By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

A body believed to be that of a Sand Springs woman missing since June 16, was found late Wednesday night in the Big Spring Landfill.

According to Howard County Sheriff's Office reports, Don Walkden of Sand Springs allegedly shot his wife, Betty Ann, and dumped the body in the landfill.

"For the past (few) weeks, Sheriff A.N. Standard and I have been investigating the case," said Sheriff Deputy Woodie Howell who, along with Standard, became suspicious when Walkden reported that his wife had been missing since June 16.

Walkden, an employee at Scenic Mountain Baler, reportedly wrapped the body in an Afghan and found an area in the landfill where the body could be dumped in a crack between the 3-foot-high bales of garbage, which are stacked four high, according to sheriff's reports. The bales were later covered, filling the cracks with earth.

Walkden was arrested at 3 p.m., about seven hours before the body was found, when sheriff's deputies received a written confession, according to the arrest report. Walkden was arraigned by Justice

Stern faces dig for woman's body

In Wednesday's 106 degree heat, city workers on bulldozers began the grisly work of uncovering a corpse from beneath a mountain of earth and garbage.

Starting shortly after 5 p.m., work began to extract a body believed to be that of Betty Ann Walkden from the Big Spring landfill at Scenic Mountain Baler.

Betty Ann Walkden was reported missing on June 18 by her husband, Don. Walkden was arrested Wednesday by Howard County Sheriff's Deputy Woodie Howell and charged with murder. Walkden allegedly dumped the body into a crack between stacked bales of garbage waiting to be covered with soil.

Don Walkden's arrest came about two weeks after the body and the surrounding bales of garbage were buried under a layer of earth. As two weeks had passed since the body of Betty Ann Walkden had allegedly been put in the landfill, the body found was at the bottom of a 12-foot-high, rectangular formation of earth and garbage with sides of more than 100 feet. The body was found near the center of the formation.

Signal Mountain Baler puts 100 or more bales of garbage per day in the landfill, said employee Howard Shivers. The compressed bales measure three feet by four feet by five feet, he said.

The faces of the bulldozer drivers and others were stern as the man with whom they had worked side-by-side for 15 months stood in handcuffs and directed their efforts toward the body.

No official report of motive for the alleged killing has been made. When asked, the stone-faced Walkden merely replied, Accused murderer Don Walkden, foreground, and Howard County Sheriff's Deputy Woodie Howell, behind, examine a broken trash bag containing bloody clothing and bed linen buried in the city landfill. About 20 minutes after this photograph was taken, crews unearthed the remains of a woman thought to be Betty Ann Walkden.

Neighbors register shock over murder

Quiet and unassuming Don Walkden watched city employees turn over soil at the Big Spring Landfill as they searched for the body of his wife, Betty Ann.

And quiet and unassuming is also how neighbors, friends and acquaintances remember the Walkdens. For them to learn that Don took Betty's life with a rifle shot to the head while she slept in the early morning of June 16 came as a shock. One of the Walkdens' neighbors, who asked for anonymity, said, "They were very quiet and never caused any problems. I never saw anything unusual over there."

The neighbor said he saw Betty Ann occasionally when she picked up the mail. He added he had never had a conversation with her or knew her first name. He spoke to Don only a handful of times, which includes two recent conversations over the disappearance of his wife.

"I can not pinpoint the date, but after she came up missing, he (Don) asked me if I had seen her. He told me that they had an argument over a job or something like that and that she had left. He said she had taken all her clothes and $400 in cash.

"He looked concerned over her leaving. He told me he was really worried about her."

The neighbor said he saw Don Tuesday and inquired about Betty Ann. "When I saw him yesterday, I

Local United Way president Jeff Morris tells a packed press conference that former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros will be the keynote speaker at the annual Kickoff Luncheon Sept. 22.

America, biggest debtor

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — America remained the world's biggest debtor nation in 1991, boosting its liabilities to foreigners by 40.4 percent last year, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said America's net debtor position, when valued at current stock market prices, rose to $381.84 billion from $272.03 billion in 1990.

The report showed that American investments overseas totaled $2.11 trillion, up 6.6 percent from 1990. At the same time, foreign holdings in the United States totaled $2.49 trillion, up 10.7 percent from a year earlier.

The debt reflects the difference between what Americans own overseas and what foreigners own in the United States.

The department said the size of the net debtor position was "bolstered by the stronger recovery in U.S. stock and bond prices than in those abroad."

The figures are based on stock market prices, which the government has used for two years. In the past, U.S. and foreign assets were valued at their historical purchase prices.

In the early 1980s, the United States was the world's largest creditor nation, a position now held by Japan.

But as the U.S. merchandise trade deficit grew, larger amounts of dollars were shifted overseas as payments for such items as foreign-made cars and television sets. Many of those dollars ended up as investments in U.S. buildings, entertainment companies and other holdings.

Many analysts contend the shift eventually will lower Americans' standard of living as more and more money is transferred overseas to service foreign investments here.

Britain remained the largest owner of direct assets in the United States in 1991 with holdings of $106.06 billion. Japan was second, with holdings of $86.66 billion. Direct assets are defined as at least 10 percent ownership of a business.

In addition to stock market prices, the government also uses current replacement costs of assets to value investments. Under that method, America's net debtor position was put at $361.50 billion last year, up 22.6 percent from $294.84 billion in 1990.

The government says that stock market prices both here and abroad and changes in the dollar and other currency values account for the discrepancy in the two figures.

Henry Cisneros will speak at Sept. 22 United Way lunch

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros will be the speaker at the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County Kick-off Luncheon this September.

Cisneros, whose lengthy list of national and international awards begins in 1971, has been cited as Outstanding Mayor of the Year; served four terms as the mayor of San Antonio, the 10th largest city in the nation; and holds honorary degrees at 17 colleges and universities across the country.

"We are really excited to have a man of his caliber coming to Big Spring," said United Way President Jeff Morris.

In addition to being a successful businessman, Cisneros was recently elected as the deputy chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank in Dallas. The Native San Antonian is also co-chairman of the National Hispanic Leadership Agenda.

The luncheon is scheduled for Sept. 22 at Garrett Hall of the First United Methodist Church on Scurry Street. United Way officials expect the $10 tickets to sell quickly. The United Way office number is 915-267-5201.

The theme of this year's United Way campaign is "United Way and You — A Winning Combination," said Executive Director Sherrie Bordofsky.

Bordofsky first sent a letter to Cisneros' office requesting his presence. In the letter, Bordofsky spoke of the community and of the United Way service in the area, she said. Cisneros read the letter and immediately told his secretary to make plans, she said.

Cisneros will be flying out specifically for the event, but will have adequate time to see the city and meet with civic leaders and the press, Morris said.

"We're fortunate to have a man of his stature coming here," said Mayor Tim Blackshear, who attended one of Cisneros' workshops for civic leaders in San Antonio. "I think this shows something about his commitment to community leadership."

County Judge Ben Lockhart said he was also pleased that Cisneros is coming and offered any help the county could provide.

This United Way office raises funds annually for use in 10 community service organizations. United Way helps fund the local American Red Cross, Boy's Club of Big Spring, Buffalo Trail Council of the Boy Scouts of America, Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Clinic, Girl Scout Council, Northside Community Center, Salvation Army, Westside Day Care Center, Westside Community Center and the YMCA.

The luncheon begins the United Way's annual fund-raising campaign. Last year, the United Way exceeded its goal of $235,000. Enough pledges came in late in the campaign to push the total pledged amount to $251,000, Bordofsky said.

The goal for this year will be set late in July following the budget hearings scheduled to begin in the next few days, she said.

Upset Arlington lawyer kills two

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS — An Arlington lawyer, distraught over failed attempts to win custody of his son and unable to quash a sex offense charge, opened fire on a Tarrant County courtroom killing two attorneys and wounding three others, including two judges.

Hours before the 10 a.m. attack Wednesday on an appeals hearing at the Tarrant County courthouse, George D. Lott made one last plea to a Peoria, Ill. Judge Robert Manning for a hearing on the sex charge against him.

Lott was to be tried July 20 on the charge filed in March by ex-wife Margo Z. Best. Lott was accused of sexually assaulting his 4-year-old son Neal, who lives in Peoria with his mother, a Bradley University employee.

Lott's battle for custody and his fight against the charge are believed to be the catalyst for his brutal attack.

Ms. Best also was an attorney, said Maryellen Hicks, the Tarrant County Family Court judge who handled the divorce.

"I think it was about two years ago. It was approximately a three-week jury trial," Ms. Hicks said.

She said the jury awarded custody of the couple's child, Neal, to Ms. Best.

The 45-year-old, who for the last 3 1/2 years lived at a modest Arlington apartment complex, surrendered to police after telling his story to WFAA-TV at their downtown Dallas studios at about 4:15 p.m.

"It is a horrible, horrible thing I have done today," Lott said. "I sinned. I am certainly wrong."

"I basically went into the courtroom, got up and shot apparently five people," Lott said. "One of 'em started running out and I shot him running out of the room."

Peoria County District Attorney Kevin Lyons told the Houston Chronicle Lott called the court clerk's office Tuesday and again Wednesday at 8:50 a.m. for a hearing.

ing on his case.

"He was asking the judge to address deficiencies in the case and practices by my office," Lyons said. "The judge, of course, denied that and here, in my office an hour later, we're watching this stuff on CNN."

The courtroom Lott selected was the site where his own divorce case had been heard, he told the television station. However, Lott did not know any of the victims.

The two judges remained hospitalized Thursday, the fifth victim, an attorney, was treated and released.

"If we could pick someone capable of this from our long list of defendants, he'd be the one we'd pick," Lyons told the Chronicle.

Peoria police reports show Lott's ex-wife first noticed her son's abuse in early October 1991. However, she did not seek medical treatment for months, not until Feb. 16. But she told police she took pictures of the affected area back in October.

She told police she didn't notify authorities because she said she had seen even worse treatment after Neal visited his father, The Peoria Journal-Star reported.

The Associated Press was unable to contact Margo Best for comment. Lott, who remains at the Tarrant County Jail, says he is innocent and accused his wife of the abuse.

