Courthouse offices have new telephone numbers

County and state offices at the Howard County Courthouse all have new telephone numbers effective Thursday.

New numbers are provided by recording over the phone by dialing old numbers. That service will be in effect until September when a new telephone directory for this area is published, said County Auditor Jackie Olson.

The change is the result of new lines installed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., Olson said. "This is just something they asked us if they could do," she said. "It is to save us money."

The number of lines in use — 56 — remained the same but the monthly service charge will drop from $1,580 to $964. A one-time installment charge of $2,951 was not required up front and will instead be spread out in monthly bills.

Following is a list of frequently called numbers:

- Sheriff, 264-2244 or 263-2242.
- Highway patrol, 264-2234.
- Tax assessor/collector, 264-2232.
- County clerk, 264-2213 or 264-2214.
- County agents, 264-2236 or 264-2237.
- District clerk, 264-2223 or 264-2224.
- Hot-check department, 264-2207.
- Welfare, 264-2219.

Memorial service set

The annual Howard County Memorial Day service will be held Sunday afternoon at Trinity Memorial Park.

The service, co-sponsored by Trinity, the Howard County All-Veterans Council and the Big Spring VA Medical Center, will begin at 2 p.m., according to Philip Welch of Trinity.

State Rep. David Counts, D-Knox City, will be the featured speaker at the event. Medical Center Director Conrad Alexander will serve as master of ceremonies and Big Spring Mayor Tim Blackshear will recite the Pledge of Allegiance. For more information, call 267-8244.

Dead man identified

Through fingerprint identification, the body found Monday at the Park Hill Terrace Apartments was positively identified as Dawson Starkey Thursday, said Big Spring Police Department Lt. Pam Jordan.

Next of kin has been notified and autopsy results are still pending, she said. Police do not expect foul play.

Starkey was found by a maintenance man Monday. Apartment manager Cathy Bryans said the maintenance man did not go into the apartment but suspected something by the odor and the flies he could see through the window.

Bryans said Starkey had lived at the apartment about a month.

Officials: 911 upgrade may cost money

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Mistakes that caused a 16-minute delay of help May 8 to a heart attack victim who died appears to be a catalyst for more cooperation among local leaders to improve the 911 system.

RELATED STORY — 7A

Improvements could require more funding, acknowledged 911 board members and other government leaders, who met Thursday to discuss issues surrounding the May 8 call. While work continues to complete address information on all phone numbers in the 911 system, citizen committees will soon be formed to look into centralized dispatching for all agencies, better staffing and training of dispatchers and getting street signs posted at county roads, said 911 chair Jane Gilmore after about an hour of discussion.

"I think we've got some positive response," she said following the meeting at the Big Spring City Council chambers. Formation of the committees will begin at the June 5 board meeting.

"It's a shame it had to come to this," said Mark Sheedy, a city councilman and grandson of the heart-attack victim. "I believe that anything positive that comes out of this is worth it."

Mistakes in the May 8 emergency call include a missing address in the 911 computer system.

A recent check of the Coahoma area uncovered about a dozen missing or wrong addresses in the computer, 911 Director Carl Dorton told board members. Checks in other areas are continuing, he said. Of about 14,500 phone lines in the county, more than 100 are so far known not to have addresses and efforts are underway to assign them addresses when possible.

Sheedy's suggestions to inform people of the necessity of making sure their phones and homes are properly addressed included soliciting people at gatherings and creating a 911 awareness week. "If it's not yourself you're putting in jeopardy, it's your loved ones," he said.

Other mistakes in the May 8 call include oversights by the 911 calltaker, who said last week that she was stressed when the call came in. At the time, she said, she was working the third 12-hour shift in three days, was handling a call from a potential suicide victim, was alone because another dispatcher was on break and the dispatch room was noisy.

The calltaker, who resigned May 11, said she did not hear the 87-year-old victim say twice that she lived in Coahoma, as Sheedy said a recording

East Ward Gang back for reunion

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The East Ward Gang is trickling back to Big Spring today from across the state and as far away as California.

The second annual reunion brings the former Big Spring residents back to town to reminisce about their collective childhood in the 1940s in an area of the city near what is now Birdwell Park.

Known as Birdwell Tank, the park at that time was a pond where the East Ward Gang swam and fished in their youth. "We always had an ear infection," joked Gerald Climer, who now lives in Oxnard, Calif.

The first reunion last year brought 22 members of the old gang and about 45 are expected to make the breakfast Saturday morning, said coordinator Norman Kautz. "This has really mushroomed."

"These are all people who ran around together in 1946 through 1947. We were all sweethearts or boyfriends, and we have spouses now and most of us have grandchildren," Kautz said at last year's reunion. "But most of us haven't seen each other in 45 years."

Rep. Stenholm forces vote on amendment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Congressman Charles Stenholm has successfully taken advantage of a little-used parliamentary procedure to ensure that the constitutional balanced budget amendment didn't die in a House committee.

Stenholm, the chief sponsor of a balanced budget amendment that has picked up steam in recent weeks, lined up enough congressional support Wednesday to force a House vote in June.

The discharge petition was necessary because Rep. Jack Brooks, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, opposes the amendment and wasn't going to let it out of committee. The Beaumont Democrat's press secretary did not return a telephone call Thursday from The Associated Press.

"A majority of my colleagues have begun to sense the urgency of gaining some control of a federal debt which is reaching frightening proportions," Stenholm said at a

Rural health law slowed

DALLAS (AP) — Governmental red tape is delaying implementation of a six-month-old law designed to help ease doctor shortages affecting millions of Americans.

The law would make it easier for foreign medical graduates to practice in the United States by granting them an easier-to-obtain six-year work visa instead of a "green card" that allows foreigners to work in the country.

But the federal Health Resources and Services Administration must first decide what foreign medical tests it will accept.

No decision is imminent, putting some doctors and hospitals in a legal limbo and leaving rural residents with inadequate medical care.

"We don't have a specific timetable on when a decision is going to be made," said Patricia Campbell, a spokeswoman for the agency, a part of the Department of Health and Human Services.

The agency will make a recommendation to HHS Secretary Dr. Louis Sullivan, whose ruling will become law.

Dr. Fitzhugh Mullan, director of the Bureau of Health Professions at HHS, is helping formulate the recommendation.

He did not return repeated phone calls by The Associated Press.

Insiders say the agency is delaying a decision because powerful American medical lobbies are pressuring it to limit foreign doctors' entry into the United States.

Officials at HHS deny the allegations, and the country's two largest medical groups, the American Medical Association and American Hospital Association say they have not taken a position on the law.

In the meantime, hospitals, doctors and patients wait.

"There are communities that literally have no surgeons, no obstetricians, no pediatricians who relied on the new law and signed contracts with doctors who have now had the door slammed in their face at the border," says Jan Pederson, chairwoman of a rural health lobbying group in Washington, D.C. "It doesn't make sense."

Thirty-three million Americans live in rural areas that are experiencing shortages of medical professionals, Rep. Pat Roberts, R-Kan., said Wednesday at a news conference in Washington, D.C.

Poverty level increased in 1980s

By ANA RADELAT
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The Census Bureau has just confirmed what most Texans already know: The Lone Star State was hard hit economically during the 1980s.

Statistics released today from the 1990 census show that in 1989 almost one out of five Texans, or 18.1 percent of the state's residents, lived in poverty.

In 1979, the last time a nationwide census was taken, only 14.77 percent of the state's population were considered poor by the U.S. government.

People in households earning less than $12,674 per year live under the poverty level, according to the federal government.

Average household income in Texas also slipped during the 1980s. After an adjustment for inflation, that income fell from $28,003 in 1979 to $27,016 in 1989.

Despite the slump in income, owning a house in Texas became a lot more expensive. The average monthly mortgage amount shot up 28.8 percent, from $553 in 1980 to $711 in 1990. Renters, however, had a better break — the average rent check increased by only $5, from $390 in 1980 to $395 in 1990.

Other good news from the Census Bureau is that the number of young Texans holding high school diplomas is up.

In 1980, 17.2 percent of teenagers from 16 to 19 years were high school dropouts. In 1990, that figure had declined to 12.9 percent.

Seventy-one percent of the state's residents were born in Texas, said the 1990 census, up slightly from the 1980 figure of 67.8 percent.

Texas man put to death for hiring wife's hitman

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Texas death row inmate Robert Black, acting cheerful and joking with friends and reporters, was executed early today for hiring a hitman through an ad in Soldier of Fortune magazine to kill his wife.

Black, 45, became the second condemned Texas man to receive lethal injection this week. Early Wednesday, Jesus Romero, 27, was executed for the rape-slaying of a 15-year-old Rio Grande Valley girl. Black's death brought to 50 the number of executions in Texas since the state resumed capital punishment in 1982. Eight of those have occurred this year. The totals by far are the highest in the nation.

As reporters, three family members and his attorney entered the death chamber, Black was jovial and greeted those he knew by name.

"I look stretched out like a cooked goose," he said from the death chamber gurney. "Then he began reciting the poem 'High Flight,' which includes verses that glorify a pilot's thoughts of freedom as he soars through the air."

"I have slipped the surly bonds of earth," he said as the lethal drugs began. When he reached the line, "And done a hundred things you have not thought of," he gasped about four times and stopped breathing.

He was declared dead at 12:20 a.m. CDT, five minutes after the drugs began flowing into his arms.

The execution came after the U.S. Supreme Court rejected by a 6-3 vote appeals from Black's attorneys that the former Marine captain should be spared from death because of post-traumatic stress syndrome brought on by his combat service in Vietnam. The issue of psychological problems never surfaced in his trial.

Black was convicted of hiring hitman John Wayne Hearn to kill his wife, Sandra, at their Bryan home Feb. 21, 1985. Hearn, in a classified ad he ran in the magazine that billed itself as the "Journal for Professional Adventurers," offered himself for "high-risk assignments."

Hearn pleaded guilty to fatally shooting Mrs. Black twice in the head and testified against Black in exchange for a life prison term.

In prison interviews, Black never denied trying to arrange the murder-for-hire deal, saying he had discussed the scheme with several people.

"I never really knew at any time if anyone would accept that proposition," he said. "I had no idea it was going to come off."

