foreign act.

"Adrenalize," by the British heavy-metal band Def Leppard, debuts at No. 1 on next week's Billboard chart. Springsteen's albums, "Human Touch" and "Lucky Town," will rank second and third respectively.

Overseas, however, Springsteen's albums are topping the charts. They entered at No. 1 and No. 2 in the Britain, Italy, Spain, Austria, Switzerland, Norway and Finland.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — "Miami Vice" actor Edward James Olmos is urging the Legislature to require schools to teach violence prevention, but a lawmaker says Hollywood is part of the problem.

The bill was approved by the Senate Education Committee on Wednesday.

Olmos said violence should be discussed in health classes because children are "getting off on the high (of killing). It's the new drug."

But Sen. Becky Morgan, a Republican, complained about "gratuitous violence" in movies. "I don't think what we do here for education can make up for what your industry is doing for children," she told Olmos.

"I agree," Olmos replied. Hollywood "works off the dollar. It doesn't work off making sense."

He said a lack of violence is why his new movie, "American Me" about Chicano prison gangs, and his earlier film, "Stand and Deliver," about a math teacher who inspires his inner-city students, didn't make lots of money.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-songwriter Dottie Rambo has been voted into the Gospel Music Hall of Fame.

She has written more than 1,500 songs, including "We Shall Behold

Him," the Gospel Music Association song of the year in 1982.

She won a Grammy Award in 1968 for her album "The Soul of Me."

The Hall of Fame honor was announced Monday.

BRANSON, Mo. (AP) — Entertainer Jimmie Rodgers couldn't come up with the cash to make good on a deal to buy singer Boxcar Willie's theater.

Rodgers announced an agreement last month to purchase the 2,100-seat theater.

"We had a contract, but they never came up with any money, so yesterday Box canceled the contract," Willie's secretary, Laura Joiner, said Wednesday.

Arafat injuries slight

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Yasser Arafat left a hospital today after treatment for injuries suffered in a crash-landing that killed three people, and a key PLO council delayed a meeting to allow him to recover, officials said.

The Palestinian embassy in Tripoli said the PLO leader had left the hospital in Misratah, where he was taken Wednesday after spending 15 hours in the desert of southern Libya following the plane crash.

Officials said they did not know his destination today. Sources at the Palestine Liberation Organization's headquarters in Tunis said he might return to Tunisia tonight.

A doctor described Arafat's health as "excellent," but there was no official report on his injuries.

Embassy sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Arafat had an eyelid injury and other slight bruises, but otherwise was in good condition. However, sources at the PLO's headquarters in Tunis said Arafat could not walk on his own. They said he apparently broke a leg and possibly a hand when his plane plowed into a dune during a sandstorm Tuesday night while on a flight from Sudan to Tunisia.

The head of the Palestinian parliament, Abdel Hamid as-Sayeh, announced at the opening of today's session of the PLO Central Council in Tunis that the meeting was being recessed, PLO officials told reporters. The officials said it would be put off until Arafat could attend.

Suleiman Najjab, a member of the PLO's Executive Committee, reached by telephone in Tunis, said the policy-making council would likely meet in two or three weeks.

The 80-member Central Council is a liaison between the Executive Committee and the Palestinian parliament. The meeting may be crucial for Arafat because it could introduce a challenge to his leadership. He has come under growing criticism from his own Fatah group for backing Iraq in the Gulf War and refusing to listen to advisers.

The council also was to debate the progress of Middle East peace talks, which are scheduled to resume on April 27 in Washington. Some members feel the Palestinians have made too many compromises in the talks and that Israel has given little.

Arafat, lying in bed with a bandaged right eye, was seen on Libyan TV Wednesday night smiling and chatting with Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi at the hospital in Misratah, 120 miles east of the capital, Tripoli.

Arafat, 62, said the two pilots and engineer were killed and five others seriously injured when his Soviet-made Antonov-26 was forced down.

"We have treated him fully and comprehensively," Dr. Muftah al-Shwayhid said. "His health is excellent."

Arafat has been the PLO's undisputed leader for 23 years. His loss would have been a grievous blow to the organization and could have seriously undermined the Arab-Israeli peace talks.

Arafat's two most important aides have been assassinated over the past four years and no one else has the stature to step in as successor of the divided PLO.

Arthur Ashe discloses AIDS

NEW YORK (AP) — For Arthur Ashe, as for Rock Hudson, fame had its price.

Ashe paid the price in announcing Wednesday that he has AIDS — an unwilling disclosure that dramatized the uneasy balance between a celebrity's right to privacy and his responsibility to use his fame on behalf of a cause.

Arthur Ashe's wife Jeanne reads a portion of his statement to the press after he broke down and could not continue speaking during a news conference in New York Wednesday.

'Even a public person has a right to privacy. When they are dragged out of the closet, I think that's a very sad event — even though it may have a public benefit.'

Robert Rygor ACT UP

AIDS activists around the country almost unanimously agreed with Ashe that his privacy should have come first.

"Even a public person has a right to privacy," said Robert Rygor, administrator of the New York chapter of ACT UP, the militant AIDS coalition. "When they are dragged out of the closet, I think that's a very sad event — even though it may have a public benefit."

The 48-year-old former tennis star said he had known since 1988 that he was infected with HIV, the AIDS virus, but went public only after a USA Today reporter called him and asked if it was true he had AIDS.

"I am angry that I was put in the unenviable position of having to lie if I was to protect my privacy," he said. "I didn't commit any crime. I am not running for public office. I should reserve the right to keep something like that private."

Hudson did not disclose until days before his death in 1985 that he had AIDS. The actor's homosexuality also became public.

Those who have worked to raise public awareness of AIDS said Ashe would be a powerful ally. But they shared his anger over the way in which he arrived in their camp.

"There's no question that with his celebrity status he could be very helpful in the fight against AIDS — but that decision has to be his," said Carisa Cunningham, a spokeswoman for the AIDS Action Council, a national lobbying group.

For people with AIDS, the disclosure of their illness can be rife with complications — from small slights to the loss of a home or job. Ashe's wealth and fame may insulate him from some but not necessarily all of those, Cunningham said.

"There's no doubt that the stress level in his life has just been raised about 1,000 percent, and we know that's not healthy for people with HIV," she said.

Ashe, who is married, said he is certain he contracted the virus from a blood transfusion, probably after a 1983 heart operation.

Nevertheless, his remarks recall the debate over "outing" — the practice by some gay activists of announcing that a celebrity is homosexual. Even among those who favor outing, many believe it is wrong to disclose that someone has AIDS.

Gabriel Rotello, former editor of Outweek, a now-defunct magazine that was dedicated to outing homosexuals, said he didn't see much of a parallel between disclosing homosexuality and disclosing that someone has AIDS.

Outing, he said, is intended to overcome a double standard by people who talk freely about heterosexuals' private lives but are squeamish about discussing the private lives of homosexuals.

"But there's no such double standard when it comes to disease," he said. "That's one area that even the most intrusive press has, until now, agreed to keep private."

An editor at USA Today defended the newspaper's handling of the story.

"I don't think there was any question for any news organization when any public figure becomes ill... there's no question that it's news," said Gene Policinski, managing editor for sports. "We were treating AIDS as any other illness."

At least one prominent AIDS activist, author Larry Kramer, applauded that thinking. "The man has AIDS, the newspaper found out; it's news. Why shouldn't they publish it?" he said.

Kramer, author of "The Normal Heart," said Ashe's privacy rights were outweighed by his celebrity.

"He has a moral responsibility as a public figure," Kramer said. "If he was John Doe, he has a right to privacy. If he's Arthur Ashe... he's asked to be public property."

But most AIDS activists disagreed with Kramer.

"He has an absolute right to privacy," insisted David Eng, a spokesman for the Gay Men's Health Crisis in New York.

UAW ignores Cat's pleadings

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — Striking workers at a Caterpillar Inc. stockholders meeting tried to shout down pleas from the company's chairman to return to work or risk the loss of their jobs.

The annual meeting Wednesday came amid a 5-month-old walkout that has pitted nearly 13,000 members of the United Auto Workers union against the world's biggest maker of earth-moving equipment.

The showdown represents the first time a major manufacturer has attempted to break a union of the size and strength of the 900,000-member UAW.

Strikers were told Monday to return to work or risk losing their jobs. Few have crossed picket lines. Caterpillar immediately began running ads for replacements and said it has been overwhelmed with calls from job seekers.

Chairman Donald V. Fites, trying to talk over shouting union members at the shareholders meeting, denied Caterpillar is trying to bust the union.

"We just want our UAW workers to come back to work," Fites said. "After five months of bargaining with ourselves, they left us no choice but to proceed" with the ultimatum.

During a question-and-answer session, one striking employee told Fites, "I wasn't invited back to work. It was an unfriendly invitation. It's like asking someone to choose between a mother and father."

"I would urge you to get back to work," said Fites.

"This is a stockholders meeting, not a scab solicitation meeting!" yelled UAW secretary-treasurer Bill Casstevens.

Earlier, Casstevens tried unsuccessfully to get the floor to present the union's side of the contract dispute.

Caterpillar has 16,000 workers in Illinois; York, Pa.; Memphis, Tenn.; and Denver. The strike is in Illinois only. The union is seeking wage increases similar to those it received in a contract signed with Deere & Co.

At a news conference later, Fites was asked about possible intervention by Labor Secretary Lynn Martin. "We don't see now a role for the federal mediation service to play at this time," he said.

However, Caterpillar vice president Wayne Zimmerman said in East Peoria, Ill., that the company contacted federal mediators and is willing to meet with them.

Opinions from across the U.S.

Supreme Court ruled correctly

People who buy child pornography are on no one's list of sympathetic characters. But the U.S. Supreme Court rightly ruled that the government went too far in entrapping a Nebraska farmer who bought child pornography after, in effect, the government's active and insistent encouragement.

In an important 5-4 decision, the court ruled that government agents cannot use undercover "sting" operations against people who have shown no previous signs of committing a crime. In 1984 one Keith Jacobson, 56, ordered magazines that contained pictures of nude boys. Mail order of such magazines was not illegal then.

In the very month that the child pornography law went into effect, federal postal agents, who had found Jacobson's name on a mailing list, went on a 26-month campaign to get Jacobson to buy similar, but now illegal, sexual materials. Jacobson was sent letters, surveys and catalogues by agents masquerading as employees of fictitious firms that offered sexually explicit materials. Jacobson finally did order a magazine called "Boys Who Love Boys" and was then arrested, prosecuted and convicted.

Jacobson charged that he was enticed into buying illegal materials, and Justice Byron White, writing for the court majority, agreed.

It's one thing for the government to go after someone who has committed a crime. It's another for the government to relentlessly encourage someone who has not committed a crime to do so. If the latter principle were accepted, then anyone could become the next target.

Term limit's time has arrived

The grass-roots call for congressional term limits is picking up steam.

Little wonder, with all the revelations about our lawmakers that have surfaced in the past year or so.

Voters are beginning to wonder if the same reason the president's hold on his office is limited doesn't also hold true for those in Congress — if lawmakers with a lifetime tenure might just have too tight a grip on the operations of our supposedly democratic government.

And the dangers of congressmen who become entrenched in their jobs have become clearly evident of late.

Too often they cease to work for the people who elected them and begin to work toward their own good.

The perfect example of this is the late-night, nobody's-looking pay raise House members gave themselves last July.

Add to that scandals in the House restaurant, post office and most notably, the House bank, and U.S. voters have just about had it.

Already, incumbent lawmakers are beginning to feel voter discontent at the polls — they're losing.

And the push is on to add a constitutional amendment to limit how long they can hold office.

It's an idea whose time has come.

The Daily Times, Farmington, N.M.

Government waste: Nothing new

The assumption remains, despite overwhelming evidence to the contrary, that government should operate efficiently. Reporters write stories about waste, corruption and bureaucratic bungling as if they were unusual.

But the truth is, they're not. Consider, for example, two dispatches from the nation's capital that arrived almost simultaneously on (April 3).

The first tells us that the folks in charge of federal air travel have lost track of how many planes the government has and what it's supposed to need them for. An airplane, you could reasonably argue, is tough to misplace. But the government had lost 237 of them.

