Chevron announces 393 Permian Basin layoffs

Nearly 400 Chevron employees in the Permian Basin will lose their jobs, Chevron officials announced Thursday.

Company officials announced that 393 jobs in Chevron's Permian Basin Unit, which includes New Mexico and West Texas, will be eliminated, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reported today.

The cutbacks are part of a Chevron restructuring plan announced earlier this year. A total of 2,300 jobs — 700 at Chevron's Port Arthur refinery — will be eliminated by September, company officials said.

In addition, Chevron U.S.A. Production will move its headquarters from San Francisco to Houston, close a production unit in Denver and trim its New Orleans exploration unit.

Recycling drop-off set

The Howard County Coalition for the Environment will have its monthly recycling drop-off from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. at the Big Spring Herald's north parking lot.

HCCE members will be accepting aluminum, steel, and No. 1 and 2 plastic items during the drive. For more information, contact Dale Ferguson at 263-7331, ext. 151.

Swift creator profiled

In Prime of your Life, an insert to today's Big Spring Herald, Jean Warren profiles the creator of Tom Swift and others.

A generation that grew up enjoying the adventures of Tom Swift, Nancy Drew, the Bobsey Twins, and the Hardy Boys may be surprised to know that these legendary characters were all created by the remarkable imagination of one man, Edward Stratemeyer.

Warren does a biographical sketch on the author who penned books for youth.

Looting continues in LA despite troops

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thick, acrid smoke blanketed a city under siege today as thousands of troops and police stood by, giving over whole neighborhoods to looters, brick-throwers and even ax-wielding rioters.

RELATED STORY — 2A

By early morning, 25 people were dead and at least 900 injured in the frenzy that erupted following Wednesday's acquittal of four white policemen in the videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King.

President Bush called an early morning meeting of civilian and military advisers to discuss the rioting. White House chief of staff Samuel Skinner said federal troops might be sent to Los Angeles.

On Thursday, the unrest spread from predominantly black South Central Los Angeles to more affluent areas, adjoining communities and other cities.

More than 900 people were arrested in and around San Francisco, where the mayor declared a state of emergency when protesters began looting stores. Protesters rampaged through downtown Seattle early this morning. And in Las Vegas, a police officer was shot during a protest.

By early today, police had made some 800 arrests in Los Angeles. But while 4,000 National Guard troops massed in the nation's second-largest city, looters carted off food, clothing and televisions in cars and shopping carts.

Gov. Pete Wilson said early today that he would request an additional 2,000 of the state's Guard troops. He said he told Bush that federal troops might also be required.

"We are determined that this city is not going to suffer (this) kind of terrorism," the governor said at a news conference.

Arsonists torched hundreds of buildings, as many as 40 fires burned late Thursday night. Authorities reported nearly 1,300 fires since Wednesday. The mayor's office estimated damage at $200 million.

Bush said he talked by telephone with Wilson and Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley and said the federal government would consider civil rights charges against the acquitted officers.

"The murder and destruction on the streets of Los Angeles must be stopped," Bush said. "Lootings, beatings and random violence must be condemned."

The president scheduled a meeting with community leaders late in the morning.

He recently spoke about events that led to the SWCID students demonstrations, which began April 15. Demonstrations began when word of Coltrane's layoff was released. The demonstrators drew up a petition stating they wanted Coltrane back with a raise.

On April 6, Coltrane was verbally notified by SWCID Vice President Ron Brasel that his contract would not be renewed for the fall, he said. Layoffs had been discussed with Howard College and SWCID employees previously at a faculty meeting and through a memo. The reason for the layoff was cited as the possibility of funding cuts by the Legislative Budget Board of Texas.

Incumbent Mayor Max Green was born in Ballinger in 1930 and is a certified public accountant at the firm of Green and Fillingim.

Green began his career as a CPA in 1955 and has an associate degree in business from Odessa College as well.

Green has served as the District Financial Services Advocate of the U.S. Small Business Administration in Lubbock, has contributed articles to various business journals, he said, and has patented motorcycle parts.

"My slogan for this campaign is, I can't do it but we can."

Green believes the city can be managed within its available funds without raising taxes. "Until we get our tax base rebuilt, we have to be smarter about how our money is spent."

Green, who has served one term as mayor, was in the U.S. Army from 1948 to 1952, and has served as a member of the Permian Basin Planning Council, the board of directors of the United Way, the board of the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Committee Chairman of Boy Scout Troop 5 and was named "Boss of the Year" by the American Business Women's Association.

Green is a member of numerous accountant and business associations, as well as a motorcycle touring club.

Running against Green is local businessman Tim Blackshear.

County valuations may drop 8 percent

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

County property tax valuations may drop 8 percent this year. It would be the second yearly drop in a row.

Most of the drop would be in mineral valuations, which means homeowners and non-oil-related businesses would share a larger proportionate share of countywide taxes. Most mineral properties are outside the city limits of Big Spring.

Preliminary estimates indicate that oil, gas, mineral and related business tax valuations for 1992 will drop about 8 percent from a year ago, while other valuations may drop slightly, according to the Howard County Appraisal District.

At 1991 tax rates, that amounts to revenue losses of at least $245,000 for county government and $135,000 for Howard College. The estimated $68 million drop of taxable values would bring mineral valuations to $784 million, still more than 70 percent of $1.1 billion in total property valuations.

"It's not a good picture for minerals," said Chief Appraiser Keith Toomire.

"That shouldn't be a surprise," said local Fina Oil & Chemical Co. Manager Jeff Morris, who pointed out that the number of oil wells drilled last week in the nation hit an all-time low at 629. "It's part of a continuing trend."

Local elected officials this summer will probably have to wrestle with budget cuts and/or tax rate increases.

Texans protest Los Angeles officers' acquittals

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Three white teen-agers were assaulted Thursday as they walked through the halls of a southeast Dallas high school as other Texans protested against the verdict in the Rodney King case.

The three students at H. Grady Spruce High School were attacked shortly after the morning bell rang, officials said. One of the students suffered a cut that required stitches, another suffered a bloody lip, and the third was hit on the back of the head. All three were turned over to their parents.

At least six Dallas police officers and numerous school security officers patrolled the school throughout the day. About 75 students called their parents and asked to be sent home.

"They just didn't feel safe here," principal Charles Tuckey said. Metal detectors will be used Friday.

The southeast Dallas school is 50 percent black, 30 percent Hispanic and 20 percent white.

Protesters outside Dallas City Hall carried signs condemning the white officers' acquittals in the black motorist's videotaped beating in Los Angeles. Meanwhile, about a half-dozen students marched peacefully at Texas Southern University, a predominantly black school in Houston.

"Until we come together as a people, we will not be able to overcome prejudice. The beating we saw with Rodney King cannot be tolerated," the Rev. Marion Barnett told the Dallas crowd.

"We are a microcosm of what America is all about," he said. "And what America is about is white supremacy."

Alicia Reed of Dallas was passing out green ribbons which she said were to remind people of King's March 1991 beating and are designed to "help stop the violence."

Several dozen demonstrators gathered outside the Capitol Thursday afternoon to protest the King verdict. They waved signs, shouted and urged passing cars to honk their horns.

In Los Angeles, rioters burned and looted businesses and other buildings. Police said at least 20 people have died and at least 450 were reported hurt in the city's worst unrest since the Watts riots of 1965.

Rathburn, former Los Angeles deputy police chief, said Wednesday in Washington that rioting was inevitable. He said emotions were running high in Los Angeles following King's beating.

Under Chief Daryl F. Gates in Los Angeles, Rathburn was in command of five separate divisions in the LAPD's Operations South Bureau.

"I'm sick and tired of it," Bill Rogers, 31, of Dallas said Thursday. "We were waiting for justice for Rodney for 14 months. And now it's been denied."

Gov. Ann Richards said in Austin she was stunned by jurors' decision in suburban Simi Valley, Calif.

"We all make our judgments on the film that we saw. I have no idea how in the world they could have reached that conclusion," she said.

"I believe in the jury system and I believe in democracy, but it's really hard to figure out how they could have arrived to that conclusion," she said.

Officials: Thomas case shows need for reform

AUSTIN (AP) — Civil rights advocates who fought to free Rickey Dale Thomas from jail say his case demonstrates the need to reform the criminal justice system.

"We had an innocent person locked away... How many other people are there like Rickey Dale Thomas who are innocent and are in jail because of either poverty or race or both?" asked Jim Harrington, legal director of the Texas Civil Rights Project.

