BSHS Steers to play Lamesa on Midland Angels diamond

Big Spring High School's state quarter final baseball game is set for Thursday night at 6 p.m. at Angel Stadium in Midland against Lamesa.

Lamesa defeated Saginaw Boswell 4-3 Thursday in Abilene in eight innings. The winner of the Big Spring-Lamesa game goes to Austin for the state 4-A semi-finals.

The Steers, at 14-13-1, are one of only two teams left in the 4-A playoffs with less than 20 wins on the year. Big Spring has defeated Lamesa, 22-6, once in three tries this season.

BSHS graduates 211 seniors

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Brothers, sisters, parents and grandparents applauded as 211 Big Spring High School graduates received their diplomas Thursday — the 12th BSHS class to observe commencement exercises at the Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

RELATED STORY — 7A

"It is only in the dictionary that success comes before work... you can't build a reputation on what you are going to do," said guest speaker Rotary International president Rajendra K. Saboo of Chandigarh, India. Saboo was in Big Spring as part of a worldwide tour of hometowns of Rotary International directors. It was his only stop in Texas and he addressed the graduates during a break between a reception and banquet in his honor.

Saboo used his successes in India as an example for the students. "Imagine what you can accomplish in this great country of opportunity."

In a humorous vein, Saboo quoted boxer Sugar Ray Leonard's commencement address saying, "We have all been blessed with God-given talents, mine just happens to be beating people up."

Saboo told the graduates that their worth will be measured by the service they perform, and that they should never succumb to defeat.

Saboo said ethics can sustain one through difficult times and told the graduates to always listen to their conscience.

"These hard times will make us stronger and will make us appreciate our successes," class president Brooke Arrick said in her address.

"No one is a failure who puts forth their best effort — You'll feel better about yourself for the simple reason that you tried," she said.

The commencement is the culmination of 12 years of hard work, said Valedictorian Travis

Lottery sales hot as locals bet odds

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

State lottery ticket sales in Big Spring are soaring on its first day, according to early-morning reports. So is enthusiasm.

"I'm going to win $10,000 today!" declared George Martinez, 26, of Big Spring Taxi, who won $5 when he bought his first ticket, which sell for $1, at the 7-Eleven on Gregg and 8th a half hour after sales began at 6 a.m.

"I'm usually lucky," said Martinez, who cashed in his winnings for five more scratch-off tickets, won $2 and cashed that in for two more tickets. He said he was going to wait until he sat down to eat breakfast before he scratched off the other two tickets.

"I feel pretty good," said George Becker, 65, of Sand Springs, who won $10 after buying two tickets at the same store. He bought two more tickets with the prize money but did not win again.

Just as enthusiasm is running rampant, so is pessimism. "I could throw more money away than I would ever return," said one man who came into the store.

"So many times I've tried, I've never had luck," a woman said.

Printed on the back of the tickets is a toll-free phone number for those who have or know someone with compulsive gambling problems.

The 7-Eleven store manager, Ray Wagner, estimates they sold more than 250 tickets of the "Lone Star Millions" game by 9 a.m. Of those, at least 31 were winners: one $10, five $5 and 25 $2 tickets.

"Much better than I realized," Wagner said. "I think it's going to get a lot better before the day's over."

Sharon Horton gets an early start on the lottery craze sweeping the state today as she and others were at Don's IGA for a lottery party which began at 6 a.m. Many in attendance won $2 from winning tickets, with one $50 ticket received early on.

RI president visits BS

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Rotary International members from around the country gathered in Big Spring Thursday for the visit of Rotary International President Rajendra K. Saboo.

Saboo, a businessman from Chandigarh, India, attended a ceremonial tree planting at Howard College, attended a Rotary banquet in his honor and spoke to the Big Spring High School class of 1992 during his one-day visit to the city.

Rotary International presidents spend one year in office. Since his inauguration on July 1, Saboo has traveled to 43 countries and met with numerous heads of state and has even spoken before the United Nations General Assembly.

Saboo's purpose as president is to carry the message of world peace and to present RI's programs. Rotary International is dedicated to community service, preserving the environment, coordinating youth exchange programs, working to eradicate polio and improving health, eliminating hunger and promoting world peace and understanding, according to RI literature.

The tree planted at HC, a Bradford pear, is the first of more than 2,000 trees to be planted in Big Spring by the two local Rotary Clubs in a community beautification project, which is done in concert with other RI clubs, planting millions of trees around the world.

Saboo, who represents 1.1 million RI members in 182 countries, also examined the local RI club's literacy program while in Big Spring.

In a meeting at the Days Inn Thursday, Texas Rep. Troy Fraser, R-Big Spring, presented Saboo with a Texas flag, which was flown over the state capital the day before, Fraser said.

Fraser also had documents from Texas House Speaker Gib

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, and Gov. Ann Richards applauding Saboo and making him an honorary Texan, granting state citizenship, Fraser said.

When asked what he thought of the state, Saboo said, "For Texas, you don't need to have

Perot turns to satellite rallies

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Unofficial presidential candidate Ross Perot is pressing the flesh in Florida and beaming his voice and face to five other states in trying out a rally-by-satellite that some say — and worry — is the campaign style of the future.

The billionaire businessman, whose name is already on ballots in nine states, plans to substitute extensive reliance on satellite communications for typical barnstorming.

"This is a practical way of campaigning, I hope," said Perot spokesman James Squires. "That's the old way — go five different places and spend all that time going and no time there."

In Orlando today, Perot's stage will be an old-fashioned campaign venue — a livestock pavilion stage on which he'll be flanked by 150 bales of hay and a huge map of the nation, organizers said.

But the barn scene will be broadcast by satellite link to rallies in Ohio, Alabama, Kansas, Wyoming and Idaho, from where supporters will be able to ask Perot questions.

The red-white-and-blue affair is expected to draw a caravan of buses and 5,000 people, according to Perot organizer Kevin Burnett in Florida.

Satellite appearances are nothing new in politics. But substituting travel for television is, analysts said.

"I think he may lose something by doing it that way," said Brookings Institution analyst Stephen Hess. "He might have learned some things if he had gone out, shook hands and met a lot of people. You can't do that sitting in a studio and talking to another studio."

"I don't doubt that other people will pick up on this because it can be very efficient," Hess said. "This has been coming for a long time. With or without Perot, we're getting there. And in some ways we're the poorer for it."

Squires said Perot has no trouble drawing attention, and has no need to raise money. Traditional campaigning, at least for now, isn't necessary in Perot's opinion.

"We asked why everyone does it the other way, and none of the questions and none of the answers apply to this deal," Squires said. "This really is nothing more than being practical."

Some experts wondered whether Perot can sustain enthusiasm for his campaign, and convince voters he wants the job, without a hectic coast-to-coast effort.

"How people will care about that, I'm not sure," said Duke University presidential scholar James David Barber. "There is so much television now, and people have so much relation to it, that they may not really mind."

2 indictments dismissed in reverse sting operation

MIDLAND (AP) — The dismissal of two indictments against a former Department of Public Safety drug investigator in connection with a 1989 reverse sting shows prosecutors are backpeddling, defense attorneys say.

State prosecutors have dropped two indictments against former DPS investigator Ronald Tucker with plans to re-indict Tucker in Dallas.

A separate indictment against Tucker for aggravated perjury remains intact in Ward County.

Tucker's attorney, Ted Painter of Monahans, says the state attorney general's office is "backing off the case because the state has no case."

Meanwhile, a Midland County grand jury has asked the state to continue investigating Midland Sheriff Gary Painter's role in reverse drug sting operations.

The Midland County grand jury, which was impaneled for a six-month term last September by 142nd Texas District Court Judge Pat Baskin, was forced to disband this week.

The grand jury requested and was granted a 90-day extension in February, but state law allows only one extension.

"Our grand jury believes that it was unable to complete its investigation of circumstances, facts, records, results and effects of 'reverse stings' in which Midland County personnel and resources were involved," Frank Kell Cahoon, grand jury foreman, said in a letter Wednesday to Assistant Texas Attorney General Shane Phelps.

Phelps has led an ongoing grand jury probe into Gary Painter's role in reverse stings, in which law officers pose as drug dealers.

"They ran out of time," Phelps said. "An investigation of this nature requires a lot of work. The grand jury was just frustrated that they didn't get to finish the work that they started. We are going to do everything we can to honor the wishes of the grand jury."

The state is looking into allegations that Gary Painter misused nearly seven tons of confiscated marijuana as bait to seize about $6 million in cash and assets from drug dealers in reverse stings in 1989 and 1990.

Gary Painter has said the grand jury investigation is frivolous and denies any wrongdoing.

Phelps also headed the investigation of a Ward County grand jury which handed down two indictments against Tucker for misapplication of fiduciary property and theft in a reverse sting in August 1989.

