CRMWD lake levels rise due to downfall

Lake J.B. Thomas rose about 7 1/2 feet since Friday due to storms in West Texas that dumped more than 14 inches of rain in Big Spring, according to reports.

Lake E.V. Spence at Robert Lee rose about 1 1/4 feet after gaining about 9,100 acre-feet of water, reported employees of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which owns the lakes.

Lake O.H. Ivie, southeast of Ballinger, the newest lake in the district, rose about 1 1/2 inches after gaining about 1,340 acre-feet of water.

Ivie is only one-fourth of an inch from the top of the dam while Thomas is about 27 feet from the top. No information was available on how full Spence is or how many acre-feet of water flowed in Thomas.

Also, water continues to flow into Thomas and Spence, an official with the Big Spring office said. "It'll probably come up another foot or two, both of them."

Chances of more showers and thunderstorms for this area are forecast through Sunday, according to wire reports. A 60 percent chance of thunderstorms, some possibly severe, were forecast for tonight.

Saboo arrives Thursday

As part of his international tour, Rotary International President Rajendra K. Saboo will visit Big Spring Thursday, local Rotary officials said.

Saboo, a native of India, will speak to area Rotarians as well as addressing Big Spring High School commencement ceremonies Thursday. A reception in his honor will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the East Room of Dorothy Garrett Coliseum, with a banquet to follow at 7:30, officials said.

Tickets for the banquet have been sold out, they added.

Maxey: Combined jail would be safer

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

A city/county jail with a centralized 911 dispatch center that would cost $531,918 annually to operate — $116,174 more than current facilities — was recommended to local officials Monday by an Austin consultant.

The 74-bed facility, which would be built on a parking lot across from the Howard County Courthouse at an estimated cost of $2.4 million, would reduce liability because it would be safer, said Bill Maxey of Maxey & Dukes Associates in Austin. It also would be better staffed to handle 911 emergency calls.

Safety of inmates should be a primary reason to build a new jail, said Maxey as he addressed a joint meeting of the Big Spring City Council and Howard County Commissioners Court. Current local jails are exempt, by grandfathering, from state jail standards that began going into effect in the 1970s.

"That is a concern that overwhelms any other concerns that you might have," he said. If an inmate dies under negligent conditions, "more money will be spent on lawsuits and awards than will be spent to build a new jail by far."

Otherwise, Maxey said, the 45-inmate capacity of the county jail and the 25-inmate capacity of the city jail, both built in the 1950s, is adequate.

"You're not mandated in the city, to my knowledge, or in the county to do anything," he said. "You're not overcrowded."

Maxey also pointed out that his figures include vacation time and fringe benefits for all positions, which is currently not provided to all police and sheriff employees. Under the proposal, police and sheriff jail and dispatching staffing would increase from 843 hours a week to 1,160.

He also included a centralized dispatch center, which would save money. The optional center would reduce dispatching costs from $268,358 to $199,550. Weekly staffing hours for dispatching would drop from 490 to 400.

Without it, annual operation costs for the central jail would be $307,168 a year, twice as much as the $147,386 spent for current jail upkeep by the police and sheriff's office. Weekly jail staffing hours would increase from 353 to 760.

Maxey said his firm's estimates that the county and city will need 71 beds plus drunk tank facilities by the year 2010 is based on incarceration rates here the last five years, ages and sex of criminals, types of crimes and popula-

Barnaby calls for privately-run jail

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Neel Barnaby, Republican candidate for Howard County Sheriff, reiterated a call for county and city officials to look into the possibility of bringing in a privately-run regional jail.

A 250-to-300 bed facility could serve local needs and pay for itself by contracting with government agencies to handle other prisoners, said Barnaby, who attended a joint Big Spring City Council-Howard County Commissioners Court meeting Monday to hear a proposal on a combined city/county jail.

A recommendation for a 74-bed facility with a centralized 911 dispatch center would cost $531,918 annually to operate, $116,174 more than current facilities, Bill Maxey of Maxey & Dukes Associates in Austin told elected officials. It would be built across from the county courthouse for $2.4 million.

"I'm still not supporting this until they look into a regional county jail that I think would be self-supporting," said Barnaby, who faces Sheriff A.N. Standard, the Democratic nominee, in the Nov. 3 election.

Building renovation could mean savings

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The City of Big Spring could realize a 30 percent savings by renovating Building 2 at the McMahon-Wrinkle Airpark, rather than building a new fire station from the ground up.

Assistant City Manager Tom Decell said the cost of building a similar structure would be about $80.72 per square foot, whereas the cost of renovating the existing building would be $56.87 per square foot.

At Tuesday's council meeting, Decell addressed early concerns about the safety of the structure, since it was once used for X-ray testing of materials. As was expected, asbestos in the floor tile and pipe insulation would have to be removed, as would lead paint on the structure. The cost was incorporated in the assessment by the engineering firm of Parkhill, Smith and Cooper, he said.

The building's main construction is of cinder block and early worries were that this masonry material might have included lead as addec. shielding against the radiation. Decell said a piece of the building's masonry was tested along with a piece of newly purchased, similar masonry. The results showed the Airpark building's masonry to contain four parts per billion of lead, where the new masonry contained 6.4 parts per billion of lead. Both of these figures are well below standards set by the Environmental Protection Agency, he said.

Groundwater at the site showed a slight contamination of lead, 0.0127 milligrams per litre, well under the EPA standard of 0.05 mg/l, Decell said.

Once the X-ray equipment was removed, there was no further radiological hazard at the site, he said.

Paul Brown, president of the Big Spring Firefighter's Association, said the building would be secure if the above measures were taken, but still had reservations concerning the cost of the renovation.

Brown and other firefighters were glad to be getting the new fire station, which will serve as the No. 1 station with training and administration on-site.

He said that a new building of lesser quality would probably suffice and might be cheaper to build, but this would require wasting the existing building. "You've got pros and cons on both sides."

"We had cautions about the building, but they're going out of

Conflict between concerns growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — As negotiators hammer out new global and North American trade agreements, they should pay closer attention to the impact trade could have on the environment, a new congressional analysis says.

"There appears to be growing recognition that trade and environmental policy, which until recently had been made in isolation of each other, must to some extent be made together, or at least coordinated," the Office of Technology said in a report released Tuesday.

Trade agreements and their effects on the environment have been an issue since the United States began negotiating a new, 108-nation General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade as well as a separate pact with Canada and Mexico.

The potential for conflict between trade and environmental issues is rising, the OTA said in the background paper requested by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and other members of Congress.

Tension may escalate because environmental regulations, which came to the forefront recently, may be at odds with trade rules developed before the environment was much of a concern, the analysis said.

No surprises in Tuesday primaries

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Bush and Bill Clinton, chalking up easy victories as the primary season winds down with little suspense, are seeing signs that point to a confounding three-way race with Ross Perot in the fall.

Bush and Clinton were easy winners Tuesday night in Arkansas, Kentucky and Idaho, the lead-in to the six nominating contests on tap next week, including California, New Jersey and Ohio.

But the latest results showed the suspense lies outside the major parties' nominating contests as the primary season gives way to general election maneuvering.

Perot, November's unpredictable wild card, showed fresh signs of strength Tuesday without appearing on a primary ballot.

On the Democratic side, Clinton won 56 percent in Kentucky, 68 percent in his home state of Arkansas in nearly complete returns, and was leading for 50 percent in Idaho, whose Democratic primary was just for show after caucuses selected convention delegates earlier this year. Brown polled less than 20 percent in all three contests.

In Republican contests, Bush took 74 percent in Kentucky, 87 percent in Arkansas and 64 percent in Idaho, where uncommitted and challenger Patrick Buchanan split the remainder.

As Bush and Clinton cruised to fresh victories, the Texas tycoon apparently pulled strength from both sides in the form of "uncommitted" votes.

In Kentucky, Perot supporters urged voters in advance to pick the "uncommitted" option to register their backing of the likely independent candidate. The result — 28 percent on the Democratic side, 26 percent on the Republican side, where challenger Patrick Buchanan failed to qualify for the ballot.

In Arkansas, Clinton's home state, uncommitted polled 18 percent in nearly complete returns in the Democratic primary.

And updated tallies from Washington state showed Perot pulling nearly 20 percent in both primaries as a write-in candidate. Each day, predictions that a Perot candidacy would prove a passing fancy are looking sour.

Clinton all but ignored Perot's impact on his chances, instead suggesting Bush had most to lose from an electorate clamoring for change, and that, over time, he would prove to be the better alternative.

After demanding specifics on the issues in early primaries, voters now appear enamored with Perot, who has offered few specifics on major issues and has said his supporters don't want to hear them.

And after several weeks in which where the much-anticipated anti-incumbent sentiment failed to materialize in any broad fashion, it hit three Democratic congressional veterans, each with scores of bad checks to their names.

Oil lobby takes its lumps in Congress these days

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political clout of Big Oil seems as soft as a feather these days — at least on Capitol Hill, where new energy policy is being crafted.

As the House gets ready to pass legislation, probably today, that could set the course for the country's energy policy for decades, there is little in the bill's 1,500 pages that pleases the U.S. oil industry.

In fact, says Charles DiBona, the industry's chief Washington lobbyist, it's been a defensive battle just "to prevent something worse from happening."

"It's damage control," concedes Rep. Billy Tauzin, D-La., who has spent 12 years in Congress championing oil industry interests. "We've gotten very little."

The oil industry, according to some, has problems not only on the issues but with its image as well.

Rep. Jack Fields, D-Texas, says lawmakers have "a prejudice (against) people in the domestic oil and gas industry" because they envision oilmen as being like J.R. Ewing in the "Dallas" television series.

"I wish all the episodes of 'Dallas' could be erased and never shown again," says Fields.

The industry will be on the defensive again today as oil state lawmakers try to kill a part of the House bill that would require refiners to provide oil to the government's emergency reserve.

The industry equates this to a 1 cent petroleum tax. Even worse, they fear it might open the door to more taxes on petroleum.

The bill's supporters argue that the legislation reflects the belief among many lawmakers that energy sources such as natural gas, nuclear power and renewable fuels — along with conservation — must be put on an equal footing with oil.

As the House gets ready to pass legislation, probably today, that could set the course for the country's energy policy for decades, there is little in the bill's 1,500 pages that pleases the U.S. oil industry.

The House legislation represents "a big step toward leveling the playing field for better energy sources like renewables and efficiency," Melanie Griffin, a lobbyist for the Sierra Club, said in an interview Tuesday.

That is not to say Big Oil has been blanked altogether.

"People shouldn't forget that the major oil companies also are major producers of natural gas," says Edwin Rothschild, energy policy director for the consumer group Citizen Action and a frequent oil industry critic. Both the House and Senate bills have strong provisions to promote natural gas markets.

The oil companies also succeeded in having "reformulated" gasoline defined as an alternative fuel, thereby ensuring gasoline's market share for many years to come. And last week the industry beat back efforts to promote ethanol, a gasoline additive made from corn.

Nevertheless, in one congressional battle after another during the long debate over energy legislation in both the House and Senate, Big Oil has been on the defensive.

The industry's worst defeat has been the failure to win permission to drill in the Arctic National Wildlife Refuge of Alaska. The effort failed in the Senate and was not even discussed in the House.

Lesser battles also have been lost:

- Attempts to ease barriers to offshore oil drilling failed. Instead, Congress will expand drilling bans to include all waters outside the traditional Gulf of Mexico drilling sites until 2002.

- Existing oil and gas leases off North Carolina, Florida and in Alaska's Bristol Bay may be rescinded, a major victory for environmentalists.
- Alternative fuel requirements in the House and Senate bills will lead a significant shift away from the use of gasoline.
- Future authorization for government energy research dollars has shifted from oil to improving conservation and developing alternative energy sources.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A field full of weeds is a potential gold mine to Rick Bennett.

In his search for such fields, Bennett has traveled to more than a dozen European countries and the former Soviet Union. He has been detained by security guards, stranded without gasoline and chased by dogs.