Evidence showed Black paid Hearn $10,000 for the killing so he could collect on $175,000 in recently purchased life insurance. Evidence also showed Black planned to marry his cousin.

Black said that since he was sent to prison, he was given medication that controlled his depression.

"If it wasn't for the medication, I'd probably be more ready to die," he said in an interview late last year. "I'm a happy person. I'm enjoying life right now."

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House spokesman Larry Speakes, recovering from a heart attack, should return to work in a few weeks, a spokesman said.

Speakes, 52, vice president of communications for a company that makes telecommunications equipment, was stricken May 13 during a seminar for public relations executives in Laguna Niguel, Calif., said John Callahan, spokesman for Northern Telecom. He's hospitalized in California, and is expected to return home to Virginia in a few days, Callahan said Thursday.

Speakes served under President Reagan from 1981 to 1987. He joined Toronto-based Northern Telecom a year ago. The company has corporate offices in McLean, Va., a Washington suburb.

PARIS (AP) — Jazz great Lionel Hampton canceled the remainder of his concerts this week after falling ill during a performance, a theater announced.

The 83-year-old vibraphonist and band leader succumbed Wednesday to a "serious malaise," the Theatre Bobino said Thursday. No details of his illness were released.

He was placed under observation at a hospital, the theater said.

Doctors ordered him to rest, and his concerts scheduled through Saturday were canceled, the theater said.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Tennis legend Bjorn Borg will divorce his wife of three years, his lawyer said.

Loredana Berte, an Italian pop star who married Borg in 1989, filed a complaint with police Wednesday in Milan, Italy, that Borg has failed to support her.

Bjorn and Loredana talked to each other about this in April and agreed to separate. Borg's lawyer, Henning Sjostrom, told Swedish radio.

"It seems like Bjorn took the initiative, but her lawyer does not dispute the fact that both have agreed to divorce. We hope to reach an agreement. The next step is to discuss the terms."

Borg, 36, has won the Wimbledon tournament five times. He is attempting a comeback, but has had little success.

BOSTON (AP) — Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist Wallace Stegner turned down a National Medal for the Arts to protest what he called the Bush administration's political pressuring of artists.

The 84-year-old Stegner, who has written about the Old West for 60 years, told the National Endowment for the Arts he was "troubled by the political controls placed upon the agency." The Boston Globe reported Thursday.

"I feel that I must protest them, for some artists would feel lobotomized by them and the precedent of censorship is demoralizing," Stegner said in a letter mailed Monday to the endowment, which administers the medal. President Bush was to have given the medal to Stegner in July.

The agency's chairman, John Frohnmayer, resigned in February under pressure from the White House. Two weeks ago, Tony award-winning composer and lyricist Stephen Sondheim also turned down the NEA medal.

Officer retreats from bobcat encounter

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Discretion became the better part of valor for a San Antonio police officer who came face to face with a bobcat in a small apartment kitchen.

Patrolman Eliseo Noriega encountered the wildcat on Thursday after answering a call about a vicious animal in an apartment.

Noriega found the 35-pound bobcat on top of a refrigerator and promptly ran out of the apartment to call for help from a wildlife specialist.

"I was the first one out the door, and I'm not ashamed to admit that," the officer said. "The cat chased me out in a big hurry."

Add-ons to bill may be trap

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big-city mayors say a $2 billion emergency urban aid bill working its way through Congress is a good first step, but Republican critics warn it may be a political trap for President Bush.

"We're creating a political ambush for the president," Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., said Thursday as the Senate added $1.45 billion in summer programs to the city aid bill and returned it to the House. "There's no question he's put in an awkward position."

If the House goes along with Senate changes, Congress would be presenting Bush with the option of extending his emergency budget declaration to provide the $1.45 billion to cities across the country.

Bush can block all or part of the money by withholding the emergency declaration. Should he do that, said Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., "then he's going to be bashed for not spending these funds every time there's a little incident this summer."

If Bush joins Congress in an emergency declaration, the money would become available by increasing the federal debt.

The Senate voted 61-36 to approve the bill and send it back to the House, and a conference committee will meet next week to resolve differences.

The bill tops by nearly $500 million the accounts of the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the Small Business Administration — the two agencies providing aid to rebuild Los Angeles neighborhoods.

Together with previous appropriations, the legislation would authorize up to $822 million in direct loans and grants through the agencies. An unspecified portion of the aid would be used for Chicago's flood damage.

The Senate added $1.45 billion for summer programs in cities nationwide: $700 million for summer jobs and training; $250 million for a Head Start summer program; $250 million for a summer school program targeting disadvantaged youngsters; and $250 million for the administration's "Wired and Seeded" program of law enforcement and health and social services in areas with high crime and poverty.

Boston Mayor Ray Flynn called the bill "a small down payment" on what was needed.

He and other Democratic mayors spoke optimistically after a meeting with House leaders, their second since the Los Angeles rioting. They said they hoped the bill would be followed by other, more substantial and long-term urban programs.

"We are moving now in the right direction," said Baltimore Mayor Kurt Schmoke.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., called the added amount "highly justified" and said he hoped Bush would go along.

Most of the money would be distributed according to existing program formulas. But the Senate accepted an amendment targeting $100 million of the jobs money to the 75 largest cities, and saying another $100 million would go to the states for distribution.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said other formula adjustments would be made in conference.

The added amount was sponsored jointly by Kennedy and Republican Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah.

"It isn't often that I stand up here and say we ought to spend more money in certain areas," Hatch said. "If I had my way, we'd spend more than the $1.45 billion."

"We are not giving rewards to the rioters," Kennedy said. "We are basically rescuing our cities."

Separately, Congress approved a pair of measures Thursday that illustrated its reluctance to make deep defense cuts in response to the end of the Cold War.

Japanese rush to get AIDS tests

TOKYO (AP) — Newly released figures show scared young Japanese are rushing in for AIDS tests after a wave of publicity about the deadly disease following basketball star Magic Johnson's announcement that he has the virus.

The Tokyo Metropolitan Government said Thursday that 2,839 people took AIDS tests at medical institutions in Tokyo in April — compared with 5,535 in all of 1991.

"Many people are beginning to realize that it is not someone else's disease," said Makoto Yasukawa, spokesman for the metropolitan government's AIDS Prevention Division.

Aside from Johnson's announcement last November, recent television talk shows and telephone hotlines have contributed to AIDS awareness among young Japanese, he said.

Galleries exhibit AIDS posters and rock groups distribute condoms at concerts.

Of those tested in Tokyo in April, nine were identified as carriers of the AIDS virus, Yasukawa said. Seven were in their 20s, he added.

He said four acquired the virus through heterosexual contacts, two through homosexual contacts, and the remaining three by unknown means.

The nationally circulated newspaper Mainichi reported that in efforts to maintain secrecy, many people come from out of town to take AIDS tests in Tokyo.

The association report said many people lack a basic understanding of AIDS. Many also were afraid of taking tests and learning the truth, but indifferent toward taking preventive measures to avoid spreading the disease, it added.

Smoking kills more than once thought

LONDON (AP) — Researchers say their new survey indicates smoking will kill far more people than previously thought.

Eventually 20 percent of the industrialized world's current population will die of smoking-related disease, the researchers estimate in the study, published in the May 23 issue of The Lancet, a British medical journal.

"It had been thought about a quarter of smokers died from smoking-related deaths. Now we know at least a third of smokers, and maybe closer to a half of smokers, die from it," said Professor Richard Peto, the leading investigator at the Imperial Cancer Research Center at Oxford University.

The study "describes an epidemic of astounding magnitude," said Dr. Curtis Mettlin, chief of epidemiologic research at the Roswell Park Cancer Institute in New York.

"The risks of cigarette smoking had been grossly underestimated," said Dr. Alan Lopez, an investigator and chief epidemiologist at the World Health Organization.

The new findings forecast smoking-related deaths into the 1990s and extend previous analyses to include all developed countries, Lopez said at a press conference in London Thursday.

The investigators predicted that smoking will kill 21 million people this decade in the United States and Canada, all countries in Europe, Japan, Australia and New Zealand.

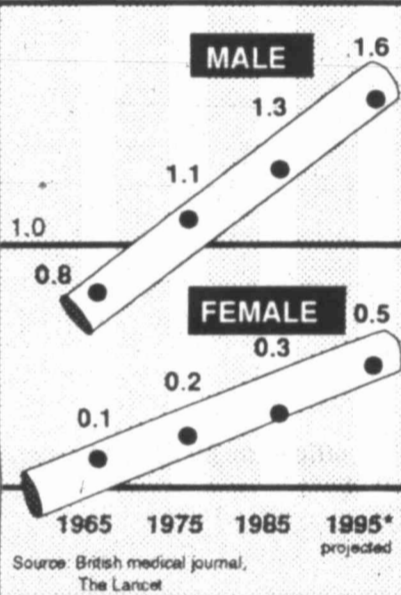

Investigators did not gather statistics on smoking habits in each of the 30 countries, which would have provided the most accurate data.

Instead, the study is based on the American Cancer Society's CPS-II survey of 1 million Americans. That study indicated the relationship between various causes of death and smoking, and this was compared to known death rates in the other countries.

Health ministers of the 12 European Community nations will meet in November to discuss a proposed ban on tobacco advertising.

From A to Z on G to X

Your reporter recently went to see the movie "Basic Instincts," to find out exactly what all the fuss is about.

As you may or may not know, the gay community is upset at "Basic Instincts" because of the way it allegedly portrays homosexuals. Gay pickets even have been spotted at certain theaters featuring the movie.

Hollywood has been portraying Southern white guys like myself as hayseeds, goofballs and bungling Bubbas for years, but I've never thought of picketing a movie theater because of that. I guess I was always too busy rotating the tires on my pickup or eating mud.

At any rate here is what I can report on the way "Basic Instincts" portrays homosexuals:

There really is just one featured homosexual, a rather nice looking woman named Roxy. Except for the fact that she cuts her family's throats and tries to run down Michael Douglas in a car in the midst of a jealous rage, I thought she was portrayed as just another cocaine addict choosing an alternative lifestyle.

In one scene she goes into the men's room in a nightclub and sits down on her female lover's lap and gets a quick snort of coke from a man who just happened to be in the stall with them.

But the movie is set in California, which, I suppose, explains all that.

