Water quality topic of town hall meeting

Those concerned about the quality of water in the Colorado River basin are invited to a town hall meeting July 8 in Big Spring to speak out. The meeting, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Big Spring City Auditorium at Third and Nolan streets, will be conducted by the Colorado River Municipal Water District and the Lower Colorado River Authority.

It is one of four meetings being held to comply with the 1991 Clean Rivers Act passed by the Texas Legislature. An initial meeting was held in San Angelo and two more will be held in Bay City and Austin, respectively, Sept. 16 and Nov. 11.

"The public meetings are an extremely important part of the water quality assessment," said CRMWD Manager Owen Ivie. "The meetings give citizens an opportunity to point out problems and to suggest what can be done to correct them."

Symphony campaign on

The Big Spring Symphony Orchestra's fundraising drive is inching closer to its goal, officials said.

As of today, slightly more than $8,000 has been raised from individual and business donations. The drive's goal is $60,000. Symphony President Gil Oxendine has said.

Money raised during the drive will go to help fund the various programs the symphony produces each year.

Cookoff slated for mall

Highland Mall will be the site for the first CASI-sanctioned Bar-B-Que Cookoff Saturday, according to Mall Manager Betty Gossett.

Cooks will compete in five categories: brisket, chili, ribs, fajitas and beans. Registration fee to compete in all five categories is $50, $15 in the brisket and chili divisions, $10 in the ribs and fajita categories, and $5 in the beans division.

Contestants may register the day of the cookoff, Gossett said. For more information, contact her at 263-1132.

City, LULAC edge closer to settlement

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Big Spring City Council has authorized Midland attorney Rick Strange to present a redistricting map to the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) in order to settle a lawsuit against the city.

The suit, filed by LULAC Chapter No. 4375, has been satisfied in that the city has agreed to have the council elected in six single-member districts on a map drawn by Map Resources Inc. of Austin.

LULAC attorney Rolando Rios is in agreement with the proposal, which separates two districts with a majority of minority residents.

"I think the way they were drawn is fair," Rios said today. "It geographically represents the city and allows minority influence in two districts, so it's fairly drawn."

In the agreement, there are no residency requirements. Council members elected from these districts do not have to live in the district they serve, and the mayor will still be elected through an at-large vote.

Currently, the only problem is the $15,000 Rios is requesting in attorney fees, which the council believes to be too much for a suit that never went to trial.

Strange and Rios will be appearing before a federal judge at a future date to set attorney's fees, said City Secretary Tom Ferguson.

Rios said attorney fees are usually settled without the arbitration of a federal judge. "If we have to go to court, we're going to ask for more than what we would have."

The redistricting map may be viewed at City Hall, but a version suitable for reproduction is not yet available, Ferguson said. "You can't see the streets on the one I have."

The council held a public forum on the issue Tuesday night but received no requests to speak.

"I think it's going to be really good for the community — I think Big Spring will come out benefiting," Rios said.

The current council is made up of three members from single-member districts and three elected at large. These will become single member districts over the next three years, and the mayor will remain an at-large elected position.

Rodeo opens with wild rides

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

Talk about misnomers.

Coy Allen's mount in the bull riding competition at Wednesday night's opening of the 59th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo was named Cool Cat — but he wasn't cool and he exhibited anything but feline grace as he banged around so much in the chute Allen had to dismount and let another competitor ride before he could get set.

EDITORIAL — 4A

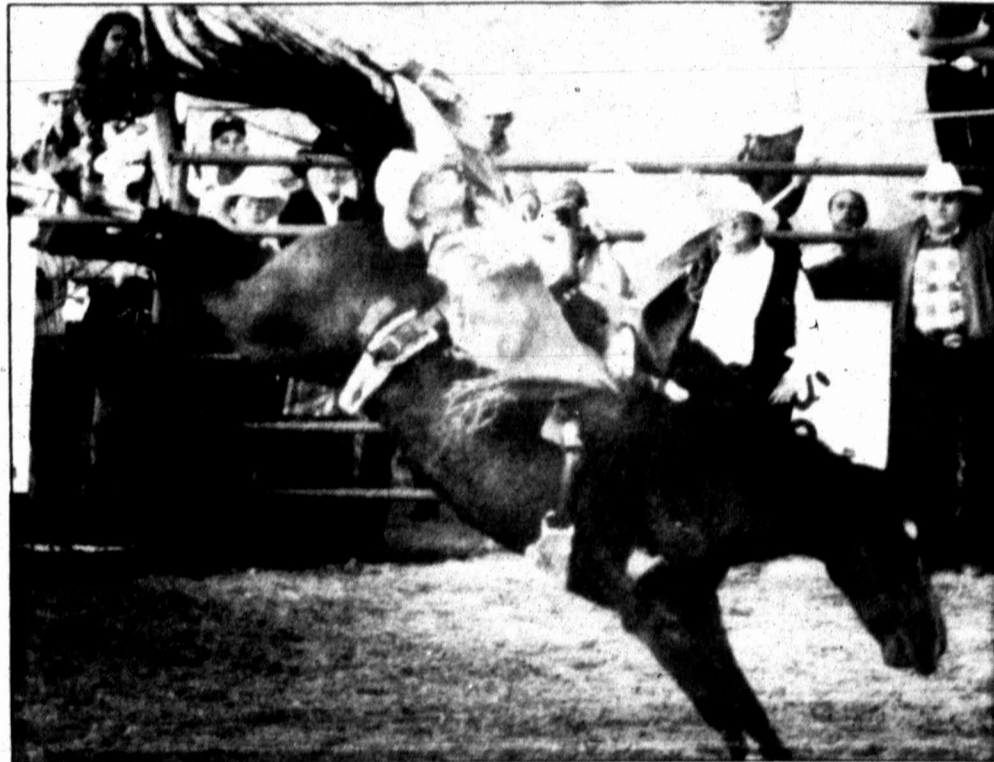

When he finally got out of the chute, Allen held on to his rotating ride for a score of 77, good enough for a tie with Austin's Brent Thurman in the competition's last and most popular event.

Other highlights of the rodeo's first night included a best time of 5.4 seconds in steer wrestling by Big Spring's Steve Fryar, a 9.4 calf rope by Neal Felton, and an 85 bareback ride by Shawn Frey.

Cool Cat didn't take Allen for a very long ride — the bull stayed in a small section of the arena — but it was one of the most frenzied of the evening for the bull riders. Add to that Allen getting his hand stuck in the rigging after Cool Cat threw him, and the Clarksville cowboy's ride turned out to be the evening's most exciting moment.

Thurman rode Festus, and not far behind him and Allen was Colorado City's Brent Ferry with a 75 on Lethal Weapon.

Fryar was impressive in the quick handling of his steer in the performance's fourth event. His 5.4 surpassed the next best mark of 6.2 by Delbert Davis of Hereford by almost a second Marc Mikel from Flower Mound gets a rough ride from Wild West during bareback riding competition on the opening evening of the 59th Annual Big Spring Rodeo Wednesday. Judges viewed an infraction during the ride and gave Mikel a no score for his efforts. The rodeo will continue tonight at 8:30 p.m. at the Rodeo Bowl.

Chuck Hammonds at 7.6 was the only other cowboy out of nine participants to get a time in steer wrestling.

Frey, from Norman, Okla. rode to the highest tally in all the judged events, with his 85 bareback score on Superstar Beau Mayo place second in that event with a 79 on Classic Wrangler in the first ride of the night. Next were Chuck Logue (78) and Rickey Rhoades (75). Logue came into the rodeo ranked 10th nationally in bareback this year.

Barrel racing preceded the bull riding and had some inconsistent performances. Shirley Lawson of Krum received a no time for breaking the race pattern and three other cowgirls had 22 second-plus runs.

Marsha Stille of Spring Branch turned in the best time with a 17.63

Perot and GOP chief battle over charges

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HARTFORD, Conn. The Republican party chief today denounced Ross Perot for making "wild and reckless charges" as feuding flared anew over "dirty tricks" the Texas billionaire claims the Bush campaign has been playing.

"Ross Perot implies that we have some cloak and dagger guys going into his gold plated garbage cans behind his estate every morning — that's just not true,"

Republican national Chairman Rich Bond said.

Perot, meanwhile, was back working at getting his name on more state ballots today after a day of free national television exposure, including his verbal brawl on an evening call-in show with the Republican party chief.

In advance of Perot's appearance, Perot's supporters submitted about 26,000 petition signatures to state elections officials to get Perot's name on the November ballot in Connecticut.

Workers comp rates falling for first time

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN Less than three weeks after lawmakers criticized insurance companies for raising their rates, three workers' compensation insurance companies filed for rate decreases.

