Candidate a hit with SWCID students

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Adrian Randle, write-in candidate for the Howard College Board of Trustees position for Precinct 2, made an appearance at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf student demonstration meeting Wednesday.

He was greeted by the student demonstrators with the deaf clap and cheers. The cheers continued throughout his presentation as he spoke of the need for communication between students, faculty and administration in the Howard College district.

"The board needs to be more cognizant of what goes on," Randle said. "I will promise you this — I will not sit idly by and doze during board meetings."

"I am deeply concerned about what has gone on. I want Howard College to do well. I want SWCID to do well."

Randle said he hopes to bring to the school a sense of cohesiveness.

During the meeting, Randle asked the student demonstrators to show their support by distributing leaflets at polling places and if possible through monetary donations.

The students voted and assigned Thad Morgan to organize the leaflet distribution. They also voted to give a donation to Randle's campaign.

Randle said the furor at the college — the student dissatisfaction, the termination of faculty and the sense of unrest at the college and SWCID — was the deciding factor on whether he would run for the position.

Randle is a retired senior customer representative for Texas Electric Service Company, where he worked 31 years. Although he received a bachelor's in education from Central State College at Edmond, Okla., a 1948 recession led him to choose a position in the private sector, he said.

Randle and his wife, Mary, offer the Randle scholarship at Howard College.

Nine dead in LA riots

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Blacks and whites attacked police headquarters and fires, looting and gun battles broke out overnight after four white policemen were acquitted in the videotaped beating of a black motorist. At least nine people were killed and 138 hurt.

Gov. Pete Wilson declared a state of emergency and 2,000 National Guardsmen were sent to armories and other gathering points to await orders as the city tried to quell the worst outbreak of violence since the Watts riots of 1965.

"This is a matter to be reconciled by the courts and not on the streets," Wilson said.

Blacks dragged motorists from their cars and beat them, looters — most of them black — emptied a supermarket, and more than 300 fires were reported.

At dawn, police with shotguns guarded firefighters as they battled more than 30 blazes, authorities said. Streets were largely deserted. Pillars of smoke rose across a wide area of the city as officers patrolled in riot gear.

Most of the violence broke out in predominantly black South Central Los Angeles within hours of the verdict in the Rodney King case. Violence also broke out downtown, a mostly non-residential section, and white neighborhoods.

"Guilty! Guilty! Guilty! Guilty!" young men and women chanted outside police headquarters downtown, which came under attacks from hundreds of blacks and whites soon after the verdict. "No justice, no peace!"

Students learn beef from hoof to market

Students who learned Wednesday how cattle are raised, sold, slaughtered and marketed said they did not realize the work it takes to provide the steak lunch they would soon feast on.

About 20 Junior Leadership of Big Spring students participated in the tour sponsored by the Howard County Extension Program Council. It began at the Bob Price ranch in Elbow and ended at the Brandin' Iron restaurant on U.S. 87.

"I never thought about how the meat got on the table," said Brian Brown, 17, a junior at Big Spring High School. "It really impressed me how much time and effort it takes to put something on the table."

"I thought it would make me not eat meat anymore," said Kara Coleman, 16, a junior. Coleman, who assured that she would eat steak at lunch, added, "It was kind of interesting."

Officials look into tax policy changes

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Local government and business leaders plan to form a committee to both renew and research possible changes to a tax abatement policy.

An abatement policy passed in February 1990 apparently expired in February, members of the Intergovernmental Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce said at a luncheon meeting Wednesday at Howard College.

"It's probably going to have to be revised some," said Chamber President James Welch.

Welch criticized last month's action by the County Commissioners Court to abate only 17 percent of allowable abatement on $38.1 million in improvements to the Big Spring Fina refinery. Such actions could stymie future economic development here, he said.

"Personally, and as a representative of most of the people on the Chamber board, I'm embarrassed by the blow the commissioners dealt Fina," Welch said. "I don't think we can get away with that too many times."

Commissioners cited no permanent jobs being created by the plant improvements — although about 100 construction jobs will be sustained a year — and high local gas prices among reasons to cut the abatement. No county representatives were at the meeting.

School unveils construction plans

By STEVE REAGAN
City Editor

Abilene State School officials unveiled plans Wednesday to construct two homes and hire about 30 people as part of an expansion of its Community Services program here in Big Spring.

The community service program is designed to provide state school clients additional independence and to re-integrate them into the community as much as possible.

The two new houses, which will take about two years and cost about $565,000 to construct, will be home to about 12 total clients. In addition, the state school will hire about 30 full-time personnel to staff and administer the homes.

Constructing homes is a bit of a departure for the program, which currently rents six homes in Big Spring. Clients at these homes pay their own rent, utilities and food.

Abilene Superintendent Bill Waddell said there were two reasons for the project: The school is currently placing more clients into the community; and the state legislature has set aside money for the project.

"Retrofitting existing houses for 'The homes will be well-staffed. We've been here two years, and we haven't had any significant (problems.) I can't guarantee you that we won't have any (problems) . . . but we'll be well-staffed and well-trained. (The staff will) keep on top of things.'

David Feemster

the project is more expensive than building new ones," he added.

Once the homes are built and staffed, state school officials estimate yearly state expenditures of about $584,000. Of that figure, $489,216 will be in salaries for additional staff. The program currently has yearly expenditures of $1.18 million in Big Spring.

Twenty-two of the clients in the program work in various jobs in Big Spring, including Wal-Mart, Walls Industries, Winn Dixie, West Side Day Care Center and on various janitorial and maintenance crews at the Howard County Training Center.

"The homes will be well-staffed," said David Feemster, director of the project in Big Spring. "We've been here two years, and we haven't had any significant (problems.) I can't guarantee you that we won't have any (problems) . . . but we'll be well-staffed and well-trained. (The staff will) keep on top of things."

Assistant City Manager Tom Decell said the homes could be located in any zone designated for single-family residences, and Martha King, project director at the state school, said her goal is for the homes to blend into a neighborhood as much as possible.

"My goal is to have two nice brick homes that you couldn't tell from any other home in Big Spring," she said. "It seems that constructing homes causes more concerns (among residents). There's no reason for that."

State insurance board puts compromise in motion

AUSTIN (AP) — The public has 30 days to comment on a proposal to stop insurance companies from denying auto coverage to policyholders who file certain claims for damage that wasn't their fault.

The State Board of Insurance is to vote on the proposal after the public comment period.

"Insurance underwriting decisions should be based on events within the driver's control — not on bad luck, bad weather or somebody else's bad driving," Insurance Board Chairwoman Claire Koriath said Wednesday.

Insurance industry representatives and the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, which works on behalf of consumers, said the proposed rules represent a compromise.

Consumer advocates sought the protections after receiving complaints that insurance companies were dropping policyholders who made several damage claims, such as for hail or towing.

The insurance industry initially opposed any proposal to restrict their cancellation practices, saying it needed a free hand to get rid of policyholders who file fraudulent claims or were bad risks.

Under the compromise, an insurance company would be prohibited from refusing to renew an auto policy because of claims involving damage caused by the weather; flying or falling objects, such as gravel; or accidents with animals.

An insurer, however, could raise the deductible if there are three claims on damage by flying or falling objects during a three-year period.

In addition, an insurer would be free to not renew a policy if the driver made two claims within a one-year period for other "not-at-fault" damages, such as theft or a hit-and-run accident.

Amy Johnson, of the Office of Public Insurance Counsel, said that part of the compromise was not as good as she would have liked, but that currently insurance companies can cancel policies for just one "not-at-fault" damage claim.

"It could be better," she said. "We think this is a good step. This rule balances the consumer's ability to use insurance with the legitimate concerns about fraud."

"It's a balanced compromise," said Jerry Johns, of the Southwestern Insurance Information Service. He said the proposal "protects the good drivers of Texas while at the same time permits the insurance companies of Texas to not be forced to insure those who chose to abuse the system financially."

Board member Allene Evans urged drivers to shop around for the best deal. "It might be worth paying a little more if the company does not believe in penalizing you for using your insurance."

James Black, a state prison employee from Huntsville, who testified at a hearing last week on the proposed rules and was invited to the negotiation sessions, described the compromise as a step in solving the problem.

But he criticized the insurance industry as a whole. "We pay and pay, and if we try to collect they hold it over our heads. They want our money, but they do not want to pay out."

Thomas released from prison

SULPHUR SPRINGS (AP) — Rickey Dale Thomas hasn't seen much of Texas, but already he's seen enough.

The 29-year-old Californian has been vindicated of charges he snatched an elderly woman's purse, but not before serving nine months of a life sentence for the crime.

Thomas was freed from the Hopkins County jail on Wednesday after another man, 22-year-old Ricky L. Knox, confessed to the October 1989 robbery. The ordeal taught Thomas one thing about Texas.

"They've got a sign down here, 'Don't Mess With Texas,'" he said, referring to the state's anti-litter campaign slogan. "They made a believer out of me."

District Court Judge Lanny R.

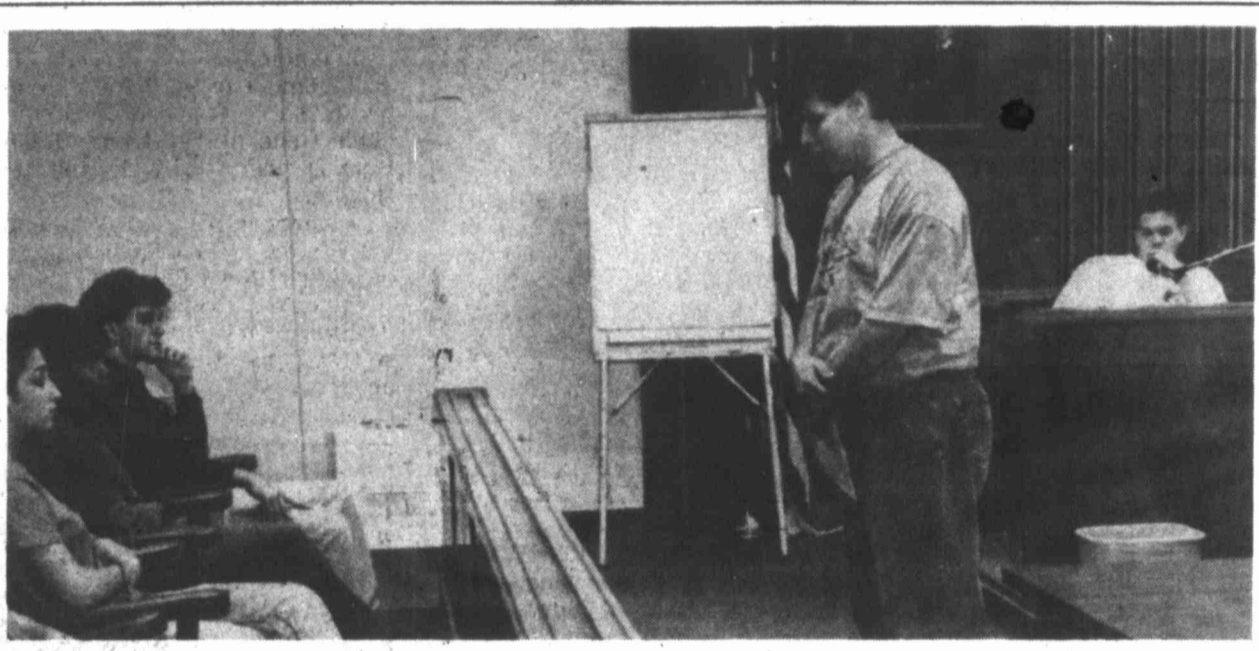

Ramsay signed an order dropping all charges against Thomas shortly before 10 a.m. He was released minutes later.

"No, they can't make up the lost time to me," Thomas said as he left the jail. "Freedom is priceless."

Thomas was to appear on the Phil Donahue show in New York before returning to San Diego, where he was working when he was arrested.

A grand jury last week indicted Knox in the robbery of an 89-year-old woman, whose purse contained $27.

Knox waived extradition from Salt Lake City and was transferred to the county jail about 30 minutes after Thomas departed. He refused comment to reporters.

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharon Stone, who plays a bisexual serial killer in "Basic Instinct," says she doesn't mind being a sex object.