A plant pathologist with the Agricultural Research Service, Bennett seeks out foreign weeds to capture the fungi and other natural enemies on them that could be used as biological controls for weeds in the United States.

Since 1989, according to the May issue of Agricultural Research magazine, Bennett has spent about 18 months overseas searching for leafy spurge, yellow star thistle and other weeds.

He has brought back more than 80 disease-causing organisms, studied them under quarantine at the agency's Foreign Disease-Weed Science Lab in Frederick, Md., and unearthed several prime candidates for biological control.

For instance, a fungus called Uromyces scutellatus covered leafy spurge plants in Romania with black spores that block reproduction, stunt growth and deform stems.

Leafy spurge has spread across 2.5 million acres in the Western states since it was first reported in Massachusetts in 1827, causing ranchers an estimated $34 million to $45 million in damage each year.

Leafy spurge and other weeds are believed to have originated in Europe and hitchhiked here on plants immigrants brought when they came to the United States.

The natural enemies of those weeds, including fungi and insects, remained behind or died on the voyage, leaving the weeds to flourish.

"Once we determine the origin of leafy spurge, we can intensify our search for new pathogens," Bennett said. "The fungus U. scutellatus is the best we've found so far, but there may be others, it's like putting together a puzzle. We still need more pieces."

But sometimes Bennett's field work arouses suspicion.

"I'm always along roadsides or in fields, digging around, taking pictures, collecting and isolating pathogens," he said. "My portable microscope almost always draws suspicion. In fact, customs agents in Romania took it apart once. They thought it was a camera containing microfilm."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department's Federal Grain Inspection Service Advisory Committee will meet next month in Kansas to formulate advice on implementing grain standards.

The agenda includes, among other topics, research initiatives, standards and regulations, blending of aflatoxin-contaminated corn, pesticide residues in grain and prohibiting the addition of water to grain.

The 15-member panel will meet June 24-25 in Manhattan, Kan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frederick R. Medero, a banking executive, has been appointed associate administrator for the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration.

Medero most recently was managing director of The International Environmental Investment Fund.

Trying to reach 'hip-hop' generation

Bloods and Crips unity shirt

Corey Sells shows off his new T-shirt in Los Angeles recently, displaying the unity between the Blood and Crips gangs in the Los Angeles area. A truce was called between the two rival gangs after the riots in Los Angeles a few weeks ago. A blue handkerchief is the Crips color and red the Blood color.

NEW YORK (AP) — Black leaders such as Jesse Jackson or Magic Johnson are no more effective than President Bush in reaching urban black teen-agers, who would rather die than be ostracized for discussing drugs or safe sex, a study found.

The study found that the teen-agers — who describe themselves as members of the "hip-hop generation" after the rap-influenced music popular in the inner city — reject mainstream black culture as thoroughly as they reject white culture.

"Inner-city teens would be delighted to meet their favorite NBA star if he came to their school to speak against drugs," said the study, released today. "But they would discount the appearance as 'playing the game' — performing one of the obligations of celebrity."

Even the most well-crafted messages will be ignored if broadcast on television, because TV is perceived as a mainstream medium, the study found.

The authors' sobering conclusion: "An effective strategy for reaching this audience with these messages simply doesn't exist yet."

"They simply do not know their history. Even when presented by stunning role models like Magic Johnson, they don't want to hear it. . . . It makes you want to cry. That's all I can say. It's so incredibly sad."

Houston A. Baker
Center for Study of Black Literature, Culture at University of Pennsylvania

The two-year, $100,000 study, called "Reaching the Hip-Hop Generation," was done by Ivan Juzang and colleagues at MEE Productions, a black-owned market-research firm in Philadelphia. About half the cost was paid by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation in Princeton, N.J., the nation's largest health-care philanthropy.

The foundation is trying to develop educational campaigns to reach black teen-agers.

"This really has brought us up short," the foundation's spokesman, Tom Gore, said of the findings. "It's given us a look at some cold realities."

"It's a brilliant study," said Houston A. Baker, director of the Center for the Study of Black Literature and Culture at the University of Pennsylvania. "What's incredible is the age. The action seems to be from 9 to 15, where you've got a lot of anxieties, anger."

He said most earlier studies had focused on older teen-agers.

The study was based on small-group meetings with 300 black teen-agers and a survey of 400 black teens. The researchers met with the students in schools in New York City, Washington, D.C., Philadelphia, Camden, N.J., and Oakland, Calif.

Baker said he was surprised and discouraged by the teen-agers' rejection of black culture.

"They simply do not know their history," he said. "Even when presented by stunning role models like Magic Johnson, they don't want to hear it. . . . It makes you want to cry. That's all I can say. It's so incredibly sad."

"These kids are saying that society gives them nothing, and therefore they owe society nothing in return," said Juzang, founder and president of MEE Productions.

A key finding was that messages must be presented in a way that speaks to the concerns of the teens' peer group, and their fear of ostracism.

"If you come up with arguments kids can use within the peer setting without losing face, then, bang, you've got a winner," Juzang said.

He and his colleagues are trying to incorporate their findings into messages that will work.

"You always have to have one of the kids give the counter-argument, and then provide the rebuttal," Juzang said. "Kids will be able to copy that model or use that slogan in their situation."

Ashe delivers ethics lecture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arthur Ashe, his fight against AIDS made public against his wishes, says journalists should temper their zeal to tell a story without regard to the hurt it might cause.

"Are you going to be cold, hard, crass purveyors of the facts just for the sake of people's right to know or under the guise of freedom of the press, or are you going to show a little sensitivity about some things?" Ashe asked Tuesday.

"Temper your definition of the public's right to know or the newsworthiness of something with sensitivity. Because it is better that you police yourself than that we have to use other means to do that and there soon may be a need to do that."

Ashe revealed his illness April 8 after someone tipped USA Today, and he was worried that the paper was about to publish the news.

Yeltsin planning not to run for 2nd term in 1996

MOSCOW (AP) — Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin was quoted today as saying the physical strain of governing is the reason he will not seek re-election in 1996.

"There is a limit to human abilities, physical and others," the Komsomolskaya Pravda newspaper quoted Yeltsin. "Because my life is so hard, I feel that I am not going to extend my term artificially. Never."

Yeltsin, 61, was elected in June 1991 for a five-year term.

Yeltsin revealed his intention not to seek a second term on Tuesday, during a trip to Siberia to monitor the impact of his economic reforms. His remarks were ignored by most Russian media.

"I can tell you absolutely, certainly that at the next election, when my term runs out, I am not going to be in the running," Yeltsin was quoted as telling Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Yeltsin has no known chronic health problems, although there have long been rumors that he drinks heavily. He reportedly suffered an unspecified heart ailment one month after leading the resistance to the failed August 1991 coup.

Russian law permits presidents to hold two, successive terms, but says a candidate cannot be older than 65. Yeltsin would be 65 when the next election is held.

Yeltsin remains one of Russia's most popular politicians, despite widespread public opposition to his economic reform program.

He told Komsomolskaya Pravda that his "main task" now is to prepare a new generation of leaders to prevent "accidental people" from gaining power.

Spiro Agnew, busted again?

Along the galleries and corridors of the U.S. Capitol, the government maintains a marble bust of each of the men who has served as vice president.

It's a list that ranges from some of the most distinguished names in American history to the completely forgettable. But all are represented except for one — Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned in disgrace in 1973 just before his president and running mate, Richard Nixon, also exited the scene.

Now there's an effort afoot to have Agnew carved in stone just like the rest.

History hasn't been as forgiving of Agnew as it has been of Nixon. There have been no presidential pardons for him and no lucrative contracts for books of his memoirs. He ended his public career pretty much as a federal prosecutor discovered that he had begun it — as a common grafter.

In the end, he was allowed to make a deal in which he agreed to resign and to plead no-contest to one charge of tax evasion for failing to report his income from bribes; in return, he only drew only a $10,000 fine and a three-year suspended sentence.

That's pretty small potatoes, contends Matthew Scully, a one-time editor for the National Review and now a speech writer for Vice President Dan Quayle, who's leading the effort to persuade Congress to have Agnew's head mounted at a cost of $50,000 to the taxpayers.

Scully points out that at least one other vice president, Schuyler Colfax, got tangled up in corruption — though he never resigned for that reason. And Aaron Burr was tried for treason, though eventually he was acquitted of the charge.

Even so, Scully argues, Agnew should be included as a matter of "historical thoroughness."

Scully is perfectly correct in arguing that the bust is not based on merit: Neither, for many people, is getting nominated as vice president in the first place. Agnew in retrospect appears not so much a villain as a nonentity. And as such, some might contend that his service is quite adequately represented by the blank space that now exists.

But history is best when it acknowledges its warts. And on that basis, Congress should spend the money to give Agnew his head. If that troubles anyone, maybe they can put an asterisk on it.

'Save the possum' crusade

SAN FRANCISCO — You walk around in this city and on every corner of every street, it seems, there is somebody with a hand out asking for money to save something.

They're big on saving the rain forests out here. "Give to save the rain forest," a guy who looked a little like a spotted owl asked.

"I gave at the last corner," I said. "I don't give a hoot," he replied. "You should give at my corner, too. If we don't save the rain forest, there won't be any more oxygen to breathe."

"Well," I said, walking away by that time, "the hole in the ozone layer will have gotten a lot bigger and we'll all be french-fried anyway."

So I saved a little on that corner but I got hit on the next one from somebody trying to save the whales.

They're trying to save the rain forests, the spotted owl, the whales, the manatees in Florida, and whatever happened to the snail darter?

After experiencing this all day, I began to wonder if I were active enough in this area and was there anything I should get behind and try to save.

Just like that, it came to me. I think I ought to get busy and try to save the possum.

What, you might be asking, do I want to save the possum from?

From getting run over by some sort of motorized vehicle every time one tries to cross the road, that's what.

I don't have any research statistics to back this up, but I will be willing to bet at least eight out of every ten possums that tries to get from one side of the road to the other gets smushed by a car, a Greyhound bus, or a pulpwood truck.

I'm not certain how many dead possums I have seen lying smushed in the road in my lifetime's travels around the South, but I'm certain I've seen more possums than dogs or chickens, legendary roadcrossers themselves.

When I was a child, to keep me quiet in the car, my family would count dead dogs and dead possums on the road. My grandfather would take dead dogs and I would take dead possums and every time we arrived at our destination I had always counted more dead possums than my grandfather had counted dead dogs.

Chickens and dogs, of course, cross the road to get to the other side. Why possums cross the road remains a mystery. Perhaps they are looking for other possums. I'm not Marlin Perkins here.

Whatever it is up to us to try to save as many possums crossing the road as possible. Some may be saying, Isn't it supposed to be "O'-possum"?

That is correct, and the way possums got that 'O' in front of their names is from crossing the road and seeing headlights and thinking, "O' hell, I'm a goner now."

How to save the possum:

- Put up signs on roads that read: Watch out for crossing possums.
- Increase possum awareness so that motorists will be more sensitive and brake when they see one crossing the road.
- In places where there is a high concentration of possums trying to cross the road, possum patrol persons would stop traffic to allow the possum to cross in safety.

Save the possum. The 'O' stands for "Only You Can Stop the Road Killings."

And watch for me with my hand out at a street corner near you.

There were 49 other paragraphs

Vice President Dan Quayle spoke at a luncheon in San Francisco on May 19. His theme was the necessity to return to old moral values of right and wrong. His speech ran to 50 paragraphs. This was Paragraph 43:

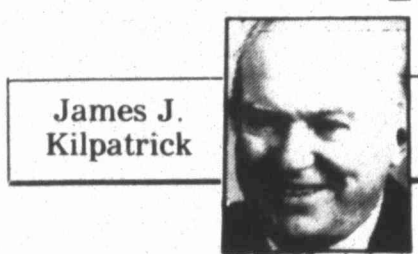

"It doesn't help matters when prime-time TV has Murphy Brown — a character who supposedly epitomizes today's intelligent, highly paid, professional woman — mocking the importance of fathers by bearing a child alone, and calling it just another 'lifestyle choice.'"