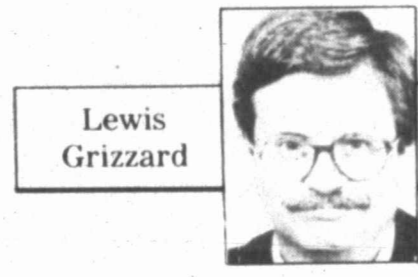

How homosexuals were portrayed was not, however, what I noticed the most about "Basic Instincts." I left the movie more concerned about the fact that we need to do something about the current movie-rating system.

There is "G," for instance, for movies that you can take your 5-year-old and your grandmother to, and nobody in "G" movies will say any bad words or get completely naked.

Then, there's "PG13," which means if you take your 13-year-old, he or she will be able to explain to you what was going on in the scene where three people were under the covers in bed with a duck.

Movies rated "R" means the covers are off and you can see for yourself. In X-rated movies you get to see everybody's quacker. "Basic Instincts" is rated "R," but it's really more than "R." The movie shows more skin than in a leather furniture store showroom.

I kept missing my mouth with my popcorn because I was afraid if I took my eyes off the screen, I'd miss three lust scenes.

Lewis Grizzard

There was frontal nudity and backal nudity. The entire movie was about one millimeter lower for the camera from being a downright "X."

The language was typical for an "R." It would have embarrassed a roof-full of carpenters. What stood out, however, was that nobody in the entire cast seemed able to speak one sentence without uttering at least one industrial strength profanity.

"Basic Instincts," I firmly believe, is more than your everyday "R." It's not quite "X," however, because you don't actually get to see the key moving parts.

I think "Basic Instincts" should have been rated "D" for "Damn, did I just see what I thought I saw?"

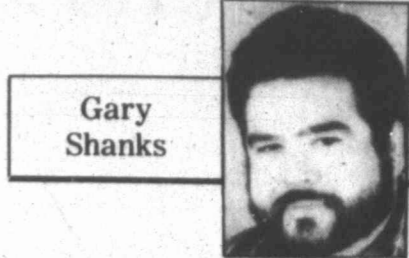

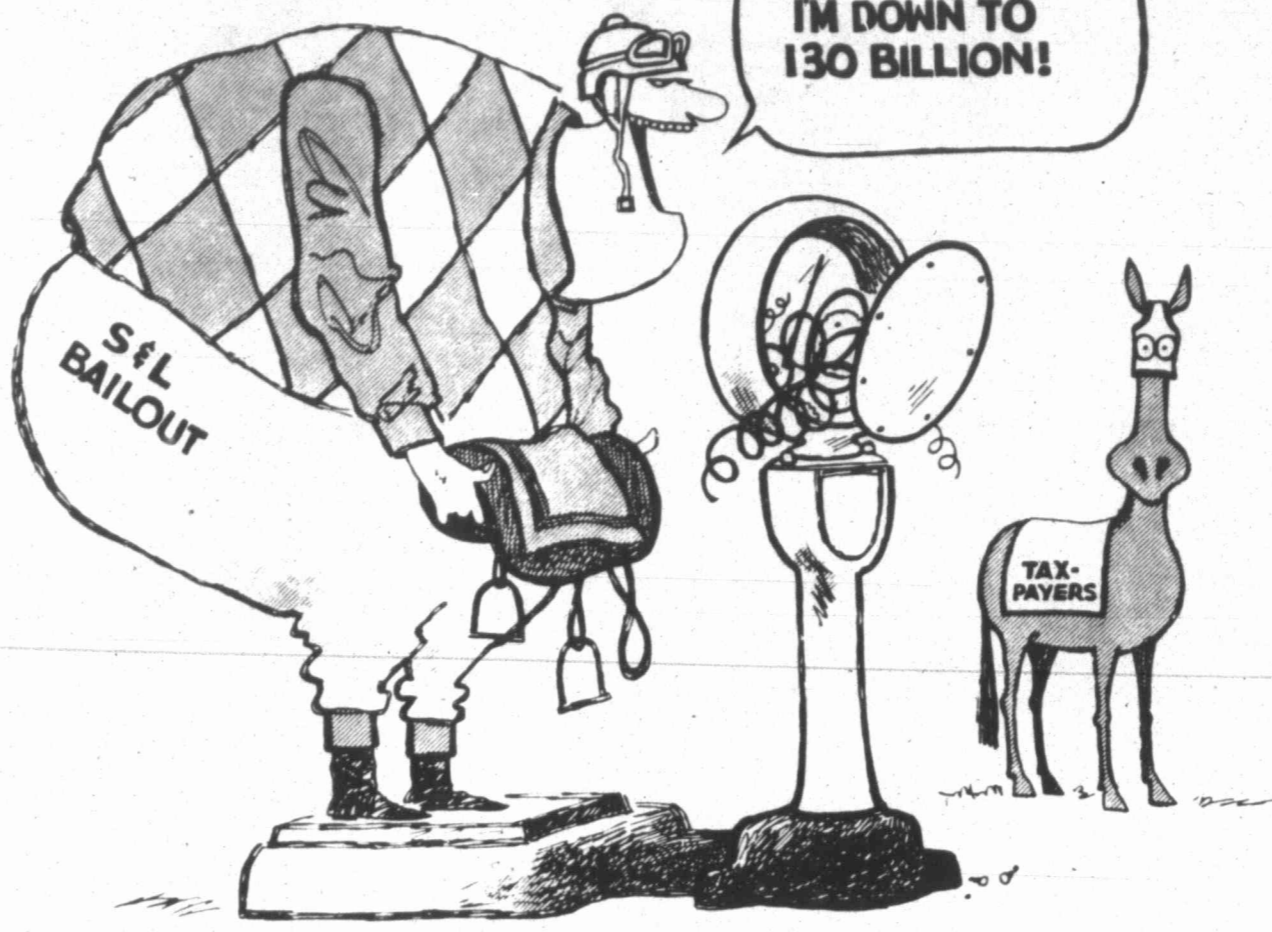

If a movie is not quite explicit enough to be an "X," it should be rated "D" and also should fall into the category of movies you don't discuss with a female employee unless you want to risk the chance of a sexual harassment suit.

I should mention that there is a murder plot in "Basic Instincts," which further distinguishes it from an "X."

The trouble is I was too busy trying to figure out just who was doing what to whom to remember who done it.

Manlyman visits the evil dentist

Once again it's time to scratch our backs against tree bark while marveling at the awesome divinity of the "Y" chromosome.

Gary is out of the office again, so manlymen gather around as we discuss the intricacies of appropriate behavior at the dentist's office.

Just as manlymen will (and should) moan and complain during a bout of the flu, we are also allowed — nay, required! — to whine and complain and even become violent when faced with the emasculating prospect of being strapped in a chair with our mouths propped open.

Ordinarily, manlymen are required to deal with pain, and, in fact, occasionally to inflict it upon one another.

Dental pain, however, is different and is probably a direct consequence of the underminings of that original girlygirl, Eve. God has punished us with teeth that rot out of our heads unless frequently hideous, machismo-robbing pain is inflicted in and around them.

And these archangels of pain, who always follow their names with "d.d.s.," feel perfectly justified in robbing us of our manlymanhood in the name of the war against tooth decay.

Gary maintains that dentists try their best to limit the amount of dental pain a patient suffers. He says they get a bad rap because there is no way to painlessly work on teeth.

Well if he wants to just sit there and take it like some hapless barnyard animal being branded, he's welcome to do so.

Although there is no excuse for whimpering with normal pain, like a good broken bone, those suffering dental procedures, i.e. having needles jabbed into their jawbones while pneumatic drills dance in their mouths, are allowed to scream like little girlygirls!

Taking cues from that manlyman and comedian, Jeff Altman, we must take charge in the dentist's office. It is the loss of control that is most damaging to one's manlymanhood.

Like Big Jeff says:

- When the dentist leaves the room to take an X-ray or something — hide.
- When they remove that sucking thing from your mouth — continue making the same stupid noise.
- When the dentist leans down near your mouth — kiss him full on the lips.

About that third one though, I sometimes think Jeff goes a little too far with his joking around. While the effect on the dentist would probably be profound — as a manlyman, I could never condone that.

Remember, manlymen may only shake hands or punch one another in the shoulder as means of friendly contact. Only if each participant is of a 250-pound body weight and engaged in a violent contact sports such as hockey or football, can they slap each other on the behind. (But I still can't condone it.)

I'd like to add another few possibilities to Big Jeff's list:

- When it feels like you've got a rubber hose, two tire irons and a pipe wrench hanging out of your mouth, and the dentist asks you a question (like they always do) — wrench his hand out of your mouth, take out all the hardware and cotton, clear your throat and calmly answer his question.
- Occasionally and for no particular reason — spit violently.
- When they have you hold that plastic thing in your mouth for the X-ray — wiggle it back and forth to blur the picture.
- When the dentist has a needle in your gums and has the unmitigated gall to ask if it hurts — jam a sewing needle up under his kneecap.

Remember, as the last bastion in the war against androgyny, we are required to be stoic, brave and loud.

When we're sick or in the dentist's office, however, all we need be is loud.

Well, until next month, let's keep those testosterone levels up and those feelings tucked tightly away.

The writer's art On taking a little quiz

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Your humble scribe, meaning me, traveled to the University of North Carolina a couple of weeks ago. I was there to talk to journalism students about the writing art, but I wound up by taking a quiz. That's how I became a humble scribe.

Every student in the Journalism School must take the quiz. A score of 60 is required to get into the school's basic course in news writing. A score of 70 is required to get out. About a dozen seniors will not get their degrees this month because they fell below the 70 mark.

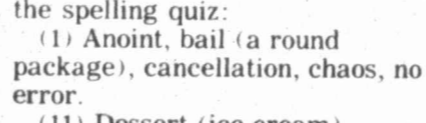

The multiple-choice test is divided into two sections. The first 50 questions deal with spelling. Another 50 have to do with syntax, punctuation and copy editing.

For the record: I scored 49 on spelling, 48 on editing. It is embarrassing — it is humbling, as I say — to confess that I flopped on spelling question No. 3. There I was given a choice of (1) pre-judices, (2) readily, (3) athletics, (4) subpoena and (5) no error.