Meanwhile, in Arlington, residents at the Trinity Trace apartments said they knew little of the man who lived in Apartment 607, where on Wednesday only a volleyball game notice and a certified letter receipt hung on the door.

Many said he did not work, but spent hours working on his fishing boat, parked in the complex car lot or remained inside his 2-bedroom apartment.

Police searched the apartment for evidence late Wednesday night where court documents and other papers were strewn across tables inside.

Among the seized items — a personal computer and accompanying disks, from which police hope to glean further information about the troubled lawyer.

Texas goes to federal court to block New York sludge

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — The state has gone to federal court to try and block New York City sludge from being spread over arid rangeland in West Texas.

In a lawsuit filed Wednesday against the Environmental Protection Agency, the Texas attorney general's office claimed that the proposed spreading of thousands of tons of the municipal sewage byproduct could endanger the environment and public health.

The lawsuit demands that the EPA conduct an environmental impact study of the project, and consult with state historical officials about archaeological sites on the Hudspeth County site.

A hearing on the temporary court order is scheduled for Monday before U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton in Pecos.

"We want nothing more than the EPA to follow the law," said Texas Attorney General Dan Morales.

But project leaders, MERCO Joint Venture, and the EPA denied Morales' charges.

"This is nothing more than a thinly disguised attempt to discriminate against solid state generators of bio solids," said project partner Ralph Macchio of Long Island, N.Y.

Roger Meacham, a spokesman for the EPA in Dallas, said the agency had not yet reviewed the lawsuit, but defended the sludge dumping process proposed by MERCO as "proven technology" that helps enrich and replenish the soil.

MERCO, based in Oklahoma City, has a six-year, $168 million contract with New York to transport city sludge by rail and spread it over a 128,000-acre ranch the company owns near Sierra Blanca.

The project entails dumping about 250,000 pounds of sludge per day, the lawsuit said.

The sludge includes heavy metals, such as arsenic, cadmium, lead and zinc, and pesticides, according to the lawsuit.

State officials said they are worried that the sludge will run off into local waterways that lead to the Rio Grande, and that sludge-laden dust could be blown all over the area and later ingested by people.

Alternatives needed to meet water needs

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — State Comptroller John Sharp says Texas must find new ways to meet its future water needs.

Population growth in the state over the next 50 years will generate a 40 percent increase over present water use, he said Wednesday.

That would be 21 million acre-feet of water, according to the latest issue of Fiscal Notes, a comptroller's office publication. Texans used 15 million acre-feet in 1989. An acre foot of water equals 325,829 gallons.

"There's an important message for Texans in the parable of the man who went to the well for water once too often: while the well isn't dry yet, Texas' water supplies cannot grow fast enough," Sharp said.

The Texas Water Development Board says almost 80 percent of the potential reservoir sites in Texas have been built, according to Fiscal Notes.

Federal funds for construction of new water projects has "all but evaporated," and it would cost the state billions of dollars to assume the responsibility, the publication said.

In addition, it said, such projects as dam construction face more obstacles now from environmental controls, land use restrictions and property-owner lawsuits.

"Since there's not much room for growth of existing water supplies, we must shift our focus to better use of existing supplies and facilities," Sharp said.

State officials are considering several strategies to meet the demand for water, according to Fiscal Notes.

Among them are more efficient use of water, such as drip irrigation, water-saving plumbing fixtures and repair of pipeline leaks; and alternative supplies, such as recharging aquifers by artificial means or mixing poor- and high-quality water supplies to produce consumable water.

NEW YORK — Helen Hayes says her late husband, playwright Charles MacArthur, probably didn't fully pursue his career because of her success as an actress.

MacArthur and Ben Hecht wrote the "The Front Page," a play based on MacArthur's experience as a Chicago reporter. He died in 1956.

In an interview in the latest issue of New Choices for Retirement Living, the 91-year-old first lady of the American theater said her husband probably didn't give "full service to his talent" because of her success.

And she said she believes she could have done more to help him fight his drinking problem.

NEW YORK — Jim McKay says it's sad but true that his career got a big boost from his coverage of the massacre of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympics.

McKay, now 70, was host of ABC's "Wide World of Sports" and worked 11 Olympics as a sportscaster.

"Although it was such a horrible occasion, it was something that really gave an impetus to my career," he said of his nearly 20-hour coverage of the Arab terrorist attack.

"I hate even to admit that the coverage had something to do with giving my career a push, but the simple fact is that it did."

McKay was interviewed in the latest issue of New Choices for Retirement Living magazine.

LOS ANGELES — "Northern Exposure" star Rob Morrow is giving CBS the cold shoulder in a contract dispute.

Morrow, who plays Dr. Joel Fleischman in the quirky series about a New Yorker in small-town Alaska, failed to show up Tuesday in Washington state, where the series is filmed, said a source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Details of the dispute weren't known.

CBS and the series' studio, MCA Universal, refused to comment Wednesday. Morrow's agent in New York did not return calls.

Morrow has starred for two years in the series.

PEAPACK-GLADSTONE, N.J. — King Hassan II of Morocco didn't cash a $105,800 property tax refund check issued a year ago.

Turns out he lost it, said Peter Lawton, an employee of the king who oversees farming on the 322-acre property.

"I wouldn't lose one for $1.05, much less $105,800. I don't know how you could misplace something like that," borough clerk Margaret Gould said this week.

The borough has issued a new check, at the request of a representative of the king.

Abductions create tension between U.S. and Mexico

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MEXICO CITY — President Bush has promised Mexico he will not allow the abduction of any more criminal suspects south of the border, but that a Mexican wanted in a U.S. drug agent's slaying will not be handed back.

U.S. Ambassador John Negroponte said Wednesday that Bush had written Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari saying "his administration will not encourage, nor permit such abductions in the future."

The letter was cited by both Mexico and the United States on Wednesday as instrumental in easing ties strained by a June 15 decision of the Supreme Court that sanctioned the abduction of the criminal suspect from Mexico.

"This is a very important pledge, coming from our president. It's a very solemn pledge by this administration that this kind of activity will not be condoned," said Negroponte, announcing the conclusion of two weeks of talks.

Negroponte said the recent letter — he did not supply the date — gave clear assurance that the U.S. court case would not be used by Washington as a license to kidnap from Mexico suspects it sought.

Speaking at a news conference, he also said Mexico and the United States would formally review the issue in regular bilateral treaty talks that will convene this fall in Washington.

In a separate statement, Mexico said it would seek clear language in the treaty reflecting the unacceptability of kidnappings from its territory and would continue to press for the suspect's return.

Mexico also said Wednesday that it would stiffen the penalty for cross-border kidnaps, making them a "treasonable offense" and publish clear ground rules for operations of the estimated 60 U.S. drug agents on its territory.