Thomas, 29, of California, was convicted and served nine months of a life sentence for purse-snatching before a state judge signed an order dropping all charges against him.

His release from the Hopkins County Jail in Sulphur Springs came after officials said another man confessed to the October 1989 robbery. It followed newspaper reports, national television broadcasts, and efforts by those who believed in his innocence.

"I'm not saying that Texas is a bad state, but what happened to me, it could have been avoided," Thomas said Thursday, one day after his release. "I had all the evidence in the world to prove that I was innocent."

Thomas said he planned to head back Friday to California.

"I'm just ready to get back out there and hit the beach and just relax, and then get back out in the work force and make some money, take care of my family," he said at a news conference with supporters, his fiancée and 2-year-old daughter.

Thomas maintained he was working at a Chula Vista, Calif., restaurant the day of the robbery and had records and witnesses to verify his claim.

But a jury convicted him, and he got a life sentence based on his prior criminal record and a Texas statute that allows for enhanced sentences in crimes committed against the elderly.

Gary Bledsoe, president of the Texas NAACP, called it ironic that Thomas' case coincides with the acquittal of four white police officers in the videotaped beating of a black motorist in Los Angeles.

"Our attention must be focused at the problem of racial injustice in society," Bledsoe said. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Texas is starting a project to identify those in situations similar to Thomas', Bledsoe said.

Grieving father offers bounties

SAN ANDREAS, Calif. (AP) — When Sheldon Bissell's teen-age son was killed by a drunken driver, he declared his own private war.

Bissell put $2,000 in a special bank account and advertised in a local newspaper, promising $100 to anyone who turned drunken drivers into police. The money would be paid only if the tip resulted in an arrest.

"I felt I had to do something," said Bissell, a carpenter in Calaveras County 150 miles east of San Francisco. "My son was my buddy, he was my best friend. We played together, we worked together, we built houses together."

"I wanted people to spot drunk drivers and I wanted them arrested."

Authorities say the bounty program — Driving Under the Influence Reporter's Reward — has proved a success in this rural, rugged county, crisscrossed by treacherous, crooked roads. State Route 4, for instance, follows a 19th century stagecoach trail that is among the most winding stretches of road in California.

The program has paid out $17,000 since it was started in 1984. About half came from Bissell.

Alcohol-linked crashes have dropped by about 50 percent and the program has spread to six other rural California counties and two cities, all of which also reported up to 50 percent drops in alcohol-related traffic fatalities.

When Sheldon Bissell's teen-age son died in a flaming car crash, Bissell, of San Andreas, Calif., declared war by offering a $100 bounty to anyone who spotted a drunk driver and reported them. He called the successful program DUIRR (Driving Under the Influence Reporter's Reward.)

Report: Leaders knew of sex abuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hotel hallway "gantlet" in which at least 26 women were sexually molested during a naval aviators' convention was a service tradition well-known to senior officers, a Navy report says.

The inspector general's report is based on a seven-month investigation by the Naval Investigative Service, which said it found the women suffered "varying degrees of sexual assaults" at a 1991 convention of Navy and Marine Corps aviators in Las Vegas, Nev.

The results of the inquiry were released Thursday along with more than 2,000 pages of edited transcripts of investigators' interviews with witnesses and participants at the convention, which is an annual event dating to 1956. Names of all witnesses and suspected perpetrators were withheld.

In an interview, Navy Undersecretary Dan Howard said no disciplinary action against senior Navy officials was contemplated. The issue, he said, is "what we should do from this point on" to "teach our people... the difference between acceptable and unacceptable behavior."

The inspector general's report, however, said investigators had established that the reputation of the "gantlet" activity was well-known to senior naval aviation leaders and had come to be viewed as "accepted and expected" behavior at the annual convention.

"The activities which took place... if not tacitly approved, were allowed to continue by the leadership of the aviation community and the Tailhook Association," said the inspector general.

Protesters denounce Yeltsin's market reforms

MOSCOW (AP) — Thousands of workers angry over a staggering rise in the cost of living took to the streets and denounced President Boris Yeltsin's free market reforms today, the first May Day in post-Communist Russia.

Breaking with decades of tradition, the Moscow government did not sponsor a parade of workers across Red Square. Instead, Russia's legislature declared today a non-ideological celebration of "spring and labor."

But the event was sparsely attended. A steady stream of Muscovites headed out of the city toward their dachas, or country homes, for the four-day holiday weekend.

Elsewhere today, China marked May Day, hard-pressed Cuba planned a grand rally in Havana featuring bicycles in place of automobiles, and South Korea saw a hot-tempered labor protest.

Cash-hungry Moscow officials sold advertisements on giant billboards facing Red Square. In past years, the billboards carried giant portraits of Soviet founder Vladimir Lenin and 30-foot banners saying, "Workers of the World, Unite!"

This year, a mammoth billboard on the GUM department store facing Lenin's mausoleum touted Spain's Canary Islands with a picture of a perfect beach, sea and palm trees.

Spring was in the air as Moscow's "babushkas," or grandmothers, strolled. White, red and blue banners — the colors of the Russian flag — rippled in the breeze along the capital's eight-lane thoroughfares.

But the mood of some was less cheerful. Diehard Communists, Russian nationalists and others disenchanted by Yeltsin's reforms vented their anger in cities across

"We are for socialism. We oppose capitalism because it will bring only unemployment and hunger."

Russia, from Moscow to Siberia.

About 1,000 demonstrators gathered at a statue of Lenin in Moscow's October Square, then with their numbers swelling to 20,000, they marched to Red Square for a rally of the Moscow Labor movement, a neo-communist organization.

Some protesters held red flags with the hammer-and-sickle emblem and others toled portraits of Stalin and Lenin. Hundreds of police kept order.

"We are for socialism. We oppose capitalism because it will bring only unemployment and hunger," said protester Katya Prostova, an engineer.

In Khabarovsk, some 3,800 miles to the east, a few hundred protesters also rallied around a Lenin statue and demanded Yeltsin's resignation, the ITAR-Tass news agency reported.

A pro-Yeltsin speaker was heckled at a rally in Petropavlovsk, on Siberia's Kamchatka peninsula.

The events around Red Square marked a dramatic change in May Day, once a major political holiday when the ruling Politburo of the Communist Party stood atop Lenin's tomb while thousands of workers marched by.

The utopian pomp was toned down under former Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev. But even last year, marchers paraded stonily past Gorbachev and former Soviet Supreme Soviet chairman Anatoly Lukyanov, now in jail for his role in trying to overthrow Gorbachev in August.

Moscow officials also threw a party for orphans on huge Manezh Square adjacent to the Kremlin. A helicopter gave some children a ride over the capital, and actors and musicians performed.

Among the May Day activities in other countries:

—China marked the day with calls for workers to support the nation's new reform drive, but for most Chinese it was just a day off. There were no grand May Day festivities in Beijing, capital of the world's last major Communist power.

—Cubans prepared for a massive bicycle parade. Since the collapse of the Soviet Union, Cuba's oil imports have fallen sharply, forcing many people to abandon their cars.

—In Seoul, 3,000 labor leaders demanded more wages and threatened to hold nationwide labor strikes. Only a block away, 400 radical students demanding the release of jailed union leaders and an end to curbs on wage raises fought with riot police.

May Day parade
Japanese workers march down Tokyo streets with colorful union banners during the annual May Day parade today. Some four million workers rallied throughout the country, demanding better working conditions and shorter working hours.

Lady Bearkats follow their leader to regional

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

GARDEN CITY — Like many high school seniors, Garden City trackster Jenny Hunter has assumed a leadership role with her younger teammates.

But unlike other seniors, who may offer occasional advice and encouragement, Hunter's leadership position is so complete her teammates have dubbed her "Mother Hunter."

And the Lady Bearkat relay team, which travels to Abilene today for regional competition, depends on Hunter for everything from putting their marks down on the track to telling them what to eat before a meet.

"When we run around like chickens with our heads cut off, she puts our heads back on," sophomore Cristy Bryant says. "Without Jenny we wouldn't know what to do."

Two years ahead of all of her relay teammates, Hunter tells them when its time to get off the bus and suit up at meets and calms them down before important races.

Bearkat track coach Phil Swenson says his team willingly accepts Hunter's help.

"These young girls take what she says to heart," Swenson says. "They don't just take it as the big girl talking down to them."

Hunter's leadership role may have had its beginnings last year.

Two days before regional 1991, Garden City's girls relay team lost one of its members to a cheerleader-tryout injury.