You would not think I could misspell "prejudices," since I have so many of them, but the longer I looked at that word the more convinced I became that it was wrongly spelled and should be spelled "predjudices" instead. The right answer was "no error."

Dean Richard Cole says the error is common, but his commiseration fell short of absolution. These things happen. I remember once staring at the word "bacon" The longer I stared, the more it seemed to be misspelled. It was a paralyzing moment. I could not figure how to correct it.

These were other questions on

the spelling quiz:

- (1) Anoint, bail (a round package), cancellation, chaos, no error.
- (2) Dessert (ice cream), hindrance, cite (quote), visible, no error.
- (3) Change, changeable, useful, Baptist, no error.
- (4) Mediocre, scissors, biscuit, salary, no error.
- (5) Immigrate, incurred, justifiable, exaggerate, no error.

All of you readers will recognize instantly that the misspellings are "bale" in Question 1, "hindrance" in Question 11, "Baptist" in Question 13, "salary" in Question 22 and "exaggerate" in Question 35. You did catch all of these, didn't you? Of course.

I flubbed two questions on the editing half of the test. These are hard to reproduce, because the five choices appear on the test as underlined parts of a sentence. Let me put the number immediately after the part in which an error may appear. I missed this one:

(7) "The director should (1) restrict himself (2) to fantasy", (3) the critic said. (4) No error (5).

The correct answer was (3). My eye went right over the error in punctuation. It should have been "fantasy," (comma, close quotes) instead of "fantasy," (close quotes, comma). The closed style of punctuation is almost universally employed these days. I know that. I just didn't pay attention. Then I flubbed Question 9. It went this way:

(9) "The University of Toronto is more (1) modern in architecture; (2) at UNC-CH there are several (3) architectural styles," she said. (4) No error (5).

After looking at the sentence for a minute, I hazarded a guess that the error lay in the semicolon in the middle of a direct quotation. I don't believe I ever saw a semicolon so employed. The correct answer was "no error." It was a lousy sentence and should have been recast.

Is it mean and nasty to withhold a degree from a senior who can't score 70 on the quiz? Some of the UNC students think so. Their complaint is that every reporter these days writes on a word processor. Every word processor contains a built-in spell checker. If a reporter writes "predjudices," the sedulous computer will come instantly to his rescue.

I suppose this is true, but I would support Dean Cole and the faculty in the matter. The questions not only are tests of spelling and editing. They also are tests of a writer's discipline, of his attention to detail.

Looking closely at an uncertain sentence, a writer must cultivate the uneasy suspicion that something is wrong, a sense that it just doesn't look right.

Then the careful writer will check out the meaning or the spelling of a word, and the error — if there is one — will be caught before it gets into print. Dean Cole wants to graduate careful writers. More power to him.

Bulldogs to test Mavericks

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

When the Coahoma Bulldogs face the Eastland Mavericks in Class AA bi-district baseball action Saturday, the Bulldogs will be facing a team that has sound pitching and hitting.

The 10-7 Bulldogs are District 5-2A runnerup, while the 17-4 Mavericks are District 6-2A champions. Game time is 2 p.m. at Hardin-Simmons' Hunter Field in Abilene.

The Mavericks weren't picked to win their district. DeLeon, which once was ranked No. 5 in the state, was picked to win 6-2A but finished third in the district behind San Saba. Eastland's only district loss was to DeLeon the last game of the season. In that contest Eastland coach Dick Anthony said he played his reserves because they had already won district. Eastland also lost non-district games to Millsap, Clyde and Albany.

The Bulldogs go in as runnerup via losing a two-of-three series against Wall. Wall and Coahoma are the only two teams in the district.

Eastland shows its balance with a team batting average of .400 and two starting pitchers with earned run averages under 2.50. "We've been working hard on our hitting," said Anthony. "We're making about three errors a game, though. We try to pull ourselves out of it with our hitting."

The Mavericks' leading hitter is freshman left fielder Dylan Bowles, who's hitting .478. Another freshman, designated hitter Jason Davis, is hitting .468. Junior pitcher-shortstop Jeff Morren is hitting .458 and junior shortstop-pitcher Lance Curry is batting .448.

Senior catcher Steve Jones is batting .426 and leads the team with five homers. Senior third baseman Bradley Turner is hitting .400.

The Mavericks' pitching staff is paced by starters Morren and Curry. Morren has a 9-1 record and 2.35 ERA. Curry is 6-1 with a 2.28 ERA. Anthony comes out of the bullpen with sophomores Allen Garry (2-1, 3.50) and Grady Goode (0-1, 2.80). Allen pitched a no-hitter this season against the Mineral Wells junior varsity.

The Bulldogs also boast a strong hitting team, averaging .324. Senior third baseman Brent Elmore leads the team with a .485 batting average. Elmore also leads the team in runs scored and runs batted in.

Catcher Bryan Sledge is batting .462 and leads the team with four homers. First baseman Dave Park is batting .370.

The Bulldogs pitching staff is led by senior Dutch Barr, who fields a 3-3 record. Senior Mark Arguello and freshman Brandon McGuire are the other two pitchers coach Doc Rowell uses. Rogers has thrown two five-inning no-hitters against junior varsity teams this season.

Anthony has tabbed Morren as his starter for Saturday's game while Rowell will go with Barr.

"We've heard Coahoma is a good ball team," said Anthony. "Their only problem against Wall was they made too many errors and we can relate to that. They hit the ball well."

Rowell is impressed with the Mavericks. "I think they've got good pitching and they make contact with the ball," said Rowell. "The pitcher (Morren) is a real good pitcher. He throws hard, he's got a hook (curve) and he's strong. In a doubleheader against San Saba he pitched four-and-a-half innings, they run-ruled them. In the second game he pitched five-and-a-half innings and he didn't walk a batter."

Anthony feels this game will belong to the hitters. "I think there is going to be some runs scored," he said. "It could be one of those football scores."

Cavaliers blast cold champions

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls missed their first 13 shots of the game Thursday night, and suddenly the Cleveland Cavaliers' luck changed.

Mark Price scored 21 of his 23 points in the first half when Cleveland took advantage of Chicago's miserable shooting, then went on to even the best-of-7 series 1-1 with a 107-81 victory.

The Cavaliers, criticized for being too soft in losing the opener 103-89, weren't demonstrably more physical in Game 2, but they were light years more potent offensively, especially in the first half when Cleveland led by as many as 27 points.

"If you're cream puffs or marshmallows, you don't win 57 games in the regular season," said Cavaliers coach Lenny Wilkens, who denied that he or the team was upset by those characterizations in the media. "We wanted to play with more intensity and be more active. We were unhappy with our performance in the first game."

In the first two periods, the defending NBA champion Bulls were 12 of 43 from the field, 27.9 percent, and the Cavaliers 21 of 33 for 63.6 percent.

"The first half was the best half we played all year," Price said. "I never saw an exhibition of basketball like this in my life," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said.

Referring to the booring by the highly vocal Chicago Stadium crowd, Jackson said, "I did a little yelling, but I didn't join in the booring."

Michael Jordan missed 12 of his first 14 shots and finished with 20 points on 7-for-22 shooting, his first time under 30 points in 12 playoff games against Cleveland.

Wilkens compared Cleveland's state of mind before the game to Jordan's probable state of mind for the rest of the series.

"When Michael has a bad game, he feels he's going to come back and have a good game," Wilkens said. "When you're in the conference finals, you have that kind of confidence."

The Bulls were unable to put together any kind of threat in the second half, getting no closer than 22 points. Brad Daugherty scored 28 points for the Cavaliers, who won for just the fifth time in 26 road playoff games in franchise history.

"We just took control at our end of the court," Daugherty said. "We weren't concerned about what they would do."

Scottie Pippen, a hero in Game 1 with 29 points, 12 rebounds and nine assists, scored 11 points on 4-of-14 shooting for the Bulls, who must travel to Richfield Coliseum for the next two games on Saturday and Monday.

"It was embarrassing," Pippen said. "We dumped all over ourselves. We put ourselves in that position and now we have to go there to get it back."

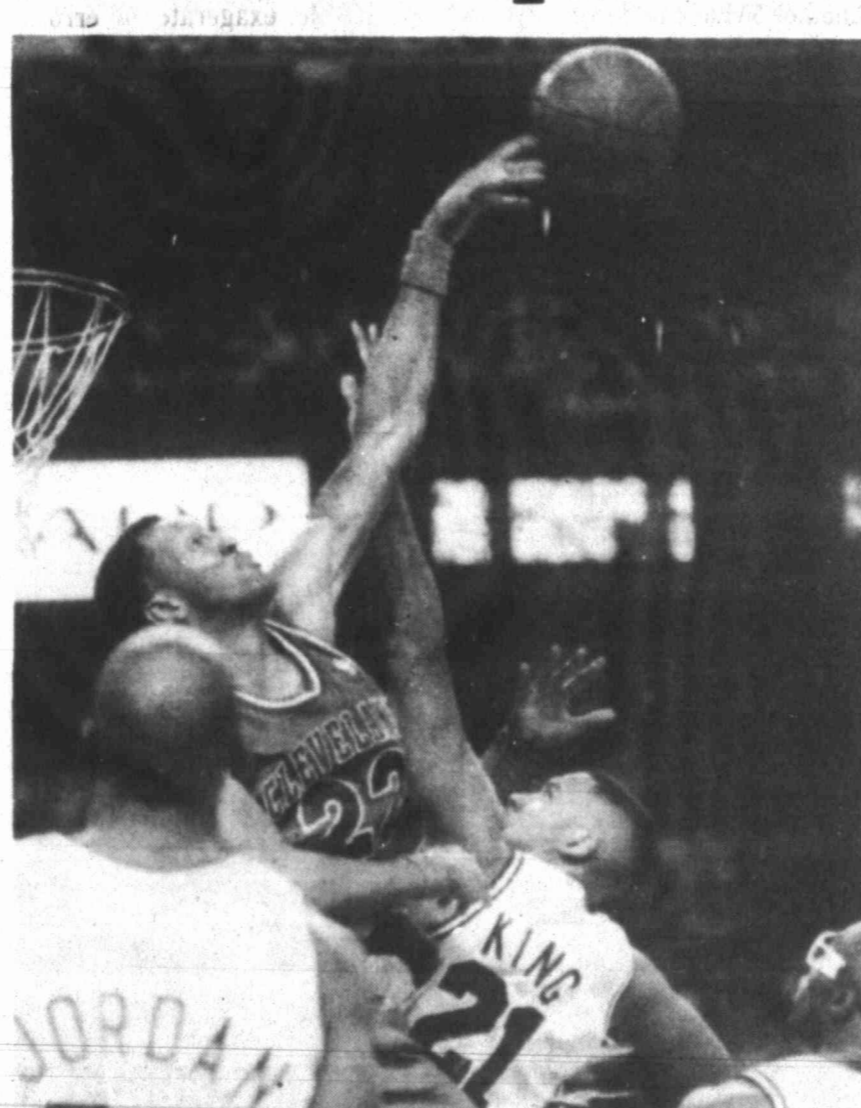

Jordan was unavailable to the media after the game because of a sore throat, but the Bulls issued a statement in which he said, "Cleveland played some outstanding basketball. They came to play and we're going to be ready to play at the Coliseum. We have confidence in ourselves and we'll be ready for them. We've had confidence all year long, and there's no doubt in our minds that we will regroup."

