Christmas in April drive starts Saturday morning

Christmas in April will take place Saturday. Volunteers wishing to sign up may meet at the command post located at 909 S. Johnson St. at 9 a.m.

Project volunteers refurbish homes, which includes clean-up, roof repair and weatherization. Repair work also is done on electrical and plumbing.

Approximately 20 homes are scheduled for repair. About 30 volunteers are needed per house. Christmas in April supplies materials through donations, but volunteers may bring needed supplies, such as paint brushes, brooms and ladders.

Each volunteer will receive a Christmas in April cap.

Benefit game scheduled

A softball game between employees of the Big Spring Herald and KBST Radio to benefit Rudy Carpenter will be held at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Stink Creek ballfield, FM 700 and 11th Place Extension.

There is no admission to the game, but donations to help defray Rudy Carpenter's medical expenses will be accepted.

Carpenter, 29, has just returned home after hospital stays in both Dallas and Midland following an aneurysm. Carpenter, who has three children, has no medical insurance.

In addition to the Herald and KBST, the benefit is co-sponsored by 17 local and area merchants.

Tourism series on tap

Beginning Sunday, the Big Spring Herald will take a look at the tourism industry in the community in a five-part series called TOURISM IN BIG SPRING: HOW MUCH DOES IT MATTER?

While many people may think tourism has little effect on the local economy, that is not the case.

Nearly 300 jobs are tied to tourism in Big Spring and an estimated 20,000 persons visited the community for special events during calendar year 1991, spending an estimated $1.2 million.

Tourists and travelers also spent an estimated 138,000 total nights in Big Spring, generating another $2.2 million in gross taxable receipts from October 1990 through September 1991.

394 cast early ballots

No light or heavy voter turnout can be deciphered from the early voting to date, said City Secretary Tom Ferguson.

As of 5 p.m. yesterday, 394 Big Spring residents had cast votes in the mayoral and city council place 2 races, he said.

Historically, Monday and Tuesday will be heavy days for early voting. "I wouldn't be surprised if we get 200 to 300 votes in those two days alone," Ferguson said.

Voting numbers are paralleling those of recent elections and of last year's spring election, he added.

A total of 167 votes have been cast at the Howard County Clerk's Office in the Big Spring Independent School District elections and the Howard College Board of Trustees elections, said Donna Wright of the clerk's office.

College professors face possible layoff

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Howard College professors and instructors who have taught 30 years worth of Big Spring residents may soon be without work.

In a memorandum sent April 15, College President Bob Riley warned 10 of the college's tenured instructors of their possible dismissal next year.

"It is my hope that further reductions in personnel will not be required; however, I must have the flexibility to make changes needed for Howard College to remain a viable institution in service to our students.

"Your long-time commitment... will certainly be considered in the decision-making process. If any of you are planning retirement at the end of fiscal year 1993 or 1994, I would appreciate your sharing that information now."

The educators mentioned have more than 20 years of cumulative teaching at Howard College and are the only remaining tenured positions at Howard College. According to sources who wish to remain anonymous, Howard College ceased granting tenure to instructors, because tenured instructors cannot be fired without due process.

According to the Howard College Instructor's Policy Manual, tenured positions can be deleted only "if declining enrollment, either actual or projected would indicate a probable reduction in staff, or if the phasing out of instructional programs requires reduction of faculty, or in cases of bonafide financial emergency."

As enrollment is up and no programs are being considered for abolition, the only criterion left to justify the terminations to the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board is the bonafide financial emergency — yet the state has not cut funds to Howard College and may not in the future, according to the Texas Legislative Budget Board.

The professors and instructors facing possible termination include Paul Ausmus, Mary Bailey, Mary Deats, Jerry Dudley, Mary Dudley, Gary Grant, Doris Huijbregtse, Susan King, David King and Larry Reese.

In traditional college settings, tenured instructors are in a position of leadership, said Gary Grant, who has 28 years of teaching at the college.

"A possible motive (for the threatened termination) is because some of us have rubbed Riley's fur the wrong way," Grant said.

Riley has been granted free reign by the board of trustees, who have not voted down a Riley decision in his eight years at the institution, according to Herald archives.

Drama instructor Bill Doll and a group of instructors once approached the board of trustees asking them to intervene in a matter of importance to

Counts may support plan

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Texas needs to stop relying on property taxes to create a balanced funding system for school districts, said Rep. David Counts of Knox County while in Big Spring Thursday.

But if lawmakers have to use property taxes to redistribute wealth to poor school districts in accordance with a 1989 Texas Supreme Court ruling, Counts said he may support the governor's plan for state pooling of business property taxes.

"The governor's plan is probably easiest to pass," said Counts, who will join other legislators in an expected special session next month to again look at school funding. Counts will represent Big Spring in 1993 under a redistricting plan.

Business groups reportedly support Gov. Ann Richards proposal, called the Good School Plan, to pool business property taxes owed to schools based on rates set by the Legislature. The number of bills processed would be reduced and business owners could better predict upcoming taxes.

Taxes on homes and other property would still be collected by local school districts. Businesses would still have to pay city and county taxes due to each local entity.

"If the Good School Plan is applied using existing law and formulas, the only real change is the way in

LULAC district convention convenes Saturday

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

The League of United Latin Americans Citizens District 5 will hold its annual convention at the Dora Roberts Community Center Saturday from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. with a dance following at 8 p.m.

"The convention's purpose is to elect new district officers, which will represent us at the state level," said LULAC council 4375 president Marguerette Davis. "It also keeps us informed of what other councils are involved in. And by getting together with the other councils, we learn through speaker presentations from government officials as well as LULAC representatives."

The district is comprised of 14 councils throughout West Texas, including the two councils from Big Spring. Other councils which will be represented includes Midland, Odessa, Abilene, Sweetwater, Colorado City, San Angelo, Runnels County, Crane, Monahans and Winters.

Sixty-75 people are expected to attend, Davis said.

Registration will begin at 9 a.m. At the conclusion of registration, Davis will do the official opening followed by Mayor Max Green welcoming the councils to Big Spring.

Throughout the convention, speakers will give presentations on issues that concern the Hispanic community, such as local representation, education and civil rights, Davis said.

State Rep. Eddie Lucio (D-Brownsville) will speak at 11 a.m. He will address issues that affect the Hispanic community, she said.

At 11:30 a.m., UTPB Professor Augustine Ruiz Escanlantes will give a presentation on bilingual education. Lunch will follow with Richard Sambrano, community relations specialist for the Department of Justice, speaking on civil rights and the Department of Justice's role.

After lunch, Chevo Morales, LULAC

1992 state convention chairman, will speak about the state convention in Lubbock June 3-7 and the national convention in San Antonio July 4-5. Morales will also speak on priority issues in the district, said Davis.

At 3 p.m. LULAC attorney Roland Rios will speak on the issue of redistricting by citing from some recent cases.

In the evening, a dance will complete the convention with music by Eddie Barrella and the Silver Bullets. Tickets are $8 per person and $15 per couple.

The convention is open to the public with the exception of the elections.

Study: 1 in 8 women have been raped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 12.1 million American women — one in eight — have been raped at least once and almost 62 percent of the assaults occurred when they were minors, a new study says.

The National Women's Study survey, financed by the government's National Institute on Drug Abuse, also said 683,000 American women were raped in 1990, a vastly higher number than those in other crime reports.

"Rape does seem to be a tragedy of youth in America," said Dean Kilpatrick, who directed the research and is co-author of the report, "Rape in America."

Twenty-nine percent of the rapes occurred when the women were 10 years old or younger and 32 percent happened from ages 11 to 17, according to the survey on which much of the report was based.

Kilpatrick would not estimate how many minors were raped in 1990. The report said that, given the other survey findings, the 683,000 rapes of adult women "probably constitute well less than half of all the rapes that were experienced by all Americans of all ages and genders" in 1990.

The National Women's Study, involving female interviewers talking by telephone to about 4,000 women, also found that:

—Of the estimated 12.1 million women raped, about 6.8 million were attacked once. An additional 4.7 million were raped more than once; 600,000 were unsure of the number of attacks.

—Twenty-nine percent of perpetrators were non-relatives known to the victim, such as neighbors or friends; 22 percent were relatives other than immediate family; 11 percent were fathers or stepfathers; 10 percent were boyfriends or ex-boyfriends and 9 percent were husbands or ex-husbands. Three percent were not sure or refused to answer.

—Seventy percent of victims were unharmed.

Groups rushing to Guadalajara's aid

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican and U.S. humanitarian groups have joined together to rush everything from tents to teddy bears to survivors of the deadly sewer explosions in Mexico's second-largest city.

Texas architects offered their help in rebuilding the section of eastern Guadalajara that was nearly destroyed by Wednesday's series of explosions. A grocery chain in San Antonio offered to fill a caravan of trucks with food and water for the trip to Guadalajara.

The private U.S. relief organization Americas on Thursday sent a plane carrying 85,000 pounds of bandages, medication and materials for temporary shelters to the city, where at least 176 people were killed.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari urged countrymen to show unity "with the victims of this tragedy, for the families driven from their homes and other goods ... and for those who lost their lives in this episode, which is so painful for all Mexicans."

Guadalajarans joined in to donate blood, take in homeless relatives and help rescue crews and those affected by the disaster salvage what they could from the debris. Reporters said the spirit of charity was similar to that shown by Mexicans in the 1985 Mexico City earthquake.

Man strips, quacks after denied loan

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An upset bank customer was arrested after he stripped off his clothes and quacked like a duck when his loan application was denied.

Police said the unidentified 40-year-old man stripped to his birthday suit after he was denied a loan Thursday afternoon.

"It was a first for us," said Diane Vaughan, a spokeswoman for Bank One.

The naked man was seated in a vice president's office in the loan department when police arrived.

The man replied with duck quacks when police tried to question him, officials said.

The man violently head-butted the window frame of a police vehicle door and kicked the other door with his feet, causing $1,000 damage, officers said.

President hails decathlon champs

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's words of praise still ringing in their ears, the newly-anointed U.S. Academic Decathlon champions said it's true — studying does pay.

In a Rose Garden ceremony Thursday, Bush hailed the accomplishments of the nine-member team from J. Frank Dobie High School in Houston, crowned national champions a little less than two weeks ago.

Bush, who claims Texas as his home, delighted in the fact that a Houston team won the scholastic competition.

"It's a great feat for my hometown — the highest score, I'm told, in the history of the competition," Bush said.

The team from the Pasadena Independent School District beat out contestants from 47 other states and the District of Columbia in the national event.

Accused rapist pleads no contest Thursday

KERRVILLE (AP) — Jimmy Wayne Wooten finally knows his fate.

Next month, it will be official: 15 years in a Texas prison.

The 42-year-old Lubbock man accused of raping and impregnating his retarded sister-in-law pleaded no contest Thursday under a plea agreement specifying the 15-year prison term.

"We feel like justice has been served," said Lubbock County

District Attorney Travis Ware. "The defendant will be behind bars."

State District Judge J. Blair Cherry Jr. of Lubbock accepted the plea and found Wooten guilty. He set sentencing for May 11 in Lubbock. Wooten remains free on bond until then.

The plea came after a morning of delays because of problems involving two jurors selected for the trial. The case was moved from Lubbock to Kerrville because extensive pre-trial publicity made it difficult to seat a jury in Lubbock.

Wooten, with his tearful wife Dori at his side, hurried from the courtroom shortly after the trial was adjourned. The couple declined to speak with reporters.

"The Wootens are very, very tired of this process. It has gone on for a couple of years," defense attorney Sam Ogan said. "They're both feeling pretty emotional right now."