The 34-year-old actress said in the May issue of Vogue that as a child, her brains got all the attention after she scored a genius-level 154 on an IQ test.

"I just find the whole sex-object thing funny, because I'd been so objectified in another way when I was a kid," Stone said.

"I understand that none of it means anything, only that if you're unusual, you create an impact that people are uncomfortable with, so they don't know what to do with you."

Stone worked as a model, posed nude for Playboy and acted in a string of third-rate movies — with the exception of "Total Recall," opposite Arnold Schwarzenegger — before hitting it big with "Basic Instinct."

STONE EASTON

nominated for four Tony Awards.

NEW YORK (AP) — Meg Ryan and Ronald Reagan denied daughter Patti Davis' allegations that Mrs. Reagan was a pill-popping child beater.

In an interview to be broadcast tonight on ABC's "PrimeTime Live," the 39-year-old Davis said her mother took up to six tranquilizers a day and beat her — sometimes daily — while she was growing up.

And she said her father, then California governor, didn't believe her when she told him.

The "charges of physical mistreatment and substance abuse are absolutely false," the Reagans said in a statement Wednesday from Los Angeles.

Excerpts of the interview were published in Wednesday's Daily News.

Davis, who has not spoken with her parents in several years, is promoting her autobiography, "The Way I See It."

Brooks wins top honors in country music

UNIVERSAL CITY, Calif. (AP) — Garth Brooks, the country showman who outsold even Michael Jackson on the pop charts, was named entertainer of the year and top male vocalist by the Academy of Country Music for the second year in a row.

Also winning two top awards Wednesday was lanky Alan Jackson, who was honored for best single and album, both titled "Don't Rock the Jukebox."

"It was a very slow start for me," Brooks said backstage after the 27th annual awards.

Brooks, 30, has led the current renaissance in country music, selling more than 15 million albums and appearing on prime-time television.

"Because of Garth Brooks, we are all doing a lot better," said Billy Dean, who won trophies for new male singer and for best song, "Somewhere in My Broken Heart."

Reba McEntire won the best female vocalist award for the sixth time, and her video "Is

"To all the women out there who went back to school and said, 'Yes, we can do it,' congratulations," she said.

Top group honors went to Diamond Rio, and the Nashville team Brooks & Dunn won the vocal duet and new group awards.

"We're not worthy," joked Kix Brooks, one-half the singing duo with Ronnie Dunn.

The award for new female vocalist went to Trisha Yearwood.

The non-competitive Pioneer Award went to Willie Nelson for "outstanding and unprecedented achievement in the field of country music." Past recipients include Gene Autry, Johnny Cash, Buck Owens, Kitty Wells and Roy Rogers.

"Country music is on its way up, and it's the young people who are behind it," Nelson said.

Winners announced during the two-hour NBC special were selected by the 3,000-member academy.

Democrats say Bush was given gold mine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders say their own members gave the Bush administration a political gold mine by succumbing to Republican demands for a massive release of records from the House bank.

"It was dangerous, the road we took tonight," Rep. David Nagle, D-Iowa, said late Wednesday after House Democrats gave Republicans their votes.

House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., sought to challenge the sweeping subpoena by special counsel Malcolm Wilkey, who demanded copies of every check processed by the now-closed bank over a 39-month period, not just the checks of those who wrote penalty-free overdrafts.

But the House rejected Foley's position 284-131, with nearly half the Democrats abandoning their leaders, and then voted 347-64 to hand over the microfilm copies of the hundreds of thousands of checks. All the no votes were from Democrats.

One Democrat who voted with the GOP, Rep. Charlie Wilson, D-Texas, had just one word for it: "craven."

Others who stood with Foley refused to give in.

Reps. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, and Sidney Yates, D-Ill., filed suit immediately after the first vote to quash the subpoena. Their brief argued the subpoena violated the House's powers as an independent branch of government.

It should take a few days to make copies of the material Wilkey wants.

"This counsel is just a political animal out of control," said Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., who called the capitulation on the floor "something we're going to be ashamed of."

"During this '92 campaign, you'll be reading ... about the personal checks of individuals in this chamber," said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Police captain sentenced to death

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A white-police captain was sentenced to death and four black colleagues got 15-year prison terms today for murdering 11 black funeral mourners.

The landmark case was the first time a group of policemen has been convicted of a mass killing despite repeated accusations of security force involvement in black township violence.

The highly publicized case has packed the courtroom for months and spectators gathered in the street before the sentencing was announced at the Pietermaritzburg Supreme Court.

Judge Andrew Wilson sentenced Capt. Brian Mitchell to death and gave 15-year terms to four constables for the Dec. 3, 1988, massacre of 11 blacks funeral mourners in Trust Feed, a village near the southeastern city of Pietermaritzburg.

The judge said Mitchell showed a "completely cold-blooded approach" to the massacre. "He made no attempt to ascertain how many people were shot or injured."

(Police Captain Brian) Mitchell showed a 'completely cold-blooded approach' to the massacre. 'He made no attempt to ascertain how many people were shot or injured.'

Andrew Wilson
Judge

the judge said.

President F.W. de Klerk suspended executions in South Africa two years ago, but judges are still permitted to hand out death sentences. Executions had been carried out by hanging.

The five were convicted last week, sparking renewed debate about the role the security forces in the violence, which has claimed more than 11,000 lives since 1984. The officers have not yet said if they would appeal.

"This case shows the police have a culpability in the violence," said Gill Marcus, spokeswoman for the African National Congress, the leading black organization led by Nelson Mandela.

Police commanders maintain the force is impartial in the township fighting.

According to prosecutors and witnesses, an official from the Inkatha Freedom Party, the conservative Zulu group, asked police to help eliminate political rivals in Trust Feed.

Police agreed, and staged a nighttime raid, fatally shooting 11 people and wounding eight more. The bodies of the dead were extensively mutilated.

Marcus said the case was not an isolated incident, and the verdict supported the ANC's accusations that police have assisted Inkatha in the fighting.

In recent years, security force members have been convicted of unlawful killings. But the so-called Trust, Feed massacre marks the first time a group of policemen have been found guilty of a mass killing.

English: The tie that binds

A Census Bureau report contained the startling finding that a significant number of Americans say they have trouble speaking and understanding English. While it is desirable to have a country of diverse cultures and languages, America needs the common bond of English to continue to thrive.

The United States is rapidly becoming a multilingual society. The Census Bureau reports bilingualism is increasing, a positive development. More Americans speak English and at least one other language.

But a shocking number of people in America's larger cities cannot speak English. In Miami, nearly three-quarters of the residents speak a language other than English at home, with 67 percent of those saying they don't speak English very well.

In New York City, 41 percent of the residents speak a foreign language. Nearly half of that 41 percent said they did not speak English very well. More than a fourth of the people in Santa Fe, N.M., Hartford, Conn., and Providence, R.I., aren't conversant in English.

People who know little English are at a disadvantage in mainstream America. They can find it harder to get a job, obtain health care and communicate with government officials.

Learning English should be — and often is — one of the first priorities for those who intend to make the United States their permanent home. English is the language of American popular culture, literature, commerce and politics.

It would be devastating if the trend toward a multilingual society divided a rich heritage and created a segmented culture of Americans who found it difficult to communicate with one another.

Special thanks to deputies, district attorney

To the editor:

A special thank you to the Howard County Sheriff's office, Deputy Sheriffs Bill King and Woodie Howell and District Attorney Rick Hamby.

I gave the sheriff's office a call at 6 p.m. Saturday evening, April 18, and Deputy Sheriff Bill King responded and started the paperwork needed to make an arrest. Deputy Sheriff Woodie Howell went out on his day off and made the arrest, and the case was finished by 9:30 p.m. that same evening.

A special thanks also goes out to District Attorney Rick Hamby for the professional and speedy way he handled this case. . . . The sheriff's office and the district attorney's office were at anytime willing to do anything to help me and my sons get through this ordeal.

I believe everyone in Big Spring and Howard County should be proud of our sheriff's department for doing a great job. These three men have done everything in their power to help my sons and show them the system does work when you become a victim. Thank you, DERIC, DILLAN AND BECKY CALHOUN Coahoma

'Creature' committed truly despicable act

To the editor:

Late Friday or early Saturday, April 17 or 18, a creature committed a truly despicable act — cutting the cables and stealing 5 flags from the Vietnam Memorial.

While I was at the Memorial that Saturday afternoon, approximately 40 people came out — residents bringing visitors to the Memorial, a dad bringing his children for the first time, a vet currently attending the Sgt. Major Academy at Ft. Bliss and so on.

I had to explain to each what had happened. Virtually everyone expressed doubts, regarding the creature's ancestry or legality of their parents' marriage. Several expressed a desire to spend some time in a locked room with the creature.

I've been using the term creature because the paper can't print the more accurate, descriptive terms and I don't want to insult any living being by calling you an animal.

There simply is no logical reason for your act. It certainly wasn't the action of anyone with class. You've desecrated a memorial to men and women who gave their lives for this country and to men and women that have yet to come home — our POW/MIA's. I can think of nothing more despicable.

The Memorial Committee now has to find a way to modify the poles to prevent further theft and purchase more flags — an unnecessary expense caused by you and money we simply don't have or, if we had, could have been used in another manner.

Your action has caused nothing but anger from everyone that has spoken of or knows of your theft and destruction — your desecration of a memorial the entire community is proud of.

I have no doubts about the creature or creatures reading this. I can only hope they have family or friends with enough honesty, integrity, and class to realize the wrong that has been done and that one of them will turn this sicko in. Whether or not this happens, whoever did this despicable act can rest assured of one thing — you've earned the contempt of more people than you can count.

Jurors heeded defense warning

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The jury that acquitted four Los Angeles policemen in the Rodney King beating heeded defense lawyers' warnings that police are "the thin blue line" separating the law-abiding from the lawless.

The lack of testimony from King and the transfer of the trial from ethnically diverse Los Angeles to Simi Valley, a predominantly white suburb known as a bedroom community for police, may have tipped the scales toward the defense.

Only six blacks were among 400 prospects summoned for jury duty. Two blacks who made it into the jury box were removed by defense challenges.

King is black; the four officers white.

In powerful closing arguments, defense lawyers portrayed their clients as guardians of an endangered society.

Defense lawyer Michael Stone, a former policeman, recalled a sign in a police gymnasium: "There are no second-place ribbons in a street fight."

"These officers, these defendants, do not get paid to lose a street fight," he argued. "They do not get paid to roll around in the dirt with the likes of Rodney Glen King."

"That's not their job. That's not their duty," he said. "And if we as members of the community demand they do that, the thin blue line that separates the law-abiding and the not law-abiding will disintegrate."

The prosecution asked jurors to trust their own eyes, relying on the videotape shot by a neighborhood resident to show that the clubbing and kicking of King was unnecessary, unreasonable force.

King, a convicted robber, was not called by either side as a witness. Prosecutors have said the tape spoke for itself.

"Had King been able to talk to us, the video might have been looked at differently," a juror who demanded anonymity was quoted as saying on ABC's "Nightline."

Defense lawyers played the tape so many times at so many different speeds that its impact may have been blunted. And they offered enough explanations for what it showed to provide reasonable doubt. Defense experts said the four did what they were trained to do: inflict pain and break bones with their batons if necessary.

Two officers said they believed King was "dusted," or under the influence of PCP, and had superhuman strength.

The fact that no trace of PCP was found in King's system was irrelevant, the defense contended. Lawyers spoke of the officers' "reasonable perceptions" and urged jurors to stand in their shoes that night.

"I was completely in fear for my life, scared to death that if the guy got up again he was going to take my gun and there would be a shooting and I did everything I could to keep him down on the ground," testified Officer Laurence Powell, explaining why he beat King while he was down.

Only six of the 54 witnesses called by both sides were not law enforcement officers.

The defection of Officer Theodore Briseno had no impact. He'd testified that the other three were out of control.

"They truly believe it's a jungle and there's this thin blue line and if force is necessary and if coming in here and tarnishing a good man is necessary then it's OK because it's for a greater good," said his lawyer, John Barnett.

Jurors left the courtroom without explaining the verdicts. Some fled their homes rather than face reporters.

But the 65-year-old forewoman may have said it all in the questionnaire she filled out three months ago.