But on Wednesday, Phelps said "some of the facts in the case suggested that it may be in the best interest of the state to try the case in Dallas."

Phelps' motion to dismiss the Ward County indictments against Tucker was granted by visiting Judge Larry Fuller in the 143rd District Court in Monahans.

Brownwood could face KKK suit

FORT WORTH (AP) — Brownwood city officials likely will have to grant a loudspeaker permit for a Ku Klux Klan rally planned in June or risk being sued, the mayor said.

The City Council will discuss restrictions and security for the June 26 Klan rally during a special meeting Tuesday morning before deciding whether to issue the permit.

"It seems that it has been made clear to us by the Klan that if the permit is not granted then litigation will follow," Mayor Bert Massey said. "The long and short of it is, my opinion is that we are going to have no choice but to grant that permit."

Massey made his comment during a council meeting Tuesday.

A newly formed Hispanic group is planning a "unification" rally for Brownwood, about 120 miles southwest of Fort Worth, while the Klan rally is in progress.

Brownwood school board member Raul Martinez said the unification rally will be sponsored by Concerned Hispanics of Brown County.

"This is in response to the Klan coming," Martinez said.

Hispanics make up about 30 percent of the county's 34,000 people, he said.

Massey said the state's Klan grand dragon, Michael Lowe of Waco, called City Attorney William Bell several days ago and threatened a lawsuit if the council does not grant the loudspeaker permit.

Bell did not comment on the matter.

Massey, who is an attorney, cited several cases in which towns and cities had to grant permits for parades or public address systems to the Klan, sometimes after losing court battles to the group.

Names in the news

NEW YORK — Horror writer Stephen King is suing the producers and distributors of "The Lawnmower Man," saying the film had virtually nothing to do with his short story of the same name.

Aside from the title and one brief scene, the film "bore no meaningful resemblance" to the story he published in the 1970s, King said in court papers. King's story tells of a homeowner who is killed by the man he hires to cut his lawn. The movie centers on a dimwitted gardener whose intelligence level was raised through computer experiments. The lawsuit seeks all profits "attributable to the use of Stephen King's name" in the movie, which has grossed more than $30 million. King also wants the court to block the use of his name in connection with the movie and a planned comic book, and to force Allied Vision Ltd., a British company which bought the movie rights and produced the film, to publish a correction to its advertising. Allied's Los Angeles lawyer, Roger Sherman, wasn't available for comment, his secretary said.

NEW YORK — The slaying of his closest friend in a drug deal lured Gregory Hines to the Broadway stage. Hines, in Sunday's Parade magazine, said he was content working as a busboy and playing in a band until 1977, when he learned his lifelong friend, Dalbert Clark, had been shot to death.

"It turned my life around. I realized I was not invulnerable," Hines said. He left California for New York, resumed his career and soon became a Broadway star. Hines, 45, is playing jazz pioneer Jelly Roll Morton in "Jelly's Last Jam." He has been nominated for Tony awards for that role and for collaborating on choreography.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A $1,600 guitar autographed by singer Garth Brooks is among the items being sold to help finance a police day camp for inner-city youths.

A compact disc and poster set autographed by Kenny Rogers are also up for grabs. Officer Allen Harold, an organizer of Saturday's police auction, said it is the only fundraiser for the camp. Brooks' album "Ropin' the Wind" recently topped both country and pop charts.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. —

Country singer Kathy Mattea will have surgery on her vocal cords in June.

Bob Tittle, her manager, said Thursday that the outpatient surgery is needed to seal a small blood vessel.

Waste may be tip of iceberg

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the same time the Philadelphia Housing Authority was facing monumental maintenance problems at its homes and apartments, its board awarded a $1,900-an-hour consulting contract to its executive director.

Taxpayers may also have been charged up to $9 million for upkeep on nearly 500 non-existent homes that languished in the agency's files.

Those findings, stemming from a federal audit of the Philadelphia agency, were scrutinized Thursday by a House subcommittee probing waste and mismanagement at public housing agencies across the nation.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development took control of the city authority last week after its chairman, Jonathan A. Saidel, said the agency was too mired in political corruption to oversee federal funding.

HUD is conducting similar audits in 10 other cities and Puerto Rico and expects to have some of them finished this year. They include: New Haven, Conn.; Newark, N.J.; Toledo, Ohio; Cleveland, Ohio; Jacksonville, Fla.; Houston; Kansas City; Los Angeles; San Francisco and Washington, D.C.

HUD officials told the housing and employment subcommittee of the House Government Operations Committee that in the Washington audit they have found instances where painters worked only four hours during an eight-hour shift.

They also said the District of Columbia is paying $110,000 annually to heat a warehouse where the windows are smashed.

But most of the hearing was devoted to the battered walls, broken windows and rotting floors in homes administered by the Philadelphia Housing Authority.

Subcommittee chairman Tom Lantos, D-Calif., grilled Saidel and HUD officials on the lucrative contract awarded to Gregory A. Kern days before he resigned as the Philadelphia authority's executive director.

Saidel, who also serves as Philadelphia's city controller, acknowledged that Kern's contract was exorbitant and "should not have been done." Although he voted to approve the contract, he maintained he didn't recall its content or how the hourly rate was calculated.

The $40,976 contract, according to the HUD audit, called for one hour of work each week over a five-month period. After Lantos read part of the audit aloud, he asked Saidel if any details came back to him.

"No they don't," Saidel said. "I don't remember what happened two years ago."

PHA officials also found themselves on the defensive for accepting federal subsidies for the non-existent homes. According to the audit, the housing authority received federal stipends for 495 homes that had been demolished, some as long ago as the early 1970s.

Bosnia-Herzegovina's capital battered today

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Serb-led forces unleashed a barrage on the capital of Bosnia-Herzegovina early today, setting buildings ablaze with mortars, heavy artillery and rockets, reports from Sarajevo said.

"It was a night of horror and destruction," said the Belgrade-based Tanjug news agency.

Sarajevo radio reported that rockets from multibarrel launchers, artillery and mortars, fired by Serb forces in the hills around Sarajevo, indiscriminately hit all parts of the city.

Many buildings were set ablaze and snipers prevented firemen from reaching the fires, the radio said.

Ground forces also battled around Sarajevo airport and in the adjacent Dobrinja residential suburb, which Serbs have been trying for weeks to occupy.

Croatian radio in Zagreb quoted Bosnian government journalists as saying at least six people were killed and 30 wounded. The radio also reported that two U.N. officers were wounded in the shelling.

But U.N. spokesman Mike Magnusson said in Zagreb he could not confirm that report because officials had not been able to reach the team remaining in Sarajevo.

At least 2,200 people have died and thousands have been wounded in fighting that erupted after Slavic Muslims and Croats, nearly 60 percent of Bosnia's 4.3 million people, voted on Feb. 29 to secede from Yugoslavia. Serbs, about a third of the population, want to remain united with their brethren in neighboring Serbia.

On Thursday, the Serbian Orthodox Church denounced Serbia's government, thousands rallied against President Slobodan Milosevic, and several nations blamed Serbia for the bloodshed in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

The church's Bishops Conference indirectly called for Milosevic to step down.

Winners but losers

Holders of bottlecaps mistakenly flashed as winners of a Pepsi-Cola promo gather for the 4th day Friday outside its Quezon City, Philippines, plant to demand full payment ($38,000 U.S. dollars) due them instead of the mere $19 dollars Pepsi is offering for its mistake. The flap began when Pepsi erroneously flashed "349" as winning numbers but corrected it the next day to "134."

Miller wants Confederate emblem off

ATLANTA (AP) — Gov. Zell Miller wants the Confederate battle emblem removed from Georgia's state flag before visitors to Atlanta for the 1996 Olympics find out why it is there.

Miller said Thursday that Georgia could be embarrassed if a global audience learns that lawmakers added the emblem in 1956 — more than 90 years after the Civil War ended — to express their loathing for school desegregation.

"What we fly today is not an enduring symbol of our heritage, but the fighting flag of those who wanted to preserve a segregated South in the face of the civil rights movement," Miller said at a news conference.

"We need to lay the days of segregation to rest," the first-term Democrat said. "We need to do what is right."

Miller noted that the Super Bowl, pro football's championship game, will be held in Atlanta two years before the Olympics.

Effects of moral dogma should be considered

OK, look, this has gone just about far enough.

I try not to broach this subject out of hand, but if Dan "The Pinhead" Quayle is going to lambast a fictitious television character for deciding to have a child out of wedlock, while at the same time foisting his anti-abortion stance, I just have to speak up.

I mean, come on there Dan-forth. It's got to be one or the other!

Apparently, and much to my dismay, members of the radical right seem fully capable of believing and trying to enforce moral dogma without examining the social effects of those beliefs.