Ogan said the Wootens were glad the case has been decided and want to get on with their lives. Wooten had maintained his innocence, and his wife stood behind him.

"It's been a roller coaster for Dori, an emotional roller coaster," Ogan said. "She has always expressed her belief and faith in her husband."

Wooten was accused of raping and impregnating 34-year-old

Debra Lynn Thomas, Dori Wooten's sister who was a Lubbock State School resident at the time of the alleged sexual assault. Ms. Thomas often visited the Wootens at home on weekends.

Ms. Thomas delivered a son Jan. 1, 1991, by Caesarean section. She has the IQ of a 2-year-old and does not realize she has given birth.

The Associated Press does not usually identify rape victims.

Lawyer: no settlement in school finance case

AUSTIN (AP) — An attorney for taxpayers challenging use of the current school finance system in federal court says his settlement offer is not dead, but the state has not yet acted on it.

Lawyer Jim Keahey said he filed a report on settlement negotiations Thursday with U.S. District Judge James Nowlin. The judge on April 10 told lawyers to take about two weeks to see if they could come to an agreement in the case.

That two weeks is up Friday. "It (the settlement offer) is not dead. It's just that they could not accept or reject it by the court's date," Keahey said. "The attorney general ... is working on it and is continuing to talk with the (legislative) leadership."

Keahey said he expects Nowlin to read his report. "I can't predict what he'll do next."

Gray McBride, spokesman for Attorney General Dan Morales, said he would not comment on the substance of settlement negotiations.

"We've had some discussions, and there may be an opportunity to continue them at some point in the future," McBride said.

The Texas Supreme Court in January ruled unconstitutional the school finance system creating 188 county education districts, or CEDs. Each CED is made up of one or several counties and levies property taxes for public education.

The state court ruled that the system violates the Texas Constitution by imposing a statewide property tax and by levying a property tax without voter approval.

However, the court gave lawmakers until June 1, 1993 to fix the system, allowing 1991 and 1992 taxes to be collected.

Taxpayers then sued in federal court, saying collection of an unconstitutional tax, without opportunity for a refund, violates their due process rights under the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Nowlin has certified an estimated 8 million-plus Texas taxpayers as a class of plaintiffs in the case. He has said the classes of defendants and plaintiffs are certified for the 1992 CED taxes, which are due in January 1993.

Keahey said taxpayers proposed a settlement in which the CED tax would be repealed and a constitutional funding system put in place. In return, he said they offered to ask the judge to rule that taxpayers as a class forgo their claims for refunds of 1991 taxes.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball pitcher Nolan Ryan says he sympathizes with basketball star Magic Johnson, who retired from the Los Angeles Lakers after learning he had the AIDS virus. But he says Johnson knew the risks of promiscuous sex. "I have a problem with making a hero out of him because of AIDS," Ryan writes in his biography. "Magic wasn't really an innocent victim, because of his lifestyle." Johnson has said he contracted the virus through unprotected sex.

Ryan also says he agrees with tennis star Martina Navratilova, who said if Johnson were a woman who contracted the AIDS virus through promiscuous sex, fewer people would view him as a hero. Ryan, who pitches for the Texas Rangers, is baseball's all-time strikeout leader. The book, "Miracle Man," is due in stores Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — In the latest round of Trump: The Divorce, real estate developer Donald Trump is threatening to withhold this year's $350,000 alimony payment to ex-wife Ivana.

At a court hearing Thursday, Trump's lawyer said Mrs. Trump violated an agreement to keep quiet about Trump and their marriage when she said in an interview that she had gotten her ex-husband's "last $10 million."

Attorney Judd Burstein says that means Trump doesn't have to make this year's payment, due in August.

Trump said later he has always paid $300,000 in child support and will continue to do so. A message left for Mrs. Trump wasn't immediately returned.

Mrs. Trump agreed to the gag clause in exchange for a settlement worth nearly $25 million.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A man who paid full price for tickets to a Frank Sinatra and Shirley Maclaine concert is suing an arena management company he says cut ticket prices to ensure a full house.

Ralph O. Wilson II claims Ogden Entertainment Services Inc. let thousands of people pay $25 to $75 for tickets to Thursday night's concert, then cut prices by half for 50 Evansville employers.

The lawsuit, filed Tuesday, asks the court to order Ogden to refund half the cost of each ticket to people who paid full price.

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Television evangelist Pat Robertson has joined with the United Mine Workers to battle hunger in the coal fields of West Virginia. Robertson and UMW President Richard Trumka were in Charleston on Thursday to begin the distribution of 221,000 pounds of beans and potatoes.

About $400,000 worth of groceries were passed out by community groups, Robertson said.

CICERO, Ind. (AP) — Jeanne White, mother of teen-age AIDS crusader Ryan White, plans to marry a neighbor who befriended her late son.

Ms. White said Thursday she is engaged to Roy Ginder, a construction worker. They plan to marry in December, she said.

"I never thought there would be another man in my life, but now there is," Ms. White said.

What About Taxes?

As someone who owns a home and a business, I certainly do not want to see our property taxes go up. I will do my best to hold the line on taxes. I feel that the key to raising the revenue necessary to provide adequate city services is economic development, and this should be a major focus of our city government.

President wants blame fixed for explosion

Accident scene

Police officers survey the scene after a car, driven by an elderly woman, crashed onto a crowded sidewalk in New York's Washington Square Park Thursday. Police officials say the accident left at least three people dead and some 25 injured. The covered body of one of the victims rests on a railing in the foreground.

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP) — Under orders from the president to fix blame for a series of deadly sewer-line explosions, investigators questioned officials into the early-morning hours today, trying to determine whether criminal negligence played a part.

Two days after the blasts, the casualty count remained uncertain. The state attorney general, Leonardo Larios Guzman, said the death toll was 202; the Red Cross said 184, and the state health minister said 176.

Guadalajara Mayor Enrique Dau Flores and his sewer system chief, Gualberto Limon asked Thursday for leaves of absence during the investigation, Jalisco state officials said. The mayor said he wanted investigators to be able to freely examine all circumstances and decision-making surrounding the disaster.

Half the victims were children, said Jalisco state's health minister, Dr. Palemon Rodriguez. Many small wooden coffins were among about 120 lowered Thursday into graves in one cemetery near the disaster site in Mexico's second-largest city.

At a makeshift morgue in a sports stadium, one man picked up the body of a child and put it into a tiny white coffin. Relatives wailed as they looked at lists with the names of the dead.

"It's the biggest tragedy that we've ever had in Guadalajara," said volunteer Ralph Espinoza. "It's out of Dante, you know, the Inferno."

Jalisco Gov. Guillermo Cosio Villegas said 1,361 people were injured and about 15,000 left homeless. The first damage estimate was $300 million.

State officials promised to give those left homeless priority in new government-financed housing. Mexican and U.S. relief organizations joined to rush aid to the disaster victims. One group of Mexico City street children donated teddy bears they had received as presents.

Authorities said the likely cause of at least nine blasts that ripped through Guadalajara's eastern Reforma district was either volatile hexane leaked by a cooking-oil company, or gasoline leaked or dumped from tanks owned by the state oil company, Pemex. Officials from both companies denied responsibility.

A chemical engineer who heads a state team of investigators, Esequiel Mendez, said late Thursday that Pemex was one of the main suspects. If the investigation determines that Pemex was to blame, high-level federal and state officials may be fired.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, at a news conference on Thursday afternoon, gave his attorney general 72 hours to determine if the disaster "could have been avoided and as a consequence, if there was criminal negligence of public servants."

Before the explosions, residents had complained about strong gasoline-like fumes in the area.

Salinas apparently is attempting to avoid possible political fallout from the disaster. His party, which has won every election since 1929 despite ongoing complaints of corruption, suffered after accusations of inaction following the 1985 Mexico City earthquake in which 10,000 people died.

Questioning of top municipal officials began Thursday and continued early today.

The governor had earlier blamed city officials for failing to act on residents' complaints of strong fumes. The mayor said the sewer system chief and the fire chief sent inspectors to the scene Tuesday evening, but that they went home after assuring him that any danger was receding.

On Thursday, the mayor ordered the evacuation of a section of the Alamo district, east of the devastated district, after residents complained of fumes. Many of those left homeless or bereaved by Wednesday's explosions blamed the government.

Affidavits filed against Burger King

WASHINGTON (AP) — Affidavits filed in the government's child labor lawsuit against Burger King contend that some restaurant managers were told to take labor records home during a Labor Department enforcement sweep last month.

But a Burger King spokeswoman said the voice-mail message that contained the instructions was "taken out of context."

The documents claim the message on the company's voice-mail telephone system instructed managers of company-owned restaurants to "please make sure that all the labor manuals that you have in the restaurant are taken out."

The message refers to "that book that they keep the copies of time punches or whatever" and asks managers to "make sure that they are out of the restaurant until the labor sweep blows over."

Another message says: "Just have them remove labor manuals for the next couple of weeks. Take it home or whatever, and then when everything blows over, we can take a look at it again."

The messages referred to a three-week, nationwide, child labor enforcement sweep by the Labor Department that began during the week of March 25.

A spokeswoman at Burger King's Miami headquarters, Cori Zywotow, said the voice-mail message referred to a duplicate records book the restaurants keep.

A "very zealous employee" in the company's human resources division put out the message in response to a restaurant manager's question about the duplicate books, which Zywotow said are for "internal purposes only," she said.

"This is a duplicate book. All the information the Department of Labor needs is in the restaurant. Nothing was destroyed," she said.

She also said the government's lawsuit alleges violations that occurred before Grand Metropolitan bought Burger King from Pillsbury Co. in 1989. Since then, Burger King has had a policy against hiring anyone under 16, she said.

The department's lawsuit against Burger King, filed in March 1990, is the largest child labor suit ever filed by the department.

It charges that Burger King violated child labor laws by employing teen-agers under 16 "for more hours than permitted, during hours not permitted and in occupations not permitted."

Those under 16 are allowed to work up to three hours a day and up to 18 hours a week between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. when school is in session. When school is not in session, they may work up to eight hours a day and up to 40 hours a week. Between June 1 and Labor Day they may work until 9 p.m.

The lawsuit involves 872 of Burger King's 5,528 restaurants in the United States. Those are the restaurants that Burger King owns and operates, while the rest are franchises.

Taiwanese police disperse protesters

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Police armed with clubs and shields today dispersed 1,000 protesters, ending a six-day sit-in by demonstrators demanding the right to vote for Taiwan's president. At least 42 people were injured, one seriously.

Officials at the National Taiwan University Hospital said 24 protesters were treated for head injuries. One was in serious condition.

Police said three policemen were hospitalized in stable condition, while 15 policemen were treated for bites and bruises suffered when they tried to remove demonstrators from the Taipei Railway Station.

Traffic around the station had been paralyzed since Monday afternoon, when supporters of the Democratic Progressive Party began their sit-in.

Interior Minister Wu Poh-hsiung said the police used restraint. But the opposition party accused the police of beating protesters.

A bloodied protester is assisted away from the Taipei Railway Station by friends Friday after riot police dispersed 1,000 protesters.

More than 2,000 police officers with clubs and shields converged on the protesters at around 4:30 a.m. The demonstrators shouted "Direct Presidential Election" and "Unite for Taiwan" as they were shoved one-by-one into 22 police buses. Police later released the protesters in several Taipei suburbs.

The opposition Democratic Progressive Party, which holds 74 seats in the 402-member in the National Assembly, has accused the governing Nationalist Party of blocking political reforms as the assembly is holding a 70-day special session to debate constitutional reforms.

The governing party has shelved a proposal for direct presidential elections. Direct presidential elections have been backed by President Lee Teng-hui and other Nationalist liberals, but conservatives contend the plan gives too much power to the president and could encourage moves to declare Taiwan independent of China.