"I believe it's the responsibility of the court to punish, not the police officers," she said. "But I believe a police officer should be entitled to use sufficient force to subdue a criminal or protect his own life."

Killing to stop killing

This could be called "The Year of the Killing Fields." It seems that everyone has a reason to kill somebody in order to save somebody else.

I was walking past an abortion clinic when a "right-to-lifer" ordered me to choose sides. He said that if I was against the "lifers" he would kill me.

"That's a hostile attitude, particularly since you are in the business of saving human beings."

"Pro-choice people are not human beings. They are murderers and should get the death penalty."

I explained to the man that while I didn't agree with what he said, I would defend to the death his right to say it, as long as he would do the same for me.

He said, "Forget it." "Look," I told him, "I happen to be a friend of both Roe and Wade and I am sure that they would not approve of you setting fire to clinics that legally perform abortions."

He responded, "That's how much you know. Neither Roe nor Wade condoned murder. If we don't prevent this carnage, who will?"

"But you can't kill people to save them," I said. "You are telling women what to do with their bodies, after your sex got them into this mess in the first place."

At this point a pro-choice lady came up and yelled, "If you care so much about life, why are you trying to kill everyone?"

"Why don't you drop dead!" the anti-abortion protester shouted back.

"I have no intention of dropping dead, but I'll destroy anyone who tries to close down this clinic."

I didn't realize how heated this debate could become. The pro-choice woman was sticking her finger in the right-to-lifer's chest.

"This is not a question of life or death — it's one of choice. Those of us who want to keep abortion legal are not murderers, but we are willing to die for what Roe and Wade believed in."

Neither side seemed to be getting anywhere, so I strolled over to the Supreme Court.

A large group was marching in a circle protesting the execution of Robert Alton Harris. One sign proclaimed, "Death to the governor of California;" another read, "Capital punishment is cruel and unusual and so is the Supreme Court;" another just said, "Murder most foul."

The capital punishment group a few feet away was yelling things like, "Take gas," and "Pull the switch," and "If he can't feel it, it isn't punishment."

The two groups were screaming at each other, and both gave the impression that none of them would settle for anything less than first-degree homicide. The pro-gas-chamber demonstrators were demanding the castration of their opponents.

I tried to put my 2 cents in. "I speak for the voices of sanity," I said, holding my arm in the air like Mahatma Gandhi. "We should be nice to each other."

Both sides started to pelt me with vegetables.

"Go back to where you came from," someone shouted. "Are you crazy?" I yelled. "I just came from an anti-abortion rally."

Leaders of the pack

Amber Grisham and Anne Rodriguez are the heart and soul of the Big Spring Lady Steers track team.

Friday and Saturday the duo will be leading the Lady Steers into the Region 1-4A track meet in San Angelo. Field events begin Friday at 2 p.m. The 3,200 meter finals are at 5:30 p.m. The running prelims start at 6 p.m. Saturday the running finals begin at 6 p.m.

The Lady Steers are coming off their second consecutive 3-4A district championship, having scored 164 points. In all the Lady Steers qualified 11 athletes in individual events and the 1,600 meter relay. Coach Jay Kennedy is expecting big things. "We want to try to finish in the top four. We've got a lot of girls...if they do what they're supposed to do," said Kennedy.

Grisham, a senior, and Rodriguez, a junior, will be making their third trips to regional. Grisham showed her versatility by scoring 28 points at district. She won the triple jump, finished second in the high jump and 100 meter hurdles and finished fifth in the 300 hurdles. In addition, she's an alternate on the 1,600 relay team.

Grisham says district and regional meets mean a lot and she let the underclasswomen on the team know it with a little talk just before the district meet. "I just wanted to tell them about district, explain to them what it means to win, what it means to the coach and what it means to us personally," said Grisham.

"It's not that I'm really the leader, everybody has worked together. Nobody has lagged behind."

Grisham feels her best chance is in the 100 hurdles, the event she calls her favorite. Last year she finished fifth at regional. This year she has a career-best of 16.02 and has consistently run in the low 16s the past few weeks.

"I've been running well lately. I'll definitely go into the 15s no matter what," she said. "I'm tired of barely missing it."

Rodriguez was also "Miss Versatility" at the district meet, scoring 37 points. She won the 800 and 400 meters, anchored the winning 1,600 relay team, finished second in the long jump behind freshman teammate Kathy Smith and placed fourth in the triple jump.

Rodriguez's times of 2:22.57 and 58.74 in the 400 are the second fastest times in the region. Last year she finished fifth in the 400 at the regional meet.

This year running the 800 started as an experiment. But soon she was taken off the 400 relay and started concentrating on the 800 and 400.

"Coach (Kennedy) told me I was going to run the 800 and I said OK," Rodriguez said. "Now I don't know which one I like more, the 800 or the 400."

Rodriguez will team with Smith, Casey Cook and Hope Martinez in the 1,600. Big Spring's best time is 4:07.10 and Rodriguez anchored with a 57.2 Kennedy says he thinks his team could earn a surprise trip in the relay. Wichita Falls Hirschi has a best of 4:00.00. Joshua and Pampa have run in the 4:03s and Frenship has run in the 4:06s.

Rodriguez said the regional meet is hardest for the younger runners. "They don't realize how frightening it (regional) is. I really haven't gotten nervous this year, just a little. My freshman year and last year I was scared."

"This year I'll just go out there and do my best, just go out there and run."

Lakers win in overtime; prevent Blazers sweep

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Heat and the Spurs are history in the NBA playoffs. The Los Angeles Lakers, on the other hand, are trying to make history.

While Miami and San Antonio were swept from the playoffs Wednesday night, the Lakers stayed alive with a 121-119 overtime victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Vlade Divac made a three-point play with 27.5 seconds remaining in overtime to lift the Lakers over the Trail Blazers, who lost despite a 42-point, 12-rebound, nine-assist performance by Clyde Drexler.

The Blazers still lead the opening-round series 2-1. Game 4 will be played Friday night at the Forum, with a fifth game, if needed, scheduled Sunday in Portland. The Lakers are trying to become the fourth team in NBA history to win a best-of-5 series after losing the first two games.

"We're not going to give up," said Lakers guard Byron Scott, who scored 22 points. "We know our situation. We've got to play with what we've got. ... I didn't want to start my vacation yet."

Michael Jordan sent the Heat on vacation, scoring 56 points to lead the defending champion Chicago Bulls over Miami 119-114 for a 3-0 victory in their opening-round series.

Jordan, who holds the NBA playoff record with 63 points in a double overtime game against Boston in 1986, helped the Bulls overcome an 18-point deficit and improve their lifetime record against Miami to 17-0.

"This is prime time. ... You've got to elevate your game, and I think I did," said Jordan, who hit 20 of 30 shots from the field and 16 of 18 free throws.

The Phoenix Suns completed a sweep of San Antonio with a 101-92 victory over the injury-riddled Spurs. Guards Jeff Hornacek and Kevin Johnson each scored 22 points, including 11 apiece in the fourth quarter, to pace the Suns.

NBA Playoffs

"We have gained momentum for the next round. We did not want this to go to a fourth or fifth game," Johnson said.

Phoenix will meet the winner of the Portland-Los Angeles Lakers series, while the Chicago will face the winner of the New York-Detroit matchup. The Knicks lead 2-1 going into Game 4 Friday night at Detroit.

The Lakers' victory was overshadowed by the violence and looting that was taking place in a nearby neighborhood during the game.

Tonight, Cleveland plays at New Jersey, Utah visits the Los Angeles Clippers and Golden State plays at Seattle. Cleveland, Utah and Seattle lead their series 2-1 and can advance to the next round with one more victory.

Lakers 121, Portland 119, OT
At Inglewood, Divac's three-point play gave the Lakers a 117-116 lead in overtime. He scored underneath after taking a pass from Elden Campbell, was fouled, and made the free throw.

Terry Teagle, who scored 26 points in his first start of the season for the Lakers, made two free throws with 15.2 seconds to go after stealing the ball from Buck Williams and getting fouled.

That made it 119-116, and the Lakers held on. Sedale Threatt had 24 points for LA.

"I don't buy the hype that they don't belong here," Drexler said of the Lakers, who made the playoffs on the last day of the season. "They're an NBA team. They started a small lineup and decided to go down fighting offensively."

Suns 101, Spurs 92
At San Antonio, the Spurs got within four on a 3-pointer by Vinnie Johnson with 35 seconds left. But they never scored again.

Snyder man wins bass tournament

Gary Gale of Snyder was the big winner in the Big Spring Bass Club's open tournament at Lake Colorado City Saturday.

There were 149 entries and Gale won the $1,000 first prize with catches weighing 8.2 pounds. Getting second place and earning $500 was Glen Faught of Abilene (7.2 pounds). Faught also won the big bass contest (7.2). Gale was second in the big bass competition (5.2).

A total of 139 bass were caught, weighing a total of 250 pounds.

Sands gridder will become Wildcat

Sands Mustangs senior Eric Herm recently signed a letter of intent to play football for the Abilene Christian University Wildcats.

The 5-100-10, 165-pound Herm was an All-State linebacker for the Sands Mustangs. The Mustangs went 12-1 this past season, losing in the semifinals to eventual state six-man champion Fort Hancock.

Herm expects to be moved to safety in college. He added he's hoping to add about 20 pounds to his weight over the summer.

Ward wins first in golf play

In news from the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association

In Monday night play Annie Ward shot a net score of 29 to win first place. Connie Fowler and Betty Auckland finished second and third with 34s.

In Thursday night couples play, the team of Jim and Georgie Newsom, Johnny and darla Swindell and James Banks shot a four-under-par 32 for first place.

Piecing the puzzle together

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Coach Randy Britton says he's been puzzled about his relay teams all season long. This weekend at the region 1-4A meet in San Angelo, Britton is hoping the pieces of the puzzle will fit together.

All season long the Steers have had one of the best times in the area in both the 400 and 1,600 meter relays. That's the good news.

The bad news is that up until this point, Big Spring hasn't improved as much as Britton had hoped for.

But heading into the regional meet the Steers are still sitting pretty. Big Spring has the third fastest time in the region in the 400 relay. The team of Tim Pearson, Duane Edmonds, James Soles and Stacy Martin has clocked a 42.20. Only Everman and Lubbock Dunbar have faster times.

In the 1,600 relay the foursome of Lehebron Farr, Pearson, Edmonds and Nick Roberson ran a school-record 3:19.20 last week in the regional qualifier's meet in Odessa. Lubbock Estacado's 3:18.50 is the only team with a faster time.

"I've never had a team that has run this fast this early, but not improve very much," Britton says. The Steers were running in the low 42s and around the 3:20 mark early in the season. But since that time, improvement has come at a slow pace.

"A lot can happen in the sprint (400) relay," Britton says. "Part of it is poor handoffs or one or two persons will run great legs and the other two don't. We've got good enough speed to break 43 everytime we run. Last week we had three poor handoffs and still ran a 42.7."

Martin, the anchorman, is confident the Steers will break the 42-second barrier at regional. "We'll run a 41.5 at least," he predicts.

The Steers, however, had some bad news in the 1,600 relay this week. Sophomore leadoff runner Farr pulled a groin muscle Monday and is questionable for the meet. Farr also qualified for regional in the 400. He has a best of 49.20 in the open 400. Britton said if Farr can't run, he'll be replaced by freshman half-miler Joe Franklin.

Roberson, who's headed to Abilene Christian University on a football scholarship, is the lone returning Steer going to regional. Last year he finished fifth in the 800. This year his best of 1:57.95 is the third best going into regional.

"I've got a shot in the 800 if I just run like I did here (in the Big Spring Invitational Tournament)," Roberson says. "We'll get to state in the mile relay. I feel real good about that."

Regional field events start Friday at 2 p.m. The 3,200 meter finals start at 5:30. Running prelims begin at 6 p.m. Saturday running finals start at 6 p.m. at Angelo State University.

Robinson league's top defensive player

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — David Robinson had to sit out of the playoffs with a thumb injury, but his regular-season dominance has been honored with the NBA Defensive Player of the Year Award. Robinson received the award Wednesday, coming in ahead of Detroit's Dennis Rodman, who had won the previous two years. Robinson was the only player in the league to finish among the top 10 in both blocked shots — he led the NBA with 4.48 per game — and steals — he was fifth with 2.30 per game. That earned the San Antonio center 46 of a possible 96 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Rodman received 39 votes.