Sexuality, and the consequences thereof, are a universal and integral part of humanity. This is not something that can be neatly controlled by a governmental proclamation of "don't do that."

Maybe parents can instill celibacy into their children and maybe they can't — there are just no guarantees.

I know of a former Big Spring preacher who sent his daughter to a mental institution because she was having sex with a boy of a different race.

Personally, I don't think that was a very well-thought-out solution.

People have been having sex out of wedlock since the dawn of time, and shortly after the first civilizations reached a level of sophistication — about the bronze age — abortions became part of the human equation.

Funny I know women around the state that had abortions in their youth, and because they were not burdened with an unplanned child, are now educated and successful. They have found good lives and husbands, most of them, and are the parents of well-cared-for children with a bright future.

But if you try to pin them down, some of them will tell you today that they are against abortion. Go figure.

In the Murphy Brown scenario, one would think someone of a staunch anti-abortion stance would admire a woman, a successful woman, that decided to bring an unwanted pregnancy to fruition, but this is not the case.

The actual agenda here, of course, is not abortion, but the intolerance of other people's sexual choices.

While I consider myself pro-choice (Hey, a newspaper without at least one liberal can't be trusted), the use of abortion instead of contraceptive is abhorrent even to me. And thirdtrimester abortions should be restricted (as they are in almost every state.)

But let's explore the facts before branding people with the scarlet letter.

People have always had premarital sex. That's never going to change.

Like it or not, more teenagers are having sex at a younger age than at any other time in American history. (But not in the history of the world.)

The mother instinct is far too strong to expect most unwed mothers to give up their babies for adoption.

The chances of a woman being able to get an education and support herself without government assistance declines markedly with the birth of a child.

Poverty breeds poverty. A child born into poverty will likely live in poverty and bear more children into poverty.

Unplanned children suffer far greater incidents of physical and sexual abuse and neglect.

A majority of U.S. citizens support freedom of choice.

The Lord said go forth, be fruitful and multiply. Well, we did that. There are 5 billion of us — it's a done deal.

So keep in mind that if the right to safe and legal abortion is removed, thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, of women will be forced to forgo all dreams and aspirations — to raise children in poor conditions. Children that will statistically stand far greater chances of leading a life of crime and poverty.

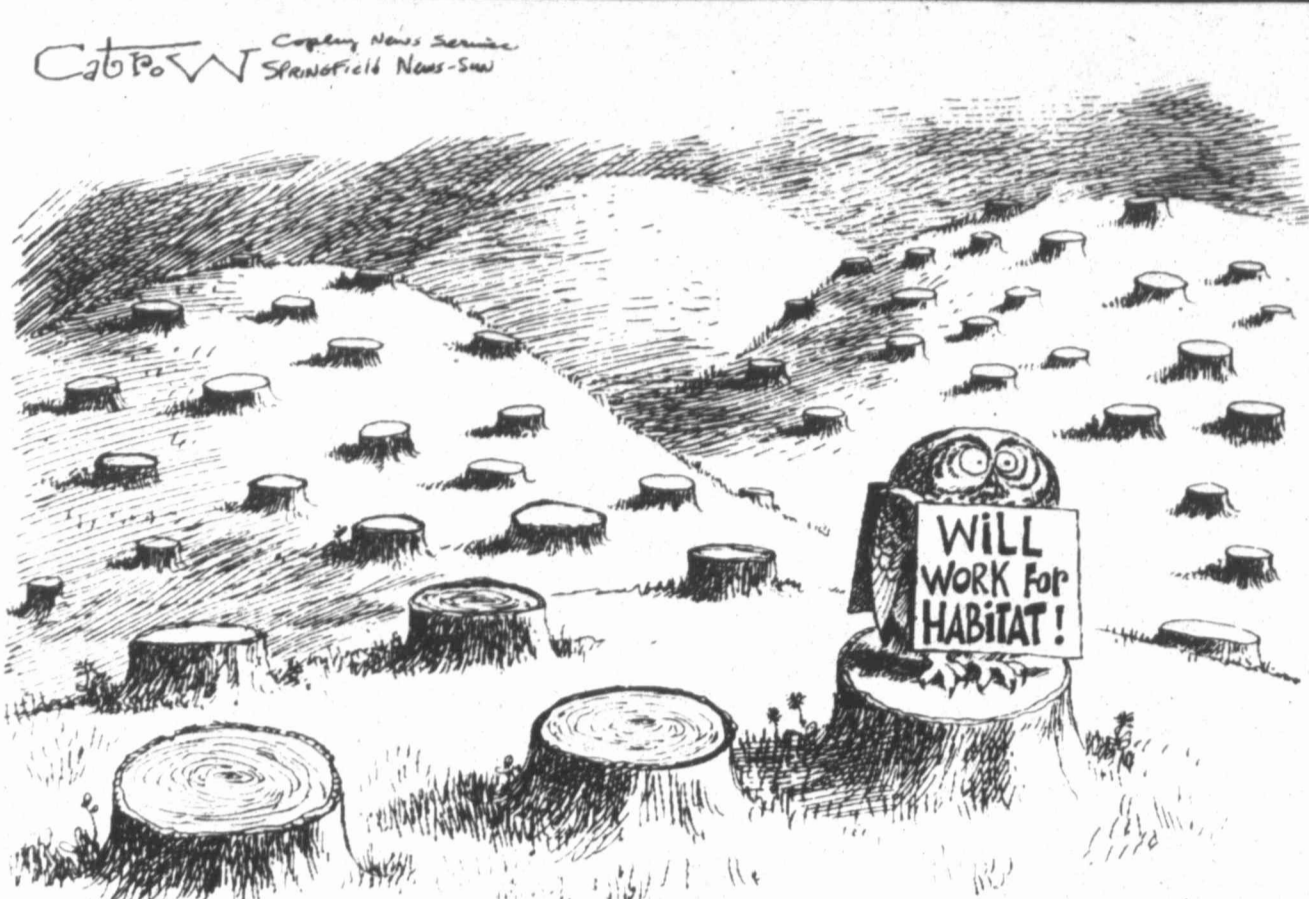

And who is going to help these poverty stricken people get an education or training for a decent job? Not some right-wing flunky like Quayle, who was born with a silver foot in his mouth.

Everyone has to make their own way. If you offer assistance and guidance, you're part of the solution. If you mandate people into poverty and degradation, you're part of the problem.

I don't claim to have all the answers. I just want people to beware of those who think they do.

The writer's art

One more go at 'lie' and 'lay'

Some months ago a gentleman in Glendale Heights, Ill., sent me a small joke.

A mother and a father were doing the supper dishes one chilly evening in October when Ma said to Pa, "It's weather like this makes me think of our two daughters layin' up there in the cemetery."

"Yeah," said Pa, "sometimes I almost wish them girls were daid."

Well, that's one use for the troublesome verb "to lay" and its mischievous cousin "to lie." The English language has more than 300 irregular verbs, but none of them is more often misused than lay or lie. Consider:

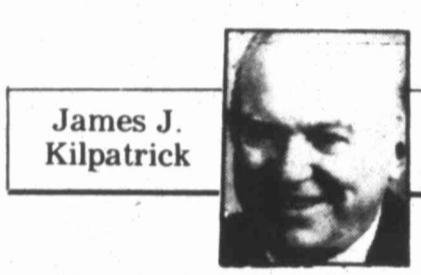

Comedian Andy Rooney: "In kindergarten we were told to spread out our blankets on the floor and lay down for what was called the 'rest period.'" The teacher should have told them to "lie down."

From the Copley News Service, on garage sales: "Sometimes elegant antiques lay hidden underneath dozens of coats of paint." The antiques lie hidden.

From Reuters: In Phoenix last year, nine persons in a Buddhist temple were murdered in cold blood "after being forced to lay down." They were ordered to lie down.

From the Vero Beach (Fla.) Press-Journal, quoting a member of the state legislature: "Sembler said he is awed by the amount of work that lays ahead." The work lies ahead.

And this one, from the Chicago Tribune a couple of years ago, reporting on Homecoming Week at Buffalo Grove High School: "The week of wholesome wackiness replaces a cruel 'Animal House' mentality which underlied homecomings at Buffalo Grove in the mid-1930s."

Underlied! Aaargh! The confusion results from the pestiferous fact that the principal parts of "lie" are lie, lay, lain, lying. And the tenses of "lay" are lay, laid, laid, laying. It is awfully easy to get them mixed up.

The easy rule for writers to remember is that "lay" takes an object, but "lie" never does. We lay all sorts of things. Hens and humorists lay eggs. Armies lay siege. Sociologists lay blame. We lay bricks, we lay traps, we lay our cards on the table. When we fire a worker, we lay him off. When we buy a coat on time, we lay it away.