Swenson had to put Hunter in the leadoff spot in the mile and she jumped the gun. Officials dis-

Forsan senior making up for lost track time

FORSAN — John Reese is making up for lost time and so far it's carried him to the Region I-AA track meet in Abilene today.

The Forsan senior will compete in the 800 meters. It's a long way from last season when Reese wasn't even competing in track.

In fact, Reese's last competitive track season was in his freshman year. That's why he's making the most of his senior year.

"I had to work, pay for my car and insurance and stuff like that," said Reese of his two year absence from sports. "This year I said the heck with it, I got my schedule so I could work around it."

Reese is a very busy young man. Besides making the grade in the classroom and in football and track, he also works at Rocky's Restaurant and R&R Construction, which is owned by his parents Teddy and Cathy Robbins. He said he puts in from 30-40 hours a week.

Even such a hectic schedule doesn't slow Reese down on the track. He ran a 2:03.58 at the 6-2A meet to finish second behind state champion Jeremy Stallings. Reese was almost a one-man show for the Forsan track team, competing in the 800, 3,200, 200, pole vault and long jump.

Reese said he missed track dearly the two years he didn't run. He started a promising career as a freshman, running a 2:09.8.

"This year she came back focused to not let something like (last year's disqualification) happen again."

This year Hunter and her teammates return to region after having won district in the 400, 800 and 1600 meter (or mile) relays. The team of Hunter, Bryant, freshman Melinda Braden and sophomore Stacy Karnes has the second fastest state 1A time in the mile (4:15.44) and the third fastest in the 800 (1:49.9).

Swenson says the team's chances of reaching state in the mile and the 800 are "solid."

He says freshmen Kelly Eoff and Tiffany Zachry, who was previously on the 400 team, have also made significant contributions to the team.

Team members describe themselves as good friends off the field and on.

"We're sort of more like a family than a team," Bryant says. "I think we hold a lot more respect for each other than most relay teams do. We're not jealous (of each other)."

Hunter's leadership role fits in well with that dynamic.

Swenson says she's an excellent artist, and one of the things she does to encourage her teammates is make good luck greeting cards for each of them before meets.

And how does Hunter feel about her status as Mother Hunter?

"I like it. (My teammates) time will come and they'll know exactly what they're doing and (then) they'll help the freshmen out. (But) I've been learning for four years and now it's my time to give," Hunter says.

Recently the Mother Hunter nickname was dropped.

About six weeks ago the team leader brought two baby ducks to practice and the way they followed her around reminded the rest of the team of how they follow Hunter's lead.

So Mother Hunter became "Mama Duck."

"We sort of quack quack, waddle waddle behind her," Bryant says. "We do everything she does."

Cavs advance to second round of playoffs

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For a long time, the Cleveland Cavaliers were the biggest joke in the NBA. Nobody's laughing now.

The Cavaliers ended a 16-year playoff drought by beating the New Jersey Nets 98-89 Thursday night for a 3-1 victory in their opening-round series.

Reserve forward John Williams scored 10 of his 20 points in the fourth quarter and the Cavs held the Nets to 29 percent shooting in the final three periods to win their first postseason series since 1976.

"The way to win championships is with defense, and our defense picked it up," said Williams, who also had 43 rebounds. "Look at Detroit and Chicago the last three years. That's how they did it."

Cleveland will play the Boston Celtics in the second round, starting Saturday at Richfield Coliseum. The Celtics have been resting since Monday night, when they completed a sweep of the Indiana Pacers.

Seattle also advanced to the second round on Thursday night, beating Golden State 119-116 to win the series 3-1. Ricky Pierce scored 27 points for the Sonics, who will play the winner of the Utah-Los Angeles Clippers matchup.

NBA

Reserve Eddie Johnson added 26 points for Seattle, while Shawn Kemp had 21 points and 20 rebounds. Tim Hardaway had 27 points for Golden State.

The Clippers had been scheduled to play at home against the Jazz on Thursday night, but the game was postponed because of the riots in Los Angeles. It was rescheduled for Saturday. The Jazz lead the series 2-1.

On Friday, New York plays at Detroit and Portland visits the Los Angeles Lakers. The Knicks and Trail Blazers lead their series 2-1.

Brad Daugherty had 19 points and 14 rebounds for Cleveland despite playing with an air cast on his sprained right ankle. He winced in pain while limping around the locker room after the game.

"Brad's an All-Star and that's what they do — come through when it counts even when they're hurting," Williams said.

The Cavaliers took their first lead, 76-75, on a layup by Williams with 8:16 left in the game. After the Nets regained the lead at 79-78, Cleveland went up for good with six consecutive points, including two jumpers by Larry Nance.

The Nets closed to 84-82, but the Cavs scored eight of the game's final 12 points to seal the victory.

"We stressed not to be overanxious," Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens said. "We felt if we could be within 10 at the half, we could make a run. This win shows we have the mental toughness to hang in there and come back."

Lost

The two years he didn't compete Reese still ran. "I love running. It's part of my hobby. I hated being out of track those two years. Either I was going to run this year or I was going to bust."

To say in shape Reese would constantly run to and from his house to the mountain at the state park, which is about five miles, he said.

Reese had no idea he would make it to regional. "When I came out this year I thought I wouldn't be anything. I didn't know where I stood. I had no idea what goals to set," he said.

Reese even made some tactical changes in his race during the season. At the start of the season he would come out with a slow pace, dropping well behind the leaders, finishing up with a blistering kick.

Now he goes out and runs a fast first 400 meters and tries his best to finish strong. Ironically Stallings of Stanton prompted the change. "Jeremy Stallings is a great runner. He's kind of my idol runner," said Reese. "I got to thinking about it (changing strategy) the night before I was to run against Jeremy in Colorado City. That's when I realized that starting out slow and ending fast doesn't work."

Reese feels the key to his success in regional is to run a strong second lap. "I try to run my first quarter in 57 (seconds), but I've been running my second quarter pretty slow. (That slow second quarter) kicks my butt," he said. "The other day I ran a 1:59 in practice and I was pushing myself hard. If I can run a 1:58 I'd be happy."

Whatever the outcome, John Reese has made the most of lost time on the track field.

Bob E. Riley gave two more reasons for not renewing Coltrane's contract. The others are Coltrane was searching for employment elsewhere and Riley was dissatisfied with the recruitment numbers.

Coltrane says he began interviewing in September after a dispute over his 1991-1992 contract.

"Yes, I did interview four times in the past year," he said. "I had a conversation with Ron (Brasel) and Bob Johnson (dean of students) about my job search, which was not aggressive. I said that if I did not find anything we would stay and I hoped they renewed my contract."

"It had been agreed upon previously that if I received my bachelor's I would get my promotional raise, which I had not received since taking the job in 1985," he said.

Coltrane says he knew of another employee who, upon obtaining his degree, received a raise of more than $5,000. With that in consideration, he expected a comparable raise, he said.

"In March of 1991, I had a meeting with Ron (Brasel) and Dr. Riley," he said. "I was disappointed with what I was initially offered, which was between $3,000 to $3,300.

"On April 3, 1991, I had another meeting with Dr. Riley and Ron in Riley's office. At that time, I told him of the involvement and commitment to my job. Riley then said they would give me a raise to bring me up in line with the other directors plus the 4-5 percent annual raise."

A few days later, Coltrane received a memo from Brasel concerning the previous contract negotiations. Coltrane showed the original memo to the Big Spring Herald.

It states:
From the desk of Ron Brasel
Bob C.
Negotiations w/ Riley — Ron
$28,618 — '90-'91
$32,753 — '91-'92 any raise 4-5 percent
($4,135 raise)

Coltrane contends that had he received the promised raise of $4,135 with the 4-5 percent annual increase his annual salary would be $34,390.

Nine days before school resumed he received his contract for the fall — it stated that his salary would be $33,600, about $750 less than negotiated.

degree at George Williams College in Chicago, the native Texan did graduate studies in the School of Banking in Boulder Colo. and at Southern Methodist University, he said.

Mullins is a member of the 14th and Main Church of Christ and is a past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club.

He is a past board member of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce, the Big Spring Industrial Foundation and the Heritage Museum.

Mullins currently serves on the Committee for Business Retention and Development of Moore Development for Big Spring Inc.

"As a trustee of Howard College, I have a responsibility to the taxpayers to see that public funds entrusted should be spent with good judgment," he said.

"I think that we can grow with academic and vocational courses which will meet the educational needs of our community."

"We're continuing to offer quality education in light of decreased state funds," he said.

