The letter reportedly threatens "severe consequences" to certain Cap Rock officials if they do not resign and leave the area immediately.

Anyone with information is asked to contact the Martin County Sheriff Dan Saunders, or the Midland office of the FBI.

Guerrero apologizes; calls for her resignation continue

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — Railroad Commission chairman Lena Guerrero says she apologizes for misrepresentations of her academic record and now wants the media to subject her opponent to the same scrutiny she has faced.

Her Republican challenger, Barry Williamson, continued Wednesday to question Ms. Guerrero's truthfulness and again called on her to resign after she released a transcript showing she never earned a degree from the University of Texas.

"This race is not about the academic record, but it is about the public record," she said Wednesday night in a televised debate in San Antonio. "I stand on my record. I think Barry should have to stand on his."

Ms. Guerrero, 34, is seeking reelection in November to a full, six-year term on the Railroad Commission. The three-term legislative veteran was Gov. Ann Richards' first appointment upon taking office in 1991.

The powerful three-member Railroad Commission regulates the state's oil and gas industry.

Latin American writings leap over cultural barriers

By MARTHA E. FLORES
Staff Writer

The literary voices of Latin American writers, Gabriel Garcia Marquez, Octavio Paz and Luisa Valenzuela translate the social conditions of their native country into universal experiences.

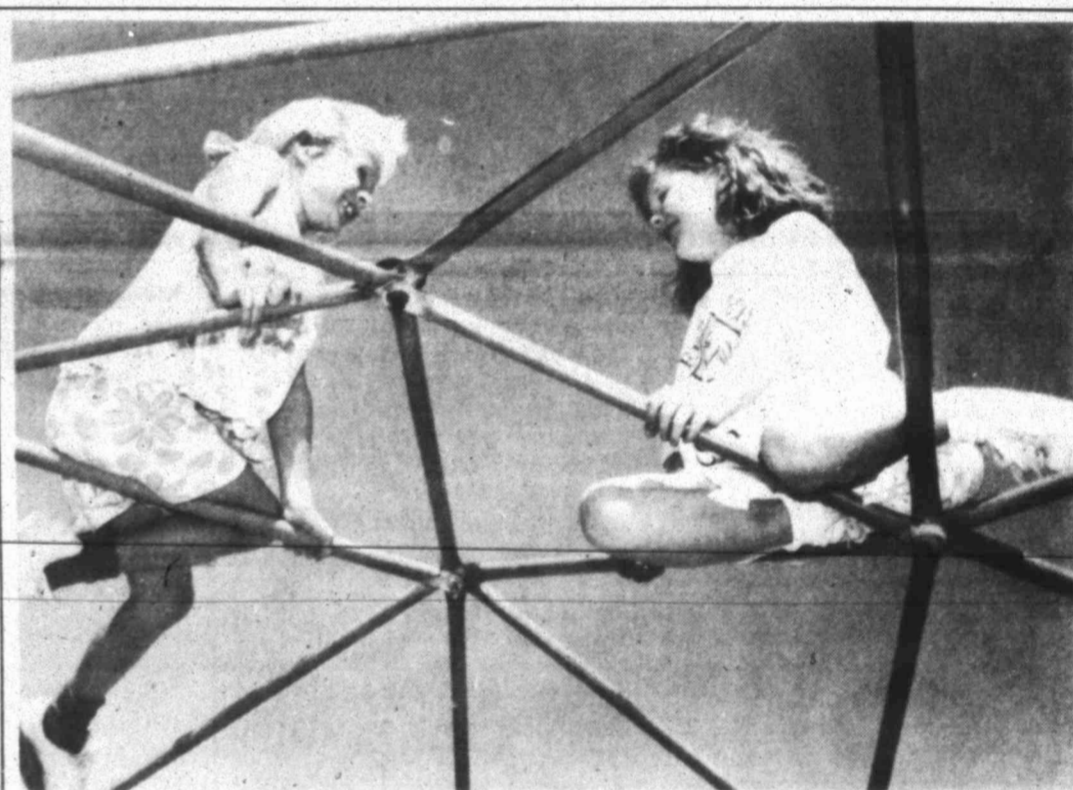

Between the late 1940s through the 1970s, the era of magical realism in Latin American literature ignited an interest in the genre throughout the United States, as well as abroad.