Valid concerns are being raised

A large measure of concern is being voiced throughout our community regarding proposed staff reductions at Howard College.

On Monday, members of the Board of Trustees will be asked to act on the recommendations of Howard College/SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf President Dr. Bob Riley.

Before simply approving the recommendations of their president, we would hope that board members would take a number of factors into consideration, especially concerning SWCID.

First, our deaf institution is one of only three of its kind in the United States. It is an obvious plus for our community and region.

The level of discontent of the students over the proposed termination of recruiter Bob Coltrane and the line-drawn-in-the-sand attitude of Dr. Riley in not reconsidering recommendations concerns us as citizen taxpayers.

More than two-thirds of the students have actively protested the news for more than a week... and it is obviously more than a few malcontents upset that a friend is being dismissed.

These students are members of our community — for now. They bring money to our community — for now. Because of the uniqueness of SWCID, they bring a measure of prestige to our community — for now. Do they stay?

We hope so — for their sakes and that of our community.

Other questions have been raised during the demonstrations, such as the fact that remodeling of the Dental Laboratory Technology classroom still remains to be done and that DLT, with eight students, must exist on an annual budget of $3,000.

The local DLT program is the only one of its type in the world for deaf students.

It is also disconcerting to discover that students at SWCID must survive in an environment in which a number of personnel with whom they must deal — including in the library — are not literate in American Sign Language.

Finally, students have raised questions concerning budgeting and allocation of monies. While we understand it would create a measure of work, their request for separate budgets for Howard College and SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf certainly do not seem unreasonable.

We would hope that concerned citizens will make members of the board of trustees aware of their concerns prior to Monday's meeting.

And we would hope that the trustees would take the time to analyze the recommendations for both campuses before taking the action that they feel is best for the students, the college and the community.

Longing for a zillion-X Stetson hat

What is it about this town that makes a person want to go out and buy a hat?

Is it the wide open spaces? The endless variety of pickup trucks? Ah! Big Spring! Where the men are men, and livestock are in abundance!

I've got the most perverse desire to spend $2.6 million on one of those mondo Stetson hats with so many X's on the band in the inside of the hat looks like it's been cancelled.

For those of you who don't know, Stetsons are marked on the inside band with a number of X's to designate the quality — and therefore the price. (It doesn't matter that they all look alike. The number of X's in one's hat is a point of pride!)

And boots!

Yeah! Some slick cowboy boots done in some exotic animal skin. It's just not a pair of boots unless it's apparent that some hapless animal was forced to give its life for your footwear. Don't try to understand it — it is the way of the cowboy.

Plain leather just doesn't work. I guess because the cattle are going to be entrees anyway. Ostrich, iguana, boa, gila monster, alligator, emu, manatee, bald eagle — good skins with which one's feet should be shod. My friend can find something in a puppy?

New! Puppy-skin ropers from $2,995.95.

Oh! But something new has been added since I was growing up in this town — dusters! Those cool late-1800s style raincoats that make you look like you're in a Clint Eastwood spaghetti western.

Yeah! I'll get a duster, maybe charcoal gray. Picture that — with a matching zillion-X Stetson and my puppy-skin boots. Glorious, is it not?

Better get some spurs. Maybe some of those with the dance-hall girl legs holding the little pointy wheel — only the classiest!

And a horse. Horse! Gotta have a horse.

A great big chestnut colored mare, about 15 hands high (I know my cowboy lingo — the little pointy wheel on a spur is called a rowl). Better have some chaps (pronounced shaps) and a bolo tie (I have to look professional at work, ya' know).

OK Let's see.

With my zillion-X Stetson, duster, spurs, puppy-skin boots, horse and chaps...

I'll look like an idiot!

What on earth have I been thinking about!

I'm beginning to think that I'm a bit overly influenced by my surroundings.

Ge! I better not move to San Francisco. I'll probably end up wearing some of that black, "catch-me-whip-me" leather.

Tune in next week for another thrilling chapter of "A Man In Search of an Idiom."

Vaya con dios, partners.

The writer's art New words for every purpose

Two delightful books have come to hand: "In a Word," edited by Jack Hitt, and "The Art of Persuasion," by Linda Bridges and William F. Rickenbacker. Let me commend them to you.

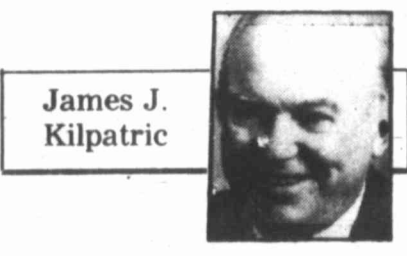

Hitt is a contributing editor to Harper's magazine. Some years ago, while still in college, an idle thought captured his fancy: The English language has more than 600,000 words, but even that mountainous vocabulary fails to provide special words for special occasions.

For example, there is no English word to fit an occurrence that almost everyone has experienced. Suppose that on a Monday morning we are cleaning out old files. We come across a 25-year-old letter from a fraternity brother. We haven't heard from Paul in the interim. On Tuesday the telephone rings, and from across the years comes his familiar voice. Then, on Wednesday, in some context, Paul's name crops up again. What is this phenomenon to be called?

Hitt had a meaning in search of a word. A couple of years ago he wrote to a number of novelists, journalists, actors, musicians and scientists, asking them to think of a linguistic need and then coin a word to fill it. Most of his correspondents responded enthusiastically, and "In a Word" resulted.

William F. Buckley Jr. submitted "hecticity," defined as a state of disarray, of high and frequent demand, or of superheated activity. "The hecticity of his daily routine in the trading room brought on a nervous collapse."

Novelist Louis Phillips came up with "claprehension," to describe the anxiety suffered by a congerter who cannot remember when to applaud.

Witold Rybczynski, a professor at McGill University, contributed "faction," defined as "any literary work portraying real characters or events, as a biography, history or social commentary."

From poet Daniel Mark Epstein came two beauties: "cankertone" and "grubble." A cankertone is "an enthusiastic singer without talent, one who delights in singing despite the pain it inflicts upon others," as in, "We were afraid to attend the wedding for fear some cankertone would sing 'O Promise Me.'"

"Grubble," a verb, means "to enjoy the largess of one's betters while harboring resentment against them." Epstein's sample sentence: "Many who grubble in the governor's mansion will not turn a hand to see him re-elected."

Apparently Hitt never did coin a word that satisfied him, so the phenomenon of suddenly recurring associations remains undefined. His compendium will be published next month by Dell. It's pure fun.

Linda Bridges and Bill Rickenbacker have produced a fine book of a different sort. Theirs is no primer for the beginning writer. They are aiming at professionals, or at least at writers who do not have to be instructed in the evils of a dangling participle.

To give you an idea: The authors list some tools of the writer's trade — anadiplosis, anastrophe, asyndeton, and so forth. This is not so esoteric as it sounds.

"Anadiplosis" is the rhetorical device of starting a clause with the last word of the preceding clause: "The tyrant falls before the oligarch, the oligarch surrenders to democracy, democracy brings liberty, liberty succumbs to license..." "Anastrophe" is the device of inversion: Blessed are the poor... blessed are the meek... "Asyndeton" is the listing of coordinate elements without using conjunctions: game, set, match.

Bridges and Rickenbacker begin with a chapter on lead sentences, the hooks by which a writer snags a reader and starts to reel him in. They offer sound suggestions for holding the reader. Their chapter on style, that elusive combination of sound and substance that adds distinction to a writer's work, is as fine a treatment of the subject as I have read anywhere.

No writer learns to write well solely by reading books about writing, but books can help. Jack Hitt has put together a charming assemblage of words that ought to exist but don't. He gets our imagination working. Bridges and Rickenbacker, for their part, lead us wittily into groves of rhetoric we are not likely to discover without a good guide. Their book comes from National Review.

A good dinner demands more than meat and potatoes. Hitt provides a salad; Bridges and Rickenbacker provide a gourmet's souffle. Bon appetit!

Blackshear calls for accountability

As candidate for mayor, I feel that there are some facts that should be brought to light.

It has been said that I will raise taxes if I am elected. The fact is that I do not want taxes to go up and that the mayor has only one vote, just like any other councilmember. It is easy to run on a "no tax" platform when you know that you can shift the responsibility to the majority of the council who will act accountably and budget accordingly. I choose to help shoulder that responsibility.

As a councilmember, I have studied the issues thoroughly and have voted in a way that I felt would benefit the city as a whole. As mayor, I would do the same. My opponent, however, has abstained from voting over 70 times in the last 3 years. This reflects, in my opinion, an unwillingness to be held accountable to the people of Big Spring.

The facts surrounding the payment of the police chief's attorney's fees should also be clarified. The police chief was illegally terminated and subsequently rehired. During negotiations between city management and the police chief, it was agreed that the chief's attorney's fees would be paid for by the city. At that time, the fees were approximately $500.00. After further negotiations and when the contract with the chief had been drawn up, the fees totaled $1395. I voted to pay this fee because I felt that the city was not only obligated to pay it, but that it was also necessary to prevent further litigation that could have resulted in an even greater monetary loss.

In the last three years, I feel that I have served the people of District 2 in a way in which they can be proud and that I can serve as mayor in a way in which we can all be proud.

Please exercise your right to vote in the upcoming city election. Thank you.

Candidate called a disrupting influence

To the editor:

I read with interest, last week's story in the Big Spring Herald, that Councilman Tim Blackshear voted against the forthcoming Heart of the City Festival. This figure, Blackshear has been a disrupting influence in our city council for the past four years. Now he wants to be mayor and that, he can "pull our city together."

Well, thanks, but no thanks,

Tim. I'm voting for Max Green.

AL SCOTT

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Blackshear points out that he did not vote against the Heart of the City Festival, per se, but rather the fact that alcohol will be available at the event and that he did not feel the city should support events where alcohol is made available.

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics and Cleveland Cavaliers used the same formula to win playoff openers Thursday night.

Both had unstoppable players and both had game-winning offensive spurts when they got in trouble down the stretch.

Despite 40 points, 16 rebounds and nine assists from Brad Daugherty, the Cavaliers trailed New Jersey 111-110 with 1:36 left before outscoring the Nets 10-2 for a 120-113 victory.

Reggie Lewis scored 36 points for the Celtics, but Indiana had a 106-103 advantage with 5:22 remaining before a 15-2 run put Boston in control.

"In the next game, hopefully we can come to play a little earlier than the last five minutes," Boston coach Chris Ford said.

"Reggie Lewis especially hurt us both offensively and defensively down the stretch," Indiana coach Bob Hill said. "This game changed in a minute. We'll have a good day tomorrow, make the necessary adjustments and be here ready to play on Saturday."

It's the first time in eight playoff appearances that the Cavaliers have won their opening game. New Jersey, which split the regular-season series with Cleveland 2-2, hasn't won at Richfield Coliseum since 1986.

Daugherty's 40 points was a Cleveland playoff record.

"I was just taking whatever was coming out of our offense," Daugherty said. "They match up well with us, so there wasn't much need for them to double-team me, although they did a little bit later on."

The Cavaliers, who haven't won a playoff series since 1976, won it at the foul line, outscoring the Nets 39-15 on free throws in the game and 21-6 in the fourth quarter. Cleveland made all 21 of its fourth-quarter free throws.

"I think we definitely have to change our defensive scheme," New Jersey's Sam Bowie said. "Brad had 40 points, and I think 26 of them came when he was down low with a mismatch on a smaller player."

"I'm sure they'll do more trapping in the next game, and they might double down on Brad more," said Cavaliers guard Mark Price, who scored 24 of his 35 points in the first half. "I'm sure they'll make adjustments."

