U.N. okays force in Bosnia

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. Security Council on Thursday overwhelmingly approved the use of military action as a last resort to ensure delivery of humanitarian assistance to beleaguered Bosnia.

But diplomats on the council, which unanimously adopted a second resolution demanding access to detention camps and warning of war crimes trials, said there were no plans for military intervention, even to deliver aid.

The 15-member council voted 12-0, with three abstentions by China, India and Zimbabwe, to adopt the measure seen as a final warning to the Serb fighters besieging Sarajevo and other Bosnian cities that they must allow relief deliveries.

Voting in favor were the co-sponsors: the United States, Britain, France, Belgium and Russia, as well as Austria, Cape Verde, Ecuador, Hungary, Japan, Morocco and Venezuela.

Critics have called the measure a faint-hearted public relations gesture that fails to address "ethnic cleansing," the expulsion of Muslims and Croats from Serb-controlled areas.

The vague resolution calls for "all measures necessary" to protect relief shipments, but makes no mention of outside force to establish relief corridors or to halt the fighting in Bosnia, despite appeals from the Bosnian government, which wants air strikes against Serb artillery, supply lines and strategic bridges.

The sponsors of the resolution have no plans to form an international coalition like that which drove Iraqi forces from Kuwait last year to come to the aid of the Bosnian government, diplomats said.

Nor was there a response to Bosnian calls for the council to authorize arms sales or shipments so the new government can defend itself.

"This resolution does not prescribe the use of force, it merely authorizes it as a last resort," British Ambassador David Hannay said. But he added, "It is very important we try every means possible to get supply through without use of force."

State hospital lays off temporary help as budget tightens

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

The Big Spring State Hospital laid off 15 temporary employees Monday as the institution's budget tightens.

The temporary personnel were let go because of a financial decision, said Assistant Superintendent Ed Moughon. "Our fiscal year ends Aug. 31. To balance our budget it was to our benefit."

This is common at the end of the institution's fiscal year, Moughon said. Near the end of the 1991 fiscal year, about eight temporary personnel were laid off in June, he said.

These temporary employees are hired knowing their jobs could last as little as two months, he said. "They would have all gone home unquestionably by Sept. 1, we just moved it up a couple of weeks."

The primary reason for the increase in temporary personnel — from eight last year to 15 this year — is the increased need placed on the institution by an above-budget census. The institution is budgeted for 401 patients, but has been steadily running about 440 in its census, said Superintendent Robert Von Rosenberg.

There were no permanent positions lost in the terminations, he said.

Moughon said all of the temporary personnel are encouraged to reapply for permanent positions. This is how the institution acquires many of its full-time employees. The turnover rate at the institution is about 20 people per month.

Not all of the 15 terminations were in Big Spring, Moughon said. With all of the outreach centers and its main campus, BSSH employs 1,164, of which 15 is a little over 1 percent, he said.

Some of the temporary personnel had recently been hired and were in training when they were dismissed. This was because of an "oversight," allowing some departments to hire temporary help that could not be paid for.

When the new fiscal year begins in September, the hospital will likely rehire some temporaries and some full-time people, he said. "It's intermittent throughout the year. We might hire a temporary for two months for a special project," he said, adding that some might stay much of the year.

Rehiring will not begin until placement has been found for all employees of the alcohol and drug abuse unit, which was dissolved recently. These people will have priority before any rehiring begins, he said.

Two killed in possible drug-related kidnapping

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PHARR — Two suspects were killed and two were in custody in what appears to be the drug-related kidnapping of a family, officials said today.

A man reported Thursday that his wife and children had been abducted and were being held for ransom, according to the Hidalgo County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff's deputies laid a trap Thursday night at a Pharr restaurant where the kidnappers were told they could collect their ransom.

An exchange was made about 10 p.m. and deputies confronted three suspects, who opened fire with automatic weapons. The deputies returned fire.

Heavy equipment rumbles over a recently-erected earthen dam along Sulphur Springs Draw this week. The dam will rise an additional 25 feet before completion in October.

Reservoir opposition catches TWC's eye

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Construction of relief reservoirs to augment the holding capacity of Natural Dam Lake is well underway, but opposition to the project has caught the attention of the Texas Water Commission.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District is building a new dam about 10 miles north of Natural Dam Lake in the area of Sulphur Springs Draw, said CRMWD Manager Owen H. Ivie.

Many farmers in the area are concerned about the possibility of ruined farmland and ground water pollution from diverting water into a holding basin that contains water many times more mineralized than sea water, said Mark Hoelscher, manager of the Permian Basin Underground Water District in Stanton.

"We're not saying it's going to happen, we're just saying there is a definite danger," Hoelscher said.

The holding capacity behind this dam will be about 9,000 acre feet. This will be connected to a natural basin through a diversion channel, which can be opened in the event of an emergency, Ivie said. "We will be utilizing an existing large playa lake (Red Lake), about a half mile from the new dam." This will give the area a total holding capacity of about 18,000 acre feet, he said. It is this lake that is causing the most concern among the farmers, Hoelscher said.

The purpose for the new dam and diversion channels is to protect the Colorado River from possible overflow of the highly saline waters of Natural Dam Lake, which would ruin downstream reservoirs and flood the city of Big Spring, Ivie said.

This danger is believed to be the motivation for the TWC's quick action in granting permits for the development without first addressing the concerns of the PBUWD and area residents, Hoelscher said.

The floods of 1986 threatened to top the natural dam. To protect the downstream areas, the CRMWD effected a "controlled release," thereby averting a disaster, Ivie said.

"This saline water poured into the river and into Lake E.V. Spence, which caused a significant drop in the quality of the area's drinking water, Ivie said.

After reviewing information and concerns presented by the Permian Basin Underground Water District, the TWC has ordered the CRMWD to complete an environmental study by Sept. 11.

The dam and spillway project is scheduled to be completed in October.

In addition to the environmental analysis ordered by the TWC, the Hannay said U.N. efforts would concentrate on continuing and expanding humanitarian shipments and obtaining, "a greater degree of acceptance by all parties" in helping the aid get through.

While the U.N. appeared to be skirting the use of force, in Brussels, NATO sources said that the alliance's military staff has drafted plans to open a land corridor to deliver humanitarian supplies to Bosnia that would involve the deployment of 100,000 ground troops.

But senior NATO military officials were alarmed by the size of the proposal, and asked their subordinates to revise it so that NATO ambassadors meeting Friday would have other options to discuss.

In Ankara, military officials said Turkey was preparing a 480-member mechanized battalion to join a possible multi-national force in Bosnia. Muslim Turkey has pressed for immediate military action to halt the ethnic fighting in Bosnia, which is 44 percent Muslim.

Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali, in a letter to the council on Wednesday, warned that the security of 15,000 U.N. peacekeepers and other personnel in the former Yugoslavia could be jeopardized if military force actually is used.

There are concerns that a foreign military intervention could provoke a backlash on U.N. targets by the Serbs.

Residents warned of phone scam

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

Harassment-type telephone calls suspected of luring residents away from their homes have been made to at least two Howard County residents.

Howard County Sheriff's office has received two complaints stating unknown individuals have contacted residents and directed them to the post office to pick up a package.

"The calls are bogus and have possibly a devious intent designed for criminal activity," said Howard County Sheriff A.N. Standard. "We assume the calls are made to lure them away from their home or establish a communication to obtain a social security number or a credit card number."

Package notification procedure rarely entails a phone call, said United States Post Office Supervisor of Mail and Delivery Pat Blevins. Post office carriers deliver a yellow slip notifying the resident of the package.

"Sometimes in rural areas the carrier will call the resident," she said. "The carrier will identify himself on the onset of the conversation."

The calls are bogus and have possibly a devious intent designed for criminal activity.

A.N. Standard
Howard County sheriff

Blevins suggested people receiving phone calls to verify the call with the post office.

Standard says the phone harassment and an increase in burglaries in Howard County may be related. To date no one has reported a burglary of habitation after receiving a phone call, he said.

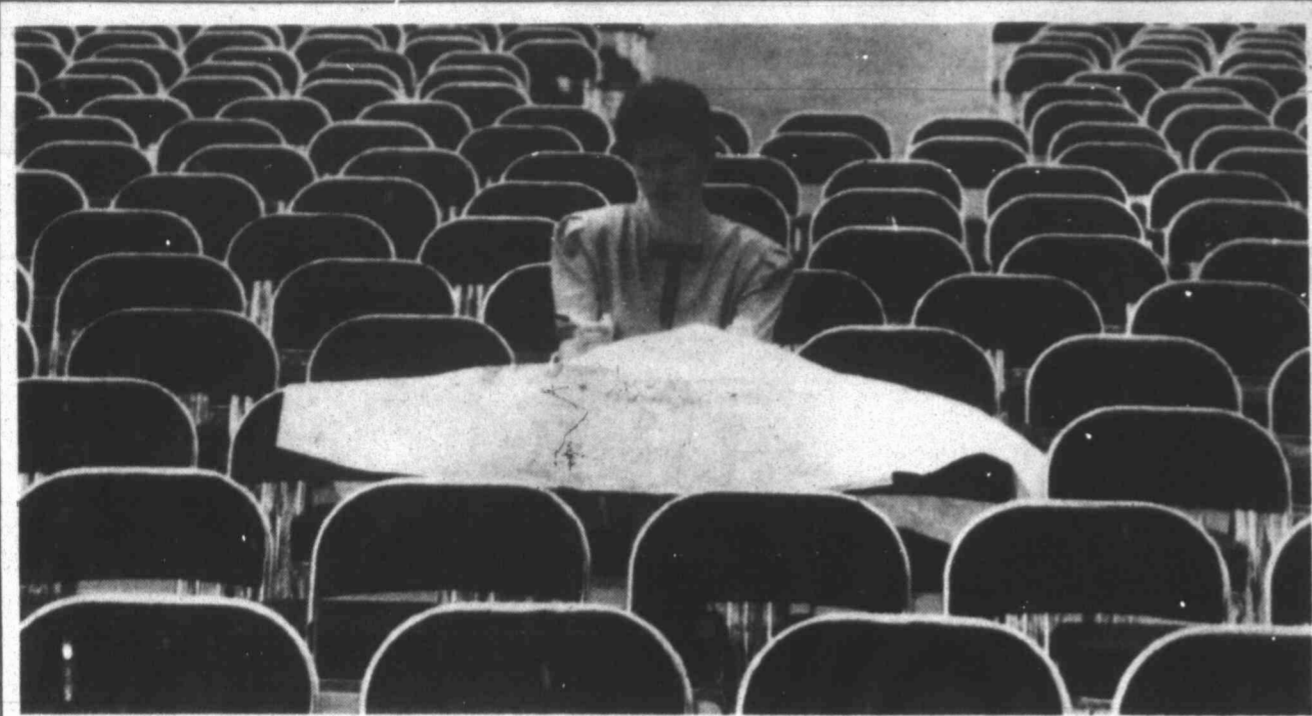

Of the two complaints received by the sheriff's office, one was within the city limits, but the Big Spring Police Department has not received complaints of this nature.