In contrast, the uses of "lie" are more limited. Mostly we just lie down. A ship lies alongside another; it may also lie to. A book lies on a table. An assassin lies in ambush. A remedy lies in taking aspirin. We say of a chronic loafer that he lies down on the job. The bum lay down yesterday. He has lain down on the job for months.

Once a writer gets the hang of lie and lay, it becomes almost impossible for the writer to mess up the two verbs. Remember the rule: If the verb takes an object, it has to be "lay." I have yet to see a mason lying bricks.

On the general subject of verbs: Nine times out of 10 the correct past tense of "to fly" is going to be "flew." Lindbergh flew to Paris. A chicken flew the coop. The children flew kites. A stagehand flew a set.

The exception has to do with baseball. The Bristol (Va.) Herald-Courier reported a few years back that an outstanding college player broke a 58-game hitting streak: "He flew out to center in the first inning, flew out to deep left center in the third, and flew out to short center in the seventh."

Did this remarkable slugger flew out? No, sir. The athlete flied out.

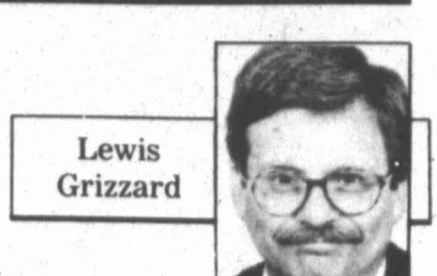

The verb "to hang" has its own little rule. A picture is hung. A criminal is hanged.

What about "to bite"? In Fort Walton, Fla., the Daily News reported last November that two children and a teacher "were bit" by a monkey at Holley-Navarre Elementary School. Here you have a choice of "bit" or "bitten." Either is acceptable. I prefer "bit" because the word has a hard edge to it, like an animal's tooth.

In November 1990, The Denver Post headlined a rhetorical question: "Can Mayor Pena Be Beaten?" Here again the lexicographers offer a choice — beat or beaten. I like "beaten." It sounds more beat-up than beat.

The past participles of bite and beat are a writer's choice: one syllable or two? No such tolerance is allowed for lie and lay. Remember the bookie! His customers don't lie bets, they lay them.

Best thing Quayle ever said

The word used to be whispered because it was not polite to throw it around loosely in mixed company.

It was a damning word, a word that would bring heightened interest whenever it was mentioned. The word is "bastard."

I have never liked the word because the one so labeled had done nothing whatsoever to warrant such a harsh word.

The word, the label, means illegitimate. Not genuine. It even implies an outcast.

But a child of unwed parents has no more responsibility for the circumstances he or she greets at birth than a child born in wedlock.

I've always thought it is the unwed parents who should be stuck with a derogatory label not the child.

It is the child, not the parents, who suffers most when marked by society as unkind to the rest of the flock.

I knew I was different as a child, because I was the only one in my circle without a father living in my home.

That was back when divorce was a bad word.

It hurt. It hurt when older children would taunt me and ask me, "Where's your daddy?"

Perhaps some of the weaknesses and some of the fears I have as an adult may be traced back to being raised in a single parent home.

But I did know my mother and my father were married at the time of my birth. Had I been illegitimate the situation would have been even worse than being a child of divorce.

The vice president of the United States is being labeled a buffoon because he said a fictional television character having an illegitimate child "mocked" the importance of fathers by bearing a child alone.

Dan Quayle — and I quote from a news article — said many of the problems that led to the recent riots in Los Angeles stem from "a breakdown in traditional families with babies born irresponsibly" and fathers renegeing on support.

The New York Daily News ran this headline: Quayle to Murphy Brown: "YOU TRAMP!"

The vice president has said a number of stupid things since becoming vice president. But it wasn't stupid of him to say that it doesn't make it any easier to convince poor, urban, young women not to have illegitimate children if television episodes featuring someone who could easily be called a role model gives birth to an illegitimate child in front of 38 million viewers.

In fact, it may be the very best thing Dan Quayle has said since becoming vice president.

I realize and Dan Quayle realizes Murphy Brown is a fictional character, but Warren Beatty and Annette Bening aren't. They also produced an illegitimate child, and damned if they weren't hailed as couple of the year on magazine covers.

Dan Quayle hit it on the head. He spoke of "a poverty of values."

Isn't that the truth? When something as important as making sure you're married before you have a baby is lost on the rich and famous, it, in fact, trickles down to the have-nots, and God help us what value will be the next to go.

Danny Boy, I heard ya.

Steers hoop coach going to Stephenville

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

Stephenville High School has lured another basketball coach away from Big Spring. Steers boys head basketball coach Tommy Washington recently turned in his resignation to become head boys basketball coach for the Yellowjackets.

Washington joins former Big Spring girls coach C.F. Carmichael, who left Big Spring for Stephenville three years ago. Washington came to Big Spring from Crane where he was an assistant and led the Steers to the playoffs one of the three years he coached here. His first year the Steers went 5-24 and 4-10 in district for a sixth place finish. His second season the Steers made the state playoffs. They were 14-18 overall and 9-4 in district play, finishing second. They were defeated in the area round of the playoffs by Lamesa. This past season the Steers were 14-17 overall and 9-3 in district play, finishing third. Big Spring athletic director Dwight Butler said Washington did a good job in his tenure at Big Spring.

"I knew he was going to Stephenville about a week-and-a-half ago," said Butler. "When he came here he took a program that didn't have a whole lot left. Anytime you can take a bunch of kids and get to the playoffs once and come within one game of reaching the playoffs another year, you're doing a pretty good job." Butler said the search is on for a replacement. "We hope to have someone here by the end of June," he said. "We're looking for someone who's good with kids and has a great knowledge of the game. Someone that has good rapport with the faculty and the people. We're going to try to find the best basketball coach we can." Washington couldn't be reached for comment. Big Spring will also be losing three other coaches — Nancy Almaraz, Robbie Gibson and Todd East. Almaraz, a junior varsity basketball coach, is leaving because husband Joe, former Howard College baseball coach, has taken a job with a yet-to-be-named professional baseball team. Gibson, a freshmen girls basketball coach, is leaving to have a baby. East, a junior high coach, will return to school to become a chiropractor.

Trail Blazers turn off the Jazz

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers took a road that few teams crossed all season to advance to the NBA Finals.

"I don't think anyone thought we could win here with the record they have. It was just a tremendous win for us," Portland coach Rick Adelman said after the Trail Blazers won the Western Conference finals 4-2 with a 105-97 victory over Utah Thursday night.

For the Jazz, it was only their fifth loss at the Delta Center in 50 games, and their first defeat in nine playoff games at home.

"We didn't want to have to go back to Portland (for Game 7) because we knew they could beat us there," Adelman said. "We went into the fourth quarter knowing it would have to be our best quarter of the year."

It may have been. The Blazers used a smothering defense to hold Utah offensive mainstay Karl Malone to just 2 points in the final 12 minutes. The Jazz, who shot nearly 53 percent from the field in the first half, made just 9 of 40 shots in the second half, 22.5 percent.

Clyde Drexler — who along with Jerome Kersey and Terry Porter scored 18 points for the Trail Blazers — looked forward to playing for the NBA crown.

"Every player's dream is to win an NBA championship," he said. "We're playing well right now. We made it to the Finals once again and it's a fantastic feeling."

Utah coach Jerry Sloan said he had "no excuses," just praise for the Trail Blazers.

"Portland is a tough team," he said. "They deserved to win. I thought we played hard ... We got beat by a better team. They never let up."

Malone also was gracious in defeat.

"Portland has been there before and it shows," he said. "We have nothing to be ashamed of."

The victory moves Portland into the NBA Finals for the second time in three years against the winner of the Chicago-Cleveland series that the defending champion Bulls lead 3-2. The Finals begin Wednesday night in Portland if the Cavaliers win and in Chicago if the Bulls win.

The Trail Blazers, despite falling behind 9-0, pulled away in the second half by holding the Jazz to 38 points after halftime.

Malone had 23 points and 19 rebounds for the Jazz, who won one of seven playoff road games while they won their first eight at home. But he scored just 2 points in the fourth quarter as the Jazz failed to mount a rally.

John Stockton, who missed the second half of Game 5 after being accidentally poked in the left eye by Drexler, finished with 15 points and 12 assists. He led the Jazz to a 59-55 lead at halftime with 10 points and 10 assists.

Tyrone Corbin had 22 points for Utah, making its first appearance in the conference finals. The Trail Blazers, which won its only NBA title in 1977, lost in the NBA Finals in 1990 to Detroit.

Portland opened the fourth quarter by scoring 10 of the first 14 points for an 87-81 lead, keyed by Danny Ainge's two 3-pointers.

The Trail Blazers' largest lead was 94-85 on Porter's driving layup with 4:28 left.

Then the Jazz came back with 5 consecutive points, closing to 94-90 with 2:32 left. It was 100-94 with 31 seconds to go before Stockton's 3-pointer eight seconds later pulled the Jazz within 3, but Utah did not score again as Portland clinched the victory at the free-throw line.