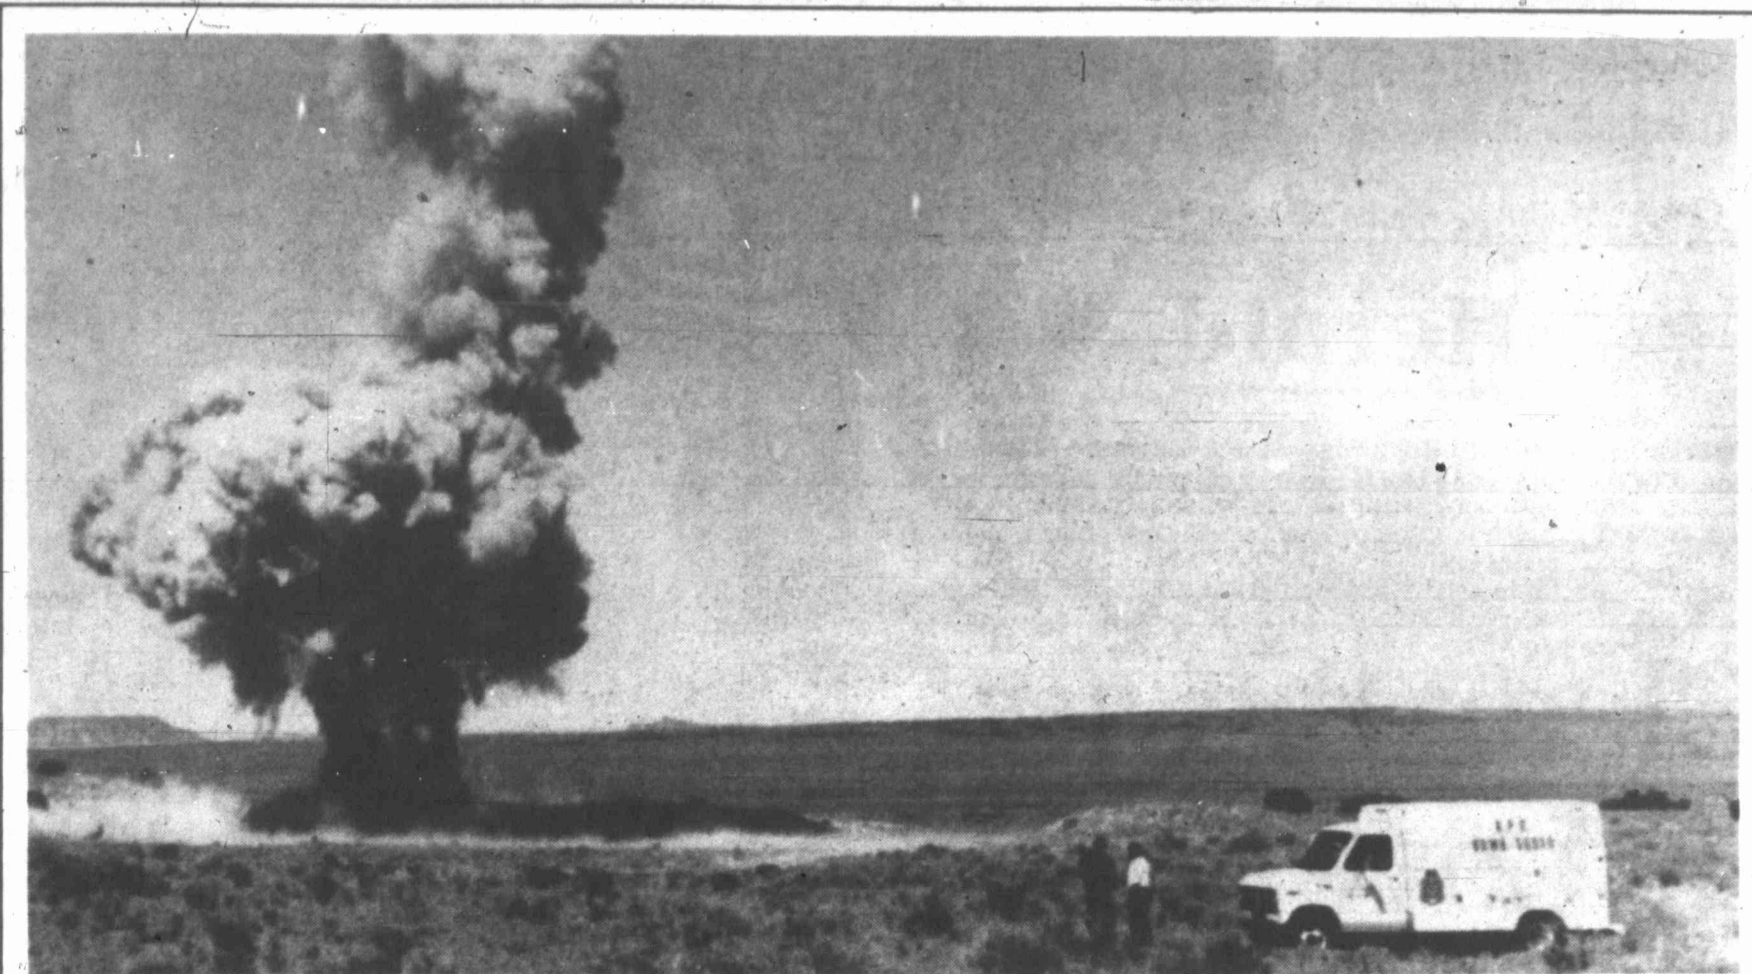

The high court's decision involved the 1990 abduction of Dr. Humberto Alvarez Machain, who was spirited from Guadalajara to face American justice for his alleged role in the 1985 torture-slaying of agent Enrique Camarena.

The high court ruled that no specific clause in the 1978 bilateral extradition treaty legally prohibited the United States from seizing a criminal suspect from Mexico.

Alvarez Machain is in jail in California awaiting tentative trial Aug. 25.

Mexico demanded the doctor's return and briefly suspended anti-drug cooperation over the Supreme Court ruling, calling for the revision of the bilateral treaty to make abductions from its territory illegal.

In reaction Wednesday, Mexico's Foreign Ministry said it did not receive "a satisfactory response" to its request for the doctor's return.

U.S. arms withdrawal from Europe complete

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS, Belgium — NATO announced today that the United States has finished withdrawing thousands of tactical nuclear weapons from Europe.

In a brief statement, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said the United States had removed its land-based stockpile of nuclear artillery shells, short-range missiles and naval nuclear depth bombs.

It also said the United States told the alliance that all tactical nuclear weapons have been taken off American surface ships and that attack submarines as ordered by President Bush last fall.

"The allies welcomed this information," the statement by the 16-nation Western alliance said.

It gave no figures on the numbers of weapons withdrawn.

But the allies agreed last fall to slash their nuclear arsenal in Europe by 80 percent — the biggest reduction in the history of the 43-year-old NATO.

At that time, officials said the alliance would get rid of more than 2,000 nuclear artillery shells and short-range missiles and about 700 gravity bombs dropped from warplanes.

Unemployment surges to highest level in eight years

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — The nation's unemployment rate surged to 7.8 percent in June, the highest level in more than eight years, as the weak economy proved unable to absorb an influx of job seekers, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the June rate was a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percentage points higher than the May level of 7.5 percent and 0.6 percentage points above the April number. The June rate was the highest since March 1984.

The second consecutive big deterioration caught economists by surprise and raised the possibility the Federal Reserve would seek to stimulate business and consumer spending by reducing interest rates.

As recently as Wednesday, President Bush urged the central bank to move rates lower. Bush, facing increasingly uncertain reelection prospects, is trying to persuade voters he is doing everything possible to get the economy moving again.

Federal Reserve policy-makers met behind closed doors on Tuesday and Wednesday. It was thought they were leaning toward holding rates steady, but that was before the release of today's unexpectedly dismal unemployment number.

The unemployment rate is based on a Labor Department survey of American households. It showed 9.98 million workers unemployed, the highest number since October 1983.

Meanwhile, the labor force — those either working or looking for jobs — soared by 389,000 to 127.5 million, the second big increase in a row as high school and college graduates flooded the job market.

A separate survey, of employers' payrolls, registered an unexpected drop of 117,000. In advance, economists were looking for a gain of nearly 100,000. The biggest drop came at factories, down 58,000 jobs. Until recently, analysts had cited manufacturing as one of the bright spots in the economy.

Construction employers shed 32,000 jobs. Employment was down 20,000 in retail trade, down 15,000 in service industries and up 25,000 in government.

In another report this morning, the Labor Department said the number of Americans filing new claims for unemployment benefits fell only slightly during the third week of June after jumping sharply the week before.

First-time claims for unemployment insurance totaled a seasonally adjusted 420,000 during the week ending June 20, down by 1,000 from the week before. During the four previous weeks, claims fluctuated between 403,000 and 409,000.

Clear the air at Love Field

Many Texans, including those of us in West Texas, lost out this week when Fort Worth and Dallas reached a settlement in regards to opening Love Field up to more flights.

Those of us who fly Southwest Airlines know the problem — we fly through Dallas to go outside Texas or the surrounding four states.

The inconvenience began when then-Congressman Jim Wright, forced to resign from office, took care of his home district and got the Wright Amendment passed. The amendment, which Congress adopted in 1979, promotes Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport while restricting growth at Dallas Love Field.

The Wright Amendment restricts nonstop flights to and from Love Field to destinations in Texas and four adjoining states. Opponents claim the arrangement causes higher air fares by restraining trade and competition at Love Field.

Dallas officials threatened to expand airline service in and out of Love. Fort Worth officials countered with a lawsuit. They settled and agreed to leave things as they are. In the meantime, we consumers lost.

It's a shame when bad legislation is pushed through it's even worse when the law is allows to stand.

Perhaps it's time for we consumers to voice our concerns to our elected officials in Congress and the Senate. It shouldn't be too much for us to ask help from them after all, they're going to be coming to us for votes come fall.

Texas viewpoints:

In the current jargon of political correctness, this presidential campaign could be described as "issue dysfunctional." The economic pulse is fluttering, the inner cities seethe, Eastern Europe is tottering toward chaos — and what is being discussed? Trivia: Rap singers' political opinions, the vice president's spelling ability, a fictional TV character's morality.

The press is not without flaw or fault in this, although when prominent people engage in trivia-talk, it's bound to get reported somewhere. What started the noisy flap between Democratic-presidential candidate Bill Clinton and rap singer Sister Souljah was an interview Souljah gave to The Washington Post, which deemed her opinions about the Los Angeles riots newsworthy.

Souljah opined that, "If black people kill black people every day why not have a week and kill white people?" Clinton took the opportunity to state, at a conference sponsored by Jesse Jackson's Rainbow Coalition, that her remarks were "hate-filled." Now Souljah's calling Clinton a racist. This is a real issue?

Also grabbing airtime and print space has been Vice President Dan Quayle's opinion that fictional TV sitcom character Murphy Brown shouldn't have had a baby out of wedlock.

Quayle's spelling ability, or lack thereof, has caused a stir. Quayle visited an elementary school in Trenton, N.J. to hold a spelling bee. William Figueroa, 12, was asked to spell "potato" on the blackboard. He did. Quayle, relying on a cue card that had the word spelled wrong, told Figueroa to add an "e." Diplomatically, the youngster did, rather than point out that the vice president (and his cue card) were wrong.

Maybe instead of dwelling on these side issues, the candidates could just lump them together in a one-shot reference each day — Sister Potatohead Brown — and use the time saved to start talking about the real issues.

Austin American-Statesman

Bill Clinton showed up on MTV ... and promised that if elected president he would make a return appearance. Earlier, he appeared on Arsenio Hall's show wearing Blues Brothers dark glasses and playing the saxophone. Ross Perot announced his possible presidential bid on "Larry King Live," spent an hour with Barbara Walters, and has filled more air time on more talk shows than you can shake a mike at.

What's going on? Is this a major change in the nature of presidential campaigning? Only George Bush has said he would not lower the dignity of the office by campaigning on the talk-show circuit.

Bush has a point. You can only stoop so low to become president. But both he and his predecessor, Ronald Reagan, were elected on the basis of slick and meaningless TV commercials, along with a few carefully staged appearances. Since the past three campaigns were fought on television ... then it stands to reason that campaigning would descend to the talk-show level, which specializes in trivialization. Are you ready for presidential debates on Geraldo Rivera — no doubt on a day when he has run out of battling skinheads and leather-clad sexual perverts?

Corpus Christi Caller-Times

The U. S. Supreme Court ruling ... regarding the kidnapping of people from other countries so they can be prosecuted in the United States, was, simply put, an unlawful act coming from the highest court in this land.

The key phrase there is "in this land" as that court apparently tried to put its jurisdiction over the rest of the world. Things don't work that way in reality.

The Supreme Court's decision shows total disregard for the sovereignty of other nations.

The court's ruling is what was wanted by the U.S. Department of Justice and the Drug Enforcement Administration, an agency that has gotten just about everything they want and possibly more than they deserve to fight the war on drugs, a conflict they are losing in spite of total governmental support....

This matter needs to be taken under advisement again by the court, as well as by Congress.

Does fear of Ross Perot make sense?

It probably doesn't make sense, but Rotweiler told me that he has a fear of Ross Perot.

I said, "Ross Perot is a great American, and there is no reason to be afraid of a bantam billionaire."

"What scares me is that during his business career Ross kept hiring investigators to check up on people he didn't trust. He even signed on a detective agency to look in on George Bush and his family when Bush was Vice President of the United States."