Cleveland led 20-4 before Chicago made its first field goal, a jumper by Pippen with 3:46 left in the first quarter.

A 3-pointer by John Paxson made it 22-9 before a jumper by Larry Nance and a jumper and dunk by John Williams gave the Cavaliers a 28-9 advantage with 1:36 left. The period ended with Cleveland ahead 30-14 after the Bulls missed 18 of 21 shots.

"It was a combination of lackluster effort on our part and stellar effort on their part," Jackson said.

Chicago's fortunes didn't improve at the start of the second quarter as it missed two more shots and turned the ball over three times during a 10-0 Cleveland run featuring two 3-pointers and two free throws by Price. At that stage, the Cavaliers led 40-14 and Price, who hit four 3-pointers in the first half, had as many points as the Bulls.

Cleveland Cavaliers' Larry Nance (22) rejects a shot from Chicago Bulls' Stacey King (21) as Michael Jordan (23) and Horace Grant look on in Thursday night NBA action in Chicago.

Nelson named Coach of Year

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Don Nelson, whose over-achieving Golden State Warriors won 55 games during the regular season, was named the NBA Coach of the Year for an unprecedented third time. After leading the Warriors to their best record in 16 years, Nelson received 26 of a possible 96 votes from a panel of sports broadcasters and writers. Pat Riley of the New York Knicks was second with 21 votes, followed by Phil Jackson of the Chicago Bulls with 17.

Nelson also won the award with in 1983 and 1985 with the Milwaukee Bucks.

Texas assistant gets indicted

AUSTIN (AP) — Jamie Ciampaglio, who recently resigned as a Texas basketball assistant, was indicted on felony charges of tampering with governmental records and will have a hearing today.

A conviction carries a penalty of two to 10 years in prison or up to a year in county jail and $10,000 in fines. A grand jury indicted Ciampaglio on a charge he intentionally made and falsified an expense report with the intent to defraud.

Ranger relievers blow lead

ARLINGTON (AP) — Three times is no longer a charm. For Nolan Ryan, it's a curse.

Ryan left his relievers a lead once again Thursday night, and for the third straight time, his bullpen blew it.

Mike Macfarlane hit a three-run homer off Jeff Russell in the ninth as the Royals ruined Ryan's bid for his first victory of the season with a 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

In the only other game played in the American League Thursday night, Milwaukee defeated Detroit 7-3.

Ryan gave up just one hit and left the game with a 5-1 lead after seven innings. He had retired the final 18 batters.

Ryan, who has never gone this deep into a season without winning a game, is stuck on career victory No. 314. His last victory was Sept. 25 against Seattle.

"It's a heck of a shame that Nolan's still stuck on that number," Russell said. "Somebody's got a hex on him. We've got to work extra hard to get him the win."

Ryan said he didn't second-guess manager Bobby Valentine for pulling him after he had thrown 111 pitches.

"I feel like I've been throwing well," he said. "But things just didn't work out. Under the circumstances, he did the right thing."

Valentine didn't have any excuses for his bullpen.

"You just don't know what to expect from some of the guys," he said.

American League

Ryan's bullpen also blew leads in each of his previous two starts, both against Milwaukee.

Lance McCullers started the eighth for Texas, and most of the 23,363 started for the gates, their man done for the night.

McCullers walked one batter and Kenny Rogers came on. He gave up a single to Curtis Wilkerson and a three-run homer to Terry Shumpert, his first, making it 5-4, before retiring the next three hitters.

"I was glad to see Ryan go," Shumpert said. "I guess he had his good stuff, and although we were starting to hit him hard, I don't think we could have gotten five runs off him."

With one out in the ninth, Kevin McReynolds reached on a fielding error by shortstop Dickie Thon. Jim Eisenreich doubled and Russell replaced Rogers. Russell gave up Macfarlane's home run to left field on a 0-2 pitch.

Rogers (0-2) gave up four runs, three earned, in 1-1-3 innings.

Rusty Meacham (2-0) pitched one inning of hitless relief for the victory, and Jeff Montgomery worked a scoreless ninth inning for his eighth save.

Ryan walked two and struck out eight in his longest outing of his 26th major league season. The only hit he gave up was Gregg Jefferies' bloop double in the first that fell in, thanks to a rain-soaked outfield.

The game began after a 1-hour, 20-minute rain delay. Ryan, who has 12 one-hitters in addition to his record seven no-hitters, struck out the game's first two batters before Jefferies blooped a ball about three feet inside the line that left fielder Kevin Reimer couldn't reach because of the soaked grass.

Reimer raced about 150 feet and slid toward the chalk line, but he missed the ball by a couple of feet.

The Royals went up 1-0 in the second without getting a hit. Wilkerson's soft fly to right drove home Eisenreich, who walked, stole second and advanced on a groundout. That was the final batter to reach base off Ryan.

The Rangers responded in the bottom of the inning with their biggest outburst since April 11 — five runs on five hits — all off Tom Gordon, including a two-run homer by Reimer. Gordon didn't return for the third inning.

Despite the Rangers' shaky bullpen, Royals manager Hal McRae said he didn't think a comeback was possible.

"How many times can you feel good when your starter throws two innings, you're down by four runs and the one hit you've got in seven innings is a bloop double?" he asked.

Brewers 7, Tigers 3

In Detroit, Milwaukee used four homers, including a three-run shot by Scott Fletcher, to beat the Tigers. Paul Molitor homered twice and Kevin Seitzer once for the Brewers.

Giants complete sweep of Pirates

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Things have been great for the San Francisco Giants, pitiful for the Pittsburgh Pirates lately. Their three-game series proved it.

The Giants scored the only run on Bob Walk's wild pitch with two outs in the seventh inning and held on for a 1-0 victory Thursday for a sweep of the series.

"We caught a couple of breaks today," manager Roger Craig said after the Giants won for the eighth time in 10 games to tie the Pirates for the best record (23-16) in the National League.

The Pirates, losing their sixth in a row, were swept by the Giants for the first time since July 25-28, 1985, and escaped Candlestick Park after mustering merely 12 hits and three runs in the series.

"To be honest, I'm not that discouraged," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "We got three good starts from our pitchers, but we're just not hitting."

Andy Van Slyke is the exception. His singles in the first and fourth innings were the only hits off John Burkett (4-1) and Mike Jackson, who combined to retire the last 16 batters.

The only other NL game saw New York take San Diego 8-3.

The percentages finally caught up with Walk (1-3), who hadn't lost at Candlestick since July 21, 1987, and to anyone on the road in 24 games since June 8, 1990, at New York.

Kevin Bass, who snapped an 0-for-19 slump with a second-inning triple, led off the winning rally with a seventh-inning double and went to third on rookie catcher Jim McNamara's bunt single.

National League

After rookie Royce Clayton lined into a double play, Mike Felder batted for Burkett and Walk bounced a 1-2 pitch past catcher Mike LaValliere, scoring Bass.

"I got a little greedy and tried to strike him out," said Walk, who yielded four hits in seven innings. "I bounced a curve in front of Spanky (LaValliere)."

Burkett, who had received 48 runs of support in his previous eight starts, faced 22 batters, one over the minimum, in seven innings while posting his fourth straight victory. He struck out four and walked none.

"The guys were scoring a ton of runs for me and I was putting wins on the board in other games, but I was making mistakes," said Burkett, who has 14 scoreless innings in his last two starts.

"The last two starts, I stopped making mistakes. I've definitely hit my stride."

Craig concurred after the Giants improved their division lead to two games.

"That's probably the finest game Burkett has ever pitched," the manager said. "His command was unbelievable. He put on a clinic. He was right on the corners all day long."

The Giants got an added boost when veteran second baseman Robby Thompson was activated from the disabled list following the game. Utilityman Craig Colbert was optioned to Phoenix.

Mets 8, Padres 3

At San Diego, Bobby Bonilla and Eddie Murray homered to lead a 14-hit attack that backed Sid Fernandez, who struck out 10 in seven innings.

Murray had four hits, including a three-run homer. Bonilla, who had two homers on Opening Day and then none until Tuesday and again Thursday, doubled his total and drove in seven runs in the four-game series.

Fernandez moved to second in the National League with 62 strikeouts, behind only teammate David Cone, who has 69.

Benito Santiago, Gary Sheffield and Darrin Jackson hit solo homers for San Diego.

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A indicates. After rescuers went to a Big Spring address and requested a double-check, the calltaker noticed that the phone number in the computer had a Coahoma prefix. Rescuers in Coahoma then responded and arrived in two minutes.

"We're shorthanded for the amount of work that we do," Big Spring Chief of Police Joe Cook said of a stressful work environment that the eight full-time and one part-time dispatchers face.

Cook also said that the $7.50-an-hour wage after a year on the job will not attract 911 calltakers, who double as police dispatchers, with training in basic emergency care, much less training as paramedics.

When 911 board member C. Roy Wright said that dispatcher pay is comparable to pay given to paramedics here, Cook answered, "I've got one dispatcher position open, send them my way." Sgt. Lee Everett told Cook that one paramedic had already applied for the job.