In the early 1960s, more and more translations of Latin American writers were being published. The culmination was the translation of Garcia Marquez's One Hundred Years of Solitude in 1970. The book is touted as a masterpiece of modern fiction by literary critics. It has been translated into more than 30 languages selling more than 10 million copies throughout the world.

Hispanic Heritage Month

Separate drug raids nab three

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Three area residents were arrested in two drug raids by Howard County Sheriff's Deputies and officers of the Permian Basin Drug Task Force.

At 3:25 p.m. Wednesday, Deputy Sheriff Woody Howell, Howard County task force officer Jack Howard and other agents of the task force raided a home at 303 Holly Rd. in Sand Springs, according to sheriff's office reports.

A drug detection dog was used to find an undetermined amount of cocaine at the residence, and marijuana, under two ounces, in a pickup parked at the residence, Howell said.

Arrested in the raid were David Lee Evans, 34, of Sand Springs and Darren Lee Lamb, 27, of Big Spring.

At 10:15 p.m. a second search warrant was served at a house on Moore Road. The drug detection dog again located what is believed to be cocaine, according to sheriff's office reports. The amount of the drug recovered was not disclosed. Also recovered was $580 in U.S. currency and a pager.

Arrested for possession of cocaine was Spencer Lee Coker, 21, of Big Spring. Coker remains in the Howard County jail in lieu of bond, according to reports.

Evans and Lamb were brought before Justice of the Peace Bill Shankles, who set bond at $8,000 each.

Members of the sheriff's office, including Sheriff A. N. Standard, had been gathering information from the Sand Springs area for some time before the search warrants were issued, Howell said. The search warrants were issued by County Judge Ben Lockhart and Justice of the Peace China Long, respectively.

Stanton goes Hollywood; site of new movie

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Stanton, as well as a few other Permian Basin communities, will be featured in a new movie, starring widely-known actors James Caan, Meg Ryan and Dennis Quaid.

More than 150 Stanton-area residents were interviewed as potential extras for a new film, to be partially shot in Stanton.

Crews will be in Stanton on Nov. 6-7 filming scenes for the upcoming movie, "Flesh and Bone." The movie is the newest project of Steve Kloves, director of "The Fabulous Baker Boys."

Callie Productions Inc., an Austin film company, had officials in Stanton interviewing people and rounding up pre-1985 vehicles of U.S. manufacture for use in the film, said Dorothy Deavenport, secretary of the Stanton Chamber of Commerce. Vans, cars and trucks will be used, she said.

Other scenes will be filmed in Big Lake, Monahans and Pecos, Deavenport said. Much of the Stanton filming will be done in the old Ramond Straub building on Highway 137, she said. The officials, Kris Nicalau and Kitty Blair, were in Big Lake Wednesday auditioning extras.

Nicalau and Blair also are cleaning vehicles and potential extras from Odessa, she said. No filming, however, is expected to be done in Odessa.

Although Callie Productions

spokespersons did not return calls, a secretary at the company confirmed filming will be done in Stanton and Big Lake. No target release date was given.

Deavenport said those chosen as extras in the film will be paid $50 per day.

The Nov. 6-7 shooting dates are tentative, Deavenport said.

An uneasy calm returns to Alabama town after killing

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

FORT DEPOSIT, Ala. — A measure of calm has returned to this city after the slaying of a black election worker and a suspicious fire at the home of the white mayor. But black and white ministers wonder how long the peace will hold.

"I think it's a balloon about to pop," said the Rev. Howard Jones, a black preacher who helped form a group of black and white ministers to try to ease racial tensions in this community 30 miles southwest of Montgomery.

Like other small towns in the Deep South, Fort Deposit has racial divisions deep and rigid. Although 70 percent of the 1,500 residents are black, the mayor and most of the City Council are white. Few whites attend the public schools.

"We've been sending warnings to Montgomery for years about how we're treated down here, but nobody would listen," said Jack Jones, the black owner of a used-car lot. "Now somebody's dead, and everybody wants to listen."

Tensions flared in Fort Deposit the night of Sept. 2, when someone set fire to the home of retiring Mayor Ralph "Bunk" Norman.

