Suspended teacher uncertain on charges

By PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

A Grady Independent School District teacher suspended with pay last month for alleged inappropriate behavior with students said he still does not know details of the allegations.

Russell Duncum, 33, a vocational agriculture teacher in his first year at Grady, is contesting the allegations and was scheduled to address school board trustees at a hearing Monday night to give his side of the story - but had nothing to say.

"Since I've never been presented with the charges, I don't know what to say about it," said Duncum, whose contract for next year was not renewed by trustees last month.

Duncum said his attorney last month requested records, including the written complaints, under the Freedom of Information Act, but the records have not been procured.

Grady Superintendent Gerald Singleton did not return a phone call this morning.

Singleton said last month that the situation has divided the community. "We couldn't prove anything yea or he said. Three eighth-grade students said Duncum "touched too much" and was "too familiar."

Alleged incidents include striking a girl with a stick between the legs, patting another girl on the buttocks and offering information on AIDS education that was inappropriate, according to administration officials.

Duncum denied the allegations of touching the girls. He said he did answer questions on AIDS asked by students following an assembly that concerned AIDS. "This class is Life Management Skills, which goes into everything," he said. "The girls came back (from the assembly) and asked questions and I gave them some Duncum, who retained an Austin law firm, said he does not know yet whether he will consider filing a lawsuit. "My attorneys are handling everything right now.

Duncum said the hearing scheduled for Monday, which was postponed, was not at his request. "I never requested to be on the agenda or anything like Singleton said last month that the issue would continue into this months's board meeting. Principal Richard Gipson said then, "I think he (Duncum) might be entitled to some sort of hearing."

World Court rejects appeal

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) -The World Court today rejected Libya's appeal to ban U.S. and British military or economic action to force it to surrender two suspects in the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103.

The decision came in two parallel cases brought by Libya in an apparent attempt to head off the imposition of U.N. Security Council sanctions on Wednesday.

Libya could not take the Security Council to the U.N. court, which only hears cases between sovereign nations, so it filed appeals aimed at the United

The two Western powers are trying to force Col. Moammar Gadhafi's government to give up two suspected Libyan intelligence agents indicted in the 1988 bombing of the Pan Am jumbo jet over Lockerbie, Scotland. The bombing killed 270 people. The World Court issued its ruling after Libya put forth an eleventh hour proposal Monday aimed at forestalling the U.N. sanctions. It offered through the Arab League to have the Flight 103 suspects tried in Malta, a Mediterranean island nation with close ties to Tripoli, but diplomats said the Security Council was unlikely to accept the

The president of the court, Shigeru Oda of Japan, said the Flight 103 case was already being dealt with sufficiently by the Security Council, which he said took precedence.

Oda said the court voted 11-5 in both of Libya's cases, finding that a 1971 international convention governing civil aviation did not mandate the protections sought by Gadhafi.

Libya's Belgian lawyer, Jean Salmon, said: "This ruling places the Security Council above the World Court. It's a very sad ruling; it's the Security Council

Bank cuts prime to 6.25 percent

NEW YORK (AP) — Analysts looked to other banks to follow the lead of Chemical Banking Corp. and cut their prime lending rate to 6.25 percent. The nation's third-largest banking company on Monday lowered its prime rate a quarter percentage point, effective immediately, for both Chemical Bank and Manufacturers Hanover Trust, which Chemical Banking Corp. acquired last year.

The move followed the Federal Reserve Board's decision Thursday to cut the federal funds rate, the interest on overnight loans between banks.

No other major bank immediately followed Chemical's move, but some analysts said they expected other institutions to do so eventually.

"With the lower short-term interest rates and lower (certificate of deposit) rates, banks might be in little bit better condition, profit-wise, to swallow a reduction in the key rate," said Carol Stone, senior economist for Nomura Securities International Inc. If the other banks follow suit, the prime will be at its lowest level since

The prime rate is watched closely because bankers use it as a basis for determining many types of fixed- and adjustable-rate loans

The last cut in the prime was on Dec. 20, when banks lowered the rate a full point to 6.50 percent.

Heart care bias?

Studies suggest women receive poorer care

DALLAS (AP) - Women with heart trouble are treated less aggressively than men because they often are too old or ill for risky procedures, not because of sex bias, two studies suggest.

However, two other studies came to opposite conclusions: Even when they are the same age and condition as male heart victims, women are less likely to receive the most up-to-date

Statistics clearly show women are treated less aggressively for heart problems. The question is why. And the conflicting results of the latest round of studies demonstrate the difficulty in sorting this out.

The subject received prominent attention at the annual meeting of the American College of Cardiology, which began

Among those who believe sex bias is a factor include Dr. Bernadine Healy, a cardiologist who heads the National Institutes of Health. She has called it the "Yentl syndrome," a reference to Isaac Bashevis Singer's short story about a young woman who had to disguise herself as a man to study the Talmud.

Women are less likely than men to receive one of the most important heart tests - the angiogram. These X-ray movies, taken by releasing dye into the heart, are used to determine whether blockages in arteries need to be fixed. When serious blockages are found, people often undergo angioplasty, which uses a balloon to clear the arteries, or coronary bypass operations. Women are less likely to receive either of these treatments.

However, people who are older or have severe heart disease or complications are also less likely to have these demanding tests and procedures. All the studies asked whether factors of age and complications could explain the differences between men and Women who suffer their first heart attack are typically 10 years older than men.

"It's a truly complex issue," said Dr. Bernard J. Gersh of the Mayo Clinic, coauthor of one of the studies. "We are not ready yet to make an indictment."

Among the studies presented: Dr. Vivek K. Varma and colleagues from the University of Alabama reviewed the records of 1,012 men and women hospitalized with heart attacks. While the women received fewer procedures, the difference could be explained entirely by their greater age, more severe heart disease and complications such as diabetes and high blood pressure.

Dump to be built in West Texas?

SIERRA BLANCA (AP) - A state lawmaker told West Texans he believes a low-level radioactive waste dump will be built near here, despite residents' opposition.

State Rep. Pete Gallego, D-Alpine, said Monday the only chance of stopping the dump is opposition from Mexico.

This dump site is something that, chances are — if I was a betting man - is here.' Gallego said.

The state has purchased a 16,000-acre ranch about five miles southeast of Sierra Blanca to build a disposal site for low-level radioactive waste. The waste would come from nuclear power plants, hospitals and universities and some industry.

Sierra Blanca is about 75 miles east of El Paso.

The proposal has drawn opposition from those who want the site kept out. Residents have created a group dubbed "Save Sierra Blanca."

"I wish I could stand here in front of you and say I'm going to fix it, but it's not that easy, Gallego said. "Many of the bat-tles have already been fought."