Wright said he would also like to see dispatchers trained in areas of county geography and the law.

In addition, Wright and others said they would like to see central dispatching to save time on calls.

Officials said a cheap solution is for 911 to operate out of one law enforcement agency, as it does now, but dispatch emergency calls for all agencies instead of transferring calls. That idea would require Cook and Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard to work out the logistics.

"I will endorse that totally," Standard assured 911 board members Thursday. Asked what radio channel dispatchers should use to reach deputies, he said, "Whichever is the most efficient."

An expensive solution, officials said, is a dispatch station separate from the police or sheriff offices. That would cost about another $200,000 annually to fund 10 911 dispatchers, estimates Assistant City Manager Tom Decell. That is nearly twice the current 911 budget and, using city property valuations, would require a tax rate increase of more than 6 cents, Decell said.

Funding also is being sought to install street signs in the county. Each sign plate costs more than $20, which is $40 per corner, not including the pole, cement and labor.

"We're talking a lot of money," Gilmore said. "I would guess that one-half of the streets in the county do not have street signs."

Sheedy told 911 board members of a Sunday incident in the Fairview Community in which churchgoers saw an ambulance racing up and down an unmarked county road looking for a 63-year-old heart-attack victim. They were on the wrong road despite having the correct address. The victim, who was pronounced dead at a hospital, lived two miles from the church, a witness said.

"I can't say that we can make this happen because of the expenses involved," Wright said of his wish list.

Stenholm

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1A in obtaining the petition. It took him eight hours and 37 minutes to line up the necessary signatures from 217 House members to bring his measure to the floor.

The last time a discharge petition was obtained in less than a day was in 1938, when a labor bill was discharged in 2 1/2 hours, according to the Congressional Research Service.

The most recent instance in which a discharge petition was necessary came in 1990, when Brooks also declined to let a balanced budget amendment out of committee.

The earliest the House can vote on Stenholm's amendment is the week of June 8. The Senate also is expected to take up a similar measure in June.

Amendment backers are confident it will pass this year after narrow defeats in the House in 1990 and in the Senate in 1986.

Stenholm's amendment would require that presidents submit balanced budgets to Congress and that Congress approve balanced budgets. Spending could not exceed estimated revenues unless three-fifths of the members of the House and Senate vote to do so.

If approved by Congress, the amendment would have to be ratified by 38 states before it could take effect. Backers say 1997 would be the earliest the amendment could be implemented.

Address information had been entered

PATRICK DRISCOLL Staff Writer

Missing address information, blamed in part for a 16-minute delay of help May 8 to a heart-attack victim who died, was entered into the 911 computer Dec. 5, 1989, officials said.

It is not known why the information was missing from the computer during 911 calls on Jan. 16 and May 8 from the Coahoma home of heart-attack victim Aurelia Sheedy, 87. But officials are searching records and say they are confident they will find out how it happened.

It is also not known how long the information has been missing, although 911 Director Carl Dorton said it should have been entered into the system after it was found missing in January. A 911 calltaker reportedly said she filled out paperwork in January to get the address in but Dorton said the paperwork was never received.

"Something happened," said 911 board Chairwoman Jane Gilmore after announcing the discovery of the 1989 entry to those at a board meeting Thursday. The board meeting was called to discuss issues surrounding the May 8 call.

Officials with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. discovered the 1989 entry and are searching records in Dallas to determine why the information is now missing from the system.

"Typically we only remove things from the computer when we're told to," said Pat Estes, Southwestern Bell area manager for 911, who is based in Lubbock. "It would have to come through Carl Dorton or somebody like that."

"Now it could have been that we took it out by mistake. At this point we don't know," Estes said.

He said Southwestern Bell employees will probably discover how it happened. "We keep very good records."

The 911 calltaker, who resigned May 11, said she would have realized immediately that Sheedy lived in Coahoma if the address was in the computer.

Because the address was missing, she said she concentrated on getting information from Sheedy and did not notice that the phone number had a Coahoma prefix. After rescuers went to a Big Spring address and requested a double-check, the calltaker then noticed the prefix. Rescuers in Coahoma then responded and arrived at Sheedy's home in two minutes.

The calltaker also said she was stressed when the call came in and did not hear Sheedy say twice that she lived in Coahoma, as a recording indicates. At the time, the calltaker said, she was working the third 12-hour shift in three days, was handling a call from a potential suicide victim, was alone because another dispatcher was on break and the dispatch room was noisy.

The gang, who took their name from the East Ward Elementary, which was located at the intersection of Sixth and Benton, will meet for breakfast at the Day's Inn at 9:30 a.m.

Although most of the day is set aside for relaxing and reminiscing, the East Ward Gang will be touring the Heritage Museum later in the day and will be the guests of Johnnie and Bobby Hooper for an evening barbecue, Kautz said.

The Hoopers are some of the very few members of the old gang still residing in Big Spring.

Last year the group toured their old high school, what is now Runnels Junior High School. Most made a visit to the spring out at Comanche Trail Park and Scenic Mountain State Park. The gang reminisced about events ranging from finding a baby in a tree to passing out newspapers announcing the entrance of the U.S. into World War II.

Big Spring topography that now exists only in the minds of those who grew up during that time includes a hill overlooking the East Ward School and a canyon running through town to the Birdwell Tank.

The hill was known as Sugar Top, a favorite necking spot for the young people. The now filled-in canyon was known by some as Cannibal Draw.

Vacations only for

YALTA, Ukraine (AP) — Communism was good to chambermaid Galina Khromtsova. She had a small salary and small apartment, but every year she put down her broom, threw off her apron, and had a big vacation on the Black Sea.

No more. Now prices are so high that a three-week vacation would cost her almost a year's salary.

"This life isn't made for holidays anymore," she said sadly.

Under Communist rule, trade unions and enterprises issued Khromtsova and other workers special vouchers entitling them to hefty discounts at resorts and sanatoriums throughout the country. Similar vouchers provided access to hard-to-get train and plane tickets.

But most of these organizations lost their government backing following the collapse of the Soviet Union last year. Previously subsidized transportation costs have more than quadrupled. And the rising cost of food and clothing has forced many people to spend savings on necessities.

Also, many once-popular vacation spots have become off-limits because of civil unrest, rising crime and polluted beaches.

And some people are staying away from other popular resort areas, such as in the newly independent Baltic states, saying they don't want to feel like foreigners in what used to be their country.

"Before perestroika we always went on holiday to Foros or Sochi (Black Sea resorts), but now we can't go anywhere," complained Khromtsova, whose vacations used to be paid by her Communist-run trade union.

The Crimean peninsula, with its rocky Black Sea beaches, government-subsidized coastal resorts and fancy sanatoriums for high-ranking Communist Party officials, was a favorite Soviet vacation spot for decades.

But the powerful political elite no longer stroll the boardwalks. The tourist season has begun, but few sun worshipers are on the beaches and the cafes are almost deserted. The clientele also has changed. Most of the tourists who come to the Black Sea now are rich.

Anatoly Fetisov, director of the Rossiya Sanatorium, an elegant coastal resort in downtown Yalta, said he expects fewer guests this year because the Rossiya now is

Massive election fraud reported

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Fidel Ramos held his lead for the presidency today, but an official of the agency counting the ballots said massive fraud was discovered in three areas where the former defense secretary is ahead.

The disclosure threatens to discredit the entire election and precipitate a political crisis that could undermine the nation's democracy, particularly since President Corason Aquino took office in a 1986 uprising triggered by electoral fraud. There are fears that if no candidate is proclaimed president, the military may step in to maintain public order.

Jarius Bondoc, a Quick Count official, wrote today's editions of The Manila Times that vote-padding had been discovered in the provinces of Pampanga, Tarlac and Misamis Oriental, where Ramos is leading.

Bondoc said about 1,000 votes had been padded to totals from each of three towns in central Luzon and credited to a candidate he did not name.

If such practices were widespread, Bondoc wrote, "that presidential candidate could garner hundreds of thousands of spurious votes."

On Thursday, Raul Locsin, vice chairman of Quick Count, sent a letter to election commission chairman Christian Monsod saying he suspected some vote padding may have occurred.

Deaths

Robert Harrison

Dr. Robert Louis Harrison, 45, a Big Spring High School graduate, died recently.

He was an Associate Professor of Pathology, University of Texas Medical Branch.

Graveside services are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Saturday, at Cathedral in the Pines Cemetery, in Tyler under the direction of J. Levy & Bro. Funeral Directors, Galveston.

Chalmer Wren

Chalmer Wren, 75, Stanton, died Thursday, May 21, 1992, in Midland Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be 2 p.m., Sunday, at First Baptist Church in Stanton with the Rev. Tim Swihart, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

He was born March 30, 1917, in Stanton. He was a lifetime resident and a farmer. He married Marguerite Shippey on Sept. 19, 1937, in Monahans. He was a member of the First Baptist Church in Stanton. He served in the army during World War II and was a member of the V.F.W. and the Trail Boss of West Texas Trail Riders.

Survivors include his wife Marguerite Wren, Stanton; three sons: Chalmer Wren Jr., Denver, Colo.; Bobby Lewis Wren, Houston, and Glen Allen Wren, Tokyo; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Anna Locklar

Anna Locklar, 80, Big Spring, died Friday, May 22, 1992, in a local hospital.

Graveside services will be 4:30 p.m., Saturday, at Resthaven Memorial Park, Midland, with Dr. Robert Lacey, pastor, Hillcrest Baptist Church, officiating. Arrangements are by Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

She was born Nov. 5, 1911, in Childress. She married Ellis Locklar. He preceded her in death in Jan. 1983. She came to Big Spring as a child, grew up and attended school here. She moved to Odessa in 1935, returning to Big Spring in 1980. She worked in the children's department in several department stores in Odessa and then worked at Berryhill's Department Store until retiring. She was a member of Hillcrest Baptist Church and the Joy Sunday School Class. She had also been active in her church in Odessa and was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include one daughter, Peggy "Mrs. Weldon" Wood, Big Spring; two sisters: Ila Davis and Jean Jennings, both of Big Spring; two granddaughters; two great-grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, P.O. Box 3190, Big Spring, 79720-3190.

'Gene' Martin

Orville G. "Gene" Martin, 59, died Thursday, May 21, 1992, at Brownwood Regional Hospital after a sudden illness.