Two layups by Drexler, who scored 12 points in the third quarter, and a pair of free throws by Kersey gave Portland its first lead of the second half, 61-59. Drexler made it 76-72 with a 17-footer late in the third quarter, but two foul shots by Stockton and Corbin's jumper made it 77-77 going into the final period.

If there were doubts about Stockton's recovery from the eye injury, they were erased in the first two minutes Thursday.

The All-Star point guard hit back-to-back driving layups and a free throw, then passed to Malone and Blue Edwards for inside baskets, keying the game-opening 9-0 run.

The Jazz pushed their lead to 21-8 on Edwards' 20-footer midway through the first period, but Portland's running game brought the Blazers back. Buck Williams' 8 points sparked a 16-6 spurt that closed them to 27-24.

With Portland trailing 33-30, Drexler opened the second quarter with a slicing drive to the basket that cut Utah's lead to a single point.

The two teams then exchanged runs, with Utah building a 48-38 lead with 5:29 left in the half with a 15-6 spurt featuring two baskets each by Edwards and Jeff Malone. Portland countered with a 13-6 run, with Kersey and Kevin Duckworth each hitting a pair of field goals, closing the Blazers to 54-51 at the 2:16 mark.

Corbin gave the Jazz a 59-53 edge with his shot from the corner, but Porter's layup at the buzzer trimmed Utah's advantage to 4 at halftime.

Lemieux-led Penguins take 2-0 advantage

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chicago Blackhawks coach Mike Keenan complained beforehand that Mario Lemieux was disgracing hockey by faking penalties. Perhaps he should have been more concerned about the disappearing act by his own big scorers, Jeremy Roenick and Steve Larmer.

With Chicago's big guns missing in inaction, Lemieux turned the Stanley Cup finals into his own personal stage show for the second straight year with another two-goal performance Thursday in Pittsburgh's 3-1 victory.

Lemieux, once accused of being a big scorer who would never deliver championships, now has four goals in this series and nine in just seven Stanley Cup final games.

"He's so awesome," linemate Kevin Stevens said. "When he's healthy, you can't stop him. You just can't stop him. That's why he's the best player in the world."

"I had a lot of respect for Mario when I was with Philadelphia," said Rick Tocchet, who set up both of Lemieux's goals. "I have a lot more respect for him here."

While Lemieux was again standing above the crowd by delivering the big goals in the big games, Roenick and Larmer spent most of the final two periods sitting on the bench. Not surprisingly, the Blackhawks managed just eight shots on goal in the final two periods.

Keenan, apparently upset with the lack of production by his two scoring stars, instead went with players like Mike Peluso, Jocelyn Lemieux and Stu Grimson.

The Penguins know and respect Jocelyn Lemieux, but they know he's no Mario Lemieux — or even a Roenick or Larmer.

Keenan insisted he wasn't punishing Roenick and Larmer for their lack of offense — neither has a goal and Roenick has just one shot in two games — but the Penguins didn't believe him.

The Penguins' big guns are going great guns. The Blackhawks' big guns are being silenced.

"We wanted the players out there who would use the body more than our skilled players," Keenan said. "We had no offense whatsoever and they proved why they won the Stanley Cup last year."

CSF third baseman doing just as good as movie star

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Cal State-Fullerton third baseman Phil Nevin had as good a year in his game as another Titan alum had in the movie business.

Just ask Nevin's sister, who said she could catch Kevin Costner for an autograph some other time.

Nevin was named Baseball America college player of the year Thursday to headline the national publication's annual All-America squad. The junior hit .390, had 20 homers and 75 RBIs and helped his fifth-ranked team earn a trip to the College World Series beginning tonight in Omaha.

Nevin said his 17-year-old sister, Michelle, collected an autograph from Costner for a friend when the actor helped dedicate a new baseball field for his old school in early May.

Costner asked Michelle if she wanted an autograph for herself but she said "her brother would be just as famous some day and she could probably get one then."

Costner also said he would give Michelle the autograph if her brother hit a home run in the game that day. "I didn't know anything about it, but I hit a home run in the third inning," Nevin said.

Nevin said he had talked with the Houston Astros, who have the No. 1 pick in Monday's draft.

Nevin moved from shortstop to third base this season and also played football for the Titans, earning all-Big West Conference first team honors as a freshman placekicker. He also punted.

Nevin led the fifth-ranked Titans in seven offensive categories and was named Big West baseball player of the year.

Nevin is one of seven first team All-Americans to be playing in the College World Series. He is joined by Oklahoma second baseman Brian Eldridge, Texas outfielder Calvin Murray, California designated hitter Troy Penix, and pitchers Patrick Ahearne of Pepperdine, Jeff Alkire of Miami and Darren Dreifort of Wichita State.

Dreifort, a sophomore, is the first relief pitcher to make the Baseball America first team since Auburn's Gregg Olson in 1988.

Rangers leading West

ARLINGTON (AP) — It's been pitching and not hitting that has helped the Texas Rangers keep alive a winning streak that vaulted them into first place in the American League West.

The Rangers got another quality start from Bobby Witt Thursday night as Witt threw three-hit ball over eight innings to outduel Jack McDowell in Texas' 4-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox, moving the Rangers atop the division for the first time since April 12.

Rangers starters are 6-0 with a 2.14 ERA in their last 13 games and have worked six or more innings in eight straight and 17 of their last 19. Witt, 5-4, struck out seven and walked two.

Witt established a season low for hits, lasted at least eight innings for his third consecutive start and lowered his ERA to 3.29.

Witt got all the run support he needed when the Rangers scored four times in the fourth, capped by Ivan Rodriguez's two-run single and Jeff Huzar's RBI double.

The Rangers completed a three-game sweep of the White Sox, winning their sixth straight and 10th in their last 11 games under excellent conditions.

Texas, which hopped a half game ahead of the Oakland A's, has been involved in one- or two-run games in 12 of its last 13 starts. The Rangers' best win came in their last three games.

American League

Jeff Russell pitched to perfection for his fifth save.

McDowell, 7-3, had won his first seven starts but had dropped his last three, yielding 15 runs, four that spanned his first three innings.

McDowell, 7-3, had won his first seven starts but had dropped his last three, yielding 15 runs, four that spanned his first three innings.

McDowell pitched his third complete game of the season Thursday while losing to the Rangers for the first time in his career after four straight victories.

Red Sox 2, Angels 1

AN ANGELES (AP) — Mike Greenwell singled in the go-ahead run in the fourth, then fell with a groin injury as the Boston Red Sox beat the California Angels 2-1 Thursday night for a three-game sweep.

Greenwell, who had been out with a wrist injury, said he came off the disabled list on May 17, but his groin in the bottom of the fifth when fielding Sox first-inning single.

Joe Mauer pitched six innings in seven, struck out five and walked one as Boston won for the ninth time in 12 games. Jeff Bearden pitched the ninth for his 12th save, leaving him two shy of Rollie Fingers' career record of 34.

Mark Langston (5-2) who had won five consecutive decisions, gave up both runs and eight hits, struck out seven and walked three. California lost for the 10th time in 12 games.

Royals 5, Tigers 1

DETROIT (AP) — Hal McRae has been saying all along that Kansas City would be a better team if the Royals got some pitching. On Thursday night, he proved his point.

Mark Gubicza, Rusty Meacham and Jeff Montgomery combined for a three-hitter as the Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 5-1 and ended a five-game losing streak. Kevin McReynolds and Wally Joyner homered for the Royals.

Gubby, he shut them down, McRae said. "I didn't do much participating tonight. I was able to participate. The power was nice. The two home runs put us on top. It was nice to have a lead. It's been a long time."

Gubicza, 5-1 in his last seven starts, gave up two hits in 6 2/3 innings, struck out eight and walked four. He had defeated Detroit with six hits on May 17.

Morgan whitewashes Giants

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Lefebvre says that watching Mike Morgan pitch is just plain fun.

"It was important for Morgan to give us a lift," the Chicago manager said Thursday after the Cubs beat the San Francisco Giants 5-0 in the only National League game on the schedule.

Morgan (5-2) allowed four hits while walking a season-high seven in eight innings.

Morgan won despite walking a season-high seven.

Morgan is 6-0 lifetime at Wrigley Field, including 1-0 with the Los Angeles Dodgers. After starting slowly, he's found consistency.

Morgan was in trouble early, but twice escaped jams by retiring Matt Williams, Williams who has just three hits in his last 13 at bats, struck out with runners on first and second in the first inning and third out with the bases loaded in the third.

In the fourth, Giants manager Roger Craig called for a squeeze bunt with Bobby Thompson on third.