A Big Spring resident did report to the police department a call requesting he go out to a residence.

"The complainant is in repair service, and when he arrived at the location it was a vacant home," said Lt. Pam Jordan, Big Spring Police Department.

Both the sheriff's office and the police department urge citizens to report any information related to the harassment calls.

Schools should benefit from any state surplus

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN (AP) — School districts looking at a shortfall in expected state aid for 1992-93 ought to get the benefit of any surplus that's found in Texas' budget, says a state lawmaker.

Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, said Thursday he intends to file a bill providing such potential relief to districts if the Legislature meets in special session this year. Gov. Ann Richards has said she may call lawmakers into session in November.

The senator's idea was prompted by State Comptroller John Sharp's announcement last week that the state should have a $529 million cash balance when this fiscal year ends Aug. 31.

Ratliff first sent a letter to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock saying the state should appropriate that money to cover a projected $540 million school funding shortfall.

However, Sharp said it's not that easy.

The $529 million is not a budget surplus, as described by Ratliff.

The cash balance announced last week by the comptroller is due largely to state agencies spending less than they were appropriated by the Legislature, lower-than-anticipated franchise tax refunds to corporations, and higher-than-expected lottery proceeds.

Police ambush gang on way to beating

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNIVERSAL CITY — Five reputed gang members who planned to break into a trailer and beat the owner to death just to show their viciousness have been arrested in a police ambush, authorities say.

Investigators said Thursday the gang members, three juveniles and two adults ranging in age from 13 to 30, did not know the intended victim but planned to burglarize his trailer and kill him.

Officers surprised the five early Thursday at the trailer home, according to University City Police Lt. Charles Dewey.

Edmund Lowe, 30, of New Braunfels, and Felix Canales, 17, of Schertz, were being held in lieu of $300,000 bond each on charges of burglary and conspiracy to commit capital murder.

Two 16-year-olds from Seguin and a 13-year-old from McQueeney were turned over to juvenile authorities. Their names were not released because they are juveniles. Investigators said they were tipped off by New Braunfels police and the Guadalupe County Sheriff's Office about the activities of the Seguin-based gang.

The intended victim, whose name was not released, was a retired U.S. Air Force enlisted man who is divorced and lives alone, police said. He did not know the would-be attackers and their only connection to him is that a relative of one of them had done some work for him.

"Their motive for killing the individual could not be established other than for gang notoriety," Dewey said.

Dewey, Sgt. Gary Speer and Universal City Patrolman Bill Gabbard, accompanied by Larry Morawietz, chief investigator for sheriff's office in Guadalupe County, went to the trailer Wednesday evening to warn the man.

"He was very surprised and afraid. He could not imagine anyone who would want to hurt him," Dewey said.

The man spent the night with a friend and officers staked out the trailer.

Three of the men were arrested after they entered the trailer, a fourth attempted to flee but was caught and the fifth was found waiting in a car in the driveway, Dewey said.

Several of those arrested admitting to planning the slaying, Dewey said.

"If the owner of the trailer had been there, we would have been working a murder, there's no doubt about it," Dewey said.

San Antonio contracts to sell bodies of cats

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — San Antonio has approved a contract that would allow the sale of 10,000 stray and abandoned cat bodies annually for use in science labs and school anatomy classes.

The City Council approved a contract Thursday with California-based Sargeant's Wholesale Biologicals at $2.50-per-cat body for a total of $25,000 in revenue.

The bodies will come from euthanasia chambers at the San Antonio animal pound, The San Antonio Light reported in Friday editions.

Sargeant's Wholesale Biologicals will prepare and preserve the cat carcasses and sell them to scientific institutions and schools across the nation.

According to the contract, Sargeant's Wholesale Biologicals will take the carcasses of grown cats, but not those of kittens or small felines.

"This action will also reduce some of the space demands on the city landfill," Metropolitan Health District Director Dr. Fernando Guerra stated in a memo urging approval of the contract.

Health officials said no estimate had been made on the amount of landfill space occupied by the approximately 13,000 cats killed each year by animal control.

"Ten thousand 12-inch cats. You figure it out," said health planner Scott Highley. "I guess you'd have to figure out the volume of a cat."

"We have an overabundance of animals and a shortage in revenues," Guerra told The Light after the contract was approved.

"It actually is a very unique and special opportunity for a community that has an enormous number of dogs and cats."

'No problem' with Baker's dual role

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 WASHINGTON — A 1991 memo by White House counsel Boyden Gray sharply discourages political activity by presidential aides. But a White House spokesman insisted Thursday that James A. Baker III's mingling of policy and politics will pose "no problem."

President Bush on Thursday announced that Baker was resigning as secretary of state to become his chief-of-staff and will have broad powers over both Bush's political and policy agenda.

Gray, in a November 27, 1991, internal memo to "all White House staff," spelled out stiff restrictions on political activity by presidential employees.

"The simplest rule to follow is the common-sense instruction that anything that is obviously campaign-related should not be done here, whether or not one could 'legally' justify doing it here," Gray wrote.

He suggested that direct campaign activity on the part of White House staff could be construed as a misuse of public funds.

A copy of the memo was obtained by The Associated Press.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday Robert Teeter would remain as chairman of Bush's re-election committee but "under the direction of the president and the chief of staff."

Asked how Baker's directing of Bush's re-election effort squared with the Gray memo, Fitzwater said: "This situation has been reviewed by legal counsel... We would anticipate no problem."

"Certainly, the secretary (Baker), the president and everyone else is aware of the difficulties inherent in the this situation," Fitzwater said.

"It is our view that good politics and good policy are of the same quotient," Fitzwater said.

Gray, in his 1991 memo, wrote that top-ranking members of Bush's White House staff "are subject to certain restrictions" on their political activities.

The memo asserts that no funds appropriated by Congress for the operation of the White House may be used "for political purposes."

In addition, Bush's counsel wrote, "government copying machines may not be used to reproduce materials for transmittal to a campaign or political committee except in those limited instances where there is an official purpose for doing so."

Gray's memo also suggests that political fund-raisers held in the White House would be illegal.

"A number of criminal statutes prohibit the use of federal programs, property, or employment for political purpose. Violation of these criminal statutes is punishable by imprisonment and/or the payment of a substantial fine," the president's counsel wrote.

Meanwhile, an ethics law that prohibits former high-level administration officials from having lobbying or other contacts with their former agencies for a year after they leave government could snare Samuel Skinner in his new job as general chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Skinner is the outgoing chief of staff. The ethics law, if followed to the letter, could make it difficult for Skinner to hold discussions with White House officials.

The ethics law is one reason why former White House drug control policy director William Bennett turned down President Bush's 1991 offer to become RNC chairman.

New EPA rules designed to protect farm workers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS
 WASHINGTON — Farm workers may soon have greater protection against exposure to harsh pesticides through new government regulations requiring that workers be warned not to enter newly sprayed fields.

The Environmental Protection Agency on Thursday released a list of rules requiring agricultural employers to make efforts such as training workers in handling pesticides and making sure they have a place to wash their hands.

It took eight years to finalize the rules. They were caught in a struggle between the Agriculture Department, which said they could hurt the agricultural industry, and farm activists who said the regulations didn't go far enough.

The EPA says the new regulations will affect nearly 4 million people and could prevent 10,000 to 20,000 pesticide-related injuries and illnesses a year.

The rules will apply to farm workers, employees of nurseries, forests and greenhouses, and anyone who handles pesticides used in such places. It could cost companies up to $60 million a year to comply, the EPA said.

Under the new regulations, employers must train workers in handling pesticides and in using protective equipment, such as gloves or goggles. Workers must have a place to wash and access to emergency medical care.

Employers must post notices at treated fields warning workers in Spanish and English of pesticide risks and bar them from the fields for 12 to 72 hours after spraying, depending on the type of pesticide used and environmental conditions. The rules would be phased in over the next two years. By April 15, pesticides must carry labels barring them from being used in a way that would lead to human exposure.

"A significant fraction of our agricultural work force suffers disadvantages that most of us never face," said EPA Administrator William Reilly. "These workers will know, often for the first time, when they are working in the presence of toxic pesticides."

NATO reviewing escort relief plans

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Backed by new U.N. pressure to end the civil war in Bosnia, NATO allies today were reviewing plans to use thousands of troops to escort relief aid. European mediators sought progress in another round of Yugoslav peace talks.

Lord Carrington, mediator for the 12-nation European Community, opened the daylong peace conference today by meeting separately with the presidents of four former Yugoslav republics, including Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Carrington made no comment as he entered the downtown Egmont Palace conference center, but other officials privately expressed doubts the session would make much headway in the resolving the 5-month-old civil war in Bosnia.

France ready to send troops

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

PARIS — France is prepared to immediately send a contingent of 1,100 men, including helicopters and light armored vehicles, to help protect aid shipments to war-torn Bosnia, Foreign Minister Roland Dumas announced today.

The decision follows the U.N. Security Council's approval of the use of military force as a last resort to ensure delivery of food, medicine and other humanitarian aid to beleaguered Bosnia.

Speaking on French television, Dumas said the force was a national force that would operate under French colors. He said it was made up of four units: helicopter, light armored vehicles, troop transport and engineering.

Asked if France was prepared to use force, the minister said: "It's a force of protection ... so that aid reaches its destination."

He said France has asked its allies what measures they plan to take to implement the U.N. resolution.

The Security Council, in its Thursday vote, unanimously adopted a second resolution demanding access to detention camps and warning of war crimes trials for "ethnic cleansing" and other atrocities.

Commission was expected today to call for an envoy to collect evidence of atrocities, most blamed on Serb forces fighting the Bosnian government.

In Serbian-dominated Yugoslavia, accused of supporting the Bosnian Serbs, the nation's naval chief said today he was considering wider military implications than just the security of relief aid."

U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali has already warned that the security of the 15,000 U.N. personnel in the former Yugoslavia could be jeopardized by more foreign intervention.

In a Wednesday letter leaked by council diplomats, he asked for advance warning before any military force is used in order to "minimize the dangers" to U.N. forces, presumably by withdrawing them.

But the Bosnian U.N. ambassador said the U.N. action didn't go far enough, and he welcomed an offer by Turkey to send troops to intervene in the civil war itself if the United Nations agrees.