Drazen Petrovic led the Nets with 40 points, a team playoff record. Derrick Coleman had 21.

"Petrovic was unbelievable," Price said. "We definitely have to find a way to slow him down Saturday. He's a great shooter."

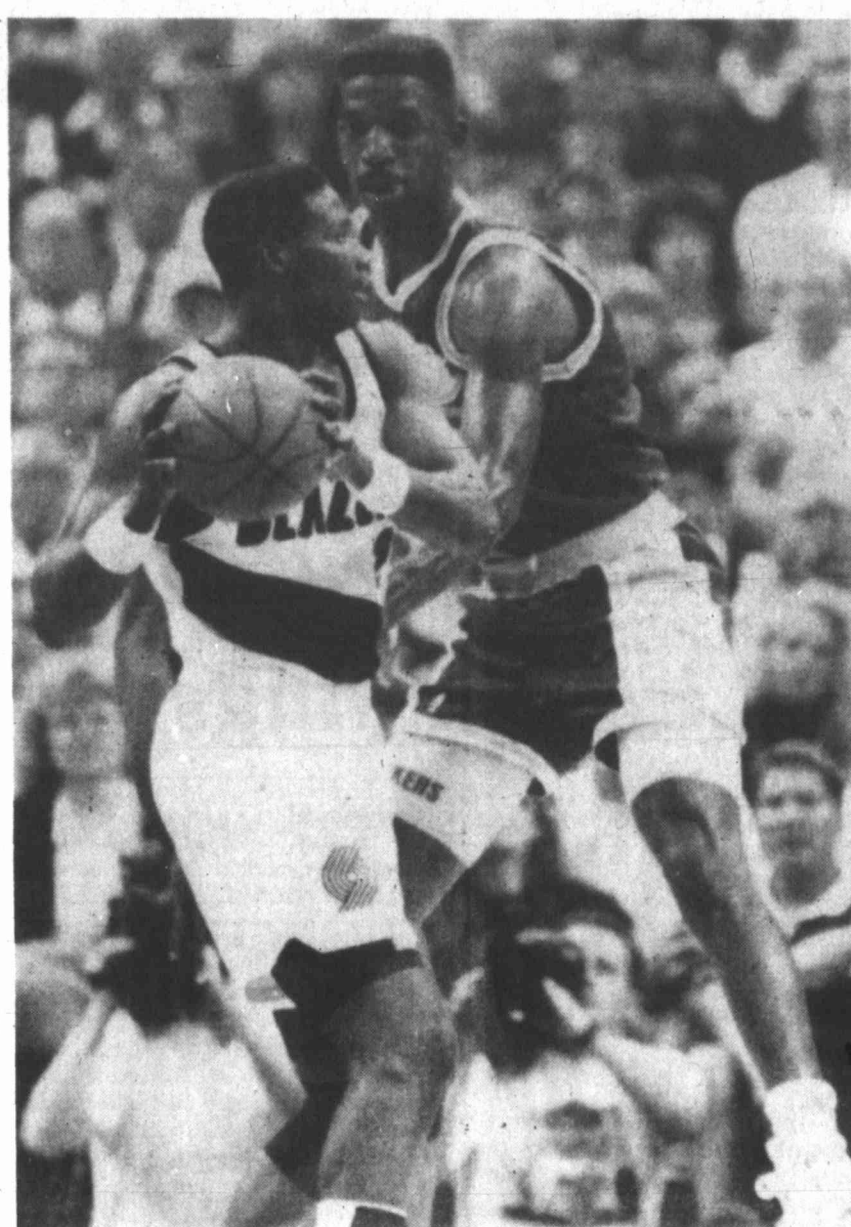

Celtics 124, Pacers 113

Kevin Gamble triggered the decisive 15-2 run with a short jumper, and Kevin McHale followed with a 15-footer, putting Boston ahead to stay against Indiana.

With injured starters Larry Bird and Dee Brown watching in street clothes on the bench, the Celtics outduelled the Pacers down the stretch despite being outscored 24-0 on 3-pointers for the game. The 15-2 run gave the Celtics a 118-108 lead with 1:33 left.

McHale scored 21 points, Gamble 20 and Robert Parish 19 as the Celtics posted their ninth consecutive victory and 16th in the last 17 starts — with the only loss in Indiana on April 3.

Reggie Miller finished with 29 points, including three 3-pointers.

Los Angeles Lakers forward A.C. Green (right) leaps in the air trying to defend against Portland Trail Blazers' forward Jerome Kersey as the Blazers beat the Lakers 115-102 Thursday night in Portland.

Detlef Schrempf had 21 points and George McCloud 17 with three 3-pointers.

Despite the long-range shooting discrepancy, the Celtics outbounded the Pacers 48-24.

SuperSonics 117, Warriors 109

Shawn Kemp and Ricky Pierce scored 28 points apiece in underdog Seattle's victory at Golden State.

The Warriors, playing with a homecourt advantage for the first time since 1977, lost it in the best-of-5 series when the Sonics exploited their size advantage, outbounding the Warriors 52-34.

Derrick McKey scored 19 points and Gary Payton had 14 points and 12 assists for Seattle, the sixth seed in the Western Conference. Kemp grabbed 16 rebounds.

Billy Owens scored 25 points, Sarunas Marciulionis 23 and Tim Hardaway 22 for third-seeded Golden State. Chris Mullin struggled throughout and finished with 16 points, nearly 10 under his regular-season average.

Seattle led 96-80 after three quarters before the Warriors closed to 106-101 with 3:07 left. The two teams traded two baskets before Payton made a reverse layup with 1:27 left, giving the Sonics a 112-105 lead.

Trail Blazers 115, Lakers 102

Portland opened a 36-point lead in the first half and scored 75 points by halftime before coasting over Los Angeles.

Cliff Robinson scored a career playoff-high 24 points, leading four Blazers with 20 or more points.

Trailing 74-41 at halftime, the Lakers scored 16 straight points early in the third quarter as Portland didn't make its first field goal of the period until the 7:05 mark.

Lady Steers' Shellman puts new found confidence in shot

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

This year Syreeta Shellman is heading into the regional track meet with a new sense of confidence.

After all, why shouldn't she be confident? She's the two-time defending district champion and her throw of 42-2 is the fifth best in the state. She's been beaten once all season and it took the state's best shot putter to do it — Alisha Thompson of Reagan County, who has a best of 44-4.

But Shellman has been in the same boat before. Last year as a sophomore she had one of the state's best throws at 43-2 and was considered the favorite at regional. At regional however she threw 37-0, finishing sixth.

That was then and this is now, Shellman says. She says she'll be ready for the Region I-4A meet which takes place in San Angelo May 1-2.

A bad case of nerves had a lot to do with her showing in regional last year.

"I think I was a little bit nervous. It was my first time being there and there was some pressure," Shellman says. "Everybody expected me to make it to state and I started thinking what if I didn't make it to state. I was thinking about what everybody else would think."

This year Shellman has been a picture of consistency. She has thrown over 40-feet in six of the eight meets she's competed in. "I'm more consistent because I have more confidence in myself," Shellman says.

"It helps me just being able to know what I can do, being able to reach my goals — knowing I can hit

Big Spring Lady Steers junior Syreeta Shellman has the state's fifth best throw in the shot put.

"I'm more consistent because I have more confidence in myself," Big Spring Lady Steers junior shot putter Syreeta Shellman.

a 40 (foot throw) anytime I want."

Big Spring weight coach Dan Burke has had Shellman on a workout routine that not only includes throwing, but running bleachers to strengthen her legs as well as lifting weights for upper body strength.

"The running has gotten her quicker," Burke says. "She's real easy to coach, she'll do whatever you say, she works on her technique real hard. She's more consistent this year, she's getting better every week."

Burke added that last year Shellman had a problem with her shot put not weighing the legal eight pounds. At regional last year that happened. Her shot was a few ounces too light and Shellman had to use another one. Burke figures it threw her concentration off.

Last week at the district meet the same thing happened. Shellman had to use another shot. This time it didn't phase Shellman. She responded with a winning throw of 42-0.

Shellman has her game plan all mapped out for regional. "I'll try to relax my mind and stay focused on what I'm doing," she says. "I won't let anything get me down. I'm going for the regional record which is 42-10. If I don't get the record, I'll settle for the win."

Westphal will be Suns coach

PHOENIX (AP) — Cotton Fitzsimmons will step down as coach of the Phoenix Suns at the conclusion of the playoffs. Paul Westphal, who coached at two small colleges in Phoenix before he was hired in 1988 as Fitzsimmons' assistant, will replace Fitzsimmons. In 19 years as an NBA coach, the 60-year-old Fitzsimmons is 805-745, fifth in regular-season games coached and sixth all-time in victories. He also coached Atlanta, Buffalo, Kansas City and San Antonio in addition to two stints with the Suns.

Westhead gets fired by Nuggets

DENVER (AP) — Paul Westhead was fired as coach of the Denver Nuggets after two seasons in which his team won only 44 games. The Nuggets were 44-120 under Westhead, the worst record of any coach during the last two years. The 53-year-old Westhead, who was fired by general manager Bernie Bickerstaff during a closed-door meeting Wednesday morning, had one year remaining on a three-year contract.

Bucks coach gets walking papers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Frank Hamblen was fired after his first season as interim coach of the Milwaukee Bucks, who finished their worst season in 13 years and failed to make the playoffs. The 45-year-old Hamblen, who replaced Del Harris in December, will remain with the club in basketball operations for the 1992-93 season. The Bucks were 23-42 under Hamblen are an 8-9 start under Harris.

Orioles batter struggling Royals

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
Another day, another set of stats showing just how bad the Kansas City Royals are this season.

Add these two numbers following the Royals' seventh straight loss, an 8-1 defeat by Baltimore: — Kansas City just completed the worst homestand in its 24-year history, going 1-8.

— Ninth-place hitters are batting .364 against the Royals. Mark McLemore's first career four-hit game led the Orioles to their seventh consecutive victory.

"That's just embarrassing. There's nothing more to say about it," Royals manager Hal McRae said.

Mike Mussina (2-0) tossed a six-hitter and became the latest pitcher to look good against Kansas City. He struck out four and walked one.

"Mussina is a good young pitcher and he has good stuff," McRae said. "You don't want to take anything away from him when he pitches that well, but everyone has been shutting us down so far."

In other games, Detroit downed Texas 11-5, Baltimore beat Kansas City 8-1, Milwaukee defeated Boston 3-2 and Seattle stopped Minnesota 3-2.

While the Orioles are off to a 10-5 start that is their best beginning since 1971, Kansas City has the worst record in the majors at 1-14. It doesn't figure to get much better much sooner for the Royals, who begin a weekend series tonight in Toronto against the bruising Blue Jays.

Mussina, 23, has made 15 starts in the majors and 11 times has allowed fewer than three runs. The Orioles made it simple for

American League

Mussina, giving him an 8-0 lead in the sixth.

"It's just so much easier when you get to pitch with a big lead like that," Mussina said. "It's much easier than having a one-run lead or being tied. They aren't going well right now and I was able to throw strikes."

Brady Anderson homered for Baltimore and David Segui, playing for the injured Randy Milligan, hit two doubles. Mark Davis (0-2) lasted only 2 1-3 innings and gave up two runs on four hits and two walks.

Blue Jays 13, Indians 8
Kelly Gruber homered twice, doubled and drove in four runs as Toronto rapped a season-high 15 hits and ripped Cleveland at the SkyDome.

Joe Carter, who extended his hitting streak to 16 games, and Devon White each added two-run homers for the Blue Jays. Albert Belle homered and drove in four runs for the Indians.