"We know Roger likes to do that, so we called for a pitchout and nothing happened," Lefebvre said. "But on the next pitch to Royce Clayton, Morgan threw a tough pitch and Clayton bunted right through it. We had Thompson nail ed. The run would have given them some momentum."

National League

Morgan tossed 1 2/3 innings with a record.

"I'm really glad you caught the game against Houston which we won even though I didn't pitch the first two innings."

Morgan said he didn't expect when he had a loss and he made decisions to start the season.

Mike Felder had two hits for the Giants, who lost for only the sixth time in 19 games.

Dave Burdette lost for the fifth time in six starts, allowing three runs and seven hits in 3 2/3 innings.

It seems I only have one bad inning, but the other team always gets three or four runs off me," Burdette said.

Grace started Chicago's three-run fourth with a single that extended his hitting streak to 11 games and took the lead on Ryan Sandberg's single.

Daly takes over Nets job

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Chuck Daly, the coach of the U.S. Olympic dream team, isn't daunted by his newest assignment — the talented but troubled New Jersey Nets.

Daly said after accepting the Nets coaching job Thursday that he's willing to give all the players a fresh start after a playoff season tainted by internal dissension.

The 62-year-old Daly had a record of 476-303 in 9 1/2 seasons as coach of Cleveland and Detroit. The Pistons won consecutive championships in 1989 and 1990.

Daly also coached at Boston College and Penn from 1969 to 1977, compiling a 151-62 record. Daly said he is returning after his brief departure because he simply loves basketball.

Blinn eliminated from JUCO Series

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — For the first time in a decade, a Texas team won't be at the finals of the National Junior College World Series, thanks largely to a 10-run inning by a school from Baltimore.

Essex Community College sent 13 men to the plate in a wild fifth inning Thursday, capped by Greg Boyd's three-run homer off the center-field scoreboard.

The 10 runs erased a four-run lead by Blinn College of Texas, and the Knights went on to a 13-9 victory, eliminating Blinn. Texas schools had played in or won the JUCO World Series finals every year since 1983.

In Thursday's other game, John A. Logan College of Illinois stayed alive with a 7-5 win over previously undefeated Pima Community College, extending the double-elimination tournament to Saturday.

Logan (56-7) will play Essex (37-5) in the semifinal game tonight, and the winner faces Pima for the championship Saturday night.

Blinn (45-24) led Essex 7-3 going into the fifth inning, but the Knights' first nine batters reached base, six of them scoring. A fielder's choice scored the seventh run of the inning, and, after another out, Boyd ripped his home run to give the Knights a 13-7 lead.

Boyd had three hits and five RBIs.

Study: Students watching less TV

WASHINGTON (AP) — Students seem to be spending less time in front of the TV set at home but about the same amount of time hitting the books, an Education Department study said Thursday.

And those who watched less TV had better reading proficiency, according to the National Assessment of Educational Progress, popularly known as the Nation's Report Card.

Despite the general reduction in TV-watching, the amount of viewing still was considerable:

- Sixty-two percent of the fourth graders surveyed said they spent more than three hours a day in front of the tube in 1990. That was down from 69 percent who watched three or more hours daily in 1988.
- Sixty-four percent of the 8th graders reported watching more than three hours daily, as did 40 percent of 12th graders. That was down from 71 percent and 49 percent, respectively, in 1988.

As for reading:

- Sixty-three percent of the eighth graders and 59 percent of the 12th graders said they read 10 or fewer pages each day for their

'The kids are watching over three hours of television a day and reading less than five pages a day. That is wrong.'

President George Bush

school work in 1990, compared with 62 percent and 56 percent, respectively, in 1988. One-third of eighth and 12th graders read fewer than five pages a day for school in 1990.

• Thirty-four percent of fourth graders spent 30 minutes or less daily on homework, the same as in 1988. Twenty percent of eighth graders did 30 minutes or less in 1990, compared with 19 percent in 1988. Twenty-one percent of 12th graders reported that level of homework in 1990; 19 percent in 1988.

President Bush called the figures troubling and said they show "we've got a long way to go" to meet his goals of making American students the world's best in math and science by the end of the century.

"The kids are watching over three hours of television a day and reading less than five pages a day. That is wrong," Bush told a GOP dinner in Atlanta on Wednesday night in advance of the study's release.

The report said schools have been slow to implement reforms in teaching children to read. Teachers still emphasize workbook instruction, despite evidence that the best approach is to combine reading and writing activities, the report said.

The report found that in homes where there were ample reading materials and where the parents read a lot, their children performed significantly better than other students.

The report, prepared by the Educational Testing Service under contract with the department's National Center for Education Statistics, did not draw any conclusions about TV's impact on learning.

The study found a decrease in the amount of leisure reading. In 1988, 19 percent of the eighth graders and 18 percent of the seniors reported not reading for fun in their spare time. However, in 1990 the percentages increased to 30 percent and 29 percent.

The study said students generally are not encouraged to read. It found that 25 percent of the fourth graders and 20 percent of the eighth graders said they never talked about what they read in class. Nineteen percent of the seniors, 24 percent of the eighth graders and 29 percent of the fourth graders never participated in a group activity based on the reading.

The report results were based on studies of about 13,000 students in 1988 and 25,000 students in 1990 in grades four, eight and 12 at public and private schools. Students' average reading performance was rated on a scale of zero to 500.

Book says Louis Harris slanted 1980 poll releases to favor Kennedy

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris slanted reports of his surveys toward U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and against President Carter during the 1980 Democratic presidential race, a professor charges in a new book.

"It was a flagrant betrayal of trust," said David Moore, director of the Survey Center at the University of New Hampshire.

Harris, who did not return telephone calls to his New York office Wednesday and Thursday, has long been criticized for not being objective, primarily in how he phrases his questions.

But Moore, in "The Super Pollsters: How They Measure and Manipulate Public Opinion in America," says Harris actually delayed or withheld poll results favorable to Carter in reports he wrote several times a week for the news media.

"It's the kind of thing that would give legitimate polling a bad name," said Warren Mitofsky, director of Voter Research and Surveys, which does television network exit polls.

"If you're working for a political candidate, you would selectively release your material, and that was exactly what the networks were trying to fight when they hired their own pollsters."

Harris was doing the 1980 polls for ABC News, which "saw his results and essentially ignored his analysis," said Jeff Alderman, director of polling at ABC. Harris' reports also were used by other subscribers, mainly newspapers that ran them as columns.

Harris, who first gained recognition as a pollster for John F. Kennedy's 1960 presidential campaign, still has a polling company. But he is no longer affiliated with the company that bears his name, Louis Harris and Associates Inc., or the firm's Harris Poll and Harris Reports.

VATICAN CITY — On the airwaves in Albania or Zambia, its trademark sounds are the same: the distinctive musical signature, "Christus Vincit" — Christ conquers — and the familiar Latin call sign, "Laudetur Iesus Christus" — Let Jesus Christ be praised.

Vatican Radio has been delivering the message of the Roman Catholic Church to the world for 61 years. It has been jammed but never been silenced, even in war.

Vatican Radio was inaugurated in 1931 shortly after the creation of the modern, independent state of Vatican City. Speaking in Latin, Pope Pius XI said over the static of the first broadcast: "Hear this all nations. Pay attention all who live on Earth."

Today, in 34 languages, Vatican Radio's words and music go out via AM and FM to Rome and parts of Europe and worldwide over 31 shortwave frequencies. The Rev. Pasquale Borgomeo, the Jesuit director general of the radio, estimates the weekly audience at 10 million listeners.

Before the Iron Curtain crumbled, the long-suppressed Roman Catholics of officially atheistic Eastern Europe, Ukraine and the Baltic states huddled around their shortwave sets to hear Vatican Radio.

Now, in 15 languages, the radio broadcasts openly to the new nations of the former Soviet Union and to its former satellites. Not long ago, a clandestine Soviet listener faced possible imprisonment.

During the 1991 Persian Gulf War, Vatican Radio raised hackles among the Western allies by giving a voice to anti-war clergy in Iraq. When murderer Robert Alton Harris was executed in California in April, Vatican Radio commented: "We think that the death penalty is a very primitive way of doing justice on the part of a society."

The radio is expected to reflect

A recording technician tapes baroque music at the Vatican Radio's studio in Rome. The broadcasting service beams a variety of programs, domestically and overseas, in 34 languages.

the views of the pope. "If you disagree with the positions of the holy father, you can work elsewhere," says Borgomeo.

Vatican Radio has a staff of more than 400, including about 200 journalists who glean wire services and edit reports of more than 100 widely scattered part-time correspondents.

The operation is run mostly by Catholic lay people and led by Jesuits, whose liberal, intellectual approach occasionally puts them at odds with positions of the church hierarchy.

"It is for us a challenge and a responsibility to interpret the pope's mind, even when he has not spoken explicitly about a given event," Borgomeo says.