"This deals with the symptoms, not the cause," Ambassador Muhamed Sacirbey said Thursday of the new U.N. resolutions aimed at halting the fighting between Serbs and the Bosnian government supported by Muslims and Croats.

The United States and others hope the mere prospect of intervention to ensure humanitarian aid will increase the chance of success at the talks in Brussels today.

BSH salutes:

The Big Spring Herald, each week, recognizes local persons and groups who have been singled out for special honors or who have helped make a difference in the quality of life in and around our community.

- Community leaders and community volunteers who have been working to get the renovation project at the Dora Roberts Community Center off dead-center. The project is now ready to move ahead with roofing and air conditioning work scheduled first.
- Laurie Wells of Big Spring. The 16-year-old recently captured first place in the girls division of a Texas Youth Bowling Alliance tournament in Arlington. Her eight-game, 1,635 pin total was good enough for her to win a $300 scholarship.
- Petition volunteers and petition signers in the effort to keep the Big Spring State Recreation Area on Scenic Mountain open. More than 5,000 signatures have been collected thus far.
- 14th and Main Church of Christ in Big Spring on its celebration of 80 years' service to God, mankind and the community.
- Howard/Glassecock County Old Settlers on the celebration of their annual reunion.
- Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce for its long-standing effort on gaining funding from the state to do beautification work around the entrances to the community from Interstate 20. Bids were let for the project this week. Due to the efforts of the chamber, more than $100,000 of our tax money will be returning to the community.
- Chicano Golf Association for its sponsorship of this weekend's golf tournament to benefit the United Way of Big Spring and Howard County.
- Amigos del Barrio reunion organizers. The reunion, this weekend at Tres Amigos, is a gathering of classmates who attended the old Kate Morrison Elementary School in the 1950s and 1960s.
- Blood donors who gave the gift of life this week during blood drives held in the community by United Blood Services of San Angelo.

Politics, Olympics did not mix in 1992

Nobody at the Olympics cared whether Bill Clinton's lead is solid or liquid, or if Saddam Hussein finally will allow the United Nations to snoop a glimpse of his guns.

Nobody worried much about Bosnia-Herzegovina, or if someone did, he disguised it with marathon talk of Gwen Torrence and Carl Lewis.

The world crisis in Barcelona was Sergei Bubka crashing into a bar, not war in the Balkans.

I probably should be appalled by such sports-induced oblivion to real issues — that is, the real issues as defined by politicians and "Larry King Live," not necessarily in that order.

But to tell you the truth, it was a relief to wallow in the tight-knit, late-night world of 10,000 Olympic sports writers in Barcelona, who never waste words, written or spoken, on war and famine or things even the Bible says you can't do anything about.

Most of the stuff the sports scribes worry about will not be with us always; they may not even be with us tomorrow, or 60 minutes hence.

Records break, shin splints heal, titles fly out the window with an unfavorable head wind. Even entire games disappear from the Olympic roster over the years. Greco-Roman wrestling today, gone tomorrow.

The stories of human dramas are often self-inflicted dramas, as pumped up as a steroid runner.

There are your tragic exceptions, of course, your Magic Johnsons and Jeff Blatniks.

But for every Magic Johnson story, there are 100 Dave Johnson stories; one is life and death, the other games. Only in sports, they sometimes get the same treatment.

In the past hectic days I felt like a spy from the enemy camp, marveling as my cohorts spoke in that esoteric shorthand about games; other victories, better years.

They talked in meters and metaphor. Statistics R Us. I'll get this round and you tell us the latest Barkley story.

Sports writers don't visit cathedrals, or try the paella, or get lost in the Gothic Quarter.

(The McDonald's in a Spanish shopping mall knew one writer's order as soon as he walked through the door.)

In their defense, sports writers don't have time to do much but work at gargantuan happenings like the Olympics. They wake up in the morning from dreams of an upset in U.S. basketball, just in time to cover canoeing and boxing, then rush the hill to track and field. And the next thing you know it is 2 a.m., and the beer garden is humming with the comfortable sound of statistic-swapping.

In a way the sports scribes are like political writers, so immersed in their calling that nobody else makes sense to them and they make sense to nobody else.

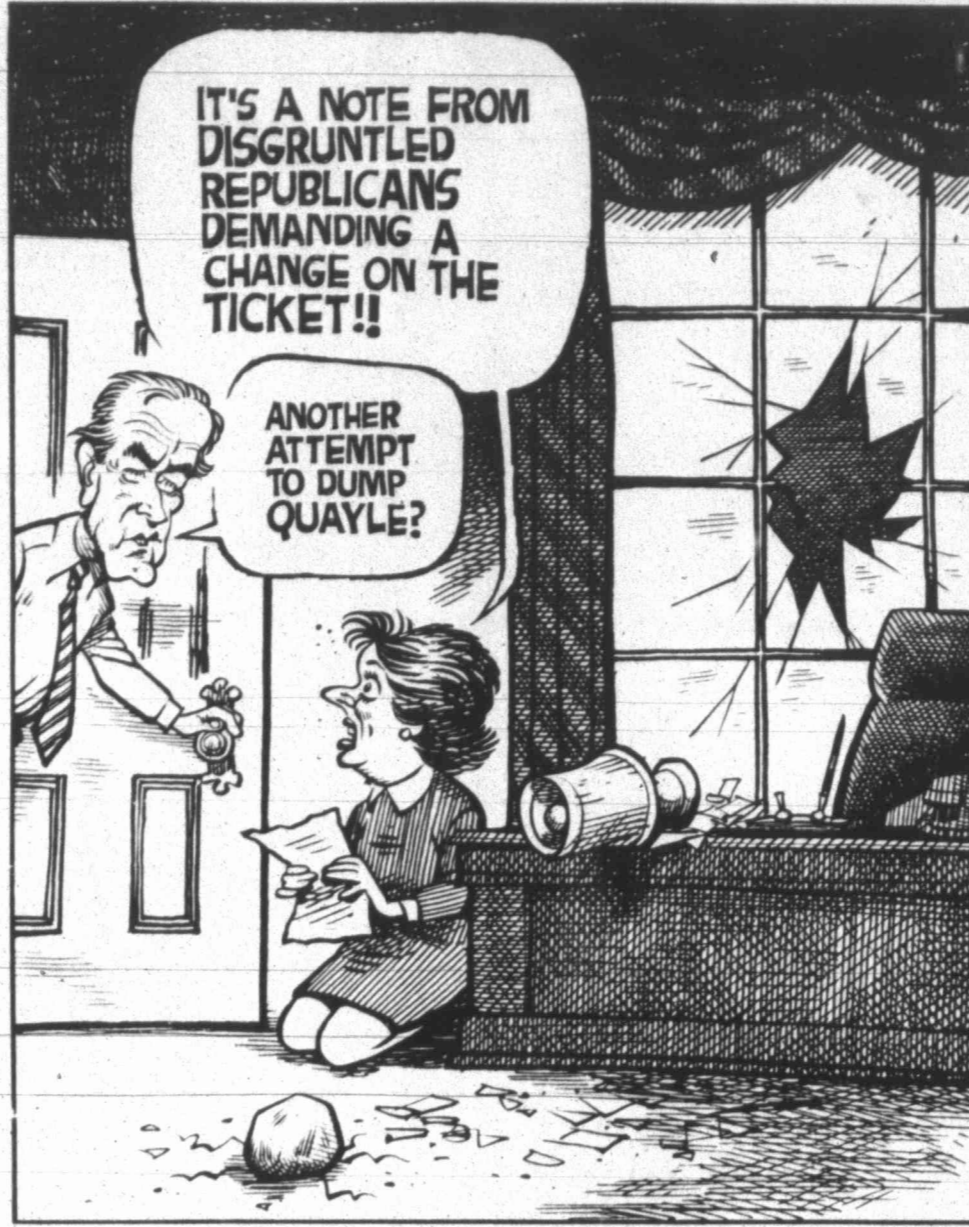

I now have covered two political conventions and two Olympics, and the similarities are striking. Trivia is the key. Reporters in both camps talk percentage of victory. What might have happened if only...

You can argue that the politics matter most, but I wonder in the end if they do. There are the politics of sports and the sport of politics. And both may be equally important or inane, depending on how or when you look at it.

In Barcelona you could watch CNN International or read The International Herald Tribune if you needed a quick news fix.

Or you could go with the flow, up the escalator of Montjuic to the Games. I chose the latter, and now must play furious catchup, not yet an Olympic sport.

It's back to Bill and Al for me. It's goodbye to Charles Barkley and Bubka.

Just how does your garden grow?

A number of readers have called or written and asked, "Lewis, how does your garden grow?"

Some weeks ago I wrote of my decision to return to my agricultural roots by planting a small garden in my back yard.

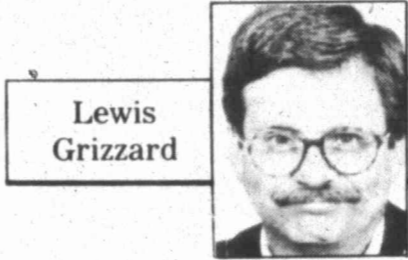

I planted tomatoes, squash, okra, cucumbers, peppers, watermelons and speckled heart butterbeans. So here's how it's going:

It rained every day for six weeks after I planted my garden, so I really haven't had the opportunity to do what really appealed to me, and that was watering it.

I bought a hose and I thought, this is going to be great. I can turn on the hose and stand in front of my garden and bring moisture to the earth.

But you don't water mud, which is what I would have been doing had I decided to use my new hose on my garden.

One of my six tomato plants died. I went out and performed an autopsy on it, and my conclusion was it drowned from all the rain and mud.

Why my other five tomato plants are still doing well, thank you, remains a mystery, but I contend that five-out-of-six is great in baseball and so it's not bad in gardening either.

My two watermelon plants never showed up at all. I mean, nothing.

They just wilted away and never even took a shot at growing, but that's OK too. The problem with watermelons has always been they have too many seeds in them, which led to an activity known as watermelon seed-spitting contests.

To me, spitting of any kind is unclean and uncouth, and if my watermelon plants had yielded any watermelons, I would have eaten them and would have had to spit out all those seeds, which reminds me of a sign I saw in a New York subway once.

It said: Spitting is a $50 fine. And I thought, I guess you can throw up for nothing.

Either my squash or my cucumber also died. I had those little tags that I put next to all my plants to tell me what they were, but the squash and cucumber tags got washed away in the rain.

I can tell squash from cucumbers themselves, but I don't have a clue which is which when there is nothing but the plants.

I hope it was the squash that died, not the cucumbers. I enjoy eating both, but I'm a little more fond of cucumbers than squash. Cucumbers even taste a little like watermelons, but there are not as many seeds.