"Needless to say," Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., wrote to the General Services Administration director, "GSA cannot ensure the efficient use of aircraft that, according to its own records, do not even exist." Hard to argue with that.

But airplanes aren't the only thing the government can't keep track of. Money also disappears. In this case, $65 million from the custody of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. The agency lost that much in one year by making bad investments. The losses were the result of carelessness, not bad luck. "They made no efforts to determine the financial viability of the institutions," reported an Interior Department investigator. "The bureau only looked at the highest return being offered and not at whether the return outweighed the risk of loss to the government."

This is what we've come to expect from Washington.

The News & Record, Greensboro, N.C.

Forget checks, check the frank

When members of Congress write bad checks, it's their own money that they misuse. The public should be more interested in something else that senators and representatives do: Use the frank. The frank is a free mail privilege footed by taxpayers.

In the last six months of 1991, the House spending for franked mail doubled over the previous six months. And for 1992, when members are running for re-election, the franking budget for the House is $80 million, almost double the figure for 1991.

"With the 1992 elections around the corner, incumbents went on a franking frenzy," says James Davidson, chairman of the National Taxpayers Union.

Davidson said House members have used a 1990 loophole to give them a political advantage. They can send mail outside their current districts allowing them to "introduce" themselves to new constituents.

The National Taxpayers Union estimated the spending on mass mailing in the House could be cut by 60 percent.

Taxpayers disgusted with the high cost of congressional junk mail, probably think that's a conservative figure.

The Ledger, Lakeland, Fla.

Take me out to the ball game

Random thoughts while feeding the cats:

I've been fighting a blue funk for the past several days, and I think I've finally found a way to shake this bad mood: Baseball.

Yes, oh yes, baseball: the American pastime (despite what fans of football or American Gladiators may say). Apple pie, hot dogs, root beer, peanuts, sunshine, green grass and blind umpires — you be talking about my sport.

My fascination with the sport bewilders my wife. She can't understand why anyone can watch something "so dull" on TV.

Other friends are of little help, also. They wonder how I can follow the actions of "a bunch of over-paid jerks."

All of this misses the point. Sure, pro baseball players are overpaid (38 percent of them are millionaires), and I can understand how some people would find baseball boring.

But that's not the point, which is that every Opening Day for baseball is a renewal, a constant. Countries may disappear from the map, but an umpire yells "Play ball" every April.

"Mainly, the winter is over," said Detroit Tigers announcer Bill Rathbun. "Spring is here. Things grow from the earth again. People come out and forget their problems, forget about the auto industry. This is special."

That may be a bit syrupy, but I like it.

Another great thing about baseball is that it is the sport for Everyman. You don't have to be 6-foot-6 or be able to leap over tall buildings or have blazing speed. All you need is a bat and ball (the glove is recommended, but not mandatory).

Baseball is an equalizer — just ask George Bush. The president has thrown out the first pitch the past two seasons and, two years in a row, his tosses didn't even clear home plate.

I thought I was up against Ted Williams, coming in there from the port side, so I wanted to keep it way on the outside and a little low." Bush told the Baltimore Orioles' radio broadcasters after the Monday effort.

Heck, even I can throw a baseball across home plate. Cecil Fielder would probably send the sucker into low orbit, but it would cross the plate.

I could go into the aesthetics of baseball, and talk about the symmetry of the game, the fact that it's (usually) played outside, on God's green grass under God's sunshine, or about the community spirit that abounds at a ballpark, but you might think I'd be doing my poor man's Rod McKuen.

But, come to think about it, there is something slightly poetic about the game, and not a lot of it has to do with the actual game itself. There's just something about being at a ballpark — whether you're watching the Texas Rangers or your son's Little League team — that is good for the soul.

Maybe it has to do with the fact that there's no clock, no sense of urgency or deadline, no gotta-get-it-done yesterday atmosphere.

No, it's just a bunch of kids (of all ages) getting together to play a game, while the rest of us kick back our heels and watch.

Try it some time — it'll do wonders for your blood pressure. Steve Reagan is city editor for the Herald.

Tourist class has no class

When Secretary of State James Baker decided to fly tourist class on commercial airlines to silence the criticism of him using military aircraft for personal business, it was a noble gesture — and also a dumb one.

No statesman of a superpower should be required to fly in coach no matter what kind of message Secretary Baker is sending to the American taxpayer.

Let's discuss it point by point. Flying tourist class is a security risk. What if, by accident, Baker ate the airline food? You can't expect him to come up with any kind of peace plan for the Middle East and survive a tourist-class Beef Stroganoff at the same time.

The news stories report that the secretary was very pleased with his flight. This is because it was a one-time event. Wait until the next trip when he flies coach and the lady in the adjoining seat asks for his help while she changes her baby's diaper.

Or, worse still, wait until the kid in the row behind him starts hitting him over the head with a Walt Disney bungee stick.

According to the secretary's spokesperson, while flying in coach the secretary received notes from other passengers on U.S. foreign affairs.

It's pretty hard to have a coherent policy when everyone on the plane is giving him advice on what the State Department should do about the Kurds in Turkey. "Give the money to Israel. Get the British army out of Northern Ireland" and "Don't forget to bomb Libya" were just some of the suggestions that he received.

All these people mean well, but I don't want those who travel on special low-fare airline packages making foreign policy for this country, particularly when many of them don't even know how to fasten their safety belts.

To show the type of people Baker must travel with these days I relate this true story. I was on a flight recently from Paris to Washington when an American passenger opened the overhead compartment and his bag fell on a Japanese gentleman's head.

The Japanese passenger, who was fluent in American curse words, let out a stream of expletives against the American, who could have been a construction foreman on leave from the Middle East.

The American answered (in almost the same language the Japanese gentleman used) that he was not responsible because his bag had been placed there by someone else.

The Japanese man demanded an apology. The American refused.

The other passengers sat frozen in their seats and finally, with the persuasion of the flight attendant, both men returned to their own seats. The Japanese passenger flew the rest of the way with an ice bag on his head. Had Secretary Baker been on board he could have been accused of Japanese bashing.

The flight attendant was not too surprised at the incident because people are behaving strangely on all flights these days.

A few weeks previously she told me that an Arab sheik demanded that she give him a manicure. She tried to explain that flight staff are forbidden to give manicures on transatlantic flights. But he insisted.

She asked him why he expected her to give him a manicure, and he replied, "Because you are a woman and I am a man."

I only tell this story because if Baker had been on the same flight, the sheik could have demanded that Baker take his side. This is the best reason why the secretary should not fly commercial.

Howard College would like to catch up with conference leader Odessa this weekend in the teams' three game series at Jack Barber Field. But to do that the Hawks will first have to catch up with Wrangler base runners.

Odessa comes into the Friday and Saturday series atop the Western Junior College Athletic Conference with an 11-4 mark.

And the Wranglers' success comes mostly from their speed on the bases. They have swiped 168 bases in 45 games for an average of nearly four stolen bases a contest.

"We don't have home run hitters, so we have to get our runs in other ways," Odessa coach Rick Zimmerman said. "We try to get a lot of base runners to upset the defense."

The Wranglers best base stealers play in the first and second spots in their lineup: center fielder Bryan Garrett and second baseman Lamont Mason.

"That (Odessa's running) is one of our major concerns," Howard coach Bill Griffin said. "(Zimmerman) has a lot of speed in his lineup. He has four or five guys that run extremely well. The key for us is to keep their speed off the bases."

Both coaches agree the series is the most important of the season so far for their teams. The Hawks enter the games 8-6 in conference and a sweep would put them a half game ahead of Odessa.

New Mexico Junior College, also 8-6, is tied with the Hawks for second place in the WJCAA, but it stands to finish this weekend's games at 11-6. NMJC goes against New Mexico Military Institute, which is winless in 15 conference games, this weekend.

The first and second place finishers in the conference make the junior college playoffs.

"We need to win two out of three," Griffin said. "If we win just one we'll be in serious trouble, especially since we've got New Mexico (Junior College) at Hobbs next week."

Griffin said the condition of sophomore pitcher Jesse Armandariz will play an important role in the series.

The Hawks have held Armandariz out for five weeks because of a shoulder muscle tear. Griffin would like to start him in one of Saturday's games.

The Howard coach will go with freshman Jay Maldonado (7-2) in Friday's 2 p.m. game and freshman Desmond Thomas in the first game of Saturday's 1 p.m. doubleheader.

Lake View Chiefs favorites in Big Spring Invitational

By STEVE BELVIN

Coach Randy Britton doesn't expect a Big Spring Invitational championship but he's looking for improvement.

It's a good bet however, that the Big Spring Steers will be in the thick of the race. Big Spring already has two meet championships under its belt. Britton has called his team one that has quality, but not quantity.

"I doubt if we can win it, we just don't have enough depth," said Britton. "Sure, everybody wants to win their own meet, but the big meet is district next week."

The Steers will be joined in the field by Frenship, Snyder, Monahans, Fort Stockton, Pecos and San Angelo Lake View. Sweetwater and Andrews pulled out at the last moment. The junior varsity boys division will be the same with the addition of varsity teams from Balmorhea, Coahoma and Forsan.

Action gets underway at 9 a.m. with the field events, followed by running prelims at 10 a.m. and running finals at 2 p.m.

Britton has installed 3-4A foe Lake View as the meet favorite because of their distance strength and overall depth.

The Chiefs are led by Jeff Lewis, who has West Texas bests of 9:32.44 in the 3,200 meters and 4:26.21 in the 1,600 meters. Lake View also counters with Gabriel Barrera and John Graham in the races. Both have run under 10:24 in the 3,200 and 4:39 in the 1,600.

Lake View is also strong in the jumping events with Jerome Bryant and Jamaal Williams in the long and triple jumps. Williams has cleared 6-6 in the high jump.

The Chiefs have good speed having run a 42.74 in the 400 meter relay and 3:28.70 in the 1,600 relay. There are sprinters Bryant, Terrence Norris and Mike Marceric in the sprints. Bryant has run a 10.95 100 meters, Norris has run a 49.91 in the 400 and Marceric has a best of 22.62 in the 200.

The Steers are loaded in the sprint department themselves, indicated by their 42.21 in the 400 meter relay. This team is composed of Tim Pearson, James Soles, Duane Edmonds and Stacy Martin. "I'd like to see us get the baton around a little bit faster than we did last week," said Britton of the 42.90 last week.

Big Spring has a best of 3:21.40 in the 1,600 relay. That team is composed of Pearson, Edmonds, Leharon Farr and Nick Roberson. I'd be disappointed if we didn't break the school record (3:19.70) by district or at the district meet," said Britton.

More cuts for SMU athletics

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University president A. Kenneth Pye says he will recommend cuts this fall in the athletic department that could range from minor budget adjustments to abolishing athletics.

The latter action, Pye noted, is highly unlikely. A $4.5 million deficit within the SMU athletic department has vexed school officials. In fact, the department is running a deficit that exceeds last year's figure by $400,000.

The deficit is disturbing, Pye said, because in 1990, school officials set a goal of limiting the annual shortfall to $2 million.

"Some people think if you get rid of athletics, there will be more useful ways to use the money in academics," Pye said. "What some faculty here don't understand is if you remove athletics, you would remove the need for some faculty."

Possible cost-reduction strategies include reducing the number of athletes going to summer school, which would increase the course load for some athletes during the fall and spring semesters, Pye said.

Some faculty members say the athletic department deficit cuts into other university projects.

Faculty senate president John Gartley said there was a 1 percent, across-the-board cut in salaries this year that would not have been necessary if the athletic debt was smaller.

Big Spring Steers senior Nick Roberson will run the 800, 400 and 1,600 meter relays Saturday at the Big Spring Invitational.

In the sprints, Big Spring will have Martin, who's coming back after a hamstring injury, along with Pearson, Soles and Edmonds. Martin has a best of 21.62 in the 200 meters and Edmonds follows with a 21.90. Soles, who has run a 22.30 in the 200, has run a 10.37 in the 100. Martin has run a 10.46 and Pearson at 11.20.

Roberson, Big Spring's only runner to make it to regionals last year, will run the 800 and 400, where he has bests of 1:59.20 and 49.70. Freshman Joe Franklin has blossomed into a fine halfmiler, running a best of 2:00.96. Farr has a best time of 50.30 in the 400.