"Every businessman hires people to check out the country's leaders. As I understand it he and Bush were in disagreement on how to run the country. After Perot met with Bush he decided he ought to find out more about the Vice President in case someday he ran against him for the Presidency. There is nothing illegal about that."

"I'm not worried about Bush. I'm worried about myself. Would it surprise you to know that I think I'm being followed?"

"Why would Perot take the time to follow you?"

"He may believe I know something he doesn't know. No one knows what Perot knows, so if he finds out what I know he'll claim he thought of it first."

"That's absolutely paranoid. Do you really believe that Perot is going around spying on American citizens?"

"What would you do if you had all his money? Look, he spied on his employees, and he has photographs of American ambassadors with Vietnamese women. How can you guarantee that he isn't going through my garbage right now?"

"Just because he is a law-and-order candidate doesn't mean that he has no respect for the Constitution. If he's elected there won't be a lot of coddling of criminals or the media. This country is dying for a President on a white horse who will give us back the America we knew. Rotweiler, how often does a man come along who is rich enough to do anything he damn well pleases, without being beholden to all the special interests? Instead of worrying about Perot following you, thank your lucky stars that you have a man who wants to change the way the wind is blowing."

"He doesn't approve of people who fool around."

"Neither does Dan Quayle. The difference between the two is that Perot knows how to spell 'bimbo.'"

Rotweiler kept walking around the room looking for an electronic bug. "He could be listening in on this very conversation," he whispered.

"That's not true. If Perot is going to bug anyone it'll be Bill Clinton."

"Why Clinton?"

"Perot already has enough stuff on Bush."

"I felt that I had to defend Perot because if he's elected all of us in the media business will have the time of our lives."

I said, "When a man runs for the highest office in the land he has to expect people to say bad things about him. Perot's honeymoon was over a month ago. Now he has to face the same dirty political mudslingers, but it doesn't bother Ross because he has a mission."

"So did Mussolini," Rotweiler said.

I protested, "You can't compare the two. Mussolini was much fatter and he always wore a uniform."

Abortion decision essentially wise

WASHINGTON — The decision may not have been "correct," and it may not have satisfied either side of the controversy over abortion, but Monday's opinion from the Supreme Court was essentially wise. Given the circumstances, that is enough to ask.

By a vote of 5-4, the court upheld the basic ruling of Roe v. Wade in 1973: Up to the point of viability of a fetus, a woman has a right to an abortion. Her freedom in this regard is a part of the fundamental liberty that no state may deny to its citizens.

Having said that, the court went on to rule that short of imposing an absolute ban on abortions, the states retain extensive legislative power in the field. Specifically, in this case, Pennsylvania imposes no "undue burden" upon women by requiring various constraints and delays.

This was pragmatic jurisprudence, which may be the best kind of jurisprudence. The court drew a line down the middle. The decision will not satisfy extremists on either side. Those who regard abortion as "murder" will not be appeased by the legislative powers accorded to the states. Those who advocate unfettered "freedom of choice" may be disappointed also.

Monday's decision on abortion will evoke memories of the high court's long struggle with segregation. The 14th Amendment of 1868 laid down two prohibitions upon the states: They could not deprive any person of liberty without "due process of law." They could not deny any person within their jurisdiction "the equal protection of the laws."

At the time the states ratified the 14th Amendment, no one imagined that it was intended to prohibit segregated schools. Long after adoption of the amendment, states both North and South continued to operate separate systems. The District of Columbia itself, the very seat of national government, maintained segregation.

Even so, in one case after another, the Supreme Court chipped away at the doctrine of "separate but equal." At last, in 1954, came the landmark decision that reinterpreted "equal protection" and set in motion profound changes in American life. The court's opinion was widely denounced as a terrible piece of constitutional law. Indeed it was, but if it was bad law, it was wise justice.

In the same fashion, no one imagined in 1868 that the constitutional concept of "liberty" could embrace a woman's right to an abortion. Virtually all the states treated abortion as a crime. The states had abundant power to regulate sexual practices. This was settled law.

Even so, little by little, case by case, the high court began to chip away. The Griswold case of 1965, for one example, held that Connecticut could not make it a criminal offense to dispense contraceptives. Old prohibitions on free speech began to fade. The Stanley case of 1969 held that Georgia could not make it a crime to watch pornographic movies in one's home. In one way or another, a new right of privacy began to emerge.

Thirty-eight years after Brown v. Board of Education, it would be now regarded as unthinkable for the Supreme Court to overrule that decision. Two generations have grown up with a 14th Amendment right to attend desegregated schools.

This same consideration figured significantly in the court's decision on Monday. Roe v. Wade was bad law but sound justice. In the ensuing 19 years, millions of women have obtained abortions in the certain knowledge that they were doing nothing unlawful. Flatly to overrule Roe v. Wade would create political and social turmoil, and it would significantly weaken the court's image as a steadfast institution.

Monday's opinion was remarkable in other ways. It carried three bylines, asserting the joint authorship of Justices O'Connor, Kennedy and Souter. It marked the first time since Gregg v. Georgia in 1976, when Justices Stewart, Powell and Stevens joined in a capital punishment case, that a majority opinion has been credited to more than one justice. (The record was established in Cooper v. Aaron, the Little Rock segregation case of 1958, when all nine justices signed the court's opinion.)

Of more importance, Monday's case brought a revealing statement from Justice Harry Blackmun, author of Roe v. Wade in 1973. The definition of liberty then established now hangs "by a single vote." He is 83. "I cannot remain on this court forever." When Blackmun goes, Roe v. Wade could go with him, but I don't believe this will happen. A limited right to an abortion has now been reaffirmed. That right is here to stay.

Local teen a natural for rodeo

By MIKE BUTTS
Staff Writer

On Tuesday of last week a cowboy named Driver competed in the Big Spring rodeo.

Later that day the sun set in the west and a dog barked.

Those incidents may seem unrelated, but for the past 90 years they all have been occurrences as natural as dust on a cowboy's boots.

When 18-year-old Dane Driver finished sixth in cattle roping at the recently completed Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo, he became the fourth generation Driver to rodeo professionally. And last month the Big Spring resident qualified for the national high school rodeo finals with a fourth-place finish in team roping at the state finals in Abilene.

In Big Spring the name Driver is strongly linked to rodeo. Dane's father, Skipper, and grandfather, E.P., are both on the Big Spring Rodeo board, and E.P. is one of the original directors and founders of the city's annual cowboy competition. Both E.P. and Skipper were professional cowboys.

Ira Driver, Dane's great-grandfather, rode and roped at rodeos all the way back to the turn of the century. In 1901 he went to South America with a group of cowboys to put on rodeo exhibitions.