"It definitely is a great honor," Robinson said. "I look at the guy who has won it the past couple of years — Dennis Rodman — I think he's a tremendous defensive player. I think it says a lot to me about my effort on the defensive side."

Rodman led the league in rebounding with 18.7, the highest total since Wilt Chamberlain's 19.2 in 1972.

Michael Jordan and Scottie Pippen of Chicago had three votes each. Joe Dumars of Detroit got two and Utah's Karl Malone. Houston's Hakeem Olajuwon and Portland's Buck Williams received one each.

Robinson helped the Spurs' defense lead the league by limiting opponents to a .452 field goal percentage. San Antonio's 100.6 points allowed per game was the fourth-lowest in the NBA.

Robinson said lots of players are able to shine on offense, but defense is another matter.

"If you can go down there and stop somebody and make an impact defensively, that's something to feel good about, and I do feel good about it," he said.

Besides his blocks and steals, Robinson was fourth in rebounding with 12.2 per game and seventh in both scoring (23.2) and field goal percentage (.551).

Robinson said he hadn't thought about winning the award until he was told Tuesday that he was the recipient.

"I don't work for awards. I don't think you get them that way. It's sort of like watching the phone and waiting for it to ring," he said. "I just go out and try to win games, and I think that pays off in the long run."

Spurs coach Bob Bass said he sees signs that Robinson, now completing his third NBA season, is maturing as a professional player.

For instance, Bass said, in his first two seasons Robinson often got into foul trouble. Now he has learned to keep playing tough defense even with two or three fouls in a game.

"He's the greatest impact player the league has seen since Kareem Abdul-Jabbar," Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said. "He's a monster. Let's face it: he totally dominates the game, both on the offensive and defensive end." Fitzsimmons' team faced the Spurs without Robinson during the first round of the Western Conference playoffs as Robinson continues to recover from surgery to repair a torn ligament in his left thumb, his shooting hand.

Rod Thorn, NBA vice president of operations, presented Robinson with his plaque before Wednesday night's playoff game.

Steelers running back banned

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, who had the NFL's only two substance abuse-related suspensions last season, already have the first for 1992 in running back Tim Worley. Worley was suspended on Wednesday for at least one year by NFL commissioner Paul Tagliabue after admittedly skipping two mandatory drug tests while he attended the NBA All-Star game in Orlando last February. The former Georgia star was suspended for six games last season after twice testing positive for cocaine. A third violation of the league's substance-abuse policy automatically warrants a suspension. Under league policy, Worley can petition for reinstatement next spring. The commissioner's decision on re-entry is based on several factors.

"The killing procedure was interesting, I thought," said Keely Bowerman, 16, a junior. "I feel sorry for them, but it was well worth the trip."

"I'm glad we didn't have to watch it," Coleman said of the killing procedure, which is done in Big Spring with a mallet-shaped stun gun.

Stun guns, which are replacing the shooting of cattle, are endorsed by the Humane Society, said Roy Hubbard, owner of Hubbard Packing Co., which processes about half a dozen cattle a day.

Other stops:

- The Bob Price ranch, which has about 100 European Simmental breeding cows weighing up to 2,000 pounds each, about twice as much as most cows. Breeding is done by artificial insemination. Also, eggs will be flushed from some cows for implantation in other cows. "You can maximize your genetic potential very quickly," Price said.
- Big Spring Livestock Auction, which sells up to 400 cattle a week. A typical cow and calf weighing up to a total 1,200 pounds brings about 85-to-90 cents a pound.
- Furr's Supermarket, where fat and bones are removed before packaging. "People don't want to buy the fat or the bone but the supermarket still needs to charge them for it," said County Extension Agent Don Richardson.

The tour was a success, Richardson said. "We were very impressed with the interest everybody had."

curfew in the hardest-hit area; banned the sale or transfer of ammunition within the city; and prohibited the sale of gasoline or other flammable liquids for use in anything except motor vehicles. More than 100 schools were ordered closed today.

The last time the National Guard was called in to restore order in Los Angeles was during the Watts riots, which were sparked by the arrest of a black man. Thirty-four people were killed and large areas burned in the uprising.

President Bush appealed for calm and said the verdict "has left us all with a deep sense of personal frustration and anguish." "It is important that we respect the law and the legal processes that have been brought to bear in this case," he said.

Nine people were killed, and more than 50 arrested, Lt. John Dunkin said. At least four of the victims were shot to death — two in a shootout with police with a housing project, Police Chief Daryl F. Gates said.

No other details on the victims were immediately available.

Many of the 138 reported hurt had been stabbed, shot or beaten. At least four motorists were attacked at one intersection, police said. One driver was pulled from his truck, beaten bloody and robbed as he lay on the pavement.

The governor made up to 750 California Highway Patrol officers available to relieve police.

At police headquarters, the hundreds of attackers backed off when helmeted officers moved in. Several people were arrested and objects were thrown at police. Demonstrators burned U.S. flags and a parking lot kiosk.

"You guys are a joke! A big joke!" one man screamed at the officers.

Five buildings were burned at a shopping center as looters hauled armloads of food out of a supermarket.

"The fires in many cases have been very difficult for us to get because of the hostility in the area. We're apparently getting police assistance in every case now. ... We're maxed-out now," Fire Chief Donald Manning said.

Although the King verdict generated particular anger among blacks, violence broke out among whites and blacks alike.

"We've noticed that, in the downtown area in particular, most of those who were engaged in (violence) were young whites," the mayor said. "And in the south part of Los Angeles, blacks were involved."

The jury in suburban Simi Valley acquitted the four officers of all charges but one, deadlocking on a count of excessive force against Officer Laurence Powell. A hearing was set for May 15 on whether to retry him on that charge.

Cleared were Sgt. Stacey Koon, Officer Theodore Briseno and Timothy Wind, a rookie who was fired after the beating.

Powell, Koon and Briseno still face Police Department disciplinary hearings. And U.S. Attorney Lourdes Baird said the FBI is conducting a federal civil rights investigation of the officers.

The central piece of evidence in the trial was an onlooker's videotape of the March 3, 1991, beating. It was broadcast nationally, raising racial tensions in Los Angeles and stirring a furor over police brutality.

Court docket

Filings in Howard County courts indicate the following:

- Vicente D. Solis, 25, 704 N.W. 10th, also known as KBST Radio Station disc jockey Vents Allyn, pleaded guilty to delivery of a controlled substance and was sentenced to 10 years in prison, including three months in boot camp.
- Daniel Claude Harris, 31, of Big Spring, pleaded guilty to possession of a controlled substance and was sentenced to three years in prison.
- David Wayne Grant, 21, 101 S. Coahoma, was sentenced to 10 days in jail for a driving while intoxicated conviction.

Tax

One option the committee may look into is the creation of a city industrial development zone that could include the Fina refinery. In such a zone, commissioners would no longer be the lead taxing entity in deciding abatements outside city limits.

Right now, other taxing entities must approve or reject exactly what the lead taxing entity approves, according to state law. But in an industrial district, any taxing entity with jurisdiction can take the lead. No city taxes would be imposed in an industrial zone.

Fina has not taken a position on the idea, said local Fina Manager Jeff Morris. "If there's going to be leadership applied, I prefer that it come from this committee," he said. "I'm willing to follow their lead."

The committee would likely be composed of representatives from all taxing entities, including the county.

RE-ELECT —
MAXWELL D. (MAX) GREEN
MAYOR

- Max Green's original platform was to operate a tax efficient city business, and it is still his goal.
- A sound solid majority voted for this goal.
- He strives to make the most efficient use of your city tax dollars.
- Big Spring has prospered during the last 3 years much better than many sister cities.
- Majority of citizens are proud of Big Spring and happy to live here.
- The "Clean Committee" is working miracles, other positive action groups are contributing, much too.
- During his term of office, a small noisy group has stirred up re-call options at least 3 times, creating embarrassment to Big Spring state-wide.
- Yet each time, the solid majority of city voters re-elected Mayor Max Green by a wide margin — PROVING CITY SUPPORT.
- Mayor Max Green has shown consistent strength to try to plan streamlined efficiency and eliminate unnecessary waste. This is what the majority have stated why they, the voters, have put him into office.

— IS IT FAIR TO YOU TO ALLOW A "NOISY DISCONTENT FACTION" TO DISRUPT THE MAJORITY OF YOUR VOTES. OF COURSE NOT!! THIS IS A PROUD DEMOCRACY.

- Only you, the voters, can prove your wishes.
- Vote early through April 28, or for sure, on May 2.

Young managers get taste of business

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

A local supermarket turned the helm over to its teen-age employees recently when they participated in Youth Management Day.

Managers at the Winn Dixie Supermarket in the Coronado Plaza Shopping Center were temporarily replaced Saturday by six part-time employees, allowing the youth to run the store for the day.

"It was a lot of fun. They learned what it's like on our side of the fence, and we got to hear some of their ideas as well. It was very successful," said Mike Seitz, Winn Dixie's location manager.

Gov. Ann Richards issued a formal proclamation for Youth Management Day. "This dramatic display of confidence of a $10 billion company in its young personnel is a well-earned recognition of their commitment to excellence and dedication.

"The people of Texas should be encouraged to recognize this creative, confident and beneficial program and the positive effect it will have on thousands of young people," Richards said in the proclamation.

Co-manager Julio Salazar Jr. said he spent the day working and talking with the youth managers. "They said they had a fantastic day."

"This gives them a chance to see the inside of daily management, things like quality control and weekly planning control."

More than 10,000 teen-agers in about 1,200 Winn Dixie Supermarkets managed the various departments on the busiest day of the week. The Texas division had about 350 youths managing 81 stores.

Seitz said, "We took some of our finest part-time associates. We've been doing this for several years."

Rachel Brown, 16, usually works as a cashier for the store. But for one Saturday, she was the location manager, in Seitz's position.

Part of her duties that day included inspecting the store, and taking notes about work to be done the next work day, Seitz said.

John Knous, 17, became the head cashier for the day, in Tracy Watson's place. He counted and balanced cashier tills, Seitz said. Knous regularly sacks and carries groceries for the store's customers.

Rodrigo Uranga, another sacker, became an assistant manager and sorted and organized the next selections of advertisements for the store as part of his day. Uranga, 18, filled the shoes of Pedro Covarrubias.

Danny Goodman, 16, became produce manager and stocked shelves as part of his duties. He usually sacks groceries. Doug Pitts is Winn Dixie's regular produce manager.

Kayla Donica, 17, is a cashier for the store, but became the marketing manager that day, in the place of Richard Martin. She filled the lunch meat case among other duties.

Sacker Edward Mendez, 17, became the delicatessen manager and he worked the outside deli cases to protect quality and freshness, Seitz said. Ralph Mendez is the delicatessen manager for the store.

Phi Theta Kappa inducts students

Twenty-five Howard College students were inducted into the Iota Beta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, April 26, at 2 p.m. in the Cactus Room of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building.

Inductees include Tiffany Avants, Dawn Bleiker, Traci Clark, Jose Enriquez, Stephen Erwin, Kara Evans, Suzanne Fulesday, Matt Higgs, Melinda Johndrow, Kippi Kuykendall and Shirley Limones.

Others are Genea McHoney, Sebrinia Martin, Tina Martin, Annette Neely, Brandi Nelson, Terri Newton, Wendy Phillips, Margarita Ramirez, Dina Rozner, Mari-Lou Shonk, Sandra Smith, Melody Tello, Kevin Usener and Anita Wright.

Invitation into Phi Theta Kappa is extended to students with a 3.25 or above grade point average. Those who accept the invitation are considered provisional members and must earn induction points by performing club service and community service.

This year the Howard College Phi Theta Kappa members donated canned foods to the Northside Community Center, donated books to the West Side Community Center, sponsored a toga dance for the college, and adopted a local median which they cleaned up and planted grass.

Phi Theta Kappa was founded in 1918 by the presidents of the Missouri junior colleges at Stephens College in Columbia, Mo. The fraternity was modeled after Phi Beta Kappa and had the following purposes: To recognize academic excellence among two-year college students, to provide opportunities for leadership training, to provide an intellectual climate for the interchange of ideas and ideals, and to imbue scholars with the desire for continued education.