The Steers should get some points with their young hurdlers — freshman Tim Rigdon and sophomore Justin Taylor. Rigdon has run a 42.10 in the 300 hurdles and Taylor has a 15.63 in the 110 hurdles. "Their times are coming down. They might be my most pleasant surprise," said Britton.

The Steers could get added help from Soles and Wes Hughes in the high jump, and Soles and Rigdon in the triple jump and Monty Lindsey and T.L. Rogers in the discus.

In the junior varsity division, Coahoma has sprinter Mike Mendez, who also has a 21-3 long jump and 42-7 triple jump. Brent Elmore will be a force hurdles and Matt Coates should do well in the distance events.

Forsan's top competitor will be John Reese in the 800, with a best of 2:04.20. Reese also contributes points in the long jump, pole vault and 200 meters.

Sevey trying to make history in Big Spring Lady Steers tennis

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Kristen Sevey could make history and Big Spring tennis coach Todd Spears is hoping that all of his tennis players are in position to challenge for a regional bid when Saturday rolls around.

It all unfolds starting Friday in the District 3-4A tennis tournament. Tournament action begins Friday and Saturday morning at 9 at the Odessa College tennis courts.

Sevey, a junior, is trying to become the first Big Spring female tennis player to qualify for the regional tournament. The top two finishers in singles and doubles qualifies to regional. Last year Sevey barley missed out, getting third in singles.

This season Sevey is the No. 2 seed in the tournament behind Anette Nichols of Pecos. Nichols had beaten Sevey both times rather easily this season. Spears says you can forget about those previous two meetings. "She's not really better than Kristen, Kristen just has this mental thing about her," said Spears. "I think Kristen will beat us this time."

Big Spring's other singles player is junior Erin Roberts. The Lady Steers doubles team of juniors Brandi Willis and Christi Ragsdale are seeded third. The top seed is sister duo Martha and Veronica Carrillo of San Angelo Lake View. The No. 2 seed is Jennifer Hines and Kasei Halsey of Andrews. "I think they (Willis-Ragsdale) have a pretty good to beat them," said Spears of beating the top two seeded pairs.

The other Lady Steers doubles team is juniors Melissa Ware and Paige Griffin. "They (Ware-Griffin) play a tough team from Andrews in the first round. We're practicing to beat them, we're shooting for the upset," said Spears.

District 3-4A tennis tournament

Severs freshman Trey Terrazas is seeded third in singles play behind Christopher Lewis of Sweetwater and Veit Raddatz, a German foreign-exchange student, at Andrews.

"Trey will probably meet Raddatz in the semifinals. He can beat both of them (Smith and Raddatz), but Trey hasn't had a lot of practice because of basketball and he's had some wrist problems," said Spears.

Sophomore Greg Biddison is seeded fourth in singles play.

"Greg should meet Lewis in the semifinals," said Spears. "He really has a chance. He'll really be an underdog but he's been playing real well."

Playing doubles will be senior Stefan Baldeirach and sophomore Robert Lee. "I'm pleased with their draw. They'll play the No. 2 seed early, but they have a shot," Spears said.

The other Big Spring doubles team are sophomores Donny Denard and Chris Smith. Top No. 1 seed is Reggie Chavez and Eric Barnett of Pecos while the No. 2 seed is Orlanda Ortega and Joseph Garza of Monahans.

The bottom line is Spears is expecting his team to play exceptionally well. "I really think we got a chance to get into the semifinals on almost all of our entries," he said.

Teenage signups set for Saturday

Signups for teenage league baseball will be this Saturday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the Big Spring ball.
 Youth ages 13-15 must bring their birth certificates. For more information call David Roman at 263-1631 or at 457-2231.

Probe completed against Mets

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Prosecutors have completed their investigation into allegations by a New York City woman that she was raped by three New York Mets, the state attorney's office in Fort Pierce said.

Port St. Lucie police turned over the 400-page case file last week to the prosecutors, who will decide whether charges will be filed or the case dropped. State Attorney Bruce Colton can also take it to a grand jury. Colton is expected to announce the decision at a news conference this afternoon.

The 31-year-old woman filed a complaint March 3 saying she was assaulted a year ago at a home that pitcher Dwight Gooden rented during spring training. She alleges Gooden and outfielders Vince Coleman and Daryl Boston raped her.

Laettner garners another honor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Christian Laettner completed a sweep of college basketball's major awards when he was honored as winner of the 16th annual John R. Wooden Award. He received 4,560 points in balloting by 984 writers and broadcasters, followed by LSU's Shaquille O'Neal with 3,964.

Laettner appeared at a press conference at the Los Angeles Athletic Club to accept the award less than 48 hours after scoring 19 points in Duke's 71-51 victory over Michigan in the NCAA championship game in Minneapolis.

Heat forward battling depression

MIAMI (AP) — Miami Heat forward Willie Burton has left the team to enter a medical facility where he will be treated for depression. Heat managing general partner Lewis Schaffel said.
 Burton, a second-year player, was Miami's first round pick — ninth overall — in the 1990 draft. He's in the second year of a four-year deal that will reportedly pay him $2 million over the final two years.

Faldo ready to end skid with a Masters victory

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Nick Faldo believes his game is back on track after almost a year without victory.
 "I've been ready," Faldo said Wednesday, on the eve of his ninth Masters. "I've been working for this the last six months."
 "Rather than try to get ready in two weeks, I've been working on my game slowly and building on it, analyzing it, trying to find out what I need.

"It's all gone very well," Faldo said. "My putting's good. I've got that, hopefully, spot on."
 The 34-year-old English player will be seeking his third Masters title in four years, having failed to make history last year when he tied for 12th place.
 No one has ever won the Masters three years in succession. Only Faldo and six-time champion Jack Nicklaus have repeated as champion.

Nefertiti's tomb reopening Mauro says audit will clear office

LUXOR, Egypt (AP) — Nefertiti's tomb, an unmatched netherworld of splendor, is reopening after being closed to the public for a half-century, but officials are unsure how wide to open its portal.

The 3,200-year-old tomb of the woman renowned for her beauty, boldness and kindness is among the most fabulous of Egypt's archaeological treasures but also one of its most fragile.

A painstaking restoration project lasting six years and costing $4 million is complete and Prime Minister Atef Sidki on Saturday is to declare the tomb open.

For the immediate future — and maybe forever — that means open to scholars and scientists only.

Tourists, however benign their intent, can be harmful to a tomb. Even if they heed the "don't touch" instructions, they still sweat; that raises the humidity in the tomb and speeds the peeling of ancient paint.

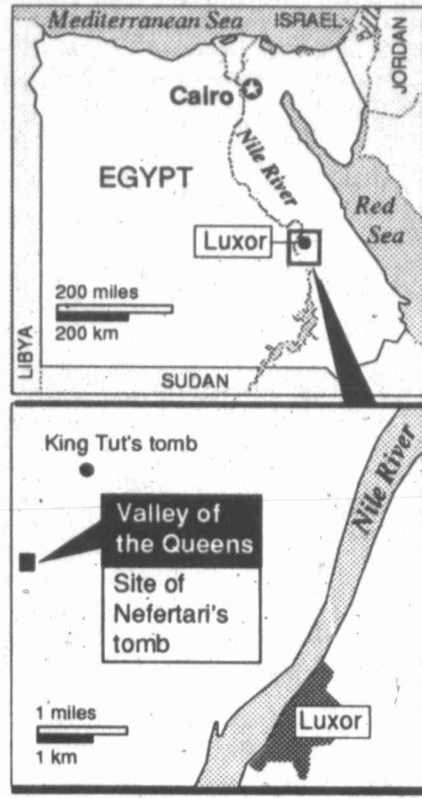

When restoration of Nefertiti's tomb began in 1986, some 20 percent of its wall paintings had disappeared and another 20 percent hung precariously or had fallen onto dirt floors.

Some thought the monument, closed since 1940, was doomed.

The challenge of reversing the decline joined expertise from the J. Paul Getty Conservation Institute of Marina del Rey, Calif., and the Egyptian Antiquities Organization.

They used satellite technology, scientific expertise from four continents and the fingertips of two renowned conservators.

Saving Nefertiti's tomb has been an elusive dream since Italian excavator Ernesto Schiaparelli discovered it in 1904. Looted in antiquity, the tomb contained only a few small relics, a sarcophagus lid and the knees and lower legs of a mummy.

Its treasure was of another sort. Wondrous paintings covered the walls and ceilings of all seven chambers of the 5,200-square-foot tomb.

Nefertiti, whose titles included

"Rich of Praise," "Lady of Charm" and "Beautiful of Face," was the chief wife of warrior Pharaoh Ramses II.

No other Egyptian queen except Hatshepsut, who became a pharaoh, wielded such power.

She accompanied her husband on battle marches and at major state occasions. At her temple at Abu Simbel, she is portrayed as urging Ramses to be merciful to his captives.

In her tomb, the day's best artists painted masterpieces on plastered rock: Nefertiti beneath a star-filled sky, forever young, garbed in the finest gowns, adorned in rich jewelry. Her almond-shaped eyes and gentle smile are crowned by golden headdresses featuring the regal cobra.

But geology cursed the tomb. It was cut into weak, fractured limestone. Rain, occasionally floods, cascaded down hillsides and sent moisture and salt into the painted walls.

Boston University's Center of Remote Sensing gave restorers a look at subterranean trouble spots through satellite technology.

Italian restorers Laura and Paolo Mora used 10,000 bandage-like strips of cotton gauze and Japanese mulberry-bark paper to bind paintings to tomb walls. Specialists then shored every inch of the tomb.

Boosting tourism was a prime reason for restoring Nefertiti's tomb.

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro says an internal audit of phone use at his agency is nearly completed and will show that most calls are official business.

"What the audit's going to show is that the policy (against use of state phones for personal or political use) is in place and it's working for the most part," Mauro said Wednesday.

Mauro said the audit is "almost done. We want to be thorough."

Last month, Mauro acknowledged using state phones to make more than 200 calls to Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton's local and national campaign offices. Mauro is Clinton's Texas campaign chairman.

Mauro apologized, reimbursed the state and ordered the audit.

Falcons return to Pittsburgh skyscraper

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two peregrine falcons are guarding their unborn offspring in a gravel nest made for them atop a downtown skyscraper.

The four eggs are due to hatch in several weeks.

The falcons, named Boris and Natasha, have taken up residence downtown, where biologists crafted a gravel-filled box on the 37th floor of the Gulf Tower so the couple would have a place to nest.

The nest was made to resemble high, secluded cliff ledges the pair would seek in the wild. The couple remained in Pittsburgh during the winter, but did not return to the skyscraper until recently, said Charles Bier, a Western Pennsylvania Conservancy naturalist.

The pair began their lives as hand-fed chicks and met in Pittsburgh as adolescents in 1990. Boris has courted Natasha of late by giving her gifts of dead birds and by performing acrobatic loops and rolls, said Bier.

The once-plentiful peregrines nearly became extinct in the 1960s because a buildup of pesticides in their tissues prevented them from producing normal eggs.

Four of Natasha's nestlings hatched last summer, but only one is believed to be alive. Two others fell to their deaths after flying into reflective windows of office buildings. The other disappeared.

Natasha laid her latest nestful about two weeks ago and is devotedly incubating them.

Layoffs

get a little community concern," said Pat Vera-Barrera, who expressed concern over the loss of two-thirds of HC's fine arts instructors (Doll and Anderson).

No services are going to be cut at any HC location, said vice president for instruction Andrew Hicks. Hicks said that candidates for layoffs were chosen because of a "variety of reasons," and not by seniority.

Sources said there is growing concern in the ranks of the faculty that some of the candidates were chosen because of a connection to a Faculty Senate/Riley conflict two years ago.

Council

"These people volunteer their time to serve the city... this isn't the FBI and we don't have J. Edgar Hoover working for us."

The affidavit was drawn up by city attorney Mike Thomas under Boyd's direction, Thomas said.

The sections dealing with the release of records is taken from the city's FBI clearance procedure for prison guards at the federal correctional centers, Thomas said.

The list of what constitutes immediate family is taken from the city employee policy regarding nepotism.