I've never liked the term "squash" for something to eat, anyway. Squash is what happens to things that try to cross the road at the wrong time, as in there is a Greyhound bus tearing down the highway and a dog, a cat, a possum, or a chicken is no match for a Greyhound bus.

But now the good news: My okra, peppers, and the speckled heart butterbeans are doing great, and they must have something in common with rice because they have been able to thrive in the wet and goo my garden became.

I like okra, fried, and I like to mix a few peppers in with my speckled heart butterbeans for their tangy flavor.

The speckled heart butterbeans, to explain further, have done better than any of the other plants and I firmly believe it will be a matter of a few more weeks before I sit down to a large plate of speckled heart butterbeans I grew my very own self.

In summary, then, my garden has had its wins and its losses, but, all in all, I am pleased by its progress. I guess Al Gore didn't heed those famous words that described the vice presidency "as exciting as a warm bucket of spit."

It's getting spooky again overseas

Well, there's a civil war/genocide in Yugoslavia and Saddam is causing trouble again. It's time to gird our loins for battle, lads!

Gird our loins? Who talks like that?

It's getting spooky again, folks. We're about that far away from committing air power against the Serbian aggressors in Yugoslavia. Hussein is importing the more accurate North Korean scud missiles in violation of the cease fire treaty.

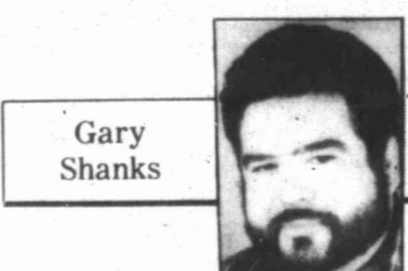

It's still quite likely that Saddam has some stores of chemical warheads hidden in the desert sands.

I don't mean to sound like a pessimist — but it seems like we traded one big cold war for a lot of little hot ones.

After the first two world wars, there was an inclination to form a world-wide military alliance to handle these little eruptions.

Woodrow Wilson's attempt failed because the U.S. Congress wouldn't ratify it following the first world war.

The United Nations was formed after the second world war, which has done a lot of good, but the U.N. peace-keeping forces have not been given much respect in the world.

The reason being, of course, is — even when placed into hot spots — U.N. troops must get special permission from the top U.N. brass and probably a note from their mothers before they can even return fire!

Given the fanaticism of most of the world's armed factions — that ain't gonna cut it.

Let's just call the cold war "World War III" so we can upgrade our international peace-keeping force. After all, the only reason it wasn't a hot war is that — after all was said and done — both sides had enough brains not to incinerate the world. Who would'a thought that in the early 60s?

If the U.N. decides to maintain a border in a dispute, then the troops in the field should be allowed to use force. I don't want American troops anywhere near Yugoslavia until Europe begs us to come help!

Iraq, on the other hand, is mostly our fault. I say "our" as a figure of speech. If it were up to me — we wouldn't have gone in the first place.

At least not until the rest of the Arab world got up off their knees, turned and faced west for once and begged us to help. And that help would have been contingent on a few conditions.

But we started something and didn't finish it. It makes me sick to think another wave of people will have to die because of this Hitler-loving, Iraqi pinhead and the political decision not to destroy him while we were there a year or so ago!

What exactly did we gain in that war anyway? Wrestling a monarchy from the hands of a dictator is not my idea of a big return on our investment.

This dictator was closer than anyone ever dreamed of producing nuclear weapons. And now that we've made him really mad, who do you think he's going to hit with the first bomb out of the factory?

Here's an idea. Let's take all the money we would otherwise spend on a war, and give it to the Israelis under the condition that they send the Massad (Israeli intelligence) to kill Hussein. Just kill him.

Kill him and most of his top advisors, and see if whoever takes power after the dust settles wants to let the U.N. inspectors take a peaceful look around.

In the Saudi desert, U.S. troops had a saying, "Charlie Foxtroop," which is military terminology for "CF." The "C" stands for "cluster" and that's as far as I'm going to go.

Suffice to say, there were widespread misgivings about what America was trying to accomplish, contrary to the canned news from the well managed press pool.

I don't know about ya'll, but I don't want to spend another Christmas or another birthday, while family or friends are in a war halfway around the world.

Keep the faith.

Defending champ falls behind in opening round

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ST. LOUIS — Now John Daly knows why the PGA Championship has never had a back-to-back stroke-play winner.

The winner has to overcome too much rough, too much water and too many tricky greens to get lucky two years in a row.

"You don't win the PGA Championship, you survive it," said Jack Nicklaus.

Daly, who dominated Crooked Stick Golf Club in Carmel, Ind., last year with his power drives, couldn't whip Bellerive Country Club's Kentucky bluegrass rough in the opening round Thursday.

Former Masters champion Craig Stadler and journeyman Gene Sauers led a sub-par charge with course-record 4-under-par 67s in perfect conditions to take a stroke lead over Brian Claar, Jay Don Blake and British Open champion Nick Faldo.

The former course record of 68 was held by numerous players, including Ray Floyd and Kel Nagle, who shot their scores in the 1965 U.S. Open at Bellerive.

"I didn't play as well as I would have liked and I'm pleased to shoot 3-under," Faldo said. "I think that's as good as I could have done."

Masters champion Fred Couples had six birdies, but gave them back with a triple bogey and a bogey to finish at 69. He was joined by 49-year-old Floyd, Bob Estes, lefty Russ Cochran, Robert Gamez and Frank Nobilo of New Zealand.

Most of the low rounds were in the morning when the wind was light and the greens were soft. Temperatures were in the 60s, some 15 degrees cooler than normal.

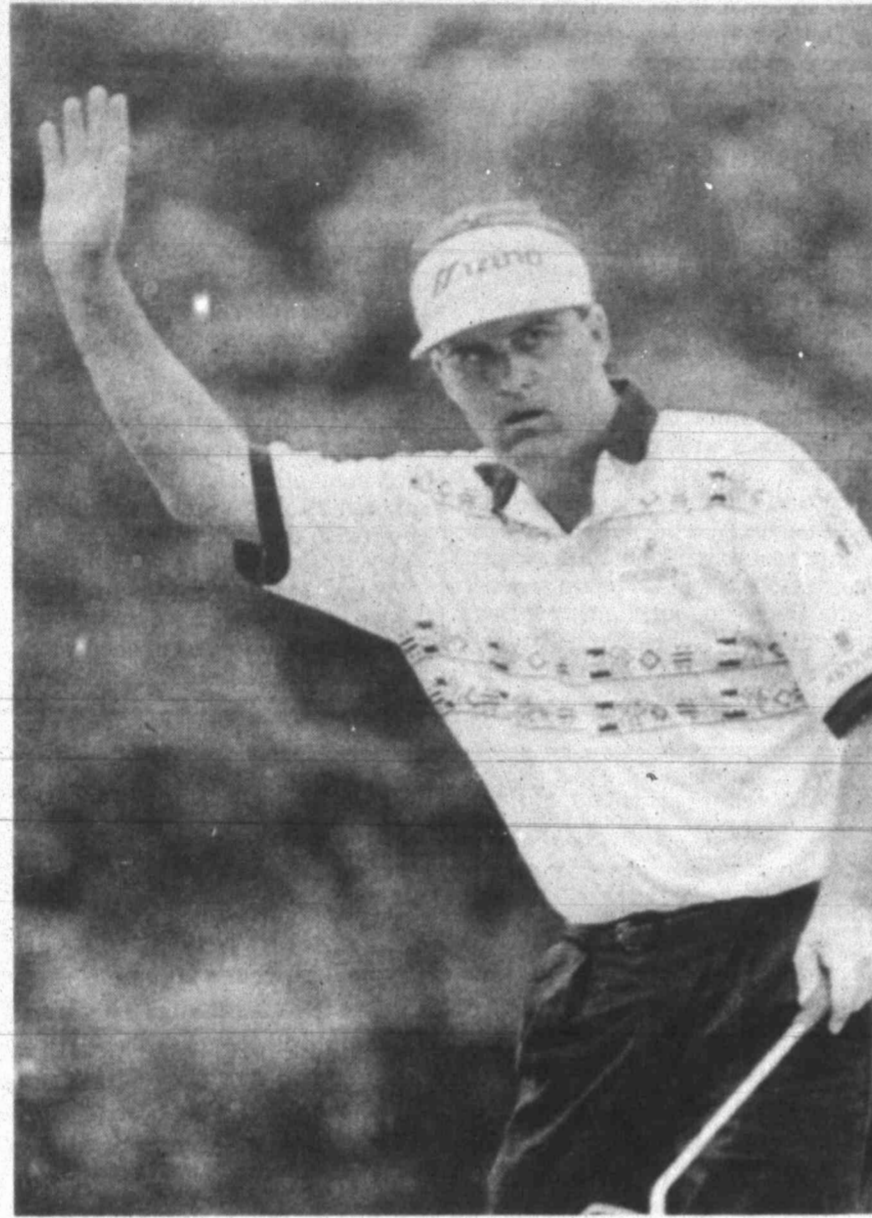

"I thought I was going to shoot 80," said Couples. "On the triple bogey I half-shanked a 7-iron into the water. What I shot was kind of a fluke. But at least I got something to go on. I've got to hit more fairways."

Couples, often criticized for his lack of dedication, said, "I didn't prepare at all. I haven't played in three weeks."

Daly also played in the gentle morning breezes. But it didn't matter because of the way he hit the ball with his Killer Whale driver.

"Not very well," was the way Daly described his prowess with his favorite club, which left him in ankle deep rough all day.

Daly's 76 also left him in no mood to talk.

Bob Wolcott, from Nashville, Tenn., waves at the crowd after making a birdie putt on the 14th hole at the PGA Championship in St. Louis Thursday.

"When you shoot 5-over par, there's nothing really to talk about," he said.

A year ago, Daly was the last alternate in the tournament and drove all night to get to the site before the first round. He started 69 and 67, and by the weekend had become a national curiosity. He also was the good-humor man in the press tent.

On Thursday, he rushed off the course. The PGA Championship hasn't had a successful defender since Denny Shute in 1936 and 1937, and that's when match play was the format.

Stadler said there were two keys to negotiating Bellerive's testy 7,148 yards.

"You have to hit it in the fairway and you have to play the 3-pars well," he said. Stadler had three birdie-2s on his card.

"Not many players are going to do that," Stadler said. "Another key was my patience out there, which normally isn't one of my virtues. I think I'm more patient on courses where I know it doesn't take 20-under to win."

Sauers said he also did what Daly didn't do, hit the zoyisia fairways. Daly wasn't the only big name star to stumble. U.S. Open champion Tom Kite finished double-bogey, bogey for a 73.