"This is very good news," Claire Koriath, chairwoman of the State Board of Insurance, said Wednesday. "This will do what the Legislature intended, which is to establish a competitive market with reduced rates for employers."

Frontier Insurance Co. of New York and two companies in the Liberty Mutual group are reducing their rates, said A.W. "Woody" Pogue, an associate insurance commissioner.

Insurance companies notified the In-surance Board that they were increasing their rates by the maximum allowed, 15 percent, despite decreases in job related injuries, benefits, medical costs, and attorney involvement in workers' comp cases.

Pogue predicted that many other companies will decrease rates in response to data indicating that workers' comp losses have been reduced by more than 25 percent in 1991, which was the first year under workers' comp reforms.

The cuts are the first since Insurance Commissioner Georgia Flint urged companies to reduce their rates because of savings resulting from the reform legislation, officials said.

Youth undergoes hand-switch surgery

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — A 16-year-old, who had faced the possibility of losing both his hands, believes he won't have too much difficulty getting used to having his left hand on his right arm.

Stephen "Pee Wee" O'Connor had his left hand transplanted to the opposite arm after being injured in a recent car accident that killed his mother. He already had lost his right hand to a congenital birth defect when he was an infant.

The 14-hour operation to have his left hand transplanted to his right arm began Monday at Hermann Hospital and ended early the next morning. Doctors said he could have been the first to undergo a hand transplant of this type.

O'Connor told reporters Wednesday he didn't think he would have a lot of trouble adapting to the change.

"It's just having stuff from my left hand being in my right hand," said O'Connor, who spoke from a hospital bed Wednesday afternoon at Hermann.

The teen-ager also said he was looking forward to returning to work with his father, who repairs farm equipment in Rising Star in central Texas.

"Hopefully, I'll be able to go back to work with him when I get rested up a little bit," he said.

O'Connor was born with a deformed right hand that was amputed at the forearm when he was eight months old. Then, while on his way to Houston on May 20, he was seriously hurt in a car wreck near Brenham that killed his mother, hospital officials said.

The boy's left arm and shoulder were severely injured. The nerves were ripped off the spinal cord, and two operations by neurosurgeons showed the damage was irreparable, said Dr. Emmanuel Melissinos, lead surgeon in the transplant.

So doctors amputated O'Connor's left arm below the elbow and reattached his left hand, including the wrist and about 4 inches of forearm, to his right arm, Melissinos said.

O'Connor's palm now faces in the correct direction, but his thumb is where the pinky should be, he said. "This is something unique," said Melissinos, a reconstructive plastic surgeon.

AUSTIN — Gov. Ann Richards has selected state Rep. Sam Russell, a 10-year veteran of the Texas House, as her new legislative director.

Russell, a Democrat from Mount Pleasant, will assume the job Aug. 1.

He will replace Jim Parker, who will continue to serve on an as-needed basis.

Russell, 46, is currently chairman of the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee, and House Democratic Caucus.

His departure from the House will mean that party officials in his district will be able to appoint candidates to face-off in November, the governor's office reported.

AUSTIN — Eight home buying workshops will be held around the state by the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs, which is encouraging first-time homebuyers and real estate agents to attend.

The workshops will inform the public about the department's single family bond program, which channels low-interest mortgage money through lenders to eligible low- and moderate-income families.

Court ruling on prayer pleases liberals

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court's latest word on school prayers has left liberals pleasantly surprised but President Bush and conservatives bitterly disappointed.

The court, in deciding a Rhode Island case by a 5-4 vote Wednesday, banned invocations and benedictions at graduation ceremonies.

In the same ruling, the justices rejected a Bush administration invitation to discard the way it has interpreted for two decades the Constitution's ban on "an establishment of religion."

The administration wanted the court to adopt a constitutional view more accommodating to religion, one allowing graduation prayers.

But the court's majority said graduation prayers can be psychologically coercive for "nonbeliever" students.

"The decision is a remarkable win for church-state separation in the schools and an embarrassing rebuff" to Bush, said Arthur Kropp of the liberal People for the American Way. He said the decision was a defeat for the administration, "the religious right and their school-prayer agenda."

Bush said he was "very disappointed" by the ruling.

"In this case, I believe that the court has unnecessarily cast away the venerable and proper American tradition of nonsectarian prayer at public celebrations," Bush said. "I continue to believe that this type of prayer should be allowed in public schools."

But Justice Anthony M. Kennedy, writing for the court, emphasized that the ruling was limited to public elementary and secondary schools.

Beverly LaHaye of the conservative Concerned Women for America denounced the decision, calling it "devastating to the rights of individuals and to the future of religious freedom in this country."

She added:

"The Constitution has been turned upside down when a court can decide an 18-year-old is mature enough to have an abortion without parental notification but not mature enough to differentiate between a ceremonial prayer and the proselytizing."

Jon G. Murray, president of American Atheists Inc. in Austin, Texas, called the ruling a "surprise" that broadened, rather than narrowed, the court's ban on officially sponsored classroom prayer.

Thomas L. Jipping of the Free Congress Foundation, a conservative group, said the increasingly conservative court still harbors "a majority of justices... willing to ignore the Constitution."

Jipping said the school-prayer ruling caters "to the most heathen and most pagan in the crowd."

Wednesday's ruling would not necessarily affect officially sponsored prayers at a public university or city council meeting.

The decision was a personal victory for Daniel Weisman and his family. Weisman, who is Jewish, sued over graduation ceremony prayers offered at his daughter's junior high school in Providence, R.I.

Told of the decision, Weisman said, "I'm just absolutely gratified."

Debbie Weisman and her father Daniel Weisman brought suit against Providence schools after a rabbi delivered an invocation at Debbie Weisman's graduation in 1989. Wednesday the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the 1962 ban on worship in public schools by prohibiting prayers at graduation.

Philippine President Corason Aquino salutes Thursday as she reviews an honor guard during a testimonial parade in her honor at a military camp in suburban Quezon City. President Aquino bade farewell to the military, some of whose members helped install her in power. She will turn over the government to president-elect Fidel Ramos on June 30.

Documents show MIA families misled

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — Declassified Pentagon documents released by a Senate panel show that the military knowingly misled families about the fate of American servicemen lost in secret operations during the war in Indochina.

Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate Select Committee on POW-MIA Affairs, also said Wednesday that as many as 133 U.S. servicemen may have been left behind in captivity when the Vietnam War ended nearly two decades ago.

"The information... does constitute evidence that some Americans remained alive in Indochina after Operation Homecoming" in 1973, said Kerry, who acknowledged that the panel "cannot prove they were alive."

Kerry said the committee's review of Defense Department documents shows that 244 Americans who did not return during Operation Homecoming "should have been recorded in captivity" in April 1973.

He said 111 Americans from that list of 244 were later found to have died — information learned from debriefing returning prisoners, leaving 133 unaccounted for.

Kerry said the Pentagon misled American families about the fate of servicemen.

"We learned that, for years during the war, the location of loss for those involved in covert operations in Cambodia and Laos was intentionally falsified, meaning that erroneous information was provided to families and inserted into files," Kerry said.

Labor party faces tough hurdles

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

JERUSALEM — Yitzhak Rabin's Labor party, victorious in general elections, faces a tough battle in keeping promises to hasten the Middle East peace process and reform the nation's economy.

Israelis remain deeply divided on the question of ceding war-won land for peace with the Arabs, a centerpiece of Labor's platform.

And unless there are advances on the peace front, Israel will still have trouble attracting foreign investment and the special aid it wants from the West for absorbing immigrants from former Soviet lands.

Yaacov Fisher, an analyst with the Praedicta forecasting firm, said Wednesday that Rabin's biggest challenge will be tackling all the problems at the same time.

"It's all interconnected," Fisher said. "If the peace process moves forward, there will be more interest in the economy from outside. This, in turn, will help the economy grow. This will help employment and immigration."

But right-wingers, who will be amply represented in the parliament elected Tuesday, have pledged to keep a close check on the new government's moves.

Opposition lawmaker Limor Livnat pledged Wednesday that the defeated Likud party of outgoing Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir would be "a fighting opposition," demanding to hold on to the territories.

Rabin and his party's leftist allies inherit from the Likud a nation in distress.

The U.S.-backed peace process, begun with great fanfare last fall in Madrid, Spain, has bogged down. The Bush administration, angry at Likud's drive for Jewish settlement on occupied Arab lands, held up $10 billion in loan guarantees that Israel needs to absorb tens of thousands of immigrants.

Immigration has slowed to a fraction of last year's wave as unemployment has risen to 11 percent among the general population — and four times that among immigrants.

In his victory speech, Rabin made clear his economic goals: jobs, encouragement of immigration, better education and affordable housing.