Write-in candidate Randle has lived in Big Spring since 1955. Randle received a bachelor's degree in education and graduated from Central State College in Edmond Okla. in 1948.

Randle, however, took work in the private sector and worked 31 years as a senior customer representative for Texas Electric, and was responsible for departmental budgets during that time, he said.

"I would like to make the board aware of their responsibilities — to be more cognizant of the needs of the community, the students and the faculty," Randle said.

"I believe the board has lost sight of their purpose for serving and have come to believe that the college is their fief. Moral is at an all-time low, and we need to rejuvenate the faith of the faculty and the student body."

Randle is a past president of the Coahoma Lions Club, toastmaster for 15 years, and has provided the Randle Scholarship to Howard College for more than eight years.

Randle and his wife are members of the First Presbyterian Church where he teaches a Sunday school class.

Randle was raised in Ponca City Okla. and served 42 months in the U.S. Army Air Corps as a B-24 nose gunner during World War II, he said.

The Randles also have an extensive collection of Southwestern Native American art, which they keep in museums in the area.

us," said Howard College President Bob Riley, who on Monday got college board approval to layoff 15 personnel, including five instructors, at the multi-campus college.

"Some of these personnel decisions made recently will soften that considerably."

Last year, total taxable property valuations dropped $81.2 million, 6 percent, from 1990. Mineral values dropped $19.2 million, 2.2 percent. Home values dropped about $32 million, 12 percent.

Blackshear promises a more "hands off" approach to city government, setting goals and boundaries and intervening only when those goals are not met or boundaries are overstepped, he said.

Blackshear believes the council should concentrate on utilities, fire prevention, police protection, streets and water. "If you take care of those five things, everything else should fall into place."

Although Blackshear has not attended college, he has attended several city government seminars and workshops around the state, and is the only member of the council to have some of that training, he said.

Local businessmen Mike Parker and Charles Beil are running in the race for Big Spring City Council place 2.

Parker is a 20-year independent businessman and owner of the Brandin' Iron Inn restaurant.

"My primary thought is to form some continuity between the council and the citizens of this community. I think we can make some sound business decisions and may alleviate the deterioration in the city's infrastructure," he said.

Parker graduated from Big Spring High School in 1973, and attended Howard College and the University of Texas at the Permian Basin before returning home to operate the family business.

Parker believes the less government the better and supports a strong police and fire department.

Beil, who has lived in Big Spring for 30 years, served 23 years as the president and chief executive officer of First Federal Savings. He is now in business for himself.

His business, Texport Marketing International, deals primarily with the import and export of merchandise and the sale of commercial real estate. Beil also owns the Coronado Hills Apartments, he said.

"I favor a positive attitude for the job and cooperation with other entities and agencies — I'm hoping to save some tax dollars."

Beil holds a bachelors degree in business administration from the University of Oklahoma, he said.

He is a past district governor of Rotary International and a past president of the Big Spring Rotary Club. He has served six years on the Big Spring Independent School District Board of Trustees and is a past president of the United Way.

As of the end of absentee voting on Tuesday, 878 Big Spring residents had voted.

Seven vying for 3 places in Coahoma

By MARSHA STURDIVANT
Staff Writer

Seven candidates are vying for three places on the Coahoma school board election, which occurs Saturday.

Coahoma residents may cast their ballots at the community center from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. Saturday, and Sand Springs residents may vote at Sand Springs Lions Club building during the same time.

Newcomers Tracy Frazier, Earl Ray Lee, and Richard Sanders filed for two positions, one of which is held by incumbent Jimmy Sterling. Ronnie K. Wood, a former board member, also is seeking reelection.

Gail Wells is defending her appointed seat against Dusty Choate. Wells replaced Jim Mathison when he resigned. She received the third-most votes in the 1991 school board election and was appointed by board members in November 1991.

Dusty Choate, a former Big Spring police officer, is vice-president of Choate Well Service. He is married and has seven children, five of whom attend Coahoma schools.

"I believe the future for Coahoma's school is fantastic. Our main goal is to keep the kids happy so they can learn. We have a good school and good kids. The only way to go is up and we're in a good position now," Choate said.

Gail Wells has been an employee of the Texas Department of Human Services for 20 years, and she currently is program manager for client self-support in the Permian Basin. She has two children attending school in Coahoma. She attended Klondike High School, South Plains College and Texas Tech as an education major.

Wells said selecting a new superintendent is the first hurdle trustees face, and she also hopes to see math and science scores for Coahoma students continue to improve. Her long-term goal is to see a Parents and Teachers Association in the elementary.

"I want what's best for the school and I try to be fair. When I make my decisions, I do as much research and homework as possible to decide as correctly as possible," Wells said.

Jimmy Sterling is seeking his third term of office with the school board. He is married with three children, two of whom attend Coahoma schools. He is an independent rancher with business interests in Texas and New Mexico.

"Out future looks real good. We've about got our bond paid off, we've got good teachers and good principals — in fact, the whole staff is excellent. The first job of the new board will be hiring a new superintendent," Sterling said.

He said he wants to see the push for returning control of the districts in Texas to the local school boards, and he supports most of the changes the commissioner of education is making.

Ronnie K. Wood is seeking reelection after being off the school board for one year. He has nine years on the board, is married and has one son in Coahoma schools. Wood and his wife have owned Big Spring Farm Supply for the past 14 years, and he was the assistant county agent before that.

"We've made good strides and our financial base is solid. The next few months will be very critical as we hire a new superintendent, the most important person in our school system with a lot of head duties, including finances, personnel and public relations. I've helped hire two other superintendents and I want to help hire our school system a good boss," Wood said.

Tracy Frazier is an engineering supervisor in the construction department at Fina Inc. He is married with three young children, one of whom is attending school in Coahoma. He graduated from Coahoma High School in 1979.

"I see this as community service, an opportunity to give back to the community. I want to see the school continue to grow on the academic side and for it to be all it possibly can be for our kids," Frazier said.

Ray Lee is a supervisor for Well Tech in Forson. He is married and has three children, two of whom are in school at Coahoma. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1976.

"We've got a tough road to plow, with hiring a new superintendent and a new elementary principal. But the future looks good. We chose Coahoma four years ago because it has great teachers and our kids can get a good education in our school system. Working together, the school board and the school system, we can make an even better system," Lee said.

Richard Sanders, a case management specialist with the Federal Bureau of Prisons, has two children in Coahoma schools. His wife is an elementary principal for Big Spring, and he holds three higher education degrees, including a master's in criminal justice administration.

"We've got a lot of hard decisions to make in the coming three years, with our shrinking tax base and the throttling of local tax resources by the state authorities. Our board members have got to be ready to make those tough decisions. I can. I make tough decisions every day," Sanders said.

Your Vote and Support Is Greatly Appreciated

Paid Political Advertising By Jimmy Sterling, HC 71, Box 27, Coahoma, TX 79511

— RE-ELECT —
MAXWELL D. (MAX) GREEN MAYOR

- Max Green's original platform was to operate a tax efficient city business, and it is still his goal.
- A sound solid majority voted for this goal.
- He strives to make the most efficient use of your city tax dollars.
- Big Spring has prospered during the last 3 years much better than many sister cities.
- Majority of citizens are proud of Big Spring and happy to live here.
- The "Clean Committee" is working miracles, other positive action groups are contributing, much too.
- During his term of office, a small noisy group has stirred up re-call options at least 3 times, creating embarrassment to Big Spring state-wide.
- Yet each time, the solid majority of city voters re-elected Mayor Max Green by a wide margin — PROVING CITY SUPPORT.
- Mayor Max Green has shown consistent strength to try to plan streamlined efficiency and eliminate unnecessary waste. This is what the majority have stated why they, the voters, have put him into office.
- IS IT FAIR TO YOU TO ALLOW A "NOISY DISCONTENT FACTION" TO DISRUPT THE MAJORITY OF YOUR VOTES. OF COURSE NOT!! THIS IS A PROUD DEMOCRACY.
- Only you, the voters, can prove your wishes.
- Vote early through April 28, or for sure, on May 2.

Kohl celebrates 20 years at St. Paul

By Elfa Cantrell for the Herald
Members and guests of St. Paul Lutheran Church, 810 Scurry St., will honor their pastor, Rev. Carroll C. Kohl, on May 3 at 3 p.m.
The Rev. Kohl was installed as pastor of St. Paul on May 7, 1972. He has faithfully served the congregation for the past twenty years — the longest tenure of any pastor in the history of St. Paul.

Kohl has faithfully served the congregation for the past twenty years — the longest tenure of any pastor in the history of St. Paul.