Gas leak leads to evacuation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) -About 430 elementary school pupils were evacuated from their classrooms Monday after a construction accident caused a natural gas leak.

A backhoe doing construction work in front of Henry B. Gonzalez Elementary School on the city's west side smashed into a natural gas meter about 2:40 p.m., prompting the evacuation.

Vice Principal Frank Gonzalez said students left their classrooms in an orderly fashion and followed instructions they had learned in evacuation drills. Nobody was injured. "The children were very cooperative," he said. "It's normal for them to follow procedures.

Gonzalez said no gas smell was evident inside the school, although the smell could be detected outdoors and the hissing sound of the leak could be heard.

City Public Service workers quickly capped the leak. By then it was time for dismissal, so students were sent home, Gonzalez said.

and his former attorney in August. The officer wasn't seriously hurt. In December, Douglas was ordered to perform community service at a women's shelter after he pleaded no contest to assaulting

Officials expect low vote turnout

AUSTIN (AP) — State election officials were predicting a low turnout for today's congressional and legislative runoffs.

Katy Davis, spokeswoman for Secretary of State John Hannah, estimated that about 8 percent to 10 percent of Texas' nearly 8 million registered voters may go to the polls. There are no statewide elections on the ballot, she said. "Most of the runoff races are very low-profile, with a few exceptions," she added. Ms. Davis said turnout for the March 10 primary election was 28.7 percent, Democrats and Republicans combined.

The runoffs are for races with no outright winners in the primary. Victors advance to the November general election ballot.

Races include three congressional runoffs. Houston Democrats will choose a nominee for the new 29th District, one of three created after the 1990 census. It was regarded as one likely to elect a Hispanic. Ben Reyes, a Houston city councilman, faces state Sen. Gene Green in the race. The winner faces Republican Clark Kent Ervin, a former White House aide, in

The Dallas-Fort Worth area runoffs have small businessman Phillip Bielamowicz and Steve Masterson, trust administrator for a law firm, fighting for the GOP nomination to meet Democratic Rep. Martin Frost in the redrawn 24th District.

A Republican match between former sportscaster Chip Taberski and businessman Pat O'Rourke, former county judge, is the third congressional race, in El Paso.

The runoff's winner challenges five-term Democratic Rep. Ron Coleman in a race likely to be influenced by Coleman's writing 673 overdrafts at the House bank.

But with the 1978 divorce of the queen's sister Princess Margaret, the royals joined the 20th century's statistics of the broken family.

Margaret was granted her divorce from Lord Snowdon with surprisingly little controversy. It was an astonishing change in attitudes from 1954, when she wished to marry a divorced man - Peter Townsend. The archbishop of Canterbury joined in that debate, which raged for months before Margaret finally gave up the

But now Anne can divorce Mark Phillips, her husband of 18 years. Andrew and his wife Sarah can plan a legal separation. Sadness has replaced scandal.

For the monarch, the temporal head of the Church of England, divorce remains unthinkable.

It was not always so. Henry VIII set a royal marriage record unlikely to be equaled. He divorced his first wife in 1534, breaking with the Roman Catholic Church in the process and setting himself up as head of a Protestant Church

In his pursuit of a male heir, Henry remarried five times. of England.

Wife two, Anne Boleyn and wife five, Catherine Howard, were beheaded on charges of adultery.

Wife three, Jane Seymour, died 12 days after bearing Henry's only son, Edward VI who was nine when he inherited the throne and died of tuberculosis six years later. Henry's last wife, Catherine

Parr, outlived him. It was 250 years before the royal family found itself again in such marital turmoils, with George Augustus Frederick, Prince of Wales and eldest son of King George III.

A dandy, a spendthrift and something of a charmer, the prince flung himself into a series of passionate amours from the age of 17. In 1784 he pursued the twice-widowed Roman Catholic Maria Fitzherbert, and in the face of her unyielding virtue, secretly married her.

The marriage was illegal because heirs to the throne were not allowed to marry Catholics. So when the prince's debts became intolerable he felt free to shore up his financial position by marrying Princess Caroline of Brunswick, his coarse but jolly German cousin, whom he had

After he did, he slumped in a corner and said, "I am not well. Pray get new a glass of brandy.

They were married April 8, 1795, the prince heavily fortified with drink, and on Jan. 7, 1796 had a daughter Charlotte. They separated the same year.

George carried on his affairs, turning public opinion in favor of his wife. In 1820 he tried to dissolve the marriage by accusing her of adultery, but the case was abandoned.

During the 64-year reign of George's niece Victoria, the royal family achieved rock-solid respectability.

But Queen Victoria's son Albert Edward - later King Edward VII - maintained "intimate friendships" with a series of women all his adult life.

He had one brush with the divorce courts, in 1870.

Lady Harriet Mordaunt, in the process of losing her mind, told her husband she had committed adultery with several men including the prince. Letters from the prince to the lady were Mordaunt sued for divorce. Edward protested his innocence. The petition was dismissed when Lady Mordaunt was judged insane.

Edward's grandson, King Edward VIII, nearly cracked the royal foundations in the 1930s when he determined to marry the twice divorced American Wallis Simpson Parliament insisted the king could not marry a divorcee, and the king abdicated in 1936 to marry the woman he loved.

Chicago flood

City employees knew of dangerous leak

Flood causes evacuation

CHICAGO (AP) - City employees knew days and possibly weeks ago about a leak that apparently let river water flood old rail tunnels and bring downtown to a halt, the mayor said. "These people will be held accountable," he

Workers dumped tons of dirt, gravel and cement into the Chicago River and plugged the hole Monday night, but the Chicago Loop — the heart of downtown - was without electricity today while the labyrinth of tunnels was drained and wires were dried.

Tens of thousands of people were evacuated Monday after the water gushed through a breach in a tunnel below the river and coursed through the turn-of-the-century passages once used to deliver mail, coal and merchandise.

"We arrived in Chicago for some urban excitement. Well, we're getting it," said Anne DeCarlis of Gainesville, Fla., who was honeymooning with her husband, Nick They had to move to another hotel from the darkened Palmer House Hilton, where guests wandered in the lobby, their way lighted by flourescent batons.

In the basement of the Cook County Building, workers scrambled to save thousands of birth, death and marriage certificates, some dating to the 1870s. Office workers had to walk down flight after flight of stairs to leave skyscrapers. Fish were seen in the rising water in the restaurant area of the State of Illinois Building.

The flooding closed the Chicago Board of Trade and the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, the world's Navy Pier changes. The Mercantile Exchange was to reopen today; the Board of Trade was expected to remain closed. No injuries were reported.

At a news conference late Monday, Mayor Richard M. Daley said city employees knew about a leak for "a number of days or a number of weeks."