Anti-rodeo bill not good news

Can you believe that Congress is considering a bill that would outlaw rodeo? That's right, rodeo. U.S. Rep. Peter Kostmayer, D-Pa., introduced HR 3252 — the Animal Entertainment Act — almost a year ago. Should it pass the new bill would effectively prohibit the use of horses and other animals for sport and entertainment.

The wording of the bill makes it difficult to understand whether or not horse racing or other non-rodeo horse competitions would fall under the scope of the bill. It could affect livestock shows.

The bill sets forth standards for humane handling of animals, which would make it "unlawful to handle or exhibit the animal in a manner which would tend to injure, kill, or otherwise cause behavioral stress, pain or suffering such as hitting, striking, tripping, throwing, kicking, wrestling, shocking, overloading, overworking, or depriving of necessary food or drink."

The bill provides that within two years of enactment, the Secretary of Agriculture will issue rules to establish standards for the physical environment and for use, handling and disposition.

Additionally, an exhibitor will be required to give prior notice to the Secretary of the movement from one geographical location to another.

There are numerous other provisions. We feel these give you an idea as to what Kostmayer has authored. We're certainly glad that the honorable representative from Pennsylvania has things so much under control at home that he has time to come up with the likes of this piece of . . . legislation.

As you are enjoying the 59th Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, visit with the person sitting next to you. Make certain they understand that HR 3252 is bad legislation. Then, both you and your neighbor need to make the commitment to write House Agriculture chairman Kiki de La Garza, U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, 20515 and urge the defeat of HR 3252.

Other Texas views

Recessionary times in Texas are turning around; incomes, profits and property values are rising. But state government is looking at a $600 million shortfall for public education in September.

Leaving aside for a moment the serious implications for education, that shortfall means the state's taxing system does not reflect what is going on in the Texas economy. And in macho declarations from Austin, the state's governor and legislative leaders are saying they won't even try to correct the problem. Instead, they're playing chicken.

Public education is like a speeding jalopy rattling down a narrow two-lane. Coming in the opposite direction is a bus carrying the state's taxpayers. Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock says no new taxes, knowing the disastrous problems that will cause. He evidently hopes voters will swerve at the last minute and accept the need to invest more in public education. This form of doomsday leadership might work. But if it doesn't, the results won't be pretty.

Texas already has a second-rate education system, with per capita spending on students ranging $1,000 to $4,000 less than in other states. Anyone who thinks spending doesn't directly affect the quality of education must believe that the old saying "You get what you pay for" only applies to only to clothes, food, cars, and houses.

While we can blame the state's leaders for playing games, voters and taxpayers must understand just how serious the game really is. The push is on nationally to improve education. Does anyone think for a minute that spending cuts will lead to better education in Texas?

El Paso Times

Days after failing to pass a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution, the U.S. House carved the $8.25 billion super-conducting super collider out of the federal budget.

The already-begun North Texas project has long been controversial, with proponents arguing that it is necessary to keep the United States on the cutting edge of scientific research and opponents who portray it either as an uneconomic boondoggle or an unaffordable frill at a time of $350 billion to $400 billion budget deficits.

What is disheartening about the vote is its timing. As Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Gov. Ann Richards noted, the rejection of the project follows the failure of the constitutional amendment in the House.

This scientific endeavor should not be an election-year scapegoat for those who worry about having killed the balanced budget amendment, which polls show is popular with voters.

However, we also must emphasize that if Congress and President Bush seek a comprehensive, serious agreement to cut federal spending, then the super collider belongs on the table with everything else.

As Bush and Congress work to reduce the deficit, spending must be evaluated on its relative merit, not blindly hacked for partisan or regional motives.

Promises often don't make elections

By TOM RAUM
AP Writer

WASHINGTON — From George McGovern's proposed $1,000-a-person grant in 1972 to George Bush's "flexible freeze" in 1988, many bold economic plans offered in the heat of campaigns never see the light of day.

AP Analysis

Ambitious economic proposals have played a major role in recent American presidential races. They're all the rage again this year as the nation emerges slowly from recession and an incumbent president and his two challengers maneuver for position.

Expected Democratic nominee Bill Clinton weighed in over the weekend with a newly updated economic-revival blueprint grandly labeled "Putting People First." The plan proposes to cut the deficit in half by 1996 and scales back an earlier proposal for middle-income tax relief. Mayors applauded its $200 billion program to rebuild inner cities and for new road and mass-transit systems.

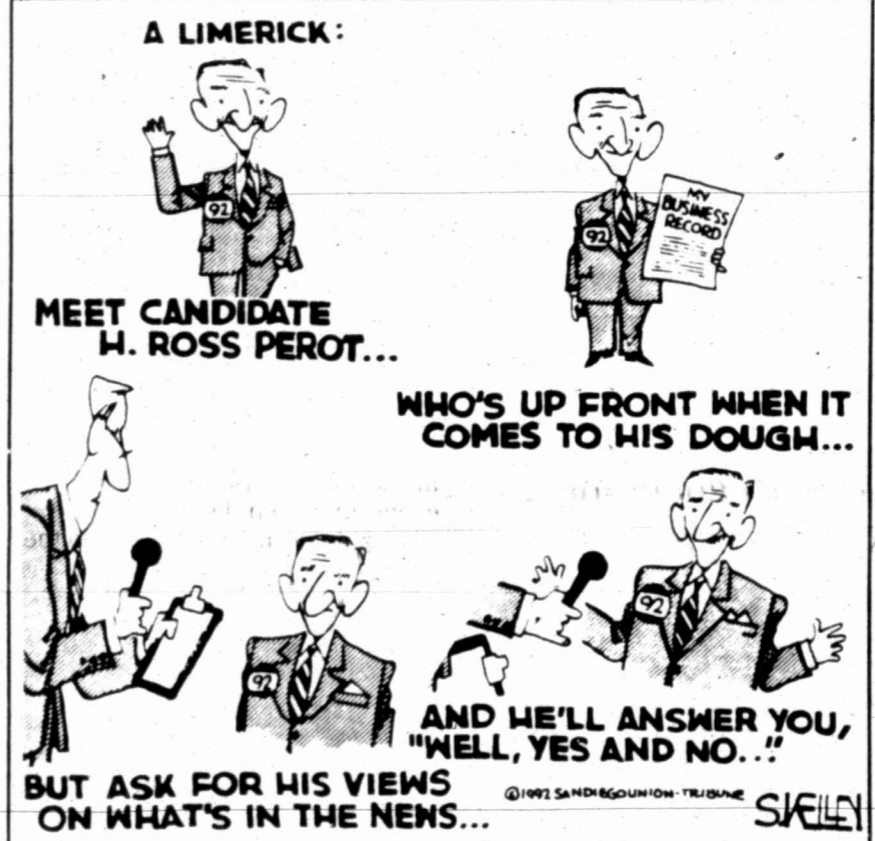

President Bush, who unlike his two rivals has a four-year record to defend, is sticking by his fiscal 1993 budget plan — augmented by a recent well-advertised push for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution.

While aggressive economic plans are part of nearly every presidential campaign, they've proven to have a short shelf life. "It's amazing how quickly they die, isn't it?" said economist David Wyss.

Wyss, chief financial economist with DRI-McGraw Hill in Lexington, Mass., says economic plans proposed by presidential candidates should never be taken too seriously "because you know darn well they won't be followed."

He says Clinton's plan is "fuzzy." Ross Perot has yet to come up with anything "which stands up to scrutiny by anyone who can add and subtract," and that Bush doesn't seem to know what he wants.

McGovern had a good excuse for the failure of his much-ridiculed proposal to give everyone either a $1,000 tax credit or a $1,000 federal payment. He lost the election.

The same fate befell 1988 Democratic nominee Michael Dukakis' "good jobs for good wages" plan.

And Democrat Walter Mondale never got a chance to follow up on his perhaps-too-frank assertion at the 1984 Democratic convention supporting a tax increase.

Former California Gov. Jerry Brown's current proposal for a 13 percent "flat tax" seems destined to a similar end — the same graveyard that holds the remains of 1988 Democratic hopeful Bruce Babbitt's proposal for a 5 percent national sales tax.

But what about Ronald Reagan's vow to balance the budget by the end of his first term, Jimmy Carter's scheme for "zero-base budgeting" or Bush's own "flexible freeze?"

None of these schemes came to fruition and their authors can't claim defeat.

Bush's much ballyhooped "flexible freeze" would have kept overall spending except for Social Security payments at existing levels, plus inflation. His "no new taxes" pledge sought to reinforce the concept.

But "flexible freeze" has not been heard at the White House since Bush's election. And everybody knows what became of Bush's "read my lips" vow against new taxes.

Bush's most recent budget projected a $400 billion federal deficit.