Rev. Ray Johansen, Grace Lutheran Church, Midland, will conduct the service — special music will be presented by the adult choir, Suzanne Honey, directing and by the Kohl Trio — Angelo (Kohl) Conner, Glenda Kohl and Dana Kohl.

Kohl was born in Vernon where his parents were life-time farmers. He has one sister, Carline Niedermayer, Amarillo, and one brother, Alfred, Snyder.

He attended school in Harrold, completing the eighth grade. He then went to Concordia, Austin, where he completed his high school work. At this point, he was forced to drop out of school and return to Harrold where he spent two years farming, doing mechanical work, driving a truck, and hauling gasoline to filling stations.

In 1955 he went to Springfield, Ill. where he entered Concordia Theological Seminary. Here he completed four years of study and received his diploma May 30, 1961.

He accepted a call to Trinity Lutheran Church in Weatherford in 1961. He was ordained June 25, 1961, and while pastor at Trinity, was instrumental in establishing Lutheran Missions in Azle, Mineral Wells and Stephenville.

February 1966, Rev. Kohl accepted a call to Immanuel Lutheran Church, Harrold. The members of the congregation granted him time off from his ministerial duties during the summer months, in order for him to further his education. He spent three summers at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind. receiving his B.A. degree Aug. 9, 1968 with a major in Sociology. Aug. 13, 1971 he received his Bachelor of Divinity degree in Springfield, Ill. He also has his Master of Divinity from Concordia Seminary Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

In 1972 Pastor Kohl accepted a call to St. Paul Lutheran Church in Big Spring. On May 7, 1972 he was installed as pastor of St. Paul. Dr. Carl C. Heckmann, president of the Texas District at the time, held the installation service.

Pastor Kohl has served in other church capacities and functions including: Circuit Counselor of the West Texas District for 16 years; and since 1988 as vice president of the Texas District; and on the Board of Directors, Austin.

Kohl was re-elected vice president in 1991 and will continue to serve on the Board of Directors. This board meets six times a year for the purpose of implementing rules and regulations in between Texas District Conventions.

He has served as assistant chaplain of the Veterans Administration Medical Center since 1973, he has held offices in the American Business Club; is past president of the Rotary International; served on the Base Community Council at Webb before its closing; has held every office in the Howard County Ministers Fellowship; served on West Texas Blood Services, served as a director of Girl Scouts; and presently serves on the Advisory Board of the Salvation Army. He also provides counseling services in the community.

In the twenty years that Pastor Kohl has faithfully served St. Paul, the membership has continued to grow; worship attendance has increased; educational programs for all ages have improved yearly; boards and committees have functioned more efficiently; building programs have been carried out most successfully and the continued mission of St. Paul is evident — "To care enough to share the comforting love and teachings of Jesus Christ with you."

Rev. Kohl and Leighrene Thomason were married in Immanuel Lutheran Church, Harrold, Christmas 1958, with Rev. Ervin Metz performing the ceremony. God has blessed this family with four children: Thomas, who with wife, Michelle, lives in Arlington; Angela Conner and husband, Buddy, Big Spring; Glenda Kohl, Wichita Falls and Dana Kohl, Snyder. They have one grandchild, Breanna Kohl Conner.

Call for prayer is American tradition

By George W. Cornell
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — At a critical juncture in the 1787 convention that drafted the U.S. Constitution, the aging Benjamin Franklin broke a deadlock with an appeal for prayer "to the Father of lights to illuminate our understanding."

Quoting Scripture, he said, "Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it... I believe that without his concurring aid we shall succeed in this political building not better than the builders of Babel."

'While our needs may be different, we are no less dependent on the help of Almighty God,' President George Bush

From then on, until the document was completed three months later, the Continental Congress began each day's work with prayer. That's been the custom for the Congress ever since, and on special occasions for the nation.

President Bush, proclaiming next Thursday, May 7, a National Day of Prayer, said the occasion reminds us that, as Franklin said, "God governs in the affairs of men."

"While our needs may be different, we are no less dependent on the help of Almighty God," Bush said, urging trust in that "unfailing light" as "we seek to chart a course in a world that is changing by the hour."

Shirley Dobson of Colorado Springs, Colo., who chairs the National Day of Prayer Task Force, said, "As Americans pray together, we'll find new strength and guidance from God — both as individuals and as a nation."

Among churches and various independent groups planning special gatherings for the occasion, the American Family Association was promoting prayer meetings at local city halls.

It said 30-minute "Meet at City Hall" prayer sessions for "a moral rebirth in America" were scheduled at the noon hour in about 1,000 cities. Local ministerial associations were coordinating some of the events.

Although atheist groups object to such observances, they've been part of the nation's tradition since the beginning. George Washington, setting the first national Thanksgiving Day in his first year in office, said:

"It is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey his will, to be grateful for his benefits, and humbly to implore his protection and favor."

Down through the years, presidents have proclaimed such occasions, sometimes in dramatic circumstances. Abraham Lincoln, in a dark period of the Civil War in 1863, set a national day of prayer and fasting.

Calling both sides to their knees in repentance for "sins and transgressions" that have brought on the "awful calamity of this civil war," he said:

"We have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace, and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us."

While national days of prayer have been customary at various times from the start, Congress in 1952 asked that a specific schedule be set, and subsequently the first Thursday in May was set aside for the observance.

Following are some modern calls to prayer by presidents:

Ronald Reagan, 1988: "Let us, young and old, join together in... humble, heartfelt prayer" to "God and his great goodness, in search of his guidance and the grace of repentance, in seeking his blessings."

John F. Kennedy, 1963: "As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words but to live by them. Let us therefore... be humbly thankful for inherited ideals — and let us resolve to share those blessings and those ideals with our fellow human beings throughout the world."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, 1960: In "this time of testing we shall ever place our trust in... God's commandments, knowing that he who has brought us here requires justice and mercy in return." Prayer that "we will see clearly the vision of the world that is meant to be and set our hearts resolutely toward the achievement of it."

Harry Truman, 1950: "All of us... are within the reach of God's love and power. We all can pray. We all should pray. We should ask the fulfillment of God's will. We should ask for courage."

Council of Churches asks for arms block

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four religious and other organizations have asked Congress to block the Bush administration's plan to sell F-15 fighters to Saudi Arabia and from fostering "further arms races in precarious regions."

The coalition, including leaders of the National Council of Churches, Episcopal Church, American Baptist Churches, United Church of Christ and Union of American Hebrew Congregations, sent their appeal to members of the Senate and House.

Alliance opens dialogue for unity

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Leaders of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches, representing 177 Presbyterian, Congregational and Reformed denominations totaling 70 million members, say they have completed, bilateral dialogues with seven other Christian traditions.

Results were assessed at a meeting here last week. Theologian Jane Dempsey

Douglass of Princeton Theological Seminary, WARC president, said the alliance "has always been deeply committed to the pursuit of unity among churches."

Calling all believers

WASHINGTON (AP) — In cooperation with three dioceses, the Paulist National Catholic Evangelization Association has started a multimedia advertising campaign to get people to church.

Those with no church affiliation in Philadelphia, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Charlotte, N.C., are invited to explore the "Catholic way of life."

Yuppies turn to God

NEW YORK (AP) — Many young, successful professionals are leaving lucrative jobs to pursue careers as Orthodox rabbis, says the dean of Manhattan's Rabbi Isaac Elchanan Theological Seminary.

"We have seen a sharp upturn in the numbers of rabbinic students who have previously pursued and excelled in the so-called preferred professions," says the seminary's dean, Rabbi Zevulun Charlop. "Our student body now consists of doctors, lawyers, bankers and others who are choosing the rabbinate as a second career."

Women fight to end racism

SALVADOR, Brazil (AP) — About 600 women at a Worldwide Anglican Women's Encounter vowed to "fight, pray and speak out on racial issues" to eradicate the racism experienced by their Asian, black, Latina and Indian sisters.

They demanded that the church root out its internal racism, asked for the recruitment and ordination of more ethnic and minority ministers and a review of educational texts to reflect accurately the heritages of ethnic minorities.

The Rev. Carmen Guerrero, of Mexican descent and director of Hispanic ministries for the Los Angeles Episcopal Diocese, said "The hardest challenge is to love my oppressors, and the problem is that I do love my oppressors."

In a worship service reflecting on the 500th anniversary of the arrival of Europeans, Bishop Steven Charleston of Alaska said much of the resulting pain stemmed from a mistaken notion of those who came to the Americas.