'These people are going to be held accountable. Each and every of those persons who had information will be accountable to me and to the people of the city of Chicago," he said. "Individuals did drop the ball."

Daley wouldn't say who knew about the leak. He said he assumed that the leak was responsible for the flood.

Daley said he and Gov. Jim Edgar would seek federal relief. main futures and options ex- There was no immediate damage

Authorities planned to drain the old freight tunnels by drilling a hole where the system crosses a recently built flood-drainage tunnel system. The drilling could take a week, officials said.

The Army Corps of Engineers lowered the level of the river, which is connected by a series of locks to Lake Michigan, to lessen the push of water.

The evacuation threw downtown into disarray. Traffic was snarled, and commuters jammed trains and buses in an early rush hour. Basements in nine buildings had as much as 30 feet of water. There was no ground-level flooding, but some buildings pumped water from their basements into the

"It's a feeling of a sinking ship," said Manuel DePara, a lawyer who walked down 21 flights. "First the secretaries left. Then the associates left. And finally the principals."

"We can't get to our appointment book, we can't get to our phone numbers, and we have to have our taxes in by the 15th," said Julie Steinberg, office manager for two oral surgeons. "I don't know what we're going to do about this."

"I knew there were big problems when we got reports of fish in basements. That's when the full brunt hit," said Matt Rodriguez, whose appointment Monday as city police superintendent was overshadowed by the flood.

The tunnels, which run for more than 50 miles beneath downtown, were used by electric rail cars from 1906 to the late 1950s.

Titanic sank 80 years ago

WEYMOUTH, England (AP) -The message from Capt. Arthur Rostron of the Cunard liner Carpathia to The Associated Press in New York condensed great drama into few words:

"Titanic struck iceberg sunk Monday 3 am 41.46 N 50.14 W. Carpathia picked up many passengers. Am proceeding New York. Captain

The Morse code message, relayed by the Carpathia's office in New York, is among more than 100 signals displayed in the English south coast resort of Weymouth recalling the disaster of April 14,

"We reproduced the message to AP as a postcard, and also enlarged it for framing, because it is so dramatic and really tells the story in a few words," said exhibit organizer Brian Cooper.

Titanic societies in the United States, Britain, Ireland, South Africa, Norway and New Zealand are recalling the disaster this month with lectures, exhibitions and old newsreels.

"The Titanic is still making waves. The world could not believe it when it happened and has been fascinated by it ever since," the Titanic's last trip, from cheerful greetings as the ship set off from Southampton for New York on April 10, to the desperate appeals from relatives for news after reports four days later that the great liner had been holed by ice. The Titanic was the first passenger liner to use the new SOS distress message, easily two other women have given rise to recognizable in Morse because it a skeptical refrain heard Monday was simply three dots, dashes and three dots.

The Titanic's sister ship, the Olympic, was more than 500 miles away but heard the SOS and informed other ships, telling them Titanic had said: "We have struck an iceberg.

Then the Olympic reported the Titanic as saying it was putting passengers off in small boats in clear and calm weather. After that the Titanic fell silent.

Among those lost was its captain, Edward Smith, and U.S. millionaires Col. John Jacob Astor, mining magnate Benjamin Guggenheim, Isidore Straus of Macy's and Pennsylvania Railroad vice president J.B. Thayer.

Jerome Dennis, 25, of East Orange was arraigned Monday on charges of murdering five women and attempting to murder two others from this town. He also was charged with sexually assaulting three of the slaying victims.

Dennis, who covered his face with his hands throughout his court appearance, was jailed on $2 million bail.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Abortion foes are holding training sessions in passive resistance. Abortion-rights forces, meanwhile, are teaching volunteers how to run a blockade.

Both sides say they'll be ready when Operation Rescue launches large-scale demonstrations at Buffalo's abortion clinics beginning Monday.

The national anti-abortion group said the protests will be patterned after the seven-week siege of Wichita, Kan., clinics last summer that resulted in 2,600 arrests. Both sides expect thousands of people to come to Buffalo

"This a critically volatile situation," said Isabel Marcus, an attorney for the Pro-Choice Network of Western New York. "All you need is one provocateur in the crowd and the whole thing is going to explode.

Anti-abortion organizers are working out of a suburban church, training people in civil disobedience.

"They've never been able to keep the abortion mills open when we come," Operation Rescue founder Randall Terry said.

Abortion-rights activists are operating out of a room in a YMCA, its walls papered with posters reading "You're Not in Kansas Anymore." They are holding ses-demonstrators.

"We have a responsibility to defend these clinics," said Sharon

Fawley, a leader of Buffalo United for Choice, a group formed after Operation Rescue announced it would target the city Mayor James Griffin, an abor-

Using specialists more expensive

Research published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association demonstrates what many medical experts had long suspected: that Americans pay a big price for a medical profession top-heavy with specialists.

Even after adjusting for the different age and medical conditions of patients, the new study, conducted by researchers at Rand Corp., UCLA and elsewhere, shows that specialists are far more likely than family practitioners or general internists to order tests, prescribe drugs or hospitalize patients.

Similarly, doctors receiving fee-for-service payments were more likely to hospitalize patients or prescribe drugs than those in health maintenance organizations.

The final stage of the study, measuring health outcomes, has yet to be published, but other research has shown little evidence that more tests and hospitalization yield better results.

The study parents additional data that helps explain why U.S. health costs are so high. In Canada and Germany, where care is less expensive and the population healthier, more than half the doctors are general practitioners; in the United States, by contrast, only one in eight is a generalist.

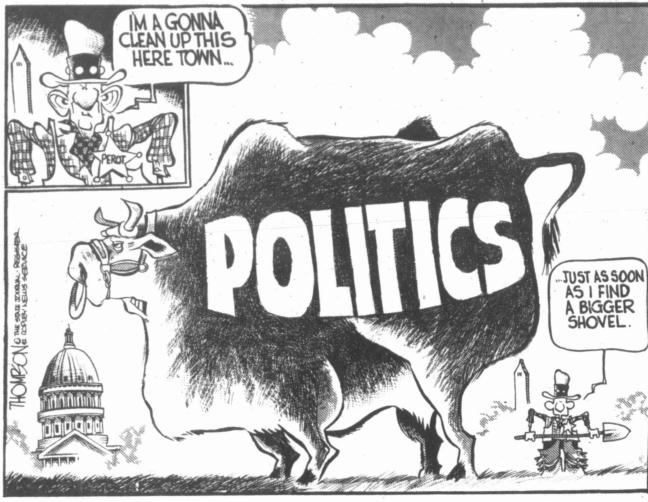

Specialists tend to use more resources in treating patients and are paid more.