Belle's third homer, a two-run shot, capped a three-run first inning against Todd Stottlemyre (2-1). Toronto came back with four runs in the second against Dave Otto (1-2) and tagged Eric Bell and Brad Arnsberg for nine more runs in the next three innings.

Tigers 11, Rangers 5
Mickey Tettleton hit a three-run double in a five-run first inning and Detroit again used an early burst to beat the Rangers.

The Tigers, who scored six times in Wednesday's 12-8 victory, swept the three-game series in Texas. Detroit had 27 runs and 36 hits in the sweep.

After two innings, Detroit led 6-5 and the teams had combined for 15 hits. The Tigers added two runs in the third inning and Milt Cuyler hit a three-run homer in the seventh.

Les Lancaster (1-1) relieved Frank Tanana in the second inning and shut out Texas on three hits for 4 2-3 innings. John Doherty pitched 3 1-3 innings for his first major league save.

Cecil Fielder hit an RBI single in the second as Detroit roughed up Kevin Brown (3-1).

Brewers 3, Red Sox 2
Bill Wegman won a duel with Roger Clemens in rainy County Stadium, a day after the teams had their game postponed because of bad weather.

Mets outlast Cards 1-0, in 13 innings

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets felt like it was their lucky day even before beating St. Louis 1-0 in the 13th inning.

For nine of those innings, Bret Saberhagen pitched shutout baseball and gave up only five harmless hits. He struck out seven and walked none.

This was the Saberhagen the Mets wanted when they traded Gregg Jefferies, Kevin McReynolds and Keith Miller to Kansas City last December for the two-time Cy Young Award winner.

The Mets won the game when Juan Agosto's pitch grazed Daryl Boston with one out and the bases loaded in the 13th. New York got to that point because of Saberhagen and some clutch relief pitching by Paul Gibson, Jeff Innis and winner John Franco (2-0).

In his first three starts of the season, Saberhagen did a very good impersonation of a very bad pitcher. Entering Thursday's game against the Cardinals, he was 0-2 with a 13.15 ERA.

In Saberhagen's first 13 innings, he had allowed 22 hits and the opposition was batting .373 against him.

Saberhagen did not get a decision against the Cardinals, but he did regain his confidence and showed the fans at Shea Stadium just how good he can be.

The Mets, who swept the three-game series, took advantage of their bases-loaded situation after the Cardinals failed on one in the 11th.

The Cardinals loaded the bases with none out in the 11th off Innis. But Innis got Todd Zeile to hit into a third-to-home force play, struck out Pedro Guerrero and got Brian Jordan on a grounder to third.

National League

Dave Magadan singled with one out in the 13th off Agosto (0-2) and Rodney McCray pinch-ran. Junior Noboa followed with a looping opposite-field single to right. McCray then stole third and pinch-hitter Charlie O'Brien walked to load the bases.

Agosto, a left-hander, had a 1-2 count on the lefty-swinging Boston when he grazed him on a uniform button with the pitch to score McCray.

Expos 6, Pirates 3
At Olympic Stadium, Montreal took advantage of five errors to stop Pittsburgh's nine-game winning streak.

Mark Gardner (2-1) gave up seven hits and left in the ninth inning after the Pirates scored twice. John Wetteland closed for his third save.

Zane Smoth (3-1) had won seven straight decisions since last season. He allowed six runs, three of them unearned, in 5 1-3 innings.

Phillies 8, Cubs 2
At Wrigley Field, Tommy Greene pitched two-hit ball for seven innings and Kim Batiste hit his first major league home run to lead Philadelphia.

Ex-coaches indicted

BAY CITY — (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Bay City High School's former athletic director and head football coach and a former junior high coach in connection with a student's sexual assaults.

Walker, 49, stepped down as athletic director and head coach last month. The 29-year-old Wooley, former Bay City junior high coach, was arrested in Conroe and returned to Bay City.

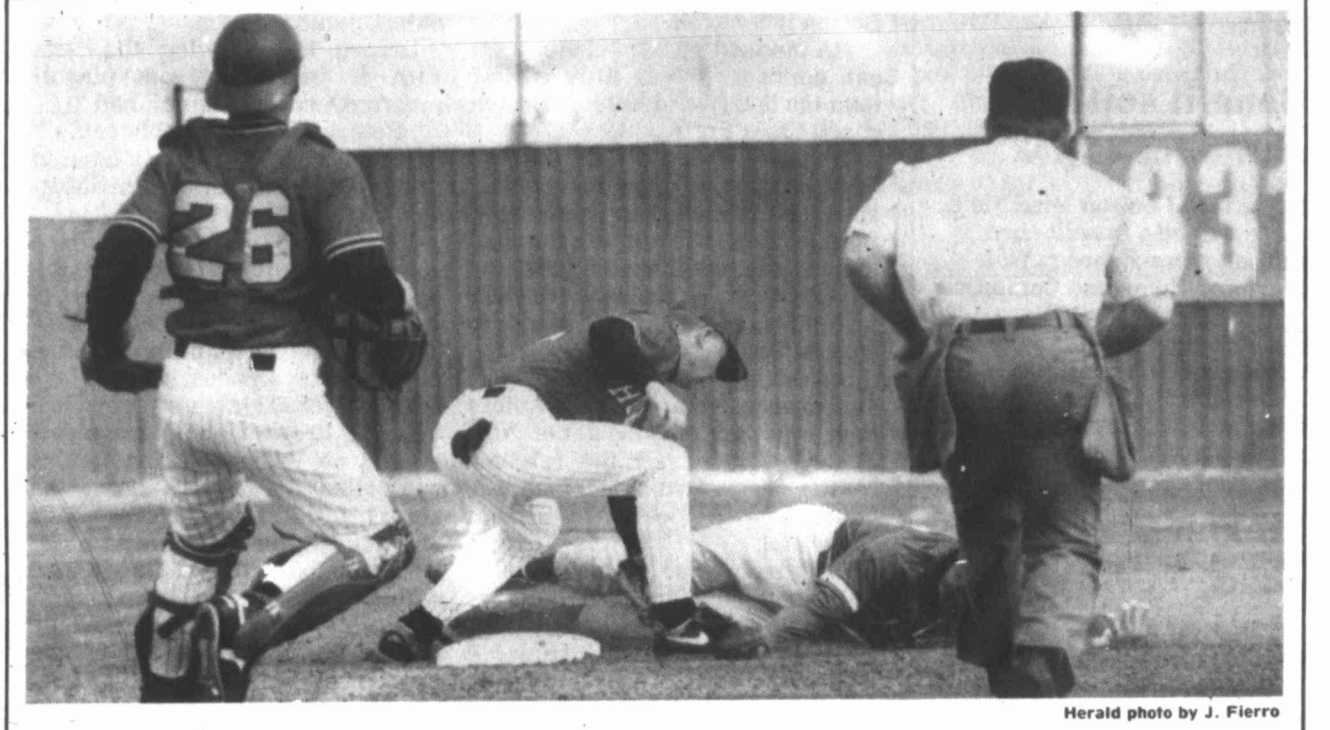

The female student was the victim in two attacks, said Matagorda County District Attorney Danny Shindler.

Retired teacher supports abortion

AMHERST, N.Y. (AP) — Florence Rector slowly walked the half-mile to the site of an abortion protest, using a friend and a four-toed metal cane to ease the burden on her surgically replaced knees.

Although she expected her legs to swell from the strain, the 74-year-old retired teacher from Canandaigua said she was proud to be taking part in her first demonstration.

"I think our side has been silent for so long," said the abortion-rights demonstrator, who drove two hours to join other activists guarding a clinic outside Buffalo.

"The agitators come on so strong and so many people like us feel this way, but we do or say nothing. We're here to be counted."

Hundreds of abortion-rights demonstrators have converged on Buffalo this week to help keep open five clinics that the anti-abortion organization Operation Rescue wants to shut down with weeks of protests.

Operation Rescue, which was invited to heavily Roman Catholic Buffalo by Mayor James Griffin, has patterned its tactics on last summer's siege of clinics in Wichita, Kan., in which 2,600 arrests were made.

Since the demonstrations in Buffalo began Monday, police have made about about 200 arrests.

Mrs. Rector, a mother of two who said she aborted a third pregnancy after learning the fetus was deformed, said her belief that abortion should remain legal was shaped during more than two decades of teaching high school girls.

"I often tutored girls who had to drop out of school to have their babies and then to stay with them," she said. "I think that first made me realize that many young mothers just aren't able to be mothers at that age. These were kids 14 and 15 years old and they weren't qualified really to bring the child up."

Gesturing toward anti-abortion demonstrators across the street from the clinic, Mrs. Rector called them hypocrites. The sign she carried read, "You who call abortion murder: What do you call 40,000 children dead every day of starvation?"

She said her family "protested vigorously" when she said she was coming to Buffalo. They feared she'd be swept up in violence. But she was undeterred.

"I think it's very important," she said. "I mean to literally stand up and be counted. For me, it means it's an effort to physically stand up, but it's morally easy to stand up and be counted."

Pro-lifer gives up career to protest

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bill Curry says he hopes to do in Buffalo what he did last summer in Wichita, Kan. — get arrested blockading abortion clinics.

"I can't stand on the sideline and not try to save babies," said the 54-year-old man from Fresno, Calif. "I have to do everything I can — including giving my life. I take a lot of hits, and that's OK."

Hundreds of activists in the anti-abortion group Operation Rescue hope to shut down five clinics in Buffalo in demonstrations patterned after last summer's siege in Wichita, Kan., that led to 2,600 arrests. Abortion-rights activists have vowed to keep the clinics open.

Since Monday, when the demonstrations began, there have been about 200 arrests.

Curry described himself as a former businessman who gave up a career in the oil industry in 1988 to join the anti-abortion group Lambs of Christ. He said he spends 11 months of the year on the road at protests, supported financially by the group and by friends.

"I just felt the Lord called me," he said. "I realized the enormity of what was happening in our society. I had no choice. I left my job and sold everything."

Curry said his life changed after attending an Operation Rescue rally in 1988.

He walks with a cane, which he said is needed because of several crushed vertebrae he suffered in violent protests.

Curry acknowledged that he's sometimes asked why he doesn't fight abortion through less confrontational means, such as political action.

He said it doesn't have the same effect as blocking an abortion clinic.

"The reason I put my body before that door is there's a lady coming with a baby," he said. "It's too late for that baby to call Congress or write a letter. In one hour that baby is going to be dead."

Curry said the protests are aimed at delaying women long enough so they can reconsider their decision to have an abortion.

When that happens, he said, "It's the most incredible feeling in the world."

Webworms invade early

By DON RICHARDSON
For the Herald

Late last summer and all through the fall, Howard County was invaded with webworms, which devastated many of our fruitless mulberry trees and many other ornamentals.

This pest had been, until last year, not a serious threat in our area in most years. Our extremely mild winter allowed this pest to survive the season and, over the Easter holiday period, outbreaks of the first hatch of this pest was noted.

The most effective time to treat this pest is when the worms are very small and still encased in the webbing around a few leaves.

This webbing must be penetrated by the insecticide to have any effectiveness, which is difficult to do unless the spray equipment has enough pressure. After the worms grow large enough to move out of the webbing onto surrounding foliage they become increasingly difficult to control.

Maverick, a pyrethroid type insecticide, with the most common formulation known as Aquaflow, has proven to be the most effective pesticide against this insect.

If this product is unavailable, the second choice would be Orthene, a product containing a natural pyrethrin obtained from daisies.

Other products that have been used, but with less success, have been Diazinon, Sevin, Dursban and Malathion.