Both Clinton's decision to retool his economic plan to put more emphasis on deficit reduction and Bush's new emphasis on his long-dormant balanced-budget proposal reflect Perot's influence on the race.

Yet the man who managed to build a $3 billion fortune from scratch and has been the most critical of government spending habits has been the least specific on how he would end the fiscal shortfall.

Spokesman James Squires says Perot will soon offer a more detailed proposal to replace his earlier litany for how to save $400 billion a year.

But Perot said today the plan isn't ready yet and he doubted that he would have it by early July, despite his "see me in 60 days" vow to newspaper publishers in New York on May 5.

"You can expect a detailed deficit-reduction plan when I'm ready," he said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show. "I am an engineer. I follow the old cardinal rule: measure twice, cut once."

He accused Bush of not having a plan and complained that no one had pressed Clinton for a detailed plan "before it came out" last weekend.

Perot has asserted that he would save $100 billion by making Japan and Europe pay for their own defense; lop off another $100 billion by catching tax cheats; another $180 billion by weeding out fraud, waste and abuse; and a final $20 billion by making rich people pay taxes on Social Security benefits.

That prescription has been widely criticized as overly simplistic.

"That $400 billion thing has never been anything other than a talking point in his early speeches," Squires said Monday. "He's going to have a much broader, more specific approach to it."

Even so, Squires said, Perot believes most election-year economic plans "are kind of gimmicky."

Not all vows by presidential candidates are written in disappearing ink.

Even though Reagan failed to make headway on his vow to balance the budget, he was successful in getting through Congress his proposals for domestic spending cuts, a tax cut and an increase in defense spending.

Reagan's program "helped convince a lot of voters that Ronald Reagan wasn't just making speeches. There was substance behind it," said Murray Weidenbaum, who was Reagan's first chief economist.

Still, as an overall rule, "you've got to be skeptical of any politician's proposal," Weidenbaum said.

Supreme Court — more suits, less sense

Random thoughts while daydreaming:

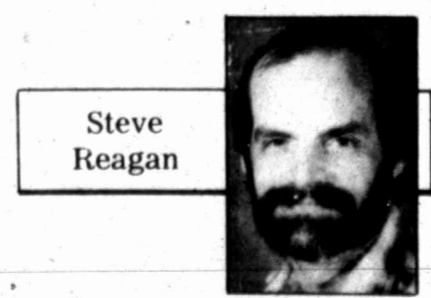

It's days like these that convinces me that common sense is an endangered attribute.

You remember common sense, don't you? Common sense was what told you not to put your hand on the stove when it was hot, or to look both ways before crossing the street, or to be nice to someone — especially if he was bigger than you.

Common sense also told us that if we knowingly ingest a potentially harmful substance — and we end up dead or seriously ill as a result — then we had no one to blame but ourselves.

Well, folks, those days are screaming to a halt.

The Supreme Court of the United States ruled Wednesday that persons could sue cigarette companies for allegedly misrepresenting the dangers of smoking. This decision will apparently clear the way for a bunch of lawsuits from families of people who have died or become seriously ill as a result of smoking cigarettes.

What particularly galls me about the decision is that anyone with more than two active brain cells should know the dangers in smoking.

While I'm not particularly proud of the fact, I smoke and I know the risks I'm running. Common sense has told me that I'm playing a form of Russian roulette. Consequently, common sense tells me, if something bad happens, I will be the one to blame.

But — aha! — the Supreme Court has now stepped in and said, in so many words, that the rules have changed. If something bad now happens as a result of smoking, I can take the cigarette makers to court.

Granted, it won't be the easiest million I've ever made. Me or my family would have to prove that the cigarette company "deliberately concealed the dangers of smoking and also conspired to withhold the truth."

The fact that I should know this without some company telling me is obviously beyond the point.

It all reminds me of a case a few years ago where a woman consumed something like a fifth of alcohol a day while she was pregnant, then sued the company after her baby was stillborn.

Common sense held sway that time, and the case was tossed out of court. But, apparently, those times are slipping away.

It really is depressing when you think about it. The next thing you know, some parent will sue a stove maker because Junior singed his hand on an open flame.

I openly hope for the day when a judge takes a look at one of these nuisance cases, shakes his head, looks at the plaintiff and says, "Get a life, man! Case dismissed."

It's not like the courts don't have enough to do; our legal system is bursting at the seams. Someone once told me that suing had replaced baseball as the national pastime — and now the Supreme Court has gone and cleared the way for even more lawsuits.

Where's it ever going to end? What we need now is less litigation — and more common sense.

Big men lead the way in NBA draft

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — For the biggest moment thus far in his basketball career, Shaquille O'Neal was not alone. He made sure of that.

The 7-foot-1, 294-pound center, considered one of college basketball's best big men ever, brought an entourage of 32 family members and friends to Portland to watch him become the No. 1 selection in the NBA draft on Wednesday.

"We paid for everything," he said.

O'Neal should be able to afford it once he signs a contract with Orlando Magic, the team that won last month's draft lottery and made the former Louisiana State star the first selection.

O'Neal is expected to seek a multi-year contract worth at least $5 million per year. He said he was pleased to join a team that obviously needs him.

"I'm not promising we'll win a championship in the first year. Things take time," he said. "But I'll learn the ropes, get my feet wet, and after that I'm going to be a good player. I think I'll be pretty hard to stop."

O'Neal's parents beamed as their son's name was announced by NBA commissioner David Stern.

"I've done more than my parents could have imagined," O'Neal said. "I've done some things that they've always wanted me to. Whether I become an NBA great or not, they'll always be proud of me because I listened to them."

There were a few surprises among the first-round selections in front of a noisy crowd at Portland's Memorial Coliseum.

The draft was moved from New York City for the first time in NBA history because most of the media that covers the league and all the top pro basketball officials are in Portland for the Tournament of the Americas. The Olympic qualifying competition that features the U.S. "Dream Team" made up of top professional players begins Saturday.

Big men dominated the early selections. Alonzo Mourning, the latest standout Georgetown center, went to the Charlotte Hornets at No. 2.

"I think he'll have an immediate impact on the rebounding of our team and our shot blocking, and our interior defense," said Dave Twardzik, Charlotte's director of player personnel. The Hornets were last in the NBA in blocked shots last year.

Christian Laettner of Duke was picked third by Minnesota, which had the worst record in the league last season at 15-67.

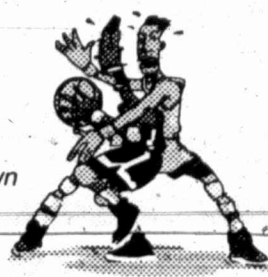

"Minnesota is somewhere I want to go," he said. "I'm looking forward to the challenge of going up there and helping the team win."

Jim Jackson of Ohio State was the No. 4 pick, chosen by the Dallas Mavericks. He'll be expected to fill the shoes of Rolando Blackman, Rolando Blackman." LaPhonso Ellis of Notre Dame, whose stock rose considerably with his standout play in the three tryout camps, was selected by Denver as the No. 5 pick.

"I'm excited to be taken so high," Ellis said. "I think the difference in getting picked fifth was the fact that I showed them I could shoot from long range. I was on a mission to show them I could shoot the ball."

Denver also had the 13th pick and used it to select Bryant Stith, who played mostly forward at Virginia but is projected as a guard in the NBA.

Tom Gugliotta of North Carolina State went to Washington at No. 6, followed by Walt Williams of Maryland to Sacramento as No. 7.

Four Pac-10 players slipped in the selection order, compared with pre-draft predictions. Adam Keefe of Stanford, projected to be chosen as early as No. 5, wound up as the 10th choice, picked by the Atlanta Hawks.

Offensive-minded Harold Miner of Southern Cal was Miami's selection at No. 12.

The UCLA duo of Tracy Murray and Don MacLean slipped to Nos. 18 and 19. Murray was picked by San Antonio, MacLean by Detroit.

Detroit then traded MacLean and William Bedford to the Los Angeles Clippers for Olden Polynice and the Clippers' second-round draft picks in 1996 and 1997.

The Spurs' pick of Murray reportedly was called by Milwaukee, which is expected to trade Dale Ellis to San Antonio for the rights to Murray next week.

The Bucks had two other first-round choices and used both of them to pick players from Arkansas. They used the No. 8 selection to draft forward Todd Day and the No. 23 choice to pick guard Lee Mayberry.

Milwaukee obtained Utah's No. 23 pick in a last-minute trade that sent Eric Murdock and Blue Edwards to Milwaukee in exchange for Larry Krystowiak and Jay Humphries.

Arkansas became the fifth school ever and third in a row to have three players chosen in the first round. Center Oliver Miller went to Phoenix as the No. 22 pick. The Razorbacks also had a player chosen in the second round, Isaiah Morris, who was Miami's choice in the No. 37 spot.