The new evidence makes even more dismaying the continuing decline in the proportion of medical students training to be primary-care doctors. Aware of the cost advantages of using general practitioners, many prepaid health plans are requiring patients to have a primarycare physician who acts as their gatekeeper to other medical services. With primary-care physicians in too short supply, there is a growing crush at the doctor's office, which makes life more difficult for patients and physicians alike, and access to care more problematic.

Encouraging more doctors to practice general medicine belongs high on the health-care agenda. The recent reform of the Medicare payment system, which moves dollars toward primary care, starts to reshape incentives. But more needs to be done, in state and local policy, to make training for primary-care doctors a higher priority for medical schools and their students.

A healthy society doesn't need every broken arm to be set by an orthopedist, or every case of indigestion to be treated by a gastroenterologist.

A Sunday with the In-Crowd

I have no real interest in Trends or Fads, but once in a while I read a Dallas Sunday paper to keep in touch with the In-Crowd.

In last Sunday's Automotive Section I read about the 1992 Mazda MX-5 Miata, intended, they say, for the "style-conscious" sports car buyer. It's a convertible and there was a nice color picture of the interior. It was all hard plastic and padded leather. Looked a lot like the inside of a suitcase. The big selling points here seemed to be a wood shift-knob and hand-brake

The Mazda people said, "Envious eyes followed this vehicle during our extended test drive.' I'll bet.

The Brilliant Black Miata (named for its color), has a base price of $17,050. If you want the wood shiftknob and brake-handle, you must buy Option Package C. A bargain at $1,400. Along with the knobs and some other stuff, you get stainless steel door-sill scuff plates and headrest speakers in each seat.

Just one more thing about this sports car for the style-conscious. The car's slight weight, they say, makes it "a little slippery in hard cornering." To correct this they offer "the optional limited slip differential" for only $250. Excuse me if I'm out of touch, but I don't think something called a slip differential sounds optional. They shouldn't "limit" something like that. They should throw it in for free.

Between us, my husband and I own a GMC pickup, a lawn mower master bedroom. Custom Home On and a roto-tiller. Our car is a 1977 Ford with a dent in the right side. Envious eyes don't follow us when we drive. But once I was driving home from San Angelo and hit a patch of ice on Highway 87. When my husband woke up from his nap, we were sliding broadside up the center stripe heading toward Big Spring at about 50 miles per hour. For lack of any other options, he said, "Hang on, honey," and I did.

We spun around a couple of times and came to rest down a steep embankment on the wrong side of the road Our tires never left the ground. There is nothing "slight" about our sturdy little Ford — and the slip differential must be built right in.

The Dallas paper had a hefty real estate section. Under "Sunday's Homes," the listing of the week was called Custom Home On Creek Lot. Creek lot was half an acre. Custom Home covered most of it, and I noticed in the picture that it had no screens on any of its windows. If there really is a creek nearby, they are going to need screens. But the kitchen contains a skylight, and there are built-in television cabinets in the den and Creek Lot costs $299,000. For that kind of money I'd want to see if my televisions fit their cabinets. And I'd want screens on those windows.

The Travel Section was chockfull of quaint little places where the In-Crowd can go. Guanajuato (Gwah-nah-What-o), in Mexico, sounded quaintest. This unique city is described as "stacked in a narrow river gorge like a pile of alphabet blocks." Here's what makes it so quaint to me.

Perched on a hill overlooking town is a museum for mummies. The town cemetery is overcrowded, you see, and every five years they exhume some bodies and put them on display there. Chemicals in the local soil act as preservatives that mummify the cadavers Guanajuato is the capitol of the there jokingly refer to it as Guana-Washington. They've got things a little backwards, it seems to me. In Washington they try to keep the bodies buried. The picture of the little mummy in "Travel" sort of took the edge state of Guanajuato. Tour guides off the Foods Section and I went on to Arts & Entertainment. In-Crowders are provided a wealth of things to do. Everything from symphonies and live drama, to a beer joint that features someone called Kayla Kleavage, and an upcoming exhibit at an art gallery that will feature only previously censored works of art. I put the paper aside. So much for the In-Crowd. Why don't I feel more deprived?

Yeltsin needs new name for his country

If Boris Yeltsin hopes to get any serious aid from the rest of the world he's going to have to change the name of his country to something else. The present one, Commonwealth of Independent States, will not play in Peoria - it won't even play in Smolensk. Calling his nation the Evil Empire II would be better. At least people could say it.

One of the reasons the present name doesn't work is that nobody has been able to write a national anthem for it - although, heaven knows, many have tried.

Sergei Kampinsky showed me a piece that he has worked on. The lyrics went as follows:

Oh, Commonwealth, my Commonwealth, I love your Independent States as well as your caviar from the Black

I'm coming home, Mother Commonwealth, to the place where I belong I'll stand in line for you

And die for you and the tall golden wheat from Nebraska.

To arms, to arms - we fight the wicked foe. Lenin falls, and Stalin rolls over knowing that the Independent States are hanging tough and (Sing loudly) The Commonwealth keeps calling me home.

I told Sergei that it needed a little work, but his song was another example of how difficult it is to write lyrics that must include the words commonwealth, independent and

What we have to do is come up with a different name for the Commonwealth, one that can be put to music and emblazoned across a banner at a soccer game.

Another reason for the CIS to change its name is that the U.S. military cannot sell the American public on any new weapons if it keeps talking about the threat from the Commonwealth of Independent States.

It's impossible to convince our taxpayers there is a superpower named CIS that is prepared to bury

But the real urgency for the name change is not because of military considerations, but because of the upcoming Summer Olympics. The former U.S.S.R. has always produced gold medal winners, and sports commentators have never been able to say enough about the Russian athletes

If nothing is done they will have to talk about the "splendid Independent States' high jumpers and the CIS shotputters." It will be very difficult for the viewers to differentiate between the CIS and the Commonwealth athletes from Australia or New Zealand, unless they are tested.

OK, forget the Olympics. For many years American politicians of both parties have been Redbaiting as a means of getting votes. It is impossible to introduce a Red menace into a campaign when the country you are attacking is called the CIS. When Yeltsin goes to Congress and asks for money he's not going to get it because, first, they will have no idea where he is from and, second, they'll think no country that calls itself the Commonwealth of Independent States deserves a dime.

What we have to do is come up with a different name for the Commonwealth, one that can be put to music and emblazoned across a banner at a soccer game. It must have the stirring power of something like the United States of America, or Great Britain, or Sierra Leone.

It should be a name that Russians will be willing to lay down their lives for. Even the Bolshoi Ballet would sound better than what they have now.

If you have any ideas for a new name for the CIS, please send them to me and I'll see that Yeltsin gets in the next diplomatic pouch.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Orel Hershiser vs. Darryl Kile, a likely mismatch.