Police, watching the house after a tip, fired two shotgun blasts at a group of men seen running from the fire. The next morning, Raymond Davison was found dead of a shotgun wound to the head at the bottom of an embankment nearby. A crowd of blacks gathered, angrily accusing police of killing the 33-year-old Davison. State troopers were called in to guard against violence among the 700 people at his funeral.

Patricia Means, Davison's aunt, accused whites of conspiring to "kill somebody black to prove a point."

A week before Davison's slaying, several white-owned businesses were vandalized after a mayoral election that saw a white candidate, Paul Craig, defeat Elbert Means, an outspoken black man. Means was Davison's uncle.

The shooting is under investigation and authorities said it isn't yet known if the shotgun pellet that killed Davison came from the gun fired by Officer Rufus Mitchell. Mitchell has been suspended.

European counties are scrambling to protect currencies

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Further setting back the drive for European union, Italy today joined Britain in abandoning the European Community's currency system and allowing the lira's value to be dictated by market forces.

After Britain's failed attempts Wednesday to prop up a plummeting pound by raising interest rates, the community's central bank directors met in emergency session to try to salvage the system that binds their countries' currencies.

EC financial officers, after a six-hour overnight meeting, announced the moves by Italy and Spain and stressed their "unanimous commitment to the European Monetary System as a key factor of economic stability and prosperity in Europe."

The system sets maximum fluctuation rates for EC currencies and forces members to raise interest rates and buy large amounts of their own currencies in order to stay within the allowable range.

But Britain's leaders decided that doing this was just too damaging for their recession-ridden economy. The same held for Italy, which had already devalued the lira by 7 percent over the weekend.

The result was a further erosion in the value of both currencies. The pound turned upward this morning after tumbling Wednesday. At 11 a.m., the British currency was quoted at $1.7830, up sharply from an early-morning low of $1.7385. The pound was also quoted at 2.6724 German marks, up from 2.6412 marks earlier in the day.

The lira, which was 1,246.50 to the dollar on Wednesday, dropped to 1,238.50 in London.

Stock indexes rose in Tokyo and London, and prices for gold, a traditional haven in times of turmoil, were higher. The Nikkei Stock Average in Tokyo gained 171.82 points, and London stocks were up more than 80 points.

In Frankfurt, the German Bundesbank said today it was leaving its key interest rates unchanged, despite the turmoil that high German interest rates have caused in the European currency system.

The decision was made at the Central Bank Council meeting, a Bundesbank spokesman said. In response to European pressure, the Germans had lowered the key Lombard interest rate slightly to 9.50 percent on Monday and the discount to 8.25 percent. However, the move did not stem the flight from other European currencies to the German mark.

In London, government officials pointed fingers at Germany's central bank, accusing it of undermining confidence by persistently leaking indications that the pound was overvalued.

"Because of the Bundesbank view that had gone around the markets that devaluation was necessary, all of the pressure was against" the pound, said John Watts, the governing Conservative Party's chairman of the parliamentary treasury committee.

Britain has given no indication when it might return to the exchange system. Italian officials say they will return the lira on Tuesday.

For more than a week, currency traders have been abandoning other European currencies for the continent's strongest — the German mark.

The mark has become even more attractive to investors as fears increase that French voters might reject the Maastricht Treaty on European political and monetary union in a crucial referendum this Sunday.

Germany's central bank has kept interest rates high to fight inflationary pressures borne of the high cost of absorbing former East Germany after unification — and high interest rates attract investment.

The sense that cooperation among the powerful nations of western Europe is collapsing has spread economic anxiety elsewhere, and stirred fears that it could take even longer for the world economy, and the United States, to recover from widespread troubles.

The shifting value of the pound could be a mixed blessing, however, for businesses that move goods between the United States and Britain.

A cheaper pound could make it easier for U.S. companies to import goods from Britain and for American consumers to buy them, but also could make U.S. exports prohibitively expensive for many Britons.

Chaos among exchange rates erodes consumer confidence and makes it difficult if not impossible for businesses to plan ahead.

Clinton's draft record

Recruiter: 'He purposely deceived me'

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A retired colonel who said in 1978 that Bill Clinton had been a good attorney general and would have made a fine Army officer now says he's upset that Clinton might become president.