"That may be alright for people you're hiring, but not for people who are volunteering their time," Coffee said.

Boyd said the conflict will be resolved by the Big Spring City Council, as the matter has been placed on the agenda for the April 14 council meeting.

County

He also said he is impressed with the way county tax dollars are being spent. "I think they're being spent as wisely as I thought they were, maybe even better."

Cypert learned life-saving hints in fire situations from Sesame Street characters Oscar the Grouch and Bert and Ernie, who were played by county volunteer firefighters.

"When your house is on fire don't hide (from firefighters). When you see a person that looks like a monster (a firefighter in gear), don't scream," Cypert said.

The skit was entertaining as well. "It was funny," said Kendra Sparks, 7, a student at Elbow Elementary.

One-hour tours of each department also included the county courtroom, commissioners meeting room, the jail, district courtroom, county clerk's office and the library.

She lived most of her life in Big Spring and was a homemaker.

Tsongas to remain out of race

BOSTON (AP) — Paul Tsongas said today he will not re-enter the Democratic presidential race despite a surprisingly strong showing in the New York primary, a decision that boosts front-runner Bill Clinton's chances for swiftly rallying the party around his candidacy.

"I will not re-enter the race," he told a news-conference in Boston, saying that to so would be to play the role of spoiler.

"I reject that role," he said.

Tsongas said his name would remain on future primary ballots, but he called on his draft supporters to cease their efforts.

At the same time, he said his strong finishes in five states since bowing out on March 19 was proof that his message of economic renewal was a powerful one.

"Hear me well, Democrats and Republicans. The old ways of taking this country into economic ruin and social chaos are over. The people of America are ready for a new resolve," he said.

Tsongas ducked the first question thrown at him: whether he would serve on a ticket with Clinton. He has said previously that he was not interested in becoming the vice presidential running mate.

It's not often that a candidate gets to make two withdrawal statements in a single campaign, and Tsongas made the most of it.

"I love New York, Wisconsin and Minnesota and Kansas, too. It was a remarkable Tuesday night," he said of his strong showing in this week's primaries. "The voters of those states carried on a message begun by the voters of Connecticut two weeks ago."

Brown battles to keep campaign alive

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Jerry Brown is battling to keep his anti-insider crusade alive with a softer tone but sharper message he hopes might stall Bill Clinton's march to the nomination.

Coming off a devastating third-place finish in New York, Brown immediately looked to Virginia and Pennsylvania, hoping for boosts that might slow Clinton.

But at times, he sounded more like he had a long-term reform movement in mind rather than serious hopes of being his party's nominee.

"The scenario would be winning Pennsylvania and Clinton stumbling in some continuing way that would render him unsatisfactory to enough delegates," Brown said. "We'll see what happens."

He said he wished he'd started his "We the People" campaign back in 1983, instead of leaving the country, so the movement would be strong by now.

He was heading home this weekend to California and some rest. Then he would press on to Pennsylvania, where he hoped to build on union support.

$300 an hour on the savings and loan crisis.

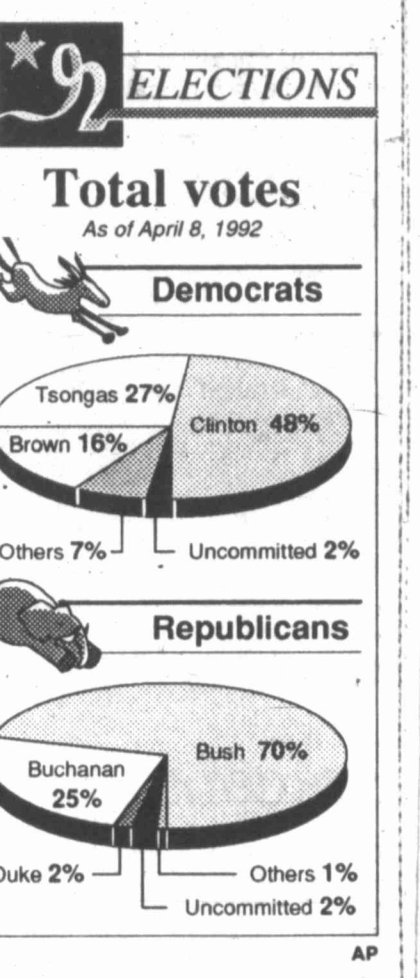

"Those ladies who wanted to work as nurses aides, they don't give $1,000 checks. They're not even in the ballgame. It doesn't even come into their mind. But you can be sure that everyone of those law firms are giving lots of $1,000 checks."

He noted that tiles on New York subway station walls are crumbling.

"Maybe it's because the people in charge never go in the subways. Maybe... where you give $1,000 to go to a cocktail party to elect a congressman to do the work of the people, you don't have to worry about getting on a subway."

Leaving New York, Brown's mood soured as the day wore on. But he came back to life when he landed at the University of Virginia, which was founded by Thomas Jefferson, whom he frequently quotes.

"Thomas Jefferson would roll over in his grave if he could attend a (Democratic) fund-raiser and see how the power of the few is rioting on the labors of the many," Brown yelled to the rowdy crowd, quoting Jefferson.

Decision on Wallace may be made soon

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A decision may be made soon on whether Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Wallace, defeated sheriff candidate on administrative leave without pay, will be put back on regular duties or fired.

Wallace, forced to take administrative leave the day he filed for office Jan. 10, met with Sheriff A.N. Standard Tuesday and Wednesday to discuss job status.

Standard, who had said Wallace's candidacy was a conflict of interest and defeated him in the March 10 Democratic primary 3,033 votes to 1,825 votes, said Wednesday after talking to Wallace that a decision will be made soon.

"I would think in the near future if not immediate future," Standard said.

Wallace, seen at the courthouse last week, had failed to contact Standard by Monday at the end of a 10-day deadline stipulated in a registered letter the sheriff's office sent to Wallace, Standard confirmed. But, Standard assured, "We've made no decisions."

Standard and Wallace met one other time since the primary election to discuss job status.

A March 17 meeting followed a registered letter the sheriff's office sent to Wallace the day after the election. At the meeting they agreed to meet again but Wallace did not return within the next week. So Standard had the registered letter sent that set the 10-day deadline.

Wallace, a deputy for eight years, has maintained that he is in effect fired from his $25,416 a year job. But Standard, a 28-year incumbent, has said since the night of his victory that the door is open for negotiation.

Wallace, married and with three children, remains on the county health and dental insurance plan at least through the end of the month. The county pays $506 a month for his insurance policy.

Standard now faces Republican Neel G. Barnaby Jr. in the Nov. 3 general election.

Barnaby, facility administrator for the Big Spring Correction Center, says that if elected he would implement changes and that he is a more effective community leader than Standard.

Standard says he is running on his record of service as sheriff.

Defending kids in taboo crime: parricide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Paul Mones pulls a handwritten letter from an office brimming with paper, and reads aloud. It's from one of his clients — a teen-age boy imprisoned for murdering a parent.

"It's still a hard question of why I did it," he wrote.

"I sincerely hope that other kids out there will have someone to talk to like I have. If it's possible, maybe we can set up a correspondence net throughout the United States for kids like us. Who knows, it just might help in getting over the guilt I know we all feel."

Mones understands. He may be the only attorney in the United States whose specialty is defending kids who kill.

To many of his colleagues, this is a strange vocation. But dozens around the country have called him for advice in defending parricide cases.

"They say with a nervous laugh, 'Oh boy, that's some specialty you got there,'" said Mones, who outlined his work in a book, "When a Child Kills: Abused Children Who Kill Their Parents."

Parricides account for more than 300 of the nation's 20,000 homicides each year. Most of the killers are white, middle-class boys between the ages of 16 and 18 with no criminal record. Mones argues that most suffer silent years of sexual, physical and psychological abuse before they act against a parent.

"These kids by and large are never insane. But it looks insane. It's viscerally insane. Why would you want to kill your parents?" he said. "But when you come down to the real, unpleasant, sad, tragic reality, there's a lot of logic to what the kid did. That's when everybody gets very afraid."

Paul Mones is an attorney with a unique vocation. His specialty is defending kids who kill, in particular, children who kill their parents. Mones argues that most of the children he defends are victims of years of sexual, physical and psychological abuse.

Donna Marie Wisener, a captain on her high school majorette team, endured her father Glenn's explosive rages and punishing beatings until May 24, 1991, when she shot the 49-year-old truck driver six times with his revolver at their home in Smith County, Texas.

At her trial, Miss Wisener and her mother, Mamie, testified about

"These kids by and large are never insane. But it looks insane. It's viscerally insane. Why would you want to kill your parents?"

Paul Mones attorney

Glenn Wisener's abusive rages. The jury acquitted Miss Wisener on Feb. 13.

Mones, a co-counsel in the case, said Miss Wisener's defense was the first use of a Texas law enacted in September that allows evidence of family violence to defend a killing.

Texas is the only state to have such a statute.

But a Washington state appeals court in February overturned the second-degree murder conviction of a youth in the shooting death of his stepfather. The court held that the jury should have been allowed to consider evidence about the stepfather's abuse of the boy.

"Neither law nor logic suggests any reason to limit to women recognition of the impact a battering relationship may have on the victim's actions or perceptions," the court said in remanding the case.

In California, evidence of battered women's syndrome is admissible in spouse murder cases, but a similar extension hasn't been made for children, Mones said.

As in Miss Wisener's case, many of Mones' clients claim they killed in self-defense because they knew their abuse would continue.

A self-defense argument usually requires a fear of imminent and deadly harm. But in many parricides, kids kill when the parent is most vulnerable — sleeping, or watching television.

Defense attorneys must prosecute the dead for their alleged violence against children. When called in on a case, Mones often will file a child abuse report to launch an investigation.

"There's nothing in the law that says a parent has to be alive at the time you file a child abuse action. That's one of the few ways I can figure out to get the kid services," he said.

Introducing a self-defense argument at trial also is difficult because the law — like society at large — tends to take the word of an adult over a child.

Police investigators, prosecutors and judges are reluctant to concede there may be a logic, however horrifying, behind a parent's slaying, Mones said.

"I believe children are still to a large extent occupying the same role they have had for 500 years, which is basically the property of their parents," said Mones.

Legal terminology reflects that status, he said.

"It's called child endangerment, it's not called attempted murder, when a child is slammed against a wall," he said. "We call it incest. As far as I'm concerned we call it wrong. It's rape."

Students pushing for tougher tests

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Students at Monmouth College have a complaint about their tests: They aren't tough enough.

Student leaders say they expect more than multiple-choice tests for their $16,500 a year for tuition, room and board. They want essays and term papers instead.

"I think by the time we graduate we should be able to read and write at a mature level," said Phillip Emma, a senior finance and economics major who proposed tougher tests. "You don't have multiple-choice tests when you get a job."

Many teachers support the idea, saying it should help improve student writing and research skills, cut down on cheating and better prepare graduates for their careers.

"I see this as an ethical issue," said Roy L. Nerseanian, an associate professor who teaches business management. He, Emma and college president Samuel H. Magill see poor writing skills as a nationwide problem.

The Student Government Association at the private college in West Long Branch passed a resolution recently recommending that instructors stop giving multiple-choice tests exclusively.

"If we knew that most of our tests were going to be essays, we would have to improve our writing," said Nicole Cervino, a sophomore majoring in history and education. "You have to be able to at least write a complete sentence."

Several students blamed professors for relying heavily on multiple-choice tests graded by a computer. Some professors, in turn, say classes have gotten too big for them to grade many essays and papers. They also complain the resolution infringes on academic freedom.

So many questions

President Bush plays the part of tour guide Wednesday morning at the White House to a group of young students from the St. Peter's Interparish School in Washington, who were at the White House to take part in "The Great American Read-Aloud Day." Bush later read to the first grade students.

Educational news

Hughes moves on to nationals

Erica Jo Hughes, a junior at Big Spring High School, recently won first place in the 44th annual State Vocational Skills and Leadership Olympics in Dallas, said her adviser Don Cook.

"This is the first time we've ever (won state). Erica was hand-picked last year when we got the program started. She got a beautiful plaque and medalion," Cook said.

Hughes is a part-time dental assistant at the VA Medical Center in Big Spring. She participated in the contest by working with a dentist, assisting, and competed against assistants from all around Texas.