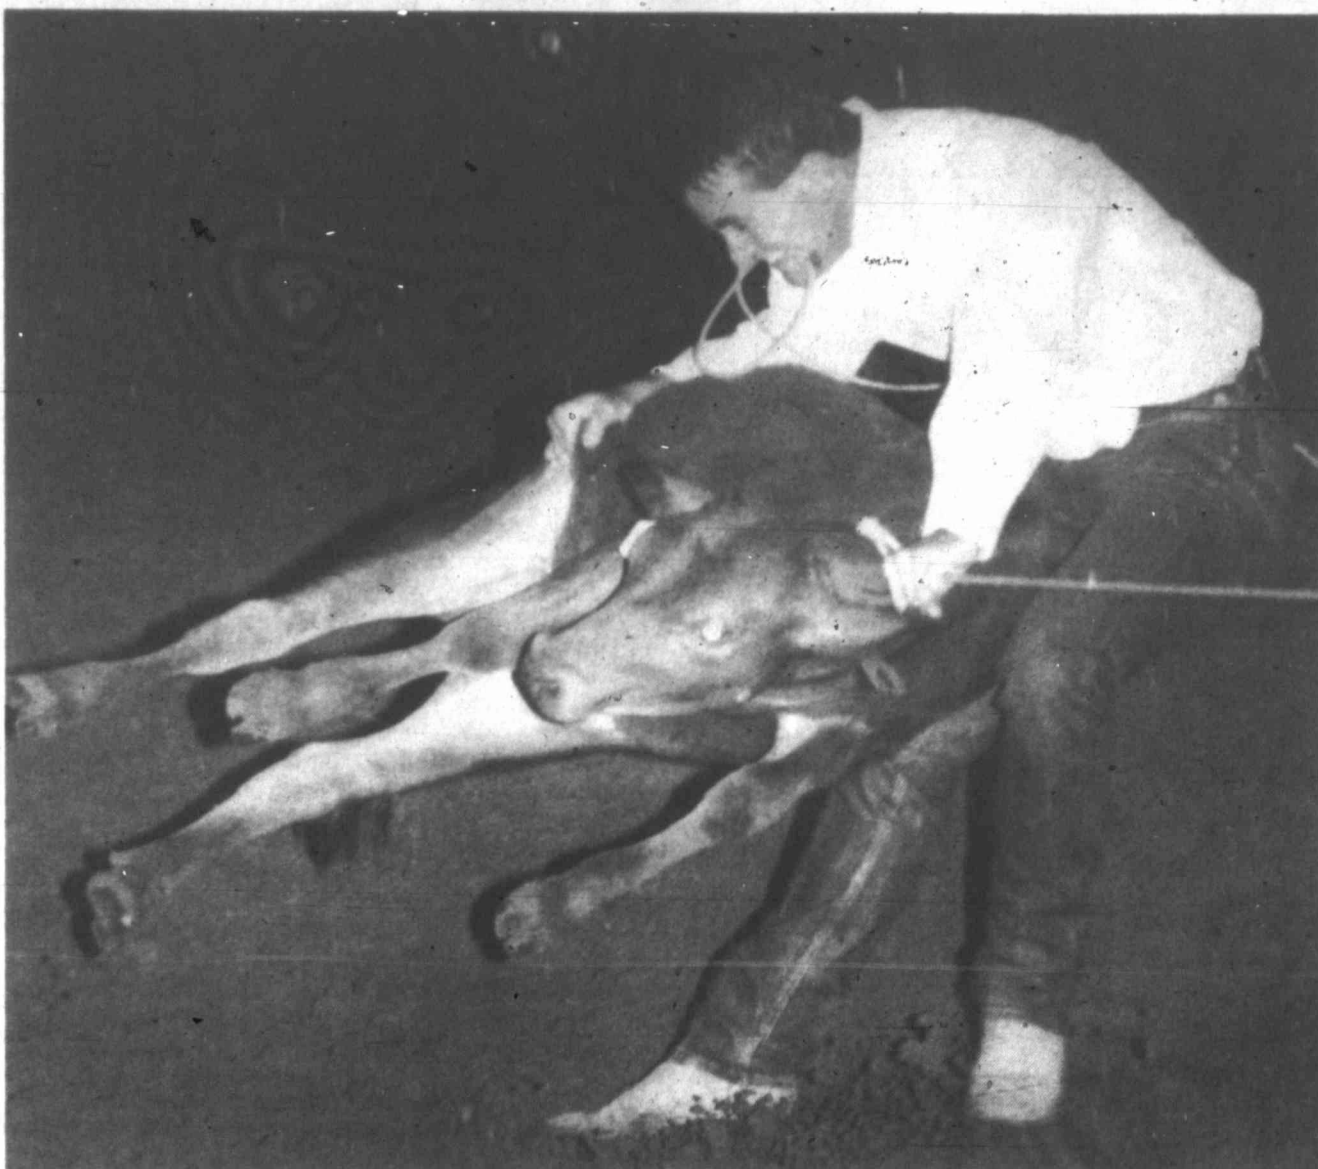

So Dane's catching the rodeo bug is no more surprising than that western sunset or that barking dog. "Once it gets (in your blood) you've got it and you can't get over it," Driver says. "I just love the life of it."

The Driver tradition favors the roping events. Skipper made the national collegiate finals in calf roping in the sixties and E.P. was a calf and team roper.

The youngest Driver's foray into pro competition last week was just a "trial run," he says, and he plans to start carrying on the professional rodeo family tradition on a regular basis this winter.

Driver is well-schooled in the hazards of the pro rodeo circuit, where prize money has to come often just to cover expenses.

"You've got to have a plan and you've got to be thinking about the future (when you're on the circuit)," he says. "You wear out a lot of pickups and horses on the way. The main thing is to keep your money together and put 100 percent of yourself into it."

Big Spring's Dane Driver gets a taste of professional rodeo last week at the Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. Dane is the fourth generation Driver to be a rodeo cowboy.

Next school year Driver will go to Howard College on a rodeo scholarship. Budget cuts that hit the school's athletic program this year are not a concern for him.

"They had cut backs on (rodeo) scholarships and I don't think the team will be as big (this year)," he says. "But sometimes quality is better than quantity."

In order to concentrate on rodeo the 1992 Forsan graduate has not played school sports since his sophomore year. But he says he conditions himself as any other athlete would.

"I work out and try to stay in shape just like I was playing football," Driver says. "The better shape you're in the better chance you've got (to win)."

When Driver travels to Oklahoma later this month it will be his second trip to the national high school finals. He went as a freshman in the cutting horse event.

He has gone to the state finals in four events — steer wrestling, cutting, calf roping and team roping — all four of his high school years.

The top six scorers from each region in each event at high school rodeos during the year reach the state finals. The top four finishers at state go to the national finals. Driver, as the header with team-roping partner Ben Clements from Crane, had times of 12.97, 17.61 and 10.31 in this year's state final.

The national finals constitute the largest number of contestants of any rodeo in the world — about 2,000, Driver says. He says athletes from all fifty states and four or five Canadian provinces compete in the event.

Because of the high level of competition in Texas high school rodeo Driver feels his chances to do well in the national finals are good.

"Our state finals are tougher than the nationals," Driver says. "Once you get out of Texas it's not quite as hard. We leave lots of good kids at home (in Texas) just because we can take only four (to nationals)."

Driver's absence from the national finals in his sophomore and junior years only increased his desire to get back as a senior.

"My freshman year it all happened and I didn't think much about it," Driver says. "But after my sophomore and junior years I (understood) how hard it was (to get to the nationals) and I really tried hard to make it back this year."

And if Driver gets his wish he'll make it to the national finals again someday — this time as a professional.

U.S. puts three in Wimby semis

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe and Andre Agassi swept into the Wimbledon semifinals today, joining Pete Sampras and putting three Americans in the final four for the first time in 10 years.

McEnroe saved six set points in the second-set tiebreaker and went on to complete a 6-2, 7-6 (11-9), 6-3 victory over Guy Forget to reach his first Wimbledon semifinal since 1989.

"It's been a big hump to get here," McEnroe said.

Agassi finished a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 win over three-time champion Boris Becker to reach the Wimbledon semifinals for the first time.

"It's probably one of the greatest achievements of my career for sure," Agassi said.

The women's semifinals followed the men's matches today, with top-seeded Monica Seles against nine-time champion Martina Navratilova and defending champion, Steffi Graf vs. Gabriela Sabatini.

It will be the first time since 1988 that Becker will not play in the final. Two other champions, Stefan Edberg and Michael Stich, were eliminated Wednesday.

Agassi will face McEnroe in Friday's semifinals, with Sampras playing Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia.

The last time three Americans reached the semifinals was in 1982, with McEnroe, Tim Mayotte and Jimmy Connors.

"I think it's wonderful," McEnroe said. "Everybody's been talking about some kind of problems the Americans have been having. ... I don't think the Americans have anything to worry about."

Every men's champion since McEnroe last won the tournament in 1984 has lost this year: Becker, Edberg, Stich and Pat Cash. McEnroe beat Cash in the second round.

McEnroe and Forget had been tied at 5-5 in the second set when play was halted Wednesday.

Both held serve to set up the tiebreaker. Forget moved out to a 6-3 lead, giving him three set points. But play was delayed for several minutes as McEnroe argued over Forget's serve on the ninth point being ruled an ace. "The ball was a foot long!" he shouted.

McEnroe was looking dejected when he walked back to the baseline to serve. But he came to life after hitting a backhand volley that hit the top of the net and dribbled over to save the first set point.

'Everybody's been talking about some kind of problems the Americans have been having. ... I don't think the Americans have anything to worry about.'
John McEnroe

McEnroe erased the second set point with a service winner, and Forget squandered the third when he hit a short backhand long. McEnroe saved the fourth set point, at 7-6, with a service winner, and the fifth, at 8-7, with a pretty forehand topspin lob. On the sixth set point, McEnroe served into Forget's body and the Frenchman slapped the return into the net.

McEnroe took his first lead, 10-9, with a service winner down the middle and wrapped up the set on the next point when Forget hit a backhand volley into the net.

"I stayed really strong and I stuck with it," McEnroe said. "I made that chance for myself."

After an exchange of service breaks in the third set, McEnroe broke for a 5-3 lead when Forget netted a forehand volley at 15-40. McEnroe then served out the match at 15. On match point, McEnroe punched a backhand volley that Forget took on the run, hitting a forehand that hit the net and sailed wide.

The Agassi-Becker match had been suspended by rain Wednesday with Becker leading 4-3 in the fourth set with a service break.

Thursday Notes

4-H shooters do well in Midland

The Howard County 4-H Sports Club fared well in shooting competition in Midland last Saturday.

Leading the way was Jim Bob Nichols won the seniors overall title, placing first in trap and skeet competition. Paul Kinsey won the sub-junior trap division and finished fourth in skeet. Cody Fryar was sixth in the skeet competition and Michael Brooks finished fourth in trap and second in skeet.

In the junior division Dustin Gaskins was fifth in trap and first in skeet. Blake Hull was third in trap and John Paul Nichols finished fourth in trap and fifth in skeet.

Sharpnack-Harris teams shoots 33

Now news from the Comanche Trail Ladies Golf Association...

In Thursday night couples play the team of Joe and Patsy Sharpnack and Gerald and Ramona Harris won first place with a three-under-par 33.

Also on Thursday the Permian Basin Women's Playday was conducted at Ranchland Country Club in Midland. Locals Annie Ward was fourth in net score; Dee Jenkins was third in low puts while Ramona Harris won the low putt competition.

In action at the Women's West Texas Golf Tournament at the Odessa Country Club, Doris Stevenson won first in the seventh flight and Betty Auckland won the first flight.

In Monday evening play at Comanche Trail Golf Course, Pegg Marshall took first place honors with a 31. Patsy Sharpnack was one stroke back.

Cathey still among PRCA leaders

Coahoma cowboy Wacey Cathey is still holding strong among the bull riding leaders on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association circuit.

Cathey, who has been out with a broken arm, is currently ranked ninth, with $21,468 in prize money. The leader is Aaron Schemas of Auburn, Calif. with $47,479 in winnings. Second is Clint Branger of Roscoe, Mont. with $37,836 and third is Cody Custer of Wickenburg, Ariz. with $33,006. The top 15 riders qualify to the National Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas, Nev.

Softball tourney set in Big Spring

A men's slowpitch softball tournament benefiting the Disabled Veterans is scheduled July 10-11 at Cotton Mize Field.

Entry fee is $100 per team. The first five teams receive team trophies and the first three teams also receive individual trophies. There will also be awards for all-tournament, MVP, Golden Glove and sportsmanship.

For more information call James Ditmore at 267-1040 or Rocky Vieira at 267-7773.

July 4 golf play at Comanche Trail

The Mel's Crazy-Crazy July 4 Golf Classic will be at the Comanche Trail Golf Course.

The format is two-man scramble and entry fee is $25 per player. It's lots of fun with players having to tee off with baseball bats and putting with a sledge hammer.

There will be a fish fry for all the contestants after the tournament. There will be an additional charge for the rest of the family to eat. After the tournament, the fireworks show can be seen from the No. 1 green.

For more information call 263-7271.

Snyder Tennis tournament

Kevin McMillan is organizing a tennis tournament for July 3 and 4 in Snyder at the junior high school.

The most curious race in the American League this season? That's easy — Mark McGwire vs. Dennis Eckersley.

The two Oakland stars again increased their major league-leading totals Wednesday, with McGwire hitting his 27th home run and Eckersley earning his 28th save in a 3-1 victory over Seattle.