Col. Eugene Holmes of Fayetteville headed the University of Arkansas ROTC program in 1969, when Clinton, 23 at the time, sought to enroll in ROTC as it appeared he might otherwise be drafted. Holmes said in a statement issued Wednesday that he believed Clinton purposely deceived him "both in concealing his anti-military activities overseas and his counterfeit intentions for later military service."

"These actions cause me to question both his patriotism and his integrity," Holmes said.

When Clinton, as state attorney general, was making his first race for governor and was accused of being a draft dodger Holmes said he could not recall details of his encounter with Clinton nine years earlier. Clinton at the time was denying that he had received a draft deferment for entering ROTC, although he now acknowledges he did receive a deferment.

Holmes said in 1978 that he didn't remember the Clinton case specifically, except that he thought Clinton would have made a fine officer. Clinton's account at that time probably was true, Holmes said then. "I think he served Arkansas well as attorney general, and hope he will as governor," Holmes said during the 1978 campaign.

In Wednesday's statement, Holmes said he was prompted to prepare the document by the "imminent danger to our country of a draft dodger becoming the commander in chief of the armed forces."

"I believe that he purposely deceived me," the statement said.

Clinton received a draft notice in April 1969, when he was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford University in England. But he obtained an Aug. 7 draft deferment by agreeing in July to join the University of Arkansas ROTC unit while he attended the university's law school.

But he later backed out of the agreement and did not attend the school. The deferment was dropped by his draft board Oct. 30 and Clinton drew a high lottery number Dec. 1 and was never drafted.

Wednesday's statement from Holmes was faxed to The Associated Press by his daughter, Linda Burnett. It was dated Sept. 7 and labeled "Memorandum for Record."

Holmes said in the statement that he was told the office of Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., pressured Clinton's draft board to grant Clinton a draft deferment. Fulbright, then chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was an outspoken opponent of U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Clinton wrote a Dec. 3, 1969, letter to Holmes, thanking the officer for "saving me from the draft." In the same letter, Clinton says he eventually subjected himself to the draft "to maintain my political viability."

According to Holmes' statement, Clinton came to his home in 1969 and the pair talked for two hours in what Holmes called an "extensive ... interview."

"At no time ... did he inform me of his involvement, participation and actually organizing protests against the United States involvement in Southeast Asia," Holmes' statement said. "He was shrewd enough to realize that, had I been aware of his activities, he would not have been accepted into the ROTC program."

The next day, Holmes said, "I began to receive phone calls regarding Bill Clinton's draft status. I was informed by the draft board that it was of interest to Senator Fulbright's office that Bill Clinton, a Rhodes scholar, should be admitted to the ROTC program. I received several such calls. The general message was that Senator Fulbright's office was putting pressure on them and they needed my help. I then made the necessary arrangements to enroll Mr. Clinton into the ROTC program."

Holmes did not say whether Clinton told the officer he had already received a draft-induction notice.

The retired officer's statement said it would be his final words on the matter. A reporter who went to Holmes' home Wednesday afternoon was told that Holmes was out of town, and would not return for a month.

Bush pushing reworked economic plan

The ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON — President Bush set out today to win over Americans on the issue that polls show is troubling voters most: the economy.

At campaign stops in Georgia and Oklahoma, Bush was expected to push hard for his repackaged economic plan and to paint Democrat Bill Clinton's prescription as bitter medicine.

Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater billed the day's message as "a substantive analysis of the Clinton and Bush economic plans. It will highlight six or seven major areas of differences that impact on the economy and the country."

Fitzwater also said the president would discuss what he considered the economic consequences if Clinton's plan is followed.

"The country is going to change. The world economy is going to change and the real question will be who do you trust to make the best decisions," the spokesman said.

A New York Times/CBS News poll published Wednesday showed that 63 percent of all American adults feel most American families are worse off today than they were four years ago and that the economy dominates concerns. An ABC poll released Wednesday night said 58 percent of Americans believed the economy was getting worse.

Clinton discussed his economic plan Wednesday in riot-ravaged South Central Los Angeles, where he described a $1.5 billion program he said would nurture small business and help rebuild poor communities.

He released what he described as his community development plan, a more detailed version of part of the economic program he unveiled in June.

Included in his plan were: — Federal grants to create 100 community banks to provide loans and technical assistance to small entrepreneurs.