In 1929 the fraternity gained official recognition as the "nation's honor fraternity for two-year colleges" by the American Association of Junior Colleges (later the American Association of Junior and Community Colleges).

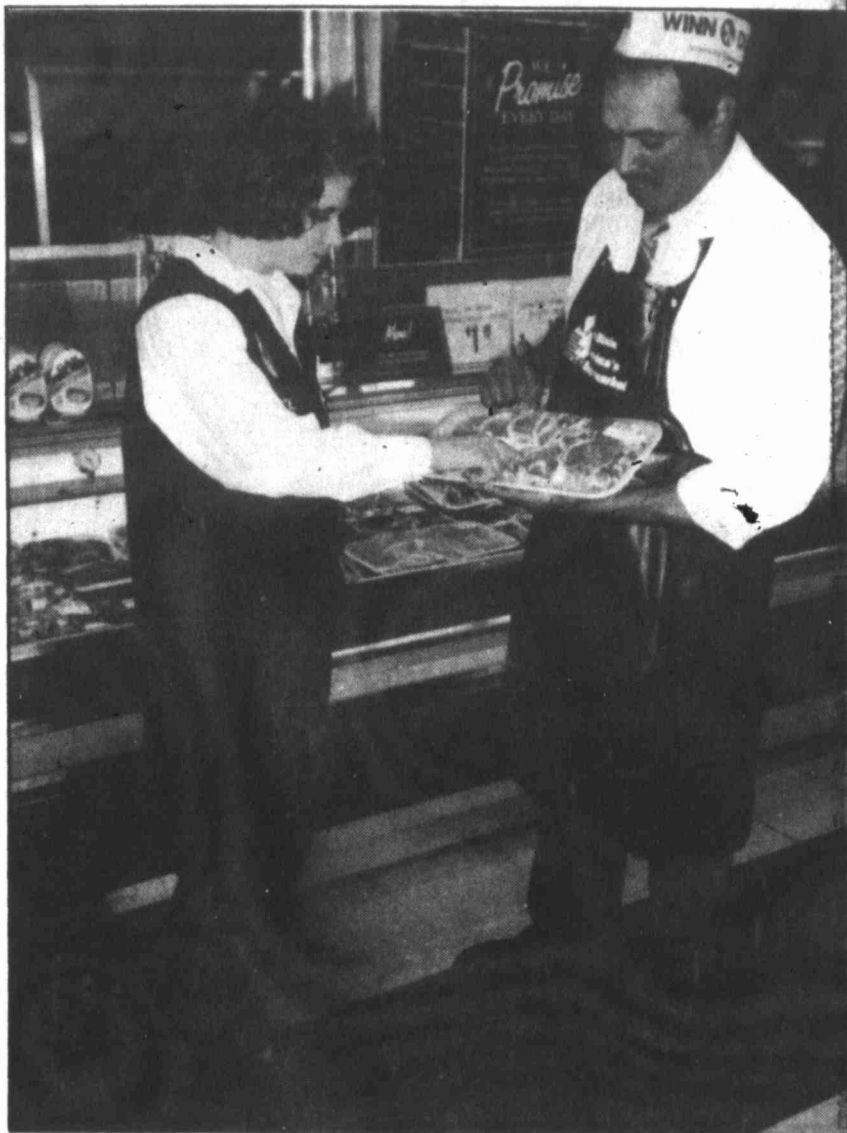

Today there are approximately 800 chapters and 100 alumni chapters. Each of the 50 states claims at least one chapter and there is a chapter in Munich, Germany. More than 35,000 two-year college students are selected for membership each year.

Rock On!

Moss Elementary School 4th and 5th graders took to the stage Tuesday night at the school with a musical variety show called "Rock On." The students performed in 60s style costumes and belted out songs including "Blue Velvet," "My Boyfriend's Back," and "The Lion Sleeps Tonight," just to name a few.

Assistant Market Manager Tommy Bialba explains a variety package in family pack meats to youth market manager Kayla Donica.

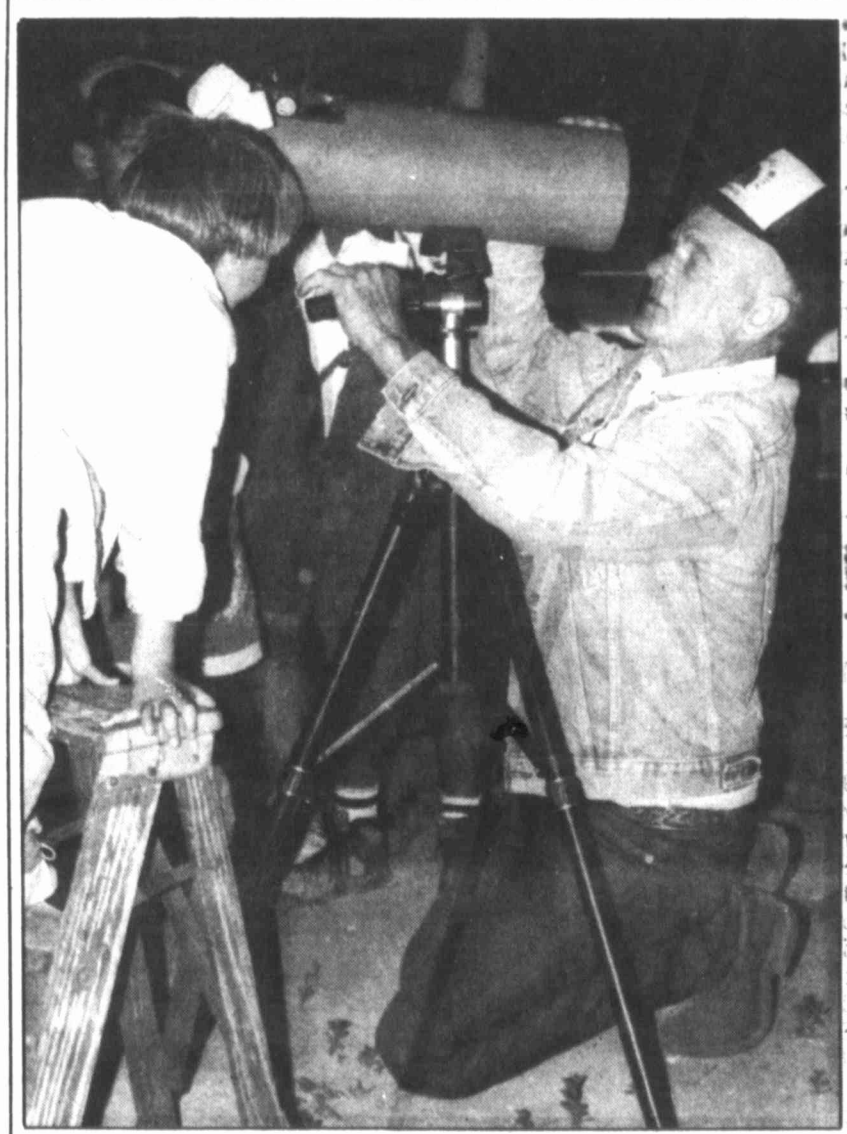

Livestock judging teams go to state

The Senior 4-H Livestock Judging Team will be joining Glasscock County's team as Extension District 6's representatives at the annual State 4H Roundup in College Station. The teams will be in the livestock judging contest division. Howard County won the right to represent the district after placing second behind the Glasscock County team following the district 4H livestock judging contest in Big Spring on April 25.

The team is composed of Brant Laster, Charles Meyers, Dusty Cornelius and Shannon Crenshaw. The team, in addition to being second high over-all, was second in swine judging, and third in Sheep, Cattle and in Reasons. Meyers was third high over-all in individual judging, followed by Laster in 7th and Cornelius in 9th position. Meyers was also second high in sheep judging, 9th in swine and beef and 5th in reasons. Laster was 10th in sheep and beef and 9th in reasons. Cornelius was 7th in swine and Crenshaw was 3rd high in swine judging.

In the Junior Division, Cash Berry was second high individual of that division, followed by Michael Brooks in 4th position. Brooks was also 2nd high point in reasons, 2nd in sheep judging, and 6th in swine. Berry was 6th in reasons, 4th in sheep and swine and 2nd in cattle.

Curse the cumulus

Astronomy enthusiast Sonny Choate adjusts a spotting scope for one of the Bauer Elementary School third graders last Friday night. The group of approximately 50 parents, students and teachers met behind Howard College to get a lesson on the stars. Sonny and Eunice Choate had given presentation to 3 classes earlier that day. The group met at 8:30 to continue with the aid of telescopes and binoculars. Unfortunately, clouds moved in before the stargazers could finish their lesson.

'Cinco de Mayo' one of two Mexican holidays celebrated

By MARTHA E. FLORES Staff Writer

Cinco de Mayo is one of two widely celebrated Mexican holidays. The other is the Diez-y-seis de Septiembre, which commemorates Sept. 16, 1810 — the day the declaration for Mexican Independence from Spain was ignited by a priest named Miguel Hidalgo y Costilla from his church steps.

Mexico had been under Spain's rule for 300 years when Hidalgo's cry of independence was given. Spaniards began the colonization of Mexico, which was referred to as New Spain, in the early part of the 16th century.

In 1810 with instability in the royal house of Spain, the oppressed people of Mexico began the struggle for independence. Hidalgo began the insurgency that historic morning with his inspirational speech, now known as the "Grito de Dolores." Dolores was the name of the town that his church was established.

The first town captured was San Miguel. The next battle won by Hidalgo and his army was Guajuato. In the first months of the revolution, the insurgents captured Zacatecas, Guadalajara, San Luis Potosi, Saltillo and Valladolid. The next city to capture was Mexico City. Hidalgo chose to not attack the city, and retreated. With his decision, he gave the Spanish army time to regroup. They captured and executed Hidalgo.

The fight was then taken over by another priest, Jose Maria Morelos. He was captured in 1815 and executed.

The struggle for independence was then led by Vicente Guerrero and Guadalupe Victoria, until it was declared in February 1821.

On Feb. 24, 1821, the Plan of Iguala was published. It offered Mexican independence from Spain, citizenship and racial equality for all Mexicans and the supremacy of the Catholic religion.

For further reading on the Mexican declaration of Independence from Spain or the history of Mexico, the following books are suggested: "Fire and Blood, a Bold and Definitive Modern Chronicle of Mexico" by T.R. Fehrenback, "A History of Mexico," by Henry Bamford Parkes and "The Forging of the Cosmic Race, a Reinterpretation of Colonial Mexico" by Colin M. MacLachlan and Jaime E. Rodriguez O. Other books on the subject may be found at the Howard County Library or the Howard College Library.

CINCO DE MAYO

Local celebrations enriched in history

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

One of the official Mexican holidays celebrated with much joy and enthusiasm is the popular Cinco de Mayo, says Ecce Iei Mendoza, consulate of Mexico, Midland office.

Celebrations will take place in the United States and Mexico commemorating the event known as Cinco de Mayo. In Big Spring, two celebrations will take place this weekend to remember this day in Mexico's history.

"It is a festivity in which people of Mexican descent and friends equally participate and share the spirit of independence and liberty that this historic date evokes," he said.

"It is a festivity in which people of Mexican descent and friends equally participate and share the spirit of independence and liberty that this historic date evokes."

The date Cinco de Mayo translates into May 5, which is the day in 1862 that the Mexican Army under the command of General Ignacio Zaragoza won the battle of Puebla against the French Army. But the French conquered Mexico City in the days following.

"Although this holiday does not commemorate the independence of Mexico from France, simply because she was not conquered until 1867," Mendoza said, "It represents the strong desire and determination of a nation and its people to resist even until the supreme sacrifice, the actions of a foreign country to (destroy) its sovereignty."

"Many books have been filled with detailed information about this heroic feat; however, the purpose of this reference to the celebration is to recount the essential historic facts and through it pay homage to the heroes that changed our destiny and share with friends a glorious passage of the vast and rich history of Mexico."

The historic account remembered as Cinco de Mayo begins in the early 1860s. At this time the country was experiencing one of the worst economic and political situations: the devastation suffered from the Reform or Three Year War (1858-1860), which left Benito Juarez's government with an empty treasury and a fight between conservative and liberal political forces," said Mendoza.