Right! Hershiser, the 1988 Cy Young Award winner who has been pitching the way he did back then, against a young Houston Astros pitcher who had never beaten the Dodgers.

Kile and the Astros didn't recognize the lopsided matchup. Kile struck out four and walked five before leaving in the seventh inning of an 8-3 victory Monday night that handed Los Angeles its fourth consecutive defeat.

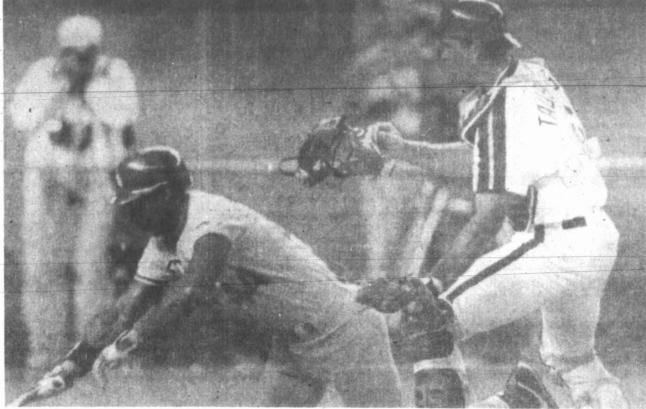

"It's a good feeling just to win a game," said Kile, who also got his first major league hit after going 0 for 38. "I didn't even think about the hit. I was just surprised that it got through. The guys have been razzing me for a year about it."

The hit, a single in a six-run first inning, really damaged Hershiser, who had won six in a row.

"When you make bad pitches, you're going to have bad results,' Hershiser said. "I made bad pitches in the first inning and it snowballed. We didn't get anybody out and those runs just kept on coming."

They began coming as Craig Biggio singled and Steve Finley walked to start the game. They both scored on Jeff Bagwell's double. After Hershiser hit Pete Incaviglia with a pitch, Ken Caminiti reached base on a fielder's choice, scoring Bagwell.

Eddie Taubensee singled and Hershiser hit Andujar Cedeno with a pitch before Kile's hit. Caminiti and Cedeno also scored on Eric Davis' throwing error.

"We've got to play defense as well as offense," Dodgers manager Tommy Lasorda said. "We've got to think defense in the field, and when we're in the dugout, we think offense.

Doug Jones earned his second save with 1 1-3 innings of relief for visiting Dodgers (2-5) into the NL West cellar.

John Smoltz lost for the first time since Aug. 15. Smoltz gave up five hits and three walks in just 2 1-3 innings, his shortest appearance since last July 6, ending his streak of seven consecutive regularseason wins.

"I beat myself," Smoltz said. "I didn't give my team a chance. That's what's disappointing."

Yankees stay unbeaten

The New York Yankees aren't about to ignore their 6-0 start. They're not about to get carried away with it, either.

The Yankees continued their finest opening to a season since 1933 with a three-run ninth inning that carried them past the Toronto Blue Jays 5-2 Monday night. New York's sixth straight victory leaves it one short of a 7-0 start back when Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were in the middle of the lineup.

The Rangers had scored 53 runs on 75 hits, including 35 for extra bases, in a club record-tying 6-1 start. Then they met Jim Abbott in their home opener

Abbott spoiled it by scattering six singles over 7 1-3 innings. He walked two and struck out four before being relieved by Bryan Harvey after giving up consecutive singles with one out in the eighth. Harvey struck out Rafael Palmeiro and Ruben Sierra on six pitches to end the threat, then worked a perfect ninth, striking out two, for his second save.

"Abbott had outstanding stuff, said Rangers manager Bobby Valentine. "We helped him by swinging at some high pitches. And Harvey had even better stuff.

Athletics 6, Royals 1 Jose Canseco hit a two-run homer that spoiled the Royals' home opener and left them as the only winless team in the majors at 0-7. Kansas City had never lost three in a row to start a season until this year.

The Tigers had started out 0-6, matching their worst beginning since they went 0-8 in 1952. They also were 0-6 in 1959.

Cleveland committed three errors in the ninth, and Dan Gladden's fourth single of the game set up the key play. Phillips' fly ball turned Belle around, and the ball bounced out of his mitt.

White Sox 1, Mariners 0 Greg Hibbard stopped Seattle on four hits for eight innings and Bobby Thigpen closed out Chicago's victory in its home opener.

A flood that shut down most of downtown Chicago did not seem to affect Comiskey Park, about five miles away. Streets and subways to the stadium were clear and there were few empty seats.

Russ Swan (0-2) lost despite allowing just three hits in 7 2-3 innings. He walked Robin Ventura with two outs in the third inning and Frank Thomas tripled for the game's only run.

Mailman dominates Warriors

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Utah Jazz and Karl Malone were careful not to say anything inflammatory after dominating the Golden State Warriors again.

The Jazz routed the Warriors 138-99 Monday night, the third time this season that Utah beat Golden State by more than 20 points. Malone had 42 points and 12 rebounds, giving him an average of 37.8 points and 11.5 rebounds in four games between the two teams this season.

For the game, Utah hit 52 percent from the floor to Golden State's 36 percent. The Jazz also outrebounded the Warriors 56-41.

The two teams are likely to meet in the second round of the Western Conference playoffs, with the homecourt advantage going to the team with the best record. The victory by the Jazz gave both teams a 52-27 record, with Utah's 3-1 advantage in the season séries giving it a tiebreaker edge

Blue Edwards scored 19 points, John Stockton had 16 points and 14 assists, and David Benoit scored a career-high 15 points on -for-7 shooting for the Jazz.

The strong sales gains from auto showrooms to department stores in January and February were seen as among the principal signs of the recession's end and the March dip did not change their view.

"The drop-off in March is minimal compared to the past few months gains," said economist Marilyn Schaja of Donaldson, Lufkin and Jenrette.

In March, colder-than-usual weather held sales back in many parts of the country, she said. Also, the later occurrence of Easter likely shifted some spring sales from March to April, she said.

Ross Perot may not be good candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ross Perot might not wear very well as a presidential candidate. A style that now comes across as colorfully cantankerous could look imperious and evasive later on.

Perot hasn't said he'll run, but that he expects to know by early June whether his volunteer supporters can get his name on all 50 state ballots for the Nov. 3 election.

there would kill his mother to get the job.' That stance is advantageous in a time of resentment against Washington and politicians in general. But nobody who doesn't want the job is pushed into competition for the White House. Modern campaigns are too demanding, and sometimes demeaning, for an unwilling draftee to tolerate. That may be wrong, but it's so.