'Meet at City Hall' for day of prayer

Officials of 'Meet At City Hall,' a special prayer project scheduled for the National Day of Prayer, May 7, say that the event will be observed in approximately 2500

cities. 'Meet At City Hall' asks individuals to meet at their local city hall on the National Day of Prayer, May 7, from 12:20 until 12:40 p.m. and spend twenty minutes praying for a moral rebirth in America.

"We are thrilled at the response. It is apparent that there is a deep hunger for the restoration of traditional morals in our country," said Donald E. Wildmon, chairman of the event.

In many cities Meet At City Hall will be highly organized, while in others there will be very little structure. "We are leaving it up to the local community to make that decision," Wildmon stated. Mayors in Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas have all made television public service announcements supporting Meet At City Hall, while many radio stations are promoting the event.

City Extension Club

Frances Zant and Irene Priebe presented a program on "Recycling and Makeovers" to the City Extension Club in the home of Carolyn Reed on April 24.

Recycling refers to a continuous cycle in which a material or product is made, used, collected, processed and used again. This concept of recycling is practiced in almost every industry.

Priebe explained that when a garment is recycled, it is reused, renovated, or repaired to make it wearable again. When the garment is taken apart and cut into a different style or pattern, it is a "makeover". The recycled garment can be made to look different or new by accessorizing with scarves, belts, collars, buttons trim, applique, embroidery or alteration of fit.

Frances Zant illustrated the concept of recycling by displaying garments which had been lengthened or renovated with new necklines. Illa Reese wore a dress which had been sleeveless but which now had long sleeves made from a matching jacket. Creativity is the deciding factor when recycling or doing makeovers of garments.

Nadine Hodnett, president, told of the program "Beef up your Life" and encouraged members to participate. Four members attended the District meeting held in Andrews. Frances Zant reported that Lajuana Thames of Ward County was elected District VI Director. The state meeting will be in Galveston on Sept. 22-24.

Four members attended the District VI Retreat at Pride Ranch.

You don't have to be perfect for church

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to join a church, but all the church people I know are very good people and I don't think I would fit in. I'm not a bad person at all, but I have a lot of personal problems and am afraid they would look down on me. — Mrs. Y.W.

DEAR MRS. Y.W.: If you were to probe beneath the surface, I'm certain you would find they have many of the same problems you have — or worse. I don't know anyone who doesn't have problems, including Christians. Like everyone, Christians also have financial problems, have loved ones who are in trouble, fight emotional problems and discouragement, get sick, face old age, etc. — the list is endless.

In other words, don't feel that you have to be perfect before you can go to church! That's somewhat like thinking that you need to get well before you can go to a hospital! Jesus said, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick. ... I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners" (Matthew 9:12-13).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am worried about a friend who is engaged to a man who is not at all responsible — runs up debts, never holds a job, is sarcastic and puts her down before other people, etc. We all have told her he is just like his father (who was lazy and unfaithful), but she says everything will be all right because he has promised to change when they get married. Do you think we have reason to be concerned for her? — Mrs. C.L.

DEAR MRS. C.L.: Yes, you certainly do. I wish your friend could read some of the letters I get almost daily from women (and men) who were convinced their future spouse would change after marriage — and have found to their sorrow that it almost never happens. If this man truly loved your friend, he would begin changing now.

What can you do to help your friend? First, pray for her. It isn't God's perfect will for her to marry someone who is selfish and irresponsible (as this man seems to be, from your description). However, at times our emotions can blind us to reality, and you should pray that your friend won't let that happen. Pray that she will seek God's will for her life and her marriage.

Then seek to reason with your friend — difficult as that may be. The Bible says, "Better is open rebuke than hidden love. ... faithful are the wounds of a friend" (Proverbs 27:5,6). Let her know that you're not trying to run her life, but you are concerned for her and care for her. In addition, listen to her. Why is she so intent on marrying this individual? Is she insecure and afraid no one else will ever marry her?

Most of all, encourage her to give her life to Christ and His will. And even if she refuses to heed your counsel now, let her know you still care for her and will always be her friend.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I don't want to offend you, but I have a friend who claims to be a Christian but he is one of the most prejudiced people I know — always making jokes or snide comments about people of other races, for example. If this is what a Christian is like, then I don't want to be one. His remarks offend me, and I don't think that kind of attitude has any place in today's world. — Mrs. E.L.

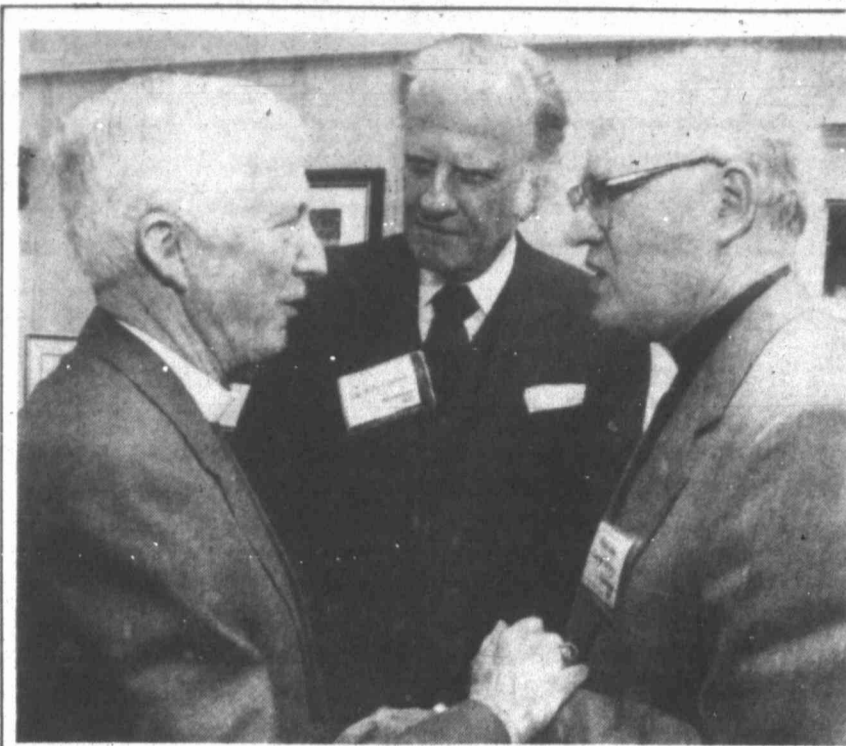

DEAR MRS. E.L.: Prejudice and bigotry are not God's will, nor should they be part of anyone who is seeking to be a faithful follower of Jesus Christ. I sincerely hope you won't turn away from Christ because of the bad example of one person who claims to be a Christian but is acting in an un-Christlike way.

After all, for every bad example there are many others who are not like this at all. In fact, some of the greatest advances against prejudice and such horrors as slavery have been led by committed Christians who were convinced that prejudice and oppression are wrong in the eyes of God. The Bible warns, "Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life in him" (1 John 3:15).

Jesus Christ made it clear that God's love is for all persons, regardless of their race or background. His disciples were shocked to find him talking with a Samaritan woman about God, and then forgiving her for her sins when she put her faith in Him (see John 4:1-38). God created all men life and breath and everything else" (Acts 17:25).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why will people keep on doing things that they know are hurting them or even killing them? I have a cousin who has to take oxygen sometimes for lung problems, and yet he still smokes at least two packs a day and just gets angry when someone tries to get him to stop. I would like to help him, but how can you help

Been Losing All Your Battles Lately? Lifescope Says, "Maybe There's Sin In The Camp!"

Soon after Jericho's defeat, Joshua sent some of his men to spy on the city of Ai, east of Bethel. Upon their return they told Joshua, "It's a small city and it won't take more than two or three thousand of us to destroy it; there's no point in all of us going there."

So approximately three thousand soldiers were sent — and they were soundly defeated. About thirty-six of the Israelis were killed during the attack, and many others died while being chased by the men of Ai as far as the quarries. The Israeli army was paralyzed with fear at this turn of events. Joshua and the elders of Israel tore their clothing and lay prostrate before the Ark of the Lord until evening, with dust on their heads. Joshua cried out to the Lord, "O Jehovah, why have You brought us over the Jordan River if You are going to let the Amorites kill us? Why weren't we content with what we had? Why didn't we stay on the other side? O Lord, what am I to do now that Israel has fled from her enemies! For when the Canaanites and the other nearby nations hear about it, they will surround us and attack us and wipe us out. And then what will happen to the honor of Your great name?"