— Expansion of tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts so money could be withdrawn for business development, with federal matching funds aimed at helping in poor areas.

— A provision allowing people to hold up to $10,000 in assets before losing certain welfare benefits.

— Stronger federal efforts to get commercial banks to lend money in poor areas and up to 125 federal tax-reduced "enterprise zones" to attract business to areas with high unemployment, a concept dating to the Reagan administration.

But while he sometimes sounded like a Republican, Clinton said his emphasis was totally different, that his plan assumed that people other than the wealthy could succeed in business and create jobs if given a chance.

"Don't you know we would diminish the racial tensions of this community; don't you know we would diminish the tensions between rich and poor in this community if everybody thought that if they worked hard and played by the rules they could get ahead," he said.

The Clintons later attended a glitzy Beverly Hills fund-raiser, featuring a rare singing performance by Barbra Streisand.

Organizers said the event raised $1.1 million.

For the Bush visit, the first by a president since Richard Nixon did it in 1974, the city of Enid, Okla., tore down an eyesore building that had been set for demolition anyway. With financial help from the Bush-Quayle campaign, the stage in the Enid Convention Center was rebuilt so more people can see the president.

George Washington presides over the signing of the Constitution.

Sept. 17 is a very special day. The Constitution was signed on this day in 1787.

For more than 200 years, the Constitution has protected our freedoms.

Our Constitution set up a government that offers many opportunities.

More people from other lands have settled here than anywhere else on Earth.

Our country has welcomed millions of immigrants. An immigrant is a person who has come here from another country.

Sept. 17 is the birthday of our Constitution.

It also has become a day to honor our new citizens. It is called Citizenship Day.

Look in your local paper and cut out pictures that might show new arrivals what our country is like.

Today's immigrants to our country come from about 160 countries. You might have some immigrants in your classroom. The kids here have recently arrived from these countries.

Immigration today

Every 10 years, the U.S. government counts the people living here. This is called a "census."

According to the 1990 census:

- There are about 250 million people in the United States. Of that number, about 20 million were born in a different country.
- More immigrants live in this country than ever before in our history.
- About one in every 13 people was born outside the United States.

The latest figures (1991) show that these were the leading countries where immigrants to the United States came from:

Mexico	946,167
Haiti	47,527
Soviet Union	56,980
Philippines	63,596
Vietnam	55,307

A visa is a permit to come to the United States. Congress sets limits on how many people from each country may immigrate here.

Some immigrants are illegal. This means they did not get permission before they came to the U.S. Legal immigrants enter the United States at "ports of entry." These are places where immigration officers check to see if new arrivals have the right passports and papers.

Many immigrants passed through immigration check points at such places as Ellis Island in New York harbor.

How immigrants get here

In the past, people arrived by ship. They did not know if they would be permitted to stay in this country until they passed inspection here.

Today, most immigrants arrive by plane. They get a visa, or permit, from the U.S. Embassy in their native country. They must have it before they arrive.

Fact-a-roonie

When a baby is born in the United States, it automatically becomes a U.S. citizen.

Stanton Homecoming

Ricky Lucas: A most wanted tailback

By STEVE BELVIN
Sports Editor

STANTON — If this were the days back in the wild, wild west, Ricky Lucas would probably be one of those faces you would see on want of the "Wanted Posters."

The poster would probably read something like this: "Wanted: Ricky Lucas, Stanton High School tailback, for breaking the backs of opposing defenses. Careful, considered strong and quick with big play potential."