The American press reacted as predictably as the dogs of Dr. Pavlov. Quayle rang a bell and mouths watered. Platoons of sociologists, pressed for timely quotes, fired their little popguns. The Washington Post curled its editorial lip. The crackers-and-brie set sneered and snickered. Predictably, the Bush White House came down with the impotent dithers.

In all this commotion, Quayle's serious message scarcely could be heard. Forget Murphy Brown. In the other 49 paragraphs Quayle spoke with clarity and force. He said:

"When I have been asked during these last weeks who caused the riots and the killing in L.A., my answer has been direct and simple: Who is to blame for the riots? The rioters are to blame. Who is to blame for the killings? The killers are to blame."

"There is simply no excuse for the mayhem that followed the Rodney King trial. To apologize or in any way to excuse what happened is wrong. It is a betrayal of all those people equally outraged and equally disadvantaged who did not loot and did not riot. No matter how much you may disagree with the verdict, the riots were wrong. And if we as a society don't condemn what is wrong, how can we teach our children what is right?"

Quayle spoke for all those who believe that casual fornication, out of wedlock, is wrong. He made a valid point: The media profoundly influence the shaping of contemporary conduct. If this were not so, we would not have beer commercials. Of course the media's glorification of sex has consequences. Among the consequences:

"In 1965 the illegitimacy rate among black families was 28 percent. In 1989, 65 percent — two-thirds — of all black children were born to never-married mothers."

The vice president did not even remotely suggest that Murphy and the media are solely responsible for illegitimacy among blacks. Neither did he blame such Great Society programs as general welfare and public housing. The responsibility is personal. Just as rioters produce riots, and arsonists produce arson, so do irresponsible couples produce families without fathers.

"Unless we change the basic rules of society in our inner cities," Quayle said, "we cannot expect anything else to change. We will simply get more of what we saw three weeks ago. New thinking, new ideas, new strategies are needed."

Government has a large part to play. Governmental policies, said

Quayle, must be premised upon such values as "family, hard work, integrity and personal responsibility." It is government's obligation to restore law and order. Those are "code words for safety, getting control of the streets, and freedom from fear."

Government, said Quayle, can encourage the residents of public housing to become homeowners. Enterprise zones will create jobs in inner cities. The parents of poor children must be given a choice of public or private schools. Policies of public welfare must be reformed to create incentives for saving and to remove the penalties for marriage.

"Empowering the poor will strengthen families. And right now, the failure of our families is hurting America deeply. When families fail, society fails. The anarchy and lack of structure in our inner cities are testament to how quickly civilization falls apart when the family foundation cracks."

"Children need love and discipline. They need mothers and fathers. A welfare check is not a husband. The state is not a father. It is from parents that children learn how to behave in society; it is from parents above all that children come to understand values and themselves as men and women, mothers and fathers."

This was the speech that The Washington Post mocked as "a pretty comic performance." The speech was "hardly original." The Post found it "morally klunky." For my own part, I thought Quayle was squarely on target. Such unsophisticated talk of old-fashioned families may bore the finger-bowl crowd. The rest of the country won't be bored at all.

Perot candidacy could eventually end in electoral gridlock

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — If you don't like the ring of President Ross Perot, how does President Robert C. Byrd sound to you?

President Robert C. Byrd? It's farfetched, but it's one analyst's hypothesis on where a Perot candidacy could lead in the event of electoral gridlock.

"It's unlikely, but not impossible," says California political scientist Jack Pitney. "It could happen."

Could it? "With the emergence of Ross Perot as a viable, well-financed, third-party candidate, a number of troubling scenarios could become real possibilities," says Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., who suggested that a "constitutional crisis" may develop this fall.

As Perot's strength grows, so do chances that the next president will be picked not by voters but by the House of Representatives. Or, of course, even that Perot will win outright — a possibility not lost on strategists for either party.

Forcing the election into the House could produce one of the supreme ironies of modern American politics — given that voter distrust of Congress and other institutions is fueling Perot's still-undeclared independent bid.

A Perot victory in California (54 electoral votes) and Texas (32) probably would give him enough to deny President Bush or expected Democratic nominee Bill Clinton the ability to collect the 270 votes needed for election. Polls show Perot is ahead in both states.

Support for the Texas billionaire has climbed into the 30 percent range nationwide — showing potential to win almost anywhere. After all, 34 percent could carry a state in any three-way race.

Under the 12th Amendment, the House picks the president from the top three electoral vote-getters if no one wins an electoral majority. Each state delegation has a single vote.

That means that California, the most populous state with 30 million people, gets one vote — the same as Wyoming, the least populous at 453,588.

In the current House, Democrats control 32 delegations, Republicans control 10 and seven are evenly divided. The remaining delegation, Vermont, is controlled by Rep. Bernie Sanders, who is independent.

The breakdown suggests a party-line vote might give the election to the Democratic nominee, presumably Clinton. But it isn't that simple.

For one thing, the current House isn't the one that would vote — it would be the new House, elected in November. Balloting would take place between Jan. 6 and Jan. 20.

The new Senate would pick the vice president in a similar fashion.

Pitney, a political scientist at Claremont McKenna College in California and former researcher for the Republican National Committee, says a House deadlock — even a temporary one — is a distinct possibility on such a politically difficult question.

Likewise, the Senate could deadlock on selecting a vice president.

In that case, an acting president would have to be selected from the constitutional line of succession until the deadlocks were resolved — first the House speaker, then the Senate president pro tem, then on through the current Cabinet.

Here's where Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., comes in. He is currently Senate president pro tem.

Pitney speculated the House speaker would decline the honor because it would mean he would have to resign from the House, "an unappealing prospect, especially if the acting presidency lasted only a short time."

On the other hand, he suggested that Byrd, who has already served as Senate majority leader and has represented West Virginia for 40 years in Congress, might see things differently.

"He might decide that as acting president, he could do a great deal of good for West Virginia in a very short span of time, so he might take the job even at the expense of his Senate seat."

If Byrd turned it down, Secretary of State James A.

Baker III would be next in line.

It's an amusing guessing game for political scientists. But some practitioners aren't so amused at the prospect of a House vote for president.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, says it would put many members on the spot. "We're supposed to do what's right. But it's a conscience problem on both sides: the will of the people and your personal judgement as to who would be best for the country," he said.

It's happened twice before:

The 1800 election went into the House when Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr wound up in an electoral tie. It took 36 ballots before Jefferson finally won. The 1824 election went to the House when four candidates split the electoral vote. John Quincy Adams of Massachusetts prevailed.

Chadwick new Howard AD

By MIKE BUTTS

Womens basketball coach Royce Chadwick will replace Bill Griffin as athletic director of Howard College.

The school will lighten Chadwick's teaching load in lieu of giving him salary compensation.

Howard President Bob Riley also said the school would replace its full-time, professional assistant coaches with graduate or student assistants.

The school's board of trustees met Tuesday and announced Chadwick's new duties, along with naming new head baseball and rodeo coaches.

The changes are part of Riley's recommendations to make cuts in athletics and other areas because of budget constraints. On April 27 the board of trustees voted to accept Riley's recommendations to do away with full-time assistant coaches in the school's four sports. It also accepted Riley's proposal to end the athletic directorship, although Riley planned to reinstitute the position at a later date in a different form.

Chadwick said he is "glad for the opportunity" to be the college's AD. He doesn't think it will interfere with his coaching.

High school coach to replace Griffin

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Howard College hired Brian Roper of Ralls High School as head baseball coach Tuesday and named women's basketball coach Royce Chadwick athletic director.

Roper replaces Bill Griffin, 61, one of the nation's most successful junior college baseball coaches, who left Howard this year to start a baseball program at Northeast Texas Community College in the fall.

Roper, a 1990 Texas Tech graduate, has led the Ralls baseball team to a 39-4 record in his two years at the class AA school. The 26-year-old former member of the Texas Rangers rookie team will sign a one-year contract with Howard this summer, Howard President Bob Riley said.

Howard assistant baseball coach Joe Almaraz turned down an offer for the position last week to accept a job with a professional baseball team, Riley said. Almaraz was out of town and unavailable for comment Tuesday.

"I'm thrilled to death," Roper said of his new job in a telephone interview from his home in Ralls, located east of Lubbock. "What else could a guy ask for in a junior college? I feel real fortunate coming into such a successful program."

Roper's hiring and Chadwick's

Third baseman-pitcher Demond Thomas was one of many freshmen ballplayers that could be returning for the Howard College Hawks baseball team. Howard's new baseball coach is Brian Roper.

new capacity were announced at Howard's Board of Trustees meeting Tuesday afternoon. The board also approved assistant rodeo coach Mike Yeater's promotion to head rodeo coach.

Roper's only college coaching experience was as a graduate assistant at Texas Tech from '89 to '90. He said his salary at Howard will not be much more than what he makes as a teacher and coach at Ralls.

Griffin, his predecessor, has coached junior college baseball for 34 years and won two national championships. He is one of three coaches to win 1,000 games at the junior college level.

"I don't expect to jump right in and fill (those) shoes," Roper said. "I just want to come in and build a program that will compete."

The high school skipper said he is not concerned about the jump from UIL AA to junior college as far as his knowledge of the game goes. But in other areas he admits he may be learning on the job.

"As far as recruiting and other quirks around the college I may learn some lessons, but in a couple of years I'll be fine," he said.

Both Griffin and Roper admit that next season will be a rebuilding year for the Hawks. The team stands to lose substantial recruiting clout with Griffin's departure.

"But we think Brian will come in and build us a program we will want (to have here)," Riley said.

Roper, whose high school team plays in the state playoffs Friday against Presidio, will concentrate his recruiting for Howard in Texas, Riley said.

That will dramatically change the look of the Hawks baseball team, which has had success recruiting in Puerto Rico and states other than Texas in recent years. Howard, winners of the national junior college championship under Griffin last year, had eight Puerto Rican players on its 24-man roster this past season. Only eight of its players last year came from Texas. And three of its four all-conference players in '92 were from out of state.

"We want a coach with Texas connections that will recruit Texas players," Riley said. "We think there's enough baseball players in Texas to allow us to remain competitive."

Roper's Texas baseball contacts include Texas Tech baseball coaches Larry Hays and Frank Anderson and Roper's father Stanley Roper, who is AD at Houston's Bellaire High School. He played high school ball for Ray Knoblauch, father of Minnesota Twins second baseman Chuck Knoblauch, at Bellaire. Ray Knoblauch is now supervisor of athletics for the Houston I.S.D.

Riley and Roper said they want to develop a relationship with Texas Tech that would have Tech coaches referring their recruits not ready for Tech's program to Howard. The players would transfer to Tech after playing at Howard.

Riley expressed enthusiasm with his selection of Roper despite Roper's youth and relative inexperience.

"Sometimes it's not necessarily how old you are or how young you are," Riley said. "It's the kind of person you are, the kind of attitude you have towards the program and the kind of contacts you have. There's no doubt in my mind that Brian will be a successful college coach."

Big Spring Steers sophomore first baseman Brandon Rodgers lays down a bunt in recent baseball action at Steer Field. Today the Steers play Burk Burnett in regional action in Abilene at 6.

Steers facing Burk Burnett

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

For the second time in as many games the Big Spring Steers will face a hot team in the state baseball playoffs.

Tuesday against Frenship the Steers broke the Tigers eight-game winning streak with a 1-0 victory. It was the first time the Steers advanced in the state playoffs in baseball in the school's history.

Tonight at 6 in Abilene at Hunter Field Big Spring plays Burk Burnett in the Region I class 4-A semi-final. The Bulldogs faced elimination from the playoffs in their last four games but came up with clutch wins each time.