World War II engulfed Europe a few years after Vatican Radio went on the air. Although the Catholic Church remained neutral, it came under attack both from fascists and communists. Josef Goebbels, Adolf Hitler's minister of propaganda, reportedly said in 1941: "Vatican Radio must be silenced."

During World War II, Jesuit broadcasters transmitted more than 1.2 million shortwave messages about prisoners of war and missing persons.

Every pope since Pius XI has expanded Vatican Radio. John Paul II is the most globally traveled of all popes and a natural for radio and television appearances.

"Vatican Radio is his constant companion," says the Rev. Vincent O'Keefe of New York's Fordham University, a Jesuit with broadcasting experience. "Wherever he goes, it goes."

Although religious ceremonies remain integral to the radio's mission, programming has broadened in recent years, reaching out to non-Catholics as well as Catholics with news, interviews and music, from rock to classical.

"The less we preach, the more effective we are in our task," says Borgomeo.

Vatican Radio's first equipment was designed by Guglielmo Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy and "the father of radio." The service's first studios were in Vatican City. Since 1970, its production center has been at Palazzo Pio, a five-story building just outside Vatican City.

Powerful shortwave transmitters and two of the world's largest rotating antennas are the heart of the transmission center in rolling farmland 12 miles north of Rome.

Vatican Radio, whose 1991 budget was about $28 million, consistently operates in the red. It counts on listeners' contributions, and a few years ago started marketing compact discs and cassettes. But the radio remains a steady drain on the Vatican treasury.

Among its international services is "dial-a-pope," enabling people to phone in for recorded messages from John Paul II.

Borgomeo, the radio's director for more than seven years, says one of his main goals is "freeing Vatican Radio from the restrictions of shortwave."

Church struggles to help

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Some U.S. politicians blame last month's urban violence on a "poverty of values" that has led to the decline of two-parent families and personal responsibility.

But there is no poverty of values at Jerusalem Missionary Baptist Church.

Middle-class members of this Third Ward congregation guarantee $450 per semester to any high school student member who seeks a college education.

They tutor young students who are not getting good grades.

Church money helped graduate Toya Spiller, 27, from Howard University in Washington, D.C., with an education degree. Today, she teaches in a Houston school.

Historically, the church has been the backbone of black families. But with a depressed job market and a powderkeg of racial tensions waiting to erupt in America's urban areas, the members of Jerusalem Baptist have reached a hard conclusion about healing today's so-called poverty of values: They can't do it alone.

"The solution is in jobs for the urban communities and in churches working with the young people," said Spiller, standing on the steps outside this 113-year-old historical church. It faces Emancipation Park and the Eldorado Club where singer James Brown once performed.

Vice President Dan Quayle while in Los Angeles described inner cities as "filled with children having children," places where education isn't pursued and drugs and welfare are a way of life.

"The intergenerational poverty that troubles us so much today is predominantly a poverty of values," Quayle said.

Young men do panhandle on Sundays near the church. Many members have moved out to suburban areas. They say the Third Ward neighborhood was safe decades ago for children. Children are one of their major concerns.

"I saw this frustration coming years ago. If these children have no jobs, they have no hope. And you can graduate high school or college today and not have a job," said church member Sandra Simmons, 39, who works for the city of Houston.

"It's OK for people to say we all need to be out working."

Prize winner urges nation to recapture spirit

By DAVID BRIGGS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — An American missionary helped lead the Rev. Kyung-Chik Han to Christianity, and it was this country he turned to for his college and divinity school degrees more than 60 years ago.

But in his first visit back since winning the 1992 Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, the 89-year-old Han said he encountered a different nation from the one he remembered as offering a haven to immigrants.

Now it is a country torn apart by racial conflict, with Koreans being a particular target in the riots in Los Angeles after the Rodney King verdict. And there is no "Christian force" powerful enough to promote racial and ethnic harmony, Han said.

"Why don't you send missionaries to black people right here in this country?" is the question the slight, 89-year-old Han poses to religious leaders on his trip. "It seems to me the only way to solve social problems in this country is through mission efforts among the black people and the new immigrants."

Han was given the more than $1 million Templeton Prize in April for his career as an evangelist who gained international attention for his work with refugees and the poor. Founder of Seoul's 60,000-member Young Nak

KYUNG-CHIK HAN

Presbyterian Church, Han has started over 500 churches around the world, including the 5,000-member Young Nak Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles.

In an interview this week, Han gave credit to an American missionary who founded a country church and day school in his small village with providing him the opportunity to learn about Christianity.

With the help of the church, Han was sent to a Christian high school. He later came to the United States to study, graduating from Emporia College in Kansas in 1926 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1929.

After a bout with tuberculosis, he returned to Korea in 1931, and established an orphanage in 1939. In 1942, he was briefly imprisoned and later stripped of his ministry at a church because he refused to worship Emperor Hirohito at a Shinto shrine.

When Korea gained independence from Japan, Han became mayor of Shinuiju, but he was forced to flee when Soviet troops occupied what is now North Korea. He started what was to become the largest Presbyterian congregation in the world with 27 refugees in 1945.

He retired as senior pastor of Young Nak in 1973, but continues to give monthly sermons there.

New officers are: Darla Kilgore, president; Louise Hitch, vice president; Judy Reed, secretary; Susan Casey, treasurer; Mary K. Fleniken, parliamentarian/historian.

The program consisted of door prizes donated by local merchants, installation of officers, retirement farewell for, Charlene Shanks and presentation of the annual scholarship award.

For her efforts the past two years, Brooks was presented with a money corsage.

Installation of officers was carried by Ima Dell Williams.

Homemakers host 'show and tell'

The home of Frances Zant was the scene of the City Extension Homemakers Club meeting. An unplanned covered dish lunch turned out to be a meal of fried chicken, pinto beans, deviled eggs, cantaloupe, salad, pickles, whole wheat rolls, butter, tea and apple cobbler.

There were six in attendance. After the meal, a business meeting was held with Vice President Jowili Etchison, presiding.

The program was "Show and Tell." One woman showed her hand knitted gloves that she starts at the tip of the fingers instead of the cuff.

Another shared her crochet and embroidery and a crocheted granny square afghan with each square slightly different in stitches but had only four coordinating colors was presented by another member.

Wedding dresses for the bridesmaids in a floral print was shown by another club member. One lady makes curtains and drapes from bed sheets and had recently done a house for a local family using many bedsheets. The other member presented made a blue denim jacket and had a lady paint a southwestern design on it. All the seams were on the outside and were cut so as to make fringe.

The next meeting will be Sept. 11 at 2 p.m. at the home of Ila Reese.

Hyperions host dinner meeting

The 1905 Hyperion Club met May 21 for a dinner meeting at the Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. Rich Anderson and Mrs. Horace Reagan as hostesses. Thirteen members and seven guests attended.

President Mrs. Alton Warren opened the meeting with "Thinking Up," a poem by Zelma Dennis. The prayer was offered by Mrs. R.C. Thomas.

Following the meal, Mrs. Carl Bradley sang a medley of favorite songs from popular musicals. She was accompanied by Mrs. Jerry Currie.

President Warren recognized outgoing officers and committee members by presenting them with long-stem red roses.

The following officers were installed for 1992-1993: president, Mrs. Harlan Huijbregtse; vice president, Mrs. Carl Bradley; recording secretary, Mrs. Wayne Bonner; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Flynn Long; treasurer, Mrs. Max Green; parliamentarian, Mrs. Norma Read.

Following the installation of officers, a letter of resignation from Mrs. Rogers Hefley was accepted with regrets. She will be moving from Big Spring.

Avery scheduled as guest speaker

Johnnie Lou Avery will be the guest speaker for the monthly meeting of the Genealogical Society of the Big Spring on Thursday.

The meeting will be at 7:15 p.m. in the Howard County Library Conference Room. Avery will speak on the vast genealogical research done by Margaret Barnett and the book she was completing at the time of her recent death.

Barnett, who traced her ancestry back to Charlemagne, was a charter member of the Society. She served as a Society officer since its organization in 1971, still holding the office of treasurer at the time of her death at the age of 92.

Avery is doing the final editing of the book, which will be published.

At the May meeting, Bill Stegald continued his program on Civil War and census records research, answering questions asked by those in attendance.

The Genealogical Society meetings and memberships are open to all. Those interested in research and the preservation of history are especially invited to attend.

Short history of hot pants

The current selection of short shorts is far more subdued than the crushed panne velvet and satin concoctions of the 1970s.

"There was a kookiness about hot pants back then, nothing to be taken seriously at all," says Robert Balavender, a professor at New York's Fashion Institute of Technology. "What amazes me is how tiny and low-slung they were, with that below-the-navel Cher look."

Some had bright daisy pop art appliques. Others were in skin tones that created the appearance of nudity.