Tom Watson, who needs to capture the PGA to join Ben Hogan, Jack Nicklaus, Gene Sarazen and Gary Player as the only winners of every major, shot 72 with a bogey on the last hole.

Chargers, Pats no strangers

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

The San Diego Chargers and New England Patriots, old AFL rivals who haven't faced each other since the 1983 regular season, are no longer strangers after practicing together this week.

In preparation for tonight's exhibition game, the teams held two days of joint practices at the Patriots' training camp in Smithfield, R.I.

"I wish we could get more teams to come up here, even locate their training camps at some of the colleges in New England," Patriots coach Dick MacPherson said. "I can't think of a single negative about it. It gives us a chance to hit someone other than ourselves and it increases the intensity of the practices."

That didn't include quarterback Stan Humphries, acquired Thursday from Washington. With starter John Friesz lost for the season with a knee injury, the Chargers dealt a conditional draft choice for Humphries, a sixth-round pick in 1988. The Redskins will get a either a fourth-round draft pick in 1993 or a third-round pick if Humphries takes at least half of the Chargers' snaps this season.

Humphries was en route to the Chargers from London, where the Redskins were preparing for a game against San Francisco.

The Chargers opened the exhibition season with a 35-14 road loss to Phoenix, while the Patriots dropped a 34-14 decision at Indianapolis.

On Saturday, Denver faces Miami in Berlin, Atlanta is at Tampa Bay, Cincinnati at Philadelphia, Seattle at Indianapolis, Chicago at Phoenix, Cleveland at the New York Giants, Kansas City at Minnesota, Houston at Dallas and the Los Angeles Raiders are at the Los Angeles Rams.

On Sunday, San Francisco

plays Washington in Wembley, England, and the New York Jets face Green Bay in Madison, Wis. On Monday, Detroit is at Buffalo and Pittsburgh at New Orleans.

Cowboys
Outside linebacker Ken Norton Jr. officially ended his holdout, joining the team for its last full day of training camp. "I feel good, not great, but good," said Norton, who agreed to a three-year deal for $1.6 million. "I'm ready to play football."

Bills
All-Pro defensive end Bruce Smith, who missed most of the 1991 season with an injured left knee and underwent surgery March 9, could begin light workouts with the team next week.

Cardinals
Linebacker Eric Hill was fined

Property Tax Rates in Glasscock County Independent School District

This notice concerns 1992 property tax rates for Glasscock County ISD. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:
Last year's operating taxes	$ 901,849
Last year's debt taxes	$ -0-
Last year's total taxes	$ 901,849
Last year's tax base	$ 334,484,880
Last year's total tax rate	$ .2700 /$100

This year's effective tax rate:
Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$ 901,849
+ This year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting value of new property)	$ 321,875,140
- This year's effective tax rate	$ .2801 /$100

In the first year a hospital district or city collects the additional sales tax, it must insert the following lines unless its first adjustment was made last year:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$ /$100
- Effective tax rate	$ /$100

x 1.03 = maximum rate unless unit publishes notices and holds hearing	$ .2885 /$100
---	-----------------

This year's rollback tax rate:
Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$ 901,849
+ This year's adjusted tax base	$ 321,875,140
- This year's effective operating rate	$ .2801 /$100
x 1.08 (or add $.08 for schools) = this year's maximum operating rate	$ .3601 /$100
+ This year's debt rate	$ -0- /$100

A school district must insert the following lines:

- This year's rollback rate before adjustment	$ .3601 /$100
+ Rate to recoup lost revenue	$ -0- /$100
- Adjusted rollback rate	$ .3601 /$100

- This year's rollback rate	$ .3601 /$100
-----------------------------	-----------------

A hospital district or city that collects the additional sales tax, including one that collects the tax for the first time this year, must insert the following lines:

- Sales tax adjustment rate	$ /$100
- Rollback tax rate	$ /$100

McGwire's two homers leads A's

OAKLAND, Calif. — The manager of the first team in baseball to win 70 games wants 20 more as soon as possible. "If today were at 90, then I'd be excited," said Oakland manager Tony La Russa after Mark McGwire's two home runs and Mike Moore's three-hit pitching beat the California Angels 4-1 Thursday. "I think it's a good idea to get to 90 as soon as you can," La Russa

Meanwhile, Erickson (8-9) had his shortest outing of the year, going 2 2-3 innings and giving up four runs on six hits and three walks. Rafael Palmiero led off the third with a single and, one out later, Kevin Reimer singled him to second. Erickson struck out Dean Palmer, then went to 3-0 counts on three straight batters — Monty Fariss, Ivan Rodriguez and Jeff Huson — walking them all, forcing in two runs. Blue Jays 4, Orioles 2 At SkyDome, Roberto Alomar

At the Metrodome, Jose Guzman allowed six hits and struck out 11 and Texas capitalized on the wildness of Minnesota's Scott Erickson. Guzman (10-9) allowed only an unearned run in pitching his fourth complete game. Rangers 6, Twins 1

Red Sox 4, Indians 2 Roger Clemens improved to 18-2 lifetime against Cleveland and kept visiting Boston out of the AL East cellar. Clemens (14-7) won his fourth straight and stopped Boston's four-game losing streak, preventing what would have been the Indians' first four-game sweep of the Red Sox since 1960.

Pinch-hit homer paces Braves over Padres

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ATLANTA — Damon Berryhill's emotions took off on a roller coaster ride as he watched his game-winning, ninth-inning home run drop lazily over the right field fence. Berryhill came on as a pinch-hitter with one out in the ninth to hit his eighth homer of the season, breaking a tie and lifting the Atlanta Braves a 4-3 victory over San Diego Thursday night. The win snapped San Diego's season-high six-game winning streak and ended the Braves losing (6-9) were breezing, as both had allowed one hit. Jones gave up Andre Dawson's 16th home run leading off the Cubs' seventh inning and Ryne Sandberg's 14th homer in the eighth. The Cubs added a run in the ninth off Doug Jones on Dwight Smith's RBI pinch single. Jones earned his 26th save. Dodgers 4, Reds 3 At Riverfront Stadium, Henry Rodriguez drove in three runs with a double and his first major league homer, helping Los Angeles overcome a season-high six errors to defeat Cincinnati.

The Dodgers tied the score 3-3 in the eighth when Mike Scioscia led off with a walk off Scott Bankhead. After Norm Charlton relieved, pinch-runner Tom Goodwin was sacrificed to second. Goodwin stole third and scored on Charlton's wild pitch. Two batters later, Charlton went to his mouth and was charged with a ball. He apparently said something to third base umpire Tom Hallion and was ejected. When Charlton reached the Reds' dugout, he threw two bats onto the field. Scott Ruskin finished the inning.

He entered an "Alford plea," in which without admitting guilt he acknowledged there was a likelihood of conviction if the case went to trial. Hill, the team's first-round draft choice in 1989, was arrested Aug. 1 after three women accused him of touching them at Fiddlestick bar near the Northern Arizona University campus.

Falcons Linebacker Robert Lyles, who turned down a one-year contract offer for $400,000 on Wednesday, was released Thursday. The eight-year veteran will be able to sign with another team as a free agent.

Lyles, 31, played six-plus seasons with Houston before he was claimed on waivers by the Falcons on Oct. 18, 1990. He started 25 of 27 games during his stint with the Falcons.

Packers Tony Mandarich remained hospitalized because of headaches related to a concussion sustained in Saturday's exhibition opener against Kansas City. The offensive lineman entered a Green Bay hospital Wednesday.

Redskins In London, quarterback Mark Rypien went through his first preseason drills since signing a three-year deal for $9 million Tuesday.

Lions Cornerback Melvin Jenkins walked out of camp in a contract dispute. Jenkins, in the second year of a two-year contract, wants his deal renegotiated. "This is a typical renegotiation play, but it won't work, and it will cost him $1,500 a day," Lions chief operating officer Chuck Schmidt said. "He's getting some bad advice, because we have never renegotiated a contract."

Saints Saints general manager and president Jim Finks said he has given unsigned wide receiver Eric Martin permission to shop himself around to other teams.

"Eric called me yesterday and said 'I don't want to be traded,'" Finks said Thursday. "I said, 'I know that.' He has never wanted to be traded, but his agent asked for the ability to shop him around and we agreed."

1992 Property Tax Rates in Glasscock County
This notice concerns 1992 property tax rates for Glasscock County. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Navy town in the making begins to stir

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

INGLESIDE — The message from this nascent military town is worded differently on windows, signs and billboards, but it all means the same thing: "Welcome Navy."

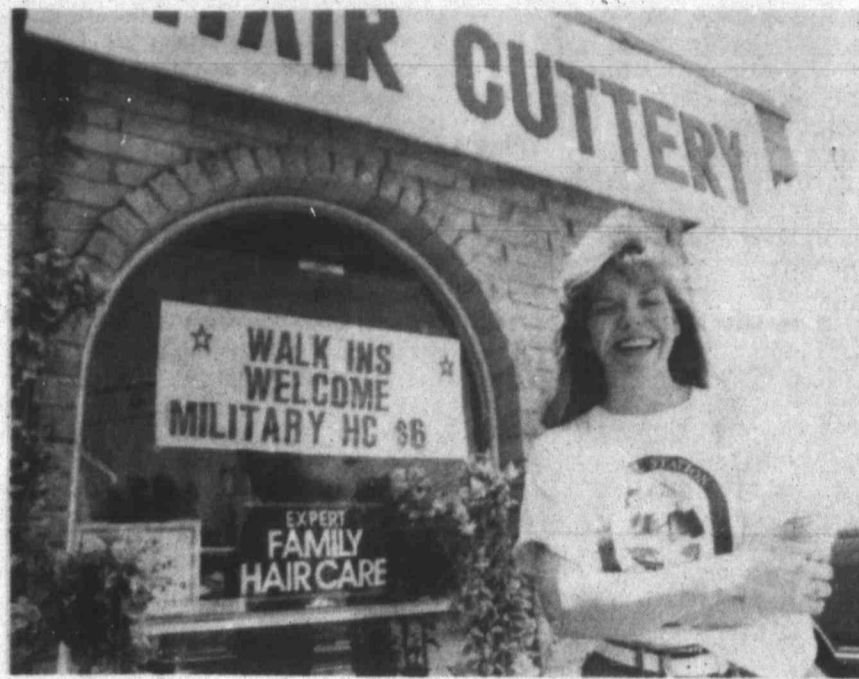

It's like a sigh of relief for a city that felt like a yo-yo for years while Navy officials waffled over whether Naval Station Ingleside would live or die.

Now there are a couple of ships berthed up the road, the odd sailor or two wandering through town. "The Hair Cuttery" on Main Street is offering military haircuts, and there isn't a vacant apartment to be found as the area is inundated by Navy personnel looking for homes.