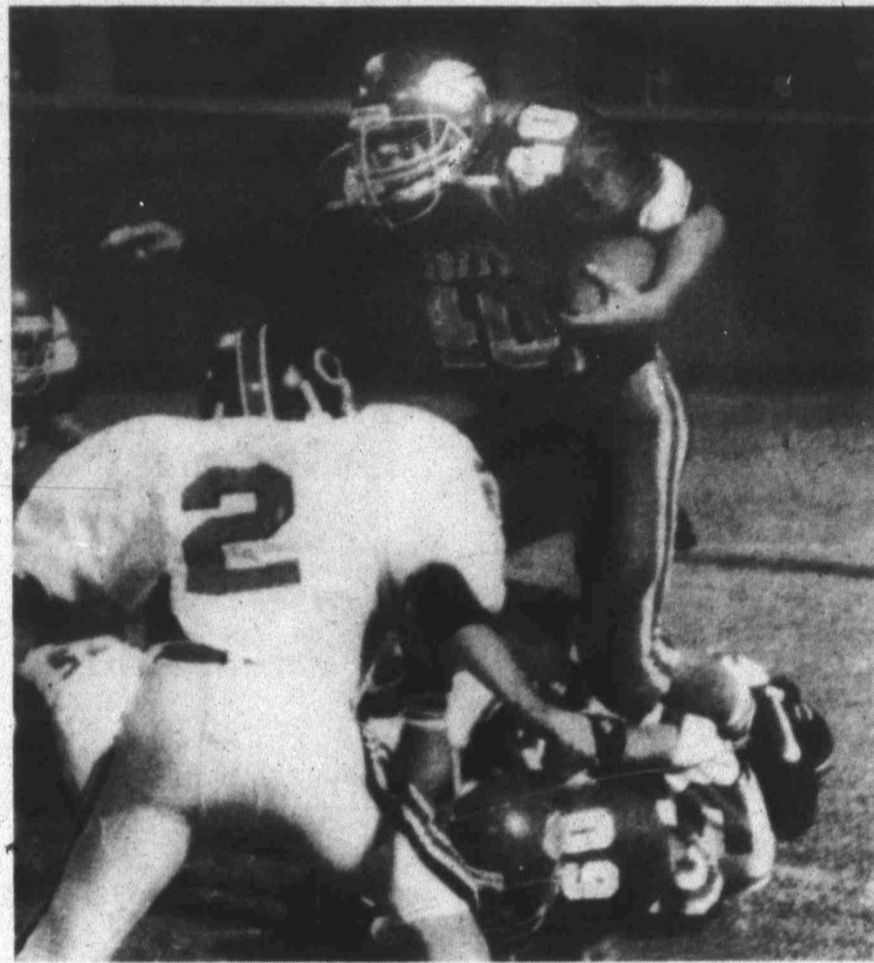

Well this isn't the wild, wild west anymore, but that's probably what opposing scouting reports sound like when it comes to the Stanton junior tailback.

Lucas, a 6-foot-2, 187-pounder, stepped into the starting tailback position this season for the Buffalos. No doubt he'll be one of the main concerns for the Post Antelopes defense when they Buffalo play Post for Stanton's homecoming at 8 p.m. Friday. The 1-1 Buffalos will be trying to rebound from a 14-13 loss to Colorado City Friday, while Post, 0-2, lost to Slaton 35-12 Friday.

Lucas made his first varsity start a memorable one two weeks ago against O'Donnell, carrying the ball 26 times for 214 yards. Last week against Colorado City he carried 31 times for 98 yards.

He says the best part about playing tailback this year is he's gets to carry the ball more. Last year, backing up senior Jim Bob Kelly, he got to carry the ball 10-12 times per game. "I'm surprised, I really didn't expect to get it that many times a game," he said. "I love to carry it that much, but I do get tired," adding that he also starts at defensive end. The only times he gets any rest is on the special teams, although he is on the extra point team.

Stanton coach Bill Grissom said Lucas is the prototype tailback. "He's big, strong, has quickness and size," said Grissom. "He can be as good as he wants to be. He's a hard runner who's hard to bring down. He's also set lots of goals for himself."

One of the main goals Lucas has is to have a 1,000 yard season. At the current rate he's going, he'll reach that by the seventh game this season. He understands, especially after the big first game against O'Donnell, the yards will be harder to come by.

"It's like the Colorado City coach (Mark Howeth) said, teams will start keying on me quite a bit. But some of the reasons I've got those yards is because of my offensive line and fullbacks Brad Barghill and Sherman Bryant."

Lucas says the Buffs have made a complete turnaround from last year's 1-9 season and looking forward to the homecoming contest against Post. "Everybody is confident. It kind of broke us down to lose to Colorado City, a game we should've won. But on Monday we had the best practice we've ever had, it made us more intense about getting out there on the football field."

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The STANTON ISD will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1991 by .0505 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on Sept. 24, 1992, 4 p.m. at Stanton Administration Bldg.