For additional information on this pest and other horticultural related problems you are invited to contact the Howard County office of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service located in the courthouse in Big Spring or by calling 267-6671.

 the institution, but were told by the board members that Riley was hired to run the school and that they (the board members) were too busy, Doll said, although Doll added that he had no animosity and enjoyed his students and his years at the school.

The same members of the board of trustees have been in position for more than 10 years, save one new member from voting precinct 1, Grant said.

Even though two members of the board are up for election on May 2, both new member Charles Gonzales and Curt Mullins are running unopposed, according to county records.

Although the future is appearing uncertain for the tenured instructors, they are not planning to surrender easily, Grant said.

Speaking of the two past college presidents, who faced allegations of wrongdoing, Grant said, "We were all here keeping the instructional programs stable during the Salter debacle, during the Hayes fiasco, and we will be here when this one is over."

Accepting donations

SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf student demonstrator, Sarah Perales receives a donation from a driver at the corner of FM 700 and Highway 87. Demonstrators hit the streets Thursday collecting money for their campaign, which began with a five request petition that included the reinstatement of the school's recruiter position. The money collected is deposited into the SWCID student protest fund at Citizen's Federal Credit Union.

Special city council meeting called

By GARY SHANKS
 Staff Writer

A quorum of the Big Spring City Council has signed the necessary paperwork to call a special meeting today to discuss a redistricting suit filed against the city.

On Tuesday, while Mayor Max Green was out of town, Tim Blackshear contacted three other council members requesting a special meeting to discuss and vote on settling a lawsuit filed by the League of United Latin American Citizens, Green said.

While the Big Spring City Charter allows four council members or the mayor to call a special meeting, the charter was written in 1939 and does not conform to the 1979 Texas Open Meetings Act, Green said.

FOI attorney Allan Greenspan said that anytime four or more of the Big Spring City Council members gather, it is subject to the act and must be posted. However, it could be defensible as Blackshear carried the paperwork around to the three other council members individually.

Blackshear said his reasoning for the special session is, "The next meeting we had talked about will be after the new council is seated and that's unfair for a new member, and he might not know everything he needs to make a decision."

"Right now we are hoping to settle this, but whatever we decide tonight is what we are going to do," Council member Mark Sheedy was contacted by Blackshear, and is of the opinion that the redistricting suit should be settled, therefore sparing the cost of a legal battle, he said.

Although he believes the actual costs of fighting the suit would be less than the millions of dollars proposed by LULAC attorney Rolando Rios of San Antonio, Sheedy believes the matter to be better settled than challenged, he said.

"I'm of the mind that it's time to settle. It's an expense that's just not justified," Sheedy said.

"Max feels like this thing ought to be settled anyway," said Council member John Coffee, who, along with Mayor Pro Tem Ladd Smith, is out of town this week. Coffee, who is in Fort O'Connell, only learned about the meeting late Thursday.

The LULAC suit alleges that the current three at-large and three single-member-district council positions "water down" Hispanic voting strength in the city, Rios said.

The matter was slated to be decided at the last council meeting, but with Corky Harris, Tim Blackshear and Pat DeAnda absent at the time, Green decided to wait until all members were present at the next regularly scheduled council meeting.

"I believed this to be important enough to warrant the presence of all members of the council," Green said.

The meeting is scheduled for 5 p.m. in building 1106 at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark.

Counts

which ad valorem taxes are collected," says a release from Richards office.

Asked about criticism that the plan would be bad for West Texas, which relies on abundant oil and mineral wealth, Counts said, "It may. That's why we have to study it."

"I have not been convinced yet that when you strip out all the business taxes that it (rates) can be brought down," he said.

Counts told the Big Spring Board of Realtors at a luncheon in Big Spring that reliance on property taxes thwarts productivity and taxes savings. "That's wrong," he said. "We need to change our strategy and tax consumables."

A value-added tax similar to systems in Europe may be more fair, Counts said. State Comptroller John Sharp said a 3.75 percent VAT could replace school property taxes and the business franchise tax. Critics say it would result in lost jobs because of lower sales and would hit the poor hard because the taxes would be added to the cost of goods.

Richards plan, as well as other proposals, including a statewide property tax on all property, a state income tax, allowing schools with the same tax rates to redistribute funds among themselves, recapturing funds from rich school districts, limiting court intervention, or legalizing the current county education district system, would require an amendment to the constitution.

County education districts are illegal because the system lacks a needed constitutional amendment, ruled the Supreme Court in January. The system was allowed to stand for this school year and the next year.

"None of the plans that are out there today, that are in their original strict form, I can support, Counts said. "They all need some fine tuning."

"There's one thing lurking out there that we cannot let happen," he said. "That's to let the court (appointed) master take over control (and devise a plan)."

Commenting on other local concerns, Counts said: "Controversial layoffs of 15 personnel, including five instructors, at Howard College are a result of a sluggish economy and should be temporary. "I have total confidence in the board (of college trustees) and Dr. (college President Bob) Riley."

"Awarding of state prisons to 29 communities, four to home towns of state prison board members and several more to home towns of prominent legislatures, was 'not totally' based on politics. No prisons were given to communities in Counts district. "I continue to talk to (prison officials) ... that we might be able to improve our bid."

"$7 million in improvements to the city's wastewater treatment plant are required by federal law, not state law. City officials say treated wastewater released into Beal's Creek is cleaner than the polluted salt water flowing down the creek. "I volunteered to go ask some questions and see if we could get a variance on that. It's not that I didn't try. It's just because it wasn't available to us."

New book tells what the chances are

WASHINGTON (AP) — It may be a bore, but the odds are that the safest way to get from here to there is by grabbing a big, fat, city bus.

There are only 1 in 500 million chances of being killed on a bus ride of up to five miles — and that's 100 times safer than the family car, according to a new book, "What the Odds Are, A to Z Odds on Everything You Hoped or Feared Could Happen."

"A bus is so large that if it is involved in an impact with another vehicle, it will usually knock everything else off the road, and just as important, the drivers know their route, a key ingredient in bus safety," said Les Krantz, the book's author.

The odds book, published by HarperPerennial, has the odds for a lot of things: your chances of being hit by lightning, 1 in 9,100; your child will be a genius, 1 in 250; you'll win a typical state lottery, 1 in 4 million.

On the transportation front, air

'A bus is so large that if it is involved in an impact with another vehicle, it will usually knock everything else off the road, and just as important, the drivers know their route, a key ingredient in bus safety.'

Les Krantz

travel is another odds-on favorite. Quoting statistics compiled by the National Transportation Safety Board, the book notes there is only one chance in 250,000 that a scheduled airline flight will experience even the most minor of accidents.

And of all scheduled flights, fewer than 1 in 1.6 million prove fatal to anyone.

But if there is an accident, the book says, there is a 1 in 5 chance it will occur during takeoff, 1 in 6 while the plane is cruising, 1 in 7 during approach, 1 in 9 while land-easier time making emergency maneuvers when loads are lighter. And fewer passengers mean it will be easier to get out of the plane faster if that 26-million-to-one shot happens on your flight.

Back on the road, the odds of being killed in an auto accident on any given trip is 1 in 4 million, the book says.

But the odds get worse in terms of the approximately 50,000 car trips an average person takes in a lifetime.

"With this in mind it has been determined that about 1 in 140 people dies in an automobile accident and 1 in 3 is hurt seriously enough to be hospitalized for at least a day," according to the book.

If your car is stolen, the odds are better than even — 67 in 100 — it will be recovered.

But if you're looking for a really safe bet, there's this one: You will regain weight after a diet, 90 in 100.

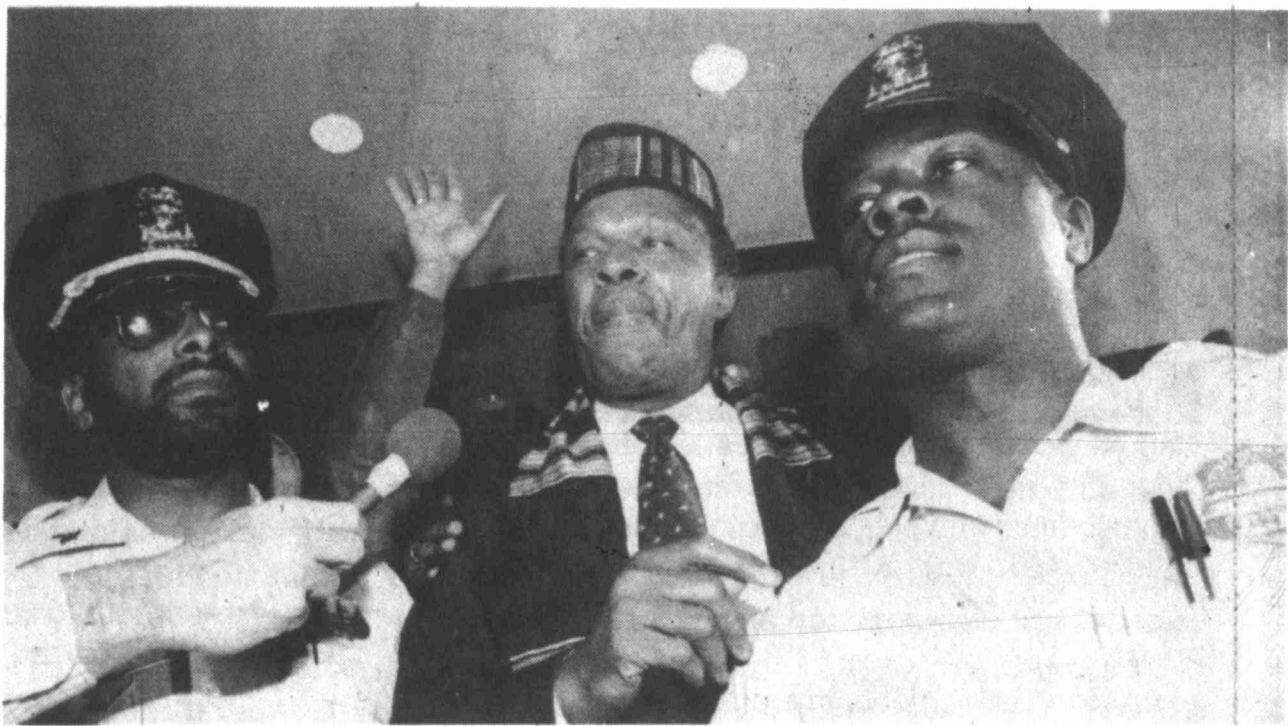

Former Washington mayor home from prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Mayor Marion Barry did his six months in prison for cocaine possession, and now he's back in a city struggling with the same problems — drug abuse foremost among them — it had when he left office more than a year ago.

His successor, Sharon Pratt Kelly, is laying off city workers because of a budget crunch. Homicides are up. Drug-dealing is rampant.

And the beloved Washington Redskins might abandon the District of Columbia for a new home across the Potomac River in Virginia.

Barry, 55, was the city's second elected mayor and he was in office so long — 12 years — that his trial and conviction for cocaine possession tarnished the image of the city itself.

Former Washington Mayor Marion Barry is escorted by Washington police officers into the Union Temple Baptist Church in Washington Thursday evening. Barry was released from a Pennsylvania prison earlier in the day after serving six months for drug possession. Barry was greeted by about 200 people shouting "Barry's back." Another 300 rode buses to Pennsylvania to greet him upon his release.

takes priority.

"Obviously, I'm going to have to do some things to earn money," Barry said.

The idea of Barry returning to politics is enough to make many in the local establishment reach for the aspirin bottle.

"I hope to God that's not true; Marion Barry back in politics is not what either he or the city needs at this time," said Cathy Hughes, a Washington radio executive and longtime Barry supporter.