"I like it. I really do," said Nora Perez, who grew up in Ingleside. "It's going to make a dramatic change in this little town."

That's certainly the feeling of residents in the city, which sits just across the bay from Corpus Christi, and surrounding communities. Most people are filled with hope, though there are still some misgivings.

"I like change," resident Sharon Tiemann said enthusiastically.

Kim Resendez, owner of The Hair Cuttery, poses outside her Ingleside hair salon recently where she is offering special prices for military haircuts. Residents of the Coastal Bend town are welcoming the Navy as the Naval Base Ingleside has finally gotten its mission as a mine warfare center.

then added almost as an afterthought, "But sometimes change isn't all that good."

The mine sweeper USS Scout and the training frigate USS Truett, the first of 25 ships that will be based at the mine warfare base, sailed into the Coastal Bend in June.

With them came more than 300 sailors, many with families in tow. By the end of 1994, when the base is fully operational, there'll be about 3,000 military personnel at the base.

Ingleside, population roughly 5,600, is expected to have grown considerably by then. Right now it's undergoing a population boom. "We've been extremely busy and we're happy to be that way — finally," said real estate agent Don Vance.

The situation is similar in surrounding communities.

Yet there are other, more subtle, changes going on in addition to increased business and the development of long-awaited projects. The new neighbors still have some adjustments to make.

"There's definitely culture shock," said Peggy Calvert, ombudsman for the USS Joseph Hewes, which is scheduled to arrive Aug. 13.

Ms. Calvert, who describes her job as being sort of a "ship mom," said the people who have come in are getting used to living off base and doing simple things like paying for utilities.

They've also been put off by the lack of a commissary — the military dry good stores found on most bases. But there is an upside, she said.

"People enjoy just having a piece of land, even if it's just a front and back yard," Ms. Calvert said.

The base commanding officer, Capt. James Giblin, said he's been overwhelmed by the community's response. "I just don't know how to describe it, it's been so positive," he said.

The reason for that can probably be traced to the fight to win and keep the base.

In 1985, the Navy awarded the base to the Coastal Bend region based on a bid initiated by the city of Corpus Christi. Ingleside was to be the home for the aircraft carrier USS Lexington, the battleship USS Wisconsin and its battle group.

Then the roller-coaster ride began.

The General Accounting Office was critical of the homeport plan and the Senate balked at funding it, requiring a mustering of votes to push it through.

Everything was set to go again after the president signed a spending bill. A groundbreaking was held in February 1988 and construction began two months later. In September 1990, the first station employees moved into offices on the base.

But the Wisconsin was decommissioned a year later, leaving the base without a mission and its future in doubt.

Relief came last May, when the base was given its mission as a mine warfare center.

But speculation began early on, and developers began projects that they later dropped or were forced to hold while they awaited the outcome.

Developer N.O. Simmons said he began planning a large project, which includes a strip shopping center and a residential subdivision, soon after the base was announced.

Now that the base is a reality, the project will get under way within the next month, Simmons said.

"When they decommissioned the Wisconsin, I was worried," added Brenda Byrd, the co-owner of Ingleside Auto Sales. Ms. Byrd and her husband bought property anticipating the development that would accompany the base.

"The biggest thing is the Navy jerked everybody around: Yes, it's on. No, it's not," she said.

Now optimism is high and the signs welcoming the Navy are out. There's even a Homeport Inn nearby. Few believe the government will close a base it spent more than $120 million in federal, state and local funds to build.

Considering the base's history, though, no one is taking anything for granted.

Giblin acknowledged that Ingleside could be subject to the actions of the Base Realignment and Closure Commission when it again begins assessing bases for possible elimination.

The captain wouldn't speculate on what might happen to the base in the future, noting many things are possible.

"But until then," he said, "we're open for business."

New Testament man found

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Archaeologists have discovered the bones of a first century man with the same name as the high priest who handed Jesus over to the Romans, providing the first archaeological evidence of a major figure in the New Testament.

The age of the bones, the elaborateness of the ossuary in which they were found and the inscriptions with the name Caiaphas found on the side of the casketlike box point to the man described in the Gospels, according to a report in the September-October issue of Biblical Archaeology Review.

"This is of course exciting," Ronny Reich of the Israeli Antiquities Authority said in an interview Thursday. "This is some way of dialogue with people 2,000 years ago."

The finding is particularly striking since there is no other archaeological evidence of the remains of any of the major figures mentioned in the New Testament, Reich said.

Although Reich and Zvi Greenhut, city archaeologist of Jerusalem, say they cannot make a positive identification of Caiaphas, an associate editor of the magazine said the evidence is strong.

"The absolute evidence is never there, but it's about as strong a link as you can find in the field," Steven Feldman said.

Archaeologists came upon the bones by accident in November 1990 during the building of a water park in Peace Forest on the outskirts of Jerusalem. The roof of the burial cave had collapsed, and archaeologists discovered 12 ossuaries, or bone boxes, Greenhut said.

In the late Second Temple period (1st century B.C. to 1st century A.D.), bodies were often laid out in a niche of burial caves. After the flesh had decomposed, the bones were collected in an ossuary, apparently reflecting a belief in resurrection, for which purpose the bones were stored, Greenhut wrote.

On the outside of a particularly ornate ossuary — decorated in what Greenhut said was a rare and intricate pattern of rosettes — the inscription "Joseph, son of Caiaphas" was in two places. Inside the ossuary were the bones of a 60-year-old man.

A person named Joseph, nicknamed Caiaphas, was the high priest in Jerusalem from the years 18 to 36 A.D.

Reich said that the New Testament provides the nickname only in Greek form, but the first century Jewish historian Flavius Josephus gives his full name as "Joseph who was called Caiaphas of the high priesthood."

Further evidence indicating the ossuary dates to the first century was a bronze coin minted in the years 42 and 43 during the reign of Herod Agrippa I found in another ossuary.

So, are the bones of the 60-year-old man those of Caiaphas, the high priest who is said in the Gospel of Matthew to have found Jesus guilty of blasphemy before handing him over to the Roman governor Pilate for execution?

"This is a hard question," Greenhut said in a telephone interview from his home.

The inscriptions and the age and the elaborateness of the ossuary all point to the bones being those of Caiaphas, but the bones were not identified as those of Caiaphas the high priest, Greenhut said. Also, the relative simplicity of the burial cave raises doubts, he said.

Others are less cautious. "How many Joseph sons of Caiaphas could there have been in that period? ... Again, in the context of a very elaborate ossuary," Feldman said.

Feldman said the find should be particularly exciting to some believing Christians because it may bolster the accuracy of the Bible for them.

But it is also exciting to archaeologists and students of the Bible for bringing alive an important piece of history, he said.

Only a few biblical figures from the second century B.C. to the second century A.D. have been positively identified in archaeological finds.

'S&Lvis' bashes Republicans

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Democrats used a Resolution Trust Corp. auction to unveil "S&Lvis," an Elvis Presley impersonator who made a tongue-in-cheek welcome to Republicans attending the GOP National Convention.

"I've been gone 15 years, but some things just make you want to come back," said S&Lvis, clad in a gold jumpsuit and dark glasses.

Billie Carr, executive director of the Harris County Democrats, said RTC sales represent losses to taxpayers who are picking up the tab for billions of dollars of failed savings and loan association losses during the Bush administration.

At Thursday's briefing for reporters, "S&Lvis" strummed a guitar and sang "Bailout Rock," a takeoff on Presley's "Jailhouse Rock," and "You Ain't Nothing But a Junk Bond," sung to the tune of the rock 'n' roll classic "Hound Dog."

"You ain't nothing but a junk bond,

Declining all the time.

You ain't nothing but a junk bond

Declining all the time.

Well you ain't never paid much interest

And you ain't no asset of mine."

"My heat pump's so efficient it saves money. And it's a clean system. I like what it means for the environment." —Elta Chandler, Park Board Member Elta Chandler cools and heats her home with a heat pump because it saves money and energy. And since it's electric, it's "wonderfully clean."

A heat pump uses the energy in the air to keep her home comfortable all year. Even on cold winter days there's heat in the air. A heat pump captures that heat and uses it.

And it costs less to operate than a gas furnace. It's so efficient that for each unit of energy it uses, it creates two to three units of heat.

In the summer a heat pump becomes a high-efficiency air conditioner, capturing the heat inside the home and removing it.

For more information, call a heat pump dealer or TU Electric. It's your chance to save more than money.

Convicted deserter may have been right

By HARPER BARNES
 St. Louis Post-Dispatch

KANSAS CITY — "If you read the letters (to newspapers), you'd think everyone hated me," said the soft-spoken, diminutive woman.
 She had her arms wrapped around a restless 6-year-old, her daughter, Consuela.
 "But nobody has been personally nasty to me or the kids, and every few days the opposite happens. A lady came up to me at the grocery store day before yesterday and said, 'Aren't you Yolanda Huet-Vaughn?' I said yes, and she said, 'I just want you to know I support what you're doing.'
 "With all the new information that's coming out about how we armed Iraq, and the indictment of the former ambassador to Kuwait for getting rich off promoting the war, maybe people are starting to think I was right in opposing it."
 A year and a half ago, there was not a lot of public support in for Dr.

Yolanda Huet-Vaughn. When her Army Reserve medical unit was called up during Operation Desert Shield, the preliminary to the Iraq war, she refused to go to the Persian Gulf. Instead, she went on a nationwide tour, sponsored by peace groups, to speak against the war, calling it immoral and unconstitutional.
 A reserve captain at the time, she was court-martialed for desertion and ended up serving eight months in the military prison at Leavenworth, Kan. She was released in April and went home to her husband and three children, and to her medical practice in a poor, heavily Hispanic area of Kansas City.
 Now she faces possible revocation of her medical license by the state of Kansas. The 15-person Kansas Board of Healing Arts has launched disciplinary proceedings against Huet-Vaughn. The grounds for disciplinary action, according to a petition filed in April by a board attorney, would be that Huet-Vaughn had committed a dishonorable act by her desertion, and had been convicted of a serious crime. Either charge could lead to license revocation under Kansas law.

 The long, involved investigative process is expected to end in a board hearing in October or November in the Kansas capital of Topeka. Steve Schwarm, chief counsel for the board, said the hearing could lead "to a range of results, including revocation of her license, suspension for a period, a fine, public censure or no action at all."
 Apparently, Huet-Vaughn's medical competency is not in question. Board counsel Schwarm said he knew of no allegations of malpractice or incompetency. Her lawyer, Donald Strole, a former counsel for the Healing Arts Board, said the "only basis" of the disciplinary proceeding was "to punish her political act."