"I'm not driven to do this," Perot told the American Society of Newspaper Editors last Friday. "Matter of fact, the more I'm in it, the less interesting it becomes."

Perot said he'd run for what he described as his millions of volunteers, if they can get his name on all ballots. "I'll do it for them, and I'll take the heat that goes with rude and adversarial.

Other politicians think the heat ill get to him.

Paul Tsongas said Perot was sounding an economic alarm not dissimilar from his own. But Tsongas said Perot's appeal will diminish because he won't be able to adapt to month after month after month of campaigning.

"People who are CEOs do not suffer fools gladly," Tsongas said as he announced he wouldn't renew an active campaign for the Democratic nomination. "Can you imagine Ross Perot dealing with this press?'

In the laughter that followed, Tsongas said any slight was unintended.

"What you have is a very good CEO who's very good at having people who say, 'Yes, sir,' or 'I quit,' " said Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga., forecasting an eventual

President Bush said he wasn't going to rate Perot's prospective challenge

"Let him do what the rest of us do, take our case to the American people," Bush said. "Let him enjoy the same scrutiny that I've had for what, 12 years?'

Perot has been speaking on national issues for years, always rejecting the idea of candidacy until now. He opened the prospect of an independent bid for the White House two months ago, saying in a television interview that he'd do it if volunteers got him on every ballot. So the heat has not been intense. He complained to one persistent editor that the questions were Nagging questions go with the campaign territory. But Perot doesn't show much patience with them. He promises results, with few specifics as to how he proposes to attain them. Perot suggests that the campaign should be a discussion of problems that need to be solved, with itemized answers to

Time Machine celebrates two years on Earth Day

By MARTHA E. FLORES Staff Writer

The Time Machine, 816 W. 42nd St., is recyclables collection central for West Texas counties, including Howard County. The recycling center is widely known throughout the southwest. In the first eight months of operation, the Time Machine collected 664,000 lbs of recyclables. The next year it had 1.3 million in receivables and is hoping to collect more than two million by the end of

"We receive 50,000 to 60,000 pounds of newspaper a month," he said. "We also collect landfill tin, which is a generic catch all for metal pipe and appliances. People can bring in their major appliances and we will take them to the landfill. It saves the person landfill fees.

"People can leave stuff off 24 hours a day," said Bill Dimler, administrator. "But they have to come during business hours to get paid for those collectables that have a market value."

Currently, the center pays $.24 a pound for aluminum, which includes screen doors, screen windows and hub cabs. The price varies with the market. In the last two years, the price has ranged from $.40 to as low as $.19.

Other collectables bought are plastic bottles at $.02 a pound and $.01 for wide type computer type. The cities of Big Spring, Mc-Camey, Ft. Stockton, Colorado City and Denver City bring considerable amounts of recyclables each month, he said. These cities with 30 others deliver recyclables to the center. Receivables, which are collected and taken to the Time Machine, are distributed to different area businesses. Permian Metal picks up tin and aluminum, which is bailed and shipped to factories, such as Alcoa in Alcoa, Tenn. and SMI in Seguine.

Alcoa buys aluminum only, which is about 90-95 percent of the beverage cans. Its recycling aluminum process takes about 90 days from the time the company purchases the metal to the time it is returned to the store, said Elton Jones, Alcoa public relations

"We begin by burning the lacquer off the cans," he said. "The aluminum is then melted in a furnace with a temperature at 1400 Fahrenheit. It is cast into ingots, which are large slabs of aluminum about 20" thick, five feet wide and 20 feet long. The ingots weigh between 25,000 to 30,000 pounds.

"The next step in the process is rolling out the ignots into giant roll of aluminum. The thickness is decreased to about an 80th of an inch. We sell the rolls to can manufacturers.

Dilmer says, "Aluminum production requires 120,000 British Thermal Units, and it only takes 19,000 BTUs to recycle the aluminum."

"Recycling has three major advantages; conserve natural resources, conserve energy and save landfill space," Bill Dimler

administrator

'Recycling has three major advantages; conserve natural resources, conserve energy and save landfill space," he said. "With recycling plastics, 90-95 percent of the energy is saved that would be used to produce plastics with raw materials. Thirty-six thousand BTUs are required to produce a pound of plastic. It takes only 1,000 BTUs to recycle a pound of plastic.

recyclables in the last seven months, said April Ferguson, coalition member. The Time Machine Recycling

Collection Center is a joint venture with the City of Odessa and Odessa Litterbusters, which is part of Keep America Beautiful and Keep Texas Beautiful. The land the operation sits on and most of the equipment was donated by the city.

In operation since 1990, the

Take it to the Time Machine

Recyclables accepted at the Time Machine Recycling Center are as follows: Plastics — number one and two, remove caps and lids and flatten containers.

Paper — white including white copy paper, stationary and 8½" X 11" computer paper and colored paper; computer paper wider than 81/2"; and cardboard.

Aluminum - rinse and squeeze cans but do not crush.

Newspaper and latex carpet backing.

Make it a habit

Everyone can recycle. One of the best things about recycling is that it empowers all of us to become part of the solution to environmental problems. • Every day 62.5 million | newspapers are printed in | America. For a Sunday edition, over 500,000 trees are distroyed. Recycle newspapers.

 Americans use over 65 billion aluminum cans each year. To make new aluminum cans at this rate, the world's supply of bauzite, an non-renewable natural resource, would be depleted by the next century. Recycle aluminum.

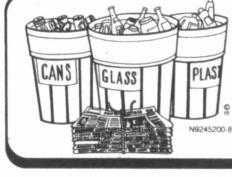

• With Americans using 2.5 million plastic bottles every hour, our landfills are rapidly filling up. Recycle plastic. The steel that is thrown away today will still be in our landfills in 150 years. Recycle steel.

Hilbert Hernandez shovels thousands of aluminum cans during his shift at the Time Machine. The aluminum collected is distributed by Permian Metal to various recovering factories. The Time Machine collected 1.3 million in recycables in 1991. They anticipate to collect more than two million in 1992.

Recycle. Recycle. Recycle. Recycle.

And do it over and over again.

Facial muscle combination trigger emotional responses

CHICAGO (AP) — The mere act slows. of making a facial expression is enough to cause the body to respond as if the emotion conveyed were real, a study says.

Robert W. Levenson, a professor of psychology at the University of California at Berkeley, said studies in two cultures show a direct connection between facial expression and physiological activity such a heart rate.

"There is some sort of pattern detector (in the brain) that says this is a fear face and it activates a fear physiology," Levenson said Tuesday at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He said the same is true of other emotions anger, disgust and sadness.

Levenson said the study was conducted by instructing subjects to make the face of an emotion without actually naming the

"You just lead them through the muscle movements," he said.