Many people feel the district has done pretty well without Barry.

His relationship with Congress — on which the district is heavily dependent for funds — deteriorated steadily over the years.

Kelly, elected in November 1990, was a breath of fresh air in halting the acrimony, and she persuaded Congress to supply the city an extra $300 million last year.

And while Barry was behind bars, the city took a small step toward statehood. For the first time, a bill is on the House floor that would make the District of Columbia the 51st state.

Explosion planned at College Park Church

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

College Park Church of God, 603 Tulane, is expecting an explosion next weekend when it hosts the first inaugural "1992 Holy Spirit

CHARLES MARTIN

Explosion Camp Meeting.

High Praise Ministries, featuring Danny and Jill Chambers, and Charles Martin will host the event May 1-2 at 7:30 p.m., and May 3 at 10:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The May 1 service will feature the College Park team, including the Rev. F.M. Small and "New Praise."

"Each service will be powerful with fire-baptized preaching, singing, praise and worship," said Mark Barber, Praise and Worship director.

Known as one of the most dynamic young communicators in America today, Danny began his ministry in June of 1979. He has traveled around the world to share the word of God, according to a news release.

In 1986, he founded "Rock Solid," a youth and college outreach ministry located in Oklahoma City, Okla. In just two years, more than 500 young people were attending Sunday evening youth rallies. Charisma magazine and its readers named Danny as one of the top 16 pastors in the nation, the release stated.

A musician, singer, songwriter and Psalmist, Danny has produced and released 12 recordings and has ministered in concerts and conferences with Carman, Mylon LeFevre, Petra and several others.

The worship leader and keynote speaker for Youth America, Danny is currently ministering in the United States and overseas as an associate minister/evangelistic extension of the "Church of the Harvest."

At the young age of 23, Charles has played his sax across America for more than a decade.

"Everybody loves the awesome and annotated sax playing of Charles Martin," Barber said.

Because his ear is tuned to the music of today with the urban pop sounds of top 40 radio, Charles is diverse enough to touch all age groups, the news release stated.

A key musician at the Youth America Summer Conferences, Charles, along with Danny and Jill, minister to thousands of people in hopes of bringing them into new realms of praise and worship, Barber noted.

"Many prayers are going forth and both the High Praise team and the College Park Church are expecting the Lord to do mighty things. The meeting is open to everyone of all denominational backgrounds, especially to the lost who need to meet the Lord," Barber said.

National Day of Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proclaiming May 7 as National Day of Prayer, President Bush urges all Americans to give thanks for God's continued blessings.

"As we seek to chart a proper course in a world that is changing by the hour," he said, the observance "reminds us that we can always place our trust in the steady, unfailing light that is the love of God."

He said past generations "trusted in the faithfulness of the Almighty" and that trust was "richly rewarded. The great American experiment in liberty and self-government has not only endured but prospered."

Presidents down through the years have called for national days of prayer, and in 1952, Congress asked that a specific day be set for it. The first Thursday in May was chosen for that purpose.

cent to 20 percent after the Oct. 16 massacre. Everywhere, people seemed to ask about the meaning of life and the nature of evil.

"People were not ashamed to talk" about their faith, said the Rev. William M. Pulscher, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church.

"What has been intended for evil, God has simply changed it and turned it to good," Pulscher, 46, told The Dallas Morning News.

Bishops push for health care reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Roman Catholic bishops advocate comprehensive reform of the nation's health care system.

In a letter sent to all members of Congress, Bishop James W. Malone of Youngstown, Ohio, chairman of the bishops' domestic policy committee, said:

"In our parishes and schools, our shelters and clinics, we see the consequences of failed and confused policy — the families without insurance, the sick without options, the children without care.

"When the health care system leaves so many people uncared for — affecting human life itself — then this system is in need of serious and comprehensive Reform."

Church attendance up since massacre

DALLAS (AP) — In the six months since 25 people were fatally shot at a local Luby's Cafeteria, Killeen and surrounding towns have become more religious, some clergy and laypeople say.

Religious forces moving to safeguard environment

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof," reads Psalm 24. People don't own this planet, in the biblical perspective, but are assigned by God as caretakers of it.

They are to "till it and keep it," says Genesis 2:15. To "keep" means to preserve and protect, to maintain its divinely termed "goodness."

That mandate and other biblical pointers to the singular value of the natural environment and humanity's responsibility of caring for it have aroused America's religious forces to that cause.

"It is what God made and beheld as good that is under assault" says a broad cross-section of religious leaders. "The future of this gift so freely given is in our hands, and we must maintain it as we have received it.

"This is an inescapably religious challenge."

With observance of "Earth Day" this week and an ecumenical "Ecology Sunday" this weekend, churches are planning strong representation at the United Nations "Earth Summit" in Rio de Janeiro June 1-12, involving governmental delegates and thousands of others from around the world.

An ecumenically backed "Environmental Sabbath" was set June 7 to call attention to the international efforts to safeguard nature.

Churches have "drawn together

'The new global reality and our faith call us to make environmental justice and stewardship a central concern of our church's mission.'
General Assembly, Presbyterian Church

about this," says the Rev. Ken Grant of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), based in Louisville, Ky. "We woke up. We've been sobered to learn of the harm being done to the environment."

Virtually every major religious body or their leaders, Protestant, Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish, have joined in that effort in the last few years, with a growing crescendo of concern.

"The web of life is one," U.S. Roman Catholic bishops said last November, adding that the task of sustaining human life itself "cannot be separated from the care and defense of all of creation."

Most major Protestant denominations, the Episcopal Church, United Methodist Church, American Baptist Churches and the United Church of Christ, among others, have adopted calls to safeguard nature.

"The new global reality and our faith call us to make environmental justice and stewardship a central concern of our church's mission," said the 1990 General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)

The Evangelical Lutheran Church in America is shaping a "revolutionary" social statement for church assembly action on the issue, says biologist Paul Lutz of Greensboro, N.C., head of the church's environmental task force.

"If every member did everything that was in this statement, it would cause a revolution the likes of which we have not seen," he said, noting changed practices urged.

Judaism plunged strongly into the movement in an unusually inclusive meeting in mid-March of leaders of all four wings.

"For Jews, the environmental crisis is a religious challenge," the group said. "As heirs to a tradition of stewardship that goes back to Genesis and that teaches us to be partners in the ongoing work of Creation, we cannot accept the escalating destruction of our environment...."

"It is our sacred duty as Jews to take action to alleviate environmental degradation...." The "threat is global, advancing, and ultimately jeopardizes... the quality of life."

The Jewish meeting, which also included top scientists such as astronomer Carl Sagan and biologist Stephen Gould, grew out of an earlier interreligious meeting last June at the behest of scientists worried about the planet's future.

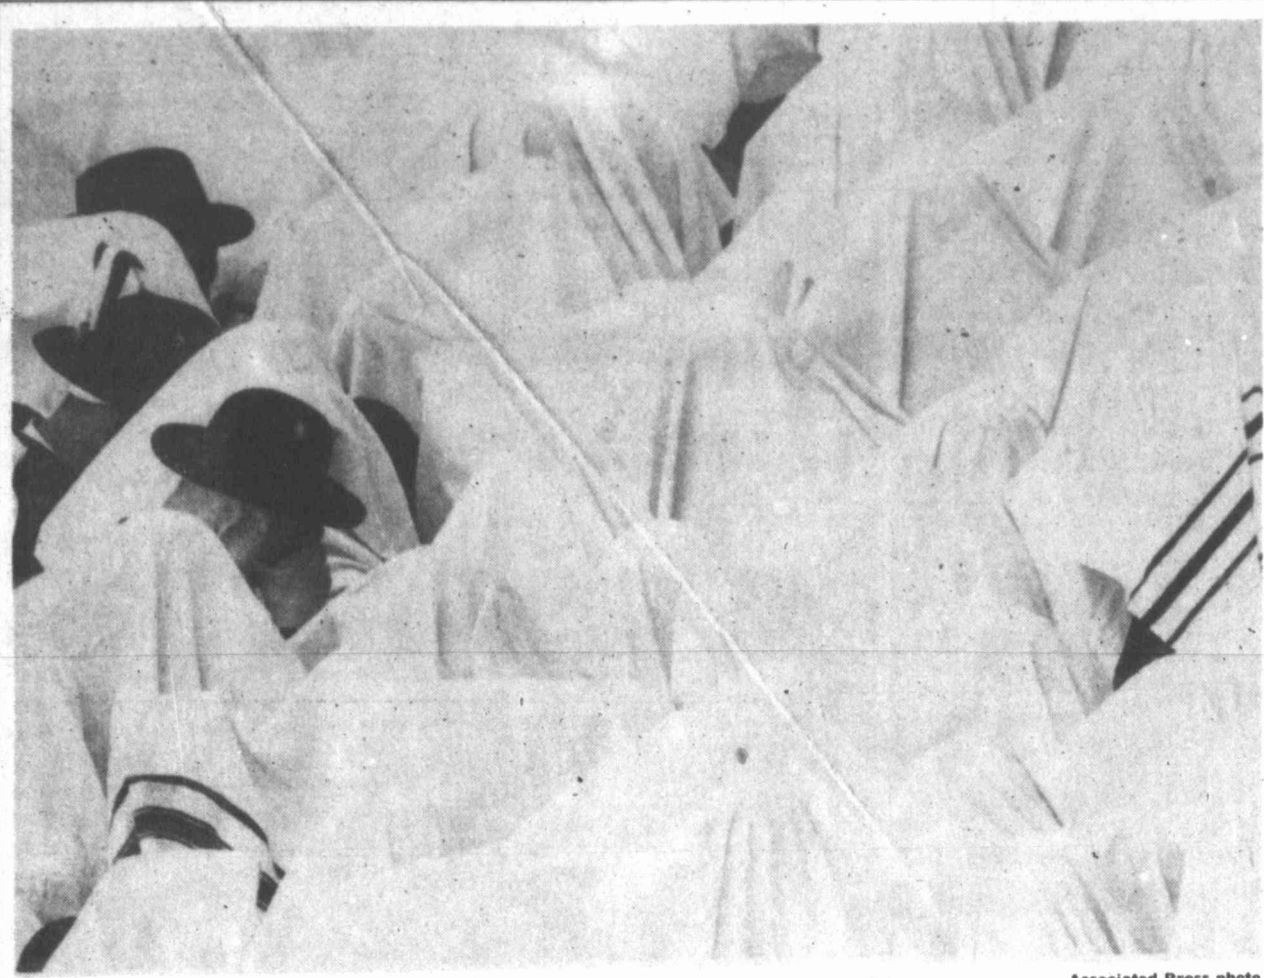

Singers share

Karen Wingert, choir president, left, and choir members Pam and Ronny Moss look over "The Joy of Sharing," a new cookbook made available by the Chancel Choir of the First United Methodist Church. Seventy-eight men and women of the church brought their favorite recipes to make a book of some three hundred tasty dishes.

This beautiful red loose-leaf book is a project of the Chancel Choir and costs $10. The profits from this project will be used to make possible the training retreats of the choir.

Each member of the choir has copies of the book and they are also available through the Music Office of the church, 267-2341.

To secure your see any member of the choir, or call the Music Office (267-2341) to reserve a copy.

First Assembly hosts youth day activities

First assembly of God Church celebrate National Youth Day Of The Assemblies of God on April 26. The theme for the year is "Won by One." The Youth will be participating in the services through out the day. The Youth Choir will be singing as well as solos, duets and an orchestra instrumental by the youth.

At 6 p.m. the Youth Group, Christians in Action, from Bethel Assembly of God in Ackery will present: 1992 Christian Variety Show.