The District 5-5A runner-up from 13 miles north of Wichita Falls had to win its last district contest just to qualify for a playoff for second place. In a playoff to determine the district runner-up they beat Wichita Falls High 7-1 and earned a spot in a bi-district game against Everman. The Bulldogs defeated Everman 3-2 May 15 and then upset Fort Worth Arlington Heights 6-0 last Wednesday.

"This is the first time we've been involved in the one-game-and-out business and our kids seem to have reacted real well to it," said Burk Burnett coach James Teter, whose 17-10 Bulldogs have been in the state playoffs four of the last five years and have won two district championships in that span. "Maybe this is what it takes to get them going."

The team had a four game losing streak which preceded its current win streak.

Their win over Arlington Heights was a major surprise because the Yellow Jackets ranked fifth in the state 4A poll at the end of the regular season.

But the key to that win was no secret. Bulldog ace Stephen Smith overpowered Arlington Heights with a fast ball that The Fort Worth Star Telegram said ran in the upper 80 mile-per-hour range in the game's late innings. Smith is a senior right-hander with a 12-4 record and will start against the Steers. If he throws the way he did against Arlington Heights the Steers will need a monumental performance to win.

Burk Burnett's season somewhat mirrors the Steers '92 campaign. The Bulldogs won their first five district games but only one of their last five to finish 6-4 and tied for second. Big Spring started out at 4-1 and in first place in district but finished 7-4. The Steers lost four of their last seven district games before beating Frenship.

Blinn game postponed

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Heavy rains and lightning brought an early end to the National Junior College World Series, forcing officials to postpone the Blinn College, Texas, vs. Pima Community College, Ariz., game scheduled for Tuesday night. The game was rescheduled for 11 a.m. Wednesday.

Earlier Tuesday, Dimerick Burreal belted three hits and scored twice as Indian Hills, Iowa, rallied from a 1-0 second-inning deficit to eliminate Trinidad, Colo., 15-6.

Indian Hills' batters had 17 hits against five Trinidad pitchers.

Behind 1-0 in the second inning, Indian Hills scored seven times on five hits and three Trinidad errors to take a 7-1 lead that never was threatened.

Jose Labrador had one hit and scored three runs to contribute to the Indian Hills effort.

Derek Sutton claimed the victory for Indian Hills (37-16). Manuel Martinez sustained the loss for Trinidad (48-14), whose scoring was led by Ken Copeland.

Broncos, Dolphins swap running backs

DENVER (AP) — Disgruntled fourth-year running backs Bobby Humphrey and Sammie Smith have swapped uniforms, anxious to make new starts with the Miami Dolphins and Denver Broncos, respectively.

The trade, announced Tuesday after six weeks of discussions and repeated official denials, sends Humphrey, whose 97-day holdout last season did not endear him to Denver management or his teammates, to the Dolphins in exchange for Smith, who leaves behind memories of fumbling and fan abuse in Miami.

Contrary to earlier speculation, the Broncos did not receive a draft choice in addition to Smith.

"It was a straight player-for-player deal," Broncos general manager John Beake said Tuesday.

Smith led Miami in rushing each of his first two seasons, but fumbling and injury problems cost him a starting job last year. He was the target of profane jeers by fans following one defeat, prompting him to leave the team without permission for several days.

"It was not a walkout, it was just a tough time for me," Smith insisted Tuesday.

Trail Blazers work overtime for win

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — This time, there was no blowout. The Portland Trail Blazers had to work overtime to beat Utah, even without John Stockton.

Kevin Duckworth scored four points during an 8-0 Portland surge in the overtime as the Blazers won 127-121 to take a 3-2 lead in the NBA Western Conference finals.

Jerome Kersey scored 29 points to lead Portland. Duckworth, Clyde Drexler and Terry Porter added 24 apiece as the Blazers beat Utah in Portland for the 12th straight time and improved their home playoff record to 8-0.

But, unlike the two one-sided Portland victories in the first two games of the series, this one wasn't easy.

Delaney Rudd, playing in place of Stockton, who was poked in the eye just before halftime and did not return, hit a 3-pointer with 5.5 seconds to play in regulation — one of his three field goals in the game — to tie it 107-107.

Portland never got a shot off before the regulation buzzer.

Utah led 110-109 before Porter's off-balance 16-footer put Portland ahead for good with 3:27 to play. It started a string of eight straight Blazers points, capped by Duckworth's 10-footer, and Utah never got closer than four again.

"They played well," Utah coach

Portland Trail Blazers' forward Jerome Kersey (left) drives in on Utah Jazz center Mark Eaton on his way to scoring 29 points in NBA playoff action Tuesday night in Portland.

Jerry Sloan said. "They penetrated the middle and when we came down there, we were standing with our hands in our pockets."

Kersey, who also had four blocked shots, said he could tell as the overtime started that his teammates were ready.

"I looked in their eyes and it was like, 'Hey guys, let's go,'" he said. "Everybody kind of pumped it up a little bit more. No one wants to lose at home, not the fifth game and you're in control of this thing."

Karl Malone scored 28 of his 38 points after halftime for the Jazz and he also had 14 rebounds. He walked out the rear exit of the locker room without talking to reporters.

Tyrone Corbin scored a career-playoff high 28 and Jeff Malone added 23 for the Utah, which was without starting forward David Benoit, who returned to Louisiana for the funeral of his father.

Danny Ainge sealed the victory with six straight free throws in the final 21 seconds.

Stockton was injured on the final play of the first half when Drexler's left hand caught the Utah playmaker's left eye as he drove to the basket.

The injury caused swelling around the eye and Stockton experienced double vision. He did not play in the second half but Jazz team doctor Lyle Mason said he did not believe Stockton will have any long-term vision problems.

"I was a little scared when I heard John probably wouldn't come back," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "You always get a little bit scared in that situation because they have the ability to step up."

Adelman expected big things from Karl Malone with Stockton out.

"You could see it in his eyes," Adelman said.

Portland can earn its second trip to the NBA Finals in three years with a win at Salt Lake City Thursday night, or with one in a seventh game, if necessary, Saturday in Portland.

Utah is also 8-0 at home in the playoffs and 45-4 there for the season.

The Jazz rallied from a 60-52 halftime deficit and nearly pulled off the biggest road victory in the history of the franchise.

Portland never trailed in the first half. Duckworth scored 10 points during an 18-6 Blazers run that made it 26-14 with 2:51 left in the first quarter.

Portland boosted the margin to 14 before Corbin, who was 11 for 15 from the field, led a 13-2 Utah outburst that cut lead to 46-43 with 4½ minutes remaining in the half.

Steers

Teter said his team suffered through a batting slump in its district losing streak but has since come out of it.

The Bulldogs are paced by three senior starters: Smith, who Teter said bats about 400, center fielder Miller Spessard and second baseman Grant Martin, who both have over .300 batting averages.

Steer coach Bobby Doe plans to start Frankie Martinez.

To win the Steers will have to overcome Smith and:

- going without Gerald Cobos, their best pitcher of late
- riding the team bus in search of a dry field for what Doe said has been over eleven hours since Friday
- taking final exams this week.
- no regular practice Tuesday because of wet weather

Doe said Monday's win over Frenship was the best game his team has played since a 2-0 win over Monahans March 27.

"I just hope we can play as good defensively and in other areas (against Burkburnett) as we did against Frenship," he said.

to do the best I can at both jobs," Chadwick said. "I don't feel it will be a problem balancing the jobs next fall."

Chadwick replaces former head baseball coach Bill Griffin as the AD. Griffin said he was paid about $2,000 a year in the position. He said he taught one lecture class in the fall and weight lifting for his baseball players along with his duties as AD and baseball coach.

Student assistant coaches will be paid about $1,000 a month and will live in the school's dormitories, Riley said.

He said the athletic department may find assistant coaches in former professional ballplayers who want to finish their education at, for instance, U.T. Permian Basin.

"I think there's a wide number of options for us out there and I know we'll find good quality people to help us," Riley said.

Newly hired Howard baseball coach Brian Roper said several junior colleges have successful programs with student assistant coaches.

"I don't see any reason why Howard College shouldn't be successful doing the same thing," Roper said.

PARIS (AP) — France's top hope, Guy Forget, became the first major upset victim of the French Open today, losing a second-round match 6-3, 6-3, 6-3 to Belgium's Bart Wuyts.

Other favorites continued to advance, including women's No. 4 seed Arantxa Sanchez Vicario, the 1989 champion. She needed 91 minutes, relatively long for a top woman at this stage, to beat Switzerland's Emanuela Zardo, 6-3, 6-2, and reach the third round.

In men's first-round play, two seeded Americans beat Dutch opponents. No. 5 Michael Chang beat Paul Haarhuis, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, and No. 13 Aaron Krickstein, beat Mark Koevvermans, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

The women's No. 6 seed, Mary Joe Fernandez, beat fellow American Shaun Stafford, 6-1, 6-4, and No. 9 Anke Huber of Germany beat Radka Zrubakova of Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-2.

Forget, seeded No. 6 and France's top player for several years, has never managed to get past the quarterfinals of this tournament. The last French champion was Yannick Noah in 1983.

Most attention today was focused on center court, where 39-year-old Jimmy Connors, a crowd favorite here, battled No. 4 seed Michel Stich, the Wimbledon champion.

Connors' appearance came a day after the defeat of John McEnroe, another sentimental choice playing his last singles match here.

a standing ovation Tuesday after a hard-fought 6-2, 7-5, 6-7 (7-5), 7-5 loss to Nicklas Kulti, a 21-year-old Swede ranked 94th in the world.

McEnroe, who hasn't won the title in 10 tries, said this was his last attempt.

Kulti, who took advantage of McEnroe errors as well as his own strong groundstrokes, said he felt no pressure when he learned who his opening foe would be.

Through a nearly completed first round, only two seeds — No. 15

Brad Gilbert and No. 16 Jakob Hlasek — have lost. Gilbert fell in five sets Tuesday to Frenchmen Cedric Pioline, who also ousted him in last year's first round.

Tuesday's winners among the men included No. 2 Stefan Edberg, No. 3 Pete Sampras, No. 7 Petr Korda, No. 10 Ivan Lendl, No. 11 Andre Agassi, No. 12 Richard Krajicek and No. 14 Alexander Volkov.

Top-seeded Jim Courier, the defending champion, was to play his second-round match today.

France's top player falls in second round

Cars, hitmen and power forwards

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

I admit I'm not much of an auto racing fan, nor am I very knowledgeable about the sport. But even I know Sunday's Indy 500 was an unusual race.

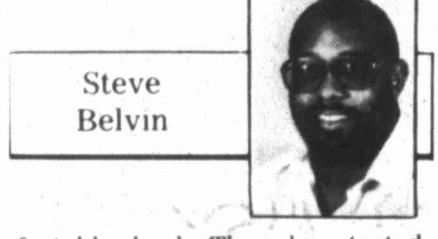

Only a dozen cars were running at the end, one fewer than were hauled off on the back end of a towing winch after a string of crashes.

The pole-sitter atop the fastest Indianapolis 500 field went down on the parade lap. Ten former champions began the race and half of them had exited before the midway point, including two in the same pileup. Traffic at Indianapolis' Methodist Hospital was almost as heavy and celebrity-studded as it was at the speedway a 10-minute ambulance ride away.

Al Unser Jr. won the slowest race in more than three decades, the closest ever and without doubt the most bizarre.

A hint that it was going to be a weird day was the unusually cold temperature, with a wind-chill factor in the 40s. A second omen was Roberto Guerrero, who went faster in qualifying than anybody ever had (232.482 mph), slid off the pole and out of the race — on the parade lap. Next to go rather quickly were four-time champion Rick Mears, 1989 champion Fittipaldi and Jim Crawford — in the same crash — and then 1969 champ Mario Andretti and then 1990 champ Arie Luyendyk.

And after all that, everybody thought nothing could happen to stop Michael Andretti. Something did. For 189 laps, he had a comfortable lead. Then he started hearing bad news over his car radio.