FOR the proposal: Terry Shanks, Todd Smith, Randy Moore, Johnny Louder, Bobby Holland

AGAINST the proposal:

PRESENT and not voting:

ABSENT: Gayle Wheeler

(Names of all members of the governing body, showing how each voted on the proposal; if absent, indicate absences.)

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the Effective tax rate that the unit published on August 13, 1992. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year	This Year
Average home value	$25,681	$26,077
General exemptions available (amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$10,136	$10,215
Average taxable value	$15,545	$15,862
Tax rate	.4945/$100	.5450/$100
Tax	$ 76.87	$ 86.45

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $9.58 or .1108 percent compared with last year's taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would increase by $.0505 per $100 of taxable value or .0926 percent compared to last year's tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

Cap Rock members re-elect incumbent board members

By GARY SHANKS
Staff Writer

Cap Rock Electric Cooperative Inc. members re-elected all incumbent board members at the annual meeting in Midland.

Nearly 1,800 people attended the Cap Rock annual meeting at the Chapral Center in Midland, Tuesday, said Teresa Kelly, Cap Rock communications advisor.

Approximately 51 percent of co-op members voted in the election, Kelly said. Many of them, however, authorized the Cap Rock proxy committee to cast their vote for them. All members were sent a proxy ballot, which could be used to authorize the proxy committee to vote in the person's stead, or authorize another person to cast their vote at the meeting.

Although a large number (1,800) showed up for the meeting, more than 4,000 votes were cast overall. In the only contested director's post, incumbent Newell Tate, of Tarzan, won against challenger Sammy Yates, also of Tarzan. Directors C. Ray Russell of Big Spring, Herbert F. "Skeet" Dunn of Colorado City and Teddy Stewart of Stanton were re-elected without opposition.

"This is a mandate for Cap Rock to continue the progressive course it has set," said Rusty Jones, chairman of the Cap Rock board of directors. "Members had the opportunity to signal unhappiness with the cooperative by voting against the incumbent, but they chose, instead, to return him to office 10-to-one," he said.

"We think it's significant that in a year of controversy for our company, our members have expressed more loyalty and support than ever before," said David Pruitt, chief executive officer and general manager. "We're proud to be a part of such a terrific cooperative family," he added.

School board

Among the items discussed at the Stanton Independent School District regular meeting was the date for a tax rate hearing.

The hearing will take place Sept. 24, at 4 p.m. The rate being considered is $.5450 per hundred dollars evaluation. A second hearing to set the rate will take place Oct. 5 at 6 p.m.

Other issues discussed were a vacancy on the board, facility improvement and the board member redistricting plan.

Board members agreed the vacant seat left by Bob Adkins should not be filled until the next school board election in May of 1993.

Facility conditions were discussed by the board. The board members asked Johnny McGregor, superintendent, to contact the oil companies in regards to trucks detouring across the parking lot pavement to deter its deterioration. McGregor presented to the board a document from the Department

Ring not enough promise; she wants to wed

DEAR ABBY: I am 32, and so is my boyfriend. We have been going together for two years and living together for the last eight months. We have both been married. We eloped with our high school sweethearts. He had to get married because he got a girl pregnant. I got married to get out of the house. I had a friendly divorce. His was a mess. He was deeply hurt and says he never wants to get married again, and he doesn't want any children. I would like to have at least one.

Abby, I would like to have a ring and told him so. He says that he will give me a ring, but it will not be an engagement ring - it will be more like a "promise" ring. Would this be appropriate since we have both been married before?

Dear Abby

I feel a little cheated. Should I? Please rush your response to me because my birthday is coming up soon and I think he's giving me a ring. If he does, on which finger should I wear it? - LIVING AS TWO, BUT FEELING LIKE ONE

DEAR LIVING: If he gives you a ring, it doesn't matter on which finger you wear it, since he has made it clear that he doesn't want to get married again. You cannot consider this an "engagement" ring, but if he calls it a "promise" ring - what is he promising?

If you want marriage and children, you should look elsewhere, because he has already told you that he wants neither. Give him an "A" for honesty, but keep your options open.

DEAR ABBY: At age 43, I had almost given up on finding love. But now I find myself involved with a very loving man of 33. This will be the first marriage for both of us.

I've always wanted children, but now I wonder if I am too old. I would be interested in the opinions of your readers who have had their first child at age 46 or 47.