Hughes will now compete in the National Skills and Leadership Olympics in Louisville, Ky. July 22-26. The competition is sponsored by the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America.

Cook said another junior BSBS student won third place during the same contest. Melissa Birrell competed in a physical therapy contest and placed third in the state for technical information. She is a part-time physical therapy student at the VA Medical Center.

"These two girls are juniors, and they have done well. It's a good program," Cook said.

Gibson named Commended Scholar

Bradley Gibson, a senior at Grady High School in Lenora, was selected by Richard Gibson, high school principal, to compete in the Academic Excellence Award program and was named Commended Scholar.

Gibson was selected to compete based on his ACT and SAT scores, overall academic grade point average, advanced diploma courses and other academic abilities. He submitted a 300-500 word essay as part of his application.

The contest was sponsored by the Texas Association of Secondary School Principals.

Poster contest winners announced

The elementary student winners for the Big Spring Evening Lions Club Drug Awareness Poster Contest were recently announced. Local winners advance to district on April 11, and then to state and international competition.

From Bauer, first place, Kacie Aciri; second, Amber Vierra; third, Lindsay Kirk. From College Heights: first, Michael Rodriguez; second, Kari Scott; third, Louis Diaz.

From Kentwood: first, Christina Grace; second, Cliff Keith; third, Bowe Butler. From Moss: first, James Gomez; second, Linda Torres; third, Sylvia Munoz. From Marcy: first, Seth Lacey; second, Joe Landun; third, Lakshmi Mudambi.

The Big Spring Evening Lions Club is involved in an eye bank project as well as providing eye glasses for students. A summer camp for children with disabilities and diabetic children is also sponsored by the club.

Williams inducted

Leslie Williams, daughter of Gerald and Ramona Harris, Big Spring, was recently inducted into the Sigma Theta Tau International Honor Society of Nursing, the Iota Mu chapter.

Williams is an undergraduate student at Texas Tech University's School of Nursing. She has maintained at least a 3.0 GPA and ranks in the top one-third of her class to be selected for the honor society.

BSHS student council receives honors

The Big Spring High School Student Council won Outstanding Student Council, Outstanding Safety School and Outstanding S.M.I.L.E. School at the District Eight Spring Forum recently.

BSHS was also received a superior rating for their scrapbook, said sponsor Sharon Richardson.

These awards will be presented at the state convention May 1-2 in Austin. The scrapbook will be in a state competition during that convention. BSBS Student Council will serve as District Eight president for 1992-93, following an election at during the forum in Odessa.

Other students who attended included: Raygan McCann, Wendy

Mayes, Ray Mendoza, Azure Miller, Betsy Murphy, Hayley Oliver, Matt Reinert, Travis Sinclear, Mary K. Terrazas, Karla Timmerman, Hillary Twining, Bernadette Valles, Melisa Ware, and April Williams.

Coahoma FHA to attend conference

Students representing the Coahoma chapter of the Future Homemakers of America will attend the 1992 State Leadership Conference in Fort Worth April 10-11 at the Tarrant County Convention Center.

Sonja Overton, Sheila Bowden, Alan Grant, Kelly Lockhart and Becky Walker will participate as the Parliamentary Procedure team at the convention. TaNeal Anderson and Denyce Hayes will participate in the Little Friends competition and Rachel Gibson is part of the State Connection Team.

Angela Evans will attend as outgoing Region Officer with Dianne Hayes the incoming officer. Ra'Chele Phillips is the 1992-93 chapter president and a voting delegate, and Tia Boudreau and Amy McIntosh are representatives.

Schools in Spain

The schools we visited:

In the suburbs of Madrid: John Lennon School, named after the British singer.

In the center of Madrid: Asuncion Rincon School.

In the center of another big city, Barcelona: Saint Filip Nervi School. Notice the bullet-riddled walls in the background. These bullet holes were made during the Spanish Civil War in the 1930s.

In a small town near Madrid (Valdemorillo): Juan Falco School.

This map shows where the schools we visited are located.

Like us

Elementary schools in Spain are like ours in that they have:

- the same ages in the same grades: ages 6-12 = grades 1-6.
- the same school week. They go to school Monday through Friday.
- a school year that starts in September and ends in June.

Different from us

In some ways, schools in Spain are different.

Below is a typical school day for a fifth-grader.

- |             |                  |
|-------------|------------------|
| 9:00-10:00  | Math             |
| 10:00-11:00 | Science          |
| 11:00-11:30 | Recess           |
| 11:30-12:30 | Spanish          |
| 12:30-2:30  | Lunch and Recess |
| 2:30-3:15   | Music            |
| 3:15-4:00   | Social Studies   |

• Notice the long, two-hour lunch break in the middle of the day. Long lunch hours are a Spanish custom.

• Kids in public schools in Spain may take lessons in the Catholic religion if they wish.

Most schools have students with mainly a Spanish background. Many American schools have kids from many different backgrounds.

The Rookie Cookie Cookbook is chock-full of recipes designed especially for kids. Rookie Cookie makes cooking fun, encourages reading, and takes kids step-by-step through the cooking process. To order, send check or money order only, for $7.95 plus 75¢ postage and handling per copy, to: Rookie Cookie Cookbook, P.O. Box 419150, Kansas City, Mo. 64141. Make checks payable to Andrews and McMeel.

BS kids can clean up

Big Spring youngsters between ages 5 and 15 can now participate in a youth program of Project PRIDE, according to Beverly Franklin-McMahon.

CUBS stands for Clean Up Big Spring and incorporates both school year and summer activities to help clean Big Spring.

The first activity is Saturday at 9 a.m. when parents are asked to bring their children to the parking lot of the former Box Grocery for the citywide clean-up.

"Kids who are accompanied by their parents will be given five trashbags to fill," Franklin-McMahon said. "At 1 p.m., after they have filled their bags, we will feed everyone who helped and present them with their CUBS badge."

For more information, call 263-7641.

If You Were a Spanish Kid

What's for lunch?

As is the Spanish tradition, you might go home and eat your main meal of the day with your family.

Your lunch period might be two hours long.

Like more and more Spanish kids, you might eat your lunch at school. These kindergartners put on their smocks to protect their clothes. They will have a long recess when lunch is over.

The cook in your school might wear a chef's hat. The Spaniards take food and eating very seriously.

Below is a typical week's lunch menu.

- Monday
Pasta with pork or beef, french fries, fruit, milk.
- Tuesday
Vegetable soup, baked chicken, french fries, fruit, milk.
- Wednesday
Rice with tomatoes, fried codfish, ice cream, milk.
- Thursday
Stewed white beans, meatballs with sauce, fruit and milk.
- Friday
Lentil stew, fried eggs and sausage, french fries, yogurt.

Spanish words

- fruta
- pollo
- leche
- patatas fritas

Larger cities do have McDonald's and other fast-food restaurants. If you were a Spanish kid, you wouldn't eat at these as often as American kids do.

Your favorite foods might be:

- pasta
- fruits
- salads
- french fries
- omelets
- soups
- hamburgers
- ice cream
- paella (pie-A-yah), a popular rice, seafood, meat and vegetable dish

You might study English from tape cassettes. English is a popular subject, but Spanish kids from the sixth grade up can also take German or French. Next year, plans are for these subjects to be taught from the third grade up.

While you might have computers at your school, you probably would not. Most schools in Spain do not have as many computers or teaching aids as we do.

Girls in Barcelona taking cooking lessons.

If you lived in Barcelona, you would be taught mainly in the Catalan language, not Spanish.

Kids in three parts of the country are taught languages that are native to that area. Spanish is the country's official language and all kids will learn it, too.

Entertainment

Many of the TV shows and movies that Spanish kids watch are made in the United States and translated into Spanish. Through entertainment, we influence the Spanish very much.

Meet Margarita de la Rasilla del Moral, a 12-year-old from Madrid.

Her favorite TV shows include:

- "The Wonder Years"
- "Major Dad"
- "The Golden Girls"
- "Cheers"
- "All in the Family"

Spanish kids are great fans of movies made in the United States.

Margarita also likes:

- Arnold Schwarzenegger
- Paul Newman
- Harrison Ford
- Tom Cruise

Spanish kids like their Spanish music, but they also are fans of American singers such as:

- Michael Jackson
- New Kids on the Block
- The Beach Boys

Spanish fads

If you were a Spanish kid, you would find that some of your fads are fads in the U.S., too.

Bracelets woven of leather, plastic or strings. Miniature cars and trucks.

Man propositioned during deliveries

DEAR ABBY: My husband has been out delivering concert tickets that were sold by telephone solicitations. He has come home laughing the last two days, saying that he was propositioned by three women — young, and quite good-looking. He said, "It's a good thing I am not that kind of a guy."

Abby, what gets me is my husband will be 60 years old on his next birthday. He is just a typical, middle-aged, balding, short, not real handsome married man.

One young wife of a college student answered the door in her bathrobe that wasn't very well secured and sort of hanging open. She proceeded to tell my husband that her husband wouldn't be home for an hour or more.

Another woman asked him if he wanted to come in and have a drink — or something.

I might add that my husband and I have been married for 40 years, have four married daughters and six grandchildren, and we still enjoy sex.

With all the publicity about AIDS and other venereal diseases, we are just dumbfounded. What can those women be thinking? — DUMBFOUNDED! They are either thinking it can't happen to them, or they're just not thinking.

***

DEAR ABBY: I hope you can help me. My in-laws refuse to put poison (Raid, dog spray, Drano, etc.) up out of reach of our 2-year-old son. (We also have a little girl who will be crawling very soon.)

Abby, I realize that it is their home, but I don't think I'm asking too much of them.

My husband and I have both mentioned it to them several times. Recently, I put a note on the can of bug spray that said the kids could die if it was ingested. Well, my mother-in-law tore the note up and threw it away, and put the can back down under the kitchen sink! She said they never had to put anything out of reach of their other grandchildren. (The other grandchildren live 400 miles away, and our kids are there all the time.) She says, "Well, you will just have to watch them."

I must not be Supermom because I can't watch every single move they make. This whole situation is getting very depressing. — CONCERNED MOM IN PESOTUM, ILL.

DEAR CONCERNED: According to the American Association of Poison Control Centers, an estimated 5 million children were victims of accidental poisonings in 1989, the last year for which figures were available. Sixty-two percent of those children were under the age of 5. It is adults who must bear the responsibility.

If your in-laws feel that rearranging their cupboards in order to keep dangerous chemicals out of the reach of the toddlers is too much trouble, ask if they would mind if you and your husband did the child-proofing.

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 10, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Discovering a latent talent could lead to exciting new career developments. Travel beckons. Your schedule for fall looks unusually crowded. An emotional healing is possible in November. Let go of old resentments. Christmas is a time of spiritual rejuvenation and family unity. A romance that is going nowhere could end early in 1993. A self-improvement project you undertake in early spring will boost your self-confidence.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Journalist David Halberstam, sportscaster John Madden and Don Meredith, actor Harry Morgan.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Do a favor for someone who has helped you in the past. Your mate will be sympathetic to your needs. Trust your intuition implicitly. An old flame could re-enter your social sphere.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your travel plans may be subject to another person's whims. Learn how to relax and let go. A missing link will be found. Control your temper when around people who try your patience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Share a confidence with friends you can trust and rely on. Your powers of persuasion are at a peak. favors come easily. Words from afar inspire you when you need encouragement most.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You will profit from assisting those who work behind the scenes. VIPs may be more helpful than usual. Tasks you handle personally will be appreciated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Finding out what family members expect of you will help you get back on track. This is not the day to break new ground in career matters. Listen attentively when around teen-agers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Although tedious tasks could leave you feeling hemmed in, it pays to keep your nose to the grindstone. A romantic interlude helps brighten your day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now is not the time to get even with someone. Spend some time out of the spotlight, away from recent pressures. Meditation will bring helpful new insights. Follow up on a hunch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You rank high on the popularity chart today. Influential people go to bat for you. Joining a special group will help you to achieve many of your goals. Romance begins to hum.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Behind closed doors, you and a VIP hit it off superbly. Charitable acts could make you a star. Keep a juicy secret to yourself. Your discretion will be richly rewarded later on.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You could be swept away by a powerful emotion. Know when to stop. Someone very special will enter your life soon. Be certain of your feelings before making a commitment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Expend your energies wisely, veering away from controversial situations or sensitive subjects. Clean up your desk before leaving the office so you can start the next work week fresh.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Let go of old grudges and concentrate on your long-term goals. Your attitude has a lot to do with how family members get along today. Love and marriage are on a happier course.