The subjects are connected to instruments that monitor heartbeat and skin temperature.

When they make the expression of fear, for example, the heart rate increases and the hands cool. In anger, the heart races and the hands warm. In sadness, the heart beat rises, and in disgust, the heart

The tests were conducted with subjects ages 16 to 90 and the reactions were the same, Levenson "Young people report feeling the emotions, but older people say they don't." he said Levenson conducted the same studies with subjects in Indonesia and the reactions were the same, suggesting the finding is universal. Earlier studies have shown that ·facial expression is closely linked to the physical reaction to emotion. Even people watching the facial expressions will automatically respond, said Levenson. "If an observer watches someone make the expression, they often will also make the expression and start feeling the emotion," he

The right side of the brain becomes more active in fear and disgust, while left-side activity increases with positive emotions, he

Such findings could be important in diagnosing and treating people

"The Ole Fishin' Dock": many of you may remember the fishing dock that was supposed to be placed in the "big spring" in Comanche Trail Park. Some of you were active in bringing about its completion. Actually, the dock never got put into the water. About the time it was completed, a 10 inch rain came, the dam burst, the water emptied, and it took two years to build a new dam. By then, the wooden decking warped and the city of Big Spring decided to modify the dock and turn it into a pavilion in the park. This pavilion will be a permanent tribute to West Texas former Prisoners of War.

The Department of Veterans Affairs issues American flags for burial or memorial purposes. The flags are used to drape the caskets of deceased veterans and are presented to the next of kin, close friend, or associate of the deceased. The "Avenue of Flags" pro-

When a flag is donated, a certificate of appreciation is presented to the donor and the flag becomes the property of the Department of Veterans Affairs. If you have a burial flag you

Technical and health care professions want you

You don't have to roll up and hibernate waiting for the economy to improve if you have qualifications for certain fields. There are some industries campaigning hard to enlist professionals and to persuade students to enroll in allied studies.

Technical and health care fields continue to be good prospects for new recruits, as they have throughout the recession.

A study at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind., predicts that 90 percent of new jobs created in the next decade will be in these professional-level service jobs. Most likely to gain will be mathematicians and computer scientists, technicians (both inside and outside the health field), health assessment and treatment workers and health service workers, according to the university's Office of Manpower Studies. Food preparation and food service occupations also are likely to expand.

Information Technology The economy's impact on the computer age is affecting the kind of information technology executive companies want, says New York search consultant John J. Davis. Demand is increasing for executives who can focus on increased productivity and smart investment in technology, he says. "And in a departure from prior years, they're looking for managers with a greater technological skill set able to Rochester Institute of Technology, for one, will be offering an information technology degree, pending state approval. The school, in upstate New York, describes the field as a "hot career" for technologists who can find ways to apply computer knowledge to everyday use in business and at home, in contrast to those focused on theory or operate with a leaner staff and to be less dependent on outside programming. Another, related "hot" area is

The health care fields, short of personnel, are offering increased pay and other inducements to bring in new recruits. Here, medical telecommunications, the school says. They estimate that 30 percent of the American workforce is directly involved with employers using telecommunications technologies, including data transmission and computer networks. RIT says its undergraduate program is preparing graduates for posts in all types and sizes of industries to design, make, market, support and manage telecommunications.

Environmental Technology

There is a growing need for people who can design and manage plans to protect the environment and deal with solid wastes, says RIT. Its program in environmental management-solid waste includes solid waste technology, economics, public administration and communications, aimed at collection, recycling, composting, incinerasity in Erie, Pa. "Most of our programs are devoted to hands-on, problem-solving experiences,' says Stanley Zagorski, associate dean of Gannon's college of science and engineering. Gannon students have been analyzing the waters of Lake Erie and Erie County streams for contiminants, for example. "They learn first-hand the effect man has on his environment through this practical exercise, and at the same time they learn standard scientific methods used in the examination of eco-systems." Students majoring in environmental sciences and engineering are finding the job market easier to crack than many of their classmates, say career services officers at Clemson University in Clemson, S.C. "Corporations must comply with the government's environmental safety regulations," says Alan Elzerman, associate professor of environmental systems engineering, assessing the opportunities. "Their product development researchers use environmental engineering and science to design new products, determine the effects of those new products and replace outdated

Nursing.

Job opportunities for nurses continue to be strong, says Dr. Luth Tenorio, chairman of the nursing department of Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, citing projections by both the Ohio Commission on nursing and the U.S. Department of Labor. The state commission wants at least 48 percent of the Ohio's nurses to have a bachelor's degree by the end of the decade; currently only about 25 percent meet that qualification.

Nursing specializations paired with management skills will be especially lucrative, says Dr. Joyce J. Fitzpatrick, dean of the Frances Payne Bolton School of Nursing at Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland. "As more innovative healthcare initiatives are required and launched in response to the healthcare crisis, nurses with management skills need to be involved in the design and management of those initiatives. This means nurses with management and business experience will be hot ticket items, and this should be an exceptionally attractive area for careerchangers with management experience," she says.

She points to starting salaries of $32,000 a year for nurses without a specialty, $70,000 for specializations such as nurse anesthetists, and six-figure salaries for healthcare managers.

And because almost all parts of the country have nursing shortages, graduate nurses can take their pick. "There is absolutely unlimited mobility. You can go anywhere anytime. You also can create work schedules that are ideal for family life and personal values," says Fitzpatrick.

A new Bolton Scholars program on her campus offers 75 percent tuition assistance, and candidates work in "hands-on, high-tech nursing" in major hospitals soon after classes start. For information about the programs, call 1 (800) 825-2540.

Occupational Therapy There aren't enough occupational therapists, either, and the American Occupational Therapy Association continues its campaign to find candidates for study. An estimated 9 million people — the disabled, those who have had critical injuries or illnesses among them - receive therapy every year, and the organization says that number will increase.

OT graduates now can expect to receive an average of four job offers within a month of graduation, and many candidates are offered sign-on bonuses and salaries in the $30,000 range or above, according to the group.

Jeannette Bair, AOTA executive director, says that the campaign is aimed not only at students but to people interested in second careers. For information about OT careers, call 1 (800) 366-9799. Orthopedic Surgeons

Because of the aging of the population in coming decades, the demand for orthopedic surgeons will rise dramatically, according to the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. Once a specialty devoted to children suffering from spine and limb deformities, orthopedists now treat patients of all ages with or without surgery for ailments of bones, joints, muscles, ligaments and nerves, including osteoporosis and back problems common to older patients.

The organization says that currently there are about 19,000 orthopedic surgeons and residents and estimates that by 2030, there must be about 28,500 — a 34 percent increase. For more information, write to the AAOS at 222 S. Prospect Avenue, Park Ridge, Ill.