Graveside services will be 3 p.m., Saturday, at Trinity Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home.

He was born Jan. 2, 1933, in Erath County. He was a transport driver of P.F. & E. Oil Co. in Brownwood. He was a veteran of the United States Army. He had lived in Bangs for the past eight years. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Tarzan.

Survivors include his wife Louise Martin, Bangs; two sons: Dick Martin and Zachary Creel, both of Houston; three daughters: Donna Brammer, Houston, Natalie Martin, Bangs, and Rebecca Creech, San Antonio; his mother, Lillie Martin, Big Spring, and one sister, Mary Helen Boren, Big Spring; and four grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his father, C.C. Martin, and one brother, Harold Martin.

The body will lie in state at Nalley-Pickle & Welch Funeral Home from Saturday morning until service time.

Unwanted attention changes Amish world

BELLEVILLE, Pa. (AP) — In two hours, an arsonist destroyed six barns, damaged a seventh barn and a schoolhouse, killed 172 livestock — and shattered an Amish community's way of life, perhaps forever.

Within four weeks of the March 15 fires, Belleville's Amish had rebuilt the barns, thanks in part to $600,000 in donations from Amish and non-Amish alike, all across the country. Area school children collected money to buy draft horses and other livestock for their neighbors.

The arsonist's flames brought the world to a people who had managed to live in isolation since their ancestors settled here in 1791.

But no amount of charity can restore the community's privacy. The arsonist's flames brought the world to a people who had managed to live in isolation since their ancestors settled here in 1791.

"It called attention to their presence. Many more people will know about them, their location, their life," said John Hostetler, born an Amish here and now a professor emeritus of anthropology at Temple University.

"This is now another spot in Pennsylvania where the Amish are known to live. It will probably be more publicized for people to come into the area," Hostetler said.

And where the Amish have been publicized before, tourism and development have followed.

"We don't want wall-to-wall tourists like Lancaster County," said Gene Glick, who runs the Belleville Livestock Auction each Wednesday. "This is a fresh breeze compared to that."

In Lancaster County, Amish caricatures scream from billboards, enticing visitors to amusement parks, museums and Pennsylvania Dutch tourist traps. Around Belleville, in central Pennsylvania's Mifflin County, a single horse-and-buggy sign on U.S. 322 gives the only hint that Amish are nearby.

A few of the local Amish trade with the "English," selling quilts or furniture to the occasional visitor. As a sect, they are content to live their lives separate from the rest of the world.

But this community's ability to live apart disappeared during the as-yet-unsolved arson spree on March 15. Damage was estimated at $1 million, as everything from seed to plows went up in smoke.

Cash donations and shipments of livestock poured in as word of the disaster spread. Finally, spectators arrived to watch barns rebuilt in a day.

"They understand and appreciate the people who come to help them," Hostetler said. "A certain amount of spectators can be expected and they understand that when they're barn raising."

Some visitors have stepped past the line, even for the event-tempered Amish.

The Amish are reluctant to have their photos taken, citing the Bible's prohibition against graven images. By barn raising No. 4 in early April, they had had enough.

Photographers — amateur and otherwise — cavorted inside uncompleted barns, endangering themselves and others. Tourists also would drive up in cars, get out and walk around farms without asking permission.

Finally, signs went up asking people to stay out of seeded fields and the barn-raising area.

"They appreciate being left alone," Hostetler said.

Amish immigrants settled in Berks County, Pa., around 1737, Hostetler said, and spread to other areas of the state in the 1790s. Those who moved to Lancaster and Chester counties have had to deal

This picture taken in Belleville, Pa. in March shows Amish men raising a new barn after several Amish barns were set afire by arson in the area. The extremely private community is more concerned now about the attention the fires focused on it than the damage to buildings and livestock.

with the increased development between Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

"What happens in the long run is that people discover these places and say, 'Let's move here.' That's a change of tremendous magnitude," Hostetler said.

"Around Lancaster, it changed from tourists coming in and staying a day to people coming in and staying," Hostetler said.

Even before the fires, the local tourism office provided information on where to find Mifflin County's Amish, but the bulk of visitors flocked to Glick's livestock sale for a firsthand look at the Amish.

Glick's father was among those who started intermittent livestock auctions for area farmers in the late 1930s. In 1946, the sales went weekly in an auction barn on Belleville's south side. He has a big enough crowd each week that he doesn't need to advertise.

"The crowd does tend to hurt our auction business," Glick said.

"Some with cattle don't want to come in because it takes too long to get in and out." They prefer to go to less congested auctions on Tuesday.

"We were a tourist area already at the auction," Glick said. "What the fires can do is really cause us a congestive problem. There really is only so much parking at my place."

"Some people say we should have more of that," Glick said. "It's money, but some of us like country."

Call system disrupts 'old boy network'

NEW YORK (AP) — About a third of Presbyterian seminary students are women, but the ideal pastor in the minds of many congregations remains a white male between the ages of 35 to 50 with a wife and two kids.

In developing a new system for matching ministers and congregations, the Call System Task Force of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) is recommending breaking into the "old boy's network" of picking clergy and lay professionals to make sure women and minorities are given greater consideration.

The proposed system to be presented to the church's General Assembly at its June meeting would standardize practices for calling clergy and lay professionals to reduce informal networking and require churches to consider a woman, minority clergyman or older or disabled pastors among their five finalists.

"When it gets down to the local level, people are not as likely to consider people from those groups as they are white males between the ages of 35 to 50," said the Rev. Susan Andrews, chairwoman of the Call System Task Force. "This at least opens up the system."

The theology of matching pastors and other church professionals with jobs in the Presbyterian Church and other Christian churches starts with the individual receiving an internal call from God.

In the sixth chapter of Isaiah, the prophet tells of hearing "the voice of the Lord saying, 'Whom shall I

Snyder plans Spring Bazaar

The Joint Women's Group of Grace Lutheran and St. John's Episcopal Churches of Snyder will be having its fourth annual Spring Bazaar this year on June 6 from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church, 5500 College Avenue (WTC road, south of the hospital), in Snyder. The women's, men's and youth groups will each participate in the activities. The men's group will feature barbecue sandwiches, grilled sausage, potato salad and baked goods. The youth group will be selling beverages. The women's group will feature a rummage sale, craft room and drawings.

Craft items include wooden heart wreaths, long-spinning tops, lawn decorations and soft sculpture. A drawing will include a full-size quilt, lap quilt and $50 Savings Bond.

Tickets for the drawing are available from members of the congregation or at the bazaar. The drawing will take place at 5:00 p.m. and winners do not need to be present.

All the proceeds will be used by the churches for various activities. Come have a day of fun and food. The Joint Women's Group meets every Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church for crafting, fellowship and Bible Study. All women are invited to attend.

If you do not have a church home, you are invited to attend services at Grace Lutheran at 8:30 a.m. or St. John's Episcopal at 10:45 a.m.

send, and who will go for us? And I said, "Here am I, send me!"

But how individuals and churches find each other is not always a matter of discerning the divine will, according to many church leaders.

Congregations hiring clergy have unreasonable expectations that the new minister will increase membership, bring in young families and do everything the last pastor didn't, and conclude only a young, white male can do the job, said Peggy Shriver, a Presbyterian laywoman who works in the professional church leadership office of the National Council of Churches.

"It's the prejudice of what people are for, rather than what they are against," Shriver said. "People are looking for a miracle worker."

The Presbyterian task force found in its report on the present system:

—Larger, wealthier churches have a greater attraction in a system where salaries are not standardized. For example, the report said, only 12 percent of ministers and candidates say they expressly seek a church with less than 200 members, even though two-thirds of the denomination's churches are that size.

—The stereotype persists, the report said, "that a minister is supposed to be young male, married, this in a denomination which has seen a 500 percent increase in clergywomen in the last 12 years and where over one-third of the membership is over 65 years of age."

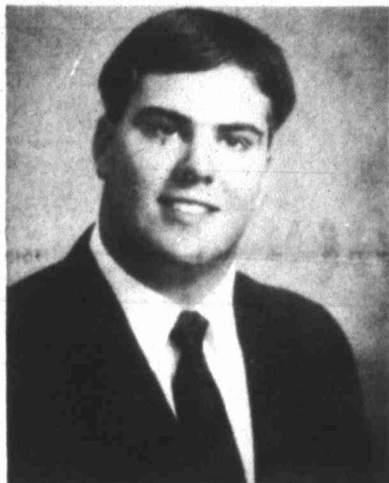

Even in congregations primarily serving older members, Andrews said, "It's the dream that it's only going to be the young man with a wife and two kids that is going to bring in the young families."

—Informal networks often carry more weight than gifts and qualifications for leadership, and prejudicial attitudes cause some congregations to reject persons because of their race, gender, age or disability, the report also found.

The proposed call system they are urging the denomination to test for two years would be standardized.

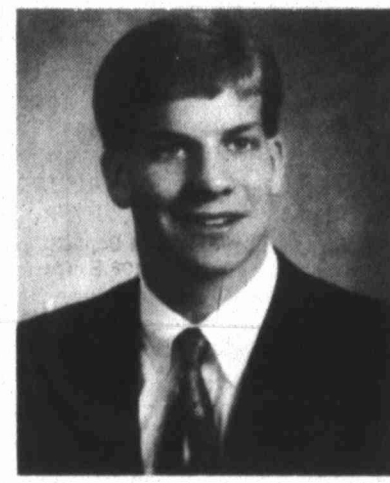

Instead of the candidate just sending out a resume and the church filling out a church information form, candidates would do a leadership gifts profile that focuses on the gifts of the individual minister and churches would provide a leadership needs profile that focuses on the needs of the congregation.

"It is truly intended to be a call system, calls in the sense that one's leadership gifts and skills need to be matched with what's out there," said the Rev. Kurtis Hess, director of field education placement at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va.

Salutatorian

Eric Seidenberger, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Seidenberger, will represent the senior class of 1992 from Garden City High School as salutatorian. He is a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Honors Club, Who's Who and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He is presently serving as vice president of the student council, senior class and the county 4-H Council. He is also the president of the Catholic Youth Organization. He was voted Mr. GCHS and Best All Around by the high school. He has lettered in football, track, and basketball for 4 years and has been a captain of the Bearkat Football Team for 2 years. He was selected the 1st Team All State Defensive Football Team the past 2 years. He is planning to attend Angelo State University and play football and study Physical Therapy.