"Of Cabbages and Kings"

It's not their fault

By KAY KOLB
Staff Writer

Accompanying this year's presidential primaries is the undercurrent of Congressional problems.

One of the most intriguing things happening right now is the continuing drama of the "House Bank" scandal.

This has been explained as — The topic in which everybody including the grass roots people in America can understand with clarity.

So, along with all of the information coming through the news media, there is a rush by congressmen to get their side of the story out.

They have shifted the blame on everyone, but themselves. "It's not their fault if the bank couldn't keep their financial records straight."

In the Herald office this week, we have received almost two inches of information from an area representative. We have copies of his financial statements from the First Virginia Bank, the First National Bank of his home town and from the House of Representatives "Bank."

Looking through these photocopies was not all that interesting, but another enclosure which was an accumulated explanation of the "House Bank" from the Ethics Committee Report, the Congressional Quarterly and new accounts did get my attention.

Look at these statements: "The roots of the House Bank can be traced back almost to the First Congress of the United States and early attempts to set up a payroll system for members."

"The House Bank's practice in honoring overdrafts on Members' accounts was long-standing, at least since 1951, though the over-draft policy was never written down," according to government officials.

This statement was attributed to the 1954 Sergeant-at-Arms: "While it is true that there are overdrafts, yet it must be borne in mind that the practice of paying overdrafts is entirely based on the fact that in practically every instance, the Member is notified and requested to make a deposit."

"The overdrafts are sometimes honored and are not considered a real sin when there is a deposit available to cover the amount or a promise made by the Member that he will make a deposit."

There were also bank statements from 1960 and 1970 that were supposedly made public by standard banking practices.

The bottom line seems to be to justify what has been going on. As I see it, there are three parts to this problem from our nation's leaders.

First, it seems as the congressmen have put themselves above the standard rules.

When the average person writes an insufficient check, he or she pays big bucks for their wrong doings. But these congressmen have set themselves up a system to ignore their shortcomings.

Second, this has all brought a certain amount of broken trust. How can we trust someone who can not keep up with his own personal accounts to balance the national budget?

Then the third point is integrity. Call me gullible, but I feel the people who lead our nation should do their best in the business of running our nation.

In her book, "Dare To Dream," Author Florence Littauer addresses the topic of leadership and integrity.

"One of the hardest lessons I've had to learn is to do what I know is right...I've had to learn to obey the rules whether or not

Commissioners consider sick leave policy

By KAY KOLB
Staff Writer

Martin County Commissioners voted to establish a pool for accumulated sick pay for county employees when they met in a called special session recently.

The decision was made in response to a request by MC Clerk Virginia James for an additional 18 paid sick days for employee Alta Straub.

Straub has used her accumulated sick leave due to a recent illness.

James said that Straub has two weeks paid vacation, but she does not want to use at this time.

The commissioners agreed that granting Straub more paid sick days would violate the policy established in 1988 and would be unfair to other employees.

Under the present policy, county employees get one day sick leave for every month they work.

James then asked the court consider setting up a pool of sick pay so that employees could donate their accrued sick pay to other employees in time of need.

James told the court she had learned about this policy from other counties using this system at the County Clerks Seminar she attended recently in College Station.

The motion, made by Precinct Two Commissioner Don Tollison and seconded by Commissioner James Biggs, to deny the request for extended paid sick days for Straub, but stated that the court would approve and allow fellow employees to donate personal sick leave or vacation to another employee of the county.

In other business, Danny Fryar reported that the landfill is in good condition. He discussed the possibility of negotiations with the city of Odessa for Odessa to purchase the red clay from the county landfill.

The clay is used for lining pits in the landfills.

• Commissioners voted to adopt the sexual harassment policy as presented by County Treasurer H.D. "Butch" Howard.

Howard told the court that a policy for the disabled will have to be adopted soon because of the recent passage of the American Disabilities Act.

Commissioners requested that all county department heads have a job description and job requirements by May 1.

• The repair of a 1989 pickup that was damaged in a recent accident was approved.

• Commissioners approved a payment of $1,000 to Wayne Cook for damages done to his irrigation equipment during road grading.

• Howard asked commissioner to consider a CPR training course for county road workers. He reported that the Red Cross would teach the course for a fee of $35 per person.

After a short discussion, commissioners asked Howard to check the possibility of using local people who are qualified for CPR training to teach the class.

The commissioners met the following day in executive session. After returning to open session, they approve the purchase of a mobile phone to be installed in the pickup of the assistant road foreman.

Circus coming to town

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The gigantic King Royal Brothers Circus arrives today, April 9 to entertain the local citizenry.

The circus will travel over 25,000 miles this season, showing in over 225 cities in 23 states and four Canadian provinces.

On the road nine months out of the year, the circus generally plays in a different town each day, with the remaining three months spent at shows in winter quarters in South Texas preparing for the next season.

Some of the dazzling acts and attractions lined up for this all new production includes Little Miss Sophia, Oklahoma Shorty, Miss Gi-Gi; ponderous performing pachyderms, the King Royal Jungle Cats, and, of course, those masters of merriment Bumbles and Sparkies, the crazy circus clowns.

The King Royal Brothers Circus is being sponsored by the Stanton Evening Lions and will appear in Stanton after a previous show in San Angelo.

Showtimes are scheduled for 5 and 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 9. The large big top circus will be erected at the Showgrounds, across State Highway Loop 214 (formerly West Front Street) from the Stanton Middle School building.

The big top is scheduled to be raised by the circus elephants between 11 a.m. and noon.

Reduced rates advance tickets are available from any Stanton Evening Lion member and also at the Evening Lions Club Headquarters or call 756-3381, for more information.

Incumbent pushes academics, less tax

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Stanton Trustee incumbent Jimmy Graves will be seeking his second term on the SISD board, May 2 and will be facing Gayle Wheeler for the seat in Place 7.

Graves feels the education of Stanton students and clamping down on tax increases is the reasons for his seeking another term.

"I realize the responsibility that goes with serving on the school board and I have accepted that responsibility the best I could in the two years in office."

"The education of our children is the future of our community, and helping to provide the best education possible is at the top of my list."

"At the same time, I am a taxpayer and I understand that our people have just about been taxed to the limit. I will continue to work to keep taxes at a reachable level, while keeping our focus on education," Graves said about running for another term.

Graves feels the school faculty is working in the right direction by stressing academics and moving forward with progress.

"Our instructors are stressing UIL events very strongly, not only in our school, but others as well. I support the encouraging attitude of our staff and the priorities it sets on UIL participation, including band, academics and athletics."

"We are in the middle of making some changes in the election process of the board, namely going to single-member districts."

"I would like to have the opportunity to continue being a part of the forwarding progress of our board in this area."

"I make it a point to listen to any person who wants to discuss something concerning the board's responsibilities. All of my training hours have been met in helping with the requirements, and I have never missed attending any meeting."

"I appreciate the confidence you placed on me, when you first elected to the board and I will continue this service of educating our young and working to control taxes for the working people," Graves added.

Teveni joins county hospital

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

Doctor Pablo C. Teveni began receiving patients April 1, at the Martin County Hospital District.

Teveni, a San Antonio native received his Post Doctoral training from the Texas Tech University Health Science Center June 1989 and has been a west Texas resident for the past six years.

He attended and began his undergraduate work at the University of Texas Health Science Center and Incarnate Word College in San Antonio.

His training continued in Odessa as a chief resident, on the risk management committee, an assistant professor at the Texas Tech School of Medicine and a clinical director for the Tech family practice center.

He also served as a part-time assistant professor before coming to MCHD.

"I like small towns," Teveni said. "I've been involved with rural health care ever since coming to this area. My practice has taken me to Crane, Kermit, Iraan, Rankin and now the Martin County area."

"The atmosphere is around a small rural community gives one the sense of being part of a family. And taking care of these special people is what I'm looking forward to," Teveni said.

When asked about what his goals are while being in Stanton, Teveni explained.

"I am a person who puts much emphasis on health maintenance. That's the wave of the future. People are used to going to a doctor only when the necessity arises."

"I'm here to tell everyone that in order to stay healthy, one must maintain a good balance life. What I mean about good balance life, is to get enough sleep, exercise and get regular check-ups."

"Just because one feels good, does not necessarily mean you're healthy. Get yearly lab work. Take care of yourself, and keep active," he said.

He also talked about how doctors even have a hard time following the healthy process.

"Even physicians have pro-

DR. PABLO C. TEVENI

blems with health. When I first arrived to west Texas I was overweight. I decided since I'm a doctor it would be hard for someone to follow my instructions, because I couldn't even do it myself."

"I became very active in volleyball. One does not have to stop eating just because you don't want to gain weight. Exercise is the name of the game," he said.

Teveni will specialize in family practice. He will conduct minor surgery and assist in major surgery, he said.

"My training has been mostly general family practice. I will help assist in routine matters and emergency room care. That's where most of my experience and skills are," Teveni added.

Hospital administrator Bob Smith feels fortunate having the young doctor join his staff.

"We are very fortunate to have a physician like Doctor Teveni join our medical staff and care for our county residents and the surrounding area," Smith said.

He added, "Dr. Teveni is part of our plan to restore confidence in the hospital. We are in the midst of turning the corner, but we must also be patient. We feel Dr. Teveni will bring in patients to our district because he is well liked by the community and the staff of the hospital."

"I am hoping to become part of this community and encourage residents to start a volleyball program. The exercise is good and I have to admit, I love to play the sport," he said.

"Ever since I've been here, I've found some good players. People that I've played with and I have had some organized games and used the game to have fundraisers."

"Every year, I go to Big Lake and play in their volleyball tournaments. It's fun and the exercise is perfect for anyone. I strongly recommend exercise — and volleyball," Teveni said.

Depot news

By A.L. (BUD) LINDSEY

Tuesday, April 14, marks the day of the big area spelling event in Andrews. Contestants from several area senior citizens will be present on that day to decide the single contestant to compete in the state contest to be held in Abilene.

The three finalists from the Martin County Senior Citizens Center who will be participating at Andrews are Nita "Babe" Lindsey, Lurline Morrison and Mary Payne.

Several people plan to go along as a cheering section, making plans to have lunch at the center in Andrews. The menu for that day will feature chicken pot pie.

If you are interested in going to Andrews and having lunch, please sign up with Sally Carroll. The cost of the lunch will be $1.50 per person with a donation requested if the center's van supplies transportation.

Departure time will be at 8:30 a.m. Please check with Sally if you are interested.

- The council for the senior citizens met today at 12:15 p.m.

- The Old Sorehead Band played last week at the Terrace Gardens Nursing Home in Midland.

- Gene Clements celebrated his 65th birthday. (When a person reaches 65, he or she will start getting all types of mail from firms trying to sell hearing aids, insurance and health aids.)

- The trip to the Confederate Air Force facility in Midland has been rescheduled for April 15. Should there be enough sign up for this trip to the CAF Museum the van will be utilized for the trip.

- The cost of admittance to the museum is $3 per person and a transportation donation will be requested if the van makes the trip. Please sign up with Carroll if you plan to go.

- Save your treasures for a senior citizen's garage sale to be held on the day of the annual City-wide garage sale on May 2. Of course, this will be a Saturday and will be a big day for the Depot bunch. More detailed plans will be forthcoming.

Menu for week of April 13.

STANTON CARE CENTER

Easter egg hunt countdown

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The Stanton Care Center is sponsoring an Easter Egg Hunt, Tuesday April 14 for approximately 170 Stanton Elementary students.

According to Activities Director Roy Hughes, the hunt is expected to begin at 9:30 a.m. in the backyard of the Care Center.

The egg hunt will be opened to all kindergarten and first-graders. Along with the hunting, the Easter Bunny will make a special appearance the day of the event.

"We are very excited to be part of the Easter holidays and expect a good turnout for our Easter Egg Hunt. We would like to ask that all the children bring their own baskets.