"The '70s has been called the decade that taste forgot, and when you think of hot pants you can see why," says Valerie Steele, also of FIT. "A movie actress once said that hot pants were something you had, not something you wore."

'God has a plan for your future'

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I have been dating the same girl for two years, and I really thought we were in love. But now she has told me she wants to end our relationship, and I am brokenhearted. There is a blank place in my heart that I know will never be filled by anyone else. Why does God allow things like this to happen? — J.H.N.

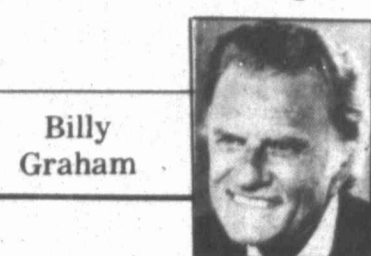

DEAR J.H.N.: The most important thing I can tell you is that God has his perfect will or plan for your future — including the woman he has selected to be with you the rest of your life as your spouse. The most important thing you can do, therefore, is to yield yourself to Christ and then commit yourself to seeking his will in this matter. The Bible says, "As for God, his way is perfect" (Psalm 18:30).

I realize this may seem hard to you — particularly if it becomes clear that it is not God's will for this relationship to continue. But don't be satisfied with anything less than God's will — and this is especially true in such an important part of life as this. God knows what is best for us — and he loves you, and wants what is best for you. He knows your needs and your future, and he can be trusted.

He also knows your pain right now, and you can be honest with him about it. Give it to him, and by faith thank him that he is going to lead you in a path that is far better than anything you could ever plan by yourself. The Bible says, "Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths straight" (Proverbs 3:5-6).

Begin by asking Christ to come into your life as your Lord and Savior, if you have never done so before. Then ask him to give you the courage to wait on him and seek his perfect will.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I wish you would mail my husband some literature about how he ought to be a Christian. I try and try to get him to go to church and everything but he won't listen to me, and maybe he'll listen to you because he watches you on TV occasionally and respects you. — Mrs. H.C.

DEAR MRS. H.C.: I hope you won't think that I'm being harsh when I tell you that the most important "book" your husband probably will read about Christ right now is the "book" of your life. Does he see Christ in your life — Christ's love and forgiveness and patience, and Christ's transforming power and strength?

In other words, how we live is often more important to others than our words as Christians. This is true in all our witness for Christ, but it's especially true with those who know us best and see us most closely. Peter urged wives to be like Christ "so that, if any of them do not believe the word, they may be won over without talk by the behavior of their wives, when they see the purity and reverence of your lives. Your beauty... should be that of your inner self, the unfading beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit" (1 Peter 3:1-4).

Don't nag your husband about his seeming lack of interest in church or Christ. Instead, pray for him, for only God can change his heart. Then make it your goal to be the best, most loving wife you can be as you seek to follow Christ and become more like him.

This isn't something you can achieve on your own; it only comes as you commit your life to Christ and grow closer to him in obedience to his Word. When your husband realizes that Christ has changed you, he may admit his own need of Christ also.

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My wife and I have both been diagnosed with incurable diseases that will disable us little by little. We are in our 70s, and I know things can go wrong when you get this age, but it still has caused us a lot of worry. Do you have any suggestions on how to deal with this kind of bad news? — J.D.

DEAR J.D.: The Bible reminds us that no matter how old (or young) we are, life is still short and one day it will end, and our lives ultimately are in God's hands. "All men are like grass... The grass withers and the flowers fall, because the breath of the Lord blows on them" (Isaiah 40:6-7).

Let me urge you first of all to take practical steps to deal with your future. For example, be sure you have an up-to-date will, and that your financial affairs are in order as much as possible. Make decisions also while you can about other matters, such as long-term care for you and your wife if you do become disabled. Face these problems realistically — and seek the advice of others if you need it. The Bible tells us to "Listen to advice and accept instruction, and in the end you will be wise" (Proverbs 19:20).

I pray also that you will prepare spiritually for the future. You need God's help and strength for the days ahead — and you need His salvation for eternity. Someday we all will die and face God. Are you prepared for that day?

Commit your lives to Christ and trust him as your Lord and savior. Then you can face the future with hope and courage, because you will face it with Christ in your heart. When we know Christ, we know that "neither death nor life... nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8:38-39).

Husband's fate is sealed by woman's kiss

DEAR ABBY: During our four years of marriage, there have been a number of occasions when I've questioned my husband's fidelity. For example: My "Mel" was in the hospital for a few days undergoing minor surgery when his secretary forwarded his office mail to the house. I went through it to see if anything needed immediate attention, perhaps a bill to pay. One envelope looked like a business letter, so I opened it. It was from a very attractive businesswoman we had both met at a convent recently. She said she is looking forward to seeing Mel in Tokyo soon. (Mel travels to Japan on business, and evidently she travels, too.) She enclosed her business card on which I saw a bright red lipstick "kiss"! I was shocked, and now I'm suspicious. Mel says I'm being stupid—that many businesswomen put their lip imprints on their business cards. Is this true, or could there be something "personal" going on here? —MEL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hate to judge your husband guilty on circumstantial evidence, but yes, I would say there could be something personal going on. When a woman puts her lip print on her business card, the message is not very subtle, and the business could also be pleasure.

DEAR ABBY: I have started to see a woman who is in her middle 60s, but she thinks I believe that she is 10 years younger. Also, she has had some facial improvements, which she thinks no one knows about. She denies getting Social Security, which I know she gets. She is truly a lovely lady, very attractive, lively, loves to dance and play cards. She is very active socially and has many friends.

I do not mind about the age deception, nor the facial improvements. As a matter of fact, I believe every woman deserves a lot of credit for doing everything she can in order to look her best, but I would respect her more if she broke down and told me the truth. It would make no difference to me. In fact, it would clear the air.

I would never volunteer that I know all of the above. Even if she were to tell me, I would bite my tongue off before I'd say, "So, what else is new?" —NO NAME, INITIALS OR CITY

DEAR NO NAME: I hope you realize that your letter will probably initiate an epidemic of unsolicited true confessions.

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 30, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Display your sense of humor at the right moments and you will make swift career progress. An exciting job opens up in September. A change in a personal relationship is for the best. Have more faith in your mate or partner. A positive attitude will help you make new financial gains early in 1993. Do not try to hold on to someone who wants to walk away next spring. Something much better is in the works.

CELEBRITIES BORN IN THIS DATE: jazz great Benny Goodman, actor Michael J. Pollard, actress Meredith McFae, country singer Wynonna Judd.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You will achieve more at work once you stop forcing issues. A change of lifestyle could reduce tension. Your days will be anything but routine when you find a new romantic partner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Remodeling could be a more practical idea than changing residences. Get several bids. Your personal relationships will become more satisfying when you allow greater give-and-take.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Take an occasional break from a tiring task. It is so nice to spend time alone with the one you love. Savor a romantic evening away from ring telephones.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Early this morning, enjoy some quiet time alone. Reading an inspiring article puts you in an upbeat mood. Join up with family or friends later today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Both mind and body shift into high gear at your command today. Solo projects are favored, as are meetings with business people who can help speed your rise. Pay bills on time.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A big breakthrough takes place when you get a brainstorm today. Romance blossoms off the beaten path. Events at a distance sound promising, too. A telephone call brings welcome family news.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Loved ones may not be telling you all the facts. Be diplomatic and you will discover the best way to help your mate. Put your keen intelligence to the best possible use.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A charitable gift or deed will make you feel good inside. You spot a wonderful bargain in an unusual setting. Long trips are best postponed. Keep expenses down while you build savings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You find it easier to reach a meeting of the minds with people in power now. Career or status gains could result. A child will share an important secret.

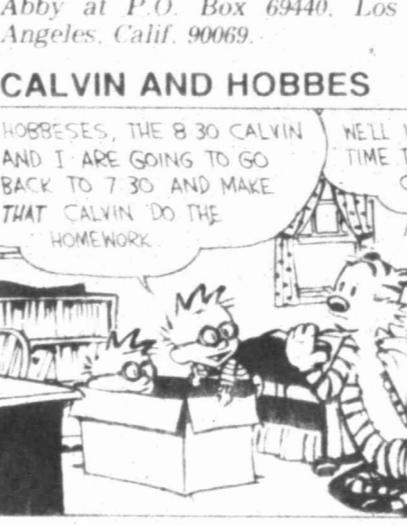

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are ready to clear the air or debate a serious issue today. Back off a little, then negotiate a key agreement. Do not let secret resentment ruin a friendship.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A new partnership could ease a cash shortage. You are on the verge of a great discovery, leave no stone unturned. Embrace the great outdoors with open arms.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Travel snags may have you going around in circles or feeling frustrated. Everything will turn out just fine. Avoid taking on more responsibilities than you can handle.