Clarence Weatherspoon of Southern Mississippi went to Philadelphia as No. 9.

Robert Horry of Alabama was the No. 11 choice of Houston. Malik Sealy of St. John's was the No. 14 pick of Indiana.

Randy Woods, a sharpshooting 6-foot guard from La Salle, was a surprisingly high choice at No. 16 by the Los Angeles Clippers.

Doug Christie of Pepperdine was chosen by Seattle at No. 17.

Powell edges Lewis in long jump

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mike Powell did it to Carl Lewis again.

Last year, Powell ended Lewis' 10-year, 65-meet winning streak in the long jump in 1991 with a world-record leap of 29 feet, 4 1/2 inches.

On Wednesday night, he turned in the best jump in the world this year — a leap of 28-3 1/2 at the Olympic Trials that gave him the top spot on the team.

Lewis qualified second at 28-0, the 65th time he's jumped that distance.

Lewis finished a surprising sixth in the 100 meters on Saturday, an event in which he has won two Olympic gold medals. He'll run the first round of the 200 meters on Friday.

Joe Greene took the third spot in the long jump with a leap of 27-1 1/4.

Butch Reynolds, running his third race in less than 29 hours, finished second in the men's 400-meter semifinals Wednesday night behind Quincy Watts' blazing 43.97.

"I feel good, finishing second to Watts wasn't a problem, the object is to get through," Reynolds said.

Reynolds, who has run only five times in the last two years, had a time of 44:14, tying the 16th-best mark ever.

Watts, the NCAA champion from Southern California, had the fastest time since the 1983 Olympics and matched the sixth-best ever — Watts won the collegiate championship this month in 44.00.

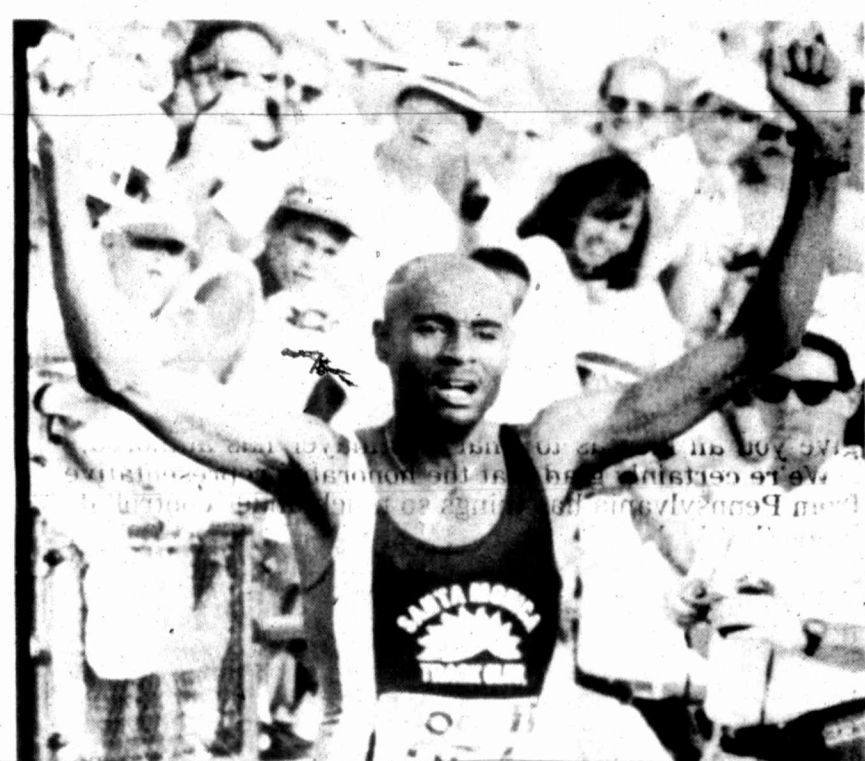

Danny Everett won the second heat at 44.69. Steve Lewis, the 1988 Olympic champion, followed Everett in 44.77, while 1991 world champion Antonio Pettigrew finished fifth and failed to get to the final.

The finals will be run on Friday. Also Wednesday, Johnny Gray took the men's 800 in 1:42.80. Mark Everett was second at 1:43.67, fifth on the all-time American list. Tony Parrilla, a sophomore at Tennessee, was third at 1:43.97. Geroge Kersh finished fourth for the second straight time in the Olympic trials at 1:44.00. All four places are the four fastest times in the world this year.

"The first step has been taken," Gray said. "We need to go to Barcelona and beat this performance. I think this is the year."

Jud Logan won the men's hammer throw at 262-10, a trials record. Lance Deal was second, throwing 256-8. Ken Flax was third at 254-5. They are the same three who made up the U.S. Olympic team in 1988.

Johnny Gray, from Los Angeles, celebrates after winning the men's 800 meters in 1:42.80, the fastest time in the world this year.

Miles was second in 50.22 and Natasha Kaiser was third in 50.42.

Mary Slaney, the American record-holder, eased through her 1,500-meter first-round heat in 4:13.07, the fastest time overall.

"I felt a lot better today," said Slaney, who had her 14th surgery, a foot operation, on March 4.

PattiSue Plumer, winner of the 3,000 meters Monday night, also won her 1,500 heat in 4:14.61.

Aces fly at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — The aces were flying faster than in a crooked card game.

Thwack! Goran Ivanisevic pounded 34 aces, the most in a Wimbledon match in 16 years, while defeating Mark Woodforde on Centre Court.

Ka-boom! Pete Sampras rattled the accouter's abacus with 28 serves that Todd Woodbridge never touched.

Shwoosh! The ball came off Ivanisevic's racket so fast — up to 129 mph — that it whistled through the air as it flew toward the helpless Woodforde.

Three women's seeds advanced into the third round in early play today.

Nine-time champion Martina Navratilova, the third seed this year, completed a second-round victory over Kimberly Po.

The all-American match was tied at one set apiece when darkness suspended play Wednesday evening, and Navratilova was struggling. But she quickly took control today to finish off a 6-2, 3-6, 6-0 victory.

Zina Garrison, seeded 13th, defeated fellow American Linda Harvey-Wild 6-2, 6-4 and 16th seed Judith Wiesner was a 6-0, 6-1 winner over Kataryna Nowak.

On Wednesday, Australians Woodforde and Woodbridge must have started wondering whether someone had painted bullseyes on their chests.

Sampras, the fifth seed, hit the ball like a rocket against Wood-

Rickey Henderson was only kidding

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — All in all, Rickey Henderson considered it pretty good day, the catcalls from the hometown crowd notwithstanding.

"I had fun," said Henderson, who began the day by abandoning his trade demand, saying it was a joke. Then he got serious by doubling twice and scoring twice to help Oakland beat the Seattle Mariners 7-2 Wednesday for a sweep of the three-game series.

Henderson took back Tuesday night's public trade demand, made in the presence of two reporters, prior to Wednesday's game. He didn't deny making the remarks but claimed he was just "jiving around." Both reporters said it was clear to them he was serious.

"Rickey tricked everybody... Thank you all. I finally got a chance to laugh," he said before the game.

He promptly doubled and, after a sacrifice, scored from third on Mark McGwire's single. In the fourth, he doubled home a run, stole third and scored again, this time on Jose Canseco's single.

"I had a good day," Henderson said. "The fans? Some fans would be booing me even if they didn't read the paper."

'Jays edge Rangers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
Every team is always looking for starting pitching, even the team with the most victories in the major leagues.
The Toronto Blue Jays decided to give David Wells another chance to try Wednesday night, and it paid off with a 3-2 victory over the Texas Rangers.
Roberto Alomar tripled home the tying run and scored on a wild pitch by Bobby Witt (8-6) that hit the backstop on the fly, capping a three-run rally in the fifth inning.

Reds brawl way to victory over Astros

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Cincinnati Reds are fighting to stay ahead of the Atlanta Braves in the National League West.
The division-leading Reds maintained their one-game lead over the Braves on Wednesday night with a 9-6 victory over Houston at Riverfront Stadium in a game that featured a bench-clearing brawl which led to the ejection of three players and a coach.
The fight broke out in the fifth inning after Hal Morris capped a six-run Reds' rally with a three-run homer.
Pete Harnisch (3-7) threw the next pitch behind Reggie Sanders' head, triggering a free-for-all that held up play for eight minutes. Harnisch, Reds teammates Glenn Braggs and Rob Dibble, and Astros coach Ed Ott were ejected.
Harnisch denied that he intentionally threw at Sanders.
In Atlanta, the red-hot Braves kept pace with a 5-0 win over San Francisco. John Smoltz pitched a two-hitter and struck out 10 as Atlanta got its third straight shutout and fifth consecutive victory.