All season long, McGwire and Eckersley have been on a parallel. No telling which one will wind up with the higher number, but they're both on pace to break career highs — 49 homers for McGwire in 1987, 48 saves for Eckersley in 1990.

In other games, Minnesota defeated California 2-1, Toronto topped Texas 3-2 in 10 innings, Baltimore beat Milwaukee 7-4, New York rallied past Kansas City 7-6, Boston beat Detroit 6-4 and Chicago downed Cleveland 8-5.

Twins 2, Angels 1
Minnesota won its sixth straight game, all on the road, behind Willie Banks and four relievers. The Twins have won 13 of 15 and are 6-0 against California this season.

Banks (3-1) allowed one run on three hits in five innings. Rick Aguilera pitched the ninth for his 23rd save.

Jim Abbott (4-10) lost despite lowering his ERA to 2.93. He gave up eight hits in his fifth complete game, only one of them a victory.

the sixth inning that broke a 1-all tie. The Angels lost their fourth in a row.

Blue Jays 3, Rangers 2
Greg Myers doubled home the winning run in the 10th inning at SkyDome as Toronto and Texas finally played a game dominated by pitching.

The Rangers and Blue Jays have met five times this season and combined for 77 runs. Toronto won 11-4 Monday and Texas won 16-13 Tuesday in the highest-scoring game in Rangers' history.

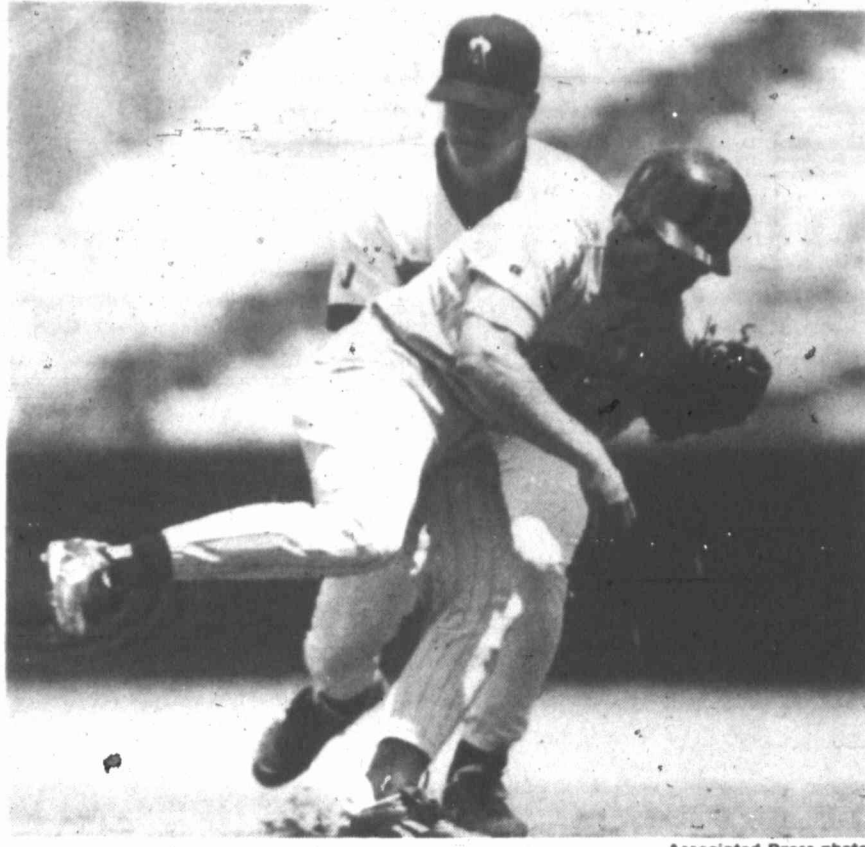

Derek Bell, who made a running catch on Rafael Palmeiro's liner to left-center with the bases loaded to end the top of the 10th, opened the bottom half with a single. Myers followed with a double off Jeff Russell (2-3).

Texas starter Todd Burns retired 17 straight batters and allowed three hits in 7 1-3 innings. Russell relieved and gave up Devon White's tying triple in the eighth.

Toronto starter Juan Guzman gave up five hits in eight innings. Duane Ward (4-4) pitched two innings.

Orioles 7, Brewers 4
Bill Ripken went 4 for 4 with a homer and drove in three runs as Baltimore won at home. Brady Anderson and Sam Horn also homered for the Orioles.

Yankees 7, Royals 6
Pinch-hitter Matt Nokes' two-run homer in the seventh inning completed New York's rally from an early 6-0 deficit at Yankee Stadium.

Nokes connected for the second straight day, and his 10th home run of the season came against Tom Gordon (1-8). Greg Cadaret (4-6) was the winner and John Habyan pitched two innings for his second save.

Red Sox 6, Tigers 4
Tom Brunansky's double capped a five-run seventh inning that lifted Boston over Detroit at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox trailed 4-1 before Scott Cooper's RBI single off Bill Gullickson (9-5) and Jody Reed's sacrifice fly made it a one-run game.

White Sox 8, Indians 5
Craig Grebeck went 5 for 5 with three doubles, two RBIs and two runs scored as the White Sox won for the ninth time in 11 games.

Dream Team in, gets needed rest

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The much-needed day off for the U.S. Olympic basketball team will be of utmost importance to four others.

Having officially clinched a berth to the Barcelona Games with Wednesday night's victory over Argentina, the United States, down to nine players because of injuries, and Brazil, the other pool's first-place team, were off today, Olympic invitations firmly in hand.

Not so for Puerto Rico, Argentina, Canada and Venezuela — the four quarterfinal teams playing tonight for those other two Olympic bids from the Americas.

Puerto Rico, the second-place finisher behind Brazil, meets Argentina, the third-place team in the United States' group, while Canada, runner-up to the U.S., faces Venezuela.

On Wednesday, the United States beat Argentina 128-87, Brazil downed Uruguay 139-93, Venezuela defeated Mexico 88-85, and Canada beat Panama 71-62.

The United States' bid was never in doubt since that September day when the Dream Team was named. Brazil's looked like a sure thing at the start of this tournament as it played well on both ends of the floor, something that hasn't been a trademark of the team known for offense and more offense.

"Our goal was to arrive at this tournament at our peak and I think we have done that," Brazil coach

Jose Medalha said. "We have played good defense and used more than the five or six players we used to."

The United States had only nine players to choose from, but it hardly mattered as the average margin of victory dropped to 56 points with the closest of the four qualifying-round games.

"Our legs were a little weary," said Michael Jordan, who led the U.S. team with 24 points. "We only have nine guys, and with 36 holes and all that, naturally we were a little tired."

United States 128, Argentina 87½
Jordan had his best game of the four, finishing 9 for 16 from the field, including a number of dunks that had the sellout crowd at the Portland Coliseum standing and screaming.

"I had some lanes open for myself and I had the urge to take advantage of it for the first time, so I went ahead," he said.

The Dream Team looked like itself for the first half, leading 68-37 at halftime, but the second half didn't have the defensive intensity that has become a trademark of this team.

"We did come out in the second half and played around with a little zone and double-team, but we gave up a lot of open shots," coach Chuck Daly said.

John Stockton, who broke his leg against Canada, and Larry Bird, who is nursing a sore back, didn't play again.

Quakes: Informational goldmine for geologists

By ANNETTE KONDO
Thomson News Service

THE MOJAVE DESERT, Calif.— Moments after a massive quake struck the nearby community of Landers, Calif. this past week, geologist Pat Williams and other scientists were excitedly sizing up the potential gold mine of seismic data.

Eager seismologists, at the wheel of off-road vehicles, wearing hiking boots and carrying ample water supplies, headed here from California Technological University and the Pasadena U.S. Geological Survey office where many had gathered from throughout the state.

For earthquake-hunters, data collection often means bushwhacking out to desolate areas to look for geologic clues. It can be dirty, painstaking work requiring hours of scouring the ground for evidence of seismic activity.

Measuring 7.4 on the Richter scale, the Landers earthquake was the largest California quake in 40 years.

Just hours after the tremor, Caltech geologists Kerry Sieh and Jim Dolan rented a helicopter and flew over the Mojave Desert in search of surface ruptures which are often found after big earthquakes.

The two men discovered a 43-mile long surface fissure which is likely the largest identified in California since the magnitude 8.3 Fort Tejon quake in 1857, said Thomas Heaton, seismologist with the U.S. Geological Survey office in Pasadena.

Along many portions of Highway 247 here, the violent underground churning had also thrust the pavement up two feet.

The day after the quake, Sieh was directing 50 scientists who hiked through dusty valleys, hills and dry chaparral to identify signs of the rupture and map it.

Williams was one such researcher who had traded in his lab in balmey Berkeley for the hot, desert sun of the Mojave Desert.

"We're doing reconnaissance mapping of fractures in the southern portion of the rupture," said Williams as he stood next to the "crack." It looked like a giant mole burrow in the desert soil.

Williams was accompanied by Preston Holland, a research associate from Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory. Williams said a group of Caltech scientists were mapping the other end of the fissure in remote areas by helicopter.

"The purpose is to describe the full area of the rupture so that an airplane can take photos," Williams said. Once a full photo mosaic of the rupture area is completed, more detailed mapping can be done, he said.

Shaded by wide-brimmed hats, Williams and Holland followed the furrowed surface of the rupture in the desert brush, stopping frequently to jot down notes.

Holland said they measured the "offset," or how much the ground moved past one side of the fault; identified the direction the rupture was headed and wrote down a description of the crack.

In some places, the earth was displaced or offset as much as 18 feet.

"Most of it looked like it was pulled apart, or side by side," Holland said, while crouching down to measure one part of the fissure.

Meanwhile, not all scientists were out looking at the buckled pavement and cracked desert surface. Susan Hough of the U.S. Geological Survey office in Pasadena said she was headed to San Bernardino to re-position seismic recording instruments.

Steve Salyards, a research geophysicist from UCLA, said his university had sent 10 people out in the field to take large-scale measurements of earth movements — changes in plate tectonics where huge chunks of the earth's surface shift.