But the Lord said to Joshua, "Get up off your face! Israel has sinned and disobeyed My commandment and has taken loot when I said it was not to be taken; and they have not only taken it, they have lied about it and have hidden it among their belongings. That is why the people of Israel are being defeated. That is why your men are running from their enemies — for they are cursed. I will not stay with you any longer unless you completely rid yourselves of this sin. Get up! Tell the people, 'Each of you must undergo purification rites in preparation for tomorrow, for the Lord your God of Israel says that someone has stolen from Him, and you cannot defeat your enemies until you deal with this sin. In the morning you must come by tribes, and the Lord will point out the tribe to which the guilty man belongs ... and then each member of the guilty family must come one by one. And the one who has stolen that which belongs to the Lord shall be burned with fire, along with everything he has, for he has violated the covenant of the Lord and has brought calamity upon all of Israel.'"

'Meet At City Hall' for day of prayer

Officials of 'Meet At City Hall,' a special prayer project scheduled for the National Day of Prayer, May 7, say that the event will be observed in approximately 2500

cities. 'Meet At City Hall' asks individuals to meet at their local city hall on the National Day of Prayer, May 7, from 12:20 until 12:40 p.m. and spend twenty minutes praying for a moral rebirth in America.

'We are thrilled at the response. It is apparent that there is a deep hunger for the restoration of traditional morals in our country,' said Donald E. Wildmon, chairman of the event.

In many cities Meet At City Hall will be highly organized, while in others there will be very little structure. 'We are leaving it up to the local community to make that decision,' Wildmon stated. Mayors in Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas have all made television public service announcements supporting Meet At City Hall, while many radio stations are promoting the event.

City Extension Club

Frances Zant and Irene Priebe presented a program on "Recycling and Makeovers" to the City Extension Club in the home of Carolyn Reed on April 24.

Recycling refers to a continuous cycle in which a material or product is made, used, collected, processed and used again. This concept of recycling is practiced in almost every industry.

Priebe explained that when a garment is recycled, it is reused, renovated, or repaired to make it wearable again. When the garment is taken apart and cut into a different style or pattern, it is a "makeover". The recycled garment can be made to look different or new by accessorizing with scarves, belts, collars, buttons trim, applique, embroidery or alteration of fit.

Frances Zant illustrated the concept of recycling by displaying garments which had been lengthened or renovated with new necklines. Illa Reese wore a dress which had been sleeveless but which now had long sleeves made from a matching jacket. Creativity is the deciding factor when recycling or doing makeovers of garments.

Nadine Hodnett, president, told of the program "Beef up your Life" and encouraged members to participate. Four members attended the District meeting held in Andrews. Frances Zant reported that Lajuana Thames of Ward County was elected District VI Director. The state meeting will be in Galveston on Sept. 22-24.

Four members attended the District VI Retreat at Pride Ranch.

You don't have to be perfect for church

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I would like to join a church, but all the church people I know are very good people and I don't think I would fit in. I'm not a bad person at all, but I have a lot of personal problems and am afraid they would look down on me. — Mrs. Y.W.

DEAR MRS. Y.W.: If you were to probe beneath the surface, I'm certain you would find they have many of the same problems you have — or worse. I don't know anyone who doesn't have problems, including Christians. Like everyone, Christians also have financial problems, have loved ones who are in trouble, fight emotional problems and discouragement, get sick, face old age, etc. — the list is endless.

In other words, don't feel that you have to be perfect before you can go to church! That's somewhat like thinking that you need to get well before you can go to a hospital! Jesus said, "It is not the healthy who need a doctor, but the sick. ... I have not come to call the righteous, but sinners" (Matthew 9:12-13).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am worried about a friend who is engaged to a man who is not at all responsible — runs up debts, never holds a job, is sarcastic and puts her down before other people, etc. We all have told her he is just like his father (who was lazy and unfaithful), but she says everything will be all right because he has promised to change when they get married. Do you think we have reason to be concerned for her? — Mrs. C.L.

DEAR MRS. C.L.: Yes, you certainly do. I wish your friend could read some of the letters I got almost daily from women (and men) who were convinced their future spouse would change after marriage — and have found to their sorrow that it almost never happens. If this man truly loved your friend, he would begin changing now.

What can you do to help your friend? First, pray for her. It isn't God's perfect will for her to marry someone who is selfish and irresponsible (as this man seems to be, from your description). However, at times our emotions can blind us to reality, and you should pray that your friend won't let that happen. Pray that she will seek God's will for her life and her marriage.

Then seek to reason with your friend — difficult as that may be. The Bible says, "Better is open rebuke than hidden love. ... faithful are the wounds of a friend" (Proverbs 27:5,6). Let her know that you're not trying to run her life, but you are concerned for her and care for her. In addition, listen to her. Why is she so intent on marrying this individual? Is she insecure and afraid no one else will ever marry her?

Most of all, encourage her to give her life to Christ and His will. And even if she refuses to heed your counsel now, let her know you still care for her and will always be her friend.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I don't want to offend you, but I have a friend who claims to be a Christian but he is one of the most prejudiced people I know — always making jokes or snide comments about people of other races, for example. If this is what a Christian is like, then I don't want to be one. His remarks offend me, and I don't think that kind of attitude has any place in today's world. — Mrs. E.L.

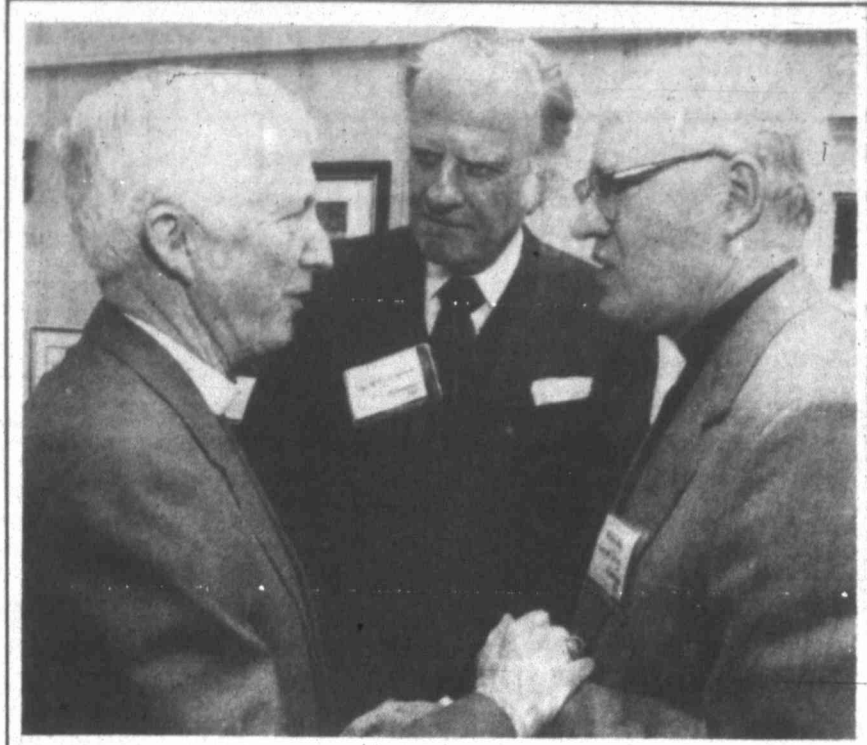

DEAR MRS. E.L.: Prejudice and bigotry are not God's will, nor should they be part of anyone who is seeking to be a faithful follower of Jesus Christ. I sincerely hope you won't turn away from Christ because of the bad example of one person who claims to be a Christian but is acting in an un-Christlike way.

After all, for every bad example there are many others who are not like this at all. In fact, some of the greatest advances against prejudice and such horrors as slavery have been led by committed Christians who were convinced that prejudice and oppression are wrong in the eyes of God. The Bible warns, "Anyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life in him" (1 John 3:15).

Jesus Christ made it clear that God's love is for all persons, regardless of their race or background. His disciples were shocked to find him talking with a Samaritan woman about God, and then forgiving her for her sins when she put her faith in Him (see John 4:1-38). God created all humans, and "he himself gives all men life and breath and everything else" (Acts 17:25).

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Why will people keep on doing things that they know are hurting them or even killing them? I have a cousin who has to take oxygen sometimes for lung problems, and yet he still smokes at least two packs a day and just gets angry when someone tries to get him to stop. I would like to help him, but how can you help someone like this? — Mrs. L.Y.

DEAR MRS. L.Y.: I wish I had an easy answer for your question, because every day people do things they cannot help but know will destroy them — and yet they keep doing them. The Psalmist wrote how "Some became fools through their rebellious ways and suffered affliction because of their iniquities" (Psalm 107:17).