The show features 20 young people dedicated to presenting relevant issues that challenge youth and adults alike. Songs, drama, mime, Christian commercials, all have a powerful Christian message. See what modern day dedication in youth really looks like.

After service there will be fellowship in the fellowship hall for all to enjoy. Before the youth day begins on April 25, the church will sponsor a Youth Party for the youth. It will be an afternoon of food, fun and fellowship.

Club news

1955 Hyperion

The 1955 Hyperion Club met April 7 in the home of Mrs. H.B. Perry. Guest speaker was Dan Wilkins, a local stock broker. His subject was Investments for Women.

Mr. Wilkins has been in business in Big Spring for the last 25 years. His firm represents Edward D. Jones & Co. which is one of the foremost stock exchanges and is in 48 states. It is a member of the New York Stock exchange and is a Conservative Company that does not deal in commodities or penny stocks.

Mr. Wilkins suggested that when looking into an investment program, one should have a plan beforehand. A broker can help by knowing each individual situation and what they want to accomplish, whether a person wants growth or maximum income for the present time. He can help advise on tax free investments, bonds, and C.D.'s that are insured by the government.

A new member, Mrs. Polly St. Clair was present.

New officers for next year were elected. They are President, Mrs. Lloyd Underwood; Vice President, Mrs. Adrian Randle; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Ed Halt; Treasurer, Mrs. Carl Small; Parliamentarian, Mrs. James Cowan.

Co-hostess with Mrs. Perry were Mrs. Harry Ernsting and Mrs. Claire De Ryke.

The May 5 meeting will be a salad luncheon at 12 a.m. in the home of Mrs. James Cowan.

Toastmasters Club

Tall Talkers Toastmasters Club held its weekly meeting April 21. Table topics were led by Earl Bushey.

Each member was given the opportunity to speak on the topic of the day, which was "subway behavior."

Paul Hopper was voted best speaker. His speech was his ice breaker. The best evaluator was Earl Bushey. Melinda Ann Wilhelm was guest.

The goal of Tall Talkers is to educate people to become better leaders and communicators. If you are interested in becoming a Tall Talker Toastmaster, please contact Bailey Anderson at 267-3008.

Howard County Lioness Club

The regular meeting of the Howard County Lioness Club was held at the Wesley Methodist Memorial Church Hall April 20 and was called to order by the President Marguerite Thompson.

Thompson introduced guest speaker Jeff Morris with the Howard County Coalition for the Environment. Morris reported on the importance of the 3R's of recycle - reduce, reuse and recycle, and also explained the different aspects of the 3R's hurting the environment - global warming, habitat destruction and ozone depletion. Mr. Morris stressed the need to recycle and also gave tips such as using your own canvas bag when shopping.

Correspondences were read and minutes read and approved by secretary Kay Clark. Lioness Leta Kirby gave treasurer's report.

Discussions were held on new and old business. Motions were made, seconded and passed to donate $300 to West Texas Lighthouse for the Blind in San Angelo, to work April 25 with the Big Spring Evening Lions Club on Christmas in April, and to work for Faye's Flowers making deliveries on May 8 and 9 for Mother's Day.

Thompson reported all ballots had been counted and it was voted 9 to 1 that our club become an auxiliary club. Also reported that the nominating committee include three Lionesses Sally Beam, Leta Kirby and Rose vonHassell and that our scrapbook placed second at the recent district convention held in Brownwood.

This month's meeting of the board of directors will be held at the home of Lioness Madeline Boadle on April 27 at 7 o'clock.

Lady's conclusion is her business

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I wish other people would quit trying to change my beliefs about religion. I have my own views, and as far as I am concerned they aren't anyone else's business. I grew up in a religious home, but as an adult I have come to my own conclusions about religion and I don't need any help from anyone else. If they want to believe their ideas that is fine with me, but I resent them trying to push them off on me. — M.N.

DEAR M.N.: I sense in your letter a great deal of anger — and I wonder if you have ever stopped to realize it and analyze where it came from. I suspect, to be frank, that you're not only angry at people who try to talk with you about faith in God, but are angry at the world in general, and at anyone or anything which gets in your way.

If I'm right, I pray you will somehow come to grips with this and deal with it — for anger (even when it's suppressed and kept below the surface) can be very destructive. It will destroy your relationships, and it will destroy you if you're not careful. The Bible warns, "An angry man stirs up dissension, and a hot-tempered one commits many sins" (Proverbs 29:22).

I yearn for you to know the love of God — to know that God loves you, and that Christ wants to come into your heart and give you His peace and joy. He wants to take away your anger, and He wants to help you deal with the hidden hurts or broken relationships or other problems which have made you angry.

And I suspect those who have tried to share their faith with you have that same yearning. They know you are an unhappy person, and they know Christ could make a difference in your life if you would let Him. Don't let your pride or anything else keep you from Christ and His love.

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a Christian, but when I commit a sin do I lose my salvation and cease to be a child of God? I have a friend who says this, but I need to know what the Bible says. — Mrs. T.R.

DEAR MRS. T.R.: The Bible makes it clear that when we truly give our lives to Jesus Christ, our salvation is secure forever even when we commit sin (as we will do as long as we are on this earth).

Jesus declared, "My sheep listen to my voice; I know them, and they follow me. I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish; no one can snatch them out of my hand" (John 10:27-28). God's Word also promises that nothing "in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:39).

It's important for you to understand the reason for this. If your salvation depended on your good works, then you would have reason to be uncertain, and to think that your salvation would be taken from you every time you committed a sin. But that's not the case. Your salvation depends on one thing only: what Jesus Christ has already done for you through His sacrifice on the cross. You are saved not because of what you have done, but because of what Christ has done for you. "For it is by grace you have been saved, through faith and this is not from yourselves, it is the gift of God not by works, so that no one can boast" (Ephesians 2:8-9). It isn't your hold on Christ which saves you, but His hold on you.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Our church has just been through its budget discussions for the year, and I guess I am upset at the amount it seems to take to keep our church operating, with salaries, supplies, insurance, etc. Our giving was down last year due to the recession, and we give very little to missions or to help people in need. How much should a church spend on itself, and how much should it spend on things outside its own programs? — P.D.

DEAR P.D.: There is no hard-and-fast rule about how much a church should spend on its own programs and how much it should spend outside. I know many churches, for example, which spend one dollar on missions (or other projects outside their church) for every dollar they spend on their own upkeep and programs.

However, a church's giving (and the giving of its members) is often an indication of what it considers important — and that is the real question I would hope your church will face. Do you have God's priorities? For example, is your church concerned about those who don't know Christ and have never heard the Gospel — either here or in other parts of the world? Christ's command to His disciples has never been rescinded: "Go into all the world and preach the good news to all creation" (Mark 16:15). If you take that command seriously, it will affect your giving. Notice the example of the early Christians in Macedonia. They were poor and faced great difficulty, and yet "Out of the most severe trial, their overflowing joy and their extreme poverty welled up in rich generosity. ... they gave as much as they were able, and even beyond their ability" (2 Corinthians 8:2-3). But the reason they were so generous was because "they gave themselves first to the Lord" (2 Corinthians 8:5).

By the numbers

Paul Bridgewater stands in front of paint-by-number art at the Bridgewater/Lustberg Gallery in New York recently where he is displaying some 200 paint-by-numbers creations from the collection of Michael O'Donoghue.

O'Donoghue, a humor writer, buys the paintings, sometimes for pennies, with an eye towards the intrinsic tastelessness of the genre, and gallery viewers are loving it.

To Whom Do You Look In Times Of Trouble? Lifescope Says, "Only One Is Trustworthy."

We live within the shadow of the almighty, sheltered by the God Who is above all gods. This I declare, that He alone is my refuge, my place of safety; He is my God, and I am trusting Him. For He rescues you from every trap, and protects you from the fatal plague. He will shield you with His wings! They will shelter you. His faithful promises are your armor. Now you don't need to be afraid of the dark any more, nor fear the dangers of the day; nor dread the plagues of darkness, nor disasters in the morning.

Though a thousand fall at my side, though ten thousand are dying around me, the evil will not touch me. I will see how the wicked are punished but I will not share it. For Jehovah is my refuge! I choose the God above all gods to shelter me. How then can evil overtake me or any plague come near? For He orders His angels to protect you wherever you go. They will steady you with their hands to keep you from stumbling against the rocks on the trail. You can safely meet a lion or step on poisonous snakes, yes, even trample them beneath your feet!

Jesus said, "It is true that I have given you the power to tread on snakes and scorpions and to overcome all the enemy's power — there is nothing at all that can do you any harm. Yet is not your power over evil spirits which should give you such joy, but the fact that your names are written in Heaven."

For the Lord says, "Because he loves Me, I will rescue him; I will make him great because he trusts in My name. When he calls on Me I will answer; I will be with him in trouble, and rescue him and honor him. I will satisfy him with a full life and give him My salvation."

It is good to say, "Thank You" to the Lord, to sing praises to the God Who is above all gods. Every morning tell Him, "Thank You for Your kindness," and every evening rejoice in all His faithfulness.

O Lord, what miracles You do! And how deep are Your thoughts... No fool can comprehend this: that although the wicked flourish like weeds, there is only eternal destruction ahead of them. But the Lord continues forever, exalted in the heavens, while His enemies — all evil doers — shall be scattered.

Good hints for those with halitosis

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady whose problem was halitosis — bad breath:

It is most likely due to a chemical imbalance in her system and can be successfully treated with chlorophyll tablets, which can be purchased in any health food store. They will also eliminate temporary bad breath caused by tobacco, alcohol, onions and garlic. — VICKSBURG, MISS.

DEAR VICKSBURG: I was deluged with letters from readers who have also "been there" and are eager to help. Read on: DEAR ABBY: Please tell the lady with bad breath to mix baking soda and peroxide to the consistency of toothpaste, and brush her teeth with it three to five times every day. I read this in a magazine and it really works — MEMPHIS, TENN.

DEAR ABBY: Bad breath can be the result of the formation of exudates in the crevices above the tonsils. These exudates contain bacteria that have a very offensive odor. I cured my problem by flushing out the crevices with a Water Pik, set on the lowest setting, once a week. — DENTON, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: After my best friend told me my breath was offensive, I went to my doctor. He sent me to my dentist, who said it could be due to tartar under my gums. He referred me to a dentist who specializes in the scraping tartar procedure, and it solved my problem. — NO NAME IN NORWALK, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I went from doctor to doctor — finally, the last one said, "The yeast from foods we consume can cause it." I am a big bread lover, so I cut down on my consumption of bread. — FREE AT LAST IN INDIANA

DEAR ABBY: If the woman with bad breath would simply brush her tongue every time she brushes her teeth, her bad breath would disappear like magic. I have been doing this ever since I read it in your column about 15 years ago. — ELEANOR IN BOZEMAN, MONT.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had terrible bad breath! Finally, after several rounds of antibiotics, his doctor sent him to an ENT specialist. The new doctor found the cause: My husband's lingual tonsils (the ones at the base of the tongue — not the set on either side of his throat) were infected (they were rotting!), hence the terrible odor. The tonsils were removed, which solved his bad breath problem. — PUEBLO, COLO.

DEAR ABBY: When people tend to step back a few feet as you come up to speak with them, you can be sure something is wrong. At times my mouth tasted like the bottom of a chicken coop. I went to the doctor and he prescribed Mylanta II, because he thought my bad breath was caused by food lodging in my hiatal hernia. He said the Mylanta II would coat the pocket of the hernia and allow the food particles to slip out. Such a simple remedy for something that caused so much distress! Thanks for being there, Abby. — PEG S. IN FLA.