Tom Leathers is host of a talk show on KMBZ radio. Huet-Vaughn was a guest for a heated phone-in session during Desert Shield. "She raised some interesting questions at a tough time," he said. "And people just wanted to squash her. I think we might have been better off if we had at least listened to her side of it and debated the war. It turns out she may have been right, considering all the stuff that has been coming out and happening lately. I mean, it looks like we're right back where we started with Iraq."
 Yolanda Huet was born 41 years ago in Mexico City, the daughter of a physician. The family moved to the United States when she was 5, and when she was 12 they moved to Topeka.

 CRMWD must make other data available as well. This includes:
 • Plans for testing soil and ground water — establishing baselines to gauge any future encroachment.
 • Geological profiles showing how impermeable ground structures may or may not protect the Ogallala Aquifer.
 • A timetable for the release of saline water from the reservoirs.
 • Plans for alternative methods for disposal of saline water from the reservoirs.
 • An inventory of all water wells within 2.5 miles of the maximum limits of the reservoirs.

 CRMWD spent about $2.5 million to strengthen and raise the natural dam in 1988. The current project is expected to cost an additional $3.8 million. CRMWD is funding the project from their contingency fund, without the use of state or federal tax money.
 Ivie has said that the cost of diverting runoff from the watershed before it reached the salt basins would be prohibitively expensive. Ivie is out of town and not available for comment on the TWC's letter. CRMWD spokesman

Joe Pickle said the CRMWD completed an environmental impact study before beginning the project and has or is currently addressing most of the points in the letter.
 Hoelscher said the PBUWD understands the necessity of action on the part of the CRMWD. The PBUWD, however, has been charged by the state with protecting the ground water in their district.
 If findings prove, to the satisfaction of the TWC, that the project does not endanger ground water, the PBUWD will have no further complaints, Hoelscher said.

Good neighbors

Locals want to help Heinis family

By DEBBIE LINCUM
Features Editor

It's a stereotype of West Texans many people claim holds true — they're friendly.

In the case of Mark Heinis' family, one can believe it.

Mark and Diana Heinis and their five children — Erin, 12; Chad, 6; twins Adam and Neisha, 5; and Courtney, 3 — have found an unexpected — but not surprising — show of support from their Big Spring neighbors.

It started when Diana, who has multiple sclerosis, mentioned to friend Vicki Parnell that the family hoped to someday convert a patio to an extra room. Diana needed a room and bathroom on the house's bottom floor, because climbing the stairs had become too great an effort.

"We just heard they needed it, so we said we could do it," Parnell said. She and her husband, Jerry, with Debbie Bagnall — who teaches the Heinis children — and her husband, David, have set up a fund and begun recruiting workers to do the construction.

'We just heard they needed it, so we said we could do it.'

Vicki Parnell said they've known the Heinis family about two years, since they started bringing their children to Sunshine Day Care Center — owned by the Parnells. But it's not likely the Heinis' knew the depth of their friendship.

"I'm not really surprised," Heinis said Tuesday, after hearing about his friends' plans. "It's surprising that someone would go out of their way to help someone else, but they've done so much for us already. I can believe it."

Diana, 33, has only been diagnosed with MS since February of 1991. Since that time, her mobility has gradually decreased and most recently, walking has become a great effort.

"A couple of times I've had to just physically lift her up and take her up the stairs," Heinis said. "She can walk up, but it takes a lot of time and effort."

Diana has been in the hospital this week, recovering from a recent bout with her illness.

With their goal in mind, however, the local community is already pitching in for the family — and for that new room.

Big Spring firefighters, whose ranks Mark joined as a rookie-in-training recently, are finding out how they can help. Local civic and service groups have been contacted.

A fund has been set up to collect donations at First National Bank.

Friends of the Heinis family are wasting no time.

"We're asking for workers, money, materials, anything anyone can do to help," explained Parnell.

"We don't have time limits set or anything, but we'd like to get going on this. We'd like to be started by Sept. 1, just as soon as we can."

Exiles return to South Africa

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUSTIN — They were young and idealistic then, in the 1960s when they left their home for America. Ten years at the most, they thought, and they would be returning to a free and democratically ruled South Africa.

The struggle took much longer than they imagined. Willie and Sebletso Matabane are not so young any more, although their idealism burns brightly.

After more than 25 years, they are going home. And it is with contagious enthusiasm that they describe the challenge ahead.

They have sold their North

Austin home and say they are committed to living in South Africa.

They shrug off mention of continuing political warfare, including the recent massacre of blacks at Boipatong, south of Johannesburg.

The move is "a little bit scary," but only in that change always presents uncertainty. "It's more anticipation," Sebletso said. "Boipatong notwithstanding, we want to go back."

Although they realize blacks have a long way to go before being treated as equal citizens in South Africa, reforms in the past few years have eroded aspects of the apartheid system. Under apartheid, whites, who constitute a minority of South Africa's residents, rule the country.

The release from prison of African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela in 1990, reforms that reduced aspects of segregation in housing and public facilities, and the white minority government's entry into negotiations with the ANC to create a transitional government — which could usher in majority rule — are signs of change and hope for more.

Despite the recent breakdown in negotiations between the government and the ANC, the Matabanes feel compelled to return home to be

Jesus or knot?

Dolores Mitsakos of West Haven, Conn., looks at markings on a maple tree in Milford, Conn. Thursday that some say resembles the face of Jesus. Claudia Voight, the owner of the tree, first noticed the face late last month. It appears 10 feet up the trunk in the top knot, where a branch was removed after Hurricane Gloria in 1985.

Man holds out hope for movie of 'Christy'

By TERRY MATTINGLY
Scripps Howard News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Ken Wales can see the movie in his mind.

It has been playing in that theater, and that theater alone, for 25 years.

It's a wide-screen epic, set in 1912 and framed by the mountains of Tennessee. In a film proposal, which the Hollywood veteran has distributed across the nation, Wales states his case.

"It is our intention to bring to the screen all the bawdy humor, earthy emotion, tender joys and sorrows of the people of the Great Smoky Mountains. We want to introduce the entire family audience to the most endearing, charming, lively and occasionally infuriating, young heroine — Christy Huddleston."

This movie would address social issues linked to grinding poverty and the heroine's courageous efforts as a school teacher. There is romance as she tries to untangle her feelings for a young missionary and a mysterious physician. There's a bloody feud and hints of witchcraft add action.

And note: Catherine Marshall's novel "Christy" is in its 83rd printing and has sold more than 5 million copies. Its publisher estimates 32 million people have read the book.

There's the rub. Wales wants to film one of America's most beloved works of Christian fiction. To say the least, "Hollywood" and "Christian" are words rarely used to describe the same project.

"We just have to get this done," said Wales. "It's the best project we could ever have for a movie — because of the emotion of the story and the sales of the book. With the atmosphere the way it is right now, the studios are supposed to be looking for solid, mainstream audience pictures like this one."

Wales has been a producer, director, writer and actor for 32 years. A seven-foot-tall pink panther dominates his home office and offers testimony to the 15 years Wales worked with director Blake Edwards. George "Star Wars" Lucas was a classmate at the University of Southern California.

Wales has put $240,000 of his own money into "Christy," hanging on to the screen rights. He has seen progress in recent weeks, but the search goes on for support. Then it will be time to find the right screenwriter, director and actress.

Refugees

A Muslim refugee cries as she holds her baby near Trnopolje detention camp, near Banjaluka, about 175 miles northwest of Sarajevo Tuesday. The Bosnian Serbs' self-styled parliament pledged this week to open detention camps to international inspection, but critics say they are moving prisoners to improve appearances.

Church briefs

Baker's AME plans events

Baker's Chapel AME Church will be hosting West Bethel Baptist Church of St. Louis, Mo. in concert, Saturday at 7 p.m.

On Sunday, the morning sermon will be presented by Rev. A.B. Jackson.

The community is invited to share in both events.

Festival planned

Desert Rose Ministries presents the "Permian Basin Jesus Fest '92" on August 22 at the Malibu Special Events Center next to Water Wonderland on W. Highway 80 — between Midland and Odessa. The Christian festival will offer live entertainment, food and drinks, and booths representing area churches and Christian organizations.

Local christian bands and groups will be performing on stage all day long. Admission is free.

In conjunction with the festival, Water Wonderland will be offering reduced prices into the water park — the last Saturday before the school year starts.

For more information, call Kathy Redwine, 563-9102 or George Collins, 563-2266.

Women challenged

The Women of the First Church of God greeted Virginia Chappell, director of the Unit Prayer Retreat Program "Yes, You Can," at a recent meeting.

The objective was to challenge the women to affirm the past by recalling accomplishments and

God's faithfulness together and encourage each other to follow their 1992-93 theme, "Widen Your World."

Each woman was asked to participate by sharing a personal experience in which she had trusted God for strength. Scriptures used included Philippians 3:12-14.

A new project was accepted to cut 1,000 postcard size blocks of cotton material to be sent to missionaries in Africa.

The next meeting will be Sept. 7.

Missionary honored

A reception was given by the First Baptist Church of Big Spring Sunday evening in honor of Pamela Rachele Gentry.

Gentry has recently been appointed by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board to serve as a journeyman in Johannesburg, South Africa. She will leave Aug. 20 to serve a two-year term.

Her work will be secretary to the administrative assistant at the Baptist International Mission Services Office. This office includes the Baptist work in Kei, Lesotho, Swaziland, Namibia, and South Africa.

Pam is the daughter of Jerry and Ella Mae Gentry, formerly of Big Spring. She received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Wayland Baptist University, Plainview, and a masters of religious education from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

Sacred Heart festival results

The Sacred Heart Catholic Church Summer Festival winners were:

Amparo Franco, Manuela Castaneda, Frank Alcantar, Alex Calvio, Katie Hernandez and Joan LaFond.

The church would like to thank all who participated in any way — volunteers, those who donated, attended or bought tickets. All will be remembered in a Mass of Thanksgiving Sept. 12 at 8:30 a.m.

Bible fund still growing

Recent deposits to the Bible Fund, the account that supports local high school classes in the Bible, total $1,390 as of Friday, Aug. 7.

That brings the grand total collected so far to $5,022.

part of the solution. Sebletso has accepted a multifaceted job that will entail training South African blacks to assume leadership roles in local governments, helping non-governmental organizations with skills development and educating people about the foreign concept of community college education.

Willie, who took early retirement from IBM, is looking for work in Johannesburg. Sebletso will join him in a few weeks.

In the early 1960s, as political activists opposed to the white ruling regime in South Africa, they felt they had no choice but to go into exile. Activists were beginning to be arrested when Willie left for New York in 1963. "They were putting us in jail randomly. It was either leave or go to jail," Willie said.