First he heard that his father had crashed. Then he heard that his brother had crashed. Then worst of all came when his 800-horsepower Ford-Cosworth engine positioned directly behind him shut off when it lost fuel pressure, 10 laps from the finish.

Andretti's misfortune paved the way for Al Jr. to edge Scott Goodyear by a half-car length.

What a way to earn a living.

The Chicago Bulls-Cleveland Cavaliers series is living up to the adage, "It's tough in the East."

Throughout the years Eastern Conference teams have been known for their rough style of play. The Western teams are known for their finesse play.

The Bulls are learning just how hard it is to repeat. They survived a brutal seven-game series with New York. Now they're locked in another knockdown-dragout with the Cavs.

Cleveland even went as far to assign a hitman to get Michael Jordan in game four. Although he won't admit it, Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkins had seldom-used forward Danny Ferry to try to get Jordan out of his game.

Ferry went into Monday's game in the second quarter. A short while later Jordan set a screen on Ferry and Ferry instantly started to throw punches at Jordan. Jordan almost retaliated, but kept his composure. Ferry was ejected.

"It took all the strength I had not to throw a punch back at him," said Jordan. "I figured my team needed me more than his team needed him. I'm not going to say I'll meet him in the alley, I'll just let my game do the talking."

In other words, tonight's going to be a long one for Craig Ehlo, the man assigned to guard Jordan.

The Western Conference Championship series between Portland and Utah has been more physical than I expected.

As of Tuesday, both of Utah's wins have come in games which the Jazz went to the foul line 103 times, compared to 78 for the Blazers.

For one thing, Karl Malone goes to the line everytime he goes into the paint. A man that's 6-foot-11 and weighs 275-pounds is going to initiate contact when he plays as aggressive as Malone does on offense. There shouldn't be a foul everytime he bumps into someone.

Malone gets away with a lot and it's taking Portland out of its game. The Blazers are starting to worry more about why the refs are calling so many fouls against them, than they are about doing the things they must do to win.

Many few Malone is the best power forward in the game. I'll take Charles Barkley, James Worthy or Dominique Wilkins.

Nuff said.

their way to abate those materials — as long as those cautions are met, we have no complaint," Brown said.

Once completed, the $324,000 structure would be mated with a $133,000 training ground that would provide first-rate training for city firefighters, needed coverage for the West End and could eventually be staffed and equipped to provide aircraft fire protection if and when the airport is recertified, Decell said.

Funds for the construction will come directly from airport funds and will not effect the city general budget, Decell said.

Councilman John Coffee had questions concerning the expense and, after discussion with other members of the council, decided to wait until the next meeting and allow time to review the specifications before approving bid advertisement for the construction.

"If we had this thing built today, it'd be full tomorrow," said Barnaby, whose recent research shows there are 34 counties in the state that operate facilities handling contract prisoners. Many of those facilities are in West Texas, he said.

"I would hope the city and county both, before they go with a bond issue, would look into this."

Standard, who in the past has also called for a regional facility handling contract prisoners, declined comment on Maxey's recommendation.

"Certainly I would think the city and county will review this," he said. "I will hold my comments until a later date."

"I don't see anything happening anytime soon. It's going to take some study," said County Judge Ben Lockhart.

Centralized dispatching, which would reduce annual costs from $268,358 to $199,550 and weekly staffing hours from 490 to 400, has been supported in the past by both Standard and Barnaby.

"That way they've got all the resources at hand," Barnaby said. "They should have no boundaries for 911 calls as far as jurisdiction."

tion projections.

The population figures, from the Texas Department of Commerce, show that the county's population may increase from 32,343 to 35,926 in the next 18 years, despite a steady population decline from a high of 40,193 in 1960.

Maxey provided two other alternatives for combined jail facilities, both of which he did not recommend.

Renovation and expansion of the city jail. Inmate capacity would be 62 and cost $2.2 million for construction.

However, it was determined that the police department would need more office space under that option. That could cost up to $480,000.

A remote site that has not been determined. Inmate capacity would be 74 and would cost $2.2 million to build. It would be a one-story structure, unlike the two-story structure, that would have to be built across from the courthouse.

Problems for that option include ongoing costs for transportation of inmates and judges back and forth from the courthouse. Unknowns include cost of land, availability of utilities and the possibility of neighborhood opposition.

Police beat

The Big Spring Police Department reported the following incidents:

• A forged check was reported at Don's IGA at 1300 South Gregg St.

• Michelle T. Nelson, 19, of 1811 South Nolan was arrested for failure to appear on a seatbelt ticket.

• A wallet and contents worth $105 were reportedly stolen during the burglary of a home in the 1600 block of Jennings.

Jazzie B and Soul II Soul keep movin'

Singer, songwriter and arranger Jazzie B of Soul II Soul, photographed during an April interview, says the group's upbeat sound is a way of staying a step ahead despair. B, whose real name is Baresford Romeo, formed Soul II Soul with producer Nellie Hooper in 1982. Their third album, "Volume III Just Right," was just released on the Virgin label.

NEW YORK (AP) — As he watched the television coverage of the riots in Los Angeles, Soul II Soul's Jazzie B couldn't stop thinking about the title track of his group's million-selling debut album: "Keep on Movin'."

"I was running a club in Britain and police kept raiding us, saying we were disturbing the peace," he explained. "Once, around 1986, they raided us right around midnight. They came to the club and said everyone has got to leave."

"The next day, I remember myself and my brother going to the police and we sat down and tried to get something together. We were doing a jam the following week and that got raided also. Two guys got arrested and we got all our equipment confiscated."

"So amongst all the confusion and all the tension that was going on there, we just learned the fact that in order to stay strong we had to keep on moving, that's where we got the title of the song. If we didn't have that faith, we would have given up."

Interviewed at the Manhattan offices of Virgin Records, Jazzie B said Soul II Soul's upbeat sound — the horns, the flute, the smooth, danceable grooves — is both a way of staying a fast step ahead of despair and of fulfilling an admittedly silly childhood fantasy.

He has always liked the story of the Pied Piper (thus the flute) and imagines his group as a sound system traveling around the world, attracting listeners with its positive message.

Soul II Soul's songs move easily from Philadelphia soul to disco to flute-driven instrumentals and the lyrics are whittled down to simple statements, repeated with the steady drive of marchers at a protest rally: "Take Me Higher," "Life is the Answer," "Our Time Has Come."

On the rap-influenced "Jazzie's Groove," Jazzie B sums up his group's mission as "a happy face, a funk'n' bass, for the human race."

"I think people in the world make things complicated and we've lost the simple things in life that are the most important," said Jazzie B, whose group has just released its third record, "Volume III Just Right."

"You take all this energy, that creativity, and fuse these various elements together into a simple picture."

Singer, songwriter, arranger, and the self-styled inventor of the "Funk Dred" style — today that means jeans, a white sweater and dreadlocks tied back in a ponytail — Jazzie B notes cheerfully he was always the center of attention, the natural leader among any circle of friends.

His real name is Beresford Romeo, and he was born in London in 1963, the youngest of nine children of immigrants from Antigua. His first dream was to play soccer, but he soon decided a black person couldn't get far in that.

Instead, he became a disc jockey at neighborhood parties, which was easy since growing up with all those older siblings was like having an entire radio dial playing at the same time: One brother would have on Barry White; another James Brown; another Bob Marley.

Jazzie B soon joined the London club scene — "started" the London club scene, he says — and in 1982 formed Soul II Soul with producer Nellie Hooper and a large supporting cast of singers and musicians.

"We had 5,000 fans at some of our shows, which for London is incredible," he recalled. "Even with all the police problems, we just kept on doing it and that's what gave us the determination to continue to do what we were doing. We knew that one day we would be rewarded."

The first album came out in 1989, sold nearly 4 million copies worldwide, produced two Top 10 singles and won Grammys for best rhythm and blues vocal duo and best R&B instrumental.

In the Grove: record reviews

"Arkansas Traveler" (Mercury) — Michelle Shocked

"I've come a long way," Michelle Shocked sings on the bouncy second cut of her new album, and she's not kidding.

In a few years, the warbly singer-songwriter has gone from neo-folkie to swing-band leader to, on "Arkansas Traveler," triumphant interpreter of America's earliest musical styles: blues and bluegrass.

Fiddles, banjos and mandolins weave through "Arkansas Traveler" like contra dancers. Only four or five of the 14 songs are straight bluegrass numbers but the entire album shines with the virtues of a good string band: lightness of spirit; tight, intricate arrangements; and a focus on good music instead of big egos.

It's a lot of fun.

'Fiddles, banjos and mandolins weave through "Arkansas Traveler" like contra dancers.'
David Dishneau
AP Writer

The album sounds like a big front-porch jam session, which is remarkable since each song was recorded in a different place with a different set of musicians.

The respectable roster of guest stars includes Pops Staples, Levon Helm, Garth Hudson, The Red Clay Ramblers, The Hothouse Flowers, Taj Mahal, Clarence "Gatemouth" Brown and Doc Watson.

Symphonies of Joseph Haydn, vol. 5 (L'Oiseau-Lyre) — The Academy of Ancient Music, Christopher Hogwood, conductor

The Academy is a group of high repute, consistent in turning out decent performances in the period style and with authentic instruments. It has reached the fifth of 15 volumes of Haydn's 106 symphonies with this three-CD release.

The series gets the highest of marks for packaging. The liner notes are clear and copious, cross-referenced and well-illustrated. A small and welcome touch: the numbers of the symphonies, 35, 38, 39, 41, 58, 59 and 65, are printed in large numbers on the disc for easy reference.

The performances are impeccable, if a little dutiful sounding. They lack that revelatory sense that truly great Haydn performances have, detectable, for instance, on some Orpheus Chamber Orchestra recordings on DG. But the group plays with superb articulation and Hogwood clearly lays out everything. They are the kind of performances that grow on you, and would be welcome to anyone with a more than casual interest in Haydn.

Will Comedy Hall of Fame play in Peoria?

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Organizers of a proposed National Comedy Hall of Fame must confront the eternal showbiz question: Will it play in Peoria?

Civic leaders in the home of Fibber McGee and Molly, Richard Pryor and Sam Kinison proposed the museum to honor comedy greats.

"This is a very serious effort," said Rebekah Bourland, president of the group that has been organizing the Peoria hall for six years. "We think it's important to honor and recognize those artists who have distinguished themselves in the comedic arts."

The group is searching for memorabilia to display and money to build the museum.

Peoria was a logical choice for the museum, organizers say, because of its roots in vaudeville.

No-bake recipes win the prize

Everyone loves a winner, particularly if that winner happens to be a tasty dessert for the entire family.

That's the case in the first Woman's Day Magazine/Keebler Ready-Crust Pie Crust Recipe Contest. Peanut Crunch Pie, which won the $5,000 Grand Prize in the contest, is the creation of Eleanor Froehlich, a retired school teacher from Rochester, Michigan.

ELEANOR J. FROELICH — ROCHESTER, MI

PEANUT CRUNCH PIE

6 ounces peanut brittle, coarsely chopped

5 cups (2½ pints) vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

One 6-ounce butter-flavored Ready-Crust pie crust

½ cup milk chocolate chips or one 3-ounce bar milk chocolate, chopped

½ cup heavy (whipping) cream

¼ cup confectioners' sugar

¼ cup smooth peanut butter, at room temperature

Reserve some chopped peanut brittle for decoration.

Mix remaining brittle with the ice cream in a large bowl. Spoon into pie crust, mounding it in center. Smooth with a metal spatula, cover with foil and freeze at least 6 hours or overnight.

Stir chocolate chips and heavy cream in a medium-size saucepan over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture is smooth. Stir in confectioners' sugar and peanut butter until blended.

Put pie on waxed paper to catch drips. Pour chocolate mixture evenly over filling, spreading it quickly with a thin metal spatula (topping may flow over edge of pie). Freeze 1 hour or until topping is firm.

Just before serving, decorate with reserved brittle.

Makes 8 servings.