Valedictorian

James Wesley Glass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Glass, is the 1992 valedictorian of Garden City High School. He is the president of the senior class and student council. Wesley is a member of the National Honor Society, the National Beta Club and Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He is active in church and 4-H. In 1990, he was on the 4-H National Livestock Judging Champion team, and has served offices on both the county and district 4-H councils. He is involved in this year's district-winning UIL One Act Play, and is a 4 year letterman in Varsity Football. He has also lettered 3 years in Basketball and 2 years in track. Wesley plans to attend Texas Tech University this fall.

Big Spring Art Association

The May meeting of the Big Spring Art Association was held May 19 at the new West Texas Center for the Arts. New officers were Jerry Williams, president pro-tem, Kay Smith, the new vice president, Elnora Hart, secretary; Quin Martin, treasurer; and Carol Swafford, reporter.

Our newest member, Bonita Lyght, was welcomed and plans were discussed for the fall 1992 Membership Art Show. Also discussed was the publication of the 1992-93 Association Handbook. Members are currently seeking advertisers for the new issue, due out in September.

Guest speaker Carla Harrold presented a program on photographing art work, and lighting and displaying techniques to achieve the most professional results.

Carla began her career studying journalism at San Angelo State and pursued photography as a sideline. In 1976, a friend requested that Carla photograph her wedding.

Carla is now in partnership with Ray Walker in the Photo Magic lab and Zina Wood is her partner in the Photo Magic Studio. They are currently photographing the American and National Little League teams.

The next art association meeting will be June 16 at 7 p.m. Visitors are welcome.

Howard County Lioness Club

Howard County Lionesses met May 18 at Wesley Methodist Memorial Hall. Marguerite Thompson, president asked Madeline Boodle to give the invocation and lead the pledge of allegiance.

Donna Jackson of Howard County Library was introduced by Lloyd Ola Bearden as guest speaker. Ms. Jackson presented a program on her visit to Botswana, Africa where her daughter, Stacy Jackson, is a teacher with the Peace Corps.

Lioness Thompson presided for the business meeting. It was voted to send $100 for District 2-A1 Governor Paul Palmer's special project of a clinic in Ciudad Acuna, Mexico. The Health Clinic Building will be used by Optimist in conjunction with the Lion's International project of Sight First. Also to send $50 to volunteer Services at Big Spring State Hospital for magazine subscription for the younger patients.

Kay Clark, secretary, read a "thank you" from the West Texas Lighthouse for the Blind in San Angelo for our contribution to them. Other correspondence was from Toastmaster about their seminar, Saturday, May 30.

Reports on flower deliveries for Faye's Flowers for Mother's Day, on the state convention, in Amarillo held May 14-16 was given. Jan Noyes reported the queen pageant was the most professional one she had seen and she was glad she wasn't a judge. She reported the leader dog program is going great.

Leta Kirby, treasurer, gave her report and also presented the nominating committee's slate of officers for next year. Several office still need to be filled but major officers names are need for reports. The names submitted were approved by acclamation.

Jan Noyes, president; Rose Von Hassell, second vice president; Kay Clark, secretary; and Leta Kirby, treasurer.

Refreshments were served to eight members by Jan Noyes and Rose von Hassell.

Local artists to show in Kerrville

Guy and Debbie Burrow, Big Spring artists, won acceptance to exhibit at the Texas State Arts and Crafts Fair, May 22-23-24, in Kerrville.

The 1992 event celebrates "500 Years After Columbus: Arts Home from the Sea" across the fairgrounds on Schreiner College campus, and will be followed on May 30-31 by the new Fringe Festival.

These artists were selected in open competition held each year for Texas artists and craftspeople. The Burrows will exhibit their distinctive and creative punched tin night lights which are carefully handcrafted.

Over two hundred carefully selected artists and craftspeople will be present, all from Texas. All work shown must be original, and the artist must be present. The Fringe Festival is a more relaxed event and restrictions are not as stringent.

Special family rates give free admission for the second and third child in each family. All tickets for the Fringe weekend are reduced. There is plenty of free parking and a free shuttle bus for both weekends. Visitors receive free programs.

Proceeds from both festivals support the projects of the Texas Arts and Crafts Educational Foundation in Kerrville, and a catalogue of programs is available.

Eastern star gives 50 year certificate

From left to right Candy Andrews, Deputy Grand Matron, Edna Goodman and Patty Barton.

Candy Andrews, Deputy Grand Matron, District 2 Section 8 of the Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star on Behalf of Jane Gregory, Worthy Grand Matron and Glenn Whitaker, Worthy Grand Patron of the Grand Chapter of Texas, Order of the Eastern Star presented Edna Goodman with a 50 year certificate denoting her membership in Crane Chapter No. 512, Order of the Eastern Star.

Her daughter Patty Barton, a member of Prairieton Chapter No. 163, OES in Prairieton, Ind., witnessed the presentation and presented her mother with a 50-year membership pin from Crane Chapter and a small 50-year membership card. Mrs. Goodman's health made it impossible for her to travel to Crane for the presentation.

1953 Hyperion Club

The 1953 Hyperion Club had lunch on the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Griffin in true West Texas style. Eighteen members gathered in the College Park Shopping Center to drive out to the ranch together.

Generally the retiring president entertains the members in her home with a luncheon but the Griffins hired a real chuckwagon cook to set up camp where the atmosphere was truly authentic.

Joining the ladies for lunch was Griffin (son of the T.L. Griffins) and his wife Diane with their four children. Lane and his three little boys arrived on the scene riding their horses single file. Laura Lee, their little daughter came with her mother in her little apron ready to help in spreading the quilts on the ground to sit on. The ladies feasted their eyes on everything from beautiful wild flowers to six line buffaloes, an Indian teepee and two fully equipped chuck wagons; this made dinner on the ground just perfect.

After lunch, the ladies returned to the Griffin ranch home for a tour of the home and a short business meeting. The original ranch home was erected in 1918 but many lovely additions have been added. The home has many beautiful antiques in every room.

The club gave Mrs. Griffin a crystal potpourri bowl in appreciation for an outstanding job as president this past year.

Couple steps on friends' toes by making plans

DEAR ABBY: I desperately need your help — or else a 40-year friendship will go down the drain. Our closest friends introduced us to another couple. This new couple invited us to their country club for dinner, along with our best friends. We enjoyed a most pleasant evening, so to reciprocate we, in turn, invited this new couple out to dinner — without including or advising our best friends. Well, that's when the you-know-what hit the fan!

Our "old" friends called to inform us that we had failed to obey basic ethical and social standards by not letting them know of our plans, and failing to invite them to join us. ("They are our" friends, not yours, was the

Dear Abby

We couldn't believe their attitude. Were we supposed to call them and ask permission? Must we include them in all such engagements with "new" couples we are introduced to by them? Is my wife required to call her "old" friend when she invites this "new" friend to join her for lunch or a shopping tour?

Please let me know your thoughts, Abby. It will go a long way to save our friendship and guide us in future arrangements. — BEWILDERED

DEAR BEWILDERED: You would have been gracious and wise to have included your "old" friends the first time you invited your "new" friends out for dinner. But nowhere is it written that you were obligated to do so.

DEAR ABBY: Why is all America laboring under the impression that teen-agers are sex-starved animals who will grab any partner they can get? Well, it's not true!

I am an 18-year-old girl who has never had sex. I am considered pretty, I date, I'm friendly and outgoing, and I'm an A-minus student. Not all virgins are ugly, homosexual or weird. My friends and I believe we should not have sex until we are married, and there are many of us.

The media play up the cheap and promiscuous among us, which is very unfair. Most teen-agers are upright citizens with morals and high standards. I wish people would quit concentrating on the seum. I guarantee that if you keep looking for weeds, you'll never see the flowers. — ONE OF MANY IN FORT MYERS, FLA.

DEAR ONE: I know that what you say is true, but your letter touches upon the danger of generalization.

I am all for virtue, self-control and saving one's virginity for marriage, but as noble as it is to make it to the altar intact — failing to do so doesn't make anyone "seum."

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Important doors will open to you once you decide to be more cooperative! Teamwork is the key to lasting business and career success. In September, work to rebuild a program that has fallen on hard times. Your family's financial security depends on your flexibility. Someone will send you strong romantic signals in January and February of 1993. Do not let a new relationship cause trouble between you and a loved one next spring.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Joan Collins, tennis great John Newcombe, bandleader Artie Shaw, boxer "Marvelous Marvin" Hagler.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Having nothing special to do could make you feel dull and drab today. Get up and out of the house! Romance is more complicated than usual. Avoid issuing ultimatums.

TARUS (April 20-May 20): A phone call brings exciting news. A potential romantic partner will be more impressed by your keen intellect than physical feats. You find it easier to adapt to changes than in the recent past.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your efforts to help someone could lead you on a wild goose chase! You might be better off tending to your own tasks. Postpone making major decisions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Allowing negative thoughts to engulf you could harm your personal relationships. You may need to spend time alone. A phone call or letter will bring you new hope.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You are in high spirits and raring to go! Turn your attention to domestic tasks. Kind words will help you bridge a generation gap. A romance is developing just the way you want.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stop hiding in the wings and come out on stage where the public can see you. Wear bright colors to a party tonight. Someone who has acted shy in the past does an aboutface.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Look forward to a wonderful meeting of minds today. This is an ideal time to draw close, share secrets and make merry. You and your partner can move forward hand-in-hand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A day when you might have to fight for your rights or future happiness. Remember, cooperation is a two-way street. Pay cash for meals and entertainment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Romance will develop best away from the maddening crowd today. A clever idea receives new attention. You can accomplish more if you work on your own.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Expect lots of commotion and a flurry of activity this morning. Go that extra mile for people who mean a lot to you. Your consideration for someone's feelings wins you new admirers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A lucky break or brilliant suggestion could catapult you to job success soon. A friend who has romantic feelings for you is very helpful. At home tonight, everything feels just right.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): An excellent day for buying and selling. You have a keen eye for bargains. Trust a hunch when negotiating a special purchase. Your intuition is right on target.