"Although President Juarez' party won the war, it had been so costly that he was forced to decree a two year suspension of payments of the country's foreign debt. This measure affected France, England and Spain and as a result they formed a triple alliance and sent troops to Mexico."

Negotiations in Veracruz with representatives of the four countries present left only French troops in Mexico. Spain and England decided to return to their countries after accepting the terms offered by Mexico, said Mendoza.

"With the purpose of conquering Mexico, France stayed and continued their invasion movement into Mexican territory," he said.

The French army marched towards Mexico City. It was on their way to the capital city that the French battled the Mexican army at Puebla and lost.

"The battle was to win or die," Mendoza said. "Under the command of General Ignacio Zaragoza, assisted by officers Miguel Negrete and Porfirio Diaz, among others and the valuable support of the area's native groups, they were ready to fight to the death."

"The outcome was surprising and devastating to the French... The (Mexican) army empowered by patriotism, determination and an uncompromised conviction to regain the country's independence and sovereignty defeated the French army made up of 6,000."

The battle was not the end, however. After capturing Mexico City, the French sent Archduke Maximilian of Austria and his wife Princess Carlotta of Belgium to reign over Mexico.

Maximilian ruled Mexico until 1867 when Benito Juarez regained his power. Maximilian was executed later that year. Carlotta survived by returning to France for help during the turmoil. After hearing of her husband's demise, she became insane.

"Benito Juarez is an example and inspiration to all for his conviction and having gone beyond the limits to come out victorious and returning Mexico to the people of its land," Mendoza said.

For further reading on the French invasion of Mexico, "The Cactus Throne: The Tragedy of Maximilian and Carlotta" by Richard O'Conner is available at the Howard County Library, as well as other books on the history of Mexico.

Members of the local band, "Chicano Interes" will play at the downtown Cinco de Mayo celebration Saturday 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. The downtown event will begin Friday with Sangre Tejana playing at 7 p.m. Throughout the weekend, Tejana music bands will play, which will include Los Tierregales, Grupo Innocencia, Mariachi Perla and Willie Mendoza and the Twin City Band.

"While enjoying the festivities of Cinco de Mayo we invite you to come in and browse in air conditioned comfort. See the finest quality furniture in Big Spring, and don't forget our Bargain Center!"

Religion in America

Throughout the country, there is a lot of interest in teaching kids about religion. The Mini Page thanks Dr. Charles Haynes, director of the First Liberty Institute, George Mason University, for his generous help with this issue.

A famous painting showing Pilgrims on their way to worship.

Early settlers came to our country seeking religious freedom. Native American tribes had their own religious traditions.

Our Constitution's First Amendment protects our right to practice whatever religion we might choose.

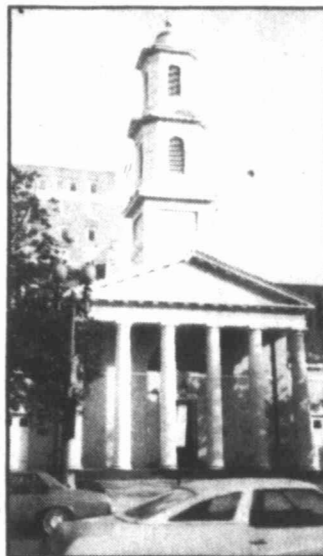

In Colonial times, most of the early settlers were Protestant Christians. Later, in the 1800s, many Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox and Jewish immigrants came here.

Recently, members of Muslim, Buddhist, Hindu and other religious groups have settled here.

Today, many Americans belong to one of the different Christian churches. There are also many who belong to other religions. Some belong to no religion at all.

When you travel around our country, you may see many different places of worship. Here are a few:

Protestant

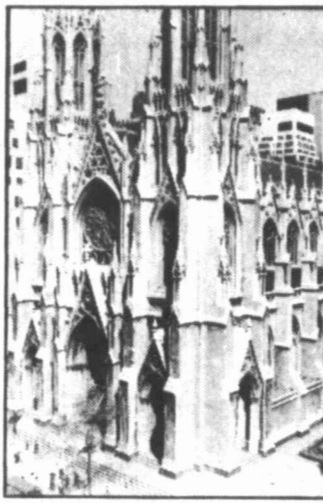

Outside: You might hear bells and see a steeple and a sign telling you which Protestant group worships there.

Inside: You will usually see a big cross. There are many different denominations, or groups. The church you see might be Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Episcopal, Assembly of God or one of many others.

Christians believe that Jesus is the Christ, or Son of God, who became man almost 2,000 years ago. According to the Christian Bible, Jesus was put to death on a cross, and rose from the dead. Christians believe that by accepting Jesus as the Christ, they will be forgiven for their sins and live with God forever.

Roman Catholic

Outside: St. Patrick's in New York City is the largest Roman Catholic cathedral in the U.S. Notice the stained glass windows. There are also many smaller Catholic churches.

Like Protestants, Roman Catholics are followers of Jesus. But Catholics are different from Protestants because some of their beliefs are different.

Catholics believe that the leader of the church is the pope, who is Bishop of Rome.

Inside: You might see statues of Jesus, Mary, the mother of Jesus, and of holy people called saints.

Religion in America

by Blake Nichols
5th Grade, Coahoma Elementary

Religion in America is very important. Religion is the worship or service of God or the supernatural. In America, we have freedom of religion. If we didn't, our religion would be chosen for us. In the U.S. Christianity is the main religion. In other parts of the world such as the Middle East, Judaism is the prevalent religion. Also there are many holidays that relate with religion such as Christmas, the Day Christ was born, or Easter the day Christ rose from the dead. I think religion is great.

Eastern Orthodox

Outside: You might see churches with large domes.

The Eastern Orthodox is another large Christian group. Many of these worshippers have ancestors from Greece, Russia, or other countries in Eastern Europe.

Buddhism

Outside: Buddhist temples are in many shapes and sizes. You might see a roof curving up at the ends.

Inside: You will see many paintings telling the story of Jesus. You will also see pictures, or icons, of Jesus, Mary and the saints. Icons are considered holy pictures and are an important part of worship and prayer.

Buddhism

Inside: You will probably see a statue of Buddha (the Enlightened One).

Buddhism was founded in India by Gautama Buddha 2,500 years ago. Buddha taught that people could end suffering and be free from worldly things. Many Buddhists spend much of their time in meditation. Buddhism teaches that people should look within themselves to find the truth.

Judaism

Outside: You might see the star of David. David was one of the great kings of ancient Israel.

Many American communities have Jewish synagogues or temples.

Inside: In the front room, you will see a curtain. Behind the curtain is a cabinet called an ark. In the ark is the Torah written on scrolls.

Judaism

For the Jews, the Torah is the law given by God to the people of Israel. It includes the Ten Commandments. Jews believe that the Torah tells them how God wishes a people to live.

Hinduism

Outside: In some American cities there are Hindu shrines and temples.

There are many different groups of Hindus. Most Hindus believe that all living things are part of one reality called Brahman.

Inside: You might see statues of some of the holy figures honored by Hindus in their worship. Many Hindus go to shrines on special holidays. Hinduism is one of the world's oldest religions. It began in India more than 4,500 years ago.

Hinduism

Daily worship takes place in the home, where there is a special altar with holy figures on it.

Educational consultant: Wynell Schamel, National Archives.

Islam

Outside: A mosque will have a tower called a minaret. From the minaret, Muslims are called to prayer five times a day.

Followers of Islam, called Muslims, often gather for prayer to God (Allah) in a mosque. Once a week, on Friday, Muslims gather for community prayer. A leader called an imam leads the prayer and gives a special message.

Islam

Inside: You might see a verse from the Islamic holy book, called the Qur'an (Koran).

Muslims believe the Qur'an was revealed by God through the Prophet Mohammed some 1,400 years ago. Islam teaches that there is no thing and no one more important than God.

Symbols of some religions

Can you match these symbols with their religions?

When you look around your community, you will find many places where religious groups worship.

There is much to learn about religions in America. Learning about them helps us understand our history and other people. We need to understand our religious differences. The knowledge of our differences can help us treat others with respect.

Answers: 1. Christianity, 2. Judaism, 3. Islam, 4. Buddhism, 5. Hinduism.

Woman's peach of a guy is the pits

DEAR ABBY: I've been dating a gentleman who lives 350 miles away. We met at a family gathering six months ago. He has a business here, and comes to town to oversee it every three or four weeks.

He's divorced, and he's one peach of a guy, but here's my complaint. He never calls ahead of time or in between trips. I'm beginning to wonder if I'm a fool for being available and ready to go when he comes to town and calls me for a date the same night.

I know he likes me, and I really fell for him, but my heart tells me one thing, and my head another. He's a very busy man, but I can't help but feel a little used.

I'm afraid to mention this to him

Dear Abby

Should I bide my time and see what happens? Or should I speak up the next time I see him — whenever that is! —YOUNG AT HEART

DEAR YOUNG: The "worm" in this peach of a guy is that he's taking you for granted.

The next time he calls at the last minute, don't drop everything and go. Tell him you're sorry, but you've already made plans for the evening and can't change them — even for someone as special as he is. And if he's as intelligent as you think he is, he'll get the message.

DEAR ABBY: Since the savings and loan fiasco, we are tossing around the word "billions" with seemingly less concern than we used to assign to the word "millions." A loss of hundreds of billions boggles the imagination, but I had no real understanding of exactly what the word "billion" meant until I read this explanation that appeared in the September 1975 issue of Reader's Digest:

DOLLAR SIGNS Lou Erickson, Atlanta Journal "It is difficult to comprehend what $1 billion could be, but at last I have heard an explanation that clears the air.

"A man gave his wife $1 million. He told her to go out and spend $1,000 a day. She did. Three years later, she returned to tell him that the money was all gone. She wanted more.

"He then gave her $1 billion. He told her to go out and spend $1,000 a day. She didn't come back for 3,000 years."

Abby, when this was first published 15 years ago, I don't think anyone would have believed, or could have comprehended, what is going on today! —MRS. ELIZABETH STURNS, DENVER

"Of Cabbages and Kings"

To keep busy or not?

By KAY KOLB
Staff Writer

After Christmas I thought life would slow down — What a dream.

As the mother of a high school senior and news reporter, I have found life very busy the past few months.

It is at times like this, I find I've a love/hate relationship with procrastination.

Procrastination is putting things off until a later date. It is easy to put important projects off when one's schedule is so full.

When I make the choice to wait to do certain things I always feel confident and full of assurance that the project will get done.

That is, where the love part comes in. Everything seems to be under control.

Then comes the hate. When I have to face the fact that it is TIME to face a deadline is where the hate part comes in.

Take my son's applications for college financial aid. We had a packet of papers to complete that were long and tedious. We would fill them out later.

So, began the procrastination. And it wasn't all bad. In fact, I think some putting-off has healthy by-products.

In the process of delay, I wrote a letter to my aging distant cousin. She has no family left except for a few of us second and third cousins.

Because she is alone and I know she appreciated a friendly letter.

I also cleaned out my refrigerator. This was good for my family's health. It made me feel truly productive as a homemaker to swish the baking soda around and produce a nice smelling place for our family's cold storage items.

Then, believe it or not, I convinced by husband it was time to do our tax return. It was two months before due date. Now that was an accomplishment.

True, we did have to have the completed IRS form to finish the financial aid forms, but it was the original procrastination that made doing income tax look more enjoyable.

Finally, we could not put off the task any longer and completed the forms a few hours before facing the administration at the university. Those final few hours were not pleasant.

After weighing the pros and cons, however, I think the good part of procrastination does not get enough credit.

Just think of all the good that would happen if we had a National Procrastination Day.

It could be a boost to our economy. Yes.

I am thinking particularly about those people who are always so good to nip procrastination in the bud. You have seen them at the post office.

They take their mail from their postal box and go straight to the trash can to discard all sale sheets and anything else that might be deemed "junk mail."

See where this is leading? If the "do-it-now" folks would take their sale sheets home and wait to throw such things away for just a day, who know what bargains they might find.

That would lead to more shopping and buying and, therefore, a certain upswing in the economy.

Now think about the work place.