TOO GOOD TO BE MISSED

BERNICE C. KADEL — CALDWELL, ID

RAPID RASPBERRY PIE

1 quart good-quality vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

1 pint good-quality raspberry sherbert, slightly softened

Rapid Raspberry Pie

¼ cup raspberry liqueur (framboise) or thawed, undiluted raspberry-juice concentrate or thawed, undiluted cranberry-raspberry juice concentrate

One 6-ounce chocolate Ready-Crust (save the plastic lid)

For decoration: 1 cup fresh or frozen dry-pack raspberries and mint leaves or chocolate curls.

In a large bowl, preferably with an electric mixer, mix ice cream, sherbert and liqueur or juice concentrate until blended.

Scrape into pie crust. Smooth top, cover with plastic lid and freeze at least 1 hour until firm, or wrap airtight, label and freeze up to 1 month.

Remove from freezer 15 minutes before serving softening slightly. Garnish with raspberries and/or mint leaves or chocolate curls. Makes 8 servings.

PATRICIA CAHILL — PHILADELPHIA, PA

CINNAMON STICKY-BUN PIE

½ plus ¼ cup butterscotch ice-cream topping (from a jar)

One 6-ounce Graham cracker Ready-Crust (save the plastic lid)

4 ounces cream cheese, at room

temperature

½ tsp. ground cinnamon

½ tsp. vanilla extract

2 cups (1 pint) vanilla ice cream, softened

½ cup dark raisins

¼ cup chopped walnuts

Pour ½ cup butterscotch topping over bottom of pie crust, spreading it gently with a thin spatula if necessary. Cover with plastic lid and refrigerate while preparing and chilling filling.

Beat cream cheese, cinnamon and vanilla with an electric mixer on high speed until smooth and fluffy. Scrape side of bowl, add ice cream and raisins, reduce mixer speed to medium and beat briefly to blend (don't worry if cream cheese doesn't mix in completely). Put bowl in freezer and chill 30 minutes to 1 hour, stirring several times, until mixture is firm but still spreadable.

Stir filling, then spoon into crust. Smooth top with a thin metal spatula. Cover with plastic lid and freeze at least 1 hour until firm.

Just before serving, drizzle with ¼ cup butterscotch topping and sprinkle with walnuts. Makes 8 servings.

Brunch and supper, yum-yum

Let's say it's Saturday and you've had a hectic week and you want to relax a little over the weekend. Well, Papa Joe has just the answer. Instead of three meals on Saturday, we'll just have two, brunch and supper.

The Brunch that we'll prepare is a dandy. A dear friend of mine makes it all the time and it's not only filling and will hold you over to supertime, but it's also delicious. We'll just call it a:

HAM AND PICANTE BREAKFAST CASSEROLE

Ham (1 cup-cooked and diced)

Eggs (8)

Onion (1 small-chopped)

Picante Sauce (¼ cup)

Salt and pepper (to taste)

First, beat the eggs and then add all the other ingredients. Pour into a greased 1½-quart casserole dish. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 30 to 35 minutes or until eggs are set real good. To make it really go over big, put on a pan of biscuits with it. When it's done, garnish with slices of cantaloupe or slices of fresh red tomatoes. What makes this dish so delicious is the Picante Sauce. I personally like to use the hot Picante Sauce, but everyone to his own taste. This is a breakfast that will be long remembered.

Now that we have brunch out of the way, let's think about supper tonight. We will want a good and filling supper. So we will have:

PAPA JOE'S MEXICAN BEAN BAKE

Beans (1 lb.-red beans)

Onion (1-medium-finely chopped)

Garlic (2 cloves-finely minced)

Salt pork (½ lb.-chopped)

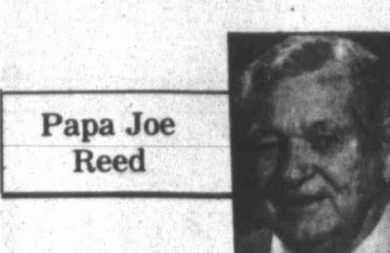

Tomato SaUce (1 can 8 oz.)

Salt (2 tsps.)

Red Pepper (just a pinch)

Chili powder (2 tsps.)

Let the red beans stand overnight in cold water. The next day measure the bean liquid and add 5 to 6 cups to the beans which have been mixed with the salt pork in a large baking dish. Now add the remaining ingredients, cover and bake in a 300 degree oven for about 4 to 5 hours, or until the beans are tender and the sauce has thickened slightly. You can add more water if necessary as the beans cook. Uncover the baking dish during the last half hour to brown the top and reduce the liquid. You might add some Picante Sauce to season this dish up just a little bit more. This is a delicious dish. It doesn't take long to prepare, just some time for cooking, but you can be doing other things during this time. Serve with cornbread.

Papa Joe Reed

Now for a dessert.

PAPA JOE'S CHERRY YUM-YUM

Cherry pie filling (1 can)

Graham crackers (1 pkg.)

Dream Whip (1 box)

Sugar (¾ cup)

Cream Cheese (1 8 oz. pkg.)

First, you prepare the Dream Whip according to the directions on the box. When stiff add the sugar and cream cheese. Next, in a glass dish, layer the crushed graham crackers, then ½ of the Dream Whip. Now add the cherry pie filling and the rest of the Dream Whip. Sprinkle cracker crumbs on the top and chill. Other pie fillings, such as blueberries may be substituted.

Guess who's crawling to dinner?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ants, worms and crickets on the table are usually enough to ruin a dinner. At the first Bug Banquet, they WERE dinner.

"Live caviar!" Robert Boyle, a member of the New York Entomological Society, said Wednesday night, crushing an ant in his mouth. He moved for another but was stopped by Raymond A. Mendez, a Museum of Natural History employee.

"One each. Only one each," Mendez chided.

"Can I eat my wife's?" Boyle asked.

Writers in tuxedos carried trays of hors d'oeuvres such as cricket and vegetable tempura, mealworm balls in zesty tomato sauce, wax worm fritters with plum sauce and sauteed Thai water bugs.

Alan Burdick feasts on a water bug and a kurrajong bug at the New York Entomological Society's Centennial Bug Banquet at the Explorer's Club in New York recently. The goal of the banquet is to heighten people's awareness of insects as a valuable source.

than berate, the chef.

Writers in tuxedos carried trays of hors d'oeuvres such as cricket and vegetable tempura, mealworm balls in zesty tomato sauce, wax worm fritters with plum sauce and sauteed Thai water bugs.

Main dishes were more conventional — roast beef with gravy or chicken and pasta. But there were seasoned cricket breads. And desserts included chocolate cricket torte and insect sugar cookies.

Because the entomological society couldn't find a restaurant that intentionally puts bugs in its food, it chose the caterer New York Parties to do the honors.

Diners found the crickets crunchy with a taste like that of mushrooms. The mealworms were chewy and tasted like fish. The ants tasted peachy. The wax worm fritters were nutty.

Crowds gathered to sample the live ants.

One by one, people who had never eaten an insect cupped an ant in their hand, paused for confidence and tossed it into their mouth like peanuts.

"It's good. It's really good," said Leah Frank, a society member.

"It was the scream that really was the worst part," she added with a devilish grin.

Nobody seemed to doubt the safety of the experience, especially after speaking to Norman Cooper, president of the National Pest Control Association.

"I know that these insects are clean," said Cooper, noting that most of the world's 900,000 insect species are not pests.

No-bake recipes win the prize

Everyone loves a winner, particularly if that winner happens to be a tasty dessert for the entire family.

That's the case in the first Woman's Day Magazine/Keebler Ready-Crust Pie Crust Recipe Contest. Peanut Crunch Pie, which won the $5,000 Grand Prize in the contest, is the creation of Eleanor Froehlich, a retired school teacher from Rochester, Michigan.

ELEANOR J. FROELICH — ROCHESTER, MI

PEANUT CRUNCH PIE
6 ounces peanut brittle, coarsely chopped

5 cups (2½ pints) vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

One 6-ounce butter-flavored Ready-Crust pie crust

½ cup milk chocolate chips or one 3-ounce bar milk chocolate, chopped

½ cup heavy (whipping) cream

¼ cup confectioners' sugar

¼ cup smooth peanut butter, at room temperature

Reserve some chopped peanut brittle for decoration.

Mix remaining brittle with the ice cream in a large bowl. Spoon into pie crust, mounding it in center. Smooth with a metal spatula, cover with foil and freeze at least 6 hours or overnight.

Stir chocolate chips and heavy cream in a medium-size saucepan over low heat until chocolate melts and mixture is smooth. Stir in confectioners' sugar and peanut butter until blended.

Put pie on waxed paper to catch drips. Pour chocolate mixture evenly over filling, spreading it quickly with a thin metal spatula (topping may flow over edge of pie). Freeze 1 hour or until topping is firm.

Just before serving, decorate with reserved brittle.

Makes 8 servings.

TOO GOOD TO BE MISSED

BERNICE C. KADEL — CALDWELL, ID

RAPID RASPBERRY PIE

1 quart good-quality vanilla ice cream, slightly softened

1 pint good-quality raspberry sherbert, slightly softened

Rapid Raspberry Pie

¼ cup raspberry liqueur (framboise) or thawed, undiluted raspberry-juice concentrate or thawed, undiluted cranberry-raspberry juice concentrate

One 6-ounce chocolate Ready-Crust (save the plastic lid)

For decoration: 1 cup fresh or frozen dry-pack raspberries and mint leaves or chocolate curls.

In a large bowl, preferably with an electric mixer, mix ice cream, sherbert and liqueur or juice concentrate until blended.

Scrape into pie crust. Smooth top, cover with plastic lid and freeze at least 1 hour until firm, or wrap airtight, label and freeze up to 1 month.

Remove from freezer 15 minutes before serving soften slightly. Garnish with raspberries and/or mint leaves or chocolate curls. Makes 8 servings.

PATRICIA CAHILL — PHILADELPHIA, PA

CINNAMON STICKY-BUN PIE

½ plus ¼ cup butterscotch ice-cream topping (from a jar)

One 6-ounce Graham Cracker Ready-Crust (save the plastic lid)

4 ounces cream cheese, at room

temperature

½ tsp. ground cinnamon

½ tsp. vanilla extract

2 cups (1 pint) vanilla ice cream, softened

½ cup dark raisins

¼ cup chopped walnuts

Pour ½ cup butterscotch topping over bottom of pie crust, spreading it gently with a thin spatula if necessary. Cover with plastic lid and refrigerate while preparing and chilling filling.

Beat cream cheese, cinnamon and vanilla with an electric mixer on high speed until smooth and fluffy. Scrape side of bowl, add ice cream and raisins, reduce mixer speed to medium and beat briefly to blend (don't worry if cream cheese doesn't mix in completely). Put bowl in freezer and chill 30 minutes to 1 hour, stirring several times, until mixture is firm but still spreadable.

Stir filling, then spoon into crust. Smooth top with a thin metal spatula. Cover with plastic lid and freeze at least 1 hour until firm.

Just before serving, drizzle with ¼ cup butterscotch topping and sprinkle with walnuts.

Makes 8 servings.

Brunch and supper, yum-yum

Let's say it Saturday and you've had a hectic week and you want to relax a little over the weekend. Well, Papa Joe has just the answer. Instead of three meals on Saturday, we'll just have two, brunch and supper.

The Brunch that we'll prepare is a dandy. A dear friend of mine makes it all the time and it's not only filling and will hold you over to supertime, but it's also delicious. We'll just call it a:

HAM AND PICANTE BREAKFAST CASSEROLE

Ham (1 cup-cooked and diced)

Eggs (8)

Onion (1 small-chopped)

Picante Sauce (¼ cup)

Salt and pepper (to taste)

First, beat the eggs and then add all the other ingredients. Pour into a greased 1½-quart casserole dish. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 30 to 35 minutes or until eggs are set real good. To make it really go over big, put on a pan of biscuits with it. When it's done, garnish with slices of cantaloupe or slices of fresh red tomatoes. What makes this dish so delicious is the Picante Sauce. I personally like to use the hot Picante Sauce, but everyone to his own taste. This is a breakfast that will be long remembered.