Been Losing All Your Battles Lately? Lifescope Says, "Maybe There's Sin In The Camp!"

Soon after Jericho's defeat, Joshua sent some of his men to spy on the city of Ai, east of Bethel. Upon their return they told Joshua, "It's a small city and it won't take more than two or three thousand of us to destroy it; there's no point in all of us going there."
So approximately three thousand soldiers were sent — and they were soundly defeated. About thirty-six of the Israelites were killed during the attack, and many others died while being chased by the men of Ai as far as the quarries. The Israeli army was paralyzed with fear at this turn of events. Joshua and the elders of Israel tore their clothing and lay prostrate before the Ark of the Lord until evening, with dust on their heads. Joshua cried out to the Lord, "O Jehovah, why have You brought us over the Jordan River if You are going to let the Amorites kill us? Why weren't we content with what we had? Why didn't we stay on the other side? O Lord, what am I to do now that Israel has fled from her enemies! For when the Canaanites and the other nearby nations hear about it, they will surround us and attack us and wipe us out. And then what

But the Lord said to Joshua, "Get up off your face! Israel has sinned and disobeyed My commandment and has taken loot when I said it was not to be taken; and they have not only taken it, they have lied about it and have hidden it among their belongings. That is why the people of Israel are being defeated. That is why your men are running from their enemies — for they are cursed. I will not stay with you any longer unless you completely rid yourselves of this sin. Get up! Tell the people, 'Each of you must undergo purification rites in preparation for tomorrow, for the Lord your God of Israel says that someone has stolen from Him, and you cannot defeat your enemies until you deal with this sin. In the morning you must come by tribes, and the Lord will point out the tribe to which the guilty man belongs ... and then each member of the guilty family must come one by one. And the one who has stolen that which belongs to the Lord shall be burned with fire, along with everything he has, for he has violated the covenant of the Lord and has brought calamity upon all of Israel.'"

Ex-lover deserves to know she's been exposed

DEAR ABBY: I was deeply involved with a woman who is four years older than I am - I am in my late 20s. At the end of May 1990, our relationship fell apart.

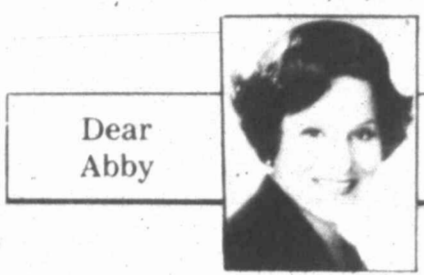

Last month, I discovered that I am HIV-positive. I have not dated since the breakup, and I have no other risk factors.

This woman has two pre-teen daughters and deserves to know, but I am not sure if I should tell her. She wants nothing to do with me, and I have no desire to shatter her life. What should I do? I have not told anyone else about it.

If you need my name and address, I am sorry. I only wish to go in peace. Thank you for your time.

- E.S. IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR E.S.: It is vital that you contact the woman immediately so that she, too, can be tested for the HIV virus. If she tests positive, it is almost certain that she will want and need to be under the care of a physician - and it is definite that she should have counseling to deal with the trauma of such a diagnosis, as well as information on how AIDS is and is not spread to others.

DEAR ABBY: I avidly read and applaud your airing of the various problems facing society. If you can solve my problem, which is also my pet peeve, I'm sure the effects could be heard around the world.

Example: I ask a 10-year-old girl how she is, and her mother answers, "She's fine."

I ask a woman where she was last Sunday, and her husband answers, "She was out of town."

I ask a patient when she is going home, and the nurse answers, "Maybe tomorrow."

Conclusion: There must be two kinds of people, those who answer, and those who get answered for.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

DEAR FOOD: A general profile of the person who answers for another person: protective, presumptuous and insensitive.

If you are the kind of person who answers for others, please hold your tongue.

If you are the kind of person who permits others to answer for you, put a little starch in your spine and speak for yourself.

DEAR ABBY: Can you stand one more limerick? If so, here goes my all-time favorite:

A wonderful bird is the pelican.
His beak holds more than his belly can.
He takes in his beak
Enough food for a week
But I'm darned if I know how the hellican.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Even you will be astonished by your numerous accomplishments. Set aside some time for recreation in midsummer. You can easily handle additional work responsibilities next October. Greater financial freedom is featured in December. Attend at least one reunion during the holidays. Going back to school in early 1993 helps you make important acquaintances. Reassess your career goals; they may have changed without your realizing it.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: Dr. Benjamin Spock, actor Theodore Bikel, baseball's Keith Moreland, crooner Bing Crosby.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may feel impelled to sweep everything before you today. This could be a losing proposition if you become reckless with your money. A new friend makes a charming overture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Once you are convinced that get-rich-quick schemes are a waste of time, you will redouble your efforts to earn money the old-fashioned way. Remain true to your high ideals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Become too argumentative or forceful today and other people will react by hitting back. Defer to those who counsel peace and harmony. Dealing with a crisis the moment it arises prevents losses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A difficult career or domestic choice lies ahead. You need more information before making a final decision. Keep an open mind about a loved one's recent behavior.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are in the right place at the right time today. Make good use of your social contacts. Handle maintenance chores yourself this afternoon. A reluctant helper will only get on your nerves.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If personal matters threaten to tie you up today, break free of them. It is time to focus on fresh horizons and distant places. Maintain your optimism even if your associates scoff.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Let experts handle a financial matter. A stubborn person will prove to be a valuable ally. Your sense of humor and openminded attitude make you a popular addition to any group.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your plans may not fall into place easily now. In fact, you could spoil them by speaking or acting prematurely. You had better have all of your facts straight. Replace criticism with encouragement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends and family members offer moral support or shrewd financial counsel. Rapid results are possible if you move quickly.

NAME YOUR PRICE AND STICK TO IT: CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your circle of friends is a source of valuable support now. Contacts at a distance may also be a blessing. A shopping trip uncovers several good bargains. Avoid running up big bills.

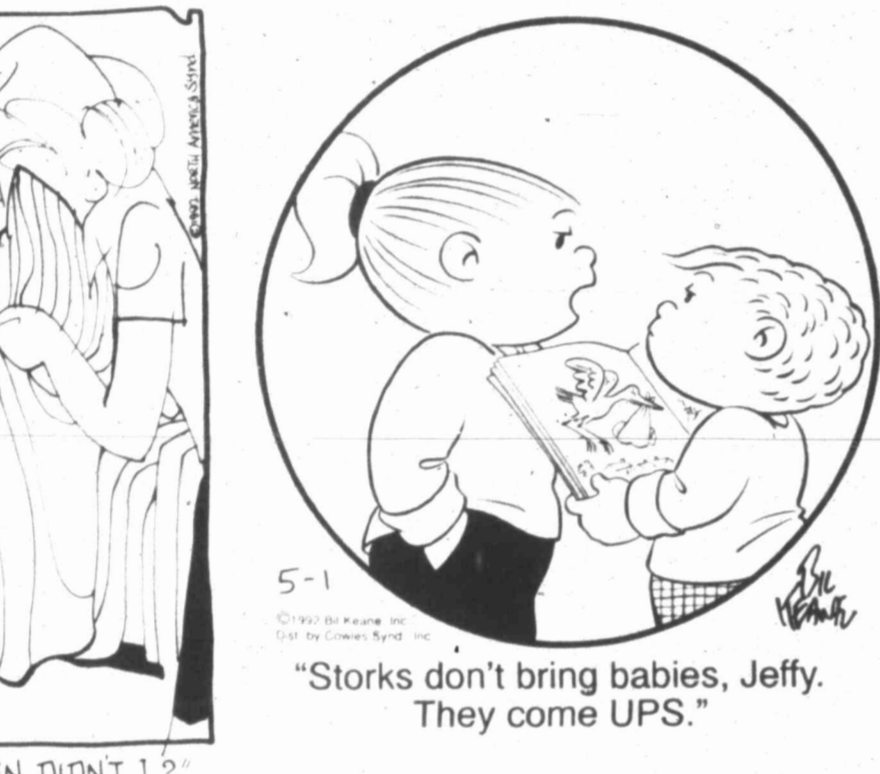

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): It is up to you to sort out a family problem. A period of quiet meditation helps you come up with a solution. A trip to the gym is a sure stress-reducer.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Athletic activity or a domestic project brings a sense of accomplishment today. Be active early in the day, then sit back and enjoy the comforts of your happy home.