Otis Nixon hit his first home run in nearly two years and drove in three runs as the Braves won for the 21st time in 24 games.
Reds 9, Astros 6
At Cincinnati, Greg Swindell (7-2) struggled early but stayed around just long enough to get the win. Norm Charlton pitched two shutout innings for his 17th save.
The Astros took a 3-0 lead on Ken Caminiti's two-run homer in the first and RBI single in the second. But the Reds came back with six runs in the fifth and added three unearned runs in the sixth on an error by Craig Biggio and RBI singles by Barry Larkin and Morris.
Braves 5, Giants 0
At Atlanta, Smoltz (8-5) limited

National League
the Giants to a pair of two-out singles by Will Clark in the first and ninth innings. Smoltz, who retired 17 straight at one point, walked two and hit a batter in his second shutout and fifth complete game of the season.
The Braves went 11-1 on their homestand, the best in team history. Atlanta starters are 16-1 with a 1.78 ERA in the last 24 games. The Giants, who have lost nine of 11, have scored only one run in their last 34 innings.
Cardinals 4, Pirates 1
At Pittsburgh, Bob Tewksbury pitched 6 1-3 shutout innings on three days' rest as the Cardinals avoided a three-game sweep.
Tewksbury (8-2) got out of two bases-loaded jams and won for the fifth time in six decisions. He gave up 10 hits, struck out three and walked none.

The Cardinals, who had lost eight of their previous nine games to Pittsburgh, scored all their runs in the fourth against Doug Drabek (5-6) on five ground-ball singles.
Mets 3, Cubs 2
At New York, Cub-killer Dwight Gooden got his first win in a month and doubled in a run as the Mets won their fourth straight.
Gooden (5-6) allowed six hits and struck out three in eight innings. It was his first victory since beating San Francisco 6-3 on May 23.
Expos 8, Phillies 1
At Montreal, Ken Hill pitched well and had two hits, including his first career home run.
Moises Alou drove in three runs with two doubles, and Delino DeShields went 4 for 5 as the Expos snapped a three-game losing streak.

bridge and had pinpoint accuracy on the placement of his serves in his 7-6 (7-2), 7-6 (7-4), 6-7 (7-9), 6-4 Centre Court victory.
Ivanisevic's 34 aces were the most in a Wimbledon match since John Feaver uncorked 42 in a loss to John Newcombe 16 years ago. That match lasted five sets; Ivanisevic needed only four to win.
No men's seeds were defeated Wednesday, but two women's seeds lost.
No. 5 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario was ousted 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 by Julie Halard and Kimiko Date, the 15th seed, lost 6-1, 6-3 to American Gigi Fernandez.

Top women's seed Monica Seles, who played on Centre Court between the Ivanisevic and Sampras bombardments, defeated Sabine Appelmans 6-3, 6-2.
Other women advancing to the third round included ninth seed Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere and her sister, No. 12 Katerina Maleeva. Also winning were No. 7 seed Mary Joe Fernandez, 10th seed Anke Huber and 14th-seeded Nathalie Tauziat.

In team roping, three of the 10 teams posted times. Vance Vest and Doug Wilson had the quickest rope with six seconds but were penalized five seconds for missing a leg. Lynn Haverkamp and Dan Bramez roped an 8.1 and Jimmy Martinez and Dan Fisher clocked in with a 9.7.

The night's second event was saddle bronc. It proved to be the closest competition of the show with seven cowboys squeezed within four points of each other.

Former Howard College cowboy T.J. Kenney of Pecos and Jim Bob Custer of Wickenburg, Ariz., tied for the best scores of the event with 74s. Last week Kenney was competing in the Collegiate National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont.

Erik Totten was next with a 73 and Steve Dollarhide had a 72. Dollarhide is currently in the top 15 on the tour.

The Big Spring Rodeo Bowl was about three-quarters full for this yearly performance of the Professional Rodeo Cowboy's Association, and the crowd enjoyed the humor of Coahoma rodeo clown Quail Dobbs. Dobbs had a long skit in the middle of the competition that involved a noisy jalopy that exploded with fireworks and caught fire on cue.

NASA graphics illustrate the spread of volcanic particles from the eruption of Mt. Pinatubo in the Philippines in June 1991, which could disrupt weather and atmospheric conditions. In the top graphic, no particles are visible before the eruption; in the middle graphic the volcanic cloud is being spread along the equator by wind currents shortly after the eruption; and at bottom, the particle cloud has now spread worldwide.

Pinatubo eruption affecting weather

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HAMPTON, Va. — Particles from a volcanic eruption a year ago have spread worldwide in the upper atmosphere, and scientists say the impact could range from this week's cool weather in the East to changes in the ozone layer.

However, a NASA scientist who has studied satellite photographs of the clouds of fine volcanic ash and other material in the stratosphere said Tuesday the changes caused by the eruptions of Mount Pinatubo in the Philippines in June 1991 should fade.

"Based on previous experience, it takes three to four years for the stratosphere to cleanse itself," said Lamont Poole, a researcher at the NASA Langley Research Center. "But it does take a while for everything to come back to its pre-eruption state."

Already, some experts are speculating that cool weather this spring and early summer in parts of the United States may be linked to the volcanic material blocking some sun light.

"It doesn't seem coincidental," said Patrick J. Michaels, Virginia's climatologist.

Dozens of low temperature records have been reported this week from the Mississippi Valley to the East Coast as arctic air surged southward. But temperatures were well above normal in the Pacific Northwest, up to 111 Monday at Medford, Ore.

Record lows Tuesday included 39 degrees at Atlantic City, N.J. Temperatures fell into the 20s in parts of northern Pennsylvania.

Patrick Minnis, a NASA scientist who is studying the volcano's effect on how much energy the Earth takes in and releases, said weather patterns have been disrupted throughout history by volcanoes. "Based on experience, we would expect some kind of cooling to occur," he said.

Within a month of Pinatubo's eruption, air currents had spread its cloud of particles around the globe in a narrow band covering the tropics.

Now, satellite photographs show that the particles cover virtually the entire planet, Poole said. He said the particle cloud has caused or could produce a number of environmental changes.

Settlement discussed

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — City Council members discussed offering Rodney King up to $8 million to settle his lawsuit for alleged police brutality when he was beaten by police during a traffic stop, newspapers reported today.

A settlement that big, if it is approved, apparently would be the largest ever for a police brutality case in Los Angeles.

Four officers were already tried on criminal assault charges stemming from the March 3, 1991, incident that was recorded on videotape. The acquittals of the white officers April 29 sparked riots that left 52 people dead and about $800 million in property damage. One officer faces a new trial on one charge.

In a separate civil action, King, who is black, sued for $83 million in damages from the city.

Council members met Wednesday for about 90 minutes behind closed doors and debated offering King $5 million to $8 million, the Los Angeles Times reported, quoting unidentified sources.

The Daily News of Los Angeles quoted three officials close to the talks as saying a $6 million settlement was considered.

But no offer was made Wednesday. The City Council was expected to discuss a settlement again in two weeks, and council members and other officials made no comment in the meantime.

"We have all agreed to let (City Attorney) Jim Hahn speak for us," Councilman Zev Yaroslavsky told reporters after the meeting.

Hahn said a federal gag order prevented him from disclosing the nature of the talks.

King indicated he would welcome a settlement.

Azure and Claire Miller have been accepted to attend preparatory schools of their choice. The daughters of Robert and Mary Miller, and Linda Miller, they say they are excited about the opportunity for a better education.

Teen sisters look forward to attending preparatory school

By LYNN HAYES
Staff Writer

Azure and Claire Miller, daughters of Robert and Mary Miller, and Linda Miller, are preparing to leave for boarding school.

Because of their exceptional academic skills, the sisters — who maintain an A average — have each been accepted to preparatory schools of their choice.

Azure and Claire both received the American Legion Award while attending Runnels Junior High School and Goliad Middle School.

Azure, 16, has been accepted to attend St. Stephens Episcopal School, a co-ed, preparatory school in Austin.

After completing a questionnaire, which required answers in essay form, and providing school transcripts and letters of recommendation from former teachers at Big Spring High School, Azure was chosen by St. Stephens officials to attend the school.

"I've always wanted to go to a boarding school because I wanted a better education than I could get here," Azure said.

Although she's undecided about her future goals, the teenager said she may follow in her father's footsteps and choose a career as an attorney. She also said a career as an oceanographer or an astronaut is high on her list.

Claire, 14, was awarded a $5,000 per year scholarship to attend Saint Mary's Hall in San Antonio.

After scoring high on the entrance exam, Claire, who was one of 75 applicants, was surprised to learn she'd won the Campbell Academic Scholarship.