Medical Physicists

Medical physicists who use radiation in therapy, such as cancer treatment, and in diagnostic imaging are another group in high demand, with salaries to match. "It's not unusual for a medical physics graduate with a master's or doctoral degree to start from $38,000 to $50,000. says George A. Sandison, director of radiation biophysics at the Indiana University Medical Center. 'With some experience, they could earn $70,000."

Sandison and Robert R. Landolt, professor of health physics at Purdue Univerity, are joint coordinators of medical physics program run cooperatively by the two as sedatives?

NEW YORK (AP) — There are some people who use antihistamines for their side effects you think you need a break, there - as sleep aids or tranquilizers, for are services available: example - rather than for their intended purpose: it's a potentially dangerous practice.

Most antihistamines are used safely and effectively to relieve symptoms of colds and allergies.

But because of legal restrictions on the sale of almost all sedatives and stimulants, some people turn to antihistamines, taking larger doses of an antihistamine to achieve a desired degree of sedation.

In a single overdose, antihistamines can cause nausea, dizziness, and impaired reaction and muscular coordination.

Although serious reactions are rare, antihistamines have been associated with urinary retention, blurred vision and anemia. The drugs may be particularly dangerous to people with glaucoma, peptic ulcer or enlarged prostate.

Generally, antihistamines are meant to be taken for seven to 10 days, not indefinitely. If cold or allergy symptoms do not respond in that time, an underlying cause that requires medical evaluation may be the problem.

Early detection best defense

Colon cancer strikes an estimated 100,000, Americans each year, and the first line of defense can be early detection and removal of intestinal polyps Polyps grow out of the intestinal wall into its interior. And there is a definite link between some kinds of polyps and colon cancer. Patients will rarely have symptoms from polyps; it's not until cancer has developed that symptoms develop.

People with a family history of polyps or with long-standing ulcerative colitis seem to be most predisposed to colon cancer.

But all men and women over 50 should be tested for colon cancer every three years - more often for people at high risk.

Screening for polyps involves viewing the intestinal wall with a flexible fiber optical instrument called a colonoscope. Screening for colon cancer also includes tests to detect blood in the stools.

Old friends have no words to console parents

DEAR ABBY: The son of our former neighbors died recently. I'll call him "John." There was no funeral service, no memorial service, and no obituary in the local newspaper.

My heart aches for John's parents. I didn't send a sympathy card, or even make a telephone call, because I was confused as to the "right" thing to do. Let me explain:

John was found guilty of murder, and he was executed by the state. I never knew him as an adult, but I remember him as a little boy who came to our house to play with our children. He was a lovable child who sang songs with our daughter and made her laugh. John's parents were decent, churchgoing people, and no one could have asked for better neighbors.

DENNIS THE MENACE

What happened later in John's life, we do not know. But I do know that his parents must have died a thousand deaths before their son was put to death.

And so, to all parents who have lost a child in this tragic way, and to all their friends - like me - who said nothing because we didn't know what to say, I'd like to tell you now, "I'm sorry." - OLD NEIGHBOR kind and compassionate person. Thank you for a very moving letter. Many parents will identify with it and find comfort and consolation in your words.

It is not too late to share your happy memories of long ago with these bereaved parents. Do not hesitate to write them a message of condolence. They need to hear what you want to share.

DEAR ABBY: I thought I'd seen everything in your column, but this problem is unique.

A little background: I'm a 48-year-old man with a 22-year-old son, whom I raised as a single parent. I thoroughly enjoyed being a parent and doing domestic chores, so I went to school last year to get my certificate as a "child DEAR NEIGHBOR: You are a care specialist" - otherwise known as a "nanny."

Frankly, I think the $2,000 in tuition was wasted. Since I graduated, I've sent out 50 resumes and made 10 to 20 phone calls a week. So far, only one person has called back. When I do get a live person instead of a recording, it's always, "Oh, we wanted a woman!" Or, "If we didn't have daughters, we might consider you" - despite the fact that the three families I've worked for have all had girls.

Abby, if women want to eliminate sexism in our culture, I think they should start at their own doorsteps. If we want our nation to become kinder and gentler, we have to accept men as caring and nurtuRig individuals.

I know you can't do anything about society's Itjitudes, but I feel better just being able to unload this. Thanks for listening. - GARY JONES, BAKERSFIELD, CALIF.

DEAR GARY: Your situation is a new twist, but "society" and our culture do not easily accept male nannies. (They should be called "mannies.") I have no doubt about your being every bit as qualified as a female for that position. Let's hope that silly prejudice is done away with soon.

FOR WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1992
HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT
YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Avoid pushing too hard for resolutions and completions; steady pressure works best. Career matters will dominate your thoughts in August. Business trends you spot then will continue through late fall. A long-sought reunion could take place during the Christmas season. Seek fresh challenges early in 1993. The key to greater public recognition is bet-ter self-promotion. The family circle will be enlarged by next spring. CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE:

actress Julie Sommars, singer Roy Clark, rock star Dave Edmonds, actress Claudia

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Brainstorming with your co-workers creates better rapport. An office romance begins to heat up. Go that extra mile for a friend who is in trouble. Finalize business deals. TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Travel could help you land new business now. Meet prospective clients face-to-face. Family life improves if you make certain compromises. A reconciliation attempt meets with success.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Working closely with VIPs could bring new financial rewards. When push comes to shove, be decisive. A festive mood helps you shine at a social event. Put your best foot forward. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Romance is in the air. Do not let a feeling of discontent get the best of you. You win approving nods from your peers and higher-ups today by saying exactly what everyone feels. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Base a decision on hard facts. You need to weigh your options carefully before changing jobs or making a new investment. A professional relationship gets off to a terrific start.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22); Move boldly into new territory. Rich business gains await. Innovative ideas attract the attention of influential people. Be very clear when giving instructions or directions to subordinates.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Curb a tendency to lock horns with your co-workers. You can have a great time if you become part of the gang. Catch up on world events.

Overseas contacts hold rich promise. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The emphasis today is on being a good listener. Avoid sounding critical. A teen-ager volunteers some interesting information. Do not betray this young person's confidences. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Hatch a get-rich-and-famous scheme now and you could lay an egg. The focus is on fun and romance, not on who is top banana.

Postpone signing a binding agreement. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Developing your creative talents should be a top priority now. Speculative financial ventures are not favored. Friends may want to participate in family activities; include them if it is convenient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You can make real headway in financial negotiations today. Inquiries yield valuable findings. Explore the world of music, dance or photography for a change of pace.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You feel most comfortable on your own ground. Conduct as much business as possible over the phone. A loved one may be unwilling to compromise on a major issue. Rethink your