Now that we have brunch out of the way, let's think about supper tonight. We will want a good and filling supper. So we will have:

PAPA JOE'S MEXICAN BEAN BAKE

Beans (1 lb.-red beans)

Onion (1-medium-finely chopped)

Garlic (2 cloves-finely minced)

Salt pork (½ lb.-chopped)

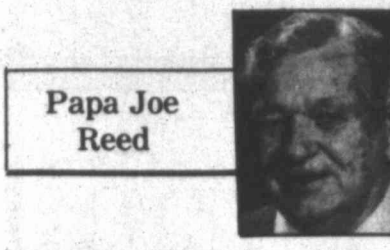

Tomato SaUce (1 can 8 oz.)

Salt (2 tps.)

Red Pepper (just a pinch)

Chili powder (2 tps.)

Let the red beans stand overnight in cold water. The next day measure the bean liquid and add 5 to 6 cups to the beans which have been mixed with the salt pork in a large baking dish. Now add the remaining ingredients, cover and bake in a 300 degree oven for about 4 to 5 hours, or until the beans are tender and the sauce has thickened slightly. You can add more water if necessary as the beans cook. Uncover the baking dish during the last half hour to brown the top and reduce the liquid. You might add some Picante Sauce to season this dish up just a little bit more. This is a delicious dish. It doesn't take long to prepare, just some time for cooking, but you can be doing other things during this time. Serve with cornbread.

Papa Joe Reed

Now for a dessert.

PAPA JOE'S CHERRY YUM-YUM

Cherry pie filling (1 can)

Graham crackers (1 pkg.)

Dream Whip (1 box)

Sugar (¾ cup)

Cream Cheese (1 8 oz. pkg.)

First, you prepare the Dream Whip according to the directions on the box. When stiff add the sugar and cream cheese. Next, in a glass dish, layer the crushed graham crackers, then ½ of the Dream Whip. Now add the cherry pie filling and the rest of the Dream Whip. Sprinkle cracker crumbs on the top and chill. Other pie fillings, such as blueberries may be substituted.

Guess who's crawling to dinner?

NEW YORK (AP) — Ants, worms and crickets on the table are usually enough to ruin a dinner. At the first Bug Banquet, they WERE dinner.

"Live caviar!" Robert Boyle, a member of the New York Entomological Society, said Wednesday night, crushing an ant in his mouth. He moved for another but was stopped by Raymond A. Mendez, a Museum of Natural History employee.

"One each. Only one each," Mendez chided.

"Can I eat my wife's?" Boyle asked.

Writers in tuxedos carried trays of hors d'oeuvres such as cricket and vegetable tempura, mealworm balls in zesty tomato sauce, wax worm fritters with plum sauce and sauteed Thai water bugs.

Alan Burdick feasts on a water bug and a kurrajong bug at the New York Entomological Society's Centennial Bug Banquet at the Explorer's Club in New York recently. The goal of the banquet is to heighten people's awareness of insects as a valuable source.

for their anniversary meeting.

Defoliart said he became interested in bugs as food in the mid-1970s while researching insects as a high-protein food for poultry. Insects are considered delicacies in many countries, he said.

At the banquet, 118 people paid between $45 and $65 to find bugs in their food and compliment, rather than berate, the chef.

Writers in tuxedos carried trays of hors d'oeuvres such as cricket and vegetable tempura, mealworm balls in zesty tomato sauce, wax worm fritters with plum sauce and sauteed Thai water bugs.

Main dishes were more conventional — roast beef with gravy or chicken and pasta. But there were seasoned cricket breads. And desserts included chocolate cricket torte and insect sugar cookies.

Because the entomological society couldn't find a restaurant that intentionally puts bugs in its food, it chose the caterer New York Parties to do the honors.

Diners found the crickets crunchy with a taste like that of mushrooms. The mealworms were chewy and tasted like fish. The ants tasted peachy. The wax worm fritters were nutty.

Crowds gathered to sample the live ants.

One by one, people who had never eaten an insect cupped an ant in their hand, paused for confidence and tossed it into their mouth like peanuts.

"It's good. It's really good," said Leah Frank, a society member.

"It was the scream that really was the worst part," she added with a devilish grin.

Nobody seemed to doubt the safety of the experience, especially after speaking to Norman Cooper, president of the National Pest Control Association.

"I know that these insects are clean," said Cooper, noting that most of the world's 900,000 insect species are not pests.

Questions about sex answered by sobering reality

DEAR ABBY: I am a fairly attractive 13-year-old girl. I have a problem that's been on my mind for a while, and I can't tell my best friend for fear of her disapproval. I don't think many girls have faced this. Here goes: I am afraid of dying, and I do not want to die a virgin. I have had a few invitations to have sex, but I did not, although I have gone kind of far with one guy.

I am a good student and very responsible person. But just lately, I have had the feeling that if something were to happen to me and I died, I will have missed out on an experience I probably wouldn't have a chance to have in heaven.

I am not saying I would run out and do it with just any guy — he would have to mean something special to me. Just thinking these thoughts makes me feel like a slut. Do you think I am terrible for thinking these thoughts? —MINNEAPOLIS GIRL sexually transmitted disease. That is why I urge teen-agers to consider the consequences of becoming sexually active.

DEAR ABBY: I was in a restaurant recently, seated near a family with two lovely children — a little girl about 7 and her baby sister, about 3. When the waitress brought the 7-year-old's soup, her little sister reached across the table for some crackers. Her mother asked her gently to please not reach across the table. The father said, "If you do that again, I'll take you outside and whip your butt!" My heart went out to those children.

I believe many people hit their children because they don't know any other way to discipline them.

But people can learn other ways in parenting classes at community colleges and local hospitals. Every library and bookstore has shelves filled with books explaining how to teach children proper behavior without resorting to physical force.

For example, this father could have said, "Put the crackers back, please, and when you have asked for them properly, you may have them." It may not work every time, but it will work if it's said consistently. It's vital that parents show respect for the dignity of their children.

Please, Abby, please print this so people will stop hitting and start talking to their precious children. I pray that you will think this is important enough to use in your column. — OREGON MOM

DEAR MOM: It is. And here's your letter.

Jeane Dixon

FOR THURSDAY, MAY 28, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY: IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: A new alliance could provide the impetus for a relocation or return to school. A summer vacation you spend in your own back yard could unify the family. A child's special needs could mean additional expenses next November. An overdue bonus or promotion comes in handy at year's end. Focus on a very special relationship early in 1993. Marriage is likely by next April. Make the most of your social contacts.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: basketball star Jerry West, singer Gladys Knight, actress Sondra Locke, Olympian Jim Thorpe.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Diplomacy and compromise will help you win over difficult clients. Spend time on activities that will boost your self-esteem. You are making steady progress on the romantic front.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You can clearly see the path to success, needing only to put your thoughts into words and action. Be a pillar of strength to relatives in distress. They will welcome you with open arms.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Important business details or communications could get lost in the mix today. Delays only compound the confusion. Stay alert! A young person's advice makes good sense.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You continue to exude power and charm. Actively promote a long-range endeavor and events at a distance. Your buying and selling expertise comes in handy.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Confidential talks can lead to new financial success or a quality buy. Also, distant or foreign sources may yield special findings. You are in touch with people who share your aims.

VIRO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If work pressures mount, a serious, steady manner is essential. Refuse to panic. New career or business opportunities surface through your friendships.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Someone who has both experience and administrative skills would make an ideal associate. Try to win this person over to your side. Those who are intuitive will evaluate a new trend correctly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your originality impresses those in authority. Seize an opportunity to advance a favorite cause. Business negotiations should go unusually well. Play your cards close to your chest.

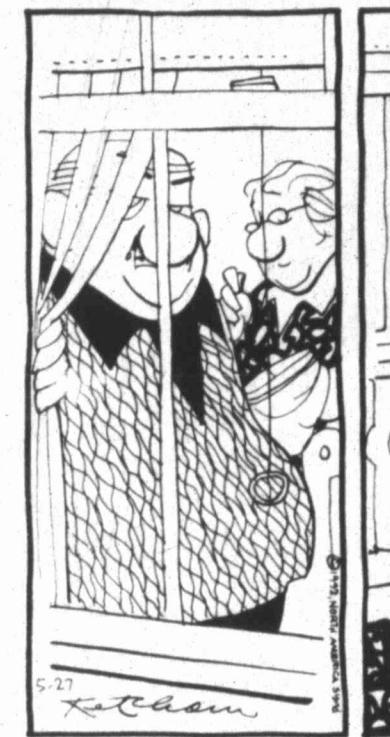

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The work scene could be pretty hectic today. Keep to your own space and duties. An opportunity to share your views will arise this evening. Trust your own intuition over friendly advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Tap your ESP or meet behind closed doors to find fame and fortune today. You will really wow an audience! In conversations with key personnel, watch a tendency to overstate your case. Go back to the one you love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your path will be a lot smoother if you do not insist on always getting your own way. Jovial chats bring freedom and fun, and that is your No. 1 priority. Be a team player.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You're most impressive today when dealing one-on-one. Light a fire under someone whose enthusiasm has cooled. Tying up some loose ends will help restore domestic harmony.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Give Five!

Giving five hours a week of your time and five percent of your income to the causes you care about can make a real difference in your community and in your own life as well.

That's the message of the Give Five campaign initiated by Independent Sector, a coalition of 850 national nonprofit organizations, foundations and corporate giving programs. According to that group, some 21 million Americans already give five percent or more of their income to the causes they care about—issues such as drug abuse, teen pregnancy, illiteracy, the arts, the environment, hunger—and 25.5 million people volunteer five or more hours each week through nonprofit organizations, religious institutions or simply helping a neighbor or friend in need.

Few efforts bring as much personal satisfaction as giving to a charity, community project, church or synagogue. Here are some tips to help you become a "fiver":

•Your schedule is unique to you. Therefore, you should arrange it to best meet your needs. Your five hours per week could be during lunch hours or two Saturdays a month or maybe even a weekend activity which could involve your family or friends. Your employer may even allow time during the day for community service.

•Individuals like yourself provide almost 85 percent of all contributions in America. To set a goal to give five percent of your household income, take stock of your current giving patterns. Plan to give more to the groups you already support. Give to those groups where you already volunteer your time. You may also find you're interested in other causes and want to find organizations addressing them.

•Never be afraid to ask any charity to provide written information such as an annual report and financial statements if you're interested in making a contribution.

•Choose how you want to make your contributions—whether monthly or even just once a year.

When you Give Five, you join millions of your fellow citizens in the important job of maintaining and enriching our quality of life. For more information, call 1-800-55-GIVE-5.

A Message to Women:

Preventing STDs Can Help Protect Your Fertility

Planning to have children sometime? Then protect yourself from sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) now. The care you take with your reproductive health today can affect your ability to have children next year, in five years, or even ten years down the road.

Why does your current health affect future fertility? Because the two most common STDs in the United States, chlamydia (klay-MID-ee-uh) and gonorrhea (gon-oh-REE-ah), are major causes of infertility in women. When left untreated, these infections can cause pelvic inflammatory disease (PID), an infection that damages the tubes or the lining of the uterus. One potential consequence of the damage to the tubes is ectopic pregnancy (pregnancy outside the uterus), which can threaten the life and reproductive health of the mother. At least 20,000—and perhaps as many as 50,000—women with PID end up infertile each year.

Despite the fact that these infections can be so devastating, many women fail to seek treatment. One reason may be that, often, women do not know they are infected because chlamydia and gonorrhea frequently have no symptoms. Also women may not find out they have an infection until they try—and fail—to become pregnant, perhaps years after they got the STD.

"Prevention is the key to avoiding this heartbreaking outcome of certain sexually transmitted diseases," says Michael Rosenberg, MD, MPH, of the University of North Carolina School of Medicine. "It is important for women to understand the risk of STDs and to consult their physicians about protecting themselves," he adds.