"It was the hardest test I've ever taken. I mean I was clueless," Claire admitted.

After making the list of 20 finalists, Claire was interviewed by the scholarship committee, which consisted of college professors from throughout Texas.

"Both of our goals are to make something of our lives," Claire said.

Texas 4-H Roundup Driver awarded scholarship

Dane Marvin Driver was awarded a $10,000, four-year Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo 4-H scholarship recently in special ceremonies at the Texas 4-H Roundup in College Station, according to a news release.

Dane, son of Skipper and Wanda Driver, Big Spring, is a graduate of Forsan High School where he was a member of the student council and the National High School Rodeo Team.

Dane was a member of 4-H for 10 years, exhibiting both sheep and horses. He also received the 4-H Gold Star Award and numerous county awards in gardening, veterinary science, sheep, wildlife and fisheries.

Planning to major in farm and ranch management at Howard College, Dane was one of 50 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo 4-H scholarship winners honored.

"I want to establish myself as a successful and prominent beef and cattle producer," Dane said.

Members of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service choose the 4-H scholarship recipients. The selected students all demonstrated academic excellence and strong leadership skills throughout their high school careers.

All 4-H recipients must pursue a degree in agriculture or life sciences at a Texas college or university.

In remarks to the Texas 4-H Roundup participants, James R. "Dick" Graves, president of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, said, "As many of you know, we had the most successful show of our 60-year history just a few months ago. Nearly one million people attended our rodeo and more than 1.5 million people attended our livestock show, horse show and rodeo combined."

He also commented on the results of caps placed on the amount of money junior show exhibitors could receive for their animals at auction. Money paid in excess of these caps — first implemented in 1992 — $808,900, was added to the show's scholarship fund.

DANE DRIVER

As Graves prepared to hand out the 50 scholarships, he noted, "It is quite obvious that the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo is committed to youth, to education and to the improvement of agricultural production and processing. Our partnership with the Texas 4-H and our association with these fantastic young people you see here tonight exemplify this commitment."

Scholarship funding is provided by revenues earned at the annual Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. The show has committed more than $2 million in educational funds for the upcoming school year.

Freshwater fish

Many anglers enjoy fishing for largemouth bass. They are found in rivers and lakes.

- are mainly cold-blooded. Their body temperature is the same as the water around them.

Salmon, like some fish, can live in fresh and salt water. Salmon hatch in freshwater streams. Then they migrate thousands of miles out into the saltwater ocean. After two to seven years, they return to the freshwater stream where they first hatched.

Bobber: a float, usually plastic, that keeps the bait at the right depth.
Sinker: a weight that pulls your bait down.
Hooks: come in several sizes.
Bait: a live worm, minnow or a lure.

Anglers often use the improved cinch knot.

Spincasting

Older kids might use a rod and reel. A reel enables you to store a lot of line.

Small guides for the line

The line goes through a small hole in a covered reel holding the line.

Spincasters can cast, or fling, the bait farther out into the water.

Cotton yields may be 75 percent down

By PATRICK DRISCOLL
Staff Writer

Because of adverse weather in recent weeks, farmers in Martin County face similar problems that cotton farmers across West Texas face.

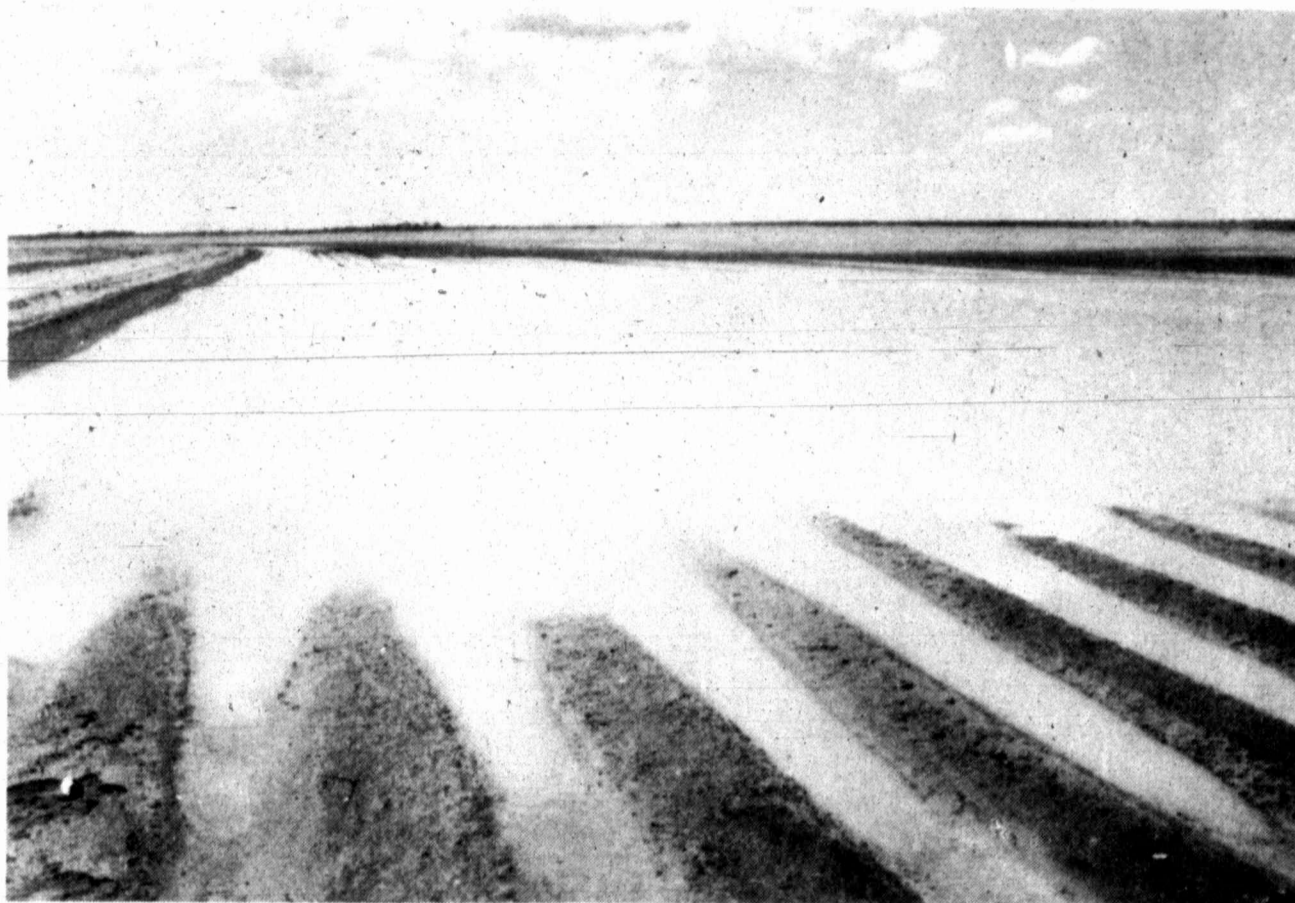

With yields expected to be only 25 percent of normal this year, Martin County Judge Bob Deavenport last week requested that Gov. Ann Richards declare the county a disaster area.

"Coming after an extremely poor crop in 1991, our economy is severely impacted," Deavenport said in a June 15 letter to Richards.

In 1991, about half the county's cotton acres were harvested following drenching rains that summer and early freezes later in the year, according to statistics kept by Texas Utilities Electric. Cotton quality was also bad last year because of weather and sales amounted to $5.6 million, only 17 percent of the total $33.5 million in sales in 1990.

Of 112,000 acres targeted for planting this year, 18,000 acres are still under water. 20,000 acres were given up and half the yield is lost in fields not replanted following smothering rains, cold temperatures and blowing sand in late May and early June, said Nester Hernandez, director of the Martin County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service.

Also, the 40,000 acres of cotton so far replanted is about three weeks behind normal planting dates and therefore faces danger from early freezes in October, Hernandez said. Many farmers are still replanting.

Flooded fields, such as this field located in the northeast corner of Martin County near the Brown Community, have caused major damage to cotton that was recently planted. Nearly two weeks after the adverse weather, 18,000 acres are still under water, and cotton harvests are expected to reap only 25 percent of normal yield.

"They're busy. We've got a lot of replanting," Hernandez said. "Only Mother Nature will be able to determine what will happen."

"It doesn't look real promising," said Lenora farmer Bruce Key, whose 500-acre farm is near where most problems were reported in northeast areas of the county. Key said he replanted 150 acres and should have probably replanted another 90 acres.

"I've got some that looks half-way decent and some that looks like it ought to be plowed up," Key said. "There's some spots that went ahead and died after I decided not to replant." "Every year is different out here," he said. "We'll just have to wait and see what happens."