We could procrastinate on all pressing matters and do things like clean out old files. We could

GISD candidates questioned on local issues

By KAY KOLB
Staff Writer

Editor's note: Questions asked to the candidates of the Greenwood ISD were submitted by group of Greenwood residents, that wanted each candidates to respond to this issues.

Greenwood voters will go to the polls Saturday, May 2, to cast votes for Positions 1 and 2 on the Greenwood Independent School District's board of education.

On the ballot for Place 1 is incumbent Vicky Moody who is currently serving as board president.

She has lived in Greenwood for six years and has three daughters in the school system. She is employed by the law firm of Boldrick and Clifton in Midland.

Tim Outlaw, a nine year resident of the Greenwood area, will challenge Moody for Place 1. Outlaw is co-owner of Stadium Sports in Midland.

He and his wife, Janet, have three children.

Incumbent Johnny Womack is a local farmer who has held the place 2 seat for the past four years. Womack and his wife, Becki, have two children and have lived in Greenwood since 1965.

Womack will be challenged by Richard Jones. Jones is employed by Chevron and has lived in Greenwood for two years. He and his wife, Debra, have two children.

The candidates were recently asked to respond to a questionnaire concerning local issues. Here are their replies:

• How do you feel about GISD's present dress code?

Moody — I believe that we can not expect students to graduate as responsible adults and make responsible decisions if we do not teach them to make decisions.

The dress code directly affects the students, so they were directly involved in developing it with the help of teachers, administrators, parents and board members.

I personally would rather see WALKING shorts instead of extremely short skirts on students. Our staff's responsibility is to enforce the dress code fairly and consistently, while the students' responsibility is to not abuse a privilege.

Outlaw — I am in favor of our present dress code.

Womack — I am happy with the dress code.

Bettye F. Calvert, Election Administrator of Midland, prepares to close absentee voting for the Greenwood Independent School District on Tuesday. Approximately 33 of the 1847 registered voters had cast their ballots early in the election. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. on May 2 at the GISD Administration Building.

Jones — I support the current dress code completely.

• What is your stance on corporal punishment?

Moody — Our policy permits corporal punishment as a means of discipline, within certain guidelines. I will support that policy as it stands. I personally would not use corporal punishment, but would support the use of it as long as other forms of discipline had been attempted and proved futile.

Outlaw — Corporal punishment should be part of a well studied discipline management plan.

Womack — There is a time and place for corporal punishment.

Jones — I support corporal punishment as a last result in disciplinary action. Students should be taught at home to respect and adhere to the rules of the school.

• How do you feel about the sixth grade moving back to the elementary school building?

Moody — The space problem will have to be addressed before the sixth grade can be moved back to elementary. I do think the students would fare much better back in the other building.

Mixing sixth graders and seniors simply has not worked well, and it is time to address the problem.

• What are your views on any possible future consolidation with Midland Independent School District?

Moody — I feel that small districts are in danger of consolidation, and have been for a while. I believe the Legislature will continue to attempt mass county-wide consolidation, but will find very strong voter opposition.

I would argue with every senator, representative, state board member and Texas Education Agency against forced consolidation. I do not see any benefits to consolidation with MISD.

Outlaw — I am opposed to GISD consolidation with MISD.

Womack — I am very much against such consolidation.

Jones — I would oppose any consolidation at this time. I do not believe it would be the best interest of our students or community.

• If a parent comes to you with a complaint, how will you respond?

Moody — Many times a parental complaint is the result of frustration, and all that is necessary is listening with genuine concern.

I ask the parent to contact the person the problem started with, then assure them that if not satisfied, proceed to the principal, then to the superintendent, then to the board.

While the staff must be allowed the opportunity to resolve problems, parents should be informed that there are higher levels to appeal to.

I always try to answer any questions concerning the operation of the district, as I feel the better informed our parents are, the more understanding they tend to be.

I do relay questions and concerns on to (superintendent) Dr. Burnett for his information.

Outlaw — I will be in a position to help direct that parent to the proper school official so the complaint can be heard.

Womack — I would tell them the process and chain of command for complaints to be handled.

Jones — I feel a board member has to be as open and honest with the parent as possible and still promote the policy of the school.

Policies can not be administered on an individual basis, but should be implemented for the good of the school population.

• What are your qualifications for serving on the board?

Moody — I have earned 260 hours of TEA-approved training in all area required by law, including finance, school law, policy-making and boardmember responsibilities.

I have served on the state Grassroots Committee and the committee that restructured fees and dues that local districts pay the state association for services.

I was selected as a delegate to convention four times and served as president of the Permian Basin School Board Association.

I am currently serving on the Advisory Committee of the Region 18 Education Service Center Gifted/Talented Committee.

I currently serve as a trustee on the state Unemployment Compensation Board and am involved with the Legal Assistance Fund.

Outlaw — I have 15 years experience in Texas Public Schools and have lived in Greenwood for a total of nine years.

Womack — I have served on the Board for four years and served as PTC president two years.

Jones — I was an educator for four years prior to my career with Chevron, USA as a professional geologist. This history gives me invaluable insight in the education

Moore seeks fourth term

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ

Doctor Randy Moore will be seeking his fourth term on the Stanton Independent School District board of trustees, in the upcoming May 2 elections.

He has been on the board for the past ten years and has accumulated his 20 hours for the first year and six hours each year to satisfy his required school board schooling.

Moore feels the most important issue facing every school in the state is the funding.

"We have reached a critical point in how much funding we will be receiving from the state. Right now, Legislature is working on proposals and they will probably present ten or 11 items, of which none will probably make it," Moore said.

He added, "We are still collecting taxes on the County Education Districts even though they have been declared illegal by the supreme court. We look for a very hard year ahead of us."

Another item Moore is interested in being a part of, is the redistricting plan submitted by an Austin-law.

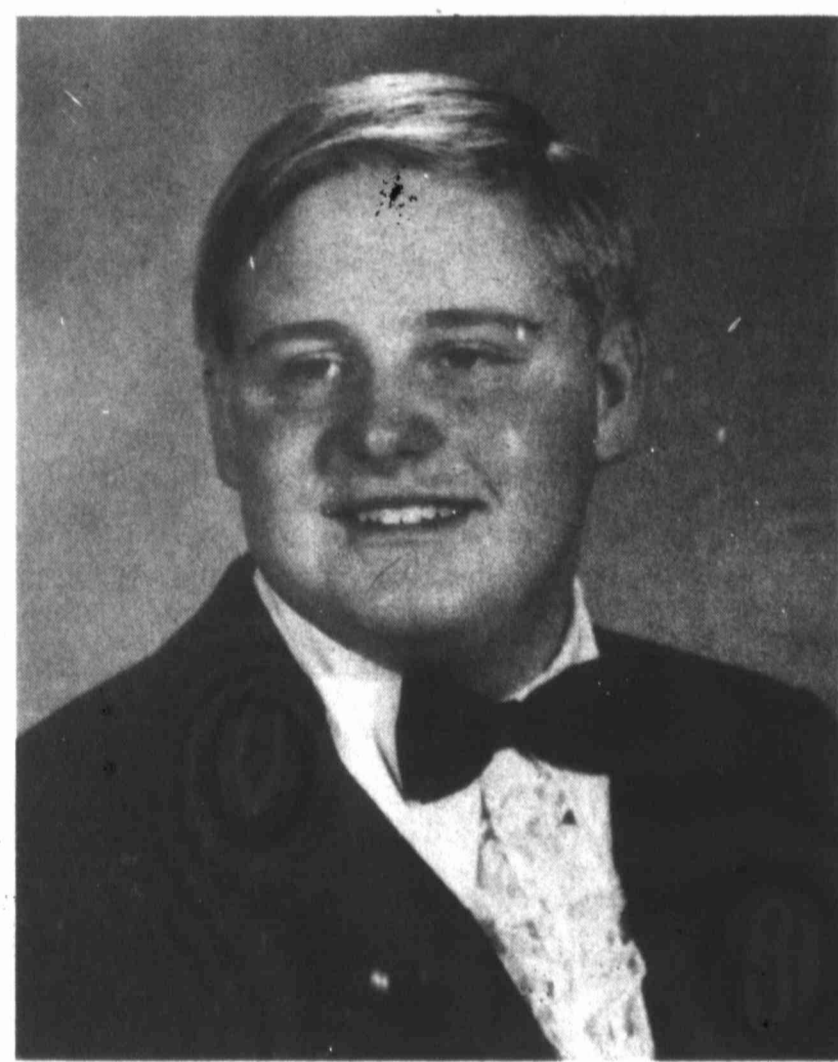

"I would like to see the board and the entire community work up a plan that will help everyone it is intended to help. With everyone involved, different ideas can be shared and a consensus can be reached."

"Our students have been very active this year, because of the test scores that we saw last year. It has been a very good year, even though our scores are not what we would like to see, we do see progress. At the same time we are trying to keep our faculty supplied with the

Depot news

By A.L. (BUD) LINDSEY
For the Herald

The senior center will be closed tomorrow. This will be a work day at the old Chevrolet building downtown for the seniors.

We will become devoted to accumulating, sorting and pricing of garage sale items for the annual Martin County Chamber City-wide garage and sidewalk the following day.

Eddie Crow will have his cooking hardware set up on the vacant corner of Broadway and St. Peter where he will offer barbecue sandwiches and cold drinks.

It is rumored that the garage sale will offer several authentic collector's type of leisure suits, a beautiful anniversary clock that didn't make it to the first anniversary (needs a little work) and other items that will hopefully find other homes.

With the sale being promoted by senior citizens, it is doubtful that many infant clothing will be offered.

The MCSC bunch will have an "outreach" meeting at the Depot at 12:30 p.m., Thursday, May 7. Martin County Senior Citizens Director Sally Carroll will be asking that everyone attend that would be able to offer ideas on increasing the usage of the Depot.

In reporting on the recent spelling bee in Andrews I left out the fact that Mary Payne was to be one of the contestants but was unable to compete because of a serious illness.

I also reported that Nita "Babe" Lindsey was "shot out of the saddle" at the contest.

I did embellish the truth slightly in this statement. Being "shot out of the saddle" would imply that she was riding a horse, shot, fell off. The plain truth was that she was not shot, she was sitting in a chair and did not fall.

• Thursday — Hamburger, hamburger salad, french fries, cookies and milk.

Chapter celebrates founder's day

Six chapters of Beta Sigma Phi, in concert with 12,500 chapters of 250,000 worldwide, recently met in Stanton to celebrate Founder's Day. Members throughout the world, celebrated Founder's Day as well.

During the Depression, Walter W. Ross thought that young women needed more in their lives than work, responsibility and hardship.

He thought a social and cultural outlet was needed and that he was the man to see that it was provided. His efforts brought seven young women in Abilene, Kansas together on April 30, 1931 to form that sort of organization.

Beta Sigma Phi began, and time proved Ross's idea a good one. Because Beta Sigma Phi has continued to meet their needs, on this April 30th, Ross was remembered by this largest Greek letter sorority in the world.

Throughout the 61 years of their history, the members of Beta Sigma Phi have enjoyed programs for cultural studies and numerous social events.

As they enjoyed these opportunities for personal growth, they came to devote much of their time and effort to service; they came to make a real difference in the world around them.

A typical year finds the chapters donating over $3 million directly to local charities, reflecting over two million work hours.

Early in Beta Sigma Phi's history, the chapters created their own international funds for purposes they selected.

Their International Endowment fund has donated over $2 million to health research groups, to homes for underprivileged children and to many other worthwhile causes.

The Stanton chapters met April 30 at the Martin County Community Center to observe Founder's Day.

The chairperson of the celebration was Francis Martin. The mistress of ceremonies for the evening was Rita Powell.

Awards were presented during the evening to outstanding chapter members, recognizing them for their sorority and community work.

Cotton news

By SHAWN WADE

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

LUBBOCK — According to Plains Cotton Growers (PCG) High Plains producers will see a welcome change in the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) loan schedule for the 1992 crop.

The base loan rate for upland cotton will increase from 1991's 50.75 cent level — to 52.30 cents per pound in 1992.

The change will affect most counties on the High Plains. The only exception is Motley county whose base loan rate has been set at 52.4 cents.

The increase in the base loan rate amounts to a 1.55 cent increase in the value of grade 41 (Strict Low Middling), Staple 34 (1-116 inch) cotton over the 1991 loan.