"We will provide all the goodies and refreshments during the egg hunt. We will also have care packages for the youngsters," Hughes said.

Local merchants have contributed to the special event and we've had tremendous support from the community, Hughes said.

For more information contact Hughes at the Stanton Care Center at 756-2814.

Cotton news

By SHAWN WADE

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

LUBBOCK — A busy day of work by the Texas State Support Committee in Austin Wednesday, March 25 resulted in preliminary approval of research projects for funding through the State Support Program of Cotton Incorporated (CI).

According to Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) projects tentatively approved at the meeting would be funded in 1993 from nearly $700,000 estimated to come back to Texas through (CI).

Eighty-one projects were evaluated and ranked according to statewide and regional importance.

Funds for the state support program make up five percent of CI's total yearly budget and are allocated to each state based on its level of production.

The committee selected projects based on the CI estimate of Texas funds available for 1993.

The Texas State Support Committee was able to tentatively approve renewed funding for several projects on statewide and regional levels, as well as select several new projects for funding in 1993.

The High Plains was allocated approximately $160,000 to fund regional projects. Several projects that have potential applications on the High Plains were also approved on the State level.

"High Plains producers can feel good about the way their funds are being spent through this program. State support monies are being directly channeled into research projects designed to help eliminate some of the biggest obstacles facing producers today.

"Some of the problems being tackled by researchers include improved control of cotton seedling disease, developing new methods to control aphids and other pests, and the development of new cotton types that will out perform current varieties," PCG President Larry Nelson said.

High Plains projects approved for funding range from screening plants for the ability to be genetically engineered, improving the profitability of High Plains cotton production, and the development of new management strategies for the short season environment we experience on the High Plains.

Representatives from certified producers organizations across the High Plains met on March 19, to rank the proposals specific to the High Plains in preparation for the Austin meeting.

Chapter to meet at MC museum

HERALD STAFF REPORT

The Captain Elisha Mack Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Big Spring will meet at 2 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at the Martin County Historical Museum.

Members of DAR have traced their ancestry back to the Revolutionary War — the fight for American freedom that began with the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

Mrs. Stanley Reid, Regent of the Big Spring Chapter has not only traced her ancestry to her American Revolutionary great-great-grandfather William Redford, but back to 1635.

DAR focuses their goals on education, history and patriotism.

To be a member of the Society one must prove their lineage to an ancestor who did something to promote the cause, or fight for the cause of freedom.

There are 45 members in the Big Spring Chapter and it is a very active chapter.

Among the DAR activities are:

- Beginning in September, Constitution Week is observed and a study of the Constitution begins;

- A tea party is held in February to honor George Washington's birthday;

- Essays in history and good citizenship are offered to schools as contests for the students and awards given other for patriotic observance.

- Volunteer work at the Veteran's Hospital is another service provided by DAR.

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution was established by an Act of Congress in 1896.

Today the organization owns the largest complex of buildings in Washington, D.C. by any women's organization in the world.

The programs are not only history lessons but also include current programs in National Defense.

Proving your ancestry is also a lesson in genealogy. One becomes more aware of who she is and where she came from. All programs are varied, informative and interesting.

June Reid, Martha Fuquay and Carole Lawson attended the recent Texas State DAR Convention in Ft. Worth.

Usually a member of the chapter attends the Continental Congress Convention in Washington, D.C., however it was not possible for a member to attend this year.

The program Saturday in Stanton will be an educational one in observance of the Columbus Quincentennial by Miss Amy Baker, also a member of DAR.

Her topic will be Pre-Columbian Art. Amy is employed by the Dallas Art Museum. She graduated from Smith College in North Hampton, Maine, and majored in Art History.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reid.

We invite anyone interested. We will be glad to talk to anyone interested in joining the DAR organization. Help is available to help anyone who is interested in their ancestry and becoming a DAR member.

Smith family enjoys reunion, birthday

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Stanton was the site of the 21st Annual Smith Family Reunion held at the First Baptist Church Fellowship Hall.

Approximately 85 family members gathered to celebrate the reunion and also the 99th birthday of Stanton resident Mrs. Daisy Caffey.

She is the only surviving child of longtime Howard County residents, Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Smith. The Smith couple raised 12 children.

At the gathering, each family represented appointed a spokesperson to tell of their backgrounds and how their family was connected to the elder Smiths.

After a full luncheon, a birthday celebration was held for Daisy Caffey. Two very large cakes bearing her name and age was served to all.

Daisy was quoted as saying, "It's been a while since we've all been together, but next year will be even better."

When asked how she felt being 99 years old, Caffey replied, "Really good to have been here for so long."

All relatives and family would like to wish Aunt Daisy a very Happy Birthday, April 7, and may you have many more.

Many relatives traveled from as far away as Alabama, Colorado, Oklahoma, Bay City, Houston, Victoria, Pampa, Abilene, Odessa, Midland, Weatherford, Graham, Lubbock, Kaufman, Seminole, Coahoma and Big Spring.

SCS District Conservationist

"Conservation tillage is a practice that farmers use to reduce tractor trips across the land, reduce erosion from soil and wind, reduce soil moisture loss and increase soil tilth," SCS District Conservationist Alvin Riddle said.

Conservation tillage consist of planting the land to a residue crop and producing at least a 30 percent ground cover. The residue remains on the soil surface and the next year's crop is planted directly into the residue.

This practice works better on irrigated land because adequate water is available at all times, but farmers are proving that this practice will also work under dryland conditions.

The residue crop will help protect young plant seedlings from blowing sand. The residue crop also serve as an insulator to help lower soil temperatures which will reduce evaporation of soil moisture.

Farmers that use a conservation tillage systems are producing more total pounds of cotton with less expense than using conventional methods.

These farmers have not experienced a crop failure on the land with conservation tillage but adjoining producers have had crop failures.

Farmers in Yoakum and Terry counties have been carrying out conservation tillage on their farms for the last ten years and have records to show that conservation tillage will protect the land from wind and water erosion and produce more total income per acre than with conventional farming methods. We are in an era which our nation is looking at our environment and what farmers are doing to protect our natural resources of soil, water and air.

1992 ARP enrollment

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service is currently accepting applications for the 1992 feed grain, wheat cotton and rice programs.

According to ASCS officials, the sign-up period opened Feb. 10, 1992.

The programs offer price support loans, deficiency payments and other program benefits to farmers who reduce their acreage bases by five percent for wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley, and Extra Long Staple (ELS) Cotton, ten percent for Upland Cotton and zero percent for oats and rice.

"Except for ELS cotton, producers may request advance deficiency payments in cash when they sign up," Jerry Harris, Chairman of the Texas State ASC Committee said.

Producers who meet acreage reduction and other program requirements may obtain price support loans at a national average rate of $2.21 per bushel for wheat, $1.72 for corn, $1.63 for grain sorghum, $1.40 for barley, 88 cents for oats, $1.46 for rye, $0.5235 per pound for Upland Cotton, $0.8815 for ELS Cotton and $6.50 per hundred weight for rice.

Established target prices are $4 per bushel for wheat, $2.75 for corn, $2.61 for grain sorghum, $2.36 for barley, $1.45 for oats, $0.729 per pound for upland cotton, $1.058 per pound for ELS cotton and $10.71 per hundred weight for rice.

FmHA takes stand

HERALD STAFF REPORT

TEMPLE — In an effort to halt the spread of a deadly disease and the equally harmful rumors which follow it, the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is taking a leadership role in informing its employees of the realities of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

Texas FmHA State Director Neal Sox Johnson is attempting to promote increased awareness of the HIV virus, and life-threatening illness such as AIDS which result from it, by stamping out misinformation in the workplace.

"The only way to fight the disease is to first know what it is," said Johnson. "If you aren't keyed into the facts, then the chances are slight that you're keyed into the solution, or for that matter prevention."

In this pursuit, the state director has issued a policy statement on how his agency will deal with the potential effects of the disease.

He has similarly taken to informing FmHA employees of the realities of the disease through pamphlets, seminars, employee assistance counselors, and the availability of telephone hotlines.

"Texas FmHA has a tradition and commitment of caring for its employees," Johnson conveyed, "By maintaining a safe and healthful work environment."

The policy statement informs employees of the truths, and the untruths behind the HIV virus. It furthermore sets forth the guidelines for handling issues that could arise when an employee is affected by AIDS.

Among the items discussed in this statement are the declarations that AIDS and AIDS-related illness will be treated in the same manner as any other catastrophic illness.

Permanent employees affected by these conditions are covered by qualified agency benefits and policies relating to insurance, health and disability benefits, non-discrimination, and equal work opportunities.

In designing the policy statement, the state director and his staff kept in mind three fundamentals which Johnson feels should be assumed by other business and civic leaders in the community:

- First, that all medical information obtained from employees with AIDS or any of its related conditions should be kept confidential.

- Second, that the personal integrity of employees stricken with the disease should be regarded with the compassion one would assert to any person affected by a life-threatening disease such as cancer or heart disease.

- And finally, that employees suffering from this illness continue to be valued employees who may wish to maintain their normal lifestyle, including continuing their careers, for as long as their condition allows, and that every reasonable accommodation be provided for them as long as they continue to maintain an adequate level of performance and medical evidence does not indicate that there is threat to the health of the employee(s) or to others.

"Based on an overwhelming preponderance of available medical and scientific opinion," Johnson said. "There is no evidence that the AIDS virus is casually transmitted in ordinary social or occupational settings."

"Therefore, co-workers have no basis upon which to refuse to work or withhold their services for fear of contracting the disease by working with an AIDS-infected person."

For these reasons, Johnson has made it clear that employees who engage in such refusals or who harass or otherwise discriminate against an AIDS-infected employee will be subject to disciplinary action.

Additionally, no special consideration for transfer requests will be made for employees who feel threatened by a co-worker's AIDS-related condition.

"Recognizing the need for employees to be accurately informed about AIDS is the crucial thing," Johnson said.

Along these lines, he has affirmed the following AIDS Hotlines: 1-800-342-AIDS (Nationwide, open 24 hours, seven days a week), 1-800-344-7432 (Spanish-speaking operators, open 8 a.m. until 2 p.m., seven days a week).

Stanton employees of the Texas Department of Transportation were recently honored for the safe driving records. Members of the 161 total safe driving hours are front row: Fran-

Stanton residents honored

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Several Stanton residents were recognized for their service by the Texas Department of Transportation.

The department's annual safety awards ceremony was held recently at the Martin County Community Center. Highway department employees were recognized for their safe driving records.

Stanton employees receiving awards for accident-free driving records were: Euel Blocker and James Moore, five years; Miguel Evans, six years; J.T.

Haggard, eight years; Clemente Villa Jr. and Pete Armendarez, nine years; Francisco Sotelo, 11 years; Luis Chapa, 12 years and Louis Phelps, 20 years.

Also, Billy Powell, 22 years; Royce Reynolds, 26 years and Johnnie Brooks, 28 years.

The employees have a total of 161 years of safe driving.

The agenda included speakers from the Department of Transportation and music was provided by the MC Old Sorehead Band. The catered barbecue dinner followed the awards ceremony.

Marshall Huffman, District Engineer, cited the employees for their dedication.

"We are very proud of these employees for demonstrating safe driving practices while on the job," Huffman said.

Brooks was recognized for 28 years of safe driving, more than any other local employee.

Stanton is in the Department of Transportation's Odessa District, which includes counties: Andrews, Crane, Ector, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward and Winkler.

Stanton Buffs and Lady Buffalos prepare for district race

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

COLORADO CITY — The Stanton Buffalos avenged a loss in the 1,600 meter relay but it wasn't enough to carry them to a Lone Wolf Relays title.

The Buffalos' ran a season best 3:24.88 to best Winters, which had beaten the Buffs last week in the San Angelo Relays. However, Winters came away with the team championship, scoring 146 points. Stanton nipped Coahoma for second place, 118-114.

The girls race came down to a four team battle. Brownfield scored 112 points to outdistance Winters with 104, Coahoma with 95 and Sweetwater with 91 points. Colorado City and Stanton followed with 78 and 68 points, respectively.

The Stanton boys got strong performances from junior Kenny McCalister and senior Jeremy Stallings.