Sebletso left in 1965, and although they had grown up near Johannesburg, they did not meet until both were students at Syracuse University in upstate New York.

In each other they found a common cause — to fight for freedom from the outside by helping bring pressure on the minority regime through economic sanctions, boycotts and legislation from other nations. The Matabanes concluded that returning home would mean prison, "and being in jail seemed futile," Sebletso said.

The couple moved from New York to Austin in the mid-1970s when Willie, a management employee with IBM, accepted a transfer. Sebletso earned her doctorate and became coordinator for instructional technology at Austin Community College.

In Austin, they started an organization with university professors to educate Texans about the South African struggle for independence. The South African Liberation Action Committee became a source of information and a lobbying group.

At the University of Texas the group evolved into the Steve Biko Committee, commemorating a South African college student and activist. Detained for his political activities against apartheid, Biko died on a prison floor while in police custody in 1977.

In the Texas capital, the couple said they found compassion and understanding about the situation in South Africa and parallel concerns about struggles in other countries.

From other exiles, Sebletso said, they learned "we are not isolated." The Austin community, she said, "taught me a lot, in that I realize that we do have more in common than differences. Borders do not quite matter. I've met people from all over the world who share our struggle."

"It's been a long journey," Sebletso said.

Yet, in a sense, the struggle has just begun.

Mother Teresa honored

Mother Teresa of Calcutta is given a standing ovation by prelates of the Catholic Church and members of the Knights of Columbus before speaking at a dinner in her honor in New York recently. The 82-year-old Nobel laureate received the Knights of Columbus' Gaudium et Spes award, which means, "Joy and Hope."

Collection spans years of Christian rock

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

ELGIN, Ill. — A small Christian college now boasts what it believes to be one of the largest collections of religious rock 'n' roll.

"Overall, contemporary Christian music is one of American music's best kept secrets," Frank Edmondson, the former owner of the collection, said Thursday.

Edmondson, a former disc jockey who began collecting the "Jesus music" records he was spinning in the early 1970s, last month sold more than 3,000 tapes and records to Judson College.

It was, he said, a treasure trove for scholars looking for the roots of a music movement that has become a major industry, sporting stars like Amy Grant and BeBe and CeCe Winans.

"I just had to ask myself, is it of better use here? I'm glad that it's in capable hands," said Edmondson, who lives in the Dallas suburb of Carrollton, Texas.

Judson College, a liberal arts school associated with the American Baptist Church, paid about $7,000 for the collection, which will be archived and then made available for scholars, said Lynn Hammerlund, music librarian at the school.

"There is a major movement in Christian music," Hammerlund said. "People are just starting to study it. It's a major industry right now."

The collection includes early work from Larry Norman — described by Edmondson as the "poet laureate of Jesus music;" Agape, one of the first rock bands to come out of the Jesus music movement; and from artist Randy Stonehill.

John Fawcett, head of public services at Wheaton College, another Christian school not far from Judson, said Judson was lucky to have attained the collection.

"It's one of very few collections of primary source material," Fawcett said. "Even when they (early tapes and records) were available for sale, they weren't the type of things libraries were buying."

Christian music arose from the Jesus Movement, which sprang from the California's counterculture in the 1960s, said Fawcett.

"A lot of people in that movement began feeling dissatisfied with traditional church music — traditional hymns, formal style," he said. Musicians "took rock styles they were familiar with and Christianized them."

Religious theater

Midlander runs Dallas venture

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

MIDLAND — Richard Montez's "love affair with the theater" began when he was in the second grade at Midland's DeZavala Elementary.

"Our second grade teacher, Mrs. Horn at DeZavala Elementary, saw potential in fine arts for some of her students," Montez said, recalling that the show he saw was directed by Art Cole.

"She took some of her honor students to Midland Community Theatre that year — probably 1964 or '65. I saw 'My Fair Lady,' and that show literally changed my life."

Prior to that time, Montez, who is from a Catholic family, had always told his mother, "When I grow up, I want to be a priest."

"My Fair Lady" changed his mind.

"After seeing the show, I went home and I said, 'When I grow up, I want to be an actor.' Of course, my mom laughed, and she said, 'You can't be both. They're two completely different fields.'"

"And 27 to 28 years later, that's exactly what I'm doing. I'm involved in theater as a full-time ministry."

Today, Montez is managing director of and producer for Cornerstone, a Christian theater company in Irving. Started in 1990, Cornerstone followed the legacy of its parent ministry, Cornerstone Theatre, which was founded in 1976 by Rich Peterson in Fort Worth.

"Due to, really, a lack of management, the theater folded in '87," Montez said. "It didn't do anything. It remained dark for two years, and, in 1989, he bequeathed the theater to me."

His goal, when he acquired the theater was "to try to get that theater back to that standard."

The results have far exceeded his original goal.

"Since then we have moved into our own actual theater in the heart of Irving, next to prestigious Las Colinas, which is where the Cowboys are. Madonna stays there, Barry Manilow, Elton John — those kind of people stay in Las Colinas."

"We're right in the heart of the arts district in Irving. We have a 470-seat auditorium complete with catwalks and state of the art lighting and sound, a huge expansive foyer with plants and a fountain. It's comparable really to any professional theater that's in the Dallas area."

"There's so many theaters here who cater to adults only, but who disregard the family as a whole. Cornerstone's main objective was to fill that void."

This year, Cornerstone is presenting the murder mystery "Late One Night," the children's story "The Lion, The Witch and the Wardrobe" and the musical "Fiddler on the Roof."

Montez also feels that Cornerstone's success is due to "meeting a need that needed to be filled. There's people who watch TV and watch movies and who are aware there's problems.

"We do a show called Bobby Socks which deals with immorality, alcoholism and teen peer pressure. We're able to address a situation that through counseling, that through education and through, of course, church that you can meet a lot of these needs."

The non-denominational Cornerstone includes another company, Cornerstone Kids, the children's theater wing; Cornerstone Players, the travel company; and Cornerstone Entertainment, the newest area and one which features videos.

Among his other ventures was choreographing the Worlds Fairs in 1986 in Vancouver, British Columbia, and in 1988 in Brisbane, Australia. His involvement with the world fairs began in Dallas when he was the original choreographer for a new musical, "The Scroll." It was this work which was selected to be showcased at the 1986 World's Fair.

Speaking in tongues accepted

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tongue speaking is getting an increasingly good rap. Roman Catholics are marking the 25th year of their involvement in the charismatic movement, and growing numbers of professionals are filling the pews of some of the nation's fastest-growing Pentecostal denominations. Activities once thought to be limited to the poor and poorly educated have broken through class barriers as a new generation of religious individuals search for broader spiritual experiences.

In so doing, they have recaptured the spirit of the early church when speaking in tongues was considered a high-status activity, according to an article by Dale Martin in the recent Journal of the American Academy of Religion. "You learn to speak the language of the gods and that increases your status," Martin, an assistant professor of religion at Duke University, said in an interview.

In the Greco-Roman world of biblical times, heavenly beings are presumed to speak a heavenly language, according to Martin.

Paul and some of the early Christians at Corinth spoke in tongues. In the 12th chapter of I Corinthians, Paul says "various kinds of tongues" are among the gifts of the spirit.

But he also cautions that the gifts should be subordinate to serving the community, for "if I speak in the tongues of mortals and of angels, but do not have love, I am a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal."

If Paul's advice were heeded, tongue speaking may not have felled so quickly out of favor. Most of the church did not take kindly the criticisms of some Christian groups that it was necessary to speak in tongues to be a good Christian.

Even after the Reformation, individuals such as Luther and Calvin reacted against groups that maintained tongue speaking was integral to Christianity.

Historian Richard Lovelace of Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary in suburban Boston said it was generally understood the extraordinary gifts were largely limited to the apostolic era and not needed by later Christians.

The early Pentecostal movement in the late 19th and early 20th century reacted strongly in the opposite direction, maintaining that individuals who did not have spiritual gifts were not filled with the Spirit.

It wasn't until the 1960s, when people searching for other expressions of spirituality began to embrace the charismatic movement, that barriers began to break down.

Presbyterians and Catholics became charismatics without leaving their churches, and many Pentecostal groups took a more moderate approach to individuals who did not practice tongue speaking.

"The charismatic movement especially in the '60s and '70s made distinct inroads into class structures that classic American Pentecostalism never made," Martin said.

In the modern, post-Enlightenment world, there was both a rebellion against a "hyper-technological society" and a greater tolerance for varying forms of expression, Lovelace said.

And the gift of speaking an unintelligible language is to believers "undeniably supernatural," Lovelace said.

"This is something actually going on that they can't explain any other way except by saying this must be God," he said.

"The pointed issue in Paul is not so much the mind vs. the spirit as it is the building up of the body of believers," Lovelace said.

"Love is the only indestructible thing."

In brief: Diplomatic relations, disagreements

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK — The National Christian Leadership Conference has hailed the establishment of a Vatican commission for negotiations with Israel on diplomatic relations. Such a relationship, the conference said, is "long overdue."

Effecting it "would be a real gesture in support of continuing movement toward peace and stability in the Middle East and toward increased harmony between Christians and Jews throughout the world," said the NCLC, which consists of Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders.

The American Jewish Committee also welcomed the step, saying the "Vatican's formal acknowledgement of Israel's membership in the international family of nations" would strengthen Catholic-Jewish relations throughout the world.

COLUMBIA, Ky. — A Southern Baptist elder statesman, the Rev. Herschel Hobbs, says "the average layperson is disgusted" with the prolonged denominational fight by which fundamentalists have gained leadership.

"Southern Baptists are not up to their necks in this, but to their heads, and they're drowning in it," he said in an interview with Associated Baptist Press. But he said the denominational ship isn't sinking, just in troubled waters.

THE HOME FRONT

By Kay Moore

Love the look of lace? It's not hard to create your own glamour bodice with reasonably priced bed linens and assorted lace from the trimmings store. Stitch trims to edges of pillow cases and sheets.

And more lace...machine made paper lace enables you to transform plain shelves and closets.

All outdoor circuits should be fitted with ground fault interrupters - people protectors that detect certain dangerous conditions and shut off electricity so fast that no one gets hurt.

Easy cleanup while you sleep, pour a half cup of vinegar into a sturdy plastic bag and fasten it securely around the shower head. In the morning, remove the bag and run the shower a while. Acidity of the vinegar will clear away mineral deposits that clog shower head nozzles.

It takes imagination to use forks and spoons as door handles and drawer pulls - and a decorative focus - on kitchen cabinets.

It takes imagination to recognize the right house for your family. We'll help you find it at Home Realtors, 110 West Marcy Dr., 263-1284.