To measure those movements, Salyards said researchers were placing receivers out in the desert, attached by an "umbilical" cord to an antenna atop a tripod. A satellite suspended in space above

Comfort, supplies sought by quake victims

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOS ANGELES — Quake-rattled residents streamed to stores for emergency supplies and called mental health clinics for comfort, while seismologists Wednesday tried to calm thousands of callers worried about the "Big One."

Fears that a catastrophic quake might strike were raised Tuesday by scientists who said Sunday's twin tremors increased the odds of a magnitude 7.5 to 8.3 disaster on the San Andreas Fault. On Wednesday, scientists emphasized they simply can't say how soon or how likely the "Big One" might be.

"We're getting thousands of calls from the public. They're extremely concerned," said Robert Finn, spokesman for seismologists at the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

The weekend quakes and dozens of nerve-fraying aftershocks have doubled bottled water sales at supermarkets, made such high-altitude workers as window washers extra nervous, and flooded animal shelters with disoriented strays.

"There's been a dramatic increase in earthquake business. People are very worried," said Dan Sonenfeld, manager of California Surplus in Hollywood, which sells earthquake kits containing water, food, first-aid supplies, blankets and sometimes flashlights and radios.

"We've been getting phone calls from concerned mothers, from small businesses worried they aren't prepared, even from consulates," Sonenfeld added. "Madonna's management company was in yesterday."

The earthquakes only added to the anxiety gripping Southern California, which has coped over the last year with floods, the Los Angeles riots and a battered economy that has put thousands of people out of work and created a state fiscal crisis.

The quakes struck Sunday morning in the Mojave Desert and the Big Bear mountain resort with powerful magnitudes of 7.4 and 6.5 on the Richter scale. The shakers injured more than 400 people and killed one boy. Damage estimates were close to $92 million and expected to rise.

Tom Heaton, scientist in charge of the U.S. Geological Survey's Pasadena office, cautioned the public against undue alarm, saying that despite increased concern. "We don't know if the San Andreas will go even in the next year."

But this uncertainty has taken an emotional toll. Los Angeles residents have called psychologists and mental health clinics looking for help dealing with fears that prevent sleep or cause depression and stomach aches.

"The worst thing in terms of fear for people are things that are unpredictable and uncontrollable, which is exactly what an earthquake is," said Dennis Munjack, associate professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences and director of the University of Southern California's anxiety disorder clinic.

Sales of batteries and water have doubled since Sunday at Stater Bros. grocery stores in Los Angeles and Orange counties, said company president Jack Brown. Sales in desert areas have gone up 10 times.

Even people used to scary situations were feeling uneasy.

"They're scared," said Claudia Paredes, who works at The Window Cleaners in Santa Ana, whose workers dangle from skyscrapers. "When I ask them, they don't really want to admit it. They say, 'Yeah, well, sort of.'"

The nervousness has been exacerbated, in part, by misinformation, scientists said.

Seismologists were angered by Paul Conrad's editorial cartoon in Wednesday's Los Angeles Times.

It suggested a June 23 underground nuclear weapons test in Nevada triggered California's strong quakes.

Nuclear tests can trigger small quakes at the Nevada Test Site, but "have nothing to do with the earthquakes we're having here," Geological Survey scientist Jim Mori said. The blasts were too weak to change underground stress more than a hundred miles away and cause big quakes, he added.

Still, even residents who use newspapers for purposes other than reading are feeling the strain. Animal shelters in Riverside County, for example, are dealing with an influx of strays.

"They become very sensitive, and they become very disoriented," said Pegi Hall, who works at the Riverside Humane SPCA.

of the Peace China Long and bond was set at $25,000.

Walkden first reported his wife missing on June 18, stating he had not seen his wife for two days, Howell said.

Walkden's reports indicated that his wife had packed two suitcases but had not taken her vehicle. Howell would not disclose the contents of later statements by Walkden, which aroused suspicion.

Walkden was described as "A hard worker — quiet — not really an extrovert — a little high strung," by his fellow workers, city public works director Tom Decell said. "He worked very hard during the baler retrofit, along with everybody else," Decell said.

Although Howell would not confirm the reports, Walkden is alleged to have killed his sleeping wife with a single rifle shot to the head.

Under lights supplied by the flood-light system on the city's new fire truck, excavation work continued after dark. Shortly after 9:30 p.m., heavy machinery uncovered a bag of bloodied clothing and bed linen, which was allegedly thrown down the hole after the body and, therefore, was thought to be slightly shallower than the body, according to city employees at the scene.

The body was discovered about 20 minutes later. Although believed to be Betty Ann Walkden, born Betty Ann Brunley, Justice of the Peace China Long ordered an autopsy to determine not only the cause of death, but to identify the remains.

The missing woman's El Paso relatives were notified late Wednesday, Howell said.

"Who knows?" Working under flood lights, shortly after 9:30 p.m., heavy machinery operators uncovered a bag of bloodied clothing and bed linen, which was allegedly thrown down the hole after the body and, therefore, was thought to be slightly shallower than the body.

Proceeding more slowly, the crews worked another 20 minutes before the cries of "Whoa! Whoa!" and waving hands stopped the motion of a loader bucket, which was raking down the earth a few inches at a time.

Sheriff's office personnel and city workers donned gloves and began moving debris from around the body.

Although desiccation, the dehydration of the tissues had occurred, the body was not badly decomposed.

As the remains were being excavated, Walkden's countenance remained unchanged as he watched while sitting on the stainless steel bed of a fire truck brought to the scene to provide lighting.

Shock

"He had talked about having problems with her (Betty)." A friend of Betty Ann, who asked not to be identified, remembers the Walkdens as quiet and people who seemed to care about each other. She became acquainted with the Walkdens through Wal-Mart where she worked with Betty Ann.

"I worked with Betty, shortly after they had moved here from El Paso in the fall of 1990," she said. "They (the Walkdens) got along just fine. She never said anything about having any problems at home."

"She did say they had (separated) once, but they got back together. She did not really say why they (separated) Don wasn't the violent kind."

"They were both quiet and shy people. They seemed crazy about each other."

When Betty Ann's friend first heard of her disappearance, she said she thought she had traveled to New York City to find out more about her brother's death.

"Her brother died last year," the friend said. "Since his death she has been disturbed by it and wanted to find out more about the circumstances around his death."

The last time she had seen Betty Ann was about a month ago, she said. "She came into the store (Wal-Mart) and I asked her how they were doing. Betty said fine."

"He was a loner, a hard worker and had a weird attitude," he said.

Don Walkden, who is alleged to have murdered his wife, Betty Ann Walkden, looks at a 12-foot-thick layer of earth and garbage over the spot where a body was unearthed late Wednesday. Walkden, an employee at the landfill, led authorities to the body.

The remains were transported to Scenic Mountain Medical Center by Myers and Smith Funeral Home to be held pending the autopsy.

Conversation between Walkden and his former co-workers remained businesslike through the ordeal, with Walkden merely answering questions regarding the best places to dig.

Bulldozer and heavy fork lift operators first tried to excavate an area around a specific point indicated by Walkden. The fork lift operators, however, were unable to extract the bales of garbage from the flat top of the structure. At about 6 p.m., Director of Public Works Tom Decell made the decision to come in from the side of the mesa-like structure. Workers cut a path to the place where the body was found by removing bales of garbage and earth.

Equipment operators worked about four hours before the trench in the structure reached the spot.

Old Settlers Reunion rearing to go

W.D. Bailey fiddles around during the Old Settlers Reunion's fiddling contest. This year's reunion on July 11 will have new contests along with old favorites.

Preparations for the 59th annual Old Settlers Reunion are underway for July 11. A full day of activities is planned for all ages.

Registration will be at the Martin County Community Center starting at 9 a.m.

PARADE

The traditional downtown parade begins at 10 a.m. and features the Old Fort Concho Buffalo Soldiers, Mule Club, several floats, a mystery rider, Stanton High School band, walking and riding units. The theme is "Those were the days." Float judging begins at 9:30 a.m. at the Methodist Church. Participants are asked to have floats visibly marked for easy identification.

Judging criteria: 0-40 points for work involved; 0-30 points for attractiveness and artistry; 0-30 points for originality. Cash prizes will be awarded to first, second and third place floats. Certificates will be awarded to the best non-theme float and the best class reunion float.

HONORED FAMILY

The family to be honored this year is the S.P. Myrick family. The family moved to Martin County in 1921 and settled in the Courtney community where his children and grandchildren still reside. Honoring a family is an Old Settlers Committee tradition.

GRAND MARSHALL

Grand marshal for the parade will be Dan Saunders, a long-time resident of Martin County. Saunders has been sheriff for nearly 40 years.

TOURS

The museum, old jail, and Connell home will be open for tours until 5 p.m. following the parade. Also following the parade will be downtown games sponsored by Martin County Chamber of Commerce. This year's games include egg toss, cow chip throwing, bubble gum blowing and Jello eating contest.

ENTERTAINMENT

Entertainment for the afternoon begins at 1 p.m. at the Martin County Community Center. The Lighthouse is at 1 p.m.; The Haggards, 1:45 p.m.; Melody Maids, 2:30 p.m.; Church of Christ, 3:30 p.m.; St. Joseph Church, 4:15; and Old Sorehead Band, 4:45.

ROPING CONTEST

A roping contest will be at the Martin County Roping Club at the Martin County Arena. Books open at 1 p.m. with the roping starting at 2 p.m. Entry fee is three heads for $12. Any past or present resident of Martin County and family are eligible to compete. For more information call Jimmy Bridges at 756-2888 or 458-3651.

Several classes will host reunions this year including:

Stanton class of 1932 — Contact Grover Springer, Robert White or Ivan White. Meets July 11 after parade at Reorganized Church of Latter Days Saints. Catered meal at noon. There will be a float in the parade or ride in cars.

Stanton class of 1939-1940 — Contact Bob Haislip or Corene Manning. Will meet at United Methodist Church July 10 and July 11 after the parade. There will be a parade float.

Stanton class of 1942 — Contact Flora Dee Wilson. Will meet at the junior high cafeteria from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Thanks for the support

I would like to publicly thank all the members of the Stanton High School Booster Club. As the building principal, I have had the opportunity to see first-hand all the different areas in which our booster club has helped.