McCalister won the triple jump, 200 meters and ran on the winning 1,600 relay. He also got ran on the second place 400 relay and got second in the high jump.

McCalister had a blast running away in the 200 meters with a time of 22.74.

"It was my first time running it and I like it," said McCalister. "I looked back and that kind of slowed me down."

Stallings, the Class 2A defending state champ in the 800 and 1,600, won the 800 in 1:58.37; 30 minutes later he won the 400 in 50.03. He finished off by anchoring the 1,600 relay.

Stallings said he felt strong after running the 800 and 400 and it showed in the 1,600 relay. He and the Winters' anchorman got the batons even. Stallings won by 20 meters.

"I feel good, I feel like I could run the mile. It must be the weather," he said of the calm, crisp running conditions.

"I wanted to run a 49 (in the 400) so bad. Everybody in the stands caught me in 49 except the timer. If I had had somebody push me I would've run better."

Reese's time was a season best. "I did pretty good, I got my time down," he said. "I stayed with Stallings for a while but he's got an awesome kick."

In the 300 meter hurdles, Stanton's John Wyckoff was leading the race, but hit the last hurdle and took a nasty spill and was unable to finish the race.

Wyckoff returned later to team with McCalister, Stallings and Ricky Lucas to win the 1,600 relay and capturing the best time in Region I.

GIRLS

The Stanton Lady Buffalos got most of their points via the relays. Stanton finished third in the 400 relay (51.47), won the 800 relay (1:49.13) and got second in the 1,600 relay (4:20.10).

Running without junior Stacy Tollison, it was Stanton's first loss in the 400 relay this season and the Lady Buffs didn't take it too kindly.

In the closest race of the meet, the Stanton team of Lupe Chapa, Nancy Chapa, Laura Herm and Christie Hirt were nipped at the tape by Brownfield and Sweetwater.

Six-one-hundredths of a second separated the three teams. Hirt, a senior, wasn't quite so sure Stanton got third. "They say Brownfield beat us, but no one else thinks so," she said.

Stanton coach Frank Riney put it in different perspective. "It was one of our best times of the year and we were running without one of our legs. We have to take into consideration it was a 3A and 4A team that beat us."

The Lady Buffs came back with a vengeance in the 800 relay however. Tollison, who's nursing a strained thigh muscle, ran on the relay along with Hirt, Lupe Chapa and Herm.

Their time of 1:49.13 won easily. Tollison ran a 26.0 on the anchor leg. Lupe Chapa ran a 26.1; Herm a 28.0 and Hirt a 28.45.

Riney was disappointed with the official time. "I got us in a 1:48.4 which would've given us the fastest time in the region" he said. "I think that timer has a slow trigger finger. Stacy and Lupe both have strained thighs. When they get well, they'll run 25s."

Others competing: Philip Hinojosa placed sixth in the shot put with a 40' throw; Jaime Saenz took fifth place in the long jump with an 18'10" jump; Wyckoff came in third place in the high jump with a 6' jump; Sherman Bryant captured first place in the pole vault with a 11'6" stretch.

Also, the team of Jerele Lee, McCalister, Grant Woodfin and Lucas placed second with a 44.57 mark; Lucas, Woodfin and Bryant placed third, fifth and sixth place in the 100 meter dash.

Also, Jay Huchaby took fourth place with a 45.71 mark and Woodfin placed fifth in the 200 meter dash with a 24.03 time.

In the girls division, Saede Bundas placed fifth in the 200 meter dash with a 28.6 mark, while Hopper took second in the 3,200 meter run with a 13.42 time.

Bundas and Herm also placed third and fourth in the high jump with jumps of 4'8" each.

Both teams will travel to Brownfield Friday to compete in the Brownfield Relays as the continue their quest for a district team title.

Applications being accepted

STAMFORD — Congressman Charles W. Stenholm is pleased to announce the beginning of the 1993 United States Service Academy cycle.

At this time, information is being forwarded to all area high schools and those individuals who have expressed interest in applying for a nomination to the US Air Force, Merchant Marine, Military or Naval Academy. Applications are currently being accepted from individuals who wish to be considered for the classes entering in July of 1993.

Youngsters who are at least high school juniors, and who will be between 17 and 22 years of age on July 1, 1993, may be eligible for consideration.

Selections are made in mid-December, using a formula based upon the candidate's high school record, class standing, SAT and or / CT scores. Involvement in athletics and school and community extracurricular activities are important factors in determining the individuals ability to effectively function under pressure.

Evaluations by school officials and other individuals who are familiar with the candidate are also used in the decision-making process.

Motivated, self-starting individuals who like to be challenged are strongly encouraged to contact Stenholm's office for further information.

All inquiries should be directed to: Congressman Charles W. Stenholm, P.O. Box 1237, Stamford, TX 79553, ATTN: Academy Applications.

Taxpayer seminar

ODESSA — The office of State Comptroller John Sharp will conduct a free seminar on state taxes in Odessa, April 15.

According to Sharp, Texans shouldn't have to contact Austin when they need to have a tax question answered.

"Not everyone can get to Austin for tax assistance. So, we are taking tax services to the people," Sharp said.

Gene McDonald, from the Comptroller's Odessa field office will be on hand to meet and discuss tax questions at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin Devonian Room at 1:30 p.m.

"Our agency experts will be delighted to sit down with you, one-on-one, detailing which state taxes may affect you as a business person, assist you with sales tax forms, or provide information that can be useful in the future," Sharp said.

Those taxpayers who cannot attend the free seminar can call the Comptroller's toll free tax hotline for additional assistance at 1-800-252-5555.

For more information about the free seminar, call the nearest Comptroller field office. In the Odessa area, the number is 915-550-3027.

St. Joseph and St. Isidore Catholic Church

St. Joseph Church was recently the host parish for a SEARCH for Christian Maturity retreat for youth from all over the Diocese of San Angelo.

Youngsters from Fort Stockton, Odessa, Midland, San Angelo and other surrounding towns in the diocese gathered for a three day experience of developing their relationship with the Lord and with other youth who are on the same journey.

Last weekend St. Joseph was again host for a Guadalupe retreat. This time, Guadalupeans from Colorado City to Odessa and Andrews came together to explore their common spirituality and built friendships that will help them in their service to the church.

The retreat began at 9 a.m. and continued through the day with an Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament at the end of the day. Mass was celebrated along with the Benediction.

Father Jim Chaumont was the retreat master. Guadalupeana music, presentations and time to socialize was enjoyed by all in attendance.

The retreat consisted of learning more about Our Lady of Guadalupe.

Guadalupeans are men and women who find a particular devotion to Our Lady of Guadalupe as a strength in their adoration of her son, Our Lord Jesus Christ.

The story of Guadalupe goes back to the early conquest of Mexico. At that time, there were still very few converts to Christianity.

Then on December 9, 1531, the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared to an Indian, Juan Diego on a mountain about 7,000 feet in winter.

She told him to go to the bishop of Mexico City and have him build a church on the site of the apparition. At first the bishop did not believe the poor Indian.

Three days later in a second appearance, she told Juan Diego to pick roses (where none should have been at that time of year and altitude), put them in his serape, and take them to the bishop.

When Juan Diego presented the roses to his excellency there appeared on the serape a painted image of the Guadalupe. The image of the young pregnant Indian girl spoke to the Indians of Mexico of conquering evil and the power of this new found faith.

Within a few years more than ten million Indians had converted to Christianity. Eventually, Mary was chosen as the patroness of Mexico, Hispanics, and all of the Americas.

To this day the paint pigmentation cannot be duplicated. The images of Juan Diego in the eyes of the painting are geometrically correct for the positions Mary and Juan Diego were in.

The serape should have fallen apart within a few years after the event. It still exists almost intact in Mexico City.

To people who do not understand, the Guadalupe experience must seem very strange.

But, to feel the peace and love offered by the Mother of Jesus as she directs us to strengthen our relationship with her son very often brings one to a greater appreciation of the role that Mary played in her son's life.

It is a real example for us of the love and obedience of a human being to the will of God. The Feast of Our Lady of Guadalupe is celebrated on December 12.

If you did not attend the retreat, please keep us in your prayers. God Love You!

Fr. Tom.

Joseph parish hall. Residents from as far away as Colorado City and Andrews participated in the organizational meeting.

GOD'S LOVE APPEARS IN THE FLAMING COLORS OF AUTUMN

When summer's heat has taken flight,
The frost descending in the night
Will paint the trees with colors bright,
That morning will unfold;
And coming with the cooler days,
In keeping with this yearly phase,
The sight of branches all ablaze
Is awesome to behold.
On countryside or in the town,

Those leaves that later fade to brown
Proclaim, as they come drifting down,
The year is growing old.
Our House of Worship's lessons show
The love of God, that we should know
From autumn's beauty, all aglow
With shades of red and gold.

Cousins have sights on gold

By KAY KOLB and MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writers

Two local cousins have been burning time clocks for many years.

Stanton High School junior Jeremy Stallings and eighth grader Jennifer Adkins are in the midst of building a dynasty at SHS.

Adkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adkins is a junior high runner has set some goals, while Stallings has already made his presence known as a sophomore capturing both the 800 and 1,600 meter state titles.

Stallings, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Stallings is again on the trail for another repeat this spring at the state capitol.

While Adkins is pacing herself so she can reach the milestone her cousin has already conquered and she is content to wait till she is a freshmen.

But, last year Jennifer won district in the 800 run as a seventh grader and is a perfect shoe-in for another district title this year.

Adkins still continues to run and win. She has entered track meets in Colorado City, Garden City and Coahoma and has won first place twice in the 800 and once in the mile.

"I love to run," Jennifer said, "and my goal is to win state in high school."

Stallings on the other hand, feels the pressures of being a state champion.

"Everybody expects a state champion to win everytime your out on the track. And I guess that comes with the territory," he said. "But to me, I feel just like having to start all over again."

While Jeremy works on repeating the challenge, Adkins is quietly working toward her goals with her coach Rhonda Jones. She works out daily.

Her morning routine is about an hour and her afternoon routine take about an hour and a half.

During these training times, Jennifer lifts weights and runs a total of about three and a half miles.

She knows she must pace herself and set small goals to reach the large one of winning state.

Meanwhile, Stallings keeps busy with basketball and cross country throughout the year and manages to stay in top condition.

He has also set some major goals this year as a junior — to break the 1981 state record in the 800 meter run, held by a DeLeon runner.

"My goal is to break the 1:52.5 time at state, and I'm capable of running it because I've hit it once before and its something thats realistic to me," he said.

Both runners have been running since their early childhood in the Stanton summer track program.

"I started when I was in the third grade. The first race I ever ran was the 400 meter dash and now I'm just working twice as hard for the 800 run," she said.

Stallings began his career going to track meets with his dad and running in the youngster divisions.

"When I was younger, I used to go with my dad to track meets and then, I just began working out and so far its paid off," he said.

After watching Jeremy win state in Austin, last year she said that it was an inspiration to her to worked toward future track meets.

"My dream is to go to state as a freshman," Jennifer said. Of course, she runs every race to win, but she feels just going to state as a ninth grader will be an accomplishment in itself.

Stallings admits the pressure is tough, but it can also be turned around as an advantage.

"Long distance runners have to do their homework," Jennifer said. "You have to work every day."

Stallings echoed Adkins, "One doesn't get to go to state just because you work hard. You've got to make sacrifices and a lot of work everyday. Sometimes I don't want to run, but then I get this feeling I got at state when I won and I'm ready to go," he said.

"And then you also have to pace yourself in competition and then you have to really kick in at the end, they both said."

In the upcoming Stanton meet and district meet, which will also be in Stanton, Jennifer feels her best chance for winning is in the 800.

She hopes to be able to run the 800 at 2:30 mark and thinks her main competition will come from runners in Eldorado and Wall.

Meanwhile, Stallings feels he needs to worry about one meet at a time.

"If I work hard and improve everyday I have another chance at bringing back the gold, but's now its a mental attitude situation I find myself in," Stallings added.

While both of the youngsters goals are very reachable, Adkins' goals is to go on beyond high school and the state track meet.

"I plan to try for a scholarship and run for Texas Tech while I study Law."

Stallings has his sights set on a scholarship to the Southeast Conference and the Olympics, he said smiling.