Of the 20,000 acres that farmers gave up on, grains such as grain sorghum or hay cover is being planted, Hernandez said.

Kathryn's korner

Plans got under way this week to hold a "Pine Box Derby" Tuesday, July 7 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Center. The event is being held just prior to Old Settler's as a preliminary event to boost local participation.

The event will also provide an opportunity for families to work together. Pine Box Derby kits will be on sale at local merchants for $2.20. There is no age limit. Each family in the community is encouraged to purchase a kit and design it as a family. When it comes to painting, put your family name, crest or symbol that signifies a family value you hold dear. Maximum weight for the car is 5 oz. You can put graphite on the wheels or run them dry.

Following the races, ribbons and awards will be presented. Then it's time to break out the homemade ice cream. Members of the Extension Home Economics Committee will be lining up people to make ice cream.

Preliminary plans for this event were made by the Extension Home Economics Committee. We would like to have other local organizations to join us in sponsoring the event. If your group would like to co-sponsor this event, please contact Kathryn Burch (756-3316).

The Pine Box Derby race will provide a great opportunity for your family to work together. It will provide time to talk and encourage one another. When race day comes, you will be a team.

The event promises to be festive and fun for all ages; for participants and for spectators. So, mark your calendar today for July 7.

***
Pinewood Derby, an old Boy Scout project, is used as a county-wide promotion interaction between children and their parents.

The Derby is slated for Tuesday, July 7, at 7:30 p.m. at the Martin County Community Center.

As my sons and I hung posters around town, several people related stories of days gone by when they had made pinewood derby cars. I heard about wheels that wobbled off and paint that never dried.

Kits for making the cars are available at Bill's True Value Hardware and Stanton Drug. Each kit consists of a block of wood, four wheels, four nails and instructions for entering county competition. Cost is $2.20.

The time spent working on the car will give parents a chance to interact with their child. Paint a symbol on the car that represents a family value. As you try to decide what will be painted on the car, this will give you an opportunity to talk about different things your family values.

We expect our children to have values similar to ours, yet, if we never talk to them about values, how can we expect children to know what we value?

The Pinewood Derby is billed as great fun for everyone. If you don't get a chance to make a car, come and enjoy the races and homemade ice cream.

This project is being promoted by the Extension Home Economics Committee. For more information, contact 756-3316.

Kathryn Burch is the extension home economist for Martin County.

Cap Rock connection

Cap Rock Electric has purchased an office building in Midland that will offer downtown convenience to its Midland-area customer-members.

Cap Rock's board for almost a decade recognized the need for a Midland office and when Community National Bank several months ago informed the board it would no longer accept and forward Cap Rock bill payments, the search for a Midland office was intensified.

The majority of the office space in the 50,000-square-foot building will be occupied by rental tenants. There is an off-street drive-through window for ease in making bill payments, however. It is possible in the future that certain management functions will be moved to the Midland location, which will allay the overcrowding problem in the Stanton building. The current number of employees will remain virtually the same for the Stanton building, however.

The building in Midland is an office building, while the building in Stanton is an operational facility, with a yard and warehouse for storage of vehicles, equipment and materials. These facilities and almost all Cap Rock employees will remain.

The purchase of this office building, located at 500 W. Wall Street and which formerly housed the First Bankers Corporation, will not impact Cap Rock's rate payers. It is a stand-alone deal, financed by borrowing against the building. The revenue generated from the building will take care of costs and Cap Rock will have rent-free, cost-free office space in a location offering maximum convenience to our Midland-area customers.

Real estate values in the Midland area are at rock-bottom at the present time, and though the building was not purchased as an investment, it could be a good investment. It increases the Cap Rock plant and adds value to the equity of every Cap Rock customer-member.

It will be several months before the facility will be ready for payment of bills and other services for our customer-members. Projected opening date for the building is Jan. 18, 1993.

Peggy Luxton is communications advisor for Cap Rock Electric.

Staightforward daughter throws mother a curve

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful 16-year-old daughter. She is very bright — a straight-A student and has been involved in ballet for many years. She knows what she wants in life, and I am sure she will achieve it.

Last week, she asked me if it would be OK for her just once to take the Indian drug peyote, also known as "mushroom." She had heard from friends that it heightens your awareness, and she wants to experience it just once. She loves all kinds of music, and she feels that this would help her to have a deeper understanding of it.

I was very upset when she told me this, but she assured me that she would not take the drug without my approval. Abby, I have never

Dear Abby

— CONCERNED LOS ANGELES MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: How fortunate you are to have a daughter who is so straight and honest with you. Peyote (also known as mescaline) is a hallucinogenic. It is also an illegal substance. Since it is easy to become addicted to substances that produce feelings of euphoria, my advice is to commend your daughter for her honesty, give her a hug, and tell her that you cannot give your approval.

DEAR ABBY: What a beautiful letter from "Thankful in Madera, Calif." — the woman who said no one gave her a shower when she was married, but on her wedding day she received the greatest gift in the world — a wonderful husband.

Abby, I would like to share something that I keep in front of my computer as well as a copy in my purse to remind me to be grateful for the many blessings I have:

"So much has been given to me; I have no time to ponder over that which has been denied." — Helen Keller

Thanks, Abby! — PAT NORDMAN, DELAND, FLA.

DEAR PAT: Thank you for a beautiful addition to my collection of "keepers." Helen Keller heads my list of most admired women.

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 26, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: You may have to retrace certain steps before moving forward. Going back to school in the fall could increase your earning power. Travel and service-oriented businesses get a welcome boost in October.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: author Pearl Buck, newscaster Alex Dreier, golfer Babe Didrikson, actor Peter Lorre.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Recent tensions or misgivings disappear. A creative approach will win you financial backing for a business venture. Nurture an important alliance and watch profits soar!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A bright idea wins you new respect from those in authority. Strike while the iron is hot and ask for the practical support you need. Offer to take full responsibility for a project's outcome.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Steer clear of troublemakers. A check arrives, relieving financial worries. Call on your sense of humor to help you defuse an office quarrel. Disaster will result if you decide to take sides.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Things should be going your way now. A telephone call and business trip will put you in an exciting position. Pace yourself to avoid exhaustion. Good eating habits contribute to your vitality.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Wise financial counsel could come from your co-workers. A pay raise or promotion is possible. Your dedication to your loved ones offers long-range benefits for everyone involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Confidential plans or conferences could make this a red-letter day for business. Avoid stating your opinion as if it were the only correct one. Greater tact will win people over to your views.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A new career development could mean greater social prestige. Go ahead and celebrate that raise or promotion. Proceed carefully in romance. You may have to learn how to play a waiting game.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It is only too easy to lose ground financially now. Do not give in to whims or extravagance. Show your mettle at work. Tackle those jobs that require elbow grease.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Holding on to old grudges hinders spiritual growth. Let go! New alliances and work projects offer exciting financial possibilities. Be creative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Follow your instincts today. By playing a hunch, you could mine riches or find a wealth of support. Purchasing a colorful art object or knockknock adds pizzazz to your home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The financial path could prove bumpy now; perhaps you should travel in a less expensive direction. Unexpected company from out of town will give you a sprits a lift.

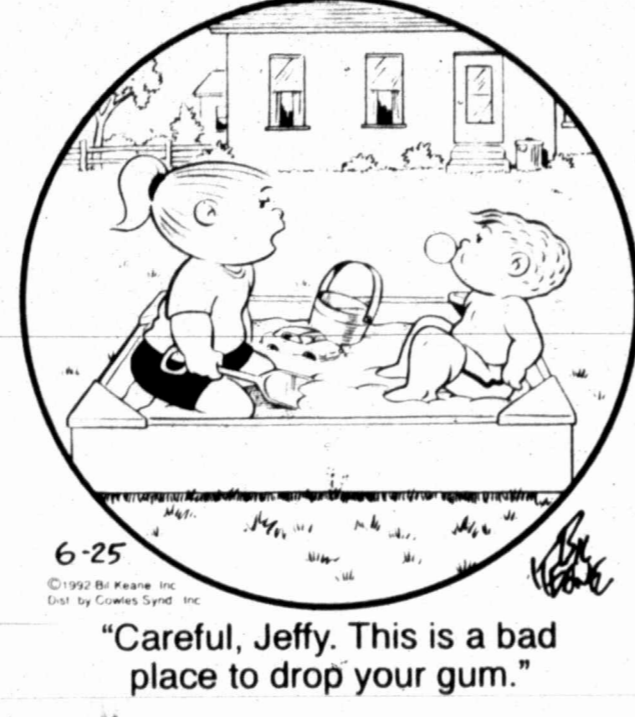

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Thinking about a youngster's needs will help you curb extravagance. An unusual friendship is in the making. You could be on the threshold of a whole new social world.