I worry that perhaps I would not be energetic enough, and wonder if it would be fair to a child to have a menopausal mom who looks more like a grandmother than a mother at PTA meetings.

Knowing what they know now, would any of your readers who have been down this road do it again? - FOUND LOVE LATE

DEAR LOVE FOUND LATE: Age is only a number. The condition of one's health is the important factor here. I wouldn't be too concerned about how my children "might" feel having a mom who looks more like a grandmother at PTA meetings. Many women have chosen to delay motherhood - so you could find yourself in the company of contemporaries.

FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 18, 1992 HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Bend over backward to assist a partner. Together you will accomplish more than you ever dreamed possible! In December, a new product requires a different marketing approach. Be open to suggestions from younger people. Higher-ups will assess your leadership abilities in early 1993. Openhanded and generous, you have many friends.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: singer Frankie Avalon, actor Robert Blake, country singer Charley Pride, baseball star Ryne Sandberg.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be a real friend to a pal who needs encouragement. Your cheery attitude can help. A financial windfall could be in the works. Resist the temptation to blow it all at once!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Manage your own finances. Someone may try to play fast and loose with your funds. Beware of those who make big promises. Lunching or dining at home provides an opportunity for a candid talk.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The emphasis now is on getting out of a rut and showing any freeloaders to the door. Make certain your kindness is not mistaken for weakness. Spend a weekend out of town.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): A financial plan merits closer scrutiny. Do not postpone a dental or medical checkup. Resist the urge to speak sharply to your mate or business partner.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22): Check the fine print in an agreement or legal document. A mistake could turn out to be costly as well as embarrassing. Find a new outlet for your energy, creativity and enthusiasm.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A pet project is headed in the right direction. Publicize your efforts. You could make a big splash if you give it your best shot. Seek a heart-to-heart talk with mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Seize an unique opportunity to expand your horizons. Success comes when you are more flexible. Do not limit yourself to any one way of doing things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Activities geared to please your loved ones boost your spirits today. Yet, a friend or social event may hamper your efforts to spend time alone with someone special. Protect your privacy.

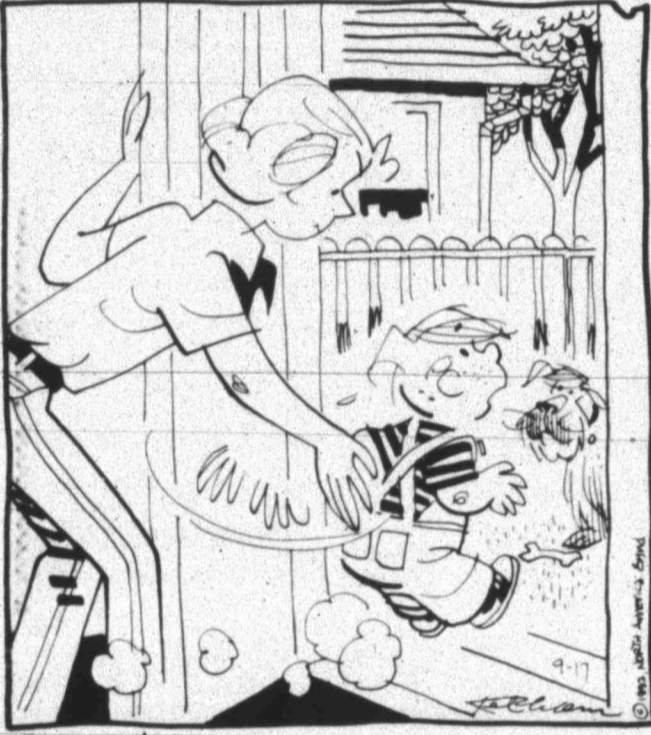

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may have to play the role of observer now; this should suit you just fine. You gain time to figure out your next move. Get in touch with a relative later today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you must change your plans to accommodate others, do so without grumbling. You might find that things work out even better in the long run. Clear communication helps you avoid confrontations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your plans tend to change from moment to moment today. A heavy workload could have you running in circles. Stay on your toes! Dress to impress if meeting with VIPs.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Staying home could isolate you from today's big events. A business venture has real potential where fame is concerned. Be sure to publicize your efforts.