As I begin naming things, I will probably omit something that they have helped us out in and I apologize if I do, but I would like to recognize some of the things that they have been involved in with us during this past school year.

They sponsored a huge watermelon feast after the Rankin scrimmage for BOTH football teams. This was a very nice gesture and was well-received by our friends from Rankin.

They helped out in every pep rally and handed out awards to our players in each one, as well.

They sponsored our Varsity Basketball Tournament and played a vital role in the tremendous success of the entire tournament. They furnished all the food in our hospitality room which turned out to be second to none. I believe that this year was just the beginning in making our tournament into one of the very best around. Of course, having the best gym in the entire area doesn't hurt, either.

The newsletter that the Booster Club puts out is simply fantastic! It is done in a first class manner by our Fan of the Year, Pinkie Jones, and it keeps us all informed as to how all our teams are doing — jr. high and high school.

The Booster Club helped us out a ton in running off the track meets that we had in Stanton this year. We held both the jr. high and the high school district meets here this year and both were run off very, very smoothly. That is the kind of track meet that coaches like to take their teams to — those that are run off well and where things run smoothly.

The Booster Club also helped out in the district UIL meet for the elementary and jr. high. That is a hard job, too. This demonstrated to me that our booster club was interested in our students' academic progress as well as our athletic progress. That is something one doesn't see in many booster clubs. I will guarantee. They will talk about it a great deal, but when it comes time to actually get in there and help, most fall by the wayside. Not ours.

Finally, they also put on our Athletic Awards Banquet for us. As usual, this was a first class event. Everyone who attended felt the same way. I am sure.

So, in closing, I just wanted to give the Booster Club a little publicity for all the good things that they do and a great big "Thanks a million!" Our kids are very fortunate to be able to enjoy the support of such an enthusiastic group. I have seen several booster clubs in my years in education, but none of them have come close to our own. Stanton High Booster Club, you're in a class by yourself, and we thank you for all your support.

NOTICE OF ELECTION FOR GRADY INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT ON AUGUST 29, 1992

On August 29, 1992, the Grady Independent School District will hold a school board election. The election will be implemented pursuant to a single-member district plan ordered by the United States District Court for the Western District of Texas, Midland-Odessa Division.

Under the newly created plan, trustees will be elected from seven single-member districts rather than at-large. Please refer to the map included with this notice for the boundaries of the single-member districts. On August 29, 1992, places 1 and 2 will be up for election. There is currently a vacancy on the board of trustees and the court ordered that the vacancy shall be filled by a special election to be held in conjunction with the August 29 elections. This special election to be held will fill the vacancy that is designated to be for district 7. In the regularly scheduled 1993 elections, places 3 and 4 shall be up for election and in the regularly scheduled 1994 elections, places 5 and 6 shall be up for election. All positions on the board of trustees shall be for a term of 3 years.

A trustee is required to be both a resident of the Grady Independent School District as well as the single-member district which he/she is either appointed or elected to represent. However, in the event that the period provided for by law for filing for single-member trustee positions closes without any person filing for office, then the board president in consultation with other board members shall reopen filing for a supplemental period of 7 days and any person who is a resident of the Grady Independent School District shall be entitled to file for that position. This shall be the procedure in either a regularly scheduled or a special election to fill the vacancy. At each election for a single-member district position, the candidate receiving a plurality of the votes cast shall be declared elected. No run off shall be required. If a vacancy on the board of trustees occurs, the vacancy shall be filled at the next regular election. The vacancy on the board of trustees may be filled by appointment made by a majority of the remaining members of the board. The appointed person serves only until the next regular election.

Residents of the individual districts may vote only when their district is up for election. For example, in the August 29 election, voters from districts 1, 2 and 7 will vote for candidates in their districts. Voters from outside those districts will not be allowed to vote.

Any resident of single-member districts 1, 2 or 7 of the Grady Independent School District who wishes to run for board of trustees may make an application for a place on the August 29 ballot at the Superintendent's Office at Grady Independent School District from June 15 through July 15.

If additional information is needed concerning the upcoming election or the single-member district boundaries, you may call the Superintendent's office at (915) 459-2444.

Affairs with married men are not about sex

DEAR ABBY: Don't ever stop printing letters about how destructive "affairs" are to marriage.

I'm another woman who became sexually attracted to a married man. I was 30, attractive, and had a handsome, intelligent husband who adored me. I'll admit, he wasn't the greatest lover in the world, but instead of addressing my needs to him, I looked elsewhere.

I met a man 20 years my senior, and the sparks flew! Before I knew it, we were intimate. It wasn't lovemaking—it was cheap, unsatisfying sex on the floor of his office! I could not believe I was capable of such degrading, slutty behavior. It happened several times, and each time I felt worse about myself, so I finally ended the affair.

Dear Abby

Almost immediately, I became attracted to another man closer to my age (also married) and the same feelings started up again. Fortunately, nothing happened, but I came close. I was so confused by then, I was disappointed that nothing had happened. Finally, with the help of God and a good therapist, I was able to end my self-destructive behavior.

Abby, thank you for telling your readers to get professional help before they become powerless over their own behavior. Affairs outside of marriage are not about sex—they are escapes from a multitude of problems to which there are constructive solutions. Keep telling people to get counseling, Abby. It saved my life. — NO NAME, NO CITY, U.S.A.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently divorced and have moved to another state from where my family and ex-husband live. After I moved, I got an unlisted telephone number. I gave this number to my two sisters and our mother, and asked them not to give the number to anyone else.

So far, I've changed my number three times, only to have one of my sisters or my mother give it to my ex-husband, who then calls to harass me!

I have explained my reasons for paying extra for an unlisted telephone number, but my wishes were ignored. My mother and sisters have my work number in case of emergency. Abby, would I be justified in changing my number again, and not giving it to anyone in my family? — FRAZZLED IN FLORIDA

DEAR FLORIDA: Not only would you be justified, you would be very wise.

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054 (Postage is included.)

FOR FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: When people think you have power, they will give you even more of it. Show a calm and dignified exterior during business negotiations. The financial outlook will brighten as the year progresses.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Tom Cruise, musician Pete Fountain, actress Kerris Houlihan, playwright Tom Stoppard.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be more receptive to other points of view and you will make faster progress at work. Invest in your own future by going back to school or attending special seminars.

TALIBUS (April 20-May 20): Breaking with tradition or changing old habits is difficult but sometimes necessary. You must first believe in yourself! Leave trivial pursuits behind and zero in on your ultimate purpose in life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Acting impulsively could prove costly today. Avoid taking chances with your money. Even the advice of friends or family members could be unreliable. Do not allow outsiders to intrude on your privacy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hold fast to your ideals. Speaking out when you sense something is wrong shows other people that you are on your toes. Consider starting a daily period of meditation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Come straight to the point, especially where marriage is concerned. You must give in order to receive. Be careful when on a shopping trip. Buy only top-quality merchandise.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Decisions made today prove lucky. Be careful that your self-assurance does not get you into troubled waters. The fortunate ones among you have a loving partner enabling you to spread your wings.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Although time seems to stand still on occasion, it is fleeting. Smart people do all they can to improve their minds. You could be feeling unsure of yourself. Act confident.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Saving every dollar can make people rich but it could also limit your chances for business success when carried too far. Be daring. Give a clever plan more time to work out.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A trend could be taking a darker turn. Greater flexibility is needed to avoid losing recently gained ground. Follow a plan that is considered sound.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Give someone who is being unreasonable plenty of room. In time, you will overcome any obstacles you encounter. Set a good example for your loved ones where spending is concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The better your skills and professional background, the greater your financial returns now. A new job opportunity has real potential. Adopt a more practical approach to business and romance.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Finding out just what went wrong will help you avoid making similar errors. Your earning power gets a welcome boost. Romance finds you when least expected!

You are hereby commanded to cause to be published once a week for four (4) consecutive weeks, the first publication to be at least 29 days before the return date thereon, in a newspaper printed in Howard County, Texas, the accompanying Citation, of which the following is a true copy:

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS TO: JAY H. FREEMAN and wife, IMOGENE FREEMAN, VAN LANDES, M.J. HENKS, and D.F. LARSEN and wife, PAULINE LAWSON LARSEN, Defendants in the cause numbered and styled above

YOU ARE COMMANDED to appear before the Honorable District Court, 118th Judicial District of Howard County, Texas, at or before 10:00 o'clock A.M. of the first Monday next after the expiration of 42 days from the date of the issuance of this citation, by filing a written answer to Plaintiff's Petition that was filed in said Court on the 12 day of June, 1992, numbered 35855, on the docket of said Court, and styled SHARP IMAGE ENERGY, INC., Plaintiff, vs. JAY H. FREEMAN and wife, IMOGENE FREEMAN, VAN LANDES, M.J. HENKS, and D.F. LARSEN and wife, PAULINE LAWSON LARSEN, Defendant

7858 June 18, 25 & 26
July 2 & 9, 1992

PUBLIC NOTICE

A brief statement of the nature of this is as follows:

A suit by Plaintiff, SHARP IMAGE ENERGY, INC., complaining of JAY H. FREEMAN and wife, IMOGENE FREEMAN, VAN LANDES, M.J. HENKS, and D.F. LARSEN and wife, PAULINE LAWSON LARSEN, who are the owners of an undivided interest in the oil, gas and other minerals lying in, on and under the following described tract of land situated in the County of Howard, State of Texas, to-wit: The SW4 of Section 15, Block 25, H&TC Ry. Co. Survey, Howard County, Texas and the Plaintiff was unable to locate the above named Defendants, and it is necessary to petition the Court for the appointment of a Receiver under the provisions of VCTA-Civil Practice and Remedies Code Section 64.091, to execute an oil and gas lease on said lands with proceeds from said lease, if any, to be held in the registry of said Court for the benefit of said Defendants.

If this citation is not served within 90 days after the date of its issuance it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve it and made due return thereof according to requirements of law, and the mandates thereof issued under my hand and seal of said Court as Big Spring, Texas, this 12 day of June, 1992.