The increase is good news for High Plains producers looking for a better year in 1992.

Another bit of good news for producers in the 1992 loan schedule is that discounts appear slightly smaller than in 91. Unfortunately premiums are also below last year's levels as well.

PCG notes that the trend to smaller premiums and discounts for grade and staple are also evident in the micronaire and strength schedules as well.

The strength and micronaire schedules are where the most notable changes have been made for 1992.

One of the areas that experienced change in the micronaire schedule was the move to make cotton in the Spotted (13-63) and Tinged (24-54) grades ineligible for the ten-point premium for mike readings between 3.7 and 4.2.

The new strength setup applies the premiums and discounts to a range of strength readings measured to the nearest tenth.

The change reflects the move by the classing system in 1991 to report strength reading to the nearest tenth instead of round numbers.

Overall the new loan schedule should prove to be an improvement over 1991.

"Even though the 1992 loan schedule is an improvement over 1991, the producer's biggest need is to have a good year as far as overall crop quality is concerned," explains PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson.

He added, "Here on the High Plains we will be looking for a normal, or better than normal, year in regard to weather and production. If we get that, quality can take care of itself."

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) announced the 1990-91 disaster program would be prorated by a factor of 50.04 percent.

The announcement came April 13.

County ASCS officers were able to begin printing checks immediately following the announcement.

It was expected that most checks would be in the mail by Thursday, April 16.

The $995 million allocated to fund the program proved to be about one-half the amount needed to complete full funding. The announcement of the 50 percent factor was welcome news to producers who had heard estimates as low as ten cents on the dollar following the sign-up period.

Stenholm announces HC plan

HERALD STAFF REPORT

Congressman Charles Stenholm and members of the Conservative Democratic Forum (CDF) announced the preliminary details of a plan outlining a new approach to health care reform.

The CDF reform plan builds on the positive aspects of the current American health care system while introducing significant changes.

"We feel it is important to let people know there are alternatives to health reform other than those which have been discussed to this point," Stenholm expained.

He added, "Rather than nationalized plans which destroy our private market system, or 'pay or play' plans which put people out of business, we believe we can retain quality and choice while improving accessibility and affordability."

The main principle behind the CDF plan is managed competition, in which useful information on the quality and costs of health care services is provided to health care consumers, who then are better able to choose providers with the most effective and efficient care.

Managed competition will require insurance companies, physicians and hospitals to pool together to form cooperative organizations which will offer health insurance and health care as a single product.

"We're already spending over $800 billion a year on health care in America — more than 12 percent of our GNP — but we're not getting our money's worth," Stenholm said.

"I trust that, given the chance and enough information, private sector consumers and providers can do a lot better job at cutting the waste out of our current system than an army of bureaucrats can do."

The CDF plan also seeks to control costs through malpractice reform, paperwork reduction and administrative simplification.

A strong emphasis will be placed on preventive health care services as an effective means to reduce the cost of illness and injuries.

Stenholm added that the changes in the CDF package will make it more affordable for small businesses to purchase insurance.

It will help the self-employed to deduct 100 percent of the costs of their basic health insurance premiums and people with incomes below the 100 percent poverty level will be covered under a restructured Medicaid program.

Details on the CDF health plan are still being developed. The bill, with financing recommendations, is expected to be introduced in the House of Representatives by late spring.

GRASS PLANTING

A lush field of grass waving in a gently breeze is a beautiful sight. Whether you are thinking of planting grass for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) or have other areas that need some type of permanent cover, now is an excellent time for planting.

Of course all programs and services of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Soil Conservation Service, are offered on a non-discriminatory basis without regard to race, color, national origin, religion, sex, age, marital status or handicap.

Here are several tips that can help ensure a success in grass planting.

• Select a grass or grasses that are adapted to your soil.

There are more than 30 different soils in the Mustang Soil and Water Conservation District and not all grasses are adapted to all the different soils.

• Grass should be planted in the top quarter of soil.

The small seeds need to be planted in an area that has enough cover to protect the soil from blowing.

• Grass should be planted before June 1.

Young grass plants can dry out and die during the hot summer, if it does not have a good root system.

• Consider planting several different types of grasses.

Grazing and wildlife should be two considerations given before selecting the kinds of grass of plant.

Some species provide excellent food for dove and quail, while others provide ground cover for nesting areas.

If you need more information on the different types of grasses, or a list of grass seed vendors or contractors, please contact your local Soil Conservation Service office at (915)-756-3421 or come by the office at 109 West Broadway.

Our hours are from 7 until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

SHS doubles team headed for regional tourney

By MARCELLINO CHAVEZ
Staff Writer

Stanton High School Juniors David Hernandez and Trey Hinojosa will be headed for the Region I Tennis Tournament in Abilene, April 30-May 1.

Hernandez and Hinojosa earned the right to represent district 6-2A as its runner-up doubles team after they beat Oldridge and Baker of Wall (4-6, 6-3, 6-2) to advance.

After a shakey start, losing the first set, the duo settled down and put away the Hawks in straight sets to win the match.

The Buffs have been team since last year, but both admit their timing was not the best.

"We decided to become doubles partners last year right before district. At the time we thought it would be difficult, but we would be able to adjust."

"After losing in the second round at district and then in a couple of summer tournaments, we were beginning to rethink our move from singles to doubles, but this year all our doubts were put to rest," Hernandez said.

"Last year, was very tough for us, but we learned by our mistakes and we began to make changes and going out there and not getting intimidated," Hinojosa added.

David began playing during his eighth grade year, while Trey started his freshman year. But they feel this year is a different story and they'll be looking improve for the next two years.

The duo advanced into the regional tournament after defeating Pheist and Wolsalegal of Wall (6-2, 5-7, 6-2) in the second round at Eldorado district tourney.

They destroyed Trammell and Dunn of Ozona (6-3, 6-3) in the semifinals advancing to the championship game against the number-one seed team from Ozona.

The Buffs lost in straight sets to Sanchez and Morris (6-4, 6-2), the eventual champs as both team advanced into the state playoffs.

Even though the represent the district as the runner-up team, the feel their chances at Abilene are very good for a trip to the state tournament.

To add to their accomplishments, the doubles team won two tournaments this year at Colorado City and Forsan.

"I feel if we continue practicing our fundamentals and be ready mentally by controlling our nervousness we can go to Austin," Hernandez said.

Hinojosa feels mental toughness is the key to moving forward.

"Our goal at the tournament this year will be to win both matches on Friday and return and finish in the top two to make it to state."

"But our attitude has to be ready, our we'll have to play smart every point and keep reminding ourselves, one match at a time," he said.

They both attribute their success to a motivator and family.

"What can you say about Coach (Doug) Gordon. He is a person that influences our way of play. Those little talks between sets really gets us going."

"He makes us think and wake up. If we feel down he's there gives you a positive attitude, plus our family makes it a priority to support us. It's hard to lose with that type of combination," the both echoed.

"My mom has really made a difference as well. She manages to go to most of our tournaments and is always behind me. She's a big impact," Hernandez said.

"That goes for me as well. My mom is very important to my game. She always lets me know that there's always a winner and a loser, no matter if I win or lose, she'll always be behind me."

"She tells me that in order to be a winner, I must play the best I can and always have a good attitude, no matter what."

In other local interest, freshmen Michael Paul Martinez and Traci Moore placed in the junior varsity squad.

Martinez won the boys singles title, while Moore place third in the girls singles.

SHS juniors David Hernandez, left and Trey Hinojosa recently placed second at the Eldorado District Tournament. They will be competing at the Regional tournament April 30 through May 1.

Running in the right direction

For Lupe and Nancy Chapa this coming weekend will be just another track meet, but the outcome could position them and teammates Laura Ierm, Christie Hirt, Stacy Tollison, Sonja Hopper and Sande Bundas into a shot at the state meet in Austin.

The Lady Buffs take 50.1 mark going into the spring relay, second only to Post, the third best time in the 800 meters, behind Stamford, Albany and Refugio and the third best time in the mile relay, behind Post and Albany.

Stanton High School girls track coach Frank Riney has been blessed with a talent of three freshmen, one sophomore, one junior and two seniors headed for the regional meet in Abilene.

The seven youngsters are capable of placing first in the high jump, 400, 800 and the mile relays.

The two sisters, Nancy and Lupe are part of the 400 and 800 meters that could make such a trip.

Both have been very active in summer track and school events since their seventh grade.

Nancy, the 18-year old senior enjoys getting to run with her younger sister while still both are in high school.

"It's been fun running with Lupe. If someone would have told me that we both would be on the two relay team during our high schools years, I would have a hard time believing them, but here we are," the oldest Chapa said.

"I enjoy running with my sister. She is the oldest and I make it a point to listen to my elders," said Lupe.

But being a freshmen also has its disadvantages when it comes to competition.

"Coach Riney always tells me to control my weak points and stay in control. I get real nervous before a race and I began thinking that this girl is stronger, because she's from a larger school," the younger Chapa said.

Nancy added, "Coach always tells Lupe not to go out there and see A's, for instance, when she is lined up against a girl from a 5A school, she begins to panic. He tells her to get loose and run hard, so far it has worked."

The Lady Buffs admit that Coach Riney is a tough, but a very good coach.

"He's a tough coach, but he also pampers us. He pushes us, but he also lets us get by some things."

A routine workout for the Lady Buffs include, five 200's, all under 20 or 30 seconds; three 150's under 17 seconds; strides and stretching exercises and working on handoffs, according to the siblings.

Nancy and Lupe Chapa

"We also have a strong commitment between us seven. We look out for each other, we listen to each other, we're always there for each other."

"We do not look at this upcoming meet as a way for only four of us to make it to Austin, but rather for all of us to go as a team."

"And we also look to see it as a way to show our parents our gratitude for their untiring support to both of us. My parent, especially my dad is really proud of us and we are proud of them. Maybe this could be a good win for all of us," Nancy said.

According to Nancy, her plans are to graduate and study at Howard College and work towards a bilingual education degree, but if they go to the state meet, she wouldn't mind changing her plans.

Meanwhile, Lupe feels she'll just take it one year at a time, in basketball and track and, "Who knows, maybe I our freshmen class could go to state four years in a row," she said with a smile.

The early Christians, after the crucifixion, were faced with the fact of failure. Then came the resurrection. Those joyously enthusiastic Christians fanned out over the Roman Empire proclaiming their resurrection faith.

Such a faith has to be joyous because it proclaims God's victory over death. What made those Christians so joyous?

• First, they depended on an inner stability and not on an outer security. They had Jesus!

They had seen him resurrected. They could face up to any persecution, confront any opposition, even accept death by violence — and continue to proclaim in their exuberance, their joy in Christ.

• Secondly, their joy came because their well-being was not at the mercy of outward conditions. Their stability in the face of a stormy life can be understood only when we understand that it was so well-grounded in their faith in Christ.

Come what might, they could joyously enjoy it.

• Thirdly, the joy of the Christians was not at the mercy of outward circumstances but came as an indirect result of their feeling of usefulness.

One does not have to be a hero to know their joy. The joy of the Christian comes from the knowledge that he or she can be used of God for good. Faith calls for a self-forgetting devotion to something beyond self.

For the Christian that something is someone — the God of Jesus. We find redemptive joy in serving Christ and sharing the good news of a great joy.

Greenwood Baptist Church Senior Adults will be honored during services at Greenwood Baptist Church on Sunday, May 3.

A pot luck luncheon will follow the morning services and will be topped off with home-made ice cream.

The festivities will conclude with a concert by a gospel quartet.

COLLEGE STATION — Senator Phil Gramm announced the appointment of Donnie G. Bowman of College Station as State Executive Director of the Texas Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

GOD'S LOVE APPEARS IN THE FLAMING COLORS OF AUTUMN

When summer's heat has taken flight,
The frost descending in the night
Will paint the trees with colors bright,
That morning will unfold;
And coming with the cooler days,
In keeping with this yearly phase,
The sight of branches all ablaze
Is awesome to behold.
On countryside or in the town,

Those leaves that later fade to brown
Proclaim, as they come drifting down,
The year is growing old.
Our House of Worship's lessons show
The love of God, that we should know
From autumn's beauty, all aglow
With shades of red and gold.