Up-to-date information about these diseases in women can be found in an easy-to-read pamphlet developed by SmithKline Beecham, makers of Massengill® douches, in consultation with a distinguished panel of medical experts. Available free of charge, the pamphlet provides information about the risk factors, transmission, warning signs, and prevention of the most common sexually transmitted diseases. To obtain your copy, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Massengill Health Education Program, Dept. 1B, P.O. Box 2466, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10163.

Your Family's Finances

Combining Your Financial Lives

Brides- and grooms-to-be, take note: Just as communication and compromise help make romantic dreams come true, they also make it easier to realize financial dreams and goals.

When planning your wedding, don't forget the financial side of your new partnership. Openness is essential when you merge your personal and financial lives, say experts at OppenheimerFunds, who offer these money management tips for newlyweds:

• Work together to create a monthly budget listing income and expenses. Decide now how you will share both expenses and paperwork, and then stick with the plan. Write down your financial goals. Take note: It's important that each partner keep some accounts in his or her own name to maintain individual credit history.

• Save a portion of your income on a systematic basis. In fact, mutual funds offer a convenient way of setting aside money on a regular basis. Two-income couples should strive to set aside one partner's paycheck from the time they marry.

• The younger you are, the more aggressive your investments can be, in particular if they're earmarked for long-term goals. However, for older couples, especially those combining two households in a second marriage, a less aggressive approach with more conservative investments might be more appropriate.

A professional advisor can help you and your spouse plan for a happy financial future.

• Update your records. Make a list of records that will require name changes—beneficiary on life insurance policies, pension plans and profit-sharing plans. Notify the Social Security Administration of your marriage so you'll become eligible for spouse's benefits. You may be able to adjust your auto insurance policy to take advantage of more favorable rates due to your marital status. Re-evaluate your property insurance coverage.

• For specific advice about financial planning, consult a professional advisor who is familiar with your individual situation and who can make appropriate recommendations.

To help organize your finances, call for a free copy of Oppenheimer Funds' financial planning guide, "Getting Your Financial House In Order." The toll-free number is: 1-800-525-7048.

THEY'RE NOW!

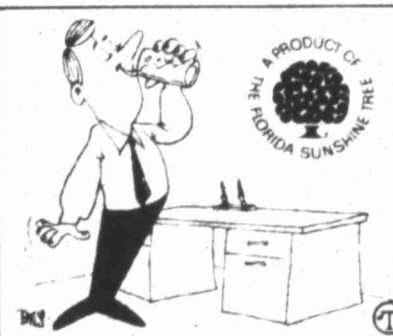

History has it that the gift an African Dinka tribesman prized most of all was the skin from the first lion his son had killed!

More pleasing to a modern day dad or other gent may be a fun floral tribute called the 4 x 4 Bouquet. New from the people at Teleflora, this macho machine, made of durable ceramic, carries a cargo of brightly colored flowers. The truck is available in three colors—red, black or blue—and comes with a page of stickers which you can use to personalize your gift, everything from the American flag to racing flags. It may be a runaway hit with your favorite fellow. Find the nearest Teleflora florist in your yellow pages.

For Your Health

Looking for a quick boost of clean, pure energy? One that's great tasting, without artificial ingredients? The next time you find the afternoon dragging at home or the office, give your day the feeling of a fresh start with a glass of delicious, refreshing Florida orange juice.

Florida provides the exact right proportions of warm sunny days, gentle rains and sandy soil to produce superior fruit. Florida oranges are rich in vitamins and minerals, and when they're squeezed, all that healthy goodness goes straight from Florida to you. Florida orange juice meets the world's toughest citrus standards for quality and purity. That burst of natural Florida energy is only as far away as your local supermarket...or your refrigerator.

Fried Green, Or Sun-Dried, Tomatoes Are In!

Tomatoes are so easy to grow, and so good to eat, they're the hands-down favorite of American gardeners. Strange to say, of the hundreds of kinds available, and thousands of ways to prepare them, most folks grow your basic "big boys" and serve them sliced on a burger or quartered in the salad. Here are some ideas for growing and serving something a little different in a "love apple" (medieval term for tomato) this year.

Growing Healthy Tomatoes: Buy short, stocky transplants with lots of deep, green foliage. Plant them deep, right up to the first set of leaves, and pour a cupful of liquid fertilizer solution, like Miracle-Gro®, into the hole. Stake or cage plants and apply a mulch to keep tomatoes clean and minimize pests and disease problems. Leave tomatoes on the vine 'til you're ready to use them for maximum flavor and vitamin C content.

Tomatoes for Sun-Drying: Make your own fancy, gourmet treats for pennies! Look for Italian plum tomatoes like San Marzano or Principe Borghese. When they're ripe, they can be dried in a food dryer, the kitchen oven, or even on screens outdoors. Some experts recommend blanching in boiling water first. See a book on preserving food for complete preparation and storage details.

Low-Cal Fried Green Tomatoes: Here's where to use those big boys. Dip thin slices in non-fat milk and coat with cornmeal flour. Fry in a butter-flavored non-stick spray like Pam 'til golden brown. Serve with turkey bacon for a healthy, old-fashioned country breakfast.

America's Best Beers Chosen

At the Ninth Annual Great American Beer Festival, held recently in Denver, a record 144 domestic breweries presented more than 475 different beers. Coors Brewing Company won three medals for brewing some of America's best beers.

At the two-day event, an expert panel of 21 professional judges from breweries of all sizes used blind tastings to determine the winners. Awards were given in 31 different beer categories.

Approximately 6,000 people attended the festival, which is the largest such event in the world.

"These awards represent some of the best tasting beer in America," said Daniel Bradford, director of the Great American Beer Festival. "This world-class competition is one of the most respected in the beer industry."

For the second year in a row, Coors Extra Gold won the first place gold medal for the best American Premium Lager, Coors Light won a second place silver medal in the American Light Lager category, and Winterfest won a silver medal in the Amber/Vienna category.

"Coors Extra Gold has set a new gold standard once again," said Gary Skovsted, Coors Extra Gold brand manager. "Extra Gold continues to outperform the competition in taste and color, qualities that our customers have come to expect from all Coors products."

MAKING LIFE MORE FUN

West Coast Wonder: A Lower-Calorie Version Of A Sweet Treat

It's the little things—a friendly greeting, a tasty candy bar, an uplifting article in a local paper—that sometimes make a big difference in your day.

The Mars® Milky Way II® Bar is a new version of a candy favorite that's as kind to your waistline as it is to your tastebuds. Weighing in quite favorably with consumers, the new Mars® Milky Way II® Bar has been called the first great-tasting lower-calorie candy bar. It's the same size as the traditional bar, yet offers 25 percent fewer total calories and 50 percent fewer calories from fat because of two ingredients: caprenin, a newly available fat with five calories per gram rather than the standard nine of other fats; and polydextrose, a complex carbohydrate with one calorie per gram versus four of other carbohydrates.

Combined with the familiar ingredients of the original bar—skim milk, egg whites, sugar and cocoa—it all adds up to a candy bar with the revolutionary ability to deliver great taste and enjoyment with fewer calories. Almost 90 percent of taste testers said the lower-calorie bar tastes every bit as good as the regular version. For a free brochure and cents-off coupon, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to M&M-Mars, 800 High St., Hackettstown, New Jersey 07840.

Helping the million-plus kids with ADHD

Steven is a strong, healthy 11 year old, but his parents are deeply concerned about some of the behavior he displays. Yesterday, Steven rode his bike straight through the flower garden without any apparent thought or reason. He talks incessantly out of turn, can't sit still at the dinner table, seems unable to concentrate on getting his homework done, and never finishes his chores on time.

Steven is one of the million-plus children in the U.S. who are known to have what doctors call ADHD: Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder.

Perhaps the worst aspect of ADHD is that children may know they are not functioning right but don't know just how to "put on the brakes," much less how to communicate their pain and frustration.

Fortunately, Patricia Quinn, M.D., a developmental pediatrician, and Judith Stern, M.A., a special education teacher, have just published a unique new book for ADHD kids and their families. It's called Putting on the Brakes: Young People's Guide to Understanding ADHD.

Designed specifically for readers ages eight to 13, Putting on the Brakes talks warmly and directly about what ADHD is and what it isn't, what it feels like to have it, and how to go about functioning in spite of it. It gives helpful advice on better ways of doing homework, how to remember chores, and how to exercise self-control in the classroom. ADHD kids will enjoy reading it on their own or sharing it with their parents, siblings, peers, and/or helping professionals.

Putting on the Brakes is now available at your local bookstore. It can also be ordered ($8.95 plus $2 shipping) by calling toll free 1-800-825-3089, or by mail through Magination Press, Dept. Q, 19 Union Square West, NY, NY 10003. HB928991

GIVE CHILDREN A SAFER CHOICE ON THE FOURTH

According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, each year, thousands of people are injured by fireworks during the four-week period surrounding July 4th.

An alternative to these dangerous products is Magic In The Night Lite-Ropes — slim, flexible plastic tubes that glow in the dark for the entire evening. Lite-Ropes do not explode like firecrackers or burn like sparklers.

Magic In The Night Lite-Ropes are easy to use — just bend, snap and shake the tube for a glow that lasts up to 12 hours. They do not need to be frozen, and are easy for children to carry to barbecues, parties or community fireworks displays.

June is Scleroderma Awareness Month

June is Scleroderma Awareness Month, established to promote public awareness of scleroderma, an autoimmune connective tissue disease that affects an estimated 300,000 Americans.

Scleroderma, also known as systemic sclerosis, is a chronic disease of unknown origin that causes collagen, the basic component of the body's connective tissue, to over-produce. It usually tightens the skin, and can affect the stomach, lungs, heart and kidneys. As yet, there is no cure for this potentially fatal disease.

For more information, contact the Scleroderma Federation, 1182 Teaneck Rd., Teaneck, NJ, 07666, 201-837-9826. HB929132

Tony's Service specializing in Office & Industrial Maintenance

Tony's Services, Inc. owned and operated by Antonio and Eileen Zant Rodriguez began over several cups of coffee and a Fortune 500 publication some 10 years ago. Tony was employed at the time at the Cosden Research Lab and it was being moved to Houston and Tony, with his roots in Big Spring did not want to move to Houston. Eileen was employed at Swartz and after opening a Singer dealership was ready to have a business of her own again. Tony being the son of Chon Rodriguez, who had a restaurant background of Mexican food restaurants in Big Spring, decided there was not a big need for any more in the area. In reading Fortune's 500 list of businesses that did not require a large amount of capitol and a janitorial business was on the list, Tony did his research, visiting suppliers for janitorial supplies best for the area that did or did not work. Also equipment and testing the supplies. Tony's Services was born April 1, 1982. Hooper Sanders and Granville Hahn encouraged Tony and became our first account. At the present time we have fifteen regular accounts and several occasional accounts that we do once a month. Tony's Services was incorporated May 1, 1988 specializing in office and industrial maintenance. Also we specialize in all phases of stripping vinyl floors, ceramic, quarry tile, flagstone and parquet floors. We also do window cleaning as well. We now employ from 12 to 15 employees full time and part time. They are trained in their jobs and have become part of our family. We carry a $2,000,000 liability insurance and workmen's comp insurance and we are proud of our no accident record. For the future, we are planning to offer a complete "spring cleaning service" for residences. We believe in Big Spring, we're members of the Chamber of Commerce and want to do everything we can to improve the quality of life in Big Spring.

This is the main reason we decided to build an office building at 1906 S. Birdwell in Big Spring. Our new buildings will have offices, coffee bar for employees and friends, restrooms, and storage room. It will include a warehouse for our machinery and vehicles. We expect it to be finished and in operation by Sept. 1, 1992.

As soon as Tony and Eileen can agree about the trees to keep on the land the building will begin. In the mean time, call Tony's Services at 267-6027 for your specialized cleaning service.
